Steers

Q. Is the Steers football team in division 4-A next year? If so, what teams will they play?

A. It hasn't been announced yet whether the Steers will move to division 4A or stay in 5A, said sportswriter Charlie Alcorn. The announcement is expected to be made in January, he said. If the Steers were moved to 4A, they would play smaller schools, like Sweetwater and Monahans, than they currently play, he said.

Polluter

City plant cited

By DANA PALMER
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The city of Big Spring was cited Friday by the Texas Water Commission as a consistent polluter.

The city's wastewater treatment plant was included in a "rest of the worst" list. Also released was a more serious worst list of 23 cities, industries and one federal facility cited as having the poorest environmental records in the state.

Those lists were released at a Capitol news conference by commission Executive Director Larry Soward.

The Big Spring facility was cited for having a history of chronic violations of state pollution limits.

A number of city wastewater plants were included in the worst list, mainly for allowing raw or improperly treated sewage to flow back into streams and rivers, he said. Among the cities involved were Austin, Houston, San Antonio, Texarkana, Garland and Brownwood.

The rest-of-the-worst list, which included operations the agency judged to have serious problems meeting state regulations, also included the Western Co. of North America in Snyder for improper disposal of possibly hazardous acids used in oil well drilling operations.

Release of the worst polluters list, Soward said, signals "that we intend to adhere to the mandate...to clean up the rivers and streams of this state."

In addition, the commission "considers that the water pollution problems in this state are significant, especially with municipal (waste) discharges and hazardous wastes," he said.

Psychiatric training

State hospital teaches medical school interns the trade

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Resident family practice physicians at Texas Tech University Medical School now gain experience in institutional psychiatry through an internship program at Big Spring State Hospital.

Dr. Diana Casanova, the first resident to participate in the new program, said it has given her knowledge she might not have gotten through her clinic practice.

Physicians spend two weeks in the program at the state hospital in different departments to get exposure to a variety of patients and mental illnesses.

Dr. Wallace Hunter, staff psychiatrist at the state hospital and organizer of the new program, said most physicians have a lot of experience with slightly mentally ill patients, but in the state hospital they become exposed to those with major or chronic mental illnesses.

Casanova said psychiatry is important in a family practice because "85 percent of the illnesses you will see in your practice have psychiatric overtones."

"It's important you be exposed to the state system. (Elsewhere) I wouldn't have seen the acute psychotic patients I have seen here," Casanova said. "Usually in a small clinic, if you get a severely mentally ill person, he immediately gets (turned over) to the psychiatrist."

The program helps physicians "learn to communicate and interact with the patients, and it's alleviated some of my personal fears," she said.

Casanova has been in the program for a week. She interviewed patients in the admissions department, has observed psychiatrists interviewing patients, has gone on rounds with the psychiatrists and has observed group therapy, she said.

Family practice doctors are required to have one month of residency training in psychiatry. Casanova said she will complete her requirement with the Mental Health Mental Retardation center in Odessa.

In addition to the resident training program, three upper-level psychiatry residents from the medical school now act as weekend medical officers at the state hospital, a hospital news release said.

The doctors take care of medical and psychiatric problems that arise on the hospital units and work on emergency admissions.

Reagan maps strategy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan held a final strategy meeting with national security advisers Friday on the eve of departing for next week's superpower summit, and was urged by 39 senators to stand firm against Soviet demands for concessions on the "Star Wars" defense plan.

Reagan was pleased by the senators' position because it gives him ammunition to counter any claims in Geneva that Americans do not support Star Wars, said Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C.

The president spent an hour in the Cabinet Room with Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, Secretary of State George P. Shultz, National Security Adviser Robert C. McFarlane and others, reviewing themes and issues for the meetings next Tuesday and Wednesday with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

Shultz and McFarlane will take part in the Geneva meetings; Weinberger is staying in Washington.

Red Adair impostor blew through town

By KATHY SANDERS
Harte-Hanks News Service

RANGER — He blew into town with a runaway gas well but left officials wondering, "Who was that guy in coveralls?"

He claimed to work for Paul "Red" Adair, internationally known for fighting oil-field fires and blowouts and said he came to help at this town located about 70 miles east of Abilene off Interstate 20.

But the knight in shining red coveralls was an impostor and con artist, Adair said.

"They had a good con artist down there but he had no ties with us," Adair said Thursday. "Nobody working for me was down there."

The man purporting to be Adair's employee arrived at the scene of a natural gas blowout about six miles south of Ranger at 2 a.m. Friday, a little more than 24 hours after the blowout occurred.

In a telephone interview, Adair said several people attempt to impersonate him or pass themselves off as his employees.

"They're just weird people," he said. "I don't know why they do it. Maybe they want the glory. We're the best in the business."

Adair said none of his men go to a fire unless called. "All my men were out on fires when this happened."

He said he talked with Ray Richey, owner of the well, but it went no further because Richey hired Boots Coots.

Adair's statement shocked lawmen and officials involved in the Nov. 6 gas well blowout about six miles south of Ranger.

Natural gas began spewing after a wellhead ruptured, and residents near the well were evacuated.

"He came in Thursday night and said he worked part-time for Red Adair," Eastland County Deputy Sheriff H.T. Fillingim said.

"He said he goes to fires in his area, checks to see what the situation was and what was needed," he said.

The man's statements, Fillingim said, were backed up by his red coveralls, sporting Red Adair patches, his obvious knowledge of blowouts and an apparent call to Adair.

"The name on the patch wasn't the same name he gave us," Fillingim said. But he said everything he had was borrowed, and his stuff was in Dallas.

"I didn't think much about it. He knew what he was talking about," he added.

All officials described the man fairly tall, heavyset with dark blond hair and a beard.

Eastland County Sheriff Don Underwood said he was slightly suspicious when the man said he didn't have a business card.

"He had on the Red Adair uniform and said he worked with Red Adair," Underwood said. "I asked him for a business card, and he said he didn't have any. That made me suspicious.

Minneapolis women run day care center for sick children

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Once upon a time, working parents had to stay home when their kids became sick. Then two women who worried about working parents came up with an alternative — a day care center for sick children.

"Our intent is to be available for parents when there are no other resources," said Birdie Johnson, a founder of Chicken Soup. "This is a solution if you haven't any other solution."

Chicken Soup is Minnesota's only licensed day care center for sick children. There are fewer than a dozen such centers in the nation, said Beth Fredericks, project coordinator of the Boston-based Work Family Directions, a national child care referral network.

Children who come to the center are examined by a nurse. Then they're assigned to one of three brightly decorated rooms — the "Sniffles Room" for those with colds, the "Popsicle Room" for those with flu and the "Polkadot Room" for chicken pox.

Each room has its own bathroom and is filled with toys, books and video games.

"Most people expect to see little beds in a row," Ms. Johnson said. "We had a problem making it friendly, yet sanitary."

There is no carpeting and the bedding consists of cots with colored quilts which are used as pillows. The quilts are washed daily, and children are encouraged to bring things from home.

Connie Bell, associate director of the Greater Minneapolis Day Care Association, said several studies found a need for sick child care services. Minnesota and many other states prohibit sick children from attending regular day care centers.

Alberta Coffey, a registered nurse, helps John Benz, 2, with lunch at the Chicken Soup day care center for sick children in Minneapolis.

Chicken Soup is open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. and accepts children ranging in age from 6 months to 12 years. Costs are $30 for a full day or $20 for four hours or less.

Children who have measles or whose symptoms already seem serious are not accepted.

Linda Tacke said she her 3-year-old son Paul enjoyed his first visit to the center. He told his sister, "You'll be so happy when you get sick because you get to go to Chicken Soup," Mrs. Tacke said.

The "Sniffles Room," where children may play in groups, has been the most active, Ms. Johnson said. Toys that are shared are washed with a sanitizing agent. In the "Popsicle Room," child are given their own toys and instructed to play alone.

The "Polkadot Room" has a separate entrance, ventilation and heating to prevent chicken pox from being spread through the air, Ms. Johnson said.

"If a child catches a cold from another child, it's not a crisis. But we don't want them to pick up anything worse," she said.

Two registered nurses and one licensed practical nurse are on the staff.

Bankrupt Murchison studies bids for his mansion, land

DALLAS (AP) — Six bids were submitted on ailing businessman Clint Murchison Jr.'s 25-acre estate, but it will be next week before a buyer is chosen, a Murchison spokesman said Friday.

Philip I. Palmer Jr., an attorney, would not disclose details of the bids and said only that Murchison's attorneys and his debtors are studying them.

Friday was the deadline for bids on the 43-thousand square-foot mansion and $7.5 million worth of north Dallas property on the selling block to help ease a $397 million debt.

Murchison, principal owner of the Dallas Cowboys football team until last year, has an illness that has left him barely able to speak.

Chandler death accidental

Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin ruled accidental death for Barbara Chandler, 27, who died Thursday night at Pioneer Trailer Park on Tubbs Road.

Dr. Robert Rember, who performed an autopsy at Heflin's request, told Heflin Friday afternoon Chandler died by choking to death on a piece of meat, the justice of the peace said.

Services for Chandler are pending with Nalley-Pickle and Welch Funeral Home.

The thief caused $100 damage to the right front window while breaking into the car between midnight and 5:30 a.m. Friday, police said.

- Someone stole a $2,000 1974 Datsun 260Z owned by Rick Arguello of 611 S. Bell. Bell told police he loaned the car to someone at 5 p.m. Thursday to pick up parts for it, and the car was never returned. Also, $180 cash was taken.
- Someone stole a white 1964 Chevrolet pickup, valued at $600, from V.E. Jordan of Motel 9, according to police reports.

Wildflower planting project on Scenic Mountain unsure

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department has not contacted the West Texas Republican Womens Club about their request to plant wildflowers on Scenic Mountain, said club member Polly Mays Friday afternoon.

Mays, however, will meet with botanist Len Pace of Knox City Thursday to discuss the situation.

Pace works with closely with the parks and wildlife department, Mays said.

She said he telephoned her this week.

"We're going to discuss the situation," Mays said, "but right now it doesn't look good for us."

The women's club decided to plant wildflowers on the mountain as a project for the Texas Sesquicentennial.

Austin officials had given the women permission to plant flowers on Scenic Mountain, but then ordered the project stopped after receiving a letter in October from Charles Dawes of Big Spring.

Dawes complained that planting wildflowers could harm the mountain's natural growth.

If the parks and wildlife department does allow the flowers to be planted on Scenic Mountain, the project would begin this spring, Mays said.

cautioned against too much public concern. "By and large most of them are on the list for a long history of a noncooperative attitude, and there's no imminent health hazard indicated by their placement on the list," he said.

Also released at the news conference was a so-called best-in-the-state list and an honor roll of those selected as having good environmental records that are not quite up to the standards for the best list.

On the best list was:

- West Texas Utilities Co. Paint Creek Plant for being compliant with all regulations during inspections visits and exemplary operation and maintenance of its wastewater system.

Those on the honor roll included West Texas Utilities' Fort Phantom Plant and the cities of Haskell and Snyder.

"Generally, they stay in good compliance and maintain a good working relationship with the agency," said Colbert.

Soward noted that the idea of publishing a worst and a best list every quarter could do more good than all the fines and penalties the state agency could assess.

"Frankly, we think public pressure on known polluters is often more effective than any means we have at our direct disposal," he said, adding that "it is not our intention is not to humiliate or intimidate anyone in any way."

Soward noted that the agency hopes that "by drawing attention to those permit holders that we feel are problems, we may be giving them an extra incentive to do a better job of protecting the environment."

The best list, he added, should give cities and industries something to aim for while they try to stay off the worst list.

Summit

as "good, upbeat, magnificent, businesslike."

Meanwhile Friday, Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., and a State Department official, who spoke on the condition of anonymity, said the Soviet government has decided to allow at least nine citizens with spouses in the United States or other U.S. ties to leave the Soviet Union,

"I think it's a public relations move, but it is also an indication they want to improve the atmosphere" at the summit, Simon said.

Spokesman Edward Djerejian said the White House had no comment on the Soviet decision.

Reagan departs early Saturday on Air Force One for a nearly eight-hour, 4,200-mile flight to Geneva. Sunday is planned mostly as a day of rest to adjust to the six-hour time difference. Formal arrival ceremonies for Reagan and Gorbachev are planned on Monday.

The two leaders will meet Tuesday and Wednesday in the first U.S.-Soviet summit in six years.

During a brief ceremony Friday in the Oval Office, Reagan got strong encouragement from House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., usually a political foe of the Republican president.

Standing in front of crackling logs in the fireplace, O'Neill told the president, "I want you to know that we wish you all the success and happiness and best wishes, and you come home with the greatest results.

"Everyone in America — you're our leader and we know that you're going to have success," said O'Neill, who had been invited to the White House to join Reagan in hailing a new agreement giving the Irish government a voice in running the troubled British province of Northern Ireland.

Reagan was told by a reporter that a Soviet official in Geneva had referred to him as a Grade-B actor. With a tight smile on his face, Reagan said, "He's never seen 'King's Road,'" a high-budget film considered to have been one of Reagan's best during his acting career.

The president also met with Sens. Pete Wilson, R-Calif., and Hollings, who brought a letter signed by 39 senators urging Reagan to stand fast by Star Wars, the research program that envisions using lasers and other high-technology devices to shield American from nuclear missiles.

Reagan has pledged repeatedly he will not give up research and testing on Star Wars, which the administration calls the Strategic Defense Initiative.

"We share in your judgment that SDI is too important to be traded for marginal improvements in the status quo," said the letter, which was signed by five Democrats and 34 Republicans, including Majority Leader Robert Dole.

While the number of signers fell short of a majority, Wilson noted that the total exceeds the amount needed to block ratification of a treaty that gave away too much on Star Wars.

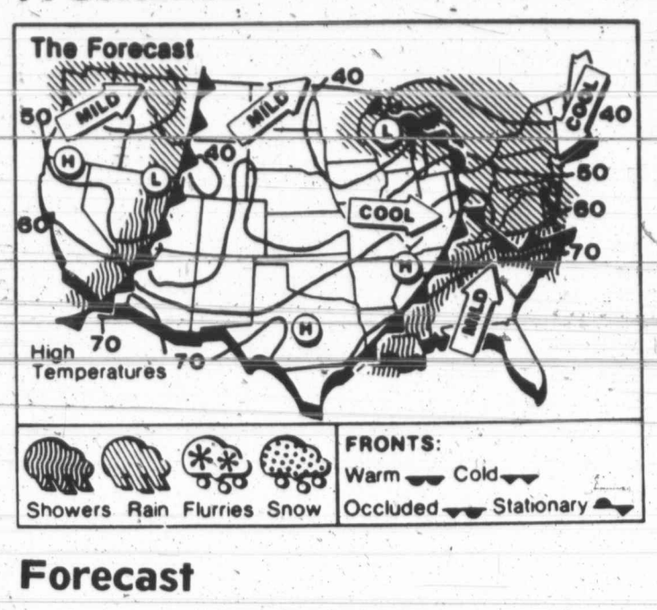

Wilson said, "I think it's pretty clear — 39 is more than 34. If 34 were against it, a treaty could be blocked."

Hollings quoted Reagan as saying the letter was "very useful" and said the president "noted that in a previous conference that someone had talked about an American poll being against (Star Wars). He said he can use a letter of this kind to show what the true sentiment is."

The senators said they hoped their support "strengthens your hand" in the talks with Gorbachev.

In a separate development, Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, predicted the summit will lead to "more subtle advances in Soviet-American relations than substantive ones."

Cub recovers after clubbing

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A 4-month-old mountain lion cub is recuperating at a veterinary clinic here after being clubbed by an elderly couple, wildlife officials said.

The animal was picked up from a ranch near Sisterdale Tuesday and brought to San Antonio after the couple apparently called a federal government trapper.

The couple asked the trapper to find the cub's mother, said Wildlife Rescue and Rehabilitation Inc. director Lynn Cuny.

"The couple said they had never seen a mountain lion in their life and none of their livestock had been killed," Ms. Cuny said.

She said the cub's mother likely is dead because the cub is very thin.

The cub is recovering from a severe concussion at the Broadway Animal Clinic.

Ms. Cuny said after about a week, she will transfer the cub to the Wildlife Rescue center where it will stay until it has fully recovered and can be released into the wild.

Officials said the couple was hunting on the ranch when they saw the mountain lion and fired at the animal.

The shot missed the cub, who then ran toward one of the hunters. The couple then began clubbing the animal, authorities said.

Hotel engineers erred

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — The structural engineers who designed the Hyatt Regency Hotel's skywalks, which collapsed and killed 114 people, were guilty of "gross negligence, misconduct and unprofessional conduct," a state commissioner ruled Friday.

The ruling was the first declaration of blame for the tragedy.

The commissioner recommended that the Missouri Board of Architects, Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors take disciplinary action against the engineers, which could include suspension or revocation of their licenses.

Bad dresser loses aid

ALBANY, N.Y. — A county was justified in cutting off welfare payments for a month to a workfare recipient who showed up for a job in an "unkempt and slovenly" state, an appeals court ruled Friday.

The Appellate Division of state Supreme Court ruled unanimously that Louis Barnett's poor appearance and his refusal to put on clean clothes that he was offered "constituted a willful refusal to participate in the work-relief program," and warranted his loss of welfare payments for 30 days.

When Barnett showed up for work, "his appearance was unkempt and slovenly, his clothes were filthy, his stomach was protruding, his pants were not zippered and his belt was unbuckled," the ruling said.

Anglo-Irish accord bridge in sectarianism

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A wall that British security forces built through the heart of Belfast to keep Protestants and Roman Catholics away from each other symbolizes the passionate sectarianism in this troubled province.

There are hopeful signs. Violence has declined in the past two years, some economic recovery is evident, and some people on both sides are creeping out of their mental foxholes toward reconciliation.

It is a start, but a small one, on a long journey that may be impossible to complete.

The conflict that began in August 1969 with riots in Belfast and Londonderry has taken more than 2,450 lives — of Catholics and Protestants, civilians and British soldiers, gunmen and police.

More than 322,000 house searches have been conducted, 20,000 people have been arrested, and there have been 43,000 incidents of bombing, shooting and arson. More than $6 billion has been spent on security.

At the heart of the Anglo-Irish agreement signed Friday is an attempt to reduce the alienation many Catholics feel in the midst of a Protestant population that outnumbers them 2-to-1.

Most Catholics feel no kinship with Britain. Their affinity is with the Irish Republic, which is 95 percent Catholic.

They feel the act of partition that took effect in 1921 wrenched them from their motherland and has forced them to live under foreign rule in the six counties of Northern Ireland.

Many refuse to carry British passports, sing Britain's national anthem or salute its flag.

The Protestants, cut off from Britain by the Irish Sea and threatened by the predominantly Catholic Irish Republican Army's bombs and guns, compensate by proclaiming their Britishness in a sea of Union Jack flags and resisting reform.

They tend to regard the Catholics as a fifth column, forever plotting to unite the province with the republic. Northern Ireland has become, in effect, a Protestant state.

Flying the green, white and orange flag of Ireland is illegal. Streets may not be named for Irish heroes. Protestants control most local governments and can refuse funds to anything they regard as Irish.

Unemployment among Catholics is high and endemic. Protestants built most industries, in areas where their co-religionists live, so the Catholic components of their work forces are small.

At Short's, the Belfast aircraft manufacturer, only 5 percent of the 6,500 employees are Catholic despite management efforts to change the situation.

"It begins at the educational stage," said Brian Feeney, a member of the Balfast city council for the Social Democratic and Labor Party, the largest Catholic party in the province.

"Take training centers for apprentices. The one in (Protestant) east Belfast teaches electronics and engineering, where the jobs are today. The one in (Catholic) west Belfast teaches building and carpentry, which is in a slump."

Catholics could attend the engineering school, he said, but fear traveling into Protestant territory and often feel uncomfortable surrounded by British flags, orange bunting and pictures of Queen Elizabeth II.

They could join the police force or judiciary, which are major employers, but would be under IRA threat for "collaborating with the enemy," Feeney said. There are only two Catholic high court judges, and the Royal Ulster Constabulary is 95 percent Protestant.

Since assuming direct rule of the province in 1972, Britain has established equal opportunity agencies. Housing allocation now is much more even-handed.

The contrast in unemployment figures persists, however. The overall unemployment rate is 21.4 percent.

Striking workers fired

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Hundreds of workers at a hospital in the black township of Soweto were fired Friday when they refused to end their four-day walkout, strikers told reporters.

Meanwhile, a Swiss banker negotiating the repayment of South Africa's $24-billion foreign debt said the government will have to extend its freeze on foreign loan repayments past Jan. 1 because of delays in arranging their rescheduling.

Dr. Hennie van Wyk, director of hospital services in Transvaal Province, refused to say how many were fired at Baragwanath Hospital, but he said the figure was "less than 1,000." were fired.

Strikers told reporters that 200 workers were fired Friday but the total could rise to 600 by Monday.

Dali to design plaza

FIGUERAS, Spain — The ailing 81-year-old surrealist painter Salvador Dali has agreed to design a plaza for the Spanish capital that will feature a 230-ton granite centerpiece dedicated to Isaac Newton, a spokesman said.

Work on the 9,200-square-yard plaza is scheduled to begin in December and Madrid officials said it would cost $1.5 million.

The granite monument is to be called "Homage to Newton," a spokesman for the painter said.

Country on hold

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador — At the post office, a clerk this week just smiled and told a customer who asked to buy a stamp: "We have a stoppage." The customer went away without the stamp.

At the state-run telephone company, nobody answers the telephones for directory or operator assistance.

Strikes are illegal, so the nation's 100,000 government employees and union leaders get around the ban by holding stoppages. The employees show up, punch the clock, but simply don't do any work.

U.S. vetoes sanctions

UNITED NATIONS — The United States and Britain vetoed a Security Council resolution Friday that would have imposed mandatory sanctions on South Africa for delaying the independence of Namibia.

France abstained on the resolution, which would have required all U.N. member nations to adopt a package of 12 "mandatory selective sanctions," including an oil embargo and other trade restrictions.

Evelyn Bender, co-owner of Miss Royale, displays the decor of her elegant dress shop in the pink building on Gregg Street. The store opened Thursday.

Boutique moves to pink store

By SAM MENON
Staff Writer

Miss Royale combines an elegant atmosphere with accent on personal attention, says Opal Wilkerson who co-owns the designer dress shop along with her daughter, Evelyn Bender.

The store, at 1509 Gregg, is geared to "the better dressed woman who picks exclusive outfits for reasons of style, career or personal preference," said Bender, who operates the 4,000-square-foot facility.

Bender is no stranger to business in Big Spring, having owned and operated a similar dress shop in the Highland Mall. The move from the mall to the free-standing structure is prompted mainly by Bender's desire to expand the store at a location owned by her family, she said.

Wilkerson owns and operates another city landmark, Herman's Restaurant, which is situated on the same property as Miss Royale and is divided by 16th Street.

Bender said the climate for her "boutique-type business" was good because more and more people were moving into the realm of choosing designer clothes if offered at comparably good prices.

Miss Royale has five employees on its payroll.

The clothes - dresses, furs, sweaters and accessories - are bought in Dallas. "My experience in buying is an asset since I can seek out quality materials at competitive prices and pass on the benefit to the customers," Bender said.

The building itself has attracted the attention of several people. "The pink finish, inside and out, caused many an arched eyebrow at the outset," Bender pointed out. But the Miss Royale name tag made the people see the connection, she said.

The decor inside the store is distinctive. The glass entrance has brass trim and a huge chandelier hangs through a canopy of pink satin. The parking lot has 40 spaces and opens up to Gregg and 16th Street.

The grand opening of the store was Thursday.

Quality control expert warns of management problems

By SALLY SOLO
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — The American who taught the concept of quality control to the Japanese in 1950 is warning his successful students not to succumb to the "diseases" of Western management.

Edward Deming, speaking at the Top Management Quality Control Conference this week, criticized Western managers for ranking their workers rather than ascribing differences in performance to the company's overall system. And he criticized them for having several sources provide the same product rather than building a partnership with one supplier.

"Beware of the poison that could come from unstudied practices from the Western world ... (and) the style of management that has devastated the West," Deming told about 600 Japanese businessmen and a few foreign observers.

But Deming, who is 85, was preaching to the choir. Japanese executives listened to him 35 years ago and the result has propelled their companies into giants selling products that have become household names around the world — Sony, Toyota, Nissan, etc.

It is the West, now, that is trying to adopt Deming's concept.

Deming's style dictates that quality be maintained throughout production, not by inspection later. Companies set a limit within which a product's quality may vary and then adjust the work environment and the assembly line until the goal is reached. Workers and managers regularly discuss how production is going through groups called quality-control circles.

The Union of Japanese Scientists and Engineers says there were more than 200,000 quality-control circles in Japan last year.

Myron Tribus of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, a teacher of quality control, said the circles are "popping up like dandelions" in the United States, but their numbers are still "far too small."

Among the foreigners at the conference was a group of American executives studying what now is popularly called the Japanese style of management.

"We've hired people up to the neck and thrown away the head," said Rick Ross, manager of a Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce organization that advises regional firms on quality-control methods. "You build in quality, using people to improve the process."

Another member of the Philadelphia group, Lewis Springer, a senior vice president at Campbell Soup Co., said the world's largest soup maker has had better employee relations and 20 percent fewer consumer complaints since it began to introduce quality control five years ago. Inventories of the 44,000-employee firm also have decreased 15 percent to 20 percent, added Springer, who began as an hourly worker at Campbell 45 years ago.

"You've got to make money. You've got to make sure it's not just a moral issue. And better quality means lower costs," he said.

While in Japan, he plans to observe how "second and third generation" quality-control managers do their job.

Mary Ann Gould, president of Janbridge Inc., a Philadelphia-based electronics company, said she made profitable changes in her 200-employee company after she first heard Deming speak in Washington.

"He shocked me and upset me. He gave me something to think about," said Ms. Gould.

Quality control depends on "the culture of the company, not of the country. People on the factory floor are ready for change," she said, adding that Janbridge has adopted a no-layoffs policy and has given line operators authority to shut down operations if they see a problem.

Workers also abide by the "internal customer concept" of treating the next person down the assembly line as though he or she were the customer, which also has led to more open communications between departments.

Springer said, "Japan is beating us on products already on the market, improving on what has been invented abroad. If we want to be a world class manufacturer, we have to adopt this system."

Business briefs

Christopher L. Wingert, member of the Colorado River Municipal Water District staff, has received certification from the Texas Board of Professional Engineers as a licenced civil engineer. He and his wife, Karen, and son, Brian, live at Barcelona Apartments.

● Sisto Subia of Big Spring recently participated in a week-long lease operators training school at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin Petroleum Extension Service.

● Texas Electric Service Co. recently honored Roy G. (Corky) Deel and James L. Kinman, both of Big Spring, who have worked at the company for 25 years.

● Fina Oil and Chemical Co. recently announced the transfer of Sigma Coatings president Calvin L. Daniels, formerly of Big Spring, to the Dallas office. Sigma Coatings is Fina's specialized paint and coatings division. Daniels had been at the Harvey, La., office.

Replacing Daniels as Sigma Coatings president is another Big Spring native, Scott McEwen. McEwen transferred to Harvey, La., from Corpus Christi.

C.F. Gee, division vice president of Texaco USA, will speak at the Permian Basin chapter of the Gas Processors Association meeting Thursday at the Odessa Holiday Inn. A social hour at 6 p.m. precedes the dinner.

The meeting takes place after an association golf tourney to be held at the Sunset Golf Course in Odessa. Reservations for the dinner and golf tourney can be made with Gayle K. Treybig at 687-7712.

● The Veterans Administration is notifying more than 200,000 eligible veterans they have until July 1 to begin an approved job training program under the Emergency Veterans' Job Training Act, according to a V.A. news release.

Congress extended the deadline by which a veteran must enter a training program from Sept. 1, 1985, to July 1, 1986, in an attempt to assist veterans who were eligible for programs but could not be placed in them before the original deadline, the release said.

● Kenneth Robins, president of the Society of Petroleum Engineers, will address the Permian Basin chapter of the organization Tuesday at the Ranchland Hills Country Club in Midland. The social hour begins at 5:30 p.m. and dinner starts at 6:15 p.m.

● Plains Cotton Growers recently formed a cotton classing committee to work with the Lubbock and Lamesa cotton classing offices, upon request by the USDA through the Agricultural Marketing Service, according to a news release. The committee's purpose is to establish a means by which legitimate concerns of cotton growers can be relayed to the local area director of the cotton division.

Darrell Merrick of Lamesa was named chairman of the Lamesa Classing Office Committee. Don Lewallen is the area director of the Lamesa Cotton Classing Office.

● HOUSTON (AP) — The Coastal Corp. announced it has formed a new company that will handle intrastate gas transmission and sales that are not regulated by the federal government.

The new company, called Coastal States Gas Transmission Co., will sell and transport gas in Texas, Oklahoma and Alabama, according to a statement released Tuesday by Coastal Corp.

Houston-based Coastal Corp. is an energy company with operations in natural gas pipelines, coal, trucking, and oil and gas exploration, production and refining.

Video store open for business

By SAM MENON
Staff Writer

National Video opened its doors for business Nov. 9 to a local rental market that is competitive but good, said store manager Pamela McKaskle.

The new store is located at 8A in the College Park shopping center, close to the Safeway store.

"We hope to find our niche in the market in Big Spring through the various incentives we offer to the public," McKaskle said. "We like the town and its people, and we believe we have something to offer them."

National Video is a franchise with home office in Portland, Ore. The Big Spring store is privately owned and operated. The store deals in video and VCR rentals, both VHS and Beta, and the sale of blank cassette tapes. It has on its shelves more than 1,110 movies catering to all tastes and age groups, including a Kiddie Corner.

McKaskle said new tapes come in the day after the studios release them. "This makes all the difference for the consumer who is looking for quality service at affordable prices," she said.

Added to this are a couple of incentives movie-viewers can get through the store. One incentive is a VIP card good for renting movies from any National Video store in the United States and Canada.

The second attraction comes in the form of movie coupons, 10 to book, which are at least 25 percent cheaper than renting an individual cassette, McKaskle said. The coupons also are honored at any National Video store in the country and Canada.

The store is open seven days a week, and a night drop is provided for the convenience of customers, she said.

McKaskle is assisted in the operations by assistant manager Maggie Raskin and employees Tracy Griffith, Traci Young and Liz Trevino.

Pecans are nutritious, good eating

It's quite a bonus to know that not only are pecans some of the best eating around — they are also highly nutritious. Each pecan provides the minerals calcium, phosphorus, iron, potassium, and magnesium as well as the B vitamins thiamine, riboflavin and niacin. They are also a source for protein, quality carbohydrates and Vitamin A.

Pecans can be purchased at retail outlets as well as directly from growers. Check with local farm organizations for names of producers in your area.

The Howard County Pecan Show will be held Dec. 3, at the Highland Shopping Mall. The show is an annual event sponsored by the County Urban Agriculture Committee to provide education in the selection of improved varieties and use of established and native pecan trees, and to promote the pecan industry in the County. Exhibits will include pecan variety divisions and a foods division.

Food Division of Pecan Show Rules:

The foods division will be subdivided in two classes:

ADULT-(20 years of age and over)

YOUTH-(19 years of age and under)

The food categories are: Breads, pies, cakes, cookies, candies, and other foods for each age group. (Dishes requiring refrigeration cannot be accepted.)

Entries:

1. Pecans must be used in the recipe for all categories.
2. There is no limit on the number of entries, but a recipe must accompany each entry.
3. Food entries should be brought to Highland Mall between 9 a.m. on Tuesday, Dec. 3, 1985.
4. Recipes must accompany food entry and will be displayed with each entry.

Recipes should be submitted on standard 8½x11-inch paper with name of contestant age group, food category listed in the upper right corner. All ingredients should be listed in order used. Complete instructions should be given including pan size (where applicable), oven temperature, cooking time and yield (number of servings of number of pieces). Recipes become property of the Howard County Pecan Show.

Display:

5. The contestant will display the food prepared in a serving dish containing the amount of the recipe that is appropriate. Contestants are not required to exhibit the entire recipe. For example, if a recipe makes two loaves of bread, it may be simpler and more appropriate to display only one loaf.
6. To reduce cost of participants no public tasting will be held. During judging, a small portion of the dish will be tasted.
7. Foods will be displayed for viewing from 12 noon until 2 p.m.
8. Contestants should pick up food entries at 2:30 p.m.

Awards:

9. Ribbons will be awarded to the first, second and third place winners in each food category of both youth and adult divisions. Trophies will be awarded to the champion adult and youth entries.

The pecan variety divisions are subdivided into in-shell, shelling and native categories.

Pecan Division Rules:

1. At least 40 pecans must be entered for judging
2. All entries become property of the Howard County Pecan Show
3. Entries must be delivered to the County Extension Office by 5 p.m. Nov. 27, 1985
4. Ribbons will be awarded to the first, second and third place winners in each category and a trophy will be awarded to the champion in the in-shell, shelling and native categories.

If you have any questions you can call the County Extension Office 267-8469 or 267-6671.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion, handicap, or national origin.

Warden's wife honored at farewell luncheon

A farewell luncheon was given in honor of Sheena Gluch Wednesday at the home of Walt and Jean Hollingsworth. She is the wife of John Gluch who will transfer to Milan, Mich. Nov. 29 to be warden of the federal prison there.

Mrs. Hollingsworth was the hostess with Sharon Marlow and Marty Geanopulaos as co-hostesses. Their gift was a piece of Llardo porcelein.

About 50 women from the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp, including employees, wives of employees or retirees from the camp, attended.

For your gardens

By DON RICHARDSON
Howard County Extension Agent

Checklist for November

Place orders for seeds this month so you will have them available when you are ready to plant. By ordering early, you will be more certain of getting the varieties you want.

Evergreen plants frequently suffer from lack of moisture during those occasional winter dry periods that occur in Texas. Also adequate soil moisture provides the best protection you can give your plants against winter cold injury.

There is still time to plant pansies, if you have not already done so. If planted soon, they will be in bloom by Christmas and will continue to bloom for you through the winter and into spring. Your local nursery or garden center probably has a good selection from which to choose.

Set out pansies in rich, well-drained soil in a sunny location. Try some of the solid colored pansies in masses, as well as the giant mixed colors. You'll like pansies, and so do the slugs, snails, and pill bugs! Be prepared for these winter visitors with bug bait. Your nurseryman has it.

Don't get in a hurry to prune woody plants. Late December through February is usually the best time to prune them.

When ice and snow may cover the ground for extended periods you had better protect young trees and shrubs from rodent damage. Rabbits girdle young plants, stripping the park as high as they can reach.

Reduce or stop completely the fertilization of indoor plants from late October to mid-March. An exception would be plants in an atrium or a well lighted window.

Plant pansies, calendulas, flowering kale, and larkspur for early spring color. Best to use started plants at this time. Select short, stocky plants with good green color.

Clean, repair, and oil garden tools and equipment. A coat of linseed oil on wooden handles will help preserve the wood.

Drain the gasoline from power tools and run the engine until fuel in the carburetor is used.

The winter season is a good time to drain and replace the crankcase oil on power tools. This removes the temptation to use it one more time when you get in a hurry in the spring.

Drain and store garden hoses and watering equipment in a readily accessible location. The lawn and plants may need water during a prolonged dry spell.

November through February is a good time to plant trees and shrubs.

Christmas poinsettias will soon be available. Don't be misled by the scare stories about the poisonous qualities of these beautiful plants. Plant scientists at the Ohio State University have proven through extensive testing that they are not poisonous. There is always the possibility that some individuals may be allergic to certain plants including the poinsettia.

We have had a lot of calls about millipeds swarming in homes and out of buildings. They are looking for winter housing and in most instances will move on in a migratory pattern. If they persist, however, diazinon will take care of them.

Don't forget the Howard County Pecan Show Dec. 3. Entries should be in the County Extension Office by Dec. 2.

DENNIS THE MENACE

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

"Did you ever have any little childrens of your own, Grandma?"

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, NOV. 17, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until midafternoon your judgment is poor and it would be wise to not make any decisions that require change. Later you will have the chance to show your ability at whatever is unique.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Not the right day to start on any big plan of action to gain your wishes. In the evening, you get help from fine friends.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) An argument in the morning between a bigwig and a newcomer should be entered into and then you can add to your prestige.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't get into any strange kind of work plan the new week's activities wisely instead. Be happy at home.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Study how you can make your recreational activities less expensive during the day. Do whatever your mate desires.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) The evening is best time to have a talk with a clever partner and get right results. Hit on a far better working plan.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) The evening is best for considering how to do a better job at your regular work, since you may be confused during the day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Plan recreation for the evenign with congenials and you can have a very happy time together.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't force any issues at home during the daytime or a big quarrel can arise, and then the evening can be very harmonious.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A secret worry can deter you from accomplishing much during the day, if you permit. Sit down with associates in the evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You may spend time idly with a friend in the morning, but then get down to practical concerns.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Daytime is not good for making any important commitments, but the evening leads itself nicely for being with the influential.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can get the secret data that will assist you in gaining your finest personal wishes. Forget limiting thoughts.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will have much ability and upon reaching adulthood can fit right into the modern way of life and become very successful. During early youth, teach to obey every rule and regulation that applies to him or her, otherwise your progeny could get into trouble easily if acting on impulse.

"The Stars impel; they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, NOV. 18, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Put into condition some unique and unusual conditions that you wish to be in effect for a long time. Forget about the conventional. Be a little bizarre.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Look to progressive indiyiduals who can assist you in expressing your finest talents. Be careful when spending money.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Try using your talents at different outlets than usual and get better results. Show a bigwig that you are active and intelligent.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be alert to changes that can be for your betterment and go along with them. Be progressive.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) You now understand how to be more successful in business matters. Make your life more interesting.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Be with more progressive people and forget dull ones, and you can become more successful, if you listen to their good ideas.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find the new mechanisms that can help you to do far better work and gain more benefits from it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study those amusements that have interested you for some time and plan to enjoy them. Get your talents projected wisely.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You want to make some changes at home but first get the approval of family. Invite charming persons in who can help you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be active in the outside world, but use a different approach and you get better results. Be happy this evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you use more modern methods where finances and property are concerned, you can start an uptrend in all of your affairs.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have fine ideas that will help you to gain personal aims so put them in operation early. Enjoy social pleasures this evening.

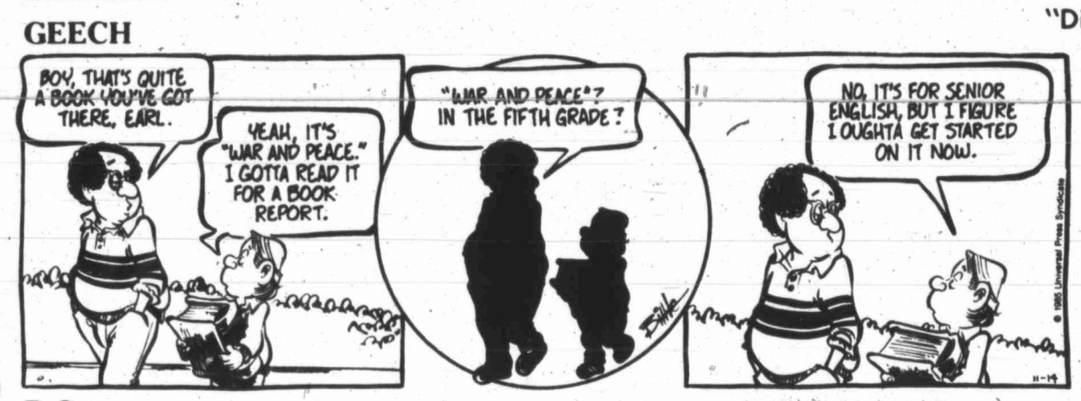

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Forget those antiquated ideas and go along with more modern thinking and acting and get better results.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will fit nicely into the New Era world so be sure you slant the education along modern lines, at which there will be the greatest self expression. Don't try to get your progeny to conform to the usual or you can stifle much of the fine promise in this chart.

Forsan stuffs Eagles, 20-7

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Writer

COAHOMA — The Forsan Buffaloes scored two touchdowns in the final quarter and shut down the O'Donnell Eagles' offense in the second half, to take a 20-7 Class A Zone playoff game last night in Bulldog Stadium.

Realistically the Buffaloes shut down the O'Donnell offense the entire game, since over half of the Eagles total 111 yards came on one play.

That play was was 58 yard touchdown scamper by Roel Ramirez that got the Eagles on the scoreboard first the second quarter. It also gave the Eagles a 7-0 halftime lead, and caused the Buffaloes do something they rarely have to do — come from behind.

Ramirez's run, which came with 10:43 left in the first half, was only the second time all season the Buffaloes had been behind. The jaunt came on a dive up the middle which the speedy Ramirez broke the front line and outran the Forsan secondary to the goal line. It was only the 41st point a stingy Forsan defense had given up all season.

The TD gave the underdog Eagles added momentuen which carried on throughout the remainder of the half.

But the Eagles' "good times" wouldn't last very long with the start of the season half.

In the final 24 minutes of play the Forsan defense didn't allow O'Donnell a single first down and only 21 yards total offense.

Meanwhile the Forsan offense, which moved the ball regularly in the first half, simply took control in the second half, behind the running of halfback Wayne Wright. The 185-pound scored all three Forsan TD's while bulling his way for 145-yards in 28 carries, including 93 in the second half.

Forsan was its own worst ennemy in the first half. Three times the Buffaloes moved inside the O'Donnell 40, and three times it came up empty-handed.

One drive resulted in a fumble, another ended on downs and the last climaxed with a missed 27-yard field goal.

Early in the game the O'Donnell defense gave Forsan problems with its stunting, shifting defense led by noseguard Ken Burns and linebacker Ramirez.

But the Buffs' offense had little trouble in the second half.

"We expected them to do all theat jumping up and down and stunting," said Forsan coach Jan East. "They did it in the fifth game of the season when we beat them 10-0. But when we started moving the ball they played regular."

Forsan showed it meant business in its first possession of the third quarter. It drove 56 yards in 9 plays for the first score. Wright was the workhorse in the drive as he carried 6 times for 36 yards.

Wright got the score from the two. Bruce Strickland's extra point tied the score at 7-7 with 5:27 remaining in the third quarter.

The next Forsan score resulted from an interception by safety Lee Morris late in the third quarter. Morris picked off O'Donnell quarterback Kyle Summer's pass at the O'Donnell 33. Iornically it was O'Donnell's only pass attempt of the night.

Eight plays later Wright scored from the five. It was his 24th carry of the night and it put him over the century mark. But the Buffaloes got a break in getting the score.

After O'Donnell stopped Forsan on a fourth-and-sixth from the 15, Strickland came on to try a 32-yard field goal. He missed the attempt but O'Donnell was penalized five yards for roughing the kicker, giving Forsan a fourth-and-one-from the 10.

The Buffs got the first down when fullback Strickland gained five yards on fourth down. Wright scored on the next play. Strickland's PAT gave Forsan a 14-7 lead with 8:31 left in the game.

"I really didn't know how their first touchdown would affect us," said East. We talked about it at halftime and the kids came out and played well in the second half. The turning point in the game was when we scored our first touchdown."

The final Forsan score resulted in a quick, 5-play, 46-yard drive late in the final quarter. Strickland and Wright simply pounded out yards against the weary O'Donnell defense. Wright got the scoring honors on a 20 yard sweep in which he cutback up inside against the pursuit.

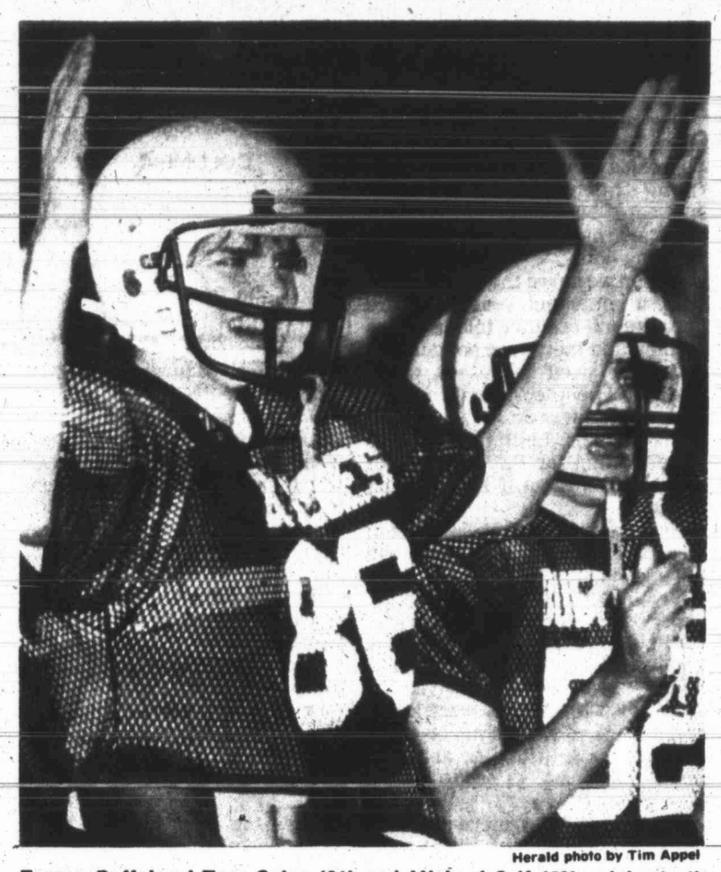

Strickland's PAT was no good but Forsan had its 11th win in as many games, with 3:49 left in the contest.

O'Donnell, runnerup in 7-A Noth Zone, finished the season with a 7-4 mark.

Forsan will play Goldthwaite (11-0), a 27-0 winner over Santa Anna, last night; Friday night at 7:30 p.m. in Abilene at McMurry College stadium.

Grady running back Arnold Velasco struggles for yardage as Jayton saftey Trey Richey comes up to force the play in the Jaybird's 51-13 victory over the Wildcats. Velasco was the game's leading ground gainer with 165 yards on 29 carries.

Top-ranked Jayton sails past Grady

By CHARLIE ALCORN

GAIL — Jayton's Jaybirds lived up to their billing as the number one Six-Man football team in the state by easily handling District 4A runner-up Grady, 51-13, in a zone championship playoff game Friday night at the Borden County High School field.

Jayton scored the first six times they handled the ball in the first half, piling up a comfortable 44-6 halftime lead before putting in the second and third teams in the second half.

The Jaybirds used an awsome running attack led by all-state tailback Trey Richey, who scored three first half touchdowns and rushed for 110 yards on 11 carries.

But to Grady's credit, they did something that no other ball club had managed in the previous ten games Jayton had played — they lasted through regualtion play without the game being stopped by the automatic 45-point lead rule.

Grady opened up the game with a run-oriented spread offense that was effective in the their second drive of the game which resulted in the only first half points of the game for the Wildcats.

Following the kickoff after Jayton's second score, the Wildcats marched 63 yards in a little over four minutes for the touchdown. Arnold Velasco was the workhorse in the drive carrying for a pair of first downs before Jayton looked to have the drive stopped at their 29-yard line. But Grady quarterback Luis Gonzales found tight end Terry Deathrage on an 9-yard pass that was just inches enough for a first down, keeping the drive alive.

The Wildcats needed three more plays to put the ball in the end zone with Velasco taking the scoring honors on a eight- yard touchdown run that made the score 14-6 with 3:15 left in the first quarter.

It was the last time in the half that the Wildcats would be able to sustain a drive as the Jayton defense stuffed the new found running attack.

Meanwhile, the Jaybird offense was rolling at will against the outmanned Grady defenders.

Jayton scored its first two touchdowns on a five-yard pass from quarterback Ricky Martinez to center Patrick Hamilton and a 30-yard scoring burst by fullback Billy Scogin after a Wildcat fumble.

Martinez and Hamilton hooked up again for the fourth Jaybird touchdown on a 24-yard scoring pass.

The usually poor Jayton kicking game was also a factor in the first half, as Martinez made good on four of six two-point kicks for the Jaybirds.

After the second Martinez-Hamilton scoring connection, it was time for Richey to show his all-state capabilities. The senior tailback scored the next three Jaybird touchdowns, two on short runs of one and two yards and the other on an 18-yard pass to Martinez on a busted play.

Richey average over 10 yards each time he carried the ball with a mix of hard inside running and excellent use of his blockers once he broke into the secondary.

Grady received the second half kickoff and drove the ball to the Jayton 34-yard line when they were stopped on a fourth down and eight situation. Gonzales' fourth down pass to a wide open Deathrage probably would have gone for a touchdown but the Wildcat receiver momentarily lost concentration and dropped the pass.

The Jayton second-team offense was no match for the Grady defense which held them scoreless through the third quarter, though giving up excellent field position on three straight possessions.

Grady moved the ball well in the second half but each time they drove into Jayton territory, bad execution or a costly penalty would stifle the threat.

After a scoreless third quarter, Grady scored its final points on 67-yard drive featuring several long bursts by Velasco. The junior tailback had runs of 11, eight, and 20 yards before scoring on 24-yard jaunt that left the Wildcats trailing 44-13.

Jayton's second-teamers responded with a 55-yard drive of their own late in the last period. Tailback Richard Boswell was the workhorse in the drive carring four times for 40 yards and 4 yard touchdown that ended the scoring at 51-13.

Grady head coach Currie McWilliam's was disappointed with the loss but pleased with his players efforts. "The kids gave it their best shot and they did forc Jayton to do smething besides sweep right and sweep left."

"I thought we should have scored a couple of more times than we did. We had some key mistakes that killed our drives, but overall I thought the kids played very well."

Grady ended their season with a 4-6-1 record for the year.

Nittany Lions facing Number 1 challenge

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Football Writer

It's exam week at Penn State and one of the toughest tests of the season is in store for the Nittany Lions' No. 1-ranked football team.

The Fighting Irish of Notre Dame, riding a four-game winning streak and striving to return to the Top Twenty, visit State College, Pa., to tangle with Penn State, the third No. 1 team in as many weeks — and fifth this season — in the Associated Press poll.

To those harping on Penn State's position at the top of the rankings, Coach Joe Paterno has a standard response:

"We're playing Notre Dame this week. We've got to go out and win some games yet. All that other stuff will take care of itself at the end of the year."

Most of the 85,000 spectators in Beaver Stadium will be Penn State partisans but Notre Dame will not lack for supporters around the country — starting with second-ranked Nebraska, which entertains Kansas, and No. 3 Ohio State, which plays host to Wisconsin.

In a pair of games matching members of the Top Twenty, fourth-ranked Air Force visits No. 16 Brigham Young and No. 12 Georgia entertains No. 14 Auburn.

Rounding out the Top Ten, fifth-ranked Iowa plays at Purdue, Colorado at No. 7 Oklahoma, eighth-ranked Michigan at Minnesota, No. 9 Arkansas at Texas A&M under the lights and No. 10 Oklahoma State at Missouri. Sixth-ranked Miami is idle.

Elsewhere in the Second Ten, Kentucky is at No. 11 Florida, Oregon State at No. 13 UCLA, Western Carolina at No. 15 Florida for a night game, Rice at No. 17 Baylor, Mississippi at No. 18 Tennessee, Mississippi State at No. 19 LSU under the lights and Southern Mississippi at No. 20 Alabama.

Not only is Penn State trying to remain No. 1, the Lions have a score to settle with Notre Dame as a result of last year's 44-7 thumping. Only Paterno's first team in 1966 surrendered more points in a game and only two of his 43 career losses were by more than 37 points.

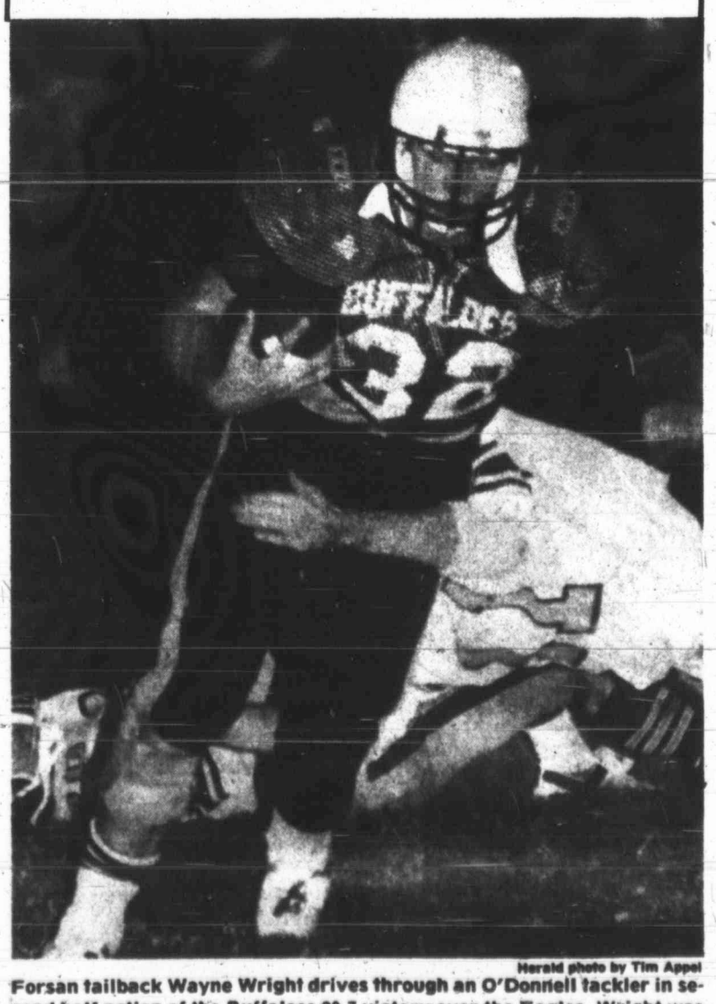

Paterno is trying to keep his players from thinking about a national championship, but it isn't easy.

"I guess it's what you'd call a fantasy," says Nebraska defensive tackle Jim Skow. "It kind of like when you want to go out with a pretty girl you've never even met. You can think about it, but you can't think about it too much or it will consume your mind."

The Cornhuskers owns 16 consecutive victories over Kansas and the last tme the Jayhawks visited Lincoln they were shellacked 67-13.

Ohio State probably will be without tailback Keith Byars for the eighth time in 10 games. But even without him, the Buckeyes are three-touchdown favorites and Wisconsin Coach Dave McClain says that "offensively, this is probably as strong an Ohio State team as they've had in my eight years at Wisconsin. Their offense is scary as you look at it. For us to beat Ohio State, we'll have to do a job against their great offense and we'll have to pass long against their defense."

Western Texas drops Hawk Queens, 69-63

The Western Texas College Dusters took a hard fought 69-63 victory over the Howard College Hawk Queens Saturday night in semifinal action of the Howard College Hawk Queen Classic.

In other action, it was Odessa College narrowly defeating South Plains 59-58 in the other semifinal match. South Plains had a chance at the upset with 4 seconds remaining ut could not come up with the winning points on the last second jump shot.

In earlier games, Wharton County JC beat Garden City Community College 83-62 to advance to the consolation finals against Angelina, who defeated the University of Chihuahua 88-68.

It was a close game the whole way as the Queens rode the hot shooting of sophomore guard Lorri French. French ended up with 31 points on the night.

Freshman guard Terri Powell also shot in double figures for the ht with 14 points, most coming from long range. Queen post Caroln Willandt chipped in nine point on the evening. The Dusters countered with an inside scoring machine named Brenda Welsch. The 6-0 foot post player dominated the paint with a 13 basket, 28 point performance that was the differnce in the end.

Coach Don Steven's was pleased with his team's effort, "It was a tight game the whole way. But when it got near the ned of the game, they hit their shots and we didn't. Lorri had an outstanding performance in every phase of the game as did Welsch for Western."

Tomorrow's tournament schedule will run as follows; Garden City will face the university of Chihuahua in the 7th place game at 12 noon. Angelina and Wharton will square off in the consolation final at 2 p.m. Howard College will play South Plains for third place a 6 p.m. and Odessa College and Western Texas will play the Championship game at 8 p.m.

Officials failed to warn towns of eruption

ARMERO, Colombia (AP) — Some survivors said Friday officials gave no warning that the Nevado del Ruiz volcano was rousing itself to bring the end of the world to their Andes valley. It poured down a cascade of fire and mud that killed at least 20,000 people.

One survivor said the first wave of mud that swept through the town Wednesday night was ice cold, from the volcano's melted snowcap, but successive waves grew warmer and the last was smoking hot.

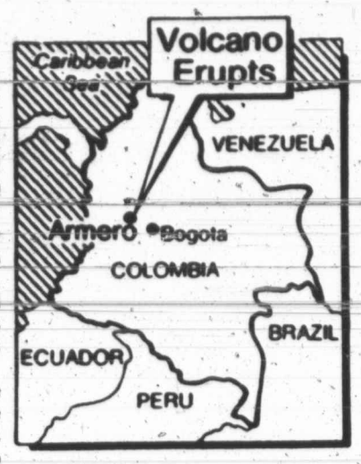

"When we heard the eruption, we left our home and went to the fire department, but they told us it was nothing and they were not going to sound the siren because it would frighten people," said Ulises Mulano Ramirez Jr., 17.

His mother Letitia said, "We were waiting for the radio to put out a warning but it kept playing music."

No comment was available from local officials, most of whom are among the missing.

Dr. Arturo Castana Ocampo, supervising doctor in Mariquita, said his interviews with survivors and rescue workers indicated about 2,000 people survived in Armero, at least 13,000 were killed and 9,000 to 10,000 had not been accounted for. Mariquita, about 12 miles north of Armero, is the emergency center.

His figures for Armero alone indicate the total death count may climb well beyond the official estimates of 20,000 when information comes in from other towns along the river in which thousands more people lived.

On Friday, a black column of smoke and ash rose ominously from the cone of the old volcano, which had rumbled and belched from time to time but had done no harm for a century. Military helicopters crisscrossed the gray sea of mud under rain-sodden skies, searching for survivors and plucking them to safety when possible.

A trip around the cone in a small plane showed little snow left on it.

From the air, the untouched parts of the valley appeared lush and peaceful, their coffee groves and rice fields being fed by the rain.

Along the river the devastation was nearly total. Of the 4,200 buildings that once made up this town nestled in a bend of the Langunilla, fewer than 100 poked through the surface of slime.

Many of the injured arrived in Mariquita in shredded nightclothes, their bodies and hair caked with mud.

Children whose parents had not been found were taken to Bogota for care, said Victor Ricardo, director of the national Family Welfare Institute.

The Ramirez family, including Ulises and his four brothers, ran for their lives despite the official calm, and all but one survived.

Morano, the father, said a 15-foot-high wall of mud swept his 18-month-old son from his arms when it crashed through the town hospital, where they had taken refuge. "All we could see was a little hand above the mud," he said.

Most of the 25,000 people who lived in the central part of Armero on a bend of the Lagunilla River — half its total population — stayed in their homes, which now are smashed or buried under an expanse of mud a mile wide.

An emergency worker said helicopters and planes had spotted about 2,000 people in trees, atop houses and on small hills.

"They have rescued very few people until now because almost everyone was buried," said Argemiro Moreno, who was picked up by a helicopter after 30 hours of clinging to a wooden plank.

A U.S. Embassy spokeswoman said about 4,000 bodies had been recovered by Friday morning, but civil defense workers on the scene said they knew of about only 800.

Suspected Nazi arrested in Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Police said Friday they had arrested a man believed to be Walter Kutschmann, a 71-year-old former Nazi SS officer accused of killing at least 1,500 Polish Jews during World War II.

The West German arrest and extradition request said Kutschmann arrived in Argentina, which became a haven for former Nazis after the war, in 1947 with forged Spanish papers identifying him as Pedro Ricardo Olmo.

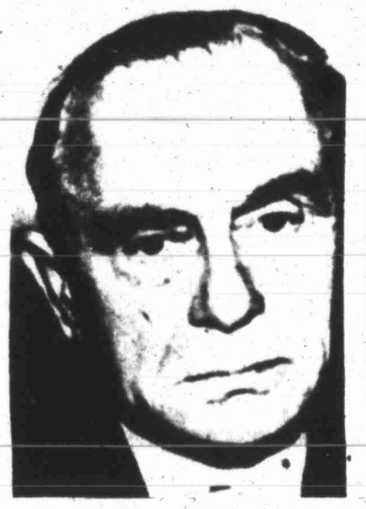

Miguel de Guisa, chief of investigations for the federal police, said officers acting on the West German request picked him up Thursday at his home in Florida suburb six miles north of the capital.

He said the man who lived there as Olmo offered no resistance. Police involved in the arrest quoted him as saying, "It is all a mistake."

Nazi hunter Simon Wiesenthal reported Kutschmann's presence in Argentina 10 years ago. He is considered the most notorious former Nazi still living here.

The suspect was taken at noon Friday from a cell at police headquarters to the federal court building in downtown Buenos Aires for a preliminary hearing before Judge Fernando Archimbal.

He wore thick glasses and was dressed in a short-sleeved shirt and casual slacks. He covered his face with his hands when photographers approached and refused to answer questions put by journalists.

Kutschmann, a second lieutenant in the Hitler's SS elite guard, is accused of leading an execution squad that killed 20 Jewish university professors and 18 members of their families on July 4, 1941, in the Polish city of Lemberg, which now is in the Soviet Union and called Lvov.

He also is blamed for the deaths of at least 1,500 Jews in Brzezany and Podajce, Poland, in 1942.

Kutschmann was born May 24, 1914, in Dresden, which now is in East Germany.

A West German Embassy official, Irwin Starnitzky, said his government issued an extradition request for Olmo two months ago, alleging that he is Kutschmann.

Police who revealed details of the extradition request said they received it Nov. 3.

Strake not in running for GOP job

HOUSTON (AP) — State Republican Chairman George Strake, among the most vocal critics of Democratic Gov. Mark White, will not seek re-election next year to his GOP post.

The former secretary of state said he made his decision "a couple of months ago" when he opted to leave the job before he gets "burned out."

"I just think that life is a matter of timing, there is a time to come and a time to go. But I honestly think I've done a good job," said Strake, 50.

A new chairman will be picked by the State Republican Executive Committee at the party's June convention in Dallas. Strake, a Houston oilman, was elected to the post in April 1983 when Chet Upham of Mineral Wells resigned.

"For this job, that's a long time," Strake said of his term.

Strake said he has "no idea" who will take his place, and declined to mention any names of possible contenders for the job.

Although he did not rule out future political races, Strake said he has no definite plans. He ran for lieutenant governor in 1982, but was soundly defeated by Democratic Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

As GOP chairman, Strake has been highly critical of White, criticizing the governor for pushing through a tax hike, politicizing the appointment process and breaking campaign promises.

Strake said he also will support the Republican candidate for governor.
