Lower Speed Limits Urged To Save Gas

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—Embargoes on all oil exports, and restoration of wartime automobile speed limits were proposed today to fight the spreading fuel oil and gasoline shortage.

A bill to prohibit petroleum exports for one year, on penalty of a $10,000 fine or two years in prison, or both, was introduced by Senator Bridges (R-NH) as the oil shortage—both present and prospective—zoomed into the congressional limelight.

Simultaneously, Secretary of the Interior Krug in a formal report asked Congress to start a $9,000,000,000 program to build an American synthetic oil industry.

Outlook Is Grave

His plea was seconded by the House Interstate Commerce committee. It recommended larger appropriations and new authority for the Interior department to develop oil from coal and shale.

The committee's report to the House also urged a ban on gasoline and oil shipments. This is necessary, the group asserted, because of the rigid winter, past over-optimist about oil reserves, and "the gravity of the outlook in oil supplies in the event of a national emergency."

Chairman Tobey (R-NH) of a Senate Oil subcommittee took independent action. He asked the Interior department immediately to request the governors of all states to consider placing speed limits on highways to conserve gasoline. During the war the limit was 35 miles an hour.

Administration Denounced

Senator Bridges accompanied his embargo bill with a denunciation of what he called the administration's failure to relieve the fuel oil shortage in New England and other areas. He said:

"I am disgusted over the complete failure of the Executive department to effect relief measures despite annual pleas of the New England congressional delegations that the habitual shortage situation be remedied."

Bridges criticized the Maritime commission for selling tankers to foreign countries and declared it "extremely short-sighted" for the government to "spend so much time and money on the health and welfare of foreign people when

Twenty-Seven Dead, Damage Is Heavy

Hundreds Flee New Philippines Quakes

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

MANILA, Tuesday, Jan. 27—Hundreds more fled in panic from Iloilo city on Panay island during the night as three new moderate to strong earthquakes—more than 40 hours after the first devastating shocks early Sunday—brought additional casualties and damage.

Government officials reported 27 dead and great property damage on the central Philippines island from the first violent temblors, and were awaiting detailed information on the latest of the 50 distinct shocks. Iloilo officials said only that there were further casualties.

Chinese Area Deserted

Rumors of tidal wave sent distracted townspeople rushing again and again to the Plaza Libertad in the center of Iloilo. The Chinese section of the city, with a normal population of more than 2,000 was completely deserted. Hospital patients had been moved into the open as the new shocks further weakened shaken building walls.

Many of the population of Iloilo, southern Panay port of 125,000 had fled to the countryside Sunday.

The Philippines Red Cross announced there were 47 distinct shocks beginning shortly before 2 a. m. Sunday, not counting the latest.

Communications Broken

Most of the known deaths were caused by falling masonry Sunday morning. Latest additions were two fishermen whose bodies were recovered Monday on the south coast near Miagao, 25 miles west of Iloilo. They were appar-

Most Of State Hit By Worst Cold Of Year

(By The Associated Press)

TEXAS, entering its fifth day in the grip of one of its bitterest cold spells in years, today faces at least 36 more hours of snow and ice.

Two-thirds of the state was under a coating of ice that was dangerously slick.

Transportation on highways and in the air was severely crippled. Communications were hard-hit. Attendance at schools slumped sharply.

Falls Cause Injuries

Texans, unused to the danger of ice, slipped and fell and went to hospitals to nurse their injuries.

At Electra, 14-year-old Louadah Gimlin slipped on ice in front of her house, was knocked unconscious. Her grandfather, G. R. Morrow, going to her aid, slipped and fell, spraining his wrist. His wife, seeing their plight, followed suit, injuring her head.

The cold weather virtually engulfed the state. Exceptions were along the upper coast and in the extreme southwest portions. It was 56 at Beaumont and 53 at Galveston yesterday. Freezing weather prevailed elsewhere.

At least eight schools in Tarrant county were closed. No public schools in Fort Worth were closed, but one of every three students did not attend because of the weather. Three parochial schools were closed. Almost two score persons were in hospitals there with broken limbs suffered in falls on icy streets.

Hospitals Jammed

In Dallas, a 50-year-old man, John King Harrison, was found dead of asphyxiation in his hotel room, the doors closed and a gas stove burning high.

Emergency rooms in Dallas hospitals were jammed with persons injured in falls or traffic accidents.

More snow and little change in temperature were forecast for today.

The driver of an oil truck was killed in a train-truck accident at Houston during a fog.

Highways Slippery

Snow, Ice Slow Up Traffic In Plains Area

Heavy Snowfall Forecast For Area; Bus Schedules Hit; Roads Dangerous

THE heavy hand of winter held a stranglehold on the South Plains last night and there was little chance of relief before the week's end.

Temperatures no higher than 18 degrees today will drop to 12 or below tonight, the weather station north of Lubbock predicted, and the hard-frozen, powdery dry snow which started falling in earnest at 10 p. m. will continue through today and tonight, swathing this area in "several inches of snow."

Monday's temperatures reached their high of 23 degrees briefly in the afternoon, dropped to 17 at midnight and were expected to continue the downward spiral until dawn. Winds as high as 23 miles per hour whipped up the chalky snow.

Bus Travel Hampered

The South Plains communications system suffered less than most other parts of the state, however. Highways, while dangerous, were still open to daring travelers. Telephone service, while earlier delayed to Fort Worth and Dallas and points south, was functioning normally late last night.

"I can't see any immediate relief," said V. H. Halliburton, weather observer at the station north of the city. "We expect temperatures continuing far below normal all this week. A new cold wave is now in Canada and Montana and will reach here sometime Wednesday, bringing even colder temperatures."

In the six hours between 6 p. m. and midnight .03 of an inch of precipitation was measured at the Weather bureau station.

Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma Coaches had cancelled all outgoing and incoming schedules after two buses, to Big Spring at 8 p. m., and Clovis at 8:20 p. m., had departed. Company spokesmen indicated they would try to resume service this morning, weather permitting.

However, highways in the Dallas-Fort Worth area were closed and connecting buslines were not operating.

Caution Is Urged

S. C. McCarty, district engineer of the Texas Highway department, said the South Plains highways were all open but advised extreme caution in driving them.

Travelers returning to Lubbock late last night reported conditions must worse east of Lubbock and below the Caprock. They attributed the difference to the fact that much more wet snow and frozen rain had fallen there, while the hard-frozen snow on the Plains was whipped off the roads by the high winds.

Airlines had halted their flights. One airline planned to attempt a flight into Lubbock to arrive at 7:15 this morning, but the flight was subject to cancellation. Air-

Truman's New Budget Called 'Phoney'

Solon Charges HST With 'Hiding' Funds

By ED CREAGH
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—President Truman was accused by Chairman Bridges (R-NH) of the Senate Appropriations committee today of concealing $2,300,000,000 for foreign aid in what the senator called the "phoney budget" for 1948-49.

And the Marshall program for European recovery was denounced as a "blueprint for atomic war" by Arthur Schutzer of New York's American Labor party, which Schutzer said endorses the foreign aid views of Henry A. Wallace.

Vandenberg Plan Favored

These developments came as Senate opinion appeared swinging in line behind the proposals by Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich) of the Foreign Relations committee for operating the proposed four-year recovery program.

Senators Taft (R-Ohio) and Connally (D-Texas) were among those commenting favorably on the Vandenberg plan, which would put the recovery program under an independent, cabinet rank administrator responsible only to the President.

"Phony Budget" Charged

President Truman and Secretary of State Marshall have asked Congress to give the State department control of the program and to appropriate $6,800,000,000 for its operation during the first 15 months.

Bridges, whose committee must pass on any appropriation, said he called the attention of all Republican senators at a morning conference to "the phoney budget setup so far as foreign aid is concerned."

The New Englander said Mr. Truman's budget listed $4,000,000,000 in planned expenditures for foreign aid in the fiscal year beginning next July 1, and noted that the President asked another $500,000,000 before July 1.

Request To Be Probed

Subtract this $4,500,000,000 total from the administration's $6,800,000,000 request for foreign aid, Bridges said, and you get a "discrepancy" of $2,300,000,000.

"It's a phoney setup—that's a good word for it," Bridges declared. He said the appropriations committee would "look into it" and added that Vandenberg also had promised to "ask for an explanation."

One reporter suggested that the

Purse Snatching Case Is Probed

A new candidate for "the meanest man" came to light Monday night, when police were informed of a purse snatching.

Mrs. Gladys James of 720 Ave. C, widow and mother of three children, was walking home from work at 7:15 p. m. in the biting cold. She had just entered the East Broadway underpass when a young man, bandana over his face, slipped up behind her and snatched her purse.

She told police Patrolmen Lynn M. Campbell and Tom Dodson the purse contained $26, five $5 bills and a $1 bill. It also contained papers and pictures, sunshades and other items.

Assault Cases Filed

The man then ran back to the underpass west entrance and disappeared southward down an alley in 600-block Broadway, the investigators were told. He wore dark clothing, they learned.

Mrs. James is employed by a downtown drugstore.

A 61-year-old negro, D. T. Jackson, was released under $1,000 bond Monday after he had been charged with the rape of an 8-year-old negro girl. The complaint was filed in justice court of C. E. Lynn.

Another charge of rape, of a 13-year-old white girl, was filed in the court of D. W. Robertson, justice of peace, naming Quinton C. Wicker, 29. Wicker posted bond of $2,000.

Negro Is Slashed

Clint Allen, a negro, was released from a hospital after treatment of a six-inch knife cut on the neck, and another black was arrested in connection with the case after he had called officials and said he would wait at a hotel in the negro

Jury Finds Polish War Bride Guilty Of Slaying Salesman

REDWOOD CITY, Calif., Jan. 26 (AP)—Jadwiga Curtin, 21-year-old Polish war bride who was charged with the bar pickup slaying of a Palo Alto salesman, was convicted tonight of manslaughter by a jury which deliberated more than four hours.

The prosecutor had sought a murder verdict but without demanding the death penalty.

Mrs. Curtin, who ran away from her Havre, Mont., war veteran husband and came to California, heard the verdict without an outward show of emotion.

She will be sentenced later in the week. The verdict carries with it a possible term of one to 10 years.

Rep. Thomas III In Canal Zone Hospital

BALBOA HEIGHTS, Canal Zone, Jan. 26 (AP)—Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R-NJ) was transferred from the S. S. Ancon to a Canal Zone hospital today for treatment of a malady which struck him at sea.

His condition was described as serious.

The Ancon docked at Cristobal late this afternoon and Thomas was taken ashore on a stretcher. An ambulance took him to Margarita hospital at Margarita on the Atlantic side of the Isthmus.

Col. S. D. Avery, chief health officer of the Panama Canal, said if Thomas' condition permitted, he later would be transferred to Gorgas hospital on the Pacific side.

Thomas, chairman of the House unAmerican Activities committee, had sailed to Panama to investigate reported subversive activity in the Canal Zone. His wife accompanied him.

NINE DIE IN CRASH

ROMAINVILLE, France, Jan. 26 (AP)—The bodies of nine French airmen were removed tonight from the wreckage of a four-engined transport that crashed into a junk yard and caught fire. The accident occurred this afternoon. The crash and flames destroyed five houses and damaged a blacksmith shop in this Paris suburb. Electric power lines were severed. Only one person on the ground, a blacksmith, was injured.

BUDGET IS FIRST MAJOR TASK

Smith Named City Manager At $12,000-A-Year Salary

THE preparation of the city budget for the fiscal year beginning April 1 will be the first major task confronting Marlin R. Smith, jr., whose appointment as city manager at a salary of $12,000 a year was announced Monday by the city commission.

Although Smith will not begin his duties officially until March 1, he and Homer A. Hunter, resigning city manager, are to work closely together during the next month, chiefly upon the budget and in completing plans for the biggest expansion program in the city's history, during the next two or three years.

Hunter's resignation, tendered early last December, was to have been effective Dec. 31. Mayor C. A. Bestwick said, however, he has agreed to remain until Smith takes over.

Smith's starting salary will be $2,000 more a year than that paid Hunter. The present city budget, however, sets $12,000 as the managerial salary. Hunter declined to accept the $2,000 increase provided in the budget for the present fiscal year.

Mayor Bestwick said the public reaction to the announcement of Smith's appointment was highly favorable. The mayor and Smith were the recipients of numerous congratulatory calls as news of the appointment spread Monday afternoon and night.

New Position Planned

Smith was city manager for nearly four years before he resigned Jan. 1, 1945, to become associated with the firm of Parkhill, Smith and Cooper, consulting engineers. He was city engineer nearly 10 years prior to his appointment as city manager. He was reared in Lubbock and is a graduate of Texas A. & M. college.

The reorganization plan for the city government, the mayor said, also will involve the creation of the new position of director of public works. This step has been approved on Smith's recommendation as a means of relieving the city manager of some of the details of his work, Mayor Bestwick explained.

Smith is to select the public works director, subject to commission approval. The salary to be paid for the position has not been decided.

When Smith resigned as city manager about two years ago, the position carried a salary of $7,500 a year.

Mayor Bestwick said the commission was unanimous in offering the position to Smith an important factor in the decision, he added, is the new manager's familiarity with Lubbock municipal affairs.

Smith had been rumored for some time as the probably choice for the position. A definite agreement was not reached until Monday morning the mayor said.

Members of the commission, additional to the mayor, are W. B. Price, Fred Childress, J. Ray Dickey and John Spikes.

Case Of Oklahoma Negro Student In High Court Again

(By The Associated Press)

NORMAN, Okla., Jan. 26—Mrs. Ada Lois Sipuel Fisher, 23-year-old negro, today spurned a new law school created especially for negroes and once again renewed her fight in the United States Supreme Court for admission to the University of Oklahoma law school which rejected her because of her race.

The university, which has not accepted a negro student in its 56-year history, today told Mrs. Fisher her application was approved except for her race and pointed out a three-man faculty was ready to open law courses for negroes only in the state capitol building at Oklahoma City.

Conflicted With Law

Dr. George L. Cross, president of the University of Oklahoma, announced Mrs. Fisher's application had been rejected because it conflicted with Oklahoma's constitution which provides separate schools for whites and negroes.

While Mrs. Fisher's application was being rejected, her attorneys in Washington filed a petition asking the high court to order the university to admit her.

The next session of the Supreme Court is scheduled for Feb. 2.

Tax Slash Bill Makes Progress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—Income tax reduction made progress in both Houses of Congress today with (1) a House committee decision to vote tomorrow on a $6,300,000,000 slash and (2) an agreement by Senate Republicans to back a cut of undetermined amount.

The tax-writing House Ways and Means committee looked over the bill offered by its chairman, Rep. Knutson (R-Minn), and set a vote for tomorrow.

Texan Attacks Bill

Knutson predicted committee approval of the measure as is, a start on House debate Thursday, and passage Monday. Other Republicans agreed with his forecast.

On the Senate side, Chairman Millikin (R-Colo) of the Republican conference said the group decided "unanimously to go ahead with a tax reduction bill, with the understanding that the amount cannot be determined until there is more information on the budget and how much surplus there will be."

Meanwhile Rep. Poage (D-Tex) told the House that the community property provision of the pending tax bill is a "bold and brazen" appeal by the Republicans for votes in doubtful states.

Four Persons Burned To Death, Six Injured In Car Accident

The accident occurred about seven miles east of here on U. S. 80 during a heavy dust storm this afternoon. Three of the dead were so badly burned that immediate identification was impossible, Buskurk said.

Definitely identified was Mrs. J. B. Bert, Upland, Calif. One of three bodies in one car was tentatively identified from unburned credentials as Mrs. V. S. Christiansen, Likely, Calif.

Britain Not To Follow Lead Of France In Devaluating Money

By ROBERT HEWETT
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 26—Britain announced today that she does not plan to cheapen her money as France has done in an effort to sell more goods abroad.

Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer, promised vigorous action to protect the pound sterling from unsettling effects of the French devaluation of the franc. He did not disclose the specific steps to be taken.

On the whole world markets reacted calmly to the French action, which was taken despite objections from both the British government and the International Monetary fund.

A high United States treasury official said in Washington that France's move had created dangers for world trade, but expressed the belief that "the worst predictions won't work out."

The State department said the United States is "confident" that France will apply its new foreign exchange measures "in close collaboration" with other member nations of the International Monetary

Suspects Held In Narcotics Thefts

Lubbock police detectives may go to San Antonio to aid in questioning two Dallas youths held in connection with robberies of a Houston drugstore Saturday and a San Antonio pharmacy Saturday night, in an effort to solve two prescription store narcotics robberies here since Dec. 26, it was indicated Monday night.

The youths were arrested after their car was wrecked near Blanco early Sunday, the Associated Press reported.

Companion Is Killed

They, 20 and 27, escaped injury in the wreck, which resulted in death of a companion, Billie Ray Williams, 22, also of Dallas, and injured a 19-year-old Fort Worth youth.

Williams died in a Blanco hospital of a fractured skull, and the injured Fort Worth youth was taken to a San Antonio hospital with a shotgun wound in the left shoulder suffered when the gun was discharged in the wreck.

Detective Sgts. C. A. Bartram and B. Long of San Antonio said the two Dallas youths would be questioned in connection with other recent robberies in San Antonio, Lubbock and Dallas.

A Blanco doctor, who treated the men after the wreck, reported finding a quantity of narcotics on the wreck victims.

Stassen Asks UN Police Force To Curb Violence In Palestine

By JAMES F. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

BURLINGTON, Vt., Jan. 26 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen said tonight the United Nations should send a police force to Palestine to maintain order in that strife-torn land.

The United States, he said, should take the lead in calling the constabulary.

Such a police force, Stassen continued, should be used to "disarm the warring fractions," punish violence, "who ever commits it," and carry out all provisions of the UN partition plan.

Launching a week-long tour of Vermont, Maine and New Hampshire in his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination, Stassen asserted in a prepared speech:

"The United States must not evade this issue. We must in a forthright manner call upon other members to join with us in establishing a truly United Nations police force in this critical area."

"We can no more ignore it than can a city police force ignore a riot in one section of a city."

Stassen told newsmen that obviously United States troops would

Alabama Demos In Warning To Party

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 26 (AP)—Alabama Democrats, while disclaiming any desire to bolt the ticket, today warned national party leaders nevertheless that adoption of an anti-segregation policy in the 1948 platform might force the South to choose between party loyalty and racial tradition.

A resolution which declared bluntly "there are limits to what can be endured" was passed without a dissenting vote at a meeting of the state Democratic executive committee, the party's ruling body.

The racial discussion came up as committee members fixed March 1 as the qualifying deadline for the May 4 primary in which 26 delegates will be elected to the Democratic national convention.

Convention delegates, whoever they might be, were urged to "resist with all their ability and power" any attempt to write into the platform proposals which would "directly or indirectly" abolish the South's racial barriers.

U. S. Military Planes To Use British Mediterranean Bases

LONDON, Jan. 26 (AP)—American military airplanes will be permitted to land at British Mediterranean bases, but the U. S. will not share the fields.

This was disclosed officially tonight by a British Air Ministry spokesman.

He said agreements "at service level" had been reached between the Royal Air Force and U. S. military officials.

The agreements are on a departmental leave with no diplomacy involved, the spokesman said.

This means, he added, that U. S. transport planes will be afforded ground service at certain British Mediterranean bases.

The Air Ministry spokesman said two of the first such airfields where U. S. planes would be given service are Luqua airdrome in Malta and Castel Benito in Tripoli. There will be no American ground crews, the spokesman added.

Existence of the agreements was believed to be the probable basis for recent rumors about a possible Anglo-American air base system in the Mediterranean.

The British spokesman was careful to avoid giving any impression that American use of the fields was necessitated by new service routes to Greece and Saudi Arabia.

"It is just a simple and sensible arrangement for American planes which in this region get pretty far from their own bases," he said. "No great extension of any air service is contemplated."

Lubbock Library Association Conducts Business Meeting

Members of Lubbock Public Library association held a regular business meeting in Fellowship hall at the First Presbyterian church last night, but postponed the originally scheduled program to a more favorable date. Mrs. Robert H. Wilson, extension director in the Texas state library at Austin, was unable to appear before the group due to weather conditions, and canceled transportation schedules between Lubbock and Abilene, where she was stranded.

Mrs. H. F. Godeke, association president, presided at the meeting and received reports from various officers. A motion was passed to postpone the election of four directors until such time as the full assembly acts on proposed revision of by-laws. Membership of the association was reported to be 442.

A visitor, O. Gaiceau, who is conducting a library survey in Lubbock and other cities for the Carnegie corporation, of New York City, made several suggestions for consideration by the group in planning a city library service. Among these were location of a library or libraries for convenience of patrons, the problem of whether to utilize one building or establish well-located branches, and the problem of coordinating the facilities of schools and the college with those of the city library service.

Film On Mexico Will Be Shown In City

Robert Friars of Saginaw, Mich., will speak and show his new color film travelogue, "Mexican Holiday," which will be brought here from a showing in Carnegie hall, N. Y., at the monthly dinner of Lubbock Knife and Fork club at 7 o'clock Wednesday night in Hotel Lubbock.

During the last summer, he made his latest picture, "Mexican Holiday," in Mexico. Featured are scenes of Paricutin Volcano, bullfights, mariachi musicians, mummies of Guanajuato, falls at Guadalajara, Taxco, Acapulco, Fortin and native beauties of Tehuantepec. The Pan-American highway is shown and Dolores Del Rio and Diego Rivera and others are shown at work and play.

Friars is an accredited speaker with the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs.

Before he was 20, Friars had visited every state in the United States and Mexico, every province of Canada and had visited Alaska. He studied at the University of Michigan. Once he interrupted school work to hitch-hike around the world, spending only $82.

Another year, he walked through Central America to the Panama Canal.

One Dead, Another Hurt As Train Hits Gasoline Truck

HOUSTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—J. D. Warre, 26, Houston truck driver for the Humble Oil and Refining company, was killed and a Southern Pacific fireman seriously injured today when an Austin-bound passenger train and a 1000-gallon gasoline truck collided at Satsuma, near here, today.

M. Corley, 46, of Austin, fireman of the locomotive, received back injuries when he jumped from the cab just after the crash.

Deputy Sheriff Vic Parker, who investigated the accident, said the only explanation he could offer is found in a heavy fog which blanketed the area at the time of the crash.

Parker said the gasoline truck trailer, partially loaded, was carried about 75 feet by the impact and thrown into a ditch. The trailer did not catch fire.

What are you doing to get me a telephone?

Here's the answer, Lady...

Everything we can think of, and as fast as we can—that's what we're doing to get telephones to those waiting. And it's getting results. In the Southwest we're now putting in 12,000 new telephones a week.

Getting a telephone to someone waiting is more than connecting wires to a group of terminals and setting up the account on our books.

Today the telephone system is carrying a full load, like a rush-hour bus.

We're Building

So in some places we must put up a new building or make the present one bigger, to house new equipment. That job is well along, with 85 buildings or additions finished or under way.

Western Electric Company, the Bell System manufacturing unit, rented 26 extra factories last year to get space quickly. They delivered more equipment than in any year in a 77-year history. As a result, 2½ times as many telephones were added by the Bell System as in 1941, the previous high year.

When equipment arrives it must be fitted into the existing telephone system. Additional wire and cable are fanned out from the telephone exchange to the places where new telephones are going in.

New Voice Highways

In the last two years we've placed a sizable amount of these new voice highways—something like 700,000 miles of wire in cable.

When the additional central office and cable facilities are ready for service, the new telephones can be connected.

It isn't a simple job, you see. It can't be done in haste, but it is being done as swiftly as complexity allows. Fifty thousand telephone people in the Southwest—an all-time high—are hard at work supplying service and extending it. We appreciate your patience and understanding.

Commission Urges Higher Pay For College, University Staffs

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (U.P.)—President Truman's commission on higher education today urged immediate increases in college and university salaries.

The commission, making its fourth report, said it "believes that higher education will undergo sweeping curricular changes in the days ahead."

"Accelerating social change, increasing demands for world citizenship, pyramiding technological developments, greater emphasis upon ethical ideals—all create demand for qualities in faculty personnel now too rare on college and university campuses, the commission reported.

Staff Problem Urgent

Technological changes not only will require higher quality faculty members, the commission reported, but increased demand for higher education has brought an "immediate emergency" need for more of them.

The commission estimated that the estimated 155,000 college faculty members of 1946-47 will have to be increased to 350,000 by 1960.

"It is obvious that concerted action is necessary if 195,000 new faculty positions for colleges and universities are to be filled by 1960," it reported.

To get them it will be necessary to encourage the ablest young people to enter the teaching profession.

Average salary of teaching faculties in 1946-47 was $3,867 for a nine-month period for an average of 40½ years and average teaching experience of 14.3 years.

Training Is Necessary

Average faculty salaries increased 30 per cent from 1940 to the spring of 1947, the commission said, while the bureau of labor statistics reported that living costs increased 57 per cent during that period.

But many colleges and universities have financial problems now, and for most of them to be able to raise salaries "depends upon sharply increased public and private support of higher education."

Graduate schools would make a "distinguished contribution" to higher education by providing "internship" training for those who begin their careers as teachers, researchers, counsellors and administrators, the commission said.

"A carefully arranged period of supervised internship should become the very keystone of an effective preparatory program for college teachers," the report said.

TEMPLETON TIME

LUBBOCK Symphony board was rather pleased to announce the coming of Alec Templeton here for two concerts Feb. 12 and 13 and early requests for tickets indicate a sell out crowd. It is pointed out that the symphony members are to attend the first night on their season tickets; the auditorium will be available the second night for non-members.

Tickets may be secured if one writes Symphony, P. O. Box 894, Lubbock, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with your check or money order. There are seats available Feb. 12 for $2.40 and $1.80. Tickets for the second night are selling at $2.80, $2.40 and $1.80, all seats being reserved and orders being filled as they are received.

Those who have heard Templeton in person can testify to his genius as a sparkling musician, a wit and a mimic. The pianist has captivated audiences in America and on the Continent, making his way despite the worst handicap most of us think possible, that of blindness. But as one who heard the young naturalized citizen in Amarillo several seasons and who is looking forward with eagerness to his February concert, we know that the inability to actually see has been no handicap to Templeton. His movements across the stage are graceful, fast and sure, as if he were compelled by an inner rhythm.

He is not tall, is sturdily built, has a head of thick brown hair and a fair complexion we think of as being typically English. When he finishes his solo number and nods exactly in the direction of the conductor and orchestra, you may suddenly remember that the musician cannot see and wonder how he can appear so normal. He seems endowed with the greatest sensitivity of any person we have ever seen.

PREVENTING INFLUENZA

THIS is the season of the year when influenza is most prevalent and to protect yourself and others from colds, grippe, flu or whatever you call them, there are some things to remember.

It seems to the writer that most of her friends are under the weather these days. According to Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, influenza is highly infectious. Practically everybody is susceptible to it and no matter how many times you have had the disease you may contract it again.

Keep away from those who are coughing, sneezing or who are actively ill with colds, influenza and pneumonia. Keep away from crowded places. Have your own towels; wash your hands before you eat a meal and sneeze and cought into a facial tissue.

Keep fit by drinking plenty of water, eating simple nourishing food and taking some kind of outdoor exercise. (We hope walking to work could be included as exercise). Dress according to the weather; get plenty of sleep in a well-ventilated room and keep elimination regulated.

Incidentally, disastrous results may ensue from this disease if influenza cases are allowed to get about too soon. It's suggested that you return to your normal routine of life gradually.

Speech Impairment In Children May Be Caused By Parents

CLEVELAND, Jan. 26 (AP)—If junior's nearly four and still doesn't talk, lack of parental understanding and mishandling very likely may be the reason, a study of 16 pre-school-age youngsters at the Cleveland hearing and speech center nursery school has disclosed.

Last year 16 tots who averaged 3.9 years old were brought to the nursery school by worried parents, who thought the children might be feeble-minded.

Within five months 12 of these "abnormal" children achieved normal speech. Today all 16 are talking and playing happily with the neighbor kids.

These youngsters were not abnormal, as their parents believed, but merely speech-inhibited, explains Mrs. Amy Bishop Chapin, assistant chief of hearing and speech therapy at the nursery center, affilited with Western Reserve university.

Confidence Essential

"Gaining the confidence of the parents is often far more difficult than getting Billy or Jane to forget his or her tantrums and join in with the group," Mrs. Chapin said.

If your little boy doesn't speak as soon or as well as the lad next door, don't apologize for him, don't correct every mispronounciation and let the child know you have confidence and pride in him, the nursery teachers say.

The nursery gets the youngsters talking by dividing them into play groups, according to their stages of development rather than age. Two live rabbits have inspired speech for many of the little graduates. Now there are some guinea pigs, too.

When the child overcomes his fear of the friendly pets, his antagonism toward his playmates disappears and he develops aggressiveness and confidence and wants to talk.

Fictitious Names Are Given On Narcotic Prescriptions

DALLAS, Jan. 26 (AP)—Approximately 500 fictitious narcotic prescriptions have been passed on Dallas drug stores during the past few weeks, Warren A. Heddens, chief of the Federal Narcotic bureau, said today when he filed a charge against a Dallas woman.

Charged before U. S. Commissioner W. Madden was Frances Hogue who was held under $1,500 bond. She was charged with giving a fictitious name and address on a prescription for narcotics.

Heddens said others would be charged.

TO INCLUDE WOMEN IN CABINET

Houston Man To Wage Campaign As Independent For President

HOUSTON, Jan. 26 (AP) — An 84-year-old man sat in his downtown Houston apartment today and with a clear, confident voice told how he plans to conduct his campaign as an independent candidate for President of the United States.

He is Dr. Claude Carnot Cunningham who says he has "the type of platform people want" and that he will select a cabinet — including four women — capable of carrying out the program once it is approved in the November election following his "vigorous" campaign.

Cunningham, who can be seen on any bright day walking along downtown Houston streets, distinctive in his string tie, narrow brimmed and high-crowned hat, a cane in his hand, announced today he will carry his platform to the people through four large rallies — one each in California, Chicago, New York City and Houston — and numerous radio broadcasts.

Mate Not Named

Fninances present no problems, he said.

Off the record, he told who his vice presidential running mate will be — a well known public figure who has been high in Washington governmental circles.

"That's to be worked out," he said, "but right now I'm busy completing plans for a vigorous campaign that will begin in July."

The campaign will be conducted under the name "C. C. Cunningham."

"I never use my full name, never have," he explained. "The middle name, however, is that of a former president of France who was a distant relative of mine."

Would Reduce Taxes

His platform calls for reduction by 75 per cent in the number of federal employes and the abolition of "bureaus and committees."

He also favors legalized gambling and horse racing and establishment of a national lottery with monthly drawings.

Annual incomes of less than $5000 would be exempt from income taxes.

Cunningham, who was born in the Possum Walk area of Calloway county, Mo., in 1863, came to Houston 50 years ago after "physicians advised me to do so because of a heart condition which they said would not permit me to live a year longer."

Upon arrival here he opened the old Majestic theater as manager. It was, he says, one of the first vaudeville theaters in Texas.

"I used to run an intermission of 15 minutes," he recalls, "so the audience could run across the street to a saloon for drinks."

He recalls the day a piney woods character came into the saloon during intermission and, after a drink or two, remarked to the bartender, "that's a fine show but I ain't got onto the plot of it yet."

Knew James Boys

Cunningham says Frank and Jesse James were born on a farm that adjoined that on which he was born in Missouri's Calloway county and that "I knew the James boys well."

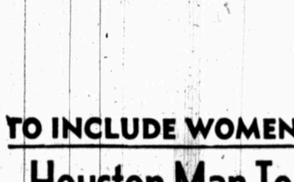

In Missouri, the presidential candidate says he began a career as a veterinarian surgeon "and the first thing I knew I was doctoring people."

Later he obtained a state license to practice medicine although never having attended medical school.

"I was practicing medicine a long while before the Missouri legislature passed its law requiring physicians to hold licenses," he explained.

Cunningham said he and an aunt, Miss Margaret Ellis, 90, of Mexico, Mo., are the only members of his family still living.

Two-Year Prison Sentence Given

Two years in the penitentiary was recommended by a 99th district court jury which at 8:45 o'clock Monday night returned a verdict of guilty in the felony theft trial of Delmar Ford, 27, negro of 2526 East Ave. G.

Dr. Clifford B. Jones was foreman of the jury which returned its verdict to Judge G. V. Pardue after deliberating 45 minutes. Other jurors were M. B. McKee, J. M. Hardin, Culver Austin, L. A. Harrall, A. H. Davis, J. R. Hatsfield, C. C. Mull, J. S. Yelt, Sam R. Pangburn and W. B. Abbott, jr.

Ford was charged with theft of a suitcase containing clothing.

Appeal Is Planned

Burton S. Burks, of the firm of Burton and McNeil, representing the defendant, excepted and gave notice to the Court of Criminal Appeals, and ordered a transcript and statement of facts.

District Attorney Lloyd Croslin and Assistant District Attorney E. G. Pharr represented the state.

Monday morning Robert Smithson, 19, pleaded guilty of forgery before a jury of which Pangburn was foreman and was sentenced by Judge Pardue to three years in the state penitentiary.

Judge Pardue, informed that Smithson also is under two three-year sentences from Wichita county, ruled that those sentences, believed pronounced to run concurrently, be added to the three years given here.

Lester C. Cruse, 31, a negro, pleaded guilty before the court of drunk driving, second offense—a felony—and was allowed suspension of two-year sentence. C. L. Harris was appointed by the court to represent the defendant.

District Attorney Lloyd Croslin, who represented the state, asked that the court forfeit bond of three other prisoners, Clarence Thornton, Ivison Brown, alias Pat Brown, and E. B. Barnes.

Barnes, 19, and Brown, 23, both negroes, came into court afterward and were ordered remanded to jail. Forfeiture action will be completed against Thornton, it was announced. Thornton is charged with theft over $50, the other two with burglary. Cases of other two with burglary.

Special Session Of Legislature Urged To Solve Butane Shortage

AUSTIN, Jan. 26 (AP)—A special session of the legislature was suggested to Gov. Beauford H. Jester today as a means of remedying the current, critical shortage of butane gas over Texas.

Sen. Fred (Red) Harris of Dallas—a potential candidate for the Railroad commission—said he had asked Jester to summon the legislature, and suggested steps the lawmakers could take to make sure Texans have plenty of butane fuel.

Harris said the governor did not commit himself, saying only that he was working on the situation. Jester has consistently opposed demands for special legislative sessions.

Law Said Needed

"One thing the legislature could do would be to pass a law stopping the use of butane materials in stepping up the octane content of gasoline," Harris said.

"There is plenty that the legislature could do about the situation."

Harris said he has had many complaints from persons who have been forced to build or buy houses in suburban areas—beyond the reach of commercial natural gas lines—where butane is the only available gas.

"They are cold and getting colder," the senator said. "There just isn't enough butane to supply their needs."

Commission Lacks Authority

The Railroad commission at last week's statewide oil hearing here rejected a suggestion by H. P. Nichols of Tyler, vice president of the East Texas Oil association, that it should force distributors of butane to build storage to meet customers' needs at all times. Members of the commission said they had no authority to do so.

Harris was not yet ready to say today whether he would get in the race for Railroad commissioner.

"If I do get in, I will win," he said.

Two members of the commission face re-election. One is Chairman Ernest O. Thompson, who has announced he will run, and the other is William J. Murray, who has not said what he will do. Murray was appointed to the commission by Jester when Jester left it to become governor.

Veterans To Protest Jester Bonus Stand

LAMESA, Jan. 26 (Special) — The Creel-Shropshire Chapter No. 34 of the Disabled American Veterans, meeting in regular session for the installation of new officers, has voted unanimously to forward a letter of protest to Gov. Beauford Jester concerning his recent remark that it was "un-Texan" for this state's veterans to want a bonus.

The local chapter voted for the record that it "deplored" the action of the state's chief executive, and planned to suggest in the letter that a poll of all the state's ex-GI's be taken in order to determine their feelings toward the state bonus question. A resolution was adopted by the Creel-Shropshire chapter some time ago which asked all other state veterans' organizations to join them in a move for a bonus payment.

R. L. Price, retiring commander of the chapter, presided at the installation of officers. The new commander is Ovis C. Richardson, and other officers include Draper L. Brown, senior vice-commander; Charlie M. Stringer, junior vice-commander; R. L. Price, adjutant and service officer; Mally S. Duncan, chaplain; James D. Thompson, officer of day! Herbert Aven, sergeant-at-arms; and Dr. L. E. Standifer, medical advisor.

Hospital Care For Children Is Urged

Hospital care for Lubbock's low income groups was suggested by Capt. Vincel Larsen, local Salvation Army commander, as one of the city's greatest needs when he addressed a semi-annual luncheon meeting of Lubbock Social Welfare association Monday noon in the Hilton Chimayo room.

Pointing out that certain welfare organizations are asked to aid in sick care for county cases, Capt. Larsen said he believes the county should assume responsibility for county cases. Paying tribute to the charity work done by individual doctors in Lubbock, the speaker said present facilities afforded by Lubbock's hospitals are inadequate to care for those who are financially unable to pay for treatment.

Rev. William F. Blakeslee, program chairman, introduced the speaker.

John W. Wilson, presiding for the first time, announced the following committee chairmen: Mrs. Bill Roberts, cooperative projects and research; Mrs. J. V. Beauchamp, education; Mrs. Rosa Settle, legislation; Mrs. L. B. Holley, training and standards; Elliott W. Adams and Miss Virginia Robertson, membership; Robert J. Allen, membership.

An amendment was passed to place the past president on the executive board.

Senate Passes Bill To Award Unknown Soldier High Honors

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—The Senate today passed and sent to the House a bill authorizing the President to award the Congressional Medal of Honor to America's unknown soldier of World War II, who will be buried in Arlington cemetery. A similiar award was made to the unknown soldier of World War I.

Another bill passed and sent to the House would:

Provide for the care and treatment of reserves of the Army and Air Force who might be injured or contract disease during training periods prior to the official termination of World War II.

Hearing On Anti-Segregation Suit To Be Conducted Today

AUSTIN, Jan. 26 (AP)—Federal Judge Ben H. Rice tomorrow will consider the state's motion to dismiss members of the State Board of Education as parties to an anti-segregation suit in U. S. district court by Latin Americans.

Four central Texas school districts and the board of education were named in the suit filed by 22 pupils of Latin American descent, charging they were banned from entering Anglo American schools.

Four school districts in Travis, Bastrop and Caldwell counties were named defendants in the suit brought by Gus C. Garcia, attorney of San Antonio.

Assistant Attorney General Joe Greenhill informed the court he has the petition calling for dismissal of the members of the board of education ready for presentation.

Mrs. Bates died Saturday after an illness lasting two weeks. She lived on the same farm in Nacogdoches county for 80 years. Survivors include nine children, four of whom reside in Houston. They are W. B. Bates, attorney, Hubert G. Bates, independent oilman, B. G. Bates of Anderson, Clayton & Co., and Stanford C. Bates of the Maintenance Construction Co.

Session On Finances For Schools Talked

AUSTIN, Jan 26 (AP)— Dr. L. A. Woods, State school superintendent, said today a special session of the legislature may be needed to relieve a developing financial crisis for rural aid schools.

Woods said it should be held before the start of the next fiscal year, Sept. 1.

He predicted there would be a shortage of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 in "equalization aid" schools before the end of the fiscal year. The state has the money, he explained, but the 50th legislature's appropriation was not enough to meet the heavy drain brought on by raising teachers' salaries.

The situation was first brought to public attention several weeks ago at the mid-winter conference of school administrators and teacher trainers here.

Nationally Known Business Leader Claimed At Houston

HOUSTON, Jan. 26 (U.P.)—Funeral services for Beverly Dabney Harris, nationally prominent business leader and former president of the Second National bank, will be held in Houston tomorrow afternoon.

The 75-year-old banker who made a lowly start as a $3 a week office boy died at 4:40 a. m. yesterday in his suite in the Rice hotel.

Railroad Commissioners Will Attend Hearing At Amarillo

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan 26 (AP)—Railroad Commissioners William J. Murray and Ernest O. Thompson left today for Amarillo to attend a hearing on whether or not gas proration should be instituted in the Panhandle field.

They were accompanied by Jack Baumel, the commission's chief petroleum engineer.

The hearing will be held Wednesday. Gas proration has not been in effect in the Panhandle field.

Mr. Rosenthal had been ill about two months. He had been in the hospital the last time since Saturday.

He is survived by his wife; one son, Joseph; one daughter, Joyce; his mother, Mrs. Esther Rosenthal of St. Louis; one brother, Harold of St. Louis, and one sister, Mrs. Lenore Katz of St. Louis.

Pallbearers were George E. Benson, Louis Freed, Jackie Sullivan, H. J. Jarett, John King, G. V. Pardue, W. D. Girand and Chas. A Guy.

Active In City

Mr. Rosenthal was born April 9, 1904 in St. Louis. He lived in St. Louis until he moved to Lubbock in 1932. He operated the Hub Clothiers from the time he moved here until his death.

He was a 32nd degree Mason, Shriner, and member of St. Louis Scottish Rite club, chairman of the Lubbock Housing authority at time of his death, former member of the Board of City Development and had served twice as president of Congregation Shaareth Israel.

He helped organize a semi-professional baseball club in 1936, and the West Texas-New Mexico league in 1938. Different Lubbock residents were interested in and helped in the semi-professional and later professional team, which became inactive during war years. In 1945, Mr. Rosenthal built the present Hubber baseball park as a solitary venture and games of the 1946 and 1947 season were played in that park. He was president and owner of the club. Under his guidance, the Hubbers have won three league flags since 1938.

Men from this area may enlist for an initial assignment to Goodfellow field at San Angelo, the U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force recruiting office here announced Monday.

Openings at Goodfellow field are available only to former air force veterans who possess certain air force MOS numbers which are needed there, it was stipulated.

Former air force veterans interested may contact the Army and Air Force recruiting station, room 203 federal building, for further information.

Announcement also was made Monday that individuals who were taking aviation cadet training and were dropped from the training at end of the war now may be reinstated for further training.

The opportunity does not apply, however, to those individuals dropped because of flying inefficiency or reasons other than end of the war.

Any eligible person wishing reinstatement in the aviation cadet program may write to the commanding general, 10th air force, Brooks field, San Antonio, or the commanding officer, Randolph field, Texas.

Airport Operators Protest Plan To Stop GI Training

FORT WORTH, Jan. 26 (U.P.) — Southwestern fixed-base aviation operators opened their annual convention here today on a note of protest against the proposed elimination of the GI flight training program.

The so-called "small men" of the aviation business were to hear a report from a group that met in pre-convention session yesterday to adopt a policy toward President Truman's proposal to abandon the GI program.

James W. Batchelor, Washington, general counsel of the United Pilots and Mechanics association, said elimination of the program would be a "severe blow" to fixed-base operators.

His opinion was echoed by Keith Kahle of Oklahoma City, operator of a GI flying school. Kahle added, however, that "too many of us out in the grass roots are opposed to the idea. They can't ignore us."

The regional conference, called by the Civil Aeronautics administration, has been termed an "annual gripe session" for the non-scheduled operators.

Junior High Singers Entertain At Methodist Club Meeting

The Methodist Men's club heard selections by the combined choirs of O. L. Slaton Junior High school, including the Songsters and Gleesters, under direction of Miss Imogene Webster, Monday at the club luncheon in Hotel Lubbock.

Gerre Hancock was at the piano, and Bill Rogan was narrator, announcing numbers with a brief explanation of the song and the writer. Solo parts were sung by Carolyn Schaefer and Billy Stephenson.

After opening with "A Tribute to Song," the choir sang Stephen Foster's "Some Folks Do," the popular "Without a Song," Brahm's "Lullaby;" two spirituals, "Every Time I Feel the Spirit" and "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord;" the ever-popular "Battle Hmyn of the Republic;" A Russian air "The Vesper Hymn," and closed with "Now the Day is Over."

Ruel Martin was program chairman. Club President Clarence Whiteside was in the chair, with invocation by Ralph Brock.

How Much Did You Make Last Year?

That's not an easy question. Profit can't be determined by arithmetic — but only by accounting. And accounting requires informed and expert judgment. It means sorting and arranging all the complex transactions of business, and presenting them in an orderly manner to show the results fairly.

But even experts can honestly disagree on the amount of profit for a year. Optimism or conservatism can influence their judgment.

That's why the Certified Public Accountant was born. As an independent, professional auditor, he brings to the job a disinterested judgment, and a sense of responsibility to everyone who may rely on the opinion he attaches to financial statements.

Golden Gloves Boxers Set For Regional Meet

Boxers In Two Clubs Reaching Peak, To Start Tapering Off This Week

At least three score young South Plains and Lubbock fighters this week will start tapering off a long training grind, and make ready for entry in the regional Golden Gloves tournament opening here next Tuesday and continuing through Friday.

One defending champion, Howard Kirkpatrick, former Petersburg boy now of Plainview, Monday decided finally against entering the regional.

Meantime young Golden Gloves fighters were pushing the leather with gusto at two local training centers, one at Sled Allen's arena, the other at Bert Kahn's Health club.

In Good Condition

At both centers trainers reported the fighters in excellent condition, and eagerly awaiting call to battle action.

Some forecast a team championship for the area in Fort Worth at the state tournament this year

Such fighters as Gene James, J. D. Kirkpatrick, Bill Henderson, Lonnie Balch, Dwayne Vaughn, Randall Hinkle, Pete Jenkins, Charles Neff, Ralph White, Bill Brackeen, and others who may make themselves well known here as fighters, were down to fighting trim and weight, and were awaiting orders from their trainers to take it easy.

In both training centers the training schedule continued on heavy duty basis, including "road work," body and muscle coordinating and conditioning and some fast peppery rounds in the ring.

"They's looking good."

That was the comment from the arena camp from both Neff and White. Bert Kahn and O. C. Foster said the same of their fighters.

The rivalry which developed between the two groups was regarded as certain to put a lot of punch into the bouts in the regional next week.

All South Plains Team

"When it's over here they'll go to Fort Worth as an All South Plains teams not representing anybody's club," was the way one of them put it.

There's sure to be plenty of battle action when such fighters as Balch and Hinkle and Henderson and Vaughn tangle. All are looking for plenty of fighting out of the opponents they draw.

J. D. Kirkpatrick probably is in better condition than at any time in his fighting career. The same can be said of James and Henderson and Balch and the others.

50 Officially Enter Golden Gloves Meet

Needed—some good flyweights!

Fifty of the top leather-slingers of the South Plains have entered the 12th annual regional Golden Gloves tourney Feb. 2-5 at Texas Tech gymnasium, but all of the entries are for the seven heavier divisions. Twenty-four sluggers are slated for the championship bracket, with the other 26 hopefuls in the novice division.

Any boy 16 years of age or older is eligible to participate in the Golden Gloves tourney if he can qualify under amateur regulations, with an all-expense trip to Fort Worth as the top prize in the championship division. Weight limit for the flyweight classification is 112 pounds. (One extra pound is generally allowed at the weigh-in.)

Plenty of competition is assured in most of the weight classes, however, with eight boxers already pointing for the welter crown in the open division and with six sluggers scheduled for the heavyweight bouts.

Marcel Cerdan Knocks Out Manca In Second Round Of Paris Bout

PARIS, Jan 26 (AP)—Marcel Cerdan of France, European middleweight champion, knocked out Giovanni Manca, Italian champion, in the second round tonight with a hard right to the jaw.

BEARKATS BEAT BOBCATS

HUNTSVILLE, Jan 26 (AP)—Sparked by Forward Murray Mitchell, who racked up 23 points, the Sam Houston Bearkats tonight defeated the Southwest Texas Bobcats 66-58 in a Lone Star conference game.

SPORTS Spotlight By Bob Cone

A sharp, although very friendly, rivalry has developed among Golden Gloves fighters in training here.

They are operating under the colors of two camps, and each is determined to win more bouts at the regional tournament here than the other.

Each group, of course, would like to see all the young fighters go to Fort Worth and the state tourney, but there'll have to be some eliminations.

The two camps of fighters are at Bert Kahn's club and at Sled Allen's arena . . . Charles Neff and Ralph White, the Petersburg fighters, have taken all those other boys in training at the arena under "their wings," so to speak, and are really getting them into the pink of condition.

They're saying that Dwayne Vaughn, the featherweight champ here in 1945, is looking very impressive . . . He's a rugged boy with a terrific punch and a numbing one-two follow up . . . All of which means that he'll be tangling with Bill Henderson at the regional here . . . And that should be a slam bang fight . . .

* * *

Still another prospective fight would feature Lonnie Balch, the Lubbock middleweight, and Rev. Randall Hinkle, Tahoka boy . . . They both have a boyish smile on their faces, until they crawl into a ring, and then, viciousness begin expressing itself . . . Both have impressive records in the ring . . .

John Kirkpatrick, brother to J. D., the light heavy, won't be back to defend his Golden Gloves crown which he won here last year . . .

Lester York, 17-year-old Lubbock high student, and quite a promising young fighter, finally made up his mind Monday to enter as a novice rather than in the open division . . . Lester is young, and he feels that he should put off, until next year, at least, launching his campaign for a trip to Fort Worth . . . Leroy Malouf, another local novice, is another who is entering . . . He is a cousin to Junior Malouf, Post's basketball star . . .

* * *

Before leaving the subject we should again commend Charles Neff and Ralph White for the work they're doing with, and for, the Golden Gloves boys at the arena . . . Neff and White, too, are Gloves fighters, getting themselves in condition for the tourney . . . They don't have to train the others, you know . . . They've gone at it with as much enthusiasm as if they were hired for the job . . . All these Petersburg boys are fighters, and love to work with fighters . . . . J. D. Kirkpatrick is another who'll help a young fighter anytime . . .

Bob Marquis, Lubbock boy who played for Lufkin in the Lone Star league in 1947, will be featured soon in "Pic" magazine as one of the outstanding minor league players of 1947. Young Marquis, who is to report to the Beaumont Exporters at Cuero for spring training, hit .350; led the league in stolen bases (55); led the league in total runs scored (142) and was second in the league in total base hits (208). He played first base and left field and ended the season with a .985 fielding average.

1-AA Cage Drive Now Headed For Crucial Stretch

District 1-AA's torrid basketball race reaches the halfway mark this week and there is a strong possibility that the eventual winner will be determined by four battles of the top quintets.

Pampa's undefeated Harvesters, rated as the top five of West Texas as a result of a 19 game winning skein, face their toughest test of the season Tuesday night against the Plainview Bulldogs and Friday night against the Amarillo Sandies. The Sandies are undefeated in conference play and loom as the strongest challenger to the Pampa bid for the crown.

"Make-Or-Break"

It's a "make or break" schedule that faces the Lubbock Westerners this week. The Black and Gold schoolboys have already lost two circuit tilts—to Pampa and Amarillo—and another defeat would just about put them out of a contending position. Friday night the Westerners battle Plainview here, then invade Amarillo Saturday to tangle with the Golden Sandstorm.

If the Westerners can chalk up wins over Plainview and Amarillo—and that is hardly probable—the Lubbock cagers would have an excellent opportunity to complete the season in the first place slot.

The district standings:

Team—	Won	Lost
Pampa	3	0
Amarillo	4	0
Plainview	2	1
Lubbock	2	2
Brownfield	0	4
Borger	0	4

Shallowater Ready For Cage Tourney

SHALLOWATER, Jan. 26 (Special)—Eight independent basketball teams will collide in the Shallowater Independent Basketball tournament starting here Wednesday evening, with the Plains Gassers, composed entirely of local players, serving as the host team.

Teams from Lubbock will dominate the other quints, not less than three Hub City squads invited to enter the tourney. Early favorites to win the court war were the strong Hoyt Furniture five of Lubbock.

Two games will be played Wednesday night and two more contests will follow on Thursday. Winning cagers will rest until Saturday night, when semi-final and final round games will be run off.

The pairings in the tournament are as follows: Wednesday night at 7 p.m., Lindsey Real Estaters of Lubbock versus Hoyt Furniture, and at 8 p. m., Abernathy Independents versus Plains Gassers. Thursday night at 7, Leftwich Lumberjacks of Lubbock versus Anton American Legion, and at 8 p. m., Ropesville Independents versus Whitharral Independents.

Louise Suggs Has Four Under Par Lead In Miami Tourney

Three strokes behind was Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta with a 38-37—75.

Monied Mexican Is Poised To Deal

Pasquel Cash Ready To Buy Ball Players

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP)—Hoist the storm warnings and tighten up the reserve clause. Jorge Pasquel, the monied Mexican magnate, wants more baseball players. Price is no object.

That's what the man said today when interviewed in his thickly-carpeted hotel suite. Admittedly the power behind the throne in the hot tamale circuit, Jorge was most emphatic.

"Not a leaf or a twig falls from a tree in Mexico, but Jorge Pasquel knows about it," he said, presumably referring to baseball only.

His Head Man

"I thought you no longer were the head man in Mexican baseball," remarked a reporter who had read that one Alejandro Aguilar Reyes had been named Mexican commissioner.

"Jorge Pasquel is the head man," he replied, "when Pasquel runs a business, he runs it.

"Last year, I did not have much time for baseball. I was busy buying a newspaper. Now I am going to get some players. I will organize the league in the spring. Then the commissioner will run it. This year we will have eight teams, not six like last year when he lost a million pesos ($250,000). Too many rainy nights."

Pasquel is a Hollywood version of a monied Mexican. Long, slanting sideburns and a clipped mustache are the most striking features of this visitor who wears an expensive looking ring, pearl tie pin and jeweled cuff links. His companion on the current trip is Miguel Aleman, jr., son of the Mexican president.

Recent peace talks between Commissioner Reyes and Walter Mulbry, secretary to Commissioner A. B. Chandler were dismissed by Jorge as inconsequential.

"If Chandler wants to do anything" he said, his eyes snapping to attention, "he must talk to me, personally. Nothing can be done by a tourist."

Calls It Monopoly

Pasquel picked up a newspaper. The lines identifying those pictured on the back page referred to him as the head of the outlaw Mexican league.

"Outlaw" he sizzled, "who says outlaw? What international board decides that? Gah, outlaw. I say your baseball is a monopoly. How about the people in California. They try to get into your big leagues and you say no. Why? Are they outlaws, too?"

"Next week I go to Cuba. There I will sign players. And I will get all the good players, too. I have to talk with Max Lanier, Freddy Martin, Sal Maglie and the others. I don't care what they are, American, Cuban, Mexican. If they want to play baseball, and not just have a good time, I will pay them."

"In 1945 they said we'd last two months. Well we're still going and we expect to continue, outlaw! Outlaw! How can they call us that?"

Wilkinson Going Into Huddle On Coaching Job With Navy

Bobby Makes It 25 Then Misses Toss

SUNDOWN, Jan. 26 (Special)—Doug Ethridge's 20 point individual tally paced the Sundown cagers to a surprising 48-33 triumph over the Levelland Lobos here tonight in a non-conference clash.

Bobby Hart, Levelland's ace shotmaker, was held to six points during the tussle but sank two free throws to run his total to 25 then missed one to break his string.

In the "B" game Sundown, led by Carl McCollum, nosed out the visitors 20-18.

Women Keglers Lose In Meet

Lubbock women bowlers had a long, cold ride over the week end and, when they returned from Amarillo Sunday night, had little to show for their efforts, despite trying their best.

Artie Galloway, squad captain, reported that the Amarillo alleys literally threw the bowlers, the approaches to the lanes being so highly waxed that kegler after kegler fell down. As a result, high average bowlers suffered low scores and none of the Lubbock women, either individually or in team, finished in the running.

Plamor Team First

The Plamor Lanes' team entry had the best score of the Lubbock teams, rolling 2347. Other local scores, in order, were Benton Oil Company, 2316; Southwestern Public Service, 2276; and Home Lumber and Supply Company, 2243.

In the Second Annual Panhandle Sweepstakes Singles, Flo Christensen topped Lubbock bowlers with an 868 for five games, while the tournament high at the time was 933. Thirteen Lubbock bowlers entered the singles.

Alene Hilton led the Lubbock contingent for the three-game singles with a 509, while the tournament high was 574.

Buckner, Hilton Lead

Maxine Buckner, with a 405, and Alene Hilton, with a 465, rolled a doubles score of 880 to lead all local keglers in this event, but tournament tops was 962.

The women, all of whom bowl regularly on local women's teams, probably will go to the Ragtime Team Matches in San Angelo the first two weeks in March. They also are planning to enter the National Bowling championship in Dallas in April.

Tahoka-Eagles Cage Game Holds Limelight

Improved Muleshoe Five Will Test Levelland Lobos In Game Tonight

TAHOKA, Jan. 26 (Special)—The two District 4-A south zone basketball teams, which in the past two weeks have shown the greatest improvement get together in an important cage game here tonight which could completely untangle the zone race.

Currently Tahoka High's Bulldogs and the Sundown five are leading the District 4-A south zone race. The O'Donnell High Eagles, which last week shaded the Abernathy High Antelopes, 34-32, to knock them out of a three-way tie with Tahoka and Sundown, will meet the Bulldogs in Tahoka tonight.

Tubb Team Arrives

Tahoka's Coach "Jake" Jacobs was one of the men who earlier in the season predicted that O'Donnell would develop into a south zone power. It seems now that Coach Gano Tubb, one of the best cage coaches in the South Plains, has at last perfected a clicking offense. The Eagles work apparently on the theory that the more games you play the bettter you get. They trimmed Denver City Saturday night with little difficulty.

This Tahoka-O'Donnell game will be one of the several South Plains Class A games to watch.

Levelland High's Lobos, running second to Sudan in the north zone, play Muleshoe, and should win the ball game. Muleshoe, however, only last week rose in an expression of power to trounce Littlefield, a team which had been coming along fast.

Abernathy and Post tangle at Abernathy, and one of those encounters is always interesting. They're sharp rivals and there's always much interest in their collisions.

Littlefield goes against Springlake, and that game appears a toss up. Springlake of late has been making it hard on all comers, and especially did Levelland have trouble beating the Springlake five, 33-30.

Three games are on tap in District 3-A with Floydada going against Paducah; Matador playing Crosbyton and Ralls meeting Spur. Only last week Spur handed the then-unbeaten Floydada five its first conference defeat.

Pro Amateur Golf Tournament At Big Spring Is Postponed

A pro-amateur golf tournament, originally scheduled for Tuesday at Big Spring, has been postponed, Herb Schroeder of the West Texas Pro-Amateur association was advised today.

Weather was given as cause of the tourney's postponement, Morgan Hampton of Abilene, tourney chairman, advised Schroeder by telegram.

No new date was announced, Schroeder said.

Kentucky In Peril Of Losing Crown

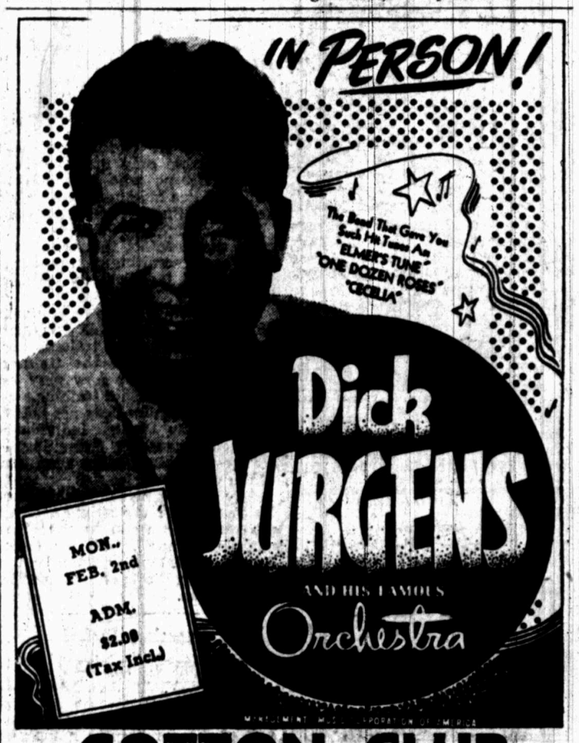

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (U.P.)—The sudden possibility that Kentucky might not even win the Southeastern conference championship let alone a national title rocked the basketball world today which otherwise is in a lull brought on by mid-year examinations.

But today Tulane, generally a basketball nobody, produced a record virutally equal to that of Adolph Rupp's "Kaintucks."

Big Spring Meet On Softball Loop Plans Scheduled

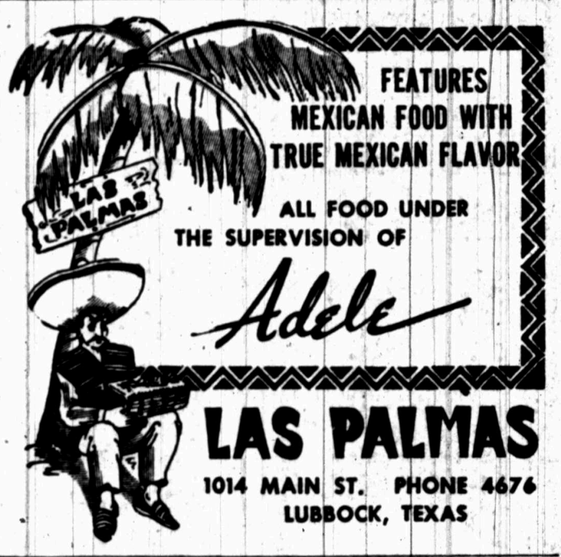

Organization meeting and election of officers for a Texas Amateur Softball league will be conducted Sunday, Feb. 8, at the Settles hotel in Big Spring, officials announced yesterday following a weekend meeting of 19 representatives of West Texas cities.

Ralph Bumpass of Lubbock, temporary chairman of the organization, reported that the objective of the proposed Softball league would be to bring to the fans of this area "some of the fastest and finest softball in the Southwest and to sponsor the largest official amateur softball league in the world." Eligibility rules of the new loop will not conflict with A. S. A. or T. A. A. F. regulations, Bumpass said.

Taft And Stassen Drawing Lines For Battle Over GOP Delegates

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP) — The decision of Harold E. Stassen to take on Senator Robert A. Taft in the Ohioan's home state in the May 4 primary to choose national convention delegates found Taft supporters ready today to force an even earlier test of sentiment for the Republican presidential nomination.

They disclosed plans to make an all-out race in Taft's behalf in the April 13 Nebraska free-for-all primary. That test comes three weeks ahead of the Ohio balloting which Stassen announced he will enter.

Taft Ready For Test

Taft himself was silent on the Nebraska development, but he left no doubt that he welcomes the competition on his own grounds where, he insists, Stassen "has no chance for success."

The former Minnesota governor said in his week end announcement that he has a high regard for Taft and would have preferred the test to come in some other state.

"But," Stassen added, "the differences between us on both foreign and domestic policy represent the major issues within the Republican party and before the country. It is important that the people have an opportunity to express their views upon these policies prior to the national convention next June."

In saying that Ohio appears to afford the only opportunity for such a test, Stassen apparently had in mind that just about everybody who amounts to anything in the GOP presidential contest is likely to find his name on the Nebraska preferential ballot.

This is the result of a campaign to get all of the announced aspirants, as well as such potenial dark horses as Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, before the people.

$1,500 Is Donated In March Of Dimes Campaign In City

Approximately $1,500 had been given in the March of Dimes campaign to aid infantile paralysis sufferers, Marion Key and Waggoner Carr, co-chairmen of the campaign, announced Monday.

The Wishing Well had been placed near Bowen's Drug store on Broadway, with Exchange and Optimist club members in charge there Monday. Junior Chamber of Commerce members will be at the well today and Lions club members on Wednesday. Donations may be placed in the well.

Slaton Lions club is conducting the March of Dimes campaign at Slaton.

A President's ball will be conducted Friday night at the Cotton club, with Joe Terrell's orchestra playing. The dance will open at 9 o'clock. Ticket price will be $1 plus 20 cents tax.

Containers for March of Dimes contributions will be passed in civic club meetings this week.

The co-chairmen were pleased with response, but hoped much more would be given before the campaign closes Saturday. The Wishing Well will remain at its present location on Broadway through Saturday.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has a pledge that no infantile paraylsis patient shall go without adequate and proper medical care and the Lubbock chapter has always tried to live up to that pledge, chapter representatives stated.

Three Men Plead Guilty In New Orleans Bank Robbery

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 26 (AP)—Three men pleaded guilty here today to armed robbery charges in connection with the Jan. 9 robbery of the mid-city branch of the Hibernia National bank, when $114,600 was taken.

The pleas were filed before Judge Fred W. Oser by Thomas Ricketts, 21; his uncle, George W. Ricketts, 23; and John Alvin Hasselback, 23-year-old, all of New Orleans.

At their arraignment the trio expressed their readiness to accept the punishment.

"Do you know what you are doing?" Judge Oser asked each man in turn. And each replied with a firm "yes."

The three men were among a group of five which allegedly took part in the robbery. With the arrest of the three men here and a fourth in Chicago, a large part of the loot was recovered.

Held in jail is James F. Smith, 24, who pleaded guilty to a federal charge of bank robbery last week and was ordered held for removal to New Orleans.

"IKE" WITHDRAWS

A Two-Sided Affair

ACTION of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in removing himself, as far as he is able, from the Presidential picture is laudable from the general's personal standpoint. In taking the step, the popular wartime Army chief showed great moral courage and proved again, if more proof were needed, that he has both profound respect and love for his country.

The general's action was wonderful, too, from the selfish standpoint of numerous leaders of the Republican party, some of whom seek the GOP Presidential nomination for themselves; and others of whom likely can "throw more weight" in party and national circles if someone other than General Eisenhower becomes Presidential nominee, or President.

On the other hand, the general's action might not be so good for the rank and file of his fellow citizens, many of whom have told pollsters "I Like 'Ike'!" The general's popularity among the "little fellows" in the Republican camp; among independents in all parts of the country, and even among some Democrats, has been amazing. Straw ballots have shown him to be the most popular of all individuals — Republican and Democratic—whose names have been connected with the White House, including, even, its present occupant, Mr. Truman.

While we agree with the general that in most instances it is not wise to mix the military with the civilian life of our country, in the case of General Eisenhower that very probably is not and never would be the case. Albeit a great soldier and leader of fighting men, the general also is a diplomat and an outstanding American among his fellow countrymen in and out of uniform. In removing himself from consideration for the Presidency he has acted unselfishly and patriotically—but he also has removed from the 1948 political scene the man who many Americans would prefer as President.

Nickel "Java"

ANYONE who studies the matter will brand as plain hokum the claim by an Austin "restaurant consultant" that eating places now lose money when they serve coffee at 5 cents a cup. The consultant, George L. Wenzel, said they must get 6½ cents to break even.

In analyzing Wenzel's figures a necessary question is: How many cups are obtained from a pound of coffee? The number, of course, varies. But, as one example, the Harvey chain requires 40 to 45 cups—and Harvey House coffee is pretty good. The figure won't miss the average very far both for eating places and in homes. At 5 cents a cup, that means $2 to $2.25.

What does coffee cost? Excellent standard brands retail for around 50 cents a pound. Most eating places don't pay that much. Most of them use cheaper grades at reductions in price because of quantity purchases.

The eating place, of course, is expected to provide cream, sugar and service. But it will be difficult to persuade any logical person that these items will amount to $1.50 or more per pound of coffee.

True, no restaurant is going to get rich from coffee sales, alone. But nothing is a better builder of good will, or draws more trade, than good coffee.

Wenzel's claims to the contrary, coffee at 5 cents will pay a slim profit in most places. If those places raise prices, it won't be because they are losing money. It will be because they are unable to resist the temptation to squeeze out all the profit the traffic will bear.

Murder At My House

By Rene Ryerson Mart
Distributed By NEA Service, Inc.

(THE STORY: It all started after I had been in Hollywood three months, writing the movie script for one of my own mystery books—and trying to get over Oscar Craig. I was having dinner with attractive Jeff Haverson, my director, and talking over our picture. Jeff said that young Jimmy Peters was to play the detective and that Avis Vaughn, our glamor star, had insisted on Art Cleves playing the male lead. I was curious to know why Avis, almost a has-been, could get her own way about this.)

III

JEFF squirmed a little bit, took out his cigarettes and offered me one and lit another for himself before he answered. I know now that he must have considered telling me the truth about Avis Vaughn then and there. But he didn't.

Instead he said evasively, "It will work out all right. Unless . . ." His voice trailed off in thought.

"Unless what?" I prompted.

"Unless there is trouble between Peters and Cleves. You see, the kid has a crush on Avis, too."

"A nice set-up," I said dryly.

Jeff smiled crookedly.

After a little he went on to say that the part of the secretary to the murdered man was to be played by Madge Narney, one of the studio's most promising young starlets. I already knew that capable Helen Hinton had been cast as the old maid who eventually solves the mystery and that John Larramie, another dependable old-timer, was assigned to the only other important role outside the leads. I was flattered. It all stacked up to a darned good cast for my first play.

There was, however, one casting makeshift that didn't please Jeff. One of the minor bits of business in the script revolved around the fact that the suspect wife, played by Avis Vaughn, had a younger sister who looked so much like her that in a few scenes the audience wasn't supposed to know which character they were seeing on the screen. It was just one of those routine tricks mystery writers employ to throw amateur sleuths off the track.

What Jeff didn't like about it was that it called for Avis Vaughn to do a double role and he felt that double roles had been sadly overdone in recent films. He disliked the idea so much that he had tried to find a second actress to play the part of the sister. Failing, however, to find one who photographed enough like Avis to pass for her double, he had in the end assigned both roles to Avis.

He griped a little more about this that night. Said that it was the one weak point in an otherwise tight plot and that it might have been better to throw that bit of business out entirely.

* * *

THERE'S an unwritten law in Hollywood that everybody connected with a picture goes to bed early while it's in production, so Jeff drove me directly home after we'd eaten. He took the shortest way back, Cahuenga Boulevard through the pass and then Highland Avenue, but even at that it's quite a drive from Burbank to Hollywood and it was 10 o'clock by the time he turned off Sunset Boulevard and followed the steep canyon road to my place. He turned into the driveway and stopped the car and came around to help me out.

"Want me to go in with you?"

"No, I'll be all right."

"I'll see you in the morning, then."

"Right."

He backed the car out onto the road and started back down the hill.

I fished around in my handbag for my key and walked over to the kitchen door which opens right onto the drive and is more convenient than climbing the steps to the living room entrance above. I had left lights on in the house and one outside over the kitchen door, so I was not nervous about going in alone.

While I was fumbling with the lock I heard a "meow" from somewhere back of me and remembered that I had forgotten to put Tom inside the house, as I usually did when I went away.

"Here, kitty, kitty, kitty," I called.

But the big Persian didn't come running to rub himself affectionately against my legs. He meowed again and there was something wrong with it.

* * *

I walked over to a flower bed that edged the drive on the farther side and from where the sound seemed to come and peered down. After a moment my eyes adjusted themselves to the gloom and I saw the cat. I gave a cry and dropped to my knees and tried to examine him. His head was the only part of his body where the beautiful yellow fur wasn't clotted with blood. He let me touch his head gently and he made a pathetic little motion of trying to draw himself closer to me by using his front paws. I thought from the way he moved that his back must be broken. That and the blood made me a little sick. I didn't know then how much gore I'd see in the next twenty-four hours.

There seemed at the moment

Looking At Life -- By Erich Brandeis

AS YOU who have read this column for some time know, my opinion of psychoanalysis and psychoanalysts is not very high.

There is something to this new so-called science, of course, and as one of my readers informed me the other day, it isn't so new at that.

But psychoanalysis has become so much of a fad that it has attracted innumerable fakers and in this, as in any other field, one faker can undo the benefits of a dozen honest people.

BRANDEIS

I simply don't believe that you can solve your problems by going to some guy with whiskers, paying him fifty dollars or whatever he charges, lying down on a couch and starting to talk about yourself.

Instead of all these Freudian complexes and libidos and what-have-you, you can accomplish just as much with common sense as with psychoanalysis.

Now mind you, I am no doctor and no scientist.

And since my advice is free of charge, anyway, probably it doesn't amount to much, just as nothing else that you get free is worth much more than nothing.

* * *

I talked to one of the real, honest-to-goodness psychiatrists the other day and told him what I thought of psychoanalysis.

He agreed, at least, with my main points.

"But," he added," the trouble with most people is that they don't know themselves and haven't the nerve or the brains to try to know themselves.

"That's where the psychiatrist and psychoanalysis can do a lot of good, provided he is a proficient psychiatrist and knows what he is doing."

WELL, why can't you learn about yourself?

Why can't you be honest with yourself?

Why can't you discover your own weaknesses and try to conquer them?

Did George Washington go to a psychoanalyst when he was in that awful Valley Forge mess?

Is there any record of Abe Lincoln having needed a psychiatrist in all his many trials and tribulations?

Would you want to bet that Helen Keller never went to a psychiatrist but overcame her handicaps by sheer courage and beauty of character?

Here I just got my driveway shoveled out, and now it's starting to snow again.

By tomorrow there will be another hunk of that beautiful white stuff to clean up. I'll have blisters on my hands and cuss to Heaven above and wish that Spring were here.

But am I going to a psychiatrist, lie down on a couch and prattle about Spring and violets and blue skies?

No, sir. I am going to put on a pair of mittens, an old lumber jacket and my rubber boots.

Then I'm going out and shovel.

That's the way to get yourself out of a mess—shovel!

SOLONS SHOW CONCERN

Navy Forces 'Weak'

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—In his valedictory to the fleet, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz did not understate the facts when he said that the United States Navy could defend our shores at the present time, but that the arm which performed miracles only a few years ago would be woefully weak against a strong and determined enemy.

The salty seadog who carried the war almost to the imperial beaches of Tokyo was speaking with a relative tongue in his cheek. The only reason for our fleet's defensive value is the fact that no other nation has more than a plaything navy on the water at all.

TUCKER

With the strength of our military and air forces sagging, Congress has become deeply concerned over our first line of defense. There will be no cavilling at the Administration's request for several billions for this unit, and it is entirely probable that the original figure will be increased, especially for naval aviation.

SPELLBINDERS: Incidentally, Admiral Louis E. Denfield, the new Chief of Operations, ranks with Secretary Marshall, General "Ike" Eisenhower and General Omar Bradley, who will soon become Army Chief of Staff, in popularity and persuasiveness on Capitol Hill. Never, in the history of the armed forces, have they had such legislative spellbinders.

Lagging far behind is the United States Air Force for the simple reason that its chief, General Carl A. Spaatz, does not possess the indefinable charm that moves Congress to loosen the zippers on the public wallet. However, in view of World War II's demonstration of aviation's effectiveness in super-modern warfare, General Spaatz will probably get his money regardless of his lack of legislative "it."

SECRET: Admiral Nimitz was questioned off the record recently on the present strength of the navy now afloat and ready for action. For several weeks his information was classified as "top secret." But the writer has been given permission by the highest naval authorities to make public the postwar disposition of the fleet which crushed the Germans, the Japs and the Italians.

We now have in commission only two battleships (the Iowa and the Missouri), twenty carriers, mostly small ones, twenty cruisers (only six heavies), 135 destroyers and eighty submarines. They are split about 50-50 between the Atlantic and Pacific.

Laid up in moth balls, and requiring from one to eighteen months to prepare them for action or even a presidetial trip, are twenty one battlewagons, eighty-seven carriers, forty-three light and heavy cruisers, 218 destroyers and 126 submarines.

The naval air force consists of eighteen major types of planes no longer in production. All other types are experimental.

The fact is that we are almost as weak on the water as we were when the Japs destroyed the Pacific fleet at Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941.

SAILORS: The only reason we can feel smug is that no other possible enemy—or even a friendly power like England—has enough warships to exchange the time of day with us on the seven seas.

England's fleet is about one-third as powerful as ours. She approaches us only in light cruisers, submarines and destroyers, with a small complement of carriers.

Under the Attlee "austerity program," Britain cannot afford the coal, oil and manpower necessary to keep her warships in active service. Her gradual abandonment of her empire also enables her to reduce her naval lifelines.

With the German, French and Italian navies consisting of only a few river excursion vessels or none at all, the only contender for naval supremacy is Russia.

Stalin's fleet consists of castoff battleships (six), no known carriers, ten heavy cruisers and six light ones, sixty destroyers, and about 165 submarines. He is understood to be concentrating on the latter two classes, based on captured German blueprints.

Historically, however, the Muscovites have never been rated as good sailors in peace or war. They register slightly below the Japs.

RECORD: The Navy boys recently gave a left-handed salute to the top level authorities who, without a hearing or trial, condemned Admiral Husband E. Kimmel for his alleged delinquency at Pearl Harbor before the "day that will live long in infamy."

The unofficial clearance of Admiral Kimmel appears in an attractive, magazine-like brochure which the Navy has published under the title of "The Defense of Wake." It is one of a series which, rightly so, boasts of the Marines' record in the Pacific War.

It notes that in April, 1941, Admiral Kimmel, fully aware of the strategic situation at Wake, had become alarmed over its defenseless condition. In a message to Chief of Operations Stark, he urged its fortification and reinforcement with what, the Navy says, was a "prophetic study" that does "credit to his foresight and judgment."

ALERT: No preparations to bolster Wake were made until August of 1941, and they were too little and too late. Major James P. S. Devereux of Chevy Chase, Maryland, had only 449 men, twelve planes that were quickly knocked out, a few five and three-inch guns, no radar and nothing much of anything else when the Japs attacked. Yet he held out for fifteen days, throwing the enemy off stride in their attempt to secure their flanking and observation post.

The Navy does not explain, however, why Admiral Kimmel was so alert about such a Pacific pinpoint as Wake, and so negligent about such an essential citadel as Pearl Harbor. If Admiral Kimmel happens t. read this column, perhaps he would like to explain!

LOBBY: Samuel I Rosenman will lose his $40,000 a-year lobby job with the Associated Fur Coat and Trimming Manufacturers, Inc. after January 31. He will also have to part with the additional $10,000 he receives for annual expenses.

The fur makers apparently feel that they need "experts" in labor and legislative matters rather than the Roosevelt-Truman "ghost writer." The former New York jurist has held the post for two years, representing his client in protracted hearings on anti-trust charges filed by the Federal Trade Commission. He also took part in negotiations for decontrol of certain of the industry's products.

Inasmuch as the group has obtained representatives to handle the fight against an sel," politicos wonder if the severance dexci.: tax and plans to engage a "house counrives from the former Roosevelt aide's loss of influence around the White House. If so, he will not be the first to lose out for this reason.

With the Republicans controlling a Congress hostile to the President, the better lobby jobs are falling to non-New Dealers and anti-Truman people.

WITCH HUNTS ARE RECALLED

Writer Draws Unusual Parallel

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—A few days ago the newspapers told of the death of Kathleen Richards Cunningham.

As Kate Richards O'Hare she came briefly across the experience of newspapermen here in Washington what seems like a long time ago.

It was in the spring of 1922. She appeared at the White House one day, shepherding a group of children in what was called "the children's crusade." They were sons and daughters of men still in prison for violation of the all-inclusive espionage act of World War I which, in so many instances, made a mockery of free speech. These men were commonly called "political prisoners."

STOKES

Kate O'Hare was here trying to get them released. She had been in jail herself for 14 months in Jefferson City, Mo., as a political prisoner for a remark she made in her blunt way in a speech at Bowman, N. D., which was that "mothers who raised their sons to be cannon fodder were no better than farmers' brood sows."

Sought High Office

A Socialist — "Red Kate" she was called—she was a candidate for vice president on the Socialist party ticket in 1920 while still in jail. In jail, too—at Atlanta—during that 1920 campaign and election was the other half of the Socialist party ticket, Eugene V. Debs, who had offended with something he had said in a speech in Ohio.

The two prisoners got a million votes, which showed what lots of people thought of the major party tickets that year.

On that day in 1922 Kate O'Hare and her brood waited in the lobby of the White House executive offices while an attendant carried back her request for an interview with President Harding. The word came that the President would not see her, but it was suggested that she see Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty. (This was before the public knew all these goings-on that came out later in congressional investigations and the courts, that phantasmagoria known as "the scandals of the Harding administration.")

So the tall and commanding figure left the White House and set sail up the White House walk and across the park like a proud fourmaster. Behind her hopped and skipped the children. They turned in at the Justice department.

She and her charges were admitted to see Mr. Daugherty. While she stated her case to the attorney general the children sat fidgeting, their eyes roaming about the office, not particularly elegant, but seeming so to them. The attorney general was courteous, but offered no hope.

End Is Suggested

It didn't happen, but there came to one of the observers that day an appropriate end to that scene. When you call the Justice department on the telephone, the switchboard operator always answers in a crisp and convincing tone: "Justice." In the imaginary finale, just as the attorney general dismissed Kate O'Hare and the children and they passed through the door, the telephone rang and the girl replied (in a third act curtain line to a play never written):

"Justice!"

The atmosphere about here then was not exactly conducive to that elusive virtue. "Reds" were still being chased and sought in every nook and cranny, in continuation of the so-called "Red raids" instituted in the tail-end of the Woodrow Wilson administration by Democratic Attorney General A. Michell Palmer. Labor was being knifed from behind the "red" cloak. The Ku Klux Klan was burning crosses on hilltops and parading in white robes in the streets.

Postwar madness. Loyalty checks. Men still in jail for their beliefs.

Wait! There's something familiar about all this.

Maybe there's still a play to be written, with a change in the date, a slightly different cast of characters, new faces, but the same old locale, the capital of our Democracy.

Mexico Expects Trade Increase As Result Of War Preparation

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 26 (UP)—Prospects of a third world war in the near future today caused the Mexican Federation of Chambers of Commerce to predict "large-scale demand for (Mexican) goods."

"In view of the prospect of a new war," the federation said, the possibility of an economic depression appears farther off than ever.

"There is every reason to suppose that war preparations will have to be started very soon in the democracies, if they have not already started."

Wall Street

MARKET TRADING SLUGGISH

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP)—Individual stocks shifted to recovery ground today although market leaders slipped in the slowest proceedings for four months.

Gold mines bulged at the start, as they did in London following devaluation of the French franc, but most finished under the best. Scattered rails and special industrials did well. Irregular tendencies prevailed at the close with minus signs predominating. Transfers of 850,000 shares compared with 790,000 Friday and were a minimum for a full session since Sept. 26.

Wall Street was more confused than bearish regarding the European currency situation. Caution, however, was inspired by the thought that American trade might be affected if other countries emulated France.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .1 of a point at 62.4, a bottom since last June 10. It was the sixth straight losing Monday and the eighth consecutive session without an average advance. It was the narrowest market since that of Jan 2. Of 917 issues registering, 368 fell and 307 rose.

Among the day's climbers was Atlantic Gulf and West Indies, usually inactive, which added 5¾ points at 35. Ahead a point or so were Homestake Mining at 39½, McIntyre Porcupine 46¼, J. I. Case 42¾, U. S. Gypsum 95½, Union Pacific 154½ and Standard Oil (NJ) 71.

Modest improvement was shown for Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Great Northern Railway, and U. S. Rubber.

Allied Chemical yielded 1½ at 179½ and General Motors 1 at 53¼. Lesser casualties included U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Republic Steel, Chrysler, Goodrich, International Harvester, Boeing, United Aircraft, Consolidated Edison, North American, International Telephone, Anaconda, Kennecott, DuPont, General Electric, American Tobacco "B", Gulf Oil, Northern Pacific and Atlantic Coast Line. Johns-Manville and Eastman Kodak touched new 1947-48 lows and emerged off ¾ at 38⅝ and ⅝ at 40⅝, respectively.

Bonds were narrow.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP) — Cotton futures were reactionary in moderately active dealings today. Scattered liquidation was induced partly by the devaluation of the French franc. Most merchants saw no direct threat in the French devaluation since France was not considered a large producer of cotton goods and was believed to have little goods for export. Selling was also induced by fears that cotton distribution will fall because of the lagging export demand and the slow demand for cotton textiles.

Futures closed $1.35 to $2.05 a bale lower than the previous close.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 26 (AP) — Cotton futures declined here today under long liquidation and a small amount of hedge selling. Closing prices were barely steady, $1.65 to $2.20 a bale lower.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 26 (AP)—The average price of middling 15-16ths inch cotton today at ten designated southern spot markets was $1.90 a bale lower at 34.19 cents a pound; average for the past thirty market days 35.90. Middling ⅞ths inch average 32.19.

Colder Weather

lines in most parts of the state had been grounded.

Schools Still Open

The county schools were not affected yet, said Roy Boyd, county superintendent of schools. County school buses were scheduled to make their regular runs this morning.

The city school buses also had made no plans for discontinuing an runs, said R. W. Matthews, city superintendent of schools.

In Lubbock, motorists were taking the frigid temperatures as a grim warning.

Capt. Gilbert Newton, captain of the police shift which operates from 3 to 11 p. m. noted that not a single traffic accident was reported during that shift. That, he pointed out, is unusual—even in the best weather. A few minor accidents had been reported previously, but they were fewer than usual, records showed.

Wreck Near Plainview

At Plainview, a Colorado motorist, Albert Walder, about 35, was attempting to push his car to a start after it stalled two-fifths miles east of the city. Another motorist slid into him in the poor visibility conditions. Walder was taken to Plainview General hospital for treatment of a broken leg. The mishap occurred shortly before 9 p. m.

Conditions were reported about the same over most of the South Plains. Plainview reported light snow and freezing streets. Crosbyton, Post, Brownfield and otner towns south and southeast of Lubbock also reported blowing chalky snow and freezing rain and mist.

Muleshoe had blowing snow at midnight, as did Littlefield, Levelland and towns toward the New Mexico border.

Only one area in the state escaped. A teletype at the Lubbock weather station showed that the El Paso area had temperatures as high as 70, and only a few scattered clouds.

Solon Accuses HST

administration plans to spend the $2,300,000,000 of the total after the one-year period covered by the budget.

"If $6,800,000,000 is needed, the goods have got to be purchased and shipped quickly to be of any use," Bridges replied.

Aid Through UN Urged

(Mr. Truman's budget message, sent to Congress last Jan. 6, said it would be "reasonable" to appropriate $6,800,000,000 although only $4,500,000,000 might actually be spent up to July 1, 1949.)

Bridges said it was his "guess" that the President "doctored the budget up this way" in order to keep it under $40,000,000,000.

The budget, with $4,000,000,000 earmarked for European recovery in fiscal 1949, totals $39,700,000,000.

The United States produced nearly 45 per cent of all combat munitions produced by all participants in World War II in 1944.

FOLKLORIST COLLECTED WIDELY KNOWN SONGS

DALLAS, Jan 26 (AP)—John A. Lomax, Texas ballard hunter who died tonight at Greenville, Miss., is the man who discovered "Home on The Range," "Git Along Little Dogies" and other tunes for the American people.

On western ranges, in southern cotton fields, even in jails, Lomax found songs to record for posterity. In 1909 he began collecting the folk songs of America—the unwritten tunes that came from nowhere. The plaintive tunes of night-riding cowboys, the lonesome and gay ballads of mountaineers, the sad songs of prisoners in penitentiary cell blocks all were poured into Lomax' recording machines.

Started Collection Early

Lomax said he was not more than four when he first listened to cowboys yodeling to their cattle.

"I was sleeping in my father's cabin in Texas beside a branch of the old chisholm trail. A cowboy's song woke me and my heart leapt even then to the yodel of that cowboy trying to quiet, in the deep darkness and sifting rain, a trail-herd of restless cattle."

He began to write down the words of the songs even as a small boy. Later, when Harvard university granted him a scholarship, he started out to collect them.

"In 1909, I went to the cattlemen's convention at Fort Worth. One night I found myself in the back room of the White Elephant saloon."

There he tried to get the cowboys to sing for him, with only fair results. He had a small edison recording machine that used wax cylinders and a big horn instead of a microphone. Most of the cowboys refused to sing into it.

Visited Texas Prison

Next morning he went to the stockyards and met a blond ballad singer, twanging a guitar and holding out a tin cup. Lomax went home with the man, who turned out to be not blind at all, but a clear-eyed fake. But the man's wife knew a lot of songs. She sang for Lomax "Git Along Little Dogies." It was the first time he had ever heard it. She also sang him the first blues song he had ever heard—one about a factory girl who got splinters in her toes.

Back in 1934 Lomax went to the Texas state penitentiary farm at Sugarland, carrying his recording machine and a letter from the governor. There he met two negro singers—Clear Rock and Iron Head. Clear Rock sang a song he called "Dats Allright, Honey." Iron Head sang about a grey goose: "It took six weeks to find him after they shot him; it took six weeks to pick him; it took six weeks to cook him and even the hogs couldn't eat him, he was so tough."

ed youth, about 20, appeared last Monday night at Lytal's prescription pharmacy, at 1109 Ave. L., and forced R. P. Lytal and Arthur Burnett, about 19, a delivery boy employed at the pharmacy, to hand over at gunpoint approximately 400 grains of narcotics tablets, a quantity of powdered narcotics and $175 in money.

On the night of Dec. 26, the Prescription Lab, at 1629 College, also was robbed by narcotics hijackers.

"Give me your morphine and dilaudid," the most recent hijacker demanded.

After he had taken the narcotics and forced Lytal to open a safe and surrender its money, the young bandit walked out. His trail had not been discovered until today's message.

Tax Reduction Bill

divide their total income for tax purposes and thus come within lower tax brackets, Poage said the provision in the pending legislation is a "vote-getting device."

After commenting that the measure provides a "graduated tax cut put in only after "the Democrats revealed the inequity" of an across-the-board reduction, Poage added:

"The other substantial tax cut in the bill is a bold and brazen appeal to the voters of the higher income groups in politically doubtful states. The bill proposes to give reductions in non-community property states without asking those taxpayers to assume the obligations of community property."

DALLAS, Jan. 26 (AP) — James Patrick (Pat) Richards, 62-year-old former Dallas county deputy sheriff who once persuaded an angry mob not to lynch a prisoner, died today at his home here.

Good Crowd Attends Showing Of McMillan African Films

In spite of freezing weather and biting winds, approximately 900 persons were present at the Monday night showing of W. G. McMillan's African Adventure pictures.

Tonight and Wednesday night will be last chances for Lubbock audiences to see the all-color films, L. E. (Jack) Davis, Kiwanis president, reminded Monday night. All tickets are going at $1.50, with no reserved seats.

Good crowds attended showings Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

Kiwanis club's share of the proceeds will be used in boys' and girls' welfare work.

Mr. Clark, an invalid several years, had suffered a stroke last Wednesday. Death was due to a heart ailment.

Sanders Funeral home reported funeral services would be conducted in Hico at a time to be announced. Mr. Clark's son-in-law, Rev. David H. Templeton, pastor of First Presbyterian church at Post, will officiate.

Survivors include two daughters, Miss Clark and Mrs. Templeton; three sons, Finis of Dallas, Charles of Hillsboro and John Clark of Stephenville; nine grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Oil, Gas Shortage

there is "suffering at home."

Secretary Krug's report to Congress declared "it is clear now" that the nation cannot meet its future liquid fuel needs from petroleum alone. He asked authorizations to start a construction program of five to ten years' duration. The Interstate Commerce committee set no time or dollar goals.

Concerning the overseas shipment of gasoline and fuel oil, the committee said its inquiries have led to this conclusion:

"The situation is now so grave that exports should be stopped completely until it can be determined whether further exports are damaging to the economy of this country."

National Fuel Policy Urged

It recommended in addition that: 1. Further cuts be made in use of oil by government buildings; 2. No further foreign commitments—such as those under the Marshall plan—be made pending a study of potential imports and foreign reserves; and 3. Congress create a joint committee to write a national fuel policy.

Meanwhile the Senate War Investigating committee invited Secretary of Defense Forrestal to testify on Thursday why Arabian oil used by the Navy has cost the government what Chairman Brewster (R-Me) called an "excessive" price—$1.05 a barrel.

Krug predicted that if the worldwide trend toward mechanized industry continues, "the proportion of the world's oil available to the United States may diminish markedly."

Synthetic Fuel Plants Asked

Creation of a synthetic industry, Krug warned, is too big and too long a job to be undertaken "under emergency or war conditions." An industry producing 2,000,000 barrels daily—less than 40 percent of the country's consumption—would take $9,000,000,000 and some 16,000,000,00 tons of steel, he estimated.

Besides the work already done with shale and coal, Krug reported, and ingredients found in corn cobs can be converted into a type of sugar and then fermented into liquid fuel. Secretary of Agriculture Anderson has asked Congress for authority to employ a government war plant at Muscatine, Iowa, for the use of farm products in making synthetic oil.

Experience of the Bureau of Mines shale pilot plant at Rifle, Colo., Krug reported, indicates that oil can be produced commercially at $2 to $2.50 a barrel.

Money Devaluation

fund. The State department was silent as to the effect of the French action on the Marshall plan for European recovery.

British government securities sold sharply lower as nervous traders in London rushed to get into gold mining stocks. Market sources, however, attributed the break in government bond prices to a lack of demand rather than a general liquidation. London newspapers reported that millions of pounds were wiped off the market values of government bonds.

Officials forecast new and stricter currency controls for Britain but said the government does not regard the present situation "as a crisis."

One highly placed informant said: "A slump in government bonds is the normal thing to expect when any big European event takes place that causes some uncertainty. The less a crisis atmosphere is played up in any country, the more likely it is to get through without any crisis. A crisis can be created. The psychological effect is important."

One authoritative source conceded that Britain ultimately "might have to reconsider sterling values" if the French multiple currency system spread over Europe.

French government bonds also declined in Paris.

Many deputies in the French national Assembly expressed disapproval of the devaluation action. Premier Robert Schuman said the step was taken to avert economic ruin and widespread unemployment.

If the government had not devalued the franc and decided on creation of a free money market, France would have been thrown back on American aid alone as a source of foreign exchange, he declared.

NORTH, EAST BRACE FOR NEW COLD; WEST SEARED
(By The Associated Press)

THE east and central states, still benumbed from their second cold wave in a week, braced Monday night for a new onslaught of frigid air moving in from the plains states.

The southeast, meanwhile, prepared for a covering of rain and snow expected to reach that area by tonight.

The leading edge of the new cold wave was expected ti hit the midwest Tuesday and the east coast Wednesday, after dropping temperatures in northern Minnesota and northern Wisconsin to 20 to 30 degrees below zero Monday night.

In the grip of the worst drought conditions in 70 years, California Monday basked in June-in-January weather.

For 37 days no rain has fallen in the great crop-producing San Joaquin valley, the longest continuous dry spell on record and surpassing the 35-day rainless period of 1912.

Underground water tables—the life-blood of California's irrigated farming—were dangerously low.

New Water Main 'Breaks' During Test In City Monday Afternoon

Passersby at Fifteenth and Ave. O late Monday afternoon got a brief look at a "waterspout."

The city's new 30-inch water line extending north and south under Avenue O was being tested when a plug blew and a large stream of water bubbled forth for a few minutes. City water department officials quickly cut off the water, in the sub-freezing temperature.

Work is nearing completion on the line by the contractor, R. H. Fulton.

Miners Reach Safety After Fire Reported

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Jan. 26 (AP)—A crew of 155 men reached safety tonight after being caught 167 feet underground by fire in the huge Willow Grove mine where 72 died in a fire and explosion eight years ago.

Lawrence Higgins, mine recovery boss, said the crew came out in a modern elevator "exactly like those extremely fast ones used in New York's Empire State building."

"There was no panic and the entire crew reached safety in a matter of minutes," he added. "The elevator carries about 20 men."

The fire broke out about 5:30 p. m. in a tunnel used to pump air into the mine, Higgins reported. It was brought under control shortly before 7:30 p. m.

The mine, one of the largest in Ohio, employs 300 men on each shift. It is located about three miles from here.

ICC Hears Opposition To Plan For Merger Of Three Bus Lines

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP) — The Interstate Commerce commission today heard two competing bus companies opposing the proposed merger of three bus lines and seven subsidiaries and took the case under advisement.

The American Bus lines and Burlington Transportation company contended that the Santa Fe railroad would dominate the new system, to be known as the "Transcontinental Bus system."

The commission last Dec. 10 approved consolidation of Continental Bus system of Dallas, Dixie Motor Coach corporation of Dallas, Santa Fe Trail Transportation co. of Wichita, Kas., and seven subsidiaries into a consolidated bus system with headquarters at Dallas. The merger would involve 22,000 miles of lines in the west.

Local Man Held

A 28-year-old Lubbock man was held by police in connection with claims he had entered the residence of another man and the complainant's wife and "knocked one of her teeth out." The alleged incident took place in 1000-Block First, police were informed.

Trammel grocery, at Nineteenth and Ave. A, reported a hole knocked in a glass window five feet above the ground level, with a rock. It was not believed immediately that any property had been taken from the store.

E. Rose of 1401 Ave. R said a $20 fender skirt was stolen from his car.

P. S. Phillips of 2206 Nineteenth reported hub caps, gasoline tank cap and other accessories valued in total at $15 taken from his car.

Theft of two bicycles was reported—from Bobby Tyner of 1910 Ave. J, at Lubbock Boys club, and from Herbert Hamilton of 2702 Thirtieth, at Junior High school.

Theft of a radio-phonograph and 10 records was reported in burglary of a servants' quarters behind the Roy Furr residence, 3120 Twentieth street. Entrance was gained by removing a screen and raising a rear window, investigation revealed. A ladies' wrist watch was stolen in another burglary of the place about a week ago, bringing total value of the items to $96.50, police were told.

J. W. Graves, 37, of 2508 Thirty-first was released under $500 bond after having pleaded innocent of a drunk driving charge, county court records showed.

A requisition warrant for Wilbourn Borum, held in Los Angeles county, Calif., for Lubbock authorities, who want him for trial of a felony theft indictment, was received by the sheriff's department.

A letter from Paul H. Brown, secretary of state, to District Attorney Lloyd Croslin said the warrant was en route. Gov. Beauford H. Jester signed extradition requests to be presented to the governor of California, asking the Californian to issue his warrant directing that the prisoner be given to custody of Sheriff Grady Harrist of Lubbock county after a February fugitive complaint hearing in Los Angeles in February.

Murder At My House

only one thing to do and that was to put the cat out of his misery as quickly as possible. I stood up swaying a little and thinking confusedly of calling the police or a veterinarian. And then I remembered something.

I remembered the poison I had bribed the attendant to get for me before I left that sanitarium back in Ohio. That poison that had been my insurance against remembering too much, just in case Hollywood and the wolves didn't prove effective. I didn't think it would take very much of it to kill a cat.

I went up to the bathroom that adjoins my bedroom on the second floor and found the small unmarked packet of white powder in the dressing table drawer where I had hidden it and took it down to the kitchen and opened it. I put just a little bit of it on the end of a spoon and mixed it with some warm milk in a saucer.

I had been right. It didn't take very much.

IT WAS that night I had the dream again.

I saw Oscar in his falling plane. His face was twisted with pain but he was saying quite calmly, "There's nothing to it—nothing to it." Just as the pilot of the other fighter plane who flew with him that day in Italy heard him say over the radio before he died.

His plane crashed. I saw it on the ground twisted and mangled. I saw the creeping flames begin to devour it. I saw Oscar beside it. He lay quite still. I began to run toward him. And then . . . Margo was there. Margo with the blond hair and the blue and greedy eyes.

I woke up screaming. I lay there in the dark of my room, feeling the blood pounding in my heart, gasping for breath and hating Margo. Oh, how I hated Margo. Because of Margo I would never be with Oscar anywhere again, either in this world or the next. The agony of irreparable loss poured through my heart, my mind and soul.

Take the white powder, then. Forget Margo. Forget Oscar. Forget everything.

I sat up on the edge of the bed. I put my feet down and they touched the cold floor. I stood up. I began to walk toward the bathroom door like a sleepwalker in a trance.

New Montague Test Makes Good Showing

PONCA CITY, Okla., Jan. 26 (AP)—The Continental Oil company today announced discovery of a wildcat oil producer in North Texas which it said gives promise of establishing a new commercial oil pool.

The well is the C. P. Miller No. 1, one and one-half miles west of Stoneburg in Montague county, Tex., which was rated at 850 barrels production daily on initial test.

Drilled to total depth of 6,344 feet, the well was plugged back and casing set at 6,275 feet. Perforated at 6,190-6,204 feet in the conglomerate, the well made 248 barrels of 41 gravity oil in seven hours on a one-inch choke, Continental headquarters here said.

Continental holds a total of 1,497 acres in the area, known as the west stoneburg block.

Firemen Extinguish Small Fire At Residence On Tahoka Highway

Firemen ran to a residence on Tahoka highway at 3:10 o'clock Monday afternoon and removed an ironing board which had caught fire, preventing damage to the residence.

In a Sunday afternoon fire, finding the cause of the blaze was not so easy at Lubbock National building.

Finally, they found that a steam pipe carrying steam at 227 degrees had overheated a board through which the pipe ran.

Such instances where a steam pipe chars lumber apparently are rare, but fire underwriter records show that 750 degrees of heat would set fire almost instantly to a board; sustained heat of 212 for a long period might cause fire, firemen said.

The trouble was located atop the old part of the structure, in a heating unit.
