Monte Carlo Is Told Grace To Have Baby

MONTE CARLO (AP) —Princess Grace of Monaco, is going to have a baby in February, the palace said today.

The princess, formerly actress Grace Kelly of Philadelphia, was married to Prince Rainier III of Monaco, April 18 and 19.

By the terms of a treaty with France, this principality on the Mediterranean becomes subject to French taxes, and its men to the French draft, if Rainier dies without an heir.

Today's announcement said:

"His serene highness Prince Rainier III, prince sovereign of Monaco, announced today in a broadcast message to his people that her serene highness, Princess Grace, is expecting a baby to be born in the month of February.

"Following this announcement, the Prince pointed out the capital importance of the plans and projects for the future economic development of the principality in the light of this rejoicing news."

Actually the palace announcement was issued several hours before the scheduled time for the Prince's broadcast.

As early as last January, months before the marriage ceremony took place, Lloyds of London offered odds of 20 to 1 that Princess Grace would have a baby. A month before the wedding, chatting with reporters in Paris, Prince Rainier said he hoped they would have several children.

Reports that the Princess was expecting have been current for weeks. An announcement from the palace last Sunday said the Prince and his bride were planning a two-month visit to the United States, beginning Sept. 20.

Princess Grace is 26. The Prince is 32.

The people of Monaco hailed the prospect of an heir to the throne, either girl or boy, as a promise of continued semi-independence.

For years before the celebrated wedding ceremonies last April, various romances had been dreamed up or proposed for the Prince in the hope he would marry and have a baby. Today's announcement was received with rejoicing.

Judge Sees No Abuses In Election

By FRANK MANITZAS

LAREDO —A key witness testified today that even if signatures on applications for and on absentee ballot affidavits did not correspond he would see no reason for throwing the ballot out.

He was Tom Goodwin, presiding judge at a special canvassing board which checked absentee ballots in Webb County now under investigation for alleged irregularities.

Goodwin first said he belonged to no local party. Later he said, "I am Old Party and my sympathies lie with the Independent Club."

The Independent Club is known as the Old Party in Laredo and is opposed by the Reform Party whose members filed affidavits alleging irregularities in absentee voting.

Goodwin had cross-examined yesterday's only witness, A. W. Gates, a Laredo rancher. Goodwin asked if Gates had mailed out applications to persons who might vote absentee.

Gates said he did but they were only applications to persons who would have been out of the city at the time of the July 28 primary.

The Reform Party's main objection is that so many absentee ballots were mailed from within Laredo.

And on the stand today, Goodwin, a son-in-law to 49th Dist. Judge R. D. Wright, who is conducting another court of inquiry on the same subject, agreed with Gates that most notaries who handled absentee ballots were either city or county employes.

He agreed with Gates that city and county officials and employes are members of the Independent Club. But said he did not known if they were required to have guaranteed votes to keep their jobs or "kickback" 3 per cent of their pay through the Independent Club.

"If you believe the signatures on the applications and on the ballot affidavit did not correspond, would you reject the ballot?" Dan Moody Jr., court-appointed master-in-chancery, asked Goodwin.

Goodwin said no, he didn't, but there were some that he threw out for that reason, but that there were more where signatures did not correspond and he did not throw them out.

Davis Grant, assistant attorney general, read the election code with Goodwin who said he had read it for the first time Saturday before canvassing the vote.

Parting Of The Ways

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) — A classified ad in the Fort Collins Coloradoan read:

"Eighteen-year-old son and 23-year-old Pontiac must part. Will sell Pontiac, $50. Has traveled 71,917 miles. Still willing and able."

Big Strike Is Averted

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A last-minute agreement on a three-year, no-strike contract today averted a strike of 15,000 members of the Aluminum Workers International Union at nine plants of Aluminum Co. of America.

The agreement is subject to ratification by a majority of the local unions, who have until Aug. 9 to cast their votes. After he signed the contract, Edward Stahl, president of the union, declared:

"My signature on the contract is a recommendation."

The settlement, which came in the wake of a 24-hour strike postponement, left this situation in the vital aluminum industry:

The AWIU's contract covering 6,500 workers at 10 plants of Reynolds Metal Co. expired Aug. 1. The union has granted a day-to-day extension with provision for three days notice if a strike is called. Negotiations are continuing at Richmond, Va.

The United Steelworkers continued the strike it called yesterday against both Alcoa and the Reynolds company. The USW represents 18,000 Alcoa workers at 12 plants and about 10,000 at nine Reynolds plants.

Federal mediator William Rose succeeded in keeping negotiations rolling between Alcoa and the AWIU. He secured a 24-hour contract extension, then got both sides together again in a marathon session of meetings which broke up shortly before midnight with the announcement of the new contract.

Stahl, referring to the master three-year contract negotiated in the basic steel industry by the USW, declared:

"We believe our contract provides as much or more money than the steel settlement."

Stassen Criticized By GOP Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harold E. Stassen opened an "Ike and Chris" headquarters today. Even as he did, the heads of the Republican Senate and House campaign committees loosed a blast at what they termed Stassen's "irresponsible actions."

Sen. Schoeppel (R-Kan) and Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa) contended in a joint statement that Stassen is wrong in his argument that Vice President Nixon would cost the Republicans votes if renominated and should be replaced on the GOP ticket by Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts.

"The loss of Vice President Nixon on the Republican ticket will cost our party many millions of votes," Schoeppel and Simpson said. The committees they head are concerned primarily with trying to elect Republicans to the Senate and House.

Stassen was beginning a four weeks leave from his post as President Eisenhower's disarmament adviser.

In a statement, he predicted that by convention time—now 18 days away—the Republicans will come to the view that Herter would be the strongest running mate for President Eisenhower's second term bid.

Stassen said previous declarations of Republican delegates in favor of Nixon were made "under somewhat of a misconception."

In the light of President Eisenhower's statement yesterday in favor of an "open" convention, Stassen added, he assumes the delegates "will all now take a new look and do it carefully, listening to the American people during the next three weeks."

Stassen said a public opinion poll on the vice presidential nominee was started Monday.

Schoeppel and Simpson took a widely different view from Stassen as to the significance of Eisenhower's giving Stassen a leave of absence and the interpretation to be placed on the President's remarks about the GOP convention being "open."

Schoeppel, chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign committee, and Simpson, chairman of the GOP Congressional Committee, said Stassen "has been benched and has apparently withdrawn from the team."

At his news conference yesterday, Eisenhower praised Nixon — as he has done before — but he refused to be pinned down on whether others, including Herter, would be acceptable to him as possible running mates. He said the Republican National Convention in San Francisco later this month will be "open" to anybody who wants to seek the vice presidential nomination.

He also praised Stassen for "a very splendid job" as his disarmament aide, saying Stassen will be welcome back at his White House post after his leave expires.

Stassen said he interpreted Eisenhower's news conference remarks as a go-ahead for his plans to try to put across Herter's nomination.

Stassen has indicated he expects to return to the disarmament job and that he sought the furlough to emphasize that his pro-Herter drive is a personal project unconnected with the White House. By the time the 30 days are up, the GOP convention will have made its candidate choices.

Mitchell Seeking Support Of Labor

WASHINGTON —Secretary of Labor Mitchell has put forward a series of Republican party platform proposals aimed at attracting more votes from workers. The proposals have aroused some business opposition.

This comes at a time when Mitchell is receiving plaudits from union and business quarters for a successful behind-scenes role in helping engineer an amicable settlement of the steel strike.

When the steel talks bogged down, Mitchell and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey teamed up to get the steel industry and union back into bargaining sessions. This quiet intervention, it is felt, may have improved the Eisenhower administration's standing with organized labor, or at least with some of its leaders.

Informants said Mitchell would like to see this followed up with some Republican platform planks written to attract workers and unions. The idea is that if unions won't formally support the GOP, they might be dissuaded from endorsing the Democratic cause, as most did in 1952.

Mitchell, like other Cabinet members, has advanced platform suggestions in private, but none have been made public.

It was learned that, whereas the labor section of the 1952 Republican platform dealt solely with an expression of support for the Taft-Hartley labor relations law. Mitchell would like to see the 1956 platform say something about a dozen matters in which labor is interested.

Washington Report, weekly newspaper of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, published in its current issue an article headlined "Mitchell's GOP Platform Ideas Causing Concern." It says "the most alarming feature" deals with a suggestion on union security, or compulsory union membership arrangements.

However, informed sources, while declining to say explicitly what the secretary has recommended on this point, maintain his interest is to leave intact the present legal situation.

As things stand now, states may under federal law either sanction or outlaw the union shop. Seventeen states have banned it. The union shop, when negotiated between employers and unions, requires all employes to become union members and pay dues within a specified period.

Military Units Sent To Suez Canal Area

Missiles To Replace Some Of Aircraft

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Air Force disclosed today that it expects its surface-to-surface guided missiles of the future to replace piloted aircraft on about half the missions of the Strategic Air Command and a third of those of the Tactical Air Command.

Seven generals of the Air Research and Development Command taking part with Air Force undersecretary James H. Douglas in the nation's first major guided missiles conference — a featured attraction of the Air Force Assn. convention—also divulged that the Air Force is:

1. Considering the use of reconnaissance gear — cameras and other equipment—on missiles designed to be recovered on completion of their mission.

2. Planning in the event of war to use a "mixed force"—guided missiles against large or "area" targets, and airplanes to destroy pinpoint targets.

3. Interested in the future possibilities arising from Navy plans to develop a small-diameter type of space satellite.

4. Limited under a hitherto secret interservice agreement to the development of surface-to-air missiles with a range of 50 miles or more. Surface-fired missiles of lesser range belong to the Army or Navy.

5. Dispersing its missile launching facilities so widely that a direct atomic attack could not destroy more than one-third of the facilities or capabilities of a single installation.

6. Planning operational exercises to determine the characteristics and capabilities of its missiles.

The missiles conference disclosed that the Martin Matador pilotless airplane has demonstrated a reliability and accuracy on a par with that of current piloted fighter-bombers.

Little Known On Accident Victims

Little had been learned today concerning the two men who were killed in an automobile accident two days ago south of Ira on State Highway 350.

The two, Leonard Whitaker, about 30, and Samuel M. Whitaker, 18, were killed when their car overturned. The bodies were still at Bell Funeral Home today, and efforts were being made to learn enough about the men for contact with their families. The two had little identification on them.

Conference Is Planned

LONDON (AP)—Both Britain and France ordered precautionary military measures today and, with the United States, put the finishing touches to a plan to call an international conference to place the Suez Canal under international control.

Prime Minister Eden, accusing Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser of "broken faith and broken promises," announced the military move to cheering House of Commons. He said "certain naval, army and air force units" had been ordered to the Mediterranean from Britain and a limited number of specialized reservists called up. The Transport Ministry was reported to have authorized the requisitioning of passenger ships for troop movements.

Two British aircraft carriers left Portland and were reported under orders to sail for the Mediterranean. A cruiser, two destroyers, six LCTs, a submarine rescue ship and a minesweeper apparently were being readied for movement at Portsmouth and at Llanelly, Wales, and at Malta.

A Foreign Office official reported that British subjects in Egypt had been advised to consider whether it would not be wise to leave Egypt. Washington sources said the 2,700 Americans in Egypt also had been advised by the State Department to stay out of crowds and away from downtown Cairo during the tension.

The French Navy Ministry disclosed that 15 warships assembled at Toulon have been ordered to be ready to steam to "an unknown destination." Official French sources said the order was in connection with the crisis arising from Nasser's nationalization of the canal.

These moves were made as U.S. Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau awaited the final draft of a plan from their experts on the calling of an international conference to guarantee the continued international use of the strategic waterway.

It was reported Egypt and Soviet Russia would be invited to the conference. But there was a question whether Nasser would accept.

If he refused, the Western powers would be faced with the prospect of using military force. Both the French and British governments have been under heavy political pressure at home to take decisive action. Dulles, however, is reported to have urged moderation.

Eden told Commons that Britain will accept nothing less than an international authority to operate the canal. He charged Nasser with violating the international pact of 1888 establishing the international character of the canal, and also the 1954 treaty with Britain which recognized its international status. In the 1954 treaty Britain agreed to withdraw her military forces from the Suez Canal Zone.

Last Veteran Of Union Army Dies

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Albert Woolson, last Union Army veteran of the Civil War, died today and the Grand Army of the Republic died with him. He was 109.

The old drummer boy, who was "scared to death" the first time he fired a cannon, outlived some 2,675,000 of the Boys in Blue.

Woolson died in St. Luke's Hospital where he had been confined several times recently because of lung congestion. Doctors said the congestion was brought on chiefly because of his advanced age.

He lapsed into a coma early Saturday. Since then he had been fed intravenously and had been given oxygen.

The old soldier showed remarkable stamina in recovering from his previous illnesses. Dr. Charles Bagley, his physician, said after Woolson showed good improvement in June that his "deep-seated interest and drive" kept him going.

Hospitalized in May, Woolson spent Memorial Day at his Duluth home, then returned to St. Luke's the following day. He had been confined since.

Woolson was 17 when he became a volunteer private in Co. C of the 1st Minnesota Heavy Artillery Regiment as President Lincoln was making calls for more troops.

He was detailed to the regular drum corps and served with the Union forces for slightly less than a year, doing occupation duty in the South.

Woolson was senior vice commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, which at its peak in 1899 had 408,489 members. It was decided at the last encampment of the Union veterans in 1949 that the GAR would continue to exist technically until the death of the last member.

Water Study Requested Of Two Colleges

CORPUS CHRISTI — O. G. McLain, a member of the State Water Resources Committee, called on the University of Texas and Texas A&M yesterday to pool their resources and launch a rain-making effort and study as a "probable solution for the Texas water problem."

The geologist said rain making would be "the most economical, permanent and equitable way" to get more water for the drought-ridden state.

McLain said a study and rain-making attempts by the schools should be started without delay. He called on farm and ranch groups, industry and municipalities for support.

"What we need are some good rains," he said. "We cannot legislate them. They are not coming naturally. The only alternative is to work for them."

McLain, a member of the committee for three years, said some progress is being made toward plans for impounding flood waters behind dams and straightening out the "tangled skein of water laws." He predicted that within a few decades all rivers will have a series of dams impounding a maximum of runoff water.

He said that except for a narrow eastern strip of Texas, full development of present water resources will not be a lasting solution to water needs.

"Most disturbing are the declining ground water levels since there is a basic shortage of water, the endeavor should be to provide more. The answer is simply to produce more water by cloud seeding or whatever type of rain making that may exist or can be devised," McLain said.

Shrimp To Be Pastel Colors

WASHINGTON (AP)—Shrimp with heads of pastel colors may be turning up in the catches of shrimp trawlers next year.

The Fish and Wildlife Service said today University of Texas biologists have discovered a safe and simple way of identifying shrimp for study through use of dyes.

The dyes are introduced into a shrimp's body by hypodermic needle or through food. They color only the head of the shrimp, not the edible portions.

A spokesman said the color experiments have reached the stage where it may be possible some time next year to catch and dye shrimp in quantity and release them. Records would be kept so as to provide data on any which were caught again.

The shrimp fisher is America's largest in terms of money paid for the product at the boat—more than 70 million dollars a year. Most of the nation's production is in the Gulf of Mexico.

Testimony Of General Puller Winds Up Defense Of McKeon

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. —A crusty, bemedaled Marine hero, Lt. Gen. Lewis B. (Chesty) Puller, said today he thought the Marine Corps "regrets" the court-martial of S. Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon.

In a voice like a fog horn, the general told the seven-man court-martial panel, "I think from the testimony of Gen. Pate yesterday that he agrees and regrets that the Marine Corps ever ordered that this man be tried."

The Marines' commandant, Gen. Randolph McC. Pate, told the court yesterday he thought McKeon merited only a reduction in rank and a transfer.

McKeon is the former drill instructor who led a platoon of 74 recruits on a night disciplinary march into a tidal marsh where six drowned.

As a result, McKeon is charged with involuntary manslaughter, oppression of recruits and drinking on duty.

Puller, chest ablaze with eight rows of ribbons, appeared as an expert on Marine training methods at the trial of the 31-year-old native of Worcester, Mass.

Immediately after Puller's testimony, defense attorney Emile Zola Berman of New York City said, "The defense rests."

The only Marine ever to hold five Navy Crosses and an Army Distinguished Service Cross, Puller spoke in his normal battlefield voice. For his testimony, the microphones were turned off.

Earlier, the high-domed hero was asked by Berman whether he thought the night march led by McKeon was good military practice, "apart from the results."

The general replied:

"In my opinion, the reason American soldiers made out so poorly in Korea was mostly due to lack of night training. If we are going to win the next war, in my opinion, 50 per cent of the training time should be allotted to night training."

Berman asked, "Do I take it you consider the march good"

Said Puller, "good."

Puller, like Pate, said he did not consider the night march led

Doesn't Like Wife's Work

HOUSTON — Paul Anderson, 46, objects to his wife working at the Do-Nut Hole, a drive-in.

Anderson drove into the place today and ordered coffee from his waitress wife. Then, police were told, he:

Threw the coffee in his wife's face,

Jumped into his truck and drove it into the side of the building at "terrific speed,"

Seized an iron pipe and smashed all the windows and equipment.

Owner Henry Miksch estimated damage at $4,000. He charged Anderson with malicious mischief.

Police said Anderson told them he didn't want his wife working at the place. Further, he said, he wasn't sorry for his actions; that he'd have done more damage had he been able.

by McKeon as oppression of recruits and added that drill instructors had a wide latitude in training and teaching discipline.

The prosecutor, Maj. Charles B. Sevier of Jacksonville, Ill., asked:

"If you have a leader who blunders into a dangerous, hazardous situation without reconnaissance and without good cause, do you call that good leadership?

"No," Puller replied, "not good leadership."

The general brought a gasp from the crowded courtroom when he declared:

"The trouble is there is not enough night training prescribed. I know I got most of the glory and I got all of the blame, and I would willingly have taken the blame, and I would train my troops as I thought and as I knew they should be trained, regardless of any directive."

Earlier, a tall, assured Marine drill instructor told the court he had marched "five or six platoons" into the waters and marshes abutting this island.

The testimony came from Sgt. Leland L. Blanding, 22, of Binghamton, N.Y. He was the first witness to testify for the defense today.

McKeon, 31, is the ex-drill instructor from Worcester, Mass., now on trial for leading six Marine recruits to their death in a tidal creek April 8.

Blanding testified he led his recruits into water "knee to neck deep."

"Both, sir," he replied to a question whether the marches were during the day or night. McKeon's march was at night.

Through the sergeant's testimoney, defense attorney Emile Zola Berman was trying to prove his contention that such marches of recruits to teach discipline and instill morale have been a common practice on this sprawling training center.

During cross-examination the government prosecutor, Maj. Charles B. Sevier, asked the court to warn the witness of his rights under Article 31 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice — the military equivalent of the Fifth Amendment. The prosecution claims that such marches are forbidden.

"I understand the article fully, sir," said Blanding.

Vision Is Club Topic

A demonstration on the development of vision was presented Wednesday at the regular luncheon meeting of the Snyder Kiwanis Club.

The program was presented by Dr. J. A. Nesbit, who projected color slides, and Dr. Clyde E. Dawson, who commented on the exhibits.

Although sight is necessary for vision, it is possible to develop vision, Dr. Dawson explained at the outset. The slides were designed to show that, with training and practice, the human eye can speed up and broaden its vision.

At the conclusion of the program, members of the Kiwanis Club participated in a brief reading demonstration. Dr. Dawson, Dr. Nesbit and Dr. John Blum, all Snyder Optometrists, plan to sponsor a speed reading course here. The course, developed by two Lubbock Optometrists, has proved highly successful, from the standpoint of comprehension as well as reading speed, Dr. Dawson said.

Young Thief Ring Broken Up In Towson

TOWSON, Md. (AP)—Investigators claimed today to have cracked an enormous ring of young thieves operating under the direction of a 23-year-old man.

Capt. Gilbert Deyle, chief of the Baltimore County Detective Bureau, said the gang called itself the "Four Aces" and specialized in stealing automobile accessories.

Arthur Lee Hash, 23, was identified by police as the leader and organizer of the gang and was charged wtih contributing to the delinquency of minors. Papers filed in Juvenile Court accused him of giving intoxicants to teenage girls and bringing boys into the court's jursdiction for disorderly conduct.

Besides Hash, police also arrested four older members of the gang and charged them with the theft of auto accessories. Seven young girls and eight boys were named in Juvenile Court petitions.

Police said the organization originally set up to promote hot-rod racing facilities, had numbered about 2,000 spread over many neighborhoods but had deteriorated into a gang whose principal activities were stealing auto parts, buying whisky and beer and warring with other gangs.

Tennesseans Vote Today

NASHVILLE, Tenn. —Tennesseans vote today in Democratic and Republican primaries that have aroused scant interest.

The reason for the quiet tone was the lack of a governor's race for the first time in years. The two-year governor's term was abolished and Gov. Frank Clement was elected to a four-year term in 1954.

Seven of Tennessee's nine congressmen, including both Republicans, were unopposed for renomination.

Rep. Percy Priest of the 5th Dist. (Nashville) drew opposition in the Democratic primary from Richard Fulton, young Nashville businessman.

In the 6th Dist. Rep. Ross Bass had two Democratic opponents — Pat Sutton, who represented the district 1945-54, and Bill Carrigan, a onetime radio disc jockey.

Nominees also were to be chosen for the 33 State Senate and 99 House seats.

'Harmless Object' Is Cause Of Injury

COLUMBIA, S.C. —Five days ago 22-year-old Guy Scott kicked a "harmless looking green object" near Ft. Jackson. It exploded and seriously burned him.

Now, as Scott lies in a Columbia hospital, the injured parts of his body occasionally give off sparks.

Towels and blankets that were used to wrap him would flare up when they became dry.

Scotty's physician said it appeared that the patient has severe phosphorous burns. He gave Scott a 50-50 chance to survive.

Cool Look For Summer

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

IT'S QUITE A TRICK to go through summer looking cool. But many girls master the art without too much effort, and look far prettier than their perspiring out-of-breath friends.

The cool look lies in what you wear, what you do, and how you make up. Here are some pointers.....

Pastel and white dresses in sherbet hues can make you feel cooler as well as look that way.

Sleeveless cotton dresses and linen or denim skirts or lightweight shorts look cool, rather than hot-looking slacks or heavy skirts.

Light makeup rather than heavy carries out the illusion. Skip heavy foundations and mascara during the day.

A permanent wave is a good foundation for cool comfort to keep the hair from dropping.

Frequent shampoos and showers will help keep you cool.

Avoid exercise at the hottest part of the day. Early morning or late afternoon are the best times to play tennis, golf, swim or play badminton if you'd maintain the cool look.

Make your important dates for after four.

Rest for at least 15 minutes before you go on a date. Remove your slippers and prop your feet up on a pillow, apply cotton squares soaked in good quality witch hazel or refrigerated eye lotion to your eyelids.

It's never too late to start your cooler-summer program. If your hair looks messy, treat yourself to a home permanent wave so you can forget about nightly pinups. They you can shampoo your hair, apply waving lotion, and relax with a scarf over your head as it dries. Before you know it you can comb out the finished wave.

The Two Conventions

As everyone knows, but seems prone to forget—since they are frequently asking—the Democratic National Convention will open in Chicago August 13. The Republican convention convenes in San Francisco the week following, August 20. This will be the first time in some years that the Democrats met ahead of the Republicans.

The Democrats will use the International Amphitheater, in the stockyards area, and will headquarter in the Conrad Hilton Hotel. The Republicans by the Golden Gate will use the Cow Palace for their meetings and the Mark Hopkins Hotel as headquarters. Since the sites of the rival conventions bear stockyards implications, neither party can kid the other about throwing the bull.

The GOP has met 13 times in Chicago, and the Democrats eight times previous to this year. The GOP has met in Philadelphia four times and their opposite number twice. St. Louis has entertained the Republicans once and the Democrats four times. The Republicans met once in Baltimore and the Democrats twice. Other cities to entertain national conventions were Cincinnati, Cleveland, New York (twice by the Democrats, none by the Republicans), Kansas City, Minneapolis, Charleston (S.C., by the Democrats in 1860), Denver and Houston (by the Democrats).

This is the second time San Francisco has entertained a major party convention. The Republicans seemed not to be impressed by the fact that the Democrats met there in 1920 and went down to overwhelming defeat in the following election.

Party symbols will be much in evidence at both conventions, the donkey at Chicago and the elephant at San Francisco. Both were created by the famous cartoonist Thomas Nast, the donkey in 1870 and the elephant in 1874. Nast was angered when the Democratic press attacked Lincoln's Secretary of War, Edwin M. Stanton, after his death, and drew a cartoon to express his disgust, labelled "A live jackass kicking a dead lion."

John Wesley's followers were called "methodists" in derision, and adopted it as the name of their church. The Democrats did the same thing with Nast's derogatory donkey.

Facing The Runoff

Fairly complete unofficial returns from last Saturday's Democratic primary indicate at least three runoff races at the state level—for governor, for lieutenant governor and for attorney general.

The familiar old post-primary guessing game, trying to figure which runoff candidate will get the votes of the losers in the first primary contests, is now the popular pastime.

Aside from the normal hazard of guessing which runoff aspirant will get whose first-round votes, there is the fact that usually the candidate who leads in the first primary cops the prize in the runoff. In 1954 there was three state-level runoffs—for governor, for associate justice of the Supreme Court, and for judge, Court of Criminal Appeals; plus two contests for Congress. In every instance the man who got the most votes in the first primary wound up on top in the runoff.

There have been, of course, exceptions to this rule, but they are very rare.

As for a defeated candidate being able to "deliver" his votes to someone else in the runoff primary, that is a highly dubious feat. Not many voters are deliverable; the critters insist on exercising their God-given right to vote for whom they please, and many resent any effort to "deliver" them to anybody—even when the delivery is attempted by the man they voted for in the first place.

Just now speculation is rampant over where the W. Lee O'Daniel vote will wind up in the second primary, for Price Daniel or Ralph Yarborough. Pappy's vote is peculiarly his own, as the late Jim Ferguson's was. Only this much can be said as to its likely drift in the runoff: Pappy is basically a conservative, but that does not mean he will express any preference as between the runoff rivals, or that his followers would consent to be "voted" by him.

Both Daniel and Yarborough "hit the ground running," and the second primary promises to be short, and many voters who were discouraged by the length of the first primary ballot may be tempted into voting for that reason.

Stassen, Kefauver Change Picture For National Conventions Of Both Parties

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — What a switch in men and parties!

Ten days ago, so far as is known, Harold E. Stassen and Sen. Estes Kefauver still yearned to move their furniture into the White House. Now Stassen says he has given up on the presidency permanently. Kefauver has given up on it this year, at least.

Nine days ago this month's political conventions looked like a picnic for the Republicans, a cat-and-dog fight for the Democrats. Now the opposite may be true, thanks to Stassen and Kefauver.

When the sun came up July 23 this was the picture:

1. Stassen, a presidential candidate in every election since 1944, wasn't running this year. He didn't have a chance anyway. President Eisenhower was running. There was no reason to think Stassen still didn't have the bug for 1960.

Meanwhile, he seemed content with his job as Eisenhower's special assistant on disarmament.

2. The Republicans' professional politicians seemed to have everything so neatly arranged that the delegates to the convention, opening Aug. 20, would have trouble finding something to do until the time came to rubber-stamp the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket again.

Before sundown July 23 Stassen began talking so loudly and long that the Republican convention may turn into a contest over the vice presidency.

Stassen said private polls showed Vice President Nixon would be a "burden" on the ticket—he says now Nixon would lose millions of votes—and should step aside in favor of Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts as Eisenhower's running mate.

Republican pros jumped him in a hurry, even suggested he resign. Instead, he talked more. Now Eisenhower has permitted him a month's leave to go out and stir up Republican delegates against Nixon.

Then on Sunday Stassen said he is not only not a candidate to be Eisenhower's running mate this year but has forever taken himself out of consideration for the presidency and vice presidency.

Yesterday, before the sun came up, this was the Democratic picture:

A hot convention, opening Aug. 13, with Adlai Stevenson and Kefauver the front-running contenders for the presidential nomination and New York's Gov. Averell Harriman and others scrambling for it too.

Stevenson had a good edge in indicated strength but Kefauver, who practically exhausted himself in 1952 and again this year in pursuit of the Democratic nomination, still hoped, or so it seemed he'd be tapped.

Yesterday Kefauver, suddenly and unexpectedly, announced he was quitting the race in favor of Stevenson and would give him his support. He said he realized he didn't have a chance.

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

SPRING ON AN ARCTIC ISLAND. By Katharine Scherman. Little, Brown.

From the banks of the Hudson river to way north of Hudson Bay; from the 20th century back to the Ice Age, to the primitive, 2,000-year-old culture of the Stone Age—that's Miss Scherman's adventurous trip.

With her husband and seven scientists, she lived six weeks on Bylot Island, 450 miles north of the Arctic Circle and the same distance due west of Greenland. It was two years ago this spring. Daytime temperature was 35 degrees, nighttime 34; the average humidity was 80 per cent; living in constant daylight they couldn't tell whether it was time for church or time for bed, time for breakfast or dinner.

The Eskimos, in particular the guide Idlouk, were kind, honest, gay, fastidious; they talked tirelessly, and were practical jokers; they feared the bumblebee, the spider and the beetle but not death. And wild life, though prudent, did not fear them; they could get within three feet of the long-tailed jaeger before it flew away.

There is much colorful information about the lemming, the seal, the chag, the breeding birds whose bellies are stripped of feathers so they can keep their young warm. There were dangerous crossings fo rotten ice. But the natives interest me most — they have no art, no literature and no music of their own, though on the concertina they play tunes mystifyingly traceable to the Highland fling, sea chantey and jig. They have no time sense, they are lazy, and they are wonderfully sociable.

The record of a sensitive and sympathetic observer, this fond and happy book, full of warm feeling, does both the islanders and us a grand service.

Tidelands Oil Hunters Facing Man-Made Hazards

By SAM DAWSON

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The seafaring oil hunter struggles to keep going today against man-made hazards that some call worse than the natural ones.

But the prize under the tidelands of the Gulf of Mexico and along the coast of California is too rich, the rate of discovery too much higher than on dry land, to let the quest for oil halt entirely, if that can be helped.

The man-made hazards are: a steel strike that pinched tight pipe supplies to a trickle; squabbles between federal and state governments over who owns how much of the submerged lands—and even over where the coast line actually is; discussions between the governments and the oil companies on how much more land shall be leased, for how much; how operations shall be regulated, and who gets how much tax money.

While Louisiana and the U.S. Interior Department, under U. S. Supreme Court direction, discuss terms on just where the state's territorial waters end and Uncle Sam's jurisdiction begins, and while California perfects its leasing plans, oil companies hunt for pipe to keep on with such drilling as they are now permitted.

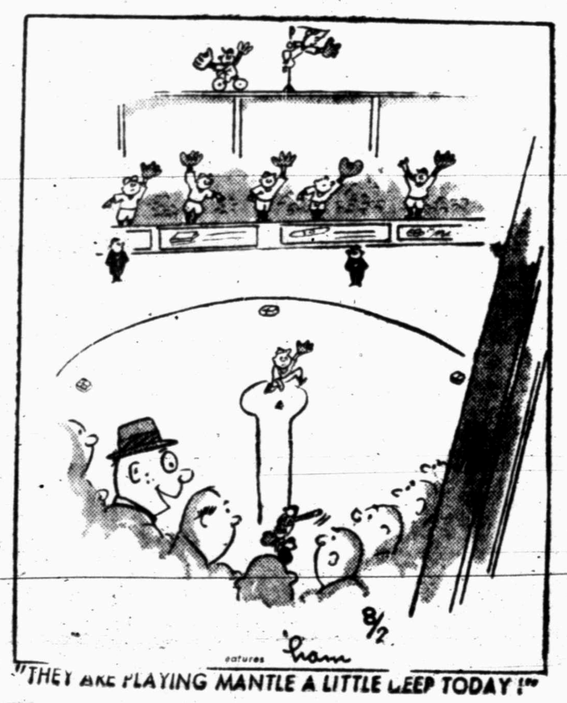

This includes drilling already under way by 19 rigs in the disputed area off the Louisiana coast. New leasing and new drilling starts there were enjoined by the court. In all zones some 80 rigs were operated in mid-July.

Oil wells already producing for miles out into the Gulf weren't hit by the strike—their casings are already in place. Some 676 wells now produce 112,000 barrels of crude oil a day.

The last time Louisiana leased submerged land, July 12, 1955, it granted 94 leases, covering 252,806 acres, for $100,091,262, or an average of around $395 an acrea.

This quickly runs into money. Two subsidiaries of California Standard Oil have spent 55 million dollars for rights to 200,000 acres off the Louisiana and Texas shores and now produce around 38,400 barrels a day. It also has a million-dollar lease on 744,000 acres off Florida, and awaits the go sign in California.

Laurel And Hardy Planning Comeback Despite Unfortunate Physical Setback

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 1 (AP) — The veteran laugh-getting team of Laurel and Hardy has suffered physical setbacks, but the comedians are planning a film return to cash in on their immense TV popularity.

For 30 years, the gaunt, sad eyed Englishman and his rotund, slow-burning companion have delighted audiences with their slap stick antics. In recent years, reissue of old films on TV has brought them their greatest popularity.

Unfortunately, they have been unable to profit from their renewed fame. They get nothing for the constant televising of their old films, made for a flat salary in the days before actors were hep to percentage deals. Illness has kept them from going ahead with comeback offers.

They lead quiet lives in modest homes 20 miles apart, seldom seeing each other except by telephone.

Oliver Hardy, the fat one, lives on a busy street in Van Nuys in the heart of the San Fernando Valley. His fans might have difficulty recognizing him these days. His hair is thin and gray, and his multitude of chins has diminished.

"Yes, I've lost 150 pounds," he remarked as he seated himself in his study. "I got pneumonia when we were touring England two years ago. My heart was jumping around a bit, and I got asthma too. When I got back here, I went to the hospital for a checkup, and the doctors told me I should lose weight.

"My wife, who's a good taskmaster, kept me on a strict salt-free diet with a limit of calories. No, I didn't miss eating. I never really was a tremendous eater. It was the drinking. I drank a lot of beer, and always there were guys around Lakeside golf course asking you to have a drink. I did it not because I liked the stuff, but because it seemed friendly.

"I never did know how much I weighed, because most scales don't go over 300. I know I was over 350. Now I'm down to 210."

Hardy, who is 64, said they had been unable to resume work because his partner—the thin one—suffered a stroke a year ago.

"But he's better now," he added, "and as soon as Stan is feeling up to it, we want to start a series. It will be on film, not live. All the comedians on live shows have heart attacks or get sick; that's not for us."

He remarked that they get more fan mail and public recognition now than at the peak of their movie fame. "Kids are always coming to the door and saying, "are you Hardy?" he said. "I give 'em a picture and they go away happy."

Stan Laurel, the slim one, lives in Santa Monica with his fourth wife. Although he has been seriously ill, he was able to laugh about his condition.

"I'm coming along fine now," said the comedian, "but I can't do any skiing right away."

He explained that paralysis of his left side started a year ago and affected the use of his arm and leg. But recently he has been more active and got out to pay a call to Hardy, their first visit in three months.

Russians Make Pitch For World Tourist Business

BY INEZ ROBB

The Russians are so cagy in this Khrushchev - Bulganin era that it is doubly hard to case the Kremlin, but I have a hunch that [illegible] other day to become the tourist paradise of the world.

This was the day the comrades led off with an official blast against tipping as dishonest, unhealthy, degenerate, anti-Marxist, bourgeoisie and an invention of the imperialist - capitalist oppressor.

Oddly enough, statistics prove that the most common question asked by all travelers is not 'Ou est la toilet'', as is popularly supposed, but "How much do I tip this character"

Also, contrary to popular opinion, the average American tourist would gladly forego American coffee, ham and egs, hot dogs, corn flakes, real cold dry Martinis and other necessities of life if, while on foreign shores, he could rid himself of the nagging suspicion that he gave either too much or two little to that last waiter, concierge and - or taxi driver.

He dreads being mistaken either for a cheap skate or nouveau riche. If he tips too much, he will be accused of ruining the natives and, if he tips too little, of ruining the economy. He can't win, and it worries him so much that half the time he can't remember whether he kissed the femme de chambre and tipped his wife, or vice versa.

He remembers the Roman Forum as the place where the guide scorned a hundred lire and the Prado as the place where the guide fainted at 100 pesetas. And always he is haunted by the feeling that whatever he gives, it is too little and too late.

The tourist finally becomes convinced that there is no answer to his plaintive query, 'How do I give this bandit?'' save an old rule of thumb devised by that pioneer tourist, Marco Polo: not so little that the beneficiary will sneer nor yet so little that he can leer.

Gone are the good old days when a tip representing 10 percent of the bill was a generous gratuity and could earn a man a reputation as a Diamond Jim Brady. Inflation has been at work, and a 20 percent tip either at home or abroad is now SOP if the tipper hopes for a civil word or an egg in his beer.

On a two-to-ten-week European holiday, this 20 percent can grow from a mole hill to a Mont Blac, to say nothing of the wear and tear on the psyche.

Any country that promises to outlaw tipping, which is exactly what the U.S.S.R. has done, is bound to attract tourists. Even if the traveler isn't particularly interested in the country or its people, he will be attracted for the peace of mind it promises through abolition of the old problem. "How much?" for the waiter with the water.

Oddly enough, when the U.S.S.R. announced that tipping is "unhealthy" it spoke for both the Communist and the non-Communist worlds. After this ukase, it is going to be mighty unhealthy to tip in Russia and it will still be mighty unhealthy not to tip elsewhere.

Hot Dog, Hungry Man's Best Friend, Unchanged

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—In a troubled time in which Nasser holds the Suez Canal and the New York Giants are in last place, let us pause and honor one symbol that stands unchanged.

It is the hot dog, the hungry man's best friend.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce named July as National Hot Dog Month, and it would be a doggoned shame if we let August dawn without paying melodious meed to America's favorite delicacy.

The hot dog is, narrowly speaking, no more an American invention than the motor car or ice cream. But, like them, it has become recognized now everywhere—except possibly in Russia—as peculiarly typical of our culture.

The ancestor of the hot dog is the sausage, and the sausage is older than recorded history.

It was undoubtedly broiled by the Greek troops besieging ancient Troy, because blind Homer in the 9th Century B.C. wrote:

"As when a man nears a great glowing fire turns to and fro a sausage, full of fat and blood, anxious to have it quickly roast, so to and fro Odysseus tossed, and pondered how to lay hands upon the shameless suitors."

There are almost as many kinds of sausages as there are nationalities. But the modern hot dog, according to culinary scholars, springs from the frankfurter, developed by a forgotten genius in the 16th Century in Frankfurt, Germany.

It is also generally accepted that the frankfurt first won popularity in America at Coney Island, where it was introduced by Charles Feltman, a German immigrant, in 1871.

Who first wedded mustard to the hot dog? Alas, so far as I can find, he is as nameless as the first guy who joined ham and eggs.

But here are a few more important facts and milestones in the career of the hot dog:

Hot dogs became a fixture at baseball games during the World War I in the Polo Grounds here.

In 1937 the skinless frankfurter came into vogue. That year 136 million pounds of hot dogs were produced in America. Last year Americans ate an average of 16.16 hot dogs a person during the peak season between Memorial Day and Labor Day.

Americans this year will consume a billion pounds of hot dogs. If laid end to end—the hot dogs, not the Americans—they would reach to the moon and back.

The hot dog has many other nicknames. They are called franks, weiners, wienies, viennas, red hots, hot pups and pups. In some places hot dogs covered with chili sauce are known as "chihuahuas;" those smothered with onions are "poodles."

Naturally hot dogs had to enter the atomic age. They did last March. Put in hermetically sealed cans, they were dunked into 18 feet of water and irradiated with gamma rays at the national reactor testing station in Idaho.

Who but a hamburger lover would let a hot dog lie around uneaten for half a year?

WASHINGTON LETTER

Diplomat's Wife Likes Capital's Friendliness

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — All their personal belongings were packed away and the farewell partying about over. The handsome drawing room of the embassy, blinds drawn against the day's heat, was as impersonal as a deserted hotel lounge.

But as Mrs. John E. Holloway, wife of the retiring Ambassador of the Union of South Africa, talked, the little corner where we sat became cozy and intimate as with old friends.

The warm, imaginative little woman who has made a host of friends here during the two months her husband has been ambassador touched on many subjects; her homeland, her children, her poetry — she has pioneered in children's verse in South Africa with scores of books to her credit — her regret at leaving this country. They are going to London where her husband will serve as High Commissioner for his country.

"What I've liked about Washington is that the people have the courage of their affections," she told me. "If they like you, they follow up an acquaintance and are most kind and friendly."

She admitted, however, that "life will be easier" in London where she first lived as a student's wife after fleeing Belgium during World War II where her two eldest children were born.

"Londoners for 700 years have been living in a crowd," she said. "It is a city different from any other in the world."

Mrs. Holloway, one of 10 children of a cattle rancer and horse breeder, grew up at Lindley in the Orange Free State, and was teaching kindergarten when she received a three-year scholarship to study art abroad.

Instead, she got married. She switched her talents to poetry, putting in verse the stories of Brer Rabbit she had learned from the natives as a child and in turn was telling her own four children and later was to tell her 15 grandchildren.

Commenting on partying in the Capital, Mrs. Holloway had this to say:

"The food is perfectly marvelous — the drinks appalling. It's not just the taste, it's the effect of the mixed drinks served before eating.

"I like to have something you can count on," the diplomat's wife explained, adding that she comes from a wine-growing country where the people prefer wines, though they are also keen on gin and tonic.

RADIO-TV REPORT

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Possibly more often than you realize, the mood of your day determines how much you enjoy television.

Take last Monday. There was this guy who planned to watch "The Ballad of Yermo Red" on "Studio One" (CBS-TV, Monday night). But his day turned out to be a stinker. It was like running a complaint department while being strafed by low flying jets.

One of those days. Everybody has them. Some people have them every day. You see them creeping home at evening, flailed by invisible men with whips. What do they seek at home? Escape and relaxation. Where do many of them turn? To TV, naturally.

Well, our hero crept home at evening, planning to cast a piercing eye on the ambitiously conceived "Ballad of Yermo Red." But his eye didn't feel very piercing and he wished to be far off on a beach. Since he couldn't be, he turned on the TV set and watched.

At 9:30 p.m. the Robert Montgomery Show (NBC-TV) began the presentation of a comedy entitled "Southern Exposure." It concerned a former Southern belle (Jan Miner), faded by age but with spirit still blooming, who was about to lose the home place—the finest old house in Natchez. To it came a young Northern writer (Charles Drake) and her pretty niece, a local belle (Ellizabeth Montgomery).

There were many amusing lines, some deft entrances and exits. It was well played and slickly constructed. It ended happily with the boy getting the girl and the nice old lady retaining her home because she turned out to have some mighty valuable memoirs in her possession. It was rather implausible, but who cared? It was a pleasant escape that carried this particular watcher right through the first half of "Studio One."

Now what's the moral of this? Simply that there always will be a place on television for a good light comedy after a bad hard day. A comedy free of any social significance or plumbing of the human psyche. The pressures of so-called civilization being what they are, such pleasant escapes have a ready-made audience of millions.

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

WE DON'T KNOW WHAT Mr. and Mrs. Lester Gladson are doing about dividing their attention to their two all-star sons, Norman Gladson of the Pony League All-Stars and Charles Gladson of the American Little League All-Stars [illegible]

It's a tough situation for several of us to make a decision on which games to take in since they are being played in separate cities and at the same time, but the problem must be extremely tough on mama and papa Gladson.

The Gladson's are the only parents with a son on each of our two all-star kid baseball teams here that are still in the running. Lester, I'm sure is having to stick with the Pony Leaguers since he is one of the assistant coaches.

It's a pretty difficult task for us to divide our attention, too. We'd like for it to be known that we're pulling for one team as much as the other. We, of course, hope that both come through in their respective district tournaments currently in progress.

Guess we'll be in Lubbock tonight for the championship finals between the American League and Lubbock, hoping that the Pony Stars, in the meantime, will be gaining the finals at their district tourney in Abilene.

Two Finalists Seem

That being the case, then, we could see both finals. As it is now and as it was last night, it's an impossibility to be two places at one time.

The Pony finals will be played tomorrow night and if our boys are successful in winning those two games tonight, we're sure sure that a large delegation of Snyder fans will be on hand to see Friday's finals.

Snyder's depth in pitching is what is holding the team together in the Pony League tournament. We doubt that there is another team in the tournament that could have taken Snyder's place in the loser's bracket Monday night and then come back as well as the locals have done.

There's still a tough row to hoe for the Pony Leaguers. To win the tournament, they must win two games tonight and then take two from Abilene in the finals tomorrow night.

What makes it even more tough is that Abilene, who is already in he finals, will have only two games under its belts going into tomorrow's finals. And this is compared to the five games that Snyder will have played if we succeed in reaching the finals.

You can see, then, that Abilene will be well rested for the finals while Snyder will perhaps be virtually "pooped" out if she gets to the final round.

Add to this the travelling Snyder has been forced to do while Abilene has been resting at home. Snyder has been driving back and forth for each game and believe me, brother, that gets old in a hurry.

Valentine's 'Juggling' Act Paying Off

We believe Snyder manager Bill Valentine has done a wonderful job in juggling his pitching assignments around.

After losing that first game Monday, Valentine outlined a pitching rotation for his staff all the way through the finals. He has to work his pitchers cautiously so as to have them eligible for each game.

Valentine's "pitching outline" has almost worked to a "T" thus far and here's hoping it will continue that way.

One closing note on Snyder's Little League game with Brownfield last night at Lubbock.

This fellow Charles Gladson gave all Brownfield outfielders a good look at his homerun balls. As you'll note elsewhere on this page, Gladson pounded three homers last night. The first homer sailed over the right field fence, the second over the left field wall and the third over the straightaway centerfield barrier.

ONE OF THREE—Charles Gladson of the Snyder American Little League All-Stars is pictured making one of three trips around the basepaths after hitting homers in last night's district game with Brownfield at Lubbock. Gladson drove in 10 runs with his homers, two of which were grandslammers. Gladson's teammates are waiting to congratulate the big fellow. Snyder won the game, 29-1. (Lee Watson Photograph)

American LL Rips Brownfield, 29-1

LUBBOCK, Aug. 2—Snyder's American Little League All-Stars unleased an extra-base hit barrage against Brownfield here Wednesday night to romp to a 29-1 victory in the opening round of the district Little League tournament.

The Snyder nine joined the Southern League All-Stars of Lubbock as the opening round winners. Southern beat Western League of Pampa, 9-4, in last night's opening game.

Snyder and Southern will battle today at 5:30 for the district title. Winner of the game today will qualify for next week's sectional tournament which will also be held here.

While Steve Free was tossing a 6-hitter at Brownfield here Wednesday, his Snyder mates pounded the offerings of three opposing moundsmen for an even two dozen safe blows, 13 of them being extra base raps.

Charles Gladson led the Snyder power attack with three homeruns, two of them grandslammers. Gladson wound up with 10 runs batted in, his first homer coming with one on and his last two occurrying with the bases loaded.

Bob Pena pounded two Snyder homers with Kenneth Roach accounting for another roundtripper for the winners.

Snyder iced the game away in the second inning when they poured 16 runs across the dish. Gladson got two of his homers in the second inning Snyder uprising.

The winners sent 20 boys to the plate during the big second inning. Two players, Gilbert Merritt and Jerry Guthrie, batted three times in the second inning.

Free helped his own cause in the second with a single and double that drove in three runs.

Pena got his first homer in the big second inning rally with the bases bare and then walloped his second fourmaster in the fifth with one on.

Roach's homer came in the third with two on.

Brownfield's lone marker came in the sixth frame when Woddy Harbin homered.

Little Jerry Franks had the most hits for Snyder, getting four-for-six. Free, Gladson, Pena and Freddie Miller each had three safeties for the Snyder lads.

Every Snyder player getting into the game hit safely at least twice and scored at least twice. Spencer Dyer, Roach and Franks led the scoring with four runs each.

In last night's opening game, Lubbock Southern used four passed balls and a wild pitch for its margin of victory over Pampa. Four Lubbock runs scored directly on passed balls with one tallying on a wild pitch. Lubbocks final margin of victory was five runs.

A grandslam homer by Keith Dodd put Pampa ahead in the third inning, 4-3, but Lubbock came back to take the lead in the fourth and then held on to the finish.

Gladson is expected to take the mound for Snyder today with Charlie Haliburton due to go for Lubbock.

Bobby Morrow A Gifted Athlete

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
The Associated Press

What made Bobby Morrow the greatest sprinter in the world He has the native ability and a powerful body. He had a coach who recognized his weaknesses and easily straightened them out.

Surprisingly, one of those weaknesses was facial expression. Few would think this had anything to do with running.

As the sophomore of Abilene Christian College swept the Olympic 100 and 200-meter trials, not much thought was given to the man who did most to bring out his native talent.

Oliver Jackson, ACC coach, had little work to do on improving Bobby's style because nothing much was wrong with it. He spent most of his time getting Bobby to run relaxed.

"Morrow inherited speed, strength and stamina," Jackson says, "so getting him to relax and working on his starts are all I've had to do."

Jackson first saw Morrow in the 1953 state meet when the boy from San Benito won the 100-yard dash in 9.8 but ran third in the 220. "I thought he looked mighty powerful but was a pretty tight runner," Jackson observed.

A year later Morrow on the 100 and 220 at the state meet in 9.7 and 21.1 but he still was a tight runner.

When Bobby reached Abilene, Jackson went to work on that weakness in his sprinting. He had Morrow do relaxed 150s and 300s. Morrow ran in two-thirds or three-quarters speed. Jackson never let the youngster go all out in practice. The only time Bobby runs full steam in a workout is for 25 to 50 yards in brushing up on his starts.

After getting him to run relaxed, Jackson tackled facial expression. He had Morrow concentrate on relaxing his facial muscles, which in turn helped him relax throughout the top portion of his body. Something else had to be corrected, too.

"The thing I thought poorest about Bobby in high school was that he lacked perfect coordination between his arms and legs," Jackson explains. "He had a false arm motion."

This was worked out as Jackson drilled Morrow on running relaxed.

Another trick of the coach was to have Bobby running at "in-and-out" speeds — putting another sprinter ahead and letting Morrow try to catch him without pressing too hard and losing his form.

"The first sign of an inexperienced runner is that he tends to fall apart and lose his form when he gets behind," Jackson claims.

Jackson tackled Morrow's starting technique. In high school he used a bunched start, but by the time he reached college the 6-foot-2, 170-pounder was too big for that. Jackson stretched Morrow's legs out to get his weight more evenly distributed.

Morrow's starts caused much discussion, especially after he lost to Duke's Dave Sime in the Drake Relays' 100. Jackson insists he was satisfied with Bobby's starts. He felt nothing would be wrong when Morrow had a good starter like those in the big national meets.

Bobby never had the tendency to jump the gun. He concentrated on responding to the gun, which proved to his advantage in the major meets where the starters were strict.

2 Boys Club Lads Place At Houston

Two members of the Snyder Boys Club gained places in the Southern AAU Olympic track and field meet held at Houston this week.

Stuar tLong, in the 11-and-under division, finished third in the 50-yard dash with a time of 6.7.

Jesse Crawford of the Boys Club placed fifth in the broad-jump with a leap of 15 feet 9½ inches.

Jerry Minor, a third member of the Boys Club, gained the finals in the softball throw but failed to place.

Another Snyderite, Bud Morgan, won the 180-yard low hurdles in 20.8. Morgan, however, was running as a member of the Abilene team which won the team title at Houston.

Dodgers Take Lead In Big Series With Milwaukee

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Brooklyn's Dodgers are winning the big games again in the National League pennant race, but look who's doing it for 'em — onetime nemesis Sal Maglie and Dale Mitchell, who wasn't even in the league two days ago.

The two old pros were the big guns as the third-place Brooks knocked off Milwaukee again 2-1 last night and moved to within three games of the first-place Braves.

Maglie, 39, needed help and missed his 100th victory, but he was The Barber of old. He calmed the Braves on five hits and left seven runners stranded while protecting a 1-0 lead before running out of gas in the seventh inning.

Mitchell, 35, batted in the winning run with a pinch single in his first appearance since being picked up by the Dodgers from the Cleveland Indians.

The defeat left the Braves with a two-game lead as runner-up Cincinnati dropped a 3-1 decision to New York. The Redlegs had just two singles off Ruben Gomez and Marv Grissom.

St. Louis sent Pittsburgh to a seventh straight defeat 4-1. And a grand-slammer by Willie Jones gave Philadelphia a 10-8 victory over Chicago's Cubs.

In the American, Bob Lemon gained his 14th victory with a six-hitter, stopping New York 5-1 as second-place Cleveland cut the Yankees' runaway lead to eight games. Home runs by Ted Williams and Jackie Jensen gave Boston a 5-4 victory over Detroit. Kansas City defeated Baltimore 9-4. Four runs in the 10th handed Washington a 6-2 decision over the Chicago White Sox.

Brooklyn, with cries that Lew Burdette was throwing spitters, got to the right-hander for the payoff run in the eighth. Jackie Robinson singled, took an extra base on Bobby Thomson's bobble, went to third on a sacrifice and hightailed it home as Mitchell beat out his bouncer to third. Duke Snider, who was 0-for-13, homered for the first Brook run, taking the NL home run lead with 26.

Three singles chased ex-Giant Maglie in the seventh. Clem Labine came on to win his ninth, although the Braves tied it on Roy Campanella's error before he got out of the inning.

Gomez gave way to Grissom after injuring his shoulder in a slide on his seventh-inning double. He scored the tie-breaking run on Don Mueller's single. He gave up only a third-inning single to Wally Post, but a walk, hit batsman and two flies scored for Cincy in the fourth. Stan Palys pinched a single off Grissom.

Rookie Charley Peete's fly ball fell for an RBI triple in the Cards' two-run second against loser Ron Kline. Stan Musial smacked a two-run triple in the seventh. Willard Schmidt won his fifth with a six-hitter.

Jones' grand-slam overhauled a 6-4 Cub lead and gave Robin Roberts his 12th victory in relief. Stan Lopata, 3-for-4, drove in three Phil runs.

The Indians made it two straight over the Yankees with Al Smith's two doubles and Vic Wertz's single and grounder getting all the runs home for Tommy Byrne's second defeat. Hank Bauer's home run spoiled Lemon's shutout, but he kept Mickey Mantle hitless against the Tribe for the first time this season.

William's 10th homer came with two on in the first and Jensen's 12th came with one on in the sixth for Tom Brewer's 13th victory. Paul Foytack lost it.

Al Pilarcik drove in three runs, homering for two, for the A's first home victory over Baltimore this season.

Whitey Herzog's double drove in the winning run for Washington and Chuck Stobbs. Jim Wilson lost it.

Snyder Pony Stars Continue Comeback

ABILENE, Aug. 2—The Snyder Pony League All-Stars continued their uphill climb in their bid for the District 6 Pony League tourney title here Wednesday night with a convincing 11-1 decision over Sweetwater.

Snyder will return to action at 6 p.m. today against Childress with the winner of the game to stay on to play Garland in the second game at about 8:15.

Abilene gained the finals last night by handing Garland its first tournament defeat, 16-2. Abilene will be idle tonight and will meet the winner of tonight's doubleheader in the finals tomorrow.

The championship game tomorrow will start at 7:15 p.m. If Abilene loses, then a second game would be played to determine the tournament champion.

Snyder manager Bill Valentine continued to divide his pitching duties up in last night's win over Sweetwater. Valentine employed four pitchers with none going over two innings.

Tim Roberts started and hurled the first two innings. Then Norman Gladson took over and hurled the third and fourth innings, Billy DuBose the fifth and sixth frames and Terry Lee the 7th.

Roberts and Gladson hurled hitless ball in their two-innings stints. DuBose and Lee each gave up one hit.

Roberts was the winner.

While the Snyder pitching was holding Sweetwater at bay, the winners uncorked a 12-hit attack of two Sweetwater moundsmen that included three homers.

Roberts led off the Snyder second with a homer, then Richard Mahan and Ronnie Jones hit for the circuit in the third. Mahan's blast came with the bases bare with Jones' wallop coming with one man on.

Snyder jumped into a 2-0 lead in the first inning when DuBose singled and scored on a double by Fleming. Roberts, who [illegible] scored on a single by Jones.

Roberts' homer made it 3-0 in the second.

Snyder put the game virtually out of reach for Sweetwater in the third when she came up with three tallies. Mahan and Jones' homers accounted for the three runs in the third that boosted the Snyder lead to 6-0.

In the fourth, DuBose tripled and scored on a wild pitch for a 7-0 Snyder lead. Snyder turned the game into a rout in the fifth and sixth, scoring once in the fifth and three in the sixth.

Sweetwater's lone marker came in the fifth without the aid of a base hit.

Sweetwater didn't get a base hit until the sixth when Ramoldo Sepeda singled. Buford Patterson doubled in the seventh for Sweetwater's other hit.

Snyder's four pitchers last night combined for 11 strikeouts. Mahan, with three-for-three, led the Snyder hitting.

Lemons Accent Best In Food, Help Build Blood Vessels

In 1856, a hundred years ago, the California lemon industry was started in the warm south country near snow tipped mountains. All this summer, in New York, the world's largest department store is displaying an acre of living lemon trees brought across continent from California to emphasize its theme: lemon yellow.

California which produces 90 percent of the American crop, thus plays an important part in contributing vitamin C to your diet.

Besides aiding healthy gums and teeth, and helping to regulate the heart muscles, fresh lemons, as well as fresh oranges, contain citrus bio-flavornoids. These bio-flavonoids work with vitamin C as well as independently to help strengthen the tiny blood vessels called cappillaries found in every part of the body. Besides helping to keep the capillaries elastic in their normal functions, the bioflavonoids are needed when there is any damage or increase fragility of the capillaries.

More Become Eligible For Social Security Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Women between the ages of 62 and 65 and an estimated 340,000 disabled persons 50 and over were made eligible for new Social Security benefits yesterday.

President Eisenhower signed, with some expressed reservations, a bill to lower the retirement age for women and to set up for the first time a system of federal payments to workers totally and permanently disabled at age 50 and above.

The new benefits for women will be reflected in December checks. An estimated 200,000 widows will become eligible for full benefits at 62. Working women and wives of retired workers may elect to draw somewhat reduced benefits at 62 or wait for full benefits at 65. Officials have estimated that about 300,000 in each category will choose the lowered retirement age.

Benefits for the disabled, estimated to average $75 monthly, will not begin until July 1957. To be eligible for payments, a worker must have been disabled for at least three months and meet strict medical tests.

To pay for the new benefits, Social Security taxes will go up next Jan. 1, but, as Eisenhower noted with pleasure, only half as much as was originally proposed.

The tax, levied on the first $4,200 of a worker's annual earnings, will go up from the present 2 to 2¼ per cent on both workers and employers. The self-employed, now paying 3 per cent, will pay 3⅜ per cent.

Another provision of the new law, which the administration supported, blankets into the Social Security system an estimated 225,000 persons not heretofore included.

They include lawyers, dentists, osteopaths, veterinarians, optometrists and some related professions but not physicians — the only major group other than government workers not now covered.

Another new provision authorizes a number of states to bring under Social Security various local government employes such as policemen and firemen.

Another boosts by 146 million dollars a year grants to states for needy persons. This is expected to mean about $3 or $4 a month more for the needy aged, blind and disabled and about $2 monthly additional for dependent children.

Cost Of Living Alone Will Prove Expensive

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Millionaire juke box distributor Jean J. Minthorne will pay $409,000 a year for the next 10 years to live alone after 31 years of marriage.

This figure was set in court yesterday after Minthorne's wife Marian, 48, won a separate maintenance decree.

She testified that Minthorne, 52, moved out of the Beverly Hills family home last Nov. 9, telling her he no longer loved her and wanted to be alone.

The $409,000 will come from the various business enterprises which she helped her husband establish during their marriage.

Judge Decides To Dismiss Hearing

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—A man who didn't show up for jury duty in U.S. District Court here was scheduled for a show cause hearing yesterday. He didn't show up for that either.

Judge George Bell Timmerman Sr. asked the clerk of court for the questionnaire sent to the juror.

In it, the judge found, the prospective juror described himself as "king of the world and provost marshal of the U.S."

Hearing dismissed, said Judge Timmerman.

Walt Disney Sued By Kirk Douglas

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Kirk Douglas has sued Walt Disney for $415,000 over films showing the actor riding on Disney's miniature train.

Douglas' complaint said Disney violated the actor's right of privacy by taking the films surreptitiously during a social visit he and his family paid to the Disney home last April 4.

Named with Disney as defendants were the ABC network, which showed the films; three sponsors and three advertising agencies.

Douglas contends his earning power as a movie actor is based on the kind and number of appearances he chooses to make, and the amount of money he receives for such appearances.

BOBO RELAXES AFTER FRACAS—Mrs. Barbara (Bobo) Rockefeller tells newsmen in Littlerock, Ark., of the latest flareup between her and her ex-husband, millionaire Winthrop Rockefeller, from whom she obtained a $5,000,000 divorce settlement several years ago. She claims she was held prisoner at his farm 60 miles north of Little Rock. She was arrested for disturbing the peace.

Radford To Korea

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Adm. Arthur W. Radford left today for South Korea. He told newsmen the Chinese Nationalists during his visit had asked for more military aid, a request the chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff said he gets everywhere he goes.

Both Candidates Get Big Negro Backing

By The Associated Press

Both Ralph Yarborough and Sen. Price Daniel, who face each other in a runoff for governor Aug. 25, captured some predominantly Negro voting boxes in Saturday's first primary, a survey by several newspapers showed Wednesday.

Yarborough appeared to have received heavy Negro backing in some big cities, but a spot check indicated he did not score a sweep.

Daniel won several boxes in Negro neighborhoods and was close in others. W. Lee O'Daniel, who ran third with a strong pro-segregation platform, also captured at least one box.

Daniel and Yarborough took almost identical stands on segregation. Both said they opposed the use of force to carry out the Supreme Court's ruling against segregation in schools.

Daniel sought to link Yarborough with Walter Reuther of the CIO and other "labor bosses." He also pointed to Reuther's support of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People. Daniel charged that "labor bosses" were trying to dominate Texas through control of the governor and said Yarborough was labor's candidate.

Yarborough said Reuther had not contributed to his campaign fund and minimized organized labor's support of his candidacy.

At Tyler and in Smith County attempts were made to direct Negro votes into a strong force. Seven of the 18 candidates supported by the Smith County Progressive Democratic League lost. The league is an advisory political organization for Negroes.

Yarborough led in Box 13, which had a ratio of 1,200 eligible Negro voters to 800 whites. Yarborough got 699 votes, Daniel 263 and O'Daniel 134.

Tyler politicians asserted the Negroes voted independently despite any advice from the league. County returns from 44 boxes gave no indication of a blind following of the league's recommendations, the observers said.

In the seven Dallas boxes in which Negroes vote heavily, the total vote was Yarborough 2,896, O'Daniel 246 and Daniel 234. One Dallas box, No. 309, gave Yarborough 436 votes and Daniel 3.

Negroes apparently voted in blocs for Yarborough at Fort Worth. Box 59 gave the Austin attorney 545 votes and all other candidates combined only eight.

One San Antonio precinct with a heavy Negro vote gave Yarborough a 5-1 majority. Yarborough ran 2-1 or 3-1 in six other precincts with Negro population.

Two boxes in Beaumont and two in Port Arthur with large Negro votes gave Yarborough 1,648 votes to Daniel's 226, O'Daniel's 48 and 118 for the other candidates.

In Harris County (Houston), Yarborough received 87 per cent of the vote in 29 predominately Negro precincts. He got 8,195 votes, Daniel received 460 and O'Daniel 177.

Galveston County's large Negro population gave Yarborough a margin in Negro voting areas.

El Paso's only predominately Negro voting box gave Yarborough a heavy majority.

Only one precinct in the Panhandle's 31st senatorial district has a considerable Negro population. Box 19-A in Amarillo gave Yarborough 211 votes, O'Daniel 11 and Daniel 7. In Ennis, Negro boxes rolled up big majorities for Yarborough.

Waco, San Angelo and Wichita Falls politicians said they could see no Negro bloc voting.

The predominately Negro voting box in Lubbock gave Daniel an edge of 2-1.

Four major boxes in which the Negro vote is a factor in McLennan County (Waco) showed: Box 1 close for the three leading candidates in this order. Yarborough, Daniel and O'Daniel. Box 4, Daniel led, Yarborough was about 30 votes behind and O'Daniel trailed by about 100 votes. Box 10, with the heaviest concentration of the Negro vote, gave Yarborough a good edge with O'Daniel second and Daniel third. In Box 11, Daniel led, Yarborough was second and O'Daniel third.

O'Daniel got the edge with 193 votes in the San Angelo box with the largest Negro vote. Yarborough had 183 and Daniel 102. The single box in Lubbock with a strong Negro population gave Daniel 85 votes, Yarborough 44 and O'Daniel 41.

Wichita Falls politicians said the Negro vote there split about the same way as the white vote.

Attempt To Make Tot Comfortable Is Fatal

POTTSVILLE, Pa. (AP)—A mother's attempt to make her infant daughter more comfortable as they rode in the family auto resulted in the child's death, police said.

Officer Howard Rarcik of nearby Orwigsburg said Mrs. Anna Shoener was driving near her home with 5-week-old Janet Elaine propped on the seat beside her. She noticed the sun glaring into the child's eyes.

As she tried to move the baby, the auto mounted a curb and struck a tree, fatally injuring the child, Rarick said. Mrs. Shoener suffered fractures and cuts.

County Designated For Feed Assistance

Scurry county has been designated under the emergency feed grain program.

Joseph E. Box was notified of the designation for assistance under the program by Walter T. McKay, state director of the Farmers Home Administration.

The FHA county committee may now take applications from farmers and ranchers through Aug. 31, 1956 to provide feed for basic livestock herds through Sept. 30, 1956.

Lack Of Oxygen Is Blamed For Death

NANTUCKET, Mass. (AP) — Lack of oxygen in the blood was blamed today for the death of a skin diver while practicing dives before taking underwater pictures of the sunken liner Andrea Doria.

William Edgerton, 23, of Belmont, died shortly after he was pulled from the waters of Nantucket harbor.

He was one of a group of about 20 in a privately financed expedition to film the liner which plunged into 225 feet of water 45 miles south of Nantucket after a collison with the Swedish liner Stockholm last week.

Dr. Christian J. Lambertson, a physician member of the expedition, said one of the valves on Edgerton's breathing apparatus somehow became partially closed.

Cross Is Burned On Lamar Tech Campus

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — Hooded figures burned a 12-foot cross on the campus of Lamar State College of Technology last night.

Witnesses said four to six hooded figures planted the cross and set it afire, then fled in a car.

Lamar Tech was ordered Monday by U.S. Dist. Judge Lemar Cecil to open its doors to Negroes this fall.

SEAMAN VISITS GIRL HE SAVED—Bernabe Polanco Garcia, left, visits at St. Vincent's Hospital in New York with injured Linda Morgan, 14, whom he saved from death in the crash of the Andrea Doria and the Stockholm. Embracing them is Linda's father, Edward, a radio commentator. Garcia, a Stockholm crewman, said the craft's engines were in reverse when she hit the Andrea Doria. He also said the Stockholm's foghorn was silent.

WRONG STATE COLLECTS

Dispute Set Off By Toll Bridge

By ROBERT A. HUNT

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The city of Alton, Ill., is collecting tolls on a Mississippi River bridge owned by the State of Missouri.

Impossible, you say?

You're wrong, 15 cents worth.

Robert L. Hyder, general counsel for the Missouri Highway Department, announced he'll file a petition before the Supreme Court in Washington Aug. 14 in an effort to stop it.

"The city of Alton has been collecting $1,000 a day in tolls since June 30 and is not in any way entitled to it," Hyder declared. "The bridge belongs to the State of Missouri."

The two-lane bridge, 3,000 feet long, crosses the Mississippi between Alton and West Alton, Mo., about 20 miles north of St. Louis on U. S. 67.

From 1936 until June it belonged to Missouri's St. Charles County. The toll was 25 cents. It long since had paid for itself.

In June, St. Charles County authorities revoked the tolls, declared it a freebridge, and presented the deed to the Missouri Highway Department.

Anguished cries arose from Alton. Said Mayor Leo Struif:

"Instead of giving the city of Alton and the Illinois Highway Department a free bridge, they propose to dump into the laps of the taxpayers of Alton the one-million-dollar problem of providing adequate bridge approaches and the expensive solution of the attendant traffic problem."

Traffic was expected to boom, since all the other river crossings in the St. Louis area are toll bridges.

Alton counterattacked.

City Judge I. H. Streeper issued an injunction. The city seized the Alton end of the bridge. A receiver was named. A 15-cent toll was imposed.

About 8,000 cars use the bridge on an average day and Alton has been banking the money at the rate of about $400,000 a year.

Heirs Must Answer Right

SEDALIA, Mo. (AP) — Attorneys handling the estate of Mrs. Kate E. Landes sent out $500 questionnaires to 19 heirs.

Smoke?

Drink?

Belong to a church?

Go to church or Sunday school every Sunday?

Mrs. Landes left $500 apiece to 17 nieces and nephews and two friends if they have the right answers ("no" to the first two questions and "yes" to the others).

Three have answered satisfactorily and certified they are eligible for the $500.

Twelve others replied variously, some of them declining to claim the money.

Two haven't been heard from at all.

And a lawyer for the other two, legally dotting every "I" and crossing ever "T," responded in their behalf:

"Eligible unless that portion of Article IV of the will which provides 'nor drink' should be interpreted to include the consumption of water and other nonalcoholic beverage."

Judge Indicts Peron For Seducing Girl

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — A judge has indicted former President Juan D. Peron in absentia on seducing teen-ager Nelida (Nelly) Rivas.

Peron is in exile in Panama. The indictment issued by Judge Ernesto Gonzalez Bonorino in Juvenile Court accuses him of having sexual relations with the young girl for two years, from the time she was 14.

The judge also indicted Nelly's parents, Jose and Maria de Rivas, on charges of aiding Peon in the alleged seduction. They and their daughter already have been jailed.

Leading authorities advise that building costs are not coming down. One leading authority states, "This is a growing country whose population and economy have expanded mightily in the past ten years. Let us look ahead rather than backward and not be afraid to invest in the future of America." Better start owning your home now!

Effect Of Shiver's Blast At Candidates Is Being Studied

By WHITEY SAWYER
The Associated Press

Who is supporting whom and will it do any good was the big question Thursday in the runoff race for governor.

Politicians speculated about what effect Gov. Shivers' blast Tuesday would have on the race between Ralph Yarborough, twice beaten by Shivers, and Sen. Price Daniel.

The Dallas News said strong signs were that key leaders of Sen. Lyndon Johnson's moderation movement are plugging for Daniel in the Aug. 25 runoff.

Johnson has endorsed neither man.

Shivers said "Those who dealt in personalities and wild, unsubstantiated charges were defeated, or, as in the races for governor and attorney general, trailed the leader by a wide margin."

Dist. Atty. Tom Moore of Waco faces former state Supreme Court Justice Will Wilson in the attorney general race.

Politicians wondered whether Shivers' blast would help Daniel by pulling more conservatives firmly into his camp. Or would it give Yarborough new grounds for his charges he is running against what he calls the "Shivers-Daniel" team.

Yarborough asserted his first primary campaign was clean and that "the Shivers-Daniel team has smeared me with their evil and false charges for years."

Daniel made no comment.

The Dallas News said its correspondents covering the first primary campaign noted that many a conservative who backed Johnson in his May convention victory showed up at Daniel meetings.

They were still angry about the way some of the "liberal-labor groups tried to dump Johnson's moderation program" at the convention, the News said. The account said some felt that if Yarborough wins, the left-wing group will have a loud voice at the convention.

Yarborough claims he was the only candidate who supported Johnson and Speaker Sam Rayburn in the moderation movement.

Daniel did no active campaigning Wednesday, but sent a telegram to Agriculture Secretary Benson urging him to take prompt action to relieve farmers and ranchers in 27 more Texas counties. The department approved assistance for 61 counties Tuesday.

Daniel said dire need exists in these counties, and urged prompt action: Brooks, Colorado, Fayette, Jim Wells, Brazos, Burleson, Camp, Ellis, Falls, Franklin, Grayson, Grimes, Harrison, Henderson, Hopkins, Hunt, Johnson Lee, Morris, Rains, Smith, Somervell, Titus, Van Zandt, Victoria, Wharton and Waco.

Man Offers Help, Takes His Reward

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP) — Mrs. Anna Bulgarin withdrew $300 from her savings account, walked to her automobile and encountered a man who told her the tie rod on the car was out of order.

"He offered to fix it for me," she told police. "He tinkered around with it for a while, then asked me to hold a wrench on a certain bolt."

Finally she got tired, dropped the wrench and opened the car door. The man was gone. So was her pocketbook with the $300.

Abuses In Webb Voting Claimed

LAREDO (AP) — A. W. Gates, a Reform Party witness, testified yesterday about alleged voting abuses by the Independent Club. An Independent Club member recorded the testimony on tape.

The testimony against the long-dominant political party came at a hearing before Dan Moody Jr. of Austin, master-in-chancery for Dist. Judge Charles Betts of Austin to gather evidence on alleged violations of absentee voting in Webb County.

Gates said applications for local government jobs had to supply 10 to 80 "sure votes for the Independent Club before they could be hired.

The rancher also said employes had to kick back three per cent of their pay to their immediate supervisor and guarantee votes in all the elections to hold their jobs.

Horace Hall of Laredo, who said he had been a member of the Independent Club for years, recorded the testimony.

Another packed court of inquiry checked the same allegations before Judge R. D. Wright. Gates refused to testify before Wright and was fined $50. He told Moody:

"All employes of the city and county government are members of the Independent Club. The elected officials and employes, at least 99 per cent, are members."

Gates said that every Independent Club candidate has won since 1939 and that every Independent Club candidate for statewide offices either won or led in the runoff.

He said city employes "during poll tax buying season may go to their immediate supervisor or leader and receive usually $15 to purchase poll taxes on their list."

He said every city employe had a list of 10 to 80 voters that could be guaranteed to the Independent Club.

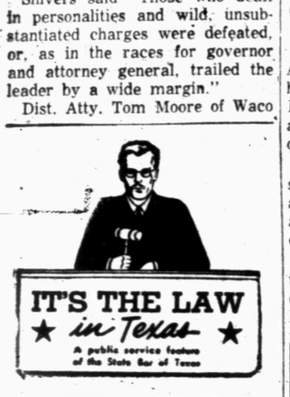

Gates said all absentee ballots were notarized.

"Ninety-nine per cent of the notaries were members of the Independent Club and usually worked in a courthouse," he said.

He declared it was ridiculous that 1,300 absentee ballots were cast out of about 16,000 eligible voters. He said it doesn't compare with other counties' absentee ballots.

Gates said some people at the polls were using aids, which were marked so they could see how they vote.

SETTLING ESTATE

A properly drawn will can be the means of short-cutting many legal formalities, and save a great deal of time in distributing the estate of a decedent among his rightful heirs. It may also serve to save many dollars in legal fees and court costs.

As an example, whenever a person dies without a will and it is necessary for the probate court to appoint an administrator of his estate, the person so appointed is required to post a bond. This bond is for the purpose of insuring the faithful performance of his duties.

The amount of the bond must be double the estimated value of the personal property of the estate plus a reasonable amount to cover prospective rents and other income from real estate involved. The administrator's bond must be kept in force until the estate is finally closed and he is discharged from his obligation by the court.

The same rule applies to an executor under a will, unless the testator has specified that no bond shall be required. This provision may be inserted or left out of the will at the option of the maker. Needless to say, there are situations in which the bond serves a real purpose. But when not needed, the statutory requirement may prove a distinct annoyance to the executor and a burden upon the estate in the form of annual premium payments.

Another example A court appointed administrator may not sell any property of an estate without an order of the court authorizing him to do so. He must make application to the court for approval of each sale. The court must be advised of and approve the sales price and the manner in which the same is to be collected. Similar provisions apply to the making of mineral leases and other transactions.

There provisions apply equally to the executor of a will, unless the testator has freed him from such requirements. A single short paragraph inserted in a will designating him as an independent executor in appropriate phraseology may serve this purpose. Then he will have a free hand to dispose of property upon short notice whenever a favorable opportunity arises, with a minimum of legal formality.

Since every application or other paper filed with the probate court and ever order obtained from the court involves the expenditure of attorney fees for its preparation and court costs for its handling by the clerk, in proper cases many dollars may be saved for the heirs by adequate provisions of a will.

Cat Well Marked

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Henry A. Sell said he did it just "so I could tell the cat from the other cats." What Municipal Court Judge Peter B. Muir didn't like was the manner of identification. He fined Sell $25 on a cruelty-to-animals charge for cutting off the cat's tail with a butcher knife. Sell, 52, also was fined $20 for drunkenness.

New Money Disappears

LONDON (AP) — A firm which prints money for Britain's colonies reported today that 100,000 new East African pound notes—worth $280,000 — have vanished from its London plant. Detectives said they hadn't yet established whether the money was stolen or shipped in error to the wrong address.
