Junta Nixes Extension To Truce In Dominican

Report To UN Council

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary-General U Thant told the U.N. Security Council today that the head of the military civilian junta in Santo Domingo had refused to extend the 24-hour truce.

"Preliminary indications are that the situation is onimous," Thant said. "Gen. Imbert is reported to have refused to agree to extension of the cease-fire."

Thant said the information was contained in a report being received by his special representative in Santo Domingo, Jose Antonio Mayobre.

With that news the council recessed an extraordinary Saturday session until 2 p.m., EST.

Shortly before it recessed Britain submitted a resolution proposing that the council call for a continued and complete cessation of hostilities in the Dominican Republic.

Lord Caradon, the British delegate, introduced a resolution to that effect shortly after the 11-nation council rejected a Uruguayan resolution supported by France calling on all states to refrain from giving military aid to either side in the Dominican civil war.

He declared that the council must "immediately and urgently" demand that the 24-hour truce expiring at noon today "be converted into a permanent cessation of hostilities."

Roger Seydoux, the French delegate, followed up the British move by introducing a resolution of his own.

It would have the council express its serious concern over the situation in the Dominican Republic, recall its previous demand for a cease-fire, and request "that the Santo Domingo truce be transferred into a permanent cease-fire."

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson told the council that the United States is determined to prevent any forces, including those of the junta, to go through the U.S.-controlled corridor or security zone.

He said that would result in "an effective end to the fighting" and would "permit political discussions to proceed."

VOLUNTEER WORKERS rallied to the cause Friday and Saturday to complete the job of "stuffing" envelopes with the labor survey forms which are being mailed throughout the county. Three ladies are shown busy at the big job. They are Mrs. J. P. Madding, Mrs. Birdie Barron and Mrs. Charlie Dell Easdon. The forms, when returned, are expected to give a good picture of the labor supply, and the skills available, in this area.

Raiding US Planes Move Nearer Hanoi

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—A massive force of U.S. Air Force planes slammed bombs into the Quang Suoi military barracks in North Viet Nam today in the closest raid so far to the Communist capital of Hanoi.

Ninety Air Force jets destroyed 37 buildings in the target area which stretched from 55 to 60 miles due south of Hanoi, U.S. military spokesmen said.

On one previous occasion U.S. planes had gone nearer to Hanoi but that was to drop leaflets.

All the planes returned safely and no enemy aircraft were seen, a U.S. spokesman said.

No planes were reported lost in today's series of air strikes which began with small - scale Navy reconnaissance raids shortly after midnight, and ended with the mass assault on Quang Soui Barracks early this afternoon.

Forty U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchief bombers struck the Quang Soui barracks, escorted by 50 support jets.

A U.S. spokesman said the aircraft ranged over the target area for 45 minutes.

Then the air armada moved south to Phuoc Qui ammunition depot, 100 miles south of Hanoi, and destroyed six buildings and damaged another four.

The U.S. planes dropped 75 tons of bombs over both targets. They were mostly 750 pounders, a U.S. spokesman said. Ground fire was reported intense over Quang Soui, but no enemy aircraft were seen.

U.S. Navy planes also hammered at road targets and a naval station.

At 10 a.m. planes from the Midway cruising in the Gulf of Tonkin hit a Vietnamese navy pt boat hidden under camouflage and being towed by a trawler. Many hits were made on both ships with rockets and machine-gun fire, a U.S. spokesman said. The trawler was left burning.

Vietnamese air force planes joined in at 1 p.m.

Solons Eye Early Date To Adjourn

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN (AP)—House approval of the $101 million teacher pay bill and the state representatives' redistricting measure Friday stirred speculation the 59th Legislature may quit ahead of time.

The deadline for a maximum 140-day session is midnight May 21.

"This means we can quit the Saturday before (May 29)," exulted a weary representative.

House passage of the compromise teachers pay bill sent it to the governor for an expected quick signature.

The House redistricting measure goes to the Senate which sent its Senate redistricting measure to the House earlier.

Legislative leaders reportedly have a "gentleman's agreement" that the Senate will approve the House's redistricting plans if the House will do the same for Senate redistricting.

The House Tax Committee plans to deliver next Tuesday a bill drafted to pay the state's $70 million share of the teachers raise.

The $3.64 billion general appropriations bill for 1966-67 already has passed both houses and is in the hands of the state comptroller for a double check before going to the governor.

Practically the only other major proposals pending are plans to reorganize state water regulatory procedures.

A 10-man conference committee is studying House and Senate differences over two bills that would make the Texas Water Commission strictly a water rights adjudication agency while all planning would come under the Texas Water Development Agency.

ACC Gets Huge Gift

ABILENE (AP)—The biggest gift ever made to Abilene Christian College — a $1.6 million campus center — was disclosed Saturday night at a dinner honoring Don Morris, who completed 25 years as president of the school.

Making the gift were four Abilene families — Mr. and Mrs. Hal McGlothlin, Mr. and Mrs. Jack McGlothlin, Mr. and Mrs. Ray McGlothlin Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Corbin.

The building will be a multi-purpose center for students, faculty and visitors, and will provide recreational areas, central food services, banquet facilities, a bookstore, post office, small auditorium and meeting rooms.

The structure will be named in memory of Mrs. Evelyn McGlothlin, mother of three of the donors.

The McGlothlins and Corbin are oil men. The McGlothlins are ACC Alumni.

Work Progresses On Labor Survey

Work is underway on the employment survey being conducted through the Scurry County Industrial Development Corporation.

Questionnaires are being mailed to every known address in the county, and also will be made available in surrounding communities in the hope that the work skills of the population can be determined.

Bill Wilson, chairman of the Industrial Development Corporation, said that the forms were not to determine if a person was employed, nor are they job applications. What the corporation wants to determine is if a person is available for employment, and also what skills or training he or she might have had in the past, whether they are using that skill or training now or not.

For example, a person might now be employed in a service station, but that person might have had experience working on the assembly line in a plastic boat factory. That previous experience would be of interest to the corporation.

It was emphasized that the questionnaires should be completed and mailed back in the postage - free envelopes as soon as possible so that the information on the local labor market, including the types of skills available here, can be tallied.

The information gained will be used by the Industrial Development Corporation to provide labor market data to industrial prospects as the need arises.

All personal information on the forms will be kept strictly confidential, with only the totals of the various skills being made available to the industrial prospects.

The forms are printed on both sides — one in English and the other in Spanish. Extra forms are available at the Chamber of Commerce office, and it is also hoped that those who receive forms, and have no use for them will pass them along to those who can use them, or who might have been missed in the mailing.

Application For College On Schedule

Plans are virtually complete for a local group to seek a spot on the State Board of Education's June 5 agenda to submit a junior college application.

Badger Robertson, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Junior College Survey Committee, said that all required materials would be ready by Tuesday, and that representatives of the committee would be in Austin to ask for a place on the state board's agenda. The local group hopes that the state board will shcedule the required hearing in time for final action on the application at its July meeting.

Over 500 signatures have been logged on local petitions. Also, the Scurry County Commissioner's Court has approved a resolution endorsing the application for a Scurry County Junior College district. Other formal endorsements have been adopted by service and civic clubs.

End In Sight For Vote Bill Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic strategists claimed today the votes — plus a bonus margin — to end the Senate debate on President Johnson's voting rights bill.

It will take two-thirds of the senators voting to clamp down on the talk when the showdown comes Tuesday, one hour after the Senate begins its 24th day on the bill.

That would mean 67 votes if all 100 senators were on hand. Privately, Democrats said they could supply 47 of that number.

But aides said Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, does not plan to be in Washington for the vote.

If the Democrats meet their forecast, at least 20 Republican votes would be needed for the Senate to invoke cloture — its debate limitation rule. GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen already has said he can deliver 24 votes.

An Associated Press survey put the count now at 58 to 26, with eight senators undecided and eight so far undisclosed.

Two Democrats who announced they favor cloture — Joseph Montoya of New Mexico and Ross Bass of Tennessee — occupy the Senate seats held last year by men who opposed it.

Democratic aides did not identify the third shift they hope to see Tuesday. Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., who opposed cloture in 1964, said he has not yet decided how he will vote.

Other Democrats stuck with the positions they took in the 1964 vote, when 44 of them voted to halt the civil rights debate.

But Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., who voted to end the 1964 debate, said he will vote against cloture Tuesday. Curtis said he would favor debate limitation later, but not next week.

Area Citizens Encouraged To Take Mass Driving Test

Automobile drivers and students here are being encouraged to participate in a national driving test which will be presented on television Monday night.

The mass test, first of its kind ever attempted, has a two-fold purpose: To familiarize viewers with the principles of "defensive driving," and to develop data that will be useful for future research projects.

It will be presented from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. ever CBS television outlets in this area Monday night.

The entire show has been produced not only with the cooperation of the National Safety Council and IBM, but with the advice and counsel of an independent board of consulstants drawn from industry, government and educational institutions. Viewers will be able to test their driving, judgment as they watch high-speed head-on collisions, staged by experienced stunt drivers, as they develop and occur. Another part of the test will feature potentially serious driving hazards and the viewer will be asked "How many did you spot?"

A cross-section of all drivers in terms of sex - age, geography and driving experience have been selected for sample grading by the National Safety Council. Other viewers will grade themselves, and then will be able to compare their respective scores with other drivers as represented by the sample.

New Tests Designed For Tires

By BOB HORTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 38-state commission announced today it has developed a series of tests designed to assure that tires wear out before they blow out.

The Vehicle Equipment Safety Commission, a cooperative group formed to advance highway safety, said its tire report has been sent to governors and motor vehicle agencies of the 38 states which are members.

It would be up to the states to put the recommendations into effect, in most cases through legislative action.

The commission said the tests are designed to establish basic performance requirements for new passenger car or station wagon tires made or sold in the member states.

The proposed tests include tire endurance, breakage (puncture) and high speed endurance.

Automobile tires, and their measure of safety and hazard, have been the object of government discussion in recent months.

Two Islands Eyed For More Tests

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is considering using two additional islands in the central Pacific as part of its nuclear weapons test facilities if a decision should ever be made to resume atmospheric testing.

It also is preparing readiness plans for an "underwater weapons effects" test if the limited test-ban treaty outlawing all but underground tests is broken.

This became known today after the release of a highly censored version of secret testimony given Congress several months ago on the status of the nation's nuclear weapons program.

The two tiny islands — which would be used only as sites for test-monitoring instruments — are Baker and Howland islands, both discovered by American whalers in the early 19th century.

They are located near the equator, about 1,000 miles southwest of Johnston Island, the land base for any future low-altitude or high-altitude nuclear test blasts in the Pacific.

The United States has previously disclosed that its Pacific testing area — the site for testing the most powerful types of weapons — has been made ready to resume atmospheric testing "on short notice" if the Soviet Union or any other signatory breaks the limited test ban treaty.

Of the world's five nuclear powers, France and Red China have not signed the pact, while Britain, the Soviet Union and the United States have.

William J. Howard, assistant to the secretary of defense, disclosed that testing could begin anywhere from two to six months after the go-ahead signal had been given, depending upon the nature of the tests. He also said the Johnston Island facilities have been "greatly improved" since tests were last conducted there in 1962.

That the government is at least considering using two new islands for deploying "special diagnostic equipment" conceivably could mean that any resumed testing would involve some novel events.

The word about the islands — each about one square mile in area — came out in testimony given to the Senate-House Joint Committee on Atomic Energy by Brig. Gen. Delmar Crowson, director of the Atomic Energy Commission's Division of Military Application.

He indicated that no firm decision had been made to use the islands.

Gun Bill Is Due Closer Scrutiny

WASHINGTON (AP) — A hotly disputed administration bill to curb mail order gun traffic may have to run the gauntlet of a second Senate committee.

A spokesman for Sen. [illegible] Democrat, Conn., said his group wants to examine the Johnson bill after the Judiciary Committee completes work on it.

This "won't be just a cursory look," he said, explaining that this meant he expected a second round of hearings by the Commerce Committee.

The measure now is before the Judiciary Committee's subcommittee on juvenile delinquency which is headed by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., chief sponsor both of this year's and last year's bill. He recessed the hearings Friday until about June 2.

When last year's bill died, Dodd charged that pressures by "the gun lobby" and especially by the National Rifle Association had doomed the measure.

The committee spokesman, however, said he understood Dodd and Commerce Committee Chairman Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., have agreed that Commerce also has jurisdiction over such legislation and will get a chance to review the administration bill.

What this might mean in terms of possible delay in handling the bill remained to be seen. Neither Dodd nor Magnuson was available for comment.

On the House side, the Ways and Means Committee has indicated no plans for early hearings on similar bills.

Franklin L. Orth, executive vice president of NRA, led a field of witnesses opposing many features of the administration bill at Friday's hearings. Orth called the bill "unsound and premature" and in need of a lot of revision to strike out, clarify or soften many of its provisions. He offered to help the subcommittee revise it. Both Orth and the NRA's marksmanship training program.

original bill by Dodd — a statement which Dodd treated skeptically.

The bill, part of President Johnson's anticrime program, has as its major goal to clamp down on the mail order sale of firearms to criminals, drug addicts, the mentally ill and juveniles.

Orth and other critics contend that intentionally or not the bill would hurt, among other things, hunting, competition at rifle clubs and the NRA's marksmanship training program.

Drummer Keeps Jazz Band Exceptionally Tax-Conscious

By RONNIE THOMPSON

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The Happy Jazz Band is probably the most tax-conscious band around these days, thanks to the drummer. He's an Internal Revenue Serive agent.

The seven-piece group prides itself in playing traditional Dixieland jazz without any of today's commercial overtones and modern crowd - pleasers.

It is strictly a part - time outfit.

The banjo player is a postman and choir director. The clarinet, cornet and tuba players are in the wholesale food business, while the piano player works for a trucking firm. And the man with the trombone sells musical instruments.

It is the most successful and sought - after band in this area. In January, it won Billboard Magazine's Jazz Merit Award.

"It's not like the old days when bands were crying for engagements," Jim Cullum Sr., onetime clarinet player for the Jack Teagarden band, said. "Now we turn down as many dates as we play."

Cullum, president of a wholesale grocery company, and his son, Jim Cullum Jr., 23, who plays the cornet and works with his father, manage the group.

The wild sounds of the band's rendition of "High Society," "The Chant" and "The Dixieland One-Step" ring across the San Antonio River on Friday and Saturday nights. They come from a small place known as "The Landing," which is packed every night.

The group averages about two other engagements a week.

"We play pure traditional Dixieland jazz without any regard for the conventional commerical aspects of musical presentation," he said. "What showmanship we apply comes natural, and the public seems to like it."

Just three years ago, the band started playing in a small cocktail lounge on Sundays "just for kicks," Cullum said. "Before that we'd sit around someone's home in jam sessions."

Jim Haynes, a young San Antonio investor, heard the group and came upon the idea of building The Landing, located on the river in what was once a basement storeroom for a downtown hospital.

"Actually, I guess The Landing is probably one of the only night clubs ever built around a specific band," Cullum said.

The Cullums have started their own record company around the two records the band has released.

Even with the success to date, Cullum doubts the Happy Jazz Band will ever go full-time.

"For one thing, all of us have other jobs," he said. "No doubt we'd have personnel changes that would change our sound. We have a perfect musical arangement.

"It is a tight little ship, both musically and financially."

"And, boy, we're the cleanest band around when it comes to taxes." Cullum added. "Harvey (Kindervater, the IRS agent) keeps an eye on us and we lean over backwards to keep everything straight."

Cullum said he believes the band can become more successful and still be a party-time outfit.

"In the old days when bands traveled by bus and car, they'd get bored," he said. "Now you can jump up to New York by plane, get on a few television shows and get back home in no time."

Besides the Cullums and Kindervater, the band members are Benny Valfre, the postman-banjo player who also conducts a church choir; Wilson Davis, the tuba player who is a fruit and vegetable broker; and Gene McKinney, who plays the trombone and manages a wholesale music company, and Clif Gillette, a piano player who is a trucking firm traffic manager.

Court Reverses Pair's Conviction

By STEVEN MARCUS

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A decision by the U.S. 3rd Circuit Court of Appeals, reversing the conviction of two men accused of murdering a Newark, N.J. policeman, may have a far-reaching effect on the way policemen may question persons under arrest, court observers said today.

The court ordered the reversal Thursday on the grounds that the men — Anthony Russo, 25, of Belleville, N.J., and Frank Bisignano, 25, of Lodi, N.J. — were not appraised of their right to counsel early in the case.

The first record of a shoemaker in America can be traced back to 1632.

Institute Stresses Need For Water

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP)—"Water suitable for the domestic, municipal and industrial needs of our nation are our most important natural resource," says an expert in water affairs.

Ed Reed, Midland hydrologist, conveyed this message to more than 100 area lawyers Friday at an institute on water law sponsored by the Texas Bar and the Midland County Bar Association.

The technical discussion wound up today with a panel discussion on the various aspects of water rights, legislation, ownership and control.

The panel included Reed, Texas Supreme Court Justice Joe Greenhill of Austin and lawyers Victor Bouldin of Houston and A. W. Walker of Dallas.

Reed briefed the attorneys Friday on "investigation and preparation for trial of a water pollution case."

"Much has been written and said in recent years about the impending water shortage in the United States—in part conjecture and in part based upon hard cold facts," he said.

"After all the facts and fancies are sifted, however, the fact remains that the presently developed and proposed supplies of both surface and ground water are insuffucient to supply the anticipated needs of the West Texas area beyond the year 1985."

This means, he said, that "other sources of water must be looked to, to provide for the needs of this area in the future."

Greenhill reviewed Texas cases on ownership and control of water rights and offered observations on the possibility of a depletion allowance for ground water used to produce income.

Bouldin spoke on recent and proposed legislation affecting water rights. He said there is significant legislation pending now that would give the state the power and money to develop a workable statewide water plan.

Officials Are Found Guilty

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — Two former Defense Department officials were convicted Friday night of conspiring to embezzle government funds.

The U.S. District Court jury also found John A. Wylie and William H. Godel guilty on at least one other count and cleared them on at least one charge each.

Wylie, 58, onetime head of the department's Budget and Finance Branch, was found guilty on three counts of embezzling a total of $13,401, and one count of making a false claim on the expenditure of $5,839.

He was freed of a charge of making a false claim for a $10,000 appropriation. Wylie could be jailed for 40 years and fined $50,600.

Godel, 43, a former deputy director for management in the department's Advanced Research Projects Agency, was convicted of making a false statement concerning the spending of $10,000 for a secret research project in Viet Nam. He was cleared on two embezzlement charges involving $5,600.

Godel faces a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison and a $20,000 fine.

Soil Survey Completed; Maps Are Now Available

By MARVIN L. DIXON
Soil Conservation Service

Your Soil Conservation Service has prepared a General Soils map showing the six soil associations in Scurry County.

The map, however, is only a part of the information that the soil scientists obtained during the course of the soil survey.

Both the map and the information are available at the Soil Conservation Service office.

As one travels over a county or other large tract, it is fairly easy to see differences in the landscape from place to place. There are many obvious differences. Some of them are in shape, steepness and length of slopes; in the width of the valleys; in kinds of plants; and in kind of agriculture. With these more obvious differences, there are others less easily noticed in the patterns of soils. The soils differ along with the other parts of the environment.

By drawing lines around the different patterns of soils on a small map, one may obtain a general map of the soils. Each kind of pattern is called a soil association. Such a map is useful to those who want a general idea of the soil, who want to compare different parts of a county, or who want to locate large areas suitable for some particular kind of farming or other broad use. It does not show accurately the kinds of soils on a single farm or a small tract.

The six soil associations or kinds of soil patterns in Scurry County are named for the major soils series in them, but soils of other series may be present in any of the areas.

Also, the major soil series of one area may occur in the others. Each association has a distinct pattern of soils and the soil differences are important to the farms within each area.

In following articles, each of the six different soil associations will be described in more detail.

World Food Study Made By USDA

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The World's hungry must learn to read and write before they can [illegible]

This is a basic conclusion of an Agriculture Department study on ways of increasing world food output for a rapidly rising population.

The report says it must be recognized that, for the world as a whole, the time has passed when more food can be obtained by putting more land to the plow. There is not enough new land to plow.

Consequently, it said, emphasis must be placed on ways of increasing the acre yields of the available land.

But illiteracy in most of the less-developed countries stands in the way of technical advances in food production which have been developed by the more progress nations.

"The less-developed world is clearly losing its capacity to feed itself. Stated otherwise," the report said, "a growing share of the increase in population is being sustained by food shipments from the developed regions, largely from the United States under the Food for Peace program."

The report was prepared by the department's Economic Research Service with the aid of the department's Foreign Agricultural Service.

Plane Is Found In Texas River

JACKSONVILLE, Tex. (AP) A five-day search for a missing plane with three Pennsylvanians aboard ended Friday with discovery of the wreckage under water in a flood-swollen tributary of the Angelina River. All three were dead.

An Army search plane from Ft. Polk, La., spotted the downed craft in a densely wooded swamp area 18 miles southeast of here in East Texas.

The plane took off Sunday night at Beaumont en route to Tulsa, Okla.

It carried H. T. Morris, about 50; his daughter Lynn, 17; and her friend, Kathy Madden, 19, all of Bradford, Pa.

Morris was president of the Bradford Motor Works. Miss Madden was the daughter of Dr. Jerri Madden of Bradford.

Justice of the peace Carl Burrow of Nacogdoches said all three were still strapped in their seats.

The pilot of the twin-engine plane made his last radio contact with Lufkin about 7 p.m. Sunday. Much of East Texas was under a severe weather alert that evening.

Cotton Trading Shows Increase

DALLAS (AP)—Beginning of the new cotton season stimulated cotton trading between shippers this week, the Dallas cotton office of the Consumer and Marketing Service reported.

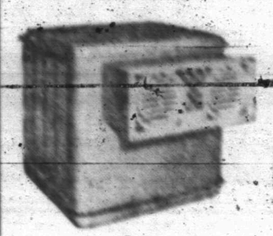

The Agriculture Department office said shippers sought to dispose of qualities they no longer need. Cooperatives continued to offer cotton freely.

U.S. mills bought a fair amount of lint. However, foreign business dropped with only a few countries showing interest.

Steadiness of the market showed up in the 15-market average spot price which has crept forward only 40 cents a bale since April 1.

Middling one-inch averaged 30.83 cents a bale—down $12.65 a bale from a year ago.

Release of the 1965-crop loan premiums and discounts caused new interest in most major markets this week, the Agriculture Department said.

The Chapter, chartered in 1964, is not only important to the Fluvanna community, but to the entire county as well, since they are the only organized civic group working in that area.

Named Runner-Up Outstanding new chapter in Texas in 1964, the Chapter has already sponsored a livestock show; built a barber shop for Fluvanna; sponsored a short course in electric welding; sponsored the vaccination of dogs in the area; undertaken the responsibility of getting admittance and treatment at the Burns Hospital in Galveston for 18-month-old Sally Diaz; provided transportation for FFA members and their stock to livestock shows; and several agricultural projects.

We're proud of the Fluvanna Chapter of Young Farmers. And we're also happy to note that three-quarters of these progressive young farmers operate John Deere equipment!

Court To Reopen Jack Ruby Case

By TOM JOHNSON

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Jack Ruby case returns to open court Monday, this time so that a judge can determine which lawyers will represent Ruby at a subsequent sanity hearing.

Judge Louis T. Holland of 97th District Court, Montague, Tex., will be on the bench. He replaces Judge Joe B. Brown, who presided over the murder trial in the spring of 1964 in which Ruby was given the death sentence for his slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, the man charged with the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Judge Holland said that he also might rule on a change of venue motion at the Monday hearing. That motion asks that the sanity hearing be transferred away from Dallas.

"But I certainly think the first order of business should be this: Who should be counsel for Mr. Ruby?" the judge said.

Ruby's appeal of his death verdict has become bogged down over the question of who should be his attorney.

Contenders are Joe H. Tonahill of Jasper, Tex., who has represented Ruby since before his murder trial, and a group of out-of-state lawyers preferred by the Ruby family. These include the New York firm of Kunstler, Kunstler & Kinoy, Sol Dann of Detroit and Elmer Gertz of Chicago.

Tonahill maintains that Ruby signed a binding contract with him a month after his conviction. He says Ruby was sane then but has since become insane. Therefore, he reasons, the contract is still in effect, because an insane man can't legally break a contract for counsel. Tonahill also points out that Judge Brown appointed him and Dallas lawyer Phil Burleson at a February hearing to be Ruby's attorneys through his appeal.

But the group engaged by the Ruby family counters that Ruby recently signed an affidavit to the effect that Tonahill be fired as his lawyer and the others be hired.

They said Ruby's constitutional rights would be violated unless the affidavit were honored, in that his right to choose his own counsel would be infringed upon. They went to federal court on this basis but U.S. Dist. Judge T. Whitfield Davidson remanded the case back to the state court.

The Kunstler group then appealed to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals but without success. They have also asked that court for a stay of the Monday hearing.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals had set a hearing date on the appeal of the conviction for earlier this spring. But as the counsel skirmish intensified, the appelate court ordered Judge Brown to hold a sanity hearing for Ruby.

Gov. Connally Opposes LBJ's Appeal

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. John Connally called on Texas Congressmen Friday to oppose repeal of section 14B — the so-called right to work provision— of the Taft - Hartly Act.

Texas has had a right to work law for 18 years, he said, and "it guarantees and protects the right to join unions as well as the right to refuse to join a union."

President Johnson asked Congress this week to strike out the provision.

"The public policy of Texas, as expressed by the legislature and our courts, supports the right to work law," the governor said in telegrams to the congressmen.

The House subsequently adopted 100-33 a resolution asking Congress not to repeal Section 14B.

Secretary - treasurer Roy Evans of the Texas AFL—CIO, which supports repeal of the right to work provision, challenged Connally to debate the merits of 14B. "We'd be better off with a Republican governor," he said.

Weathermen Plan To Tackle Storms

By BEN FUNK

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — For many years, weather men have dreamed of finding a way to dissipate the awesome power of a hurricane, or to steer it around populated areas where it could inflict the greatest destruction.

A massive effort will be made to make that dream come true during this hurricane season, which begins June 1.

Once the right hurricane is found, in the right location, planes will hit it again and again with clouds of silver iodide crystals in the most elaborate attempt ever made to "do something" about this kind of weather.

What that "something" may be remains very much a matter of speculation.

A hurricane draws its energy from heat and moisture. When hurricane clouds are impregnated with silver iodide crystals, moisture tends to collect around them and freeze, causing the release of heat energy.

Weather men glimpsed a ray of hope in September 1961, when Hurricane Esther was dosed with 120 pounds of silver iodide burned in planes and released in the form of smoke.

The seeding created an estimated three million tons of ice and released as much energy as the explosion of 175,000 tons of TNT.

For a short time, 10 per cent of the fury went out of Esther's circling winds.

But hopes faded when a second seedling failed to accomplish the same thing.

In 1963, another hurricane was seeded with identical results. After the first pass by the seed planes, the power of the winds declined. After the second, they did not.

Even the good results could have been mere coincidence, for winds in a hurricane often rise and fall dramatically in short periods.

This time, says Director Cecil Gentry of the National Hurricane Research Project, scientists expect to prove their theory, one way or the other.

When a hurricane thrashes into an area which is a safe distance from any land mass, but within convenient range of land-based planes, reconnaissance aircraft will make a thorough study of conditions within the storm system.

Then silver iodide planes will penetrate the storm one after another, each seeding it with huge clouds of crystals. Throughout the day, reconnaissance craft will be going in, during and after the seeding, to check for changes.

After information from this concentrated attack has been assembled, Gentry hopes to be able to say definitely whether man has a chance to harness the terror of the tropics.

Survey Shows Motorists Would Prefer More Signs

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — Petroleum marketers were told last week that most traveling motorists apparently have some preferences that conflict with beautification standards set for the interstate highway system.

A recent survey indicates most of them would prefer more gasoline and service station signs along the highways than the national standards allow.

Findings of the survey conducted in California, Oregon, Washington and Arizona by the Western Oil and Gas Association included:

1. About 81 per cent of the 3,516 motorists interviewed thought each state should permit gas stations to erect highway information or advertising signs.

2. The distance between stations and such signs suggested most often was two miles or less.

3. Nearly half of those who thought highway signs were the best method for alerting motorists also favored more than one sign per station.

4. About 92 per cent favored signs identifying gasolines by brand.

Results of the survey were placed before the mid-year meeting of the American Petroleum Institute's division of marketing.

R. G. Gardner of the Standard Oil Co. of California summarized a report by the division's marketing research committee this way:

"In the interests of highway safety and motorists' convenience, we feel these views should be supported and recognized.

"The importance of beautiful highways is apparent — but beautiful highways must be practical — and the traveling motorist needs to know where he can find his brand of gasoline."

The federal aid Highways Act establishes national standards for signs and advertising. Each state can increase its federal aid 0.5 per cent by complying.

The standards provide for informational sites or, under certain conditions, informational signs.

Advertising signs are permitted at these sites but only on panels no more than 13 feet high and 25 feet long. Each sign cannot exceed 12 square feet in area.

Under this system, other advertising signs are not permitted within 660 feet of an interstate highway if an informational site is within 12 miles of a service station.

If informational sites are not provided within 12 miles of a business activity, signs then are permitted along the highways. But the regulations specify only one on-premise sign per station and no sign within two miles of a highway exit.

Gardner said his committee's information indicates 15 states now meet the national standards, qualifying for the federal highway aid bonus, and six states which do not qualify have legislation more restrictive than the national standards.

DON BROWNING

Service For Lincoln's Seniors Set

Don Browning, minister at the East Side Church of Christ, will be the speaker at baccalaureate services for Lincoln High School's seniors.

The service is set for 3 p.m. Sunday, May 23.

Mr. Browning, a Snyder native, returned here a year ago to become minister of the East Side church, moving here from Tahoka, where he was minister at the Church of Christ.

He graduated from Fluvanna High School in 1955 and holds the bachelor of science degree in Bible from Abilene Christian College, where he is nearing completion of requirements for his masters degree.

Mr. Browning will be introduced by Daniel L. Johnson, principal of Lincoln School. Mrs. Anniece Johnson will play the processional and recessional music, and special music will be presented by the Lincoln Chorus.

Immediately following Mr. Browning's sermon, Vera Newsome will sing a solo, "Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Child."

The Lincoln commencement program has been scheduled for Wednesday evening.

Hopes For Action On New Lake

O. H. Ivie, general manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, is optimistic that the Texas Water Commission will rule within about a month on the district's application for a lake near Robert Lee.

"Because it's been over five months since hearings were concluded on the amended application," said Ivie, "some have asked if the project is dormant.

"Far from it. The need is just as great — even greater now — than when the hearings were held, and we haven't lessened our efforts one bit.

"The Texas Water Commission has had its hands full since January studying all the host of water bills tossed into the legislative hopper. The district appreciates the tremendous load that the commission has been under while the legislature is in session."

In the meantime, the district has not been idle. For one thing, it has bolstered its legal staff in anticipation of pressing for action on the permit to impound 403,000-acre-ft. of water on the Colorado River and make it available to communities in a 11-county area.

Engineering has been proceeding, too, and laboratory tests on the proposed spillway have been scheduled. Data from a similar test have been analyzed and are going into CRMWD planning.

"We have the system in good shape for this summer," said Ivie, "and we have cleared the decks for action the minute the permit is granted. We're ready — we're anxious to get started."

Texas Seniors To Tour White House

ROCKSPRINGS, Tex. (AP)—Fifteen Rock Springs High School seniors will make a private four of the White House Wednesday.

They will take gifts for President Johnson and his family, all of woll which is the main industry of this region.

Baptists Face Full Slate

DALLAS (AP)—The Southern Baptist Convention here June 1-4 will act on major business items including race relations.

More than 15,000 Baptists from throughout the nation are expected.

Big items on the agenda include a proposal for Southern Baptist participation in a North American fellowship organization along with seven other Baptist groups; a proposal to limit the convention president's term to one year; and a proposed $21.8 million budget.

Some of the controversial items which could come up, however, are not on the official business list.

Baptist involvement, or lack of it, in race relations is almost sure to come up, either in the form of a resolution, a motion, or in speeches, say Baptist observers.

The denomination's Christian Life Commission is expected to issue a strong report to the convention on race relations, but no recommendations will be submitted for convention adoption.

Opposition from ministers in the Deep South to the commission's report is expected, and some outspoken Baptists have clamored for abolishment of the commission. Most of the denomination's leaders, however, doubt that any such proposal will come up from the convention floor.

Moisture Situation Appears Good In Most Of Texas

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Farm work, generally was at a standstill over most of Texas because of rains. But, said John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, some areas still need more rain.

The overall moisture situation is good, Hutchison added. With the return of good growing weather crops and pastures should make excellent growth, he said.

Extensive damage to crops occurred where rain was excessive and where hail hit.

Widespread rain over the Panhandle helped ranges and some wheat. Some hail damage hit southwest counties. Potatoes and onions made good growth.

Moisture ranges from adequate to short, and more rain is needed all through the South Plains. Cotton and grain sorghum were being planted. Some replanting will be necessary due to heavy rains and hail. Seedling disease hit some cotton. Irrigated wheat, except where damaged by hail, looks good. Dryland wheat is very poor. Early sorghum made good progress. Stock water usually is adequate.

Rain in the Rolling Plains ranged from 2 to 10 inches. Five of the 22 counties need more rain. Grain is maturing fast. Cotton and sorghum planting continued. Some replanting due to heavy rains will be necessary.

All North Central Texas got rains varying from 2.5 to 11 inches with some hail damage in Parker and Wise counties. Grains are maturing, and prospects are good. Warm, sunny weather for all crops is needed. Ranges and livestock were in good condition.

Moisture in Northeast Texas is ample. Cotton has been damaged by the rain and much will have to be replanted. General prospects are good. Stock water is plentiful. Oats were being damaged by rust. Wheat is in the dough stage and watermelons are bunching to run.

Spotted light to heavy rains with hail and high winds improved the moisture situation in far-West Texas; but also caused some damage. Livestock conditions are improving. Crops are making good progress. Alfalfa and grain harvesting started. Labor is short.

Heavy rains fell in the Hill Country and all counties in West Central Texas got good rains. Rains helped late oats and fields should be good. Earlier fields have been grazed out and some will be baled. Wheat yields are expected to be above average. Most sorghum has been planted. Only a small percentage of cotton is in the ground. Planting will be completed swiftly when fields dry. A heavy crop of pecans has been set.

Rains in Central Texas were excessive in many areas and crop losses have been severe in some counties due to flooding. Some ripening grains are lodging due to the heavy rains and high winds. Thrip and aphid damage to cotton was reported in Bell and Coryell counties. Some cotton will have to be replanted. Stock tanks are overflowing.

Southeast counties in East Texas need rain. Other counties have adequate moisture and crops are making good growth. A good pecan crop has been set.

Until Tuesday, rains had been spotted in the southeast. Falls of from 5 to 10 inches were reported. In many cases, excessive rains fell in parts of a county while other spots remained dry. Crops are good where moisture is adequate. Heavy rains and hail damaged young crops and hay in Burleson, Jackson and Washington counties.

Rains in South Central Texas delayed the harvesting of grains, flax and hay. Ranges are now good. Watermelons need good weather.

Rains in South Texas relieved the extremely dry conditions in most counties. Rains of up to 5 inches fell in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Cotton made good growth with insects generally light. Cantaloupes are being harvested, and the onion harvest is shifting from the Valley to the Winter Garden. The labor shortage is becoming increasingly important in the Lower Valley.

Industry Loan Fund Fails To Pass

AUSTIN (AP) — A proposed $200 million state loan fund to attract industry to Texas rural areas failed Friday in the House to win the 100 votes necessary to send it to the Senate.

The vote on the constitutional change proposed by Rep. Bill Satterwhite of Ennis was 82-59. It could come up for another vote next Tuesday.

The amendment would allow cities to set up industrial districts and borrow up to 70 per cent of the cost of improvements such as factories from the fund. The money would be loaned to finance new industry.

Terms of the loans would be 40 years and the interest not less than 4 per cent.

Donna Gets Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Community Facilities Administration announced approval Friday of a $11,500 fund for Donna, Tex., to plan sewer improvements.

French Pretender Awaits Summons

PARIS (AP) — Waiting in the wings for the summons to power that has eluded his forebears for more than 100 years is the perennially optimistic pretender to the [illegible] throne of France.

Henri, count of Paris, is a direct descendant [illegible] great-great-grandson of King Louis Philippe and a 20th century believer in the divine right of kings. He keeps constantly prepared for "the call" some Frenchmen — though not many — seriously believe could come with the passing of President Charles de Gaulle.

Through a never-ending series of contacts with people active in political life, some of them personally close to De Gaulle, the 57-year-old count keeps his finger on the pulse of the Fifth Republic.

A frequent caller at the count's elegant Rue de Constantine office in Paris — as well as at his comfortable country home in the suburb of Louveciennes — is Edgar Faure, a man often used by De Gaulle for special diplomatic missions.

Frenchmen enjoy indulging in speculation about the count's future and the meaning behind his political contacts. Some Frenchmen are sure the count fills De Gaulle's qualifications for someone of national stature to succeed him. They believe De Gaulle makes an effort to keep the count up on current policies and might, in appropriate circumstances, encourage him to make some definite political move in public.

A good many other Frenchmen dismiss this. The count will not comment and no indication of De Gaulle's attitude on the subject is forthcoming from the Elysee Palace.

Finds Alaska Visit Is Very Hazardous

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — Agriculture Department official Byron G. Allen has wound up his first trip to Alaska. It may be his last.

On his arrival in Fairbanks, Allen landed in the hospital with intestinal flu.

Released Thursday, he was invited to go on a flying tour of the Tanana Valley. At the airport he walked into the whirling prop of an airplane, injuring his right eye.

The eye was treated and bandaged at a hospital.

Allen planned to return to Washington today.

US Auto-Makers Heartily Endorse Excise Tax Slash

By CHARLES C. CAIN
AP Business News Writer

DETROIT (AP) — The auto industry has no award for the new car salesman of the year, but if it did, President Johnson undoubtedly would be a top contender.

The President's action last weekend in announcing unqualified support for a 3 per cent slash in the current 10 per cent excise tax on new cars drew a warm welcome from U.S. auto men.

They were particularly enthusiastic about the President's statement that the reduction should be made retroactive to May 15 of this year.

The Johnson announcement was an additional tidbit for an industry which has had nothing but good news this year. Sales and production records have been smashed with regularity in most sections of the industry and all indications point to more of the same to come.

Spokesmen for the auto makers had become accustomed in recent years to making an annual trek to Washington to present their case for an excise tax cut to Congress and the administration. The Michigan congressional delegation lent its support, but each time the idea of a cut got lost in the shuffle.

Reports in recent weeks had indicated there were good chances of a tax cut, but some sources said the 10 per cent cut would be cut to 9 this year, to 8 the next and so on down to zero.

That formula aroused little enthusiasm in Detroit auto circles. They figured that the 11 per cent a year cut formula would be so small that it would not do much to buoy up the sales market.

President Johnson's call for an immediate 3 per cent cut and an additional 2 per cent by 1967 was more to the liking of auto makers. Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, also was among the first to voice support for the Johnson tax cut idea.

U.S. auto makers promised many months ago that any reduction in the auto excise tax would be passed along in toto to car buyers.

Car dealers, who are in the midst of what well may be the biggest sales race in automotive history, were generally confident that their spring sales would jump even higher because of the impending tax cut.

Henry Ford II, chairman of the board of Ford Motor Co., recently expessed belief that complete elimination of the 10 per cent tax this year could add about 400,00 units to new car sales in 1965.

Auto sales currently are running about 800,000 a month with some sources predicting that 9.4 million new cars will be registered this year. Some recent dealer surveys had shown scattered instances of potential customers who were holding off on new car purchases until the excise taxes were cut.

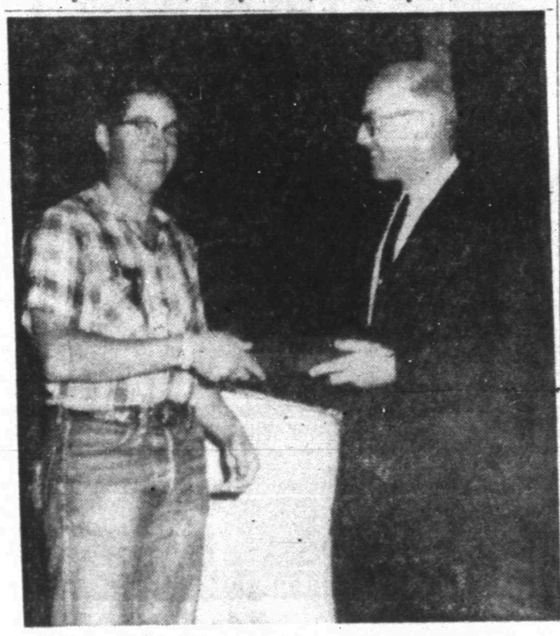

President Johnson's strong stand on an immediate excise tax cut is expected to convince these doubters that now is the time to buy that new car. That is why auto makers look for even busier days ahead.

Clay-Liston Fight Set For Tuesday

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

LEWISTON, Maine (AP) — The Cassius Clay-Sonny Liston heavyweight title fight, banned in Boston after one postponement, will be held Tuesday night in the tiny 4,900-seat Central Maine Youth Center in this textile city, a far cry from the old days of ballpark sellouts.

Liston, now 31 according to the record books, is rated a 9-5 favorite by the Las Vegas odds makers to win back the championship he lost Feb. 25, 1964, when he quit in his corner, claiming a damaged left shoulder.

One hernia operation and several legal squabbles later, Clay finally will give Liston the promised return bout. The 15-round match is expected to gross a total of $5 million, largely from closed circuit television to 256 theaters and arenas with a seating capacity of one million.

It is the closest thing yet to Mike Jacobs' old prediction that title fights eventually would be held in a television studio.

It is possible that each fighter will take home about $690,000, which accounts for their insistence on going through a match that has been disowned by the World Boxing Association as well as Boston. As the television people said, "We'll hold it on a barge if necessary."

Inter-Continental Promotions, Inc., is promoting the match with the cooperation of Sam Michael, the local boxing man.

Clay, who prefers to be called by his Black Muslim name — Muhammad Ali — hasn't fought since the controversial title bout at Miami Beach. Neither has Liston.

The quaint antics in that first bout left a bad taste in the mouth of the sporting public. Clay didn't want to continue after the fourth round because he claimed he couldn't see. Liston, then a 7-1 favorite, finally did quit on his stool when the bell rang for the seventh and went to the hospital for treatment to his damaged left shoulder.

Fight time is 9:30 p.m. (CST) with a non-voting referee from out-of-state and three judges officiating. The three judges will use the 10-point must system in which the winner of a round gets 10 points and the loser nine or less.

It will be Maine's first heavyweight title bout and the first championship match in the state since Henry Armstrong defended his welter title against Paul Junior on June 21, 1940.

Clay, 23, is unbeaten in 20 pro fights, winning 16 by knockouts. Liston has a 35-2 record with 25 knockout victories.

The burly ex-champ with a police record, now living in Denver, claims his left shoulder has healed completely. Clay insists the hernia operation in November will be no handicap.

Floyd Patterson, the former champ who suffered two one-round knockouts by Liston, is due to return from Sweden and a recent bout in time to see the fight. Patterson expects to get the next match wih Clay if Cassius wins.

El Paso On Top In Texas League

By The Associated Press

El Paso won the first battle of the leaders in the Texas League Friday night and as a result took over first place in the western division.

Dallas-Fort Worth broke out of a four-game losing streak to beat Austin 5-2 and stay comfortably in the lead in the eastern division.

An error paved the way for El Paso to clip Albuquerque 3-2. It came in the ninth when Pascual Ramirez grounded between the legs of shortstop Tommy Dean and Del Bates scored from second.

The El Paso decision snapped a seven-game winning streak for Albuquerque.

SIGNS TO PLAY FOR HSU—Drew Bullard, seated, co-captain of the Snyder High School basketball team, signs a letter of intent with Hardin-Simmons, as his parents and high school coach look on. Bullard will be awarded a scholarship by Lou Henson, HSU coach. Standing at left are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bullard, and at right, Ned Underwood, Snyder High basketball coach.

Tiger Cage Star Signs With HSU

Drew Bullard, co-captain of the Snyder Tigers basketball team, has signed a letter of intent to enroll in Hardin-Simmons University this fall on a basketball scholarship.

He averaged 15 points a game, hitting 52 per cent of his shots, on the Tiger squad which won 22 and lost five games last season. He is five feet, nine inches tall and weighs 145 pounds.

"Drew is the best ball-handling guard I've seen this year," said Lou Henson, coach of the H-SU Cowboys. "We're especially pleased that he has chosen Hardin-Simmons for his college basketball career."

Young Bullard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bullard of Snyder. His father is operator of a sporting goods store.

The youth was a starter for the Snyder Tigers for three seasons and was named to six all-tournament teams in the last two years. He also was on the all-district second team two years and in 1965 was named to the all-area squad.

He is a member of the National Honor Society.

His high school coach is Ned Underwood.

Liston Made 8-5 Favorite Over Clay

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Sonny Liston is an 8-5 favorite to regain the heavyweight boxing title when he fights champion Cassius Clay next Tuesday, according to Las Vegas bookmakers.

The bout will be held in Lewiston, Maine.

Liston lost the title to Clay in Miami Beach in February 1964 when he failed to answer the bell for the seventh round because of a shoulder injury.

SPORTS

Cubs, Sox Win In LL Openers

The local Little League season opened here Friday night with an extra-inning game in the National League and a tight pitchers' battle in the American League. The defending champion Cubs won over the Braves 6-2 in 7 innings, while the White Sox scored a run without a hit in the bottom of the 6th to edge the Indians 2-1.

A real pitchers' duel developed between Jackie Murry of the Indians and Jack Tovar of the White Sox. Murry, the losing pitcher, gave up only 2 hits, one of them a home run by Mike Hodge in the 2nd inning. Tovar, the winner, scattered out 5 singles, and struck out 11 batters. Murry had 13 strikeouts.

The White Sox went ahead in the second frame on Hodge's homer, but the Indians came back in the top of the 3rd to tie it up on singles by Gary Byrum and Butch Buchanan and one error by the White Sox. There was no more scoring until the final inning when Robert Pharris of the White Sox walked, and eventually went on around to score the winning run.

Another pitchers duel developed in the Cub - Brave tilt between Max Falls of the Cubs and Lee McNair of the Braves, but neither of them were involved in the final decision. The score was knotted 2-2 at the end of the regulation six innings, and both teams had to change pitchers because of the rules. At that time McNair had struck out 13 and Falls had struck out 11.

In the extra inning the Cubs tallied four runs on two walks and four hits, including a home run by Gary Smith, his second homer for the contest.

Smith was the leading hitter of the game as he went 3 for four, and scored twice. Falls hit a double and a single. Bill Branson had 3 singles, and Scott Morgan chipped in with two singles. Bobby Weaver had two singles for the Braves.

Texas Teams In National JC Meet

GARDEN CITY, Kans. (AP)—Texas teams didn't do very well in opening events of the national junior college track meet Friday night but only three finals were run off.

Negro Star To Announce Preference

BEAUMONT (AP) — Jerry Levias, Beaumont Hebert High School halfback, will announce this afternoon where he will go to college—and he is expected to become the first Negro to get football scholarship in the Southwest Conference.

And Southern Methodist appears most likely to receive his signature.

Coach Hayden Fry of Southern Methodist, who will be present at the news conference along with his assistant, Chuck Curtis, said "I hope he signs with us."

Levias' coach, Clifton Ozen, said the boy "is the ideal type to be the first colored player in the Southwest Conference.

Most Colleges Honor Athletes' Commitments

DALLAS (AP) — A few years ago an athlete's commitment to play college football at a specific institution was honored only by members of a single conference.

Today these commitments are respected by 75 per cent of the nation's colleges playing major football schedules.

Ten other colleges also are participating in today's inter-conference letter of intent, according to Howard Grubbs, executive secretary of the Southwest Conference.

The program is voluntary on the part of 98 colleges to team for recognition of the inter-conference letter of intent. Accepted each year by increasing number, the co-operative group includes 27 more institutions than a year ago.

High school athletes have been privileged to sign pre-enrollment applications with Southwest Conference schools since Feb. 1 but they were not permitted to sign the inter-conference letter until May 20, th mutual commitment date throughout the country.

The Southwest Conference will process letters signed by its own members and also those of University of Houston, the only other Texas school participating in the program.

The Atlantic Coast, Big Eight, Big Ten, Mid-American, Missouri Valley, Southeastern, Southern and Western Athletic Conferences are other conferences honoring the letter. The Ohio Valley Conference also is participating.

Independents in the program are Florida State, Georgia Tech, Marquette, Memphis State, Notre Dame, Penn State, Southern Illinois, Syracuse, Pittsburgh, Dayton, Xavier, Newberry College and Parsons.

The first college commitments recognized were the grants-in-aid instituted by the Southeastern Conference. The Southwest Conference followed suit with its letter of intent plan in 1953 and other major conferences have developed comparable programs.

The inter-conference letter of intent plan was conceived by Dr. J. William Davis of Texas Tech, faculty representative to the Southwest Conference. It was put in operation in 1963 with 58 schools participating.

Grubbs and William R. Reed, commissioner of the Big Ten, are members of the inter-conference letter of intent committee, of which Davis is chairman.

Last Chance To Qualify For 500

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The headaches that have plagued Goodyear and drivers using its tires seemed to have disappeared today as final qualifications started for the 500-mile race May 31.

Machine-buffed tires were barred from the Indianapolis Motor Speedway by the U.S. Auto Club, but Goodyear said it had enough unbuffed tires for practice, qualifications and the race.

Several drivers practiced on the new tires Friday with no difficulties reported.

Three dozen cars are eligible to try today and sunday to make the race line-up. There are only a dozen vacancies.

The list shrank Friday when Ralph Liguori of Tampa, Fla., crashed in the No. 99 Demler Offenhauser roadster four minutes before closing time at the Speedway.

Liquori, 38, a veteran of the stock car circuit but a rookie at the speedway, suffered a severe whiplash injury. Doctors said there appeared to be no fracture or nerve injury, but they kept him at Methodist Hospital for further checks. The car was damaged extensively.

A familiar figure at the speedway, but a stranger in the second weekend of qualifications, was Roger Ward of Indianapolis, two-time winner of the race.

Ward, who has qualified for 14 straight years, made it on the first day the last seven years. He used two of his allotted three attempts last Saturday and can try only once more.

Indians Rescued By Mighty Mouse

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mighty Mouse to the rescue again — only this time swathed in bandages.

Mighty Mouse would be Vic Davalillo, the 5-foot-7, 150-pound package from Venezuela who became the first player in the majors to drive in six runs in a single game this season while leading the Cleveland Indians to an 11-6 victory over Boston Friday night.

His left thumb, left hip and right ankle taped to ease a variety of bruises, the 25-year-old pitcher turned outfielder lashed a homer, double and single, and moved to within one point of Detroit's Willie Horton in the American League batting race with a .364 average.

Not bad for a little guy whose main claim to fame three years ago was his collection of Superman, Superboy and Mighty Mouse comic books in Spanish.

He brought his RBI total 19 against the Red Sox, smacking a two-run double in the first inning, a two-run homer in the fifth and a two-run single in the eighth as the Indians extended their winning streak to five games.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Los Angeles Angels edged the Chicago White Sox 1-0, Minnesota defeated Kansas City 6-4, Baltimore whipped Detroit 5-2 and Washington downed the New York Yankees 5-4.

In the National League, the Chicago Cubs nipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3, Cincinnati squeezed by Philadelphia 6-5, St. Louis beat the New York Mets 5-4, San Francisco walloped Houston 8-1 and Pittsburgh belted Milwaukee 6-1.

Davalillo's second homer of the season gave the Indians a 5-5 tie before they moved ahead on Rocky Colavito's two-run seventh inning homer off ace Red Sox reliever Dick Radatz.

Besides Colavito and Davalillo, Chuck Hinton and Al Luplow homered for Cleveland while Tony Conigliaro and Ed Bressoud connected for Boston.

Tommy John of the White Sox pitched no-hit ball for six innings but wound up the loser despite a three-hitter when the Angels scored in the eighth inning on singles by Lou Clinton and Bobby Knoop around a sacrifice.

The loss was John's first in four decisions. Fred Newman, 5-1, won his fifth in a row with Bob Lee's ninth inning relief help.

Unbeaten Camilo Pascual won his fifth game for the Twins despite considerable wildness and Jim Gentile's ninth homer. Pascual walked five, hit one batter and needed relief help from Bill Pleis and Al Worthington.

Tony Oliva's run-producing single was the key hit in a two-run fifth that pushed Minnesota out front before Zoilo Versalles followed Pascual's sixth inning single with a homer that put it out of the A's reach.

Milt Pappas, also unbeaten, also won his fifth and also needed ninth inning relief help as the Orioles defeated the Tigers.

Detroit pulled out to a 1- lead on Dick McAuliffe's homer in the first but Baltimore moved ahead to stay with a three-run fourth built on doubles by Curt Blefary and Jackie Brandt plus singles by Charlie Lau, Bob Johnson and Russ Snyder.

The Senators went into the ninth inning trailing the Yankees 4-2 but Willie Kirkland rapped a two-run homer and Ken Hamlin tripled and scored on Don Blasingame's single.

Frank Howard drove in two Washington runs with a triple and sacrifice fly and took over the league RBI lead with 27.

Eagles To Play Lubbock Team

Braves, Sox Win In FL

Farm League activity got underway here Friday night with the Braves and the White Sox gaining victories. The Braves upended the Cubs 9-3, while the White Sox jumped out to a 7-0 first inning lead and then went on to beat the Indians 16-5.

The White Sox cashed in on 17 walks and 4 hits to get their runs. Tommy Early hit two singles to lead the Sox at the plate. The Indians also managed 4 singles against White Sox pitching.

The Braves tallied 3 runs in the 1st, 4 in the second, and 2 in the 3rd for the win over the Cubs. Don Wittie was the winning pitcher.

Betting Bill Suffers Setback In House

AUSTIN (AP) — House members defeated 92-51 Friday an attempt by Rep. Maurice Pipkin of Brownsville to bring up a bill calling for a November referendum on parimutuel betting on horse races.

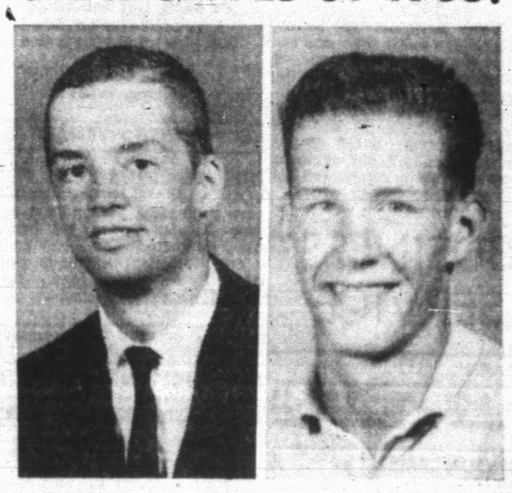

A similar proposal failed in a 1962 referendum.

It would have no legal effect but would be a public opinion poll to see hw Texas voters feel about the issue.

Pipkin, sponsor of a bill to legalize parimutuel betting on a local option basis, said:

"You church folks are afraid to let the people vote on this."

Dome Is Here To Stay In Spite Of Criticism

HOUSTON (AP) — They painted the glass roof to keep out the sunlight. But Houston's gaudy new indoor play yard still is not everybody's perfect pleasure dome.

One player with a visiting National League baseball team has said for publication that he believes the air currents in the $31-million Astrodome are controlled, for the benefit of the Astros.

One pitcher has complained that the pitching mound is not. There have been comments about the doctored infield. Several observers have criticized the cheerleading scoreboard.

And it even rained in the weatherproof stadium the other night.

But, of course, a great many have praised the enclosed arena as the greatest thing to hit baseball since Bo Belinsky.

Speaking of Belinsky, that billiard academy habitue could shoot a game of pool on the level pitching mound, according to Pittsburgh's Bob Veale.

"Veale is a fine pitcher," counters Manager Lum Harris of the Astros. "I wish we had him. If we did, I'd tailor the mound to suit him. But since we don't, I'll tailor it to suit MY pitchers."

Tailoring a baseball field to suit the home team goes back a long way, probably even to Abner Doubleday's time. The Los Angeles Dodgers, for instance, are fast. Ergo: The basepaths at Dodger Stadium are like dragstrips.

So, for a recent series here with the Dodgers, observers say the basepaths looked like a newly plowed corn field. Also, ground balls traveled through the infield grass with all the velocity of an inchworm.

The Astrodome's first hitch developed at the start of the season: Fielders had trouble seeing balls hit into the air because of the sun's glare through the translucent roof.

The panes were painted, solving that problem, but creating a minor one at the same time. Apparently the painters loosened some of the plastic planes, and the other night during a rainstorm some of the downpour got in.

Ed Kranepool, first baseman for the New York Mets, voiced the charge that the air-conditioning currents in the Astrodome were manipulated to help the home boys. Commissioner Ford Frick sent an expert from Chicago to investigate, and — surprise — Frick's man said there was nothing to it.

The electronic cheerleading has been the target of the most raps. It's loud, flashy and biased.

"Bush," says pitcher Don Drysdale of the Dodgers.

"Bush," says Joe Brown, general manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"Bush," says—wonder of wonders—Astro pitcher Jim Owens.

And one New York writer says the effect of the animated scoreboard has in arousing the crowd in turn affects the objectivity of the umpires. "Homerism," the writer calls it.

But thundering scoreboard, leaky windows, pitcher's mound and all, the Astrodome has been boosted by many—visitors as well as hometowners—and labeled a pacesetter.

Baseball under glass has caught on.

Splash Day Scheduled For May 29

The Towle Park Pool will open Saturday, May 29. That day has been designated as "Splash Day." There will be no charge for swimmers on that day from 1 to 6 p.m.

There will be a ten-cent basket fee for those wanting a basket. This may be avoided by those who wear their swimsuit to the pool.

For those interested in being on the swimming team, an organizational meeting has been planned for Wednesday, May 26 at 5:30 p.m. It is hoped that both parents of each prospective member will be present.

Interest in the swimming team has grown each year. New members are welcome and needed. Boys and girls between the ages of 7 and 17 ar eligible for the team.

She Has Natural Money Interest

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Pat Priest comes by her interest in money quite naturally. Her mother used to make it.

Mother is Ivy Baker Priest, who signed those lovely ones, twos, fives, tens, etc., as treasurer of the United States during the Eisenhower administration.

Pat now is making a goodly amount of her mother's product as Marilyn, the wide-eyed niece of "The Munsters." She couldn't be happier.

Well, yes, she could be. She'd like the show just a bit better if the producers would allow her to look more like a girl.

This week, Pat was doing the CBS series in tight blue jeans and checked shirt — the Munsters had moved out west to a ghost town.

"This costume is a bit extreme for me," she admitted. "Usually I am stuck with paisley prints, checks and stripes. I've worn so many full skirts you'd think I had a hip problem. Note: She doesn't.

"I'm not allowed to wear any solid colors — nothing that might outline the figure. Sweaters? Are you kidding?

"I'm not allowed to wear anything that might be the least bit sexy. Once in a while I tell them, 'Look — if you wanted someone in this part to look like a boy, why didn't you hire a boy?'"

The production thinking here seems to be that "The Munsters" is a family show and any notion of sex should be eschewed. Pat Priest doesn't exactly go along with that line of reasoning, but she's delighted to be a part of the family. "It's an education to be working every day with three pros," said she, referring to the show's eccentrics, Yvonne de Carlo, Fred Gwynne and Al Lewis.

Pat is not the first of the Priests to enter acting. Her sister, Nancy, was under contract to 20th Century-Fox for a year, but didn't take to the acting life.

"I'm crazy about it — always have been," said Pat, a vivacious, blue-eyed blonde. "It was simply a matter of being in the right place at the right time before it happened to me."

The wife of a Navy officer, she moved from one city to another, doing little theater work, television and modeling at each. When her husband was assigned to nearby Ponnt Mugu, she was able to pursue a Hollywood career in earnest.

Soviet Dues To UN Still Unpaid

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Department officials admitted today it is increasingly uncertain whether U.N. members will do anything about the refusal of France and the Soviet Union to pay their delinquent dues.

The officials said that no compromise has been found to solve the problem.

They added that the United States still favors applying Article 19 of the U.N. Charter, which says nations falling more than two years behind in payment of U.N. dues shall lose their vote in the General Assembly.

The Soviet Union, France and a number of Communist countries are now more than two years overdue in payments for United Nations peacekeeping operations — and therefore subject to the penalty.

The United States, which is the biggest U.N. contributor, says Article 19 should be applied for the sake of the world organization's integrity and financial health. The Soviets and French have based their refusal to pay on grounds the peacekeeping costs were illegally assessed. They cover U.N. operations in the Congo and the Middle East.

According to the interpretation supplied by U.S. officials concerning the General Assembly's failure to act last session, the smaller countries of the United Nations — who form the majority — were unwilling to lower the boom on either of the big powers because they figured the loser would walk out or otherwise weaken the world organization.

The officials said that as time goes on it appears less likely that the small country U.N. majority will feel inclined to enforce Article 19 against any nation delinquent in paying its dues.

Fire Damage Heavy

DETROIT (AP)—Fire department officials estimated damage at $250,000 in a fire which routed 994 guests from the Statler Hilton hotel early Friday.

Fire Chief Glenn Thom said the arson bureau was investigating the blaze. He said the fire appeared to have been started by a smoldering cigarette in a service area on the eighth floor.

Six firemen were hurt fighting the general-alarm blaze.

Bids Tabulated

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas Highway Department tabulated low bids on construction work totaling $6,218,840 Friday.

The projects included: FM 308 from the McLennan County line northeast to Penelope in Hill County, 6.2 miles, surfacing, E. W. Hable & Sons, Corsicana, $232,358.

Many Factors Enter Into Cost Of A Television Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Producing a television show is like shopping for a used car," said a veteran producer. "You can usually fit a show to the sponsor's purse. But if you don't know what you are doing, you can spend too much for too little."

Although financial generalities in television are dangerous, the usual half-hour situation comedy today costs between $50,000 to $75,000 per episode. Hour-long film shows and regularly scheduled variety programs most often cost between $115,000 to $150,000 — although a special show can cost much more. One extravaganza taped this season, which never made the air for lack of a sponsor, is reputed to have set one network back around $500,000.

These figures, however, do not include the cost of network air time — a figure which often runs about twice the production costs. But, this is a variable which depends on many factors — the popularity of the program opposite it; whether the program is a one-shot, in which case the network's air time would carry a higher price tag, the evening hour and assorted situations which form the basis for complicated negotiations.

"I suspect that you could get time opposite 'Bonanza' or 'Bewitched' for considerably less than you'd pay if you were up against a program struggling along in Nielsen's bottom 20," said producer George Schlatter.

Bob Precht, producer of CBS' "Ed Sullivan Show," and the host's son-in-law, estimated his weekly variety show production cost averages out between $115,000 and $130,000.

"But if there is something very special that Ed wants, like the Moiseyev Ballet, he'd just as soon hock his golf clubs to put it on," he added.

Talent — the performers — receive the lion's share of this, usually between $50,000 and $60,000 each week.

"By unwritten agreement, we all try to hold to a $7,500 top for talent," Precht said. "When a performer is really hot, he can demand and get $7,500.

However, the cost of a performer is a negotiable figure, and the reluctance of producers to advertise the size of the price they paid for a top name is simply a matter of self defense. If X broadcasts the fact that he was paid $15,000 or $20,000 for a single appearance, agents of other stars feel that they must demand equal or better fees.

Sometimes, however, it is important for a show to ignore the balance sheet and buy big names regardless of price. One such time is when two programs are competing hotly for audiences — and Nielsen ratings.

"And those ratings are important," Precht added earnestly. "They are the one thing you shoot for."

Sometimes the biggest names in television accept only token fees. On a recent Danny Thomas special, such stars as Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Jack Benny and others appeared briefly in a comedy sequence — and each was paid $210 — minimum — for his part.

Panel shows are a different matter — as, indeed, are the values put upon daytime appearances.

Again, producers are reluctant to broadcast statistics which might be used against them in a bargaining session. But it is obvious that production costs of a panel or game show, which uses the same sets week after week, are lower than those of, for instance, "The Lucy Show," which not only has sets to build but also performs before an audience.

It is reliably reported that the standard fee to a performer who sits in for a solid week of daytime games-playing is in the neighborhood of $1,000. Panelists on night-time shows receive more. According to television gossip, the panel of "What's My Line?" dean of the genre, receives the highest pay of them all. John Daly was estimated by the trade publication "Variety" two years ago to be receiving over $4,000 a week — under his old contract.

The cost of any program's air time is a matter negotiated between a network and the sponsor or his advertising agency, but the production budget is the one watched carefully as each show is planned.

Currently, Precht is concerned with producing a weekly show starring Al Hirt which will be Jackie Gleason's summer replacement Although the estimated drop-off of audiences between the January and February viewing peaks and the July and August valleys is about 30 per cent, the difference between costs of winter and summer shows is much greater.

Precht, as an independent producer for CBS, was given a modest budget for the weekly Hirt shows: where the weekly Sullivan show talent tab is around $50,000, Hirt's limit will be around $10,000 — and all other items also sharply reduced. These items include staff, technical crews, music, sets, costumes, rental of studio and equipment.

"The challenge, of course, is to squeeze out an entertaining, original show of quality," Precht said. "It means making careful use of the material you have to work with."

Variety shows are the most difficult programs on which to make money as well as most expensive to turn out. Filmed comedy series and dramatic shows can be rerun and rerun each time for profit. It is often difficult to get even a single rerun out of a variety hour.

Johnsons Rest At Presidential Retreat

THURMONT, Md. (AP) — President and Mrs. Johnson spent the night at Camp David, the presidential retreat near here.

The Johnsons flew to the Catoctin Mountain camp by helicopter Friday night. The 60-mile trip from Washington took 25 minutes.

Johnson was scheduled to fly to New York City later today to attend a dinner for large financial contributors to the Democratic party. The dinner, at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, is being given by the President's Club of New York. Members contribute at least $1,000 a year to the Democratic party.

New Type Man's World Is Opened

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Tv Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Remember the old-fashioned barber shop with the spittoons on the floor and the latest issue of the Police Gazette? It was a man's world.

But this week on the Sunset Strip a new kind of Man's World opened — a hair-styling salon for men only. And manned entirely by pretty women hair stylists. Even the bootblacks are girls.

President of Man's World is attractive Sherry Wilson, 25. Sherry is a movie hair stylist catering at the moment to the blonde tresses of Carroll Baker who is making "Harlow" at Paramount.

Sherry says hair styling for men is big business in Europe but is just now catching on in the United States.

The Hollywood trend started with Jay Sebring, a former beauty shop operator, who started designing movie stars' hair — especially those with a bald spot showing through.

One of his best customers was 60-year-old Henry Fonda. Sebring, by restyling Fonda's hair, took about 10 years off him.

"In fact," says daughter Jane Fonda, "Sebring has given me a complex — because my father now goes out with girls much younger than I."

Sebring, whose customers include Marlon Brando, gets $25 per haircut in his salon—$40, if he comes to your house.

But Miss Wilson's salon, with girls working on you, charges $7.50 a visit. Remember the 35-cent haircut? And 15 cent shave?

Lubbock Scouts Win Regional Award

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The Lubbock, Tex., Council of the Boy Scouts of America has been named a regional winner by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for its community conservation plan.

Students Retaliate On 'Sloppy Day'

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Pupils observed Thursday as "Sloppy Day" at Robert E. Lee High School. Some looked so sloppy they were sent home.

They retaliated by boycotting the school cafeteria, which normally serves 1,400 lunches. It fed only 50 persons Friday.

Principal Woodrow Watts was not alarmed. He said the pupils were merely "reacting normally for this time of the year."

Little Girl Suffocates

FORT WORTH (AP) — A Missouri baby suffocated Friday when she rolled over onto a thin plastic bag in the family car.

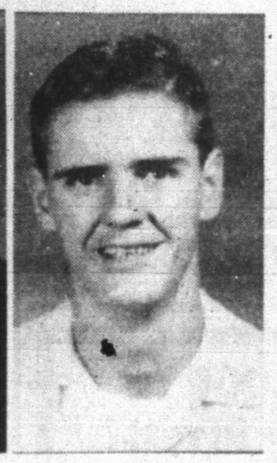

She was Lisa Geisler, the six-month-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Geisler of St. Louis.

Authorities said they were traveling from St. Louis to Midland and stopped at a Fort Worth cafe for lunch. The sleeping child was left in the automobile, but the family checked every few minutes to see if she was all right.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I don't know how to say anything. We've been married for 18 years. I am 38 and she's 37. How can I get my wife off my back about smoking?

SAM

DEAR SAM: Your marriage could go up in smoke long after the flame of love has quit burning. Your wife is getting even with you for something, and your smoking has provided her with a handy smoke screen. Find out the real reason.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My wife is a crackpot on the subject of smoking. What gets me is she never complained about it before we were married. In fact, while we were going together, she even bought me a lighter for my birthday. Now she raises the roof whenever I light a cigarette. She said she wouldn't object so much if I ran around with other women. (She knows she's safe.) She isn't worried about my health because I smoke less than a pack a day. She has a few annoying little habits like cracking her knuckles and putting five teaspoons of sugar in her coffee, but I am losing my mind or if my wife has already lost hers. She talks to her plants. She claims they understand and respond to her, and that is what makes them grow. She has had fantastic luck with her plants. She can take the deadest looking weed and bring it to life in no time. Our house is like a regular greenhouse. She's got little tiny pots in every window, and big plants standing taller than I am. Is there anything to this "talking" to plants? If she doesn't stop talking to them, I am going to start talking to myself.

MUMBLES

DEAR MUMBLES: Lots of women talk to plants. Don't worry. But if your wife starts getting answers, investigate.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have just come from the home of some friends where we spent a perfectly exasperating evening. They have young children whom they let stay in the same room with us all evening and take over the conversation. I don't like to talk to children. I have nothing in common with them and I do not care about anything they have to say. I don't know their friends or their teachers, and I don't wish to hear about them. It is boring. I don't object to parents allowing their children to meet the guests and stay a minute or two, but to allow them to sit all evening and do all the talking is ridiculous. Why do parents do this?

BORED AND DISGUSTED

DEAR B and D: Some parents think their children are amusing, entertaining, or are more delightful than their guests think they are. Other parents sincerely enjoy the company of their youngsters and believe their friends share their sentiments.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "ALL WASHED UP" to speak only for himself. I was employed for three years in a home for the aged in St. Petersburg, Florida, and it was part of my job to check the grounds every evening after bed check to round up some of our missing residents. I flushed plenty of couples out of the bushes who still had stars in their eyes in their 70's and 80's! And if you don't believe me, just check with others who have worked in such places. Age doesn't mean a thing to some people.

Good Balance Of Fish At Lake Thomas

Nettings by technicians from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Service have shown excellent yields and a good balance of fish types in Lake J. B. Thomas, R. A. Schooling, lake superintendent, said Saturday.

Nets were dipped 12 times in different sections of the lake and brought up 829 pounds of assorted fish. Game fish accounted for 414 pounds and forage and rough fish 415 pounds. The actual count showed a total of 514 fish, 204 of them game and 310 classed as either forage or rough.

"It is significant," observed Schooling, "that while forage and rough fish outnumbered game fish 3-2, the game fish weighed twice as much as the others. Based on the tests, every time the technicians brought up the nets, they had over 50 pounds of fish in them."

Another interesting aspect of the survey, Schooling pointed out, was the amount and weight of flat heads, yellow catfish. Thirty-nine of the total catch were of this variety, but they weighed 351 pounds, or about nine pounds average.

Other counts included 89 crappie, 39 channel cat, 7 drum, 16 white bass, 12 large mouth bass, 2 long-ear perch, 138 shad, 7 blue gill, 17 carp and 148 river carp suckers.

Had a larger mesh net been used, the catch of large mouth bass and white bass undoubtedly would have been higher, Schooling thought.

The survey was made by Herman Streman and Lee Jesse, technicians for the state department, assisted by Bill Pratt, resident game warden. The dips were made on Tuesday and Wednesday of the past week.

Churches Begin To Emerge As Righters' Rallying Point

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Writer

Out of its sequestered nook, the Church has emerged today as a main operational command post in the war for Negro civil rights.

The church may be an obscure chapel in the backstreets of Selma, Ala., a frame church in McComb, Miss., or a big brick structure in the Bedford-Stuyvesant black belt of Brooklyn.

But whatever the region, almost everywhere the struggle erupts, its rallying point recurringly has been some house of worship.

There, the exhortations are delivered, the plans laid and confidence roused with prayer, resolution and song.

There, the marches begin.

And when the day's confrontation is done, either in setback or gain, the call goes up — "Back to the church!" — for respite, reorientation or haven.

In a broad sense, religious elements have been the "most important force at work today in behalf of civil rights," says Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

However, it was the recent heavy turnout of clergymen — and nuns — in Alabama which threw their role into such dramatic light.

Where had they been in previous crises? What had brought them, in such great numbers, into the fray now?

For nearly a quarter century, America's principal Judeo-Christian institutions have issued pronouncements and pleas on behalf of the nation's Negro citizens. But there was scant action.

Of late, however, church emphasis has shifted from words to deeds.

"It was a cumulative thing," says the Rev. Dr. Robert W. Spike, director of the Commission on Religion and Race of the National Council of Churches. "It grew as events fanned the indignation and frustration which the churches felt."

Selma brought the trend to a revealing climax.

There, leaders of nearly every major religious body — Protestant, Roman Catholic, Eastern orthodox and Jewish — were either on hand, or represented, to demonstrate their convictions.

"It's the Negro who has brought us all together," says a noted Presbyterian, the Rev. Dr. Robert McAfee Brown, one of the first white clergymen to go to jail for integration efforts in Tallahasse, Fla., in 1961. In jail, he says, "you are totally and unequivocally one."

The Church had a key role in the early buildup.

It was a Kansas pastor, the late Rev. Oliver Brown of Topeka's St. John's A.M.E. church, who started the lawsuit leading to the 1954 Supreme Court decision barring school segregation.

It was a Baptist Negro, the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who spearheaded the first effective mass pressure for integration on Montgomery, Ala., buses in 1957.

AS THE FASHIONS PARADED BY, each was described by Susie Hendrix who was "borrowed" from the speech department. The style show at Lamar was typical of many year-end events which are taking place these days in Snyder schools.

Style Show Shows Handiwork Of Junior High School Students

The stage was set in the luxury of marble pillars and staircase when the Lamar Junior High School homemaking department presented a style show Tuesday afternoon.

The show was held in the school's auditorium, and was presented by girls from the ninth grade.

A tea followed the show, and was also presented by the homemaking department. Members of the Future Homemakers of America served from appointments of crystal and silver. Guests were parents and teachers.

Highlights of the style show were "special" models, who were actually boys dressed as girls.

A girls ensemble from the choir department, under the direction of J. D. Smith, provided special entertainment.

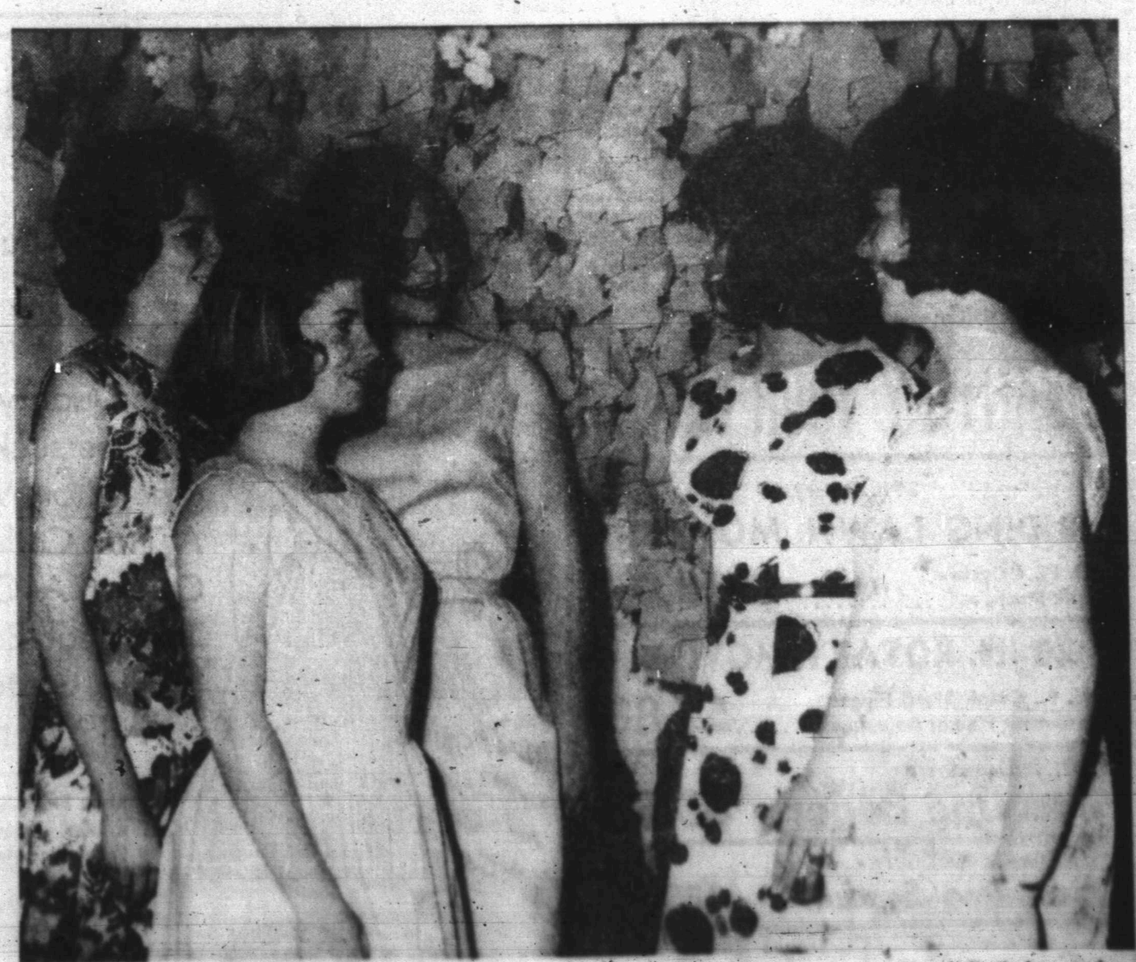

Sue Hendrix, outstanding speech student, narrated the show.

Stage decorations were furnished by the speech classes under the direction of Charles Anderson.

Miss Jean Smith, homemaking teacher, directed the style show.

A FITTING BACKGROUND for these school clothes was this painting of rain clouds. These lovely lassies, off to a day at Lamar, are, front row, Elizabeth Welborn, Josie Garza and Bonnie Chamberlain. In the back row are Kathy Krop, Martha Redden, Mary Scarbrough and Robbin Finley.

Character As Theme

Distinction and novelty can be added to your home if you have a "character" room.

Depending on the family's interests, the person chosen as the theme for a den or family room might be Teddy Roosevelt, Abraham Lincoln, George Washington, Carol Channing, or Gregory Peck. Or, you could have a regional theme, ranging from Hawaiian to Alaskan, Days of '49 to the "Roaring Twenties."

The whole family can participate in the planning, construction and furnishing of such a room.

Expert help in planning will be helpful and need not be expensive. Decorators can be hired by the hour or the job, and oftentimes their advice is worth more than their fee. Also, some lumber dealers have available expert planning service to help carry out a family's wishes.

A disturbing noise in the house can come from a barking dog, a crying infant, a vibrating vacuum cleaner motor, a slamming door — or just plain, ordinary, regular, everyday, run-of-the-mill, conventional plumbing. And that last reason goes double in an older house.

Well - planned, carefully installed plumbing systems are supposed to operate noiselessly. Usually they do. But when time and other factors lay heavy hands on them, they develop the same ailments as systems which have not had the benefit of good planning and accurate installing. Most of the symptoms have one thing in common. They're noisy. And they fit into such classifications as chattering, hammering, whistling and rumbling, to mention just a few.

Correcting the causes of these troubles often requires the services of a plumber, especially in areas which have strict codes regarding repairs to pipe lines carrying water. But sometimes you can take care of them yourself.

When a faucet is turned on part way and there is a chattering or whistling, the faucet washer may be loose, the faucet assembly may be worn or one or more of the pipes may be inadequately supported, probably because a suspension strap or hanger is no longer securely attached.

When there is a hammering noise as a faucet is shut off suddenly, the system lacks necessary air chambers, or those in existence are waterlogged, or there is excessive water pressure. The solution for each condition is, in order. (1) The installation of air chambers or shock absorbers, (2) drainage of the water lines according to set procedures of (3) use of a pressure - reducing valve.

When there is a rumbling sound in the area of the water heater, the water is too hot (probably because the control is set too high) or there is some malfunctioning of the heater. If lowering the temperature of the water does not end the rumbling, call a plumber.

When there is a kind of air intake or sucking noise as water rushes down a sink or tub drain, the condition is called siphonage of the trap. It usually indicates lack of a vent, an improper vent or a clogged vent. Sometimes an anti-siphon trap will correct the trouble, but some community codes insist on proper venting regardless of the type of trap used.

Finally, a variety of noises can occur when the insides of old pipes have become smaller because of rust and mineral deposits.

QUESTION : A few years ago I made two cabinets out of ¾ inch plywood. I dont remember what kind of plywood it was except that it was inexpensive. A friend of mine who bought a considerable quantity of birch plywood some time ago now finds that he does not need it, as he is moving to another state. He is selling it to me at a good price.

I hope to make three or four pieces of furniture out of it, but want to avoid the trouble I had the last time when I finished the plywood with varnish. After a few months, the grain of the wood became very pronounced. Doesn't plywood take a varnish finish? Or should I have used a paste wood filler before putting on the varnish?

ANSWER: The answer has nothing to do with the varnish, which is a perfectly acceptable finish for that type of wood. Since you probably used fir plywood the first time, you should have used a special sealer to tame the wild grain, then applied the varnish. No wood filler was necessary. However, you now have birch plywood, which means that the facing is made of birch wood although the other layers are not. Birch wood does not require the type of special sealer mentioned above. And neither does it need a paste wood filler, since it is a close-grained wood. Some wood finishers think they get a better result by applying a liquid sealer, such as shellac, before using varnish or any other final coat. Follow the instructions on the container of the varnish regarding this matter. Most important of all, be sure the surface of the birch plywood is clean and smooth before putting any finish on it. Clear finished tend to accentuate surface irregularities.

Gravitation intrigues physicists, because it is so different from other forces of the universe. Light, heat, electricity and magnetism can be generated by man and freely converted into one another. But gravity appears totally indifferent to any influence man can bring to bear on it. A gravitational field appears always and only in the presence of matter.

Brownie Troop No. 358 (Mrs. Edward Menges and Mrs. Shelby Graham) had their cook-out at Camp Ila Ru on Saturday, May 15.

The girls had made plans and prepared for this meeting for several weeks, making their dunk bags, planning capers and menu, and learning how to build a camp fire.

Their menu consisted of American chop suey, cherry cobbler, hot French bread, and a walking salad.

Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Menges wish to thank the mothers that helped Saturday with the cook-out, and also to thank all the mothers that have helped throughout the year with this troop. May 15 ended meetings for Troop 358 for this school year but the leaders are looking forward to a new year with the Brownies next fall!

NEW TSTA OFFICERS—New officers of the Scurry County unit of the Texas State Teachers Association and of the Snyder Classroom Teachers Association were installed Thursday evening at the Stanfield Elementary School. These TSTA officers are, from left, Virginia Grove, president; Edwin Phy, first vice president; Elwanda Nall, second vice president; John Gary, third vice president, and Frank Weaver, treasurer. Edna Shields, secretary, was not present for the picture.

SNYDER CTA OFFICERS—These officers of the Snyder Classroom Teachers Association were installed Thursday evening. From left are Charles Anderson, president; June Brock, first vice president; Elizabeth Odom, second vice president, and Maydelle Burns, treasurer. Not present were Robert Bowden, third vice president, and June McGlaun, secretary.

Library Notes

Scurry County Library will begin its summer opening hours with the end of the 1964-65 school term. Beginning Tuesday, June 1, the morning opening hour will be changed to 8 o'clock rather than 9 o'clock. This schedule will continue until the beginning of the new school term.

Regular library hours for the summer will be from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. Regular hours for Tuesday and Thursday will be from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., and from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday.

The bookmobile will continue to serve Ira, Fluvanna and Hermleigh during the summer months but will make less frequent visits. Its next scheduled visit to Ira will be the morning of May 25 from 10 o'clock until noon. Fluvanna's next visit will be May 27 from 10 a.m. to noon. The same hours will be kept at Hermleigh on the morning of June 2. A regular schedule every two weeks thereafter will be kept observing the same days and hours as on the initial run.

The library continues its evening and Sunday schedule during the summer months to accommodate patrons employed during the day at the various business who could not otherwise take advantage of the library's facilities during regular working hours. The late hours on Tuesdays and Thursdays and the Sunday schedule is also for the benefit of teachers and others taking special college work during the summer months.

Heaviest readers during the summer are vacationing school children when school libraries are not available to them. The library will cooperate with the Texas State Library again, this summer in the vacation reading program. Reading club materials have been ordered and the library will announce definite plans for the program in the very near future.

Each child signing for the program is required to read at least 12 books of his own choosing on his grade reading level. Credit will be given for only two books by any one author so as to give the young reader a broader reading experience. At the close of the period the state library issues a Texas Reading Club certificate to children attaining this goal. This does not mean that each child is limited to reading only 12 books during the reading club program.

More than 200 Scurry County children between the ages of seven and thirteen participated in the 1964 summer reading program

Gardener's Corner

BY EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

LIFE IS much easier for the gardener these days, what with new power equipment, lights to produce healthier plants, hoses that roll around, then wind up, mowers that float on air, and even specially designed clothing.

Seeds, fertilizers, insecticides, seedlings and shrubs arrive from the nursery in attractive, easy - to - handle packages. Tools are lighter so that the lady of the backyard may make a greater physical contribution to the outdoor production.

Safety is a major goal of power and hand tool manufacturers. One rotary power producer reports a brake he claims will stop a blade operating at 3,600 revolutions a minute in less than half a second. The operator trips the mechanism. A spring tightens the brakes against the flywheel, stopping the blade and mower engine.

The mower that rides above the ground is supported by air pressure developed by an impeller. This wheelless craft is highly maneuverable. The air force holds up the grass for cutting and the cuttings drop beneath the machine. The cutting height is adjustable. (By Toro)

Garden tools designed to eliminate potential electrical hazard in trimming wet grass and shrubs have been introduced this season. (Rockwell Mfg.)

These include a hedge trimmer, a grass shear and an edger - trimmer, made safer by nonmetallic housings, which also makes them lighter. Chance of electrical shock is eliminated because handel does not come in contact with metal parts. Motor, gears and other parts are insulated from the shatterproof case.

A new line of garden shears is being made with what is described as "floating fulcrum action," said to add extra cutting force as more cutting pressure is needed. (Melnor)

The manufacturer says these grass, pruning and hedge shears have built-in muscle power. Here, too, the 14 models include lightweights for ladies. They also have an adjustable setting button permitting three different cutting positions.

Then there is that traveling sprinkler that tends your lawn almost automatically. (Melnor)

It travels any predetermined path laid out by the hose as it waters (over hills and around corners) and winds itself up as it goes. It has two speeds and a shut-off valve that will deactivate the sprinkler at any desired point along the course.

Another development in the power mower field is the hammer knife, which reportedly renovates turf, mows lawns, shreds weeds and mulches leaves. It works on the flail principla. (Mott)

Mensa Near No. 7,000; Comes To West Texas

NEW YORK — Mensa, the international society of people with I.Q.'s above 98 percent of the general population, accepts its 7,000th member in America sometime this month, according to John J. Codella, American Mensa Selection Officer.

The non-profit society originated in England in 1945 as the out-growth of a suggestion by Sir Cyril Burt, who held the Chair of Psychology at London University. Sir Cyril proposed that a panel of highly intelligent people might prove useful to researchers and decision - makers.

From its formal conception in New York in 1961 the American branch of Mensa grew quickly from 151 members to the near 7,000 mark with 83 local groups in the U.S., Canada, and Mexico. Woldwide, Mensa claims almost 10,000 M's, as members are called, located in 52 countries.

An applicant qualifies for Mensa membership by scoring in the upper two percent of the general population on a standard I.Q. test. During 1964 the American Mensa Selection Agency handled more than 50,000 inquiries and distributed 16,975 self - administered I.Q. tests. In addition, 5520 supervised tests were administered to those who attained qualifying scores on the self - administered test.

Mr. Codella attributed Mensa's rapid growth to news coverage of the society and its members.

• • •

The first (organizational) meeting of the West Texas Mensa was held in Abilene on April 24. A nominating committee was appointed at this time; and their slate was presented at the second meeting, which was on May 13. These members of West Texas Mensa were nominated and elected at the May 13 meeting in Abilene:

Capt, Gene Horsewood, Dyess AFB, president; Bob Dickenson, Abilene, first vice president; Harriet Redwine, Abilene and Snyder, second vice president; Steve Marshall, Abilene, third vice president; Mrs. Carlton F. Hodges, Abilene, fourth vice president; Mrs. Max Judy, Clyde, secretary; Cliff Davis, Clyde, treasurer; Dr. Lloyd D. Huff, McMurry College, local secretary representing North American Mensa.

There are at present twenty-one members in the West Texas Mensa. (Mensa takes its name from the Latin word, meaning "table" signifying that it is a roundtable society of equals.)

About 60 percent of the Ms have college degrees, and 25 percent have a graduate degree — but a degree is not a prerequisite to joining the society, whose members include housewives, doctors, advertising men, and other varied occupations. No one is ruled out on the basis of politics, religion, race, creed, class, education, or age. The "badge" of the Mensa member is a small yellow-headed map pin.

A few Ms earned their map pins by presenting evidence of intelligence ratings in the top two percent. This means an I.Q. of 132 on the Stanford - Binet or Wechsler scales, or a score of 148 on the Cattell intelligence test.

Would - be Ms who lack proof of their I.Q. level are tested by Mensa. An inquiry and a $3 contribution to American Nensa Selection Agency (P.O. Box 86, Gravesend Station, Brooklyn, N.Y., 11223) brings a preliminary test to be taken at home without supervision and mailed back to Mensa.

Those who score in the top five percent are invited to take a second test under the supervision of a proctor. For the West Texas area, Dr. Huff administers these tests at McMurry College in Abilene.

As might be expected, conversation at a Mensa meeting seldom lags. What to talk about? Everything from music, cybernetics, censorship, psychology, and bridge to the Beatles, eternal verities, and baseball!

Most of the 75 Mensa chapters in the U.S. and Canada hold monthly meetings; the West Texas Mensa plans to follow this pattern.

One of the primary goals of Mensa is to serve as a research organization in psychology and social science. It is also a forum for the exchange of ideas through lectures, discussions, correspondence, and the publication of articles in the Mensa journal.

During 1964, Mensa and Mensa volunteers engaged in 13 research projects. These included opinion surveys and voluntary assistance in psychology and social science. In the U.S. these were some of the '64 projects: a study of voter preference for the American Presidential election; a survey of TV viewing preference; sensory - deprivation tests for NASA as part of its man-in-space program; investigation of the effects of decreased oxygen concentration (high - altitude) on intellectual functioning at various ages; and investigation of behavioral and biochemical effects of hospital ward residence on healthy men and women.

The West Texas Mensa is searching for new members from the entire West Texas area; prospective members who have already been tested and can meet the Mensa qualification may contact any of the West Texas Ms for further information — or write to Dr. Huff at McMurry College, since he is the Local Secretary representing North American Mensa. Those who would like to take the preliminary test at home should send $3 with their inquiry to the American Mensa Selection Agency (at the address already listed).

Screen Fills One's Need For Privacy

Have you wondered, sometimes, how you or a member of the family could gain some privacy? We'll all admit that "togetherness" of a family is fine; also, that it should not be all the time. Psychologists say every human being has need for occasional privacy, and this need is felt even by young babies.

In today's houses and apartments, it's sometimes difficult to find a spot for doing the quiet things, such as napping, reading a book or writing a letter. Here's where a folding screen can be helpful, because it can be used to partition off a living room corner or a dining space, for example.

A folding screen can be an asset besides the privacy it affords. It can be attractive.

An ideal material for making a screen filling these qualifications is a filigreed hardboard panel especially designed for this usage and room dividers.

Using the perforated hardboard panels with their airy patterns in either cloverleaf or diamond shapes, the home craftman simply slips them into ready - grooved lumber, fastens them and applies a prime coat and a finish dressing of paint or enamel. The individual sections then are hinged together.

Battle Of The Sexes

NORTH VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — Women in politics are successful because they are better thinkers than their male counterparts, says Phyllis Simpson, chairman of the school board here.

She says most men in politics act as if they were in a world-wide game of chess — "They try to please all sections and end up pleasing none."

"Women, unlike men, do not use political life as a stepping stone to wider fields.

Stain Comes Off Easily

Improved wearing and stain-resistant qualities in woodgrained hardboards have made these panelings ideal from the standpoint of easy maintenance. Even common household stains yeild readily without strain or fuss.

It is easy to remove wax crayon, lipstick, oil and grease. You simply wipe off excess with a soft cloth and then apply carbon tetrachloride, a common household cleaning agent.

Many mild stains rub off instantly by swabbing with a damp sponge or cloth dipped in water containing a mild detergent. You can eliminate pencil marks with a non - abrasive eraser.

Woodgrained hardboard is especially designed to resist denting and abasion. Panels are processed for high fidelity reproduction of the woodgrain by a lithographic process.

Occasional damp wiping with a sponge dipped in water or water and detergent is the usual maintenance.

Available at lumber and building supply yards, the woodgrained hardboard panels come in many patterns and colors.

Paricutin, a volcano about 200 miles west of Mexico City, first appeared in a cornfield in February 1943. Within six days it was 500 feet high and by 1961 it had risen 2,120 feet.

You can finish cooking the top of a puffy omelet by placing the skillet in the oven or by covering the skillet and keeping it over the surface heat. If you use the oven method, make sure the frying pan has a heat - resistant handle.

IN OTHER WORDS, SCRAM!

Critical Period Looms For Nervous Nation Of Latins

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Colombia, high on the Communist-Castroist priority list of targets in Latin America, appears headed for one of the most critical periods in its history.

This is a nervous nation. A Red attempt to mount a revolution does not appear to be just around the corner, but the explosion in the Dominican Republic and dangerous rumblings in Bolivia have added yeast to the ferment in this important South American country of 17 million people.

Responsible Colombians say the next three to six months will determine whether this nation rides out a profusion of complex political and economic problems threatening its stability. If it fails, a resulting chaotic situation could provide an opportunity for a substantial number of armed, young extremists to light a fuse.

Nervous is the word rather than fear. Such nervousness can have its impact on the economy, step up the flight of capital, generate unrest in the cities.

Despite the nervousness, this country has many things going for it to help it resist internal and external pressures.

Still, an influential element in the business community insists Colombia has reached what it calls a crisis of confidence. Politically powerful voices are being raised for the resignation of President Guillermo Leon Valenzia "in the national interest." These persons claim he has failed to provide the leadership needed to steer the country around economic shoals.

The president has said publicly he believes Communist-Castroist elements will try to mount a revolution in this country this year and that the attempt will be crushed.

Few knowledgeable persons in the upper and middle classes doubt there is a definite left-extremist threat which could develop if the revolutionaries seized advantage of economic and political pressures to stir civil strife.

But some suggest the president's prediction has a bearing on his quest for special powers — perhaps under a state of siege or some measure slightly less drastic — to push through social and economic legislation now stalled by divisions in Congress and in the political parties.

Political opponents acknowledge that President Valencia is honest and courageous. Their quarrel with him has much to do, it apears, with aprehension about his economic policies.

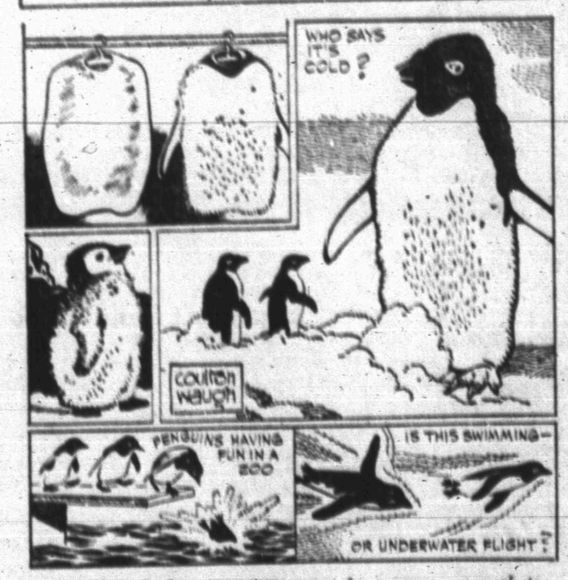

This country, with Venezuela, forms the northern perimiter of South America. A Communist conference in Havana last November designated Colombia, Venzuela and Guatemala as priority targets for top efforts at fomenting Latin American revolution.

The Communist Party in Colombia has, as in many countries, two wings. One is Soviet-oriented with a hard core of about 11,000, the other, Chinese-leaning with a hard core of about 9,000. The party is not illegal but is excluded from political office.

Army sources say the Communists could rally from 100,000 to 200,000 supporters, out thus far efforts have not been specularly successful. Both Communist wings are involved in operation of the so-called army of national liberation, whose activities are strikingly similar to those of the Venezuelan terrorists. It seems to be trying to mount a Castro-style guerrilla movement in remote rural areas. Unlike the Cubans, it lacks an outstanding leader who can capture imaginations.

The Communists try to use bandits who long have infested rural areas, but with little success.

—Junior Editors Quiz on— PENGUINS

QUESTION: How can penguins keep warm enough to live?

ANSWER: Penguins, like other birds, are warm-blooded, which means they must maintain a very high inside body temperature. Yet they live only in the colder parts of the southern half of the globe, many on the shores of the Antarctic Continent, the world's coldest land area. The answers as to how they manage to survive are hanging on two little penguin coat hangers at the upper left of the drawing. First, we see an inner coat of blubber an inch thick; then an outside coat of fine satiny feathers which secrete a special kind of oil. With this amount of insulation, cold is no problem.

Don't feel sorry for the penguin because he lives so far off where it is bitterly cold. Actually, the climate of the Antarctic is very healthy as long as one can keep warm. It's too cold for germs there, and so penguins live a relatively long time. The life span of the Emperor, largest of the penguins, being said to be about 35 years. Also, penguins get a great deal of fun out of living. They are very social and love to play marching and diving games. The adaptation of their wings as flippers for swimming is one of the most wonderful things in nature. Swimming underwater, a penguin can attain the amazing speed of 20 miles an hour.

Plants May Be Important To Spacemen

Editor's Note: Before an American takes off on a year-long space flight, someone must come up with a plan to feed him and provide oxygen. Plants look more and more desirable.

By RONNIE THOMPSON

BROOKS AFB, San Antonio (AP)—The spacecraft of the future may have a vegetable garden.

The Air Force is studying ways to grow plant life on space vehicles, maybe even cabbages, carrots and the like.

The plants would have two purposes: Provide food and provide oxygen.

The mossy-like substance on some lakes may be the key. It might turn out to be the basis for life support for men on extended space journeys—say a year-long flight to Mars.

Known as algae, the moss-like substance has no roots. It is a single cell.

In one day, one plant can multiply into 1,000 plants with protein content of about twice that of beefsteak.

Equally desirable, scientists say, is duckweed, the smallest known flowering plant.

Algae and duckweed need carbon dioxide, water and light to grow, points out Dr. Syrel Wilks, chief of the biological section of the School of Aerospace Medicine.

They throw off oxygen—man's most precious need—as waste. In turn, man throws off carbon dioxide as a waste in breathing. So you end up with one supporting the other.

Scientists hope to develop a completely balanced system—one in which oxygen is produced and carbon dioxide is removed within a space capsule. The body wastes will provide the necessary nutrients for a crop to recycle itself over and over again.

What the scientists still do not know, however, is how plants will react in the weightless conditions in space.

To help answer this question, the Air Force plans to send an orbiting garden aloft early this fall. The small satellite will test algae and duckweed growth in space.

For 15 to 30 days, scientists will receive data on growth and other conditions inside the vehicle, which will not return to earth.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration also has scheduled a series of satellites early next year that will, among other things, test growth of plants.

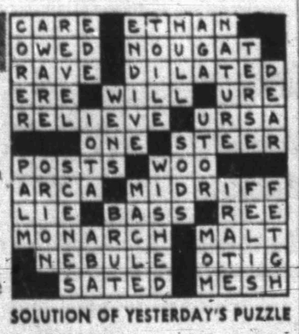

Wilks' laboratory has developed an edible substance from both algae and duckweed. It tastes and smells like alfalfa.

It isn't the best tasting food around, but an algae or duckweed diet can provide almost all the 2,300 calories a man needs daily to keep going, Wilks said.

Four adult mice were kept alive 30 days in 1961 with oxygen supplied by duckweed. The mice were fed the crop later.

Space leaders say it probably will not be possible to carry enough oxygen and food for a year-long flight and remain within the load limits, Wilks explained.

Only those live who do good. Sharing kindly and generously is the only way most men can ever become great. Let us remember our opportunities do not come dressed up on Sundays; they just happen along, every day, in overalls. True helpfulness is spontaneous: it finds its occasions in life's daily round... then, give your less fortunate neighbor a ride to church. Sharing our loaves and fishes multiplies what we have left. After feeding the 5,000 Jesus had twelve baskets full... the miracle of a few sardines and sandwiches.
