Art Festival on June 20-July 1 To Include Other Gala Events

First steps toward making the annual Rockport art festival a more inclusive community-wide event are being taken this year when civic organizations other than the sponsoring Rockport Art Association will participate in the show which is scheduled for Saturday, June 30, and Sunday, July 1, in the park area south of the municipal ski basin.

The Rockport Chamber of Commerce and the Rockport-Fulton Tourist Association will participate this year, as well as the Women's Guild of St. Peter's Episcopal Church. The Chamber's participation is in charge of its Business Planning and Development Committee of which Frank Langham is chairman.

Bill Janeczek, Chamber of Commerce president, said: "The art association's annual festival has been a tremendous asset to our community. Also, it has great potential for uniting the entire community in a cooperative effort to promote the general welfare of this area."

"With this in mind, the Chamber and the tourist association are trying to help the art association broaden the scope of this year's festival," he added. The Chamber and tourist association will sponsor a sausage supper followed by a street dance adjacent to the festival grounds Saturday night,

June 30. They will also operate a children's activity area both days of the art show, as well as sell popcorn and snow cones to supplement sandwiches, beer and other beverages to be sold at the art show concessions tent.

Substantial gifts of cash, merchandise and services already have been solicited from local merchants and other individuals by the Chamber of Commerce to help meet expenses of the show.

Guided tours of historic Rockport homes will be conducted at 2 p.m. and 5 p.m. both days of the festival by the Episcopal Church group. Homes to be visited are the century-old Mathis residence next to the post office and the Bruhl and Hoopes homes on Broadway. In addition, the guild will conduct a drawing for a watercolor of a group of whooping cranes contributed by Dr. Elenor Valentine, local artist. The women will have a table near the reception tent at the festival where tickets will be sold.

Polish sausage sandwiches made from the widely-known product of Poth, Texas, along with beer and soft drinks will be sold during the Saturday night dance. Johnny McBee's dance band of Bishop will provide music.

The children's activity program will include rock, body and finger painting under supervision. It was pointed out that this project is not planned as a baby sitting operation but something to permit children to participate in activities related to the art festival while their parents are looking at the art displays. A small charge will be made for each activity in which a child participates. Children will carry home whatever they produce.

"It is our hope that in the future the annual art festival can be expanded to three or four days—perhaps as much as a week," Janeczek said. "Possible events that could be added to an extended art festival might include a rodeo, fishing tournament, skiing exhibition, tennis tournament and sailing regatta," he added.

"We are delighted with the wonderful cooperation we are getting from these civic organizations. I know it will add substantially to the success of the art festival this year and in the years ahead," Steve Russell, art association president, said.

Sheriff's Dept. Seek Burglars

The investigation of an attempted burglary in which Deputy Sheriff Joe Williams was subsequently shot at and grazed by the burglars is still underway. The investigation was temporarily slowed when Deputy Williams underwent chest surgery and was unable to work on the case for a few days.

The case has been pursued diligently by all members of the Sheriff's Dept. and Texas Ranger Jim Peters. Williams reports that possible suspects have been traced to an East Texas city and a trip there may be necessary in the near future.

The case began May 22 when Deputy Williams discovered two men breaking into a house in Lamar. A gun battle resulted in which Deputy Williams was grazed by what appears to be a 38 caliber bullet. One slug was recovered from the driver's door of the patrol car, and preliminary lab tests showed it to probably be a 38.

BANK BUILDING SLAB POURED

First major step in construction of First National Bank's new building was completed Tuesday when the 10,000-square foot reinforced concrete slab was poured.

After several weeks spent on site preparation and foundations, First National Bank's $600,000 new building project on a one-block tract bounded by Austin, Wood and Laurel Streets and State Highway 35 is beginning to make itself visible above ground.

The 10,000 square-foot concrete and steel slab was poured this week after heavy reinforcing steel had been installed for supporting cross beams and for the slab itself. All water, sewage and electric connections were in place when the slab was installed.

Most massive section of the slab is that area on which the bank's vaults will be built.

Here there is more than a foot and a half of solid concrete reinforced with three layers of cross-hatched, three quarter inch steel bars laid so close together that it would be impossible to insert one's hand between the bars, even if they were not imbedded in concrete. The four walls and roof of the vault will be of the same construction.

The new bank building will be one of the largest and most massive privately owned structures ever built in this area. Completion is scheduled for early next year with A&A Construction Co., of Victoria in charge. Syl Cunningham, dis-

Mini Shopping Center Under Construction

A mini shopping center to be known as 35 North is under construction on State Highway 35 just north of Rockport's city limits and adjacent to the recently opened Fulrock animal clinic.

The shopping center will include five stores or offices which will be housed in a 2,784 square-foot masonry building. Completion of the 34 by 82-foot building is scheduled for 60 days. The property is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Raulie Irwin, husband and wife realtor team. They report that three of the five store rooms already have been leased.

The building will be of reinforced concrete blocks with a stucco exterior finish. The interior will be of dry wall construction with some paneling. Ceilings will be of acoustical tile, and the roof will be gravel covered built-up construction.

The Irwins also are nearing completion of the last unit of their Palm Harbor residential development south of Rockport. A newly dredged 75-foot wide channel 600 feet in length will add 21 waterfront building lots to the development's Unit No. 2. There are 33 lots in the old section.

The new section includes seven lots with built-in boat slips. Ground level of the lots is eight feet above mean high tide, and the channel is 7 feet deep, according to Irwin. Palm Harbor now has 75 residences, more than half of which are lived in full time, he said.

Riding Association Play Day June 23

The Aransas County Riding Association will have a Jackpot Playday at the arena in Fulton June 23 at 7:00 p.m. Everyone is invited and events will be 50¢. Events will include all types of races, poles, barrels, and any suggestions contestants have.

Roping events will be priced according to calf expenses. Bring the family and let the kids join in the fun—old folks as well—it's a family night whether you own a horse or not—there will be something for everyone.

A.A.R.P. Chapter Organized Here

A meeting was held June 15 for the purpose of organizing a Local Chapter of American Association of Retired Persons at Rockport.

The meeting of July 9th, 4 p.m. will be as scheduled. Mrs. Ruth Langham, president of the Concerned Women of Rockport, will deliver a message of importance followed by a social.

A box lunch will be held at noon at the Lion's barbecue pit at the Turning Basin. Sponsors, room mothers and children are invited to attend. Saturday evening at 7:30 p.m. a dinner will be held at Key Allegro.

Local Highways To Be Seal Coated

Representatives of the Highway Department, the Highway Patrol, and P.S.&F. Construction Company of San Antonio held a preconstruction meeting for the 1973 District 16 Seal Coat Program at the Resident Engineer's office in Karnes City on June 7th. The contractor's work plans and various safety subjects were discussed.

The contract calls for seal coating 266.1 miles of highways in the ten county district at a cost of approximately $700,000.

The contractor plans to begin seal coating in Goliad County about July 1st and proceed through Refugio, Bee, San Patricio, Aransas, Nueces, Kleberg, Jim Wells, Live Oak and Karnes Counties. The work should be completed before September 1st.

Highways to be seal coated in Aransas County are sections of State Highway 35 and F. M. Highway 1069 for a total of 5.6 miles.

The travelling public is urged to obey warning signs and directions of flagmen in the work area, and to drive carefully on the freshly sealed areas to reduce windshield damage from loose aggregate.

Beware of Poisonous Snakes

The Sheriff's Department reports that a large number of cottonmouth water moccasins have been killed in the Rockport area in the last few days. Two persons were bitten on June 18 within 30 minutes of each other. Both persons were taken to Lyman-Roberts hospital in Aransas Pass for emergency treatment.

It is advised that persons that are walking in brush areas or near small lakes and ponds be extremely cautious as the hot weather and extensive rain has managed to run the snakes out of their hiding places.

This normally takes place about this time of every year, and is certainly no major threat but should be considered by anyone walking in such an area.

The name of Lucy Rivera, 11th grade, was inadvertently omitted from the High School Honor Roll last week.

Public Hearing for Highway 35 Relocation Set for June 28

The Texas Highway Department will conduct a public hearing at 10 a.m. on Thursday, June 28 in the VFW Hall for discussing the improvement of State Highway 35 from Gregory to the Copano Bay Causeway. The proposed highway project will bypass the cities of Aransas Pass, Rockport and the town of Fulton. The first 3/4 mile of the improvement which begins between SH 361 and US 181 will be constructed as a freeway, which will complete the proposed freeway facility from Portland through Gregory. The remainder of the proposed route improvement will be a 4 lane divided highway to the Copano Bay Causeway with grade separations at the major intersections.

As a result of comments received at the Route Public Hearing which was held on March 14, 1972, the proposed route alignment to be shown at this Public Hearing differs in two locations from the alignment shown at the Route Public Hearing.

One area of revised alignment is from approximately three miles West of Aransas Pass where the new location of SH 35 leaves existing SH 35, to a point on Avenue A. The other area of revised alignment is to the West and North of the Aransas County Airport. The width of additional right-of-way required for construction varies from 80 feet, where the proposed improvement parallels existing SH 35, to a maximum of 400 feet where the route is on new location. A few relocations of residences and businesses will be necessary.

Maps and other drawings showing the proposed geometric design will be displayed at the public hearing. These maps, environmental studies and any other available information about the proposed project are on file and available for inspection and copying at the Resident Engineer's Office at Padre Island Drive and Greenwood, Corpus Christi. Also, the drawings showing the proposed geometric design have been placed on file with the County Judges of San Patricio and Aransas Counties and at the City Halls of Gregory, Aransas Pass, and Rockport.

The State's Relocation Assistance Program, the benefits and services for displacees and information concerning the relocation assistance office will be discussed.

Tentative schedules for right-of-way acquisition and construction will be discussed. All interested citizens are invited to attend this public hearing. Written statements and other exhibits may be submitted to the Resident Engineer's Office, but must be received not later than 10 days after the public hearing.

Deputies Investigate Shooting Incident

On June 10 Deputies Daniel Vargas and Mike Swearingen investigated a shooting that had taken place outside a tavern in Bayside. Thomas Garcia, age 20 of Refugio, was shot once in the chest with a 357 magnum handgun. The incident occurred after Garcia and Carlos Hernandez Jr., age 31 of Bayside, had engaged in an argument.

Witnesses stated to investigating officers that Garcia and Hernandez went outside the lounge when Hernandez produced the pistol and fired once hitting Garcia. Garcia was admitted to Taft Hospital in good condition. Hernandez was placed in Aransas County Jail on charges of assault with intent to murder.

The case later came under the investigation of agents from the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission, due to it occurring in a place of business that sells alcoholic beverage.

Absentee balloting will commence on June 25 and end on July 10 at the County Clerk's office in the Courthouse.

Commissioners Court Holds Meeting

On June 15 there was a regular meeting of the Commissioners Court with the following members present: John D. Wendell, County Judge; Eerie Eller, Commissioner Precinct No. 1; Wanda Sparks, Commissioner Precinct No. 2; Raymond Owens, Commissioner Precinct No. 3; Chas. Hale, Commissioner Precinct No. 4 and Ruby Hart, County Clerk.

George Henson met with the Court in regard to closing a street in the Manning Addition. After due consideration and hearing of objection of closing street it was voted that petition be denied.

The court discussed F. F. Kelly's proposal to construct and operate a central transfer facility for the disposal of waste for the citizens of Aransas County. The Court was not in favor of the $1,000 minimum fee. It was voted that 25¢ minimum be placed in contract or reject same.

The Court discussed the airport contract and requested the County Attorney to call Chas. Schindler, manager, and try to buy the remainder of the contract.

New Art School Will Open Here

A new art school will open this summer at 408 S. Austin Street in what was once the old Sorenson's Hardware Building.

A youth program is planned for the initial phase consisting of studies in painting, sculpture and the exploration of the creative process in each individual enrolled.

These classes are scheduled to run from July 11 through Aug. 18, with two workshop periods for each class. Youths from nine years and older are eligible to enroll.

The second phase, starting after Labor Day, will include many classes for adults.

The school will be staffed by Irvin and Betsy Tuttle, who moved here recently from Dallas. Both have extensive experience in creative art and as teaching artists and have been the recipients of numerous honors and awards in the field of art.

For information concerning summer enrollment in the youth program, please contact Estelle Stair at the Rockport Art Association (729-2478) or Mr. Tuttle after 5 p.m. at 729-7693.

Tour of Historic Homes Planned In Connection With Art Festival

By Bob Barclay

The thousands of visitors who pour into Rockport for the nationally-famous Annual Rockport Art Festival on June 30 and July 1 will be given an extra treat this year, according to the Rev. Lester Hill, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church.

Under the sponsorship of the church, three of the oldest and most gracious homes in Rockport--The Bruhl House, The Hoopes House, and The Mathis House -- will be open to the public for conducted tours from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on both Saturday and Sunday, June 30 and July 1, Father Hill disclosed.

Two of the history-laden homes are directly across the street from the site of the Rockport Art Festival, which will be open from 12 noon to 8 p.m. each of the two days on the spacious park area at the south end of the ski-basin adjacent to downtown Rockport.

The third house is The Mathis House, which is not quite within walking distance from the Art Festival grounds, but is on "downtown 35" next door to the Rockport Post Office.

While there will be no admission charge to the Art Festival, where the works of scores of artists from several states will be on display, and for sale, there will be an admission charge of $1.50 per person for a ticket to wander through the three historic homes, each of which contains antique furniture and other objects reaching back into the early history of the Republic of Texas.

The two historic homes directly across from the site of the Art Festival are the Hoopes House, the stately three-story yellow mansion with white trim located where Highway 35 "splits" at the north end of downtown Rockport, and the Bruhl House, just next door, between the Hoopes House and Rockport City Hall.

When this reporter was given a personally-conducted tour of the Bruhl House by its present occupant, Mrs. Gladys Gibson, daughter of Albert L. Bruhl, he found it impossible to think of it as a "house" because it is so much of a "home."

"This house was built in 1868 by a Judge Moses, about whom we know very little," the charming Mrs. Gibson (please call me "Gladys") said, "but it was bought from Judge Moses by my grandfather, James C. Fulton, who was a son of Col. George W. Fulton, who had taken three years to build the famous Fulton Mansion."

When James Fulton decided to move to Corpus Christi, nearly 40 miles to the south, he sold the home to his son-in-law, Albert L. Bruhl, who moved to Rockport in 1891 from Waco. His wife was the former Miss Hattie Fulton, granddaughter of Co. Fulton.

Albert Bruhl was the son of Louis H. Bruhl, later to be appointed U.S. Consul to Italy, and father and son opened the Bruhl Drug Store in 1891 when the son was only 19 years old and the youngest man, at that time, to receive a pharmacist certificate in Texas. Albert Bruhl maintained the drug store for 55 years, until his retirement in 1946, his daughter proudly points out.

The cypress lumber used to build the Bruhl House, as well as the square nails used in its construction, came down the Mississippi River by barge to New Orleans and then across the Gulf of Mexico by sailing vessel to be unloaded at Rockport, which was a very busy hide and beef shipping port at the time. The original construction, as well as the square nails, are still there.

To describe, room by room, this 10-room home, as this reporter saw it, might take away some of the excitement and drama awaiting those who will have the opportunity to see it, and go through it, during the Rockport Art Festival this year.

However, there is one "hint" -- after you enter the front door and go into the Music Room, on your right, you will then pass into the Living Room, with fireplace, and beyond that, into the Dining Room. Now, look to your right and you will see something that will almost take your breath away. It is a semi-circular, many-drawered, buffet which was hand-built by the famous cabinet maker Thomas Seymour in 1790.

But, don't stop there. As you begin to leave this room to go into the kitchen, look at the Dining Room wall on your left and you will see as assortment of priceless Texas Campaign Plates, which were hand-decorated and kiln-dried during the early years of Texas' fight for independence.

One final note--If you are so fortunate as to have Gladys as your tour hostess when you visit the Bruhl "home" ask her about the button which became the first Seal of the Great State of Texas.

Mrs. Nancy Murphy of Corpus Christi, who is handling the publication of the brochures, has enlisted the help of two other ladies in contacting individuals she has been unable to reach as yet for their advertising material.

Mrs. Murphy also wants to remind those who have been contacted, and have not turned in their ad copy, to either mail to her office, or bring to the Chamber.

Library News

Many new books have been added to the Aransas County Public Library. The Library is located on the northwest corner of Courthouse Square, corner of Mimosa and North Church Streets. The Library is open Monday through Friday from noon until 6 p.m.

Children may still register for the summer reading program. The program has met with enthusiastic approval inasmuch as 1298 juvenile books have circulated during the first two weeks of the program.

A large number of juvenile books were donated by Tod and David Eschberger. Other book donations were made by Mrs. Fred Whittle, Mrs. C. M. Wright, Mrs. Paul Sorenson, Mrs. Phillip Baldwin, Mrs. Ester Decker, Buck Morningstar and J.F. Novosad. The Library appreciates these contributions.

The Library extends its thanks to Mrs. Roger Bennett who entertained the children with songs and stories during the Story Hour, Thursday, June 14th. There were 14 children and 3 adults in attendance.

trict construction superintendent for A&A, is resident supervisor for the bank project. With the exception of a few foremen and special technicians, all workmen on the project are from this area.

According to Cunningham, accuracy in building the foundations and pouring the slab are of greatest importance in large construction projects such as the bank building.

Coast Materials, Inc., of Rockport and Aransas Pass supplied concrete for foundations and for the slab. The slab alone required approximately 200 cubic yards of concrete, hauled to the site in some 30 mixer truck loads. Also, for the foundation and slab more than 15 tons of reinforcing steel was used, with another 40 tons or so of structural steel to be used in the building itself, according to Cunningham.

Concrete hauled to the site was distributed to the slab by a crane swinging dump buckets with a one-cubic yard capacity. The wet concrete was then spread more evenly by hand to conform in height with the top of scores of stakes set by a surveyor to insure accurate thickness and a level surface.

The concrete was worked with mechanical vibrators to settle it into all corners and crevices, eliminating possible air spaces between the aggregate of rock in the mixture. So-called "jitter buggers" were then used to further consolidate and firm up the mixture. Finally, mechanical troweling devices with large blades rotating like a fan were used to insure a smooth surface, supplemented by hand troweling around outlets and corners.

Contrary to common belief, this process of spreading, leveling and conditioning concrete is a highly technical process, one which requires long experience, Cunningham said. The concrete will be cured by use of water to prevent too rapid drying, he added.

Six Tigers

America is not the native habitat of the Bengal or Indian tiger but it can now claim to be the country where they thrive best. This summer at the Topeka zoo a prized Bengal tiger gave birth to six cubs, all doing well.

Moreover, she had given birth to five cubs in 1971 and five in 1970. The director of the zoo recently reminded a newspaper of these achievements, the paper having carried a story from another zoo claiming the birth of five cubs there a "first."

Director Gary Clarke added that the male had been introduced to his offsprings and mate shortly after birth and that all eight tigers were now thriving happily together. That's probably better than many fathers could do in the same situation.

Local Students In Choral

SAN MARCOS --- Rockport residents are among the 47 Southwest Texas State University Choral members who will tour Switzerland with a prominent Swiss chamber orchestra this summer.

The local students include

Ken LeBlanc, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard LeBlanc of P.O. Box 1147. He is a senior commercial art major; Ann Kleypas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon J. Kleypas of 2002 Glass Ave. Ann is a junior elementary education major. Both attended and graduated from Rockport-Fulton High School.

The Choral, director Carol Smith and six other sponsors will begin their trip at Austin's Municipal Airport Thursday, July 19, when they board a flight for Dallas. After switching planes in Dallas, they will leave on a flight for Chicago.

At Chicago, they will board a KLM 612Y plane for Amsterdam. The night flight is scheduled to arrive in that city, Friday, July 20, in time to catch a KLM flight to Zurich, from where they will travel by bus to St. Gallen.

Their rehearsals with the Otschweizer Kammerorchester will begin July 21, with the first concert scheduled for Rieden on July 25.

From that point, the vocalists from Texas and the Swiss orchestra will be following a full rehearsal-performance schedule until the tour ends on Aug. 21, and the Southwest Texans' whirlwind tour of other points in Europe begins.

Among the cities on their itinerary for the junket through other points in Europe are stops in Paris, London, and Amsterdam, where on Tuesday, Aug. 28, they will board a flight bound for Houston and the final leg of their journey. If all goes on schedule they should arrive at San Antonio's International Airport at 9:45 p.m.

Little Stogies

A study of the effects of sucking little cigars by three specialists at Central Middlesex Hospital in England shows that smokers who switch from cigarettes to these little fellows are increasing the danger to their health--if they continue to inhale.

The damage is done by the high level of carbon monoxide produced in the blood, which impairs the blood's ability to carry oxygen to the body's tissues. The little cigars are also said to contain more potent cancer-causing substances than cigarettes.

Thus the glamorous (and stupid) television commercials about cowboys or other moonstruck young men and women staring romantically at each other while sucking little cigars are for the birds --and undertakers and cigar manufacturers, not you.

Speaker Says Govt. Too Tough On Auto Emissions

What's ahead for the automotive industry in view of gasoline shortages and anti-pollution pressure was discussed by Tom Goad, Corpus Christi Cadillac dealer, at a luncheon meeting of Rotary Club June 12 at Corky's restaurant.

He said the gasoline situation is too confused at the moment to make a prediction. However, he asserted that recent reports in the press indicate that while gasoline inventories are 6.59 per cent less than a year ago, production is 12 per cent ahead of last year.

He believes our large oil shale deposits offer real promise for the future, pointing out that these deposits are 400 times greater than known oil reserves in the middle east. However, he admitted that much research is needed to develop an economical method of extracting oil from shale.

As to the ecology problem, Goad believes the federal government is attempting to go too fast and that under present circumstances enforcement of proposed standards on automobile engine emission will result in greater gasoline consumption and less efficient performance.

He asserted that automobile owners would encounter more difficult starting, less mileage and higher upkeep costs. Also, he said a relatively small part of the country really needs automobile emission control. He admitted that we do need some regulations for this problem, but says they should be practicable.

Reviewing various suggested substitutes for the standard internal combustion engine, he said a diesel-powered machine had some advantages over gasoline, but the power plant is much heavier and is more desirable for trucks and busses than for passenger automobiles. As to electric power, he believes it is still rather far in the future and its success depends on how successful engineers are in developing a lighter and less bulky storage system. He added that batteries have changed little in the past 50 years.

He believes that gas turbine engines are best adapted to trucks and busses. Steam power plants offer good possibilities for automobiles and are under continuing development. Conversion of steam back to water is one of the problems, he said.

One promising development with the internal combustion engine is what is termed a stratified charge system in which a very lean mixture of gasoline and air is ignited by the explosion of a rich mixture in an adjacent chamber.

Goad believes the rotary motor such as introduced in this country by the Japanese Mazda automobile offers the greatest promise because of its simpler design with fewer moving parts and lighter weight. He reported General Motors will introduce a rotary powered automobile next year.

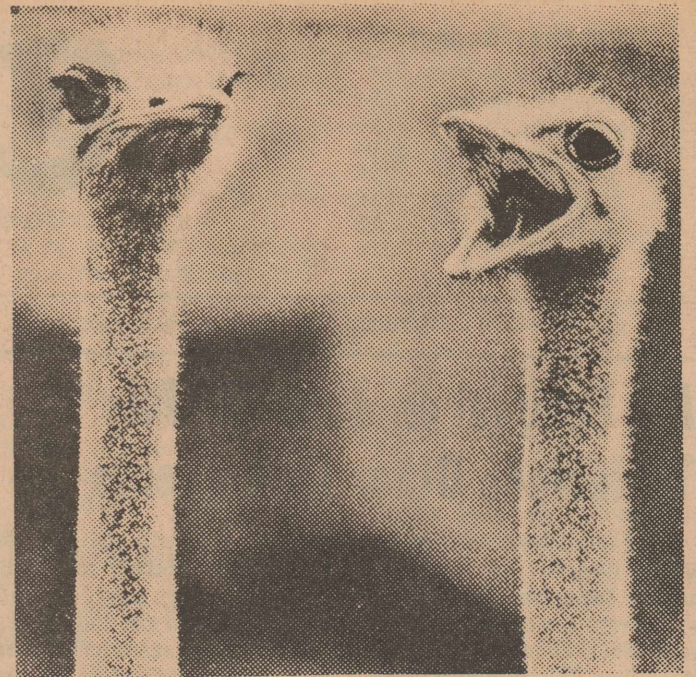

Goad discussed federal regulations on automobile safety devices. He said that while these devices save lives it is most difficult to make them effective because so many motorists refuse to use them. Later this year an interlocking waist and shoulder safety belt will be introduced. This requires that the belt be buckled before the engine can be started. It was his opinion that the safety air bag has not been sufficiently tested to determine its effectiveness.

In conclusion, Goad said despite problems and difficulties, the automobile industry is enjoying its highest sales in history.

Smoked Fish—A Backyard Gourmet's Delight

AUSTIN -- One of the great things about smoking fish is that you don't have to inhale them to enjoy them.

However, warns Miss Cindy Grey, seafood home economist for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, smoked fish can be habit-forming if your tastebuds are sensitive to gourmet foods.

For those who want to risk getting hooked, a poster, entitled "Where There's Fire There's Smoke," is available free from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas 78701. The poster gives the proper procedure for smoking fish on your hooded gas, electric or charcoal grill.

It's important, according to Miss Grey, to keep the heat low when you are smoking fish. This can be done by using just a few briquets and raising your grill to the highest setting away from the coals.

To remove moisture from the fish flesh and to add a salty flavor, fish should be soaked in a brine solution of one gallon of water plus one cup of salt for thirty minutes to an hour.

Hickory chips soaked in water and spread over the red-hot coals provide the smoke, and soaking prevents the chips from burning too fast.

While the coals are forming, you can prepare the fish. Remove it from the brine, drain and dry it. Baste the fish with cooking oil, then place it on a well-greased grill. Be sure to close the hood to keep the smoke in. The fish should be basted occasionally with oil while it is smoking and the fire should be kept low by adding plenty of wet chips as needed.

When the fish flakes easily with a fork (about 45 to 90 minutes), it is ready to serve with thick sliced bread, corn on the cob, a green salad and bowls of cool, creamy sherbert.

The dignified decorum of a courtroom was broken at Wilson, N.C., by a woman's shrill voice. Deputies found a foot-long snake attending the legal hearings.

Presbyterians Honor Ollie Schleider

Twenty years of mops and brooms, coffee pots and carpets may seem to some like so much work! Yet, there are some in the First Presbyterian Church for whom those things represent a special person: Ollie Schleider.

Ollie, who has invested twenty years of his life in the local Presbyterian Church as custodian, retired on May 11 and was the honored guest at a recognition supper June 13 in the church's fellowship hall.

In recognition of his dedicated service, reliability, and presence, the congregation presented Schleider with a retirement gift in the form of a money tree.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

National Institute of Mental Health

HOW TO READ

Children with reading difficulties stand to profit by information from a language study now underway at the University of Pennsylvania with aid from the National Institute of Mental Health of HEW's Health Services and Mental Health Administration.

The study plans to improve and expand a syllabary how-to-read method of teaching youngsters as an aid to more advanced reading.

The syllabary method uses the syllable as the basic language unit rather than the usual method of breaking down the sound and structure of words into letter-by-letter components.

In a reading primer based on the syllabary approach, some syllables may be represented as pictures. For example, a drawing of a bumblebee may indicate cate "be," as in the first syllable of "before." Thus, the relation between sound and meaning is obvious to the child.

Combinations of pictures and simple written syllables are planned to construct stories. "Reading" of these materials can be accomplished almost immediately, satisfying the child and motivating him to further reading development.

When a child is competent in the syllabic method of reading, he is taught that the alphabetic unit is a more efficient means of word production than is an increasingly large number of memorized syllables and pictures.

The scientists also plan to investigate several related areas of language acquisition by children. They will compare, for example, the manner in which parents speak to their own children with the manner adults in general use in speaking to young children.

To stir up controversy and bring out a lot of misinformation as fact, all you have to do is start a discussion about deer antlers.

Most people will tell you that a deer's first antlers are always spikes and that the older he gets the bigger the antlers will be and the more points they will have. This is not necessarily true. I know that a great many deer do grow only spikes for their first antlers, but this is because at some time in his young life he has been getting less food than he needs, or poor quality food, or he comes from inferior stock. Either there was a shortage in his milk supply or food was a little scarce at the time he was being weaned, or both. Studies with captive deer whose diet could be carefully controlled have produced some amazing results. When a young buck had all the milk he needed then was fed all the food he would eat containing all the necessary vitamins and minerals he needed plus at least 19 percent protein, he almost always grew a small 8-point rack of antlers. If he continued to be fed in this way he would reach maximum antler and body development at five years of age. His antlers were massive, wide-spread, and beautifully regular. They usually had ten points but eight were not unusual. Of course, the food had to have all the essential vitamins and minerals and the necessary roughage, but the 19 percent protein was found to be an absolute must.

Of course, everyone knows that bucks shed their antlers every year, although there are many who question this and don't understand how he can grow such a large rack in such a short time. How, if a buck had this perfect feed for three years then was cut to a starvation diet that would just keep him alive through the spring and summer, and this can happen in Texas at any given time, he might grow only spikes for his fourth set of antlers, or he might grow no antlers at all. Feed might then become plentiful during the late summer and early fall so that by the time hunting time rolled around he would be in good shape. If lots of acorns became available it's quite possible that he would be rolling fat, but this would not make him a trophy buck by any means. I have seen a fat three-year-old buck with little round, white domes about the size of a nickel and about a quarter of an inch high for antlers. They couldn't even be seen above the hair and he was killed for a doe.

COUNTY PURCHASES TRUCKS — Aransas County recently purchased these three Ford diesel trucks from Commercial Motor Company in Aransas Pass. They are F-600D two-ton dump trucks with six cubic yard capacity.

If a fawn is stunted by lack of proper food while he is growing—he'll remain stunted to some degree all his life and never attain his full potential either in antler or body development. This, coupled with the fact that our hill country deer average about 30 months of age when they're killed, explains why Texas hill country bucks are usually quite small 4-or 5 pointers.

You can have big trophy bucks or you can have enough deer so that anyone can kill a deer whether he knows anything about deer hunting or not but there is no way you can have both.

EARNINGS AND SOCIAL SECURITY — Chart shows how earnings over $2,100 will affect social security retirement and survivors payments this year. To find your approximate benefit for 1973, select figure in far-left column that's closest to your family's monthly social security benefit, then read across to amount under shaded block figure that's closest to your expected earnings for 1973. For example: if your monthly benefit is $200 and you expect to earn $3,000 for the year, your social security benefit for the year will be $1,950, a reduction of $450. You can be paid your full benefit if you earn $2,100 or less for the year. Over $2,100, benefits are reduced $1 for every $2 earned. No matter how much you earn for the year, you can be paid your full social security benefit for any month you earn $175 or less and don't do substantial work in self-employment.

ENGAGED — Mrs. Jack Sparks announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Miss Jacqueline Kay, to Eugene Kubelka, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Kubelka, Somerville, Texas. Petrified Forest

The Petrified Forest is part of Arizona's Painted Desert and has the world's largest known display of petrified wood. These trees were killed by fire, insects and fungus; then covered by mud, sand and volcanic ash containing silica. The wood became petrified by absorbing silica carried by ground water.

Treelike Grass

Bamboo is the common name for a type of treelike grass which has been known to reach heights of more than 100 feet. Some species of bamboo found in monsoon forests are known to have growth rates of three feet a day and to reach a height of 100 feet in about three months.

The Rockport Firemen's Auxiliary met June 12 for their regular business meeting.

The president, Ivaloe Hinze, called the meeting to order. Thirteen members answered roll call, and one new member, Mrs. Terry Roberts was welcomed.

The reports from the standing committees were: Evalon Redden, refreshment chairman, reported that Sarah Belle Smith and Frances Redden will furnish cakes for the Firemen's business meeting on July 5. Kathy Ratliff, program chairman, will present a guest speaker at the social meeting on June 26, Betty Boddie will furnish the treasure chest.

The special committee reports were: Katherine McLester, chairman, gave a report on the bake sale and thanked everyone for helping. Kathy Ratliff, dance chairman, gave a report on the dance and final plans were made.

The District Convention in July to be held in San Diego was discussed.

Members present were Terry Roberts, Sadie Smith, Sarah Belle Smith, Cleo Truelove, Joan Truelove, Gwynne Howland, Frances Redden, Kathy Ratliff, Katherine McLester, Mary Lee Frizzell, Evalon Redden, Ivaloe Hinze, Mona McNutt and Teet Mullinax.

EXPIRATION OF G.I. BILL EDUCATIONAL BENEFITS FOR SOME VETERANS

Although G.I. Bill education benefits for thousands of veterans of the early Vietnam Era will expire May 31, 1974, the Veterans Administration emphasized today the May 1974 expiration date does not affect G.I. Bill job or farm cooperative training, apprenticeship or flight training benefits for these veterans.

This clarification was made by A. A. Hunter, Director of the Houston Regional Office. He pointed out that most education benefits for those discharged prior to June 1, 1966, would expire on May 31, 1974, the eighth anniversary of the current G.I. Bill.

The 1966 law allows each veteran eight years to complete his training. The time is computed from the individual's date of discharge or from the date of the law, whichever is later.

Mr. Hunter explained that the original bill did not include flight, apprenticeship, on-the-job and farm-cooperative training, so eligibility for these benefits will not expire for Post Korean veterans until August 30, 1975, which is eight years after the date they were authorized by law.

The VA director noted that 1.4 million, or 33 percent, of 4.1 million veterans made eligible by the 1966 law have used all or part of their education benefits.

The current G.I. Bill provided eligibility to all veterans discharged since January 31, 1955, many of whom had been out of service several years before they became eligible, he pointed out.

The overall participation rate for Vietnam Era veterans is about 46 percent.

VA pays veterans (with no dependents) $220 monthly if they are full-time trainees, with higher rates for those with dependents. On-job trainees with no dependents are paid a starting allowance of $160 monthly—larger checks go to those with dependents. Employers also pay the veteran-trainee wages, which are increased on a regular schedule during the training period.

Veterans whose benefits may soon expire, or any eligible veteran interested in G.I. Bill benefits, are urged to contact any VA office or representatives of local veterans service organizations.

PREPARED BY THE PHILADELPHIA COLLEGE OF ART

ROUSSEAU — MASTER OF ENCHANTMENT

Shortly before Henri Rousseau died, a French critic wrote of him, "...I would like to have some of these pictures, not to hang them up on the wall, for they exercise a dangerous fascination, but to look at from time to time when we need to be reminded of sincerity." It is these qualities of fascination and sincerity which make Rousseau's paintings memorable.

He was self-taught, so his canvases, particularly the early ones, are amateurish. But everything he painted was so charming, simple and direct, that he is justly known as the most enchanting of the modern painters.

We have no details about his early life, the influences on his art, about his teachers, about his two marriages; we do not know the exact years he spent in Mexico, if indeed he spent any at all.

Rousseau's family were tradespeople who apparently stimulated in him an appreciation of music and the arts. When he was 18, he supposedly went to Mexico as a saxophonist with a regimental band, accompanying the French Army sent by Napoleon III to assist Emperor Maximilian. He worked as a law clerk for a while, but returned to the army, serving as a sergeant in the Franco-Prussian war.

In 1871, he became an inspector at a toll station outside Paris, a post he held until 1885.

In 1885, aged 40 and a widower, Rousseau retired on a small pension, remarried, and settled in a working-class section of Paris. Although he had no formal training, he was determined to become a professional painter. Having settled on this unlikely career, he condemned himself to a life of semi-poverty, but his tenacity was remarkable. He added to his meagre pension by performing small services — giving legal advice, working for a local newspaper, giving music and art lessons to his neighbors.

It was the custom for French artists to submit their paintings to juries for acceptance in large exhibitions. However, in 1884, a group of painters, rebelling against this exclusiveness, established an annual "Salon of Independents," with no juries and no prizes, open to everyone. This was fortunate for Henri Rousseau, since it is doubtful that his early works would otherwise ever have been seen. He took himself and his art seriously, but the rest of the world found it hilarious. When he exhibited his first piece in 1886, the public laughed and the critics were merciless.

There were some who did not laugh, who saw the subtleties beneath the coarseness of his work, and Rousseau began to attract serious admirers in the early 1890's; by 1895 he was quite well known.

He had been painting for perhaps a dozen years when he finally found his stride, developed his own personal language. His second wife died in 1897 and he lived on, alone, in a small studio, sleeping, eating, writing, teaching, and painting all in one room. About this time he began concentrating on creating the exotic jungle scenes which brought him, ultimately, fame, if not financial success.

1907 to 1910 was a wonderful period in his life. At 63, Rousseau was being idolized by the most advanced group of artists and writers in Paris; he was recognized and admired. He received his first large commission, for "The Snake Charmer," which now hangs in the Louvre.

His last years were saddened by an unhappy love affair and a lawsuit: in 1909 he was tricked by an unscrupulous former pupil into an attempted fraud connected with the Bank of France. He was convicted and sentenced to two years in prison but, because of his advanced years and "obvious innocence in worldly affairs," the sentence was remanded.

Rousseau died in 1910. Shortly after his death, the first U.S. exhibit of his work was held. Since that time, many paintings by Rousseau have been acquired for private and public collections. No country, not even his own, has responded so warmly as the United States to this sincere and unassuming artist.

Taylor, Appell Wed

Miss Carolyn Taylor became the bride of Raymond Glenn Appell on Saturday afternoon in the Episcopal Church at Aransas Pass. Rev. Robert C. Parker officiated at the double ring ceremony and was assisted by Mr. Harry Carter. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Noah Taylor, Rockport, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Faltesek, Taylor, Texas. Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a white street length jacket dress with a pleated skirt and carried a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses and white carnations.

The maid of honor was Miss Charlyne Taylor, sister of the bride, and best man was W.H. Taylor, Aransas Pass, uncle of the bride.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home. The table was laid with a white linen cut work cloth, centered with an arrangement of white carnations. Mrs. Deon Taylor, Houston, served the punch. Mrs. Joe Faltesek served the coffee and Miss Charlyne Taylor served the cake.

Carolyn is a graduate of Rockport-Fulton High School and was clerk and assistant bookkeeper at Aransas Butane Gas Co. Raymond is a graduate of Taylor High School and is employed by ABC Mfg. Co. as supervisor.

The couple will be at home in Cannon, Texas.

Whitewings Pouring Into Valley

EDINBURG -- Whitewing doves continue to stream back into the Texas Rio Grande Valley and already their numbers are close to the total breeding population of last year.

According to Parks and Wildlife Department biologist Phil Evans of Edinburg, there are now some 424,000 whitewings in the brush and citrus trees of the Valley.

"We expect another 60,000 to 100,000 birds before the flights are over for the summer," said Evans.

Last year, department censuses accounted for a total of 475,000 whitewings.

Evans attributes the large influx of doves to record reproduction last year.

"Each pair of nesting birds produced three young during last year's breeding season," said Evans. "Excellent rain in the valley in 1972 produced good food and nesting habitat."

Evans is not making any predictions for this year's reproduction because the rains have been less frequent than last year and sudden drought could cause the range conditions to rapidly deteriorate.

"Some of the birds have already produced the first fledglings," he said, "the first peak of production should come in mid-June with another peak forecast for July."

It takes 15 days to hatch a whitewing egg and another 15 days to fledge the young birds.

If there are no rains in the next three weeks, there could be less nesting than last year.

Evans is optimistic about September whitewing hunting.

He will reserve any final opinions about hunting forecasts until late August when his crews run their fall flight counts along the Rio Grande.

The problem of holding birds on this side of the river for Texas hunters could also be alleviated this year.

Grain shortages in the U.S. have prompted negotiations for additional Valley pasture land to be planted in grain sorghum this year.

The additional grain north of the river would make good feeding ground for hungry whitewings this fall.

Automatic Raises System Dooms Economy Efforts In Defense

By Edward H. Sims

WASHINGTON, D.C.--One of the costliest maneuvers bureaucrats and Congress ever put over on the American taxpayer was the automatic pay raise system for federal employees, in effect now several years.

The huge federal payroll automatically goes up along with inflation, which in itself creates an inflationary pressure, which then often leads to another pay raise! The argument Congress willingly accepted, with an eye on the bureaucratic army's vote one suspects, is that government pay, job security and other benefits are not enough, that government employees must be further protected and rewarded with automatic pay raises based on inflation.

The trouble with this immoral system is that it doesn't take into consideration the ability of the Treasury (the people) to pay; rather, it creates vastly higher expenditures regularly, without any action by the people's elected representatives, Senators and Congressmen, and without the consent of the taxpayer.

The idea won some support because there are Congressmen who still believe government service is a sacrifice. Nothing could be further from the truth. Lush government jobs are easier and pay more than most private industry jobs. A few huge corporations have equal or better employment terms but only a few. Most privately employed persons can be hired away from their firms instantly by any of thousands of Washington bureaucrats.

Discussing the cost of defense with the General Counsel of the Defense Department, Fred Buzhardt, recently, Buzhardt told the writer the Nixon Administration has made a major effort to reduce defense costs. "We've eliminated over two thousand reporting systems in a major effort to cut back and control things," he said.

"We've also had a freeze on the top job levels for some time, grades 16, 17, 18, etc. But there's the cost-of-living automatic raise," the General Counsel noted. Asked whether payroll costs were up or down, from four years ago, Buzhardt said they were up.

The Defense Department is only one of many federal departments and agencies. Congress having voted itself a fat fifty per cent pay hike a couple of years ago, members are not in a very strong position to deny the demands of federal jobholders wanting lesser pay hikes. And the taxpayer, as usual, foots the bill for both, unconsulted and largely powerless.

Life With the Rimples

Questions and Answers

Q. I will soon be sending in my first doctor bills for payment under Medicare. I sign all my checks and important papers with a short-ened form of my first name, but my Medicare card shows my full name. Does it make any difference how I write my name on my Request for Medicare Payment form?

A. Yes, you should write your name on the form exactly as it is shown on your Medicare card. This will help prevent delays in making payment to you.

Q. I'm 63, and I've worked part time ever since I was married over 30 years ago. My husband is only 62 and doesn't plan to retire until he's 65. Do I have to wait until he retires to get monthly social security payments?

A. Probably not. You can collect monthly checks now on your own earnings record if your work was covered by social security and you earned enough credits to qualify. You should get in touch with any social security office to apply.

Q. I'll be 72 in August. Although I signed up for Medicare when I was 65, I couldn't get any monthly retirement benefits because I was working and earning too much. However, after I'm 72, I understand I can keep right on working and still get my full benefits. Do I have to apply for these payments after my 72nd birthday?

A. No. Your payments will start automatically with the month of your 72nd birthday. Since you continued to work without getting benefits after 65, you can now qualify for special delayed retirement credits. These credits will increase your benefit amount 1 percent for each year (or ½ of 1 percent for each month) after 1970 that you worked and didn't collect monthly payments.

Q. My husband and I will both be retiring at the end of this year. Since I have always worked under social security, I'll be able to get a monthly social security retirement check. My husband, who works for the post office, will be getting a civil service annuity, and as his wife, I am also eligible for a check from the civil service. Can I collect both a social security payment and a wife's civil service payment?

A. Yes, if you are eligible for both payments, you can receive both.

Q. My father, who gets a small monthly social security check, is still working. He told me it takes a year for him to get his benefit rate increased because of his new yearly earnings. If this is true, isn't he losing some benefits?

A. No. Even though there is a delay in refiguring your father's benefit rate, he gets all the increase due him at one time. The refiguring of the rate is usually figured in the last 3 months of the year to take into consideration all social security earnings for the previous year, and any increase due is retroactive to January.

Q. In 1972 I didn't have enough medical bills under Medicare to file for payment. Now I have some bills, and my sister mentioned something about using my medical bills from October, November, and December of last year to count toward the deductible for this year. Is she right?

A. Yes. If you had medical expenses in the last 3 months of last year that could have counted toward your deductible for 1972, you can also use them to help meet this year's deductible. Be sure to send in all the bills for covered services you received in October, November, or December of 1972 with your bills for this year.

Q. I'm a homemaker. I've never worked outside my home except last summer when I worked in a friend's store. Could I get a refund of my social security contributions from that job?

A. No. Social security contributions cannot be refunded. But the work credits remain on your record; and, if you take another job, covered by social security, you'll continue to build your social security protection.

Q. I recently heard something about monthly social security payments for adults who have been severely disabled since childhood. I'm 25, but I was severely hurt in a car accident when I was 16 and I'm not able to work. Since my father is going to retire this year and get social security payments, will I be eligible for payments too?

A. You may be. Severely disabled adults who were disabled before 18 are eligible for monthly social security payments if a parent insured under social security retires, dies, or becomes severely disabled. Your father should ask about social security payments for you when he applies for his retirement benefits.

Roses may be handled

Lots of bass fishermen consider trolling as a lazyman's method of angling.

Well, I guess they are right. It's easy to troll, it's fun, you stir up enough breeze to keep cool and more often than not you catch fish (even with artificial bait).

But, the best luck we've had in trolling has been with live minnows and a minnow sock.

You may never have heard of a minnow sock. They are seldom seen in Texas. It's a Canadian invention, and very popular in the Provinces.

Anyway, I'm sure you've seen Japanese handcuffs, and a minnow sock works on the same principle. For those who don't know—the Japanese handcuff is simply a wicker tube with a criss-cross weave. Trick is to insert the middle finger of one hand into one end of the wicker tube and the middle finger on the other hand into the other end of the tube. And that's it.

You're handcuffed then and there, my friend, because it's impossible to get your fingers out. The harder you pull the tighter they fit. A handcuff without keys. How's that for cleverness?

The minnow sock is not made of wicker but of nylon fishing line. You slip the head and body of the minnow into the sock—leaving the tail free to wiggle. Outside the sock is a hook, positioned alongside the live minnow. You simply tie your fishing line to the eye of the hook, add enough lead weight to the line to keep the bait down to the preferred depth—and a trolling you go.

Don't let the fact that "socks" are not available keep you from trolling. There's an even lazier way to catch fish. Simply rig up your gear as you would for casting the plastic worm, drive your boat into the wind over some likely area, then drop your bait down to the bottom, cut off your motor and let the wind blow you over the hot spot. You'll find that float fishing with the plastic worm often works when nothing else will.

It's easier on the angler, easier on the boat, easier on the motor and easier on the purse. But it gets hot as Hades in the Summertime when the sun bears down.

However, the fish are cool. They're right down there on the bottom—away from that hot summer sun. So go after 'em!

Picasso Reflections

The recent death of Pablo Picasso was the occasion for another deluge of print and comment of the life and work of the artist. Undoubtedly he was prolific and talented, in many art forms, but just how talented he was, and whether his influence was good or bad, only cultural evolution will tell.

He was financially successful, a genius in obtaining publicity, a brilliant artist in several areas. But the major, novel thrust of his painting—cubism—still produces mixed reactions. The widely-heralded claim is that cubism opened up a whole new field of painting, etc. The question is—was it for better or worse?

The world of art is a nebulous, iffy thing. Do most of us want grim messages, shock and terror in paintings? One doubts it. Rather, one suspects, most people seek serenity, restfulness, peace and beauty in the painting art, and probably rightfully so.

Picasso was loved by many because he steadfastly opposed dictator Francisco in Spain, his native country. Like Hemingway, he was among those in the thirties who longed for a democracy in Spain. The King had abdicated in 1932 and a republican form of government instituted. Apologists for Franco now claim the republican government was Communist-dominated but that was not true at the time of Franco's revolt—witness the book on those years by the American Ambassador in Madrid.

Picasso understandably never forgave those who overthrew democracy in Spain; he, of course, had lived in France since just after the turn of the century, so the cost of this stance to him was not great.

If Picasso's shock and terror cubism is to survive, or should, one can't finally say; but it can be said finally that Picasso could also produce beautiful classical paintings, sculpture and other widely admired works of art. It can also be said that his influence on painting was perhaps the greatest of any individual in recent years, certainly enough of a tribute for any man.

TENNIS NEWS

Another blow was struck against male supremacy of the tennis courts, when Polly Bracht and Joe Hugenberg defeated the all male team of James Bracht and Mike Meek in a doubles match.

Mrs. Bracht's pinpoint placement shots and Hugenberg's strong back court volleys coupled with diligent net play by the victors spelled the demise of the less fortunate male team.

The final scoring reads as follows: Polly Bracht and Joe Hugenberg over James Bracht and Mike Meek, 6-3 and 8-6.

Questions And Answers to Veterans Benefits

Q -- My husband died of service connected disabilities while in military service. Am I eligible for Veterans Administration assistance to take correspondence courses or on-the-job training?

A -- Yes. Public Law 92-540 (Oct. 24, 1972) extended these benefits to wives and widows of veterans whose permanent total disabilities or deaths were service connected.

Q -- I still carry my World War II "V"-prefixed National Service Life Insurance. Can I get additional coverage?

A -- Yes. Public Law 92-188, enacted in December 1971, allows veterans with these policies to use their insurance dividends to buy additional paid-up life insurance protection.

Q -- The Veterans Administration guaranteed $7,500 of my home loan, based on my World War II service. Since VA now guarantees more, do I have more entitlement coming?

A -- Yes. VA currently guarantees up to 60 percent up to a maximum of $12,500 of home loans. Since you received a loan guarantee of only $7,500, you are eligible to apply for an additional $5,000 in loan benefits.

Q -- I was discharged about ten years ago before the current G.I. Bill was passed. Did I lose out on educational benefits altogether?

A -- Not necessarily. For on-the-job training, apprenticeship, farm cooperative and flight training, you have until August 1975 to use your eligibility. Other education benefits expire May 31, 1974, the eighth anniversary of the current G.I. Bill. All eligible veterans have 8 years to take advantage of education benefits. Time is computed from the date of discharge or the date the benefit first became available, whichever is later.

Q -- What is VA doing to help the severely disabled Vietnam veterans get jobs?

A -- In addition to providing medical care and compensation, VA is hiring many handicapped veterans including some who must work in wheel chairs or are blind. In addition, VA is working closely with universities, other government agencies, and business and industry to help disabled veterans get jobs.

Q -- If a lender turns down a veteran's application for a G. I. loan, what should the veteran do?

A -- He should see another lender. The fact that one lender is not interested in making the particular type of loan the veteran wants does not preclude the possibility that another may be interested.

ATTEND PLAY SCHOOL -- These children attended a play school sponsored by High School summer homemaking students who are shown in the background.

Summer Homemaking Play School Ends

The final week of the play school sponsored by the High School summer homemaking students and High School homemaking teacher Mrs. Janice L. Spears ended Friday. The high school girls held the play school as their group project for the summer. The girls will spend the rest of the summer working on individual home projects and upon completion will receive 1/2 credit towards graduation.

The girls participating in the group project were: Elaine Browne, Yolanda Carabajal, Yolanda Corpus, Joy Crawford, Maria Cuellar, Rose Heasley, Lorna King, Frances Lizcano, Beverly Kelly, Sue Reid, Pat Stephens, Barbara Lewis, Carol Walters and Debbie Hale.

Other summer homemaking students under the supervision of Mrs. Spears are: Sylvia Cuellar, Margarita Mora, Lee Nuckles and Kerry Mosier. These girls are participating in group projects in Bible School, hospital volunteer work, and community work.

Children attending the second week were: Stevie Walters, Valerie Winkler, Mark Blankinship, Norm Spears, Liquita Lewis, Craig Atwood, Stephanie Anders, John Bohot, Dawn Robbins, John Browne, Mark Solis, Vida Davidson, Becky Bohot, Kris Ann Gillis, Shane Browning, Scottie Stubbs, Danny Adams, Lisa Cassel, Benny Arispe, Brett McClung, Diane Rinche, David Blankinship, Karen Winkler, and Keith Wooten.

The second week was filled with varied experiences for the students and the children. Shane Browning shared his birthday cake with the children and Danny Adams presented the students with a long stemmed red carnation on the last day. The week proved to be fun and educational for all.

FHA officers and Encounter Degree students are attending planning and training workshops at the high school this week.

Most everyone knows that the shortest day of the year occurs in December and the longest in June. If the sun shines the least in December, why isn't that month the bitterest of winter months?

And, if the sun shines longest in June than any other time, why isn't June the most oppressive of the summer months? As the reader knows, December is seldom the coldest winter month and July and August are often hotter than June. What's the answer?

The answer lies in the fact that the earth stores up the heat during the summer and loses it slowly. When the shortest day of the year arrives, usually December 21st, the earth still retains some of its stored up heat from the summer.

Likewise, when the longest day of the year arrives, the summer solstice (June 21st this year), the earth has not stored up the amount of heat it will contain by July and August, after additional long days and short nights.

Rogues' Gallery

Arrested on a charge of gambling, Greg was tried and found not guilty. Later he learned that the police were including his photograph in a public "rogues' gallery," open to inspection by victims of crime.

Greg hastened back into court, this time as a plaintiff. He demanded that the police remove his picture from the gallery, even though they might still consider him a suspicious character.

And the court ordered the police to do just that. Citing Greg's right of privacy, the court said:

"A visitor (to the gallery) might conclude that all the pictures were of criminals. This is not a pleasant thought for one conscious of his innocence."

Most courts agree, frowning on undue publicity given to a person who has been cleared of a criminal charge. Nonetheless, privacy—like all legal rights—has its limits.

Another complaint was filed by a man who had been acquitted of receiving stolen property. He wanted the police to remove his photograph and fingerprints from their private files.

But this time, the court said no. The court said keeping good records is a key to effective police work, adding:

"An accurate identification system may be an assistance not only in finding the guilty criminal but in clearing an innocent suspect."

A different aspect of the problem arose in a homicide case, when the defendant objected to evidence that some years earlier he had been convicted of manslaughter. He said he had already paid his debt to society, and was therefore entitled—under the privacy doctrine—to keep his past a closed book.

But the court ruled that his past could be reopened, because a second offense is more serious than a first offense.

"One who has been convicted of crime (forfeits) whatever right of privacy he may have possessed," said the court, "to the extent that the protection of society requires such forfeiture."

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,
I am eighteen years old and have finished high school and have a good job. I would like to move to an apartment but my parents do not like the idea at all. I am planning to get married next December and I thought it would be nice if I had an apartment all ready for us to move in.

My father thinks it is not safe for me to be in an apartment alone and my mother doesn't like the idea of me entertaining my fiancé in a place where I live alone. I told them I would write and see what you thought about it. Things have changed so much these past few years that it seems all right to me.

Answer:

I agree with your parents, that at your age, if you have a good home, you should stay there until you are married. It is not very safe for a young girl to live in an apartment, alone, in this present time. There are so many terrible things that happen that one should be very glad to have the protection of a good home and good parents.

Of course there are girls who haven't these things but they usually have another girl to share an apartment with them which is better than being alone as it is not only better protection from crime but also from gossip.

Louisa.

Dear Louisa,

My problem is this: I have a good many friends because I am interested in church work and civic projects as well as socializing with the community so when any of their children or grandchildren get married I am invited and I feel like sending gifts to all of them. The problem is that I am over sixty and live on a retirement amount so you can see what that does to my budget. Now lots of these grandchildren live in other states and there is no chance of me attending the wedding. Should I send gifts to these children? What should I do?

Sixty--Ga.

Answer:

There is no obligation to send any gifts in answer to an invitation unless you wish to. However, if you attend a person's wedding, I am sure that you would be embarrassed if you had not sent a gift. Why not settle on a simple gift and send the same thing to all of the grandchildren. Of course, if their parents have received invitations from your relatives and sent gifts to them you would, naturally, feel obligated to return the compliment.

Louisa.

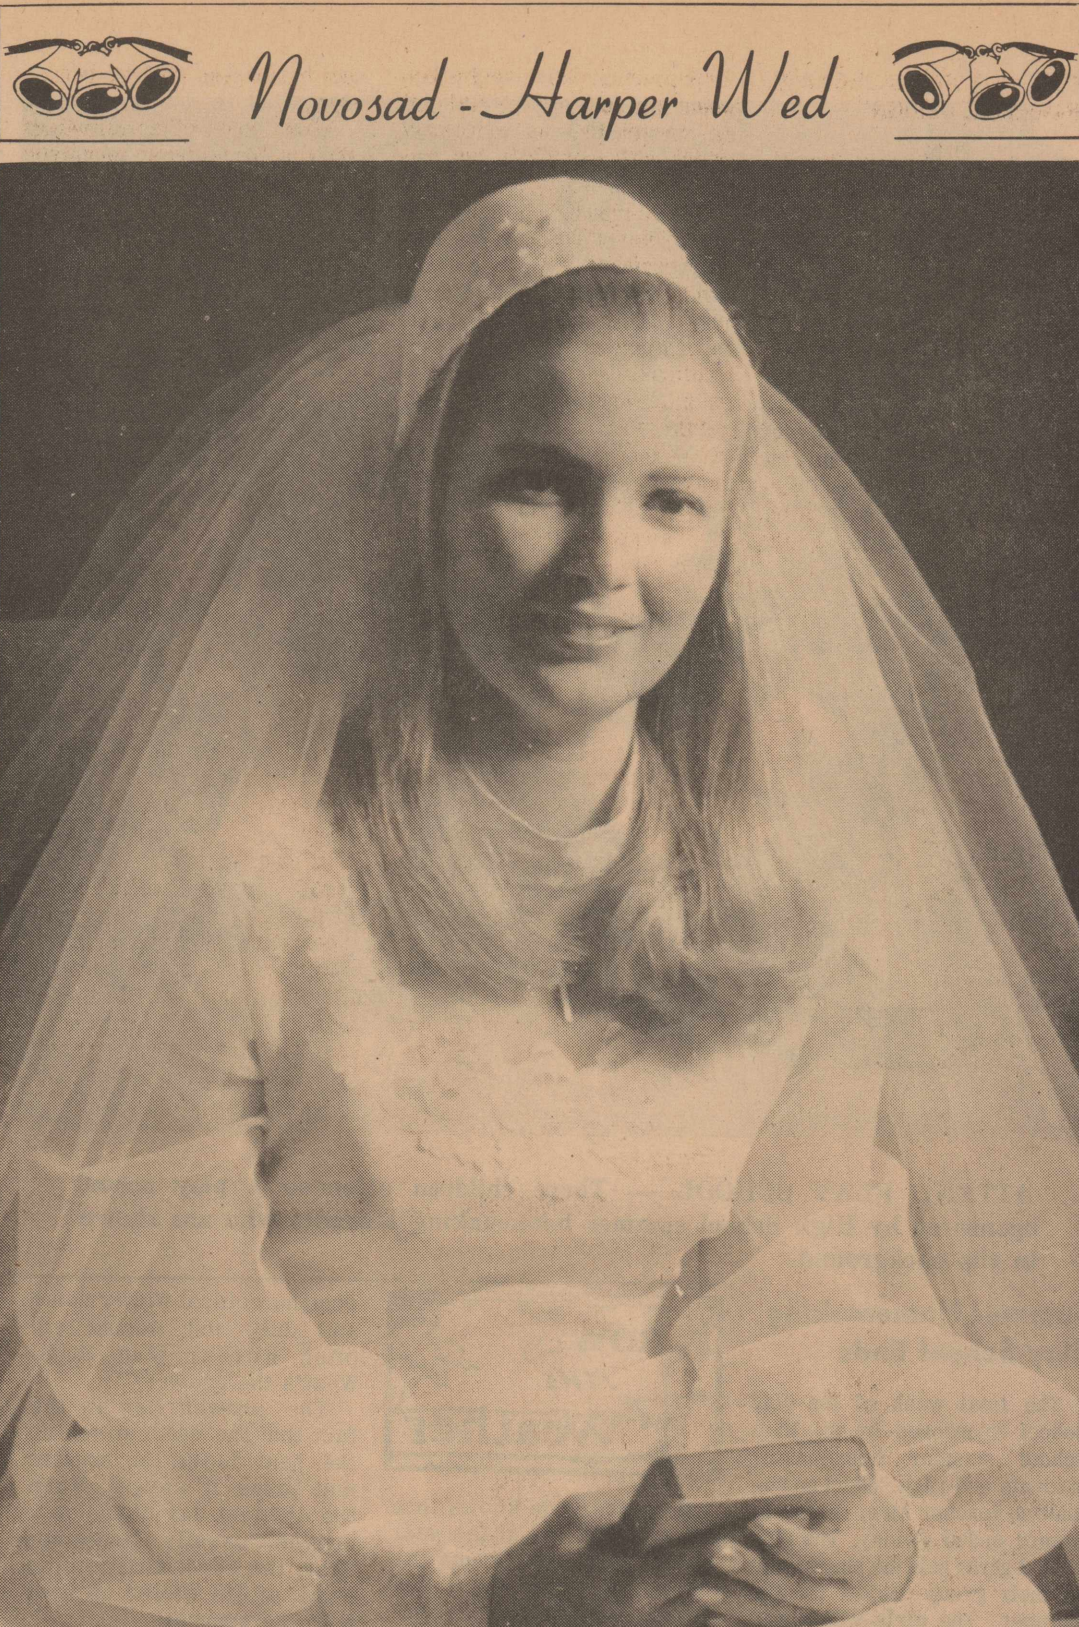

To the Reader in Rutherford:

I do not write the editorials so if you disagree with them you are wasting your time in writing to me about them. I may not have agreed with that particular one, either, but I would never think of using vulgar language to emphasize my opinion.

Address letters: Louisa, Box 532, Orangeburg, S.C. 29115

A FRIENDSHIP TREATY

Paris--France and Poland has signed a 10-year "friendship and cooperation" agreement. The treaty stressed the need to work for "detente and peaceful coexistence," as "the only principles" that could bring peace to Europe and the world.

The marriage of Miss Mary Jean Novosad and Larry Boyd Harper, both of Houston, was solemnized in the Base Chapel at Ellington Air Force Base on June 9, 1973, at two o'clock. Father Eugene Erdolt of Alice, Texas, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Jane Snyder was at the organ.

Major and Mrs. J. F. Novosad of Rockport are parents of the bride. The groom is the son of Mrs. John Q. Trimm, Humble, Texas, and Charles R. Harper of Houston.

The bride's gown was of nylon organza over peau de sole. The fitted, empire bodice was trimmed with reembrodered lace and seed pearls and a high stand-up collar. The sleeves were long full and finished with wide lace cuffs. The skirt swept to a full chapel train and was trimmed with reembrodered lace and seed pearls. Her Juliet cap of organza and peau de sole trimmed with lace and seed pearls held a chapel length veil and blusher of illusion. Her only jewelry was a gold cross that had belonged to her maternal great grandmother. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid.

Mrs. Jack Habel of Houston was matron of honor and Miss Susan Davis, also of Houston was maid of honor. Their dresses were of turquoise heavenly delight over taffeta fashioned with empire bodices, long full sleeves and A-line skirts. Bridesmaids were Mrs. David L. Hinson, of Corpus Christi, Mrs. Merlin D. Beahm, sisters of the bride, Miss Jana Harper, sister of the groom, and Miss Diane Equila all of Houston. Their dresses were of the same material and style as the honor attendants in shades of coral, yellow, green, and pink. All the attendants carried white baskets of assorted flowers.

Charles M. Harper, of Peachtree, Georgia was his brother's best man. Groomsmen were Art Boyd, Jr., Burton Golden, Merlin D. Beahm, Douglas Smith, and Michael Getz, all of Houston. David L. Hinson, of Corpus Christi served as head usher.

Kim Harper, niece of the groom, was flower girl. She was dressed in white similar in design to the attendants. David Hinson, nephew of the bride was ring bearer.

The bride's mother was attired in a long pink crepe dress with white accessories. The groom's mother wore a long blue flowered chiffon dress and white accessories. The bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. O. F. Clinkscapes wore a blue knit dress with bone accessories and the groom's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Ola Boyd wore blue crepe with white accessories. All wore corsages of white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the Officers Club at Ellington Air Force Base. The registry table was covered with white linen draped with yellow as was the groom's table which held a silver coffee service and a chocolate cake. The cake was topped with a miniature coach of white carrying a bride and drawn by white horses with a groom alongside. Written on the cake was "Get me to the church on time." The buffet table and gift table were also covered in white and draped in yellow carrying out the bride's chosen colors. The bride's table was all in white. Mrs. Herman W. Walker, aunt of the bride, of Bacliff, Texas, made the four tier wedding cake. It stood at one end of the table and was a confection in white trimmed with yellow roses topped by a bride and groom. At the other end of the table was a bowl of fruit punch and in the center the attendants' baskets of flowers completed the decorations.

Members of the house party were Mrs. J. J. Urban, aunt of the bride of Portland, Mesdames Susan Davis, Darlene Yates, Nancy Farris, Mary Anne Tessaro, and Charlotte Guerrero all of Houston.

The couple left on a wedding trip to Las Vegas, Nevada, after which they will be at home in Houston. The bride is a graduate of Rockport-Fulton High School and San Jacinto College. She is a registered nurse and has been employed at Pasadena General Hospital. The groom attended Sterling High School in Houston and served with the United States Marine Corps in Southeast Asia. He is a firefighter with the Houston Fire Department.

A rehearsal dinner hosted by the groom's parents was held Friday night at The Hickory Shick in Houston for the wedding party and their families.

4H BRIDGE

Mrs. Fred B. Hunt was hostess to the 4H Bridge Club at her home last Friday afternoon. Members attending were Mrs. W.E. Blackshare, Mrs. Wm. Denny, Miss Lillian Fahr, Mrs. Ed Hall, Mrs. R.E. House, Mrs. M.H. McKinsey and Mrs. L.G. Wood. Mrs. Wood won high score and Mrs. House was second high.

Fix-It Tip

Do not mow wet, slippery grass. Do not run—walk. Do not pull the mower toward you. Do not leave the mower running if you have to step away for a moment. Mow horizontally across a slope; never up and down.

Most safety precautions make good maintenance tips. Keep all nuts and bolts tight. Check blade mounting nut for tightness — making sure the spark plug is disconnected first.

Check oil level and change oil at recommended intervals. Remove blades and sharpen with a file. File evenly and keep the blade balanced. A dull and rough blade will leave the grass brown.

Medicare Premium Increases In July

As the cost of living goes up, the cost of health care has also risen. For this reason the monthly premium for medical insurance under Medicare will be increased 50 cents a month beginning July, according to H.M. Cleveland, District Manager of the Corpus Christi Social Security Office.

The new rate will be $6.30 per month, up from the current $5.80. This increase is necessary to keep this part of Medicare on a pay-as-you-go basis, as required by law. A few individuals will have to pay more than the $6.30 premium—those who delayed signing up after their first chance. They must pay an additional 10 percent for each full year they were eligible but not enrolled.

Each beneficiary pays only half of the total cost of the medical insurance protection and the Federal Government pays an equal amount.

The premiums are automatically deducted from monthly checks of those who receive social security benefits, railroad retirement benefits, or civil service annuities. People who do not receive any of these monthly payments pay their premiums directly to the Social Security Administration, Cleveland said.

The Electric Diet.

A HOUSEFUL OF WAYS TO BE A WASTE-WATCHER.

SEAL YOUR HOUSE TO KEEP YOUR COOL.

Weather stripping all doors and windows can save up to 10% on air conditioning costs. Otherwise, it's like leaving a door or window wide open all summer!

THE BIG SUMMER VILLAIN

...inadequate insulation.

Proper insulation (6" in ceiling, 3 1/2" in walls) saves up to FIFTY-SEVEN PERCENT in air conditioning costs. And may pay for itself in the first and second year. Keeping drapes, shades and blinds closed on hot days also insulates.

WASHDAY DO'S

Using your laundry equipment too frequently is wasteful. Remember, it takes just as much electricity to wash and dry a few small pieces as it does for a full load. Clean lint filters after each load.

WATCH THAT POT!

Use pans that fit the surface unit. When boiling begins, reduce heat. Use tight fitting lids to conserve heat in pan. Don't use oven as a room heater. Activate self-cleaning oven immediately after cooking.

SELF-CONDITIONING SAVES ON AIR-CONDITIONING.

Where to set it... and forget it. Most people are comfortable at 76°.

Each degree lower increases air conditioning costs about 10%.

A filter only "Half Dirty" can restrict air flow enough to increase costs $3.00 per month per ton of air conditioning size. Yet filters are easy to clean (vacuum cleaner on fiberglass throwaway type, water on metal permanent type).

Dealer Service Once a Year

Have your air conditioning dealer clean and check your unit. It pays off in efficient operation during the cooling season.

WATER HEATING

Check for leaks in all hot water fixtures. Locate water heater near point of major use to avoid long pipe runs. Insulate pipe where possible. Set heater thermostat for "normal" 135 degrees.
