A Notable Institution—
John Davis Heads It—
It Features Talent—
A Texan Has a Hand—

A NOTABLE AMERICAN INSTITUTION is the national bar association. All the great legal minds of America are members. Its annual meetings are looked forward to with vast interest by all lawyers as well as all laymen who read and think. John W. Davis is the new president of the association having been elected at the San Francisco meeting. He was the ambassador of the American nation to the Court of St. James during the Wilson administration. He is looked upon as one of the most brilliant members of the American bar.

Chief Justice William Howard Taft was on the program and the chief justice is always interesting. R. E. L. Saner of Texas, was the chairman of the committee on American ideals and this committee is said to be composed of the most intillating legal and judicial minds of America. According to the Associated Press which carried the story the report of the committee created a deep impression. "On every hand is manifested open revolt against authority" read the report.

PROFOUND IGNORANCE OF the simple principles of our American government is an ever growing menace. All around us is evidence of loss of faith in the fundamental principles of our institutions. Gross ignorance of and bitter prejudice against the courts are manifested in every community."

This most stinging indictment was followed by another equally as scratching. It follows: "Never in our history has there been so much of hatred, prejudice, suspicion, greed and malice; never has there been more division and strife; never so little effort to pull together in the exercise of a common purpose to improve social and industrial condition. The harvest of anti-Americanism is ripening.

Our form of government is challenged not alone upon the soap box,

WICHITA WOMAN KILLED AFTER FALL AT LAKE

Loses Balance Fleeing From Bull Dogs Sunday

Trying to escape from two bull dogs that were rushing her, Mrs. Patrena Bryant, age 32 years, of 804 Travis street, lost her life at the Lake Wichita pavilion early Sunday morning.

Mrs. Bryant attempted to climb over the gate that is on the stairway leading to the dance floor and lost her balance falling 15 feet to the ground below and striking the back of her head on a large rock. She was dead when her mother, Mrs. M. K. Henry, reached her side.

Mrs. Bryant had been out to the pavilion Saturday night and had lost a valuable brooch. With her mother she went out just before 6 o'clock Sunday morning in an effort to find it. She did not know there was anyone living at the pavilion and when she found the gate on the stairway leading to the dance floor locked, she climbed over. After she had gotten on the other side of the gate two bull dogs that are kept there are said to have been aroused by the noise of her approach and charged at her.

In a desperate effort to escape the dogs Mrs. Bryant ran back to the gate, screaming, it is said, and was about to get over the top when she lost her balance and fell on the outside of the pavilion where large stones have been placed on the edge of the lake.

Desperately she grasped for a handhold as she went down. Her mother stood helpless and called for aid. Occupants of the pavilion quarters came to the scene.

They went down and picked Mrs. Bryant up from off the rocks. She was dead. The back of her head was crushed.

The body of the victim was carried to the North Texas Insane aslyum hospital and held there until taken to the undertaking parlors of Merkle & Lunn. The funeral will be held early this week, possibly Tuesday.

Mrs. Bryant was a teacher in a local business college and resided with her mother, Mrs. Henry, who is her only survivor.

$150,000 Loss As Flames Hit Railway Shops

Wichita Falls and Southern Roundhouse Almost Complete Loss Before the Fire Department Arrives; Three Locomotives and Several Coaches Are Destroyed.

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the roundhouse of the Wichita Falls and Southern railway shortly after midnight last night.

Three locomotives, two passenger coaches, several box cars, all equipment and machinery of the shops were lost in the flames, which damaged and destroyed more than $125,000 worth of property.

Nightwachmen on duty discovered the blaze which had already gained headway in the oil-soaked interior of the shops and sounded an alarm which called city fire fighting equipment. The shops are more than five miles from the central station and the sheet-iron structure was practically a complete loss before the apparatus arrived. (Continued on page two.)

More Than One Dollar Of Every Four Made in Wichita Paid for Rent

Remember, These Houses Are Unfurnished, Yet They Tax Wage-Earners of All Classes Approximately 28 Per Cent of All Their Earnings for Monthly Rent

BY THE INVESTIGATOR

No other class of people bear the brunt of high living costs more than the wage earners. Ordinarily, the last to get an increase, and nine times out of ten the first to get a decrease in income, they must "pay the freight" whatever it may happen to be.

In Wichita Falls it's rent.

In yesterday's article it was shown that there were 24,014 people in Wichita who pay rent in those sections of the ity surveyed.

3,286 Houses Short .

There are 1,517 houses for these families. Again using the government census rate of five persons to the family, there are 4,803 Wichita families to rent 1,517 houses available.

And rents?

They range from $30, for the most humble of dwellings, to $65 and $70 for the better class of unfurnished residences in the better sections of the city. This does not include furnished houses or apartments.

Striking an average from these figures, it is found that the average rent in Wichita Falls, conservatively estimated, is $46 plus.

Roughly, this estimate of rents has been divided into three classifications, based on the rent o the houses, their size, their locality, and the general classification of people living in the neighborhood.

First let us take up the wage earners. These people live in homes of four, five and some times six rooms. Houses larger than this in these neighborhoods are the exception, not the rule.

Wage-Earner Pays $34

The houses are modern and semi-modern. They are in fair repair, but usually are very ordinary in appearance and more often than not, are badly in need of paint. Approximately 90 per cent of the houses in this classification are not on paved streets, and they range from two to five blocks from the street car. And the average rent for houses in this classification is $34.

Investigation shows a few of these houses bringing as low as $30, and in two instances, $25. But there are many bringing $35, a few $37.50 and some as high as $40.

Now turn to the income of the people living in these houses. In doing this, remember, we are dealing with the wage-earning class, whose earning capacity has shown marked decreases during the past year and a half.

Fourth of Wages for Rent

Investigations of Wichita Falls incomes reveals the fact that while the average income in Wichita Falls is $43 a week, the average for wage earners falls a great deal below this. The average, not of wage earners alone, but of the general classification of people living in the houses discussed, is under $30. This being the case, Wichita wage earners are spending more than one-fourth or 28 per cent of their income for rent, every month.

Now take the middle class. This includes high salaried clerical men, small shop keepers and the better class of wage earners. In this general classification comes practically everyone who is not in business for himself on a fair sized scale, or who is not receiving a big salary or income.

Middle Class Hard Hit

In this general classification, the average Wichita income of $43 is still high, the large incomes of the few in this section more than making up for

KATY EMPLOYES DELAY ACTION ON GRIEVANCES

Waco Meeting Ends in Attempt to Avert Strike

By Associated Press.

WACO, Texas, Aug. 13.—Big Four members employed on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad in Texas decided to seek a conference with officials of the railroad in an effort to adjust grievances before making any attempt to walkout, it was announced here tonight following a four hour conference attended by 750 representatives of brotherhood employes from all over Texas.

According to J. A. Farquarson, national vice-president of the brotherhood of railway trainmen who attended the meeting all the grievances will be written up and presented to the management of the Katy in an effort to correct conditions objectionable to the men.

Charge Equipment Dangerous

The conditions complained of by the men are the placing of armed guards about railroad property and the use of equipment said to endanger the lives of workers and of the public.

While the meeting was behind closed doors and officials were reluctant to comment, it is understood that no direct vote on a strike was taken, it being charged that rata on the grievances of the men had not been properly drawn up according to laws of the brotherhoods. The only statement Mr. Farquarson, who acted as spokesmen for the men, would make, was that they had reached "a decision to proceed in an effort to correct all the abuses complained of according to the law of the organizations."

It is said the grievances will be drawn up in written form and presented to the officials of the road at a conference, the date of which is indefinite.

DALLAS HALTS SPUDS ADVANCE

5,200 See Mitchell Break Streak

BY "SPIKE" COOPER

After driving through 25 consecutive victories, the Spudders fell from their string yesterday when Roy Mitchell took charge of the final game of the series, the final game of the home stay, and all but blanked them on the day they would have chalked up win No. 26.

Hurling baseball that was absolutely unbeatable, Mitchell held the Spudders at arm's length while he laced them with shoots, slants and fast ones that effied the eyes and clubs of the Spudders.

Mitchell was again the star moundsman that once made him the terror of the National league when he won game after game for the Cincy Reds.

As a result of Mitchell's accomplishment, the Spudders counted but one marker as an attempt to balance the four registered by the Dallas cohorts. Only two runners reached second base, one of which got no further, while the other, Shorty Adams, scored when Summa singled to center in the ninth round after Adams had journeyed half way round, the result of his single and a wild pitch by Mitchell.

Brotherhood Officials Make Issue of Forfeited Rights of Strikers

Officials of the big four brotherhoods are still hoping for an amicable settlement of the rail strike, in spite of the complete collapse of the negotiations of Saturday and Sunday.

"We intend to stay here until congress reconvenes in readiness to respond to any call from President Harding," said L. E. Sheppard, president of the order of conductors, after the close of Sunday's meeting.

"I'd like to call attention to the fact that seniority isn't the only issue before us—there are several other fundamentals. The real issue is the status of men on strike. We hold they are not dismissed, that they have not resigned, that they are awaiting a settlement of difficulties, which have put them temporarily out of service, and that in the meantime their rights are merely suspended.

"We consider seniority has been worked over time—by the railroads. Always in railroad disputes the men have gone back with seniority status, and there is no reason why this should not be the policy now."

Coaches Jump Track, Crash Into Freight Train; Injured Are in Blazing Smoker

By Associated Press.

ANNANDALE, Minn., August 13. WESTERN ROADS RUNNING AGAIN

Marooned Trains Reach Coast

By Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 13.—The railroad strike situation cleared somewhat in the west today with the moving of passengers who had been marooned on desert points at Needles, California, and Caliente and Las Vegas, Nevada, and an announcement by the Western Pacific railroad company that there was a possibility of its renewing operations in California tonight after an enforced suspension.

The starting of a Santa Fe train from Needles for Los Angeles at 8:40 a. m. with approximately 340 passengers was the first "break" in the situation brought about by the sporadic strikes of members of the "big four" brotherhoods in this region.

Guards Precede Train

The train was a special manned by a "pick up" crew and was guarded by a railroad motor car filled with guards which preceded it and automobile loads of deputy sheriffs which flanked it as it sped along. Approximately 115 east bound passengers elected to remain in Needles in the hope that a train will be made up to proceed to Seligman, Arizona, and eastern points.

Three heat prostrations, one of a woman 90 years old, another of a woman 75 years old and the third of an infant were reported among the marooned passengers at Needles.

Firemen Still Out

Four passenger trains of the Los Angeles-Salt Lake division of the Union Pacific arrived at Los Angeles today from Caliente and Las Vegas bringing in approximately 350 passengers. W. H. Comstock, general manager of the Union Pacific, said that the firemen at San Bernardino were the only ones now refusing to take out trains. Executives of the firemens' brotherhood left Los Angeles for San Bernardino today in an effort to restore service there.

The Union Pacific trains brought in off the Salt Lake City-Los Angeles line were moved through a special agreement of the brotherhood men with the company, as a means of averting suffering on part of the passengers, the desert towns where the trains were marooned being hot and ill supplied with food.

The crew on the Santa Fe train brought from Needles was made up of railroad officials

FINISH FIGHT NOW EXPECTED BY RAIL HEADS

Big Four Still Hold Out, Hope for Mediation

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Railroad executives who have represented all their associates in negotiating over Saturday and today with President Harding and railroad labor organization heads for a compromise settlement of the railroad strike, left Washington tonight convinced that the present strike would be fought out to a finish.

The executives further indicated through an authorized spokesman, that they expected the government would not attempt further compromise in the situation and made public the text of their answer to President Harding's final settlement proposal.

Unions After Compromise

Union leaders, however, declared that mediation and compromise efforts would still be continued with officials of the four brotherhoods of train service men acting as a committee to go between the striking shop craft representatives on the one hand and the government or the railroads on the other. Meanwhile, they withheld from publication the response of the striking shopmen's chiefs to the president's settlement offers and also a statement of the policy which other unions intended to pursue though it had been prepared for the public.

Labor Heads Remain

All the heads of the railroad labor organizations remained in Washington agreeing to meet again at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Officers of the four brotherhoods, members of which are not at present on strike, declared themselves a committee of mediation, endeavoring to deal with the government and the railroad managements in behalf of the eight unions which have definitely ordered strikes. L. E. Sheppard, president of the order of conductors, in a conciliatory statement issued after the days conference, indicated that they intended to remain acting in that capacity until congress gets back into session.

48 Hours of Meetings Fail

Almost 48 hours of meetings involving the government, unions and the railroad officials operated to develop the situation as it stood tonight.

All of the railroad executives went back to the White House today, spent an hour with President Harding, and then left the city. The union chiefs went into conference by themselves, and were informed during it by Secretary Hoover of the action of the executives.

Ten Injured by Bombs Hurled in Train Windows

NORTH BERGEN, N. J., Aug. 13. —Three bombs hurled at the Weehawken local of the West Shore railroad as it crossed a culvert near Granton Junction tonight shattered the windows of three coaches and injured ten persons, five seriously, officials of the road reported.

The train, filled with passengers returning from week end holidays, was traveling at a slow rate of speed as the explosions came. It was rumbling across the bridge when the entire train was shaken by the three explosions. The passengers, showered by flying glass, were panic stricken.

The ambulance and police reserves were rushed to the scene from here. The police learned that shortly before the Weehawken local was due at Granton an automobile, said to have carried three men, was seen standing by the side of the railroad right of way.

MISSOURI PACIFIC FIREMEN WALKOUT

By Associated Press.

Twenty-five men are affected. As a result all the Missouri Pacific traffic on this division is tied up.

Two passenger trains, Nos. 12 and 14, which leave Pueblo at 5 p. m. and 8:15, respectively, are annulled. Trains Number 11 and Number 13, which should arrive in Pueblo at 7:10 and 11:30 respectively, were consolidated at Horace, Kansas, and by picking up a man to do the firing were brought into Pueblo late this afternoon.

Conferences between division officers of the railroad and leaders of the firemen were held in Pueblo this evening in an effort to end the walkout.

SANTA FE TIE-UP IS CRITICIZED

"No Justification" Says Official

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—The action of members of the "big four" brotherhoods in abondoning through passenger trains at Needles, California, Bartow, California, and Seligman, Arizona, was denounced tonight as a deliberate conspiracy and violation of their solemn agreements with the railroad and an inhuman act by A. G. Wells, vice president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway tonight.

"None of the reason given for these lawless acts is valid," Mr. Wells declared. "The Santa Fe has asked no man to take out unsafe equipment. It has no unsafe equipment and has been and is literally meeting all requirements of the safety appliance act. Inspectors of the bureau of safety, interstate commerce commission, have made many examinations recently of the Santa Fe power and given the company a clean bill of health.

Denies Specific Reasons

"The sympathetic strikers have given no specifications as to unsafe equipment or other unsafe conditions in the environment where the strike took place. For justification of their lawless and inhuman conduct at Needles and other desert places they are driven to refer to some bomb throwing a few days ago at San Bernardiono, 250 miles away from Needles, where the trouble has not been of a sort to induce train service men to refuse to perform their accustomed duties, and which incidentally occurred subsequent to the calling of the strike at Needles.

"After abandoning trains filled with people including aged, infirm, women and children in the desert with the mercury at one hundred and twenty, in the shades, the strike committee of the big four in session at Needles received a committee of five representing the marooned passengers who asked them to man the trains to help the sufferers. They were told that "not a damned wheel would turn until the Santa Fe removed the guards about its yards.'

Freight Perishing

"In addition to the indefensible treatment of the passengers, nearly three hundred carloads of perishable products belonging to farmers are standing at Needles and other points and are fast deteriorating.

"This sympathetic strike on the Santa Fe is not a conspiracy, but it is also without the least substantial justification, actual conditions considered, and is the result of statements issued by some of the brotherhood executives that men could leave their work if they considered conditions hazardous, leaving the men themselves to be the judges of whether they would work or not, and in effect a practical invitation to them to do what they have done. I am advised no responsible officer of the big four brotherhoods has been on the ground at Needles to learn true conditions."

Special Trains for Injured

All except two of the injured were taken to Minneapolis hospitals on special trains. Many were able to continue their journey after receiving medical attention.

The two injured here are: Christopher Olson of Minneapolis, who is being cared for at a home here, and is Fred Schuyer, University of Minnesota medical student whose home is in Puyallup, Wash. Physicians said today that it will be necessary to amputate Olson's right leg, which is badly crushed. Schuyer is suffering from a fractured leg and serious bruises.

Chris Wallace of Minneapolis, engineer of the freight train, was scalded so severely that he died several hours later. His fireman, L. W. Johnson of Minneapolis, was buried under an avalanche of coal but he managed to extricate himself and was only slightly bruised and cut.

Wrecking crews tonight were still working on one overturned coach but railroad officials and Dr. A. M. Ridgeway, deputy coroner, said they did not believe any additional bodies would be found.

Bond Offerings Show Big Slump

By Associated Press.

MKTS—

NEW YORK, Aug. 13. — New offerings of bonds last week were the smallest of the year, totalling only $20,100,000, compared with $31,500,000 last week and a weekly average to date of $50,000,000. The decline was attributed by investment bankers to the usual mid-summer dullness, the summer re-investment demand having been filled and the fall demands not yet making their appearance.

Bond prices continued to move upward, reflecting the easiness of the money market, but attention was diverted to bonds on the second grade, especially the low priced rails, several of which amounted to new high records for the year.

Two large stock issues were put out by local bankers during the week, a $12,000,000 offering of the preferred stock of Gimble Brothers, dry goods merchants, and a $600,000 issue of common stock of the Mesabi Iron company.

GUARDS WATCH AS INDIANA MINES OPEN

Above, motor transport train ready to leave for Staunton, Ind. Insert, Captain Edwin C. Ball, Indianapolis. Below, Major Axtell and aid leaving Indiana state house on way to mine fields.

The state of Indiana has gone into the coal production business at the order of Governor McCray. With a guard of 800 troops, martial law declared, McCray re-opened two strip mines at Staunton in Clay county. Additional mines will be taken over at once. The two pits now being operated produce about 18,000 tons monthly, enough to supply public utilities and basic industries.

If the original venture is a success McCray promises to take over all the mines necessary. At present some of the pits are being operated by the federal government, as the receivers are agents of the United States court.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

not alone by oath bound societies that cloak the deadly hatred of free principles under the guise of patriotism, but by men in the seats of the mighty."

IF THESE CHARGES BE TRUE there must be a remedy. This is the remedy as proposed by Chairman Saner of the committee, who was born in Arkansas and carved out a career in Texas:

"We have interpreted this resolution as laying upon us the duty to prepare a program under which the lawyers of the United States, co-operating with every patriot society and organization, with true American man and woman, shall be urged to join in an earnest effort to stem the tide of radical and often treasonable attack upon our constitution, our laws, our courts, our law-making bodies, our executives and our flag; to arouse to action our dormant citizenship; to abolish ignorance and cruel falsehood and to bring truth into the hearts of our citizenship, confidence in the courts must be revived and faith in the justice in America must be restored. Knowledge and inspiration are essential to citizenship and the schools of America must save America."

And the committee recommended the appointment of a standing committee upon American citizenship with a permanent bureau and community committees everywhere throughout the nation whose duty it shall be to see that the constitution of the United States is taught in every school, public and private, throughout the United States.

PROVISION SHALL ALSO BE made for the training of adults in citizenship, recognizing the medium of newspapers and magazines as mediums for education of adults.

Many of the foremost legal and judicial minds of America listened to the reading of the report. All must have bowed their heads when these words fell from the lips of the chairman of the committee: "Knowledge and inspiration are essential to citizenship. The schools of America must save America."

There are millions of Americans, native and adopted, who appear to be as ignorant of the constitution and its immortal principal or declarations as a digger Indian in the lava beds of the western mountains. To be able to appreciate constitutional liberty a person should first understand the meaning of the words and to be able to enjoy to the fullest constitutional liberty a person should be willing to concede to his fellows the same privileges that he claims for himself. Constitutional liberty is blood bought. It was won by the fathers with their flashing swords. It should not be permitted to perish in this land of freedom which they declared should ever be the land of civil and religious liberty, the right of trial by jury of free ballot, of free press, and freedom of action within the jurisdiction of wise and just laws.

PRESIDENT OBREGON O F Mexico is without the pale because for foresooths Mexico is a lawless nation. That is the government of the United States declines to recognize the government of Mexico for the alleged reason that life is not sacred and property rights are insecure in the Aztec republic.

This reminds the writer that the committee on law enforcement of the American Bar association submitted a most interesting report in the closing days of the San Francisco meeting. According to the report the criminal situation in the United States so far as crimes of violence are concerned is worse than that of any other civilized country. Here there is less respect for law. From all available sources of information the committee estimate that there were more than 9,500 unlawful homicides last year in this country; that in 1920 there occurred not less than 9,000 such homicides and that in no year during the last ten years did the number fall below 8,500. In other words during the last ten years no less than 85,000 American citizens have perished by poison, by the pistol or the knife, or by some other unlawful and deadly instrument.

Now what is the remedy proposed by the brilliant legal and judicial minds of America.

PROHIBIT THE MANUFACture and the sale of pistols and of cartridges or ammunition designed to be used in pistols save as such manufacture shall be necessary for governmental and official use under proper legal regulation and control. This committee reported that more than ninety per cent of the crimes in this country are committeed by the use of pistols and that the laws prohibiting the carrying of fire arms or deadly weapons are ineffective—in fact, that they work to the benefit of the criminal rather than the law abiding citizen. In European countries the report says criminals as a rule are not armed. Many recommendations are made for legislation that will minimize crime and provide speedy punishment for the criminal. Really the proceedings of the American Bar association must have made humorous reading for the educated classes of Mexico.

crushed, and his back is torn loose from the internal portions of his body, while Hill, who lay groaning in agony and almost in the throes of death early this morning, is seriously injured internally, according to physicians who waited on him soon after the mishap.

Car Turned Turtle

The vehicle, which was being driven at a moderate rate of speed, turned turtle on its driver, dashed on the main portion of the Electra road and headed down the tracks of the Katy line, turning completely over twice, according to H. S. Schrimsher, special Katy guard who witnessed the accident from a point he occupied north of where the car landed.

Schrimsher said that the car apparently skidded, or turned turtle from the main road, going into a somerset twice, and landing about 40 feet from the Electra pavement, upright on the main Katy railroad track.

The other occupants had been hurled into a five-foot ditch at the side of the tracks, where they lay helpless and unconscious.

John Maunders, manager of a local automobile company, came to the city for ambulance and police aid. The injured people were rushed to the Jones-Lee-Kiel hospital, where immediate medical attention was given them.

The oil house adjoining the destroyed building was saved through the united effort of rail employes and the fire department.

Engines Burned

The three engines had been shunted into the shop with the beginning of the strike and the tenders of the two had been filled with fuel oil prior to their storage. Danger of an explosion kept many late motorists at a distance, but there seemed sufficient outlet for the created gases and black clouds of smoke soared skyward in the moonlight.

Engine Removes Cars

An engine was rushed from the downtown yards and succeeded in removing many cars which were standing in the yards and adjacent to the blaze. Several were damaged considerably, as was a fourth locomotive which was dragged away.

Another menacing danger was removed when three tank cars standing slightly apart were rushed further down the yards and away from the blaze.

Two passenger coaches on a track directly opposite the destroyed shop were completely destroyed.

All tools and equipment were a total loss, including lathes, shapers, drill presses and individual tool units, personal property of the mechanics employed in the shop.

There were about 18 employes on duty at the shop, all of whom lost their personal tools.

Several piles of repair lumber which were scattered on the lots near the roundhouse were partially or completely destroyed.

Locomotives Chief Loss

The chief damage was that of the locomotives. Cabs were burned completely to the decks and all inflammable materials consumed. Employes stated that the loss would average at least $20,000 each. Two day coaches were a total loss estimated at $20,000, while the machine equipment, some of which cannot be replaced easily, together with the box cars, lumber, oil and tools runs the damage to the estimated figure.

The amount of insurance on the building, equipment and rolling stock could not be obtained, but officials of the company were of the opinion that the loss would be largely covered.

The firemen wer forced to depenud on one plug for their supply of water. Had the fire occurred a year ago, even that one plug would not have been there for Chief McClure had the plug installed barely eight months ago.

Smouldering embers and tanks of ignited oil kept the firemen busy until after daybreak.

No accidents were reported in connection with the blaze.

Lack Water

Beyond the city limits, and at the far end of a four-inch main, the lone fire plug to which the firemen had access was totally incapable of supplying anything like an adequate supply of water with which to fight the blaze. A pumper truck was hooked on to the plug but at best it could supply only a small stream which had little effect. Two lines of hose were strung from the truck to the blazing buildings, but a switching crew, in pulling a string of box cars from danger, ran over one of these and rendered it useless.

Firemen from the Buchanan and Holliday street stations responded to the alarm and worked until daylight dousing the embers with what water they could obtain.

The loss will not be counted in the city fire loss totals for the year, as the blaze was outside the city limits and also came under a railroad classification which does not count in municipal figures.

MORE THAN—

the difference between this and the average. The average income for this so-called middle class is about $38 a week.

Rent houses in this classification, however, run much higher. These houses are usually of four, five and six rooms, modern, and a great many of them are of the bungalow type. They are comfortable, of good design, in general good repair, and about 30 per cent of them are on paved streets.

Rents Higher

But rents in this classification average $46.50 per month. This is $12.50 a month greater than in the previous classification.

There are a few of these houses renting as low as $35, some rent for $40, while a larger per centage of them rent above $50. In other words, this class is paying well over a fourth of its income for rent.

This leaves only the final classification, that of the high salaried man, the small business man, and the man of independent means, who does not own his own home. The average income in this classification is $65 a week, and the average rent just about equals this per month. Few houses in this classification rent under $50 or $55, while many of them rent over $60 and some rent as high as $70, and better.

Some idea as to the basis of these income figures may be obtained when I say that 5,136 people filed an income tax return in Wichita Falls this year, prior to March 15. It is estimated that approximately eight per cent of this number wer exempted, because of dependents. However, it is also estimated that fully 20 per cent of the Wichita income tax returns were made direct through the Dallas office.

The General Average

In other words, after making a general resume of the average income, as compared with the amount spent for the whole of Wichita Falls, would read something like this—

Average income, $47 per week.

Average rent, $47 per month.

More than one dollar out of every four earned in this city is spent for rent, and in the middle class, the average is somewhat higher.

Tomorrow, I will take up these statistics, as compared with rents in another Texas city, and we will see whether Wichita is paying more or less than the average for rents, in proportion to income, as compared with other places.

Nora's Hubbies May Be Hobbies

Nora Bayes

NEW YORK, Aug. 13. — What's a husband or two among friends? With Nora Bayes, apparently, husbands are hobbies.

The vaudeville and musical comedy star is now "on the ragged edge" of another divorce. This time from her fourth husband, Arthur Gordon.

Husbands may grow monotonous to Miss Bayes and she may tire of them, but somehow or other she is seldom without one.

In her latest experience in divorce court Referee John Godfrey Saxe recommended to the supreme court that her husband be granted a divorce after witnesses had described a raid on an apartment said to have been occupied by Miss Bayes and one Arthur Welton, alleged to be a Baltimore banker.

According to Gordon, the raiders entered the apartment through a window, tiptoed upstairs in the dark and rapped on a locked door. Then ensued the following:

"Arthur, open the door or we'll break it in," ordered Gordon.

"If you break in I'll shoot," this in a woman's voice.

"All right, shoot," was Gordon's invitation.

Then the door was pushed open, revealing Miss Bayes and Welton, according to testimony, but no target practice was held.

Miss Bayes, or Leonora Goldberg, to use her maiden name, married C. A. Gressing in Chicago in her first flier into the matrimonial game. Stage success came and with it a divorce.

Then Jack Northworth became husband No. 2. He soon became monotonous, and Harry Clarke, Nora's dancing partner, took his place, but a divorce followed within a year.

PIRATES BEGIN PENNANT DRIVE

Pittsburgh Entry Is Going Strong

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Playing with fire and dash that recalls the Boston Braves famous pennant drive in 1914, the Pittsburgh Pirates, rejuvenated under the leadership of Bill McKechnie, threatened to upset the New York-St. Louis monopoly in the National league and make it a three-club struggle down the home stretch.

The Pirates hung up a season's record Saturday when they hammered out their thirteenth straight victory and although checked in a ten-inning battle today by Cincinnati, they are separated from the first place Giants by only five and a half games.

The Giants saved an otherwise disastrous week and regained first place from the St. Louis Cardinals by trouncing Brookiyn three times in two days. By defeating Boston today while the Cardinals, who are in a hitting slump, lost their second straight to Chicago, the champions increased their lead to a game and a half.

Though unable to gain on the St. Louis Browns, who held to their lead of a game in the American league, the Yankees apparently have hit their real stride, having ended a successful western trip by taking three out of four from Detroit.

Two Killed when Airplane Falls

By Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 13.—Louis Yahn, 21, of Newark, N. J., and James Ray, 21, mechanic and aviator at the Medina Aviation club, were killed late today when their airplane went into a tail spin and fell about 200 feet as they were preparing to land at Chippewa Lake near Medina, Ohio. Yahn was visiting Ray, his life long friend.

The machine went into the tail spin as the men attempted to make a landing after a two-hours flight and crashed into a wheat field. Ray it was said, was teaching Yahn, who also was a mechanic, how to operate the machine.

Ray's body was horribly mutilated under the tangled wreckage of the airplane. Yahn jumped when the machine neared the earth. He was unconscious when found and died while being taken to a hospital.

Arkansas Cotton Crop Threatened

By Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 13. — With boll weevil infestation general over the state, and the prevalence of the army worm reported from several sections, another insect pest now threatens the Arkansas cotton crop. According to reports from the government station at Tallulah, La., the cotton leaf worm has spread over most of Texas and Louisiana, and now is beginning to invade Arkansas.

The worm spreads rapidly, it is reported, and is expected to cover the cotton growing section of the state within two weeks. However, cotton men declare that the crop is now too far advanced for damage to be more than nominal. Only late planted cotton, it is said, may be seriously hurt.

"Natural Gas"

What was a luxury in our father's time is a necessity now. What comfort a millionaire's money could not buy sixty years ago is easy for the working man of today. A great change in one-half a century. Thanks to our Public Utilities, the most efficient form of co-operative business, they are now commonplace things of daily life.

Gas service as rendered by your gas company is at your command so easily that you take it for granted and have never a thought as to how it happened. Did it happen or did it grow?

It is an interesting story of labor, investment, courage and directing genius combined to render a service so indispensable as to deserve everyone's good will.

FERGUSON SEES BEER NEARER

He Spends Sunday in Wichita

The pendulum on the prohibition question is swinging backward, and if it is not the wish of the people of the United States before, the question of light wine and beer will probably predominate the issues of the political campaigns of 1924.

This was the prognostication of former Governor James E. Ferguson, candidate for the United States senate, who passed through Wichita Falls yesterday and was entertained in an open reception given at the Kemp hotel by the Wichita County Ferguson club in his behalf, where he met hundreds of his friends prior to his departure for Amarillo this morning at 3 o'clock.

"The people of Texas know how I stand," Governor Ferguson asserted in referring to the beer and light wine issue, "and when I am elected United States senator this month in the second primary, they can instruct me what to do after I go to Washington, for I will be there as their representative, and not as the representative of my own ideas.

Attacks Mayfield

"When Mayfield says that he would not vote for a modification of the Volstead act after the people, through a proper referendum, have instructed him to do so, then he plainly admits that he is a usurper of the power and rights of the people, and therefore disqualifies himself to represent the people."

Mr. Ferguson asserted that he recognizes the fact that the people not only of Texas but the United States are thinking of a change in the Volstead act, and that in his estimation activity tending to bring about some change in the law would be apparent in the elections of 1924.

The candidate predicted that he will sweep Texas as he swept it when he defeated Tom Bell, and it was his statement that he will carry honors for the post he seeks by an overwhelming majority.

He did not remain in Wichita Falls to deliver an address, because, he intimated, he feels that his strength here is unquestionable, and that "I am needed in other parts of the state where the fight is hot."

Yesterday afternoon, he was met at the train by a committee from the Ferguson club, recently formed here, and escorted to the baseball ground between the Spudders and Dallas, where he saw his old school mate and friend, Mitchell, win from the local contingent.

Later in the evening, he was visited by hundreds of his friends in the Kemp hotel, his friends wedging their way in between a host of newspaper men who are following the candidate on his itinerary over the state.

TEXAS TO GET LEE HIGHWAY

Memphis and Other Towns on Route

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Aug. 13.—Definite information from Dr. Johnson, director general of the Lee highway association to the Hall county chamber of commerce, states that the directors of the Lee highway association have not located a road through the states of New Mexico, Texas and Oklahoma, yet but that they are now ready to determine such route through these states as the respective state highway boards of these states may provide a routing as to class of roads.

The demands of the Lee highway require that the route to be selected must be in the 7 per cent class and preferably in the 3 per cent class of roads. The Panhandle Lee highway association proposing a direct route from Lawton, Oklahoma, to which the road has been designated, via Altus, Hollis, Childress, Memphis, Tulia and Clovis, N. M., has had the proposed route logged with all correlated data and will hold a meeting in Memphis August 17th for the purpose of preparing all information and conforming to all the requirements of the Lee highway association. This prepared data will then be presented by a large committee in person from the territory mentioned to the board of directors of the Lee highway association in Washington D. C.

LARGEST FLAG IN POSTOFFICE BUILDING

(By International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—One of the largest American flags in continuous use hangs in the court of the post office department building here.

Suspended from the level of the eighth floor, the flag reaches down to the third and would make a rather hefty load for one to carry around, since it weighs 90 pounds.

The banner, according to accurate measurements, has a fly of 70 feet, 4 inches, hoist 37 feet, field 10x28 feet. It is literally as big as a house, according to department officials, who assert that a comfortable six-room bungalow could be built on the space the flag would cover.

SMOKE SCREEN FAILS TO DECEIVE PLANES

When Uncle Sam's destroyers set out to lay down a smoke screen they usually fill about 99 per cent of the surrounding space with a dense, black smoke. Then they can't be observed from other ships. But they can't throw the aviators off the track so easily. The pilots, flying high, keep just ahead of the leading destroyer and are able to observe everything that goes on. In the recent maneuvers in the Pacific off San Diego the pilots co-operated with the destroyers in their little war game. At that Uncle Sam might call off the smoke screen stuff while the coal strike continues. It takes a lot of coal to make all that smoke.

COAL DOCKS STAND EMPTY AT DULUTH

Empty coal locks at Duluth, Minnesota

Is the northwest going to feel the pinch of the coal shortage? Governors of four states decided in the affirmation after they had made a tour of inspection of the docks at Duluth, Minn., and had been unable to find enough coal to start a small furnace fire. Usually at this time of the year the docks are piled with coal to the top of the cranes. But this year the docks are bare.

FASHIONS

Plaid Wool Fabric Fashions This Smart Frock for Fall

The tailored dress shown in the sketch, designed for early fall, helps to emphasize the continued approval of the straight line silhouette. This dress is made of a fine checked wool fabric. The panels on either side are of plain material matching the major color in the dress fabric, striped with narrow braid and centred with a row of small buttons matching the check. On the flared sleeves are several rows of the braid, and the round neck has a similar edging. The dress is a slip-over, opening on one shoulder.

There is a good deal of guessing in regard to the circular skirts and draped effects that have been introduced as coming season style high lights. Manufacturers of dresses are divided in their opinions. Some houses are showing circular skirts in limited numbers only and featuring no draped models whatever. Some favor only the circular skirt as the style high light, while others pin their faith to the draped effects. Until women begin in earnest to buy their fall wardrobes no one can be sure what style will receive more cordial approval and acceptance. It seems very certain, however, that the straight line garments that are so becoming and so practical will continue to have wide approval.

A smart little navy tricotine model recently seen was cut on perfectly straight lines, two box plait panels being set down the back and two down the front, one on either side. The distinguishing feature of the frock consisted of two cornucopia shaped pockets trimmed all over with small red, green, blue and black glass beads. A matching bead girdle about an inch wide and finished with tassel ends held the frock at the waist line.

Still another tailored tricotine model fastened surplice style and bloused a trifle, had a cord girdle of beads which held it at the normal waist line.

NEGRO CLAIMS OLD AGE RECORD

LEAVENWORTH, Kans., Aug. 13.—Living in this city are two negroes, both of whom contend they are the oldest of their sex and race in the state. GIPSON BACK FROM VACATION

Legislator Elect in Wichita

Returning from a vacation in the north, much revived in health and spirit, E. H. Gipson, legislator elect, will take his old helm at corporate court this morning as city prosecutor with renewed interest.

Mr. Gipson arrived in Wichita Falls Saturday night, and begun immediately to inspect the situation of corporate court affairs, making the assertion yesterday morning at the police station that "I will be back on the bench tomorrow, ready to prosecute every defendant that is brought before me."

"General" Gipson was met on the streets yesterday by a number of his friends and extended a warm welcome home, his friends at the police station being especially glad to "have him back on the bench."

Police Chief McCormick intimated yesterday that a number of cases are on the docket for today's court session, and that the entire docket will probably be called.

Mr. Gipson, in speaking of the crime wave that has swept over the city and of the method in which the police department had undertaken in fighting it, declared that "the police department is greatly in need of more men, but we are going to fight the lawless element, and if necessary, I will take part in the raids that this department has to carry out in enforcing the statutes."

W. J. Townsend has been representing the city in Mr. Gipson's absence, and will retire from the post this morning, it is understood.

Little Stories For Bedtime

THE CUNNING OF OLD MAN COYOTE

In one thing Old Man Coyote is very like Granny and Reddy Fox—he has no real friends. There are plenty who think him very smart, and in a way look up to him because of his cunning, but he hasn't any real friends. People who live by their wits seldom do have. If the truth be known they do not want them. At least Old Man Coyote does not seem to want them. Perhaps he thinks that friends might give away his secrets if they found them out, and you know friends have a way of finding out things. If some friend had known that Old Man Coyote had dined on one of Farmer Brown's ducks Old May Coyote wouldn't have rested for a minute. But no friend, or enemy either, did know of it, and he didn't mean that any should. It is not his way to go about bragging of what he has done. No, indeed! Old Man Coyote is far too cunning for that.

The very next day after he had dined on that duck he went up to the duck pond to see how things looked and while he lay hidden in the tall grass a fat duck sat down right in front of his nose and quacked loudly in the foolish way ducks have. What do you think Old Man Coyote did to that foolish and heedless duck? No, you guessed wrong that time. He didn't seize it and take it away for another good dinner, although he wanted it so much that the water trickled from the corners of his mouth. He didn't touch so much as a feather of that foolish duck, and that shows how cunning he is.

"If Farmer Brown's boy misses another duck tonight he will be sure that some one is stealing them, and then there will be no end of trouble. If I don't steal another for a week he will forget all about the one he has lost and will stop counting the ducks every night. Then it will be safe to take another," said he.

So he waited a week, and, sure enough, Farmer Brown's boy had stopped counting his ducks. Then Old Man Coyote dined again royally. But the next one he took Farmer Brown's boy did miss, and when he counted his flock of course he found out that this was the third to disappear, and right away he made up his mind that the thief must be caught and punished. But who was the thief? There was a question, indeed. He strongly suspected Reddy Fox. He felt sure that it must be Reddy Fox. But if it was, when did Reddy do it? The ducks were shut up at night, and Farmer Brown's boy was certain that Reddy could not get at them then. It must be that he lay in wait for them very early in the morning, when they were let out to swim in the pond. So every morning for a week Farmer Brown's boy hid where he could watch the ducks after they were let out. There he lay until the breakfast bell called him in, and after breakfast he went out and counted the ducks. None were missing. Yet some time during the week one was taken.

The truth is, Old Man Coyote was so cunning that he stole those ducks right in broad daylight, in the very middle of the day. He knew that no one would expect anything to happen to them then, and so no one would be on the watch. And no one was. And as he always took the greatest care that the other ducks should not be frightened and that the one he caught should not have a chance to quack or make a sound, no one suspected him. Oh, he was very sly and cunning, was Old Man Coyote, and, as Farmer Brown's boy said, it seemed as if those ducks just melted away. Finally he tried shutting the ducks up all day as well as all night, and then it was the chickens that began to disappear. Farmer Brown's boy was in despair. He couldn't watch them all day because there was too much work to be done.

"It's that fox! It must be that fox!" said he. "I guess I've got to go hunting after all. I had about made up my mind that I would put my gun away and never get it out again, but I can't afford to lose all my ducks and chickens."

OH, THESE ELECTIONS!

NEW YORK is called the empire state, perhaps because Wall street is the financial center of the world and all the kings of commerce and finance and art and bunk finally land on Manhattan Island. A correspondent says that August 25 will be an important day for the people of that state. These New Yorkers have a curious combination of primary and convention and August 25 is described "as the last day to decline designations." That is, all men who are candidates for public office must file their intentions before midnight or August 25.

William Randolph Hearst is said to be a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor; Mayor John F. Hylan is said to be the second choice of William Randolph Hearst; Former Governor Al Smith has many backers for the nomination. Smith doesn't want it. Hearst leaders want Hearst for governor and Smith for senator. Hearst and Smith are bitter enemies. Hylan loves both men but Hearst comes first.

Republicans are going to renominate Senator William L. Calder, so they say. They are going to renominate Governor Nathan L. Miller and the New York Times, a Wilson publican has characterized Miller as the best governor the state has had in recent years. In the republican landslide in 1920 Al Smith, candidate for reelection to the office of governor, ran 400,000 votes ahead of Cox and Roosevelt. He is the ablest and the most popular democratic leaders of this self elected empire state but he deosn't want to be governor, he is willing to be senator and will have no heart burnings if his fellow democrats overlook him entirely and pass the senatorial honor on to some deserving fellow democrat.

August 25 is designation day in the state of New York and it is designation day away down here in Texas with James E. Ferguson and Earle B. Mayfield, the contenders for the large shoes of Charles A. Culberson. Democrats everywhere are having their troubles this year.

WICHITA'S BROADCASTING STATION

IT means a whole lot to Wichita Falls that it now has a broadcasting station. Dallas has won nation-wide fame because of the efficiency of her station which everyday and every night sends out into the elements music made in Dallas and news events from Dallas to be picked up by thousands of receiving stations in homes for 1,000 miles around.

The W. S. Radio Supply company in Wichita Falls has spent a great deal of money perfecting the station here and beginning soon the "WKAF" station concerts and news events from the Record News will go out into the air to be picked up in thousands of homes for a radius of 1,000 miles.

A radio broadcasting station is one of the best advertising mediums a city could have. The station here will make Wichita Falls foremost in the minds of thousands of people each day who will listen in on their sets to get the concerts from this city and to hear how the baseball games came out and many other matters of interest.

THIS IS AMERICA

PAT HAMROCK is adjutant general of Colorado and commander of the rangers of that state. He is more powerful than a Romanoff in days of old. William Z. Foster is a nationally known radical lecturer and writer.

Foster visited Denver where he was to begin a speaking tour. Czar Paddy declared Foster to be an undesirable, confiscated his printed speeches and ran him out of the state. Who ever heard of an undesirable get-rich-quick swindler being run out of Colorado? It must be criminal to talk to the people and perfectly legitimate to float oil or mining companies that are launched for the purpose of skinning the people?

If a man is a criminal, if he violated the law he should be arrested and given a fair trial. This is America. This isn't Russia nor is this the Germany of the Hohenzollerns of the long ago.

Ohio republicans remained loyal to the Harding administration. They nominated the Harding choice for United States senator and the Harding choice for governor. Of course there was an aggressive minority of progressive republicans who refused to accept the slate. But these dissenters were rolled by the regulars and the organization chieftains won all along the line.

A BOB-HAIRED GIRL

A LITTLE bob-haired girl who appeared to be about 15 years old, was up before the city court recently on a charge of vagrancy. She was away from home in Wichita Falls alone, deserted by her husband. They say she went the wrong route when her husband left her.

A big-hearted attorney called the girl's mother on long distance and asked if she would send for the girl and take her home. He said that her expenses would be paid.

The mother's reply was that she had no one to send and did not care whether the girl went home or not. She said her daughter is 18 years old and will have to use her own judgment.

It is a pitiful case. The girl was married when but a child. Her husband is said to have abused her.

Many a husband has wrecked his own home by abuse. Take a girl still in her teens or even older, away from her people and who looks to her husband for protection and love and then let her find no sympathy or love from her husband and she naturally turns to others. It is woman's nature to love and want to be loved. God created heart in man and woman so they could love.

When a man continually abuses the love a woman offers him, or is even constantly unkind to his wife, what more can he expect than that she will turn to others for sympathy and once turned away from him it is hard to get them turned back—to offer again that same love and confidence. Any man who deliberately drives his wife from him and kills her love for him is not worthy of love or even respect of his fellow man. If a man thinks enough of a woman to marry her and give her his name then he should at least honor her and be kind to her even if he ceases to love her.

More husbands have wrecked their own homes through unkindness to, their wives than homes have been wrecked by deliberate plotting of outsiders.

A mother who will not stand by her own child to the last, even if her child has sinned woefully, has not the instinct of heart that God intended for mothers and is not worthy of the name.

EUROPE IS COMING BACK

AMBASSADOR MYRON T. HERRICK is home from Paris on his vacation. He is a very wise business man and a very successful diplomat. He says that Europe is not going on the toboggan, that business conditions are improving all the time over there and that what France needs is publicity agents who will tell some of the truths most of the time and a little of the truth all the time.

Herrick is an optimist. He is a student or reader of history. He knows that Europe is coming back. He knows that civilization is on the onward march and not sliding into hades. He knows that the diggers of the world will work their way out as the diggers of history have ever worked their way out.

Texas republicans declared for good roads, good schools and good water. They ignored the light wine and beer issue, they denounced the invisible empire issue and they demanded the repeal of the primary election laws of Texas. National Committeeman Thomas B. Love is the author of the Terrell election law of Texas. It should have been named the Love law. The late Alexander W. Terrell introduced the original bill, Mr. Love and his colaborers added a hundred and twenty-nine amendments to the Terrell bill and when it came out of the hopper it was approved by a democratic governor and has been effective ever since. This in justice to the memory of Alexander W. Terrell.

Clarence Linz of Dallas is the bag man and treasurer of the Texas republican organization. He reported to his fellow republicans who assembled in the city of Fort Worth that the organization has $6,500 worth of bad notes, "most of which were executed by persons who were candidates for political patronage and who had lost out in their ambitions." Now just who is going to make good the deficit?

President C. A. Severance of the American Bar association, in a recent address, scored individuals and communities who lobby for fat appropriations at Washington. How old-fashioned! He must be a hangover from the fossiliferous period of civilization. They are all doing it now.

Rippling Rhymes

THE WAY WE THINK

"Life is full of grief and trouble," said the man who seldom grins; "every tribulation's double, every woe I meet is twins. And the sun is only shiny when we're suffering for shade, and the tears we shed are briny, when we should weep lemonade. Fierce the present, but I roar most when I think of days to come; everything is hind and foremost, everything is out of plumb." "If that is your way of thinking," I replied, "oh, man of care, it's no wonder you are sinking in the waters of despair. Life to me seems crisp and snappy and the world is not a frost; I'm determined to be happy, quite regardless of the cost. In this frame of mind I frolic, gay, though humble and obscure, while you have a mental colic that no aconite will cure. If you lack a grief you fake it, for the sourest grapes you reach; life's exactly what we make it, it's a lemon or a peach. If a man is hunting sorrow he can load it on a dray, and he'll find a lot tomorrow that he overlooks today. If a man is always seeking for the streaking for some cavern out of sight. With your good things and the bright, he will see his sorrows bosom full of sadness and your whiskers wet with tears you can't hope to catch the gladness in the best of whirling chases."

Learn to Swim For Health and Beauty

By GERTRUDE ARTELT
National Champion and Record Holder
Writing a Series of Articles for The Record News

ARTICLE NO. 7

Woolen, With Short Skirt, Only Sensible Bathing Suit—Coast Style, Comfortable, Convenient and Safe for Racing and Beach—Stockings and Shoes Nuisance and Handicap

The illustration shows two different styles of swimming suits which are now in vogue among the girl competitors. On the left is Bessie Ryan wearing a California one piece suit of wool with a short skirt attached. This is very popular in California and is worn by both men and women on bathing beaches. Gertrude Artlet claims this suit is the most convenient, comfortable and safest of all styles. On the right is Blanch Drill wearing a one-piece silk suit which is so light in weight that there is no resistance in the water. It is popular in racing.

MOST of the criticism directed at swimming, or rather bathing, where women are concerned is not so much at the participants as it is at the suits. Many municipal officials at bathing beaches, particularly in the east, keep busy regulating the styles by laws and trying to enforce them.

In view of the fact that I am a swimming girl, I suspect there are many who believe I am strongly in favor of one-piece suits at all times. But really, I'm not. The style of suit worn should be governed by the occasion.

Just as a dinner gown does not belong on the golf links or tennis courts, neither does a one piece silk suit belong on the beach at Atlantic City. We have suits especially for sport competition, on the golf links or in the swimming tank.

IN SWIMMING pools I have been interested in noticing the different suits worn, everything from baggy, non-fitting cotton suits to the skin-tight, silk racing suits. I approve of neither.

Coast Suit Sensible

THE most sensible suit for tank use use is the woolen one-piece or coast suit. These suits cling to you as all woolens do. They are comfortable and look neat. The cottons never fit well because they don't give to the form. Cotton also holds the water and they become baggy and never look tidy.

The silk one-piece is for races and fits skin tight. It is so light in weight, there is no resistance whether the racer is swimming distance or speed.

In California at the bathing beaches the predominating suit is what we call the coast suit. It is woolen one piece and reaches half way to the knees. A skirt is attached from the hips and reaches also to about half-way to the knees. Men and women alike wear these suits and they are most sensible and comfortable.

THE first advantage is fit. There are no loose skirts to interfere with swimming. The water will not wrap the skirt along your legs for it is not long enough and the danger of being upset becaus. you can't move is elliminated. Furthermore, you are less likely to be caught in the undertow.

Stockings Nuisance

AS FAR as stockings are concerned, they are a nuisance, and the shoes that go with them are worse than that. You lose freedom Shoes, no matter how light they are become excess weight, and anything which weighs one down should be avoided.

On an average, the Pacific coast has more swimmers on bathing beaches than the east. The sensible bathing suit is the greatest asset.

In the west a girl with silk stockings causes as much comment as one without stockings in the east.

If every man and woman wore the only really sensible suit, the coast suit, which is slowly coming into its own, we would have fewer drownings, fewer bathers and more swimmers.

The Miami beach has progressed rapidly. There are a number of persons taught to swim there every winter. One of the reasons for the success attained down there is the style suit used. The coast suit is virtually the only one used, and therefore, the beginnere is not handicapped by weighty suits. I am also glad to say that stockings at Miami are a curiosity.

STYLES in swimming suits should drift and, as a matter of fact, are drifting to the most convenient, most comfortable and safest suit. The coast suit is just that.

DENTON, Aug. 13. — The College of Industrial Arts at Denton, Texas, has had a most successful summer session, matriculating 700 Texas college girls. Stuart of Fort Worth, will deliver the commencement address to the 47 graduates on Wednesday, August 24, at 10 o'clock.

accumulation, Pat had the game fairly well in hand, although he was in a hole several times and fast fielding pulled him out.

With the exception of the ninth, Dallas had runners left on base in every inning. They hammered steadily at Pat's flinging and drove 13 safeties into the records. Except for the third and ninth, Galloway's peacocks hit safely and together with a pair of errors and four passes by the Irishest member of the Spudder staff, kept runners in scoring position most of the time.

But the Spudders hardly threatened at all. During the first four innings only one hitter became a base runner, that when Bescher singled into right field, but he was the first victim of a double play that stopped his advance. In that round the visitors chased their four markers across and many a fan began to taste defeat, despite the ability of the Spudders to come from behind.

The crowd was by far the most enthusiastic of the season. Fans and supporters of the Spudder team from the surrounding territory, had come in to see their favorites in action. Many automobiles bearing Oklahoma license plates and dust covered cars from every outlying town within a hundred mile radius were ranked near the park long before time for the game.

A Dallas contingent arrived to cheer their boys through the trying game, the contest which would decide whether or not the Spudders would sweep cleanly their entire home stay. The visiting rooters fought with their team, but they were ably re-inforced as play after play came up, though costing the Spudders all the while, the home fans were lenient with their applause. When Roy Mitchell socked one over the fence with Si Lingle aboard in the fourth, many could feel that it meant a ball game for Dallas. This did not weaken, and Mitchell was the recipient of a hair-raising roar as he trotted around.

The Spudder fans fight for their club, but they recognize a play, regardless of what it may cost.

Miller Back in Game

Jake Miller made his first appearance in the line-up since returning from Pittsburgh. Tex McDonald suffered a badly sprained shoulder in Saturday's game when he slid into second after he was seemingly caught off the bag by a quick throw from Lingle. Tex will be out of the game for several days and will not leave with the home team as they depart for their southern jaunt. If the shoulder heals, Tex will join the club when they reach Houston next week.

Jake poked out the Spudders' second hit of the game when he singled to center. Don Rader robbed Jake of a blow in the second when he leaped high in the air after a terrific drive which was just starting on a rapid journey toward the boards in left center.

Cal Segrist broke his slump and poked three hits into the game. His double in the fourth started the damage, and was his first hit of the series. Flaherty wildpitched him to third and he scored a moment later when lovelace singled to center.

Galloway got his second hit of the series when he dropped a single into right. In the seventh inning of the opening game he shot a short base blow into the same field, but had not repeated until today.

Summa Leads Spudders

Summa was the only Spudder to connect safely more than once. Homer got a pair of singles, the second of which produced the only marker of the day. It was a timely smash, but was not re-inforced by sufficient others to threaten Mitchell's game, for Miller hit into a double play which sent the Spudders from the home lot for four long weeks.

The present season is about ended for local fans. Not until September 11 will the Spudders return for their final series of the schedule, the final disposition of the Cats until the play-off begins.

When the Spudders went down yesterday, they didn't quit. They died fighting to the last ditch and today's activities which carry them to foreign fields and other conquests, will find them the same scrapping Spuds known so well to the Spudder fans.

Mitchell Deserved Win

It was hard to take yesterday, but there is no disputing that Roy Mitchell deserved to win. Of course the game would look better chalked up for the Spudders, but at the same time, few would have been baseballly content to see Mitchell lose a game he had worked so hard to win. He certainly hurled a winning game, and if the Spudders had to lose at all, all admit they'd rather Mitchell should turn the trick, even above all others.

Ready to Scrap 28 Warships

The navy is ready to scrap 28 of Uncle Sam's big fighting ships. Under terms of the treaty limiting naval armament these ships will be junked or sent to the bottom. The navy figures the job will cost 70 million dollars which congress must supply. The ships represent one-half billion dollars of tax-payers' money. They are useless for commercial purposes. About all the Government may hope to get out of them is their value as junk. It might pay Uncle Sam to make a bargain with the Germans who sank the German ships at Scapaflow, at the mere cost of a day's pay.

Taxes will be less when everybody realizes that the tax ddoger is picking the pockets of the taxpayers.

Spudding In
By DON WELDON

Well, folks, they finally took one. And those giants think more of that one win than they do of any series they have won before because they managed to break up the record breaking streak of the club that is going to take the pennant in the play-off. And it took them five games to do it.

Twenty-five games all lined up in a row isn't such a bad little old record anyway. The old wrecking crew started at the bottom and come straight to the top without a loss and that's just where they are going to stay. And when they meet those clawing cats in the play-off, there's going to be some fur flying, too.

DeMaggio seemed to think himself mighty lucky to get on yesterday. That was a pretty little war dance he did on first base but it didn't help him any—he stayed there.

Tex McDonald hurt his shoulder Saturday and his place was taken by Miller. It's just a trifle, though, he says, but he will be back in there next week slamming the ball around.

Segrist got his first hit of the series yesterday and you have to hand it to him. He doesn't get many but that one was a pretty one right down third base line.

Sporting editors are just like anyone else—you will find a few rotten ones along with the best. When a fellow sees the kind that manages to get in the press box once in a while, he feels like apologizing for the ones that are square enough to print the truth and not too yellow to back it up!

Mitchell took that old pole of his in the third and placed the ball as neatly over the fence as if he had been ten feet from it. It was good for a couple of runs. Lovelace trotted across the plate ahead of him.

A bad bounce in the fourth got by White and let in another counter but a jump like that is liable to get by anybody. Watch him make up for it.

Buddy hit into a double play in the fourth and lost a mighty good chance to score. Tough luck, Buddy.

Bescher's drive through first just previous to this was a hit worth seeing. The old leather took on all the appearance of a cannon ball going somewhere in a hurry and passed Galloway before he could turn around.

Bishoff made a bad throw to second in the fourth but he made up for it in the same inning when he cut the runner off third and enabled Buddy to run him down.

One of the prettiest plays of the game was Summa's perfect throw to third in the fifth canton. The ball came straight at the runner's back and Buddy tagged him as he caught it.

Two double plays featured the seventh. Adams, White and Beck completed a pretty play and Dallas cut down a Spudder score with same fast work.

Salm's slabsters journey to Dallas today and with them will go Fred Boone, the diminutive mascot of the Spudders. The young mascot has been on the field in every game since the team came home and they are strong believers in the luck he brings them. Enough so to take him along on the 28-day trip around the circuit.

Stay in there fellows and pour it on 'em. We're with you, Freddie's with you and the fans are with you. Good luck!

"Hymn of Hate" of Poor Loser Clouds Hard-Earned Record of the Spudders

The greatest of all sportsmen is a cheerful loser.

The yellowest of all sportsmen is one who attempts to alibi for inevitable and unavoidable defeat.

Following Saturday's game when Umpire Wier discarded two balls after detecting some foreign substance on them, the Dallas team protested the game on the grounds of "doctored" balls.

Shortly after midnight, the Associated Press carried a wild story of Snipe Conley's condition following the game, the result of creosote, "a fluid used to dip cattle in and to prevent cross-ties from rotting." The creosote was alleged to have been applied to the balls by the Spudders to break up the "effectiveness of Conley's spitter."

The story was alleged to have originated in Wichita Falls at the hands of a Dallas sport writer. It is alleged to have originated from a sport writer whose paper is not a member of the Associated Press, but who, in order to make himself heard wired lengthy messages to sport writers of Fort Worth who jumped at conclusions on the face of his weird "hymn of hate."

How "Poor Conley" Felt

The report carried a statement from Manager Galloway which he emphatically denied yesterday afternoon, saying "I do think we got a bad deal, but I did not make any such statement as that."

The report carried a statement from Snipe Conley stating that he had suffered untold miseries. Perhaps he did, but Conley was disporting himself in a local bathing pool in company with several others at a late hour Saturday night, long after he had been sent to his home near Dallas to recuperate as stated in the Fort Worth message.

Local sport writers called the hand of the originator of the outrageous story and he made no explanation nor apology. His silence was almost pathetic and he refused to remain in the local press "coop" through the final game of the series yesterday.

The Dallas club was expected to take at least two games of the five scheduled in Wichita Falls. When they failed one of the lowest and most despisable tricks in news circles was resorted to.

Spoiling an Earned Reputation

That is the type of scribe which often champions the cause of athletic teams and his report of "creosoted balls" was read by baseball fans over the United States. The Spudder club has been watched closely by fans everywhere during the past week, watched for an anticipated new record. Now their entire string of wins is clouded, all because some gutless sport writer did not know how to lose.

After Fort Worth and Dallas began to raise such a howl over Saturday's game, investigations in Wichita Falls failed to show grounds for a case, in the protested game.

Umpire Wier, in charge of the game, stated that he had two (2) balls, not nine(9) as indicated in the "report," that he had thrown out of the game Saturday. He stated that the balls would be turned over to Prexy Doak Roberts of the league for his action on the protest of Manager Galloway. "Whether the balls were doctored, or whether some of the tar on the Spudder's bats became heated and smeared the balls, I can not say," Weir continued, "but the matter is not for me to decide."

The "report" stated that one member of the Spudder team went to Conley after the game and apologized, asking to be left blameless for any part of the act. When questioned individually Sunday, that part of the report was emphatically denied by the Wichita Falls team.

Spiking 'Em

By "SPIKE" COOPER

There is nothing more conducive toward a pennant winner than harmony on the bench and in the club house.

Regardless of all rumors of internal dissention, scraps and what-not, the Spudders are one of the most peaceable and agreeable bunches of athletes in the game today.

Take the position of Jake Miller, wearing out a uniform sliding up and down the bench, yet he isn't kicking.

He'd like to be in there somewhere, but so long as the club continues to win, that's what he wants. On the bench Friday, Jake and Kitch armed up together and declared themselves to the remainder of the team.

When they did declare themselves, it was a speech something like this: "As long as you stay in there hustling and winning, th n we don't care, but don't ever look back. Any time you do, it means your job."

The Spudder regulars all know it too.

There's nobody on the club playing for some other fellows job, but he's in there because Salm said so. That's enough. They're all out to win.

It might have been a hard turn of fate to Kitch that took him out of the game, but it's a "golden opportunity" for Bischoff.

George was carried last season, just a relief receiver and pinch-hitter emeritus.

When the season opened this year and Kitch went down, George had to step into the breach almost on a moment's notice. There was a long season staring him in the face, a long and hard season. And Kitch still didn't round out. His condition carried him down until he was not able to stand the test in a manner that was at all satisfactory to himself and the club owners.

And so Bisch continued right on doing the heavy end of the battery work and doing it without a whimper.

Although one of the youngest catchers in the league, he has shown improvement from the start of his grind. Of course he isn't the finished player he will be with a few more seasons experience, yet he has done the drudgery through a drive which has carried the Spudders to the coveted honor seat of the league.

His throwing, receiving and headwork have improved perceptibly with the ageing of the schedule. His hustle is still there despite the load he has carried.

And best of all, he's still able to get in there with the best of them.

Many skeptical fans were worried over the coming of the Dallas team.

The Spudders had elbowed themselves to the coveted position by the scantest margins on the eve of the present series.

Many of the faithful fans shook their heads in doubt when Mitchell and Love were mentioned. Many admitted a dread of those two games and openly declared themselves as anticipating as many of two losses to the Dallas team.

Ordinarily that might have been justified, but there's a psychological situation that enters into the consideration.

The Spudders had run up an enviable string of wins. There was even talk of smashing the present world's record, but that was a dream to the fans. But with the Spudders it was different. They just bowed their necks and after winning 15 straight, declared, "We've gone too far to look back now."

That is, in a large measure, the secret of the successful drive through the strenuous Dallas series.

Cooler days are beginning to show themselves. With them comes a longing for the tramp of a feathered foot against a taught pig-skin. There comes a longing for a mole-clad figure, half crouched, half turned, barking sharp signals to the backfield trio of warriors who race across fleeting yardage marks.

Though baseball is with us for several weeks yet, it now nears the time when thoughts of gridiron battles and college nights fill the mind of America.

And it will soon be time for the Coyotes to howl again.

Two weeks hence is going to see a radical change in standings of the National league leaders.

At present the Cards are on top by a scant percentage. The Giants are trailing by that same margin. But behind the Giants comes the "dark horse." The Pirates have just finished winning a dozen straight games and they're back on the home lot for 26 games with their team going top form. Of course the Cards are at home too, but the Giants are on the road for 22 of their next 25 games. They've not been a strong road club at all this year and their two previous trips have cost them the large lead piled up early in the season.

The Pirates are going to mix it with the two leaders before the next two weeks elapse.

Then there are the Cubs, Bill Killifer's entry of youngsters. And in Billy's first year out as a boss too.

The Windy City entry got away to a bad start and with a half-infield, fought their way to third place by a comfortable margin until last week when the sudden spurt of the Smokey City lads passed them up.

The Cubs are not through and while at home for 15 of their next 20 games may make as much trouble for the leaders as the Pirates.

What of the Panthers? Are they slumping themselves out of the last half?

Not hardly. The Panthers are running about true to form despite the tremendous showing of the first half when they ran "over their heads."

The club didn't hit for the average they piled up and their showing is due largely to the hurling staff.

Now the strain is beginning to tell. Pate, Johns, Wachtel, Whitaker and all the others are weakening under the strain. They're about down to form at last.

There is only one chance for the Cats.

The Spudders are already headed toward the top in the last leg of the schedule. There's no getting around that.

Atz is a long headed manager and may use his head still further and when he sees his chances for a dual win flit by his window, will likely call in Morgan and Moore when the season closes next week in the T-O. league where Paris and Greenville are now playing their "little series."

If fans see those two hurlers in the line-up continually during the coming weeks as the Panthers drop game after game, then you may rest assured Atz is resting his staff of veterans for the saw-off.

But he'll need more than that. He'd better begin to rest up his hitters as well.

You never can tell what to expect from Jakie.

PANHANDLE TO GET PIPE LINE

Producing Wells Are 20 Miles Away

PANHANDLE, Texas, Aug. 13.—The Panhandle oil field will have a pipe line to the refinery at Amarillo, if the reported requirement of 500 barrels daily production is correct.

Reports are current that when the production of the field reaches 500 barrels that a pipe line will be constructed. This is the capacity of the Allen Refinery at Amarillo, at present. Swabbing started on the Silk, Bullington, et al, Burnett No. 1, Friday, August 11th, and as yet no announcement has been made as to the production, it is known that it will be better than 300 barrels daily, and likely 500 barrels. The Gulf No. 2 Burnett, one mile north, will produce at least 300 barrels and the McGee & Co., Smith No. 1, a short distance north of the Gulf well, in Hutchinson county, is being cleaned out, following a shot. This well will produce better than a hundred barrels, assuring the pipe line company more than the required amount.

All of the producing wells are from 20 to 30 miles north of Panhandle City, through the Gulf No. 1 Wynn, a short distance east of the city, had a trace of oil at 2700 feet early this week, eight inch casing was set in lime at 2700 feet, and drilling continued.

Texas Co. No. 1 Burnett, Carson county, is making an effort to repair eight inch pipe which parted at 1800 feet, the total depth of the hole being 2700 feet.

Tipton No. 1 McConnell on the east line of Carson county, is underreaming ten inch at 1800 feet.

Gray county—Silk, Bullington & Clark No. 1 Medley, sec. 43, block B-2, drilling at 650 feet with 15 inch hole. Harvey No. 1 Smith, sec. 180, block E, "drilling up," lost bailer at 2900 feet.

Hutchinson County—Gulf No. 1, underreaming at 3180 feet, this test has shown considerable oil and is in sec. 90, block Z. Coble-Heywood No. 1 Coble in the northeast part and Whittington No. 1 Sanford in southwest part, shut down.

Potter County—Amarillo Oil Co., Bivins No. 3, sec 15, block M-20, several million feet of gas at 1550 feet and drilling at 1950 feet. Amarillo Oil Co., Masterson No. 3, sec 102, block 0-18, drilling at 2200 feet, shut down around 2700 feet, trying to drill through 60 million feet of gas.

77 New Wells Are Started in Kansas and Oklahoma Fields

By Associated Press.

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 13.—Records show that 77 new wells were started in Oklahoma and Kansas for the week ended August 5, 56 of which were started in Oklahoma and 21 in Kansas. As for the week previous, it appears that many of these wells did not need to be started, so it is apparent that a lot of the talk about shutting down is hot air and nothing else.

Saturday, operators of the Mid-Continent field, including Texas as well as Kansas and Oklahoma, met in Tulsa to talk over the oil situation and see if some definite arrangement could be made where each fellow will build his own tank and store his own oil in order to stabilize the industry. As long as operators take the situation half heartedly and continue to drill unnecessary wells, all the talk in the world will not accomplish anything. There are many who are doing the right thing; before the meeting they are building tanks and curtailing their works; others are not.

The new wells were started in Oklahoma during the past week as follows: In Creek county 17; Okmulgee, 7; Okfuskee, 2; Tulsa, 2; Osage, 16; Lincoln, 1; Otoe, 4; Carter, 3; Stephens, 1; Grady, 2; and Jefferson, 1.

In Kansas, 12 of the 21 were started in Greenwood county; six in Butler and 3 in Marion.

Cotton Market Shows Losses

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 13.—The range of prices in the cotton market last week was 80 to 152 points. The early sessions brought fairly wide declines while the later sessions brought strong recoveries so that from declines of 83 to 107 points under the close of the preceding week the market moved up to advances of 8 to 45 points over. October traded down to $19.55 and recated to $21.17, finally closing at $20.45. On the close the list showed net losses on the week of 17 to 36 points.

In the spot department middling lost 12 points in the net results, closing at $21.15 against $12.13 on the close of this week last year.

Church at Pioneer Enriched Through Discovery of Oil Well

Special to the Record News.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 13.—Another west Texas church has been enriched by the discovery of oil. It is the First Methodist church of Pioneer, which owns one-twelfth interest in the block 28 townsite well of the Drury Oil corporation, which has been completed for a daily flow of 700 barrels.

Two new producers are also reported in the new Pioneer northeast extension. The Moore No. 1 of the Sims Oil company has been completed for 300 barrels daily while the Nelson No. 2 of the Invincible Oil corporation, gassing for several days, is reported to be flowing some oil. The Hill No. 3 of the Duquesne Oil corporation, which came in for 300 barrels, is reported to have increased its flow to 600 barrels.

On the southwest side of the field the Shipp well of the Gulf Production company, long regarded as an important test, is down 3,000 feet and will seek the Hilburn sand.

In the Mexia field drilling has started on two tests of the Humphreys Oil company which will be put down to the Trinity sand which is expected at about 3,500 feet, in the hope of developing a new horizon of pay. One new producer has been completed in the heart of the field, the Thomas No. - of the J. L. Thompson interests, which is estimated at 1,000 barrels.

A deeper pay sand has been discovered in the Putnam district of Callahan county, in the Catbey well of Charles Dutton et al just southeast of town. It entered the sand at 1,700 feet and is reported to be making 75 barrels daily.

Reports from Montague county state that the gas flow recently discovered in the Maddox well and the Texas company test, eight miles north of Nocona is steadily growing stronger and that each is making fifteen million feet daily.

RIFT SEEN IN STRIKE CLOUDS

Business Outlook Is Brightening

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Prolongation of both the coal and railroad strikes has brought a further lightening on the brakes on the wheels of industry, but the undertone of the leading markets of the country has nevertheless remained firm. It became increasingly evident, as the week advanced, that all parties concerned are already desirous of coming to an agreement and that no insurmountable obstacles stood in the way.

As an offset to the losses which the country has already suffered there is at present an ecumulation of demand, the filling of which will spur industry for some time to come. Coal supplies, meanwhile have dwindled to the point where basic industries have been seriously affected. Although the latest estimates of the geological survey, covering the week ending August 1, show that the output has again risen above the 4,000,000 ton mark, it is still less than half of normal and about a million tons below what it was just prior to the shopmen's walkout.

Steel Industry Hurt

The steel industry in particular has suffered. Shutting down of blast furnaces is almost a daily occurrence, and unless increased supplies of fuel are soon forthcoming, some steel mills will have to suspend operations.

Orders have been unexpectedly large. This week's report of the steel corporation shows a gain of over 140,000 tons in unfilled orders for July. Lack of cars has brought some refusal of orders for immediate delivery.

In spite of embargoes on certain classes of freight by a few of the railroads, carloadings have held up well.

A reassuring note was struck during the week by the department of agriculture forecast of abundant yields of the country's principal crops. Wheat production is estimated at some 5,000,000 bushels above the average and the corn yield promises to be the fourth largest on record.

General buying of cotton, meanwhile, was renewed and the trend of prices appeared to be upward.

Money rates were practically unchanged. Demand for industrial purposes has slackened however, and new capital issues for the week totaled but slightly more than $20,000,000, the low record for the year.

LESSON NO. 4
Tuning

An electric magnitic wave radiated from a transmitter aerial, will induce radio-frequent oscillations, of maximum amplitude, in a receiving aerial, provided that the receiving aerial is electrically tuned to the frequency of the radioted wave. Tuning is the process of obtaining electrical resonance and if two circuits of radio frequency, each obtaining inductance and capacity, are so adjusted that the product of the inductance and capacity in one circuit has a value equal to the product of the inductance and capacity in the other, these circuits are said to be in electrical resonance.

Under these conditions both circuits will have the same natural frequency of oscillation, and the maximum amount of energy in the oscillations flowing in one circuit may be transferred to the other by electromagnetic induction.

In order, therefore, for oscillations of maximum amplitude to be induced in the open circuit of the receiver, it must be tuned to a condition of electrical resonance with the open circuit of the transmitter.

Inductively Coupled Circuit

The open circuit in the inductively coupled tune includes the aerial (A), the aerial tuning inductance (L-1), the primary of the receiving transformer (L-2), the short wave condenser (C), and the connection to earth at (E).

The closed circuit includes the secondary of the receiving transformer (L-3) and the variable condenser (C-1). The energy of the radio frequent oscillations in the closed circuit is rectified into unidirectional pulsations by the detector and rendered audible by means of the receiving telephones. The fixed condenser connected across the receiving telephones stores up the unidirectional pulsations of current and discharges the energy through the telephones. The telephones are connected in series with the detector and both are connected around the variable condenser (C-1).

In order to receive signals of maximum intensity, the open and closed circuits must be accurately tuned to each other and to the frequency of the radiated wave.

In the open circuit the aerial inductance (L-1), the primary receiving transformer (L-2), and the short wave condenser (C) are the elements by which the open circuit is tuned to the frequency of the radiated wave. The closed circuit may be tuned to the open circuit by adjustment of the secondary of the receiving transformer (L-3) and the variable condenser (C-1.

The aerial loading inductance is necessary only when it is desired to receive long waves several times greater than the fundamental wavelength of the receiving aerial and the short wave condenser is used when the length of the radiated wave is less than the fundamental wavelength of the receiving aerial. Increasing the number of turns in the aerial inductance tunes the open circuit to longer wavelengths. Including addition capacity in series by means of the variable condenser (C) enables the open circuit to conform to radiated waves of shorter wavelength. The smaller the amount of condenser capacity included the shorter will be the wavelength, to which the open circuit will conform.

For receiving the "broadcasting" signals which are transmitted on a wavelength of 360 meters, the aerial loading inductance may be omitted, as satisfactory tuning may be accomplished by adjusting the number of turns in the primary of the receiving transformer and by use of a variable condenser of approximately 0.001 mfd in the open circuit.

By adjusting the secondary of the receiving transformer (L-3) and the variable condenser (C-1), the closed circuit is tuned to the open circuit so that maximum audibility is obtained in the receiving telephones.

W. L. Robertson, addressing his bible class in the First Baptist church Sunday morning on the subject "Esther Saves Her People," the golden text being "The righteous cried and Jehovah heard and delivered them out of all their troubles," said in part: "The name Esther means a star. The book of Esther is in ten chapters and testifies to the secret watch and care of Jehovah over dispearsed Israel.

"A mere remnant returned to Jerusalem when King Cyrus gave them their freedom, the mass of the nation preferring to live the easy and lurative life under Persian rule. The place this scene centers on is Shushan, the capitol of Persia, about 200 miles east of Babylon. The monarch of the time was Ahasuerus, otherwise known to history as Xerxes. In the book of Esther the name of God is not mentioned nor is the temple at Jerusalem mentioned.

"The book is not quoted in the new testament, but in no book in the bible is the providence of God more conspicuous. The right of Esther to a place in the bible was long disputed. The events described in the book of Esther cover a period of 12 years. The first chapter tells the story of Vashti in an interesting way. On the throne in Shushan, King Xerxes reigned over 127 provinces. In character he was vain, ambitious, proud, tyrannical and sensual. In the third year of his reign he made a feast unto all his princes and servants that he might show the riches of his glorious kingdom. The feast continued through many days and at the close of this feast he made a feast unto all of the people that were present in Shushan at the palace, both unto the great and the small. They were given drink in vessels of gold, royal wine being served in abundance, and many became tipsy from drinking to excess. Vashti made a feast also for the women in the royal house which belonged to Xerxes.

"On the seventh day when the heart of the king was merry with wine he commanded the chamberline who were serving to bring Vashti before the king with the royal crown so that the people and the princes might see her beauty. We are told that she was fair to look upon. It seems that in that day as now that when men drink to excess they become boastful and wanted to show off their wealth and the beauty of woman.

"But Queen Vashti refused to go before the king and the princes and the people at the feast. No doubt she realized that they had been drinking heavily and that it was not a place for her to go. Her refusal caused wrath and anger to rise in him. The king and all the princes agreed that her action should not pass unnoticed. A request was made for a royal command from the king to the Medes and Persians that Vashti come no more before King Xerxes and that her royal estate be given to another more worthy. This being done letters bearing the information were sent to all the provinces."

Mr. Robertson then told how Esther was brought by a certain Jew named Mordecai who was her cousin and guardian with the other fair maidens of the land that the king might choose one for queen. He told how Esther was chosen and became the favorite wife of the king and won his favor.

Going further Mr. Robertson told how the king's favorite statesman was named Haman, a proud and malicious man who had a born hatred for the Jews. He told also how Mordecai, the Jew, had heard two men plotting against the life of Xerxes and had told his cousin and that the two men had been hanged, the Jew thereby saving the king's life. He told then how the hatred of Haman increased and he succeeded in getting orders passed that all Jews must be killed. It was then that King Xerxes in the midst of granting favors to Haman, paused one night to read the records and found where Mordecai had saved his life. Mr. Robertson told in detail how Haman was humiliated and met the fate he had planned for Mordecai after Esther had won favor with the king and the lives of the Jews were saved.

Wooing the Wild Flappers in Their Summer Haunts —By Bushnell

Speed Up Boys and Enjoy Yourself; There's Only One Motorcycle Cop

Next to the crime wave which is sweeping Wichita Falls in a veritable rage of menace, traffic violations are the most flagrant bother that the city has to contend with.

And all because there is just one lone motorcycle officer on the job to prevent violations of a nature that not only lead to wrecks, but to serious accidents that cause death and injury.

A ten-minute ride taken over the city of Wichita Falls yesterday on the most of the 65 miles of pavement revealed the fact that out of approximately 100 cars which were passed, and many of which turned off onto various cross streets, only one man threw out his arm to give warning of his intention to turn, while only one sounded a horn as he was coming in on Tenth street—a crowded thoroughfare at any hour of the day—from a crossing.

The most flagrant traffic violations were seen on every hand. Ford drivers were speeding; Cadillacs were using Tenth as a race track. Every driver was going in excess of the speed limits of this city, and some of them turned the corner at any angle, irrespective of the silent policemen which signify the right turning points.

At several crossings, it was noticed that the silent coppers have been entirely removed from the street centers where they belong to the curbings, in order, evidently, that speeders and other traffic violators may have more room to violate the law.

There is only one thing that can punish these drivers, and that is an efficient force of motorcycle officers to be constantly on duty. One motorcycle officer cannot patrol 65 miles of pavement 24 hours a day. It's impossible, because the machinery of a human body requirest rest occasionally.

Until such action as will place this city on the level with others of its size if taken, traffic violations will continue, wrecks and serious accidents will be numerous, and the traffic ordinances will be "mere scraps of paper" just as they are now—unenforced, because the police department is powerless to enforce them with only one man.

Negro Wanted by Cops Is Arrested

Shortly after Bailey Williams, negro, was arrested by Detective Chief Jack Miller Saturday on a charge of automobile accessory theft, it was discovered that Williams is the negro the department has been looking for for some time, he being wanted in connection with the robbery of John Prang's domino parlor some time ago in which a safe was removed from the building.

Detective Miller found a brand new casing at the Texas Iron & Metal Works Saturday, and learned from Frank Svidlow, manager, that a negro had brought it there to sell it. Mr. Miller soon located the negro, who, upon seeing the officer, fled the vicinity, but was later captured.

The auto casing, according to Mr. Miller, was removed Thursday night of last week from a car on the local railroad tracks consigned to a firm here.

Formal charges of theft were docketed against Williams yesterday, and he was turned over to county authorities, being held both for the casing theft and for the Prang Domino parlor occurrence.

JESUS CHRIST FIRST DEMOCRAT

Dr. Hardy Speaks Here Sunday

"Jesus Christ was the first great democrat," declared Dr. J. C. Hardy, president of Baylor college, addressing a congregation in the First Baptist church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Dr. Hary did not preach a sermon. He is not a minister. He made a talk that amounted to a good sermon.

Giving a history of Baylor college, its aims and accomplishments, Dr. Hardy explained that it has grown to be the third largest woman's college in the United States and the largest Baptist's woman's college in the world. He told of the splendid buildings, over $750,000 in buildings having been erected in the last three years, and of the gifts of good people who helped make the buildings possible. He told how funds are available for girls to work their way through school if they have no money to go.

Dr. Hardy mentioned the highly trained corps of instructors and said the college has the highest paid musical instructor in the state, if not in the south. He told how daughters of the rich and daughters of the poor alike are receiving the same instruction and explained the democracy of the college. He told of girls being taken from the cotton field and made into cultured women, their visions of life being broadened and their worth to the world and humanity increased many fold.

He compared the sham democracy that allowed ignorance to exist in the land with the real democracy of Jesus Christ.

BIBLE SHOULD GUIDE THEM

Is Best Solution for Railroad Strike

In preaching on "Christianity as a Vital Fact," Dr. T. S. Pittenger Sunday morning declared that the bible must be an open book for the guidance of all professed christians, and that, if the railroad operators and union labor representatives, now meeting to settle strikes, would begin to apply the principles of right and justice, as contained in the Sermon on the Mount to all their problems of labor and wages the beginning of a new order of social life and economic prosperity would be at hand in America, and that strikes will not be fully and compeltely settled until the principles of Jesus Christ have been incorporated into the government and relations between capital and labor. Savonarola said there should be no special privileges to anyone in the "City of God" and this very question is now being fought out between capital and labor.

"The world has been seeking," declared the pastor, "for a long time for something that will stand the crucial test of time and something to which they can turn when other things have failed them. Governments and nations have arisen upon laudable principles and stable foundations, but the moment they grew selfish and began to love pleasure more than God their foundations have crumbled and they have fallen and the same thing has happened to the church many times. No matter how many organizations are formed for the uplift of humanity, they will fail when they get out of harmony with God and when greed and selfishness creep in.

"Christianity is a vital power that has never failed to show its power, no matter how much some of its followers may fail. There was a time when the great cathedrals of the world were packed with people listening to great orations and lectures on ethical principles and the uplift of society but the very men delivering these became entagled in sin and fell. When men that represented the church piled up wealth around and for the church the church has fallen, but christianity has carried on. Unless we seek the divine life of God to cleanse our sins it will not matter how many uplifting organizations are formed.

"If you had watched the organization of a great army of knights during the early ages to rescue the scepter of Christ from the heathen you would have witnessed a great farce in the name of the church. It would have been better for those knights to have put down sin at home and to have raised the scepter of Christ in their own hearts.

"The bible must be an open book as a compass for the guidance of christians. There can be no christianity in the world till people become lovers and students of the book. There is no mistake in Christ and His life and power. I may not be sure as to the virgin birth of Christ and of some other things, but I am sure of His power for saving me from my sins and for sending me out to battle for right in life. This book is a compass for the christian, directing him in language so plain that a way faring man, tho a fool shall not err therein.

"You may say some things in the bile are not prateicable and that some things in the Sermon on the Mount are not practicable in human society today, but I say that there has never been a day, from that time to this, when they have been wholly tried.

"No one save Jesus Christ can touch both the heart of God with one hand and our hearts with the other and that is the reason for Christ and christianity in the world today. The motherhood of the world knows that there is no other that can come into the heart of her child and make him what he should be save Christ. There is no other religion in the world, and never has been, that brings God down into the world, clothed in human form, to forgive our transgressions and cleanse us save christianity and Jesus Christ."

Ask the Prizefighter:-

In the history of the men who have won success in the prize ring there is one outstanding figure. It has been proven that the big knockout punch has won only a small portion of the various fights. Its the short jabs and body blows protected by a well studied and perfectly timed defense, that has worn down opponents and made it possible to deliver a final blow that has gained the victory and secured the final decision of the referee.

The business man today, who tells the people of his community something new each day and keeps everlastingly at it is the man who is getting in the short jabs and body blows. His defense is the honesty of his policy, the truth of his statements and the reliability of his merchandise.

Such a man delivers the knock out blow in one or two big sales each year and gets a knockout every time. He has built up confidence through honesty and truthfulness and his business makes steady gains rather than spasmodic spurts of volume.

Small ads frequently used and planned on constructive principles are the answer to your business Problems today.
