PAMPA — Henry Skinner will return to Pampa Wednesday from death row in Huntsville for a hearing in the Gray County Courthouse.

Skinner, convicted in the bludgeoning death of his girl friend and stabbing deaths of her two sons, will be in 31st District Court Wednesday for a hearing on the timeliness of a writ of habeas corpus.

The writ, according to court records, was filed late. Skinner's attorney Steve Losch of Longview has indicated that he requested an extension, but authorities said today that the request also was filed late.

Skinner was sentenced to death in the slaying of Twila Busby and her two sons, Elwin Caler and Randolph Busby on New Year's, 1994, in Pampa.

AUSTIN (AP) — Hoping to put a dent in accident-related deaths, Austin police have arrested nearly 45 percent more people this year than last year for driving while intoxicated.

Taking detectives from investigative units and putting them back into uniforms and patrol cars, the department has been able to put an additional dozen officers on the street to catch drunken drivers.

Through April, police had arrested 1,277 people for driving while intoxicated, up from 884 a year ago.

County says no to Red Deer water shed plan

By JEFF WEST
Staff Writer

The Gray County Commission has to stop the long-standing water control project known as the Red Deer water shed project.

Commissioners, who took the action Friday, had been questioned by the state earlier this year whether or not they supported the project.

Designed over 30 years ago, the project was intended to build a series of water sheds on privately-held lands along Red Deer Creek to prevent flooding and land erosion.

While some of the water sheds have been built, others remain undone. During the delay, easements that had been acquired expired. Also, due to some problems with the finished water sheds, some land owners do not want more built on their land, or at least not built at the proposed sites. The state wants to know if the county will take steps to secure new easements. The steps could have involved property condemnation to get the easements.

When presented with the proposal earlier this year commissioners tabled the matter. But several commissioners said then they would be reluctant to pursue condemnation of private land.

At last week's meeting, commissioners met with one of the land

Arrest leads teens to miss graduation

Four Tulsa high school seniors missed graduation because they were in Gray County jail.

Four graduating seniors missed their graduation ceremonies last weekend after being arrested on theft charges.

Officers said the four 18-year-olds were arrested shortly before 2 a.m. Sunday by Department of Public Safety troopers and Wheeler County officers in connection with the theft of gasoline from a service station in Alanreed.

Anthony Ray Mullins, 18, of Tulsa, was released from Gray County jail Monday after serving 24 hours on misdemeanor charges of theft under $20 and failure to identify himself to law enforcement officers.

Walton Lemorris, Natasha Sargeon and Roshun J. Pressley, all 18 and all of Tulsa, were freed Sunday after paying fines for charges of theft under $20. Gray County Justice of the Peace Mary Carpenter fined each of the three $100.

The four, traveling in two rental cars, were accused of stopping at a service station at Alanreed and putting gas in their cars then driving away. The service station attendant notified officers who stopped the two cars eastbound on Interstate 40 in Wheeler County.

Officers said the four claimed they were returning to Tulsa for grad-

Sex offense warrant served on worker here

An Amarillo man had been returned to Potter County today after being arrested in Pampa on charges of indecency with a child.

Dell Ray Epps, 28, was arrested Monday at Wilson School on a Potter County warrant charging him with indecency with a child by sexual contact. Gray County officers arrested Epps about 9:30 a.m. Monday at Wilson School where he was employed as a construction worker on the school's renovation. There are no classes at the school at 801 E. Browning while the building is under renovation.

Officers said Epps offered no resistance.

The warrant was issued by Judge Patrick Pirtle of the 251st Court in Amarillo.

Julie and Adelaide German, sisters captured by the Native Americans and rescued by the U.S. Cavalry in the Battle of Lake McClellan Creek, Nov. 8, 1874, are re-enacted by Melissa and Heidi Stallings of Fritch in the "Gray County Video."

Gray video on History Channel

The "Gray County Adventure" video will be shown in part on the History Channel tomorrow morning at 8, according to a release from the channel.

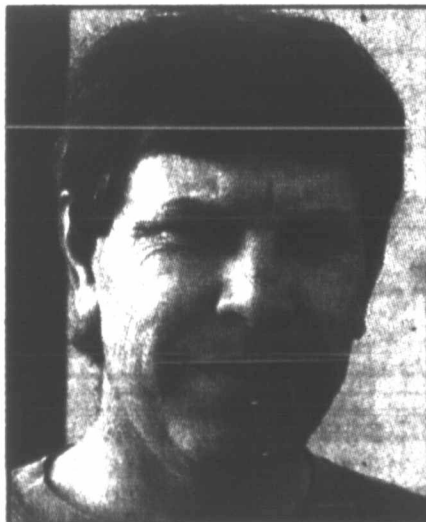

The award-winning video includes lively re-enactments of early panhandle history, including battles at Adobe Walls and Buffalo Wallow.

There are interviews with pioneers who helped in the ranching, farming and industrial development of the county, including visits to the county towns, the first oil well and the first site on Cantonment Creek of the panhandle's only fort, Fort Elliott.

The video was produced with a script by Gray County Historical Commission Chairman Darlene Birkes, assisted by co-chairman Eloise Lane with the music. Glen Ely of Forest Glen TV Productions, Fort Worth, photographed the video. The 70-minute video can be purchased through Hastings and the Gift Box in Pampa.

Dictionary firm won't sanitize book; will flag some 200 words

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Resisting pressure to sanitize its dictionary, publisher Merriam-Webster has agreed to flag the entries for some 200 racial slurs and other obscenities to warn that the words are offensive.

"A dictionary is a scholarly reference, not a political tool," Deborah Burns, marketing director for Merriam-Webster, said Monday. "As long as the word is in use it is our responsibility as dictionary publishers to put the word into the dictionary."

Editors at the Springfield-based publisher said they would place a notation in italics before about 200 of the 160,000 words in the 1999 Collegiate Dictionary which indicates the words are used as ethnic, religious or sexual slurs.

The definitions, however, will not be rewritten. "They didn't change anything. They just switched things around," said Delphine Abraham of Ypsilanti, Mich., who vowed to continue pressing ahead with a petition drive to have dictionary publishers redefine the word "nigger."

"Black people shouldn't be labeled niggers any more than white people should be called honkies or Jews called kikes," she said, referring to the published definitions of other slurs. "It promotes bigotry and racism."

In response to hundreds of similar complaints, Merriam-Webster set up a task force to consider offensive definitions and whether to change the practice of listing definitions historically, with the oldest uses coming first.

The company never considered the total removal of offensive and derogatory words, including "nigger," "queer," "redneck" and "white trash," from its adult dictionaries, Ms. Burns said.

Under the new format, a notation will direct readers to the words' usage paragraphs — which in the case of "nigger" describes the word as "perhaps the most offensive and inflammatory racial slur in English."

After noting that it is usually offensive, Merriam-Webster will continue to list the first, and earliest use of "nigger," which came into American writing around 1700, as "a black person."

Ms. Abraham, who has recently expanded her petition drive to include the Oxford University Press, wants the publishers to drop references to the targeted group from definition of such slurs. She said she had collected more than 10,000 signatures.

Ms. Burns said Merriam-Webster cannot do more than "make very, very clear that these words are considered offensive and people should be careful if they choose to use them."

A spokeswoman for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which had also criticized Merriam-Webster, said it had no immediate response to the publisher's plans.

Kathryn Williams, curator of the Museum of African American History in Flint, Mich., had launched a separate protest urging Merriam-Webster to remove "nigger" from the dictionary. Williams did not return messages seeking comment left on the museum's answering machine Monday and today.

COUNTY

owners, John Spearman, who would have some of the water sheds built on his property. He said some proposed sites are near county roads where young people gathering already are a problem. He said a dam there will cause more problems.

"We have all kinds of problems with kids. You'd have to have someone there with a shotgun 24-hours-a-day to keep them away, or be concerned with liability on the site," Spearman said.

Other locations are near property lines and some owners want an agreement that the county will clear trash out of the creek so it won't collect, he said.

He said some of the sheds aren't working as they should now, and he opposes some others for that reason.

After he spoke and several of the commissioners expressed their opposition to trying to force land owners to sign easements the commission voted to tell the state that they no longer support the project.

In other business, the county court looked more favorably on a request from Reggie Blackwell, a district forest ranger who works with Lake McClellan. Blackwell said some work at the lake is on hold because bids have not been made or were made over the budget. He asked commissioners to help with the project using the Challenge Cost Share Agreement between the Forest Service and the county. The agreement is that the county will provide some help for projects, mostly using county workers and equipment, but not usually involving county money.

The county will provide labor and equipment for work on parking lots, roadways, water lines and the like. County Judge Richard Peet said if the county has to hire temporary workers to complete a project it will be reimbursed by the federal government.

In still more business, the commissioners agreed to let the sheriff's office sell some older vehicles and sell some county-owned land in McLean.

Apartment break-in case gets court hearing today

A jury was being selected this morning in connection with a burglary trial involving break-ins at a Pampa apartment complex.

Gerald Wade Cochran, 24, of Route One, Pampa, is accused in a series of burglaries last spring at the the Gwendolyn Apartments where he was employed as a maintenance man.

Officer said items taken in the burglaries included money, a handgun and household goods and furnishings.

Cochran was expected to plead guilty to one count of burglary today, authorities said, and will ask a jury to set his punishment.

Monday afternoon, Judge M. Kent Sims in pre-trial hearings in 31st District Court denied motions by Cochran's attorney to suppress evidence and to suppress a legal arrest. A motion to quash the grand jury indictment against Cochran was denied after prosecutors amended the indictment.

Cochran took the witness stand briefly Monday to testify that he didn't remember being warned about his rights when he was arrested shortly after noon on April 30, 1997. He testified that officers came to his home about 12:10 p.m., April 30, and he didn't think he had been told by officers that he could remain silent and had the right to an attorney before being taken to jail an hour to an hour and a half later where he gave a written confession.

Cochran said he could have been mistaken, however, when confronted by Assistant District Attorney Matt Martindale who presented the defendant a statement he had signed dated 12:30 p.m., April 30, 1997.

Amtrak train derails near Round Rock

ROUND ROCK, Texas (AP) — An Amtrak train carrying 104 passengers derailed today after hitting a garbage truck that was on the tracks, the Texas Department of Public Safety said. At least a dozen people were injured.

Nine cars, including two locomotives, were off the track between Round Rock and Hutto. Three cars were on their side, including both locomotives. One briefly caught fire but it was extinguished.

DPS spokesman Mike Cox said the truck's driver, employed by Central Texas Refuse, was severely injured and airlifted to Brackenridge Hospital in nearby Austin.

The driver, Cody Joe Pearson, was in critical condition, according to hospital spokeswoman Jennifer Howard-Brown. The train's conductor, Rudolph P. Quesada, was in fair condition, she said.

Ten more were taken to two other area hospitals.

Loraine Ondrej, chief nursing officer at Columbia St. David's Round Rock Hospital, said five people were in stable condition. "Their injuries are mainly bruises, contusions, back pain," she said, adding that the hospital expected all to be released today.

New weight loss center opens doors in Pampa

Curves For Women, a 30-minute fitness and weight loss center has opened in Pampa, at 305 W. Foster. The company offers an exercise facility and weight loss counseling in the same place.

Company founder Gary Heavin said "Before Curves, towns with populations less than 50,000 did not have woman only exercise facilities."

The company uses what it calls a Quickfit circuit which it says allows a facility to operate in under a 1,000 square feet.

The facility is built around a new idea in exercise, a complete workout in just half an hour. The Quickfit circuit is a system of exercise that alternates hydraulic resistance machines with aerobic recovery stations. As one moves around the circuit, an instructor helps a client move around the circuit performing both cardio and a strength workout at the same time. The program ends with a three minute stretching routine. Company officials say the thirty minute workout can burn as much as 500 calories. Because you're moving fluids rather than weights, they say it is safe for any age or physical condition.

Local franchise owner Billie Jameson said, "When you diet alone 40 percent of the weight you lose is muscle. The key to permanent results is lean muscle. When a woman loses 20 pounds with us it is entirely body fat."

Curves on-site weight loss program was developed by registered dietitian Elizabeth Sommers, author of "The Nutritional Desk Reference".

The monthly fee of $29 makes the program a great value according to Jameson. The phone number for Curves is 669-7660.

Three new officers start work today

Three new officers joined Pampa Police Department today. Two of the officers are new to law enforcement. One is a veteran from Brownfield.

Jeff Reeves, from Adrian, speaks Spanish and earned a Bachelor of Science in Criminal Justice from West Texas A&M University.

Keith Morris, from Canyon, is married and has a one-year-old daughter.

David Conner has spent the last three and a half years as a police officer in Brownfield. He's married with one son.

The three were sworn in at City Hall ceremonies at 9 a.m. today.

Sgt. Terry Young, Pampa Police Department training officer, said the three would begin on-the-job instruction immediately.

Texas Panhandle Mental Health Authority observes Suicide Prevention Week

AMARILLO — The Texas Panhandle Mental Health Authority has announced National Suicide Prevention Week is May 3-9. Every 17 minutes someone in our country dies by suicide (about 60 percent of them are completed with a firearm). Most people live under the assumption that suicide will never happen to their loved ones. Yet in the United States each year, more than 30,000 families face the reality that their loved one believed that it was better to die than to continue living. Suicide is a terrible tragedy that results in unanswerable questions and tremendous pain for family, friends and the community. Suicide is often preceded by depression and other mental illnesses. These life threatening diseases can be treated.

Organizations on a national, state and local level are drawing attention to the fact that suicide prevention is everyone's business. Like cancer treatment, the sooner we can identify suicidal behavior, the better the chances are of prolonging life.

In the Panhandle, Texas Panhandle Mental Health Authority has a 24-hour hotline called the Regional Emergency Assessment Center and Hotline (REACH). Services include a 24-hour mental health crisis walk-in and is the gateway to the Panhandle Substance Abuse Services Network. Trained staff and volunteers are available to assist and access every call. Over 1,500 calls are received each month.

REACH is a Suicide and Crisis Center and is certified by the American Association of Suicidology, exceeding the current level of service standards set by the Texas Department of Mental Health/Mental Retardation.

There is no typical suicide victim. It happens to young and old, rich and poor. But fortunately there are some common warning signs which, when acted upon, can save lives. A suicidal person may:

- Talk about committing suicide
- Have trouble eating or sleeping
- Experience drastic changes in behavior
- Withdraw from friends and/or social activities
- Lose interest in hobbies, work, school, etc.

—Prepare for death by making out a will and final arrangements —Give away prized possessions

—Have attempted suicide before

—Take unnecessary risks

—Lose interest in their personal appearance

—Increase their use of alcohol or drugs

—Talk about feelings of despair and/or hopelessness

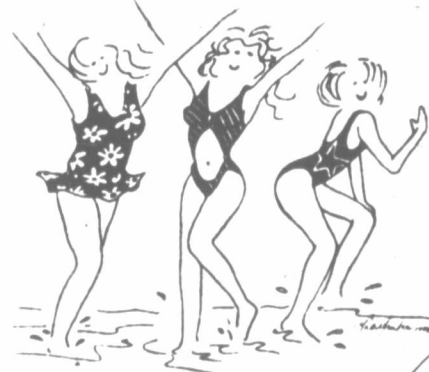

—Can't think clearly

—Can't seem to get control

—Cries often and sometimes can't seem to stop.

If anyone you know is discussing suicide or has these symptoms, seek help immediately by calling the REACH hotline at 1-800-692-4039.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL) -- A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis," and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis, relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis, is available immediately without a prescription in an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream or new roll-on lotion form. Arthur Itis, is guaranteed to work or your money back.

Americans need control of their own retirement

►If Social Security ills are to be addressed, the work must begin right away.

President Clinton recently kicked off a new round of discussion debate on the nation's Social Security system. Not a day can be wasted in finding solutions to the system's major problem — that it will start going broke in 2012 when the baby boom generation — 70 million strong — begins retiring.

The faster sound, fiscally responsible solutions are put into place, the easier will be any necessary adjustments to be made by employees and retirees. In particular, if privatization elements are part of a reform, with employees putting some part of their current Social Security deductions into private accounts (similar to IRAs), then compound interest and a rising stock market will begin to do their magic in relieving the pressure on the tax-based portions of the system.

It is worth noting that the debate over Social Security has reached a rather remarkable point — one of assessing alternatives to the current system. Ten or 20 years ago Social Security was protected territory, untouchable by politicians.

Whether the new openness can be ascribed to aging baby boomers, their increased personal control of their pension through 401(k) plans, the rise of the mutual fund industry or all three factors, the nature of the discussion has definitely changed for the better.

The president insisted that Social Security reform must include three elements: It has to be fair, universal and good to the poor and disabled.

The alternatives presented were well-worn and a step behind some of the newest thinking in Social Security ideas being tried around the world; there are better solutions than those offered by either group.

"Personal retirement accounts would offer all that (the president demands)," Darcy Olsen, entitlements policy analyst at the Cato Institute, said. Such accounts would let each employee put a certain percentage of income into a long-term investment tied to the stock market, such as a mutual fund. Doing so would add an element of privatization to the system. For example, Democratic Sen. Daniel Moynihan of New York has proposed cutting the payroll tax to 10.4 percent from the current 12.4 percent, with the difference shunted into private retirement accounts held by each person. The Moynihan plan — or one like it — would "allow every single American to own a piece of capital in the country," Olsen said. "This is something the president will be able to give back to the American people. That will be a legacy."

In addition, "the poor, minimum wage workers, women and minorities will do better under a private system than under the current system," she says.

The reason is simple: A partially privatized system would allow them to build an individual nest egg, rather than rely on a government program that, if unchanged, might well be bankrupt in few years. If that happened, wealthier workers likely would be able to save and muddle along; minimum-wage workers would have a harder time of it.

There are other problems with the system as presently constituted. A Cato study found that black men have a life expectancy of 65.8 years. Because benefits kick in at age 65, that means nearly half of black men will pay into the system all their lives but die before they receive even a penny, while leaving no legacy. By contrast, a privatized system would accumulate an IRA-type account of private stock that could be passed on to the next generation, keeping wealth in the family and community.

Though the debate on Social Security reform is urgent, it should not be rushed so much that defective reforms are enacted, such as the tax increases advocated by the AARP.

True reform must reduce government while empowering citizens to control the investment in their own golden years of retirement.

—Odessa American

Thought for today

"I am the inferior of any man whose rights I trample under foot. Men are not superior by reason of the accidents of race or color. They are superior who have the best heart — the best brain."

Robert Green Ingersoll,
Liberty

C-Span: The patriot's channel

A caller to C-SPAN a few months ago said the following: "Brian, in Japan, they have a tradition of naming extremely important individuals as 'national treasures.' If the U.S. were to institute such a policy, the first person to be so honored should be Brian Lamb."

Brian Lamb, founder and leading light of C-SPAN, is a national treasure. His network does more to inform and enlighten the American electorate on matters of political and civic importance than anything else in the whole modern maze of television.

In part, that is because C-SPAN, unlike all of its electronic media competitors, is religiously devoted to the printed word. On the morning journal program, for example, viewers are asked to do exactly what the guests do: select stories from their daily newspapers and discuss them. C-SPAN sternly discourages the kind of calls other networks welcome — the "I'm mad as hell, and I'm not gonna take it anymore" type. Lamb and the other judicious C-SPAN hosts turn the callers back to the newspapers, back to facts, back to words.

C-SPAN assiduously cultivates utter impartiality — and succeeds to a remarkable degree. Lamb is beloved by liberals and conservatives alike because they perceive him to be scrupulously fair. Naturally, because he deals with the public and because he dwells on political matters, Lamb also comes in for a fair amount of abuse from the kook and crackpot brigades. They phone in with regularity to upbraid him for giving too much time to their enemies and not enough time to their friends. The right-wing and left-wing nuts spew equal amounts of venom — and their foolishness is revealed starkly by their chosen target. If you are paranoid enough to believe that Brian Lamb — Brian Lamb! — is biased or unjust, then you should be phoning a psychiatrist, not a talk show.

In a media world of bitter partisanship and division, Brian Lamb's unflappable impartiality is something of a work of art. So is his patriotism.

C-SPAN is a celebration of democracy. It is based on the notion that an informed electorate will have the wisdom to make good decisions. C-SPAN is the enemy of self-dealing, corruption and all forms of insiderism. If there is an unspoken theme of C-SPAN's coverage, it is reveal, reveal, reveal. Lamb always asks who owns what. He asks who is married to whom. He rarely fails to mention where someone used to work and who his or her parents are if it is relevant.

C-SPAN has taken its cameras into every corner of the world of government, from congressional offices doing ordinary constituent service to New Hampshire breakfasts where presidential aspirants test their stump speeches. The watchful C-SPAN eye has covered every political convention. Yes, Republicans and Democrats certainly. But also Libertarians, American Communists and anybody else who can claim a spot on the ballot.

C-SPAN isn't just about Washington, and it isn't just about government. It, like its founder, is in love with America. The C-SPAN school buses, which range over the whole country, offer peeks into interesting historical sites, grand natural beauty and ordinary classrooms. The Alexis de Tocqueville Tour revisited every stop of the famous chronicler's 1830s visit.

And while the network constantly reminds us of our past, it has stayed on the cutting edge with a very sophisticated web site that can hyperlink faster than I can log on.

Lamb hosts the best interview program on television, "Booknotes," an hour-long talk with authors of political or historical works. You can then read the first chapter of all books featured on the program on the C-SPAN web site.

There are some cable companies that discipline wayward customers by putting C-SPAN on every channel when the bill has not been paid. How droll. But how insulting to a channel that does so much to enhance our appreciation of the ongoing American experiment.

Brian Lamb is a very modest man who will cringe to read these words. If I had told him of my intent to praise him in print, he would have found a million arguments against the idea. So, I didn't call him. You can't always consult national treasures.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, May 5, the 125th day of 1998. There are 240 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On May 5, 1961, astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr. became America's first space traveler as he made a 15-minute suborbital flight in a capsule launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

On this date:

In 1818, political philosopher Karl Marx was born in Prussia.

In 1821, Napoleon Bonaparte died in exile on the island of St. Helena.

In 1862, Mexican forces loyal to Benito Juarez defeated French troops sent by Napoleon III in the Battle of Puebla.

In 1891, Carnegie Hall, then named Music Hall, had its opening night in New York City.

In 1925, John T. Scopes was arrested in Tennessee for teaching Darwin's theory of evolution.

In 1942, sales of sugar resumed in the United States under a rationing program.

In 1945, in the only fatal attack of its kind during World War II, a Japanese balloon bomb exploded on Gearhart Mountain in Oregon, killing the pregnant wife of a minister and five children.

In 1955, West Germany became a sovereign state.

In 1981, Irish Republican Army hunger-striker Bobby Sands died at the Maze Prison in Northern Ireland in his 66th day without food.

In 1987, the congressional Iran-Contra hearings opened with former Air Force Maj. Gen. Richard V. Secord as leadoff witness.

Ten years ago: The Rev. Eugene

Antonio Marino became the nation's first black Roman Catholic archbishop during an installation Mass in the Atlanta Civic Center. He stepped down in July 1990 because of a two-year affair with Columbus resident Vicki Long.

Five years ago: The Bosnian Serb parliament began debating a U.N. peace plan for Bosnia, rejecting the plan the following day. U.N. Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali recommended creation of a tribunal to try those responsible for war crimes in former Yugoslavia.

There is still hope for the Republic

Abjure the realm.

People keep asking me what they can do, and so I offer the advice of Dr. Michael Hill, president of the League of the South: Abjure the realm.

In the old days, to abjure the realm was to make a formal declaration renunciation. To put it in modern terms, we cannot reform something that we continue to support, though many Americans seem to be under the illusion that they can.

What is wrong with the country is not just that the wrong people got elected to office. It's the whole shebang, the whole matrix of cultural, economic and political thought that the American elite has imposed on the American people. An elite, I hasten to add, that is defined by money, position and political power — not individual merit.

The constitutional republic has been scrapped, the Constitution rendered meaningless by promiscuous interpretation and there are now no limits on the power of the central government. And the trend is definitely toward authoritarianism at home and imperialism abroad.

The economic philosophy is not capitalism, as many suppose, but international corporate "welfarism" in which success is measured by stock prices, golden parachutes and corporate profits — not by the prosperity, health and happiness of the American people. Those things don't count.

Charley Reese
Syndicated columnist

The culture is atheistic, materialist and hedonistic. People are reduced to being rootless consumers of junk: junk food, junk art, junk goods. There is enormous pressure on Americans, beginning in childhood, to consume, consume, consume. There is enormous pressure on Americans to go into debt. By the time students are seniors in high school, their mailboxes are full of offers from credit card companies. Every time you open your mailbox, turn on the television or pick up a publication, there are screaming messages to buy, buy, buy.

Internationally, Americans are conditioned to be cannon fodder for the empire while at the same time, their own independence is being eroded so it can be replaced by a non-elected international governing body. Since World War II, the last time any nation declared war on us, Americans have died all over the world not in defense of America but for God only knows what special interests and hidden agendas.

So, if you want to change all that, the first step is to abjure it — renounce it, abandon it, withdraw from it and, in short, shove it light off your cotton-picking radar screen. Don't buy from it, attend it, watch it, vote for it; don't donate to it, waste time talking to it or spend any money with it. "It" being this political-cultural-economic establishment.

Set about creating a better culture. Get out of debt and start thinking of ways to be financially independent of giant corporations that look upon you as an expendable ant. Associate only with people who share your values.

Be civil and stop tolerating incivility; be moral and stop tolerating immorality; be loyal to your people and to your land and stop tolerating those who betray both. Buy local; think of ways you and like-minded people can support each other. Home school your children or send them to a private school you know teaches traditional American and religious values.

I refuse to believe that Americans cannot restore their republic. I believe we can yet become the freest, happiest and most prosperous people on earth.

But to do that, we have to stop allowing an Establishment elite to tell us what to think, what to buy, what to approve of, what to disapprove of, whom to make war on, whom to vote for. We have to pry their greedy fingers off our government, our country, our monetary system, our economy — and our throats.

The business of making real, as opposed to ersatz, change is serious and requires commitment and a willingness to make sacrifices. That has always been true and always will be. But we always have a choice.

Gov. Bush declares Home Education Week May 3-9

AUSTIN — Gov. George W. Bush recently issued a proclamation declaring May 3-9 Home Education Week in Texas. Citing parental involvement and individual attention as factors in the success of a child's education, the governor encourages Texans to recognize the importance of the home school sector of education in Texas.

The week will be observed by home school support groups across the state.

Ten years ago, home educators in Texas were under attack by the Texas Education Agency and by local school districts who claimed that parents who taught their own children at home were violating the compulsory attendance laws. The Texas Supreme Court ruled in June of 1994 that home schools are private schools and, therefore, unregulated by the state. Today, home schooling is clearly legal in Texas. Home educating parents have even won the right for all parents to teach their children driver education and are now pressing for the opportunity to participate in UIL activities.

PFAA announces summer program

Children ages 7-14 are encouraged to participate in the 1998 Pampa Summer Fine Arts Program. The organized classes will expose students to a variety of art including visual and performing art. Each participant will be taught by a skilled artist and one assistant.

The Summer Arts Program will be held Monday, June 22 through Friday, June 26 at Travis Elementary School with the exception of a guitar class which will be held at Tarpley's Music Store.

Registration forms will go out to the area schools the second week in May and will appear in the Pampa News.

Deadline for registration is June 12. Classes will be filled on a first come basis. Classes are limited to 10 students (20 students will be accepted in the guitar class only).

Scholarships are available through PFAA. Any individual or organization wishing to sponsor a child may contact PFAA at 665-0343.

Kids at Easter Egg Hunt Pick Up Lessons for Life

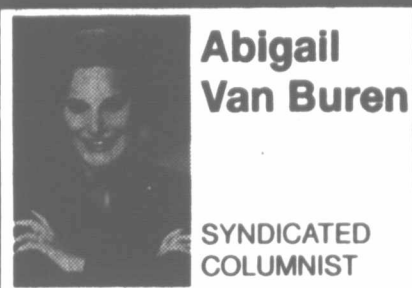

DEAR ABBY: I would like to contribute the enclosed clipping from my local newspaper. Add it to your collection of good deeds; I cried when I read it. We see so many stories about bad kids in the media, such as children killing other children. This proves there are good kids out there, too. Sign me ...
A BIG SOFTY IN EUGENE, ORE.

DEAR SOFTY: The article brought tears to my eyes, too. And I'm pleased to share it with my readers:

"We took four of our younger children to the Sheldon Community Center for an Easter egg hunt. Jessica is 9 1/2 and totally blind. She felt it was more fair to hunt with kids her age, rather than with younger kids. At first I wasn't sure this would work; there were many 9-, 10- and 11-year-old kids, gathered in a group, anxiously waiting for the horn to sound. Two girls went out on the field ahead of time. It took a little convincing by the head guy to get them back to wait with the others.

"The horn sounded, and the kids all ran out, picking up eggs like a huge street cleaner. Jessica had her cane ready, but it's hard to slide a cane back and forth on wet grass 'looking' for eggs. There weren't any eggs left for my daughter.

"A father and son were nearby. The boy reached into his small bag, took out a plastic egg and placed it near my daughter. She felt all around her and found the egg. Her face lit up as she placed it in her bag. The little boy then took out two more eggs and placed them around her. One could see the joy he felt in sharing with my daughter.

"Soon, more kids came along, each placing an egg near Jessica. It was hard for me to even thank the kids because my throat was tight and tears tried so hard to escape from my eyes.

"One child came along with a huge bag of eggs and reached down to grab one of the eggs Jessica hadn't found yet, one that was about two inches away from Jessica. Two of the other kids quickly said, 'They are hers!' She gently put the egg back within Jessica's reach. That young girl learned a little that day — a little about herself, a little about sharing.

"As kids learn to reach out to others, at this young age, they acquire a habit that will last a lifetime. This warm feeling will spread from child to child and will truly help to make this a better world."

LAHNA RASMUSSEN

DEAR ABBY: Long ago, my lovely wife solved the problem cited by "Frank B. in Chicago," who objects to his wife putting her hair in curlers before she goes to bed.

My Marge laid down the law before we were married: If I wanted her to look good the following day without using curlers the night before, I could jolly well pay for her weekly visit to the beauty parlor.

Expensive as it was at the time (we were only 22), I accepted. That's the way it has worked, to the satisfaction of both of us, for 53 years.

WILBUR W. IN ATLANTA

DEAR WILBUR: Far be it from me to knock anything that has worked for 53 years!

BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

 You aren't going to change anyone's mind, but you could get a lot done if you keep at it. You benefit from time alone to get centered. Energy returns. You feel as if there is nothing you can't do. Remain optimistic, as you seek the bottom line. Tonight: To the gym.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

 Your imagination seems limitless. Let it wander, and jot down a couple of notes. Your ideas could be worth a million dollars! High energy helps you zero in on what you want. You are attractive and persuasive. Tonight: Play your way.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

 Your views are solidly anchored. Career concerns dominate your thoughts. You can make a difference. You perform on a high level, both emotionally and professionally. Instincts are right on. Make solid decisions to increase your security. Tonight: Order in.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

 Conversations are enlightening. Reach out for others, and take a risk. A new experience benefits you in many ways. Take a leap of faith. Friends push you toward a goal. Keep conversations open, and ask questions when in doubt. Tonight: Visit friends.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

 Others admire the style with which you put situations back on track. Someone might overestimate how much you are willing to give. You also know how to gently deny someone's wish. A colleague makes professional demands on you. Tonight: Out with a work associate.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

 You feel energetic. Others respond to you. You have many choices. Make decisions that are right for you. Someone who is at a distance becomes demanding. Say what you think, and negotiate what you want. Tonight: Accept an invitation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

 Maintain a low profile. You don't have all the facts; you are in such a flurry that you don't bother to listen. Money concerns and a partner push you way beyond your limits. Remember, if you don't like what is offered, you can always pass! Tonight: Vanish quickly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

 You are playful, frisky and full of answers. Carefully think through a decision; fight impulse. Do not forget your objectives. It is easy to throw caution to the wind. Someone pushes hard for you to agree with him. Tonight: Seek out someone you have a good time with.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

 Get into your work, and get as much done as possible. Communications express a lot of caring, if not flirtation. You revel in a comment, smiling all day to yourself. Intuition plays a significant role. Bosses work with you. Tonight: Off to the gym.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

 Reach out for others. Discussions reveal another side of a story. You have a vision as to what your home life could be. Get to work on making this dream a reality. You have a solid point of view about a loved one. Look to the future. Tonight: Go with exotic plans.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

 You are anchored and build a relationship on even stronger foundations. Listen to that inner voice. Inspiration, practicality and caring mark decisions. You want greater ease and financial security. Make it so! Open up to what could be. Tonight: Luxuriate in the moment.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

 Others seek you out. Screen calls, if you have any thoughts of getting work done. You are stunned by your popularity and by what others offer. Ask for what you want, and do not hesitate to speak your mind. You aren't off base. Tonight: Kick up your heels!

PHYSICALS

PAMPA — Pampa I.S.D. Athletic Physicals will be held Saturday May 9th at the Pampa Middle School Gyms, beginning at 7:30a.m. and continuing until 11:30a.m.

If you have an athlete that will participate in Pampa I.S.D. athletics as a 7th or 9th grader, in the 1998-99 school year they will have to have an athletic physical in order to participate.

This is a free physical, all you need to bring are the forms that will be handed out to the student athletes during school this week. Be sure that all forms are filled out when you arrive for your physical as this will help minimize the amount of time you will have to wait.

The physicals are being sponsored by Columbia Medical Center, and our local physicians, nurses, and physician assistants. Pampa I.S.D. and athletic department greatly appreciate the time and effort these people spend to help our athletic program and our community.

FOOTBALL

DENVER (AP) — Air Force and Colorado State University have lashed out at proposed permanent Western Athletic Conference divisions that threaten to break up their traditional football rivalry. Air Force coach Fisher DeBerry called the plan "ludicrous."

Four Texas universities would remain in the same division and continue to compete against each other.

The WAC Council voted this weekend to urge the conference's Board of Directors to split the 16-member conference into permanent eight-team divisions. Announcing the proposal on Monday, WAC commissioner Karl Benson said it would decrease fan confusion and cut travel costs.

The proposal would take effect in the 2000-2001 season, creating a permanent Western Division in football and men's and women's basketball comprising Air Force, Brigham Young, Utah, San Diego State, San Jose State, Fresno State, Hawaii and UNLV. CSU and Wyoming would be in the East along with New Mexico, UTEP, Tulsa, TCU, SMU and Rice.

But the coaches said the plan would hurt Air Force, CSU and Wyoming by destroying long-standing rivalries that have drawn fans.

"For us not to play Colorado State and Wyoming is ludicrous," DeBerry said. "When money and economics are a big concern, I don't see how it makes economic sense. They are destroying natural rivalries that existed forever."

Air Force athletic director Col. Randall Spetman took the criticism a step further, hinting the academy might consider quitting the WAC if conference presidents approve the permanent alignments at a June 1-3 meeting.

"We need to do some strong thinking about where we need to be in the future and if this is good for us," Spetman said. "We've been a great supporter of the WAC, and to be treated like this is very upsetting. Air Force takes by far the biggest hit."

CSU coach Sonny Lubick echoed the criticism of his on-the-field rival and said he hoped "we fight this to the end. I still have faith the presidents won't listen to the athletic directors. I hope they are smart enough."

The teams would play seven games within their division and one with an opponent from the other division.

Jazz' Malone, Spurs' Robinson go face to face, elbow to elbow

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Utah Jazz and the San Antonio Spurs agree that their Western Conference playoff series will be won under the boards.

"It's going to be decided inside," Utah center Greg Foster said Monday. "It might be an ugly series, because they won't back down inside and we won't, either."

Tensions are running high between the two teams since their March 8 game, when Karl Malone knocked out David Robinson by slamming an elbow in his face.

After Robinson was helped off the Delta Center floor, he spent the night in the hospital and missed San Antonio's next three games with a concussion. He also strained his knee falling to the court.

Malone, who apologized to Robinson and said the elbow was unintentional, was suspended for one game, snapping his NBA-best streak of 543 consecutive starts.

At the time, the Spurs threatened revenge on the Mailman.

"If it gets to the playoffs and we're up against them, it's going to be a whole different game," rookie of the year Tim Duncan said after the game.

But Robinson says the playoffs are about team play, not tag-team play.

"If certain things come up in this series where it gets kind of physical, we'll have to answer to that. But stuff in the past, we have to let that go," the Spurs' star center said.

"We can't go in there with some kind of attitude where we have a chip on our shoulders. We have to go in there with our minds clear because they're going to be ready."

After practice Monday, Malone refused to talk about the fallout from elbowing Robinson, but he did say both teams will be prepared.

"It's important for us to do our thing and not worry about the other issues," Malone said. "They stand up for themselves, and we stand up for ourselves."

But the Spurs stand taller — and that could cause problems for the Jazz. San Antonio's monster frontcourt of 7-footers Robinson, Duncan and Will Perdue will be a challenge for top-seeded Utah, but the recent re-emergence of Greg Ostertag bodes well for the Jazz.

"We're expecting everybody to step up, not just Greg," Malone said. "They've got a big lineup they can throw out there, and we expect to do the same."

Ostertag had seven blocked shots and five second-half rebounds in Utah's 84-70 victory

Annual Hospice Scramble draws over 100 golfers to Hidden Hills course

By DEE DEE LARAMORE
For The News

Three four-person teams of Pampans dominated the eighth-annual Hospice of the Panhandle Golf Scramble Saturday at Hidden Hills Golf Course north of the city. Fair skies, mild temperatures and light wind combined for an ideal day for the popular event.

Twenty-eight teams — 112 players — filled the community course to its limit for the annual Scramble, which raises funds to care for terminally-ill persons and their families in five counties of the Texas Panhandle. The golf scramble grossed approximately $5,480 for Hospice of the Panhandle, a not-for-profit agency serving this area since 1988.

While Pampa teams prevailed as winners of each flight, a Borger golfer, Tim Whipkey, sent his ball flying on the fourth hole to win the longest drive prize. Closest to the hole winners included Bill Bridges on No. 15, Chuck White on No. 12 and Dr. Nam Lee on No. 6.

David Teichmann, Hidden Hills golf pro, divided the Scramble into three flights with first, second and third places awarded in each flight. Scramble results are as follows:

Darrell Crafton, Gary Garner, Gary Tyrrell and Larry Etchison, 61.

Nicklaus Flight

1. J.C. Beyer, Durward Dunlap, Doug McFatridge and John Davis, 59; 2. Robert Morris, Drew Watson, Craig Davis and Jerry Stephens, 61; 3. David McGill, Bobby Holt, Shawn Frawley and Jason Marlar, 61.

Palmer Flight

1. Bill Bridges, Jim Honderich, Bill Wade and Richard Stowers, 61; 2. John Jones, Richard Jones, Jake Jones and Billy Jones, 64; 3. Pat Montoya, Lance Wills, Steve Hopkins and Lee Garcia, 66

Woods Flight

1. Chuck White, Scott White, Doug White and Bob Neslage, 57; 2. Wyatt Earp, Duane Dunn, Don Alexander and Mark Ebenkamp, 60; 3.

Pampa, Caprock will meet today in playoff game

PAMPA — Pampa meets Caprock at 6 p.m. today in Borger's Huber Park. The winner of the District 1-4A playoff game clinches third place in the final standings and a trip to the state playoffs.

Both teams have 6-6 district records. Pampa is 10-17 for the year and Caprock is 11-13 overall.

It's been some time since either team has been to the post-season playoffs. The Harvesters last made it to the playoffs in 1991. The Longhorns haven't been in 17 years.

The two teams split their two regular-season meetings. Pampa won the first game by a score of 18-17 while Caprock bounced back to win the second contest, 10-0.

Sophomore righthander Jesse Francis (4-4) is slated to start on the mound for the Harvesters today. He will be backed up by senior hurler Aaron Whitney.

Jarrad Haws (3-2) will start for the Longhorns.

Shortstop Josh Blackmon is the leading Harvester hitter with a .476 batting mark. Outfielder Enrique Cabrales follows at .391. Designated hitter Brandon Hill is Pampa's main longball threat with six home runs to his credit.

Shortstop Michael Soria tops Caprock with a .527 average and has knocked in 32 runs. Marcos Mendoza has a .405 average.

Randall and Dumas have already clinched playoff spots from District 1-4A.

Gilmore appointed Hobbs High School head coach

HOBBES, N.M. (AP) — Hobbs High School's new coach is a big fan of the retired coach, the legendary Ralph Tasker.

Russell Gilmore, who was named to head the Eagles on Monday, said he first wants to get the autograph of the man who coached Hobbs for the last 49 years.

"I'm not trying to replace Ralph Tasker. I'm Russ Gilmore," he said after Monday's announcement.

Gilmore's name surfaced last week as the frontrunner among four finalists to replace Tasker, 78, who wrapped up his career at Hobbs in March when the Eagles took third place in the Class AAAA State Tournament.

Gilmore, 44, has compiled a record of 283-153 at Amarillo (Texas) Tascosa High School and has had 13 straight winning seasons. Last year, his team was the district 3AAAAA champion with a record of 26-7.

His overall high school coaching record is 341-181.

Gilmore previously coached at Cowley Junior College in Arkansas City, Kan., for five years and at high schools in Reading and Valley Falls, Kan. In his two seasons at Valley Falls, the school was 42-5.

Tasker's career coaching record over 53 years was 1,122-291, the third best all-time nationally for high school coaches. Under Tasker, Hobbs won 11 state championships and had 36 seasons of 20 victories or more.

Gilmore holds a master's degree in counseling from Kansas State University and a bachelor's in history and political science from Southwestern College in Winfield, Kan.

Colorado champions

SO WHEN ARE YOU GOING TO

BREAK DOWN

AND GET CELLULAR?

Don't get us wrong. We don't really want you to break down. But statistics show that there are more than 8 million accidents and stranded vehicles each year. So, why not help protect your special someone by giving them the security of a Dobson Cellular phone?

Break it down. Cellular is as low as 65¢ a day.

Cellular is a lot less expensive than you might think. In fact, for about the cost of a candy bar a day, you can have the security and convenience of a cellular phone and service from Dobson Cellular. Which is a lot less expensive than the price you'll pay for not having it in those times you or your special someone will really need it.
