Looking out of a new window to write this column. It doesn't make the succeeding paragraphs any easier, nor does it change the viewpoint. With that announcement, disappointment should be general—the writer that he must resume writing, and the reader that the writer will.

Delegates to the County Democratic convention meet Tuesday, the chief business being the election of delegates to the state convention, with about the only thing in doubt the speed of the constitutional steam-roller. Out of 39 precinct conventions and twice as many resolutions, only one piece of progressive legislation or business was proposed: That a "more representative method of selecting delegates to the county and state conventions be devised. Precinct 6, represented by A. J. Chambers and D. C. Barker, seems to have some thinkers.

Years ago Texas ditched the convention method of naming its representatives to congress, its county, precinct, state and all other officers except that of president. The old convention system, ruled by politics and politicians, still casts Texas' vote and makes this state's decision for president. Out of more than 18,000 qualified voters in Wichita county, less than 1000, the number that attended the precinct conventions, have anything to say about this state's choice for the Democratic nomination.

The convention system, two-thirds nominating rule, hog-tied delegates and unit rule are some of the state and national handicaps of the Democratic party. A Wichita Falls business man who voted for Woodrow Wilson and is now an independent Republican, told the writer Saturday the great majority of progressive Texas Democrats would land in the Republican party within the next few years. "Texas Democrats are already Republicans at heart—they want protection for cotton, livestock, wool, mohair, onions and whatnot," said this man. Texas in the Republican column seems far away. Yet, there are those of us who might be tempted, if a high tariff on petroleum would send oil up—say $2 a barrel.

Mrs. Theodore Zimmerman asks the district attorney to make no effort to secure the death penalty for Jack Nagle, accused as the slayer of Mrs. Zimmerman's husband. The Wichita Falls woman told Nagle he "had her forgiveness," a truly Christian spirit and more. For years we have had capital punishment. Before that it was an "eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth." Crime continued and increased. Now it is said the states with the lowest homicide rates are those without capital punishment.

C. L. Bradford, candidate for constable in Precinct 1, pledges protection of motorists from fee-grabbling deputies. It is a fine pledge, and one that should be included in every candidate's platform where the office depends upon the collection of fees. If Mr. Bradford had jurisdiction over the entire county he might go a step farther and provide a pair of badly needed highway officers for the protection of motorists without "gouging" them.—H. C. NOBILE LANDS AT KING'S BAY WITH DIRIGIBLE

Spitzbergen Base for New Venture Into Frozen Land Reached

DIFFICULT MOORING

Contrary Winds and Snow Hamper Handling Of Big Craft

KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, May 6. (AP)—General Umberto Nobile landed his dirigible Italia here at 1 p. m. today, successfully completing his flight from Vadsoe, Norway, despite extremely unfavorable weather conditions.

The journey from Vadsoe begun at 8:30 last night was far from a pleasant one for the crew of the big airship, for a heavy snowfall and strong contrary winds were encountered throughout the night. General Nobile was advised before starting of the unfavorable conditions but apparently decided his ship could surmount the difficulties on this leg the same as she did on the first trip from Milan, Italy, to Stolp, Germany, when high winds seriously impeded progress.

Wireless Used

The Italia was in constant wireless communication with the steamer Citta Di Milano, the ship which will serve as a base for Nobile's Arctic flights, and the Geofysiske institution at Trimsoe, which supplied detailed weather conditions prevailing in the territory the Italia was approaching.

The Italia was sighted near South Sydkap, in Southern Spitzbergen at 7:20 a. m., and keeping outside the coast line owing to heavy fogs over the mountains made Greenharbor around noon. The strong wind, however, forced General Nobile to maneuver his ship for an hour before he could get her in a position for the crew of the Citta Di Milano to haul her into the hangar which had been prepared some time ago.

Flights Planned

General Nobile plans several flights during the next two months exploring parts of the Arctic regions hitherto unvisited or about which there is controversy. He also plans to revisit the North Pole which he first flew over in the dirigible Norge last summer.

Airmen Attend Rites For "Gull" Inventor

NEW YORK, May 6. (US)—Aviation paid its final honors today to Leonard W. Bonney, who was killed when a home-made airplane he had constructed along the lines of a sea gull, crashed at Curtiss field Friday.

Fliers, airplane manufacturers, engineers and mechanics attended the funeral services, held at the home of the inventor's father-in-law, James C. MacDonald, in Flushing.

Spanish Aviators Halted By Rain at Seville

SEVILLE, Spain, May 6. (AP)—The Spanish aviators, Jiminez and Iglesias, were rainbound here today and, it was believed, will not likely get off tomorrow on their long non-stop flight, probably to Havana.

Everything is in readiness for the trip, about which the aviators are maintaining the greatest secrecy. Continued rain was forecast for Sunday.

Kansan Injured In Crash During Race

MONTPELIER, France, May 6. (AP)—L. Envart of Beloit, Kan., was severely injured when he was knocked down by a light truck. With Alvin S. Mesly of Dodge City, Kan., another American student, he was cycling from Marseilles to Paris. Mesly was unhurt.

Employe Drops Dead In Comptroller's Vault

WASHINGTON, May 6. (AP)—John C. Bulger, 66, who had spent 26 years of his life in the comptroller of the currency's office, preparing shipments of money to banks, dropped dead in a vault containing $50,000,000.

MAN DROWNS IN BATHTUB

Post Mortem Examination Is Ordered

CHICAGO, May 6 (US)—Theron Logan, senior member of the New York and Chicago Brokerage firm of Logan and Bryan, was drowned in the bath tub at the Presbyterian hospital here early today. He had occupied a suite at the hospital since August 1927, when he became a patient suffering with cancer.

Hospital attaches asserted death was due to drowning. Dr. Samuel Epstein was instructed by Coroner Oscar Wolff to perform a post mortem examination.

Mr. Logan's body was discovered by his nurse, who immediately summoned the hospital physician and Dr. Carl B. Davis, Mr. Logan's personal physician.

It was assumed that Mr. Logan, who was not attended by a nurse at night, had drawn water for a bath, had fainted and drowned accidentally.

Mr. Logan had not been active in business for several years, although he had shown interest in the business of the firm which bears his name.

He was born in Cayuga county, New York in 1842, and came to Chicago in the eighties, after his brother had founded the firm of Logan and Bryan together with Benjamin B. Bryan. Mr. Logan became a partner in the firm in 1892. His brother is still living.

Seven Held in Death Of Aged Woman; 2 Flee

SHEPHERDSVILLE, Ky., May 6. (AP)—Seven men were arrested today on federal warrants in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Kate Browning, 60, and the wounding of her sister and four children when the Browning home in the Brownington settlement, near here, was burned and the family fired on from ambush as they emerged from the blazing building.

Two men, Arthur and Sylvia Hodge, for whom warrants had been issued, escaped after an exchange of gun fire with federal officers. Neither of the men was believed wounded.

Funeral Services Held at Henrietta For J. L. Huggins, Pioneer Cattleman

HENRIETTA, Texas, May 6.—Funeral services for J. L. Huggins, 79, wealthy pioneer cattleman of Clay county, were held from the First Methodist church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with the Rev. J. N. Hunt of the Baptist church and the Rev. Paul E. Martin of the Methodist church officiating.

Mr. Huggins was ill only a few hours and at the time of his death he was in the office of Dr. T. K. Jones.

He was born in Perry county, Pennsylvania, in 1849 and came to Clay county in 1875 and has since made his home on his ranch northeast of the city.

Mr. Huggins was an extensive ranch owner in Clay county and other portions of Texas. He was president of Dale Brothers and company, bankers, of this city and associate of a bank in Wichita Falls.

He is survived by one niece, Mrs. Walter Schutt of this city, and two sisters in Pennsylvania.

The body was forwarded Sunday afternoon to Pennsylvania by F. O. Moore, local undertaker. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schutt and O. D. Worsham accompanied the body.

CLEAN VICTORY FOR MOODY IN CONVENTIONS

Uninstruction With Opposition to Al Outstanding

HOUSTON ANTI-SMITH

Smith, Jones, Moody And Walsh Receive Few Delegates

DALLAS, Texas, May 6. (AP)—All sides appeared convinced today that the results of more than 3000 precinct conventions tabulated by midnight fairly represented the political complexion of Texas at this time, and that Governor Dan Moody's wing of the party had won an overwhelming victory for the principle that delegates to the county conventions Tuesday should be instructed for a dry plank but uninstructed to individual candidates.

Few Instructed.

Returns from 71 reporting counties gave 1481 delegates uninstructed, 1234 instructed for a dry plank and a candidate in sympathy with prohibition, but not a particular candidate, 326 instructed for Governor Al Smith, 93 for Jesse H. Jones of Houston, National Democratic treasurer, 45 for Gov. Moody, 17 for Thomas J. Walsh and 3 for Gov. Vic Donahey of Ohio.

Dallas county, in which the constitutional Democrats, pledged to the retention of the eighteenth amendment, have waged perhaps the strongest fight, was swept by Governor Moody and the "harmony" organization, the Democrats of Texas, who carried off 414 of the delegates. Delegates altogether uninstructed numbered 263. Smith drew 250 delegates, the constitutional Democrats 170, and Jesse Jones 63.

Anti-Smith Control.

Opponents of the candidacy of Governor Smith will control the Harris county (Houston) Democratic convention Tuesday by about two to one on the basis of practically complete returns from Saturday's precinct conventions. The anti-Smith wing carried 60 precincts with 161 votes, the Smith supporters 31 precincts with 84 votes, seven precincts were classed as "neutral," with 10 votes and the Smith group announced five precinct results would be contested.

The Hoover forces in Bexar county which includes San Antonio, succeeded in getting only 48 delegates instructed for their man, the faction of the party headed by Congressman Harry M. Wurzbach, obtaining 272 uninstructed delegates. Thirty-three of the 39 democratic precincts reporting were for uninstructed delegations while three were pledged to Governor Smith of New York and three were pledged for dry candidates.

REPUBLICANS GO FOR HUB HOOVER

DALLAS, May 6. (AP)—Reports from official sources in each of the 18 congressional districts of Texas, including returns from counties having much more than a majority of the delegate body at the republican state convention of May 22, received at republican headquarters, show that delegates were elected at precinct conventions instructed for Herbert Hoover for president and for re-election of R. B. Creager of Brownsville, as republican national committeeman.

Mrs. Knapp Expected To Make Own Defense

ALBANY, N. Y., May 6.—Former Secretary of State Mrs. Florence E. Knapp, who is on trial charged with stealing a $2875 census check, will take the stand in her own defense tomorrow. Mrs. Knapp spent today quietly in her hotel, preparing herself for what is expected to be the greatest ordeal of her life. She is confident that when the jury has heard her story she will be acquitted despite the damaging testimony given by her stepdaughter, Clara Blanche Knapp, middle-aged Vermont college instructor.

Fight Renews to Bring Dam Bill Into House

WASHINGTON, May 6. (AP)—Disclosure that President Coolidge is hopeful for congressional action this session on the Swing-Johnson Boulder canyon dam bill may result in supporters of the measure winning a long-standing fight to have the bill brought up in the house.

32 Bodies of Quake Victims are Recovered

LONDON, May 6. (US)—Thirty-two bodies of earthquake victims have been recovered from the ruined towns in the Anatolian district of Turkey which was rocked by a series of quakes Friday, said a dispatch today from Constantinople. It is believed the casualties will mount higher.

Attempted Suicide Asks For Cigarette With Throat Cut

BELMAN, N. J., May 6 (US)—What John Prendergast thought he wanted today was to kill himself. But when he had cut his throat with a razor, he discovered that what he really wanted was a cigarette.

Once he had his cigarette, he allowed himself to be removed to Ann May hospital. His condition is not critical. His home is in Reynolds, Ga.

LAKE VICTIM'S BODY SHIPPED

Two Drown When Boat Overturns

Funeral services for R. G. Irvine, Wichita Falls bricklayer, drowned at Lake Kemp about 9:30 o'clock Saturday night, will be held in Sherman, his old home, Monday afternoon. The body was forwarded to Sherman Sunday night by the Hines Mortuary.

The body of Bill Whitted, negro, who also was drowned when the boat from which Mr. Irvine, Woody Tarkenton, 2015 Collins, A. M. Stewart, 1911 Polk, and Whitted were baiting set hooks and a trot line capsized about 1500 yards from shore, had not been recovered Sunday night.

Body Recovered.

Mr. Irvine's body was recovered about an hour after the accident, however, when it was found entangled in a trot line which Mr. Irvine and the other fishermen had laid early Saturday afternoon. The trot line was about 30 yards below the point where the boat capsized.

The accident resulted, Mr. Stewart told a Record News reporter, when one of the men stood up in the boat.

Mr. Irvine, who was a fairly good swimmer, together with other members of the party, swam for the capsized boat and clung to it for many minutes before he finally gave up and sank beneath the waters.

The negro also relinquished his hold on the capsized boat.

Henry McFall and Harry Marshall, about three miles from the scene of the accident, heard the frantic calls of the two men, secured a power boat and hurried to the rescue, too late to save Mr. Irvine or Whitted.

Narrow Escape.

Tarkenton, Mr. Stewart said, was almost unconscious when the rescue party reached them, and could not stand when taken ashore.

"Had they been ten minutes later," he declared, "it would have been too late for either of us."

Mr. Irvine's body was recovered by Mr. McFall after the two stranded men had been rescued.

"It seemed an age that we clung to that boat," Mr. Stewart said. "We were out there in that icy cold water for about an hour before Mr. McFall and Mr. Marshall got us.

Heard Voices.

"We hadn't been there very long before we heard voices on the shore and could see lights. We called for help and the voices answered us back 'we are coming,' but they never came."

Irvine, who had been in Wichita Falls for several years at different times, came here last about a year ago and made his home at 1518 Westlake. He was a bricklayer by trade. All four men in the boat were employes of Mr. Sam Barley, 2510 Buchanan. This was Mr. Irvine's first trip to Lake Kemp, Mr. Stewart said.

Mr. Irvine is survived by his widow and one son, Robert B., his father, R. J. Irvine, and a sister, Mrs. George Preston, all of Wichita Falls, and numerous relatives in Sherman, which was his home before he came to Wichita Falls.

Whitted is survived by his widow. His home was at 316 Lake street.

German Actress Starts Ocean Hop This Week

BERLIN, May 6. (UP)—The second flight across the Atlantic to New York will start at the end of this week, according to an announcement tonight from Rudolstadt, Thuringia.

A sister ship of the Bremen, the Europa, will be used and a woman, Illy Dillenz, will be a passenger. Johann Risticz, famous German pilot, will be at the controls of the Europa on its overseas flight.

The first halt of the Europa will be at Baldonnel, Ireland. From there it is planned to make a non-stop flight to New York.

U. S. STARTS IN TO COLLECT ON TEAPOT BONDS

Tax Experts Make Study Of Profits Made From Paper

PRAIRIE HAS FUND

Complicated Legal Tangle Expected in Move To Collect

WASHINGTON, May 6. (US)—The treasury is taking final steps to collect a huge income tax from corporations and individuals who received any bonds from the Continental trading company-Teapot Dome $3,080,000 slush fund, it was learned today.

Final studies of the tax liability of present holders of Continental bonds as well as that of individuals who held the securities for the last six years are now being made by internal revenue bureau experts.

Sinclair Holds Bonds.

Approximately $1,500,000 of the bonds are now in the possession of the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company, which is jointly owned by the Standard Oil company (Indiana) and the Sinclair Consolidated Oil company. The company's share of the securities represented the portions which were given to Harry F. Sinclair and Colonel Robert W. Stewart in 1922 and 1923.

Both Stewart and Sinclair, in testimony before the senate public lands committee declared they had merely secretly held the bonds in trust for their companies during the past five years. Both men gave their share of the bonds to the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company soon after the acquittal of Sinclair in the Teapot Dome conspiracy case here two weeks ago, they testified.

An $800,000 item representing principal and interest from a one-fourth share of the bonds has been in the possession of the Prairie Pipe Line company for the past two years.

Blackmer Has Share

The final share, owner by Harry M. Blackmer, who fled to Europe soon after the oil candals first "broke" are now in the custody of Blackmer's attorney in New York. Blackmer was former chairman of the Midwest Refining company, a Standard Oil subsidiary which renounced all right, title or interest to Blackmer's share a fortnight ago.

The tax proceedings are likely to present a complicated legal tangle because of the methods followed by the four men who first received the four shares of the Continental's bonds.

Dying Man Holds Wife Blameless in Duel

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 6. (UP) On his death bed today, Bedford H. Eldridge of Kansas City, exonerated his wife of all blame in the gun duel in which Eldridge was fatally wounded and Primo Allegri, 47, killed. The gun battle resulted when Eldridge found his wife in Allegri's automobile. She claimed Allegri had forced her into the car.

World Dry Leader Sees Smith as Next Chief

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 6. (US) "Unless something unforeseen happens, I fear Al Smith will be next president of the United States," declared Ernest H. Cherrington, president of the world's league against alcohol and research secretary of the Anti-Saloon league. He is attending the sessions of the Methodist church general conference.

Alleged Slayer Of Five Ready for Trial

ELDORADO, Kan., May 6. (AP)—Owen Oberst, 17, confessed slayer of the seven other members of his family, this afternoon told authorities he is ready to go before Judge George J. Benson of the district court, plead guilty to first degree murder and be sentenced. Judge Benson indicated he is willing to dispose of the case today.

If Oberst pleads guilty he will be sentenced to a life term in the penitentiary at Lansing, County Attorney Stanley Taylor said.

Watson Given Slight Edge Over Hoover in Indiana G. O. P. Primaries

INDIANAPOLIS, May 6. (US)—A comfortable, but not large majority may be predicted for Senator James E. Watson in his candidacy for the republican nomination for president in the Indiana primaries Tuesday. He is opposed by Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

The Watson campaign managers are certain that their candidate will win by 100,000 votes, but those less partial are of the belief that this plurality will be cut to at least 50,000.

Under the unit rule, however, all the delegates to the Kansas City convention will be instructed according to the winner in the preferential primary.

The Hoover backers are of the belief that Senator Watson is no more than a favorite son candidate, seeking control of the 33 Hoosier delegates so that he may throw his support to which ever candidate he chooses when the time becomes ripe for his shift.

Watson, on the other hand, has asserted in campaign addresses during the past two weeks that he, as a candidate in his own right, is honestly seeking the nomination.

DEMOS PRESS FIGHT TUESDAY

Second Skirmish Looms For Wichita County

Wichita county democrats may be alone in their efforts to halt the spectacular (thus far) march of Governor Alfred E. Smith towards the presidential nomination but the fight will be carried on no less vigorously Tuesday in the county convention, it was indicated Sunday in the wafting of local political breezes.

Texas as a whole adopted "uninstruction" as the party's motton in the precinct conventions Saturday.

The "constitutionals," with 20 precincts accounting for 43 of the 83 delegates to the Wichita county convention, won a close victory over those favoring uninstruction of delegates as to candidate. Wichita county, almost alone, as David single-handed went after Goliath, is going after the New Yorker with all its feeble effort.

Following fast upon receipt of convention returns in Wichita county came word that the method of procedure with respect to the pledge might cause rejection by the county executive committee of some of the delegates to the convention.

A. H. Britain, leader of the Smith forces in this section, declared Sunday night, however, that he did not contemplate instigating a movement toward rejection of candidates.

Charles I. Frances, leader of the movement for uninstruction of candidates, stated that the faction which he represents is willing to abide by the results of the conventions.

Judge B. D. Sartin, leader of the victorious constitutionals in Wichita county could not be reached. Prior to the conventions Judge Sartin had predicted that the constitutionals would sweep the county, carrying all but about four of the precincts. He also had prophesied however, an overwhelming victory for the constitutionals throughout the state.

It was stated by a number of participants in various precinct conventions over the county that the pledge had been made a laughing stock by constitutional leaders who advised their partisans, unalterably opposed to Al Smith, to sign it and forget about it.

The pledge, honored democratic vow of fealty in Texas throughout the years, was, according to friends of Al Smith, "signed with crossed fingers by numbers of persons who declared they would bolt the party before they would vote for Al Smith."

In spite of the majority amassed by the constitutionals in Saturday's precinct conventions, leaders of the opposition were forecasting a fight on the floors of the county convention to be held Tuesday afternoon.

CONEY ISLAND BOOMS

CONEY ISLAND, May 6. (UP)—Police estimated 300,000 persons took advantage of today's unusual spring weather to visit this resort.

WATER POURS THROUGH GIANT DIRT BARRIER

Warnings Sent Along Saluda River Valley After New Break

TOWN IN DANGER

People Flee From Homes As Torrent Rushes Down Course

GREENVILLE, S. C., May 6. (UP)—The Greenville city water works dam at Table Rock Cove, 30 miles away, began to crumble again late today, bringing fears that there was no chance of saving the huge earthen structure.

Sudden collapse of the dam was not feared, but warnings were sent through the south Saluda river valley that the water, pouring through at the rate of several thousand gallons a second, had washed away fresh portions of the western side, and that the sloughing away was expected to continue.

The Greenville city water works office said there was no danger of the entire structure giving way, according to reports received from officials of the water works, who are at the scene.

Residents Move Higher.

PIEDMONT, S. C., May 6. (UP) Alarmed by reports from Table Rock Cove that the Greenville city water works dam had begun crumbling again, more than 200 residents of Piedmont along the Saluda river were being moved to higher ground at 7 p. m. today.

The Saluda river makes three bends in Piedmont, and if the dam gives away suddenly sending its billions of gallons of water over the valley, the entire lower section of town will be in danger. About 2500 people live in that part of town.

Rains Cause Break.

GREENVILLE, S. C., May 6. (UP)—Heavy rains, which set in at Table Rock Cove, 30 miles west of here, where the Greenville city water works dam developed a leak Friday night, brought fears that the sloughing away of the dam might resume if the rain continued.

The sloughing away had practically stopped today and no increase of the volume of water pouring through the break was noticeable.

Practically half the thickness—about 75 feet—of the western end of the dam had slid off. At the bottom of the break water has been rushing through, but it had not increased in volume today.

Between 5000 and 6000 gallons of water a second was pouring through the break Saturday, according to estimates.

Valley Evacuated.

Inhabitants of the south Saluda river valley for 60 miles either remained away from homes evacuated when the break developed Friday night or prepared to leave on a moment's notice.

Cessation of the sloughing away of the earthen dam was the first encouraging development at the site. More than 5,000,000,000 gallons of water are held back by the huge structure, and had it been released suddenly lives of thousands of people who live in the valley, dams further down the river, and cotton mills would have been in imminent danger.

Most of the towns along the river—Piedmont, Pelzer, Belton and Ware Shoals—were on high ground and would not be affected by anything less than a sudden break, releasing a mountain of water to pour over the gradually widening valley.

Mills In Danger.

Cotton mill owners have taken the precaution of piling sandbags around their factories, and watchmen have been stationed through the valley to fire gun signals if a complete break occurs.

Farmers and their families, who were scattered through the valley, moved to higher ground at the first warning, Friday, and remained there today, while their livestock roamed about the country.

Red Cross relief for refugees are not considered necessary, officials said, after a tour of the section.

SENATE FACES FINAL 'JAM'

Session Expected to Last Until May 26

WASHINGTON, May 6. (US)—With its hopper loaded to the lid with major measures yet to grind through the mill, the senate today faced a legislative jam at the close of the present session which furnishes all the elements for a spectacular finish.

May 19 has been fixed for the grand windup, but it appeared certain that a final hectic week will be added, bringing adjournment to may 26 at the earliest.

The coming week--one-third of the remaining session, will be given over to the tax bill. Administration forces are lined up to hold tax reduction to around the $203.000,000 figure, satisfactory to President Coolidge and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. Democrats are fighting for a $300,000,000 to $325,000,000 tax reduction bill, insisting that the treasury can well withstand such a slash.

The fight, when it reaches a vote will bring out for the first time this session, the test of straight party power.

With the tax bill out of the way, the Boulder dam battle will be resumed in a terrific debate to bring it to a final vote. Led by Senator Ashurst (R) of Arizona, the forces opposing the bill are prepared to filibuster to the last ditch. Senator Johnson (R) of California, championing the bill, will use every bit of strategy possible to get Boulder dam to a vote, confident that if this can be done, it will be passed.

Looming behind the Boulder dam measure is the all important Mississippi river flood control bill, now back from conference. Taxes and flood control are two measures which the congress, above all else, desires to settle before the members hurry to the national conventions and to the hustings of the 1928 campaign.

Farm relief legislation, under the banner of the McNary-Haugen bill, is still in conference.

Wichitans Leave For U. C. V. Meeting

The last contingent of Wichitans who will attend the United Confederate Vetrans reunion at Little Rock starting Tuesday, will leave Wichita Falls Monday noon. They are John Grounds and N. L. Lowrance, vetrans.

Miss Jonny Morgan, Mary L Clark, Miss Eloise Hawkins, Miss Katherine Kay, Miss Lida Lee, and Miss Mildred and Miller are scheduled to depart at 11:55 o'clock Monday morning.

Eight were in the party of Electrans which passed through Wichita Falls Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Wood, Camille Avis, Judge Edgar Scurry, Elizabeth Langford and Joline Woods left in the Woods' car Saturday. Other parties have left and are either on their way or have arrived at Little Rock.

Girl Honor Student Commits Suicide

CHICAGO, May 6. (UP)—Ruth A. Good, 21, of Kalispel, Mont., honor student at the University of Washington, committed suicide in a hotel here today by drinking poison, explaining in notes that she took her life because "she never had lived."

The girl, in company with her mother, Mrs. Henry Good, was returning to her home after having gone to Mayo Brothers hospital at Rochester, Minn., to receive treatment for a nervous breakdown.

Majority of Tennessee Delegates Go For Hull

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 6. (AP)—Democrats meeting yesterday in county conventions to elect delegates to the state democratic convention here May 10, instructed the majority of their delegates for Cordell Hull, for the presidential nomination with one favoring Governor Smith of New York, for second choice and another endorsing Smith's candidacy. Hull is a congressman from Tennessee.

Bomb Wrecks Bank In Center of London

LONDON, May 6. (US)—Complete mystery surrounds the bombing today of quarters of the Bulgarian Commercial bank in the heart of the business district, said a dispatch tonight from Sofia. The building was wrecked, and, the fact that it was Sunday and the place was empty is all that prevented many casualties.

District Judge Faces Murder Trial Tuesday

BRENHAM, May 6. (AP)—District Judge Carl T. Harper of Madisonville, will go to trial Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock on a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Lee Rich, Houston wrestler, war veteran and oil company employe, at Huntsville, several weeks ago. Judge Harper, it is said, will plead self defense.

State's Attorney Is Blamed for Crime Wave

CHICAGO, May 6. (UP)—State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe was charged with responsibility for increased crime conditions in Chicago by the Illinois association for crimianl justice in a report of a year's survey made in this city. Crowe was accused of "compromising with criminals," in the association's report.

C. L. Bradford, former constable, is a candidate for the democratic nomination as constable of Precinct 1 in this county.

BRADFORD TO SEEK OFFICE

Candidate for Constable Gives Platform

The candidacy of C. L. Bradford for constable has been announced subject to the democratic primary vote in July. Mr. Brandford was constable of Precinct 1 in 1925 and 1926.

Mr. Bradford was born in Georgia, but he came to Texas when eight years old and has resided in this state continuously since. He moved to Wichita Falls 11 years ago after having been reared in Grayson county.

Long Record.

Mr. Bradford would carry into the office an amply long and an unusually varied experience. In 1921 he became a deputy sheriff here and continued at that work for 18 months. For the next year he was a member of the city police department as night sergeant. He retired from that position and made his successful race for constable.

He believes that some of the most valuable experience of his career has been obtained since leaving the constable's office. For several months since then he served as special investigator for the district attorney's department, remaining in that position until the law went into effect which required that such a special investigator must be a licensed attorney.

"I believe the experience I have gained, and especially that in the district attorney's department, will greatly increase my ability to serve if the voters elect me constable," Mr. Bradford said.

"No law enforcement officer in any county is called upon more often than a constable to use judgment as to when there has been a violation of law and where there has not. He is the officer to whom a great many complaining persons first go, and the day seldom passes when he must decide whether a complaint is just, or whether it is the result of spite.

Protection for Autoists.

"I will pledge to the citizens that I will do my utmost to enforce the law with common sense, regardless of where the violations may be found. At the same time, I promise to protect the citizens from any attempt at fee grabbing. I shall not allow automobile drivers to be made the prey of fee grabbers, but at the same time there will be no distinction between rich and poor when there is a culpable violation of law.

"I shall be most painstaging in my selection of deputies, and will insist that all bear excellent reputations and that all possess the special qualifications needed by a competent officer.

"My pledge, if elected, is to give honest, efficient and courteous attention to the transaction of the duties of the office. My request is that citizens will investigate my qualifications."

Parents Come Home To Find Children Burned

BASIN, Wyo., May 6. (UP)—Returning from a dance early today, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Coast found three of their children burned to death in their beds.

An incubator lamp was believed to have caused the blaze, which destroyed the entire Coast home. The family had lived on a ranch near Greybull.

The dead children were Willis, 13, Roberta, 1, and Howard, 3. They apparently had been overcome by smoke and fumes before the fire awakened them.

General Motors Official Fills Depew Vacancy

DETROIT, May 6. (AP)—Frederick J. Fisher, a vice president of the General Motors corporation, has been elected a director of the Michigan Central railroad to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Chauncey M. Depew, it was announced here tonight. The Michigan Central is controlled by the New York Central.

Woman Healer Ordered Arrested in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, May 6. (UP)—A woman healer known as "Nina Fidencia," was ordered arrested as a result of alleged ill effects of her healing on two patients. Military officials sent a detachment to Hermosillo, Sonora, where the woman lives, to bring her to Mexico City.

Southern Senator Will Force Congress to Test Vote On Issue

WASHINGTON, May 6. (INS)—A direct test of vote on the question of making the present generation carry the burden of paying America's World war debt will be taken in the senate during consideration of the next tax reduction bill.

Senator Simmons, Democrat, of North Carolina, minority finance leader, made this certain by sponsoring an amendment, which would provide for the application to the American debt retirement fund of all payments made by foreign nations on their debts to the United States. At present, nearly $500,000,000 is raised annually by general taxation for the retirement of the war debt.

Under Simmons' amendment, all payments made by foreign nations would be applied against this fund thus lightening the tax burdens of the American people to the tune of hundreds of millions a year. His obvious motive is to provide for a greater treasury surplus for the fiscal year of 1929 and thus allow congress to authorize a greater reduction of Taxes.

MURDER CASES UP IN WEEK

Mrs. Nichols and Roberson Face Trials

Two murder cases are set for trial during this week in district court in Wichita Falls.

Paul Hunter, Monday will go on trial in 89th district court, Judge P. A. Martin presiding, for the murder of Mrs. Fay Roberson, Wichita Falls woman whose body, exhibiting serious bruises, was found in bed at her home here several months ago. Hunter, hearing that he was being sought in connection with the death of Mrs. Roberson, surrendered to Constable Frank Morgan the morning following Mrs. Roberson's death.

Witnesses told officers of a fight the night before Mrs. Roberson's body was found in which the woman is alleged to have engaged.

Mrs. Clara Nichols, 1528 Blond street, will face Judge W. W. Cook on Wednesday morning on charges of murder in connection with the fatal shooting on Easter Sunday morning of J. C. Nichols, the woman's husband.

The state probably will seek the death penalty in both cases, members of the district attorney's office declared Sunday.

Royal Masters To Confer All Degrees

All the degrees of the order will be conferred Monday afternoon when the Wichita Falls Council No. 140, Royal and Select Masters holds a meeting to present the work for the fourth time in its history.

Degree work will start at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Masonic temple. The royal masters degree will be conferred by John A. Elder, thrice illustrious master. The select master's degree will be conferred by Past Most Illustrious Grand Master James D. Avis.

At 7:30 the super-excellent master's degree will be conferred in the lodge rooms of Maskat temple by the regular team in charge of J. S. Pitman, right illustrious deputy master.

Jap, Late in World Race, Reaches Chicago

CHICAGO, May 6. (AP)—A youthful, slender Japanese with a scholarly air, slid from the Manhattan limited today for a few hours rest on his race around the world.

Ryukichi Matsui smiled only at the request of battery of cameramen and the reason for his solemn mien was readily explained. Matsui believes he has lost the race and the $1,500 prize offered by the Tokyo newspaper, Ji Ji Shimpo.

A countryman, Toichiro Araki, traveling from west to east, passed through Chicago several weeks ago and is now in Siberia. The one who gets back to Tokyo in the shortest time wins the race.

Missing Cabin Cruiser Reaches Dock Safely

MIAMI, Fla., May 6. (AP)—The 35-foot cabin cruiser Louvenia, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Whitney C. Bliss of Coral Gables, missing for several hours in Biscayne bay, reached its dock at Cocoanut Grove at 1 a. m. today. Engine trouble which developed off Soldier Key delayed the craft's return.

All available craft at coast guard base number 6, Fort Lauderdale, had searched vainly for the missing yacht since early last evening. The vessel did not go outside the bay because of a high wind.

Belief in God Kept Fliers in Ocean Flight

NEW YORK, May 6. (AP)—Their deep-rooted belief in God sustained the fliers of the transantiantic plane Bremen when they were lost in the fog banks over Newfoundland, Baron Gunther Von Hunefeld told the congregation of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church today.

The Baron, accompanied by Mrs. Hermann Koehl, wife of the German pilot of the Bremen, attended services at the Lutheran church while Captain Hermann Koehl and Maj. James C. Fitzmaurice attended mass in St. Henry's chapel of St. Agnes Roman Catholic church.

Rubber Fake Bomb Disturbs Labor Meet

LONDON, May 6. (UP)—A practical joker treated an incipient panic when he tossed a fake bomb on the speaker's stand during a meeting in Liverpool this afternoon in celebration of the British labor party's "May day." The bomb, fashioned of rubber, emitted smoke when it struck the floor of the speakers' platform. A number of the spectators rushed for exits but the stampede was halted before any were injured in the crush. Police arrested three believed responsible for the incident.

Alabama Elects Demo Delegates Tuesday

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 6. (AP)—Alabama's delegates to the national democratic convention at Houston, Texas, will be named at a statewide primary next Tuesday. Two delegates will be chosen from each of the state's 10 congressional districts and four from the state at large, making 24 votes for the Alabama delegation at the national convention.

The Alabama delegation will go uninstructed and with the privilege of voting individually.

Second Assault On Foreigners Is Feared

LONDON, May 6. (US)—Fear that Chinese nationalist soldiers are planning another assault on the international settlement in the captured city of Tsinan has resulted in the drafting of all available Japanese men in the settlement, said a Central News Dispatch from Tsinan tonight. For the first time in several days direct communication with Tsinan has been established, says the Central News.

N. Y. World 'Fires' Star Writer With Announcement to Readers

NEW YORK, May 6. (UP)—The New York World announced in this morning's edition that it had discharged Heywood Broun, nationally known columnist, for disloyalty to this paper.

The statement appearing in the space formerly occupied by Broun's column, "It Seems to Me," said:

"The World has decided to dispense with the services of Heywood Broun.

"His disloyalty to this paper paper makes any further association impossible."

The action came as the climax to a series of quarrels between Broun and Ralph Pulitzer, editor of the World, which started some years ago with the question of theatrical censorship and extended through the Sacco-Vanzetti case when Broun went on a self-styled strike after he had been ordered to temper his articles about the case.

Pulitzer's action was assumed to be based on an article by Broun in this week's Nation entitled "The New York World and Other Dailies."

Broun said he would consult a lawyer immediately to see if it would be possible to bring action against the World.

"It's evident they have broken my contract," he said, "and I can't see any reason why I haven't a good case."

Methodist Bishop Gives Chicago Clean Bill of Health in Address

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 6.(UP) Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, of the Chicago area, who presided at the general Methodist conference today, gave Chicago a clean bill of health. According to the bishop, "Chicago is as good as any other city in the United States."

"We have more Methodist churches than any other city in the world," said the bishop. "The results of the last election was an expression of this group. This city is no more of a problem than any other. I am proud of my area and my city."

He denounced the materialistic and rich type of American who cares only for himself and wallows in a kind of self-indulgence that lowers him to the level of a pigsty. He pleaded for greater generosity and racial good will in the development of the world service work of the church in its home and foreign mission program. The conference cheered when he declared that such appelations as "Nigger," "Sheeney" and "Dago" applied to other Americans as a disgrace to the country.

A radical resolution was adopted demanding that the church declare war on cigaretts and protesting the manufacture, sale and use of the same.

"Smoking by women is a travesty on Christian womanhood," declared the Rev. Dr. David H. Hargis, Philadelphia, Pa. "Cigarette smoking by women is a harmful and pernicious habit. It is time to call a halt."

Valuable Baxter Relics Collection Deposited With Canyon, Tex., Museum

CANYON, Texas, May 6.—What is thought to be the most interesting and most valuable individual collection of relics and mounted specimens in the Panhandle-Plains country has been deposited with the Historical society museum by Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Baxter of Dimmitt. An entire room in the main building of the West Texas State Teachers college has been set aside for the display of this collection, which is the result of 15 years' diligent work.

The Baxter collection contains at least 800 separate articles.

Mounted Specimens.

The most interesting and valuable of the mounted specimens is a pair of steer horns more than 85 years old, which measure eight feet, four and a half inches from tip to tip. They are thought by many to excel the best in the famous Buckhorn saloon collection of San Antonio. They came from the Mineola section. Among the mounted game heads are ten deer, an enormous elk, caribou, mountain sheep, and bear. Mounted ducks, herrins, squirrels and alligators run the total number of mounted specimens to almost 40. Mr. Baxter is a noted sportsman, and has spent much time hunting in the Rocky Mountain section and has been in Alaska. He collects his own specimens upon his hunting and fishing trips.

Indian Relics.

Mrs. Baxter has been interested particularly in archeology. She has given much study to the subject of aboriginal races. She and Mr. Baxter have made several trips to the ancient ruins of the Indian races in Arizona, New Mexico, and Colorado. The result of Mrs. Baxter's study and work in these ruins is to be seen in a very fine collection of ancient pottery. The collection contains 16 complete pieces, besides many fragments showing the interesting designs used by the Indians in decorating. A square made of stone which Mrs. Baxter believes the Indians used in making the angles in decorating the pottery is counted one of the most valuable single specimens in the entire collection. So far as is known, no like specimen has been found by anyone else. Another very rare relic is an Indian trowel. A number of pieces of modern pottery, four bowls, a number of arrows, Indian beads, awls, pestles and metates, perfect axes and hundreds of arrow heads are some of the other relics found in this collection.

Other Relics.

One entire display case will be given over to guns. Among the interesting specimens of this particular collection are a flintlock six-shooter, wire twist rifle, and a very fine trap gun. This division of the collection, with powder and shot horns, contains 16 different relics. About 100 pieces of old money illustrate the evolition of currency in this country for many years past. Besides many relics of the pioneer home, there is the nucleus of a very good geological collection which contains about 40 fossils and mineralogical specimens. Mr. and Mrs. Baxter collected most of these relics during their residence in Brownwood, Texas. This collection has been coveted by a number of schools and museums, and forms the most valuable single addition that has ever come to the Panhandle-Plains Historical society.

BARRETT TELLS SECOND STORY

Prisoner "Confesses" Slaying Woman

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 6 (US) While police here still scoffed at the assertion of Jarson C. Barrett, Folsom penitentiary prisoner, that he killed William Desmond Taylor, fil mdirector, the convict today confessed to having also murdered a woman.

"Four other fellows and myself were holding up a doctor's office in Louisville, Ky., in 1921, when I shot and killed a nurse because she resisted," Barrett told the prison warden. "The girl's first name was Evelyn or Elelyn, but I don't know her last name."

Barrett supplied numerous details of this alleged slaying, but penitentiary officials and Los Angeles authorities were frankly skeptical of this latest "confession." They said that Barrett, formerly a drug addict, has a "confession complex." However, Louisville police have been asked to check on his latest murder statement.

The convict declared today he had never before confessed the killing of Taylor, who was shot to death in his Hollywood bungalow in 1922. Barrett claims he was paid $6000 by three women, "prominent in the motion picture colony," for the slaying. Taylor's death was ordered because he was about to reveal the inner workings of an alleged "dope ring" in the film world, Barrett said.

Investigator Ed King, of the district attorney's office here, reiterated his belief that the convict is making these confessions as part of a plot to escape. Barrett hopes, King said, to be brought to Los Angeles from Folsom for questioning in regard to his revelations. Once outside the penitentiary, his chance to escape would be greater, King declared.

Tired Voter Gets Chance to Learn "Inside Stuff" in Candidate Probe

WASHINGTON, May 6. (UP)—The senate campaign expenditures committee begins its investigation of the high cost of running for president Monday.

It will undertake to learn how much each candidate for president is spending and how. The first witnesses to be called are the candidates themselves. Monday the committee will begin on the list of senators who are running—Borah of Idaho, Curtis of Kansas, Goff of West Virginia and Norris of Nebraska, Republicans, and Walsh of Montana, and George of Georgia, Democrats. Rev. Hull of Tennessee, Democrat, also will be questioned; later Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican, and Senator Reed of Missouri, Democrat, will appear. Wednesday the committee expects to go to Annapolis to question Governor Ritchie, Maryland Democrat. The following week the committee may go to New York to question Governor Smith, Secretary Hoover and former Governor Lowden will be questioned later also. After the candidates themselves have been heard, their managers, backers, and supernumeraries will be examined.

Public interest in this investigation—barring the unanticipated disclosure of gross stupidity on the part of some candidate or his managers—lies therefore in the light it throws on what makes a presidential candidate tick.

To the tired voter who puts on his evening slippers and glances over the news dispatches presidential candidates may appear to grow wild like the dandelions which plague his backyard garden. But if this senate committee does its job the ordinary non-profit sharing voter who has not had the illuminating experience of looking behind the scenes is due to learn a number of things.

He will learn, for instance, that presidential candidates are nursed as carefully as the bottle baby of a scientific mother.

He will learn how, long before the public is aware, the aspiring candidate and some of his friends talk it over and employ a press agent after which the potential candidate's name begins to appear in the political dispatches; how the

3500 VISIT NEW BUILDING

Modern Hospital Ward Opened by State

More than 3,500 persons visited the state hospital at Lake Wichita and inspected the new building recently completed and opened to the public Sunday afternoon.

The new structure, which is designed for a mens' ward, was commenced last October in order to allay the crowded condition existing at the hospital, and was completed and equipped about a week ago at a cost of $125,000. The new building will accommodate a maximum of 225 patients.

This latest structure makes a total of 17 fire-proof buildings and 10 frame structures at the hospital, representing an expenditure of $1,750,000.

The hospital is located near Lake Wichita, on 940 acres of land owned by the state and has a capacity of 1,175 patients. The personnel consists of 150 officers and employes. The hospital contains the most modern operating rooms, X-ray and electro-therapy apparatus and hydrotherapy equipment.

It is planned to erect another building in the fall, a women's ward, which will increase the capacity of the institution to 1,400 patients and the personnel to 175 officers and employes.

Ramblin' with Marie Theresa

THE number of women who attended the precinct conventions of the city Saturday afternoon almost equalled the number of men present. In nearly all the precincts, women were chosen as delegates to the county convention, May 8. That speaks well for the active part taken by women in their recently granted privilege.

◆ ◆ ◆

NOW is the season of closing programs, and the end of a successful year of artistic activity will be observed with a fitting finale. The Woman's Choral club will present Bernard U. Taylor of Fort Worth as a feature in its final concert of the season. Mr. Taylor is a baritone of unusual prominence and well known in this locality. Numbers by the choral club under the direction of Mrs. Luella B. Thompson will round out an unusually attractive program.

Then the major musical event of the spring will be the Music Festival recently postponed to May 18 at the Memorial auditorium. This event is attracting a great deal of attention from the large number of participants and the prominence of those artists taking part.

In addition to these musical events, plans are being made by the various schools for a display of musical talent in a general springtime roundup.

WOMEN must learn to co-operate with each other before they can hope to win equality with men in business and professional fields, declared speakers at the second annual friendship dinner, at which 27 different women's organizations brought together 500 guests in New York city, including visitors from the three states, Massachusetts, Vermont and New Jersey where we might expect to see women taking prominent parts in business and professional fields.

Among the prominent speakers was a woman who has just declined the vice presidency of her firm because she felt that the prejudices of men against women executives would hurt the standing of the firm.

The speaker urged women to pay more attention to the work in which they were engaged in an effort to prove their worthiness of the 75 years in which far-sighted women have sought a standing in the business and professional field. She urged that women look upon their work as a career which would not hinder matrimony, rather than as a stepping stone to marriage.

B[illegible] GLADYS WHITLEY

AU[illegible]N, Texas, May 6. — High scho[illegible]isitors from all parts of Texas [illegible] on the campus this week-end to enter the University Interscholastic league state tournaments. Sorority and fraternity houses, dormitories and Austin homes were opened to these visitors. Dr. H. Y. Benedict, president of the university, declared all Friday classes suspended in order that the university students might take part in the interscholastic league activities. In conjunction with the league meeting, Simga Delta Chi, honorary and professional journalistic fraternity, sponsored a press meeting of high school editors, who were especially honored Friday evening at the annual all-publications banquet of the university. At this time students working on any publication for the year were awarded honors for their work. The Tiny Texan, a miniature edition of the school paper, was issued a that time, too.

Much interest was taken this week in the election of student officials for next year. In the five major races of the campaign it was necessary to count second places in order to determine winners. Among the northwest students chosen to high positions were Jimmie Payne of Breckenridge, editor-in-chief of the Daily Texan; Damaris Green of Runge, chairman of the Woman's Honor council, and J[illegible]mes Lumpkin of Amarillo, [illegible]demic councilman.

[illegible]irginia Sewell of Vernon is in [illegible]tin this week-end competing [illegible] her school in the state typewriting contests.

"Lincoln and the Constitution" was the subject of a speech made by Edwin Davis of Hubbard, senior student in the university, who was entered in the state division of the national intercollegiate oratorical contest. Davis won over opponents from six other state schools.

Lillie Mae Moore of Amarillo is entered in the typewriting contest conducted by the interscholastic league here this week-end. Miss Moore is a regional tournament winner. Ruth Teinert of Vernon, regional winner, is entered in the league typing contest also.

Joe L. Mayes of Henrietta, Bob McKinney of Amarillo and Plasco Moore of Quanah entered extemporaneous speech contests held here this week-end. Prof. Ellwood Griscom of the university was general chairman of the public speaking contests.

Dean V. I. Moore and his assistant Arno Nowotny went to Boulder, Colo., this week to attend a meeting of Deans and Advisors of Men association.

John Sanders of Electra is entered in the typing contests here this week-end.

Ruby Huth of the Montague school in Bowie is among the students listed as a participant in the state 3-R contest.

Howard Payton of Barwise school in Wichita Falls was in Austin this week as a participant in the rural pentathlon.

Betty Green of Bowie was one of the six women in the school of law recently pledged to Kappa Beta Pi, honorary legal fraternity for women students at the university.

Naomi Ramsey of Breckenridge senior high is entered in the typing contest being held here this week-end.

Josephone Applewhite of San Antonio is the director of the Senior Swing-out for this year. At this time, class officers of all four classes in the university are announced. The names of the girls on the senior, cap and gown council, are told and the members of Mortar Board, honorary senior organization for girls, named.

Quitaque Postoffice Moves to New Quarters

QUITAQUE, May 6.—The postoffice has been moved from its former location on the north side of Main street, where it has been located for a number of years, to the east side and on the south end of Second street, between the variety store and the Willson Lumber yard.

The new home of the postoffice is a new brick and concrete structure measuring 25x140 feet with modern conveniences, erected by J. W. Ewing of this city. This should be appreciated by the citizens of Quitaque as very few towns the size of Quitaque can boast of the postoffice being housed in a building equal to this one.

Girls Win Haskell High Class Honors

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Texas, May 6.—At a meeting of the high school faculty Friday afternoon the records of the members of the class of 1928, Haskell high school, were carefully canvassed and it was found that highest honors were due two young ladies. Miss Mary Pearsey, took highest honors with average grade of 93 per cent for her first three years of high school and will be valedictorian. Miss Marjorie Rogers followed with an average of 88 per cent. She will be salutatorian. Grades for current year were not available. In the seventh grade Judith English, will represent her class as valedictorian and Felecia Siegel will be salutatorian.

MODISH MITZI THEY DON'T CLICK? By Jay V. Jay

It doesn't look so promising for the plan Mitzi and the Goofer worked up—neither Marie nor the young man seems especially impressed. Anything to stop Marie from putting her heart's interest on the task of getting the Goofer and Mitzi to fall ecstatically into each other's arms! A little Destiny around the house is too much That's why Marie is going to the country club in her new coat of basket weave with its fringed scarf and cuffs. That's why Mitzi is going to the country club in her coat with the new yoke and her hat trimmed with applique. Marie's hat is a felt with a rippling brim —wider than most brims have been for a while back. Marie's temper is almost sulky.

There was no use trying to pair them off. Marie will hang upon the Goofer's every word, and the Goofer's nephew will gaze adoringly at Mitzi. Their interest in each other is practically zero. Marie is hoping that the Goofer admires her new dress of crepe—he ought to because it has buttons down the front, tucks on the shoulders, pleats in the skirt and pointed cuffs on the sleeves. Mitzi's dress is smart, but why mention her dress when she is wearing a Rodier printed scarf knotted on one shoulder—a style that appears in gowns for every occasion from breakfast until bedtime. It's awfully hard, thinks Mitzi, to force Marie into a new interest in life and boys are difficult!

Although Few Men Marry Geniuses, Every Husband Expects His Everyday Human Wife to Be a Combination Mind-Reader, Financial Wizard, Miracle Worker, Quick-Change Artist and Vamp—And, Miraculously, Many Are!

When the average young man marries the average girl he cherishes no delusions about her being a genius, or being possessed of any supernatural powers whatever. On the contrary, he percieves her limitations clearly enough, and he picks her out for a wife not because of her mental prowess, but because she is dear and sweet, and in some inexplicable way is just it for him.

Nevertheless, as soon as he gets married he expects this ordinary, commonplace, everyday human woman to be:

A mind-reader. He expects her to know that he still loves her, although he never mentions the state of his affections after the honeymoon, nor bestows a kiss or a caress upon her that are not so cold and perfunctory that they would register below zero if their temperature were taken.

He expects her to know that when she shows him her new frock or hat and he growls out: "What, another dress? My lord, woman, do you think you married Henry Ford? Don't you ever think of anything but clothes?" he isn't begruding her the price of her finery, nor trying to keep her from buying more. He is just calling her attention to what a good provider he is, and reminding her of how thankful she should be for having got a husband who can doll her up like the Queen of Sheba.

He expects her to know, when he comes home with a face that looks like the wrath of God, and kicks the cat and spanks the baby and knocks the dinner and demands of Heaven to know why any man is fool enough to get amrried, that there is nothing personal in it. It is not because he regrets his own marriage, or has ceased to love his wife and adore his children and think his home the greatest place on earth. It is just because stocks have gone down, or things have gone wrong at the office, or he ate too many fried oysters for lunch.

He expects her to know even when he indulges in a little flirtation that it really doesn't mean anything at all, that he is just playing hookey like a small boy, and can't understand why his wife doesn't treat him like his mother used to do: spank him and kiss him and forgive him and forget it.

Next he expects his wife to be a financial genius. He expects her to make every dollar do the work of five, and to run a house and set a good table and clothe a family without running up bills.

He expects his wife to work some sort of financial hocus pocus that wil make rents cheap, and butchers hand out tenderloin at the price of rump steak, and keep children from wearing out their shoes, and cause new clothes to grow like feathers on the family backs, and generally to make the first of the month a time of rejoicing instead of a day of the gnashing of teeth and gloom and despair. And when wife doesn't turn out to be a Mellon or a Dawes in petticoats, he feels that he has got stung.

Next he expects his wife to be a miracle worker. He expects her to be able to turn herself into a parlor ornament or a kitchen utensil at a moment's notice. He expects her to spend next to nothing on her clothes, and be her own dressmaker and milliner, yet look like a daily hint from Paris. He expects her to do the cooking and washing and ironing for the family, yet have her hands soft and white and beatifully manicured. He expects her to devote all of her time and thought and energy to her home, yet never to smell of the cooking, or hand out sterilized baby talk.

He expects her to look fresh and rosy after having been up all night with a sick child. He expects her to be as well dressed as the women in his office, though her allowance isn't a third of their salaries. He expects her to read and keep up with what is going on in the outside world, and be a bright and entertaining talker who is up on all current topics and has a wide outlook on life, when he never takes her to any place of amusement, or gives her any chance to see things outside of the four walls of her home, and when she has to work about fourteen hours a day to keep her family comfortable, and the home a going concern.

Next he expects his wife to be a lightning-change artist, who can adapt her mood to his before you could say "scat." If he is tired and wants to spend the evening drowsing over pipe and paper, she must be willing to stay at home and keep the children quiet. But if he feels like stepping out, she must be ready to grab her hat and go. If he wants to be talked to, she must have a nifty line of conversation with which to regale him, but if he is glum, she must be silent as a grave.

He expects her to be tickled to death if he remembers her birthday and not be silly enough to be hurt if he forgets it. He expects her to want to go to places he wants to go, and not to drag him to places he doesn't want to go He expects her not to question the price when he is hungry and orders a lavish meal at a restaurant, and to be content with an ice-cream soda if he doesn't feel like eating. He expects her to be equally willing to go with him on a pleasure trip or to be left behind. He expects her never to go out of an evening without him, but to be broad-minded enough to be willing for him to go without her.

Finally, every man expects his wife to be a vamp and to continue to exercise her charms upon him. He doesn't feel it necessary to work himself to death keeping her fascinated and in love with him, but he expects her to keep his interest in her at fever heat. He feels that he has a perfect right to get fat and middle-aged and bald, but he expects her somehow to discover the fountain of perpetual youth, and remain young and slim and beautiful. Or, at least, he expects her to keep him hypnotized into believing that she is still a flapper.

And the queer part of it is that so many wives do come up to their husbands' expectations!

Biennial Leaders Plan Reception For Texas Women

Special to The Record News.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, May 6.—The Texas reception, set for Saturday evening, May 26, 8:30 o'clock, at the Menger hotel, will be the meeting ground for Texas women in advance of the biennial of the General Federation of Women's clubs. All Texas women are eigible to attend this Texas reception and all San Antonio women who are members of a federated club.

With the entire lower floor of the Menger hotel given over to this reception, groups will receive in the various rooms and patios. At the entrance of the hotel, the guests will be greeted by members of the hospitality committee, Mrs. W. W. McCrory, Mrs. R. R. Russell, Mrs. J. T. Smith, Mrs. Willis Keller, assisted by Mrs. F. F. Stauffer, Mrs. A. H. Worden, Mrs. S. P. Cunningham, Mrs. J. C. Griswold, Mrs. Phil Wright, Mrs. Alex L. Adams, Mrs. G. P. Robertson and Mrs. G. R. Scott of Corpus Christi.

In the first parlor, the receiving line will include Mrs. Henry Drought, Texas biennial chairman; Mrs. W. R. Potter, president of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, and the state officers in their order. In the second parlor will be the seven district presidents in the order in which they come.

Receiving in the third parlor, will be the seven district biennial chairmen: Mrs. C. W. Connery, Fort Worth; Miss Hattie Neathery, Farmersville: Mrs. Charles Ashcroft Sulphur Springs; Mrs. F. L. Clark, College Station; Mrs. H. B. Broaddus, Colorado, and Mrs. Lon V. Smith, Floydada.

Receiving in the ballroom will be Mrs. J. B. Lewright, army civilian club member of the hospitality committee; Mrs. Thomas Q. Donaldson, wife of the commanding general of the Eighth Corps area; Mrs. C. M. Chambers, wife of the mayor of San Antonio, and the past state presidents.

All the above mentioned state officers named in the receiving line are requested to call Mrs. W. W. McCrory, hospitality chairman, upon their arrival in San Antonio in order that she may assist them in finding their places in the receiving lines.

Believing that all Texas women would like to have part in making this Texas reception a success, Mrs. W. W. McCrory asks that any club or individual who wishes to do so, send flowers to be used in the decorations. These may be sent direct to the Menger hotel, plainly marked for the Texas reception, or brought by the visitors who attend, in cars.

CAMPFIRE SPARKS

The Ahsonzong Camp Fire group of Reagan junior high met on Tuesday. They practiced the Camp Fire songs, "Burn, Fire, Burn," "The Blessing" and "Mammy Moon." Those present were Juanita Garner, Johnnie Cunningham, Elizabeth Johnson, the guardian, Miss Wilcox, and Miss Elrod.

The Alahi Camp Fire group held its weekly meeting Wednesday at the K. C. hall. During the business session the guardian announced to the girls that a hike, with a younger group of girls, would be held some time in the near future. After the business session the rest of the afternoon was spent socially. Those present were: Milly Pastusek, Louise Van Emden, Charlotte Kennedy, Margaret Ossenbeck, Frances Hyland, and the guardian, Mrs. A. W. Ayers.

The Adi-Iwah group held its weekly meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of the guardian, Mrs. Davis, 2209 Taft street. The girls enjoyed a nature hike to Boone park. Flowers were gathered by the girls to be mounted, and three families of birds were seen. A desperate search was made for the nests of these birds because the girls wished to determine the way in which the different birds build their nests. A beautiful scissortail was seen by the girls.

The Wihetonga group held its weekly meeting at headquarters Friday afternoon. The girls spent the afternoon working on the boxes for the Kiwanis zero hour entertainment. Those present were: Fairy Fay Chandly, Katherine Cox, Lois Fisk, Helen Gardner, Mabel Greene, Corrie Anna McBee, and the guardian, Mrs. Anna Barnhill.

The Cantawayua group held its weekly meeting at Lovelace Book store. The girls took instructions for the making of boxes for the Kiwanis zero hour jubilee to be held June 18. Those working on the boxes were Lena Mae Leasley, Estelle McPhail, Mary Katherine Ward, Winnelle Ward, Lee Ellen Boardman, Loraine Mathis, Eleanor Weiler and Mrs. J. C. Mathis, guardian.

The Yokama group held its weekly meeting in the club room in the K. C. hall. Ar pretty box was decorated with the flag motif. The group planned to decorate several mort boxes. Those attending were: Margaret Davis, Grace Hall, Alma Nicklas, Mary Teresa Boyle, and the guardian, Mrs. J. F. Hyland.

The executive board of the local council will meet at headquarters Tuesday noon, May 8. All council members are cordially invited to attend all board meetings.

A meeting of the camp committee of the council was held at headquarters Thursday morning. Frank Creighton, member of the camp committee, told of a number of improvements to be made at the camp before May 30. A local school cafeteria manager will be employed to have charge of cooking all meals, with the help of two girls. Miss Katherine Webb, a Camp Fire Girl of Sherman, of six years' experience and a student of C. I. A., will be employed as music and handcraft counsellor. Mrs. Pat Hengy, Red Cross examiner of Dallas, will serve her third year at Camp Letoli, as swimming counsellor. Mrs. Robert Mahood of Stamford will probably be camp craft counsellor. The nurse and nature lore counsellor have not yet been secured. Camp will open May 30 and close June 13.

Modern Tourist Camp To Open at Haskell

HASKELL, Texas, May 6.—Kamp Kennedy, one of the most modern tourist camps in all the southwest will be completed in two weeks, J. F. Kennedy, the owner announces. The buildings will be fire proof, with water, lights, gas and linens in every room. All rooms have private garages. Kamp Kennedy is located one block from the Haskell square.

LIVINGROOM CONTEST HELD

Winners in Childress Test Named

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, May 6.—The better living room contest which has been under way in Childress county was recently brought to a close when six winners of two different classes of the contest were announced. The contest was conducted by the extension service of the A. & M. college of Texas, and the entrants from this county were coached by Miss Mary Sitton, home demonstration agent. The living room contest as held this year takes the place of the better kitchen contest which has been held in past years. The change was made to improve other parts of the farm home than the kitchen.

In class one the winners were: First, Mrs. J. H. Garner, of Hereford Grove; second, Mrs. Ruth Kilgore, of Harrel Chapel; third, Mrs. W. L. Morrison, of Harrel Chapel.

Winners in class two were: Mrs. E. T. Scott of Springer, first; Mrs. Ed McCoy, of High Point, second; Mrs. C. L. Bain, of Harrell Chapel, third.

Pot Shots at Politics

by Col. Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald

L. D. FAIRCHILD.

Death has claimed Senator L. D. Fairchild of Angelina county. He was in the prime of life, a native Texan, one of the most rugged and fearless leaders of his party, never a time server, ever battling for his convictions and perhaps the most picturesque debator and filibusterer the senate of Texas has known in many years. He was a product of the piney woods, well educated, ever a representative of the farmer and organized labor and ever on the trail of textbook companies and corporations and their alleged encroachments upon the rights and the liberties of the people. He fought the school book companies to a royal finish in many prolonged and exciting legislative contests. He had served in the house several terms. He was elected to the senate six years ago. He was a follower of the Fergusons and an unrelenting antagonist of secret political organizations, including the Ku Klux Klan. He never ran away from a fight and he provoked and precipitated many. Regardless of all this he was a prime favorite in senatorial circles and wielded at all times a vast deal of influence. He had two years to serve and his friends in the piney woods always insisted that some day he would be their congressional representative under the big dome in the city of Washington.

NEW PICTURES.

Senator Fairchild has passed out of the picture. Senator John H. Bailey, known as the father of the house and the senate, has practically passed out of the picture. He is a candidate for congress in the Mansfield district. Advices from West Texas indicate that Senator W. H. Bledsoe has a strenuous rival for a seat in the upper house in the person of Mayor Pink Parrish of Lubbock, a member of the state committee, strong personal and political friend of Governor Moody, a breezy orator and an agile campaigner despite the 300 pounds he carries and the other handicaps which are said to go with a heavyweight. Senator Pierce B. Ward of Cleburne is another veteran who has a big fight on his hands in the candidacy of a citizen of Ellis county who is very ambitious to take the political scalp of Ward and win a place in the upper house. There is certain to be new faces in the next picture taken of the state senate of Texas. Fairchild was ever a dominant force in legislative life since his first election and Bledsoe is recognized as one of the ablest of lawmakers, a man of independent conviction who follows his own flag and never takes orders from the powers that be.

IS DEATH A MOTHER?

Is death a mother?
  She takes a life—
Protects it, from
  This world of strife.

Such peaceful sleep;
  It seems to me
That death is just Complacency.

Then why does man
  So fear death's knell,
When, in her arms,
  He'll sleep so well?

THIS FARM FOR SALE, OR WILL TRADE FOR A TICKET FOR HOUSTON, TEX

Lester Kite, o' th' O. K. fillin' station, got knocked down at an early hour t'day, when he asked Ot Sweet, R'publican candidate fer sheriff, how his oil wuz. Any kind of a farm bill would be a great relief t' th' public.

(Copyright John F. Dille Co.)

One-Minute Sermon

And suddenly there came a sound from heaven as of a rushing of a mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they were sitting.

And there appeared unto them cloven tongues like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them.

And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance.—The Acts, ii, 2-4.

Three Great Projects Doomed

UNLESS the congressional signs are misleading the Boulder Dam proposal is on its way to the graveyard. Mississippi flood relief will be vetoed by the president and all the farm relief measures will be given the axe. Republicans control both houses of congress. Republicans should shoulder all responsibility for the defeat of important legislation demanded by the people of the far west, the farmers who think they are given a rotten deal and the valley dwellers who have been ruined by Mississippi river overflows.

Grain Prices Picking Up.

"ALL GRAINS set new high mark," was the caption of a market report carried by the daily newspapers on the morning of May 1. Of course, it happened in the city of Chicago, where "in a wild buying stampede wheat, corn, oats and rye all smashed the season's record for high prices." It is said that private reports indicate a yield of domestic winter wheat this season about 52,000,000 bushels less than was harvested last year. It was a great day for the elephant. It was a gloomy day for the donkey. There is no telling what will happen later along in the season. Then the laugh may come from the farm relief politicians.

Foxy Jim's Back to the Wall.

FOXY JIM WATSON of Indiana is fighting with his back to the wall. He is the favorite son of the republican machine and has officially asked for an instructed delegation to the Kansas City convention. Postmaster General Harry S. New fired the first bomb. It exploded in the camp of Foxy Jim. New declared for Herbert Hoover and asked the republican voters of Indiana to rally to the standard of the secretary of commerce. New has been a cabinet officer eight years. He is a publisher of a very important daily newspaper. He has scant respect for Foxy Jim. Indiana Republicans will return a verdict May 18. Unless the signs are misleading, on that date down will go the Foxy Jim Watson political house of cards.

Spying Out the Land.

REPRESENTATIVES of New England capital and New England textile factories are spying out the land under the skies of the Lone Star state. They are being told by Texans of the advantages for investment in textile mills in the Lone Star commonwealth.

They knew all about it before they crossed the Texas border line, but they demanded a close-up.

Texas is the home of all the raw materials. Texas has the wool and the mohair. Texas has the cotton and the oil and the gas and the lignite. Texas could produce 25,000,000 bales of cotton each year. Texas has the railway facilities. Texas has her gulf ports and the shipping facilities. Texas has the climate and Texas has the labor. Taxes are low in Texas.

There is a potential market for textiles in all the Latin-American countries. There is a population of 100,000,000 people in the Latin countries of the South American hemisphere and the tide of immigration has been turned from Europe to the Pan-American republics. In the march of time these republics will be known as the United States of South America.

These visitors from New England, these capitalists who represent millions, are in the Land of Promise and they know it.

A Texas Woman Honored

TEXAS occupies a proud place on the map of American states just as it occupies a proud place on the pages of American history. Texas men and Texas women are in evidence everywhere at home and abroad. Congratulations to Mrs. S. M. N. Marrs of Austin and the sisterhood of Texas.

Mrs. Marrs was elected president of the National Congress of Parent-Teachers association at the annual meeting held in the city of Cleveland. She succeeds Mrs. A. H. Reeve of Pennsylvania, who had served five years in the presidency, a maximum allowed by the bylaws.

President-Elect Marrs assumes the leadership of the Congress after five years of service as fourth vice-president in charge of public welfare. Mrs. Marrs has been identified with Parent-Teachers organizations in Texas for a number of years and an outstanding leader of the associations.

She became district president of the Texas association in 1914 and was state president from 1920 to 1924. Elevation to the highest position or office within the gift of the vast membership of the Parent-Teachers association of America is a high honor as well as a significant recognition of the services and the leadership of the Texas woman who will guide the destiny of the congress in coming years.

A PEDDLER'S FORTUNE

There is a striking "success story" in the career of Joseph Abraham, who landed in New York in 1886, an immigrant from Syria with $10.50 in his pocket. He died in Bristow, Oklahoma, recently a multimillionaire.

Abraham invested his original capital in merchandise which he began to peddle from house to house, first in the east and later in Oklahoma. Within three of four years he was able to open a store, which prospered greatly. He also acquired 11 cotton gins and a cotton seed oil mill. Through industry and thrift he built up a great fortune.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Mr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

Dr. McCoy will gladly answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Record News. Enclose stamped, addressed, large envelope for reply.

DIET AND DRAINAGE.

The British medical fraternity and, in fact, surgeons all over the world, have been subjected to a series of shocks during the past few years because of the statements given to the press by Sir Arbuthnot Lane, the famous English surgeon. Doctor Lane is known as one of the world's foremost surgeons, having been physician to the King of England and the royal family for many years.

In his work as a surgeon he originated a number of operations for which other surgeons have honored him by naming such surgical procedure after him. For example, the "Lane's Link Operation" is a well known operation for removing a condition known as "Lane's Kink." This is a peculiar kind of kink which Dr. Lane attempted to cure through removing a section of the intestine.

Doctor Lane must be credited also with starting the recommendation of the use of Russian mineral oil to overcome constipation. It is less than twenty years since Doctor Lane suggested the use of mineral oils, and today these oils for lubricating the intestines are refined and sold by the hundreds of millions of gallons yearly.

After nearly a half century of surgical practise, Doctor Lane has summed up his conclusions in an apt phrase when he says that "health is simply a matter of diet and drainage." This is the same viewpoint held by hundreds of health writers throughout the world. Some name autointoxication as the cause of all disease, others use the words "toxicosis," "autotoxemia," "self poisoning," "intestinal poisoning," and similar words and phrases which mean practically the same thing.

The homely truths which I give you daily in this column may practically be all grouped under the titles of "assimilation" and "elimination." If you have been benefited through following my advice, it is because you have learned better rules about the assimilation of foods and the elimination of waste products.

The hundreds of thousands of letters of appreciation which I receive prove to me that practically every disease can be prevented and even cured by the one who learns how to properly balance assimilation and elimination. This is getting back to certain fundamental truths as every physician must realize, even though there seem to be so many practitioners of the healing arts who are looking for obscure causes of disease and missing the common ones.

Readers are always more interested in the cure of disease than they are in preventing it, and seldom become interested in health until they have lost it.

Perhaps my readers would be interested in a series of articles explaining how disease already acquired may be cured through increasing the different eliminative processes which the body must use. The principal channels of elimination are through the lungs, the skin, kidneys and intestines.

Tomorrow's article will explain how to increase elimination of toxins through the lungs.

Questions and Answers.

Question: O. L. B. writes: "My mother had her gall bladder removed two years ago. Now she has a rash all over her body, and her doctor tells her it is because she has no gall bladder. What can she do? Would an orange juice fast do her any good? I have tried the orange juice fast myself for eight days and feel like a different person."

Answer: There is probably no connection between the removal of your mother's gall bladder and the rash she is now bothered with. The gall bladder, if infected or diseased, may become a regular cesspool of poison. After such a gall bladder is removed, patient should feel better for a year or two, but if the same habits continue which produced the gall bladder trouble in the first place, other symptoms and disorders must inevitably result. The orange juice fast would certainly be a good treatment for her to take to cleanse the liver and remove excess toxins. Tell your mother to be especially careful afterwards to use good food combinations.

Question: Norma F. writes: "I wish you would tell me something about cucumbers. I am very fond of them, but even while eating them I have a secret fear that they are a kind of poison or something."

Answer: Cucumbers are not only harmless, but a really valuable salad vegetable when used in proper combination with other foods. The bad reputation of this vegetable is due to the fact that whenever it is eaten with an improperly balanced meal and there is trouble, the cucumber is immediately blamed, when the vinegar and onions with which it was "prepared" are the offenders. Use cucumbers quartered or sliced, without adding salt or oil, and you will quickly decide there is nothing "poison" about the cucumber.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE

STOCK EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, May 6.—If ever there is a revolution in the capital of Capitalism, it will begin in the subway. Nothing enrages a New Yorker like his initial experience in getting home via the underground railway during a rush period. He sees adults herded, pushed, jabbed, kicked into cars until men and women, black and white, are crowded into embarrassingly intimate positions, and forced to stand, arms pinioned and feet caged, until another station is reached and the battle begins all over again.

The other morning a man stumbled and fell as he entered a subway car. So great was the push behind him that he was crushed underfoot and seriously injured before guards and policemen were able to shove aside part of the jam and rescue him.

Amazing to the lucid observer is the stoical good humor of the average New Yorker when thus treated like a sardine. Hardened to the ordeal, the regular subway rider braces himself at each station for a rush and crush and calmly continues to read his newspaper or converse with companions.

A skeptic by profession regarding the honesty and efficiency of most police officers, I have been struck by the many demonstrations of unusual kindliness I have witnessed in New York cops. I have seen a traffic officer halt a stream of autos on Fifth avenue in order to allow a cat, accompanied by a bevy of kittens, to cross into Central park. The day Lindbergh returned from Europe, I saw an officer guarding a line of sightseers spread his long legs far apart, so that two kids might crawl up and view the procession from between them. And there is a copper on a beat in the neighborhood in which I live who keeps himself broke buying candy for the kids. There is a dangerous corner upon which the children gather of a morning, waiting for him to guide them across. He picks up one in each arm and leads the rest from curb to curb, while motorists grin. Sometimes two or three hang behind and make him come back and tote them over.

The other day a traffic officer arrested a young woman for violation of a parking ordinance. Next morning he appeared against her when she was arraigned in court. She was fined and didn't have the money with her to pay it. The officer—his name was Patrick Corcoran, bedad!—voluntarily handed over the money from his own pocket.

Extraordinary transportation conditions in New York undoubtedly are a big, if not the biggest, factor in the success of the tabloid newspapers. A standard-ized sheet may not be read with ease in a subway, elevated or surface car during the hours when the majority of persons travel in them. Pages of the abbreviated journals are easy to turn. The brief stories and many illustrations cause the eye strain to be less.

Three million travel in the subway daily and probably most of them read as they ride.

The Story Thus Far

The thing that baffles Vance most is the jewel case. It had been opened with a steel chisel after being battered with a poker. It was found not far from the strangled body of Margaret Odell. In no way can anyone account for the presence of anyone in the apartment at the time of the murder, yet Vance is satisfied two men were there, one of them unaware of the presence of the other. Finger-prints lead to the arrest of Tony Skeel, after Cleaver and Dr. Lindquist have been questioned.

CHAPTER XX

(Wednesday, September 12; 9 a. m.

The following day, which was Wednesday, not only brought forth an important and, as it appeared, conclusive development in the Odell case but marked the beginning of Vance's active co-operation in the proceedings.

The psycholological elements in the case had appealed to him irresistibly, and he felt, even at this stage of the investigation, that a final answer could never be obtained along the usual police lines. At his request Markham had called for him at a little before nine o'clock, and he had driven direct to the district attorney's office.

Heath was waiting impatiently when he arrived. His eager and covertly triumphant expression plainly indicated good news.

"Things are breaking fine and dandy," he announced when we had sit down. He himself was too elated to relax, and stood before Markham's desk rolling a large black cigar between his fingers. "We got the Dude—six o'clock yesterday evening—and we got him right. One of the C. O. boys, named Riley, who was patrolling Sixth Avenue in the Thirties, saw him swing off a surface car and head for McAnerny's Pawn-Shop. Right away Riley wig-wags the traffic officer on the corner, and follows the Dude into McAnerny's. Pretty soon the traffic officer comes in with a patrolman, who he's picked up; and the three of 'em nab our stylish friend in the act of pawning this ring."

He tossed a square solitaire diamond in a filigreed plainum setting on the district attorney's desk.

"I was at the office when they brought him in, and I sent Snitkin with the ring up to Harlem to see what the maid had to say about it and she identified it as belonging to Odell."

"But, I say, it wasn't a part of the jewelry the lady was wearing that night, was it Sergeant?" Vance put the question casually.

Heath jerked about and eyed him with sudden calculation.

"What if it wasn't? It came out of that jimmied jewel-case—or I'm ben Hur."

"Of course it did," murmured Vance, lapsing into lethargy.

"And that's where we're in luck," declared Heath, turning back to Markham. "It connects Skeel directly with the murder and the robbery."

"What has Skeel to say about it?" Markham was leaning forward intently. "I suppose you questioned him."

"I'll say we did," replied sergeant; but his tone was troubled. "We had him up all night giving him the works. And the story he tells is this: he says the girl gave him the ring a week ago, and that he didn't see her again until the afternoon of day before yesterday. He came to her apartment between four and five—you remember the maid said she was out then—and entered and left the house by the side door, which was unlocked at that time.

"He admits he called again at half past nine that night, but he says that when he found she was out, he went straight home and stayed there.

"His alibi is that he sat up with his landlady till after midnight playing Khun Khan and drinking beer. I hopped up to his place this morning, and the old girl verified it. But that don't mean anything. The house he lives in is a pretty tough hang-out, and his landlady, besides being a heavy boozer, has been up the river a coupla times for shoplifting."

"What does Skeel say about the finger-prints?"

"He says, of course, he made 'em when he was there in the afternoon."

"And the one on the closet door-knob?"

Heath gave a derisive grunt.

"He's got an answer for that, too—says he thought he heard some one coming in, and locked himself in the clothes-closet. Didn't want to be seen and spoil any game Odell mighta been playing."

"Most considerate of him to keep out of the way," drawled Vance, "Touchin' layalty, what?"

"You don't believe that rat, do you, Mr. Vance?" asked Heath, with indignant surprise.

"Can't say that I do. But our Antonio at least spins a consistent yarn."

"Too damn consistent to suit me," growled the sergeant.

"That's all you could get out of him?" It was plain that Markham was not pleased with the results of Heath's third degree of Skeel.

"That's about all, sir. He stuck to his story like a leach."

"You found no chisel in his room?"

Heath admitted that he hadn't.

"But you couldn't expect him to keep it around," he added.

Markham pondered the facts for several minutes.

"I can't see that we've got a very good case, however much we may be convinced of Skeel's guilt. His alibi may be thin, but taken in connection with the phone operator's testimony, I'm inclined to think it would hold tight in court."

"What about the ring, sir?" Heath was desperately disappointed. "And what about his threats, and his finger-prints, and his record of similar burglaries?"

"Contributory factors only," Markham explained. "What we need for a murder is more than a prima facie case. A good criminal lawyer could have him discharged in twenty minutes, even if I could secure an indictment. It's not impossible, you know, that the woman gave him the ring a week ago—you recall that the maid said he was demanding money from her about that time.

"And there's nothing to show that the finger-prints were not actually made late Monday afternoon. Moreover, we can't connect him in any way with the chisel, for we don't know who did the Park Avenue job last summer. His whole story fits the facts perfectly; and we haven't anything contradictory to offer."

Heath shrugged helplessly; all the wind had been taken out of his sails.

"What do you want done with him?" he asked desolately.

Markham considered—he, too was discomfited.

"Before I answer I think I'll have a go at him myself."

He pressed a buzzer, and ordered a clerk to fill out the necessary requisition. When it had been signed in duplicate, he sent Swacker with it to Ben Hanlon.

"Do ask him about those silk shirts," suggested Vance. "And find out, if you can, if he considers a white waistcoate de rigueur with a dinner-jacket."

"This office isn't a female millinery shop," snapped Markham.

"But Markham, dear, you won't learn anything else from this Petronius."

Ten minutes later a deputy sheriff from the Tombs entered with his handcuffed prisoner.

Skeel's apearance that morning belied his sobriquet of Dude. He was haggard and pale; his ordeal of the previous night had left its imprint upon him. He was unshaven; his hair was uncombed; the ends of his mustache drooped; and his cravat was awry. But despite his bedraggled condition, his manner was jaunty and contemptuous. He gave Heath a defiant leer, and faced the district attorney with swaggering indifference.

To Markham's questions he doggedly repeated the same story he had told Heath. He clung tenaciously to every detail of it with the ready accuracy of a man who had painstakingly memorized a lesson and was thoroughly familiar with it.

Markham coaxed, threatened, bullied. All hint of his unusual affability was gone; he was like an inxorable dynamic machine. But Skeel, whose nerves seemed to be made of iron, withstood the vicious fire of his cross-questioning without wincing; and, I confess, his resistence somewhat aroused my admiration despite my revulsion toward him and all he stood for.

After half an hour Markham gave up, completely baffled in his efforts to elicit any damaging admissions from the man. He was about to dismiss him when Vance rose languidly and strolled to the district attorney's desk. Seating himself on the edge of it, he regarded Skeel with impersonal curiosity.

"So you're a devotee of Khun Khan, eh?" he remarked, indifferently. "Silly game, what? More interestin' than Conquain or Rum, though. Used to be played in the London clubs. Of East Indian origin, I believe. . . . You still play it with two decks, I suppose, and permit round-the-corner matter?"

An involuntary frown gathered on Skeel's forehead. He was used to violent district attorneys, and familiary with the bludgeoning methods of the police, but here was a type of inquisitor entirely new to him; and it was plain that he was both puzzled and apprehensive. He decided to meet this novel antagonist with a smirk of arrogant amusement.

"By the bye," continued Vance, with no change in tone, "can any one hidden in the clothes-press of the Odell living-room see the davenport through the keyhole?"

Suddenly all trace of a smile was erased from the man's features.

"And I say," Vance hurried on, his eyes fixed steadily on the other, "why didn't you give the alarm?"

I was watching Skeel closely, and, though his set expression did not alter, I saw the pupils of his eyes dilate. Markham, also I think, noted his phenomenon.

Grass—By James J. Montague

I once greatly admired a poem about grass which began:

"Here I come creeping, creeping, everywhere."

I don't remember much of the rest of it, but it went on and described how the grass travels around blotting out the scars man has made on the surface of the earth and filling them in with a beautiful, even green surface, and how utterly irresistable was its spread. It seems to me that this was a splendid poem and that the man who wrote it must have had acute observation.

That was before I had ever tried to raise a lawn.

I have been raising lawns now for a number of years, but I never have raised one yet with the kind of grass that is mentioned in the poem.

That kind probably grew in some quarter of the earth where I have never been, and became extinct before I had a front yard to cultivate. I haven't been able to find any of its seed in the stores, nor any of the sods that it formed in the places where sod is to be had. The only kind of grass seed I can buy produces grass that is easily discouraged, and is mixed with the seed of weeds which are never discouraged at all.

When the grass comes up the weeds come up right along side, and having the ambition and energy of many races of men who have been suppressed in past generations, they possess patience and endurance and determination. You can pull these weeds out, you can sprinkle them with weed killer, you can jab needles dipped in nitric acid into their heads, and they flourish as they never flourished before.

But if you so much as step on a blade of grass it lies over on its side and gives up the battle. Two or three times I have taken the advice of gardeners who came and looked at my mottled lawn, and told me it would be easier to plough it up and start another one than to try to get the weeds out of it.

So I have ploughed up the lawn, but during the ploughing the weed seed drifted in the breeze over to the adjoining yard and came back to replant itself in the new grass.

In the undersod battle for food which the weeds and the grass are always waging, the grass has no chance. The roots of the weeds are stronger, and the mouths by which they feed themselves are always wide open, while the grass seems to have a very light appetite.

Of course if you let the grass get started in a tulip bed or a lettuce path it will grow madly, and win over all competitors. But tulips and lettuce have been hand-raised for generations, so they have none of the hardy habits of weeds. The best tracts of lawn grass in my yard at present grow up through the bricks in the front walk. Every day I go out and pull up the spears by the roots and sprinkle salt on them, but they keep right on growing. You would think that it would take a pretty husky blade of grass to lift even a light brick, but morning after morning I find the bricks thrust clear out of place by the grass underneath them, and the surface of the walk very uneven and messy looking as a consequence. But that kind of grass never grows in the lawn. There I only get the shrinking and anemic blades that will curl up and die with fright if a weed rears its horried head along side of them.

Last year I decided to proceed scientifically with my lawn, so I first consulted the greens keeper at the golf course, and next read every pamphlet on grass raising that I could.

The greens keeper told me that the best thing to put on the grass was sulphide of ammonia. He did not say how much to use, taking it for granted, I presume, that my tyro would know that much. So I bought a few gallons of sulphide of ammonia and put it on the grass.

The next day the grass was all an even cinnamon color. It was pretty, but it didn't look like lawn—that is not like a live lawn. I told the green keeper about it, and he said not to mind, that as soon as the dead grass dried up and blew away there would be a nice carpet of green underneath it. But the lawn continued to remain a cinnamon color for several weeks, and attracted so much attention from jeering neighbors that I finally ploughed it up and reseeded.

New grass began to come up soon, but it was accompanied with several forms of grass of which I had never heard. One of them was crab grass. Crab grass rises fresh and beautiful from the soil, shoves to one side all the other grass, and makes for a time a lovely lawn. But it is a patchy lawn, for the stuff grows in bunches—considerately allowing room for the other grass to grow up beside it. Then, when it has flourished for a few weeks, and you look proudly at your even turf, it ends its appointed span of life and perishes. That leaves dirt colored blots all over the lawn, and you have to pull up all the dead crab grass roots before you can get any more grass to grow.

Then there are dandelions, which can be removed if you have nothing else to do all summer but take a small crow bar with a V shaped knife on the end and pry them out by the roots. The dandelions blow in, from other yards, in the form of seeds. I should say that by working eight hours a day for 20 days in the year you could keep them down. I would gladly do that, but when you get rid of a dandelion plant a bunch of chickweed collects to decorate its grave, and the roots of the chickweed, which number 30 or 40 to every plant must be plucked out one by one. This takes quite a while, for if the tiniest root is left it will become a whole chickweed plant in a few days.

Buttercups, in the locality where I live also accompany the dandelions. Each buttercup spreads around till it covers a surface of six or seven inches in diameter, under which nothing grows. When you get them all up the ground is all covered with round dark spots. It looks as if you had laid out some kind of a pattern on it—an irregular pattern, and not a pretty one.

Then there is a plant called cinquefoil which looks like a wild strawberry plant with five leaves to the stem. The cinquefoil travels underground by means of its roots, and is likely to spring up 15 or 20 feet away from the original plant, and in some carefully camouflaged spot where it can thrive and send out more roots before you can find it. You know while you are digging one up that the roots are still sending forth sap in directions you cannot trace, and that by tomorrow there will be widely scattered acres of them to dig up.

I should say that if one had nothing else to do, if he has spent years in practice and consultation with authorities, and was willing to work for eight hours a day he could in time learn to raise a very nice looking quarter acre of lawn. But I can't be sure. Outside of England I have never seen a really good lawn except on golf courses. And I know what those cost, because I get many assessments from the club I belong to.

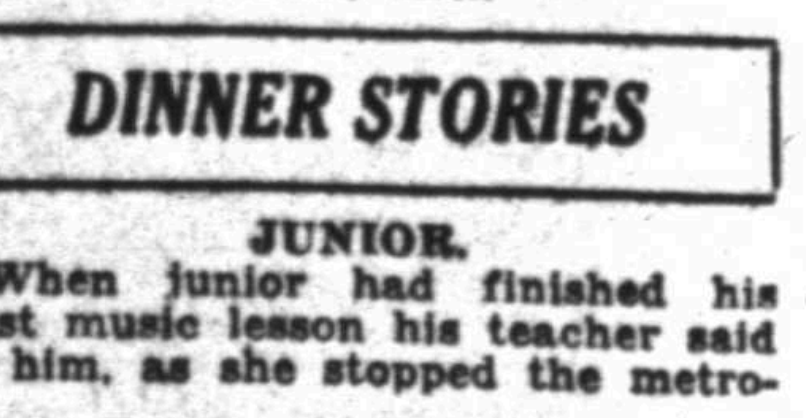
DINNER STORIES

JUNIOR.

When junior had finished his first music lesson his teacher said to him, as she stopped the metronome which had been indicating tempos on top of the piano:



I CAN'T PRACTICE UNTIL WE GET A WIND-SHIELD CLEANER

"Now, my boy, you must practice when you get home."

"And, teacher," asked the boy, "shall I tell father we must have a windshield cleaner for the piano?"

Favorite Jokes of Famous People

As Told by Them to

FRANK ERNEST NICHOLSON

By RICHARD DIX

Richard Dix stands 5 feet, 11 inches, weighs 156 pounds and the income tax people claim he is 31. Richard is an answer to a maiden's prayer, but prefers sitting in a duck pond with a gun to looking through a ladies album. Visiting flappers needn't bother about giving him their telephone number 'cause he won't call.

Dix would have been born in Los Ongaleze but his parents moved to St. Paul just six weeks before the blessed event. His brother, a big tonsil and adnoids man by the name of Graham, tried to make a surgeon out of Richard, but Richard simply couldn't stand the sight of blood, so he did a fadeout and got a job in a bank where he worked for several years amid 4 and 5 per cent.

Later the architectural profession drew him but Dix soon chucked that for a job in a stock company, with which he traveled from one end of the country to the other—not an easy task, for there were no rubber heels in those days. He made his first hit while playing in California which led to his moving into the movies.

Richard told me that this was his latest favorite joke.

"A sprightly widow from the north, with a vanity case full of travelers checks, went to Florida on the still hunt for a man. After registering at a Miami hotel she sauntered out onto a piazza and seated herself near a handsome young chap.

"Her short skirt revealed a lot of sheer hosiery, and her cough revealed a desire to become better acquainted.

"But the handsome chap smoked on.

RICHARD DIX

"Finally a piece of cambric was wafted to the ground.

"'Oh, I've dropped my handkerchief!' she trebled coyly."

"The handsome young fellow turned and coldly regarded her.

"'Madame,' he said, "my weakness is liquor!'"

Jury Prays, Then Convicts Accused Man

SHREVEPORT, La., May 6. (AP)—After holding a prayer meeting a jury here today found Blanchard Horn, street car conductor, guilty of murdering W. P. McGee September 15. The jury recommended mercy which automatically makes the penalty life imprisonment.

Horn contended that his wife had been familiar with McGee, who roomed at the Horn home. The woman denied the charge. She recently divorced Horn, charging cruelty.

MAMA SAID YOU WENT TO THE SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS FOR HER—SO THAT'S WHERE YOU KEEP YOUR LOVE LETTERS
NO—BUT BABY IF I GET MY WAY THAT'S WHERE I'LL BE ADDRESSING THEM—AND IN THE TENDER CARE OF THAT NEW CASHIER—OH BOYS—IF THEY DON'T TAKE HIM AWAY FROM THAT PAYING TELLER'S WINDOW
THERE'LL BE A RUN ON THE BANK
I MEAN HE COULD PAY ME OFF IN COUNTERFEIT MONEY AND I'D BE HAPPY! YOU KNOW I WAS STANDING THERE—STARING THRU THE BARS LIKE A KID LOOKING IN A CANDY WINDOW—AND JUST WHEN I WAS THINKING WHAT BEAUTIFUL LIPS HE HAD—HE LOOKED UP AND ASKED ME WHAT I'D HAVE—SAY—I TURNED RED TO MY GOLOSHES!
I THOUGHT ETTA WAS HERE—WHERE'D SHE GO?
SHE JUST BORROWED A DOLLAR FROM ME—MISS BETTY—AND I THINK SHE WENT TO THE BANK!

Our Spudders went on a rampage yesterday. The champions, emerging from a batting slump that had cost two straight defeats and occupancy of first place, pounded Bill Ward for 16 hits and shellacked the San Antonio Bears in the second of the series out at the lot. The score was 13 to 2.

Mr. Ward is a left-hander and it is encouraging that the Williamsmen shelled him with such gusto, portsiders having been difficult for the home nine to beat, much less to hit.

Every Spudder except Pete Turgeon hit safely. Rabbit Benton and Pete Lapan each smacked three knocks. Benton hit a home run INSIDE the park in the sixth inning, scoring a comrade ahead of him. Najo fell prostrate while fielding the ball and before he could retrieve it from the fathermost recesses of the park Benton had rounded second and he beat the throw and relay home by several feet.

Lapan Gets Three Hits

Rabbit also crashed a double as did Lapan. Fitzgerald, Swenson, Stanton and Cvengros each whaled a brace of drives. Wally and George both smacking doubles.

While he and his mates were thus batting Ward the w* k, southpaw, Cvengros hurled an excellent game. Mike allowed only five hits and with the exception of the sixth inning when the Bears buched two hits and as many passes for their two runs, was master of all he surveyed.

By winning while Fort Worth was losing to Waco the Spudders moved back into a tie for the league lead with the Cats, each with 15 victories and seven defeats. Houston is virtually tied for the top, though mathematically in third place.

Spudders Score in First

Wichita Falls scored in the first inning. Benton singled to left. Turgeon lifted to Najo. Fitzgerald was safe on an infield hit, Benton going to third. Benton scored on a wild pitch.

The Spudders tallied again in the fourth. Stanton and Lapan singled, George going to third on Philbin's error on Pete's hit. Cvengros grounded out. Benton's sacrifice fly to Nelson scored Stanton.

Williams' men counted four in the fifth. Lamb singled to deep short. Nason took Jenkins' lift. Swenson grounded to Philbin, Lamb going to second. Stanton walked. Lapan hit again, filling the bases. Cvengros strolled, Lamb ambling home. Benton doubled to left, scoring all three runners.

San Tone Scores in Sixth

San Tone score its pair of runs in the sixth. Ward walked and went to second on Flashkamper's singled to right. Najo was passed populating the bases. Griffin skied to Turgeon. Grimes singled to left, scoring Ward and Flashkamper, Najo pulling up at second. Michael pulled out of the hole by catching Najo at second and fanning Taylor.

The Spudders tallied six in the sixth. Fitz singled to center. Lamb sacrificed. Jenkins hit to center, Fitz scoring all the way from second. Swenson singled to left. Stanton hit to center for two bases, Jenkins and Swenson scoring. Lapan's double to the same territory scored Stanton. Cvengros flied to Najo. Benton hit his home run, Lapan scoring ahead of him.

One more was added by the champs in the seventh. Fitzgerald walked. Lamb popped to Philbin. Jenkins struck out. Swenson doubled to left, Fitz tallying.

Notes of the Game

Tom Estill or Herb Cobb will oppose the Bears today in the final of the series.

This is ladies' day.

The Spudders leave tonight at 11 o'clock for Waco to open a road trek of two weeks, in which they play all four clubs of the southern end of the Texas league and Shreveport. They return home Tuesday, May 22, with Fort Worth Cats as the foe.

Despite an ideal day for baseball and presence as the enemy of the fast-stepping Bears, only 2,800 saw yesterday's game.

Lyman Lamb, giving evidence of a return to hitting form recently, also flashed some scintillating fielding yesterday. He came in fast in the second for Taylor's fly and made a corking snatch of Grimes' foul in the eighth.

Harry Kane banished Joe Luciano from the coaching line at first base in the third. Luciano had merely asked Harry what for and how when he was told to go away from there.

Cvengros pitched out of a bad looking situation in the sixth, after the Bears had scored their runs, with one out and runners on first and second. He caught Najo off second, Swenson, Benton and Turgeon finally retiring the runner and ended the inning by fanning Taylor.

Turgeon was responsible for some nifty fielding plays, despite his error. Swenson also glittered on the defense.

Indians in State Track Meet Today

After a season of hard work the Wichita Falls Junior college Indians are in excellent shape for their hardest test of the season today—the state Junior college track and field meet.

Coach J. N. Hall and Dean S. H. Rider left Sunday afternoon for Fort Worth with the Indian athletes to attend the state meet which will be held under the direction of the athletic department of Texas Christian university.

Captain Melvin McKinney, Jot Hodges, Bill McMillan, Jesse Allen, Dempse Moore, John Wieler, Olan Dickey and Filmore Meredith will represent Junior college in the meet.

ELDRED HERE TODAY

Brick May Pastime In This Afternoon's Engagement

Brick Eldred, the hard-hitting outfielder, purchased by the Spudders from Seattle of the Pacific Coast league, will be in livery of the champions today. Eldred arrived early this morning from his home at Sacramento, Calif., and after a rest of several hours will be in fit condition to don diamond regalia this afternoon. He will be in batting practice of course and there is a possibility he will play in this afternoon's game with San Antonio.

British Open Golf Starts Today With American Pros Contenders

Hagen and Sarazen Viewed as Leading Menace, Compston and Mitchell Hopes of Britian to Regain Title.

By ARCH RODGERS
United Press Staff Correspondent

SANDWICH, Eng., May 6. (UP)—A little band of Americans, surrounded by the sandy wastes and tufty hillocks of Sandwich by a formidable army of British golfers, will set out shortly after sun-up Monday in quest of the greatest of golfing prizes—the British open championship.

Although there are but 10 among 270, the mighty professionals from the United States are frankly feared by their British hosts, who foresee likelihood that one of the Americans will be crowned successor to Bobby Jones of Atlanta.

The weather was excellent along the Kentish shore today, and—what is more important—promises to be so on the morrow. This will favor the Americans, who are hopeful of low scores as a result of a marked general improvement in their game during the past few days' practice.

The entire field will play a qualifying round Monday and another Tuesday, alternating on the Prince's and St. George's courses, which are in splendid condition. After that the low score will complete over 72 holes for the title won by Bobby Jones for the past two years and by Americans six times out of the past seven.

"The Haig" Is Choice.

Walter Hagen, despite his overwhelming defeat at the hands of Archie Compston, continues the choice of those who believe the United States again will produce the winner, but Little Gene Sarazen has been quietly coming along and may prove the "dark horse" of the 1928 championship. Bill Mehlhorn shot a 69 in practice today and that makes the sandy-haired nomad a marked man, while Tommy Armour, American open champion, and Long Jim Barnes, who won the title at Prestwick, are dangerous contenders.

The other Americans are Larry Nabholtz, Bob Stupple, both Chicago professionals. Joh Crane, Douglas Grant, and Charles McHugh, amateurs.

The British pin their hopes upon Compston, Hagen's conqueror, and Abe Mitchell, one of the really great golfers of England who never has won a championship.

"Seven to five against Compston and Mitchell," cry the bookmakers in the Taverns of Sandwich, offering odds which are regarded as extremely short.

Havers Formidable.

A. G. Havers, the only British golfer to break the American reign within the past seven years, (he won at Troon in 1923) is picked by Gene Sarazen as another of the most dangerous entrants. And so the experts and the enthusiasts here are referring to the "Big Eight" of the championship: Compston, Mitchell, Havers, Hagen, Sarazen, Mehlhorn, Armour and Barnes. Any one of these names drawn from a hat would be regarded as a good bet against the field.

St. George's course is 6594 yards in length, Prince's 6616. The length will not trouble the American professionals, but the courses are fatal to wildness except in the case of golfers who can make marvelous recoveries. Such are Walter Hagen's own specialty, and another who plays them masterfully and may win is Aubrey Boomer of France.

The greens are lightning fast. Putting, therefore, may decide the championship. In this case, Walter Hagen's chances depend entirely upon whether he has recovered the touch which was so conspicuously absent during his match with Compston at Moor park.

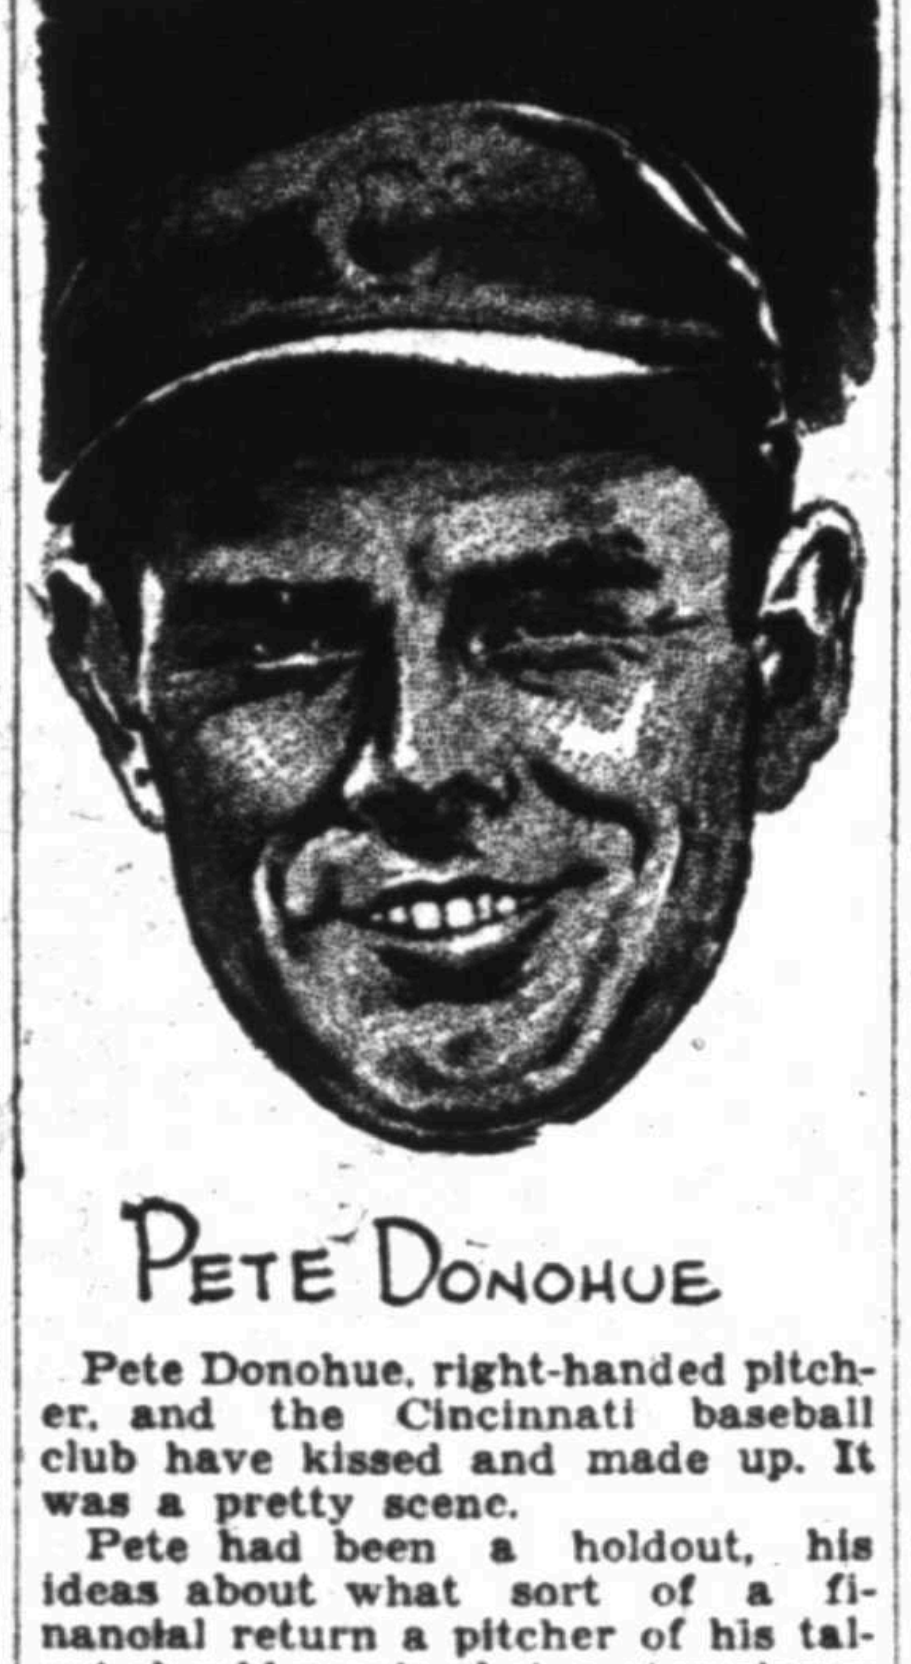
Pete in Fold



PETE DONOHUE

Pete Donohue, right-handed pitcher, and the Cincinnati baseball club have kissed and made up. It was a pretty scene.

Pete had been a holdout, his ideas about what sort of a financial return a pitcher of his talent should receive being at variance with those held by the club management.

Donohue has been with the Reds since 1921, and his loss this year would have been a serious one to the club. He is one of the best boys at his trade in the business.

Pete graduated from Texas Christian university right into the midst of the National league and he has stayed in the big time since.

Varied Grappling Program Tonight

Hallas and Hassan Headline Interesting Card

Varied styles of grappling will be offered tonight to patrons of The Gym. Al Hassan, the Turk, and Billy Hallas, the Greek, will meet in the windup, a free-for-all shindig under so-called New York commission rules. Gipsy Smith, the Britisher and Leo Fox will clash in a catch-as-catch can match, strictly wrestling and nothing more, in the prelim.

Thus the good customers of Mr. Alec Ross' shows who dote on fast and clever grappling may enjoy the Smith-Fox affair. Smith made a pleasing debut here last week, when he gave Hallas a strenuous and thrilling setto, though beaten. Fox, Mr. Ross avers, is a much improved matman and will give Smith a battle.

The Hassan-Hallas melee should be a corker. Both are well known here as successful wrestlers, which in addition to their employment of rough tactics reminiscent of the old days of rough-and-tumble milling should make for a hard-fought and grueling affair.

Both bouts are to a finish.

Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Mabry, employes of Saul's department store of this city, returned home Monday from a week-end visit with Mr. Mabry's parents at Blooming Grove.

Mrs. N. D. Cooper of North Electra street had as her guests on Wednesday, Mrs. Lela Estes, Mrs. Jack Henderson and Miss Lora Leverett of Vernon.

Mrs. Leia Eskridge, Miss Robbie Hale and Mr. and Mrs. J. Ray Corder left Wednesday morning for Gonzales and Austin. Mrs. Eskridge and Miss Hale will visit with relatives in Gonzales, while Mr. and Mrs. Corder attend the state convention of the Knights of Pythias lodge, which convenes in that city next week.

Mrs. Herman Barrow is recuperating from a severe attack of influenza at her home on North Electra street.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Manley of Pampa were Electra visitors Thursday, guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Newburn of East Roosevelt avenue.

J. T. Thanes of Gonzales was the guest of Mrs. J. Ray Corder and Miss Robbie Hale Tuesday of this week. He left Wednesday for Eldorado, Okla., where he will visit with other relatives before returning home.

The business meeting, with Mrs. Grace Jennings in charge, opened with the song, "Sweet Hour of Prayer," followed with the scripture lesson, led by Mrs. Jennings. The secretary, Mrs. O. M. Waters, read the minutes of the last meeting, and Mrs. George LeBus was appointed chairman of the program committee for the Mothers' Day program which has been planned. Much success was reported with the money making problems by Mesdames W. D. Robertson, C. E. McDannald and J. T. McDannald. Mrs. Jennings read the Bible lesson, after which the meeting was dismissed.

Cake and tea were served to the ladies after the meeting. Those attending were Mesdames C. D. Kee, J. F. Ratcliffe, J. T. McDannald, L. L. Awtrey, W. D. Robertson, J. T. Ligon, B. V. Magee, F. H. Holmes, E. E. Frear, R. P. Hall, J. T. Gibson, Grace Jennings, A. T. McDannald, C. E. McDannald, George LeBus, O. M. Waters and L. E. Sheldon.

Presbyterian Auxiliary

The Presbyterian Auxiliary met Monday afternoon in the church, opening the meeting with the song, "Bringing in the Sheaves." The business meeting was presided over by Mrs. J. E. Graham, with Mrs. G. M. Shaffer reading the devotional, taken from the eighth chapter of Romans. A short business session followed, after which the meeting was dismissed with the Mizpah benediction. The rest of the afternoon was spent in quilting.

Those present were Mesdames T. J. Preston, J. E. Graham, L. D. Grafton, J. C. Shaw, Allen, G. M. Shaffer and Annie Rowe.

High School P.-T. A.

One of the most interesting P.-T. A. meetings held in some time was the regular business meeting of the high school P.-T. A. which was held on Tuesday, May 1, in the auditorium of the school building. Many new faces were seen and an interesting program was rendered.

Mrs. J. H. Harris, president of the high school P.-T. A. presided at the meeting, which was opened with prayer by Rev. E. B. Crump. Mrs. Bryan Jones, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting, which were approved. Mrs. W. E. Vaught gave the treasurer's report, which was followed by a summary of the annual report, by Mrs. C. O. Roberts. The following annual reports were given: Membership report, by Mrs. C. U. Beasley; auditing report, by Mrs. Hal Hughes; secretary's annual report, by Mrs. Bryan Jones; president's report, by Mrs. J. H. Harris.

Following the annual reports, Mrs. C. U. Beasley, as chairman of the nominating committee, submitted the names for officers for the coming year. The secretary cast a vote for the election of these officers, which are as follows:

President, Mrs. J. H. Harris; first vice president, Mrs. Hal Hughes; second vice president, Mrs. J. V. Harrison; recording secretary, Mrs. Bryan Jones; treasurer, Mrs. I. K. Williams; financial secretary, Mrs. B. M. Vaught; corresponding secretary, Miss Ethel Varnell.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. C. O. Roberts, chairman of the program committee, and under her direction the following interesting program was rendered: Address, "Cooperation of Parents and Teachers," by Rev. E. B. Crump; vocal solo, by Harvey Stanford, with Miss Letrice Wofford at the piano; vocal solo, by Miss Letrice Wofford; reading, "Am I Your Wife?" by Miss Wilena Smalley; two duets, "Whispering Hope," and "The End of a Perfect Day," by Mesdames B. A. Shoffner and C. A. Dickson; address by Prof. B. M. Dinsmore.

Following the program, the meeting was dismissed by the president and the guests were invited into the cafeteria, where dainty slices of angel food cake and tea with plate favors of red and white rosebuds were served to the following:

Mesdames I. K. Williams, J. T. McDannald, J. H. Harris, T. C. Stockton, B. A. Shoffner, C. A. Dickson, C. U. Beasley, C. Newburn, B. M. Hyde, L. J. Terrell, J. W. Dyson, W. E. Vaught, J. V. Harrison, Hal Hughes, E. L. Carnahan, B. M. Vaught, F. M. Lisle, H. B. Vaughn, Tom Cunningham, C. W. Igou, C. O. Roberts, Brandon Smith, Bryan Jones; Misses Katherine Lunsford, Ida Lee Falls, Eleanor Reeves, Ethel Varnell, Grace Hardy, Maurine Igou, Wilena Smalley, Lettie Davis, Virginia Roop, Letrice Wofford, Helen Dinsmore, Turner Lee Hendon; Messrs. B. M. Dinsmore, Dick Taylor, T. E. Shaw, E. E. Rogers and Rev. E. B. Crump.

Loyal Worker's Class Party

Mrs. J. C. Shaw of South Waggoner street entertained the members of the Loyal Workers' class of the Presbyterian church Thursday afternoon with a pretty party. Roses, in various colors, with cut flowers formed the decorations.

A short business session preceded the social hours, with Mrs. G. M. Shaffer in charge. Radio music and an article on "Mother's Day" by Mrs. J. E. Graham, were enjoyed during the social hour.

Refreshments of pie, with whipped cream, were served to Mesdames W. P. Miller, J. E. Graham, L. D. Grafton, J. C. Shaw and G. M. Shaffer.

Artcele Chapter Delphian

Mrs. T. J. Woffard was hostess to the Artcele chapter of the Delphian society, which met Friday afternoon. Mrs. George LeBus was leader for the afternoon, and under her direction the following program was given:

"Resume," by Mrs. T. H. Easley; "Teutonic Invaders," by Mrs. T. J. Woffard; "Beginnings of Monasticism," by Mrs. Doc Fisher; "Feudalism," by Mrs. C. O. Conyers; "Charlemagne," by Mrs. T. H. Easley; "After Charlemagne," by Mrs. Frank LeBus; "The Eastern Empire," by Mrs. O. M. Stidham; "The Primacy of Rome," by Mrs. J. J. Hagan; "Early Britain," by Mrs. H. M. Tarleton; "Early Medieval Education," by Mrs. W. C. Kiker.

Members attending were Mesdames T. H. Easley, Doc Fisher, C. O. Conyers, T. H. Easley, Frank LeBus, O. M. Stidham, J. J. Hagan, H. M. Tarleton, George LeBus, W. C. Kiker and the hostess.

The next meeting of the chapter will be with Mrs. Frank LeBus, with Mrs. H. M. Tarleton as leader.

Knights of Pythias

Fred Music, C. C., presided at the meeting of the Electra Knights of Pythias, which met on Monday night. One application for membership was presented. The membership contest, which has been carried on for several weeks closed at this meeting and plans for the entertainment of the blue faction by the members of the red were made. The entertainment will be given on the fourth Monday night in May.

Fred Music was elected as delegate from this lodge, to attend the state convention in Austin, succeeding W. E. Latham, resigned. At the next meeting the rank of page will be conferred upon several members.

THE DISTRICT EDISON CO.
5-Year Record

The entire commercial electric light and power business of the city of Detroit and adjacent territory, involving a population of 2,000,000, is in the hands of the Detroit Edison company. The territory is served through an inter-connecting electric system and the company also conducts a steam heating business and a minor gas business in the territory. It has a large industrial load and serves practically every residence. In 1926 the company reduced its rates for both industrial and residence service.

Gross revenues have doubled about every five years since 1916. Net income increased in about the same proportion as gross during the period prior to 1916, but remained stationary from 1916 to 1921. Since that time net income has about quadrupled, and for 1927 was over $10,000,000. The per share earnings amounted to $11.32 in 1927, which was the same as in 1926, although in the previous year there was a smaller number of shares outstanding. The company is in a sound financial position.

Funded debt totals $105,556,400. Capital stock outstanding amounts to $89,661,600 in shares of $100 par value. A number of the bonds issued by the company are convertible into stock.

Dividends are paid at eight per cent per year. Rights accruing to stockholders from issues of further stock may prove valuable.

As of January 1, 1928, total current assets were $16,905,423; total current liabilities $8,104,336; net working capital $8,801,087, and book value of the stock $108.70 a share.

The company has a number of subsidiaries and 16 per cent of the capital stock is owned by the North American company. The company has four large steam power plants and nine small hydro-electric plants, all interconnected.

Happiness Consists Of Service To Humanity, Kay Tells Bible Class

WORD DEPRIVED OF MEANING

"Some of Us Couldn't Find Bait," Says Judge

JUDGE KAY

The service of Christ instead of the service of the type handed out at filling stations and in advertisements was discussed at the meeting of the Kay Bible class in the Olympic theater Sunday morning. There were 315 members of the class at the meeting.

"It gives me pleasure to see so many of you here this morning," Judge Kay said. "I suppose some of us couldn't find any bait.

"The lesson this morning is about some men who wanted to be great. It is one of the peculiar, small, human things that come up in the Bible. It has always been the cry of many men, not of all men, 'let me become great.' Such a man usually has a poor conception of what it takes to constitute greatness. Over in India long before the coming of the Sovior, a great man had written in a great book that happiness consists only in things that are great. So the philosophers teach that happiness consists of this, that and the other thing. Men of the type of Herbert Spencer taught that happiness consists of pleasure, or as they put it, pleasures.

Service Is Hapiness.

"But the Savior taught that happiness consists of service to humanity. Now there is no word I think in modern times, which has lost standing so much as the word service. It has become the slogan of the filling station and of every kind of commercial enterprise. That is not service. Anything that you sell for money can never be service. A man sells me 10 gallons of gasoline and then prints in the newspapers that he is furnishing service. I wish it were in my power to drive that word out of each advertisement in Texas. It has no place there, no business there.

"That is not the thing that the Savior was talking about when He said service. So there came these two brothers to the Savior, and they were brothers, too. The biggest mess in the world sometimes can arise between two brothers. They said, 'Master,' to use the modern language of the street, 'we are just dying to know which one of us is the greatest man.' If either had been great, both had known which one. 'Well, what do you two fellows want? What is your idea of greatness, what do you mean. What great soul consuming ambition has wrought itself upon your spirits so that you come to me to make a demand?' They said, 'we want to sit at your right hand and your left hand in heaven.' You watch around in the world, you will find a lot of fellows who want to be great who want a sitting down job. We want to be great so we can sit down, and then came that strong statement in the Bible, 'Whichever of you would be great, let him become the servant to his brethren.'

Asiatic Caste System.

"Now at that time, we must remember, it was a different world to this. Nearly all the things that happened in the Bible happened in Asia. The Savior Himself was an Asiatic and all of the apostles were. Over to the east of them they had the caste system, where the Brahin would not speak to the soldier and the soldier would not speak to the sudra and all the way down. Right over to the east of where the Saviour was talking at that time, if the Brahmin met an ordinary man in the street, he felt himself polluted by meeting the man, and turned around to go home to wash before he could go any further. At that time while the Savior was talking, the stern, strong, disciplined Roman soldiers stood upon the street corners like statutes, feeling themselves above this common, alien people, and looking upon them with contempt as they stood guard over them. The high priests and the pharisees, for whom undoubtedly this lesson was partly written, in their administrations about the temple, in their places of worship and in their places of meeting, pulled their garments up about them to free themselves from the touch of common humanity, so that, even one of the apostles, said to the Savior that it was not right to take the children's bread and give it to the dogs, speaking of the gentiles.

"So then it is no wonder that He put this great lesson in there and when He did, He meant that Herod was not great, Caesar was not great, the high priests were not great, the pharisees were not great, but only that man is great who loves and serves humanity, only that man is great. What becomes then of the doctrine of our old friend in India, who wrote so long ago that happiness can only consist of things that are great. He was right but he knew what the great things were. The great things are the things of the sould and the spirit and the great spirit and the great soul and the great conscience drives us on and on in the task of mercy and love and sympathy for our fellow man.

Strange Doctrine.

"It was a strange doctrine that the Savior was trying to teach in that country that had been ruled by an oligarchy, in a country of the caste system with the utter absence of democracy. But He, said, 'If you would be great, become servant to your brethren.' Now what is your idea of a great man in this country? If I am right, it cannot be that man who has with great toil and care served himself all his life. It cannot be that man who has gone out and worked for fame for himself for selfish purposes.

"Down here in Young county when I was quite a young man, I went out with a doctor down there, old Doctor Price, (there may be somebody here who knew him), about 25 or 30 miles in a two-horse buggy to see a man who was sick. He spent the night there and so did I. He worked with him and the next day, I said, 'Doctor, what do you get for a trip like this?' And he said, 'Why John?' he was rather embarrassed, he said. 'Nothing, the old man never can pay me.' I drop that small picture of that heroic soul for the benefit of all the physicians in this country. I forgot to tell you too, that fellow got well mind you.

"Yes, we like to talk about great men. What then did our Savior mean? Let's reform the proverb of our old friend from India and say that which is great can only be that which is unselfish. I wouldn't mind people being selfish if it wasn't for one thing, it pays less and fewer rewards than any passion in the human heart. The selfish man gets a reputation for being selfish and defeats his own end and his other sins take the part of selfishness."

Lighting System For Auditorium Basement

The John Oechsner Electric company is at work this week completing its $600 lighting contract in the basement of the new city auditorium. These lights are practical, but not ornate, and are a part of the original plans of the building. Up to the present time, light has been obtained in this gigantic room by screwing an emergency bulb in a socket attached to a long wire and carrying it wherever light was needed.

The lights will make it possible to hold the automobile show, and any kind of an exposition or activity in the big room at any time.

Olney Principal To Head Aubrey School

OLNEY, Texas, May 6.—Announcement was made here this week that P. G. Tribble, principal of the South Ward school has been elected superintendent of the public school system of Aubrey, Texas, and he will assume his duties there next fall. Mr. Tribble has been principal of the South Ward school here for the past three years. He has been active during that time in the civic and church life of the community.

School - College Notes

Preliminaries in the annual Frank Haley medal contest for extempore speaking, open to all junior college students, will probably be held next week at the school, according to Miss Juanitr Kinsey, head of the college public speaking department.

A medal will be awarded by Haley at the college commencement exercises to the student judged to be the best extempore speaker in the college. The contest is open to both boys and girls.

Winners in the preliminaries of the annual J. Wilkie Talbert extempore speaking contest held last week will compete Wednesday morning in the finals. Six were chosen in the preliminaries, Vernon Jones, Henry Helgerson, Homer Lee, W. A. Johnson, James Earl Prothro and Lawrence Bash.

The winner will be presented the J. Wilkie Talbert medal, given annually at the commencement exercises. Only high school boys are eligible for the medal.

A barn dance as one of the last social events of the school year was planned by junior college freshmen at the freshman class meeting Monday morning. James Boyd, president, appointed the following committee to plan the dance in detail: Seldon Hale, Melba McCallum, Maurine Ulmer, Lewis Foster, Gaylord Giles, Mary Louise Staley and Bonnie Holmgren.

The dance will probably be the last social function of the college year, with the exception of the freshmen-senior picnic, usually included in senior week.

Henrietta Girl Hurt In Fall From Horse

Special to The Record News.

HENRIETTA, Texas, May 6.—Miss Cosette McDaniel, daughter of County Superintendent and Mrs. G. W. McDaniel, is recovering at her home from a broken rib and other internal injuries received Saturday when she was thrown from a horse.

Miss McDaniel, accompanied by a group of friends, was enjoying a picnic and horseback ride at the country club. The horse on which she was riding stumbled into a mud pool and Miss McDaniels was thrown directly under the horse and was stepped on by the animal. However, her injuries are not considered serious.

Burglars Crack Safe And Take Away $50

The Colburn garage, 512 Ohio avenue, Saturday night was entered by burglars, the safe opened and $50 in cash taken, according to reports received by the city police.

The safe, according to Tom Colburn, owner of the garage, was not locked, but was in the office of the garage, which was locked.

Police and members of the district attorney's department, investigating the robbery Saturday night and Sunday had been unable to obtain any clews leading to the identity of the burglars.

ALLEN TO SPEAK.

OLNEY, Texas, May 6.—Dean W. S. Allen of Baylor university will deliver the address to the Olney high school senior graduating class at commencement exercises, according to Superintendent B. C. Schulkey.

SHERMAN GOULD

Sherman Gould, 63, died in a Wichita Falls hospital at 12:50 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The body is being held by the Hines mortuary pending the arrival of a brother, Charles Gould of Wichita, Kan.

TEXAS SENATE RACE IN OFFING

Torrid Campaign Looms For Office

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, May 6—The Texas voter had his only say Saturday in naming the next president of the United States. The precinct conventions were the only place in which the individual voters of Texas are called on to act in any way that will be decisive in either nominating or electing the president and vice president this year. From now on, delegates will attend to Texas' share in naming the nominee, and since Texas is safely democratic, the voters will merely go through a formality next November of naming 20 electors to cast the Texas vote for such nominee as the delegates of Texas and other states will pick out for them.

Now that the precinct conventions are over, Texas will turn for the first time with more than lukewarm interest, to the United States senatorial race which will dominate state political campaigns this spring and summer.

Not Yet Active.

The senate race is not yet in an active stage. Senator Earle B. Mayfield and his numerous opponents have made known their platforms, in those long-drawn-out first speeches, or by length statements fired back from Washington, but the aggressive, "bear-fighting" stage of the race is yet to come.

Congressman Tom Connally has sounded his first guns of his own onslaught against Senator Mayfield. Congressman Tom Blanton has had little to say, further than his repeated assurances he is in the race to stay. Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham and Alvin Owsley have both announced, and last Friday both were at Throckmorton "arrival of the railroad" celebration to eschew politics but to meet constituents. Former governor O. B. Colquitt has been silent. Jeff McLemore has kept strangely silent from his Rio Grande border lair. James E. Ferguson has made a few soundings of the political waters in his reputed support of the young warrior candidate, former National Legion Commander Owsley.

Mayfield Busy.

Senator Earle B. Mayfield has proclaimed from Washington that he is too busy fighting the battles of farm relief and flood control to come to Texas just yet for his personal campaigning. He expects to begin making speeches here within a short time.

A part of the Tom Blanton strategy has been revealed.

Blanton, credited with the best campaigning vocabulary in congress, is said to have his arsenal stocked with choice verbal ammunition against Senator Mayfield. But he may not use it in the first primary race.

It is said he will look to the difficulty of getting into the run-off against Mayfield, and will direct his attention primarily to Tom Connally until the July primary. Then if Mr. Blanton wins a run-off race with Senator Mayfield, it is said he will direct his fight against Mayfield personally, in the hope of rounding up all the votes of all Mayfield's opposition.

Tom Connally regards his own play is directly against Mayfield in the first primary, and to let the second primary take care of itself.

"Ins Versus Outs"

Senator Mayfield relies upon the well-known condition of the "ins vs. the outs," in the belief the support for the "outs" will be sufficiently divided to keep any of his opponents from endangering his reelection. Mayfield will try, so far as possible, to make his defensive fight an affirmative one on his achievements in the senate, and likely will not hit hard enough against any of his opponents to alienate the following of that opponent in the run-off.

Senator Mayfield likely will open his speaking campaign in his home city, Austin, when he is able to spare himself from the deliberations of the senate to come back to Texas to start his re-election fight for the six-year prize.

This much is certain: By the senate race, the lower house of congress will lose two distinctive figures, in Blanton and Connally; and of the three present members of the senate and congress, not more than one will grace the halls of the national legislative body for the next two years.

Bank at Hereford Remodels Building

Special to The Record News.

HEREFORD, May 6.—Virtually a new bank building in Hereford will be the result of a remodeling campaign launched this week at the First National bank. Men are at work tearing out old walls and fixtures and will remodel completely the entire building.

Outstanding changes to be made include a new pressed brick front and installation of a 25-foot vault in the rear of the bank. Work should be finished within the next month, it is believed.

Women Trampled When Lindy Lands at Curtiss

CURTISS FIELD, L. I., May 6. (US)—Several women were trampled by a holiday crowd of 4000 persons suddenly turned into a riotous mob by the sudden appearance of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in his new Ryan monoplane this evening.

Rushing toward the plane as it landed from Mitchel field, the mob threw a chill into the flying colonel, threatening to dash or be pushed into certain death in the flying propeller.

Rumanian Peasants Plan Cabinet Upheaval

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 6. (US)—The peasant hosts of Rumania assembled today at Alba Julia, the capital of the old Rumanian dynasty, and crystalized their determination to overthrow the Bratianu regime in favor of a cabinet headed by their leader, Maniu. At Maniu's call thousands of peasants within a radius of nearly 200 miles gathered with their families.

Southern Vet Declares for Al

Leonard Huff, 90, mountaineer veteran of the Civil war and staunch Baptist, hopes to live through the present year so that he will be able to cast his vote for Governor Al Smith, if the latter receives the Democratic nomination for the presidency. Hull is shown here, right, with Governor Smith at the Biltmore Forest Country club, Asheville, N. C., where the governor has been vacationing.

Today { At the Theaters

MAJESTIC: George Sidney and Patsy Ruth Miller in "We Americans." Aesops fables. Topics of the day. Paramount news.

OLYMPIC: Bebe Daniels in "The Fifty Fifty Girl." Pathe newsreel. Comedy.

MISSION: Closed.

GEM: Jack Hoxie in "Grinning Guns." Comedy.

GARDEN: Fred Thompson in "Lone Hand Saunders." Comedy.

That girl Bebe Daniels is just making them wild at the Olympic theater in "The Fifty Fifty Girl." She looks good on the screen.

Charlie Moorehead, manager of the Mission theater up to the time the stage burned out Friday, is now manager of the Olympic theater. P. W. Cloud had resigned as Olympic manager and was leaving Saturday night, so that Mr. Moorehead moved right in.

Burt Southern's Vanities, minus some overalls, tights and scenery, has moved to the D & I theater at Amarillo.

"We Americans" is at the Majestic. If you like a few tears and a lot of pathos, go and see it. It would almost take a graven image to avoid a show of emotion watching that picture. George Sidney, the star whose excellent work in "Welcome Stranger" and also in some of the "Potash and Perlmutter" shows made him a universal favorite, is the central attraction according to the billing. However, there is a drab little old woman who plays the part of George's wife that is about as good as he is. For true repression yet perfect expression of emotion, she is excellent.

BAST'S TRIAL MOVES SLOWLY

M. E. Bishop Faces Long Investigation

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 6. (US)—In spite of the Sunday quiet around the convention hall where the general conference is holding its sessions and the usual secrecy surrounding the Bishop Anton Bast trial, it is understood that over 400 pages of material was presented last night to the trial board.

This means, according to authentic sources, that the trial will not only be a long drawn out affair, but that all the past evidence will be revamped, including the charges of questionable conduct with the woman in the case, as well as the old fight over financial irregularities. Bishop Bast has not yet been called before the committee.

Pulpits of all churches were occupied today with bishops and leading representatives of the conference. The afternoon memorial service at convention hall was given over to eulogies of deceased members. Prayer was offered by Bishop Frank Bristol, Washington, D. C., the memoir of Bishop Neely was read by the Rev. Robert C. Wells. Bishop William A. Quayle's memoir was read by Rev. Dr. Merton Rice, Detroit, Mich. Bishop Thomas Nicholson spoke in honor of Bishop Homer Stuntz, and the memoir of Bishop George H. Bickley was read by the Rev. George W. Henson. Others memortialized were Dr. William Valentine Kelley, Rev. Dr. David D. Forsyth, Dr. H. C. Jennings and Mrs. Charlotte Woodman Blake.

The conference is conservative as to the election of more bishops. The demand of delegates from China and India and other countries for native bishops may bring some of the present bishops back to America. A strong movement is on foot to keep Bishop Frederick B. Fisher at the home base rather than in India. Bishop Charles B. Mitchell, it is said, has no desire to go back to the Philippines, and health conditions may prevent Bishop Titus Lowe's return to the Singapore, straits settlement area.

Haskell County Farmer Loses Barn in Fire

HASKELL, Texas, May 6.—J. W. Adcock, one of Haskell county's best known farmers sustained a severe loss when his large feed barn and implement shed burned Thursday night. The barn was stored with all kinds of seed and feed stuffs and most of the farm implements and wagons. The origin of the fire is unknown. A small insurance was carried on the feed and building.

Observance of Music Week Begins Today

BEAUMONT, May 6. (AP)—Governor Moody's "music week" proclamation has been received here by Mrs. Gladys Harned Quilliam, state chairman of music week for the Texas Federation of Music clubs. The special week opened today and in his proclamation Governor Moody asks the people of Texas to participate in the observation of the week in schools, churches and theaters.

Governor of Rome And Walker at West Point

NEW YORK, May 6. (US)—Prince Ludovico Spada Potenziani, governor of Rome, and Mayor Walker went to West Point today, inspected the United States military academy and reviewed America's finest corps of cadets.

The distinguished visitor from Italy expressed delight and admiration for the colorful picture of the drill on the parade ground.

Hickman in Final Fight On Tuesday

LOS ANGELES, May 6. (US)—William Edward Hickman, condemned kidnaper-slayer of little Marion Parker, will make his final appeal for life before the state supreme court at Sacramento Tuesday. Attorney Richard Cantillon, defense counsel, left here today for the state capital to argue for the life of the young murderer.

He will be joined there by Jerome Walsh, Kansas City attorney, and member of the Missouri legislature. Walsh was Hickman's chief defender at his recent trial. Hickman is in the "death house" at San Quentin prison. He was sentenced to hang on April 27, but his appeal automatically postponed the execution.

"Safety Noose" Used By Endurance Mark Flier

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., May 6. (AP)—A noose about his neck was a safeguard installed by Lieut. Royal V. Thomas, endurance flier, to prevent him from falling asleep in his unaccompanied endurance flight last week, he told the Associated Press today.

The rope, Thomas said, was fastened at his neck in the cockpit and the other end made into a noose around his neck. If overcome by sleep, he said, the noose would chock him back to wakefulness when his head fell forward. The arrangement, he add, was not brought into use on his last trip.

ACTRESS SUED

LOS ANGELES, May 6. (US)—Aileen Pringle, screen actress, was listed among scores of persons against whom income liens were on file in federal court here today. She was asserted to have overlooked payment of $34.60 in 1925 and $270.66 in 1926.

HUNG JURY IN PROPERTY SUIT

$50,000 Involved in Trial Held at Crowell

Special to The Record News.

CROWELL, May 6.—The suit of Mrs. Hattie Gray of Roscoe, Texas, et al, against J. H. Lanier, et al, of Crowell, contesting the will of the late J. W. Ellis, resulted in a hung jury in district court here. The suit involved approximately $50,000 in money and property in Foard, Knox and Haskell counties which Mr. Ellis, in his will, left to J. H. Lanier and Mr. Lanier's 16-year-old son, Ragsdale, with the appointment of J. H. Lanier as independent executor without bond also in the will.

Mrs. Hattie Gray, sister of Mr. Ellis, represented other relatives in charging that J. W. Ellis was of unsound mind at the time of the execution of his will on October 15, 1926, and also charging that undue influence had been exercised upon him in the execution of the will by J. H. Lanier, who had been a partner of Mr. Ellis for 14 years in the grocery business at Crowell. On the two issues for the jury to decide, resulted in a vote of six and six that his mind was sound at the time of the execution of his will, and seven votes against five that J. H. Lanier had not exercised undue influence upon Mr. Ellis in the execution of his will.

Case Appealed.

The case was tried in county court last June and was appealed to the district court following a victory for the defense. The suit will now be continued at the next term of district court.

J. W. Ellis, the testator, died Nov. 8, 1926, at the Mayo hospital in Rochester, Minn., following an operation for pertuitiary tumor of the brain. The principal part of his property was left to Ragsdale Lanier as there were a number of debts to be paid on the part left to his partner, J. H. Lanier. No relative was mentioned in the will.

The suit opened in district court at Crowell Wednesday before Judge Robert Cole of Vernon and testimony was taken in the afternoon as the morning was taken up in selecting a jury. The charge was read to the jury at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday when argument began which lasted until 9:15 p. m. when the jury retired to render a verdict, Friday morning. Unable to arrive at a verdict, the jury was dismissed Friday afternoon and the case continued to the next term of district court.

Dr. H. O. Braswell of Fort Worth, specialist in brain diseases, was the principal witness for the plaintiff. Upon hypothetical questions from the deposition of Dr. Adson of the Mayo clinic, Dr. Braswell stated that he believed Ellis was of unsound mind at the time of the execution of his will. Mr. Ellis had made one trip to the Mayo hospital shortly before the execution of his will and returned again after his will had been made. Dr. Shutles of the State Epilectic colony at Abilene, testified that it was questionable as to whether Ellis was of sound mind.

Crowell Men Testify.

Ed Adams of Crowell testified that Ellis had once told him that he wanted his property to go to his relatives when he died.

Dr. J. M. Hill and Dr. Hines Clark of Crowell testified that they believed Ellis was of sound mind and based their belief on personal contact with him. Various other men of Crowell also testified that they believed Ellis to have had a sound mind at the time of the execution of his will and a number of witnesses also told of Mr. Ellis' love for Ragsdale Lanier, the son of his partner, who was the chief beneficiary of the will. Dr. Hill said that it was probable that Ellis was of unsound mind if the conditions as reported by the Mayo clinic were true as a post mortem examination showed an extra large tumor on the brain of Ellis.

C. C. Collier, who wrote the will, was also a witness for the defense. Dr. J. M. Hill was a witness at the writing of the will.

Paulding Personnel Cleared in Collision

WASHINGTON, May 6. (UP)—Commander J. S. Baylis and the personnel of the coast guard cutter Paulding were held entirely blameless for the collision with the submarine S-4, which sank off Provincetown, Mass., December 17, with a loss of 40 lives, according to a report made to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon today by a special investigating board.

Services for Three Held at Burkburnett

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, May 6.—A pioneer, a popular high school boy and a man without a close relative were buried in the Burkburnett cemetery Sunday.

Orville E. Riddle, 18, who died Saturday evening of pneumonia after a week's illness, was buried from the First Baptist church. The Rev. M. D. Hayes was in charge of the services. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Riddle, who live one mile southeast of town. The pallbearers were his high school classmates.

Mrs. Sarah Ann Clevenger, 81, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. E. Wright, at Stringtown, was buried from the Stringtown Baptist church. The Rev. J. McWhorter was in charge of the services.

Henry Parish, 64, who died at the home of J. F. Bell, a friend, had no known close relatives save the family of his late brother, Buck Parish, who was killed about a year ago. His funeral was from the Owens Funeral chapel.

Fairtrace to Attend First Council Meet

George D. Fairtrace, city manager, is due to sit in at his first meeting of the city council Monday night in the auditorium council chamber, and Oral Jones probably will again find himself in the mayor's chair.

Mr. Fairtrace took office as the first manager of Wichita Falls Tuesday, and as such will attend all council meetings.

Mayor J. W. Akin was invited to preside over the Monday afternoon session of the Texas League of Municipalities at Denton, so last Monday night the council voted to send him as the official representative of the city.

No action on the city's budget is expected as Mr. Fairtrace is familiarizing himself now with all the details. It will probably come up at next week's meeting.

Shriners Return From Convention at Miami

Returning Shriners who attended the Shrine Imperial council session in Miami, May 1, 2 and 3, Sunday reported a "wonderful time" at the meeting.

Saul Lebenson and G. B. Kettle returned Saturday from the trip. Guy Rogers, O. F. Marchman and Al Ellis returned Sunday afternoon. The remainder of the delegation of 17 took advantage of the opportunity to visit Cuba and will probably return to Wichita Falls later in the week.

The next annual session of the imperial council will be held in Los Angeles in June, 1929, Mr. Ellis said.

National Music Week Observed in Olney

OLNEY, Texas, May 6.—National Music Week, May 6 to 12, will be observed in Olney this week, beginning with special music in the churches on Sunday and continuing throughout the week with musical programs on three evenings. The music week observance is being fostered by the Olney Music club, with Miss Fannie Noah arranging details for most of the programs.

On Tuesday evening the music club will present an American composers' program at the First Methodist church. Friday evening at the high school auditorium the three public schools will give an evening of music and on the following Saturday night Miss Jean Fisher of Graham will be presented in a recital at the high school auditorium.

PATRONS VISIT PARK SCHOOLS

Friday Afternoon Given To Parents

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, May 6.—The school children were given a half holiday Friday in order that their parents might have an opportunity to visit the school fair and observe the work which had been done during the year.

The work was on display in the different rooms of both the W. F. George high school and the ward building, and the pupils themselves explained the exhibits to the visitors, beginning with the little fellows in the first grades who proudly displayed their really remarkably interesting work in fire prevention and health posters, penmanship, and art, and on through high school.

No especial effort had been made for the fair except to place the exhibits on display, the object being that the patrons of the school might gain an idea of the things their children were taught in their daily work.

The English, history, civics, Spanish, art and commercial classes made attractive display of their notebooks and posters, the civics poster showing the changes in government being especially important.

The science room was especially interesting to the visitors. Here were shown a large number of projects which had been carried out by the pupils. A fireless cooker was on display with food which had been cooked in it, an old-fashioned water mill, a number of telegraph instruments which had been made by the boys from parts of old Fords, and numerous bacteria tests that had been carried out. A drop of water with its accompanying germ life came in for its share of attention.

Colvert to Talk At Kiwanis Luncheon

The Wichita Falls Kiwanis club will feature Paul Colvert, who will review the current issue of the Kiwanis magazine, at its weekly luncheon Monday at the Kemp hotel. All members who are known to have gone fishing since the season opened will be asked to tell a fish story, it is announced by Paul Pearson, secretary.
