

Breakfast, dinner for vets tomorrow

Scurry County veterans are invited to an early morning pancake breakfast and again to a barbecue evening meal Tuesday as Veterans Day is observed here.

Both the breakfast and dinner are planned by the combined membership and auxiliaries of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion.

The breakfast will be served beginning at 5:30 a.m. and will continue through 9:30 a.m. at the American Legion building, 1802 Ave. R.

Barbecue with all the trimmings will then be served at 6:30 p.m. at the facility. For this meal, ladies are asked to bring a dessert.

Also Tuesday, the membership plans its traditional sunrise flag raising ceremony at the American Legion.

Auxiliary members for both the VFW and American Legion are also selling Buddy Poppies.

The day will see all local governmental offices closed with the exception of Snyder City Hall.

Due a holiday Tuesday will be workers with Scurry County, with the library and health unit to close also; the state highway department office and driver's license office; and all federal facilities to include the ASCS and SCS offices.

The post office will deliver mail to boxes, but the service window will be closed and no home deliveries will be made.

Snyder's financial institutions will be closed also to include all banks and savings and loans.

Woman recounts discovering victim

A local woman testified Monday morning that a door left ajar to a walk-in cooler led to her discovery of the body of Allsup's store clerk Jack Huddleston in the early morning hours of March 23.

Diana Allen opened testimony in 132nd District Court in the capital murder trial of Dorsie Lee Johnson Jr., 19, of Colorado City.

Johnson and a woman companion stand accused of killing Huddleston during the course of a robbery of the Allsup's on College Ave.

A seven-woman, five-man jury plus two alternates were sworn in to hear the case by Judge Gene Dulaney shortly after 9 a.m. Monday.

District Attorney Ernie Armstrong presented his opening statement to the jury and called Allen as the state's first witness.

She related how she discovered Huddleston's body face down in the store's walk-in cooler around 4:30 a.m. March 23.

In response to questions from Armstrong, she said she at first saw no one when she entered the store.

She said she began looking for a clerk, then saw the door to the walk-in standing ajar. She opened it wider and saw Huddleston's body face down on the floor at the north end of the cooler, she testified.

She related how she went into the cooler and checked his right wrist for a pulse before calling police from the pay telephone outside the store.

Following Allen's testimony, Armstrong called Snyder police officer Ronald Gloyd — the first officer on the scene — to the stand. He offered testimony confirming Allen's physical description of the store and the position of body when he arrived at the scene.

Gloyd also testified to the procedures he then followed, to include notifying his supervisors after determining that Huddleston was dead.

In his opening statements, Armstrong told the jury he intends to present his case against Johnson in three phases over three days.

He said he would divide his case into testimony concerning the initial discovering of the crime and gathering of evidence; the submission of the evidence gathered at the scene for expert analysis; and finally the circumstances surrounding the arrest of the suspect and his giving a statement about the murder.

The jurors and alternates hearing evidence in the case are now sequestered in the custody of Scurry County Sheriff Keith Collier. They will remain isolated until the trial is concluded.

The jurors for the trial include Tammy S. Bruns Swigert, Durrell Freeman, Edith Elizabeth

Lawmakers say more prisons are not the answer

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — The lowest-risk solution to the problem of criminal offenders in Texas, says State Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, "is to lock them up and throw away the key."

And, he adds, "If we had the money, I'd do that."

But with the state's flagging economy, money is scarce, and Farabee, who serves on the House Criminal Justice Committee and the Senate Finance Committee, said legislators must be creative in finding alternatives.

State lawmakers recently finished two special sessions during which taxes were raised to make a dent in the multibillion-dollar shortfall in fiscal 1987's budget.

That shortfall is expected to be about $5 billion during the 1988-89 biennium, and lawmakers say they are planning large spending cuts during the 1987 session of the Legislature.

"There are very few problems in state government that don't have a dollar sign attached," said Sen. Grant Jones, D-Temple, Senate Finance Chairman. "Frankly, some of the release programs designed to alleviate the problems may well mean high costs to people if those (convicts) are recidivists."

Alternatives to incarceration and revisions in credits for parole will be considered in the next session, lawmakers said.

"We've got more than 38,000 (prisoners)," Farabee said. "We need to take a look at them and say 'Is there a less expensive way to take care of them rather than punishment and reform?'"

The cost of building a penitentiary averages out to about $70,000 per cell, says state Rep. Jim Parker, D-Comanche.

Last year, the Legislative Budget Board estimated an increase of 400 prison admissions per month, Parker said.

Under that condition, to remain in compliance with the Prison Management Act, which states that capacity can't exceed 95 percent for five days in a row, the state would have to build a new 2,000-person penitentiary every five months, Parker said.

"The immediate pressing problem is that we are sending people to prison faster than the penitentiary can assimilate them," said Parker, who serves on the House Criminal Jurisprudence Committtee.

"When we send one in the front we've got to send one out the back," Parker said. "That's no way to run a railroad."

Jones said an additional $30 million has been appropriated to the Texas Department of Corrections for next year.

The money will be used to meet court orders for reforms, including the hiring of more guards and renovating prisons, said Charles Brown, a Texas Department of Corrections spokesman.

"We've been putting significant funds into the prison system for the last few years," Jones said. "I don't see much prospect for relief as the population grows. I anticipate the problem will be with us for a number of years."

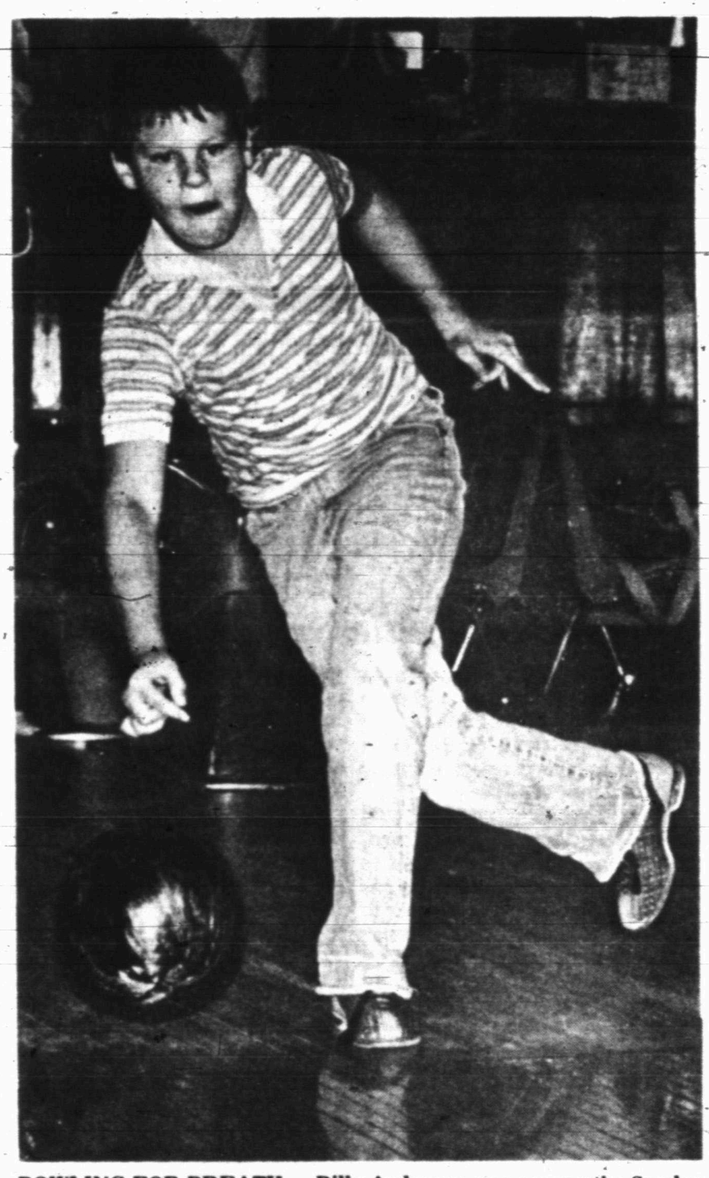

Completion of a 2,250-person unit in Tennessee Colony, near Palestine, is set for September 1987, Brown said.

The additional space will be used to depopulate other units and will offer little relief in light of the unprecedented prison admissions, said Mike Roach, Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles spokesman.

The volume of crimes being committed during the first six months of this year is up 18.6 percent compared to the first half of 1985, Department of Public Safety statistics show.

Admissions to TDC were up 20.2 percent through August of this year, compared to the same time span in 1985.

"The problem is that we as politicians have had a tendency to make broad sweeping statements in terms of law and order," Parker said.

Otwell gives up to police

FOREST HILL, Texas (AP) — The Rev. W.N. Otwell, who fled the state several weeks ago to avoid arrest for operating a boys' home without a license, surrendered to authorities today.

Otwell, who was met at his Community Baptist Church in this Fort Worth suburb by Tarrant County Sheriff Don Carpenter, said he made the decision to give himself up Friday.

"We just looked at some options and God gave me some peace," Otwell told a news conference. "I was very uneasy about coming back to Texas, but I was satisfied that's what God wanted."

Carpenter said Otwell would be taken to the Tarrant County Jail and booked on contempt of court citations. The minister will be transferred to Austin to face the citations, which stem from his refusal to obtain a state license for his now-closed boys' home, Carpenter said.

Otwell and his church also face $67,000 in court fines.

Before the news conference, Otwell conducted a fiery, 20-minute sermon in which he condemned Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox and other state officials. About 125 church members and supporters shouted "Amen" as he spoke.

"This is a ministry God put in my heart. We're doing what God wanted us to do and will not stop doing what God wanted us to do," Otwell said.

WTC audit report due

The annual outside audit report for college operations will be given Monday during the regular November meeting of WTC trustees.

The session will begin at 5:45 p.m. at the college administration building. After convening, the board is scheduled to go into executive session.

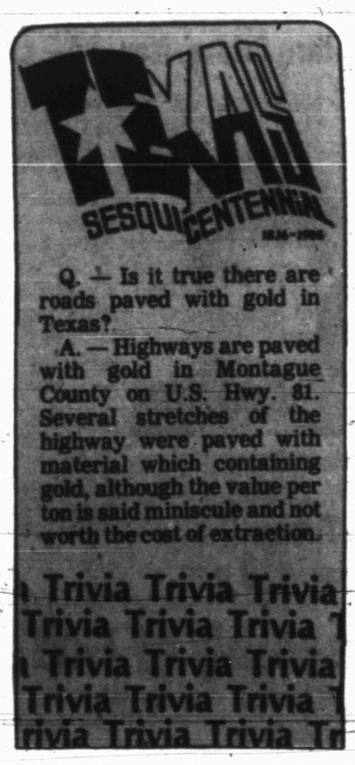

The outside audit will be given by representatives of Anderson and West, local CPA firm.

The only other items slated for action involve two bids.

These include the purchase of three typewriters, with three bids submitted.

In addition, the board will consider the purchase of some 436 sq. yards of carpet for a faculty office area.

Bids have been received from six firms.

Q. — Is it true there are roads paved with gold in Texas?

A. — Highways are paved with gold in Montague County on U.S. Hwy. 81. Several stretches of the highway were paved with material which containing gold, although the value per ton is said miniscule and not worth the cost of extraction.

Total for sales tax drops three points

The year-to-date sales tax totals for Snyder continued to slide with the latest report, which reflects sales made locally in September.

The percentage now stands at a minus 4.8 percent, a three point drop from last month. The November report marks the second month in a row that the cumulative total has been in the minus category.

It has fallen from the year's high of a plus 15.6 percent reported here in May. The October report brought this to a minus 1.7 percent.

The one month total when compared to the same period last year reflected a decline of 25 percent. In actual dollars, the one percent sales tax returned $79,374 this year compared to $105,959 last year.

For the year-to-date, the total now stands in excess of $751,000 compared to more than $789,000 last year. There will be only one more reporting period for 1986.

Exact figures for current totals are $751,151 and $789,364 respectively.

The sales tax report for most Texas cities reflected the downward trend in sales. Statewide, payments for 1986 are said down 1.7 percent.

Houston, which received the largest check of $16.1 million, was down 5 percent.

The sales tax report for area cities included:

—Lubbock: minus 2.6 percent with $12 million returned this year compared to $12.4 million

Vet events

The Scurry County Chapter of the Vietnam Veterans Association plans several activities tomorrow for Veterans Day. They will all gather at 5:45 a.m. at Clark's Country Kitchen and from there they will go to the VFW pancake breakfast. At 9 a.m. they will leave for Dallas for a special memorial service. They will take a wreath to present at the service.

Break-in here

Police are investigating a burglary of the Snyder Rainbow Bread warehouse discovered Sunday evening.

At 8:07 p.m., Mike Price reported the warehouse, located at 2503 Ave. F, had been entered and an undetermined quantity of bakery items taken.

Entry to the building was said gained by breaking out a window.

Canvass held

Calling local voter participation "a good turnout," county commissioners Monday canvassed results from the Nov. 4 election and approved the canvass with no changes.

In other action, the court appointed Pct. 3 commissioner C.D. Gray Jr. to the board of Snyder Senior Citizens Inc. which operates the Golden Terrace Village Apartments on 37th Street.

Catholic leader seeks meeting with Pope John

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, warning of "dangerous disaffection" between the Vatican and parts of the U.S. church, says face-to-face talks are needed between American bishops and Pope John Paul II before the pope's visit next summer.

Bishop James Malone of Youngstown, Ohio, president of the bishops' national organization, said today the pope is welcome in this country, despite "current tensions and controversies."

However, he said, it would be wise for members of the bishops' conference to fly to Rome "to share with him information about aspects of the church which will be highlighted when he returns to this country."

He didn't say exactly what the bishops would tell the pope, but he went on to describe deep divisions within an otherwise-flourishing U.S. church.

John Paul, who is to visit the South and West for a series of speeches and Masses in outdoor stadiums next September, was cheered by millions on his visit to Eastern and Midwestern cities in October 1979.

"But no one who reads the newspapers of the past three years can be ignorant of a growing and dangerous disaffection of elements of the church in the United States from the Holy See," Malone said.

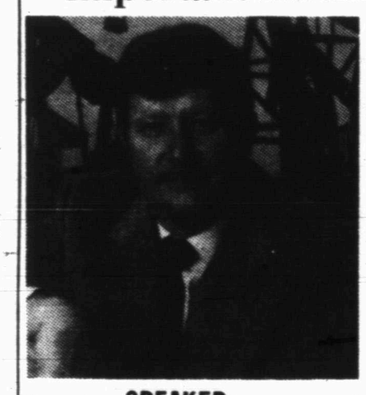

The only case he specifically mentioned was that of Seattle Archbishop Raymond Hunthausen, who was forced to share his authority with a Vatican-appointed auxiliary bishop after being judged too liberal in ministry to homosexuals and divorced Catholics and in some liturgical matters.

Dear Abby

Letters of Fellow Sufferers Are Music to Woman's Ears

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for printing all those letters from people who keep hearing music in their heads. I am one. I am now 76, and never told others because I was afraid of what they might think. I have been a nurse for more than 50 years and had never heard of this condition; I feared that maybe I was experiencing senility. I was truly relieved after reading in your column that many others had the same experience.

During my waking hours I hear hymns and waltzes. All the waltzes I loved to dance to are drifting through my mind. Now I can tell my doctor about it and not be afraid that he will look at me, shake his head and think, "Poor soul. She is really failing!"

EMILIE IN BUCKS COUNTY

DEAR EMILIE: You would not believe the number of letters from readers who had also been hearing things and doubted their sanity. One man said he nearly went crazy because he heard bees buzzing continually in one ear — night and day. Another said he heard constant crackling sounds, like bacon frying. A woman heard "chirping" of crickets. Still another said it sounded like a freight train was roaring through her head. All thought they were going mad.

The constant sounds are due to a condition called "tinnitus," but the musical hallucinations are yet another matter. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: It was interesting seeing all the letters sent to you by people with musical hallucinations.

The two cases I describe in my book, "The Man Who Mistook His Wife for a Hat," were rather rare and special examples of musical epilepsy associated with damage to the brain. But musical hallucinations are relatively common, especially in older people, and though they should be checked out, nearly always turn out to be benign — a nuisance, but not necessarily a sign of neurological disease.

Readers should be assured about this. Yours sincerely,

OLIVER SACKS, M.D.,

DEAR ABBY: I wrote to my son who lives in Alaska and told him that I appreciated his thoughtfulness in sending me flowers twice a year (on Mother's Day and my birthday) for the last 25 years, but I would prefer instead subscriptions to magazines dealing with science and psychology.

When he called last week to wish me a "Happy 70th birthday," I said, "I hope you were not offended by my request."

His reply: "Write to Dear Abby."

Was I out of line with my request? If so, is there a tactful way to make things right again? Your column runs in The Anchorage Times, and he appears to be a fan, so maybe you can put in a good word for me.

HIS MOTHER IN NEW JERSEY

DEAR MOTHER: You were not out of line for stating your preference. Your son is too big (and far away) for you to spank, but I think he owes you thanks (not criticism) for your honesty. Write again and let me know if this helps. And if I've made matters worse, I'll try to patch things up in person when I go to Anchorage next spring.

State seeks royalties from oil leases

DALLAS (AP) — The Texas land commissioner's office is sending out bills totaling $17 million to retrieve oil royalties the office says it is owed under Relinquishment Act of 1919.

Under that act, the state sold millions of acres of Texas land, but retained the mineral right to benefit the Permanent Free School Fund. Texas agreed to split the royalties with the surface landowner as a fee for acting as the state's agent in hand oil and gas leases.

But officials with the land commission and the state attorney general's office believe millions of dollars in state funds may have been bilked by investors who failed to pay the state its share of royalties, The Dallas Times Herald reported Sunday.

A special audit by Land Commissioner Gary Mauro's office examined 34 of Texas' 2,900 state oil and gas leases and showed more than $10 million was due from companies like Tenneco Oil Co., Samedan Oil Corp. and Oxy Petroleum.

Controversial man returns as janitor after being fired

GROESBECK, Texas (AP) — Dave Roach, controversial ex-Limestone County auditor, was fired more than two years ago by two district judges who never gave specific reasons for their action, but he's back on duty again at the courthouse.

Not as auditor, but as janitor.

Roach recently beat out two other bidders for the courthouse's annual janitorial contract, and just like in the old days, there are people who are glad to see him and still a few who don't want him around.

But Roach ignores that. He figures he's there to serve the county, to clean up the courthouse — like he believed he was doing as auditor.

"I don't have any problem. I just got a job to do," Roach told the Waco Tribune-Herald. "I have not had dealings with anybody in this courthouse since I left. I don't have one bone to pick with anybody. What I was and what I am are different."

Roach served 16 months as county auditor before being fired on June 29, 1984, ending a combative reign that featured confrontations with various county officials who accused him of trying to run the courthouse.

He claimed that years-long mismanagement of county funds before he took office cost taxpayers millions of dollars. Roach was the first county official to attempt to invest the county's money in interest-bearing accounts.

State district judges P.K. Reiter and Sam Bournias gave no official response on their ruling. But Reiter at the time said that it was the result of what he called Roach's "custom of confronting co-workers, even after being warned."

Reiter also said Roach "wasn't doing his job," which supported the complaints that Roach often acted outside the job description of his office.

The county then successfully fought to deny him unemployement benefits.

One courthouse observer said, "Roach is a very honest person, but he's very meticulous, and he has absolutely no tact in dealing with people."

Even Roach's winning of the janitorial contract was in controversial style.

He had submitted the low bid of about $43,800 — several hundred dollars less than the second-lowest bid and about $2,200 less than the bid submitted by brothers Buddy and Wayland Wilson, courthouse favorites who had been cleaning the courthouse since it began hiring private janitorial contractors four years ago.

The commissioners' court deadlocked at its Oct. 13 meeting on whether to award Roach the bid. Commissioners Jeff Stuver and Billy Waldrop, who had been staunch supporters of Roach during his stint as county auditor, voted for him. Commissioner Eddy Ray Truett and County Judge Howard Smith, who have never hidden their dislike for Roach, voted against him.

Your Birthday

Nov. 11, 1986

Sudden advancement in your chosen field of endeavor is a strong possibility for you in the year ahead. Your good luck will come through new friends you'll be making.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You should do exceptionally well today in enterprises that you personally promote. If you have something of value to sell, pitch it to as many prospects as possible. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Something you thought would be rather tedious can actually be accomplished quickly today. However, you may have to turn control of the matter over to another.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you've been looking for ways to earn additional income, get in touch with that special friend of yours today who is always brimming over with bright ideas.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Go directly to the boss today if you have a way of doing something better that could also save your company money. He or she will be receptive.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Do not pass up any social invitations today. There could be a happy encounter in store for you with someone new you'll instantly like.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A matter about which you've been doubtful could be happily finalized today. A friend will help resolve it in a most ingenious manner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Do not be hesitant today to call upon persons you know socially to help you in your business affairs. You can repay their favors later.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Set definite goals today where your career is concerned, but keep an open mind regarding the ways they should be attained. Leave space for imagination.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Everything is negotiable, so don't get uptight today if it looks like you've used up your alternatives. You've still got plenty of bargaining chips left.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A condition you've been anxious to change can be dealt with today, provided you show others how the shift will benefit them as well. Emphasize the advantages to them.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This can be an enormously gratifying day for you if you take pride in everything that you do, from your smallest tasks to your largest assignments.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Something meaningful may occur today in the financial arena. You'll get the lion's share of the rewards, but you won't pull it off single-handedly.

Solar industry has gloomy outlook

AUSTIN (AP) — The once-bright prospects for solar energy in Texas have turned gloomy this year as sales of solar water heating equipment have plummeted and dozens of companies have shut their doors, officials say.

The industry was hit hard nationally when federal solar tax credits expired at the end of 1985. But business has been particularly bad in Texas, according to some industry officials.

The industry knew it would ail in Texas when the tax credits ended, but what was not anticipated was the sharp reduction in oil prices and the resulting effect on the Texas economy.

Even in Austin, where the city has promoted solar water heating through cash rebates and low-interest loans, sales have severely dropped, officials said.

More than 15 companies were selling solar units two years ago in Austin. Now there are three. Some have turned to air conditioning or related businesses and provide solar as a sideline. Others have shut down.

The last Confederate army surrendered at Shreveport, La., in 1865, ending the hostilities of the Civil War.

Impeachment proceedings against President Andrew Johnson failed in 1868 by one vote in the U.S. Senate.

The funeral ship of the Egyptian pharaoh, Cheops, was discovered in 1954 near the Great Pyramid of Giza.

Diverse backgrounds noted

WASHINGTON (AP) — When the 100th Congress assembles in January, its House ranks will include a Cheyenne Indian, a millionaire glass magnate, a sharecropper's son, a Shakespearean professor and the heir to the Kennedy political legacy.

Among the 50 new members who will take their seats, most have followed the tried-and-true route to political prominence: election to local office, then to statehouses through organization and careful local spadework.

But among the House freshman class of 27 Democrats and 23 Republicans — two of whom are making return appearances — several stand out because of their uniqueness, their heritage or their accomplishments.

The most recognizable name will be that of Joseph P. Kennedy II, who as the oldest male in his generation of Kennedys wears the family political mantle. Kennedy easily won the Boston seat of retiring House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. and will automatically be more visible than most House newcomers.

Kennedy already will have a valuable connection on Capitol Hill in the form of his uncle, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., but also may have something to prove, since he has no previous experience in elective office.

Connie Morella is a Republican lawmaker elected from a Maryland suburb of Washington. Aides describe her as a driven overachiever who campaigns with gusto and is happiest with a full agenda.

Morella and her husband reared nine children — three of her own and six of her sister, who died of cancer. She is a Shakespearean scholar on leave from Montgomery College, where she taught at the same time she served in the Maryland Legislature.

Two days after being elected, Morella was out at subway stations shaking the hands of commuters and thanking them for their votes. "Someone has to pull her off the street and get her back to the office," said Sohrab Sobhani, a campaign volunteer.

Ben Nighthorse Campbell, whose father was a Northern Cheyenne Indian, spent several years in a California orphanage as a child when his mother, a Portuguese immigrant, was hospitalized. He was captain of the U.S. judo team in the 1964 Olympics, a sport he took up after being bested in a fight with a Japanese-American acquaintance as a child.

Campbell, a Democrat from Colorado, will be only the second American Indian to serve in the House, according to the American Indian Historical Society.

Amory Houghton Jr., 60, is a newcomer to elective office but has a long business and political bloodline in western New York. His great-grandfather founded Corning Glass Works, where he has been chief executive, and his father was U.S. ambassador to France. His grandfather once held the same House seat for one term in 1919-20.

Representing Atlanta will be John Lewis, who literally bears the scars of the 1960s civil rights movement. One of 10 children of an Alabama sharecropper, Lewis earned a theology degree and became a founder of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee along with Julian Bond, whom he defeated in a bitter Democratic run-off election this fall.

The machinery of slam bidding

By James Jacoby

When 16 high-card points opposite 11 produce a cold slam contract, you can bet that the hands fit well. Good bidders have the right methods to find a slam, while players without sophistication are involved in guesswork. Here the good slam was reached using the Jacoby two no-trump response to a major, a method first popularized by my father and me more than 20 years ago.

The jump to two no-trump shows at least an opening bid with four-card support. Then the opener is obliged to bid a singleton. If he doesn't have one, he bids three or four of the major or three no-trump. These bids show varying levels of high-card strength. Here three hearts showed a singleton heart. Responder now made a natural cue-bid of four clubs, but opener signed off at four spades. The five-club bid by North now announced second-round control of clubs as well and begged South to show any sort of control in a red suit. Thus South could bid five diamonds as a king-showing cue-bid. Five hearts then showed the heart ace, and South, trusting his partner's values to be sufficient to cover his losers, bid the slam.

The play was easy. Declarer could draw two rounds of trumps and still have enough trumps left in dummy to ruff his two losing clubs and one losing diamond. He did not even have to resort to setting up a long trick in the heart suit.

Ex-nuclear technician faces charges

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Mordechai Vanunu, a former nuclear technician who told a British newspaper that Israel has secretly stockpiled at least 100 atomic weapons, faces spying charges and a life sentence, the daily Davar reported today.

The newspaper said Vanunu's prosecutors would not charge him with treason, which is punishable by death. Davar did not give a source for its information. The Israeli government revealed Sunday that Vanunu was under arrest and would be tried, but denied that secret agents kidnapped him in Britain and spirited him back to Israel.

The announcement put an end to almost six weeks of speculation over Vanunu's whereabouts, but did not say how or when the 32-year-old got to Israel.

He was last seen in London on Sept. 30, five days before the Sunday Times published a lengthy article on Israel's nuclear capabilities based on information and photographs it said Vanunu provided.

The report said Israel had produced 100 to 200 nuclear weapons — including neutron bombs — at the Dimona nuclear center, a subterranean factory in the southern Negev desert where Vanunu worked for 10 years.

U.S. anti-whaling group has sunk half of whaling fleet

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — An American anti-whaling group has claimed responsibility for scuttling two Icelandic whaling boats — half the country's whaling fleet — in Reykjavik harbor.

Saboteurs opened the bottom valves on the vessels, Hvalur 6 and Hvalur 7, around 2 a.m. Sunday when no crew members were aboard, police said. No injuries were reported.

The Los Angeles-based Sea Shepherd Conservation Society said it carried out the attacks. Its leader, Paul Watson, said in interviews with Icelandic state radio and television that a team from his organization sank the 430-ton vessels because the Icelanders were hunting whales illegally.

Environmentalists accuse the Icelandic government of using scientific pretenses as a cover for commercial whaling.

"They are trying to say they are killing whales for research, but the whale meat is being sold to Japan. They are prostituting science," Watson told The Associated Press in a telephone interview from Vancouver, British Columbia.

Iceland agreed to abide by an International Whaling Commission decision to cease whaling from 1986 to 1990. Although commercial whaling stopped, the government permits the Hvalur Whaling Co. to carry out scientific whaling in cooperation with the National Oceanic Research Institute.

The company, which has two other boats, is allowed to catch 200 whales a year under a plan to document the numbers of whales.

Last August, Icelandic and U.S. officials reached a compromise providing that half the meat resulting from the whaling be consumed by Icelanders. In the past, 90 percent of the meat was sold abroad, nearly all of it to Japan.

The United States monitors foreign whaling. If it determines that efforts to conserve the whales have been undermined, the Secretary of Commerce is required by law to recommend that the president either embargo the offending country's fish products or curtail its right to fish in U.S. territorial waters.

Iceland maintains that as a fishing nation it must conduct extensive research on how whales affect fish population and that it can finance its research only through the sale of whale meat.

Watson, 36, said a Sea Shepherd team went to Iceland several days ago and patrolled the harbor, watching for an opportunity to sink the vessels.

"As we don't want to cause bodily harm we therefore prepared the act very carefully," he said. "Our team was given instructions not to cause injuries and therefore explosives were out of the question."

A guard on a nearby boat noticed the two 150-foot-vessels taking on water at about 5 a.m.

Grammar textbooks become controversial

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Textbooks that Mexican children are required to read in elementary school are under fire from business groups that claim they are biased against free enterprise and carry a leftist ideological undertone.

The books are distributed free by the federal government.

The texts also have met criticism from the left, which contends they are too tame in their viewpoint.

But conservative business groups are more outspoken.

"You can't modernize and make your country more effective in international markets, more efficient, create more employers, more companies, more impresarios, and at the same time be teaching everyone that that guy is an exploiter," said Claudio X. Gonzalez, president of the influential Business Coordinating Council, one of the complaining groups.

He said he is starting to get "interesting reactions," even from President Miguel de la Madrid and Education Secretary Miguel Gonzalez Avelar, to the debate about modernizing the Mexican educational system.

Gonzalez Avelar, who has been mentioned as a potential presidential hopeful for 1988, recently was asked about critics who say the textbooks teach Marxism.

"I think they don't know the schools of Mexico," he replied. "I invite those who talk and pontificate about education and schools to simply come and see the reality of our schools.

"Here, what there is is work," the education secretary said. "The people are learning things that are useful for them. That is the truth of the Mexican school, not what they say it is."

The issue of control of public education in Mexico long has been a source of controversy.

Luis Medina Pena, deputy secretary of educational planning, in a recent interview traced the roots of the dispute back to the 19th century when liberals tried to take control of the schools from the Roman Catholic Church.

A system of lay, public education was decreed in 1917 and is considered a key principle of the Mexican Revolution of 1910-21.

But the controversy was heightened by the system of free, compulsory textbooks for elementary schools started in 1962.

The books' discussions of such topics as colonialism, imperialism and capitalism rankle the conservatives — for example, these passages from the social science textbook for sixth graders:

"This domination of some countries by others is called colonialism, and the economic and political system that makes it possible, imperialism."

"The capitalists (of Britain, France and the United States) sometimes joined with Mexican capitalists, exploited our resources, but the situation hardly improved, because they were not interested in solving the problems of the country but rather only in doing business."

Asked about conservative charges that the textbooks promote leftist ideology, Deputy Secretary Medina Pena replied:

"Let them tell me where the center is.

"Ever since the textbook program started, certain groups have used the issue. Since then, they have tried to paint it as a monopoly of minds, which is not the case."

Medina Pena noted that the free textbooks were the only books available in many poor homes.

Almost one in every three Mexicans is enrolled in a public school system or extension program, about 25 million students in all. A private-school student body of 2 million also must study the government-distributed textbooks.

The National Parents Union, a private association, has called regularly for better quality of instruction in the free textbooks and ridding them of what it calls a leftist ideological content.

"The dark forces, the same that meet in the dismal halls of the Public Education Department, would like for the compulsory textboks to be more deficient all the time, since they have been conceived as a means to maintain the people in ignorance," the union's president, Jose Ruiz de Chavez, said in a recent press statement. The union claims the educational system helps the government maintain control of the masses.

Memorial dedicated with tears, medals

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Vietnam veterans who were moved to tears in a special dedication ceremony paid special tribute to their fallen comrades by tearing insignias and medals from their fatigues and laying them on the monument.

"This is for all the medics that never returned," one veteran said as he climbed San Antonio's Vietnam Veterans Memorial statue Sunday and placed an insignia near the fallen soldier depicted in the sculpture.

As each veteran placed his remembrance on the statue at Veterans Memorial Plaza, the crowd cheered. By late afternoon, the sculpture was covered with miniature American flags, medals, flowers, insignias and personal artifacts — including a pair of combat boots — from the war in Vietnam.

Some veterans, overcome by the memory of Vietnam, knelt at the foot of the giant sculpture and cried.

About 6,000 people — including many veterans in fatigues and active-duty military personnel — packed the plaza as military bands played and fighter planes and helicopters flew overhead.

The keynote speaker, retired Gen. William Westmoreland, said that the time has come for America to show its appreciation for Vietnam veterans.

"The Vietnam veteran is a precious and valuable national asset," Westmoreland said. "And the time has arrived for the American people to understand that in no uncertain terms.

"Sadly, in return, these men and women have been ignored and often abused by their fellow countrymen until now, and neglected by their nation until now," he said.

Westmoreland, who inspected the troops before making his remarks, said history may judge that the United States' attempt to keep South Vietnam independent and free of communism constituted one of "man's noble crusades."

"We wanted to give the people of South Vietnam some reasonable chance to achieve and keep a degree of freedom and human dignity," the general said. "This was indeed one of history's most selfless commitments."

The United States and the Soviet Union signed a treaty in 1976 limiting the size of underground nuclear explosions set off for peaceful purposes.

Classic Paint & Body does good work

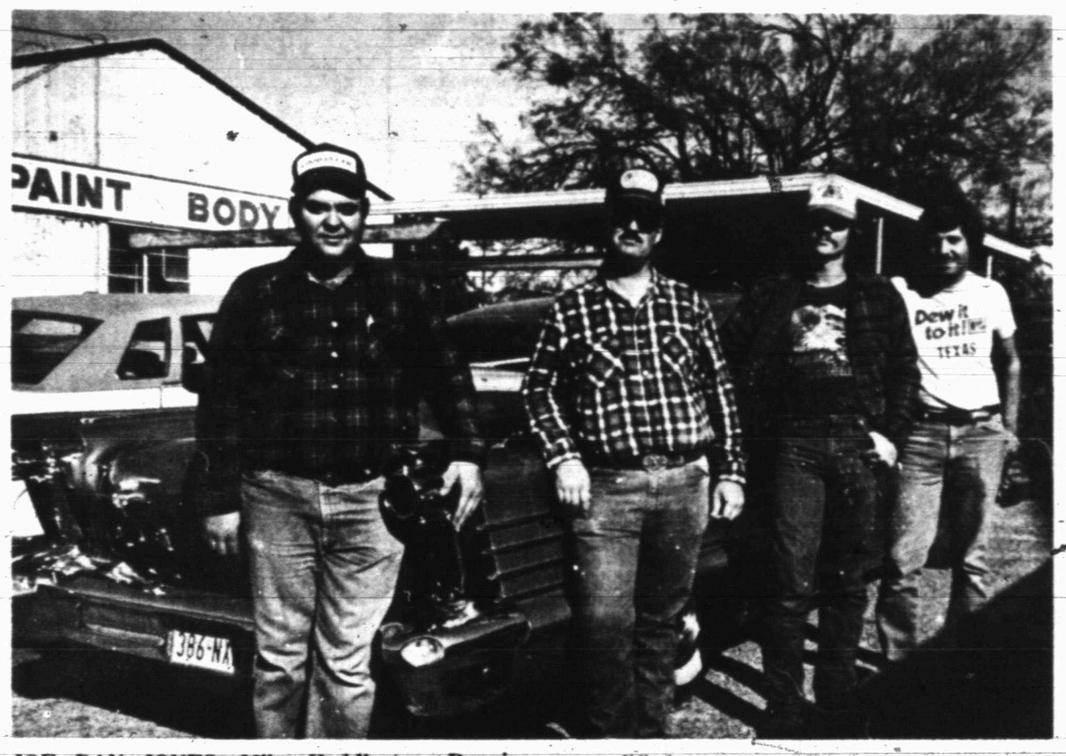

Classic Paint and Body, located at 711 25th Street, provides Snyder and the surrounding area with first class service as well as expertise when it comes to auto body repair and paint.

Oh yes, they do provide more than just paint and body work such as; replacing broken glass, repairing window mechanisms if they malfunction, replacing dash pads, door hinges and hinge bushings, latch mechanisms, vinyl tops and even an occasional convertible top or headliner. In other words, you could say Classic Paint and Body Shop is a FULL-LINE body shop with service being their number one goal!

In these days of fast changing technology, the guys at Classic are continually learning new methods and techniques in order to better serve their customers. For example, the substructures of the new front wheel drive automobiles demand a newer type welding process when replacing vital structure components known as M.I.G. welding. An M.I.G. welder produces far less heat than conventional brazing or gas welding, thus less metal adjacent to the weld area is hardened. This will produce a much closer to factory type repair than can be achieved by other welding processes.

Another area of big advancement has been in paint. The 1958 Oldsmobile 98, as shown in the picture, was originally painted with lacquer. Another choice at that time was enamel. Today, nearly all automotive paints are acrylic, and choices now range from acrylic lacquer, and acrylic enamel (with or without gloss hardener) to urethanes, polyurethanes, and now basecoat/clearcoat paint. The paint manufacturing industry continues to move forward everyday and the staff at Classic is doing their best to move forward also.

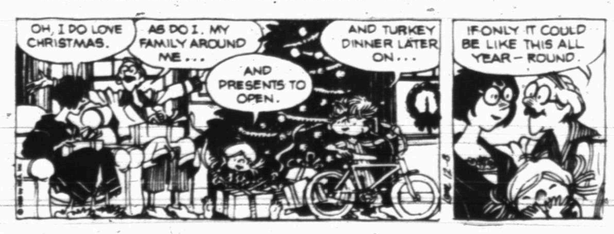

If you have any questions they can answer for you, feel free to go down and visit with the staff at Classic Paint and Body or call them at 573-7143. They are adjacent to Howard Gray Motors on the East Highway. REMEMBER–IF YOU CRASH IT, BRING IT TO CLASSIC.

JOE DAN JONES, Mike Huddleston, Dennis Johnson and Steve Lee at Classic Paint and Body are qualified to help you with any of your auto body work.

Dallas man faces judgements

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas man is at the center of a complex investigation involving farm properties in several states and is accused of contributing to the failure of a bank in Rexford, Kan.

Nasib Ed Kalliel, a native of North Dakota, faces millions of dollars in court judgments, including $4.1 million in debts to Houston's Texas Commerce Bank.

The criminal charges pending against Kalliel grew out of the failure of the Rexford State Bank in 1984. A federal judge has ordered Kalliel to repay the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. $8.7 million in damages in that case.

In Texas, two bank holding companies claim that they both have the same collateral on loans involving Kalliel and that the collaterial, 158,000 pounds of rice, has disappeared.

Kalliel, who is free on $25,000 bond while awaiting trial, will plead innocent, said his attorney, William Bunch. Kalliel was not available for comment. Directory assistance did not have a telephone listing for him.

Investigators say Kalliel's success in persuading farmers and bankers to deal with him stems in part from an illusion of wealth and connections he fostered.

Kalliel presented what investigators say was a false financial statement claiming business assets of $184 million and a personal wealth of $81 million. He claimed to own 312 farms in 19 states, the franchise for bus transportation to and from the Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport and resort developments on Mustang Island and Padre Islands, authorities allege.

Investigators also said that he claimed he was an official trade representative for Jordan, Mexico and Saudi Arabia.

Chuck Rutenbeck, an investigator for the Iowa attorney general, said Kalliel sought out farmers who were near bankruptcy and promised to arrange loans and take over their debts if they would give him controlling interest in their farms.

In return, Kalliel said he would allow the farmers to continue living on the land, receive an annual salary and share in profits, according to Rutenback.

S&Ls willing to go along with bail-out

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The chairman of the U.S. League of Savings Institutions says the industry could support a scaled-down proposal to pump new money into the agency that insures depositors' savings.

Gerald J. Levy, head of the largest lobbying group for savings institutions, said Congress must make rescue of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., "one of its highest priorities when it convenes in January."

Levy's remarks, prepared for delivery today, came at the start of the league's annual convention.

The league had been supporting a plan to raise an estimated $15 billion over three years to replenish FSLIC's badly depleted coffers.

However, Levy said it might be advisable to adopt an approach suggested by Senate banking leaders that would re-fund FSLIC for just one year with an additional $3 billion with an option of adding more money later.

He said this scaled-back approach would meet the industry's immediate need while alleviating fears that a permanent program might force regulators into hasty closings of some institutions.

"The idea was to give the regulators enough tools to operate through the coming year, but not so much that the circuits would be overloaded," he said. "Congress would continue to monitor the conduct of the program and be able to modify it to any extent necessary."

The FSLIC insures about $800 billion in deposits at more than 3,200 S&Ls. However, the agency has warned that its reserves could fall to as low as $1 billion by the end of this year, about $29 billion short of what FSLIC may need to close or merge failed S&Ls over the next few years.

The FSLIC, which insures individual deposits up to $100,000, is so strapped for cash that regulators have had to keep technically insolvent S&Ls operating because they don't have the funds to close them.

Both the House and Senate passed versions of an FSLIC rescue bill in the closing days of the last session but were unable to resolve differences over unrelated banking issues dealt with in the measures.

In his report on the health of the industry, Levy said 1986 and 1987 both promise to be years of "strong profits and a good operating environment" as interest rates are expected to remain near current low levels.

Peace committee member resigns

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Southern Baptist seminary education will suffer if conservatives continue to win out in a decade-long struggle with moderates in the divided denomination, said a member who resigned from a peace committee.

The Rev. Cecil Sherman, an outspoken moderate from Fort Worth, Texas, resigned after the committee accepted a message by six Southern Baptist seminary presidents affirming the inerrancy of the Bible and the goal of balanced teaching in the schools.

"The seminaries have taken a long step toward answering their critics," Sherman said. "What they have done will satisfy for a season, but fundamentalists will ask for more concessions from our educators. In the end, serious theological education will wither."

Some moderates say they feel the panel is leaning toward the conservative, or fundamentalist views of the controversy among members of the 14.5-million-member denominantion.

"It shows the fundamentalists have the power to put pressure on the seminaries," said the Rev. David George of Nashville's Immanuel Baptist Church. "I think the seminary presidents made the statement in order to head off a more extreme resolution of the situation at the national convention next year in St. Louis."

The statement by the seminary presidents, made public during a retreat at Glorieta, N.M., was hailed by some peace committee members as a breakthrough for peace within the church body.

Peter Gott, M.D.

Finding source of weakness

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband is 87 and had polio as a child. He's been very active, but now both legs have gotten so weak that he has to use a walker. He also has a tremor in his hands, is sometimes mentally confused and doesn't always grasp what I say. Is this post-polio syndrome or is it due to the Cogentin his doctor recently prescribed?

DEAR READER — That's hard to say. Cogentin could cause weakness and confusion, so maybe your husband's doctor would consider reducing the dose or stopping the drug.

On the other hand, post-polio syndrome is a likely cause of your husband's weakness. As people grow older, they become weaker. This happens to everybody. Polio victims already have a degree of weakness; therefore, as they age and become weaker, the weakness may become more pronounced, out of proportion to the usual weakening of the elderly. Despite his age, your husband might benefit from a program of rehabilitation and physical therapy. Ask his doctor about this.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What causes long, stretchy strings in the stool? Should anything be done about it?

DEAR READER — Long, stretchy things in the stool usually are seen in people who eat long, stretchy things. In particular, vegetable fiber can pass undigested through the intestine. Mucus threads can look this way, too; so can some forms of intestinal parasites, like worms. The mystery can be solved by a stool analysis, ordered by a doctor and performed in any qualified laboratory.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What is eosinophilic granuloma and what are the chances of it recurring?

DEAR READER — Eosinophilic granuloma is now classified as Langerhan's cell granulomatosis, a benign disease that tends to affect males in childhood or early adulthood.

The disease is characterized by a lump (or lumps) of cellular jelly, made up of a class of cells that act as scavengers in the body. The lumps tend to occur in bones of the skull, ribs or thighs, and sometimes in the soft tissue of the lungs. As the lumps grow, they damage surrounding organs.

The lesions can be surgically removed. If there are multiple areas affected, medicine, radiation or chemotherapy will kill the islands of cells. The disease can undergo spontaneous cure; that is, it can heal by itself. However, medical or surgical treatment may be necessary.

Dr. Gott's new Health Report, WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT SKIN CANCER, tells how skin cancer can be avoided, identified and treated. For your copy, send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

Death row inmate awaits execution

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP)– The fate of death row inmate Calvin Joseph Williams, who is scheduled to die by injection before dawn Tuesday for the 1980 rape-murder of a Houston woman, is in a federal judge's hands today.

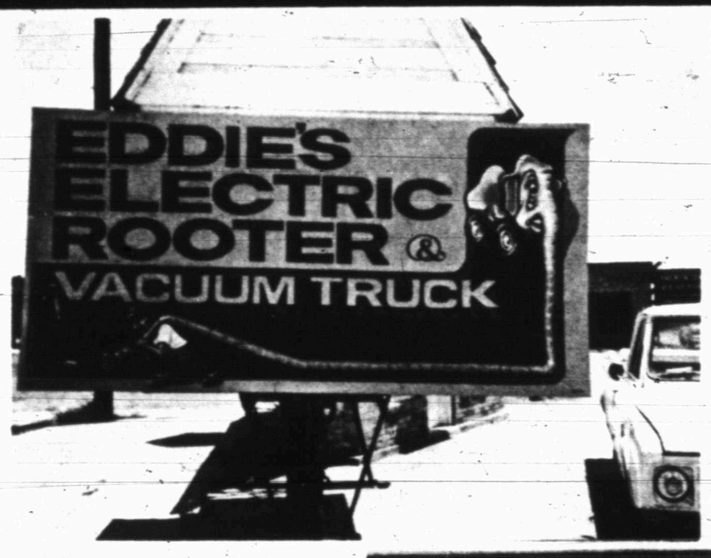

U.S. District Judge Carl O. Bue of Houston has been asked to issue a stay, which if granted would be the third Williams has won this year.

Williams, 26, was convicted of the June 2, 1980, strangulation of Emellie Fields Anderson, 28, at her boyfriend's apartment in Houston.

Ms. Anderson' sister, Ellen Yarrell, said her sister may never have been killed had it not been for a telephone call.

Report issued

WASHINGTON (AP) — A national commission headed by former Secretary of Education Terrel H. Bell says the United States is risking "national suicide" unless it sharply increases spending on its schools and colleges.

The academic and civic leaders, in a report commissioned by a state college group, rebuked President Reagan and others who have sought to cut aid for college students.

Dusters win classic; Lee sets new record

WTC ladies rip South Plains to win tourney championship

LEVELLAND -- Western Texas College's Dusters get a well deserved rest this week after bringing home the trophy at the South Plains Classic here.

"I feel real good about being 7-0. Some of these kids never played on winning team and never won a tournament like this. It was great," said Coach Kelly Chadwick, whose Dusters defeated tournament host South Plains 73-67 in the championship game Saturday. "I think the kids can be proud of themselves. It's hard to win this early in the season in somebody else's gym."

Western doesn't play again until Nov. 20, when they enter the Howard College Hawk Queens Classic in Big Spring.

"We're off this week and that's going to be pleasant. The kids are tired," noted the coach. "We need to take some time and work on some things. We're glad to be off for a while."

Western won Saturday despite giving up 25 points to freshman Kelly Schilling. Wendy Milner scorched the hoop for 18 Duster points while Dee Ann Marr and Brenda Welch poured in 16 apiece. Gi Gi Robinson bagged 12 and Lisa Thompson added 8.

Welch, a 5-11 sophomore from Jennings, La., was named the tournament's most valuable player.

"We just really didn't get the Schilling kid under control. She had way too many points. Other than that I thought we played pretty well," said Coach Chadwick. "I felt like we controlled the rest of their people pretty well. Our defense was not as good as it should have been. Offensively though, we played well. We had several girls in double figures and that was good to see. I felt like we outrebounded them. It was a pretty good ball game by both teams for this early in the year."

Western led 31-23 at halftime but the Lady Texans battled back and went in front with about five minutes to play in the game.

"I thought we showed a lot of character then," said Coach Chadwick. "Wendy Milner came through and Gi Gi hit some clutch free throws and Brenda had a great steal. When it came time to win, we won."

Cisco won third place in the three-day tournament by defeating Western Oklahoma 77-57. Clarendon snapped Dodge City, Kan., 72-54 for consolation and Ranger took out Seward County of Oklahoma, 73-72.

Tors, Eagles win volleyball matches

LUBBOCK -- District 2-4A representatives Pecos and Lamesa survived the first round of volleyball playoffs here Saturday afternoon.

Pecos, the 2-4A champion, slugged 1-4A runnerup Pampa 15-4, 15-4.

Lamesa, the 2-4A runnerup, had a tougher time but outlasted 1-4A champion Levelland by a count of 15-11, 16-18, 15-13. The Lady Tors were behind 11-3 in the final game but rallied to defeat Levelland.

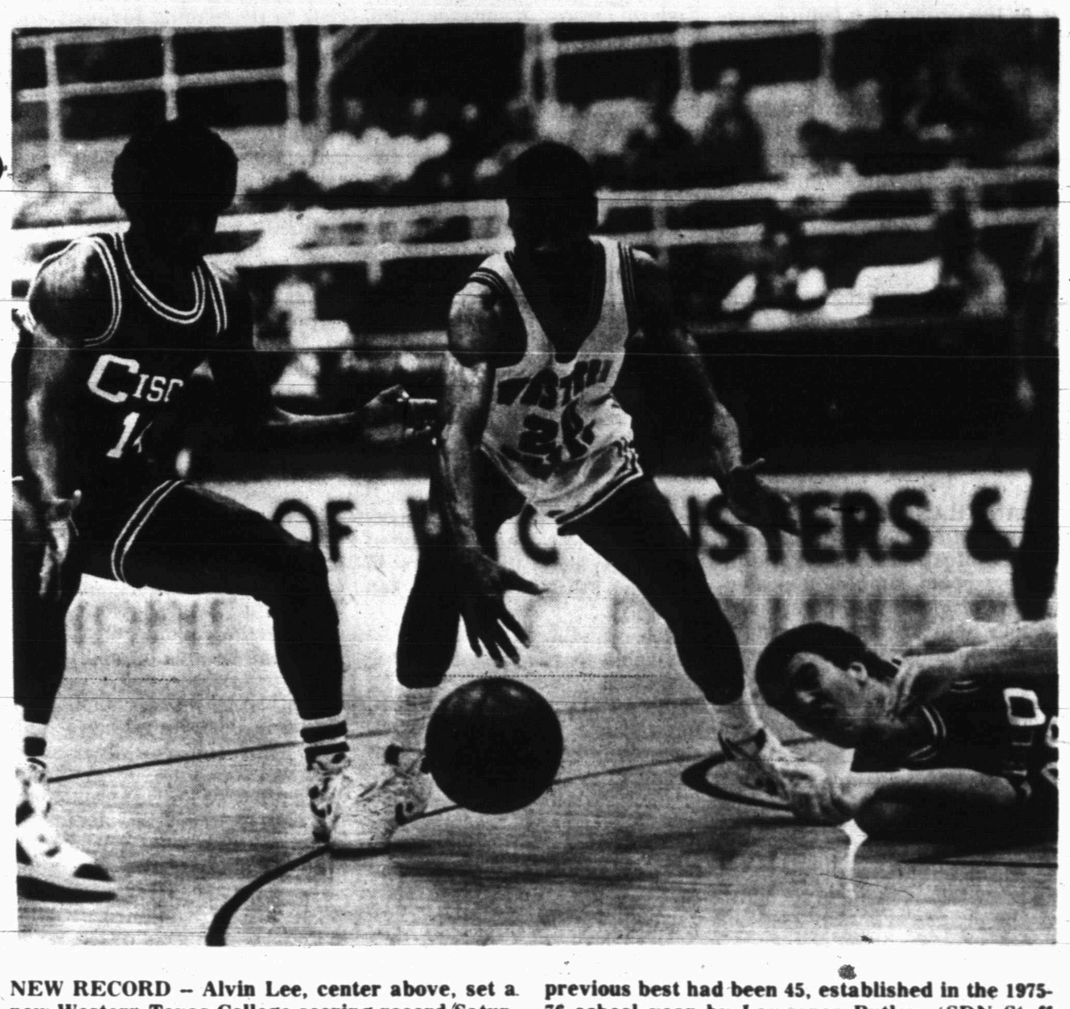

Exact opponents and dates for the next round of playoffs was unavailable Monday morning.

Boosters set Tuesday lunch

Western Texas College Booster Club will hold a Dutch treat luncheon at noon Tuesday in the college cafeteria.

The meeting will be over by 1 p.m.

Anyone who would like to join the club is invited to attend. Additional information can be obtained by calling the WTC athletic department office at 573-8511, extension 283.

NEW RECORD -- Alvin Lee, center above, set a new Western Texas College scoring record Saturday with a 47-point effort against Hill College. The previous best had been 45, established in the 1975-76 school year by Lawrence Butler. (SDN Staff Photo by Paul Gilbert)

Lee breaks school record but Westerners fall, 104-93

HILLSBORO -- It was sort of like winning the battle but losing the war. Western Texas College's sophomore Alvin Lee scored a school record 47 points here Saturday but the Westerners nonetheless fell to Hill College 104-93.

"They played a box and one on him but he's just a great shooter," said WTC Coach Phil Spradling. "I just hope he can keep it up and we can win at the same time. Alvin felt better when we were winning. That's more important to him. He's a team player."

With the 47-point effort, the 6-1 sophomore from Richmond, Va., broke a record that stood for 10 years. The old mark had been 45, set by honorable mention all-American Lawrence Butler during the 1975-76 season.

Lee has scored 38, 40 and 47 points in WTC's three outings this season. The previous two ballgames were victories, giving Western a 2-1 record as it prepares to host Hill College in Snyder's Scurry County Coliseum this Saturday.

"Anytime you play on the road it's going to be tough," said Spradling. "We needed John Lewis real bad. With John being here it should make a difference. We miss Darrell Nelson, too. It really hurts when you have two potential starters out. It especially hurts us depth-wise."

Nelson will be out for several more weeks with a broken hand, but the Westerners expect to have Lewis a starter last year - this Saturday. Lewis has been on disciplinary probation.

While Lee scored 47 points - including three three-point goals - Igor Gojanovic punched in 16 and Kevin Kendrick added 15. Amos Jones chipped in 9.

"We were in the game all the way. I guess we were down by two points with four minutes to go. We just didn't get the job done," said the coach. "But this is only one setback. We're improving but we've got to correct a lot of mistakes. We still have to play with more intensity."

Hill College got 28 points from Marcus Finley, 19 from Gerald Peoples and 15 from Joe Bryan.

Hill College 104, Western Texas 93

WESTERN TEXAS (93)-- K. Kendrick 7 1 15, Hannah 1 0 2; Lee 18 8 47; Ridgeway 0 0 0; Jones 4 1 9; Gojanovic 6 4 16; Marshman 2 0 4; TOTALS 38 14 93.

Erving is making his exits; pours in 29 against Blazers

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - The scene will be repeated 22 times this season: Julius Erving, in his final NBA campaign, acknowledging the cheers in a special ceremony as he makes his final appearance in each arena.

On Sunday night, "Dr. J" played his last game in Portland, scoring 29 points to pace Philadelphia to a 125-119 victory over the Trail Blazers.

"It's a new experience," Erving said of his first taste of the role of basketball superstar on his last swing through the league. "It didn't seem to be too painful.

"I think it's quite flattering for a visiting player to be acknowledged like this."

"I'm enjoying every moment of this season," he said.

Erving certainly enjoyed Sunday night.

"He was sensational," said Portland Coach Mike Schuler. "What a credit he is to the game of basketall."

In the only other NBA game, the Los Angeles Lakers deefeated the New York Knicks 111-88.

Erving, who was presented with a golf club and a $1,000 check for charity by the Blazers before the game, said performances like the one Sunday night don't raise any second thoughts about his decision to retire.

"I know I can play," he said. "I just don't want to play any more after this year. If I let a good game influence my decision not to come back, what am I going to do after a bad game?"

Tim McCormick and Maurice Cheeks triggered a second-half surge that lifted the 76ers to their third straight victory and handed Portland its fifth loss in six games. McCormick scored 12 of his 21 points in the final quarter. Cheeks added 24 points and 10 assists for the winners.

Kiki Vandeweghe scored 31 for Portland, but only seven in the second half.

Lakers 111, Knicks 88

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored in double figures for the 700th consecutive regular-season game and Earvin "Magic" Johnson had 21 points and 15 assists for Los Angeles against New York.

The Knicks, who got 14 points each from Rory Sparrow and Patrick Ewing, stayed close until a 17-4 run by the Lakers gave them a 47-30 lead in the second quarter.

The Lakers, who were led by James Worthy with 22 points, pulled away steadily after that.

In an 1893 fight, lightweights Andy Bowen and Jack Burke battled 110 rounds to a draw. The fight lasted 7 hours, 19 minutes.

Montana 'comeback' successful; leads 'Frisco 49ers to big victory

SPORTS

by The Associated Press

Joe Montana's return to the San Francisco 49ers was right out of a storybook. After seeing his season nearly ended by a back injury, the quarterback returned to the NFL battlefield with a near-perfect day.

"It was just the fact that we had him," veteran guard Randy Cross said after Montana returned from career-threatening back surgery and led the 49ers to a 43-17 NFL victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday. "Armies work hard for Lancelot but they work even harder for King Arthur."

Despite advice from doctors that 55 days after surgery was too soon to return, Montana completed 13 of 19 passes for 270 yards, including touchdown passes of 45, 40 and 44 yards to wide receiver Jerry Rice.

In other games, it was Chicago 23, Tampa Bay 3; Houston 32, Cincinnati 28; New Orleans 6, Los Angeles Rams 0; Minnesota 24, Detroit 10; New England 30, Indianapolis 21; New York Jets 28, Atlanta 14; Buffalo 16, Pittsburgh 12; Kansas City 27, Seattle 7; Washington 16, Green Bay 7; Los Angeles Raiders 17, Dallas 13; San Diego 9, Denver 3; and New York Giants 17, Philadelphia 14.

Tonight, Miami is at Cleveland.

Montana was the driving force behind a San Francisco offense that clicked in all areas. The 49ers had 164 yards rushing, 64 more than their average, and Joe Cribbs had his first 100-yard game this season with 105 on 21 carries.

Chargers 9, Broncos 3

San Diego, with the 25th-ranked defense in the league, used three field goals by Rolf Benirschke and two key interceptions of John Elway to upset Denver.

The victory snapped an eight-game losing streak for the Chargers.

Saints 6, Rams 0

Two field goals by Morten Andersen and a swarming defense provided New Orleans with the shutout over Los Angeles and a 5-5 record.

Andersen's field goals covered 20 yards in the third quarter and 22 yards in the fourth.

Jets 28, Falcons 14

Ken O'Brien continued his pinpoint passing as New York jumped to a 21-0 halftime lead over Atlanta en route to its eighth straight victory.

The Jets, 9-1, lead second-place New England by two games in the AFC East.

O'Brien, who finished with 322 yards passing, hit on a club-record 17 consecutive passes during one stretch, and was 13 for 13 for 195 yards in the second quarter.

"It's unbelievable what he can do," Wesley Walker, who caught two of O'Brien's three second-quarter touchdown passes, said.

O'Brien's 17 consecutive completions tied for the fifth-best string in NFL history, breaking the Jets' record of 15 set over a two-game span by Joe Namath. It was only three shy of the all-time record set by Kenny Anderson of the Cincinnati Bengals against Houston on Jan. 2, 1983.

Giants 17, Eagles 14

The combination of running back Joe Morris and a stingy defense worked again for New York in its victory over Philadelphia, giving the Giants' their best start since 1963.

Morris scored two touchdowns and recorded his fourth consecutive 100-yard-plus game while the defense collected seven sacks, three by linebacker Lawrence Taylor.

Redskins 16, Packers 7

Jay Schroeder threw two touchdown passes and Max Zendejas kicked a 30-yard field goal as Washington sent Green Bay to its ninth loss in 10 games.

Former United States Football League quarterback Chuck Fusina started the second half for the Packers, subbing for injured starter Randy Wright. Fusina completed 12 of 16 for 99 yards.

Patriots 30, Colts 21

New England spotted Indianapolis a 14-3 lead before quarterback Tony Eason warmed up and threw two third-quarter touchdowns.

The loss dropped the Colts to 0-10, the only winless team in the NFL.

The Patriots have won their last seven meetings with the Colts.

Bears 23, Bucs 3

Chicago, the defending Super Bowl champions, rebounded from Monday's defeat as Mike Tomczak took over at quarterback, passing for one touchdown and running for another to beat Tampa Bay.

Walter Payton, playing with a dislocated toe, ran for 139 yards.

Tomczak, who was relieved by former USFL quarterback Doug Flutie late in the fourth quarter, completed 11 of 24 passes for 265 yards. Two of the four scoring drives he directed covered 92 and 91 yards.

Oilers 32, Bengals 28

Quarterback Warren Moon, ranked 10th in the AFC in passing, passed for 310 yards as Houston snapped an eight-game losing streak by stopping Cincinnati.

The Bengals dropped to 6-4 and lost their tie for the AFC Central Division lead with Cleveland.

Vikings 24, Lions 10

Minnesota stayed in the playoff chase in the NFC as Tommy Kramer threw for 284 yards and a touchdown to defeat Detroit.

Mistake-riddled Cowboys lose to LA Raiders, 17-13

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Jim Plunkett doesn't care if he's 38 years old and has been around the NFL 16 years. He still thinks he should be the starting quarterback for the Los Angeles Raiders.

Plunkett proved his point Sunday in a relief role by throwing two touchdown passes in the second half of the Raiders' 17-13 victory over the Dallas Cowboys.

Asked if he should start in place of Marc Wilson, Plunkett replied "Yes, I proved it all year. It's no fun on the bench."

Plunkett said his age should be no barrier.

"They (the Raiders' coaches) may think I'm 38, but I don't think of it that way," he said.

But Los Angeles Coach Tom Flores said he didn't want a quarterback controversy.

"I don't want to get into that right now," Flores said.

Wilson suffered three interceptions in the first half and the Cowboys led 10-3 after Tony Dorsett ran 13 yards for a score. It was then that Flores decided to go to his bullpen.

Plunkett threw touchdown passes of 20 and 40 yards to Dokie Williams as the Raiders' victimized young Steve Pelluer, who was starting in place of the injured Danny White.

The Raiders intercepted him five times and sacked him six times. The five interceptions tied a Dallas club record held by White and Eddie LeBaron.

Flores said Plunkett, who led the Raiders to two Super Bowl championships, still amazes him in his twilight NFL years.

"Jim is a remarkable guy," Flores said. "He has the experience and confidence to come in during tough situations. That's one of his strong points. He's able to come in and do the job."

Dorsett, who passed O.J. Simpson for fifth place on the NFL all-time rushing list, said; "We just played Santa Claus out there. It's been that way the last two weeks."

Dorsett gained 101 yards on 22 carries for a total of 11,282 yards - 56 more than Simpson.

"I never dreamed when I left college I'd do that," Dorsett said. "I have a lot of respect for O.J. Simpson."

Plunkett, meanwhile, heaped his praise on Williams.

"Dokie made two tremendous catches," Plunkett said. "The last one could have very easily been intercepted, but he just outjumped the Cowboys. Good receivers make a quarterback look good."

The game was more than Dallas Coach Tom Landry could stomach.

The Cowboys had two touchdowns called back by penalties and Herschel Walker fumbled the ball away another time on the Raiders' 1-yard line.

"We beat ourselves," Landry said. "We had two touchdowns called back by penalty. It's simple."

But Landry defended Pelluer, saying, "I don't think he lost his poise. He just had some passes he wished he had back. I think any young quarterback will have games like this. He's an excellent prospect and will overcome this game."

Both the Raiders and Cowboys have 6-4 records and trail the leaders in their respective divisions by two games. Los Angeles is two games behind Denver in the AFC West while Dallas trails Washington and the New York Giants by two games in the NFC East.

Aggies solid in driver's seat as Arkansas tumbles to Bears

by The Associated Press

The 1987 Cotton Bowl is beginning to take on a maroon-and-white hue.

The defending champion Texas A&M Aggies have a two-game lead with three to play, including a 2:30 p.m. regionally televised (ABC) meeting with the deflated Arkansas Razorbacks on Saturday in Little Rock.

Thanks to Baylor's 29-14 victory over the 10th-ranked Arkansas Razorbacks on Saturday, the Aggies are sitting pretty.

"There's no way in the world anybody can catch the Aggies now," said Baylor Coach Grant Teaff.

A&M has games remaining against Arkansas, Texas Christian and Texas on Thanksgiving night.

"I guess you could say there is still a mathematical chance, but that's about it," Teaff said. "The Aggies are back again."

While A&M rested, they watched Baylor's come-from-behind victory on television. Arkansas Coach Ken Hatfield said it was one of the toughest losses he's had.

"We're hurt as bad as we've ever been hurt before," Hatfield said. "It was a tough loss emotionally for our team and all of Arkansas. We didn't accomplish our mission of coming down here and winning to give us a chance to get to the Cotton Bowl.

"Now, everyone in the league has at least two defeats except Texas A&M. They still have three league gqames left to play, but they are playing very well. It will be difficult for us to still have a chance for the Cotton Bowl but it isn't impossible yet."

Texas A&M is 5-0 in SWC play.

Other teams with two league losses include Texas Tech, Texas and Southern Methodist. SMU isn't eligible for title consideration.

In other SWC games on Saturday, Texas downed Houston 30-10 and Texas Tech whipped Texas Christian 36-14 to keep alive its bowl hopes.

Southern Methodist was humiliated on the non-conference front, falling 61-29 to Notre Dame in South Bend, Ind. It was SMU's worst whipping in 70 years.

The SWC finished the year 15-11 against outside competition.

Baylor was all but assured a bowl bid, and the Bluebonnet, Independence, Freedom and Sun Bowls are courting the team.

"I sure hope Baylor comes to Houston on New Year's Eve," said Ted Nance, the Bluebonnet Bowl's executive director. "We would sure like to have 'em."

"There's no question we'll be in a bowl now," Teaff said. "We'll just have to wait and see what happens."

Bowl bids can't go out until Nov. 22 and the Red Raiders may get one. They are 6-3 and assured their first winning season since 1978.

"Our defense did just a great job against TCU," said Tech Coach David McWilliams.

Bowl picture is shaping up

by The Associated Press

The top-ranked Miami Hurricanes apparently will determine the site of any national championship shootout with runner-up Penn State.

Informed sources have quoted one of the top people in Penn State's athletic department as saying, "The ball is in Miami's court. Wherever they go, we go."

That will have to be either the Fiesta Bowl in Tempe, Ariz.; the Florida Citrus Bowl in Orlando, Fla., or the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla. Because of conference tie-ups, a Miami-Penn State showdown cannot take place in the Cotton, Orange, Sugar or Rose Bowls.

The Fiesta, Florida Citrus and Gator Bowls all say they will be able to offer the same money as the Cotton, Orange or Sugar - i.e., $2.5 million-2.6 million.

But only the Fiesta has the money in the bank thanks to a recent agreement with Sunkist, its corporate sponsor. The package would include travel and hotel costs.

The Citrus Bowl reportedly is asking permission from television advertisers to up the rate for a 30-second spot from $40,000 to $75,000 while the Gator Bowl's package is said to include 80 free hotel rooms for each team for a week but is dependent on Mazda buying additional TV spots during the game. Mazda had been rumored as the Gator Bowl's corporate sponsor.

Miami would prefer to play in the state of Florida for the home-field advantage. Penn State's preference apparently is the Fiesta Bowl.

Both teams are 9-0 after Miami downed Pitt 37-10 Saturday while Penn State edged Maryland 17-15. Miami has home games with Tulsa, 7-3, on Nov. 15 and East Carolina, 1-8, on Nov. 27. Penn State visits Notre Dame, 4-4, next Saturday and plays Pitt, 4-4-1, at home on Nov. 22, the official bowl selection date.

"If all things were equal, we definitely would like to play in the Orange Bowl," Miami Athletic Director Sam Jankovich told The Associated Press. "That's our community, that's where our fans would be and it would be a very good thing for our program."

However, the Orange Bowl host team is the Big Eight champion, which kills any chance of a Miami-Penn State game there.

Don Meyers, chairman of the Fiesta Bowl's selection committee, said Penn State "has expressed a preference to play on a neutral field outside of Florida, and the only one that's really available to them is the Fiesta Bowl."

Since the AP adopted a post-bowl poll in 1968, only twice has the national champion not come out of the Cotton, Orange, Rose or Sugar Bowls - in 1974, when Oklahoma was on probation and couldn't play in a bowl, and 1984, when Brigham Young completed a 13-0 season in the Holiday Bowl as Western Athletic Conference champs.

HAS THIS EVER HAPPENED TO YOU?

Auto Accident?

Even a minor fender-bender can cause whiplash, spinal misalignment, pinched nerves, and muscle spasms, which, if undetected and uncorrected, can make your body susceptible to arthritis, joint degeneration, disc degeneration or other serious problems.

Most Insurance Plans Cover Chiropractic.

Following any auto accident, no matter how minor, it is important — and makes good common sense — to get a chiropractic checkup.

We offer free consultation and spinal function test. If x-rays and treatment are indicated, automobile, liability, no-fault, and/or group health insurance usually cover the costs in full.

010 LEGAL NOTICES

TO ALL INTERESTED PERSONS AND PARTIES:
You are hereby notified of the opportunity for written public comment concerning the Emission Permit Applications Nos. R-5037A and PSD-TX-702 by Mobil Producing Texas & New Mexico, Inc. for the increase of Sulphur Dioxide emissions in Kent County, Texas. The emission source, which is a gas processing facility, is located approximately eight and one-half miles northwest of Clairemont, Texas; or the northeast corner of section 166, Block G, W. & N.W. RR. Co. Survey. The Executive Director of the Texas Air Control Board has made the preliminary determination to issue this permit. Before a permit can be issued, the source must demonstrate compliance with all Rules and Regulations of the Texas Air Control Board and all applicable Federal Regulations. This includes the application of the "best available control technology" to the emission source and compliance with all ambient air quality standards.
A copy of all materials submitted by the applicant is available for public inspection at the Texas Air Control Board Abilene Regional Office at 1290 South Willis, Suite 205, Abilene, Texas 79605, telephone (915) 698-9674, and at the Texas Air Control Board, 6330 Highway 290 East, Austin, Texas 78723, telephone (512) 451-5711. All interested persons may inspect these materials and submit written comments to the Executive Director of the Texas Air Control Board. Any person who may be affected by Sulphur Dioxide emissions from the source may request a hearing from the Board. All comments received in writing by December 11, 1986 shall be considered by the Board in making its decision on the applications. All comments will be made available for public inspection at the Texas Air Control Board Office in Austin.

Common Market approves sanctions

LONDON (AP) — The Common Market today agreed to impose sanctions against Syria, including an arms embargo, in support of Britain's charge that Syria sponsored terrorism, officials said.

The officials, briefing reporters on condition of anonymity, said in an apparent reference to Greece that one of the 12 nations in the group could not associate itself with the foreign ministers' statement, but would implement the four sanctions agreed against Syria.

Apart from the arms ban, the Common Market agreed to suspend exchange visits by high-level officials and to tighten surveillance of Syrian embassies and of Syrian Arab Airlines operations.

Suspect found in assault case

Police jailed a suspect in a sexual assault case Saturday, an incident involving a 14-year-old girl and reported Friday.

Arrested Saturday evening was David Guerra Jr., 20, of 307 N Ave. Y. He is charged in connection with an incident which reportedly occurred at a west Snyder residence Nov. 1.

Guerra remained in Scurry County Jail Monday morning in lieu of bond set at $20,000.

Officers jailed one local man on a misdemeanor charge of reckless conduct Sunday evening following a family disturbance.

Other weekend misdemeanor arrests included two individuals charged with public intoxication, two charged with driving while intoxicated and two charged with soliciting without a permit.

One local man was also arrested for disorderly conduct Saturday night.

Weekend has only 1 wreck

A single minor traffic accident was reported in Snyder Saturday.

Involved in the 11:49 a.m. mishap in the 800 Block of 25th St. were a 1975 Buick driven by Stephanie Lynn Jenkins of 2604 25th St. and a 1982 Ford driven by Mary Ellen McCarter of Rt. 2, Snyder.

No injuries were reported from the incident.

Obituaries

Ethel Stewart

Services for Ethel Stewart, 74, of Snyder will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday at Bell-Cypert-Seale Chapel with the Rev. L. W. "Buck" Hatfield, pastor of Faith Baptist Church, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Donnie Blacklock of Fluvanna. Burial will follow in Hillside Memorial Gardens.

She died at 6:10 p.m. Saturday at St. Mary's Hospital in Lubbock. She was born March 29, 1912 in McGregor, Tex. She was a member of Faith Baptist Church. She was married to Robert Stewart Jan. 28, 1933 in McCulloch County, Tex. He survives.

She is survived by four daughters, Linda Treadway, Betty Zajicek, Pat Jones and Brenda Hancock, all of Snyder; two sons, Kenneth of Irving and Robert Jerry of Victoria; 17 grandchildren; 13 great-grandchildren; two sisters, Eunice Godfrey of Odessa and Sally Stewart of Brady; two brothers, Dee Cox of Grady and Jody Cox of Odessa.

Animals en route to Taiwan zoo

GRAND PRAIRIE, Texas (AP) — Noah used an ark, but the people who are supplying a new zoo in Taiwan are using airplanes to transport giraffes, elephants, chimpanzees, zebras and other animals.

About twice a week, a special flight of 747s from China Air leaves Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport with some of what eventually will be 1,000 animals to be sent to Taiwan.

The new 400-acre Taipei City Zoo in Taiwan is expected to open in January. Total cost of the zoo, including purchase and transportation of animals, is estimated at $100 million.

The animals are being supplied by the International Animal Exchange of Michigan. It is one of the world's largest suppliers of exotic animals. The airlifts of the animals will take about three months and is about half complete.

The animals stay at the International Wildlife Park in Grand Prairie, owned by the International Animal Exchange, before the final leg of their journey, which is 15,000 miles and takes 24 hours.

Work on the various crates, boxes and other contraptions being used to transport the animals began five months ago.

"The crates were all custom-made to suit specific animals," said Ray Sutton, wildlife director at the Grand Prairie park. "Some will try to turn inside the crate and will require more room. But others are somewhat more nervous, and we want to confine their movements so they won't injure themselves."

Zebras don't travel well alone and must be shipped with other animals.

The duiker, an African antelope, was given a padded roof and special carpet so it would not slip during the journey.

Sarus cranes tend to jump straight up inside a container and need a fabric roof to prevent their bumping their heads. Rhinos, hippos and elephants are so strong that they need to be caged in steel pipes or iron slats.

A 10-foot-tall giraffe has a crate with a telescopic top.

To ease the transition, many of the animals are allowed to get used to their crates before being shipped, Sutton said. Most of them are fed before the trip, and they are fed again at a stopover in Anchorage.

About 80 percent of the animals are coming from other zoos in the United states, said Mickey Hunt, director of the International Wildlife Park.

"Twenty years ago, a contract like this would have required 50 percent of them to come out of the wild," Hunt said. "Today, about 50 percent of the work is done on paper."

Fingertips' glow said clue to aura

AUSTIN (AP) — A person's fingertips reveal color-coded tips about his physical and psychological health, says a Dallas psychic who has studied a photographic technique that he contends could have far-reaching benefits.

During a psychic's fair over the weekend, Wynn Gardner demonstrated his technique, photographing fingertips pressed against a film plate in a specially built box called a Kirlian camera.

As the picture is being taken, an electrical charge is passed through the body. The person does not feel anything, but when the film is developed, Gardner said, it shows a circle for each finger surrounded by colors that differ from person to person.

Interpreters like Gardner call the color image the aura, or energy field, and the colors and patterns are said to reflect the inner workings of the body and mind.

To interpreters, red means the person is anxious, blue indicates intelligence and violet is a spiritual color.

Taking pictures of people's fingertips, interpreting what the colors and patterns mean, and solving the mysteries of aura involve both the scientific and the non-scientific, Gardner said.

"I want to be able to bridge the gap between science and spirit," said Gardner, who works in his family's wallpaper and interior design business and does Kirlian photography on the side.

Gardner said Kirlian photography is named for a Russian couple who came up with the process in 1939. The couple cut off a piece of a leaf and photographed the remainder of the leaf. The image on the film showed the outline of the missing part, he said.

The phenomenon means that there is at least one energy field given off by all living things, Gardner said.

Kirlian photography has many practical applications, if universities and the scientific community would devote research to it, Gardner said. Kirlian photography has been studied in the United States only since the 1970s, he said.

Doctors have used Kirlian photography in working with amputees, he said.

"They see the extended energy field to see where it (a limb) used to be, and they say, 'I'm still whole,'" Gardner said. "Psychologically, it does wonders."

Busy session slated for board in January

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Board of Education has committed itself to a busy session on controversial school issues in January, when a new Legislature will be meeting and a new governor inaugurated.

On Saturday, the board sidestepped until January a final decision on a new University Interscholastic League rule allowing girls to play junior high school football.

Earlier, the board decided to hold a special meeting, probably in January, over possible changes in the no pass, no play rule that benches athletes for six weeks if they fail any classroom subject.

The board also put off until January a final decision on a master plan for vocational education in Texas, an issue that has been pending since the 1984 school reform act.

Chairman Jon Brumley said the board or a board committee would review the no pass, no play rule, probably at its January meeting, and set a public hearing, possibly in February.

A committee chaired by board member Jack Strong voted 4-0 Friday to allow girls on junior high football teams. Under school reform legislation, the state board must approve all UIL policy changes. The UIL rule change does not apply to a ban on girls playing high school football.

The topic came up this year after Tina Trejo of Austin went to court to challenge a UIL rule barring girls from football. Miss Trejo, who was allowed to play during court consideration of her suit, won her point.

"The law is relatively clear," Strong said. "The legal grounds are not with us."

But several members of the board said Saturday they wanted to have an executive session to talk with the board's attorneys before making a decision.

The board also adopted new rules Saturday to reduce paperwork in the classroom resulting from passage of a bill during the recent special legislative session.

Effective immediately, teacher paperwork requirements are limited to reports of student grades, textbook reports, unit or weekly lesson plans, attendance, reports required for accreditation review and other reports or paperwork required by law.

The board asked school districts to shift as many reports as possible to non-instructional staff.

In adopting testbooks for the next school year, the board rejected by a 13-0 vote Saturday the book "Modern Health" published by Holt, Rinehart and Winston.

This may sound a little odd but one of the ancestors of the great race horse Man o'War was named Cinderella.

Trainer Robert Walden saddled a record seven winners of the Preakness Stakes and five of them were consecutive.

A horse named Survivor won the first Preakness Stakes in 1873 by 10 lengths, and it's still the greatest margin of victory.

Archduke Ferdinand Maximilian of Austria-Hungary landed in 1864 in Vera Cruz, Mexico, to become emperor.
