Bond issue for harbor possible

By LESLIE ABRAMS
Staffwriter

The Aransas County Commissioners Court is to discuss the possibility of issuing industrial development bonds to aid in the construction of a new commercial harbor to be located just north of Palm Harbor, according to Aransas County Judge John D. Wendell.

Wendell told the Monday, Dec. 13 meeting of the commissioners court that the owner of the land is planning to develop it for a commercial harbor and plans to request that the county issue bonds to help pay for the construction.

According to Wendell, tax-free industrial development bonds can be issued under the approval of county entities for the purpose of investing money in the county. He added that bonds can be issued for a variety of projects, including construction of low-income housing if desired.

Commissioner J.M. Spriegel expressed his fear that the county would end up serving as a loan company if such projects were approved without discretion.

"There's good and there's bad in this thing," Wendell said of the potential bond issue, financed by Corpus Christi Bank & Trust Company.

Wendell expects the subject to be brought up at the next meeting of the commissioners court Dec. 29.

The court also approved a motion awarding a contract to Commercial Motors in Aransas Pass for five new patrol cars for the sheriff's department. Commercial Motors bid $37,650.70 for the cars, plus $150 per car for rustproofing and $165 per car for installation of spotlights. Court approval included the patrol cars with spotlights, but stopped short of approval of the rustproofing, bringing the total to $39,225.70.

Other bids included one from Bay Chevrolet in Aransas Pass for $54,888.75, less discounts and trade-ins for a total sales price of $43,421.10; Creveling Dodge of Corpus Christi bid $8,779 per unit, totaling $43,895 less a $900 trade-in for all cars; Tradewinds Ford of Portland bid $44,036.10, including $2,950 for trade-ins.

Wendell read two letters from the state to the court; the first asking for the total mileage of county-maintained roads in order to compute the distribution of registration fees collectable by the county tax assessor/collector in 1983, and the second regarding a proposed bridge to be built by George Strickhausen out on F.M. 1781. The letter brought up repair and maintenance of the bridge after it is built and wants to discuss responsibility for it with the county. Wendell said, in a telephone interview, that the county does not want responsibility for maintaining the bridge.

A LOT OF COMMUNITY help goes into getting the city Christmas tree up on Rockport Beach. CPL provided the labor and equipment to hook up the electricity while Wagley & Lilly Home Center provided the poles. S&R Electric provided manpower to complete the electrical hookup and the Rockport Area Chamber of Commerce helped in getting the bulbs.

Fireworks ban to be enforced

A ban on fireworks inside Rockport city limits will be strictly enforced again this holiday season, Fire Chief Elva Mullinax announced this week.

Mullinax said he is going to "crack down" on anyone who violates the law which prohibits shooting of fireworks anywhere in Rockport except Rockport Beach.

Mullinax added that anyone shooting fireworks on the beach must fire them out into the Bay.

Besides the danger of personal injury to those who use fireworks carelessly, house and brush fires have been started by fireworks.

Drainage problem rouses residents

By PAT BLAIR
Staffwriter

Harbor Oaks property owners turned out in force Monday night, Dec. 13, in protest of an engineering proposal that city officials consider channeling drainage from an area north of Rockport into Long Reach Canal.

Protest over this matter was so strong that Mayor Burt Mills closed a public hearing over proposed annexation of Traylor Street and a section of Hwy. 35 North and convened the council's regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. so the item on the agenda pertaining to Long Reach Canal could be taken up.

Following more than an hour of protests and objections from property owners over the matter, Mills called the sometimes-heated discussion to a halt so the city could move on to other business.

Mills told those at the meeting no decision was going to be made until January on how to handle drainage in the area immediately north of Rockport and, following a suggestion from City Attorney Allen Lee, council members indicated they will study the question further.

Objections over suggested drainage into Long Reach Canal was first raised during the annexation hearing that began at 7:15 p.m. As Mills opened the hearing, stating it was for the consideration of annexation of Traylor Avenue, Harbor Oaks resident J.V. Easter asked, "What are we going to do with the drainage?"

Mills responded, "That will be taken up in the regular meeting under Item Three." To this, Harbor Oaks resident Victor Long replied, "I don't see how you can separate

City approves water line to new development

A request for a water line to serve the proposed New Benda Subdivision on FM 3036 was approved by Rockport's city council during its regular session Monday night, Dec. 13, at City Hall.

Cost of installing the line will be borne by the developer of the small subdivision.

The council authorized City Attorney Allen Lee to draw up a contract setting out the terms under which Rockport Country Club Inc., developers of Rockport Country Club Estates, can purchase effluent from the city for use on the golf course.

And the city heard from Louise Itschner, Rockport realtor, and Ben Pate, administrator of Coastal Bend Hospital in Aransas Pass, on a proposal to develop a retirement community on 10.96 acres of land on Enterprise. The council requested submission of a plan for its consideration at a later date.

Officials opened bids on purchase of a tractor with loader and backhoe and two 1982 or 1983 six-cylinder cars for use by the director of public works and building inspector who have been driving pickups.

Bids were turned over to the city staff council. The tabling motion was made by accept the lowest bid that meets city specifications.

Officials adopted an ordinance rezoning a portion of Outlot 15, D&M, from R-2 residential to R-4 first multi-family dwelling as approved by the council on Nov. 22.

Also approved was an ordinance from the Texas Highway Department reducing the speed limit from 50 to 45 miles per hour on Hwy. 35 from around Morgan Street south to 3rd Street.

The city received its audit for the 1981-82 fiscal year which showed city finances to be in good shape.

The city staff was authorized to seek the best possible price for sale of a 1976 city car.

A request by W.E. Rushing for permission to operate an ice cream truck on city streets was tabled by a 4-0 vote of the council. The tabling motion was made by Alderman Richard Beck after Alderman Murray McMillan asked if the city doesn't have a policy against such operations.

Repairs to the city warehouse were authorized — a total expenditure of $2,000 — and a list of bills paid from Nov. 8 through Dec. 8 was approved.

County school board appoints new member

The Aransas County Independent School District board of trustees elected William H. Buckley to fill a vacant position on the board at their regular meeting Monday, Dec. 13.

The seat had been vacant since board Vice President Joe Ed Meyer resigned in September.

Buckley was sworn in by Aransas County Independent School District Superintendent Joe Randow after his nomination was unanimously approved in post-executive session action.

Members also accepted the resignation at the end of the school year of Brian Connolly, Rockport-Fulton High School's head football coach.

In other board action, members approved a motion to purchase a Yamaha baby grand piano for the new auditorium at $8,823 with delivery promised in 21 days. Although the Yamaha piano was not the lowest bid, members felt that its quality exceeded that of other pianos bid. It is intended that the piano remain in the auditorium and not be moved from its location.

The board also approved on final reading, several changes in board policy concerning board elections, taxes, employee insurance, student activities and student dress code. A discussion ensued over the meaning of the word "headband," and the word was deleted to prevent confusion.

During an open forum, James Metzner congratulated the board on the way they handled publication of the opening for a new football coach. Metzner suggested that board members appoint a "screening board" consisting of principals, assistant

DPS chief seeks public support

AUSTIN — Colonel Jim Adams, DPS director, says traffic fatalities continues to intensify. "The Department receives calls and letters every day from persons who support our DWI and speed enforcement efforts," Adams recently said. "They want something done about the traffic safety problem, particularly DWI, and they're looking ahead to January to see how the legislature is going to address their concerns."

Adams said the growing sense of public outrage has been fueled by the inability of the criminal justice system to deal effectively with problem drivers.

"DWI arrests by the Highway Patrol are up, statewide traffic fatalities are down, and we've seen a gradual decrease in the top speeds on our highways," the DPS director pointed out. "Yet, people still feel anger and frustration when one of their relatives or friends dies in an accident caused by a repeat offender, and the violator just gets a slap on the hand. Each member of the Governor's Traffic Safety Task Force has sensed the public's interest about this life and death issue."

Adams chaired the 17-member task force which studied the Texas traffic safety problem in depth over an eight-month period before approving over 30 recommendations.

"Dealing with the repeat offender was our top priority," he said. "We proposed more stringent but reasonable laws designed to establish a certainty of punishment for the traffic scofflaw."

"Only 17 percent of the DWI cases filed each year by the Highway Patrol result in meaningful punishment for the offender and establishment of a record which could be used by prosecutors in the future," Adams explained. "We suggested treating DWI probation as a final conviction for more effective prosecution of subsequent drunk driving violations. The task force also proposed eliminating 'deferred adjudication' in DWI cases. This is a type of probation often given in which the final court judgement is delayed and frequently leads to dismissal of the charge."

Other task force recommendations include an automatic 90-day driver license suspension for persons refusing a breath test, prohibiting open alcoholic beverage containers in moving vehicles, raising the legal drinking age to 21, increasing DWI fines and making jail terms mandatory for second and third DWI offenses.

"We also suggested tightening up the guidelines for suspending the licenses of habitual violators, and we endorsed the DPS request for 150 Highway Patrol troopers to be added over the next two years," Adams said. "That additional manpower is essential if we are to create an effective deterrent for violators."

The DPS director urged citizens to express their concern and continue offering suggestions for dealing with the traffic safety problem. He also asked motorists to review their own driving habits and take special care during the holiday season.

Ring taken in theft

A woman's engagement and wedding band set valued at $2,000 were reported taken from the residence of Sammie Cessac in Palm Harbor sometime in the last three months.

The items were reported missing Saturday, Dec. 11, by Cessac who said the theft occurred sometime between September and last Wednesday, Dec. 8.

No signs of forced entry were reported and the residence has been occupied during the period when the theft occurred.

A television set was reported taken when the residence of Beatrice Cavazos of Fulton was burglarized, between Dec. 7 and this past Sunday, Dec. 12.

Value of the set was estimated at $139.

A color television set and bedspread totalling an estimated $575 in value were reported taken in the burglary of a motor home last November while the vehicle was in the parking lot of a restaurant in Lamar.

The grill cover on a microwave oven was damaged by the burglars who were apparently trying to take the oven.

The burglary is still under investigation this week.

An outboard motor was reported taken from a boat belonging to Franklin Ford while the craft was docked behind Palm Harbor Marina. The motor was subsequently found but was reported damaged. Estimated value of the motor is $500.

That incident occurred Dec. 5 or 6.

A good diet has variety and moderation

COLLEGE STATION — Planning a good diet should mean eating a variety of foods in moderation, rather than a few foods in abundance, since no single food has all the nutrients needed for good health.

"The challenge is to select combinations of foods which will provide a nutritionally adequate diet," says Dr. Dymple C. Cooksey, food and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

A good diet should include selections from the four major food groups. Diets require meat, eggs and beans to provide protein, as well as iron, zinc, and B-complex vitamins. Also needed are fruit and vegetables for their vitamins, carbohydrates and fiber.

Dairy products contain calcium for bones and teeth, along with vitamins, protein, and essential fats. Breads and cereals provide carbohydrates, vitamins, minerals, some protein, and considerable amounts of dietary fiber.

As a rule, most Americans consume more calories, fats, salt, and sugar than they need, according to Cooksey. Since food is vital, it is best to use some knowledge about nutritive content to combine foods into a sound, healthy diet.

Tax-aide group seeks volunteers

Tax-Aide, the income tax assistance group sponsored by the NRTA-AARP, is seeking volunteers to serve as tax counselors for Aransas County residents who need help with their 1983 income tax returns.

Additional counselors will be needed this coming year because the Internal Revenue Service will not be providing the free income tax service.

A short training course will be held soon after the first of the year for those who volunteer for Tax-Aide and the service will begin Feb. 1.

Each volunteer is being asked to give four hours, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. Mondays through Fridays through April 15.

Volunteers need not be members of NRTA or AARP. Persons interested are asked to call A.B. Bates at 729-0388 or Merritt Hulett, 729-6729.

Eligible candidates are graduate students and graduate school applicants for predoctoral research at the UT Marine Science Institute's laboratory at Port Aransas, Texas.

All-Star teams were announced for the Youth Soccer League's 1982 Fall Season during the awards ceremonies at Memorial Park on Saturday, Dec. 4.

Player selections were based on overall soccer skills and how well these skills were demonstrated during the course of the season. Both offensive and defensive players were recognized for their particular contribution to their team.

In the Intermediate Division the Hurricanes placed four players on the 17-man All-Star roster — Charlie Lozano, Mario Hernandez, Jimmy Olivares and Miles Adkison.

The Tornados added James Griffith, John Valdez, Robert Robertson and Eric Flores.

All-Stars selected from the Cosmos team were Bubba Kellough, Nathan Arispe, Paul Wilson, Brandi Brundrett and Vic Ovenden.

Team leaders for the Strikers, Intermediate Division Champions, were Russell Crawford, Roland Rios, Troy Brown and Benjamin Clark.

Special recognition was also given to the regular season scoring leaders. The Hurricanes' Charlie Lozano with 16 goals was the leader in the Intermediate Division followed by Troy Brown of the Strikers with 12 goals and Bubba Kellough of the Cosmos with five.

What the Pee Wee Division lacks in size and soccer skills, they make up for with determination and enthusiasm and the All-Star players selected were very important to their respective teams throughout the season.

Four players from the Aztecs team were placed on the 21-man All-Star list — Bebo Martinez, David Werntz, Chuckie Nixon and Jeff Griffith.

For the Kicks Bryon Hailey, Bridget Brundrett, Chris Hoover, Jay Pearson and Joe Zambrano were recognized.

E.J. Irwin and Randy Mennen of the Rowdies and Kristie Arispe of the Sting were selected for their overall play during the season.

For the second-place Chiefs Greg Bennett, Jason Groseclose, James Phillips, Jason Phillips and Shane White were All-Star selections.

All year long the Barracudas battled the Chiefs for the Division championship before they pulled off the big victory to win the Pee Wee Division Championship.

Outstanding players selected from the Barracudas were Robert Solis, Elias Anderson, B.J. Michaels and Larry Krogsgaard.

Top goal scorer for the Pee Wee Division was Robert Solis of the Barracudas with 21 goals over the regular season. Solis was followed by Chuckie Nixon of the Aztecs with 17, Greg Bennett of the Chiefs with 15 and Byron Hailey of the Kicks with 11 goals.

The level of play in Rockport has continued to get better each year and these All-Star players have demonstrated their skills throughout the season. With the help of their teammates these players have made the game of soccer an exciting part of the Rockport sports scene.

Pirates hand Bishop first defeat

Bishop came to Pirate Gym Thursday with a perfect 6-0 record, but when the game was over, the Rockport-Fulton Pirates had taken the victory by a 53-49 margin.

Rockport used a multiple choice of defenses and then exhibited some fine passing to the open man to build up a 28-19 halftime lead after having to overcome a one point deficit at the end of the first quarter as they trailed 15-14.

Tim Redden and Aaron Commander paced the Pirates with 14 points each, but it was Jay Turner and John Longino who made key places that helped the Rockport team gain control of the game.

Turner and Longino hit baskets to put the Pirates ahead at 20-19, and they never trailed again. Longino began to take control under the boards along with Commander during the second period.

In the third period the Pirates made a runaway of the game with some hot shooting and some aggressive defense. Redden hit two quick baskets, and then Commander hit three to up the Pirate lead 38-25. Louis Solis picked up a bucket to close out the third quarter scoring as the Pirates assumed a 40-28 lead.

Coach Bobby Flanagan went to his back up troops in the final quarter, but the large margin of surplus dissolved, and the end of the game found his main starter back in the game as the Badgers clipped the lead to 53-47 in a hurry. The Pirates did not score a basket after Randy Foote hit a corner shot with half of the last period to go, and the score was 51-36, until Commander came off the bench to pop a basket to close out the Pirate scoring. At that point the score was 53-45.

Although Commander and Longino hit the boards well throughout the game, Bobby Dingenary came in for Longino and collected 7 rebounds and 5 points for his play in the second half.

The victory evened the record for the Pirates at 4-4.

Double overtime

R-F Lady Pirates fall to Odem

Going for the Consolation Championship in the Aransas Pass Tournament, the Lady Pirates lost in the last seconds of the second overtime against Odem, 56-52.

Rockport seemed to have the game under control with 22 seconds remaining in the fourth quarter. The Pirates had the lead and the ball, but Fate was not to smile and the game went into overtime with the score tied at 46-46.

The first overtime was thrown into the second when Helen Jenkins sunk two free-throws, but in the second overtime period, Odem was able to outscore Rockport 6-2 to pull out the victory.

Odem had threatened to run away with the contest in the second quarter when they assumed a 23-15 halftime lead, but the Lady Pirates came back with a spurt in the third quarter when they outscored Odem 15-9 to close the score to 32-30. Lee Anna Cassell hit four baskets in the third period to lead the way for Rockport's comeback.

The Lady Pirates didn't stop there. Rockport pumped in 16 points in the fourth period to knot the score and then go ahead briefly. Diana Herman led three Pirates in double figures with 13 points; Cassel had 12 and Mona Cowen had 11.

The Lady Pirates had reached the Consolation Finals after having been beaten in the first round by West Oso, 40-24. Although the score may not have indicated improvement, according to Coach Marc Walker, "We really played well. Much better than when we scrimmaged the Bears before the season started." Charlotte Pugh led the Pirates with 8 points.

In the second round the Lady Pirates met Ingleside, a team which had beaten the Lady Pirates in the first game of the season. The Lady Pirates responded to the challenge and beat Ingleside 29-22 in a defensive battle.

Although the Pirates led by only 2 points after three quarters at 20-18, the fourth period found the Pirates outscoring the Ponies by 9-4 to ice the victory. Helen Jenkins was the only Lady Pirate in double figures with 10 points. Diana Herman contributed 8 points.

Deer hunting good at Daughtrey

THREE RIVERS — Deer hunting success has been excellent so far on the James E. Daughtrey Wildlife Management Area near here.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologist Joe Herrera said 239 hunters harvested 72 bucks and 65 does during four weekends of public hunts, already exceeding the total for nine hunts held on the area last year.

Herrera said cool weather and increased hunter participation were factors in the better harvest on the 30,000 acres utilized for the hunts.

Antlers on the bucks were not considered outstanding, Herrera said, but all the deer were in good body condition because of good forage conditions in the past two to three months.

Hunters were selected earlier this year by public drawing to participate in the hunts. Each hunter was allowed one deer of either sex. Also taken were eight feral hogs.

Quail hunting also has been allowed on weekdays when deer hunts were not held. So far, some 1,140 hunters have taken 3,495 quail.

Herrera said hunter participation and harvest declined after the opening day because of the difficulty of hunting in the rank growth of vegetation.

Bowling results

Ron Yates rolled 435 for a first in high individual series followed in second place by Alan Worley with a 405 and Abel Saenz in third with 384.

Consider safety when buying toys

COLLEGE STATION — Safety should be considered when buying children's toys this holiday season, says Dr. Mary Ann Shirer, health education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, an estimated 13,000 children under the age of 15 were treated in hospital emergency rooms for toy-related accidents in 1981," she announces.

A child's age should be used to determine which toy to buy.

"Manufacturers are required by the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission to place age recommendations and precautionary labels on toys," Shirer notes. "Testing is done for age levels 18 months and less, 19 months to less than 3 years and 3 years to 8 years."

Easily-broken toys are dangerous because of sharp edges, she says. And small toys, especially with removable parts, can sometimes be swallowed or get lodged in the ear, nose or windpipe.

"Remote-control airplanes, guided missiles and other flying toys can be harmful if the child is careless or not properly supervised," Shirer explains.

Electrical toys have mandatory requirements for maximum surface temperature and electrical construction along with warning labels, she continues. Toy boxes should have a lightweight lid than can be opened easily from inside.

The Air Force Commendation Medal is awarded to those individuals who demonstrate outstanding achievement or meritorious service in the performance of their duties on behalf of the Air Force.

He received an associate degree in 1968 from Del Mar College, Corpus Christi.

Bicycle stolen in area theft

A bicycle was reported stolen from the residence of John H. Little this past weekend.

The bike was reported missing between 6 p.m.

Friday, Dec. 10, and 2 p.m. Sunday.

Rockport police made one arrest Saturday on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Fire in Rockport guts apartment

Fire gutted a small apartment at boat barns on Water Street Saturday night, according to Fire Chief Elva Mullinax and Melvin Moore, owner of the structure.

Rockport volunteer firemen were called to put out the blaze that, according to Moore, apparently started from an open gas heater.

No injuries were reported.

AARP news

The winners of game afternoon on Thursday, Dec. 9, were Bud Howard and Jamie Estes in bridge. There were three winners of the finale, Jack Heffel, Kay Schuur and Mary Jo Williams.

The hostesses for this party were Sally Calhoun and Mary Lucille Skrobarek. Refreshments were served during the afternoon.

The next game afternoon will be at 1 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 16, at the Paws and Taws building.

The AARP Annual Christmas Party was a delightful affair. After a business meeting, the officers for 1983 were formally installed by Robert Allbright. The new officers are Florence Samson, president; William Fishwick, first vice president; George McCague, second vice president; Frank Skrobarek, third vice president; Genevieve Ohrling, secretary; Billie Cotten, treasurer; Lucille E. Skrobarek, assistant vice president; and Cecilia Blankert, assistant treasurer.

Gifts were exchanged, canned goods and dry staples were provided by members to make up the Christmas baskets for the poor.

The highlight of the party was a program of Christmas songs by the Rockport-Fulton High School Choir under the direction of Martha Luigi. The accompanist was Barbara Carter.

Religious songs, fun songs and popular songs were sung by this group and each was more beautiful than the one preceding. The program ended with a version of "Jingle Bells" from various countries. This was very cleverly done and the entire program was outstanding.

Our sincere thanks to Luigi, the members of the choir, and to Carter for putting us in a holiday mood.

The chapter served a paper bag lunch with drinks and desserts. Our thanks to the members who had a part in preparing these refreshments.

An AARP-sponsored dance will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 16, at the Paws and Taws building. The music of Gene Rickles will be featured and the public is invited. This will be the last dance of 1982.

Most of the shadows of this life are caused by our standing in our own sunshine.

Texas Brownbuilder John Barefield: One of the Best

John Barefield, from Victoria, is helping build the economic growth and progress of his state as part of Brown & Root's worldwide engineering and construction team.

John joined Brown & Root in 1970 as a mechanic helper and is now a heavy equipment operator. He and his wife, Rose, have four children and attend Mt. Nemo Baptist Church in Victoria. John is an avid sports fan and follows his favorite teams closely.

Another thing about John: he's one of the best. He's helping Brown & Root do a better job, because he knows his job and gets it done right.

Wherever Brown & Root works, we always look for people like John. We give preference in hiring to people in jobsite communities and offer them opportunities to advance as fast and as far as their abilities and merit take them. SW Bell equipment restricted

Starting Jan. 1, Southwestern Bell will be restricted to providing new residential and business telephone instruments and equipment only from existing inventories, said Dutch Koppenhaver of Southwestern Bell.

However, customers still will receive local phone service, access to long distance lines and a monthly bill from Southwestern Bell just as they do today.

He explained that the equipment supply restrictions stem from a Federal Communications Commission ruling designed to foster competition in the telecommunications industry.

Customers who may notice changes the most after Jan. 1 are those establishing service for the first time, or revising current service, Koppenhaver said.

"Despite the restriction to existing inventory, we'll continue to sell or lease new phone equipment for as long as our supply lasts," Koppenhaver said. "We'll also continue to offer refurbished sets for some time. It may take several months before we run out. How long will depend on the demand we have for telephones. If Southwestern Bell does not have equipment requested by a customer, the customer will have to get it from another vendor."

The ruling restricting Southwestern Bell's equipment offerings has no direct link with the recent settlement of the government's antitrust suit against the Bell System, Koppenhaver said. But, he said the equipment ruling is "the first visible step" in a series of changes leading up to Southwestern Bell's divestiture from AT&T in 1984.

"The FCC action effective Jan. 1 will not directly affect rates for local or long distance service," Koppenhaver said. "However, factors such as past inflationary periods, high interest rates and competition will continue to push rates upward."

Koppenhaver pointed out that Southwestern Bell will continue to provide repair or maintenance service on instruments leased from the company. Customers who purchase instruments from other vendors will handle any maintenance through a warranty or similar agreement.

Southwestern Bell also will continue to be responsible for repairs if a service problem is in Southwestern Bell's central office, in the cable leading to a customer.

Salvation Army pulls up short of goal

The Rockport Service Unit of the Salvation Army is more than two-thirds of the way to its 1982 Christmas Kettle fund drive, according to Campaign Chairman Jack Forrest.

In a report to committee members, Forrest said the Christmas Kettle volunteers have raised $2,800 as of Sunday, Dec. 12.

He added this is still $1,200 short of the unit's $4,000 goal this year, but added, "I am confident that with the help of the people of our community, we will go over the top."

Christmas Kettles are located in both area banks and volunteer "bell-ringers" will be at stores and shopping centers in the area again this coming weekend.

Donations are used for emergency welfare aid to needy families and individuals, Forrest said, as well as for participation in statewide Salvation Army programs such as summer camp for boys, disaster relief and aid to families of prisoners and alcoholics.

er's home or business, or in inside wiring provided by the telephone company, he said.

"For new connects, or changes in premise telephone arrangements, customers still will be able to have Southwestern Bell wire their homes for phone service," Koppenhaver said. "Or, customers may prefer to hire someone else to do the wiring, or even do it themselves."

Koppenhaver emphasized that amid all the changes, "Southwestern Bell is doing everything possible to ensure a smooth transition for the company and its customers."

"Our record is based on long years of good service. We don't intend to change," he said. "Customers can be assured we'll do all we can in the months ahead to minimize any inconvenience stemming from the FCC ruling and other changes."

Koppenhaver suggested that customers with questions about these or any other changes in the telephone business should call the company's "Let's Talk" toll-free information number, 1-800-555-5000. However, questions concerning individual customer accounts should be directed to Southwestern Bell business offices.

Cures for headaches

COLLEGE STATION — About 20 million Americans — two-thirds of them women — seek medical help for headaches on a regular basis. This is one of the most common problems brought to physicians.

"Despite being so common, headaches are often difficult to sort out in terms of a specific diagnosis and treatment program. The majority of headaches are not related to a serious underlying disease," reports Dr. Mary Ann Shirer, health education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

It is helpful to consider headaches in terms of some five major types, she says.

MIGRAINES

This type of headache is most often confined to one side of the head. Classic migraine consists of early symptoms — such as flashing lights or flickering vision — followed by an initial throbbing headache which later becomes steady or dull.

Most migraines do not occur in this classic form, however.

Instead, they often take the form of "cluster headaches" — so called because they tend to occur in clusters over a period of days, weeks or months. Associated symptoms may include nausea and vomiting. There is solid evidence that the migraine headache occurs when blood vessels in the neck and head expand.

TENSION HEADACHES

This type of headache is caused primarily by contractions of the muscles of the scalp and neck. Treatment includes heat and massage for the involved muscles and simple muscle relaxants.

In persistent cases, underlying emotional factors may require attention, however.

POST-INJURY HEADACHES

Headaches of this type are common following head and/or neck injuries. Sometimes these headaches do not begin until weeks — or even months — after an injury. They generally clear up with time.

SINUS HEADACHES

Sinus headaches should, as a rule, be accompanied by signs of infection, such as local tenderness, fever or mucus discharge, to distinguish them from migraines.

Treatment usually involves an over-the-counter pain reliever or a prescribed decongestant to relieve sinus pressure.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE HEADACHES

This type of headache is uncommon and more often associated with the treatment of high blood pressure than untreated high blood pressure. When they do occur, they typically are located in the back of the head, are worse upon arising and generally improve as the day progresses.

PREVENTION AND TREATMENT

Regardless of the exact cause of headaches, two areas of prevention and treatment & identifying and minimizing "trigger" factors and careful drug therapy — are effective for many patients.

The list of factors that can "trigger" a headache is virtually as long as the list of headache sufferers. Most common, however, seem to be:

- Dietary factors — including changes in patterns, such as fasting or missing meals; specific foods; alcohol or excessive caffeine or sudden withdrawal from caffeine; food preservatives and flavorers, including salt.

- Hormonal and drug factors — hormones, such as birth control pills and reserpine, used in treating high blood pressure, sometimes produce headaches.

- Emotional factors — when perfectionists are subjected to stress, they are most likely to have headache problems.

- Environmental factors — including temperature extremes, cigarette smoke, perfume, glaring light and sudden changes in barometric pressure can lead to headaches.

Careful drug therapy emphasizes the need for attention to both proper use — timing and dosage — and potential side effects.

Besides the usual over-the-counter pain relievers, these drugs are commonly prescribed for treatment of various types of headaches: Ergot alkaloids, which prevent blood vessels from expanding; anti-depressants; propranolol, a new drug with minimal side effects; diuretics, to reduce body fluids.

"If you have frequent headaches, check with your physician. He should be able to pinpoint the cause of your headaches and establish an individual treatment program," Shirer says.

For a list of specialists in headache problems, write the National Migraine Foundation, 5252 North Western Avenue, Chicago, Ill. 60625.

Black Market burglars are working overtime to meet the demands of rich Elvis Presley fans who want personal items that once belonged to the King.

Experts say millions of dollars worth of clothes, scarves, jewelry and other stolen memorabilia have already been channeled into the thriving underground market.

In a recent daring swoop on the Elvis Presley Museum in Memphis, Tenn., thieves made off with an estimated $2 million in jewelry that once belonged to Elvis. "They knew exactly what they were doing and took only those items that would be easy to resell," says museum owner Jimmy Velvet.

Among the 80 missing items are: a 14-carat gold Capricorn medallion with two emeralds and nine diamonds, Elvis' first initial ring in 18-carat gold with his initials spelled out in diamonds and a solid gold three-inch-square seal presented to Elvis by the City of Memphis.

Velvet, who has offered a $10,000 reward for information leading to the return of the jewelry, says it could be worth $2,000,000 to collectors.

The thieves probably stole the jewelry with the idea of selling it on the memorabilia black market, says Captain Tom Lacastro of the Property Crimes Division of the Memphis Police Department. "There are certain people and even cults that still almost revere Presley," he told me. "They pay large amounts of money just to have the thrill of owning something that was his — even if that something was stolen."

Millions of words have been written about Elvis Presley since he died — but no one has come forth with the reason for the singing idol's drug abuse that eventually claimed his life.

"Elvis was going blind," states actor Vaughn Armstrong, who was a close friend of the singer. "He was told he was losing his eyesight and that is why he turned to drugs and alcohol."

Vaughn, currently starring in "Sorry, Wrong Husband" at the Union Plaza Hotel in Las Vegas said he was not told by Presley that he was going blind. "But I was in church in Memphis when the minister announced that Elvis had asked the church members to pray for him because he was losing his sight."

Just as fast as you can say a-one and a-two and a-three, Lawrence Welk's baton will once again be tapping that very same rhythm. Mr. Welk will star in another weekly program entitled, "Memories With Lawrence Welk." Now showing nation-wide, the show will feature such favorites as The Lennon Sisters and Welk's own acclaimed Champagne Music Makers.

powerful executives are living in fear that their names will be linked with the booming Tinseltown drug trade, following the $24 million cocaine bust that landed automaker John DeLorean in jail.

The high-rolling motor mogul — accused of conspiring to peddle 220 pounds of high-grade cocaine — has long been associated with the show-biz elite. "A lot of stars and brass fear they're going to be dragged into a drug investigation because of their association with DeLorean," says one Hollywood source.

"They can see this incident blowing the lid off Hollywood's drug activities." A producer familiar with the drug scene told me, "Many celebrities and industry leaders are tied up with the so-called Hollywood Connection. Now they're shaking — looking for alternatives or kicking their habits until this blows over."

RCA Records has released a special Christmas single featuring a David Bowie-Bing Crosby duet on "Peace on Earth/Little Drummer Boy."

The two superstars originally performed the tune on Crosby's final holiday TV special "Bing Crosby's Merry Ole Christmas" in 1977. The single is packaged in a four-color picture sleeve from the show.

RCA recording artists, The Kids From Fame, are scheduled to make their world debut concert appearances in England this December.

The overwhelming success of the Emmy Award-winning TV series "Fame," seen throughout England via the BBC, has propelled both RCA cast recordings to the top of the British charts.

Several British TV critics, noting the production credits on "Quiet As a Nun," British biographer Lady Antonia Fraser's first mystery novel, wondered how much the mini-series might reflect the women's liberation movement.

Besides the author, the thriller stars a woman (Maria Aitken) as a brilliant, beautiful TV journalist invited to investigate the mysterious death of a nun at a convent school she once attended.

A hit on British TV, the Thames Television production airs on the Mobil-funded Mystery! on PBS three successive Tuesdays at 9 p.m. (E.T. — please check local PBS listings) beginning Dec. 21. Called a "Grand Guignol" story and "a dark Gothic tale," it deals with adventures encountered at the convent by Jemima Shore, the glamorous TV reporter with a flair for solving crimes.

Larry King, the most-listened-to late night radio personality in America will host a 90-minute Sunday night series beginning early 1983.

Television stations may elect to carry the programs live by satellite or broadcast on a taped delay basis.

Steven Spielberg, the Hollywood producer with the Midas touch, has been slapped with more than a billion dollars in lawsuits by angry writers who claim he ripped off their ideas for many of the blockbuster movies that made him an overnight multimillionaire.

What's more, the reeling Spielberg is also involved in megabuck "wrongful death" law suits stemming from the tragic helicopter accident that killed actor Vic Morrow and two Vietnamese children last summer during the filming of Twilight Zone.

The story ideas that Hollywood's newest golden boy is accused of plagiarizing include such box-office bonanzas as "E.T.," "Raiders of the Lost Ark," "Poltergeist" and "Used Cars." There's even suspicion that his sci-fi classic, "Close Encounters of the Third Kind," might also be a ripoff.

First it was Marilyn Monroe's diary. Now Debbie Reynolds' address book is missing. Is nothing sacred anymore?

Debbie's offering a $500 reward for the book, which is crammed with unlisted phone numbers collected over the last 30 years.

Debbie discovered it was gone upon returning to her Las Vegas hotel room after doing her act on stage. She wants it back. Now.

If you're the guilty party just mail it to me and we'll be happy to send it on to Debbie after a brief session with the copying machine.

Richard Burton had a double date at the swank Ma Maison beanery in Hollywood recently. Nothing unusual about double dates, you say? There was about this one.

Richard, who squired

Susan Hayes, his traveling companion these days, shared a table with General Hospital's Tony Geary, whose date was none other than Liz Taylor.

"People were simply dumbfounded," gushed another Ma Maison diner. "They waited for the dishes to begin to fly." The dishes, however, remained grounded.

All was peaceful as the foursome chatted happily over the famed fare, and then departed by limousine for only-they-knew-where.

A Christmas gift for the gardener

By Ted Brice
"The Garden Editor"

Selecting a Christmas gift for that gardener on your list is easier than you may think. The first thought is some type of plant. Usually the avid gardener has already purchased any plant that he or she wants or needs. Most of the Christmas plants such as Poinsettias and Christmas / Thanksgiving cactus will not survive year round except in the extreme South.

Then you think about some tool that the gardener will use in his or her gardening. In this instance usually the gardener has already purchased the tool in order to save him time and improve his or her garden. We have almost forgotten a category of Christmas gifts for the gardener. This category is gardening books. Within this category we have two basic types of books: the one on a specific subject (plant) and the one on basic general gardening. Here we have a major problem. There are many general gardening books that are written in other sections of the United States, that are foreign to the Southwestern area we live in. In many instances the weather is more severe in the winter and less severe in the summer than where the book is written than we have here in the Southwest. Also there will always be the difference in the makeup of various soils throughout the United States. In many areas local garden clubs have prepared gardening books for that particular area. I am personally familiar with one that is put out by a garden club in Dallas and one that is published by a garden club in the Houston area. These books were written for that particular area taking into consideration the weather and the makeup of the soil for that particular area.

One of the better series of gardening books is the Sunset books published in California. These books will cover the Southwestern area of the United States. The individual books on specific plants such as roses and chrysanthemums, etc. will provide the gardener the necessary requirements for that particular plant.

Let your garden editor suggest that you put a gardening book on your list for that gardener for Christmas.

Good gardening until next week from your Garden Editor, Ted Brice

Duplicate licenses available

AUSTIN — A number of sportsmen have contacted the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department asking how to replace a lost hunting or fishing license. Officials said duplicate licenses can be obtained if certain procedures are followed.

If you lose a license, it is preferable to contact the license deputy where the license was purchased to obtain the number and date of issuance. If someone else purchased a license at the same time, it often is helpful to use their license number as a guide in locating the lost number, officials said.

After obtaining the number, go to one of the department's 30 field offices or to a county clerk's office which sells hunting and fishing licenses (about half of them provide this service) and purchase a duplicate license for 50 cents. If this is not convenient, you may contact the department's Austin headquarters, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, Tex. 78744, (512) 479-4819 for a duplicate license application.

Officials remind sportsmen that it is illegal to purchase more than one hunting license or combination hunting/fishing license. Resident hunting and fishing licenses, as well as the combination licenses, are valid from Sept. 1 until Aug. 31 each year.

Research Center serves community

CORPUS CHRISTI — A group of Corpus Christi State University professors in the College of Arts and Humanities is trying to get the message out to local business persons and organization leaders that social science research is not only invaluable, it is affordable.

The professors are all members of the Social Science Research Center at CCSU.

According to Dr. Louie Miller, SSRC director and associate professor of sociology, "SSRC was created for several reasons: to train students in social science research methods; to help students finance their education by providing part-time employment; and to give the participating professors an opportunity to get involved in community service."

SSRC serves another important function, Miller says. "It helps center members demonstrate to the community the accuracy and helpfulness of social science research."

Members of the center include professors of political science, language, psychology, history, ethnic studies, sociology and communications.

All 14 present members carry doctoral degrees and teach at CCSU.

The center is designed to provide technical assistance in five areas.

Survey research entails construction, implementation and analysis of surveys and polls tailored to an organization's needs.

Evaluation research includes design and use of instruments for the purpose of evaluating personnel or program effectiveness.

Psychological evaluation deals with psychometric evaluation of personnel and clientele.

General research consists of examination of any organizational problems including those requiring the use of census information, historical archives and public records.

Technical training includes presentation or workshops and training programs in effective communication, inter-ethnic relations and research methods.

The center is self-funding, Miller says. Fees charged by the center are based on the specific services provided.

In general, the charge for professional time is $35 an hour. Charges for clerical services such as typing, key punching, data editing and elementary programming range from $5 to $15 an hour. Computer time is $150 an hour. In addition, a 10 percent overhead charge is made to defray SSRC operational expenses.

Past research completed by SSRC includes the analysis and write-up on a survey dealing with family attitudes among migrants done for the Texas Migrant Council. The center also has done several independent polls for a local TV station, and completed work on a survey for the Adult Learning Center dealing with factors affecting a person's use of the learning center.

SSRC has completed a survey dealing with the impact of the Voter Registration Act on minorities.

All projects accepted by SSRC must pass a screening procedure. This procedure includes preparation of a statement outlining the project, methodology to be employed and the contribution the project will make to the community or to social science and preparation of a written contract between the center and the client. These documents must be approved by an ethics committee and the dean before work begins.

Law lowers compensation base

COLLEGE STATION — Individuals receiving unemployment compensation during 1982 may face higher taxes when they figure their 1982 income tax returns.

This year's new tax law (the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act) lowered the unemployment compensation base amounts for income tax purposes, effective with the 1982 tax year, says an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

For married couples filing jointly, the base amount for 1982 is $18,000, which is $7,000 less than last year. For all other taxpayers except married individuals filing separately, the base amount is $12,000 for this year, or $8,000 less than a year ago.

Taxpayers receiving unemployment compensation must add it to adjusted gross income when figuring their income tax returns, says Dr. Ashley Lovell of Stephenville. If the total exceeds the appropriate base amounts, taxable income is calculated by including the smaller of one-half of the amount above the base or 100 percent of the unemployment compensation.

More couples will likely be paying higher taxes on unemployment compensation this year than before, notes Lovell. He advises families with several sources of income or liquid assets — such as part-time farmers — who are receiving unemployment compensation to counsel with their tax advisors before year-end.

Based on prospects for a scheduled tax cut in 1983, these families may benefit by deferring some income until next year or by stepping up payment of such expenses as medical bills in 1982, says the economist.

Lovell adds that families who suffered unemployment in 1981 as well as this year should not be surprised to learn that similar amounts of income and unemployment compensation in the two years may result in different taxable incomes and income tax liabilities.

So he advises some careful yearend planning that might save tax dollars at a time when many families are suffering financial hardships.

Town Lake

AUSTIN — Austin residents shouldn't have to travel far to catch channel catfish.

A recent gill net survey conducted by Texas Parks and Wildlife Department crews indicated that Town Lake, located in the heart of the Capitol City, has plenty of the popular fish.

Six nets placed at various locations on two overnight sets yielded 55 channel catfish with an average weight of slightly over a pound. Technician Jack Acree said the average weight may be misleading because a number of the fish caught were yearlings, indicating a good spawn this year.

The catfish apparently were well distributed in the 525-acre lake, with keeping-sized fish being taken in practically every net set, Acree said. One net also caught flathead catfish of eight pounds, 12 ounces and seven pounds, four ounces.

course will be specific in nature such as archaeology, psychology, biology or art. The other will be an interdisciplinary study involving films, lectures and discussions. Classes will meet daily from May 30 to July 1.

High school students who will have completed the 10th or 11th grades by May 30, 1983 are eligible to apply. Students who participated in the 1982 program and will not have graduated from high school by May 30 are also eligible to apply for the program.

Deadline for applications is March 1. For more information and applications for admission and financial aid, contact Dr. Marjorie Smelstor, director, UTSA Gifted and Talented Student Program, Office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs, The University of Texas at San Antonio, San Antonio, Texas, 78285, (512) 691-4224.

Allegro classes visit CCSU, computer center

The seventh and eighth grade Allegro classes at Rockport-Fulton Junior High School visited the computer center at Corpus Christi State University and the computer room at the Region II Education Service Center in Corpus Christi on Dec. 7.

At the university, the students watched an IBM System 4331 computer in operation along with a card punch machine, a card reader and a line printer. The students punched up their names on computer cards using the card punch machine. The computer center operator, then, combined their names with a special graphics program and gave each student a print-out of his name in graphics as well as a Snoopy calendar in graphics.

The students observed college students using the many card punch machines as well as the microcomputers at the university. The Allegro students also visited the university's library.

At the Region II Education Service Center, the students were given an opportunity for a "hands-on" experience with Apple II microcomputers in several problem-solving game situations.

Emergency Medical Service receives donation

Donations from the Exxon Company U.S.A. and Tenneco have added $1,500 to the Aransas County Emergency Medical Service's fund for its new building and library, according to Bill Aston, EMS chief paramedic.

A $1,000 check from Exxon was presented to Aston this past week by Mabel Ogle, a volunteer worker and artist on the Women's Committee of Aransas County Medical Services Inc. Purpose of the money is to help purchase books and manuals for the EMS library, used in the service's training program.

The contribution was made through Exxon's

Involvement Fund, a program that encourages Exxon retirees to become involved in community affairs. Mrs. Ogle is a retired Exxon employee with 30 years' service with that company before she moved to Aransas County in 1976.

A donation of $500 was made by the Texas Gulf Coast Division of Tenneco Oil Exploration to the EMS Building Fund to help pay for the service's new office and classroom building adjacent to Enterprise Clinic.

In a letter that accompanied the donation, J.F. Cravens, division general manager of Tenneco, said the service provided to the community by the EMS is greatly appreciated and "Tenneco is proud to participate."

Tenneco's contribution brings the total collected for the new EMS building to $22,000, Aston said. Total cost of the project was $37,000.

The new building includes offices, a classroom/meeting room, workshop, inside parking for two of the service's three ambulances, coffee bar and bath.

The Aransas County EMS is completing its sixth year of operation.

Retina treatment improves

The detached retina always has been a serious and somewhat common eye problem. It gained additional notoriety recently when popular boxer Sugar

Ray Leonard received one.

But what is it? First, the retina is a thin sheet of light-sensitive tissue that forms the inner lining for the back of the eye, explains the Texas Medical Association. Comparable to film in a camera, the retina receives focused images and converts them to signals transmitted along the optic nerve to the brain's vision centers.

A tear or hole in the retina can lead to complete detachment, a serious problem because a detached retina cannot function. This may happen because fluid from the eye's interior leaks through the hole and separates the retina from the outer coats of the eye. The size of the hole increases gradually as more fluid accumulates until the retina becomes completely detached.

Ideally, this threat to vision should be corrected before the retina becomes detached. A variety of medical techniques can seal an early break in the retina. They include lasers and deep-freezing techniques.

In many cases, however, detachment occurs without the warning of a tear. This can happen to persons who have had cataract surgery, a blow to the eye, hemorrhaging into the eye resulting from diabetes or a circulatory disorder, or degenerative changes in the retina.

Early symptoms of a tear are painless and include floating spots in the vision field, flashes of light and blurred vision. As the retina detaches, the person sees as though a curtain is moving across the vision field. Without treatment, all vision eventually is lost.

Improved surgical techniques provide a hopeful outlook for most patients with detached retinas. Essentially, the procedure calls for removing the fluid that has collected beneath the retina and firmly sealing it. A couple of decades ago, this meant a hospital stay of several weeks. Now, the period is three to seven days.

1983 parks budget due look in board session

Budgetary needs in 1983 will be considered by Rockport's parks and recreation board in a meeting Wednesday, Dec. 15, as the board seeks a more active role in planning Rockport's parks and recreational facilities.

Also scheduled in the meeting which begins at 7 p.m. at City Hall is a report on a petition from the Aransas County Soccer League and a look at the Aransas County Navigation District's plans for a pavilion on Rockport Beach.

In beginning now to consider the 1983 budget needs, park board members are seeking to avoid the situation that arose with the current (1982-83) park budget in which some $10,000 was allocated for the park department.

The parks and recreations board had no input into the current budget which consists primarily of funds for custodial salaries, maintenance costs, $1,000 for resurfacing the tennis courts and $500 for playground equipment.

Board members have expressed a desire to take a more active role in planning for the 1983-84 parks and recreation expenditures.

Representatives of the soccer league are expected to be back with a petition first presented at last month's park board meeting in which the league requested city assistance in improving the adult soccer field in Memorial Park.

At that meeting, park board members asked the petitioners to get more signatures and cost estimates while the board members discussed the matter with city officials.

A request for the pavilion plans and other ACND-proposed improvements to Rockport Beach also came at the city park board's November meeting. The request followed the appearance of ACND Commissioner Hillis Dominguez who said he wanted to acquaint the park board with what the ACND was doing in its beach improvement program.

He said $50,000 of a matching-funds grant from the Texas Parks & Wildlife Department had been earmarked for construction of three small pavilions on the beach and invited input from the park board.

Park Board Chairman George McCague made the suggestion that Dominguez bring the plans to the Dec. 15 meeting.

Also scheduled on Wednesday's agenda is a report on recommendations to be made to Rockport's city council for improvements at Memorial Park and establishment of an election procedure for the board's 1983 officers.

Pilot to print letters for Santa

Santa Claus has asked The Rockport Pilot to collect letters to him from Aransas County boys and girls again this year.

Letters to Santa may be mailed to "Santa Claus" in care of The Rockport Pilot, 1002 Wharf Street, Rockport, Tx. 78382, or you can bring your letter to the Pilot office and put it in Santa's special-delivery mailbox.

Santa and the Pilot are asking that all letters be delivered to the Pilot by 5 p.m. Friday, Dec. 17, so they can be routed to the North Pole in time for Christmas. Copies of the letters will be published in the Pilot's Dec. 22 edition.

Bond

The commissioners approved a request from Corpus Christi Oil & Gas Co. to use 755 feet of Hackberry St. in Lamar to lay a 2 7/8-inch pipeline and a 2 3/8-inch pipeline leading to the production facility of the chemical plant in Lamar. A motion by Spriegel to approve the request at the standard cost rate was unanimously approved.

A request by Lin Wilson to discuss filling the position of the county marine agent was tabled pending Lin's appearance. J.C. Harlan, a spectator at the meeting, asked the court to check the qualifications of the applicant carefully to insure that the agent would fulfill his duties to the county and work closely with the people.

Judge Wendell said that it is possible that the agent may work in conjunction with the marine laboratory in Port Aransas so he is able to keep in touch with what is going on there.

In other court news, the commissioners approved a motion to close the county courthouse, tax office, road and bridge department on Dec. 31. They also approved the appointment of bilingual clerks in precincts 1A and 3 for the Dec. 15 election for state senator. Pete Martinez and J. Garcia were appointed to the posts in precincts 1A and 3 respectively.

The monthly reports were read by County Clerk Val Jean Eaton and County Auditor Mary Deane read the bills, which the court approved.

The commissioners will meet at 1 p.m. Friday, Dec. 17, to canvass election returns.

Weather

Occasional cloudiness, mild temperatures and a slight chance of rain Wednesday is expected to give way to clearer skies, winds and colder temperatures Thursday. Highs are predicted in the 40s to 50s, lows in the 40s. Skies are expected to be mostly cloudy with cool temperatures Friday. Highs in the 50s, lows in the 30s to near 40 are expected at week's end.

Drainage

the two (the annexation and drainage)."

Another resident, Edwinna Stranahan, asked, "How can you put annexation ahead of drainage?"

"We can't do anything about it (the drainage)," Mills replied, "until it (referring to Traylor) belongs to us."

City officials pointed out that Monday's hearing on Traylor Avenue was the first of two public hearings required and that the annexation of Traylor Avenue is a necessary first step before the city can consider a request for annexation from the developers of the proposed Harbor Oak Shopping Village.

City Administrator Herman Johnson told property owners, "The shopping center can be built there regardless of whether it's annexed," and Rockport Alderman Richard Beck later elaborated, "Whether we annex Traylor or not, the county can let the shopping center drain into the ditch at the back of that property." The ditch, officials pointed out, drains into Long Reach Canal.

Harbor Oaks resident Imogene Sloan said, "I was told Urban is digging holes out there and going to put in pipes and drain into Long Reach."

Gene Urban of Urban Engineers later said, "I am not digging out there." County Surveyor T.E. Griffith subsequently told those at Monday's meeting that the digging was being done by county crews who were cleaning out an existing pipe, not putting in a new one.

Urban told property owners no decisions have been made concerning the use of Long Reach Canal for drainage purposes. He said city officials had asked his firm to determine the natural drainage of the area.

"Before it was a canal," Urban said, "Long Reach was an existing natural channel. There are 73 acres north of the road (Traylor) that have been draining into that area as far back as we can find — definitely into the 1950s."

A second question asked by city officials, Urban said, was how the drainage would increase if that entire 73 acres were developed. The answer, he said, is that drainage would increase from 50 to 130 cubic feet per second (CFS).

Officials later emphasized this figure does not mean this amount of water would drain into Long Reach all the time. And Urban pointed out that the county has recently put in a series of new ditches farther north of this area which will carry some drainage into the bay farther north — which removes that runoff from the Long Reach drainfield.

Griffith emphasized that city officials were concerned only with the 73 acres that presently drain naturally into the Long Reach area and were not seeking to channel additional runoff from other areas into the canal.

Some property owners expressed concern over the ecological impact of the additional fresh water flowing into the canal and over the additional trash washing in from paved parking lots.

Urban pointed out screens and other devices can be built into a storm sewer system to filter out the trash.

One property owner said, "We're asking for help in controlling the trash."

Alderman Murray McMillan answered, "We understand your concern. But we don't have any control at this particular point," emphasizing again the city cannot have any say in the drainage problems of that area unless it becomes part of the city.

"If it goes into the city," asked Long, "is it reasonable to ask, what are the alternatives to Long Reach Canal?"

"That's our concern too," McMillan replied.

Later, Beck said, "If we annex them (this time referring to the shopping center development), we can make them take care of their drainage. If we don't annex them, they can do whatever they want to."

Lee later suggested the city consider additional study of the effects of the increased drainage into Long Reach Canal including a silting study and the ecological impact.

In a final item regarding drainage, Mills read a letter to the council from Delmar Hiller representing Rockport Country Club Estates pledging the developers' cooperation with the city in solving drainage problems in that area. Mention was made in the letter of the possibility of offsite draining for proposed Units 2 and 3 along the extension of Traylor Avenue on the west side of Hwy. 35 North.

coaches and parents to help screen applicants for the position. This will give the public a chance to comment on the available choices, Metzner added.

Gayle Atchley, one of the coordinators of the Adult Continuing Education program reported that the program "is off and running" and that response has been good so far.

Board member Jerry Brundrett Jr. asked "to pass the word on to Mr. (David) Rice and all who did the play that they did an outstanding job. Brundrett was referring to the Rockport-Fulton High School drama department production of the musical "Grease," performed in the new auditorium Dec. 10 and 11. Board President Ottie Mundine said the board expects to develop a policy for community use of the new auditorium in the near future.

In other meeting news, the board approved December's bills for payment and Randow reported that approximately 25 percent of the district's taxes had been collected as of meeting time.

Randow also reported that the Texas Education Agency's audit of the district's Food Services Program has been postponed. He also told the board that the districts annual audit is still being completed by the district auditor and may require a letter to Austin requesting a delay until January. The audit is due in Austin on Dec. 31.

Americans want clean environment

A nationwide survey conducted by Research & Forecasts Inc., reveals a majority of Americans polled want to see their country grow economically, but not at the expense of its environment.

Questioned in the survey were 1,300 members of the general public, 263 executives and 343 members of environmental groups.

The poll showed 60 percent of the 1,906 interviewed believe environmental cleanups should be emphasized, even if it means manufacturers have to charge more for what they produce.

Fifty-five percent said pollution standards should be continued even if some factories are forced to shut down.

Despite the fact seven of 10 Americans have been adversely affected by the economic recession, 56 percent believe regulations to protect the environment are necessary, although they may slow energy production.

Sixty-five percent of those questioned said they wanted to keep designated portions of the nation in their natural state.

Queried about economic conditions, most of those interviewed expressed strong optimism. Sixty-five percent said they believe, even during the recession, that the welfare of their families is better than when they were teenagers.

Also, more than 80 percent of the interviewees expressed confidence that, through science and technology, Americans can continue to raise their living standard.

Eight of 10 emphasized that maintaining a strong national economy should be among top priorities. Seven of 10 believe government regulation of business usually does more harm than good. However, they maintain those positions only if enough regard is exercised in keeping air and water clean and to protect the environment.

The survey was sponsored by the Continental Group, a forest products, insurance and energy company. The results show most of the people questioned feel responsible growth is the right move toward the future, but protection of the environment remain an overriding concern with a majority of those contacted.

Carla Krueger

Greener Interiors helps beautify area

If Carla Krueger has her way, area residences and businesses will have greener interiors. Krueger is the driving force behind Greener Interiors, a business which may help to beautify interiors of area homes and businesses without taking the time and trouble it usually requires. Greener Interiors will sell or lease plants to its customers, and will provide a guaranteed maintenance program for its plants. In addition, Krueger will do consultations on plant maintenance and care.

"It's perfect for those with second homes who need someone to take care of their indoor plants," says Krueger. Moreover, if someone is decorating a home or office and doesn't know what kind of plants to buy or where to get them, she will handpick and hand-deliver plants to those who want them.

Krueger, who has a degree in ornamental horticultural from Texas A&M University, aims her services at both residential and business interiors.

Greener Interiors is currently based on Austin St., and is operating out of Pat's Place. There is a greenhouse behind the building where she will store and sell plants from. To coincide with the holiday season, Greener Interiors is now featuring poinsettias and decorated Norfolk Pines.

Greener Interiors is located at 504 S. Austin St. The phone number is 729-8453.

Taxpayers need to be careful when figuring returns

COLLEGE STATION — Taxpayers who itemize deductions on their income tax returns need to give careful consideration to medical expenses and casualty losses as they look at their 1982 income tax situation.

"This year's tax law (the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982) brings about some changes in filing tax returns that taxpayers need to be aware of," says Dr. Ashley Lovell of Stephenville, an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Effective Jan. 1, 1983, the new tax law increases the exclusion on medical expense deductions to 5 percent of adjusted gross income from the present three percent.

Also, all health insurance premiums paid by the taxpayer are treated as just another medical expense item and are subject to the five percent exclusion. This compares to 1982 and earlier years when taxpayers could deduct one-half of their health insurance premiums, up to $150, with the balance subject to the three percent limitation.

The current one percent exclusion for drugs and medicines will remain the same in 1983, notes Lovell. "All this means that in 1983 many individuals will not exceed the exclusion requirements and will not have deductible medical expenses except in extreme situations," the economist points out.

Thus Lovell advises cash basis calendar year taxpayers to consider paying outstanding drug, doctor and hospital bills by Dec. 31 if they intend to itemize medical expenses on Schedule A of their 1982 tax return.

Another consideration would be to move surgery and dental work scheduled for early 1983 into this year. Moving up surgery and dental work also might be advantageous from an insurance standpoint, since insurance deductibles may already be met for this year.

Besides realizing a larger benefit from medical deductions this year, taxpayers also get the deductions a year earlier and before tax rates are reduced in 1983, says Lovell.

As far as casualty losses are concerned, each casualty or theft loss is currently deductible to the extent that it exceeds the $100 exclusion. Beginning in 1983, the total of unreimbursed personal casualty and theft losses in deductible to the extent that it exceeds 10 percent of adjusted gross income. In addition, each incidence is reduced by the $100 exclusion.

"This means that only low-income taxpayers or taxpayers suffering large unreimbursed losses will qualify to itemize these losses on Schedule A beginning next year," says Lovell.

He advises taxpayers with 1982 casualty losses to consult their tax advisors regarding such things as the new alternative minimum tax, unsettled casualty claims that fall into 1983, and carryback of casualty losses to the previous year.

With the change in casualty loss deductions as well as inflation, the economist advises taxpayers to evaluate the adequacy of casualty insurance coverage on homes, autos and other assets.

Since the federal government will be assuming a much smaller share of the insurance deductible, it may be necessary for many to choose smaller deductibles in insurance policies unless they are financially able to assume greater losses.

In winter, dress carefully for comfort and protection

Dress for comfort and protection when planning to spend much time outdoors during winter. Wind or temperature cannot be controlled, but clothing can.

"Select clothing for your activities as well as for outdoor conditions," says Dr. Ann Vanderpoorten, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Think about your clothing as layers of protection, adds Vanderpoorten. By planning the number and thickness of these layers, comfort can be controlled in almost any outdoor climate.

The layer closest to the skin should be a "breathing layer" that allows body moisture and excess heat to escape. This layer may consist of underwear, lightweight socks, blouses or shirts.

The second layer is an "insulation layer" that keeps in the warmed air around the body. Bulky fabrics or several thin layers hold lots of air. Examples are sweaters, vests and heavy socks worn over thin ones. Thermal underwear also acts as an insulation layer.

Blazers, windbreakers, shoe and waterproof pants or jackets make up the "outermost protective layer." This layer keeps cold, drafty air out and may also protect inner layers from becoming damp.

A hat or hood is important too, according to Vanderpoorten. Up to 75 percent of body heat may be lost if the head is unprotected.

Remember to protect hands and feet. Vanderpoorten advises to wear gloves or mittens, and thick-soled leather shoes for best protection.

Use scarves and belts to help prevent heat loss. They can be removed easily when ventilation is needed to prevent overheating.

Plan to stay dry. "Choose water repellent outer garments if you will be exposed to moisture from rain or snow," says Vanderpoorten.

Damp garments will dry with body heat. This causes the body to cool and can be dangerous as well as uncomfortable.

Enjoy being outdoors in the winter by thinking ahead about comfort and protection. Choose clothing that fits both the climate and the activity.

35 cent

WASHINGTON, D.C. — At the urging of Senator Lloyd Bentsen, a senate committee approved legislation Tuesday which insures that a state will receive less than 85 cents in federal highway funds for every dollar paid in federal gasoline taxes.

The proposal by Bentsen, ranking Democrat on the Transportation Subcommittee, will mean an additional $9.87 million in federal highway funds for Texas in fiscal 1983. It was approved unanimously by the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee, as an amendment to highway legislation being considered in conjunction with a five-cent increase in the federal gasoline tax.

"The 85 cent minimum return on gasoline taxes, too, is a question of fairness and equity for states like Texas. This is a user tax and should be spent by the people who pay it," Senator Bentsen said.

Area realtors elect officers

The Rockport Area Board of Realtors held their annual banquet last Saturday, Dec. 11, at the Paws and Taws Building, and elected officers for the coming year.

Those elected to office for 1983 included Meceal Casterline, president; Ted Greenfield, president-elect; Larry Barnebey, vice president; Grace Stanick, secretary; and Freddie Lingner, treasurer.

Elected to the RABR board of directors were Clouis Fisher, Delmar Hiller, Louise Itschner, Marilyn Simmons, Louise Wilken, Juanita Wagley and Ana Wishert.

Juanita Wagley was named "Realtor of the Year" based on her realty work, both locally and for the Texas Association of Realtors, and for her service to the community.

Soil test is important

A soil test forms the basis for any fertilization program and is especially critical with the current economic crisis facing farmers.

Soil test information is really the only intelligent way to build a sound fertility fertilizer program.

And fertilizer supplies should be adequate for the upcoming crop season. Nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium supplies appear to be adequate. However, the nitrogen production capacity of many U.S. manufacturers is in a down-turn, with some plants closing. Thus nitrogen imports are becoming an important factor.

Phosphate and potassium prices will reflect a rather small inflation rate, but most materials should still remain a good buy for the farmer. Nitrogen is a more heavy-energy related product, so as new contracts for natural gas are negotiated to produce nitrogen fertilizer, nitrogen prices could increase significantly. However, nitrogen prices have remained fairly stable over the past couple of years.

Price increases of phosphorus and potassium will depend on export demand. The U.S. is a net exporter of phosphorus and a net importer of potassium. Phosphorus exports have been down recently and imports have not increased significantly.

So farmers should find good supplies of fertilizer as they plan for the next crop year. The main thing is to plan a sound fertilization program based on a soil test. Anything less is false economy.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Make Christmas day bicycle rides safe

Imagine the joy of a child upon discovering a brand new bicycle under the Christmas tree. Make sure the first bike ride begins a lifelong habit of safe bicycling. Don't let safety go out with the wrapping.

The very first thing a child should learn about riding a bike is how to ride it safely. Bicyclists must follow the same rules of the road cars follow.

Nelson Mueller, head of the Texas Safety Association's section of home and leisure activities urges parents to teach their children to ride safely, even on Christmas day.

"About half the people killed each year in car-pedal accidents are children under 14 years old," Mueller warns.

Mueller warns, "These youngsters will obey safety rules if they are taught."

The following guidelines can help parents teach safe bike riding:

Bike operators must obey traffic regulations, signs, signals and markings just like cars.

Observe all local ordinances pertaining to bicycle operation.

Keep right, drive with traffic, not against it. Ride single file.

Drive bikes defensively by watching out for the other guy.

Watch out for drain gates, soft shoulders and other road surface hazards.

Be alert for car doors opening or for cars pulling out into traffic.

Don't carry passengers or packages that interfere with vision or control.

Never hitch a ride on a truck or other vehicle.

Exercise extreme care at all intersections, particularly when turning left.

Use hand signals to indicate turning or stopping.

Bikers should be protected at night with the required reflectors and lights.

Ride a safe bike. Have it inspected to ensure good mechanical condition.

With JOEY SASSO

Jimmy Connors has become mellow. Now that he is 30, he told me, he has matured enough that he no longer needs to feel "near hatred" for his competitors.

Of course, this comes at a time when Connors has already slaughtered nearly everyone else on the court — he is the first tennis pro to earn more than $4 million, the first man since Bill Tilden to play five straight U.S. Opens and the only man to win the Open on grass, clay and hard courts.

Sports from the press box

"I don't play with reckless abandon anymore," he said. "I was interested to see if, when I reached 30, I'd kind of reach my potential. I like being 30."

Phil Sims of the Giants and Marty Lyons of the Jets were offered jobs at Fat Tuesday's by owner Mel Danksy during the football strike but both declined.

Phil's knee, which knocked him out for the season anyway, is still hurting and Marty said he prefers playing golf if not playing football.

Ranking, raving tennis "Superbrat" John McEnroe is softening under the gentle hand of his childhood sweetheart and long-time girlfriend, Stacy Margolin.

The attractive 22-year-old Stacy says John is slowly winning the fight to change his intolerant behavior and get control of his temper. "When I first met him, at 16, he hardly ever said 'please' or 'thank you' to anyone. But now he's appreciative — he just needs refining here and there."

McEnroe has been given the tag by his critics as "bad boy" of the tennis world, a reputation he gained through outspoken criticism of linesmen and judges and his childish tantrums when things weren't going his way. "Everyone gets mad about these things, but sometimes it gets to John more than other players because he wants to be super perfect," Stacy says. "He works hard and he gets mad when someone else isn't doing his job right. But he really is a nice, easy-going, even-keeled guy. Deep inside he wants to be everyone's friend. I get so angry sometimes because most people make up their minds about him through what they see on the tennis court."

McEnroe's doubles partner, Peter Fleming, also is quick to defend John. "I can't think of anyone better to play with."

How would you like to be the singer who follows Luciano Pavarotti onto the stage or the basketball player lined up behind Julius Erving in a dunking contest?

Joe Altobelli put himself in that kind of position by accepting the job he had long coveted — manager of the Baltimore Orioles.

Altobelli replaces the successful Earl Weaver, who retired after 14 years in the Baltimore dugout, and he inherits an outstanding team. It's a rare opportunity — and it carried with it a ton of pressure. "No doubt, I'm going to think about it," Altobelli said. "But then I turn it around and think, 'Somebody had to get the job. Why not me? There are worse situations."

Altobelli spent the last two years as a coach with the New York Yankees under George Steinbrenner. "After two years in New York, I think I'm ready for anything," he said.

After a solid victory, several members of the New York Islanders hockey team were seen sipping Remy Martin with Robert Beleson, the new president of Remy Martin America, at the chic New York Japanese restaurant, Mr. Chow's.

He lives in a world made up of his own dreams and aspirations — a world fashioned to his exact specifications, somewhere in the windmill of his mind.

It's a world where every major city possesses a multi-million-dollar Moslem mosque built as a result of his charitable efforts. New schools, too, spring out of the ground because of him.

It's a world where the masses love him in perpetuity and throng to see him wherever he goes.

It was not long ago that Muhammad Ali virtually owned the world of boxing. Back then, the real world wasn't all that different from the world of his dreams. Ali was lord of the sport that he, personally, had lifted from the mire of corruption and sordidness.

He graced boxing with his special flair, giving it some semblance of charm. And with the masses truly flocking to see him, he sent fight purses soaring into the stratosphere.

Atlanta third baseman Bob Horner is surprised that he's been put on the trading block, particularly since the Braves won the National League West championship this year.

"I've done everything I can do — except win the Triple Crown," he said. "Why should they want to trade me? I don't know how much better I can do." The Braves are desperately looking for pitching help, and executive vice president Al Thornwell said the team had discussed Horner's availability with "about 75 percent" of the major league teams.

Horner, who hit .261 with 32 homers and 97 RBIs last season, said: "Why would anyone want to start tearing things down?"

However, Atlanta owner Ted Turner has said a long-term contract he might gain even more.

Horner said he didn't think his weight was a problem but he would shed some extra pounds to remain a Brave.

A "challenge to the world" has been made by Don Tyner, on behalf of quarter horse Sail On Bunny, to "any racehorse in the world, regardless of age, sex or breed, in a two-horse, one-quarter-mile match race" for a $1 million purse.

Each participant would be required to put up $500,000 with the winner taking all. Tyner, who heads the $4.5 million syndication of Sail On Bunny, placed advertisements with this challenge in the Times of London and in the Los Angeles Times, the New York Times, the Wall Street Journal and several trade publications.

The Cleveland Cavaliers reportedly lost $7 million over the last two seasons, owing in large part to a payroll that includes 11 guaranteed contracts. Among that number are the contracts of Don Ford and James Silas, who aren't even playing.

So owner Ted Septien, who paid $12.1 million for his NBA club in 1980, is looking to get out. Insiders say he would be willing to sell the team for $5 a share, or $8.3 million.

Septien said he had received six offers for his beleaguered franchise, including one from a Toronto investor who would like to move the team to Canada.
