TWO OFFICERS, BANDIT DIE IN TULSA BATTLE

Police Chief's "Pajama Edict" Rescinded In Conference With City Manager

BURNS DENIES ISSUING ORDER FOR ARRESTS

Officers Were Merely Given His "Personal Opinion," Says Chief

ATTIRE HELD LEGAL

Fairtrace Tells Police "Law Of Decency" Only Restriction Here

Wichita Falls men who are advocates or even admirers of the fewer clothes movement which began this summer found another victory chalked up for them Thursday when George D. Fairtrace, city manager, announced that there was no law to prevent the wearing of pajamas in public or in any other place, and so instructed Chief of Police Frank Burns.

"Wear What Please"

"It is my personal opinion," Mr. Fairtrace said, "that men should be allowed to wear whatever they please so long as it does not reach the level of indecency.

"There is no law or ordinance in Wichita Falls prohibiting the wearing of pajamas, or for that matter, the discarding of shirts. The latter would be a violation of the law only if it could be proven 'indecent exposure,' and it does not seem to me that it is half so much of an exposure as modern fashions for women."

In reference to the arrest of two young men Wednesday night who were attending the vaudeville program at Bellevue park, both clad in pajamas, Police Chief Burns stated Thursday that he had expressed a personal opinion that "men wearing pajamas on the streets ought to be put in jail," but said that he had not issued specific orders to arrest pajama-clad men.

Mr. Fairtrace revoked whatever misinterpreted order there was and issued instructions to Chief Burns to allow all who desired to wear pajamas to do so without molestation by the police. In future, Mr. Fairtrace said, men's dress shall be determined by their desires and by the laws relating to decency.

Boys Consider Action

Cecil Sherwood, one of the two young men arrested Wednesday night, told The Record News Thursday that the two intended to make further investigation into the matter of their arrest and being lodged in jail until friends had brought them conventional clothing. Officers stated that the two were disturbing the peace during the vaudeville program in addition to wearing pajamas. Sherwood stated that it was evident that disturbing the peace was against the law but that that would not explain their arrest and detention until "proper" clothes had been procured.

No fine was assessed and the young men were held at the city jail only for a few hours. They were released as soon as they had changed their apparel. No indication as to the manner of investigation was given. Sherwood stating that he preferred to confer with Harold Shelton, the other young man, before going further.

MINISTERS OBJECT

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 29. (UP)—A pajama parade, organized by Oklahoma City merchants, was the subject for opposing view tonight as the marchers lined up to inaugurate the opening of a new "white way" lighting system.

Ministers protested. They assailed the merchants who have offered a prize for the most attractive night suit costume. Police Chief Charles A. Becker said police would be passive so long as decency was observed, but remarked that "people who appear in public in pajamas are nuts and should be placed in a hospital for the insane."

Contempt Trial of Dallas Prosecutor Passed to Sept. 6

FAIRFIELD, Texas, Aug. 29. (AP)—The contempt trial of District Attorney William McCraw of Dallas was passed in district court here today until Sept. 6 at Groesbeck due to an argument over some papers which had been demanded by counsel.

McCraw, acted at the instance of Governor Moody. He contended the Fairfield writ was dissolved by one granted him later by Judge Towne Young at Dallas.

BAYLOR LAND OWNER KILLED

Justice Returns Verdict Of Suicide

Special to The Record News.

SEYMOUR, Texas, Aug. 29.—A verdict of suicide was returned here late today over the body of R. E. Bryan, 58, one time Baylor county tax assessor, who was found dead by cotton pickers on his farm near Seymour Thursday morning. A bullet had pierced his head. Near his side was a small caliber rifle.

Justice of the Peace A. H. Golden of Bomarton was called this afternoon to perform the inquest.

Several notes were found on the body. They indicated Mr. Bryan had experienced financial troubles.

Mr. Bryan was well known in Baylor county and had many friends. He is survived by two sons and two daughters. Funeral services will be held from the family home Friday. The hour of the services was not announced.

WICHITA FALLS MAN SURVIVES BRYAN

R. E. Bryan, Baylor county farmer who was found dead at his home three miles east of Seymour Thursday morning, was the father of Buster Bryan, employe of the Kemp Kort Drug company here.

The news of his father's death was sent to the Wichita Falls man at noon Thursday and he left for Seymour immediately.

Mr. Bryan was one of the largest land owners in Baylor county at one time and had been tax assessor. At the time of his death, he had just returned from a trip to White Dee., Texas, where he was accompanied by a son, Whit, and a daughter, Marie, both of whom live in Seymour.

Rail Head Sees Little Hopes for Cotton Crop

DALLAS, Aug. 29. (UP)—The depreciation in the condition of Texas cotton along the Katy railroad in Texas and Oklahoma during the last month, due to the protracted drouth, has cut the yield at least 25 per cent, H. E. McGee, general manager, said today.

McGee has just completed an inspection trip over the cotton growing area of the Katy lines.

"Rain at this stage will do little good except in Oklahoma and possibly the northern part of Texas," McGee said.

"The stalks are too far gone to even put on much of a top crop. The bolls simply are not there, due to the long dry spell."

HENRY HELMS ALWAYS 'QUEER' PARENTS SAY

Mother, Father, Wife And Former Attorney Are First Witnesses

FULL LIFE STORY

Couple Gives Detailed Account of Condemned Man's Career

EASTLAND, Texas, Aug. 29. (AP)—Henry Helms' mother and father, his wife and one of his former lawyers as lay witnesses called the condemned bank robber mentally irresponsible as introduction of testimony in his sanity hearing began in district court here late today.

Their stories had been told at adjournment for the day and a number of other witnesses, including physicians, was yet to be heard.

Account of Life

The mother and father gave a detailed account of Henry's life from the time he was five years old until the Cisco First National bank was robbed Dec. 23, 1927, with the resultant killing of two peace officers and one of the "Santa Claus" bandits, Louis Davis, brother-in-law of Henry Helms.

Henry, the parents declared on both direct and cross examinations, always had been "peculiar." He never liked to stay at home with the rest of the family, suffered with his head and has "spells" of melancholy, they swore. The father denied that Henry was an expert pistol shot said that if he knew much about shooting he had learned it just before the Cisco robbery.

Mrs. Netie Helms wept as she told how her husband "had wasted away in body" and how his mind had been "weakened" since the bank raid. She said he always was good to her and their five children except that he often would leave home without saying anything to her and stay away for some time.

"Conscience Sufferer"

Bert Ashby, associate counsel for Helms in the appeal of his conviction, said he believed his ex-client a "conscience sufferer" and that wounds Helms received in the gun fight after the robbery had caused him to become insane.

Cross examining Ashby, County Attorney Joe H. Jones asked Ashby if E. V. Allen, under death sentence for robbery of the First State bank of Carbon on Dec. 10, 1927, was "putting on any insanity stunts." Helms' lawyer objected strenously but the judge allowed Ashby to answer, which he did in the negative. Allen occupied a cell adjoining that of Helms in the Dallas county jail.

Yellowstone Geysers Fail To Follow Schedule In Eruptions

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo., Aug. 29. (UP)—Yellowstone's great hydrothermal spectacle, which gave tourists a thrill yesterday, affected the regular performances of Old Faithful, Imperial, Daisy and other timely spouters today. Old Faithful got off its schedule for the first time in years.

Intermittent playing of the giantess geyser, which went into action at 5 a. m. yesterday to open the most spectacular display in the history of the park, continued today while most of the other geysers settled down to their routine eruptions. The Grand, for the first time on record, played twice yesterday. Hot pools showed signs of geyser activity and indicated that new eruptions may occur.

JEWS MEET TO MAKE PROTEST

Arab Attacks Cause Action In New York

JERUSALEM, Aug. 29.—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—New disturbances broke out today at Safed. Details were lacking.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29. (UP)—Twenty-five thousand Jews from New York and nearby cities crowded into Madison Square garden tonight in a mass meeting of protest against Arab attacks on Jews in Palestine.

President Hoover, in a message read at the meeting, urged support of relief efforts for those suffering in Jerusalem and nearby towns. He said the United States government is "deeply concerned" over the disturbances and expressed confidence that the Palestine movement would grow to even greater heights as a result of the outbreaks.

Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, and Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman urged caution at the meeting until enough facts were established to fix definite blame for the Palestine outrages.

Two hundred fifty members of the American Jewish legion, the group which has offered to fight if needed to repel the Arabs, marched into the hall and took seats together.

Mayor Walker spoke. Chairman Samuel Untermyer read messages of sympathy from numerous notables including former Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

BRITISH STORM ARAB VILLAGE

By CARL J. KETCHUM
Special correspondent of London Daily Express and Universal Service in Palestine.

(Copyright 1929, Universal Service, Inc.)

JERUSALEM, Aug. 29.—British troops, supported by armored motorcars, Palestine police and airplanes, stormed another Arab village outside Jerusalm today. In addition to inflicting an unknown number of casualties, they captured between 80 and 100 prisoners, and confiscated large quantities of arms and ammunition.

The attack took place shortly after 4 o'clock in the morning, which in Palestine is just before dawn. The objective was the village of Colonia, an Arab settlement of 2,000 inhabitants, which stands on a high bluff, dominating the tiny Jewish village of Motza.

For three days, Arab sharpshooters have been sniping from the houses there, terrifying the countryside around them, while at night they have been carrying out raids into the Jewish colony, burning and looting houses.

Jerusalem has taken on a brighter aspect. Shopkeepers and bankers began to resume business, although Palestine police have been posted on all principal street corners and others are searching for arms.

LADY HEATH IS CEDED CHANCE OF RECOVERY

Most Famous Woman Pilot Near Death Following Crash of Plane

SKULL FRACTURED

Titled Flier Plunges Into Factory While Doing Daring Stunt

MUNICIPAL AIRPORT, CLEVELAND, Aug. 29. (UP)—Lady Mary Heath, pretty Irish flier, lay unconscious tonight, fighting for life in a hospital, the victim of a crash in which her plane dived through the roof of a factory on the eastern edge of Cleveland today.

Late tonight Lady Heath underwent an operation from which she rallied although she remained unconscious. Her condition was reported at Lakeside hospital as "very critical with a chance for recovery." An X-ray examination revealed her skull was fractured in two places. In addition, her head was lacerated and her body bruised.

Best Woman Flier

The titled flier, who bore the reputation of being the best woman flier at the national air races, was testing a new plane. She zipped over the one-story factory in a vertical bank—one of the kind she thrilled thousands with. Suddenly the ship dived through the roof and imbedded itself in the floor.

Erwin Kirk, mechanic riding with her, saw the danger and jumped free, landing uninjured on the roof.

Peering through the jagged hole in the tin roof he saw Lady Heath pinned beneath the wreckage. He leaped the 20 feet through the hole and went to her aid.

Workmen Aid Rescue

Seventy-five workmen, astonished as the plane came crashing down over their heads, ran to help Kirk extricate Lady Heath. Only with difficulty were they able to untangle the straps, bend back the cowling and drag her battered form from the wreckage.

Kirk's only injury was a torn right hand, received when he jumped to the aid of his pilot.

"I don't know how it happened," Kirk said. "We had just taken off. Something went wrong and I instinctively leaped. Then Lady Mary Heath dived into the roof."

It was assumed Lady Heath was testing the plane on vertical banks and then was unable to right it. She was flying at an altitude of about 60 feet, witnesses said.

Daring Pilot

Lady Heath's speedy flying in a women's race Tuesday caused a stir in the ranks of aviators. She cut within inches of the pylons that mark the three corners of the course. She placed second in the race to Mrs. Keith Miller, New Zealand, in a field that numbered the cream of the women derby fliers.

Meanwhile, the air races went on, although there was a subdued note among women pilots who lined up their planes for another race. One was missing. Lady Heath was to have flown with them.

They roared away in a "race horse" start and clipped the pylons just as closely as they had Tuesday when Lady Heath was pushing her ship to the utmost to take away their honors.

Moody Grants Doomed Negro Second Reprieve

AUSTIN, Aug. 29. (UP)—Unable to reach a decision on the guilt or innocence of Jessie Charles, negro scheduled to die in the electric chair tomorrow, Gov. Dan Moody tonight granted him a two weeks' reprieve.

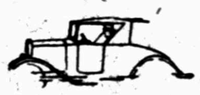

A reprieve of one week prevented his execution last Friday. Charles was convicted of killing Winfred Knipple, a white man, at Devers, Texas. A state witness who named Charles as the slayer later said he did so to prevent being blamed himself. Affidavits on both sides were presented to the governor late today.

Scarred Zeppelin Groomed Again For Ocean Flight; Eckener Remains

Passengers and Members of Crew Gloat Over Record Breaking Cruise Clear Around World

NAVAL AIR STATION, Lakehurst, N. J., Aug. 29. (UP)—The Graf Zeppelin, scarred but triumphantly possessing a new speed record for travel around the world, was groomed tonight for new laurels.

While her commander, Dr. Hugo Eckener, was in Washington receiving congratulations from President Hoover, and her 19 passengers and 34 crewmen were jubilant at her feat of encircling the globe in 21 days 7 hours and 32 minutes, Capt. Ernest Lehmann was preparing to lift her 776-foot bulk into the air again at midnight Saturday and head for the home port of Friedrichshafen.

Eckener Spreads Gospel

Eckener, who will remain behind to spread the gospel of Zeppelins, ordered Lehmann, his second in command, to make the quickest possible time across the Atlantic in an effort to beat the Graf's own round-world record just established.

Friedrichshafen was the first stop in the Lakehurst-to-Lakehurst flight around the earth, and Lehmann was confident that with favorable winds the Graf could better her previous time between here and Germany and so establish a new world speed mark over the route from Lakehurst to Friedrichshafen.

Lehmann Busy

Lehmann, an urbane, mild-mannered little man who got his first Zeppelin training by dropping bombs on London during the war, superintended the pumping of fuel and hydrogen into the Graf for her next priceless 50,000 sightseers paid tribute at the hangar.

Repairs to the damaged rudder, which scraped on a power line when the Graf left Los Angeles Tuesday morning, proved more complicated than had been expected. The lower section of the rudder was removed, and a portion of a fin was sawed away preliminary for replacement which should be completed tomorrow.

Approximately 945,152 cubic feet of ethane fuel gas and 482,000 cubic feet of hydrogen will have been pumped into the Graf's cells by Saturday afternoon. Then food, 3,000 pounds of freight and much mail will be placed aboard, passengers will embark at 10 p. m. and

Mother Who Burned Babe Unperturbed at Trial

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 29. (UP)—Although the state indicated it will seek the death penalty for Mrs. Josephine Valente, 19, who tossed a burning match into her baby son's carriage, the young mother was unperturbed at her murder trial today.

The young woman, who confessed to burning the baby because she was angry at her husband and the child "seemed to be in the way," pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity.

G. B. RAYMOND FOUND DEAD

Wichitan Noted for Stamp And Coin Collection

George B. Raymond, about 68, floor walker at Saul's store for many years, was found dead on the bathroom floor of his home at 711 Holliday street about 8 o'clock Thursday evening. The body of the aged man, who had been alone in the house for several days, was discovered late Thursday by C. M. Smith, a neighbor, who had been disturbed by the absence of movement about the house.

Inquest Held

R. V. Gwinn, justice of the peace, who conducted an inquest at the home, entered a verdict of death from natural causes. Judge Gwinn said he believed Mr. Raymond had been stricken with an attack of acute indigestion. His opinion was based partially on the presence of a bottle of bromo seltzer and a teaspoon found on the floor beside the body.

Physicians said Mr. Raymond had probably been dead at least 24 hours before his body was discovered. Neighbors reported that Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Wallace, who rented a part of the residence, have been spending a vacation in Rusk during the past week. They had requested Mr. Smith to help look

Easterwood Again Slated to Run

DALLAS, Aug. 29. (UP)—The belief that Col. W. E. Easterwood, Dallas financier, might put his hat in the ring for governor prevailed here again tonight following the close of the American legion convention at Port Arthur.

Asked today what would be his attitude toward entering the gubernatorial race since he was not elected state president of the legion, Easterwood answered, "I had that in mind when I withdrew at Port Arthur." Easterwood added that he was persuaded by his friends in the legion not to announce any political aspirations until after the legion election.

ESCAPED BANK ROBBER SLAYS HIGHWAY COPS

Dick Gregg Fatally Shot After He Murders Patrolman

OFFICERS SURPRISED

Attempt to Straighten Out Minor Road Mishap Leads to Fight

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 29. (UP)—When two highway officers sought to question the driver of an automobile which had scraped another car as it approached Tulsa late today they were greeted with a volley of pistol shots. A few seconds later both officers lay dead on the pavement and the car driver, identified as an escaped convict, was sprawled lifeless behind the wheel of his automobile.

Officers Unprepared

The patrolmen, who, attempting to adjust a minor traffic mishap, were unprepared for the sudden burst of violence, were Ross Darrow and Lincoln Bowline. The convict was identified as Dick Gregg, wanted on various charges in Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri. He escaped from jail at Pawhuska, Okla., recently after being held on a charge of bank robbery.

An Indian, Bob Dyer, who was with Gregg was the only survivor of the brief flurry of bullets. He was taken to the Tulsa county jail.

Darrow and Bowline wheeled up to Gregg's car on motorcycles, witnesses said, and signalled him to halt. The fugitive jerked aside the door of his automobile and opened fire, his first volley catching Bowline at close quarters and buckling him to the highway.

Gregg Is Slain

Darrow opened fire on Gregg who slipped to the seat of his car fatally wounded. Investigators believed Gregg shot Darrow after the patrolman had sent a fatal bullet into the fugitive's body. All three of the men were dead when other officers reached the scene. Some 12 shots had been fired in less than a minute. Bowline's gun had not been fired.

Three guns, one a high-powered rifle, were found in Gregg's motor car, officers told the United Press. He had been sought in Oklahoma and Kansas for some time, they said, and eluded officers in southern Kansas several days ago in a car driven by a woman.

Gregg's Indian companion was questioned in an effort to learn the identity of those who aided him in his escape from jail.

Eastern Refiners Lower Gas Price

NEW YORK, Aug. 29. (US)—Standard Oil of New York will announce a reduction of 3 cents a gallon in its tank-wagon price for gasoline tomorrow, according to report to Universal Service from reliable sources.

The reduction in price is aimed primarily at the "bootleg" gas dealers who have been responsible for disturbed conditions in the retail trade here for some time. Entrance of Shell and other interests into the New York retail territory also influenced the Standard Oil officials in the decision to reduce the price at wholesale.

The wholesale market for gasoline in the East has been disturbed for several weeks, oil men declare. They were not inclined to express opinion as to whether the action of the New York company would precipitate a price war. Heretofore when one refiner in a territory reduced quotations others followed suit immediately.

Student Flier Killed When Plane Crashes

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 29. (UP)—When the rented airplane in which Eugene Drury, 24, was putting in solo flying time to gain a pilot's license went into a tailspin, the young student flier was killed here today. Drury was dead when taken from beneath the shattered plane. Witnesses said he apparently had become confused and attempted to ascend at too sharp an angle.

Officers Nab Man as He Uncovers Liquor "Aged in Wood" Three Years

An Archer county man was arrested and 75 gallons of whisky were seized late Thursday afternoon when Warren Belcher and Charlie Gant, deputy sheriffs, working with Curly Kincaid, Archer county deputy, unearthed two barrels buried in a pasture off the Windthorst road about 10 miles from Wichita Falls.

The officers came upon the man in the act of digging up one of the containers, according to an account of the raid given by Mr. Belcher. The whisky had been aging undisturbed during the past three years, the deputies were told, the unearthing process having begun on the very afternoon of the official search. Evidence of the long entombment of the casks was found in crumbling barrel hoops, Mr. Belcher reported.

The raiding party spent several hours at the task of completing the excavations. The barrels were of 50 gallon capacity, one of them being only half filled. Federal charges will be entered against the man, the officers said.

Endless Contrasts Mark Indian Fair Sights at Craterville Park

CRATERVILLE, Okla., Aug. 29. (UP)—The past and present are intermingled in a tangle of contrasts and contradictions here at the scene of the encampment of more than 1,000 Indians, gathered to throw off for three days the mantle of the white man's ways.

The scene is that which gave the many tribes birth before Columbus pleaded for support of his great adventure and was patronized by the queen of Spain. Yet, only a day ago, the great air liner Graf Zeppelin passed over this ancient soil.

Braves and squaws of more than 50 tribes of Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arizona and the Dakotas have come together. Not alone their brilliantly colored buckskins and war bonnets revealed their annual revival of a past existence. There was, as well, a light in their eyes that recalled open plains before the days of motor cars and oil derricks.

They came in luxurious motor cars for there was wealth of oil

JUST THE Baer Facts

By Bugs Baer

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Although we have delved deeply in porous statistics and non-refillable margins, we fail to understand the latest flurry in Wall street.

All we know is some innocent culprit raised the bank rate of interest one per cent and blew the lid off the works.

The boys with the collapsible mortgages were last seen headed for the East river with sash-weights in their hip pockets.

They tell us that three billion dollars were snuffed off in that little attack of mildewed reconstruction.

Like the last kick of a sick frog, it was a healthy reaction.

We have observed the healthy reactions of the street for some fine, panicky semesters.

They're healthy if you recover.

We don't claim to understand all this Wall street gazinta.

But we do know that a cabbage is all head.

And never gets a headache.

Three billion smackers is plenty of money. It ain't hay.

Where did that gravy go?

Who lost it? Who got it? It wasn't your Aunt Minnie.

If it was what they call paper profits, who furnished the wood pulp.

You never saw such cowardly yawns in all your useless career.

A lot of stout gentlemen stand around going broke without spending a nickel.

They go to work at 10 in the morning and quit at 3 in the afternoon. Everything is as orderly as germs in labeled bottles.

The fat citizens watch tape coming out of a ticker. That tape keeps coming out of a goldfish bowl under the impulse of a financial stimulant.

We have listened to better panics when a mother argued with a street car conductor over the probable age of a 16-year-old boy.

But at the end of the fiscal day, you will read in the papers that three billion dollars has been scorched and that a healthy reaction is for sale, rent or lease.

If anybody understands Wall street we would like to meet him and enjoy some education aberrations. After a lecture that would be amusing as well as educational, we could snap old Dobbin to the chaise and go for a healthy gallop over the bracing hills to the invigorating poorhouse.

19,380 Miles Covered

When the Graf sank gracefully to rest here at 7:10 a. m., eastern standard time, after thrilling citizens of Detroit and Cleveland with night visits and then sailing serenely over New York after dawn, she had completed an air voyage of some 19,380 miles without a single major mishap. She had stopped at only three places—Friedrichshafen, Tokyo and Los Angeles. She had overcome the obstacles of wind and lightning, typhoon and mountain ranges, a gondola damaged at Tokyo and her rudder torn by high tension wires as she rose from Los Angeles.

On her twsiting course across the country she had been hailed by inhabitants of a dozen major cities. On her cruise over the steppes and tundras of Asia her passengers had seen other inhabitants less air-minded, scamper to the safety of their huts in terror at her shadow.

Records Smashed

She had cut more than two days from the previous round-the-world speed record of 23 days 15 hours 21 minutes, set in 1927 by John Henry Mears and the late Capt. C. B. D. Collyer. Means and Collyer had utilized the fastest liners, the best airplanes and the speediest trains to set their record. The Graf relied on her own five motors throughout and made generous halts at her three stopping places.

During the time she actually was in the air the Graf averaged 67.178 miles an hour. At times she travelled 110 miles every 60 minutes. Even including her extended stops, she averaged 37.888 miles, which is a good working schedule for a passenger train.

Her actual flying time of 288 hours 21 minutes, was a record by itself. She was the first aircraft to span the Pacific west to east and the first to cross that ocean without stop.

in the land allotted to some of them. They came, also, in rattling carriages drawn by horses.

The contrast is endless; it is the motif of this Indian fair. For across the amazing scene of tepees, copper-skinned men and women and gay color, ride young braves bareback and in full abandon to primitive joys, to the music of chants and beating hoofs. And at another corner of the scene are parked the motor cars of Indians now known as mister and are displayed the products of their farms and civilized craftsmanship. It is all there together, but more than 150 years lie between.

The Oklahoma legislature, which permitted the tribes this interlude from the restraints of modern life, has appropriated $1,300 in prizes for the agricultural and home economic displays. But there need be no appropriation to pay these tribesmen for their skill at the ghost dance, the war goard, snake and eagle dances, the racing on wild ponies and the drawing of seasoned bowstrings. Blazing eyes, a fervid reversion to pre-whiteman days, is reward enough for this.

Chieftains strut in their costumes which consist of articles from the general store and articles made with their hands. Young Indians are braves again. The city street, the "Great White Father," the "progress" of the years are forgotten.

Yet tonight a long line of the Indians marched in file and rode in automobiles in a pageant which they called "progress of the Indian race for the past 150 years." And they showed pride in their advance from the plains which for three days here have claimed them.

There they were tonight, the Osages, Kiowas, Creeks, Navajos, and all, flitting in the shadows between camp fires on the slopes of the Wichita mountains.

WALTER CAMPS ON HONEYMOON

Ruth Elder and Banker Wed In N. Y. City Hall

NEW YORK, Aug. 29. (US)—Dismayed at the appearance of newspaper men, because they had hoped to slip in and out unnoticed, Ruth Elder, aviatrix and movie actress, and Walter Camp Jr., son of the famous Yale football authority, were married today in the municipal chapel.

Miss Elder, looking tired and nervous, declined to talk to reporters, and Mr. Camp also was noncommittal. Friends, however, said that the first event on their honeymoon, following a private luncheon, would be attendance at the Al Singer-Kid Chocolate fight in the Polo grounds tonight.

Mr. Camp gave his age as 38, his occupation as "banking," and his address as No. 39 Broadway. He was born in New Haven, he said, and had been a widower since March, 1928.

Miss Elder said she was 24, and listed today's ceremony as her third marriage, declaring she divorced her first husband, whose name she did not mention, and that she was divorced in Panama by her second, whose name, Lyle Womack, also was unmentioned. She drew a line through the space allowed for "occupation."

They were married by City Clerk Michael J. Cruise, and William Dunn, clerk, and Miss Margaret Baker, secretary to Mr. Cruise, were the witnesses.

Mr. Harry Sinclair wants to get out of that jail. He is satisfied there is no oil on the premises.

Alabama Indian Princess, 107, Dies

LIVINGSTON, Texas, Aug. 29. (UP)—The princess of the Alabama Indians is dead.

Mikko Ey Sty Ke, 107, whose Christian name was Celesia Henry, died at her home in the Indian village near here today. She was the only survivor of the original small tribe of Alabama Indians who settled in the tiny thicket-hidden village in 1852.

Her father, Chief Co La Be, rode on horseback to Austin, 100 miles distant, to see Gen. Sam Houston, then president of the Texas Republic. Permission was granted the Indians to remain in Texas. For his granting of the request, the name of Houston is still reverenced by the present generation of the tribe.

Celesia Henry was one of the first Indians to become a Christian, being a member of the village Presbyterian church.

Floral Heights Church To Have Home-Coming

Plans are under way at the Floral Heights Presbyterian church for a combined home coming and Labor Day celebration in the form of a picnic next Monday afternoon, according to Grady Snuggs, pastor.

All members of the church, Sunday school, and young people's organizations are being requested to meet at the church at 3 o'clock, bringing basket dinners. Persons who attended the Floral Heights church at time in the past have been invited to participate in Monday evening's festivities.

DR. F. A. BASH RETURNS

Dr. Floyd Allan Bash, pastor of the First Christian church accompanied by Mrs. Bash and two of their children, Marjorie and Wendell, returned Thursday evening from a month's vacation spent in the West.

Doctor Bash first attended the international convention of the Disciples of Christ at Seattle, where he was a speaker on one of its programs. Other points visited were Portland, San Francisco, Santa Cruz, Salt Lake City, Denver, and Colorado Springs. The trip represented a drive of about 6,500 miles, Dr. Bash said. He will occupy the pulpit at the First Christian church Sunday morning.

So important in summer... this deodorizing sanitary protection

Avoid all danger of offense in summer!... this new, deodorizing pad makes it easy to be safe

SUMMER makes certain days particularly trying to dainty women. It is then you learn really to appreciate Kotex!

You learn to depend on Kotex for complete deodorization . . . to save you from all danger of offense.

Kotex is rounded and tapered so no revealing outline shows, even under summer's filmiest frocks.

Kotex, too, is so wonderfully comfortable, so light and cool and dainty! And it disposes instantly, thus doing away with old-time fuss and laundering. Try this new Kotex! It offers a world of comfort.

KOTEX IS SOFT . . .

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2—Safe, secure . . . keeps your mind at ease.

3—Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.

4—In hospitals . . . Kotex is the identical material used practically exclusively by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.

Kotex—45c for 12—at any drug, dry goods or department store.

RIVERSIDES

Why you can save $2 to $15 on every tire you buy at WARD'S

MILLIONS OF MOTORISTS, all over the world, already ride on RIVERSIDE Tires—and still more millions soon will.

You will agree that . . . . with the Super-Service RIVERSIDE guaranteed for a minimum of 30,000 miles—the First-Quality RIVERSIDE guaranteed for a minimum of 16,000 miles—and the WARDWEAR for 10,000 . . . . these tires simply must be tires of quality!

And then—on comparing RIVERSIDE prices with many other high-grade makes that are not officially guaranteed for any specific mileage—you are astonished to find that at Ward's your saving per tire ranges from $2 to $15!

It's surprising. You are frankly puzzled. You discovered, long ago, that there's no such thing as "getting something for nothing." Therefore, when you find, in tires, high quality, provable quality and guaranteed quality . . . . coupled with prices so low they seem to contradict all that . . . . you "wonder," don't you?

You needn't! For the simple explanation lies in Ward's plan of selling to the user direct.

Instead of cutting quality in any shape or manner, we merely cut out most of the in-between profits of ordinary distribution! Thus you are protected at both ends of your transaction: on Quality, by the guarantees . . . . on Economy, by the unusual savings of Ward's low prices.

Do you know of—or need—any better reasons for putting Montgomery Ward & Co. tires on your car? . . . . Or any better arguments than these facts proving why you save $2 to $15 on every tire you buy?

Don't buy any other tire unless more miles are guaranteed!

BOYS TEAM AT SAN ANTONIO

Broadway Battlers After State Honors

The Broadway Battlers, Wichita Falls junior baseball champions of North Texas, left here at 4 o'clock Thursday morning for San Antonio to play the Perry Winkle Broadway Rangers, South Texas champions, for the state Texas Amateur Athletic federation title. The 14 boys in the team, accompanied by C. C. Frazee, city recreational director, and Bill Habern, who will umpire in the games at San Antonio, arrived there late Thursday evening.

The two teams will play three games, Friday, Saturday and Sunday afternoons, according to C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent. The Wichita Falls boys will return Monday.

Expenses of the trip were paid by subscriptions from several citizens interested in boys' work, solicited through the Big Brother club of the local Rotary organization. The boys' work committee of the Rotary club has been under the direction of William B. Ward, and the junior team which won the North Texas championship was one of the Rotary Knothole league clubs.

Confidence in the ability of the team was expressed by Mr. Bunnenberg, and the state title should be brought to Wichita Falls if the boys play the brand of ball they have displayed all season. They will meet worthy opponents, however, it was pointed out, the San Antonio team having won 67 out of 81 games this season.

Farewell Program At Northside Park

A farewell program, marking the close of the summer recreational program at Northside park and the last get-together of the group of boys and wirls who took part this summer in the activities planned for them through the park department, will be held at the Community house at 7:45 o'clock Friday night, it was announced Thursday by C. C Bunnenberg, city park superintendent.

Several vaudeville acts have been planned for the program and the Playground band, under the direction of Paul Seeds, will furnish music for the occasion. The bill will be under the supervision of Mrs. Maude Bartholomew, playground activity supervisor, her assistants and Mr. Bunnenberg. Parents of the children are urged by Mr. Bunnenberg to be present at the meeting and program since it is the last time they will be together as a group until the recreational program opens again next summer.

Mrs. S. C. Carr

Dallas Lady's Child Came Through Fine

Mrs. S. C. Carr's experience with her little girl is just one of the many cases which we hear about. Mrs. Carr says, "My little Nettie Virginia had something like the flu. When it left, she was puny, had no appetite, and was very cross and feverish. I had known for years that Nature's Remedy is such a dependable medicine and I decided to give her a course of the Juniors. Nobody knows how happy I am to see her eat heartily again, and laughing and playing like she used to."

Very often those simple little chocolate coated Nature's Remedy Juniors (NR Jrs) are all the system of a child needs to straighten it out. Then the wastes can't remain in it to form the acids which sour the stomach, bind the bowels and rob the blood of the red corpuscles it must have plenty of to keep children from becoming puny, feverish and pale. Any druggist will recommend NR Juniors to you for your child. Only 25 cents.

Introspection Theme of Sermon By Moreland in Junior C.-C. Revival

Introspection was the theme of the Rev. Pat Moreland's sermon Thursday night in the fifth of a series of revival services being sponsored by the Junior chamber of commerce at the First Methodist church, when he used as his text: "He is like unto a man beholding his natural face in a mirror."

"A man looks in a mirror and promptly forgets what he has seen there. There is an element of mercy in that. But the spiritual reflection is as promptly forgotten, and there is the real tragedy. The man who looks and forgets does not see himself as he really is.

"You and I consider ourselves as we want to, but God classifies us as we really are. We all make excuses. There is the man who pities himself. God save me from the man who goes around saying that he is not appreciated. That eats down into the vitals of human life. The trouble about self-pity is that it is a great big lie.

"Then there is a tendency toward flattering ourselves, and there is the other extreme—underestimation. Many a one-talent man is worth more than a five-talent man. It's the one-talent men who carry the burdens of the world.

"There is the man who cannot estimate himself because he is always forgiving himself. There should be only two kinds of forgiveness—that from God and that from other people. We forgive ourselves too easily. What kind of a man do you see when you look in the mirror?"

R. E. Shepherd sang a special number, with Mrs. Shepherd at the piano, and also led the congregational singing.

Mrs. R. B. Parker Entertains at Bridge

With vacation drawing toward a close, the vacation bridge players plan more beautiful parties with each week's meeting. Mrs. R. B. Parker was hostess Thursday at one of the smartest mornings of the season, adding two tables of guests to the 12 members.

Each room used was in a distinct color motif. The living room was in yellow with lovely clusters of lantana used on the luncheon tables. The dining room featured pink with sprays of fluffy pink crepe myrtle and in the bedrooms, the deep red crepe myrtle filled lovely vases and bowls.

In the games, where the score cards marking places were baskets of beautifully tinted nosegays, Mrs. J. F. Friberg won high score and second went to Mrs. A. M. Hickman. Mrs. Charlie Carrington was winner of the guest prize.

Mrs. Charles Morgan, president of the club, will not be present at the final meeting and was happily surprised by the members with a decorated ice bowl.

At the close of the games, each table was covered with a cloth emphasizing the color of the room in which it stood and a delicious two-course cold luncheon was served on crystal service in the same tints.

Guests entertained were Mesdames Charles Carrington, W. L. Martin, George Bevel, Esther Wilson, T. O. Shappel, Blakely Locke, and Miss Ruby Hambrick. Places were also marked for the following club members: Mesdames W. G. Bentley, H. W. Jagers, L. D. Townsend, G. O. Loughridge, R. B. Parker, P. W. Rogers, T. V. Wisely, F. F. Robertson, D. Dellis, Charles Morgan, J. F. Friberg, J. L. Tate and A. M. Hickman.

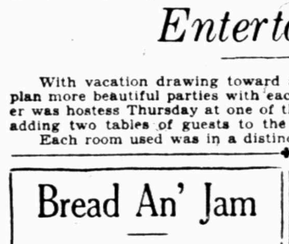

The next meeting will be with Mrs. T. V. Wisely, 1802 Tilden, on Wednesday morning.

A Daily Illustrated Poem For Children

By Wymond Garthwaite

TALE OF A CAT

Said the Kindling-wood Cat
To the Funny-Made Mouse
"I'll catch you—you see if I don't!"
But the clever young rat
Spied a hole in the house,
Saying, "Not if I know it, you won't!"

"I'll wait here forever—
Right here by this crack."
Said the Cat with a villainous wink.
But the Mouse was more clever—
He never came back,
Which really was wise, don't you think?

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

The early morning air has the delightful pineh of autumn. We think autumn is striving to appear on the scene and summer is using every ruse to keep his colors out of sight.

◇ ◇ ◇

We have just read in a current paper, "Unrest spreads throughout the world as Jews protest Arab terrorism." We have felt the unrest with them. We have seemed to hear the high cries of Moslem triumph, rising shriller and shriller.

◇ ◇ ◇

Jerusalem, the "Holy City," in spite of countless ologies springing up each year, still has a ring in its name that appeals to the emotionalism in humanity.

◇ ◇ ◇

To see afar that city whose first glorious buildings were long ago plowed under, must give a thrill to anyone who has known anything of Bible history.

◇ ◇ ◇

Bethlehem, the city of which little children sing so tenderly at Christmas time, is like an island of Christians in an ocean of Arabs.

The first crusade was probably the first really popular movement ever known in the world. That crusade was to rescue holy relics and the Holy City.

◇ ◇ ◇

There were nine knights in the first crusade. The great number of others were guild members, real democratic crusaders; they marched because they wished to march and take back the Holy city. They were massacred by Moslems.

Perfect Mate Matter of Luck, Says Dorothy Dix

How Can Any One Be Sure of Getting a Paragon for a Wife or Husband, When to Every Rule For Picking Out a Marriage Partner There Are Always a Dozen Exceptions?

Not without reason do we speak of matrimony as a gamble, for there is no rule for picking out a husband or wife to which there are not so many exceptions that it seems to make marrying on the grab-bag principle as good luck as looking them over and trying to play safe.

It would seem, for instance, only a prudent precaution for young men and women, who are contemplating taking unto themselves mates, to consider carefully the fathers and mothers of their prospective wives and husbands with an idea of getting a line on the sort of life companion they were likely to get if they marry in that particular family.

Here, one would say, is where both heredity and environment have done their perfect work. They have molded the manners and morals, the character, habits and point of view of this woman or that man. Therefore, if I observe the sort of husband that John's father makes, or the kind of wife that Mary's mother is, I don't need to be any seer to forecast the future and tell whether I will be a petted darling or a domestic slave, if I take John for better or worse, or whether I will acquire a helpmate or a wife who will keep my nose to the grindstone as long as I live, if I tie up with Mary.

In the main this is true. If a boy grows up in a household in which he sees his father treat his mother without consideration or respect, if he hears his father speak to his mother as he would to no other woman on earth; if he sees his father deal niggardly with his mother, he naturally has a contempt for all women and feels that they are mere household conveniences for men's use and that they are to be kicked around at his pleasure.

And he is almost sure to treat his wife in the same manner, because his father has taught him from his infancy up that there is no use controlling your temper for a mere wife, because she has to stand insults and abuse and put up with a husband's grouchiness and surliness and stinginess. She can't help herself.

On the other hand, the boy who sees his father treat his mother like a little queen; who sees his father put his mother's pleasure and welfare before everything else; who sees his father tender and gentle and generous to his mother and who never hears his father speak to his mother without a caress in his voice, almost invariably treats his wife in the same manner. Chivalry toward women has been bred in his very bones and he doesn't know that a man can be anything but good to his wife.

Same way with girls and their mothers. If a girl's mother is a slovenly and sloppy housekeeper who never has a meal on time or sweeps under a bed, her daughter is likely to make the same sort of housekeeper because she had been brought up with slovenly habits and with no regard for punctuality. If the mother is extravagant, the daughter is pretty sure to be wasteful because she has been taught no habits of thrift. If the mother is one of the women who believe that what a man doesn't know doesn't worry him, and that a wife is justified in padding bills and getting all the money she can out of her husband, the daughter is likely to follow mother's example and consider marriage nothing but a graft

But if the mother is thrifty and economical and a good manager and a good cook, the girl will make the same sort of a housekeeper as her mother was, and if she has always seen her mother treat her husband with affection, with deference, with consideration and appreciation, she will almost inevitably take the same attitude toward her husband.

But there are exceptions to this rule of like father like son, like mother like daughter. Sometimes the son of a man who has been a bad husband is so revolted at his father's cruelty to his mother that he makes the best and tenderest of husbands. Sometimes a girl is so disgusted at her mother's slovenly housekeeping and so horrified at the way her mother kept her father always in debt by her wastefulness, that she becomes almost penurious and makes one of these proverbially neat housekeepers off whose floors one could eat.

Another time-honored recipe for picking ut a good husband or wife is to judge a youth and maiden by the way they treat their parents. Nothing is commoner than to hear some dear old lady say: "John will make some girl such a good husband. He is just a model son. So attentive to his mother. Never leaves her alone of an evening to run around as most young men do."

Or she will say: "He will be a lucky man who gets Mary for a wife. She is the best daughter I ever saw. Denies herself everything for her old parents and spends everything she makes on them and the younger children."

Sounds logical and plausible and like a certificate of all the domestic virtues, but, as a matter of fact, the model son often makes the worst husband in the world and for a man to have a bad case of the mother complex disqualifies him for matrimony as much as if he was a drunkard or a ne-er-do-well or a philanderer.

For mother will not only always be the wife's deadly rival, she will be her successful rival. John will always be more son than husband He will always put his mother before his wife and consider her pleasure and comfort before wife's As long a she lives he will be tied to his mother's apron string and run to her for advice and comfort, which is no pleasant thing for any wife to have to endure. Often he forces his wife to live with his mother because he can't bear to part from her and in any case of disagreement between the two ladies he takes mother's side.

And of all women a man can marry the least satisfactory is the perfect daughter, for her husband will always run a bad second to her family. She will sacrifice him to them without mercy and turn him into nothing but a laborer who toils to support her people. She will fill her house so full of her kinfolks that he has to sleep on a bumpy couch in the living room and she will make him wear his year-before-last's suit so that she can give mother a new set of false teeth or the girls party frocks.

Only too often the man who thinks he is being foxy and avoiding making any mistake by marrying the sweet domestic girl who is mother's helper finds out that he, too, has qualified for the job and that he is doomed to spend his life being mother's and father's and sister's and brother's helper also.

So there you are. A dozen exceptions to every rule in selecting a lifemate. Danger on every side. The biggest gamble with the highest stakes on earth—marriage.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, Aug. 29. (US)—Lady Grace Drummond Hay is (and any male will admit it), a most fascinating woman. She may be more interesting, now that she has gone around the world in a balloon, but if she hadn't been interesting in the first place, the crew would have seen to it that she didn't make the trip.

Another reason she was welcomed heartily, is that she has more poise than Mr. Coolidge.

You expect to see, when you meet the Lady Hay you have heard so much about, a person who dashes about, her head high, and in her eyes a challenge to bring on your balloons, she will ride 'em all. A woman who says, "Sure, I'll jump with a parachute, who wants to see me do it?"

Instead, she has extremely soft voice that you have to strain your ears to hear, and because what she says is worth listening to, you do strain your ears.

She is not the least bit clothes crazy. She doesn't go around trying to find snappy outfits to fit the work at hand. Her interest is in the work and as long as she is cool enough or warm enough, she doesn't bother much about what she wears.

When Lady Hay gets in from a long, trying, dirty trip, she goes to a beauty parlor and gets trimmed up a bit—then she forgets about how she looks, and, although I've been with her on many occasions at luncheon and dinner, I have yet to see her take out any kind of make-up and apply it. She doesn't even powder her nose, which, somehow, never seems to need it.

She is very pretty. Much better looking than her pictures and those eyes! A rich brown in color and like bottomless wells. She can keep her body very still while her eyes dance in lively fashion.

Lady Hay never complains. It's too bad if her clothes do not come home from the cleaners, and if her packages are not delivered on time, but she never spoils the fun of other people by enumerating her troubles. For all you knew she hasn't any. But if something amuses her and it doesn't hurt anyone else, she tells it with delight. She is never afraid of anything.

Lady Hay must be bored now and then, but I defy anyone to detect it. She seems interested in everybody and everything, and she never interrupts, although often she could talk interestingly and put an end to a lot of chatter. She doesn't feel that she is the most interesting person at the party, though she almost invariably is.

And if she is quiet and looks like a beautiful sleepy leopard, and you imagine she doesn't know all that's going on, let me tell you that she can see through to what is in back of you, and could tell you after one look, whether you tie your pink undies or sew little buttons on them.

The gentleman who sits next to Lady Hay at dinner always gets her undivided attention. He has a wonderful time, because she lets him talk, and then she makes him feel that he is giving her a great treat. It's a neat trick in dinner tactics and more women could use it to advantage. It requires unselfishness to an extent that most women would hardly consider worth while.

You could about as easily imagine Lady Hay having a tantrum, as you could picture a frog wearing sidecombs.

And as that's the kind of women welcome on Zeppelin trips, what chance do you think you have?

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose

Mrs. Fred Couper Wins Golf Trophy

A touch of autumn in the early morning air is said to have tempted quite a number to take part in the game held Thursday by the Woman's Golf association.

Mesdames Fred Couper, H. F. Weldon, J. B. Hatchitt, W. P. Bolding, Helen Kendall, H. P. Ledford, H. B. White, Roy Carter, Luke McCrory and Misses Nell Gibbs, Laura Lee Hampshire, Dell Hatchitt and Marjorie Bright were on the links.

Mrs. Fred Couper won the low ball trophy.

Luncheon was served in the main dining room with the table set with green crystal and centered with pink roses. Pink watermelon balls, served as cocktails, carried out the color scheme.

Misses Catherine and Margaret Kendall joined the luncheon party.

SINGERS MEET AT MEMPHIS

Association Meeting to Be Held Sept. 7-8

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Aug. 29.—All preparations have been made and plans completed for entertaining the Oklahoma-Texas District Singers association, which will convene here for two days, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 7 and 8, bringing to this city an estimated attendance of between 2,000 and 2,500 people, according to Wesley J. Mangum, president of the organization, who is in charge of the program and arrangements.

An interesting program has been prepared for the two-day meeting here. All sessions will be held in the auditorium of the First Baptist church, and the morning services of practically all the churches in the city will be dispensed with on the Sunday the convention is in session.

There will be at least 20 song leaders and directors from each county. Each of the seven counties that are listed in the organization will send five delegates and a large delegation of visitors, according to Mr. Mangum. The Texas Gold Medal band has been secured to give a concert at one of the sessions of the convention.

Among the features on the program will be the Amarillo quartet; E. M. Bartlet of Hartford, Ark., who will be here with the Hartford all-star quartet; V. O. Stamps of Dallas, and Chattanooga, Tenn., with a quartet and the Owen brothers and Ellis Columbia recording artists.

In addition to the many quartets, there will be a large number of able soloists and concert singers to add to the effectiveness of the program.

Printed invitations have been sent out to singers throughout the section embraced by the association. The coming convention will very likely prove to be the largest this city has ever entertained, and adequate provisions have been made for the entertainment of all delegates.

President Mangum states that the convention will undoubtedly be the greatest gathering of trained singers and lovers of music that Southwestern Oklahoma and Northwest Texas have ever known.

'UNCLE WATT' TAKES THE AIR

With His Wife, He Goes Up in Plane at Memphis

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Aug. 29.—Among the many citizens of Memphis that took a ride in the trimotor Ford plane here a few days ago were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wells, 85 and 83 years of age respectively. "Uncle Watt," as he is known by all Memphis citizens, gives the following story of the evolution of transportation.

"When I was a kid living in a small town in northern Mississippi, I had my first ride behind a yearling team with a home-made wagon and yoke. Later, I advanced to a three-yoke ox team, and still later a mule team with a real wagon. It was not until after the civil war that I ever saw a wagon with a seat, however. And then when 74 years old, a six-cylinder automobile was ushered in and riding comfort was at its height."

The aged couple enjoyed the airplane ride very much, and pronounced it "the best yet." "If the plane was still here, I would go up again," said Uncle Watt several days after the plane had gone.

Uncle Watt laments the fact that the plane did not arrive just a few days later so that his first airplane ride would have been on his birthday, which was on Aug. 27. When questioned as to what sensation he got from the trip, Uncle Watt replied: "It was a fine trip, but whenever the plane turned to one side, I had to squint my eyes a little. My wife says she got a little dizzy, but it didn't bother me."

Cordell says in addition to having a high sugar content they are valuable for hogs, cattle and chickens as food.

Gold—and a Poor Farm

FEW NEWS STORIES in recent months have been more interesting than the one telling how some 9,000 men and women who went to the Klondike in the great gold rush of 1898 held a convention—a "sourdough stampede," they called it—in Seattle the other day.

The reassembling of that army of one-time gold hunters provides food for considerable mediation. But there was one sentence in the news story that stood out above all the others. It read:

"Among the delegates were 16 gray haired, bent old men who registered from the King county poor farm."

That one sentence could be used as the starting point for a novel, a long treatise on American economic conditions or a dissertation on the whimsicality of the sardonic fates.

The thought of that group from the poor farm sticks in one's mind. It is tragic and fascinating.

Thirty years ago those 16 men were young and ambitious. They made their way north to the fabled Klondike at a time when it seemed possible for any industrious, stout hearted prospector to become a millionaire. The river beds and mountains of the hard arctic region seemed fairly bursting with gold. Before the eyes of every one of these 16, beyond a doubt, there dangled a bright vision of future riches.

But the end, for each one of them, was the poor farm.

It would be hard to read of them without feeling pity for them, Yet it is possible that they do not need pity as much as we imagine.

They didn't get the gold they went after, to be sure. But, after all, they had the experience of hunting for it. Life gave them intensity and complete experience. Before they went to the Klondike they lived humdrum, unexciting lives, and after they came back they met failure, bad luck and slid into the poor farm; but for a short time they were among the fortunate ones of the earth.

There is more to that than you might think. For why, after all, do men go to the dark corners of the earth to join in gold rushes? To get rich? Partly; but that is not all of it. There is a challenge in things like the Klondike gold rush. The old pioneer saying—"the cowards never came, and the weak ones died along the way"—applied with great force to the trail of 1898. The man who went to the Klindike, lived there amid its incredible rigors, and came out alive, had been tested as few men are tested. He had lived more intensely than his stay-at-home fellows would ever live in a century.

And that is the main thing. Men do not want riches nearly so much as they want intense living. These 16 men from the poor farm had that, at least—and, having had it, are richer than many a man who looks on them with pity.

Unprepared in the Air?

DESPITE all the progress America has made in aviation in recent years, the nation cannot yet consider itself properly prepared in the air, in a military sense, according to Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, chief of aeronautics in the U. S. navy.

Admiral Moffett told Culver Military academy summer school students the other day that Germany, despite her defeat in the world war, leads the entire world in aviation, "both in expenditures and progress." He urged an upbuilding of Uncle Sam's aerial defense, remarking that the navy needs at least four more modern aircraft carriers."

Probably it is a surprise to most of us to hear that our military aviation is not yet up to standard. There is one comfort, however; we are undoubtedly making vast progress. The quick development of a huge air force in time of war would be a far easier task now than it was in 1917.

Two Great Lakes Waterways

THE MIDDLE WEST, probably, is a unit in demanding that the Great Lakes be connected with salt water by an adequate ship canal. But, until recently, at least, there has been a division of opinion about the route to be chosen. Some cities have urged the St. Lawrence canal, and others have supported Chicago in her plea for a waterway from the lower end of Lake Michigan to the Gulf of Mexico, via the Mississippi river.

Now it is beginning to look as if the two factions are getting together. Each side is coming to see that both waterways would be highly valuable. The busy, productive Middle West could provide traffic enough for both, beyond a doubt. And the general stimulus to business activity which would result would be very likely to provide more commerce for the railroads as well.

Charlotte Chatterton, nicknamed Chatty, is a born gossip. Her mother, a widowed dressmaker, through a wealthy customer gets Chatty a position as telephone operator at the Van Nuys Co. bonds. Chatty, with her incessant chattering and gossip, creates havoc. She falls in love with one of the up-and-coming bond salesmen, David Jordan. He is interested in her, but when her gossip causes Agnes Herford to lose her position David passes her up. Later Chatty listens in on all of David's phone conversations and he finally "calls" her down in front of the office people. Chatty's girl friend, Billie Langenau, a file clerk, and Winnie Talcott, Mr. Van's secretary, have some lively parties. Chatty has dates with a newcomer to the office, Bryant Dunning, who is married but says his wife has left him. Chatty goes with Bryant more to spite David.

Chatty overhears a phone conversation and learns that David is going to leave Van Nuys and go to work at the Midas bank. Chatty believes David is copying the bond buyers' names at Van Nuys' and runs to Mr. Van with the story. Mr. Van knows all about it, and tells Chatty she can apologize to David or leave her position.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIX

Chatty's answer to this devastating question was to burst into tears. They were genuine tears, not faked.

She cried so hard and made such a scene that Mr. Van Nuys left the room and sent Winnie in to her.

Winnie wasted no time in asking questions.

She led the sobbing girl out into the dressing room, dashed cold water in her face, sat her down in a chair hard, and then shook her.

"Snap out of it!" she commanded. "What's the idea? Think you can cry a raise out of him? Or did you get in dutch again by talking too much?"

If Winnie had tried to check Chatty's tears with anger, she succeeded. Chatty stopped crying with an effort, to answer, heatedly: "I was trying to do—oh! to do him a favor! And he—he fired me!"

"Fired you? Will it stick, this time?" Winnie wondered aloud.

"No-o-o—not exactly. But—but if I don't want to be fired I must—I must apologize to David Jordan!"

"For what?" asked Winnie, bewildered. "I didn't know you were on speaking terms with Dave!"

"I—I—am not!" confessed Chatty, miserably. "I—I heard him say he was going to leave—for good—and—and to keep it secret—and I saw him copying customers' names—and I thought he was—was stealing from Mr. Van Nuys—and Mr. Van Nuys says it isn't and—"

"I thought so!" interrupted Winnie. "That infernal tongue of yours! Talk, talk, talk! Why don't you learn to sing or do a clog dance or play a harp or something? Well, go on an apologize to him! You'll not get another soft job like this in a hurry—"

But that Chatty would not do. Apologize to David Jordan? Prove to him that he was right when he told her what a malicious gossip she was? Eat humble pie and have the whole office know it?

If only she hadn't told Winnie, she might have apologized privately!

But she had told Winnie. In her heart grew an uncomfortable wonder at herself—did she, really, always tell everything she knew? No! She had told no one of David's perfidy, when she had believed she had discovered it.

Chatty wrote out her resignation and laid it upon Mr. Van Nuys' desk when he was out to lunch. Other girls might admit they were in the wrong when they were not, to keep a good job, but not she! She was right—always right. The truth never hurt anyone. Of course, this time it didn't happen to be the truth, but it was no fault of hers! She had thought her tale of David was the truth. And that made it all right to tell, in Chatty's mind.

She explained it all very calmly to her mother.

"I couldn't do anything else!" she defended herself from the unuttered accusation in Mrs. Chatterton's eyes. "I thought he was stealing. I told my employer, as a loyal employee, what I saw and heard. He said I lied to him! Consequently, I have resigned!"

Mrs. Chatterton looked dubiously at her daughter.

"You said what you thought—not what you knew. Did he ask you if you knew it?"

Chatty paled a little. How had mother guessed that? That was one little point she had conveniently "forgotten" to tell.

"No, of course not!" she answered quickly.

But Mrs. Chatterton knew it was the truth.

"I have told you many times before," she said, slowly, "that you talk too much! You always did. Even as a little girl you talked too much. Now you have talked yourself out of a fine position. What are you going to do?"

"I'll get another one!" boasted Chatty. "There are plenty of jobs. I am a good P. B. X. operator."

"Can you get a good job without a letter of recommendation?" asked Mrs. Chatterton.

Chatty hadn't thought of that! Mr. Van Nuys would hardly give her a letter—

"I go this one without a letter!" she stated. Again she conveniently "forgot" how she obtained the position, through the intercession of Mrs. Van Nuys.

"I hope you can get another," answered Mrs. Chatterton. "If I were you I would make the apology he demands, and ask for my resignation back—"

"I'll starve first!" cried Chatty.

The days were long—long and blue. Chatty was at once conscious of a difference of the attitude of the office force toward her. Yesterday she had been one of them; today she was an outsider, one who was going. She remembered Agnes, creeping red-eyed about the office, crushed with despair—Agnes, whose job was forfeited because Chatty couldn't keep her knowledge to herself, because she had looked at a diary not hers to read.

Billie was shocked and stunned. Billie Langenau loved her erratic and chattering little friend. She mothered Chatty a great deal during those hard days. They talked it over, endlessly. Billie offered to do anything; to go to Mr. Van Nuys, to plead for her, to tell David about it and have him go to Mr. Van Nuys, but something inside Chatty forbade.

She might be a talker, a trouble maker, a chatterbox, but she wouldn't be a tin horn sport! She'd take her medicine. She'd get another job. She'd show the office whether she was wrong or not!

Her one comfort, beside Billie, was Bryant. Bryant was wholly on her side. He believed her side of the story—or said he did. He comforted her, took her for long drives. He offered roadhouse evenings and petting parties, dances and drinks—but for a while Chatty was too miserably unhappy to accept.

"You are sweet, Bryant, dear!" she told him. "You're a good sort. But I can't—not yet. Wait until I get fixed in a new job and we'll have some more good times."

Bryant was very happy over the promise. Perhaps he read in it more than Chatty intended. But he was very tender and sympathetic with her, during those last hard days.

She watched David constantly, and had no idea of how much her heart was in his eyes. But neither did David. He did not look at her at all, if he could help it.

Had Mr. Van Nuys told him, Chatty wondered? Not that it made any difference. She was going, anyway. A new telephone girl was already engaged. She had burned her bridges.

Chatty was too sad to look for a new job, as yet. Besides, in her heart was constantly the thought, "something may happen!" What, she did not know. A miracle—maybe David would relent. Maybe he would give her a job in his new bank.

Came the time when David Jordan locked his desk for the last time. He went around from desk to desk, shaking hands, smiling, happy saying "au revoir" to his many friends. They crowded around him, wishing him well. And Chatty sat miserably at her telephone, wondering if he would speak to her—she couldn't stand it! She wouldn't stand it! If he didn't say good-bye to her it would crush her—

Chatty fled to the dressing room, and stood, tearless, panting, trembling, unhappy, waiting until David left—

But at his footsteps in the hall, something in Chatty opened the door; something inside her heart compelled her to stand in the hall, to put up both hands to him as he walked down its length.

"Dave," said Chatty, with a quaver in her voice. "I'm sorry, so sorry, you are going. And I'm—I'm sorry and ashamed I said what wasn't so to Mr. Van Nuys. I thought—oh, I thought it was true. And I beg your pardon. I apologize. I am doing what Mr Van said I must do—will you forgive me?"

David looked at her tear-stained face. He smiled a little. Chatty thought it a dear, sweet smile—the smile she had hoped for, for a long time.

"Why, of course I will," he answered. "Come with me, now, and I'll tell Mr. Van Nuys—then you won't have to leave—"

So David knew!

But Chatty shook her head. Some well of courage and grit came to her air.

"No, Dave," she said. "I mustn't stay! I'm not doing this because Mr. Van Nuys said I must—I'm doing it because—because—"

Chatty raised imploring eyes. Wouldn't he help her at all?

David stood quiet, waiting.

But he waited in vain. Chatty had done all she could. She caught his hand to her lips, kissed it once, and fled.

It was over. David had left. And she was out in the world without him—and without a job.

Chatty intended to stay at home that evening. She walked home, half blinded with unshed tears, David's one little smile aching in her heart. For it was a smile of pity, a smile of regret that Chatty was not what he had thought her, a smile of a big man answering an unimportant appeal—

"What does he care whether I apologize or not?" thought Chatty, unhappily. "He—he's forgotten he ever liked me. And I—oh, I hate him, hate him!"

SIDE GLANCES By George Clark

"Neil has to work too hard for her money to tolerate a husband who gets up nights and goes through her pocket book."

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Vaudeville actors who are experienced joke-smiths will vouch for the fact that the fastest sticking windows in these United States are in the cars of a certain railroad which carries many customers. Often the ones that are open stay that way, and those that are shut stay shut. The other night, on the 1:23 a. m. main line train, a huge fellow who looked like a truck driver tried to open his window. It wouldn't budge. He hit the frame gently with the heel of his hand. No luck. He hit harder. Still no luck. Then he kicked the metal with both feet. Still it remained clamped in its grooves. The big fellow, who had done all this methodically and without the least show of temper, gave up.

Soon the conductor came through the car, taking tickets. "Open my window for me," said the truck driver. The conductor knew those windows well, and he shied off. "I haven't time," he snapped.

"OK by me," said the cheery passenger. Again raising his feet, he put both size 11 shoes through the glass, and with vast satisfaction inhaled the outdoor air. The conductor announced that he would have the vandal arrested at the next large town. I didn't ride that far, and I've been wondering what happened. I hope the judge gave the fellow a medal.

First-Nighters

Regular attendance at first nights in the theater brings to one's notice the same people at every new show. Chief of the first-nighters is a courtly old gentleman who, no matter what the theater, has the same seat location in the first row. He is a retired corset manufacturer. He is probably known to every actor on Broadway, and not long ago he was greeted from the stage. The greeting brought a larger round of applause from the audience than the entrance of any of the principal players.

Those who don't attend first nights very often are all atwitter in their search for the critics. Except on rare occasions, these gentlemen do not wear evening clothes—not from any inherent uncouthness, but because most of them have been working in the late afternoon and early evening and don't want to take time to change clothing. Besides, as one of the best-known of the critics recently remarked, "there aren't many shows in a season that deserve the compliment of attendance in evening garb."

The highly artistic interiors of the modern playhouses are, one finds, rather dimly lighted even during intermissions, and it is difficult to read one's programs. One first-nighter, who solicits theatrical advertising for one of the lesser journals, solves the lighting problem by carrying a cane whose crooked end is translucent stone. Inside the cane is a little flashlight. Snap! goes a switch, and the cane glows merrily.

Stopping Thieves

The other night I took a friend to see the final rehearsal of a new revue. It wasn't a dress rehearsal, for the show was to open for a tryout in Boston the following week, and the dress rehearsal would be held there. It was midnight when we slipped through the stage entrance, and the company was scheduled to entrain at 8 a. m.

"Just wait," I said to my friend as we passed the watchman. "It will be a madhouse here tonight. Everybody's nerves will be on edge, and everybody will be exhausted."

We moved the dust-proof covering from a pair of orchestra chairs and sat down. To my astonishment, the company was in full action and not a sound emanated from the bare stage. Principals and chorus alike were going through sketches and singing songs in pantomime only.

"Clever fellow, this producer," I said to myself. "He realizes that pantomime is an important part of acting, and he wants it to be perfect."

Several days later I spoke to the producer, complimenting him on his novel rehearsal. "Oh," said he, "I didn't care a hang about the pantomime. But other producers had several spies in the theater, and I didn't want them to steal our jokes and songs."

Missing Men

"Mother" Roper might be called the mistress of the Port of Missing Men. At the Seamen's Church Institute, the meeting point in New York of men from the seven seas, Mrs. Janet Roper is head of the missing men department. Hers is an unflagging search for sailors who have dropped—intentionally or otherwise—from the sight of their relatives. Her office memorandum are such as these:

"John Doe, 5 feet 10, dark hair, brown eyes. Shipped on the Gallantic in 1927 for Southampton. Home, Indianapolis. Mother very ill." And there is a picture of John. Another memorandum reminds Mrs. Roper that the admiralty office in London would like to find Dick Roe, to give him 10 pounds and a medal for saving three men in a steamship wreck.

Mrs. Roper talks with the seamen who visit the institute, and writes to ship owners and port masters all over the world in her search for missing men. She does her work well. This year she has located nearly 200.

If Graham McNamee Announced The Stock Market Prices

"Hello, folks! This is Graham McNamee giving you the closing prices on the wonderful stock exchange. I am right here where I can see everything and I want to tell you it's a magnificent spectacle. The sun is now sinking over the purple hills and there is just a slight tang in the air. It's been what I'd call a perfect day for trading; not too warm and not too cold, but just ideal.

"Allegheny corporation is up two points and is now 52 . . . No . . . Just a minute . . . I think it's Allegheny corporation but it is difficult to see clearly from here now and some of the boys say it is Allis-Chalmers . . . You'll have to wait just a second . . . Wait! . . . It's American Car and Foundry, folks, and it's 97, not 52.

"Wow! . . . Look! . . . There goes Anaconda Copper, up two, three, four, five . . . up six points to 125! . . . A beautiful spurt, folks, a beautiful spurt! . . . There have been lots of good spurts here today but not much prettier than that one.

"Here comes Armour A now, folks . . . No, it's Armour B. I guess . . . Wait a second . . . It's Armour preferred, I understand . . . But no matter, there's nothing doing there just now . . . Oh . . . Gosh! . . . Look! . . . Some stock has broken away and is clear through the field . . . It's gained five . . . ten . . . fifteen . . . twelve points . . . I can't quite make it out from here . . . There are long shadows over the market now, but I am pretty sure it is American Smelting . . . American Smelting made a smashing gain there . . . No, folks, that stock that just made that sensational gain was American Telephone and Telegraph . . . Phew! I've seen many swell performances this season but nothing to beat that.

"Yeabo! . . . Say! . . . There he goes! . . . There goes a stock right out from the pack . . . It's Beechnut . . . It's Bethlehem Steel . . . Bethlehem crashed through to 130, a clean gain of seven points . . . Wait! . . . No, they're putting it back to 137 . . . Only a four-point gain there for some reason or other . . . I don't quite understand that . . . Anyhow Bethlehem is now 127.

"Whoopee! . . . I wish you could see the excitement here now, folks . . . Hear that yelling? . . . Hear that cheering? . . . Everybody's gone plumb crazy here, folks . . . A stock has crashed through and made a gain of twenty points . . . It is Commercial Solvents . . . Huh? . . . What? . . . Eddie Goopus here tells me it is Columbia Graphaphone . . . Columbia Graphaphone, a little stock that hasn't been doing much lately upset the dope and . . . No . . . It's Consolidated Gas that just made that marvelous dash.

"Just a minute, folks. There is a lot of confusion down there now . . . They're setting all the stocks back . . . Something has happened . . . The stocks are falling back . . . I can't quite see what is going on down there, but it's something very serious . . . All the stocks are going back five . . . ten . . . twenty . . . forty points in some cases, folks . . . Oh, I see now . . . the bears have sprung a surprise . . . They have thrown in the old Secretary Mellon resignation rumor . . . This is an old trick, but it's working. Gee, but they're all in a heap down there now and a lot of people are getting hurt . . . I can't be sure what's happened till they unscramble."

ECKENER GUEST AT WASHINGTON

Flight Commander Greets President Hoover

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29. (AP)—Tired, Dr. Hugo Eckener, master of the globe circling Graf Zeppelin, came to Washington today to express personally to President Hoover and high government officials his gratitude for this country's assistance in the historic achievement.

With the deepest feeling the German told the president the flight "could not have been achieved without the generous assistance which came from the United States."

President Hoover and other officials, as well as the throngs who crowded the streets and department corridors, gave tribute to Doctor Eckener of high admiration for the feat.

In congratulating the Graf's commander, President Hoover said the noteworthy flight showed "the spirit of high adventure still lives," and it's "success has been due to the eminent scientific and engineering abilities of the German people, translated by your own skill and courage."

Replying to the president's tribute, Doctor Eckener said:

"Mr. president, I am deeply grateful for the gracious address you have been pleased to extend to me. You have been kind enough to appreciate what the ship, captain and crew have achieved and we are proud of such appreciation.

"I wish to say, however, that the achievement could not have been attained without the generous assistance of the United States. I wish to avail myself of this occasion to express my appreciation."

Russian Safety Plan Hit

Reports that the Soviet government is considering the erection of experimental buildings with "armored" walls and gas-proof chambers, have caused much discussion among scientists and engineers of Europe. According to the reports the walls and foundations of the structures would be thick reinforced concrete. Each floor would contain a gas-proof room with airtight double doors and a supply of oxygen tanks ready for an emergency. Below the structure, underground stories would form additional safety places. Above, a series of protective roofs would make bombs harmless. Beneath the buildings would be underground highways, railways and light and water plants. One European chemist has scouted the idea, declaring that the danger of gas attacks on large cities is overestimated because planes could not carry enough gas to do great damage.

You, too, may have a clear skin

Proud? Justly so!

Every person should have a clear skin. If you have skin blemishes why not get rid of them PERMANENTLY?

THOUSANDS of people have weak, impure blood—to this may be attributed pimples, boils, eczema, "run-down" systems, rheumatism and even more serious ailments.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

When you get the number of your red-blood-cells back to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, those pains usually called rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again and sleep soundly; firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong. Your nerves become steady. You are resistant to disease.

Throughout more than a hundred years S.S.S. has been a blessing to millions of people who have taken advantage of its wonderful medicinal properties. It is Nature's own blood tonic for improving the appetite, clearing the body of so-called skin troubles, and building strength and resistance to disease.

S.S.S. increases the count of red-cells in the blood. Weak, impure blood is injurious to the system, lowering resistance to disease. Rich, red blood builds and sustains the body. S.S.S. helps Nature build rich, red blood. Good blood improves the processes by which the body is nourished, promotes constructive metabolism (healthy body building) and works against infection and disease. Take S.S.S. daily at mealtime. To get full benefit you must take it regularly and over a sufficient period of time. At all Drug Stores. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

Skin troubles—pimples, boils, eczema, and sallow complexion—are usually but symptoms of a deeper, a more dangerous trouble—a lack of the normal count of red-cells in the blood.

When you take S.S.S. to get rid of these outside blemishes, you are building up the system to ward off the graver diseases of which these blemishes are Nature's warning.

S.S.S. is made from fresh vegetable drugs and has a successful record of over 100 years back of it.

SENATE FARM BLOC IS BUSY

Wheat Belt Solons Plan Hard Campaign

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29. (UP)—The senate farm bloc is assembling for the coming session in an irritated mood because of failure of President Hoover's federal farm board to take care of the wheat farmer.

Following announcement of Senator Brookhart, Independent Republican, Iowa, he intended to ask hearings on nominations of board members, Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, revealed today he is planning a full inquiry into the fitness of two board members whom he declined to name as yet.

The plan of the farm bloc is to refer Mr. Hoover's board nominations to the agriculture committee when they are sent up from the White House Sept. 4 and then to call the nominees before the committee for examination.

"The board has helped the fruit farmer but has ignored the wheat farmer," said Nye. "The Northwest was expecting some action because congress had provided sufficient funds, but thus far our people have received no help whatsoever and there seems to be no prospects of them getting any from this source in the immediate future. The present wheat situation could have been helped if the farm board had functioned properly."

Other members of the bloc have concurred with the views of Brookhart and Nye, and their strength is sufficient under the liberal senate rules to force a perfunctory investigation of the board even if it does not prevent confirmation of some of the nominees.

The situation was entirely unexpected after the widespread confidence expressed by farm representatives in congress after Mr. Hoover's own announcement of the board personnel.

Tulia Man, Past 80, Runs 100-Acre Farm

Special to The Record News

TULIA, Texas, Aug. 29.—A farmer named Muirhead who is past 80 years of age and lives four miles east of Tulia successfully farms his 100-acre farm alone.

This year he had 80 acres in wheat which averaged 20 bushels per acre and practically all the work except combining was done by him. The land was summer fallowed by him with a team of mules, and the only time a tractor was in the field was at harvest time.

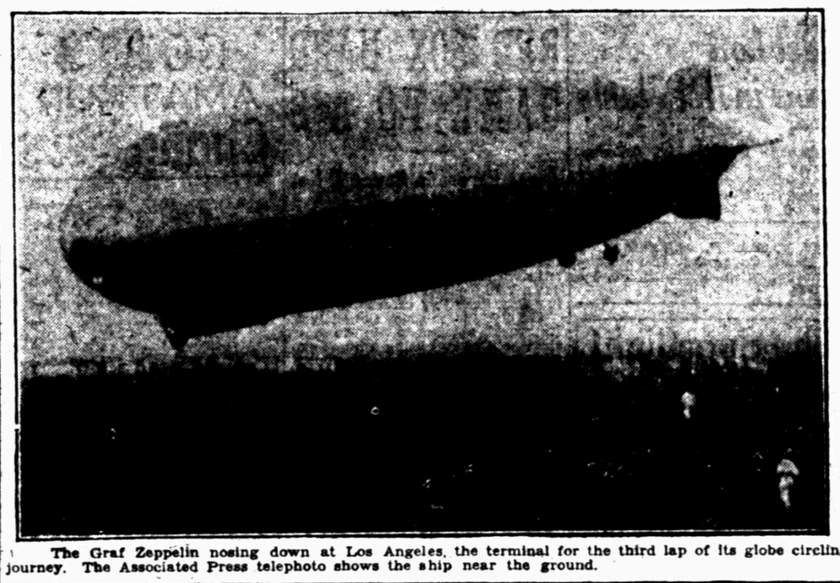

Muirhead has a small tract of alfalfa and is raising a number of hogs this year.

U. S. Fish Car Used to Supply Tulsa Lake

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 29. (UP)—Confirmation was received today from the federal department of commerce that one of the government fish cars had hauled 2,000 perch from Nebraska and the fish eventually turned up in a lake near Tulsa, Okla.

Frank O'Connell, chief game warden, received the confirmation as the result of his investigation of charges that M. E. O'Brien, fish culturist of Tulsa, Okla., had stolen the fish from Nebraska. O'Connell again wired Tulsa officials asking for an explanation.

Peggy Hopkins Joyce Becomes a 'Perfect American Girl'

New Villa Takes Aspect of Convent Since Reformation Started

By BARON GEORGE WRANGEL
(Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.)

CAP DAIL, France, Aug. 29.—Peggy Hopkins Joyce has retired from public life, turning her villa into a convent cell.

Of all the schemes for publicity that Peggy has ever tried, this one has succeeded in arousing more talk than anything she has ever done.

Imitating the "perfect American girl," she has cut out night life, gambling in the local casinos and appearing on the beach in daring bathing suits.

Peggy has reformed, and she wants the world to know it. She spends her mornings bathing in front of her new Villa du Petite Chien Bleu, which, reports say, was the parting gift of a New York banker. Her afternoons she devotes to improving her mind, reading the classics a la Gene Tunney. Then, physically and mentally fatigued, she retires early.

When asked the truth of the rumor she intended to draw Viscount Furness into matrimony, Peggy replied:

"Nonsense! I have no such intentions, and I do not know Viscount Furness. I have heard, though, that he is married—which is a pity!"

Peggy is still unable to resist her flair for the limelight, and insinuated that in three or four weeks she might again figure prominently in the social chatter of the continentals.

Materials Handy for Floyd County Roads

Special to The Record News.

LOCKNEY, Texas, Aug. 29.—Due to the presence of vast deposits of what technicians term "caliche" on the Runningwater draw, six miles southwest of here, civic leaders believe that Floyd county's paving and road building program will gain momentum due to the low cost of nearby material.

A chamber of commerce committee and several members of the city commission have made recent trips to points where like materials are being used and plans are well under way to determine the feasibility and practicability of using this material for building Floyd county roads and paving the city streets.

Property owners on the busiest thoroughfare of this city are planning test strips of this type of paving on streets adjacent to their property.

Yarbrough of Paducah, who was shot in the leg, in the melee, is in the hospital at Childress.

Two men, Ernest Bridwell and Chick Ledbetter, also of Paducah, were brought to Quanah Sunday and placed in jail as a result of the fracas. Another Paducah man, Buddy Yarbrough, is being sought by officers as the fourth man in the affray. The officer said he had cautioned them regarding their conduct when they attacked him, beating him with the auto pump.

PEG'S SUCCESSOR WINS ALIMONY

CHICAGO, Aug. 28. (US)—Mrs. Nellie M. Joyce, successor to the much-wed Peggy Hopkins as the wife of J. Stanley Joyce, today won $500 monthly temporary alimony and $1,000 attorney fees pending hearing of her divorce suit.

Mrs. Joyce alleges that the wealthy lumberman was "extremely cruel," beginning shortly after their marriage on Nov. 20, 1926, and ending with their separation on May 3, last.

Other than awarding Mrs. Joyce alimony and counsel fees, Judge Stanley Klarkowski granted a restraining order which prevents Joyce from disposing of his extensive lumber and railroad interests before the divorce hearing.

When a Child is FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, gas, sour tleching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

BETTENCOURT'S THREE HOMERS WIN FOR SPUDDERS IN TENTH

PAYNE SCORES 25TH VICTORY

Larry's Third Drive With One on Base Cops, 8-6

Special to The Record News

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 29.—Larry Bettencourt blasted a place in the hall of fame today when he equalled the record of modern baseball for hitting home runs. The Spudder utility man, playing left field in the place of the crippled Red Bennett, whanged three home runs, one of which came in the tenth inning, to give the Spudders an 8 to 6 victory and a sweep of the three-game series with the Indians.

Bettencourt's third circuit drive, in the tenth round, scored Duke Hermann, who had doubled, ahead to prove the winning edge. Bettencourt's first homer was hit in the second inning with none on base and his second four-base wallop was hammered in the seventh, with a comrade on the lines. In his two other times at bat Bettencourt walked and flied to center. He scored four runs, and thus accounted for six of his club's tallies.

Steengrafe Effective

Milt Steengrafe had the better of Hobo Carson in a pitching duel, the Spudder right-hander retiring in the ninth to permit a pinch-hitter to bat for him, with the score 5 to 4 in his favor. The Spudders tallied another in the ninth but the Tribe scored two in their half off George Payne to send the contest into extra innings. George held the enemy scoreless in the ninth and received credit for the victory, his 25th of the season against 11 defeats.

As a result of winning today Wichita Falls gained half a game on Dallas and Houston, who tied, and now leads the Buffs by two and a half games.

Jack Crouch hammered three hits today and Sullivan, Fitzgerald and Hermann two each. The Spudders played errorlessly.

Spuds Start Scoring Early

Stapleton led off in the first inning with a double to right and scored on Fitzgerald's single to right and the Spudders added another in the second on Bettencourt's first homer, over the centerfield wall.

San Antonio tied it in the sixth with a brace of markers. Tate and Flippen singled and Ballew walked. Casey lifted to Bettencourt, scoring Tate. Brozovich hit to right for two bases, tallying Flippen.

Benton walked, advanced to second on Turgeon's infield out and scored on Benton's single in the seventh and Bettencourt clouted his second homer over the left field fence to give the Spudders a 5-2 lead but the Indians scored two in their half.

Carson doubled, Tate strolled and Flippen hit safely, filling the bases. Ballew singled, scoring Carson. Riley lifted to Sullivan, sending Tate home.

Larry Walks, Tallies

They passed Bettencourt, first up, in the ninth and Crouch sacrificed. Bennett batted for Steengrafe and advanced Larry to third on an infield out. Stapleton strolled. Flippen threw wild to first on Sullivan's grounder, Bettencourt scoring.

Carson and Tate singled and rode home on Riley's triple in the Tribe half to knot the count.

Andy Messenger probably will hurl the opener of the series tomorrow at Waco, a three-day stand that includes a double-header.

Golf No Longer 'Foreign' to Irish

Celts at Last Succumb to Lure of Game

DUBLIN, Aug. 29. (AP)—Ireland has a prejudice against "foreign games," and golf was for long considered a foreign game.

It had few players till Arthur Balfour, then chief secretary, gave it an impetus of fashion, and in those days to wield a golf club stamped a man as an uncompromising supporter of the British regime. But nowadays golf has no political distinctions.

There are scores of golf clubs all over the country, and the game brings together men of all sections and classes. Members of the dail and senate are keen players and hold tournaments.

Practically every member of the cabinet is a golfer. But till recently President Cosgrave held out. He gave in at last, however, and at Rosslare, where he spent his summer holiday, took lessons from a local professional.

It was an Irishman who invented the maxim that golf is a perfect cure for all worries, because when you are playing well nothing matters, and when you are playing badly nothing else matters.

Here Is First Grid Bear Yarn

Rice Fans Admit Outlook Gloomy for Owls

HOUSTON, Aug. 29. (AP)—As the date for opening of football practice approaches, Rice institute fans are wondering how the school's new coach, Jack Meagher, can develop an eleven capable of defeating any of the Owls' five conference opponents. The outlook is gloomy.

"Wait until next year," is the refrain most frequently heard among Owl supporters. A fine lot of talent is scheduled to enter the freshman class in September, and things should pick up in 1930. As for this season, Owl fans scarcely expect more than a repetition of last autumn, when the Birds failed to win a conference game.

Meagher, late of St. Edward's, refuses to appear downcast, however. He is making no rash predictions, but hopes to weld a team that will be in there battling all the way.

Eight letter men are expected to form a nucleus for this year's eleven. They are Capt. Bush Jones of Dallas, Bill Morgan, Denison, and Travis Allen, Houston, linemen; George McCarble, Houston, Dub Harder, Waco, and Frank Power, Edna, ends; and Ross Kennedy, Sabinal, and Joe Stoppel, Cleveland, Ohio, backs. "Spud" Braden, quarterback, who was elected co-captain, will not return.

Forty-eight aspirants have been ordered to report for practice Sept. 10.

Ruggles Disallows Shreveport Protest

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 29. (AP)—A protest of the first game of Wednesday's Shreveport-Beaumont double-header, won by Beaumont, was disallowed by William B. Ruggles, acting president of the Texas league today.

Shreveport charged the umpire had not been justified in ejecting Manager Phelan of Shreveport in the fifth inning for smoking on the players' bench while managing his team in street clothes.

Ruggles ruled that while there was no rule against smoking on the bench the umpire was charged with maintaining the dignity of the league and was correct in refusing to allow anyone to smoke on the bench.

Two Big Ten Elevens Rated Highly by Coach

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 29. (AP)—Glenn Thistlethwaite, Wisconsin coach, rates Northwestern and Minnesota as the class of the Western conference football teams this fall, stamping both as title contenders.

Illinois, winner of two consecutive titles, will be the underdog, Thistlethwaite believes.

He doesn't like the chances of his Wisconsin outfit.

AL BROWN WINS

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 28. (UP)—Al Brown, Panama negro, claimant to the world bantamweight championship, defeated Knud Larsen of Denmark, on points in a 12-round bout here tonight.

Al Brown is matched to meet Teddy Baldock of England, for the world bantamweight title in New York, Sept. 19.

Indian Roads Fight Buses

Railways of India are making strenuous efforts to meet the growing competition of motor bus lines. Rail passenger travel is dropping off and earnings are declining. Some railways are improving their services and reducing fares, but these have not given all the results desired. One line has started rail motor service, and a number have inaugurated buslines as feeders. One road, which has lines paralleling the highway, has added 52 passenger trains and 48 short-distance shuttle trains. In spite of this the number of passengers carried last year decreased by 900,000, as compared with 1927. Passenger earnings, however, were maintained, as the average distance traveled by passengers showed an increase.

Daily Dope

By LARRY DAILEY

OF ALL the super-men of sports history, the greatest of them doubtless is Bobby Jones. Ruth, Grange, Dempsey and a few, very few others, arose to great heights on innumerable occasions, and with various handicaps confronting them. But none have equaled Jones in the amazing frequency that Bobby has ridden over the opposition, and in a sport that is the most uncertain of them all.

In setting a course record of 70, two under par, at Pebble Beach, scene next week of the national amateur tournament, Jones has shown he is at the top of his game. It will be the king against the field, and while Von Elm, Voigt, Tolley and others offer a threat, the Atlantan will be a prohibitive favorite to retain the amateur crown.

HERB COBB and Johnny Buvid, former Spudders, turned in some great pitching yesterday for the Milwaukee club of the American association. Working the first game of a double-header, Cobb held Minneapolis to nine scattered hits to score a 7 to 1 victory.

Buvid chucked the second contest and though beaten hurled even better ball than Cobb. Johnny hooked up with Morgan in a great mound duel, in which the Millers won, 1 to 0. Buvid allowed only three hits while Morgan held the Brewers to one lone blow.

White and Bell Will Meet Lott And Doeg Tomorrow in Net Finals

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 29. (AP)—George M. Lott Jr., Chicago, and John Doeg, Santa Monica, Calif., today gave Big Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter their second defeat in a week to gain a place in the 48th national doubles tennis championships finals match here on the Longwood Turf courses. The scores were 7-5, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

Lott and Doeg will meet Berkeley Bell and Lewis N. White, both of Austin, Texas, in the final match Saturday afternoon. The Texans gained the last bracket by defeating W. F. Coen Jr., of Kansas City and Harris Coggeshall, Des Moines, in another extra-set match, 7-5, 3-6, 6-3, 6-1.

SOUTHERN GRID CROWDS GROW

Building of Large Stadiums Is Made Necessary

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 29.—Dr. Wilbur C. Smith, athletic director of Tulane university, believes the growth of football in the South can best be gauged by the ever-increasing amount of stadium building.

Of the 23 institutions in the Southern conference, 12 of the number already have constructed fine football plants or have granted building contracts for such structures, he points out.

Before the war, not a college in the South was prepared to seat more than 10,000 or 12,000 fans and only three or four could handle crowds of that size. Today, eight or 10 can seat crowds of 30,000, while several others can handle crowds of 20,000 and upward.

The others are prepared to seat from 5,000 up to 12,000, Dr. Smith pointed out.

42,000 at Georgia Tech Game

Georgia Tech has had more than 42,000 paid admissions at Grant field. Tulane university has normal seating capacity of 28,000. Virginia's stadium seats 15,000. Duke university, its first year in the conference, is dedicating a stadium to seat 33,000.

The University of Georgia, playing Yale in October, will dedicate a new stadium to seat 35,000. Florida has taken steps toward building a $500,000 plant. Alabama has authorized a plant to seat 12,000 when the first unit is completed.

Louisiana State can handle without trouble between 25,000 and 30,000 fans. Dudley field at Nashville seats 20,000 or more. Tennessee's stadium last year seated 15,000 and with the plans for addition will care for 22,000. The plant at Kentucky will seat 15,000.

How the Crowds Grow

Fifteen years ago, Georgia Tech was drawing 4,000 fans and Tulane considered it a great throng when 2,000 or 3,000 appeared at a contest. Up until two years ago the city of Birmingham was turning out in "great numbers" when 7,000 saw Alabama and Sewanee play there. In 1927, a crowd of 25,000 saw Georgia and Alabama play in the city's new municipal stadium and the same season 18,000 saw Howard and Birmingham Southern, city colleges, fight it out for the Birmingham championship.

The University of Florida has found Jacksonville ready to turn out 15,000 strong any day the Alligators play there.

Dr. Smith believes the future of football is even greater with additional thousands of fans being converted to the love of the sport every year.

Mississippi university and Mississippi A. & M. only in recent years have started a home and home arrangement for their games, alternating between Starkville and Oxford. Attendance figures for their games have jumped tremendously under this campus arrangement, Dr. Smith points out, with 12,000 or more seeing the games now annually and the figures swelling every Thanksgiving.

Clemson and South Carolina played to 15,000 at Columbia, S. C., last fall.

Golf Thoughts En Route to Pebble Beach

On the road to Pebble Beach,
Where the flying slices screech,
And a squawk comes up like thunder
When the hole gets out of reach.

If there is any gray hair in the still somewhat youthful scalps of Bobby Jones and George Von Elm the same will be due to heavy brooding over the two 18-hole matches they will have to hurdle next Wednesday.

A young man by name of Jess Sweetser is not to be taken any too lightly. He happens to be so adjusted that the stronger his opponent the better he is almost sure to play. He can outstick glue.

In looking over the list no one has been able to discover the entry of the golf champions of Patagonia and the Fiji Islands. But practically every other champion is here.

Other Random Thoughts En Route

Caddie—Any small boy keenly interested in everything except where your wild hook landed.

Fairway—A green but largely uninhabited strip of turf running from tee to green.

Trap—A device which your opponent's ball jumps over and yours just rolls in.

He usually has enough to do in the way of carrying twice as many clubs as any golfer ever needs without having all the sins of dufferdom and stardom heaped upon him.

A caddie, as a rule, is about as good a caddie as the disposition of his employer.

The good sport usually has a good caddie. The bum sport never has.

Any golfer who has from 10 to 16 clubs in his bag has already given the caddie all he can do without expecting him to find balls lost in impenetrable thickets.

The caddie makes no pretense at being a combination superman, truck horse, magician, guide, blood hound and teacher. Yet that is what about 500,000 golfers expect him to be.

The golfer, as a rule, gets as good a caddie as he deserves to get. Most of the time even better.

There are 10 times as many bad golfers as there are bad caddies.

The caddie is the camel of golf. You know how much fun the game would be if his tribe suddenly became extinct. He's a pretty useful institution to conserve, protect and develop.

The main trouble in golf is getting the two hands to work with any team play. Often they don't speak. The left hand frequently doesn't know what the right hand is thinking about.

The right hand, usually being the stronger member, wants to take control. This is wrong.

You hear a lot about the most important stroke in golf. Drive, approach, putt—what not.

Don't let them kid you.

There is only one important stroke in golf. There is only one stroke you must think about, consider, ponder over and plan, to the absolute elimination of everything else. It is the only stroke that matters a half whoop in Heligoland, and that is—

The next stroke you have to play.

If at first you don't succeed try looking at the ball.

It is much simpler and easier to hit the back of the cup on the 19th hole.

Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow you may be off your game again.

He who swings and lifts his head will say things better left unsaid.

About one party in a million can hit with any force when off balance. About two million golfers try to—with wan success.

One of the main features of balance is correct use or transference of weight.

Due largely to the existence of human nature in bulk, 98 per cent of all who play golf will remain in the duffer class, which is somewhere beyond 100 for the round.

There are many reasons for this dip into depression.

In the first place, the average human being lacks the patience needed to practice the right way of swinging long enough to have it become instinct or second nature.

The average human being is still wondering, as he hits his putt, what the right line is and how hard he should hit. He is still wondering as he plays his approach whether he can carry that bunker or whether he is using the right club.

Suppose you picked up a fork and thought consciously of the right way to hold it—

Then of the correct tilt of the elbow—

And finally of the proper procedure necessary to place it in your mouth.

There would at least be a fair chance of impaling your upper or lower lip, especially if you jabbed as you do with a golf club.

The fork is a simple instrument because it is operated by instinct, or muscle memory.

The golf club is almost exactly the same. You must first learn how to swing, and through swinging practice make it all instinct, or muscle memory.

GOLF'S AMATEUR Challengers

FRANCIS OUIMET

By BRIAN BELL

NEW YORK, Aug. 29. (AP)—Francis Ouimet is another all-time Walker cup player who will compete in the amateur golf championship at Del Monte. The Boston star has played on all the international teams the United States has sent against Great Britain.

Ouimet, too, will share with Bobby Jones and Chick Evans the distinction of having held the open and amateur championships of the United States.

While the years have taken their golf toll, the Woodland player remains dangerous in any competition.

In 1927 the veteran advanced to the semi-finals where he ran into Bob Jones and was promptly removed from the competition. He had suffered the same fate in 1926, and 1924, and reached the semi-finals in 1923. He was runner up in 1920, losing to Chick Evans. This marked his last victory over Jones, for he met the Atlantan in the semi-finals and put him out of the picture.

KID CHOCOLATE WINS DECISION

Cuban Beats Al Singer In Fast 12-Round Fight

NEW YORK, Aug. 29. (UP)—Kid Chocolate, young Cuban negro, scored the greatest victory of his career here tonight when he won a thrilling 12-round decision from Al Singer, dark-eyed Bronx boy.

The largest crowd of the outdoor boxing season, numbering 50,000 paid about $225,000 to see the bout and cheered Chocolate as he left the ring.

Conceding his opponent almost four pounds, Chocolate proved the stronger and more durable and had Singer weak and weary from terrific punches to the head at the final bell. Singer weighed 128¾, Chocolate 125.

Hebrew Weakens

Chocolate allowed Singer to get away to a long lead in the early rounds, but he fought gamely and came steadily from behind to wipe out the young Hebrew's margin.

Singer faded badly during the last part of the fight, winning only one round after the sixth. He took the 11th by a tame session but was barely able to weather the final, furious round.

Standing toe to toe they traded punches in the 12th. Chocolate repeatedly staggered Singer with short lefts, and lightning rights to the head.

Chocolate Strong

Singer rallied in the middle of the last session and had the Cuban negro in bad shape on one occasion, but the kid recovered quickly and was outpunching Al at the final gong.

After the final round, the best of the fight, Chocolate jumped across the ring and lifted Singer up to show his strength. Singer was nearly exhausted and had a cut under his right eye, and a bit of swelling around that region.

Singer, who entered the ring a 7 to 5 favorite, announced after the battle that he had no alibis.

TURNESA SETS RECORD

RANGELEY, Maine, Aug. 29.—Joe Turnesa set a new course record for the Rangeley Golf club here when he scored a 67 while playing with C. Erling against William Ryan and Tom Lamey. Turnesa and Erling won the match.

Planes to Be Flying Hotels

Flying boats which are to be constructed to plans of Dr. Claude Dornier, the German designer, will virtually be hotels of the air. They will be huge 12-motor machines, capable of carrying 80 passengers, and will have restaurants, reading rooms, promenades and other features found in modern hostelries. The boats will be of a monoplane type, will have a wing spread of 150 feet, will weigh 50 tons loaded, and have a cruising range of 2,700 miles. The 12 motors will develop 6,000 horsepower. The craft will be able to land or take off in a heavy sea. Three are to be constructed for mail and passenger service from Europe to South America.

PIRATES AGAIN TROUNCE CUBS

Petty Scores 5-4 Win For Third in Two Days

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 29. (AP)—Led into battle a second day by their new generalissimo, Jewel Ens, the Pirates today registered their third conquest of the Cubs in two days, this time by a score of 5 to 4.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Reducing Arms

Question—Mrs. H. H. writes: "Kindly tell me how to reduce the upper arms."

Answer—Any kind of arm exercises will reduce the fat on your arms. The best ones to take are those requiring a reasonable amount of muscular tension and, at the same time, these exercises should be used rapidly and with vigor. Probably the best plan would be to purchase one of the "chest weight exercisers" which you can secure from any sporting goods store. This apparatus is attached to the wall and the exercises are taken by raising and lowering weights which are attached to handles by ropes running over pulleys.

Question—H. G. writes: "Several years ago while cranking my car I had a sudden 'crick' in the last joint of the back, which caused a miserable pain at the time and more or less ever since. It is in the back, extends down the front of the right leg and mainly in the hip joint. Worse at night and early morning, but wears off through the day."

Answer—You probably strained your back enough to either displace one of the vertebrae or move the sacro-iliac out of position. As several years have elapsed since the injury, it will no doubt take a long time to bring about a cure. The best treatment is with osteopathy or chiropractic, and the use of hot applications to your back. Most practitioners using manipulative therapeutics have electrical appliances or therapeutic lights which will produce better effects in the treatment of your back than any form of heat that you can use in your own home. Until such treatment is started, have some member of your family apply hot compresses to your back once or twice daily for 10 or 15 minutes with several changes of hot towels.

Production Of Crude Mounts

AUSTIN, Aug. 29.—Production of crude petroleum both in Texas and in the entire United States continues to mount, according to Bervard Nichols, editor of the Texas Business Review, issued monthly by the bureau of business research at the University of Texas.

"Some time back Oklahoma was chief cause for concern, then California threatened and in recent weeks Texas is rapidly assuming the lead," Mr. Nichols said. "Moreover, imports are on the increase while exports of refined products are not sufficient to absorb the surplus. As a result, stocks of crude show a further gain for the month. Possibly the most encouraging feature of the industry is the record rate of gasoline consumption; but it must be remembered that the period of curtailment is at hand and demand is sure to fall off. This situation is already bringing weakness to the crude markets."

Theft of Prized Hone for Razor Leads to Court

The vicissitudes in the life of a razor hone which started out 20 years ago as a $1.50 stone and accumulated worth until it was valued at $25 and promptly stolen occupied the attention of the county attorney's office several hours Thursday. The precious stone, treasured for years as a family relic, was one day intrusted to the hands of a false friend, Wayne Somerville, county attorney, was told. The friend absconded, became in that action guilty of a misdemeanor entitled "theft by bailee" since he had taken the hone at first with the owner's permission. The guilty friend Thursday confessed his sin to O. L. Gibbs, justice of the peace, paid a small fine, and promised to help heal the wounds of the injured owner by a $5 peace offering.

POWERS END NEGOTIATIONS

Big Achievements Mark Close of Conference

By GEORGE W. HINMAN JR.

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Aug. 29. (US)—Having achieved in three days of intensive effort what it has been striving for more than three weeks to accomplish, The Hague conference for the liquidation of the world war and the pacification of Europe meets Saturday in plenary session, formally to record its works.

Three features stand out tonight as results of the negotiations, which began Aug. 6:

1. Germany wins immediate evacuation of the Rhineland, due in a great measure to Britain's firm stand in favor of ending the occupation.

2. Philip Snowden, British chancellor of the exchequer, wins three-fourths of his original financial demand for another $12,500,000 annually for 37 years as Britain's share of the Young plan proceeds.

3. France and other continental powers win acceptance of the Young plan as an integral project for the complete and final settlement of the reparations controversy.

To win the Rhineland evacuation, Germany sacrificed any rights she might have had in the Dawes plan surplus, and also agreed to shoulder the additional financial burden in connection with the costs of occupation between Sept. 1 and June 30, of next year.

To win three-fourths of his financial demands, or amounts equivalent to $9,000,000 annually, Chancellor Snowden sacrificed his original "matter of principle" by which he insisted on maintenance of "existing international agreements" governing distribution of the reparations payments, and also dropped his refusal to accept anything taken from Germany or the smaller powers claiming a share in reparations.

To win Snowden's acceptance of the Young plan as an inseparable unit, France, Italy and Belgium together added nearly $2,000,000 annually—taken from their own pockets—to their "last word offer" of somewhat more than $7,000,000, which Snowden curtly rejected as "inadequate."

In return, Snowden accepted their method of calculation, which, by skillful handling of figures, made the total offer $300,000 more annually than the British expert was willing to admit.

While astounding ruction over a few millions of dollars occupied the attention of Europe's greatest statesmen during most of the conference, the real achievement of the conference has been the agreement on the Rhineland. Here, undoubtedly, the combined Anglo-German pressure forced the hand of France, which has shown itself most reluctant to expedite the withdrawal.

In the final meeting of the political commission today, British foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson pledged that the evacuation will begin within two weeks—thus voicing Britain's determination to do its utmost to terminate an impossible situation.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 29. (AP)—Lower private crop figures were followed by sharp advances from an early decline in cotton today. December contracts sold up from 18.90 to 19.26 or 23 points net higher and 69 points above the low level of last week. They closed at 19.17 compared with 19.03 at the close of the previous day, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 12 to 14 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 1 to 8 points and the market eased off during the early trading. Offerings were absorbed by trade buying for covering on the scale down to 18.59 for October and 19.18 for March, however, and the market firmed up during the middle of the day.

Buying became more active after the publication of a private report, placing the condition of the crop at 59, and the indicated yield at only 14,961,000 bales compared with an indication of 15,810,000 bales published by the same authority toward the end of July. This report evidently made a bullish impression. October sold up to 18.92 and March to 19.52 with active months showing net gains of 17 to 23 points and of about 32 to 36 points from the low level of the morning.

There was more cotton for sale around 19¼ cents for December contracts, while the demand tapered off somewhat. Closing quotations showed reactions of 5 to 9 points from the best under realizing.

Liverpool cables reported that local buying in that market had been supplied.

Port receipts today 33,170. U. S. port stocks, 652,100. Exports, 5,635, making 184,988 so far this season.

Stock Market Stands Firm, Awaiting Statements From Federal Reserve

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 29. (US)—Specialties featured a quiet but strong market today, while Standard Industrials and many Rails held to narrow range as traders generally waited on the federal reserve statements. There was widespread tendency to even up commitments for the three-day closing that also tended to limit advances.

Air reduction added 8¾ to its gain, Byers climbed 6⅝, Auburn Auto 32, Atlas Powder 13, Columbia Carbon 5, Ingersoll Rand 7 and Stone and Webster finished over 13 points higher. Steel and other standard industrials gained about a point on the average while special influences caused advances of 4⅝ in Continental Can and of 4½ respectively in General Electric and Westinghouse. Rails were strong throughout with Atchison climbing 5¼ more, Central gaining 2⅜ and Union Pacific 3⅞. Standard Oil of New Jersey led the petroleum shares higher with gain of 1¼.

Call money was held at 9 per cent throughout and turnover declined to the 3,500,000-share level.

It was rumored that important interests were planning reduction in gasoline prices in the East. This caused talk of competition, etc. The oil men would not confirm the report, nor would they deny it. Some pointed out the seasonal reduction would be due soon but there was no means of forecasting the exact day it would be announced. The wholesale gasoline market here has been soft recently but demand is holding up to peak proportions. Refiners do plan more intensive competition, it is stated, but it has been expected it would take the form of offer of more service at distributing stations rather than price cutting. Those associated with both Standard and independent oil leaders continue to express confidence in the outlook for the oil shares. Even if some cut is made in gasoline price soon, it is believed earnings of most companies this year will show gain over 1928.

Special meeting of the Paramount-Famous directors next Wednesday, it is believed, is to discuss plan for merging with Warner Brothers. Report persists that the two companies will be combined on the basis of 1¼ Warner shares for each share of Paramount-Famous. Fox interests continue to maintain a bullish attitude toward their stock. It is claimed that the earnings of Fox theaters for the six months ended April 30 came within $280,000 of the $1,774,996 earned by the subsidiary theater company for the fiscal year ended Otc. 31, 1928. Since April Fox has acquired 128 theaters in the New York metropolitan area and also purchased additional theaters out of town.

American Foreign Power and Stone & Webster continued to enjoy demand from holding companies and others due to long pull expectations. General Gas & Electric also enjoyed good demand due to knowledge of plans of the management for expending interest in other utility companies. When these plans are carried out, it is maintained, the shares will be split up on a five for one basis. Recent absorption of Drug Inc. has been influenced by expectation that earnings will run over $8 a share this year. Railway express is pointed to as a rather neglected "blue chip." The company has $43,000,000 in the call money market as of March 1 and since that time has used part of the funds in purchasing stocks that have been among the recent leaders of the market. Continental Can management is reputedly forming an investment trust like the Pennroad corporation to acquire interest in other container and can companies.

Increase in brokers loans of $132,000,000 was somewhat bigger than expected and puts borrowings to the new record total of $6,217,000,000. The report is likely to enhance the effect of pre-holiday selling. Many traders will be leaving from noon on so that a disturbed market appears in store. The further increase in bill purchases by the reserve banks indicate that the policy board has not changed its policy of easing money conditions so that lower call rates would appear in prospect early next week. The apparent agreement on reparations payments reached at The Hague is another cheering factor as the international bankers' plans are so tied up with Europe that any interference would be likely to affect their activity here.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, Aug. 29. (AP)—The wheat pit found itself oversold today, and a gloomy aspect in Argentina turned prices upward. The trade became increasingly aware, too, of a likely shortage of feed grains with a growing pessimism over the corn harvest, and all grains scored gains with wheat the leader.

Wheat slumped at the opening because of Liverpool's persistent selling out. The revival was quick and prices rose 4 cents before profit taking ended and the rally. The close was at net gains of 2 to 2⅝ cents. Corn closed ¼ to 1½ cents higher. September enjoying the last advance, and oats finished ¾ to ⅞ and 1 cent up. Provisions were about steady.

At $1.38¼ December wheat equalled the low mark reached last Monday, and gave the signal for the shorts to step in. Shipments from Argentina were estimated at 1,000,000 bushels smaller than last week, and the acreage there was placed at 19,019,000 compared with 20,900,000 last year.

The Canadian crop is still moving in record style, Winnipeg taking in 404 carloads of which 341 were new wheat. Country deliveries yesterday were 1,945,000 bushels against last year's 196,000.

Corn reached a new high on the movement. December crossing the dollar line for the first time in several weeks.

Lard was higher, finishing 7c up for all months, while ribs were unchanged to 7c down and bellies 2c lower to 5c higher.

KEITH HERD WINS HONORS

Wichitan's Cattle Take Prizes in Missouri Valley

Information received from Sedalia, Mo., by George Keith Jr. indicates that additional honors have been won by selected stock from the Hereford herds maintained here by his father, George Keith Sr.

Entries in the live stock exhibition now in progress at Sedalia, it was said, represented much of the choicest stock in the Missouri valley. According to Mr. Keith's message, he has received two first places and two seconds, one third, and one fourth, in various classes of individual competition. In addition to those honors, one of his cows was declared senior champion and grand champion female of the entire show.

Mr. Keith will not return from Missouri until next week, it was said, and no further details to his successful showing there were available Thursday.

ROTARY HEAD PRAISES CLUB

Bryant Commends Boys' Work in Wichita

Wichita Falls Rotary received its annual visit from the district governor for Rotary International Thursday, when Bernard Bryant of Stamford met with club directors and committee chairmen at 10 o'clock in the morning, and addressed the entire membership at the weekly noon luncheon at the Kemp hotel.

Mr. Bryant paid particular commendation to the boys' work committee of the local club, declaring it one of the most effective in the entire 41st district. Other committees were said by the speaker to be functioning satisfactorily along the lines desired by the international organization.

Referring to the business world, the speaker said that better relations between employer and employe, and between buyer and seller, constitute an objective toward which all Rotarians constantly should strive. Real fellowship, he said, is the greatest of all influences for building an organization or a city.

Beginning his tour of the district in which he presides, on July 11, Mr. Bryant made his 28th visit here Thursday. There are 60 Rotary clubs in his district.

Mrs. J. C. Payne, director of music at the First Presbyterian church, sang two solos on Thursday's program, accompanied by Mrs. A. H Mahaffey. Guests were introduced by A. E. Myles. R. E. Shepherd led the club singsong, with Mrs. Shepherd at the piano.

"My Husband Had to Quit His Work Days at a Time," Says Wichita Falls Woman

"He Suffered for Eight Years But Since Taking Orgatone Hasn't Lost a Day's Work and Feels Fine," Said She.

"My husband's condition was getting serious and he just had to quit his work for a day or two at a time," he felt so bad," said Mrs. J. E. Strain, of 2312 Austin street, Wichita Falls, Texas.

"But since he began taking Orgatone, he hasn't lost a day's work and feels fine and gets up in the morning ready for his day's work," continued Mrs Strain.

"He had indigestion so bad, every time he ate anything, he would suffer afterwards. Everything he ate soured on his stomach, and caused gas to form, which crowded his heart and he would have palpitation of the heart and fainting spells. He was very bilious and dizzy and at times, would have to hold, to keep from falling. His kidneys bothered him and he would have severe, intense pains in his back and sides. Had frequent headaches, and had a bad case of constipation. He tried a lot of medicine but never seemed to get the right one for his case.

"Orgatone was advertised so highly and was recommended to him, and he started taking it. I am certainly grateful he found it, for he is now in fine condition. He eats anything he wants now, and doesn't have indigestion at all, and all of the bilious and dizzy spells have disappeared. He sleeps so well at night, that I can't hardly get him to wake up in the mornings. He works every day now, and feels better than he has in years. Orgatone has helped him so much, he is now telling his friends about it, and I am glad to give this statement for him."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific bile preparation, and is sold in Wichita Falls, exclusively by the Allison Drug Store, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative.—Adv.

MAJESTIC: "The Cocoanuts," with the Marx brothers, Mary Eaton and Oscar Shaw. Comedy. Movietone news.

STRAND: "Man and the Moment," with Billie Dove and Rod La-Rocque. For people who chew their gum aloud. Vitaphone vaudeville. Paramount sound news.

OLYMPIC: Monte Blue in "The Greyhound Limited." Sportlight. Comedy. Pathe news.

GEM: Buzz Barton in "The Little Savage." Chapter 8 of "Pirates of Panama." Comedy.

The title of Groucho, Chico, Harpo, and Zeppo Marx's 93 minutes of giddy nonsense which opens at the Majestic at noon Friday may be taken as indicative in itself of "something different," which classifies but in nowise explains Marx brothers' comedy. The ordinary troupe freighted with bizarre faculties for entertainment would probably style itself proudly as "The Nuts,"—but the Marx boys don't seem to be ordinary.

◇ ◇ ◇

The comedy which appears to flow so smoothly and without effort from a master of the art often represents more study and painstaking rehearsal than resounding tragedy, which in its travels would bespeak a stirring of the entire universe. But even then, the school of comedy divides itself quite sharply into two classes: those artists through whose personalities every word, every gesture automatically takes on a "funny slant," and those aspiring workers who in a fair measure master the technique of bringing out the unusual where the conventional was expected. The Marx boys belong to the first class

◇ ◇ ◇

Those who have seen the talking picture version of "The Cocoanuts" offer the timely warning that for its fullest enjoyment attention should be centered not on such meager plot action as it carries, but constantly upon the posture, locomotion, gesture and expression of the four stellar performers. As illustrations of two extremes both of which reveal the artistic excellence of the quartet, one counsellor urges that the musicianship of Harpo furnished the high spot of the performance, while another says, "Be sure and watch that clown swim across the bedroom floor—miss that and you miss the show."

◇ ◇ ◇

Yet that particular type of humor which appears to flow irrepressibly almost unconsciously, from a peculiar natural endowment is enthroned by the paying public in the hall of greatness. The most renowned of American platform humorists appear to have been prisms through whom every day observations sparkled with new and amusing lights. Will Rogers needs only a stage and a crowd to produce a $2,500 show—by himself? No. The box office patrons see commonplace things through his uncommon sense—and laugh. One of the highlights of "Shoulder Arms," considered generally as among the greatest comedies ever produced consisted of Charlie Chaplin's resignedly nibbling a bit of old cheese, foraged from a rat trap when the Christmas mail in France brought him not even a picture of Santa Claus.

◇ ◇ ◇

Harold Lloyd's most spectacular simulation of falling from a beam on the twentieth-story, or bouncing over cobble stones behind plunging horses, could not approach the effect obtained in "Grandma's Boy" when the old cat walked alertly into the room, sniffed, and hurried over to lick off the goose grease which had served as blacking for the impoverished Harold's shoes.

◇ ◇ ◇

Those mediaeval scenes made familiar in late years through "Robin Hood," "Three Musketeers," and other worthwhile picturizations of semi-authentic historic eras, are to be used again during the coming winter. Dennis King, one of the most brilliant actors produced by England in the present generation, will make for the talking films, in color, "The Vagabond King." In this production the romantic Louis XI will be seen tramping about France and the Netherlands, as plain in habits as his peasant subjects, but effectively warring against feudalistic oppression. It is said that 500 suits of armor, with full fighting accessories, are being made for the battle scenes of "The Vagabond King," modeled upon prints in "The Album Historique," in Paris.

TEXAS SEEKS BRYAN WALKER

Robbery Suspect Also Wanted by Oklahoma

DENVER, Aug 29. (AP)—Oklahoma presented its case before Gov William H. Adams, of Colorado this afternoon in the extradition hearing of Bryan (Whitey) Walker, wanted by two states.

Walker who has been held in jail at Colorado Springs, where he was confined after arrest several weeks ago in connection with the Lamar, Colo., bank robbery, was brought here yesterday pending outcome of the hearing.

Texas and Oklahoma announced that they would ask for Walker's return to their respective states. Texas authorities have been in Denver since yesterday awaiting the arrival of papers before they present their case. The Texas officials claim that Walker is wanted there in connection with a bank robbery and the killing of three men. However, the papers from Texas did not arrive today and Oklahoma witnesses presented their story and papers asking for Walker's extradition.

The Texas men are expected to go before the governor tomorrow if the papers arrive.

Jordan of San Antonio; three other brothers, Charles, Jack and Jeff Jordan, all of San Antonio, and three sisters, Mrs. Judith Wolferman of New York and Misses Emmie and Jennie Jordan, both of San Antonio. Death came as the result of heart trouble which had become chronic upon Mr. Cose's arrival here less than a week ago to make his home with his daughter.

Mr. Cose had lived in Wichita Falls for three years about eight years ago, having come here after almost 30 years in the gold fields of Colorado. He later returned to the mining business in Nevada and from there moved with his wife to California to live with children there.

Mother Gives Boys to Orphanage In Hope They'll "Go Right" in Life

Upon the petition of their own mother, who has found herself unable to care for them, two small Burkburnett boys, 6 and 8 years of age, are to be taken to an orphanage at Waco early next week, James A. McDonald, county juvenile officer, announced Thursday afternoon.

The officer explained that the mother of the children has asked for help in the fear that the boys may follow in the footsteps of their elder brother, who at 21, is a fugitive from justice in several states.

"I can't take care of them and make a living too," the mother was quoted as saying.

"And I would rather put them in an institution where I would never see them again than have the little ones go the way of the other boy."

Mr. McDonald explained that the mother works at odd housekeeping and other jobs and that the little boys live practically alone, most of the time on the streets of Burkburnett. Their father is supposedly dead, the juvenile officer explained. He has arranged for their care for an indefinite period at the Waco institution.

Hero of Arctic Flights Pilots Plane for Braniff

Axel Swanson, a hero of many Arctic flights, graduate of the Swedish Army aviation school and classmate of Capt. Einar Lundborg, rescuer of General Nobile, one of the country's best all-around fliers, is a new Braniff pilot, according to word received here Thursday from Braniff headquarters.

Swanson, who was just transferred to the Braniff division from the Continental Airlines where he flew night mail between Cleveland and Cincinnati, graduated from the Swedish Army flying school in 1919 and for five years did most of his flying within the Arctic circle. He accumulated over 1,500 hours on ski-equipped planes alone and for months on end he flew in zero temperatures.

In 1925 he came to the United States and started his American flying career by barnstorming. As soon as the laws permitted he became an American citizen.

His flying hours now total nearly 3,000 and cover as great a variety of flying as any aviator in the country. His experiences include flying practically every type of military and commercial airplane in frigid and torrid climates. He is 30 years old and unmarried.
