Local schools searched for drugs

Some very small amounts of marijuana were found but no arrests were made in a narcotics search at Rockport-Fulton High School and junior high school Wednesday morning.

The search will lead to consultation with some students at the two schools and their parents, according to Aransas County Sheriff Bob Hewes, and School Superintendent Joe Randow will make a report on the search to the Aransas County Independent School System board of trustees at the board's meeting Monday night, April 19.

Hewes added that he will seek permission from school officials to make narcotics searches on an annual basis.

Overall, Hewes appeared pleased with the results of Wednesday's search — in which county officials were assisted by narcotics-sniffing dogs — praising the cooperation of school officials and the students.

"We had no problems with any of the students," he said. "We're real proud of our students for no more (narcotics) than we found."

The Sheriff said search warrants for both schools and the parking lots were obtained on the basis of information to the sheriff's department that there were narcotics at the schools.

"We served the warrants to the school superintendent and the principals of both schools," he said. The search was made after the first class period Wednesday to insure that most of the students were in class. Four county deputies were involved in the search and six dogs were used. The dogs were from a private drug detection dog firm in Corpus Christi and were accompanied by three handlers, the Sheriff said.

He added the search warrants were for marijuana, amphetamines and barbiturates.

In the junior high school, Hewes said, the dogs sniffed out three students but no narcotics were found on them. One marijuana cigarette was found in a commode in the bathroom and two students were in the bathroom, "but that doesn't indicate either of them put it (the cigarette) there," the Sheriff emphasized.

In the high school, the dogs sniffed out one purse, in which no narcotics were found, and a student who had a small amount of marijuana in a plastic bag.

The search of the high school also resulted in finding a matchbox on the floor under a sink in the metal shop which contained yellow capsules believed to be a drug known as "yellow jackets." However, Hewes added, the substance proved to be caffeine.

In the parking lot, the dogs detected narcotics odors around seven cars and three of these contained minute amounts of narcotics seeds. "In three of the cars," Hewes continued, "there was just a strong smell."

Searchers found a roach in the ashtray of one vehicle and marijuana seeds in tape boxes. However, Hewes added, the amount recovered was not useable.

He added that in order to make an arrest, a useable quantity of narcotics must be found.

Also assisting in Wednesday's search was an officer with the Texas Department of Public Safety, and County Attorney Jim Anderson was present.

Rockport building code to become effective May 1

Most of the major housing in Rockport has been constructed to meet various codes, says City Inspector Mike Henry — but as of May 1, those codes will be reinforced by city ordinance as the new City of Rockport Building Code goes into effect.

The new code is based on the Southern Standards Building Code, with some modifications to fit specific conditions in Rockport. Henry said the code will primarily apply to construction in the city but will apply to subdivisions outside the city through Rockport's subdivision ordinance.

"Most of the major housing in Rockport has been set up to meet codes," Henry said during an interview at City Hall Thursday, "because so much of it has come in as, for example, FHA or VA housing. Those people have their own codes and their own inspectors who come in even after I've inspected the houses."

The new code incorporates some of these standards on a city-wide basis.

Among requirements under the new city code is that buildings two and one-half or more stories in height or with more than 5,000 square feet of floor space must be designed by a licensed architect or engineer.

An architect or engineer is also required in the design of any building that will be used for educational, institutional or assembly purposes.

Henry emphasized the new code will not penalize the average homeowner. "There's nothing to stop the homeowner from sitting down with a clean piece of paper and designing his own home," he said.

Present building applications probably won't change under the new code, Henry said, but permit fees will. "We're just about doubling them," he said. Permit fees have been $10 for the first $5,000 valuation on the property and $1 for each additional $1,000. As of May 1, these fees will go to $20 for the first $5,000 and $2 for each additional $1,000.

"This will seem a little high to some people," Henry said, "but as the cost of the building goes up, the fee will actually be a little bit less than the permit fees being charged in some other cities."

The new code will require three inspections of each new building or structure (the code also has provisions for private and public piers).

The first inspection, Henry said, is the foundation, to be made after all poles and pilings are set or just prior to the pouring of concrete for buildings. The second, frame, inspection will be made after the roof, all framing, fire blocking and bracing is in place, along with all electrical wiring, pipes, chimneys, ducts, drains and vents.

The third and final inspection will be made after the building is completed and ready for occupancy or use. If it passes on final inspection, Henry will issue a certificate of occupancy — which is required before the building can be used.

Henry added that for large shopping developments, such as shopping centers and malls, certificates of occupancy can be issued by section so that part of the development can be used while the remainder is under construction.

If a change is made in the basic use of a building, Henry said, application must be made for a new certificate of occupancy. He added that, although the ordinance requires three inspections, it does not limit the number of inspections that may be made: "It doesn't keep me from going into a structure during various phases of construction and making spot checks."

The code will require half-inch minimum plywood roof decking on residential houses and will require anchorage. "We have also

As the afternoon sun sets, these workers finish another day of construction at the new high school auditorium. Work on the large structure is progressing, with some outside bricks being laid last week. Near the auditorium, the newly renovated cafeteria opened on Tuesday. The school building contract is being handled by A and A Construction.

Notable Notes

Election school

Notice is given that the Election School for the Election Officials working in the Democratic Primaries will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 27, in the District Courtroom of the Aransas County Courthouse. The ATS Optical Scanner which will be used in the Democratic Primaries will be demonstrated and some election supplies delivered. Election officials are asked to attend. Democratic candidates, news media and the public are invited to attend.

Brownsville bus trip

The Rockport AARP #1536 will sponsor a spring bus trip to Brownsville on Tuesday, April 27. They will visit the Gladys Porter Zoo. The cost will be $20 per person, which includes admission to the zoo and lunch. The trip is open to others beside AARP members until the bus is filled. Deadline for payment is April 21. For further information call Patti Fishwick at 729-3085 or Florence Samson at 729-1187.

8:30 services discontinued

The 8:30 a.m. worship services are discontinued at First Presbyterian Church beginning Sunday, April 18. The early worship will resume on the first Sunday in October. For the remainder of April and through May, the one service of worship will be at 11 a.m. with nursery provided for pre-school children. During June and August the worship service will be at 10 a.m.

Scanner test

The ATS Optical Scanners which will be used in the 1982 Democratic Primaries will be tested in Room 104 of the Aransas county Courthouse at 2 p.m., April 24. Democratic candidates and members of the news media are invited to attend. Democratic candidates are advised that test ballots are available in the office of the Democratic County Chairman, should they desire to prepare a test deck to be run on the day of testing.

Rummage sale

The Rockport Sail Club will hold a rummage sale Saturday, April 24, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. at the Rockport Sail Club house on Water Street between RYSCO and Market Street. At 2 p.m. there will be a marine auction.

VFW meeting

The regular monthly meetings of Rockport VFW Post 3904 and Auxiliary will be held at the Hall on Monday, April 19, at 7:30 p.m. All members and visiting members are invited to attend.

'Casterline' will remain name of Fulton's fishing pier

By Pat Blair

FULTON — Fulton's new public fishing pier was named the Casterline Pier in honor of Fulton's first mayor, the name still is in force and the matter should be dropped, in the opinion of city council members and several members of the audience at Tuesday night's Fulton Council session.

And a request by Fulton bait stand owner Kirk Holman that a proposed observation deck on the pier be located farther from the seawall won support from two members of the city council.

The matter of the pier name — a subject of debate since a former Fulton alderman announced he had circulated a petition signed by some 100 Fulton residents who wanted to name the pier in honor of George W. Fulton — was brought up at Tuesday's meeting by Alderwoman Pat Loflin.

"I was on the other side," said Loflin who was one of those who signed the petition. "But it (the name Casterline) was voted and I think the subject should be closed."

"The whole thing was never brought out in the paper about the way the pier was named," said Alderman Elgin Dietz. "The motion was made, seconded and passed." The name Casterline was accepted by council vote in December, 1981.

"It's a public pier," Holman commented. "The name of the pier should have been chosen by the public."

"The names that were turned into the city were counted," Loflin replied, "and the vote was for Casterline."

Fulton City Attorney Allen Lee said, "Three people were chosen to recommend a name to the council based on the information they received." He was referring to the three judges named by the council to make a recommendation in the city's contest to name the Fulton pier. Area residents were invited to submit names to the city for the new public fishing pier.

"I think we got 26 or 27 cards after three months," Loflin said. "That was all that were interested." The petition, circulated by former Alderman James Metzger, was never presented to the council or the judges.

Little League request draws fire in council session

FULTON— City officials elected April 3 were sworn in, the city secretary resigned — and a request for assistance by the Aransas County Little League came under fire during a busy session of Fulton's city council Tuesday night, April 13.

City officials also adopted an ordinance raising the insurance coverage required for taxicabs operating in the city during the session that began at 7 p.m. in Fulton City Hall.

Opening the meeting was administration of oaths of office to L.E. Casterline, re-elected mayor; Elgin Dietz, re-elected alderman; and Leslie (Googles) Cole, elected to his first term on the Fulton council in the city's April 3 elections.

The oaths were administered by Alderwoman Pat Loflin, acting city secretary, who was subsequently elected mayor pro tem by acclamation.

City Secretary Cindy Tilden was not at the meeting and Mayor Casterline later in the session read her letter of resignation. Tilden cited health reasons for her decision to quit her post effective May 1.

the meeting will become an open house, with candidates and visitors (a large crowd is expected) discussing the issues one-to-one.

"It went so smooth last time," said Ammons. "The one-to-one approach seems to be best." Twelve of the 16 candidates for the April 3 election attended ACTA's last open house and some 70-80 visitors got the chance to get acquainted with them.

"It's a good opportunity for the candidates to present their platforms," said Ammons, adding, "It's an even better opportunity for the people interested in hearing about the candidates and their platforms."

June Carter, Fulton resident who lost the April 3 mayor's race to incumbent L.E. Casterline, asked, "Are you going to name it Casterline?"

"It has been named Casterline," Loflin said. "We would have to rescind our vote and start over."

In other action relating to the fishing pier, Holman received support from aldermen Katherine McLester and Leslie Cole in a request that the proposed observation deck on the pier be relocated, but no council action was taken on the matter Tuesday night.

Holman, who requested to be placed on the agenda, said he had noted that the observation deck as now proposed is to be located 13 feet from the seawall and said he feels this is too close.

"Older people get tired walking on that pier," he said. "An observation deck about halfway the pier length would give them a nice rest stop." He added that the deck if located that close to the seawall would also take some of the swimming area.

"I request that the council change the

In response to Casterline's query of "What's the council's pleasure?" regarding the letter, Loflin said, "I don't think we have any choice," and Dietz moved to accept the resignation "with regrets."

Cole seconded the motion which passed 5-0.

Fultonite June Carter later asked how the council planned to replace the secretary, and City Attorney Allen Lee said the council would need to hold a workshop meeting to decide whether the city wanted a full- or part-time secretary and what the duties would be.

"I would suggest a full-time secretary," Lee added. He said the council would then advertise for applicants based on its job description. "I would recommend you do something fairly soon," he added.

No date was set for a workshop at the Tuesday meeting.

Lee "switched hats" to represent the Aransas County Little League, of which he is president this year, in an item on the agenda to ask assistance from the city council.

Lee said approximately 260 youngsters are signed up for this year's Little League session which officially gets under way Saturday. Lee said the council does not have any money budgeted for this and that it would require an amendment to the budget. He added that ACLL was not seeking a definite amount although he subsequently said, "I was thinking of a

Editorial & Opinion

Daily news can certainly get depressing

AT LEAST TWO RECENT events cause me to ponder, and wonder. Consider the tremendous voter turnout in El Salvador, despite threats of rebel leaders to sabotage the elections. Seems they were surprisingly ineffective. Indeed, a carnival mood almost seemed to prevail. In any event the most illiterate people of El Salvador appear to have put us Americans to shame. One wonders? Certainly laws here which define voter eligibility are absurd. One needs only be a live, warm body. No literacy test, one doesn't even need to speak English. Who would dare make the boast that we the people have sent our best men and women to town councils, county, state and national offices?

FOR NEARLY TWO years I have been of the opinion that Iran is a country in almost hopeless disarray, a view the Iraqis evidently shared when they attacked Iran. Suddenly we hear that Iran is driving the enemy back, gaining the upper hand. Surprise, surprise? Evidently there must be some semblance of organization over there after all. Seems the only way to get the facts about events is to go and see for one's self. Yet were I reporting directly from El Salvador or Iran it remains more than half certain that others on the spot would be reporting entirely different impressions. Can that be the reason so many people, especially the young, give up on the news, say in effect, "to heck with it all."

PERHAPS I CAN THINK of one good reason for giving up on the news. On the national scene it is depressing and the daily news can be psychologically depressing. The current national recession has had little or no effect on South Texas' economy. More, it would have to continue for still a long while before we would feel the punch. Nevertheless, the constant gloomy reports tend to strike varying measures of fear in the businessmen as well as the workingman.

The greatest blessing to this part of the economy is that it is varied. Every couple of years people tend to sort of hit the panic button when it is rumored that the Corpus Christi Air Station may be closed. Often I have thought that to be a political ploy, but never mind. Cold facts are that if the station were to be closed the economy, while hurt, would not be devastated. Contrast that with Detroit where every thing is automobiles or auto related. Here we have oil, gas, farming, ranching, manufacturing. The list is almost endless, and prospects grow.

I FIND THE FUTURE OF the automotive industry frightening. Certainly there will be no quick recovery. Housing is another thing. America needs homes at reasonably affordable costs for all segments of society, along with it reasonable interest rates. And housing is one place where the Japanese, and no one else can "move in" on us. True, the industry needs to learn new and better methods for building. But we have the material and resources — and we have the labor. I more than half suspect that if a housing program adequate to meet the nation's needs were to be developed there would be no carpenters, plumbers, electricians, mill workers, on and on, who would be without work. In truth I more than half suspect the industry would easily absorb all the laid off auto workers. The result could only be a better and more comfortable America, a nation with far less crime.

AT FIRST BLUSH ONE IS almost inclined to think of the Argentine invasion of the Falklands and British response as something akin to a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta. But not so. England is so far responding calmly but firmly, in the best of British tradition. How events will shape before this column appears is almost anyone's guess, but there are alternatives aplenty, but count on one thing, the British will remain steadfast. Otherwise the potentialities arising from the piratical invasion are of concern to us all. At worst, the beginning of another world conflict.

One certainty, South and Central American nations, seldom for long not at odds within their own countries or with each other, will stand with Argentina in this matter. When it comes to tweeking national noses Britain is only second choice to the United States. As of the moment, as I see things from here, Argentine in its usual economic and political turmoil decided upon a dramatic move in the hope that it would unite the people and turn their thoughts from immediate troubles at home. I have my doubts.

This column is written a week earlier than usual. By the time it appears in print the British fleet should be close to the Falklands and in that time any number of things may transpire. I'm glad that there will be an interim of a fortnight between the time the fleet sailed and its arrival. —ahab

People may not be able to pay increased taxes

Officials of the Internal Revenue Service apparently are under mounting pressure, both internal and external, to deal more effectively with increasing public resistance to U.S. tax laws.

Washington wags have stopped talking about a "credibility gap" and started talking about a "tax gap," estimated by some lawmakers to be widening. Latest estimates are that between $80 and $90 billion a year is being lost because many Americans are not complying fully with tax laws.

The estimated amount being lost annually by the government because of non-compliance with tax laws and outright evasion is nearly equal to the current U.S. budget deficit.

"I sense a growing concern in Congress that the IRS is falling further behind in efforts to collect all taxes due the government," said Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., chairman of a House Government Operations subcommittee that oversees IRS activities.

The tax collection agency is being reorganized in the upper echelon. R.L. Egger Jr., new IRS commissioner, says changes are needed to beef-up enforcement and improve efficiency in the 85,000-member service.

Simultaneously, Congress has begun to move in the direction of tightening tax laws. At least four Senate and House subcommittees want to restore IRS budget cuts and are pressing the service to audit more tax returns and crack down on cheaters in all income categories.

Other IRS critics, like Philip P. Storer, author, teacher and former IRS agent, contend the IRS has become paralyzed as tax cheating increased in the face of a greater "tax bite" for most Americans.

"I have viewed with increasing concern the disarray that seems to pervade the system," said Storer. However, he praised Egger "for focusing on enforcement problems and trying to settle tax cases at the lowest level in the IRS, thereby preventing long delays and reviews."

No income tax reform movement in Congress has ever reached the heart of the internal revenue problem — the inequities of the system, the worst of which results in middle-income Americans paying the lion's share of taxes.

A simple levying system of collecting federal taxes would facilitate collections because it would reduce the individual tax burden and require that employed persons and those receiving income from whatever source pay a fixed amount in income tax each year.

The Rockport Pilot does not believe the inequities of the present system will ever be corrected until Congress decides to come to grips with the real tax problem.

While the IRS is under pressure to collect more taxes, there is a move afoot in Congress to raise more revenue by imposing a surtax on the amount of income taxes paid by individuals, business and industry.

TV networks tickled to get out of Salvador and on to Falkland

Editor's note: The Live Oak Peninsula Philosopher on his grasshopper farm has been forced to learn something new about geography. Dear editor:

I don't know about others but I had managed to make it this far in life without ever having heard of the Falkland Islands.

Such ignorance wasn't something I was losing sleep over, as there must be thousands of islands scattered around the oceans of the world most people haven't heard of. And if a man is going to be ignorant of something, tiny islands are about as good as anything else.

The reason I am now aware of the Falklands is that the world is too thoroughly televised.

As I understand it, Argentina has been arguing for 150 years that the islands belonged to her, not the British, although England has been in charge of the place. So, after debating for a century and a half Argentina, with what might be called Congressional speed, decided finally to take over the territory and make everybody there speak Spanish instead of Cockney, not to mention drill for the oil that may lie under the ocean floor nearby.

So the TV networks, tickled pink to get rid of the El Salvador story, which they couldn't make heads or tails of anyway, leaped on the Falkland Islands. A place with only 1,800 people and 600,000 sheep is a lot more photographic.

It makes a person wonder, if Argentina hadn't charged on to the island, what would the three networks have lead off their evening news shows with that day and for days thereafter? For one thing, I

Gentlemen:

The quality of life suffered a diminishment recently. We lost Theron "Smitty" Smith. A real and unusual man left the scene with his accidental death.

Smitty was honest - to a fault, perhaps - but you always knew just where you stood. He was not one to "agree" just to get along. This trait came on to some people as abrasive or contentious. It was just his stark honesty coming thru.

Most of us who whip just one "monkey" in this life feel we have done pretty well. Smitty whipped three "monkeys" to a standstill. He was obese so he decided to get slim, and he did just that. Lost over a hundred pounds - for good. He became a first class drunk - long before it became fashionable to call them alcoholics. So he decided to quit drinking. He did just that. He (like myself) was a three pack a day man. So he decided to quit smoking. He did not boast of these battles, but he was not reluctant to admonish a smoker or drinker. He thought they were damn fools. He had been thru it all and knew just how dumb it all is.

Smitty was a Yankee, but he got over it . . . no little accomplishment.

Smitty loved it here in Fulton, but fate decreed that he be laid to rest in another state. I'm sure he's fussin' about that, but what can you do, Smitty?

Anyway, his friends at the Rockport Pilot, The Sandollar Marina, and a host of others wish you Godspeed.

Dear Editor

I attended a Fulton City Emergency Council meeting on April 5, 1982, which had been called to acknowledge a letter received by the City from C.P.L. and to make a decision to take action on the letter.

I am pleased the Council joined forces with 117 other incorporated communities to fight the proposed increase presented them by C.P.L. Also, they have set a Public Hearing date of April 20, 7:00 p.m.

The action taken by the Council was good. What really bothered me was when I asked, "Will the Town Hall be large enough to have a Public Hearing?", one of the council members answered, "Oh yes, we will only have about five people show up."

How in the world do we expect our Council to know what the people of Fulton want of them or that we are backing their decisions if no one shows up to a meeting as important as this Public Hearing.

I would certainly like to believe there are more than five people concerned about their money.

C.P.L. is going to raise our light bill at least 18 percent, and possibly 48 percent.

If you have a light bill of $20.00 you will be paying at least $25.00 per month. A light bill of $200.00, will become at least $240.00.

If you would like to read a pamphlet published by C.P.L. that states what I have said in this letter and more, come to the Beach Road Bait House.

Don't wait for a special invitation, just show up at the Fulton Town Hall at 7:00 p.m. on April 20.

C.P.L. members will be there to hear your comments.

Rape

Dear sir,

Tuesday night, April 6, I attended a film sponsored by the Crisis Intervention Center. The subject of the film was rape. Although most of us dislike acknowledging this type of assault, it is a problem faced by women and men today. We are not isolated, it is a problem that we must face even here in Aransas County.

The film was viewed by an excellent cross-section of women and students of this county and all that attended were benefited from what was learned. The film was actually a lecture by Mr. Frederick Stroaska whose system of rape prevention has been cited as saving many lives. Another aspect of the film is the delicate way the subject of rape was presented.

It is my opinion that those who attended felt the film would benefit all students, adults and older people who view it.

A whole series of films is planned by the Crisis Intervention Center dealing with the areas it is concerned with — rape, battered wives and child abuse. I urge citizens of this county to take an interest in the center. It will benefit everyone in the community but it will also need the support of everyone in the community.

The center has recently been endorsed by the Ministerial Alliance. Anyone interested in finding out more about this project may contact their minister or priest or call 729-0865 for further information.

The following subjects will be presented: May 4, Adult citizen abuse; May 18, Battered women. The film will be presented at 7 p.m. at the Allied Live Oak Bank Annex on Highway 35 in Rockport.

Thank you,
Gwen Sherman

Justice

Dear sir,

I subscribe to the Pilot and read its entirety. I have come across an ad that is sponsoring a rape film, by the Shapemaker Exercise Club and the Aransas County Sheriff's Department.

Rape seems to be a common occurrence in the Aransas County area.

I am very close to one victim that was raped Sept. 29, 1980, and again just after the first of this year, yet another party I knew was a victim of rape, (and the same rapist was involved). I cannot mention the names of the victims nor the one that committed the rapes.

Here just recently another was raped and robbed and the investigators and the sheriff's department rely upon the public to solve the problem.

The first two victims properly identified the rapist and the officer made no witness complaint nor did the sheriff's department, nor was any investigation made until the first victim of rape called the state attorney - and then had to call the Texas Rangers before any action was taken - now I'm thankful that one officer of the law has quit, that was called on Sept. 29, 1980 - the public don't need his kind.

Now I read a certain party is wanting an investigation into the navigation's attorney.

I think the voters should not have an investigation of any public official, they should go to the election polls and vote these officials out of office, and replace them with someone that is competent to perform their duties of their office.

Like in the case of the rapist that was properly identified-finally did receive probation, and he was re-arrested and indicted. A bond was set and it was too high for him to meet. So the judge reduced his bond, and further this same rapist has been indicted on two other felonies and released.

I advise the public to take the time to exercise their rights and place competent officials into office that can do a job. And get what the public's tax dollars are paying for.

I wish you would place this in Our Readers Write column. I am one that can verify how the wheels of justice revolve in the Aransas County area. And I have documentary proof of my statements in this writing.

Respectfully,
Jerry Drunkard

Garrison-Johnson power Pirate netters to win

This week, Rockport and Fulton have played host to the District 15-4A Tennis Tournament. Playing on their home courts, the doubles team of Holly Garrison and Stacey Johnson blasted their way to the regional tournament by capturing first place to pace the Pirate team to a third place finish behind Flour Bluff and Gregory-Portland.

Garrison and Johnson have now done away with their opponents in every tournament they have entered this year. Joining this pair in the heroics was the team of Bobby Albin and John Phelps that gathered in third place in the boys doubles.

At the JV level, Inasia Contreras and Genny Davis each took opening round wins before losing. Greg Morales got to the semi-finals before being shelved.

Also playing in Beeville was varsity player Rusty Stovall in boys singles. JV players included Mark Ledine, Tim Arthur, Wade Taggart, Darrell Roper, Derek Andrew, Jennifer Cisneros, Cathy Carter, Mary Gonzales and Arlene Shults.

The depth of the other squads was too much for the Pirates, a very young team overall. The Pirate JV crew was a distant sixth place, but the freshmen netters were the class of the district, outpointing Beeville in their division, 45 to 40.

R-F Pirates take first in Robstown relays

Trying to shake off the injury bug which forced the Rockport-Fulton Pirates into a third place finish last week in Beeville, the Pirates broke loose in Robstown Wednesday afternoon to take first place in the Robstown Relays. The Pirates are making ready to challenge for the district crown that they gained a year ago.

Returning after missing a week with a leg injury, Dwayne Walls paced the Pirates with a double win by taking both the 100 and 200 meter dashes. Running mate Micheal Simmons was not up to par but went on to run some of his best races of the year, finishing second behind Walls in both dashes, and then Simmons collected a third place in the long jump with a leap of better than 21 feet.

The famed 400 meter relay team from Rockport-Fulton will have to wait until another time to prove their reputation, as injuries still keep a healthy foursome from putting things back together. The relay team currently holds the best time, set earlier in the season, in the 4-A classification in all of South Texas.

The Pirates picked up some big lifts from other runners as the day wore on. Michael Kautz, blooming of late as a hurdler, ran to a first place finish in the 300 intermediate hurdles. Damasco Galvan stunned the crowd as he ran to a first place finish in the 880 yard run, and then came back to take a second ahead of teammate Mike Zlock in the mile run. Zlock stretched out and captured third in the long 3200 meter run.

The field events furnished the Pirates with some valuable points, especially in the discus. Michael Arthur, who also doubled as a second place finisher in the shot put, joined Pirate Charlie Ochoa to finish two-three in the discus.

The Pirates scored 123 total points in the meet. At the JV level, the Pirates were third with a total of 90 points.

Last weekend in Beeville, the Pirates had to settle for third place, scoring only 67 points. With the exception of Walls, out with injuries, and a third place in the 400 meter run by Joe Lara, the point makers in the meet were the same as in Robstown.

Simmons took first in the 100 meters and the long jump. Kautz clocked in for a third in the 300's and a sixth in the 110's. Galvan ran a fifth in the 800 meters and a sixth in the 1600 meter run. Ochoa was third in the shot and Arthur claimed fourth.

In the JV Division, the Pirates were fourth. Darren Gurley was the winner in the discus. Joe Cantu took second in the 300 hurdles.

Other Pirates took 3-6 finishes to get points for the Pirates. James Blair, Derrick Conn, Randy Foote, Scott McMillan, Phillip Ochoa, along with Dominguez and Lara combines to score for the Pirates.

At the freshmen level, Rudy Soliz ran to a fifth place in the 800 meter run.

the water. Lures that appeal to these two senses are most effective on bass. Plastic worms, spinners, crankbaits and topwater lures are all effective on largemouth bass. Minnows, particularly golden shiners, are favorite live baits.

Largemouth bass prefer areas that are not subject to direct sunlight such as weedbeds, flooded timber, and boat docks. Underwater structures such as submerged islands, creekbeds and brushpiles are also likely candidates to attract bass.

Whether you prefer to fish large lakes or the local farm pond, spring is tops for bass fishing.

Lagremouth black bass leave little doubt about their sportfishing status

The attention that the largemouth black bass receives in Texas leaves little doubt about the status of this popular sportfish. The northern largemouth bass (native or Texas bass) occurs in most Texas streams and natural lakes. Extensive stocking programs over the past 50 years have resulted in its introduction into thousands of man-made lakes and ponds.

Introduction of the Florida largemouth bass started in Texas during the early 1970s, according to Billy Higginbotham, fisheries specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Florida subspecies is known to grow larger than our native largemouth. Although this characteristic was initially attributed to the long growing season and warm waters of the Florida's original habitat, research has indicated its ability to grow larger is also genetically influenced.

The Florida bass has several negative characteristics that must be considered when stocking a pond or lake. Tests have shown that Florida bass do not grow as fast as our native largemouth during the first year of life. This may contribute to poorer survival, due in part to predation, during the first year. Additionally, Florida bass are unable to tolerate cold, harsh winters as well as native bass. Small shallow ponds in areas of the state subject to extreme cold are poor candidates for Florida bass.

The Florida and native bass are very similar in appearance and are difficult to distinguish with the untrained eye. However, Florida bass appear more golden-brown in color as compared to the greenish hue of the native bass. A better method of differentiating between the two subspecies is to count the scales along the lateral line. The Florida bass has 70 or more lateral line scales, while the native bass has 68 or less.

In waters where both fish occur, hybridization is common and from available information, highly desirable. The resulting offspring, called the "superbass", is probably superior to either parental strain in growth and survival. The current state record, a 15½ pounder taken in 1981 from Lake Echo, has been verified as a hybrid. The hybridization of the two subspecies is upgrading the genetic composition of native bass populations, an impact that is sure to have positive effects for fishermen.

The life histories of largemouth bass are very similar. Florida bass begin spawning when water temperatures warm to approximately 60 degrees F. Native bass spawn slightly later, when the water warms to 64 degrees F. or higher. If conditions favor rapid growth, one year old bass at least 10 inches in length may spawn. Nests are dished out on firm bottoms in water two to eight feet deep by the male. The male then attracts a ripe female to the nest by aggressive courting behavior, which includes rapid and vivid color pattern changes. The female then lays from 2,000 to 100,000 egg which are immediately fertilized. Since the female's eggs do not all ripen at one time, she may spawn once or twice more during the spring.

Eggs hatch in two to five days and the fry begin feeding four to eight days later. The male guards the eggs and fry, but after the young leave the nest, they become prey for adult bass, each other and other fish. The young bass feed mainly on zooplankton the first few weeks, but at two to three inches, their diet is mainly small fish and aquatic insects. As fingerlings grow to adulthood, the size and types of food in their diet increase. Adults feed mainly on shad, sunfish and a variety of other aquatic and terrestrial life.

Growth rates vary according to food availability and water quality, says Higginbotham. The hybrid largemouth usually grows faster than either parent and may reach lengths of 12 inches or more at the end of one year. Native largemouth grow faster than Florida for the first year or so, but the Florida equals and surpasses the native in growth thereafter. The life expectancy of largemouth bass is six to eight years, but reports of older fish have been documented.

Bass fishing has become a highly complex and technical sport with the advent of high performance boats, electronic depth finders and oxygen-temperature probes. The sport has turned into a year round activity, but the best time to fish is during the spawning season, usually February through June in Texas.

Largemouth bass will hit a variety of artificial baits, most of which resemble natural food. Basically, bass strike a lure or bait in response to one of three stimuli: hunger, protection of nests or young, or a reflex response to a food item.

Largemouth bass rely largely on sight for feeding, but a well developed lateral line sensory system enables them to locate food items due to slight vibrations through

A.C. Woman's Club installs new officers

The Aransas County Woman's Club met Tuesday, April 13, for the installation of their new officers at the Sandollar Restaurant.

Some 62 members and guests were present for the installation and the short business meeting. The meeting was presided over by outgoing president Mrs. Joe Bennett.

The installation of new president Mrs. D.W. Edwards and the rest of the officers was conducted by Mrs. Harold Fields. Mrs. Fields presented each of the new officers with a part of a model house. Upon the officers installation these pieces were assembled by the officers into an entire, strong house. The finished house stood for the Woman's Club.

In addition to Mrs. Edwards, the other new officers installed were Leona Kellum, first vice president; Mrs. R.B. Franklin Jr., second vice president; Mrs. Tom Hays, third vice president; Mrs. Robert Rutledge, fourth vice president; Bettie Smith, secretary and Joyce Collins, treasurer.

Awarded as doorprizes to winning guests and members were blue tablecloths.

The tables at the luncheon were decorated with small boats, each of which was named for a past officer in the club. The decorations were made by Mrs. Andrew Stensgaard and her committee.

A card game followed the installations.

Winners in canasta were Mrs. Edith MacMurchy, Mrs. Mary Kissell and Mrs. George Rhoads. Winners in bridge were Mrs. Mary Horning, Mrs. Shirley Lefarge and Mrs. Shirley Cormack.

Ladies' Auxiliary plans benefit dance

The Rockport Fireman's Ladies Auxiliary met Tuesday, April 13 for their monthly business meeting, called to order by President Myrna Koubek with eight members answering roll call.

Bills were read and approved and the upcoming Rockport Firemen's Auxilary Benefit Dance was discussed.

The dance will be held July 3, at the Paws and Taws building in Fulton. Members present at the meeting were Ivala Hinze, Betty Kelly, Teet Mullinax, Janet Thomas, Carolyn Cox, Trisha Smith, Myrna Koubek and Pam DeRoy.

Bon Appetit

By Ann Thomas

We're going to pick up where we left off last week and get in just a few more berry recipes before we go on to something else. The first recipe is known around Ypsilanti, Mich. as "Heaven on a Plate". The recipe uses tart raspberries, crunchy crust, and a rich filling for an intriguing trio of flavors.

RASPBERRY TORTE

Crust

2 c. sifted all purpose flour
1/2 c. packed brown sugar
2 sticks butter
1 c. chopped walnuts
5-6 T. water

Filling

One - 3 oz. pkg. cream cheese, softened
1 c. powdered sugar
1 T. vanilla
1 c. heavy cream, whipped
Raspberry Topping
1 c. sugar
3 T. cornstarch
1 1/2 c. raspberry jc.
1 1/2 Qt. raspberries Preheat oven to 400 F. To make the crust, sift together the flour and the brown sugar, mixing well. Cut in the butter and mix in the nuts. Add the water and bring the mixture together in a ball. Pat the dough into a 9 x 13 in. baking dish and bake for 15 min. Crumble the crust into pieces while still warm then press back down into the pan. Let cool thoroughly. To make the filling, combine the cream cheese, sugar and vanilla. Fold in the whipped cream. Pour over the cooled crust and refrigerate until the mixture begins to set. For the topping, combine the sugar and the cornstarch and add the raspberry jar. Heat until the mixture boils, stirring all the while. Add the berries and spoon the entire raspberry mixture over the cream filling. Serve when well chilled. Makes 10-12 servings.

A friend and neighbor of mine sent me this new recipe. It's for a chocolate cake. Betty Subject tells me that when she was small her family used to visit in the home of N.V.V. Franchot, of Olean, N.Y., and remembers that Mr. Franchot was the uncle of movie actor Franchot Tone and a close friend of Franklin D. Roosevelt. He loved this cake so much that they gave it his name and made it a point of having it whenever he visited.

FDR'S CHOCOLATE CAKE

2 c. sugar
1/2 c. shortening
2 egg yolks
1/2 c. sour milk
1 t. baking soda added to 2 1/4 c. flour
1 1/4 squares Baker's unsweetened chocolate melted in 1 c. boiling water
1 t. vanilla
Pinch of salt
Cream the shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add beaten egg yolks and chocolate melted in water. Add sifted flour, soda and salt alternately with sour milk. Beat at moderate speed for 2 min. Pour into a 9 x 12 x 1/2" greased and floured pan. Bake at 350 F. about 30 min.

Mrs. John Picton

Satterfield and Picton marry in Houston

Angela Lee Satterfield of Forney became the bride of John Hynes Picton of Rockport during a candlelight ceremony held on Saturday evening, April 17, at St. Cecilia Catholic Church in Houston.

The bride, a teacher, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T.A. Satterfield of Rockwall. The groom, employed in Inventory Control at Rockport Yacht and Supply, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H.H. Picton of Rockport. Both bride and groom are graduates of the University of Texas at Austin.

Performing the ceremony was the Msgr. Alfred W. Raye.

Soloist Maurine Graves sang "Longer Than", by Dan Fogelberg and "Sunrise, Sunset." The bridesmaids entered to "Trumpet Voluntary."

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a formal gown designed by Murray Ham-burger. The gown, of English net with Brussels lace, had a high neckline and full bishop sleeves. More than 5,000 seed pearls, all sewn by the bride's mother, applied the bodice of the gown. The Juliet cap was accented with a mantilla of handmade Belgium heirloom lace. Both the cap and the bride's shoes were covered with matching lace and seed pearls.

The lace was also sewn by the bride's mother.

The bridal bouquet was of creamy sweetheart roses and English ivy.

Christina Satterfield of Houston and Glenna Saunders of San Antonio, both sisters of the bride, were maid and matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Paula Colley, Pamela Beck, Jeanne Satterfield and Leah Baker. Other attendants were Margo McCurry, Chelle McCurry and Donna Davis. The bridesmaids wore ivory voile and eyelet blouses accented with lace and tucks at the neck and sleeves. The skirts were emerald green moire faille of slipper length. Each bridesmaid carried a loose armful of shasta daisies.

Lisa Picton, niece of the groom, from Houston was the flower girl.

Ringbearer was Justin Saunders of San Antonio, nephew of the groom.

The groom's best man was his father, Harold Picton.

Groomsmen were Jerry Picton, Jeff Dietze, Scott Gillis, Andy McDavid and Tood Caspary. Ushers were George Pontikes, Rick Berger, Cass Caspary and Wayne Wendell. Other attendants were Thomas Satterfield, Charley Picton and Robert Garbrecht.

Following the ceremony, a reception attended by 350 people was held at the Shamrock Hilton's Continental Ballroom. The reception was given by the parents of the bride.

Following their wedding trip to Cancun, Mexico, the couple will make their home in Rockport.

Baby bundles measured 20, one half inches. S/Sgt. and Mrs. Benavidez also have another daughter, Aracely Rene, two.

Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. D.H. Benavidez. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Hector Guerra Jr., all of Rockport. Paternal great-grandmother is Mrs. Hortencia Garza also of Rockport. Maternal great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Desiderio Vasquez of Hebbronville, Texas.

Homemaking hints

To get maximum nutritional value from fruits and vegetables, buy them at harvest time, suggests Dr. Dymple Cooksey, a food and nutrition specialist.

Prices are usually lowest when products are in season too, she says.

Cooksey is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Parents should be aware of what a child really feels "inside" in order to understand why he behaves as he does "outside," says Diane Welch, a family life education specialist.

Welch is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Mrs. Mark Otte

Kristin Elizabeth Jones weds Mark Arnold Otte

Kristin Elizabeth Jones and Mark Arnold Otte were united in marriage on Saturday, April 17, in an afternoon ceremony held at St. Luke's on the Lake Episcopal Church in Austin. The Rev. Bob Cooper performed the double ring ceremony. A reception was held immediately following in the church parish hall.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wentworth Jones, residents of the Sandollar Motel in Fulton. She attended Concordia Lutheran College in Austin.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Grace K. Otte of East Lansing, Mich. He graduated from Michigan State University with a bachelor's degree in advertising.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white organza gown by Elegante. The dress featured a scoop neckline trimmed with Venice and Brussels lace. Venice lace also accented the bodice, A-line skirt and chapel train. Full bishop sleeves of organza were trimmed at the cuff with lace. Her two-tiered chapel length veil of imported illusion was gathered to a wide headband on Venice lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of white spring flowers and greenery.

Maid of honor was Julie Ptacek of Vail, Colo. Bridesmaid was Randi

Jones, a sister of the bride, from Austin. The bridesmaids wore Victorian style dresses of rosebud pink silk with accordin pleated, floor-length skirts. The dresses featured high waisted, sleeveless bodices topped by lace capelets. They carried nosegay bouquets of assorted pastel flowers and wore wreaths of the same in their hair. Best man was Mark Mandenburg. Groomsman was William Wentworth Jones Jr., brother of the bride, from Austin.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. George

Edward McMackin, sister of the bride, and Christopher and Haley McMackin, nephew and niece of the bride, all of Lakewood, Colo. Attending members of the groom's family from out of town were Mrs.

Grace K. Otte, mother; and Mr. Bruce Otte, brother, of East Lansing, Mich.; Mrs.

Donald Smoll, Portland, Ore., and Miss Susan Otte, New York City, sisters; and Mr. Arnold Kramer, Washington, D.C., uncle.

After a wedding trip to the Cayman Islands, the couple will reside in Austin.

Nursing home news

By Maxine Mayer

Activities at the Aransas Pass Nursing and Convalescent Center were very enjoyable last week.

Since it was Easter Week, we had many groups coming out to visit and bring Easter favors to our residents. Our volunteers were also out in numbers, bringing smiles to many faces.

Monday afternoon, the groups from Truth Rebekah Lodge 143 of Aransas Pass were out to play games with our people. Our residents were remembered by the Junior High Sunday school class of the First United Methodist Church of Rockport with a large wicker basket of Easter eggs, which they enjoyed eating very much.

Monday afternoon, Carla Haskett with her mother, Gloria, came out to decorate our Activity Area for Easter. Tuesday afternoon, Kay Barnebey of Rockport brought over a "Chicken Little" tray of favors, which were made by her fourth and fifth grade Sunday school classes of the First Presbyterian Church of Rockport. Wednesday morning, Delma Rodgers was out to visit, run her weekly errands and read the Bible to several.

Wednesday afternoon, the Rev. Bob DeWolfe was out to lead our weekly Bible Study and give Holy Communion to all who wished to partake.

Also, Brownie Troop 273 was out to visit their adopted grandparents and they presented each of them with a Bible which was made from a bar of soap. Our residents enjoyed their visit very much.

Thursday afternoon, the group from the Order of the Easter Star Chapter 1037 of Ingleside were over to entertain our residents.

Friday morning was our weekly paint class time with Sarah and Frankie. They had a special treat for all of their paint class members as well as any others who were in the dining room. They served colored Easter eggs and bananas. These ladies bring goodies to our people every week.

Sunday morning worship services were led by the Rev. Al Bankert, who used as his text for Easter, "He Is Not Here, But Is Risen."

Sunday afternoon, the members of the Church of Christ in Ingleside were over for their monthly group singing program. Each morning we had our reality orientation and exercise class.

We also had our coffee and social hour each morning and afternoon. We had many of our people go out for Easter weekend and I do believe everyone had a nice Easter.

I want to thank Nan Bailey for the beautiful pots of lilies which she sent for our residents to enjoy and also the Hibiscus Garden Club for the lilies they gave us.

Again, thanks to all for a nice Easter.

Fulfilling a central role in nature's system of child development is the nest.

In our very complex human society mankind relies heavily on the nest. We call it the home.

Beware of the current tendency to think of the home as an institution. It's so easy to separate home, school, church... and their vital inter-related functions.

Rather think of the home as a nest... the shelter in which devoted parents provide the proper environment and the essential loving care to get youngsters ready for Life. Education and religious training should be rooted in that family experience.

Life in a nest is governed by instincts. Life in the home is the outgrowth of sound knowledge and sincere faith.

It is important that we all vote. Why? Because all of our minds together are better than any one mind. If we did not believe that, we would be content with a dictator.

Of course, we are not satisfied with one person in charge, so our nation has a Congress, President and Court; our state has a Legislature, Governor and Courts; our county has Commissioners, Judge and Courts; our city has a Council, Mayor and Courts; our clubs have Boards of Directors; our churches have Conferences, Boards, etc.

We are sold on the plan that people make the best decisions in a give and take discussion of the issue. We have faith that any issue or problem can be solved if enough people give input. That's why we should all vote.

We have just had an election in Rockport and now we should be behind those who were elected and make this a good place for us all to live. The more input government has, the more options are offered, the better decisions can be made.

Thus voting cannot be the final act of citizenship. We must let our elected officials know what we need. In the free market place of ideas, the best decisions are forged. It is not good enough just to criticize, we must offer plans and proposals that we believe will work and then we must work.

I know a lot of people who are divisive and thus destructive to the fabric of democracy. I know a few who are constructive and willing to discuss issues face to face on their merit and not enter into personalities.

Democracy is a product of the interest of all the people all the time.

Clarke Rooke remembers

Growing up with Rockport

By Becky Werhan

Clarke Rooke, a lifelong native of Rockport, turns 90 this Saturday, April 17. Born and raised in Rockport, Rooke can still remember many things about the early town — the things that made his life here special.

Born on Easter Sunday, 1892, to Thomas Beard Rooke and his wife, Fanny Augusta, Rooke was one of five children. Three other brothers — Amos, Thomas and Christopher Columbus; and one sister, Irene, were all born in Rockport.

The Rookees were related to one of Rockport's other leading families, the Clarks, which is how Rooke got his first name. Dr. John Andrew Clarke was his uncle and Clarke's daughter, Katie Lee Clarke, was Rooke's cousin. Katie Lee Clarke, or "Miss Katie Lee" became one of Rockport's best-loved school teachers.

Rooke attended school in Rockport and his first job was working for Hoopers' Grocery Store, handling delivery and stocking chores. He remembers a handmade sailboat he had at that time and how he would sail the small craft up and down Little Bay.

Also vivid in Rooke's memory is the old dance pavilion which stood by the bay, near where RYSCO is now built.

Rooke can remember "dances every Sunday" and school events, such as plays and concerts, taking place in the pavilion. For a time, he worked there also.

One of the more unpleasant memories of Rooke's childhood is a long bout with pneumonia. He can still recall laying in the front upstairs bedroom of his parents' house, located across the street from where the courthouse now stands, and looking out the window, waiting to get well. After he had recovered from pneumonia, Rooke had to learn how to walk again, since he had been inactive for such a long time.

As a young man, Rooke worked at the old shipyard, as did many Rockport residents. He can recall helping build wooden ships so wide "that it took all day to paint the keel."

Rooke was working at the shipyard when World War I broke out. Since he was building ships for national defense, he could have stayed out of the service but chose instead to join the Army. "I didn't try to get out of it," he recalls.

The new soldier spent 11 months overseas, mainly in France. "I didn't spend a birthday in the Army," says Rooke. He can remember arriving in Europe at Liverpool, England, and traveling to France in box-cars — "If you didn't get a place to lay down before night, you had to sit in the door all night," says Rooke.

The Armistice was signed one day before Rooke's unit was scheduled to go to the front, so he returned home less than a year after leaving. The sight of the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor is one Rooke still remembers vividly. "It sure was high. I was glad to be home."

After he returned to Rockport, two of the most memorable events in Rooke's life occurred. First he bought his first car — a brand new Model T for $700. Says Rooke, "I had it for 20 years. I was proud of it."

The second event was his marriage on August 24, 1919, to Lou Boyd Robinson of Victoria. The couple was married by Rooke's uncle, Dr. Clarke. The marriage lasted for almost 61 years — Mrs. Rooke died four days before their anniversary in 1980.

The couple had two daughters, one of whom died very early in life. The other, born in 1923, was killed in an auto accident in 1940. Perhaps their loss was the reason that in 1950, the couple adopted Linda Sue Dye (now Arthur) and her brother, Mac Dye Man

ley. Recalls Mrs. Arthur, "They raised three families — theirs, and us and their grandchildren while we were working. They loved kids. All the neighbor kids even. They would go without cookies so they could save them for the neighbor kids."

In his later life, Rooke worked for two gas companies, Texaco and Gulf.

He would carry gas in 10-gallon cans and fuel up boats in the harbor here. Recalls his adopted daughter, "He worked so hard, he would come home with his hands bleeding where he had carried the cans."

Rooke can remember the big boats that docked in the harbor in those days and how merchants would leave kegs of money to pay for freight on late-arriving cargo boats. No one ever took the money from the docks, though from the docks, though most people knew what it was.

Rooke is now a resident of the Aransas Pass Nursing and Convalescent Center and at 90, can no longer remember many things. But in addition to the recollections already mentioned, others remain.

Like the time in the 1930s that a sudden cold spell left so much ice and frost on the ground that Rooke's chickens "went ice skating all over the yard." — a picture that still makes him laugh.

Or the time, shortly after his marriage, that 20 people crowded into his home to weather out the great 1919 storm. The house, still standing near the U-Totem on Bronte, was surrounded by waist-deep bay water after the blow.

Another remembrance is the pride he had when his uncle Chris was hired as carpenter on the old court house.

And the fact that he and his wife were "the first people on the lane" to get a telephone and electricity. "They shut off the electricity at midnight and left it on longer on Wednesdays so people could iron."

The memory of traveling to Refugio and other surrounding towns in a small baseball league when he was young.

The bits and pieces of events that Clarke Rooke can still remember are more than mere recollections. They paint a vivid picture of a long full life and of Rockport, the town he was born in and grew up with.

Speeders account for half of citations

Of the 101 traffic citations issued by Rockport police during March, more than half were for speeding, Joe Hinojosa, the city police chief, told council members this week.

Hinojosa, making his regular monthly report to the council at the council session this past Monday night, also had good news for the city: In its March Uniform Crime Report for 1982, the Rockport police department shows 22 previous offenses cleared.

Hinojosa said the city has an overall clearance rate of 54 percent — well above both state and national averages. He added the city PD cleared 100 percent of robberies during 1981 and 47 percent of the burglaries for that year.

Other good news, according to the police report, was that accidents and arrests were both down for March, 1982, compared to last year.

Police were called to 12 accidents this past March compared to 18 a year ago. Arrests were down even more: 42, compared to 66 in March of last year.

Sixty-two speeding tickets were issued last month, according to police, with 20 of those being for speeding in a school zone.

Police also issued eight tickets for expired license plates and six for driving without a license. Another six tickets were for failure to yield right-of-way.

Four of the tickets last month were issued for failure to show proof of liability. Other tickets issued were for driving with expired driver's license, one; changing lane unsafely, one; disobeying stop sign and disobeying traffic signal, one each.

Three tickets were issued for not having a motorcycle operator's license and two for defective turn signals. One ticket was issued for displaying fictitious license plates.

One ticket each was issued for failure to control vehicle, resulting in an accident; driving without lights; exhibition of acceleration; driving the wrong way on a one-way street; and driving on the wrong side of the road way while not passing.

Arrests involving alcohol or drugs continued to lead the arrest list, according to the report, with 22 persons charged with being drunk in public, six arrested for driving while under the influence, two for possession of marijuana and one for possession of narcotics.

Two persons were arrested for simple assault and one for aggravated assault during the month, one for disorderly conduct and six arrests were made on warrants.

Police were called to investigate three thefts and a case of criminal mischief and had one incident of forgery reported during the month.

In other activity during the month, police made 461 property checks, responded to 117 alarms, assisted the county seven times and the ambulance service five times. Police served as funeral escort twice during the month.

Other calls received during the month included animals, 11; family disturbances, 13; fire, four; prowler, 29; civil disturbances, 15. There were two reports of runaways and two emergency messages. The police department received 1,065 miscellaneous calls during the month.

More than 13,000 miles was logged on the five city police vehicles during the month.

Pet Talks

By Dr. Hap Lutz

Dr. Lutz is a former instructor of diseases of dogs and cats in the college of Veterinary Medicine at Texas A&M University.

Dear Dr. Lutz,

My cat likes to chase and kill bugs, butterflies, etc., but he won't chase fireflies. Why doesn't he?

Signed,
Wonder

Dear Wonder,

Your cat probably did chase and catch one firefly, and learned a lesson. Fireflies have a repellent in them that make them taste bad. Birds won't touch them, and even lizards spit them out!

This gift the firefly has may have great survival value for man, too, if current research bears out early indications. A firefly's repellent will also ward off sharks, as it has done in laboratory experiments conducted by Dr. J. Bonaventura, Director of Marine Biomedical Center in Beaufort, N. Carolina.

He put an extract from the fireflies into a tank of seawater containing foot-long Atlantic sharpnose sharks. Within minutes, the sharks squirmed to get away. When they couldn't, they became paralyzed, belled up, and died.

He is planning on using this firefly extract in the open sea of the Outer Banks of North Carolina.

The Veterans Administration is contracting with private organizations to provide readjustment counseling services to Vietnam veterans in areas which cannot be adequately or conveniently served by existing outreach Vet Centers. VA's "Operation Outreach" is designed to offer a low-key personalized approach to Vietnam-era veterans who have experienced prolonged difficulty in adjusting to civilian life.

At the pound

This female puppy, about three or four months old, is up for adoption at Rockport's City Pound, says Animal Control Officer Dick MacMurchy. The puppy is "very friendly", is part black Labrador and will be a medium-sized dog when she's full-grown, MacMurchy added. Anyone who wants to give her a good home is asked to call MacMurchy, Monday or later, at the pound, 729-0730, or through City Hall, 729-2213.

QUOTE FOR THE WEEK!

"A musician must make music, an artist must paint, a poet must write, if he is to be ultimately at peace with himself. What a man can be, he must be."

Abraham Hamlet Maslow 1096 - 1970

Getting ready

Amelia DeLeeuw, left, library volunteer, and Eunice Hamon, head librarian at Aransas County Library, work on posters for National Library Week to be observed this week. As part of the April 19-23 observance here, Aransas County's library will have open house during library hours each day and is forgiving fines on all books returned during the week — no matter how overdue they are, Eunice said. Area residents are invited to drop by for refreshments and a look at the new books that will be on display.

Crisis in American schools is one of getting act together

RESTON (VA) — The crisis in American public education is one of getting our act together as a total society, not one of "shaping up the schools."

That's the advice of M. Donald Thomas, superintendent, Salt Lake City School District, writing in the Bulletin, a monthly journal published by the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP).

"The crisis in public education is much like it was in previous decades of our history," Thomas contended. "Education is an expression of the value conflicts that exist in general society. And today there are many of them."

Among those value conflicts in schools is the feeling that teachers should be highly qualified, but "we pay them much less than people who play guitars or chase a ball around an athletic field." He also suggested that while schools are expected to make good citizens out of students, many adults forget to vote.

What is needed, more than anything else, is a change in attitudes by everyone concerned with schools. Rather than attacking each other, it would be better for boards of education, administrators, teachers, parents and others to examine themselves, according to the author.

"Boards of education must consistently work for and insist on excellence in all that the schools do," Thomas wrote. "Boards should establish goals and standards, should reward those who achieve them and should terminate those who cannot or will not achieve them."

Governing boards also could fight for their fair share of funding, set a direction for the school system and be articulate defenders of the schools.

Thomas challenged school leaders to "work closely with parents and other social agencies. Outreach must become the norm of school operations. They (leaders) must form alliances with parents, senior citizens, business and industry, mental health services, the legislature and any organization that can help the school do its work."

Educational leaders also must establish equal opportunity and be catalysts for organization reform. The school year, school day, classroom and kindergarten through 12th grade structure could be re-viewed.

Teachers must make teaching a full-time profession, move away from unionism and hardnosed bargaining and demand high achievement.

There's also an important role for public officials and legislators, according to the Salt Lake City superintendent.

"Public officials cannot continue to use the public school as the whipping boy for all social problems," he wrote. "Rather, they should defend the schools as an important support device to a democratic society."

They should deregulate education, create a stable financial situation so educators can make decisions and liberate schools from collective negotiation laws.

"Taxpayers and parents are the beneficiaries of public schools," Thomas reported. "Without a system of free public education, taxes would be much higher than they are."

He urged citizens to have realistic expectations for schools and not to ask them to be welfare agencies, medical clinics and transportation systems as well as places of learning. Parents and taxpayers should become involved in schools, and parents should appreciate that teaching is a difficult process.

"Taxpayers in particular must understand that education produces enormous economic benefits," Thomas explained. "Each dollar spent on education produces six dollars in the gross national product."

Thousands of scholarships remain for qualified students

Cutbacks in governmental college funding have made it difficult or impossible for some students to continue their education. However, there are thousands of scholarships for which students, regardless of grades or financial need, qualify.

Students College Aid, a nationwide, computerized, scholarship locator service, locates scholarships and loans for students. Prospects phone or write the company for free information and application form.

If the student wishes to use the service she or he fills in the form as completely as possible. Such information as college major, religious affiliation, ethnic background, club membership, etc. is requested. This information is coded into the computer. The computer searches through thousands of sources and prints out the sources, qualifying characteristics, etc. to which the student is eligible to apply. This printout is mailed to the student and the student in turn contacts the funding sources.

The fee for this service is $45. There is room on the dataform so that families with more than one student can list one name, but enter information about more than one student. However, graduate and undergraduate students cannot use the same form. On the printout each student's sources are easily distinguished.

In fact Student College Aid is so certain it can locate sources of financial aid for students that it guarantees to furnish at least five listings or refund payment. The average number of listings the students receive is 12, valued at $12,000.

For free information write Student College Aid, 3641 Deal St., Houston, TX 77025 or phone (713) 668-7899. The company is listed with Houston Better Business Bureau. It's not too early for 1983 high school graduates to begin their search for funds.

Oriental rug show, sale scheduled for area

An Oriental rug show and sale has been scheduled at the Key Allegro Community Center from 11 a.m. until 6 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday, April 20-21.

The show is presented by Parvizian Inc., this country's largest direct importers of Persian and Oriental rugs.

"Today, the Oriental rug is very, very popular for future investment," said Ghassem Parvizian, vice president of the firm. He added the show here will feature rugs in price from $50 to $100,000.

Persian rugs are the best investment buys, he continued, because the Oriental rugs from Iran "are very hard to get. After the revolution, they aren't weaving anymore."

But Parvizian Inc. also sells and shows rugs from Pakistan, India, China, Afghanistan, Turkey and Rumania. Besides selling the rugs, Parvizian said he is available to give free appraisals during the show and can also give tips on how to protect the rugs. "Parvizian guarantees 100 percent trade-in on rugs," he added.

Parvizian Inc. is a family business operated by four brothers who started in Washington, D.C., in 1968. The firm now has locations in Washington, Houston, Dallas, San Antonio and in Maryland.

Although floors and area rugs are becoming a decorating trend among younger people today, Parvizian said the main reason people buy Oriental rugs is for investment.

"Oriental rugs are an art," he said. "They go with any floor, any type of furniture. And with proper care, they do what any investment is supposed to do — they become more valuable with age."

4-H scholarships available through TAMU.

Present and former 4-H members may be eligible for $5,750 in college scholarship grants if they meet certain requirements, points out Jerry Dittmar, county 4-H program coordinator with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Five of the grants, valued at $1,000 each, are primarily for young people planning careers in agriculture, or such related fields as forestry, veterinary medicine or animal science. The other scholarship, valued at $750, has no limit placed on choice of study. These scholarships are provided by private sector donors and arranged by the National 4-H Council, a non-profit organization supporting the 4-H program through private resources.

The $750 scholarship, in memory of Gertrude L. Lawwen, a pioneer 4-H leader often described as the "Mother of 4-H," is awarded to one present or former 4-H member enrolling this fall at an accredited college, university, technical or trade school. The recipient can major in any recognized field of study and must have been influenced by 4-H in selecting a future career, notes Dittmar.

A $1,000 scholarship, donated by Education Foundation of Alpha Gamma Rho, goes to a current 4-H member who will be enrolled as a college freshman this fall. The recipient must be planning to major in agriculture, forestry, veterinary medicine or a closely-related field.

Wayne Feed Division of Continental Grain Co. donates scholarships to two present or former 4-H members who will be enrolled as college juniors this fall and who plan to major in animal science.

Two former 4-H members currently enrolled in a college of veterinary medicine can receive $1,000 scholarships provided by Champion Valley Farms Inc.

All scholarship applicants must have completed at least one year of 4-H work. Winners are selected by the Extension Service and will be announced prior to the 61st National 4-H Congress, November 28 - Dec. 2, in Chicago, Ill.

Present and former 4-Hers interested in applying for these scholarships should contact the state 4-H office at Texas A&M.

Vienna bound

Chris Iles, Stephnie Allen, Brian King, Kathleen Carter, Craig McGary, Rudy Soliz and Lee Lytle

Craig McGary
I am a junior at Rockport-Fulton High School. I like choir very much and I am looking forward to the trip. I have really worked hard for the trip.

Brian King
I am a sophomore at Rockport-Fulton High School and I think Vienna will be a great experience and I am really looking forward to it. I would like to thank everybody who contributed to the trip.

Lee Lytle
My name is Lee Lytle and I am a freshman at Rockport-Fulton High School. This is my third year in choir and three years have been under the masterful direction of Mrs. Luigi. I suppose I could speak for the entire choir when I say that I am really honored to have this opportunity to go to Vienna. I know this choir has the ability and the will to work that will make us the best in the world. Who knows where we'll go from here?

Rudy Soliz
My name is Rudy Soliz and I'm a freshman at Rockport-Fulton High School. I am the only son in our family, and I have two sisters. The reason why I'm going to Vienna is because it would be an experiment to meet interesting people of a different culture and language than ours. If I can represent Rockport in sports, why not in choir?

Stephnie Allen
My name is Stephnie Allen and I am a sophomore at R.F.H.S. I have three brothers and two sisters. My father works at Bakers Marina. My mother prepares income tax returns. I want to go to Vienna because I feel it would be an enriching experience.

I have done babysitting, cleaning houses and yard work to raise money for the trip. It has been fun just raising the money. We all are thankful for all the support the community has given us.

Some of us in the choir are not going, but everybody has participated in the events that we have done all year.

Kathleen Carter
My name is Kathleen Carter. I am a freshman at Rockport-Fulton High. I am on the Junior-Varsity tennis team at R-F and sing alto II in the choir. My interests are mainly music and tennis. I play the piano in my spare time. And, on weekends when I'm not at a tennis tournament, I ride my horse.

I think it will be the most exciting thing for our choir to go to Vienna. I believe that it's not just the choir that's going, but it's the spirit of our school and community that will go with us. It's about time that our town is noticed for something that is worthwhile. I think Rockport should be proud.

Between school activities and odd jobs I'm planning what things to take, what the next choir project is, etc. But I think that the person who is most taken for granted in our choir has the courage, faith and trust in us to send us across the world to one of the highest honors ever received by a choir. So I would like to take a small part of my section of this article to notice her, for all the hard work and effort she has put forth for our choir. That person is Mrs. Martha Luigi. I hope that she is as proud of us as we are of her. We couldn't have had this honor without her.

Chris Iles
My name is Chris Iles. I am a junior in high school. I have been looking forward to touring Europe for almost a year.

When in Europe I want to meet as many people and learn as much about European culture as I can.

The citizens of Rockport have been more than generous in their efforts to see us young people do something good for the community. I would like to take this opportunity to thank each person who has helped financially or otherwise. It is reassuring to see that the people in Rockport care about the youth of this community.

Sheriff's report Revolver stolen from store

A .38 special revolver valued at $236 was reported taken from Larry's Tackle Town sometime between 8:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 13.

Tackle Town owner Larry Hoffman told deputies the gun was on display in a counter when he opened his business Tuesday morning but that when he started to get something else from that counter Tuesday afternoon, the weapon was gone.

Deputies said the thief had to open the display case from behind to get the gun.

Burglaries
A scuba set and two television sets were taken in two separate burglaries in Aransas County earlier this month.

The scuba gear, including tank, wetsuits, fins and mask and valued at $1,232, was taken when the residence of Joe Pena was burglarized between April 6 and April 8.

Also taken in that burglary were a television set and banjo valued at $150 each and a guitar valued at $500.

Another TV set valued at $385, and a stereo set valued at $195 were taken when the H.L. Woodbury residence was burglarized on April 6 or 7.

Criminal mischief
Tod L. Mokry reported someone slashed the tires on his car sometime Saturday, April 10, while the vehicle was parked at the Mokry residence on Yucala Lane.

In another incident of criminal mischief, someone attempted to remove the lock from the door of Jitney Jr. Grocery Store on FM 881.

Deputies said the lock was apparently struck several times, entry was not made and no other damage was done to the property. The incident occurred around April 4 or 5.

Country Harvest at rehearsal

Things are beginning to happen for the Country Harvest Band

When Mike Sydow says the Country Harvest Band is "the hottest new band in South Texas", it's like the old saying "no brag, just fact."

The country-western band, with members Sydow, Bob Christian, Bill Morgan, Fidel Garcia, Jeanie West and Don Gillum, has enjoyed quite a success the past few months. Country Harvest has played all the local clubs and was also featured during Oysterfest. Says

Christian, "It took quite a while, but things are beginning to really pick up."

Basically, the band is a four-piece group with Sydow handling lead vocals, rhythm guitar and pedal steel; Christian on lead guitar, Morgan on bass guitar and Garcia on drums. West, on piano, bass and vocals and Gillum on vocals and guitar, often perform with the band.

"Some of us have been playing together for a couple of years now," says Christian. The entire band has been together for three months. They enjoy playing locally, but are looking forward to going out of town.

All members hold "regular" jobs and for that reason, they usually play weekend dates. They are always available for private parties, weddings and other occasions.

While they stick mostly to country western - as Christian jokes "we play both kinds of music, country and western -" they do some rock and roll.

so there's something for everyone. All the band members have "years of experience," says Christian.

Looming in the future are recording plans and more songwriting activity from the team of Christian and Sydow.

Country Harvest Band will be playing in several local clubs during the next couple of weeks. So, take some time out and go see "the hottest new band in South Texas."

Distributors present grant check

Representatives from Associated Beer Distributors of Corpus Christi recently presented a $4,000 check to Coastal Bend Families in Action.

The check is a grant to fund alcohol and drug education programs conducted by Families in Action.

A spokesman for the beer distributors said, "We've established this grant to encourage responsible decision-making about alcohol and drugs. We feel the best way to prevent alcohol abuse is not through restrictive measures but through education and support of programs that promote responsible choices in the use of alcohol. Our support of Families in Action is part of our commitment to seeing that alcohol is not abused."

Elia Prichard, president of Families in Action, said that the grant will be used to bring in experts in the field to train Families in Action volunteers, Parent Peer Group representatives and area professionals who work with children.

"This grant, along with our initial funding from the Junior League of Corpus Christi, is by far our biggest gift to date. This will enable us to conduct truly outstanding seminars and meetings that will greatly enhance our efforts to make the public aware of the problem of juvenile drug use," Mrs. Prichard said.

"With more than 90 percent of our high school seniors using alcohol, we are delighted that the beer distributors share our concern about juvenile alcohol use, drinking to get drunk and drunken driving. We commend them for their concern."

Members of the distributors organization include Barry Andrews, Hutch Bryan, Dusty Durrell, Sammy Kins, Peter McNally, Sam Simpson and Derrest Williams.

MOST EFFICIENT SPEEDProbation conference is this week

Adult probation has the protection of the community as its first priority and its a cost-efficient alternative to placing a person in jail or prison.

That is what Don R. Stiles, Executive Director of the Texas Adult Probation Commission will tell the Texas Probation Association when they hold their 7th Annual Conference in Corpus Christi April 18-20.

With the state's prison system ordered by a federal court to reduce overcrowding and an expensive prison building program underway, Stiles' comments are very timely. Scheduled on the Conference agenda Monday at 1:15 p.m., Mr. Stiles' remarks on "Current Issues in Adult Probation" will focus on recently analyzed financial data about adult probation and some proposals being considered for the legislative session this coming January.

His agency, the Texas Adult Probation Commission, was established by the Legislature in 1977 to make probation services available throughout the State, to improve the effectiveness of those services, to establish uniform probation administration, and to provide financial aid to judicial districts for the establishment and improvement of probation services and community-based correctional programs and facilities other than jails or prisons. The agency's governing body, the nine member Commission, consists of six district judges and three citizen members. Appointments to the Commission are made by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Texas and the Presiding Judge of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Governor William P. Clements is also scheduled to appear at the probation conference Monday, at 3:45 p.m. Governor Clements, an advocate of community protection through responsible community corrections, will share his legislative observations.

The conference, expected to draw nearly 300 probation professionals, will be held in the convention center complex of the Holiday Inn Emerald Beach in Corpus Christi.

Taming the untamable Wisteria plant

Wisteria is one of the most glamorous, hardy vines with long lavender racemes hanging like clusters of ripened grapes. But after its blossoms fade, wisteria often passes unnoticed. Even the most avid gardeners seem to overlook the fascinating trunk and lower branches prominent in winter when the wisteria leaves have fallen.

There is a compelling beauty in the twisting and twining stems of any aged vine - a bittersweet, an actinidia, a Dutchman's pipe - but more so in wisteria.

Wisteria must be pruned. Without pruning, plants will choke and strangle trees, rip down spouts, trellises, and arbors and get under shingles on the roofs of houses. Vines are so vigorous that they will take over anywhere, undermining porch and balcony railings, climbing several stories to embrace chimneys. Yet, if it is pruned regularly, wisteria can be kept under control.

For abundant bloom wisteria should be in a sunny location. Vines will prosper even in quite deep shade, but blooms will be sparse.

The kind of soil is not important, but wisteria will respond to soil that is well prepared with plenty of peat moss, compost, dry manure, or shredded bark or leaves added. At the bottom of the hole scatter a few handfuls of bonemeal or superphosphate, slow acting fertilizer of 5-10-5.

Bare-rooted plants should be set out in the early spring, making sure that the hole is large enough to accommodate the full spread of the roots. Plants in containers can be set out any time during the growing season, but either fall or spring is an ideal time. Feed established vines in the early spring or late fall after the leaves have fallen, using a crowbar to get the fertilizer deep into the ground. Both bonemeal and superphosphate are excellent because they are slow acting, noncaustic fertilizer that promote the formation of flower buds.

Wisteria will need some kind of support. This may be a trellis, an arbor, a post, or fence, but the support should be strong.

adopted hurricane requirements," Henry said.

Also coming under the code will be public and private piers although — in a change from an earlier proposed version — the code will not set height requirements on private piers.

For public piers, the height of the decking above mean tide level will be determined at the discretion of the city council.

Any pier, public or private, must be constructed using treated or naturally decay-resistant wood pilings, and the posts must be no less than five inches in diameter. Any pier that has been "substantially damaged" must be repaired or replaced within one year after the owner of the pier is notified of the damage by the city.

The code sets up a building code board of appeals that will consist of one architect or engineer, one general contractor and two members at large from the building industry, all to be appointed by the city council.

Henry said a person will have 30 days to make an appeal before the board and the board must reach a decision within 45 days.

If the board of appeals decides against the appellant, that person will have 15 days to appeal to the city council and if his appeal is denied there, he may then go to civil court under provisions of the ordinance.

Request

maximum of $300 — if that much."

Alderman Cole asked for a discussion of the request, recalling that the Cemetery Association had appeared before the council last year seeking funds and their request had been denied on the basis that the city could not legally donate money to that organization.

"Why didn't Fulton give them (the Cemetery Association) money?" Cole asked. "If we can't give to the Cemetery Association, I can't see giving to the Little League."

Lee explained the Cemetery Association has no formal organization. You have to have an entity that can receive funds and they didn't have an organization that could."

A woman in the audience questioned the legality of a city giving money to the Little League under Texas laws and was told by Lee that money could be given for a public purpose.

"This (the Little League) is a public purpose, similar in nature to the volunteer fire departments."

This drew protests from several people in the audience who objected to the comparison between the Little League organization and the volunteer fire department.

Lee said the Little League conforms to state law requirements because "hopefully, it's very clear there is some public service being provided" by the Little League organization.

Fultonite Kirk Holman, a member of the audience, asked, "Can't you take this up in a workshop?" and another Fulton resident, Kathy Bohn, said, "I don't think you should give tax money" to the Little League. She expressed concern that this could set precedent for organizations such as the Girl and Boy Scouts.

Dietz moved to table the matter and call a workshop. The motion was seconded by Alderwoman Katherine McLester and carried 5-0.

Also passing by a 5-0 vote was an ordinance raising the insurance limits required of taxicab companies wanting to operate in Fulton. The old ordinance set a $5,000 minimum on insurance; the new insurance requirement is a $100,000/$300,000 minimum.

The ordinance adopted Tuesday night also would require any applicant for a taxicab permit in Fulton to submit a sheriff's office teletype showing his or her driving/accident/arrest record and increase the fine for violations from $100 to $200 per day.

In other action Tuesday night, the council noted donation of a copying machine to the city by Mayor Casterline and approved the monthly cash report and payment of bills.

It's Our Anniversary At Our New Location And...

Now's Your Time To Save!!

Jenn-Air's Grill-Range puts the sizzling, outdoor flavor you love into steaks, chops, chicken...

Any meat you prepare on a Jenn-Air tastes better because Jenn-Air's exclusive Char-Flavor grill cooks juicy, outdoor flavor into every bite. Permanent "Flavor Rocks" turn natural juices into curls of smoke that delicately bathe the meat as it grills. Smoke and odors are then quietly whisked away by the powerful built-in surface ventilation system. The result is meat that is golden brown on the outside, tender, hot and juicy on the inside. And, a kitchen that remains clean and fresh! Jenn-Air lets you do a lot more than grilling, too, with an array of deluxe accessories. Love the taste of meat grilled to char-flavored perfection? You deserve a Jenn-Air Grill-Range.
