CRASH SITE — Authorities search the ruins of a Swissair DC-8 that crashed and caught fire Sunday night on landing on rainswept runway at Athens International airport in Greece. At least 14 persons were killed of the 154 passengers and crew aboard.

Radio-isotopes removed

Plane crash kills 14

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — A Swiss jetliner with 154 persons aboard burst into flames and burned on landing at Athens airport, killing 14 passengers and injuring 12 others, fire officials reported today.

The plane was carrying a medical shipment of radioactive material but it was safely removed, officials said.

Airport officials said it was carrying a medical shipment of several containers of radioisotopes. They said the radioactive material was safely removed from the remains of the aircraft at daylight and none of the containers had burst open.

The cause of the accident was not immediately determined, but one passenger said there was an "almighty crunch," followed immediately by fire, after the Swissair DC-8 touched down late Sunday night.

Greek officials said among the passengers were 100 doctors, mostly French and Germans, bound for a medical convention in Peking. Swissair officials said the 14 dead were French, Germans and one Englishman. There were no reports of any Americans injured.

The airline said many of the doctors aboard were affiliated with the World Health Organization, but the WHO in Geneva reported it had only two staff members on the plane, said they escaped with minor injuries and that it had no knowledge of any other WHO-affiliated doctors aboard.

Witnesses reported flames were shooting out of the undercarriage of the Swissair DC-8 as it skidded to a halt amid light rainfall and high winds late Sunday night.

Transport Minister Alexander Papadonganas said a Greek pilot who landed a few minutes before reported "braking action was medium to poor because of wet runway conditions."

PATH OF SWISSAIR JET — This map shows the path of Swissair Flight 316 which caught fire after landing at Athens airport for a refueling stop en route to Bombay and Peking from Zurich and Geneva Sunday night. Fourteen persons were killed in the fire.

But Papadonganas and other officials said they had no idea what caused the fire.

One passenger said the fire spread rapidly and heavy smoke filled the plane. Firemen reported they found the bodies of eight passengers, burned beyond recognition, still strapped to their seats. Two passengers were reported in serious condition and were not expected to survive. A number of others were treated for burns and smoke inhalation at various hospitals. All 12 crew members escaped unhurt, airport officials said.

Swissair said 20 other passengers were unaccounted for. But it was believed most or all of these had left the airport unhurt without reporting to officials or had been taken to hospitals before officials began

The plane was a burned out wreck.

One survivor, journalist Guy Stafford of Portsmouth, England, reported the passengers were unable to open some emergency exits but finally got out by sliding down emergency chutes.

"People were confused but there was not much panic," said Stafford. "Flames were visible within seconds after we landed."

The plane, Swissair Flight 316, was en route from Geneva and Zurich, Switzerland, to Bombay, India, and Peking.

Papadonganas said fire-fighting units from the airport and the U.S. Air Force base which uses the same facilities rushed to the scene immediately. Stafford said there were "plenty of firefighting equipment and officials about when we abandoned the aircraft."

Airport officials and Swissair employees tried to calm the passengers. Many were in shock. Some milled about weeping. One muttered: "I've lost everything in the plane, everything I own."

Amtrak ruling is vacated

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — U.S. Supreme Court Justice Byron White vacated an appeals court ruling that ordered Amtrak to keep operating three money-losing passenger trains temporarily, state officials said today.

The 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Denver had issued a preliminary injunction on Friday ordering Amtrak to operate the trains until a hearing on Oct. 26.

Kansas officials filed suit challenging Amtrak's decision to drop the three trains, including one that goes through Kansas.

Neil Woerman, press secretary to Attorney General Robert T. Stephan's press secretary, said White's order allowing Amtrak to drop the trains took effect at 12:30 a.m. EDT.

Sniper takes aim at bus in state

DEVINE, Texas (AP) — A sniper fired at a Greyhound bus early today, causing the driver to be injured by flying glass, the Frio County sheriff's office said.

The bus was en route from San Antonio to Laredo. None of the 37 passengers on the bus was injured, a Greyhound official in Laredo said.

Frio County Sheriff Benny Sanders said the shooting took place about four miles north of Devine along Interstate 35. He said a bullet apparently struck the windshield of the bus.

The Greyhound official said the driver's injury was not serious. He said the driver heard a sound, and a bullet went through the window on the driver's side.

Party infighting under way

Howard County Demos elect chairman Tuesday

By WALT FINLEY

Howard County Democrats will meet in the Howard County Court Room Tuesday at 7 p.m. to elect a county chairman.

Hal Boyd, Malone-Hogan Hospital personnel executive, submitted his resignation effective Oct. 1.

Jane Ray, state Democratic committeewoman and secretary to the Howard County Executive Committee, will call the Tuesday's meeting to order since the office of chairman is officially vacant.

"Any Democrat registered in the county is eligible to submit his or her name as a candidate to fill the remainder of Mr. Boyd's term," Mrs. Ray said.

David Brazel and John Roemer, the only Howard County Democrats in Howard County who attended a 30th Senatorial District Democratic meeting in Wichita Falls recently, are supporting George Thorburn, a Certified Public Accountant, for county chairman.

In a letter to precinct chairmen, John Roemer, 2800 Lawrence St., chairman of precinct 16, pointed out that Thorburn has been a resident of Howard County for the past 25 years.

"George is a life long Roosevelt type of Democrat," Roemer wrote. "He did not seek his re-election in completing his term because his business had grown to the extent it would not permit the time.

"George has since sold a substantial part of his business to Wilson, Lee and Reynolds and now has the time and is willing to serve as Howard County Democratic Chairman if you desire his services.

"George was elected to the Howard County Executive Committee to succeed former County Chairman Ed Fisher who resigned due to his moving from the city. George has always supported the party and its candidates and I plan to nominate him at our meeting on Oct. 9.

"I did not want a stranger or a quick choice so I am contacting you now to give everyone a chance to check him out."

At least one other candidate is expected to seek the Democratic position.

Only members of the executive committee are eligible to cast votes for chairman.

Precinct numbers and chairmen are:

1. Charlie L. Merritt
2. Eddie Aciri
3. Delano Shaw
4. Daniel B. Wise
5. James "Buddy" Barr
6. Loyd Underwood
7. Darrell Coats

Israeli spy plane by Syrian jets

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Syrian jets shot down an unmanned Israeli spy plane as Defense Minister Lt. Gen. Mustafa Tlass declared Syria was ready for a war of attrition with the Jewish state and Israel's air force chief accused Syria of mounting a massive buildup of Soviet arms.

In Tel Aviv, Israeli Gen. David Ivri, acknowledging the loss over Syria Sunday of the U.S.-built Firebee drone, told Israel Radio the camera-equipped reconnaissance plane was sent to investigate "a massive buildup of Soviet military equipment near the city of Homs," in western Syria about 130 miles north of the Israeli frontier.

An Israeli military command spokesman said it was not common for Israel to send unmanned planes over Syria, but "it has been going on." Ivri said Israel has been using the subsonic Firebees since before the 1973 war and he said it was not the first time one of them had disappeared.

The Syrian defense chief said Syria was "ready to carry on a war of attrition with Israel similar to the one that we fought in the Golan Heights in the spring of 1974."

Tlass urged his soldiers to be "ever ready for any battle with Israel."

His remarks were reported Sunday by official sources, who said he was addressing Syrian units of the Arab League peacekeeping force in Lebanon.

ACLU facing money woes

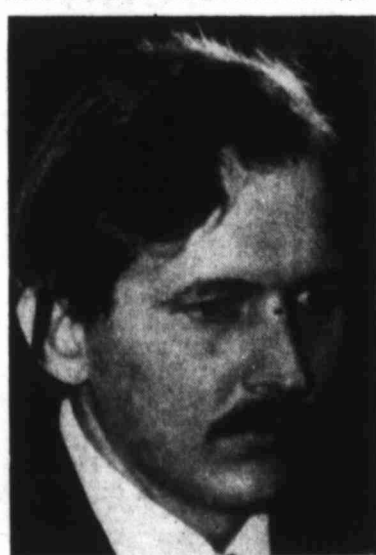

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Civil Liberties Union says it no longer is reeling from its legal support of a neo-Nazi group in Skokie, Ill., but Executive Director Ira Glasser of the ACLU concedes that an anticipated $500,000 of red ink could ruin his organization.

Describing the plunge in ACLU membership in the wake of the Skokie case as "a knockout punch," Glasser said in an interview that the ACLU has made up those losses and would announce in January a "very, very ambitious" five-year campaign to raise an extra $11 million.

"I have no doubt that that program will work," he said in offices that the ACLU soon will vacate for smaller ones. "The question is how much and how soon and what we're going to do in the meantime."

Glasser, who moved from the New York affiliate to the top job last October, said the ACLU had taken for granted a 10 percent to 15 percent membership gain every year from the 1960s until the mid-1970s.

Memberships — which cost $20 a person or $30 a couple — are by far the major source of the ACLU's income. Glasser attributed their decline from a peak of perhaps 230,000 in 1973 to a low of 170,000 by 1978, when the Skokie furor raged, to more than the ACLU's defense of the right of the Nazis to march in suburban Chicago.

MASS MURDER DEFENDANT — Roger Dale Stafford's trial on charges of murdering six steakhouse workers began today in Oklahoma City. Stafford is shown here entering a pretrial hearing.

Pilot, seven others perish in tragedy at Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — A twin-engine commuter plane lost power in an engine and crashed on takeoff at Greater Cincinnati Airport today, killing eight people, authorities said.

She's pleased with a trade

A woman who used a Herald want ad to make public the fact that she had a puppy to give away said she was very pleased with the results, even though she wound up trading the dog for a cat.

She withdrew the ad after one day because the first person who called proposed the trade. A second person called, offering to take the pet off the woman's hand, but the deal for the cat had already been closed.

Those who want fast results on a "people ad" should contact the friendly sales people of the Herald by dialing 263-7331.

Fred Farrar, an official with the Federal Aviation Administration in Washington, said the pilot and six other people died when Comair Flight 444 crashed while taking off for Nashville about 10:15 a.m. The eighth person died at Booth Memorial Hospital in Florence, Ky.

Farrar said witnesses reported the Piper Navaho's right engine cut off when the plane was 200 feet off the ground and that the craft then stalled and flipped over, crashing upside down.

Capt. Louise Bennett of the Salvation Army's Booth Memorial Hospital said one victim was dead on arrival at the hospital and a second had died while being treated. The six other victims were reported still at the airport.

William Thelen, the FAA's supervisor at the airport, said: "We're guessing at the moment that the right engine failed, and the pilot was unable to keep the aircraft airborne."

He said the aircraft crashed just off the runway on the grounds of the airport, which is located across the Ohio River from Cincinnati near Florence.

Police beat Theft rap jails pair

Two men were arrested Sunday evening in connection with a stolen vehicle. Bradley Hildbrand, 19, and William McNew, 21, were arrested for public intoxication and the theft of a vehicle owned by Sandra Kilgore, 1218 E. 15th. The vehicle had been stolen from 5th and State Sunday evening and later recovered at 6th and Gregg.

A male subject drove his van into 7-11, 3rd and Owens, put $11.64 worth of gas into his tank and drove away without paying Sunday night.

David Kohanek, 1108 E. 14th, told police a subject came by his residence and fired two shots, striking the door early Sunday morning.

While Adrienne Tidwell and some of her friends were bowling at Bowl-a-rama early Sunday morning, some female subjects known to her verbally assaulted them and called them names. Ron Fryer, Jr. parked his car at the 200 block of E. 23rd Saturday night. When he returned, his windshield was broken in three places. The windshield was valued at $100.

A purse was stolen from the basket of a shopper at Newsom's, 1910 Gregg, Saturday evening. Two hundred dollars in money and food stamps were taken when Maria Gulaviz was not looking.

Raeafi Lopez, 508 N.W. 6th told police a male subject known to him assaulted him at the Ramirez Cafe, 103 S. Main with a beer can and a knife.

Five hundred dollars' worth of damage was done to the residence of Joel Howard, 3710 Howard. A subject or subjects entered at an unknown time and poured paint on the paneling and floor of the living room and hall.

Mary Fierro, 1600 A. Virginia told police she was assaulted by her husband. The two are separated.

Five mishaps were reported Saturday. Steven Drake, 1515 Stadium was driving eastbound in the 500 block of W. 17th when he lost control of his vehicle and struck a chain link fence, 11:10 p.m.

Eileen Anne Allensworth, 906 Mountain Park stopped her vehicle at a red light at 5th and Gregg when she was struck in the rear by a vehicle driven by Edward Chavarria, Abilene, who then left the scene, 8:50 p.m.

Billie Mae Langkeit, 1002 Lancaster was stopped in the 800 block of S. Gregg when she was struck in the rear by a car that left the scene, 10:50 p.m.

Vehicles owned by Rudy Rivera, Knott and Pauline Morgan, Ackerly were parked at the parking lot of 2300 block of Scurry. An unattended juvenile in Rivera's vehicle started the ignition and rolled back into Morgan's vehicle.

Milton James Juneke, 2703 E. 25th, was backing out of 1301 Colby and struck a stop sign he failed to see, 3:20 p.m.

Two mishaps were reported Sunday.

A parked vehicle owned by Eugene Scott, San Diego, Texas was struck by a vehicle driven by Selia Munoz, Route 2, Box 143 at the 400 block of Birdwell, at the Safeway parking lot, 11:18 a.m.

A parked vehicle owned by James Michael McDonald, 207 E. 2nd No. 123 was struck by a vehicle driven by Elder Smith, 207 E. 2nd, No. 109 at 200 E. 2nd, 4:40 p.m.

UNHAPPY OHIRA — Japan's Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira glumly ponders general election returns at his campaign headquarters Monday morning in Tokyo. Though his ruling Liberal Democratic Party did well it fell short of a "stable majority" in Sunday balloting. Characters behind Ohira list LDP candidates' names.

Fowl play

CUERO, Texas (AP) — A strutting Minnesota turkey named Paycheck trotted to an easy second victory in the Great Gobbler Gallop here. But Ruby Begonia — the poultry pacing pride of Cuero — captured the Traveling Turkey Trophy of Tumultuous Triumph.

The fleet-footed Worthington, Minn., bird scrambled through the course in 1:39 Sunday, defeating Ruby Begonia by 40 seconds.

However, Ruby Begonia won by a minute and a half during the running of the first heat at the King Turkey Day Celebration last month in Worthington.

The Minnesota margin of victory was enough to send the traveling trophy back to Cuero for the first time since 1975.

Hot water hardtop

MEROM, Ind. (AP) — To passing motorists, it looks like a Ford with a boiler in the trunk. But to Berlin Bogard, it's his hot water hardtop.

"There's not another one like it in the world," the 71-year-old farmer says a proudly of his steam-powered car. "I built it from scratch, right here from my mind, not a blueprint."

Bogard uses a garden hose to fill the 15-gallon tank to fuel the boiler, which juts out of the trunk area and produces 500 to 600 pounds of steam pressure. A burner powered by diesel fuel heats the water in boiler coils to about 900 degrees, he said.

"Two-thirds to three-fourths of this is hand made," Bogard said. "It took more time to figure out than it did to build."

Although he hasn't had a chance to test the car extensively, Bogard estimates it gets about 15 miles per gallon of diesel fuel and reaches top speeds of 50 to 60 mph.

"I've been a steam man all my life," he said. "I used to run a steam threshing machine for my dad."

Just for kicks

HAVELOCK, N.C. (AP) — In a different twist to the usual beauty pageant, 14 young women in evening gowns and swim suits kicked crowns in honor of Debbie Shook.

Miss Shook lost her title as Miss North Carolina in June after she complained to a reporter that she hadn't received some of her prizes.

In reaction, she kicked her rhinestone crown onto the stage at a Raleigh auditorium where activities were getting under way to choose her successor.

Law 'misinterpreted' man loses possessions

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — County officials admit their bungling left a retired mechanic with an empty house after his possessions were inadvertently sold at a yard sale while he lay in the hospital.

But Bill Moore, whose house was cleaned out down to the knocker on the front door, wants his things back, and says, "I thought this was a free country, but it's just for crooks."

Maricopa County Judiciary Bill Rarter said an order to leave the house cleaned was misinterpreted. A social worker hired a cleaning firm that also conducts liquidation sales, and there apparently was some confusion over whether the house was to be "cleaned up" or "cleaned out," he said.

"We just have to take responsibility," said Carter, explaining that the mistake was due to "serious procedural deficiencies" in his office that have since been corrected.

Carter said his office has reacquired some of Moore's furniture, but most of it cannot be recovered.

Moore was involved in an automobile accident last July in Payson. Although uninjured, he was hospitalized after doctors found he had fractured his pelvis and other bones, apparently in a fall at his home earlier last summer.

Local 4-H youth wins

Kent Robinson, a Howard County youth who "grew up" with 4-H, has been named a state winner in the Santa Fe Program.

Kent will receive an expense-paid trip to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago, Nov. 25-30, provided by the Santa Fe Railway System, announce state 4-H officials at Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, Santa Fe sponsors a total of eight trips to the Congress plus four $600 scholarships to outstanding 4-H members in Texas.

Kent, 19, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Robinson of Rt. 1, Ackerly. He is currently attending Howard County Junior College in Big Spring and is majoring in agriculture-business. He is a member of the Knott 4-H Club.

Kent says his parents have been involved with 4-H for as long as he can remember, and he went to 4-H events long before he was old enough to join. Over the past 10 years he has served in every office in his club and has served on the county council.

In 1975 he received the Gold Star Boy Award in his county. For the past five years he has served as the 4-H junior rodeo director. He is a member and past director of the Texas Junior Hereford Association and is now involved in his own beef cattle operation due to his beef project in 4-H.

Kent has won a host of awards at local and area livestock shows with his steers and beef heifers. He has also been active in livestock judging and has competed at State 4-H Roundup. In addition, he competed at Roundup in the entomology contest.

This past year Kent assisted with the state steer validation tagging and identification program. He also assisted his father on the Howard County Screw-worm Committee in taking samples for laboratory study at Mission, Tex.

Kent plans to begin farming and ranching full-time when he finishes college.

Four short historical programs will be presented: "Agriculture in Martin County during the Depression," by Sandra Hiller, Midland; "Historic Brands of Borden County," by Edna Miller, Fluvanna; "Early Day Big Spring Homes — A Visual Presentation," Polly Mays, Big Spring; and "The Big Spring of the Colorado — The Pivot Point for Indian and Army Trails," Joe Pickle, Big Spring.

Also included in the program will be: 1 p.m., a walking tour of the "big spring," 1:15 p.m., a driving tour of the Scenic Mountain State Park; 2:00 p.m., a guided tour of the Potton Historic Home, 200 Gregg Street; and at 3:00 p.m., a guided tour of Heritage Museum, 510 Scurry.

Make your reservations by calling the Heritage Museum, 267-8255, not later than Oct. 18.

Those visiting the museum from out of town last week and their hosts include: Mrs. J.V. Harris, El Paso, visiting Helen Ewing; two visitors of Mrs. Howard (Louise) Sneed, Sallie Brooks and Jewel Kirkland from Coppell, and also a niece, Beverly Banwart, Towanda, Kan.; and Mr. and Mrs. Geary Mehning, Kohen, Wis., visiting their daughter, Sarah Mehning.

Mrs. Decker

Mrs. B.W. (Gearldine) Decker, 54, died at 8 p.m., Sunday in a local hospital following an extended illness.

Services will be at 4 p.m., Tuesday in the Calvary Baptist Church in Eastland, Tex. Burial will occur in Merriman Cemetery near Eastland.

Local arrangements were handled by Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Mrs. Decker's body will lie in state at the Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home all day today.

New vehicle is sought by agency

Howard County Agent Don Richardson requested a new vehicle for the county extension office this morning in the regular meeting of the County commissioners.

Commissioners decided to allow Richardson to inquire into cost estimates for new vans. Bids will be advertised for later.

Assistant County Agent Andy Vestal will begin driving the office's 1977 pick up and forfeit his $175 a month transportation allowance. Andy had been driving his own truck and Richardson said Andy's expenses were outstripping his allowance. The truck he will drive has a new motor and around 82,000 miles. Richardson is currently driving it.

Dale Worthan, fleet manager for Bob Brock Ford, said an eight passenger van would be more practical than buying a new pick up for the county extension office. The new vehicle is going to be used for transporting judges to various shows and for showing farmers new methods being used in the area. If it is necessary to pull a trailer to a stock show the old pick up can be used. Approximately 90 percent of the time Richardson will be the only one in the vehicle.

Dale Worthan proposed a van with a slightly heavier 5,400 pound axle and a heavier transmission, but commissioners said a lighter van would be better because of the small number of times the van would be carrying a large number of people.

Bruce Griffith, ex-county agent, had discussed the matter with commissioners before he changed jobs.

The new vehicle is not expected to cost much more for the county to buy than the expense of Vestal's car allowance.

Commissioners turned down the request of a Sand Springs family for $150 for medical care. The family's 10-year-old son underwent an appendectomy in Malone Hogan recently. The bill amounted to $800. Both parents are disabled and receive over $500 a month in Veterans' Administration pension, social security and food stamps. Commissioners decided on the recommendation of County Welfare Director Katy Hise to leave the money in the fund for a family with a lower income.

The family owns a 1965 car and a home. There are also two other boys and an older sister. The family also owes $900 to Hall-Bennett Hospital.

Commissioners acted on Howard County A.N. Standard's request for three new cars for his office. Commissioners will advertise for bids on two new cars to be opened Nov. 26. Bids will be asked for according to sheriff's office specifications with and without trade in.

A new sheriff's office employee was approved. Allen Parrish will fill the slot vacated by Buster McCartney, who went to work for District Attorney Rick Hamby's office.

Parrish is an ex-police department employee and does not have his law enforcement certificate. A new vocational education office worker was also approved.

Salaries for county employees were set according to the 1979-80 budget proposal. The salaries will be effective Oct. 31.

Commissioners are also slated to discuss nominations to the County Tax Board mandated by recently passed Senate Bill 621.

The Heritage Museum will host the Permian Basin Historical Society meeting Oct. 20 at the Dora Roberts Community Center.

Registration begins at 9 a.m. and a catered lunch served at noon. The public is invited to attend. The only cost will be $3.50 for lunch.

Four short historical programs will be presented: "Agriculture in Martin County during the Depression," by Sandra Hiller, Midland; "Historic Brands of Borden County," by Edna Miller, Fluvanna; "Early Day Big Spring Homes — A Visual Presentation," Polly Mays, Big Spring; and "The Big Spring of the Colorado — The Pivot Point for Indian and Army Trails," Joe Pickle, Big Spring.

Many plusses, one challenge Pope comes away winner

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pope John Paul II, who quickened the heart of a nation and shed his own grace on it, has left among its people a trail of proclaimed deals and stiff admonitions. He also got a parting challenge to ponder.

It came from women on the final day Sunday of his joy pangled journey through America, crowned with an outdoor celebration of worship by 175,000 in front of the U.S. Capitol. The women's plea injected a lingering drama, along with the aftermath.

To the sturdy, companionable pope — who championed human rights both in the past under Nazism and Communism in Poland and to the multitudes and mighty on his U.S. tour — the women asked first-hand for their full rights in the church.

Sister Theresa Kane, the leading official of the country's 128,378 nuns, appealed in a formal, public gathering of many of them for the "possibility of women being included in all ministries of the church," which includes the priesthood.

As she spoke, the seated pope spread his hands as if to say, "What can we do?" But he didn't respond directly a few minutes later when he addressed about 4,000 nuns packing the huge, ornate National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception.

Some of the nuns — a handful at first, gradually increasing to about 50 — stood in silent petition during his talk, wearing blue arm bands, the color of Mary, mother of Jesus. Some said Mary was free to answer God's call to bear his son, but Catholic women today aren't free to answer a divine call to full ministry.

The pope earlier had made his own stand clear, saying Mary was "not herself inserted into the hierarchical" makeup of the church. He had told priests earlier in Philadelphia that Jesus' summoning of men as apostles undergirded the church's "traditional decision ... not to call women."

But Sister Kane of Washington, president of the Leadership Conference of Women Religious, which includes heads of all nuns' communities in the country, appealed to him to "listen with compassion" and respond to the women's plea to be "fully participating members."

She wore a tasteful brown suit and about a third of the nuns present also wore regular women's dress, a style the pope in his address advised against, saying they should wear distinctive religious garb.

It was a polite but straightforward confrontation on an issue that would simmer in the times ahead. So also would the pope's injunctions against contraception, divorce, unmarried sex, against any release of priests from celibacy vows, and his strong denunciation of abortion in his farewell Mass on the Washington Mall.

"All human life — from the moment of conception and through all subsequent stages — is sacred, because human life is created in the image and likeness of God," he declared. If that sacred life is violated at its origin, he said, "an indirect blow is struck also at the whole moral order."

Deaths

MARTHA NANNY

Mrs. Martha E. Nanny, 81, died this morning in Midland.

Services will be at 10 a.m., Wednesday in Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel here. Burial will follow in Trinity Memorial Park.

She was born May 12, 1898, in Freestone County, Tex. She married Arthur Dee Nanny, May 19, 1916, in Farrar, Tex. She moved to Big Spring in 1945. She was a member of the Hillcrest Baptist Church where she had worked in the nursery several years.

Survivors include two sons, A.D. Nanny, Big Spring, and Milton L. Nanny, Fort Worth; three daughters, Beatrice Morgan, Nederland, Evelyn (Jenny) Buchanan, Midland, and Pat Young, Big Spring; 18 grandchildren; 16 great-grandchildren.

Her husband died Jan. 6, 1934.

Hugh Newcomb

Robert (Hugh) Newcomb, 64, of Imperial, died Saturday morning in his home after a brief illness.

He had lived in Imperial for the past 15 years, moving from Forsan to Imperial.

Services will be 11 a.m. Tuesday at the Community Center, Imperial with the Rev. Junior Anthony and the Rev. Walt William and the Rev. L.A. Battillo officiating. Burial will be at the Imperial Cemetery.

Arrangements are under the direction of Larry D. Sheppard Funeral Home of Crane.

Born April 24, 1915, at Yonkers, Okla., he worked for Sun Oil Co. as a lease operator until his retirement. He was assistant pastor at the Imperial Assembly of God Church and was a member of the Imperial Lions Club.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nellie Newcomb of Imperial; one daughter, Miss Anita Ann Newcomb of Oklahoma City, Okla.; four sons, Jimmy Max Newcomb, Robert H. Newcomb, and Charles Ray Newcomb, all from Oklahoma City, Okla.; and Donny K. Newcomb of Odessa; five step-children, Patsy Six of Petersburg, Jeraldine King of Odessa, Glenda Akins of Imperial, Ronnie McDermott of Garland; and Marsha McDermott of Odessa; three sisters, Lorene Anthony of Avant, Okla., Doris Buck of Hearst, and Opal Hayman of Tulsa, Okla.; one brother, Walter L. Newcomb of Warrenville, Ill.; 24 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Decker

Mrs. B.W. (Gearldine) Decker, 54, died at 8 p.m., Sunday in a local hospital following an extended illness.

Services will be at 4 p.m., Tuesday in the Calvary Baptist Church in Eastland, Tex. Burial will occur in Merriman Cemetery near Eastland.

Local arrangements were handled by Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Mrs. Decker's body will lie in state at the Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home all day today.

Harry Winford

LAMESA — Services for Harry Winford, 75, of Lamesa will be at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in Second Baptist Church with the Rev. Clifton Igo, pastor, officiating.

Burial will be in Lamesa Memorial Park under direction of Branon Funeral Home.

Winford was dead at 7 a.m. Sunday on arrival at Medical Arts Hospital after an illness.

The Arkansas native had lived in Dawson County 57 years where he was a farmer and a cook until his retirement.

He married the former Thoma Denton on Dec. 11, 1924 in Lubbock. He was a 25 year member of Second Baptist Church.

Survivors include his wife; five daughters, Mrs. Shorty (Estelle) Hancock, Mrs. Eugene (Ann) Tuttle and Sandra Wingo, all of Lamesa; Laverne Hensler of Amarillo and Mrs. Joe (Lou) Cherry of Monahan; three sons, Kenneth, Jimmy and Richard, all of Lamesa; a sister, Mrs. George (Jessie) Bunch of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; a brother, Mack of Houston; 15 grandchildren; and 11 great-grandchildren.

Texans in Washington

Would shield agents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen has written to President Carter to emphasize a point made in the president's televised speech on Soviet troops in Cuba.

Bentsen, D-Texas, made a case for his bill designed to protect CIA agents from exposure.

"I fully agree with your pledge to the nation ... to increase our efforts to guard against damage to our crucial intelligence sources and methods of collection without impairing civil and constitutional rights," Bentsen wrote.

"I believe that my legislation would be a strong step in the right direction. I applaud your interest and urge your support," the letter concluded.

Bentsen's bill would make former CIA employees subject to 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine if they revealed the identities of other intelligence officers without authorization.

Sen. John Tower wrote to the secretary of energy to point out Texas farmer's need for diesel fuel to get them through the fall harvest.

"Currently in Texas, diesel fuel for agricultural uses is not only expensive but also somewhat difficult to obtain in sufficient quantities," the Texas Republican wrote to Secretary Charles W. Duncan Jr.

"I urge you to take whatever measures may be necessary short of the reimposition of middle distillate price... and allocation controls to assure adequate supplies of diesel fuel for essential agricultural uses this fall," Tower wrote.

The Washington Star

Miller says U.S. will beat inflationary woes

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States will overcome its inflation problem, Treasury Secretary G. William Miller promised delegates to the meeting last week of the International Monetary Fund in Belgrade, Yugoslavia.

Almost as he delivered the assurances, Washington was announcing a 1.4 percent increase during September in the producer price index, a rate that if continued for a year would amount to 17 percent or so.

There is nothing unusual any more in such sequences of promise and disappointment, since the administrations of Presidents Johnson, Nixon and Ford preceded President Carter in the practice.

But, after four presidencies and a decade-and-a-half of promises, some people are wondering if any administration can deliver on the promise of maintaining prosperity while lowering the rate of prices increases.

A recognized academic was musing about the matter a few days ago. His thoughts, he said, weren't yet conclusive, and so he asked anonymity for the moment. But he was, he said, tending in this direction:

Bad as life might have been for many people before the turn of the century, prices had remained stable. In fact, they declined. Generally, he observed, prices in 1900 were actually lower than in 1800.

The reason, he said, was that benefits of rising productivity, of greater efficiency resulting from mechanization, were being distributed to the population. Lower production costs meant lower selling prices.

The trend ended in the 1920s. During that decade, said the professor, productivity increased twice as fast as wages. He conceded that his figures were generalities, but he asked that the thesis be accepted.

Corporations, he said, became flush with funds which they put into short-term savings. And when they sought to retrieve the funds they helped bring on a crash that changed the economic world.

One affect was to initiate a readjustment of the fruits of production. Labor, he said, was given increased powers that soon developed into a monopoly. Wages were expected to grow even if productivity did not.

Now, he said, we have a situation opposite to that of the 1920s: we have wages increasing twice as fast as productivity growth. And that, he maintains, simply cannot continue any more than could its opposite.

We — including the highest leadership of the country — usually give the wrong reasons for inflation, he said. We overlook this basic change in wages and productivity. And thereby, he claims, delude ourselves.

In his view, we continue to wrestle with the shadow of the problems rather than with the problems themselves. No wonder, he said, we show so few results.

In some cases, aliens are being used as anti-union voters. That's just not fair," the Lufkin congressman said.

Wilson said he had heard complaints about that practice in some wood products plants in his East Texas district.

Permanent residents who are not naturalized citizens also would be prevented from voting in union elections under Wilson's bill.

"I'm not trying to restrict membership in the unions. It only seems right, though, that qualifications for voting in union elections be the same qualifications for voting in national presidential elections," he said.

An El Paso woman ringing in her birthday at a Washington restaurant found she was sharing the event with President Carter's 55th birthday celebration.

Yolanda Ruiz, however, preferred not to make her age public.

"I will never forget this birthday as long as I live," she told the Washington Post. "He blew me a kiss from across the room. He's a Libra; we fellow Libras get along."

The Thunderbirds, a Texas-based blues band well known in Austin's Rome inn and other local nightspots, appeared in Washington and earned a less than enthusiastic notice in the Post.

"The music has no valleys but unfortunately it also has few peaks."

Most of energy to be wasted

By the Associated Press

More than half the money you spend to heat your home this winter may be wasted. And it doesn't have to be.

Your dollars leak through cracks around windows and doors. They flow from attics that don't have enough insulation. And they vanish, like smoke, up the chimney.

Terms like thermogram, energy audit and payback period are becoming household words, as consumers — faced with warnings of fuel bills that could be double last year's — try to find ways to cut costs by saving energy.

Utility spokesmen say anywhere from 10 percent to 60 percent of the heat produced to warm U.S. homes is wasted. That means that you may be throwing away from $1 to $6 of every $10 you spend on heating.

The cure may be something as simple as setting back your thermostat at night. Or it may require a major insulation effort.

The Department of Energy estimates that 40 million single-family homes — a little less than two-thirds of the total — are not properly protected against the weather.

Regulations being developed under the National Energy Act of 1978 will require large utilities to help you find out where you are wasting energy and suggest ways you can save. The utilities also will have to help you arrange to pay for and install energy-saving devices.

Some states already require this kind of effort by utilities; in other areas, companies have voluntary programs to encourage customers to add insulation, caulk and weatherstrip windows and doors, etc.

Pacific Gas & Electric Co. of California, for example, has offered energy audits to its three million residential customers since last November. By the middle of September, the company had completed 14,000 audits, according to spokesman Mike Willhoit. By the end of the year, it expects to finish an additional 6,000 audits.

Utility-sponsored conservation programs vary; some are free, others cost from $3 to $10. Some utilities send a trained inspector to the customer's house; others require the homeowner to do his or her own checking. In most cases, however, the end is the same: A computer analysis that tells you what you can do to cut energy use, how much it will cost, how long it will take you to save enough to cover the expense.

Utilities in Iowa are using thermograms — infrared photographs taken from the air to show where heat is escaping — to boost conservation. The Skyscan program run by the Iowa Utility Association began in the fall of 1977 and spokesman John Lewis said about 35 percent of the major communities in the state have been surveyed.

Once the thermogram for a city is finished, customers are invited to look at the prints, to see whether their houses are losing energy. "We have had excellent results," said Lewis. About 35 percent to 40 percent of the customers have viewed the thermograms and about one-fourth of those have done something to plug leaks.

Books on how to save energy are available

By the Associated Press

The federal government offers more than half a dozen booklets on saving energy in the home. They are all available from the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

Here is a list of some of the booklets. (Be sure to order by number.)

—Tips for Energy Savers. 610G. Free. A 46-page guide on heating, cooling, lighting, appliances, etc.

—In the Bank or Up the Chimney? 056G. $1.70. A 70-page "how-to" booklet, with instructions for installing weatherstripping, caulking, storm windows and insulation, as well as worksheets to help you figure out what you need and advice on how to select a contractor.

—How to Improve the Efficiency of Your Oil-Fire Furnace. 605G. Free. A 12-page pamphlet on adjustments that can cut costs.

—The Energy-Wise Home Buyer. 109G. $2. A 59-page look at energy features you should consider when buying a new or used home. The booklet includes charts and maps to help you figure energy costs and detailed checklists.

—Home Heating. 048G. $1.10. A 24-page explanation of the most commonly used heating system, with information on installation, operation, maintenance and costs.

WITH TOMMY WHATLEY SHEPPARD FUNERAL HOME

WITH A WILL — THERE'S A WAY

If you own anything — a car, house, savings account, anything with monetary value — you should have a will.

With a will, you save your loved ones considerable time and money in the handling of your estate. Further, you are assured that your estate will not be executed by strangers, but by people you know and trust.

How do you make a will? First, see your lawyer. It's not all that expensive for most estate planning. He has the forms, knows the requirements of the state, and probably enough of your personal affairs to help in preparing for future management of your estate.

You may change your will whenever and however you wish. The important thing is to get started and to do it right away.

You may also include provision for funeral arrangements as part of the will. We can provide counseling without obligation, on this aspect of your will, but only this particular aspect.

We welcome your questions and comments — privately or publicly, through this column.

Airships finally making comeback

As some one of great wisdom once said, the more things change, the more they remain the same.

Consider a story out of London which was relayed to America via the Associated Press recently. It concerned the fact that airships are making a comeback.

PEOPLE WHO HAVE been around this planet half a century or more will recall when the leviathans of the sky were big, very big, in both Europe and America. They were navigable but those who rode aboard them obviously had a great sense of adventure. They commanded front page space in the nation's newspapers every time they headed across the Atlantic. Many ended violently, inevitably, with a great loss of human life.

Because they were so prone to disaster and because the military commanders conspired against them during World War II, they went into limbo for many years.

Suddenly, however, there is a new surge of interest in dirigibles and blimps. One British designer, John Wood, has already come forward with a real airship, one he calls the AD-500. Dually impressed, a Venezuelan company, Aerovision, had already ordered 21 of the craft at $1.35 million apop.

Other Britons are working feverishly at the drawing boards, designing various lighter-than-air craft. One of their number contemplates a solar-powered airship. Another envisions an enormous liner which might even include a ball-room. Even the Russians have gotten into the act. The Muscovites are working on a nuclear-powered craft which would carry 180 tons of freight or 1,800 passengers.

Why all the excitement all of a sudden? The answer, of course, is the energy crisis. Heavier-than-air craft, for all their sleekness and speed, were not designed to conserve fuel. In fact, they devour fuel in great gulps.

BY CONTRAST, a blimp or dirigible, thanks to its inherent buoyancy, merely sips delicate draughts of the liquid.

"Our ship can stay airborne for 36 hours using a maximum of 300 gallons of fuel," Wood told the AP. "Some helicopters use that amount in less than an hour."

Another consideration is safety. It's highly unlikely that the unforgettable tragedy that struck the Hindenburg could be repeated. Modern airships will be filled with inert helium. Additionally, flights in airships would be made a great deal less chancy by sophisticated weather-tracking and navigational gear now available in the aviation industry.

The return of the airship, given the harsh new realities under which we must function, is no surprise. What is surprising is that it has taken so long. We await with unalloyed delight the return of those stately craft in our skies. Who can imagine a more elegant way to travel? High enough to be above all, near enough to appreciate the countryside, serene, untroubled, uncramped.

Clearly, it is an idea whose time has come again.

Amy's boyfriend

Around the rim

Andrea Cohen

I don't remember what newspaper it ran in, but there it was in big bold headlines. It had to happen eventually and it is oh, so, newsworthy.

Amy Carter has a boyfriend.

I DO NOT remember the exact details, but they are keeping his name a secret. The same thing happened with Lyndon Johnson's daughters and Tricia Nixon, until they were engaged of course.

Who cares? Sometimes I really question the newsworthiness of certain items that reach virtually every newspaper in the country. Is it necessary to know that while her father was in office Tricia Nixon had the measles (or was it the mumps), or about every black and blue mark Princess Anne receives when she falls off a horse? Must we know every detail of Margaret Trudeau's sex life? Do we have to hear about the continuing saga of Jerry Brown and Linda Rondstat, or that the Nixons slept in separate beds and the Fords did not?

Is it important that we know who FDR, Eisenhower, JFK and LBJ slept with? Do we have to know about Joan Kennedy's drinking problem or how Julie Eisenhower mixes her tuna fish?

THESE THINGS have nothing to do with what sort of jobs are being done in Washington or in Brown's case, California. Most of this news is just plain silly.

Meanwhile, I wonder who this guy is Amy Carter is dating. How old is he? Does he wear glasses? Is his father ambitious? With our luck The Washington Press Corps will fill us in on all these important items. Lucky us.

Under standing Carter

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Concerning President Carter's speech about the Russian presence in Cuba and related — and unrelated — matters, a few observations:

1) Clearly the president does not realize that he positioned himself into saying that the word of Castro and Brezhnev is to be taken over that of our Central Intelligence Agency on the character of the Russian military unit in Cuba. Our analysts, surveying the photographs, characterize the 3,000-man Russian brigade as an assault force. The Russians maintain that it is nothing of the sort, merely a training unit; and that, incidentally, we are liars. Without saying so in so many words, Mr. Carter appeared to be telling us that the Soviet unit is what the Russians claim it is.

2) Primarily he accomplished this by stressing that the unit did not pose "any immediate, concrete threat." Well, one always supposed that. Whatever one thinks of our deteriorated defenses, we should, if we got the cooperation of the Army, the Navy, the Marines, the Air Force, the Coast Guard, the reserves and perhaps the Secret Service, be able to cope with 3,000 Russians even if they are trained as an assault unit.

THE POINT was never that Miami is in danger from being annexed by the Russians. The point is, and has been, symbolic.

3) As recently as one week before the president spoke, he had said publicly that the United States could not "settle" for the status quo. Yet in his speech he appeared to be saying exactly that — that we WOULD settle for the status quo. Sure, he has ordered a lot of dithering by the U.S. military — extra vacations of Army personnel in Key West, a toyland amphibious operation with bank cartridges in Guantanamo, the resumption of reconnaissance flights over Cuba that should never have been suspended in the first instance. But this hardly validates Mr. Carter's pledge not to accept the status quo. What he clearly meant in objecting to the status quo was that the Soviet presence in that particular form was objectionable. Carter has retreated from that position.

4) As quickly and as dramatically as he could, Mr. Carter turned the subject to SALT II, and followed the usual practice of reminding us of the horrors of atomic war. Whenever he does this, he addresses us as though he were reading from a freshly discovered Dead Sea scroll. The senators who oppose SALT II know just as much about the horrors of atomic war as the senators who endorse SALT II. There is not a dime's worth of differences between Sen. Alan Cranston's horror of atomic war and Sen. Henry Jackson's.

NOR DO THE opponents of SALT II take the position that the Soviet presence in Cuba tips the scales against the treaty. They will say what Henry Kissinger said, well before the presence of the Soviet unit was publicized: Namely, that a written understanding with the Soviet Union respecting strategic weapons cannot be evaluated without a comprehensive view of Soviet activity. That is to say, an agreement with the Soviet Union that constrains us in any way is not a sensible undertaking if simultaneously the Soviet Union is engaged in systematic deception and universal trouble-making.

5) President Carter is both confused and confusing in the whole matter of linkage. He asks us to look at SALT II discretely, i.e., without any reference to what the Soviet Union is doing in the Caribbean, in Southeast Asia, in Africa or in the Middle East.

Foods implicated in 'Heartburn'

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I had an upper G.I. tests this year after having a bad attack of indigestion. While being X-rayed (after drinking that lovely little cocktail) the technician told me that the fluid was shooting upward in a stream, but he did not see anything wrong. The doctor told me to take an antacid a half hour after eating and then three hours after eating. This really helped.

Can you suggest a diet? I have had several attacks and am getting tired of antacids. I am healthy and active at 68. The doctor called it "acid peptic disease." — Mrs. L.A.C.

Acid peptic disease is a general term. It includes a lot of illnesses featured by overproduction of stomach juices and acid.

The "shooting upward" of barium (cocktail) during your stomach X-rays indicates that the stomach juices are passing upward into the esophagus. This can cause the pain of what is called "heartburn." Antacids neutralize the acid and help. Medically it's called "gastroesophageal reflux."

Many foods have been implicated — peppermint, garlic, onion and alcohol. Smoking causes an increase in reflux (splashing) of juices. Certain other foods add to the heartburn by irritating the lining of the gut — coffee, citrus juices, tomato juice, etc.

I suppose at this point you might ask: What's left? A diet high in protein and low in fat helps. Broiled meats, skim milk, potatoes, corn, bananas and apples should cause no problem. Chiefly, though, you have to use yourself as your own private guinea pig to arrive at a total diet. Just avoid the foods that give you trouble.

Dear Dr. Donohue: For many years my father has taken baking soda for heartburn and indigestion, and he says it relieves the pain temporarily. I told him I read somewhere that soda increases the acid in his stomach and that is why he has to take it so much. He drinks it many times day. What can you tell us about this? — Mrs. D.K.

Baking soda contains sodium bicarbonate. It does neutralize stomach acid, but it has to be taken frequently to be effective. The high sodium content can be detrimental to blood pressure (tending to elevate it). It should not be used on a regular basis as an antacid.

Your father should find out why he has heartburn — or indigestion, both of which terms can be meaningless medically. Once the cause of his distress is found that can be treated appropriately.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can too much iron cause a person to have arthritis? I was feeling tired out and my husband suggested I take iron tablets. I took them for about a month. At the same time I was taking vitamins that also contained the daily iron needs. I started to have terrific pain in my lower back. X-rays showed I had some arthritis in my lower back. I stopped taking the iron and haven't had a backache since. Do you think the iron was involved in my problem? — M.E.W.

I doubt it. Excess iron intake over a long period can cause a rare illness called "hemochromatosis." A part of that picture can be arthritis in joints. A month of iron supplements would not cause this.

In another part of your letter you ask if taking B-12 shots would cause such a problem. It won't. There is no iron in B-12. As to the iron tablets, even though you can't attribute your back problem to them, such supplements should not be taken, unless truly needed. Appropriate blood tests tell if there is a need.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I'm a 15-year-old girl. My problem is that the hair in the pubic area is different than that on my head. I was born with black hair but it changed to blonde. But the pubic hair is black. I'm so afraid something is wrong with me and all I do is worry. I'm real serious, so please reply. — B.J.

Cool it. There's nothing wrong with you.

Pubic hair is usually a different color and always of a different texture than the hair on your head. Hair on the head is exposed to many agents that tend to lighten it, like the sun's rays.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. For a copy of the booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis," which discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications, write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a 30-year-old woman and in the last six months I have had black hairs growing in my chin area. I take birth control pills and I was wondering if this could have anything to do with it. — Mrs. E.J.S.

Facial hair growth has been reported by users of birth control pills, but it is not a common side effect.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is there a common food or exercise that enlarges the breasts quickly, if not quickly, at all? — L.A.

No. Low blood sugar is often the cause of faintness, headaches, visual and emotional disturbances. To learn how it can be identified and brought under control, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of "Help for Hypoglycemia," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: What do you think the peace is that the Bible promises for Christians? I am a Christian, but I still lack a great deal of peace in my mind. — R.O.

DEAR R.O.: The Bible speaks of peace in several ways. Sometimes it has to do with peace among nations, such as Christ will bring when He reigns in His glory. But it also speaks of God's peace for the individual, and this can be the experience of every believer.

There are two major ways in which the Bible speaks about God's peace. First, there is peace with God. The Bible says, "Therefore, since we have been justified through faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ" (Romans 5:1). The Bible tells us that we are actually at war with God because we have rebelled against Him and sinned by going our own way. But through Jesus Christ that warfare can be ended — we can be at peace with God! As the Bible tells us, "There is now no condemnation for those who are in Christ Jesus" (Romans 8:1). Let that truth settle firmly into your mind and heart.

Then there is the peace of God — the peace or inner quiet that God brings to our hearts. This, I believe, is something that often grows as we become closer to Christ. It is a peace which is not dependent on outward circumstances — and in fact it may be most precious to us when our circumstances are difficult. How does the peace of God come? It comes as we learn to trust His promises. It comes from the Holy Spirit as we commit every detail of our lives to God, knowing that He can be trusted. "Do not be anxious about anything, but in everything, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, present your requests to God. And the peace of God, which transcends all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus" (Philippians 4:6-7).

Big Spring Herald

Mailbag

Dear Editor:

I am writing in regard to Eileen McGuire's rim on Liberation. It never fails that she always has something to say about Eagle Forum on the night we have our meeting. This time she attacks us for not going along with government funded Day Care Centers. She writes at great lengths on Westside Day Care Center.

I was under the impression that when a reporter was curious about something they did some investigating on their own before they took anything at face value. Well, Eileen has yet to contact Eagle Forum nor has she done any investigating concerning any of the issues she has fought us on.

Westside is a great day care center and we of Big Spring are very proud of it. However, not all government-funded day-care centers are like Westside. I challenge anyone to investigate that. We are not against the state funding day care centers but when one starts getting the U.S. Government in, then it sets the rules and unlike our state laws it does take a great deal to get the government to change.

For example, they propose that government assign health visitors who call on the family regular to be sure everything is going well, according to government definition. The license to bear children: because according to government definition some people are considered "high risk" parents so those that fit the Government standard would not be licensed to bear children. Would you be considered a "high risk" parent? Maybe not by your definition or mine but whose to say how the government would define it?

In Jan. 1977, Bill HR 2505 Federal Comprehensive Child Development Act was introduced. Education staffer Tom Birch said "We got beat to pieces up here on the Hill last year (referring to the avalanche of letters against the Child and Family Services Act —). Mr. Birch suggests that education progress to eliminate fear of Federal Child Care program must be conducted at the grassroots level. "So that public is to be subjected to a massive softening up" period before the next major push for federal control of preschoolers. Now Mrs. McGuire, you strike me as a person that would not allow anyone to tell you what to do and yet you are in favor of the Government telling you what to do. Would you really want that?

On the White House Conference on Children in 1970, it was recommended that laws dealing with rights of parents be reexamined and changed where they infringe on the rights of children.

On March 4-7, 1979, a state-wide commemoration of the International Year of the Child, sponsored by Texas Child Care 76 was observed. Dr. Norton Grubb Economist and Assistant professor of University of Texas LBJ School of Public Affairs stated that "their needs to be a total change in the Family." "Family Unit is out of date." "The thought that Women should be at home is ridiculous now." "If we are to get federal child care, we must redirect the policy toward families and children in America." "The role of women and men in raising children will be changed."

Because of our love and concern for children we must oppose this legislation. Childrearing is too important to be placed under jurisdiction and control of federal bureaucrats. And overburdened tax payers are not in the mood to pick up the check on a National babysitting bill.

Dear Editor:
Big Spring High School Exes, take note.

Nov. 1-2-3 are Homecoming dates. Some interesting facts for class reunions are listed:

1909-70-year reunion; 1914-65 years; 1919-60 years; 1924-55 years; 1929-50 years; 1934-50 years; 1939-40 years; 1944-35 years; 1949-30 years; 1954-25 years; 1959-20 years; 1964-15 years; 1969-10 years; 1974-5 years.

If you are in one of these classes and wish to have something special, it's not too early to start calling your classmates and planning a luncheon or a get-together. Names and addresses can be picked up from the files at the high school.

Classes of 1954 and 1959 are already making plans for luncheons and reunions. Persons to call on these reunions are Mrs. Roger Brown 267-7370 and Mrs. Toni Hamby 267-7737. Also, Mrs. Delores Hitt at the high school 267-7461 or at home 267-5874 will be able to help you.

Hoping to see you all for our reception and dance.

Saturday's Puzzle Solved:

DENNIS THE MENACE

"ISN'T NOBODY INTERESTED IN WHAT KINDA MONDAY I HAD?"

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

"I must be growing up. Somebody on the phone thought I was you."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, OCT. 9, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You have considerable desire for adventure now and can engage in new activities with much satisfaction. Be alert to new opportunities coming your way. This is no time to strut.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Going out of your way to improve public relations is wise today. Handle a civic matter in a clever way and gain the benefits.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study reports well and you gain more profits. Take time for seeing people you like and who can be helpful to you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Concentrate on personal matters and go after your aims in a positive fashion. Not a good day to engage in a new interest.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Know how to approach advisers so that you gain their goodwill and advice. Don't neglect business matters at this time.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Handle important duties early in the day so you will have time for recreation later. Be careful not to lose your temper with anyone.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Handling public duties today can improve your position in the community. Avoid those who are prone to making you angry.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Put those ideas to work that will help you to advance in your career. Sidestep one who is detrimental to your best interests.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be sure to handle all your duties intelligently and gain the approval of others. Strive for increased harmony with loved one.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Try to please associates more and don't be afraid to ask what is expected of you. Show your true ability.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Use new methods in handling work ahead of you and get it done efficiently. Listen to what co-workers have to suggest.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have excellent judgment now and can easily gain your aims. Don't waste time on unimportant matters at this time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Talk matters over with family members and make improvements at home that are necessary. Act kindly toward others.

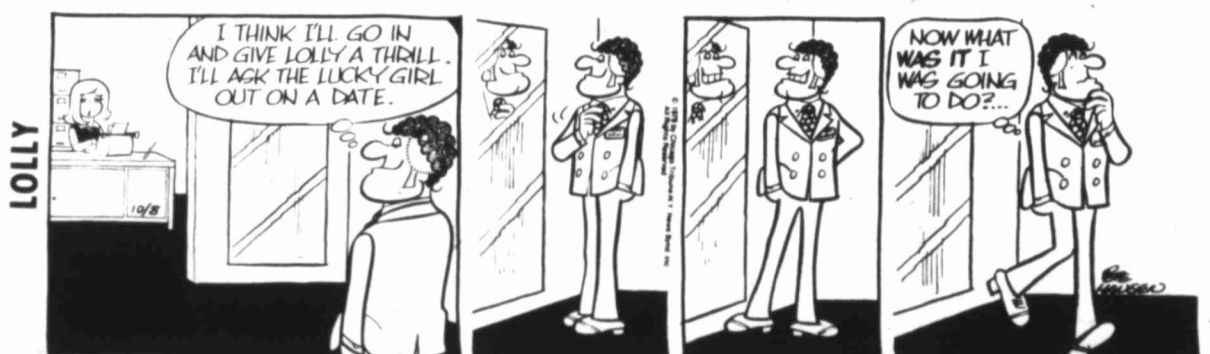

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be very good at handling emergencies. Teach to persevere in whatever is once started until it is finished, since the talents are many in this chart. Give as fine an education as you can afford and success will follow.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Inflatable costumes add extra fun to Halloween

It's Halloween and stores are filling with merchandise — costumes, play pumpkins, decorations, ghoulish witches and skeletons. Halloween is a children's holiday, second only to Christmas in shopping fun.

New Kooky Spooks Inflatable Costume-Make-Up Kits are a new and unique Halloween costume idea designed to unite safety, utility, and fun in a costume that pleases children and parents alike. Kooky Spooks costumes are available in six original cartoon characters — Ishy Bat, Woblin Goblin, Scardy Cat, Wonder Witch, Spacey Casey and Wunkin Punkin. All costumes are made of heavy-duty vinyl and are designed to fit children from age three to adult.

Each costume-make-up kit comes complete and ready to wear with inflatable headgear, a weatherproof poncho, color-coordinated water-base make-up, 3M Scotch-lite(R) reflective tape and a transparent repair patch.

The Kooky Spooks inflatable headgear is designed to be worn as a comfortable bonnet which ties under the chin. The bonnet has two inflation chambers: one brings the Kooky Spooks character to life and the other inflates the headband. The headband adjusts the bonnet to fit any head size and holds it firmly in place; it will not move, slip or blow off. Both air chambers have safety valves to prevent air escape.

Made of heavy-duty vinyl, the unique design of the headgear allows full peripheral vision and unimpaired hearing, eliminating the claustrophobic feeling of traditional masks. The bonnet also has six control air holes to allow air flow around the scalp, alleviating uncomfortable perspiration build-up. Adding approximately 18 inches to the height of your child, the Kooky Spooks headgear has the added advantage of making your little ones more visible in the dark. Visibility is further increased by applying the reflective tape, included in the costume-make-up kit, to the back of the headgear.

Each new Kooky Spooks Inflatable Costume-Make-Up Kit also includes a brightly decorated poncho designed to fit all sizes. Worn over play clothes or warm outer-wear, the poncho offers all-weather protection against wind, snow and rain and allows for total arm and leg movement to prevent tripping and falling.

Easy to put on, easy to take off, the water-base make-up adds creative play value to the Kooky Spooks costume. Color-coordinated to match the headgear and poncho of a Kooky Spooks character, children will love the fun of painting their faces. The make-up easily washes off with soap and water and will not harm the skin complexion.

New Kooky Spooks Inflatable Costume-Make-Up Kits are available in department, grocery, drug, discount and variety stores throughout the United States. They are manufactured by Spearhead Marketing Company, a division of Philmon and Hart Laboratories, Minneapolis, Minnesota.

Life Worth 3 Minutes?

DEAR READERS: It's Fire Prevention Week again, and I have had so many requests to repeat my column on fire prevention that it has become a tradition. So here it is, with updated figures:

Last year, 10,500 Americans perished and nearly 34,000 civilians, plus 100,000 firemen, were seriously injured in more than 3.5 million fires. In Canada, 811 deaths were caused by 74,043 fires.

A large percentage of the dead were children, elderly persons and invalids who had been left alone "for just a few minutes."

The chief causes of fires, in order of the toll taken, were:

1. Smoking
2. Electrical wiring
3. Heating and cooking equipment
4. Children playing with matches
5. Open flames and sparks
6. Flammable liquids
7. Suspected arson
8. Chimneys and flues
9. Lighting
10. Spontaneous ignition

The total fire loss last year was in excess of $6 billion in the United States and better than $570 million in Canada.

Now for some tips that could save your life:

Be sure your cigarette is out. Matches, too. Never leave matches and lighters within reach of children.

Don't run cords under rugs or over radiators where they may get damaged. Replace a cord if it is frayed.

Never leave small children or invalids alone in the house. Not even for a few minutes.

Have your wiring and electrical installations done by a professional.

Store oily rags and paints in a cool place in tightly sealed metal containers.

Never use flammable liquids for dry-cleaning indoors.

Have a fire drill in your home to be sure everyone knows what to do in case of fire. Designate a specific meeting place outside so you will all know who's outside of the house.

Remember: Fire extinguishers put out 97 percent of all fires on which they were used, and most large fires start as small fires. So, invest in a compact, easy-to-use fire extinguisher. Keep it handy in your kitchen, or be prudent and buy one for your cottage, car, boat and the back bedroom.

Some excellent smoke and fire-detection systems are available to homeowners. Shop around; buy the one that suits your needs.

NOW, in case of fire:

If you suspect fire, alert the rest of the household. But first feel the top of the door. If it's hot, don't open it. Escape through the window.

If you can't open the window, break it with a chair. Cover the rough edges with a blanket, sit on the window ledge with one leg hanging outside and one inside, and wait for help.

The phone number of your fire department should be taped on every telephone. If it isn't, don't fumble around trying to find it. Get out and call from a neighbor's house.

If you live in an apartment building, use the stairway. Don't take a chance on the elevator. If it falls, you're trapped.

Once out, stay out. No treasure is worth risking your life. It took less than three minutes to read this column. Was it worth it? I hope so.

Donation made Mrs. Barfield to chapel new member

The Howard County Unit 355 of the American Legion Auxiliary met recently at the Post Home on Driver Rd. with president Mrs. Bill Bodin conducting the meeting.

Guests, Mrs. Ollie Branson of Big Spring Unit 506 and Mrs. Don McCray of Lubbock Unit 575, were welcomed. Plans were finalized for the 19th District Convention which will be hosted by Unit 355.

Several dignitaries were in attendance including the Department President Mrs. Lewis Rounton of Corpus Christi; Department Vice President Mrs. Harvey Holcomb of Odessa; Past Department President Mrs. Tom Wheeler of Plainview; 4th Division President Mrs. Leo Itz of Fredericksburg; 4th Division Membership Chairman Mrs. Tommy Robbins of Odessa; 19th District President Mrs. Floyd Ryan of Levelland; and 16th District President Mrs. Leo Rheingans of Odessa.

The Auxiliary held their meetings at the VFW Post Home including a Parliamentary Procedure Workshop and an Executive Committee meeting on Saturday as well as the General Business meeting held on Sunday.

The ladies joined the Legionnaires on Saturday night for a joint meeting and banquet at the Post Home followed by a dance. Harvey Holcomb, past Department Commander, from Odessa gave an address on Americanism. The welcoming address was delivered to the Legionnaires and their ladies by Garland Evers of the VAMC. A joint Memorial Service was conducted Sunday morning at the Post Home by the district chaplains, James Enger and Frances Bell.

Serving as local delegates were Mrs. Bodin, Mrs. T.A. Trevino, Mrs. Raymond Gonzales and Mrs. Louis Casillas. Mrs. McCray donated an afghan to the local unit which was raffled off at the dance.

The unit made a donation to the Chapel of Four Chaplains as it does each year. This is a non-denominational chapel which was originated in memory of four chaplains, each of different faiths, which gave up their life jackets to others when their ship was sunk by a Nazi torpedo in World War II. Mrs. Sylvia Flores was elected to serve as Chaplain.

Poppy Chairman Mrs. Casillas, is making arrangements for the Poppy Day Sales which will be Oct. 13.

Mrs. Virginia Barfield was welcomed as a new member of the Elbow Extension Homemakers Club when they met Oct. 4 in the home of Mrs. L.M. Duffer.

Mrs. Duffer presented the devotion from Romans 14:12. The program was given by Mrs. Doreen Dolan on the Brownwood Workshop 4-H Center where she spent two days.

Mrs. Dolan distributed recipes for nutritious snacks and served several of them using raw vegetables and dips.

The club will sponsor a Multiple Sclerosis Read-A-Thon for grades 1-5 at Elbow School this year.

A donation was made to be used for Christmas gifts for the Big Spring State Hospital. Door prize was won by Mrs. Barfield.

The next meeting of the Elbow Extension Homemakers Club will be in the home of Mrs. Dolan Oct. 18. At that time, Janet Rogers, county extension agent, will present a bathroom decorating demonstration.

Members report on convention

The home of Mr. C.A. Smauley was the meeting site of the Fairview Extension Homemakers Club when they gathered Oct. 2.

Club President Mrs. Smauley presided and presented the devotion from Romans 14:12. "Don't be afraid to try" was the thought for the day.

Roll call was answered by four guests including Mrs. Janet Rogers, county extension agent, Mrs. A.J. Adkins, Melbourne, Fla., Mrs. Vernon Kent, Mrs. B.L. Mason and six members revealing an item in their home they treasure.

Mrs. Kent, Mrs. Mason and Mrs. Smauley gave reports on the Extension Homemakers State Convention which was held in Fort Worth Sept. 25-27.

Mrs. Rogers presented the program on "Brighten Your Bathroom." She explained various ways to decorate a bathroom and distributed booklets.

Mrs. L.A. Griffith, Mrs. Frank Micallef and Mrs. W.N. Wood were elected to the nominating committee. The door prize was won by Mrs. Kent.

The next meeting will be Oct. 16 in the home of Mrs. Bessie Bigony.

Yearly salad supper held

Beta Sigma Phi City Council held their yearly salad supper for the new fall rushes recently. All local chapters attended, as well as the newly formed Coahoma chapter.

A style show was presented by "Pretty Things," including disco wear, casual wear, and after five wear.

A short business meeting followed and the Valentine Ball was discussed. Each chapter was given their duties. Beta Sigma Phi City Council sweetheart is Debra Wilson.

Xi Phi will host the next meeting which will take place Nov. 1.

Musical concert slated Wednesday

Imodean Lister of San Diego, Calif., will present an hour-long musical concert at the First Church of God, 2009 Main St., on Wednesday at 7 p.m.

According to the host pastor, Alan Tinnerstet, admission is free and the community is invited to attend.

Miss Lister is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. V.V. Lister of Tucson, Ariz. She is the third of ten children. During her high school days she began to use her talent in a very natural and moving way. In 1970, she sang for the Governor of Texas.

Since graduating from college she has toured more than 70,000 miles as well as traveled to Europe in 1973 with a student group from Anderson College in Indiana.

Her musical ability is widespread in that she has sung the lead role in many of the outstanding classical oratorios, operas, and cantatas while attending both Gulf Coast and Anderson colleges. She is also one of the featured singers on the "Christian Brotherhood Hour" radio broadcast which is heard around the world.

Imodean has recorded two stereo albums titled, "I Feel the Touch" and "Roll Jordan Roll." These recordings are a combination of contemporary gospel with a few classical anthems.

Her program consists of many songs which were written by such outstanding composers as Bill Gaither, Andrae Crouch and Otis Skillings.

OAKLAND, Calif. — The last time the Dolphins played the Raiders was in Super Bowl V. The Dolphins were the underdogs, and they won. Since that game, the Dolphins have become one of the NFL's top teams. The Raiders, on the other hand, have been a league-jumping team. They have moved from Oakland to Los Angeles and back to Oakland. Now, with the Raiders back in Oakland, the Dolphins are looking to win another Super Bowl.

Dorsett rediscovers path to end zone . . .

Again and again and again!

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Tony Dorsett lived up to his initials Sunday afternoon against the Vikings, scoring three times to end a five-game touchdown drought.

"It felt great to get back into the end zone again," said Dorsett, or T.D. if you prefer, in Dallas' 36-20 whipping of Minnesota.

Dorsett rushed for 145 yards and scored on runs of 5, 3 and 30 yards to pace a Cowboy attack which left the impression that Tom Landry's club is revving up for its annual mid-season onslaught on the rest of the National Football League.

"I like the way we're playing right now," said Landry, whose teams predictably begin slow, pick up steam midway through the schedule and then look nearly invincible by playoff time.

"Tony really ran well. He's getting to the point where he was at the end of last season. And our defense really picked us up. Even though we gave up 20 points, they gave us a lift when we needed it."

The Domsday Defense held the Vikings to 61 yards rushing and came up with two big plays which prevented Minnesota from thinking upset.

The first came from Benny Barnes, who picked up a Sammy White fumble and returned it 33 yards for a score which gave Dallas a 23-7 lead late in the second quarter.

Minnesota pulled to within three points on a 37-yard field goal by Rick Danmeier, his second of the game, and a 28-yard pass from Tommy Kramer to White. But doom struck again in the same form — a fumble by Robert Miller which was recovered by the Cowboys on the Vikings 30.

On the next play, Dorsett skirted left end and outraced the Minnesota secondary for his third touchdown of the day. That made it 30-20 and it took all the steam out of the Vikings, who had refused to fold at halftime.

"How deflating can it be?" asked Minnesota Coach Bud Grant, who felt Miller was signalled down before the fumble occurred. "At the time it was 23-20. That play took away all the momentum we had built up. You lose the ball on one play and on the next play they score."

Dorsett, who recorded the 13th 100-yard rushing day of his three-year career, also scored three touchdowns for the first time.

"I didn't know about that, but I'll tell you, I could score all day when the offensive line works like they did," said Dorsett. "They love it. When we're moving the ball, they come back to the huddle and look forward to the next play. They prefer blocking for the run when it's working."

Quarterback Roger Staubach didn't disagree with his star running back.

"Personally I like running the ball," said Staubach, who completed 15 of 23 passes for 174 yards. "When we've had to throw we've had a good passing game, but I didn't have to go downfield today. The tone of the game was set by Tony. The line did an excellent job blocking and Tony made some big plays."

Dallas worked the ball down to the Vikings 17 before the drive stalled and Rafael Septien booted a 34-yard field goal.

Csonka is back!

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The last time the Miami Dolphins played the Oakland Raiders were a football Dolphins were defending Super Bowl champions, the Raiders was a football bridesmaid and Larry Csonka was about to become a league-jumper.

Since that 1974 playoff game, the Dolphins have become one of the National Football League's best all-arounders, the Raiders have won a Super Bowl — and missed the playoffs two years later — while Csonka has come back to Miami, almost as if he never left.

Now, with the teams meeting again tonight, it has been Csonka who has led the Dolphins to a 4-1 record, alone at the top of the American Conference East. The Raiders, meanwhile, sit near the bottom of the AFC West with a 2-3 mark, 1½ games behind Kansas City, Denver and San Diego.

But the Raiders will have precedent on their side. They have never lost to the Dolphins in six meetings at home, including that 28-26 victory in the playoffs.

They have also a 11-1-1 record in Monday night games. Miami is 12-3 on Monday night.

As they did in their glory years, Miami runs the ball a lot. The Dolphins averaged 155 yards on the ground in the four victories before getting only 68 in last week's loss to the New York Jets.

Csonka, who says he will retire after this year, has 267 yards in five games, averaging 4.1 yards a carry since returning to Miami from the New York Giants, where he went after the World Football League folded.

"When Larry left, we started to do things differently," Coach Don Shula says. "We started to throw the ball more. Now we can play ball control again."

HOUSTON (AP) — Although the Houston Oilers happened to be on the AstroDome playing surface with St. Louis Sunday, no one was beating the luckless Cardinals but the Cardinals. And the St. Louis players knew it.

"The Oilers never physically outplayed us," running back Wayne Morris said proudly after scoring a pair of fourth-quarter touchdowns that rallied the Cards to a 24-17 victory. "That was going through our minds during the game."

The Cardinals easily could have cracked under the strain of being penalized 12 times for 123 yards, three interceptions by quarterback Jim Hart and a fumble at Houston's 21 by rookie Otis Anderson.

Instead, the Cards came up with a winning hand.

Trailing 17-10, punter Steve Little completed a 16-yard fourth-down pass to Theotis Brown to set up Morris' first touchdown run, a gazelle-like one-yard dive over the top of his offensive line with 8:32 left in the game. When Carl Allen intercepted a Dan Pastorini pass, Morris added the winning points on a six-yard run with 2:35 left to play.

"They showed a great deal of courage to come back like that after what we've been through," St. Louis Coach Bud Wilkinson said. "Even when we were behind our team played as well as it could. We were still the aggressors. We didn't take a defensive stance."

What the Cardinals had been through coming into the game was a 1-5 record that included one and two-point losses to Pittsburgh and Dallas. The offense had been kept from consistency by drive-killing penalties.

The mistakes were still there Sunday, but the Cardinals rewrote the ending.

The flat Oilers, who dropped to a 4-2 record and out of a share of the American Football Conference Central Division lead, took advantage of St. Louis' mistakes for a 14-7 halftime lead on a four-yard run by Earl Campbell and Pastorini's 11-yard touchdown pass to Ken Burroughs. Brown capped an 88-yard drive with a two-yard touchdown run for St. Louis' second-quarter touchdown.

Houston's first touchdown drive started when Anderson ran 21 yards to the Oiler 16 and fumbled to Carter Hartwig. Houston's drive then was kept alive on a roughing the passer penalty against tackle Charlie Davis that nullified a pass interception by St. Louis' Ken Stone.

Houston scored again 22 seconds later in the second quarter on Pastorini's 11-yard lob to Burroughs on the first play after an interception by Houston defensive back Willie Alexander.

Little kicked a 24-yard field goal for the Cards and Houston Toni Fritsch booted his 12th consecutive three-pointer, a 51-yard kick in the fourth quarter before Morris' game-winning touchdown.

"One game out of 16 is not going to kill your season," Houston Coach Bum Phillips said. "We would have preferred to win this one but they thoroughly whipped us. It may have looked like we couldn't tackle but their backs had something to do with that."

The Cardinals held Houston to 57 total rushing yards with Campbell gaining 53 yards on 13 carries. St. Louis outgained the Oilers 451 to 219 in total yards and allowed Houston to have the ball only 9:38 of the second half.

Anderson finished the game with 109 yards on 16 carries.

Weekend NFL action

Giants 17, Bucs 14

By The Associated Press

Even Tampa Bay Coach John McKay knew it had to come to an end eventually.

"We really didn't expect to go undefeated," he said. "Now that we've lost, we won't get so much attention, and there will be less pressure."

The Buccaneers were the only undefeated team in the National Football League until Sunday afternoon when they met a fired-up New York Giants squad.

The Giants emerged with a 17-14 victory behind the running of reserve back Billy Taylor making his first start. They also put a "1" in their win column after six long weeks of play.

Taylor rushed for 148 yards on 33 carries, and he scored two touchdowns. Both his scoring bursts, of 2 and 1 yards, came in the second period. Joe Danelo kicked a 47-yard field goal in the fourth quarter for the eventual winning points.

Rams 35, Saints 17

Pat Haden threw for two touchdowns, and Wendell Tyler had a pair of scoring runs as the Rams exploded for 28 points in the second quarter and held on to beat New Orleans.

The Rams held the NFL's most explosive offense to just 102 yards rushing and 132 yards passing in the game. Saints quarterback Archie Manning threw five interceptions.

DEJECTED BUCCANEER — Johnny Davis, Tampa Bay Buccaneers running back, sits dejected in the team's Giants Stadium locker room after suffering their first defeat of the season against the winless Giants, 17-14, Sunday.

Broncos 7, Chargers 0

Denver quarterback Norris Weese scored the game's only touchdown on a 3-yard run in the third quarter. It was set up by a 26-yard return of a fumble recovered by Broncos safety Bill Thompson.

Denver's Orange Crush defense held San Diego to 70 yards rushing. Chargers quarterback Dan Fouts passed for 305 yards, but he was intercepted three times in the second half to halt San Diego drives.

Steelers 51, Browns 35

Terry Bradshaw threw three touchdown passes and Franco Harris ran for two more, one in a first quarter that saw Pittsburgh roll to a 21-0 lead over Cleveland. Harris' first-quarter TD was on a 71-yard run.

Rocky Bleier, best known as Harris' blocking back, also scored on a long run — 70 yards in the fourth quarter — as the Steelers recorded a club record 361 yards on the ground.

The Browns' quarterback, Brian Sipe, passed for a career high 351 yards and five touchdowns.

Chiefs 10, Bengals 7

Mike Williams scored on a 1-yard plunge, and Jan Stenerud kicked a 46-yard field goal — all in the second quarter — and Kansas City struggled to its third straight victory.

The Chiefs held linless Cincinnati to just 91 yards total offense in the first half. Bengals quarterback Ken Anderson wound up with 66 yards net passing after he was sacked several times.

Eagles 28, Redskins 17

Running back Wilbert Montgomery ran for 127 yards and four touchdowns as Philadelphia rolled to a 28-7, then stood a 10-point Washington rally.

Three of Montgomery's touchdowns came on short runs, and the fourth on an 11-yard pass from Ron Jaworski, who threw only 12 passes, but completed eight for 143 yards.

Bears 7, Bills 0

Walter Payton ran for 155 yards and the game's only touchdown, and Chicago held the top-rated passer in the NFL, Joe Ferguson, to just 50 yards in the air. Ferguson completed just five of 21 passes in the cold rain in Buffalo.

Seahawks 35, 49ers 24

Dan Doornink ran for two touchdowns, and Sammy Green returned an intercepted Steve DeBerg pass 91 yards for another score as the Seahawks kept San Francisco from entering the win column.

Falcons 25, Packers 7

A swarming Atlanta defense sacked Green Bay quarterback David Whitehurst eight times, once for a safety, and Tim Mazzetti kicked three field goals for the Falcons.

Quarterback Steve Bartkowski got Atlanta on the board first with a 9-yard pass to Alfred Jenkins.

Colts 10, Jets 8

Greg Landry passed for 235 yards and the game's only touchdown, and Baltimore stopped a 10-game losing streak by beating the Jets.

Landry hit tight end Reese McCall midway through the first period with a 17-yard scoring pass, and Steve Mike-Meyer added a 41-yard field goal later in the period.

Series showcases two savvy GMs

BALTIMORE (AP) — As much as it is a match between two talented baseball teams, the 1979 World Series will serve as a showcase for two outstanding general managers — Pittsburgh's Harding Peterson and Hank Peters of Baltimore.

Both have made vital player moves that helped their teams to their league championships and the World Series that begins Tuesday night.

Peters' most important move was one of the first he made, surrendering $100,000 and catcher Manny Sanguillen to Oakland for Manager Chuck Tanner. It was a one-season loan as it turned out because a year later, he brought Sanguillen back from the A's for three players.

Tanner succeeded the late Danny Murtaugh as Pirate manager and had the club in contention in both 1977 and 1978. If the team had one glaring deficiency, though, it was defense. They simply made too many errors.

Peters set about correcting the problem. First he acquired infielder Phil Garner in a nineplayer trade with Oakland. Then he swapped flashy shortstop Frank Taveras to the New York Mets for steadier Tim Lincecum.

"Foli settled the infield down," says Tanner. "He provided stability." Finally, the infield reconstruction was completed when Peterson acquired third baseman Bill Madlock from San Francisco. That freed Garner to move from third to second, his natural position, and the Pirate defense improved noticeably.

The free agent market stripped Pittsburgh's bullpen after the 1977 season with Rich Gossage signing with the New York Yankees and Terry Forster moving to the Los Angeles Dodgers. So Peterson rebuilt his relief staff. Holdover Kent Tekulve became Pittsburgh's No. 1 reliever and to complement him, Peterson acquired first Grant Jackson and then Enrique Romo from Seattle.

Jackson played a role in one of Peters' most successful trades for Baltimore, a 10-player exchange with the New York Yankees on June 15, 1976. Peters sent Aakson, pitchers Ken Holtzman, Doyle Alexander and Jimmy Freeman and catcher Ellie Hendricks to the Yankees. In return, Baltimore got catcher Rick Dempsey and pitchers Dave Pagan, Scott McGregor, Tippy Martinez and Rudy May.

Pagan and Jackson left their new teams in the 1976 expansion draft, so that part of the deal balanced. But the rest of it was all Baltimore. Holtzman got into Yankee Manager Billy Martin's doghouse and was virtually useless for two seasons before finally being traded to the Chicago Cubs. Alexander became a free agent after 1976 and signed with Texas. Hendricks was released after 1977 and returned to Baltimore as a coach.

Meanwhile, Dempsey became Baltimore's regular catcher. Martinez moved in as a vital member of the Oriole bullpen and McGregor, who pitched the pennant clincher, is a key starting pitcher for the Birds. May became part of a package traded to Montreal in a deal that delivered relief ace Don Stanhouse and outfielder Gary Roenicke to Baltimore.

BALTIMORE BOUND — Pitcher Bruce Kison of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who faced the Baltimore Orioles in the 1979 World Series as a rookie, will start for the Pirates Tuesday night in Baltimore in Game One of the 1979 Series. Mike Flanagan will pitch for the Orioles.

... and two talented managers

By The Associated Press
Baseball's 1979 World Series boils down to this: it is "Mr. Computer" matching strategies with "Mr. Sunshine," the close-to-the-best gang going against the free-wheeling Happiness Boys.

The Birds and the Bucs — one of the most intriguing matchups in years.

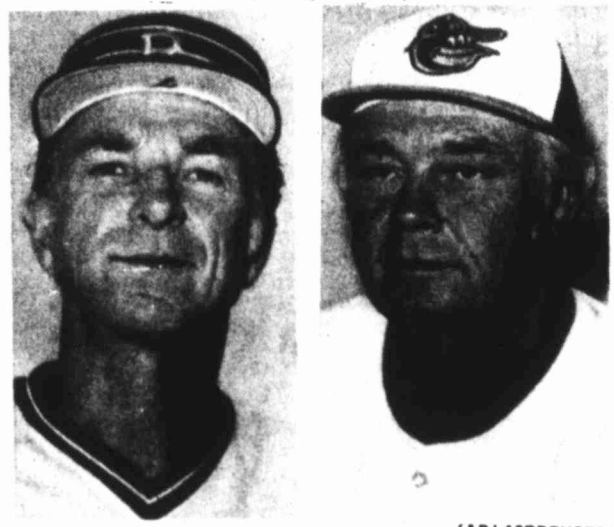

When you think of the Baltimore Orioles, the American League champions who ran off and hid from the favored Yankees and Red Sox, you conjure up a huge green chessboard presided over by a little pookish guy with silver hair.

But Earl Weaver, the Orioles manager, is baseball's Bobby Fischer — a mind like a steel trap, a plotter, a man of a thousand moves who leaves nothing to chance.

With Earl Weaver, the buck stops at his cluttered desk. "How important is a manager's role?" he repeats an oft-asked, loaded question. "It's everything. I pick the 25 men who play for me. I say when they play. I say what they do. I am responsible."

MR. SUNSHINE VS. MR. COMPUTER — Chuck Tanner, left, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, can be called Mr. Sunshine for the way he handles his team. Earl Weaver, manager of the Baltimore Orioles has the steel-trap mind of a machine, hence the title Mr. Computer.

When you think of the Pittsburgh Pirates, the National League champions, you visualize a gang rumble — ear-puncturing noise, raucous banter, heavy bats, a lot of muscle, friendly pushing and shoving.

From the wings, a benign-looking man watched the tumult not with distaste but with obvious amusement.

"Aren't they great?" says Chuck Tanner, the skipper. "They have a lot of fun. No jealousies. No brooders. No fatheads. This is their style. Everything is loose."

Tanner is called "Mr. Sunshine" because of his amiable disposition and perpetual optimism. He looks upon his proteges as adults. He lets each do his own thing. He maintains discipline with a padded glove.

Weaver, winner of six division titles and four AL pennants in his 12 years as Baltimore boss, is quieter and appears more serious though he possess a wry sense of humor. Many rate him the best manager in baseball.

This year he took a team without any big-salaried superstar and nursed them to 102 victories — the fourth time his teams have won more than 100 games. He won out in the toughest division in either league. He didn't do it with mirrors. He didn't do it with soft talk or iron discipline. He did it with cold logic. He compiled an exhaustive "book" on rival teams and set up a detailed card system on comparative strengths and weaknesses.

Big Dave Parker and Willie Stargell may offer a dissenting opinion.

Affirmed wins

NEW YORK (AP) — "Affirmed is like a professional fighter," says trainer Laz Barrera.

And like a good fighter dictating the tempo of a bout, Affirmed dictated the tempo of the $375,000 Jockey Club Gold Cup Saturday at Belmont Park. He, and jockey Laffit Pincay, ran the big showdown with Spectacular Bid and Bill Shoemaker their way... and won.

Both Pincay and Shoemaker were aware they couldn't get hooked in a speed duel and then fall prey to Coastal. Pincay gained the upper hand, putting bid into the lead just before entering the backstretch.

The Shoe rode well, but so did Pincay. He guided Affirmed through the first half mile in a speed-saving 49 seconds and completed three quarters in 1:13.1 and the mile in 1:37.1.

At the top of the stretch, just after passing the quarter pole, Coastal, ridden by Ruben Hernandez challenged strongly. Pincay thought Coastal got even with Affirmed but not ahead of him.

Rice coach looks at OU-Texas game

By The Associated Press
Ray Alborn should know best about the comparative strengths of Oklahoma and Texas since his young Rice Owls have played both of them but even he's not sure of a winner in Saturday's joust of the unbeaten in the Cotton Bowl.

"It will be one fine game," said the Rice coach. "Oklahoma has more overall speed but Texas has a great, great defense."

Rice lost 63-21 to Oklahoma two weeks ago and fell 26-9 to Texas

Saturday night. However, Rice scored a late touchdown on Texas on a 68-yard Randy Hertel to Earl Cooper pass. It's the only touchdown allowed this year by the Longhorns.

Coach Fred Akers wasn't too pleased with the "Horns." "We were disoriented at times," said Akers. "Too many errors. Probably some of the players were looking towards OU."

Texas drew 13 penalties for 114 yards.

John Goodson kicked four field goals for the Longhorns. He also had four field goals the week before against Missouri to earn the walk-on a scholarship.

In other games involving Southwest Conference teams, Arkansas escaped Texas Christian 13-0 and defending champion Houston eased past Baylor by the same score.

Texas Tech overcame a 20-9 deficit to stun Texas A&M 21-20 in Lubbock. Southern Methodist, which was idle, leads the SWC with a 2-0 record and hosts Baylor Saturday night at Texas Stadium. Baylor dropped to 2-1 with the loss to the Cougars.

Houston, Texas and Arkansas all own 1-0 league ledgers.

Texas Tech is 1-1 while the Aggies, Rice and TCU are winless in SWC play. Arkansas is at Texas Tech, Houston is at Texas A&M, and TCU is at Rice this weekend.

Run, sneak, hide,

Dawn patrol along border

EDITOR'S NOTE: A day's work for agents of the U.S. Border Patrol is tedious and filled with routine. Recently, AP Correspondent Bill Greer spent a day with a Border Patrol agent as he made his rounds along the border near El Paso. Here is his report.

By BILL GREER
Associated Press Writer
EL PASO, Texas (AP) — They run, they sneak, they hide. One even came across piggyback so she wouldn't get wet feet crossing the river into the United States.

They are illegal aliens, undocumented workers. Michael S. Williams keeps track of them, watches them, chases them and sometimes catches them.

"We catch about one of every seven crossing the border in the El Paso area," says Williams, 35, assistant Border Patrol agent in charge.

He estimates the illegal Mexican population in the United States at "conservatively 5 million, probably closer to 7 million."

Williams spends much of his time at the office. This week he went on patrol along the Rio Grande, the international boundary in this area.

About four minutes after Williams started his dawn patrol a young man emerged from a drain pipe leading up a canyon into an El Paso residential area. Williams' boots thundered along the ground as he chased the quicker and more agile youth back across the border.

Next, Williams parked the light green patrol car in an area where a steel cable stretched along two-foot posts is the only border marker. Three men and a boy, about 8, hopped the short barrier and returned to Mexico in two seconds. They milled around waiting for Williams to leave. He propped his black boot on the cable and watched the aliens watch him. "They will cross when we leave," he says.

As the cruiser crept along the river road, aliens carrying brown paper lunch sacks reversed their northward trek, leaping through the bushes to wade across the river. Some carry clothing above their heads to keep it dry. Sometimes they wait on the U.S. bank to see if Williams is going to chase them. If he opens the door, they jump into the shallow water.

One woman, possibly a maid waiting for an El Paso resident to pick her up, hopped back across the river to join a group of about 30 standing under a tree near a campfire. They will wait until Williams leaves before they cross the border and catch a city bus to work in El Paso.

After heading past the downtown El Paso area, Williams points out a steel mesh border fence under construction. It is sometimes called the "tortilla curtain," but the political connotation that name invokes may not apply in this case.

It's just a fence.

About a mile of fencing is completed on the planned, four-mile route. The 10-foot fence is curved toward the concrete river channel. It is not topped with barbed wire like a section of the old fence. There are no watch towers — although they would make surveillance more efficient — because of their negative psychological impact, Williams says.

He says the fence diverts aliens to a less-populated area where it is easier to apprehend them. "It takes someone about 30 or 40 seconds to cross in the downtown area and disappear in a crowd," Williams explains.

He eases along the levy to visit patrolman Jesse A. Shaw, who is examining a recently cut hole in the two-week-old fence. Shaw says there are about six other holes. Heavy bolt cutters and pry bars were used to make the gates.

Dozens of illegal aliens sit along the angled cement skirt under the levy road near the fence holes. Most are drying off their feet. When Shaw appears to be going through the opening to the river bank they reluctantly wade back. There is frustration on both sides.

A large group is waiting where the fence ends. Officer Eddie Hensley is watching them. "He is more effective sitting here watching 50 and holding them back than capturing two and letting the other 48 cross," Williams says.

But he will have to leave sometime, and when he does they will come across. "It is a waiting game," he says. Williams heads back to the downtown border bridge along a highway where two young men are walking. They are trying to pretend they don't see the patrol car. Williams, who seems to know they are not U.S. citizens, politely asks for papers, and then gently but firmly arrests them.

"You can take control of the situation and respect them and they'll respect you and there is no trouble," says Williams. Agents in the sector made 176,688 arrests in 1978. Only 10 of that total carried guns, he said. "You have to control each situation before it gets to a violent stage."

He says there were two shooting incidents in the area during the past year. In both instances, several aliens overpowered a single officer and took his pistol. In one case, an alien who shot at patrolmen was killed. In another, a Mexican policeman saw aliens holding a gun on a border patrolman and arrested one of the Mexicans, Williams said.

Williams next toured the holding area at the border station. Here, aliens are processed and held in fairly clean, caged rooms. One room is for men, the other for women. Those inside sit quietly or sleep on the cement floor beside the graffiti-covered walls.

Aliens saunter into the building and then let themselves into the always-open pens.

Accused killer of five due to go on trial today

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A state district judge said he would rule again on pretrial motions in the capital murder trial of Joe Dugas Jr. to satisfy a defense attorney's complaints the decisions are valid only if made in Nueces County.

The trial of Dugas, accused of killing five members of his former wife's family, was scheduled to begin here today after being transferred from Beaumont, where pretrial hearings were held.

The family was reported missing on July 1, 1978, from a farm home near Winnie, Texas, about 25 miles southwest of Beaumont. Their bodies were found eight days later in a common grave near the neighboring community of Hamshire.

Defense attorney Bruce Smith had maintained throughout the pretrial sessions that rulings must be made in Nueces County. Judge Larry Gist said he will rule again on the motions after the trial got under way. Dugas faces the death penalty if convicted on charges he killed 2-year-old Jason Phillips.

The child, along with his grandparents, Bishop and Ester Phillips of Winnie, and his parents, Elmer and Martha Phillips of Woodward, Okla., was shot to death.

A massive search was launched after surviving family members reported the family missing from the elder couple's blood-spattered home. Dugas, once married to Mary Phillips, the daughter of Bishop and Ester Phillips, was arrested July 7, 1978 and charged with kidnapping.

Two days later, authorities recovered the bodies.

Linda May Burnett — convicted at Beaumont earlier this year in the slaying of the child and sentenced to death by lethal injection — was arrested on July 10 and charged with capital murder.

"The way it worked out if they hadn't filed the motion for the change of venue, it would have had to be filed after the Burnett trial," said District Attorney James McGath, who has said it would have been impossible to try both defendants in Jefferson County.

Is Jim Wright standing in wings for O'Neill?

By JIM DAVIS
Harris-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Democratic dignitaries will gather in Fort Worth Saturday to honor Jim Wright's 25 years in Congress, but their presence is more a tribute to Wright's future than to his past.

On Dec. 3, 1976, that future brightened considerably when Democratic House members elected Wright as Majority Leader.

He won by only one vote, but in the status quo-oriented Congress, that was enough to assure Wright's place in the House leadership.

House leaders almost never are ousted, and Majority Leaders almost always move up to Speaker of the House. That top spot appears especially likely for Wright, assuming the Democrats keep control of the House.

Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill of Massachusetts will be 70 years old in 1982. The Washington speculation-and-rumor mill says he is thinking of stepping down at that time.

Even if O'Neill decides to hold on a few more years, Wright, at age 56, probably can afford to wait.

Voters in the Fort Worth-centered 12th Congressional District could turn him out of office any even-numbered year, of course. They rejected a longtime incumbent in favor of Wright 25 years ago.

But a speakership for Wright could be both prestigious and lucrative for the Fort Worth area, and it is unlikely 12th District voters would do anything to block it. The speakership is an extremely powerful position if the holder is an effective leader. Most Washington politicians give Wright high marks on leadership and political savvy.

One probable handicap Wright's speakership ambitions is his Texas origin. Some congressmen believe Texans have exerted too much influence in Washington over the years. But Wright fought that battle three years ago in becoming Majority Leader and may have licked it for good.

If he becomes Speaker, Wright would be the third Texan to do so. John Nance Garner served one two-year term before becoming vice president under Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Sam Rayburn held power in the House for 21 years until his death in 1961.

Several Texans who hold prominent positions in Washington today will be in Fort Worth Saturday to honor Wright.

These include Ambassador-at-large Robert S. Strauss, Labor Secretary Ray Marshall, Energy Secretary Charles W. Duncan Jr. and special presidential advisor Sara Weddington.

Also present will be House Majority Whip John Brademas of Indiana and Deputy Whip Dan Rostenkowski of Illinois, who are waiting in line right behind Wright in the House Democratic power structure.

'Doc' posts $50,000 bail

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee's former prison medical director, accused of using the name and credentials of a retired Navy doctor to gain the job 14 months ago, has been released on $50,000 bail.

George E. Allen, posted the bail through a bondsman.

Using bathroom on wrong floor costs job of exec

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A former Texas Department of Community Affairs administrator says he was fired because he used the bathroom on the wrong floor. Frank Curtis filed suit Thursday in state district court asking the court to force the agency to reinstate him or pay damages he has suffered as a result of his July termination.

Curtis charged that agency executive director Omar Harvey and a deputy terminated him because they were upset about his use of the fourth-floor men's room. Curtis worked on the third floor.

Curtis' attorney, Mark Perlmutter, said his client had a medical problem that required medication requiring frequent trips to the bathroom. Curtis found the fourth floor rest room "more comfortable," his attorney said.

To oldsters who work

Government is helpful

By LOUISE COOK

Associated Press Writer

Unable to make ends meet and unwilling to stop working, a growing number of older Americans are turning back to the workplace and the government is trying to help them find jobs.

A recently updated fact sheet from the federal Administration on Aging in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare lists more than a dozen government programs with opportunities for the elderly.

Here are some highlights: FOSTER GRANDPARENT PROGRAM

Foster Grandparents are low income men and women, 60 and over, who are in good health and can provide love and attention to physically, emotionally and mentally handicapped children. They generally serve four hours a day, five days a week. Volunteers get a stipend of $36 a week, plus a transportation allowance and accident and liability insurance. For information contact: Foster Grandparent Program, 806 Connecticut Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20525.

RETIREMENT SENIOR VOLUNTEER PROGRAM

The RSVP program encourages retired and semi-retired men and women to serve at Volunteer Stations in community agencies like courts, schools, libraries, scout offices and day-care centers. Participants are reimbursed for transportation, meals and other expenses associated with their assignments. For information, write: Action-RSPV, 806 Connecticut Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C., 20525.

SCORE

The Service Corps of Retired Executives is a volunteer program run by the Small Business Administration. It links retired businessmen and women with management expertise with the owners or managers of small businesses and community organizations who need advice. Volunteers may be reimbursed for out-of-pocket expenses. For information, contact: SCORE, Small Business Administration, 1441 L St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20416.

SENIOR COMMUNITY SERVICE EMPLOYMENT PROGRAM

Run by the Department of Labor, the Senior Community Service Employment Program employs economically disadvantaged older people in part-time community service jobs.

New state bank hearing called

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Application has been made for a new state bank in Pleasanton, Atascosa County, the State Department of Banking said Friday.

The bank, to be known as the State Bank of Pleasanton, would have capital of $600,000, surplus of $150,000 and reserves of $150,000.

Prosecutors rest case

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Defense attorneys say they are "not conceding anything" in the capital murder trial of Randy Lynn Woolls, accused of beating, stabbing and burning a Kerrville woman to death.

Prosecutors rested their case Saturday after a Bexar County medical examiner testified the gruesome injuries inflicted on Betty Stotts, 43, could have been caused by the tire tool and pocket knife found in Woolls' possession.

Dr. Ruben Santos of San Antonio also testified that Mrs. Stotts died of a massive fracture to the head, three slash wounds to the throat, burns over 30 percent of her body and carbon monoxide poisoning from inhaling smoke.

However, defense attorney Richard Mosty said "there are some holes" in the state case that he indicated the defense would concentrate on.

Woolls could receive the death penalty if convicted on charges he killed the Kerrville drive-in theater ticket taker last June 16.

The trial was moved to San Angelo on a change of venue.
