Large turnout expecteu for civil service vote

City of Snyder residents Saturday will decide the fate of the hotly debated civil service question.

Due to brisk absentee voting, a heavy turnout is expected when polls open at 7 a.m. at city hall. Balloting will continue until 7 p.m. A total of 257 absentee votes were cast.

The civil service question surfaced last May when police and firemen presented the Snyder city council with a petition containing 131 names asking for the vote.

The petition asked that the implementation of civil service for firemen and policemen be placed on an August ballot. If approved, the civil service commission would be composed of three local citizens appointed by the city. The commission would hear and act on citizen complaints and questions regarding either department.

In addition, the commission would act on similar issues generated from within the department. The commission would be involved in questions related to hiring, firing and discipline of department personnel.

The commission would have the authority to overrule administrative decisions if such action were determined unfair under guidelines of the civil service statue.

The commission would not have the authority to become involved in pay disputes, nor set deparment policy. Proponents say these functions would remain with the department heads and city council.

If approved, the commission members would be appointed by the city manager and then ratified by the council. Members would serve without pay.

The civil service commission would function when needed. Its members would serve staggered three-year terms.

The petition was initiated by the Snyder Police Association.

Sy Tabor, association president, says the group feels implemenation of the commission would secure for Snyder efficient police and fire departments, composed of capable personnel, free from political influence and with permanent tenure of employment as public servants.

Proponents of civil service believe it would encourage greater professionalism within both departments.

The proposal has generated much controversy within city hall.

The Snyder city council has gone on record in opposition to civil service, and a citizens group, Citizens For Informed Taxpayers, have lobbied against the measure.

Both groups have run paid advertisements in attempt to take their case to the public. Both groups appeared before a recent chamber of commerce meeting to present their sides.

At last Monday's city council meeting, Tabor objected to opponents' implication that firemen were against civil service because they did not sign the original petition.

Tabor said some policemen did not sign because they lived outside the corporate city limits, and firemen did not sign because they feared reprisals with regard to their jobs.

Following those statements, an investigation of the job intimidation charge was conducted. A statement issued Thursday declared the allegations were without foundation.

City hall issued this statement of its investigation: "A preliminary inquiry with firemen indicates that no such statement was made to them by supervisory fire department personnel or other supervisory city personnel. Indications from firemen were that they had heard rumors from outside sources."

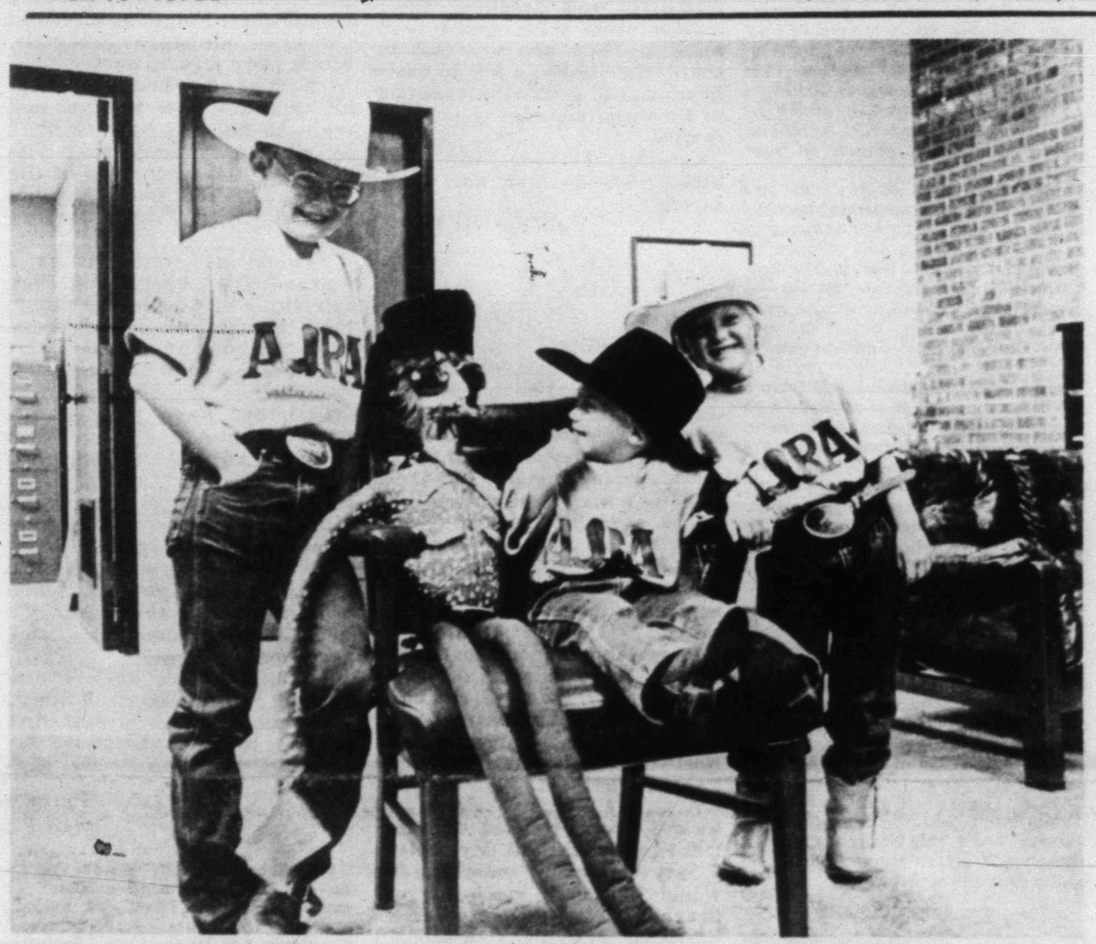

The city's opposition has

Firemen say statements will stand

Responding to a release prepared by the Snyder city manager's office Thursday, Snyder Police Association members and paid firemen issued a statement Friday standing by earlier allegations that firemen had been threatened with possible loss of jobs.

In an Aug. 3 city council meeting, Police Association President Sy Tabor said the reason none of the paid firemen signed the petition asking for a civil service election was because firemen feared for their jobs.

Following that statement, the city council instructed the city manager to investigate the charges, and on Thursday issued a statement which said no fire department supervisory or other city supervisory personnel made such remarks. "Indications from firemen were that they (the remarks) had come from outside sources."

The release from the police association and paid firemen countered that the preliminary investigation did not accurately reflect the statements made by firemen.

"Within the investigation firemen were asked to agree or disagree with a prepared statement. This prepared statement did not reflect their views.

The firemen did not sign the prepared statement. Using an option to prepare their own statement the firemen wrote its own statement and sent it to City Manager John Gayle as a response to the investigation. "This response the city manager obviously failed to consider valid or relevant."

The following is a statement sent by paid firemen to the city manager:

"The paid firemen have been asked to make a statement regarding the validity of the statements made at its Aug. 3, 1987 city council meeting. The statements made at the council meeting were correctly expressed.

"We, the paid firemen, feel that the news release prepared by your office was incomplete. Although we agree with the basic context of your news release, we feel that our views were not fully expressed.

"Even though Chief (Terry) McDowell did not tell any of the paid firemen they would lose their jobs, outside sources made it plain that serious repercussions would occur if we participated in the promotion of civil service or any controversial issues."

15 voting locations...

County voters to decide half-cent sales tax levy

County Clerk Jenna Vee Miller expects 2,000 to 2,500 voters in the county sales tax election Saturday, or a turnout of better than 20 percent of Scurry County's 9,346 registered voters.

"It's kind of hard to predict because this is a different kind of election than we've ever had," she said, adding that the 223 absentee votes were more than she had expected.

Constitutional amendments elections here brought out fewer than 600 voters in 1983 and only about 900 two years ago.

"The constitutional amendments (turnout) are very poor, but it's always good when there are names on the ballot," Mrs. Miller said. "We've never had an election that I can remember with just a single issue like this."

She said there is bound to be some voter confusion between the election on the proposed half-cent county sales tax at 15 boxes around Scurry County and the municipal vote on the establishment of a civil service commission to handle promotions, disputes and other matters in the police and fire departments.

All of the county election judges know to tell voters that the city balloting will be exclusively at city hall, however, she said. "I know there will be (confusion) because we had that in absentees," Mrs. Miller said Friday morning.

The clerk reported that preparations for the election have gone well and that election judges had been picking up supplies, with everything apparently in readiness for the 7 a.m.-to-7 p.m. balloting Saturday.

Proponents of the half-cent county sales tax Saturday see it as a means to reduce property taxes, while opponents--with no organized opposition--are expected to be primarily those who oppose new taxes in any form.

County Judge Bobby Goodwin is a proponent of the sales tax. He has calculated that it would allow the commissioners court to reduce the Scurry County ad valorem or property tax rate by 12.7 percent.

The tax would raise about $250,000 per year to help support county government — or 12.79 percent of the $3.3 million raised annually by the property tax.

"It would take pressure off the property owners and put it on people who use the goods and services of Scurry County," Goodwin said, adding that the county would also collect from people outside the county who do business here.

"The economic downturn caused us to lose valuation and caused more of a burden on the property owners," the judge said.

County Clerk Jenna Vee Miller noted that the tax would not become collectible until next Jan. 1 and that local property taxes would not be reduced until October 1988 because the ad valorem tax reduction would be based on how much revenue the sales tax had produced.

Clements trims new state budget

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements says state government is on its way to leaner, more efficient operations under the new $38.13 billion state budget, the largest in Texas history.

That total is $167.4 million less than passed by the Legislature after a series of vetoes Clements announced on Thursday.

"As never before, each agency, board and commission must review every expense, must prioritize every program and must ensure to the people of Texas that every dollar spent is done so with maximum efficiency," Clements said.

Among the vetoes were those which the governor said will:

— Eliminate individual aircraft operations by certain state agencies.

— Call on individual universities to allocate money from their own budgets to fund various university systems offices.

— Reduce "administrative and bureaucratic costs" in the Department of Human Services.

— Pare a variety of appropriations from higher education and the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

— Eliminate a so-called "doomsday plan" that would have slashed funding to a variety of state colleges in the legislative districts of House members who challenged the budget had sufficient taxes not been raised. Most of those representatives were Republicans and conservative Democrats who had insisted more money would be trimmed.

"This measure is nothing but a crude attempt at legislative and political blackmail, unbecoming of our Texas legislative process," Clements said. He also called it "rank intimidation."

Clements also praised the Legislature, which required all 30 days of a special session in addi-

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

Gene Dow, in the Colorado City Record, reported on a national news item.

"I saw an item in the papers that said Chinese women of old swallowed 24 live tadpoles in early spring to insure five years without conception. Have you seen China's population statistics?

"Those tadpoles must have turned into frogs, the frogs into Prince Charmings and the Prince Charmings into fathers.

"Matter of fact, just this month, the population of the planet Earth was reported to have hit the five billion mark--doubling in just a couple or three decades. That's a lot of people, why the number is almost five one-hundredths of one percent as much as the U.S. federal debt which is now at $2.5 trillion."

George Dolan, in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, told about a veteran umpire who watched a third baseman chase a pop fly that was lifted over him.

The third baseman, who the umpire describes charitably as "slightly stout," lumbered after it, only to have the ball fall just out of reach for a base hit.

A comment from his own bench broke up the rest of the players. Shouted a teammate: "You were just about 10 pounds away from catching that."

Larry Crabtree, in the Vernon Daily Record, had a reader bring him back information posted on signs in a West Virginia restaurant.

The restaurant has a section reserved for non-smokers that is designated as the "Coffee Corner." For the nervous smoker, they also have the "Coughey Corner."

Still another sign in the motel restaurant urges men to bring their wives to dinner, for they specialize in "Seize-her-salad."

In Brief

TDC still open

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Texas prisons will open again today for the second straight day after the inmate population fell below a court mandated 95 percent capacity, a prison spokesman said.

The Texas Department of Corrections was closed Monday through Wednesday when the population within the 26-unit system was above the mandated level, prison spokesman Charles Brown said.

The doors, however, may close again as early as Monday, he said.

Jobless down

DALLAS (AP) — The Texas job market continued its plodding recovery from the state's energy-related woes last month, as the unemployment rate dipped to 8.3 percent, the federal Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today.

"Improvement likely will continue to be agonizingly slow," said BLS regional commissioner Bryan Richey.

Shultz may visit Central America to promote plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz may visit Central America next month to promote President Reagan's peace initiative, according to administration officials, even though he turned aside Nicaragua's request for bilateral talks.

The officials, speaking on condition they not be named, said Thursday that Shultz has made no firm commitment to make the visit and will not go before a planned vacation ends in early September.

The administration has been hit with criticism that the president's initiative is merely a ploy to create an environment on Capitol Hill favorable to renewed aid to the Contras.

A Shultz visit to the region would underscore the seriousness of the administration's purpose, the officials said.

The possibility of a Shultz trip was disclosed as the peace plan hit a snag Thursday over a procedural question just 24 hours after it was launched. Shultz all but ruled out a proposal by Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega for bilateral talks on the plan.

"I think it is critical to establish that there is no way the United States would want to sit down with Nicaragua to decide what is right for Central America. That has to be done by all the Central American countries," Shultz said.

Ortega, arriving Thursday in Guatemala City for a meeting of Central American presidents, said, "If the United States rejects direct talks with us, the whole thing is a sham, a publicity stunt designed to impress whoever they think is gullible enough."

The night before, Ortega had called for an "unconditional dialogue" with the United States on the Reagan plan, which offers Nicaragua an end to Contra aid in return for Sandinista implementation of a cease-fire and democratic reforms, among other measures, by Sept. 30.

Ortega's proposal was consistent with Nicaragua's longstanding position that the United States is responsible for the armed struggle in his country and that bilateral talks are the only hope for a solution.

Partners and associates for commercial ventures in the year ahead must be selected with extreme care. If your choices are wise, the rewards will be substantial. Weak alliances could create problems.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Even if your mate's demands are unreasonable, make an extra effort to appease him or her if you want to maintain harmony on the home front. It will be worth it. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It looks like you may fall heir to some problems today that others should be taking care of themselves. Don't be afraid to say no if you feel imposed upon.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A well-meaning friend may put you on to something today that looks like a bargain. However, upon closer scrutiny, it might not be such a good deal.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Usually, you are a rather methodical person who attacks objectives in a sound manner. Today, however, you might ignore your practicality and do things the hard way.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Guard against inclinations today to read more into things than others intend. If your feelings get hurt, it could be due to a misinterpretation on your behalf.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You may not be at your best today at managing your own resources or those of others. If you have to deal in finances, double-check all your facts and figures.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be extremely tactful in handling a close companion today. Wrong moves on your part could alienate this person quicker than you may think.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There's a chance your responsibilities will be a bit heavier than usual today. A failure to keep pace with your duties will make them harder to do at a later date.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) For the sake of your own peace of mind, avoid activities today where there might be people present whose company you don't enjoy.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're sitting on a rather fragile limb today, so be careful not to do anything that could tarnish your image in the eyes of your peers.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Certain views that are attractive to you might not be as popular with your friends today. If your comments are poorly received, be smart and change the subject.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you're not careful today, you might come out on the short end in your business dealings, especially if you're pitted against one who outwitted you previously.

Marriage Made in Heaven Enjoys 70 Years on Earth

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1987 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR READERS: Today is a very special day. It marks the 70th — yes, 70th — wedding anniversary of a couple who are very dear to me: my in-laws, Rose and Jay Phillips of Minneapolis.

Theirs was not just a marriage, it was a merger — a blending of beauty, brains, character, talent, ambition, generosity, hard work and mutual love, tempered with a sense of humor.

Their cornerstone: a devotion to their religion, and respect for the rights of others.

Over the years, Rose and Jay Phillips have handled their good fortune with gratitude and humility, and accepted their misfortunes with grace and dignity. They are a credit to their community, a joy to their friends, and a shining example of love and generosity to their family.

Congratulations and God bless you, Mother and Dad. Love,

ABBY AND MORT

DEAR ABBY: I have a rather touchy problem. Last Mother's Day my husband and I had our 6-month-old daughter christened. Several relatives were present and, much to my surprise, they all brought gifts. While opening the gifts, my great uncle — a very wealthy man who has no children — told me he was going to open a "college fund" for our daughter. Then he started explaining the terms of the fund — how much interest it would draw, etc.

After waiting for six months and hearing nothing more about the "college fund," I asked my uncle about it, and he said he was going to go through a large bank in Nashville. (We live in a very small town in Tennessee.)

Abby, it's been over a year, and we still haven't received any information about the gift. My uncle is a very responsible man, and we would like very much for our daughter to have this gift to assure her college education. How should I handle it?

BLUE IN GRAY, TENN.

DEAR BLUE: Being "blue" will not accomplish anything — neither will procrastinating. Remind your uncle of the "college fund" he promised to establish for your daughter. And don't be shy. He offered it.

DEAR READERS: Rollan Melton, who writes a column in the Reno Gazette, was so taken with a sermon delivered by one V. James Jeffery, rector of the Trinity Episcopal Church in Reno, he shared that message with his readers. I've since discovered that the message in the sermon originally came from Robert Fulghum, a retired Unitarian minister in Edmonds, Wash. Here it is (in part):

"Most of what I really need to know about how to live, and what to do, and how to be, I learned in kindergarten. Wisdom was not at the top of the graduate school mountain, but there in the sandbox at nursery school.

"These are the things I learned: Share everything. Play fair. Don't hit people. Put things back where you found them. Clean up your own mess. Don't take things that aren't yours. Say you're sorry when you hurt somebody. Wash your hands before you eat. Flush. Warm cookies and cold milk are good for you.

"... When you go out into the world, watch for traffic, hold hands and stick together."

"... And it is still true, no matter how old you are, when you go out into the world, it's best to hold hands and stick together."

Thanks, Rector Jeffery and Robert Fulghum. I couldn't have said it better myself. And thanks to Edna Brigham for introducing me to Rollan Melton.

Judge rules suit may not proceed

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A bankruptcy judge handed oil heir Cullen Davis another victory in his battle against those seeking civil damages from him in the 1976 shooting at his Fort Worth mansion.

U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Massie Tillman Thursday turned down plaintiffs in a multimillion-dollar civil suit seeking to proceed with their wrongful death case against Davis.

With his family business empire in shambles, Davis filed for personal bankruptcy in July, automatically halting any pending civil action against him.

But lawyers representing heirs of slain former Texas Christian University basketball player Stan Farr asked Tillman to allow a pending Sept. 14 trial to go ahead. Farr's heirs allege Davis was the masked gunman who shot and killed Farr at the Davis mansion in 1976.

Davis' bankruptcy attorney Eddie Roush Jr. said the trial would cost Davis $200,000 to $300,000, not including attorneys fees. He said Davis, 53, could not afford to hire a defense attorney.

Bryan D. Bruner, an attorney for Farr's relatives, said during a recess that he and Roush had discussed settling the dispute for $300,000. Instead, Bruner chose to seek a ruling from Tillman.

Firemen battle range fire

FLUVANNA — Firemen battled and helped contain a grass fire Wednesday that burned a 100-acre pasture belonging to Bob Jordan four miles north of here.

The fire was reported at 11:30 a.m., and firemen fought it for about five hours.

A spokesman said it apparently started in a barrow ditch from an unknown cause, possibly a thrown cigarette.

"I'm afraid if it doesn't rain, we will have a bunch more," said Nita Caraway of Fluvanna, who was at the scene. "It's sure getting dry."

Reagan's speech slated Wednesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan will comment on testimony at the congressional Iran-Contra hearings in a speech next Wednesday at 8 p.m. from the Oval Office, an administration source said.

The source, who spoke Thursday evening on condition of anonymity, said a formal announcement on the timing would come today. It is expected that the speech will be televised nationally.

A White House spokesman, Roman Popadiuk, said late Thursday he could not confirm the report.

The Aug. 12 speech comes on the eve of Reagan's departure for a 25-day vacation. Next Thursday, Aug. 13, Reagan will fly to North Platte, Neb., where he will speak about his economic proposals.

Man given death sentence

FORT STOCKTON (AP) — The death sentence hasn't been used much here since the days of hangings, but an Odessa man drew the penalty for his conviction in a fire death.

Jurors deliberated less than an hour before sentencing 41-year-old Earnest Ray Willis to death by injection, District Attorney J.W. Johnson said.

The decision Wednesday, Johnson said, probably "is the first time a Pecos County jury has returned a death penalty since they hung people in the 1800s."

The jury on Tuesday convicted Willis of capital murder in the June 11, 1986, death of Elizabeth Belue, 24, who died when fire swept through an Iraan house in Iraan, a town about 60 miles east of here.

"I'm proud of our juries," he said. "This is West Texas. The people are hard. If you break the law, you pay the dues."

Gail Allison, 25, of Sheffield also was killed in the blaze, but Willis was not indicted for her death.

Johnson said Willis had known the pair less than 12 hours when he set the house on fire while the two slept. But because the evidence against Willis was circumstantial, Johnson said, "we were very surprised even winning the trial. Our chances were about 10 percent even going into it.

"We didn't have any eyewitnesses. We didn't know what type of flammable material was used. It was all circumstantial material," he said.

Defense attorney Steve Woolard said Thursday he thought jurors convicted Willis on suspicion. "Sometimes the jury will convict a man because they believe he is guilty, not because the state proved he is."

Some pointers on points

For more than 40 years the 4-3-2-1 point-count has guided us in our evaluation of bridge hands. First invented by Milton C. Work, it was popularized by Charles Goren. It is a good method, but it does have some discrepancies. Which would you rather hold, one ace or four jacks? Again, which do you like better, one ace or two queens? The conclusion to be drawn, known already by experienced players, is that points made up of queens and jacks just do not have the same quality as those composed of aces and kings. From a practical point of view, this should cause us to pull in our horns a bit in the bidding when our hand is full of Q-J points and be aggressive when our values are in A-K points.

Today's deal shows the North player ignoring this sound advice. With the very strong likelihood that South holds at least nine cards in spades and hearts, North can certainly think about a game contract. But to trade on the fact that he has five-card support for South's second suit by going all the way to four hearts is foolish. North should simply invite game with a three-heart bid. South, with very little extra for his opening bid, will be glad to pass and happy to make nine tricks. In fact, on this deal North's queens and jack have little value.

Against four hearts, West led the club ace. After his partner's discouraging three, he shifted to ace and a diamond. Later the defense took a spade trick to beat the optimistic game contract.

At Junior Teenage tourney...

Bad bounce befuddles Buffs

BELTON – After 9 2-3 innings, a freak bounce of the ball let Belton squeeze past Snyder's Buffs by a 5-4 count in the Texas Junior Teenage League State Tournament here Thursday evening.

Belton had two out and two on, trailing the Buffs 4-3 in the bottom of the 10th inning before Brian Patton stepped up to the plate and slapped a hard, but routine ground ball. Snyder second baseman Gilbert Hernandez quickly moved into position to make the defensive play, when suddenly the ball appeared to hit a rock. It bounced crazily, hitting Hernandez in the face. He immediately crumpled to the ground and the two Belton runners scored to end the game.

The force of the ball knocked Hernandez out for about a minute and left him with a blackened eye and swelling, but he did not need a doctor's care.

The teams had been mired in a 3-3 deadlock since the fifth inning before Randy Morris doubled and scored in the top of the 10th on Jason West's single.

The loss was Snyder's first in the double-elimination tournament, and sent the Buffs into this morning's contest against Elkhart. The victor meets Belton in the championship game at 6 p.m. Should Belton lose that game, another championship game would be scheduled for 8 p.m.

Elkhart reached this morning's contest by topping Bowie County 14-7 and Temple 7-6 in nine innings on Thursday. Earlier, Temple had eliminated Freeport with a 7-4 win.

Snyder scored its first run against Belton in the first inning when Morris singled, stole second, went to third on a fly out and came home on West's sacrifice fly.

Belton upended the scoreboard in the bottom of the inning, scoring two runs on four walks and a ground out.

The Buffs then tied the game 2-2 in the second inning as Bert Merritt singled home Willie Garcia, who had also singled aboard.

In the third inning, Belton went in front 3-2 on a single and a double. Snyder tied the game in the fifth when Morris reached on an error and scored when Tommy Lane doubled.

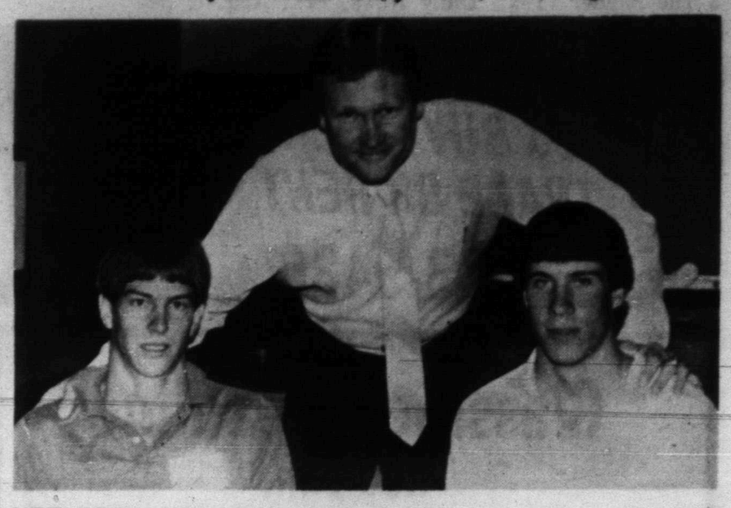

Neither team scored again until the 10th, though Snyder made some fine defensive stands along the way. Belton opened the bottom of the sixth inning with two singles but an alert first baseman Marcus Greene caught a line drive and stepped on the bag for a double play.

In the eighth, the Buffs put runners on second and third with one out. Merritt made a fine defensive play to end the inning when he caught a deep fly ball in right field, then pegged the runner coming home with a strong throw.

Bart Morton started on the mound but pitched just 1-3 of an inning. Pedro Villa went the next 6 2-3, giving up one run, six hits and three walks. He struck out eight. Garcia worked the final 2 2-3 and took the loss. He gave up two runs, two hits and two walks.

Belton pitcher Jeff Martin went 9 1-3 innings. He struck out nine while allowing four runs on eight hits and two walks.

Tommy Bruce picked up the win with 2-3 of an inning's work. He allowed one hit and fanned two batters.

Mauldin signs two to play basketball

Western Texas College's Westerners will be joined by a pair of all-region players next season.

Coach Tony Mauldin has announced the signing of Lawren Mason, a 6-3½ talent from Vega, and Malcom Waters, a 6-4 player from Stratford.

Mason was a three-time all-district player at Vega, where he earned second team all-region honors as a senior. He averaged 16 points and 15 rebounds a game.

"He's a real good shooting guard," said Coach Mauldin. "We're looking for him to play the off-guard, or possibly the point position for us."

Waters was both all-district and all-region for Stratford, which lost in the 1987 playoffs to eventual state champion Morton. He played post and forward during his high school career.

"Malcolm will probably play forward for us because of his size, although he is a good jumper," said Mauldin. "We expect him to mature in his abilities and come on and help us in the future. He scored real well in league play this summer and he's capable of putting a lot of points up."

Brewers win fourth straight; AL East leaders keep falling

by The Associated Press

Robin Yount hit a two-run triple to cap a five-run fourth inning, and B.J. Surhoff drove in three runs to pace Milwaukee to its fourth consecutive victory - 11-8 over Baltimore.

Fred Lynn's three-run homer powered the Orioles to a 6-3 lead, but in the bottom of the fourth, Milwaukee's Steve Kiefer doubled and scored on Surhoff's second RBI single, knocking out Baltimore starter Mike Flanagan. Mike Griffin gave up a two-out RBI triple to Dale Sveum to cut the lead to 6-5 and Paul Molitor extended the second-longest hitting in the majors this season, 20 games, with a run-scoring single.

Mike Felder beat out an infield hit before Yount tripled, giving the Brewers an 8-6 lead.

Yount has 13 game-winning RBI, best in the league. Jay Aldrich won his first major-league game after replacing starter Bill Wegman in the fourth. He allowed three hits in 2 2-3 scoreless innings.

Although the fourth-place Brewers have been out of the pennant race for a while, they are still within range, 8½ games out in the AL East, especially if the leaders keep stumbling.

Thursday night, third-place Detroit trounced division-leading New York 12-5 and last-place Cleveland flattened runner-up Toronto 14-5. In the AL West, the lead changed hands for the second night in a row when Minnesota defeated Oakland 9-4 and vaulted back over the Athletics into first place by one game. California is 1½ out after losing to Seattle 15-4.

Tigers 12, Yankees 5

Darrell Evans' two-run double keyed Detroit's four-run first inning and Frank Tanana held New York to one run and five hits through seven. The Tigers also had a six-run third, including Bill Madlock's two-run double and Kirk Gibson's two-run single, during which they chased Ron Guidry.

Indians 14, Blue Jays 5

Pinch hitter Casey Parsons hit a grand slam and Cory Snyder and Jay Bell also homered in Cleveland's 16-hit attack. Parsons' homer, his first this season and only the second of his career, came on the second pitch from reliever Mark Eichhorn in the sixth inning and gave the Indians their third four-run inning of the game.

Cleveland starter Scott Bailes gave up three runs on five hits in five innings. Loser Jim Clancy retired only one of the six batters he faced in Cleveland's four-run first inning.

Twins 9, Athletics 4

Home runs by Kent Hrbek and Tim Laudner plus Kirby Puckett's three-run double helped Frank Viola win for the 10th time in his last 12 decisions although he walked six in seven innings. Loser Dave Stewart walked five and allowed seven runs - five earned - and four hits in 3 1-3 innings as his personal seven-game winning streak was snapped.

Mariners 15, Angels 4

Mike Moore won at home for the first time this season, breaking a personal six-game losing streak, and Jim Presley and Alvin Davis hit two-run homers. Moore, who hadn't won since June 22, scattered 11 hits. Loser Willie Fraser allowed four runs in 2 2-3 innings.

Wadkins leading PGA tournament

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) - Bobby Wadkins posted a 4-under par 68 that left him in the lead after the opening round of the 69th PGA Championship.

Wadkins, a non-winner in his 13 seasons on the PGA Tour, had a good driving round in building his lead, generally avoiding the severe rough on the 7,002-yard, par-72 Champion course of the PGA National Golf Club.

Wadkins posted a one-shot lead over journeyman Dave Edwards and Fred Funk, the golf coach at the University of Maryland.

Others who finished two shots behind the lead were Raymond Floyd, Tom Watson, West Germany's Bernhard Langer, Curtis Strange, 1981 PGA champion Larry Nelson and Lanny Wadkins, Bobby's brother.

Great Britain's Nick Faldo, who won the British Open three weeks ago, shot 73. Masters champion Larry Mize had a 75 and U.S. Open winner Scott Simpson 78.

Sources: Kuwaiti tankers are refueled, 'ready to go"

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — Three Kuwaiti tankers awaiting reflagging by the United States were refueled overnight and appeared "ready to go" up the Persian Gulf, shipping sources said today.

Also today, Iran announced that it test-fired an anti-ship missile into gulf waters as it wrapped up naval maneuvers code-named "Martyrdom."

And a West German Defense Ministry spokesman said his government may send a naval detachment to the North Atlantic or Mediterranean to free up U.S. ships for Persian Gulf duty.

The Kuwaiti tankers have been moored outside the gulf awaiting the raising of the Stars and Stripes and the go-ahead for the second U.S. Navy-escorted convoy through the waterway.

Shipping sources in the United Arab Emirates said the three vessels were refueled overnight, then moved to a "more isolated" anchorage some 17 miles off the Arabian Sea coastal ports of Khor Fakkan and Fujeira.

Moored nearby, they said, were several of the U.S. warships that will serve as escorts on the tankers' voyage from the anchorage, through the narrow Strait of Hormuz and up the gulf to Kuwait's oil loading terminal.

Already bearing new names, port of registry — Philadelphia — and the funnel insignia of the Chesapeake Shipping Co., their technical new owner, the ships apparently needed only to raise the U.S. flag before they could sail, the sources said.

"The American captains are aboard and it looks like they're ready to go," said one source, speaking on condition of anonymity.

The three tankers, the 46,723-ton Gas King and the petroleum products tankers Sea Isle City and Ocean City, of 81,283 and 79,999 tons respectively, are among 11 Kuwaiti tankers to be re-registered under the American flag and sailed with naval escort. Two others were reflagged earlier.

U.S. officials have refused to say when the second operation will begin, but shipping sources have predicted the reflagging could take place today, with the convoy leaving for Kuwait in a few days.

Rear Adm. Harold J. Bernsen, commander of the Navy's Gulf-based Middle East Force, has said only that the next convoy will leave within a month.

An executive based in Kuwait said Thursday the program was proceeding "full speed."

Commercial shippers have rushed to move their vessels through the gulf before the next convoy sets out, shipping sources say.

One shipping executive, speaking Thursday on condition of anonymity, said the number of vessels passing through the Strait of Hormuz in the past 24 hours exceeded the normal average of 20 per day.

Some ship owners have said they are avoiding the U.S. escort convoys for fear of Iranian fire. During the first convoy to Kuwait, in July, the supertanker Bridgeton was damaged by a mine believed planted by Iran.

Another reason for the increase was the anticipated end today of Iran's military exercises in the gulf, which began Tuesday. Few ships braved the Strait of Hormuz early in the exercises, which originally were scheduled to end Thursday but were extended for a day.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency, monitored in Nicosia, Cyprus, said today that Iranian President Ali Khamenei visited the port of Bandar Abbas, on the Strait of Hormuz, and ordered the test-firing of the shore-based missile.

Fed court to settle dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal courts are being asked to play referee between the White House and Congress in a foreign policy dispute stemming from President Reagan's plan to protect Kuwaiti tankers in the Persian Gulf.

A lawsuit by members of Congress seeks to invoke the 1973 War Powers Act, which limits a president's authority to send U.S. military personnel into situations of "imminent hostilities." The suit lists 114 House and Senate members as plaintiffs.

The War Powers Act was enacted in 1973 over a veto by then-President Richard Nixon. It says U.S. military personnel can't be sent to areas of imminent danger for more than 60 days unless Congress specifically approves the deployment.

Rep. Mike Lowry, D-Wash., chairman of the House Democratic Study Group, said every administration since 1973 has argued that the law is an unconstitutional restriction on a president's authority, but the Supreme Court has not ruled on that issue.

Lowry said lawyers were putting finishing touches on the lawsuit Thursday and it would be filed today.

The suit concerns Reagan's plan to protect 11 Kuwaiti tankers with American flags and U.S. Navy warships as they travel through the war-torn Persian Gulf. That has raised fears in the Democratic-controlled Congress about involving America in the Iran-Iraq war since Kuwait has aided Iraq.

At the White House, spokesman Roman Popadiuk declined to comment on the suit, but he noted that in a recent report to Congress, the White House discussed the question of whether the War Powers Act applied to the current situation.

"The War Powers Act is not applicable under the present circumstances," the report said.

Clements trims new state budget

tion to its 140-day regular session to finally pass a budget.

"There is no question that much blood, sweat and tears were shed in this effort," he said.

However, the governor said, more savings could be obtained. "For 2½ weeks, I have reviewed this budget ... There are places that can stand additional scrutiny and additional economies."

The budget was approved by lawmakers in on July 21. It was the first time since 1961, when the state sales tax was enacted, that legislators had failed to pass a budget during their 140-day regular session.

This year, lawmakers also approved a $5.7 billion tax hike — the largest in state history — to pay for the budget. Clements signed that into law last month.

Clements said the university systems office vetoes represent "relatively small numbers" in total funds.

The purpose, he said, was to reduce administrative costs "and to get a tighter discipline into that administration, which implies fewer people and more efficiency."

The vetoes included $710,000 annually for University of Texas system administration and $345,000 annually for Texas A&M University system administration.

Bob Davis, Clements' budget director, said those are general revenue funds. The UT and A&M systems receive "considerably more" from the state's Available University Fund, he noted.

More than $2 million was sliced from the University of Houston system administration in 1989, which Davis described as "almost all of their system expenses." The Lamar University system office loses more than $290,000 a year, which Davis called "principally the bulk of their system expenses."

Another veto took $52 million from a program designed to allow the state to subsidize school districts experiencing a loss in property values greater than 8 percent from the previous year. Those generally are districts with greater than average wealth, Clements said, adding that he didn't think it would raise local property taxes.

"We hope that they will address the administrative side of their particular districts," he said.

Davis said he did not know what districts would be affected.

Clements voiced strong feelings about state agencies using airplanes other than those operated by the state's aircraft pool.

"The time has passed when state employees can enjoy the privilege of flying in almost empty agency-owned aircraft ... Some agencies still abuse this privilege by flying in state planes to cities served by commercial airliners and by flying at passenger levels far below plane capacity," he said.

Clements struck $1 million from Attorney General Jim Mattox's child support enforcement program, saying the other $44 million appropriated represent "adequate funds ... for whatever he (Mattox) needs to be doing."

Despite having been criticial of the Office of Public Utility Counsel, which represents ratepayers in proceedings before the state Public Utility Commission, Clements didn't veto the office's appropriation.

"I will probably put someone in there in whom I have confidence and that will give me a pipeline ... into what the PUC is doing, which I have some real misgivings about," he said.

Also vetoed was a $33.9 million appropriation for a new highway department administrative office building, and 1989 appropriations for the Texas Tech University Museum, Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum and Sam Houston Memorial Museum.

county tax would be added to the one-cent city sales tax, increasing it to 1½ cents per $1 charged. Purchases made outside the city limits would have a ½ cent tax.

The state legislature last year gave counties the option of enacting a half-cent sales tax because of the statewide economic downturn.

Scurry County voters will cast ballots in 15 county locations tomorrow Saturday in the election to decide the ½ cent sales tax proposal. These sites and the election judges include:

Hand injured in minor wreck

Police Thursday investigated a two-car accident in the 300 Block of 31st St. in which a Snyder woman suffered a hand injury.

Officers said a 1979 Chevrolet driven by Beverly Hunt Hendricks of 3108 Hill was in collision with a 1980 Mercury station-wagon driven by Lois Seritta Urdy of 800 35th St. at 11:37 a.m.

Mrs. Hendricks had a minor hand injury that did not require hospital treatment, police reported.

centered around the costs to implement civil service and costs of benefits. In addition, the city council has objected changing the manager form of government and placing two city departments outside established channels.

Mayor Troy Williamson has repeated that the council's objections have come from information obtained from the Texas Municipal League and from cities who have such a system.

"The biggest impact would be dollar," Williamson said. "And from a city management standpoint, going civil service means your normal management skills are no long in effect."

The mayor again praised the professionalism of both the police and fire deparments. "We're proud of their record, and we see no reason to change."

AIDS spread greater than first believed

MARLIN, Texas (AP) — Self-employed insurance salesman Jimmy Etheridge was not known in the mostly white business community of this town, despite having moved here 18 months ago.

It was in the predominantly minority section where he passed out lavish gifts to poor boys and their families.

And it was there, officials say, that Etheridge left a deadly legacy.

Authorities found the names of 14 more children Thursday in a computer kept by Etheridge, who police fear may have infected as many as 54 youngsters with the AIDS virus.

Etheridge was found shot to death June 30. An autopsy showed he had the AIDS virus, and a check of the home computer yielded the names and addresses of children, along with details about sexual relations he had with them.

A 16-year-old boy who had been living with him signed a statement saying he shot Etheridge accidentally, said District Attorney Thomas Sehon, who said the criminal investigation in the case is over.

"We cannot prove beyond a reasonable doubt that he (16-year-old) or anyone else committed murder," Sehon said.

Debra Coca, chief Falls County juvenile probation officer, said Thursday officials had found two or three more lists in Etheridge's computer with 14 new names, mostly from Louisiana.

But of the total 54 children, addresses from Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, California, Colorado, Arkansas and Mexico were found, she said. At least 10 of the children are from this little community southeast of Waco.

"We are still in the process of pulling names out of the computer," she said, adding she has no idea how many more names might be found.

Six children have been tested for AIDS so far, and only one test result is back, said Ms. Coca, declining to say whether it was positive or negative.

Parents who have been notified, she said, expressed "shock, bewilderment and a lack of understanding about how this could happen."

Many said, "He seemed to be such a nice person."

She said many of the children are too young to understand the implications of the situation.

Etheridge moved here a year and a half ago from Louisiana. Not many in the business community knew him.

"If you go to the south end of town, he was very well known."

Man is guilty of mail fraud

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A federal jury deliberated for more than four days before acquitting former Fort Worth restaurant owner Benjamin McClelland of setting a gas explosion that destroyed his restaurant and part of a city block.

But the jury Thursday convicted McClelland, 25, of four lesser charges of mailing fraudulent insurance claims and of defrauding a bank for a loan.

McClelland was charged with setting a Dec. 7, 1986, blast that caused an estimated $2.5 million in damage, destroying six businesses and damaging 37 others. He also was charged with setting his family home on fire in April 1985.

Investigators said the explosion was caused by a disconnected gas line in a restaurant next to a sandwich shop owned by McClelland.

Attorneys for both sides made the credibility of McClelland's sister the crucial factor in the trial.

Laura McClelland, 17, testified that Benjamin told her he had caused the downtown Fort Worth blast by disconnecting a gas line in the restaurant next door and told her six months beforehand that he planned to burn down the family home in April 1985.

"I believed her (Laura McClelland's) testimony, basically yes, but I do not believe the government proved the facts sufficiently to convict him," said juror Bill Pierce.

The Panama Canal was officially opened in 1914.

Go easy with shin splints

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm 70 and have had two recent attacks of shin splints. Ice packs and pain killers helped, but what can I do to prevent recurrence?

DEAR READER — Shin splints are painful shins caused by strain of the leg muscles that attach to the tibia (shin). When these muscles are stretched, as in sports activity, some of the fibers tend to pull away from the tibia. Ice and rest can help alleviate symptoms. However, to prevent recurrence, you will have to discontinue brisk walking or running until your pain disappears, then begin an exercise program of increasing walking (or jogging) after a suitable period of daily stretching and warmup.

Shin splints are more common among people who exercise on hard surfaces, such as roads and packed gravel. Try to walk and run on grass until your legs become adapted to the increased activity. In addition, make sure that you wear shoes with adequate ankle support and soft, resilient soles.

If these measures aren't successful, check with your doctor to make sure that you don't have a stress fracture or circulatory insufficiency that could be a source of leg pain.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My dermatologist says that facial masks are fine for cosmetic purposes only and don't really penetrate or affect the skin. However, the local beauty-parlor folks insist they are necessary twice a week for deep cleaning. What's your opinion?

DEAR READER — I side with your dermatologist. The beauty-parlor folks make a good deal of financial profit by offering this service; therefore, they are not likely to discourage you from having facial treatments. As long as you accept the fact that facial masks are used purely for cosmetic purposes — and even this conclusion is in doubt — it's OK to have them. However, don't be conned into believing that they are necessary for "deep cleaning" or for healthy skin. Mild soap and water is just as effective — and a lot cheaper.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Twice now, I've had Novacain for tooth extractions. Each time, I've had a bout with Bell's palsy. Is there a connection?

DEAR READER — Bell's palsy is a paralysis of the facial nerve, the branches of which are present in the cheeks near the gums. During the injection of Novocaine, your dentist may inadvertently be numbing parts of the facial nerve. Share your concerns with him or her so that the needle will be placed especially carefully in the future.

Nation's only AIDS hospital to close its doors in Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Losses of $8 million are forcing the nation's first AIDS hospital to close, leaving patients with the deadly disease worried over where they will go for treatment.

Some of the 350 patients at the Institute for Immunological Disorders say they will go to charitable hospitals or AIDS hospices once the institute closes within 12 months.

Officials of American Medical International, who manage the hospital, announced Thursday they were phasing out programs and services at the facility opened last September because of substantial losses caused mostly from providing indigent care.

Chris Kihnel said he has liked the care he has received as a patient at the institute.

"The difference here is the kind of care you get, the compassion. They don't treat you like a leper," he said. "They treat you like you only have maybe only a short time to live."

Dr. Earl Shelp, from the Baylor College of Medicine and on the Clergy Council of AIDS, said he was saddened and angry the hospital is closing.

"The sadness stems from the prospective loss of hope and research drugs to people who are fighting (AIDS) and the anger from the deceiving attitude with which people with AIDS are met in this city," he said.

"I really think that the city of Houston should hang its head in shame, that the research, enterprise of competency and comprehensiveness that has been undertaken at the institute is jeopardized. We have the largest medical center in the world here in this city and to have AIDS research or research against the disease which is probably the most threatening disease known to humanity totally removed from Houston is an embarrassment and a great source of sadness and shame."

Al Guy said now that the AIDS hospital is closing he has no idea where he will go for treatment since he has no insurance.

"Now if I get sick I'll have no where to go. If I have to go to Ben Taub (Hospital) or Jefferson Davis (Hospital), I'm not going to do it," Guy said of the two Harris County hospitals. "I will stay home and die first."

AIDS hospital spokeswoman Ann Wheeler said patients are being advised of the closing and being counseled on where to go.

"The patients are our primary concern. We began meeting with them and with their families to assure them that minimal disruption to their care will occur. Each patient will be assigned to someone to work with him or her to develop an individual plan for transition as necessary," she said.

The decision to close the hospital came after months of discussions between AMI and the University of Texas System, spokewoman Carol White said.

When the facility in north Houston opened, AMI agreed to operate it and UT agreed to provide the physicians.

An agreement, approved in June 1986, required either side to give 12 months notice to terminate the arrangement if the hospital could not be operated on a sound financial basis.

"After about 10 months to 11 months of operation, we're going to have a loss of $7 million. At the end of fiscal year Aug. 31, we expect an $8 million loss," Ms. White said. About $5 million of that loss is attributed to indigent care, she said.

When the hospital opened, $250,000 was earmarked for indigent care, but by March, $3 million had been provided in free care. In March, the hospital announced it would stop admitting indigent patients.

Studies have indicated the cost of treating one aquired immune deficiency syndrome patient for one year is about $40,000.

Since the hospital opened, there have been about 700 patients, 350 are current and most are out-patients, Ms. White said.

The hospital is equipped with 150 beds, but handles only about a dozen in-patients on a daily basis, Ms. White said.

The hospital also began laying off staff in March.

With the closure, 120 employees will be affected, but Ms. White said efforts will be made for the employees to transfer to 11 other AMI hospitals in the Houston area.

Tuitions to rise faster than inflation for 7th straight year

NEW YORK (AP) — College tuitions this fall will rise faster than the inflation rate for the seventh-straight year, according to a survey that also found the annual cost at one elite school reaching more than $19,000.

The tuitions will rise an average 8 percent at four-year private schools for the third-consecutive year and 6 percent at public, four-year institutions, according to The College Board survey released Thursday.

The 6 percent figure matched last year's rise at the public schools, but was less than the 9 percent increase in 1985-86.

The overall inflation rate, as measured by the Consumer Price Index, has risen at a seasonally adjusted 5.4 percent rate in 1987 and stood at 4 percent or less every year since 1982.

"There they go again, and again, and again. When will they ever stop?" said Education Secretary William Bennett, a critic of rising college costs, when told of the findings.

College Board president Donald M. Stewart said, "The College Board does not collect data on why tuition and fees are rising, but other investigators point to the considerable increase in the price of goods and services purchased during the 1980s such as books, faculty salaries and scientific equipment."

Among the hardest hit will be out-of-state students attending public universities where surcharges will rise an average 7 percent, to $2,367 at four-year schools, and 10 percent at two-year public colleges, to an average $1,811.

The University of Michigan, for instance, will cost Michigan residents an estimated $7,526, but $13,098 for out-of-state students, including a $5,572 surcharge.

The total tab for out-of-staters at the University of California-Berkeley will reach an estimated $12,184, including a $4,284 surcharge. Total costs at the Colorado School of Mines will reach $8,274 — $13,796 for out-of-state students.

For many other students, the latest cost survey is a respite from the double-digit increases of the early 1980s. In the peak year of 1982-83, average rates rose 20 percent at public colleges and 13 percent at private schools.

Calculating average college costs under a new method that takes each school's enrollment into account, the board estimated average "fixed charges" at private, four-year schools — tuition, fees, room and board — at $10,493.

Counting expenses such as books, supplies and transportation, estimated annual costs rise to $11,982 for students living on campus, and to $10,173 for commuting students.

Students should "not be scared off by the cost," said Richard Rosser, president of the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, which represents more than 800 private institutions.

Surveys of average tuitions "have to be taken with some caution because the real question is the student's interest in the college and university, and whether he can find a way to attend that school," Rosser said in a telephone interview. The bottom line, he said, depends on the aid package available at each school.

At four-year public institutions, tuition, fees, room and board will average $4,104 for in-state students. Adding incidental expenses increases the estimate to $5,789 for resident students, and $4,554 for commuters.

Fixed charges at private two-year institutions will rise by 6 percent to $6,945 but will reach $8,305 for residents, and $6,737 for commuters counting incidental estimated expenses.

At public two-year colleges, average tuition and fees will increase by 5 percent to $687, but the total annual tab hits an estimated $3,889 for commuters counting board expenses, books, transportation and other expenses. The study gave no comparable estimates for resident students because the sample was too small.

Bennington College, in Bennington, Vt., remains the nation's most expensive college, as tuition, fees, room and board will reach $17,990 in 1987-88. Counting incidental expenses, total costs for a year at Bennington will hit an estimated $19,390, according to the survey.

Other schools where total estimated costs will top $18,000 include Sarah Lawrence College, Barnard College, University of Chicago, Columbia College, Harvard-Radcliffe College, Dartmouth College, Tufts University, and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Crippled girl will receive new legs

BOSTON (AP) — A crippled Ecuadoran girl, whose parents nearly cast her into a jungle bonfire because of her deformed legs, has undergone surgery that will allow her to walk for the first time in her life.

Maria Andy, rescued shortly after her birth seven years ago by two Roman Catholic nuns, was listed in fair condition today, a day after surgeons at Children's Hospital amputated her twisted and useless legs at the knee.

She will be fitted with artificial limbs.

"She says she wants nice legs so she can wear red shoes and dance," Rosa Mino, Maria's guardian, said before the surgery. "She's not nervous. I've been telling her all this time she'll have beautiful legs. She's excited about her new legs."

The guardian said Maria seemed pale after the surgery. "I have to concentrate on getting her back to Ecuador and getting her walking," she said, breaking into tears.

Dr. James Kasser, who performed the operation, said Maria was comfortable after the surgery. She should be able to leave the hospital within a week, he said.

Kasser estimated that Maria will learn to walk on her new legs within three months. Doctors plan a second operation to correct a spinal deformity in six months, he said.

After rescuing the infant Maria, the nuns took her to an orphanage in Quito, Ecuador, where she became the best student in her class and was chosen the 1987 poster child by Por Cristo (For Christ), a charitable medical group.

Por Cristo paid for Maria to travel to Children's Hospital.

Chris D'Entremont, a spokeswoman for Por Cristo, said the amputation was deemed necessary after Por Cristo workers found Maria's legs too twisted. Her leg muscles are almost non-existent.

"The nuns in the orphanage didn't have enough medical knowledge to let her do exercise," Ms. D'Entremont said.

Since her arrival in Boston on May 29, Maria received physical therapy to exercise the muscles in her back and legs, which are twisted from severe scoliosis, curvature of the spine.

The physical therapy Maria received at the Braintree Hospital and the Braintree Rehabilitation Center strengthened her thigh muscles enough so that doctors think she will be able to walk with artificial legs.

Dr. Martin Dunn, a founder of Por Cristo, said Maria is "a real extrovert, always with a beautiful smile and very intelligent, tops in her class in the first grade back in Ecuador."

Dunn said orphanage officials recently located Maria's parents, but they reiterated they wanted nothing to do with her.

Southern Methodist will open its records

AUSTIN (AP) — Attorney General Jim Mattox says he hopes Southern Methodist University's decision to open its pay-for-players football scandal records to state investigators will help to speedily resolve his inquiry.

Mattox, an SMU law school graduate, said he and the university "would like to conclude this messy episode as expediently as possible so that the university may go forward with its fine educational programs."

"The more information made readily available to us, the quicker we can conclude our investigation," he said in announcing that SMU would make available all information and investigative records in its possession.

Mattox on Thursday also said he has extended until Aug. 20 his deadline on a request for investigative information gathered by a committee of United Methodist Church bishops who released a report on the scandal June 19.

The attorney general launched his probe after the bishops' report about the affair that led to SMU's banishment from intercollegiate football.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association's "death penalty" for SMU, a one-year ban, was the harshest ever handed down to a collegiate football program. SMU later decided to scrap football for a second year as well.

Under state law, the attorney general is charged with protecting the public interest of charitable trusts such as SMU.

Although SMU is a private institution, Mattox is particularly interested in $863,013 that was paid to former Athletic Director Bob Hitch, former football coach Bobby Collins and Henry Lee Parker, a former assistant to Hitch.

"I believe SMU is attempting to cooperate with our investigation. Attorneys and investigators from my charitable trust section will begin the process of reviewing SMU's investigative information next week," Mattox announced.

"We also are hopeful that the university will comply with our request for access to the reams of materials gathered by the bishops' committee since the committee was established at SMU's direction," Mattox said.

Mattox was notified of SMU's decision Thursday in a letter from incoming president A. Kenneth Pye, who takes over Aug. 17. "I wish to make it clear SMU does not desire to conceal any information relevant to your inquiry," Pye wrote.

However, questions remained about information compiled by the Methodist bishops for their June 19 report, Mattox aides said.

That report unleashed renewed criticism of Texas Gov. Bill Clements, who said that while serving as chairman of the SMU Board of Governors he authorized continued payments to players after an earlier NCAA penalty.

Elna Christopher, spokeswoman for Mattox, said the material compiled for the bishops' report isn't formally in the school's possession but in the hands of lawyers.

The bishops' attorney, J. Chrys Dougherty, said earlier this week that while the university could be compelled to turn over its materials, the bishops could not.

NEWS RELEASE

The Snyder Police Association and Snyder Firemen stand by statements made in the August 3, 1987 City Council Meeting.

The preliminary investigation conducted by the City Manager, John Gayle, does not accurately reflect the statements made by the firemen. Within the investigation firemen were asked to agree or disagree with a prepared statement. This prepared statement did not reflect their views. The firemen did not sign the prepared statement. Using the option to prepare their own statement the firemen wrote the following statement, sent to Mr. Gayle by the firemen as a response to the investigation. This response the city manager obviously failed to consider valid or relevant! You decide.

Dear Sir,

The paid firemen have been asked to make a statement regarding the validity of the statements made at the August 3, 1987 city council meeting. The statements made at the council meeting were correctly expressed.

We, the paid firemen, feel that the news release prepared by your office was incomplete. Although we agree with the basic context of your news release, we feel that our views were not fully expressed.

Even though Chief McDowell did not tell any of the paid firemen they would lose their jobs, outside sources made it plain that serious repercussions would occur if we participated in the promotion of Civil Service or any controversial issues.

Respectfully,

The Snyder Paid Firemen
