Kitty's Korner

By Kitty Montgomery

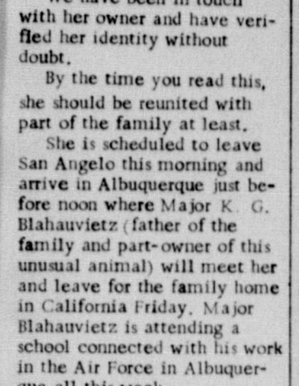

About the cat, final installment as far as we know at the moment, she is alive and well and has taken up residence on the couch in my den, switching to the camel saddle on occasion and my lap when possible.

We have been in touch with her owner and have verified her identity without doubt.

By the time you read this, she should be reunited with part of the family at least.

She is scheduled to leave San Angelo this morning and arrive in Albuquerque just before noon where Major K. G. Blahauvietz (father of the family and part-owner of this unusual animal) will meet her and leave for the family home in California Friday. Major Blahauvietz is attending a school connected with his work in the Air Force in Albuquerque all this week.

Mrs. Blahauvietz, obviously the cat-owner in the family, or should I say the member of the family owned by the cat, has been in touch by long-distance and after an hour or so of discussing "Sam" we were both satisfied that this is no imposter. From her frost-bitten ears to the tear on the end of her collar, we feel we have postive identification. After discussing her food preferences and the little antics peculiar only to herself, we were completely satisfied. Shown below is Sam on the camel saddle several days after her arrival in town.

Sam was a little wilu when she finally arrived in Ozona after five weeks in the wilds of West Texas, surviving by her skills as a hunter and her unusual ability to protect herself from varmints. By the time I got her in the car and on the way home, I was beginning to wonder what on earth I had let myself in for. She yowled all the way as only a Siamese cat can. Her coat was rough and there were wounds on her head and ears where she had evidently had a battle for her very life.

After a good spraying with a flea-killer, coat-conditioner aerosol, plus a thorough brushing and face and head washing, she looked right presentable. After a meal of real cat food she became so friendly that she climbed into my lap and purred herself to sleep. However, she didn't relax. I still have marks on my leg where she held on through her nap.

Before she left we became quite attached to her. Except for the fright she gave us a couple of times when she slipped out of the yard or hid from us in the house, we rather enjoyed her visit.

We think it remarkable that a tame, protected house cat managed to survive, let alone thrive in the wilderness for such a length of time. She has a great deal of courage.

Urges Support For Center Drive

A drive for useful items for patients at San Angelo Center at Carlsbad, sponsored by the Ozona Home Demonstration Club, has gotten off to a slow start, and boxes in various business houses are not doing a brisk business.

Club members have stressed that almost any useful item would be helpful in getting the drive off the ground.

Besides the collection places mentioned last week, there is a deposit box in White's Auto Store.

EVACUATION BY U. S. ARMY HELICOPTER of the five victims of an auto crash east of town Friday afternoon was accomplished about 10:30 Friday night. The victims were all retired Army personnel or dependents, and were transferred to Brook Army Hospital in San Antonio with injuries ranging from minor to serious. Here Lawrence Janes, left, is assisted by Army medics and the copter pilot in transferring one of the more seriously injured young women from the ambulance to the helicopter. The accident occurred at 3:30 Friday afternoon.

Car Flips After Blow-Out; Five San Antonians Seriously Hurt

Five San Antonio people were injured Friday afternoon when a blow-out caused the car in which they were riding to go out of control and overturn twice, coming to rest in the median of IH 10 eight miles east of Ozona.

The injured were taken to Crockett County Hospital by a Janes Funeral Home ambulance and the Ozona Fire Department ambulance.

Alice Margaret Tomasello, 20, was driving the 1967 Chevrolet when the right rear tire blew out. According to investigating officer Gary Hill, DPS, the rim of the wheel left 27 yards of marks on the highway before going out of control and flipping over twice

Passengers in the vehicle, all of San Antonio, were Vernon Crain, 52, his daughter, Carol, 13, Mrs. Alice Tomasello, 41, and Elizabeth Tomasello, 14. Mr. Crain and his daughter were able to to walk around before the five were evacuated to Brook Army Hospital in San Antonio by helicopter ambulance at 10:30 p.m. Friday night.

Mrs. Tomasello and her two daughters were more seriously injured. Internal injuries were suspected and one of the girls required 40 stitches to close a wound in her back caused by broken glass.

The car was completely demolished, and officers felt that fastened seat belts were responsible for avoiding a fatality.

The ambulance helicopter picked up the injured at the airport that night where they had been transferred by ambulance.

Wednesday night officers investigated an auto-bus collision on Hwy. 290 at Ave. J. The Greyhound bus, driven by Robin Orosio of San Antonio, was traveling west in the outside lane of traffic. Esther Valadez, driving a 1966 Mercury was traveling west in the inside lane when she attempted to turn left and hit the bus. There were no injuries and only minor damage was reported to bus and car.

Ozona Keeps Postmrk, For Present, At Least

A new system instituted by the U. S. Postal Service, has lost many towns their identity, but for the present, at least, the Ozona postmark will continue to be used on mail sent from the local facility. Under the new processing system, local mail will be cancelled and postmarked here, then sent in bulk to San Angelo where it will be sorted and processed.

"We will be going on AMP (Area Mail Processing) in the near future," postmaster Floyd Hokit announced today. "All mail for out of town will be cancelled in Ozona and sent to San Angelo for processing," he said.

Hokit stressed that local mail will not go out of town, but urged patrons to discontinue the use of "City" on local mail. "Please address your local mail 'Ozona, Tex.' he said, "then if it is mailed in the out of town box by mistake, it will be returned to Ozona."

Hokit suggested a return address on each mailing sent through the local office to facilitate proper handling. He also expressed his appreciation for the cooperation of patrons during the present change-over.

Mrs. M. E. Nicholas, Crockett County Crusade Chairman for the American Cancer Society has announced that April is Cancer Control Month here across the nation. She will be assisted in the educational and fund raising drive by over sixty volunteers.

"We are launching a four-year attack on uterine cancer, aimed at getting all women over 20 and those under 20 at risk to have a Pap test. We want this year's women crusaders to have a pap test before they visit their neighbors, if they have not already done so," Mrs. Nicholas said, "And then we want ACS Crusaders to go out and educate their neighbors."

Mrs. Charles Williams, president of the local Unit added "The American Cancer Society is not a charity organization to which one gives and gets nothing in return, but an organization which insures the donor that his contribution is an investment in his own health." Mrs. Williams said, "We are dedicated to one urgent goal, complete control of cancer."

The drive will commence April 3 in the business district under the direction of Bill Watson, with residential and school drives to follow.

MORE SEED MONEY FOR GROWTH

There are 5½ million independent business in the United States today. The overwhelming majority are small businesses, some of which may grow to become substantial corporate enterprises. Small business firms help to provide stable employment and a tax source to ease the burden of personal property and real estate taxes in local communities.

Most businesses start small. Often their greatest challenge is to conserve and expand working capital to improve day-to-day operations and profits. However, access to outside funds is limited and costly.

Under the present code all corporations pay a basic tax of 22 per cent on all net profit and those with net income above $25,000 pay an additional surtax of 26 per cent. The value of the surtax exemption, which dates from 1950, has been eroded by inflation, but it still is considered the basic small business relief provision having the widest application.

Sen. John G. Tower (R.-Tex.) has introduced legislation to increase the surtax exemption level to $100,000 in a constructive effort to assist small business in accumulating capital.

If such legislation is passed, it would put small businesses in a better position to expand operations, generate employment, and, in turn, provide more taxable income at the local level. Congress should take this constructive step.

WHAT IS HE LEARNING?

The average American pre-schooler spends 64 percent of his time watching television. By the age of 14, this child will have seen 18,000 murders on TV. By the age of 17, some 350,000 commercials. In the course of his life the TV will have consumed 10 years of his time. These facts were compiled by Dr. Gerald Looney of the University of Arizona.

In his remarks to the American Academy of Pediatrics, Dr. Looney declared that television, "the electronic intruder," has replaced both parent and teacher as the primary educator of children. Just in terms of time alone, Dr. Looney points out, the American pre-school child during his critical pre-school years spends more time watching TV than he would in the classrooms during four years of college. And what is he learning?

A BASKETFUL OF HOPES

EASTER, 1972

Spring brings Easter and the wonderful, joyous feeling of a new beginning—a rebirth of spirit and energy.

Nature is the embodiment of this rebirth and the older a person becomes, the more joy there is in watching the world come back to life.

This year our national spirit, too, needs revitalization. Young and old, easterners and westerners, workers and management in this melting pot of ethnic and political backgrounds that is America, all share the same goals of peace and prosperity for all.

Just as spring is a time for Nature's growth, so our economy must grow and become more productive to compete in world markets. Successful resolutions of past differences have made us strong. There is great hope for the future.

If you hear a steady thumping noise while driving, and can't find the cause, one of your tires may be severely underinflated, possibly the result of a slow leak.

A University of Pennsylvania orthopedic research team has successfully used low electric current to heal bone breaks that do not respond to normal treatment.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Doctor in Doubt

"I did my best."

So said a doctor not long ago when a disgruntled patient sued him for malpractice. It seems that the patient had been suffering for eight years from a surgical wound that would not heal. Now, demanding damages, he told the court:

"I realize that the doctor did his best. The trouble is, his best was not good enough. After all these years, he must have realized his own limitations. What he should have done was to send me to a specialist."

The court agreed, and the doctor was held liable. The court said that when a doctor has(or ought to have) serious doubts about his ability to handle a case, he has the legal duty to send the patient to someone who is better qualified.

A similar duty rests on other practitioners of the healing arts. Take this case:

A drugless healer, treating a man who had severe abdominal pains, gave him a vigorous massage and a strong laxative. Result: the man died from a ruptured appendix. In due course, his widow sued the healer for malpractice.

At the trial, he insisted that he had used the best treatment according to his own school of thought. Nevertheless, the court ordered him to pay damages. With plain signs of possible appendicitis, said the court, he should have turned the case over to a regular doctor.

Of course, the mere fact that a treatment is unsuccessful does not mean the doctor was at fault. In another case a boy's broken leg, set by the family doctor, healed with some permanent stiffness. The family, claiming damages, blamed the doctor for not calling in a specialist.

But the doctor explained:

"This was not an unusual case. I have often handled similar fractures, and there was no special reason for me to expect trouble with this one."

The court decided this was a legitimate defense, and dismissed the case. Noting that medicine is not an exact science, the judge said no one would dare to be a doctor if he had to guarantee perfect results every time.

Washington News Letter

By Congressman O. C. Fisher

There's a saying that inflation is like an opiate -- one can become addicted to inflated pay checks much like the drug abuser yearns for more narcotics.

One observer says that explains George Meaney's dilemma. As the champion of higher and higher wages, without corresponding increase in production, AFL-CIO's crusty President long ago ensconsed himself as the Nation's chief advocate of inflation.

Everyone likes good wages. But it is axiomatic that wage hikes, particularly industry-wide, are supposed to be related to increased performance and production on the part of wage earners. Otherwise such increases are inflationary.

Meany's addiction explains his horrified reaction to the President's wage-price control program, heavily dependent upon the cooperation of all segments of the economy.

After grudgingly serving as a member of the Pay Board, Meany blew up last week and resigned, thereby declaring virtual war on efforts to control inflation in the future. This dramatic move was precipitated by the Pay Board's refusal to ratify a 30% wage hike for dockworkers -- whose 137-day strike cost the Nation's economy some $2 billion.

More effective laws are needed to curb abuse of the power to strike, particularly in view of the danger of mass strikes in the wake of Meany's blow-up. Thus far Congressional committees have failed to report such needed legislation. One committee recently voted 6-to-5 against doing anything. It's election year, you know.

It must be remembered that George Meany speaks for no more than 15% of the labor force in this country. And surveys indicate that in his battle against inflation controls large numbers of union members are not in accord with Mr. Meany. They know it's one thing to get a fat pay check, but quite another thing to have it eaten up with inflated prices.

Lion Golfers Take Third In Crane Tourney

Ozona High School golfers came in third in the Crane district tournament Saturday, and lost half of their 19-point lead for the district golf title. However, the Lions still lead Big Lake by nine points.

Crane won the tournament with a team score of 308. Big Lake came in second with 310 and the Lions were third with 320.

The Lions will have an open date this weekend and be in Big Lake April 8 for another district tournament and possibly the most important one this year. Going into the Big Lake tournament, the Lions lead with a season total of 1271. Big Lake is second with 1280 and Crane third with 1296. The other schools in District 5-AA drop behind considerably, and it is not likely the top three will be displaced. The district champion and runner-up both go to the regional tournament. The winner there goes to state.

Individual scores for the Lions were as follows: Mike Williams, 76; Ricky Webster, 78; Steve Wilkins, 81; Lessly Russell, 85, and Jack Baggett, 86.

Mike Williams is in first place for district medalist, with Webster seventh, Russell, eighth; Wilkins, eleventh, and Baggett, twelfth.

LETTERS to The Editor

Dear Friends:

With the high national priority placed on the conquest of cancer, expanded research is expected to produce various new discoveries for diagnosis and treatment of the disease.

On December 23, President Nixon signed into law the National Cancer Act of 1971 and the new Federal program is placed directly under the supervision of the President, assuring high priority. From the fund of $1,600,000,000 authorized to finance the program for the first 3 years, fifteen large cancer centers must first be established. In signing the bill and presenting the first pen to the president of the American Cancer Society, Dr. Letton, a volunteer from Atlanta, Georgia, President Nixon stated: "In saying that there will be a Presidential commitment, I should emphasize that a total national commitment means more than government. It means all the voluntary activities must continue... The new national cancer program must not replace our present efforts to fight cancer; it must supplement and build on them... It is essential that an organization such as the American Cancer Society, which has done so much to promote research and education in this field, continue to play its effective role."

The ACS knows from experience that more government money going into research attracts new scientists and our applications for research grants will also increase because of these new national programs, and we are worried that we will not have the money to fund many new applications in addition to those presently being funded. As new discoveries come out of the laboratories the ACS responsibilities will increase as these new findings must be rushed to physician and patient. In addition, many millions of Americans of all ages must be brought into doctors' offices, detection clinics and screening centers for regular health check ups including cancer tests.

For example, in special action against breast cancer - most common cancer in women - the Society will soon support the development of twelve Breast Cancer Detection Programs as demonstration projects in mass screening. The initial outlay will be $2,000,000. This is only the first step in ACS long-range programs to make earlier detection available to all American women.

In addition, the field of service to the cancer patient, and ACS rehabilitation programs, will mushroom as many thousands are added to the roster of cured patients: Cure does not always end the problem. Some patients are left with a physical handicap or defect (as in cancer of the breast, colon, or larynx). Many undergo severe emotional trauma and other problems. It means that the American Cancer Society is now called upon to do a much bigger job in the public interest. With your help we can get the job done.

Crockett County was fourth out of 268 counties in per capita income in 1970-71. We thank you and salute you all and know we can count on your support again this April. But, please, remember the annual checkup for every member of the family. There's something a lot worse than finding out you have cancer -- that is not finding out (in time for a cure.)

Sincerely,
Mrs. M. E. Nicholas
Crockett County
Crusade Chairman,
ACS

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

From Kitty's Kitchen

Coconut Pound Cake

This is Margaret Odom's cake recipe, and was baked for the Garden Club Tasting supper by her sister, Mrs. Bascomb Cox. I had been looking for a good coconut pound cake recipe for years, and this is a very good one.

Cream until light and fluffy 2 sticks of oleo or butter and ½ cup of Crisco. Add 3 cups sugar and cream well. Add 6 eggs, one at a time beating after each addition. Add ½ teas. almond flavoring and 1 teas. coconut flavoring.

Add alternately 3 cups sifted flour (all purpose) and 1 cup milk. Mix well and stir in 1 can of flaked coconut.

Bake in a greased and floured tube cake pan for 1 hour and 15 minutes at 350 degrees.

May be served as is, or is good with 3 T. Stuckley's Coconut Syrup poured over top of cake while still warm. Add 1 teas. butter flavoring if oleo is used instead of butter.

SELECTING CHAIRS FOR YOUR LIVING ROOM

Many people select chairs because they are lovely to look at. Others select chairs strictly for comfort. The smart buyer buys chairs that combine both beauty and comfort.

This is not always as simple as it sounds. Generally, the wife will select chairs for design, color and co-ordination with everything else in the room. The husband will want chairs that he can sink into, stretch his legs out on.

Fortunately, the average living room has room for several chairs that can please all parties concerned. Just like a suit of clothes or a dress, a chair can "fit" the person who is going to use it. That's a good thing to keep in mind when you buy chairs.

Very often chairs are nice when used in matching pairs. This is not only a matter of attractive decor, but has its practical side, too, in making conversation groups. Many people are more at ease talking to each other while sitting in separate chairs than they are when sitting together on a sofa.

One of the attractive ways to group a pair of chairs is to use a wedge or pie-shaped table between them. This makes for a curved grouping instead of lining up the two chairs and the table straight against the wall.

We invite you to see our latest selection of living room chairs, and talk over with us decorating ideas on using chairs in your living room to get both beauty and comfort.

DESCENT INTO THE MAELSTROM

JOHN J. SYNON

There is nothing of the occult about me. In my home there is neither an owl, nor raven, nor cobweb dangling. And no tub a-bubbling. Not even a crystal ball.

For all of that, I foresee revolution or capitulation – bloody or otherwise – overtaking this country, overthrowing our constitution and therefore our cultural way of life. It doesn't take a ouiji board for that. Or so it seems to me.

If the Left Wing, as typified by the clutch of National Democrats now seeking their party's presidential nomination, if one of them is elected President, that election will complete the dismantling of our culture begun 35 years ago. There will be no untainted aspect remaining. Stripped of our will, our wealth and our arms, and led by an appeaser, our house will stand on sanded land and we will have become vulnerable to the first chill wind that blows from the steppes of Russia.

I foresee the day, under that circumstance, when the communists will lay a silken-voiced ultimatum upon us that will be met and with that (the triumph of evil) the life we once knew will be gone.

That is so because our Socialist Democrats, these past 35 years, have created a political box from which there is no escape. It is the box we are all in and it makes little difference what are the desires or intentions of solid Americans, Republican or Democrat. There is little, now, even the best of those two breeds can do to forestall doomsday. We are in a box.

• • •

The futility of President Nixon is a perfect illustration of its effectiveness. Let nobody doubt his balanced-budget intention, on taking office. And you know what happened: For a year or so he thrashed around, seeking a way out, then threw up his hands.

"There is no way out," he said, in effect. And with that he announced his personal conversion to Keynsian philosophy (deficit spending). Out of that grew the current budget, a budget that will run in the red, before the year is gone, some 40 billions of dollars.

No President has equalled that collapse, not in "peace" time.

Money, of course, is the life line of a nation precisely as it is of a person. Its value is a true indication of our wealth and therefore our health. And that we have been forced to formally agree to devalue the dollar should speak volumes to even the most naive of us. Particularly when you couple overt devaluation with the insidious inflation that is slowly and continuously rotting our economic being. (Over these 35 years, two-thirds of the true value of our money has been eroded). And hold no allusion as to the dollar's present stability, even after devaluation. That first shot, folks, is only the beginning. Devaluation will continue time after time, year after year, until the dollar becomes virtually worthless – or until revolution puts a halt to it.

• • •

Turn over in your mind a few of the cardinal insoluables that face this nation: Our inability to defeat a fourth-rate power; race; unemployment; welfare; disloyalty; the cowardice of the intellectuals; legalized economic advantages; wage-and-price controls; the exclusivity of unionism; unbearable taxation, generally, and discriminatory taxation, particularly. Do so and you will recognize why collapse (i.e., revolution) is inescapable. None of these things can be corrected. Not any longer; we are in the box. They can only worsen, as they will.

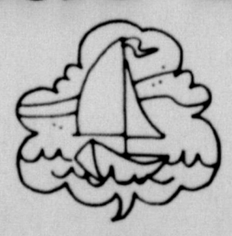

That is so, principally, because we have been tricked into adopting "democracy," one-man-one-vote, the demogogue's delight. And there is no way you can get rid of that – short of revolution. Who is going to vote it out?

Everything is wobbling; everything creaking.

Soon it will all come down.

"We are such stuff as dreams are made on"...

W. Shakespeare

Life would be pretty dull if people couldn't dream. Take that boat you're always dreaming about. Just thinking about it makes you feel pretty good. But you won't just have to dream if you buy U.S. Savings Bonds. Because Bonds can make your dream boat a reality.

Now Bonds mature in less than six years. Which means maybe it won't take forever for your ship to come in.

Just knowing you've got the safety and security of U.S. Savings Bonds working for you can make dreaming for anything a lot more fun. Because, with Bonds, the good times and the good things can really happen.

So, don't give up dreaming. Just keep buying U.S. Savings Bonds—they're the stuff dreams are made of.

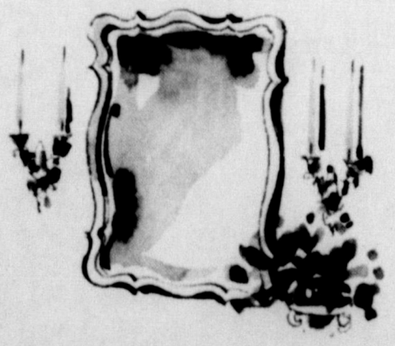

Now E Bonds pay 5% interest when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.

Tips For Gardeners

From the
Ozona Garden Club
By
Mrs. Bailey Post

Another Easter with its message of rebirth and renewal is here. If you would see a beautiful world look about you this spring.

To keep our country beautiful, everyone should realize that a new and deeper challenge faces mankind to enter a program devoted to environmental improvement where "Nature, Man and Science" are all concerned. If each person. If each person assisted in bringing renewal to a small section of our nation or city, a serious trend toward deterioration could be reversed without losing valuable time.

The popular flowering dogwood is often called the most beautiful of spring-blooming trees. They prefer well-drained soil, slightly acid and filtered sunlight. The Mississippi native dogwood that grows here seems to flourish. It grows well here in full sun and is now ready for full bloom.

Native trees, shrubs, vines and wild flowers have really painted a beautiful picture over our area the last few weeks. Home gardeners can create attractive landscapes with little effort by mixing the native with other hybridized plants.

The fragrant purple mountain laurel are very showy in full bloom on the west hill in the attractive hillside garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Jones, corner of 11th and Angus. Then without any care on the vacant lot just east across the street.

After flowers have faded, prune spring-blooming trees and shrubs. First remove dead or damaged branches and then prune as necessary to control size and shape. Learn something about growth habit of the plant you start to cut; all plants are not pruned the same way. On flowering peach, for instance, cut to 6-inch stubs those branches that have bloomed; on forsythia, remove to ground level a third of the branches that have bloomed. If plants were damaged by frost, delay pruning until after they send out new growth.

Good Friday is an excellent day for planting flower seed, putting out new plants or your vegetable garden.

Be sure to check for red spider on shrubs and plants. Either wash off or spray for insects.

Watering is very necessary now if the drought continues.

The night was dark and calm. All creatures were silent and leaves stood still as a lone man knelt in a garden called Gethsemane and prayed, "Not as I will, but as Thou wilt."

Around Him Jesus' disciples lay sleeping. Soon He knew would come betrayal, public condemnation and derision . . . and the long last march. And yet He prayed, "Thy will be done."

In the shadow of the Cross Jesus demonstrated perfect love and trust for God, His Father. In the hours ahead He would establish His Sonship for the atonement of all mankind.

And so today, in a world that needs this message of hope, let us commemorate that first Good Friday by acknowledging God as our Father, helping our churches to illustrate His way to the hungry, the sick, and the needy.
