Rockport's David Rice

Likes Teaching, Drama

By Pat Blair

"I like anything that can be done out of doors—I like to hunt...fish—and I like teaching a whole lot."

David Rice said.

He was watching rehearsal for his play, "Cat's Cradle", at the Corpus Christi State University Theater. Rice adapted the play from the novel of the same name by Kurt Vonnegut Jr. as his master's project in getting a degree in CCSU's interdisciplinary studies program with emphasis in theater.

"I like all of Kurt Vonnegut's work, and 'Cat's Cradle' is my favorite piece," he said. "Although I'm not sure I knew what it was about until I started working with it."

Rice has been going to CCSU during the summers; the rest of his year is spent teaching English at Rockport-Fulton High School.

He has been teaching five years—and will begin his sixth year next fall—at the high school. "Primarily," he said, he teaches English, but he has one speech-drama class. He's also director of the high school's extra-curricular drama department.

This year, for the first time in 18 years, drama students under Rice's direction took first place in zone and district UIL one-act play competition with their presentation of "Oedipus the King."

"I've always been interested in the theater, and at Rockport, I got a chance to run my own plays. It got into my system," Rice said.

A native of Ohio and graduate of Ohio State University, Rice originally wanted to be a history teacher, "until I tried it. For me, it was a difficult subject to teach—difficult motivating my students." He had no such problems with English. "In English, at least in literature, you can always find something that the students like." He added, "English gives you a chance to talk about life, philosophize—English and theater are very closely related."

Rice entered the CCSU interdisciplinary studies program four summers ago. "It was the only way I could get a master's in theater and at this point of my life, that's what I'm interested in."

He completed his course work last summer and adapted "Cat's Cradle" to stage form, so the only thing remaining between him and his master's degree is the performance. The play makes its debut Thursday, July 12.

And what will Rice do after the performances end Sunday and he succeeds in getting his master's degree?

Come back to Rockport-Fulton High School, he says. "I like Rockport," and he's raising his family here—a daughter 20 months old and another baby "on the way."

"And there's such an interest in drama in the high school right now, I'm real happy," he says.

And added: "I'm looking forward to the next high school drama season."

Aransas County Commissioners dealt with an overflow of sewage and stray dogs at their regular meeting July 9, at the Aransas County Courthouse. County Judge John Wendell presided over the meeting.

Mrs. Tom Moulton appeared before the commissioners asking that they investigate a lack of septic tank inspections in the Copano Cove area. Mrs. Moulton stated that in the four years she had lived in Copano Cove, no one had inspected the area to her knowledge, and added that there was an increasing problem of people connecting sewage lines to county ditches. Commissioners said they would look into the matter.

County Attorney James Anderson informed commissioners that the usual method in such cases was to send a certified letter from the county health officer to the person, outlining county ordinances and giving the person 15 days to comply to the ordinances. If the situation still remains the county then takes the case to court. Mrs. Alice McCully also appeared before the commissioners asking if there were any dog leash laws in the county that could be better enforced. She said she had seen numerous stray dogs, and added that they caused problems to motorists, and especially for trash collectors on garbage pick-up days.

Commissioner J.M. Sprigell told Mrs. McCully that the main problem facing the county was in putting a law on the books that could be enforced.

Trustees Inspect New Classrooms

By Sarah L. Durdin
Aransas County School Board Trustees capped off their regular July meeting with a look-see through the new classroom addition to the Rockport-Fulton High School, with several trustees commenting that they liked what they saw.

The new building has a total of ten classrooms, two of which are for typing classes, and another two for homemaking classes. In addition, the halls have lockers on both sides, and there are boys and girls restrooms.

Pending some minor repairs and touch-ups, all trustees said they were satisfied with the addition, and approved a motion to accept it.

Trustees approved a motion to discontinue allowing a $3000 over 65 exemption, substituting instead a $10,000 exemption already provided for in House Bill 1060. In addition to the $10,000 exemption, property owners will also get a $5000 homeowners exemption.

Leslie Cole was elected to attend the Texas Association of School Board State Convention in San Antonio on October 8-9, with Gene Gregory attending as the alternate. While there, they will attend workshops, and

6 Residents Have Parts In 'Cradle'

Rockport residents will have an opportunity to judge the acting talents of six members of their community when they go see "Cat's Cradle" making its debut at 8 p.m. Thursday, July 12.

The play is adapted by Rockport-Fulton High School teacher David Rice from the novel "Cat's Cradle" by Kurt Vonnegut Jr. Performances are set for Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. and a matinee presentation at 2 p.m. Sunday, July 15.

The presentation will be in the Corpus Christi State University Theatre.

Mike Montague of Rockport, a former student of Rice's, has the lead in the production. Other former students cast in the play are Mike Vermillion and Penny Rossman.

Also cast is Scott Cory, a former student of Rice's who will be a senior in Rockport-Fulton High School next fall.

Other Rockport residents in the cast are Barbara Carter and David Rossman, the father of one of Mr. Rice's former students, Penny.

Another Rockport resident who has been helping Rice "behind the scenes" is Roxy Brock.

Other cast members in the production are Ray von Rosenberg of Taft and Linda Utter Smith, Gary Reeves, Danny Reyes and Juan Flores, all of Corpus Christi.

Assisting on the technical end have been Rudy Gonzales, Eddie Garcia and Bryan Schmidberger.

Rice adapted and is presenting the play as his master's project.

He explained he has been attending CCSU for four summers, working on a master's degree under the interdisciplinary studies program with emphasis on theater. In place of a master's theses, students in this program were required to adapt something to the stage.

Rice chose "Cat's Cradle," a book that is "Structurally weak, but carried by the theme," he said, "that man is heading blindly toward annihilation."

Despite the grimness of the subject, the book contains humor and Rice has kept both elements in his adaptation -- the warning and the humor.

"Cat's Cradle" is a play about the "truths" people grow up with -- and how much really is "true."

FLYING DOWN TO SAN LORENZO

Germany works for peace

Because milestone anniversaries are occasions for reflection, it is appropriate to note a special one in Europe of significance for the world.

Thirty years ago, May 23, 1949, the Federal Republic of Germany officially came into being under the sponsorship of the United States and its Western European allies. What came to be known as West Germany was born from the consolidation of the U.S., French, and British occupation zones.

The creation of West Germany was in response to the incorporation of the Soviet's East German zone into Moscow's newly acquired East European empire — an Allied countermove in the Cold War with the Russians. The Soviet blockade of West Berlin had just ended.

Although 30 years is but the chronological measure of one generation, it is difficult in today's circumstances to appreciate the dismal outlook — not to say the misgivings — that attended the conferring of even partial self-rule on the Germans. Sullen, guilt-ridden and embittered by total defeat, their future course was not only uncertain but the cause of widespread concern.

To make matters worse, the devastation that had been visited upon Europe by World War II was magnified many times in Germany. The nation lay in ruins. Moreover, West Germany was called to absorb 10 million refugees from the lost German lands in the east.

The first chancellor, Konrad Adenauer, proved to be one of the towering figures of the twentieth century. The former lord mayor of Cologne in the days before Hitler, who imprisoned him, Adenauer at the age of 73 came out of retirement to lead his shattered country back into the community of nations. For almost 20 years Der Alte, the old man, presided over the most remarkable national renaissance perhaps in history.

Aided by Ludwig Erhard, his unusually able economics minister, Adenauer undergirded Germany's spiritual and political rebirth with a solid economic foundation. He did this by giving the Germans' traditional energy full play under one of the world's most liberated free-enterprise systems.

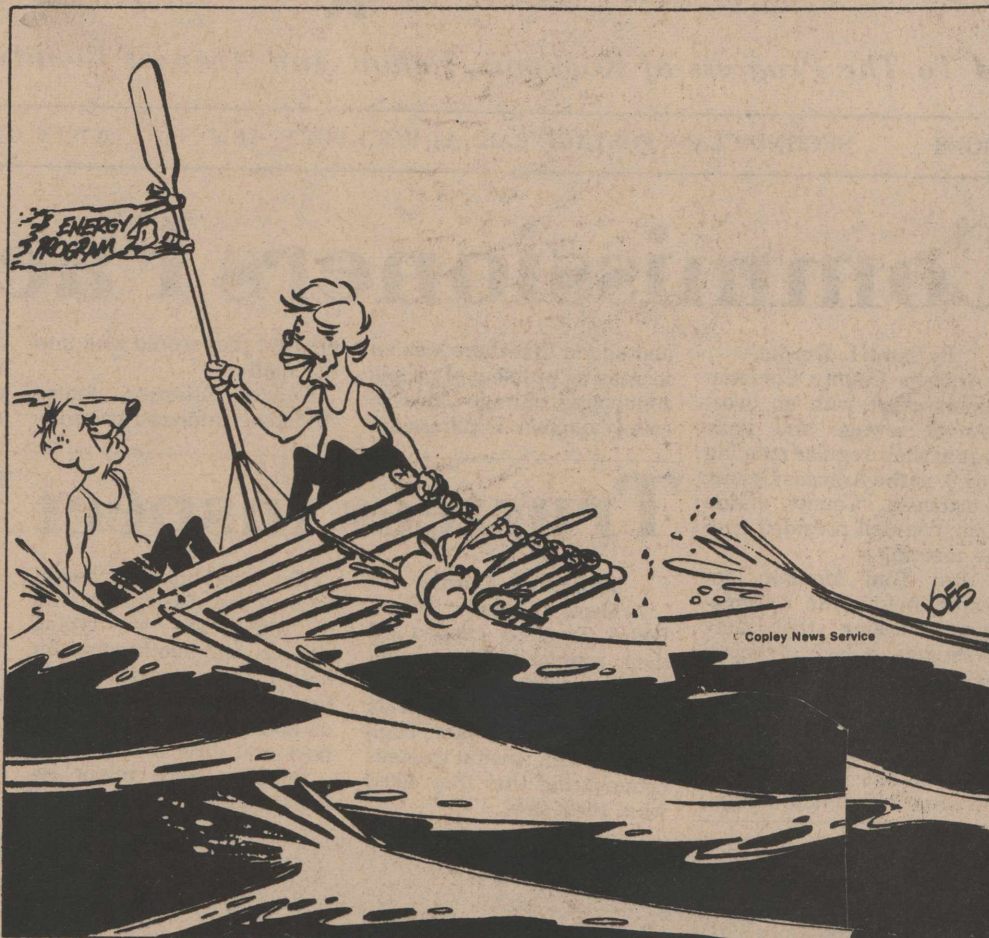

The result has been an economic miracle. Today, West Germany is the second largest trading nation in the world, outranked only by the United States. Indeed, the West Germans, who number only 60 million, export more than we in this country, with a population of 220 million. West German exports last year came to $153 billion compared with $141.8 billion U.S. exports. But for excessive U.S. imports, which exceeded West Germany's by $65 million and helped to account for a U.S. trade deficit and a West German surplus, the West Germans would lead the world in trade. In any event, they have become one of our best trading partners.

West Germany's remarkable productivity, with one of the world's lowest inflation and unemployment rates, has provided rock-like stability amidst international economic confusion. Its 500,000-member armed forces constitute a bulwark of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's defense against Soviet expansion into Western Europe.

Beyond being the strongest defenders of Europe, the West Germans have, almost as an act of penance, been steadfast champions in Europe's faltering impulse toward economic and political union. The strength they previously gave the successful European Economic Community, they are now contributing toward the dream of political union.

The historical significance of all this is that the Germans, whose militarism played so large a role in World Wars I and II, are providing one of the great redemptions of this terrible century by directing their energies toward peace and European unity. And the Free World can hope that the victory which eluded them in their wars will come to them at last as peacemakers.

'HOW ABOUT SOME OIL ON THESE TROUBLED WATERS?'

Washington Report

By Congressman Joe Wyatt

The House of Representatives in Washington recently passed a "windfall profits tax" on domestic crude oil production as part of a crude oil decontrol plan. While I have pledged myself to working to decontrol the price of crude oil and let the American producers compete with foreign producers, I believe that decontrol with the windfall profits tax is like taking two steps forward and then two steps back again.

The purpose of decontrolling the price of American crude oil is to let the free market take over, permit American producers to find the real market value of their product, and then maximize their production. Under the system of price control, since the amount they could charge for their product was being held unrealistically low, and the cost of exploration and production are going up without any controls, this means they simply have to produce less. This also means we have to import more, thereby increasing our reliance on the whims of OPEC.

Decontrol is a step to relieving those gas lines we have all been waiting in. "Windfall profits tax," I'm afraid, is just a new name for price control. If we are going to increase the amount of money American producers can use to spur domestic production, and then take it back in the form of a tax, what have we gained?

One saving grace of the recent bill is the adoption by the House of the Jones-Moore amendment to try lessening the backward movement away from energy independence which this tax mandates.

When the picture of domestic oil producers is drawn for most people, it is usually one of enormous conglomerates which control most of the money in the world. Actually, there are more than 10,000 relatively small independent oil producers in this nation which will probably be much more severely affected by this new burden than the well-known national companies. While it is probable that the major oil companies will be able to handle the new tax, it is not all that definite how the independents will stand up to it. The overall effect could be to actually increase the power of the major oil companies—precisely what many people want the tax to curtail.

Another adverse effect, as I mentioned earlier, is that the tax could reinforce our dependence on the production and price whims of the OPEC ministers. It just does not seem to me to be in this nation's best interests to continue to pay premium prices for more and more OPEC crude oil, while at the same time making domestic production harder and harder—plus weakening the position of independent producers and the free market. As I have said in the past, I can understand the concern of those in the Northeast and others who are upset with the rising prices and lessening availability of energy sources. What they have to realize is that the laws of economics dictate that as non-renewable resources diminish, they become more expensive. Also, since they are non-renewable, they simply become scarcer. This means that fooling ourselves with short-sighted "solutions" will only increase our long-range problems.

My hope is that the Senate, when it considers this tax proposal, will have domestic production, and not political popularity, in mind.

'Thinking Safe' Is Key To Safety On Water

By Pat Blair

Think safety — constantly. That's the word from Texas Parks and Wildlife Game Warden Doug Parker on how to keep summer fun in the water from becoming summer tragedy.

"If more people would approach the water with the same attitude as when they get in their cars for a trip," says Parker, a warden with the Rockport Parks and Wildlife office, "there'd be fewer problems."

"It's an attitude of safety," he said. "Driving is a day-to-day necessity. On the water, you're having fun — it's recreation. You don't think about safety, and things tend to get away from you."

The Texas Parks and Wildlife is the only State agency responsible for water safety, Parker said, "and the Texas Water Safety Act is the basis for everything we do."

Much of the requirements in the Water Safety Act deal with boating — which is only one of the activities pursued in the waters of the Coastal Bend area.

In water skiing, for example, Parker said there is "legally very little we require." However, he added, there are some measures that — although not required by law — he would recommend people take.

"A life jacket is not required," he said, "but I strongly recommend that the skier wear a good Coast Guard-approved life jacket. It doesn't matter whether you're a good swimmer — if you fall off the skis, you could hit your head on something and drown because you're unconscious. It's safer to wear the life jacket."

Another recommendation he made was to have an observer in the boat, someone in addition to the driver who will watch the skier at all times.

"If the skier falls, you need to know immediately so you can go back and pick them up right away," he pointed out. The driver can't always see what's happening to the skier in his rear view mirror, Parker said.

The Game Warden added that, in his experience, the biggest hazards of and to water skiers is skiing in crowded areas and not watching where they're going. "A lot of people (injured in skiing accidents) just get run over by the skier," he said.

Parker observed that Rockport doesn't have problems of the magnitude of larger population areas, "but we do have a problem with the Ski Basin, because a lot of people don't realize it," he added, "but it is against the law to become intoxicated while operating a motor boat, just like with a car."

"You can be ticketed for DWI in a boat just like you can in a car," he emphasized.

Other requirements in boating, Parker continued, are that the boat be equipped with a U.S. Coast Guard-approved life jacket and — for most boats — a U.S. Coast Guard-approved fire extinguisher.

"These are not recommendations," he emphasized. "These are State laws." The equipment must be approved by the U.S. Coast Guard, he said, and advised that people should be wary of "bargain" life jackets.

In addition, children age 12 years or younger must wear the life jacket at all times while the boat is being operated.

"In summertime," Parker said, "boating is a problem, largely because of the complete and total ignorance of water safety laws."

Other laws, he said, require boats to have running lights and use them after sundown, and boats must be registered and the registration kept current.

"People won't let their car registrations lapse," he said, "but they'll let their boat registrations lapse. They don't use the same judgment with a boat as with a car — and the boat is in many ways more dangerous."

One of the biggest problems in water safety, Parker continued, is that there are no restrictions on who can operate a boat. "An 80-year-old man or a 12-year-old child can legally operate one," he said, "and there are no operating tests on small boats. Anybody that can get a boat away from the dock can legally operate it."

What this means, he said, is that children are often the major victims in boating accidents. "Like in the Ski Basin," he said, "you have a boatload of 15, 16, 17-year-olds roaring around in Daddy's boat."

'Low Down'

FROM THE
Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

Representative Walter B. Jones (N.C.) "...On Tuesday, June 19, the House approved the agricultural appropriations bill for fiscal year 1980. Included were necessary funds to continue the tobacco support program as well as other funds for research.

"Congressman Shumway of California had planned to offer an amendment to this legislation which would have read as follows: (An excerpt).

Provided further, That no part of funds appropriated or otherwise made available in this Act...provide support, sales or other disposal functions performed with respect to tobacco or any tobacco product.

"Those of us concerned with the continuation of any successful tobacco program were very much relieved and grateful when Congressman Shumway announced that he would not offer his amendment...

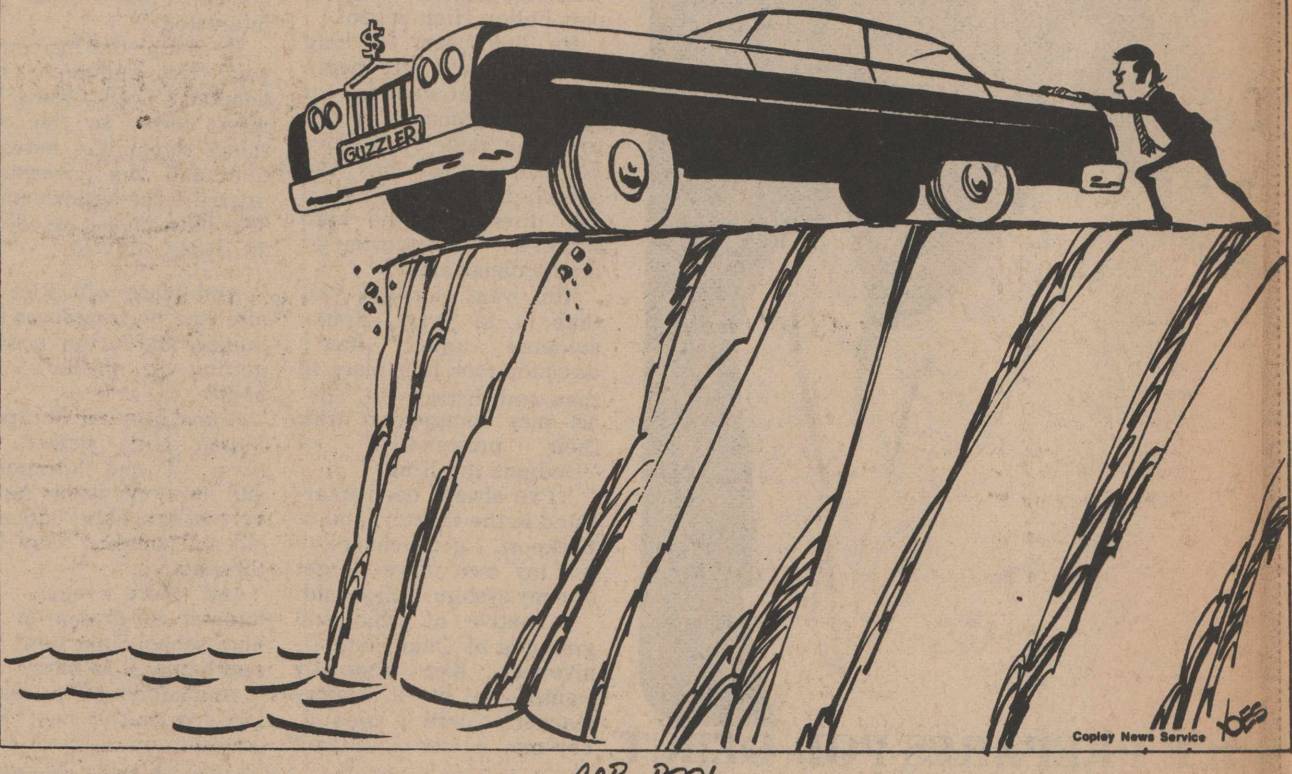

"An agricultural economist from the University of Georgia testified that to replace the cash income from 1 acre of tobacco for the 1977 season would require cultivation of approximately 14 acres of soybeans 15 acres of peanuts. Obviously there is not that much available for the increased production...

"I think one of the most interesting studies was released just this month by the Warton Applied Research Center at the University of Pennsylvania. This surely may be considered an impartial study...The report estimates that the tobacco industry's contributions to the Nation's employment both directly and through its spillover effects on the other industries, amounted to 2,067,000 persons, and produces a total contribution of $12 billion in Federal taxes and $7.3 billion in State and local taxes...

"I hope that this statement will convince one and all of the necessity and the soundness of the present tobacco program as it relates to the total economy of this entire Nation."

Roots Comment

The use of tobacco is a personal decision. The fact cannot be overlooked that the raising of tobacco generates an enormous amount of tax revenue that would have to be raised by other methods if present social programs are to be continued at the present level. Much of the tobacco tax revenue ends up as revenue sharing, subsidies to ship building, grants for education, public low-cost housing, etc. We repeat, the use of tobacco is a personal decision. However, the decision to collect over $19 billion in taxes generated by the tobacco industry is not a personal decision.

Pharmacy Topics

Fewer people are having strokes these days. Doctors credit public education about high blood pressure.

Don't feed honey to babies under a year. It may contain botulism spores that are dangerous to the youngest children, who do not yet have immunity to them.

Eye injury? Get the patient to the hospital as soon as possible. Just cover the eye (even with a folded handkerchief); let the doctor do the rest.

You CAN get too much of a good thing, health and nutrition experts agree. Excessive amounts of some vitamins can cause damage to the system; others are wasted, as the body discards what it does not need.

More medical and dental schools are now teaching hypnosis. Can be used in the treatment of pain, and to "cure" patients of habits such as tooth grinding.

Officials Caution . . .

Beware Of Fraudulent Claims

Persons eligible for Medicare health insurance benefits who seek to supplement their coverage by purchasing additional private insurance should be sure that they are not buying coverage already provided by Medicare, warns David W. Tutt, Manager of the Corpus Christi social security office.

Mr. Tutt says Dallas regional officials of HEW's Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA), the federal agency that administers the Medicare and Medicaid programs, are concerned that many elderly Medicare beneficiaries are being sold duplicate or overpriced supplementary insurance policies. According to Jerry Sconce, HCFA's Regional Administrator, some Medicare beneficiaries are being taken advantage of by a few unscrupulous insurance agents, often posing as representatives of Medicare or the Social Security Administration. Sconce has recently contacted state insurance commissioners asking their cooperation in identifying and controlling such sales practices.

The problem is a costly one, said Sconce, citing a recent report by the U. S. House Select Committee on Aging which estimated that senior citizens are "being taken" for $1 billion a year by a few insurance companies and their agents.

The committee report also noted that some companies which specialize in selling this type of insurance return an average of 50 cents on the premium dollar while others return as much as 90 cents for similar coverage.

Sconce urges senior citizens considering buying a supplemental plan to be sure they are not duplicating existing Medicare coverage and to seek out policies that pay a high return in benefits.

He warned that any insurance salesman representing himself as connected with Medicare or Social Security should be viewed with suspicion since no federal employee is authorized to engage in this activity. Sconce urged the public to report any such misrepresentation to the local social security office and to the State Insurance Commissioner.

Hearn-Schaefer Exchange Vows

Melinda Elsie Hearn and Mitchell Wayne Schaefer exchanged wedding vows Friday, June 15, 1979 at the First Baptist Church in Rockport. Rev. Charles Fake officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jowell M. Hearn Jr., of Rockport, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hinojosa of Mission.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white taffeta dress with train, short puff sleeves, and Spanish lace inset. The cuffs of the sleeves and the two front seams of the dress were appliqued with baby blue and white flowers; flower appliques were also featured on the train. The fingertip veil of Spanish lace flowed from a pearl tiarra headpiece. The bride made her own gown and veil. Her bouquet of daisies and carnations were worked into a matching pearl bouquet piece.

Miss Beverly Kelly served as maid of honor, with Deborah Fake and Annette Ledbetter serving as bridesmaids. Missy Merret served as flower girl.

Johnny Sharp of Mission served as best man, with the groom's brother-in-law, Douglas Brown of Weslaco, and the groom's brother, Johnny McDaniel of Mission, serving as groomsmen. Ushers were Philip Hearn, Ronald Janota and Harold Mundine, all of Rockport.

A reception was held at the Fellowship Hall of the church, after which the couple left for a wedding trip to the Rio Grande Valley.

They will make their home in Rota, Spain for the next two years, where both serve in the U.S. Marine Corps. The bride was a 1977 graduate of Rockport-Fulton High School, and the groom was a graduate of Sharyland High School at Mission.

Other members of the wedding party included Wynne Armstrong, who attended the guest register. Members at a houseparty included Mrs. Susan Brown, sister of the groom, Miss Kay Haley, Miss Donna Janota, Miss Molly Davis and Mrs. Betty Anthony.

Healthful hints

Most Often-Asked Questions On Nutrition

Q. I have been taking lecithin capsules, but I'm not sure how many to take. I don't have any special problems, just want to take a routine daily amount. How many capsules should I take?

A. There are no known toxic levels for lecithin, and as much as four to six tablespoons of lecithin granules daily have been given for special problems, such as high blood cholesterol. As a routine maintenance amount, most nutritionists recommend one tablespoon of lecithin granules daily.

Most lecithin granules contain 7,500 mg. of lecithin per tablespoon, so check the label on your lecithin capsule bottle and see how many mgs. of lecithin each capsule contains. Divide that amount into 7,500 mg., and you'll know how many capsules to take. Usually six capsules will give you close to the correct amount.

Q. My children love peanut butter and eat a lot of it. Is natural peanut butter really a lot better for them than the other?

A. Not only is natural peanut butter much, much more nutritious for them, the "other" can actually be harmful. Hydrogenated peanut butter (not natural) can destroy vitamin E and linoleic acid (an essential unsaturated fatty acid), increase the need for cholin (a B vité), and raise blood cholesterol. Natural peanut butter will have oil floating at the top of the jar, and the label will show no added ingredients except perhaps salt.

Please use the natural peanut butter. It is much better!

Nursing Home News

Wednesday, the 4th of July, was celebrated by residents of the Aransas Pass Nursing and Convalescent Center with a big watermelon special. Betty Billings' daughter-in-law, and Tina Welty helped serve the treat.

Another highlight of the past week was the Country-Western Dance Saturday evening, July 7. Mary Fahrenthold and Robert Mize provided the music, and the ladies of the Altar Society of St. Mary's Star by the Sea Catholic Church served refreshments.

A new volunteer, Valerie Davis, was out to get acquainted with residents Tuesday.

Dottie McCullough visited with residents Tuesday and Thursday mornings, and on Saturday morning, Father James Hamilton gave Holy Communion to the Catholic residents.

Johnie Dunbar, a resident of the Center, played the piano during the Sunday morning church services led by the Rev. Al Bankert.

SIN

Sin is that which is evil, ungodly or wrong. The devil is the author of sin. Sin does one thing -- it destroys. Sin cannot be described as big or little. Sin is sin and it crucified Jesus. Paul said sin will bring death (Rom. 3:26). We must destroy sin or sin will destroy us. Christ is the remedy for sin. Lets fight sin together, I hope to see you Sunday Morning at 10:00 a.m.

RUNNING OFF TO STATE

Among the runners at state track meets in Lubbock and Houston will be at least 11 Rockport-Fulton area youngsters. The participants from Rockport will include, front row, Ben Friebele; second row, Terry Moore, Michael Simmons, and David Ramirez; third row, Jeb Beall, Earnest Gonzales and Zachary Green. Not available for pictures, but also competing are Peter Nichols, Dwayne Walls, Julie Huff and Mike Covarrubias. Youngsters in 8-13 age categories will participate in a Houston meet on July 14, while the 14-17 age group will compete on July 21 in Lubbock. [Pilot Photo by Sarah L. Durdin]

11 Qualify For State Meets

Eleven, though possibly twelve, Rockport area youngsters will compete in state qualifying meets in Houston and Lubbock in the upcoming weekends. Last weekend 21 area runners journeyed to San Antonio to participate in the area qualifying meet. From the 8-13 year old categories, four Rockport runners will travel to Houston on July 14. Ben Friebele, Peter Nichols, David Ramirez and Dwayne Walls all qualified to compete in the Houston meet by placing in the top four places for their respective events.

In the 14-15 age groups, Coach Ron Richardson says the qualifications are such that the 16-17 age group is favored, although only two of those from Rockport going on the Lubbock meet are in that group.

In the older age groups competition, the top four times or distances for each event are taken from the two age groups combined, giving the older runners a slight advantage. In contrast, in the 8-13 age groups the top four distances and times are taken from each age group separately.

Competing in Lubbock for the 14-17 age groups will be Julie Huff, Teresa Moore, Mike Covarrubias, Mike Simmons, Zachary Green, Ernest Gonzales, Jeb Beall, and possibly Darlene Dilworth, for their respective events.

Although Miss Dilworth had the fifth top distance in her event, the high jump, she may go in place of the fourth place winner.

Placing first in the 12-13 age group was David Ramirez in the 880 yard dash, as did the 14-15 age group 440 relay team of Mike Covarrubias, Mike Simmons, Ernest Gonzales and Zachary Green. Also placing first in the 14-15 age group was Bubba Scott for the shot put, Julie Huff for the shot put, and Teresa Moore for both the discus and the mile race walk.

In second place for the 12-13 age group were David Ramirez in the mile run and Peter Nichols in the long jump. In the 14-15 age group Ernest Gonzales placed second in the 100 yard dash, while in the 16-17 age group Jeb Beall placed second in the javelin throw.

Third place winners were Ben Friebele representing the 8-9 age group in the 440 yard dash and Teresa Moore in the shot put for the 14-15 age group.

In the 12-13 age group placing fourth were Dwayne Walls in the 100 yard dash and Bubba Scott for the 14-15 age group in the discus event.

CLEANING UP FOR CAMP

Eleven members of Young Life undertook the task of cleaning up the Rockport beach in order to raise money to go to summer camp in North Carolina. The clean-up crew signed up local businesses as sponsors to pay them so much per time worked. Thirty-two members of Young Life will leave Rockport on July 24, for a week of North Carolina camping.

Youths Clean Up To Raise Money

Eleven students from Rockport - Fulton High School "cleaned up" - literally - Saturday, July 7, to raise money for a trip to North Carolina.

Sponsored by local businesses and firms, the students went to work at 8 a.m. Saturday cleaning Rockport's Beach-Ski Basin area.

The money they collected from their sponsors will pay for a week-long trip, by bus, to Young Life's Summer Camp, Windy Gap, in North Carolina. The bus will leave July 24.

Thirty-two Rockport-Fulton students will attend the week-long camp.

Students participating in Saturday's clean-up were Kathy Smith, Gene McElveen, Phillip Viccineilli, Helen Pearson, Alan Barnard, Mark McDonald, Diana Fake, Scott Meyer, Andy McMillan, Donnie Estes and Karen von Heuvel.

Other students attending the camp will be Jill Larson, Jon Shaw, John McClain, Peter Booth, Tammy Stephens, Jill Oliver, Kenneth Butcher, John Brown, Leta Gregory and Bobby Albin.

Also Nancy Adams, Kenneth Smith, Scott McMillan, Holly Garrison, Jennifer Janeeck, Patty Bechtol, Julie Hiller, Shawn Bateman, Mammie Kinche, Adam Hardin and Teresa Roberts.

Counselors for the group are Wayne Smith, Jimmy Sue Jones, Bobby Jackson and Mrs. Cy Richards.

Young Life is an organization that encourages young people to think seriously about the Christian faith and its values. Some 16,000 campers spend a week at one of seven Young Life resorts each summer.

Other Young Life camps are located in British Columbia, California, Colorado, Minnesota and New York.

One-year teaching contracts were awarded to Jimmie Jones, Patricia Coombs and Marcia Green, and a one-year contract extension was awarded to Jerry Whitley as the Tax Assessor Collector.

Bills totaling $46,208.35 were approved for payment, including a $10,446.50 bill from S.L. Sorenson for a gas test, equipment for maintenance and building maintenance, a $13,312.00 bill from Glass, Sorenson & McDavid for workmen's compensation, and a $4056.39 bill for June from Central Power and Light.

Final Rites Held For John Herring

Final services for John Lee Herring were held June 24, at St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Rockport, with Reverend Walter Clark officiating.

Herring, 75, had been a life-long resident of Fulton, and was a retired decorator. He died on June 22, of a heart attack.

He is survived by his wife, Jamie Gray Herring, Fulton; a sister, Mrs. W.L. Patrick, Rockport; three half-brothers, James Herring, Austin, Joe Herring, Houston, and David Herring, Birmingham, Alabama; and a half-sister, Mrs. Ruthland Newsom, Corpus Christi.

Funeral arrangements were handled by Marshall Funeral Home in Aransas Pass.

First Area Team Tennis Tourney Set

The first team tennis tournament in the Rockport area is scheduled for Sunday, July 15, at the Rockport Racquet Club starting at 1 p.m.

Teams will consist of four players, two men and two women. They will play singles, doubles and mixed doubles against other teams. Participation will be limited to the first 16 qualifying players. The fee is $3 per person.

Thought for the day: Christ is not looking for lawyers to defend Him, but for witnesses to declare Him.

Eat Yourself Slim

By SHIRLEY BRIGHT BOODY
Registered Dietitian
Copley News Service

Thousands of people will be told this year by their doctors to go on a low-sodium diet for medical reasons. This prescription is often hard to accept especially by busy, active people, who view it as a bother and a nuisance. It may, however, play a significant role in the state of their health, particularly if high blood pressure, heart and kidney problems exist.

Twenty-five years ago, there were few low-sodium products on the market, making it difficult to find enjoyable, yet acceptable foods. Today all that has changed, and many people even without medical problems are opting for a lower sodium intake. There is a new, generally accepted realization that high-sodium foods have detrimental effects on health.

Any change in one's diet is often considered hard. In the case of a lowered salt diet, it is necessary for the taste buds to adjust to new taste experiences. Most people who have had to make these changes find that after awhile, they prefer the less salted food. They begin to enjoy true flavors and often find excessively salted foods unpalatable.

Since there are wide varieties of products now available with lowered sodium levels, it is wise to read labels. There are 1,000 milli-grams in one gram. Labels on low-sodium foods will specify the number of milligrams per serving, and the serving sizes are also shown. A word of caution about certain so-called "diet foods," some of which use a sugar substitute, and are not low in sodium.

Milk, breads, margarines, cheeses, baked goods, seasonings, sauces are all available in commercially low-sodium products. A simple way to lower the salt content of any canned food, is to rinse off, several times with water. This rids the food of extra salt and also usually provides a much fresher flavor.

Most fruits and vegetables are quite low in sodium, except celery, which has about 100 mg. per one-half cup.

Chicken and turkey, most poultry and other game are also acceptable on low-salt diets. Seafood and fish are usually higher in salt, but some fresh, unsalted products are fine, such as trout, fresh tuna, sole, cod, bass, clams, turbot, halibut and salmon.

Fresh beef, lamb, pork, veal and liver can be used if prepared without salt. Most herbs and spices can be used for delightful flavors, but celery seed, dill, parsley, cumin and cloves are too high in sodium. Lemon juice and lemon rind add exceptional piquancy to almost any food.

Clearly what is added to food increases the sodium levels to unhealthy heights, and not usually the natural food that causes the problem. Sodium does occur normally in many things, but we push it abnormally high by certain processing methods. Ham, luncheon meats, hot dogs, anchovies, pickles, MSG, salted nuts and cracker cured foods and sodium and on low-salt diet. It still leaves a wide variety of foods to choose. Using fowl or fresh fruits and breads and cereals, unsalted dressings and light meals

PLANT CARE

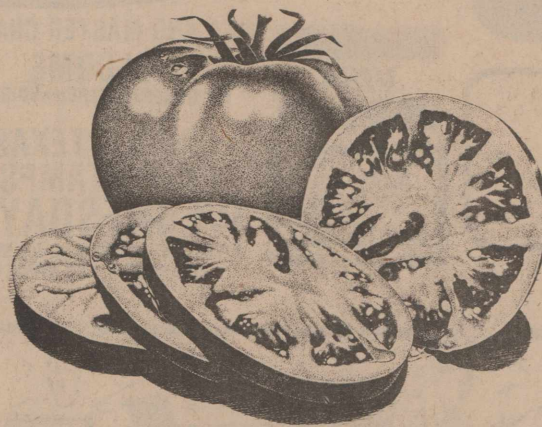

EASY AS ONE, TWO, THREE — To enjoy long living and healthy plants, only three simple steps must be taken: (1) proper selection, (2) proper watering, and (3) proper feeding. That's all there is to basic plant care. If you select, water and fertilize your plants following these easy commonsense guidelines, you should be well on your way to becoming the neighborhood plant expert.

STEP ONE: SELECTION — Start off on the right foot by selecting a plant that is suitable for the light, temperature and humidity conditions that exist in the location where you plan to display the plant. Most homes typically have adequate temperature and humidity (moisture in the air) to maintain healthy plants. A great variety of plants will be healthy and provide years of enjoyment in the typical home without any special care. However, humidity in some homes will be below the ideal level for many plants. Assuming your home has the typical humidity and temperature conditions, lighting is the most important factor in selecting the proper plant. Know whether the plant's location will receive low, medium or bright light levels for a significant portion of the day.

STEP TWO: WATERING — Once the right plant is selected, the next step in proper care is watering. Watering is very simple — however it is known to be the biggest destroyer of potted plants. When watering plants, they should always be watered thoroughly to let moisture reach all of the soil and roots contained in the pot. Water until moisture runs out the drainage hole in the pot, then discard any moisture that collects in the saucer under the pot. Note that pots without a drainage hole are more difficult to water properly. The water should be room temperature or slightly warmer. Plants should be watered only when the soil reaches the desired level of moisture content. That is, plants should not be watered on any fixed schedule, but according to the level of moisture in the soil that is most suitable to their health. Plants fall into three broad groups: those that prefer soil that becomes moderately dry between waterings; those that prefer the soil from dry to moderately moist before watering; and those that prefer the soil to be moist, but not wet at all times.

STEP THREE: FEEDING — Newly purchased or repotted plants should not be fertilized (fed) for several months, and then fed every few weeks or months. Frequency depends on the plant, potting mixture and type of fertilizer. Follow the instructions on the fertilizer package for best results.

Cooking Corner

If there's a cook whose name is synonymous with Mexican cooking, it's Diana Kennedy

An Aficionada Chronicles A Great Cuisine

She's written books which are considered benchmarks on the subject. Encyclopedic in their detail, they are written with an obvious love of the subject and the country. "The Cuisines of Mexico" (Harper and Row, New York, $15.95), was her first book. In addition to recipes, Kennedy offers explanations of ingredients, and sources for them. Her second book,

"The Tortilla Book" (Harper and Row, New York, $4.95), deals entirely with making that staple of Mexican cooking, then using them in recipes. She brings a serious air to her subject, and expects others to share that attitude. In her third book, "Recipes from the Regional Cooks of Mexico" (Harper and Row, New York, $12.95), she writes: "... this, with its strong peasant roots, is the haute cuisine of Mexico, and as much time and trouble should go into its preparation as into that of any intricate French dish."

½ tsp. salt
1 cup warm water
2 ozs. (¼ cup) pork

lard, cut into small pieces
1 lb. unbleached all-purpose flour
Peanut or safflower oil for frying
Confectioners' sugar
Cinnamon

Dissolve the salt in the water and set it aside to cool to lukewarm. Rub the fat into the flour with your fingertips until it resembles very fine breadcrumbs. Add the salted water to the flour and mix the dough with your hands until it comes cleanly away from the sides of the bowl. Turn the dough out onto a lightly floured surface and knead and pull it out for about five minutes. Knead the dough into a round cushion shape, put it into a plastic bag and set it aside for a minimum of two hours, but preferably overnight. DO NOT REFRIGERATE. Cover a tray with a smooth, clean cloth. Remove the dough from the bag and knead the dough for a minute or so on a lightly floured surface, then divide it into small balls about one and one-fourth inches in diameter. There should be about 30 of them.

Set them onto the tray and cover them with a slightly damp cloth or plastic bag.

Dust the work surface very lightly with flour. Roll out one of the balls until it is about five to five and one-half inches in diameter. Cut the dough into four or six small triangles. Repeat with three more balls of dough.

Heat about one-fourth-inch of safflower or peanut oil in a small fry pan. Just before it begins to smoke, lower the flame as you put one piece of the dough into it. Keep pressing the dough down lightly with the back of a fork — it should then start to bubble and puff up. Turn the sopaipilla over and cook the second side. The whole process should only take a few seconds and the sopaipilla should be barely golden in color.

Drain them on paper toweling. Fry the remainder of the batch in the same manner, then sprinkle them with the sugar and cinnamon. Continue with the rest of the dough, working in batches. Makes about 120 sopaipillas.

This is from "Recipes from the Regional Cooks of Mexico."

CHICKEN

GUANAJUATO
1 whole chicken (4.5 lbs.)
Salt and freshly ground pepper
3 tbsps. peanut or safflower oil
1 large onion, thickly sliced
3 cloves garlic, peeled and finely chopped
Tomato puree (see recipe below)
¼ heaped tsp. thyme
¼ heaped tsp. marjoram
¾-inch-piece cinnamon stick
1½ cups fresh orange juice
Zest of ½ orange
12 small new potatoes, unpeeled
5 medium carrots (about ¾ lb.), scraped and cut into fourths lengthwise

Preheat the oven to 350 degrees. Season the cavity of the chicken with salt and pepper. Heat the oil in a heatproof casserole in which the chicken will just fit snugly and brown the chicken all over.

Remove the chicken from the casserole and sprinkle it with more salt and pepper, then set it aside. Take out all but two tablespoons of the oil from the casserole. Add the onion and garlic and fry gently, without browning, until they are translucent.

Add the tomato puree, the thyme, marjoram and cinnamon, and fry over high heat for about three minutes, constantly stirring and scraping the bottom of the casserole.

Add the chicken, orange juice, orange zest, potatoes and carrots. Cover and bake for about 30 minutes, then turn the chicken over and bake until it is tender — another 20 to 25 minutes.

Cut the chicken into serving pieces and serve with plenty of the sauce and vegetables. Makes six servings. TOMATO PUREE: With foil line a shallow, heatproof dish into which three medium tomatoes fit comfortably and can be turned easily — if the pan is too large, the sweet juice they exude in the cooking will dry up.

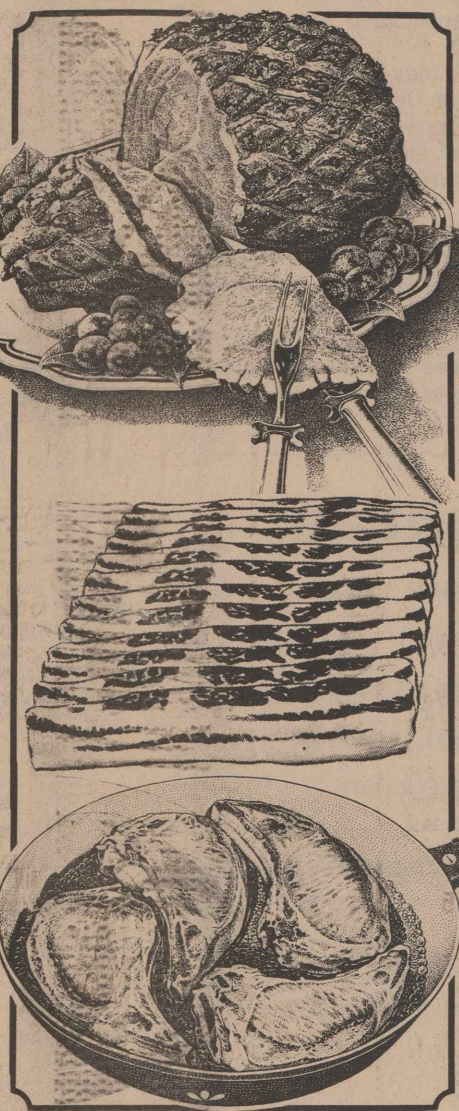

Broil the tomatoes about two inches from medium heat. As the tomatoes blister and brown on one side — try not to char them too much — turn them over, repeating this process from time to time during the cooking period until they are evenly browned and soft inside — about 20 minutes.

If any part of the skin has been blackened and rather hard, peel it off. Otherwise, puree the whole tomato — skin, seeds, core and all.

Q. I have a 9-year-old male Siamese cat who likes to urinate in different places of the house. He is physically healthy and has been doing it for a long time. What's wrong with him? How can I train him not to do this? — L.M. San Diego, Calif.

A. When cats begin urinating in places other than the litter box, there can often be underlying urinary tract infection. The problem can be simply treated once an examination and urine analysis are performed.

However, there are behavioral disorders that must be considered once a urinary tract infection is ruled out. These disorders range from territorial markings, to such simple problems as feeding the cat too near the litter box. Your best bet is to have her examined first by a veterinarian.

Q. Your column in the Columbus Dispatch mentioned a book, "Behavior Problems in Dogs" by William E. Campbell, for help in behavior problems. We have tried our library and major bookstores and cannot locate this book. Could you help me? — Mrs. J.L.B., Columbus, Ohio

A. I suggest writing to the author directly.

The Legal Way

By E.J. DEMSON, J.D.
Copley News Service

You have just been notified that you are to serve as executor of a friend's estate. It's a small estate, but you know nothing about these matters and are worried about doing a good job. Where do you start?

Q. I have learned that a friend with terminal cancer has appointed me executor of her estate. What does this entail? What procedures do I follow to settle this estate?

A. She has very little — a mobile home and furnishings, car, and some savings. Two grandchildren are her heirs. There are no debts or encumbrances. We live in California.

A. The legal procedures for settling small estates are somewhat similar in every state. Your first step would be to advise with the clerk or commissioner of the county probate court in which the estate is located. He or she will outline your duties.

California law (Prob. C.630) provides that when the decedent leaves no real estate in California and the total value of the estate (after payment of debts) is not more than $5,000, the two heirs will receive the net value due them at once, with only an affidavit required.

Q. My wife and I have been married 47 years, but now she has left me and has filed for a divorce. She wants me to pay her attorney's fees and support her until the divorce is final.

A. Our only income is from Social Security. Can she make me pay her legal fees and maintenance? She left me, and the divorce is her idea. We live in Florida.

A. Florida divorce law (now called dissolution of marriage) (Fla. Stat. 61.052.071) says that while a divorce action is pending, the court may allow temporary support and funds for attorney's fees.

Your wife would petition the court for this money, and a hearing would be held, at which you may object to the allowance. The court has complete jurisdiction over the financial settlement — division of assets, whether alimony is to be paid, etc.

Q. For the past year I've been living with a guy at college. We bought a car together and I paid for more than half of it. But it is registered in his name. Each of us was to have use of it.

A. Now he has split — left town with the car. Does the law say I can get my money back from him?

A. The law says (Am. Jur. 2d Ref: Breach of Contract, Sec. 46, et seq) if you and a guy (both of legal age) agreed to buy a car, you paid for more than half of it, and he has left with the car, he has repudiated your agreement.

You may recover damages for the loss you sustained because of this breach. This would include the amount you paid, plus interest.

Write, without a charge, to E.J. Demson, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper, for what the law says about your legal problem. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope, please.

Comptroller Bullock Authorizes New Tax Return Forms

AUSTIN, Tex.-- State Comptroller Bob Bullock Friday said he has authorized a simple declaration form for certain beneficiaries to use in lieu of an inheritance tax return for estates less than $200,000.

Bullock said the declaration of no tax due from Class A beneficiaries will replace the additional step of filing a more complicated return and having the Comptroller's Office issue a no tax declaration.

A Class A beneficiary is defined as a person most closely related to the deceased person, including the surviving spouse, children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Sons-in-law, daughters-in-law, parents and grandparents of a deceased person are also included in the definition.

"The new form is an effort to cut down on the amount of paperwork for small estates on which no Texas inheritance taxes are due and make our inheritance tax division a little more efficient and responsive at the same time," Bullock said.

Estates which have a gross value of less than $200,000 are exempt by law from state inheritance taxes for Class A beneficiaries. Beginning, September 1, 1982, this figure will be increased to $250,000, and to $300,000 on September 1, 1985.

Public Notice

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will begin at 9 a.m. on July 24, 1979, in the offices of the Texas Public Utility Commission in Austin, Texas, on a proposal by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. to make certain changes in the format of selected Texas telephone directories.

The principal proposed changes are: (1) to separate business and residential listings in the white pages, with residential surnames listed once in boldface type followed by the alphabetical listing of the individuals' given names in regular type; and (2) to add, in addition to the "white pages" business and residential listings and the Yellow Pages business listings, a third set of "blue pages" listing the numbers of selected governmental and public service agencies.

Inquiries may be addressed to the Texas Public Utility Commission, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Austin, Texas 78757.

ONCE THERE WAS A LITTLE SPEED LIMIT WHO WASN'T NEARLY AS MACHO AS THE BIG SPEED LIMITS. THEY LAUGHED AT HIM AND CALLED HIM A MILKTOAST, AND WORSE.

BUT ONE BIG SPEED LIMIT KEPT CRACKING UP IN ACCIDENTS. AND ANOTHER WENT BROKE BUYING GAS. AND SO IT WENT.

AND THE LITTLE SPEED LIMIT WENT PUTTERING RIGHT ALONG, SAVING GAS, SAVING MONEY, SAVING LIVES.

While 55 miles per hour is considered to be a much safer speed than 65 or 70 mph, the chances of fatal accidents are still high, all across the nation. An auto crash at 55 mph into an immovable object will kill all passengers within seven tenths of the first second after the impact.

Death Occurs In First Second

'Safe' Speeds Are Dangerous Too

The "typical" driver this year will travel approximately 11,000 miles, at an average fuel economy rating of 14-15 miles per gallon, with gasoline costs figured at 5 cents per mile.

Even with lowered speed limits cutting down on the number of highway traffic fatalities, 55 miles per hour is still a dangerous speed.

Researchers at Cornell University and the University of California have been studying the nature of auto crashes. The details of what happens in one second, when a car traveling at 55 mph crashes into a tree, can be divided into seven steps.

In that first tenth of that fatal second your front bumper and grill collapse.

In the second tenth of a second your hood crumples, rises, strikes the windshield. Spinning rear wheels rise from the ground. Fenders begin wrapping themselves around the tree. Car frame is braked powerfully, but your body is still moving at 55 miles an hour. Instinctively, you stiffen your legs for the jolt; but they snap at the knee joints.

During the third tenth-second, your torso leaves the seat. Broken knees ram into the dashboard. The steering wheel drives toward your chest.

In the deadly second's fourth-tenth, the two front feet of the car are totally demolished, but the rear end is still coming on at 55 miles an hour. You are still doing 55. Half a ton of motor plunges into the tree. The car's rear rises as high as the tree's low branches.

In the fifth tenth, you are impaled on the steering column. Blood spurts into your lungs.

In the sixth tenth, the force of impact has built up so that your feet are ripped out of the tightly fastened shoes. The brake pedal is sheared off. The car frame now buckles in the middle. Your head bangs into the windshield. The rear wheels, still spinning, fall back to earth.

And in the seventh tenth of the second, the whole car body is distorted. Hinges rip. Doors open. The seat flies loose, striking you from behind. But it doesn't matter, you are already dead. Blood spurts from

DAV Sets Up System to Aid Vets Disabled By Agent Orange

The list of American casualties of the Vietnam War continues to mount, even though U.S. involvement in the fighting in Indochina ended several years ago.

Hundreds of thousands--possibly many more--American GIs were exposed to Agent Orange and other powerfully toxic defoliants while fighting in Southeast Asia during the Vietnam War. Agent Orange contains dioxin, which many scientists have called "the most toxic man-made substance known."

Dioxin has been blamed for a number of severe health problems and some deaths among Vietnam veterans, as well as birth defects among some of their children. These disabilities are showing up years after exposure to herbicides such as Agent Orange.

The 622,000-member Disabled American Veterans (DAV) has set up a nationwide program to assist these veterans in filing claims with the Veterans Administration (VA) for health care and disability benefits for illnesses that may be associated with dioxin poisoning.

The most common symptoms attributed to dioxin poisoning include:

- numbness in fingers, toes, arms and legs in varying degrees;
- nervous disorders, especially loss or decrease in the sensitivity of the senses;
- psychological effects, including loss of memory, confusion, aggression or irritability;
- skin rashes, specifically chloracne, which resembles a severe case of acne and is usually found on the face, arms, chest, back or legs;
- altered sex drive, including diminished sex cluding diminished sex drive or impotence among men, and increased sexual activity among women;

- cancer, particularly cancer of the liver; and
- birth defects in children born to affected parents--primarily defects of the hands, fingers, feet and toes.

Some hyperactivity and psychological problems have been reported in children of affected parents.

"It will be extremely difficult to show that these disabilities are the result of exposure to Agent Orange for the purposes of claims for VA benefits," said DAV National Director of Services Norman B. Hartnett.

"That's why it's so important that a Vietnam veteran have a veterans' benefits expert, who does not get his pay check from the government, represent him in filing this type of claim."

Veterans of the war in Southeast Asia who have symptoms they feel may be related to exposure to such herbicides as Agent Orange should contact: National Service Headquarters, Disabled American Veterans, 807 Maine Ave., S.W., Washington, D.C. 20024.

Casterline For Navigation Commissioner

I would like to take this opportunity to announce my candidacy for Aransas County Navigation District Commissioner; and, to introduce myself to the voters of Precinct 2.

As a lifelong resident of Aransas County, I believe that in order to effectively serve the community, a Commissioner of the Navigation District should:

- (1) have a working knowledge of the recreational and commercial marine activities of Aransas County; and
- (2) be interested in maintaining the marine environment to best benefit the entire community, and thereby, preserve its use for future generations.

I feel, as a family man participating in the recreational activities and as a businessman involved all my life in the local shrimping industry, I meet these qualifications.

I would appreciate your support on August 11.
