Work Force Potential In Trade Area Sought

A survey is underway to determine the number of women in the Olton trade territory who might be interested in employment with a knitting plant that may locate in Olton.

Directors of Olton Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture are seeking to find those women who are legitimately interested in such work. Women who are interested are asked to respond with their name, address and phone number to the C-CA office or Enterprise.

The Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture office will be open each weekday for persons who wish to register their interest. Calls should preferably be made between the hours of 8:30 to 12 noon.

Career Begun At Eleven

Printer's ink has been getting under the fingernails of Wayne Moore since he was only eleven years old. Operating his own business, Wayne's Printing, since January 1959, he began his career as "handyboy" and paper folder.

A grammar school student when he got his job working for William B. (Bill) Smith Jr. at the Olton Enterprise, Wayne's first job was folding the paper when it came off the flat bed press. Generally a four page paper, the printed sheet had to be folded completely by hand.

Perhaps once a month, the Enterprise ran six pages. That necessitated another press run, cutting the paper in half and inserting the extra page. "Inserts" were dreaded by the young apprentice.

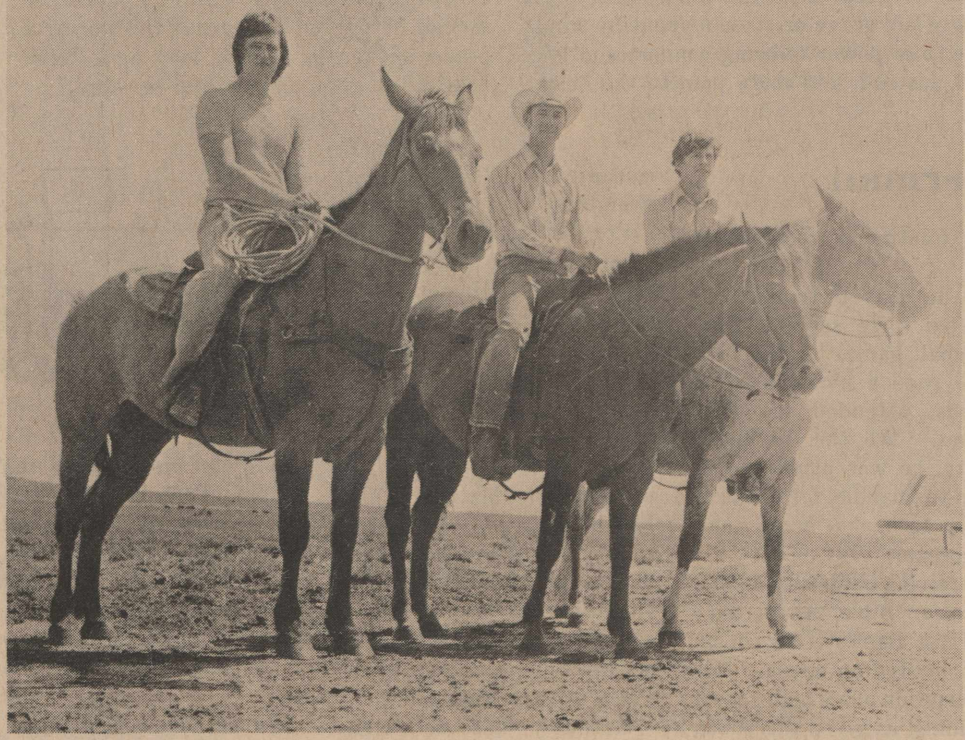

Wayne's other task was sweeping out and "cleaning up once a week whether it needed it or not," he says with a laugh. He began with the magnificent wage of 25 cents per hour.

Graduating into more responsibility, he started his first printing by hand setting type generally for headlines. From that work he advanced to operating the hand-fed open press. Equipped with both foot pedal and motor, Wayne chose the slower action of the foot pedal rather than risk "smashed fingers."

That old press is still used on occasion by Moore. Its age is uncertain although Wayne believes it probably belonged and was used by the Enterprise founder, L.L. Kyle.

The flat bed press which was used to print the COWHAND FROM GERMANY -- Mattias Musmann, visitor from Hameln, Germany gets in a little taste of herding cattle during a visit with friends, Vic Allcorn and Bryan Allcorn, whom he met last summer on a Crusade in his homeland.

German Youth Ends Visit With 'First' Experiences

Mattias Musmann of Hameln, Germany, was guest of honor Saturday night at a backyard bar-b-que at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sivley, Shelle and Rob. Other guests were Jacquie and Sidney Johnston of Plainview, Miss Melanie Cowart, Vic and Bryan Allcorn.

The event marked the end of a two week area stay for Musmann, who was in Texas to visit with friends made last June in Hameln. At that time five Oltonites were members of the New Life for Germany Crusade. Guests in Hameln homes during the Crusade were Mr. and Mrs. Archie Sorley, Sivley, Vic and Bryan Allcorn.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Friedrich Musmann, his mother paved the way for the young man's visit last October when she visited in the city as a house guest in the Sivley and Sorley homes. Plans are being made for his father, a wholesaler oil distributor in West Germany, to make a similar trip sometime in the future.

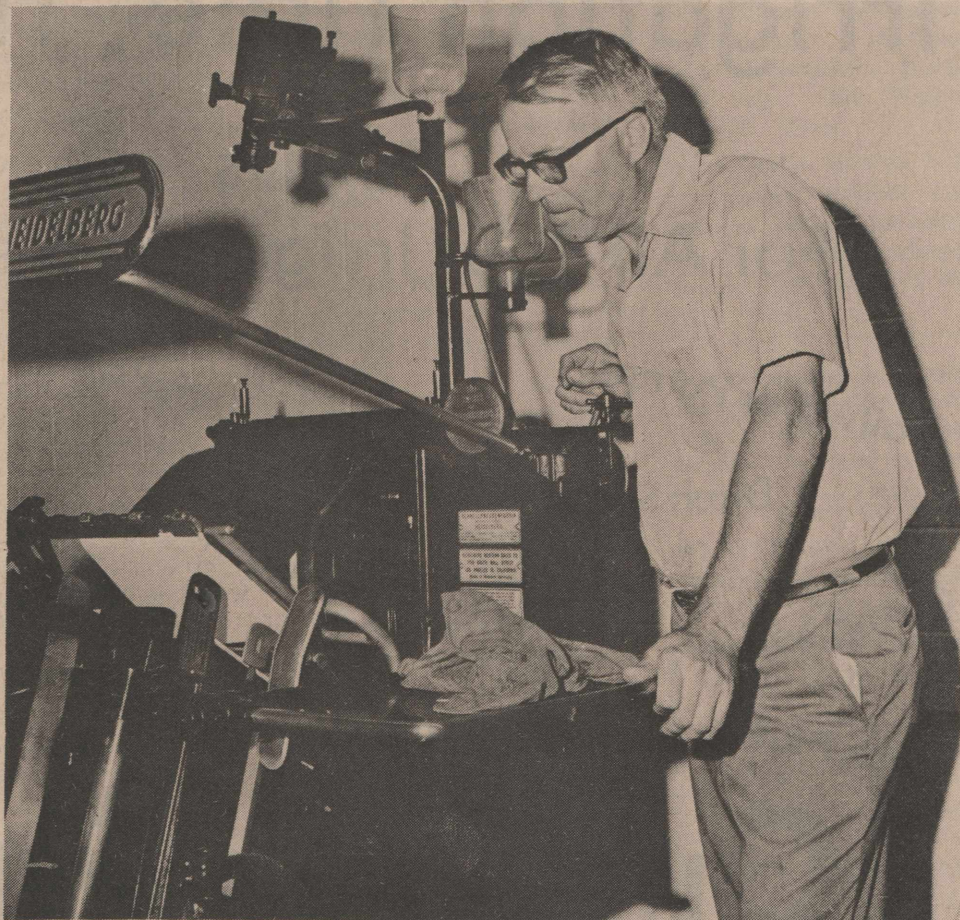

As a guest in the homes of the Johnstons in Plainview, the Gerald Allcorns, the R.V. Allcorns and the Sivleys in Olton, the young man from Germany was privileged to learn first hand something of life on the Texas plains, and he indicated that he liked what he experienced.

Richard Cook Is New Pastor

The Rev. Richard L. Cook preached his first sermon Sunday to the congregation of the local Church of the Nazarene.

Rev. Cook and his family arrived in Olton June 13 from Colorado Springs, Colo. The new pastor has just completed schooling at Nazarene Bible College in Colorado Springs, receiving a Bible certificate and associate of arts degree.

Reared in Danville, Ill., Rev. Cook and his wife, Betty, are parents of four children, Cathy, 12; Lori, 11; Ricky, seven; and Tommy, five.

HOT OFF THE PRESS - Wayne Moore looks over business forms as they come off the Heidelberg press, ever watchful that the finished product meets the high standards he sets for himself.

newspaper was also hand-fed, one page at a time. As the printed page emerged from the press, wooden "fingers" flipped the page onto a table and then the printed sheets had to be "jogged" to a smooth stack so they would be ready to run back through for printing on the other side.
"News black," the quick drying ink used by newspapers, came in large five gallon pails.

Thursdays were the "big days" when the paper was finished, printed, labeled with a small hand-operated addressing machine and made ready for the post office.

"Lots of Fridays the sun was coming up as the paper was coming off," he recalls.

Few pictures were used in the early day Enterprises because of the expense of having zinc engravings made. Later plastic engravings came along to lessen some of the cost.

Wayne recalls he was probably a sophomore when he began working with the linotype machine. the linotype operator, a Mrs.
Barker, was leaving and Smith asked Wayne if he'd like to learn. He began by going by the office after school and, by the time Mrs.
Barker was ready to move, had learned enough he could begin.

Graduating from OHS in 1949, Wayne continued to work at the newspaper-print shop. When he went into the Navy in April 1951 he had no plans to choose printing as his profession.

In the Navy four years, Wayne got valuable experience and knowledge when he spent about two years in the 14th Naval Print Shop at Pearl Harbor. Operating a linotype machine, he remembers they had the very best, really up-to-date equipment.

Operated by the Civil Service and the Military, the shop printed "a bit of everything," he says, "from cookbooks to telephone directories to Top Secret papers. The Naval Print Shop is where he got his basic knowledge in off-set printing.

Wayne also worked in the print shop aboard ship during almost two years sea duty.

Out of the Navy, Wayne was back at work at the Enterprise almost "as soon as I hit town." He operated the linotype machine for the newspaper and did some of the job printing, too. He worked for the paper through 1958 and then purchased the Enterprise during Wayne's stint in the service.

The newspaper moved to new headquarters across from the school and Wayne stayed on in the building on Main Street which had housed the combined business for about 15 years.
Prior to that the businesses had operated from a small frame building to the north or south of Dr. James Kirkpatrick's offices today.

July marks the anniversary of Wayne's move into the building vacated by the Enterprise and the beginning of his fourth year across from the high school.

Olton's first automatic press, purchased by Smith, is still put to occasional use.
Wayne recalls the day when the press arrived by truck.
Purchased as a used press, it was out of adjustment when it arrived but Smith "figured it out" and soon it was in operation.

In addition to the two presses which Wayne obtained with the business, he has added a newer linotype, saw for type "slugs," copy camera for making negatives, offset press and letter press and a paper cutter, a massive instrument which can slice through a ream of paper with no more difficulty than the snip of scissors through a single sheet of paper.

He has a "new for me" press which is not yet set up since it was shipped without rollers. The new press will enable him to handle bigger jobs. He can print anything from a small business card to a 17 1/2" by 22 1/2" placard.

Wayne says about 60 percent of his printing is done by offset press, the form now used by most weekly newspapers and one being adopted by some dailies.

The only "brand new" press for Wayne's Printing is a German made Heidelberg which he bought in 1964. Much more modern than the machines on which he learned his trade, it can turn out 5000 impressions per hour although Wayne says there is little need to operate at that speed. Most of the printing he does is at half that speed or little faster.

Manufacturers of fine printing presses for almost 125 years, the Heidelberg machine prints, numbers and perforates. Operating with a vacuum, air suction lifts a single sheet of paper at one time, quickly imprints it and deposits it neatly in perfectly ordered stacks.

About three years ago
Wayne added office machines to his line of office supplies. He also services office machines.

Wayne and his wife, Glenda, are parents of two children. Six-year-old Timmy who wants to be a "printer and fireman" and Kristi, four. Glenda is also Wayne's "Girl Friday" and

Loving Care

Loving care has gone into every detail of his work as Oscar Scheller has tended Olton Cemetery so many years. Faithfully he has labored keep plots clear of weeds, grass mowed and the many other tasks which have proved his dedication to his work.

It is a portion of his care and concern that long ago prompted the regular practice of removing flowers ravaged by the sun and winds from the graves of just-lost loved ones. Wilted, dead flowers resting on a newly laid grave or strewn about by winds lose thier power to bring comfort and love and, instead, add more pain to the heart.

Grief for a loved one must have prompted the recent "letter to the editor" from a person who wrote that flowers had been stolen from a grave.

They were not taken coldly nor in meanness but in a tender and compassionate deed of love and concern.

The genuine concern Oscar blended with his labors have been noted but not lauded for too long. His conscientious work has exceeded the tasks for wich he's paid. The service he's given has earned the words of praise spoken by one so long ago, "Well done, they good and faithful servant..."

life he played tennis and bowled. He saw his first baseball game, for the first time rode a horse, and, in Clovis, attended his first rodeo. At the backyard party, he was privileged to turn the handle, for the first time, to make home-make ice cream.

Arriving in the city during Vacation Bible School days at First Baptist Church, he was invited to speak. His description of his high school building, as given the young students, was almost more than they could comprehend. He described the building as being 1000 years old. The tables and desks he admitted were less ancient, but he stone building has stood for ten centuries. The stone steps show the wear of finish work or errands.

Seeking perfection in his work, Wayne will not accept a job unless he can give it sufficient time to be done well. He shrugs off the perfectionist title with a matter-of-fact "I do want it to be as good as I can get it.
It isn't always, but I try."

centuries of -feet passing over them.

For the youthful students, he also told the story of the Pied Piper of Hameln, and described the pageant that re-enacts it each Sunday afternoon during summer months for the benefit of tourists.

Communication was no problem for Mattias. He began the study of English in fifth grade and continued it through high school. He also studied French from the seventh grade and has had a six weeks period of study in Paris in that language.

Germany has no 'teen music', he says, hence he and his friends listen strictly to American music. He is well aware of all popular rock songs and artists in this field.

morning for Waco and a look at Baylor University.
Following a short visit to Six Flags and Dallas, he left for Norfolk, Va., and a short stay with the family of a young lady who was an exchange student in his home several years ago.

Departing he wore a Western hat, and he left an order for a pair of cowboy boots.

Gentlemen,

We, the members of the Littlefield Volunteer Fire Department, as well as all the citizens of Littlefield, would like to express our appreciation for your quick response to our call for help on Sunday morning, June 16.

We feel that our neighboring Fire Departments were instrumental in preventing what could have been a major disaster for the City of Littlefield.

If at any time we can be of any assistance to your Department, don't hesitate to call us.

Again, we say thanks for your quick action.

Sincerely,

Littlefield Fire Department Leon Durham, Chief

ceding letter was sent to our help Sunday.)

MRS. LESLIE MARSHALL

Cook Of The Week

Former Olton residents, Leslie and Gerlene Marshall, came to Olton last June on vacation and decided it was still home. As quickly as the move could be made they were once again Oltonites.

"Seems like Olton will always be home," Gerlene Says. She came with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E.D. Wickware, here from Oklahoma when she was a first grader. Except for a few months on two separate intervals, Olton was home until her marriage and until 10 years ago.

Gerlene and Leslie have three children. Their daughter, Teresa, is Mrs. Steve McDaniel and also lives in Olton. Steve works at Parsons Funeral Home. The Marshalls have two sons, Ronald, 15, and Royce, 12.

Enthusiasm radiates about our Cook of the Week. She loves to paint ceramics and likes growing things - her garden and pot plants both inside and outside her home. She also likes tropical fish.

Her most rewarding "hobby" is a ministry of caring. As a member of Hopewell Baptist Church, she made regular weekly visits to shut-ins to play a cassette tape with inspirational music and devotions. Her tape ministry was interrupted when their pastor moved this spring and other hindrances came he way but she plans to re-new the work soon.

Gerlene shares recipes which are "family approved." The cookie recipe is one she has had since home ec days.

Wedding vows were solemnized at 4 p.m. Saturday, June 15 in St. Peter's Catholic Church for Mary Evelyn Gallagher and Santos Diaz Jr.

Officiating were Father Clarence Huber and Brother Lawrence Slahuber.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James Gallagher and Mr. and Mrs. Santos Diaz Sr. of Raymondville.

Vows were recited before an altar decorated with arrangements of white flowers and white tapers and votive cups in brass candelabras.

Cynthia Johnson, organist, presented traditional wedding selections and accompanied Luis Rey as he sang "More" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of mira mist and Chantilly lace fashioned with an Empire bodice of lace featuring a V-neckline edged with a pleated ruffle accented by narrow lace. A cape sleeve effect of lace enhanced the long sleeves with matching lace and ruffle trim at the wrists.

Softly gathered, her skirt of mira mist was embellished with wide scalloped bands of lace giving a redingote effect. Matching lace encircled the hemline and the detachable train which swept chapel length from the waistline.

Adorned with seed pearls, her lace petaled headpiece with folds of satin ribbon held her three tiered veil of silk illusion. Matching lace outlined each tier. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations with accents of pink and green net and pearl adornments.

"Something old" was a cross with a small opal which was once a tie pin belonging to her Grandfather Acker. Her gown was "new" and she "borrowed" a lace handkerchief from her Grandmother Gallagher. She added the traditional touch of blue.

Paula Strain was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Roy Salas, aunt of the bridegroom, and Laurie Gallagher, sister of the bride.

Jessie Salas was flower girl. Melinda Salas and Sanny Salas distributed rice bags and mass leaflets.

Feminine attendants wore formal gowns of printed voile fashioned with yokes and bell sleeves of matching solid colors.

The wore matching sheer picture hats and carried single long stemmed pink carnations. Misses Strain and Gallagher wore dresses of pink; Mrs. Salas and the flower girl wore pale green.

Melinda Salas and Sanny Salas wore white dresses.

Luis Rey was best man. Groomsman were Roy Salas and Julian Perez. Damon Powers was ring bearer. Altar boys were Tommy Cabrera, Jesse Garza, Junior Casarez and Raul Fuentes Jr. Bob Gallagher, brother of the bride, and Daniel Rey seated guests.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Gallagher wore a dress of turquoise crepe styled with long sheer sleeves and narrow stand-up collar. She added a corsage of white carnations and white accessories. Mrs. Diaz chose a dress of navy and white print crepe with white carnation corsage and white accessories.

Ramsey-Bledsoe Vows Solemnized In Vernon

Miss Deborah Anne Bledsoe of Alva, Okla., and Harvey Stephen Ramsey of Vernon were wed June 21 in a candlelight ceremony in Wilbarger Street Church of Christ in Vernon.

T. Larry Marshall officiated the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with a greenery entwined archway flanked by candelabras with white tapers.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delroy Bledsoe of Alva and the granddaughter of Mrs. J.O. Bledsoe. Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Ramsey of Vernon are parents of the bridegroom.

Nuptial selections, presented by a vocal group, included the traditional wedding marches, "O Promise Me" and "My God and I."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of bridal satin with overlay of bridal lace. Fashioned by the bride's mother, the gown featured a raised waistline accented with a satin belt and Dior bow in back. Dainty lace ruffling edged the stand up collar and deep cuffs of her long full sleeves. Seed pearls and sequins, hand applied by the bride, enhanced the bodice.

Her veil of bridal illusion, lace edged, was held by a dome headpiece encrusted with seed pearls and sequins. Cathedral length, it was made by her mother. She carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds surrounding a white cymbidium orchid with accents of baby's breath atop a white lace covered Bible, a gift of her grandmother Bledsoe. Tied in the bouquet were the wedding band of her grandmother and engagement ring of her mother. She carried a lace edged handkerchief belonging to the groom's grandmother and made by this great-great-grandmother.

Martha Skelton of Alva was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Denise Branstetter of Alva and Lee Ann Talley of Vernon. Renee Passmore of Houston was flower girl. Attendants wore formal dresses of pink knit fashioned with raised waistlines, short puffed sleeves with white lace cuffs and collar. They wore white lace picture hats and carried white miniature baskets with flowers in shades of pink with baby's breath accents.

Mike Holmes of Sulphur Springs was best man. Groomsmen were Sam Vaughn of Tulsa and Gene Bachman of Austin. Candles were lighted by Jimmy Bledsoe, brother of the bride, and Dale Scott of Vernon. David Bledsoe, brother of the bride, was ring bearer. Guests were seated by Daniel Cowan and Mike Owen, both of Vernon.

A reception was held in the church foyer. The bride's table was laid with a cloth in shades of pink with white skirt. The five tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom with white wedding bells and pink roses. An arrangement of pink flowers formed the centerpiece. Wedding cake, pink punch and nuts were served by Mmes. Orville Talley, James Chisholm, Warren Cooner, and J.E. Moore and Misses Sherrie Passmore, Tina Chisholm, Debbie Reese and Lisa Payne.

For a wedding trip to Quartz Mountain State Park and Lodge, the bride chose a dark pink knit dress of knit fashioned with raised waistline and gored skirt with self-ruffling accents. She added white accessories and a corsage lifted from the bridal bouquet.

The bride is a 1974 graduate of Alva High School and was chosen the 1973-74 Betty Crocker Leader of Tomorrow for her school. She had been employed by Lynn Martins Photography.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Lockett High School and attended East Texas State University and Abilene Christian College. He is engaged in farming with his father in the Lockett community.

The couple will be at home after July 1 at Route 2, Vernon.
