

Degree to Future Farmer

Area Honors Come to Member
Of Quail Young Farmers

Representatives of two farm groups from Quail are attending state conventions in Dallas this week, and high honors have come to a member of each.

Darryl Morris, a member of the Future Farmer chapter, is to receive the Lone Star Farmer Degree, highest offered in state FFA work.

Delbert White, member of the Young Farmers of America, chapter, brought the first high honors to that group in being named to receive the award for his outstanding farm program of Area 1.

Frank Kennedy, advisor to both organizations, pointed out that White's award is even more outstanding in view of the fact that the Young Farmers have been organized at Quail only since October 1955. This chapter is part of a national organization for young farmers out of school and corresponds to FFA in high school.

The state conventions of both groups are meeting in Dallas Wednesday, July 25 through Friday, July 27. The two are separate.

Morris is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Morris of Wellington and was graduated from Quail high school this spring. He was vice-president of the chapter. Dean Maxwell is attending the convention as a delegate.

Going from the Young Farmers are Jack Morgan and Donald Langley. Kennedy is accompanying them.

More than 3,000 Texas boys are expected for the FFA convention. Activities include a tractor operators contest, election of a president and sweetheart, and presentation of awards and scholarships totaling more than $10,000. More than 800 Lone Star Farmer degrees will be awarded. The awards banquet, a convention highlight, will be held at the Fair Park Women's building.

Dallas leaders for the convention include Murray Cox, farm director of radio station WFAA; Tom Mulligan of Farm and Ranch Magazine; and Charles Scruggs of Progressive Farmer Magazine.

State Convention Committee includes Cal Johnson, chairman; Homer Gibbs representing Dallas; Beal Pumphey of San Antonio; David Cunningham of Houston; and Doc Ruhmann of Fort Worth.

Move Soil Bank
Deadline Up
To July 27

The final date for signing Soil Bank Acreage Reserve agreements has been extended to July 27. The final date for disposing of the cotton and/or peanut crop on the acreage designated under the Soil Bank Agreement has been extended to August 3, Millard Brown, ASC secretary said.

The final date for disposing of wheat on the designated acreage reserve has been extended to July 27. Crops, other than those designated for protective cover, growing on the designated Soil Bank acreage must be destroyed by August 3.

Farmers must remember to control noxious weeds on the Soil Bank acreage, such as cocklebur, bindweed, Russian thistle and Johnson grass, Brown added.

So far, 211 farmers are signed up under the soil bank plan. Forty-three of these were on cotton acreage, one for peanut acreage, and the remainder was for wheat acreage, the ASC secretary reported.

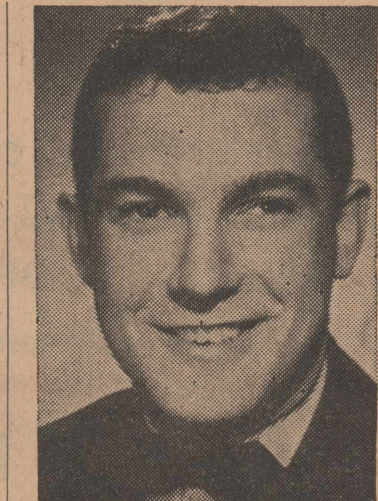

Most of the wheat acreage put under the plan was blown out wheat last fall, Brown explained.

Likewise, most of the cotton acreage covered is that which blew out after it was too late to replant.

Quail Schools

Coach George W. Stephens is coming back to his home community, Quail, this year to take charge of the physical education department and coach basketball at Quail school, Supt. Herman Moseley announced this week.

Stephens, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Stephens of that community, is a former basketball star of Texas Wesleyan University, Fort Worth, and coached a winning basketball team last year at Scranton, near Cisco.

His election completes the Quail faculty.

Stephens graduated from high school in 1951 and attended Clarendon Junior College, before attending Texas Wesleyan, where he received his degree in 1955, having majored in physical education and social studies. He was a basketball star both in high school and through college.

Water Situation
Looks Brighter

Wellington's water situation is looking up, ity Manager Bura Handley said this week.

The No. 1 well, which had caved last week, has been brought back in good condition, although the pumping capacity is cut.

A new well has been dug, which Handley and Russell Yates, water works superintendent, are developing at this time.

"Apparently it will be a pretty good well. It's starting out very good but you can't tell until it has been fully developed," Handley said.

Further help came with the cut in consumption by city residents during the past week.

Candidates Make Last Appeal
For Votes for Demo Primary

Candidates for precinct, county and district offices have gone in to the last week of campaigning before the July 28 Democratic primary with house-to-house and farm-to-farm calling and card leaving, probably on a greater scale than in past years.

On the whole there has been little interest in politics this year—a situation that exists over most of the country—and locally, most of the interest now is in the races for district attorney, state representative, sheriff and Commissioner of Precinct 1.

County Clerk David Robinson reported that 162 absentee ballots were cast at the deadline Wednesday, July 25.

There will be only 10 voting places in the county this year, compared to 18 in former years. These will be in the accustomed places for those communities and include North Wellington, South Wellington, Dodson, Quail, Sam-norwood, Dozier, Lutie, Buck Creek, Marella and Rolla.

The three referendum questions pertaining to integration appear on the ballot.

Without opposition in the district and county races are Congressman Walter Rogers; District Judge Luther Gribble; and County Attorney Denzil Bevers.

In the race for representative of the 87th legislative district, Grainger McIlhenny of Wheeler County, the incumbent, is opposed by John R. Wills of Gray County.

In the race for district attorney are Paul Spillman of Wellington, John T. (Buddy) Forbis and Allen Harp, incumbent of Childress.

Only one county office is at stake, in which Sheriff John Rainey is opposed by former sheriff Claude McKinney.

Three men are seeking the office of constable of Precinct 1: Bruce Hite, incumbent; Bob Jones and Sam Smith.

The post of Commissioner of Precinct 1 has drawn the largest number of candidates, four. The list, as it appears on the ballot includes: Earl Harrison, Jack Brewer, D. C. Lacy and Mike Burkhalter.

For commissioner of Precinct 3 are Z. J. Neeley, Pat O'Hair, incumbent, and Glin McGill.

For county democratic chairman are L. B. Bratten and Dick Sweat, incumbent.

The state races include: Governor: Price Daniel, J. Fretts Haley, J. J. Holmes, W. Lee O'Daniel, Reuben Senterfitt, and Ralph Yarbrough.

Lieutenant Governor: A. M. Aikin Jr., C. T. Johnson, Ben Ramsey and John Lee Smith.

For Attorney General: Ross Carlton, Curtis E. Hill, Tom Moore and Will Wilson.

Associate justice of the supreme court, Place 1: Meade F. Griffin.

Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, Place 2: Robert W. Calvert.

Associate Justice of Supreme Court, Place 3: James R. Norvell and Robert G. Hughes.

Judge, court of criminal appeals: W. A. Morrison and Jesse Owens.

Railroad Commissioner: William J. Murray Jr.

Comptroller of Public Accounts: Robert S. Calvert.

State Treasurer: Warren G. Harding and Jesse James.

Commissioner of the General Land Office, Earl Rudder and Ned Price.

Commissioner of Agriculture: Jim Barber, Bill Jones and John C. White.

Congressman at large: Martin Dies and Bill Elkins.

Associate Justice, court of civil appeals, 7th Supreme Judicial District: Alton B. Chapman and Herbert C. Martin.

State Board of Education: A. R. Bivins.

The three referendum propositions on which county residents will vote are: for or against specific legislation exempting any child from compulsory attendance at integrated schools attended by (continued on page ten)

Any Kind of Playing You Want

The city softball league schedule through August 20 was announced this week by Durant McInnis, league secretary.

On a twice-a-week schedule, league teams play a double header each Thursday night, beginning at 7 p. m. and a single game Monday evening beginning at 8 p. m. Games scheduled are:

Thursday, July 26: Clark & Carter vs. C&H Pharmacy; and Brown's Body Shop vs. Shamburger Lumber Co.

Monday, July 30: Buddy's Super Market-VFW vs. Joel Honeycutt's colored boys.

Thursday, August 2: Buddy's VFW vs. Shamburger Lumber Co.; Honeycutt's boys vs. Clark & Carter.

Monday, August 6: Brown's

Thursday, August 9: Shamburger Lumber Co. vs. Honeycutt's boys and Buddy's-VFW vs. C&H.

Monday, August 13: Clark & Carter vs. Brown's Body Shop.

Thursday, August 16: Clark & Carter vs. Shamburger Lumber Co. and Buddy's-VFW vs. Browns.

Monday, August 20: C&H Pharmacy vs. Honeycutt's boys.

A good crowd turned out to see the double header that opened the schedule Thursday night, July 19.

The opener featured the only two teams that have been playing all summer and saw Clark & Carter's boys beat Buddy's-VFW 8 to 3 in a tight game. Bob McAlister was the winning pitcher and Quinton Brewer the losing pitcher. For a considerable period the game stood 4 to 3 then C&C edged ahead to 6-3 then brought it up to 8 to wrap up the game.

Players on both teams of the night cap had had only one practice session and the game went a little ragged with Shamburger winning over C&H 29 to 1.

Denzil Bevers was the winning pitcher, assisted late in the game by Lonnie Neeley. Lonnie Fuson started on the mound for C&H, then turned it over to Phil Cobb who in turn passed it on to Ed Pawcom.

SK ELECTION AS DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Much interest in this election centers on the race for District Attorney of the 100th judicial district, as the three candidates swung into final week of campaigning. Paul Spillman, left, is from Wellington. Allen Harp, the incumbent, center, and John T. (Buddy) Forbis, are from Childress. The latter formerly lived here.

FOR COMMISSIONER OF PRECINCT 1

Drawing the largest number of candidates in the current election is the race for Commissioner of Precinct 1. At left is Jack Brewer of Wellington, the incumbent. The other candidates are Earl Harrison, star route mail carrier, who formerly farmed near town; D. C. Lacy, a famer in the Shinnery community; and Mike Burkhalter, who farms at Bean Hill. This race probably has drawn more activity than any of the precinct races this year.

Are We Counting on the Other Fellow to Take Care of Our Future...

when he may not be working at the job

COPYRIGHT 1956 D. E. SCOTT

This is a good way to arrange for an unsatisfactory future . . . physical or economic.

For instance . . . some of us depend on our good neighbors to spend THEIR money in the home community to keep it going so we can make a living in it . . . while we do OUR buying somewhere else.

But . . . sort of like when a couple of fellows in a car each thinks the other one is driving . . . the habit of "Letting George Do It" can darken the future if George happens to be letting YOU do it.

And, anyhow, even if we DO have lots of good neighbors trading at home to support US, and our schools and churches and other community activities . . . THINK how much BETTER all of these would be supported if ALL OF US were buying everything we could at home.

Trading with home merchants is just good practical business sense anyhow . . . because we automatically get more for our money from them than out-of-town stores can give us . . . the EXTRA PREMIUM of community prosperity that only home business establishments can throw in for free with the goods we buy.

It Pays to Buy where you Live

Wellington firms are the only business establishments in the world that are genuinely interested in this community's future . . . and in the future and prosperity of us who live here

Dr. and Mrs. Glynn Breeden Appointed
Dr. Who Grew Up At
Quail In Mission Work

Dr. and Mrs. L. Glynn Breeden, of Wink, were appointed missionaries to Colombia by the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board at its regular monthly meeting in Richmond, Va., July 18.

Dr. Breeden has operated a private medical clinic in Wink since September, 1953, with Mrs. Breeden assisting him in the laboratory and X-ray work. They operated a six-bed hospital for fifteen months until the expanded hospital in a near-by town made it unnecessary.

Prior to coming to Wink, Dr. Breeden served as a physician in a clinic in Cameron. He also served as an intern and resident at City-County Hospital, Ft. Worth, extern, Memorial Hospital, Houston, and surgical scrub nurse, Hendrick Memorial Hospital, Abilene. He was in the US Army for almost two years.

A native of Mobeetie, Dr. Breeden attended Stanford (California) University and received the bachelor of arts degree from Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene, and the doctor of medicine degree from Baylor University College of Medicine, Houston.

Concerning his commitment to foreign missions, Dr. Breeden told the Board that while in college he wanted to be a doctor but had given no thought to the possibility of medical missions until one day when he was "half asleep near the rear" of his Bible classroom. "The professor made a simple statement about the need of more missionaries, especially medical missionaries. I was jarred as nothing had shaken me before. It seemed as though he had pointed his finger at me and shouted, 'This means you'."

Mrs. Breeden, the former Ila Hayworth and a native of Granbury, moved to Corpus Christi, with her family when she was 10. She attended Howard Payne College, Brownwood, Tex., and the University of Houston and received the bachelor of religious education degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Ft. Worth.

Before she and her husband came to Wink, Mrs. Breeden had served in various capacities, including office and educational secretary, Park Avenue Baptist Church, Corpus Christi; Vacation Bible school worker in Missouri for the Southern Baptist Mission Board; elementary director, Second Baptist Church, Houston; kindergarten teacher, social worker, and elementary director, Doyle Mission for the Tarrant County Baptist Association Ft. Worth; and playground director Doyle Mission, for the city of Ft. Worth.

She told the Board that at the meeting of the Southern Baptist Convention in St. Louis, Mo., in 1946, she made public the desire that had been in her heart for many years to serve God on the foreign mission field.

Dr. and Mrs. Breeden have three sons: Wilson Lynn, almost five; David Lee, three; and Harold Dean, nine months.

They are among 18 young people appointed for overseas service at the July meeting of the Board, bringing the total number of active Southern Baptist foreign missionaries to 1,084.

Price Daniel Fights
To Uphold State
Right-to-Work Law

HILLSBORO -- Senator Price Daniel declared recently that if Texas' Right to Work law is destroyed, it will be a serious blow to the basic freedoms that have built our nation.

Daniel, campaigning for governor with appearances in Hillsboro, Ennis, Waxahachie, Cleburne, Glen Rose, Stephenville and Hamilton, said, "I do not favor punitive laws against labor anymore than I favor punitive laws against business, industry or any other segment of our society."

The question is simply this: Shall a man be forced to join a union before he can hold a job. I do not believe that the right of a man to earn a living for his family should be based on membership or non-membership in a union.

No one should be forced to join or not join a labor union in order to work. To trespass upon freedom of choice in this way is to strike at the very heart of the tradition that every American has a right to make up his own mind and chart his own course without dictation from anybody.

"The main reason paid labor bosses want to seize control of Texas through their choice for governor is to repeal our State Right to Work laws. The same labor convention that heard only one candidate for governor and then collected money for his campaign, listed repeal of the Right to Work laws as its prime objective."

Mrs. Gibbs to Meet at Denton

Mrs. Earl Gibbs of Quail, who for several years has given private instruction in piano, is at T. S. C. W. in Denton taking piano methods workshop under the direction of Dr. J. Wilbur Eberly, director, department of music.

The workshop is approved by the National Guild of Piano Teachers, of which Mrs. Gibbs is a member.

She will also take private lessons for the organ.

Pvt. Cecil B. Duke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Duke, left Thursday for Camp Chaffee, Ark., after spending a 14-day leave with his parents. He is due to take two months advanced training there.

Pvt. Duke received his basic training at Fort Hood, where he was a member of Btry B, 197th AFA Battalion of the 4th Armored Division.

WHO ENDORSED THAT CHECK?

Many people scarcely look at the endorsement on a check, even though they accept it from a stranger, and that can lead to trouble.

Take Jack Storm down at the neighborhood hardware store, for example. He's one who will warn you — emphatically, with gestures — that it's smart to follow the simple rule. "Know your endorser."

Our laws set up many rules to protect us, and one of these rules protects the holder of a check by declaring that if he can't collect from the person who wrote out the check (the drawer), he can collect from the person who signed the check over to him (endorsed it). This, of course, applies only where a check changes hands at least once.

We mentioned Jack Storm. He accepted a $100 check from a nice looking fellow who said he needed to buy a kit of tools for his new job. We won't use real names, but let's say the check was made out to Will Works and signed by Art Jayson.

"Sure, Art Jayson's lived in the neighborhood for twenty years," Jack said. "I know him well. Just sign your name on the back."

Jack forgot to identify the endorser, and it turned out that Will Works was a phony name, and that Art Jayson's signature was a forgery. Jack has no idea where to find the stranger, and he ended up losing about $40 in tools and $60 cash.

Right after that a good friend, we'll call him Bob Samson, bought a $2 paintbrush from Jack, and gave him a $60 check. It was made out to a Paul Smart and signed with "Regno Canning Co., Inc., Rex Rogue, President". Bob Samson placed his signature beneath Smart's endorsement, and Jack gave friend Bob the paintbrush and $58 change.

"Well there wasn't any Regno Canning Co., Inc.," and this check also was worthless. But it was a different story this time for Jack. He contacted Bob Samson, and, of course, Bob had to make good on his endorsement.

Bob Samson managed to find Paul Smart, and it was Paul who ended up minus $60. But, what if Smart had been a stranger to Samson?

In a nutshell, anyone who endorses a check guarantees that any previous signatures are genuine and that the check will be paid. If the check is worthless, or the original maker's signature has been forged, then you may collect the amount of the check from the last endorser. Be sure you know the endorser personally, so you can fall back upon him in event it becomes necessary.

Lone Star Gas Advances Three Dallas Men

Three Dallas men have been advanced to new positions in Lone Star Gas Company's General Division of Distribution which includes operations in more than 380 Texas and Oklahoma towns. The changes are effective July 1.

H. D. Portwood has been named to the newly created position of Assistant to Vice-president M. L. Bitrd whom he will assist with administrative work and with operations of four regional areas in Texas and Oklahoma. The group does not include the Company's distribution operations in the metropolitan areas of Dallas and Ft. Worth.

R. E. Reading will succeed Portwood as superintendent of distribution for General Division and Louis B. Hulcy will succeed Mr. Reading as chief engineer for the division. Hulcy moves up from the position of control engineer.

All three came up from the ranks. Portwood started in 1925 as an engineer on construction, served subsequently as construction superintendent, chief engineer and had been superintendent of distribution since 1954. Mr. Reading joined the Company in 1939 following graduation from Texas A & M. He worked as a roadman and junior engineer in Transmission Engineering and was named research engineer in 1941, distribution engineer in 1946 and chief engineer for his division in 1954. He received his master's degree in mechanical en-

Hulcy is a graduate of Texas A & I at Kingsville and joined the Company following graduation in 1939, as a storekeeper in Cleburne. He served as manager of Grand Prairie distribution operations from 1941 to 1950 when he was transferred to Dallas as a field engineer in distribution. He was named control engineer for General Division in 1955.

Norvell Stresses Court Importance

As the campaign for Place 3, Supreme Court of Texas, entered its last week, Judge James R. Norvell stopped in his travels long enough to ask news editors everywhere to point out the importance of their Supreme Court to the people of Texas.

Said Norvell, "My travels have pointed out that lawyers know of this race, and are interested, but the average voter doesn't realize its importance to him. Every case that come up in a local court may some day go to the state Supreme Court. This, in turn, means that every single person needs to be interested in the men he has elected to his Supreme Court."

Judge Norvell won the June State Bar poll of Texas lawyers by almost a four-to-one margin over his opponent, indicative of the confidence he has earned in his sixteen years on the Fourt Court of Appeals in San Antonio.

When asked the best way to find out about all court races, Judge Norvell replied, "Ask your own attorney; he knows the qualifications of the men in the judicial races." Judge Norvell summed up his campaign as a faster and more efficient administration of justice for all the people of Texas.

Texas Takes A Look At Ontario

This is another of a series of articles concerning Deskins Wells recent trip to the Province of Ontario.

Sixth Day

USKOKA MEMOS

Losing a day on a travelogue like this is easy. Since we started this friendly invasion of Ontario, events have occurred so rapidly that you find yourself wondering what became of the tomorrow that you were so curious about yesterday.

Sitting down to breakfast in the Oak Room at the King Edward Hotel in Toronto on the sixth day of our sojourn in the Province, we found it difficult to believe that it was Thursday, and that our group had started its tour only last Sunday in Windsor.

Our 'welcoming' breakfast this day was laid on by our brothers-in-arms, the members of the Ontario Weekly Newspapers' Association. William James, president of the association, aided and abetted by Ward Leavens, another executive of the Ontario body, represented our hosts. Following the breakfast, a brief meeting was held on the subject of reader surveys, and comments were asked for, but the boys must have been tired for none were forthcoming.

Promptly at 10 a. m. our bus turned its nose northward and sped up Toronto's main thoroughfare, Yonge Street, or Number 11 Highway. This incidentally, according to our tour director, is one of the longest streets in the world, starting in Toronto and winding up at Lake Superior in the Nipigon area, a total of 851 miles. It does not remain 'Yonge Street' all the way and becomes Highway 11 exclusively as it goes further north.

Yonge Street is one of the most interesting traffic arteries yet travelled on. No trolley cars traverse it. Directly underneath is the subway, whose cars whistled us downtown yesterday. Stores large and small, and of every variety under the sun, line the street on both sides for five miles within Toronto proper. A city by-law forbids any sign to be further than 18 inches from any building making the street appear much wider than it really is. As we drew closer to the upper sections, huge new apartments, several stories high in evidence. Three more such buildings are on the drawing boards, so they told us, and once completed, certain parts of this great main stem should resemble New York's Park Avenue.

Traffic sections are laid out so they occur every mile and a quarter. One cross-section was Sloor, often considered the Fifth Avenue of Ontario. From what we could see of it it was easy to see how it got the nickname, and easier still to realize how it would be a woman's delight.

Another unique feature about this street is the fact that certain parts are not allowed to have stores selling spirits, beer or wine -- "a local option deal," as one of the Travel and Publicity boys expressed it.

Just beyond the city limits we turned sharply west, and made our way to Highway 400, a four-lane main traffic channel, running north and south from Toronto. Modern in every respect, from beautiful cloverleafs to easily accessible overpasses, it stretches like twin grey ribbons for fifty miles from Toronto to Highway

11. No commercial billboards mar the view of level, gently rolling countryside of grass, trees and mixed farming. Like most of the highways in Ontario we've seen; it is delightfully uncluttered: Gasoline stations are spaced conveniently, and woe betide the 'litter-bug' rash enough to scatter trash along the way. Such unwise action may bring $50.00 fine. In case we haven't mentioned it before, the speed limit for highway driving is 50 miles per hour, and 30 miles in the city. The blue-clad Ontario Provincial Police are courteous, smart-looking, and firm when the occasion demands it.

Sweeping down into a low-lying valley we came to Holland Marsh rich in black soil and one of Ontario's main market, or truck garden regions. Though it runs the Holland River, which once covered the entire area. As the name implies, there is a strong Dutch population here, but other nationalities like Ukrainians, Hungarians, et cetera are part of the scene.

Beyond Barrie, which is a junction for many highways, we entered Number 11 once more. Here the country gave way to huge outcroppings of rock and trees included more evergreens, and eventually we entered Gravenhurst, Gateway to Muskoka, one of Ontario's oldest, and certainly most renowned and popular vacation-lands. It covers 1,585 square miles of lakes and forests, boasting some 562 commercial resorts, whose total capacity is 25,000 guests. In addition, there are almost 9,000 private summer cottages.

Gravenhurst itself has a population of roughly 2,900, and is one of the province's best-known resort towns. Top civic official here is Mayor (Mrs.) Wanda Miller, who along with James Scott, president of the local board of trade, represented our hosts, the Town of Gravenhurst and its trade board.

This pleasant interlude was marked by brief speeches and more fine food. The gracious chief magistrate (another name for mayor), presents a strong argument in favor of having women in government. She told our Vermonters, Bill Sator, that while "Vermont's maple syrup might, just might, mind you, be the world's best, the best pancakes in the world are made in Gravenhurst, and the two delicacies ought to get together". Mayor Miller, James Scott, and Councilman Enoch Wright expressed deep pleasure that Gravenhurst had been chosen for a stopover, and hoped we would not forget that this charming town was 'ripe for new industries and a good source of raw materials for those contemplating such moves."

BRITANNIA BRIEFS

We almost didn't make it to Britannia Hotel on Lake of Bays. The bus was willing but the hills were steep. So steep the vehicle quit on a hard, gravelly grade. There was only one thing to do, so we did it -- we got out. Without all the overfed scribes aboard she climbed the road beautifully. We got on board and coasted from there on in and it was fortunate it was downhill all the way.

Windup for this day was a reception and dinner as guests of one of the town of Huntsville and Lake of Bays Chamber of Commerce and the Britannia Hotel. On hand to greet the editors were Mayor Syd Avery of Huntsville, Robert Boyer, H. P. P. for Muskoka; Dennis Stone and Ross Coward, Travel and Publicity District Inspectors; W. H. Howes and P. W. White, executives of the Hotel, President "Hap" Brookes of the Chamber of Commerce, and other prominent people of the Huntsville area.

Bob Boyer made himself immensely popular with the party by his presentation of complimentary fishing licenses, on behalf of the Minister of the Department of Lands and Forests, and all the ardent anglers promptly took to the boats and sailed away in the twilight to try their luck in Ontario Waters.

Reggie Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sunday Bill Smith, left last week to enroll for the second term at Texgas Technological College, Lubbock. Other graduates with this spring's class who are in Tech this summer are Barton Groves and Billy Bratten.

DID YOU KNOW

THAT MORE PEOPLE WERE KILLED BY ACCIDENTS ON THE FARM LAST YEAR THAN — were killed in the Chicago Fire, the sinking of the Titanic, the San Francisco earthquake and the Johnston Flood combined.

People don't hear much about these accidents that occur in the farm home-- yet this is the scene of the greatest number of farm accidents. The National Safety Council figures indicate that nearly 7,500 farm home fatalities occur each year.

National Safety Week is the special time to consider home dangers. It is the time for realization of safer ways of getting things done.

It is the time to take notes for future repairs which will make your farm home a safer place in which to live.

Carelessness about the farm and ranch will cost many people time and money losses this year, it has every year in the past.

Will yours be one out of 5 farm families, in which an accident occurs this year? You, and only you, can eliminate the hazards that may cost a life!

- 1 Our nation is only as strong as the combined productive efforts of all our people. Manpower is the basic resource by which all other productive resources are made useful and available. Agricultural manpower supplies are limited.
- 2 The chances of an agricultural worker being killed on the job are over three times as great as for a worker in manufacturing. In 1953 there were 14,500 accidental deaths and 1,250,000 injuries among farm people.
- 3 Loss due to accidents affecting farmers, including property and equipment is estimated at one billion dollars, more than the total of all farm real estate and personal property taxes in 1949.
- 4 During recent years agriculture has made rapid strides in technology. Farm output per man-hour in 1952 was 73 per cent higher than the average during 1935-39. Effective conservation and utilization of manpower require that similar progress be made in accident prevention.
- 5 A study in one midwestern county revealed that accidents occurred in one year in more than 3 out of 4 of the families studied.
- 6 (1) falls, (2) agricultural machinery, (3) animals, and (4) motor-vehicle accidents still account, in the above order, for nearly 2 out of 3 accidents to farm residents.

970 Have Taken Part in Work At Pan-Fork

The first three camps at the Pan-Fork Baptist Encampment had an enrollment totaling 970, the Rev. Russell Pogue reported this week.

This includes for 316 junior boys, 388 junior girls, and 225 intermediate girls.

The camp this week for intermediate boys and for the colored children will close the regular youth encampment scheduled.

"Mrs. A. K. Bonham, camp missionary, has served through the three weeks and has inspired many of these young people to seek to do mission work among the minority races in America," Rev. Pogue said.

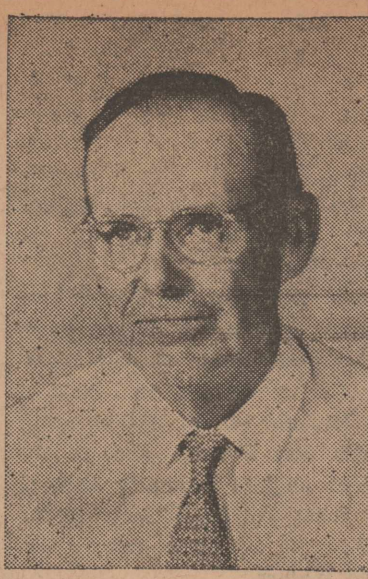

Outstanding recreational features have been swimming, hikes along the bed of Salt Fork River, and softball.

Thirty-nine churches have been presented.

Other groups that have scheduled camps during the remainder of the summer include Calvary Baptist Church, Borger, August 13 to 17; Temple Baptist Church, Amarillo, August 20 to 24; the Brotherhood of the First Baptist church, Wellington, August 14. There will be other local church outings and picnics.

The annual executive board meeting of the Pan-Fork Baptist Encampment will be Thursday, July 26, at 10 a. m., when reports will be given and plans for progress during the coming year will be made.

Fire Destroys Barton Home

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond (Tuffy) Barton, located about three and one-half miles northwest of town, was destroyed by fire Thursday morning, July 12.

Mrs. Barton, who had been working in the garden, discovered the blaze when she returned to the house. They managed to save a little furniture and most of their clothing.

The house, owned by Mrs. Judge Holton, was a total loss.

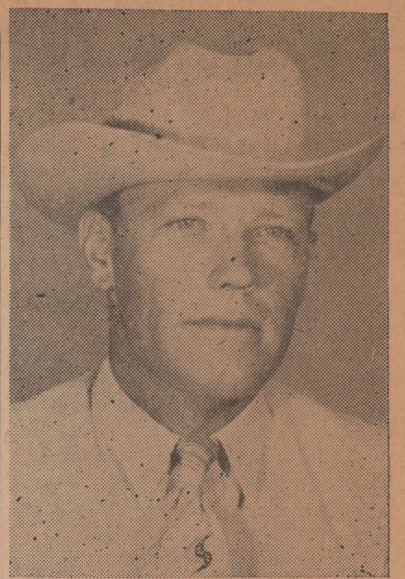

Temporary Help In ASC Office

Three temporary summer employees have been added to the staff of the county ASC office to take care of cotton compliance reports, Millard Brown, secretary, reported this week.

Doing this work are Miss Sharon Bettis, who was graduated from high school here this spring; Miss Elinor Drake, a student in the University of Texas; and Mrs. Billy Hughey, who returned recently from Houston when her husband was called into military service.

A butcher had a rough time ordering a full-course dinner in a swank downtown restaurant. He was trying to make both ends meet.

THANKS FRIENDS!

It has been an honor and a pleasure to serve you as your county attorney, and I am grateful that I have no opponent in this election.

I am simply repeating the promises I have made in the past. I will do my very best to make you an efficient, capable county official. I will keep in mind at all time those qualities of justice, fairness, yet observance of the law that must be uppermost in the minds of a law enforcement officer.

When you go to the polls July 28, I will appreciate your vote of approval.

Attention Farmers !

The following is a letter to the editor of the Amarillo News-Globe from Senator Allen J. Ellender, Democrat of Louisiana, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

UNITED STATES SENATE

Committee on Agriculture and Forestry

July 3, 1956

Editor
Amarillo News-Globe
Amarillo, Texas

Dear Sir:

It is my understanding that an opponent of Senator Price Daniel in his campaign for Governor is distributing anonymous sheets or other propaganda alleging that Senator Price Daniel supported flexible price supports as advocated by Secretary of Agriculture Benson rather than 90% of parity farm program in the United States Senate.

As Chairman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture, I want you and all of the farmers of Texas to know that Senator Price Daniel has been a strong advocate of 90% of parity on basic crops, and he has always worked with me in favor of the Democratic farm program. In addition, it was he who was the chief sponsor of the amendment adding grain sorghum and other feed grains to the mandatory price support program.

I know of no Senator who has shown more interest and worked any harder on the floor of the Senate for the benefit of his farmers and ranchers than Senator Price Daniel, and I hope this will help to keep the record straight.

Yours very truly,
(s) Allen J. Ellender

Crossroads Report

Dear Editor:

Seeing that farmers are having considerable trouble getting much monetary help from the government, it looks like some of them would have figured out how to get same the easy way.

All they would have to do is move to Europe or Asia or some other area like that for a while.

Then when they came back looking like foreigners and cussing us Americans, our little stable of Washington bureaucrats would fall all over themselves to dish out the billions.

Your key to Blue Chip value

Now-GMC gives you a bonus of up to 3 gallons in every tankful!

TALK about low-cost GMC ownership! With its new high-ratio cruising axle, a Blue Chip GMC pickup now gives you up to 17.8% better gas mileage. That's 3 gallons' worth of bonus miles in every filling!

And you get far better road speeds, too, from an easy-stroking, unstrained engine. In short, from a mere $10.50 axle option, GMC now gives you the advantages of a $125 overdrive.

Add this to the super-efficiency of a GMC

180 hp V8 engine—to the moneysaving advantages of Hydra-Matic Drive*—and this fact is clear:

The operation and maintenance savings of Blue Chip features can bring the over-all cost of a half-ton GMC down to the level of—or below—the cheapest stripped-model truck on the market.

Come in today—for the rest of the story.

I think the County's business should be put on a sound basis again, and if you see fit to put me in office, I will work toward that end to the best of my ability. There's more to being a commissioner than keeping county finances straight, and taking care of roads is one of the more important things. I have lived in precinct 3 a good part of my life and I know we have a peculiar set of road problems. I can assure you I will work hard to take care of them.

MEASURING OUR STRENGTH

A great deal of the news out of Washington in recent weeks has centered on the question of whether more money should be allocated for warplane production than the Defense Department has asked for. Congress appropriated an additional billion dollars and yet Defense Secretary Wilson says it may not be spent. Congress was stimulated to its action by statements which implied that the US is now behind Russia in the striking power of her Air Force and is losing the technological "Battle of the Air".

And yet, after personally viewing the most heralded of the Soviet aircraft, General Nathan Twining, U. S. Air Force chief, returned from Moscow and stated that the Communists are behind in technological development. Even more emphatic was the report of Hanson W. Baldwin, internationally-known military analyst of the New York TIMES, who went to Moscow and saw what Twining saw.

DESIGNED TO FRIGHTEN

Mr. Baldwin said that it was obvious the Russians were attempting, at the Moscow air "show-off", to create the impression that their Air Force and military might was superior to that of the US and "therefore you have got to get along with us." If we were frightened into a feeling that Russia is more powerful than the USA, the Communists could continue to expand their empire by continued bluffing and bulldozing. It's conceivable that they could take over the rest of the world if they frightened us into a passive state. Fear of war with Russia, it must be remembered, was the reason given for our nation's "restrained" actions in the Korean war.

So the Russians are, as Mr. Baldwin says, playing a vitally important game in trying to frighten America, while at the same time proclaiming "peaceful" intentions. Mr. Baldwin's basic conclusion was: "The United States is still clearly superior to the Soviet Union in air power today." He said the rate of Soviet "development progress in air power" has been very rapid and that research and development, and technical education, must be stressed in the United States "at all costs."

ALL FACTS NOT KNOWN

On the whole Mr. Baldwin's report in the TIMES seemed to back up Defense Secretary Wilson's reluctance to spend an extra billion dollars at this time on aircraft models which have been in production now for several years. It would be a mistake, Mr. Baldwin wrote, to put "too much money" into the production of aircraft which may be technically obsolete in a few years.

It is difficult for the public to reach an intelligent conclusion on this question of how much to spend this year or the next on present model planes. This is true because the public hasn't access to all the pertinent facts. Neither have I; yet, as this column is being written I have just returned from a Midwestern city where some of the most important air aged developments are under way. I saw the newest jet engines that power our nation's military aircraft — both piloted and pilotless. I saw them moving on the production line, spitting out their roaring power on test blocks, and mounted in experimental aircraft. FANTASTIC DEVELOPMENTS

All the things I saw and heard cannot be made public at this time. But it can be said with the utmost emphasis that America leads the world today in (1) military defensive and striking power, and (2) in the field of scientific advancement. Fantastic military developments, on which news has not leaked out, already have come out of research labs and through testing experiments, and are becoming available for use. And the whole scientific horizon in America is broadening with astonishing speed. "In American research," observed a man whose company is engaged in some of the newest research projects, "even atomic energy and its vast potential usage already has taken a back seat to the approach of solar energy and the promising potential of cosmic energy."

At a time when the Communist conspiracy is grasping for world domination we must not become unsold on the power and capability of America. The American system's individual freedom creates the best possible atmosphere for scientific progress and our private ownership economy is the most dynamic productive force on earth. We must use our great power and potential to deal firmly and courageously with the tricky maneuvering of the Communist world-wide conspiracy.
