Israeli, Syrian Envoys To US To Talk On Troops

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Israel and Syria have agreed to send military and diplomatic representatives to Washington within about two weeks to negotiate a first phase of disengagement in the Golan Heights, U.S. officials traveling with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today.

The two sides will send their representatives separately and work through Kissinger in what was described as an "inverted shuttle." The Israelis are to arrive first, about March 16.

This probably will cause Kissinger to put off a trip to the Soviet Union, where he intended to speed negotiations on a new nuclear arms-limitation treaty. He also may delay a fifth tour of the Middle East.

A senior American official disclosed the setup as Kissinger came here to see King Faisal about lifting the oil embargo imposed against the United States and the Netherlands for their support of and friendship with Israel during the October war.

At one point in their talk, senior officials said, the chances were about 50-50 that Kissinger's efforts would fail and he would have to go home to Washington with nothing to show for the trip except delivery of a list of Israeli war prisoners that he had in his pocket anyway when he set out to the Middle East last Monday.

The senior official said the Israelis and Syrians are still very apart in their negotiating position. Other sources said, however, that Israel is willing to give up almost all the territory it gained after being attacked Oct. 6, provided a United Nations buffer zone is established and the Syrians thin out their armor and troops in the Golan Heights.

During his meeting with Assad, officials said, Kissinger brought with him Israel's first proposal on a disengagement of forces after 6½ hours of talks with Israeli Premier Golda Meir in Tel Aviv.

A Syrian spokesman said "the thoughts" Kissinger brought with him were not accepted by Assad, who presented his own views.

After meeting with Faisal, Kissinger flies to Amman to meet with King Hussein of Jordan, and on Sunday he is to leave the Middle East for Bonn, West Germany.

SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION PROGRESSING—Principal Horrace Bostick looks over student center-library building now under construction at Snyder High School. Due to construction work now underway, the high school will not have an "open house" event during Texas Public School Week, but instead will have displays in local stores. Other schools in the city will observe "open house" Monday evening. (See other school pictures on Page 7)

The SDN Column

Some eager fruit trees began putting on their spring clothes as February eased off the calendar and the weather for the past four weeks has been pleasant enough to make you wonder about the groundhog's veracity.

There is a feeling that we are bound to have another hard freeze or two somewhere down the line, but the pretty winter weather has prevailed for just about two solid months.

We were poking around some of the wares at the Snyder Nursery the other day and found many of the stock of fruit trees there with buds beginning to swell.

"I don't know how they have held off this long, the weather being so warm," said R. C. Eoff, the nurseryman. He, too, fears that trees that are beginning to put on foliage now are in for a cold shock later in the season.

The weather, of course, figures in many of our present-day shortages and it can't please everyone. While helping reduce demands for short heating fuel, it may well lead to shortages of fruit and vegetables later on if there is a late-season freeze.

The West Central Texas Council of Governments, of which Scurry County and the City of Snyder are members, adopted a resolution the other day endorsing the proposed extension of Interstate Highway 27. Of more concern in this immediate area, however, was a second resolution endorsing proposals for a new connecting segment for the U.S. 84 and Interstate 20 intersection at Roscoe as a part of the I-27 project. The improvements at Roscoe would be essential, of course, if I-27 should be designated for the U.S. 84 route. So, the WCTCOG action was good news here.

Frank Taylor played a tape of an Amos and Andy radio show which aired in December of 1943 at the Snyder Rotary Club luncheon meeting Thursday, and it produced some nostalgia around the luncheon table. The tape, which included those Rinso White commercials and Announcer Harlow Wilcox, brought back plenty of memories.

Taylor called attention to the production techniques which stimulated the listener's imagination sufficiently that he could visualize the setting of each scene without any image on a tube. His point, of course, was that television not only has made listeners lazy, but the production crews of the shows as well.

In this day of shortages, one sidelight in a closing commercial put emphasis on some of the problems of 1943. Listeners were reminded that they could turn in their bacon drippings and other kitchen greases and receive two meat ration points per pound. Moreover, they were guaranteed that the grease turned in would be in a munitions factory within three weeks, making ammunition for American military personnel fighting World War II.

Such problems were accepted gracefully, if not cheerfully, because the country was engaged in a major war. Today we see evidence of similar problems arising during peace time for the first time in history.—WACIL McNAIR

Heath, Thorpe Bargaining

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Edward Heath arranged to see Liberal party leader Jremy Thorpe today in the first round of backroom bargaining aimed at keeping Heath's Conservatives in office after Britain's most indecisive election since 1929.

An announcement from Heath's office said Thorpe had accepted an invitation to discuss the political situation late this afternoon.

Thorpe had said earlier that he might see Heath.

Bargaining centered on forming either a minority or a coalition government because no party emerged from Thursday's election with the 318 seats needed for a majority in the new 635-seat House of Commons.

Harold Wilson's opposition Labor party held the most seats, 301, Heath's Conservatives had 296 seats, Thorpe's moderate Liberals 14 and others 24.

The figures meant that neither the Conservatives nor the Laborites could form a majority coalition with the help of the Liberals alone. Either would need help from the smaller independent parties, including Scottish and Welsh nationalists and Northern Ireland loyalists.

Help could come either in the form of a coalition, meaning smaller party representation in government, or through informal understandings with the smaller parties.

Heath advised Queen Elizabeth II Friday evening that he would stay on as prime minister for the time being and attempt to form a working majority in Parliament.

F. M. Whitmire Rites Sunday

Funeral service has been set for 2 p.m. Sunday at the Avenue D Baptist Church for Francis Marion Whitmire, 81. Mr. Whitmire, who lived at 3012 Austin Avenue, died at 5:50 p.m. Friday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

The Rev. George Magnor, Avenue D Baptist pastor, will officiate at the funeral service and burial will be in Hillside Memorial Gardens, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

A native of Gadson, Ala., Mr. Whitmire had lived here for the past 25 years. He was married on May 20, 1914, at Gibtown, Tex., to Miss Lula Pearl Robinson. She preceded him in death on March 4, 1973.

Surviving are five daughters, Mrs. M. M. Walters of Blackwell, Mrs. O. W. Pond and Mrs. V. E. Stanfield, both of Lubbock, Mrs. Mervin Tennyson of Espanola, N. M., and Mrs. George Gates of Arvada, Calif.; a son, Glyn Whimire of Tulsa, Okla.; three brothers, Kay Whitmire of Plainview, Byron and Hershell Whitmire, both of Fort Worth; 15 grandchildren and eight great-grand children.

Special Events Planned For Public School Week

Elementary and junior high schools will hold "open house" events and senior high students will have exhibits at local business firms as Snyder observes Texas Public School Week beginning Monday.

Visits to the schools will be encouraged throughout the week, with special visitors' rates to be in effect at the school cafeterias for those who wish to have lunch at the schools during the special week.

The elementary schools will observe "open house" from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. Monday. "Open house" at Travis and Lamar Junior High Schools will be observed Tuesday evening.

Snyder Senior High School Students will have exhibits as follows in Snyder stores: Arts and crafts at Texas Electric Service Co., fine arts at Rogers Inc., social studies at Bea Owens, business at Rachel's, science at M&M Electronics, mathematics at Bennett's Office Supply, industrial arts at C.R. Anthony store, agriculture at Fenton's Dad and Lad, homemaking at Dryden's Shoes, English at Bud's Office Supply.

During the "open house" events at the junior high schools, parents will go through a mini-schedule of their children's classes. However, it was emphasized that all citizens, regardless of whether they have children or close relatives in school, will be welcome to participate in all Public School Week activities.

The line-up of programs for the elementary school "open house" events will be as follows:

Northeast—Choir program in auditorium at 7:30 p.m.; visits to classrooms at 8 p.m.; refreshments in cafeteria at 8:30 p.m.

East Elementary also will have a music program, "Let's Sing School," by Mrs. Rex Nall's first grade class at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday, and "Work and Play," songs sung by the combined third grade music classes, at 1 p.m. Thursday.

Stanfield—Demonstration by first grade reading Distar, third grade Distar with emphasis on mathematics and the transition back to regular classes, demonstration in music with fifth and sixth graders showing children's growth in music. Stanfield also will have some 30 parents visiting during the week by invitation in a planned rotation period of one hour per room, after which they will meet together for evaluation of their visits.

Central—The "open house" will begin with visits to classrooms, followed by demonstrations in gymnastics featuring various groups from the school's regular physical education program.

North—Visitors will assemble for welcoming ceremonies and a program of entertainment by fourth grade students in the auditorium, followed by visits to classrooms where student work and instructional material will be on display.

Parents who plan to visit schools during the week and have their noon-meal in school lunchrooms have been urged to follow this grade-level schedule for elementary school visitation: Monday, kindergarten; Tuesday, grades 1 and 4; Wednesday, grades 2 and 5; Thursday, grades 3 and 6. Visitors will be welcome on any day during the week at the junior and senior high school lunchrooms. During the Texas Public School Week observance, the cafeteria meal price for adult visitors will be 75 cents each.

Italian Premier Rumor Resigns

Health Minister Luigi Gui, a Christian Democrat, said the government resigned after a cabinet meeting.

He also said the cabinet would recommend to President Giovanni Leone that the referendum on repealing the divorce law be held on May 12.

The date of the referendum is to be set by Leone.

Rumor's coalition government, Italy's 35th in the last 30 years, had been in office since last July. It was composed of the Christian Democrat, Marxist Socialist, Democratic Socialist and Republican parties.

But the Catholic-Marxist alliance, already plagued by a stagnant economy and an oil scandal reaching up to cabinet ministers, began to fall apart when Treasury Minister Ugo La Malfa, a Republican, resigned Thursday. On Friday, his party pulled out of the coalition government.

La Malfa quit over a dispute involving a $1.2-billion standby credit from the International Monetary Fund to bolster the nation's enfeebled currency, the lira. The IMF had stipulated that the fund not be used for inflationary projects.

La Malfa agreed to the condition but Budget Minister Antonio Giolitti, a Socialist, opposed the Republican leader, and leftists contended that La Malfa had given in to "foreign interference."

Rumor's government, forced to balance the diverging interests of the four parties in it, was unable to halt the nation's inflationary spiral estimated at more than 15 per cent a year.

The Catholic-Marxist governing alliance also lacked a common position on the pending referendum on whether to repeal this Roman Catholic nation's divorce law.

Weak Cool Front Stalls

The Associated Press

A weak cool front stalled along the east edge of West Texas kept a sort of fence between the two brands of weather which have prevailed for several days.

Otherwise the frontal system exercised little effect. It was expected to break up during the day.

West winds blew dry air across the western side of Texas and south breezes shoved more damp air ashore from the Gulf of Mexico over the eastern half of the state.

ON WATERGATE

Nation's Justice System Praised

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Praise for the nation's justice system and reminders that indicted persons are considered innocent until proven guilty marked the reaction to the new Watergate indictment.

Seven former White House and Committee for the Re-election of the President officials were indicted Friday.

Vice President Gerald R. Ford told reporters that "our judicial system seems to be working well."

He added that "we must keep in mind under our system of justice an accused person is presumed innocent until convicted."

"I believe all of us are pleased that justice might finally work its will," said Democratic National Chairman Robert S. Strauss.

And President Nixon issued a statement saying that "the indictments indicated that the judicial process is finally moving toward the resolution of the matter. It is the President's hope that the trials will move quickly to a just solution."

Meanwhile, however, Reps. Bella Abzug and Edward I. Koch, New York Democrats, said they feel the indictment will accelerate calls for impeachment of the President.

"The impact on the part of some people first will be that there's one name missing," Rep. Abzug said.

"These were appointees of President Nixon. It was solely in his behalf that these acts took place. I say he's responsible for the actions of his immediate appointees," she added.

"With the whole world looking, I believe the trials will go forward ... and justice will be done," said Samuel Dash, chief counsel for the Senate Watergate committee.

And committee chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., reflected that "the judicial process will work its way ...."

Among those named in the indictment, former Nixon aide Charles W. Colson said: "My conscience is clear; regardless of how rough the road ahead may be, I know that in the end my innocence will be established because I put complete faith in God and I believe deeply in my country."

Former Nixon adviser H. R. Haldeman told newsmen that he would have something to say "at the proper time to the proper authorities."

"I have no comment whatsoever on what happened in Washington because Judge Sirica informed all persons connected with the matter that they should refrain from discussing it. That's just what I'm doing," said former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

Kenneth W. Parkinson, a lawyer for the campaign finance committee said: "I am innocent of the charges ... my connection with the events was as a lawyer seeking honorably and diligently to serve my clients ... my innocence will be clearly demonstrated."

Former White House aide Gordon C. Strachan was not available for comment, and there was also no immediate reaction available from former election committee official Robert C. Mardian and former White House domestic affairs adviser John D. Ehrlichman.

People Change On 'Time'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government-commissioned public opinion poll shows that people have changed their minds and no longer like year-round Daylight Savings Time.

Asked last month how they like Daylight Savings Time, 51 per cent of the 324 persons questioned said they dislike it somewhat or very much. The remainder liked it to some degree or didn't care.

As recently as mid-December, the pollsters asked people whether Daylight Savings Time should be instituted all year. Given a "yes" or "no" choice, 76 per cent chose yes.

Similar results favoring all-year Daylight Savings Time had been shown in polls going back to Aug. 31. The polling organization, the National Opinion Research Center of the University of Chicago, did not offer an explanation for the change of heart.

The poll is conducted weekly at the expense of the Department of Transportation to sample public opinion on the energy shortages and policies. Results also are provided to the Federal Energy Office.

Aside from sentiment on Daylight Savings Time, the latest poll reflected an increasing tendency to blame the government in Washington for increasing difficulties in obtaining fuel.

Forty-four per cent of those polled named the federal government as the institution most responsible for the energy shortage, an increase of 4 per cent over the previous week. The 31 per cent who named oil and gas companies was only slightly above the 30 per cent previous week.

Kidnaped Man Freed

SANFORD, Fla. (AP) — A 52-year-old businessman kidnaped Thursday was released unharmed early today after his abductors were paid $30,000 ransom, police said.

George R. Jackson Jr. was freed shortly after midnight, 28 hours after being abducted from his bakery ingredient shop in this small central Florida town.

"I don't know why they picked me," Jackson said today after a tearful reunion with his family. "It was like a nightmare.

"I was only able to give very limited help to police in describing anything about the whole thing," he said. His eyes had been taped shut, he added.

"My concern was just that they might abandon me after they got the money and no one would find me. I didn't think they'd kill me because they had blindfolded me.

"The whole time, my hands were taped behind my back and my feet were tied together."

Jackson said he is not well known in Sanford, calling himself "a family man not much interested in politics or making any kind of a public name for myself."

Police said Jackson walked into a fire department near Sanford to ask for help shortly after his release. His car, taken by the kidnapers, was found abandoned and free of fingerprints, police said.

Don't share your bed with your ex-husband

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My ex-husband and I are dating again. We may get married again, but not right away. [He has to make good a few promises first.]

We have two children, ages 8 and 11, who live with me. They know their father and I have been divorced for over a year and in all that time I have conducted myself like an unmarried woman. I have dated other men, but I have never allowed any man, [including my ex-husband] to spend the night here.

My ex has asked if he could stay overnight when he takes me out. It would save him driving about 20 miles because his place of work is near my home, and he lives on the other side of town. What do you think?

It makes sense with the gas shortage. DOTTY

DEAR DOTTY: It's okay—as long as you don't have a "bed shortage," too!

DEAR ABBY: I was all set to have a face-lift by a reputable plastic surgeon when he asked me if my husband knew about it. When I told him I had not discussed it with my husband because I didn't want any hassles over it, the doctor told me he wouldn't do it without my husband's approval!

Abby, it's MY face, and my money, and I am 49 years old, so why should I need my husband's approval?

Now, can you tell me why a doctor would take this ridiculous attitude? FLABBERGASTED IN PHOENIX

DEAR FLABBERGASTED: Your doctor probably has "survival" [for himself] in mind, and I don't blame him. You told the doctor you didn't even discuss it with your husband because you were afraid he'd object, so the doctor fears if he performs the surgery, your husband may come after him with a deadly weapon, shouting, "What have you done to my wife? I liked her face the way it was!"

DEAR ABBY: Earl and I have four wonderful children and a good marriage. Or we DID have, until a few months ago. Then a young woman [I'll call Vera] joined his organization, and started confiding her marital problems to him. [He repeats them to me.] All Vera's problems seem to be about her sex life with her husband. Earl says it's good for her to "unload" on someone.

Abby, it upsets me to have Earl tell me these things, and I am beginning to wonder why a woman should tell such intimate things to a man she hardly knows. Or do you think maybe they know each other better than Earl lets on?

Should I tell Earl I don't care to hear any more about Vera's sex life? I don't want to drive him away from me. We've always had such an honest and open relationship.

TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: Vera should discuss her marital problems with a professional counselor, and Earl should tell her to. Unloading her problems may be good for Vera. But when Vera unloads on Earl, it's bad for your marriage.

DEAR ABBY: I am planning my wedding and my fiance and I agree that we don't want any children or even young teen-agers there. Would it be okay to put, "No children under 18 admitted" on the invitations?

PAT AND GLO

DEAR P AND G: No. It sounds like you're sending out invitations to an X-rated movie.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

J.W. Murchison Rites Monday

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — John W. Murchison, 74, brother of the man who founded the fabulous Murchison fortune and believed very wealthy in his own right, died this week in a Dallas hospital, the family reported Saturday.

Graveside services will be held at 4 p.m. Monday at Sunset Memorial Park in San Antonio. Murchison died Thursday.

He was the brother of the late Clint Murchison Sr. who gained a vast fortune in oil, banking and widespread business interests.

The Murchison family seemed careful to avoid the spotlight until Clint Murchsion Jr. became spokesman for the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League after the franchise was awarded him in 1960.

John W. Murchison had banking interests in Athens and Plainview. He and his family moved to San Antonio in 1935, and he later moved after his retirement to Athens where the Murchison family had its roots.

He was a benefactor of Trinity University in San Antonio, Presbyterian Hospital in Dallas and Ochsner Foundation Hospital in New Orleans.

Survivors include his daughter, Mrs. Meredith Mallroy Jr. of San Antonio; a sister, Mrs. Ernest Closuit, Fort Worth; and several grandchildren.

Snyder Rotarians To Hear Farabee

Ray Farabee, Democratic candidate for the 30th district state senate seat being vacated by Senator Jack Hightower, brings his campaign to Snyder Thursday.

On Thursday noon, the Wichita Falls attorney and businessman will speak to the Snyder Rotary Club on Estate Planning. Farabee is a founder and past president of the North Texas Estate Planning Council. He is also a past presisent of his Rotary Club in Wichita Falls.

Farabee will discuss the importance of estate planning, the effect of taxes on property in the event of death, the role of trusts and the use of independent administration. Farabee has been a practicing attorney for 12 years.

On Thursday afternoon, the candidate will meet with citizens in the downtown area. He will shake hands, pass out information and answer questions.

This is Farabees fourth visit in Snyder. He has been traveling constantly and expressed the belief that people want a grass roots campaign. He recently observed that citizens are worried about shortages of fuel fertilizer and other agricultural supplies.

Other topics most often mentioned by voters are inflation, honesty in government and taxes. "There is a desire to return as much government as possible to the local level and a feeling that we need to seek common sense solutions to problems." stated Farabee.

From Snyder, the candidate will travel to Big Spring where he will address two groups and campaign on Friday.

First Atlas 50 Years Ago

NEW YORK (AP) — The first annual road atlas of the United States was published by Rand McNally 50 years ago, in 1924. To celebrate this half-century milestone, the veteran road map publisher is issuing a golden anniversary edition of the road atlas for 1974, back-to-back with a facsimile of its 1926 road atlas — the earliest of Rand McNally's road atlases known still to exist.

No copies of the original 1924 atlas could be found, even after an extensive search of the country.

More Postal Hikes Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postal service costs you more today than Friday, but maybe not as much as a year from now.

Basic rates went up two cents at midnight. First-class letters are a dime. Airmail is 13 cents and postcards are eight cents.

Rates for parcels and some classes of bulk mail went up slightly and will continue to rise for the next few years.

At a news conference Friday, Postmaster General E. T. Klassen said letter and postcard rates could continue to rise, too, if current strong economic pressures continue.

Gasoline, for example, is costing the Postal Service $38 million more this year than it expected. Each penny increase in the price of a gallon of gasoline costs the service $3.5 million, Klassen said. He noted oil companies recently announced that more increases are coming.

New Show Opens At Planetarium

"Solstices or Equinoxes: Signs of the Seasons" is the title of the new show opening today in the planetarium at Western Texas College.

The show is scheduled to begin at 2:30 p.m. Tickets are to be purchased in advance of the show in the museum room in the Learning Resource Center.

"We begin the program by discussing the sky over Snyder as it will look tonight," Mickey Schmidt, planetarium director, said. "We will point out where observers may see the planets or other unusual objects and a few constellations.

"The ancient Greeks named 48 constellations," Schmidt said, "but only 12 of these seemed important. These 12 came to be held in high regard and became known as the Zodiac.

"Early astronomer-priests found that they could foretell the changing of the seasons and the coming and going of the tides by watching the stars, and tried to foretell other things by the stars as well.

"Today, we still use the motion of the sun, moon and planets through the Zodiac to tell the changing of the seasons. In the planetarium today, we will watch the movement of the sun for a year and will discuss why the seasons now advance at different points in the sun's journey as compared with thousands of years ago. We will explain why we have seasonal variations in temperature and hours of daylight. I will be happy to talk with visitors after the program to answer questions," Schmidt said.

Admission to the show is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. Family groups pay a maximum admission of $2.

Postman Finds New Compost

BRADFORD, England (AP) — A Bradford postman decided to save time on his morning rounds by burying part of the mail in his back garden, a magistrate's court was told. The prosecutor said the letters seemed to have formed a "new type of compost."

Dinner Theatre A 'Pleasant Evening'

"A very pleasant evening." That was typical comment Friday evening as a sell-out audience left the Western Texas College Student Center following the first WTC Dinner Theatre presentation.

The event came off well on opening night, and a second performance, also a sell-out, was presented Saturday night and a hold-over presentation is set for next Saturday evening, March 9.

It was evident that Charles Holland, the director, the food service people, the cast and crew had gone all-out to put this first dinner theatre presentation over.

The food and the service were excellent and the comedy, "Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mama's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feelin' So Sad," a fast-moving bundle of laughs that was reeled off in just a little over an hour, was applauded enthusiastically.

The cast performed well, with Snyder's Retha Boyd in the top role. She and Zack Baker of Abilene, as mother and son, (Madame Rosepettle and Jonathan) easily dominated the scene, but they had excellent help from Paula Cox of Snyder, in the role of Rosalie, the ambitious and amorous babysitter, and Clayton Black as Commodore Roseabove, whose ardor cooled rapidly when he learned that Madame Rosepettle had, indeed, "hung" her ex-husband in the closet.

The play is truly a light farce with slapstick-type laughs stimulated by the bellboys—— Moses Brazil, Jay Burney, Mark Summer and David Dean—— and the "Venus Flytraps"—— Sherry Taylor and Sheritta Trout, as well as the principals in the cast.—WM.

New Home For Timber Wolves

NEW YORK (AP) — The often maligned timber wolf will be reestablished in the Huron Mountain area of northern Michigan if a conservationist project works out.

Experimenters are trapping a pack of five wolves in northern Minnesota, the one area south of the Canadian border with a comparatively healthy wolf population. After getting medical checks, rabies and distemper shots and after being fitted with radio transmitters so that their movements can be followed easily, the wolves will be released.

Solemn Ceremony Unites Couple

Lucendia Tracie Dea and Billy Doran Durham Jr. pledged double ring wedding vows at 6 p.m. on February 15 in the Trinity United Methodist Church of Snyder. The Rev. Jesse P. Dea, father of the bride, and assisted by the Rev. James Terry of Trinity United Methodist Church, officiated at the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Rev. and Mrs. Jesse Dea of Clyde, and Mr. and Mrs. Billy Doran Durham of Snyder.

Given in marriage by W.L. Dea, grandfather of the bride, she wore a gown of dotted Swiss with long, full sleeves and a square neckline. A natural waistline enhanced the full ruffled skirt. She wore a finger tip veil trimmed with lace. For something old, she wore a pendant with floating opals; something new was the bridal gown; something borrowed was a white Bible from a cousin of the bride and something blue was her garter. She wore pennies minted in the dates of their births in her shoe. She carried a white Bible topped with red and white carnations accented with red ribbons and streamers.

Terri Gail Dea of Clyde, sister of the bride, was Maid of honor. Mrs. Ken Gregory of Lubbock, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. They wore gowns of red and white dotted Swiss with rounded necklines, short puff sleeves and empire waistlines. They wore red wide brimmed hats and carried long stemmed white carnations with red streamers.

Wendi Gregory of Lubbock, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a red and white dotted Swiss floor length gown with a natural waistline. She carried a basket of red and white carnations.

Best man was Kim Hall of Snyder. Groomsman was Bobby Beard of Snyder. Ushers were Mark York and Benny Hollis, both of Snyder.

A 15 candle candelabrum covered with greenery and flanked on each side by baskets of red and white gladiola decorated the church. The couple lighted a white memory candle with a candle ring of stephanotis.

Molly Walker of Snyder accompanied Caffey Welch of Roscoe as he sang, "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer."

A reception was held following the ceremony in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Chloanne Lindsey and Becky York presided at the table which held the tiered wedding cake with hearts and red roses and topped with three wedding bells. Kathy Hall presided at the book.

For a short wedding trip to Lubbock, the bride wore red and white knit pants with a white blouse, red blazer and white accessories. Following the trip the couple will reside at 1907 Coleman, Apt. 4 in Snyder.

The bride is employed by Trinity United Methodist Church and West Texas Rehabilitation Center.

The groom was in the Air Force for four years and is now employed by Gibsons in Snyder.

Out of town guests were from Abilene, Clyde, Altus, Okla., Lubbock, Ft. Worth, Big Spring, Colorado City, Dunn, Roscoe and Plains.

Press Kills Caroline Exhibit

NEW YORK (AP) — Caroline Kennedy's scheduled exhibit of photographs has been killed by a barrage from the news media.

"Somehow the press was informed, and it was blown out of all proportion. A lot of attention was drawn to the occasion," Nancy Tuckerman, a spokeswoman for Caroline's mother, Mrs. Jacqueline Onassis, said Friday.

"It wasn't what Caroline had planned or wanted. This particular exhibit has been canceled."

Voss, Hinton Repeat Vows

Jennifer Gayleen Voss and Mark Brightman Hinton were united in marriage February 22 at 6 p.m. in the home of the bride's parents. Pat Abbananto, minister of Thirty-seventh St. Church of Christ, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Billy J. Voss of Snyder and parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Hinton, also of Snyder.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and she wore a gown fashioned of embroidered cotton and lace with a high neckline and full elbow length sleeves with an empire waistline. She wore pennies, minted in the years of their births, in her shoe. For something old and borrowed she wore an antique watch that belonged to the groom's great grandmother; something new was her dress and something blue was her garter.

She carried a nosegay of white carnations. Red roses were presented to the grandmothers.

J.D. Hinton, father of the groom, was Best man.

A reception was held, following the ceremony, in the bride's home. Lisa and Billie Voss presided at the event.

For a short wedding trip to Lubbock the bride wore a black knit pants suit with a plaid jacket. The couple will reside in Snyder.

Museum News

During February about one hundred visitors signed the register book in our Museum Room at Western Texas College. On account of illness in the schools we did not have any elementary school visitors. We hope our business will pick up in March! Our most distant visitor during Feburary was our AFS student, Ingun Grytli, from Norway. Ingun also visited Ranch Headquarters at Texas Tech on Feb. 18—the day of the great duster—and probably she has much sympathy for West Texas pioneers after that day.

Our docents for February were Vera Baize, Nelda Bills, Mary Blum, Mary Boch, Marian Gibson, Virginia Johnston (twice), Henrietta Lee, K. Redwine, Lida Rhoades, Golda Thorpe, Sue Walker, Martha Webb, and Katherine Williamson.

Thanks a million for your continued and faithful help!

Incidentally, Mrs. Waller is having some trouble finding docents who will work on Sunday afternoons. If you can come on Sundays, please call her at 573-2995.

Our Membership Chairman, Mrs. W.D. Sims, sent many letters out during February and we have added quite a few members to our rolls—Family, Sustaining, Commercial, Patron, and one Benefactor. We appreciate the response to our letter and if you have not joined yet, please send your check to Box 696. If you would like to give a memorial, call Mrs. Sims at 573-3229.

The Workshop for Permian Basin Museums personnel at UTPB in Odessa on Feb. 7 was very helpful. Board Members Mrs. Pat Bills, Mrs. W.D. Sims, and Mrs. H.P. Redwine attended; also Mr. Micky Schmidt from WTC.

Do you have a copy of "Life" magazine dated December 5, 1949? This issue tells the story of the effects of the Oil Boom on Snyder. We really do need a copy of this for the Museum. Call Mrs. Bills at 573-6076 or Mrs. Redwine at 573-2202.

Soon we will be interested in acquiring clothing worn around the turn of the century. If you have any clothing of this period, please let us know.

Our RSVP helpers are great! Mr. and Mrs. Fred Davis are checking old documents from the Courthouse and Mrs. Lillie Lewis has been working on our Acquisition files.

We are extremely proud of the chuck-box we are showing in our Museum Room. It has a lot of character! In publicity we had stated that George Kindred (Uncle Kin) Elkins brought the box to this area but our records have recently been corrected.

This chuck-box was brought through Scurry County and into the southern part of Kent County in 1877 by George Marion Elkins, grandfather of Herman W. Elkins of Snyder.

According to "First Cattlemen on the Lower Plains of West Texas" (Ranch Hq. Assn, Snyder Unit), "Uncle Kin" Elkins moved his family from Parker County to Colemen County in 1869. In 1875 Kin's son-in-law, Jim Jackson, left Coleman County and went with Col. R.S. Mackenzie to search for horses stolen by the Indians. On this expedition they went as far as the Double Mountain area. Jackson was very impressed with the good grass he saw and reported to George, who went to look the country over in 1876.

In 1877 George M. Elkins and Sam Gholson moved about 5000 head of cattle from Colemen County to Kent County. Some of these cattle belonged to Kin. The chuck-box we have on display was brought into this area by George M. Elkins in 1877.

Grazing proved good and in 1879 Kin Elkins and the rest of the family came out and established a home in Kent County. At that time Ken bought land. His cattle had been on leased land or open range before 1879.

After almost one hundred years members of the Elkins family are still ranching in this area.

We got many inquiries about the move into the new building. There is no way we can estimate the opening at this time. Exhibits and sets for the new building. There is no way we can estimate the opening at this time. Exhibits and sets for the new gallery will have to be built in the basement workroom of the new building as we do not have a place to work on displays. We Do appreciate the office space in the Diamond-M Building that Mr. McLaughlin has let us use for more than three years. It has been great to have an office to worry and work in!

We hope all members are enjoying the first 1974 issue of "Scurryly Speaking" by now. If you have not received your membership bonus of "Scurry Speaking", please call Mrs. Sims at 573-3229.

QUOTABLE WOMEN

By The Associated Press

Here are some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"We pioneered our kind of series and got it down to a routine. I kind of hate to call a halt to it, but there are plenty of other things to do yet." Lucille Ball, announcing that her weekly television series will be discontinued next fall, ending the longest-running prime time series.

"A simple change in the by-laws is not going to get Mory's liquor license back. The men-only membership rule is arbitrary, invidious and capricious discrimination against women." Kathryn Emmett, feminist lawyer who filed a suit against the New Haven, Conn., alehouse-eating club which resulted in revocation of its liquor permit.

"We have come to recognize our artists as part of our national heritage. Although we may be remembered as the country that put men on the moon, art is the signature of civilization." Opera singer Beverly Sills, addressing the New York Legislature in Albany about increasing the state budget for the arts.

"I don't believe there's a place in the law for the words 'man' or 'woman.' We're all persons. Even in areas where the law protects women tools for changes are not used." Karen DeCrow, activist attorney and author of "Sexist Justice," a new book on women and the law.

A great Phillipine chicken dish with no fat added.

3-pound broiler-fryer, cut up
¼ cup cider vinegar
¼ cup soy sauce
Large clove garlic, crushed

In a 12-inch skillet arrange chicken in a single layer. Mix together the remaining ingredients; pour over chicken. Cover and let bubble gently, turning several times, until chicken is tender — about 40 minutes. Remove chicken and keep warm. If necessary — and it probably will be — boil liquid in skillet until dark brown in color and thickened — about 5 minutes; spoon over chicken. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Plaques Donated To Museum

Company G 142nd Infantry. 36th Division was organized at Snyder April 18, 1924, with three officers and 52 enlisted men, Captain John E. Sentell Commanding. The first armory was located over the Winston-Clement feed store until it moved in 1927 to the second floor of the Towle Bulding one block west of square on Twenty-fifth Streeet. By 1927, Company G, during its third federal inspection received the highest rating in the 142nd Infantry which composed of 18 units. By 1938 Company G had won two first places in division competition and two years as first runner up, competing with 45 companies.

One of the highest honors for Company G was being designated as Governor Ross Sterling and Governor M. F. Fergusons body guard company in 1931 and 1932.

In order to preserve the heritage of this National Guard Company the plaques for these two honor years are being transferred to the Scurry County Museum Association. The company and the hundreds of men trained with her went on to distinguish itself as a Combat Rifle Company during World War II.

Presbyterian Church Scene Of Nuptial Vows

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM RODNEY HEAD

(Photo By Craft)

The First Presbyterian Church of Snyder was the setting for the double ring marriage ceremony which united Susan Ellice Cross and William Rodney Head on February 8. Officiating at the 7 p.m. ceremony was Rev. John Gaston, pastor of the church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. Elwinn Cross, Seoul, Korea, Mrs. Ellice Cross, 302 Thirty-fifth Street and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Head of Rt. 1, Snyder.

The altar of the church was centered with a brass candelabrum holding fourteen candles and entwined with boxwood. Immediately in front of the candelabrum was a gold cross flanked by two large candles. Two tall baskets of white flowers completed the decorations.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal white gown. Fashioned of bridal satin veiled of silk chiffon, the gown formed a molded bodice. The skirt fell in three tiers attached by bands of Venice lace. The square neckline and bell sleeves were also outlined with lace. A bow of lace at the waistline in the back completed the gown. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion fell in tiers from a coif of matching Venice lace and she carried a cascading bridal bouquet of white spider mums with white carnations and tiny knots of red ribbon and lemon foliage.

Traditionally, worn in her shoes, something old were pennies minted in the years of their birth. Something new was a white ivory rose drop and earrings which were a gift from the groom and something blue was a blue garter. Something borrowed was a handkerchief.

The bride was attended by Cynthia Cadena as maid of honor. She was attired in a floor length gown of red with tiny white dots and carried two white spider mums with white streamers.

Lisa Cross attended her sister as flower girl. Her gown was fashioned after the maid of honor's and she carried a white straw basket and dropped tiny red tissue hearts in the path of the bride.

Mrs. Cross chose a street length dress of dusty pink accented with a corsage of spider mums. Mrs. Head wore a dress of pastel yellows. Her corsage was also spider mums.

Greg Godair of Snyder served as best man. Ushers were Joe Cross, brother of the bride and Laddie McMillan, brother-in-law of the groom.

Wedding music was presented by Mrs. Wayne Bethel.

Mrs. Laddie McMillan, sister of the groom, presided at the guest register.

A reception immediately followed the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table, covered with a white floor length cloth, was centered by the bridal bouquet. The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with red roses and topped with three red satin bells. Mrs. Joe Cross, sister-in-law of the bride and Mrs. McMillan served.

For a short wedding trip, the bride chose a brown and white plaid pant suit ensemble with brown accessories.

Both bride and groom are seniors in Snyder High School. Head is presently employed by Head Heating and Air Conditioning.

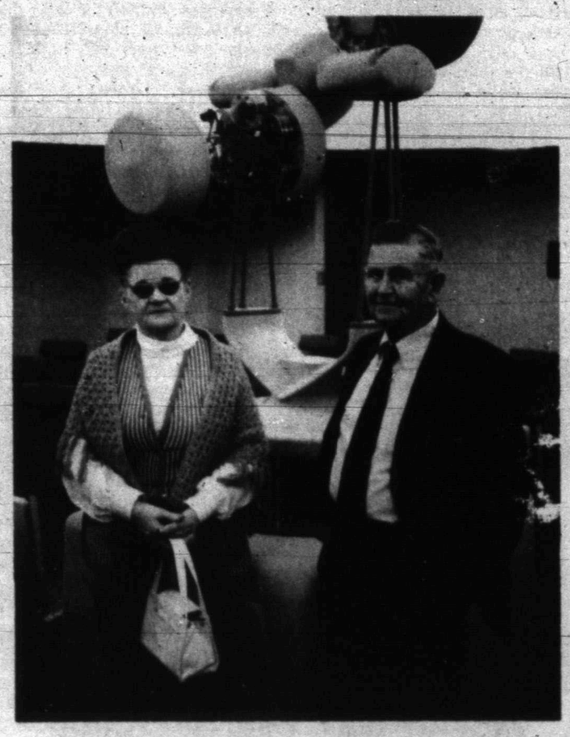

Out of town guests were from Rotan, Roby, Colorado City, Big Spring, Crane, Andrews and Waco.

Parents of the groom hosted the rehearsal dinner at the American Restaurant.

The couple resides at 3009 Ave. C.

JUNE WEDDING PLANNED—Mr. and Mrs. Phillip M. Norvelle of Hurst, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Priscilla Faye to Bruce Carlton Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bell, of Snyder. The Wedding is planned for June 1, 1974.

VISITORS—Mr. and Mrs. Howard McKnight were among the LLL Club members who visited the planetarium at Western Texas College Thursday morning. It was their first time to see the planetarium. The planetarium is open to the public each Sunday afternoon, but special showings can be arranged for groups at their request. The LLL club members met at the First Baptist Church and made the trip to the WTC campus by bus, then returned to the church building for lunch.

Sheep Creates Host Of Problems

LONDON (AP) — A fully grown sheep found wandering near London's Euston Station has created a host of woolly problems for police. Frank Pawlowski claims ownership of the animal and says he wants to sacrifice it to a sun god in a religious ritual. The Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals says this is illegal.

While the dispute rages, the 3-year-old ewe has eaten all the roses around the police station where she is detained.

'Alienation' New Word In American Politics

By JULES LOH
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A healthy skepticism of politicians is an American tradition.

But in recent months a state of mind new to the United States has become evident to political scientists who have studied it and office-holders immediately confronted with it.

Apprehension of those in authority, one of the great underlying themes of 1787, seems in 1974 to have deepened. The present malady apparently is one not experienced in America since the darkest days of the Great Depression, perhaps not even then.

"Skepticism, cynicism, these are old American attitudes," said an aide to a senator up for re-election. "The new word in this year's political vocabulary is 'alienation.'"

What that means, he explained, is that if people complain at all about the present state of public service they do it in the same resigned way they gripe about the weather. So it isn't to your liking? So?

Consider:

—Cambridge Survey Research, Inc., an organization that specializes in private polls for political candidates, recently surveyed voter attitudes in 18 states. Fifteen thousand persons representing a cross-section of age levels, incomes and occupations were asked whether they felt the country was in better or worse shape today than five years ago. Seventy per cent said worse — and more than half that group felt it will be even worse five years from now.

—Graduate students entering the University of Michigan's Institute of Public Policy Studies, young adults presumably serious about a career in public service, are asked in an annual opinion sampling whether they agree with this statement: "Often those who enter politics think more about their own or their party's welfare than about the welfare of the citizens." In 1972 only 12 per cent agreed, about the same steady percentage as in previous years. Last September the figure leaped to 94 per cent, practically unanimous.

—The enormous advantage of an incumbent running for re-election, especially for Congress, is well known. Yet so far this year 15 Republicans and three Democrats have decided their chances aren't worth the effort this November. "For the first time," said Patrick Caddell, president of Cambridge Survey Research, "incumbency has become in some ways a negative."

That, as Harry Truman used to say, is the fix the country's in.

"We may be on the verge of a truly watershed period in American history," said political scientist Caddell. "We're dealing with something deeply psychological."

Lord knows there is plenty of tradition for the notion, valid or not, that politician is just another word for thief.

Shakespeare wrote of the "scurvy politician: one that would circumvent God." Ambrose Bierce defined politics as "the conduct of public affairs for private advantage. "Corruption culminates at Washington," wrote the editor of Harper's Magazine in 1856. "It is a propensity elsewhere; there it is an art."

One needn't go back to the vague past, only to yesterday's newspaper, to find evidence of venality in public office. According to the Congressional Quarterly, in the 13-year period ending two years ago, 11 members of Congress were indicted and seven of them sent off to jail for crimes of mail fraud, bribery, payroll padding and kickbacks, not to mention income tax evasion, which lately gained the status of a household word.

Corruption on the national political level is as nothing compared with what goes on at the state and local levels.

During the past three and a half years the federal prosecutor in one notorious state, New Jersey, has indicted 68 assorted office-holders and so far convicted 46 of them, an average of better than one a month. Those convicted included two mayors, two secretaries of state and a congressman, all on charges of extorting kickbacks, mainly from firms seeking, and finding, state contracts.

Most state and local political organizations are more subtle.

A widespread practice is simply to send the firms doing business with the state their apportioned shares of $100 tickets to "testimonial dinners." For the sake of appearance, certainly not cuisine, the dinners are generally held.

In Florida, former Gov. Claude R. Kirk Jr. formed what he called a "Governor's Club." According to a state audit, the club raked in $447,170, much of it from highway design consultants and contractors. The audit further showed that the money went to ease the burden of the governor's living expenses: $22,540 for hotel and restaurant tabs; $6,209 for a trip to Europe; $177,349 for rental of a jet plane.

Michael Garber, a Philadelphia engineer, told Monroe W. Karmin of the Wall Street Journal about some aspects of his trade he didn't learn at engineering school:

"In my younger years, I thought merit should be the sole criterion. But as I grew older and wiser, I realized that isn't the way the real world works at all. You get contracts because you have connections. You have to be a friend of the party, and being a friend of the party means you help financially."

Said Charles Colbert, a New Orleans architect and former dean of the Columbia University School of Architecture: "It's a universal evil, a blinding scar on my profession. The architect and engineer dealing in public works provides the front money for the aspiring politician."

William Slayton, executive director of the American Institute of Architects, said the practice is so blatant and degrading that a member of his profession comes to regard himself as "a cow to be milked."

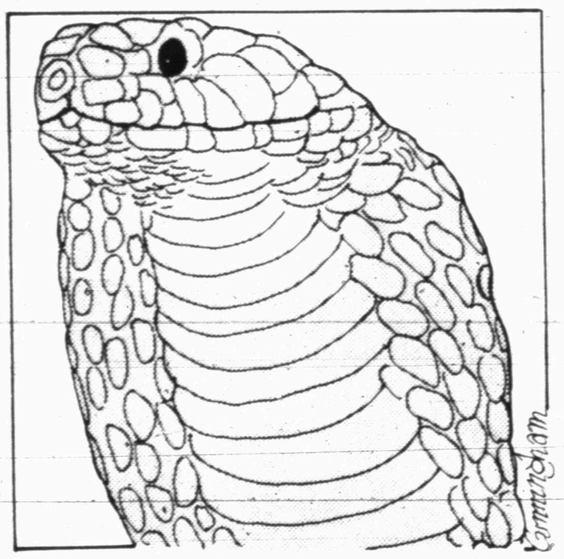

Just because a politician leaves office doesn't necessarily mean the teat dries up. According to the executive director of the American Consulting Engineers Council, Donald Buzzell, "Some firms have to hire former legislators and public officials who have influence so they don't have to give so much."

For every bribee, of course, there is a briber, so the evil is not necessarily one-sided.

"I think there are three fundamental reasons why corruption is worse on the state and local levels than on the national level," said Edmund Beard, professor of political science at the University of Massachusetts.

"First, you don't generally have the same intense press scrutiny at the local levels as you get from the national press corps. Further, to become a member of Congress you do have to have certain abilities, even ideals, so there's a weeding-out process.

Junior Editors' Quiz on THE ASP

QUESTION: What kind of animal is an asp?

ANSWER: An asp is a member of the reptile group of animals. This is an ancient animal family originating some 250 million years ago. Reptiles of today are descendants of magnificent ancestors, the dinosauria.

The reptiles are cold-blooded animals and include turtles, lizards, alligators, crocodiles and snakes. The asp is a species of venomous snake. The word asp has been applied to several species of poisonous snakes especially the African cobra found in Egypt and often reproduced in hieroglyphics. Biblical reference to the asp probably refers to the African cobra. Egyptian snake charmers extract the poisonous fangs from the African or Egyptian cobra and then train it to perform tricks. The Egyptian cobra or asp, a hooded snake, was worshipped by the ancient Egyptians. It is believed that the asp Cleopatra used to commit suicide was the horned viper of North Africa.

Crisis Prompts New Energy Age

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — The chairman of Exxon Co. USA says the tight energy situation will be with the nation for years to come.

M.A. Wright agrees with others the situation will likely result in some fundamental changes in lifestyles and business practices.

"The United States must begin now to prepare for an orderly transition to a new energy age," he says.

Wright adds there must be a political and economic environment that will encourage energy conservation and speed the development of conventional and non-conventional energy sources.

"Government and the business community must lead the way toward development of an energy conservation ethic on a par with some of the other major sociological movements of our times, including environmental quality and equality for minorities," he says.

Wright believes the United States, in the future, must strive to increase the Gross National Product through the use of less but most costly energy.

"The investment to provide a new barrel of oil, or its energy equivalent, will be considerably higher than in the past," he says.

"As a result, the higher cost of energy will become one of the principal economic driving forces. Energy cost will become a more significant factor in many facets of daily life and will merit a higher priority in decision making both by the business community and by the consumer. An incentive will thus be created to use less energy and to use it wisely."

Wright says many of the short-term energy conservation measures adopted to help the nation through the winter fuel shortfall may well become accepted practice over the long term.

"In other words, we may never go back to where we were before energy became scarce and more costly," he says.

"The need for long-term conservation of energy, and the changed consumer attitudes anticipated because of this, indicate each industry should examine the ways in which energy use can be reduced and energy-using products redesigned so as to perform more efficiently."

Wright says if there were no limitation on supply the world's demand for energy would likely double by 1985.

"Although the United States will continue to be the largest energy-consuming country, European demand is growing so fast that by 1985 it will be approaching that of this country," he says.

Wright says the only known petroleum sources capable of even approaching the world's needs are in the Middle East and North Africa.

"If Middle East production were to meet the demand that we anticipate, it would have to triple by 1985, from 18 million barrels a day prior to the embargoes to 50 million barrels a day," he says.

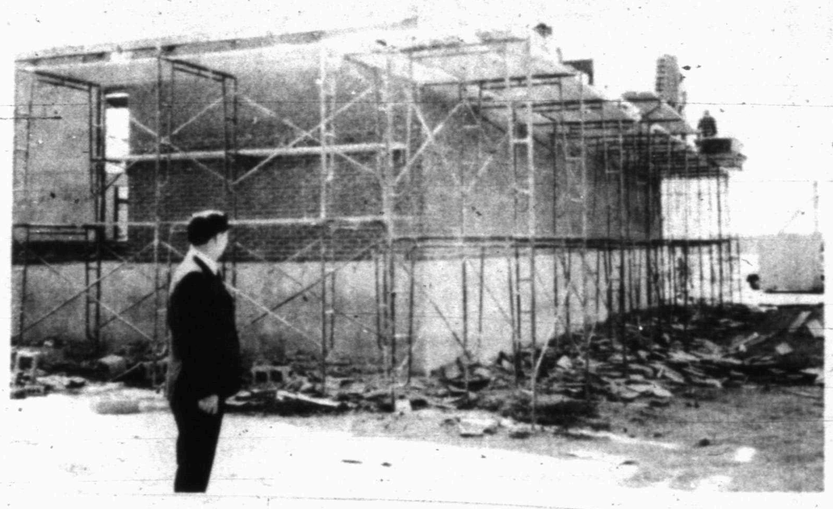

After the end of the embargoes, he adds, the Middle East countries may not find it to their own economic interests, must less their political interests, to allow their resources to be consumed at a level that would satisfy world demand.

"Their oil is a finite resource and they want to develop it at a rate that allows them to invest their oil income wisely," he says.

Suspension Is Lifted On Fifteen Ministers

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The Worldwide Church of God has lifted suspensions of 15 ministers pending hearings with church leaders here.

Herbert W. Armstrong, president of the church, said Friday that the 15 and five other ministers fired earlier had been invited to participate in "open forum discussions" next Thursday.

Armstrong also announced that two high-ranking church administrators, Albert J. Portune and David L. Antion, had withdrawn resignations they handed in Wednesday after the firings.

Church spokesmen said 20 ministers originally scheduled to be fired because they were bolting the church over doctrinal disputes and taking their congregations with them, but the firing of 15 was changed to suspension because evidence against them was not as strong.

Antonio, vice president for church administration, and Portune, director of personal campaigns, had asked for reinstatement of the ministers because they had been "reacting genuinely to issues and circumstances that have been developing for a long period of time."

The fired and suspended ministers hold congregations across the nation among the church's 85,000 members.

Coal Industry Makes Plea For More Money

By STEPHEN H. MILLER
AP Business News Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Profits may have gone up last year, but American business has spent this year trying to persuade the public it needs still more money to expand and keep up with inflation.

Oil, steel, auto and paper producers have made some of the most widely publicized pleas.

Now the cry has been raised by the giant Kennecott Copper Co. in behalf generally of the coal industry and particularly its subsidiary Peabody Coal Co., the country's biggest coal producer.

Kennecott itself made $159.4 million last year, up from $87.4 million the year before. Since Peabody is a subsidiary, Kennecott isn't required to give figures on the coal company, and it isn't giving them.

But it does say that while Peabody made a profit last year, it was "significantly less" than the year before and it came in spite of the first loss ever on domestic operations.

"It is ironic that the largest U.S. coal company should not operate profitably in an era of energy shortage," Kennecott President Frank R. Milliken said in a letter to shareholders.

"If coal users expect to rely on coal to meet the U.S. energy needs, they must accept prices which will both provide a satisfactory return on investment and reflect the real value of coal in order to enable the generation of capital necessary to expand coal production."

Demand for coal shot up when oil and natural gas became more expensive and harder to get.

Some 590 million tons of coal were produced in this country last year. The government has said the figure should be 950 million by 1980 and the coal industry says that could mean a $7 billion investment.

Coal men figure the price of their product would triple or quadruple if its heat value were priced the same as that of oil.

The big coal companies sell most of their product to electric utilities and they sell it through contracts whose terms can run beyond 30 years. Peabody has renegotiated many contracts to get a price range of $2 to $10 a ton.

Spot, noncontract steam coal sold for about $24 a ton in late February, up 150 per cent from $9 last August.

The coal men stress that contract prices are always going to be cheaper than spot prices, often greatly so, and they aren't arguing for quadrupling the price of their product. They do say the figures show room for improvement.

That improvement is needed, Kennecott says, because of things like diesel fuel which costs 30 cents a gallon now and cost 14.4 cents a gallon last year. And blasting material, which cost $37.50 a ton last year and costs $100 now. And 120-ton trucks, which cost $146,000 in 1972 and $211,000 now.

There is also a coal industry labor contract to be worked out this year.

"It is now painfully clear," says Millikin, "that long-term coal sales which Peabody has been able to renegotiate still do not permit a satisfactory return on present investment and therefore preclude the generation of capital necessary to enable additional investment in coal productive capacity."

Steel Hike Is Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council has given the nation's steel industry permission to immediately increase prices by perhaps as much as $750 million.

The council announced Thursday it was allowing steel producers to raise prices to cover their cost increases through Jan. 31 and to boost prices once a month to reflect the higher costs of scrap iron and steel.

It also directed the major steel firms to submit estimates of their anticipated cost increases for the Feb. 1-July 31 period this year.

Prices of scrap products have risen 37 per cent in seven weeks since price controls were lifted from them, Council Director John T. Dunlop noted.

Dunlop said that had the council not permitted the price relief, the steel industry would have to absorb some $750 million in cost increases over the past year.

UNUSUAL HOBBY—Charlie Bley (right) of Fluvanna has a large collection of automobile license plates that were issued over the years for Scurry County. He has 52 of them, and they date back prior to the time the state put the year on the plates in 1917. Admiring his collection here are Don Adams, Scurry County tax assessor-collector, and Margie Lee, deputy tax collector.

Collection Of Car Tags On Display

Charlie Bely of Fluvanna has an unusual hobby. He collects automobile license plates.

He has a collection that includes 52 of them that date back prior to the time the state began putting the year on the plates. Four of them were issued prior to 1917— the first year the state put the year on them. The other 48 include the years 1926 through 1973 except for 1943.

In the year 1943 the state issued a small 2-inch by 2-inch tab. Charlie doesn't have the plates for that year or for 1917 through 1925. He said he would appreciate it if anyone has plates for any of those years would let him have them.

"It took me about four months to collect them, but I've had them over 4 years," Bley said.

Bley said representatives of the Borden County Museum have expressed an interest in the plates.

Bley's collection of plates is on display outside the Scurry County tax office on the basement floor of the courthouse

Most Blacks Are Repulsed By Demands

HOUSTON (AP) — Leaders of the predominantly black 4½ million member National Baptist Convention of America say most blacks are repulsed by demands made by the kidnapers of Patricia Hearst.

"It is almost impossible for anyone to have an appetite to eat the food at the cost of another's life," President Dr. James Sams said Thursday.

Rev. E. Edward Jones, chairman of the group's Social Concerns Committee, called the kidnaping evil.

"They (the kidnapers) seem so anxious to do service at the hands of blood money," Jones said.

Sams, Jones and four other executives of the denomination said they would ask the convention's executive board to adopt a statement condemning the action.

About 3,000 persons were attending the convention here.

Miss Hearst was kidnaped 24 days ago and her kidnapers have demanded $6 million in food be distributed to the poor.

Socialists Open Drive

HOUSTON (AP) — A statewide campaign to obtain 35,000 signatures to get its candidates on the ballot in the general election next November was kicked off Friday night by the Texas Socialist Workers Party.

About 75 persons turned out for the rally.

When questioned by a newsman, Sherry Smith, candidate for governor, said a Socialist Party candidate's idea of winning is not necessarily winning an election but winning a few more votes.

"One more vote is a victory," she said.

Most of the party's candidates for state office were on hand.

Gene Savage, campaign manager for all the candidates, said the party would mount a statewide campaign to get the 35,000 signatures.

Second Search For Balloonist

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has ordered aircraft of the Atlantic Command to undertake a second search of the ocean for missing balloonist Thomas Gatch Jr.

A spokesman said Friday that calculations based on wind and sea conditions were fed into a computer to determine Gatch's most probable position.

The search area covered 95,000 square miles centered approximately 1,230 miles southsouthwest of the Azores.

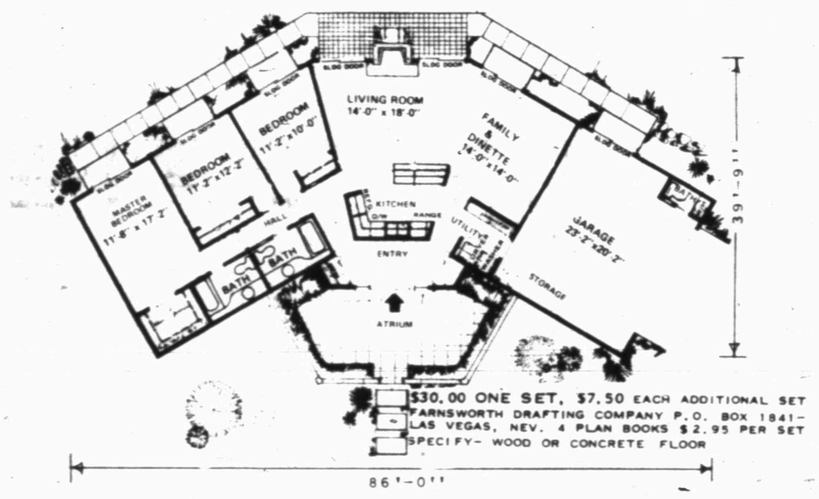

Gatch, from Fairfax County, Va., took off from Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 18 in an attempt to become the first solo balloonist to fly from the United States to Europe, but winds blew him southward. He was last seen by a Liberian freighter Feb. 21.

The State Health Department says that children under the age of five were the target of almost 40 per cent of the 21 cases of tetanus reported in Texas last year.

DESIGN C1736 This distinctly different design "fans out" its rooms from a central living room for a floor plan which certainly does not imitate most of the others yet provides all the living comfort homeowners desire and demand.

The differences are noticeable right away as the main entry's large double doors are approached through a big covered terrace with an attractively landscaped perimeter.

The entry itself is projected slightly from the body of the house both for practical and aesthetic reasons. Note how well its two doors channel household traffic to the other areas.

And what a place for a kitchen! Right there it is between the entry and the living room, walled only where necessary, shaped like kitchens hardly ever are, yet performing its functions so efficiently that its dramatic effect is only an extra benefit derived from its startlingly different plan. Note too how its free standing counter makes snack meal service for the living room and the family room-dinette a remarkably easy operation.

The open beamed living room has a dramatic ten foot ceiling and is shaped to emphasize its fireplace and patio. The family room, with its own sliding doors, gets its share of outdoor living pleasures too. Note, in fact, that every one of the major rooms has sliding doors, all leading to the long terrace which extends the full length of the house on either side of the central rear patio.

Even the big double garage has a sliding terrace door and that is not all. It also has a half bath and a huge storage area along the front wall plus a direct entrance to the house through the handy laundry utility room.

The master bedroom has a huge walk-in closet and two more bedrooms and two full baths are provided.

Check this plan carefully if good living with a difference is desired.

HOME RUN—Snyder High School's Doak Witherspoon (left) knocked a home run over the left field fence in the 3rd inning of the Tiger-Seminole baseball clash here Friday afternoon. Coming up to offer congratulations is Robbie Sterling. The Tigers won 9-8, scoring the winning run in the bottom of the 7th inning.

Tigers Slip Past Seminole 9 To 8

Credit Robert Braziel, senior right-handed pitcher for the Snyder Tigers with winning his own ball game here Friday afternoon in Towle Park.

Seminole's Indians had just scored three runs in the top of the 7th to tie up the game at 8-8, and the Tigers were trying desperately to get the winning run in the bottom of the 7th. Doak Witherspoon opened with a walk, went to second on a sacrifice single by V.T. Roberson, and both runners advanced on a sacrifice bunt by Nicky Neves.

Up stepped Braziel, and he laid down a perfect bunt, squeezing in Witherspoon with the winning run for a 9-8 triumph.

Braziel had worked the first three innings, handcuffing the Tribe with no runs and two hits in a superb mound performance. He fanned five and walked none. At the same time, Braziel's teammates erupted for six runs in the 2nd and two in the 3rd for an 8-0 lead.

Coach Speedy Mofffett then decided to see what his other pitchers could do. Gary Greenlee worked the 4th and 5th frames. He was touched for two tallies in the 4th and three in the 5th, but only two of them were earned runs. Greenlee struck out three and walkedone while giving up five hits.

Clay Bishop took the mound for the Tigers in the 6th, and he was tagged for one unearned run as the Indians crept closer, trailing now by only 8-6. Bishop gave up just one hit.

The lead off man for Seminole in the top of the 7th, Ronnie Moore, reached first on an error at short and moved to second on an error at first. At this point, Braziel was installed on the hill again, and he caused the first man to face him, Ronnie Aten, to gound out, third to first. Charles LaDuke then drilled a single, scoring Moore. Charles Wren, first sacker, then singled and Junior Hermandez reached first on a fielder's choice with all runners safe to load the sacks.

Greg Bingham slashed a double, scoring LaDuke and Wren and the game was tied at 8-all. Braziel still was in trouble, but he responded to the challenge by striking out the next batter. After a walk, he fanned Randy Moore to retire the side and get out of the jam. Then came the Tiger rally in the bottom of the 7th and the 9-8 victory.

Seminole used three hurlers. Tim Lewis opened and was touched for six unearned runs in the two innings he worked. He struck out two, walked one and gave up three hits. Richard Sturges worked the 3rd, 4th and 5th frames, giving up two earned runs on six hits. He fanned two and walked one. Ronnie Aten, who twirled the final two innings, was touched for one earned run and charged with the loss. He walked one and yielded one hit.

Snyder got its six runs in the 2nd frame off a double by Robert Alderete and singles by Ralph Lewis, and Doak Witherspoon combined with a sacrifice and two hit batsmen. They added two in the 3rd on a bases empty home run by Witherspoon over the left field fence and a double by V.T. Roberson and a single by Randy Gressett.

Seminole's two tallies in the 4th resulted from an error and singles by Junior Hernandez and Ed Bashaw combined with a walk and a stolen base.

They got three in the 5th off a hit batsman and singles by Ronnie Aten, Clark Lilly and Junior Hermandez.

Alderete was credited with three rbi's while Witherspoon, Braziel and Gressett each had one. Hernandez and Bingham each batted in two runs for Seminole while Aten, LaDuke and Richard Lilly each were credited with one.

The Tiger infield looked sharp on defense. Alderete and Lewis both turned in some fine defensive plays. Witherspoon, playing his first game at catcher after only two workouts, responded with an outstanding game. He has a strong arm and fine wrist action at the plate.

The Tigers will be at Big Spring for a 4 p.m. engagement Monday, then host Midland High in Towle Park at 4 p.m. Tuesday. Wednesday, they visit Abilene High for a 4 p.m. clash, and Thursday they will be at Seminole at 4 p.m. Friday, they host Monahans at 4 p.m. and entertain the same team in a doubleheader the following Saturday beginning at 1 p.m. They have seven games scheduled this week.

Aeros Soar With Howes

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Aeros figure they have an excellent plot for a television series about a father and his sons carving out a future in the rugged West.

The "Hosses" they have in mind are the Gordie Howes of Houston. And judging from their performances this season, all the Howes make up a giant bonanza for the Aeros.

Since the Aeros performed the unique feat of getting Gordie and his two sons on the same team this season, Houston's World Hockey Association fortunes have soared higher than the highest Ponderosa pine tree.

Lured out of retirement by a reported $1 million contract, the legendary 45-year-old Howe has surprised even his own sons with his effectiveness. After slowly working himself back into top form, Howe now leads the WHA in scoring.

Howe's sons Mark and Marty also signed multi-year contracts with the Aeros last June, allowing Howe to fulfill a lifelong dream of playing professionally with his sons.

The sons have played superbly beside their father. Mark, already tabbed as a future super star, is a front-runner for rookie of the year honors. Marty, a questionmark at the beginning of the season, has performed well above expectations.

The elder Howe's strong showing this season has delighted fans who are turning out in record numbers and surprised Mark.

"Things are going a lot better than I anticipated," Mark said. "I didn't think Dad would be doing so well. But he's having so much fun playing that he's playing very well."

The three Howes playing on the same team has a lot to do with the elder Howe's happiness.

"Four or five years ago all we thought about was playing on the same team in the National Hockey League," Mark said. "But we saw that would be impossible so we've been delighted to be playing in the WHA."

Winnipeg's Bobby Hull, and NHL legend in his own right, notices Howe's apparent exhuberance in his work, too. "It's just amazing to me," Hull said, "to see him performing so well. He just looks happy out there and I'm delighted and pleased to see it."

I think I've mellowed somewhat," Howe said of his return to the ice. "I used to be a dog catcher. I'd run at everything that moved. But I've slowly gotten away from that. You can't score from the penalty box."

There are some, however, who would argue that the NHL hall of fame has mellowed.

Howe never has been shy from participating in any of the Aeros' fisticuffs. On one occasion, he convincingly pulled an opponent off Mark during a free-for-all. At another road game, Howe joined Aeros Coach Bill Dineen in charging into the stands after a fan who had been heckling the Aeros' bench.

But Howe says he really is more relaxed, especially before a game. "It used to be tough for me to eat even eggs before a game and now I have steak," Howe laughed. "I've gone from eggs to steak and the fun's back in the game. Being in first place helps too."

The Howes have proved to be somewhat of a phenomenon in pioneering a new sport in king football country. Their influence shows in both attendance and the standings.

"Through 30 home games this year we've drawn 201,559 for an average of 6,719," beamed Aeros President and General Manager Jim Smith. "That's a 47 per cent increase over last year.

"On the road, which probably demonstrates what the Howes have done for the league, we are the No. 1 draw. Our road attendance has increased 45 per cent over last year."

Smith said the Aeros likely would have had some increased interest even without the Howes but their presence has made the attendance boost much more dramatic.

"It's almost conservative to say they have put an additional 1,000 fans per game in our building," Smith said. "Gordie alone, being the greatest player ever, would have been a great draw.

"But the fact that people can see for the first, and maybe the last time, a father competing with his sons at a major league level, certainly enhances the fan interest."

The Howes have done more than help the Aeros gain big attendance figures. They've also brought a championship-hungry city a winner.

The Aeros ended the week as the winningest team in the WHA and in solid command of first place in the WHA's Western Division.

As an example of their improvement, the Aeros were beaten in four straight games in the second round of the playoffs last year by Winnipeg. This season, the Hull-led Jets have yet to defeat the Aeros.

Two Tigers Make All District

Snyder High School placed two men on the 4-AAAA All-District basketball first team and two on the honorable mention list.

Welton Cobb, 6-0 junior, and Chester Cobb, 6-0 sophomore, both made the first team. In addition, Chester Cobb was named Sophomore, of the Year. The two honorable mention players are Larry Johns, 6-3 junior, and Roy Lee Carter, 6-2 junior.

Coach of the year is Barry Arnwine of Hereford. Monterey's J. C. Eakin was named Player of the Year.

The first team includes Eakin, both Cobbs, Charles Quisenberry, 6-5 senior from Coronado; Dan Vanderzee, 6-3 senior, and Mike Albiar, 5-11 senior, both from Hereford; Jerry Wade, 6-0 junior, Danny Huffhine, 6-4 junior, and Mark Manguru, 6-5 senior, from Plainview; and, Danny Marrujo, 6-0 senior from Lubbock High.

The honorable mention list carries, in addition to Johns and Carter, James Harris and Dennis Noggler of Hereford, Doug Berry and Johnny David ot Plainview, Eric Felton, and Ricky Merritt of Lubbock, Tom West and Dennis Brown of Coronado, and Matt Parsley, Mike Anderson, Jackson Pace, Steve Taronell and Dick Clardy of Monterey.

Junior High Track Slate

The Snyder Junior High schools have three track meets scheduled this season and another one tentatively set.

The 7th, 8th and 9th grades of both junior highs will compete at San Angelo March 9. On March 16, the 8th and 9th grade teams of both schools will be at Big Spring. There is a tentative meet set for March 23 at Sweetwater. The Snyder Junior High Track Meet for 7th, and 8th and 9th grade teams will be March 29.

Careers For Women In AF

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Dear Joyce: I'm in the tenth grade. I can't afford a college education. Is it true that you can get one in the Air Force? If so, would I have to take a particular course in high school? How old do I have to be and what do women do in the Air Force? Do they get paid like men? Please tell me plenty. – A.N., Charlotte, N.C.

There's plenty to say about the Air Force program for women which has 20,338 women now on active duty. The WAF (women in the Air Force) applicant must be a high school grad between 18 and 27. She can be single or married, with or without dependents. The minimum enlistment period is 4 years. And, yes, servicewomen do receive exactly the same pay and benefits as men in the same pay grade with the same time in service.

Of the 47 occupational fields offered in the Air Force, 43 of them are open now to women. Jobs range from supply and food service to photomapping, security police, and communications.

LET'S LOOK AT A FEW. Personnel in the "aircrew protection" field perform both para-rescue and land rescue operations. In computer systems, you collect and prepare data as well as program and operate computers. WAF specialists in the "fabric, leather and rubber" field inspect, pack and test parachutes along with repairing articles. There are 7 occupational fields in maintenance of aircraft, weapons and other equipment. Medical and dental careers are also available.

The Air Force encourages its members to continue their education. WAFs are eligible for free service school training in most of their chosen specialties (jobs). Under the guaranteed job option plan, qualified applicants may select their specialty prior to enlistment. About 85 percent of all new enlistees receive technical training at 1 of the 5 Air Force training centers before reporting to their first assignments. The average length of these schools is 15 weeks.

OPPORTUNITIES for off-duty education on the college level are made available to active duty servicewomen through several programs. "Tuition assistance" pays 75 percent of tuition fees for off-duty study at accredited schools. In this program, there's a 2-year service obligation for officers and none for enlisted personnel.

The accredited Community College of the Air Force offers certificates for a minimum of 64 semester hours in 8 general areas such as administration and management, health career science, and communications.

WANT TO GO TO COLLEGE FREE? Career-minded WAFs with at least 1 year active duty and 30 semester hours of college credit may apply for the Airman Education and Commissioning Program (AECP). This recently expanded 3-phase program provides up to 36 months of education in full-time study at an accredited college. Selectees receive full pay and allowances, plus tuition and related fees. The final phase of this program requires military training preparatory to commissioning at the Officer Training School. Your military obligation is 4 years of service after commissioning.

If you intend to work towards a bachelor's degree while in the Air Force, or afterwards (through the G.I. bill), it would be wise to take college preparatory courses in high school.

FOR MORE DETAILS and literature about the WAF program, you can dial this toll-free number: 800/447-4700 with no obligation. New Jersey residents should call 800/962-2903.

ON FERTILIZER

Dealers Facing 'Black Market'

AUSTIN (AP) — Reports of "black market" sales of fertilizer to Texas farmers cropped up Friday at a legislative inquiry into fertilizer prices and sales.

"I looked in the paper the other day and there were eight want ads offering fertilizer for sale, yet not a dealer in town could deliver a load," said Norman Hinchliff, a dealer in Earth, west of Plainview.

Hinchliff said he had been able to get only five loads of anhydrous ammonia this year. "One came from Oklahoma and one from a trucker and I have no idea where he got it. I just told him if he got any more at that price I'd take it."

Hinchliff said he had called every major supplier in Texas and many in other states only to be told they either were out of fertilizer or had already contracted for all they had.

"Whether to deal with black marketeers or not is a question," he said. "I've got to buy from them to supply my farmers, who can't get fertilizer anywhere else."

State Agriculture Commission John White said his department has been told to expect a 5 to 15 per cent shortage of agricultural fertilizer this year. "It's a rule of thumb that every ton of fertilizer increases the food supply five tons...to control the food price crisis in the home we have to have the tools to work with and there is no other way to do it. If the fertilizer supply is 5 to 15 per cent short it may be the food production will be down that much," he said.

Rep. Bill Claton, D-Springlake, who headed the special public hearing, said unless farmers get fertilizers right away "we are going to see the production of Texas farmland cut by 25-50 per cent from its 1974 potential. And in this time of serious food shortages, that can only spell disaster."

EQUIPMENT ADDED—Mrs. Jo Terrell, seated, lab technician at Cogdell Memorial Hospital, demonstrates an automatic blood cell counter in the hospital lab for Cy Miller, hospital administrator, and Mrs. Frank Beaver, Women's Auxiliary president. The Auxiliary donated $3,000 to be used toward the purchase of the counter, which can furnish a complete blood count in 90 seconds. The counter also measures hemoglobin and hematocrit in blood samples.

CELEBRITIES ON THE COUCH

By Dick Maurice

INTERVIEW: ED ASNER

Ed Asner, co-star of the "Mary Tyler Moore Show", has won an Emmy award for portraying boss in the news room. He has not always been the man at the top. It was a long hard climb up the ladder of success. But for Ed Asner and his wife Nancy and their three children it was well worth it because now they're enjoying the good life in their big comfortable home in California.

MAURICE: When did you have your first love affair?

ASNER: When I was attending the University of Chicago—she was a college girl there. We thought we were widly in love after our first date. She cued me in "Richard II" where I spoke the lines as though they were love lines. That performance was fantastic. I realized the first step in becoming a good actor was to have someone to love at your side.

MAURICE: It sounds like such a happy relationship, why did it end?

ASNER: We were young and changing. She was used to a different life than I. Her dad was a professor at the university and she was used to a protected, advantage life. My childhood had been harder. My father was in the scrap iron business in Kansas City—where I was born—and we'd known hard times. She took a trip around the world with her father, I discontinued college and went home. Her letters became fewer and fewer, and our romance, which started out so great, just naturally atrophied. We became alienated by distance.

MAURICE: What made you decide to become an actor, Ed?

ASNER: I got hooked on it when I was in college, and did a small role in a Shakespearean play. My folks had no respect for the profession and never believed I'd ever make a mark as an actor. They thought I was crazy to even entertain such a thought. In college I did all the extracurricular stage work and it became my obession.

MAURICE: What was the lowest point in your life?

ASNER: After quitting college I went to Chicago and tried to find work. It was at this point my relationship with my girl frined was about over; I felt unloved, rejected, hopeless. I wanted to be an actor, but I didn't have anything that would make me feel I ever could be. My morale was terrible and I was filled with problems. I got a job driving a taxi, but I was a miserable cabbie. I'd park at the stands and read plays and was soon fired. I got several little, poor-paying jobs and failed at all of them. I realized I had to work with my hands so that I could live, so I worked in the steel mills and in the auto plants. The only thing that saved me was that I joined a group that produced plays at the university. That's where Mike Nichols directed me in his first directorial attempt, a 15-minute playlet called "Purgatory." What it did was reinforce my dipping faith in myself.

MAURICE: What was the turning point in your life?

ASNER: I was in the Army, stationed in Europe, back in '52. I was still filled with problems, and dreaded the moment when I'd have to go back to working in the steel mills. One day, out of the blue, I got a letter from Paul Sills who said he and a group were starting a theatre with a lot of people from the university. He asked me to join them. I'd be making $50 a week but they'd be doing great things. From that moment, my life fell into place.

MAURICE: How did you meet your wife?

ASNER: I was doing "Three Penny Opera" off-Broadway. At this time, I'd had two very successful years performing in plays in Chicago; I'd learned ny craft well and knew I'd remain an actor. I was ready for a meaningful relationship with a young woman. A friend of mine in the play took me to dinner at his girl friend's apartment and there was Nancy Lou Sykes—very pretty, feminine, with sweetness about her, and an openness which I liked. She was working for a theatrical agent so we had a common ground there. She was easy to be with. I liked her instantly. We went together for two years and eventually married.

MAURICE: How did your marriage start out?

ASNER: Big on love and faith, small on money and comforts. Nancy was fired from her job when we returned from our honeymoon; I was making $65 a week. We lived in a cheap, dingy flat in the East Village which we called Roach Haven—which tells the story of the kind of place it was.

MAURICE: When did things begin to pick up for you?

ASNER: I was doing lots of television in New York and I thought I'd stay there until I was important enough to be be flown to Hollywood in a private plane. But that was a fantasy. What really happened was I was called to California to do a "Naked City" TV segment, and several agents got in touch with me and convinced me I had a good future in Hollywood. I went back to New York to get Nancy, we bought a camper and drove out here. The trip was a turning point; I was kept very busy doing TV shows, and my career became well-established in movies as well as TV. Then came "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" which was a big hit and brought me an Emmy.

MAURICE: How do you live now?

ASNER: In a big, comfortable house in the hills in Bel Air with our three children and our cats. We have twins, a boy and a girl. It's a quiet life, a good life—my only complaint is that I don't have enough time to take my family on vacation trips. But I love my work, so I'm really not complaining too loud.

MAURICE: Are you very close to Mary Tyler Moore and the others on the show?

ASNER: We dearly love each other, but Mary likes her private life and, although we're all very warm and friendly on the set, we go home to our families and maintain our privacy. It works out much better that way.

MAURICE: How would you feel if either of your daughters told you, in years to come, that they wanted to live with a man instead of marrying him?

ASNER: Since my children are so young, whatever I say now could prove me a liar in ten years. If a girl can handle living with a man emotionally, I think it's beneficial. Sexually speaking, I think it's good if two people can prove they can live together before getting bound up in a marriage contract.

Bentsen Hints He May Run

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., says President Nixon's position has been worsened by the seven Watergate indictments, but not much.

"I would think it would hurt the President, but when his credibility rate is down to about 27 per cent, I don't think it can go much lower," Bentsen said Friday.

Bentsen, in Chicago to address a businessmen's luncheon, continued to hint that he may seek the presidency in 1976.

He said his decision on the race would come "in about a year."

Bethlehem Ups Price

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — Bethlehem Steel Corp. has announced price increases of five to 11 per cent on a wide variety of steel products.

The increases, effective immediately, were mostly on heavy construction steel, the second-ranked steelmaker said in its announcement Friday.

Bethlehem said the price hikes originally had been scheduled for Jan. 1 and Feb. 16 but had been delayed by the Cost of Living Council.

Redd Foxx Is Home

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Redd Foxx is home after a five-day hospital stay for treatment of a nervous condition and exhaustion, but it appears doubtful he will be able to return to "Sanford and Son" this season.

His attorney, James Tolbert, said the 51-year-old Foxx hoped to return to work soon but it had not been determined when he would be able to.

In the meantime, Aaron Ruben, producer of the NBC comedy, said he expected to tape three more shows to finish the season without Foxx. Scripts written for Foxx are being rewritten for the character of Grady, played by Whitman Mayo.

DESPITE EDUCATION DEBATE

Daniel Still Optismistic On Convention Schedule

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Price Daniel Jr.'s favorite song must be "I'm Just a Cockeye Optimist."

But even the Texas Constitutional Convention's perenially sanguine president is beginning to talk about what happens if his 90-day timetable can't be met.

A 30-to 60-day recess for politicking probably will be called around April 5 if the convention's unfinished business is too great to polish off quickly, he told reporters Friday.

Two weeks of debate on the new constitution's education article had just ended without a final vote, despite Daniel's fondest hopes. He seemed unruffled as he sat behind the desk on his podium and talked to the newsmen below. Not a hair was out of place.

The convention has five weeks to go before the 90-day schedule runs out. Nine of the 11 articles of the constitution remain to be debated.

Daniel said he had expected debate on education to run only two days and was surprised it had run for more than two weeks instead.

But he added, "I don't think it's bad," for discussion and amendments to run that long.

After all, "free, full and open debate" was practically his slogan as House speaker. He said he wanted to end a decade of increasingly tight control of the House by its speakers and their "teams."

"If the 90-day schedule was some kind of magic number, I would say, 'Let's work nights, Saturdays and Friday afternoons,'" Daniel said.

He said he thought a recess would be in order anyway after all articles had received preliminary approval. The next step would be editing by the Style and Drafting committee, followed by another vote on each article. Then would come final approval of a complete constitution, requiring a two-thirds vote, for submission to the voters.

Daniel said he did not want to make any commitment to a convention recess because he feared a "tendency to put it all off" until the last minute if delegates had a fixed adjournment date.

"Do not interpret what I am saying as throwing in the towel on the 90-day completion," Daniel quickly added.

The convention must adjourn by May 31 unless the legislator-delegates cast a two-thirds vote to extend it another 60 days.

It won't take many more debates like those on higher education funds and equal educational opportunity, however, to force Daniel to abandon his timetable.

And look what's yet to come: finance, local government, judiciary, general provisions—with such sticky questions as so-called "right to work," branch banking and open beaches; voting rights, ground rules for future constitutional conventions and legislative powers, limitations and pay. Five weeks to fight out all that.

Delegates argued for all or part of three days just on a State Higher Education Assistance Fund to provide the 22 smaller state colleges with guaranteed money for construction before finally reaching a compromise. It took them two days to find an acceptable way of saying school children should have equal educational opportunity. Various attempts to change the way the Permanent University Fund and its income, the Available University Fund, took up another two days.

Daniel hopes the delegates can finish work on education Monday.

Next: Voting rights, with emotional battles expected over suffrage for convicted felons and property qualifications for voting in bond elections.

Parr Goes On Trial Monday

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — South Texas political figure George Parr is scheduled to go on trial in federal court here Monday on tax evasion charges.

Parr's lawyers filed a motion Friday to have the trial set for a later date and the government submitted one opposing Parr's petition.

U.S. District Court Judge Owen Cox did not rule on Parr's motion at once.

Parr, known as the "Duke of Duval," is accused of trying to evade more than $129,000 in income taxes and filing false tax returns from 1966 through 1969.

No trial date has been set for two Duval County school officials indicted along with Parr on tax evasion charges.

The officials are Eunice Powell, Freer High superintendent, and Bryan Taylor, former superintendent of the San Diego Independent School District.

Nixons May Meet In Nashville

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon may meet his wife in Nashville, Tenn., the home of the Grand Ole Opry, to celebrate her 62nd birthday.

White House sources said Friday that Nixon and Mrs. Nixon may meet in Nashville March 16 after she returns from a six-day Latin American diplomatic trip.

TI Files Suit For Space

DALLAS (AP) — Texas International Airlines has filed suit in state district court here to compel the City of Dallas to provide space at Love Field for TI's upcoming service between Dallas and Austin.

The suit is the latest in a series of legal battles in connection with the opening of the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport, which was to replace Love Field in providing airline service to the area.

TI says it should be allowed space for its Austin flights beginning April 15, at Love Field because two of its competitors, Braniff and Southwest airlines do.

Southwest originally was permitted to stay at Love Field because it has no interstate flights.

Last week, the cities of Dallas and Fort Worth filed a federal court suit against TI seeking to stop the Austin-Love Field service. The suit also asked an injunction against continued use of Love Field by Braniff and sought $3.5 million in damages from TI, Braniff and American.

The multiple litigation centers around a claim by the cities of Dallas and Fort Worth that all airlines must use the new airport exclusively.

Snyderites To Sing Here In Tech Choir

Two Snyder students, Jana Bullard and Vena Beth Genuchi, will be singing with the Texas Tech Choir here on March 6.

The choir will sing for an assembly program at Snyder High School at 10:55 a.m. and in the Student Center at Western Texas College at 12 noon.

The Tech choir began its annual Spring tour March 1 and was to make appearances in Brownwood, Austin, Houston, Texas City, Pasadena, Temple and Austin before arriving in Snyder. This choir is limited in number, and competitive auditions are being held to fill vacancies. It is in great demand by campus and civic groups and makes frequent apperances in addition to its regular tours.

Miss Bullard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bullard. Miss Genuchi is the daughter of Mrs. Marvin Genuchi and the late Dr. Genuchi.

3 Mobile Home Plants To Close

DALLAS (AP) — Three of the four mobile home manufacturing plants operated by the Republic Housing Corp. of Dallas will be shut down because they have proven unprofitable, board chairman Phil Simpson has announced.

The company said Friday the plants to be closed are in Sanford, N.C.; Arcadia, La.; and Arlington, Tex. The plant that will remain open also is in Arlington.

Simpson said the company also is considering the sale of its yellow pine stud mill at Avinger in East Texas.
