SHEPPARD SUPPORTS OIL TARIFF

HOME TOWN TALK

By Beddy

All right, here we are, a good letter from a local grocer in reply to that of Mr. C. A. Barton, which was reproduced in this column last Sunday.

To the Herald:

In your issue of February 16 there appeared an article by one C. A. Barton, who attempted to make some comparisons in prices of groceries here and elsewhere. Mr. Barton attempts to sow seeds of discontent and dissatisfaction so as to have a fertile field for operation of a 25-cent store if they could be established in this community. The public will recall that the A & P chain of grocery stores is perhaps the largest of its kind operating in the United States.

Speaking for White House No. 1 I wish to say that on the day previous to the day Mr. Barton's letter appeared in The Herald, we were selling hams, advertised in The Herald, too, at 32 cents per pound half or whole, as against 40 cents per pound which he represented and pork steak, which is considered the best and most expensive cut of pork has never brought more than 35 cents per pound here. There are other erroneous and misleading statements in this article. To say you can buy two articles for a quarter at one place and that you can buy three articles of the same size and kind at another place or rather in another city does not get down to the basic fact of a consideration of quality and weight. Besides, there is no law against a merchant selling an item at cost or less than cost. This method of merchandising is often resorted to by a store in order to get people into its place of business so that the storekeeper may at least have an opportunity of getting back what he lost on his "special."

Speaking for myself and I believe for every person in Big Spring, who sells any kind of food products, I did not want to let this unfair, unjust and unreasonable statement of this alleged representative of the largest grocery chain store in this country go unchallenged, and I invite anyone to compare a list of from 15 to 25 items sold in a grocery store in Big Spring with the same number, kind and quality, size and weight sold elsewhere. We are not afraid then of being called robbers by you, after you have given the matter an unbiased and a fair investigation.

The people of this community are fair and they do not object to any merchant making a reasonable profit. That is an reasonable proposition as to say that we believe in good wages for the people who work, and we do heartily subscribe to the latter statement.

Finally, we call to your attention the fact that now, as far as we are able to know, Big Spring grocery stores, bakeries, etc., belong to and are operated by and for Big Spring people—people who have their homes here and who support every home institution that promotes the progress and prosperity of this county, so that if we make any money here it stays here, and these things are worth considering and will be considered when you spend your money for any kind of merchandise.

(Signed) J. E. PICKLE.

STATEMENT CITES FIGHT BY TEXANS

"More Than Tariff Fight," Declares Senator

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—Senator Sheppard, Democrat, Texas, announced today he would support duties on oil and gasoline.

He said in a formal statement the "interests of the consumer demands that the independents be preserved."

The fight of independent oil producers, Sheppard added, is more than a "tariff fight."

"It is the fight," he added, "of the smaller business units against the larger, the fight that is taking place in almost every branch of American business and industry, a fight which must be won by the smaller units if the country is to be saved from economic domination by the few. It is a fight to preserve competition and repress monopoly."

The independents are asking as a measure of self-defense and self-preservation merely for a tariff on oil and gasoline which will equal the difference in production costs here and abroad, a competitive tariff such as is advocated by the last national democratic platform.

"Last year Texas led the union in the production of crude oil, producing over 300,000,000 barrels. This industry has been one of the most vital factors in the growth of Texas in the last decade."

DECISION IS ANNOUNCED BY OFFICIAL

Magnolia To Deliver Ector Oil To Local Plant

COSDEN OIL COMPANY WILL ENLARGE ITS CRUDE OIL REFINING PLANT IN BIG SPRING TO POSSIBLY DOUBLE ITS PRESENT CAPACITY WHICH IS 16,000 BARRELS DAILY, ACCORDING TO INFORMATION RECEIVED FROM STANLEY COSDEN, SUPERINTENDENT OF THE REFINERY LOCATED FOUR MILES EAST OF BIG SPRING ON THE BANKHEAD HIGHWAY.

"DECISION TO EXPAND THE REFINERY HAS BEEN DEFINITELY REACHED, BUT DETAILS OF THE ARRANGEMENTS AND EXACT ADDITIONS TO BE MADE TO PRESENT EQUIPMENT HAVE NOT BEEN CONCLUSIVELY DECIDED, MR. COSDEN SAID. IT WAS NOT INDICATED WHEN THE EX-FERSON PROGRAM WILL START IN THE CONVERSATION WITH THE REFINERY SUPERINTENDENT."

NEW PIPELINE

In addition to announcement that Cosden's refinery in Big Spring will be enlarged, it was definitely stated that arrangements with Magnolia Pipe Line Company's Ector county production into southern Howard county where Cosden Pipe Line Company's carrier will be used in directing the crude into the refining plant.

Magnolia's pipe line office in Odessa reported that the deal with Cosden had not been definitely closed so far as information at Odessa is concerned. However, it was stated that the deal may have been closed at Magnolia headquarters in Dallas and not reported at the present time in Odessa.

Magnolia's trunk line across West Texas crosses Ector county about ten miles north of Cosden. Oil Company's producing leases on University land in sections 1 and 2 in block 33. Magnolia officials admitted that survey for the ten-mile extension line from its main carrier into the new Judkins pool of Ector county has been surveyed. However, no indication when actual work will start was obtained.

Cosden Oil Company has two producing wells in Ector county capable of producing approximately 2,000 barrels daily open flow.

AGGRESSIVE UTTERANCE NOT MADE

Elective Commission For Highways Favored

AUSTIN, Feb. 20. (AP)—Former Governor James E. Ferguson, husband of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, Texas' first woman governor, is back in the fray. He is ambitious to be governor of Texas again and has announced his candidacy subject to the Democratic primaries next July.

There immediately pops up the question: Will he be able to get his name on the ballot?

"Amnesty"

It is recalled he was removed from office in 1917 and that under the constitution impeachment carried with it "disqualification from holding any office of honor, trust or profit."

But the 30th legislature passed what is known as the "amnesty bill," directing that the inhibition with reference to holding office again be removed from those who have heretofore been impeached, and the sponsors of that piece of legislation had former Governor Ferguson in mind when they proposed it.

Then along came the 40th legislature and Governor Moody. The "amnesty law" was repealed. But friends of the former governor declared that once the legislative body had invoked its power of pardon in that respect another legislature could not undo it.

A pretty law question probably that will be threshed out by the Appellate courts if there is any contention over the matter of giving "Farmer Jim," as he became known during his first term as chief executive, a place on the ballot.

That question came up in 1924 and to get around it Governor Ferguson filed both his name and Mrs. Ferguson's for a place on the ballot. They turned him down, but put Mrs. Ferguson's on. He took to the hustings and Mrs. Ferguson was elected. She served one term, or until Attorney General Dan Moody stepped out and defeated her for re-election.

Not Aggressive?

But the Ferguson of today, if his latest announcement is to be taken as an indication, is not the aggressive Ferguson of yesterday, as one may judge by the tenor of this extract from his formal announcement:

"If there be those who may find satisfaction in personal abuse and vicious criticism of me or my record let them be at once advised that they will have the field all to themselves without murmur or protest from me. I have long since made my peace with God and I shall not now permit the heat of politics to engulf me in personal hatred."

Since his removal from office Ferguson had been a candidate for United States Senator. Also, he had organized in Texas a party of his own, called the American Party, and ran for President as its nominee.

Moody Again?

Entry of Governor Ferguson into the already crowded gubernatorial race has revived speculation as to political plans Governor Moody. Some believe Ferguson's candidacy will force him out for a third term. Many had predicted that Mr. Moody would head-hunting station for 1930.

TOMBSTONE FOUND IN SUBWAY

Digging for a new subway in New York, workmen came across a buried tombstone, 125 years old, which was erected in memory of Ann and Mary Barclay, 3 and 5, who died in 1775 and 1776, respectively. The stone bears the epitaph: "You that have tried terrestrial joys and here can find no rest, come follow me, you'll find it true, to be with Christ is best."

TESTIMONY OF AUDITOR IS DETAILED

$18,247 Not Properly Accounted For, He Says

AUSTIN, Feb. 20. (AP)—State Auditor Moore Lynn testified before the House today that State Comptroller S. H. Terrell had not accounted properly for $18,247.76 which had been withdrawn from two Austin banks and which it has been charged was misappropriated and fraudulently converted to the comptroller's personal use.

State Comptroller S. H. Terrell, who was impeached before the house with a bare majority in attendance.

Not included in this amount were two items of $600 each, which had been deposited by Terrell in a "special" account in the American National bank on August 12, 1928, and July 18, 1929. Lynn said, presenting photostatic copies of state warrants covering these amounts drawn by the comptroller on the state treasury, representing that they were for postage. They were indorsed by Terrell and bore a notation "for deposit."

Another item included in the report filed by an auditor privately employed by Terrell to check his department revealed a total of $12,288.19 state funds unaccounted for.

"I said that his report and the report of Terrell's auditor virtually checked, except that Terrell's auditor considered certain items accounted for and he (Lynn) did not accept them, as satisfactorily explained."

He declared he had found that Terrell's auditor accounted for $5,300 which had been paid into the treasury since he (Lynn) had completed and released his report to the legislature.

CITY FACES DAMAGES IN COURT CASE

L. B. Stone Complains Of Flood Water Control at 10th-Main

City officials and their attorneys were again fighting against a damage suit filed in district court Thursday morning in which Leland B. Stone, proprietor of the Stone Variety Store, alleges that gross negligence by the city in failing to properly direct storm waters in the vicinity of Tenth and Main streets caused damage to his property at that location in the sum of $4,255.50.

The plaintiff, Mr. Stone, was the only witness to testify Thursday morning. Just as Mr. Stone was turned over to defense counsel for cross examination, Fritz R. Smith, district judge, recessed court until 1:15 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Stone testified that his property, which includes a 75 by 100 feet lot on which is constructed one two-story apartment house facing Main and a duplex-house facing Tenth street, was valued at $8,000 prior to the time flood waters damaged his premises.

During the direct questioning, Mr. Stone told of merchandise stored in one of his garages that was damaged by flood waters and stated that his property was valued at $4,000. When plaintiff's counsel asked if he knew the value of property now after alleged damages have been done, Mr. Stone replied that he is not sure to which answer his counsel said, "Sir," but the witness repeated that he was not sure.

The plaintiff further testified that prior to the time Scurry street was paved and prior to the time an embankment was erected on the south side of Tenth street, his property was not subject to damage by flood waters. He testified that no flood waters reached his property until the pavement was laid on Scurry street. In his petition to the court, Mr. Stone alleges that the city changed the drainage system when Scurry street was paved and in so changing the grade of the street forced the course of flood waters across his property.

In defendant's answer to the complaint, it is stated that the city is not liable for the damages.

YOUTH HURT IN CRASH ON BANK HEAD

Le Roy Moxin, 16, with whose father The Herald has a contract for delivery of papers to Coahoma and Stanton, suffered a serious injury to his left ankle about 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon when the motorcycle on which he was riding crashed into an automobile on the east Bankhead highway near the Cosden Oil Company refinery.

Immediately after the accident occurred physicians at a local hospital where the injured boy was taken expressed doubt his foot could be saved, but at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon circulation thru the injured foot had been at least partially restored and hopes for complete recovery were expressed by hospital attendants.

Young Moxin never lost consciousness from the shock, but watched calmly while his foot was disengaged from the fender of an automobile into which his ill-fated machine crashed. He told a coherent story of how the accident occurred from his hospital bed.

"I was turning the corner near the refinery and as I straightened the machine and headed directly west, the lowering sun blinded me momentarily and the next thing I knew I had crashed into the car."

The boy is a freshman in Big Spring high school. His father L. Moxin is employed at the jewelry store of A. R. Wood on East Second street. The family resides at 605 Lancaster street.

W. R. PURSER DECLARES FOR ALL THREE CITY BOND ISSUES

W. R. Purser, former mayor of Big Spring and a man who has long been connected with public affairs of the county, city and schools, has submitted a letter explaining his position on the bond election which will be held in Big Spring March 6. Mr. Purser was admittedly a strong opponent of the bond issue that was defeated in Big Spring November 12, 1929.

The letter follows without comment and without changes. It is printed as written under signature of W. R. Purser:

TO MY FRIENDS:

"It has been told by someone that I am fighting the bond propositions that are to be voted upon March 6, 1930, and I take this method of saying that such a report is not true. I have investigated the contemplated improvements and approve of their plans and I am for each and every issue and ask that my friends give them careful consideration.

"I have always been willing to treat my friends and neighbors as I would have them treat me. I have sewerage service and have plenty of water, and my friends and neighbors have been, and are now, helping me pay for such conveniences and they do not have such conveniences; therefore, I think it would be right and fair for me to assist them in securing the conveniences that I now have and assist in the payment thereof, the same as they have in the past assisted in paying for the conveniences that I have. I feel this is my duty.

"Our present sewer system is far too small for a town of this size and is far too small for the greater Big Spring that we are going to build if we all work together.

"If the health of our town is protected, we must have a more adequate sewer system. Nearly 60 percent of our citizens are without sewerage connections—especially in this true in the additions of our town—Jones Valley, Fairview Heights, Edwards Heights, Collins Heights, Washington Place, Cole & Strayhorn, and most of McDowell Heights are without any sewerage whatever and if we do not take timely steps to correct this

WHAT'S YOUR HOBBY?

Every boy and girl attending the Big Spring High School should have a hobby. A hobby keeps one interested, and proves diversion for many when they are tired of every thing else.

Some of things that boys and girls find most interest in during high school days are athletics, reading good books, declamation, debating, music, glee club work, and other forms of activity connected with the school. These things, along with the routine of classes, and duties at home, or work in town, help make the days brighter, and life worth living.

At times you feel bored, and restless, and it seems that you are not having as good a time as some of the other boys and girls, you know, stop and consider why you like you are. Consider what you do to make you enjoy your self. Are you reading good books? Are you playing tennis, basketball, golf? Are you taking part in plays, contests, and programs sponsored by the school? Are you enjoying the association of the right kind of companions? Are you going kindnesses for others that will not hurt you, but be helpful to them? Do some of these things. Make up your mind to find some worthwhile interest, outside of your every day living, that will improve you, and will be a source of happiness to you.

High School Girl's Diary

Sunday night, Feb. 16: Gave them a break today and went to Sunday School because I knew Bill Gordon would be there. Had a date with Sloppy tonight. He promised to send a wreath to my funeral if Leahna Rose found out about it. (Don't you love that). I sure enjoy making these F. U. N. girls jealous of me, but Cora got one over on me because she didn't even stop speaking to me when I had a date with Joe. O Well. I'm not very foxy about him anyway.

Monday night, Feb. 17: Made a wise crack at Mrs. Low in short-hand class today and got kicked out. No one asked me for a date for tonight, so I followed Louise Hays' example and asked Gerald Liberty if he'd give me a break and take me to the show. We had a ducky time.

Friday night, Feb. 18: I wish I were a blonde. They get all the breaks, look at Edna Mae Cochran—Boy, she's sure some go-getter. Got two boys crazy about her. (Don't you love that). I wonder how she developed that personal magnetism. Here I have been reading books on "How to get and hold your man" for two years and I've got several but haven't held any. I had Robert Kidwell jump telephone poles for me for a while but he passes me up now. Only one guy asked me for a date tonight and he is so conceited I decided to make him beg awhile before I would go. I am going I think though for Sunbeam is a good kid.

Sport Review

By CURT BISHOP
Basketball season has passed on. With it went the dreams of a district title that we had cherished so tenderly. For the first time in history Big Spring ruled as one of the pre-season favorites in this section of the country. Yet last year's record was not even excelled.

But it was not the fault of any one man. We could cite as an alibi that of the eight men who appeared in the clash with Snyder five were bandaged. Phillips and Smith were injured in their right arm. Edwards leg was notoriously bad. Pardue was suffering from a nasty cut over his eye, and Bell nursed a tender knee. The first string of the Steers was laid up with injuries.

Not a word of them appeared in any newspaper. The basketballers from Big Spring High were almost unable to a man to enter any sort of a tournament. No signs of distress were sent out by Coach Stevens before the first game. It was the worst break of season that had been filled with bad breaks.

Soon track will occupy the time of the ambitious youngsters. One man, Edwards, is of all-district caliber. He is one of the versatile track men in West Texas. In 1928 he ran the half-mile, the mile, and high jumped. Last year he performed in the low hurdles, high jumps, and the high jump as well as taking a turn or two in the dashes. A distance man one year and a sprinter the next. And placing all of the time.

From the track squad of last year a great many have returned. Captain Jones was the victim of an unfortunate accident. The little sprinter, who on his good days could run the century in close to ten flat, and on others made it in around ten-five will be hard to replace. Phillips may come in and usurp his place but he will hardly equal the record Jones set in the county meet last year of ten flat.

Rieburg, who runs the half mile, lettered last year. He is still a Freshman. Neel is back for his third year of vaulting. The little blonde-haired sensation of four years ago, when as a four-foot four youngster he won the senior title in both the pole vault and the high jump may do something this season. Last year he cleared around ten feet. Glover can run the four forty and toss a discus. Morrison is also a four forty man who runs with Edwards in the hurdles. Add to these such prospects as will doubtless appear and Big Spring seems destined to go a little farther than usual in the district track meet this year.

THE BASEBALL PLAYERS' PRAYER

Lord, help me to play the game. It matters not to you whether I am talented or poor in natural gifts; wealthy or starving; a leader among men or a simple follower, first so that I play the game as you would have it played. Help me to keep my eye on the ball, that the curves of temptation not deceive me. Keep my feet in the paths of righteousness, that I may touch second and third on my way around the bases. Help me to beat out my bunts, and hold me that I stray not too far from base when the catcher is ready to peg me. Count not foul balls against me, for the batting eye sometimes goes wrong, though the intention is right. Help me in the pinches, because a good bingle might bring my brother home. Let not the music of the fans keep my eye from the ball nor the enticements of the slabanman draw away from the need of a clean single with a man on second. Help me to bat over 300, because my eyes are on the big league for eternity even while I sojourn here among the bush-leaguers.

Friday night, Feb. 17: Made a wise crack at Mrs. Low in short-hand class today and got kicked out. No one asked me for a date for tonight, so I followed Louise Hays' example and asked Gerald Liberty if he'd give me a break and take me to the show. We had a ducky time.

Razors And Checks

John Jones wrote the following to a business firm:
Dear Sirs:
Please find enclosed five dollars ($5) for one of your razors as advertised, and oblige.

JOHN JONES.
P. S. I forgot to enclose the five dollars, but no doubt a firm of your standing will send the razor anyhow.

The firm received the letter and replied:
Dear Sir:
Your valued order was received this day and we will say in reply that we are sending the razor as per request, and we hope that it will prove satisfactory as advertised.

P. S. We forgot to enclose the razor but no doubt a man of your check will have no need of it.

of Buster Bell, in football Mr. Norman placed him on his first team while we thought little of him in comparison with our guardian writer, since the Herald is the guardian of the Wheel. In basketball we judged Bell easily the best man on the Big Spring roster while Mr. Norman accorded him only honorable mention.

And strange to say the conditions under which Bell played were reversed. In football he was the man who received the glory of scoring points while Pardue and Edwards cleared the paths for him. On the court it was Bell who bore the brunt of the defense while Edwards, Pardue, and Hutto received the glory of making goals.

C. Bishop Going To Speakers' Meet

Big Spring will send a lone entry to San Angelo to enter the invitation public speaking meet sponsored by that city under the auspices of the National Forensic League. At first it was intended that the debating society would attend in a body but later it was decided that all entries must be voluntary. Curtis Bishop, an extemporaneous speaker and debator, is the only one who will go to San Angelo.

A dual meet with Abilene, ancient rival of the Big Spring student body, is on the program at an early date. The practice of meeting the best schools in the district in dual meets is a new one that has begun only with the directorship of Miss Kitty Wingo. This year the local debaters have met Stanton and Colorado and attended a dual tournament at that city. The dual meets were a tie with Big Spring downing Stanton and losing Colorado while the speakers broke even in Colorado.

The inauguration of extemporaneous speaking into tournaments gives Big Spring an added advantage since they have in Curtis Bishop one of the best in this part of the state. It will be Curtis' fourth year of competition in this line and he has only been beaten in a district meet once, coming in second then. A request has been made that he be allowed to enter debating also and if this is granted he will compete in company with Tom Jordan.

This tournament will be held in San Angelo February 28.

Campus Chatter

Sights at noon; its freshmen week and all the seniors are armed with paddles and all the almas are scurrying for safety. The F. U. N. club have initiated a new member and surprised everyone by their selection to fill a vacancy for Mary Petty doesn't have much to say—perhaps that's why Veda Robinson and Gene Dobbyer like her so much—she doesn't try to out talk them like the rest of the F. U. N. bunch does. For they're all like Polly Webb... little but loud... if she doesn't try to steal Luther Glover, Joe Faucett, or Cecil Neel she may be president of that organization someday. They need a silent president! If you don't believe it listen to the ones they've got for an hour or so. The B association is initiating members again. They employed the old stunt of branding them. Horace Hargrove has tried vinegar, acid, kerosene, and engine and now reports they did a good job.

The latest in bright cracks is the account of how a drunk man congratulated Mr. Matthews upon his band's playing during the recent basketball tournament. They were pounding away on Peruna. The intoxicated individual staggered over and addressed the Math prof, who wears, you know, the sweater with conductor written on it. "This is a pretty good band," he hiccupped, "but if you'd teach them to carry a tune they'd do better."

Pauling Melton is suffering from an injured foot.

Tournament Held At B.S.H.S.

Big Spring was host to basketball teams from various high schools in this district last Friday and Saturday, at which time they came to participate in the basketball tournament to decide the finalist for district championship. The games were played in the high school gymnasium, the opening game starting Friday afternoon, with Colorado playing Roby. The latter team was defeated. Snyder's quintet met the Big Spring Steers Friday evening and Big Spring went down in defeat. Saturday Divide played Odessa and defeated her. Colorado and Snyder player, Colorado coming out on top. Then Divide met Colorado, to determine the championship team, Colorado coming out victorious.

Big Spring questioned eligibility of Burdine, a member of the Snyder quintet, and in consequence Snyder protested the entire basketball tournament. Snyder holds that when ineligibility charges were filed against Burdine, it broke the morale of the Snyder team, and it could not play their best during the Colorado-Snyder contest.

The grievances filed were under discussion at a meeting held in Abilene Wednesday afternoon. George Gentry, principal and Bill Stevens, coach, represented Big Spring at this meeting.

Simmons University Cowboy Band Will Tour Europe

MUSICIANS' FAME NOW WIDESPREAD

BY NELSON L. HUTTO

Less than five years ago a college band went to a small West Texas town to fill a concert engagement. Thirty boys, riding on boards in a truck, reached the place about an hour before sundown and began preparations for the performance. They hoped to play before a big crowd in the one-story, wooden, dirt-floored structure that was dignified by the name "City Auditorium."

Suppers were eaten, horns were tuned, and the stage set. Eight o'clock came and the ticket man took his place at the window. After 15 minutes, the manager came to the front.

Not a customer in sight.

He called on a few men to hally-hoo and for the next 15 minutes strains of "The Old Gray Mare" and other such melodies were played. This brought a few straggling customers and scores of small boys.

At 8 o'clock the band played to an audience of 220-20 on the inside and 300 on the outside. At 11 o'clock the 30 men started home. The manager counted the proceeds. Nine dollars! And the boys had left more than that in the town for hamburgers and shaves.

Few would recognize this as the Cowboy Band of Simmons University, Abilene, because those who have heard of that organization know it as the most widely traveled and best known amateur band in the country, as a band which plays before big crowds instead of empty seats. Many know it as the band which went to Washington last year as the official music makers of the Hoover Good Will Special from Texas; as the band which was invited into the White House after the men had played on the lawn before the president's mansion, and as the band which went on to New York and was invited to play at a performance at the Ziegfeld Theatre. But few know it as the straggling little musical organization which began less than five years ago to build itself into a figure of national prominence.

Five short years encompass the history of this unique band. The little engagement to empty seats in Baird was typical in 1925. The Washington engagement is typical of today.

And now an even bigger trip is being planned for them. Guy Golderman, attorney and grand opera patron of St. Louis, has been in Europe making arrangements for a good will tour of England and the continent by the Cowboys. Fred L. Haskett of Dallas is in charge of arrangements on this side, and is getting up a party of several hundred who will go with the band. Among this crowd, several prominent Texans will go as guests. This is the first tour of this kind ever planned for a college band in this country.

The programs to be played by the Cowboys while in Europe will feature music of the Southwest and the early cattle range. Already the director, Prof. D. O. Wiley, has gathered a number of manuscripts of cowboy music. Some of them are being consisted through the efforts of David Gulon, Texas composer, who has had his own compositions arranged for band music by John Phillip Sousa.

Some of the best known cowboy songs to be used by the band are: "D. Hary Me, Not on the Lone Prairie," "Goodbye, Old Paint, for I'm Leavin' Chyenne," "The Old Chisholm Trail," "Shere and Goat Walkin' in a Pasture" and "Get Along, Ye Little Doggies."

But if the cowboy band had never dreamed of a trip to Europe, it could still claim the title. "The most widely traveled college band in the world." Since that discouraging incident in 1925, when it could not draw a crowd without a hally-hoo, the cowboy band has traveled over 30,000 miles; gone into 15 states of the union and into Mexico; has played, most of the time as the center of attraction, at conventions, rodeos, governors' inaugurations, fairs, theatres and on the concert stage in cities like Dallas, Birmingham, Little Rock, Tampa, Atlanta and Washington. It has carried the fame and spirit of the Texas cowboy into the Creole districts of old New Orleans, into the stately avenues of the old southern cities in Alabama, Georgia and North Carolina; into the famous Pennsylvania avenue of Washington, and right into Broadway itself. Even the indifferent crowds of Forty-second street stopped to look at "the Texas Cowboys."

school of band music and meet a high standard in these courses.

The idea of a cowboy band originated by chance. In 1922, when Simmons rooters went on a special train to cheer their football team at Brownwood, a number of the boys in the 20-piece band wore boots, 10-gallon hats and other such cowboy equipment, mostly for the fun of it.

A number of the band members were ranch boys and it was no trouble to get the paraphernalia. In Brownwood they were greeted as "the cowboys."

When they returned home, the idea of a cowboy band persisted. Professor D. O. Wiley, who that year had been made director, was in favor of it and agreed with the boys that it would be a good idea if they had cowboy uniforms to wear on parade. But the question was, "Where do we get those uniforms?"

The chamber of commerce at Abilene partially answered the question for them the following spring. When looking around for a band to represent the city at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at San Angelo, they decided on the Simmons band. W. G. Kinsolving, then secretary, had 35 pairs of chaps made for the band and the boys were asked to buy their own hats. The cowboy idea was to be carried out in uniform for the first time.

which turned out something like the one mentioned at the first of this story. The first step of the new manager was to buy a truck and place boards on each side for the boys to ride when they traveled out of town to concerts. Later buses were secured and last year the band bought a parlor bus.

The boys would go out on these trips after school hours, play that evening and return home about midnight, after riding the boards several hours and having played to crowds which could be measured by the dozen.

"We gotta pay for this truck," the manager would say. "Gib," he is called by his close acquaintances. Those who have witnessed the rapid growth of the Cowboy Band give Gib Sandefer plenty of the credit.

And so the boys kept making trips. And, sure enough, the time came when they "turned the corner." Hundreds began to come in place of dozens. Then the manager was no longer compelled to seek dates. He merely answered correspondence asking for the services of the Cowboy band. And now they play for no one without a substantial guarantee of a good crowd. Their debt for the first truck has changed into assets totaling nearly $50,000.

Elements of good fortune have played a part in the success of the band, however. One is its connection with the United Confederate veterans. It was this which first gave the "cowboys" a chance to tour the Old South and to enrench themselves in the heart of every wearer of "The Gray."

1. G. B. Sandefer, graduate manager of the band. 2. The Cowboy Band, taken on the steps of Abilene Hall, as it is today. At the left, standing are Professor Wiley; Bob Crosby, an honorary member and known as the world's champion cowboy; and A. P. Kuhn, drum major. 3. The band of 30 pieces as it was five years ago. 4. Professor D. O. Wiley, director of the Simmons University Cowboy Band. 5. "Hovopolus No. 2," the parlor motor bus, which the organization owns, and in which it makes short trips in luxury, a decided contrast to the trucks in which it formerly rode to its engagements.

with the idea of lining up all the Cowgirls and permitting him to salute them. The officials thought it was a grand idea and instructed the girls to line up, but, alas, the stunt had to be called off, because they found out that the old war-hor's idea of a "salute" was to kiss each of the beauties from the West.

The Cowboy Band has been called "the most official band in the world." This usually is said in jest, but it really is true. Besides acting as the official band of the Confederate veterans for several years, the Cowboys have served in a like capacity for other important bodies.

In 1927 the Cowboy band acted as the official band at the inauguration of Governor Dan Moody at Austin. Two months later it played for the Texas Cattleman's Association convention at El Paso and was made the official band of that organization. It has held the cake since that date, playing for the cakemen at Amarillo and Houston. In May, 1928, it competed in the band contests at Fort Worth, held of the gallant army of Lee, the Cowboys will act as their official music makers and bring cheer into their hearts with the battle song of "Dixie."

When the 1928 reunion was held in Little Rock, Ark., the Cowboys carried along a special added attraction in the Simmons Cowgirls, pep organization of the university. These 50 young women, attired in cowboy hats, golden jackets, purple riding skirts and boots, "sold the show" from the Cowboys.

ball team was due to play Southern Methodist University at Wichita Falls the following day. But the members of the band wanted to play for that football game. So, on their own choice, they were allowed to make the trip of more than 450 miles from San Antonio to Wichita Falls between 10 at night and noon the next day by bus. It sounds impossible, but the Cowboy Band played for the Simmons Cowboy football team the next day, and no one noticed any lack of pep!

Besides serving as official musicians for these organizations, the Cowboys fill many miscellaneous engagements. They furnish the pep for many trade trips and motor caravans sponsored by chambers of commerce. They have dates each year with rodeos and at the grandstand performances at fairs. They secured their most ambitious fair engagement this year when they played at the State Fair of Texas at Dallas. While in Dallas they turned an extra trick by making a phonograph record in a widely known studio. Each year they make concert tours, one time of Western Texas and the next time of the central part of the state. Conventions of all kinds, Elks, Realtors, American Legion and others, seek their services. The management has been compelled to refuse many engagements for the bandmen are allowed only a limited number of days out of each school term in which to travel.

Although the Cowboy Band has gained most of its fame through parades and other street appearances, its work is confined to a few above everything by Director Wiley.

"I used to think a band was not good for anything except hally-hoo," he said, "but now I realize its artistic abilities. When I was persuaded to take over the band in 1922, I took it more or less of a joke, and expected to keep it only until some one else came along for the job."

Professor Wiley's original position in Simmons was professor of violin.

Since the membership has been doubled to 100, Professor Wiley's work of molding it into an artistic ensemble has been even more difficult. The musicians, even though they are boys, however, are carefully selected. Compulsory rehearsals twice each week and group drills every day also play a great part in the band's efficiency.

"Where did you get that snappy drum major?" is the question heard from any crowd where the band marches.

"That snappy drum major" is simply the gymnasium instructor in Simmons who has consented to give much of his time to make the Cowboy Band one of the snappiest street parade bands in the country. X. E. Kuhn has already gained the title in many newspapers as "the best drum major in the South." The gym coach was a march leader for a United States navy band during the war.

Many people inquire about the inscription on the parlor bus which reads "Hovopolus No. 2." There's a story behind that.

mud and lifted out of ditches. They named the first "Mabel" for an unruly New Mexico mule they had seen at the Cotton Carnival at Roswell. The other they named "Hovopolus" for a Texas steer which had pitched every would-be rider in a rodeo at Wichita Falls.

The new parlor bus inherited the title.

The manager of the band, when asked what has accounted for the rapid growth of the organization, says, "It's the spirit of the men." It's an answer that doesn't mean much. Unless maybe a visitor to the band offices glances up and reads an inscription on the wall which reflects the feeling of the entire personnel. The inscription reads:

"If you intend to do anything that will cast reflection on the good name of the Famous Cowboy Band and the University, get out before you are thrown out!"

ORGATONE (ARGOTANE) MADE A NEW MAN OF ME AND RELIEVED ME OF MY TROUBLE, SAYS LUBBOCK MAN

"Since Orgatone (Argotane) relieved me of my troubles I just can't help praising it to everybody," said J. T. Smith, of 1614 16th St., Lubbock, Texas, Mr. Smith is a well known gliner in this part of the State and owns and operates the J. T. Smith Gin Company.

"For several years," he continued, "I suffered from stomach disorder and a general rundown condition. I had very little appetite and three or four hours after eating gas would form and swamp my stomach so that nothing would relieve me of the agony. I was in a very run-down weak condition and was tired and worn out and didn't feel like doing my work. I had severe case of constipation and had severe headaches.

"My first dose of Orgatone (Argotane) seemed to hit the spot and I have been getting better ever since. I can eat with a relish and eat anything and everything I want. I don't have any trouble with gas, my stomach is toned up and I feel better in every way than I have in a long time. Orgatone (Argotane) has saved me a lot of suffering and money and has made a new man of me. I want my many friends to know about it and I am glad to recommend it to them."

Genuine Argotane may be bought in Big Spring at the Cunningham & Phillips Drug Store.—adv.

600 people, but we cannot grow without the necessary improvements for such growth. The railroad company is building its shops here and is demanding of us that we furnish an adequate sewer system and with an adequate water supply and fire protection, and I dare say that there are none of us who would contend that we should not do this, for those shops are our greatest asset. I want to ask my friends to lay aside all ill-feelings engendered from any cause and do the things that their conscience tells them is best for the town. I am one of those who believe that the people of this town at the coming election will elect men who will properly spend the money that we place in their hands, and who will hasten the improvements that we authorize before the summer months come upon us. Haines Opens Friday At Ritz In "Navy Blues"

Adventures on land and sea, comic complications on a destroyer combined with a romantic drama showing William Haines not only as the comedian but as the delineator of the more serious side of life mark the star's first all-talking picture, "Navy Blues," playing at the Ritz Theatre Friday and Saturday.

I Found Right Medicine When I Took Konjola

New Medicine Quickly Banished Ills Of Stomach, Kidneys, and Liver After Others Failed

MISS VIOLA HOELTGE

"I found the right medicine when I took Konjola," said Miss Viola Hoeltge, 6337 Suburban avenue, St. Louis. For over a year I was in constant misery from stomach, liver and kidney ailments. No food would be properly digested and I suffered agony from bloating, stomach pains and shortness of breath. Back pains were frequent and painful and I became subject to frequent dizzy spells, bilious attacks and constipation added to my misery.

"I took many medicines without benefit until I tried Konjola. After a few weeks treatment with this great medicine my health troubles were solved. I no longer bloat after meals and my appetite is excellent. My liver and kidneys quickly yielded to Konjola and I am free from dizzy spells and bilious attacks. I never take cathartics and those splitting headaches are also a thing of the past. I shall always praise Konjola."

Konjola is sold in Big Spring at Collins Bros. drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—adv.

TESTIMONY

He said that his investigation conducted since the deposits had been made up of checks of $750 drawn by E. G. Grafton, brother of Ben Grafton, $300 by Worth House, $500 by Connor, and $250 by Powell, employees of the comptroller's department. The balance had been deposited in cash, Lynn said.

"I traced the checks from banks on which they were drawn," Lynn said. "They were all payable to Ben Grafton, and all checks except one were from out-of-town banks."

"I cannot say where the cash came from," he added.

Petach, Rep. Alfred Petach, attorney for the house, read into the record four letters from Terrell and his employees to the Magnolia Petroleum Company of Dallas. These letters acknowledged receipts of sums totaling $6,312.74, which represented tax due the state on sales of gasoline to the United States government. These sums were to be held in escrow by the state pending a decision of the United States supreme court as to legality of the tax, and one letter explained that if the legality was upheld they would be deposited in the state treasury, and if it was not they would be returned to the Magnolia Company. They were written during the period from September 15, 1925, to March 3, 1926.

Lynn explained he had found other items in the escrow account, including two inheritance tax items which apparently had been unaccounted for by the comptroller, an item of $325 from the Keeling Oil Company, and an item of $2,334.84 by the Independent Oil Company of San Angelo.

"On January 29, 1930," said Lynn, "I asked Mr. Terrell for full information on the two inheritance tax items. I also sent him a request to identify bank deposits which were personal. On January 22 and 23 he had told me that the indications were that the greater part of the deposits were personal, but there might have been some state deposits among them. He answered my letter on January 23, and told me that the items I had requested information on had been handled by two of his appointees who had recently died, and that was all the information he gave in answer to my request."

Sought Information Lynn said that in his letter he had asked for information "as to which monies had been paid into the state treasury and which had been returned."

"In his letter of January 23, did Mr. Terrell give you any information about the inheritance tax items, or the oil company items?" asked Petach.

"He mentioned only the Keeling

Oil Company item of $250," answered Lynn. "He did not give me any further information as to whether the Magnolia Company, or the Independent Company, accounts had been cleared into the treasury."

Terrell's letter of January 23, 1930, was then read in which the comptroller was quoted as saying that the inheritance items of $1,302.67 and $4,195.88, respectively, had been turned over to the treasury, as shown by treasury receipts, and also that the Keeling item of $325 had been deposited with the state treasury. The letter ended by stating that with regard to the other items, the assistants who had handled them were dead, and that he had engaged an auditor to audit these accounts.

Lynn said his men in examining accounts in the Austin National Bank had found where $4,195.88 had been paid by the estate of William O. Allison.

regardless of who should be candidates, Moody would seek another term in an effort to carry out his penitentiary centralization, idea and to propose shifting of the tax burden from the landowners and homeowners to a basis of "ability to pay," or changing the present system of enacting a tax from a citizen whether he is able to pay it or not rather than computing it according to the earnings of those levied against.

It was reported that Attorney General R. L. Bobbitt, appointed to his present office by Governor Moody when Attorney General Claude Pollard resigned, had definitely decided to announce for election to his office. It was known that he had considered becoming a candidate for governor.

Public announcement by him that he would seek the attorney generalship would be taken to mean that Gov. Moody had definitely made up his mind to ask for a third term. Moody and Bobbitt are close political friends. Bobbitt should have first call on the governor's office when Moody vacates and the attorney general's friends believe that he will put in a bid for it the minute his governor-friend decides to relinquish it.

Colorado Plays Critical Game In Foe's Cage

The Abilene Eagles copped the first of a three game series from Colorado's Wolves to decide the district basketball champion of district No. 3 Tuesday night by a score of 22 to 17.

The second game, which may be the final should Abilene win, will be played in Abilene tonight. The first game was played in Colorado. Outside of Captain Feaster who registered seven field goals during the first contest, Coach Jim Cantrell's crew has failed to show the class displayed in the western division district tournament played in Big Spring last Friday and Saturday.

Colorado must emerge winners in tonight's contest at Abilene, if the Mitchell county quintet is to have another shot at the title of the entire district.

The city further answered that paving of Scoury street is not the cause of flood water concentration, if any, at the corner of Tenth and Main streets as is alleged in the plaintiffs' petition. After the jury had been selected to hear the L. E. Stone damage suit, Fritz R. SPORTS ON PARADE

By STANLEY NORMAN

GOING DOWN

On the latest rating card compiled by Blonny Cross in San Angelo on which are listed sport writers of the Oil Belt, your humble servant was promoted to third position. Bobby Campbell, the Mineral Wells gymnasium publicity agent, has been truly complimented. Campbell was dropped from second to a tie with Bruce Francis of Brownwood for the lowest post. We can't bring ourselves to believe we have been treated just exactly right by old Inright for in our opinion the worst writer in Cross' listings is truly getting along in the world. If Inright bases his selections on facts rather than fiction, we should grade 100 per cent on next week's examination.

A NEW IDEA

We attended one of the regular weekly luncheon club sessions yesterday and in an unofficial capacity listened to the remarks made by some of the city's high powered thought dispensers. We listened to one fellow make a plea for some suitable outdoor community gathering place in which union Easter services can be held. It was a noble idea well presented, but then all of a sudden someone popped up and wanted to hold services on scenic mountain where the rattlesnakes buzz and the cactus plants wear thorns.

IDEAL LOCATION

Why not everyone get behind this proposition of a football field at the high school. The athletic council is now surveying the available land there with view of moving the steel bleachers from the Coahoma-Big Spring field. If we really care to do something let's put the money where it will do the most good. What could be more desirable than a field 100 yards long and flanked on either side by a battery of steel bleachers. Could citizens of Big Spring find a more suitable place on which to hold union church services on Easter mornings? We believe not.

JUST TWO KIDS

You should have seen those two kids, W. R. Furrer and Bob Austin, start on their first fishing trip of the season yesterday afternoon. If you never have experienced the thrill of dashing out of a class room headed for the old swimming hole and the first dip of the season, you just can't imagine how excited the old fishing cronies were. W. R. and Bob talked out the west pike in a small coupe trailing a boat and from all indications had no thought of stopping this side of the Pecos river. Fishing to most people is a diversion, but while we stood there talking to Clyde E. Thomas about the two "kid" fishermen, we learned that to them the art of angling is a serious undertaking. When they land at the river banks, they set about the job of tagging a few fish. Whether they go to fishing as a diversion or as a serious business, it's doubtful any two men in Big Spring get the thrills from snagging a few fish as do W. R. Furrer and Bob Austin.

WINS FLASK

H. B. Dunagan, Jr., resident agent for the Magnolia Petroleum Company, cops the Jamaica Ginger flask for being prompt in replying to the tournament query printed yesterday. Mr. Dunagan, your letter was indeed appreciated and we feel that others will enjoy reading your opinion on the tournament plan. Here's Mr. Dunagan's letter:

Your column of date to hand. Me thinks a golf and tennis tournament would be quite the thing. I would like to enter either or both or neither.

The following points might be worthy of a little discussion: "1. Is the general public allowed to play on Big Spring Golf Club links? Is anyone allowed to join club? At what price? How can a city-wide tournament be held if the city-wide generally cannot practice? Will payment of a green fee let anyone play?"

"2. Several years ago Midland, Lamesa and Big Spring had inter-city matches, eight men to a team. A golf tournament now might arouse interest enough that these inter-city matches could be resumed."

"3. Believe early March would be just a little too soon for a tennis tournament. May has a little more cold weather. Sure to have sandstorms to prevent practice. Very few, if any, of senior age have played any tennis yet this year. A tournament without a few weeks of practice would only mean a one-up between the best pat-batters."

"4. A tennis tournament here would possibly arouse more interest among high school boys—future intercollegiate league and intercollegiate member. The brand of tennis as played on the high school courts would not compare to a district intercollegiate one, but certainly no further."

Protests Overruled By District Committee George Burns To Have New Faces at San Antonio

Johnny Dawson Favored To Cop Houston Match

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 20 (AP)—Johnny Dawson, Chicago amateur, was a heavy favorite to win the tournament as the title group of sixteen prepared to day to start match play in the sixteenth annual Houston Country club invitation golf tournament. Dawson was faced with the prospect of having to beat off a fine group of players in the top bracket if he hoped to win the finals. He turned in a perfect round of golf yesterday with a 71, that coupled with his 74 of the previous day gave him a total of 145. Ossie Carlton, Houston Country club title holder, finished second with a 148 total. Glenn Crisman, Orange, Texas, was third with 149.

Charlie White Comeback Bout Booked Tonight

CHICAGO, Feb. 20 (AP)—Charley White and his 39 years including six years of retirement, today was a 7 to 5 choice to celebrate his comeback attempt in Promoter Jack Dempsey's show at the coliseum tomorrow night, to defeat Henry Perlick, Kalamazoo, Mich., lightweight twin. In training White's famous left hook has worked impressively, and he is confident of stopping Perlick, who is about 18 years his junior. The bout is for six rounds.

Ruth Listed Only Holdout For Yanks

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)—The first official announcement of the roster of the New York Yankees lists only Babe Ruth as a holdout. Thirty-four others have been signed and will be taken south for spring training, Yankee officials said yesterday. Col. Jacob Ruppert will leave for St. Petersburg, Fla., on March 4 to reopen negotiations with Ruth, who is holding out for a $10,000 increase in salary.

writer would like to see some real tennis players here. "Writer formerly played a little tennis under Dr. Penick; also made a few drives and putts until the Arizona State champion handed out a 14 stroke trimming on 18 holes. Have not tried either sport in two or three years but would like to get started again. "Let's have the tournament. Don't forget a booby prize."

FEW ANSWERS We'll do our best to answer a few of the most important questions raised in Mr. Dunagan's missive. In the first place, tentative plans call for the golf tournament first followed by the tennis struggle. We are informed that at the present time, the country club's golf course is open to the general public with payment of a 50 cent green fee. A little later when most of the club members care to take advantage of the golfing weather the club is closed to all except members of the club. Buck Richardson, president of the Country Club at odd moments and manager of Rockwell Brothers Lumber Company during business hours can dispense the dope on the membership proposition.

COURTS IN USE Tennis courts at the high school are now in use during after-school hours by net enthusiasts who are attempting to make the Steer tennis team. However, the courts are open all day and may be used by the general public whenever the high school team is not practicing. Possibly more success can be had in the tennis tourney during the summer, but the fact that the Country Club court will soon be closed to all except members forces immediate action on the golf proposition, if sufficient interest is generated.

DROP A LINE Let's have expressions from more sport fans. We want to get the dope immediately as to definite decisions can be made in some directions. Come by, Tennis 374 and Mr. Golf 374, a letter addressed to the sports editor of The Herald and state your opinions.

INDIANS TO IMPROVE AT EVERY POST

San Antonio Works On Theory That Tribe Can't Be Worse

By HAROLD SCHERWITZ San Antonio Light Sports Editor Written For The Associated Press SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 20. (AP)—Predicting September pennant winners in February is an old Spanish custom, like parley on fish, but San Antonio baseball fans, to a man, are absolutely convinced the 1930 Indians will be better than last year's team. The formula is simple they couldn't be any worse. Homer Hammond, big boss all by himself for the first time, has harkened to the cries of the multitude for a winner and has swept the boards almost clear of 1929 talent to build anew. What kind of talent this is that Hammond has gathered for the experimental farm which George Burns, the new manager, who ran Springfield in the Eastern League last year, will open on March 3 remains to be seen. But there is plenty of it. Plenty Material Not counting a raft of rank rookies—doubtless with the accent on the rank—the Indians now listed include a dozen pitchers, three experienced catchers, no less than seven infielders and five outfielders, including the venerable Burns, who played most of last season and managed to bat over the 300 mark. The outfielders also include Harvey Ballew, now on the roster of the New York Giants but very, very likely to be returned to San Antonio about the middle of the big leaguers' spring sojourn here, since his batting ability as yet doesn't quite balance his inexperience in the ways of a good gardener. The other outfielders are: Ad Schinkel, husky ex-pitcher, who hit .371 for Bridgeport in the Eastern league and was secured in an even trade for Lyman (Chief) Nason, the dissatisfied Indian; Odie Strain, reputedly very fast on his feet, who outfielded for Augusta in the South Atlantic league and thumped the goggle at a .361 clip; "Monk" Edwards, a young find from Independence, Kansas, in the Western Association, whose price tag on the open market was $5,000 but who was luckily hooked by the tribe in a player draft. Edwards batted .350 in his first season in organized baseball, is a giant in stature, wears his hair collegiate since he hasn't been out of Kansas Agricultural college very long, and made a deep impression on Tom Conner, of the San Antonio club, who scouted for him on the q. t. last fall. Rookie Is Due The holdover infielders are Third-baseman Jodie Tate, and Shortstops Lloyd Flippen and Karl Kott. Flippen at present is listed on the voluntary retired list, but Hammonds is sure he sliply wants to be lured back with gell. Kott, rookie sensation of last year, is about ripe to blossom into a regular. The newcomers include Francis Farrell, first-baseman from the Albany club of the Eastern league, a fine hitter and reported to be a fielding demon, The Indians had to give Outfielders Leo Casey and Harry Taylor and Pitcher Neal Baker to get him. Two second-basemen with good records have been secured, Leonard (Mike) Dundero, who suited for the St. Louis Browns in 1929 after a sensational season with Tulsa in the Western league the year before, when he led the second-basemen in fielding and was second batter in the league, is an infield certainty, in the opinion of Hammond. Another man for whom room should be made is Second-sacker Thorpe Hamilton, from the South Atlantic league, who was selected on the "all team" in the league by The Sporting News, baseball publication.

Wheelhorse Big George Darrow, left-handed wheelhorse—there's a metaphor for you—from Oklahoma City's Western League club, is counted on for a lot of duty. He was bought outright, Tom Estill, the spittaler, was obtained in an even trade with Beaumont; Norm Glasgow being the ante. George Malicky, a young left-hander, wasn't claimed by his owners, the Philadelphia Athletics, and the Indians sneaked him away from the Mackian farm in the Blue Ridge league via the draft. Roy Auer, a suspended non-reporter of last year, has applied for reinstatement and will be amongst us. Fred Alter has been obtained in trade from Augusta of the South Atlantic league for Infielder Art Schacht, who finished last year at second base for the Tribe.

The Indians, being vastly different in every respect, will be different in picking a training camp. They will train at Fort Sam Houston, where a first-class fenced-in diamond is available.

Chuck Klein Trains Bludgeon On Babe Ruth's Home Run Records

By CLAUDE WOLFF Associated Press Sports Writer INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 20 (AP)—Chuck Klein, mighty baseball wallop of the National league, believes he's the boy to shatter Babe Ruth's all-time record of 60 home runs, and that he might as well do it this year. The local boy's 43 homers last season made him the National league champion and helped considerably to awaken the lowly Philadelphia club. Looking back over Klein's record, it is apparent he has reason to believe he can better his own mark, and threaten the Babe's. Last year was his first in the majors. He was going stronger at the end of the season than at the beginning. Klein and the Philly management have been at odds over money. Reports have it that he wants $17,500 and the club wants to give him considerably less than that. His pay in 1929 was $7,500. "I am down to playing weight now—192 pounds," said Klein. "I got away to a poor start last year, and the first five weeks I was awful. I was punching 'em out at the end, though." Chuck doesn't seem worried about contract matters. He expects to join the Phillies at Winterhaven, Fla., in March.

Hunting, bowling and pool playing have kept him busy this winter. He bowls in two leagues, and hits the maples for an average of 170. He is not so hot with the pool cue.

Six Hundred Millionaires At Miami Doing Everything Possible To Make Sharkey-Scott Fight Social Event

By ALAN GOULD Associated Press Sports Editor MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 20 (AP)—If the big heavyweight fistic festival, featuring the Scott-Sharkey and Campolo-Risiko bouts, isn't a social success, it will not be the fault of the 600 millionaires, more or less, gathered under the chaperonage of "Big Bill" Carey and Frank Bruen, masters of Madison Square Garden. The ballyhoo has made a strong point of the fact that the very best people have been buying ringside seats and to clinch matters today, Messrs. Carey and Bruen formed an expedition to the ultra-exclusive Oasis club in Palm Beach. The program called for a mixture of punch-tossing, informal bouts, tea on the lawn and a dance in the pavilion—an elaboration of the "boxing base" that have been a novelty of the season at this hour. Perhaps on the theory that something should be done for Phil Scott

The move on the part of the national boxing association to put Jack Dempsey back in the heavyweight spotlight, as a title contender, has not disturbed the program of the Madison Square Garden millionaires who plan to stage a championship final between the winner of the Scott-Sharkey affair and Max Schmeling in New York the last week of June.

SNYDER IS GIVEN BILL OF HEALTH

Scurry County Protest Against Tourney Is Also Tossed Aside

A clean bill of health was given Buck Burdine, Snyder basketball player, whose eligibility had been protested by Big Spring high school authorities at a district committee meeting held in Abilene Wednesday afternoon.

George Gentry, principal of the high school, and Bill Stevens, Steer coach, represented this city's cause before the district committee. Buren Edwards, star hurdler of Big Spring high school and captain of this year's basketball team, accompanied Mr. Gentry and Coach Stevens to Abilene where special track equipment was purchased for the hurdler's use in coming meets. The Big Spring protest was overruled by the district committee when Snyder presented a long affidavit from Burdine's grandfather stating he had supported the boy for several years and that he is sending him to Snyder high school because that city is nearest Gail, Borden county seat, where the grandparent is now residing. Snyder's protest against the entire basketball tournament held in Big Spring last week, and entered a similar protest as accorded the Big Spring "attorneys." The district committee found no cause why results of the district basketball tournament held here in which Snyder was eliminated by Colorado, the eventual winner, should not stand as official, despite presentation of a case by Scurry county citizens.

The district committee did not officially state the Big Spring protest was not justified, but elected to take evidence of the signed affidavit in preference to evidence of school records collected by representatives of Big Spring.

R. O. Martin, superintendent of Blackwell's school in Nolan county, protested admission of Divide into the district tourney on grounds that the Divide quintet had not been certified as county champion. The committee refused to consider the Blackwell protest declaring that determination of a county representative is not within jurisdiction of the district committee.

R. D. Green, director-general of the district presided at the meeting. Others attending were W. D. Arnett, athletic director of the district; W. O. Williamson, Albany; L. R. Johnson, Stamford; E. M. Connell, Anson; Ben F. Peck, Colorado; J. F. Boren, Blair; Mr. Gentry of this city and "Red" Moore of Snyder.

They will be modern cliff-dwellers nesting in the de luxe niches of jumbo buildings.

THE BIG SHOT

by FRANK L. PACKARD

SYNOPSIS: Drawn into the vortex of New York's underworld in quest of her missing brother, Enid Howard faces a mystery. She believes the Big Shot, king of the underworld and her missing brother, Roy, are the same and seeks an explanation of his denial. An unwilling guest in his home, Enid's questioning develops that he returned from war suffering from shell-shock and loss of memory. He claims he is Harry Kane and introduces his parents whom he supports. Enid suspects he is the victim of their duplicity. She overhears a conversation between Mrs. Kane and Izzy Myers, the Big Shot's lieutenant, and learns they plan to dispose of her as a menace to their security and that Phil Martin, newspaperman, whom she loves, has been captured. A gang war complicates matters.

Chapter 14 METAMORPHOSIS

With her latchkey Enid let herself into Martha Debbins' house and, running along the hall, entered the small living and work room that connected with her bedroom. She turned on the light and pulled open the drawer of her desk where she kept the reserve supply of ammunition for her pistol.

Her eyes, as she began to load the weapon, roved about the room. The typewriter, the pile of manuscript, the odds and ends, the telephone on the desk that she had installed when she had come to live here, the photographs of her father and mother on the mantel-piece were all just as she had left them.

These were her belongings, this was her home—and yet it seemed incredible that she had ever lived here and been peacefully engaged in an effort to write a book! Would it ever be written now? She did not know. It was not likely and in the light of other things it was now of little consequence.

It was as though her entire life had been transformed, as though she were no longer herself—but someone else through whose eyes she was witnessing, and through whose body she was participating in, a chaos of crime and ruthless violence—and only danger, and anxiety, and an unreality that was filled with horror seethed around her.

Her fingers worked mechanically at the loading of the pistol. The telephone caught her eye again. It offered mute assistance—there was a world of people at the other end. Yes—but not one, no one to whom she dared appeal.

If she telephoned the police they would go to the house with the "To Let" sign and liberate Phil undoubtedly—but they would quite as certainly be waiting there when Izzy Myers returned with the Big Shot.

The newspaper office was just as bad. The trails all led to Roy—and while she could do so, and at the same time save Phil Martin, she must do her utmost to protect Roy.

No, no telephone! Why had it even intruded itself? She shook her head. She had thought it all out on her way uptown from Roy's house on Fifty-first street. She must depend on herself and on herself alone just as long as she could. Morally Roy did not deserve prison. Her conscience and her love were on common ground there. She had saved him from it last night—and she would save him from it always as far as she was able.

The weapon was loaded now. She laid it down on the desk and, hurrying from the room, began to mount the stairs to the second story. The reloading of her pistol had been one of the two reasons for her return here to her room—the other one had come to her as an inspiration—at least she hoped it would prove to be an inspiration on her way uptown.

Time, of course, was a vital factor, but she felt that she had a fairly safe margin to work on, and that in the very nature of things this visit would not delay her very much. She did not know the number of Roy's house, but, having carefully located the lane that led to her window from the rear so that she could return by the same way she had come, she knew that his house fronted on Fifty-first street, therefore her rooms here had been, at it were, almost directly on her way from Roy's to that house somewhere on Eighty-third street near Avenue A, and her coming here could cost her but very little extra time.

But in any case, though she would lose not a moment more than she could help, it had been imperative that she come here in order to carry out the plan to save Phil she had formulated, a plan which seemed to her now so necessary, not only in the present instance, but for the future, if she was to preserve contact with Roy.

She reached the head of the stairs and entered Martha Debbins' bedroom. Her lips were suddenly tight. Her plan! Yes, it frightened her just a little. But, she told herself reassuringly as she turned on the light, that it wasn't nearly as desperate an adventure as it appeared to be on the surface.

From Martha's clothes closet Enid procured a somewhat shabby dress of dark material; the bureau drawers furnished a pair of black cotton stockings and a discarded pair of spectacles. She discovered a pair of worn, low-heeled shoes and the shelf of the closet disclosed an unstylish and frayed old hat with a wide brim.

She made the change rapidly, and surveyed herself in the mirror. It was far from being perfect, as a disguise, but the result was even better than she had hoped for. The

HOW ONE MAN ENDED "RHEUMATISM"

Stomach Troubles, and Built up His Strength At The Same Time

There is a way to get rid of rheumatism pains along with pains in the stomach, back and sides—and until you try it you can blame only yourself for your suffering. It's through the use of the remarkable medicine Tanlac that four years has steadily but quietly been performing almost miraculous benefits for millions. Here's just one case out of thousands who have in their joy taken the trouble to write us: His name is Mr. B. F. Burbage. Mr. Burbage, a transfer man, suffered for 15 years from rheumatism and as he had to earn his living like you and I he had just about despaired when as a last resort he tried Tanlac. "I could hardly move about or raise my arms up. To go up or down stairs it would seem like my knees would break. The pain hurt awful and crippled me up. Besides rheumatism, my digestion was bad and I was run down generally. It was a mighty big handicap in my business. Finally I began Tanlac and it was the best for me. It began at once to overcome my muscular rheumatism and now have not an ache or pain and am a well and new man. I recommend Tanlac with unbounded confidence." Other remedies may promise but Tanlac performs—a real medicine that backs claims with a guarantee. Accept no substitute. At all drugists.

stair reached almost to her ankles, the hat from Dropped over her eyes and her whole appearance was disgraced. She looked a trumper.

The mirror told her that there was something seriously wrong about her appearance in this attempt of hers to pass for a middle-aged, inoffensive little woman of the poorer class. Her clothes carried out the idea perfectly, and, thanks to the hat, no one would have been able to tell whether her hair was gray, brown, or yellow; but, in spite of the additional assistance furnished by the spectacles, she looked too young!

This gave her a moment of anxiety, and then a queer little smile of relief crossed her lips. Downstairs in the kitchen there were cold ashes in the stove. A little grime, though she must be careful not to overdo it, would remove the freshness from her face—yes, and disguise those well-kept hands of hers as well.

She turned out the light and ran down the stairs. In the kitchen, with the aid of a hand glass which she took from her bedroom, she put on her improvised make-up as artistically as she could. She nodded her head in satisfaction. She certainly did not look at all like Enid Howard!

She picked up her loaded automatic from the desk, took her purse from her handbag, extinguished all the lights, flung herself into Martha's old coat, and, locking the front door behind her, stepped out onto the streets.

Which was the quickest way to the house on Eighty-third street? Her eyes were turned to the street.

But could she risk it? Her appearance was certainly not that of one accustomed to spend money on such a luxury as a taxi, and she would have preferred to avoid the use of one now! But at this hour, in the light traffic, it would undoubtedly make good time—and, after all, what did it matter if the driver's curiosity were aroused and he might later remember that he had set an unusual sort of fare down at, say Avenue A and Eight-second street? She certainly would not have him take her any nearer her real destination than that!

She had reached the corner of Second avenue now, and after, but a moment's wait was able to hail a passing taxi. She gave the chauffeur the address she had decided upon, and, with the added injunction to hurry, entered the car.

A courageous girl pits her wits against a ruthless band of gangsters. Read tomorrow's installment.
