Farm Boy Plans 4th SpaceTrip

By PAUL RECER
Associated Press Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston AP—Thomas P. Stafford has been to the moon and back, talked with presidents and premiers, written complex textbooks and was elevated to the rank of general in the U.S. Air Force. But he still calls himself "an Oklahoma farm boy."

The 44-year-old astronaut is a veteran of three space flights and is about to go up again - this time as American commander for history's first international space rendezvous and docking mission.

A unique, complex and colorful man in a profession that often produces stereotypes, Stafford can be a stern military man or the life of the party. A skilled public speaker, he cursed in awe when he flew around the moon as the whole world listened in.

Stafford, a bald-headed six-footer who enjoys fine long cigars and smokes them by the dozen, has disciplined himself to conquer a lifelong tendency to gain weight. He remains at a trim 175 pounds.

Stafford was born in Weatherford, Okla., and spent much of his youth working on nearby farms. His father was a dentist.

An exceptional high school student, he earned appointment to the U.S. Naval Academy and was graduated in 1952, ranked 36th in a class of 783. He took his commission in the Air Force and developed into a gifted pilot.

He served as a fighter interceptor pilot in Germany and subsequently was named to the Air Force Experimental Flight Test School. He stayed on as an instructor and later wrote two textbooks which became required reading for test pilot trainees.

When Stafford turned 30, an event his wife called "sort of a trauma," he began looking for new challenges. He applied to the Harvard Graduate School of Business and to the astronaut corps.

He had been at Harvard for three days when the space agency called. He left school and joined the fledgling group of spacemen. In December 1965 Stafford and Walter M. Schirra flawlessly scaled one of the major hurdles of America's race to the moon.

The two astronauts guided their Gemini 6 spacecraft to the world's first space rendezvous with the orbiting Gemini 7 craft, a complex and difficult task that was basic preparation for a moon landing.

Six months later Stafford commanded Gemini 9 in his second space flight. He and astronaut Eugene Cernam conducted three rendezvous with an orbiting rocket and returend to earth just four-tenths of a mile from their landing target point, the closest touchdown of any manned flight.

It was a major career disappointment for Stafford when he was chosen to command Apollo 10, a critical dress rehearsal for the first lunar landing, rather than the moon mission itself. Stafford and Cernan dipped a lunar module to within 50,000 feet of the moon in a test for the later landing.

In 1973 Stafford was named commander of the Apollo-Soyuz Test Project designed to link in orbit a Russian and an American craft.

"If we can work together on a very difficult task...then there's probably many other problems we can solve by working together," Stafford says of the project. "It's really a demonstration to the world."

Stafford says his current mission may be his last, but he does not know what he will tackle next. Politics was suggested at one point by some of his friends back in Oklahoma, but "it wasn't my idea...I turned it down."

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, June 30, the 181st day of 1975. There are 184 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1946, the third atomic bomb was dropped - in a test over U.S. ships anchored at Bikini in the Marshall Islands.

On this date:

In 1777, British forces in the Revolutionary War evacuated New Jersey, crossing to Staten Island, New York.

In 1834, the Indian Territory was created by an Act of Congress.

In 1859, 5,000 persons watched as the French acrobat, Emile Blondin, crossed Niagara Falls on a tightrope.

In 1934, Adolph Hitler began a purge in Germany, getting rid of hundreds of Political and military leaders.

In 1936, Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia pleaded before the League of Nations in Geneva for help against Italian invaders.

In 1950, President Harry Truman announced he had ordered U.S. troops stationed in Japan to help South Korea repel North Korean invaders.

Ten years ago: Communist Guerrillas made a surprise penetration attack on the Da Nang Airbase in South Vietnam, killing one American and destroying three planes.

Five years ago: A picture-telephone service was inaugurated in Pittsburgh.

One year ago: Twenty-four young people perished in a fire at a discothetique in Port Chester, New York.

TOP COURT RULES

Defendants May Conduct Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today that criminal defendants have a constitutional right to represent themselves and reject court-appointed counsel for their trial.

In a 6-3 decision, the court overturned a California Court of Appeal ruling that a defendant had no right to act as his own advocate.

Today was the final day of the court's 1974-75 term. The 1975-76 term is scheduled to begin Oct. 6.

In other action, the court:

—Ruled unanimously that the Border Patrol may not stop vehicles in border areas at will, but must have reason to suspect the vehicle contains aliens who are in the country illegally.

—Held unanimously that a 1973 ruling prohibiting warrantless searches by roving patrols who do not have probable cause to believe that aliens are present also applies to fixed checkpoints not actually on the border or its "functional equivalent."

—Agreed to review a New York state law requiring persons who quit work to wait 75 days before applying for welfare.

—Declined to consider whether the constitutional right of privacy protects the exhibition and viewing of sex films in a motel room. The court let stand the conviction of Joseph Antico — owner of a North Hollywood, Calif., motel — on a charge of showing an obscene film on a closed-circuit television circuit at his motel.

"The question is whether a state may constitutionally hail a person into its criminal courts and there force a lawyer upon him, even when he insists that he wants to conduct his own defense. It is not an easy question, but we have concluded that a state may not constitutionally do so," Justice Potter Stewart wrote for the majority.

He noted that federal law specifically provides that defendants in federal trials may represent themselves and said the Sixth Amendment right to counsel assures defendants in state courts the same privilege.

Lone Star Gets Dime Rate Hike

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Railroad Committion today gave Lone Star Gas Co. part of the increase it had sought for natural gas distribution charges.

The commission set residential and commercial rates at nearly $1.04 cents per thousand cubic feet ($1.0399), or nearly a 10-cent hike from the rate set May 2. The company had sought an increase to $1.21.

Spokesmen for Lone Star's nearly four million customers in 470 cities told the commission Friday they wanted to hold the rate at its current 94.19 cents per thousand cubic feet.

"We're satisfied with the (May 2) order like it is—we don't want any change," Dallas City atty. Alex Bickley told the three-member commission.

The $1.04 rate is approximately 30 cents more than Lone Star estimates it pays for a thousand cubic feet of gas.

SOLAR POWER MAY HELP

Changes Urged In US Energy Research

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal energy researchers told Congress today that solar power may be of major potential use in the 21st century but that the nation will still be importing oil until at least 1985.

The Energy Research and Development Administration, in a report titled "Creating Energy Choices for the Future," said a number of energy alternatives must be pursued to allow sufficient margin for inevitable failures.

The report also said throwing all support toward a single target, such as nuclear power or creating synthetic fuel from coal or oil shale, even if successful, would not solve the nation's energy problems.

Dr. Robert C. Seamans Jr., the head of ERDA, told reporters he could place no pricetag on energy development through the year 2000.

While establishing different energy priorities for near-term, mid-term and long-term, the report said five changes in U.S. energy research, development and demonstration must be made quickly:

—Emphasize solving technical problems that now are inhibiting expansion of current energy sources, especially coal plants and light-water nuclear reactors.

—Stress energy conservation, especially in autos, buildings and industrial processes.

—Add solar power to breeder reactors and fusion power in the category of energy from virtually inexhaustible sources.

—Accelerate commercial capability in synthetic fuel production: the extraction of gaseous and liquid fuels from coal and oil shale.

Observing that the United States has already gone through 60-year cycles of shifting primary fuel dependency from wood to coal to oil and gas, the report set these priorities for future use:

—Near-term, present to 1985: Expand present coal, nuclear, gas and oil systems through new sources and better recovery from existing sources.

—Mid-term, 1985 to 2000: Accelerate new means to get synthetic fuels from coal and shale; increase utilization of underused fuel forms such as geothermal energy and solar heating; recover energy from waste heat.

—Long-term, 2000 and beyond: Draw energy from an inexhaustible source such as solar power, fusion or nuclear breeder reactors; develop technologies such as electric vehicles to utilize such energy.

At all of these stages, energy conservation should be pursued, the report said.

The report said that, if these research and development goals are sufficiently achieved, the nation would enjoy energy independence, maintain a healthy economy, pursue life styles unfettered by energy scarcity, contribute to world stability and protect its environment.

112th Death Makes Crash Worst

NEW YORK (AP) — The death of the 112th victim has made the crash of an Eastern Airlines 727 jetliner near Kennedy International Airport last Tuesday the worst single plane disaster in the United States.

The worst previous single air line crash in the United States occurred in 1971, when an Alaska Airlines 727 crashed near Juneau, killing 111 persons.

A spokesman for Jamaica Hospital, where the male victim was being treated, said the man died at 6 p.m. Sunday. He was the only survivor still unidentified.

Twelve other survivors of the crash remain hospitalized.

The cause of the crash still has not been determined.

The Federal Aviation Administration said it would make public today the tape and transcript of the conversation between the tower and the cockpit.

Pope Paul VI, in an address to about 100,000 persons in St. Peter's Square in Vatican City on Sunday, expressed sorrow for the crash victims, who included the parents and two uncles of a Roman Catholic seminarian he was to ordain.

He noted that the relatives of the student, Millard Boyer, had planned to fly on to Rome for the ordination. Asking the crowd to pray for Boyer and his relatives, Pope Paul said, "This tragedy will not be in vain for the transcendental ends of our ceremony."

The death toll from the crash had risen to 111 Saturday with the death of Tina Dispenza, 7, of Baton Rouge, La.

AT SECOND AUCTION

Early Gold Bids Below Market Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government opened bids today on a second chunk of its gold hoard being auctioned to keep dollars in the economy by curbing demand for imports of the precious metal.

Promptly at 11 a.m. EDT, George Jamison, director of stockpile sales for the General Services Administration, stood up at a long table in a government auditorium with a gold-colored carpet and began reading off more than 700 bids for 500,000 ounces of the gold.

Officials expected the task to take all day. That meant the successful bidders and bidding prices would not be announced until Tuesday.

Most of the early bids were clustered at $151, well below the market price of $166 to $167 on U.S. and foreign exchanges.

The officials first opened the bids which had arrived by mail, leaving for later in the afternoon the bids from bankers and industrial users who had filed their offers at the last minute.

It is the second auction since last January when U.S. citizens were permitted to own gold for the first time in over 40 years. Officials have made some modifications in the latest auction in an effort to eliminate some of the problems which cropped up in the Jan. 6 auction.

The government offered two million ounces for sale then in the midst of predictions that buyers would stampede to buy gold. But the stampede never materialized, and the government was able to sell only 754,000 ounces at the initial auction.

This time, the government will specify at the start of the auction the minimum price it will accept. The price is to be pegged at or near whatever the market price is at the time.

In addition, the gold is being offered in bars as small as 250 ounces. At the first auction buyers had to purchase at least 400 ounces.

The sale will involve only a small portion of the government's official gold holdings, which amount to about 276 million ounces. The gold is valued for official purposes at the price of $42.22 an ounce. But at the closing market price of about $165 an ounce on Friday, the stockpile would be worth $45.5 billion.

CRACKDOWN SET ON FRAUD

Welfare Recipients Need Social Security Numbers

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 11 million welfare recipients are required to furnish their Social Security numbers to state agencies beginning Tuesday in the newest federal crackdown on welfare fraud.

New applicants for Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC), running at better than 90,000 persons a month recently, must provide their Social Security numbers as a condition of eligibility.

Those already on AFDC rolls will have to provide the numbers within the next six months, as states routinely verify their eligibility to continue receiving public assistance.

Welfare recipients who do not have Social Security numbers will be helped by the states to obtain them after evidence of age, identity and citizenship or alien status is furnished.

U.S. Welfare Commissioner Robert B. Carlsen said the requirement will make it more difficult for welfare mothers to apply for public assistance for children who don't exist and assist state agencies in keeping track of the fathers of welfare children.

Another new law going into effect Tuesday requires states to determine the paternity of welfare children, locate the fathers and collect child support payments. States which do not have an adequate parent locator system in operation by 1977 risk the loss of 5 per cent of the federal share of AFDC money.

President Ford has on his desk a congressionally approved measure giving the states another 30 days, to the end of July, to file plans for such parent locator systems. The original deadline was Tuesday.

The law also gives HEW access to once-confidential files of the Internal Revenue Service, the Social Security Administration, the Pentagon and the Veterans Administration to find the last known address and place of employment of deserting welfare fathers.

The government estimates that 1.3 million absent fathers are costing taxpayers $1.3 billion a year for support of their children.

The 25 million Americans receiving free or low-cost Medicaid health care also will be asked to furnish their Social Security numbers but, under a provision of the federal Privacy Act, the numbers can be required only in the handful of states which had such a requirement in effect before Jan. 1, 1975.

AFDC or Medicaid assistance cannot be delayed pending issuance or verification of Social Security numbers, HEW said.

OF EMERGENCY IN INDIA

Mrs. Gandhi Tightens Rule

By MYRON L. BELKIND
Associated Press Writer

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi further tightened her emergency rule in India today, authorizing police to make arrests without telling their prisoners why.

The ordinance, issued in the early morning hours by President Fakhruddin Ali Ahmed, said arresting authorities need only make a declaration that the detention is necessary for dealing with the emergency declared by Mrs. Gandhi last Thursday.

Issuance of the order underlined the concern with which the 57-year-old prime minister views persisting opposition to her refusal to resign and her arrests of non-Communist leaders opposing her stay in power. The first known anti-Gandhi protest in New Delhi took place Sunday. Police swinging bamboo staves waded into demonstrators and crushed it quickly.

The new ordinance empowers authorities at all levels to make arrests under the emergency powers, which already allow police to jail troublemakers without trial and bar prisoners from appealing to the courts.

But if the arrests are made by local authorities, they must be reviewed by state officers within 15 days and confirmed as necessary. They must be reconfirmed at four-month intervals, the ordinance said.

The original emergency decree provided that prisoners must be told the grounds of their arrest within a few days.

Censorship was imposed under the Defense of India Rules when the state of emergency was declared. With the exception of dispatches based on government briefings, reports by foreign correspondents must be submitted to authorities for scrutiny and written authorization before they can be sent abroad.

Only scattered outbursts have been reported since the government proclaimed a state of emergency last Thursday, arrested hundreds of opponents of the prime minister and imposed censorship. A government spokesman said the country was generally calm, and there was no indication that the anti-Gandhi movement had gotten off the ground.

Before their arrest, Jayaprakash Narayan and other leading opponents had called for nationwide demonstrations Sunday which they hoped would culminate in a civil disobedience campaign patterned on those Mohandas K. Gandhi and Jawaharlal Nehru, Mrs. Gandhi's father, led against the British.

Their goal was to force the prime minister to resign because of a partially adverse ruling against her by a Supreme Court justice. The judge ruled that she could continue as prime minister while appealing her conviction for campaign law violations, but she could not vote in Parliament.

Equalization Session Set

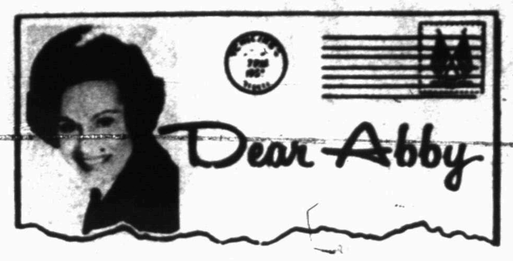

The county commissioners will meet as a board of tax equalization at 9 a.m. Tuesday in the Commissioner's Courtroom on the second floor of the Scurry County Courthouse.

Man Injured In Oilfield

An unidentified oil field worker sustained serious injuries in an industrial accident about 10:15 this morning some 25 miles northeast of town.

Police said an ambulance was requested at an oil rig northeast of town. An employe of Galyean Ambulance Service said he was told the man was crushed between a truck and a steel ramp.

He was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Galyean Ambulance Service for emergency treatment.

Daughter Unwelcome As Third Party in Dad's Romance

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 24-year-old, self-supporting career woman. My parents are divorced, and I share a two-bedroom apartment with my father.

We get along very well. At least we did until this problem came up. My dad has a girl friend. She and Dad sometimes go off together for weekends. I am a big girl, and I know they sleep together, which is none of my business. However, my dad tells me that his girl friend refuses to spend the night at his apartment as long as I am there, so I am sent away to spend the night elsewhere whenever he wants her over.

I didn't mind it occasionally, but now it seems that every weekend I'm getting kicked out of my own apartment.

My dad says he wouldn't mind if I stayed, but his girl friend does.

What do you suggest I do? Should I have a woman-to-woman talk with her? She is 33; Dad is 46.

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: Forget the woman-to-woman talk. She's embarrassed, and I don't blame her. I think it's time you moved out and got your own apartment.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is that I am a girl who is very much in love with a gay guy. We live together and get along beautifully. We like the same things, go everywhere together and have straight as well as gay friends.

He says that one day he will probably go straight because he wants to raise a family. He often talks about getting married (to me), but the talk never leads to anything definite.

I understand his past, and it doesn't bother me.

Do you think I am foolish for waiting for him to go straight? And once he goes straight (if he ever does), will he stay that way? Or would I have to worry about his going gay again?

TROUBLED IN TRENTON

DEAR TROUBLED: If he is sufficiently motivated, with therapy and determination, he could possibly go straight — and stay straight. But the advice from here is: Don't marry him until he IS straight and you're convinced that he's straight for keeps, which could be a long wait.

DEAR ABBY: My girl friend and I are both 20. We plan to get married in three months, but we have a problem.

My girl friend has a child by a previous marriage, and she wants to wait until after we are married to tell my parents about it. She says she's afraid if my folks know about it now, they won't like her.

I say she should tell them now — before we get married. What do you think?

CHILD PROBLEM

DEAR PROBLEM: I agree with you. There is no reason for her to try to hush up a previous marriage and child. If she does, your parents will feel betrayed and will not like her for certain.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Two Hurt In Mishap Here

Warren Harding Badger, 54, Del Norte Courts, and Iva Mary Martin, 51, 1408 Avenue K, both sustained minor injuries in a two-car collision at Nineteenth Street and Avenue M at 2:32 p.m. Saturday.

Badger was driving a 1968 Model Buick and the women was driving a 1969 Model Ford at the time of collision.

Police also investigated another two-car collision at Twenty-fourth Street and College Avenue at 10:33 a.m. Saturday. Involved were a 1972 Model Lincoln driven by Yvonne R. Overton, 2900 Thirty-fourth Street, and the 1975 Model Oldsmobile of Danny Earl Boger, Colorado City.

Reminder On Fireworks

Chief of Police Bill Stone today reminded local and area residents that it is unlawful to discharge fireworks within the City limits. He said Police had received a number of complaints over the weekend.

Stone said City Ordinance No. 71 states: "It shall be unlawful to cast, throw or fire any squib, rocket, cracker, torpedo, grenade or other combustible fireworks of any kind in the city."

The chief said the law provides up to a maximum $200 fine upon conviction.

"Violators will be prosecuted," he said.

Vandals Are Active In City

Vandals struck in Snyder over the weekend.

Someone threw a rock through a window of the caboose of an east bound Santa Fe Railway Co. train Sunday night.

A rock was thrown through a window at Al's Truck Service, 1605 Avenue R, Saturday night. Saturday morning, someone threw a rock through a window at Allen's Texaco.

Police are investigating the incidents.

Boaters are reminded that under law it is illegal to tie up their boats to buoys or channel markers.

Tornadoes Hit North Dakota

Four tornadoes slashed through North Dakota Sunday night killing one person and injuring four, as furious summer weather struck in the Northern Plains.

One twister swept through the southwestern part of the state, tearing a 30-mile path of destruction. One person was reported dead on arrival at a hospital in the town of Hettinger. Hettinger County Sheriff Earl Kramer said a tornado, which hit about 9 p.m., ravaged several farms and killed many cattle.

Two trailer homes also were destroyed, as was numerous farm equipment, said Kramer.

The vicious winds were accompanied by thunderstorms and hail the size of golf balls.

Meanwhile, the season's first tropical storm—Amy—moved northeast across the Atlantic at about 10 miles per hour. At 6 a.m. EDT today, Amy's gale winds extended 125 miles the north and east. The center of the storm was reported about 260 miles northeast of Cape Hatteras, N.C., at latitude 35.7 north and longitude 70.8 west.

Scattered showers dampened the Northern Rockies in the early morning, while thunderstorms and showers hit much of the central Appalachians, the upper Mississippi valley and the southern Atlantic coast and parts of the Southeast into Texas and Oklahoma.

Houston, Tex., recorded 1.75 inches of rain late Sunday and early today.

Elsewhere, a cloud cover blanketed most of the Plains to the Pacific coast.

Temperatures at 2 a.m. ranged from 41 at Kalispell, Mont., to 88 at Needles and Blythe, Calif.

Search For Slayers Continues

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (AP) — The FBI has no positive identification on the 16 persons sought in the shooting deaths of two agents on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation, but "we have a pretty good indication of who they are," a spokesman said.

Spokesman Thomas Coll said Sunday that more than 150 agents were searching the rolling, rugged hills of the reservation, the second largest in the country, for the 16 persons believed to have been involved in the deaths of agents Ronald Williams and Jack Coler.

Williams and Coler, both 28, were gunned down Thursday afternoon as they attempted to serve federal warrants on four men. One of the four, Teddy Paul Pourier, was arrested earlier Thursday at his home. Another, Herman Thunder Hawk, was arrested Saturday near Murdo, about 100 miles from Pine Ridge.

Remaining at large were Robert Horse and James Eagle.

Coll said the two agents were shot when they attempted to serve the warrant on Eagle.

The body of an Indian, identified Sunday as Joseph Bedell Stuntz, 24, of the Lapwai Agency in Coeur d'lene, Idaho, was found at the shooting site. Coll said Stuntz was wearing a coat belonging to one of the slain agents.

As the FBI continued a search of the area and conducted interviews with the Oglala Sioux who live on the reservation, a number of residents signed a petition asking the agents to leave.

Residents of the community of Oglala said Sunday they did not want the FBI to continue its activities on the reservation. Coll said the bureau had not seen the petition and that agents would continue their search until the 16 persons are found or until it is determined that they are not on the reservation.

Youths Held On Drug Counts

City Police arrested four local youths in the 3900 block of College Avenue at 9:50 a.m. Sunday. They said charges of illegal possession of marijuana would be filed against them today.

Scientists Eye Plains Soil Changes

LUBBOCK (AP) — Scientists are researching chemical changes in the soil profile on the Texas High Plains to determine adjustments in fertilizer applications.

"It's definitely changing, but we don't know at what rate nor what adjustments we should make in fertilizer applications from year to year," said Dr. Art Onken, a soil chemist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Factors that change the soil include residue from the 600,000 tons of fertilizer placed each year the High Plains, moisture, weather, and nitrogen movement to depths that makes fertilizer ineffective.

Over a long time, soil can change so that application of amendments, which improve its chemical conditions, is of little value. Onken and his assistant have described and developed procedures for measuring nitrogen changes, and will study phosphorus buildup next.

These factors are the two most limiting plant nutrients, Onken said.

Other scientists are researching plant nutrient requirements and peak fertilizer efficiency levels for major crops of the High Plains in cooperation with farmers and county extension agents, Onken said.

Fertilizer needs on major soil types are correlated with High Plains crops by using information from more than 200 tests and parts of seven research projects. Scientists refine the correlations because of changing plant requirements, soil conditions, weather factors and cultural practices.

Fertilizer recommendations are made based on a soil analysis using this information and yield potential, Onken said. Soil should be tested periodically because it changes with each crop grown.

"Over a long period of time, fertilizer use on the High Plains will become more efficient, stimulating higher yield, greater economic returns and reaping additional related benefits," he said.

Jobless Law To Be Extended

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is signing a bill extending the law that provides jobless workers with up to 65 weeks of unemployment compensation.

The law expires today and, without the extension, workers would be eligible to collect benefits for only 52 weeks. About 250,000 persons would lose payments.

The new bill also provides 39 weeks of benefits to workers not covered by state unemployment compensation insurance - mostly state and local government employes, farmworkers and household domestics.

The bill signing today begins a busy week of work, politics and travel for the President.

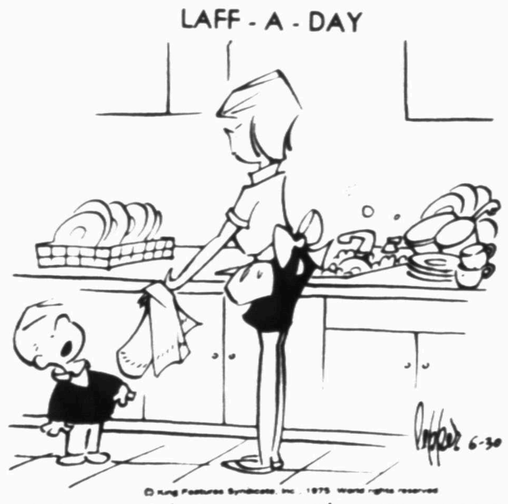

Also on the schedule today was a White House ceremony in which Daniel P. Moynihan will be sworn in as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

The new $61,000 White House swimming pool, built on the grounds behind the West Wing, is expected to be ready for the Ford family on Tuesday. Workmen were busy over the weekend filling the pool and landscaping the area around it.

Tips For Traveling With Young Children

COLLEGE STATION—Parents can help make vacation travel with young children a pleasure rather than a hassle, Mrs. Ilene Miller, family life education specialist, said this week.

"Whether the vacation involves a trip to the lake, Gulf Coast, or a visit with relatives, chances are part of the traveling will be by automobile," the specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, noted.

She suggested some ways for making travel with young children more enjoyable for everyone.

"Tell the children in advance about trip plans. Let them know where they will be going and what the family will be doing. If possible, involve the children in planning some of the activities for the trip."

Plan with the children for travel time. Consider which of their favorite toys can be safely used in the car, what activities would they like to do.

"Young children will be excited about plans for a trip. They may also become upset sooner and tire more easily. A good travel schedule should include plenty of short rest stops so children will not become too restless.

"Plan to stop for meals as close to your family's regular mealtime schedule as possible. Stop early enough to get the children clean and relaxed before supper and then into bed at about their normal bedtime," the specialist advised.

To complete vacation plans, include a first aid kit, thermos jug of water, nutritious snack foods and a dampened washcloth for clean-up, she advised.

MACARONI AND CHEESE

It's neither dry nor very saucy.

5 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt

2½ cups milk
2 cups grated (medium-fine) sharp cheddar cheese

Melt the remaining 3 tablespoons butter; off heat stir in the bread crumbs; sprinkle over macaroni. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven about 30 minutes. If topping is not as brown as you like, place under the broiler, but make sure the baking dish you are using is broiler-proof. Makes 4 very large or 6 medium servings.

Chemist Extracts Protein From Oats

RACINE, Wis. (AP) — In the continuing quest for new sources of protein, a University of Wisconsin chemist has developed a method of extracting protein from oats.

Wisconsin Agriculturist, a rural magazine, reports that Vernon Youngs is able to extract protein from oats by a simple method in which water is the only chemical used. Youngs hulls the oats and then mills them into four and bran. He then makes a water slurry of the oat flour and the bran and centrifuges the mixtures. Each yields a high protein layer of more than 50 per cent protein, which could be used to fortify snack foods and bread. A side benefit is a residue bran that is about 19 per cent protein and could be used in breakfast cereals.

Banana Frisbies Are A Good Cookie Catch

Can people still afford special, scrumptious cookies?

Yes, they can, and bananas are the answer.

Packaged commercial and bakery cookies have gone sky high, often vanishing from the shopping list of many consumers, but home-baked cookies when made with carefully selected ingredients are still much cheaper than the bought kind.

Banana cookies are luscious, moist and chewy, and such a favorite flavor. Check out the price of bananas at your market.

The Banana Bunch, industry-sponsored center for consumer information, reminds us that bananas are an excellent value in season all year around.

Banana Frisbies are a big fun cookie. They're festive – just as frisbies are – and you can make them small as well as in large sizes. These are the kind of big, frolicsome, old-fashioned cookies that you can usually buy only at expensive specialty stores but you can make them at home at reasonable cost.

Another great favorite among specialty cookies is the kind baked in a pan and cut into squares for eating. Banana Peanut Bars belong in this category and are they good! The bananas help keep them moist so that they can be stored in squares, in a cookie tin, ready for the lucky snack set at your house. These cookies would cost ever so much more in a baked goods department than they do made at home, and the flavor, of course, is the fabulous homemade kind.

In these days when high food prices have trimmed so many goodies from the menu, it's nice to know that homemade snacks can restore the cookie to its rightful place in family fun and nutrition.

BANANA COOKIES—Cookies to relax by are Banana Frisbies and Banana Peanut Bars made at lower cost than the store kind because bananas are in the batter.

Stevenson To Be Buried Today In Hill Country

JUNCTION, Tex. (AP) — Former Texas Gov. Coke Robert Stevenson, whose political career was overshadowed in 1948 by Lyndon B. Johnson, was to be buried this afternoon on his Hill Country ranch not far from Johnson's grave.

Stevenson, governor from 1941-1947, died in a San Angelo hospital Saturday of complications following abdominal surgery two weeks ago. He was 87.

Funeral services were set for 4 p.m. at the First Methodist Church in Junction.

Stevenson lost to Johnson, then a congressman, by 87 votes in the 1948 Democratic primary for the U.S. Senate. The true vote count was not known for weeks—if it ever was known.

The biggest controversy was over now-famous ballot box 13, which mysteriously surfaced two weeks after the election—stuffed with 202 votes and its polling lists missing.

The box came from a precinct in Jim Wells County of South Texas, then ruled by political kingpin George Parr, an ally of Johnson and known as the Duke of Duval County until his death earlier this year.

The box gave Johnson an 87-vote margin in a election which saw more than a million votes cast. Stevenson claimed some of the names came from "Jim Wells County tombstones."

The State Democratic Executive Committee ratified Johnson as the party's nominee by one vote and the U.S. Supreme Court let the decision stand. Johnson was represented in the proceedings by a young lawyer named Abe Fortas, whom Johnson later appointed to the Supreme Court.

Stevenson never really forgave Johnson after that disputed election.

Twenty-one years later Stevenson was asked if he was bitter toward Johnson.

"I am not bitter at anything," he said. "I have had no contact with Johnson since that time — just don't have anything to do with him and he doesn't with me. Not really bitter.

"I just thought Lyndon's always been..." His voice trailed off and he politely changed the subject.

Stevenson, a tall, lanky, rawboned figure, was born in the harsh county of rocky hills and mesquite in 1888. He was self educated, teaching himself bookkeeping and later the law.

He was elected Kimbell County attorney in 1914 and county judge in 1918.

Voters sent him to the Texas House of Representatives in 1928 where he served 10 years, including two terms as speaker.

In 1938 he was elected lieutenant governor and became chief executive in 1941 when Gov. W. "Pappy" Lee O'Daniel succeeded the late Morris Sheppard in the U.S. Senate.

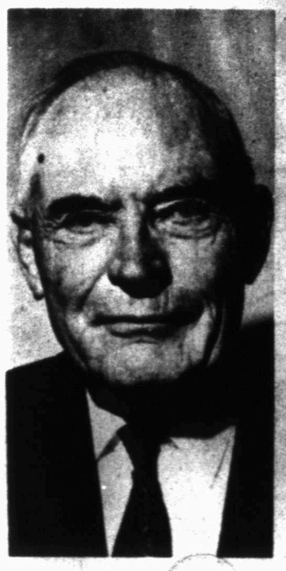

He guided Texas through World War II, emphasizing a conservative fiscal policy. He took the state from a $35 million deficit to a $35 million surplus during his seven years as governor.

After his loss to Johnson, he retired to his 15,000-acre ranch, declaring in later years he was no longer a "brass collar Democrat." It is there he will be buried, about 65 miles west of the LBJ Ranch.

His first wife, the former Fay Wright, died in 1942 and he married Mrs. Marguerite King Heap, a widow, in 1954. She was with him when he died. He had a child by each wife.

Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe praised Stevenson on Saturday as "one of the greatest and most effective governors...a man whose service to the state will be appreciated more as each year goes by."

Associate Texas Supreme Court Justice Price Daniel Sr., a former governor also, said Stevenson's death was "a great loss to all of us who had the privilege of working with him." Daniel was House speaker when Stevenson was governor.

Amputees Rebuilding Their Lives

TRACY, Minn. (AP) — Bob and Lavonna Radke, turned into amputees after being trapped in the "blizzard of the century," are rebuilding their lives together, aiming for a home of their own.

The young couple was stranded in an automobile for 36 hours last January during a vicious snow storm the National Weather Service called the worst of the century. Their legs were so badly frozen that each of them had to have both legs amputated above the knees.

"Sometimes we can't remember what is fact or fancy of that time in the blizzard," Bob said.

The couple spent three months in St. Paul-Ramsey Hospital and then moved in with Bob's parents, Harold and Kay Radke.

"Harold and I decided that the kids needed to start doing things to help themselves. That's part of their therapy," said the elder Mrs. Radke.

So Bob, 23, is learning the car repair business from his father, and Lavonna, 26, is learning how to do dishes and operate a vacuum cleaner again — this time in wheelchairs.

Both Bob and Lavonna hope to be fitted soon with artificial legs.

"Like Humpty Dumpty, I have to try and stand on my stumps and balance, so I won't fall either way. That's the first step toward getting fit with artifical legs," said Lavonna.

The couple had been married just six months when the storm struck, so they say they need time to again learn living alone together.

"Maybe that will be the real story — how we are able to live day by day without someone to push or carry or help us," Bob said, with Lavonna adding: "In our own place again."

Chances For Showers Prolonged

By The Associated Press

A combination of more daytime heating and a mass of unstable tropical air stalled over Texas prolonged chances for more showers and thunderstorms today.

Before sometimes heavy showers tapered off during the night, Hondo measured 1.95 inches of rain in 38 minutes and Houston received 1.75 in six hours. Smaller amounts of rain and occasional hail dotted other areas in parts of West Texas and across the east half of the state.

By this morning skies were cloudy to partly cloudy over Southeast and South Central Texas and mostly clear except for a few patches of high clouds in other sections. Near daylight a few showers cranked up again near Del Rio and Eagle Pass, extending across the border into Mexico.

Dr. Lamb

Alcohol won't help diabetes

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am 37 years old and have had diabetes since 1968. I have been going to several doctors, always trying to avoid the insulin injections which I fear fiercely. I have been on pills to control my blood glucose.

The doctor I am seeing now says there is only one thing left to do if this doesn't bring the blood sugar down, and that is the needle. I don't want to start that because I will have to take it the rest of my life.

Since October my blood test results have been 220, 289 and 283. Then I joined Weight Watchers and from December 26 to January 21 it dropped to 209.

Now I am having trouble with my driver's license. The doctor won't sign a statement on uncontrolled diabetes. I asked him what my blood sugar must be before he will sign the card so I could get my license back and he said 120. Don't you think this is unfair? I have had this for seven years and not had any dizzy spells or blacking out. Do you think I should go to some other doctor who might give me a better break?

You have a column once that mentioned a certain kind of alcohol which would drop the blood sugar. What was it?

Also, is losing weight a definite answer to a safe and sure way of bringing the blood sugar down? Or is there still a possibility of having to take insulin? Is being depressed and losing your temper connected with diabetes?

DEAR READER—The kind of alcohol that drops blood sugar is the kind you mix in cocktails or get in beer. It acts by chemically tying up an important enzyme in the liver (NAD) used to convert food stores to glucose. It won't help you though, and will make your diabetic problem worse. I don't approve of alcohol for diabetics.

I do approve of your effort to lose weight, if you have any obesity problem at all. Many overweight women will have normal blood sugar tests after they get down to normal weight. I usually consider a good diet and correction of any obesity the first step in treatment of the obese patient with high blood sugar levels. Diet alone usually is as useful as the pills. It requires more effort, but if you want to avoid that needle, I'd recommend being conscientious about getting your weight under control.

Exercise also lowers blood sugar. A good exercise program, done sensibly, might help with your diet program.

Those high blood sugar levels you have indicate that the liver is converting more food to glucose than your body uses, not just that you have a problem in absorbing too much sugar.

For more detailed information on diabetes, write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019 and ask for the Health Letter number 3-11. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents for mailing and costs.

Severe diabetics may still need insulin even when they are not obese. They have a different problem and loose enormous amounts of calories through the excess glucose eliminated in the urine, unless they are properly controlled by insulin.

I'm sure your doctor is trying to encourage you to do the best thing for your overall health. You can help by following a good program and working hard on the diet aspects of your problem. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Forsberg Recaptured By FBI

BEND, Ore. (AP) — Floyd Clayton Forsberg, accused in one of the century's largest bank robberies, has been recaptured by the FBI after escaping from jail.

Forsberg fled from the Washoe County jail in Reno, Nev. in April. He had been awaiting trial on a charge of armed robbery in the holdup of the First National Bank of Reno on Sept. 27, 1974 in which more than $1 million in cash was taken.

Forsberg, 33, and two other men were accused of walking into the bank and staging the robbery during the din of the annual Shriners' parade. Curtis Michaelson, 36, pleaded guilty to an armed robbery charge on June 2. Edward T. Malone, 50, was found innocent on a similar charge June 10.

Agents said Forsberg was recaptured without violence on Sunday. They said he was arrested at the Bend Riverside Motel by about a dozen agents who had quietly evacuated the occupants of nearby rooms in the motel. Arrested with Forsberg were his wife, DeEtta, 54, and Clark Gable Timmons, 30.

Mrs. Forsberg is charged with harboring a federal fugitive, perjury, receiving and concealing stolen bank bonds and bond default. Timmons is charged with unlawful flight to avoid federal prosecution in a drug case.

Haas Wins NCAA Title

By GEORGE STRODE
AP Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It took a more flamboyant teammate to explain why reserved, easy-going Jay Haas is college golf's 1975 national champion.

"Jay always has been a good player. He just hasn't won anything. Now he has a title to put behind his name," said Haas' Wake Forest teammate, Curtis Strange, winner of the same honor a year ago.

Haas contends the individual National Collegiate Athletic Association title wasn't on his mind until the final holes Saturday at Ohio State. Then he bore down and won with a final 70 for a 72-hole total of 282, a scant one-stroke margin over Alabama's Jerry Pate. Strange was another shot back at 284.

"Jesse Haddock, our coach, says if you play for the team, the individual honors will take care of themselves," said Haas, a 21-year-old junior from Belleville, Ill.

"Our team spirit is unbelievable. The last few holes I knew we had the team title locked, so I worked on the individual thing," said Haas, who clinched the championship with a four-foot par putt on 18.

With the fine finishes by Haas and Strange, who had the tournament's best round of 67, Wake Forest rolled to its second successive team honor. The Deacons, with four players totaling 1,156 strokes, breezed to a 33-shot victory over runnerup Oklahoma State with 1,189.

Southern California and Alabama shared third at 1,190, Brigham Young was fifth at 1,194, East Tennessee State sixth at 1,202 and Texas and Indiana tied for seventh at 1,204.

Haas two-putted the 510-yard 14th hole for a birdie four to break a tie at five-under-par with Pate. He never lost the lead, parring the last four holes.

The new champion admitted the tension was heavy playing with Pate in the final threesome, The two had shared low amateur honors in the U.S. Open the previous week.

"I was trying not to match up with Jerry. But it's hard not to when you're going head-to-head," Haas conceded. The big rivals did match closing rounds of 70.

Tied for fourth in the individual chase were Bob Byman of Wake Forest and Oklahoma State aces Lindy Miller, only a freshman, and Tom Jones. All had 290s. Next came Phil Hancock of Florida, the 1974 runnerup, at 291.

Lightning Hit 3 Golfers

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — George Johnson was just looking for an exemption and lightning-jolted Jerry Heard, fresh out of a hospital bed, was looking for the title going into today's weather-delayed, double-round, 36-hole windup to the $200,000 Western Open Golf Tournament.

But if conditions aren't right, Heard won't challenge.

"If I get tired in the first 18 holes, I won't play the second 18," Heard said Sunday after his gutsy 74 had put him within five strokes of the lead.

"And," he continued with a smile, "if there's a cloud in the sky, if it's just the tiniest little bit cloudy, I probably won't even hit it off the first tee."

Heard, Lee Trevino and Bobby Nichols were struck by lightning Friday in a violent thunderstorm that swept over the 7,002-yard Butler National Golf Club course. All were hospitalized for treatment and observaion and were released Sunday morning just before the delayed second round.

Trevino, the hardest hit of the three, and Nichols headed home immediately. Heard went to the tee.

"We're all okay," Heard said. "But the doctor told us that if we weren't young, strong men in good condition, it could have killed us."

Heard suffered burns on the inside of his legs.

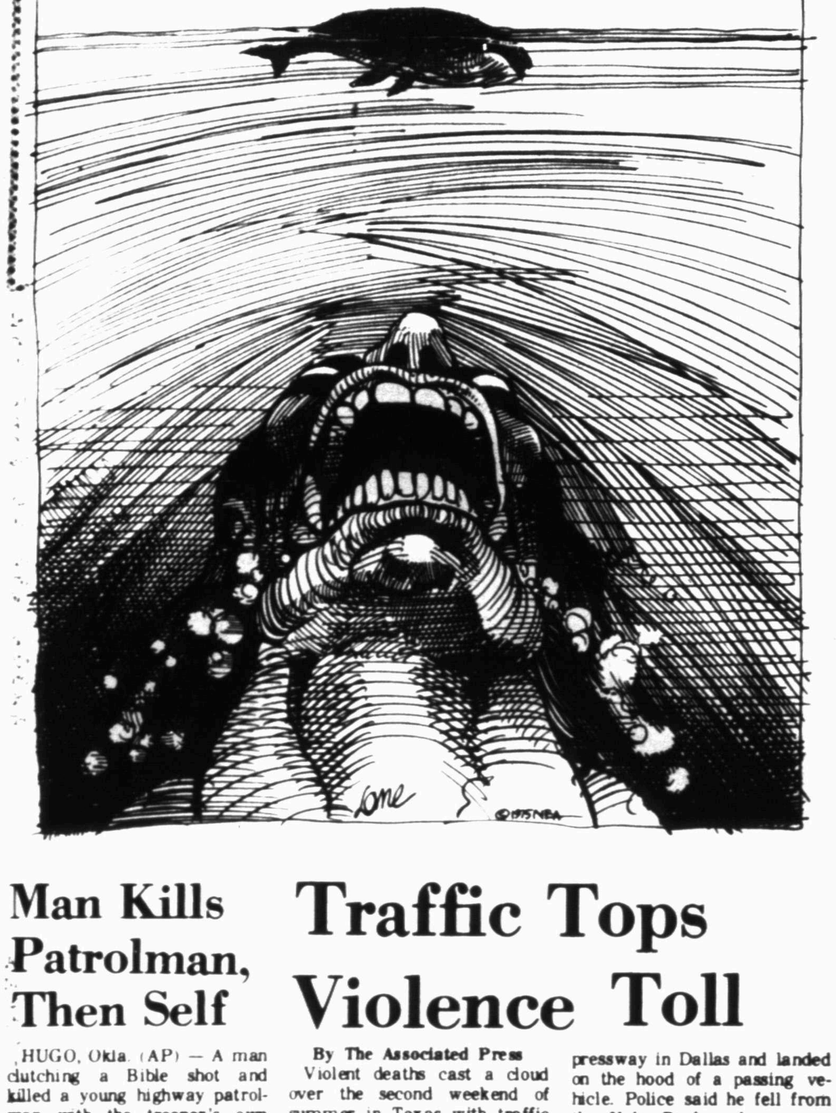

"I'll be walking like John Wayne for a few days, but other than that I'm fine," he said.

He said he chose to play because "the course is so tough, the scores are so high and I had a pretty good first round (a 69) and I thought I'd take advantage of the opportunity."

Man Kills Patrolman, Then Self

HUGO, Okla. (AP) — A man clutching a Bible shot and killed a young highway patrolman with the trooper's own gun, then shot himself to death as he fled, the patrol reported today.

There was no clear indication of what led Charles Roderick McAlpine, 22, of Houston, Tex., to shoot the trooper or himself Sunday, authorities said.

Trooper J. C. Magar, who turned 29 on Saturday, had given McAlpine and his wife a ride to Hugo, the patrol said. Magar was shot just outside the door of the city police station.

The patrol first said McAlpine was killed by bullets from policemen and deputies as he fled the police station. Today, however, the patrol said a man at a car wash across the street told officers he saw McAlpine put the trooper's pistol to his head and shoot himself as he fled the police station.

The only shot to hit McAlpine entered his left eye and exited the back of his head, a patrol spokesman said.

"From all indications, it would have had to be a self-inflicted wound," the spokesman said. "The police shots apparently didn't hit him at all."

Police reports gave this account of the incident:

Magar gave McAlpine and his wife, Irene, a ride to Hugo after the couple's car broke down on the highway. The trooper dropped the pair off at a carwash and then went to the police station.

McAlpine later appeared at the door of the station carrying a Bible over his chest. He asked Magar, who was was talking with police dispatcher Eunice Deupree, to make a telephone call for him and then grabbed the trooper's pistol from his holster.

McAlpine's wife then entered the station and called out to her husband: "Don't do it. Don't do it."

McAlpine, who said he wanted to be taken to the airport, held Mrs. Deupree, Magar and Mrs. McAlpine at gunpoint for several minutes and then ordered Magar outside.

Magar was shot as he stepped outside. McAlpine fled across the street into a parking lot and was shot by Choctaw County sheriff's deputies.

Mrs. McAlpine said later that the Bible her husband carried had been given to him by "the man who gave the lesson" at a church the couple attended earlier in the day.

She said her husband had been allowed to "give witness" at the church and read scriptures to the congregation.

McAlpine was arrested and jailed in Tulsa on Friday on charges of public intoxication by use of drugs. His wife paid $75 bond to have him freed. She said her husband had been "beset with personal problems for some time" and that she had been advised to have him committed. She said he did not have a criminal record.

Traffic Tops Violence Toll

By The Associated Press

Violent deaths cast a cloud over the second weekend of summer in Texas with traffic accidents, as usual, taking the heaviest toll.

Between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday The Associated Press tabulated reports of 19 fatalities—11 on streets and highways, three drownings and five from assorted other causes.

These were among the victims:

David A. Jaramillo, 17, of Amarillo drowned Sunday evening while swimming in a cove at Lake Meredith north of Fritch in the Texas Panhandle. Two companions went for help and divers recovered the body about two hours later.

Mae Foster, 85, of Dallas became the 74th person killed in that city's traffic this year. She was riding in a car which collided with another vehicle Sunday afternoon. Four other persons were injured.

Alvin S. Flinn Jr., 28, of Pasadena, Tex., was killed Sunday when the sports car he was driving hit a concrete guard rail and overturned on Interstate 45.

Alvin Kent, a ranch hand from Kent, was killed in a one-car rollover 12 miles west of Pecos Saturday night.

Rescuers were unable to revive Alan Peacock, 19, of Abilene, who drowned in a swimming pool there Saturday night.

Two persons died and seven others suffered injuries late Friday in a two-car collision on a Houston street. The crash killed Harry T. Johnson III, 27, driver of one car, and Jerome Smith, 35, a passenger in the other.

Mariano E. Fierro, 26, of Kermit, was killed Friday night in a car-truck accident 12 miles west of Langtry on U.S. 90.

Police said Lilie Cato, 36, of Carthage was killed Friday night when struck by a hit-and-run motorist in Tyler.

Betty Ann Davis, 30, was found shot to death in a Houston apartment late Friday, police said. Henry Johnson, 43, was charged with murder and held in lieu of $20,000 bond.

Roy Felder King, 51, of Alvin, was killed Saturday in a two-vehicle crash two miles south of Pearland.

Police questioned a woman about the fatal shooting of Joe Harris, 31, who was found dead on a country road near Rosharon Saturday.

Arthur L. Slider, 33, of Dallas drowned Saturday while swimming in Lake Ray Hubbard.

Police said an Oak Cliff man and his son were killed Saturday when a flash fire engulfed them in a Dallas garage as they were preparing for a fishing trip. They were William Woolridge, 61, and his son, Jerry Lee Woolridge, 32, of Roosville, Ga.

A Southern Methodist University English professor, Charles B. Oliver, 36, died Saturday of injuries suffered when he fell off an overpass on Central Expressway in Dallas and landed on the hood of a passing vehicle. Police said he fell from the Yale Boulevard overpass about 1 p.m. Friday.

Mrs. Cecil Gilbreath of Cookville was killed in a two-car accident Saturday about four miles east of Mount Pleasant.

Authorities said a Bogota youth was killed Saturday in the collision of a truck and a car south of Bogata on U.S. 271. Police identified him as Leslie Troutt, 17.

Harlingen police said one woman was killed and another injured Saturday when they stopped to look at an accident north of Sebastian on U.S. 87. The dead woman was Linda Gonzalez, 19, of Raymondville.

US Senators Reassures Soviet Jewish Activists

By FRANK CREPEAU
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — Leading Soviet Jewish activists said a two-hour meeting with visiting U.S. senators reassured them that Congress has not forgotten their plight.

"It was a very important meeting," said Alexander Lerner, who is prominent in the Jewish emigration movement. "I feel now our fate is in the right hands; it has given me a feeling of optimism and hope."

Lerner and 16 other Jews met Sunday night with 10 of the 14 senators who arrived earlier Sunday for a four-day official visit. The meeting in Sen. Jacob K. Javits' hotel room was the biggest gathering of Jews and members of the U.S. Congress ever held in Moscow, and what the senators were told could have an important bearing on future Soviet-American trade legislation in Congress.

Alexander Luntz, one of the Jewish leaders, said the senators "want to help us and at the same time get along with the Soviet Union."

"It was a very good meeting. They understood everything," said Vladimir Slepak, who for five years has been refused permission to emigrate.

Newsmen were barred from the meeting, but Javits, R-N.Y., and Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., said they wanted to find out the status of Jewish emigration from the Soviet Union.

The current rate of emigration indicates that only about 12,000 Jews will be allowed to leave this year, or about a third of the number in the peak year of 1973. The Soviets contend that the decrease is due to fewer Jews wanting to leave.

Javits, cosponsor with Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., of the amendment that blocked trade concessions to the Soviet Union until emigration restrictions are relaxed, said the Jews "made a very good case" that the drop in emigrations this year is due to a reduction in the number allowed to go rather than "a diminution of those who wish to emigrate."

The Soviet government rejected the Soviet-American trade bill last year on the ground that the Jackson amendment was unacceptable interference in domestic affairs of the Soviet Union.

While some of the Jews were trailed to the hotel by plainclothes police, there was no attempt to prevent them from attending the meeting.

Snyder Marine In Maneuvers

Marine Corporal Joel T. McCright, son of Mr. and Mrs. L.S. McCright, 3011 Avenue V, participated in "Agate Punch," a joint Navy and Marine Corps exercise off the East Coast. He is a member of Marine Air Group 29, which helped provide support to tactical maneuvers at sea and simulated assaults on beaches near the Marine Corps Base, Camp LeJeune, N.C.

The exercise, designed to test operational readiness and coordination of air, ground and sea-going units in the U.S. 2nd Fleet, involved 48 ships, 10 aircraft squadrons and 8,500 Marines.

McCright, who is homebased at the Marine Corps Air Station, New River, Jacksonville, N.C., is a 1972 graduate of Snyder High School. He joined the Marines in January of 1973.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth in a series of articles featuring highlights of the United States Army's 200 years of service to this Nation.

The first California to Hawaii flight, smallpox control in Puerto Rico, San Juan Hill and the Declaration of Independence all have something in common. What? They all took place between June 29 and July 5 during the past 200 years. Here they are:

June 29– On this day in 1927 Lieutenants Lester J. Maitland and Albert F. Hegenberger of the United States Army Air Service landed in Hawaii after completing the first Hawaii to California flight. The Army lieutenants flew from Oakland, California to Wheeler Field in Oahu, Hawaii. They covered the 2400 miles in 25 hours and 50 minutes.

On June 30, 1899, Colonel Hoff of the United States Army Medical Corps brought to a successful conclusion his efforts to control smallpox in Puerto Rico. The dread infection had devastated the island. The colonel, battling famine, pestilence and disease, developed enough smallpox vaccine to combat the plague. Because of his unstinting efforts, thousands of lives were saved and a dread disease eliminated.

Teddy Roosevelt's famous charge up San Juan Hill took place on July 1, 1898. Pinned down by enemy fire, a group of soldiers made a spontaneous drive. In short order, the entire infantry and cavalry, including Teddy's Rough Riders, charged up the hill to victory. It was this famous charge that helped catapult the Army Officer into the limelight and eventually the Presidency.

July 2, 1862– On this day the Land-Grant Act was passed by Congress. It was sponsored by Representative Justin S. Morrill of Vermont. Each state was given 30,000 acres of land for each senator and representative it had in Congress. The land was to be sold and the income used to establish agricultural and mechanical arts colleges and universities. One of the provisions of the Act was that Military Science and Tactics be included in the curriculum.

On July 3, 1776, General Sir William Howe landed on Staten Island with 9,000 troops. Howe offered the Colonials clemency if they would stop fighting, but refused demands for Independence. It may have been that Howe secretly sympathized with the Americans. There were several occasions when he did not take advantage of his opportunities to defeat the young Army. He resigned his command in 1778.

July 4, 1776– One hundred and 99 years ago the Declaration of Independence was adopted. It was in June 1776 that Richard Henry Lee presented a resolution to the Continental Congress that the colonies declare themselves Free and Independent of Great Britain. The declaration itself was written by Thomas Jefferson with slight alterations by John Adams and Benjamin Franklin. John Hancock was the first to sign the declaration. And, one of the great documents of history was born.

On July 5, 1779 British troops attacked and plundered New Haven, Connecticut. They took 45 prisoners before the Patriot Militia gathered enough strength to force a British retreat.

Beirut Street Fight Continues

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Street fighting continued without letup through the night in Beirut, raising the toll to 120 dead and 486 wounded since last Tuesday.

American and European residents were reported making evacuation plans after two Arab countries, Kuwait and Bahrain, advised their citizens to leave. However, there was no word of evacuation plans from the U.S. Embassy or other Western diplomatic missions.

Palestine guerrillas, other Moslem leftists and right-wing Christian militiamen turned residential areas into a holocaust of exploding mortar shells, machine-gun bullets, rocket grenades and dynamite blasts.

Bombs started fires that gutted commercial buildings in the central business district and wealthier residential neighborhoods in downtown Beirut and along the coast. All banks and trading firms were closed in the Middle East's biggest financial and commercial center.

Most city streets were blocked by armed gangs from one faction or another. Army troops guarded key government buildings, but there was no indication that they had intervened in the fighting yet. Previously only the police and paramilitary security forces accompanied the fighting. Previously only the police and paramilitary security forces accompanied.

Many Lebanese fled from the poorer Arab quarters in the eastern suburbs, the main combat zones.

Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam arrived for another attempt at peacemaking.

Rockets, mortars and automatic weapons could be heard throughout the city Sunday. Heeding radio warnings, most residents stayed indoors, leaving the streets to the battling leftist Moslem and conservative Christian gunmen and the security forces trying vainly to check them.

Perique Tobacco Crop Down

GRAND POINT, La. (AP) — Poor weather has destroyed nearly half of this year's crop of an exotic and distinctively aromatic tobacco that can be successfully grown only on a 400-acre plot near here, an agriculture official says.

County Agent Dan Fontenot estimated that this year's Perique tobacco crop will be down 40 to 50 per cent because heavy spring rains washed away soil from many of the plants' root systems, allowing the sun later to scald the roots and kill the tobacco.

Perique tobacco, which is exported to every continent in the world for inclusion in expensive tobacco blends, is successfully grown only on the sandy loam of St. James Parish (county).

Perique grown elsewhere does not have the distinctive flavor and aroma of the Louisiana tobacco, Fontenot said.

The agent said some of the crop has been harvested early this year because of the bad weather. The rest will be harvested in the next 2 to 4 weeks, he said.

Last year's crop was 158,500 pounds, which the farmers sold for $1 a pound. Perique tobacco is used mostly in blends and is not generally sold in retail stores.

McGovern Eyes Options Of Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George S. McGovern, who lost by a landslide as the 1972 Democratic presidential nominee, is weighing the option of running again for president in 1976.

In a letter sent last week to fewer than 50 of his key 1972 supporters, McGovern asked their advice on three options he is considering, including one of becoming a presidential contender.

However, the South Dakota Democrat said that, "as things stand now, I do not intend to become a candidate."

The other options listed in the letter were endorsing a liberal candidate or making a statement specifying what potential candidate would be unacceptable to him.

After his hard-fought battle for re-election to the Senate last year, McGovern said, "I am not going to be a candidate in 1976" for the presidency.

The letter sent last week said, "I am seeking your candid advice on a personal, confidential basis as to the best role I can play. Some have suggested that I endorse one of the presidential candidates in order to help a strong liberal emerge. Is this a good idea? What do you think of the present candidates?

"Others have urged I make clear now who is unacceptable as the Democratic presidential nominee — in short, that I identify certain candidates with whom we fundamentally disagree on either domestic or foreign questions.

"Finally, others are calling on me to consider entering the race myself and to enter primaries in states such as Wisconsin, New Hampshire, Massachusetts and New York."

An aide to McGovern who confirmed that the letter had been sent said that the option of becoming a presidential candidate "is not one he's thinking of very strongly."

McGovern carried only Massachusetts and the District of Columbia in his 1972 run against President Richard M. Nixon.

In his letter, McGovern said the Democrats are "failing to exert strong, effective leadership" in Congress.

US Trade Surplus Was Welcome And Surprising

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — For a very long time the only economic news we heard was bad — goals unmet, expectations unrealized, events failing to live up to forecasts.

Now the news is changing, and no one item represents a more interesting departure from the past mold than the latest figures for U.S. trade activity. A huge surplus, $1.05 billion, was reported for May.

Only a few months ago private and government trade officials were expecting a trade deficit, or that Americans would buy more abroad than foreigners spent here.

A large or continued outflow of this sort is of great significance because when a country regularly spends more than it sells it weakens its entire system. It lets its energy drain away.

It is little different from the typical householder's situation. If he runs a deficit for a year or two, living off credit, he might not get into trouble. There's no necessity to balance your books by the year.

If, however, he continues to live beyond his means, buying more than he produces in the way of a paycheck, he's headed for trouble. Eventually he'll have to pay those bills or buy less.

When a nation falls into bad habits of this sort a red light goes on in the international currency markets. The county is indicating weakness, and its currency becomes less desirable to hold. It drops in price.

If the situation isn't corrected the nation might be forced to devalue its money.

When the May trade figures were announced the trading world was encouraged, and the price of the dollar was bid up in foreign markets to its highest in several weeks.

Considering the forecasts of just a few months ago — that the nation would run a trade deficit — this news is extremely welcome and surprising. How did it come about?

Examination of the figures shows that the country imported 11.5 per cent less in May than in April, a reflection of the depressed state of economic activity to be sure, but overall, a healthy turn.

Unfortunately, but also reflecting worldwide recession, American exports also declined, but only by 5 per cent. On balance, the figures were decidely in favor of the United States.

While the figures already are interpreted as an indication of better U.S. economic health, some further evidence is needed that the situation isn't a short-term aberration.

For one thing, the decline in imports resulted mainly from a sharp cutback in oil purchases, a development that puzzles. It will take a couple of more months to confirm whether or not oil imports will remain lower than anticipated.

Nevertheless, it appears likely now that the United States will export more than it imports in 1975, which is a definite improvement over a trade deficit of $2.3 billion in 1974.

Traffic Not Only Hazard On '4th'

AUSTIN—This year the Fourth of July falls on Friday, making a fine three-day weekend for fun and games in Texas – and an exciting chance for Texans to test their survival training on the highways. For those who avoid or otherwise escape the traffic mayhem, Texas Safety Association sends a reminder that the long weekend offers a variety of other opportunities to get killed, drowned, burned, maimed, strained, poisoned or pulled up lame.

Take heat and sun. They can be killers while watching or participating in a parade or game – or simply working in the yard. Texans who want to be up and about on Monday should stay in the shade where possible, and avoid dehydration by drinking plenty of water, soft drinks or iced tea. The sun is especially hazardous to the sunbather – a painful, maybe disabling, burn, and in time (happy thought), skin cancers.

So try a picnic! Picnickers should be alert to the dangers of food poisoning, common in summer when luncheon meats, potato salad, etc. get warm in the sun and breed bacteria. Food should be kept in insulated coolers, set out on picnic tables only when it is time to eat, and the leftovers put back in the cooler promptly to protect those who want a late snack.

Another way to miss the call of duty on Monday is to engage in some strenuous, unaccustomed activity. The least you can expect are some strains and sprains; the "really big one" is a heart attack. It happens all the time, especially to folks over 40 who get carried away (sometimes literally). Cool it!

Texas Safety Association urges Texans to enjoy the Fourth of July holiday -- but stick around for Labor Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas, too, by using common sense in your activities.

Rep. Hutchison Elected Texas GOP Chairman

AUSTIN (AP) — Rep. Ray Hutchison of Dallas, touted as a man who can make Republicanism a viable force in Texas, was elected chairman of the state Republican party Sunday in a secret ballot by the state party's executive committee.

The secret ballot was requested by committee member C. R. Dollinger Jr. of Beaumont. He insisted on ballot secrecy because of what he called pressure from party leaders to vote for Hutchison over Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo.

"The majority feel that Ernie Angelo is the best candidate but the heat has really been applied to support Ray," Dollinger said.

The final tally of the executive committee gave Hutchison a 38-25 margin. The election was held to replace Tyler oilman Jack Warren, who resigned as state chairman.

Hutchison, 42, was described in nominating speeches as the man who could best articulate the state GOP's philosophy, obtain a forum in the news media and bring Texans into the party in a Democratic-dominated state.

Angelo, 41, appealed to the more conservative element on the committee with his open opposition of Vice-President Nelson Rockefeller. Hutchison steered away from an early stance on the presidential and vice-presidential nominations.

Hutchison, a bond lawyer, served as chairman of the House Constitutional Revision Committee this year and was credited with submitting to the voters a new document that is virtually the same one that failed by three votes in the Texas Constitutional Convention of 1974.

Hutchison's term runs until the party's September 1976 state convention. He says he will not seek another term in the House and denies seeking the party chairmanship as a base for a future race for governor.

He said after his election that he sought the job "because the people of this state are entitled to hear from us, to hear what is happening to them in a no-party state." He called the Democratic Party a mere "vehicle to get your name on the ballot. . . . It has no policy on anything that is consistent."

Sen. John Tower, national GOP committeeman Fred Agnich and Hutchison said they endorsed the party's new concentration on winning legislative and local offices instead of seeking statewide victories.

Hutchison had said last week that the party hopes to make a strong push in 1980, when there are no statewide races in Texas.

Tower, the party's only statewide officeholder in the state, said the philosophy of the GOP directing its efforts to local and legislative races represented a change in his beliefs.

"We must infuse life into our party at the grassroots level," Tower said.

Snyderites At Kiwanis Session

Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. McCloskey of Snyder were among 18,000 persons who attended the 60th annual convention of Kiwanis International on June 22-25 in Atlanta, Ga.

Delegates to the convention represented 280,000 Kiwanians in 47 countries. They elected new Kiwanis International Officers and trustees, passed resolutions upon which the organization's 1975-76 community service programs will be built, and amended the Kiwanis International constitution.

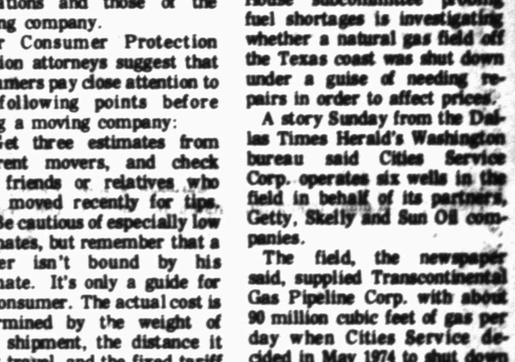

Crosby Hosts Bobcats Reunion

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Crosby has hosted a reunion of the Bobcats on the three Hudson River boatrides of the Newport Jazz Festival in New York, saying "You can tell which ones are the original Bobcats. They're the ones with gray hair."

But their playing hadn't turned gray, as they had.

Crosby sang one number, "Up the Lazy River."

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—One-fifth of our country's population moves each year, and one-fifth of those who employ a moving company may experience some damage or loss of belongings, according to Interstate Commerce Commission figures.

Summer is the "busy season" for movers, too, because many people move during the break in the school year, or on vacations. Our Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division already has received complaints from several consumers about movers.

Many complaints are concerned with "low-bailing," the practice of giving unreasonable low estimates to get your business, then charging more for the move.

Equally as frequent, though, are complaints about companies that refuse to compensate for loss or breakage to the extent desired by the consumer.

Some of these problems might be avoided it consumers planned a move carefully in advance, and if they familiarized themselves with their own rights and obligations and those of the moving company.

Our Consumer Protection Division attorneys suggest that consumers pay close attention to the following points before hiring a moving company:

Get three estimates from different movers, and check with friends or relatives who have moved recently for tips.

Be cautious of especially low estimates, but remember that a mover isn't bound by his estimate. It's only a guide for the consumer. The actual cost is determined by the weight of your shipment, the distance it must travel, and the fixed tariff rate for the two.

The mover will inventory your belongings before loading, but you must make sure a proper description of the articles and their condition is entered. This could be very important later in filing a claim in the case of breakage or loss.

If, when weighed, your goods will cost more than 10 per cent or $25 over the estimate to move, you must be notified. You can have them reweighed, but you may have to pay the cost of the reweighing if the weight difference is very slight.

Find out how you must pay for the move. Some movers extend credit. Others require cash, a certified check, money order, traveler's check or cashier's check.

Your goods are insured up to a certain amount by the mover, but this often isn't enough to replace or repair items, according to many consumers. It's often advisable to take out extra insurance.

Movers generally don't give specific delivery dates, but you should be sure somone is at the destination before the estimated delivery date. If not, your goods will be stored and redelivered, with you paying the cost.

When your goods are delivered, check everything before signing any papers. Note any missing or damaged items on the papers before you sign. Signing without inspecting can make it more difficult to collect any damages.

Movers can pay for or repair any damaged item, but action must be taken within 10 days of receipt of the claim.

If you have a problem with a mover, consult the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, your county or district attorney, or your local Better Business Bureau.

Gas Field Shut Down Is Probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee probing fuel shortages is investigating whether a natural gas field off the Texas coast was shut down under a guise of needing repairs in order to affect prices.

A story Sunday from the Dallas Times Herald's Washington bureau said Cities Service Corp. operates six wells in the field in behalf of its partners, Getty, Skelly and Sun Oil companies.

The field, the newspaper said, supplied Transcontinental Gas Pipeline Corp. with about 90 million cubic feet of gas per day when Cities Service decided in May 1974 to shut down the wells to repair 40,000 feet of corroded pipes. But the wells weren't shut down until six months later, and weren't put back into production until Jan. 20.

Transco, which serves a large part of the East Coast, was forced last winter to institute a 25 per cent cut in service to most of its customers because of tightened supplies.

A study by the staff of the House subcommittee said Cities Service could have done the work during the summer, since the materials were available then.

Bob G. Murphy, manager of production for Cities Service Gulf region, told the panel headed by U.S. Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., that the work was done a quickly as possible, considering the weather and a shortage of materials.

The staff produced material indicating Cities Service had pipe in a warehouse which could have been used to speed the start of the project, but Murphy said that pipe was of an improper grade.
