It was a cool night, perfect football weather, Friday night when the Muleshoe Mules took to the field, playing their final football game of the season against the Friona Cheiftains. In what could be determined as a wild and wooly night, the Mules defeated the Cheiftains 28 to 17.

Getting the game underway, the Cheiftains put the ball into play on their own 36 yard line. On their first play a Cheifton broke tackles and ran 64 yards into the endzone. The point after kick was good and the Cheiftains led 7-0 over the Mules.

The Cheiftains made a firstdown before having a 62 yard touchdown called back, due to a holding penalty. Four plays later the Cheiftains were forced to punt the ball away.

On their next possession of the ball, the Mules picked up two more firstdowns and were penalized two times for 10 yards before making it into the endzone. The kick was good and the game was all tied up 7 to 7.

Friona recovered the fumble and put the ball into play on their own 34 yard line. Friona picked up two first downs before hitting paydirt on a 44 yard pass. The kick was good and the Cheiftains were ahead 14 to 7 on the scoreboard.

Friona kicked to the Mules and they put the ball into play on their own two yard line. Being unable to move the ball, the Mules were forced to punt the ball away. The punt was blocked and after a scramble for the ball, the Mules came up with it. The Mules picked up four more first downs before reaching the endzone for another touchdown. The point after kick was good and the game was all tied up 14 to 14.

The Mules kicked the ball back to the Cheiftains and with 3:13 left in the half, the Cheiftains put the ball into play on their own 38 yard line. The Cheiftains picked up two first downs and both teams were penalized before a Mule intercepted a Friona pass. The Mules didn't hang onto the ball long, before fumbling and the Cheiftains recovered.

With :57 left in the half, the Mules took possession of the ball on downs.

At the half, the game was all tied up 14-14. In the first half the Mules had 12 first downs to the Cheiftains eight. The Mules had 189 total yards and the Cheiftains had 207. The Mules were penalized 20 yards and the Cheiftains 60 yards.

Opening up the second half, Friona kicked to the Mules and they put the ball into play on their own 30 yard line. Two plays later, the Mules fumbled the ball and the Cheiftains came up with it. The Cheiftains picked up three firstdowns and kicked a field goal. Once again they led on the scoreboard 17 to 14 over the Mules.

The Cheiftains kicked the ball back to the Mules and they put it into play on their own 45 yard line. Three plays later Chad Freeman raced 45 yards for another touchdown. The kick was good and the Mules were on top 21 to 17.

The Mules kicked the ball to the Cheiftains and they put it into play on their own 30 yard line. The Cheiftains were unable to move the ball and were forced to punt it away.

Drug-Alcohol Program Presented At Rotary

"We are completely funded by United Way," said Mona Kile, speaking of the Lubbock and South Plains Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse, at the Rotary meeting at noon Tuesday.

"The primary office is in Brownfield, but we service 14 counties, including Bailey County," Ms. Kile continued.

Abe Monreal, Regional Coordinator, stated that a man in Iowa saw the need for this type of service in the early 1960's. Now there are 54 offices in Texas.

"We work with probation officers and also help adolescents with alcohol problems," Monreal continued. "We educate the family of those having problems. We also hold workshops on alcohol and recovery."

"The problem has been around a long time, we became aware of it in the 1960's, Monreal said. "About 35 percent of the population in the area have a problem and they can learn to change their lives."

The services which the council will be able to provide is what is termed as Core Services. They explained that there is no charge for core services, including assessment. "If at some point we begin charging for assessments, for example, we will never refuse core services for lack of ability to pay."

Most services are offered at no charge. Donations are accepted.

The council makes presentations which makes the public aware of their services including: Informational presentations, Kiwanis Clubs, Civic groups, Parent/Teacher Organizations and others.

They also do telephone screening, those with concerns re: self family and friends who want to know how to help.

In-person assessments and evaluation is done to determine whether a person is chemically dependent.

Referrals are based on phone or in-person screening and the 24 hour crisis line is 1-800-657-9360.

The council keeps track of the people who they place in some kind of help and follow up to see the result of the referral or placement.

Other Council services, may have a program fee attached, include:

Sandhill Cranes Return To Refuge For Winter

Nearly 9,000 sandhill cranes are presently at the Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge and are continuing to arrive. All crane use is at Paul's Lake since the other refuge lakes are dry.

The majority of the cranes leave the refuge at daybreak every day often flying several miles to feed in the fields. They begin returning to the refuge throughout the evening until dark.

Although hunting is not allowed on the refuge, sandhill crane hunting permits are again being issued at the refuge office this year.

State hunting licenses are not available at the refuge.

Crane hunters are required to have the federal crane hunting permit in addition to the state hunting license. Office hours are from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. There is no charge for the permit.

Hunters may also call during office hours at 946-3341 and have the permit mailed to them.

The sandhill crane season for this area, Zone A, is November 14 through February 14. The daily bag limit is three and the possession limit is six.

Methodist Hospital To Host Surgery Open House And Tour

The Surgery Department at Methodist Hospital will open its doors to the public Sunday, Nov. 15, 1992, from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. Attendees will have the opportunity to see all the latest surgical equipment, watch demonstration videos and tour the surgical, transplant and laser suites.

Operating room technicians and staff will be on hand to answer questions and explain the uses of surgical equipment and instruments. Holding and recovery rooms also will be opened for public view.

Methodist Hospital is the only hospital in West Texas to offer a behind-the-scenes tour of its 28 surgical suites. The normally sealed-off facilities are opened only once every three to four years.

Methodist Hospital averages 60 to 75 surgeries a day, Monday through Friday. According to Pat Reeves, Quality Assurance and Risk Management Head Nurse, the open house is a good opportunity for individuals who are having elective surgery. "By seeing what actually goes on in the operating room, many for these individuals' fears are lessened," Reeves said.

The Surgery Department Open House in conjunction with The Association of Operating Room Nurses, Inc. (A.O.R.N.) Week, Nov. 8-14, 1992, this year's theme is "Tradition, Knowledge, Mastery," in recognition of the traditions of the past, knowledge gained and mastery of the healing arts.

For more information about the open house, please call the Surgery Department at (806)793-4275.

How To Turn Six Numbers Into Six Figures.

Nowhere in the history of the world has there ever been any real significance to the number six.

There were never SIX Musketeers.

There was never any movie entitled the Magnificent SIX. Nobody ever says, "Hey, homeboy, slap me SIX." There are no mentions of the big SIX automakers, and so on and so forth.

So, for the first time in the history of the world, lowly SIX is about to be elevated to a much higher level. Elevated, in fact, to millions, in a new type of game. Read on, it gets easier.

LOTTO Texas is a new game from the Texas Lottery.

It's fun, it's exciting and it's easy to play.

You pick six numbers from one to fifty, and should you happen to pick the same six numbers that come up during the drawings, then you could win millions of dollars.

Now, the long version on how to play LOTTO Texas:

Step number one.

Go to your LOTTO Texas retailer. You can only play where you see the red and yellow sign that says LOTTO Texas.

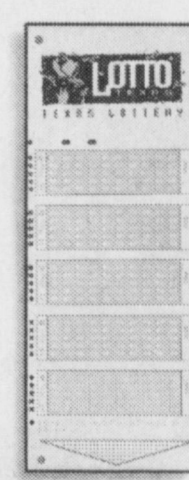

It shouldn't be a big problem.

There are thousands of LOTTO Texas retailers all over the state. Look at the lower right-hand part of this page. That is our new logo. (We're quite proud.) Wherever you see that sign, you know you can play LOTTO Texas.

Still with us? Great.

Step number two.

While you are at the retailer, pick up a playslip. There's a picture of it on this page. You may find the playslip in a stand called a play station. If not, just ask for one.

Step number three. (My, we are moving right along now, aren't we?)

Choose SIX of the numbers on the playslip from one to fifty. You can also play up to five times on each playslip. You must completely fill in the numbers you choose on the playslip with a BLACK OR BLUE BALLPOINT PEN OR A PENCIL ONLY. The pencil below is free, and it will work quite nicely.

Also, do not erase any of the mistakes you make. Just fill in the VOID box on that play and you will not be charged for it.

Step number four. (Past the halfway mark.)

Take a dollar

(that's how much it costs to play LOTTO Texas) and give it and the playslip to the retailer. In just a few seconds, you will be handed a ticket that verifies which numbers you picked. Please remember: sign the back of your ticket so no one else can cash it in.

Step number five.

You can tune in to the televised drawings on Wednesday and Saturday nights at 9:58 p.m. CST to see how well you did. If you picked all six of the numbers that are randomly chosen on the ball machine, then you could be a millionaire.

If you miss the drawing, those numbers will be posted the next day at all LOTTO Texas retailers and in your local newspaper.

years or older to play. And when you are watching the televised drawings, your heart may pound a little. Your palms may sweat. Please do remember to have fun.

Memories Stirred In Tribute To A Beloved Legend

Taken From The Globe-News, Tues., Oct. 27, 1992

Don Prather's 6 a.m. radio alarm brought sad news. His boyhood friend, Roger Miller, had died Sunday night of cancer at age 56.

The radio report uncorked a flood of memories for Prather who grew up with the singer and song-writer to-be near Erick, Oklahoma.

"When you have a friend you keep up with all these years, that stuff kind-of comes back to you—what you went through and how much fun you had," said Prather, 58 a retired Energas Co. employee who lives in Muleshoe. "I really remember the good times that we had growing up. And we had some good times."

Prather said Miller's hit song, "Chug-a-Lug" was based on the high jinks of their own rural upbringing at the one room Hibbard School near Erick. The song describes schoolboys drinking moonshine and "grape wine from a mason jar," followed predictably by the unhappy results.

"I can sit down and listen to that song and tell it was about how we grew up, Prather said. "We had an Omerly good time. He enjoyed life, and he enjoyed having fun."

From his humble beginnings in Erick, where he bought his first guitar for $8, Miller went on to write such hits as "King of the Road," "Dang Me," "England Swings," and "Can't Rollerskate in a Buffalo Herd". He won eleven Grammy's during 1964 and 1965 and wrote music for the Tony Award-winning Broadway musical "Big River", based on the adventures of Huckleberry Finn.

Miller, known for his folksy style and down-home charm, was raised by his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer D. Miller, whom he referred to as his parents. Prather said Elmer wasn't always supportive of Miller's penchant for song in the early days.

"Roger always said he was going to be a country-western singer, and they said he'd never make it," Prather said. "But Roger never did give up. He said that's what he was gonna be, and he did it."

Prather and Miller spent many a night listening to the radio as the young songbird strummed and sang along with popular tunes of the day.

"We both started to school at Hibbard, about five miles south of Erick," Prather said. "I'd go home and sing, and we'd sleep in the storm cellar on the farm. Back then we had six-volt radios, and as soon as we thought they were asleep in the house, we'd go and get the battery out of his daddy's pick-up so we'd have some juice."

"We'd listen to the radio, and he'd play his guitar. A lot of times we'd run the battery down, and the next morning, the pick-up wouldn't start. Every once in awhile we got our fannies warmed up because we'd been told not to do it."

Prather admits that sometimes he doubted his friends ability to make the big-time.

"But when I'd sit and listen to him sing, I'd think, 'He sounds as good as the people on the radio, so he might do it,' and he did."

Prather watched as Miller won nearby talent shows, and went on to host his own television show, "The Roger Miller Show," on NBC.

The first talent show that I can remember him winning, was at a little country school over by Shamrock called, Samnorwood," Prather said. "He was probably in the tenth grade, and we took him over there one night. That was one happy young man."

Miller dropped out of high school, took odd jobs and sang with numerous bands across Texas and Oklahoma.

After serving in the Army in Korea, he tried his luck in Nashville, where he worked as a bellhop and began writing songs for such singers as George Jones, and Ernest Tubb, and pop performers Andy Williams and Patti Page.

Miller drove to Amarillo in February 1958 and lived at 3706 S. Harrison. He took a job with the Amarillo Fire Department, and was dubbed "The Singing Fireman" by Amarillo disc jockeys.

While in Amarillo, he wrote "Invitation to the Blues" which helped rekindle his musical fortunes, and he returned to Nashville.

Prather hooked up with Miller in 1964 in Clovis, NM, and asked his boyhood friend to perform in Muleshoe to benefit the town's Little League program. Miller obliged and performed two sold-out shows at the High School's auditorium on Sept. 19, 1965.

"We kept in touch after that, but he was on the road so much, about the only time I got to see him was when he was close to Muleshoe," Prather said.

Waking Monday to the news of Miller's demise was a shock, but Prather said Miller likely had few regrets.

"He just enjoyed life. Growing up, that's what I always thought about him," Prather said. "Looking back at it, I know he had a good time."

Horseback Travelers Visit Muleshoe

Wednesday morning D.C. Clough, 27, and Tracy Paine, 23, both of Plainstow, New Hampshire arrived in Muleshoe on their way to the east coast. Setting them apart from other travelers, Ms. Paine and Cough are traveling horseback.

Riding a 12 year old black Shire mare (draft horse) Louise, and an 11 year old Chestnut Saddlebred mare, Dawn, Ms. Paine and Clough began their Southbound Expedition at Plainstow, N.H. in April 1991, with the intention of visiting all lower 48 states by horseback. It is estimated that this journey will take seven to ten years and over 15,000 miles. Although similar journeys have been undertaken, this will be the first attempt to cover the United States using the same two horses.

The couple picked up a stray yellow lab mix, Myles, who is approximately two years old, in Tennessee. He travels along with the couple.

Since leaving Plainstow, the travelers have visited eighteen states: New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, and Texas. After leaving Texas, the group plans to travel westward to New Mexico, Arizona and California then up the Pacific coast.

Major cities seen from horseback include: Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, D.C., Roanoke, Macon, Tallahassee, Mobile, Baton Rouge, Houston, Austin and San Antonio.

Clough told the Journal that it had been a lifelong dream of Ms. Paine's to ride her horse from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Clough said his dream was to see what was beyond the horizon and although he had never been on a horse in his life, they combined their two dreams and started out.

Ms. Paine stated that they had run into a lot of cold weather, but that wasn't too bad until they hit the wind. "With the wind it gets pretty cold on horseback."

The trip has been made possible through donations of food, money and shelter from the many generous individuals they have met along the way.

Ms. Paine and Clough stayed at the Heritage House Inn while in Muleshoe.

"Since we left Lubbock we have seen some of the nicest and friendliest people we have ever met," Clough said.

State Leaders Introduce Fair Share School Financing Plan

State leaders unveiled the Fair Share Plan, a public education funding plan that would abolish County Education Districts, equalize access to public school funding across the state, dedicate money to teachers and foster student achievement.

"The plan that Lt. Governor Bob Bullock, Speaker Gib Lewis and I have drafted does three things: it achieves a level of equity across the state, it is far less disruptive than almost any other plan that we have seen and it emphasizes quality in the classroom," Governor Ann Richards said.

"It also does the one thing the people of the state have asked us to do: it ends the court-inspired gridlock that has gripped the schools of this state and allows us to get on with educating our children."

"This leadership plan brings stability to our Texas school system--something that has been missing for a decade or more," Bullock said. "More importantly, it ensures that our public schools will stay open in June and that they will be adequately funded."

"School finance is the most complex issue facing Texas government today, and I believe we have put together a program that tackles the problem fairly, responsibly and within the resources we have available to us," Bullock added.

Lewis said the constitutional amendment that accompanies the Fair Share Plan would give all Texans the right to accept or reject the concepts behind it.

"This plan establishes a clear standard of equity that should end the lawsuits on that issue," Lewis said. "That standard will restore certainty to the whole issue of school finance."

Richards said the Fair Share Plan also "goes a step beyond equity" to encourage quality education by incorporating the Good Schools Fund. "The Good Schools section of the plan would promote innovation and improve student achievement by giving school districts an incentive to excel. And that's exactly where our attention should be--not on arcane matters of school finance."

In addition to resolving school equity and establishing the Good Schools Fund, the three officials said the Fair Share Plan would:

- * Abolish the County Education Districts;

- * Provide state assistance for the construction of school facilities;

- * Restore budget certainty by ending the annual shortfalls in state aid known as proration.

- * Limit the amount of money spent on local administrators; and

- * Require schools to spend at least 60 percent of their budgets on instructional costs. The largest item in this category is teachers' salaries.

"These provisions will help provide for an orderly budget process for local districts by stopping the annual shortfalls in state spending and assisting districts with the construction of classrooms," Bullock said. "The plan also makes teachers and classroom instruction, not education bureaucracy, our number one funding priority."

The Fair Share Plan would shift money from a small group of the state's very wealthiest school districts--less than 11 percent--to the Teacher Retirement System, which benefits all school districts. Less than three percent of the $16 billion in state and local public education funds would be affected.

Above certain tax rate, wealthy districts would be allowed to keep what their local taxes raise. That means under the Fair Share Plan, no district will be required to reduce funding or 'level down.'

Quality Of Life Enhanced For Texans

The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) delivered 363.7 million dollars in services to rural Texans through four loan and grant programs: Farmer Programs, Rural Housing, Community Programs, and Business and Industry. The engineering staff of this agency had a significant impact on delivering the most value to rural Texas communities for the dollars spent.

"Saving dollars for borrowers and taxpayers and increasing the quality of life for rural Texans is the main objective of the Engineering and Architect section of FmHA," Neal Sox Johnson, State Director of Farmers Home Administrations said.

By working with the private sector, engineers at FmHA developed 69 water and sewer projects in Fiscal Year 1992. FmHA engineers ensure the facilities are modest in design and cost. Rural water systems can include flush valves and fire truck filling valves, which greatly enhance the capability of Volunteer Fire Departments. "Engineering Services provided by FmHA assures the needed water projects are affordable, as well as fill the present and future needs of the community," Johnson said.

In the financing of sewer collection and treatment facilities for rural Texas, FmHA assists in the use of practical alternatives. Natural treatment facilities using ponds, sunlight, wave action, wetland plants, and microbial organizations are ideal methods for utilizing the resources of rural Texas. These treatments provide an alternative to mechanical plants which often have high operational costs and can be a financial burden to small communities with limited budgets.

FmHA has established thermal construction standards for FmHA financed apartments and double and single family housing, which is an aggressive step toward reducing utility costs for housing borrowers and saving natural resources.

FmHA also completes and environmental assessment on all loans and grants submitted to the agency. Public awareness and involvement in environmental review phase is important to an accurate environmental assessment which ensures that import and land, resources, such as wetlands, flood plains, prime farm land, prime range land, and prime forest land are not compromised.

"We are proud of our engineer section and their efforts to save tax dollars and improve the quality of life in rural areas. A clearer healthier environment, and preservation of our heritage will guarantee that rural Texas will remain productive for future generations," the FmHA State Director said.

President Bush's budget has allocated approximately 393.7 million dollars to serve rural Texans through Farmer Programs, rural Housing, Community Programs and Business and Industry loan and grant programs in Fiscal Year 1993.

Recent statistics from the Department of Labor show that telephone service is one of the best values.

In the past five years, food and beverage costs have gone up over 23 percent, housing costs up over 21 percent, and medical care skyrocketed over 45 percent. During this same period, the cost of telephone service increased by little more than 3 percent nationwide.

At GTE, we're doing our best to make your telephone service an EXCELLENT VALUE.

TFB Announces Membership Increase

Texas' largest farm organization announced a membership gain over the previous year. The Texas Farm Bureau achieved a gain in members in 1992 for the first time since 1989.

"This membership gain could not have been accomplished without the all-out effort of so many dedicated Farm Bureau people," said TFB President S.M. True in announcing that the TFB ended fiscal year 1992 (Oct. 31) with 296,165 member families.

That represented a 141 gain over the 296,024 member families Texas Farm Bureau had at the end of FY 1991. The last gain was accomplished in 1989 when TFB finished the year with 327,589 member families for a 1,422 gain.

True will accept a plaque signifying TFB's gain at the 54th annual American Farm Bureau Federation meeting, Jan. 10-14, 1993, at Anaheim, Calif. TFB continues to rank among the leading state FBs in total membership. Texas Farm Bureau ranked No. 1 nationally from 1982 through 1987.

The president of the state's largest general farm organization acknowledged that the membership gain initiative moved into high gear in the final weeks of the year.

"County Farm Bureaus experienced the kind of intensity not seen in come time," True said. "It's that kind of concerted effort that gets the job done. Not only were our state and county leaders involved, but also the office personnel both at the state and county levels."

TFB Executive Director Vernie Glasson reminded TFB staff members of the importance of their own participation as members of "one of the finest grassroots organizations in the country."

Glasson noted that staffers were working tirelessly "well into the wee hours of Saturday (Oct. 31) checking and rechecking to determine the exact membership total."

True attributed TFB's "Kicker Over the Goal" campaign for pumping new life in this years membership program. As a consequence, many county FBs will be recognized for their membership gains.

The Plainview cotton, grain and cattle producer stressed that "membership is the lifeblood of any organization. A strong, vibrant membership translates into a strong organization with clout both in Texas and the nation."

Tips On Preventing Freezing Pipes

"Freezing pipes are a common problem during the winter months, and damage caused by frozen pipes that break can be costly to repair," warns William Griswold, vice president of the Property Insurance Center at Government Employee Insurance Company (GEICO).

To prevent breakage and flooding Griswold offers the following advice.

*Insulate pipes. Easy to install insulation is available in most hardware stores.

*Drain all outside spigots before the first freeze. Pipes connected to spigots are highly susceptible to freezing since they run through walls to the outside. To drain, cut off water at the valve inside the house that feeds the spigot. Then open the spigot itself to allow water remaining in the pipe to drain out completely.

*When the temperature drops below freezing, keep an eye on pipes in unheated areas of your home—basement crawl spaces, exterior walls and the laundry room. These are the ones most likely to freeze.

*On particularly cold days, allow inside faucets to drip slowly and open cabinets underneath sinks to allow heat to reach the pipes.

*When you leave your house during cold weather, don't turn off the heat or set the thermostat too low.

"Methods for preventing freezing pipes are relatively easy and inexpensive," Griswold said. Such precautions are well worth the time and money to prevent the headaches and expensive damage that neglect could cause on a cold winter's day."

A lot of worry can be wasted on other people.

Tuberculosis Is Back

Tuberculosis (TB) is back and it's deadlier than ever.

"Tuberculosis is a major threat to public health," says Dr. Benjamin Interiano of The Methodist Hospital in Houston. "We are definitely seeing more TB cases now and attribute the increase to conditions that exist in many urban areas."

Tuberculosis is a bacterial infection of the lungs which is transmitted through the air. TB is very contagious, but it usually takes close contact with a TB patient over an extended period of time to become infected.

According to Interiano, TB was widespread until 1963 when the number of cases reported dropped dramatically. Nearly a quarter of a century later, in 1987, the number of TB cases shot up and continues to climb.

Those at increased risk of contracting TB are Blacks, Hispanics, health care workers, migrant workers, homeless people, and those who live in crowded, poorly ventilated conditions.

Interiano attributes the recent spread of tuberculosis to the influx of immigrants from Asia and Latin America where it is common.

Most people don't realize they've been infected, so it is important to be aware of TB's warning symptoms: a chronic cough, fatigue, weakness, unexplained weight loss, loss of appetite, and fever.

"The best way to control tuberculosis is to treat infected cases properly and quickly," says Interiano. "It is important to trace the infection back to its source and test all the people who have had contact with the infected person."

TB is 100 percent curable when it is discovered and treated properly. "When the infection is found, it can be treated with a medication that kills the germ," says Interiano. "But the medication must be taken for six to nine months."

The test for tuberculosis is simple and should be given annually to those considered at "high risk" of contracting the disease. A small needle is used to put tuberculin under the skin. In two or three days, a health care professional will check for a reaction that indicated the presence of the germ.

TB tests are offered through your physicians office. They are also offered for free or for a small fee at many city health clinics. Call the health clinic in your area for more information.

Public Comment Requested

Anyone interested in bicycle or pedestrian lanes, landscaping, historic preservation or the environment can have a hand in forming the state's transportation enhancement program.

The Texas Department of Transportation invites public comment on its proposed program framework for transportation enhancements. Transportation enhancement projects include rehabilitation of historic transportation buildings, archaeological planning and research, and mitigation of water pollution as a result of highway runoff. Except for bicycle or pedestrian walkway projects, these enhancements cannot be located on a local roads or rural minor roads.

Ten percent of federal funds apportioned to states for the Surface Transportation Program must be used for these enhancement programs. During the six-year term of the new federal transportation bill, the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act of 1991, Texas would have $180 million for such projects.

Any project must comply with federal laws governing environmental processes.

"No one knows better what the people of Texas want in the way of transportation than the people of Texas," said TxDOT Executive Director Arnold Oliver. "People know where their area needs landscaping or preservation or a bicycle lane. We want to hear about it."

Anyone who wants to examine the program TxDOT is considering may write the Division of Planning and Policy, Texas Department of Transportation, 125 E. 11th Street, Austin, Texas, 78701-2483. Or, they may contact the TxDOT district office in their area.

People may mail or fax their written comments to Thomas A. Gabriel, Director of Planning and Policy, TxDOT, 125 E. 11th Street, Austin, Texas, 78701-2483, Fax 512/475-2951. The deadline for submitting comments is 5 p.m., Nov. 5, 1992.

After TxDOT reviews and analyzes all comments, a transportation enhancement program will be developed. Before TxDOT takes a final action on the program, the department will seek more public comment by holding public hearings.

MICROWAVE TIPS

When reheating leftovers in the microwave it's important to add water.

Add only a tablespoon or slightly more water, or sauce, to dried out meat leftovers.

The moisture thus added won't change the flavor and creates steam which helps even the heat.

Texas Supertrain Offers Safer Travel

Statistics show that travel on the new Texas Supertrain is dramatically safer than driving a car, and project officials say the new system should bring a sharp improvement in the state's grisly record of travel-related deaths and injuries.

Official records show that in 1990, 3,243 people were killed and 262,576 people were injured in automobile accidents in Texas. By contrast, high speed rail in France has carried more than 180 million passengers with a perfect safety record. It has operated for more than a decade without a single fatality.

"There is no question that high speed rail is a much safer travel alternative," Project Manager Bob Ryan says.

High speed rail's promise for improving public safety in transportation was a prime consideration in the formation of a new statewide student group which is supporting the project. Members of "Future Alternatives for Safer Transportation" (FAST) have been established chapters on a number of Texas college campuses.

The new train also is supported by the leaders of "Students Against Drunk Driving" (SADD), which cites the high rate of highway fatalities as the motivating factor in searching for safer transportation alternatives.

"Each year, we are losing more people to alcohol-related auto collisions than make up the entire population of University of Texas," says UT Chapter President Claudia Carroll. "If someone is drunk on a train they might be embarrassing, but they won't be deadly."

Vaccination Can Cut Chances Of Becoming Sick With Flu

While there still is no cure for the flu, a Texas Christian University doctor said a flu vaccination can reduce the chances

NOTES, COMMENT

News isn't what happens: it's what is reported.

The key to happiness in life lies in selfishness.

There's nothing morally wrong about being poor.

of contracting the ailment. TCU student health center physician Dr. Burton Schwartz explained that the flu is a virus and cannot be cured with antibiotic drugs. He said the best treatment is prevention. Noting that protection from the flu does not begin immediately after a vaccination is administered, Schwartz urged people to get shots in advance of the Texas flu season, which begins in late December and lasts through early spring.

Following a vaccination, the body's immune system needs at least two weeks to generate the antibodies necessary to fight the sickness, he said. Protection from the flu will last about six months. Schwartz said a common misperception is that a flu shot can infect a person with the disease. "That is no so," he said. "These are inactivated viruses."

Nearly everyone should get a flu shot, especially the elderly, those people with chronic disease and professionals who take care of the sick, Schwartz explained. Since the vaccine is made from virus grown in chicken eggs, only people who have an allergy to eggs are warned against taking the vaccination.

Schwartz said a woman who is pregnant should discuss the risks and benefits of the vaccination with her physician.

"Many doctors don't like giving vaccines or medicines to women who are pregnant for fear of damaging the fetus, but it is well known that a pregnant woman who gets the flu might have even more tragic results," Schwartz said.

The TIE that Binds...

Man and woman began their married life in church and according to God's holy word are joined together. With the Bible as the basis for the beginning of a new life together, it seems only reasonable that a continued study of God's word would strengthen and serve as a guide to any couple. The Bible can truly serve as a tie that will bind two together in accord. The church as God's agency on earth can help you in Bible study, and with the guidance of the Holy Spirit can help you to understand God's will in your life.

"And the Lord shall guide thee continually, and satisfy thy soul in drought, and make fat thy bones; and thou shalt be like a watered garden, and like a spring of water, whose waters fail not." Isaiah 58-11

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,
What do you do about people who start telling you something you wish to know and they make so many detours while they tell the story that the listener is worn down before the person gets to the point? At times she never finishes telling me what happened.

Do you think I should tell her she wears people down with all these side trips she takes in her conversation?

Tired Listener--Fla.
Answer:
Your friend is what is known as a Rambler. She rambles around about every new person or idea which comes to her mind and before she realizes it she is off the original subject altogether.

The only thing you can do is to stop her in the midst of her discourse with, "Well what did happen?"

--Louisa

Preference
A girl, filling out a form before going to college, came to the question: "What is your denominational preference?" She wrote: "I like to be called Betty."

Double Load
Wife: "Gosh, I'm getting a double chin!"
Hubby: "No wonder. Too much work for one."

Sad World
Moe--What would you do if there were no women? Who would sew your buttons on?
Joe--If there were no women, we wouldn't need any buttons.

Smart Girl
Chaplain Bruno said to little Alice: "Would you rather be beautiful or good?"
She replied: "Beautiful, I can always repent."

Tough
Life is cruel to men. When they're born, their mothers get compliments and flowers; when they get married, the bride gets presents and publicity; and when they die, their wives get the insurance and the winters in Florida.

Crossed 'Em Up
Owner: Got away did he? Did you guard all the exits?
Policeman: Yes, but we think he must have left by one of the entrances.

Too Much!

A few years back when the newness and glitz of space flying had Americans and Congress traumatized, and when there was competition with the other superpower, Congress agreed to a NASA program of increased space flights in the future by the U.S. shuttle.

Now, in that future (now), when there's no nuclear threat and little need of so many similar shuttle flights, NASA is sending more shuttles into orbit than ever before--long after astronauts have carried out all meaningful experiments bureaucrats at Houston and Cape Canaveral can think up. The latest liftoff, party financed by Japan, thankfully, was a magnificent, hundred million dollar farce. NASA scientists explained that this space flight would carry along two fish, four frogs, some hornets and flies--to be researched!

The hundreds of millions wasted on these continuing space flights, in the different atmosphere of today, could be better used to aid Americans in distress. Further expenditures to fund NASA's repetitive shuttle extravaganzas could otherwise be applied to space station development. Too much, already!

Where Did
Roseanne
Go Wrong?

On a recent episode of ABC's popular Roseanne show, Roseanne Conner, her sister and a friend applied for a business start-up loan for a restaurant from the U.S. Small Business Administration. Unlike more than 26,000 applicants in the past year, Roseanne was turned down.

Roseanne walked into SBA with little more than a recipe for "loose meat sandwiches," meager experience, no business plan, no management background and expected to walk out with a barrel of cash. It's little wonder that the SBA loan officer, who must also protect the taxpayers' interests, considered her to be a bad risk. Where did Roseanne go wrong?

First, she didn't understand the program. The SBA's 7(a) loan guarantee program for general business loans is the government's most responsible and respected tool for economic development and job creation.

With a direct and guaranteed business loan portfolio of about $22.5 billion, SBA is the largest single financial backer of U.S. businesses today. In fact, SBA's business loan portfolio is nearly twice as large as the nation's next biggest commercial lender, Citibank.

In fiscal year 1992, SBA approved business loan guarantees amounting to nearly $5.5 billion, up about 35 percent from FY 1991. About 98 percent of the SBA's FY 1992 business credit program consists of capital extended by commercial lenders and guaranteed by SBA.

The SBA program is first and foremost a loan guarantee program. The actual loans are made by commercial lenders. If borrowers meet SBA's loan standards, SBA can guarantee up to 90 percent of the loan, up to $750,000.

Before applying for a loan, Roseanne should have prepared a realistic business plan and documented her financial resources and expectations, including appraisals of collateral and cash flow forecasts.

She could have some pointers or even free one-on-one help putting all that together by calling an SBA Small Business Institute, a Small Business Development Center or the local Service Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE). If she had access to a computer with a modem, Roseanne could contact SBA On-Line, a national electronic bulletin board through which she could get all kinds of information about SBA loan programs, financial management services, publications, training and much more.

She next should have visited a commercial lender. Maybe Roseanne could have qualified for a loan right there, and her "Lunch Box Cafe" would have been off and running. If the lender turned her down, or was willing to certify that it would reject her application without a guarantee, Roseanne then could have asked about an SBA guarantee.

The reason SBA can guarantee a loan that doesn't meet bank standards is that SBA focuses more on ability to repay the loan, on cash flow, rather than on collateral. Plus, SBA-guaranteed loans are generally longer maturity loans, so the monthly payments are lower and the cash flow needed to support those payments can be lower. The average SBA loan is under $200,000. The average term is under 12 years. The maximum loan term is 25 years.

SBA looks for management ability and experience in the field, a feasible business plan, an adequate personal financial stake by the owner (between 20% and 30%) and the ability to repay the loan from projected cash flow and profits.

Roseanne Conner met almost none of these requirements, and it's too bad that she might not be able to qualify for an SBA guarantee. We'll never know, though, because she never tried to get a bank to finance the loan, and without that, SBA can't commit to a guarantee.

But at least the story had a happy ending. Roseanne found another source of capital—her mother. And we'll just have to wait and see whether the scriptwriters over at ABC will give her business the success she is striving for.

Meanwhile, SBA will continue to evaluate and approve credit guarantees for entrepreneurs who can come in with a good, well-developed idea and the commitment to turn that idea into commercial success.

For more information about SBA's lending program, contact your local lender or your nearest SBA office. You can find the SBA office nearest you by looking in the government section of your local telephone book or by calling the SBA Answer Desk at 1-800-U-ASK-SBA.
