There's not much fur trapping going on in Texas these days, according to the Parks and Wildlife Dept., but the decrease in trapping did not necessarily result from a decrease in the number of fur bearing animals.

The market for real furs is on the decline because of the synthetics which have replaced animal skins to a great extent in the factories.

Biologists, wildlife enthusiasts and conservationists are happy over this turn of events, which has all but made real furs a novelty rather than a staple. We can recall an era when many an East Texas schoolboy made his spending money by running a few traps during the winter. There was a ready market and the product mostly was raccoon, but it was a red letter day when a mink was caught.

The Parks and Wildlife Dept. estimates that the average annual harvest of pelts in the state between 1945 and World War II was between a million and two million. The average price per pelt was about a dollar. During 1968-69 the number of pelts sold in the state was well below 200,000 and the prices failed to keep up with the inflationary spiral.

Two members of the Texas Christian University Football team are among the top 10 pass receivers in the Southwest Conference and one of them is a Snyder resident and the other formerly lived here.

Frankie Grummett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Grummett, ranks fifth in the conference, catching 19 passes for 195 yards in six games. Ranking seventh is Lane Bowen who lived here as a lad but played his high school football at Brownwood, where the family moved after leaving Snyder several years ago. Bowen has caught 17 passes for 274 yards in six games.

An unidentified lineman at the University of Texas readily confirmed that he would block his best whenever Steve Worseter carried the football in a game. "Cause if I don't, he'll just run right over me. I'm going to get out of the way," he explained.

Add to the list of dangerous pastimes: Fifteen persons drowned in Texas last year while running trotlines.

BUILDING TO BEGIN SOON

College Contract Awarded

Western Texas College's building program, delayed for more than a month, will get underway within the next few days, possibly by the first of next week.

Trustees of the Scurry County Junior College District last night gave their approval to bid of $2,908,000 for the first phase of the college district's building program. This will provide facilities for the new community college to begin its program of education.

The board voted to accept the bid of Area Builders of Odessa, subject to the approval of the Texas Education Agency and the Health, Education and Welfare Dept., which will participate in some of the college's construction projects.

The bid accepted by the board was the lower of two proposals received. The other bid, in the amount of $2,940,000, was submitted by J. W. Cooper Construction Co., also of Odessa. The Cooper firm had been the low bidder last Sept. 24 when the original bids were opened. However, the low bid at that time, $3,560,000, exceeded the available funds and all bids were rejected. The college district's architects, Parker-Croston and Associates of Fort Worth, revamped plans and specifications and contractors were asked to recalculate their bids.

Trustees of the college district indicated that they were happy over the low bid received last night. They had hoped that the bid would come in at a figure under $3-million and it did.

If work begins promptly on the contract and there are no unusual delays down the line, it is expected that enough facilities will be available on the college campus in the fall of 1971 for the college to begin classes. This follows the schedule which the board has had in mind since the college district was created nearly a year ago.

The contractors will be asked to concentrate on buildings which will be essential to opening the college next fall.

In other business, the board formally approved a proposal that the college install curbing on one side of a road project adjacent to the campus. The State Highway Department asked that the curbing be installed and the county has indicated that it will take care of the curbing on the other side of the road, Dr. Robert Clinton, WTC President, advised the board. The Highway Department already has approved construction of a new road linking the Colorado City Highway (Texas 208) and the Big Spring Highway (Texas 350) via the WTC campus.

Dr. Ben Brock, WTC dean, reported that a number of area high schools have been visited and that many students have expressed interest in the new junior college here. The WTC administration has developed an 18-minute presentation, which includes color slides with a sound track which had become popular as a program for student and civic groups.

WARMING UP — President Nixon reaches to shake a hand Tuesday as he leaves the Washington headquarters of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, warming up for a campaign swing which he embarked upon later in the day. The chief executive will wind up his pre-election campaigning with visits to Texas, Illinois, Minnesota, Nebraska, California, Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada and Utah. (AP Wirephoto)

N-Viets Supply Route Bombed

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers flew more strikes today against North Vietnamese supply routes through southern Laos. The big bombers have flown more than 500 strikes in the region in the past 2½ weeks.

Many of the raids are concentrated in a 70-square-mile area just west of the demilitarized zone. The area is south of the Bang Hien River and north of Khe Sanh, and there have been reports of heavy North Vietnamese movement through it toward the northwestern part of South Vietnam.

North Vietnam charged Tuesday that many U.S. warplanes, including B52 bombers, attacked Huong Lap Village in the northern part of the demilitarized zone last Sunday.

"We don't comment on propaganda from Hanoi," said a U.S. spokesman.

The B52s have concentrated their raids along a 200-mile stretch of the Ho Chi Minh trail through the southern Laotian panhandle. The campaign is so concentrated that no B52 raids have been flown in South Vietnam since Oct. 10.

Despite the massive campaign, sources said, there has been a sizable buildup of North Vietnamese troops in the northern quarter of South Vietnam. Informants said one North Vietnamese division is pushing from the west and is poised just southwest of Khe Sanh, and that one regiment crossed the demilitarized zone and is within 12 miles of the provincial capital of Quang Tri.

Tons of supplies were reported moving along a four-lane highway running southwestward from the DMZ into Laos and then circling around eastward to the north of Khe Sanh.

Cambodian troops operating near Kompong Thom, a provincial capital 80 miles north of Phnom Penh, were attacked Tuesday. First reports said one Cambodian soldier was killed and another wounded, and that 10 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers were killed. Field reports indicated that the fighting and losses may have been far more serious.

Heavy Frost Chills Area

The first "killing" frost of the season hit the Snyder area this morning, over a week ahead of schedule.

The temperature dropped to an official low of 31 degrees during the pre-dawn hours today and at 7 a.m. this morning was squarely on the freezing mark of 32 degrees.

There was a white coat of moisture crystals on roof tops, automobiles and on vegetation as the sun came up.

There were some patches of frost on Oct. 9, but it did not go into the record books as a general, killing frost because the official temperature there only reached 36 degrees. The normal date for the season's first killing frost here is around Nov. 5.

Longview Ready For Nixon Visit

LONGVIEW (AP) — Sunshine and speculation were set to greet President Nixon this afternoon as he began a day of Texas stumping for candidates Paul Eggers for governor and George Bush for U.S. senator.

"The Young Republicans have been painting signs for three days," said a Republican organizer here. "They want to make it a real gala affair."

The President was expected to touch down at Gregg County Airport, in the heart of the East Texas oil country, at 4:25 p.m. where huge flatbed trailers, used to haul heavy gear among oilfields, have been arranged as speakers' platforms.

The speculation focused on a copyrighted account by the Washington Post that looked for Bush to be Nixon's running mate—instead of Vice President Spiro Agnew—in 1972, and to run for president in 1976, all predicated a victory Nov. 3 over Democratic nominee Lloyd Bentsen.

Bush was quick to call the report "wild speculation with no credibility at all."

Expected to share the spotlight here with Nixon, Eggers and Bush was Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., and Texas Republican Chairman Bill Steger, the master of ceremonies, a resident of nearby Tyler, Tex.

Stephen F. Austin College's ROTC was to send its color guard from Nacogdoches and musicians were en route from Kilgore Junior College, Tyler Junior College, Jarvis Christian College of Hawkins and Gladewater High School.

Organizers hoping to avoid traffic jams asked that motorists coming from the north use U.S. 259, from the northeast and east use Interstate 20 and southbound 149, and from the west, northwest and southwest via Kilgore.

The Longview appearance marked the first visit by Nixon to Texas as President.

He was to depart the airport here in time for a scheduled arrival at 6 p.m. at Dallas' Love Field, according to the schedule released in Washington.

Upsets Spice Grid Picks

A rash of upsets made last week a rough one for football selections and entrants in the Snyder Daily News weekly contest found plenty of competition.

Five misses proved to be the best that any of the entrants could do and six of them tied for the week's prize money. Colorado City's unexpected victory over Lamesa in the high school ranks was a surprise to all. That was the only game that all six of the winners agreed upon unanimously in error.

Sharing the prize for the week are Jearld Smith, 4518 Fredonia; Josephine Hinojos, 314 Twentieth; Rodney Head, Route 1, Snyder; Peggy Baker, 300 Thirty-fourth; Lena Ruth Stansell, 3612 Hill Avenue; Roland Payne, 3104 Thirty-seventh. Many, many more missed just half a dozen of last week's games.

Another contest begins today, and the list of games may be found in sponsors' advertisements in this issue of The Snyder Daily News.

More Study Set On Space Plan

MOSCOW (AP) — The president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences said today that the Soviet government considers it "expedient" to build spaceships sufficiently compatible with U.S. spacecraft to permit Soviet-American docking and rescue operations.

Mstislav V. Keldysh told a news conference that Soviet space experts had just completed two days of exploratory negotiations with representatives of the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Moscow.

In answer to a question on the prospects of close U.S-Soviet space cooperation, Keldysh replied:

"The fact that we had these talks shows that we are interested in having compatible spaceships. But this is a very complex matter that requires further study."

He said he was satisfied with the talks and another round will be held later "to continue the study" of the prospects.

The news conference was called for a report on results of the unmanned Luna 16 spaceship, which landed on the moon last month, scooped up a sample of moon soil and returned it to the earth. No report was given on the photographs taken by the unmanned Zond 8 satellite which landed in the Indian Ocean and was recovered Tuesday night after a trip around the moon. Tass said that flight was "successfully completed and the planned program of scientific-technical studies and experiments has been fully accomplished."

Keldysh said the NASA representatives were the first foreigners to view the 3.5 ounces of moon soil brought back by Luna 16. He said samples of the soil might be distributed to foreign scientists "if there is a need for experiments that our researchers cannot carry out."

Alexander Vinogradov, Keldysh's deputy, told the newsmen the composition of the Luna 16 samples differed considerably from those gathered by the Apollo 11 and Apollo 12 astronauts. But he said it would be premature to try to determine the origin of the moon at this point.

State Has More Wild Weather

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wild weather kept Texas under siege Tuesday, concentrating cloudbursts and damaging tornadoes this time on the southeast part of the state.

Deluges drenched the area, measuring more than 18 inches at the village of Deweyville—east of Beaumont near the Louisiana line—and setting off flash floods in places.

Snow which fell earlier in the Texas Panhandle stopped late in the day, leaving a one-inch cover to melt in some sections.

By this morning a cold front triggering the storms had moved off the Texas coast and the rainfall dwindled to showers near Brownsville, up the coast past Beaumont and Orange, and down the state's east side from Marshall past Lufkin.

State patrolmen reported at least five tornadoes dipped down from raging thunderstorms near Houston in Harris County, damaging homes and injuring a construction worker.

Streets and underpasses flooded on the south side of Beaumont, which received more than 8 inches of rain, and in parts of Orange, where the measurement topped 5 inches, but there were no reports of injury or severe hardship.

The downpours caused many business places in Beaumont to close early in the afternoon and motorist abandoned many stalled cars. Traffic accidents happened too fast for police to deal with most of them very quickly.

Hundreds of cars were stalled and abandoned on Beaumont streets and police appealed to their owners to remove them.

At Deweyville, 15 miles north of Orange on the Sabine River, several roads were blocked by high water and at least one bridge washed out. Some homes were flooded.

It was the second period of torrential rains in far Southeast Texas. Eleven inches fell at Beaumont about two weeks ago.

Roads were closed by heavy downpours along the Sabine River, which flooded in low areas as far north as Longview. High water caused two Houston streets to cave.

A good deed goes without paying

By Abigail Van Buren

(c 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Something has been on my mind a whole week. Last Saturday, Karen, my 8-year-old daughter, and I were doing the weekly grocery shopping. I have a large family and we are on a tight budget. While I was trying to figure out how I could work in a watermelon that wasn't on my budget, Karen left my side. Then I saw her helping an elderly lady who seemed to be having trouble standing up. I went to help Karen when I realized the old lady was crippled. She said she felt dizzy and weak, but she thought she could make it home—a block away.

We put her in my car and I drove her to what appeared to be an old convalescent home. We helped her out of the car and rang the bell and someone came to let her in. Then the old lady opened up her purse and took out a dollar and handed it to Karen. Karen looked at me for a signal to refuse it or accept it. I thought about the watermelon and nodded "yes," take it.

Now I am sorry: I should have nodded "no," and told Karen to never accept money for doing a good deed. Am I foolish to let this bother me? SORRY

DEAR SORRY: No. It's still not too late to tell Karen that you now regret letting her accept the money. Be honest. Tell her you thought about the watermelon. Children respect honesty, but too few parents are big enough to admit to their children that they are less than perfect—and also make mistakes. You know where the lady lives. Perhaps Karen would like to return the dollar.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you so much for a good laugh. I thought for sure my laughing days were over, for tomorrow morning I go into the hospital to have my left breast removed. I have cancer.

What made me laugh? That letter from the cat lover who feared that if she did not outlive her precious cat, it would die of a broken heart, so she wanted to have the cat "gently put to sleep" and buried with her. You replied, "Let nature decide. The cat may miraculously survive the loss and have a ball." You are so right, Abby.

Dear God, what I wouldn't give to have such an "earth-shaking" problem! Not only must I face this thing tomorrow, but I must face it alone. My husband died last year.

Tell your readers, Abby, that they don't know when they are well off. Thank you. God love you. A READER

DEAR READER: And God love you, too. Please let me hear from you when your ordeal is over.

DEAR ABBY: So you think animals will live happy, healthy lives after their masters are gone, do you? Well, that shows you how much you know. Humans can look after themselves. Animals cannot!

I've seen "animal lovers" profess love for their pets and then let them run all over the neighborhood until some speed demon kills them.

I have 22 dogs and at my death every one of these beautiful animals will be put to sleep and buried in the pet cemetery.

They have been protected all their lives and I don't intend to leave them to the mercy of anyone else after I'm gone. I only hope they go before me, but if they don't, I am taking no chances! ANIMAL LOVER, BALTIMORE

DEAR ABBY: About cats: A cat is loyal to the person who feeds him. If a cat is mistreated, he will take off and look for a better home. Not true of dogs. Dogs will take all kinds of abuse and hang around forever.

I once had a pet cat which I raised from a kitten. When I went into the Army I tearfully gave my cat to a friend to keep, and was told not to be surprised if she died of a broken heart in my absence. When I came back, that darned cat acted like she didn't even know me! Broken heart, indeed! A cat's best friend is himself. CAT FANCIER

Charges On MacDonald Are Dropped

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—The Army freed Capt. Jeffrey R. MacDonald today of charges that he murdered his wife and two young daughters last February.

Maj. Gen. Edward M. Flanagan, commander of the John F. Kennedy Center for Military Assistance, ruled there was insufficient evidence to justify the three counts of premeditated murder against the 27-year-old Green Beret physician.

Flanagan, who is MacDonald's commanding general, based his ruling on a 2,000-word report of a lengthy, secret hearing by Col. Warren V. Rock of Ft. Bragg.

The Army had charged that MacDonald stabbed and beat to death his wife, Colette, 26, and his daughters Kimberly, 6, and Kristin Jean, 2, and then stabbed himself as a cover-up and invented a story.

Defense Wants John To Testify

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The defense wants John Lennon of the Beatles to testify in the Sharon Tate murder trial on whether one of the group's songs could have inspired Charles Manson to violence. But, in London, a spokesman for the Beatles said today that is "like summoning Shakespeare to explain Macbeth."

What's more, said the spokesman, the song in question—"Helter Skelter"—was written not by Lennon but by Paul McCartney, another Beatle.

"We want John Lennon to testify," a defense source said in an interview Tuesday. "We feel he may want to explain the lyrics."

The state has asserted that Manson ordered his followers to kill Miss Tate and six others in August of 1969, aiming to trigger a race war which he felt was predicted in "Helter Skelter." The source, who asked not be identified, said the defense has been trying for months to subpoena Lennon.

City Police investigated three motor vehicle mishaps yesterday.

The first one occurred at 2:30 a.m. on the East Highway at Avenue A. Involved were the 1968 Model Chevrolet pickup of Gene Edwin Bowlin, 3602 Hill, and the 1968 Model Pontiac of Jerry John Hazel, 3603 Hill. Damage to the pickup was set at $75, and damage to the car was placed at $100.

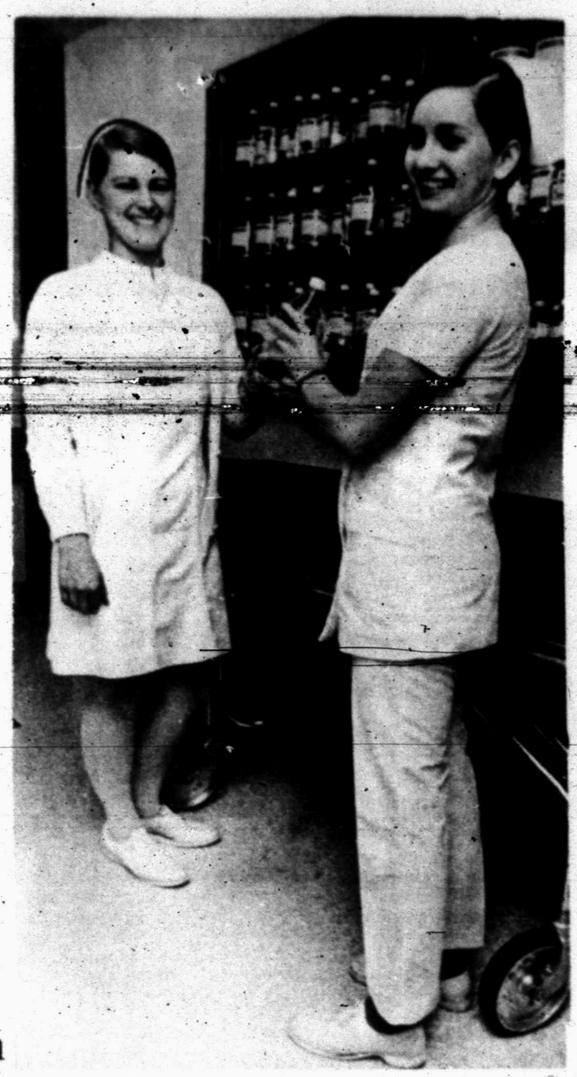

At 6:49 p.m. the parked 1966 Model Chevrolet pickup of Prentice E. Smith, 3718 Austin, was involved in a collision with the 1962 Model Ford of Donna Diane Messimer, 3401 Houston. The mishap occurred on Austin at Thirty-eighth Street. Damage to the pickup was set at $10, and damage to the car was placed at $20.

The last mishap occurred at 10:40 p.m. on the East Highway at Twenty-eighth Street. Damage to the 1965 Model Oldsmobile of Beauford Ben Thompson, 3203 Avenue J, was placed at $50, and damage to the 1968 Model Oldsmobile of Tom Ray Elam, 413 Twenty-eighth Street, was set at $25.

Mrs. Rappa wears pant suits because "they're more practical," and Mrs. Wilson says she would if she had the figure for it. (AP Wirephoto)

Pair Quizzed In Hijacking

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkish authorities today questioned two Soviet students seeking asylum after the second successful hijacking of a Soviet plane in two weeks. There was speculation that the hijacking would harden the Soviet government's attitude toward two U.S. generals whose plane crossed into Soviet Armenia last week.

Nikolai Ginlov, 20, and Vitaly Pozdeyir, 25, "put a bag over the pilot's head, trussed him up and landed the plane at Sinop themselves" Tuesday, the semi-official Turkish news agency Anatolia reported.

"They said let's go, and we came," pilot Alexei Menshikov, 50, said.

The Turkish government sent state security police and an interpreter to Sinop, on Turkey's Black Sea coast, to investigate. Anatolia said the pair had been planning their escape from the Soviet Union for two years.

The plane, a small two-engine craft of the government-owned Soviet airline Aeroflot, was on a domestic flight from Kerch to Krasnodar, north of the Black Sea, when Ginlov and Pozdeyir took it over. One other passenger was aboard, Yuri Derbinov, 35.

The first hijacking of a Soviet plane to Turkey was carried out Oct. 15 by two Lithuanians, Pranas Stasio Brazinskas and his son Algedas. They diverted an Aeroflot airliner to Trabzon, 200 miles east of Sinop, after killing a stewardess and wounding three crew members.

The father and son also have asked for political asylum, while the Soviet government has demanded their return to face criminal action. The Turkish minister of justice is studying the case, and there have been indications that the government will let the Turkish courts decide whether the pair is entitled to refuge under a provision of the Turkish criminal code which says foreigners accused of crimes abroad that were politically motivated cannot be sent back for trial.

The Soviet ambassador to Turkey hinted Tuesday that the Russians might use a Turkish colonel now being held in the Soviet Union in bargaining for the two Lithuanians. The colonel, Cevat Deneli, was aboard the small American military Beechcraft that the U.S. government says lost its way and landed in Soviet Armenia last week while taking two American generals on an inspection flight in Turkey.

TO PREVENT HEART DISEASE

Lithium May Be Added To Drinking Water

By C. G. McDANIEL
AP Science Writer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Drinking water may in the future have an additive to prevent certain types of heart disease just as it has to prevent tooth decay.

That is the implication of research by Dr. A. Wouter Voors of the University of North Carolina School of Public Health, Chapel Hill, presented in a paper today at the American Public Health Association's annual meeting.

Voors has studied the relationship between the presence of lithium in drinking water and atherosclerotic heart disease in 100 of the largest cities in the country, using previously published data. Atherosclerosis is a degenerative disease of the blood vessels.

Discussing his work with newsmen Tuesday, Voors pointed out that previous research has shown that the cities with the "hardest" water have the lowest incidence of atherosclerotic heart disease.

Water "hardness" is associated with the amount of metals in it. One of them is lithium.

Voors said it may be desirable to add small amounts of lithium to drinking water in areas where it is not present in sufficient amounts as a means of preventing this type of heart disease.

But he cautioned that further research is necessary to provide "conclusive evidence of the harmlessness of such enrichment."

Fluorides have been added to the drinking water of many U.S. cities for a number of years as a means of reducing tooth decay.

Voors pointed out that lithium is being used increasingly to treat mentally ill patients with manic, or hyperactive, symptoms. Used as a drug, lithium has a tranquilizing effect.

One of the undesirable side effects of such treatment is a thyroid disease, but Voors noted that this results from heavy doses required for treatment of illness and might not result from the much smaller amounts which would be added to drinking water.

There is a similarity between the behavior of manic patients and that of persons prone to atherosclerotic heart disease, Voors said, although it is more extreme in the mentally ill.

It has been found, he said, that potential heart disease victims often are aggressive, pushy, hard working, talkative and able to get by with little sleep.

Voors said that in his statistical study of the metals in "hard" drinking waters of the 100 cities indicated that atherosclerotic heart disease was more closely related to the presence or absence of lithium than any other element.

The other elements compared are calcium, chromium, magnesium, vanadium and zinc.

Other studies have shown, Voors said, that high lithium doses, in addition to moderating manic behavior, reduce hypertension are beneficial in treating diabetes, lower blood cholesterol and increase the secretion of uric acid.

All of these factors are considered to be risks in atherosclerotic heart disease.

Bush Out Spends Bentsen

AUSTIN (AP) — Republican George Bush has outspent Democrat Lloyd Bentsen by some $300,000 in their race for the U. S. Senate, according to reports filed Tuesday with the secretary of state.

Midnight Monday was the deadline for getting the expense and contributions reports in the mail.

Bush said he has spent $969,008 and has received $665,708 in campaign contributions, including nearly $63,000 from the Republican Senate Finance Committee, headed by U.S. Sen. John Tower, R-Tex.

The GOP candidate also said he has borrowed $35,000.

Lloyd Bentsen, the Democratic Senate candidate, reported donations of $424,563 and expenditures of $419,332.

Gov. Preston Smith said he has spent $652,860 while receiving $534,651 in contributions.

His Republican opponent, Paul Eggers, said he has paid out $409,028, with contributions totaling $312,661. He also reported debts of $31,573 and loans amounting to $96,000.

Seamans Plans Vietnam Visit

SAIGON (AP) — Robert C. Seamans, U.S. Air Force secretary, will arrive next Tuesday for a three-day visit to South Vietnam.

An announcement Tuesday said he would obtain first hand information on progress in expanding the South Vietnamese air force and attend a ceremony during which a helicopter base at Soc Trang would be turned over to the Vietnamese.

Consumer Agency Is Due Shakeup

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high-level Nixon administration source says one of the government's largest consumer-protection agencies is headed for a major shakeup at the hands of a tough, new administrator hired to do just that.

The official is Clayton Yeutter, named three weeks ago as administrator of the Consumer and Marketing Service in the Department of Agriculture. His primary target will be the agency's vast meat and poultry inspection system.

Yeutter, 39, a long-time friend of Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin, reportedly has been given the go-ahead for overhauling the cumbersome meat and poultry system.

"I think we'll see some tough decisions made and probably some heads roll around here," the source said in an interview. He asked that his name not be used.

"The problem is that C&MS has some very fine people but also too many with very little gray matter between their ears," he said.

Yeutter himself told a reporter it is too soon for sweeping judgments but he did indicate he is studying the agency's organizational structure.

The most pressing job in meat inspection is the Dec. 15 deadline for state compliance with the Wholesome Meat Act of 1967. By then, all states must have inspection programs at least equal to federal standards or face plant takeover by U.S. inspectors.

Only five have been certified so far; California, Florida, Idaho, Marylafid and New Mexico. Plants in one state—North Dakota—already have been taken over by federal inspectors. Most states, however, are expected to escape penalties.

The Consumer and Marketing Service handles a number of regulatory activities, but meat inspection is by far the most troublesome to the Nixon administration.

Yeutter told some officials the trouble in the meat program is not so much with organization as a lack of "good people to run the programs."

A recent study report recommended meat and poultry inspection be withdrawn from C&MS and set up in a separate agency. This was turned down by Yeutter and Assistant Secretary Richard E. Lyng, who is in over-all charge of the agency.

Sculpture Turned On By Music

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

This is a sculpture show. "The Far East Suite" is being played on a stereo somewhere. A wall hanging which is a large white plastic plaque mounted with nine circular neon tubes, each a different color, is flashing on and off in time to the music.

Sometimes two or three of the circles light up together, then a couple more add their light; sometimes the lighted tubes flash off and other tubes quickly begin to glow.

The patterns change to each beat of the music. But the volume makes a difference, too, and so does whether the notes are high or low. There are enough variables that, even after watching quite a while, a viewer can't predict how many tubes will light at once or which colors will follow which other colors in lighting.

This is the most expensive piece of "sculpture" in the show. Instead of being a sculpture show in which bronze pieces sit there and, at most, look back at you, these lively pieces are "music-responsive light sculpture." It's the first New York showing by Stephen James, 22, at the Lee Nordness Gallery, which specializes in modern art.

James, who is the son of Duke Ellington's sister, Ruth, is demonstrating his work to his uncle's music. Then he takes "The Far East Suite" off the stereo and puts on the Witches' Sabbath section of Berlioz's "Fantastic Symphony." Now the beat is faster and the changes in volume and pitch are greater. The piece of sculpture next to the one with the neon circles begins to go crazy.

This one, which James calls "Bubble Gum," has 30 globe lights, in six different colors, which respond to music by lighting up again in patterns which a viewer can't predict "Bubble Gum" responds to six different areas of pitch.

James says the wiring of one of his sculptures is complex, since there is a small computer in each which analyzes the musical pitches, volume and beat and decides on the light patterns. But attaching it to a hi fi, he says, is as easy for the owner as plugging in the hi fi into the wall.

James says he guarantees his sculptures to work and keep working, since he uses solid state components and solid state and neon just don't wear out. James, who studied in America and London, where he now lives, does the wiring himself and occasionally calls on engineers for assistance. But a buyer, he assures, isn't going to have to call anyboy. Sculpture repairmen are not yet in every neighborhood.

James has one sculpture called "Celebration" in which artfully twisted neon tubes are inside a two-way mirrored box. This one doesn't flash on and off; it fades in and out, in four colors. He has one in which all the bulbs are gold, but not all the same color, because some are 16 karat and some 24.

He has a tall white translucent cylinder with bulbs inside, and a wall hanging with bulbs which make random patterns (not responsive to music) and occasionally spell out LUV in light. One, atop a pedestal, has small, thin neon tubes sticking up, looking like the office towers of Manhattan, with the cleaning crew switching on and off the lights.

James made one of each of his "music-responsive light sculptures" and he'll take orders for up to 12 of each of them. Price tags range from $350 to $2,600.

In the first two weeks showing at the gallery, he got orders for 13. He also demonstrated them part of the time to songs which he composed himself.

Some people who were deaf thought one of James's sculptures would be wonderful for dancing, since they could see the beat of the music.

Andre Kostelanetz saw them and thought one would be exciting in Philharmonic Hall. James started getting ideas of vertical poles all across the back of the stage, each one with 10 big bulbs on it, each pole's lights responsive to one pitch only. As the intensity of that pitch increased, from one to all of the bulbs would light. A whole orchestra should be able to turn that into a wilder light show than one sees at rock concerts.

James says some day he'll probably work with lasers. "There are a lot more advancements to be made.

"Compared with the things I really want to do, these are just toys."

MAN AND THE RIVER: THE MISSISSIPPI. By Hodding Carter. Rand McNally. $14.95.

Pictorial and impressionistic, this colume tells about the beauties of the Mississippi River and the part it has played, and is playing, in the life of America's midcontinent.

It combines exploration and history, wildlife and ecology, the romance of time and place, the agricultural, industrial and petroleum resources of the area in the present day.

It also portrays the many facets of the river's long story of human activity—hunting and fishing, the steamboats, barges and showboats, the rise of cities along its banks, the historic sites and recreational areas. It ranges from the days of La Salle to Mark Twain and down to the era of the modern battles against floods, conservation measures and the rise of petrochemical plants.

It would have helped the reader if there had been at least one map included, and unfortunately the illustrations in the main part of the text have only partial captions. But there is a final section of color illustrations that

Killam Speaks To Altrurian Club

In observance of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the United Nations, the program of the Altrurian Club on Friday, Oct. 23, was international affairs.

The meeting was with Mrs. Earl E. Donaldson, at the Ray Peveler home on West Thirtieth Street.

Mrs. Alvie Dolen introduced the guest speaker, George Killam.

If the members of the club had braced themselves for a time of considering unsolvable problems and viewing with alarm the lack of success of our country's State department in dealing with the woes of the world - then they were in for a delightful surprise. For Mr. Killam spoke instead, and in layman's language, of the long look at man's efforts toward governing himself.

Out of Mr. Killam's life long study of law he brought illustrations of systems of government from the city states of old, through the building of the Roman Empire, to the present fragmentation of the African Continent into 47 "nations." He suggested that the present time of evolution and revolution might be the beginning of still untried means of social, economic and political relationships between the peoples of the world.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Dee Peveler and Janis Morgan assisted the hostess in serving refreshments to nineteen members and one guest, Miss Enid Irving.

Cancer Society Presents Program

Mrs. Travis Rhoades, President of the Scurry County Unit of the American Cancer Society, gave a lecture on "The Hazards of Smoking Cigarettes" to Betty Longbotham's Family Relations class, at Hobbs High School, recently.

The speaker said in part, "What does smoking cigarettes get you anyway? If you are especially lucky, and if you smoke several a day, in a year's time you will suffer only a $200 hole in your wallet. The things you have always wanted have gone up in smoke.

"If you are not quite so lucky, you may experience an unpleasant cough, and loss of stamina for athletics. No one ever becomes a Bart Starr, John Unitas or a Bob Lilly by smoking.

"Cigarettes are lethal, doctors say so and that is why 100,000 persons have quit smoking cigarettes, and they are not just talking, they are acting as well.

"Cigarette smoking is not a gamble. Every smoker is injured, though not to the same degree. Cigarette smokers die of lung cancer at a rate of ten times of non-smokers and only one person out of twenty suffering from lung cancer gets well.

The advice to young people, if you smoke, quit now, if you don't smoke don't pick up the habit."

Colored slides were shown at the end of the presentation depicting the areas discussed. The students were very attentive throughout the entire hour.

IT'S A TOUGH WORLD TO FACE!

Events Now Proving Fisher's OTC Theory

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Milton Fisher, the maverick investment banker who set out this year to debunk some myths about the over-the-counter market, feels that events now are tending to prove his theories.

For example, the myth says that in a bear market the prices of over-the-counter stocks, of which there are about 50,000 fall much more sharply than stocks listed on the major exchanges.

Fisher now points to the statistics showing the Dow Jones Industrial Average dropped 35.9 per cent from its high of 985.21 points on Dec. 3, 1968, to a low of 631.16 on May 26, 1970.

During roughly the same time, the National Quotation Bureau Industrial Average of over-the-counter stocks fell from a high of 439.86 to 271.71, for a drop of 37.3 per cent, or only 1.4 per cent more.

He maintains that the OTC, in which trading is conducted by telephone among various brokers willing to buy and sell certain stocks, reacts almost exactly as listed stocks.

Fisher feels a missionary zeal in promoting the OTC as the market for small investors, and feels they are being done an injustice by being led by establishment brokers into the big listed corporations.

"I know of very few examples of where $10,000 invested in listed securities could have made anyone a millionaire," he says in his book, "How to make big money in the over-the-counter market," published by William Morrow & Co.

But he adds, "There are dozens of over-the-counter companies where this could have happened. I would be willing to wager there are at least 100 now trading OTC that will be selling for 1,000 per cent higher within five years."

Brokers who deal in listed stocks might concede this to be true, but they'd add that listed securities provide greater safety, more liquidity, steady dividends, greater disclosure of information, and so on.

Not everyone will agree with Fisher. In fact, most of the establishment will disagree with him. He has, however, made a few dollars practicing what he preaches, and so his credo is worth listening to. This is it:

"Think big, invest small and hold for large capital gains," which is to say: Think about owning a significant piece of a small company and then hold the investment not just until it doubles but until it multiplies several more times.

Students Learn The Hard Way

RENO, Nev. (AP) — A University of Nevada at Reno instructor says the hardest thing his students will have to learn in his classes is how to avoid getting kicked.

Ray W. Sylvester, 75, will teach a class in horse shoeing at the university's general extension beginning Nov. 2.

"The hardest thing in shoeing a horse is to keep from getting kicked," Sylvester says, adding that if handled right, "the horse won't fuss."

Junior Editors Quiz on ARTHROPODS

QUESTION: Is an arthropod a plant or an animal?

ANSWER: Plants have pods, so we understand our questioner's confusion. But the word arthro means joints, and has to do with animals, not plants. We understand Bill's mistake in the picture, too — if an arthropod has jointed legs, why isn't he an arthropod, too; since his limbs are also jointed? But he forgets that he has a spine or vertebra inside his body, which makes him a vertebrate. The arthropods are invertebrates: they have no bony skeletons inside their bodies. Instead, they have the stiff bony part outside, which is called an exoskeleton. Typical arthropods are insects, crustaceans like lobsters and crabs, arachnids like spiders and ticks, centepedes and millepedes. It is a very large phylum, or group of animals. We feel very superior to the poor little arthropod, because we are so big and smart, and he is so small. But remember the enormous number of little arthros on our planet; these make up more than three fourths of all the earth's animals. That's a sobering thought when we're feeling cocky about ourselves.

Party Is A Hit!

NEW YORK (AP) — "If you're looking to save on your vegetable outlays," the food salesman told James Joseph O'Connell, "buy some okra—I can give it to you half price."

James Joseph mulled over the offer. He had just been appointed financial secretary of his fraternity and had promised to tighten the budget.

"I'll take 500 pounds," he told the man.

The man took out a small yellow pad, moistened a stubby lead pencil and wrote down the order, smiling vaguely. "You'll get the delivery tomorrow," he said handing O'Connell a receipt.

O'Connell was relaxing the next day in the living room, when a friend named Harry burst excitedly into the room and shouted: "Somebody just dumped two tons of a strange-looking plant growth near the kitchen door and how he wants seventy-five bucks from us—I suspect you, O'Connell."

James Joseph sighed unconcernedly. "Oh," he said offhandedly, "that must be our okra."

O'Connell walked casually out of the living room, then ran through the kitchen and looked out the back window. On the ground were maybe 50 big plastic bags, filled with little, oblong green things.

O'Connell paid the man and began loading the okra into the kitchen vegetable bins. He got about half the load in before the bins were overflowing. He put the rest behind the bar in the cellar and raced to find the kitchen cookbook.

The book told him that okra was cultivated widely throughout the world. Its pods were the only edible part and were used for such things as stews, soups and something called gumbo. The book said that occasionally, and only occasionally, okra was served as a side dish.

"Hey, O'Connell, what's all that green stuff in the vegetable bins?" asked the cook entering the kitchen.

"Okra," O'Connell replied.

"But what are we going to do with ...?"

"Don't ask," O'Connell said, cutting off the cook and pointing to the spot he was reading in the cookbook.

The house sat down for dinner that night to spaghetti, meatballs and a side order of okra.

For breakfast the next morning, the house had bacon, eggs and okra. For lunch, chicken gumbo soup, hot dogs and okra.

Meals that followed included chop suey okra, steak with okra sauce, noodles okra, welsh okra, chipped okra on toast and pizza with mushrooms, peperoni and okra.

So James Joseph came up with an idea for getting rid of the by now detested vegetable.

"Let's have an okra party," he suggested enthusiastically to the membership.

The party was scheduled for the following Saturday and the whole campus was invited. Guests were given okra as party favors at the door. Okra hung from the ceiling as decorations. To eat there were okra dips and okra petit fours. To drink there was a concoction called hot buttered okra. The fraternity even staged a playlette called "The Night of the Okra."

By the end of the night, the okra was gone.

About a week later, that food salesman stopped by the house.

"What do you need?" he asked James Joseph.

"I can tell you what I don't need," said James Joseph bitterly, "okra."

"Couldn't get it if you wanted it," said the man, "There's been a big run on the stuff. Seems some house threw a party with the stuff a while back and it was such a success that every fraternity on campus wants okra.

"Can't keep up with the orders."

Tighter Control Of Scholarships Asked

By JERRY ESTILL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A National Collegiate Athletic Association committee looking for ways to help college athletic departments halt spiraling costs has a revolutionary suggestion — limit the number of scholarships and base the amount of the scholarship on need.

The Financial Aid Committee of the NCAA presented its suggestion Monday to the powerful 18-man governing Council of the NCAA.

The Council scheduled a news conference at noon to announce its decision on whether to present the committee's plan to the next convention of the NCAA for discussion.

An informal poll of several council members Monday night found most of them receptive to the idea.

The proposal would limit the number of scholarships any NCAA member could give to 30 in football and six in basketball. The other half of the two-prong plan would set up a formula under which a school could give a student only that financial help he needed.

The need would be based on the federal income tax return of the student's parents. Once it was determined how much the family could afford to pay each year, the family would be expected to pay that amount no matter which school was chosen, with the selected school making up the difference in the form of athletic scholarship.

Conferences currently limit the number of scholarships their members can grant but the limit varies widely among conferences. Some independent schools reportedly give as many as 50 football scholarships annually.

Athletic scholarships normally pay room, board, books and tuition, plus a small monthly allowance for such incidenals.

Another suggestion presented by the Financial Aid Committee would require each member school to issue its scholarship invitations the same day and allow a one-week period for the recipient to choose which school he would attend.

Once that decision was made the athlete would be ineligible to play for another school.

Kosins Top Runner

NEW YORK (AP) — Gary Kosins was in a big hurry on the football field and his leaps to daylight rushed him right up to the top of college football's runners.

Dayton's power runner accounted for 236 rushing yards last Saturday and the figure zoomed his average per game to 170.5. Ed Marinaro of Cornell, last week's leader, dropped to second with a 62-yard effort and average of 162.0.

Kosins became a triple-threat man with his weekend's efforts. The slasing, 210-pounder also toppled Marinaro in the all-purpose running category and maintained his scoring lead with 16 points a game. Kosins holds a narrow edge—178.2 yards a game to 178.1—over North Carolina's Don McCauley in all-purpose running as Marinaro dropped to fourth.

Stanford's Jim Plunkett went from No. 2 to No. 1 in the total offense category, NCAA figures disclosed today. The sharp-shooting quarterback replaced Bill Craigo of the U. Texas-El Paso with a rushing-passing yards-per game average of 277.0. Craigo dropped to sixth.

Washington's Sonny Sixkiller is the new passing leader with 20 passes completed per game. He has amassed 1,496 air yards.

In punting, Utah's Marv Bateman stayed in control a fifth straight week with a 47.1-yard average.

Crew Gets Shore Duty

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Clarence Burris had been down in the mouth at news he was to ship out on a training cruise.

Then Burris dropped into the base theater where Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt, chief of naval operations, was meeting with officers and about 1,000 sailors. As all listened, Burris told the 49-year-old admiral of his plight.

"Son, if what you're saying is true, you'll have orders written for shore duty this afternoon," Zumwalt said.

As the sailors cheered, one chief petty officer told the admiral: "Finally we've got someone who gives a damn about people."

The shore duty papers came down 24 hours later.

There are approximately 22,520 high school marching bands in America. High schools report 25,071 concert bands and 12,115 jazz or stage bands.

Texas, Ohio State, Michigan Are Favored

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Something's gotta give this weekend in the Big Ten and Ivy League football races.

Ohio State and Michigan are unbeaten and supposedly heading toward a showdown battle in Columbus on Nov. 21. But a glance at the Big Ten standings show that the second-ranked Buckeyes and fifth-ranked Wolverines have company in the Wildcats of Northwestern.

Northwestern hasn't had a winning season since 1963. But the Wildcats have won three straight league games after dropping their three nonconference tilts and are ranked 20th this week in The Associated Press poll.

Northwestern visits Ohio State on Saturday while Michigan plays at Wisconsin.

Barring a tie between Dartmouth and Yale, the Ivy League will have only one leader Saturday after those two unbeatens clash in the Yale Bowl before a crowd expected to approach 60,000.

Northwestern at Ohio State—"If you think you're going to get a quote on that, you're not," Woody Hayes told a newsman Tuesday after the Buckeyes, though still unbeaten, dropped from first to second in the AP poll this week. "I've got more important things to do."

That means plotting to get the Bucks back on top, which a lopsided victory might accomplish. Hello Columbus; goodby Northwestern, Ohio State.

Michigan at Wisconsin—It's a good thing the Badgers beat Indiana last weekend because all they've got coming up is Michigan, followed by Ohio State Michigan.

Dartmouth at Yale—Both teams have swift-striking attacks and both rank among the national leaders in most defensive categories. Yale won the series opener 113-0 back in 1884 but times have changed. Dartmouth.

Southern Methodist at Texas—Longhorns are on top in the rankings and mean to stay there. Texas.

Nebraska at Colorado—Cornhuskers are roaring toward the Big Eight title. Nebraska.

Wake Forrest at Tennessee—Vols burst Deacons' bubble at four straight. Tennessee.

Auburn at Florida—Gators are unbeaten at home ... until now. Auburn.

Pitt at Syracuse—After several lean years, Pitt is riding high. Panthers are ranked 15th and they're tops in the East. Having digested all that ... Syracuse.

Oregon at Washington — Ducks are still alive in the Rose Bowl race. Oregon.

West Virginia at Penn State — In preseason forecasts, this game was expected to decide the Eastern championship. Penn State has had the Indian sign on the Mountaineers since 1965. A new decade shouldn't prove any different. Penn State.

Vest Is Top Athlete

Apparently Snyder's Tigers will be meeting one of the best quarterbacks in the state when they tangle with Colorado City's Wolves here Friday night.

Tommy Echols, who gave the scouting report at the Tiger Booster Club meeting last night, said Steve Vest, the Colorado City quarterback, is one of the best football players he has ever seen.

"He's a good passer, good runner, and he can really kick the ball," Echols declared. "He kicks them end over end," Echols said, "and gets a good bounce."

Vest was instrumental in Colorado City's 20-10 upset of Lamesa last week. The Wolves operate from a pro set and from the "shotgun" formations. Defensively, they employ five-man and four-man fronts.

All of the coaches in the school system gave reports on their teams at the meeting, held in the high school cafeteria.

Members didn't get to see the film of the Dunbar clash because it didn't arrive in the mail.

The time for Booster Club meetings has been changed to 7:30 p.m.

Six-Man Pro Tilt Set Here

The Key City Chiefs, a 6-man professional football team from Abilene, will meet another 6-man pro outfit, the Lubbock Tornadoes, on the Travis Junior High field here Sunday afternoon. Kickoff is set for 3 p.m.

It will be a re-match between the two teams, the Lubbock club having won by 35-0 in a previous meeting.

Purpose of scheduling the game in Snyder is to stimulate interest in professional 6-man football. Anyone interested in investigating the potential of 6-man professional football is invited to contact Bob Long at Abilene by calling 915-698-1685.

Spokesmen said that professional 6-man teams already have been organized in Abilene, Sweetwater, Big Spring and Lubbock and they would like to organize others in Snyder, San Angelo, Brownwood and Lamesa.

Milwaukee Nips San Diego

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Milwaukee Bucks don't always go as Lew Alcindor and Oscar Robertson go. Guys like Bob Dandridge can supply a little push, too.

The Bucks survived Alcindor's foul troubles and Robertson's off-night Tuesday as Dandridge pumped in 39 points in a 126-113 victory over the San Diego Rockets at Milwaukee.

The New York Knicks, however, looked again to Willis Reed for a 117-104 triumph over the Seattle SuperSonics, while the Portland Trail Blazers whipped the Buffalo Braves 119-108.

In the American Basketball Association, Pittsburgh upended Virginia 114-110, Memphis beat Denver 102-94 and Texas edged New York 103-99 in the only games.

Dandridge scored 20 of his points in the first half and the Bucks seemed on their way to an easy victory with a 61-53 lead. But Alcindor picked up his fifth foul and San Diego cut a 22-point deficit to 82-75 before Dandridge and the Milwaukee reserves exploded into a 105-84 spread. The reserves finished with a total of 35 points.

Alcindor finished with only 20 points, 16 below his average, while Robertson had only 19. Elvin Hayes scored 34 for the Rockets.

The Knicks were muddling along with a 48-44 halftime lead and Reed had only six points and four rebounds. But he scored six points in a 10-3 run in the third period for an 81-70 lead, and the Sonics never got closer than nine again.

Reed had 11 points and 10 rebounds in the third quarter and finished with 19 points, while teammates Dave DeBusschere had 22 and Cazzie Russell 20. Len Wilkens had 24 for the Sonics.

Portland coverted 45 of 60 free throws in handling injury-riddled Buffalo its fourth consecutive setback. Stan McKenzie led the Trail Blazers with 27 points including 17-of-19 from the free throw line. John Hummer topped the Braves with 23 points.

Portland overcame a 54-50 halftime deficit by outscoring Buffalo 30-23 in the third quarter to go ahead to stay 80-77.

In the junior game, Nancy Sterling, Susie Hester and Paula Sterling all finished in double figures for Ira with 12, 12 and 11 points respectively. Jackson pitched in 14 points for Gail.

IRA (52)—Roddy 3-6-12; Kruse 8-16-32; Erwin 0-1-1; Payne 1-5-7; totals 12-28-52.

Pugh In Limelight

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — It was in the closing minutes of the game Sunday and Kansas City quarterback Lenny Dawson was attempting somehow to overcome a 27-16 Dallas lead.

Dawson faded to pass. And then a 260-pounder, coming from his blind side, drove Dawson into the ground. Dawson gave his chief tormentor, Cowboys defensive tackle Jethro Pugh, a hard stare.

Pugh said later that's the greatest feeling in the world for a defensive tackle—next to scoring a touchdown or a safety, of course."

The 6-foot-7 Pugh dropped Dawson for losses four times and was credited with 11 unassisted tackles. His performance earned him The Associated Press National Football League Defensive player of the Week laurels.

"The Kansas City victory was one of my biggest thrills because it came after that Minnesota thing," Pugh said.

"Not only did Minnesota beat us bad (54-13) but my car wouldn't start when I got back to the airport," Pugh said. "We had to have the KC game."

Pugh credits fellow defensive tackle Bob Lilly with much of his success.

"I dread the day when that man retires," said Pugh, who noted that Lilly was double-teamed 19 times and triple-teamed three times by Kansas City blockers, leaving Pugh in a one-on-one situation against Chief offensive guard Mo Moorman.

Pugh, a graduate of Elizabeth City State, N.C. said he got off to a slow start this year "because I was keying too much ... waiting too much ... looking too much. I wasn't playing enough on instinct and reaction. I talked with (defensive line) coach (Ernie) Stautner and he agreed I should blow and go more.

Stautner said, "It was Jethro's greatest game. His pursuit in particular was something. Pugh will be one of the greatest in the game if he can keep himself aroused. And he was aroused Sunday."

Colts, Cowboys Claim Contests

The Colts defeated the Giants 20-0 and the Cowboys lassoed the Packers 22-0 in two 7th grade football tilts held on Lamar turf yesterday afternoon.

Clifford Kay sprinted 40 yards for the first Colt touchdown in the first quarter. Mike Freeman plunged across from the one to cap a 55 yard drive in the second period. Then, in the third quarter, Randy Gressett took a pass from Kay for a touchdown with the play covering 52 yards. David Rodriguez ran across for two points following the last touchdown.

Kelly Ragland threw three touchdown passes for the Cowboys. He hit McCommon on a 25-yarder in the second quarter, connected with the same receiver on a 20 yard pass in the third period, and hit Todd Line with a 20-yarder in the fourth stanza.

Neal ran across for two extra points following the first touchdown and Gill picked up two bonus points after the second touchdown.

Change In Schedule Told

There has been a change in the time and place of the Travis football games this Thursday according to principal, Jack Gorman.

Travis 8th grade will play in Sweetwater at 5 p.m. Thursday and Travis 9th grade will play Sweetwater here at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Other games involving local teams will be played as originally scheduled with Lamar 8th grade meeting Colorado City there at 6 p.m. Thursday, the junior varsity Kittens meeting Lake View there at 7:30 p.m. Thursday and the varsity Tigers hosting Colorado City at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Pitt Rips Squires

Pittsburgh's Condors swooped down against an unsuspecting group of Southern gentlemen, then flew away with the Virginia Squires' first setback of the American Basketball Association season.

The Squires, winners of their first six ABA encounters, visited Pittsburgh Tuesday night and came away on the short end of a 114-110 score.

Without DDT What?

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Newsfeatures Writer

BELTSVILLE Md. (AP) — Insects are our little beasts, the oldest on earth. They've skittered and buzzed around for some 300 million years. And today, despite poisons and fly-swatters, they still number nine out of every 10 of the earth's creatures.

Given its way, the insect would steal man's food and fiber, endanger his health. But the insect has been controlled, stopped in its tracks, largely with the use of poisons.

Only now man has set aside his strongest weapons — the persistent pesticides like DDT. He discovered that the same potencies that made then effective against bugs made them a danger to man as well. The U.S. government has been gradually restricting DDT usage in all but essential areas in the wake of increasing evidence of long-range pesticide poisoning.

So now, again, man is faced with growers warning of wormy apples and crop diseases, and resultant higher prices. One farmer says: "Fine. Go ahead. Get rid of DDT. It will cut my work 60 per cent, cut my expenses 40 per cent, and raise the price of food 200 per cent."

The fact is that man's arsenal against the persistent pest is jammed with weapons, and the armorers are fashioning new ones every year.

Man has employed every possible means of overkill from the heel of his boot to the flat of his hand, from aircraft to sound effects. He throughly drubs one solitary insect as if it were to be a lesson to them all.

But the odds as always are with the bugs. Take two houseflies for instance. If they and their progeny bred successfully, they would produce 190 quintillion (190,000,000,000,000,000,000) flies in just four months.

Or take a flight of locusts attacking a wheat field. They might weigh as much as 50,000 tons, the combined weight of 250 B52 jet bombers loaded for war. And in a single day they would eat their own weight in wheat-enough to feed five million human beings.

So the desperate voices ask: "If we can't fight them off with DDT, and heptachlor, and dieldrin, what can we do against then?"

Says Dr. Ned D. Bayley of the U.S. Department of Agriculture: "We're hopeful that if we proceed in a responsible manner, we can protect the public health and still provide the housewife with food at a reasonable cost."

He's the man who is trying to guide the farmer away from the use of persistent pesticides where that is possible. "I don't think we have to come to worm my apples," he says.

Police Find Guns In Motel

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — An anonymous telephone caller told police Tuesday they could find a large amount of guns and explosives at a motel.

"You're not going to get any bodies to go with this, so be happy. Be satisfied with what you're getting," the caller said.

Police found on the bed in a motel room on 55th Streeet: 20 sticks of heavy demolition dynamite, three machine guns, 16 incendiary fragmentation bombs, four gas grenades and two anti-personnel fragmentation grenades. They said the dynamite was enough to blow up three city blocks.

They also found 10 bags of drugs, believed to be methadrine, cocaine and heroin worth $5,000.

They were looking for two girls, one a blonde, the other a brunette, who had rented the room.

Mexico Repeals Divorce Statute

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Legislators in the state capital at Chihuahua, south of here, have dealt a death blow to a flourishing quickie divorce business in this border city, a leading lawyer reported today.

Their surprise vote repealing Chihuahua's 1933 divorce statute commanded top headlines in Juarez newspapers.

State officials in Chihuahua were not available at once for comment.

Javier Alvarez, an internationally known lawyer who has handled divorce cases for many celebrities from the United States, reported the legislative development.

He and other sources in Juarez, across the Rio Grande from El Paso, Tex., said it will put an end to a divorce trade in this border city estimated at $50 million a year. The figure includes court and lawyer fees and revenues of hotels, air lines and restaurants.

Juarez court attendants said several hundred divorce cases already on file will be handled under the old law but no new suits will be placed on the docket.

They reported about 45,000 divorces were granted here last year, mostly to residents of New York and California.

Under the repealed statute, a person seeking a Juarez divorce was required only to register at the municipal palace and file a petition to obtain a decree within 24 hours.

Alvarez said it now will be necessary to establish residence and wait two or three weeks before a divorce can be granted.

Mexico's President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz proposed last Aug. 12 that congress amend the naturalization law to block quickie divorces. He asked an amendment giving federal authorities the exclusive right to grant foreigners legal residence, required for all legal proceedings.

The new congress convened Sept. 1 but so far has not acted on the proposal.

Alvarez said he was informed that Chihuahua Gov. Oscar Flores simply submitted a modified version of the president's proposal to his state legislature and it was quickly enacted.

Bush Says Talk Is Speculation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A published report that Rep. George Bush could be the Republican candidate for vice president in 1972 echoed today in his race with Democrat Lloyd Bentsen for U.S. senator.

It shared interest with the visit of President Nixon, who was due at the Gregg County airport this afternoon and in Dallas a bit later to stump for GOP nominees in the Nov. 3 general election.

Bush, talking to supporters at San Angelo Tuesday, said Washington talk that Nixon might choose him for a running mate in the next presidential election was "wild speculation with no credibility at all," adding, "I'm running for the Senate."

His comment concerned a copyrighted account by the Washington Post and appearing in the Dallas Times Herald that informed sources looked for Bush to land the second spot on the 1972 ticket—and possibly to run for president in 1976-if he could win election to the Senate.

Bentsen, winding up in San Antonio overnight, remarked in this connection, "We are trying to elect a senator to represent Texas for the next six years—not a new speech maker for the Republican party."

Both candidates also had more to say about Nixon's trip to Texas, for which Bush and Republican gubernatorial nominee Paul Eggers planned to join the President about 4 p.m. at the Gregg County airport, between Longview and Kilgore.

Marshalling a big turnout, state GOP leaders arranged for four college and high school bands to welcome Nixon. Delegations were gathering from at least 21 East Texas counties and many schools in those areas were dismissing classes at noon.

In Dallas, where the presidential party was expected about 5:30 p.m., seats were available at Market Hall for 10,000 to hear Nixon to speak at 8 p.m., with talks by Bush and Eggers to follow.

Bentsen, in a talk to supporters at the San Angelo airport, said, "President Nixon is coming down to Texas to try to pull this race out of the fire for George Bush. If he should succeed, how could Bush turn his back on the President when he has to make a choice between the President's political interests and the best interests in Texas?"

Bush, who was at Harlingen before moving northward, said, "My position is and always has been that I don't consider the President an outsider in Texas or any other state."

Sticking to the same subject in remarks prepared for a Brownsville stop today, Bentsen put it this way: "President Nixon is popular in Texas and I think most of us wish he would come to see us more often. But deep down, I think he knows that we Texans are not going to elect a U.S. senator on the basis of the President's popularity . . ."

The San Antonio Express reported, meanwhile, that efforts "are being made to trigger former President Lyndon Johnson into action in Bentsen's behalf ....Persons close to Bentsen's campaign and to the former president feel the senatorial race is a tossup and that Johnson could provide the extra ballast to put Bentsen over.

AGAINST LIQUOR ISSUE

Allen Urges Baptist To Vote

AUSTIN (AP) — Christians should "come out of hiding" on the liquor-by-the-drink issue," says the president of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Dr. Jimmy R. Allen, pastor of San Antonio's First Baptist Church, delivered his address to the convention's annual meeting Tuesday night.

Alcohol, Dr. Allen asserted, is "the greatest drug problem in our nation."

He said it was "unbelievable, but true" that Texans must vote next Tuesday on whether to "legalize a process of liquor-by-the-drink and encourage the establishment of 12,000 outlets for this drug of alcohol instead of the 2,000 plus which we now have."

"To complicate the picture, many Christians are so weary of fighting this battle and so discouraged about the fact that profiteering interests are willing to keep spending thousands of dollars to manipulate Americans to approve of this drug that they search for some justification for hiding," Allen said.

"They feel they have found it in the discovery of other problems in our society which are destricutive of human life. It becomes unsophisticated and old fashioned to still be worrying about liquor in a world of war and want."

But, he said, "destroyed lives are just as heartbreaking if they come apart at the seams through a drug as through other means."

"The issue pressured upon us by the profiteers is liquor-by-the-drink. Sophisticated or not, this issue demands our coming out of hiding. It calls for us to protect the young and the weak from destruction through alcohol," Allen told the 3,000 messengers.

He also called for Baptists to work for solutions to urban problems and to oppose efforts to obtain tax dollars for church-supported schools.

"The effort to get tax support for church education has shifted its battlefield from Washington to Austin....The greatest threat to the free public school system in the history of our country is being made right now," he said.

Sherwood Singers Here Tonight

The program will begin at 7:30 p.m.

SR's Get Last Word

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain

Dear Joyce: I majored in English but have been unable to find a suitable job. A friend suggested that I become a shorthand reporter but I have been unable to learn much about this field. — N.P., Washington, D.C.

There are about 12,000 shorthand reporters (SR's) today, nearly half of whom are women. SR's are the elite of the stenographic field — these nimble-fingered experts record the last verbatim word on everything that is said at a trial, hearing or meeting.

WHO'S WHO. SR's are classified as court reporters, hearing reporters, legislative reporters, and general (or free lance) reporters. All except the last group are known as official reporters. The greatest demand is in the courts, which mainly employ reporters to make an official transcript of court trials. Hearing and legislative reporters usually work in State legislatures, the U.S. Congress, or for various Federal and state agencies, either in capitals or in field offices. General reporters usually work in large cities covering such activities as business meetings, conventions and stockholders' meetings on a free lance basis. They are in business for themselves or work for a general reporting service.

FLYING WORDS. First-rate reporters must be able to take at least 200 w.p.m. and even 250 w.p.m. in short spurts! They may type their own work or have others do it; however, SR's have final responsibility for accuracy. Most SR's entering the field today use a stenotyping machine that prints letters used as shorthand symbols.

PAY RECORD. Salaries for official reporters vary widely but a typical range is $7,500-15,000, although a number of SR's in the U.S. Congress earn over $20,000. Self-employed general reporters frequently earn over $15,000.

PENMAN'S PREP. To achieve the accuracy that is vital in legal proceedings, you must understand what is being said, regardless of the speed or idiosyncrasies of speech. This necessitates a command of English and broad general knowledge. That's why experts advise that you attend college to obtain the broad academic background so helpful in this work. A high school diploma or its equivalent is the minimum requirement. A period of 2 years of full-time (or 3-4 years of part-time) study and practice ordinarily is required for an SR to become qualified. This training is usually taken in business schools or in schools that specialize in teaching shorthand reporting.

In addition to a large vocabulary, good grammar and spelling, you'll need knowledge of legal terminology, common Latin phrases, rules of evidence, court procedure and familiarity with medical words and subjects.

AUTOMATION A THREAT? SR's are in demand and the future looks bright for this profession, although job opportunities will vary by locality.

Thus far, a machine has not been developed that can replace the live reporter although such attempts have been made for the past 30 years. Electronic sound-recorders have not been generally satisfactory for several reasons; perhaps the most important is that they lack human judgment. For example, when battling attorneys, a hostile witness and an outraged judge are all shouting at the same time, a tape recorder cannot discern one voice from another. While tomorrow's technical innovations are unpredictable, only a live reporter could have handled the action in this excerpt from a real trial transcript:

"COURT REPORTER: I'm sorry, I didn't hear the answer. WITNESS: If you will tell me what you didn't hear, I will tell you what I said."

Elena Is Happy With Ears

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Elena Arroyo is happy—very happy—because at last she has ears that stick out like any other 7-year-old girl's.

Elena was born without ears in a remote Otomi Indian village 200 miles northeast of Mexico City.

There weren't even any openings where her ears should have been.

"Several tribesmen told her parents that they should kill her," says Miss Vola Griste, a missionary of the Wycliffe Bible Translators who has spent 27 years among the Otomis.

"But her mother had been converted to Christianity, and she told them she couldn't do that, that the Lord gave her to them for some purpose. Right then and there, I pledged to help that little girl."

When Elena was old enough last year, Miss Griste took her to Oklahoma City, where an ear surgeon had offered his services.

"When the doctor finished he told me he didn't think he had done her any good," recalls Miss Griste. He was wrong. After a postoperative period, Elena could hear. Miss Griste considers it a miracle.

Elena began to learn to talk, but Otomi girls wear their hair long, pulled back off the ears, and if Elena couldn't do that she wouldn't have much of a future.

Executives of Realastic Industries, an Oakland firm that makes cosmetic restorations, heard about Elena and offered to help.

Money for the trip was raised through the efforts of James Santos, a United Auto Workers member employed at Realastic. A few weeks ago Elena was brought here to be measured for artificial ears.

This week she came back, a sober little girl with her black hair combed straight down, hiding ears that weren't there.

She walked out radiant, her hair pushed back behind her new ears in proper Otomi style.

"She was all giggly," said Miss Griste. "Kept looking at the mirrors around her and taking her hair, a strand at a time, placing it behind her ears."

The plastic ears are attached with a special adhesive.

Elena will stay with Miss Griste until she can be taken back to her home in Mexico.

Siamese Twins Die Tuesday

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A pair of 25-day old Siamese twins died Tuesday at Texas Children's Hospital after an emergency attempt was made to separate them.

The twins, from Dayton, Ohio, were extensively attached at the heart and the liver, a hospital spokesman said. Doctors had hoped to let them gain some strength and age before they attempted surgery, but a deterioration in their condition led to a decision to go ahead with the operation.

The spokesman said the doctors knew the chances were virtually hopeless for such a case.

The twins, whose parents were not identified, had undergone tests to determine what, if any, organs they shared.

"The doctors found out at the operation that they were joined at the heart, which was defective. Neither had a complete heart," the spokesman said.

"The liver was extensively joined," the spokesman said. "Ever since birth they have lost weight. Their strength was gradually sapped. This weekend it was apparent that the weaker was pulling down the stronger to the extent that it was an emergency."

"The separation was attempted only as a last resort."

The twins were flown to Houston on Oct. 15. They weighed 12 pounds at birth.

Polanski Casting New Movie

LONDON (AP) — Director Roman Polanski is casting his first movie since the slaying last year of his wife, actress Sharon Tate. It will be a sexed-up version of "MacBeth."

It was announced Tuesday that the title role will be played by a little-known British actor, Jon Finch. Lady MacBeth, a part for which no actress has been chosen, will appear in the nude, as will the three witches.

The screenplay was written by Kenneth Tynan, creator of the gamy musical "Oh, Calcutta!"
