Poll: Residents favor military's gay ban

Eighty-three percent of the more than 2,500 Midlanders who called the Reporter-Telegram Cityline Community Pulse this week disapprove of President Bill Clinton's plan to lift the ban of avowed homosexuals from military service.

A total of 2,123 callers said "no" to the proposed executive order out of 2,560 callers, in the largest response of any issue posed in more than two years of surveying through the free telephone poll.

Among those expressing the majority viewpoint of the callers was Midlander Jere Hubbard. "It would be very detrimental to allow that sort of lifestyle into the armed services. It would not only be a security risk, but it would be extremely dangerous for the homosexual to be in the military," she said.

One of the 437 callers — 17 percent of the total — who favored lifting the ban was Maurine Carter, who said, "I believe that everybody, whatever they are, should be able to serve in the armed forces. Homosexuals are already serving and they do an admirable job, just as well as anyone else, and I can't see why all this hullabaloo is going on about it."

Many of the callers expressed the sentiment of Fred Fowler: "I believe that the homosexual lifestyle is not the moral equivalent of the heterosexual life-

No caffeine link

CHICAGO — Pregnant women can consume moderate amounts of caffeine without increasing their chance of miscarrying or stunting the growth of their fetuses, researchers say. A study of 431 expectant mothers found those who consumed up to 300 milligrams of caffeine daily — about three cups of coffee, seven cups of tea or eight cans of cola — had no higher rates of miscarriage or small fetuses than nonconsumers of caffeine./7A

Chief index flashes sign of recovery

■ Leading indicators send strongest growth signal in 10 years.

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The government's chief economic forecasting gauge jumped sharply in December, flashing its most positive signal for future growth in nearly a decade. Sales of new homes surged during the month.

The reports, both issued by the Commerce Department on Tuesday, are the clearest signs yet of continued economic growth past midyear.

"Even if the numbers are somewhat overstated, there's no question they show we have economic growth ahead of us," said economist David Berson of the Federal National Mortgage Association.

The Department's Index of Leading Indicators leapt 1.9 percent, the third consecutive monthly gain and the biggest increase since April 1983, when the nation was emerging from the last recession.

Meanwhile, new home sales shot up 6.3 percent in December to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 656,000, contributing to a 19.4 percent rise for all of 1992, the best in nine years.

The latest economic data came as the Clinton administration put the final touches on an economic stimulus package that many analysts argue is no longer needed.

A Democratic official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Tuesday that the package will consist of $16 billion in job-creating spending for the current fiscal year plus $15 billion in tax breaks to encourage businesses to in-

Clinton presses for $31 billion economic 'shot'

By Gwen Ifill
N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — Laying the political groundwork for economic battles to come, President Clinton has told governors and members of Congress that he wants $31 billion in new spending on jobs and on tax breaks for business this year to stimulate the economy.

Clinton also emphasized some domestic goals in a speech to the nation's governors Tuesday, asking them for help to restructure the welfare system.

To that end, he said that he planned to name a group to study the best way to make welfare a form of temporary support with the goal of limiting payments to two years. But he did not provide a schedule for putting his ideas into action.

Addressing the National Governors' Association in his first policy speech as president and meeting privately with congressional leaders in sessions that will continue today, Clinton embarked on a strategy to win support for the politically unpalatable choices he is likely to present in coming weeks on taxes, Social Security and the deficit.

Sides maneuver as murder trial nears

By Michael Kashgarian

Defendant is one of two men charged in brutal stabbing death of church secretary.

A district judge will probably wade through legal motions through the week in preparation for the upcoming trial of one of two men charged in the brutal stabbing death of a church secretary on Nov. 13, 1991.

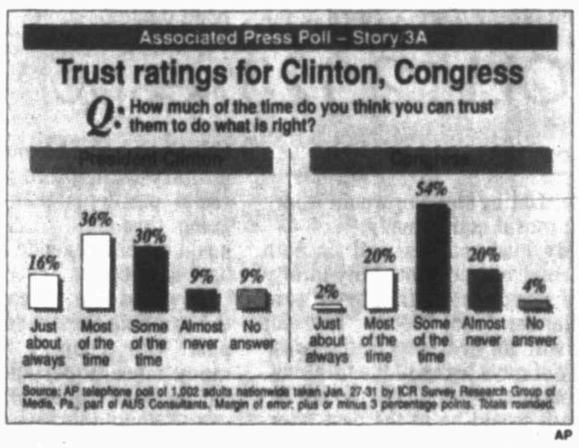

Pre-trial hearings for Curtis Dean Purser, 20, continued Tuesday before 238th District Court Judge John Hyde.

At one point in the hearings, Purser, dressed in dark blue jail garb and wearing ankle shackles, with his mother watching, appeared indifferent to the proceedings.

Defense attorneys want the judge to prohibit certain evidence — including statements made by Purser — in the upcoming trial and have challenged the indictment on the basis of alleged lack of minorities on the grand jury.

Various jurors have testified about the composition of the grand juries. District Clerk Vivian Wood testified that grand juries are chosen with a balance of race and

Willie Nelson, IRS strike a chord

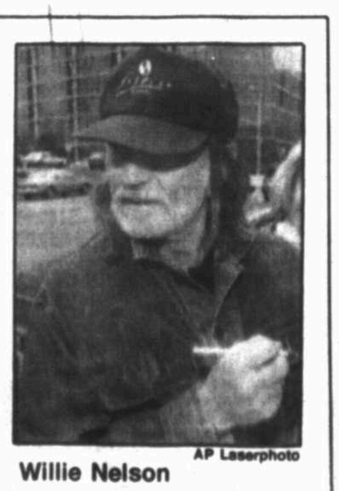

AUSTIN (AP) — Willie Nelson and the Internal Revenue Service, an odd duet for the past three years, agreed Tuesday to a $9 million settlement on nearly $16 million in back taxes and penalties owed by the singer.

"I'm on the road — still," said a smiling Nelson, playing off of his famous tune "On The Road Again."

"It's fantastic. I can't explain it. It'll take awhile for it to sink in," said Nelson, who worked double time over the past year to help pay off his debts from several failed tax shelters.

Role-reversal plan to aid four city utility employees

Four city utility workers are among the first employees who will benefit from an internal movement encouraging hands-on participation toward city policies.

The workers, who live with their families in four city-owned houses near two Midland County well fields, have asked city officials to make several repairs on the dilapidated structures.

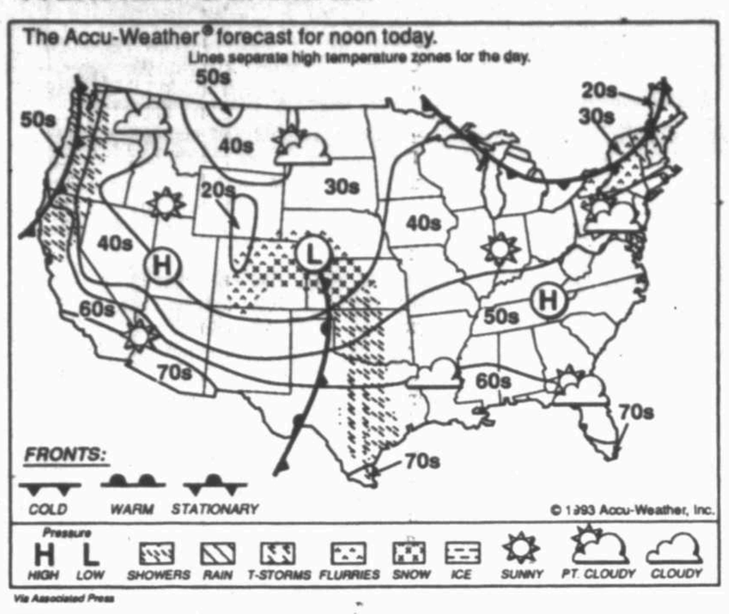

"There is no insulation, bad siding and the families were sick," said Susan Thorpe, assistant city manager. "They were losing productivity."

City officials, initially wary of budget constraints, agreed that renovating the homes would cut expenses over five years.

WEATHER SUMMARY

Expect more sun, low 60s

Staff report

Today's forecast calls for mostly sunny skies with a high in the lower 60s and southeast winds at 5-15 mph. Tonight should be partly cloudy with a low in the lower 30s, according to the National Weather Service in Midland.

Thursday should be partly cloudy with a high near 50.

After an overnight low of 34, Tuesday's high reached 67, compared to the record high for that date of 79 set in 1932. The record low of 10 was set in 1972.

STATE

Gulf moisture moved into South Texas, producing low clouds and light rain throughout the area Tuesday.

Mid-afternoon temperatures were in the 50s in the rain-cooled areas and in the 60s elsewhere. Winds were from the east southeast at 5 to 10 mph.

Low level moisture also continued to increase across the western two-thirds of North Texas because of the sustained south to southeasterly wind flow in the area. The Piney Woods of Northeast Texas remained under the influence of a weak ridge of high pressure

The National Weather Service said more rain is likely today with highs in the 60s and 70s.

Fog is expected in southern reaches of West Texas today, and there is a slight chance of rain or snow in the Texas Panhandle. Highs in West Texas are expected to range from the mid-30s in the Panhandle to near 70 in the Big Bend.

Afternoon temperatures Tuesday in West Texas ranged from 57 at Guadalupe Pass in far West Texas and Dalhart to 69 at Childress.

A trough of low pressure continued to deepen over the Panhandle, with showers and thunderstorms developing along and near a dry line that extended from north of Altus, Okla., southward to near Childress.

The Associated Press contributed to this report.

ECONOMY: Leading indicators send signal vest in more equipment.

At the White House, Press Secretary Dee Dee Myers said President Clinton was encouraged by the rise in the leading index "but feels very, very concerned about a recovery without a recovery in job growth."

Despite the strongest economic growth in four years during the October-December quarter, the nation's unemployment rate in December was 7.3 percent, less than half a percentage point below the eight-year high of 7.7 percent in June.

"A jobless recovery is not acceptable to the president," said economist Robert G. Dederick of Northern Trust Co. in Chicago.

At the same time, the administration is trying to put together a long-term plan to trim the budget deficit and federal borrowing, a step that should reduce long-term interest rates such as mortgage rates.

Treasury Secretary Lloyd Bentsen, in a speech to department employees, emphasized deficit cutting and noted that interest on the $4.1 trillion national debt is the second fastest growing spending category.

"We have to put an end to that. We have to get control of our own economic destiny. That's what we're committed to," he said.

Nine of the index's 11 leading indicators were positive in December. In order of their contribution, from largest to smallest, they were:

- A 14 percent jump in consumer confidence levels as measured by a University of Michigan survey.
- A drop in the average weekly number of unemployment benefit claims from 372,000 to 334,000.
- An increase in new orders to factories for consumer goods.
- A rise in contracts for business equipment and new commercial buildings.
- A slower drop in the backlog of unfilled orders at factories.
- An increase in building permits.
- An advance in stock prices as measured by the Standard & Poor's 500.
- A tenth of an hour increase in the average workweek of factory workers to 41.3 hours.
- A slowdown in delivery times of goods, a sign that businesses are less easily meeting demand.

Two indicators were negative. The inflation-adjusted money supply declined and the price of raw materials edged down, a sign of lax demand.

The various changes left the index at a seasonally adjusted 153.0, up 5.7 percent from a year ago and 3.2 percent from three months ago.

The leading index is designed to predict economic activity six to nine months in advance. Economists look particularly to the index's trend, taking three consecutive monthly movements in the same direction as a fairly reliable indication of what's ahead.

The December rise was preceded by a 0.7 percent advance in November and a 0.5 percent gain in October.

Because the relatively upbeat economic growth prognosis is balanced with a continued concern about jobs, many analysts are predicting the Federal Reserve Board will make no change in short-term interest rates at least for the next three to four months.

A central bank policy-making panel, the Federal Open Market Committee, was meeting behind closed doors Tuesday and Wednesday to map interest-rate policy for the next six weeks and set money-supply growth targets for the year.

PRESSES: Clinton seeks $31 billion 'shot'

(From 1A)

Even as Clinton made his rounds Tuesday, the economy showed signs of rebounding on its own as consumer confidence strengthened. The government's chief economic forecasting gauge, the Index of Leading Indicators, had its biggest gain in nearly 10 years in December, and statistics showed that home sales had also increased markedly last year as interest rates fell.

White House officials said the positive economic news was welcome, but would not deter Clinton from trying to stimulate the economy further with spending programs that could stymie his attempts to reduce the budget deficit.

George Stephanopoulos, the White House communications director, said that the good news had not extended to jobs. "We need to have long-term job growth," he said. "We need an economy where incomes are growing."

Clinton did not discuss the costs associated with his plans in his meetings with lawmakers Tuesday. Many senators have said they would fight any proposals for an energy tax and cuts in Social Security benefits.

Instead, Clinton altered his plan of inviting lawmakers to the White House in favor of making a trip to Capitol Hill that lent symbolic heft to his pledge to work with Congress.

After a week in which Clinton was forced to battle members of his own party over whether to allow homosexuals to join the military, he appealed today to his fellow Democrats for unity and for support for the economic program he will present on Feb. 17, according to lawmakers who were present.

"There was a very broad consensus about dealing with reality and getting the deficit down in a real way," said Sen. John Kerry, D-Mass.

Clinton is using this week to solidify support for his domestic program among political leaders who share some of his goals — the governors, who are holding their annual meeting in Washington.

They asked the president to increase spending on construction projects as a way of creating jobs and stimulating further investment.

In recent weeks, economists and administration officials have suggested they were considering economic stimulus packages worth anywhere from $15 billion to $60 billion.

Last week, after administration officials had suggested $20 billion as a likely target, Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan told Congress last week that he approved of the administration's plan to speed growth with short-term spending.

But as the date for submitting the package has drawn closer, officials have settled on a somewhat higher figure, divided roughly between spending and tax breaks. But they they warn every day that no final decision has been made.

"We generally agreed that if there is going to be a short-term stimulus in the $10, 20, 30 billion-dollar range," said Gov. Ben Nelson of Nebraska, "that it has to be something that can be done quickly, in 30- to 60- to 90-day period."

Clinton's proposal to restructure welfare, which would place a limit on how long recipients would get benefits without working and provide worker training for recipients, is particularly popular among state leaders in both parties.

"No one likes the welfare system as it currently exists, least of all the people who are on it," Clinton told the governors. "The taxpayers, the social service employees themselves don't think much of it either. Most people who are on welfare are yearnir ; for another alternative, aching for the chance to move from dependence to dignity. And we owe it to them to give them that chance."

During the campaign, Clinton said he would quadruple to $4 billion the amount the government spends on job training for welfare recipients and add $2 billion in tax credits for the working poor.

PLAN: Four city utility workers to benefit money through heating and air-conditioning gains. In five years the costs should be paid back," said Ken Jones, director of utilities. "In the past, whenever the budget gets tight, it's easiest to cut maintenance on those houses. As a result, it has become increasingly difficult to maintain the homes and they've become run down."

The new city program essentially reverses the traditional roles of city employees and their supervisors. Ms. Thorpe said the basic philosophy is to get city employees working together to establish goals for their department and the city in general.

"It's working well in the utilities (department) and the guys have got the spirit," Jones said. "I'm working on things like the Ivie pipeline and don't have time to know what's happening out in the field all the time. They are there to know what needs done."

Officials hope to have work finished at the two houses by the summer at an estimated cost of $10,000. Improvements include new siding on houses at Paul Davis and McMillen well field and a new roof at the other house at Paul Davis. Next year, the city plans to install a new furnace and air-conditioning system.

The purchasing department is currently soliciting bids for the work.

"Those men should be commended. They were not just looking at how to help themselves but also at how to benefit the city," Jones said. "They could have come in and demanded that all the work be done this year but they didn't."

Ms. Thorpe said there would be about 100 different work groups if all city employees participated in the program.

ethnic background, a cross-section of the county, age and gender considered.

If the court's schedule goes as planned, jury selection for Purser will begin Feb. 16 and is expected to last two weeks. Because Purser has been charged with capital murder, jurors must be interviewed one at a time by attorneys rather than as a group.

If found guilty of capital murder, Purser faces either the death penalty or life imprisonment.

A second man, Gerald Benjamin Kelly, 21, is a co-defendant for the same crime. Kelly will be tried on the same charges later this year.

The two men are accused of the murder and robbery of 28-year-old Brenda Branch at the Living Way Foursquare Church, where she worked as secretary.

She had been working alone in the church's business office when she was attacked and killed. Her partially disrobed body was discovered about 11:12 a.m. in a back-room storage area by the Rev. James E. Whitaker, who had left the church for about at hour to run errands.

Kelly was arrested for violation of parole the day after and was charged with the murder about two weeks later. Purser was arrested and charged with the crime on April 15, 1992.

Both men remain jailed with bond denied.

CHORD: Willie Nelson, IRS reach agreement

(From 1A)

Austin.

Afterward, he signed several autographs for fans on income tax booklets.

The deal between Nelson and the IRS comes after the two agreed to market an album — "Who'll Buy My Memories?: The IRS Tapes" — to help Nelson make liability payments.

Nelson, 59, refused to file for bankruptcy protection and said he has paid the IRS more than $6 million since the debt was enforced in 1990.

Much of the remaining $2.4 million payoff, due in five years, will come from the album's proceeds and any judgment he might win in a lawsuit against his former accountant, Price Waterhouse, said Nelson's attorney Larry Goldfein.

"We applied the same criteria to Mr. Nelson's offer that would apply to any taxpayer," said Mike McDermitt, chief collection division of the IRS in Austin. "He did not receive favorable treatment."

Nelson blames Price Waterhouse in a federal court lawsuit filed in Dallas in 1990 with giving him bad advice about the tax shelters. The investment firm says Nelson made the decision to buy into the shelters himself.

"We deny all of his accusations," Erica Baird, a spokeswoman for Price Waterhouse in New York, said Tuesday.

"Mr. Nelson and his advisers made all of the investment decisions having been fully apprised of all the tax risks involved in making those investments," Ms. Baird said.

Nelson declined to comment on the lawsuit, saying only: "I don't think you should ever assume that everything is fine just because you have paid someone to do something for you."

In 1990, the IRS raided Nelson's bank accounts and seized property, including the Pedernales Country Club west of Austin and a 44-acre ranch and house in Dripping Springs.

Nelson has since moved back to a cabin near the country club.

Agents also took master tapes for an unpublished album, which later turned into "The IRS Tapes."

Nelson has developed a reputation for organizing benefits for others, such as the Farm Aid concerts he has orchestrated to provide relief for struggling farmers across the country.

Some of the assets auctioned off by the IRS, including the 44-acre Texas ranch, were bought and given back to Nelson by friends and fans.

"I think the hardest thing was to see how it effected everyone around me that was really concerned," Nelson said. "Everyone came to my defense and that was overwhelming."

Nelson was left with a house in Hawaii and a handful of other belongings as he vowed to work to pay off the debts rather than file for bankruptcy protection.

"Since this whole thing came down three years ago, I have really worked," Nelson said. "This last year, I did 144 shows in Branson, Mo., alone. I really just sort of tried to forget about this whole thing and work until it was over. And today it is over."

"I don't think I will do that many shows again," Nelson added. "We were doing two shows a day and that is a little hard."

Friends say Nelson is not bitter over the financial problems.

"He had to go through a tremendous amount of embarrassment," said Evelyn Shriver, Nelson's spokeswoman in Nashville, Tenn. "Willie remained very serene and philosophical that it would be worked out — that it was just a matter of time."

style. Lifting the ban would imply such moral equivalency."

"My husband, as well as both my children and a lot of my family have served in the military," said Midlander Cindy Reed. "I do not and will not ever accept the possibility of gays being in the military. I think it's wrong. I just do not believe it would be in the best interest for anyone."

But others, like Laverne Winters, said, "I think they should be judged on conduct, not preference."

Her viewpoint was echoed by Gwen Schultz, who said "I believe they should be allowed to serve in the service, because they should be judged upon their performance in the military as well as anybody else should. If they don't abide by the military rule, then out they go, just like anybody else."

Others not only disapprove of the ban, but also of the furor the issue has raised. "I don't think the military is the place to debate the social problems that America is going through..... The military has a specific agenda of defending us," said caller Bruce Edwards.

"I would like to leave the rules the same as they have been in the past. Our country has far too many more important matters to be resolved," Joan McCury said.

Bill Houghton sounded a warning in his opinion that openly homosexual soldiers could detract from the overall quality of the military. "We don't have to have the worst fighting force in the world to lose (a war), all we have to be is No. 2 and we'll all be slaves."

Among the theories offered by callers as to why the issue is now being pushed to the forefront was one by J.K. Wall: "The reason the homosexuals want the ban down is so they can flood the VA hospitals with AIDS patients. We cannot afford that additional medical expenditure."

Military begins adjusting to Clinton's gay policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the Marine Corps urged his troops to "remain on watch" and not quit over the issue of homosexuals while three other services ordered recruiters to stop asking applicants their sexual status, officials said Tuesday.

While the Army, Navy and Air Force began their adjustment, no matter how uneasy, to President Clinton's new policy, the Marines said they would wait for official instructions before issuing orders to their recruiters. None of the changes were publicly announced.

Last Friday, Clinton temporarily suspended the formal discharge of homosexuals from the military and announced that new recruits would no longer be asked if they are homosexuals. Clinton ordered the Defense Department to produce a draft executive order by July 15 that would formally end the ban on gays.

Defense Secretary Les Aspin has not yet implemented Clinton's interim policy, but spokesman Bob Hall said Tuesday he expected Aspin to act by the end of the week.

"At this point I don't know what will be in those particular instructions," beyond telling recruiters not to ask applicants about their sexual status and suspending the permanent discharge of troops found to be homosexual, Hall said.

Congressional Republicans had promised to fight Clinton by writing into law the homosexual ban. But on Tuesday, divisions appeared in their ranks in the Senate, and party leaders said they were not ready for action.

"Codification does not seem to be the most attractive thing," Sen. Alan Simpson of Wyoming, the No. 2 Republican in the Senate, said after a policy luncheon.

Also on Capitol Hill Tuesday, a man who says he was beaten by Marines in a gay bar in Wilmington, N.C., last weekend visited congressional offices saying such incidents are bound to continue "until the government does something to protect gay Americans."

Crae Pridgen, who contends he was attacked by men protesting Clinton's proposed policy, also said he would ask the White House for a meeting with the president.

The chiefs of the four armed services, plus Gen. Colin Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, strongly oppose Clinton's intention to permit gays to serve openly.

In a message sent last Friday night, Gen. Carl E. Mundy, the Marine Corps commandant, urged his forces to put their allegiance to the corps above their personal feelings and to remain in the service no matter how they feel about the gay issue.

"It is not characteristic of Marines to quit their posts, either under fire or when things are not to their liking," Mundy wrote in his message for all Marines. "Those of you whose pride in the corps, sense of duty, honor and personal moral values run so deep are exactly the ones needed to remain on watch to provide a steady hand."

Mundy wrote that if gays eventually are permitted to serve openly in the military, they would be held to "standards of good order and discipline" and "standards of public behavior expected of Marines on or off duty.

"As in the past, all individuals who enter the military must be prepared to accept necessary restrictions on behavior, many of which would be intolerable in civilian society," Mundy wrote.

Poll: People trust Clinton over Congress

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans are twice as inclined to express trust and confidence in President Clinton as in Congress, according to an Associated Press poll.

Clinton was considered trustworthy most or all of the time by 52 percent of Americans, but fewer than one in four said the same about Congress. To deal with the country's problems, 55 percent had more confidence in Clinton, compared with 25 percent who put more faith in Congress.

The poll found relatively little expectation that the gridlock between the executive and legislative branches will go away. Just four in 10 think Clinton will be able to keep his Inauguration Day promise to end what he called "an era of deadlock and drift."

Even more troublesome for a new president in the traditional honeymoon period, nearly a quarter of those polled think he has done a bad job ensuring honesty and integrity in his administration.

Fifty-three percent think he's done a good job with it, but less than a majority hold that view among men, whites, upper-income Americans and people older than Clinton. Ten months ago, President Bush had a slightly worse rating on the same question: 49 percent saying good, 28 percent bad.

The national poll of 1,002 adults was taken Wednesday through Sunday by ICR Survey Research group of Media, Pa., part of AUS Consultants. Results from the random sample have a margin of error of plus or minus 3 percentage points.

The last time the AP poll measured Clinton's trust rating was in April. With Clinton's character under scrutiny in the campaign, only 18 percent said he could be trusted almost always or most of the time. Congress did just as bad, 17 percent.

The new poll may partly reflect that it's easier to feel confidence in a person — especially one given the attention and adulation accorded to a new president — than in an institution as conflict-riven and unwieldy as Congress. Polls have found that people who dislike and distrust Congress often give a much higher rating to their own representative.

The country has not had a new president of the same party that controlled Congress since Jimmy Carter's inauguration in 1977. Polls then found widespread optimism about the prospect of government working better.

The enthusiasm declined within a few months. But last year, it was back in force with two-thirds of both Clinton and Bush voters saying in exit polls that it's better for the country to have both the president and Congress of the same political party.

That conflict helps explain why 42 percent said Clinton won't be able to keep his promise to end gridlock, compared with 41 percent who think he will. An additional 4 percent expect mixed success and the rest aren't sure. Women, lower-income people and Democrats are more optimistic.

Since Clinton ran a campaign that emphasized changing the way business is done in Washington, any loss of hope in his ability to bring change threatens his overall standing. According to polls that have measured presidential approval since the 1950s, Clinton had significantly higher disapproval last week than previous new presidents.

Tax refunds to be smaller

WASHINGTON (NYT) — Wondering how to spend that annual tax refund from Uncle Sam? Not so fast.

This year, tax refund checks will shrink by an average of $345 a family, due to an election-year move last winter by the Bush administration.

Hoping to fire up the stalled economy, Bush slightly reduced the amount of federal income taxes withheld from the paychecks of workers earning less than $90,200 per year for joint filers, or $53,200 for singles.

The idea was to put a little extra spending money in people's pockets right away.

But Bush didn't actually cut taxes. And now that it's refund time, the government owes people less money — somewhere between $10 billion and $12 billion less, estimates Merril! Lynch & Co. senior economist Ian Borsook.

That will have a dampening effect on consumer spending — which accounts for two-thirds of the country's economic activity - between now and late spring, when taxpayers receive their refund checks.

With annual consumption of $4 trillion, the impact should be minor, but "it won't help," said Borsook.

The smaller refunds shouldn't affect total economic output by more than one half of a percentage point at most, he said. The economy grew at an annual rate of 3.8 percent during the last three months of 1992.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: A period of hope, renewal and achievement lies ahead. Count your blessings! Improve relations with your business associates and you will be amazed at how swiftly your financial fortunes rise. Looking for the best in people will help you find it. Co-workers and loved ones strive to live up to your expectations. Romance looks particularly active in June. Vacation in September. A new partnership or alliance makes fall of 1993 a golden time.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: novelist James Michener, actress Morgan Fairchild, comedian Joey Bishop, writer Gertrude Stein.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Concentrate on career and business matters early in the day. A third party brings you together with an attractive member of the opposite gender. Be realistic about a romantic relationship.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Move full steam ahead with a personal project. Beautifying your home will give both it and your spirits a needed lift. Examine merchandise very carefully when shopping for bargains.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): As you may have discovered, this is not a good time to throw your weight around. A high degree of diplomacy is needed to gain the upper hand. Maintain a positive outlook.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Curb a tendency to run on nervous energy and overwork. You need to calm down and focus on a few "top priority" tasks. Clearing your closets helps you get better organized.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Stick up for yourself if a co-worker starts to move in on your territory. An important financial issue is involved. Love is grand; get together with romantic partner this evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Keep your composure when dealing with VIPs. A friendly, welcoming approach will make up for any minor mishaps. Put the finishing touches on an important project.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Conflicts could arise in business or in your dealings with authority figures. Avoid sounding confrontational; calm discussion and analysis will help you get your way.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A good day to unite with others and win their confidence. Extra power, influence and wisdom are yours. Actions based on a joint decision will meet with success.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Innovative ideas lead to new career triumphs. They also help you renovate your home and entertain important people there. Be reassuring with worried partners.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Financial deals or shared resources are a source of wonderment. Rely on a trusted friend. Patience is essential at work; bosses or co-workers could be in a touchy mood.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The emphasis now is on developing your professional talents. Focus on projects that promise the largest profits. Loved ones may misunderstand your quiet mood. Offer them reassurance.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Career progress is linked to your sensitivity to a co-worker's domestic problems. Research and knowledge increase handsomely. You enjoy being in the bosom of your loved ones tonight.

Opening lead: ?

Most textbooks contain a table of opening leads, but they tell only part of the story. While the compilation does give you the right card to pick from specific holdings, quite often you do not have the sort of combination shown and have to select the best suit as well the right card to lead. Consider West's dilemma on this deal.

The auction is straightforward. North-South, who were using a 15-17 range for a one-no-trump opening, reached four hearts via a direct route. With only nine points in high cards, South was not interested in anything more than game. As West, all you have to do is choose the opening salvo.

We know that some bridge columns would feature a lead of a low diamond. The king would turn up in dummy, partner would hold the queen and you would steal a diamond trick to fracture an otherwise unbreakable contract. That's too clever a lead for us, and the ace of diamonds is more likely to cost a trick and a tempo than gain.

The next suit to eliminate is spades. To lead from an unsupported knave on this sort of auction begs for trouble, and here it would cost a trick and hand declarer the contract. That leaves a choice between trumps and clubs.

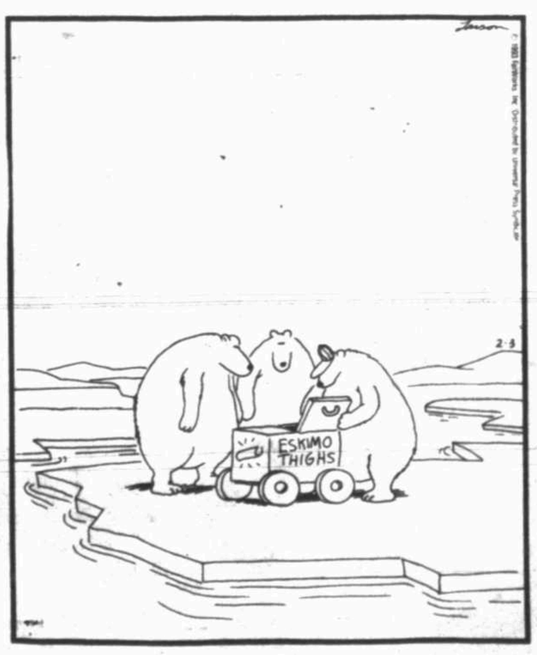

We think it's a toss-up. If you selected a trump, declarer will eventually go down because every card is wrong. There's no way to avoid losing two tricks in each minor suit. If you opted for a club, there's a bonus. Partner can score a club ruff as well for down two.

Judge dismisses weapon charges against Connick

NEW YORK — Singer Harry Connick Jr. got a break Tuesday when a judge decided to dismiss a misdemeanor gun possession charge because Connick wasn't trying to hide the weapon.

Connick

Connick recently recorded a public-service announcement at his own expense advising people to be aware of, and obey, New York's tough gun-control law, said his publicist, Fran Curtis.

The 27-second video spot played no role in the disposition of the case, said Dick Piperno, a spokesman for Queens District Attorney Richard A. Brown.

Connick was arrested at Kennedy Airport late last year after telling authorities he had an unloaded 9mm pistol in his luggage.

"I made a terrible mistake," Connick said outside court.

At the hearing, Judge Martin Shulman adjourned the case in contemplation of dismissal, acting on a recommendation from Brown. That means the charge will die in six months if Connick doesn't get into any more legal trouble during that time.

He could have gotten a year in jail for possessing the weapon without a permit. In recommending adjournment, Brown noted that Connick voluntarily told authorities about the gun.

"It is clear that he had no criminal intent and that he did not realize that he was violating the law," Brown said.

PALM BEACH, Fla. — Police questioned Anthony Kennedy Shriver, a Kennedy-clan member whose sister is TV journalist Maria Shriver, after a report his Jeep plowed bushes at Donald Trump's palatial estate, Mar-a-Lago.

Police gave Shriver, 27, a roadside sobriety test and he was allowed to leave after the results were negative. Palm Beach police spokeswoman Janet Kinsella said Tuesday the department considered the matter closed.

Early Sunday, Mar-a-Lago property superintendent Jim Griffin told police he saw a Jeep Cherokee leave Trump's estate after a party, driving "through the bushes all around the property recklessly."

Police at the party radioed patrol officers, who found the Jeep stopped some distance away, with Shriver reportedly standing outside checking damage.

An assistant at Shriver's Miami office said Tuesday he was out of town and would be unavailable for comment.

Trump spokeswoman Norma Foerderer said she asked Trump about the incident, but he had no comment.

Shriver's father, Sargent Shriver, was a vice presidential candidate in 1972 with George McGovern and the first director of the Peace Corps.

His mother is Eunice Kennedy Shriver, sister of former President Kennedy.

MIAMI — Marjory Stoneman Douglas, the 103-year-old "Grand Dame of the Everglades," who pushed for environmental protection long before it became fashionable, was inducted into the Florida Artists Hall of Fame.

A journalist, author and women's rights activist, Mrs. Stoneham Douglas's 1947 book "The Everglades: River of Grass" warned of the dangers of manmade disruption of Florida's natural wilderness.

"You were far ahead of all of us in recognizing the importance of the Florida Everglades," Florida Secretary of State Jim Smith said Monday as he gave her a bronze sculpture marking the honor.

Mrs. Stoneham Douglas was an early champion for creation of the 1.4-million-acre Everglades National Park, now the heart of the once-massive wetlands diminished by decades of commercial development.

Mrs. Stoneman Douglas' book still sells several thousand copies a year and is read in many Florida school classes.

"That's what we had hoped," she said. "It's the kind of thing that's timeless, you see.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Garth Brooks, Vince Gill and George Strait received five nominations each Tuesday in the fan-voted TNN-Music City News Country Awards.

Brooks, Gill, Strait, Alan Jackson and Reba McEntire were nominated for entertainer of the year, the top honor.

Jackson and McEntire were nominated in four categories. Billy Ray Cyrus was nominated for three awards: star of tomorrow and best single and top video, both for "Achy Breaky Heart."

Joining McEntire as nominees for female artist of the year were Suzy Bogguss, Lorrie Morgan, Tanya Tucker and Wynonna Judd.

Winners in 14 categories will be announced June 7 during a 2½-hour special on cable TV's The Nashville Network.

Nominations were determined by readers of The Music City News, a monthly magazine. Winners will be chosen by the magazine's readers and callers to 900-numbers announced on TNN.

Community, TI can ease pain

While the loss of 380 jobs from the Texas Instruments (TI) work force in Midland is a serious setback, both personally and for the community, there are particular considerations that may lessen the impact.

Those considerations include:

— The TI cutback was not entirely unexpected, meaning both the employees and others in the community were not caught entirely off guard.

— The semiconductor operations in Midland will be consolidated into other semiconductor operations in Dallas and Taiwan over a one-year period rather than all at once.

— Midland Chamber of Commerce officials are already planning to begin "selling" TI assets, including the workers who will lose jobs, to other prospective industries seeking available plants and workers.

— TI management has already begun making plans to ameliorate adverse conditions stemming from the cutback for workers, utilizing local resources such as Midland College, the Private Industry Council, etc.

The "culprit" in the TI cutback — if there truly is one — is the lessened emphasis on the nation's defense industry. While the cutback is heart-rending in terms of how it affects families and individuals, few would complain about the decreased need for defensive weaponry or capability.

The fact that Texas Instruments will be maintaining its headquarters operations in Midland and Odessa holds out the possibility of an eventual return to the facility's full-scale operation if the need arises.

Texas Instruments officials say they are willing to work with the community to reduce the impact of the cutback. The community should respond with all its available resources to do the same.

We're all in this together.

Poe management benefited Midland

Fred Poe, who retired at the end of January as Midland's city manager, witnessed both good times and bad during his 32-plus years with the city, but he espouses confidence about Midland's future. He should. During his tenure Poe worked to put Midland in good shape for whatever may come along.

One potential worry about his retirement was alleviated by the fact that Mike McGregor, Poe's deputy city manager for years, was in place and ready to fill the city management position. That undoubtedly will provide for a smooth transition between city managers, a luxury not every city can enjoy.

Poe, who became city manager in 1987, witnessed dynamic change in the city: its geographic area doubled and its population climbed from 60,000 to 100,000. Such changes can create enormous problems for a person involved in the management of a community the size of Midland. It's a credit to Poe's management abilities that city services were not disrupted more during the past several years and that during those years the city kept developing in an orderly fashion.

The average person may not recognize how much the city manager can affect their own lives, but Midland has been notably lacking some of the problems that other cities of its size have experienced with availability of water, garbage collection, fire and police protection, and so forth. Much of that is attributable to Fred Poe's work.

We join other residents of Midland in extending best wishes for his retirement years.

Leaders wait for Clinton to write rules

PARIS — After a week of travel in Western Europe, one point leaps out: The experienced and sophisticated leaders of these countries are waiting for a man who has been governor of Arkansas for the last decade to tell them what to do about a place in their backyard called Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Gelb

No one is more aware of the stench of "ethnic cleansing" in Bosnia and the dangers of a wider Balkan war than Britain, France and the other members of NATO. But none of them will throw more military chips into the Balkan pot unless President Clinton first orders U.S. air and ground forces to fight by their side.

Even then, they will send their soldiers into battle only under the umbrella of the Cyrus Vance-Lord Owen peace plan and only with the express approval of the United Nations.

This lengthy list of conditions leads to two inescapable conclusions: First, Western Europe's leaders are trying to put the political monkey squarely on the shoulders of the new American president. Second, they are trying to maneuver him into chickening out. If any one has to say no to more force, they want it to be Clinton and not themselves.

Western European diplomats and warriors know something else as well, something that truly frightens them. If Clinton decides to get tough in the Balkans, they will have little choice but to join in. "Politically, we would be shamed into action," said a senior British official.

It is always difficult to pin down the line between Europeans' realism and cynicism. But on their behalf it has to be said that they truly see the Balkans as an abyss. "Even our solutions have terrible problems," acknowledged a senior French Foreign Ministry official. Of the peoples of former Yugoslavia, the same official later blurted out: "They need to fight. They want to fight. They have hated each other for centuries."

It also has to be said for Western Europeans that their governments without exception are politically weak and divided, and that their armed forces are already overstretched.

Thus, Europeans continue to focus on diplomatic rather than military options, though they are quite clearheaded about the fact that diplomacy holds little hope of reducing the killing, let alone a prospect of peace. To them, the Vance-Owen peace process — for all its flaws and dim chances of success, and despite the parties' failure to fully accept it even after the Vance threat to seek U.N. sanctions against holdouts — represents the only realistic course of action.

While American pundits rake Vance over the coals, European leaders call him a hero. Perhaps they are being cynical, urging him on — as the Serbs have — to undercut mounting pressures for further Western military action. Perhaps they are serious, and realistic.

In any event, the Europeans say they will entertain no thought of upping the military ante outside the Vance-Owen plan. The British have told the Clinton team privately that they will send more forces only to carry out the plan and only after the warring parties agree to it.

President's first 8 days were utter failure

A TV reporter shoved a microphone into my face last week and asked, "How do you think President Clinton is doing in his first eight days?"

Buchwald

I was reluctant to reply because I always write an in-depth piece on a President's first eight days. So I just said that his administration was an utter failure and President Clinton should resign and turn over the running of our country to the able Al Gore.

Instead of the reporter leaving it at that, he kept pressing me as to why Clinton had failed to live up to the promise 43 percent of the country had for him.

I responded, "His inexperience showed up as soon as he took office. He didn't even know that the attorney general's baby-sitter needed a green card. Do you know why? They don't have any illegal Peruvian aliens in Arkansas."

The man kept shoving the microphone down my throat. He said, "But most attorneys general's baby-sitters don't have green cards. That isn't enough to impeach a President."

"His foreign policies have been a failure. Look at Serbia, Bosnia, Somalia and Israel. Nothing has changed in the last eight days. And shall I tell you the reason? It's because Hillary Clinton is not interested. If the First Lady isn't curious about foreign affairs, why should the President be?"

The reporter accidentally wrapped the mike wire around my neck. "People say what bugs them the most is that in just over a week the President has been unable to balance the budget. Do they have a right to be upset?"

"Yes, they do. Many mornings at dawn when the voters assumed that Clinton was in his office working on the deficit, TV showed him out jogging with his Secret Service men. We didn't elect a part-time President."

I thought we were finished, but the reporter persisted.

"What would you give Socks the cat in the first eight days?"

"The cat is the only bright spot so far. Many people predicted that he could never take the place of the Bush dog Millie. But he has surprised everyone. He is quiet and willing to listen. The President's office is open to him at all times. He's not one of those White House cats who bothers him unless it is absolutely necessary. Socks' main virtue is that he refuses to talk to the press."

"As soon as Clinton's seven-day honeymoon was over, the public turned on him. Is that par for American voters?"

"He's lucky he had seven days. Until Mr. Clinton gets a Desert Storm under his belt, he is going to be criticized for all his domestic and foreign programs. Even the Democratic Congress, one of the most agreeable legislative bodies in the land, is concerned about the eight days that Clinton has squandered so far."

I sensed that the interview was almost up because the reporter moved his knee out of my stomach. "How do you think President Clinton can save himself during the rest of his 1,422 days in office?"

"Get rid of the saxophone."

Taped murder was overused by media

There are many events each day that qualify as news and I appreciate the efforts of those who work to bring that news to the public. I am, however, fairly certain that a woman being shot to death by her former husband in a state several thousand miles away does not qualify as "local" news.

While the fact that the fugitive was captured close by and incarcerated in our city is news, I question the continued broadcasting of the videotaped murder by local news media. While I would not have chosen to air the tape at any time, airing it the day he was captured, with a warning to viewers beforehand, was a decision I could understand. Continuing to air the video at least seven days after the event and with no warning is, in my opinion, irresponsible journalism.

After seeing the tape on a local news update during the "Today Show" on Thursday, Jan. 21, I called and spoke with the station manager. He assured me that the tape would not be run without a warning and probably would not be run again. Imagine my surprise Friday morning when the same tape was again shown without warning. Thinking that "gore week" was over, I foolishly watched the "Today Show" on Monday. Yes, there it was again on the local update. Blessedly, my children never saw the tape. Unfortunately, I did.

If it bothered you, too, please call the station. Let them know. On my part, I have chosen to turn that "news" station off permanently in my home.

Individuals need to work toward liberty

Your paper today held several important revelations. A carbon tax is contemplated. It is noted that this is a "world government" idea. Apparently our two new leaders want the U.S. to become just another part of the "whole." No one has been crude enough yet to mention that this tax will fall heaviest on the poor and middle class.

The truth is neither the Republicans nor Democrats care about the poor or they would not ban them from business with license fees, inspection and building requirements, educational obstruction (schools that force people who have no wish to learn to attend anyway) and all the other blocks government has placed on business development that are so numerous it defies all but the currently rich or government favored minority to succeed.

We also hear the whine that the U.S. is the only advanced country in the world without mandated health care. So what? We are also the only country that makes a pretense of stating that life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness are natural, God-given rights of the individual, untouchable and uncontrollable by government (individuals elected to expedite and assure those God-given rights). If the U.S. is the worst modern country in medical costs, it is because of the government-granted monopoly enjoyed by the legal drug maker-/pusher, pharmacist and doctor on treatments and medicines and the willingness of insurers to pay bogus or inflated medical costs. If socialism is so great, why are all of those people living under it wanting to live here?

I also read that our jail is too crowded and why. Why should we care if the bondsmen lose some revenue just to keep harmless or non-violent people in jail? Is one guilty when arrested or only upon conviction? The untried prisoner is innocent and deserves a personal recognizance bond if qualified. Anyway, our jail crowding comes from victimless, nonviolent "crime." Crimes that are not a direct threat to or violation of anyone else are political crimes.

Political prisoners just disagree with who should make their life decisions for them — the state or themselves — and they suffer incarceration for practicing those political beliefs. It is sickening to me that our country while touting freedom the loudest should also imprison more people than any other regime in the world, just for a lifestyle unapproved of by people with power.

Only individuals who willingly face their responsibility and work to take back their liberty can save this country we love. Write to Box 824, Midland, Texas 79702 to join this effort. It is only our duty.

Next generation needs chance for better future

I will soon turn 29 and sometimes I wonder what the other generation will call my generation and where my generation has been and where it is going from this point onward. It makes me question what goals my generation has and how they will go about accomplishing them.

I also ask myself the question of what other generations will think and call my generation. Maybe they will call us the "Nippie" generation because we are neither "Yippies" nor "Yuppies," we just want to be ourselves. Maybe they might refer to us as the "Whiz Kids" because of the home personal computer revolution and by the generation different from the 60's generation of the Me or I generation.

They might call us the "bi" generation because of our problems with our sexual identities and the sexual revolution. But whatever they call my generation and whatever happens to my generation in the years to come my generation faces new and different challenging problems as well as problems faced by older generations, but in the same and in different forms. I hope my generation doesn't fall into the same pitfalls and hardships of other generations in the past. We might not have a world war or a Watergate to demonstrate against, but we do have some serious problems that my generation needs to solve and work out in the near future. Examples would be the economy, the national deficit, environment and AIDS.

I hope my generation doesn't blame former generations for the problems and hardships we will face. We should give the next generation a chance to have a better and improved future!

Study finds no link with moderate caffeine consumption, miscarriage

By Brenda C. Coleman
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO — Pregnant women can consume moderate amounts of caffeine without increasing their chance of miscarrying or stunting the growth of their fetuses, researchers say.

A study of 431 expectant mothers found those who consumed up to 300 milligrams of caffeine daily — about three cups of coffee, seven cups of tea or eight cans of cola — had no higher rates of miscarriage or small fetuses than nonconsumers of caffeine.

"This is good news for women. They don't have to be too anxious about consuming reasonable amounts of caffeine during pregnancy," said Dr. James L. Mills, the lead researcher.

"For higher consumption, we didn't see any problems, but we didn't have enough people to assume they aren't there."

Mills is chief of pediatric epidemiology at the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development. The study is published in Wednesday's Journal of the American Medical Association.

The research addresses the last two major questions about the possible harm of caffeine during pregnancy, the authors said.

The first major question — whether caffeine increases rates of birth defects — has been ruled out by recent studies indicating it doesn't, the authors said.

Early studies that linked caffeine to birth defects, miscarriages and fetal growth retardation had various faults, including failing to account for the effects of smoking, which can harm fetuses, Mills said.

The new study enrolled women at the beginning of their pregnancies — so that caffeine consumption, fetal growth and miscarriage rates could be tracked — and researchers adjusted for the effects of smoking, he said.

Dr. David A. Nagey, director of maternal-fetal medicine at the University of Maryland, said the study is an important verification of what many doctors had recently come to believe.

Many have already been telling women that moderate caffeine consumption is OK during pregnancy, he said Tuesday.

Mills said he had no personal desire to exonerate caffeine.

"We have no ties with cola companies, coffee companies or tea companies," he said.

Administration seeks public comment on pesticides, food

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Clinton administration on Tuesday jumped into the explosive debate over cancer-causing pesticides and food, seeking public comment on how much contamination is too much.

The Environmental Protection Agency released a list of 35 pesticides that it said would likely be barred by a pending court order to ban cancer-causing pesticides in processed foods under provisions of the 1958 Delaney Clause.

EPA Administrator Carol Browner said because only small amounts of the chemicals have shown up in processed foods, she is viewing the matter as a question of legal interpretation rather than public safety.

"EPA does not believe that the pesticides in the following lists pose an unreasonable risk to public health, based on available data," she said in a statement.

EPA officials said the chemicals on the list have been found to cause cancer in animals. EPA already has banned those it considered a risk to humans.

The food industry contends that modern technology has made the Delaney law obsolete because such minute traces of carcinogens can now be detected that they are meaningless.

Browner said her intention is not to relax the Delaney Clause, which is part of the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act. However, in an interview Monday she called the law outdated.

The pesticides do not have familiar public names. For instance, among them is benomyl, which is used on grapes and tomatoes but has appeared in raisins and ketchup made from them. Also, mancozeb, which is used on wheat, barley, oats and rye and has turned up in flour and bran made from those grains.

The outcome could affect thousands of processed foods.

The EPA said it is faced with barring the 35 pesticides to comply with a July order by the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco.

The court ordered EPA to adhere to the Delaney Clause that prohibits the presence in processed foods of substances that cause cancer in humans or in animals, no matter how tiny the risk. The court overturned an EPA interpretation that allowed exceptions for amounts the agency believes pose negligible risk.

An appeal by the Grocery Manufacturers Association is pending with the Supreme Court. If the court refuses to hear the case, EPA will be forced to ban the pesticides, agency officials said.

Israeli army begins list of Palestinians to be returned

JERUSALEM (NYT) — The Israeli army began on Tuesday to draw up a list of 100 exiled Palestinians who are to be brought back soon from southern Lebanon, but it seemed a pointless exercise because the deportees said that no one would return unless all 400 of them did so.

The Israeli compromise, part of an agreement reached with the United States on Monday, was also rejected by the Palestine Liberation Organization and allied leaders in the occupied territories, because it leaves nearly 300 men in Lebanon for another year.

Accusing Washington of having undermined its credibility as an impartial sponsor of the Middle East peace talks, Palestinian leaders reaffirmed that they would boycott the negotiations as long as the deportation crisis remained unresolved.

In Israel, the opposition Likud Party denounced the deal as a surrender to U.S. pressure after Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin had insisted for seven weeks that the expulsions were final and that to undo them would be to hand a victory to his main target, the militant Hamas movement of Islamic fundamentalists.

■ More world news/4B

Even some ministers in the Cabinet, which had voted unanimously for the compromise on Monday night, reportedly had qualms about it. Housing Minister Binyamin Ben-Eliezer, a retired general who once served in the West Bank, was said by two newspapers to have expressed the security establishment's concern that the compromise would be interpreted by Palestinians in the territories as a sign of Israeli weakness and, therefore, an encouragement to new violence.

But Rabin and other senior officials shrugged off both Palestinian rejections and opposition protests as predictable, and even irrelevant. Their top priority was to strike a bargain with the Americans and stay in the good graces of the Clinton administration, and that is what they believe that they did. And if the Palestinians do not like that, one official said, "that is not our problem."

Israeli officials said they were also encouraged by relatively muted reactions from Syria and moderate Arab countries like Lebanon and Egypt, which called the agreement "a step in the right direction." The reactions suggested to the Israelis that despite Palestinian protests, Arab countries are eager to put the deportation crisis behind them and keep it from causing the collapse of the peace talks.

The American-Israeli agreement calls for the quick return of the 100 deportees, judged to be the "less severe cases" among the 396 Palestinians.

Volcano erupts in Philippines; thousands flee

LEGAZPI, Philippines (AP) — A volcano erupted without warning Tuesday, sending a plume of gritty ash three miles high and tons of boulders down onto farmers who ignored orders years ago to move to safer land.

At least 19 people were confirmed dead and at least 35 people were missing in villages scattered on the slopes of the 8,077-foot Mayon volcano, said Ricardo Dee, assistant director of the regional Office of Civil Defense.

Most of the missing were believed to be farmers trapped in their fields as mud and boulders roared down the slopes.

Thousands of people fled the area in cars, trucks, ox carts or on foot after the volcano erupted at 1:10 p.m. A second eruption followed about 2½ hours later.

After a 1984 eruption spewed ash 12 miles high, the country's volcanology institute banned villages within six miles of the volcano. But local officials estimated 80,000 people ignored the warning and lived in more than 20 villages in the danger zone.

Ash darkened the sky in this port of more than 1 million people, about 10 miles southeast of the volcano, and officials were forced to turn off all electricity in the area when debris severed 10 major power lines.

156 seniors fail parts of latest TAAS

■ The MISD students can retake the test one more time before graduation; if they fail again they can take it during the summer.

By Myra Lee Salcedo
Staff writer

Donning caps and gowns this June may not be reality for about 156 seniors in Midland Independent School District.

All of the seniors failed some portion of the exit-level TAAS (Texas Assessment of Academic Skills) test, a state requirement for graduation.

Passing all of their classes and completing the required number of credit hours is no longer a guarantee that the seniors will be able to participate in commencement exercises with their peers.

In Odessa, 252 seniors are facing the same fate as their Midland peers, and in Greenwood, 71 percent of the seniors who did not pass the test as juniors, again failed the October exit-level test.

All area seniors, however, will have another opportunity to take the test again before graduation.

The fact that only 27 percent of the MISD seniors taking the test in October passed is tempered by the news that only 219 MISD seniors needed to take the TAAS this year since 773 — of the districtwide class of 992 seniors — mastered the test in their junior year.

In Midland, the writing portion of the TAAS will be given March 3, while the reading and math sections of the exam will be given May 4 and 5.

Students who fail it again will miss participating in commencement, but they can retake the test during the summer.

The results of the October TAAS indicated that 62 seniors at Lee High School, 83 seniors at Midland High School, and 11 seniors at Coleman High did not pass the test.

The math portion of the TAAS test was the stumbling block for 135 of the 156 seniors — out of 219 taking the test. Of that group, 45 failed the writing portion and 85 failed the reading portion of the exam.

The math portion of the test is tripping students up all across the state.

"At the elementary and junior high school level math scores are strong, above state average," said MISD Superintendent Joseph Baressi Jr. "The exit-level math scores are the lowest in Midland and statewide."

Baressi said some students have chosen not to take some high school math classes, which has hurt them on the TAAS.

"Our school board recently added the requirement that all students must take Algebra I for graduation," he said.

Despite requiring students to learn higher level math skills, Baressi said, "Some students just have a block in that area."

"The state is doing away with fundamentals of math and correlated language arts to require a more rigorous curriculum which should translate into higher passing rates in May 1994," said Joe Cummins, MISD executive director of planning, testing and evaluation.

Greenwood ISD Superintendent Quentin Burnett said, "Our math scores have dropped from the previous year." He noted that a different group of students was tested this year.

"We have remediation classes for students who didn't master the TAAS, but getting the scores up will be a challenge," Burnett said.

Cummins said about 15 percent of the MISD senior class did not participate in graduation last year because they failed some portion

Staff report

Region 18 Education Service Center has announced four places are up for election on its board of directors.

The election will be conducted in March.

Any citizen 21 years of age or older — who is not engaged professionally in education and who is not a member of a local school district board — is eligible.

Directors of Region 18 are elected by members of the boards of trustees of the school districts serviced by the center.

The term of office is three years. Persons interested in serving must file for a place on the ballot now through Feb. 20. Candidates must be residents of the area served.

To file for Place 1, a person must live within the confines of Midland Independent School District. Ted Kerr currently fills this position.

To file for Place 4, a person must live within the confines of one of the following school districts: Coahoma, Crane, Forsan, Glasscock County, Grady, Grandfalls-Royalty, Greenwood, Kermit, McCamey, Rankin, Reagan County, Stanton, and Wink-Loving. G.E. "Tommy" Thompson currently serves in Place 4.

Place 6 can be filled by a person living in Pecos-Barstow-Toyah or Fort Stockton ISDs. Monte Brooks of Fort Stockton is the current Place 6 trustee.

Candidates must submit the filing form to the executive director's office in person or by certified mail by Feb. 20. There is no fee for filing.

Applications for filing are available from local school superintendents or from Region 18, located at Midland International Airport. The mailing address is Region 18, P.O. Box 60580, Midland, 79711-0580.

Borden County rancher wins national environmental award

By Ed Todd
Staff writer

GAIL — Borden County rancher John R. "Rich" Anderson has been named winner of the 1992 National Cattlemen's Association's Environmental Stewardship Award for his "aggressive grassland improvement program."

The award cites Anderson's work in significantly reducing soil erosion, quadrupling forage production, and dramatically improving water quantity and quality on his Muleshoe Ranch.

"We were elated," Anderson, 63, said Tuesday of himself and his wife, Barbara Clayton Anderson. "I had no idea (of winning), because I knew the competition. It was pretty stiff."

Anderson was one of seven regional finalists for the national award, representing NCA's Region IV, which covers Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

The award was sponsored by the Texas & Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association.

Anderson received the award on Jan. 30 at the NCA's convention in Phoenix, Ariz.

Anderson and his wife primarily raise crosses of Simmental, Angus and Brown Swiss cattle. They own 100 sections and lease another 30.

"We try to run about 20 head of cows to the section (640 acres)," Anderson said. "We do that in order to keep grass all the time" — to prevent overgrazing. The number of cow-calf pairs may vary depending on the weather and the land.

Anderson's Muleshoe Ranch supports almost four times as many cattle as it did 40 years ago, when the drought of the 1950s was turning grassland to wasteland. And when it did rain, "all the water just ran off and took some of the soil with it," Anderson said.

"I think the real turning point came somewhere around 1960, when I realized that if I was going to be successful here, I would have to be a grass farmer first and a cattleman second," Anderson said. "We must remember that God created everything and made it available for man's use. It is our responsibility as stewards to conserve the land, or we will lose the use of it."

Barbara and John R. "Rich" Anderson

Today, with nary a windmill on his ranch, Anderson has 50 to 60 pools of water for his livestock.

"Now, when it rains, I've got enough grass that it just holds that water up and lets it absorb into the ground, percolates on down and finds, maybe, a sand-bearing underground stream, and it probably will come on out into the river."

Children start fatal house fire, marshal says

By Katherine Poteet
Staff writer

A house fire that claimed the lives of two Midland boys two week ago was probably started by one the children in the house, according to Midland fire officials.

"The fire started in the living room," said Fire Marshal Jerry Petree. "And, the evidence we have has led us to believe that the fire was started by one of the children who were living in the house, either by playing with matches or a cigarette lighter."

Petree said an investigation into the blaze was finished Tuesday and it had eliminated all other accidental causes.

The fire occurred at the residence located at 408 N. G St. at approximately 8 a.m. on Jan. 19. Three adults and nine children lived in the house, including Melinda Yarborough and her three children.

The blaze destroyed the living room, the hallway and the northeast bedroom, where fire officials believed that 1½-year-old Bobby Yarborough and his 3-year-old brother, Roy, were sleeping.

Bobby was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Keith Jobe about an hour after the fire broke out.

Roy was transported to the University Medical Center Burn Unit

Stanton police chief fires officer for filing false report

By Ed Todd
Staff writer

STANTON — The Stanton Police Department has been cut in half now that Police Chief Michael Adams this week fired officer Oscar Chavez for making a false report on a Jan. 19 patrol-car accident.

Chavez's discharge came 2½ weeks after Adams fired officer Dwain Dempsey after Dempsey, 42, went on patrol the night of Jan. 14 instead of attending an AIDS conference in Stanton as Adams had ordered.

Dempsey, who contested his dismissal, claims he thought his attendance was optional and that the Stanton streets should be patrolled.

On Jan. 26, following the last of two closed executive sessions, the City Council in a 2-3-1 vote declined to reinstate Dempsey.

Councilman James Jenkins abstained, and Mayor Lester Baker broke a 2-2 deadlock in upholding the chief's action.

Following Dempsey's lead, Chavez, 33, is petitioning the six-member City Council to reinstate him at a meeting at 7 p.m. Monday in City Hall.

The force, at full strength with the chief and three officers, is now down to two lawmen: Adams and officer David Spinks.

"I've been in this shape before," Adams said.

Adams, who said he wrestled for two weeks over what to do about Chavez, said he fired him because of his breach of integrity in his accident report to Martin County Sheriff Mike Welling.

Chavez admitted that he radioed a misleading report to the sheriff.

Two police officers, lawyer file lawsuit in Erdmann case

AMARILLO (AP) — Two police officers and a defense attorney have filed a federal civil lawsuit seeking an end to prosecution on felony perjury charges they say resulted from their dispute with controversial former forensic pathologist Ralph Erdmann.

Attorney Millard Farmer of Atlanta, Ga., Lubbock police Sgt. Bill Hubbard and Lubbock police officer Pat Kelly were indicted after speaking out against Erdmann and his links to prosecutors.

A 143-page petition filed Tuesday in Amarillo alleges racketeering, conspiracy and violations of their constitutional rights by Erdmann, two district attorneys and nine others.

Farmer, Hubbard and Kelly have claimed they were nailed on vindictive charges meant as retaliation for exposing Erdmann's incompetence and wrongdoings.

Named in the lawsuit are Erdmann, Lubbock County Criminal District Attorney Travis Ware, Randall County Criminal District Attorney Randy Sherrod, Randall County Assistant CDA John L. Davis, Lubbock morgue manager and former Erdmann assistant Thomas Woodson Rowan Jr., Randall County CDA investigator Kevin Rush, state Assistant Attorney General Frank Briscoe and 47th State District Judge David Gleason in Canyon.

Several law enforcement officers also were named in the lawsuit: Amarillo police Sgt. Wayne Randolph, Amarillo police Lt. William Smith, Amarillo police Sgt. Thomas Porter, Potter County Sheriff's Department Sgt. B.J. White and Randall County CDA investigator Kevin Rush.

TAAS: Math portion of test trips up students of the TAAS test. Although the number of seniors taking the test is larger this year, Cummins said it appears about 15 percent may fail to graduate in June.

"Those seniors need to work hard, and we are getting the information about their performance on the test to their teachers and principals so they know what to emphasize in the curriculum," he said.

While seniors struggled with the TAAS, juniors stumbled over the same academic hurdle. Only 53 percent of MISD juniors, just more than half, passed all of three portions of the TAAS.

"The faculty should improve their focus on mathematics instruction in grades 7-10 with more detailed campus improvement plans and activities," Cummins said. "It cannot be business as usual."

Cummins said the district's 1993-'94 budget should include funds for staff development for teachers assigned to grades 7-12.

"These staff development activities should focus on the needs of students who do not pass the exit-level math test," he said.

Several school board trustees suggested smaller class sizes would benefit students.

The good news about this year's test scores is that 83 percent of the juniors passed the writing portion of the TAAS in October.

"The percent of MISD juniors passing the writing test has improved from 73 percent to 83 percent since October 1990," Cummins said. Also, 66 percent of the juniors passed the reading test during the same administration.

The percentage of both GISD and MISD juniors passing the entire TAAS was above the state average of 50 percent. About 53 percent of Greenwood and 52 percent of Midland juniors passed all tests taken.

About 29 percent of Greenwood seniors passed all portions of the TAAS and 27 percent of the seniors taking the test in MISD passed, compared to the state average of 39 percent mastering the TAAS.

Of course, 39 percent passing translates to 61 percent of seniors — who took the test across the state — failing some part of it.

"The students need to realize they are using up all of their chances (to pass the test in order to graduate)," Cummins said.

RANCH: Restoring land brings recognition

(From 1B)

His ranch is on the headwaters of the Colorado River.

"My whole family has been involved in ranching and so has Barbara's" for four generations, Anderson said. "I was raised in the ranching business. My father (Bill Anderson) had a ranch over around Lovington, where he raised Anxiety 4th Herefords and also had registered Rambouillet sheep. My grandfather (Dick Lee) moved from Midland in 1925 to Lovington, and he was a partner with Clarence Scharbauer Sr. on a ranch up there.

His wife's grandfather (R.M. "Roy" Clayton) purchased the Muleshoe Ranch in 1913. The original ranch covered 33,000 acres.

"Rich Anderson and his family exemplify the positive efforts that cattle producers all across the country are making to protect and improve natural resources," said NCA President Roger Stuber.

Since mid-century, the Andersons have teamed up the U.S. Soil Conservation Service and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service to knock out mesquite and thereby provide more moisture for grassland to hold rainwater and nourish the soil and the grass.

The five streams, once dry, on the ranch began to catch and to flow water.

Livestock production picked up dramatically — about fourfold.

Wildlife population increased, and today the ranch is a refuge for antelope, deer, quail, dove, wild turkey and songbirds.

"Rich Anderson is a good example of the concept that conservation pays," said Joseph H. Williams, chairman of the board of governors of The Nature Conservancy and a member of the NCA award-selection committee, which also included the National Audubon Society, the Isaac Walton League of America, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, and the Environmental Protection Agency.

"Mr. Anderson restored a ranch that had virtually reached the end of its productive life by returning it to the natural condition that existed prior to the turn of the century," Williams said. "By practicing good conservation techniques, he has returned the Muleshoe Ranch to sustainable productivity and proved that economic needs are compatible with protection of natures."

Texas Sen. Phil Gramm noted that Anderson's ranching techniques exemplify "the efforts that beef cattle producers have made in achieving a balance between environmental protection and economic stability."

In the NCA finalist competition, Anderson was competing with Maryland rancher Lawrason Sayre of the Waffle Hill Farm, Florida rancher Fred C. Babcock of the Crescent B Ranch, Minnesota rancher Jeffrey Gerard of the Gerard Farms, Montana rancher Maynard Smith of the Six Bar S Ranch, Arizona rancher William M. Riggs Jr. of the Oak Ranch, and Nebraska ranchers David and Loretta Hamilton of the Reed Hamilton Ranch.

The NCA, which is based in Englewood, Colo., represents 250,000 producers in the various segments of the beef industry.

STANTON: Officer feared he would lose job

(From 1B)

"I called the sheriff later that night," Chavez said. "But I didn't tell him the truth at the time, because I thought I was going to be terminated" if the police chief found out what really happened.

Chavez said that the next day he told Adams the correct story. He said he initially lied to the sheriff about the site of the accident, which was in an alley near Dempsey's home.

His patrol car struck a gas meter, and a front reflector on the car was broken, Chavez said. Damage was minor.

Chavez said he panicked because he is intimidated by the police chief and feared Adams would fire him if he found out that he had driven near Dempsey's home.

"I got scared, and I panicked," Chavez said in a telephone interview from his home in Big Lake.

"Knowing the way Mike (Adams) was, I knew I was going to lose my job. I went the next day, right to him, to tell him" about the accident. "I didn't go to Mike Welling" to straighten out the initial story.

Adams said he was "not sitting in judgment" of Chavez's personal integrity.

"I'm not trying to blast him or his integrity," Adams said. "My decision was not a rash decision. I could not ignore it. It was something I had to deal with.

"First of all, an officer to work for the police department has to be able to have good rapport and trust with officers in the Sheriff's Office to be able to function," Adams said.

Chavez's Jan. 19 patrol-car accident occurred about 10 p.m. when Chavez said he drove down an alley behind his friend Dempsey's house.

Off and on that night Dempsey had been sitting in his pickup truck outside City Hall awaiting the results of the City Council's executive session. The police chief was with the council.

While Adams said that making a false report is a Class B misdemeanor punishable by a maximum fine of $1,000 and maximum 180-day jail sentence, Adams said he would not press for charges against Chavez.

Welling was unavailable for comment.

In his Feb. 2 letter to Chavez, Adams wrote: "On Jan. 19, 1993, Oscar Chavez made a false report to Martin County Sheriff Mike Welling about an accident he had while driving the patrol car. This compromises his integrity with the Sheriff's Office as well as with this (police) department. Under this condition, it would be impossible for Oscar Chavez to function as a police officer for the city of Stanton."

City Councilman Jim Epley said on Tuesday that "some people have the wrong idea that I don't like Mike Adams."

Epley, who is a sheriff's radio dispatcher, had initiated the defeated Jan. 26 motion to reinstate Dempsey.

"That's not the case. I don't like to see people fired for no reason, intimidated, and almost sick with fear," he said.

WEST TEXAS IN BRIEF

■ Spinal screening set

Staff report

Midland Independent School District next week will begin screening students in sixth through ninth grades for spinal problems.

The Legislature passed a law in 1985 that requires all students in grades six through nine to be screened for spinal deformities in an effort to prevent serious health problems.

Spinal problems may begin during ages 10-14. An estimated one in 10 adolescents have some degree of abnormal spine curvature.

Youth are screened for scoliosis and kyphosis, two types of spinal deformities.

Scoliosis is a condition in which the spine is twisted, causing misalignment of the upper body or lower back. This condition can worsen and lead to much pain, as well as complications of the heart and lungs.

Kyphosis is an exaggerated rounding of the spine.

Progression of both of these conditions can be arrested if detected early.

Spinal screening in Midland public schools will begin next week at Washington Elementary School. Other screening dates follow:

- Feb. 11 — Midland Freshman High School.
- Feb. 16 — DeZavala and Travis elementary schools.
- Feb. 18 — Lee Freshman High School.
- Feb. 19 — Crockett and Pease elementary schools.
- Feb. 22 — South Elementary School.
- Feb. 26 — Milam Elementary School.

A date for screening at Coleman High School will be announced later.

■ GISD receives grant

Greenwood Independent School District has received a "minigrant" of $16,863 to acquire technical computer hardware and software for a Tech-Prep academic program.

The Permian Basin Tech-Prep Consortium awarded the grant, which will be used to acquire new computer equipment.

The grant will also provide funding so teachers can be released from some of their regular duties to implement the Tech-Prep program.

"Tech-Prep offers an exciting challenge for schools to prepare students for the 21st century," said GISD Superintendent Quentin Burnett.

School districts throughout the Permian Basin submitted competitive bids for the funding.

The Tech-Prep initiative is a new educational concept that combines academic and vocational education into a cohesive six-year program spanning high school and two years of post-secondary training.

The program focuses on math, science, communications and basic workplace and technical skills.

Area businesses and industries are active partners in the program.

Tech-Prep occupations targeted for the Permian Basin include health centers, electronics technology and office systems technology.

House education committee approves 'Robin Hood' proposal

AUSTIN (AP) — The House Public Education Committee approved a "Robin Hood" school funding proposal Tuesday that is basically the same as a measure blocked by Republicans in a pre-Christmas special session.

"It may be even a little bit worse," said Rep. Kent Grusendorf, R-Arlington.

He predicted House Republicans again would oppose the proposed redistribution of some local school property taxes unless they can negotiate concessions from Democratic leaders.

All three Republicans on the 11-member committee voted against the proposed constitutional amendment by Rep. Libby Linebarger, D-Manchaca, committee chairwoman. They are Grusendorf and Reps. Steve Ogden of Bryan and G.E. "Buddy" West of Odessa.

A proposed amendment requires two-thirds approval of lawmakers to be put before voters on a state ballot. Republicans number 58 in the 150-member House.

Most Republicans would "hold their nose" and vote for the proposal if it also would make tax increases subject to voter approval, severely restrict court intervention in school funding, and allow vouchers to give parents a choice in the schools their children attend, Grusendorf said.

Ms. Linebarger said some proposals don't belong in the state constitution but could be addressed in separate legislation. She also said she must weigh whether a particular proposal would cost more votes than it would gain.

The full House is expected to consider the plan next week.

Lawmakers are trying to meet a June 1 Texas Supreme Court deadline for a constitutional plan to equalize funding among property-rich and poor school districts. Leaders say a proposed amendment must be approved by lawmakers by Feb. 20 to go on the May 1 ballot.

If the court deadline isn't met, Ms. Linebarger said, the Legislature faces the "travesty" of schools closing. She said lawmakers' choices are limited to local tax redistribution; more state money, which likely would require a state income tax; or school consolidation.

Ms. Linebarger's measure would allow statewide redistribution of about $400 million a year in property taxes. Under a separate spending plan that the committee hasn't voted on, about half that money would be redistributed within counties, and about half statewide. Ms. Linebarger said a number of plans could fit under her proposed amendment.

About $15.1 billion a year was spent on public education last school year, with most coming from state aid and property taxes.

The Senate earlier passed a proposed amendment to legalize the current funding system, in which local property tax money is redistributed within single- or multi-county education districts. The Supreme Court struck down that system as unconstitutional last year.

The proposal blocked earlier in the House also would have redistributed local tax money. Ms. Linebarger's measure might be even less palatable because it says the Legislature may require a school district provide a minimum amount of tax revenue to support its schools, Grusendorf said.

The Texas PTA also weighed in Tuesday against proposals to redistribute local tax money, saying that property taxes aren't providing equitable school funding.

The parent-teacher group would support a state income tax if that's what it takes to equitably fund schools, said Sandy Kibby, Texas PTA legislative consultant. But state leaders have said there's no legislative support for new taxes.

It takes officials 3 days to deliver $100,000 prize

DICKINSON (AP) — Publishers Clearing House officials showed up at $10 million sweepstakes winner Pamela Barton's door Friday night to present her with the first installment of the money.

Who knew it would take them three days to accomplish their mission?

Ms. Barton, a family therapist, didn't get back home to Dickinson until late Sunday after spending the weekend in Houston at a conference.

She was skeptical when neighbors and friends told her the magazine people were looking for her. When a contingent returned Monday, she became a believer — sort of.

"I still don't believe it's real, but I'm believing it's more real than I was believing it then," she said.

It was the second time she had entered the contest and she said she did not order any magazines. She doesn't plan to quit her job and will use the first check for home repairs and new carpet.

She picked up a check for $100,000 on Monday and will receive an additional $400,000 this year. Then she'll get $250,000 annually for 29 years and $2.5 million the 30th year, said David Sayer, a spokesman for Publishers Clearing House.

Russians to shine light on dark side of Earth

MOSCOW (AP) — Turning night into day is the stuff of Bible stories and science fiction. But Wednesday night, an unmanned Russian spaceship will shine a reflected solar spotlight from the heavens onto the dark side of Earth.

Weather permitting, light from the mirror in the sky should appear as a flaring star to those in the 2½-mile-wide path it will illuminate as it sweeps over the surface of the globe, officials said.

If it works, Operation Banner could lead to the development of panels of space mirrors powerful enough to light up nighttime work projects, rescue operations and sun-starved polar regions — something like a cosmic klieglight.

"Nobody has ever tried this," flight director Viktor Blagov said Tuesday from the flight control center north of Moscow. "We could light up any city at its request from midnight until 6 a.m."

The experiment Wednesday night also will test the mirror's use as a "solar sail" that could allow spaceships to harness and ride the solar wind like a sailboat catching the wind on the ocean.

The sail itself is made of Kevlar, an extremely thin but strong material, used in bulletproof vests. It is coated with a thin layer of aluminum and shaped like a parachute, 82 feet in diameter.

The sail will be unfurled at 7:40 p.m. EDT Wednesday from the supply ship Progress as controllers on the ground un-dock the vessel from the Mir space station, Blagov said.

Russian companies and ministries led by the oil and gas industry are paying most of the experiment's cost, Blagov said. Officials hope to entice other investors after a successful test.

Greek police plan to deport illegal aliens

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Greece announced Tuesday that police will conduct a nationwide sweep to hunt down and deport hundreds of thousands of illegal immigrants who are increasingly blamed for unemployment and crime.

Public Order Minister Nikos Gelestathis urged Greek news media and the public to help authorities with the search. He said foreigners here illegally would be arrested and quickly expelled.

Greeks have grown increasingly alarmed about crimes by foreigners, and Gelestathis said statistics tie immigrants to a sharp rise in crime. Public anger also is higher over the perception that skilled foreigners, who often work for as little as one-tenth the minimum wage, steal jobs from Greeks.

Many of the immigrants have fled the former Soviet Union and eastern Europe to seek work. There are also Kurds from Turkey and Iraq, Iranians, Pakistanis, Asians and some Africans.

"Within the next few days police will begin an effort to locate, arrest, register and deport illegal aliens," Gelestathis told reporters.

He said police estimate about 400,000 illegal aliens, including about 130,000 Albanians, are in Greece. Other ministries have put the number as high as 600,000, or 6 percent of Greece's population of 10 million.

Foreigners arrested without a residence permit can do little to prevent or even slow deportation. The only exception is for foreigners seeking political asylum.

"People will go into hiding. No one will come out, and everyone will try to scamper into holes and disappear," an illegal Filipino worker said. He refused to give his name fearing arrest and deportation.

Advocates for immigrants also criticized the crackdown.

"These types of actions threaten to turn all the country into a vast detention center," said Ioanna Kurtovic, a lawyer who handles immigrant cases.

She said police measures would not solve the social problems created by the flood of foreigners.

The European Community's only Balkan country, Greece has been swamped by refugees since the collapse of communism in eastern Europe.

Ratings super

NEW YORK (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys, Michael Jackson and NBC teamed up to make the 1993 Super Bowl the most-watched show in television history, and gave NBC its first weekly ratings victory in more than six months.

NBC said Tuesday that an estimated 133.4 million people watched the game Sunday, about 6.4 million more than watched the 1986 Super Bowl, the previous record-holder which also was on NBC.

The estimate was based on figures supplied by the A.C. Nielsen Co., and researched jointly by NBC and Nielsen.

The Super Bowl drew an A.C. Nielsen national rating of 45.1 and a 66 share, the highest marks since CBS did a 45.8 and 66 for the New York Giants-Denver Broncos Super Bowl in 1987.

NBC Sports president Dick Ebersol attributed the ratings success, in part, to Jackson's halftime show, which gave NBC a 45.5 rating during the half hour from 8-8:30 p.m. EST.

"While the game didn't stay as close as we would have liked, the record-breaking viewership was beyond our expectations," Ebersol said.

Lattibeaudiere scores 45; OHS 46

■ Lee senior Martin Lattibeaudiere comes close to outscoring the entire OHS team as the No. 10 Rebels win, 90-46.

Staff report

ODESSA — Martin Lattibeaudiere was two points short of beating the Odessa High Bronchos by himself Tuesday night.

Lattibeaudiere scored 45 points to lead the 10th-ranked Lee Rebels to a 90-46 win in District 4-5A play at the Odessa High fieldhouse. The 6-foot-1 senior, a three-year starter who needs 32 points to reach the 1,500 plateau, hit eight three-pointers and was nine of 10 from inside the bonus line.

The Rebels, 8-1 in league play and 25-4 overall, broke into the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches Top 10 this week, the first time in over a decade that Lee has cracked the Top 10. Odessa High falls to 1-8, 7-17.

Lee needs one victory to clinch a state playoff berth and will host Abilene High Friday at Chaparral Center.

Lady Bulldogs headed for playoffs

Staff report

ODESSA — Midland High's girls basketball team claimed a postseason berth here Tuesday night, picking up a 59-39 victory over Odessa Permian.

The win makes the Lady Bulldogs, 21-7 overall, 8-2 in District 4-5A. MHS is tied with Abilene High, which was idle Tuesday, and San Angelo (a 57-34 winner over Abilene Cooper) for first place.

All three teams have qualified for the playoffs, though postseason seedings and the district championship are still up for grabs. MHS' final two regular season games see it hosting Cooper Friday and visiting Odessa High next Tuesday.

For a team that qualified for the basketball playoffs just one year ago, the lights went out early on the Midland Lee girls in 1992-93, even if the curtain has not officially been drawn.

The Lady Rebels were defeated Tuesday night in their home gymnasium by Odessa High, 45-44, eliminating Lee from any chance at qualifying for the postseason.

The Lady Rebs are now 13-13 overall and 4-6 in District 4-5A. OHS improved to 18-10 and 4-6 but is also out of the playoff race. Lee has two games remaining in the season, Friday at Abilene High and next Tuesday back at home versus Odessa Permian.

Midland High, Abilene High and San Angelo clinched all the 4-5A playoff spots Tuesday.

And while Lee's Tanisha Mills scored a game-high 16 points, eight in the third quarter from the inside, Lee head coach Elise Kail said that paint points were the Lady Rebels' weakness in the first half.

"We didn't have any post play in the first half. We have got to have play from everybody, though T (Mills) came on in the second half," Kail said.

Since losing their leading scorer in senior post Tekeira Strambler five games ago to a knee injury, the Lady Rebs have been searching for an identity. Tuesday Lee tried its hand at the three-

Midland High looked as if it was at a playoff mortgage sale in the first half against Odessa Permian Tuesday night at Chaparral Center and ended up in control of its own playoff destiny.

The Bulldogs stormed back from a 13-point deficit with 6:36 left in the third quarter to beat Permian 62-54.

The improbable comeback left the Purple Pack in sole possession of third place with a 5-3 record in District 4-5A play while Permian lost control of third place, falling to 5-4.

And how did these stand-around Bulldogs turn it around? Well, 6-4 senior post Antwan Goodley didn't hurt. He scored 21 of his 26 points in the second half and hauled down nine rebounds.

In fact, it was Goodley that answered the bell when the 'Dogs fell behind by 13 points, 37-24, scoring on four consecutive trips down the floor on a little base line jumper that Permian had no clue of how to stop. The ignition was started and the Bulldogs came to life.

"There is no question that we were terrible in the first half," said MHS coach Jack Stephenson. "The sad thing is that we played the same way in the first half in Odessa against them.

Brett Ramsey put an end to what had been an erratic performance by the Lee High School soccer team Tuesday by scoring a pair of second-half goals to lead the Rebels to a 4-0 win over Odessa High.

The Rebels raised their record to 2-1 in District 5, 6-3 overall. The Bronchos, who won their first district game in school history Saturday with a double-shootout win over Abilene Cooper, fall to 1-2, 4-5.

In other district action, Midland High (1-1, 7-1) defeated Odessa Permian (1-2, 4-5), 3-0; San Angelo downed Cooper, 3-1.

Lee had 22 shots on goal in the first half, but only Freddie Silva's far-post shot 32 minutes, 17 seconds into the game kept the contest from being scoreless at intermission.

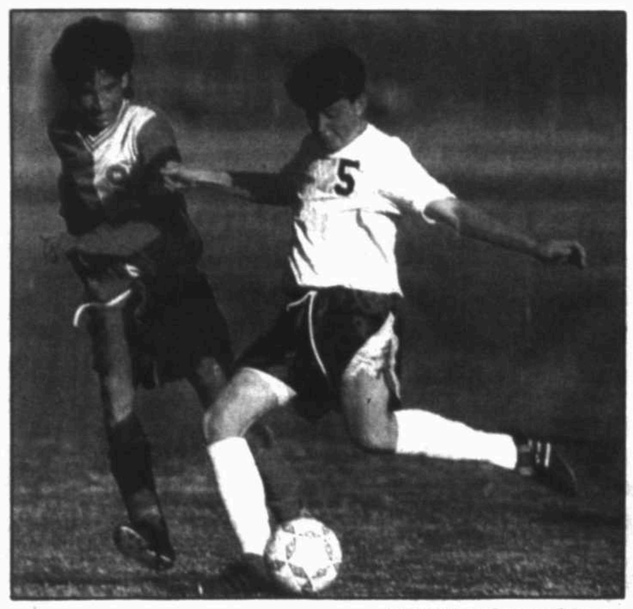

Of the 22 attempts, only five needed to be saved by OHS goalkeeper Joel Schieble.

The Rebels were consistently a yard long on a pass, a yard behind, or simply out of position on the attack throughout the first half, forcing the team into awkward or half-hearted shots. Ramsey said coach Eddie Bull told the squad at halftime not to get frustrated.

"He just told us to keep shooting," Ramsey said. "If you keep shooting, eventually they will fall in."

Davis moves to fill vacant defensive slot

Associated Press

IRVING, Texas — The Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys began making changes in their coaching assignments Tuesday.

Line coach Butch Davis was named defensive coordinator, replacing Dave Wannstedt, now head coach of the Chicago Bears, and offensive coordinator Norv Turner was given the additional title of assistant coach, replacing Wannstedt in that capacity.

"It's a great feeling to be taking over the league's top defense," Davis said. "We'll just try to get better and better. Dave did a great job

JIMMY PATTERSON

Fanaticism of '93 'Boys unmatched

A handful of thoughts and remembrances from Sunday's Super Bowl:

■ Isn't it great to be able to say "I told you so" to all those who said "Never in a million years"?

■ Even diehard Cowboy fans wouldn't wish injury on Jim Kelly. But in that game, it made no difference who led the Bills, so to speak.

■ The best thing about having a Super Bowl party this year was that there was so much talking, cheering and yelling going on that we all managed to effectively drown out whatever nonsense Jim Enberg and Bob Trumpy had to say. I can honestly say I didn't hear a word after the first quarter. And I don't miss it at all.

Patterson

■ Isn't it a little ironic that as the great Bob Costas was wrapping up his final football assignment for NBC, the network would pull such a gargantuan blunder as never telling us Troy Aikman won the MVP award.

■ It seems it's about time that Tom Landry ended his petty differences with the current Cowboy regime. There's no easy way to fire someone, but holding a grudge for four years borders on being downright childish. Roger Staubach saw it in himself to never hold a grudge, and we know how close he and Landry were. Maybe it's time for the student to teach the coach a little something. 'Course, Landry can't forgive now or he'll be perceived as a bandwagon-jumper.

■ Never in a million years (there goes that phrase again) did I ever foresee saying this: Jerry Jones has turned into a more than effective public relations man. No more "pick of the litter", "socks and jocks", or "Troy Aikman looks good in the shower" statements. Jones stole the pre-game spotlight last week in Pasadena.

■ It's been suggested that the fanaticism that accompanies the current Cowboy team is nothing like what was in the '70s. Having grown up in Irving during those years, the hype that was evident in Midland last week approached what '70s D-FW was like. Which leads you to wonder exactly what Dallas itself is like these days.

■ Had Dallas lost to Buffalo, the rub on the Cowboys wouldn't have been that they had lost four Super Bowls, but that they were the team that finally allowed Buffalo to win the big one.

■ If Buffalo can make the Super Bowl three years in a row, just imagine how long Dallas will be making the January jaunts.

■ True story: My brother, still a resident of Irving, goes into a grocery store last Saturday night. Naturally, almost everyone in sight was wearing Cowboy garb. Except, he said, for one little lady, about 70, who could hardly get around. Seems she was wearing a Buffalo Bills cap. And her dutiful husband of many years was there, too ... slowly walking about 10 paces behind her.

■ Enjoy the leftovers of the Cowboy success as long as you can. After those memories are diminished, all we have left to look forward to for the next seven months are the Mavericks and Rangers.

Johnson denies rumors

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Magic Johnson and his wife, Cookie, said Tuesday that their marriage "couldn't be better" and rumors about a split were ridiculous.

"I have no idea where these rumors could have started. We're really tired of it," Mrs. Johnson said in response to a published report that the marriage was rocky.

"We're doing great. It couldn't be better. We're getting along better than we ever have," she said during a brief telephone interview from the couple's Beverly Hills home.

The retired Los Angeles Lakers star and Olympic gold medalist was listening in on the conversation and joked: "I'm throwing her out. Where do you want to live, Cookie?"

Bulldog soccer team wins, 3-0

ODESSA — Midland High's boys soccer team shut out Odessa High, 3-0, Tuesday to even its District 5 record at 1-1. The Bulldogs, 7-1 overall, took 18 shots on Permian's goal.

All three of MHS' goals were unassisted. David Farias scored in the 67th minute, followed one minute later by Sean Parnell. And with less than two minutes remaining, Brian Roby gave the Bulldogs their final score of the afternoon.

The Bulldogs host Abilene Cooper Saturday at 2 p.m.

MHS struggles to 0-3 record

Midland High's Lady Bulldogs fell to 0-3 on the soccer season after a 4-0 route by Ector County's Mighty Ducks.

Tonya Garis had a hat trick for the Ducks while Becky Athey came up with Ector's final goal.

thought we could do. Permian was really kicking us, but I think they let us back in the game by coming out with a spread offense. That allowed us to bring three guards in. Then we're able to go inside to Antwan and he didn't miss anything."

Goodley hit five of five shots from the field and scored 12 points in the third quarter alone.

"Coach said I was falling away from my jumper in the first half," Goodley said. "He said to just go back out and go up and shoot."

"Getting the ball to Antwan was our game plan," Stephenson said. "After all, (Andrae) Patterson of Cooper hit 49 against them. We felt like we could get some inside baskets."

Permian stormed to a 20-8 first period lead and led 31-22 at the half as post Marlon Hall scored 10 first half points and 17 for the game. Reuben Loud had nine points in each half. Hall and Loud also combined for 20 rebounds, grabbing 10 each.

Permian out-rebounded MHS by a 31-20 margin, but hit only seven of 32 shots from the field in the second half of play. The Panthers seemed to lose its momentum after going to the conservative spread offense in the second half.

When Permian lost its shooting touch in the third period, MHS countered with an eight of nine effort to get back in the race. The Bulldogs took their first lead with 7:42 left in the game when Kirk French hit a trey, but the lead would change hands six more times before Philip Warlick hit back-to-back buckets for a 54-51 lead with 3:48 left to play. Permian scored only three points from there to the buzzer.

MHS must hit the road for league leading Abilene Cooper Friday while Permian is open before facing Midland Lee next Tuesday. This race isn't over, but MHS took a big step toward the playoffs with this one.

In junior varsity play, MHS won a 52-41 decision over Permian to climb to 17-7 and 4-4 as Cameron Stotts had 15 points. Jeff Coffman had 13 points and Luke Mattarano had 12.

In sophomore action, the 18-5, 6-1 Bulldogs defeated Permian by a 36-29 margin as Rico Hinson scored 20 points.

Blowout was entirely unpredictable

LOS ANGELES — The view from the top is a mighty pretty sight for the Dallas Cowboys. For the Buffalo Bills, peering up from the bottom of the barrel, there is emptiness. There is darkness.

"We're a good enough football team to get here three consecutive times and not win it once," said Bills linebacker Darryl Talley. "It's just a crying shame. Hey, you know how mother said there would be days like that."

But even mom could not have predicted a 52-17 score.

So, the Super Bowl turned into a Super Rout once again and the Bills and the American Conference again go home with their tails between their legs. You heard some Bills afterward say that whether they had lost by one point or by 35, the loss would sting the same way.

That is a lie.

Bills Coach Marv Levy knows better.

"Well, sure it is," Levy answered when asked if this was the most disappointing of Buffalo's record three consecutive Super Bowl defeats. "It was by such a large margin. To lose so bad in such a big game adds to the distress you feel. The biggest defeat you can have is to crawl into a shell and say, 'Well, that's it. I tried and we're not going to make it.' That's not going to be our style."

Bills receiver Andre Reed added: "There's something about this team that's a mystery."

The margin was 35 points, the same number of points that the Bills allowed the Cowboys off a record nine turnovers. Buffalo gained more first downs than Dallas (22 to 20), had 11 more plays (71 to 60), gained more total yards passing (276 to 273) and made fewer penalties (four for 30 yards to eight for 53 yards).

But those nine turnovers — five fumbles and four interceptions — turned Super Bowl XXVII upside down and inside out.

"We never thought it would be that many," said Cowboys linebacker Ken Norton. "We work on turnovers all the time. We hit people hard. Everyone's talking about our speed, but not too many people give our act of being physical enough respect. They weren't just dropping balls. We were knocking them out."

And that was a key part of the Dallas game plan.

Dallas Coach Jimmy Johnson said afterward that he knew he had the better team. One big advantage, he said, was the way his team took care of the football and the way the Bills did not. Entering the Super Bowl, Buffalo in 19 games had lost 17 fumbles and had been intercepted 24 times. Dallas in 18 games had lost 10 fumbles and had been intercepted 15 times.

"We expected to get some turnovers," Johnson said. "We have a very aggressive defense and because of our quickness and the style we play, we thought that Buffalo would turn it over."

Wife of Midland's Hillin delivers boy

Staff report

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Kim Hillin, wife of NASCAR driver Bobby Hillin Jr., had a baby boy at 6:50 p.m. Sunday here at Mercy Hospital.

Hillin Jr. is a Midland High graduate and former football standout.

New son is Luke Kalil Hillin, who weighed in at six pounds and 11 ounces and is 19¼ inches long.

"It is an amazing thing," Hillin said. "Both Kim and the baby are doing great."

Hillin didn't let the unexpected pleasure get in the way of watching his favorite NFL football team, the Dallas Cowboys, romp past the Buffalo Bills in the Super Bowl.

"We watched the the Super Bowl at the hospital," Hillin says. "He (Luke) will be a Dallas fan."

Hillin will make his debut in the Heilig-Meyers Junie Donlavey-prepared Ford when practice begins Friday for Winston Cup drivers preparing for the Daytona 500 by STP slated for Sunday, Feb. 14.

Qualifying for the 500 will be held, beginning at 2 p.m., on Saturday. Hillins is expected to be one of the favorites for the pole position after posting some of the top speeds during the two months of testing for the 500.

the first half, said the missed opportunities never disturbed him.

"They were standing in front of the goal (in the first half)," Bull said. "We were not moving the ball around enough. I was happy with the way we were shooting the ball, though.

"We finally broke through and scored some, which is what we've been needing to do."

Florian Ludewig and Scott McLeod combined for the shutout. Ludewig saved four shots; McLeod saved three.

Ramsey gave the Rebels a 2-0 lead with 17:15 gone in the second half, scoring on assist from Brian Gibson — Gibson's second of the game. Ramsey scored again with a near-post shot at the 32:48 mark on a free kick, slightly left of center from 30 yards out.

Ramsey said he initially had not intended to shoot at the goal on the free kick.

"One of our fullbacks (Jeff Stallings) dared me to try it," Silva said.

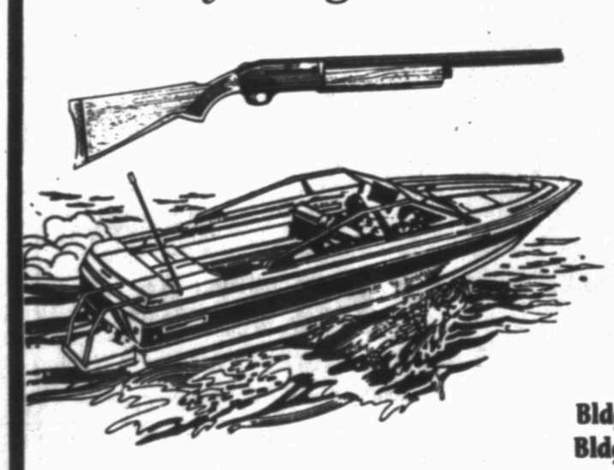

Lee's final goal was scored when an Odessa defender, attempting to clear the ball to his goalkeeper, misfired and put the ball in the net. Silva, the last Lee player to touch the ball, got credit for the goal.

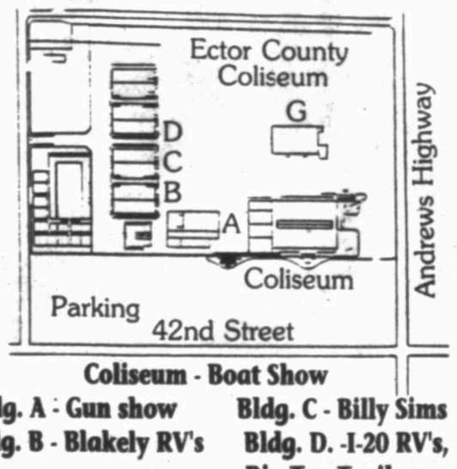

It was the second time in district play an opponent had scored for the Rebels. Lee beat Midland High a week ago, 1-0, when the Bulldogs put the ball in their own goal.

"We must be an excellent team," Bull said with a smile afterward. "We can talk everybody into scoring for us."

Midland Bowling

Weekly Midland bowling results as reported by Karen Jordan of the Midland Bowling Association.

Near perfect are the perfect words for action last week on the Midland bowling scene at Cactus Lanes. Three local bowlers missed the perfect 300 by one pin in two separate leagues.

In the Keglers League, Patti Hall had a 299 and a 653 series when a stubborn four-pin failed to go down. In the Civic Commercial League, Shorty Shaw turned in a 299-677 and Jesse Bowen had a 299-704. And overshadowed by the string of 299s was the fine 279-704 by Glen Hildebran.

Tip of the Week

Here are a few helpful hints on how to keep your bowling balls in tip-top condition. Softer balls, or balls that hook, tend to get oil-soaked after you use them for a while and you won't get that good back-end reaction you desire. Have your pro shop attendant put your ball on the spinner with a light grade of sand paper and buff it up. It will react like a new ball. This procedure can be done several times without harming your ball.

Harder balls, or balls that slide, will get dull after prolonged use. The same application can be made using a buffing solution instead of sandpaper.

point shot, with limited success.

"We've had to change our entire game plan, and that means more outside play (guard Susan Seay also scored nine points). It's hard to have to adjust like that in the last couple of games of the season," Kail said.

While senior guard Courtney McHugh knocked down 3-of-5 treys and scored 10 points, Lee was 4-for-14 as a team on three-point attempts. The Lady Rebs' other three came from guard Denessa Kendrick, whose trey brought the score to 45-44 with 11 seconds left in the game.

And while Lee still had life after Kim Rackow missed the front end of a one-and-one and Krissy Woodard grabbed the rebound with five seconds left, a turnover on the way upcourt ended the game for the Lady Rebs.

The Lady Bronchos were led in scoring by Amy Trent's 14 points, while Rackow tossed in 13. OHS head coach Harry Masch said he was also pleased with the output of high post Cindy Quintela, who scored nine points and hit a three-pointer with 3:37 to play, helping OHS cut what had been a 41-32 Lee lead to 41-40.

"She's a good shooter, but she may have gotten lucky on that three-pointer. It went off the backboard, but at least it went in," Masch said.

While Lee outscored the Lady Broncs 14-11 in the first quarter and 19-9 in the third, it was OHS that won the pivotal second and fourth periods, 12-5 and 13-6.

"Those are probably the better ones to win, although I always thought the third quarter usually decided a game," Masch said.

For the Lady Rebels, the goal now must be to finish at the .500 mark in district.

"We've got two more and it's up to the kids to decide whether they want to finish 6-6, 5-7 or 4-8 in district," Kail said.

In junior varsity play, OHS defeated Lee 46-34, as Deborah York scored 22 points for the Lady Rebels.

Houston, San Antonio win

Associated Press

HOUSTON — Hakeem Olajuwon had 31 points and 14 rebounds as Houston beat Indiana for the 16th straight time at the Summit, 115-104.

The Rockets have won 11 of their last 13 games overall.

Vernon Maxwell had 18 points for the Rockets, while Otis Thorpe had 16 and Carl Herrera added a career-high 15. Reserve Matt Bullard scored all 10 of his points in the fourth quarter.

Rik Smits led Indiana with 20 points. Detlef Schrempf added 17 and Reggie Miller 16 for the Pacers.

Houston led 84-83 after the first basket of the fourth quarter and used a 10-4 run to increase the margin to 94-87 with 8:32 left. Houston moved ahead 97-89 on a 3-pointer by Bullard and later went on a 9-0 run to make it 113-97.

Houston led 31-23 after one period, but Indiana scored the first 11 points of the second quarter to move in front 34-31.

With the score tied 61-all in the third quarter, Houston went on an 11-2 run to take a 72-63 lead before Indiana cut it to 84-81 going into the fourth quarter.

Spurs 111, Nets 93

SAN ANTONIO — Dale Ellis scored 24 points as San Antonio beat New Jersey and moved into sole possession of first place in the Midwest Division.

The Spurs, who are 21-1 against the Nets at Hemisfair Arena, shot 57 percent from the field and took a half-game lead over second-place Utah.

New Jersey was led by Derrick Coleman, who had 22 points and 12 rebounds, and Chris Morris, who scored 20 points.

Leading by six with 10:16 left in the third quarter, San Antonio went on an 8-2 run to take a 66-54 lead. The Spurs scored five straight points to take a 105-88 lead with 2:41 remaining in the game, and cruised to their ninth consecutive home victory.

David Robinson scored 17 points for San Antonio, which is 17-3 under coach John Lucas.

The Spurs led 54-46 at halftime, getting 11 points each from Ellis and Sean Elliott.

Cavaliers 100, Warriors 90

RICHFIELD, Ohio — Gerald Wilkins scored a season-high 28 points and stopped Golden State's last-gasp rally with a jumper late in the fourth quarter as the Cleveland Cavaliers beat the Warriors.

Cleveland sent the Warriors to their seventh straight road loss and their 10th in 12 games overall. The Cavaliers have won eight of their last nine home games, including four in a row.

Golden State's Chris Mullin scored 17 points, reaching double figures for the 300th consecutive regular-season game. Only Michael Jordan, with 542, has a longer current streak.

Sarunas Marciulionis led the Warriors with 20 points.

Knicks 105, Bullets 101

NEW YORK — John Starks awoke a sleeping New York offense with 11 of his 28 points in the final 5:05, giving the Knicks a victory over the Washington Bullets.

The Bullets, who have lost eight of nine games, got a season-high 29 points from Buck Johnson, who hit 13 of 17 shots and led Washington back from a 16-point deficit in the second half.

A 3-pointer and 18-footer by Starks gave New York its largest lead, 74-58, with 5:08 left in the third quarter. Harvey Grant then scored nine points in a 16-6 run that closed Washington to 80-74 with 38 seconds remaining.

New York rebuilt the margin to 84-74 early in the fourth quarter before missing 8 of 9 shots. The Bullets then rallied again behind Johnson, whose previous high this season was 12 points.

Johnson, making his second start of the season at guard, scored nine points during a 13-3 burst that tied the score 87-87 with 7:12 left, and Pervis Ellison's three-point play gave Washington its first advantage since the first quarter, 92-89, with 5:43 remaining.

Hawks 118, SuperSonics 109

ATLANTA — Dominique Wilkins scored 34 points and became the Hawks' career scoring leader as Atlanta beat Seattle.

Wilkins increased his career total to 20,885 points, breaking the franchise record of 20,880 set by Bob Pettit from 1954-1965 when the Hawks were in St. Louis.

Wilkins broke the record on a baseline basket with 6:20 remaining. Wilkins moved ahead of Pettit into 15th place on the all-time NBA scoring list.

Mookie Blaylock added 19 points and 11 assists and Kevin Willis had 15 points and 16 rebounds.

Associated Press

EAST LANSING, Mich. — Seventh-ranked Michigan led almost all the way but never by more than 10 points in handing No. 25 Michigan State its fourth straight home loss, 73-69 on Tuesday night. The Spartans (11-6, 3-5 Big Ten) closed within three points on three occassions in the second half, but each time Michigan (17-3, 6-2) responded with a run of its own. This was the 134th game between the two intrastate rivals. The Wolverines lead the series 80-54.

■ Top 25

Eric Snow, who had a career-high 18 points for Michigan State, scored six points in an early second-half burst that closed the gap to 42-39 with 15:43 left. Kris Weshinskey had five of his 15 points in another spurt that narrowed the margin to 53-50 with 8:33 remaining, and Mike Peplowski scored five of his 15 in a run that made it 60-57 with 5:14 to play.

But after each Michigan State run, the Wolverines rallied.

Juwan Howard had 16 points and 12 rebounds and Jalen Rose added 15 points. The Wolverines, who were upset at Iowa on Sunday, shot 46 percent and hit 16 of 26 free throws.

No. 12 Florida St. 92, Jacksonville 77

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Florida State (15-6) trailed 43-41 at halftime but used a 17-3 run early in the second half to pull away from Jacksonville (3-14). The Seminoles played without injured point guard Charlie Ward, who suffered a shoulder separation Sunday and will be sidelined a minimum of two weeks. The Seminoles are 6-1 with Ward in the lineup, 9-5 without. The loss was the sixth straight for Jacksonville. Florida State has won seven of eight.

No. 14 Seton Hall 90, Providence 71

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Terry Dehere broke out of a 17-for-50 shooting slump with a season-high 29 points as Seton Hall (16-5, 6-3 Big East) ended a three-game losing streak. Dehere hit 10 of 17 from the field, including 4 of 8 from 3-point range. The Pirates' biggest lead was 20 points on a 3-pointer by Arturas Karnishovas with 32 seconds to play. It was the 20th conference road loss in 23 games for the Friars' (9-8, 2-7).

No. 20 Marquette 69, South Florida 54

TAMPA, Fla. — The Warriors ran their winning streak to nine games with an easy victory over South Florida (4-12). Tony Miller scored 16 points and made all six of his field goal attempts to lead four Marquette (16-2) players in double figures. Marquette scored on 10 of its first 13 possessions in the second half, capped by a 10-0 run to open up its biggest lead of the game at 60-41.

No. 17 Arkansas 91, LSU 79

BATON ROUGE, La. — Robert Sheperd stole a lazy inbounds pass and laid it in, keying a 10-2 run as No. 17 Arkansas held off LSU.

Scotty Thurman scored 22 points and Corliss Williamson 18, including 14 apiece in the second half as the Razorbacks pulled away. Sheperd had 12 as Arkansas (14-4, 5-3 Southeastern Conference) took sole posession of first place in the SEC's Western Division.

Rice downs Houston, 65-61

■ SWC

HOUSTON (AP) — Pressure-proof Rice got 18 points from Marvin Moore, including two clinching free throws with 14 seconds to play, leading the Owls to a 65-61 victory over cold-shooting Houston Tuesday night.

The Owls (12-5, 6-1 in SWC games) remained atop the SWC standings after winning their second game ever in Hofheinz Pavilion in 23 tries. Houston (11-5, 4-3) lost its third straight game.

After taking a 63-53 lead with 1:08 to play, the Owls had to survive a lightning comeback by the Cougars, who got consecutive 3-point goals from Lloyd Wiles and Anthony Goldwire and Goldwire's steal and basket for eight straight points.

That cut the margin to 63-61 with 30 seconds to go and it took the Owls three time outs over seven seconds before they finally got possession on the alternate possession rule.

Wiles then fouled Moore with 14 seconds to go and the senior guard sank both shots.

Bills begin teamwide soul-search

Associated Press

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. — It's become a ritual for the Buffalo Bills — lose the Super Bowl, come home to the cold, clean out their lockers and wonder if they can make it back next season.

"Hopefully, we'll get back there a fourth time and end this Super Bowl losing streak," cornerback Clifford Hicks said Tuesday as he packed his bags.

The chore of closing up shop after a third straight Super Bowl loss was quick, quiet and a little more disheartening than after the first two defeats.

The city canceled a welcome-home rally for the Bills scheduled for Tuesday because the team didn't want to face the fans after losing again.

"The Super Bowl itself was anticlimatic enough," quarterback Frank Reich said. "The rally would have dragged out the misery that much longer. We would have gone through the pain and agony of doing it if we felt that's what the fans wanted."

But the Bills felt the fans wanted to forget Super Bowl loss No. 3 as much as the players do.

The losses keep getting worse. Two years ago, the Bills lost by a point to the New York Giants. Last year, they lost by two touchdowns to the Washington Redskins. This year, by 35 points to the Dallas Cowboys, 52-17.

"To lose it the way we did; basically us not even showing up, that makes it harder to swallow," wide receiver Don Beebe said.

Beebe provided one of the few worthwhile moments for the Bills when he chased down Cowboys defensive lineman Leon Lett as he was about to run a fumble into the end zone. It would have given Dallas 58 points, a Super Bowl record, but Beebe knocked the ball out of Lett's hands.

"That's what's instilled in a player," Beebe said. "You never quit no matter what the score is, even if you're getting blown out."

Tight end Pete Metzelaars said the pluck Beebe showed on that play was lacking in virtually everything else the Bills tried.

"I still think we could beat them, but we just played lousy," Metzelaars said. "We were lucky it wasn't 70-17."

In a sense, the Bills said, they were glad the season was over, even if it ended with another loss. It was a long season with a lot of injuries and too many highs and lows.

Running back Thurman Thomas planned to play golf and forget the Super Bowl.

"If you go through the offseason thinking about what could have been, you're not going to have a very good offseason," Thomas said.

Coach Marv Levy briefly wandered the locker room, shaking hands and doing some well wishing among his players, including wide receiver James Lofton.

Lofton, 36, dropped a lot of passes this season and some observers have said his career is over. He said he would be back next season.

"I was written off when the Raiders cut me" in 1989, Lofton said. The Bills picked him up as a free agent that year.

The final team meeting of the season lasted less than 10 minutes. Levy said he had little to tell his players other than to keep in shape for next season.

"I didn't wax eloquent. ... I told them to hold up their heads, there were a lot of highlights to the season and they should feed off them for next year," Levy said.

COWBOYS: Changes part of Johnson's job

(From 1D)

and I learned a lot from him."

Turner was the mastermind of the Dallas offense which produced four Troy Aikman touchdown passes in a 52-17 victory over the Buffalo Bills in the Super Bowl Sunday.

"I look forward to our new staff coming together," coach Jimmy Johnson said in a statement. "Butch is going to do a fine job as the coordinator. He has worked hard and has learned the opportunity. We will be naming other defensive assistants at a later time."

Offensive line coach Tony Wise, who will leave the Cowboys to go to Chicago with Wannstedt, will be replaced by Hudson Houch, Seattle's offensive line coach.

"Hudson is a quality coach who has been involved in successful organizations on both the college and NFL levels," Johnson said.

Bob Slowik, a secondary assistant coach, also will join the Wannstedt team.

Also, Wannstedt said San Jose State coach Ron Turner, who is the brother of Norv Turner, will become the Bears offensive coordinator.

"Ron will do a great job," Wannstedt said. "I had talked to him last year about going to Pittsburgh if I got that job."

Valley Ranch otherwise was a ghost town Tuesday as the Cowboys, who began their quest for the NFL title Sept. 7 against the defending world champion Washington Redskins, finally rested.

The Super Bowl trophy was still in a shipping case in the equipment room. Equipment manager Buck Buchanan worked feverishly to put away the gear until the first mini-camp.

Johnson was in the Bahamas with his sons and other members of his family for a week's vacation.

Johnson, former coach of the Miami Hurricanes, became the first coach to win a national collegiate title and a Super Bowl with the victory at Pasadena.

Owner Jerry Jones, who now says his purchase of the team for $140 million "was a steal," took a rare day off. He planned to be back in the office early Wednesday.

"We've got to see what's ahead with free agency and the draft," Jones said. "We get the 28th draft spot. That means we might want to try to make a deal."

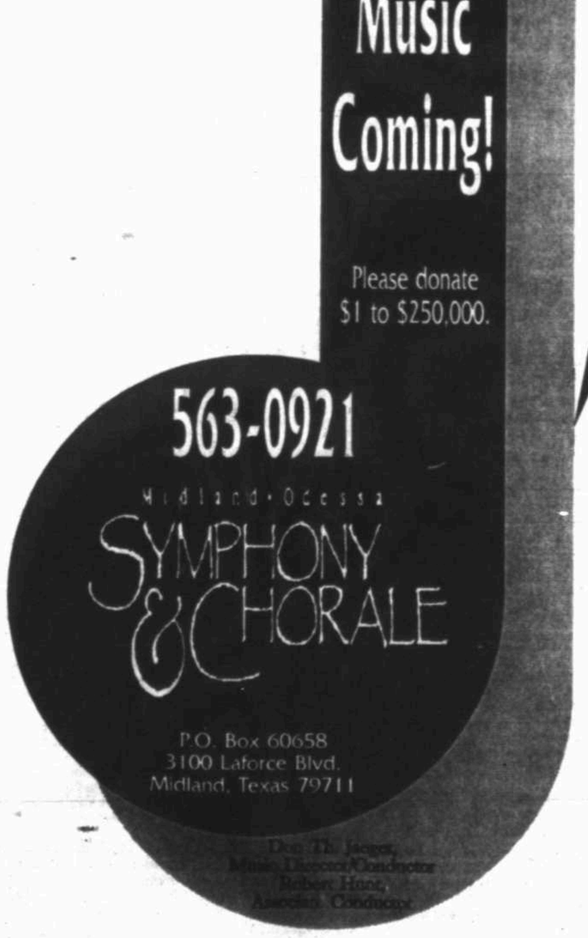

The move of Wise to Chicago with Wannstedt was expected.

"Dave's a close friend of mine and I want to be there to help him solidify his offensive line," Wise said. "It will be tough to leave what we built here in Dallas."

Johnson said earlier there had been only one year in 15 as head coach in which he had made no staff changes.

"I've had to make adjustments before," Johnson said. "It's all part of having a successful program."

Houck was with the Los Angeles Rams for nine years before going to Seattle in 1992 and working with Turner.

Prices retreat

NEW YORK — Doubts that OPEC will be able to agree to a production cut at its meeting later this month helped depress oil prices on Tuesday. Lower prices for home heating oil also contributed to the broader market's drop.

West Texas Intermediate for delivery in March settled at $20.00 per barrel, down 31 cents, at the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Steady output by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in January led many to doubt whether the cartel's leaders are serious about cutting production by 1 million barrels per day, analysts said.

OPEC's secretary general said in Davos, Switzerland, that OPEC's production last month was about 24.9 million barrels per day in January, virtually unchanged. The number matched an estimate issued the day before by Petroleum Intelligence Weekly, an industry newsletter.

Furrs news

ALBUQUERQUE — Furr's Supermakets Inc. announced that its business is in no way affected by Monday's bankruptcy filing by Rubus Realty Co., formerly known as Furr's Inc.

FSI Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Jan Friederich underscored the fact that, while Rubus and Furr's Supermarkets have a common heritage, they have for nearly two years operated as separate businesses.

Furr's is the largest operator of supermarkets in New Mexico and West Texas, coming in to being in 1991 as the result of a management-led buyout of the assets of the majority of the stores that had been owned by Furr's Inc. of Lubbock,

Dollar rises

NEW YORK — The dollar rose against most major currencies Thursday as economic news strengthened in the United States and continued to show weakness in Europe.

In late trading in New York, the dollar was at 124.65 Japanese yen, down from 125.05 yen on Monday.

In New York it cost $1.4440 to buy one pound, less expensive than Monday's $1.4595.

Other late dollar rates in New York, compared with late Monday's rates included: 1.6405 German marks, up from 1.6358; 1.5210 Swiss francs, up from 1.5180; 5.5495 French francs, up from 5.5310; 1,522.00 Italian lire, up from 1,514.00, and 1.26446 Canadian dollars, up from 1.2630.

Stocks slip

NEW YORK — Stock prices settled mixed in heavy trading Tuesday, with drug stocks bearing the brunt of the selling.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed at 3,328.67, off 3.51 points.

But advancing issues outnumbered declining ones by about 5 to 4 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Tanker rules could imperil insurers

■ All elements of 'train wreck scenario' are in play but one: the deadline.

By Jane Baird
Hearst News Service

HOUSTON — The tanker industry calls it the "train wreck scenario."

The U.S. Coast Guard sets a deadline for all oil tankers to produce certificates guaranteeing that someone will be financially responsible for cleanup costs and damages if an oil spill occurs. The 17 mutual insurers that cover the tanker industry refuse to provide these certificates.

The deadline comes, both sides not budging. Tankers stop calling at U.S. ports, and oil imports come to a crashing halt, bringing the U.S. economy to its knees.

"This would be a worldwide oil embargo that we would have done to ourselves," said Francis Gonynor, partner in the Houston law firm of Eastham, Watson, Dale & Forney.

All of the elements that could lead to the train wreck scenario are presently in play, except for one: The Coast Guard has set no deadline.

The problem started with the Oil Pollution Act, which required tankers to have certificates of financial responsibility.

For most tanker owners, "the only viable option is to provide evidence of membership in a P & I club (protection and indemnity mutual insurance company) and confirmation of the coverage resulting therefrom," said Michael Naess, president of Bermuda-based Naess Shipping Co.

Tankers, regardless of the law, must carry insurance against pollution risks to do business. A tanker typically carries coverage of $500 million plus an excess of $200 million, or $700 million per incident.

But the typical insurance policy is not enough, the Coast Guard said in a notice of proposed rule making in September 1991.

To satisfy the new rule, the insurance carrier must sign a direct guarantee that it will pay for a spill. Tanker policies have always been written on an indemnity basis, in which the tanker owner pays the bills and then files a claim with the insurer to recover his money.

The insurance clubs contend that the rule would expose an insurer to potentially unlimited liability.

The act does set a limit on liability at $1,200 per gross ton, which would amount to $120 million for a ship about the size of the Exxon Valdez.

But a tanker loses the protection of that limit if it is found to have violated any regulation, Gonynor said. "You talk to anybody in the industry, and they say it is a foregone conclusion that efforts will be made to deprive you of those limits."

The Coast Guard's proposed ruling stirred such a furor that it has backed away from issuing a final rule, which would bring the issue to a head.

U.S. firm takes top semiconductor spot

By Tom Abate
Hearst News Service

SAN FRANCISCO — A Silicon Valley firm has become the world's top supplier of semiconductor manufacturing equipment, recapturing a spot held by Japanese companies since 1986.

In 1992, with nearly $800 million in sales worldwide, Applied Materials of Santa Clara, Calif., out-produced second-place Tokyo Electron Ltd. by 15 percent, according to an industry ranking released Monday by VLSI Research Inc. of San Jose, Calif.

Losing the top spot in the critical industry that builds the tools that make semiconductors is only the latest setback to befall Japan, which is deeply mired in recession. Only last week its national pride took a symbolic fall, when an American became a grand master sumo wrestler, the first foreigner ever to receive that honor.

Meanwhile, in the industrial arena, Intel Corp. recently threw its Japanese competitors aside and became the world's top maker of semiconductors.

Together, the top rankings earned by Intel and Applied Materials were seen as signs of a comeback in semiconductors, as American firms take advantage of Japanese economic weakness to make gains.

"The U.S. industry is definitely coming back strong, and Applied's rise is an indication of that," said Dan Hutcheson of VLSI Research.

Hutcheson compiled the list that put five American firms among the world's top 10 manufacturers of semiconductor equipment. He said that when VLSI started the rankings in 1979, U.S. firms dominated the top 10 list and held 90

Midlander Cliff Whittington has formed CLEAN AIR SYSTEMS, manufacturing an allergy and dust air filter for central units that he promised will elminate 95 percent of all indoor pollutants.

He said the filter, warranted for 10 years, works by forcing air through the polypropylene woven fabric, creating a static electronic field. The inner polyester element keeps the pollutants, thus keeping the home's ventilation system clear of dust and molds.

The filter can be removed and rinsed off — Whittington recommends a monthly rinse — and replaced. Filters are available in standard sizes and custom sizes are available upon request.

His company can be contacted by calling 570-9337.

STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE

WHAT IS STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE?

Stockquote Hotline gives you the latest stock prices direct from the wires of the Associated Press. Over 9,000 stocks are listed from NYSE, AmEx, and OTC sources; all available 24 hours a day. You can receive up to 10 quotes with one easy phone call.

HOW TO USE STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE:

1) Call the Stockquote Hotline at 560-2400; enter the category number which is 9988.

2) You will be asked to enter your stock ticker symbol. These are based on industry-standard symbols, which can be found in a Standard & Poor's Ticker guide, or by calling your local stock broker.

3) Once you've entered the numerical code for the ticker symbol, press the Star Key (*) and you will hear the current price and net change from the last Associated Press update; which is a few minutes behind market activity.

4) After the stock is quoted, you will be asked to enter another ticker symbol. You now have 2 options:
- You may request a quote for another stock by repeating steps 2 & 3.
- You may request additional information on the stock just quoted by once more pressing the Star Key (*).

Now the volume, high and low will be given, and then you will be asked to enter another ticker code.
- You may enter up to 10 ticker symbols per call.

5) To exit Stockquote Hotline, simply hang up the phone.

SPOT: U.S. firm tops Japan with semiconductors

percent of the market for semiconductor equipment.

"Every year until 1990 the U.S. lost market share," he said. In 1991, U.S. firms began to regain some of the ground lost to Japanese competitors. In 1992, Hutcheson said, the combined market share of U.S. firms should surpass 50 percent. European companies hold only a tiny share of the market.

In Santa Clara, where Applied Materials employs some 2,000 out of its 3,900-strong worldwide work force, company Chairman Jim Morgan was savoring the sound of "ichiban," or "No.1" in Japanese.

"We've come from being a small company further down in the group to third in the last several years," Morgan said. "This year we moved ahead to No.1."

Despite a sluggish world economy, Applied saw its 1992 revenues grow 21.4 percent. Morgan, 54, said the company's rise resulted from years of building worldwide sales — Applied earns about half its income from Japan and Europe — coupled with big investments in new product development.

"For the 16 years I've been heading the company we've invested between 15 to 20 percent in research, developmen and engineering," Morgan said.

Its new product development has helped Applied focus on the fastest-growing part of the semiconductor industry, the market for complex logic products. Charles Boucher, an industry analyst for Dataquest in San Jose, explained that simple chips, like memories, are made of single slices of silicon. Complex chips, like microprocessors, stack slices of silicon one atop another.

"The reason for Applied's growth is very clever management and smart positioning," Boucher said. "They've focused on making the tools to connect those multilayered complex chips."

Boucher said Applied also benefited from a sluggish Japanese economy. The leading Japanese semiconductor equipment makers, who number five of the world's top 10, sell about 75 percent of their machinery inside Japan, he said.

"U.S. companies are much more balanced" in their ratio of domestic to export sales, Boucher said. "The precipitous drop in the Japanese market gave the U.S. companies a bonus."

But the topsy-turvy alliances of the global market also caught some American firms in Japan's recessionary spin. Varian Associates Inc. of Palo Alto slipped one notch to No.7 in the industry rankings as its sales dropped 20 percent.

Miniature M&Ms are candy, baking chip

By Linda Anderson

Anderson

Will wonders never cease: The Mars candy company has recently introduced a semi-sweet, mini version of my favorite "breakfast" food, M&Ms (I prefer peanut M&Ms, but I'm not that picky) that are designed to be used in baking, just like chocolate chips are.

Ever since I heard about the new, tiny, semi-sweet M&Ms, I've been looking for them in the supermarket (so has the smallest nag — oops, I mean taste-tester), but I haven't seen them on the shelves with the rest of the chocolate chips or in the candy section with the rest of the M&Ms. I did find some, however, in Betty Crocker's Supreme Dessert Bar Mix for Cookie Bars. I bought a box of the Cookie Bar Mix basically to check out the new M&Ms, since I've already written about Supreme Dessert Bar Mix; however, if checking out the new M&Ms means eating cookies, who's complaining?

Like the rest of the Supreme Dessert Bar Mixes, the Cookie Bars mix cost $2.59. I don't know how much a bag of semi-sweet M&Ms would cost by itself since I haven't found one in the stores yet, but I haven't stopped looking.

According to label advertising, the M&Ms are "mini-baking M&Ms," but of course the young taste-tester and I didn't let it stop there. We fished some of the tiny M&Ms out of the mix (they come already stirred into the mix, rather than in a container of their own) and ate them plain. The little M&Ms are about one-third the size of regular plain M&Ms, and are covered in the same colors of candy coating, complete with little bitty "M" on each one. They tasted wonderful.

The side label lists variations you can make with the M&M-laced cookie mix, including frosted cookie bars, cookie bar pizza (spread the dough thin on a pizza pan, bake and top with ice cream — I have to try this one), and peanut butter cookie bars. All of them sounded wonderful, but we just made a regular batch of cookie bars according to package directions, and waited for the compliments to roll in.

And roll in they did. The cookie bars turned out to be pretty ordinary vanilla bar-type cookies, but with the tiny M&Ms included, they were crowd pleasers. And very easy to make too: just mix in some margarine or butter, a little bit of water and one egg, bake at 350 degrees and you've got it made — literally.

I brought the pan of cookie bars to the office after promising the young taster that if all the cookies were eaten at the office, I'd buy her another box just for her.

Guess what's on my shopping list for this week...

Price listed is from a local supermarket. Prices at other locations may vary.

Hobo bread at home on table

By Jeannine Johnson
New York Times News Service

LOS ANGELES — Hobo bread is an old-fashioned treat, easy to make, tender and moist to eat. We're at a loss as to how the bread came to be named. We do know it dates back to the era when baking in coffee cans was popular. Feel free to swap favorite nuts and other dried fruits for the raisins and walnuts.

In response to Phyllis Nalepa's request for Hobo bread many readers responded with the same recipe, so thank you one and all, and please continue to keep those recipes coming.

If you're a Hobo Bread fan, give Madaline Varner's two versions containing buttermilk a try.

HOBO BREAD
Shared by Gene Baker, Glendale

2 cups raisins
2 cups boiling water
4 teaspoons baking soda
4 cups flour
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup vegetable oil

Put raisins in a large pot with tight-fitting lid. Pour in boiling water to cover. Stir in baking soda. Cover tightly and let stand overnight.

Prepare 3 (1-pound) coffee cans by oiling and coating each with flour.

Combine flour, sugar and salt. Add oil and flour mixture, one cup at a time, to raisins, stirring well after each addition. Fill prepared cans ½ full with batter.

Bake in preheated 350-degree oven about 70 minutes or until done. Remove from oven and let stand 5 to 10 minutes. Run a knife around edge of each can to loosen loaf and shake out. Makes 3 loaves.

HOBO BREAD
Shared by Edna Albright, North Hills

1½ cups raisins
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 cup boiling water
1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons margarine OR butter
1 egg, lightly beaten
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups flour
2 cups chopped walnuts

Measure raisins into mixing bowl. Sprinkle soda over raisins and add boiling water. Let cool. Cream sugar and margarine; add egg and salt; stir into raisins. Add flour and mix well. Stir in walnuts. Turn batter into 2 (1-pound) coffee cans that have been well-greased and a round of waxed paper fitted into the bottom.

Bake in preheated 350-degree oven 1 hour. Remove from oven and let stand 5 minutes, turn out of can and cool on rack. Makes 2 loaves.

1 cup unbleached flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda

In mixing bowl, combine buttermilk, egg, molasses, oil and sugar. Beat until well-blended. Add raisins and nuts. Stir together flours, baking powder and baking soda. Add buttermilk mixture and stir only until dry ingredients are moistened. Pour into a greased 3-pound shortening can or other 6-to 8-cup mold. Cover loosely with foil. Place in slow cooker. Cover and cook on high setting 2 to 3 hours or until skewer inserted in bread comes out clean. Cool in mold 10 to 20 minutes. Invert and cool on wire rack. Cool completely before slicing. Makes 1 round loaf.

IRISH SODA BREAD
Shared by Madaline Varner, Arleta

4 cups flour
3 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon double-acting baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon baking soda
6 tablespoons butter OR margarine
1½ cups dark seedless raisins
1 tablespoon caraway seeds
2 eggs
1½ cups buttermilk

Line 2 tall 1-pound coffee cans with foil (foil should stand 1-inch above top); cut foil for lids; grease. In large bowl mix flour, sugar, baking powder, salt and baking soda. With pastry blender, cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs; stir in raisins and caraway seeds.

In small bowl beat eggs slightly. Stir buttermilk into egg mixture; stir in flour mixture just until flour is moistened (dough will be sticky). Pour batter into cans; cover with foil and tie foil to can with string. Place on rack in deep stockpot; add boiling water to come halfway up sides of can. Cover pot. Over low heat, simmer 2 hours (replacing hot water as needed) or until long skewer inserted in center comes out clean. Invert on wire rack to cool. Cool completely before slicing.

BUCKWHEAT COOKIES

Scott Owens requested an old-time recipe for cookies made with buckwheat cereal. At one time, baking with crushed breakfast cereals was all the rage, but has died down in recent years because of the wide availability of whole grains and seeds in bulk.

These Scrumptious Breakfast Cookies are full of crunchy textures and wholesome ingredients — and require no baking.

Madaline Varner notes that she found her buckwheat cereal in the Jewish food section of a major supermarket, but that it is also available in health food stores.

SCRUMPTIOUS BREAKFAST COOKIES
Shared by Madaline Varner, Arleta

1 cup bite-sized shredded wheat
1 teaspoon orange peel
¼ cup chopped walnuts OR pecans
¼ cup hulled sunflower seeds
1 cup buckwheat cereal OR buckwheat kernels
¼ cup sugar
2 eggs, beaten
½ cup raisins
½ teaspoon vanilla
¼ to ⅓ cup graham cracker crumbs (about 3 square crackers)

Crumble shredded wheat in a plastic bag; transfer to a medium bowl. Mix in orange peel, walnuts, sunflower seeds and buckwheat cereal.

Combine sugar, eggs and raisins in a medium saucepan. Stir over medium heat until mixture thickens, 3 to 5 minutes; do not scorch. Remove from heat and stir in vanilla. Add shredded wheat mixture; mix well. Cool slightly. With lightly floured hands, roll one rounded teaspoon mixture into a ball. Roll in graham cracker crumbs. Repeat with remaining mixture. Cover cookies and refrigerate. Makes about 20 cookies.

New cookies based on old favorites

STAREOS
Adapted from "Stars Desserts," by Emily Luchetti (HarperCollins, 1991)

1½ cups flour, plus some for work surface
Pinch of salt
½ cup cocoa powder, sifted
8 ounces unsalted butter (2 sticks), in small pieces
½ cup sugar, plus 1 tablespoon
1 cup mascarpone
¼ teaspoon vanilla extract

Sift the flour, salt and cocoa powder together and set aside.

Combine the butter and sugar in the bowl of an electric mixer and mix on low speed until blended, about 15 seconds. Add the sifted dry ingredients, and continue mixing on low speed for 3 to 5 minutes, until ingredients form a dough.

Put dough on a lightly floured board and roll to a thickness of ¼ inch. With a 2-inch star-shaped cookie cutter, cut 36 cookies. Scraps can be re-rolled once.

Line one or more baking sheets with parchment paper, and put cookies on them. Cookies should not touch but can be close together because they do not spread in baking. Put baking sheets in freezer 1 hour, stacking if necessary.

Preheat oven to 250 degrees.

Bake the cookies 1 hour, until firm. Remove from oven and allow to cool completely on the baking sheet, at least 2 hours, before filling.

Combine mascarpone, sugar and vanilla in a bowl.

Yield: 18 cookies.

CHOCOLATE-CHIP COOKIES
Adapted from Peter Assue

2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1 pound 2 ounces unsalted butter (4½ sticks), at room temperature
1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup light-brown sugar
2 eggs, beaten
½ vanilla bean, split
¼ cup milk
1¾ cups rolled oats
1 pound bittersweet chocolate, preferably Valrhona, chopped
¼ cup chopped walnuts
¼ cup chopped pecans

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour several baking sheets, or line with parchment paper.

Sift flour, baking powder, salt and cinnamon together, and set aside.

Cream the butter with both sugars until it is light and fluffy. Beat in eggs. Scrape seeds out of vanilla bean and add them. Add milk, and mix. Stir in oats. Add the sifted dry ingredients, and stir just until blended.

Stir in chocolate and nuts.

Drop heaping tablespoons of batter onto baking sheets, leaving at least 2 inches of space between cookies. Bake 20 to 25 minutes, until lightly browned. Place baking sheets on cooling racks. Let cookies cool 10 minutes; then remove from baking sheets and serve, or place them on racks to continue cooling. Repeat as necessary to use all batter.

S'MORES
Adapted from Tom Valenti and Stephen Durfee

36 graham crackers (see recipe)
4 ounces semisweet chocolate, melted
18 large marshmallows

Preheat broiler. Cover small baking sheet with foil, and lightly oil the foil.

Put graham crackers top side down on a cutting board or baking sheet. Slather each with chocolate.

Put marshmallows on the baking sheet, and broil a few seconds, until tops are browned. Turn over to brown the other side.

Put a toasted marshmallow on half of the chocolate-coated graham crackers. Top each with another graham, chocolate side down, and serve.

GRAHAM CRACKERS

1 cup all-purpose flour
½ cup whole-wheat pastry flour (graham flour)
¼ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
Pinch of salt
4 ounces unsalted butter (1 stick), at room temperature
3 tablespoons light-brown sugar
2 tablespoons granulated sugar
1 tablespoon honey
½ teaspoon vanilla

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Sift together the flours, baking soda, cinnamon and salt, and set aside.

In a food processor or by hand, cream the butter and sugars together. Add honey and vanilla. Add the dry ingredients, and process or beat until a dough is formed.

Form dough into a rectangle and roll it very thin between two sheets of wax paper, to about 6 by 12 inches. Then freeze until firm, about 20 minutes.

Remove top layer of wax paper and cut dough into 36 2-inch squares. Place squares close together on a baking sheet. Prick centers with tines of a fork. If necessary, re-roll, chill, and cut any scraps.

Bake cookies 15 minutes, until they just begin to color. Leave them on the baking sheet 10 minutes; then, transfer to racks to cool before using.

Yield: 36 graham crackers

Cookie desserts old-fashioned

By Florence Fabricant
N.Y. Times News Service

'S' mores were something I grew up with and loved, especially when we went camping.'

— Tom Valenti, chef

With meatloaf and mashed potatoes achieving new fame on restaurant menus, it stands to reason that sweets straight out of the home pantry, like graham crackers, Oreos and chocolate-chip cookies, would not be far behind. They are right behind, in fact, ready and waiting to be served for dessert as soon as the main course is cleared.

But these aren't packaged cookies. For several years, chefs in restaurants known for their inventive and trend-setting menus have been baking their own versions of popular everyday cookies.

What a relief. Now, home cooks who want to serve restaurant-style desserts for a dinner party don't have to struggle with layers of puff pastry or delicate genoise batters to fashion exquisite confections. They can simply whip up a batch of chocolate-chip cookies or ginger snaps the way top chefs do.

"We get as many as 50 orders a night for the chocolate-chip cookies," said Peter Assue, the chef at the Chefs Cuisiniers Club in Manhattan. His chocolate-chip cookies are monster size, a good five inches across. They are an aggregate of walnuts, pecans, chocolate nuggets and oatmeal, richly knitted together with butter, sugar and flour.

Assue, a native of Trinidad, is a relative latecomer to chocolate-chip cookies, having discovered them at the age of 24, when he came to the United States to study at the Culinary Institute of America in Hyde Park, N.Y. "I fell in love with them," he said. So, two and a half years ago, when he started working at the Chefs Cuisiniers Club, he also began working on its cookie recipe, adding two kinds of nuts and oatmeal and using Valrhona chocolate, which he chops by hand.

"This is a bistro-type place, so I thought it would be a good idea to serve cookies like these," he said.

Sometimes a customer will order milk with them. "I think most people are embarrassed to do that," he said. One night recently, Marcella Hazan, the Italian cooking teacher, had hers with Jack Daniel's on the rocks.

A plate of cookies at the end of a meal is nothing new, of course, but increasingly, restaurant cookies have the honest, gutsy character of Assue's.

At Stars, in San Francisco, the assortment on the cookie plate, which has been served for four years, is a roundup of the usual suspects, like chocolate-chip, ginger and sugar cookies.

The restaurant's own lush version of Oreos is also featured. The pastry chef, Emily Luchetti, calls them Stareos because they are cut in star shapes.

"I wanted to make a gourmet version of the Oreo," she said. "So I decided to use a chocolate-shortbread cookie and a mascarpone filling." Ingredients like those are what make the cookies worthy of $50 dinners.

But there is more to this dessert than the element of unbuttoned chic. American chefs today, many of whom can be as challenged by mashed potatoes as by pommes souffles, love taking humble food and making it sensationally delicious by preparing it fresh and using first-rate ingredients.

It's the same attitude that inspired Tom Valenti, the chef at Alison on Dominick Street in Manhattan, and Stephen Durfee, the pastry chef, to bake their own graham crackers and make marshmallows from scratch to construct s'mores, those gooey, chocolate campfire confections.

"S'mores were something I grew up with and loved, especially when we went camping," said Valenti, a native of Ithaca, N.Y.

Durfee, who grew up eating s'mores in Pittsfield, Mass., has lately started frying old-fashioned apple cider doughnuts, another boyhood favorite, and serving them with dessert.

Most people never outgrow the taste for such treats. Those who make a living in the kitchens of fine restaurants are no different.

Pumpkin, gingerbread are baked together in one loaf

By Nancy Byal
Associated Press

No wintertime baking spree would be complete without the aroma of spicy gingerbread wafting through your kitchen.

PUMPKIN GINGERBREAD LOAVES

2 cups all-purpose flour
½ cup packed brown sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 cup canned pumpkin
½ cup molasses
2 eggs
⅓ cup margarine or butter
¼ cup milk
1 tablespoon grated gingerroot or 1 teaspoon ground ginger
⅓ cup finely chopped walnuts
2 tablespoons sugar

Grease the bottoms and halfway up the sides of four 4½x2½x1½-inch loaf pans. Set aside.

In a large mixing bowl stir together 1 cup of the flour, the brown sugar, baking powder, cinnamon and baking soda. Add pumpkin, molasses, eggs, margarine or butter, milk and gingerroot or ginger. Beat with an electric mixer on low to medium speed for 30 seconds or until combined. Beat on medium to high speed for 2 minutes, scraping the sides of the bowl occasionally. Add remaining flour; beat for 2 minutes or until mixed. Divide the batter evenly among the prepared pans.

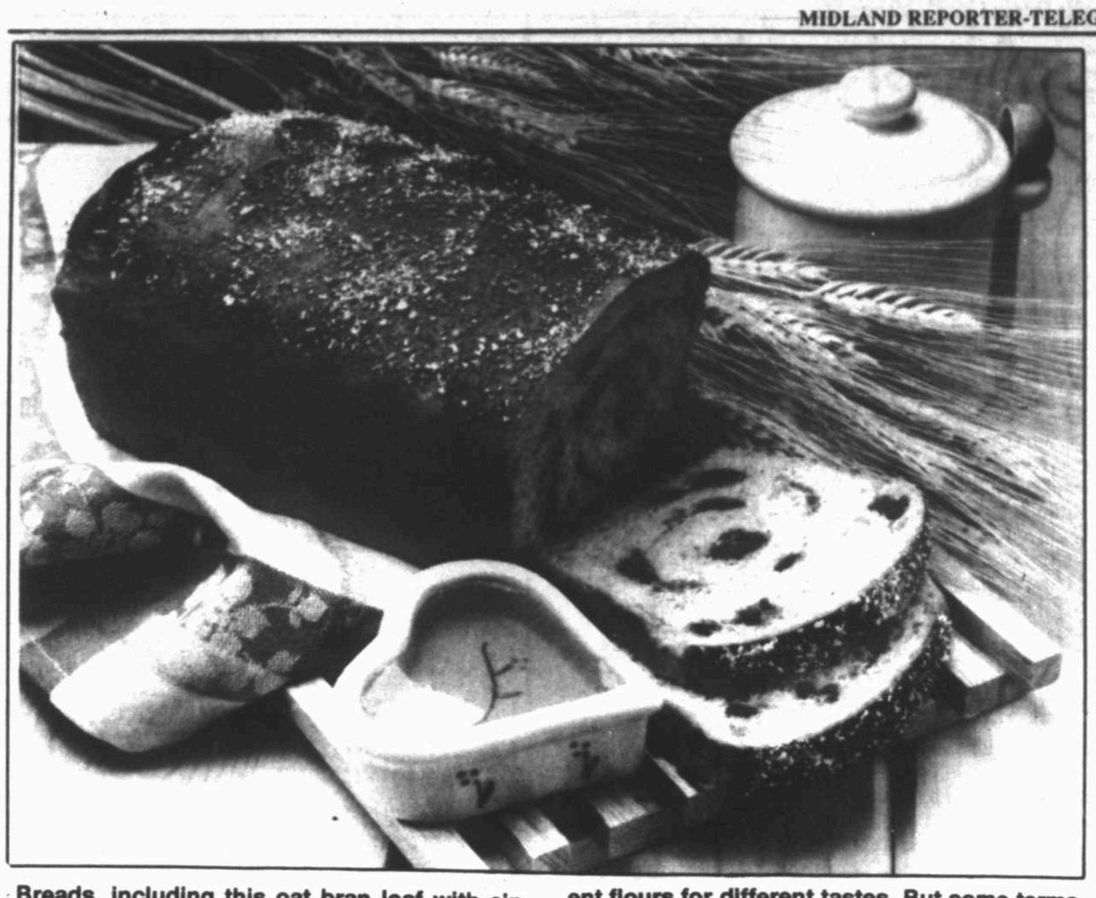

For topping, stir together walnuts and sugar; sprinkle evenly over batter. Bake in a 350-degree F oven for 40 to 50 minutes or until a toothpick inserted near the center of each loaf comes out clean. Cool loaves in pans on wire racks for 10 minutes. Remove from pans. Cool thoroughly on racks.

To freeze: Wrap each loaf tightly in freezer wrap. Seal, label and freeze for up to 6 months. To thaw, let stand, loosely covered, at room temperature for 1 hour. Or, to thaw in the microwave oven, place one unwrapped loaf on a microwave-safe paper towel. Cook, uncovered, on 30 percent power (medium-low) for 1 to 1½ minutes.

Breads, including this oat bran loaf with cinnamon-date-bran swirl, are made with different flours for different tastes. But some terms describing breads can be confusing.

Label terms can be confusing

By Marian Burros
N.Y. Times News Service

Carbohydrates are king of the culinary world; bread is in. Bread should be a basic source of fiber in the diet, but the assortment of breads available in the ordinary supermarket is staggering and confusing.

White bread is not a good choice, since the fiber, or bran, in the flour, as well as the vitamins and minerals, have been removed in the process of making it white. The vitamins and minerals are generally put back and then the flour is called enriched, but the bran is not put back.

Whole wheat bread is one of the best sources of fiber, as long as whole wheat is the only kind of flour used.

So many breads now on the market are not white bread and not whole wheat bread that it's difficult to tell just from the name whether they contain fiber or not.

Read the nutrition label to find out how many grams of fiber a slice has. Two or three grams make it a good source. And don't be fooled by names like "wheat bread" and "multigrain," since they may be pinned on breads that contain no fiber at all. Here are some other terms to be wary of:

■ Wheat bread: A confusing name since most white bread is made from wheat.

■ Oat bread: White bread with some oats added.

■ Low in fat: Almost all yeast breads are low in fat; check the ingredient statement to see if fat is listed.

■ No cholesterol: Most commercial breads are low in cholesterol; check the ingredient statement to see if eggs or butter are used.

■ Diet and light bread: Almost always a thinner slice of bread.

■ Unbleached: Has nothing to do with fiber content; refers to the fact that the flour's color has not been lightened.

Pies are Valentine's Day sweet

Associated Press

Spend a few hours baking a pie for someone special this Valentine's Day and get many more hours of gratitude from the recipient afterward. Here are a few to try:

CHOCOLATE SWEETHEART PIE

⅓ cup corn syrup
1 cup (½ pint) heavy cream
3 eggs
1 unbaked 9-inch pastry shell
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
1 pint strawberries, sliced

Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Place 6 ounces of the chocolate in a large, microwave-safe bowl. Cook on high (100 percent power) for 2 minutes until chocolate is almost melted, stirring halfway through the cooking time. Remove from oven; stir until chocolate is completely melted. Stir in corn syrup and ½ cup of the heavy cream. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Pour into the pastry shell. Bake in a 350-degree F oven for 45 minutes or until knife inserted 1 inch from the center comes out clean. Cool on rack. The center of the pie will sink after cooling.

Whip remaining ½ cup cream. Add sugar and vanilla; beat until fluffy and fully whipped. Fill center of cooled pie. Garnish with strawberries. Melt remaining chocolate; drizzle over berries.

CHOCOLATE PEANUT BUTTER PIE

Chocolate nut crust (recipe below)
¾ cup (1½ sticks) margarine or butter, melted
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
¾ cup peanut butter
5¼ cups (12 ounces) nondairy whipped topping, thawed

Prepare chocolate nut crust; refrigerate until ready to use. Beat margarine, sugar and peanut butter in a large bowl with electric mixer on high speed until well blended. Beat in whipped topping until mixture is smooth and creamy. Spoon into crust. Refrigerate 4 hours or until firm. Garnish with additional whipped topping and peanuts, if desired.

For the Chocolate Nut Crust: Line a 9-inch pie pan with foil. Place 6 ounces semisweet chocolate and 1 tablespoon margarine or butter in a large, microwave-safe bowl. Cook on high (100 percent power) for 2 minutes until margarine is melted. Remove from oven; stir until chocolate is completely melted. Stir in 1½ cups toasted finely chopped nuts. Press mixture onto bottom and up sides of prepared pie plate. Refrigerate about 1 hour or until firm. Remove crust from pie plate; peel off foil. Return crust to pie plate or place on serving plate. Refrigerate.

MOCHA-ALMOND PIE

2 ounces unsweetened chocolate
2 ounces semisweet chocolate
½ cup (1 stick) margarine or butter
1 tablespoon instant coffee
1 cup sugar
¼ cup light corn syrup
3 eggs
2 tablespoons sour cream
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 unbaked 9-inch pastry shell
½ cup sliced almonds

Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Place chocolates, margarine or butter and instant coffee in a large, microwave-safe bowl. Cook on high (100 percent power) for 2 minutes until margarine is melted. Remove from oven; stir until chocolate is completely melted.

Stir in sugar and corn syrup. Beat in eggs, sour cream and vanilla. Pour into pie shell; sprinkle with almonds. Bake in a 350-degree F oven for 45 minutes or until knife inserted 1 inch from the center comes out clean. Cool on rack.

DEAR ABBY

Retirement too exhausting for couple who can't say no

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: After raising our family (six children) and being married for almost 50 years, my husband and I moved to Florida. We love it here. Our problem is visitors. After being invited to visit us one year, they take it to mean an annual visit.

Van Buren

Abby, people who hadn't contacted us for 40 years while we lived up north, now write to tell us that they will be coming here from this date to that date. We never knew we had so many friends and relatives.

My health isn't the best, and I would like to enjoy my golden years instead of marketing, cooking and entertaining from the time I wake up until I go to bed. Just because we live in a resort area doesn't mean we have to provide vacations, room and board.

My husband says, "They are family." To me, "family" means our children and their children. Relatives of our relatives are not "family." They are all nice people, but enough is enough already!

If you put this in the paper, and I hope you do, please don't use our names, initials or even the city it was mailed from. I'm sure this could apply to a lot of people. I just wish I were better at saying "no." — TIRED IN FLORIDA

DEAR TIRED: You're not very good at saying "no" because you haven't had much practice. You are not alone; I've answered similar letters in the past. Other "snow birds" now living in Florida never knew they had so many friends — and relatives.

One solution is to tell those "friends" who call and tell you when they plan to be in Florida that you would enjoy seeing them. Then say: "We will be glad to make reservations for you at a nice little motel near us. How much do you want to spend?"

DEAR ABBY: Add this to your next column about fire prevention week:

One year ago, we stood and watched our home, two greenhouses, garage and workshop, three tractors and three small outbuildings burn to the ground within two hours. Everything in sight was on fire from a grass fire started with sparks from a welding machine. High winds fanned it. The fire consumed everything we had. We had no insurance and lost more than $100,000!

We had three smoke detectors and eight fire extinguishers inside — but not one single fire extinguisher OUTSIDE, in a barn or garage, because we never dreamed a thing like that could happen to us at high noon outdoors!

In 55 years of marriage, this was our only fire. Now we have to start over from scratch. It's never too late to learn fire prevention. Please run this in your column, Abby. It may help others. — STARTING OVER IN MIDLAND, TEXAS

DEAR STARTING OVER: My heart aches for you. Thank you for writing to warn others, in order to prevent them from experiencing the tragic loss you endured.

DEAR ABBY: Which is correct: "Teaspoonsful" or "Teaspoonfuls"? Thank you. — JOHN A. HEFT SR., BETHLEHEM, PA.

DEAR JOHN HEFT: "Teaspoonsful" would be my preference, but my dictionary (Webster's New Ninth Collegiate) shows both to be correct.

Abigail Van Buren's column is distributed by Universal Press Syndicate.

2 teaspoons vanilla extract
2 eggs
1 cup semisweet chocolate chips
1 cup (8 ounces) dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons sugar

To prepare graham cracker crust: In a medium bowl, stir together the graham cracker crumbs and the sugar; blend in the melted butter or margarine, mixing well. Press mixture onto bottom and halfway up the side of a 9-inch springform pan. Set aside.

Heat oven to 375 degrees F. In a large mixer bowl, beat cream cheese, the ¾ cup sugar, the ½ cup cocoa and 1 teaspoon of the vanilla extract; beat until light and fluffy. Add eggs, blend well. Stir in chocolate chips. Pour into the prepared graham cracker crust. Bake in a 375-degree F oven for 20 minutes. Remove from oven; cool 15 minutes. Increase oven temperature to 425 degrees F.

In a small bowl, stir together the sour cream, the 2 tablespoons sugar and the remaining 1 teaspoon vanilla extract. Stir until smooth. Spread evenly over the baked filling. Bake in a 425-degree F oven for 10 minutes. Remove from oven to wire rack. With knife, loosen cake from side of the pan. Cool completely; remove side of pan. Refrigerate before serving. Cover; refrigerate leftovers.

F-r-r-rigid temperatures settle over Alaska

AP Laserphoto

Sabd-Sangeet Khalfa peers through her ice-covered mask and hat after completing a four-mile bicycle ride in minus 50 degrees from her home to the University in Fairbanks, Alaska. Khalfa said it was too cold to start her car, and the bike ride took 30 minutes.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — If you think it's cold where you live, consider Alaska. It's minus 50 on the North Slope, and if you include the wind chill, make it 100 below zero.

Tires are freezing on cars. Blinding ice fog is restricting flights in some cities. Snow is piling up, cutting off some villages.

And if that weren't bad enough, Punxsutawney Phil, the forecasting groundhog from Pennsylvania, predicted six more weeks of winter.

This was not good news in Fairbanks, where the overnight low was 56 below. The National Weather Service said the coldest point in the state Tuesday was 61 below at Tanana, about 125 miles west of Fairbanks, but one trucker was pooh-poohing that number.

At Coldfoot, about 50 miles north of the Arctic Circle and the nation's northernmost truck stop, trucker Frank West said it was about 72 below zero.

"I got in here about 2:30 a.m., and couldn't keep the truck warm with three heaters on it," said West, who was hauling drilling mud to the Prudhoe Bay oilfields. "You have to rev them up to 1500 (rpms) just to keep it warm enough to sleep."

Mary Lou Wojtalik, a Federal Aviation Administration spokeswoman, said small planes in Fairbanks were grounded by the cold and a buildup of ice fog that lowered visibility.

At least one remote village was feeling the effects of the cold and heavy snowfall in Alaska's Interior this winter.

Linda Soderquist, a teacher in Telida, about 200 miles southwest of Fairbanks, said Tuesday the Athabaskan village of 15 was running short of food and fuel because the weather has limited hunting and the ability of supply planes to land on the snow-clogged runway.

In Barrow, west of Prudhoe on the Arctic Ocean coast, drivers who got their vehicles started had to take it slow because temperatures around 50 below froze their tires flat.

"They're basically square when you first take off," said Scott Campbell, deputy director of the North Slope Borough's Public Safety Department. "It takes a mile or two to get them straightened out."

At Prudhoe, oil companies roll out the red carpet for extreme cold.

"We like cold weather because we can make more oil," said Phillip Gobe, Prudhoe operations manager for Arco Alaska Inc. "The colder the air is, the cooler the turbines and (natural) gas compressers operate at, which allows us to process more gas and make more oil."

He said Prudhoe saw wind chill temperatures of 109 degrees below three weeks ago, but the field kept running.

Russia commemorates anniversary of surrender

VOLGOGRAD, Russia (AP) — With mountains of flowers and a thunderous flyover by military jets, Russia on Tuesday commemorated the 50th anniversary of victory over the Nazis in the Battle of Stalingrad.

In this industrial river city, called Stalingrad before dictator Josef Stalin died, it was a day of emotional reunions of old veterans, Communist outrage over the Soviet collapse, and muted attempts to reconcile with a former enemy.

A Russian honor guard laid more than 90 wreaths at the Eternal Flame that stands near the old department store where Nazi Field Marshal Friedrich Paulus surrendered on Feb. 2, 1943, ending the 200-day battle and the German advance to the east.

The Battle of Stalingrad — a turning point in World War II — remains a powerful symbol of the sacrifice that the Soviet republics made during the war, which took the lives of an estimated 26 million Soviet citizens.

More than 800,000 Germans and 1 million Soviet soldiers and civilians died at Stalingrad, which Adolf Hitler was determined to take and Stalin to hold at all costs. Only 6,000 German survivors made it home after the war.

Thousands of veterans displaying rows of medals on their chests watched solemnly as wreaths were presented by parliament speaker Ruslan Khasbulatov, Vice President Alexander Rutskoi, Defense Minister Pavel Grachev and Yevgeny Shaposhnikov, military commander of the Commonwealth of Independent States.

At one point, Shaposhnikov was surrounded by a small group of veterans who demanded to know why the military had allowed the Soviet Union to collapse.

"I could ask you the same question," Shaposhnikov replied, and walked away.

Hundreds of pro-Communists, led by hard-liners Sergei Baburin and Viktor Alksnis, marched to the Eternal Flame beneath red flags bearing the hammer and sickle.

"We fought for the Soviet Union at Stalingrad, and we will fight to restore the Soviet Union," said Alexandra Ivanova.

Many Volgograders, enjoying the mild winter weather and a day off work, watched the flyover by MiG-29s and Su-27s from the banks of the wide Volga River.

President Boris Yeltsin did not attend, but sent a message to German Chancellor Helmut Kohl. He said Russia and Germany have "embarked on the route of final and complete reconciliation, cooperation and partnership."

Kohl echoed Yeltsin's message.

"I feel especially encouraged by words and gestures from veterans of both sides who demand with special emphasis a closer cooperation between Germans and Russians," Kohl said. "The survivors of Stalingrad have become the most convincing advocates of peace between our nations and peoples."

Although German veterans were welcome in Volgograd, they kept a low profile Tuesday, hovering in the background at the official events.

Later in the day, officials from Volgograd and its German sister cities of Cologne and Chemnitz opened Reconciliation Square, a grassy area near the Volga that previously was called Friendship Square. Red chrysanthemums were draped on a granite cross topped by a metal crownd of thorns.

The opening of the square was planned as part of the official program, but was scratched at the last moment for fear of offending Russian veterans. No senior Russian officials attended.

Amid the somber ceremonies, there were moments of joy.

Nikolai Osovitney, 63, burst into tears when he recognized his former commander, Semyon Glushchenko, in a downtown hotel lobby.

The two veterans last saw each other 50 years ago when Osovitney, a 13-year-old boy, ran communications between Soviet units. After the war, he went to the Ural Mountains city of Orenburg, while Glushchenko settled in Moscow.

The Russian Orthodox Church was not officially invited to participate in the ceremonies, but Metropolitan Piterim of Moscow held a requiem Mass at dawn at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in honor of the dead.

The tomb is located on Mamayev Kurgan, a strategic hilltop outside the city where a massive statue, "The Mother of the Nation," commemorates the Soviet victory.

Hundreds of Cossacks from the Volga region donned pre-revolutionary style uniforms, swords and pistols, and carried icons and crosses to the service.

Government introduces charter for human rights

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — The government proposed Tuesday a bill of rights that would guarantee equal treatment of all races — a move to reverse long-standing policies of privilege for the white minority.

But the document made no mention of redressing actions under apartheid, such as the government's widespread confiscation of black-owned land.

It also would allow detention without trial to continue and reimpose the death penalty, which has been suspended.

"In the past, human rights in this country have been infringed upon and we do not claim to be proud of such infringements," Justice Minister Kobie Coetsee told a news conference.

He said the document would guarantee equality, "and no one may be able to discriminate on race, sex, color, whatever you want."

Coetsee stressed the document was only a proposal that should be debated in black-white talks aimed at abolishing apartheid. Negotiations were broken off last year because of violence in black townships, but meetings could resume within weeks.

The African National Congress, the leading black group, has also proposed a bill of rights that includes affirmative action programs for blacks. The 22-page government proposal made no reference to affirmative action.

Coetsee said land grievances could be addressed by a land commission established last year by the government. But black groups say the commission is inadequate and has yet to return any land.

The government rights plan also called for equal rights for women, long treated as second-class citizens under discriminatory laws.

But one provision seemed certain to provoke anger from women's groups. It said a man who lives with his wife and has sexual intercourse with her without her permission may be charged with assault.

In contrast, a man living apart from his wife who has sex with her without consent may be charged with rape.

Asked to explain the different standards, Coetsee said: "A man who lives with his wife . . . he has certain marital privileges."

The government plan would allow free speech and free association, rights that were often denied prior to President F.W. de Klerk's reforms.

It would also allow people to be detained without charge, but for only up to 10 days, with extensions requiring court approval.

Tens of thousands of people were detained without trial during a state of emergency from 1986 to 1990, drawing widespread criticism at home and abroad.

The government plan also would allow reinstatement of the death penalty, suspended by De Klerk in 1990 when more than 100 people were being executed annually. The ANC wants the death penalty abolished.

On Monday, the government presented a blueprint for democracy that could bring blacks into the national leadership by June. But it also envisions a drawn-out transition that could last until 1997.

Constitutional Development Minister Roelf Meyer said he was hopeful black-white talks could resume within weeks.

Serbs target Sarajevo; Yugoslavia warns of new Croat offensive

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — A man died when machine gun fire raked a funeral Tuesday in Sarajevo, as the Bosnian capital came under heavy attack. A translator with a U.N. aid convoy was killed elsewhere in wartorn Bosnia.

Rival Serbs and Croats, meanwhile, battled in Croatia, where a Croatian offensive 12 days ago broke a year-old cease-fire.

Serbian-dominated Yugoslavia warned it was being pushed into the Croatian conflict, which threatens to plunge the Balkans into a wider war.

The head of U.N. peacekeepers in former Yugoslavia, Gen. Satish Nambiar, said in the Yugoslav capital of Belgrade that tensions were rising throughout Serb-held regions of Croatia.

In Sarajevo, 300 mourners at a funeral in the Muslim old town scattered under anti-aircraft machine-gun fire. Dr. Farouk Kulenovic of Kosevo Hospital said one man died and 14 were wounded.

Two women were wounded in an artillery assault on Sarajevo's military police headquarters and one man was killed in a Serb mortar attack on the downtown presidency building.

In southern Bosnia, meanwhile, Croatia's HINA news agency reported fierce Serb artillery barrages on the Croat-held city of Mostar. It said Serb artillery and infantry units appeared poised to launch a major offensive on the central town of Tomislavgrad.

A translator accompanying a U.N. aid convoy was killed in shelling from Serb positions near Mostar, said Veso Vegar, a spokesman for Croat forces. The Danish Foreign Ministry said a Danish driver also was seriously hurt.

In eastern Bosnia, the official Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported continuing battles between Serbs and Bosnian forces near the Serb-held eastern town of Bratunac.

More than 18,000 people have died in 10 months of warfare between rebel Bosnian Serbs battling Croats and Muslims who voted last February for independence from Yugoslavia.

In a bid to revive a stalled peace plan governing Bosnia, Bosnian Serb leader Radovan Karadzic proposed in a memorandum to British Prime Minister John Major that Sarajevo come under U.N. administration.

Karadzic proposed that the United Nations appoint a mayor and up to five commissioners for utilities and humanitarian aid, to enable free movement within the city, besieged by Serbs for 10 months.

London had no immediate reaction.

There was no sign of a letup in the renewed warfare in the southern Krajina region of Croatia, where the Croats' Jan. 22 offensive shattered a U.N.-enforced peace.

Klaus Henrik Lawes, a senior European Community monitor in Croatia, said his observers saw busloads of Serb fighters moving toward the south of Krajina. The Serbs also were moving in armor and artillery, he said.

Lawes told reporters in Zagreb that Croats had broken open several EC-controlled depots containing weapons they had handed over as part of peace terms a year ago. They took 10 T-55 tanks from one depot alone, he said.

Serbs also have raided arms depots since the resumption of fighting in Croatia. Lightly armed U.N. peacekeepers have been powerless to intervene.

A spokesman for the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees in Geneva said Serbs have driven out at least 2,000 Muslims from the southeastern Bosnian town of Trebinje in the past two weeks.

In another instance of "ethnic cleansing," UNHCR spokesman Ron Redmond cited UNHCR figures that up to 12,000 Serbs had been forced by Muslim-led Bosnian forces out of their homes in eastern Bosnia in December and January.

Nambiar, the peacekeepers' chief, told reporters in Belgrade the renewed fighting in Croatia marked "a big setback for the peace mission."
