DOVES SUPPORT

Hanoi Negative On Nixon Peace Plan

By HELEN THOMAS
KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon, buoyed by the overwhelming support at home and abroad for his five-point peace plan, invited Hanoi to make a counter-proposal and begin serious negotiations to end the fighting in Indochina.

The President said Communist leaders can no longer afford to wait for antiwar sentiment in the United States to give them a victory. Some notable Senate "doves" have lined up behind Nixon's peace initiative.

"We have made some new proposals and now we think that they have the opportunity to make some new proposals," said Nixon. "If they do, we can make some progress. That is the way we are going to play it."

In an exuberant mood, Nixon conducted running press conferences Thursday during a trip to Savannah, Ga., where he dedicated the Ocean Science center of the Atlantic Commission.

Plan Long Weekend

Nixon, his wife, Pat, and daughter and son-in-law, Julie and David Eisenhower, arrived at their seaside villa for a long relaxed weekend to rest after their European travels.

The President was expected to fly to Grand Cay in the Bahamas perhaps today, for a respite in the sun at the posh private island owned by his New York industrialist friend, Robert H. Abplanalp.

Nixon was not taking Hanoi's initial negative reaction as the last word. He told newsmen the immediate rejection was anticipated but he awaited an official reply from Communist leaders next week, apparently at the forthcoming meeting of the Paris peace negotiators.

"If the situation continues as we think it will, of broad support for the peace initiative, and broad support within the United States," Nixon said, "I believe that Hanoi will recognize that this is a very serious proposal."

Nixon Appears Convinced

Nixon appeared convinced that he has crushed Hanoi's campaign to capitalize on disunity and the peace movement with his latest offer.

He said the support of leaders of both parties has given him a "united front" for his initiative.

Nixon responding to a question, said he did not think he would get a political spin-off in terms of "personal popularity" as a result of the new peace move.

But politics was not far out of Nixon's mind. Although he labeled his trip to Georgia "non-political," former television broadcaster Hal Suit, the Republican nominee for governor, never left his side, and they worked the cheering crowds together.

FORAGE CROPS DAMAGED

Early Freeze Affects Area Sorghum Crop

The freeze was a month too early, for a good one third of the Gray County grain sorghum crop, according to Gray County Agent Foster Whaley.

The freeze was three weeks earlier than the normal first frost, which is Nov. 1st.

"We estimate the freeze was actually about one-third beneficial to the milo in that the maturity will be hastened and harvesting can begin within a week to 10-day period."

"A light frost is often helpful at this time of year in starting milo in into a maturity period for harvesting. Due to adversely dry weather last spring planting of the milo crop was delayed on both dryland and irrigated land some 30 days," Whaley said.

"This has complicated the problem. Much of the intended dryland milo was never planted last spring. Because the soil was too dry to sprout the seed."

"As a result, our milo acreage is the lowest in years ... probably less than 20,000 acres. This is compared to 25,000 harvested acres in 1969."

"A lot of red-top cane and other forage crops suffered more damage than the milo because most of the crop was planted extremely late, Whaley advised.

"All in all, I'd say this has been one of the worse years weather-wise for Gray County farmers ... early freeze and a dry spring." In spite of Mother Nature, irrigation farmers will have 7,000-8,000 pound milo, due to their skill in overcoming adverse weather with good irrigation practices.

News In Brief

Nixon To Rescue

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Nixon administration will have to go to the Senate floor to rescue what it calls its most important domestic reform—a welfare bill that would guarantee a monthly government check to every needy American family.

But Sen. John J. Williams, the Delaware Republican who engineered Thursday's stinging 14 to 1 defeat of the bill in the Senate Finance Committee, vowed to "educate the Senate" about what he called the measure's evils.

Williams said the bill would reward the idle for their idleness and penalize the workers for their labor. He told a reporter he was amazed at the administration's inflexibility in acknowledging the flaws in its bill.

Secretary Elliot L. Richardson of Health, Education and Welfare said the administration would "fight on the floor of the Senate" for its program. In order to get such a floor vote, the measure would have to be presented to the Senate as an amendment to other pending legislation.

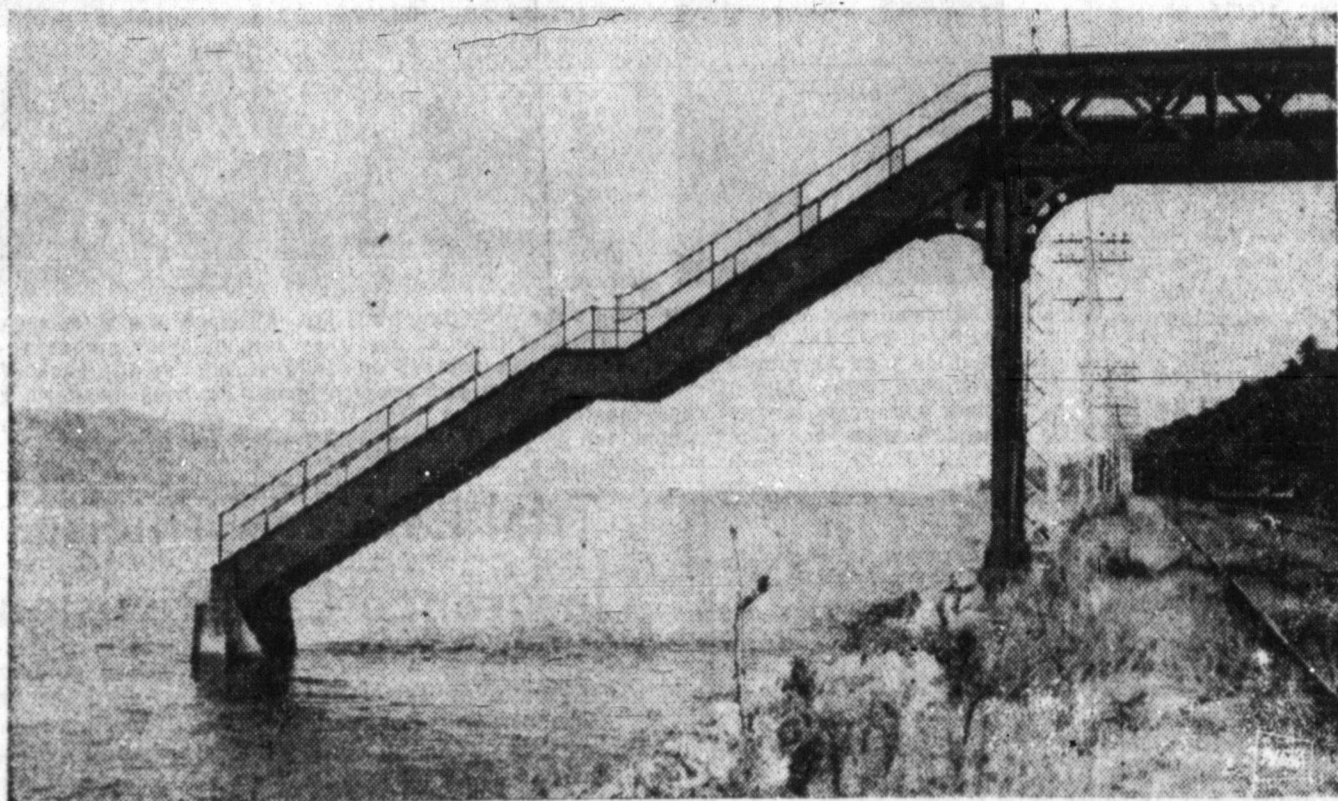

"I am convinced that a substantial majority of the Senate shares the administration's belief that now is the time to substitute a fair, work-related reform program for the present confused and inequitable welfare mess," Richardson said.

CROSS HOSTAGE 5 DAYS

Kidnaped British Diplomat's Life On Line For Last Time

MONTREAL (UPI) — The deadline on the life of British diplomat James R. Cross, extended "for the last time" by his separatist kidnappers, expired today with the government granting one minor ransom demand.

The full text of the separatists' political manifesto was broadcast on government-owned radio and television.

But it was not known if this would save Cross, held hostage for five days by the Front de Liberation du Quebec (FLQ), an underground terror group seeking independence for French-speaking Quebec Province.

The front, in a communique Thursday, extended the time limit on their ransom demands by 12 hours, until midnight (EDT), and demanded two immediate conditions for further delay — broadcast of the manifesto and a halt to the police search for them, with its arrests of FLQ sympathizers.

"The FLQ is warning the authorities for the last time that if 12 hours from now the authorities have not done these things ... the FLQ will be obliged to kill diplomat J. Cross," said the Thursday communique.

The manifesto was broadcast, but local police reporters said the hunt for the kidnapers went on. Police refused to talk.

An anonymous caller, saying he represented the FLQ, told Radio Station CKLM—through which the kidnapers have been communicating—after midnight that the deadline had been extended another 24 hours. It appeared the call was not authentic.

The 1,400-word FLQ manifesto—calling on French Canadians to revolt against the wealthy, their political leaders and American-owned businesses—was aired on radio and television broadcasts of Radio Canada, the French language service of the government-owned Canadian Broadcasting

Texas Draft Call Set At 450

AUSTIN (UPI) — The November draft call for Texas has been set at 450 men, acting state Selective Service director Col. Charles M. Duncan said today.

Duncan said local draft boards will fill the call with men with random sequence numbers below 145 insofar as possible. But he said this does not mean registrants with numbers higher than 145 will not be needed for future calls.

'Facade' Claimed In Crash Coverup

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Golden Eagle Aviation, the company that furnished the crew of the ill-fated Wichita State University charter plane, says it was not guilty of any wrongdoing and accused the federal government of keeping "a lot of things secret."

Golden Eagle Vice President Bruce Danielson said a news conference would be called today to clear up the details of the flight and to prove Golden Eagle is not at fault.

Federal Aviation Administrator John H. Shaffer announced Thursday the FAA had lifted Golden Eagle's license and the license of the company that owned the plane. The FAA claimed their business arrangement was a "facade to duck air safety regulations."

The plane slammed into a mountainside near Loveland Pass, Colo., Friday killing 30 persons, many of them members of the Wichita State University football team.

"If there really had been anything wrong with our operation, they (the FAA) would not have waited a week to shut us down," Danielson said Thursday. "Sure, they pulled our ticket, but they didn't accuse us of doing anything wrong; they don't want a law suit. They're going to investigate the possibility of some wrong doing."

Gov't Will Checks Deposit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government will try switching from paychecks to direct credits to individual's bank accounts in paying about 2.7 million civilian employees, Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy announced today.

Elimination of the checks could save the government $72,000 a year, he said, and if the experiment is successful on a voluntary basis, the system might be adopted for other federal reimbursement operations.

The practice also would solve the problem of lost and stolen checks, Kennedy said in a statement.

Direct deposits were instituted by the government five years ago, but on a very limited basis. Now an effort will be made to expand the system to cover the entire civilian payroll, which Kennedy said accounts for 20 per cent of the government's check-writing.

Gov. Rockefeller Asks Nixon To Intervene

FORT SMITH, Ark. (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew zeroed in on Sen. Charles E. Goodell (R-N.Y.), and Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), Thursday. But he indicated he soon would drop Goodell as a target.

In his prepared text for a Republican luncheon today in Tulsa, Okla., Agnew called the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) "a nest of radical liberals." The vice president quoted Joseph Duffy, ADA national chairman and Democratic senatorial candidate from Connecticut, as calling himself "a revisionist Marxist."

Agnew also attacked Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris, former Democratic national chairman. Harris "may be a Sooner born, and a Sooner bred, but two years from now is a year he will dread," Agnew quipped. Harris' term in the Senate ends in two years.

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York has urged President Nixon to tell Agnew to keep out of New York state politics. Sources close to the President say he has made no move to silence Agnew on Goodell, but the vice president did add: "This may be the last day I talk about Sen. Goodell. I have a lot of other radical-liberals to take care of."

One of them was Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. In a campaign appearance here on behalf of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, Agnew said when he hears his statements on Cuba, South Vietnam and of his "frustrating the foreign policy efforts of every president he has served under ... then I become convinced that this particular senator has gone off and left the people of Arkansas. I become convinced that he has become too enamored of Eastern press advertising. I become convinced that he has gone to too many Georgetown parties."

Agnew said Fulbright has never been to Vietnam. "But this can hardly be surprising to the people of Arkansas, because the senator rarely gets here either. He must really enjoy his radical (radical liberals) friends in Manhattan and Georgetown," the vice president said.

Agnew also took on Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, Birch McGovern, D-S.D., for raising money for California congressional candidate Ronald Dellums, of Berkeley, Calif., "happily shares platforms with Black Panthers."

At the Fort Smith appearance, Agnew told the crowd: "This is the year in which it is the solemn duty of Democrats and Republicans alike to repudiate radical liberalism in whichever party they find it. I have done my duty as a Republican. Now, I call upon Democrats by the million to go forth and do likewise."

Today Agnew was flying to Tulsa, Okla., for a fund-raising luncheon on behalf of Republican Gov. Dewey Bartlett.

TROOPS BARRICADED

Threat Posed To New Bolivian Government

By REYNALDO GARCIA
LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) — Rightwing rebel troops barricaded in La Paz fortress posed a threat to new leftist Bolivian leader Gen. Juan Jose Torres today and vowed not to lay down their arms until constitutional law and order was restored to the strife-torn nation.

The country still was without a cabinet as Torres awaited action by a coalition of Marxist students and the leftist-controlled Bolivian Workers Confederation (COB). The coalition was allowed to choose eight of the 16 cabinet ministers in recognition by Torres of its support in his rise to power.

Torres seized power Wednesday in an overthrow of a rightist regime headed by former army commander Gen. Rogelio Miranda, who staged a coup last Sunday against the government of President Alfredo Ovando. The coup by Torres was the nation's 185th in 140 years.

Torres agreed Thursday to permit the COB to make the cabinet choices but reserved the right to appoint such key ministers as foreign affairs and defense. A COB "revolutionary committee" submitted a list of three candidates for each of the eight ministerial posts assigned to it.

Arsonists Damage TNG Trucks

AUSTIN (UPI) — Arsonists caused extensive damage to two military trucks and less serious damage to two other vehicles at the state headquarters of the Texas National Guard early today.

Texas Adj. Gen. Ross Ayers said the incident at Camp Mabry was "a definite arson attempt."

Rag fuses were stuffed in the gas tanks of four large trucks. Only two went off.

FBI investigators were called in and began looking for a civilian who disappeared shortly after notifying guards of the blaze.

Officials said the fires started shortly before midnight. Firemen termed damage to the cabs of the 2½-ton trucks "extensive." Two nearby vehicles were also damaged by the flames.

The general purpose trucks were used for summer camp and weekend training duty.

Army maintenance workers were summoned from Fort Sam Houston in San Antonio to look at the vehicles and estimate the damage.

Guard officials said a man walked up to a guard on duty at the base a few minutes after midnight and said there was a fire in the area where the trucks were parked. The man later disappeared.

Ayers and his family live on the 270-acre former Army post which now serves as headquarters for the statewide guard organization and training facility for several guard units.

Israelis Pause For Yom Kippur

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Israeli public life slowed to a near standstill today for the most solemn of Jewish holidays, Yom Kippur. But authorities tightened security precautions in the occupied territories and along the cease-fire line with neighboring Arab states.

Yom Kippur starts at sunset today and lasts until sunset Saturday. It marked the day Jews atone for their sins and start the new year of 5731 with a clean slate. Essentially a day of fast, Orthodox Jews spend it at prayer in synagogues while the nonreligious stay indoors for fear of hurting the feelings of the devout.

Traffic halted, with theaters, cafes, restaurants and even hotel dining rooms closed. Tourists could take box lunches to their rooms during the day, but meals were not served. Only worshippers and a handful of police, emergency services army vehicles were on the streets and all outgoing flights were banned from the international airport at Lydda.

Security was tightened. The bank and the Gaza Strip military governors of the west bank and the Gaza strip ordered all traffic between the occupied territories and Israel stopped from midafternoon until 7 p.m. Saturday. The restrictions sealing off Israel from the occupied areas were aimed at protecting Jews during the fast and from preventing Arab vehicles from straying onto Israeli roads, the authorities said.

Strike Talks Linger On

DETROIT (UPI) — United Auto Workers and General Motors Corp. bargainers sit down today to discuss what they disagreed about the night of Sept. 14, when UAW President Leonard Woodcock walked out and called a strike.

Woodcock and GM chief negotiator Earl Bramblett will discuss national economic issues today for the first time since the strike began 25 days ago. Negotiations since then have concentrated on local issues but Woodcock decided Wednesday "enough progress" had been made to return to national issues.

In preparation for today's sessions, Woodcock recalled members of the UAW's national bargaining team and GM took out a full-page advertisement today's Detroit Free Press saying, "There is no justification for continuing a strike which benefits no one."

Woodcock has called a special financial convention Oct. 24 to consider a special assessment against nonstriking UAW members to ease the $19 million weekly drain of strike benefits on the union's $120 million strike fund.

Lovable Little Children Not So Lovable

DA NANG, Vietnam (UPI)—The lovable little children of this northern city are not always lovable, according to U.S. headquarters.

The children have taken lately to waking hand-in-hand down the middle of the city streets. Smiling American drivers stop for them.

Seconds later they aren't smiling. The children have jumped on the jeep and ransacked it, virtually overwhelming the startled driver and running off with anything they can lift.

U.S. headquarters in Da Nang has advised Americans to travel in pairs when driving.

Traffic Mishap Nets Injuries

Two persons were slightly injured in traffic accidents here yesterday afternoon.

A small car driven by Michael A. Smith, 16, of 1206 Christine, was in collision with a parked truck near the intersection of N. Frost and Finch Streets.

The truck was owned by F.L. Witt, 705 N. Frost. Smith was cited for failure to control speed.

A three-way rear-end collision at Cuyler and Brown Streets yesterday afternoon resulted in damage to three cars.

Jasper S. McBride, 925 Barnard, was driving a car which police say bumped into the rear of one driven by Howard F. Crowe of Oklahoma City. Crowe's car was knocked into the rear of a third car, driven by Jorge Albear, 744 Malone. All three had stopped to wait for traffic to move.

McBride was cited for improper start from a parked position.

Young Smith suffered slight injuries in the first accident and Crowe was injured in the second mishap. Neither was hospitalized.

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI)—Officials of the Standard Oil Company of Ohio (Sohio) report damages of $1.25 million in a fire in the company's No. 1 refinery in nearby Oregon, Ohio.

The blaze was sparked by three explosions in the furnace of the major isocracking unit before being brought under control late Wednesday night.

The furnace, built in 1962, was a total loss. No cause has been determined.

SDS 'Fall Offensive' Destroys Structures

By United Press International
Bombs which rocked a courthouse, a National Guard Armory and an ROTC building on the West Coast Thursday only mark the beginning of a wave of revolutionary terrorist bombings, California officials believe.

"I think there's going to be more of this," said Gov. Ronald Reagan following the explosions in San Rafael, Calif., Santa Barbara, Calif., and Seattle, Wash.

Another time bomb was discovered at the University of California in Berkeley. It had failed to detonate.

Charles O'Brien, the state's chief deputy attorney general, agreed with Reagan. "These terrorists are highly imitative," O'Brien said, "and we can expect more of it."

The pre-dawn blasts caused extensive property damage, but no injuries. In all but one case, anonymous warnings were telephoned to authorities before the bombs were scheduled to explode.

The bombings came three days after the release of a statement purportedly from the militant Weatherman group announcing a "fall offensive" from Santa Barbara to Boston and back to Kent and Kansas.

O'Brien said he believed the Weathermen were responsible. "If they ain't," he said, "I'll be very, very surprised."

The "fall offensive" warning was made at a New York News conference Monday by a tape-recorded voice said to be that of underground Weatherman leader Bernardine Dorn.

The Thursday bombings began at 1:27 a.m. in San Rafael when a powerful device exploded in a ladies restroom adjoining a courtroom in the Marin County Hall of Justice. It blew out two walls of the courtroom, damaged another courtroom next door and propelled flying fragments into a wall 50 yards away.

At 2:44 a.m., two bombs detonated simultaneously in the basement locker room at Clark Hall, which houses Navy and Air Force ROTC at the University of Washington in Seattle. The blast showered broken glass 50 feet from the building, ignited a fire and caused an estimated $150,000 damage.

At 4:17 a.m., a bomb set against the front wall of the National Guard Armory in Santa Barbara ripped a large hole in the concrete wall, blew out a door and shattered windows. No advance warning was given. At 3:03 a.m., University of California, campus police received a call from a woman who said a bomb would go off "within five minutes" at the center for the study of law and society.

Berkeley city police kept traffic out of the area while a search was made and campus policeman Fred Houel spotted the cigar-box-shaped device inside a heating duct. Police and Army demolition experts deactivated it at 4:55 a.m., more than an hour and a half after the caller said it would go off.

Blast Rocks Courtrooms

By United Press International
A trio of bombs up and down the West Coast early today rocked a courtroom, a National Guard armory, and the basement of a university building which houses Navy and ROTC offices. There were no injuries.

The first blast wrecked the San Rafael, Calif. courtroom of Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson who has been holding some hearings within San Quentin State Prison.

Inspector Bowen Bridges of the Marin County Sheriff's Department called it "quite a blast."

It occurred at 1:27 a.m. in the Marin County Civic Center, the same location where another Marin County jurist and three other persons were killed two months ago in an unsuccessful attempt by three convicts and an accomplice to escape from a courtroom.

At 2:44 a.m., a single bomb exploded in the basement of Clark Hall at the University of Washington in Seattle. The blast sent a shower of glass 40-50 feet from the building.

A janitor who was in the building managed to get out before the explosion, after security officers were told 22 minutes before that a bomb was set to go off.

The third blast hit a National Guard armory at Santa Barbara, Calif., blowing out a door and several windows in the west wing of the building and ripping out chunks of concrete.

The 4:15 a.m. explosion rocked the entire downtown area.

Authorities were tipped five minutes in advance of the San Rafael explosion. Inspector Bridges said an anonymous

Bush-Bentsen Outline Reasons Why They Are Best Candidates

Rep. George Bush, R-Tex., the Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, said Tuesday voters should shun his opponent, Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr., because Bentsen "supports" those in Congress who are "big spenders" and "budget busters."

Bentsen said, however, the voters shouldn't vote for Bush because Bush favors a "guaranteed income" welfare plan.

"I am for guaranteed opportunity, not guaranteed income," the Houston Democrat said at a campaign dinner in Paris.

Bush has said during the campaign the President's family assistance welfare plan is not a guaranteed annual income. But Bentsen said, "You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear by giving it a fancy name like 'family assistance'."

Speaking at College Station, Bush blamed Democrats in Congress for a 1971 deficit he said may run as high as $10 billion, costing taxpayers $800 million in added interest rates, high prices—the blame for all of these can be laid squarely at the feet of the big spenders in Congress," Bush told supporters at a luncheon.

"Due to budget busting and failure to act on revenue measures by a hostile Congress the fiscal 1970 federal deficit totalled $2.9 billion. The people of Texas—and the nation—are weary of the big spenders and those who voice support for them.

"This is the leadership, supported by Lloyd Bentsen, that has recklessly spent, and will continue to recklessly spend the taxpayers' hard-earned money."

Bush told his audience most members of Nixon's own party are refusing to support his welfare bill in the Senate.

"No one is satisfied with our present welfare system, which only perpetuates poverty," Bentsen said. "But if all I have to choose between is the present broken-down system and the so-called welfare reform bill my opponent supports, then I prefer to stay with a broken-down system until we can come up with a better reform plan that won't create yet another monstrosity."

ABERDEEN, Scotland—Mrs. Christine Mair, a voluntary social service worker, reacting to the embarrassing situation resulting from her meeting Queen Elizabeth who was wearing an outfit almost identical to hers:

"She wore the clothes much better than I did." She really looked like a queen."

Demo Candidate Jaycee Speaker

Max Sherman, Democratic candidate for State Senator, spoke to the Pampa Jaycees at its noon meeting Wednesday. Sherman accompanied by his wife, Gene Alice, has been in Pampa several times during the campaign.

Sherman told Jaycees the theme of his campaign is, "He will listen to you, and he will be listened to in Austin." Sherman said he has traveled over 20,000 miles in the Panhandle visiting the voters, listening to them and finding out how they want to be represented in Austin.

"To be effective," Sherman said, "A senator must be listened to in Austin." Lieutenant Governor Ben Barnes, president of the Texas Senate, will be in Pampa in mid-October to campaign with Sherman.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are "alone" again, after raising, educating and marrying off two children. Our house is paid for, we have no debts, and with our combined incomes we have no money worries. Now that we can take life easy we should enjoy the happiest days of our lives. But we're not. Life seems boring and empty. We have taken a few trips, but you have to come home sometime. Is there something the matter with us? Or does this happen to other people our age?

It beats everything I've read thus far. Therefore, please accept the limerick below as my reply to Ernie's Girl:

Rather than suffering the indignity Of steel encased virginity Serve this maniac of chastity

A case of psychotherapy.

SINCERELY, G.W.D.

DEAR G.W.D.: I was no hoax, I assure you. Name, address and documentation was provided by the correspondent.

DEAR M AND J: It happens to lots of people. You need to come out of your insulated world and face a few more challenges. Become involved in projects, and causes, and people to whom you can devote your energy, time and money. (You won't have to look far.) Happiness doesn't come from "taking life easy." It comes from making your time count for something. The most miserable people in the world are those who don't have anything to get up in the morning for. Don't join that club.

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I would ever write to you, but if "Chastity Belt" isn't a hoax,

DEAR ABBY: You gals sure do stick together! About the couple who were dining in a fine restaurant: It seems the strolling musicians offered to play their favorite tune. The gentleman didn't tip the musicians, so the lady wrote to say she thought the gentleman was a cheapskate. And you agreed with her.

I can name several reasons why a gentleman wouldn't want to have a band of strolling musicians stand by his table and play his favorite song. For one thing, maybe he doesn't want to suffer the grins and

Masculine Ideas Help Homemakers

More and more fathers are now helping with various little projects around the house, as we have learned from their response and contributions to Polly's Pointers. They, too, are interested in making homework and housework easier.

Here's a selection from the men, from Polly's Homemaking Pointers.

"To prevent soap from dropping to the bottom of the tub when taking a shower, bore a hole through a bar of soap, put a string through the hole and hang the soap around your neck. Or, tie the string around one of the water faucet knobs in a shower stall."

"Fellows, here is a quickie when you are in a hurry and cannot find a stay for your shirt collar. Use an opened-out paperclip. This will suffice as a temporary stay."

"The next time you pack a suitcase for your husband place his neckties over the center page of a magazine."

Close the magazine and pack it flat at the bottom of the case to prevent creased ties. I am sure he will appreciate the use of a current issue of one of his favorite magazines."

"Paint household shut-off valves and one section of each pipeline a different color — red for hot water, green for cold water, yellow for the waste line and so on. Keep a chart at hand keying the colors to the correct pipelines. You will always be able to locate the one you want in an emergency."

"Keep a plastic drinking straw around to use for extension to your oil can spout. When a spot is hard to reach, place the straw over the spout to extend it."

"To prevent scratching the fenders of your car when backing out of the garage, tack a section of an old tire tube on each side of the garage entrance."

"I use empty cereal boxes for litter bags in the car. When full, I just throw the whole thing into a trash can."

"I have a good useful tip for the hunting season. In fact, it is good for fishing trips, too. To waterproof matches, dip the heads of the matches in clear nail polish. The match will flare brighter when struck."

stares from a roomful of smirking morons.

Also, it's possible the gentleman didn't know what an appropriate tip for such a favor should be.

Or he could have been just plain resentful for having been hustled by the musicians.

Your attitude is enough to drive a man into gay lib.

NO PATSY

DEAR NO: I can understand the gentleman's wish to be inconspicuous, and I respect it. But not knowing what an appropriate tip should be is certainly no excuse for not tipping at all. When in doubt, a dollar will do.

Raincoats and overcoats for boys will be longer this year, some reaching just below the knee, others in the mid-calf length, says the Men's Fashion Association of America. The look will be military, complete with all the hardware, straps and epaulettes that give an authentic military look.

Patient Posts Own Hospital Regulations

By BETTY CANARY

I am writing this as I sit in a hospital bed. I am beginning to think I have a hopeless case on my hands. The prognosis is definitely disheartening. Oh, I'm not talking about my physical condition! I came in here only for some tests. What is deteriorating is my determination to remain a person who, although hospitalized, still has power over her daily habits. Truth is, my will isn't deteriorating — it's in the last throes.

I have been in hospitals before and I've always been cheerful upon arrival, scattering sunshine as I wended my way through the corridors. In the past I would go hopping about being helpful, strewing sweet admonitions wherever I went. ("Let me wind up that bed, nurse. Goodness sakes alive, you must be worn out by this time of day!") The psychology is, if I am co-operative, they will love me, and probably take extra care in getting all the sponges out before closing the incision.

So much for psychology. I concluded that if they have rules, I have rules. Sitting here in my new pink nightgown, I have reached another conclusion. The big difference in their rules and my rules is that their rules are obeyed.

Gallery Guides at the American Stock Exchange have been wearing minis. They think the mini is unflattering, so they wear pants this year. Their new custom-made uniforms consist of two pieces — tunic and pants. The autumn gold, talk-red woolen tunic has a modified A-line shape with three-quarter sleeves trimmed in off-white around the neck and down the center of the garment. The pants are fitted at the hips.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—With All Hallow's Eve approaching it is time to "think ghoulish." And, would you believe, many of the costumes this season come directly from TV shows?

There will be innumerable pint-sized versions of Tarzan, Doctor Doolittle, Mandrake the Magician and Mr. Spock of Star Trek trick or treating in previously placid neighborhoods. Just as important to the older parents or grandparents who wistfully remember their Halloween costumes, there will be plenty of ghosts and witches whooping it up around suburban cul de sacs, too.

For across the nation youngsters will celebrate this traditional spooky night out in one way or another. Through the years there has been a clamp-down on unsupervised roaming about a town or city. Safety of all concerned is behind this plus a move to out down on property destruction.

Out of this cautionary move has come some equally enjoyable at-home parties for neighborhood and school friends.

Costumes, of course, are quite important. These should be selected for fire resistance and appropriate, fierce-looking wigs of a flame-resistant synthetic are fine.

Other safety tips come from one of the larger costume firms with home base in Collegeville, Pa. The designers suggest selecting costumes featuring phosphorescent designs that glow in the dark so drivers can see when an overly exuberant child darts across the street. Wide vision eyeholes for masks help prevent falls or other accidents.

Many parents find a party at home keeps their worries down. Usually the small ones make a trick or treat swing of friends' homes and then return to the safety of a recreation room. Subdued lights, bobbing for apples and games are in order.

MONSTERISH HALLOWEEN COSTUMES and rambunctious parties at home keep youngsters happy and safe. Favored costumes and wigs of witches, vampires, pirates and hairy monster should be of fire- or flame-resistant materials. Follow traditional Halloween games and decorations.

For an opening game, try Ghost Trail suggested by Virginia Musselman, a former director of the National Recreation Assn. in her new book "Making Children's Parties Click".

This game is simple and inexpensive. Just provide a magic string for each guest. Tie a small prize to one end and hide the gift, crisscrossing the strings, wrapping them around, over and under furniture.

Each child grasps the end of his string and must weave and bob over and under the strings until he reaches his gift. It is highly recommended to remove breakables from the paths of the present seekers.

Mobeetie 4-H Selects Officers

MOBEETIE (Spl) — The Mobeetie 4-H Club met at the Mobeetie Public School with Paul Hathaway and Gordon Estes, adult leaders in charge. The group elected the following officers: Steve Corse, president; Gary May, vice president; Debbie May, secretary, and treasurer, Tanya Dunn, reporter.

Delegates elected were Steve Corse, Kent Sims, Tanya Dunn and Debbie May. They distributed new record books and reported on the amount of money they made from selling America the Beautiful cards, place mats and fire extinguishers.

Junior Service League Slates Gourmet Brunch

Junior Service League has 20 tickets available for its Helen Corbitt lecture and demonstration "Fashions In Foods," which will be presented during the Gourmet Brunch at 10:30 a.m. Monday in the First Christian Church.

Proceeds from the brunch-lecture will be used to finance the League's community service projects, the Pampa Speech and Hearing Clinic, Community Day Nursery, Summer camp for Gray County Association for Retarded Children, the Amarillo Speech and Hearing Clinic, and scholarships for college students.

and high school welfare projects, according to Mrs. Ben Sturgeon, league president.

For reservations to the dinner, contact Mrs. Sturgeon or Mrs. H.P. Donohue Jr., ticket chairman. Hostesses for the brunch will be provisional and active league members. About 25 members will prepare the gourmet menu which will include Quiche Lorraine, Crab Meat Thermidor, Sausage Biscuits, Cheese Puffs, Rum Broiled Fruit Plate, Party Tarts, Sugared Pecans, Rum Cake and Lemon Cake.

Miss Corbitt, a consultant for a Dallas specialty store, has been administrative dietitian at Cornell Medical Center, University of Texas instructor in Austin, food director of Houston Country Club, executive manager of a Houston hotel food department, and teaches a Men's Cooking School.

Her three cookbooks are the "Helen Corbitt Cookbook," "Helen Corbitt's Potluck" and "Helen Corbitt's 'Cook's For Lovers'."

The only woman to win the Golden Plate Award, the food service industry's highest honor, was named in 1967 as one of the 10 most influential Texas women.

Central Baptist Church

Central Baptist Church is rapidly becoming one of the fastest growing Southern Baptist churches in northwest Texas. Sunday School attendance is consistently higher than it was last year.

Last Sunday ten new members joined its newly re-organized Sunday School. And this Sunday, the Sunday School attendance is expected to climb sharply as the church enters its second week of its "Best For Christ Sunday School Attendance Campaign." The goal is to have over 650 in attendance before the campaign ends Nov. 8th.

This Sunday, Bryan Halliburton, pastor of Central Baptist will be in the pulpit for both services. Sunday morning he will speak using the subject "Life's Greatest Question" based on Matthew 27-22. His evening subject will be announced.

Sunday School begins at 9:45 a.m. with the morning worship at 11 a.m. Training Union begins at 6 p.m. and the evening worship at 7 p.m.

First Presbyterian Church

Rev. Martin Hager, First Presbyterian Church pastor, will use "The Haves Who Have Not" as the sermon topic at the 8:30 and 11 a.m. worship services, Sunday. His text will be taken from Luke 16:19-31. Ruling Elder Kirk Duncan will serve as pulpit assistant at both services of worship.

Organist this Sunday will be Donnie Jones. The Chancel Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Wm. K. Mackey, will have as their Anthem "Be Still My Soul."

The Senior High Fellowship will meet at 6 p.m. Sunday in the Youth Lounge. The Junior High Fellowship will go by bus to Amarillo for an afternoon of fun "Ice Skating." The bus will leave the Church at 1 p.m. and will be back at approximately 5:30 p.m. Sponsors are Mr. and Mrs. Dale Kessel.

On Wednesday evening there will be a Family Night Supper in Fellowship Hall, at 6:30 p.m. Immediately following at 7:15 p.m. there will be a congregational meeting in the auditorium for the purpose of election of officers for the term beginning January 1, 1971. Thursday morning at 9:30 a.m. in Youth Lounge will be the Bible Study group taught by Rev. Hager. A nursery is provided.

First Baptist Church

The First Baptist Church will have Rev. Gerald B. Seright as guest preacher in both services of worship Sunday. Rev. Seright, formerly pastor of the First Baptist Church, Lefors, came to Lefors from South America where he served as a foreign missionary. In Brazil, The pastor, Dan B. Cameron, will be in revival with the First Baptist Church, Canyon.

David Campbell, minister of music, will direct the Sanctuary Choir in the Choral Worship selection, "Come Peace of God" by Butler. He will sing a solo, "The Wonder of It All" by George Beverly Shea. Miss Eloise Lane, organist has chosen "On the Holy Mount" by Dvorak for the offertory number.

In the seven o'clock evening worship, the Junior High Choir will sing "Just As I Am" by Landgrave for the special music. The organ offertory selection is "Take My Life" by Havergal-Price.

The activities for the week include visitation at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday for the ladies and at 7 p.m. for the men. The fellowship supper begins at 5:30 Wednesday evening and is followed by prayer meeting at 6:15. David Campbell will be in charge of the prayer meeting.

First Christian Church

Rev. Anglemeyer will be in the pulpit this Sunday and will have as his sermon topic "A Sound Investment". The scripture will be from Matthew 16:24-28. This will be Rev. Anglemeyer's last Sunday in Pampa. He and Mrs. Anglemeyer will return to Fort Worth on Oct. 12. Rev. Ralph Palmer will be in Pampa to assume his duties as minister Nov. 1.

There will be a reception from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. on Sunday for Rev. and Mrs. Anglemeyer. There will be no Snack Supper.

First Church Of Nazarene

Rev. John Frazier, pastor, will be speaking Sunday morning at 10:45 on the subject, "Neglectful Living."

In the evening evangelistic service, Rev. Frazier will speak on the subject, "What is sin and Who sins?"

The church provides a nursery for parents who wish to come and bring their children.

There will be a regular meeting of the church board on Monday evening at 7:30.

The church extends an invitation to all people that do not have a church home, we will welcome you to our services.

Calvary Baptist Church

Calvary Baptist Church will conduct a week of revival services Sunday through Oct. 18 with the Rev. J.A. Peveo, of Dallas as evangelist for all services.

Services begin at 7:30 p.m. Sunday and are scheduled at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. daily. A nursery and transportation to Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth while he was serving as pastor in a Dallas Baptist Church. He is pastor of Valleyview Baptist Church in Dallas and had served as pastor for Lancaster Park Baptist Church and Tremont Baptist Church, both in Dallas.

First United Methodist Church

The First United Methodist Church of Pampa will observe Laymen's Day at all services Sunday. At the 8:45 and 11 a.m. services, Allan Wise will preside and Miss Louann Wise will be Youth Assistant. Bill Wagoner will be the Lay Speaker at these services.

The anthem for the morning will be "Lord, For Thy Tender Mercy's Sake" by Farrant, sung by the Sanctuary Choir under the direction of Morris Kille. Tracy Cary, organist, will play "Arioso" by Bach-Purvis for a Prelude; "Voluntary on Martyr" by Gordon Young for an Offertory, and "Toccata" by Kremsler for a Postlude.

Vespers will be at 6 p.m. with John Curry bringing the Layman's Message. Youth groups will meet at 7 p.m.

Jehova's Witnesses

All local meetings and activities of Jehovah's Witnesses in Pampa will be suspended this weekend in favor of "The Word of God Is Alive" semi-annual circuit assembly to be held at the Perryton Sr. High School.

Lyman Pinard, the presiding minister of Jehovah's Witnesses, said 50 of the 800 delegates would be from Pampa. "Just because the local meetings are suspended does not mean Jehovah's Witnesses are on vacation. Rather they will be attending 15 hours of Bible study, which will include the Ministry School, Service Meeting, Bible Lecture, and Watchtower Study which are customarily held locally," reported Lyman Pinard.

The highlight of the assembly will be Lester M. Dugan's discourse, "Who Will Conquer the World in the 1970s?" Dugan has been a minister of Jehovah's Witnesses since 1932 when he was ordained. Since 1947 he has served as a traveling minister, and as a district supervisor since 1959. He has had considerable experience in managing large assemblies of Jehovah's Witnesses serving as department head at the International Assembly in New York City where 252,000 attended. Dugan was the convention manager at Jehovah's Witnesses Convention with over 10,000 in attendance in Amarillo this summer.

All local activities will resume Tuesday, Oct. 13, at the Kingdom Hall, 1701 Coffee.

Church Of Christ, Scientist

the healing power of spiritual awakening will be brought out at Sunday Christian Science church services.

"When we wake to the truth of being, all disease, pain, weakness, weariness, sorrow, sin, death, will be unknown, and the mortal dream will forever cease," one of the citations from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, reads.

An incident in the healing ministry of Christ Jesus will be included in the Bible readings: "And great multitudes came unto him, having with them those that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and cast them down at Jesus' feet; and he healed them."

The Lesson-Sermon is entitled "Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?"

Catholic Church Sets Special Rites

World Of Religion By LOUIS CASSELS UPI Religion Writer

The Roman Catholic Church is launching a massive nationwide campaign to demonstrate, in concrete contemporary action, the great compassion that Jesus had for the poor.

It will culminate on Nov. 22—the Sunday of Thanksgiving week—with the collection of a special offering for the poor in more than 18,000 parish churches from coast to coast.

The "minimum goal" for the campaign is $50 million.

That figures out to about a dollar a person for every Catholic adult and child in America. On that basis, it doesn't sound like too much to ask. But it is far more than any other U.S. religious body has ever attempted to raise for the succor of the poor.

Cardinal John Dearden of Detroit, president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, said the hierarchy has asked every diocese to give the campaign "top priority."

Walking With God

TEXT... (Genesis 5:22-24)
In the Bible when the word "walk" is used, often it refers to the life, conduct, or behavior of a person. Therefore, when we read that Enoch walked with God, it does not necessarily mean that he took literal steps in the company of God, but rather that his life was lived in fellowship with God. That God was pleased with his walk and his conduct is made clear in Heb. 11:5. It should be the desire of every Christian to know that God is pleased with his life and daily walk. So let us consider what it means to walk with God.

TO WALK WITH GOD MEANS THAT ONE MUST RECOGNIZE GOD AS JUDGE. Enoch began to walk with God at the time of the birth of Methuselah, his son. (Gen. 5:22) The name "Methuselah" means "when he is dead, it shall be sent." It was not until the death of Methuselah that God destroyed the wicked world. Enoch believed the warnings as well as the promises of God. Prov. 9:10. The sinner must recognize God as the great Judge before he can, by faith, begin to walk with God. God is a God of wrath. (Heb. 12:29) just as he is a God of love (1 John 4:8). It is because of his great love that He is qualified to be the great Judge.

TO WALK WITH GOD MEANS THAT ONE MUST OWN HIM AS SAVIOUR. God's only way of bestowing mercy is through His Son. (Taught both in the Old and New Testament). The only escape from God's judgment is through His Grace.

TO WALK WITH GOD MEANS THAT ONE MUST WALK BY FAITH. To walk by sight limits our walk. (II Cor. 5:7). It was by faith that Enoch pleased God; faith centered in the promise of God's Son to the Messiah. (Heb. 11:6). We, too, can walk with God as we walk by faith.

TO WALK WITH GOD MEANS THAT ONE MUST BE AGAINST THE WORLD. The world is our enemy. (James 4:4). Enoch walked with God at the same time the world in sin was departing from God. Like Enoch, we must not be afraid to walk contrary to the world, (IITim. 3:12).

School Time Driving

There have been a lot of changes in education within the past several years, but there is one thing which hasn't changed: when little child meets big one, little child suffers.

This is to say that since school is now in session the motorist should have more than a passing interest in the safety of those who go to school.

Any safe driver will slow down when he sees children walking along the road. The man who goes beyond this though, and moves at a snail's pace by these little ones deserves the love and thanks of parents everywhere.

There are no laws which can govern every motorist. There are not enough police to muffle the roar of every speeding hotrod.

It has to be left up to that individual behind the wheel. He must have a conscience. He must know that he has to be careful.

He has to realize that driving is not enough — he must be diligent to the point of it being painful.

It is much better to be ridiculous when following slowly along behind a group of laughing, tom-fooling children than it is to remember for the rest of your life the feeling of wheels crossing over a child's body.

That kind of feeling never goes away. It might be lost temporarily in a bottle of gin, but when the numbness leaves, in come the shock waves again.

School has resumed. Let's make Gray County the safest place for a school child this side of the planet Mars.

Involuntary Students

Yale's President Kingman Brewster Jr. is the darling of the student rebels nowadays, having publicly sympathized with rebel causes, but as recently as January of this year he was capable of what could be described as rational application of common sense.

In January, Brewster made a mid-semester commencement address at Michigan State University. He said, in the main, that a principal reason for the turmoil and disruption on campus was that too many students are there involuntarily.

They were there, he said, as an alternative to military service, to satisfy parental ambition or because "the university seems to be an indispensable hiring hall for those who would escape the mental levels of drudgery."

The president of Yale said, "Higher learning cannot work if it is involuntary. And the judgments which universities and their faculties must make about degrees and about appointments cannot be made by a process which allows the judged to outvote their judges."

Involuntary students "corrupt, distract and foul the student body," Brewster said.

I was a member of Students for a Democratic Society who made him aware to the students — against their will, Brewster told his Michigan audience. The SDS student was quoted by Brewster as follows:

"Like don't give me that stuff about how I'm here to learn. I'm here because I have to be; so if I have to be here against my will, why shouldn't I have a way in running the place?" "A conscription system which permits the obligation of service to depend on whether a boy is on campus or off at the age of 19" is responsible for the largest number of involuntary students, Brewster said.

Also blamed were parents who force sons and daughters into "the excessive lock-step continuity of learning, from 5 to 25," which stifles the motivation of some of the most gifted students. Easier escape and easier re-entry would make the campus a voluntary community once again.

And he blamed the "employee who hires on the basis of degrees and pays accordingly." "The package, not the product, seems to be what counts," Brewster said.

Underlying all these reasons which force students to be students is the ease with which "higher education" is financed nowadays. Only a few decades ago, there were few involuntary students. It was in a time when few but the ambitious and the scholarly got to the campus in the first place, and they did not stay long unless they were capable and willing to make use of their capabilities.

Nowadays, it is every youth's "right to a higher education" at the expense not only of those who just pay to keep him there, but at the expense also of those capable and ambitious students who are denied the opportunity to learn because of the disruptions caused by those who are not similarly motivated.

Some Reform In Congress

Almost a quarter of a century has passed since the last major congressional reorganization in 1946. Thus special importance attaches to the present move toward partial reform of procedures.

On the whole it can be said that the reorganization bill passed by the House embodies a marked though not radical improvement. If the Senate approves — and this seems likely, since many of its provisions are similar to those in a measure the Senate passed in 1967 — the business of formulating and enacting legislation will be more open than in the past.

The reorganization bill has one major drawback: It does nothing about the seniority system whereby members attain committee chairmanships on the basis of mere length of service with little or no regard to ability. This must remain at the top of the agenda for further reform.

The measure does provide for several changes that would have the combined effect of letting the public in on much more of the legislative process than at present. The way members vote on House floor votes would be published whereas now only the outcome is made known. Committee roll call votes taken in closed sessions would be made public. Committee members would be given greater leverage to force committee meetings should the chairman refuse to act — a provision that nibbles a bit of the power of chairmen who wield power by virtue of seniority.

Some of the bill's provisions also would have the effect of making greater use of modern technology. Use of electronic equipment for roll calls and quorum calls, which should considerably speed up these processes, would be authorized. Also, whenever a majority of committee members approve, radio and television coverage of committee meetings would be allowed — unless a witness objected. House sessions would, however, still be barred to radio and TV coverage.

As intimated above, this is not a radical reform bill. Some outmoded practices will remain. Putting the proposed changes into effect would, however, bring about a substantial improvement in how Congress does its business.

THREAT OF WAGE AND PRICE CONTROLS

On July 31, the House of Representatives passed a bill giving the President power "to stabilize prices, rents, wages, interest rates, and salaries at levels not less than those prevailing on May 25, 1970." Only 25 members of the House opposed this authorization of wage and price controls.

Apparently some Congressmen did not believe that this power would ever be used and therefore chose to vote for the entire bill in spite of this clause. But during the House debate, others suggested that price and wage controls were the answer to inflation.

But as Congressman John Schmitz of California pointed out, "price and wage controls in a free country do not actually halt inflation, but merely compound the problem."

In the first place, these controls necessitate a huge bureaucracy to enforce them, thus adding immensely to the cost of government, which in turn accelerates inflation.

And even with this huge bureaucracy, full enforcement is impossible, and prices rise anyway, as the United States learned during World War II.

Congressman H.R. Gross of Iowa condemned the bill as a "monstrosity" which "holds out false hopes to the citizens of this nation," encouraging people to believe that inflation can be halted painlessly through this method, rather than through the only sure method: a reduction in government spending.

In the words of Congressman Schmitz: "price and wage controls will not work in a free country. But to a considerable extent they will work in a slave state like Communist Russia. If this is the only way we can think of to fight inflation, that could be its result."

Question Box

QUESTION:—Is it moral for one individual to be forced to labor to support another individual?

ANSWER:—Of course it is not moral. It is involuntary servitude, or slavery. Yet that is exactly what every individual in the country is forced to do. The taxes that are coercively collected from all are used, in part, to support the ever increasing numbers of individuals on welfare.

There are no doubt a great many individuals who are in distress through circumstances over which they have had very little control, and there are large numbers of individuals who may wish to give help to cure the distress. These people may be willing to be taxed to assist those in need. However, taxes are collected not just from those who are willing, but are forcibly collected from everyone, including individuals who may be in equal or worse distress and not able to help someone else. When taxes are added on to the costs of everything such people must buy, their condition is made worse.

Taxes that are collected to support those individuals in need are not only immoral, but fail to achieve their purpose, for in the process they add to the burdens and troubles of those who already are in need.

Nixon Trip Was A Clear Warning To The Russians

By LEON DENNEN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (NEA)—Reaching to Western concern at the unprecedented build-up of Russian naval strength in the Mediterranean, Moscow's press seeks to justify this permanent presence outside traditional waters by casting the United States in the role of villain in the Middle Eastern drama.

"American imperialism acts today as the most malicious, irreconcilable and aggressive enemy of national freedom and peace," said the authoritative Krasnaya Zvezda in comment on the civil war in Jordan.

According to the Soviet Defense Ministry newspaper, it is "the leading military circles of imperialism, led by America" who are "against detente and peace."

These are shabby cliches from the Kremlin's propaganda arsenal. But in view of the critical situation in the Eastern Mediterranean it would be folly to dismiss them with a bored yawn.

Kremlinologists have long noted that the Russians are most abusive in their attacks on other nations—capitalist or Communist—when they are themselves guilty of acts of aggression.

Shortly before President Nixon embarked on his European journey, Gen. Andrew J. Goodpastor, American commander of NATO, warned that Russia's land, air, rocket and naval forces in Europe "form a concentration of power that exceeds anything the world has previously seen."

These forces "far exceed anything that is required solely for defense," Goodpastor said. Another senior U.S. officer, Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, also warned months ago that Soviet naval operations in the Mediterranean "are becoming unmistakably more aggressive."

Even perennial "doves" in the Senate now realize that Russia's massive military aid to Egypt has been given with far more in mind than support of President Nasser or assistance in defeating Israel.

To be sure, Israel is an obstacle to Russia's expansion in the Middle East. But its defeat would be, as it were, a mere by-product of Moscow's grand design to control the Mediterranean.

Under the circumstances, Nixon's trip cannot be written off merely as a domestic ploy to gain political advantage in the November elections.

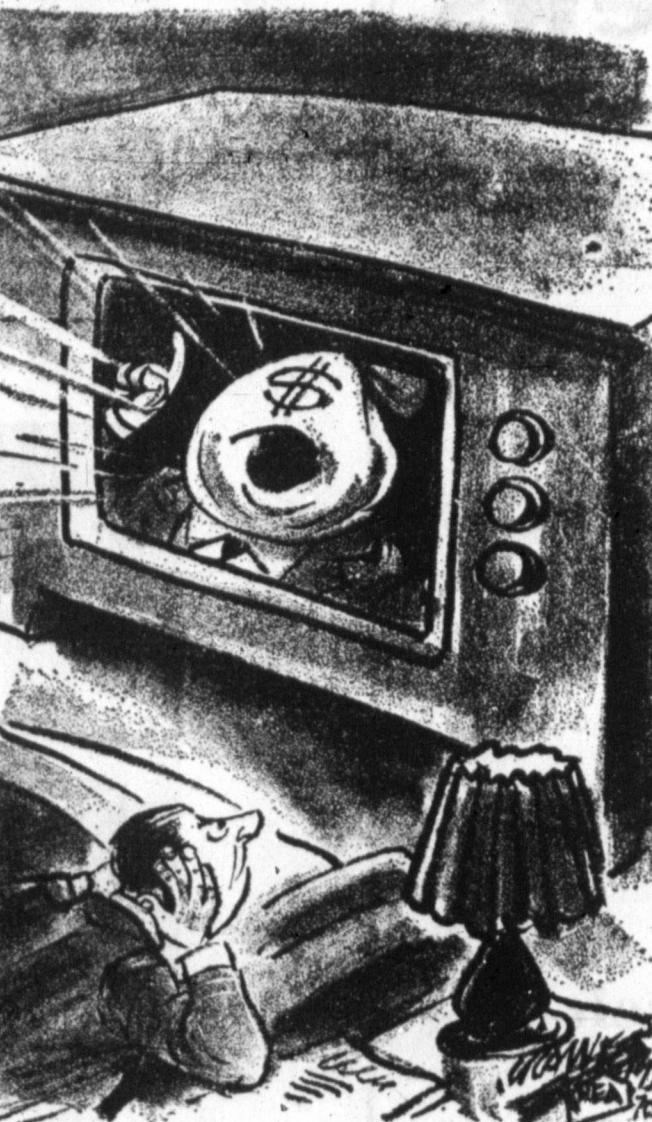

The crisis is real. The threat of an East-West confrontation is far more ominous in the Mediterranean than it ever was in Vietnam.

It was obviously to "show the flag" that the President scheduled a visit to NATO's southern headquarters at Naples. It was a warning to Moscow not to take his policy of "negotiation instead of confrontation" as a sign of weakness.

It also explains Nixon's decision to go to Yugoslavia—his second visit to a dissident Communist country.

Yugoslavia's President Tito had been watching the Russians like a hawk ever since they invaded Czechoslovakia in 1968.

Your Health

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb

If your health is so bad you can't exercise, the probability is that you can't safely participate in sexual activity either. The sex act is exercise and causes a marked increase in the work of the heart. If exercise is good for you, sexual activity is one way of getting it. In fact, if it catches on, it may replace jogging.

Like other factors that increase the work of the heart, sex can also be harmful if you have serious heart trouble. More than one man has died just after getting home from the hospital after a heart attack.

Some have suggested that the problem of sexual activity for the patient with advanced heart disease can be solved by passive sex. Well, if it's passive, it's not sex. Besides laboratory studies show that the increase in heart rate and blood pressure comes at climax anyway.

The emotions have a lot to do with how hard the heart works in response to sexual stimulation. Your heart rate may quicken merely from desire. Then there is the response to a sensual kiss. According to a West German physician, Dr. Herbert Loeligen, the brain sends out signals, causing the spine to stretch, the nerves influencing the pelvis are activated, the sex glands start functioning and small adrenal glands over the kidneys release epinephrine (adrenalin). The heartbeat may increase to 150 beats per minute (about twice normal levels) and the blood pressure increase from a usual level of 120 to 180.

At this point, according to the good doctor, all rational functions of the brain cease. The changes in heart rate and blood pressure represent a major increase in work for the heart. This way of working the heart may be pleasurable, but it is not necessarily healthy without subsequent physical activity. The excess adrenalin must be metabolized or its accumulated products cause harmful effects, just as occurs from other forms of emotional stress.

During sexual activity the heart rate at climax rises to levels between 110 and 180 beats per minute (as high as noted in the most vigorous forms of athletics). And the blood pressure may rise over 100.

Sexual activity, like other forms of athletics, requires a good level of fitness to do it well and safely. Practice may not make everyone perfect but it could improve their game.

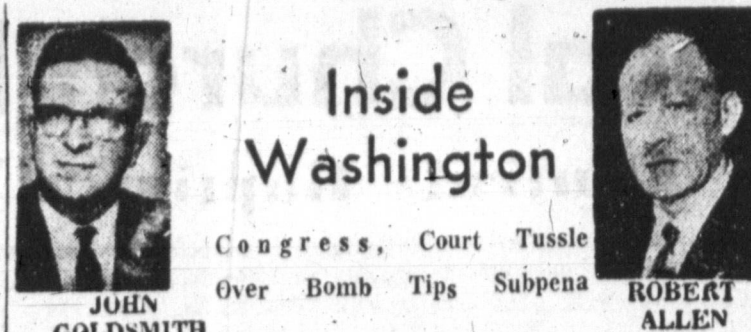

Dear Doctor—Is it all right if I take aspirin?

Dear Reader—A small amount of aspirin, particularly if it is combined with a substance to neutralize its acidity usually won't cause any harm. Aspirin does decrease the normal blood clotting mechanism and, if a person takes very much over a period of time, it is possible to cause bleeding in some cases. Bleeding from the digestive tract occurs in some people who use large amounts of aspirin, even if they do not have an ulcer.

Congress, Court Tussle Over Bomb Tips Subpena

WASHINGTON—The investigating powers of Congress are again under attack in a generally unpublicized case which is now under consideration in the federal courts here.

The case pits the congressional investigative power against a claim of press freedom. It also raises an old constitutional power struggle, between Congress and the courts, as separate branches of the federal government.

The controversy arises from a Senate investigation of bombings—its own explosive issue. Under all these circumstances, there is a good chance that the case will finally end up in the Supreme Court.

The issue was joined when the Senate Investigations subcommittee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., sought to subpoena Thomas W. Sanders, business manager and an editorial board member of the now defunct publication, Black Politics, in Berkeley, Cal. Subcommittee staff members had tried unsuccessfully to question Sanders.

Among other things, the subcommittee subpoena directed that Sanders provide the identity of a George Prosser who signed a series of articles for Black Politics. According to the subcommittee's records, Prosser articles outlined various violent activities while they cautioned that the violence should not be undertaken for the present.

In early August Sanders asked the Federal District Court here for a restraining order to block the subpoena. The Federal District refused, but it was over-turned by the Court of Appeals on the following day and ordered to hear Sanders' case.

SELF-WITTEN?—The subcommittee's hearing record includes testimony by staff investigator Philip Manuel which indicates that Sanders himself "uses the name of George Prosser to write articles for Black Politics." That, said Manuel, was the information from "confidential law enforcement sources."

At a hearing here, before Judge Howard F. Corcoran, Sanders' attorney said Sanders would suffer "irreparable injury" if he had to reveal Prosser's identity. The attorney said Sanders did not always approve of the Prosser articles but published them as "revealing" commentary.

Testimony at the court hearing referred to one of the Prosser articles which included instructions on how to make fire bombs. In the subcommittee hearing in August, Manuel quoted from an article which commented that the Navy's big weapons depot at Port Chicago,

Cal., was laden with inflammables which would produce "a great fire" if there should be an explosion there.

One article noted that napalm for use in Vietnam was made at a "vulnerable" plant in Torrance, Cal., and said the West Coast power "grid" was vulnerable too. Manuel also quoted Prosser's comment that a grenade, tossed into a jet's air intake, will destroy an aircraft.

However, the Prosser articles carried caveats stating, for example, that "we do not advise action now," and that violent steps were outlined "without advocating such a campaign."

COURT ACTION "UNPRECEDENTED"—Sanders

attorney, Gerald Stearns, told Judge Corcoran, in the court hearing, that a disclosure of Prosser's identity would destroy the "Confidential relationships" necessary to Sanders as an editor. Even to appear before the subcommittee, Stearns declared, would damage Sanders' credibility.

In the Senate, however, Chairman McClellan said the Court of Appeals action, in temporarily blocking the subpoena, was the first such rebuff in the subcommittee's 4-year history. He complained that the court sought to secure the subcommittee's confidential records "in connection with the case, and he called that action 'unprecedented.'"

At McClellan's suggestion, the Senate granted approval (necessary under the Constitution for subcommittee staff members to testify in the court proceeding). The Senate decreed, however, that McClellan's insistence, that court action to interfere with congressional investigative and subpoena powers "would be an illegal and unwarranted infringement by the judicial branch upon the powers, responsibilities and duties of the legislative branch."

Further, the Senate, by resolution, specified that staff members who testify in court will be limited to the contents of the subcommittee's public hearings and other matters of public record. It thus withheld data in the subcommittee's files.

Judge Corcoran must now decide whether Sanders can be excused from appearing before the investigations Subcommittee—never mind whether he would then be willing to testify. The judge has promised a ruling soon, but there may be more to be said in other courtrooms.

PAUL HARVEY NEWS

Youth Power That Counts

By PAUL HARVEY

Whether 18-year-olds can vote still will have to be court-tested. But young people are asserting themselves politically right now in a manner unprecedented in our country. Did you hear what young Democrats did in Utah?

Rational Young people with some valid grievances against the Establishment have learned that the way to influence national affairs is to infiltrate politics, first at the precinct level.

This is the way all political bosses boss, for better or worse, by asserting influence from the bottom up.

School-agers who rallied round the candidacies of senators Gene McCarthy and Bobby Kennedy in 1968 learned to lick stamps and ring doorbells and conduct rallies.

But the nitty-gritty of party policy is ground out behind the closed doors of county caucuses and state convention.

Last year a bunch of young Democrats in Utah decided to overthrow the Establishment the American way, within the framework of the democratic process.

They set about to introduce themselves and their objectives to their respective communities' politics. By spring, when county conventions were selecting delegates to the state convention, students were able to win for themselves more than 10 percent of the 1,500 delegate seats!

Thus 170 students were seated at the Salt Lake City convention of their party.

And those young delegates were able to translate their opinions into proposals which will be put before voters of that state in November.

They urged and won approval for half a dozen major platform changes.

They influenced the wording of the platform committee's report.

They sought and won domination of the resolutions committee and thus presented the convention with strongly worded resolutions relating to the war, the draft, abortion and sterilization.

They subsequently won convention approval for most of their resolutions, including those opposing the war.

The Nixon Administration has duly noted this newest manifestation of youth power. Where the President used to express reservations about the "18-year-old vote," he's now all for it.

No party can afford to turn its back on that potential vote of 14 million.

Whether the 18-year-olds get to vote in all states remains undecided, but in all states they are a political factor, if only as campaigners.

Young people are characteristically long on ideas and short on patience. Politicking from the bottom up takes patience and persistence and some degree of elasticity. But it can be exciting, too.

If Utah's young Democrats are typical, we're in for a colorful autumn.

Highlights And Sidelights From The State Capitol

By VERN STANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN, Tex. — State Health Department's new and unique Drug Abuse Program promises statewide health services that are not now available in dealing with the dope menace.

Program was outlined by a Health Department official at a recent hearing of the House Committee to Study Psychiatric Problems of Youth.

It will be carried out in three steps, offering laboratory services, clinics and an overview of health factors in the drug area.

Initial action calls for setting up facilities next year in Nueces, Bexar, El Paso, Bowie, Webb and Lubbock Counties (serving 1.7 million people).

Beginning in 1972, the program will be established statewide. Cost may be three to five million dollars for the second year period, $1.2 million for the initial pilot program.

Laboratory services will provide surveillance of drug-abuse patients and detect those needing treatment. Department proposes urine tests of patients to determine if illicit drugs still are being used.

Second stage calls for statewide clinics, especially for the median age 19 group, and informational workshops mostly conducted in schools.

Continual study will use computers to correlate facts from the view point of health personnel who deal with the problem daily.

Department believes the program will fill these three basic needs not presently available, and without which little chance exists for success in drug abuse control.

COURTS SPEAK — State Supreme Court, following the Fourth Court of Civil Appeals, rejected the plea of La Raza Unida party for mandamus directing that its 15 local candidates be placed on the November 3 ballot in Dimmitt, LaSalle and Zavala Counties.

Party already has won a place on the ballot in Hidalgo County and will go to federal court to continue its appeal in the other three.

Austin district judge refused to lift restrictions against the Alcoholic Beverage Commission's enforcing the stringent guest rule covering private bottle clubs pending clubs' appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Landowners who oppose building a new University of Texas branch at Odessa filed notice of appeal after District Judge Herman Jones of Austin threw out their suit on September 17.

Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin sued General Motors, Ford and Chrysler, claiming they conspired to fix prices and eliminate competition in bids on vehicle purchases for governmental units in Texas.

Martin turned an additional $13,744 to the state in anti-trust recovery from the Brass Mill Tube and Pipe case. Recovery now totals $111,345.

POLLUTION BOOK RELEASED — Attorney General Martin released copies of an 188-page booklet on the principal pollution laws of Texas, for the guidance of local governments.

Booklet contains regulations governing water, air, oil and solid waste pollution, together with "how to do it" suggestions for preparing a pollution suit and exchanging information with state agencies.

Martin said he hopes the publication will provide closer cooperation between local units of government, the attorney general's office, the Texas

Water Quality Board and the Texas Air Control Board.

DRAFT PRIORITY SET — Men whose draft lottery numbers were called by local draft boards in 1970, but who were not ordered for induction, will be the top priority group for calls in the first quarter of 1971.

State Selective Service issued the announcement, as did the White House and national draft headquarters.

First quarter draft calls will go to the carry-overs. If calls do not require all of them, they will be placed in a lower priority. Those whose numbers have not been reached all during the year will be placed in the lower-priority group on January 1.

National Selective Service chief said that exposure is limited in keeping with the "12 month draft vulnerability policy."

NEW JOBS AND AWARDS — Gov. Preston Smith appointed William R. Shaver of Lubbock as district judge of the 140th Judicial District, succeeding Judge Robert H. Bean who resigned.

Burt L. Risley, Texas executive director of the Commission for the Blind was sworn in as president of the National Council of State Agencies for the Blind.

Harry Bresler, chief of claims for the state comptroller, was named the handicapped state employee of the year.

Secretary of State Martin Dies Jr. will represent Governor Smith at the first international trade seminar in Mexico City, November 2-10.

PWC ROW RAGES — Chairman Pearce Johnson of the Parks and Wildlife Commission blasted the PWC staff for taking major steps without Commission approval.

Johnson said the department's $39 million budget recommendations went to the Legislature without Commission approval last year ... and the same thing happened again this year.

Chairman also said that plans for the proposed $3 million water exchange pass at Mustang Island near Corpus Christi were changed without consulting the Commission.

"As long as the staff usurps the powers of the Commission," said Johnson, at an open meeting in the capitol, "I won't be responsible (as chairman)."

SMITH HITS REPAIR COSTS — Governor Smith called for legislative study of "excessive" auto repair charges.

He said he supports the Democratic platform plank on insurance which includes regulation of holding companies requiring mandatory pooling for fire and windstorm protection in areas subject to catastrophe, and consideration of investment income in fixing the auto insurance rate base.

"The public cannot be long protected by regulated insurance rates, if there is no regulation direct or indirect of automobile rates," added the governor.

He also announced his support of group auto insurance coverage.

DINOSAURS "HOME" — A symbolic dinosaur family "returned home" amid ceremonies at Dinosaur Valley State Scenic Park in Somervell County.

Governor Smith joined representatives of the Atlantic Richfield Company, the National Park Service and the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department to formally accept for the park life-size replicas of 70-foot brontosaurus, 50-foot tyrannosaurus and two baby brontos with simulated eggs.

SHORT SNORTS

House Committee on Chairtable Trusts heard criticism aimed at the $400 million Moody Foundation.

Corpus Christi State School now has resumed partial operation following Hurricane Celia damages.

More than 1,000 are expected here on October 13 for the Governor's Conference on Industrial Expansion.

State Democratic Committee, concerned over Republican emergency meeting here to map a giant voter registration campaign.

There's no statistical certainty that the worst of the business slowdown is over, reports the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

What Would Paris Be Without World-Famous Eiffel Tower?

HIPPIES cool their feet in a Trocadero Square pool near the Eiffel Tower.

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS NEA — The bustling markets of the Halles Centrales are gone, the Moulin Rouge is a movie house and now they're even talking about tearing down the Eiffel Tower.

Paris, at 2,019 years old, is still changing.

Skyscrapers, all-glass office buildings and drab apartment houses dot the city's skyline, and a new, rosy glow emanates from freshly cleaned structures that had been caked with centuries of dirt and grime.

Most of the old buses with open platforms at the back are gone, much to the chagrin of the daring Parisians who loved to take a running jump onto the moving bus, ducking the safety chain pulled across after every stop. (The 51 old buses still running are being sold, at $800 apiece, to restaurants and private collectors.)

Another Parisian peculiarity, the "comfort stations" for men only, have all but disappeared from main thoroughfares and boulevards, as have the rocco kiosks, open bandstands where military bands serenaded the city's working class music-lovers.

A combination of a need for parking spaces and a distaste for the musically conservative programs usually offered at the kiosks has doomed them.

The quadrangle of setting midnight-to-dawn activity that used to be the Halles Centrales, a surefire tourist attraction, houses exhibitions, congresses and other mass meetings. There remain a few of the quaint restaurants where theater-goers and night people went for onion soup, but the ambience is no longer the same.

Even the 120-year-old Salle Druot is being replaced by a grandiose, modern auction room as the old, tired building crumbles, leaving behind memories of auctions of enough art treasures to fill the Louvre, of millionaires mingling with ragpickers, of the sublime rubbing shoulders with the sordid.

Paris by night becomes more and more a "Gay Paree," a tourist's dream and a Parisian's nightmare.

Suspicious characters, police and tourists still prow the heart of the night-life district, Pigalle, but now they have to maneuver around sightseeing buses that chug through the area from 11 p.m. on into the night.

Cheap strip-tease joints, erotic movie houses and sexy lingerie boutiques now compete with the dance-hall hostesses and stray ladies of the evening for the foreigner's dollar, and instead of small but often good little restaurants, there stalks peddling hamburgers, hot dogs and waffles.

Only a few cabarets still stage revues that are not centered on nude dancers and — or transvestites, and even those that do present shows appealing to other than prurient interests are at the mercy of the tourists.

One cabaret owner, after atching 40 or 50 sightseers march in to see his show and drink a split of champagne, shook his head and said, "Without them, I would be out of business."

The mecca of the striptease, the Crazy Horse Saloon, is too small and too expensive to draw tourists on the standard circuit but it is now a must for that part of the in crowd which can afford it.

On Paris' intellectual side, the Left Bank, the existentialist cabarets have long since put out their lights, their place if not their role going to a crowded collection of expensive night clubs, and a crowded collection of cheap discotheques.

With all these changes, it may be fitting that the city fathers are now seriously discussing replacement of the Eiffel Tower, symbol of the French capital.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—The

market's present dull performance should give way to a "sparkling" rally within the next few weeks, Spear and Staff says. The firm bases this prognosis on the probability that investors will respond to likely administration-directed boosting of the economy prior to the November elections.

The market is overbought but probably not in any danger of reversal at this point. E.F. Hutton & Co. believes. The condition eventually may be corrected by a sideways trend such as occurred early last month when the market was much more overbought than it is now, the firm says, adding that any surprises at this point will be on the upside.

Some slowing of the money stimulation seems likely once the elections are over so that inflation and speculation do not defeat the good that has been accomplished, Harris, Upham & Co. observes. The current period is a difficult one in which to size up the market's prospects, the firm says, but the artificiality of the pre-election period will disappear early in November.

EPNA Applies For Increase

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Power Commission said Tuesday El Paso Natural Gas Co., El Paso, Tex., had filed two applications for rate increases totaling $69,624,866.

El Paso's Southern Division proposed a rate hike of $51,975,477 annual to 61 distributor and municipal customers in Arizona, Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico, California, Texas and Utah.

The utility's Northwest Division seeks a rate hike of $17,649,389 to 20 utility and municipal customers in Colorado, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming.

Hollywood Reports

By VERNON SCOTT

UPI Hollywood Correspondent HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Vice President Agnew may or may not have tapped the lyrics of acid rock music as being drug-oriented or at least utilizing ordinary words in double entendre to virtually sing the praises of drugs.

But it is undeniable that many of today's rock performers regularly use marijuana and harder junk.

Talented young people, some of them great stars of the rock generation, have been busted on all sides by the fuzz for use of pot, LSD, speed, cocaine and heroin.

A species of acid rock musicians are the high priests of the drug sub-culture.

Deaths Fall to Shake Faith

Three deaths within the past year or two, directly or indirectly attributed to drugs, have failed to shake the faith of either pop groups or their hordes of followers, many of whom are teen-agers.

Janis Joplin, who died at 27 this week of what the coroner said was an overdose of drugs, said it like this:

"Maybe I won't last as long as the other singers, but I think you can destroy your now by worrying about tomorrow."

Jimi Hendrix, who had admitted taking various drugs, died in London last month. Cause of death was never made clear, but he, too, was 27.

Brian Jones was found dead in a swimming pool. He was a star with the famed-Rolling Stones. He was no stranger to drugs.

Even some members of the Beatles, the forerunners of today's hot groups, admit now that they experimented with drugs. Some were busted.

Rock concerts commonly are held under a blanket of smoke—the heavy, pungent residue of marijuana. Back stage pot is almost everywhere. But one can also find pills and acid and powders.

Youngsters Defend Drugs

In defense of drugs—the youngsters point out that they are no more harmful than the alcohol consumed by, say, Frank Sinatra and Dean Martin. But neither singer performs bombed out of his mind.

Neither do Tom Jones nor Engelbert Humperdinck.

Nor do they die before they reach 30.

Another cop-out is the explanation that rock stars are sensitive, creative individuals who must reach a drug high to give their best performances—one drug leading to another.

JEANE DIXON

Your Horoscope

FOR SATURDAY, OCT. 10, 1970

Your birthday Saturday: Mental and psychic development are promised for the year ahead. You may find you have finished some major mission in life, only to find another waiting. Your personal values change, so that things once of no concern are now important, and vice versa. Romantic interests likewise develop, are less frustrating. Saturday natives are generally good, workers with inventive, practical minds. Frequently there is a strong interest in metaphysics and religion.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A few questions that have bothered you for a long time can now be solved. You may not like all the answers. Hold onto your pocket cash; you find better uses for it later.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Trying too much too fast is tempting. Trying to do too little likewise doesn't work out well. Take the middle course, be sure of what you want to do.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You now seem to talk faster than you think to offer criticism not taken in the spirit you intend. Fact makes the difference with overly sensitive friends.
CANCER (June 21-July 22): Money is the rock of concern Saturday, particularly among friends. Concentrate on spiritual values; jending "light" the answer. Reflection at end of day brings a strange idea.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Now it is your turn to cooperate with the plans of influential people. Home life is better in the evening with new plans to make.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Distinguish between petty hindrance and a genuine question. With the right answers you can make great progress. Close associates are most critical, with least reason.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You prevail in theory, but not in material terms. Other people almost will cause expensive incidents. Purchase of equipment or clothing should wait.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Public affairs call and you have something definite to say. Family matters run into sudden twists. Your true feelings must be shown if you are to proceed in peace.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You are tempted to volunteer for more than you can comfortably do. Listen to the various dissenting opinions of friends before making a firm promise. Travel leads to places you hadn't planned.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Social activities pile up some costs. Budget so you can pay properly. Then rearrange your home schedule to participate a bit.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your wishes run counter to the general trend of what is feasible. Saturday. Expect delays and confusion in any social or romantic ventures.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Secret agreements are preferred now, but thinking in solitude may bring you to a special point of advantage. Older people pose some perplexity.

TV In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"Marcus Welby, M.D.," the ABC-TV medical fiction series that climbed to the top of the ratings last season, continues to be television's most popular show, despite the recent onslaught of new programs.

With Robert Young portraying the title role of Welby, the series is the across-the-board winner in the new season's three-network ratings competition for both the major markets and the national audience. The period covered was Sept. 21-27.

Flip Wilson's new NBC-TV variety series, meanwhile, was the only freshman entry to crack the top 10 shows in the ratings that usually carry the most weight: The National Nielsen. He ranked fifth.

Curiously, despite being an urban-oriented black comedian, he finished lower in the major city ratings (14th) than he did in the national rankings, which give more weight to the provinces.

Of interest, also, was the fact that ABC-TV's new Monday night, prime time pro football games had little or no ratings impact on CBS-TV's powerhouse competing lineup of "Gunsmoke," "Lucille Ball," "Mayberry R.F.D.," Doris Day and Carol Burnett. They all did well.

On the other hand, NBC-TV's strong Monday schedule of Red Skelton, "Laugh-In" and a weekly movie fared considerably less well against the football game and CBS-TV's potent shows. "Laugh-In," which almost always ranks among the top three or four programs, finished in a three-way tie for 16th place in the national ratings.

The football game, it should be added, did rather well for ABC-TV. Although showing live at different times across the nation, it achieved 30th place in the national ratings that list all programs.

After Wilson, the most popular new series, nationally, was Mary Tyler Moore's CBS-TV situation comedy, which finished 23rd. Then came Danny Thomas' "Make Room for Granddaddy" on ABC-TV (28th). Then the pro football night game. Then CBS-TV's "Arnie," a comedy about a blue collar worker promoted to executive status (33rd). Then Andy Griffith's new CBS-TV show, "Headmaster" (38th). Then Skelton.

Outside of "Make Room for Granddaddy" and the night football game, ABC-TV's large lineup of new series did poorly in the national ratings. These include "The Odd Couple,"

Cincinnati Reads For World Series Baseball

CINCINNATI (UPI) —Neither side will lead with its ace when the World Series opens Saturday. The Reds can't and the Orioles won't.

Jim Merritt, the big winner of the Cincinnati staff, is troubled by a sore elbow, and probably will spend the series in the bullpen if he pitches at all.

Left-hander Mike Cuellar, Baltimore's acknowledged pitching leader, a winner of 47 games in two years plus last year's World Series opener, won't pitch until the second game Sunday.

Instead, the National League champion Reds will rely on young Gary Nolan, and the American League champion Orioles on right-hander Jim Palmer in the series opener.

Decision Explained
Cincinnati's "Big Red Machine" is powered by right-handers Johnny Bench, Tony Perez and Lee May, which explains Oriole Manager Earl Weaver's decision to go with Palmer.

"The statistics were overwhelming," Weaver said, referring to the Reds' 17-2 record at home against left-handed pitchers. "If the series goes six games it won't make that much difference anyway, because everyone will get two starts. But if it goes to seven we'll have the right-hander then."

In Cuellar's case, it probably doesn't make much difference. He is a screwball, is considered to be tougher on left-handed hitters than against right-handers.

The Orioles will go, in order, to a Palmer (20-10), Cuellar (21-9) and Dave McNally. ALSO A LEFTY (24-9), Cincinnati's ace will be Nolan (18-7), McGlothin (14-10) and Tony Coninger (9-7).

The Reds' strength is power—191 home runs and Bench and Perez finished 1-2 in the league in homers and runs batted in.

Key to the Orioles
Pitching and defense are the key to the Orioles, with their three 20-game winners, reliever

Dick Hall with 10 victories and 29 saves, and an infield that includes Brooks Robinson at third base, Mark Belanger at short and Dave Johnson at second base.

"The teams are as evenly matched as possible for two sets of 25 players," says Frank Lane, the Orioles' super-scout. "You can't make mistakes against Cincinnati. I think we have an edge defensively."

Cincinnati has been made a slight favorite, perhaps on the basis of having the odd game at home if the series goes seven.

The first two games will be played here Saturday and Sunday and, following a day off Monday, the clubs will play at Baltimore Tuesday and Wednesday and Thursday if necessary. The sixth and seventh games are set for Riverfront Stadium Oct. 17 and 18.

Frazier-Foster Bout Televised

NEW YORK (UPI)—The heavyweight title fight between Joe Frazier and light heavyweight champion Bob Foster will be televised live and in color over closed circuit television, Nov. 18, it was announced Wednesday by the Theatre Network-Television Division of TNT Communications, Inc.

TNT President Nathan L. Halpern said that the closed circuit telecast will be carried in theaters and arenas in the United States, South America, Mexico, Asia, Europe and Australia. The 15-round bout will be held in Cobo Hall, Detroit.

TNT, which pioneered closed circuit television of boxing in 1949, has drawn $260-million in closed circuit admissions during the last 21 years and set records of 357 locations, 363,000 admissions and revenues totaling $3,640,000 for its closed circuit telecast of the first Cassius Clay-Sonny Liston heavyweight title bout, Feb. 25, 1964, from Miami Beach, Fla.

Texas Okla. War Saturday

By United Press International
World War III, poorly disguised as an intercollegiate football game, explodes on schedule Saturday in the Cotton Bowl.

It's Texas vs. Oklahoma, brother, and it's more than a game of football. It's an event. The party starts tonight at sundown, and doesn't stop until Sunday when the last stragglers head north toward the Red

Jr. High Football

Bad weather caused several Pampa football games to be cancelled yesterday.

The Pampa Shocker-Canyon J.V. game was completely cancelled and will not be rescheduled.

Pampa Junior High's coach Harold Moore reported that their ninth grade Reaper game with Lefors B-team was cancelled but will be played tomorrow morning at 10:30 in Lefors. The eighth grade with Borger South Middle eighth grade has been rescheduled for 10:00 tomorrow morning in Pampa at Harvester Stadium.

Robert E. Lee's ninth grade Rebels luckily was open this weekend. The eighth grade Wolverines game was rescheduled for tomorrow morning at 10:00. They will play Borger North Middle School in Borger. The eighth grade Razorbacks' game with cancelled.

River and south toward Austin. In the midst of the good times will come a football game of mild importance, and Jack Mildren knows just how it will be.

"With all those people yelling," he says, "it's like fourth down and goal from the one all day long."

Mildren is the fellow who played his high school football in West Texas, and then went north to become quarterback for the Sooners. So, depending on who you cheer for, that makes him either one of the greatest turncoats in history or simply another one of those smart Texas lads who had the good sense to play for Oklahoma.

Oklahoma will try to use Saturday's struggle against the second-ranked Longhorns as a means to jump back in the national picture after a 23-14 upset loss to Oregon State two weeks ago. Millions will watch their effort on national television.

And although the Texas-Oklahoma clash dominates the Southwest Conference picture Saturday, there are other attractions.

Tenth-rated Arkansas will try to take undisputed possession of first place in the conference race against Baylor in Little Rock Saturday night. Arkansas (3-1) won its opening league game against TCU last week while the underdog Bears (1-3) will be playing their first conference game.

THREE FORMER Pampa High School football stars will be with the University of Houston squad this Saturday, October 10, when the Cougars meet the Bulldogs of Mississippi State in Starkville, Mississippi. With UH assistant Coach Melvin Brown are, left to right, fullback Ted Heiskell, defensive back L. A. Rowden, and defensive tackle Glen Lewis.

Hoopie Predicts Stanford-Trojan Clash 'Pacific Game of the Year'

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPIE
Fearless Forecaster

Greetings, friends! The intercollegiate conference races get started in earnest this week with several big games on tap. In the Big Ten, Ohio State will visit East Lansing to meet Michigan State and Purdue will host the University of Michigan Wolverines at Lafayette, Ind.

The leading Big Eight encounter has Nebraska entertaining Missouri at Lincoln. The Pacific Eight "game of the year" pits host Stanford against defending champion Southern California.

Your favorite forecaster looks for Ohio State to trounce Duffy Daugherty's boys, 35-14, and Purdue to surprise Michigan 27-20 in a hotly contested clash.

The Hoopie System was taxed to its very limits to come up with a winner in the Nebraska-Missouri meeting with the normal indicators pointing to a standoff. After conferring with Hannibal Wottaburp, our long-time Missouri correspondent, I predict—hak-kaff—a 31-28 triumph for the Tigers over the Nebraska Cornhuskers.

Stanford's great quarterback Jim Plunkett gets his last crack at archrival Southern California in the game that should decide the Pacific Eight title race and Rose Bowl representative. Stanford, stunned by Purdue last Saturday, boasts its best team in years and will prove it to a skeptical football public by jolting the Trojans, 29-22—hak-rumph!

Non-conference clashes worthy of note match Tennessee against Georgia Tech, Texas and Oklahoma, Notre Dame and Army, Florida and Florida St., and West Virginia and Duke. I—um-kumph—have some bad news for the loyal followers of Georgia Tech. My compilations show the Vols handing the Tech stalwarts their first defeat of the year, 38-20. Texas will prevail over Oklahoma's Sooners, 22-14, and the strong Irish eleven will make it three shutouts in three weeks as they repel the invading Army forces, 49-0.

Watch for Florida to overpower intrastate rival Florida State, 28-13, and for the West Virginia Mountaineers to preserve their unsullied record with a come-from-behind 21-18 win over Duke—hak-rumph!

SABRES SIGN THREE

BUFFALO (UPI)—The expansion Buffalo Sabres of the National Hockey League announced the signing Wednesday of defensemen Allen Hamilton, Jean Guy Lagace and Doug Barrier to 1970-71 contracts.

Cowboy's Hill Slow With Yardage

DALLAS (UPI)—Calvin Hill won the National Football League's rookie of the year award last season by running with abandon and little knowledge of what his specific assignments, or those of his blockers, were.

This year, the Dallas Cowboys' Ivy League has picked up that knowledge, but is picking up yardage at a slower pace than the one which got him 942 yards and the No. 2 rushing honors, just 90 yards behind Chicago's Gale Sayers, last year while missing three games.

Going into Sunday's fourth game of the season against Atlanta in the Cotton Bowl, Hill has gained 246 yards in 58 carries for a 4.2-yard average. At this time a year ago, he had carried 51 times for 299 yards and a 1.9-yard average. "Hill is going through a transition period that tends to cut his effectiveness," Coach Tom Landry said.

Harvesters Will Be Using New-Found Attack Unit

Offensive Key

The Pampa Harvesters put their newly-found offense and their well balanced defense to the test again tonight when they play the Canyon Eagles at 7:30 in Harvester Stadium.

The Harvesters are 3-1 for the season and the Eagles are 1-3. Pampa's only loss of the season was to the Lawton Wolverines, 14-9 last week in Lawton.

Ironically, Canyon's only win for theseason was also last week when they took a 16-12 upset victory over the Lubbock High School Westerners.

Pampa suffered the loss of six seniors during the past week.

Johnny Clark, fullback, Jimmy Clark, offensive right tackle, Ricky Harris, tight end, and John McCarroll, offensive right half back, were all injured at Lawton.

Dwayne Glover, left linebacker, and Greg Wilson, punter and halfback, were lost to ankle injuries this week in practice.

Harvester coach "Swede" Lee said, "These boys will be out of the line-up for the game with Canyon, but should be able to play in the district opener against Caprock on October 16."

Canyon's offensive line-up also shows signs of injuries as there are only three seniors in the starting eleven.

Kelly Tinsley (200) will be starting at left tackle and Darrel Briettling (170) will be his blocking mate in the left guard position.

The other senior is John Lewis (185) at right end.

Canyon's sophomore class will also be represented by three starters. Sam Kerbel (200) starts at offensive center, Matt

Henson (150) and Bill Moore (170) will be in the offensive backfield at left halfback and fullback, respectively.

Junior starters will be Mike Podzemny (175), left end, Van James (185), right guard, Larry Prichard (170), right tackle, Chuck Wright (180), quarterback, and Cliff Prichard (165), right halfback.

Canyon has a good defense but, according to head coach Dunny Goode, they "have a weak offense."

A look at the record seems to show these statements to be true.

Canyon lost their first three games to Clovis (6-0), Spearman (7-6), and Caprock (14-7). The Eagles then tallied their 16-12 win over Lubbock.

Therefore, Canyon has scored 29 points to their opponents 39 points.

Canyon, however, was picked in some quarters to be the upset-makers among class 1-AAA schools.

Coach Goode's offense is definitely on the rise and, the Eagles could come out with a convincing win over Pampa, tonight and over Levelland on October 23, their district opener.

Canyon is open next week.

Both Canyon and Pampa run the Texas-Triple-Option or "Wishbone" T" offensively. Canyon also uses a Pro-Set. Since both teams have good defenses, the game tonight promises to be close.

Area Football

Football is rough, tough and impervious to cold weather as all of the Panhandle teams will be in contention tonight.

Although Perryton has three-foot snowdrifts, they will be traveling north to Liberal, to meet the Redskins at 7:30 p.m. The Rangers are planning on bringing home a win, last week they upset Caprock 20-19.

The Fighting Irish of Shamrock will be on the road to Guyman, Okla. attempting to lengthen their win column to 5-0.

Canadian will host the Wheeler Mustangs tonight at 8:00 p.m. for their homecoming game. The Wildcats tore into the Clarendon Bronchos last week for a 34-14 win. This was the first time of the season that Canadian has been scored against.

White Deer will be entering the field with no big vacant spots on their team. Coach J.T. Hill is undergoing surgery for an ulcer in Amarillo and QB Rick Hoskins is out for the season with a broken shoulder. Tonight, homecoming night, the Bucks will be hosting Claude at 8:00 p.m.

McLean narrowly missing victory last week will be hosting the Groom-Tigers tonight. The McLean team lost to White Deer, ranked second in state, 20-14 last Friday night.

Lefors is looking for a victory against the Erick Bearcats tonight at 7:30 in Lefors.

Miami was cancelled due to weather and will reschedule.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—During her two years as a soggy ingenue on the television program Laugh-In, Judy Carne made a deep and abiding impression on drama critics with her sensitive portrayal of a young woman being sloshed with a bucket of water.

"So moving was her performance in that difficult and demanding role, it gave Miss Carne instant entry to other theatrical media. She has since starred in a Broadway musical, made a movie and created her own night club act, which currently is playing at the Shoreham Hotel here.

In the belief that the Judy Carne story would be an inspiration to other girls who aspire to a career in show business, I asked her to analyze the art of being doused on stage.

"It takes talent," she said. "A lot of talent. You can't hit just any old actress in the face with a bucket of water every Monday night and keep a top rating in television."

No Magic Formula
Asked how one goes about preparing one's self for such a role, the erstwhile "sock-it-to-me girl" said she did not know of any magic formula.

She noted, however, that it is not a part you cast simply by going into a drug store and picking out some chick at the soda fountain.

She herself had appeared in three other television series before here venture into hydro-matics. Which seems to indicate that a certain amount of untroubled acting experience is a prerequisite for waterlogged histrionics.

Miss Carne also confided that she was a disciple of the so-called "method school" in her weekly drenching. Which is to say that her reaction to the splashing was spontaneous and instinctive rather than carefully rehearsed.

Role Demands Discipline
Her subjective interpretation does not mean, however, that the role did not demand a large measure of discipline and control associated with the classical, or pre-Stanislavsky, style of acting.

Miss Carne always knew in advance the exact moment at which the water bucket would be emptied upon her. Yet she never flinched or otherwise telegraphed to her audience that the sloshing was imminent.

Now there was some real acting for you!
A part as emotionally taxing as that one naturally left Miss Carne, as well as the water bucket, drained. After two years in the deluge, she wisely turned to less rigorous thespian pursuits.

And unless something is done about water pollution, we may never see her likes again.

School Board Compromises With A Wig

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—It may not have taken the wisdom of a Solomon, but Federal Judge Wallace S. Gourley Monday came up with an order that permits Randy Simon to keep his long hair and lets Robert Morris College keep its rule against long hair.

Randy will wear a short-hair wig last week when he turned away last week when he tried to enroll for his junior year at the college. A new rule said male hair could be no lower than the natural collar line.

Simon, 20, had been turned away last week when he tried to enroll for his junior year at the college. A new rule said male hair could be no lower than the natural collar line.

Simon asked U.S. District Court for an injunction, claiming his constitutional rights were violated. Robert Morris attorneys argued the school code had been approved by the student government.

At a second hearing Monday, Gourley suggested his compromise and both sides accepted.

WINTER IS COMING to the northern hemisphere so "Miss World," Eva Reuber-Staier, has moved her court to Australia, where the seasons are reversed.

SYMBOLIC EXPRESSION
CONCORD, N.H. (UPI)—The New Hampshire Civil Liberties Union says it pays to work for young persons arrested for wearing American flag as protest symbols.

Executive Director David M. Hamlin said Thursday the organization views the wearing of flags as a symbolic expression of free speech.

Hollywood In Review

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—A prestigious French publication recently printed that life test of an exceptionally talented director is the way in which he directs Janet Leigh in motion pictures.

At first glance it would appear that the blonde actress is a blank slate upon which a director may write magnificent poetry or graffiti.

Janet is not altogether sure this analogy is far fetched. "I don't think there is a screen personality Janet Leigh," she said. "That means I play a character the way the writer and director have in mind."

"It follows that the better the director, the better I perform."

Janet has Worked for Best
Janet in her 60 or 70 movies has worked for the best, some journeymen, and a few guys who couldn't direct traffic in Tishomingo, Miss.

Among the men who have guided Janet's performances: Alfred Hitchcock, Fred Zinnemann, Henry Hathaway, Blake Edwards, Tony Mann, John Fraenkenheimer, Mervyn LeRoy, George Marshall, Jerry Lewis and Dick Fleisher.

Janet refused to name the best or worst director she has worked with, but she found high praise for her first director, Roy Rowland, for whom she co-starred with Van Johnson in "The Romance of Rosie Ridge."

"For that reason I think I started out on the right foot in working with directors. I have complete trust in them."

"Fortunately, I've had a wide variety of roles, including American girls of all types from country lassies to debutantes."

No Preconceived Mannerisms
"I image the French publication singled me out as a measure for directors because I have no preconceived mannerisms. And I never had the stigma of being a sex symbol." Janet memorizes her lines and grasps the thread of the entire story along with the physical demands of her role. "I'm prepared when I arrive on the set," she said. "But an actress learns quickly whether her performance is all her own or if she'll get help from the director."

"I like the director who takes charge, has a concept in mind and directs his players intelligently," Janet concluded. "No performer can respect a director who allows his actors to take over."

Welfare Bill Nixed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Finance Committee voted Thurs. to kill President Nixon's welfare reform bill the administration's top priority domestic proposal in Congress.

The House-approved measure was turned down by a one-sided 14-1 vote in the committee.

The group then voted by a 9-3 margin to simply permit test runs in a few communities of the far-reaching family assistance plan.

Not all members were present for either vote.
Nixon's $4.4 billion proposal would guarantee an annual income to every American family whether or not the family had worked, as long as he was willing to take jobtraining. It could have provided government checks to a many as 25 million Americans.

Klotz Shows Catch: 4 1/2 Lb. Bass

Richard Klotz caught this 4 lb. 8 oz. Largemouth Bass in a pond near Canadian, Texas, on Sept. 20, 1970. He was using a flitail worm for bait. Richard lives at 928 S. Nelson.

This fish was reported at the Pampa Tent & Awning Co., 317 East Brown St., the Sports Field Award Station in the Panhandle.

Jackie Sued For $1 Million

NEW YORK (UPI)—A freelance photographer who claims interference in his efforts to take photographs of Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis has filed suit against her for $1,300,435, court papers showed Wednesday.

The photographer, Ronald E. Galella of New York City, said in his suit that Mrs. Onassis and three special agents of the U.S. government prevented him from taking her picture five times during the 10-month period ending July 2, both in New York and near Skopios, Greece. His suit, filed in Manhattan Supreme Court, was disclosed Wednesday when it was transferred to federal court because of the involvement of the U.S. agents.

Galella said he suffered mental anguish, worldwide humiliation and received threatening letters as a result of his unsuccessful attempts to take Mrs. Onassis' photograph. On Sept. 24, 1969, he was forced to a police station in New York and taken into custody on a complaint of harassment by two of the agents, but the charges later were dropped, Galella said.

Young Couples May Spend Half Million In 1970

NEW YORK (UPI)—An estimated half a million dollars in lifetime earnings will pass through the hands of the typical young couple getting married in the 1970s. Don't let the hands be a sieve.

Save something for your labor. Skilled buying and management could save 10 percent of that half million, helping to buy more security and an improved standard of living.

Today's consumer sits in the driver's seat as never before, on one hand, with new federal and state laws on the books to protect the buyer from waste money resulting from lack of information or outright deception.

On the other hand, today's consumer faces new dilemmas in buying complicated new household equipment, what to choose in the cleansing field alone with the infinite variety of detergents and cleansers, few hazards to safety from say the color-television set, all the new convenience foods and the food additives.

The purchaser doing a good job wears three hats, says a new publication, "The Responsible Consumer," from the Public Affairs Committee, a nonprofit organization headquartered in

New York. The publication is written by Sidney Margolius, author, who has served on the National Commission on Product Safety and the President's Consumer Advisory Council.

Three hats are: knowledge of the laws to protect you, participation in consumer organizations, and being a competent consumer yourself.

To get the most for that half million, or whatever your life earnings, Margolius outlines a program:

Compare prices of items in different stores before buying. Time your buying to take advantage of annual sales promotional sales occur at any time, but some sales are regulars—children's and women's clothing in April, August, November and December, for instance, men's and boy's suits in April, August and December.

Buy according to intended use. When buying food, for example, select grade A products if appearance is important, but choose lower cost B and C grades for cooked dishes.

Finance family needs at the lowest cost. Margolius says that credit costs are higher than most people realize until enactment of the so-called truth-in-lending law.
