Bomb Bits To Be Sent to Pantex

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI)—Bits and pieces of four hydrogen bombs scattered on the ice of a Greenland bay by a plane crash will be flown and trucked to the Pantex weapon plant of the Atomic Energy Commission near Amarillo, the manager of the plant said Saturday.

H. Jack Blackwell, Atomic Energy Commission area manager, and thus manager of the Pantex plant said, "There is absolutely no danger of explosion" from the parts of the bombs. He said he did not know if the pieces are radioactive or not, but what is done with them will be determined after they arrive. Blackwell said it had not been determined when the parts will arrive.

The pieces were hauled Saturday to Thule, Greenland, and will be flown to Texas, the Defense Department said in Washington.

The Pantex plant is some 20 miles northeast of Amarillo. It has 1,300 to 1,500 workers, the numbers varying with production demands.

Pantex puts together nuclear weapons components, receiving parts from other areas and assembling them at Amarillo for delivery to the Department of Defense.

It has design laboratories as well. A similar plant operating in Burlington, Iowa, is the only other one in the nation like it.

The H-bomb pieces will be flown to Amarillo Air Force Base, then taken in truckloads to the Pantex plant.

There is a possibility some of them would be radioactive, but they were shielded and the plant is equipped to handle them without danger to the area, Blackwell said.

The plant will check them for radioactivity and decide whether they can be salvaged for use again in a nuclear weapon or whether they must be disposed of.

The four H-bombs were dumped on the ice of North Star Bay when a bomber on Arctic patrol crashed Jan. 21 while trying to make an emergency landing at the U.S. air base in Thule. Some 450 persons worked in the recovery operation, hampered by the almost total darkness and temperatures down to 30 degrees below zero.

Wilson to Deliver Soviet Position on Vietnam to LBJ

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson flies to Washington Wednesday to deliver to President Johnson the Kremlin's latest assessment of chances for settlement of the stepped up war in Vietnam.

Authoritative sources said the Soviet position is anything but encouraging.

Wilson leaves Wednesday and is to meet with President Johnson Thursday and Friday at the White House for wide-ranging policy talks.

The British prime minister conferred recently with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, party chief Leonid Brezhnev and President Nikolai Podgorny in the Kremlin and discussed at length the Vietnam conflict and the future of East-West relations.

He is taking a detailed report of these discussions to Johnson on the views the Kremlin leaders made it plain were intended especially for the President's ear.

The Kremlin wants the President to know that it will not lift a finger to bring Hanoi to the conference table. This, in Moscow's latest view, must be done by the United States and Hanoi, as the chief parties involved in the Vietnam conflict.

However, once talks have been agreed between them, Russia is willing to "assist" in a settlement. Russia and the United States are at length the Vietnam conflict and the future of East-West relations.

Don Yarborough Announces In Governor Race

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—The major question in the Democratic gubernatorial primary appears to be who will get into the runoff with Don Yarborough.

Yarborough, Houston lawyer who announced his candidacy Saturday, is conceded a spot in the runoff by most of the other candidates.

Barring the entry of another liberal candidate before the filing deadline at midnight Monday—and none is in sight—Yarborough should have little competition for the liberal vote which makes up perhaps one-third of the party.

Another plus for Yarborough is the fact that by all estimates, there are 750,000 to 1 million new voters registered this year. Many of those are members of minority groups that have been enthusiastic for Yarborough in the past.

The other eight Democratic candidates are all moderates or conservatives and differ very little on issues.

With the possible exceptions of Pat O'Daniel of Dallas, who is running on a religious platform, and Edward L. Whittenburg of Houston, who has money but no experience or political base, all are serious candidates with backing, money and a chance to win.

Thus it appears certain that (See YARBOROUGH, Page 3)

Eight Fires Are Set in Hillsboro

HILLSBORO, Tex. (UPI)—Police disclosed Saturday that several persons Friday night threw a wad of burning newspaper into a home about two blocks from where early Thursday eight buildings were destroyed or damaged by fires that appeared deliberately set.

Hillsboro police said, however they doubted the Friday night incident had anything to do with the Thursday fires. Two Negro churches and two vacant homes were destroyed in the Thursday fires. Another church was damaged. Two other houses and a barber shop were damaged.

Mrs. Cleveland Price, a Negro, said someone slipped up to her home Friday night, broke a window and threw in a wad of burning newspaper. The only damage was the broken window. She extinguished the fire in the newspaper.

Mrs. Price shot at the intruders with a shotgun and said one was "rather large" but she had the impression they were youths.

A $2,500 reward was posted for the person or persons who set the Thursday fires, which were over a four-block area.

One thousand dollars of the reward was put up by the county last spring when a rash of rural fires broke out.

Police questioned six persons Thursday and a seventh person—a police character—Friday night. All questioned so far have been Negroes. The man picked up Friday night was questioned three hours and police said they want to question him again.

Nixon Unveils Campaign Theme—Private Enterprise

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI)—Richard M. Nixon unveiled Saturday the major theme of his campaign for the GOP presidential nomination—let private enterprise solve the nation's problems.

In the first major speech of his pre-primary swing through New Hampshire, Nixon told a kickoff dinner audience that the United States cannot afford four more years of Lyndon B. Johnson in the White House and further travel down "a road that leads to big government and little people."

"Or do we take a new road—one that taps the energies of the greatest engine of productivity the world has ever seen, the engine of American industry and American private enterprise?" Nixon asked. "I say we take this new road. This means providing tax credit and other incentives for business to go where the need is, and to do efficiently what government now does so inefficiently."

Nixon touched only briefly on international affairs, noting that "the great test" of the American spirit was taking place at home. He charged that the Johnson approach to every problem is to begin with government and the approach has failed because it has not taken into account that America's greatness lies in what people have done for themselves.

"There are those who say that there's nothing new about relying on private enterprise," Nixon noted. "But what is new is both the capacity and the will of private enterprise to do the job . . . its leaders have developed a social conscience far beyond anything the leaders of the '20s and the '30s would have recognized. And at the same time, technology has thrown wide the windows of the possible."

Nixon said the skills and resources private enterprise now commands "are those that we need if the new freedoms are to be made a living reality for all our people." He defined the new freedoms as not freedom "from" hunger, want, and fear but freedom "to" grow, choose, travel, create, work, and enjoy the fruits of labor.

Last Minute Hitches Found In Soviet-Romanian Pact

MOSCOW (UPI)—Last minute hitches have developed in Soviet-Romanian negotiations to renew a 20-year friendship pact which expires Sunday, qualified diplomatic sources said Saturday.

Talks for extending the treaty were begun late December when Romanian party chief Nicolae Ceausescu came to Moscow and an agreement in principle was reached provided the Kremlin accepted certain new formulas proposed by the Romanians.

Technical conversations on the new text were begun in Bucharest last month and are being continued in Moscow now.

But no new treaty is expected within the next few weeks. Nonetheless Soviet and Romanian leaders are preserving at least a facade of normality and even cordiality and are formally marking the anniversary of the treaty with a series of mass meetings in the two capitals and special newspaper articles.

Although there is no new treaty yet, top Soviet and Romanian leaders exchanged messages Saturday night reaffirming their friendship and calling the 20-year-old treaty "an important factor in the development of Soviet-Romanian relations."

Combat Reminiscent of World War II Campaign in Normandy

HUE, South Vietnam (UPI)—U.S. Marines battled North Vietnamese infantrymen in the streets of Hue Saturday in combat reminiscent of World War II fights through the villages of Normandy. Snipers blazed away at Leathernecks darting from house-to-house and door-to-door.

The Marines moved 90-millimeter guns into position, lowered their barrels and fired into buildings used as strongholds by North Vietnamese regulars and their Viet Cong allies.

It was a scene of almost incredible destruction in a city famed as a tourist spot before the war for foreigners who came to know it as "the Venice of the Orient."

The battle started last Wednesday when North Vietnamese forces invaded Hue and clamped control on a big part of the old imperial capital. By Saturday night, the crossfire had blown giant holes in ancient walls, gutted schoolbuses and heavily damaged the Roman Catholic cathedral in the center of town.

Marines were crouching in doorways and inside buildings, firing out the windows at Viet Cong snipers in the second story of another building across the street.

U.S. and South Vietnamese planes dropped 250-pound and 500-pound bombs on the southern walls of the citadel, that part of Hue where the kings and queens of Vietnam lived when the country was a monarchy known as Annam. A North Vietnamese combat team was holed up in the citadel.

The U.S. Marine force trying to take Hue was headed by Col. S.S. Hughes of Tacoma, Wash. He set up a command post on the southern banks of the river. (See MARINES, Page 3)

Baby Girl, Refused at Hospital, Dies From Brain Hemorrhaging

CHICAGO (UPI)—A day-old baby girl who was turned away from a hospital after she was born in the back seat of her father's car died Saturday.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Johnston of suburban Northlake, not even named yet, died at Edgewater Hospital of "a brain hemorrhage and brain damage because of a lack of oxygen—definitely," according to the family's pediatrician, Dr. Benjamin Emanuel.

Mrs. Dianne Johnston, 38, the mother of three other children, remained in good condition at the hospital.

She and her daughter were admitted to Edgewater Hospital after they were refused admission to Sheridan General Hospital by a nurse and doctor who said Sheridan General lacked the proper facilities.

Richard Emerich, administrator of Edgewater Hospital, said, "It's incredible, it's hard to believe it could even happen. Nurses and interns all have obstetrics training. If they had taken the baby in and just got it started everything would have been all right, I'm sure."

The life of Baby-Girl Johnston began Friday morning in the back seat of her father's car while it followed a police escort through snow-bogged rush hour traffic.

Mrs. Johnston's husband Phillip, an agent for Prudential Insurance Co. in its Elgin, Ill., office, started the trip to Columbus Hospital, where his wife's obstetrician is on the staff, when it became evident that she was giving birth.

Johnston stopped his car and flagged down a police car. Patrolman Robert Carlson, his patrol car siren blaring and blue emergency light flashing, led Johnston to Sheridan General.

"It was the closest hospital," Carlson said. "I rushed into the lobby and said, 'A woman has just had a baby in the car outside.'"

"I'm sorry but we have no maternity facilities," Carlson was told by a nurse. "I asked her what she expected me to do," Carlson said. "A doctor came out. He didn't examine the woman or anything. He just gave us directions to Edgewater Hospital."

In his police report, Carlson wrote: "At no time did either nurse or doctor from Sheridan Hospital come out to the car to look at the woman," police said. Dr. Harold Brill, chairman of gynecology at Sheridan Hospital, denied that the mother and child were sent away without an examination.

"I talked to the resident who handled that case and he examined both in the car and felt the transfer to Edgewater only a mile-and-a-half away, was safe," he said. "The baby had already been born and was in good condition. The baby was breathing when she left here."

By the time she got to Edgewater, doctors "there reported she had stopped breathing and was turning blue. But a furious 10-minute effort in the emergency room, including mouth-to-mouth resuscitation by a nurse, revived the tiny girl and she began to improve."

Six Indictments, One No Bill Set By Grand Jury

The January term of the 31st Judicial District grand jury returned six indictments and one no bill Friday afternoon.

The 11-man, one-woman jury returned indictments against Homer E. Beard and Jim Lee Bradshaw on four counts of burglary, a swindling with a worthless check, true bill against Mrs. W. E. Moses and a forgery and passing true bill against C. L. Reach.

Beard, 31, who lists his home as Carlsbad, N.M., and Bradshaw, 32, who lists his hometown as Odessa, were charged with burglaries of four businesses in Pampa.

The two were brought from Kermit to Pampa on a warrant from the Gray County Sheriff's Department. They were being held in Kermit for a burglary there.

The no-bill was returned in a case where no formal charges had been filed.

The third all-choir rehearsal for Pampa Oratorio Chorus will start at 2 p.m. today in First Christian Church. Singers from all area churches and high school choirs are asked to rehearse with the chorus which will present Brahms' German Requiem in English April 21.

Pampa Fine Arts Association is sponsoring the Brahms concert, which will be directed by Dr. Richard P. Condie, director of the Salt Lake City, Utah, Mormon Tabernacle Choir.

Singers from seven Panhandle area towns rehearsed Jan. 28 here. Randall Purvis, minister of music of First Baptist Church, directed the last rehearsal.

Curt Beck, musical arts committee chairman, said the chorus needs about 100 more tenor and bass singers to balance the vocal arrangement.

Soloists are Mrs. John Garcia, White Deer, soprano; Fred Watkins, Pampa, as baritone-bass, and Mrs. Eldean Reed, Borger, alternate soprano.

Accompanists are Mrs. John Gill, pianist, and Jerry Whitten, organist, both of Pampa.

Lewis has lived in Pampa for 33 years and is a 1949 graduate of Pampa High School. He has attended Frank Phillips College for two years and is a combat veteran of the Korean War. He has been in business for himself the last 10 years in Pampa and presently operates the Yellow Cab Company.

Lewis is a member of the Elks Lodge and the Optimist Boys Club.

He resides at 1904 N. Dwight with his wife, Marilyn, and three children, Howard, 10, Debbie, 7, and William, 5.

Medicare Rolls Open Until April

The second general medicare enrollment period is now open, and will continue until April 1. Virgil Holloway, manager of the Pampa social security office said Saturday.

Most persons 65 and older who did not enroll in the first period will receive an application blank in the mail. Those who wish to enroll and do not receive the letter should contact their social security office for the enrollment form.

This part of medicare helps pay doctor bills and other medical expenses not covered by hospital insurance. Those who enroll now will be covered beginning next July 1. The premium payment will be $4 monthly, which is matched by the government. Enrollees who could have signed up a year or longer earlier will pay an additional premium of 40 cents a month above the $4.

The next general enrollment period will be in 1969, and those who enroll late must pay an additional premium cost of 10 per cent for each year they could have had the medical insurance but were not enrolled. More than 9 out of 10 persons over 65 have already signed up for the medical insurance, Holloway stated.

100 PHS Students Are Involved In Musical Program

About 100 Pampa High School students are involved in the 1968 musical "Brigadoon," which will be performed at 8 p.m. Feb. 29, March 1 and 2 in the high school auditorium.

The PHS choral department, directed by Billy Davis, has rehearsed since Jan. 2. The 16 cast members are working with a select group of the PHS band for their pit orchestra, and have about 15 students and adults assisting with production arrangements.

Mrs. Floyd Sackett, PHS art teacher, will supervise her students this week in painting the sets.

"We are using cloth drops from California for the sets, audio equipment from Lubbock and costumes and lighting equipment from Dallas. This show will and should be flashy and showy. We've added 14 spotlights and are rewiring the lights," Davis said.

Jeanne Willingham, a Pampa dancer, is choreographer. Jerry Baxter is lighting and sound director.

Students working on production are Jan Pitts, makeup; Helen McClendon, props; Vicki Martin, assistant stage director and ticket sales; Ralph Baxter, assistant music director; Linda Gunn, program advertising sales; Jay Losher, stage crew director and Pam Thomas and Debra Huff, costumes.

Girls in charge of ushers are Debbie Sheehan, Cindy Cambern, Patti Hollinworth and Jeri Vaughan.

Male cast members, in order of appearance, are Fillmore Merrill, as Tommy Albright, a 30-year-old New Yorker; Greg Gunter, as Jeff Douglas, a 35-year-old New Yorker; John Duggan, as Angus MacGuffin, 30, a Scot; Tim Dike, as Archie Beaton, 50, a Scot; Mark Presser, as Harry Beaton, Archie's son and Jay Losher, as Sandy Dean, a Scottish peppermint vendor.

Other male thespians are David Murphy, as Andrew MacLaren, a hardy Scot in his late 50's; Randy Cantrell, as Charles Dalrymple, a young Scot in his early 20's; Tommy Rose as Mr. Lundie, Scottish school master; Chris Kenny as Stuart Dalrymple; David Cory, as MacGregor; and Terry Ellis, as Frank, the bartender.

Davis, the director, named girl cast members Mary Jane Rose, as Meg Brookie, a "determined girl with little charm"; Polly Wagner, as Jean MacLaren, 18, and Gail Craddock, as Fiona MacLaren, 22, both Andrew's daughters. Pam Shelhamer is Jane Ashton, a "chic, attractive New Yorker in her late 20's."

This is the ninth production Davis has directed. He has directed both music and staging on two operas, "Jumping Frog of Calaveras County," and Gilbert and Sullivan's "Trial by Jury."

On two operas, "Tosca" and "Gianhi Schicchi," he directed the music only. He also directed music only on the musicals "South Pacific," "Oklahoma" and "The King and I." On the musical, "Bye, Bye, Birdie," he directed both music and staging.

Tickets for "Brigadoon," the story of a mystical city which appears only once every 100 years, are available at Richard Drug in Pampa, and from PHS choir members.

The moderate and conservative vote will be badly fragmented. Lt. Gov. Preston Smith is well known and experienced. Because he will wield a gavel sometime this year over a $150 million tax bill, he has a strong claim to support from business and trade organizations.

Former Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr is also experienced and well-known.

However, he and Smith cut into each other's strength and Carr holds no advantage of incumbency and still has campaign debts from his 1966 Senate race.

Secretary of State John L. Hill is attractive and personable and expects to benefit from television exposure. He claims support from many of Gov. John Connally's friends, but he is in disfavor with two or three Connally intimates who have tried to paint Hill as a liberal in Connally clothes.

Eugene Locke of Dallas, Dolph Briscoe Jr. of Uvalde and Gordon McLendon of Dallas have personal fortunes and are prominent in the business community.

Locke has a good deal of support from Connally's inner circle. Briscoe has a large reputation in farm circles and in South Texas, and McLendon is the most colorful in a rather lackluster field.

Canadian River Project Will Be "River of Gold"

C. O. (Spike) Crane of Amarillo, project construction engineer for the Canadian River Project, told a meeting of the Golden Spread Chapter of the Soil Conservation Society of America here last night that completion of the Canadian River Project this spring "would cause delivery conduits to be rivers of gold bringing in an income exceeding $10,000 a day."

Speaking to the Chapter at Lewis Buffeteria, Crane said the lake to provide the water supply was now about half filled and "we need a good heavy rain on the 2,000 mile drainage basin that would fill it up the rest of the way."

Crane said that the original estimated cost of the project was $6 million, but that it had now been revised down to $2 million.

"In April, permanent deliveries of water will reflect this reduction in the estimated cost. The price of water per 100 gallons will be from 8 to 19 cents, depending, of course, on where it is delivered."

The project engineer said all costs of the project, except that of the actual flood control costs, approximately 3 million, will be repaid to the federal government at a 2.6 per cent rate of interest.

Officers installed at the meeting were Don Davis of Claude, president; Dr. Rex Johnston of Bushland, vice president; and Fred Squires of Dumas, Harry Rucker of Amarillo and Douglas Cunningham of Pampa, directors. James Priddy of Hereford the outgoing president. He will serve as a director this year.

Milk Price War Said Likely To End This Week

A small price war which has driven the prices on some brands of milk down to a record low of 19 cents per half gallon may end Monday, an unofficial spokesman said today.

The price war, now in its second week, has driven prices down on some brands of milk from 47 cents per half gallon to 39 cents.

A spokesman for a major Panhandle milk distributor said Saturday that major distributors were holding the line on milk to what it had been for several weeks.

He said most price reductions on milk were on non-major brands sold through chain supermarkets and that the price competition was strictly on a local basis.

Most major brands of milk were still selling for 49 cents per half gallon, a survey made Saturday revealed.

The survey also revealed that so-called "non-major" brands ranged in price from 19 to 39 cents per half gallon.

Several merchants expressed the opinion Saturday that the price war would end early this week.

Five Clues To Drug Addiction

Many a parent has learned to their dismay that one of their children has become a drug addict. Usually by the time this information becomes known, it is because the child is in serious trouble as both a drug user and a criminal to procure his daily supply.

Look for these symptoms: 1) A good scholar becomes erratic for no apparent reason. 2) A shy child becomes talkative. 3) A truthful child starts telling lies and plays truant. 4) A healthy child loses weight and is unable to sleep. These characteristics indicate a possible but not positive drug addiction.

NIXON AND FRIENDS — State Representative and Mrs. Malouf Abraham of Canada are shown greeting former Vice-President Richard M. Nixon at the Shamrock Hilton Hotel in Houston. Nixon, who recently spoke to an overflow luncheon crowd of 1,500 enthusiastic guests in Houston, announced Thursday he will be a republican candidate for the presidency.

The following is a public service feature of the American Bar Association and the State Bar of Texas.

If a policeman stops you for a traffic violation, may he search your car?

This question might seem minor. But it raises some major constitutional issues. According to the Fourth Amendment, you are protected against "unreasonable searches." And evidence obtained from such a search cannot be used against you in court.

But what is "unreasonable"? Gradually, through a series of court rulings, several basic rules have become fairly well established.

For one thing, the search is not lawful if the motorist was stopped on a trumped-up charge, merely as an excuse for making the search.

In one case police suspected that a certain car contained illicit lottery tickets. To find out, they halted the car for "passing on a curve" — even though passing on that particular curve happened to be perfectly legal.

As it turned out, the police did indeed find lottery tickets in the car. Nevertheless, this evidence was held inadmissible in court, because there was no valid basis for the arrest in the first place.

Nor is the search lawful, even when there really was a traffic violation, if the search has no logical relation to the violation. Thus, police who stopped a motorist for making an improper U-turn were held not justified in searching the car for narcotics.

On the other hand, police who stopped a motorist for drunk driving were held justified in looking for whiskey. Their discovery of a bottle of gin, half empty, helped afterward to convict the motorist of driving while intoxicated.

Furthermore, the search is lawful if, after the car is stopped, police observe some telltale sign of criminal activity.

For example, while an officer was writing a ticket for speeding, a passenger in the car shifted his position—accidentally revealing a hidden pistol. The officer promptly made a search, discovering not only weapons but stolen merchandise as well. Under these circumstances, the search was held lawful and the evidence admissible in court.

Of course, the safest procedure for the police is to get a warrant before making their search. But the law is less insistent on a warrant for searching a car than for searching a house.

The reason is obvious: whisking a car out of the jurisdiction is easier than whisking a house.

IGNORES CRITICS
LONDON (UPI)—Dr. Christian Barnard, the South African heart transplant surgeon, said he was undeterred by the London Clinic's Medical Journal opinion that his methods to control tissue rejection were "crude, hazardous and inadequate."

Barnard, who was leaving for Paris today, said he would perform his next transplant operation in six to eight weeks.

the Drama of DRUGS

by Tom Beard

The Crusades of medieval times are credited with saving western civilization, but evidence passed down to us bear out the fact that, medically speaking, the dreaded Saracens was far in advance of his Christian foe.

According to one Moslem physician, Usamah ibn-Munquidh, Crusader doctors were barbaric butchers who knew nothing of the proper methods of treatment for wounds or disease.

However, although the Crusaders did not learn all they could have from Moslem medicine—considering themselves to be superior—there was one great pain.

This was the formation of a medical corps, the Knight Hospitaller, which set up a pioneer system of hospitals throughout Europe and the Near East.

Treatment of wounds and diseases depends greatly on the care with which prescriptions are compounded. Proper care is one of our assets.

Texas Veterans To Receive Over $8,755,787 in Insurance

Some 162,180 Texas veterans holding United States Government Life Insurance and National Service Life Insurance policies will receive $8,755,787 in dividends in 1968, Jack Coker, manager of the Waco VA regional office, has announced.

The first dividend checks went out Jan. 1. All dividends will be paid on the anniversary date of the veteran's GI insurance policy, Coker explained.

For 8,293 World War I veterans in Texas, the dividend on USGLI policies will total $656,475, with payments averaging $79. The 1967 USGLI dividend averages $43 less, Coker said.

The 1968 NSLI dividend for 153,887 Texas World War II and Korean Conflict veterans will total $8,099,312. Coker said that the average dividend payment of $52 on NSLI policies is $6 higher than last year's dividend.

He pointed out that veterans who converted their GI insurance to permanent plans will receive higher dividends in 1968 of increased interest earnings on reserves.

According to Coker, modified life insurance policies will not share in this year's dividend.

In 1964 Cuba shut off the water supply at the U.S. Naval base of Guantanamo, forcing temporary emergency measures.

In 1967 Cassius Clay battered challenger Ernie Terrell to defeat, retaining his heavyweight boxing title.

since premium rates for veterans holding these policies are so near actual costs that no surplus has accumulated.

Square House Visitors Set Record

PANHANDLE (Spl) — In checking the register at the Carson County Square House Museum, it was found that more than 3,500 visitors viewed the displays since last July 1, when the museum opened. It was discovered that 3,342 visitors registered from 85 Texas towns. There were 202 persons registered from 87 towns of 33 states other than Texas in the United States and 10 persons from seven foreign countries.

It is impossible to state the exact number of visitors for on special occasions such as the ribbon-cutting, the dedication, Chisholm Trail Days, and similar events, the workers in the museum know all visitors do not register. Those who do not sign the register far outnumber those who visited the museum more than once and signed each time. National and Texas officials of historical groups agree that the Carson County museum has set a remarkable record for the short time it has been opened to the public.

About one third of the persons who registered from Texas were residents of Carson County. It was noted that 196 visitors were from Amarillo, 179 from Borger, 110 from Spearman, 90 from Pampa, 26 from Dallas, 19 from Canyon, 15 from Austin, 12 from Lubbock and 10 each from Claude and Stinnett.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst
There is no way Saigon or any other city in South Vietnam can be protected against surprise sneak attack.

American officers long have estimated that the Viet Cong maintained at least one battalion inside Saigon at all times with three others on the outskirts to be infiltrated into the city when needed.

For Americans at home it may be difficult to understand how a village on Saigon's outskirts can remain a Viet Cong stronghold.

But that's the kind of war it is.

Marshy flatlands stretch away from Tan Son Nhut airport to the west, east and north. None of it has been pacified.

Off the airport's western edge is an area American pilots call "the happy hunting ground". It is where they jettison their remaining bombs and expend their ammunition when returning from an air attack.

Machinegun Fire
On takeoff from the military end of the airport it is not uncommon to see just below the winking red eye of a 50-caliber machinegun in the hands of a Viet Cong.

Across the Saigon River from the city proper is a restaurant popular with Americans. It is called the William Tell. It lies in Viet Cong territory and the fact that it usually is safe is another of the mysteries of the Vietnam war.

In the city itself Americans usually live in areas considered secure.

American insurance companies have been known to pay losses for thievery in such areas since they are secure and therefore entitled to insurance protection.

But it is a matter of relativity.

New arrivals in Saigon learn quickly to watch closely the man riding the back seat of a motor scooter and to spot the nearest tamarind tree behind which to jump. The man in the back is the one who throws the grenade.

The taxi driver who takes your tip with a smile may be the man shooting at you that night.

Chief Prizes
Saigon and the rich Mekong River delta are the chief prizes of the Vietnam war.

And Saigon, because it is both the capital and the headquarters of Gen. William C. Westmoreland and the U.S. Military Assistance Command, is a tempting target.

The attacks on Saigon and other South Vietnamese cities this week were unusual only for their size and the fact they were an obvious coordinated attempt to impress upon the people the strength of the Viet Cong.

In previous hit-run attacks the Viet Cong wrecked the old American embassy, killed other Americans dining on the riverboat restaurant My Canh, blew up American billets and demolished a floor of the Caravelle Hotel, the best in Saigon.

Two years ago on any one day Saigon might be bulging with as many as 50,000 Americans, each a potential VC target. A hope of reducing that target was one of the reasons for the decision to remove as many as possible to an American city to be built near Bien Hoa, some 15 miles to the north.

VA Loan Activity Up From 1966

VA loan activity in 1967 was substantially higher than in 1966, the Veterans Administration announced today.

Seasonally adjusted appraisal requests, however, declined for the second straight month, probably reflecting increasing costs and declining availability of mortgage funds. But VA housing starts, seasonally adjusted, increased from November.

VA housing starts in 1967 totaled 52,517, up 42.9 per cent from the 1966 total of 36,750; applications for home loan guaranty went up to 249,116 in 1967, a 36.5 per cent increase from 182,476 in 1966. Appraisal requests for new homes totaled 124,270 in 1967, up 25.3 per cent from 99,211 in 1966. Appraisal requests for existing homes amounted to 229,096 in 1967, up 43.7 per cent from 159,441 in 1966.

The seasonally adjusted annual rate for VA housing starts was 56,000 in December, compared to 54,000 in November. Appraisal requests for new homes on a seasonally adjusted basis were 125,000 in December, down 8.1 per cent from 136,000 in November. The seasonally adjusted annual rate for appraisal requests for existing homes was 194,000 in December, down 6.3 per cent from 207,000 in November.

Veterans interested in securing a home loan may contact their local VA office.

Red Cross News

By LIBBY SHOTWELL, Executive Secretary, ARC

This has been a busy week in our Red Cross office. Mrs. Noel Thompson, clerical secretary has completed the membership rolls. They were 2641 persons and firms who gave to help carry on the Red Cross work for 1968. Although the United Fund did make its goal, the Red Cross budget was not allowed this year and we are $5,000 short of our actual need. Anyone who did not pay during the U.F. drive may send a check to our chapter. March is the month designated as Red Cross month. This year the slogan is "SOS for our Servicemen." The work of the Red Cross is very great this year and the need is great.

Did you know that Red Cross assists 1 out of every 3 servicemen in the US, South Vietnam, and in 30 other foreign countries each year? That Red Cross messages to and from South Vietnam in behalf of U.S. Servicemen average over 800 a day? That 350 Red Cross workers are serving U.S. troops at more than 60 locations in South Vietnam and 25 Red Cross workers are serving them at 8 locations in Thailand. American Red Cross efforts in behalf of U.S. servicemen in South Vietnam and throughout the world are supported by volunteers and career workers.

There will be a Hospital Volunteer coffee at the home of Mrs. Lee Harrah, 2101 Duncan Tuesday, Feb. 6. All volunteers both active and inactive are invited to this important meeting.

Mrs. Harriet Maddox, teacher sponsor for the American Red Cross at Lamar School brought in tray favors and mats made by the children at Lamar school. Candy and napkins were bought from the JRC fund to complete the tray favors. Each child sent Valentine greetings to the patients at the Amarillo Air Force Base Hospital.

Volunteers have been trained this week to work at the Highland General Hospital serving juice and coffee to the patients. They are Gayle Ann Johnson, Connie Jo Schumacher, Kristy Gowdy, Annette Durham and Rebecca Walkup. They will work on Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

Mrs. Molly Butts has made another 10 lap robes to be sent to the Veterans Administration hospital in Amarillo. Molly has been busy helping Red Cross with layettes and other production articles.

Classes on fund and service groups will be held Feb. 8 in the city club rooms in the City Hall. Chapters from Gray, Hutchinson, Roberts, Hemphill, Wheeler counties will meet together the 8th. Visitors from St. Louis and the Amarillo chapter will direct the classes. The public is invited to attend.

FINAL TOUCHES — Austin artist G. Harvey is shown here as he put the finishing touches on the painting to be unveiled at a public reception next Sunday in the First National Bank lobby. The artist will be a guest at the reception and other Harvey paintings will be exhibited.

Regulations Explicit On Dividends, Charity

By RAY DE CRANE
NEA Publications

Dividends receive special treatment on your income tax return. This results from the fact that they represent corporate profits which have already been taxed once by the company paying them.

The first $100 in dividends received from qualified corporations (generally all U. S. corporations) is exempt from tax. On a joint return this exclusion applies to the first $100 in dividends received by each the husband and the wife.

This does not mean that a husband and wife are automatically entitled to a $200 dividend exclusion. If the stock upon which the dividends are paid are all held in the name of one spouse only $100 in dividends is excludable. And if one partner does not have enough stock in his or her name to use up the full $100 the other partner may not claim any of the unclaimed exclusion.

People who own mutual funds will frequently note on their annual report that they have been credited with capital gains dividends. Together with the first $100 in dividends, these are subtracted from gross dividends in determining the taxable dividends. The capital gains dividends are then accounted for on Schedule D, where only half the dividends will be found taxable.

Contributions to any recognized charity are fully deductible on your tax returns. However, contributions to individuals—no matter how worthy the cause might be—are never deductible.

Generally, contributions will include your church, Red Cross, United Appeal, a college or hospital building fund drive, or a similar agency.

In addition to cash contributions you may also have a deduction for works of art, clothing, furniture or home appliances to a recognized charitable group. In such cases the fair market value of the item (what you could have sold it for on the open market) determines your allowable deduction. Explain how you arrived at the figure in a statement attached to your return.

There never can be a deduction for the value of your personal services in behalf of charity.

(NEXT: Deductions for interest and taxes.)

Noted Artist Will Visit Pampa For Unveiling of His Painting

A public reception to meet the artist and attend the unveiling of a painting to be hung in the First National Bank will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 11, in the bank lobby.

The painting, a western scene by noted Austin artist G. Harvey was commissioned through the Las Pampas Galleries in Coronado Center. It will be hung in one of the two large wall panels at the east end of the bank's main lobby.

The painting purchased by the bank's board of directors is typically West Texas with a Palo Duro Canyon background. Additional G. Harvey paintings will be exhibited in the bank lobby during the afternoon reception.

For several years the name "G. Harvey" has been synonymous with paintings of the Southwest, especially beautiful landscapes of central and west Texas. Within the last three years G. Harvey has begun to tell with his brush more of the story of frontier days in Texas and the Southwest, and now his Western paintings are receiving wide public acclaim.

Harvey's work has gained him acceptance numerous times by the juries in the highly competitive Eastern exhibitions. He was honored with the New Masters Award in the Grand National Exhibition in New York City. Very recently the Austin artist received a life membership in the Grand Centist, an artist must have 27 Galleries in New York City. To become a participating ar-work is reviewed. While the art jury reviews works of as many as 500 artists, only 2 or 3 may be selected for life membership yearly. Grand Central Art Galleries is a non-profit institution. Its rolls list such distinguished members as Sargent, Remington, Russell, Waugh, Ryder, etc. G. Harvey's works have also been exhibited with the American Artists Professional League at the Lever House, New York; Allied Artists at the National Academy Gallery, New York; and the Academic Artists Association, Springfield, Massachusetts.

The artist's canvases hang in the White House, L.B.J. Ranch, Connally Ranch and in many art patrons' homes across the Southwest who have helped spiral his work to national prominence. Governor and Mrs. John Connally selected four of his paintings and presented them as gifts to the governors of Mexico.

Most of Harvey's inspiration and instruction have come directly from nature and from original research in primary source materials on life in the Southwest during frontier days. The pressure of commissions forced him to resign his position with the Art Department of Texas University several years ago. Now he can be seen in old straw hat and boots heading with his paint gear to the stockpens and stables, or to the creek beds, rolling countryside, and the rugged terrain of the Southwest. In this weekly column, Citizens Bank & Trust Co. will seek to provide answers to questions frequently asked of us about banking practices and bank services. If YOU have a question which has been puzzling you, write us a letter and we'll get the answer for you!

Q. Is there more than one way to endorse a check? How can I be sure by payroll check couldn't be cashed if my mail deposit got into the wrong hands?
—F. N.

A. "Endorsing" a check means that by signing your name on the back of a check (in the same way that it appears on the front) you are transferring your rights or ownership in that check to someone else. There are three common endorsement forms: (1) a "Blank" endorsement shows only your signature and makes the check payable to anyone who presents it. You should use this form of endorsement with caution, ordinarily only when you are at a teller's window, waiting for the cash. (2) a "Special" endorsement allows you to name the person or a firm who must re-endorse the check to cash it or pass it to others; for example, you could write on the back of the check: "Pay to the order of Smith & Co." and sign your name below. (3) a "Restrictive" endorsement limits the use of the check to a specific purpose. When you deposit a check to your account (such as your payroll check), by mail or in person, always "restrict" the check by writing the words "For Deposit Only" on the back above your signature.

HAVE YOU A "POISON SAFE" HOME?
A "poison safe" home is one where all medicines are enclosed out of reach of children and all dangerous household cleaners are also stored, where the latch is so high, busy little fingers cannot open it. But, there are other dangers.

HERE ARE A FEW LIFE SAVING TIPS.
Do not permit visiting ladies to place their pocketbooks on the floor or on chairs. Little children like to open them and play with their contents. A purse is a trap, for it usually contain diet, blood pressure, diabetes or tranquilizer tablets, all of which are a great danger.

BEWARE SWALLOWING CAMPHORATED OIL
Too often adults wrongly take it internally for coughs and colds. It affects the central nervous system and a surprisingly small dosage can be lethal to both children and adults.

WATCH OUT WHEN TAKING IRON MIXTURES
Ferrous sulphate or other iron compounds, in medicines for anemia, are so dangerous if the dosage is too high that they usually require hospitalization almost as often proportionately as lie.

FOLLOW YOUR PHARMACIST'S EXAMPLE.
A pharmacist will not use or dispense any medicine, unless he first reads the label carefully when taking it off the shelf, reads it again when measuring the dose or counting out the tablets and reads its name and the directions once more before dispensing it to you. You should check each label the same way before using its contents.

Panhandle Water District News

By FELIX W. RYALS
Last week this column carried a portion of an address by C. Wayne Keese, agricultural engineer, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, on the "Construction and Testing" of irrigation wells. This week we are carrying the second portion of the address as a service to the irrigation farmers of the Panhandle area, who have a tremendous investment in irrigation wells. These are things that drillers also need to know.

Casing Selection
"Most wells require a certain amount of blank casing extending from the ground surface to the water bearing formation. The blank casing maintains the drill hole at the desired size and prevents the surrounding soil and rock materials from caving into the hole.

Casing should have sufficient strength, toughness, and thickness to withstand forces and stresses imposed upon it during and after installation. The strength required by the well casing depends on the drilling method, formation characteristics, and depth of the well.

Purchase of the least costly casing available may be poor economy, since the casing protects the investment made in the well.

Well Screen or Perforated?
Wells finished in unconsolidated aquifers must use either manufactured well screen or perforated casing to allow water to enter the well with a minimum head loss while keeping the aquifer material out of the well. Openings in either casing or screen should be tapered with a smaller opening on the outside. Thus, any particle which passes the outside opening will pass into the well without becoming lodged and restricting the area of flow.

Selection of the width of the slot opening depends upon the type of material in the aquifer and the method of development to be employed, that is, whether the well is to be gravel-packed or naturally developed.

In the naturally developed well, experience has shown that the slot opening of the screen or perforated casing should be chosen to retain about 40 to 50 per cent of the natural formation. This means that the slot opening selected would allow 50 to 60 percent of the formation material to pass through the openings during the development process. In a gravel-packed well, a gravel is chosen that will retain essentially all of the formation material and a screen or casing slot width selected which will retain at least 90 per cent of the gravel. Many well screen manufacturers offer an aquifer analysis and screen recommendation service if this is desired.

Where perforated casing is used, the perforations should be made before the casing is installed. They should be positioned so that they will be opposite the formations indicated to be most productive during the drilling of the well.

Perforations may be made in the casing by milling out portions of the metal in the casing, by punching slots or openings in the casing, by cracking the casing, or by burning slots in the casing with an acetylene torch. Milled perforations can be made accurately in specific widths from about 3/32 to one-half inch. Torch cut perforations generally should be avoided since it is not possible to obtain any degree of accuracy in the width or shape of cut. Perforations should be spaced so that maximum collapsing strength is retained.

Advantages
Manufactured well screens are available in a wide variety of materials with slot openings ranging from 0.003 to 0.20 inch in width. Screen offers the advantage of containing more open area per foot than slotted or perforated casing. The same quantity of water can be obtained through less length and—of diameter of manufactured screen than through perforated casing.

Generally speaking, the velocity of flow through the perforated casing or manufactured well screen should be about 0.1 foot per second. It has been found in both the laboratory and in the field experience that if the screen entrance velocity is equal to or less than 0.1 foot per second, the following will result: (1) friction losses through the screen will be reduced to a practical minimum; (2) the rate of encrustation will be reduced to a practical minimum; and (3) the rate of corrosion will be reduced to a practical minimum.

County SCD News

By JIM TURNER
Brush is one of the biggest profit robbers of Texas ranchers today. Most brush species have such well developed root systems, and can pump water so efficiently that grass plants just can't compete with them for moisture. This is why brush is able to "crowd out" grass.

The main water-hogs Gray County ranchers have to contend with are shinnery oak and sand sage. These plants will use about 125 gallons of water to produce one pound of dry material. In comparison, a good grass plant like little bluestem uses only about 60 gallons to make one pound of grazable material. Since brush has very little grazing value, every gallon of water used by it is lost profit to the rancher and stockman.

Figuring two pounds of grass could be grown for every one pound of brush, it's easy to see why brush control is profitable. Brush control and grass de-foliation go hand in hand. Without a good rest following control, brush treatment effects can be greatly reduced. Once brush has been killed (usually by chemical spraying in Gray County), the best way to stay rid of it is by taking good care of the grass that will take its place. Since brush keeps grass under it stunted and weak, a 3 to 5 month deferment after spraying is usually needed to allow grass to take over the area treated. This rest enables grass plants to strengthen their root systems, get more moisture, and increase their crown size. They can then hold their ground and compete favorably for all moisture that occurs.

Without grazing pressure during this time, plants are able to do a much better job of feeding themselves and building up strength. Grass plants take about 95 per cent of their nutrients from the sunlight and atmosphere.

Periodic rests during spring and summer months are good any time, regardless of whether or not brush is being controlled. Plants that are able to do a good job of feeding themselves will produce the most forage.

SCHOOL LUNCH FUNDS ANNOUNCED—Some 906,000 Texas school children enjoy lunches at school operating under the National School Lunch Program, according to USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service. The Service reports that Texas schools will receive more than $11 million in federal funds this year to help operate the program.

FARM WAGES

Traditionally, farm wages have differed in various sections of the country as shown in this map based on U.S. Department of Agriculture statistics. A minimum wage for agriculture went into effect Feb. 1, 1967, for the first time creating a wage floor—$1 an hour on farms using 500 man-days or more of hired labor in a peak quarter during the previous year. This February, the minimum will go to $1.15 an hour and in February, 1969, it will be increased to $1.30 an hour. It is expected that about one-third of the farmworkers covered will be migratory, outside their home counties.

1968 Cattle Outlook Outlined by Economist

COLLEGE STATION (Sp1) — Total cattle numbers in the United States declined in 1967 for the third consecutive year. According to John G. McHaney, Extension economist at Texas A&M University, all of the decline has been in dairy cattle because beef cattle numbers increased slightly in 1966 and probably in 1967.

The total number of cattle rose from a recent low of 91.2 million head on Jan. 1, 1958 to a record of 109 million on Jan. 1, 1965. Since then, cattle numbers have declined slightly and on Jan. 1, 1968, were probably down to about 108 million head. Final figures on 1967 numbers are not yet available, explains the economist.

Beef cow numbers in the United States have increased. These amounted to about 24.2 million head on Jan. 1, 1958, compared with 34.6 million head on Jan. 1, 1967, a 43 percent increase in nine years. They were probably up a little on Jan. 1, 1968.

The economist said that feed grain prices will more than likely be on the low side for the first part of 1968. With more favorable livestock-feed price ratios in prospect, feeding per animal unit may be heavier. Fed cattle marketings in 1968 are expected to rise and market weights are likely to be heavier.

Other meat will continue to give beef competition. McHaney said livestock producers are expected to produce a little more red meat in 1968 than in 1967.

He predicted that during the winter (January, February, and March) of 1968, cattle feeders will more than likely market a few more fed cattle than during the same months of 1967. However, with strong consumer demand, fed cattle and feeder calf prices during the first three months of 1968 will probably average near prices received the last three months of 1967.

McHaney said that pasture and range conditions at the present time indicate favorable prospects for winter grazing. This will help to hold some feeder calves off the market and out of the feed lots. If range conditions were poor, larger marketings would be encouraged.

Agriculturally Speaking

By FOSTER WHALEY
Guy Andis said he had heard a lot of talk about the million-dollar rain, which he agreed with, but pointed out the fact the weather following the rain was worth another million. With both dryland and irrigated wheat turning hand springs, I tend to agree with Guy. No doubt January and early February will go down in the records as the most favorable weather this country has seen in many years.

Wheat Grazing

Should the weather continue warm, there will be far more wheat pasture than there are cattle in the Panhandle of Texas. Heavy runs at the livestock auction soon after Jan. 1 moved most cattle off wheat. If the weather will cooperate, we should have 30 days of good grazing. Many people have asked about suggested final grazing dates: grazing after Mar. 15 does reduce yield. In my opinion, if you have cattle, little or no harm will result grazing up to Mar. 15. Some grazing tests in Kansas showed a two- and one-half bushel per acre increase by grazing wheat in winter months over non-grazed wheat. Grazing should tend to hold down straw crop.

Many irrigation farmers are considering grazing their wheat up to May 15-20 and then preparing this land and placing it in milo. It's a slick way to switch your milo ground from wheat and not lose a crop. Some economist think the total income can be jumped.

In many cases irrigation farmers don't have much alternative. The wild sorghum plants and grasses are drastically reducing their milo yields. Jim and Paul Eakin made over 7,000 pounds of milo per acre on grazed-out irrigated wheat land last year.

Bang's Testing

During the past two weeks we have had a representative from the Texas Animal Health Commission in the county testing herds for Bang's disease. Our three years of certification as a modified certified county was due to expire on Feb. 8. We need seven small herds to test in order to qualify the County. We now have more total numbers of cows than is required. Anyone wishing to have a milk cow or a small herd tested, please get in touch with me by 8 a.m. Monday.

Range Cattle Systems Are Compared

COLLEGE STATION (Sp1) — A recent comparison of two range cattle systems on the Texas Rolling Plains shows that a cow-yearling venture can be more flexible and profitable 8 out of 10 years.

The comparison was made on a 425-animal unit ranch which produced its own replacements.

Average net ranch income for the 1955-64 period was $12,315 for the cow-yearling system and $10,665 for the cow-calf system.

Levels of nutrition and production rates were held constant through the analysis, as cattle inventories and supplemental feeding rates were kept in balance with range forage supply. Selling weights of cattle were adjusted to reflect differences in time of sales.

It is advised that in shifting to a cow-yearling system, breeding cows must be reduced in proportion to the increase in yearlings if overgrazing of the range is to be avoided.

Pampa Stops Tascosa To Share Loop Lead

By CURTIS MONTGOMERY
Sports Editor

Pampa outlasted the stalling Tascosa Rebels, who on one possession made 46 passes before shooting, to take hold of a share of the District 3-4A basketball second round lead with a 37-33 decision Friday night in Harvester Field House.

The score changed hands seven times before Pampa ace Jimmy Cornutt hit a jumper from the left corner with 4:20 remaining in the third quarter to put the Harvesters out front to stay at 25-23.

It is obvious now why the Rebels have the best defensive average in the league. They just hold onto the ball most of the time.

It was Roger Case who sparked for Tascosa and not their gunner Jack Pierce who led the loop in scoring going into the game. Case drove the baseline effectively on three succeeding opportunities to give the Rebels their biggest leads of the night at 16-11 and 18-13 midway in the second quarter.

Lang Hot
Bo Lang, playing one of the best games of his career, caught fire first crack out of the bag in the second quarter. With only 25 seconds gone the blonde bomber hit a smooth jump shot in the center of the key to give the Harvesters their initial advantage, 11-10.

Then Case made his trio of baseline lay ups after which Lang sparked the Culley-men in the catch-up game with a lay up of his own exactly halfway through the second period.

Bailey Fouled
Shortly after that George Bailey was knocked to the floor after gunning one from the right corner. No call was made, presumably because the official was watching the flight of the ball, taking his eye off Bailey when he was fouled.

The fans screamed, but Bailey didn't coming right back with a lay up underneath and going on to lead the Harvesters in scoring with 16.

Beau Bond—tough as Wilt the Stilt on the boards—hit a pair of charity tosses with 1:58 to go in the half cutting the Rebels' lead to one at 18-17. Lang snatched Tascosa's next rebound and passed to Johnny Carlos who in turn passed to Cornutt wide open underneath for two with 45 seconds left. That bucket put Pampa on top by 19-18.

Lang's success at the gratis line 12 seconds later gave Pampa a 20-18 lead going into the dressing room after the first 16 minutes.

Last Lead
A jump shot by Case one minute deep in the second half gave the Rebels their last lead of the game, 23-21. Bailey erased it with a lay up with 4:30 to go and Cornutt then put Pampa out front for good with his swisher from the left corner.

Pampa could have scored in the closing seconds of the third quarter, but Cornutt evidently could not tell how much time was left. (The clock blushed deep red in the final minute of play making it difficult to read.)

Although the game was slow most of the evening, Pampa displayed a great deal of poise and polish which could take them into the bi-district playoffs. One factor which could prove fatal to the Harvesters further along the road to Austin is their lack of depth. There were no substitutions—not even the late evening appearances of Jim Hollis and Alvin Achord—by the Harvesters Friday night.

On the other hand, the Harvesters do not tire as easily as many high school teams who do not have the benefit of a mentor like coach Terry Culley, and therefore may not feel the lack of depth so much.

Pampa actually won with free throws. They hit 11 of 14 from the line as Tascosa hit 5 of 8 attempts. The Rebels beat Pampa in field goals (14-13).

Shockers Win
Pampa's Shocker basketball team won again Friday night and again Jim Gallman led the way with 16, but was matched this time in high-point honors by Billy Thomas. The "B" teamers wiped out the Tascosa "B" team by 68-53.

Pat Donahoo and Gary Bogan had 17 apiece for Tascosa. Pampa hit 16 out of 19 free throws in the last quarter.

In another game in District 3-4A Caprock was beaten by Plainview, 74-61, to give the Bulldogs a share of the loop lead with a 4-1 second round record. Ken Carson had 24 for Caprock.

Monterey also took a 4-1 record home after stopping Amarillo by 80-54. Gary Wright led the Plainsmen with 15.

Borger beat Lubbock, 80-72, coming back from five points down to begin the final quarter. Borger is 2-3 for the second round of the district chase and Lubbock is 0-5.

A free throw by Dan Gobin with one second remaining pushed the Coronado cagers to a 55-54 win over Palo Duro.

WHAT I DO NOW? — Tascosa's Roger Case (11) finds himself in a difficult situation provided by Pampa's Bo Lang (34) in the Tascosa-Pampa game which the Harvesters won by 37-33 Friday night. Case, who paced the stalling Rebels in scoring for the night with 14, was in the middle of his driving lay up when Lang jumped in to block his shot. Case looked about for someone to pass the ball to, found none and missed the shot. Lang, playing one of his best games scored 11 points and was fierce on the boards all night long. Johnny Carlos stands right behind the two.

White Deer Stands at 15-0

White Deer's high riding junior high basketball team is presently undefeated with a 15-0 record, the latest victory coming over Silverton by 50-19.

Coach Thomas Bates' team of seventh and eighth graders have averaged 50 points plus per game. Ricky Hoskins, Mitch Abbott and Jerry Urbanek are the top scorers for White Deer, followed by Jerry Davis, Terry Sargent and Pat Hudgins.

Other boys on the team are Terry Rhoads, Johnny Freeman, Kenny Thurman, Mike Trantham, Al Morris, Kim Slagle and Randy Mercer. Managers are Leon Osborne and Roger Meadows.

The 50-point plus average of the boys' team is really quite a large average considering the fact that they play only 24 minutes in a game and the eighth graders generally play only half of that time.

The boys and the girls team, which is also coached by Bates and has a 11-4 season record, are coming into the district championship games in the near future. Feb. 15 White Deer visits Clarendon and Feb. 22 the two teams meet again in White Deer with the crown awaiting the victor.

One game comes up before the big ones, however, with McLean next Thursday. The girls play just before the boys' game.

The girls team won their last game over Silverton by 48-11.

Pampa's next game is with Houston of Borger next Friday at 3:30 p.m. here.

Heavy Snows Sweep Olympic Resorts

By WILLIAM SUNDENLAND
GRENOBLE, France (UPI)—Heavy snows swept Olympic alpine resorts Saturday, giving them a proper winter games atmosphere but forcing athletes to cancel afternoon practice sessions.

In one of the busiest scheduled practice days so far—the 1968 Olympics officially get under way on Tuesday—most eyes were on the stars of the show, the alpine skiers.

As they sped down the steep downhill run at Chamrousse, 25 miles north of Grenoble, they complained the track, although in generally good condition, was too slow due to heavy snow. And halfway through the men's practice session, officials were forced to call off the runs because the visibility dropped to near zero at the top of the course due to fog and snow.

But French star Jean Claude Killy, starting No. 1 in the practice session and high favorite in the downhill, slalom and giant slalom, got in a run. Watching from the sidelines were camouflaged "spies" for the opposing teams who clocked their competition on various sections of the 2,890 meter course.

Otherwise, the heavy snows

Killy Has 'No Chance'

GRENOBLE (UPI)—French superstar Jean Claude Killy has "no chance" to achieve a triple Gold Medal win at the coming Olympics, Austria's "golden boy" Toni Sailer said today.

Sailer, the first and only triple Gold Medalist in Alpine skiing history, said Killy is "under too much pressure."

"He won't make it, he has no chance," Sailer said.

"Let's make no mistake," Sailer added. "I have the highest esteem for Jean Claude, whom I consider a perfect allround skiing star. I don't say he can't make it because he is not good enough. But I think he is under too much pressure. He thinks too much of having to win all three events. And that's what reduces his chances."

Sailer, 1966 triple Olympic champion, arrived here today "to enjoy the games as an observer" and to work as columnist for an Austrian newspaper.

forced cancellation of two-man bobsledding practice runs on the 1,500 meter ice chute at Alpe d'Huez, also in the mountains far outside of Grenoble.

No Snow

But in Grenoble itself, where the opening and closing ceremonies, ice hockey, ice skating and speed skating events will be held, there was no snow—just rain. Except for a couple of days last week, Grenoble has basked either in warm sunshine or the heavy, smoke-laden mists that blanket the valley where the industrial city is located.

With most of the 119-member U.S. Olympic team, largest squad of the 38 participating nations, already on hand, the American flag was officially raised in the Grenoble Olympic Village. As each nation takes up residence there, their national flag is raised in the horse-shoe shaped bank of flagpoles in the village center.

Along with the Stars and Stripes, the flags of West Germany, Italy and Yugoslavia were raised during the trumpet fanfare.

Although most of the Olympic sites are physically completed, workmen still were busy landscaping the different areas. All in all, however, it appeared everything would be ready when the games get under way Tuesday. They close Feb. 18.

Person's Putts Take Golf Title

HARLINGEN, Tex. (UPI)—Curtis Person of Memphis, Tenn., rammed in two birdie putts on the back nine Saturday to defeat John D. Townsend 4-and-3 and capture his third straight Life Begins at Forty Golf championship.

It was Person's 25th amateur title over the past two years.

Townsend, of Houston, stayed even with Person over the front nine of the 6,300 yard, par 72 Harlingen Municipal Golf Course but Person's birdies, combined with two bogeys by Townsend, decided the match early on the back side.

Person finished the day two under par over the 15 holes it took to wind up the match.

In the consolation bracket of the championship flight, Dr. James D. Case of San Antonio won top honors by defeating T. F. Smith of Corpus Christi 3-and-2.

Sports Briefs

ATLANTA (UPI)—Pitchers Pat Jarvis and Clay Carroll have returned their signed contracts to the Atlanta Braves for the 1968 season. Jarvis led the Atlanta pitching staff with 15 victories last year while Carroll has notched 16 triumphs in two years as a reliever.

RYUN TOP

GRENOBLE, France (UPI)—Jim Ryun, the world mile record-holder from the University of Kansas, has been named the top athlete of 1967 by the International Sports Press Association. Three other U.S. athletes were named among the top five, including swimmers Mark Spitz (second) and Debbie Meyer (fourth), and 220-yard world record-holder Tommie Smith (fifth). Skier Jean Claude Killy of France broke the American monopoly as he was chosen third.

GULF 100
NEW YORK (UPI)—Dean A. Chenoweth of Xenia, Ohio, led 21 qualifiers from 12 states and Canada for the Gulf 100 mile-per-hour outdoor motors club during 1967 with a clocking of 119.536 miles per hour. The one female qualifier among the group was 18-year-old Marliou Beaver of Long Beach, Miss., with 110.073 mph.

Drake Trips North Texas

DENTON, Tex. (UPI)—Willie McCarter, the Missouri Valley Conference scoring leader, hit 25 points Saturday to lead Drake to a 77-67 victory over North Texas State and keep the Bulldogs in the running for first place.

Drake built a 20-point lead midway in the second half but had to stall a North Texas rally that sliced the margin to nine points with three minutes to go. Drake, battling Louisville for the MVC lead, increased its record to 6-2 in the conference and 15-3 on the year.

Lee Winfield scored 22 points for North Texas, which remains winless in the MVC at 0-7 and is 5-12 for the season.

The taller Bulldogs outbounded North Texas 37-26 to build up the big second-half margin. Drake led at the half 34-23.

There's a Kidd going to try to do a man's job in Grenoble, France in the Winter Olympics. He is Billy Kidd who was raised in Vermont and has been skiing competitively half of his 24 years. When he began skiing, an American skier was not the most widely respected athlete.

"I remember coming into the airport in New York," Kidd said, "with a pair of skis. And somebody asked me, 'What do you do, jump?' That's all they associated skis with. 'But in 1964, when I got back from Innsbruck, there was already a change. I got into a cab in Manhattan, and the driver immediately asks me, 'Hey, aren't you Billy Kidd?'"

No United States male skier has ever won a gold medal in the Winter Olympics which is about to begin its 10th edition.

The odds, says Tommy Corcoran who competed in the 1960 Winter Olympics at Squaw Valley, Calif., finishing fourth in the grand slalom which is the closest an American had ever come to an Olympic Alpine medal in men's events, are 15-1 against an American breakthrough on the slopes of Chamrousse, 30 miles east of the host city.

But in 1964 at Innsbruck Kidd came within half-a-hair of snatching a gold medal, losing in the men's slalom by only 14-100ths of a second. The USA's Jimmy Heuga took third in that event.

The problem is, of course, that the Europeans, especially the Alpine countries—France, Austria, Italy, Germany, Switzerland—have grown up on the skiing slopes, just as the Americans grow up on the baseball diamonds.

Pampa's W. L. Hudgens, manager of a large department store here, spends much of his leisure on the slopes at Aspen and other skiing areas and spoke on the subject recently.

Hudgens pointed out that as more and more young people take up skiing the better the chances of the United States will be in international competition.

"Most of our good skiers come from out East, but more and more of them are going to college in Colorado now," Hudgens commented.

He mentioned that the slopes in the East are better developed than the ones in Colorado, but that the Colorado ones offered many challenges which are desirable for a championship skier.

Kidd has much competition from such men as Jean Paul Killy of France, who spends less time on the slopes these days and more in the court room as a defendant in paternity suits.

A big attraction on the women's team for the USA is a nice looking blonde by the name of Suzanne Chaffee. Suzy has reckless ambitions. She wants to pick a gold medal in the downhill, which is the drag-strip of skiing.

Although the women's field is also cluttered with such class as Nance Greene of Canada and Marielle Goitschel of France, no one's quoting odds against a breakthrough by Suzy or one of her teammates.

Guide To 1968 Winter Olympics

BOBSLEDDING

The bobsled run, located about 40 miles from Grenoble at Alpe-d'Huez, is 1,500 meters long with a vertical drop of about 150 yards and has six curves, one maze and four bends to test the daring drivers. Both the two-man and four-man sleds engage in two runs down the track on each of two days, with the final ranking based on total composite times for all four runs. Each nation is permitted to enter two teams in both two-man and four-man competition.

ICE HOCKEY

Eighteen men are allowed for each nation's team, the championship going to the country that wins the most of its seven games. The contests will be held at the Ice Stadium in Grenoble. Olympic rules are the same as in U.S. college competition, in that body checking can be done only in the defensive zone, whereas in the Canadian professional rules, checking can occur in offensive, defensive and neutral zones alike. Also, the red line serves only as a divider. There's no two-line pass rule in Olympic competition, which makes for longer passes.

FIGURE SKATING

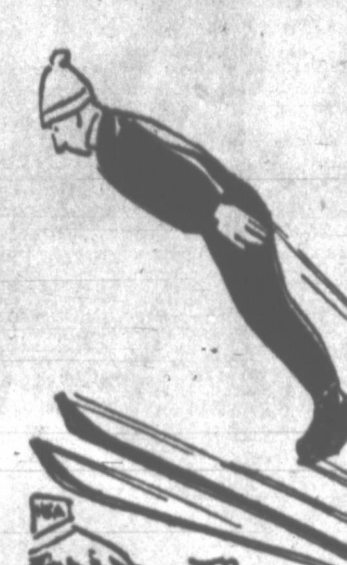

The skaters must follow rigid, well-defined progressions in patterns, arranged in degrees of increasing difficulty. The patterns, called "school or compulsory figures," must be skated to the satisfaction of the judges. Compulsory figures count 60 per cent of the overall grade. Because of this emphasis in scoring, the competitor must perfect skills in tracing circles, turns, change of blade edge and other required patterns.

The skater completes his performance by engaging in "free" skating, which entails movements of his own invention or those not specified in compulsory phase.

NORDIC SKIING

Nordic events are divided into three classes: cross-country, combined event consisting of 15-kilometer race plus jumping from 70-meter hill, and the special ski jumping—competing from both the 70- and 90-meter hills. In the latter, each of the nation's four entrants gets two jumps, with total points earned for distance and form determining final standings.

In the combined, each athlete competes in a 15,000-meter race, followed by two jumps from the 70-meter hill. Cross-country racing consists of 15-, 30- and 50-kilometer individual races and a grueling relay race.

SPEED SKATING

Only two skate at a time in this event, since the race is against time. There are two separated lanes on the track—the inside lane being shorter than the outside. In order to skate the same distance, the racers change lanes after each lap. The speed ring is 400 meters long, with two five-meter lanes. Each nation may enter four men in the 500- and 1,500-meter races and three in the 5,000 and 10,000 meters. Three women skaters are allowed in each of their four events: 500, 1,000, 1,500 and 3,000 meters.

BIATHLON

This event, a combination of skiing and shooting, is held over a 20-kilometer cross-country course with rifle shooting at four different ranges spaced along the course at 5, 10.4, 14 and 16.7 kilometers, respectively. Each man carries 20 rounds of ammunition and takes five shots at a single target on each range. The competitors are scored for elapsed time over the course and marksmanship. Two minutes are added to the total time for every miss. The event consists of individual competition and a four-man relay.

LUGE

Also known as tobogganing, the luge competition will be held at Villard-de-Lans, 2 miles from Grenoble. The luge run is 1,000 meters long with a vertical drop of 120 yards and consists of five bends, two curves each to the left and right and one double "S" curve.

The single-seat races will be run in four heats. All times are electrically recorded and final ranking is based on total of times for all four runs. The two-seaters will be run in two heats, with final ranking also determined on composite time basis.

ALPINE SKIING

Events in both divisions are slalom, giant slalom and downhill. They are run individually against time, which accounts for final placings. Only one run down the course is permitted in the giant slalom and downhill events; each entrant is permitted two runs in the slalom, with final placings determined by elapsed time of the two runs. The downhill is a test of speed and strength and is the most dangerous of the skiing events. Slalom events are not as long nor as steep as the downhill but test the skier's ability because of the gates on the course he must negotiate. The giant slalom is longer and steeper than regular slalom.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The new coach of the Green Bay Packers is such a celebrity that people don't even know how to spell his name.

Some spell it Bengtson; others take the easy way out and spell it Bengston. The right way is Bengtson. Nobody has much trouble with the first name. It's Phil.

Friday was his first day on the new job in Green Bay but you'd never know it.

He came into the office the same time he always does, before 8:30 a.m., and got right down to work. Or rather he tried to. The phones started ringing immediately. Most of the callers wanted to wish him luck. Others wanted to ask him questions.

Phil Bengtson, a tall, nearly bald, 54-year-old native of St. Paul, Minn., who looks like Gen. Westmoreland with his Green Bay cap on, is a great deal on the order of Vince Lombardi, the man he's succeeding and the man with whom he sees eye-to-eye.

Both play the same kind of football. Hard and straight ahead.

As veteran tackle Bob Skoronski puts it: "We do it like they did it in the old days. Like in 1929. Put the head in the belly and drive."

Bengtson and Lombardi are so much alike they even went about their respective business in the Packers' office Friday the same way. As if it was just another Friday.

As the Packers' new head coach, Bengtson's first order of business was a meeting with his assistant coaches Friday. Until now, he had always been one of them. Now he suddenly was their boss. But nobody would ever guess that by the tone of his conversation with them.

The meeting began by planning an itinerary for the signing of those players drafted by the Packers earlier in the week. That would mean stopovers at such places as El Paso, Tex., Tucson, Columbus, Ohio, and so on.

When Bengtson and his aides finished discussing the itinerary, he turned his attention toward what could only be described as the minus pool—these colleagues who weren't drafted by any of the pro teams.

There could always be an untapped Johnny Unitas lying around somewhere again.

Vince Lombardi is a great believer in that. The man replacing him thinks the same way.

The phone calls continued coming in and there also were visits to the office by some of the Packer players. Boyd Dowler... Doug Hart... Ray Nitschke.

All of them wanted to tell Vince Lombardi how they felt about him, all of them wanted to congratulate Phil Bengtson and wish him the best.

Through it all, Green Bay's new head coach somehow stuck doggedly to the work he was doing. Bengtson, like Lombardi, isn't easily deterred. Also like Lombardi, he knows a good thing when he sees it.

Following his collegiate days during which he was an All-America tackle at Minnesota, he served as line coach under Don Faurot at Missouri and then went to Stanford in 1940 as an assistant to Clark Shaughnessy, the father of football's T-formation.

Bengtson watched Shaughnessy work with the T at Stanford a while, pulled a three-cent stamp out of his pocket and stuck it on a letter he wrote to Faurot, his old boss.

He drew some diagrams of the T in the letter and predicted the formation soon would sweep the country.

Faurot listened. Bengtson got the message. Missouri came up with the T, also with a quarterback to make it work in Paul Christman, and the next thing you know Missouri got itself an invitation to the Orange Bowl.

Stanford didn't do so badly, either, winding up in the Rose Bowl.

Phil Bengtson has been around the block, as they say. It was dark outside when he finished his work Friday.

UP, UP, AND AWAY — Pampa's Jimmy Cornutt goes up for a two-pointer in the Harvesters' 37-33 victory over Tascosa Friday night. Cornutt's defensive effort was vital in the win, which gave Pampa a share of the District 3-4A second half lead. (See story, page 8).

Jackson State Has Most Draftees

NEW YORK (UPI)—There had never been a player from a Negro college in pro football until Tank Younger went from the Grambling College campus to the Los Angeles Rams in 1949.

But two decades later, the Negro colleges in the South are one of the pro football scouts' favorite sources of new talent, a fact that was spotlighted Wednesday when the second combined pro football draft of the National and American Football Leagues came to an end.

The school which had the most players picked was not Southern California or UCLA or Notre Dame or Michigan State. Or even Alabama or Mississippi. It was Jackson State in Jackson, Miss., a Negro college of 2,990 students.

Jackson State, which only had a 6-3 record, and finished third in the Southwest Athletic Conference but did hand Grambling its only loss this season, had 11 of the 462 players named in the 17 rounds, USC, the national champion, had 10 players named.

Seek Second Barney

None of the 11 is well known to the nation's football fans and most were picked on later rounds. But they're well-known to the pro football scouts who closely scout the Negro schools, searching for players the caliber of Lem Barney. The Detroit Lions plucked him off the Jackson St. campus a year ago and he played in the Pro Bowl game in the tough cornerback position.

The last 12 rounds of the draft were completed Wednesday when the teams selected the final 324 players. The clubs chose the first 138 in the first five rounds on Tuesday.

Watch Out for 'Fats'

By TOMMY THOMAS

NEA Sports Writer

NEW YORK (NEA)—If you happen to be in a pool room in, say, Kenosha, Wis., and a pudgy, gray-haired man walks in who claims his name is Rudolf Wanderone and wants to know if you'd like to shoot a little nine-ball for a couple hundred, that's the time to check in your cue.

It's not likely that will happen, however, since the world's most famous hustler, also known as Minnesota Fats, is more or less out of action. Since Jackie Gleason portrayed the fat man seven years ago in "The Hustler" Mr. Fats has probably spent more time in television studios and press interviews than in pool halls. Most of his skill is now displayed in exhibitions.

"Since I got all that publicity from the movie I've been leading a different kind of existence," he says. "For one thing, I've got my own company which makes pool tables, cues and accessories. But being an executive isn't my kind of life. It has a concentration camp effect on me. I didn't have a gray hair two years ago. I see why those guys take pills and drink and smoke so much. I've even thought about going back on the road hustling."

"And I'm always making great as his game, however, television appearances, which is supposed to be good exposure. They tell me once you've been on the Johnny Carson, Joey Bishop and Today shows, you have the world locked up. I was well-known in sporting circles before but now everybody knows me. But it's not worth it. When I was hustling I would stay up for weeks at a time and then sleep for several days. Since I quit I never get any rest."

Minnesota Fats didn't always move at such a rapid pace. He says it used to take him as long as four years to span the country.

"I won everybody's respect as well as their money," he recalls. "They learned fast that when I walked into a pool hall I dominated it. They knew who the boss was and that I would mop up the place. That sounds like overconfidence but that's why I'm the best. My attitude is what made my game so great."

Times weren't always as great as his game, however. "In the summer, it was almost impossible to get games," he remembers. "The pool rooms were too hot and some of the flea joints I hung around in you had to carry a gas mask and flit-gun to survive. So the summers were pretty lean but I lived high the rest of the year."

round. Since he's run out of challengers, the big money games that lasted for days at a time are all in the past. But his competitive edge is still keen and he says, "If some guy in Siberia or Nome, Alaska, thought he could beat me and had the cash I would probably go."

Chances are you're more apt to find Minnesota Fats shooting pool with Hollywood celebrities. He says he's responsible for the big interest in pool among show business people.

"I played against Zsa Zsa Gabor," he said. "She'll knock your eyes out. I couldn't concentrate and she beat me. I also played against Phyllis Diller."

"I won."

FRAZIER NAMED
NEW YORK (UPI)—The Ring Magazine has named unbeaten heavyweight Joe Frazier of Philadelphia the fighter of the year and given the progress award to Jimmy Ellis of Louisville.

Frazier last year won six fights, including kayo victories over Doug Jones and George Chuvalo, while Ellis, a former sparring partner of Cassius Clay, emerged as a top contender with victories over Johnny Persol, Leotis Martin and Oscar Bonavena.

SMALL COLLEGE
NEW YORK (UPI)—Willie Scott of Alabama State maintained a slight edge over Mike Davis of Virginia Union and Ken Hall of Westminster (Utah) in the race for small college basketball scoring honors. Scott averaged 34.1 points per game through games of Jan. 27 to 32.2 for Davis and 31.9 for Hall.

Kenny Hebert, Coach To Arrive Today; All-American To Be Honored Tomorrow

Pampa's All-America Kenny Hebert and his coach Bill Yeoman arrive in Pampa today on the eve of "Kenny Hebert Day". The pair arrive at Amarillo airport at 1 p.m. by Continental. A delegation is expected to greet them as they step off the plane.

An informal reception will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. today in the new Crown in Shield Room of the Pampa Club. All of Hebert's friends and fans are invited to this event at which refreshments will be served.

The Chamber of Commerce luncheon Monday will highlight the special day—declared by Mayor Jim Nation as "Kenny Hebert Day."

A program is slated at the high school Monday afternoon at which a plaque will be presented to Hebert from the student body.

Hebert was outstanding all-around athlete at Pampa High

FROM HIGH SCHOOL

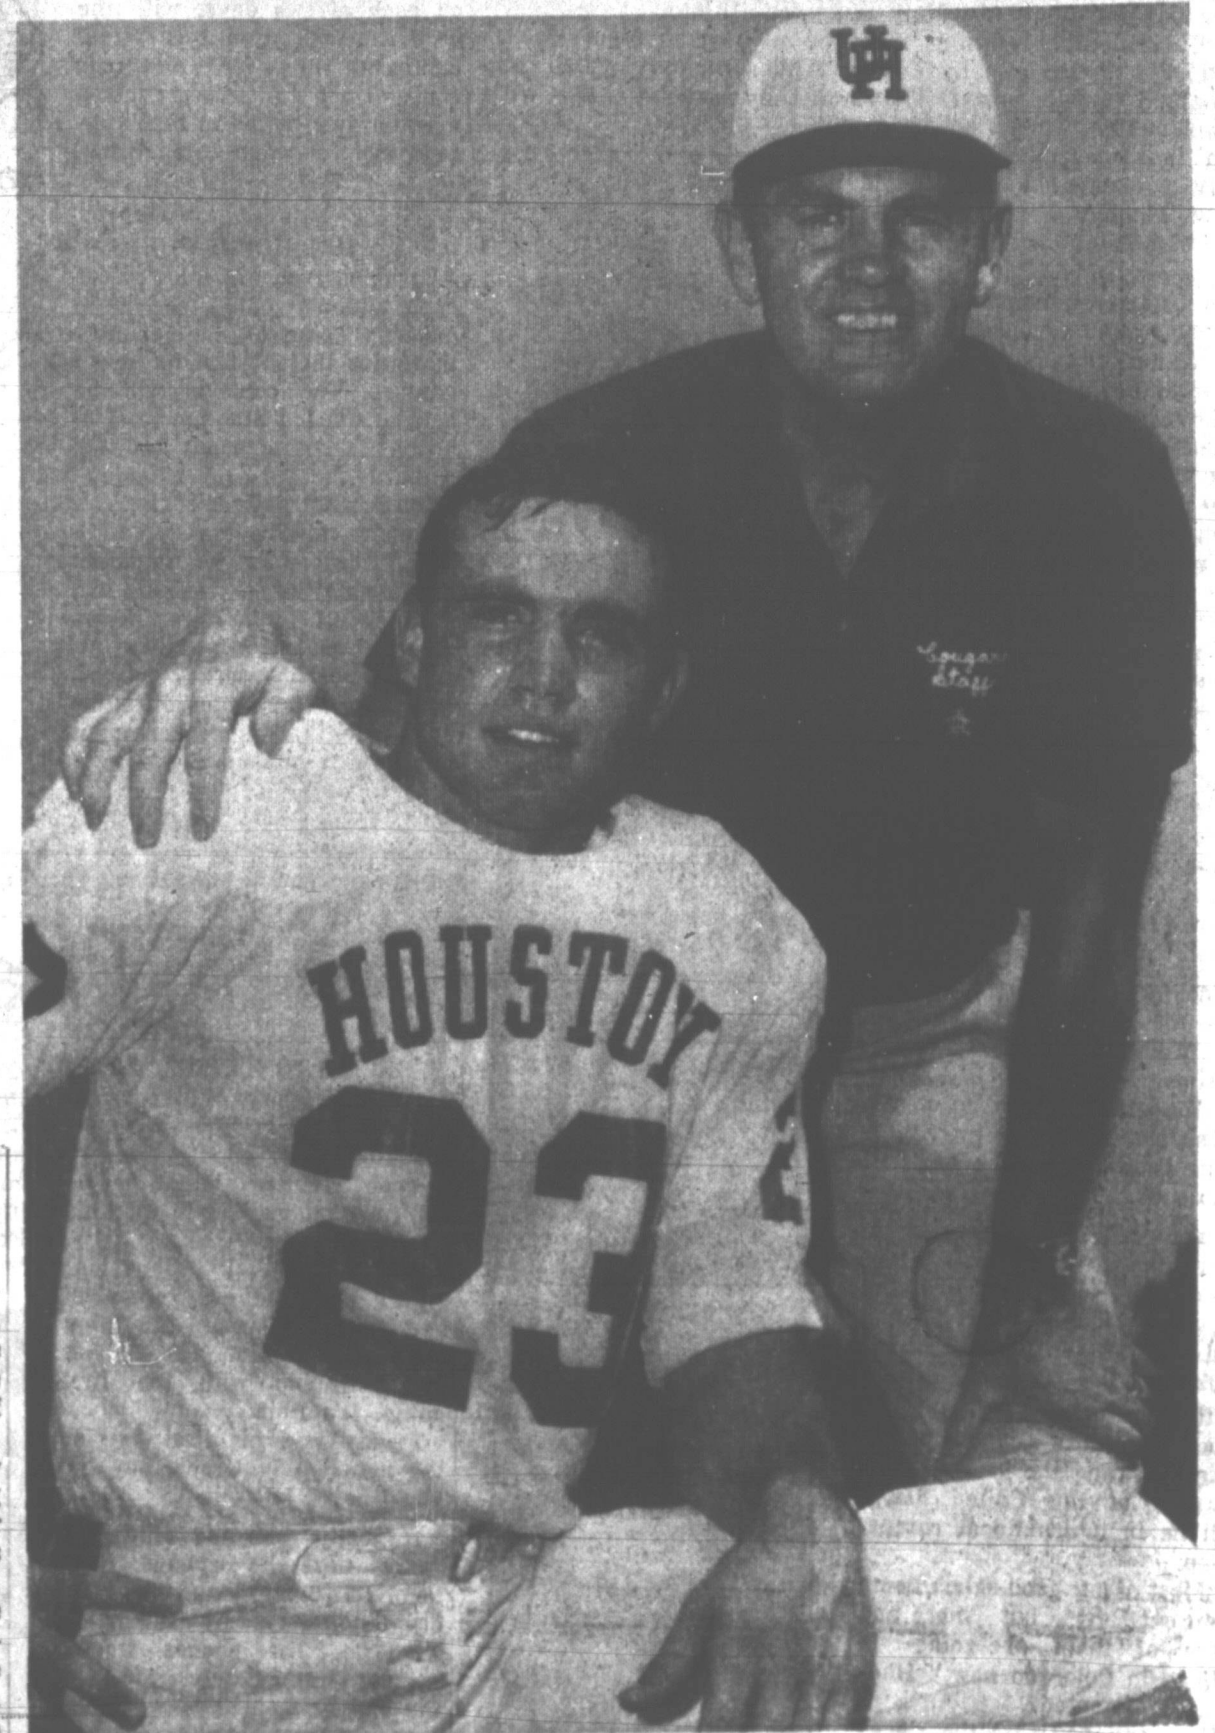

AS A SENIOR in high school at Pampa High Hebert was outstanding in football, basketball and track.

School and went on to sparkle on the University of Houston's football and baseball teams. All-America in football, Hebert was drafted in the third round by Pittsburgh of the NFL.

Hebert's father, Mr. Walter Hebert of 321 N. Gray, said, "Kenny was tickled to death to be drafted by Pittsburgh. Especially since it was the NFL."

Mr. Hebert said that Kenny will not be playing baseball at Houston this spring because he is practicing teaching this semester in Houston. He also commented that Pittsburgh had called Kenny shortly before they drafted him, asking if he would be willing to pass up baseball this spring and play for them. Chances are that Kenny answered in the affirmative, since he did get drafted.

TO HOUSTON ALL-AMERICA

COACH BILL YEOMAN, head coach at the University of Houston, smiles his approval of his All-America end Kenny Hebert. Yeoman will be speaker at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon tomorrow.

Hot Stove League Has Not Vanished

Those who think that the "hot stove league" vanished with the general store pot-bellied stove and the cracker barrel just have not wandered into a local fishing tackle emporium lately.

This institution still functions throughout the U.S., say the fishing experts at Mercury outboards. After all, the average red-blooded American has to have a place to hang out and discuss topics of mutual interest with his fellow man.

As a kid, he had a club house on a vacant lot, or a little platform built in the old apple tree in the backyard. As a teenager the local drug store soda fountain, or a particular street corner sufficed for a hang-out.

Adults require similar spots to satisfy their togetherness instincts. Women do their gabbing in the beauty parlor, or over a card table at the weekly afternoon bridge session. Fishermen, however, have another alternative.

Almost any sporting goods store has a spot where a group of men can gather around and compare notes about fish and fishing. Here a man can look, listen and learn.

As a member of the local hot stove league he can finger a new lure, or flex a new rod without a cent in his pocket.

He can listen to the big boys, compare notes with fellow anglers, learn to stretch the truth in telling about his own fishing exploits, and find out where the best fishing holes are.

Membership in this great angling fraternity is not regulated by income, position, or a man's ancestors. All he needs to become initiated into this organization is to prove that he's as anxious to get out on the water as the others. If he's a fisherman, he's welcome to pull up a chair and become a member of the group.

So men, if you're not already a member of your local angler's hot stove league, the Mercury lads suggest you go down to the tackle store and join up.

Of course, it won't compare with actually being out on the water, but remember, the next thing to fishing is talking about it.

Initial Meeting Set for Monday

The "Pampa Two-Wheelers" AMA (American Motorcycle Association) Chartered Club will hold its "kick-off" meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the Southwestern Public Service Hospitality Room at 315 N. Ballard.

The program of the first meeting will consist of getting the club organized in general. Rules and regulations will be presented on the new Motorcyclists Handbook for the drivers test. Also included will be information on dues and laws established by the club.

Racing films will be shown and refreshments served. It is open to all cyclists interested in a Motorcycle club.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — One of the potentially harmful effects of television's pap is the erroneous view of wildlife portrayed in programs for the young.

The asinities of a porpoise that warns of impending hurricanes or a dog which returns a lost puma cub to its mother are not worth considering. That sort of anthropomorphic nonsense is part of our folklore and, one assumes, is more or less innocuous.

What is dangerous in all the "cute" treatment of animals is the notion that animals understand human compassion and compensate for it. (It is an old romantic fallacy. In truth, Androcles would have lost his arm to that lion.)

Sure, some animals are naturally disposed toward man. Dogs and horses and such. (But if you think your pet pussycat hangs around because she loves you, try not feeding her for a day or so and see how long that mercurial affection lasts.)

This may seem an exaggerated, alarmist point of view. You think, what harm is there in the fact that the kids go and ahh when a picture of a delicate, spotted Bambi flashes on the screen?

None. As long as they are taught by somebody that a few seasons later, when the spots and the innocence are gone, Bambi will come under the influence of his first rutting moon. Instances of pet deer goring their masters are a matter of record.

Wild creatures are just that. Love them, as surely you must. Respect them, certainly. And be concerned about their welfare but not mauling them. Wild creatures belong in the wild. They can be very dangerous.

Sprinter Hines Has Problems

By DARRELL MACK

HOUSTON (UPI) — Sprinter Jim Hines can outrun anybody in the world, but he can't run away from a childhood dream. Hines, who has run the 100-yard dash in 9.1 and the 100 meters in 10-flat, is torn between running in the 1968 Olympics and becoming a professional football player to meet pressing financial needs.

Hines, a 6-foot, 180-pounder from Oakland, Calif., had a disagreement with athletic officials at Texas Southern University and is not on scholarship. He got an incomplete last semester in an English course taught by the TSU athletic director, W. C. McCleary.

"When I went in to talk to him about it, he told me that he suspected I might turn pro once the (football) draft was complete," Hines said. "I told him that it seems like you want me to pay my way back to school next semester. He said that's right."

"I said okay, but I wouldn't run-track for Texas Southern then and I walked out," Hines said.

McCleary, who also acts as athletic business manager and director of public relations for the school, said initially that Hines lost his scholarship because of academic probation. He later admitted Hines could have remained on scholarship and made up the incomplete, but McCleary said Hines told him he didn't want the scholarship.

The loss meant Hines had to pay his own $256 tuition for this semester, buy $50 worth of books and does not get $70 a month for room and board which married athletes at TSU receive.

This meant Hines, who already had more financial problems than a third-string tackle at most schools, was in even worse condition. His parents, who had helped pay the rent on a small two-room apartment and to buy groceries, were injured in a car accident last fall and never will be able to work again.

Hines doesn't have a so-called parttime "job" offered by some wealthy alumni as many athletes do and he says he doesn't receive any special favors from TSU boosters. McCleary again doesn't agree.

Olympic Committee Rejects Demand by North Korea

GRENOBLE, France (UPI) — The International Olympic Committee (IOC) Saturday rejected a demand by North Korea and postponed a decision on whether to readmit South Africa into the Olympic family or to bar the nation because of its racial discrimination policy.

The IOC, in a plenary session, asked members to vote by Feb.

15 on whether South Africa can participate in the 1968 Summer Games at Mexico City. However, the committee said this will not be the final decision. The matter is to be reconsidered by the end of 1970.

The North Korea delegation asked that it be known in the future as the Democratic Peoples Republic of Korea. The IOC turned the proposal down with 31 votes against, 21 for and two abstentions.

North Korea promptly issued a prepared statement, accusing the IOC of creating "a grave obstacle to the participation of our team in the Olympic Winter Games."

Chang Chuc, leader of the delegation, said, "We will not be entering a team at Grenoble or at any Olympics at which we are not called by our correct name."

In the prepared statement, the Koreans said, "The decision undermines the high international prestige and authority of the Democratic Peoples Republic of Korea which is prospering and developing every day. "We strongly demand to withdraw the measures of political discrimination against us. We will never allow anyone, whoever he may be, to force upon us a manufactured name which is different from that of our team."

The North Koreans said they will defy the IOC by continuing to submit applications for Mexico City and later games under their "correct name."

The IOC "will take the entire responsibility for all the consequences" if it does not change its mind, the statement warned.

The IOC, on the South Africa matter, said it had studied the special Killanin report on the subject "with grave concern."

However, it added, the committee was "encouraged that positive efforts by the South African National Olympic Committee have resulted in a firm understanding to implement the proposals at the IOC session in Tehran in May, 1967, whereby a multi-racial team will be selected on merit."

A&M, 'Bama To Receive Record Payments

DALLAS (UPI) — James H. Stewart, president of the Cotton Bowl Association, said Saturday Texas A&M and the University of Alabama would receive record payments in excess of $243,000 each for their participation in the 1968 Cotton Bowl Classic.

"An increase in our television receipts combined with a seventh straight sellout enabled us to better the previous record," said Stewart.

The previous record was $230,107.26 paid in 1966 to Arkansas and Louisiana State University.

Stewart also announced the Cotton Bowl Association had completed negotiations for a new three-game contract with the Columbia Broadcasting System at a "substantial increase in rights receipts."

SEAVER, SIGNED

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tom Seaver, who had 18 complete games and posted a 16-13 mark to be named National League rookie of the year in 1967, signed his 1968 contract Tuesday with the New York Mets for an estimated $25,000.

The contract would make Seaver the highest paid second-year player in the major leagues. Last year, he set club records for most victories (16), complete games (18), strikeouts (170) and earned run average (2.76), and was a member of the All-Star team.

Casper Leads By One In Bob Hope Classic

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—Billy Casper, shooting for his second successive win at the new golfing year, fired a four-under-par 68 Saturday for a 72-hole total of 279, nine-under-par, and a one stroke lead in the 90-hole, $122,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic.

Right on his heels with just one more round to go Sunday in this marathon tournament at 280 was Arnold Palmer, second last Sunday to Casper when he won the Los Angeles Open. Palmer shot a fourth round 71, one-under-par at Bermuda Dunes, one of four courses in use for this tournament.

For the first four rounds of this tournament, a pro-amateur division with best ball scoring was held and Casper was low pro with 51-under-par for 72 holes. He won $2,970 for this and ran his tournament earnings for the year to approximately $40,000.

The low 70 pros and ties go it alone Sunday for the fifth round at Bermuda Dunes.

Bunched at 281 and crowding Palmer were: Gay Brewer, the Masters champion from Dallas, Tex., with a fourth round 71; Canada's George Knudson with a 70; Harold Henning of South Africa with a 69 and young Tom Weiskopf of Marco Island, Fla., with a 72.

Three strokes off the pace at 283 were Australia's Bruce Devlin who shot an even par 72 at Bermuda Dunes; Lee Trevino of Horizon City, Tex., who had a 71 at Eldorado Country Club and Charles Coody, Ft. Worth, Tex., who had a 72 at La Quinta Country Club.

Casper, 36, cool as his cucumber green slacks despite 85 degrees weather, obviously enjoyed his position with a stroke lead going into Sunday's finale.

Top prize here is $30,000, the same as he won at Los Angeles last week.

A 72-hole score of 292 or better was required to remain in contention for the final round Sunday. Among those who fell by the wayside was defending champion Tom Nieporte, Locust Valley, N.Y., who shot a 74 in the fourth round for a total of 297.

Two amateur teams were tied for low in their division with net scores of 51-under-par. They were composed of Newell Falt, Wilford Doherty and actor Chuck Connors and Byron Smith, Edward Twining and Norm Larson. They won assorted merchandise for their efforts.

SIMMIE HILL of West Texas State University is leading the Buffalos in scoring with an average of 28.3 and is ranked 10th in the nation. In rebounds he leads the Buffs with an average of 11.4 per game. West Texas lost to Colorado State by 90-72 last night in Colorado.

Buff Play Twice In Two Evenings

CANYON (Sp.) — West Texas State University returns to Canyon today after playing Colorado State last night and then hits the road again, heading for a two-day slate with ACC and Hardin-Simmons in Abilene.

The Buffalos play Hardin-Simmons at 8 p.m. Monday and ACC Tuesday at the same time. Coach Dennis Walling's Buffs had a two-game winning streak going before falling to then 16th ranked Texas of El Paso 76-61 and 12th ranked New Mexico State 76-64 on a two-game road tour the past weekend.

Simmie Hill, whose 28.3 scoring average is well ahead of the West Texas State record average of 21.3 established by Troy Burrus in 1953, led the Buffs in scoring against El Paso with 28 markers. Hill received concentrated attention from New Mexico State and was held to 21, but guard Mike Mitchell took up the slack with 24 points.

The Buffs play two games on consecutive nights in Abilene. Monday they meet the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys. Coach Paul Lambert's 7-10 crew is paced in scoring by 5-10 guard Buddy Haines, who is hitting at 35.5 clip. Top veteran Clarence McHenry was lost to the team by graduation at mid-term.

Tuesday Abilene Christian will host WTSU. The Wildcats, caught in a four game losing streak, own a 6-9 record. Coach Dee Nutt's star guard, 6-3 senior John Ray Godfrey, is ripping the nets at a 24.5 average. Other offensive punch comes from 6-5 Marion Lewis (12.2), and 6-7 Wendell Stewart (11.1).

Hill, who was ranked ninth in the nation in scoring last week—just ahead of UCLA's Lew Alcindor—continues to lead the Buffs in both scoring and rebounding. The 6-6 Midland, Pa., product is averaging 28.3 points and 11.4 rebounds per game.

Figuring prominently in scoring are 6-3 guard Mike Mitchell (18.6), 6-8 center Maurice Savage (11.1), 6-3 forward Gale Rhine (7.2), and 5-7 guard David Cole (4.5).

The next West Texas home game will be Saturday, Feb. 10 against the revenge-minded Oklahoma City Chiefs, whom the Buffs upset 86-85 in Oklahoma City two weeks ago.

'Horns Nip Rice

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—The Texas Longhorns, shooting only occasionally but making a great percentage of the shots pay off, whipped the Rice Owls 65-64 Saturday and at least partially break up the logjam near the top of the Southwest Conference race.

The Longhorns and Owls had gone into the game tied for second place with 3-2 records.

The Longhorns hit an amazing 70 per cent of their shots in the first half, but still found themselves trailing by two points 33-30 at the intermission.

But a more aggressive attack pushed Texas in front of the suddenly cold Owls in the second half.

Gary Overbeck hit a driving layup early in the half to send Texas in front 34-33 and they were never headed again. Texas ran up as much as a nine-point lead late in the game before Rice closed in with a few final baskets.

Overbeck backed the Longhorns with 20 points, but Rice's Larry Miller led all scorers with 21.

Texas cooled off slightly in the second half and finished hitting only 60 per cent of its shots, while the deliberate Owls connected on 42.4 per cent.

NEW YORK (UPI)—This is the off-season for golf in the frozen North where many a "mad scientist" is laboring in his basement workshop to perfect a new ball, club or gadget that'll revolutionize scoring.

And he'll be a lot "madder" when the U.S. Golf Association rejects his new gimmick for general use.

The USGA doesn't mind a guy making a few bucks out of golf inventions but they must meet rigid specifications for sound financial reasons.

"For one thing, there's a lot of real estate we have to protect," says Joe Dey of the USGA.

That real estate adds up to more than $2 billion worth of golf facilities in America alone.

"Unless equipment is held within reasonable limits every golf course we have would become obsolete," says Dey.

Space age materials and know-how could produce long distance balls, long distance clubs and bombsight putters that might turn a normal par 72 into a par 54 or some such.

The only answer then would be to buy more real estate for bigger golf courses which also would require a hefty increase in golf course maintenance costs.

The annual bill for maintenance already is a $235 million headache, according to the National Golf Foundation.

Thus, there are solid dollar reasons golf prefers to ignore progress in certain areas.

For years, the USGA employed a ball-testing machine in the basement of its national headquarters in New York. The old machine tested, in effect, how far an average golfer would hit a certain brand of ball.

Any ball that registered above the limit in its simulated flight immediately was banned for championships as well as local club tournaments under USGA rules.

New ball-testing methods achieve the same result. Balls that are too lively are tossed out. Some of the most famous brand names on the market were thumbed down last season.

Putters, though, are the pets of most inventors. Every year dozens are rejected to the dismay of gadgeteers who have come up with bombsight devices that look almost, but not quite, legal.

Putters with sights, mirrors or certain arrow markings all get the heave-ho but new ones keep coming.

Quarry Decks Spencer To Gain WBA Finals

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—Underdog Jerry Quarry, counter-punching with explosive power, decked Thad Spencer twice and then scored a knockout over him in the last round Saturday to gain the finals of the World Boxing Association heavyweight tournament.

Referee Jack Downey halted

the contest at 2:37 of the 12th round after Quarry had staggered the on-rushing Spencer with a hard right to the jaw and then rained blows upon the loser close to the latter's corner.

Quarry, an 8-5 contender, weighed 193 1/2 pounds to 200 1/2 for Spencer, who also enjoyed a one inch advantage in height.

Looking almost apologetic at times and wide-eyed at others, the Los Angeles Irishman first sent Spencer down late in the fourth round with a left hook to the jaw. Then after Spencer seemed to be turning the tide as late as the ninth, Jerry staggered him with another right hand in that session and sent him sprawling across the lower strand for a second knockdown in the 10th. This punch was another right hand which caught Spencer, who constantly moved in throughout the fight with a Joe Louis shuffle.

Quarry next meets Jimmy Ellis for the WBA title in a fight which will gross each boxer $125,000. Spencer and Quarry made $75,000 each for Saturday's appearance.

Porsche Favored In Daytona Race

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Fords own the pole positions, but the favorite's role rests with four new Porsches today in the grueling 24 hours of Daytona auto race.

One of the 2.2 liter Porsche 907's—first over two-liter cars ever built by the famous Stuttgart factory—is expected to be in front Sunday at 3 p.m. when the race ends.

A Ford GT40, driven by Jackie Ickx of Belgium and Brian Redman of England, set a qualifying record of 179.37 miles per hour Friday to take the inside front position for the starting flag. Right behind at 117.2 MPH was another GT40 piloted by Paul Hawkins and David Hobbs.

With Ickx at the wheel, the blue Ford entered by the Mirage team of England broke the old track qualifying record of 119.165 set by a Ford Mark II here last year over the twisting, 3.81-mile International Speedway track-and-road course.

But almost leisurely, the ghostwhite Porsches took the 3rd, 4th and 5th starting positions with speeds ranging from 116.92 to 114.14 MPH.

Thus the four big Porsches, shooting for the German firm's first overall world racing championship, are in perfect position to try to run the faster 4.7 liter Ford into mechanical difficulties.

"I think," said Porsche racing team leader Hueschke Baron von Hanstein, "we have a pretty good chance at it. I am worried only about the Ford; the Howmet and the Alfas cannot run with us."

The much-publicized Howmet turbine car, which whooshes around the track almost silently compared to the screaming European cars, qualified in 6th place with a speed of 112.33 MPH.

Twentieth Century Forum Elects Six New Officers

Twentieth Century Forum study club met recently with Mrs. Homer Johnson as Mrs. Joe Franklin, vice president, presided for the officer election. Officers elected were Mrs. Frank C. Stofa, president; Mrs. Homer Johnson, secretary; Mrs. David Holt, treasurer; Mrs. McHenry Lane, reporter and Mrs. Robert Waddell, parliamentarian.

Mrs. Waddell reviewed the life of Andrew Wyeth for the program.

"Andrew Wyeth, of Chad's Ford, Pa.," Mrs. Waddell said, "is a member of a family of distinguished artists. Although his artist father was his teacher, he developed his own style of painting."

"As Wyeth has spent most of his life in the hills of Pennsylvania surrounding Chad's Ford, most of his paintings depict the simple everyday things he encountered there."

Andrew Wyeth's one-man show held recently at the Whitney Museum in New York attracted record-breaking crowds. The exhibition has already attracted 313,000 visitors in Philadelphia, Pa., and Baltimore, Md.

"As an artist, Mr. Wyeth suffers a double public affliction. His work is loved by most people and censored by critics for the same reason. People love the story-telling aspect of his work and critics dislike it at a time when narrative values are regarded as intolerable," she said.

"His sharp focus technique is reassuring to people who like seeing something their six-year old child couldn't do. It is disturbing to critics who feel anyone could learn to do it as a mechanical exercise."

It was announced 13 visits were made and 28 members present.

Mrs. Cordie McBride's name was drawn from the friendship jar.

Swedish Exchange Student Speaks To White Deer Students, Faculty

SKELLYTOWN (SPL) — Miss Anna Kuylenstierna, American Field Service exchange student from Sweden and a White Deer High School senior, spoke to the faculty and students here recently on her home country. In comparing her home town and Sweden with Pampa and the United States, Miss Kuylenstierna said "We start the year off by celebrating New Year's just as you do. Our next holiday is Easter. On Easter eve, all young girls in Sweden follow the ancient custom of dressing up like witches and going from door to door to get candy. "Around Christmastime, we have a Santa Claus also, but he is a mixture of the American Santa Claus and the Swedish gnomes. Our big celebration is called Lucia and is held Dec. 13. We have a Christmas tree, but it serves the purpose of a May pole as various folk dances are done around it," she said. Miss Kuylenstierna explained some of the differences of American and Swedish schools as being: more sports in America, more time for school clubs, more friendliness between teacher and student, better discipline and a wider variation of school subjects. "In Sweden," she said, "we go to school only to learn." When speaking of her family, she mentioned she has two older brothers and one younger sister. They live with her parents in a village of 80 people where her father is principal of a Forestry School. For her year-long stay in the United States, her "American family" is Mr. and Mrs. Pete Richardson, Cindy and Bobby of White Deer. After graduating from White Deer High School in May, she will join 4,400 other AFS-sponsored students for a tour of the United States before she returns home to Sweden.

For Sunday, Feb. 4
GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a fine Sunday to study some new arrangements and conditions that you would like to have operate in your life in the future, so make sure that you hold steady to proven principles while eagerly searching out new ways to achieve them. Your mental ideas can have a much fuller expression, depth. ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Decide how to get your aims in the future with less trouble and fuss and feathers. Your mind is working brilliantly and you have marvelous ideas. Put them across with real enthusiasm and ability. TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) — A day to silently plan how to come much closer to your deepest goals and new outlets you are interested in. Much study into matters religious could be most helpful to you. Be inspired and grow. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — If you talk to good friends you get a better idea how to make your life more ideal and let your companions know that you are material-minded enough to show that you are the one who has it in his or her power to set up a new system that can bring you a considerably larger income in the future. ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Get in touch with business expert who can help you to solve problems and make a plan that has given you so much trouble of late. Keep rooted to the financial. Put aside the social for the time being. TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Talk to your friends who can help you to be instrumental in helping you to gain what is wise in a.m. You are very magnetic today; everyone can feel your force in contact with. Do so and get a head. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Ideal day to gather that information you require from right sources, so do so quickly and do not waste time in other matters. Those problems quickly. Then give your mind over to the romantic in a.m. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) — Pals will assist you with particular work you have to do but be more specific in stating what you want them to do. By repaying some social debt, you find you gain much in other ways as well. Be just. LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Get the O.K. of bigwigs before you get into some new enterprise, even though today's future lies in the world of activity. That community matter is your best bet. Give it much of your time and energy. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) — There are fine new outlets all about, so be alert to them and choose the right ones. Listen to what some new contact has to say. This could be the avenue through which you make your greatest progress. LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21) — Right day to talk to or some difference of opinion with one you love and come to a happy understanding. Get that responsibility behind you. It has been bothering you. Get a loan, if necessary. SCORPIO (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) — It is better to confide in a partner who those bug ideas are you have that could be mutually profitable. Later you have an opportunity to take advantage of some unusual pleasure. This could be a rather expensive sport, but well worth it. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Dive right into all those duties ahead of you instead of procrastinating about them, and they are done. Be very efficient. Listen carefully to certain ideas that a counselor has for you. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Be sure to extend invitations to others for recreation that is mutually enjoyed. You have a work harder on some special talent if it is to pay off handsomely. Don't use haphazard methods. This increases harmony and success. IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those natural-born persons of character, but make sure that your property does not carry this to the point where there is little humanity. The best outlets here are property management and financial professions, such as banking stock market, etc. Send to a fine business college.

Designers Explain Current Silhouettes

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—To John Weitz, fashion's flirtation with nostalgia is "nonsense." "To Adele Simpson, America's 'youth kick' in clothes has nothing to do with chronological age, but with a person's outlook on life, and zest for living it. And to Rudi Gernreich, the 'enfant terrible' of the style world, there is no longer one silhouette, no one look that ever again will dominate styles. The three American designers, innovators all, were among those sounding off during a recent roundtable discussion with fashion reporters on what is right, what is wrong with current style trends.

"Fashion's fiddling around with the 1930's, or any other part of the past, is nonsense," said Weitz, whose label goes on all types of ready-to-wear for both women and men.

So what has inspired any number of designers in the spring ready-to-wear? The "Bonnie and Clyde" look of beret and open jackets shown in a motion picture set in the 1930's, for one thing. And what else? The Civil War period, when a novel's heroine named Scarlett O'Hara was wearing crinoline petticoats to show off a tiny waist and framing her face in big picture hats. Revival of these fashions has a lot to do, of course, with the revival of the movie, "Gone With The Wind."

Garden Club Has Program on Birds

Pampa Garden Club met recently at the Gray County Courthouse Annex with Mrs. Carlos Grissom as hostess and Mrs. Albert H. Kouri as co-hostess. Those participating in the business program of committee reports were Mrs. W. R. Campbell, club collect and Mrs. Melvin Stephens, president.

Mrs. Thelma Bray presented the program "Beauty and Song expressed by the Birds," and displayed a science project of Tony Albus and Mike Albus, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Albus, 1300 Foster.

Nick had mounted bird heads. Tony had a theme of the description and identification of birds and their habits.

As a record was played with songs of different birds, pictures of birds were displayed.

It was announced the Purple Martin comes back annually to Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Marlar's home, 1101 Neel Rd. The Purple Martin eats about 2,000 mosquitoes daily.

About 18 members attended the program.

Skellytown WMU Presents Program

SKELLYTOWN (Spl) — Mr. and Mrs. Jerald Seawright foreign missionaries to Brazil, were special guests at the Skellytown First Baptist Church recently.

Rev. Seawright spoke at both morning and evening services and explained "missionary message" he found in the Bible. He also spoke of his decision to become a missionary in Skellytown and his plea for more dedicated missionaries to help the masses of people in Brazil and around the world.

A special noon meal and fellowship was held after the morning services to celebrate Mrs. Kezzie Mae Seawright's birthday. She was presented a $50 bill from the church and other gifts from both the Sylvia Freeman and Kezzie Mae WMU circles. Also present during the day were several families from the church, Rev. and Mrs. Murle Rogers, pastor, guests, and special guests, Rev. and Mrs. Merwin Hall, Ray and Pamela. Rev. Miss Glynette Dawkins Pampan Selected As Military Ball Queen Candidate

Miss Glynette Dawkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn E. Dawkins, Pampa, has been named a candidate for Military Ball Queen at University of New Mexico in Albuquerque.

The ball, sponsored by the Navy and Air Force Reserve Officer's Training Corps units, will be Tuesday at Kirtland AF Base Officers' Club. About 600 students are expected.

Miss Dawkins is a speech major at UNM and is one of three candidates for queen nominated by the Navy unit on campus.

Queen of the formal dance will be escorted through an arch formed by the Navy sword team.

Spring evenings will be filled with flowers and floaty fabrics, ruffles and romance, reports the New York Couture Business Council. Harking back to the thirties, evening looks have an almost theatrical, costume air about them—exaggerations of ruffe-bedecked necklines, cuffs and hems, sleeves and skirts billow.

A blue floral arrangement was the table center-piece flanked by blue tapers in crystal holders. The large white sheet cake with two large wedding bells was inscribed with the names Terry and Beverly and decorated with clusters of red sugar roses and tiny blue sugar hearts.

17 Miss Doak Weds Bruce T. Goodwin

CANADIAN (Sp) — Miss Lucky Hene Doak exchanged wedding vows here recently with Bruce Thomas Goodwin. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Watson. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Goodwin, all of Canadian.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by Dale Monroe, minister of the Church of Christ, in the home of the bridegroom's parents. The altar space was marked by two tall baskets of white gladiolas and stock.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a street length dress of blue polished cotton with an overcoat of white lace and carried a bridal bouquet of white pom mums.

Leonard Goodman was best man. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Lou Doak. A reception followed the ceremony.

The couple are making their home in Canadian. Mr. Goodwin is employed at the Canadian Lumber Co. The bride is in high school here.

TO WED

Miss Eva Anderson CANADIAN (Sp) — Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Anderson announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Eva, to Tommy Hinkle, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Hinkle of Tulsa. The couple plan to be married in the First Baptist Church in Canadian June 1. Miss Anderson will graduate from high school here this spring. Her fiancé is employed here by the Texas Park and Wildlife Service.

Mrs. McVey Hosts Women's Meeting

Merton Home Demonstration Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Gilbert McVey with Mrs. E. O. Wylie, vice president, presiding in the absence of Mrs. N. A. Briden, president, who was reported ill.

Each member answered roll call with a household cleaning suggestion. After members discussed future programs, they completed their year books.

Refreshments were served to members and guests. Mmes. V. Smith, David Rife, Gilbert McVey, Tony Smith, T. G. Groves, Clyde Gray, E. O. Wylie, A. N. Nash, Jack Howard, G. P. Hogan, C. N. Butler, Lee Jackson and Mrs. Lazetta Grant.

Heard-Jones DRUGS

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What do you do with a 13-year-old daughter who is the most selfish, inconsiderate girl in the world? For example, when "The Princess" takes a bath, she thinks she has to have the water up to her neck. There are eight of us in this family, Abby, and she does not care if there is no hot water left for anybody else or not.

I wish you would put this in your column as "The Princess" never misses it. She won't listen to me.

BOSTON MOM
DEAR MOM: If "The Princess," at age 13, won't listen to you, you'd better prepare yourself for some royal headaches. Consideration for others is the Number One virtue in this life, and if your daughter does not learn it fast she will probably always be in hot water up to her neck.

DEAR ABBY: What is a sure cure for a selfish man? I am married to one. He is 23 and I am 22, and he expects me to wait on him hand and foot. The other night, for example, he said, "Hey, get me my cigarettes and a pillow, will you?" I told him I wasn't his slave, and he got mad.

I work eight hours a day in a laundry and at the end of the day I'm just as tired as he is. He likes to watch television while he's eating, so he eats on a tray. I don't mind that, but when he's finished I have to take the tray back to the kitchen. Sometimes he acts like he's the king and I am his servant.

I really love him, and don't want any trouble, but how can I make him quit being so selfish? He does other selfish things but it would take a book to tell you. Thanks for any help you can give me.

NO-SLAVE

DEAR NO-SLAVE: For a young married couple, ages 23 and 22, the honeymoon appears to have come to a premature end. I don't know your definition of "love," but it certainly isn't sharing, caring, and a desire to please your man. I suspect your marriage is filled with other minor irritations. Why don't you two sit down and find out what happened to all that "love" you married for? With a little luck and understanding you may be able to recapture it before it's too late.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks to you, I have fallen in love with a soldier in Vietnam.

I wrote to Sgt. Jefferson, who gave my letter to a "lonesome soldier" named Neil, and we have been writing daily.

Neil said that since my first letter to him he felt that he had something to come home for. He is now in the states in a hospital, so we couldn't keep our date to meet on Christmas day but I plan to fly out to Hamilton Air Force Base and surprise him. I have never seen him, Abby, but I care deeply for him. I couldn't care less if he is short or tall, or fat or thin, or if he has two heads and three eyes. If he will have me, I will be his for the rest of my life. Thank you, Dear Abby, for bringing us together.

PAT Q.
(A GRATEFUL NURSE)
DEAR PAT: And thank you for your wonderful letter. I hope you will keep me informed of further progress.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mitchum Laments "I'm a Loser!" To Columnist

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Robert Mitchum is a movie star, owns a horse ranch and maybe leaves a million bucks in pocket change on the bureau every night. But by his own admission he's still a loser.

If a waiter spills the soup in a restaurant, odds are it will land in Mitchum's lap.

Juveniles steal other people's hub caps; they take Mitchum's car. Seagulls seek him out. He even loses on Christmas.

"I open the box that's empty," Mitchum said without sorrow.

"I'm a loser and I've learned to live with it. When I order dinner on a menu I only get what I order one out of 40 times."

"I put my money in a cigarette machine, punch the button for my brand, and another kind of cigarettes come out. If I try to pull a door open I have it almost off the hinges before I notice that it says push. It's a helluva way to go through life."

Worse Abroad
The actor's luck is worse abroad than it is at home. He leaves for Mexico this week with Dean Martin to star in "Five Card Stud." Knowing Mitchum he'll wind up with only four cards.

"I'm not kidding about being a loser," he continued. "When I was in Spain last year I was touted on a great horse out here, a mare that was supposed to be in foal."

"So when I get back to this country, I look at this horse and it could have been sold by the pound instead of what I paid for her. What's more she isn't even in foal."

"But Europe is really where I'm a loser. I fled Rome; you've had it over there if you're a working gringo. So I went to Spain early hoping to find things a little better. I got to Madrid and the hotel gave me the Goya suite."

"It must have been occupied by cannibals before me. Everything was nailed to the floor, the rugs were burned and all the furniture was carved up with the names of other guests."

"Every night dames would keep coming into the room saying, 'do you always leave your keys in the door, honey?'"

Ugly Tourists

"Trouble was they weren't young, beautiful Spanish señoritas. They were ugly tourists from Pittsburgh."

"Talk about a loser. They moved me to another room that had absolutely no heat. There wasn't even a knob or a dial to turn for a little warmth."

"So I went out to the studio and it was like a refrigerator. Mitchum came back and had a friend drive his new car west for him. The cost: $1,000—for speeding tickets and bar bills along the way."

"Just when I think my luck is changing I get a long distance call from an Italian producer who wants me to do a western for an Italian-Yugoslavian co-production company to shoot in Romania. But he couldn't send me a script because it hadn't been translated from Polish yet."

"Don't tell me about losers, pal, I've been there."

Martin-Mitchum Co-Star
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Inger Stevens won the feminine lead with Dean Martin and Robert Mitchum in "Five Card Stud" for Paramount.

New One For Eastwood
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Clint Eastwood finally hit the big time with a co-starring role with Richard Burton in "Where Eagles Dare."

Critics Blasted By Desi Arnaz For Arrogance

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"They say my shows are old-fashioned and corny. Well, maybe the whole country is old-fashioned and corny."

The words belong to Desi Arnaz, who invented the situation comedy show on television as we know it today.

"I don't understand what all these people are yelling about when they talk about the quality of television," the Cuban-born producer-director said from his office in the studio he once owned.

"We're going too far with this high brow stuff in TV. Viewers are thrown by it. The purpose of television is not to educate people. But you would think so to hear some of the critics. The purpose of television is to entertain."

"Any form of good entertainment is art. That doesn't mean it has to be Cervantes or Shakespeare, you know. I like Laurel and Hardy, too."

"I eat caviar but that doesn't mean there's anything wrong with hot dogs."

Hew New Show

Presumably Desi was equating his new "The Mothers-In-Law" series with frankfurters. The sitcom, along with "The Flying Nun," is one of the few new shows with respectable ratings this season. It also follows Desi's patented format.

There are four major characters (neighbors) who take turns misunderstanding one another. Through the years it has been unflinching successful.

"I Love Lucy," "December Bride," "Our Miss Brooks," "The Ann Sothern Show."

All were made with the three-camera technique before a live audience, another television staple invented by the form's bongo beater. While none make the world forget Shakespeare, neither can they be compared with some of the awful stuff that passes for comedy these days.

Too Many Gimmicks

"The trouble with comedy on TV now is everyone is looking for gimmicks," Desi continued in his strong Spanish accent. "There is no identification with the audience. How can you identify with a man who takes a pill and flies through the air with a cape?"

Arnaz says his shows are basic.

They are. The settings are almost always comfortable suburban homes or sleek city apartments. The humor is based on family relationships, cross-pollinated with misunderstood friends.

"In comedy, all there is to worry about is the relationships between people," Desi said.

"You just take the normal things that happen at home and exaggerate them a little bit. If you do it right you won't win the Nobel Prize, but you will be entertaining people."

NEW MOVIE FOR ALDO RAY

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Aldo Ray has jetted off to Rome for his starring role in "Murder in the Third Dimension" for Warner Bros.

Title Change
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The title of Van Heflin's new film has been changed from "Sam Cooper's Gold" to "Each Man For Himself."

Louis Prima was born in New Orleans in 1911.

Popular Monkees
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The Monkees continue to be the biggest fan mail attractions in television with Screen Gems reporting that the nutty foursome receive 60,000 letters a week from teen-age fans.

Don't Smother a Brother

By JOAN CROSBY

NEA Entertainment Editor
NEW YORK — Tommy Smothers, as Adam, takes a bite of the apple and a booming voice echoes from somewhere up there. "That's a no-no."

But the CBS censors also thought the line was a no-no. "They said it would offend people in the Bible Belt," Tommy reports. Tommy and brother Dick argued, and CBS brought in a priest, a minister and a rabbi to view the skit and pass judgment. They thought the line was a no-no, gave up and so it was heard on The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour.

Censorship, which goes on all the time, seldom emerges from behind locked doors. The major or public battle in the past was Jack Paar vs. NBC with a WC in there somewhere. But the brothers Smothers are mad enough about the snipping and sniping that has occurred on their show to make censorship a public issue.

"We mean it when we say we will quit rather than go through another season of this," Tommy said. "We're going to remain strong. I'm tired and Dick's tired and all this battling is hurting our performance. If we quit, we stand to be sued, but if there is a law suit, it will be over censorship and I don't think CBS will be anxious for that."

Tommy admitted things have been better since they returned from a Christmas vacation. "They've brought a new man in, John Kaye, and he's younger. They've let a lot of things by they didn't before Christmas."

Mike Dann, the CBS programming chief, says, "The Smothers win 99 per cent of their points with us."

In the one per cent they have lost was an exchange during a Russian song. Dick was raving about Russian ballet. Tom said how great it was.

Dick: "Bolshoi."

Tom: "No, really, they're the greatest."

Somehow it seems less dangerous to morals than some of the antics in films like "Never on Sunday," which was telecast recently.

Another time Tommy was apologizing for one of his mistakes. "God knows I'm sorry," he said. "Name dropper," Dick said. By the time the show got on the air, Tom's line was, "The Diet knows I'm sorry," and Dick's unchanged line did not get a laugh.

Pat Paulsen, who does some pointed editorials on the show, had a line in one which listed "white slavery, pornography and narcotics."

"I was told I couldn't say those words. We had to substitute robbery, murder and blackmail. Given a choice, I'll pick pornography over murder."

LBJ and administration jokes are big with the brothers. Recently Tom made a thumbs down gesture as he was praising the government and the

Cartoon Characters

Wave of the Future?
"Maybe," Says Lantz

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Cartoonist Walter Lantz has a solution to overpaid, temperamental actors—replace them with cartoon characters.

Lantz, father of Woody Woodpecker, says that 25 years from now it is not impossible that movie stars will be cartoon characters in human forms. Leading men and glamor girls who never grow old and never find themselves enmeshed in scandal.

No Demands
Neither will they be in a position to ask a million dollars per picture. They won't, in fact, be able to demand anything.

"It could happen," said Lantz with a twinkle in his eyes. "All that it takes is full animation. These cartoon performers can be made as real as human beings. If we perfected our techniques every girl would be beautiful and every man handsome on the screen."

Lantz's wife, "Gracie—who is the voice of Woody Woodpecker"—agreed.

Together the Lantzes produce seven Woodpecker cartoons a year, along with three Chilly Willys and three Beary families, all for release as short subjects for motion picture theaters. Walter refuses to grind out cartoons for television.

Turns Down TV

"I've always turned down television offers because you can't have quality with quantity at the rate TV gobbles up product," he said.

censors objected to that.

The hierarchy of censors has the head man, William Tankersley, vice president, Program Practices, located in New York. Tankersley, offered a chance to comment on his side of the feud and to state network standards, absolutely refused to talk to press.

Dann says there is no question the Smothers have "broken new frontiers in what can be done. They do topical comedy and these are serious times. It's harder to judge what is tasteful. Sometimes we're wrong and sometimes they are."

Tommy admitted the brothers can make mistakes. He wishes now he had been stopped from doing a skit that was on the opening show this season in which he played a young man on a date who got the tablecloth stuck in his zipper.

Sometimes the brothers censor themselves. An interview in the Smothers Poll had Dick talking to Negro actor Scoey Mitchell who, when asked his name, said, "Charles White. They used to call me Whitey but that went out a few months ago." When it got on the air, the name had been changed to "George Wallace—not the one in politics, the other one."

"We made that change. The first line hit too close. But we had another interview with Scoey in which we wanted a picture of George Wallace on the wall. Scoey was going to refer to his brother-in-law and point to the picture. They wouldn't let us do that. So we used a picture of Adam Clayton Powell."

"In another skit, Leigh French made a reference to a man coming home and digging his wife. They thought that to dig your wife was dirty, which shows the kind of mind we have been dealing with."

Tommy thinks television is at least 10 years behind movies, the theater and printed media is growing up. "If things go well and other people and shows take stands, it will take some of the pressure off us."

"They are doing some of the best stuff on television," Mike Dann says. "They must be doing something right."

They are not only making audiences laugh, and denting Bonanza's ratings, but they have proved that even censors have a sense of humor.

Whenever the censors come across what they think is a double-entendre joke, they refer to it as a "joke, using a well-known Anglo-Saxonism." We decided to put the word in one of our scripts and read it at the first rehearsal.

They did and, says Tommy, "it is to the censors' credit that they laughed."

Gable Documentary
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"Dear Mr. Gable" is the final title for MGM's television documentary on the late, great star.

Strangler Signings
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Character actor George Kennedy has signed to co-star with Tony Curtis and Henry Fonda in "The Boston Strangler."

Doris Day was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1924.

Gig Young was born in St. Cloud, Minn., in 1913.

Henny Youngman was born in Liverpool, England, in 1906.
