WEST TEXAS' LARGEST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER

OFFICIAL NEWSPAPER FOR THE CITY OF SNYDER AND SCURRY COUNTY

SNYDER, TEXAS, —The busiest small city in West Texas, inhabited by the busiest people living and the best in the world!

VOLUME XLIII — SNYDER, TEXAS, THURSDAY, JULY 11, 1929 — NUMBER 4

Snyder Boasts Lowest Water Rate in Texas

City Has One of Finest Systems in State; Much Water Used

According to available records the city of Snyder boasts of the lowest water rate in the state with a charge of $2.50 for the first 10,000 gallons and 10 cents a thousand gallons thereafter. Never in the history of the town has the city used so much water as at the present which enables lawns and gardens to be made beautiful during the summer months.

According to Mayor Towle, the water and sewer departments can put under pressure in the standpipe 1,152,000 gallons of water every 24 hours. Up until the recent rains the city was pumping and putting under pressure for a period of 30 days, 702,000 gallons in 18 hours. The city supply comes from two wells located 80 feet apart that can deliver 1250 gallons of water a minute for a period of ten hours before the supply gets below the head.

National comment has been made on the bountiful supply of water that is prevalent in Snyder and Scurry County and the case of securing an unlimited supply.

LETTER FROM MAYOR TOWLE

The Times-Signal is indebted to Mayor H. G. Towle for the following fine explanation of the present status of the Water & Sewer Department:

Times-Signal:

The State Health Department, the State Sanitary Department and the State Stream Pollution Department some two years ago turned down our old sewage plant and said it was inadequate so that it become necessary for the City Council to start negotiations for a remedy to eliminate this nuisance and dangerous health situation. The engineers submitted three propositions, which the City Council submitted to the respective State Departments for approval. The Council accepted the proposition approved by the State Department, that this system would meet the requirements of the Department permanently.

This improvement necessitated an expenditure of about $22,000, as the taxpayers all know, and as we have no maintenance tax voted to meet the expense of the sewage system, we make a connection charge on the users of same, and the new system will cost more to operate from the fact that we have to pump all the raw sewage out on the city farm, it is going to be necessary to raise the charge a small amount to take care of our additional expense. The City Council is now figuring out the new rate and will make it just as low as possible to meet the needed requirements.

H. G. TOWLE.

ANNOUNCES CHANGE IN ICE PRICES HERE

Glenn Sample, manager of the Citizens Ice Company, has an announcement on page eight of this issue that should bear the attention of every Times-Signal reader.

Mr. Sample came to Snyder and installed one of the finest ice-making plants in West Texas, as the quality of the ice has never been doubted by anyone who has ever tried a block of it. He is asking for a fair and square deal, and citizens will be interested in the unusual announcement that he is making.

SEINE RIO GRANDE

Judging from the "fish" stories put out by Maurice Brownfield, Roy Strayhorn, E. E. Wallace, Chunk Smith and O. O. Harris, who spent last week down on the Rio Grande, they caught so many fish that some one has said they had a double seine with them, as no group of human beings could catch as many fish as they said they had.

However, they did witness the dedication of the new bridge at Del Rio the Fourth and report a fine time.

MRS. S. T. CROPP DIES

Mrs. S. T. Cropp, 74, of Ira died Tuesday at her home. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the Baptist Church, with Rev. J. W. McGaha officiating. She is survived by one daughter and three sons.

Interment was made in the Ira cemetery.

Livestock Measure Passed

The Senate passed the Stevenson-Metcalfe house bill requiring truck drivers to exhibit to peace officers on demand a written permit covering movements of livestock in the vehicle. The vote was 26 to 0.

Texas cattlemen sponsored the bill, designed to aid officers in halting the theft of livestock.

When arrested for burglary, Edward Mullinger of York, Eng., confessed that he had bound, gagged and robbed eleven women within a few months.

JULY 31 LAST DATE FOR TRANSFERS

According to County Supt. A. A. Bullock, July 31 will be the last transfer date for county school pupils.

Parents should notify the county superintendent's office at once, owing to the large number who annually transfer to other schools and the increased office work made necessary by the changes.

"Pat", who will be on the program of the West Texas Press at Sweetwater Saturday, tells the Times-Signal that seven buses will be used in Scurry County schools this coming school year.

Banks Render Fine Statements

The call on the banks of June 29 found the Snyder National Bank and the First State Bank & Trust Company in a very healthy condition, as compared with former statements. Total resources of both local banks total $1,647,958.61, with loans running slightly over a million dollars. There is very little difference from the call of October, 1928. The statements appear on another page of this edition.

With the two local banks in good condition, as well as the Fluvanna and Hermleigh banks showing sizeable growth, Scurry County is amply satisfied with its banks and their personnel.

GOLF TOURNAMENT STILL CONTINUES

The Snyder golf course was the scene of some very warm play last week in the first flight of the handicap tournament, being the game between Earl Fish and P. M. Chambers Thursday morning, Fish turning in a par game to defeat Chambers. The score of this event showed the following:

Fish—Out, 455, 344, 545—39; In—455, 243, 444—35.

Winners and victims in the first flight outside of the above game were:

G. A. Hagan won from Wayne Boren.

Ivarr Dodson defeated Dr. J. G. Hicks.

W. T. Raybon won over P. W. Cloud.

Austin Erwin Jr. won from Hugh Boren Jr.

W. H. Ritzenthaler won from A. A. Bullock.

Cleve Blackard won over C. W. Harless.

Other elimination rounds are being continued this week.

A group of Lubbock golfers were here Sunday and won in a series of games with members of the local club.

SHUFFLERS BUY THE ODDESSA NEWS-TIMES

Ralph Shuffler and son, R. H. Shuffler, purchased the Odessa News-Times last week from T. R. Moody and R. W. Whipkey. Mr. Shuffler, who formerly edited and owned the Olney Enterprise, is one of West Texas' most widely known gentlemen for his ability to put out a real, newsy sheet. Merchants and citizens of Odessa will find in the Shufflers wide-awake, active men who know how to produce a real newspaper.

Judging from last week's paper, the citizenship of Odessa must have known of the new-comers' ability, as they used up plenty of advertising space as a wholesome welcome to the newcomers. The Times-Signal wishes the Shufflers every atom of success. They are real, honest-to-goodness folks.

KNOW TEXAS

Texas spent $65,123,019 on public schools in 1928.

Texas has 638 National and 734 State banks.

Texas has 8.8 per cent of the total land area of Continental United States.

From March to June Texas shipped 889,000 head of cattle to market.

What probably was the largest "potato patch" in the world was the 2,150-acre potato field of the Sugarland Industries at Sugarland. It produced 200 bushels to the acre this year, and the crop was valued at a half million dollars.

Borden Sheriff Here

Sheriff J. R. Jenkins of Borden County was a Times-Signal business visitor Tuesday in regard to getting a printed description of Edd Atterbury, who is wanted in Borden County on several serious charges.

Edna Peters of Miami, Fla., chosen as "the personification of American girlhood," was awarded a prize of $5,000 and a trip to Europe. She is 5 feet 4 inches tall, weighs 110 pounds, has dark brown hair and hazel eyes.

Help keep Snyder clean!

School Bonds Carry 95 to 9 At Fluvanna

In one of the greatest successes for a school bond election for a new high school building, Fluvanna citizens voted 95 FOR, and but 9 against in their election held yesterday, according to a telephone call from our special correspondent, the Rev. James H. Tate, last night.

The maintenance tax that was also voted at this election resulted in 97 FOR, and but 10 against.

Congratulations to the booster citizens of Fluvanna! May this remarkable and overwhelming vote presage the finding of the next great American oil pool from the test that is being started at the John R. Truss location.

DAWSON COUNTY SUFFERS CROP LOSS

Recent heavy rains and hail destroyed 25,000 acres of cotton and feed in Dawson, says a Lamesa dispatch. For cotton the damage was almost total, but it is estimated that most of the feeds will succor and come out for a fair yield. This is the largest damage known to this section caused by hail at one time, according to old timers there.

Farmers in the hail belt which lies immediately north of Lamesa and in another strip seven miles south and southeast to the cap rock are busy this week planting the damaged crops back to milo maize and higeria which is thought to be able to produce good yields at this late period of the season.

Born June 27th

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. George Webb June 27, a fine daughter who is making Grandpas and Grandmas A. L. Stoker and O. P. Thrane very happy. According to a card from Mrs. Thrane, now at Excelsior Springs, Mo., with Mr. Thrane, "Arrival of baby most important event to us that has ever happened in old Snyder"—and the Times-Signal admits she is right in the thought. "Babies are just wonderful."

Editor J. C. Estlack, wife and two sons of Clarendon were Times-Signal visitors yesterday en route to the press meet at Sweetwater. Mr. Estlack is editor and owner of the Donley County Leader, and the visit was thoroughly enjoyed by this newspaper.

NEW VOCATIONAL "AG" TEACHER ARRIVES HERE

J. P. Jamison, new vocational agriculture teacher in Snyder High, arrived here last week and is ready to take up his work for the coming year. For the past five years Mr. Jamison has been with the Sterling City schools where he achieved fine results, according to advices received here by the school board. Mr. Jamison, formerly an A. & M. student, is a mighty fine chap to meet, and the Times-Signal extends wide open arms to Mr. Jamison and his family. Snyder welcomes newcomers with a hearty hand-shake.

One of Mr. Jamison's first duties here was to add his name to the Times-Signal subscription list, for which we likewise thank him.

Flying to West Texas Press Meet

Editor Smith was the first West Texas editor to land at both the Sweetwater and Colorado airports, and plans are being completed for other "Good-Will" journeys to many West Texas cities who have landing fields.

Mr Lowry is completing plans to go to Graham Saturday for the opening of the new airport there and will be entered in the flying contests that are being held there.

WEST TEXAS PRESS OPENS TOMORROW

The fourth annual convention of the West Texas Press Association that opens tomorrow at Sweetwater is expected to draw even larger crowds than the Big Spring meeting last year. Chairman Lutner M. Watson of Sweetwater has advised publishers that everything assigned on the program has been given an official O. K., so that means a fine meeting for the editors and newspaper men of the district.

From Dallas to El Paso the editors are making their way to Sweetwater, and that city is preparing for the largest program they will enjoy this year. Official headquarters are at the Blue Bonnet Hotel.

Abilene is asking for the 1930 meeting, while Stamford has withdrawn its invitation, the latter city asking for the 1931 meeting.

LUBBOCK GOLFERS WIN WITH 3 POINTS

The Lubbock Country Club with eight players came to Snyder Sunday and enjoyed a series of match play in which the visitors came out on top by the low score of only three points.

Included in the Lubbock group were J. O. Smith Jack May, Bob Peck, E. T. Daniels, Oscar Lykes, Frank Willeford, V. O. Jennings and Bud Roberds. The Snyder group included Dr. J. G. Hicks, Ivan Dodson, O. O. Harris, P. M. Chambers, P. W. Cloud, G. A Hagan, A. D. Erwin and W. T. Raybon.

A picnic lunch was served early in the afternoon, and both teams expressed themselves as enjoying the thorough sportsmanship of the other. The Snyder group has been invited to go to Lubbock some time during the latter part of the month and has accepted the Lubbock challenge.

The Sunday series was the first of a series of inter-city contests in which the Snyder team will play various West Texas teams.

FINE IMPROVEMENT

Postmaster B. F. Womack tells the Times-Signal that a new steel mail box is to be placed at the curb that may be used after the office is closed. The box is expected to arrive here this week and will be placed in position at once.

Now if the streets can soon be marked and homes numbered, we should be ready to ask for city mail delivery.

MORE COTTON IN 1929

Thecotton acreage in the United States July 1 was 3.2 per cent more than a year ago, says a Tuesday dispatch from Washington.

Figures given for Texas indicate an acreage of 18,697,000 compared to 18,330,000 last year.

WHEAT CARS NEEDED

The Panhandle-Plains country is now harvesting a tremendous wheat crop, and the crying need for more freight cars is being heard on all sides. The estimated crop is 37,000,000 bushels which will mean more than $30,000,000 for the farmers of Northwest Texas. A dispatch from Childress Monday stated that over 200 carloads of wheat were loaded Friday night and Saturday.

COTTON IS DOING NICELY

J. M. Robinson east of town has perhaps the earliest cotton in the community, says the Hermleigh Herald. It is estimated that he will have cotton to gin late in August. Mr. Robinson and his sons have near 700 acres of cotton this year, a goodly lot of which is early.

Robinson is one of the leading cotton farmers of the country. We need more farmers like him. We do not need more cotton, but we need more enthusiastic and intensive farmers like Robinson.

New Money Arrives

The new and smaller government currency has arrived and the banks are gladly exchanging the new for the old and much larger size.

PEOPLE SHOULD KNOW

The Hutchinson County Herald at Stinnett, Texas, is publishing the county delinquent tax list, a thing that should be published in every other county in the Panhandle, says the Claude News. Lands on which taxes have not been paid should be published in order that the land can be sold to parties who do pay their taxes. The law requires this publication in the county paper, and Commissioners should order it in.

Scurry County taxpayers have been asking about this list for years as well as wanting to read a financial statement of the county brought down to date. Not only has the Times-Signal been asked about this many times, but taxpayers have likewise asked Sec'y Watt Scott of the Chamber of Commerce.

Revival Meeting to Begin July 21

For several reasons everyone is looking forward to the opening of the Broadfoot-Campbell evangelistic campaign which is to begin with a bang Sunday, July 21. First, because it comes at a time when all may attend and reap the expected results of a deep spiritual development. The farmers, who constitute the foundation of our greater economic development, will be practically through the heavy work of the spring season and will appreciate the refreshing few miles drive in the cool of the evening and the hour of spiritual enrichment in song, worship and the religious study of the Word of Life. The merchant class will not be overcrowded with the sales which he hopefully looks forward to during harvest and may enjoy the splendid Christian fellowship with his fellow townsmen and his rural neighbor and customer, as well as lift up his heart to God in social worship.

Secondly, everyone is looking forward to the enjoyment of the special music—solos, duets, etc.—under the direction of young Paul Campbell, nationally known singing evangelist and artist. These fine art productions, five by three feet, painted in the presence of the audiences, will be given away each evening.

Thirdly, everyone is looking forward to the constructive and spiritualizing program of sermons which are to be presented by Mr. Broadfoot, pastor of the local Church of Christ, Central. All in all, the entire program is to be one of supremely uplifting value to all who attend in a spiritually responsive attitude toward God and things spiritual.

If you wish to reap the full benefit, do not wait until the last few days when interest has grown high, but start with the very first service. There is where the interest begins this time.

Time—July 21; Place—Church of Christ south of court house.

JOHNSON GRASS DUE TO PASS FROM PICTURE

According to the Texas Farm Bureau demonstration Tuesday, Johnson grass is due to pass out of the picture with the advent of the new poisoning process they showed at three points in the county, Snyder, Hermleigh and Fluvanna.

With W. W. Porter of Colorado, County Agent Logan and J. L. Carrell, they demonstrated the poison on a section of Johnson grass at the north end of Yoder Field. Between 40 and 50 were present, and they were invited to return to the field in three days and note what has happened to this noxious grass.

Many visitors at the demonstration wanted to purchase the new process at once, which in small lots is secured at $1.15 a can, with proportionate decrease in larger quantities. County Agent Logan will be glad to co-operate with county farmers wanting to get their Johnson grass from their fields.

OLD FRIEND WRITES

Rev. H. J. Manley of Canadian, former Presbyterian pastor here and always a good friend of the Times-Signal, writes us yesterday to tell us of the fine installation service given him last Sunday. Recent improvements to the manse there and church repair totaled $9,000, and the family were greaty pleased with their new location.

Rev. Manley also stated the "The Town Doctor articles in your paper appeal to me very much and have watched with great interest their weekly appearances. I have taken the matter up with our Kiwanis Club that they might have the articles run in Canadian, as we consider it would be the best advertising that we could do for our city. Kindly answer my letter at once as the board of directors wish to consider the matter at their next meeting, the 17th."

The Times-Signal was mighty happy to give Rev. Manley the entire story of "The Town Doctor" articles, as we have always considered them among the best that have appeared in the paper.

Mrs. C. D. Dunn, 15-year-old mother of Atlanta, upon first seeing her 8-pound baby, exclaimed, "Just like my doll."

WHAT'S DOING IN WEST TEXAS

PAMPA'S building permits totaled $131,100 for one week recently making the total for the year $777,640, and placed Pampa second in the Panhandle and among the first ten cities of the state. The largest permit was issued to Horace and Guy Saunders, who will erect a $54,000 two-story garage building.

PECOS launched another building program recently when permits amounted to more than $49,000 for structures downtown and on the highway. Buildings of reinforced concrete of one and two stories predominate, with one of three stories, which will include an addition to the Pecos Hotel.

ALBANY is seeing over $100,000 put into homes by its citizens. Most of the residences are of brick or other permanent construction and range in value from $1,000 to $35,000.

QUITAQUE'S Chamber of Commerce has reached an agreement with the commissioners court whereby a portion of the road bond issue of the precinct will be sold. The local committee is now engaged in endeavoring to secure the desired right of way for the permanent improvement of two lateral roads.

H. J. ADAIR, manager of the Oil and Gas Bureau of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, will take on the duties of publicity manager after July 10, following the resignation of E. H. Khitehead.

SAN ANGELO is to have a large dam, the contract for which has been bid on by six well-known construction companies. The project includes a 45-foot dam 6,000 feet in length, top width 20 feet, bottom width 225 feet, with the reservoir to have an average width of five-tenths of a mile and to extend several miles up the river.

EDEN is endeavoring to install a sewer system, and work is being done to interest fifty home owners into tying in on the system in the near future so that work may start.

BLEDSOE plans to celebrate the biggest event of its kind ever held in Texas west of Lubbock on July 12 and 13. The leading features of the program are a free barbecue, rodeo, baseball, dancing and state-widely known speakers. Judge Hamlin of Farwell, manager of the Capitol Reservation lands, will speak on the opening day.

HAMILTON now has six miles of natural Uvalde rock asphalt paved streets, and the county will vote on a $500,000 road bond issue on July 16. The town will burn natural gas supplied by the Lone Star Gas Company by October 15. The Hamilton County Fair and Race Meet will be held in Hamilton July 24, 25, and 26.

BALLINGER, the starting place of the fourth annual motorcade sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, is planning an elaborate luncheon for those who start the protracted tour of the scenic spots of West Texas and eastern New Mexico. The dates for the motorcade are from July 10 to July 20. B. M. Whiteker is in charge.

TURKEY is adding the finishing touches to the large 200,000 gallon reservoir for the city. The contractor is furnishing the pump houses which complete one of the most modern, up-to-the-minute water supply plants in West Texas.

BRADY'S historic town bell will ring again, but no more from the old court house steeple. It has been donated to the Richards Park and placed in the athletic stadium to toll out the time of the horseraces and other races at various celebrations.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

Louis Wiley, business manager of the New York Times, says:

THAT the late Charles A. Dana, in speaking of the art of newspaper editing, once remarked that the business of producing newspapers for fools was industriously and widely taken care of, but for his part hewas trying to attract intelligent readers. At that time it may have been unusual for an editor to concern himself with the intelligence with his subscribers, but the world has moved.

The newspaper has become the greatest agency for public information and education in the world. It is a school which both adults and children gladly attend, and its columns present continuous courses in contemporary history, economics, science, literature, music and every other worthwhile field of human interest. There are few truants from this great school. More than 35,000,000 copies of newspapers are bought and read every day in the United States, and there are only about 28,000,000 families in the country.

Progress in modern society has made regular attendance in the school of the newspaper almost compulsory. Local horizons have been demolished by improved communications, rapid transportation and by international commercial and political bonds. World-wide horizons have taken their place. The corners of the earth are so closely linked together that the failure or success of the grain crop in European fields may determine whether or not the American farmer will purchase a new car or mortgage his homestead. In social and business contacts today the intelligent man or woman is expected to be acquainted with the significant events which are taking place throughout the world.

The newspaper alone provides this indispensable information. It assembles accurate, comprehensive, unbiased news with a competence which is truly marvelous. No matter how small the orbit of our daily lives, the newspaper brings the whole world to our doorsteps.

Unable to Work For Five Years

"Sargon did more for me than all other medicines I ever took.

"I was dreadfully run-down, and suffered from rheumatism continually. My joints were so stiff I could not raise my arms. I would be exhausted if I walked a city block. I had not been able to do a day's work in five years. My system was full of poisons and I suffered from constipation and bilious headaches.

"I started taking Sargon and began improving at once and now my rheumatism is better than it has been in years. Sargon Soft Mass Pills overcame my constipation and the bilious headaches, and I feel wonderfully strengthened and helped in every way.

"I believe I will soon be able to go out and work with the best of them."

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

Joe Orris McNary, publisher of the Anacortes (Wash.) Mercury-Citizen, says:

THAT loyalty to the nation and the flag is preached many times and oft. The nation exacts sacrifice and service when occasion demands. The government at Washington may call upon us for the last farthing and the last ounce of effort, and the true patriot will give it ungrudgingly when it is needed.

But, compared to the government at Washington, the affairs of our own home town touch us in a hundredfold more places. We live our daily lives within our own community. Upon its well-being depends our own well-being. To what extent, then, is the claim of the community upon our loyalty?

It has a large claim because we benefit by the results of that loyalty, and because, if we are loyal to our communities, we are in a better position to render patriotic service to the national government when called upon.

We should be loyal to the flag and country—but our home town is a part of that country—the part that most concerns us, and when we salute the flag as a symbol of our nation, it should be with a thought that it is a part of the nation in which we live.

PATRIOTISM, LIKE CHARITY, SHOULD BEGIN AT HOME!

Walter Cowley of Keighlyp, Eng., kissed a young woman three times without her consent and was fined $500.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

at Scarborough & Faught Sts.

Soon our evangelistic campaign will be in full sway. We shall not wait until the official date to begin, but will begin at once. Each sermon from now till the official opening will be in preparation for that service. These sermons will be the best of our entire list of sermon subjects and themes. They are builded to appeal to the hearts of men. Let's do not wait for the opening, but begin now to lift our hearts to God in the cultivation of our spiritual beings by hearing these specially prepared studies of the great truths of life and eternity.

At our Sunday morning service next Lord's Day we will study the theme, "The Unconscious Enemies of Ghrist." Are you unconsciously working against your best eternal Friend? Many men are their own worst enemies and don't know it. In the same manner they may also be an enemy of the Christ. This theme will deal with many of the hidden mysteries in the lives of men and reveal the subtle working of Satan under cover such that men can not see his deadly works.

At the evening hour we shall study the subject, "In the Bonds of a Dream." This also will deal with the subtle influences of life from another angle, revealing man at work while groping in the darkness of the midnight hour.

Come, let us worship together and study together that we might all get closer to God.

The instincts in a horse that are opposed to obedience to man increase in strength with age, so it is very desirable to begin the education of the colt as early as possible. A good plan is to break colts to lead before they are weaned, and to harness them between the ages of 2 and 3 years. Accustom colts to work gradually and do not use them at heavy work until they are practically mature.

Pigeons furnish an interesting example of an equal division of labor in family life. Both the male and the female birds sit on the eggs, the male sitting from 8 a. m. until about 3 p. m., and the female staying on the nest the rest of the time. The squabs are reared and fed by both parents on a thick creamy mixture called pigeon milk, produced in the crops of the birds.

Gourds are among our oldest cultivated plants and were used for water flasks in Egypt about 2300 B. C. Today in America gourds are used mainly as bird houses and ornaments. Leaflet 36-L, Gourds for Bird Houses and Other Purposes, which can be secured free from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., describes the culture of gourds and their uses.

WEST TEXAS FRIENDSHIP

When one does a real favor to a West Texan, especially one of the old-timers, and wins his friendship, he has won something that lasts.

This was shown in the trial of Land Commissioner Robison. A few years ago, when this district was stricken by a terrible drouth, he came to the assistance of the cattlemen of West Texas. He obtained a revaluation of their lands. Many of them believed that he saved them from ruin.

Now he is old, his health is poor, his fortune gone, he has suffered the loss of loved ones.

Time to drop a man, the cynical would say. No profit to be gained by supporting a man in that fix. He is under powerful attack. Time for others to draw off.

Well, if you want to talk that way to one of the old-timers of West Texas, stand near the door when you do so, and be ready for a rapid exit. He won't like it. He won't hesitate about letting you know most forcibly he doesn't like it.

When the news spread through West Texas that their old friend was under fire the cattlemen were practically a unit in their such to his support. Robison was defended by Dayton Moses, attorney for the Cattlemen's Association.

Witnesses by the hundreds offered to go to Austin to help with their testimony, with money, with influence, in any way possible.

Friendship? It means much to the old-timers of West Texas. It is strongest when a man is in hard luck and needs it. Turn back on a friend because he is under attack? That isn't the West Texas way—El Paso Times.

SHORTENING THE HEN'S VACATION

Careful Feeding and Sympathetic Handling of Hens During the Trying Ordeal of the Molt Will D-Much Toward Accelerating Their Return to Productiveness.

Editor's Note—This is another story in a series of 52 stories on poultry raising written by the well known national authority, Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., of St. Louis. The entire series will appear in this paper. Our readers are urged to read them carefully and clip them out for future reference.

The thought has often occurred to me that civilization has compelled both man and fowl to do a great many things that nature never intended to do. Civilization and evolution combined have also changed many of their natural bodily functions. Yet, with incomprehensible stubbornness they still retain organs and habits for which the need has long since disappeared. A man's appendix, for instance, is his souvenir of some long forgotten physical function, while the fowls' habit of molting is her reminder of the time when a vital need existed for the periodical removal of her feathers.

A hen in the wild state frequently had to depend on her wings for flight from birds and beasts of prey. Her feathers, moreover, were her only protection from the elements. In the wild life she led they were undoubtedly in need of repair and renewal at the end of a strenuous season in brush and briar. It was to be expected, therefore, that wise Mother Nature would provide some regular, automatic method to supply the needed renewal at the proper time.

Now, the wild hen had only to lay enough eggs to hatch out a small brood. When the chicks were old enough to shift for themselves, she was as free from duties or responsibilities of any kind as a modern flapper is free from hosiery in the summer time. She was then at liberty to renew her coat, and she could take the rest of the year for the job. Now, civilization has changed all that. Whereas the wild hen might lay a dozen eggs or less and started hatching at once, the civilized descendant is expected to lay ten times that much and gets no chance to exercise mother instinct. Instead, her eggs are hatched by a machine and her chicks foster-mothered by a capon or brooder.

Although man now provides shelter and protection from wild beasts, the hen takes no chances; she continues to molt. This would be of no great consequence were it not that egg laying and moulting do not often go together. A hen can neither eat and digest enough food nor supply enough energy to produce new feathers and a regular supply of eggs. Consequently, the longer a hen takes for the molt, the less time she has for laying and the less profitable it will be to feed and care for her. The big problem in connection with the molt, therefore, is to make it as short as possible.

Careful breeding offers one solution. Good layers will not stop laying until late August, early September or later and are through in about six weeks. Eggs for hatching should always be from such hens. Hens that molt early and take two or three months for it should be watched carefully. The chances are they do not lay enough to pay for their feed and keep, but would be more profitable if marketed for the table.

By constantly culling out the loafers and breeding only from the best layers, a flock will eventually be built up which will require only a very short vacation period for the molt with a corresponding increase in time devoted to laying. Very careful handling and feeding is desirable at all times, however, to keep the vacation at a minimum and the production period at a maximum. Avoid anything that hinders laying, like sudden changes of feed. It may bring on the unproductive molt sooner than need be. On the other hand, correct feeding and a little extra care may accelerate feather growing so the hen can complete her new winter costume and get back to profitable production in a very little while.

During the molt, fowls should have the very best of care. They should have ample shade, an abundance of green food and plenty of fresh water. They should be protected from dampness, drafts and exposure of any kind. Very late molters should be especially protected against cold. If possible, put molting birds to themselves. They are timid and self-conscious when bare, and the other hens will make life miserable for them. The less hens are disturbed at this time, the easier it is for them to convert food into feathers.

Proper feeding is of paramount importance. Feathers are derived from the same material as eggs, being about 80 per cent protein. It is wrong, therefore, to take away the mashes as many people do when hens are molting. The mashes contain the protein concentrates while grains contain very little. To rob molting hens of their proteins is simply to prolong the molting period until enough proteins are assimilated to supply the feathers needed.

The regular scratch grains may be fed, including oats, wheat and corn, but not too much corn, as it is too heating. Feed also some sunflower seed and linseed meal in the mash. Also a little more meat scraps or cut bone that is usually fed and give plenty of milk if possible. A good mineral tonic is also invaluable.

Remember the molting hen is really very much out of condition, but that careful handling and special diet will help to speed up the passage of this trying period. Then, as she begins to get back to normal, gradually work back to the regular feeding practice of the laying period. Avoid sudden changes, as they will only delay full completion of the molt. Careful adherence to these methods is sure to speed up the molt with a commensurate increase in egg production just when prices are beginning to soar upward.

Texas Press Backs Larger Supreme Court

No Additional Office Holders—No Increase In Taxes

In 1875 when the present State Constitution was framed, Texas had perhaps a million inhabitants. The new constitution provided for a Supreme Court of three justices.

In 1928 Texas had five and a half times as many people as in 1875. In property values—increases in which naturally contribute to litigation—the growth has been even more remarkable. From the $249,000,000 assessed values in 1875, the total has steadily climbed until it is nearly $4,000,000,000, or sixteenfold. Population and property increases, bringing human beings into closer contact than when Texas was largely a pastoral state, have increased the possibilities of litigiousness by geometric rather than arithmetic progression.

But the number of Supreme Court justices remains the same—just three.

In other words, with five and one-half times the population and sixteen times the property values and with the increased likelihood of litigation that comes from the growth of such factors, three Supreme Court justices are still striving to the best of their ability, it is only just to say—to dispose of the vitally important litigation that ultimately must reach them for final adjudication.

It is virtually a matter of course that in spite of efforts to aid them through commissions of appeal, they are falling so far behind with their labors that citizens of Texas, vitally concerned in speedy and final adjudication of their legal controversies, are materially suffering.

That in brief is the genesis of the pending constitutional amendment to be voted on July 16 next and back of which is the strength of the Texas Bar Association and the Texas Press Association membership, together with the support of many thousands of other thoughtful citizens of Texas who believe in the axiom that justice delayed frequently means justice denied.

From the Texas of 1875 to the Texas of 1929 is afar cry. Today it is one of the greatest states in the union in population and wealth, probably the greatest in its possibilities for future development. And the attainment of that development very many well-informed and thoughtful Texans believe, is being delayed and hindered by an unsatisfactory court system out of which has grown a very general demand for court reform. One of the first and most essential steps toward that reform, lawyers rather generally agree, is the adoption of the pending amendment which increase the justices of the Supreme Court to nine, abolish the Commissions of appeal (with their six judges) and require the Supreme Court to remain in session continuously twelve months in the year instead of the nine months it is permitted to sit under the present constitutional provision.

Even in the constitutional convention of 1875 a strong minority, headed by John H. Reagan, was able to envisage the Texas of future years and insisted on a larger membership of the Supreme Court. But they were outvoted and ever since Texas has been trying by one means or another to meet a situation that has grown constantly worse. An amendment in 1892 created the Court of Criminal Appeals, and authorized the Legislature to establish Courts of Civil Appeals, but it left the membership of the Supreme Court unchanged. The makeshift of Commissions of Appeals had been tried in the meantime and found wanting, but the same attempted method of relief was resorted to in 1918 when the Supreme Court docket became so congested as to make emergency relief imperative. But opinions of these Commissions are not binding unless and until approved by the court itself, which thus misses the oral arguments brought out.

No permanent relief, lawyers rather generally contend, can come from any other means than a constitutional amendment under which nine judges, with co-equal authority, can handle the ever-increasing litigation that must go eventually to the court of final resort.

Today there are eleven courts of civil appeals, whose decisions may be taken to the Supreme Court for review; these courts in turn are fed by 253 county and 106 district courts. And because of increased litigation there is constant effort to increase the number of civil appellate courts further to deluge the Supreme Court.

Confronted with a serious situation and impressed by the urgent need of action to protect the rights and properties of the citizens of Texas, the Texas Press Association has gone, by resolution, on record as urging the people to vote on this amendment—an action taken only after scrutiny of the entire amendment and inquiry as to its purposes and effect. Fearing that lack of interest or information might cause its defeat, the Press Association decided to ask its members to make a special and diligent effort to advise their readers of the amendment and to urge their vote in line with the Association's earnest desire to further the cause of court reform in Texas.

REFRIGERATION IMPORTANT IN TEXAS DEVELOPMENT

Texas is believed to be the cradle of the manufactured ice industry of the United States, says L. P. Reiss, writing in the July issue of the Texas Commercial News.

In 1860, David Boyle, who lived near Jefferson, Texas, invented and built a three-ton verticle, two-cylinder compressor, and in 1862 the machine was installed and successfully produced ice, which was turned out in 100-pound blocks. During the next few years several of these machines were installed and operated successfully in various East Texas cities. One of the old Boyle machines is still located in the Pittsburg plant of the Southwestern Gas and Electric Company, although it is no longer in operation.

The article traces the development of the industry up to the present time, there now being 491 ice plants in the state producing in excess of 3,000,000 tons of ice annually. In addition to the use of ice in the home, the article stresses the importance of refrigeration as an aid to the development of Texas industry, pointing out that without refrigerator cars it would be impossible to market the millions of dollars worth of Texas perishable crops in the north and east. During 1928, it is claimed, 25,000 carloads of Texas crops moved out of the state under refrigeration, bringing an income of more than $19,000,000 to Texas farmers.

A WARNING TO PETROLEUM PRODUCERS

A newly appointed pastor of a negro church faced a packed audience when he arose to deliver his sermon on this burning question:

"Is There a Hell?"

"Bredern," he said, "de Lord made the world to go round on, and He put one axel at the north pole and one axel at the south pole."

"Amen!" agreed the congregation.

"And the Lord put a lot of oil and grease in de center ob de world so as to keep the axels well greased and oiled."

"Amen!" agreed the congregation.

"And then a lot of sinners dig wells in Pennsylvania and steal de Lord's oil and grease. And they dig wells in Kentucky, Louisiana and Texas and Mexico and Russie, and steal the Lord's grease.

"And some day dey will have all of the Lord's oil and grease, and dem axels is gonna get hot. And then dat will be hell, bredern, dat will be hell!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

FORMULA FOR POISON TO KILL JACKRABBITS

According to W. O. Logan, county agent, the following formula has been developed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture for poisoning jackrabbits:

Take sixteen pounds of good leafy alfalfa hay and chop it into two inch lengths. Dissolve one ounce of strychnine sulphate in two gallons of water. Sprinkle the water over the hay. Ushe this in small piles where stock cannot get to it. Mr. Logan has this to say in regard to the method of poisoning: "It is my belief that the safest way to use this is to plow shallow furrows down the inside of the field where the rabbits are coming in and place the hay in these. Furrows can be covered by plowing. Hay should be put out late in the afternoon. Poisoned grain is also recommended in the same manner for prairie dogs. However, at this time of year it is not as good as the hay."

TWO FABLES

No. 1—A man who lived in a tropical city, where the mean temperature was above 80 degrees, bought himself a heavy fur coat. He explained: "I can afford it. In the second place, magazine and newspaper pictures show that other men in my position have fur overcoats, and in the third place this is a good coat for the price." So his relatives put him in an asylum and divided up his money.

No. 2—A man living in a city where the temperature stayed below zero more than five months in the year, declined to buy a fur overcoat. "Can't afford it," he insisted. "Besides, I do not have the money in my pocket just now, and there's something else I want to buy now anyhow. No, I will get along without it." So he froze to death.

MILLIONS SPENT BY TOURISTS

The importance of the tourist trade in Texas communities is featured by H. R. Simpson, special investigator of the Retail Statistics Service, writing in the July issue of the Texas Commercial News. Thirty seven cents of the tourist's dollar, claims Mr. Simpson, is spent with retail stores. Hotels and tourists' camps get fifteen cents, restaurants eleven cents and theatres and amusement enterprises five cents.

The article explains methods by which the business men of Texas cities and towns may secure their share of the tourist's dollar.

GEORGE EPLEY FIRST TO BUY PIT TOILET

The honor of being the first to buy one of the new pit toilets goes to George Epley, who arranged the purchase of Supt. Pat Johnston Friday. A law has been passed making it mandatory to install these sanitary additions.

Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of the famed Lone Eagle, has been awarded a special medal of honor by the Detroit Board of Education for her qualities of "patriotism, loyalty, valor, heroism, courage, efficiency and the pursuit of the better and higher things of life."

Fluvanna News Notes

Mr. Jas. H. Tate (V. P.) is the authorized correspondent for Fluvanna, and as such is authorized to receive renewal and new subscriptions. Cooperate with him in building a fine weekly news column for this thriving town.

NOTE—As part of our news budget failed to get in last week, we will have that much to our credit to start with this week.

The Oil Well

Although someone wanted to [illegible] that it was all a lie and that Mr. Cottingham would never come back here; he (Mr. Cottingham, the chief promoter of the John Truss-[illegible]ell No. 1, two miles south of Fluvanna) came in Tuesday and is completing the arrangements for [illegible] getting ready to spud in at an early date. It goes without saying that the promoters have great faith in their enterprise. The very fact that they are backing it with their money proves this.

Dave Jones and sons have cleaned out the water well on the place where V. P. resides and are, at this writing, putting up a new windmill. This means water—not oil—and lots of water, and the best of water, too. You may say what you please, Mr. Editor, but V. P. is going to have a bath this week; hence, you need not be afraid to sit by him next Sunday at church.

Business Affairs

That the oil test well located two miles south of Fluvanna is actually going to be put down is about as near a certainty as anything could very well be since the materials and equipment for the derrick etc. are arriving on the scene of action today (Tuesday). Fluvanna, like other small towns, often has difficulties in putting over important propositions, but they usually go over just the same. That's the kind of stuff our people are made of—at least most of them.

Mr. Miller has just received another car of sheep wire for the big enterprise a few miles southwest of Fluvanna.

Fred Wenner has recently received a set of replacement valve seating tools. Thus he is prepared to do first class work in the way of reconditioning motors. Better see him.

Our school building bond election was held Wednesday—just before this issue of the paper was out. The results remain to be seen, but we believe it will carry in a handsome way. If so, it will be one of the finest achievements this community has ever put over, the results of which will be manifest among our citizenship and in the general development of this community for many years to come, in fact, most probably, for all time.

LATER—The results of the bond election were telephoned to the Times-Signal Thursday morning as being 95 for and 9 against.

Church [illegible]vices

Last Sunday regular church services were held as usual at the Methodist and Fluvanna Baptist churches.

Although not at all well, Rev. D. G. Wells brought earnest Gospel messages to his congregations at both morning and evening services.

The activities of the Methodist Church, furnished by their reporter, are as follows:

We had very good attendance at Sunday school and church and Bro. Williamson gave two inspiring sermons on prayer.

Rev. Williamson will begin his meeting at Polar next Sunday.

Quarterly conference will be held at Vernon Chapel next Saturday, July 13, with dinner on the ground.

Next Sunday morning we will put on our Sunday school day program, and want every member of our Sunday school to be present.

W. M. S. met Monday and studied the second lesson on "Child and Infant Welfare," after which all entered into the spirit of the quilting party.

On last Thursday Vera Stephens and Mr. Leo Kiker were united in holy matrimony by Rev. J. R. Williamson at the parsonage. After the ceremony they remained over for supper. This young couple hail from Union Chapel. We wish to extend our hearty congratulations to them.—Reporter.

Regular services will be held, D. V., at the First Baptist Church and the Presbyterian Church next Sunday. At the latter, a patriotic service will be held in the morning in keeping with President Hoover's request. Come and see.

On July 19th the revival meeting at the Christian Church will begin. Rev. Willis Kreaker of Burkburnett will do the preaching. Hear him.

The Methodist-Presbyterian union revival will begin August 4. Rev. E. B. Surface, D. D., of Abilene will do the preaching.

Trips and Visits

C. M. Perry of Hermleigh was up last Monday inspecting his farm and visiting a son here. Our fine rain came Monday night, hence Mr. Perry was one day too early.

J. I. Boren and family visited a son in Lamesa last Sunday.

Jake Ross and family of Roscoe were back in Fluvanna visiting relatives and friends last Sunday.

Raymond Seale and wife departed last Sunday afternoon on their [illegible] that they will visit San Antonio and other points of interest.

Miss N. E. Browning spent last week visiting in Rotan.

Mrs. Thomas Matlock insists that she did not depart for Kansas as reported in this column last week. We beg pardon, lady. Of course, Fluvanna is a better place in which to live than Kansas. The trouble lies in the fact that V. P. was misinformed.

John A. Stavely and family visited in Southland last Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. J. G. Landrum's sister, who visited here last week, departed Sunday for Big Spring where she visits a brother.

Mrs. L. F. Beaver has a sister from El Paso visiting her this week.

Mrs. Colon James and the Oliver Wills family are visiting at Ozona this week.

Wilbur and Mrs. Garner of Los Angeles spent the week-end here visiting J. F. Dowdy, a brother of Mrs. Garner. Also, Mrs. J. T. Dowdy and children of Dermott visited the Dowdy family last Sunday.

C. R. and Mrs. Gordon and a niece, Miss Gordon, of Gordon, Texas, are spending the week visiting relatives and friends in Dermott and Fluvanna communities.

Mrs. Nora Frasier of Lovington, N. M. is here visiting an aunt, Mrs. Ellen Stavely, and family

Mrs. Oscar Sewalt and daughter, Lavern, are visiting Mr. Sewalt this week in Big Spring.

D. A. and Mrs. Jones hied away last Saturday afternoon for Buffalo Gap where they are attending the annual Presbyterian Young People's Encampment. Pat and Wallace Jones and their families accompanied by Miss Vera Stavely, also went to the Gap Sunday morning.

J. T. Beaver went down to Roscoe Sunday where he visited his brother, T. J.

We just wonder when V. P.'s time will come. He's always on the job with scarcely a day to spare. For more than four years he has been punching out these news reports on the faithful old typewriter—you see he uses the "Pick and Punch" system.

TEXAS LISTED AS REDSKIN STATE

When Charles J. Rhoads, multi-millionaire Philadelphia banker, took up his duties as Indian commissioner Monday, he found that there are 355,901 Indians in the United States and that the Indian population is again increasing.

Even Texas is now listed as an Indian state for the first time in a half century. The Alabama and Coushattas of Polk County in South Texas having been taken under the federal wing during the administration of former Indian Commissioner Burke. At one time there were 30 tribes of Indians in Texas, including the Comanches in the Texas Panhandle, the Seminoles stretching as far westward as Eagle Pass, the Adaes near San Augustine and elsewhere on the Neches and Sabine, the Cenis or Neches Indians on the Trinity and Neches rivers, theCarankaways, who lived between San Antonio river and Galveston Bay, the Jaranamas, whose villages were on the lower San Antonio river, the Coushattas and Alabams, both of which tribes lived on the Neches and Trinity rivers, the Delawares in Central and Eastern Texas, the Kickapoos in northeast and north Central Texas, the Lipans in what is now Bandra Ceounty and elsewhere in Southwestern Texas, the Apaches west of the Pecos river, the Carrizos and Tiguas both of which were Pueblo tribes living on the Rio Grande, the Tonkaways on the Brazos and Guadalupe rivers, the Caddoes which included fifteen other tribes and the Cherokees, an East Texas tribe.

Approximately a third of the Indians of the United States live in Oklahoma. New Mexico has the largest Indian population of any other Southwestern state.

Commissioner Rhoads also found on assuming office that there is one fund which will not be touched during his term of office. It amounts to exactly 42 cents and belongs to the Chettimanchi Indians of Louisiana, who long ago disappeared as a tribe. But every year the comptroller general of the United States furnishes the Indian commissioner with the ledger account of the Chettimanches.

Commissioner Rhoads is one of the most unusual of federal office holders. He did not want the job, and President Hoover had difficulty persuading him to take it. It was more than two months after his confirmation by the senate before he appeared to take the oath of office, which is something of a record. He is a Quaker, as is J. Henry Scattergood of Philadelphia, who took the office as assistant commissioner at the same time.

Texas to Produce Bumper Crops

DALLAS, July 10.—One of the most comprehensive crop reports ever compiled by the Department of Public Relations of the Southland Life Insurance Company indicates that, with even fair cotton, Texas again will produce crops valued at more than a billion dollars.

The Panhandle and North Texas counties are in the midst of a plentiful grain production. Central and East Texas reports that practically all of the grain harvest has been completed. With the fact in mind that crop damage further North has boosted wheat prices from the low level of 85 cents per bushel in June it is estimated that the Texas wheat crop will bring from thirty to forty million dollars.

Approximately 75 per cent of all counties reporting on cotton indicate that crops are normal, good or excellent. More than 25 per cent report excellent. Insects are reported present in many localities, particularly in South and Central Texas. However, less than 10 per cent of these counties report any considerable damage.

East Texas reports the tomato crop entirely gathered with ideal conditions both as to prices and quality of fruit. Growers received an average of five cents a pound, according to reports.

Business conditions are reported as unusually good. More than 60 per cent report trade conditions as normal or above normal. About 30 per cent rate conditions from 75 per cent to normal and only 10 per cent below normal.

Following are the detailed cotton reports according to districts:

	Ex. Good	Fair	Poor
Panhandle	71%	29%
Central Texas	27	15	29% 29%
North Texas	10	15	33 42
West and S. W.		17	33 50

One of the brightest aspects of the entire situation is the unquestionably growing sentiment for diversification, this sentiment finding expression in the increase of dairy products activity.

The "Three Nuts" from Levelland, who recently passed through Snyder, up to Tuesday had visited 134 of the 252 county seat towns of the state without killing the motor of their Ford car. They are in the San Antonio vicinity at this time.

In their non-stop car they are making about 10 counties each 24 hours, traveling day and night. They have been traveling now for nearly 500 hours without killing the motor of the car, which is a standard Ford with special body.

AWAY UP KENTUCKY WAY

J. C. Maxwell told a Times-Signal reporter Tuesday that he had clippings mailed him last week from a Lexington, Ky., daily paper telling all about Yoder Field here. The widespread publicity given the local field was made possible through the aviation magazines and the news services who have shown every interest in telling of the fine lay-out here.

TYLER MOVES FORWARD WITH OPENING OF NEW MILK PLANT

JUST AS SMITH COUNTY HAS RE-ORGANIZED HER AGRICULTURAL SYSTEM, SO SCURRY COUNTY CAN SOLVE HER FARM PROBLEMS

[illegible] article appeared in the June issue of "The Texas Monthly," a magazine that every Texan who is interested in a better Texas should subscribe to if at all possible. Lamesa has sold the stock and is likewise building the same type of milk plant that the following story tells of Tyler. What Lamesa has done, Snyder can do.)

The story was written by Russell S. Rhodes, secretary-treasurer of the Tyler Milk Products Company.

Once upon a time East Texas used to be known as a land in which it was "easy to make a living." The idea expressed in this phrase was that the productive acres of East Texas yielded adequate returns for so little effort that there was not incentive to progress. Like most phrases of this kind, of course, it was an exaggeration of a truth. This truth was that cotton and other crops were raised profitably in East Texas more easily than in other sections of the South. In consequence, for many years there was a steady immigration from other Southern states into this region and its people were prosperous in accordance with the simpler standards of that day. West Texas was then unknown as an agricultural country, and nobody believed that cotton could be raised in that section at all. The supremacy of East Texas, therefore, went unchallenged and East Texas farmers went along on the even tenor of their way, doing things pretty much the same as their fathers had done them, and prospering adequately.

Tyler, the county seat of Smith County, named in honor of that president of the United States who brought Texas into the Union, was the very heart of this agricultural empire, and it prospered, too, as Smith County and the surrounding counties prospered.

Then there came a change. The cotton farmer began to move westward, and the supremacy of East Texas was challenged. Business men and farmers began to realize that the fertile black lands of Central and West Texas, which do not require fertilizer and which call for very little terracing to prevent erosion, could be more easily cultivated, and at much less expense, due, among other things, to the level topography of the country. So it came about that the importance of making an effort to get better results was impressed upon business men and farmers alike. And Tyler and Smith County very early took the lead in a section-wide movement to promote terracing in order to prevent erosion of the soil, and also to encourage the use of commercial fertilizer. Contests were held in order to experiment with various types of cotton and to obtain figures as to the cost of production. After one year of successful contests of this kind, the idea was taken up by the Dallas News, and made state-wide in character, with the result that G. Mont Adams of Tyler was crowned Cotton King of the world for raising sixteen bales of cotton on five acres of land.

The efforts to increase the yield of cotton, however, was only a small part of the Smith County program. We realized that it would be necessary to rehabilitate our farms completely, and to this end, five years ago, a 10-year agricultural program was undertaken by the Tyler Chamber of Commerce, with Judge J. W. Fitzgerald as chairman of the agricultural council. Judge Fitzgerald, with his coworkers of this council, many of them prominent business men of Tyler, traveled over the county from school house to school house, arousing the farmers to the need of certain fundamental things. These included the following:

1.—Crop diversification.
2.—Increased yield per acre.
3.—Utilization of idle lands.
4.—Terracing of farms.
5.—Proper use of commercial fertilizer.
6.—The sensible entrance into the dairy business, as most important of all.

Right here, let me digress to say that several years prior to this, after a number of successful campaigns, Smith County started the construction of her permanent system of concrete highways, and today every state highway traversing Smith County, seven in number and totaling 125 miles, is paved with concrete or asphalt. This excellent system of highways has kept Tyler as the focal point of East Texas, and the one city which stood out prominently as the distributing center of the region.

Having achieved these results, it was necessary to follow up our victory with more intensive campaigns, and Judge Fitzgerald, in his agricultural campaign, began to lay more stress upon the importance of the dairy business in East Texas. The ticks had been driven South until the counties of Harrison, Gregg and Smith were practically free of quarantine, as well as the counties near them, and thus it became possible to carry on an intensive campaign for dairy development. It remained, however, for the arrival of the year 1927 before intensive development began. The East Texas Chamber of Commerce, a new, virile, working organization, had been organized in the spring of 1926, and shortly after its organization, had, through its publication, "East Texas," sounded a clarion call for dairy development throughout the entire section which it served. The leading chambers of commerce in this section began to lay plans for dairy development, not the least of these being the Tyler Chamber of Commerce.

It must be considered that this was all new to us, and it was to have been expected that we might not always move logically. In any event, it would seem now that at first we "got the cart before the horse" in that we attempted to induce some six or seven nationally known milk products companies to investigate our section, without having first brought our production to a point which would justify their consideration. We know, however, that our East Texas country was ideally situated for dairying and that Smith County was particularly well adapted to it. Her 2,200 miles of running spring branches, her 125 miles of paved highways, her hundreds of thousands of acres of natural pasture lands, and her wonderful shade all adapted Smith County for dairying. We pointed out all this to these national companies but we received only mere formal replies to the effect that when they became interested in coming to Texas they would take the matter up with us.

This, of course, did not satisfy us, and we decided to secure an experienced dairy man and send him out to the farmers of Smith County to teach them how to build up their herds and to urge them to enter the farm dairy business in a small way.

In the meantime, the Meadow Lake Company at Sherman and the Douthitt Engineering Company of Chicago began to realize the possibilities of this section. The Meadow Lake company had announced plans to construct a powdered milk plant at Sherman, and the Douthitt Engineering Co. announced that they had signed a contract for the establishment of a powdered milk plant at Marshall, using the Gray-Jensin process.

It took real courage and foresight for these companies to make such decisions, for as the territory had not been entirely free of ticks and as yet had only a limited production, it was necessary to depend largely upon the future for results.

After the Tyler Chamber of Commerce had been carrying on its campaign for dairy development for a period of six months, the work began to bear fruit: So much so, in fact, that overtures made to Mr. Douthitt for the construction of a milk plant at Tyler were favorably received. On November 11, 1928, Mr. Douthitt submitted to the business men of Tyler a formal proposal for the erection of a plant similar in construction to the plant at Marshall, but larger than that plant.

At a noon luncheon, attended by about fifteen of the prominent business men of the city, Mr. Douthitt's proposal was accepted, with the understanding that we prove to him that Smith and adjoining counties had sufficient cows to justify the erection of the proposed plant. This was to be demonstrated by a survey of the region.

Naturally this news was received by the public, and particularly the farmers, with a great deal of interest. It became evident at once that the survey would have the cooperation of all interested parties. The plan which we used was simple, logical and thorough. An air-tight organization was formed, with a general chairman, six lieutenants, and approximately 200 workers, and in one day's time the survey was completed. It was found that Smith County alone had 17,500 head of dairy cattle. This was a real surprise to the most optimistic of our business men and farmers. Knowing that neighboring counties like Cherokee, Henderson, Van Zandt and Wood likewise had large numbers of dairy cattle, we felt that the survey was a distinct success and that Mr. Douthitt would be willing to proceed with the erection of the plant.

And so it proved. Mr. Douthitt announced that he was ready to make his tentative proposal definite, and that if Tyler business men would furnish $100,000 in cash as one-half of the capital stock of the proposed company, he would have the plans prepared and would be ready to start construction of the plant within a few weeks. The money was raised and placed in the banks, and the charter was secured on January 28, 1929. Contract for construction of the plant was signed on February 14, and the plant was formally opened on June 10.

Experienced milk plant operators who have seen it pronounce it the latest word in powdered milk plants, and, with the encouragement which has been received from the farmers—that one class of business men which is necessary to insure the success of such an enterprise—it is believed that maximum production will be reached within a short period.

Gus F. Taylor, president of the Citizens National Bank of Tyler, is president of the company, and D. B. Short of Marshall is vice president and general manager. Mr. Short is also manager of the Texas Milk Products Company at Marshall. The writer of this article, Russell R. Rhodes, is secretary-treasurer. Directors of the company are: Gus F. Taylor, D. B. Short, Dr. E. H. Vaughn, C. J. Brogan, B. J. Peasley, R. B. Page and F. H. Douthitt.

PROTECT FAMILY FROM MILK OF T. B. COWS

The City Council of Snyder, like all other towns and cities, has a city ordinance requiring anyone distributing milk to the citizenship within its corporate limits must have their cows tubercular tested. The cities are therefore protecting their people, especially the babies, from a chance, through bad milk, of contracting one of the worst diseases known to the human race. Surely, the cities are not more interested in their children, and your children than the people living outside the city limits.

The Bureau of Animal Industry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and Live Stock Sanitary Commission of Texas are helping to eradicate and are trying to stamp out T. B. in Texas. This writer has been in communication with one of the able veterinarians and inspectors in charge of this work and has secured a promise that he will come to Scurry County and test several herds of dairy cattle here. We believe that many will want to have the work done and clean up the county, so come to the county agent's office or phone him for details. Things like this must be accomplished by working together, and we believe your children need the precaution taken. This work will be free to those that can accredit their herds, and only travel expenses [illegible]

Some people think a cow will show outward signs if she has T. B. That isn't the case. It is impossible to tell from outward appearances. Sometimes the best looking cow of the lot may have it while others won't. Fat cows with coughs may have it, so there is only one way to tell—the introdermal tuberculin test.

The man who will come here is qualified and recognized throughout the United States. There isn't a recognized veterinarian in the county nor in any adjoining county for this work.

4-H Boys Here Next Week

The club camp at Wolf Park next week is being planned and talked about in fifteen communities over the county. County Agent Logan says the boys are raring to go, and he hasn't heard any of them say they couldn't come. If the entire 253 boys come, it will be a record breaker, while it is estimated that about sixty per cent will be a good attendance. The business men and Snyder should feel that this group of real American youth, all from Scurry County, is the most important group they have ever entertained.

MISS COSTELLO COMES HERE IN DRAMA OF E. SIDE WATERFRONT

A large freighter was chartered by Warner Brothers for "Madonna of Avenue A," the newest production starring Dolores Costello, and many scenes laid in the cabin and hold of a rum-running ship were made aboard it, with Dolores and her leading man, Grant Withers, enacting the leading roles.

It is to this questionable retreat that the lonely Miss Costello is enticed by Withers, a seaman, and it is here, aboard the deserted ship, that she becomes intoxicated thru her new-found friend's generosity with its contraband cargo.

When the vessel is raided by Federal officers the startled Dolores is returned ashore to the fashionable boarding school which has been her home for many years, and the distress of the prim, straight-laced principal starts a train of events that brings the heroine face to face with the jealously guarded secret of her mother—a mother who has always been "too busy" to give time or attention to her daughter.

In addition to Withers, Miss Costello's supporting cast in "Madonna of Avenue A," which will be the attraction at the Palace July 15 and 16, includes Louise Dresser, Otto Hoffman, Douglas Gerrard and Lee Moran. The absorbing production was directed by Michael Curtiz, and the story, written by Mark Canfield, [illegible] Doyle.

TO STOP A LEAK

A good deal of water can get through a very small leak in a water pipe in a short time, and it is well to know how to stop a leak in emergencies. Put a flat rubber or leather gasket over the leak and hammer a stiff piece of metal, such as a picture hook, to fit over the gasket. Secure both to the pipe with a vise or clamp. A small leak under low pressure can sometimes be stopped by embedding the pipe in richly mixed Portland cement mortar or concrete. It is necessary to shut off the water from the pipe and build a boxing around it to hold the soft mortar closely against the pipe. Broken sewer pipe can be repaired in the same way. A wrapping of wire netting embedded in the mortar or concrete will increase its strength.

OLD SETTLERS TO MEET AT SLATON JULY 18-20

Plans are practically complete for holding the three days Old Setlers Reunion July 18, 19 and 20 at the old Igo Ranch, five miles north of Slaton in the Yellowhouse Canyon. This is announced by H. L. (Bud) Johnston, former Lubbock County sheriff, one of the ranch owners.

The three-day program of enter[illegible] include swimming, fishing, boating, rodeo performances, many kinds of sports, buffalo riding, pony racing, chariot racing, a terrapin derby, band concerts, public speaking and other forms of diversion.

Extensive improvements on the 5300-acre ranch, which is a natural playground, furnish excellent facilities for entertaining the several thousands of West Texans who are expected to attend, Johnston said. Included among the visitors will be hundreds of old-timers, he has announced after receiving scores of letters from all parts of West Tex-

In Side and Back

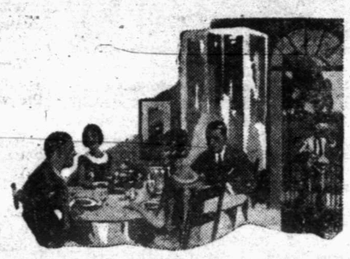

"I HAD BEEN miserable for a long time. My health was poor, and I suffered a lot from weakness. At times, my strength was so little that I could not stand on my feet. I would have to give up and go to bed. My sides and back hurt dreadfully.

"I grew discouraged, for I could do so little. I worried about myself, and almost gave up hope of ever being strong and well. I could scarcely lift a bucket of water. My housework went undone, for I was not strong enough to do it.

"After I had taken Cardui for a little while, I began to feel better. I grew stronger, soon found that I could do my work with less effort, and the pains in my back and sides left me. I think Cardui is a wonderful medicine. My health has been excellent since then."—Mrs. D. L. Beckner, W. Main St., Salem, Va.

BIRTHS AND DEATHS SHOULD BE RECORDED

Why?

Because they are the two supreme events in history.

Your baby may need a birth certificate all through life to prove rights to:

Inheritance to property.
Insurance.
Pensions.
Enter military service.
Enter school.
Vote.
Marry.
Employment in industries.
American citizenship.
Passports for foreign travel
Exemption from military service.
Nationality in foreign countries.
Protection in foreign countries.
Hold certain offices.
Collect government compensation.
Collect soldier's bonus.
How?

It is the duty of the physician or midwife attending a birth to file a certificate with the local registrar of the city or the district in which the birth occurred within five days thereafter. If there was no doctor or midwife, it then becomes the duty of the parents to file such a certificate.

Death registration is equally important.

To secure complete and accurate information so that deaths may be prevented and lives lengthened and that the public health agencies—national state and municipal, may operate wisely.

That epidemic diseases may be detected promptly and handled efficiently.

That home seekers and outside capital may be guided in the selection of safe and healthful localities by accurate information rather than mis-statements of interested persons.

That life insurance claims, settlements of estates and matters of inheritance, pensions, etc., may be definitely settled by official records instead of by the memory of interested witnesses.

Death certificates are filed with the local registrar of district by the undertaker who handled the dead body, or the person so acting.

It costs nothing to register a birth or a death, but it may be of inestimable value to the family in future years.

If you know of a birth that is not registered, notify your minister.

The above is a copy of a circular distributed by the Texas State Department of Health.

J. C. Ziegler of Borden County and B. F. Ziegler of Winnsboro were visitors in the city yesterday.

M. Y. Lewis, secretary-manager of the Snyder Merchants Association, made a business trip to Sweetwater last week-end.

Hermleigh Booster Here

"Booster" and Editor R. S. Norman of Hermleigh was in Snyder Tuesday and spent a short time at the Times-Signal. He is surely a booster for his section of the county and is deserving of every recognition by his home town business men. Now that they have a newspaper, they should keep their town on the map by liberally spending their money for advertising.

KEEP CREAM COOL DURING HOT MONTHS

Cold water! Hot days of summer. Visualize what they mean—a mountain stream—cold water trickling over rocks—the old moss covered pump house—cool and shady where the milk and cream is kept, solving the problem of summer time, that of keeping the milk and cream from souring. We gather these interesting thoughts in reading the current issue of the Feeders' Purinagraph, a Purina Mills house magazine which contains some timely information on [illegible]

"Clean utensils—buckets, cans and strainers, are very important," the article says, "because in summer, cans are more apt to become fouled. Have a simple rack to sun all buckets and cans every day. Scald buckets and rinse all cans when they are returned, and then put them on the rack to sun.

"A great deal of sourness and spoiled milk is caused by dirt falling into the milk at the time of milking from the udder of the cow. Clip the hair on the flanks and udder of each cow, and then wipe them off with a damp cloth at each milking," the article reminds us.

"The quicker you can cool the milk, the better, and the colder you keep it, the longer it will stay sweet.

"A milk cooling tank is of absolute necessity on any farm. It can be hooked up between the pump and the stock tank, and fresh, cold water can be kept in it without wasting the water. If you have a pressure water system, you can use a spiral cooler or a corrugated cooler. If you do not have such a system, a cone cooler, filled with ice water is good.

"All that has been said of cooling milk will apply to cream. However, thick cream will not spoil as rapidly as thin cream. Set your separator to produce 30 to 35 per cent cream."

The Feeders' Purinagraph concludes its article with the ever important admonishment to "Cool each batch of cream before adding it to the can."

POLAR NEWS

Polar was among the fortunate communities to receive two good showers of rain. They have helped crops wonderfully. Prospects for the cotton crop are very bright.

A very good crowd met for Sunday school Sunday and heard a good sermon on "Prayer" by Bro. J. R. Williamson. The Methodist meeting will be conducted by Bro. J. R. Williamson, beginning the third Sunday in July.

Singing was well attended Sunday night, and the four weeks contest came to a close with Mrs. A. C. Cargile's side winning. We are sorry to have been defeated, but we still believe in the motto, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

July 4 was spent quietly in our community. A musical entertainment was given that evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hoyle. Ice cream was served to a number of people after the musical entertainment. All good things have to have their bad, so Miss Zula Carmie accidentally got iron on a [illegible] that had had blue stone in it. A doctor was consulted, but she had not eaten enough to hurt her, so everybody went home happy after all.

Miss Winifred Vick of Clovis, N. M., who has been visiting her brother, W. T. Vick, and family left for her home Saturday.

Miss Dell Marie Cumble, who has been visiting at Lou, Texas, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Cargile and W. D. Sanders returned from Oklahoma City last week. They report a good time but were very tired on their return.

Mrs. Ethel Butts of Snyder has been a guest of her mother, Mrs. R. C. Hoyle, for the past week.

We are glad to report Ivan Elkins able to be up again after his recent operation.

Mrs. G. M. Elkins, who has been visiting her children at Lubbock and Abernathy, returned home Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bettis returned home with Mrs. Elkins and returned to Lubbock Sunday.

Marion Bettis, who has been visiting here since school closed, returned to his home in Lubbock last week.

Misses Era Massingill and Irene Anderson went to Lubbock Sunday. Era will work at the West Texas Hospital again, while Irene will be at her home there this summer.

W. G. Williams and wife were visitors at their ranch here Friday.

Dean Cochran of Snyder, but formerly of Polar, was a visitor here Sunday night.

Grady Craig, who had his car wrecked some time ago, has it in running order again. We imagine the girls are glad.

John Cargile has purchased a new Ford coupe.

Miss Marjorie Heifner spent Saturday night in the Craig home.

FISH EAT MOSQUITOES

Common goldfish, silverfish and top minnows feed on mosquito larvae and can be put in artificial ponds and such places to keep down mosquitoes. Top minnows, which are found in all parts of the country, are especially voracious feeders on mosquito larvae. The effectiveness of the minnows is increased if the water is cleared of any vegetation or debris, so as to permit the minnows to reach all parts of the pond.

SNYDER, TEXAS

It's No Secret

THE folks of Snyder and Scurry County know that the Texas Public Utilities Corporation is selling ice at its dock at 40 cents per 100 pounds, while we have been getting 50 cents. Before the Citizens Ice Company came to Snyder our competitor was getting 80 cents per 100 pounds. Ever since the start of our business here, the Texas Public Utilities Corporation has by every hook tried to undermine our price by slashing wherever they could that we might have to close up business or sell out to them.

Here Is Our Drastic Cut

EFFECTIVE TODAY, THE PRICE OF ICE AT THE CITIZENS ICE CO. DOCK WILL BE 40 CENTS A HUNDRED.

We are doing this to meet our competition and to be able to remain in business in Snyder. Past history has proven that our company (Snyder-owned) will next be shown a still lower price by the Texas Public Utilities Corporation. The public utility doesn't like competition, and their idea is to "cut-throat prices" until they either force competitors to move out of town or buy them out at their own price. But we came here to live, to do business with you folks, and want to remain here, and we thank the many who have stuck by us through thick and thin, although contracts that we have held with several concerns have been broken through "cut-throat" prices of our competitor, the Texas Public Utilities Corporation.

We have always enjoyed clean competition, but not the type that has been shown us since coming to Snyder. We like the town, the merchants and citizenship and intend remaining with a fair, square and impartial way of doing business that will give us a liveable profit from the investment of $30,000 in the plant here.
