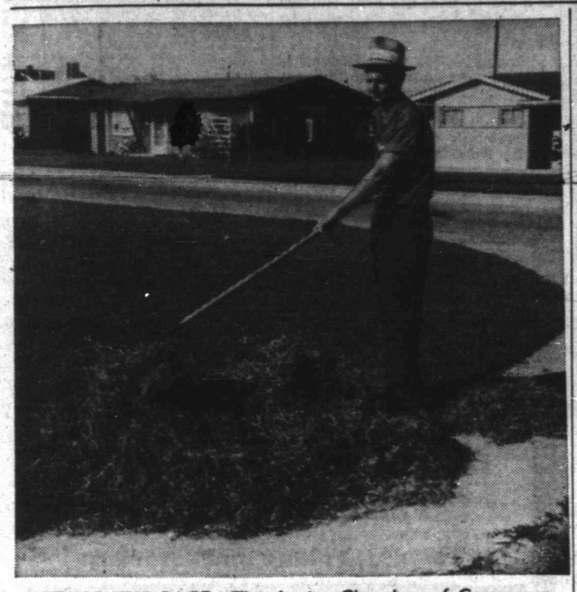
ARGENTINA IN REVOLT AS CHURCH OUSTS PERON



SETTING THE PACE—The Junior Chamber of Commerce, which is to conduct a city-wide cleanup campaign here next week, will be urging all residents to clean their yards, and Ernest Sears, chairman of the campaign, figures he should start with his own yard. He is shown here raking up grass cuttings to get them ready for pickup. The campaign will get underway Monday when about 50 boys and girls from youth organizations carry on the "red tag day" project, labeling yards which need cleaning with tags. Four mowing machines have been committed for use by the Jaycees next week to mow weeds, while the city is now preparing a pit at the city dump, large enough for 10 days of regular trash and garbage pickup, to be filled during the campaign. Strategy Meet For Big Four Talks Begin

NEW YORK (AP) — The Western Big Three foreign ministers gathered here today to unify secret strategy for Big Four parleys with the Russians in San Francisco and Geneva.

The two - day get-together started on an optimistic note.

Antoine Pinay, French foreign minister, arriving at Idlewild airport, said "we can hope" for relaxation of international tension if the Atlantic community continues as "a living reality."

Harold Macmillan, the British foreign minister, arriving at the airport less than an hour later, expressed hopes for "peace, security and freedom."

John Foster Dulles, secretary of state, came here from Washington last night with 25 staff members. The British and French foreign ministers each brought eight staff members from overseas.

No agenda has been fixed for the Geneva meeting, Macmillan said, but he added he did not rule out Dulles' suggestion that the Big Four discuss freedom for Russia's East European satellite countries. "Everything is revelant," he said.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will join the Big Three at lunch tomorrow. He was in Boston today to receive a Harvard degree.

Strong security precautions surrounded preparations for the meetings, aimed at presenting a united front in San Francisco next week when the Westerners meet Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

"We are going into meetings with the Russians," one spokesman explained. "If we make known our plans beforehand, what will we have to bargain with?"

The San Francisco talks are designed to set up the framework for the "summit" meeting July 18 in Geneva, Switzerland, of President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Eden, French Premier Edgar Faure and Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

Molotov and his party, who had arrived in New York before dawn yesterday on the Queen Elizabeth, left by train for San Francisco last night.

The Western Big Three meet today at Wave Hill, the Bronx home of Britain's chief delegate to the U.N., Sir Pierson Dixon. Tomorrow morning they resume their conference in the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, in downtown New York.

Dulles will fly back to Washington late tomorrow.

The conferences here began on an optimistic note.

Macmillan told the House of Commons yesterday, before he left London, that Western hopes for peace were now soundly based and that there appeared to be a new look in diplomacy and Soviet attitudes.

Adenauer before leaving for Boston expressed himself as happy over his reception in Washington this week. U.S. official sources appeared satisfied the West Germans will not be wooed away from the Western defense community and into neutralism by the Russian invitation to establish diplomatic relations.

Showdown Near On Dixon-Yates Fight

By HAMILTON FARON

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House approached a showdown today on the private vs. public power fight prompted by the Dixon-Yates agreement.

Republican supporters of the private power contract sought to knock out of an appropriations bill a provision that would earmark 6½ million dollars of Tennessee Valley Authority funds for a steam generating plant at Fulton, Tenn.

The GOP strategy was to avoid any specific legislative commitment for use of the money. Rep. Halleck (R-Ind), assistant GOP leader, has said elimination of the provision for the Fulton plant would clear the way for using the 6½ millions for a transmission line to carry Dixon-Yates power.

The amount had been asked by the Eisenhower administration for a TVA transmission line to the middle of the Mississippi River. There the line would connect with lines from the Dixon-Yates generating plant on which construction has been started at West Memphis, Ark.

The House Appropriations Committee voted instead to use the money to start the TVA's own proposed plant at Fulton.

The Dixon-Yates contract, approved by President Eisenhower but opposed by many Democrats, was signed last year by the private power group with the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC). Under it, the AEC would buy the private power for the TVA, to replace TVA power provided to various atomic plants.

The contract, the TVA, and public power generally entered into yesterday's debate. The talk centered on the one item, although the bill under consideration would provide $1,285,746,242 for the AEC, the TVA, other power agencies, and reclamation and Army Engineer work projects.

Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) of the Appropriations Committee said the only purpose of the Dixon-Yates contract "is to destroy the TVA." He called it "the most inequitable, most astonishing proposition ever foisted on the American people."

Rep. Davis (R-Wis) replied that "there was and is an existing contract," and contended the committee's action was an effort "to make it impossible to carry out the contract."

Rep. Hand (R-NJ) said he saw no reason why the people of his state should be taxed to provide cheap electricity in Tennessee. Rep. Phillips (R-Calif) challenged the continued building of steam plants, which he said would provide 70 per cent of TVA's power when present projects are completed.

Mock Attack 'Wipes Out' Part Of State

AUSTIN (AP)—A simulated enemy aerial attack that "wiped out" parts of Texas yesterday left state Civil Defense officials pondering today the state's readiness for the real thing if it ever comes.

Downtown Houston was the target for a theoretical hydrogen bomb groundburst at 1:45 p.m.

The toll was estimated at 45,000 "killed or critically injured." It would have gone higher—to 219,000 killed and 170,000 injured—had 80 per cent of the downtown population not been alerted and evacuated earlier.

In another simulated warning, the state disaster control center at Austin gave the Beaumont state disaster district half-hour notice at 2 p.m. that "enemy aircraft" were bearing down on Nederland in heavily industrialized Jefferson County.

It signalled actual test evacuation of the entire city of 7,000 men, women and children.

An "Applejack" (Red) alert at 1:34 p.m. had notified the State Defense and Disaster Relief Headquarters that attack was imminent for the entire state.

Some 5,000 El Paso citizens in 1,000 cars moved into the New Mexico desert about 15 miles from their city as part of the test.

Galveston was alerted during the morning and a communications network established. Sirens wailed a simulated alert in Harlingen.

Lubbock, where district disaster headquarters announced an atomic "explosion" had been observed west of the city in the afternoon, declared itself prepared for the emergency well in advance of the attack.

All members of the Lubbock district's disaster committee and all local Civil Defense officials were assembled and police officers alerted. Ambulances and wreckers were ordered to stand by.

The "Applejack" alert lasted only 27 minutes. It ended when the control center received a "Snowman" signal from the 33rd Air Force, air defense command at 2:01 p.m. that the air attack had ended.

State, district and local control centers remained active, however, to deal with their simulated problems. The state and district centers went on a continuous-operation basis at 10 a.m. yesterday and were to remain on active duty until 12 noon today.

QUEEN OF COTTON—Carolyn LaMotte of Harlingen, Tex., 19-year-old nursing student at Baylor University at Waco, Tex., was crowned 1955 Queen of Cotton for the Lower Rio Grande Valley's Cotton Week, honoring the nation's first bale of 1955-grown cotton. Queen Carolyn has brown hair, blue eyes, is five feet two inches tall and weighs 110 pounds. She will preside over the first bale auction, style shows, and other events of Cotton Week in Harlingen.

Strike Of Seamen May Halt Shipping

NEW YORK (AP)—A "no contract, no work" stoppage called by union seamen along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts today threatened to tie up half of the American merchant fleet.

The CIO National Maritime Union wired its "no contract, no work" recommendations to union locals in 18 ports after negotiations for a new contract were broken off.

Reaction came first from Philadelphia, where an NMU spokesman said the union was withdrawing its members from all ships in the Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey docks.

The union reported some 2,000 men stayed on 30 ships tied up in New York harbor but were not working. Work stopped on 12 ships in Baltimore, and one tanker was tied up in New Orleans.

Boston had only one tanker in port, and the union said it will not sail.

The stoppage affected passenger ships, including transatlantic liners—dry cargo vessels and tankers.

The first large passenger ship likely to be affected is the American Export Lines Independence, due to sail for the Mediterranean Saturday. The largest to be affected, if the stoppage continues, is the U.S. Lines United States, due to arrive from Europe Tuesday.

NMU members are seamen and other unlicensed personnel.

Members of three other unions, embracing officers and other licensed personnel on the ships sailing from ports on the East and Gulf coasts, also were left without contracts at the midnight expiration.

Spokesmen for these three unions were not available for comment after the pattern-making NMU sent out its call, but it was likely that they also would stand by their traditional "no contract, no work" policy.

Work stoppages by the 33,000 members of the four unions would affect approximately 1,000 ships—about half the American merchant fleet.

Disagreement over union demands on an unemployment insurance fund led to the work stoppage recommendations.

Contract negotiations between the four unions and two employer groups had been going on for weeks, and federal mediators stepped in last night. No further talks were scheduled.

When NMU negotiations with the two employer groups broke down, a spokesman for the AFL International Organization of Masters, Mates and Pilots said the effect would be that "no ships will sail."

The other unions involved are the CIO Marine Engineers Beneficial Assn. and the CIO American Radio Assn.

Government House Hit

BULLETIN

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—It seemed evident this afternoon that the government of President Juan D. Peron was putting down today's revolt.

By SAM SUMMERLIN

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Revolt broke out today against the government of President Juan D. Peron shortly after the Vatican excommunicated him and other government leaders

There was a pitched battle in the center of Buenos Aires and planes bombed Government House, the seat of government. Revolutionists fired mortars, machine guns and rifles against the presidential guard.

The revolt was reported to have spread to Rosario, Argentina's second city, although the government claimed the country was quiet outside Buenos Aires.

"There have been some disturbances, due to uprisings of units of the air force and the navy," the state radio said in a statement attributed to President Peron. "Army troops are fighting to restore order.

"One airplane has been shot down. Three others have been obliged to land."

Later the radio said only naval aviation was involved, not the air force.

This correspondent saw casualties being removed from the Plaza de Mayo, in front of Government House. Nearby is the national cathedral, center of last weekend's disturbances involving supporters of the Roman Catholic Church and supporters of President Peron in his campaign to curb the church in this country.

The center of the city was virtually alive with troops, and bands of workers could be seen running in the direction of Government House shouting "Peron, Peron!"

Radio Mitre, apparently seized by revolutionaries, announced that the city of Rosario was completely in control of revolutionaries. Rosario has 500,000 population and is Argentina's second largest city.

'Democratic Revolution' Reported By Radio

Radio Mitre's announcer shouted "This is a democratic revolution."

An unidentified voice was heard shouting "The tyrant is dead." There was no additional explanation and this may have been a phrase used in a theatorical sense. At this point the radio's power supply apparently was cut off.

In Buenos Aires a detachment of troops, described as large, was marching into the center of the city from a nearby army base.

The number of planes which bombarded Government House was not learned immediately.

Troops cleared civilians from the streets in the Government House area before the fighting began, but then the soldiers wasted little time getting into action.

As the sound of gunfire swept through the area, business houses pulled down their iron shutters.

Ambulances removed casulties from the Plaza de Mayo, in front of Government House. A detachment of about 50 troops was seen rushing into the building's side door, apparently to reinforce the soldiers defending it. Government House is known as the Casa Rosada, or Pink House.

Buses were reported converging on the center of the city carrying workers in response to an appeal from the labor federation.

Within a block or two of Government House, curious throngs ducked behind walls and into doorways, trying to get a look at the shooting.

The plane bombing of the Casa Rosada was just before noon. The pitched battle at Government House continued into the afternoon, with revolutionaries firing machine guns, rifles and mortars.

This came a few hours after news reached here of the Vatican's action. The Roman Catholic Church announced its penalty of excommunication—cutting off the sacraments of the church — was applied because of Argentine events culminating in the expulsion yesterday of Msgr. Manuel Tato.

Legal Sources Say Peron May Continue

Legal sources here declared the excommunication does not mean Peron ceases to be a Catholic. Therefore, they said, he can continue to serve under the Argentine constitution making Roman Catholicism the official religion.

Msgr. Tato and an associate expelled with him meantime were being flown to Rome on a special Argentine airliner.

The two prelates, Msgr. Manuel Tato, auxiliary bishop of Buenos Aires, and his assistant, Msgr. Pablo Novoa, were put on the Rome-bound plane yesterday after being held overnight by police. They had been taken into custody Tuesday night, a few hours after the government accused them of inciting riots and ordered them dismissed from their church posts. Both are Argentine citizens.

Santiago Luis Cardinal Copello, primate of Argentina, left his sickbed to resume active church leadership. As auxiliary bishop, Msgr. Tato had been performing many of the cardinal's duties during his illness, aftermath of a fall nine months ago down an elevator shaft.

Accompanied by Antonio Cardinal Caggiano, who arrived here from his archdiocese in Rosario, Cardinal Copello called on Foreign Minister Jeronimo Remorino last night to ask official word of the two expelled churchmen. The cardinals talked to Remorino for about five minutes but there was no announcement of what they were told.

Police, meanwhile, raided all the 120 homes and offices of parish priests in Buenos Aires and its suburbs yesterday, seeking evidence to support government charges that the church was responsible for clashes last weekend between Catholics and Peron supporters. At least 29 persons were injured in the street battles.

A police official said handbills criticizing Peron and defending the church were seized. Some parish offices and meeting rooms of Catholic action societies were sealed and placed under guard, he added.

Reports Say Parishes Visited By Police

Reports received here indicated that police may have visited most of the 1,500 Catholic parishes in the country. Authorities announced the arrest of another provincial priest, the Rev. Domingo Caniegalli, after a search in the parish house at Marcos Pax in Buenos Aires Province. He was the 79th priest taken into custody in Peron's seven-month-long dispute with the church. Most of them have been released after brief detention.

The church-state feud broke out in the open last November when Peron accused some members of the clergy of seeking to undermine his regime. The church denied the charge.

Since then, the government had pushed through legislation permitting divorce in Argentina, lifting tax exemptions from church property, banning religious education in public schools and halting subsidies to church schools. It plans a constitutional convention to end Roman Catholicism's favored status as the country's official religion.

When their plane landed in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, Msgr. Tato told a newsman that he and Msgr. Novoa had been hustled out of the country without even a change of clothes.

"The Argentine police kept us incommunicado in prison," he said, "refusing us permission to communicate with our superiors or to obtain a few aditional clothes for our journey."

Although he said he wished to give his first complete report on the situation in Argentina to Pope Pius XII, Bishop Tato described the present position of the church there as very serious. But he declared that the Argentine people, "traditionally religious, do not approve of Peron's attitude."

Msgr. Tato denied the Peron government's charges that Catholic demonstrators in Buenos Aires had burned the Argentine flag and stoned the plant of the newspaper La Prensa, as charged by the progovernment press. He said these acts were committed by Peron adherents in an effort to step up government pressure against the church.

Solon Says Wage Pact Not Good In Texas

DALLAS (AP) — State Senator George Parkhouse said today the new General Motors-CIO contract with its union shop provision cannot apply in Texas.

Parkhouse said both company and union would be subject to prosecution under the state's anti-trust laws. Parkhouse is author of much of Texas' present labor legislation.

His remarks were in answer to inquiries as to how the new contract would apply to GM's large assembly plant at nearby Arlington.

Troop Withdrawal In Japan Demanded

TOKYO (AP) — Major Japanese newspapers said today Russia had demanded that the United States pull its troops out of Japan and Okinawa within 90 days as the price of a Soviet-Japan World War II peace treaty.

Similar stories in Tokyo dailies said Russia made a "drastic proposal" at Tuesday's session of the USSR-Japan peace talks in London which embraced the demands the Soviets failed to win at the 1951 San Francisco peace conference.

The newspapers quoted "authoritative sources."

Earlier, Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu said Russia has renewed almost the same demands on Japan which the Soviets failed to win at San Francisco.

The Russians tried unsuccessfully then to force Japan to oust U.S. troops from Japan and Okinawa within 90 days.

Russia refused to sign the San Francisco peace treaty. Japan at the same time signed a security treaty with the United States providing for U.S. troops to defend Japan.

Kyodo news agency said Jacob Malik, chief Russian delegate at the recently convened London peace talks, had renewed the Soviet demands:

1. Withdrawal of foreign troops and bases from Japan within 90 days after the effective date of a peace treaty. Extension of Japan's sovereignty to the Ryukyus and the Bonin Islands.

2. Recognition by Japan of Russian sovereignty over Sakhalin and the Kurile Islands. Japan has been demanding return of south Sakhalin and the Kuriles, given by the Allies to Russia at the Yalta conference.

3. Recognition by Japan of Communist China's sovereignty over Manchuria and Formosa, both held by Japan in World War II.

4. Inclusion of Red China in the proposed Japan-Russia peace treaty. Nationalist China has signed the San Francisco pact.

Butler Carries 'Peace Tour' Into Conservative Stronghold

DALLAS (AP)—National Democratic Chairman Paul Butler attended a private breakfast at Fort Worth's Amon Carter Field today and had another bit of activity added to his Sunday schedule.

Former Vice President John Nance Garner invited everybody to come to his house in Uvalde at 2:30 p.m. Sunday and meet Butler.

"This will be a fine opportunity for all Democrats to meet their chairman," Garner said.

Butler had been scheduled to have a private luncheon with Garner.

At the Fort Worth breakfast, Democrat from both liberal and conservative factions of the party in Texas attended. It was staged by State Rep. Don Kennard of Fort Worth.

Sponsors reported there were no speeches at the breakfast.

Among guests were State Reps. Warren Cowen, Scott Sayers, Scott McDonald and Vernon Smith and Sen. Doyle Willis, all of Fort Worth. Also attending was State Rep. Barefoot Sanders of Dallas.

Butler is on a speaking tour of Texas to promote harmony among feuding factions of the state party.

He was to speak at Tyler at noon.

Butler's efforts to iron out differences between feuding Texas Democrats apparently was bearing fruit, but there seemed just as much evidence that he had not breached the hard core of conservatism within the state party.

In his speech before 1,000 or more of north Texans here last night, he promised national committee help to defeat Dallas' Republican Rep. Bruce Alger, the only Texas Republican holding elective office in Washington, and said that "Texas Democrats are capable of taking care of themselves."

"If given time they can settle all their differences by themselves without any help from me or the national committee," he said.

He also attacked what he called "the controlled segment of the Texas press" and singled out the Dallas Morning News. He said "that to put it mildly the News is not dedicated to dessiminating the views of the Democratic party."

The News in its story of the address reported the attack on itself but did not mention it directly in its editorial columns.

However, its lead editorial blasted Butler by saying he was unable to understand what was happening in Texas politics."

"The trouble," said the editorial, "is that most of the Democrats who in gathering numbers from 1936 on have voted against national Democratic candidates, realize that they were taken for a ride when Roosevelt, a national Socialist and centralized-power addict, got in by posing as a Democrat.

"They hope to rescue the Democrats from the nightmare of socialism and to restore it to states' rights, free trade and the individual integrity of free enterprise."

The crowd, which paid $10 a plate for a barbecue buffet dinner, applauded loudest when Butler spoke of "unity not unanimity" as his aim for the party and received a standing ovation when he was introduced by former State Atty. Gen. Gerald C. Mann, of Dallas.

His east Texas tour today took him to booming Tyler, Tex., and later in the day to Waco, where one of the largest crowds of his trip was expected.

In a Big Spring appearance yesterday, Butler was greeted by Mrs. Hal C. Peck, vice chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, controlled by Gov. Allan Shivers, who led Texas Democrats to Eisenhower in 1952.

At the same meeting he received news that John McKelvey, a member of the loyalist Democratic Advisory Council, had resigned with the assertion that Butler's treatment of Shivers was "callous."

Butler declined Monday an invitation from the governor to meet for lunch in Austin June 20. In each of his Texas speeches, at Lubbock, Big Spring and Dallas, he has said he meant no "snub" of the governor but that his tight schedule, made in advance, did not permit the meeting.

Asked if he felt Butler turned down the invitation at the suggestion of the "loyalist" group, Shivers replied he was "forced to make that assumption." The governor has made no reported move to meet Butler.

Nine Feared Dead In Crash

ASUNCION, Paraguay (AP) — A Panair do Brazil airliner from Rome crashed five miles outside Asuncion early today and nine or more of the 24 persons aboard were killed.

Advices from the scene, the village of Cuatro Mojon, said rescue workers had dragged the bodies of six passengers and three crewmen from the wreckage.

The plane carried 14 passengers and a crew of 10. It crashed about 2 a.m., apparently while letting down for a landing at Asuncion on its way to Buenos Aires.

A report to Panair officials said at least six persons survived.

Vessilio Bartoli, coach of Italy's Torino soccer club, survived the crash. He suffered serious burns.

Panair, a Brazilian company, operates in Europe and Latin America. It is an affiliate of Pan American World Airways.

Judge, Wife Are Missing

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Authorities leaned toward a kidnap-murder theory today in the mysterious disappearance of Circuit Judge C. E. Chillingworth, prominent Florida jurist, and his wife.

"I hope this is only a kidnaping," said Sheriff John F. Kirk. "We are still at a loss as to what happened and as to what motive they might have had."

The tall, thin, 58-year-old jurist and his wife Marjorie, 57, were last seen by friends in Palm Beach Tuesday night and were reported missing from their oceanside summer home at nearby Manalapan yesterday morning.

Slender clues baffled state, county and city police investigators.

Judge Chillingworth, a native of West Palm Beach, had been county judge for two years and circuit judge for 32.

State Atty. Phil O'Connell discounted a theory that a prisoner recently released may have been responsible, but said he had no other possible clues.

There were footprints in the wet sand, what appeared to be bloodstains on a beach walk and a smashed spotlight outside the concrete and frame beach house, indicating violence.

"We are working on the theory that they were attacked and carried away either by boat or by car," said John R. Hiatt, Palm Beach County investigator.

San Antonio Schools Plan Early Integration

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Supt. of Schools Thomas B. Portwood said today it was hoped to make a beginning at integration of white and Negro Students next fall in public schools here.

He said before such a move is made, the legal status of it would have to be determined. He said the attorney for the school board had been asked to study the Supreme Court decision to see if it sets aside state laws and the state constitution calling for separate schools f r whites and Negroes.

It was also revealed three white airmen from Randolph Air Force Base had enrolled in the formerly all-Negro branch of San Antonio College, St. Phillips. The trio will take shop courses not offered on the college level at any other local school.

Liner Cancels Trip Because Of Strike

By COLIN FROST

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP)—Britain's wildcat seamen's strike forced the 81,000-ton liner Queen Mary to cancel her New York sailing today and squeezed Britain's harried passenger lines into a tight corner.

The strikers had pinned their hopes on tying up the Mary, a pride of the great Cunard fleet. They were convinced her sailing would doom the walkout which already has tied up the 32,000-ton Mauretania and five other transatlantic liners.

The strikers failed last week to hold up the Queen Elizabeth, flagship of the line.

Cunard's attempts to get the Mary under way were blasted just 10 minutes before sailing time, when 120 crewmen joined 500 others of the 1,267-member crew who had walked off the ship yesterday.

Many of the 120 pullouts said they had not sympathized with the unauthorized strike. But they charged the line during the night had brought aboard 150 recruits whom the seamen called "scab labor."

Some 1,100 New York-bound passengers began disembarking as the Mary's loud-speakers blared out the news. Among them were 50 members of the D'Oyly Carte opera company en route for a Gilbert and Sullivan tour of the United States and Canada.

"The Cunard company deeply regrets, despite assurances which the crew gave to the master, that certain sections have elected to strike," the announcement said. "It will therefore be impossible to sail the Queen Mary."

Anticipating the tieup, Cunard had two trains ready to take the passengers back to London. It also told them attempts would be made to obtain "alternative transatlantic transportation." Many of the passengers immediately began phoning airline offices to book flights for New York.

Most of those involved in the waldcat walkout that has struck Liverpool and Southampton are cabin and dining room stewards. They are asking for a 48-hour week and increased shore subsistence. The seamen's union, however, has refused to approve the strike.

Sinclair, CIO Agree On Pact

NEW YORK (AP)—The Sinclair Oil Corp. and the CIO oil workers union reached a new contract agreement early today, averting a threatened walkout by 10,000 workers across the nation.

A joint company-union statement said the new pact, for one year and effective June 15, includes a general wage boost of 10 cents an hour plus substantial increases in sickness and accident benefits and other conract improvements. The wage raise will be retroactive to last March 1.

Agreement was reached several hours after the old contract expired at midnight last night. The oil workers are to stay on the job pending ratification of the new contract by union membership.

Storms Lash Central, North Texas Areas

By The Associated Press

A string of lightning-punctuated thunderstorms moved through North and Central Texas early Thursday, bringing rain, wind and cooler temperatures.

The storms swept through the Dallas area about 6:30, dropping .28 inch of rain and dropping the temperature from 72 to 64 quickly. Light rain continued to fall in the Dallas area at mid-morning, and showers were forecast for the Waco-Mineral Wells area.

Rainfall reports during the 24 hours ending at 6:30 a.m. Thursday included .90 inch at Texarkana and .55 at Beaumont.

The Weather Bureau said most of West and Southwest Texas was clear with the remainder of the state partly cloudy about dawn.

Tornadoes and thunderstorms struck scattered points Wednesday night with "considerable" damage reported.

One twister toppled a 3,000-bushel grainery at Follett in the Panhandle before jumping to more destruction in Oklahoma.

Another twister struck in the Gladewater area of East Texas, unroofing a night club, damaging another building and uprooting trees. Heavy hail accompanied the high winds and damaged crops.

Hailstones the size of baseballs were reported in Eastland and De Leon. Windows were bashed in and limbs torn from trees. Power lines were knocked down.

Considerable damage was reported at Gilchrist, between Galveston and Port Arthur, with hail doing most of the damage, but there was no immediate estimate of the loss. No injuries were reported.

Light hail and general rains were reported near Llano with more thunderstorm activity at Amarillo and Beaumont.

Forecasts called for continued high temperatures with scattered thunderstorm activity in most regions of the state Thursday and Friday during the afternoon and evening periods.

Washburn's Attorneys Ask For Early Trial

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Attorneys for Harry L. Washburn have filed a petition saying Washburn's right to a speedy trial has been violated and asking that a date for the trial be set.

Washburn, 38, of Houston, is charged with murder in the car-bomb slaying of his former mother-in-law, Mrs. Helen Harris Weaver. Mrs. Weaver was killed Jan. 19.

Washburn's trial originally was set for April 25, but the state got a delay because of the illness of the district attorney and the absence of a key witness.

Range Rider Still Reaping TV Benefits

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It has been more than two years since the Range Rider has ridden the range, but he's still reaping the benefits from the TV show.

The Range Rider is Jock Mahoney, a handsome, 6-foot-4 one-time stunt man. His profit from the series comes not from what most people think. Although it has played over and over again on TV, he says that his return from the reruns is small.

Furthermore, he made the 78 half-hour films at a starting salary of $250, ending up at a maximum $500. That's not much for a TV star, especially when you consider that no doubles were needed for his stunts.

"But I'm not bitter about the money," said Mahoney. "I'm grateful for the opportunity. They took an unknown stunt man and made a name out of him.

"They also taught me the business. Before, I was too scared to open my mouth in front of a camera. Now I feel confident in what I'm doing."

The experience in Range Rider plus six Loretta Young TV films set him up for a movie career of his own, instead of doing daredevil stunts for other actors. He is now appearing with Jeff Chandler, George Nader and Lex Barker in "Away All Boats."

This is the latest chapter in the amazing life of Jacques O'Mahoney, once a poor boy in Davenport, Iowa.

"I wanted to be an actor, but I suffered from an inferiority complex," said the towering Iowan. "So I decided to use my athletic background for stunt work."

He became very successful, earning as much as $30,000 a year for stunts most thinking people would never consider.

His best check was $1,500 for falling off a moving train amid boulders for a Randy Scott epic.

Paris Is Not Origin Of All Fashions

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Woman's Editor

Most American women probably don't realize what a vast industry keeps them clothed.

If they could visit a few of the fall fashion openings going on in New York, watch the intent faces of buyers and press, hear the applause that follows a successful showing, see the designers who have gambled a fortune on the placing of a belt or the length of a hemline—then they might realize not all fashion trends are born in Paris.

Detailed reports of advance U.S. fashions usually are released to the nation's newspapers about a month after some 10,000 buyers from stores throughout the country have come, seen and ordered.

However, a growing number of newspapers now are assigning fashion editors to cover openings along with the buyers on the theory the public likes to know far in advance what's coming in style for the next season.

For the last two weeks, I have been dashing from showroom to showroom in the crowded canyons of 7th Avenue, seeing the clothes that will reach the nation's stores next fall. And there's plenty of excitement in the new styles.

The consensus is that American designers have done it again. They have evolved a dazzling array of fall fashions that look new, fresh and handsome, and that will give women that thrill that comes from knowing they are well dressed.

There's a rich lineup of fabrics and trimmings from all over the world in the new fall styles—cashmeres from Scotland, tweeds from Ireland, embroideries from China, lace from Brussels, silks from Italy and France, woolens from England, saris from India and Pakistan, silks from Japan.

Club Plans Activity For Queen Fund

A game night, children's pet show and teen-age dance are among activities planned by the Atheneum Study Club to raise funds in support of their Rodeo Queen candidate, Connie Longbotham. Susan Miller, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Miller, is the club's future queen.

Activities will begin on Saturday with the game night, which is to be held in the Junior High School gymnasium beginning at 8 o'clock. Tickets will be on sale at the door, or may be purchased in advance from club members. Tables for 42, canasta, bridge and dominoes will be arranged. Refreshments will be served by the club.

Mrs. H. E. Hickman will be hostess for a bridge party in her home at 3797 Avenue V on June 21. A teen-age dance is planned for June 24 in the rodeo grounds pavilion. Admission will be 75 cents. A brunch in the home of Mrs. Bernard Longbotham, Jr., at 2805 Avenue V is planned for 10 a.m. on July 7. The children's pet show will be the final event on July 10 in the show barn at Towle Park. The show is to begin at 3:30, with admission 25 cents.

Miss Longbotham, 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Longbotham, Jr. A graduate of Snyder High School, she plans to attend Texas State College for Women in September and major in child psychology. She will also continue her ballet studies there. She has studied ballet here for seven years and attended two conservatories, one in Houston in 1953 and one in Dallas in 1954. She plans to combine her college major and ballet interest in the management of a dance studio upon the completion of her college work.

Tragedy At Le Mans

The potential was always there, of course, and finally there was a perfect meshing of time and circumstances to produce the greatest toll of life ever exacted by a single automobile.

That was at the 24-hour endurance race at Le Mans, France, for many years a major event in the automobile racing world. Tens of thousands of spectators were lined up at the rail, watching the cars go by. Suddenly a German Mercedes-Benz burst into flames — its gasoline tank had exploded — and hurtled over the retaining wall into the massed spectators.

The scene was one of indescribable carnage. Seventy-five persons died quickly, and by Monday morning the death toll stood at 85. Among the 80 persons injured, ten were expected to die. Among the dead, two children and fifteen women.

The race went right on to the finish several hours later. A Britisher, Mike Hawthorne, drove a Jaguar to victory at a sustained speed of more than 107 m.p.h. The racing authorities criticized for not ending the race then and there, came up with a typical hard-headed French explanation: to dismiss the horrified crowd would choke the roads roundabout, and ambulances were already having a hard time reaching the scene of disaster.

It is obvious something more than a retaining wall, which proved ridiculously inadequate when the car cleared it at a single bound, will have to be devised before the Le Mans endurance race is run again. Not to insure full attendance at the next meet, for people are fascinated at the thought of danger, but in the interest of simple humanity. The crowd will be back, out of morbid curiosity if for no other reason.

It seems likely that close to one hundred victims will be the harvest of this single accident, to say nothing of several scores more who will be crippled or disfigured for life. It is a pretty stiff price to pay for a few thrills.

Nowadays not even spectators are safe.

Stand From Under

When the Ford dike gave way, the jig was up; so General Motors followed quickly with a semi-GAW agreement with the CIO-UAW, to no one's surprise—a sheer case of self-preservation.

Thus the wave of wage increases is well launched, and whatever else it may mean it definitely means a fresh round of inflation. That bodes no good for the farmers, who are consumers as well as producers, and the gap between farm income and industrial wages has been widening steadily for more than two years, while the cost of living for everybody has not materially declined.

More than one observer has read into the GAW—guaranteed annual wage—deal a truly frightening implication; namely, an alliance between labor and management at the political level. They argue that a demand for greater and greater proportion of unemployment benefits out of the public revenues of state and federal governments will arise—indeed, may become necessary to support GAW—and out of this will come political pressure exerted by labor and management in concert. Industry, they say, will either from choice of necessity start looking for outside help to meet GAW requirements, and there is only one place to go—the public till.

Perhaps these economists are unduly alarmed, but they seem to have logic on their side.

The round of wage increases and the GAW contracts will of a surety have a profound effect on the 1965 presidential campaign, in this way: They are inflationary, and so are tax reductions, and these forces together could make any hope of tax reductions next year just plain suicidal. That means any party that advocates further tax reductions as a lure to voters next year will be whistling up the whirlwind.

There inevitably must be some point where consumers can't stand any more inflation. When that point is reached, stand from under!

Boy Deputy

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hersbey, who visited here as national Selective Service director, was a deputy sheriff when he first visited Louisville 42 years ago.

His father, he said, was sheriff of a Northern Indiana county. "The office wasn't big enough for two men, and too large for one, so my father put a boy in the job of deputy," he said.

An Intriguing Melody

Bao Dia Is Reduced To Faded Remnant Of Once Powerful Ruling Family In Viet Nam

By PRESTON GROVER

SAIGON (AP)—No one here speaks seriously any more of the return of ex-Emperor Bao Dai to power in Indochina.

This sharp-minded playboy is the faded remnant of a once powerful line of Viet Nam rulers. He lost the respect of French, Vietnamese and Americans alike by gambling his hours away on the French Mediterranean while his country was in the throes of an eight-year civil war.

Events, and a tough-minded Vietnamese premier, Ngo Dinh Diem, have pushed Bao Dai far back.

The French in 1948 called Bao Dai from a self-imposed exile in Hong Kong, in a vague hope he could stir up enough popular enthusiasm to lead the country away from Ho Chi Minh, already waging guerrilla warfare against the French throughout the land. But Bao Dai was so obviously a puppet that the country would have nothing to do with him. It already had its eyes on a great national upheaval led by Ho.

Moreover, Bao Dai showed little interest in being a puppet and spent most of his time in his palace at Hue, on the "River of Perfume," in the eastern high country, or on the French Riviera.

Years ago, Bao Dai chose Diem as his chief minister. That was in 1933 when Diem was a bright young mandarin of 32. He was recognized as a sternly honest man and that is his reputation today in a country where bribery, intrigue and corruption are frequent.

He was here when the Japanese came in 1941 and when they left in 1945.

Throughout he has been a stubborn advocate of full independence for the country and has refused to share in any government which didn't have that as its main goal.

The French admit they have fumbled an awful lot in the 10 years since they came back to seize control of the country they lost to the Japanese. For a time in 1945 and 1946, Indochina considered itself free and Communist leader Ho Chi Minh set up a government in Hanoi, with an assembly, and began negotiating with the French for "freedom within the French Union."

A considerable amount of freedom was one on paper and Ho tried to make a go of it. But what was won in the negotiations was taken away in the execution of the terms by the French administrators in Indochina.

Diem was in Hanoi in those years. He refused to associate himself with Ho because he insisted then as he is insisting now that the French must agree to get out. For a long time Ho didn't ask that much.

Despite Diem's known desire to get them out, the French selected him to be premier just at the time of the Geneva negotiations which resulted in division of the country and the preparations for an overall election in 1956 to decide who ultimately will control Viet Nam as a whole.

Progressively Diem moved through a cycle of broadscale governmefits to a government now centered tightly in himself. He is surrounded only by close friends and relatives.

His propaganda campaign against the French is bitter and unrelenting. Americans agree that he antagonizes the French needlessly. For example:

He removed France's most honored holiday, July 14, Bastille Day, from the list of holidays.

He ordered the name of France's famed Marshal de Lattre de Tassigny pulled down from an important street named after him, and withdrew the order only after a public outcry in which many Vietnamese joined. That Frenchman was popular.

Then, one day, his men captured an ambulance load of munitions being sent under French supervision to the Binh Xuyen, a sect then in open warfare with the government in the streets of Saigon. He called in American newsmen, and before them summoned the French officer responsible. The French tacitly admit the affair, but insist Diem's method of handling it was aimed at humiliating a French officer before Americans.

All these things hotly irritated the French, who insist they might have been handled differently.

Diem now seems solidly in office. Certainly he gained public support and popularity for beatint the defiant Binhxuyen society and driving them out of control of the Saigon police organization.

Now he has recently launched a campaign to break up the Hoa Hao sect. That could cause him some trouble. It is a fairly powerful sect, Buddhist in background, occupying one of the richest areas in Southern Viet Nam where Diem and the Americans want to settle some of the fugitives from the North.

The French say Diem's reputation for devoutness as a Roman Catholic, coupled with his series of drives on sects of other religious background, may ultimately cause serious trouble. There is mixed opinion among the Americans on that.

First Price Reaction To Auto Labor Pacts Noted

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Labor peace in the auto field is having its first price reaction today in the field of industrial materials.

Some grades of steel scrap have gone up in price because dealers see a good summer ahead for the steel mills, now that one of their big customers is virtually assured of setting a new record for car output this year.

Zinc producers say the same assurance has put the clincher on the price rise in that much-wanted metal.

The price of rubber for future delivery has gone up—partly in response to the labor peace at Detroit, and partly because of the racial and labor disturbances at Singapore.

Tin prices have risen too, with Singapore getting the immediate blame. But here also the belief that the business boom has been given a new lease on life is given some of the credit.

Prosperity prospects are holding the demand for aluminum high. So today some producers are predicting privately that the price of that metal will rise again this summer.

Copper producers once more are putting farther in the future the date when it could fall from its lofty price perch. They are saying the 36 cents price should hold this summer.

A basic steel price hike apparently is just waiting on a wage settlement with the steelworkers union. Talks are under way, and July 1 is the deadline. A price rise in steel will affect thousands of factories.

For the consumer the reaction, if any, will be delayed. But months from now he will be buying autos or appliances that contain the higher priced steel and other metals.

Factory production chiefs, faced with rising labor and industrial material costs, will look for corners to cut, devices to save on man hours, substitutes for more costly metals.

And finally the sales executives will try to decide how much of the new and higher costs can be passed along to the consumer in higher retail prices without losing sales to competitors.

It will be a busy summer. And the consumer will know the result next fall.

Plenty Of Ideas

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, treasurer of the United States, in Louisville for a speech, said she gets many suggestions about the nation's money.

One man told her he was tired of the huge national debt. Why not, he asked, just print currency on one side and sell the other side for advertising?

Another person wondered why women's portraits do not appear on currency. Mrs. Priest said dollar bills once had a picture of George Washington on one side and his wife Martha on the other.

But this was discontinued, the treasurer deadpanned, because "you shouldn't let money come between a man and his wife."

Move May Develop To Seek Increased Pay By States For Unemployment Insurance

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Employers, looking at the guaranteed wage plan granted by Ford and General Motors and faced with the possibility of union demands on them for some of the same, may ask themselves:

Would it be cheaper for me to agree to the same plan or try to take the steam out of union demands by trying to get the states to increase their unemployment insurance for laid-off workers?

President Eisenhower has complained states don't give laid-off workers enough unemployment pay. This year 26 states have boosted the amount.

The kind of guaranteed wage plan which Ford and GM just agreed to is a form of recognition that the states' unemployment benefits are too low.

Ford and GM emphasized the contracts they signed with the CIO United Auto Workers do not call for a guaranteed wage in the real sense but are a supplement to states' unemployment insurance.

All states have such insurance. But how much they pay, and for how long, varies. Some states will pay an idle worker for no more than 16 weeks. In some, the limit is 26 weeks. And all states have minimums and maximums on how much they pay.

Alaska tops them all with a maximum of $45 a week for 26 weeks for a man with no dependents. Alabama pays the least: $22 for 20 weeks. Ten states give an unemployed worker an extra allowance for dependents.

Eisenhower urges all states to pay for 26 weeks. Ford and GM agreed to make their payments for a maximum of 26 weeks. Neither the states nor auto makers have shown any intention of making payments for 52 weeks of idleness.

The unemployment insurance is paid for by employers through a tax on their payrolls. In most states, employes make no contributions. Ford and GM will add a maximum of $25—the minimum is $2—to what their laid-off workers get from states to bring an unemployed man's total compensation up to 60 to 65 per cent of his take-home pay when working.

Ford and GM will now be making two kinds of payments toward unemployment benefits the tax to the states for unemployment insurance and the supplemental pay they give their laid-off workers.

This double payment would be true for any employer who gave a similar contract to a union. If an employer tried to make the supplemental pay seem less necessary by pressuring his state to pay higher unemployment insurance, he might eventually have to pay more into the insurance fund through increased tax.

Champagne Market Is Weak Behind The Iron Curtain

By INEZ OBB

It is a well-known fact that the French are fond of light wines and dancing, and are up to their scuppers in joie de vivre. Other peoples, full of national miseries and migraine, have often wondered why.

My scholarly contribution today will clear up this mystery with a very simple explanation. The French also are up to their scuppers in French champagne.

Anyone who believes that the French regard champagne as a quick cash crop on the international market is a dreamer. The French, a sensible people with their feet on the ground, consume 20,000,000 of the priceless, sparkling 27,000,000 bottles of champagne produced annually in their invaluable vineyards.

This means that some 45,000,000 Frenchman latch onto 20,000,000 bottles of the bubbly, leaving a scant 7,000,000 bottles to console the rest of the world's population or some 2,425,000,000 persons. Even with a bad head for figures, anyone can see that this is spreading the consolation pretty thin.

Furthermore, of the 7,000,000 bottles for "foreign" consumption, the United States drinks approximately 2,500,000 annually and the British about 2,250,000. Thus, there are only 2,250,000 bottles of this French laughing water, to solace the rest of the globe.

Now, I am privy to all these statistics (and lots more) because recently my path crossed that of a very tall, dark, handsome young man named N. Joseph Dargent, who is the international representative of the Champagne Producers of France.

Mr. Dargent, a Frenchman who was weaned on the stuff, is here to study the American market for champagne. The champagne producers find it pretty hard to believe that both the American population and standard of living are zooming into the wild blue yonder when our consumption of French champagne is now only half what it was before World War I.

In 1914, when the United States population was just edging toward the 100,000,000 mark, our fathers and grandfathers were livin' it up with an annual consumption of approximately 5,000,000 bottles of giggle water every annum. And now, with a population of 165,000,000, we wrap ourselves around only half that amount! No wonder the French are skeptical.

Still and all, it is the democracies of this best-of-all-possible words that drink almost all of France's champagne. This could be because after one bottle of champagne it is easy to love thy neighbor as thyself and vote the straight democratic ticket.

Nonetheless, the fact remains, as M. Dargent pointed out, that champagne has made no inroads on the vodka or the rice wine belt. In 1954, only 3,024 bottles of champagne were sent to Russia, and Mr. Dargent is fairly certain that these were imported by members of the diplomatic corps.

Sixty bottles were sent to China in 1953 and none in 1954. In '54, Roumania got 384 bottles, Yugoslavia 1,100 bottles, Czechoslovakia 1,100 bottles and Poland, probably when Nikita wasn't looking, bought 9,600 bottles to go with the prune brandy.

Mabe what the Communists need to come clean and join the rest of the world is not only less Marx but more of the mink of drink.

It Takes 150 Years To Do What This Singer Desires

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Many people may wonder why science is trying to find a way to prolong the average life span to 150 years—but not Marguerite Piazza.

"The greatest fear I have is that I won't live long enough," said the young singer who turned from opera to become one of America's top supper club entertainers.

"There are so many things to do, and so little time to do them in. I'd like to live 150 years—and die traveling and still having fun."

Miss Piazza, who was named after a front porch and certainly presents a fine-looking facade, has a number of good reasons for wanting to live 150 years. She is happily married to a successful snuff merchant, she has three handsome children—and she earns up to $20,000 a week. Why not live forever?

There was many a lifted eyebrow when Miss Piazza, after a couple of seasons with the Metropolitan Opera, turned to a night club act in which she sang everything from Puccini to jazz numbers.

The eyebrows went even higher when, in the middle of her act, Miss Piazza changed her costumes right on the floor, behind the provocative barrier of a portable dressing screen.

Such antics by a typical overstuffed operatic star of the past would be as painful to watch as an elephant trying to skip rope. But not in the case of Miss Piazza, who has a panther grace and beauty.

She proved so popular with the sophisticated patrons of the Hotel Pierre's Cotillion Room the management presented her with a gold key to her suite.

Miss Piazza says the change in style has been good for her personally as well as financially.

"It has given me more freedom," she said. "They are always telling an opera singer, 'Oh, you can't do that—it isn't dignified.'

"But many people are afraid to enjoy themselves because of conventions that are really meaningless. Why should anyone say a song is boring, merely because it is either jazz or operatic?

"Any song that moves you to joy or tears has greatness. Each thing in life should be enjoyed for what it is.

"But so many people had seen me only wearing crinoline and wigs they were getting the idea that I was old and fat."

Miss Piazza very definitely is neither. She is slender, dark-haired, black-eyed, and has a complexion like a freshly plucked rose petal.

Between engagements she flies to her home in Memphis. Her husband, William Condon, a vice president of the American Snuff Co., often flies to meet her on weekends when she is on tour.

Miss Piazza is so cheerfully happy in her success I asked her if she could sum up her philosophy.

"The most important thing is to have happiness in your heart," she replied. "But you can't have happiness unless you have peace, and you can't have peace unless you have harmony in your home.

"I do have that, and I feel it is the most wonderful thing in the world. So I'm not fighting anyone."

Oriental Costumes Can Be Put To Good Use At Times

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The beautiful saris and other draped costumes worn by women in countries like India, Ceylon, Burma and Indonesia may not be practical for our hurried everyday life, but there are times when American women might do well to adopt them.

There is no lovelier, nor more graceful disguise for the expectant mother, for instance. Mrs. Notowidigdo, pretty, dainty wife of the Indonesian ambassador, is expecting her third child in two months, but no one would even suspect it.

For daytime wear, Indonesian women wear a printed batik, but for dress-up occasions they adopt a hand-printed batik.

Lured into a discussion of the fashion, embassy press attache, G. Harsono, a bachelor, says the hand-made batik skirt lengths take from one to one and a half months, day by day of tying and dying, each color used requiring a separate process.

"This makes them very expensive," Harsono said. "Someone tried to introduce the batik in a show in New York last year, but it didn't take. Only for the cloth it costs about $60. Now we have a lot of competition from the Japanese and Dutch who are making the prints in factories and can sell them cheaper." One sees many saris around the capital. They're made from six yards of fabric about 50 inches wide, some richly embroidered, or gem-studded, many bordered in gold, or silver.

Mrs. G.C.S. Corea, wife of the former ambassador to Washington from Ceylon, always had about 100. One time at a party she did a sort of striptease to show us how to drape them. Holding the sari in her hand and waring a foundation sheath of heavy satin, round-necked and sleeveless, she wrapped one end of rosy-pink handwoven silk, bordered, in gold-threaded black, tightly around her hips, tucking the top edge neatly into a tight, narrow band around her waist.

On one side she pulled more of the material into 11 exactly-matched two-inch pleats and tucked this into the band to form the skirt. What was left she threw casually over her shoulder.

"No sewing, no pins," she said, "and you can let out pleats if you get uncomfortable during a big dinner."

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

HEROINES OF DIXIE. By Katherine M. Jones. Bobbs-Merrill.

"The harder part of war is the woman's part." So writes Robert Selph Henry in his introduction to "Heroines of Dixie." True of all wars, this was particularly true of the war of the Sixties in the South.

"Heroines of Dixie" is about the Confederate women's part in the war. Their men are background figures. They serve only as the sounding board for the women's emotions.

The unique thing is that the women tell the story in their own words. They tell it well, whether they write in the polished phrases of the daughter of a plantation or in the unlettered simplicity of a mountain wife. Both have the common cause of loneliness.

Many of these women were not writing for publication. Their words came from letters, penned for the eyes of only a husband or a friend; from private diaries, from journals. Some of the experiences throb with the excitement of stirring events. Most of them are pervaded by strain and anxiety.

You'll meet women here you have heard of before: Varina Howell Davis, wife of the Confederacy's President; Rose O'Neal Greenhow, the spy; Mary Boykin Chesnut, the South's famous diarist. But there are many others, less known but no less appealing in their raw emotions.

Katherine M. Jones says she searched from Virginia to Texas, seeking out every piece of writing by Confederate women upon which she could lay hands. She presents their words, decorated only by her own intelligent commentaries, to put the times in focus, in what amounts to an autobriography of Confederate women — a stirring, inspiring, human story.

RADIO-TV REPORT

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Brawny Forrest Tucker, veteran of 69 movies, is going into TV in hopes it will boost his picture career.

He has signed to star in a new film series, Crunch and Des, based on the Philip Wylie short stories about a charter fishing boat captain. They will be produced by RKO for the NBC film division for telecast starting this fall.

With a backlog of six unreleased motion picture features, Tucker explains that while he has been very successful in movies he's never really hit star status. Most of the time he has been the heavy. He's hopeful his weekly appearances on TV screens may give him the recognition needed for sympathetic roles and stardom.

"This finishes my regular motion picture activities while I'm doing the series, except for about one picture a year" he says.

"But I don't mind giving them up for a series of this kind. When I heard about Des and Crunch I said 'This is the one.'

"I'll be an outdoors guy—a good guy for a change. I'll be an ex-fighter but one who can't use his fists because, as his wife reminds him, they are lethal weapons. But he's a fellow who wouldn't use his fists anyway; he's interested in helping other people solve their problems.

"Actually, there isn't anything like it on the air now. You'll have happy people invading your living room."

Tucker, a 6-foot-4 giant, will play Crunch Adams, the charter boat captain. Joan Budill as Sari, his wife, and Sandy Kenyon as Des, their son, will round out the cast. The series will be filmed in Bermuda.

Reverse Transport

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)— City Magistrate Bryan H. Lumpkin thought 13 defendants too many to transport to the courtroom, so he held court at the jail.

Nine men and four women were in jail after a rowdy weekend party.

Sentences ranged from $25 or 30 days to $200 or 60 days.

Strike Eases In Singapore

SINGAPORE (AP) — The strike situation eased in this great Far Eastern port today as 2,000 taxicabs returned to the streets and the government marshaled trucks to take children to school.

A government spokesman described the situation as "much better" in the British crown colony, adding that "nowhere near a general strike has materialized."

Thousands of trishawmen—operators of bicycle pedicabs—joined with taxi drivers in defying strikers' threats which for the past two days had kept them off the streets. The city's 6,000 busline employes have been out since Sunday.

Organized labor opposition to the strike was developing. The powerful Trade Union Federation of 25,000 workers and the Singapore Trade Union Congress, embracing 30 organizations, condemned the continuing walkouts as "completely unwarranted."

Chiefs of other unions, many of them Communist-dominated, had called the "general" strike for Monday to demand the release of six labor leaders jailed by the government Sunday under emergency regulations.

The strike leaders had predicted 70,000 of the colony's 150,000-man labor force would answer their call but the number has remained at about 17,000.

Chicago Man Is Acquitted

CHICAGO (AP)—John S. Goetzchel was acquitted yesterday on a charge of murder by abortion in connection with the death of Miss Ozella Skains, 23, of Dallas.

The 26-year-old chiropractor was acquitted after a criminal court jury deliberated 2 hours and 43 minnutes.

The body of Miss Skains, a telephone operator, formerly of Haskell, Tex., was found on a street in suburban Oak Park March 9, 1954.

Goetzchel said he treated the woman, but denied he tried to cause a miscarriage.

Charles Bellows, defense counsel, argued evidence against the defendant was insufficient and said the cause of Miss Skains' death was still "a mystery." Asst. State's Atty. Joseph McGovern had told the jury of eight women and four men "abortion is the most vicious type of crime."

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania's House of Representatives has been asked to be on its best behavior.

State Rep. Samuel Frank made the request yesterday after noting that after 11-year-old Norman Batcheler's visit recently, he described the house in a newspaper interview as being "like a theater before the movie begins—and the show never started."

Frank has invited the boy to return as his guest in an attempt to correct the impression.

Tragedy At Le Mans

The potential was always there, of course, and finally there was a perfect meshing of time and circumstances to produce the greatest toll of life ever exacted by a single automobile.

That was at the 24-hour endurance race at Le Mans, France, for many years a major event in the automobile racing world. Tens of thousands of spectators were lined up at the rail, watching the cars go by. Suddenly a German Mercedes-Benz burst into flames — its gasoline tank had exploded — and hurtled over the retaining wall into the massed spectators.

The scene was one of indescribable carnage. Seventy-five persons died quickly, and by Monday morning the death toll stood at 85. Among the 80 persons injured, ten were expected to die. Among the dead, two children and fifteen women.

The race went right on to the finish several hours later. A Britisher, Mike Hawthorne, drove a Jaguar to victory at a sustained speed of more than 107 m.p.h. The racing authorities criticized for not ending the race then and there, came up with a typical hard-headed French explanation: to dismiss the horrified crowd would choke the roads roundabout, and ambulances were already having a hard time reaching the scene of disaster.

It is obvious something more than a retaining wall, which proved ridiculously inadequate when the car cleared it at a single bound, will have to be devised before the Le Mans endurance race is run again. Not to insure full attendance at the next meet, for people are fascinated at the thought of danger, but in the interest of simple humanity. The crowd will be back, out of morbid curiosity if for no other reason.

It seems likely that close to one hundred victims will be the harvest of this single accident, to say nothing of several scores more who will be crippled or disfigured for life. It is a pretty stiff price to pay for a few thrills.

Nowadays not even spectators are safe.

Stand From Under

When the Ford dike gave way, the jig was up; so General Motors followed quickly with a semi-GAW agreement with the CIO-UAW, to no one's surprise—a sheer case of self-preservation.

Thus the wave of wage increases is well launched, and whatever else it may mean it definitely means a fresh round of inflation. That bodes no good for the farmers, who are consumers as well as producers, and the gap between farm income and industrial wages has been widening steadily for more than two years, while the cost of living for everybody has not materially declined.

More than one observer has read into the GAW—guaranteed annual wage—deal a truly frightening implication; namely, an alliance between labor and management at the political level. They argue that a demand for greater and greater proportion of unemployment benefits out of the public revenues of state and federal governments will arise—indeed, may become necessary to support GAW—and out of this will come political pressure exerted by labor and management in concert. Industry, they say, will either from choice of necessity start looking for outside help to meet GAW requirements, and there is only one place to go—the public till.

Perhaps these economists are unduly alarmed, but they seem to have logic on their side.

The round of wage increases and the GAW contracts will of a surety have a profound effect on the 1965 presidential campaign, in this way: They are inflationary, and so are tax reductions, and these forces together could make any hope of tax reductions next year just plain suicidal. That means any party that advocates further tax reductions as a lure to voters next year will be whistling up the whirlwind.

There inevitably must be some point where consumers can't stand any more inflation. When that point is reached, stand from under!

An Intriguing Melody

Bao Dia Is Reduced To Faded Remnant Of Once Powerful Ruling Family In Viet Nam

By PRESTON GROVER

SAIGON (AP)—No one here speaks seriously any more of the return of ex-Emperor Bao Dai to power in Indochina.

This sharp-minded playboy is the faded remnant of a once powerful line of Viet Nam rulers. He lost the respect of French, Vietnamese and Americans alike by gambling his hours away on the French Mediterranean while his country was in the throes of an eight-year civil war.

Events, and a tough-minded Vietnamese premier, Ngo Dinh Diem, have pushed Bao Dai far back.

The French in 1948 called Bao Dai from a self-imposed exile in Hong Kong, in a vague hope he could stir up enough popular enthusiasm to lead the country away from Ho Chi Minh, already waging guerrilla warfare against the French throughout the land. But Bao Dai was so obviously a puppet that the country would have nothing to do with him. It already had its eyes on a great national upheaval led by Ho.

Moreover, Bao Dai showed little interest in being a puppet and spent most of his time in his palace at Hue, on the "River of Perfume," in the eastern high country, or on the French Riviera.

Years ago, Bao Dai chose Diem as his chief minister. That was in 1933 when Diem was a bright young mandarin of 32. He was recognized as a sternly honest man and that is his reputation today in a country where bribery, intrigue and corruption are frequent.

He was here when the Japanese came in 1941 and when they left in 1945.

Throughout he has been a stubborn advocate of full independence for the country and has refused to share in any government which didn't have that as its main goal.

The French admit they have fumbled an awful lot in the 10 years since they came back to seize control of the country they lost to the Japanese. For a time in 1945 and 1946, Indochina considered itself free and Communist leader Ho Chi Minh set up a government in Hanoi, with an assembly, and began negotiating with the French for "freedom within the French Union."

A considerable amount of freedom was one on paper and Ho tried to make a go of it. But what was won in the negotiations was taken away in the execution of the terms by the French administrators in Indochina.

Diem was in Hanoi in those years. He refused to associate himself with Ho because he insisted then as he is insisting now that the French must agree to get out. For a long time Ho didn't ask that much.

Despite Diem's known desire to get them out, the French selected him to be premier just at the time of the Geneva negotiations which resulted in division of the country and the preparations for an overall election in 1956 to decide who ultimately will control Viet Nam as a whole.

Progressively Diem moved through a cycle of broadscale governments to a government now centered tightly in himself. He is surrounded only by close friends and relatives.

His propaganda campaign against the French is bitter and unrelenting. Americans agree that he antagonizes the French needlessly. For example:

He removed France's most honored holiday, July 14, Bastille Day, from the list of holidays.

He ordered the name of France's famed Marshal de Lattre de Tassigny pulled down from an important street named after him, and withdrew the order only after a public outcry in which many Vietnamese joined. That Frenchman was popular.

Then, one day, his men captured an ambulance load of munitions being sent under French supervision to the Binh Xuyen, a sect then in open warfare with the government in the streets of Saigon. He called in American newsmen, and before them summoned the French officer responsible. The French tacitly admit the affair, but insist Diem's method of handling it was aimed at humiliating a French officer before Americans.

All these things hotly irritated the French, who insist they might have been handled differently.

Diem now seems solidly in office. Certainly he gained public support and popularity for beatint the defiant Binhxuyen society and driving them out of control of the Saigon police organization.

Now he has recently launched a campaign to break up the Hoa Hao sect. That could cause him some trouble. It is a fairly powerful sect, Buddhist in background, occupying one of the richest areas in Southern Viet Nam where Diem and the Americans want to settle some of the fugitives from the North.

The French say Diem's reputation for devoutness as a Roman Catholic, coupled with his series of drives on sects of other religious background, may ultimately cause serious trouble. There is mixed opinion among the Americans on that.

First Price Reaction To Auto Labor Pacts Noted

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Labor peace in the auto field is having its first price reaction today in the field of industrial materials.

Some grades of steel scrap have gone up in price because dealers see a good summer ahead for the steel mills, now that one of their big customers is virtually assured of setting a new record for car output this year.

Zinc producers say the same assurance has put the clincher on the price rise in that much-wanted metal.

The price of rubber for future delivery has gone up—partly in response to the labor peace at Detroit, and partly because of the racial and labor disturbances at Singapore.

Tin prices have risen too, with Singapore getting the immediate blame. But here also the belief that the business boom has been given a new lease on life is given some of the credit.

Prosperity prospects are holding the demand for aluminum high. So today some producers are predicting privately that the price of that metal will rise again this summer.

Copper producers once more are putting farther in the future the date when it could fall from its lofty price perch. They are saying the 36 cents price should hold this summer.

A basic steel price hike apparently is just waiting on a wage settlement with the steelworkers union. Talks are under way, and July 1 is the deadline. A price rise in steel will affect thousands of factories.

For the consumer the reaction, if any, will be delayed. But months from now he will be buying autos or appliances that contain the higher priced steel and other metals.

Factory production chiefs, faced with rising labor and industrial material costs, will look for corners to cut, devices to save on man hours, substitutes for more costly metals.

And finally the sales executives will try to decide how much of the new and higher costs can be passed along to the consumer in higher retail prices without losing sales to competitors.

It will be a busy summer. And the consumer will know the result next fall.

Plenty Of Ideas

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, treasurer of the United States, in Louisville for a speech, said she gets many suggestions about the nation's money.

One man told her he was tired of the huge national debt. Why not, he asked, just print currency on one side and sell the other side for advertising?

Another person wondered why women's portraits do not appear on currency. Mrs. Priest said dollar bills once had a picture of George Washington on one side and his wife Martha on the other.

But this was discontinued, the treasurer deadpanned, because "you shouldn't let money come between a man and his wife."

Move May Develop To Seek Increased Pay By States For Unemployment Insurance

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Employers, looking at the guaranteed wage plan granted by Ford and General Motors and faced with the possibility of union demands on them for some of the same, may ask themselves:

Would it be cheaper for me to agree to the same plan or try to take the steam out of union demands by trying to get the states to increase their unemployment insurance for laid-off workers?

President Eisenhower has complained states don't give laid-off workers enough unemployment pay. This year 26 states have boosted the amount.

The kind of guaranteed wage plan which Ford and GM just agreed to is a form of recognition that the states' unemployment benefits are too low.

Ford and GM emphasized the contracts they signed with the CIO United Auto Workers do not call for a guaranteed wage in the real sense but are a supplement to states' unemployment insurance.

All states have such insurance. But how much they pay, and for how long, varies. Some states will pay an idle worker for no more than 16 weeks. In some the limit is 26 weeks. And all states have minimums and maximums on how much they pay.

Alaska tops them all with a maximum of $45 a week for 26 weeks for a man with no dependents. Alabama pays the least: $22 for 20 weeks. Ten states give an unemployed worker an extra allowance for dependents.

Eisenhower urges all states to pay for 26 weeks. Ford and GM agreed to make their payments for a maximum of 26 weeks. Neither the states nor auto makers have shown any intention of making payments for 52 weeks of idleness.

The unemployment insurance is paid for by employers through a tax on their payrolls. In most states, employes make no contributions. Ford and GM will add a maximum of $25—the minimum is $2—to what their laid-off workers get from states to bring an unemployed man's total compensation up to 60 to 65 per cent of his take-home pay when working.

Ford and GM will now be making two kinds of payments toward unemployment benefits the tax to the states for unemployment insurance and the supplemental pay they give their laid-off workers.

This double payment would be true for any employer who gave a similar contract to a union. If an employer tried to make the supplemental pay seem less necessary by pressuring his state to pay higher unemployment insurance, he might eventually have to pay more into the insurance fund through increased tax.

Champagne Market Is Weak Behind The Iron Curtain

By INEZ OBB

It is a well-known fact that the French are fond of light wines and dancing, and are up to their scuppers in joie de vivre. Other peoples, full of national miseries and migraine, have often wondered why.

My scholarly contribution today will clear up this mystery with a very simple explanation. The French also are up to their scuppers in French champagne.

Anyone who believes that the French regard champagne as a quick cash crop on the international market is a dreamer. The French, a sensible people with their feet on the ground, consume 20,000,000 of the priceless, sparkling 27,000,000 bottles of champagne produced annually in their invaluable vineyards.

This means that some 45,000,000 Frenchman latch onto 20,000,000 bottles of the bubbly, leaving a scant 7,000,000 bottles to console the rest of the world's population or some 2,425,000,000 persons. Even with a bad head for figures, anyone can see that this is spreading the consolation pretty thin.

Furthermore, of the 7,000,000 bottles for "foreign" consumption, the United States drinks approximately 2,500,000 annually and the British about 2,250,000. Thus, there are only 2,250,000 bottles of this French laughing water, to solace the rest of the globe.

Now, I am privy to all these statistics (and lots more) because recently my path crossed that of a very tall, dark, handsome young man named N. Joseph Dargent, who is the international representative of the Champagne Producers of France.

Mr. Dargent, a Frenchman who was weaned on the stuff, is here to study the American market for champagne. The champagne producers find it pretty hard to believe that both the American population and standard of living are zooming into the wild blue yonder when our consumption of French champagne is now only half what it was before World War I.

In 1914, when the United States population was just edging toward the 100,000,000 mark, our fathers and grandfathers were livin' it up with an annual consumption of approximately 5,000,000 bottles of giggle water every annum. And now, with a population of 165,000,000, we wrap ourselves around only half that amount! No wonder the French are skeptical.

Still and all, it is the democracies of this best-of-all-possible worlds that drink almost all of France's champagne. This could be because after one bottle of champagne it is easy to love thy neighbor as thyself and vote the straight democratic ticket.

Nonetheless, the fact remains, as M. Dargent pointed out, that champagne has made no inroads on the vodka or the rice wine belt. In 1954, only 3,024 bottles of champagne were sent to Russia, and Mr. Dargent is fairly certain that these were imported by members of the diplomatic corps.

Sixty bottles were sent to China in 1953 and none in 1954. In '54, Roumania got 384 bottles, Yugoslavia 1,100 bottles, Czechoslovakia 1,100 bottles and Poland, probably when Nikita wasn't looking, bought 9,600 bottles to go with the prune brandy.

Mabe what the Communists need to come clean and join the rest of the world is not only less Marx but more of the mink of drink.

It Takes 150 Years To Do What This Singer Desires

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Many people may wonder why science is trying to find a way to prolong the average life span to 150 years—but not Marguerite Piazza.

"The greatest fear I have is that I won't live long enough," said the young singer who turned from opera to become one of America's top supper club entertainers.

"There are so many things to do, and so little time to do them in. I'd like to live 150 years—and die traveling and still having fun."

Miss Piazza, who was named after a front porch and certainly presents a fine-looking facade, has a number of good reasons for wanting to live 150 years. She is happily married to a successful snuff merchant, she has three handsome children—and she earns up to $20,000 a week. Why not live forever?

There was many a lifted eyebrow when Miss Piazza, after a couple of seasons with the Metropolitan Opera, turned to a night club act in which she sang everything from Puccini to jazz numbers.

The eyebrows went even higher when, in the middle of her act, Miss Piazza changed her costumes right on the floor, behind the provocative barrier of a portable dressing screen.

Such antics by a typical overstuffed operatic star of the past would be as painful to watch as an elephant trying to skip rope. But not in the case of Miss Piazza, who has a panther grace and beauty.

She proved so popular with the sophisticated patrons of the Hotel Pierre's Cotillion Room the management presented her with a gold key to her suite.

Miss Piazza says the change in style has been good for her personally as well as financially.

"It has given me more freedom," she said. "They are always telling an opera singer, 'Oh, you can't do that—it isn't dignified.'

"But many people are afraid to enjoy themselves because of conventions that are really meaningless. Why should anyone say a song is boring, merely because it is either jazz or operatic?

"Any song that moves you to joy or tears has greatness. Each thing in life should be enjoyed for what it is.

"But so many people had seen me only wearing crinoline and wigs they were getting the idea that I was old and fat."

Miss Piazza very definitely is neither. She is slender, dark-haired, black-eyed, and has a complexion like a freshly plucked rose petal.

Between engagements she flies to her home in Memphis. Her husband, William Condon, a vice president of the American Snuff Co., often flies to meet her on weekends when she is on tour.

Miss Piazza is so cheerfully happy in her success I asked her if she could sum up her philosophy.

"The most important thing is to have happiness in your heart," she replied. "But you can't have happiness unless you have peace, and you can't have peace unless you have harmony in your home.

"I do have that, and I feel it is the most wonderful thing in the world. So I'm not fighting anyone."

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

HEROINES OF DIXIE. By Katherine M. Jones. Bobbs-Merrill.

"The harder part of war is the woman's part." So writes Robert Selph Henry in his introduction to "Heroines of Dixie." True of all wars, this was particularly true of the war of the Sixties in the South.

"Heroines of Dixie" is about the Confederate women's part in the war. Their men are background figures. They serve only as the sounding board for the women's emotions.

The unique thing is that the women tell the story in their own words. They tell it well, whether they write in the polished phrases of the daughter of a plantation or in the unlettered simplicity of a mountain wife. Both have the common cause of loneliness.

Many of these women were not writing for publication. Their words came from letters, penned for the eyes of only a husband or a friend; from private diaries, from journals. Some of the experiences throb with the excitement of stirring events. Most of them are pervaded by strain and anxiety.

You'll meet women here you have heard of before: Varina Howell Davis, wife of the Confederacy's President; Rose O'Neal Greenhow, the spy; Mary Boykin Chesnut, the South's famous diarist. But there are many others, less known but no less appealing in their raw emotions.

Katherine M. Jones says she searched from Virginia to Texas, seeking out every piece of writing by Confederate women upon which she could lay hands. She presents their words, decorated only by her own intelligent commentaries to put the times in focus, in what amounts to an autobiography of Confederate women — a stirring, inspiring, human story.

RADIO-TV REPORT

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Brawny Forrest Tucker, veteran of 69 movies, is going into TV in hopes it will boost his picture career.

He has signed to star in a new film series, Crunch and Des, based on the Philip Wylie short stories about a charter fishing boat captain. They will be produced by RKO for the NBC film division for telecast starting this fall.

With a backlog of six unreleased motion picture features, Tucker explains that while he has been very successful in movies he's never really hit star status. Most of the time he has been the heavy. He's hopeful his weekly appearances on TV screens may give him the recognition needed for sympathetic roles and stardom.

"This finishes my regular motion picture activities while I'm doing the series, except for about one picture a year" he says.

"But I don't mind giving them up for a series of this kind. When I heard about Des and Crunch I said 'This is the one.'

"I'll be an outdoors guy—a good guy for a change. I'll be an ex-fighter but one who can't use his fists because, as his wife reminds him, they are lethal weapons. But he's a fellow who wouldn't use his fists anyway; he's interested in helping other people solve their problems.

"Actually, there isn't anything like it on the air now. You'll have happy people invading your living room."

Tucker, a 6-foot-4 giant, will play Crunch Adams, the charter boat captain. Joan Budill as Sari, his wife, and Sandy Kenyon as Des, their son, will round out the cast. The series will be filmed in Bermuda.

Reverse Transport

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — City Magistrate Bryan H. Lumpkin thought 13 defendants too many to transport to the courtroom, so he held court at the jail.

Nine men and four women were in jail after a rowdy weekend party.

Sentences ranged from $25 or 30 days to $200 or 60 days.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Oriental Costumes Can Be Put To Good Use At Times

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The beautiful saris and other draped costumes worn by women in countries like India, Ceylon, Burma and Indonesia may not be practical for our hurried everyday life, but there are times when American women might do well to adopt them.

There is no lovelier, nor more graceful disguise for the expectant mother, for instance. Mrs. Notowidigdo, pretty, dainty wife of the Indonesian ambassador, is expecting her third child in two months, but no one would even suspect it.

For daytime wear, Indonesian women wear a printed batik, but for dress-up occasions they adopt a hand-printed batik.

Lured into a discussion of the fashion, embassy press attache, G. Harsono, a bachelor, says the handmade batik skirt lengths take from one to one and a half months, day by day of tying and dying, each color used requiring a separate process.

"This makes them very expensive," Harsono said. "Someone tried to introduce the batik in a show in New York last year, but it didn't take. Only for the cloth it costs about $60. Now we have a lot of competition from the Japanese and Dutch who are making the prints in factories and can sell them cheaper." One sees many saris around the capital. They're made from six yards of fabric about 50 inches wide, some richly embroidered, or gem-studded, many bordered in gold, or silver.

Mrs. G.C.S. Corea, wife of the former ambassador to Washington from Ceylon, always had about 100. One time at a party she did a sort of striptease to show us how to drape them. Holding the sari in her hand and waring a foundation sheath of heavy satin, round-necked and sleeveless, she wrapped one end of rosy-pink handwoven silk, bordered in gold-threaded black, tightly around her hips, tucking the top edge neatly into a tight, narrow band around her waist.

On one side, she pulled more of the material into 11 exactly-matched two-inch pleats and tucked this into the band to form the skirt. What was left she threw casually over her shoulder.

"No sewing, no pins," she said, "and you can let out pleats if you get uncomfortable during a big dinner."

Strike Eases In Singapore

SINGAPORE (AP) — The strike situation eased in this great Far Eastern port today as 2,000 taxicabs returned to the streets and the government marshaled trucks to take children to school.

A government spokesman described the situation as "much better" in the British crown colony, adding that "nowhere near a general strike has materialized."

Thousands of trishawmen—operators of bicycle pedicabs—joined with taxi drivers in defying strikers' threats which for the past two days had kept them off the streets. The city's 6,000 busline employes have been out since Sunday.

Organized labor opposition to the strike was developing. The powerful Trade Union Federation of 25,000 workers and the Singapore Trade Union Congress, embracing 30 organizations, condemned the continuing walkouts as "completely unwarranted."

Chiefs of other unions, many of them Communist-dominated, had called the "general" strike for Monday to demand the release of six labor leaders jailed by the government Sunday under emergency regulations.

The strike leaders had predicted 70,000 of the colony's 150,000-man labor force would answer their call but the number has remained at about 17,000.

TOP LEVEL CONFERENCE—India's Diplomat V. K. Krishna Menon (right), sits down at a White House conference table with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to report on his recent peace-making mission to Red China. Two hours after Menon arrived in Washington he was at the White House for his report and presumably to suggest "some contribution" he thinks the United States may make toward Far East settlements.

TWO WHO WERE ONE—Just a year ago these cute Dutch youngsters, born Siamese twins, were separated by Dutch surgeons. Look at the results as they posed in the garden of their home at Oenkerk, Holland, on Sunday, the first anniversary of their operation. Folkje (left), and Tjitske De Vries, now 19 months old, were joined at the umbilicus at birth. Their parents, Sybe and Blyke De Vries, have five other children.

Street Cleaner Is Winner Of $25,000

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP)—Ramon Angel, a $200-a-month street cleaner, his wife Guadalupe and their five children are $25,000 richer today.

But they haven't decided just what they are going to do with the money.

"We're going to think about it for a day or two," Mrs. Angel says.

The money, all in silver dollars weighing 1,562 pounds, was presented to the family yesterday. Ramon, 34, won it as first prize in a national sweepstakes contest sponsored by B. F. Goodrich Co.

Lung Cancer Increases

GENEVA (AP)—A 30 to 80 per cent increase in deaths from lung cancer since 1949 in the world's medically advanced countries was reported today by the World Health Organization.

Chicago Man Is Acquitted

CHICAGO (AP)—John S. Goetzchel was acquitted yesterday on a charge of murder by abortion in connection with the death of Miss Ozella Skains, 23, of Dallas.

The 26-year-old chiropractor was acquitted after a criminal court jury deliberated 2 hours and 43 minnutes.

The body of Miss Skains, a telephone operator, formerly of Haskell, Tex., was found on a street in suburban Oak Park March 9, 1954.

Goetzchel said he treated the woman, but denied he tried to cause a miscarriage.

Charles Bellows, defense counsel, argued evidence against the defendant was insufficient and said the cause of Miss Skains' death was still "a mystery." Asst. State's Atty. Joseph McGovern had told the jury of eight women and four men "abortion is the most vicious type of crime."

Slide Into Second Pushes Luck Too Far

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Mrs. Norma Miller, 52, was feeling mighty good. As playground director, she had just lined out a hard single in a kids' softball game.

Then she pressed her luck. Trying to steal second, she slid and broke her right leg.

She was reported in good condition at Seaside Hospital. Incidentally, she was called out on the play.

Helen Keller Honored

BERLIN (AP)—West Berlin's Free University has awarded Hellen Keller an honorary doctorate of medicine.

The period of gestation in kangaroos is about three weeks, but the young are very poorly developed at birth, requiring a period in the marsupial pouch before they are capable of much independent movement.

11-Year-Old Analyzes State Legislature

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania's House of Representatives has been asked to be on its best behavior.

State Rep. Samuel Frank made the request yesterday after noting that after 11-year-old Norman Batcheler's visit recently, he described the house in a newspaper interview as being "like a theater before the movie begins—and the show never started."

Frank has invited the boy to return as his guest in an attempt to correct the impression.

A high percentage of drivers who are involved in frequent accidents have tunnel vision — that is, they are aware of objects only in a narrow arc in their line of vision — says the Better Vision Institute.

Marion Juggles Team To Stay Near Yanks

By ED WILKS
By The Associated Press

Manager Marty Marion's busier than a one-legged man in a sack race these days what with keeping his Chicago White Sox within range of the New York Yankees and holding off the Cleveland Indians.

He had a workout last night, juggling players and shuffling pitchers while splitting a twi-night with Baltimore. The Sox lost 6-5, and won 2-0. That put them two games behind the American League-leading Yanks, who lost to Detroit 8-6, and a length ahead of the Indians, who lost at Washington 3-0.

Trailing 5-4 in the first game, Marion pulled center fielder Minnie Minoso in to play third and moved third baseman George Kell to first in place of young Ron Jackson so he could keep pinch hitter Bob Nieman in the game. Nieman, a long-ball threat, played left field.

Nieman wound up hitless, but Nellie Fox tied it at 5-5 with a homer. And when reliefer Millard Howell went 3-0 against Harry Dorish in the seventh, Marion brought on Sandy Consuegra to pitch. Sandy got out of the frame, but was tagged for a run-scoring single by Bobby Young in the eighth that broke a four-game Chicago winning string.

In the nightcap, Mike Fornieles breezed along for six innings on a 1-0 lead after Fox had swatted his second homer of the night. But when Fornieles issued his first walk to open the seventh, Marion called in Billy Pierce. And when Pierce faltered with a 2-0 lead in the eighth, Consuegra showed up again to pack it away.

Boston made it seven out of eight in the other AL game, beating Kansas City 9-6.

In the National, Brooklyn lost to Cincinnati 5-2, but stayed 11½ games to the good as second-place Chicago lost to New York's Giants 7-2.

St. Louis belted three home runs to beat Pittsburgh 7-3 and Philadelphia blanked the Milwaukee Braves 4-0.

Billy Hoeft won his sixth while beating the Yankees, although needing relief help from Babe Birrer. The Tigers wrapped up their scoring with Jim Delsing and Frank House hitting back-to-back homers in a four-run fourth. Eddie Robinson homered twice for the Yanks.

Washington ended a seven-game losing streak as young Dean Stone held the tribe to three hits. Johnny Groth and Roy Sievers homered for the Nats, who scored six runs in the fourth to beat Bobby Feller.

Rookie Rudy Minarcin gave the Brooks four hits and had them shut out on two safeties until the ninth, when Junior Gilliam homered after a walk. Carl Erskine was the loser. Gus Bell singled, doubled and homered for three of the Redleg runs.

Five runs in the ninth broke up a 2-2 ball game for the Giants, with reliefer Paul Giel hitting a double to start the rally that brought his first major league victory. Paul Minner lost it.

Herm Wehmeier stopped the Braves on six hits. Gene Conley was replaced after he issued a walk with the bases loaded in a two-run fifth.

Al Schoendienst and Solly Hemus homered to get the Cards rolling, but Bill Virdon's two-run clout put it away in the seventh. Paul LaPalme saved Luis Arroyo's seventh victory by cutting off the Pirates a run short at 5-4 in the top of the seventh.

Mel Parnell won his first of the season for the Red Sox, with help from Tom Hurd in a four-run Kansas City ninth. Jackie Hensen hit a two-run homer in the 11-hit Boston attack as winless Ray Herbert lost his sixth.

More LL Play Set Tonight

The undefeated American Legion Yankees will attempt to maintain their dominance of the American Little League tonight as they take on the West Texas Bank Athletics.

In the teams' two previous meetings, the Yankees won 9-0 and 4-1.

In the National Little League, the Giants and Braves will meet, but there is no possibility of their changing positions. They have split the wins in their previous games, the third-place Braves taking the first 3-2, and the Giants who rank number four in the league the second 12-8.

The bucket collection of the Polio fund drive which was scheduled for Tuesday night will be taken tonight.

A new ground rule passed by Little League officials last night provides that, if either team in a game is 10 runs ahead at the end of four complete innings or if the home team is that far ahead in three and one - half innings, the game can be called.

Also in last night's meeting, two makeup games were re-scheduled for Saturday night at regular game times. The Yanks and Trinity Methodist White Sox will meet in that night's first game, and the Braves and Rotary Cardinals are matched in the second game.

Pampa Gains Better Lead In WT-NM Loop

By The Associated Press

The Pampa Oilers took both ends of a doubleheader with the Albuquerque Dukes Wednesday night to put them two games in the lead in the West Texas-New Mexico League. It was the widest margin the league leaders have had for at least a month.

The Oilers won both games 4-3 with the winning run coming in the bottom of the final frame.

In the other games, Amarillo and Plainview divided another twin bill, Amarillo taking the first 2-1 and Plainview the nightcap 3-0, Lubbock decisioned El Paso 12-11, and Clovis and Abilene also split a doubleheader. Abilene won the first 5-1 and Clovis the second 9-7.

Tigers Set Practice Game With C-City

The Tigers, who are currently leading the City Baseball League, will go to Colorado City Saturday night for a practice game.

Speedy Moffett, who heads the team, said the squad will meet Colorado City's American Legion team. Like the Tigers, the C-City group is made up of teen-agers. Game time will be 8 p.m.

The game will be played on Colorado City's new high school baseball field, which is located just north of the football stadium there.

Berg, Suggs Carry Lead In Tourney

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP)—Patty Berg, who moved into the national golf picture 20 years ago, and Louise Suggs, leading money winner of the year, carried a substantial lead into the third round of the $8,700 Round Robin tournament at the Grossinger Country Club today.

Miss Berg, from St. Andrews, Ill., had a score of plus 38 on a medal tally of 74-72—146. Miss Suggs, from Sea Island, Ga., was nine points back after turning in a 72-hole score of 72-75—147 over the 6,370-yard course.

Still on the right side of the ledger, in addition to the two leaders, were Marlene Bauer of Sarasota, Fla., plus 19; Jackie Pung of Honolulu, plus 14; Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., plus 13 and Fay Crocker, Uruguay, plus 8.

Peacock Knocks Out Raul Macias In Third

LOS ANGELES (AP)—With a jaw-fracturing left hook, Billy (Sweetpea) Peacock knocked out National Boxing Assn. bantamweight champion Raul (Raton) Macias in the third round last night.

Peacock, of Los Angeles, didn't gain the title, for it wasn't at stake, and that one devastating punch assuredly delayed the Sweetpea's chance of a rematch for the title, for X-rays show the right jawbone is broken in two places.

It took Peacock two rounds to discover there was no use boxing the Mexico City boy. Getting nowhere in the feint-and-jab business, he started a slugging bee in the third, and 2 minutes, 29 seconds later Macias was counted out.

Tyler Moves To Second

By The Associated Press

Tyler's Tigers, making a spirited comeback as the first half nears its close, are in second place in the Big State League.

They aren't about to catch the leading Corpus Christi Clippers, who won again Wednesday night to remain 12 games out front, but they have shoved past Port Arthur.

Tyler beat Waco 7-4 with Moe Santomauro and John Goodell clouting homers off three pirate hurlers.

Corpus Christi whipped Port Arthur 11-6, chasing over six runs in the first inning and winning without effort.

Austin licked Texas City 5-2 with Juan Perez clouting a bases-loaded double in the eighth to clinch the victory.

The best news came from Harlingen, where it was found more than the $10,000 needed for the club to stay in the league had been raised.

This means seven clubs will face the barrier Sunday when the second half starts. Galveston dropped out last week.

Russia Stirring Up U.S. Olympic Donors

By TED SMITS

NEW YORK (AP)—J. Lyman Bingham, executive director of the United States Olympic Assn., gave Russia roundabout credit today for stirring up Americans to contribute to the Olympic fund.

"Russia scares the pants off us, and maybe it's good," he said.

Bingham has a $1,100,000 budget to raise by voluntary contributions.

Colleges are chipping in with boosts in the price of football tickets. The Junior Chamber of Commerce and Life magazine are planning to repeat their intensive campaign of four years ago. There's a $100-a-plate dinner coming up in Hollywood. And all across the country volunteer groups are putting on stunts to enable the United States to send a full, powerful team to the 1956 Olympics.

The Winter Olympics will be in Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy, and the summer games (actually Nov. 22-Dec. 8 because of the upside down season) will be in Melbourne, Australia.

"These Melbourne games will be very expensive," said Bingham. "Some of the countries may not be able to handle it. Our team for the next winter games will number about 100. We figure it costs about $1,100 per person.

"For the summer games we will have about 325 athletes. Under a new rule officials can only number 15 per cent of the big teams, so there will be about 50 in all instead of 90 at the last games in Helsinki. We figure Melbourne at $2,000 per person."

Bingham's budget must also cover the $109,000 cost of the recent Pan-American Games in Mexico City.

PL Starts Second Half

The Pony League baseball teams go into the games tonight with a clean slate as they begin the second half of the summer schedule. The winner of this half, if it is a different team, will play the Von Roeder Red Sox, winner of the first half, to determine the league's winner.

In tonight's games, the Courthouse Tigers who tied with the Dodgers for second place in the first half will meet the Red Sox. The teams have split the wins in their games, the Red Sox taking the first 8-1, and the Tigers the second 5-2.

The second game will pair the Lions Club Phillies and the Scurry Butane Dodgers. The Dodgers have beat the Phillies twice 16-5 and 10-0.

Game time is 6:30 p.m.

Women's Golf Assn. To Meet Tomorrow

Regular events will be included in activities of the Women's Golf Association's regular meeting at the Country Club tomorrow.

Several women in the association have been participating in area women's tournaments. Most recent was one at Sweetwater last week, in which Mrs. Shanty Hogan won the prize for high putt. She tied for low net score but lost out in playoffs. Mrs. M. M. Dyer won the poker hand, while Mrs. O. K. Fletcher had the most buzzards. Also participating were Mrs. George Lowe and Mrs. Leon Younger.

Indians And Orioles Make Only Big Deals

By ORLO ROBERTSON
The Associated Press

The Cleveland Indians, battling to retain their American League champion title, and the cellar-dwelling Baltimore Orioles produced the only important deals as the major league deadline for trades passed at midnight last night.

The Indians, seeking reserve strength, acquired veteran outfielder Gene Woodling and utility infielder Billy Cox, an ex-Brooklyn Dodger, in exchange for a pair of veteran utility outfielders — Wally Westlake and Dave Pope — and a bundle of cash.

A hitch developed, however, when Cox went to his home in Newport, Pa. He was reported to have said he didn't want to report to the Indians. Paul Richards, Oriole general manager, said he didn't know what was wrong.

Hank Greenberg, Indians general manager, was trying to reach Cox by phone last night. Cox has 72 hours to report.

The Orioles, in another deal, sold Harry Byrd, right-handed pitcher, to the Chicago White Sox for an undisclosed amount of cash but in excess of the $10,000 waiver price.

In dealing off Woodling and Byrd, the Orioles let go two more of the nine players obtained from the Yankees last winter in the deal that sent Bob Turley, among others, to New York. The Orioles purchased Cox with Preacher Roe from Brooklyn for an estimated $55,000 and two minor league players last winter. The departure of Woodling and Byrd leaves only four of the original nine Yankees still with Baltimore.

The Detroit Tigers, apparently giving up hopes of dealing with the Yankees, acquired veteran first baseman Earl Torgeson from the Philadelphia Phillies for an estimated $25,000. The Tigers were desperately in need of a first sacker since both Ferris Fain and Jack Phillips are hobbled by knee injuries.

In other transactions:

The Cleveland Indians signed Ted Gray as a free agent. Gray, who saw action against Washington last night, was released last month by the Chicago White So because of a sore arm.

The St. Louis Cardinals swapped two pitchers with their Rochester and Houston farm clubs. Floyd Wooldridge, who hurled a one-hitter for Houston, and Mel Wright of Rochester were recalled. To make room the Cards optioned Herb Moford to Rochester and Barney Schultz to Houston.

Pittsburgh shipped third baseman George Freese and pitcher Ben Wade to Hollywood and brought up southpaw Lino Donoso from the Pacific Coast League club.

The Phillies purchased pitcher Ronnie Negray from St. Paul and threw in Dave Cola, an erratic pitcher.

The Chicago Cubs purchased Owen Friend, a utility infielder, from Louisville.

Hurling By Barnes Gets TL Spotlight

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

San Antonio halted a dangerous slide with a doubleheader victory over leading Dallas Wednesday night but Texas League interest was shared by Oklahoma City's Frank Barnes, who pitched the first no-hit, no-run game of the season.

Showing they were not quite ready to roll over and play dead, the Missions stormed back into second place—just two games behind Dallas—by trouncing the swaggering Eagles 10-1 and 4-3.

Meanwhile Barnes, who hadn't shown much until that time, missed a perfect game by three bases on balls, as he shut out Shreveport 1-0 without a smidgen of a hit in the 9-inning game of a doubleheader. Just 30 batters faced him and Gordon Windhorn gave him the victory by singling in Jim Neufeldt with the game's lone run in the eighth.

Barnes, Negro righthander, came to Oklahoma City from Toronto three weeks ago.

In the first game, Shreveport clouted Oklahoma City 7-2 behind the 6-hit pitching of Bill Moisan with Les Fleming, who socked a homer and single, driving in three runs.

Fort Worth dropped into third place by splitting a doubleheader with Houston. Mel Waters, who has a 6-0 pitching record for the season, continued as the leading fireman of the league. He made his 30th appearance to preserve a victory for Billy Harris in the nightcap as the Cats won 4-2.

Houston won the first game 7-6 with Russ Rac bounding a single in the seventh inning that drove in George Lerchen with the deciding run.

Tulsa and Beaumont couldn't play at Beaumont because of wet grounds but have a doubleheader scheduled Thursday night.

Conrad Ready For Challenge

LINVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The field gets its first crack at defending champion Joe Conrad today as match play began in the Southern Golf Assn.'s 49th annual amateur tournament.

Joe appeared ready for the challenge. The 25-year-old redheaded Air Force lieutenant from San Antonio, Tex., hurried here in quest of his unprecedented third straight Southern title after winning the the British Amateur and reaching the semifinals of the French Amateur earlier this month.

Conrad headed the upper half of the draw as as he met Jack Lumpkin of Athens, Ga.

On top the lower bracket was 18-year-old Teddy Garrison of nearby Morganton who won the medal with 66 yesterday for a 144 total. Garrison, who won the Carolinas Junior title last week, is a 125-pound North Carolina State College student.

Golf Course Rough Would Make Silage

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The 55th National Open golf championship beginning today, says Gene Sarazen, should be called the "fire engine open."

"You're going to have to have hook-and-ladders parked at strategic spots around the course," the Germantown, N.Y., squire added. "That's to get the balls out of the cypress trees.

"The cypress trees are so close and so thick in foliage it's impossible to hit a ball through them. The ball gets stuck. So what are you going to do? Bring out the ladders."

Further commenting on the Olympic Club lakeside course, scene of the tournament, Gene said:

"And that rough. I never saw such thick, juicy grass in my life. I want to find out what kind of fertilizer they use. I want to grow the stuff for silage back on my cattle farm."

Savitt Slated For First Oklahoma Play

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Top-seeded Dick Savitt, former Wimbledon champion from Corpus Christi, was scheduled for his first play today in Oklahoma's Open tennis tournament and faced a busy day if he was to catch up with the field.

His first singles match was in the third round against John Hernandez, University of Texas.

In third-round play yesterday, Bernard (Tut) Bartzen, San Angelo, Tex., whipped John Beene, Shawnee, Okla., 6-2, 6-4; Alejandro Olmedo, Lima, Peru, beat Tom Springer, Austin, Tex., 7-5, 6-2; Roxin Willner, Los Angeles, eliminated James Schmidt, Beaumont, 6-1, 10-8 and Sammy Giammalva, Houston, ousted Ed Kauder, Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-2.

Roswell Rally Fails, San Angelo Wins

By The Associated Press

A Roswell rally which left the bases loaded failed in the bottom of the ninth Wednesday night, and San Angelo won an 8-6 Longhorn League game to widen its circuit lead to 2½ games.

In the other games, Midland swamped Hobbs 19-1, Odessa beat Artesia 11-7, and Carlsbad and Big Soring each took one of a twin bill, Big Spring the first 5-2 and Carlsbad the nightcap 9-3.

VanderMeer Hurling Feats Are Recalled

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Seventeen years ago today the baseball world had something a whole lot more exciting to buzz about than the length of Brooklyn's lead over the National League and Cleveland's chances of overhauling the Yankees in the American.

On the previous night, in the first arelight game ever played at Ebbets Field, a slender young Cincinnati Reds southpaw named Johnny Vander Meer had pitched his second successive no-hit game, the first and only time up to this minute that such a feat has been accomplished. Chances are it will never happen again.

Only five days before, on June 11, the 23-year-old fastballer from Paterson, N.J., had set the then Boston Bees down 3-0 to open the gate to immortality. He completed baseball's greatest double by hamstringing the Dodgers 6-0 before a howling, capacity throng of nearly 39,000, which rode with Vandy's every pitch.

Vander Meer made the occasion exciting enough to satisfy everybody present. Always given to wildness—he later was to lead his league twice in bases on balls as well as three times in strikeouts — the handsome kid teased the Brooks along with eight passes while fanning seven. They never came close to getting a hit off his Jersey lightnin'.

The high spot of the historic contest was saved for the very last. In the ninth inning, with only one out, Vandy issued passes to Babe Phelps, Cookie Lavagetto and Dolph Camilli to load the bases and send the crowd into a delirium of excitement.

The next batter, Koy, rapped a grounder to the Reds' third baseman, Lew Riggs, who fired to the plate for a forceout, leaving the bases laden.

That brought up a fellow named Leo Durocher, the Dodger shortstop, who still is around somewhere. Leo lofted a soft fly into center to ring down the curtain, and Vady's wrought-up teammates rushed him through the dugout and to the locker room before the crowd could get at him.

Vander Meer remained in the big show for another dozen years, but he never quite lived up to those headlines of 17 years ago.

Johnny turned 40 the past winter. Last we heard he was player-manager of the Daytona Beach club in the Florida State League. You probably wouldn't want to catch him barehanded even now.

JUICY HAMBURGERS, BROILED OR GRILLED, ARE YEAR-ROUND FAVORITE
. . . eat them barbecued, deviled, stuffed, stacked or wrapped in bacon

Hamburgers Can Be Made Of Beef, Fish, Lamb And Ham

This is a puzzler we heard a few days ago: if someone wanted to make a hamburger out of ham, what would he call it?

Unlike the sandwich, which was named after an Earl, the hamburger is a word that has drifted into the English vocabulary from an unknown source. A German town perhaps gave it the name (Hamburg), but just why is another question.

From the number of recipes with a "burger" ending, we have to conclude that hamburger is a definite misnomer. A hamburger can be anything from a thin broiled ground beef patty to a triple decker three-meat, cheese and pickle creation, a loadful even for Joe E. Brown.

BROILED JUICY HAMBURGERS
1 pound ground beef round
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon finely grated onion, juice and pulp
¼ cup undiluted evaporated milk
Butter or margarine

Mix ground beef, salt, pepper, onion and evaporated milk together thoroughly; shape into four patties. Dot with butter and place under broiler heat until browned; turn and dot other side with butter; continue to broil to desired doneness. Makes 4 servings.

DEVILED HAMBURGERS
1 pound ground beef
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons tomato catsup
1 teaspoon bottled horseradish
3 tablespoons minced onion sauce
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1½ teaspoons prepared mustard

Mix ingredients together lightly Handling meat as little as possible, form into 4 large or 8 thin patties. Broil, grill, or charcoal grill 3 to 6 minutes a side.

HAMBURGER TUCK-INS
1 pound ground beef
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
4 tablespoons finely chopped onion

Mix ground beef with salt and pepper and shape into 8 thin patties. Combine Worcestershire sauce and onion. On each of four patties place 1 tablespoon of chopped onion. Top with second patty and pinch edges together well. Pan fry or broil about 15 minutes, turning once. Makes 4 servings.

THREE DECKER HAMBURGER
2 pounds lean beef, ground
Salt and pepper
½ pound blue cheese
¼ cup minced onion
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Few drops tabasco sauce
Strong, cold coffee

Season beef with salt and pepper. Form into 12 thin patties. Break up cheese; add onion, Worcestershire sauce and Tabasco; Beat until well blended. Add enough coffee to make soft, spreading consistency. Spread between hamburger patties, sandwich fashion. Broil, turning once. Serve on hot, toasted hamburger buns. Yields 6 servings.

BACON WRAPPED HAMBURGERS
1½ teaspoons monosodium glutamate
2 teaspoons salt
Few grains pepper
¼ cup minced onion
½ cup evaporated milk
¾ cup chili sauce
1 cup whole bran
1½ pounds ground beef
8 strips bacon

Combine monosodium glutamate, salt, pepper, onion, evaporated milk and chili sauce; mix well; pour over bran. Let stand 10 minutes until bran absorbs liquid. Add meat; mix lightly. Form into 8 patties. Wrap bacon strip around each patty; secure with wooden picks. Broil with surface of meat 3 inches below source of heat until bacon is crisp, turning once.

OLIVE BURGERS
3 cups (1½ pounds) ground beef
2 tablespoons chopped stuffed olives
¼ cup chopped dill pickle
½ teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup dry bread crumbs
¾ cup water
8 sandwich buns
¼ cup soft butter or margarine

Combine beef, olives, pickles, mustard, salt, dry bread crumbs and water. Shape into 8 meat patties, using ½ cup of meat mixture a patty. Grill hamburger patties, turning them so they will brown on both sides. Cut buns in half. Spread ½ teaspoon butter on each bun half. Heat buns in basket broiler while meat is grilling. Place grilled meat patty between heated bun halves. Serve hot.

HAM COMBO BURGERS
Biscuit dough:
3 cups pancake ready mix
⅓ cup shortening
1 cup milk
Ham filling:
1 pound ground cooked ham
¼ cup chopped onion
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
¼ teaspoon pepper
Cheese sauce:
½ pound processed American cheese
½ cup milk

For biscuit dough, measure pancake ready mix into a bowl. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Add milk and stir lightly to mix. Add a little more milk if necessary to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board or canvas and knead gently several times. Roll dough out to form a 12½ x 16-inch rectangle. Cut in half.

For ham filling, mix all ingredients together thoroughly. Spread him mixture over one rectangle of dough. Top with second rectangle of dough. Cut into circles using floured number 2½ can as a cuttered. Place on cooky sheets. Using a small biscuit cutter or large bottle top, cut a small circle out of the middle of each. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) 12 to 15 minutes.

Serve with cheese sauce made by heating cheese and milk together in double boiler. Stir occasionally until cheese is melted. Remaining pieces of dough and meat mixture may be pressed into a baking pan in irregular pattern and baked.

HAMBURGER SQUARES
1¼ pounds ground beef
2 tablespoon minced onion
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
6 slices bread
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon prepared mustard

Combine and mix well beef, onion, salt and pepper. Toast bread on one side in broiler. Spread the untoasted side of each slice with the meat mixture, being sure that the edges of the bread are covered. Return to broiler and broil 6 to 8 minutes, depending on desired degree of doneness. While the beef is broiling, cream butter and mustard together. Spread each of the hamburger squares with mustard mixture. Yields 6 servings.

2 teaspoons salt

Thoroughly mix all first seven ingredients; shape into 8 3-inch cakes. Brown on both sides in hot, greased frying pan. Mix all ingredients for barbecue sauce (remaining ingredients). Pour over the patties. Cook until sauce has thickened (about 10 minutes). Serve between corn meal griddle cakes. Yields 8 servings.

½ pound fresh shrimp shelled and deveined
1-3 cup chopped sweet gherkin
¼ cup finely chopped onion

Demo Chiefs Back Social Security Plan

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP)—Broad and costly revisions of the social security program were given a legislative go-ahead today by Democratic House leaders.

Plans agreed on at a meeting attended by Speaker Rayburn of Texas, Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts and Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee call for action at this session on a bill to benefit principally women and all disabled employes.

The Ways and Means Committee, which like the House is under Democratic control, may start consideration of the proposals next week.

Changes backed by the Democrats, and likely to have substantial Republican support, would:

1. Lower the pension eligibility age for women from 65 to 62 years, affecting immediately a million women and costing an estimated 200 to 400 million dollars a year.

2. Provide for immediate benefit payments to insured workers permanently and totally disabled, regardless of age. This would cost up to $1,400,000,000 a year and affect from 1,200,000 to 1,700,000 persons. At present such workers don't get benefit payments until they reach 65.

3. Continue benefit payments for children past the age of 18 who are physically or mentally incapacitated. The cost of this would be relatively small, sponsors said.

Although no agreement was reached, the legislation also may extend coverage, on a voluntary basis, to some professional and self-employed groups not now covered.

The proposed changes would require eventual adjustment of the present schedule of payments into the social security fund by employes and employers. Each now pays 2 per cent on the first $4,200 of the worker's yearly earnings.

Republican committee members complained that they were not consulted over the Democrats' plans, but there were no threats of united opposition to the changes.

Strange Bomb Ignored

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—At the height of yesterday's civil defense test, the 11th Naval District alerted centers that an atom bomb had just "devasted" Long Beach. "It wasn't in our scenario and we had enough other bombs to worry about," an official confessed later. "So we just ignored it."

Building Is Stoned

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador (AP)—Dispatches from Quito reported members of a nationalistic political group stoned the building of the independent newspaper El Comercio, which has been critical of President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra. Police reportedly broke up the demonstration after the mob smashed a number of windows.

Mock State Of Martial Law Declared As Alert Continues

By STERLING F. GREEN

EMERGENCY PRESS HEADQUARTERS, Operation Alert (AP)—President Eisenhower today declared a mock state of martial law to mobilize "the authority and resources of the federal government" in coping with the massive problems of a nation theoretically ravaged by hydrogen and atomic bombs.

The President's action—following a late-into-the-night session with top officials—was announced by a spokesman who said it was Eisenhower's view such a step was necessary to the national interest until Congress, supposedly scattered by the mock attack, could reconvene and until normal channels of government action were re-established.

The theoretical martial law declaration was taken after the imagined damage from yesterday's attack on 61 major population and industrial centers had been assessed, the spokesman said.

The President came out with his martial law declaration on the second day of Operation Alert 1955, the hydrogen age preparedness exercise which started yesterday when enemy bombers supposedly rained death and ruin on the nation's capital and 60 other key cities.

Some 15,000 government workers, led by President Eisenhower, turned today to the problems of relief, price-wage control, rationing and war production raised by the presumed emergency.

Eisenhower, at a temporary White House separate from this press center, arranged to talk over the theoretical problems with the National Security Council at an underground site.

He planned to motor to the emergency Pentagon, which is below ground, and presumably talk with his top advisers on retaliatory steps.

This was the picture of the supposedly stricken nation confronting Eisenhower and his advisers:

More than five million Americans dead, about twice as many injured and millions of evacuees homeless, jobless and penniless.

There were examples of genuine confusion yesterday:

Not until 11:30 p.m. last night was the 61st city "hit" reported. It was Portland, Maine, and it proved to have been the first city supposedly devastated, more than nine hours earlier. Although the test had been planned for months, the government waited for separate "field" reports on estimated casualties and damage.

The mock attack on Portland came at 1:53 p.m. and the last missile in the simulated coast-to-coast drubbing came at 3:45 p.m. Minutes later came the all-clear.

It was assumed that both hydrogen and conventional atomic bombs were dropped.

Since the scattered locations at which key government officials are operating might be used in a real emergency, they are not being named nor pinpointed under a voluntary censorship system. All are in a range of from 30 to 300 miles of Washington.

There are 31 secret retreats, housing key personnel from as many agencies. Into them emergency communications lines poured some 500 prearranged problems demanding solution. The wires also brought news of this supposed damage:

Great visible clouds of fall-out which, it is calculated, have "ruined" crops and cattle and menaced populations in thousands of densely settled square miles stretching out from radioactive rubble of New York, San Francisco, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Detroit and Kansas City.

But most Americans are presumed still alive to work and fight. The U.S. Strategic Air Command has sent imaginary fleets of A-bomb and H-bomb carriers on retaliatory missions.

Great holes are presumably torn in the industrial base. Pittsburgh's steel, Los Angeles' aircraft, Akron's rubber, Detroit's tanks and vehicles, Wilmington's explosives, much of New England's electronics are written off in the exercise.

Baby Kangaroo Gets Plenty Of Attention

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 10-inch baby kangaroo named Josie may not be able to get back in her own marsupial mother's pouch but she's getting plenty of tender loving care from the human race instead.

Josie was the first kangaroo ever born in the Baltimore Zoo. Her mother, apparently disgusted because Josie has a limp, expelled her from her home. Josie can't get back of her own accord.

Arthur Watson, zoo director, has put her in the care of Mrs. Louella Earl, who feeds her with an eye dropper.

And Dr. Robert P. Wagers, a veterinarian, has discovered the reason for the limp—a tendon has slipped out of place on one hind leg. He thinks surgery can be performed and the tendon slipped back in place with the application of a cast.

Police Seek Murder Gun

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police searched today for a .22 - caliber weapon and the killer who sprayed 14 shots from it into two teenage girls heading for school on the term's last day.

Yesterday's double slaying in a suburban rustic park was first reported as a stabbing, but Dr. John T. Kelcney, Prince Georges, Md., county coroner, said an autopsy showed the 14 bullet holes and no stab wounds. He said neither of the girls was sexually attacked.

Victims of the daylight shooting were Nancy Marie Shomette, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Shomette, and Michael Ann Ryan, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Ryan. Both families live at Lane Manor, Md., a housing development near College Park, Md., and only about three blocks from the park where the bodies were found.

Ryan is a Washington policeman, and other members of the metropolitan police force volunteered to help county officers in searching the park for clues. Formal aid from the department also was offered. County Police Chief George Panagoulis canceled all detectives' leaves to speed the search.

Crude attempts had been made to cover both bodies with branches Panagoulis said.

Twenty persons, including close acquaintances of the two girls, were questioned.

John Sutton's Wife Gets Divorce Decree

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actor John Sutton, 46, has been divorced by his wife Roberta, 33, after nine years of marriage. She obtained a decree on cruelty charges yesterday, testifying that he drank excessively and once struck her.

Mrs. Sutton, former wife of Hollywood columnist Jimmy Fidler, was awarded a home in Beverly Hills and 20 per cent of Sutton's gross income until a $30,000 debt is repaid.

Davy Crockett Game Almost Proves Fatal

HOUSTON (AP)—A Davy Crockett battle with the Indians almost ended tragedy for "mean" Johnny Dennis Jr., 6, yesterday.

Police said Johnny, who was to be "hung," looped a length of cord over a tree limbs, knotted the other end about his throat and stepped or fell off an ice cooler.

Playmates ran for help and Mrs. Ammie Dennis, the boy's grandmother, got him down.

At the hospital, Johnny fingered his throat cautiously and announced he was "ready for lunch." His condition was reported "good."

Information Exchanged

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentina has received from the United States a library on peaceful use of atomic energy. The two countries signed an agreement last week to exchange information on the subject.

Adenauer Asks Try For Arms Reduction

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany asked the United States today to prod Russia again for an agreement on controlled arms reduction.

"The fate of this world and of peace" restoring hands of "the two great world powers, the United States and the Soviet Union," the 79-year-old German leader said in a speech prepared for Harvard University commencement exercises.

"Unless these two great powers agree on an important step in the direction of controlled disarmament," he said, "the present state of conflicts short of a major war will continue . . ."

President Eisenhower is scheduled to meet at Geneva July 18 with the Premiers of Russia, Britain and France. Adenauer has just concluded talks in Washington with Eisenhower, Secretary of State Dulles and others.

Adenauer said:

"I would be especially gratified if the United States would take the initiative in this matter and discuss this question with Soviet Russia. The United States is the strongest nation on earth; Soviet Russia fears her and her only and this fear certainly influences Soviet policy to a considerable degree.

"By taking the initiative in this, the United States would carry forward the policy announced by President Eisenhower in his address in April 1953 that is, controlled disarmament and the use of some of the means thus saved for the benefit of underdeveloped nations."

Adenauer emphasized that conferences on the subject "have up to now achieved no real success."

In the past, the United States and its allies have insisted that any disarmament plan must be accompanied by an effective system for inspection. The Soviets long shied away from such inspection. However, last month the Soviet Union proposed a new plan providing for a control organ with some inspection rights. Western reaction was that this proposal represented a concession by Russia but that it still left much area for disagreement.

Looking forward to the Big Four meeting generally, Adenauer said, "I believe that we are justified in saying that the conferences just ahead are finding a more favorable climate" than existed a year ago.

Adenauer said this is so because the West has grown stronger with organization of the Western European Union and the entry of West Germany into NATO and also because "it has become quite clear that the Soviet Union, in any case, is in need of a lengthy pause for relaxation in order to meet the demands which are posed by her internal economic tasks."

Finally, Adenauer said, the very frightfulness of the atomic and hydrogen bombs has improved prospects of agreement.

Adenauer came to Harvard to receive an honorary degree. "As a small token of gratitude" he offered Harvard two scholarships for a year's study by American students in Germany.

Integration In Kentucky School Starts

MONTICELLO, Ky. (AP)—Wayne County schools won't wait for organized desegregation. And, as a result, the six children of Clark Stonewall will go to classes for the first time next fall.

Ira Bell, superintendent of schools, was told officially yesterday that Kentucky's day law requiring segregation in public schools went with the wind when the U.S. Supreme Court ordered integration recently.

Bell said that was all he wanted to know. Negro children will be admitted to white schools starting with the fall term.

Stonewall started the ball rolling. His is the only Negro family in an area served by a one-room school for white children. His home is too far from the county school bus route that brings other children to school in Monticello.

Because of this, Stonewall has borrowed text books up to the fifth-grade level from the School Board and has attempted to teach his children.

He asked Bell to let his children go to the one-room Griffin school.

Bell was told yesterday by the state attorney general's office that nothing in the law prevented him from going ahead with integration immediately.

A governor's committee is studying the problem for the rest of the state.

Wayne County will become the first in Kentucky and one of a known three in the South to comply with the Supreme Court order. In Arkansas, the small Clarkson school and the Fayetteville High School have integrated. The high school and junior high at Oak Ridge, Tenn., will integrate next year.

Three Of New Quads Born Yesterday Die

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Quadruplets were born to a New Haven woman here yesterday. Two of them died last night.

One died early today.

At St. Raphael's Hospital, Mrs. Kenneth Barnes, 39, was reported to be resting comfortably. The remaining infant is described as being in "fair condition."

The four, all boys, were two months premature. They weighed about two pounds each. The two weaker ones were placed in an air lock apparatus designed to aid breathing. These two died, seven hours after birth.

Kenneth G. Barnes, 32, the father, is a aircraft worker. Told of the deaths, he commented: "It was God's will."

The Barnes have another child, Dominic, 2.

Youngster Is Trapped Under Load Of Hay

CENTERVILLE, Mich. (AP)—Andy Huff and his pal Wally Bowman, both 9, were having great fun yesterday on the George Rice farm.

Farmhands were feeding hay into a machine that poured it into a moving wagon. Andy and Wally were running alongside and climbing into the wagon to watch the hay pile up.

Later, back at the barn, Wally missed his friend. He told farmhands. They searched the fields. No success. Then Wally suggested they look in the wagon.

There, under a pile of hay, they found Andy's body. He had been trapped in the falling hay and had suffocated.

National Guard Unit Takes Pride In Camp Achievement

Editor's Note — The more than 100 members of Snyder's National Guard unit will return here Saturday following their two-week encampment at North Fort Hood. The following report on training and activities at the camp was written for the Daily News by Sgt. Jack Youree, public information representative for the company.

NORTH FORT HOOD — The men of Company "D" 112th Armored Cavalry Regiment are in their second week of summer field training with feelings of pride and victory.

At the annual Regimental Governor's Parade on Saturday here they were presented the Jack Knight Trophy, the most sought after award of all those given at this yearly event. It is indicative of the fact that Snyder's unit is the "honor company for 1955" of the entire regiment which consists of 21 such companies. Capt. Charles W. Kincaid, company commander, accepted the trophy, accompanied by Sgt. Wendell W. Autry, the guidon bearer. It will be kept at the armory in Snyder for one year at which time it must be brought back to be given to the honor company of 1956. Should any one company receive the trophy for three years, it becomes theirs to keep permanently. The men of Company "D" will use this as their goal for the coming year.

A number of factors are considered in making the selection of the Jack Knight Trophy winner. Among them are the training records of the past year, the annual IG and command inspections, the various technical inspections, the qualification in arms, and the percentage of men who attend summer field training. To determine the top company, a certain number of points is given for the efficiency shown in each of these areas. This point system is utilized by battalion and regimental officers in choosing the winner.

Sgt. Robert Green of Company "D" received an individual award at the parade on Saturday for his participation in the big bore rifle match. The award was won by the Second Battalion of 112th Cavalry of which Snyder's unit is a part. It is an award for top marksmanship using 30 caliber M-1 Rifles. Men of particular skill are chosen for this match from companies throughout the regiment, and Sergeant Green represented Company "D" in helping win the trophy for the Second Battalion.

During the first week of summer field training at North Fort Hood, many phases of training made up the activities of the men of Company "D". Thirteen participated in recruit training which teaches manual of arms, close order drill, military courtesy, and other basic skills of the soldier. Sgt. Roaal E. Minor was the recruit instructor from Company "D".

Another aspect of training was the tank gunnery in which many of the unit's men had a part. Capt. Kincaid was in charge of the tank gunnery range. First Lt. John T. Lynch and Second Lts. Johney N. Greenfield and J. W. Johnston were instructors in this phase of training. SFC Clyde D. Black and SFC Richard G. Hardin were assistant instructors.

SFC E. J. Moore, the company intelligence sergeant, was a part of a reconnaissance group which did scouting and patrolling of all areas where training was proceeding.

A large group of the men were a part of the mortar training. Second Lt. Ernest D. Rayburn of Company "D" was in charge of this training on the battalion level. Sgts. Mark W. Glass and Nathan W. Clement were assistant instructors.

SFC Billy D. Martin was an assistant instructor in the rifle and scout training.

During the latter part of the week, all groups of men combined to run an A. T. T. Course which is a series of practice army problems.

SFC Jessie C. James, the company mess sergeant, and his cooks and helpers have furnished the men with excellent meals both in quality and quantity. Some of these have been served in the field when it was impractical for the men to return to camp at mealtime.

Mail has arrived in voluminous amounts. Company "D" seems to be the most written-to unit at North Fort Hood, acording to the mail clerks who do the sorting. Copies of The Snyder Daily News have arrived regularly and in such generous amounts that several copies can be distributed to each tent daily.

It is said that mess, mail, and money equal morale. Men of Company "D" can boast of at least the first two of these, and when Friday of this week arrives, even the third will be attained. Doubtless you have guessed — that's payday!

Parr's Appeal Is Answered

HOUSTON (AP)—U.S. Atty. Malcolm R. Wilkey sent to the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans yesterday an answer to George Parr's appeal from dismissal of a federal income tax case.

Wilkey said the Duval County political boss' appeal from dismissal of the case in the Southern District of Texas was "frivolous and obviously taken for purposes of delay."

The tax evasion indictment against Parr was dismissed here May 19 after a similar indictment was returned in the Western District of Texas.

Earlier, Parr won a change of Venue on the Southern District indictment. He won a plea to have the case moved from Corpus Christi to Laredo on grounds Laredo was the only place in the Southern Dstrict he could get a fair trial.

Parr's appeal seeks to have the case returned to the Southern District, Wilkey's brief opposes the appeal on these grounds:

The May 19 order of dismissal is not a final decision in a criminal case; To reinstate prosecution in the Southern District would be futile since the indictment in the Western District can be prosecuted anyway; The appeal is frivolous because it is obviously without merit and taken for the purpose of delay.

Parr was indicted last November by a federal grand jury on charges of evading payment of $85,000 in income taxes from 1949 through 1951.

Probe Panel To Question Movie Bosses

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The movies' big bosses, most of them blunt-talking men, tangle with the Kefauver Juvenile Delinquency subcommittee today on charges that a score of recent movies stressed too much sex and violence.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) and his counsel James H. Bobo said the Senate probers will be "critical" of the following movies:

"Blackboard Jungle," "The French Line," "Women's Prison," "Crashout," "Black Tuesday," "Rebel Without a Cause," (unreleased), "Ten Wanted Men," "The Prodigal," "Big House, U.S.A.," "New Orleans Uncensored," "I Died a Thousand Times," "Chicago Syndicate" and "Son of Sinbad."

Bobo said the moviemen also will be questioned about the recent relaxing of the motion picture production code.

"We want to know why these pictures were approved," he said, adding: "We also want box office figures. We want to know if the movies make sex and violence pictures because they make more money than others."

Some of the pictures will be quizzed on their advertising campaigns, especially "The Prodigal," a biblical picture that was sold mostly on a revealing cheesecake photo of Lana Turner's famed torso.

Plans Fall Through

ASBURY PARK, N.J. (AP)—For days radio station WJLK urged listeners to tune in during Operation Alert for latest information. Yesterday, when the alert finally came, a short circuit had put the station temporarily off the air. It didn't get back on until the test was over.

Houston Land Official Fired

HOUSTON (AP)—Mayor Roy Hofheinz has fired the city land acquisition superintendent, Joe L. Angle Jr., in connection with a probe of the City Land Office.

Angle was suspended June 2 after newspapers published stories alleging irregularities in the land office. Angle was the fifth city employe to be fired since the scandal broke.

Hofheinz said he had received information alleging Angle, while acting as a city official, had accepted "commissions" on real estate transactions.

The mayor said James Lawler, Angle's attorney, told investigators Angle would not "submit to a general investigation. . ."

The Harris County grand jury heard seven more witnesses yesterday in its probe of the case. The jury then recessed until tomorrow. Councilman George Kesseler, head of the City Council Committee of Inquiry, said his group would start hearings in the scandals next week.

Meanwhile, a firm hired two weeks ago by the City Council to conduct an independent audit of the city's fiscal affairs offered to withdraw.

Edwin L. Bruhl of Masquelette, Bruhl & Co. said because of the circumstances it might be best if the auditors were appointed by an independent group, such as the grand jury or local district judges.

The offer was taken under advisement.

The council gave unanimous approval to Hofheinz' appointment of Francis Deering to succeed Roy Floyd as city treasurer. Floyd was the first city employe to be fired when the scandal broke. A city-owned frame duplex allegedly was found on a lot owned by Floyd.

Deering has been director of the city's public property since Hofheinz took office in 1953.

Haircut Prices Jump

DETROIT (AP)—Two more Michigan areas have joined the rising spiral of haircut prices. Macomb County, adjoining Detroit, has adopted the Detroit city scale of $1.75 for weekdays and $2 for Saturdays. In Flint the price jumped from $1.25 to 1.50.
