Air Mail Halved To Vietnam

By CARL D. ROBINSON,
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The postal workers' strike in the United States is cutting air mail to American servicemen in Vietnam in half, according to military officials.

And the mail that arrives slows down here. Military postal units have to sort out the bulk loads normally broken down by civilian workers in the United States.

Officials said surface mail has not been affected by the strike yet, but postal authorities expect delays in coming weeks, after ships now en route arrive in Vietnam.

Mail for American forces in South Vietnam averages more than 6,000 tons a month. Between 1,000 and 2,000 tons are sent the other way every month.

The officials said outbound mail is piling up at receiving points in the United States.

Air mail sent through the military postal system ordinarily reaches servicemen here within four days after having been sent.

It is handled through San Francisco and Seattle, where if is sorted according to Army post offices (APO), each of which has its own zip code. Then it is flown to Vietnam aboard contracted commercial airliners.

Higher classes of mail are being given priority for shipment and delivery in Vietnam during the postal crisis, with parcels going into storage in San Francisco and Seattle for handling after the strike ends and the main crush is cleared, the officials said.

Despite the severe curtailment of mail to Vietnam, officials said, the situation is not as bad as that affecting military system mail to Europe.

"That's really fouled up because it goes out through New York," one postal officer said.

Mail Situation Looks Better

By JAMES PHILLIPS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon arranged a 2 p.m. EST television statement to the nation today as more than 180,000 postal workers remained on strike for higher pay disrupting the mail service.

The Post Office Department, reporting a figure of 183,307 workers idle, said another 51,124 who had been on strike had returned to work. A postal spokesman said the situation "looks encouraging," despite the continued absence of strikers in some key cities.

The great majority of postal workers did not walk out and remained on the job.

The great majority of the nearly 750,000 postal workers did not walk out and remained on the job.

The department said a total of 59 cities, including Boston and Buffalo, which were closed by the strike Saturday reopened this morning.

Besides arranging for television time, Nixon summoned congressional leaders of both parties to the White House an hour ahead of his statement. Presumably he wanted to discuss his plans with them in advance.

The White House gave no indication, however, what the President would say or what steps he would take to keep the mail moving.

Nixon has said he would take whatever emergency action was necessary to keep the mails moving.

Plans were being prepared for using National Guard and regular Army units to supplement postal forces, but there was no indication on how soon a decision might be made on whether to use them.

In New York, where the strike started last week, a regional post office spokesman said "the work stoppage is still on." Only 14 of 208 clerks and one of 182 carriers showed up for the 6 a.m. shift at the main post office.

Chicago carriers also remained out, but Postmaster Henry W. McGee said first-class mail, at least, would go through with or without them. He said supervisory personnel would sort and handle the first class mail, if necessary.

At Philadelphia, nearly half of the 450 postal clerks normally at work on the early shift went to work at the main post office and some carriers also reported. One official said: "There are a lot of clerks and mail handlers back on the job."

Rail Hearings Resume Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress resumes hearings today in the deadlocked nationwide railroad labor dispute that could erupt in another coast-to-coast strike threat April 11.

Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz has been called to testify before the House Commerce Committee on the dispute involving four AFL-CIO unions that represent some 45,000 shopcraft workers.

A nationwide strike would throw all 575,000 rail workers off the job and quickly paralyze many other industries dependent on rail supply.

Congress hastily enacted a 37-day strike ban to head off a strike threat March 4, expiring April 11, and urged negotiators to seek a peaceful settlement.

But two attempts of the Nixon administration to get negotiations going again flopped when the key union blocking a settlement, the Sheet Metal Workers, refused to attend.

Industrial Drive Makes New Surge

The Scurry County Industrial Foundation's fund drive got another push this morning as 10 additional contributors were listed, pushing the total to $35,540.

Officials of the foundation hoped that the pace would quicken this week so that the $100,000 objective could be reached soon.

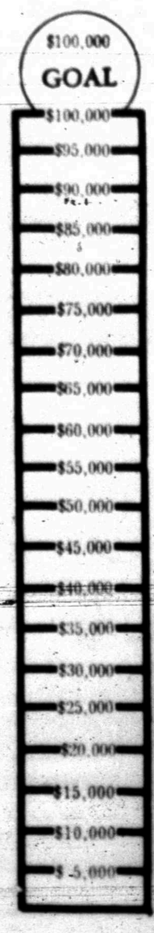

Emphasis is being renewed on individual contributions. Bill Wilson, the foundation's financial campaign chairman, said that pledge cards are available at both local banks. Herdtofore, most contributions have come from business firms. They hope many other businesses will contribute along with individuals.

Pledges are accepted from those who wish to divide the contributions between two years, paying half now and half after next Jan. 1. Individuals as well as businesses are invited to

BUT PROMISES FINANCIAL AID

US Denies Israel's Request For Jets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers told congressional leaders today the administration is refusing, for now, Israel's request for new warplanes—but added that the United States will advance that nation some $100 million in new financial aid.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said Rogers came to the Capitol to brief Senate leaders of both parties on the decision he will announce later today.

Scott said Rogers told the leaders the decision against sending Israel new jet warplanes now was made by President Nixon, "based on the belief that Israel is far supperior in military strength to the Arab nations."

The Pennsylvania senator quoted Rogers as saying that if the balance of power should shift, the U.S. decision could be reversed.

Scott said the United States will be prepared to provide Israel with additional and replacement aircraft promptly, "if the situation requires it."

He described the $100 million in new aid to Israel as coming from military funds, but said it would be described as economic aid.

"As far as I know, it will simply be aid of a kind Israel needs to bolster its economic and military stance," Scott said.

Scott also said he personally disagreed with the decision against sending warplanes to Israel. "I myself believe Israel should be sold the jets now," Scott said.

Rogers has a news conference later today.

President Nixon, in an informal meeting with newsmen Saturday, spelled out the reasoning behind the administration's long-awaited decision on Israel's bid, though he left the actual announcement up to Rogers.

Nixon termed it an interim decision based on the current U.S. analysis of the military balance in the Mideast, and he warned that upsetting that balance could raise the danger of war.

He said the recently reported Soviet shipments of new SAM3 antiaircraft missiles and military personnel to Egypt have not significantly shifted the balance, nor are future French deliveries of some 100 modern Mirage jets to Libya earmarked for action against Israel.

"What I am saying basically," Nixon said, "is that the United States intends to continue to watch the Mideast situation to see whether further shipments of arms or personnel to the Mideast does tip the balance in a way that it would be necessary for us to provide some assistance—additional assistance—to Israel, so that they would not be in an inferior position."

Ruling Due Today On Rock Festival

DICKENS, Tex. (AP) — A Dickens farmer, T. J. Conway, went to court today seeking a temporary restraining order to keep the controversial Southwest 70 Peace Festival from being held on his farm.

Conway claims he already has under lease the land rented for the music festival. Conway said he misunderstood the terms of a verbal agreement with a Lubbock, Tex., lawyer for the use of the 32 acres he operates 14 miles northeast of this tiny West Texas town.

The festival is scheduled to begin Thursday and state police said rock music fans already had started setting up camps near the site, four miles up a narrow farm road off U.S. 82.

Dist. Judge Pat S. Moore indicated she would issue a ruling today in 110th District Court.

Many of the 400 residents here were angered when they learned the festival was scheduled near them, fearing a mass invasion of long-haired, pot-smoking hippies.

"We don't want this thing here," County Judge Martin Pope said. "The people here resent this thing very, very much.

"There isn't any panic, but we're extremely upset over this thing. We've been telling our people to just stay home and off the streets while this thing is going on."

A spokesman for the Atlantis Productions in Lubbock, Robert Gamble said the young people want no trouble but want to be left alone "to do our thing."

Gamble said his firm was cooperating with state police and planned to have Red Cross authorities on hand for those suffering from the ill effects of drugs.

Gamble listed some of the bands to appear as Canned Heat, The Beasts, Blood Rock, The Byrds, The Zephyr, The Joe Kelly Blues Band, Muddy Water, The Ranger Flying Circus, Johnny Winter and Sweetwater.

Victor Ruiz Dies Today

Victor Ruiz, 69, a resident of Snyder for the past 31 years, died at 9:05 a.m. today in Cogdell Memorial ospital.

He was a native of Mexico, but had moved here in 1939.

Funeral rites have been set for 10 a.m. Wednesday at Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church, with Fr. Herman Valladares officiating. Burial will be in the Snyder Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Surviving are his wife; five daughters, Mrs. Betty Vasques, Mrs. Paul Hernandez and Mary Ann Ruiz, all of Snyder, Mrs. Willie Torres of Eaton, Colo., and Mrs. Manuel Lopez of Littlefield; six brothers, Guadalupe Ruiz of Hamlin, Andy Ruiz of Billings, Mont., Prudencio Ruiz of Colorado City, Nabel Ruiz of Greeley, Colo., Raymond and Jesse James Ruiz, both of Oklahoma; a brother, Adolfo Ruiz, and 37 grandchildren.

Welfare Ruling Issued By Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled 5 to 3 today that people on welfare have a right to a formal, evidentiary hearing before officials may decide to reduce or end their assistance.

The decision, by Justice William J. Brennan Jr., emphasized that public assistance "is not mere charity." Its dispensation, then, he said, must be governed by constitutional procedures.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger dissented along with Justices Hugo L. Black and Potter Stewart.

The hearing must provide an opportunity for the welfare recipient to appear in person to present evidence to support his claim for continued assistance and to confront or cross-examine witnesses against him, Brennan said.

Speaking of the New York procedure under study by the high court, Brennan said: "These omissions are fatal to the constitutional adequacies of the procedures."

In other actions today, the court:

—Agreed to decide whether the Swedish film "I Am Curious (Yellow)" is obscene.

—Turned down unanimously requests for a drastic reduction in the bail of 12 Black Panthers who have been charged in New York City with plotting to bomb police stations, department stores and railroad facilities.

—Granted a hearing to the State of Wisconsin in its effort to keep alive a law that makes it a crime to serve liquor to allegedly excessive drinkers.

Speaking of the New York welfare procedures under study by the high court, Brennan said: "These omissions are fatal to the constitutional adequacy of the procedures."

Justice Black, in dissent, said the ruling means states are helpless to stop payments to people on relief who are not entitled to the benefits.

"I do not believe," he said, "there is any provision in our Constitution that should thus paralyze the government's efforts to protect itself against making payments to people who are not entitled to them."

Chief Justice Burger said the decision could create an "administrative morass" and added: "I would not suggest that the procedures of administering the nation's complex welfare programs are beyond the reach of courts, but I would wait until more is known about the problems before fashioning solutions in the rigidity of a constitutional holding."

Justice Stewart, in a one-sentence dissent, said he found the issue a close one but did not agree with the majority that New York's procedures violate the Constitution.

At the same time, and by the same vote, the court ruled unconstitutional California's procedure for reviewing welfare cases before suspending aid. Similar cases are pending in Iowa, Texas, Georgia and Florida, and the ruling is expected to have national implications.

The decision was a major victory for welfare and poverty lawyers. In recent years they have won rulings from the high court that struck down one-year residence requirements and protected the rights of mothers to receive aid even though a man was living with them.

Wife speaks out on fidelity

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: The women in our small club were having a frank discussion about husbands stepping out, and I made the statement that I could forgive my husband if I caught him stepping out on me [I mean a one-night stand, not a serious affair of any duration], but I wouldn't put up with his spending money on another woman when there were things his family needed.

They all thought I was some kind of nut. Please don't misunderstand, Abby. I wouldn't encourage my husband to step out on me, but as long as I get my share of affection at home, I don't see why I should throw him out if he has a little extra fun at no expense to his family. But with money, it's a different story. Just let him deprive me or the children of anything money can buy because he spent it on another woman, and I'd lock him out. How do you feel about this, Abby?

MARGE

DEAR MARGE: For the first 50 years I'd demand 100 per cent fidelity. After that, I'd be a little more generous.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have some close friends. We have agreed to be the guardians for their children in case something happens to them, and they shall do the same for ours.

These people are dedicated to a religious movement in which teams of lay people spend the week-end in a church, leading prayer groups and church services.

We have a lot of respect and admiration for their devotion to their religion, but do not wish to participate.

So far, we have always been able to come up with a valid excuse for not accepting their invitations to go to these church meetings, but we fear the day when we've run out of excuses, and there will be a showdown.

How can we get out of going and still maintain our friendship with these people?

KENTUCKIANS

DEAR KENTUCKIANS: Don't wait for a showdown. Tell your friends that you do not care to participate in their religious activities. If you are sufficiently "close" for a reciprocal guardianship agreement, it seems to me you should be able to speak candidly without fear of damaging your friendship.

DEAR ABBY: When I was 13 years old, two other girls and I were caught taking a few cheap items from the cosmetic counter of a department store. They took us to the manager's office and we had to give them our names and addresses. We were told that they were going to call our parents, but fortunately, they never did.

Of course we gave back everything we had taken, and we promised that we would never set foot in that store again, and I know, I never did. We also promised we'd never steal another thing. I kept that promise.

Now I am 22 years old and in filling out a job application, I understand the question "Have you ever been arrested" is asked. If I come across it, how should I answer?

SANTA ANA

DEAR SANTA ANA: Say NO. You were only caught and warned. That is not the same as being "arrested."

Spring Weather Covers Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Spring has begun to do its thing in Texas as fair weather continues across the state following a beautiful Palm Sunday.

High cloudiness stretched across the state early this morning with all stations reporting clear or partly cloudy skies except Victoria, Palacios, Del Rio, and Laredo, which were cloudy.

Early morning temperatures mostly ranged from the 30s over the Panhandle and portions of West Texas to the low 50s in the the south portions and along the Rio Grande Valley. Dalhart had a 26 for the low and Brownsville 51 was the early morning high.

The general outlook for tonight is for lows in the low 40s with Southwest Texas west of the Pecos and Northwest Texas dipping to the near freezing mark.

Court Will Decide On Swedish Film

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed today to decide whether "I Am Curious (Yellow)" is obscene.

The Swedish film has been banned in several states and is under challenge in others. Meanwhile, more than 2½ million Americans have seen it in states where exhibition of the film is legal.

The court will hear an appeal by Grove Press, Inc., the importer and owner of American distribution rights. The appeal challenges Maryland's motion picture censorship law and seeks a ruling that officials everywhere may not prevent adults from seeing any movie in an American theater.

At the same time, the court agreed to review a ruling in Boston that banned showing of the movie.

Last April the court held possession of obscene films or printed matter at home cannot be considered a crime. Grove Press seeks to extend this ruling to public exhibition of movies.

Census Form Distribution Is Scheduled

Questionnaires for the 1970 Census of Population and Housing will be distributed by the Post Office beginning March 28 to all households in this area, District Manager B. L. McCasland announced today.

Distribution of this form before the start of the house-to-house canvass gives the family a chance to assemble information about each member and about the house in advance of the census taker's visit. The District Manager urges all residents to fill out the forms and have them ready for the census takers when they start their rounds on April 1.

The form contains 7 questions about every person in the household and 13 questions about the dwelling. The personal information asked for is: name, address, sex, color or race, month and year of birth, whether married or single, and relationship to head of the household. The information required about the dwelling is: number of rooms, cooking facilities, plumbing, if rented or owned.

Most of the questions are answered by filling in the proper tiny circle with a common lead pencil, making a tiny black dot which can be "read" by Census Bureau machines. Residents should read the instruction sheet which will come with the questionnaire before filling it out.

The census taker will check the questionnaire to see that all questions have been answered and will give any assistance needed in filling out a questionnaire that is incomplete. At every fifth household, the census taker will seek answers to additional questions covering population and housing characteristics that are being asked of a 20 percent sample of the Nation's population. The sample questions include inquiries on country of birth, schooling, employment, income, and related items. The additional housing questions relate to rent or value of dwelling, heating equipment, water supply, and other facilities and equipment.

The District Manager pointed out that information about individuals and their homes furnished to the Census Bureau is kept confidential under Federal law. Only statistical totals and averages are published. No individual person can be indentified in published reports and census information cannot be given to any other Government agency, local officials, tax collectors, police, health, welfare, or school officers, nor to anyone else.

SEATTLE (AP) — Investigators have several "very good leads" in their probe into an arson-caused hotel fire that claimed 20 lives here last Friday, Fire Marshal Stephen MacPherson said Sunday.

He said investigators are searching for persons believed involved in the fire which raced through the five-story Ozark Hotel.

The King County Medical Examiner's Office said Sunday three of the victims have not been positively identified and not even tentative identifications are available on two others.

One Hurt In Mishap Here

Elmer G. Armstrong, 66, General Delivery, Snyder, sustained minor injuries in a two-vehicle collision in the 2800 block of Avenue L at 1:17 p.m. Sunday, police reported.

Officers who investigated the mishap said he refused medical attention.

Officers said Armstrong was driving a 1965 Model Dodge that was in collision with a 1955 Model Chevrolet Stationwagon driven by George Kenneth Kramer, 1205 Twenty-eighth Street. Damage to each vehicle was placed at $175.

Another mishap occurred at 1:17 p.m. Saturday on a parking lot in the 1600 block of Twenty-sixth Street.

Damage to the parked 1969 Model Oldsmobile of Mrs. Golda Thorpe, 2905 Thirty-fifth Street, was set at $40. Damage to the other vehicle — a 1963 Model Ford driven by Irma Giddens Haddox, Route 3 — was negligible.

Police Patrolman D. D. Tullis investigated the mishap that occurred Saturday. Police Patrolman A. T. Sumrall investigated the other one.

Earthquake Hits India Sea Port

BOMBAY, India (AP) — An earthquake rocked the Arabian Sea port of Broach, 200 miles north of Bombay today, killing 14 persons and injuring 79.

About 200 houses were damaged in the shock, which was felt in Bombay.

The tremor caused widespread alarm in Bombay because it coincided with the Hindu spring festival of Holi.

The Gujarat state government ordered relief measures and all public servants in the affected areas were recalled to duty.

The bridge spanning the Marmada river outside Broach, which carries the Bombay to New Delhi rail road line, was undamaged, first reports said.

Maharashtra State police said no tremors had been felt near the Kouna dam, 250 miles east of Bombay where a quake took 210 lives three years ago.

Carswell Opposition Growing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former Supreme Court justice has declared Judge G. Harrold Carswell "is not fit" to serve on the high court.

Arthur J. Goldberg, who seeks the Democratic nomination for governor of New York, broke a long silence on the Carswell nomination when asked if he considered President Nixon's nominee qualified.

The former Supreme Court justice made the statement Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., today was expected to call for the return of Carswell's nomination to the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Harris, who first made the suggestion Sunday on the Metromedia Radio News program "Profile," planned to repeat the plea in a speech on the Senate floor. Harris said the committee should have the opportunity to question a former associate of Carswell in the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals who declined to support the nominee.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, announced today he will vote against confirmation of Carswell. That brought to 25 the number of announced Carswell opponents. Forty senators have announced support for the nomination.

Church said Carswell's record as a federal judge "has been utterly pedestrian in character."

"Above all, the court calls for jurists whose comprehension of the Constitution is as profound as their duty to uphold it is imperative," Church said in a speech prepared for the Senate. "As measured against these criteria, George Harrold Carswell is indubitably deficient."

Church said the Senate should apply a special standard in judging a nominee for the Supreme Court, "one of singular excellence." He said Carswell does not meet that test.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that a half-dozen of Carswell's firmest backers may have to interrupt a mission to Monte Carlo for the Senate vote on confirmation.

Comedy On Suburbia

THE ROAD. By Henry Bettle Hough. Harcourt, Brace. $5.95.

Hough's novel is set in a small New England town where the natives, traditionally individualistic and covetous of their privacy (but at the same time capable of transmitting gossip faster than radio) have had to put up with the encroachment of the suburbanites.

The narrator is Gid Lester, a semi-retired executive. He and his wife Katie, a sharp-minded female, live on a country lane which leads nowhere except to an abandoned cranberry bog. They share the lane with Henry Spinney, a crusty old boy who is a retired pilot for the Fall River steamboat line, and Barry and Gretchen Johnson, who are dreadfully typical of the suburbanite mentality.

There is a commotion over converting the lane into a through highway; the backers are real estate, business people and politicians who would profit from such a project. The narrative brings in a professor of uncertain connections and the Johnsons' teen-age daughter, who is smarter than her years.

There is a lot of comedy in this novel, and plenty of social satire. It contains a decided flavor of New England's salty humor, but it also has the universal appeal of a comic view of human frailties. Hough is a good story teller.

Former Beat's Advice: Identify With Religion

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

When the Pied Piper of a neighborhood gets religion, his followers may not be far behind.

In one community, the trend-setting hero of the youth crowd—the first among his peers to adopt the beard, shaggy hairdo and unpressed pants associated with the hippies—returned to the scene after an absence of several years.

He was clean-shaven, well-dressed, polite and articulate. His former friends didn't recognize him.

"I've found faith," he told them at once, as if to ease the shock.

"Faith in what?" asked one girl.

"I've become a Baptist. I teach Sunday school and I go to church suppers," he said chuckling at the young people's reactions.

They were dumbstruck, but they listened as he described the experiences that led to his "enlightenment."

The day he had left the community, driving away in an old car his father had given him years before, he was "beat." He didn't have a job; he was in debt to everyone he knew.

"I had hoped to join a youth commune," he recalled. "I had a few dollars but trouble with the car really was eating up my bread," he said falling back on the slang of his "beat" days.

"I decided to ride South until all the money gave out and then to try to beg a little ..."

"In a little town, right in front of a church, my car gave up for lack of gas. I went into the church to look for help. The preacher offered gas money and invited me to spend the night. I did, and I've been in that town ever since."

Instead of just taking the gas money, he decided to help out the preacher by doing a few chores. Soon, people were offering him odd jobs, and "since they were so nice, I decided 'Why not?'"

There was a little cottage on the church grounds. He was told if he could repair it, he could live in it free until he had a steady job.

He spent a whole day cleaning the cottage, repairing the roof and floors. The next day he went off to one of his odd-jobs.

"When I came home that night, it was like great," he said. "The ladies had washed the cottage windows waxed the furniture and put up pretty yellow curtains and a yellow rug on the floor. And there was a chicken pie cooking in the oven. It was as if the sunshine had been let into my life."

He sat down that night and cried with joy, he says. "Why do I want to stay in this town?" he asked himself. Then he supplied his own answers.

"They were showing me what it was like to be a person instead of a thing ... a drifting thing. Human beings must learn to cherish dignity to earn their self-respect."

Religion is a new experience for him, he explained.

"My parents always wanted me to go to church, but they didn't try hard enough. They should have insisted but I was cynical and I used to laugh at them. If they had persisted I may not have continued going to church, but I would have thought about it, and maybe some of it would have brushed off."

His experience provided something he says he thought he had lost-hope.

Tobacco Export Prospects Bright

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite some reduction in cigarette smoking by Americans, the rest of the world seems to be puffing away more than ever, the Agriculture Department said today.

Thus prospects continue bright for U.S. tobacco exports if American growers keep producing high-quality products at competitive prices.

A report by the Foreign Agricultural Service estimates world puffing last year at a record high of around 153 billion packs.

This was a 3 per cent gain from 1968, reported Joseph R. Williams and Charles J. O'Mara, FAS tobacco analysts.

The department earlier had estimated U. S. cigarette consumption down about 2 per cent last year. Per capita American smoking in 1969 was estimated at about 202 packs compared with 209 in 1968.

In all, Americans smoked about 535 billion cigarettes last year, or more than one-sixth of total world consumption of 3.064 trillion.

There was no estimate of world per capita smoking comparable to U.S. figures, Williams told a reporter.

The rise in world cigarette smoking has been steady. In the early 1960s the average annual total was 2.4 trillion cigarettes. This rose to 2.7 trillion in 1965 and by about 100 billion a year since.

Williams and O'Mara said world cigarette output is expected to continue rising although growth may not be as rapid as in recent years. And the U.S. tobacco industry is expected to share in the increase.

"The American blend requiring high-quality tobacco is a symbol of prestige," the report said, "and rapidly increasing in most areas where the standard of living is going up, especially in countries like Italy, France, Spain and Brazil."

Exports of U.S. unmanufactured tobacco products have set records in recent years and are expected to continue high. Last fiscal year foreign sales totaled $507 million and may almost equal the mark in 1969-70, the department says.

The United States also is a big shipper of ready-to-smoke cigarettes, with more than 25 billion exported last year. This was down 5 per cent from the 1968 peak, but still 8 per cent more than average.

British smokers are traditionally the best customers of American tobacco growers, the FAS report said. Last year the United Kingdom bought $147 million worth of U.S. tobacco.

The report said 23 million persons in Great Britain buy 10 billion cigarettes per month.

"Cigarettes, in fact, the only item bought oftener than bread and milk, account for about six per cent of consumer expenditure," the report said.

New Treatment Found For Hyaline Membrane Disease

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
AP Science Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A cancer researcher has reported what may be an effective new treatment for Hyaline Membrane disease, the premature infant's affliction that took the life of president John F. Kennedy's second son.

Dr. Clara M. Ambrus said 100 infants have been treated with an enzyme preparation that resulted in a tripling of the survival rate of the smallest of the "preemies."

Hyaline membrane disease is a respiratory ailment that is the major cause of death in premature infants in the United States.

And, Dr. Ambrus said, it is "an important contributor to the unfortunate fact that in terms of (infant) survival rate, we are only 13th among the nations."

President Kennedy's son, Patrick, died in 1963 of Hyaline Membrane disease.

Dr. Ambrus, principal research scientist at Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, N.Y., described the new treatment Sunday to a science writers' seminar being held by the American Cancer Society.

The Hyaline Membranes coat the inner surface of the lungs and appear to consist primarily of fibrin, a fibrous protein material, Dr. Ambrus said.

Premature infants with their undeveloped systems, are unable to dissolve fibrin deposits in their lungs, Dr. Ambrus said, with the result that breathing is impaired.

In related work, Dr. Ambrus reported that Hyaline Membrane disease occurs not only in premature infants, but also in infants born from mothers with bleeding complications from pregnancy and infants born of diabetic mothers.

"Thus," she said, "the three categories of infants which have the greatest risk of Hyaline Membrane disease were found to have a specific biochemical deficiency which may explain their increased susceptibility to Hyaline Membrane disease."

The enzyme preparation used to treat the premature infants was made from human blood plasma and was an outgrowth of basic cancer research on leukemia. The treatment also may apply to blood clotting.

The treatment, however is expensive and it is difficult to produce the enzyme material. Each infant who was treated required about $2,000 in medication alone.

Dr. Ambrus said her group at Roswell has begun experimenting with a preparation that is easier to produce and is far cheaper. Animal experiments so far indicate, she said, that the new preparations are safe and effective.

"We are considering introducing these new preparations into clinical trails in the near future," Dr. Ambrus said.

15 Injured In Circus Blast

By BOB MONROE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A pipe bomb exploded Sunday night at Manhattan's Electric Circus discotheque, injuring 15 persons including eight students on an Easter holiday recess from their North Carolina college.

All but three of the injured were treated and released, hospital spokesmen said. One youth suffered a fractured left leg and another second degree burns of the thigh.

The blast came 20 hours after a bomb exploded at a Bronx brokerage firm knocking out the door and windows. Another bomb was found on the window ledge of the bank next door and disarmed before it could explode. There were no injuries in the brokerage house blast.

The Electric Circus, located on St. Mark's Place in the heart of the East Village, is known for its rock music and psychedelic lighting.

A sparse, rainy-night crowd of about 150, including the vacationing students from Western Carolina University in Cullowhee, N.C., was on hand at 11:40 p.m. when the bomb went off.

"I couldn't believe it," said Rose Pleasant, 18, of Reidsville, N.C. "I thought it was part of the show. Everybody started screaming. Somebody grabbed me and I hobbled to an exit door and down the fire escape."

Police said the pipe was packed with small ammunition that acted like shrapnel. It included a clock timer and one round to set it off.

The discotheque is located in a four-story brownstone. It does not serve liquor and caters primarily to older teen-agers and young adults.

British Women Scared Of Pill

LONDON (AP) — About half the British women who stopped using birth control pills because of a scare last December have now resumed taking them, the Oral Contraceptive Information Center says.

It estimated that 1.5 million British women were taking the pill when the government committee on drug safety warned that the risk of thrombosis was greater from pills containing higher amounts of the hormone oestrogen. A spokesman said Sunday about 10 per cent of the women stopped taking the pill.

Since then family planning experts have argued that the risks involved in taking the pill are small compared to some other birth control methods.

Marquette Is NIT Champ

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — He is not of heroic proportions although his disciples call him "The Dream". All Dean Meminger does is win basketball games with quiet proficiency.

Coach Al McGuire of Marquette labels Meminger "my star"— and an audience of 19,500 at Madison Square Garden Saturday would have had to agree.

Meminger's star quality playmaking helped Marquette put away St. John's 65-63 to win the 33rd National Invitation Tournament.

"Every team has to have a star," said McGuire, flushed with the euphoria of his first championship, "and Meminger is mine."

Dean picked up the Most Valuable Player trophy for his work in the tournament, but was characteristically modest.

"The whole team contributed," said the slope-shouldered, 6-foot guard. "It was a team effort."

It was a sweet homecoming for The Dream, who played his high school ball in New York.

"I've been playing basketball for 14 years," he said. "There's nothing much else to do when you grow up in an area like I did (Upper Manhattan).

"The first thing you learn is that if you learn to play basketball well, it's a passbook to a college education."

Meminger said he was satisfied with most of his game Saturday, but "I couldn't get my game together in the second half. The St. John's trap defense nullifed me."

"Apparently not enough," added St. John's coach Lou Carnesecca.

Meminger was also chosen on the AP's all-tournament team along with Danny Hester and Pete Maravich of Louisiana State; Jim Oxley of Army and Rich Yunkus of Georgia Tech.

Jeff Sewell and Joe Thomas of Marquette; Joe DePre of St. John's, Mike Gyovai of Army and Al Sanders of LSU made the second team.

The two big D's — Defense and Dean—spelled the story of the championship game as Carnesecca later pointed out: "They're the best defensive club we've ever faced. In fact, I don't see a weakness in them at all."

McGuire felt the game was wo

in the first seven or eight minutes when his Warriors built leads to 16 points behind Meminger's well-executed playmaking and an awesome press.

Maravich, meanwhile, closed out his fabulous college career by sitting on the bench with an injury as LSU lost to Army 75-68 for third place.

Maravich, college basketball's all-time scoring leader, wouldn't talk to reporters after the game.

"I've been talking to reporters all week—and I've said all there is to say," he told one sports writer. "What are you going to do, ask me about the ball game? I didn't play. I've talked to people all week—I just want to walk out with the team."

Lamar 9th Places 2nd At Tourney

BIG SPRING — Lamar 9th won second place in the 9th grade division of the Junior High Volleyball Tournament here last weekend. The Texans were defeated, 16-14, 16-14, by Big Spring Goliad in the finals.

Earlier, the older Lamar lads drew a bye and beat Big Spring Black 15-7, 8-15,15-8.

Marcia Shields and Hollye Crenshaw were named to the All-Tournament team, and Christy Suttle was named the outstanding spiker of the tournament for the second straight year.

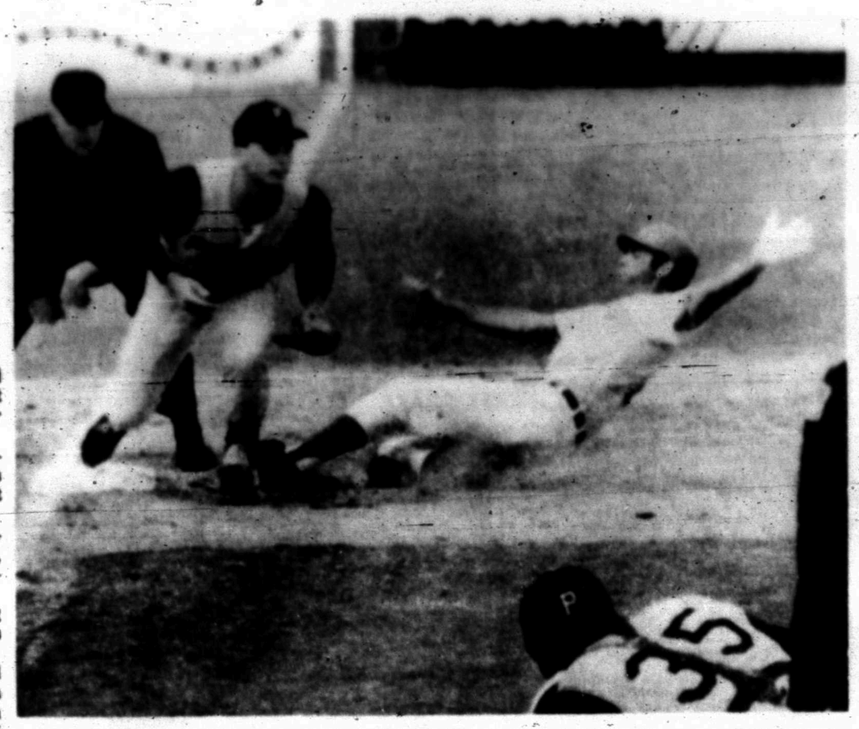

Norma Duke made the 8th grade All-Tournament team. The Lamar 8th defeated Goliad 7-15, 15-9, 15-11, lost to Lamesa 6-15, 15-9, 2-15, and then lost to Runnels 10-15, 15-9, 14-16.

Travis 8th defeated Goliad 15-4, 15-9 after losing to Runnels A 11-15, 6-15. Sharriel Asberry scored 11 points in the first match and 12 in the second one. In the third match, Travis 8th lost to Runnels B 9-15, 15-9, 10-15, although Sue Jane Sullivan scored 14 points.

Travis 9th lost to Big Lake 4-15, 7-15 and to Big Spring Black 5-15, 12-15. Sharon Jones tallied four points in the first match and Belia Rodriguez scored three in the next one.

Travis closes out its season Thursday in the high school gym in a program against Lamar that begins at 4 p.m. There will be three matches.

Lamar entertains Goliad Gold in the Texan gym today in a program that begins at 5:30 p.m. Three matches were scheduled.

Ringney 'Put Out' By 15 Free Passes

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

In the beginning, Abner Doubleday or, if you prefer, Alexander Cartwright, decided that in their game of baseball, four balls out of the strike zone would allow the batter to take first base.

It was to be known as a base on balls, a walk, a free ticket and a few other things by managers who've suffered with them through the years.

Bill Rigney, a manager who has done his share of suffering, sat quietly by Sunday watching his Minnesota staff issue 15 ... that is 15 ... walks against Boston. The Red Sox didn't need much more to beat the Twins 10-7.

Rigney, who developed a king-sized ulcer in earlier managerial stints at San Francisco and California, was simply sputtering after the Twins' 14th exhibition loss as against only one victory.

"I've never been in a training camp where so many have walked," said Rigney. "It's disgraceful, absolutely disgraceful."

Louis Tiant issued seven of the walks and Dick Woodson five. Four of Woodson's came consecutively in the seventh when the Red Sox rallied for four runs to break a 6-6 tie. Gerry Moses had a double and homer and George Scott a double and triple for Boston. Tony Oliva and Leo Cardenas homered for the Twins.

Slugger Jimmy Wynn ended his long holdout, agreeing to a $57,000 contract with Houston but the Astros looked pretty good without him Sunday, beating the Montreal Expos 4-3.

Tommy Davis' ninth inning homer won it and Joe Pepitone and pinch hitter Bob Watson also connected for the Astros. Rusty Staub connected for the Expos.

Willie Crawford hammered a homer and a three-run double, leading Los Angeles to di... 7 victory over Baltimore with Oriole pitchers tagged for 11 hits, seven for extra bases. Steve Garvey homered and Bill Grabarkewicz had a double and triple for the Dodgers while Paul Blair delivered a homer and triple and Bob Grich three singles for the Orioles.

Joe Torre, shackled by a spring slump which had him batting 103, snapped out of it with two singles to help St. Louis past Philadelphia 8-4. His fifth inning single broke a tie and then Vic Davalillo raced a three-run homer in the eighth.

Fritz Peterson pitched seven innings, allowing only a two-run homer by rookie Elliot Maddox, as the New York Yankees trimmed Detroit 5-3. Peterson singled in a run in the sixth and Jerry Kenney homered for the Yanks.

Dock Ellis worked seven innings and Chuck Hartenstein and Gene Garber completed the shutout as Pittsburgh blanked Cincinnati 4-0 on a five-hitter. Willie Stargell homered for the Pirates.

Bobby Knoop cracked a single, double and homer, driving in four runs and leading the Chicago White Sox to an 8-3 victory over Kansas City. John Matias and Walt Williams also homered for the Sox.

Bob Tillman doubled in the tying runs and then scored Atlanta's go-ahead run in the seventh inning as the Braves rallied to beat Washington 7-3. Orlando Cepeda cracked a three-run homer for Atlanta.

San Francisco touring Japan, dropped its second straight with the Lotte Crions beating the Giants 4-3. Willie McCovey had a two-run homer for the Giants.

In other games, Bert Campaneris socked his second homer in as many days and Oakland Whipped California 7-1, Vada Pinson homered for Cleveland and the Indians trimmed Seattle 4-3, and the San Diego Padres edged the Chicago Cubs 5-4.

Junior Net Team Holds Own Here

Snyder's Junior High Tennis Team almost split even with Lubbock Mackenzie Junior High in a dual meet played Saturday on the local courts. Originally the meet was scheduled as a four-way affair, but San Angelo John Glenn Junior High and Colorado City could not come due to inclement weather conditions. Snyder won 16 matches while Mackenzie won 18.

Charles Anderson of Snyder bested Holder 8-1, Templeton 12-10, Thrailkill 8-2, and then teamed up with Joe Dale Price to win over Holder and Green 8-3. Bobby Christian of Snyder defeated Vincente 8-4 in singles. He and Mike Boles bested Ginsberg and Barton 8-0, and Christian and Steven Wittie won over Templeton and Jones 8-3. Price and Wittie were defeated by Ginsberg and Threadgill 8-5, and Price and Robert Braziel won over Carruth and Threadgill 8-4. Braziel and Terry Clay defeated Johnston and Thrailkill 9-7 and lost to Key and Anderson 8-0. In other boys' singles matches Wittie bested Barton 8-4 and Johnston 8-0. David Watlington defeated Anderson 8-3 and lost to Kay 8-0 and to Carruth 8-5. Clay lost to Green 8-5; Jones defeated Braziel 8-5; and Ginsberg bested Price 9-7.

In girls' doubles Pam Smith and Pam Underwood teamed up to win over Marple and Salem 8-2, and Pam Buchanan and Angela Howell defeated Knight and Fisher 8-3. Angela won over Salem 8-2 and Pam Smith defeated Jan Hufstedler 8-0 in girls' singles. Other girls who

The next meet for the Junior High tennis team will be in Lubbock on Saturday, April 4th, with Brownfield, Mackenzie, and possibly other Lubbock Junior High Schools.

Aspen Skier Beats Canadians

LABRADOR CITY, Nfld. (AP) — U.S. skiers toasted themselves with champagne Saturday after Ken Corrock of Aspen, Colo., flashed to victory in the men's slalom at the Canadian National Alpine Ski Championships.

Victory by the 20-year-old University of Denver student gave the strong American team three gold medals in the windup of the three day championships at nearby Smokey Mountain.

"Just a little revenge," said Scott Pyles, 22, of Vail, Colo., referring to the previous weekend's combined victory by Canada's Bill McKay at the U.S. Nationals.

WITH SLIGHT IMPROVEMENT

Astros Could Win It All This Year

COCOA, Fla. (AP) — "We like him, but he's only 19. We don't want to push the door open for him. The less ballyhoo the better.

"We don't want to put a monkey on his back."

The words belong to Houston Manager Harry Walker. The talent belongs to first baseman John Mayberry.

And so does the monkey.

For if Mayberry, the hottest prospect in the Astros' system, can make the club and hit with the same authority he has in the minors Houston will be that much stronger to challenge the elite in the National League's Western Division.

It should be remembered that the Astros, relying heavily on a young pitching staff, hung in the pennant race until September before fading. On Sept. 10, as a matter of fact, they were within two games of the top.

There isn't that much more needed to push them to the top and there's little doubt Mayberry could be a factor. A slick-fielding first baseman with only three years of pro experience, Mayberry hit .303 at Oklahoma City last season and displayed power with 21 homers and 78 runs batted in.

If he makes the club he not only would give the Astros another bat but free Joe Pepitone, acquired from the New York Yankees in a trade for Curt Blefary, to step into an outfield that could use strengthening.

While that may be one of the keys to the Astros' challenge, the other was forged with the run they made at the pennant last season.

"It gave them confidence," said Walker. "If you've been there once you feel better."

The Astros got there with strong pitching, based in the young arms of four right-handed youngsters 25 years old and under—Larry Dierker, Don Wilson, Tom Griffin and Jim Ray —plus one veteran left-hander, Denny Lemaster.

The five were the major weapons on a pitching staff that set a major league record by striking out 1,221 batters. But Walker found his second-line pitching and bullpen were far less adequate.

The club, therefore, has picked up every loose thread around and there now is an assortment that includes Dan Osinski, Jim Bouton, Jack DiLauro to go with such as Jack Billingham and Fred Gladding. How effective the second-line group is likely will determine whether the Astros are strong enough to stay in the race the entire season.

The remainder of the line-up is sound, beginning with veteran catcher Johnny Edwards, who hit only .232 but was important in the development of the young staff.

At first it'll either be Pepitone or Mayberry. Joe Morgan is at second, Doug Rader at third and Denis Menke at short round out an infield that hit for distance.

The outfield, with or without Pepitone' also lists slugging Jim Wynn, who hit .269 last season with 33 homers and 87 RBI; Jesus Alou, Tommy Davis and Norm Miller. The brightest hopeful appears to be Keith Lampard, a .288 swinger at Oklahoma City with 21 homers and 94 RBI.

It's enough to have Walker thinking pennant.

"I think we can take a shot at it," he said. "Over-all we should be better. Morgan should have a little better year. Rader will have another year under his belt. We hope Edwards will contribute more with his bat.

"And the pitchers are a year older."

That summation, of course, just about tells it. The Astros need moderate over-all improvement to be able to make the run all the way.

And there's a good chance they will.

Andretti Is Wild Winner

By ERIC SHARP

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — He used two Ferraris in doing it and for a while it looked as if he might be beaten by an actor, but Mario Andretti managed to win the wildest 12 hour endurance race ever run at Sebring.

"That looked like the end," Andretti said in Victory Lane when talking about his first car, a five liter Ferrari that went out with gear box troubles Saturday while holding a 70-mile lead with only one hour to go.

Slump - shouldered and near tears, he took over another Ferrari that had been driven by Ignazio Giunti and Nino Vacarella of Italy.

But the bright red car was running third behind a five-liter Porsche driven by Mexico's Pedro Rofriquez and Finland's Leo Kinnunen and a three-liter Porsche driven by actor Steve McQueen and Peter Revson of the U.S.

Then the Rodriguez-Kinnunen Porsche was forced out with a burned wheel bearing only 15 minutes from victory.

Andretti zipped under the checkered flag 22.1 seconds ahead of the McQueen-Revson Porsche.

Third place was taken by a three-liter Alfa Romeo driven by Masten Gregory of France and Tonie Hazemans of Holland.

McQueen's Porsche won the prototype classn while the victorious Ferrari took over-all and, sports car honors.

Strategy Pays Off, Bruins Reign Again

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Steve Patterson says UCLA wanted to prove it had a great team this season without Lew Alcindor. And he thinks the Bruins made their point.

"I think we established ourselves as No. 1," he said after UCLA defeated Jacksonville 80-69 Saturday. "We proved we were five guys who could play together."

Patterson, a 6-foot-9 junior from Santa Maria, Calif., said the Bruins have felt the pressure of playing in the shadow of 7-foot-2 Alcindor, who dominated college basketball from 1966-69 and led UCLA to three consecutive titles.

"It worked on the fellows, said Patterson, who played behind Alcindor, the past two seasons.

"You know, you come into a city to play and the newspaper headlines say: 'Alcindor - less UCLA.' When you see that every place you go, it works on you."

Coach John Wooden told newsmen all week long he did not think he had to prove himself over again without Alcindor, rumors to the contrary.

"If I had not won before having Lewis," he repeated often, to what they are saying. But I didn't think I had to prove anything."

Wooden has had 22 consecutive winning seasons at UCLA and won the national championship in 1964 and 1965, missing out only in 1966, before taking the next four.

The Bruins coach told newsmen he believed he had five teams that should have won the national championship but did not.

Wooden also believes he will have an outstanding team next year since he loses only senior guard John Vallely. It is understood he has two equally talented young guards waiting in the wings to take Vallely's place.

Returning next season will be the tournament's most valuable player-6-8 Sidney Wicks of whom Wooden said: "I don't know of any forward in the country I'd trade for him."

Curtis Rowe, a 6-6 forward who made the all-tournament team along with Wicks and Vallely, Patterson and sophomore Henry Bibby, a 6-1 outside shooting guard, also will be back.

Wooden told newsmen the key to UCLA's latest national title was the change on defense he made in an effort to stop Jacksonville's 7-2 Artis Gilmore after the Dolphins jumped to an early lead.

The Bruins coach said it was his plan to play Wicks in front of Gilmore but have his guards attack the ball handlers and prevent them from getting the ball to the giant center. It didn't work.

Wicks said the Dolphins beat him by lobbing the ball over his head and set Gilmore up for a couple of easy layups.

"I couldn't move him anyway," said Wicks. "But then Coach Wooden moved me behind him and Steve Patterson in front of him and we sort of pinched him."

Gilmore made seven field goals during the first 15 minutes but then went the next 16 minutes without a basket. He ended the game with 19 points.

Wicks said Alcindor had a lot to do with the way he handled Gilmore, outrebounding him 18-16 and blocking five of his shots.

"I played Lew a good bit in practice last year and he scored on me anytime he wanted to," he said. "I was a little worried because he (Gilmore) is even taller."

Wicks said he tried to maneuver Gilmore so that the taller Dolphin received the ball 6 to 7 feet from the basket. Then he would back away from him.

"Those tall guys can't dribble that well, so he would have to come to me in an awkward way," he said. "Then when he went up for his shot, I could time it better and try to get a hand on it."

Patterson said he thought Gilmore was tough but is no Alcindor.

"Let me put it this way," he said. "Sidney blocked some of his shots, and I've never seen him block even one of Alcindor's shots in practice."

Longhorns Stick Ponies Thrice

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Texas Longhorns hoped for better weather conditions today as they hosted Minnesota in a non-conference baseball doubleheader.

Texas, the SWC favorite, got its conference campaign off to a winning start during the weekend by defeating Southern Methodist in a three-game series in rain and biting cold. It gave the Longhorns a 12-3 season and 3-0 SWC record.

In other games today, Rice is at Texas Christian and Baylor is at Texas A&M to make up doubleheaders they postponed because of the poor weather.

Also scheduled today will be SMU at UT-Arlington and Arkansas at Pan American.

Texas, the defending Swc champion, wrapped up the SMU series with a 17-4 victory Saturday after 8-0 and 10-4 victories on Friday.

In the only other action Saturday, New Mexico Highlands upended Texas Tech 4-1 in a non-conference match.

A nine-run sixth inning sank the Mustangs in Saturday's match with Texas. The Horns got five hits, including three doubles in the big inning.

Texas and Minnesota slated another doubleheader Tuesday and Arkansas will play Kansas in San Antonio.

Teen Parents Meet

There will be a meeting of the Texas Teenage League at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Snyder Savings and Loan Community room. All interested parents are invited to attend.

Public Hearing Set Tuesday On Interest Rate Resolution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic congressmen have been escalating their attacks on President Nixon's economic policies have a chance to fire a broadside this week.

Their opportunity is a public hearing before the House Banking Committee Tuesday on a resolution calling for all-out administration efforts to bring interest rates down from their present historic highs.

The resolution was introduced by 82 Democrats and three Republicans. Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., one of the principal sponsors, insisted "I'm not trying to embarrass Mr. Nixon—he has enough problems."

But Wright added in an interview, "I think the situation is at a point which calls for some forceful administration leadership—Congress alone can't do it."

Wright said it is a kind of myth that an administration and the "Fed"—Federal Reserve Board, which has major influence on interest rates, must operate at arm's length.

Through cooperation between the Fed and Democratic administrations, he said, interest rates were kept low during the World War II and Korean War periods.

Wright said he has noticed hints from Arthur Burns, Nixon's appointee as Federal Reserve chairman, and others that monetary policy may be eased.

"I earnestly hope they will," he said. "But it's not enough to talk about dropping interest one-half percentage point.

"There should be a systematic, concerted plan involving all the relevant agencies—let's say we'll get interest down one-half point every six months until we get to a level of 6 per cent."

Wright's sponsorship of the interest resolution follows by a few months his action in introducing a resolution praising Nixon for efforts to negotiate a peace in Vietnam—and this, he said, should show his interest is not merely partisan.

He agreed that Tuesday's session is likely to develop into a raking over of Nixon's policies. Democrats more and more and in increasingly tough terms have charged Nixon's economic policies are producing recession and inflation at the same time.

"It's pretty clear that the interest rate policy has failed to dampen inflation," Wright said, adding that the Gross National Product, a main measure of the economy, has been standing still.

The White House has been saying for months, often in the face of contrary economic statistics, that its fight to halt inflation is working.

Sizes Need To Be Changeless

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the ordeals of life is that sizes don't stay the same.

As soon as you get used to a size or an occasion that seems fitting, something happens to it. It changes.

It would seem pretty important that a size remain changeless. For example, how could we estimate the value of property we owned—or even find out just where it began or ended—if an inch yesterday weren't the same inch the day after tomorrow? Or if a foot refused to stay a foot long—and no more or less?

Who could take pride in running a four-minute mile if someone haphazardly decided to shrink the length of the mile and at the same time extend the length of minutes and seconds? In time a tenderfoot Boy Scout would be able to limp a mile in less than two minutes on a stubbed toe.

Yet, although sizes are supposed to be standardized, something or someone always seems to be changing them.

Take the size of a $5 bill. You can measure it with a ruler and measure the size of a steak it would buy 10 years ago. Something has happened to the size of one or the other. In some restaurants the size of a steak that a $5 bill will buy can't even be measured accurately with a ruler. You need a micrometer.

How about that girl you married 20 years ago who bragged she wore a size 10 dress?

She still says she feels uncomfortable in anything larger than a size 10 dress. But if you took one of those dresses she buys and propped it up lengthwise with tentpoles, you could drive a Jeep through it without touching the sides. Does that mean the size of Jeeps is being miniaturized?

The problem is even worse in men's wear. Remember when a fellow felt comfortable in a shirt with a size 15 neck, a pair of size 9-C shoes, a 36-inch belt and a size 40 suit?

Well, today that same fellow—no more than 25 years older—feels pinched by a size 9½ pair of shoes, a size 44 suit, a size 40 belt and a size 16 shirt. He is uncomfortable from toenail to tonsil.

The real truth is that sizes aren't constant in any field anymore. Years feel shorter than they used to be, but many a day lasts interminably longer.

The size of wars appears to be even harder to figure. You get in one that you are assured is small, preventive economy-size war, and the next thing you know it is unmistakably bigger, doesn't appear particulary preventive, and is about as economical as bankruptcy.

Even the size of words has become confused. There was a time when a big deal was a big deal. But now when your wife says to you, "big deal!,"—well, you don't feel like a major wheel.

Unless some agency like the U.S. Bureaus of Standards can help us standardize our standards, how are we ever going to be able properly to size-up our size-ups?

Firms Pulling Back In Urban Affairs Programs

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Following the 1967 riots that scourged American cities, hundreds of corporations plunged into urban affairs programs, some out of guilt, others because of self interest, more because they felt able to help.

They donated cash, offered the services of staffs and executives, even set aside parts of their facilities. Many began minority hiring programs, and a relative few became involved in economic development programs.

Now, less than three years later, the evidence seems to suggest that many companies have pulled back, that their confidence has been tempered if not shaken, and that a period of reflection and reduced activity has set in.

These are some of the conclusions reached by Dr. Jules Cohn, a former college professor now on the staff of McKinsey & Co., management consultants. His study is reported in the current Harvard Business Review.

"No one says he wants to give up," Cohn writes, "but a large majority of the top executives interviewed feel it is time to re-examine commitments and, perhaps, recast programs."

In one broad area, that of community relations, Cohn said in an interview that businessmen "don't know what to do."

"Business has learned that this is hard, painful, costly stuff," he said. "It's more likely now than ever that businessmen will react only to the extent that there is pressure."

Based on his study of the experiences of 247 major corporations, Cohn believes that business was naive. Businessmen understood why government failed but, he said, they unwisely convinced themselves, "We have the know-how."

They had reason to be optimistic, Cohn stated, because they had great records of achievement. But they learned, he added, that while they were expert in running companies, they had few skills in community politics and black-white relations.

"They were used to being able to command respect," he said, "but they were unable to command it from the blacks. They were boycotted and called names."

In decisive matters "they found that people didn't always agree with them, and they found they had no control over these people. They had the same problems that college presidents have with students today."

He quotes one top executive as saying, "I don't think any of us really knew what we were getting into. We saw action was needed, and we moved fast, maybe too fast. The task turned out to be Herculean."

Whatever the reasons, he states in the article, "only a third of the 247 companies are actively hiring the hard core, and fewer than half of these provide special training and upgrading programs."

If the experience has not been mutually satisfactory, the companies nevertheless have obtained some benefits. "I believe the nature of companies is changing because of their experience," Cohn said.

"Companies thought they knew how to train, for example, but they learned they hand't adjusted in decades. Personnel policies and training procedures are going to be reshaped."

In addition, some corporate progress may have been made in areas where standard accounting methods are inadequate to measure. Corporate officers are left with few general ways to estimate the payoff, Cohn states.

Among the general measurements available:

—Effect on corporate image or reputation. Executive of about 80 per cent of the companies believe the programs strengthen their reputations.

—Effect on operational environment. Executives of about 35 per cent of the companies feel that their programs help discourage violence, boycotts and other threats to operations.

—Promotion of new markets. Executives of about 12 per cent of the companies have opened new markets by attracting minority-group customers and by selling their services as consultants to other companies and to government agencies.

Nevertheless, Cohn said in the interview, business must decide whether it or government is to do the job of improving the urban environment and race relations.

Rhodesian Catholics Issue Warning

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — The Roman Catholic Church in Rhodesia said Sunday it will resist any efforts by the white minority regime of Prime Minister Ian Smith to impose racial segregation on any religious activities.

The warning came in a pastoral message issued by Archbishop Francis W. Markall of Salisbury and his four bishops. Anglican Bishop Paul Burrough said the letter was a "brave statement of Christian belief in the rights of man," and the Rev. Andrew Ndhela, head of the Methodist Church, said his Church "backed the statement to the hilt."

The largest church in Rhodesia is the Anglican, with 86,000 non-Africans, followed by the Catholic Church with 35,100 and the Presbyterian with 29,000.

Water Gasoline Stalls Cars

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — A gasoline truck mistakenly filled with water pumped its load into the underground tanks of a Pensacola service station. Within a few hours stalled automobiles were scattered all over town.

The service station was closed until the watered gas could be pumped out of its tanks.

A Junior Editors Quiz About TEMPERATURES

QUESTION: Why do people in Germany and America speak of the same temperatures in different ways?

* * *

ANSWER: Our intelligent young correspondent, who recently moved to America from Germany, is just as confused as our friend T-bird in the picture. The truth is that these two countries use different scales for measuring temperature. Most English-speaking countries use the Fahrenheit scale. This scale was developed by Gabriel Fahrenheit in 1714 in connection with his newly invented mercury thermometer. He began with three basic temperatures: 0°F (zero degrees Fahrenheit) roughly the temperature of a mixture of snow and common salt; 32°F, the freezing point of pure water at sea level; and 96°F, then thought to be the temperature of human blood. From these, equal degree markings of a certain size could be made. In 1742, Anders Celsius devised a more convenient scale which is now used by scientists everywhere. This system, called centigrade, considers 0°C (0° Centigrade) as the freezing point of pure water at sea level, and 100°C as its boiling point. Water boils at 212°F. Unlike the English-speaking peoples, most other countries have adopted the centigrade scale for everyday use.

ON BUSING OF SCHOOL CHILDREN

College Editors Surveyed By AP

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The busing of school children to achieve racial balance is one of the hottest issues facing parents in the United States today.

The Associated Press surveyed 30 Texas college newspaper editors to get their views on busing.

Of 14 who responded, 12 said they did not favor busing, saying that it wasn't the answer to the problem—a problem they acknowledged must be solved in some way.

The question was: Do you favor busing school children to achieve racial balance. Why?

Those in favor of busing were Frank Lewis, editor of "The Skiff" at Texas Christian University and Lionel Ceniceros, editor of "The Prospector" at the University of Texas at El Paso.

"There is no mild antidote to the hundreds of years of bigotry and racial hatred that WASPs have inflicted in this country," Ceniceros said.

Lewis qualified his answer by saying it depended upon the distance. "If it is only a short distance further then it does not make much difference, but if the distance is great then there would seem to be no justifiable reason for it. To bus children over great distances from a much closer school deprieves them and their parents from much extra participation in the school."

Among the 12 taking the negative view, was Jimmy Snowden of the "University Daily" at Texas Tech University. "Children should attend schools which are closest to their homes," he said. "...districts should be apportioned strictly according to the number of districts in the area...and for this idea to be equitable, housing in cities must be completely free or racial restrictions."

"Theoretically and physically there would be racial balance, but not spiritually or emotionally," said Garner Roberts, editor of the Abiline Christian College "Optimist." "Busing will integrate the schools, but there will have to be a massive change in the attitudes for racial balance."

Alan Kelley of the Angelo State University "Ram Page" said that noticeable pressure to eliminate segregation is likely to backfire and result in widening the already large emotional gap.

"Seven hours of exposure a day in a system of forceful integration could conceivably create tolerance, but never real acceptance," Kelley said.

The editor of the "North Texas Daily" at North Texas State University, Julian Williams, said "Strain on involved schoolchildren, local governments and federal authorities outweighs any possible good that busing may achieve. However, gerrymandered school districts should never be allowed."

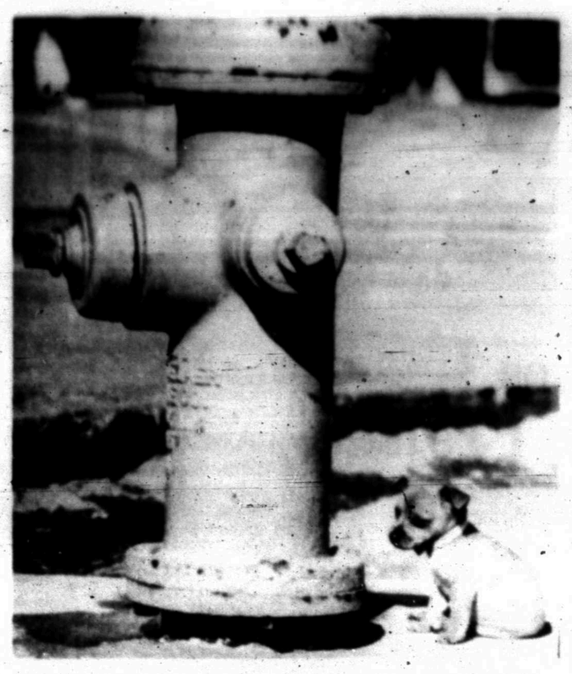

J. Ahmad of the TSU Herald at Texas Southern University said he does not believe in integration.

"To assimilate bodies through busing is no guarantee of the assimilated mind," Ahmad said. "The solution is to rewrite (not revise) all texts and include the contribution of all peoples to these United States of America and improve the physical facilities and plants of black schools; in other words, let's have separate but equal."

Jerry Cowling, the editor of "The East Texan", at East Texas State University, like the other, agrees that integration needs to come about, but that busing isn't the answer.

"While I agree with the idea that white children need to study and associate with black children to remove preconceived prejudices, I don't think busing children is fair because it abuses the rights of both blacks and whites in arbitrarily deciding which school the child should go to," Cowling said.

"It is not economically feasible," said Jerrie Chesney, editor of the University of Houston's "Daily Cougar." "Besides, it is not the students who need to learn racial tolerance; it's the parents who instill prejudice in their children who create the problem."

Communist Secretary Fired

MOSCOW (AP) — G. H. Kyazimov, a secretary of the Communist party's central committee in Azerbaijan, has been fired for "serious drawbacks in his work," Pravda announced.

He was the third top party official fired in nine months in the small, oil-rich Asian state on the Caspian Sea. A new party first secretary, G. A. Aliev, was named last July because the state had consistently failed to meet production quotas, and on Jan. 3 he fired the health minister.

The announcement of Kyazimov's dismissal said Azerbaijan suffered "serious drawbacks in fulfillment of the goals of the five-year plan and failed to keep promises to increase production in honor of the 100th anniversary of Lenin's birth."

Women Lose

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The first bill defeated during the 1970 session of the Kentucky Legislature went against the women. It proposed that women be allowed to work as bartenders and also to be served mixed drinks at the bars, both already prohibited by state law.

BY MOSCOW DOCTOR

Soviet's Television Praised

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — "Our television programs," a Moscow doctor proudly proclaims, "don't tell children how to feed their parents broken glass."

He implied that Western TV offerings of "horrors and deformities" do. The good doctor went on to tell the editor of Literaturnaya Gazeta—Literary Gazette—that the only thing wrong with Soviet television is that it encourages viewers to sit for hours in dark rooms glued to the boob tube.

But many Soviet viewers say the physician's fears are groundless. Programs seem designed to make one switch off his set and the ponderous, ceaseless propaganda is usually too much for even the most devout Communist.

Officially it's "televidenye." —Many Russians simply call it "dira"—"the hole"—or more irreverently, "tele-yele," a sly colloquialism roughly translated as weak or inconsequential TV.

There are some bright spots on the Soviet tube. Sports coverage ranks with that of the West, displaying good action photography of figure skating, basketball, hockey and soccer. Plays, ballet and symphony concerts also are regular offerings, providing a welcome break from long dissertations on Georgian tractor drivers and Komsomol youth building roads in Uzbekistan. There is virtually no advertising.

Occasionally, Western-style musical variety shows are aired liberally sprinkled with anti-capitalistic skits. A troupe from Leningrad recently made a big hit with a satirical number about two Americans trying to decide what caliber pistol to buy in a Chicago gunshop. They finally agreed a bazooka was needed for survival in the Windy City.

Newscasts, of course, play up violence, poverty and aggression in the Western world, contrasting with peace, progress and happiness under the sun of socialism.

Production techniques are sometimes bad —and amateurish.

While two sober commentators discuss five-year plan goals for agriculture in the Volga basin, one hears loud thumps, footsteps and shouted directions off-camera. A Ukrainian folk dancer slips and falls flat on her face. The camera studiously angles in for a closeup of the embarrassed girl as she struggles to her feet in a welter of skirts.

The interview is a Soviet television staple. A politician, an intellectual or an industrial hero will sit for hours under bright lights with an interviewer, laboriously expounding how socialism helped him develop his utmost capabilities.

The camera never wavers from one angle, periodically panning in for an excrutiatingly long and detailed closeup of the interviewer's gold-capped teeth and the mole on his nose.

Movies are usually revolutionary epics about heroes of the proletariat or World War II battles between Soviet and Nazi armies. One can lose count of the climaxes in the revolutionary dramas. One offering had the hero escaping 12 capitalistic hangings each time just after the noose was placed around his neck. War movies tend to show few battle scenes and many portly Soviet marshals discussing strategy while artillery booms ominously in the distance.

The 100th anniversary of Lenin's birthday will be celebrated April 22, and the Kremlin is making sure no one forgets it. It is impossible to switch on a set these days without finding a program devoted to the life and works of Lenin on at least one channel. These are noted in heavy black ink in Pravda's weekly TV log as desired viewing material.

Television as an ideological tool has never been underestimated in the Soviet Union. Hence the number of TV sets in the country has increased from 820,000 in 1956 to an estimated 20 million.

N. K. Baibakov, chairman of the State Planning Committee, reported to the December session of the Supreme Soviet that one of every two Russian families will have a television set by 1970.

AP Employes Injured In Plane Crash

MEXIA, Tex. (AP)—A light, low flying plane crashed in the woods near this Central Texas oil town Sunday, injuring two young men.

Richard Boydstun, 25, suffered shock, a head injury, multiple cuts and a broken nose. A Mexia General Hospital spokesman said he spent a "fairly comfortable night."

His companion, Jimmy Walton, 25, was listed in good condition after suffering shock and exposure.

Both are employed in Dallas by The Associated Press.

The crash occurred in a wooded area late Sunday afternoon but was not discovered until Boydstun was found wandering on a highway about 9 p.m. He was picked up three miles east of Mexia on U.S. 84.

The two had rented the plane at the Mexia airport about 5 p.m.

Lubbock Tot Killed In Collision

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—Four-month-old Debra Ann Sanders of Lubbock was killed and six others injured Sunday night in a two-car collision on a city street.

Police were told that the child had swallowed a nickel prior to the accident and was being taken for treatment. An autopsy has been ordered to determine the exact cause of death.

Plane Crash Victim Identified

GARLAND, Tex. (AP) — The Dallas County sheriff's office has identified the woman killed in a plane crash Sunday morning as Bonnie Lee Russel, 23, of Sacramento, Calif.

The light plane crash critically injured the pilot, David Geeteh of Dallas. Authorities said the aircraft apparently had run out of gas when it came down in the northeast section of Dallas County near Garland.

Man Collects Barbed Wire

GRAND FORKS, N.D. (AP) — Most people avoid barbed wire, but not William Crogan. The missile site construction worker collects it as a hobby.

On a weekend, he may drive 200 to 300 miles poking around for strands of it. His best finds include wire dating back to 1900 or earlier.

Some of the wire turns up in dump grounds of old farms, or from along rivers where early settlers fed cattle.

Crogan used to be a rock collector. In 1967 he switched to wire, and he keeps his specimens neatly displayed on canvas.

VA Hospitals Short Of Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — California Veterans Administration hospitals are operating this year at least $5.6 million short of funds, Rep. Olin E. Teague, D-Tex., reported today.

The chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee said a survey of data submitted by the hospital directors showed a shortage of $2.8 million for existing personnel vacancies.

He said they would need another $26 million to bring their staffs up to the level of two members for each patient comparable to many community hospitals.

Reported shortages also include $1.3 million for operating expenses, including medical supplies, artificial limbs and patient travel expenses; $1 million for dental care, and $461,000 for community nursing care expenses in private nursing homes.

Teague's review of California VA hospitals was one of a series of state-by-state reports preceding planned hearings on the operation of the veterans hospitals.

Sergeant Charged In Shootout

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Law officers sought a second man today after arresting an Air Force sergeant on charges in a burglary and shootout at nearby Lytle.

Sgt. Jimmie Boyd Riley, 28, of Bergstrom Air Force base in Austin, was arrested here Sunday by police and turned over to the custody of Atascosa County sheriff's officers.

A warrant charging Riley was burglary and assault with a deadly weapon earlier had been issued by Atascosa County Peace Justice Vernon Bayne of Lytle.

Shortly after the burglary, Miss Joel Leigh, 30, of San Antonio was arrested and charged before Bayne with burglary and assault with a deadly weapon.

Bayne said she was ill and had to be hospitalized in Jourdanton.

Two men beat up George Pyron, owner of the supermarket, and Agapito Carrillo, the manager, after Carrillo discovered the burglary early Saturday early Saturday morning.

Several wild shots were fired but no one was hit.

The fight left Pyron with a broken jaw. He was hospitalized here.

An officer arriving on the scene gave chase as the two men fled in a car with a woman companion. The fleeing trio fired several shots at the officer before the chase, at speeds topping 100 miles per hour, ended when the three ditched their car.

The two men escaped on foot, leaving a woman behind, officers said.

Traditional Easter Flowers Are On Hand At Hinshaw's

Easter—one of the traditional times for sending flowers—is less than a week away, but it's still not too late to place your orders at Hinshaw's House of Flowers, 2804 Avenue S.

The House of Flowers, operated by Hershel and Pat Hinshaw, has fresh flowers for all occasions, but the demand on them is particularly great at this time of the year. Many people like to send Lilies—the traditional Easter flower—at this time of the year. They not only express the love that the sender has for the recipient, but they also express the love that He has for everyone. Many, if not all, churches in the area will be receiving Lilies and other flowers for Easter.

The House of Flowers can send traditional Easter flowers and lilies to the individual or church of your choice. The friendly personnel at Hinshaw's will do their best to provide you with just what you want—whether its corsages, fresh arrangements, potted plants, hydrangeas, mums, azaleas, Kalanchoes or an Easter basket.

Easter bunnies and eggs or artificial arrangements are popular at this time of year and still are in good supply at Hinshaw's. However, it may be a good idea to place your order now and not risk waiting too long. Persons who like to take advantage of Hinshaw's Floral Telegraph Delivery service at this time of year can be sure that the receiver will get just what you ordered if the order is placed soon enough.

Navy Cannon To Aid Researchers

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A Navy destroyer escort's cannon, enlisted by science, will soon help researchers get an idea how long ago meteors hit the moon.

The weapon, fitted with a special 20-foot-long barrel, a laser beam unit and high-speed camera, was adapted by Dr. Thomas J. Ahrens, associate professor of geophysics at the California Institute of Technology.

Ahrens plans to fire the cannon at a fragment of moon rock brought back by American astronauts. Instead of making an indention on the moon rock, the "bullets" actually will erase microscopic scratches which have been grooved into the rock by stellar rays over the years.

Ahrens said that determining the force of a shock needed to erase the tracks will give a clue about how long ago the rock fragment was jolted by a meteor.

The population of Laos, variously estimated at from two to three million, is composed of 22 minority groups which legend says emerged from a gourd punctured by a demigod.

Marriage License Business Booming

LOVINGTON, N.M. (AP) — The Lea County clerk's office says the marriage license business is booming.

It all started Jan. 1 when a new Texas law went into effect requiring a six-months waiting period before divorced persons can remarry.

"They are flocking over here to get married," a spokesman noted. Lovington is on the New Mexico-Texas border in southeastern New Mexico.

ANN ARBOR, Mich (AP) — A group of University of Michigan faculty members opposed to what they see as the increasing occurence of campus violence took out a full-page ad in the Ann Arbor News Sunday to express their views.

The ad called for an end to "disruptions and violence occuring with increasing frequency at the university."

The 521 faculty signers of the advertisement backed four principles: That there is no place on the campus for violence; that there must be complete freedom of movement on the campus; that libraries, offices and research facilities be free from disruption; and that classes be conducted without outside influences.

EVEN AFTER 25 YEARS

Murmansk Run Remembered

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press Writer

On a frigid April day 25 years ago, a grimy line of freighters limped into the Arctic port of Murmansk, ending a nightmare supply shuttle that had lasted nearly four years and had played a vital role in keeping the Soviet Union from collapsing in World War II.

During those years, for nearly 1,500 miles from Reykjavik, Iceland, over the Arctic Circle, around the North Cape of Norway and down to Murmansk—Allied ships sailed. Their holds were crammed with oil and explosives, their decks creaked under the weight of tanks and locomotives coated with frozen spindrift.

In sub-zero weather, lashed by polar gales and hammered constantly by German planes and U-boats, they delivered 16.5 million tons of war material.

The cost: 98 ships lost and 829 men known dead.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt decided to begin this hazardous supply convoy in July, 1941, after German troops had battled to within 30 miles of Moscow.

On Aug. 6, six British merchant ships, protected by an armed escort, made the first run. When the convoy reached Russia, America and its allies saw vivid proof of the desperate need. The vessels had hardly docked, when Russians clamored aboard, revved up tank motors, and steered the ships straight for the fighting fronts.

By September, the famed PQ convoys, the Royal Navy code name, had begun, and soon American Merchant Marine seamen were making the run to the Russian port.

Although Gulf Stream currents kept the route waters from freezing over in the winter months, some men nearly froze to death. One of these was Robert Carse, who was blown off the deck of a freighter by a German mine and threshed around in the sea until rescued by a British ship.

Others survived torpedoes, like Raymond P. Holubowicz, an 18-year-old midshipman making his first sea voyage aboard the American freighter Syros.

The Syros, tagging along at the tail end of the convoy, was struck amidships. As its load of TNT and ammunition exploded, the Syros sank in scarcely more than a minute.

"I came to the surface and attached myself to a hatchboard," Holubowicz recalled. Holubowicz now vice president of the shipbuilding division of Litton Industries, said that as he looked about for help, he remembered the strict convoy rule: cargo ships could not pause to rescue anyone. Only escorting warships could do so —if they were not occupied in battle.

"I could see the last of the convoy pulling away," said Holubowicz. "It was quite a desolate feeling."

Holobowicz, dressed in Arctic survival gear, threshed about for nearly half an hour in 29-degree water, before he was sighted and rescued by an escort lifeboat.

"I still remember it vividly," he said. "It's only recently that I have stopped having nightmares."

Robert Carse of Shelter Island, N.Y., who is now an author, served on merchant ships in every theater during the war. He rates Murmansk the most hazardous run.

"It was the worst experience imaginable," Carse told an interviewer. "We were plodding through sub-infested seas at about eight miles an hour, with nothing aboard for defense except four 30-caliber machineguns from the first world war.

"My ship, the Steel Worker, was carrying 400 tons of TNT. You can imagine what would have happened if we had been hit. Those German bombers dove so close you could see the faces of the pilots."

The Steel Worker was sunk by a Nazi mine in Kola Inlet, after unloading the TNT. That's when Carse had his close call. Carse has written a book about the Murmansk run, entitled "A Cold Corner of Hell."

The Steel Worker, with Carse aboard, set out in Convoy PQ16 on May 21, 1942. There were 34 merchant ships in a two-mile-long column, flanked by an escort of warships. As they swung north into the Denmark Strait, a white frosty mist rose from the murky waters. Under radio silence, the ships had to sound their horns to give their positions to their groping partners.

When the fog listed, it became worse, because the convoy now presented a clear target for the Germans.

After four days the enemy attacked, Carse recalled. Twelve junkers and 88 dive bombers swept over the convoy and opened fire. The guns of an escort warship caught the squadron leader's plane and blew it apart. The other attackers fled, only to return with reinforcements.

On May 30, the convoy reached Murmansk. It had lost seven ships and countless men.

Convoy losses became so heavy that in 1942 the British Admiralty advised that the runs be halted. But although both President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill were deeply concerned about the losses, they feared that without huge amounts of material, Stalin might be forced to negotiate a separate peace with the enemy.

Consequently, Churchill wired Stalin: "Fight our way through to you with the maximum amount of war materials."

The Murmansk run remained perilous until the war's end. Losses in February and March of 1945, when the war in the west virtually was over, totaled 12 ships.

Not only were freighters strafed, bombed and torpedoed on their way to Russia, but they were attacked on their return trips. For Adolph Hitler, determined to halt the flow of supplies that fred the Russian war effort, had ordered his pilots and U-boats commanders to sink every allied merchantman sight.

State Agriculture 'Bogged Down'

COLLEGE STATION, TEX. (AP) — Texas agriculture is literally "bogged down", moisture-wise. Soggy fields over much of the state have about stopped all plowing and planting and the continuing wet and cool weather is causing concern in sections where planting should now be active, said Director John Hutchison of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The abundance of soil moisture, in general, improved spring grazing but warmer and open weather is needed for maximum plant growth, the director said. Livestock improved and feeding decreased. However, cold temperatures slowed plant growth. Grain grazing generally was good but wet fields held back full utilization, Hutchison said.

Rain and snow in the Panhandle helped dryland wheat but more rain is needed. Plowing and fertilizing have been slowed, but progress has been good. Potato and sugar beet planting has started. Recent freezes threatened the peach crop since trees are beginning to bloom. Ranges need rain to insure spring plant growth but livestock are generally in good condition. Calving is on.

Grains on the South Plains (Lubbock) are making excellent growth but more rain is needed in northern counties. Freezing temperatures have slowed groth rates in some areas. Some freeze damage to early blooming fruit trees is expected. Some potatoes and onions have been planted. Subsoil moisture generally was excellent.

Moisture in all except three of the 22 Rolling Plains (Vernon) counties have adequate to surplus moisture and grain growth is good. Insect damage to grains decreased. Freeze damage to blooming fruit trees has not been determined. Livestock are in good condition and grazing prospects improved. Plowing is active where field conditions permit.

More rain in North Central Texas kept moisture generally on the surplus side and curtailed most outdoor activities. Warmer weather and sunshine would be welcome. Despite the lack of sun and the surplus moisture, grains look good. Livestock are in fair condition; ranges are improving, but some feeding is necessary.

Pastures in Northeast Texas improved but grazing is still short of requirements. Moisture ranged from adequate on lighter soils to surplus on heavier ones. Land is being prepared when fields permit and some gardening is starting. Livestock were in fair condition and improving with better grazing, but feeding is still needed.

In Far West Texas, showers and snow improved the moisture situation but freezes slowed plant growth. Blooming fruit trees have suffered some damage. Seedbed preparation and preplant irrigation are on. Livestock and ranges are in good condition. Goat shearing is on and marketing of good lamb and calf crops was noted.

West Central Texas has adequate to surplus moisture and adequate grazing. Grains need sun and open weather. Wet fields have stopped plowing. Frost and freeze damage to early fruit trees has not been determined. Livestock are in good condition; goat shearing is in full swing; and lambing is ative.

Plowing and planting of corn and grain sorghum in Central Texas was delayed by boggy fields. Moisture is surplus and warm sunshine is needed. Freeze and frost damage to fruit trees is not expected to be extensive. Ranges improved and livestock are in good condition. Goat shearing is active and the lamb crop is on the ground.

Oats in East Texas are making good growth and providing grazing but warmer, open weather would be welcome. Little planting has been possible and land preparation is at a standstill. Peaches and plums are blooming; livestock are in fair to good condition with some feeding; and calving is on. Major activities are planting of coastal Bermuda, fertilizing and feeding livestock. Labor is scarce.

Field work in the Southeast Texas is at a standstill and most counties hale a surplus of moisture. Grain growth is good but boggy fields hinder grazing. Range growth is becoming lush and about 65 per cent of the grazing needs are now being met from this source. Livestock are in good condition but lice are a problem.

Surplus moisture in South Central Texas delayed cotton, corn and grain sorghum planting, reported Joe Glover from Gonzales. Peaches, plums and pears are in full bloom. Ranges are up to average condition. Livestock are holding their good condition as grazing improves.

Some cotton and sorghum will have to be replanted in South Texas due to washing rain. Moisture is adequate over most of the district with planting done as conditions permit. Vegetable and some citrus harvesting is underway. Range grazing is excellent and livestock are in good condition.

Second Sex Fair Ends

ODENSE, Denmark (AP) — The second Odense Sex Fair ended Sunday night after a four-day run during which 85 per cent of the visitors were from abroad.

Organizer Leif Penlau, who also helped stage the first sex fair in Copenhagen last year, said the Odense Fair drew only about 25,000 people, half the visitors attracted to the Copenhagen display. Some thought his crowd estimate highly optimistic.

"But there never was any real danger that we would end up in the red," said Penlau. "The amount paid by a British film company for film rights alone covered most costs."

Most of the visitors to Odense were West Germans, who flocked here by car and bus. There was also a planeload of Japanese from Tokyo.

Penlau said he was through with sex fairs in Denmark, "but if pornography is legalized in other countries, as I believe it may soon be in West Germany, I will be there immediately. That's where the money is now."

Four Youth Held In Shooting

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Kleberg County Sheriff Jim Scarborough said he expected charges to be filed today against four youths in connection with the fatal shooting of a young Navy enlisted man and the wounding of his wife.

Leslie J. Skelton, 21, a petty officer third class from Chase Field in Beeville died of shotgun wounds in the stomach while undergoing treatment at the U.S. Navy Hospital in Corpus Christi Sunday.

His wife, Debbie, was reported in satisfactory condition with a leg wound.

Officers said the incident occurred about one mile south of the Bob Hall Pier in a Kleberg County section of Padre Island.

About two hours after the shootings, Nueces County authorities picked up four persons and turned them over to Kleberg County authorities.

Scarborough described the four as "long-haired, hippie types." He said the shooting erupted "apparently without provocation."
