Phone strike effects city

Two local workers are off their jobs for the fifth day in a row as they continue to participate in a nationwide strike by the Communications Workers of America against Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and other former subsidiaries of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

The strike which was called at midnight last Saturday has effected communication workers all over the nation. Jesse Munoz and Keith Smith, both of Colorado City are two of the 40,000 Bell workers in Texas alone. There are 1,000 strikers in the Midland-Odessa area.

The strike involves issues of wage increases, cost of living adjustments and job security, according to wire reports.

Local union president Larry Russell said that all "inside and outside jobs" have been affected, including operators, cable splicers, cable repairmen, installers and equipment repairmen.

He said that 10 supervisors are attempting to fill in for the workers. Local supervisor George Cuellar could not be reached for comment at the time of deadline.

Local Southwestern Bell Staff Specialist V. Jay Allen of Midland was reached and had these comments on the strike situation: "I really don't have any idea how long the strike will go on. The last strike we had was in 1974, and the longest strike we've ever had was 17 days, if that indicates anything," said Allen. "On my personal feelings toward the strike I respect the Union for what they are doing. They feel they are doing what they have to do to make their job situation better."

Allen stated that right now the managers and supervisors are manning the jobs left by the

(Q) What is being done to fix the play area in Ruddick Park?

(A) Rick Crowley, city manager, stated that the city has a $1,000 budget for Ruddick Park for the current fiscal year. There has been some discussion at the Park Board and council level concerning the park and they feel that the money should be used to install a watering system. Secondly, the Park Board is in the process of planning an organized work day to repair some of the park's equipment. The date for the work day has not been set as of yet but it will be considered at the next park board meeting to be held Thursday, August 25th.

Driver's license needed for bad check prosecution

Local merchants should get a valid driver's license number or date of birth on checks if the person giving the check is not a well known local member of the community, according to JP Charles Watlington.

Watlington has asked the County Attorney's office to discontinue the acceptance of bad checks for collection or prosecution after August 15th if the check does not have some means of identifying the giver of the check.

Watlington points out that JPs will have jurisdiction on checks up to $1,000 and this, he says, will probably increase his workload as well as that of Country Attorney Pat Barber.

He says that a rubber stamp to be used on the back of the check, similar to those used in other towns, would be good. The stamp has a place for the driver's license number, the date of birth and other information which will help locate the giver of the check if need be.

County Attorney Pat Barber has indicated that he will comply with Watlington's request "because of the extreme difficulty in obtaining the arrest of a bad check writer without these additional identifiers."

City National Bank appoints member to fill vacancy

Bobby Lemons 44, was appointed Executive Vice President of the City National Bank, Tuesday, by the bank board of directors. Lemons is a graduate of Fluvanna High School and attended college at Texas Tech. He has a Master's Degree from Texas A&M.

He is a former county agent and has been with the bank for ten years. His wife Jan operates the Montgomery Ward store across the street from the bank. He has three children.

Lemons duties include overseeing the day to day operations of the bank.

"There won't be any major change in our operations. We will and have already made some minor changes such as some employees duties have been shifted around," Lemons said. "But we will continue to serve the people of Mitchell County as we have in the past," Lemons concluded.

George Womack, vice president and cashier, will act as presiding officer of the Board of Directors.

Also, Mrs. Charles C. Thompson was appointed to the board of directors. She has been an advisory director.

Mrs. Thompson was born in Albany, Texas to the late Thomas Clifton and Agnes Jordan Pit-

Animal fines increased

The fine for having dogs run loose in the city limits will be raised in the near future, according to Municipal Judge Ben Costin.

The present fine for letting the animals run loose is $21, and the fine will be raised to $25 or $30, said Costin. The reason for the increase in rates is that the workload has been so large for the time put in keeping the city free of loose dogs. "There is not enough money to pay for time put in by employees," said Costin.

City Animal Warden George Taylor has been on the job for five months and usually puts in 40 hours per week, plus he is on call after hours. Costin says that there has been a noticeable decline in the amount of dogs on the street since Taylor has taken over the job.

City ordinance 4-73 states that any dog running at large, unchained or not fenced in can be impounded. It is also required that all dogs must have a vaccination certificate and license tag.

Colorado City Chief of Police Ed Wheat feels that the ordinance is for the betterment of the community. "This law makes the community a lot safer and cleaner. We have been doing everything in our power to enforce it," stated Wheat.

In July of this year, the department answered 95 calls on dogs. There were two cases of a dog biting a person in July, and so far there have been two cases in August. There were also two cases of cats biting people in July.

Wheat went on to add that he was very pleased with the way people have responded to complying with the ordinance. "So far you see a lot less dogs on the street," he concluded.

In the last meeting of the City Council, a committee was appointed to study the number of cats in the city and decide if an ordinance should be made to regulate cats.

Those appointed to the committee are City Veterinarian Dr. Nancy Bozeman, City Manager Rick Crowley and Wheat. Right now there is no ordinance in the city pertaining to cats, according to Crowley. Crowley also stated that the committee would see if there should be regulations on how many dogs or cats a person can own.

The City Manager also said the committee will review the 1955 ordinance stating that livestock and poultry can be kept in the city limits

CISD board to discuss budget

The Colorado City School Board will hold a called session Monday night and will discuss two items, according to Superintendent of Schools Charles Uselton.

"We'll talk about the budget," Uselton said, "and will probably make a decision about a depository for school funds for two years."

The budget for the new school year will be slightly under last year's budget, Uselton says. Everything costs more locally and state aid is down, "but we're trying to keep from raising taxes."

In fact, the tax rate will be 75 cents per $100 of valuation, Uselton says, the same as last year.

Last year's budget was: $5,568,182.

This year's budget is: $5,354,346.

The school board will also continue its discussion about a bank depository for school money for a two year period, 1983-84 and 1984-85.

Uselton said that bids had been submitted by the City National Bank and the First National Bank.

The bids were discussed at length at the last meeting, Uselton said, "but we decided we needed more time to think about it, so we postponed a decision until this week. They are so much alike that it's hard to choose."

Fire department to get truck Aug. 18

On August 18, the Colorado City Volunteer Fire Department will be sporting a brand new fire truck, according to City Manager Rick Crowley.

The truck will come from the Boardman Company in Oklahoma City. The 1983 model has a Boardman pumper body and a Ford cab. The truck purchased for $69,188 has a 1,000 gallon per minute pumper. The department already has two 750 gallons per minute pumpers.

The new fire truck will replace the 1954 Seagraves fire truck which will be loaned to the Texas Fire Museum in Grand Prairie.

The city had to purchase the new truck because it was in need of repair and the truck would no longer be regognized by the State Insurance Board for the purpose of collecting key insurance rates, said Crowley. "We had to purchase the truck or go up on home owners insurance policies in the city," explained Crowley.

Crowley stated in order to help pay for the truck a $1 charge has been in effect on water rates over the past six months. This extra charge should go on for a maximum of 18 months.

The Seagraves will be used by the Texas Fire Museum as a riding truck used for tours. The museum has agreed to pay for repairs made on the truck and can keep the vehicle until Colorado City wants it back.

The truck will continue to have the Colorado City Volunteer Fire Department emblem on it as Colorado City makes a big contribution to the Texas Fire Museum.

100th birthday celebrated

Ila Loveless

Ila Loveless, a resident of Mitchell County since 1905, will be celebrating her 100th birthday on Thursday, August 18th.

Mrs. Loveless was born in 1883 in Erath County. Her parents, Jesse and Dora Northcutt moved to the Spade Community in 1905 and lived there until their deaths.

Growing up in the late 1800's was exciting for Ila. She remembers sitting behind her Grandfather Northcutt's chair and listening to his tales of the Civil War in which he served as a captain. Her grandfather, who was a Baptist preacher, lived with them and she recalls him as being very strict. "A crossword was never uttered." Helping the sick was the most important thing to her and she spent most of her time doing just that. She was a shy, studious young girl and she loved reading books.

She married Jim Loveless in 1900 at the age fo 17 and they moved to Mitchell County in 1905. They had four children, three boys and a girl and raising them in the depression was not an easy task for the young couple. "Times were hard, especially for farmers when there was no rain."

Throughout World War I, she nursed people during the flu epidemic and she had signed up to join the armed services when the car came to an end.

Mrs. Loveless has seen many changes during the past century. The most impressive to her is airplanes because she loves to fly. Electricity and running water also had a lot of impact on her in her earlier years for the reason that it was such a remarkable change and it made life so much easier.

She has seen many presidents come and go in her 100 years and most definitely Franklin D. Roosevelt was her favorite.

After Mr. Loveless died in 1966, she moved to California where she lived for seven years. In 1973, she moved back to Colorado City and now lives with her daughter.

Her family is planning a small get-together for her to help celebrate this eventful occasion.

Strike

striking workers, and they are concentrating on telephone repair and operator service such as long distance calls, credit card calls, international calls, etc. "Right now we are not as efficient in installation of phones because of our limited manpower. We are taking orders, but we are not installing the phones at this time," he concluded.

Munoz, who has been with Bell for 13 years says he feels in order to end the strike "both parties need to sit down at the bargaining table and try to work things out." Munoz says that one of the main complaints of the union is that Bell gives employees 3.5 percent pay increases over a three year period. But now Bell wants to cut workers insurance coverage by one-third. "In a sense, they are giving to you in one hand, and taking away in the other hand," he said. Munoz said the workers would lose more money from the insurance cut that a 1.2 percent pay increase each year.

Keith Smith, a 17 year employee of Bell says he does not see a end to the strike in the near future. "I think both sides will have to give a little in order to get things settled," said Smith. "They want to stop our cost of living raise and cut our job benefits, which causes a lot of job pressure," said Smith.

Marian's Memos

By Marian Morris

Several million brown bags will be going to school in September. In those brown bags will be the lunch that was carefully packed for each child. Lurking in some of those bags, however, may be the "food spoilers"–those unseen and unwanted bacteria that can turn a good lunch into a nightmare.

Food poisoning is an ever-present possibility that need not occur. Chemicals, heavy metals, parasites, fungi, viruses and bacteria can cause food-borne illness. Bacteria-related food poisoning is the most common, but fewer than 20 of the many thousands of different bacteria do cause food poisoning. More than 90 percent of the confirmed cases of food poisoning each year are caused by staphylococcus aureus, salmonella, clostridium perfringens, vibrio parahaemolyticus and bacillus cereus. These bacteria are commonly found on many raw foods. Normally a large number of food-poisoning bacteria must be present to cause illness. Therefore, illness can be prevented by (1) controlling the initial number of bacteria present, (2) preventing the small number from growing and (3) destroying the bacteria by proper cooking.

The "flu" and food borne illness are often mistaken for each other because the symptoms are similar. If your child comes home with severe headache, diarrhea, vomiting, abdominal cramps and fever after eating, ask your doctor about the possibility of food poisoning.

What can you do to prevent food poisoning? First cook food thoroughly. If it's meant to be hot, keep it hot. If it's meant to be cold, keep it cold. Use vacuum bottles to keep food hot or cold. Or, put a cold device into the lunch bag. Buy a commercial gel, freeze a small plastic tub of water, or fill plastic bags with ice cubes.

You can freeze certain types of sandwiches, though you may experience some loss in quality. Frozen sandwiches serve double duty: they thaw in time for lunch and help keep the rest of the lunch cool until then. Keep utensils and countertops used to prepare lunches clean, and wash your hands thoroughly before preparing the meal.

Using a lunchbox instead of a paper bag may guard against the physical abuse an active child generates. Lunchboxes, especially insulated ones, hold the cold much better than paper bags.

Tell your children to keep their lunch in a cool, shady place. Explain the simple steps to food safety: keep it hot, keep it cold, keep it clean.

Meskimin learned to cook from trial and error

Gladys Meskimin of Colorado City learned to cook when she was eight years old on an old wood stove. She said her mother taught her some basic cooking rules but she learned basically from trial and error.

"I cook everything from scratch and I just use my own judgement to determine the cooking time because when I started cooking, we didn't have fancy ovens or timers."

Cooking is very enjoyable for Mrs. Meskimin but it is only one of her many talents. She makes dolls, miniature lamps, collects all kinds of dolls and cups and saucers.

"I love cooking for crowds. Everytime I cook, I make extra helpings to give to other people. I used to make fried pies and take them to the drugstore and beauty shops.

"My favorite things to cook are sweets and I do most in the winter when it's cooler in the kitchen."

Mrs. Meskimin has two children, Patricia Swanson and Freeman Meskimin, five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Today she is sharing three of her favorite recipes with RECORD readers.

Southwestern Bell to form new telecommunications company

Plans have been announced by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company to form a new telecommunications holding company called Southwestern Bell Corporation, and it will be effective in Mitchell County starting January 1, 1984.

Southwestern Bell Corporation will be the parent organization of four subsidiaries: Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, a directory subsidiary, a subsidiary that will market complex telecommunications systems for businesses, and a cellular mobile telephone subsidiary.

The formation of the holding company and subsidiaries is contingent on U.S. District Court Judge Harold H. Greene's final approval of Bell System's plan of reorganization, according to Zane E. Barnes, who will become chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Southwestern Bell Corporation.

"The name Southwestern Bell Corporation" draws upon a hundred-year tradition of telecommunications excellence, yet puts virtually no limits on where we can go from here," Barnes said.

Barnes said the role of Southwestern Bell Corporation will be to provide financial and strategic planning for subsidiary organizations.

"The holding company will oversee corporate financing, including debt issues, investor relations and stock activities," Barnes said.

The corporation will be headquartered in St. Louis, MO. Its four subsidiaries will employ nearly 80,000 people. A breakdown on the four subsidiaries is as follows:

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company now provides regulated telecommunications service to more than eight million customers in Arkansas, Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Texas.

A directory subsidiary which will retain the responsibility of marketing the Yellow Pages. Barnes said the 1982 directory grew 24 percent to more than $500 million, or 17 percent of the Bell System total. Yellow Pages revenues have tripled since 1976.

A subsidiary which will market telecommunications equipment. Barnes said that the entity will market and distribute a wide range of complex systems in business offices (charactered by business customers with 12 or more telephone sets).

A mobile telephone subsidiary which will market cellular mobile service. Currently the Advanced Mobile Phone Service is owned by AT&T. The part of AT&T that operates in Bell Telephone Company territory will be transferred to Southwestern Bell Corporation.

Southwestern Bell Public Relations Staff Specialist V. Jay Allen in Midland said that the organization of Southwestern Bell Corporation has nothing to do with the present strike by AT&T workers. Allen also added that there might be a slight increase in telephone rates, but nothing drastic. "We might have to increase long distance rates in order to keep the local rates down," explained Allen.

TEC passes resolution at 43rd annual meeting

A resolution supporting singly certificated service areas for electric utilities was passed by the 43rd annual meeting of the Association of Texas Electric Cooperatives, held August 1-3, attended by 549 rural electric leaders.

In addition, keynote speakers at the Fort Worth meeting focused on such subjects as the cost of electric power, the efficient operation of systems, and the direct impact of world politics on issues hitting close to home.

The resolution, passed in the business session on the final day, says electric cooperatives in Texas "reaffirm their oppostion to unnecessary duplication of electric distribution facilities. (Such duplication can occur when more than one utility are assigned to serve in the same area by the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC).) The resolution also states that it has been "the clear intent of the Legislature to eliminate costly and wasteful duplication of electric utility facilities."

State Senator Hugh Parmer of Fort Worth told delegates during his keynote address that he supports utility regulation reform which aims at a "fair market result" for the pricing of electricity. He said reform legislation regarding the Public Utility Commission passed during the 1983 session of the Legislature "will enhance public confidence" that the price of electricity is fair.

In addition, Senator Parmer predicted a special session of the Legislature in the near future to address the issues of Aid to Families with Dependent Children and salaries paid to teachers.

Bill Burpo of Lewisville, representing the Cooperative Finance Corporation based in Washington, D.C., told the rural electric leaders that the financial stability of an electric cooperative must be protected by keeping rates in line with projected expenses. Speaking on the subject, "Raising Rates with a Reason," Burpo emphasized that long-term benefits for consumers and electric co-op members ensue from having a financially strong system with realistic rates that are in line with specific economic considerations.

A specialist in the field of human resource development, Dr. Keith Owen of Austin, told delegates that the appropriate utilization of employees results in a more efficient co-op and better service to its members.

Speaking at the closing session on Wednesday, headline keynoter Robert Mayer Evans of Atlanta detailed emerging world conflicts as he assessed the impact of changing current events on Americans, economics, and energy. Evans, a former CBS foreign correspondent, described how circumstances in Poland, Lebanon, the Arab nations, and Central America can potentially impact our way of life, including our reliance on foreign energy sources. He said the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) faces diminishing power and influence as a result of the world oil situation. The current conflicts in Central America were cited by Evans as a potentially critical threat in our hemisphere, especially if it spreads to an involvement of closer nations, such as Mexico.

During the final day's business session, newly elected to the Board of the statewide association were Murphy Bruns of Kimble Electric Cooperative, Junction; Bill Mcginnis of Denton County Electric Cooperative, Denton; and Max Graham of Navarro County Electric Cooperative, Corsicana.

New officers of the Board are W. D. Heldt of Bowie-Cass Electric Cooperative, Douglassville, president; and Delbert Smith of Lamb County electric Cooperative, Littlefield, vice-president. Milton D. Hines of Guadalupe Valley Electric Cooperative, Gonzales, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Various organizations involved with rural electric co-ops across the state also held business sessions and programs. Including the Texas Rural Electric Women's Association (TREWA) and the Texas Member Services Association (TMSA).

The non-profit consumer-owned electric cooperatives in Texas serve almost 900,000 consumer-meters over some 230,000 miles of line.

IRR convention held in San Angelo

Cattlemen must become businessmen who specialize in cattle, rather than ranchers who function as businessmen only on occasion, the keynote speaker for the third annual International Ranchers Roundup (IRR) told some 500 ranchers in San Angelo August 1.

William J. "Dub" Waldrip of Lubbock, president of the National Cattlemen's Association and general manager of the Spade Ranches of Texas and New Mexico, said cost efficiency can be accomplished by producing animals with better conversion rates that more nearly satisfy market demands.

Speaking on "Innovative Ranch Management," Waldrip was the first of some 100 speakers from 12 states and South Africa to address the gathering of ranchers.

Marketing experts agree that the beef business is a "mature" industry, or one that can't expect a steady increase in demand and per capita consumption such as was experienced in the 1960s, Waldrip said.

Several indicators give the cattle industry reason for optimism in this regard, he added. Competing meats have already achieved most of their potential improvement in efficiency. Th vement in efficiency. The price spread has leveled off and should begin to narrow. Also, pork and poultry enterprises cannot run their programs with "waste materials," for cattle can convert grasses from poorer quality lands into a high quality protein product.

"Beef also remains the most strongly preferred meat, by far, and the basic demand is good. Our job is to take better advantage of this product preference and market it more competitively and profitably. Good business planning, management and marketing will become essential if ranchers are to remain in business," Waldrip said.

Ranchers must also become more efficient in order to cope with periodic droughts, such as the worsening drought now underway in West Texas, he said.

Dr. Arthur G. Hansen, chancellor of the Texas A&M University System, welcomed ranchers to the educational activity which is presenting research updates in regard to beef cattle, sheep and goat production; family ranch business management, grazing management, wildlife, marketing and ranch computer use.

Everyone concerned with the ranching business must strive to understand whole ranch management, thus keeping each aspect in perspective. This gathering is the first attempt at milti-national conferencing to be conducted away from the Texas A&M University campus, he said.

Hansen pointed to recent successes of the TAMU System, noting that the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station has developed a vaccine to control Blue Tongue in sheep. He said the Station is moving ahead with brush and weed control research and improved range management techniques, is striving to overcome the problem of toxic plants in many areas, and is conducting research on brucellosis. The Texas Agricultural Extension Service is rapidly transferring this new technology to producers through sessions such as the International Ranchers Roundup.

Legislation affecting ranching was discussed by Cong. Tom Loeffler of the U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C.

As with any business, the rancher must realize a profit to continue operating, he noted, and it remains essential that the federal government not further injure ranchers through confiscatory and counterproductive laws and policies.

Loeffler said that efforts continue toward the development of an improved vaccine and testing procedure for brucellosis, and are supported by the beef and dairy industry, scientific community and administration.

Economic recovery is now underway, Loeffler said, adding that "Congress remains our worst economic indicator." Work is moving ahead on the water crisis, which is acute; on predator control, toward expanding beef exports, and to correct the problem of wool being imported and dumped on our markets, particularly by Argentina.

Concurrent Ranchers Roundup educational sessions will continue through today at San Angelo's Convention Center, and ranch tours will highlight the Friday program.

Construction underway for Hutchinson cafeteria

When school starts, students at Hutchinson Elementary will still be able to eat at the present cafeteria for the time being, according to Colorado City Public Schools Superintendent Charlie Uselton.

Right now construction is underway for enlargement of the kitchen and dining area at the school which is for third, fourth and fifth graders. The construction is being done by Johnston Construction Company of Big Spring.

The crew started the $250,000 job during the middle part of May and had plans on finishing up sometime in August. But recent snags in the company receiving their materials have delayed the construction. "The contractors have had problems getting the materials they need. Some of it has come late, some materials were the wrong size and wrong kind and had to be sent back," explained Uselton concerning the slow-down on work.

Uselton stated that right now the present construction will not affect the dining procedures at the school. "We will continue to use the same kitchen and dining area just like we did last year." The Colorado City School Superintendent said that construction would be completed on the new areas before they moved into the old area.

At this time the arrangements will have to be made on different eating arrangements. Earlier Uselton said that possibly cafeteria workers would prepare sack lunches or have the students transported to another cafeteria, but all of this would have to be discussed with the school board, said Uselton.

Upon completion, the cafeteria will have 1,000 square feet more space. The old cafeteria has 25,000 square feet. With this enlargement, the eating facility can hold a considerable amount more than its present capacity of 120 students.

The kitchen area will be enlarged to allow workers more space and to add a new walk-in freezer and refrigerator.

Ballinger, Coahoma to be tough foes in district 6AAA

The district 6AAA race is nearly two months away, and right now all district teams are just getting their season underway going through two-a-day workouts now.

But we will take a brief look at two of the Wolves district opponents to see just what the Pack are stacked up against.

The first team is the Ballinger Bearcats coached by Randy Allen. Last year, the Bearcats won the district crown with a 4-1 record while posting a 9-2 season record. The 'Cats defeated Fabens 17-15 in bi-district play and lost to Breckenridge 21-0 the next week.

But as one sports writer put it, "How is Ballinger going to come up with linemen to block for possibly the best backfield in the district?"

Top candidates for the Bearcat offensive line are guards Ken Michalew, 5-11 160 and David Uekert 5-7, 150 and at center Martin Sauceda 5-9 160. Coach Allen has a few more prospects, but none of the players weigh over 175.

But what the Bearcats are lacking in the offensive line, they have at the skill positions. Ballinger returns all-district quarterback Aaron Keesee, a two year starter, all district wingback Matt Allen, another all district selection, fullback Ken Fisher and halfback Scott Spaw, who gave the Wolves fits last season. Adding depth to the skill positions are receiver Stephen Medrano, 5-5, 130, Kirk Francis off the junior varsity and Brent Brevard 5-7, 140. Brevard started in the secondary last year.

Keesee makes the Bearcats offense go. Last season he completed 106 passes on 239 attempts for 1,451 yards, but he had 16 passes picked off. Allen rushed 75 times for 406 years, a 5.4 average. The 5-10, 170 pound game breaker also caught 34 passes for over 400 yards for a 13 yards per catch average. Spaw and Fisher also combined for nearly 1,000 yards on the ground.

Defensively the Bearcats will depend on leading tackler linebacker Paul Sauceda, noseguard Fisher and defensive end Michalew.

In the secondary, Allen and Keesee combined for 10 interceptions. This year the secondary is loaded with talent with Allen at cornerback, Keesee at free safety and Brevard at strong safety. This may be the strong points of Ballinger's 5-2 defense. Coach Allen will be looking for two tackles to anchor his defense.

But with their talented skill people and experience, the Bearcats could be one of the top teams in the district.

The next team we will take a look at is Coach Larry Hudson's Coahoma Bulldogs who will try to rebound from a 3-7 record last year.

"Three yards and a cloud of dust," may very well apply to the Bulldogs offensive strategy. The Bulldogs will rely on their wing-T formation which will feature a power attack led by fullback Richard Seals, 5-10, 185, who is not only quick, a 4.8 in the 40, but can bench press almost 400 pounds.

Coach Hudson feels that his team will be much stronger than last season returning 17 lettermen, including five offensive starters and seven defensive starters.

At quarterback, the Bulldogs will use either John Swinney, 6-3, 165 or Tod Engle, 5-9, 160. Hudson added that either of the two players could get the starting nod and do well. One solid candidate in the line is all district performer James Sanders, 6-2, 220. He is one of many Bulldogs who will go both ways. Tackle and defensive end Jeff Dever is also a mainstay both ways. Junior Shawn Justiss, 6-2 220 will play tackle. David Gross 6-3, 180 and Kyle Rackley 6-0, 150 will both see plenty of action at wide receiver and defensive back spots.

Hudson says his team does plan on throwing the ball more. Last year the Bulldogs put the ball in the air 12 percent of the time. This year they are planning on "putting it up" 30 percent of the time.

The Bulldogs Oklahoma 52 defense will be big and strong, anchored by Justiss and Sanders at the tackles and Tony Burnett at the noseguard position.

Manning the linebacker positions will be Seals and Ricky DelaCruz and Robby Henry. The Bulldogs have a host of defensive ends to choose from.

In the secondary will be Engel, Ronnie Muser and Don Calwson at the cornerback spots. Playing safety will probably be Swinney, Jimmy Carruthers, 5-9, 140, Scott Mahall, 5-10, 140 and Lane Flippin, 5-11, 137.

Coach Hudson feels that with his team's size, returning lettermen and determination they can compete with the rest of District 6AAA. And its a good bet he is right.

DO YOU NEED PEACE OF MIND?

If you do you are certainly not alone because I'd venture to say that most of us desire peace of mind, especially in this troubled world that we live in. Certainly we all do need peace of mind, but whether or not we are willing to admit this is something else.

Well the fact is that one of the promises that God makes available to us is Peace of mind. All that we must do to make this promise a reality in our own lives is to hear and obey PHILLIPPIANS 4:6,7.

Listen now to the words of the Lord

"Don't worry about anything; instead, pray about everything; tell God your needs and don't forget to thank him for his answers. If you do this you will experience God's peace, which is far more wonderful than the human mind can understand. His peace will keep your thoughts and your hearts quiet and at rest as you trust in Christ Jesus."

Won't you trust Jesus and act on this promise today. If you do you can know what real peace of mind is all about!

HOW IS YOUR SPIRITUAL LIFE?

If you are feeling less in touch with God than you want to be; If your prayer life and Bible study has been tapering off; or if you feel there should be more to being a Christian than you are experiencing; then SAINTS ALIVE!, THE CHRISTIAN LIFE IN THE POWER OF THE SPIRIT may be just what you need. This nine-week course offers a specific opportunity for you to respond to Christ and to experience His power at work in your life. The course will be led by the Rev. Monte Jones, Vicar of Colorado City, at All Saints Episcopal Church beginning Sunday, August 21, at 7:00 p.m. in the Parish Hall. The course is open to ALL who seek a better relationship with Jesus.

ARE YOU WILLING:
- to set aside everything else (except dire emergencies, of course) to attend each of the nine sessions?
- to set aside 15 minutes EVERY DAY to be quiet and draw closer to God?
- to spend ½ to 1 hour per week reading a "Chunk" of several chapters of the Bible?
- to seek the Lord openly and actively?
- to have your life changes in good meaningful, spiritual, and scriptual ways?

IF SO THIS COURSE IS FOR YOU.

Special education dept. offered

The Special Education department of the Colorado ISD offers many excellent services for children with special needs. These services are for the speech handicapped, orthopedically handicapped, auditorially handicapped, visually handicapped, multiple handicapped, mentally retarded, autistic, pregnant, early childhood, and learning disabled.

The program for the learning disabled students is perhaps the most misunderstood part of the Special Education department. Learning disabled children are not mentally retarded but they do have some kind of problem that keeps them from learning the same way other children do.

According to Academic Therapy in San Rafael, CA, an estimated 15 percent of all children in school have some problem in learning in the same manner as their classmates. For some reason not yet clear, learning disabled boys out number girls eight to one. All the causes of learning disabilities have not been definitely established, but extensive investigation is continuing.

How do you know if your child suffers from this "hidden handicap"? There are many symptoms which can range from deceptively mild to extremely severe. They are: spelling problems; letter reversals; mirror writing; pronunciation problems; reversing or omitting letters, words, numbers; erratic word memory; reading ability poor; math problems; distractible, short attention span; forgetful; slow; unfinished homework; inability to follow instructions; achievement quite low in some areas, but high in others; impulsive; clumsy; left-right confusion; allergies; poor logic; few or no friends; poor judge of time, difficulty in telling time; does not like competitive games; poor at copying; socially immature; perseveration; low frustration level; overreacts; destructive, aggressive behavior; cyclical behavior–good days, then bad days; disorganized; hyperactive.

It is important to remember that a learning disabled child will not display all of these symptoms and that a child who exhibits just a few of them is not necessarily learning disabled. However, if you are in doubt, consult with your child's teacher; there are tests available that can help determine if he or she would benefit from this service, which is for students of all grades.

If your child is placed in this program, it will only take an hour out of each school day and the benefits he receives will last a lifetime.

MATHEMATICS

RULES FOR MULTIPLYING AND DIVIDING SIGNED NUMBERS AND TERMS.

1. Like signs multiplied or divided have positive answers.
   a)–6x times–2 = +12x
   b)–15x divided by–3 is–15x ÷ –3 = +5
2. Unlike signs multiplied or divided have negative answers.
   a)–6x times +3 = –18x
   b) +9y divided by–3 is +9y ÷ –3 = –3

PROBLEMS
1. –7 x +3 =
2. +81 ÷ –9 =
3. –4 x –7 =
4. 100 ÷ –25 =
5. –3(6) =
6. Are both sides of this equation equal in value?
   –4 times–5 = 40 ÷ (+2)

COMBINING OF LIKE TERMS

A term is one of the parts of an algebraic expression such as 4x, 2y, etc. When solving an equation, combine all like terms. Solve this equation for x.

3x + 7x = 50

1. Combine like terms:
   3x + 7x = 50
   10x = 50
2. Get the x alone by dividing both sides of the equation by 10.

$$\frac{10x}{10} = \frac{50}{10}$$

$$x = 5$$

PROBLEM 1.
Solve for x. 5x – 2x = 30
PROBLEM 2.
Solve for b. 2b + 3 = 75

PARENTHESES

A parenthesis is used to indicate that several items are to be treated as one term. When there is a number in front of a parenthesis, it means to multiply everything inside the parenthesis separately by that number. The parenthesis is removed after the multiplication has been completed.

Examples:
1. 4(3) = 12
2. 4(a) = 4a
3. 4(3a) = 12a
4. 4(3a + 3b) = 12a + 12b

Always remove the parenthesis before combining like terms.
Example:
5x + 3y + 4(x + 2y)
5x + 3y + 4x + 8y
9x + 11y
PROBLEM 1.
Remove the parenthesis and combine terms.
3(x + y) + 2(x + y)

SETTING UP NEW EQUATIONS

It is possible now to solve word problems by making an equation, removing parentheses if necessary, combining terms and solving for the unknown. Jerry has 3 times as much money as Pat. Together they have $12.80. How much money does each one have?

THINK:
1. How much money does Pat have? (x)
2. If Jerry has 3 times that of Pat, Jerry has 3 times x, or 3x.
3. Together they have $12.80. That means the amounts have been added.
   x + 3x = $12.80
4. Combine terms. 4x = $12.80
5. Solve for x by dividing both sides of the equation by 4.

$$\frac{4x}{4} = \frac{$12.80}{4}$$

$$x = $3.20$$

6. Pat has $3.20
   Jerry has 3 X $3.20, or $9.60

PROBLEM 1.
Nancy is 3 years older than Diane. Their ages added together equal 75. How old is each girl?
THINK:
Diane is y.
Nancy is y + 3.
PROBLEM 2.
Dorothy and Jane have $8.40 together. Jane has five times the amount that Dorothy has. How much money does each have?
PROBLEM 3.
I am thinking of a number. Five times the number equals 240. What is the number?

EXPONENTS AND SQUARE ROOTS

An exponent is a small number written at the upper right-hand corner of another number. It is mathematical shorthand to indicate the number of times you have to multiply the number by itself. For example:

$3^3 = 3x3x3 = 27$
$10^4 = 10x10x10x10 = 10{,}000$

To square a number you multiply it by itself once. For example: 5 squared (5^2) is 5X5 or 25 and 25 is the perfect square (the square of a whole number).

The sign $\sqrt{\ }$ indicates the "the square root of". To find their square root of a number, find the number that when multiplied by itself gives you the original number. For example:

$\sqrt{16} = 4$ because $4^2 = 16$

$\sqrt{100} = 10$ because $10^2 = 100$

WRITING SKILLS

COMPARISON OF ADJECTIVES AND ADVERBS

Adjectives and adverbs are often used to compare things with one another.

Add -er or -est to short adjectives and adverbs (one or two syllables) when expressing comparison. Use "more" or "most" with longer adjectives and adverbs (more than two syllables).

Examples:
Her brother is stronger than mine.
Her brother is the strongest in his class.
This exercise is more difficult than the other one.
This exercise is the most difficult of all.

A few adjectives and adverbs use different forms when expressing comparison.
For example:

good (well)	better	best
little	less	least
bad	worse	worst
many	more	most

PROBLEMS
Write the correct form of the adjective or adverb in these sentences.
1. (changeable) The weather seems _____ than it seemed yesterday.
2. (quick) Lester seems to be the _____ of all the players.
3. (fast) Donny is the _____ runner of the two boys.
4. (little) Mary has _____ money than Jack.

DOUBLE NEGATIVES

Negative adverbs such as "not," "never," "hardly," and "scarcely," should not be used with other negatives such as "no," "nothing," or "none." It is incorrect to say "We couldn't see nothing." Change this sentence to read either "We could see nothing." or "We couldn't see anything."

PROBLEMS
Change these sentences to read correctly by eliminating one of the negative words.
1. We don't have no water pressure.
2. I haven't solved none of my problems in today's lessons.
3. Don't give me no presents.
4. I can't hardly wait for Friday night.
5. You never get nothing done.

PREPOSITIONS

A preposition is a word that shows a relationship between a noun and another word in a sentence. "The book is on the table," the word "on" is the preposition. It shows the relationship of the book and the table. A few prepositions are: about, above, among, at, in, on, of, to, by, for, over. Here are a few clues for troublesome prepositions.

1. One agrees to a thing and with a person. (We agreed with Fred. We agreed to his suggestion.)
2. One may be angry at a thing and with a person. (He is angry at his car and with me.)
3. Between refers to two: among refers to more than two. (The money was divided between the two girls. The answers were distributed among the students.)
4. Into means an action of entering; in means that the action has stopped. (We went into the building. While in the building, we looked for him.)
5. Beside means next to: besides is an adverb and means in addition to.
6. One parts from a person and with a thing. (When the little boy parts from his mother, he cannot part with his teddy bear.)

PROBLEMS
Underline each preposition in these sentences.
1. Birds, flying toward the Southland, darkened the sky.
2. The jury was given instructions by the judge.
3. We were surprised by the applause that came from the crowd.
4. Mr. Findley was the choice of all of the people in the village.
5. Because of the storms, we could not go to camp.
6. In the afternoon we all worked in the hospital for several hours.
7. Beyond the hills the sun set in a blaze of color.
8. He arose at dawn and rang the bell in the tower.
9. All of us except Ralph were sent to the old camp in the mountains.
10. Explain the operation of this machine to the new men.
11. Both of us told our stories to the policeman.
12. The old man stood near the door and smiled at the approaching group.

THE EIGHT PARTS OF SPEECH

By Mrs. Carrie Stegall

A noun's the name of anything,
A man, a lake, a thought, a game.

A pronoun only takes noun's place,
As he for man and it for face.

A verb must act or merely be,
As is and are or run and see.

Adjectives paint pronoun and noun,
As "It was short" and "Balls are round."

Adverb paints itself and others:
So fast, not strong, and quietly hovers.

The prepositions now you see
Upon, beyond, around a tree.

Conjunctions join one to some more,
Not girls or boys but house and store.

An interjection may exclaim,
As Ah! in wisdom or Ouch! in pain.

As surely as you learn this rhyme,
The parts of speech will fall in line.

Delta Commodities wants to open a new BRANCH OFFICE in your town

In keeping with our planned program of growth, we are looking to open a new branch office in your area.

The individuals we seek need not have a background in commodity futures trading, although any such experience would be a definite plus. What we are seeking, are those individuals with a keen business sense to organize and help manage a branch office for Delta. Your agricultural background may qualify you for this position.

In return, we offer a complete training program, unlimited potential with higher than average compensation, full WATTS lines, fully computerized bookkeeping service and a respected research facility.

If you fit the above description, let's talk. Call Melinda Holzhauer Schramm, (312) 620-5688, or send your resume to the below address.

MIKE SQUIRES, SCS range conservationist, stands in a field planted to forage sorghum for a cover crop. This field could produce a second crop if it were shredded.

Turning cover crops over early could lose nitrogen

Management of cover crops planted on conserving use acres (CUA) and cover crops planted on other acres has come under much discussion in recent weeks. Producers should not be in a hurry to turn the protective cover under.

If the cover crop is turned under too early, much of the nitrogen from the residue could be lost for the 1984 crop because of too early decomposition. The soil protecting cover can be shredded and the residue left on the surface until the land is prepared for next years crop. If the cover crop is forage sorghum a second crop can be made after shredding if adequate rainfall is received. A good surface crop is the best way to protect most fields from wind and water erosion.

Cowpeas can fix up to 75 pounds per acres of nitrogen from the atmosphere if they are properly innoculated. This nitrogen is concentrated in the leaves, stems, and roots of the plant.

A hybrid forage sorghum can produce 30 to 50 pounds of nitrogen per acre. This is based on the forage sorghum making 3,000 pounds per acre and all of the residue returned to the soil.

One can see from the above figures that if all of the cover crop is left in the field, its value is worth several dollars per acre in fertilizer alone. The improved physical condition of the soil will also increase the yields in succeeding crops.

New conservation plants released

Two new conservation plants have been released to seed growers for use in range, pasture and wildlife plantings.

Van Mills, district conservationist for the USDA Soil Conservation Service at Colorado City said the releases are "Haskell" sideoats grama and "Sabine" Illinois bundleflower.

"Haskell" sideoats grama has been tested in more than 30 plantings across Texas, Mills said. It has a wider adaption than other sideoats grama strains available commercially, and is especially adapted to Central and South Texas. It also has exceptional rhizome production that aids in controlling erosion. It is considered equal or superior for forage and seed production over present commercial types. One planting of "Haskell" sideoats was made on the Odell and Tommy Fuller stock farm south of Colorado City.

The plant appears to be best adapted for use in range or pasture mixes in areas receiving 18 inches or greater natural rainfall. It was released to seed growers by SCS in cooperation with the Agricultural Research Service and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

"Sabine" Illinois bundleflower, a warm season native legume, has been evaluated since 1972 for forage abundance, seed prodcution, and nitrogen assimilation. It appears to be useful in range and pasture plantings and for wildlife food; is also an excellent legume fo ruse in mixtures on eroding sites low in productivity.

The selection is hardy from South Texas to Northern Oklahoma, drought resistant, and readily eaten by all types of livestock and wildlife. It frequently grows on clay soils, and grows well on soils that have sandy loam textures. It appears to be best adapted on areas receiving 20 inches or greater natural rainfall. Plantings west of this zone should be where extra moisture would be expected. The plant was released by SCS in cooperation with the Agricultural Research Service, The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, and the Texas Parks andWildlife Department.

Mills said that seed from the two plants should be available to producers by the Spring of 1984.
