LOSS OF LARGE WATER USERS CRIPPLES CITY

Curd's Department Points Out Wichita Falls Loses $538,000 Annually

It became known Monday that Water Commissioner P. B. Curd and colleagues in that department had under consideration a plan to propose to officials of irrigation district number one that an agreement be effected whereby the city would take over the water rights in Lake Wichita; have the district connect up the present old irrigation ditch with the new Lake Kemp system; install a pipeline direct from Lake Wichita to the city water plant which will avoid all loss of water and insure the city a soft water supply, except on rare occasions, for many years to come.

And all this to the end of saving Wichita Falls citizens and the city itself a total of $538,000 annually.

Stupendous as the saving may seem, officials of the water department pointed out that itemization of the

ASHES FOUND TO BE THOSE OF SPOUSE; NOT DOPE

CHICAGO, July 13.—(AP)—Ashes carried by Mrs. Rose McConnell when she was arrested for violating anti-narcotic laws, today proved to be not "yenshee," an ash-like form of opium, but the ashes of her husband's body. As a consequence one of the counts against the woman will be quashed when she is arraigned tomorrow.

Plans for Y. M. C. A. Building Discussed

Plans for possible erection of a Y. M. C. A. building here were discussed Monday by Mayor R. E. Shepherd with Urban Williams, state secretary of the Texas association of Y. M. C. A. with headquarters in Dallas. Mr. Williams came to the city especially for the purpose of promoting the Y movement locally.

In the course of his talk with Mayor Shepherd, Mr. Williams declared that there were few cities in the country the size of Wichita Falls where an active Y. M. C. A. was not established, and he also asserted he knew of no place where such an organization was needed more.

F. P. FIGHTS DALLAS CLAIM.

Railroad to Appear in Austin Today for Hearing.

DALLAS, July 13.—The Texas and Pacific railroad through Judge T. J. Freeman of New Orleans, general counsel, will appear before the Texas railroad commission tomorrow at Austin to deny allegations of the Dallas chamber of commerce that, for the purposes of rate making, the Texas and Pacific should be considered a part of the Missouri Pacific properties in Texas. The hearing had been scheduled for tomorrow. Albert Reed, of the Dallas chamber of commerce, will press the suit.

Maniool Berlenbach Embroglio a Stall

NEWARK, N. J., July 13.—The 12-round light heavyweight title match between Paul Berlenbache, present champion, and Young Marullo of New Orleans, was stopped by Referee Henry Lewis in the ninth round tonight and declared no contest. The referee in an official statement after the fight said both men were stalling, so he declined to allow them to continue.

CHICAGO FIGHTS GANGSTERS

Courts Carry on Work; Sentence Big Number.

CHICAGO, July 13.—(AP).—Evidence of progress in Chicago's fight against gangdom was found today in the report of the criminal court for June. In the division presided over by Jacon Hopkins, chief justice, and devoted largely to "gun toting" cases, 149 men were sent to penal institutions in the month.

The 12 branches of the court sentenced 328 persons to penal institutions, three to the state hospital for the criminal insane at Chester and one to the state hospital at Kankakee.

The penitentiary at Stateville received 175 prisoners, Pontiac reformatory 47, the house of correction 89, and the county jail 15.

Fact That Easement Not Yet Given by Donor Leads To Speculation

ISBELL FOR ASPHALT

County Engineer's Suggestion Type Is Better Buy Is Disregarded

No sooner had the county commissioners' court Monday afternoon voted to give the contract for the Holliday-Park-Lake road highway to the L. E. Whitham company than a telegram arrived frob Fred Weeks at Battle Creek, Mich., stating that he much preferred the park road, right-of-way for which he has agreed to donate, to be paved with sheet asphalt on a six-inch reinforced concrete base.

His telegram follows:

"Much prefer park road to be sheet asphalt on six-inch re-inforced concrete base than concrete and as soon as I am out of bed will take up question of making road 40 feet of pavement with 20 feet park way, me to pay part of cost."

It was Judge B. D. Sartin who yesterday swung the contract to the L. E. Whitham company.

Asked after the vote was taken if it meant that the commissioners had determined upon concrete in the face of advice from the county's engineer, J. M. Isbell, that the concrete base with an asphalt surface was the better buy, Sartin said "yes."

Isbell for Asphalt.

Later Sartin declared that Isbell had recommended both types of paving, and Isbell, questioned as to what his position had been in the matter, stated he had told the commissioners both types were good, but that he considered the concrete base with asphalt surface to be better from driving quality, duration and wear.

The Plains Paving company had bid a proposal for a concrete base and asphalt top and appeared assured of the contract one week ago when letting was held up when a misunderstanding was found to have arisen over route of the road.

An interesting fact developed yesterday when Fred Weeks' telegram arrivd announcing his preference for asphalt in the statement by the county engineer that Mr. Weeks had not yet given the county an easement to the right-of-way for the road and considerable speculation arose as to what Mr. Weeks might do in case determination was continued by the county board for a concrete job.

Monday's session of the county court was interesting.

Sartin appeared insistent that something be done about the road contract "and not keep these contractors in hot water." He got little encouragement, however, and so called J. P. Jackson, Wichita Falls commissioner, and F. R. Knauth, Burkburnett commissioner, into the courthouse steps for a private conference. When they returned Sartin again broached the subject of letting the contract and Commissioner Jackson moved that a concrete base with asphalt top be accepted. His motion lost for want of a second.

Warrant Issue Urged.

Here it developed that a proposal for a $500,000 county wide road warrant issue was proving the stumbling block for procedure on the park road contract. Commissioner H. H. Haynes of Electra and L. L. Kuntz of Iowa Park proposed the warrant issue, declaring the money could be used for other road work in the county in-

DEMOS START EFFORT TO GET 1926 CONTROL

Congressional Committee Begins Work of New Organization

OLDFIELD IS LEADER

Election to Congress Give Promise of Increased National Interest

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—With the democrats already laying the foundation for a determined campaign to regain control of congress, the 1926 congressional elections give promise now of attracting an unusual shade of national interest.

Under the leadership of Representative Oldfield of Arkansas, the democratic congressional committee has begun its organization work, centering its efforts largely in what are regarded as the close districts.

At the same time, the republican organization is preparing to meet the attacks in those centers and also to carry the fight to the enemy in a number of democratic strongholds.

Returning today from organization meetings in Missouri and Indiana, Representative Oldfield announced that he would leave soon for a swing through the west on a similar mission.

CAL VACATIONS AGAIN

Week in Conferences Interrupts Schedule for Summer.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 13.—(AP).—Again on a vacation schedule after a week-on of conferences on foreign affairs, President Coolidge spent today quietly, receiving no callers at White Court and transacting little business.

The executive apparently was content to leave in the hands of Secretary Kellogg the carrying into effect of the administration policy toward China, announced by the secretary of state before his departure late yesterday after he had gone over both the Chinese and foreign debt situations with the president.

Three Soviet Planes Make Flight to China

PEKING, July 13.—(AP)—Three airplanes from Soviet Russia arrived here today. Three other machines which started the flight were unable to complete it. The ministers of war and marines of the government sent delegates to welcome the flyers.

Six airplanes left Moscow for Peking on the morning of June 10, with the object of surveying an air route through Siberia and the Gobi desert to China. If successful, it was planned to form a China-Soviet association for the establishment of permanent aerial communication between Europe and China.

STILL FLOODED

Engineers Claim Little Chance of Undermining Sky Scrapers

NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP)—The Subway River, which threatened calamity when a water main burst last night, still was flowing nine feet deep through the Steinway tunnel under the East River today. Undermining of sky scraper foundations, which was at first feared possible, was declared to be unlikely by engineers. The service between Grand Central station and Times Square has been resumed and the probability of flooding the east side system has been averted, but the telephone system was still acute tonight.

Missouri Men Fatally Injured by Bolt

SHELBINA, Mo., July 13.—(AP) Three farmers, Albert Cousb, Richard Spencer and Ernest Dexter, were killed by lightning this afternoon while working in a hay field near Hunnewell, Mo. All were married.

THE WEATHER

"I wish I had a big fat stomach like Mr. Jones, so when I fall down my nose wouldn't hit first."

By Douglas Malloch.

To My Sister, On Her Birthday.

A sister's love has naught to gain,
And yet it is as freely given,
Through joy and sorrow, peace and pain,
As any love this side of heaven,
A love that loves through all our ways,
As well in our divided days
As in the days we walked together
Through childhood storms our first gray weather.

Across today's dividing miles,
My sister, I a greeting send you,
I hope all day that heaven smiles,
And heaven's stars at night defend you.
Ah, many loves we learn to know
That link our lives to one another,
But there is something different, though,
That binds a sister and a brother.

MID-CONTINENT TO GET THRILL IN GAS RAISE

Standard Company Increases Prices of Gas One Cent In 11 States

Mid-Continent refiners who smiled when the crude oil producers were given a boost in price of from three to 30 cents last week, by the Prairie Oil and Gas company, will on Tuesday get their thrill when the Standard Oil company of Indiana, advances gasoline prices one cent in the 11 states that comprises its territory.

News of the forthcoming advance came late Monday. The news came too late to bolster up the blow refinery spot market that prevailed in Oklahoma, Kansas and North Texas. U. S. motor gasoline is held at 12½ to 12¾ cents, and the advance will put it up to 13 to 13¾ cents.

FORTY RIIFFS ARE KILLED

Sixty More Reported Wounded in Fight With French.

MELILLA, Spanish Morroco, July 13.—(AP).—Forty Moroccan tribesmen have been killed and about 60 wounded in an encounter with a contingent of natives attached to the French forces. The combat took place near the border of Spanish Zone, the rebels being driven back more than 10 kilometers.

After another fight which lasted throughout the night the French forces advanced to Taza Rutaska. The noise of cannon and rifles could be heard by advanced posts in the Spanish lines.

DALLAS GIRL LOSES TWO FINGERS IN MACHINE

DALLAS, July 13.—Miss Helen Looper, 16, of Dallas, sustained the loss of the tips of two fingers today when her hand was caught in a stamping machine at a factory where bathing caps for women are made.

MONDAY A DAY OF ORATORY TO MONKEY TRIAL

Judge Retires Early to Determine Whether Indictment Stands

DARROW IS HEARD

Veteran Defender Declares Monkey Law Wicked And Mischevious

Dayton, Tenn., July 13. (AP)—Judge John T. Raulston, presiding at the trial of John T. Scopes, on a charge of violating the law against teaching evolution in the public schools retired to his chambers tonight to study the question of whether the indictment against the 24-year-old school teacher shall be summarily quashed. The judge carried with him briefs of the half score points stressed by the contending sides in the case while ringing in his judicial ears were words from half a dozen oral arguments presented today.

It was the first of perhaps other days to be devoted entirely to oratory. The jury's service was brief. Soon after court opened and the state had interrogated one juror, R. L. Gentry, as to whether he had expressed an opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant, the jury was sent from the room that argument might be made on the motion to quash. Mr. Gentry went with his fellow jurymen after declaring that he could not recall having said that Scopes ought not to be convicted. "There is no reflection on him," the attorney general explained.

Formal Motion Read.

Starting the morning session with a carefully poised reading of the formal motion to quash and a calm argument by John R. Neal for the defense, the heat of the argument gained intensity as the day wore on. B. G. McKenzie, former attorney general, and Dudley Field Malone of counsel for the defense, engaged in a clash, ending in smiles, but for a moment giving indications of developing into a spirited exchange.

During Attorney General Stewart's argument for the state in the afternoon, he was questioned by defense attorneys on several points. Mr. Stewart suggested with a smile, "perhaps you would like to put me on the witness stand."

"We would," was the chorus from the defense table.

The day of speech making was brought to a close by the two most extended arguments of the trial, Attorney General A. T. Stewart and Clarence Darrow taking up the entire afternoon session with their discussions of the indictment.

Defends State's Law.

The attorney general vigorously defended the law under attack, declaring that the legislature was well within its rights in passing the staute and that the state should be praised for enforcing it, instead of criticised.

The young prosecuting officer was emphatic in declaring that warrant of law may be abundantly cited to support the contention of the prosecution.

Clarence Darrow after opening with a pleasant appreciation of the action of the court in bestowing the title of "colonel" upon him, declared in his opening words that the anti-evolution law "was wicked and mischevious." He said he would attempt to place himself in the 10th century that he might treat the law seriously.

The exchange of counsel, furnishing the first real battle of words was

RULING AGAINST INTERSTATE BRIDGE BUILDING BY STATE MAY NOT AFFECT BURK SPAN

Special Law May Provide Wichita-Cotton Bridge Says Austin

AUSTIN, July 13.—State or federal funds cannot be expended by Texas for the construction of any highway or any bridge extending beyond the confines of the state, Attorney General Moody ruled following a conference with Attorney General Pat C. Short of Oklahoma and members of the state highway commission.

Made On Huge Bridge.

The ruling was made on the proposed re-construction of a bridge across Red river between Hugo and Paris. The Oklahomans sought to have Texas bear half of the expense of $150,000 for construction. The attorney general ruled that Texas can expend funds only to the boundary line of the state, which is the cut in this case, as ruled by the United States supreme court in the Red river boundary litigation over oil wells last year.

This ruling located most of the proposed bridge in Oklahoma. The Texas highway commission was willing to cooperate with Oklahoma and recently approved a contract with the Austin Bridge company.

Plane Seeks Soldier Wanted for Murder

NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP)—An army airplane has flown 300 miles in order to search the foothills and woods of northern New York for Philip Knox Knapp, deserter from the army air corps, who is regarded as a killer for a super-thrill.

The air hunt for Knapp, who is believed to have slain Louis Panella, Hempstead taxi driver, after he had exhausted all other means to get a "kick" out of life, centers in Plattsburg.

The plane was dispatched from Mitchell Field by Major William N. Hensley, Jr., commandant. It carries photographs of Knapp and other matter intended to assist a ground force of state troopers and army police in quest of him.

OPEN RUPTURE COMES AFTER BARNETT GETS CLERK'S CHAIR

R. O. Grant, Resigned, Boosts B. L. Bryan As His Successor to Job

APPEARS AT COUNCIL

Charge of Politics Followed By Sharp Denial During Stormy Session

With the appointment of Paul Barnett, auditor in the city clerk's office, as chief clerk of the city water department, the board of aldermen after a tense discussion Monday night backed up Utilities Commissioner P. B. Curd in what Developed into an open rupture between he and R. O. Grant, retiring chief clerk.

A blank assertion that political motives were actuating Mr. Curd in his handling of the department was hurled by Grant and brought a hot retort from the commissioner that all his moves were made in what he deemed the best interests of the city.

Grant Recently Quit.

Grant, who tendered his resignation a few days ago to take up an accountant's position with a local oil company, appeared in person at the meeting as a champion for B. L. Bryan, another clerk in the depratment who he considered worthy of promotion. Grant sent in a written resignation to the commissioners thanking them for the courtesies and consideration they had always given him and then invited their attentin to Bryan who, he said, had had long experience in the water department and was eminently qualified to step into the chief clerk's post.

Mayor Shepherd read Grant's letter and then Curd said he and Dr. A. H. Douglas, general manager of the department, had already considered a number of applicants for the post. He did not say whether or not Barnett had been an applicant, but said he wished to recommend Barnett for the position. He said he did this in no manner of disparagement to Bryan, who he recognized as a man of great capability and one who had given long and efficient service to the city.

Grant Takes Floor.

This brought Grant to the council table. He explained that he was doing what he did entirely of his own volition and only as a service to Bryan who he said, was "being made the sufferer in an unfair deal."

"I dislike to instigate any dissension whatsoever," Grant asserted, "but I would like to call the attention of you gentlemen to some conditions I think ought to be brought up. I don't think the city water department ought to be made an agency for the playing of politics and while I have been its chief clerk for the last five years I have always sought to impress on the men under me the fact that they were working in a business institution that ought to be run as such.

"In several instances, though, I cannot help but feel that Mr. Curd has let his personal feelings outweigh his business judgment in some things. If you are going to have an efficient and businesslike department you ought to hold out some hope for the men who are working in it and let them feel that they have some protection for their future. Some good men have quit because they don't feel they do have that protection."

Discusses Purchases.

As a further step in his attack on Curd, Grant presented to the council some prices and invoices on a shipment of valves purchased recently. He maintained by inference that Curd had bought from one company because of personal friendship with a salesman, whereas the prices of another company on the same materials were lower.

Mayor Shepherd studied the figures while Curd explained that he made the purchase on authorization of the council and upon the recommendation of S. L. Williams, formerly superintendent of the department. Curd maintained that the valve bid he rejected was on material inferior in quality and which was not recognized as standard by the National Waterworks association. Later, Douglass said outside the council room that the city had a number of valves of the type rejected by Curd and that they were not giving satisfactory service.

"You can't even close some of them," he declared.

Getting back to the accusation of personal motives in his recommendation of Barnett, Curd said:

"I don't deny a friendship for Barnett. He's been a friend of mine for a long time, but that is certainly not the reason I have recommended him for this position. He has demonstrated all of you men his efficiency in the clerk's office and I think he is the man that can best handle the work required. I recognize Mr. Bryan as a valuable man, but I don't think he has had quite the experience nor is yet competent to take the place. We've

Synthetic Love

CHAPTER I.
Jilted.

Enid still shrank from the memory of that horrible thing in her past. There were times when she woke up in the night to find herself trembling violently and she would sit up in bed with the cold perspiration breaking out all over her to feel again the shame and ignominy that she had suffered then.

Jilted! The very word brought the hot scarlet to her cheeks. When she came upon it in a book or in the newspapers a pain would catch at her heart and she would remember as if it were yesterday.

How she had loved Ronald Corley. To her he had been only a little less than a god. She had loved his looks. The blond hair clipped so close to the well-shaped head and even then curling a little; the laughing blue eyes, the flash of white teeth above his cloven chin.

She had adored him, and often she had wondered why he had chosen her for a wife. To herself she had always seemed a small and insignificant woman. Often she had looked at herself in the glass, studying her delicate, heart-shaped face from every possible angle. She had a frail beauty, like a purple violet half hidden among wet grasses. Her eyes were violet and often wore a mysterious look as they glanced out from under their heavy lashes. Perhaps it was this mystery that first drew Ronald, but Enid never knew.

Enid's skin was another point in her favor. It had a thick creamy quality lie a magnolia petal and was nearly always colorless. This was not due to lac of health, for her lips, wide generous lips beautifully molded, were always scarlet. Her face was lovely in its way, but she herself never thought so. She thought still less of herself after Ronald had left her. In fact, she hated herself so utterly for a time that the burden of living was a thing she could hardly bear.

If any one had questioned Enid at the time she would have said that she did not blame Ronald. The fact that he had been swept off his feet by Coralie Brainerd seemed a natural enough thing.

Coralie was Enid's antithesis in every way. She was tall, like a young goddess. She had a laughing, provocative manner. There was no mystery about her, but there was a tremendous appeal, an appeal of youth and vibrant health, intoxicating to Ronald. He and Coralie had eloped two days before Enid's wedding, leaving Enid to meet the situation as best she could, and after the first horrible days were over Enid had taken up her life again. But she could not forget, nor was she ever the same woman. She tried to make a blank in her heart where Ronald's memory was, and found it impossible. She could not forget him. He had stood for everything wonderful; she had worshipped him, and now her heart was like a dead thing within her. She was bitter, too; she learned to laugh at the mention of love, and to lash herself with scorn for having been so credulous.

"Love exists only in novels and plays," she told herself over and over, and as for men they were all the same. She would never trust another, never as long as she lived.

Ronald had sent her a letter, and after reading it twice Enid had torn it up into little pieces and burned it in an ash-tray.

"I couldn't help it," he had written. "I know you'll never understand, but there it is. I couldn't help it. Coralie and I were made for each other. I had to have her. I know I should have come to you and told you the truth, but I couldn't bear the thought of seeing you hurt. Try to forgive me if you can, Enid; but if you can't do that, forget me, and believe that I was never worthy of you."

As she touched the match to the tiny bits of paper Enid's lips had curled into a scornful smile. With Ronald's letter she was burning up her dreams, her illusions. No other man would ever hurt her as Ronald had hurt her. Sometime, of course, she would take up her life again as though nothing had happened, but deep in her heart the hurt would always remain. In a way she was glad of this, because it would serve as a warning to her. She must never again trust that man. She must never again trust a man. She must never because it simply did not exist.

CHAPTER II.
Three Years Later.

Enid Austin was 23 when her engagement to Ronald Corley was broken off so abruptly.

At that time she had been a shy, dreaming girl, a sensitive, tender thing, full of illusions and romance.

At 26, she was a woman well poised, full of self-assurance and with more than ever a look of mystery in those violet eyes of hers. Time had mercifully dulled the first terrible hurt, the first bitter humiliation, but she still remembered; she would never forget.

She had gone forth valiantly to

Court Says State May Tax U. S. Gas

AUSTIN, July 13.—Gasoline sold to the federal government is subject to the one-cent-a-gallon tax, Judge George C. Calhoun of the 53rd district court held today in assessing a $12,000 judgment in favor of the state against Grayburg Oil company. Ernest May, assistant attorney general, represented the state.

BULL FIGHT CROWD FIGHTS

Rain Halts Proceedings and Clash Between Spectators and Troops Follow.

MEXICO CITY, July 13.—(AP) Spectators at yesterday's bull fight and troops clashed because the fight was stopped owing to rain, and the police report that 13 persons were wounded, several of them being expected to die.

After a brief downpour had left the ground wet, and in the opinion of the toreadors, unsafe, the fighters refused to continue. The spectators protested, refusing to leave. Troops were ordered to vacate the stand when a veritable fusillade of shots was started.

BRANCH OFFICE OPENED.

AUSTIN, Texas, July 12.—A branch office of the Ferguson Forum, personal journal of former Governor James E. Ferguson, has been opened at 117 West Tenth street with Guy R. Holcomb in charge. The main office of the paper is yet in Temple.

The branch office is only a short distance from the governor's mansion and it is here that Mr. Ferguson writes his contributions to the paper. He usually writes the leading editorial for each issue.

News Of The Fields

Weldon et al-Anderson

After drilling in on sand topped last week and cemented at 1419 feet on their number 1 Anderson located in the northwest corner of their lease in block 19 of the South Anderson ranch, Weldon and associates have what is estimated as a thirty barrel well. This well which is located on the southern-most extremity of the new pool gives every indication of producing from a different sand than that of Norday—and the Empire to the north. The oil is very dark and heavy and may mean a new sand.

Lomax et al-Wilson.

In the east half of block 88 A. T. N. C. survey on the Wilson ranch, Lomax et al have completed their number one as a hundred barrel producer from sand drilled from 1519 to 1523 feet.

Ruff et al-Wilson.

Ruff et al are abandoning their number 1 T. B. Wilson located in the northwest corner of section 10, block 3, H&TC survey as a dry hole below 1750 feet. This well was located about a mile to the south and east of Waite-Phillips and Carters production on the Wilson-Parkey farms and was during its drilling the subject of a very careful watching by the drilling fraternity.

Central et al-Parker.

Roy Carter and associates are drilling at 1250 feet on their No. 2 Parkey located 300 feet to the west of their No. 1 discovery well and should reach the 1700 foot pay by the end of the week. On their No. 1 water broke in due to a leaky collar and they are now attempting to shut off same by the setting of a tubing packer. On their No. 3 to the west of two they have a derrick and are rigging up. To the north Waite-Phillips have a derrick offsetting their No. 1 and a location for an offset to No. 2.

Marland-Krupka.

On the Krupka lease located in the J. Scott survey to the north of Olney Marland and Humble have hung the crepe on their No. 2 at 1304 feet.

Dickey-Coffman, Yeats

On their Coffman-Yeats lease to the west of the Gose pool Dickey et al are drilling at 1500 feet.

Petroleum Producers-

On their Lauster lease located in the southeast quarter of section two Southern Pacific abstract 1237, south Archer county and to the east of the Norday pool, Petroleum Producers are drilling their number one to completion as a dry at approximately 1500 feet. This well had a slight show at 1300 feet but not sufficient to warrant a test.

Carter-Fletcher-Tuberville.

In the southeast quarter of section 124 of the American Tribune New Colony lands and to the southeast of the Waite Phillips pool on the L. F. Wilson land, Carter-Fletcher et al bailed salt water from sand drilled from 1526-28 feet. This was a very interesting test located as it was and was considered right up to the moment of bailing as a very probable producer.

FIRST COTTON AT WACO

First Bale of McLennan Crop Is Brought In.

WACO, July 13.—The first bale of McLennan county cotton was brought to Waco today, it being raised ten miles northeast on the Joe S. Thompson farm. It weighed 400 pounds and graded strict middling.

ONE OF ARCTIC SHIPS RETURNS TO GET REPAIRS

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—The Bowdoin one of the ships of the MacMillan Arctic expedition, has been compelled to turn back to Hopedale, Labrador, to repair a propellor.

WRIGHT WELL GETS SAND IN ARCHER COUNTY

Plenty of Oil Shown In Sand Struck at 1,329 Feet

Two miles to the east of Archer City on the Sanford Wilson farm located in the Scott survey, abstract 859, Dr. Wright and associates have a sand showing lots of oil in which they are now reaming down to set on and test. Sand was topped at 1,329 feet and cored one foot, and if cores mean anything, this means production. This is the second sand drilled in this much talked of Archer City wildcat. The first drilled into with a large bit at 1,080 feet, although very favorable was unable to be tested. At this depth 47 feet of solid sand were taken, a body which might compare favorably with northern Montague county. From yesterday's indications the well should make a producer and if so will mean the realization of a long lost dream, that of Archer City oil.

Literary Specialist Speaks at Waurika

WAURIKA, Okla., July 13.—A crowd greeted J. W. Boehr, literary specialist of A. & M. college, Stillwater, who spoke under the auspices of the chamber of commerce tonight. He urged the value of dairy products and especially that of pasteurization plants which would take care of dairy products profitably. These monthly meetings of the chamber of commerce at which time some authority on rural problems is always the feature speaker, is a big drawing card in the chamber of commerce program. There is also a short musical program given by local talents at the meetings.

Prof. Boehr spent the afternoon with the rural folk in company with C. S. Mitchell, county agent.

WATER LOSS

$538,000 instantly will prove to the most uninformed that such a loss is now being incurred through the presence of hard water in Lake Wichita.

In connection with an interview given out by Commissioner Curd it was revealed that action taken by the city water department upon advice of fish and game interests and others one year ago to let Lake Kemp water into Lake Wichita had proved exceedingly costly to Wichita Falls as a municipality.

At that time the city was selling water to the large refineries here for a minimum of 13 cents per thousand gallons, or an average of 16 cents per thousand gallons. Shortly after the hard water was let into Lake Wichita a price of seven and one-half cents per thousand gallons offered the refineries by the irrigation district was accepted by the refineries to the end that the city lost an income of $50,000 annually from this source.

It was also stated yesterday that another big water user now buying from the city contemplated almost immediate transfer of its business to the irrigation district which would result in an annual loss to the city of another $10,000.

In addition to this loss to the municipality, however, it is pointed out by A. H. Douglas, city water department manager, that on a basis of 8,000 heaters to as many gas connections in Wichita Falls, hard water is causing an increased use of gas of $2.40 per family per year, or approximately $20,000.

Mr. Douglas also states that on a basis of 6,000 homes in Wichita Falls where modern plumbing to an average cost of $300 is installed and where the usual depreciation is 10 per cent or $30 per home per year, hard water has increased this depreciation by 10 per cent to a total of 20 per cent or an increased depreciation in dollars and cents of $30 per year per home or $180,000.

It is still within the memory of Wichita Falls citizens also, Mr. Douglas points out, that E. P. Schoch, chemistry expert of the University of Texas, last year told Wichita Falls hard water was costing by careful estimate an increased usage of soap to the amount of $288,000 per yar.

Recapitulated, therefore, the hard water now used shows a loss to the city as follows:

By excess need of soap	288,000
fineries	$ 50,000
By excess cost of gas	20,000
By depreciation of plumbing	180,000
B yexcess need of soap	288,000
Total	$ 538,000

Mr. Curd stated he intended to take the proposal to the irrigation soon in an endeavor to insure citizens of a perpetual soft water supply.

GEORGIA KLAN SUES SOONERS FOR $1,000,000

Oklahoma Organization Is Named Defendants In Big Suit

PAWHUSKA, Okla., July 13.—(AP).—The ku klux klan of Georgia brought suit in state district court here late today against the ku klux klan of Oklahoma, seeking a million dollars damages, a complete accounting of all the Oklahoma organizations' finances and an injunction to bar the latter organization from using a name in which "klan" is a part.

The action directed against E. V. Weaver, J. M. Hill and Charles Speers, all of Shindler, Okla., who are declared to be the original organizers of the klan in this state.

The petition sets out that the name "ku klux klan" is the distinctive property of the Georgia corporation and asserts that the Oklahoma organization has used it without authority. It declares also that the regalia of the order also has been improperly used in this state as have letterheads and application blanks.

The action is an accounting as to the number of members received in Oklahoma and the amount of money taken in.

It is brought by W. S. Cumbrum of Washington, D. C., represented as the chief counsel of the Georgia order.

-T.-A. SCHOOL TO BEGIN.

Detailed plans have been completed r the parent-teacher training school hich opens at the West Texas State eachers Training school next Monday ad continues until Friday. Becuse of le crowded condition of the teachers' illege It has been necessary to use the hildren's library as a place for the essions of this conference.

The entire student body of the teach- rs' college and delegates from 48 coun- es which make the eighth district of exas P.-T. A. will hear Mrs. Noyse D. mith in three general lectures which ill be given at 9:30 in the auditorium f the college.

ANYON TEACHER SPEAKS.

One of the features of the meeting of he Southwest Laundry Owners' associa- on which took place in Amarillo this eek was an address by Miss Helen B. urton, head of the home economics de- artment of the West Texas State Teach- rs college, whose subject was "The ffect of Bleaches Upon Fabrics."

This laudry owners' association cov- rs five states—Colorado, Texas, New exico, Oklahoma and Kansas. The eeting at Amarillo was attended by he president of the National Laundry wners' association.

ROFESSOR IS PROMOTED.

B. F. Fronabarger Jr. of Canyon, ho for the past three years has been member of the faculty of the West exas State Teachers' college, has been lected head of the English department f the North Texas State Teachers' col- ge.

Mr. Fronabarger has recently spent a ear in the east completing the work for is degree of doctory of philosophy. While connected with the teachers' col- ge at Canyon, Fronabarger was dean f men, and one of the most popular en on the faculty. He has been prom- nent in the Y. M. C. A. work and in hurch work.

ISTRICT COURT IN AUGUST.

The fall term of district court will egin in Canyon the first Monday in ugust with Judge Henry S. Bishop n the bench.

OW CROPS ARE GOOD.

Cotton and row crops such as maize, affir corn, feterita and Indian corn re in splendid condition in Randall ounty as a result of the abundant rains nd hot weather which have visited this ection during the past week. Parts f this county have had as much as four nches of rain while the entire county as had a good soaking. All crops are n better condition than at this time last ear. Farmers are optimistic, and are orking to justify their optimism by aving on their farms a greater variety f products than ever before. Chickens, ggs, diary products and kitchen gar- ens are doing more to bring prosperity n the farms of this county than in any revious year.

USSIAN IS SPEAKER.

Recently the people of Canyon listened o an address by Count Ilya Tolstoi, son f the great Russian novelist and phi- osopher, Count Leo Tolstoi, while he old them of the life and philosophy of is distinguished father. Count Ilya told ow his father, at the age of 50, became issatisfied with his life and beliefs and ought the solution to the riddle of life, inally finding God for himself in the earts and belief of the peasant people f Russia. Said the younger Tolstoi, "I ould not have you believe that the ussian people were the representatives f my father; my father was only the ugle of the Russian people." Count lya, himself a lecturer of international ote, stated that his father wa sone of hose great souls, who through the ages ave pointed the upward way for the illions of the world to follow. He entioned the warm friendship between is father and Ghandi, the great East ndian leader who is now leading the illions of India in the revolt of pas- ive resistance against the rule of Eng- and. It was Count Leo Tolstoi's firm elief that only two great ideas can save he world—first, life must be ruled by ove, and second, when resistance is ecessary it must be passive, not active. he people of Canyon considered the oming of Count Tolstoi the outstand- ng lecture event in the city for the ast five years.

PLANS INSTITUTE PROGRAM.

When the Panhandle Counties Insti- ute opens on September 7, it will have n unusual program to offer the thou- and teachers who will be in attendance or four well known college presidents ill appear on the five-day program. President George W. Frazier of the State eachers' college at Greely, Colo., is one f the big men on the program. The eachers' college at Greely has been a eader in its field of work for the past 0 years, and Dr. Frazier is said to be he greatest educator identified with it. t. B. Cousins, president of the teachers' ollege at Kingsville and former presi- ent of the college at Canyon, will bring great message and will be greeted ith enthusiasm by hundreds of teachers who have known him for many years. . W. Morelock, formerly head of the usic department at Canyon and now resident at the teachers' college at Al- ine, will conduct the intermediate grade ection and deliver several lectures be- ore the general sections. President J. L. Hill, very much at home in this in- titute, will lecture before the general ections, probably discussing phases of he recent survey report on education n Texas. R. P. Jarrett, conductor of he institute, feels that he has the trongest program lined up for this ear that he has been able to arrange n the years he has had charge of the nstitute.

EACHERS' FOOTBALL SCHEDULE.

Athletic authorities of the West Tex- s State Teachers college have an- ounced that the first football game of he 1925 gridiron season will be played eptember 26 at Amarillo on the Tri- tate fair grounds. The opposing team eam for this game has not been de- ided. It is rumored that the Clarendon ollege Bulldogs will oppose the Buf- aloes at this time. This has not been fficially announced, however. Follow- ng is the schedule for the gridiron sea- on: October 3, Montezuma Baptist col- ege, at Canyon; October 17, New Mex- co university, at Canyon; October 24, immons college, at Abilene; October 31, North Texas Teachers, at Canyon, (Home oming game); November 11, New Mex- co Military institute, at Roswell; No- ember 20, Daniel Baker, at Canyon; November 25, Texas Tech, at Lubbock. The Texas Tech will meet the Buffalos for the first time on "Turkey day," the game to take place at Lubbock. It is probable that a two-year contract will be entered into bringing the tech eleven to Canyon in 1926. The home coming game of the 1925 season will be with the Denton Teachers' college, October 3. This will be the outstanding game of the season if plans which are now under way are carried out. No definite an- nouncements have yet been made regard- ing the Buffalo fall training camp. Os- car Eckhardt, Buffalo football coach, is building a reputation like that of President Coolidge by the amount of talking which he does. He has nothing to say except that the Buffalo fans will loose their worries after they see the first clash of the season.

IOWA PARK

SCHOOL GIVEN CREDITS.

This week end Supt. W. R Brad- ford, superintendent of the local schools, was advised by chief super- visor of Texas high schools that the local school had been granted five more credits of affiliation, making a total of 27 units the local school now holds.

The credits granted are: solid geometry, trigonometry, two years of Spanish, one unit in home economics and the fourth year in agriculture. The school was granted all credits asked for this year. Superintendent W. R. Bradford is very much pleased over the outcome of the year's work.

The local school ranks with any high school in Texas that do not have any more pupils than Iowa Park.

The school is accredited with the Southern association. Only 89 schools in Texas enjoy this privilege and there will be twenty-two teachers employed in the local system next year.

REVIVAL IN PROGRESS.

The Rev. J. A. Wright, pastor of the First Christian church, is in the midst of a revival, preaching at 10 a. m. each week day and again in the evening. Good singing and splendid sermons each service, everybody in- vited.

WORK ON NEW CHURCH.

The work on the First Baptist church is progressing nicely, all of the foundation and the work on the walls starts next week.

HOT AND DRY WEATHER.

Iowa Park and surrounding trade territory is very dry and hot except in the irrigated district. Thousands of acres of cotton is being watered and quite a good deal done by moonlight. The cotton is looking fine and all farmers are elated over the progress of the cotton where it has been irri- gated.

THE RETORT COURTEOUS

Apparently the Chicago Board of Trade has just absorbed the shock of the criticism passed upon it by Secretary of Agriculture Jardine in dealing with the outworn subject of the slump in the grain prices early this year. Mr. Jardine's threat to seek more stringent regulation under the grain futures act, has at last galvanized the board into action. But in appealing to its members for a solution of the problem of wide price fluctuations, the board does not lose its dignity. A questionnaire sent out by a special committee to the 1,600 member firms of the exchange is almost funny in places because of the extremely sedate tone in which it discusses a matter over which the secretary of agriculture became quite hectic.

The board's committee carefully lays down the ground of its action. It recounts that: "The secretary of agriculture, in his preliminary report, said wide fluctuations were due primarily to the heavy trading of a limited number of professional speculators, and that their operations were facilitated to a considerable degree by the large participation on the part of the public after a material advance in prices had occurred the last half of January." Then the committee asks innocently if participation by the public in speculative trading can be prevented. It can readily be imagined with what blank silence this query will be received. But the committee persists in its mild efforts to obtain information and enlightenment. Whether it is aware of it or not, the committee makes the retort courteous to the secretary of agriculture in the following polite questions:

"Since data gathered by the grain futures administration is not currently available to the exchange officers, should provision be made for clearing members to furnish executive officers of the exchange with copies of reports furnished the grain futures administration to the executive officers of individual dealings which might result in conditions detrimental to the good name of the association?"

Thus delicately does the Chicago Board of Trade, through its committee, suggest that control of trading on its exchange should be left in itts own hands, an dthat nothing very helpful can come of the practice of taking information from board members and then erticizing the board for being less accurately informed than the grain futures administration.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

The Family Capital.

Marriage is a partnership.

It ought to be an equal one.

A law that gives a husband the right to take the earnings of the wife and spend them as he chooses and denies the wife the same right to the wages of the husband is unfair and cruel, and ought to be repealed.

In the days when the women were merely household drudges such a was was unjust, for cooking and sweeping and cleaning is just as important a part of the business of marriage as is going out and earning money for the food.

Today when hundreds of women earn their own living, a law which gives to the husband the right to their pay, on the theory that he has to pay the household expenses is archaic and idiotic.

In most marriages the wife has the harder part. It is she who must remain at home, with little entertainment or excitement. It is she who must bear and care for children, a task which no man would undertake at any wage.

All that comes into the house in the way of money ought to be as much hers as his.

Some day there will be a law on the statute books which will divide the capital of the family into two parts, giving the husband the control of one and the wife control of the other.

Even such a law, which a great many men would regard as Bolshevistic and unconstitutional, would in most cases be fair, for often the wife contributes far more toward the world of the establishment than does the man.

Furthermore, women, who seldom have bad habits, must bear the consequences if, through ignorance or bad judgment, they marry the wrong man, and the husbands turn out failures or sots or worse.

In the suburb where I live is a fine woman who married a man ten years ago, knowing little about him aside from the fact that he was good looking and had pleasant manners. Today he is in prison for a defalcation, and it is she, not he, who has to live among the neighbors they both knew, and bear the shame and ignominy that came with his crime.

Many men of little character and principle marry girls, tire of them and desert them leaving them penniless, and perhaps with babies to care for.

Here again the woman gets the worst of the partnership.

And they will continue to get the worst of the partnership until the law, which is really the will of all the people, is so altered as to entitle them to half of what their husbands earn, to be expended by them for the family without any accounting to the wage earner.

It may be contended that the family is the unit of society, and a private institution, to be run without any outside interference.

But as long as such flagrant injustice can be perpetrated by consciousless husbands, with the sanction of the law, there is need of outside interference, and until this is instituted, marriage will continue to be a one-sided affair, with the husband always at an unfair advantage which too many husbands will use to serve their own selfish ends.

Great Cotton Acreage —Son of His Father— A Versatile Youth— Fewer Cotton Pickers Needed—Poor Clara —Why Not Young Bob?

ACCORDING to the Commercial and Financial Chronicle, a total of 45,381 acres had been planted to cotton on the current year, the largest in the history of the United States. This represents a gain of nearly 3,000,000. Texas is one of the states where the increased acreage has been very large. This is one of the reasons why the guessers are predicting a crop ot more than 15,000,000 bales. This is early July. It will be necessary to wait until early September to make a real guess as to the yield in Texas this year.

Clara Kimball Young, the movie star, takes a salary of $15,000 a week. Clara has many creditors in the city of New York. new judge has made an order that the dashing star must set aside $1,400 of her salary each week for the benefit of New York creditors while she is in California.

Miss Young entered a plea of poverty. She told the judge that it was almost impossible to live on a salary of $15,000 a week, but the court said that those who dance must pay the piper. In other words, if one buys on credit one must pay when the bills are presented.

This sounds logical, and Miss Young should be wise enough to know it. She has made a fortune in her time and she should follow the advice of President Coolidge and live within her income.

SINCE woman won the ballot the widows of congressmen claim the right to be the successors to their departed husbands. California started it. Two veteran congressmen died. The widows became F. C.'s. Then Massachusetts fell into line and Mrs. Rogers was elected as the successor of her departed one. She defeated the democrats by 13,000 majority.

In wartime she won the title of "The angel of the hospital." Most of the women of the district and all the service men cast their ballots for the widow. Miss Florence Sterling of Houston must have been right when she said that a single woman has no chance to win political honors, but single women started in as winners after the ballot had been won.

Miss Rankin of Montana was the first woman congressman. She was a spinster lady. Then came Miss Alice Robertson of Oklahoma. Miss Robertson is a spinster lady. These ladies failed of reelection. Then the widows come to the surface and now when a congressman dies it is the proper thing in politics to permit his widow to serve as his substitute until such time as the voters of the district may change their minds.

Who will be the first Texas congressman to pass over the great divide and give his widow a chance to push her face into the public picture gallery? Ladies first!

A GOVERNMENT OFFICIAL has let it be known that 50,000 fewer cotton pickers will be required in Texas this year than last. There has been no difficulty in supplying the demand for labor in Texas thus far in the year 1925. This in spite of the fact that under the new immigration law there has been less than a third as many Mexicans laborers entering the United States as last year.

In the ten months period ending June 1, this year only 24,608 Mexicans entered as compared with 72,275 in that period last year. There are thousands used in the beet fieds of Utah and Colorado but most of the Mexican immigrants are used to pick cotton in Texas, New Mexico and Arizona.

California calls for a vast number of Mexican laborers in season and they are going to the coast in droves from the lower country. That is, from the southwestern states. Texas has a population of 400,000 Mexicans. They are needed to do the rough work. They are needed on the sheep ranches. They are needed where there is land to be cleared. Thy are needed by the building contractors. White men are no longer rough workers.

HOW THE LAW WORKS

Over nine thousand foreigners ambitious to become citizens of the United States have been kept out of the country by the operation of the selective immigration law during the last year, and the total number of immigrants admitted for the year on July 1 will closely approximate 164,000 quota allowance. Now the labor leaders of the country are for shutting out the Canadians and the Mexicans. It may come to this at last. This should force the coming of fancy wage scales in the United States.

Cancer.

Today's planetary aspects are much more encouraging than those of yesterday and the signs denote that the conditions are very favorable for all conservative enterprises, and especially so for literary and artistic efforts. There will be encountered a clarity of vision, together with a determination to hustle, that, if taken advantage of, will spell achievement. The indications point to the fact that efforts made on individual initiative will be more productive of success than those in which a community of interests has a part. Stimulating vibrations in the evening presage an atmosphere of felicity and harmony.

Whereas a boy born today will be subjected to more or less serious sickness during its infantile stage, a girl will experience nothing but normal physical conditions. They will both, however, with proper care and environment attain a healthy maturity. In character and disposition they will be, in their childhood, permanent rays of sunshine, as their winning, sweet ways will be more than usually attractive. As they develop into manhood and womanhood they will, still preserving the characteristics that distinguished them in their youth, radiate happiness and contentment. They will both be very partial to outdoor sports and recreations, and more attentive to these than to study. This does not mean that they will be lazy or negligent. On the contrary, they are destined to be successes—both morally and materially.

If today is your birthday, your garrulousness is your besetting weakness, and your inability to keep anything to yourself renders you an unfit recipient for the confidences of your friends. You are very intense, take yourself altogether too seriously, and are very susceptible to flattery—so much so, in fact, that, as a consequence, you often are the victim of schemers. You ignore the old, but serviceable, adage that you should "love all men and trust a few." You are very painstaking and conscientious, and your integrity is beyond cavil or doubt, but you trade or rely too much on the assumption that all others are built on the same lines.

Your love is spontaneous, wholesouled and pure, and it would take you long to recover from the shock of a shattered ideal.

HOW IT STARTED

The Circus.

What a thrill for the youngsters in the announcement "the circus is in town." And grown-ups, too, are its eager patrons. The circus is a relic of a form of entertainment of the ancient Romans from whom its takes its name, the Latin "circus" meaning ring or circle was the name given by the Romans to the space in which they held chariot races and contests between beasts and men. They derived the name from the circuit made by the horses and the chariots as they raced.

It is a far cry, however, between the modern circus and the circus ring of ancient Rome, to which its ultimate origin is traced. The circus as we know it today did not come into existence until a few hundred years ago. The nearest approach to it up to that time was found in roving entertainers, acrobates, jugglers, exhibitors of skilled animals called in England "gleemen," presumably from the fact that they were supposed to produce joy and glee.

The circus came into its modern form with Philip Astley, born in 1742 at Newcastle-Under-Lyme. Originally a horseman of extraordinary skill, Astley built for his exhibitions the first modern circus ring in England, a great empty space surrounded by unroofed seats, and met with such great success in the venture that he became known as the "father of the modern circus."

The famous circus man in America, of course, was Barnum. But though Barnum developed the circus to an extent never before known, he was not, as was Astley in England, its originator here. The first circus performance showman being one Thomas Pool.

IRRIGATION

THE FENCE AROUND LAKE KEMP.

During the past several months one of the main topics of discussion, not only in Wichita Falls, but in many other cities of North Tex... has been the fencing of Lake Kemp by W. T. Waggoner on whose land the lake lies. The lake has in the past few years been visited by untold thousands of people and is famed far and wide as the best fishing place in this section of the state. Its crystal clear waters and immense size impress every visitor favorably.

While Mr. Waggoner has been freely condemned the irrigation district board has also had its share of critics. This has been especially true here in the city where many people feel that through some error on the part of the board they are going to be deprived of privileges for which they have paid their money. Lake Kemp was built with funds provided by the citizens of Wichita Falls and no one else. Every taxpayer is paying for it. Naturally they resent having to pay toll to use the thing they have already paid for.

While a great many people are discussing and criticising very few of them have any real knowledge of the rights of either party or of any provision of the contract which exists between the board and Mr. Waggoner. Nor do they have knowledge of the conditions which surrounded the making of the contract.

As a matter of information to the public and in justification of certain acts of the board in securing the land on which Lake Kemp is located we will in future articles go into the matter in some detail.

meet the situation. She had forced herself to laugh and mingle with people. She had steeled herself to meet Coralie and Ronald, to congratulate them in a way that made Coralie squirm self-consciously and Ronald stare with helpless admiration. But she never alluded to the past in any way.

In those years it almost seemed as if she had grown taller. She carried herself proudly, and there was a distinguished look about her that made people turn to look after her as she passed them in the street. Beside her, colorful women looked blowsy, overfed, ordinary. She was like a princess with her ivory-tinted skin and her violet eyes, and her slim, boyish body.

Sometimes when they met, Ronald would look at her when she was not aware of it. He and Coralie were very happy with their two fine, fat babies. He still loved Coralie, she still drew him with that radiance of hers. But cometimes he felt when he looked from Coralie to Edith that his wife was just a bit obvious. She was like clear water under sunlight, while Enid was like some dim, forest pool. Coralie was growing plump as well. Her girlish curves had expanded to others that were slightly too generous. But Ronald loved her, he adored her when they were alone, or romping with the children. But when he saw her in the same room with Enid, something caught at his heart. There was something so mysterious about Enid. One might live with her a lifetime and never really know her as he knew Coralie.

Ronald was present on the night that Enid first met Lucien Grant. He was standing quite near her when the introduction took place, and as he looked from her to Lucien, something stirred in him. It was an emotion queerly akin to jealousy.

Enid wore a dress of daffodil satin made very straight and long. The color made her ivory skin look golden under the lights; it made her violet eyes more shadowy than ever.

She raised her eyes to Lucien's to acknowidge the introduction, and extended her slim hand. Her manner was gracious, but one could see that no emotion stirred in her. To her the introduction meant nothing, she was simply being pleasant.

With the man it was different!

There was a beam in his gray eyes as they fastened on the girl's face, there was eagerness in the way he bent toward her. His whole manner was one of enforced restraint. It struck Ronald that if it had been possible, Lucien would have caught Enid up in his arms and carried her off with him, but Enid was entirely unaware that there was anything dramatic about the situation. She would have laughed at the idea of Lucien's falling in love with her at first sight.

That night when they were alone, Ronald spoke to Coralie about it.

"I think Lucien Grant has fallen in love with Enid."

Without turning around from her dressing table, Coralie answered characteristically:

"Well, what's strange about that?"

Ronald was silent, and finally Coralie wheeled about and faced him.

"What's the matter, darling? Not jealous, are you?"

He laughed, and going over to her, drew her into his arms. But even with her golden head pillowed against his breast, he thought of Enid, of her mystery, of her shadowy, violet eyes. Strangely enough, the thought of Enid married to any one else was distasteful to him.

CHAPTER III.

Enid Makes Plans.

The courtship of Lucien Grant's was a headlong thing. Perhaps it was because of this, because his love for Enid was so intense an emotion that he failed to see the lack of response in her. She was always gracious with him. He found her a stimulating companion, but his love for her was an emotion he had never experienced before. He found himself at 41, as ardent as a schoolboy. Man of the world that he was, he was often at a loss in her presence. But that she had any guile in her, that she was anything but a beautiful, intelligent woman, that she had any ulterior motive in mind, he never even suspected.

Enid accepted his attentions together with his flowers, at first unthinkingly and at last with a definite purpose.

During the three years since Ronald had left her, she had thought a great deal, and now at 26, she felt that she knew what she wanted. Most of all, she wanted a home of her own. She wanted to entertain in her own way, and a husband was a convenience that she saw no reason for doing without. She liked Lucien's looks, she liked the strength of his face, the power in his sinewy body. That he was no more trustworthy than other men, she hadn't a doubt in the world, but that didn't deter her from the thought of marriage with him. Her idea was to pick out the best man she could find and use him as a convenience.

But her thoughts went deeper than this. There was a more ulterior motive behind her plan than the mere wish to be married. She experienced a feeling of delicious joy at the thought of deceiving a man as she had been deceived. If Lucien thought she was soft, if he believed that there was a bit of yielding in her, he would find later that he was wrong.

She would marry for selfish reasons, not love. It was a satisfaction to feel that she could never be hurt again, that nothing could ever reach her, and it was so that Enid waited for Lucien to speak.

It happened one night when they had returned from the theatre. She was sitting before the piano, playing soft little chords in a rambling, desultory way, when quite suddenly, he swooped down on her. There was no other word to describe adequately his movement. His eagerness, his love of her so long repressed, now rose up breaking all barriers. His one thought was to hold her in his arms to try to tell her what was in his heart, and before she was aware of what he intended to do, she was in his arms.

She suffered a moment of intense revulsion. In her thoughts she had not dwelt very much on the love-making part of it. Ronald had always been gentle with her, largely because she had not aroused any very intense emotion in him as Coralie had. Lucien's swooping down upon her was different from anything she had ever experienced before, and for a moment she stiffened and became almost rigid. His arms around her were like steel. she felt locked in, trapped, and a feeling of breathlessness swept over her.

Then he was pressing her head back so that he could reach her lips. His kiss held an eternity of longing in it.

From a great distance she heard his voice speaking to her, telling her that he loved her, that he wanted her unspeakably. He was asking her to be his wife.

Enid had an impulse to tear herself out of his arms. In that moment when he seemed to dominate her with his strength, she hated him and wanted to tell him so. She longed to fling hot, fiery words at him, to tell him that she loathed him as she did all men. She wanted to tell him that she had purposely led him on just for the pleasure of hurting him, but she did none of these things.

She forced herself to relax. She lay against him limp and unresisting, her long lashes resting against her cheek. With a muffled exclamation, he touched his lips to her eyes. He took it for granted that she loved him.

CHAPTER IV.

Marriage.

Four weeks later Enid became the wife of Lucien Grant. Everything had gone exactly as Enid had planned it. Her wedding had been perfect, small and very exclusive, and she had been gay as she had never been before in her life.

She had wanted to create a certain impression among the people who knew what had happened to her three years ago. She wanted them to realize that in this match she was doing better than she would have done if she had married Ronald.

Lucien had not only plenty of money, but he had breeding and distinction. He was decidedly a catch. She thought this now as she sat opposite to him in the compartment of a fast train, and yet there was no softening in her heart toward him. He was a man and like all other men, not to be trusted.

The compartment was fragrant with flowers. In the rack was Enid's black leather traveling case next to the stalwart pigskin one of Lucien's. It was all very delightful, and as the train sped through the country, Enid fixed her violet eyes on the flying landscape, and there was more than ever a look of mystery in them.

Lucien leaned toward her. He wanted to come and sit beside her, to take her in his arms, to make love to her, but somehow he didn't. There was a tantalizing air of remoteness about her. He had felt it before, during the time of their engagement. Sometimes he felt that she shrank from him, and then he would laugh at himself. He was too much in love with her, that was the trouble. He must not allow himself to give way to foolish imaginings.

Enid's reserve was one of the qualities he liked best in her. Her aloofness too, was something he admired. He hated an obvious woman like Coralie Brainerd, her glad radiance was tiresome. No, Enid was perfect just as she was, and he was sure that behind her reserve there was a warmth of nature that would eventually respond to his ardor. Outwardly she was cool, remote, aloof, but it was only because of the fires that burned within.

"What are you thinking of?" he asked finally. "You seem so far away from me when you look off into the distance like that."

Her violet eyes came back to him, and she smiled.

"I was thinking of how smoothly everything went today," she said brightly. "There wasn't a hitch anywhere. It was all quite perfect."

"You're not tired?"

"Oh, no," she returned quickly, I'm never tired. You have no idea how strong I really am."

He was conscious of a sense of disappointment although he could not understand why he should feel that way. But how absurd it was to be talking generalities at a time like this. They were lovers starting on their honeymoon. This was no time for casual conversation, they ought to be close mentally and yet to hear them talk they might have been no more than friends.

He rose and crossed the compartment to her.

As usual when she knew that he was going to take her in his arms, Enid stiffened. She could not help this. She hated the feeling of personal subjection that she felt whenever she was close to him. In his arms sh elost her individuality and became a part of him.

He sat down beside her and drew her into his arms. She did not resist, not even when he removed her hat and ruffled up her soft brown hair. This was one of the things she had to endure at least for the present. Later, perhaps, it would be different, later when he realized that she disliked having him touch her, he would be too proud to bother her with his love-making.

He tipped back her head, and as usual when she knew that he was about to kiss her, her eyes closed. It was then that he spoke.

"Open your eyes, darling. I want to ask you a question."

CHAPTER V.

"Do You Love Me?"

Enid opened her eyes as Lucien had asked her to do, but even then with her face so close to his, he could not read her expression. There was still that baffling remoteness like a barrier between them, and even though he held her in his arms, she was far away from him.

"Do you know that you have never once said that you loved me?"

Enid laughed lightly and drew back from him.

"I married you, unless I am mistaken," she parried.

"Does that mean that you do?" he said quickly. "Somehow I'd like to have you say the words."

"I don't find it as easy to put my thoughts into words as you do," she said quickly. "Deep feeling always leaves me tongue-tied."

Again she was looking out of the window as though her thoughts were winging away from him. He caught her almost roughly against him. Over and over again he kissed her small heart-shaped face, and as always he seemed to feel that almost intangible shrinking from him. He drew back to look at her, and for a moment he fancied that he saw a cold dislike look out at him from her eyes. Then again she was smiling at him.

"We two are not made of the same materials," she said at last. She was determined to keep the matter in hand, to be light with him. It was the only way to handle the situation.

The Gay Little Handholder.

In these days when promiscuous "petting" is so much indulged in, and so little thought of, the question of holding hands doesn't seem a particularly stirring one.

In fact most people hold hands nowadays, without realizing they're doing it.

You know, you'll meet lots of handholders at a dance—they'll hold your hand while they wait between dances for the music to start again, and they'll hold it about five minutes after they've been introduced to you, and perhaps if you've made a hit with them, they'll follow you out to the cab to say goodnight, holding your hand all the way.

However, it is not of the male of the species that I wish to speak today.

I am going to take up the weighty question of the girl who holds hands on the slightest provocation, and thinks she's making a great impression in doing so.

She's the sort of girl who rushes up to one of her boy friends, seizes his hand gently but firmly and asks him some perfectly trival question such as: "Have you seen Carol? I'm looking for her everywhere."

If she's in the more advanced stages, she's apt to seat herself on the arm of some boy's chair, and stroke his hand tenderly.

Dont' tell me there aren't such girls, because I've seen at least four out of every houseparty I ever attended.

When one of these professional handholders gets firmly attached, it's mighty hard to persuade her to break away, too.

Now why do you suppose she indulges in this tender sport

Simply because she thinks it will make the victim think more sentimentally of her.

She feels that by this little act of intimacy and tenderness, she will waken in the heart of him whose hand is forcibly held, a spark of sentimental interest—perhaps of love.

She wants to show him that she likes him—that she thinks of him more than she does of others, and so she takes this rather obvious way of showing it.

In short she does a little wooing, herself.

But the joke is usually on her.

For if she practices this gentle little caress on a sophisticated boy, he will be inclined to indulge in a brief laugh —nothing more.

If he's been to college, or has been around at all, he will recognize this device, and will be impressed neither one way or the other.

On the other hand, if he is an unsophisticated boy, he will be rather put out by this direct method, and he will doubtless feel that the lady rather cheapens herself by her too frequent hand-holding.

Either way the girl loses, which is a very good argument indeed against the professional handholder.

Building Permits In Day Set New Record

A new daily record for building permits in July was set Monday when nine permits sued by City Clerk W. E. McBroom totaled $137,200. One permit for $90,000 for a garage and one for a $35,000 apartment house brought the sum to the big figure.

The garage, on which work has already been started, is being erected by J. P. Barkley, local oil operator, at 606-8 Scott avenue. It is to be of reinforced concrete and brick, three stories in height and with dimensions of -00 by 150 feet. The permit calls for its completion within three months.

The apartment house is to go up at Ninth and Denver and will be built by Mrs. F. B. Jackson Jr. It is to be two stories, of ornamental brick, 40 by 60 and will have four high-class apartments. It will be finished within four months.

The balance of the permits were for smaller structures, mostly moderate priced residences.

HARRIS COUNTY LIKELY TO GET 7-CENT TAX REDUCTION

HOUSTON, July 13.—Promise of a 7-cent reduction in Harris county taxes for the coming year is seen in the recommendations made the commissioners court Monday by County Apditor H. L. Washburn.

Mr. Washburn's recommendation was that the tax rate for the coming year be made 87 cents on the $100 valuation, or 7 cents less than the rate this year.

Now Showing At the Palace Theatre

District Court Will Try Criminal Cases

Trial of criminal cases will continue steadily in the 30th district court for the next two weeks, it was announced Monday by District Attorney Ben Allred. One case was tried Monday and several additional settings have been made for Wednesday of this week, Monday and Wednesday of next and Monday and Wednesday of the week following.

The cases set include the murder trial of Fairella McJunkin, negress, on Wednesday, July 29. The negress is under indictment for the death of L. N. Carroll, a Denver brakeman, who was shot and fatally injured Sunday, June 22.

The following cases have been set:
C. A. Graham, robbery with firearms.

PERMIT SUNDAY GAS STATIONS

Houston to Offer No Interference, Is Report.

HOUSTON, July 13.—Filling stations in Houston that wish to remain open on Sunday may do so without fear of interference on the part of the city, it became known Monday when Assistant City Attorney J. H. Painter informed the city council that any ordinance tending to close the gasoline stations would not be legal.

A state law which required Sunday closing recently was repealed and Mr. Painter is of the opinion that a city ordinance would be in conflict with the intent and provisions of the repeal.

Intent to Murder Case Nearing End

Both sides had rested at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon when court adjourned after a day spent in the trial of Estes Lloyd Kiker, under indictment on a charge of assault with intent to murder. The charge of Special Judge Vincent Stine, sitting in the 30th district court on an exchange of benches with Judge H. R. Wilson, will be delivered to the jury Tuesday morning and arguments of counsell will begin.

Kiker is alleged to have beaten J. B. Scarbrough, night attendant at the Holliday creamery in an altercation last February. Scarbrough was painfully hurt when struck on the head with a hammer. Kiker was arrested the next day, charged with the assault.

On the stand Monday afternoon, he declared self defense was his motive in attacking Scarbrough.

The state's case is being handled by District Attorney Ben Allred, former District Attorney James V. Allred and Assistant District Attorney George Anderson. Kiker is being defended by H. F. Weldon and Ralph Mathis.

Tourist Park Doing Rush Business Here

Tourists from all parts of the south are registering each night at the municipal tourist camp in Scotland park, W. D. Timmons, caretaker of the camp, asserted Monday. He said that 119 different cars were accommodated at the camp last week and that 26 were on the ground Sunday night.

It is a healthy class of tourists Wichita Falls is getting, declared Mr. Timmons, for he has found his guests of the quiet, thoughtful type that are genuinely appreciative of the advantages of the park.

"They are of the fairly welltodo class that are out for a summer vacation," Mr. Simmons said. "A world of them come from Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio and Galveston, and 99 per cent of them are on their way to Colorado. We're also getting a world of tourists from Tampa, Fla. They're all going north now, but along about the first or middle of August they'll begin to drift back the other way."

The camp is an animated scene each evening with scores of the transients busy with games, repairs to cars, books or the playground apparatus provided in Scotland park, adjoining the camp.

DOG STAR GIVES THRILLS

Rin-Tin-Tin Coming To Olympic In "Tracked In The Snow Country"

New thrills are introduced by Rin-Tin-Tin in "Tracked in the Snow Country," the Warner Bros. Classic of the Screen, which begins an engagement Wednesday at the Olympic theatre. The wonderful German shepherd dog in the picture even outdoes the sensational stunts of "Where the North Begins."

Rin-Tin-Tin is in a class by himself as a dog star, and his performance in "Tracked in the Snow Country" makes it easy to understand the popularity of pictures in which he appears. Not only is he a remarkable specimen of the canine family, but his acting is continuously thrilling.

This time he is cast as a wolf-dog born of a race of man-killers. The story tells how he tracks the murderer of his master. In doing so the dog is seen in some of the most thrilling fights ever depicted on the screen, one in particular with Mitchell Lewis, that is a hair-raiser. In that scene he is imprisoned in the mine. With a sensational leap he frees himself, pursuing the villain across the frozen river, pushing him back into the icy waters again and again to final death.

"Tracked in the Snow Country" is a picturization of Edward Meagher's dramatic story of the Far North, and was directed by Herman Raymaker. The cast includes June Marlowe David Butler, Mitchell Lewis Charles Sellon and Princess Lea. The beautiful photography is the work of Ray June.

Convention Report Made to Kiwanians

The Wichita Falls Kiwanis club was given an official report, yesterday noon at the weekly luncheon on the international convention of the club held last month at St. Paul.

Dr. Felix R. Collard and Robert McCullough, representatives from the local club, gave an account of their activities while at the meeting. Both men voiced the opinion that the convention was the most successful held to their knowledge by the international organization. Dr. Collard stated that many good features meant to help the single club, were brought out at the meet and some of them could in time be practiced in the local organization.

VICTIMS ARE BURIED WHILE SLAYER DIES

Loveland Mcther and Child Laid to Rest as Graham Dies in Hospital

FREDERICK, Okla., July 13. — While funeral services for Mrs. Mel Matchens and her daughter, Laura, of Loveland, who were fatally shot Friday evening, were being held in a church at Grandfield yesterday afternoon, their slayer, M. L. Graham, also of Loveland, was sinking lower in a Frederick hospital.

He died at 5:45 o'clock.

Murder charges had been filed against the man, who had shot and cut himself in an attempt to commit suicide, after he had killed the mother and daughter, and shot the right thumb off another daughter, over a dispute concerning Matchen cattle, said to have been astray in an unfenced cotton patch belonging to Graham, who is a transfer man here. The charges were not pressed and the wounded man was not arrested due to his critical condition.

Graham is survived by a widow and five children. Mrs. Graham is reported in a serious condition in a hospital here. Mrs. Matchens is survived by her husband, two daughters and one son.

EPWORTH LEAGUERS MEET.

Today was the meeting of the district meeting of the Young People's Epworth league of the M. E. church which was held here. The morning was spent in a visit at the regular Sunday school and church meetings, with a picnic dinner at the city park with a basket dinner. An afternoon devotional meeting was held at 2:30. Delegates were present from the churches at Duncan, Marlow, Comanche, Ryan, Terral and Hastings with some rural league representatives.

TO ADOPT INFANT WAIF.

Mrs. Nelle Ward and her three children, the youngest of whom is 15, have announced their intention to adopt a five months old baby boy who was left in the auto belonging to Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Smith of Cleburne, March 1. The Smiths, who are related to Mrs. Ward, were spending some time on the Brazos river hunting and returned to their car to find a tiny two weeks old baby boy, with the regulation note pinned to his dress, asking that he be taken care of and stating that his name was James. Mrs. Smith, who has two children of her own and who is in poor health brought the little red headed child to Mrs. Ward this week who is very anxious to adopt him.

PREPARE COUNTY BUDGET.

The principal business before the commissioners court this week has been the preparation of the financial statement and the budget for the next fiscal year. There will be no ad-valorem road tax this year and owing to that the tax rate will probably be but from 8 to 5 mills. The assessed valuation of the county will probably be $13,500,000, and this will allow the commissioners to make a levy of 5 mills for county government purposes, thus eliminating any further judgments to cover deficiencies. There will also be no levy for the sinking fund, as it is already in excess of that required to retire the bonded indebtedness. Tom Dorsett is the chairman of the board, with A. L. Dunkin and Dan Cathey as the other members.

COUNTY AGENTS RETAINED.

The county commissioners this week voted to retain the services of both the county agent, C. S. Mitchell, and the home demonstration agent, Miss Jeffie Thompson. There was a sentiment to discontinue the work but the commissioners were visited by large delegations from all over the county asking that the work be continued.

BIG JUSTICE REPORT.

According to the county records, Chas. Stephens, one of the justices of the peace, filed this month one of the best quarterly reports that has ever been filed with commissioners court. He had turned over to the treasurer of the county in fines and attorney fees $454.

JURY COMMISSION MEETS.

A. McCrory of Ringling, Tom Roberts of Ryan, and G. A. Nelson, constituting the jury commission for Jefferson county met this week and prepared a new list of jurors for the jury box, this being the second one for the year. The new list was necessary, not only for the Ted Elliott assault case of Duncan which will be tried in Waurika beginning July 13, but also for the regular term of court to be held in September.

5,000 MINERS IN OKLAHOMA TALK STRIKE

Okmulgee Men Hear Union Leaders, Urge Them To Stand Fast

OKMULGEE, Okla., July 13. — Preceded by a parade in which 1,000 cars are said to have participated, union coal miners of the Henryetta district staged demonstrations yesterday at Henryetta with an estimated attendance of 5,000.

Speeches were delivered by union leaders including William Dalrymple, president of district 21, United Mine Workers of America; David Fowler, Scranton, Pa.; and Dave Partain, Van Buren, Ark. The speakers urged the miners to stand fast for the Jacksonville agreement and refuse to work under the 1917 scale.

Union miners and operators have been locked in a wage disagreement for weeks in the Henryetta district. Several mines as a result are operating on an open shop basis.

Commerce Cashier Arrested for Theft

HOUSTON, July 13.—L. B. Wooters, formerly assistant cashier of the National Bank of Commerce, was arrested by federal agents this morning on a charge of violating the federal banking laws. He is charged with making false entries and embezzling. W. K. Bowling, department of justice agent, served the warrant on Wooters and placed him in custody.

Jesse H. Jones, president of the National Bank of Commerce, stated that Wooters had resigned from the bank about 90 days ago, when, Jones said, irregularities were discovered. The amount involved was about $11,000 all of which was promptly paid by members of Wooters' family, it was stated.

Elks by Thousands Arrive in Portland

PORTLAND, Ore., July 13.—(AP) Thousands of Elks today poured into Portland to join the throngs already here for the opening of the sixty-first annual reunion of the grand lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

Colorful decorations, band and vocal music and flowers greeted the visitors. Each delegation was met by an official.

The opening exercises of the grand lodge convention will be held at the municipal auditorium tonight.

GENERAL FUND MAY GET MUCH OF GAS TAXES

Three-Fourths of Money May Revert to The State Treasury

AUSTIN, July 13.—Exact status of approximately $9,000,000 to be collected the next two years from gasoline collections is to be decided by the attorney general. S. H. Terrell, comptroller, submitted the question late today.

Failure of the 39th legislature to appropriate the three-fourths of the money to the highway commission, as did the thirty-eighth legislature, reverts about $6,750,000 to the general revenue fund, Comptroller Terrell contends. The remainder of the $2,250,000 will go to the available free school fund, as the constitution provides, he explained.

Recently both Mr. Terrell and former Governor James E. Ferguson predicted that if the gasoline tax revenue went to the general revenue fund, a reduction in taxes probably would be made at a meeting of the state automatic tax board July 20.

Fall Fails to Stop Man's Flight Plans

DALLAS, July 13.—Determination of F. K. Cherry, formerly of Columbus, Ohio, to fly back there in an airplane has not been shaken by a 100-foot fall yesterday in a plane which he had recently purchased especialy to make the trip. After a few tail spins he believes he is competent to pilot the machine. Though badly shaken himself, his injuries were not otherwise serious.

"It won't happen again," he told emergency physicians. "I'm going to buy another plane tomorrow and try again—more carefully."

Escalator Members Hear Good Program

An interesting program was enjoyed by member of the Escalator class and their friends at the weekly devotional hour. A pleasing duet, "Come Unto Me," was sung by Misses Loreign Russell and Macie McClure. Mrs. M. P. Albritton played a solo, "The Lost Dream," at the piano and was followed by Dr. Sweeton, who gave an inspirational talk. About fifty-five people were present.

Announcement was made that the regular business meeting of the class will be held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the church. All officers and members are urged to be present.

NO NEW BODIES FOUND IN RUIN OF KATY TRAIN

One Survivor Claims That Three More Must Have Perished

TAYLOR, July 13.—Wreckage of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas freight train which burned after being wrecked south of here yesterday had been cleared away this afternoon, without the finding of any evidence of other bodies believed to have been consumed in the flames. One of the survivors declared that three men besides the three known to have burned to death must have perished. So intense was the heat fo the burning debris, it was regarded likely that the bodies were burned to ashes.

Price Ellison of Taylor, negro, believed to have boarded the freight train here, is still missing.

The only possible clue to the identity of the men cremated was found today. It was part of a mill pay envelope, dated June 13, 1925, and numbered 1292. The name and address were burned away.

Woman Believes She Is Paralyzed; Sends For the Ambulance

DALLAS, July 13.—A woman called the emergency hospital here last night and in a feeble voice informed attendants she was dying, her voice trailing off as she muttered the address. After an unusually hurried call the physician found the woman in a highly nervous state, but a hasty examination showed her condition was not serious. When so informed, the woman replied:

"Well, I may not die, but I know my entire face is paralyzed." This was soon disproved and she was finally convinced she was the victim of a nightmare.

ASLYUM HEADS CONFER

Six Insane Institute Men Talk On New Bill.

AUSTIN, July 13.—(AP)—Superintendents of six Texas insane asylums, were were in conference here today with the board of control on the "eleemosynary bill," passed by the 39th legislature, to establish two wards, one in Dallas and the other in Galveston.

No appropriation was made for the establishment of the wards, but the conferees determined to carry out as far as possible, other provisions of the measure, which provide for the temporary detainment and treatment of persons afflicted with mild forms of mental derangement.

JAP LABORERS CARRIED OFF

Mob Takes Foreigners to County Line And Dumps Them.

TOLEDO, Ore., July 13.—Overcoming the resistance of armed guards of the Pacific Spruce corporation's mill at Toledo, Ore., a mob of about 400 men, women and children rounded up the company's Japanese laborers yesterday loaded them and their belongings into motor cars and trucks and carried them beyond the county line, leaving them to drift for themselves.

No weapons were used in the fighting with the guards but fist fights were general and several of the mill force and townsmen were severely beaten.

BAPTISTS REAFFIRM BIBLE

Evolution Opposed by Texas Encampment

SAN ANGELO, Texas, July 13.—An estimated 5,000 people attending Sunday night's services at the West Texas Baptist encampment at Christoval, 20 miles south of here unanimously adopted a resolution reaffirming their belief in the Bible account of creation, as opposed to evolution. They expressed sympathy for "our brethren in every section of America and the world who are contending for 'the faith once for all delivered to the saints' and assured fundamentalists everywhere that 'we are their brothers in a like precious faith'."

More Truth Than Poetry

RESTORED PRIDE

For many and many a weary year,
When Europeans came
And asked, "What ruins have you here?"
We bowed our head in shame.
"Alas!" said we, "the country round
Though keenly one may search,
No moated granges can be found—
No crumbled Gothic church.
Well may you view us with disgust
As I perceive you do,
In point of ruins we're a bust;
This country's too darned new.
"Our open spaces are immense,
Our mountains tall and steep,
Through forests tropically dense
Our mighty rivers sweep.
But when it comes to antique stuff
That ancient folk have built,
We never try to run a bluff—
But simply have to wilt.
We pile our gold, like hay, in stacks—
We're rich in that old chap,
But as to prehistoric shacks,
You back us off the map."
And now the papers print long lists
Of ruins, which this year
Were found by archeologists
On this our hemisphere.
Our mighty forests they have felled,
And turned up an array
Of ruins which were here withheld
In Tu-Tankh-Ahmen's day;
Well may the Europeans stare
When they receive this shock,
Now they've got nothing over there
That we can't beat a block!

ONCE UPON A TIME — THE THREE LITTLE PIGS. III

Rip Bests Eberhard In Duel, So Spuds Nose Dallas, 2-1

Ed Hughes' Column

GREB ONE OF GREATEST.

Harry Greb's name will live as one of the greatest fighters of all time. At least we think so, and we commit our judgment with some explanations for same to the minds of our readers.

Greb must surely be listed as one of the truely great middleweights. His record at this poundage is below that of Bob Fitzsimmons. It is not quite so sensational as that of Stanley Ketchel. Yet it is but little below either of these when all-around performances are considered.

Fitzsimmons stands alone. He was sometimes scarcely more than a middleweight, as the type is scaled today, when he whipped the best heavyweights or his period bar one—James J. Jeffries. And Fitz scaled but 168 in the last memorable battle between these two celebrated fistcuffers. That is but eight pounds more than Harry Greb weighed when he recently thrashed Mickey Walker.

Fitz's poundage ranged from 158 to ten pounds more. Inasmuch as this mightiest of fistic freaks accounted for such formidable heavies as Jim Corbett, Tom Sharkey and Gus Ruhlin, it can hardly be denied that he is the real pugilistic marvel of all time. And let it also be added that Fitz whipped one of the greatest of middleweight champions when he stopped Jack Dempsey, the nonpareil, in 13 rounds. Dempsey was on the down grade, it is true, but few who witnessed the Cornishman's display doubted he would have "taken the wonderful Dempsey" even in the latter's prime.

So much for Fitzsimmons.

KETCHEL A FIGHTING DEMON

Undoubtedly second place must be accorded to Stanley Ketchel. This picturesque ring type defeated more talented middleweights than has Harry Greb, one reason being there were more of this brand to be found a few years back.

Greb, excepting Jack Dillon and Bob Moha, has never been called upon to face such as Joe Thomas, Billy Papke, Willie Lewis, Hugo Kelly, Tony Caponi, Frank Klaus and Mike Twin Sullivan—that is say middleweights. Nor has he ever turned in a performance quite as impressive as Ketchel's famous knockout of Philadelphia Jack O'Brien. The first was scored six seconds before the final bell, and technically, therefore, is not listed as a k. o. Nevertheless, it really was such. In their second meeting Stanley capsized the cagey Philadelphian in three rounds.

Nevertheless Greb has shown more brilliantly against the heavyweights than did Ketchel. Ketchel fought but two really big men—Jack Johnson and Sam Langford. And these may well be scratched, neither "on their proper level." Johnson admitted his affair with Ketchel was a "frame." Ketchel attempted to double cross the big colored fellow, which accounted for Johnson's knockdown. Ketchel has ever since been applauded for this feat, whereas, there is little credit really due him for the stunt. Sam Langford was undoubtedly under a "pull" not to knock out the white man, when Ketchel and he fought six rounds in Philly. Langford could probably have flattened Stanley had he seriously tried.

Greb, as we say, has met more big men than did Ketchel. And, while little more than a middleweight, he has been amazingly successful. He has whipped Tom Gibbons, Billy Miske, Bill Brennan, Willie Meehan, Bet Levinsky, Gunboat Smith, Charley Weinert, Bartley Madden and Gene Tuney.

Now all of these men would have been "pie" probably for Ketchel at the latter's best. Still, that scarcely diminishes the glory which is Greb's for having accomplished the collective tricks. Among the bigger fellows only Gene Tunney ever got a decision over him, and their weights were about the same. Bob Fitzsimmons alone has excelled Harry Greb's achivements in the matter of winning from bigger and stronger fellows.

GREB WILLING TO FIGHT ANYONE

And Greb resembled Fitzsimmons in another way. Fits fought and whipped a heavyweight—Corbett—for the championship.

Greb was willing to essay such a task, but was never accorded the opportunity. He repeatedly challenged Jack Dempsey, but the latter passed the offer up. Jack never had much success whipping smaller men, particularly fellows with a crazy style, such as Greb adepts. Willie Meehan, for instance, twice obtained decisions over Dempsey in four-round bouts. Meehan was a clown, though Dempsey never saw anything funny about him. Meehan was too much of a puzzle to afford any good humor to Jack.

WOULD FOOL DEMPSEY

Greb's style would have been just the tactics to fool Dempsey, who prefers big, slow moving fellows he can land on. Harry's is the most unregulation technique the ring has probably ever witnessed. He shoots blows from any and all angles with such rapidity and accuracy that the thing seems planned.

As a matter of fact, Greb's style is entirely a product of instinct. This instinct seems to be guided by a kind providence, for his attacks are generally successful, the most baffling to guard against you can find.

For all that Greb has a smart fighting head, and he is as quick as a cat with his leads. In the Walker fight, he had little difficulty in smothering the powerful attack of the "Toy Bulldog." He outfought Mickey both at long and close range. He managed to keep Mickey lustily with either hand that happened to be free. Greb also uncovered a peculiar downward curving right swing which he cocked in back of the shoulder before releasing. It came so fast that Mickey was powerless to block it or get out of the way.

Greb, though a free and easy liver, seems immune from punishment. Walker's heaviest body blows not only failed to slow him up, but merely served to make him smile. And Greb is dead game, too.

Greb developed his remarkable endurance while working as a tinsmith in Pittsburgh. However, he found making "tin ears" for the boys a more lucrative proposition. He has been plying this trade for the last 12 years.

During this time he has suffered but one knockout and that one in his first year of fighting. Joe Chip, brother of the more illustrious George, turned the trick. Greb has been holder of two titles at the same time, one of the rare exploits of the ring. He whipped Tunney for the light-heavy title and then lost it to that gentleman. Greb gained his middle title from Johnny Wilson whom he licked on points in 15 rounds.

Greb is one of the real marvels of the ring. No doubt about that.

DOMESTICS WIN WITH BUT FIVE SAFE WALLOPS

Bodie and Query Double, And Golvin Singles For Runs

By BLONDY CROSS

Floyd Wheeler, the Kentucky financier who has certain connections with R. O. Harvey and company of this city, sent one of the Harvey interests, as a baseball addict humorously put it, a notch nearer a Texas league pennant Monday afternoon.

Now the wealthy Mr. Wheeler who indulges in professional baseball as a pastime and a means by which to keep physically fit, averred to Snipe Conley in Dallas the other day that he, Mr. Wheeler, could beat any team that Paul Wachtel, the well-known Fort Worth sallva expert, can tag it on. The scion of the artistocratic Blue Grass family immediately stepped out and defeated the Dallas team by a 3-2 score. And again Monday at the Harvey emporium the young Kentucky gentleman made good his assertion.

Ripper Wheeler, one of the Texas league's most effective right handers in the seasons 1922-23, is coming back! Again yesterday he turned in one of the cleverest bits of pitching performances staged over the circuit this year. Wheeler blanked the Dallas outfit for eight stanzas, was in trouble during this span but once, and then pulled through in great fashion. Dallas paired a double and a single in the ninth for a run, and then the game was over. Our noble Spudders had merely won another, taking the Herd into camp in the series opener, 2 to 1.

Win in Second

Karl Eberhard, midget Dallas right hander, also was in wonderful form. The ferocious shoulder bludgeoneer who but the day before had walloped the champion Cowtown hurlers all over the lot for a 12-5 victory, taking the Fort Worth series, two out of three, were held at bay with exception of one frame. The Spudders combed five safeties from Eberhard's delivery. Two of these were superfluous. The Tanner machine hit its victory stride in the second when two doubles, a single, and a fly to right were combined to annex the two markers. That was sufficient.

The scoring counter was held inviolate the rest of the way until in the ninth Conley's men rallied, but fell shy of overhauling the onward marching Wichita Falls club.

Miller started that ninth couplet with a larruping two-cushion drive against the left center boards. Kearns sent him to third with a pop single to port. Brovold forced Kearns at second, Distel making the play to Turgeon. Miller scored. Ripper was not out of it yet. Billings bounded to Golvin who turned and threw to Distel on the keystone in attempt to cut Brovold away. Umpire Coe called the runner safe. The play was close, very close. Up came Slimuel Love, the elongated southpaw, batting for Eberhard. Slimuel poled one almost on a line to center. Hearts flip-flopped, turned somesaults, and jumped up into mouths. But Carl Williams, the old Trojan, playing the middle pasture while Howard Fitzgerald was languishing on the bench with an injured hand, made a wild dash, and rattling catch of the streaking pill. Brovold was held to second. With that much out of the way, Ripper cut down on Paddy Bauman and Paddy bobbled out to the box for an easy toss away at first, ending the contest and giving the Spudders their fifth straight win over Dallas.

Freddy Cuts Up

The most striking performance of the day outside of the two wonderful pitching feats was the fielding work of little Freddy Dorman, the Spudder youngster at third. Freddy dashed all over the inner works, fielding brilliantly, and handling nine chances without a miscue. He may have erred in that he stole half the plays that Distel at short could have handled with ease, for Freddy cavorted from the Spudder dugout almost clear over to first base and did pull down a pop fly within 15 feet of the initial station.

Miller went through a busy afternoon for Dallas. He snagged seven hoists to right field, and cracked a pair of doubles out of four times up.

Both clubs went out in order in the opening round. With two away in the second, Kearns wafted a triple over Carl William's head, but the veteran got under Brovold's aviation to center for the third out. Ping led away in the Spudder portion of the inning with a streaking two-cushioner to right center. Turge hoisted out to right, and Bodie galloped to third after the catch. Golvin rifted a liner to the mid-sector, and Pingus checked in. Dorman struck out after menacing meanly with a series of bristling foulers. Golvin was trapped on a hit and run play when Query swung and connected with naught but thin ozone, but Kearns mussed up the play in tagging Walt and the Spudder was safe. Query came back and busted a hair-raiser to right center, to score Golvin standing up. It was a two-bagger. Wheeler rocketed to starboard, retiring the side.

Close Squeeze in Fifth

Dallas failed to indicate until the fifth, and then the situation became exceedingly torrid. Kearns opened up with an explosive drive to port for a base. Then Ripper issued a coupon to Brovold. Billings fouled to the Spudder dugout and Dorman loped over like an all-conference quarterback zigzagging through a broken field for a 20-yard gain around right end, side-stepped Sniper in the coacher's box, vaulted the dugout steps and pulled in the catch just over the top of the shed. Then Ripper struck out Eberhard. Bauman laced a bullet swat at Freddy, who made a herculean effort to turn the drive into a putout, but the spheroid eluded his grasp momentarily, and the batter beat the throw to first. It was an infield safety, loading the hassocks. Gross punched a whizzer at the box. Wheeler deflected toward third, and Freddy came in fast, scooped her up, and in one motion completed the play to first for the third out. The gang was on its toes, staging a heads up brand of ball.

Cal led off in the sixth with a bunt between the mound and third. The fleet one beat it out with time to spare, but could never get away from first. Distel and Williams aviated to the outer gardens, and Ping swished the breezes on his third strike.

FORT WORTH, July 13—Josephus Pate, the old master, of the Fort Worth Cats, hurled a no-hit, no run game—for seven innings here today. But he suddenly tired in that frame, and the Shreveport Sports connected with his delivery for eight hits in the seventh and eighth frames, chasing over four runs in the eighth, and Pate was forced to the showers with Walkup pitching the final round. Koney boosted his home run total to 30 by getting a pair in today's game. The Cats won, 10-5.

Frog Star Coaches At Colorado High

FORT WORTH, June 13.—Ralph "Big Jim" Cantrell, star three-sport athlete at T. C. U. for the last four years, has signed to coach at Colorado high school, according to Superintendent R. B. Norman.

Last year was the first time Colorado put a high school football team in the field for interscholastic competition, but a good record was made and a much better team is expected this season.

Walks and Errors Lead to Red Defeat Of Braves, 4 to 1

BOSTON, July 13.—(AP) — Bases on balls and errors were chiefly responsible for the defeat of Boston by the Cincinnati Reds today, 4 to 1. In the seventh inning, two hits and three bases on balls, one of the latter forcing in a run gave the visitors two runs. Bancroft had a good day at shortstop, while Pinelli excelled at third for the Reds. Hood, a new comer from the Virginia league made his first appearance for the Braves at second base. Score:

First Methodists Run Over Presbyterian Outfit For 12-4 Victory

VICTORS SLAP OVER NINE RUNS IN ROUND SIX

McMahon Slams Pair Of Triples In One Inning

Skipper Boone's First Methodist crew made it two in one day on the Twilight diamond Monday afternoon by virtue of a forfeit from the Floral Heights Methodist and a 12 to 4 win from the First Presbyterians. Ralph Walker was in form and held the Presbyterians on his hip until the sixth and final frame when behind an 11-run lead he let in three scores.

The Methodists were held to a 3 to 1 score until the last inning when they began to pound the agate with a vengeance. When the smoke had cleared off the field they had chased nine runs over the pan. Johnnie McMahon was the star of the game by collecting a pair of three-base knocks in two times at the bat in the sixth inning.

A single by McMahon and Kizziar's three-base blow netted one in the first for the Methodists. A walk, a triple an error and a single let in the two runs in the second.

The Presbyterians' first score came in the first inning. An error, a stolen base, an infield out and a passed ball scored the tally.

McMahon opened the sixth with a three-bagger. A single by G. Boone, a walk, Rawls' double, Cannon's single, an error, Ward's single, McMahon's second triple, G. Boone's infield hit, another outfield error and Gordon's walk sent over the Methodists' nine runs.

Singles by Burks, Hartt and Parker, followed by L. Taylor's three-base blow, netted the three runs of the Presbyterians in the sixth.

Enrollment For Rockne Coaching School Increases

AUSTIN, July 13.—The enrollment for the Rockne-Meanwell football and basket ball coaches school to be held at St. Edward's university, Austin, Texas, from August 1st to August 15th, is steadily increasing from day to day. As the date of this school draws near, athletic coaches from 15 or 18 states are realizing the opportunity to better themselves in their profession, by taking advantage of studying the advanced methods of basket ball and foot ball under these two men.

Coaches everywhere realize the opportunity offered because it is generally known that both Rockne and Meanwell not only go into detail on advanced football and basket ball, but they also give their student coaches a thorough working knowledge of their own individual systems of play. Meanwell says "I guarantee to teach in full the methods that I employ in my conference seasons." Rockne says, "I shall give the men an honest presentation of my methods."

The arrangement of the routine of the school is that the coaches will be able to take advantage of the work in both basket ball and football.

The one fault that many men have found with some coaches schools in the past is that those in charge do not give the student coaches something definite to take away with them. This is not true of Rockne and Meanwell. The popularity of their football and basketball school has been due to the fact that they make coaches by imparting the details of their own individual systems of play. "Just the work I need and just what I have been wanting," is a remark commonly heard among the coaches taking work under Rockne and Meanwell.

Martin Scores Technical Kayo On Johnny Curtin

NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP)—Eddie "Cannon-Ball" Martin of New York, former world's bantam weight champion, scored a technical knock-out over Irish Johnny Curtin of Jersey City tonight at the Queensboro Stadium when Curtis was unable to answer the bell for the seventh round. Commissioner William Muldoon ordered the fight stopped at the termination of the sixth round to save Curtin from further punishment. His jaw was fractured by a stiff right hand punch in the first round.

Curtin's right eye was badly cut in the fourth round and the blood streamed so freely that it impeded his vision. Martin's right hand was also injured in the first round by the punch that fractured Curtin's jaw.

The Passing Hour

By William B. Ruggles

THE SPELL

Pink-cheeked boys in their school-yard play—
The college star on his fishing way—
Kids from the gutters and rats from the docks,
Using alleys and corners from city blocks;
The spell that binds them all is the same—
The magic call of the baseball game—
It weaves their souls in the lure of the game.

The school-boy's play is over soon—
The college diamond fades in June—
The kids grow up! But the game goes on,
New recruits to the ranks are drawn
Under the spell of a lambent flame
That lives in the soul of the baseball game
That grips and binds to the thrill of the game!

The spell is there—but the heart must learn,
There is nothing in play that you do not earn;
A clay-shod god draws his votaries in
If all that he asks is the will to win—
Give and take, be it praise or blame,
Are what you must get from the baseball game—
All that have made it, these years—THE GAME.

The Fighting Man.

Mr. Damon Runyon is moved by a correspondent's letter to list the more prominent battlers of the day who are of Hebrew extraction, and the list begins to stretch out appealingly. There are three world's champions and any numbers of contenders in the list.

Actually if you view it without prejudice, the Runyon list constitutes not so much a defense against the charge bruited about through the ages that the Jew is not a fighting man as an explanation why he has not been.

Jewish battlers in the days of Mendoza were so scarce that that famous ringman is less celebrated because he was a great fistic artist than because he was a Jew. The simple facts in the case appear to be that the keen Semitic mind, busied in the art of accumulating wealth, could see no valid reason for engaging in fisticuffs. Ring progress, Lord knows, paid little enough until the present century. And there you have it. The showmanship of the ring has developed it to the point where success even of a moderate kind reaps a reward little short of miraculous. So today, the ranks of fistiana are thickly studded with alert young men who bear the two indelible brands of an unamalgamated race—the hooked nasal organ and the brightest of minds.

That they are champions and contenders in their new field is defense enough against the old charge that the Jew can not fight. And they bring to the resined canvas not only ability to swing their dukes, but the agile wits that have kept their race supreme in the marts of trade in spite of progrom and persecution that would have made a less resilient people curl up and quit.

The Analogy.

The ready aptitude with which the Jewish fighting man has taken up the trade once almost held in restraint by the Irish has its logical analogy in war. The Jew did not fight in the ring because his business trained mind could see only economic waste in the pursuit that brought no dividends.

For the past twenty centuries for the same reason, he has not gone to war unless his presence was urged by a corporal's guard under a draft officer or the threat of universal pogrom in a land where he had learned its meaning.

You could not say that the Jew had not proved his case as a fighting man. Further back than the days when the Maccabaeus boys were making life miserable for armies of occupation, the Jew (even allowing for the natural braggadacio of home histories) was holding his own with Mede, Persian and Philistine. In the succeeding years in which the tribes were scattered over the face of the earth and wringing a living from alien lands to which they certainly had no patriotic affiliation, they could find nothing in the allure of alleged glory to call them to the colors. The crusades must have been as amusing then as now to the thinking Semitic traders and the wars of Charlemagne, Barbarossa and the popes only jests upon the economic system.

Here and there down the sweep of the centuries, a Jew saw the financial possibilities. There was Massena, who rose from the ranks to become, in the opinion of hostile military critics, Napoleon's ablest marshal. War was a paying game to this Italian Jew, who became the duke of Rivoli and prince of Essling, who covered peculation on a wide scale with the mantle of military success, and died loaded with the honors of Bourbon as well as Bonaparte.

Whenever that doubtful time arrives when you can make war pay the individual participant returns something more material than iron crosses—and wooden ones—the Hebrew will take over the military trade, just as he is mastering now the occupation of Sullivan and Corbett.

Central Texas sportsmen inquire why a fish shrinks in size in given localities. The only fish familiar to Bill Holloway, the plumber, increase in ratio to the distance from the time of catching to the time of conversation.

Some men lie for profit
And some for guilt behind;
But the Lord must love a fisherman
Who lies for his peace of mind.

Texas Plays Its Part.

The United States army polo team, victorious in the annual challenge matches with the English service four, started for home aboard the Minnewaska on July 4.

It is significant of the heritage of horsemanship reputed to be the birthright of the Texan that the Lone Star tsate contributes two players to the makeup of the team numbering only 10 men—certainly far more than its quota from the roster of the states. Of the two, only one, Major Gerhard, acquired his polish in equitation at West Point, the other, Lieutenant Smith, being a reserve officer who got his military education at Leon Springs and his horsemanship at San Antonio. Incidentally, he is also a University of Texas product.

There must be something in the Centaur inheritance from the riders of the plains.

White Sox Bunch On Hoyt for 2nd Win Over Yanks

CHICAGO, July 13.—(AP)—Chicago bunched hits off Hoyt today and made it two straight from the Yankees, 8 to 4. Faber pitched in fine form, saving only one bad inning when two singles and a home run by Gehrig netted three runs. A base on balls and three pinch hitters in the ninth inning pushed over another run for the visitors. Johnny Mostil in addition to hitting safe in six sixteenth consecutive game, stole his twenty-ninth base of the season. Score:

Dexter Cummings Leads In First Qualifying Round

DETROIT, July 13.—(AP).—Scintillating even in a galaxy of golf stars, Dexter Cummings of Onwentsia club, Chicago, twice intercollegiate champion as a Yale student, today broke the amateur record for the Lochmoore club links with a wonderful 34-34-68, four under par, in the first qualifying round of the western golf campionship.

In addition to the low total, he equaled the low score on each nine. Cummings was the only player of the 129 who finished to break par, and only two men equaled perfect figures on the 6,780-yard links. The par shooters were Ruddy Knepper of Chicago, several times Iowa champion, and once holder of the intercollegiate title while at Princeton and Henry Comstock of Buffalo, hitherto unheralded in this event.

Only one above par were the scores returned by James Manion of St. Louis, fromer trans-Mississippi champion; Clarence Hubby of Dallas, Howard S. Chendorf, a former Northwestern university star, Rial Rolfe, formerly captain of the University of Illinois golf team, and R. A. Stranahan of Toledo, all of whom took 73.

Chick Evans of Chicago, eight times holder of the title, shot par on the first half, but eased up coming home, for a 38 and a total of 74. This score was shared by Dick Bockenkamp of St. Louis, Kenneth Hisert of Chicago, captain of the University of Chicago golf team, and Big Ten champion, Fred Lamprecht of Cleveland, recent winner of the intercollegiate crown for Tulane university. Joseph Bydolek and F. E. Wattles, Keefe Carter of Oklahoma City, who recently won the Oklahoma title, had to be content with a 78 as he took 40 for the first nine.

Ed Cornish of Little Rock, after a fair 39 on the first half took 42 blows to reach home. B. Robinson of Atlanta took 81, while E. J. Rogers of Oklahoma City had 82.

There were 32 scores of 76 or better today, so that those who qualify with the addition of tomorrow's socres apparently will have to total 152 or better for the two rounds, an exceptionally low figure for a major championship.

Bull Fight on At Fair Grounds For Final Show Tonight

Wichita Falls and Wichita county sport lovers are to be treated to another bull fighting exhibition at the fair grounds tonight, starting at 8:30. A fair sized crowd enjoyed the performance staged Monday night to such an extent that requests were made for a repeater.

Originally, the Pat Carrigan Post, American Legion, under whose auspices the shows have been put over, had intended to close with last night's performance. But because of the interest manifested another show is to be staged this evening.

The work of Chariot Molino, the "Charley Chaplin" of the bull arena, who was the headliner Monday night, went over big with the crowd. His injury defying tumbling acts with the wild Brahma bulls secured from the Lyons ranch brought the stands to their feet on numerous occasions.

Five more wild Brahmas will be brought in for tonight's performance, it was announced.

American Yacht And Britisher Even Up With Win Each

ROTHESAY, Scotland, July 13.—(AP)—The American yacht Lanai, challenger for the Seawanhaka cup, and the defender, the British yacht Coila, each has one race to her credit, the Lanai having left her opponent becalmed today, reversing the outcome of the first race on Saturday. The time of the Lanai was six hours, 34 minutes, 22 seconds.

The absence of a breeze again made the racing rather uninteresting and compelled its postponement until mid-afternoon, when a moderate southern breeze began to blow. At the end of the second leg the Lanai was a minute ahead, but the Coila gradually reduced the lead and at the end of the first round there was little difference in their relative positions.

The second round started in a better breeze, and the Lanai's tacking was superior to that in the first round. At the weather mark the American boat had increased her lead to 2½ minutes. She got home the winner just as another calm left the Coila in the middle of the first.

GOODRICH NEW 'CHAMPION' OF LIGHTWEIGHTS

Buffaloe Boxer Beats Chile Champ Out in Two Rounds

NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP)—Jimmy Goodrich of Buffalo, N. Y., won the world's lightweight championship tonight staged under the auspices of the state athletic commission when he scored a technical knockout over Stanislaus Loayza of Chili, in the second round of what was originally scheduled for 15 rounds.

Round One.

The Chilean took the aggressive right at the start and drove Goodrich to cover. A right to the head forced Goodrich to clinch. Goodrich got over a pretty left to the head. Both missed smashing rights. Loayza landed to the head with both hands but no damage was done. A right knocked Yoayza down but he was up immediately. Another right sent him down again for a count of two. He went down for the third time for the count of seven. Goodrich rushed in furiously and bore Yoayza to the floor by his great rush. He was up again at the county of seven. Another right dropped him for a count of seven. The bell found them fighting furiously. Goodrich's round.

Round Two.

Loayza's handlers worked on him desperately and he came up fairly fresh. Goodrich rushed in and landed to the body and head. Loayzo appeared to hobble on his left foot, holding his right foot above the floor. Goodrich rushed in again but a towel fluttered from Loayza's corner and the fight was over.

Loayza suffered what his handlers thought to be a broken ankle during one of his falls to the canvas in the first round. He gamely stuck to the fight, however, bobbling around on one foot until the white towel of defeat was thrown in by his chief second. The end came after 35 seconds of fighting in the second.

Shreveport Buys Tyler Moundsman

TYLER, July 13.—Lefty Lybrand, Tyler pitching ace, has been sold to the Shreveport Sports of the Texas league, under a 15-day option, the purchase price being $1,500, and an infielder, it was announced today. Speer, a third baseman, belonging to the Chicago White Sox and originally from Trinity university, Waxahachie, is the player who comes to Tyler for the rest of the season.

Barr of Dallas Wins First Round Nat'l Clay Court

ST. LOUIS, July 13.—Rain soaked the courts here this afternoon, causing postponement of all but three of the national clay court tennis championship matches. Walter K. Westbrook, Los Angeles, arrived in time for his scheduled match, disposing of F. C. Stuckman, St. Louis, in straight sets, 6-1 6-0. Westbrook drew a bye in the opening round.

Brydn L. C. Norton, St. Louis, one of the players favored to reach the semi-finals of the singles, romped through his first round encounter with Charles McMillian, a local player. The score was 6-3, 6-0.

In the final play of the day, John A. Barr, Dallas, defeated H. M. Coggessal of Des Moines. Barr won the opening set, 6-3, and ran up a lead of 4-2 in the second, when the Des Moines youth opened a brilliant attack which gave him four straight games and the second set. Barr won the third set after 16 games. The final score was 6-2, 6-6, 9-7.

TURF IDOL WINS AT EMPIRE CITY.

NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP)—James Butler's Turf Idol won the high weight handicap at Empire City today with Ladkin second and Lucky Play third.

Sande had a leg up on Ladkin, but the Log Cabin stud entry was burdened under 140 pounds against 116 for Turf Idol and he could not make the grade although he lost by only a head. This race marked Ladkin's first appearance of the season. The time for the six furlongs was 1:08 3-5. The race carried $1,500 added money.

STOCKS

NEW YORK, July 13.—Marking up of call money rates cast a damper on bullish enthusiasm in today's stock market and prices moved irregularly lower after a firm opening. The absence of many traders was reflected in the volume of trading, which fell below one million shares for the first full session since the end of April.

Although most of the week-end business and mercantile reviews were hopeful regarding the outlook for the immediate future, there was little in today's news to influence the course of prices. Operators on the long side derived encouragement from the recent stiffening of commodity prices, particularly for such basic products as steel, copper and oils, but they found it difficult to attract a public following in their favorites. Bear traders were equally unsuccessful in forcing the liquidation of long stock by their hammering tactics, although they did succeed in uncovering weak spots. While higher money rates were ordinarily looked for at this time of the year as surplus funds move to the interior to help finance crop movements it is still believed to be a little early for the transfer of large sums for this purpose. The weekly bank statements indicated that local institutions have allowed their reserves to run down close to the legal minimum during the latter part of last week, and the closing of loans today was regarded in some quarters as a correction of that condition. Time money rates were on a 4 to 4½ basis with practically no funds obtainable at 3¾, which was quoted for some of the shorter maturities last week. Prime commercial paper held steady at 3¾ to 4 cents. The unsettled character of the day's price movement is illustrated by the fact that sixteen issues mounted to new high levels for the year, while seven others sank to new low prices for the year.

The day's high in the industrial group included Dodge Brothers common and preferred, household products, Phoenix hosiery, Continental Can, Kansas City Power and Light first preferred, Underwood typewriter, Owens bottle, Goodrich rubber, Western Electrical instruments common and class A, Art Loom, Sterling products and General Railway Signal, the last named scoring ten points to 195 and then easing to 192¼.

Savage arms broke nearly 3 points to a new bottom price at 50½ on selling apparently inspired by the delay in the marketing of its electrical refrigeration machine. Producers and Refiners preferred broke 7 points to 34 in further reflection of the passing of the dividend, and then common broke 5¼ points to 13 and then rallied to 19¾. Chrysler Motors, Century ribbon, Phillips Jones and Pennsylvania first preferred A broke below their previous resistance points.

The continued heavy demand for Rock Island, which was widely attributed to expectations of increased earnings and its eventual merger with the Southern Pacific, sent that stock up over one point to 48¾, and provided one of the few features of the railroad group. Wheeling and Lake Erie preferred and Chicago and Eastern Illinois reached new high territory for the year. Delaware and Hudson crossed 147 for a gain of more than three points.

Rubbers started higher on rumors of another early advance in tire prices but the buying movement was checked when selling cropped out in other parts of the list. Standard industrials were mixed. American Can and Baldwin each closed about a point higher at 195¼ and 114¾, respectively, but U. S. Steel common closed fractionally lower at 115¾, after having sold a point above that figure. Strength of the Scandinavian rates featured the irregular foreign exchange market. Norwegian kroner rallied about one-quarter of a cent to around 1.75 cents and Danish kroner moved up about ¼ of a cent around 20.63 cents. Demand sterling held steady around $4.85¾ and French francs at 4.70 cents.

COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, July 13.—(AP)—The cotton market today was moderately active and prices scored a substantial advance, October showing a gain or 59 points or practically three dollars a bale over the closing level of Saturday. The trend was upward practically all day, the only reaction occurring in the early afternoon when prices eased off about 15 points on realizing but the market soon rallied and made new highs near the close. The general list showed net gains for the day of fifty to fifty-five points.

The main reason for the advance was the continued dry weather in the west over Sunday and realization that recent rains in the western belt were inadequate. The advance was helped by the reports from South Texas that spots there, of course new cotton, were selling at a high basis and that production in that section would not come up to expectations, promising only 1.3 of a bale per acre. Another factor was the jump in wheat due to the heat wave in the northwest which extends downward to the western cotton belt.

At the start Liverpool was considerably lower than due but that was ignored and the market here opened 3 to 7 points higher and continued to advance throughout the morning and by noon October was trading at 23.55 and December at 23.69 or 54 to 57 points above the previous close.

The market then reacted about 15 points on realizing but rallied again, making a new high just before the close with October at 23.57, and December at 23.70, or 55 to 59 points above the previous close. The close was practically at the highest.

The first new bale was reported today from Corsicana in the North Central Texas district, an uncommonly early date for maturity of the crop there is probably new cotton so far north. The early rise due to higher temperature which has forced the plants.

Exports for the day totaled 2,229 bales, all from New York.

LIGHT LENSES ARE APPROVED BY CAR BOARD

Anti-Glare Law Will be Enforced With Strict Rigidity

AUSTIN, July 13.— Eighteen makes of headlight lenses, five makes of reflectors, three makes of complete headlamps and one combination device were approved today by the Texas highway commission as suitable equipment for automobiles under the anti-glare law passed by the 39th legislature.

Additional devices will be adopted from time to time. The commission stated that 75 per cent of Texas automobiles already are equipped with one of the devices approved today.

All headlights must be tested by September 1, 1925. Beginning August 1, approximately 2,500 county test stations will be opened. Test and adjustment will be made for 25 cents a car, Reed Granbury, state headlight engineer, said.

A large number of applications for state highway aid and bids for state highway work were considered today by the commission but final action was not taken on any application or bid. It is expected award of state aid and contracts will be made Tuesday.

"APE" CASE

started by John Randolph Neal, who fired the first gun but took no later part. Neal inquired: "Is the general discussing our motion, or the admissibility of evidence?"

Tilt Between Lawyers.

The former attorney general replied that he was relying to the extensive speech of Arthur G. Hays on evolution and incidentally to the general argument, adding:

"These questions have all been settled in Tennessee and favorable to our contention. If these gentlemen have any laws in the great metropolitan city of New York that conflict with order in the great white city of the northwest that will throw any light, on it, we will be glad to hear about it. They have many great lawyers and courts up there."

Dudley Field Malone was on his feet instantly to say: "We object to this argument. The motion before the court does not involve the discussion of admissibility of evidence. We are discussing the constitutionality of the indictment on a motion to quash. And I would like to say here, although I do not mean to interrupt the gentleman, that I do not think further allusion to geographical parts of the country as particularly necessary, such as reference to New Yorkers and to citizens of Illinois. We are here, rightfully, as American citizens in a court of justice."

Before Mr. McKenzie could reply, Judge Raulston broke in. "Colonel Malone, you do not know General McKenzie as well as the court does. Everything he says is in good humor. I want you gentlemen from New York or any other foreign state to always remember that you are our guests, and that we accord you the same privilege and rights and courtesies that we do any other lawyer

BRIDGE RULING

Hugo citizens constructed a toll bridge, which was washed out by a flood the year following. It was proposed that the two states, with federal aid, should build a free interstate bridge, the first of its kind in the United States. The decision reverts the proposal.

The special Texas law permitting state funds to go into an interstate bridge between Wichita and cotton counties and a federal law allowing federal funds to be so used, are to be relied upon to permit construction of the Texas-Oklahoma bridge, it was learned here Monday. This developed in a conference between Texas highway officials and Attorney General Dan Moody with Attorney General George Short and Highway Engineer J. M. Page of Oklahoma, here, growing out of an informal opinion by letter, holding that Texas funds could not be spent in the proposed Paris-Hugo bridge except in building up to the state line, or south bank of the Red river. This opinion was written several weeks ago.

Plans for Wichita Bridge.

Plans are being drawn for the Wichita interstate bridge here, but the highway commission does not expect to call for bids until after July 27, when former United States Senator Joseph W. Bailey has been given a hearing to protest the spending of state funds on the bridge. Bailey is said to be representing toll-bridge interests. The attorney general's opinion did not touch on the validity of the special law, and that question has not been raised for it to consider. The first opinion was simply a letter to the highway commission stating that no Texas funds, nor federal funds allotted to Texas, could be spent on any building project outside the state line, under the general law. The fact of the special laws for Wichita and Wilbarger counties was pointed out in the conference here Monday as a reason why the Paris project would not be valid.

The situation may affect the Orange interstate bridge also, but plans are going ahead for that as well, it was said. Bailey, representing the toll-bridge people, has not attacked the legality of spending funds on the bridge so far, it was said.

Call for a ruling on the authority of the legislature to pass a special law such as that permitting the Wichita county bridge, is expected to reach the attorney general shortly, possibly from the county officials concerned.

CITY COUNCIL

taken care of him in good shape, though, prior to this time. The water department is growing, too, and there will be more openings later on."

Shep Steps In.

Prior t call this discussion Curd had moved the appointment of Barnett—a motion that was seconded by Commissioner Queisser. When the question was called for Commissioner Patton expressed his belief that Bryan was entitled to the promotion and that Barnett, who was now holding a responsible position, was needed where he was.

Mayor Shepherd smoothed things over as best he could by remarking that everyone made mistakes once in a while and that he was not at all inclined to censure Curd for anything the latter had done.

"Everybody makes a misstep," the mayor said, "I've made plenty of them and every man on this council has too, I guess. I'm not even ready to say Mr. Curd has made a mistake here. But I want you gentlemen to settle this thing one way or the other. The city charter stipulates that all appointive offices of this nature must be made by the city council, but our custom has always been to allow the commissioner at the head of that department to make a recommendation and then back him up.

"It's up to you men, now, to decide in your own minds whether you want to let the matter rest in status quo for a while."

He then called for the vote and Commissioners Curd and Queisser voted "aye" on Barnett's appointment. When the "noes" were called for nobody voted and the mayor ordered a roll call.

Stand By Curd

Commission Clifford had previously said he did not feel qualified to vote one way or the other because he had had no inkling of the dispute and had given it no thought. While he and Mayor Shepherd were in an animated conversation on this Patton reiterated his belief that Bryan was entitled to the promotion. Commissioner Jones started action once more, however, by saying he believed the council ought to stand behind Commissioner Curd and he therefore voted with him.

"That settles it." Clifford remarked, "but we might as well make it unanimous so it's all right with me."

"All right, I'll vote 'yes' too," Patton chimed in, and thus it carried.

After it was over Grant came to the press table and asked that a denial be printed of a statement attributed to him a few days ago in which he is alleged to have said "I leave the water department with the best of personal feeling for all my co-workers, especially Dr. Douglas, our manager, who I regard as one of the most capable men we ever had at the head of the department." He explained that "I just don't want to be put on record as endorsing anybody."

Douglas denied after the rumpus quieted down that any walk-out at the department was impending. He said that so far as he knew none of the men contemplated resigning. He said, also, that he hoped Bryan would remain at his post because he was a capable and well-trained worker whose loss would be keenly felt by the department.

Canada And Russia Control Wheat-Report

FOREIGN CROP SITUATION IS REPORTED BAD

Canada and Russia Will Export This Year, Is Belief

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—Canada and Russia were described as holding the key to the wheat situation, in a statement by O. C. Stine, of the department of agriculture.

Stine is a crop statistician, issued today at

At present Stine said, the outlook is for about the same crop as last year, but the yield of the two countries may upset calculations.

"Statistical interpretation of condition reports of 16 countries, which produce about 75 per cent of the world crop outside of Russia and China indicates a production of 2,366,000,000 bushels as compared with 2,363,000,000 bushels last year. Russia will export wheat this year instead of importing as last year and Canada is expected to produce 103,000,000 bushels more than last year. The United States crop is estimated at about 180,000,000 bushels less than last year and a decrease also is reported for the crop in India. Increased production is forecast for Egypt, France and Germany, while China's crop is reported as no better than last year.

"To make the world supply of wheat as great as last year, however, production must be enough greater than last year to make up for the reduced stocks. That the amount of wheat in exporting countries and afloat is 75,000,00 bushels less than at the same time last year, seems evident. Stocks in European countries, ports, mills and interior points, are generally reported to be low. Supplies are reported to be extremely short in the Danube basin and like stocks are reported in northwestern Europe.

FRANCE GETS BUDGET AFTER YEAR'S FIGHT

Premier and Finance Commissioner In Bitter Fight

PARIS, July 13.—(AP)—France finally has a budget and the government has about three months freedom from preliminary bother in which to speed up the Moroccan war, evacuate the Rubr, float a gold coupon, refunding loan, negotiate a debt settlement and discuss a peace pact with Germany. Premier Painleve and Finance Minister Caillaux had the budget voted in time for breakfast by threatening to resign. They forced through the 33 billions franc budget, with a balance of 13,000,000 on the right side of the ledger. But Senator Berenger reminded them that there were certain treasury expenses carried outside the budget that must be abolished in the 1926 document which M. Caillaux introduced in skeleton form just as this year's budget was adopted. The present budget lacked 18 days of being before parliament for a full year.

The government at the same time parted company with a big section of the left wing majority and accepted the votes on the former opposition as it did on the Moroccan intrepetations.

Political observers regard the negative votes of the socialists and radical socialists as a definite break with the premier. This break has been impending so long, however, that there is slight concern over it, particularly since parliament is on vacation and anything may happen between now and fall. The government in any case seems sure of support from the right on all questions of national interest, and its previously supposed normal obligation to resign if it lost the support of the majority that put it in power is a theory apparently that does not work in practice.

Millions Die Of Indigestion

Most Common, Yet Insidious of Fatal Diseases Strikes Like Lightning and When Least Expected.

Protect yourself by strengthening your digestive organs with Ferraline—then eat what you please without fear of trouble.

Nature, with Her infinite wisdom, has provided in Ferraline a quick and sure relief for the millions who are living in constant fear of that dreaded disease—Indigestion. Ferraline is not a concoction made by man but is a strictly natural product, and contains the essential elements which Nature has provided to strengthen and tone up the weakened organs of digestion.

Indigestion and weak blood march hand-in-hand. No dyspeptic can have pure rich blood until his digestion is made perfect again. Stomach disorders always weaken the blood and weak blood causes anaemia, weakness, and nervousness.

If you have had warnings of Indigestion, do not delay another day to accept the positive guarantee that your money will be promptly and cheerfully refunded if the very first bottle of Ferraline does not give you relief. Don't be misled into believing that heartburn, gas, bloating, constipation, biliousness, sick stomach, heart and kidney pains will gradually go away. These are danger signals warning you that the dread disease, Indigestion, is gradually sapping your very life. Regenerate your digestive organs at once with Ferraline, then you can eat three good meals every day without discomfort. A 10-day's treatment of Ferraline will cost you only One Dollar at your druggists. The Ferraline Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.

WIFE CLAIMS POLISH NOBLE POISONED HER

She Calls for Officer When She Finds Him With a Hammer

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 13.—(AP).—Felix Eliaszewicz, who claims kinship with the Polish nobility, was held today while detectives were investigating the story of his bride who charged her husband with trying to slay her and who says he obtained $1,700 of her money.

A tale of intrigue and deception was told by the wife of the supposed nobleman—a graduate of Franz Josef university of Vienna and a chemist—who is now detained on a charge of vagrancy.

According to Mrs. Eliaszewicz, her husband on several occasions gave her coffee that made her violently ill. One morning, she said, she switched the cups and he became ill. Last night, according to the wife, he was surprised in the act of creeping toward her room with a heavy hammer in his hand. She then called the police.

Barnes Proves They Can Come Back by Victory

I was not greatly surprised at Jim Barnes' victory in the recent British open championship because the big fellow is always at his best when playing in a wind. In this respect Barnes is one of the greatest golfers in the game. In fact I don't believe he has an equal in negotiating this hazard which is the hardest of all to most golfers.

Barnes win is a great achievement when it is considered that Long Jim has been one of the leading competitors in the game for the past 15 years. He is 40 years old and practically as strong a player as ever. To come back in this game where the competition is becoming keener every year after you have virtually been delegated as a has-been is a wonderful accomplishment and Barnes is deserving of all the credit he is now receiving.

A word about Barnes game. Due to his great height—he is six feet three inches tall—he has some difficulty in controlling his wooden shots. Because of his long arms the big fellow has a tendency to get his body into the shot too quickly and consequently to hook. It is this fault more than any other that has prevented Barnes from winning oftener. When he is tired the tendency is more pronounced.

In the matter of iron play though Barnes is a wonder. He hits the ball with beautiful crispness and a fine, well-controlled, very compact swing. He addresses all shots including his wooden shots with an open stance.

Barnes particularly excels in two departments of this game. He is especially adept in playing a long iron shot, in fact I think this is his forte. Barnes can get nearly as much distance with an iron as any other player can get with wood, and what is more he can obtain better direction.

In playing a pitch and run shot, Jim has no equals in this country. Where most of us are wont to pitch to the game Barnes generally replies on his pitch and run at which he is a past master. In playing short approaches and chip shots Barnes is also a wizard.

Makes Pumping Up Tires Unnecessary

CHICAGO, Ills.—X. H. Hughes of 2512 Monroe, this city, has perfected a new air-tight valve cap that enables auto owners to pump up their tores once and never touch them again until punctured or worn out. Leading tire manufacturers, after thorough tests, have approved Mr. Hughes' invention and banished the old theory that air escapes through rubber. One inflation lasts the life of a tire, and tire mileage is doubled. These caps retail for $1.25 for set of five. The inventor wants agents and will send proof and sample Free. Write him today.—Adv.

LYNCH URGES CO-OPERATIVE FARM MARKET

Former Lieutenant Governor Says it Will Help The Farmers

ROUND ROCK, July 13.—Co-operative marketing of farm produt operative marketing of farm products as a means of bettering the lot of the farmer was urged tonight by Lynch Davidson, Houston, former lieutenant governor of Texas, speaking at the Old Settlers' reunion. The speaker did not urge co-operative marketing as a cure-all, but said this system at least was a start toward the achieving of scientific salesmanship of farm products.

"So long as the farmer, with samples in his hands, peddles his crops from door to door, his individual economic independence is impossible," said Mr. Davidson. "Co-operative marketing is the silver lining in the cloud. The farmer can succeed by controlling 50 per cent of the flow of his production and by the same means, co-operative marketing, control the sale of his output, representing the labor of a year, dumped upon the market in a few months, inevitably will wreck prevailing prices and break down economic laws."

PARK ROAD

cluding the park road. Neither Commissioners Jackson nor Knauth would commit themselves to this warrant issue, nor would Sartin. With this situation confronting the board the Iowa Park and Electra commissioners were given to understand they would not be called upon to vote on the park road paving type.

Sartin here declared himself unequivocally in favor of concrete, and Commissioner Knauth moved that the board accept the concrete type. Commissioner Jackson seconded his motion, saying there wasn't anything left for him to do. His previous plea that letting of the contract be held in abeyance pending inquiry as to what Wichita Falls business men desired not no where. On roll call on Knauth's motion, Knauth and Jackson voted for it; Haynes and Kuntz were recorded as voting negative and Sartin immediately broke the tie for concrete.

Plan to Photograph Crops from the Air

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 13.—Accompanied by two army air pilots from McCook field, Dayton, C. J. West, statistician for the bureau of agriculture, will hop off tomorrow for a navel experiment in aerial photographing, which he hopes will assist the bureau in its crop reporting srevice

Photographs will be taken of a strip of farm land in the vicintiy of Dayton, Mr. West said, in an effort to determine whether crops can be distinguished from the air plainly enough for camera reproduction. The pictures will be taken from altitudes of 2,000 to 4,000 feet. A special mapping camera, developed by the experimental section of McCook field, will be used.

If it is possible to easily distinguish the crops, the task of ascertaining the number of acres planted in different crops throughout the state can be speedily accomplished from the air, Mr. West said.

Husband Denies He Knew Where Wife Was Before Body Found

SPOUSE HELD PENDING FULL INVESTIGATION

Robert Whitfield Says That Woman in Morgue Was Wife

QUARRELED SATURDAY

Woman's Body Found By Negroes Near The Ball Park

Stoutly denying he knew anything of her whereabouts from 10 o'clock Saturday night until 8 o'clock Monday morning when he found her body in a morgue, Robert Whitfield, late of Duncan, Okla., gave city and county officers little information of value yesterday in their investigation of the murder of his wife, Bess.

Her lifeless body with three bullet wounds in the head was found under a tree east of the Spudder baseball grounds late Sunday evening and lay unidentified in the Merkle funeral rooms until Monday morning when, accompanied by an officer, Whitfield and his three small sons, viewed and recognized it.

Whitfield In Jail.

Whitfield was locked up in the county jail on an investigation charge Monday night after having been in technical custody all day yesterday. He was questioned at length Monday morning by Chief of Police Hodgins and Detectives Bryan, Allen and Jenson. Early in the afternoon he was transferred to county officials and was closeted for several hours with Assistant County Attorney John Q. Humphrey and Sam Spence, special investigator for the district attorney's office.

To all of these officials he told substantially the same story.

Questioning of the man started immediately after he returned from the morgue where his wife's remains were lying held. He appeard at the police station about 8 o'clock Monday and reported to officers that his wife was missing. He said she frequently disappeared from home for short intervals but eventually showed up again. Her long absence, however, worried him and he wanted help in locating her.

Detective Luke Hart gave him a description of the body at the morgue, and after he said it tallied with that of his wife accompanied him to Merkle's. Whitfield took one look and said "that's her."

Spent Sunday At Home.

Hart returned him to the city hall where police learned that Mrs. Whitfield had retired for the night at 10 o'clock Saturday. The man said he aroused at 4 o'clock and found her gone but thought nothing of it at the time. He said he spent Sunday with his boys, but when she did not return during the night became uneasy and set out Monday morning to look for her. He went first to the police station and from there to the morgue.

To county officials the man asserted his wife was addicted to the use of drugs and was of peculiar habits.

He said also and his story was corroborated by Robert Jr., aged 13, that he and his wife had quarreled Saturday. They had had other disputes, he said, but not of a serious nature.

While Whitfield was under surveillance at the city hall, officers were making a thorough search of his home in the 200 block on Pine street. The family had been living there just a week, having come here from Duncan, Okla. A slight blood smear on the floor and a strip of blood-stained cloth were the only discoveries made which might have a bearing on the case. No trace of a revolver or shells could be found anywhere.

It was declared last night that Whitfield's questioning would be resumed again Tuesday.

Mrs. Whitfield's father, Bill Foster, is said to live in Hazen, Ark., and she has a sister, a Mrs. Bernice Riley, living in Fort Worth. She has three sons, Robert Jr., 13; Billy, aged 6; and Forrest, aged 3.

Gas in Well Fatal To Father and Son

ARCHER CITY, July 13.—J. A. Gowdy and his 17-year-old son, Roy, were killed by gas in a water well they were digging near Scotland, 12 miles south of Archer City, last night.

The tragedy followed the use of dynamite in the hole which was down about 25 feet. After waiting a short time following a discharge, Mr. Gowdy went down into the hole and was overcome. His son went down after him, while his daughter ran for help.

Neighbors arrived at the place an hour later to find both men dead in the bottom of the well. Efforts to resuscitate them failed.

Protests Made On Tenth St. Ice House

A reflection of protests said to have been made by a number of residents in the territory against the proposed construction of a new ice plant at Tenth and Baylor was seen Monday night when the city council instructed City Attorney W. E. George to look up the city's rights in regulating erection of business or industrial plants in residential districts.

It is proposed to put up a plant representing an investment of $100,000 or more, and a permit has already been granted for a $70,000 structure at Tenth Baylor. This is in a more or less fashionable residential section and vigorous protests are understood to have been made against it.

"Cops Will Get It If You Don't," Strange Man Tells Women, But The $20,000 Draft Was Not Any Good

Woman Made Mistake of Saying That Draft Was In Payment of Farm They Had Sold; Officers Are Called.

"I'VE got $43,000 in that bank and the federal guys have got me on a booze selling charge. They'll get all my money, anyhow, so I want you to take that $20,000. It won't do me any good and I think you could use it."

That was the Saturday prelude to a pretentious benefaction that brought visions of wealth to a Wichita Falls woman and her daughter and which gave city police and officials of a local bank cause for considerable speculation Monday. The affair is now past history, but despite its absurdity it might have made trouble for the pair.

Told It To Girl.

It seems that about 4 o'clock last Thursday morning a man phoned the telephone office here seeking a connection with a newspaper. He wanted to put in a "help-wanted" ad for a clerk to take charge of his little cold drink stand while he was out of town. He told all his troubles to the operator and it so happened she was hunting some work for her mother.

She accordingly made arrangements to bring her mother to the store with a view of accepting the place. The man gave an address out on Grant street and Saturday the two women hunted him up. He had a stand, all right, not a very big one but one that did considerable business nevertheless.

The elder woman agreed to take the place and then was when the $20,000 check originated. He wrote it out and handed it over with instructions it was to be presented at the bank for payment Monday morning.

Not a Dime in Bank.

When it was turned in, however, the teller found some business to be attended to at the front end and shortly thereafter the women learned much to their amazement, that their benefactor didn't have a dime in the bank. They made the mistake, however, of insisting to the bank officials that the payment was made to them in exchange for a farm they had sold the man. A notation to this effect was penciled on the check itself.

They left the bank, leaving the check, and later were picked up by the police again after the bank had turned the slip of paper over to them.

No charges have been filed and it was indicated yesterday afternoon that their disappointment in the fading dream of wealth and ease would probably be their only punishment.

ORDINANCE ON "JAKE" DRAWS DRUGGIST FIRE

City Council Told That Proposed Law Is Illegal

A charge that the new "jake" ordinance prepared by the city and which proposes to regulate the sale of Jamaica ginger was invalid on its face and could never be enforced was made Monday night before the city council by Attorney C. C. McDonald, appearing as representative of local druggists.

The ordinance, drafted by City Attorney George, was passed on its first reading Monday night. It stipulates that no "jake" shall be sold by any druggist except on a physician's prescription; that a record be kept of al sales and that the medicine be handled just as are liquors coming under the scope of the Volstead act.

Mr. McDonald held that the federal laws already prescribed the manner in which "jake" could be dispensed and that hence any law the city might pass would be invalid. He cited a number of legal opinions in support of his contention.

The council however, especially Police Commissioner Queisser, wanted to "see what can be done about it" and they accordingly indicated the law would be enforced as soon as it can be properly passed and advertised.

DELAY TEXTBOOKS

Deliveries to Be Delayed Due to Evolution Law.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 13. —(AP)—Delivery of text books for use in the public schools of Tennessee for the next five years will be delayed because special editions must be prepared for this state by the book publishers in order to eliminate paragraphs and pages which treat with the descent of man from the lower order of animals. To include such a theory a conflict with the state law which bars from instruction in the public schools any theory which conflicts with the story of the creation of man as told in the Bible and to teach instead that man evolved from a lower order of animal.

BROKEN NECK IS FATAL.

Houston Youth Suffers Fatal Accident in Diving.

HOUSTON, July 13. — A broken neck sustained when he dived into Spring Creek at 2 p. m. Sunday proved fatal at 4 p. m. Monday to Joseph Reichert, 19, a yard clerk for the International and Great Northern railway.

The youth lived 26 hours with his neck broken. He was brought to a local hospital in a private car Sunday afternoon by several boys who were in swimming with him at the time of the accident.

TO EDUCATE BANK EMPLOYE

American Banking Institute Opens Today at Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, July 13.—(AP)—The education of the bank employe to a higher degree of efficiency, and to bring home to the public that the men in the banks are fully capable of handling the house's funds, are the purposes of the American Banking Institute, which opens its annual convention here tomorrow, Edwin V. Krick of San Francisco, president, said tonight.

TO TEST MA'S LIGHTS

AUSTIN, July 13.—(AP)—Gov. Miriam Ferguson's sedan will be the first automobile to have its headlights tested and adjudged under the provisions of the anti-headlight glare law passed by the 39th legislature, Reed Grandberry, headlight engineer, said today.

The license number of Governor Ferguson's car is two, and its headlight adjustment number will be one.

HEAT KILLS ST. LOUISANS

Seven Die In Last Forty-Eight Hours; Thirteen in Season

ST. LOUIS, July 13.—(AP)—With seven deaths attributed to excessive heat during the past 48 hours, St. Louis' total for the season mounted to 13, exceeding by one the previous record up to July 10, established in 1921. The maximum temperature today was 96 degrees.

THIRD DUNCAN BOY ON TRIAL FOR ASSAULT

Last Case Begins at Waurika; Jury Not Yet Chosen

WAURIKA, Okla., July 13.—Court convened here today for the trial of Ted Elliott, implicated with Harry Sledge and Bill Brown, in the assault committed upon Ethel Sreywaus of Duncan last February. Sledge and Brown have each had their trials, Sledge being sentenced to 35 years in the penitentiary and Brown getting 20 years. Both have served notice of an appeal and both are out on bond, Sledge to the amount ow $25,000 and Brown $15,000.

When court convened with District Judge M. W. Pugh, presiding this morning the defense asked for a continuance of the case which was overruled by Judge Pugh. The jury box of names was exhausted in trying to select a jury for the case and a special venire of 75 more names was called for the case, court adjourned this afternoon early to convene again in the morning at 8 o'clock.

Harry Sitton of Duncan and D. M. Bridges of Waurika are attorneys for the defense with County Attorney Long of Stephens county and Ben Saye of Duncan for the defense.

County Line Gets Another Good Well

What is said to be the best producer brought in thus far in the Stampfli-Roberts pool of Archer county was brought in yesterday afternoon in the County Line Oil company's well No. 8, located on lease A. Stampfli-Roberts farm, block 2408.

Sand was drilled into at 1,340 feet down to 1,377 feet, a 33-foot sand that betters by several feet the best sands on surrounding leases. Oil promptly rose 600 feet in one hour. lush production was estimated at 450 barrels per day.

This makes the ninth producer for the County Line Oil company, eight on the Stampfli-Roberts farm, and one on the Brom lease.

WOMAN VERY NERVOUS

Weak, Blue, Discouraged—Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Medicine

Cincinnati, Ohio.—"I was nervous and could not sleep, had crying spells and the blues, and didn't care if I lived or died. My right side was very bad and I had backache and a weakness. I read about your medicines in the papers and wrote for further information. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Blood Medicine and Liver Pills, and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I have had good results in every way and am able to do my work again and can eat anything that comes along. My friends tell me how well I am looking." —Mrs. F. K. CORIELL, 129 Peete St., Cincinnati, O.

Willing to Answer Letters

Philadelphia, Pa. —"I have used your medicines for nervousness and a run-down system with a severe weakness. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and using Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash I feel like a different woman and have gained in every way. I am willing to answer letters asking about the medicines." —DORA HOLT, 2649 S. 11th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

CONTRACT LET FOR PAVING OF 9TH ROAD GAP

Other Projects Authorized By City Council Monday Night

Leading off with the Ninth street project which will improve Ninth between Broad and Brook and make an uninterrupted hard surface over this important thoroughfare, the city council Monday night dipped into another ambitious paving program.

A contract was let to L. E. Whitham and company for paving the street with re-inforced concrete. All difficulties attending the work have been cleared up, it was said, and it is hoped that actual paving can be started before the summer is over. This will complete the improvement of the four principal highways leading from the business district to the thickly populated west side. Eighth, Tenth and Eleventh are already paved.

Other Contracts Let.

Other contracts let during the evening to the Whitham company included those on Eighteenth street between Burnett and Broad, two blocks; and on Travis between Fourth and Sixth, two more blocks. Contracts were awarded the Plains Paving company for paving with Wilhite asphalt over concrete base on Avenue H between Giddings and Harrison, two blocks; and on Giddings between Avenues G and H, one block.

In addition, petitions were received and bids called for on the following: eKnesaw street between Grant and Hayes; Taft street between Avenues J and L; Garfield street between Avenues J and L; and Avenue J between Garfield and Hayes.

City Planning For Purchasing Agent

Steps looking to the creation of the office of purchasing agent for the city were taken by the city council Monday night when Commissioner Jones was instructed to work out some specific plan for the opening of such an office.

The need of such an official has long been felt and Mr. Jones has actively agitated it for some time. Every member of the council has voiced his approval of it and it is believed a concrete plan of action will be submitted in a short time.

CITY GETS FIRE SITE

Buys Two Lots and Will Start Erection of New Station.

With a deal closed Monday whereby the city obtains lots 10 and 11 in the Campbell addition, located at Giddings and Avenue H, work will start soon on construction of a new fire station. The property was purchased by the city from Jerome Stone.

The need of a fifth fire station here has been felt for some time but a lot in a section where it was needed could not be found until a few days ago.

STRIKERS WANT THEIR PAY

Chinese Laborers Dispersed By Detachment of Volunteers.

SHANGHAI, July 13.—(AP) — A crowd of about 1,000 strikers assembled today outside the offices of the general labor union demanding overdue strike pay. As the money was not forthcoming, the strikers threatened the union officials. The crowd was dispersed only after a detachment of volunteers appeared upon the scene drawn arms.

PETROLIA FAMILY INJURED

Auto Overturns While N. T. Rhodes and Family Are Returning Home

PETROLIA, July 13.—N. T. Rhodes received several cuts and bruises, Mrs. Rhodes sustained several fractured ribs, and their daughter, Miss Nerna Rhodes received a dislocated kneepcap in an auto accident Sunday evening. The family were returning from Henrietta and their car overturned.

LAMAR AVENUE AND ALL POINTS EAST

The third quarterly conference of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Wichita Falls was held Sunday evening after church with Dr. Frank M. Richardson, presiding elder, as chairman.

The evening services held on the lawn of the First Methodist Episcopal church have prover a great success. Music by the Community banw has been very inspiring as well as the entire services. Over a thousand people were present last Sunday evening and many asked for prayers, and gave their names for membership.

The Monday morning conference at the First Presbyterian church was held by C. C. Frazee. Many new games were introduced and a good instruction period held. W. J. Spreen will instruct the group in song Friday morning. A call is still being made for more workers.

Much progress is being made on the new $15,000 church building of the Church of the Nazarene. The location of the new building is Fifth and Burnett. Hopes for the completion are high in the congregation.

The Church of the Nazarene will hold its annual Sunday school picnic at Scotland park Monday evening from four until eight o'clock.

The Church of Christ, North Sixth and Grant, Scotland addition, will open a revival July 17 to continue through July 27. Evangelist Bob Musgrave of Elk City, Okla., will conduct the services and C. C. Cleary will lead the singing of the congregation. The meeting is hoped to be a big success with everyone turning out in large numbers. Everybody is welcome.

The presiding elder of the Texas district of the Evangelical church will pay a visit to the church here this week-end.

The revival at the Evangelical church is making good progress and many additions are expected during the week. As the meeting did not begin until Sunday complete headway has not been made yet. W. A. Cook of Graham, brother of Rev. Wm. D. Cook, pastor of the church, is here to lead the singing.

The Floral Heights Presbyterian church began a series of services last Sunday on the lawn by the church. Rev. Tom Rockett, pastor of the church, and chaplain of the 131st field artillery of the National Guard is conducting the services. The church is a mission of the First Presbyterian church and that body is furnishing the music for the meetings. Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Pittman led the singing last night.

J. L. Lochridge, former designing engineer of the Wichita county improvement district, announced yesterday while visiting in the city that he has completed his work on the Garza dam, to be used for supplying water to the city of Dallas.

Twenty Wichita Falls boys will leave this morning for the annual district boys' encampment, held this year at Vernon. They will be accompanied by Guy R. Jones, county demonstration agent. Boys from eight counties in this section will be in attendance at the camp, according to Mr. Jones.

Three voluntary petitions of bankruptcy have been filed within the last two days in the United States district court: Jacob Simonson of Vernon, a car inspector, listed his liabilities at $1,758 and assets at $851, with $315 claimed exemptions. Richard John Yax of Kemp City, a garage man, listed his liabilities at $11,280, his assets at $2,702, with exemption claimed on $750. Tomp Brow Dinwiddie of the Burk Tire company, listed his liabilities at $2,104, assets at $2,238 and exemption claimed at $450.

Miss Enalie Fuller, 2110 Eighth. and H. B. Holden, 916 Ohio street, are reported improved from injuries and bruises sustained Sunday evening in an auto accident at the corner of Tenth and Austin streets. The accident occurred when the car in which the couple were riding collided with a truck. The truck driver was fined in the city corporation court yesterday for speeding.

The body of J. T. Fitzpatrick, 53, of Denton, who died Sunday morning at the general hospital following a brief illness, was forwarded to his home Sunday afternoon by the Burris-Dalton company for interment. Mr. Fitzpatrick was taken ill several days ago while in the city on business.

Only one marriage license was issued Monday by the county clerk's office. It went to B. L Adams of ichita Falls and Miss Irene Kitchin of Fort Worth.

Firemen were called to 1810 Tenth street at 11:30 o'clock Monday morning when a small trash fire broke out in the rear of the residence there. No damage was done. Forty minutes later the department was again called out, this time to 1614 Fourteenth, where a chicken house in the rear of the Fred Ebner residence caught fire from some unknown cause. Damage was placed at about $15.

"Wichita Falls people don't know what good times they are enjoying. Never at any time before, not even in the boom days, has business been better than it is at present." This is the opinion of J. M. Bland, veteran real estate dealer, who for the last 22 years has been a close observer of business conditions in this city. In commenting yesterday on the city's condition generally, Mr. Bland asserted that the usual mid-summer slump in retail and wholesale circles, was conspicious by its absence and that Wichita Falls business men were, to an extent greater than ever before, riding the crest of a wave of business prosperity.

S. B. Massey and family, 401 Lee street, returned yesterday from a four weeks' auto trip through Arkansas, Tennessee and Mississippi. Mr. Massey states that crop conditions in Mississippi look worse than any other section along the route, due to the bad drouth there, which is said to be the worst in 25 years.

J. N. Pronthro will leave in a fe days for a vacation tour of Colorado.

A permit was granted Monday night by the city council to the American Refining company for erection of a filling station at Eleventh and Holliday streets.

A warning that bathing in the Wichita river must stop will be served today by the police department on youngsters who are using the stream as a swimming pool. Members of the city council Monday night declared this a dangerous and unsanitary practice and instructed Commissioner Queisser to see that it was stopped.

Iowa Park Man Dies In Burning Airplane

IOWA PARK, July 13.—Hugh R. Denny, former cashier of the Iowa Park State bank, was burned to death in an airplane wreck near Los Angeles, according to word received here yesterday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Denny.

Death came when the plane in which Denny, a student officer in the reserve officers training corps were flying, burst into flames in mid-air and crashed to earth.

Mr. Denny is survived by his widow in Los Angeles, his parents, one sister, Mrs. J. L. Lochridge of Dallas and two brothers, Lloyd and Earl Denny of this place.

Looking Forward

Business concerns and individuals should bear in mind that powerful reserves increase business confidence, multiply opportunities for profitable expansion and give added prestige to the firm or individual concerned.

The "City National" offers a safe depository for that growing fund.

SITE OFFERED TO CITY FOR A NEW SCHOOL

A. L. Huey Will Give Half Block of Land In Scotland

An offer of a half block of land comprising 12 lots in all to be used as a school site in Scotland addition has been made to the board of education by A. L. Huey, local real estate operator. The board has taken the offer under advisement and is said to look with favor on its acceptance.

The ground is just north of Scotland pary and so situated that the park itself could be used as a school playground. If this should be the case the new schools would have one of the best in the city.

The school board may include a Scotland addition school in its expansion program this winter, in which event it is believed Mr. Huey's offer of a building site may be accepted.
