Couples' Payments Start At $1,500; Sales Tax Opposed

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The Senate finance committee voted 10 to 6 today to lower personal income tax exemptions from $2,000 to $1,500 for married couples and $800 to $750 for single persons, and decided against inclusion of a general sales tax in the pending revenue bill.

The lowering of exemptions would add an estimated 6,000,000 income taxpayers to present rolls and increase the yield of the pending $3,236,700,000 bill by about $300,000,000. That is the amount eliminated from the measure by the House when it voted down a proposal for mandatory joint husband-wife income tax returns.

Payroll Tax Opposed

Besides voting not to consider sales tax proposals, the Senate committee also took similar action against suggestion for a payroll tax, which would be collected on wages and salaries at their source.

Chairman Walter F. George, D. Ga., in announcing the vote on the lowering of exemptions, indicated that the committee later might consider proposals for boosting the projected tax rates for low bracket incomes. The bill, in its present form, retains the present 4 per cent rate and adds new surtaxes starting at 5 per cent on the first dollar of taxable income. After the first $2,000 of taxable income, the surtaxes jump to 11 per cent, and are graduated upward in subsequent brackets.

Levies To Be Combined

The treasury, which also advocated the lowering of exemptions, has proposed that surtaxes start at 11 per cent.

In its action today, the committee also approved a proposal to combine the special 10 per cent defense tax with the normal and surtax rates, so as to simplify computation of the total levies.

The committee voted to retain present exemptions of $4,000 in computation of estate and gift taxes.

For persons now in the low bracket of taxation, the lowered exemptions would mean an additional tax of $49.50 for married couples, and $4.95 for single persons. This was calculated on a 5 per cent surtax rate and a 4 per cent normal income tax rate, plus

Bill To Freeze Stocks Vetoed

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 — President Roosevelt vetoed today legislation to freeze government stocks of wheat and cotton, declaring it to be contrary "to sound governmental policy" and to the long-time best interests of both farmers and consumers.

In a message to the House, the chief executive said it was his conviction that approval of the measure "would seriously and adversely affect the agricultural adjustment program and the attendant policies which have been so beneficial to our farmers during the past few years."

Might Depress Prices

Advocates of the bill at the capitol had contended that sale of the government stocks might depress prices.

The bill also would have guaranteed a price for peanuts of 85 per cent of party. (Parity is the price designed to give farmers purchasing powers equivalent to

Ban Lifted On Iceland Visits By Reporters

Arrangements For News Coverage On Island Are Made

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—President Roosevelt today lifted restrictions which had prevented American reporters from being stationed in Iceland since its occupation by American forces.

His permission for press, radio, and photographic representatives to go to Iceland was announced by White House Secretary Stephen T. Early while Mr. Roosevelt conferred with Lincoln MacVeagh, new United States minister to Iceland. MacVeagh will leave for his new post sometime this week.

May File Applications

The only American reporters to visit the island since its occupation were those who recently stopped there with a naval convoy.

Early said that applications for permission to proceed to Iceland on regular news, radio or picture assignments may be filed here with the navy department or in London with the United States embassy.

"When the American forces went to Iceland there was a request from the press associations, newspapers, radio news services, newsreels and still photographers to go," Early recalled.

Ordered Temporary Check

"You will remember that the president felt that until the newly-arrived forces could adjust themselves, there should be a temporary check on movement to Iceland from the gentlemen of the press.

"At that time he told the secretary of the navy, who was active in trying to work out an arrangement, that as soon as a mutual agreement could be worked out between the commanders of the American and British forces in Iceland he would approve requests for permission to go to Iceland.

Agreement Worked Out

"We have been advised today that the commanders have worked out with their respective governments an agreement for reception of the gentlemen of the press and the president immediately approved it.

"I don't know the specific terms of the agreement, but I suppose it is in keeping with the terms of regular military censorship in military zones."

Lubbock Sponsor At Rodeo Is Selected

Miss Lois Nance, Texas Technological college graduate, has been named the official Lubbock sponsor in the cowgirl contest at the Midland rodeo next Saturday, Sunday and Monday, according to announcement at the chamber of commerce this morning.

Miss Nance, a brunet, received her degree in arts and sciences at the Tech summer school commencement last Friday night. She is a former college cheer leader and has won honors in several cowgirl contests. Her home is in Justiceburg.

Officials of the Midland rodeo have advised that prizes valued at more than $500 are to be awarded in the cowgirl contests there.

Noon Reading Today Highest Of Summer

Highest noon-hour reading of the summer thus far was reported today at the Texas Technological college station of the United States weather bureau.

The reading at that time was 91 degrees. The maximum temperature of the summer recorded there has been only 93.6 degrees during a summer that has been exceptionally mild for Lubbock.

Sunday's maximum temperature here was 87 degrees.

Chairman Of Tech Board Is Claimed

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 25—A heart attack caused the death of James Marion West, 70-year-old Houston capitalist and oil man and president of the Dallas Journal and Austin Tribune Publishing companies, in Menorah hospital yesterday.

Funeral arrangements had not been made pending return of the body on a plane leaving Kansas City at 7 a. m. today.

SERVICES TUESDAY

HOUSTON, Aug. 25 (A.P.) — Funeral services for J. M. West, multimillionaire Houston oil man and newspaper publisher who died suddenly in Kansas City, will be held tomorrow at 3 p. m.

West's body was flown from Kansas City to Houston today.

Sons Aboard Plane

Aboard the plane were members of the family, including two sons, Wesley M. West of Houston, who was with his father when he became ill, and J. Marion West, also of Houston. The latter was in Colorado Springs, Colo., when notified of his father's death but left immediately for Kansas City.

The oil man and publisher, who

Oil Play Is Creating Courthouse Problem

County Clerk's Office Gets Additional Helpers; Lease Of County Land Talked

Heavy filing of instruments — due to oil play in Lubbock county — caused two significant actions of county commissioners court this morning.

1. Commissioners granted a request that two additional helpers be hired for $100 each for four months by the county clerk's office.

Decline To Lease Land

2. Commissioners declined to act immediately on a proposition to lease oil and gas rights on the county's quarter-section farm five miles south of the city on the Tahoka highway.

At the same time, the commission was smack up against a problem not so easy to solve.

The county clerk's office asked more room. It had not been many months since the commission rearranged quarters on the second floor of the courthouse so that the clerk's office could be expanded.

An Unforeseen Problem

But with the county being a hot territory for oil play and with some parts of it having been leased almost in entirety, filing of instruments for recording has grown to be an unforeseen problem. The court's problem is that of every person in Lubbock county, it was represented, and may have to be considered in the light of building another courthouse — something indicated months earlier by overcrowding of courthouse quarters because of so many federal and state agencies quartered there.

Commissioners were informed by L. Wesley Read, Lubbock insurance man, that he was authorized to lease acreage for a major

Air School Is Seeking Name

Wanted—A name for the army air corps training school under construction west of the city.

This was the information given at the chamber of commerce this morning, along with the statement that suggestions are invited from those who may know names that would be appropriate.

Facts To Consider

However, it was emphasized that you bear the following facts in mind before offering a suggestion:

The name should be that of someone who died in the service of the army air corps.

That might include men who were killed in action during the first World war, who may have died of wounds then, or who may have been killed in airplane accidents while on duty in the service of the air corps either during the first World war, or since that time.

From Plains Area

The name, preferably, should be that of some such man who was born in Lubbock or on the South Plains, or who went into service from Lubbock or the area, or who lived in this area at some time.

If you should have appropriate suggestions, request was made that you write the information to

Army Crosses Fingers, Awaits Milady's Reaction To Bases

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The army crossed its fingers today on how the colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady would take to garrison life in the nation's string of newly acquired Atlantic bases.

The army, frankly, is not too much worried about the reactions of the colonel or Sergeant O'Grady. One of the engineers responsible for the development of the bases acquired from Britain voiced the opinion that they would find the new posts excellently set up from the military viewpoint—sanitary, well-camouflaged, and reasonably well located.

There is a very definite apprehension, however, that the ladies will be displeased with the arrangement of rooms to the quarters for married men.

Colonel Joseph D. Arthur, jr., one of the officers responsible for the base construction work, mentioned the subject in an article in September's

Claude Young Is Victim As Autos Collide

Others Slightly Injured; Mishap Near Ropesville

Death of Claude E. Young, 22, of near Ropesville resulted from a collision about 6 o'clock Sunday night three miles east of Ropesville on a dirt road.

His head was crushed when the car he was driving overturned. The body was brought to Plains Funeral home in Lubbock. Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in Ropesville Nazarene church, with Rev. Austin Moore officiating. Burial will be in Ropesville cemetery.

Brother Is Injured

Young's brother, Manuel Francis, 15, was brought to St. Mary's hospital for treatment of cuts on the back of his head. He apparently did not suffer skull fracture or concussion and probably will be dismissed from the hospital today.

Incomplete reports of highway patrolmen indicated Claude E. Young was driving south and turned to the west on a road near his home. A neighbor youth was driving westward and struck the rear of the Young car, which apparently overturned twice. The two Young brothers and Albert Bayer were riding in the Young car. Bayer suffered only minor cuts and bruises. Highway patrolmen planned to continue investigation today. The driver of the other car also suffered slight injuries.

Claude E. Young was brought to St. Mary's hospital, but was pronounced dead. He is survived by his father, C. R. Young; two brothers, Leon and Manuel, and two sisters, Miss Opal Young and Miss Naomi Young. The family home is located two miles northeast of Ropesville.

Congratulations To:

Japan Warned Against New Pacific Move

Churchill Pledges Britain's Help In Halting Expansion

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Prime Minister Churchill warned Japan yesterday that her campaign of military expansion must stop and pledged Great Britain to range herself beside the United States should the latter's efforts to secure a peaceful settlement in the Pacific fail.

On the other side of the world, he called the "Atlantic charter" drawn by him and President Roosevelt a British-United States pledge to destroy Nazi tyranny.

Beacon Of Hope

In a broadcast to the world he described his meeting with the American executive as a "marshalling of the good forces of the world against the evil forces" and a beacon of hope for all the conquered nations of Europe.

In the German attack on Soviet Russia, he said Nazi blood for the first time "has flowed in a fearful flood." He promised aid to Russia and praised her efficiency and equipment.

If Germany were to defeat Russia and then Britain in a policy of destroying her opponents one by one, Churchill expressed the opinion the United States would be attacked next.

Japan In Spotlight Again

"I rejoice to find that President Roosevelt saw in their true light and proportion the extreme dangers by which the American people as well as the British people are now beset," he said.

His reference to Japan won most of the comment in the British newspapers today.

The Japanese, he said, "now stretch a grasping hand into the southern seas of China. They snatch Indo-China from the wretched Vichy French. They menace by their movements Siam. They menace the Singapore British link with Australasia and menace the Philippine islands which are under the protection of the United States.

"It is certain that this has got to stop. Every effort will be made to secure a peaceful settlement. The United States are laboring with infinite patience to arrive at a fair and amicable settlement which will give Japan the utmost reassurance for her legitimate interests. We earnestly hope these negotiations will succeed. But this I must say, that if these hopes should fail we shall, of course, range ourselves unhesitatingly at the side of the United States."

Damage Heavy In Fire Here

Joe S. McIlhaney might not have been doing business this morning from the same old stand—but he was doing business, nevertheless.

His McIlhaney Dairy Products Co., at 2403 Avenue H, was heavily damaged by fire early Sunday, approximately 40 per cent of the floor space of his large plant having been rendered unfit for immediate operation.

Business As Usual

"But there is a different sort of competition here from anywhere else, I suppose," McIlhaney said. "The Borden Co., Bell Ice Cream Co., and Texas Technological college plants were placed at my company's disposal—and we are bottling our milk in their plants and going ahead with deliveries as usual. Business will not be interrupted, so far as the customer is concerned."

McIlhaney, who opened his plant a year ago in April and who had just completed installation of much additional equipment, said he learned of the fire Sunday afternoon "when Mrs. McIlhaney and I were 800 feet underground, in Carlsbad cavern." He had been away on a fishing trip. "Those

Persians Resist Twin Drives Of British, Reds

(By The Associated Press)

Armed forces of little Iran (Persia) were reported offering resistance today as British and Russian troops simultaneously invaded the Middle East oil kingdom, marching in to enforce demands for the ouster of German agents.

The German wireless broadcast a dispatch from Ankara, Turkey, declaring that "clashes have already been reported from the Caucasus border," the point of entry for Soviet troops.

Authorized quarters in Berlin asserted that planes bombed the city of Tabriz, in north Iran, causing damage and casualties.

Russian Cossacks and mounted infantry headed the Soviet invasion columns, striking from the north across the burning deserts for a junction with the British.

RAF Aiding Thurst

Dispatches from Cairo, headquarters of the British Middle East command, said Indian mechanized forces, strongly supported by RAF squadrons were in the vanguard of the synchronized British thrust from the south and southwest.

Authoritative London quarters said British forces entering the country had met some opposition, although previously it had been expected that Iran would yield before the overwhelming Anglo-Soviet armies.

Iran Forces Small

The British said their troops had landed from ships at Bandar Shahpur, at the head of the Persian gulf, and at other points.

Both Russia and Great Britain have given formal assurances that as soon as the German threat was eliminated, their troops would be withdrawn.

Middle East advices estimated Iran's fighting forces at approximately 190,000 men, composing 19 divisions of 10,000 troops each. Its equipment includes Swedish artillery, a few German tanks and 13 airplanes.

Site Of Oil Riches

Climaxing more than a week of diplomatic representations by London and Moscow, British troops crossed the frontier of southern Iran along the gulf of Persia while Soviet forces moved in from the Caucasus on the north.

The Moslem kingdom, which derives its present name from ancient Aryana—the land of the Aryans—is the site of the world's richest single oil field.

Early reports on the invasion, which started just after midnight, made no mention of fighting. Iranian forces had withdrawn 12 miles from the Soviet frontier last week to avoid border incidents.

Resistance Predicted

About 30 Russian divisions (450,000 troops) were reported massed on the Iran-Soviet frontier.

Whether Iran would resist, possibly with German help, was a moot question. In Washington last week, Iran's minister to the United States declared his country would

Well Flowing After "Shot"

Lubbock county's new pool opener, the Lee C. Harrison and associates' No. 1 W. G. Nairn estate, was shot at 10:10 o'clock Sunday morning with 464 quarts of nitroglycerin from 5,000 feet back to 4,886 feet, and, operators said, was heading and flowing into the pit today, while circulating.

Harrison said there was an estimated 1,000,000 feet of gas.

Well Still Flowing

The well, he said, began flowing at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, was still flowing at 2 o'clock this morning and, "I understand, is still flowing intermittently."

Harrison said the well was cleaning itself satisfactorily and that no water had been encountered. He said sufficient gas was present to suggest that the well would not have to be pumped.

The well will be tested for production after it has cleaned itself, Harrison said. It is 3 1-4 miles northeast of Lubbock on the Idalou road.

French Defy Death To Commit New Sabotage Against Nazis

(By The United Press)

VICHY, Aug. 25.—Two new acts of railroad sabotage and fresh demonstrations in the Paris area were reported tonight despite announcement that the French government and German occupation authorities would execute saboteurs and terrorists.

Four cars of a German train were said to have been derailed when bolts were removed from a section of track outside Montparnasse and traffic was said to have been blocked for 30 hours when a French train was wrecked at Poissy.

The track repair crews and engineers and firemen of both trains were reported to have been arrested by German authorities.

The new reports were heard as Minister of Justice Joseph Barthelmy hurried to Paris to fulfill German demands for speed in setting up courts with power to decree the death penalty for sabotage.

It was learned belatedly that during the mass roundup in Paris last Wednesday, an au-

Navy Is So Tidy Gobs On Leave Complain At Mother's Housework

Orderliness And Cleanliness First Lessons Given Recruits

BY PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 25 — "What kind of navy are you running, anyway?" began a mother's letter to the commandant of the Training Station here.

Now the Navy, which enlists boys of 17 — younger than those of any other service — gets quite a lot of letters from parents. Most of them want reassurance that Joe or Johnny is doing all right, is learning something, and is being properly looked after. But there are a few outright complaints, so the personnel officer who handles such things read on with interest:

He's A Pest

"Ever since my boy" came home on furlough," the mother had written, "he has been snooping around making remarks about my housekeeping, and even the cooking, and telling us we are likely to be contaminated. He also hints that we don't take enough baths. I wish you would send for him right away, because he is a pest."

The officer sent a sympathetic reply, but naturally he was secretly tickled by such a bit of testimony on the effectiveness of the recruit training program. Because orderliness and cleanliness are two of the main things that the Navy wants to teach the 6000 young men who are taking the short course in sailoring at this largest (at present) of the four Training Stations.

Texas Is Admiral State

Other hundreds are sent here from various bases and the fleet itself for advanced instruction, but all the recruits come from homes west of a north-south line running through Chicago. They arrive in groups of from three to 50 from the enlistment stations of half the states — country and ranch boys mostly. The Navy itself never has quite figured why so many youngsters want to trade the great open spaces for the tight limits of a fighting ship, but it does know that more admirals have come from Texas than any other state.

A few months ago, early in the rush to quadruple the Navy's enlisted strength, the shore training period was only five weeks—too short a time even for dentists and doctors to put the men into perfect sea-going trim. But facilities are better now; new quarters and school buildings are being completed. The basic course has been lengthened to eight — still a month short of the pre-emergency schedule.

Develop Orderliness

Anyway, it's mostly a period of orientation, and enough for eager volunteers. (The U. S. Navy never has had conscription.) "We give 'em a good going over," said Capt. Henry C. Gearing, Commander of the Training Station. "But they go out of here healthier, cheerful and able to stand on their own feet. Then they're ready for specialized education or experience at sea."

Scrupulous tidiness can't be over-emphasized for men who later must get along together in very little living space, another officer explained. "So we start 'em out in double-decker bunks. Every one has to wash one whole uniform, dirty or not, every day. And they take two or three baths.

Men Have Remedy

"The men themselves have a remedy for the few who try to skip the bathing schedule. It's a good scrubbing with sand, applied with a canvas mitten. The results are miraculous; after one application, the man never seems to get dirty again."

Due mostly to the same crowded conditions, he continued, the Navy always has been pretty democratic. "But even the amount of discipline we do impose is a little hard for some of the boys to take. There's a treatment for that, too, when we find some disgruntled recruit who says he isn't going to let any gold-braided so-and-so boss him around. He's told to turn in his rifle and get a pistol belt and holster; then he's put in command of his company for half an hour.

"Of course, he's scared silly. He squeaks a command and hears his voice for the first time. But the company moves. He gives another order, and it works. He gains confidence and pride, and pretty soon he's giving his best imitation of one of the gold-braided so-and-sos that he used to resent."

Of 64 average applicants for Nevy service, 32 are rejected for physical defects, 19 for defects in character or education. Nobody with a reform school or police record is considered. Not all have a high school education, but they must have its equivalent in trade school training or some special skill plus a high native intelligence.

But those who are accepted soon find that even they don't know very much, that their characters still need bolstering with compulsory church-going, and that they're still under par physically. The average man gains nine pounds in eight weeks. Capt. Lucien Williams, senior dental officer, showed me records of recruit companies. Sample: Of 137 men, examinations found 544 cavities to be drilled and filled, 3 required extractions, and only 17 sets of teeth which merely needed cleaning.

No Time For Mischief

Life for newcomers seems to be mostly close-order drill (with old Enfield rifles), lectures (they get only a classroom acquaintance with ships and big guns), physical checkups and repair (dental officers work in two eight-hour shifts), eating more than you'd believe possible, standing inspections, and sleeping. They're so busy that there's little time or energy left for getting into mischief among the bars and bright lights of San Diego.

Somewhere, though, they find time for fun at the station itself, which with immaculate lawns and attractive permanent buildings looks more like a campus than a camp. Just finished is a huge auditorium (lectures by day, movies every night), a nautical-looking library, and a recreation center which will have everything from bowling alleys to a swimming pool. There are no hostesses in the shore training program of the U. S. Navy; recruits have to get used to the womanless world they'll find afloat.

At the end of eight weeks, most of them go to sea. This is a mere shakedown cruise; they're distributed among ships of the fleet and given regular duties, though it's six more months before they are rated as first-class seamen.

The Training Station has a dozen or more basic and advanced schools, but only about one recruit in seven or eight is chosen, by tests and observation, to attend one of them. After duty with the fleet, and when and if they have developed certain aptitudes, sailors are sent ashore for special training in ordnance and fire control (gunnery), radio, metal work and other trades, signaling, aviation mechanics. Some want to be cooks and bakers, stenographers, quartermasters, buglers. Others are taught the secrets of torpedoes and the bewilderingly complicated gyro-compass.

Making Of Navy Mechanic

Commander E. C. Irwin, schools officer who came up from the ranks and now is second highest officer at the Training Station, told me that he once flunked stenography. Couldn't learn shorthand. His own main interest is in technical subjects, and industrialists have been enviously amazed at the work done by quickly trained soldiers.

"You may ask why we don't enlist civilian mechanics as naval mechanics," the commander commented. "It doesn't work at all in these specialist times. When a man says he's a mechanic, he likely has been making one belt or working a punch press. He wouldn't know anything about the 180,000 horse-power engines in a destroyer or the rest of its million dollars' worth of intricate machinery. We want men with native intelligence and natural aptitude who can be taught to do a thousand different jobs."

Nazis Term Allied March Into Iran "Assault On Small Nation"

German Plans Not Revealed

(By The United Press)

BERLIN, Aug. 25 — Authorized German sources angrily denounced the British-Russian march into Iran today as "an assault on a small nation" and charged Britain with "undisputed guilt in handing over still another country to Bolshevism."

German authorized sources said that thus far they did not know of any diplomatic "or other steps" planned by Germany in connection with the Russian-British move in Iran. (In London, British sources had expressed belief that Germany would not permit the move to go unchallenged.)

Allied Charges Disputed

Asked whether Germany was consulting with Turkey under the terms of their friendship pact it was said that it was too early for any steps to have been taken.

"When the Russians say their invasion is not directed against the Iranian people it is exactly the same excuse they made when they took over the Baltic states and invaded Finland. Britain's guilt in handing over another country to Bolshevism is indisputable."

Britain and Russia, it was charged, had made a "mountain from a molehill in regard to the number of Germans in Iran" because actually there are fewer than 600 Germans there and the whole British-Russian action was based on "false promises."

Two Dogs Are Heroes But Snake-Bites Fatal

MERIDIAN, Miss., Aug. 25. (U.P.) —Edwin Smith's baby son was playing under a tree yesterday while his father worked in a field. A rattlesnake, disturbed by the child, coiled and prepared to strike.

Two farm dogs spotted the snake and attacked before it could strike. Smith killed the snake wth a gun.

The two dogs died.

PULASKI, Va., Aug. 25. (AP)— T. J. McCarthy, Pulaski hotel man, had talked about owning one for a long time.

So when he married, his friends chipped in and bought him for a wedding present—a mule.

What Readers Of The Evening Journal Say—
The Plainsman Gets Some Mail

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Letters from readers are welcomed at all times and on all subjects. However, no letter of more than 500 words will be considered for publication, and all letters belittling, or impugning the motive of any individual, firm or corporation must include for publication, the true name of the author. The Editor shall be the sole judge of whether or not letters may be published and cannot engage in correspondence concerning them).

BEER TROUBLES

Dear Plainsman: Seeing as how you know less about more things than anybody in town, I would like to ask your opinion about a little matter concerning the bootleggers.

Twice lately I have had men stop at my house and want to buy beer. Now, you know it is awfully embarrassing to have someone wanting to buy beer from you and not have a drop in the house. It might be a little more embarrassing to you if some of your friends or neighbors should happen to be present when they came. You might have a hard time making them believe that you hadn't been selling a little beer.

Now, what I want your advice about is this. I have been thinking about going before the city commission and asking them to pass a law to compel all bootleggers to have their correct name, house number and telephone number run in the paper every day so that the thirsty public will know where to go and won't be bothering people that are not fortunate enough to have beer in the house all the time. Of course, that would be legalizing bootlegging, but why not? We are going to have them anyway. Some people will tell you we are not, but you and I know, we and lots of others. That would also be a great help to the liquor control board man. He could just call his agents in and say, "boys here is the list. We will get so many this week and so many next," and so on until they have all of them. That way they will all have to pay. Like it is now, some of them never have to pay, and it would save the officers lots of time. They could just look on their list and say, "Well, this is John Doe's week to pay." They could just call him and say, "John, this is your week," and if John happened to have so much business he couldn't get away he could just mail them a check and that would save him a lot of time and trouble.

If we have 100 bootleggers listed they could call 10 of them each week and that way they would only have to pay every 10 weeks and then would have a nice news story for the paper and for the people that believe they are going to dry Lubbock up.

If you think we could get a law like that passed, I will meet you at the city hall next time the commissioners meet. It would save lots of people lots of time and trouble looking for house numbers that have been whispered to them and it would save a lot of people time and trouble telling people that they don't have beer for sale.

Well, anyway, I wish these guys would stop bothering me and I don't live where you might think I do either.

A Reader.
Lubbock.

(Dear Reader: The problem of side-stepping would-be beer purchasers is one of the many things I know less about and since you apparently have had plenty of experience along that line I reckon you'll have to solve your own problem. Your letter, however, is illuminating. I didn't know there were any beer bootleggers here. I supposed all the boys were picking up their own beer, by the case, in wet spots and lugging it in themselves—something I'll admit I know more about than the "legging" situation! Very truly yours, The Plainsman).

TRAFFIC CONDITIONS

Dear Plainsman: I have driven in many large cities. None has been more beautiful than Lubbock, the coming metropolis of the West. With its lovely homes, prosperous business firms and ultra-neat appearance, it approaches perfection in every respect except one. That one almost obscures all its fine points. That is the dangerous traffic congestion which keeps an interested tourist simply "scared stiff."

There is evidence of this serious problem at every parking center. I have never seen more battered fenders and smashed hoods in all of my life.

The people of Lubbock may be used to all this, but I believe that they will eventually wake up to the fact that something should be done about this traffic hazard.

Very sincerely,
An Interested Prospector.

(Dear Interested Prospector: Everyone in Lubbock save those in a position to do something to better conditions knows what you say is true. I, too, believe even those in authority will wake up, but I wouldn't want to guess when! Five years ago the whole official family of Lubbock agreed that traffic conditions should be improved, a system of boulevards set up, etc., but as yet nothing has been done toward getting the job done. Come back about 1965, and maybe things will be better. And please note, we said "MAYBE!" Very truly yours, The Plainsman.)

Italian Couple Honored For Rearing "The Ideal American Family" Among Hardships

BY J. EDWARD MURRAY
United Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, Aug. 25 — Thirty-seven years of unnoted sacrifice in a squalid tenement district on Chicago's west side ended for an Italian couple today in public acclaim for rearing "the ideal American family" in one of the worst environments in the nation.

Mr. and Mrs. George Cascino, now approaching 60 and both in frail health brought on by severest poverty, hard work and self-denial, were singled out by the Union League club of Chicago for a unique "family life" award.

Investigated 4,000 Families

To demonstrate that "family life is the foundation of national life," the Union League investigated 4,000 Chicago immigrant families to find the one that had best accomplished the American ideal despite straitened circumstances.

George and Theresa Cascino, who brought a family of five to maturity with high distinction in the face of extreme financial hardship and the environment of the Italian slums, were announced as the winners today. At a presentation ceremony on Wednesday they will receive a gold-framed, illuminated plaque:

"In recognition of extraordinary achievement in maintaining the American ideal of family life, parental responsibility, and duty to community and country. . ."

Came To U. S. In 1904

To the one-time shepherd boy and his peasant bride, these words meant they had risen far. In the ill-favored province of Abruzzi Molise in Italy, George first wrote his alphabet in stone. Theresa was born in a neighboring community not much further advanced.

Coming to America in 1904, George began work as a street laborer and machinist. After a quarter of a century of irregular employment, he was left without a job seven years ago when his firm failed.

Theresa started at $2.50 a week in a pants factory and worked intermittently at various jobs until 1929, never earning as much as $20 a week. The children suffered all the epidemic diseases, including diphtheria. The Cascinos made a $900 down payment on a home, but lost it three years later because of a defective title.

They lived in $10 a month tenements in a neighborhood that was a breeding ground for gangs of automobile thieves and bootleggers. Other Italian families withdrew their children from school to augment family income or took advantage of federal relief.

The Cascinos did neither. The parents went to settlement schools at night, became citizens, and conducted discussions of the consituation and American history in their home as well as family contests on the names of supreme court justices and Illinois congressmen. Today they got their reward.

Children Exemplify Ideal

"Five children were born into their home—four boys and one girl," the citation read. "All of them have grown to maturity and all exemplify genuine virtues of individual conduct and loyalty to national ideals . . . ."

Angelina, 34, the eldest, is now married and the mother of a son after contributing to the family many years as a stenographer. Dominic, the oldest boy, was sickly but finished trade school and works in a shoe factory.

Joseph, 29, first of the three younger boys to make brilliant school records, is a brain surgeon and resident physician at Illinois research hospital. He expects to enlist soon as a lieutenant in the army medical corps.

Michael, 26, will complete his master's degree in accountancy at Northwestern university by Jan. 1. Anthony, 24, has submitted his master's thesis in business administration at Northwestern.

"This (family) achievement has been wrought in an adverse environment and with the least material advantage," the citation records. "We salute the Cascinos as the true American family."

South Plains Co-Eds Assemble Fall Wardrobes

Style Tricks Are Unusual

What's news? To the 1,500 clothes-minded girls who plan to trek to registration desk at Texas Technological college and others who will journey to out-of-town schools in just a few more days, this question is as poignant as the world situation is meaningful to their fathers.

So, to contrast with the world outlook, college girls are all the more determined to express gaiety of color in their fall costume.

What's news? It's an even more important emphasis put on suits, skirts and sweaters, it's also plaids, feathers, fullness, furs, plenty of brightness and individual touches added by gadgety pieces of costume jewelry, unusual socks, scarfs and hair decorations.

Basic Suit Is Important

But, first, let's start at the beginning, with a three-piece basic suit. It's more than ever a "must," may be had in solid or plaid, with or without fur. The short coat is to "mix, match" and the top coat plays its part at football games over a dress or the suit and to slip on at any needed moment.

New, too, in the local stores are skirts on the skirt rack and jackets on the jacket rack but they belong to the same family. The young Miss Shopper can find a set to match or one that mixes well.

Characteristic of the skirts is plenty of fullness, some with peasant styles, some with pleats, about half with belts, none with straight lines. While suit-shopping-conscious, the co-ed will find a variety of corduroy suits, among them the threesome: jacket, skirt and slacks. With this, she'll add blouses and sweaters "to taste."

Made especially for her suit are plenty of collars and cuffs to put where needed and for a lift to last year's sweater, the dickie may be worn. It comes in round or regular type collars and will go with all types of sweater. News is the popularity of the "V" neck sweater.

Lubbock stores have these surprises for their co-eds.

Hats Are Always News

Hats are news. Small, clever hats that have the classic sophistication of the snap brim and the oomph the campus demands. They're tiny things with streamers, feathers, fur trim and tassels. Plenty of crocheted and knits are found in the form of beanies and wrap arounds, some to be tied up, others to let two long strands fall over the shoulders. One example is the "braw-la," which, reminding one of grandmother's night cap, ends off at the shoulder with a miniature Hansel and Grethel in wool tied to each tassel.

Hats have been made with an eye to the young wearer's pompadour and on each is added a feather. (And that goes for sport and dress!) New hats have arrived in pastels such as ice blue and soft pinks. With these come small hat pins. To wear with the fur coat and to give the young wearer a sophisticated air is the tiny hat with fur trim.

College girls are demanding unusual socks. In Lubbock the shops have large supplies of anklets that call for attention in two tones, stripes, angora, highly decorative tops and unusual weaves. The stores have three quarter length socks again in all colors and have ordered some "above the knee cotton hose." It is to be hoped that the Tech co-ed will "go" for the three quarter length sock. (No luck so far).

Scarfs Are Popular

Scarfs are now adequate in all Lubbock's co-ed shops. They're made to be worn around the neck or over the hair. Some are made to be purchased with a certain dress or sweater and a dominant color is carried out in the set. One shop has scarfs and hankies of a fine imported French cotton made to match. Found in another store are scarfs, very long and bright, of soft spun rayon.

In the words of one store manager, "formal" news is "much, much fuller skirts." The dinner type dress is popular and the trend in evening dresses is velveteen jackets with taffeta skirt. One new arrival was a silk jersey skirt and wool jersey shirt with a large nail headed belt which would be especially good for the girl who liked tailored styling even in her evening wear.

Something else made for the co-ed that demands unique dresses is found in "tiers." Discovered was a red three tiered crepe evening frock. You take off the lower tier and go to a tea, then add a tier and go dancing. To go with it are long wool evening coats or long velvet capes with hoods. To this costume will be added a steel metal mesh bag in gold or white.

In sweaters, the co-ed shopper will find some with suede front and knitted backs, some in the new feather light knit, a great number made larger, longer for comfort.

She'll find jersey in most of her date dresses for now it's jersey with corduroy, jersey with velveteen and jersey with wool.

New and very, very good are jumpers and jerkins. A number of dresses will be found with the peplum or tunic effect. Over one half of the "dress-up" dresses have three-quarter length sleeves.

Plenty of novelty campus bags are to be found but the news is large wool bags and hats to match.

Chains are all the go in jewelry. Ear screws, in silver and gold, may prove good, a military theme is still being emphasized, one strand of pearls is better than a number, a great deal of attractive gadgets for the costume such as miniature pen and pencil sets, a heart to pin on one's sweater — anything goes that is unusual and attracts the eyes.

Sets of pajamas or gowns with robes to match are considered essential for dorm life. Robes are quilted, of suede cloth or of wool.

Latest new comer is the "gal-about", a coat of finger tip length with detachable hood and a hugh pocket inside the coat for books and school equipment.

Other than the colorful jackets worn so much last year are now found the station wagon jackets and the loafer-ette. The latter is made just like the boy friend's loafer jacket.

There are variety and an air of casual comfort in the co-ed's shoes for fall. No Lubbock store was to be seen displaying the saddle oxford. In its stead may be found the official Girl Scout shoe in all white, the moccasin with flat heel, the broque-effect shoe in suede with caramel trim and leather soles, or the slack shoe that may be worn with anklets or hose.

For the school girl and work-the-same-day young lady is the shoe with pyramid heel, the turk toe. This shoe may be in alligator, it may have nail head trim and will probably be in antique brown or saddle tan.

Good for dancing are the "tomboys," semi-wedge low heels and platform sole. For town and date is the more than ever popular step-in pump with keg heel and in antique tan.

The co-eds have set the campus styles and Lubbock stores have followed suit for when the back-to-college girl goes shopping next week, she'll find the local stores catering to her every desire.

Authentic clan plaids will be important in college fashions this fall. From headgear to handbags, the Scotch influence brings gay colors to campus accessories. The purse shown here is a wool plaid, zips open three-fourths of the way to permit the college student quick and easy access to the contents. Bag fittings include, beside purse, comb and mirror, a pad and pencil for classroom notes, a key folder and nail file. A plaid scarf, which was designed originally by schoolgirls in Milwaukee, also comes in authentic clan plaids to complement other Scotch accessories.

Amarillo Civic Leader And Husband To Move Here To Make Home

From Amarillo comes word that Mr. and Mrs. James O. Cade, civic, church and club leaders, are moving here to make their home. Mr. Cade, a lawyer, is already in Lubbock to establish residence and Mrs. Cade will join him next week.

During her 15 years of residence in Amarillo, Mrs. Cade has been active in federation, music club and American Legion auxiliary programs, as well as activities of church, civic projects and other organizations.

Sub-Deb Club Is Tea Host

To initiate a series of rush parties, three members of the Sub-Deb club entertained with a Sunday tea in the home of Mrs. F. R. Friend, 2005 Broadway. They were Carlyne York, Sue Roberts and Willella Nelson.

The hostesses, Mary Lou Scoggin, Margie Glimp, Gloria Sciance and Mrs. Thomas E. Pirtle formed a receiving line.

During the afternoon Lou Deane Blair played piano numbers.

The tea table was centered with a vine of flowers twined around a silver post topped with flowers spelling the letters "S-D" and tied with club colors, silver and black. Favors were rush week calendars.

Punch, open-faced sandwiches and mints were served.

Automobile Manufacturers End Best Year Since Boom Era Of 1929

1941 Total Is Over 5 Million

BY ANTHONY G. DE LORENZO
United Press Staff Writer

DETROIT, Aug. 25. — The automobile industry looks back on the 1941 model year as the most successful since the boom days of 1929.

Preliminary estimates show that production of cars and trucks in manufacturers' American and Canadian plants totaled 5,590,000 during the model year ended this month. This was exceeded only by the 5,621,715-unit output of 1929.

At least 5,290,000 units of 1941 model production were turned out in American plants. The year's output represented an increase of 897,662 over 1940, and 573,563 over 1937, the third best year in history. The industry's average production over a 20-year period is 3,600,144 units.

Drastic Curb Effective

Although 1941 was a bumper year, automobile manufacturers are confronted with drastic curtailment because of the defense emergency. The government is striving for greater utilization of the industry's men and machines to speed the defense effort.

The industry already has received more than $2,000,000,000 of defense work but peak production on these contracts will not be reached until next year.

Director William S. Knudsen of the Office of Production Management, formerly president of General Motors Corp., has said that availability of materials will be the controlling factor in the shift of automobile workers to defense projects.

Engine Plant Expanding

In some plants, however, the transition from civilian to defense work is swift. The Packard Motor Car Co., for instance, is adding approximately 500 men weekly to production of liquid-cooled Rolls Royce engines for the United States and British air forces. At peak production — three engines per hour—the firm expects to employ 14,000 men in its $30,000,000 aircraft plant, an increase of 9,000 over present payrolls.

Meanwhile, Chrysler Corp. has transferred 3,000 men from its Jefferson plant to its $20,000,000 tank arsenal, which is employing 4,000 on three shifts. By mid-November employment will be boosted to 6,000. The firm soon hopes to be turning out tanks at the rate of eight a day. The tanks weigh 30 tons and are powered by 450-horsepower, nine-cylinder, air-cooled Wright engines.

City Equalization Board Is Selected

Membership of the city equalization board finally was completed this morning and those persuaded to serve started work immediately, according to information given at the city hall.

The members are D. N. Leaverton, former member of the city commission and now distributor for an oil company; J. P. Middleton, insurance and real estate; and Rufe Williams, merchant. All have been residents of Lubbock many years.

The members receive $5 per day for their work.

Their first task will be to check city tax rolls and then send notices to property owners whose renditions are changed by the board. Such property owners then will be given opportunity to appear before the board to protest the changes. Dates of protest hearings cannot yet be set, but they probably will be in about three weeks.

Daffy Dodgers Take "Storybook Triumph" From Cardinals To Maintain Lead

Bihl Cops City Open Championship From Doherty

Amarillo Drops Hubbers Twice; Spudders In City Tonight

Winner Takes Third In Row

Claiborne Annexes Consolation Prize

BY JOE PIERCE
Journal Sports Writer

Jodie Bihl ran his 1941 winning streak to three straight tournaments Sunday, adding the City Open championship to the Meadowbrook Open and Ruidoso Invitation titles with a 3 and 2 victory over Edgar Doherty.

The slender young professional made Meadowbrook's par 35-36—71 look very easy indeed by firing rounds of 35-33—68 and 32-37—69.

The cards:

Morning Round

Par out	454	445	445	—35
Bihl out	455	435	445	—35
Doherty out	454	345	444	—35
Par in	443	453	445	—36-35—71
Bihl in	344	333	346	—33-35—68
Doherty in	443	434	445	—34-35—69

Afternoon Round

Par out	454	445	445	—35
Bihl out	334	334	445	—33
Doherty out	454	455	443	—36
Par in	443	435	445	—36-35—71
Bihl in	344	334	445	—37-33—70
Doherty in	443	434	445	—37-36—73

The triumph was Bihl's second in City Open competition. He first won the tournament in 1938, the year he made a "grand slam" by winning the West Texas, City Open, Meadowbrook and Country club championships. Since that season, he had not won a tournament until he captured the Meadowbrook title last month.

Doherty's Putts Erratic

Doherty played beautiful golf from tee to green, but his long putts refused to drop. Jodie's putts did drop, and that was the story of the match.

Doherty took an early lead by taking Nos. 3 and 4 on the morning round after halving the first two. But Joe won the 5th and 9th to square the match.

Jodie took a 1-up lead in the second nine of the morning's play, and stretched it to 4-up on the first nine of the afternoon round, when he fired a 32.

Bihl Finishes Fast

Doherty cut the count to 2-up by winning the first two holes on the last nine when Bihl got into the rough. The 12th was halved with pars and the 13th with bogey fives, Doherty three-putting to miss a chance to win.

They halved the 14th, and both got off good drives on the 15th. But on the second shot, Doherty got into trouble—and the creek. His second shot faded badly, and he was lucky to get out with a bogey six. Bihl had a birdie four, leaving him 3-up with three to play.

The match ended on the 16th when Bihl made a fine recovery shot out of the creek to halve the hole when Doherty missed a putt for a birdie.

Claiborne Wins Consolation

Carol Claiborne, who shared the medal with E. L. Toler, won the consolation with a 2 and 1 victory over Howard Walker.

Rex Brown took the first flight title with a 3 and 1 victory from Weldon Counts, who returned to his army station at Fort Bliss this morning. Cecil Barrow won consolation honors with a 2 and 1 triumph over Jasper Sanders.

In the second flight, Cotton McAfee won the crown, going 20 holes to defeat Herman Patterson, 1 up. Both were playing super golf; McAfee finished with a 74, Patterson with 75.

Bain Beats Trout

Ty Bain's 4 and 2 victory over Chick Trout, jr., won consolation honors for him in the second flight.

F. L. McRee won the third flight title by default from H. E. McCrocklin. P. H. Polk defeated Bill Pool, 6 and 5, for consolation title.

O. A. Brock defeated Bernie Howell, 6 and 5, for the fourth flight championship. Dick Rountree won the consolation with a 2-1 win from C. B. Harris.

C. J. Humphrey went 19 holes to defeat Sid Oglesbee, 1-up, and win the fifth flight crown. Dayle Vannoy won the consolation, 2 and 1 from Ernest Ohnemus.

Bombers Divide Two With Borger Nine

BIG SPRING, Aug. 25. (Special).—Big Spring's Bombers protected their two and a half game lead in the West Texas-New Mexico league standings Sunday by dividing a doubleheader with the second-place Borger Gassers.

Borger won the first game, 4 to 2, behind the seven-hit pitching of Bob Crues. The Bombers took the second, 2 to 1, winning despite the fact that Jim Jennings held them to three hits. Willard Ramsdell got credit for the victory, allowing seven hits.

A Diamond "Miracle" At Twilight!

There's More Turmoil In Old Flatbush; Beloved Bums Are On Spot In Cardinal Series

BY HARRY FERGUSON
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The shades of night were falling fast and so were the Brooklyn Dodgers—in fact, it looked as though they were falling right out of first place.

It was the ninth inning of the second game of yesterday's doubleheader with the St. Louis Cardinals, the start of what is known to the faithful of Flatbush as "a kerooshial series." The Cardinals had won the first game and had come from behind to tie the score in the second.

"Oh-h-h-h, you bums," was the wail that came from grandstand and bleachers as the Flatbush faithful conferred with one another on the most satisfactory way of committing hari-kari in event the beloved bums lost both games and dropped out of first place. It had been a tense, nerve-wracking afternoon for the Flatbush faithful. Leo the Lip Durocher, manager of the beloved bums, had torn the hearts of the faithful by almost getting booted off the field for sticking his chin in an umpire's face. Kirby Higbe, best of the beloved bums' pitchers, had been belted out of the box in the opening game.

Even Cheer For Pollet

And here, in the twilight, the never-say-die Cardinals had come roaring up to tie the score. As the tying run came across, the Flatbush faithful abandoned hope. Why, they even began to cheer a bit for young Howard Pollet, the rookie lefthander of the Cardinals who was doing a great job in a tough spot.

A sound that is technically known in Flatbush as "the boid" began to ring in the ears of the bums, not so beloved now. Torn paper drifted on the field from the listless hands of the faithful. Durocher was a bum. Medwick, a hero earlier in the afternoon when he hit a home run, was a bum. Camilli was a bum. All the beloved bums were bums.

Then Miracle Happened

The Flatbush faithful only stirred slightly in their coma of anguish when Peewee Reese laid a perfect bunt down the third base line in the last half of the ninth and moved to second on Mickey Owen's sacrifice.

And who was that coming out of the dugout to hit? Why it was Whitlow Wyatt, the pitcher, and every member of the Flatbush faithful knows that a pitcher can't hit. Why didn't that bum Durocher put in a pinch hitter? Whoever told that dash dash bum that he knows how to manage a ball club?

Wyatt picked up a bat and the faithful got their sneers adjusted on their faces. And then—O, magnificent moment, O, miracle in the twilight—Wyatt shot a single over second base and Reese raced home with the winning run.

All Confidence Again

The Flatbush faithful came to life, they swarmed onto the field, they surrounded Wyatt and almost snapped his spine as they pounded him on the back. Then they rushed for Durocher. Why the guy was the greatest manager in baseball, a master psychologist and a superb judge of hitters.

The "kerooshial series" resumes today. The Flatbush faithful will be out in force again. Give the Cardinals the "boid," boys, why the beloved bums are going to "moider" them, win the pennant and beat the Yankees four straight in the World Series.

Loboes Defeat Pampa Twice

(Special To The Journal)

LAMESA, Aug. 25—Lamesa's Lefty Courtney pulled the iron man stunt Sunday afternoon and won a doubleheader from the Pampa Oilers, 1 to 0 and 7 to 5.

The first game was a neat duel between Courtney and Lefty John McPartland, with Courtney shading his opponent and himself singling and scoring the only run of the game in the sixth.

Brown, Guynes Homer

Courtney tired in the sixth and seventh frames of the nightcap, and the Oilers made five hits and an error account for three runs, after scoring one each in the first and third.

Marshall Brown and Guynes hit home runs in the second game.

Kirby Jordan was given his release after the last game to allow him to leave Monday for San Diego, where he will join the Padres of the Pacific Coast league for the rest of the season.

The box scores:

FIRST GAME

PAMPA	AB	R	H	PO	A
Haralson, ss	3	0	0	1	1
Hale, 2b	2	0	0	1	1

Twin Bill To Start At 8:15

Sox Take Sunday's Tilts, 9-5, 10-7

Lubbock's lamentable 1941 "home" baseball season officially came to an inglorious end Sunday afternoon with loss of a desultory doubleheader to the Amarillo Gold Sox—but the Hubbers are still in town as "guests" of the Wichita Falls Spudders.

Manager Neal Rabe and his Spudders have been re-scheduled to play the Hubbers in a doubleheader here tonight, a single game Tuesday night, and a wind-up doubleheader next Monday night.

Is "Ladies Night"

The games were transferred to Lubbock from Wichita Falls with consent of league members and upon request of Manager Rabe, whose club hasn't been drawing so good on the home course.

Tonight's twin bill starts at 8:15 o'clock, and will consist of two seven-inning games.

Acting as official host, Manager Rabe has announced that it will be "ladies night," and all feminine fans are to be admitted upon payment of the usual nickel tax. Rabe has promised to be in good form, and to have his best pitchers available for the series.

Hubbers Outhit Sox

The Hubbers, for the first time since they entered league competition in 1938, virtually eliminated themselves from the Shaughnessy championship playoff by kicking away two badly needed games to the faltering Gold Sox yesterday.

And it was "Charlie Engle Appreciation Day," too, with a good crowd there.

Although outhitting the Sox in each game, the Hubs committed nine costly errors, gave up six costly walks, and left a total of 23 of their own men stranded on the bases, as Amarillo, behind the erratic pitching of Russell "Kid" Crider, won 9 to 5 in the first game, and 10 to 7 in the nightcap.

Take Quick Lead

The score was tied twice in the second game, once by Amarillo and once by Lubbock, but the Hubs didn't have what it took to come through in the clutches, although they had won their four previous games with some classical clutch hitting.

Amarillo jumped on Steve Vrablik for two home runs and four tallies in the first game, and were never headed. Bus Dorman poked out a two-run homer in the third, and added another in the third. Catcher Bill DeCarlo followed Dorman's first homer with a four-bagger.

Lubbock Loads Bases

Vrablik settled down after the third and pitched three innings of shutout ball, but weakened in the seventh to let in three more tallies.

The Hubs left the bases loaded in four of the seven innings, getting the lead-off batsman on base in the first six innings and were retired in order in only the seventh frame. They slapped Crider's offerings all over the lot to get men on bases, but couldn't touch him when the chips were down.

Engle Is Honored

Lubbock threatened to make up for lost time in the second game, hopping off to a lead in the first two innings with crashing hits off Tommy Warren, but the Hubber pitching and defense fell to pieces in the fourth, fifth and sixth. Four runs scored in the fifth, four more in the sixth as four Lubbock pitchers went to the hillock. Manager Charlie Engle went in, after Heinz, Sucky and Vrablik had failed, and put the fire out.

Engle, honored morally if not physically by his team, was recipient of a pair of fancy cowboy boots, given by the players, and several other presents, including some $17 in cash, in a special ceremony between games. The skipper played at shortstop

Managers, Players Watch Axe For '42; Boston Still Thinks Notre Dame Pulled Trick Play

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Well, the Yankees are in ... Joe McCarthy, who usually is the last to admit it, came out in the open Saturday when he benched a couple of regulars with the explanation: "They won the pennant and so are entitled to a short layoff." ... Looks like the National will keep going, as usual, right to the last minute ... Wonder what Larry (the other lip) MacPhail thinks now of his failure to include Dixie Walker and Whit Wyatt among the guys who are responsible for keeping the Brooks on top ... Lot of the other clubs are busier guessing how many guys, including managers, will have their jobs next year than they are playing ball games ... Word from Detroit is that there'll be plenty of axe work on the salary list if the Tigers don't make the first division ... Cleveland writers now are calling 'em "Peck's sad boys" ... and a tip-off on the Tribe's collapse is that Jimmy Dykes does his managing from the bench against all the other clubs but gets out in the coaching box against the Indians to make sure they won't miss one of his cracks.

Wyatt's Stirring Ninth-Frame Single Brings Brooklyn Win, Split In Openers Of Series

Sizzling Cincinnati Reds Advancing On Leaders; Yankees Defeat Chisox Twice

BY JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Long after this season is over and the stirring struggle of the St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers for the National league pennant has been settled, one thrill will remain memorable for 31,000 baseball fans.

For the fanatics packed into Ebbets field at yesterday's crucial doubleheader between the foremost rivals of the senior circuit, the season reached a high point when Whitlow Wyatt singled in the ninth inning to snatch a 3-2 victory in the face of encroaching darkness and save Brooklyn's game and a half lead over the Cardinals, who had swept majestically to a 7-3 triumph in the first incounter.

It was a finish lifted right out of a scenario. The teams were playing for big stakes and the St. Louis victory in the opener had cut the Dodgers' lead to a half-game. Wyatt, a grand veteran, was wrapped in a breathless pitching duel with 20-year-old Howard Pollet, a lefthander who had been a sensation in the Texas league till the Redbirds promoted him 10 days ago.

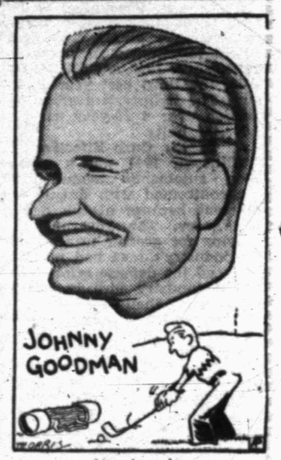

Pollet's Pitching Superb

Pollet pitched superbly, allowing only five hits till the ninth. But he got into a jam in the fourth inning and Dixie Walker smashed a double along the leftfield line for two runs. The Cardinals had counted a run in the first on three singles and in the eighth they tied the score with another on a double by Coaker Triplett and a single by Frank (Creepy) Crespi.

With this the situation when the Dodgers came to bat for the last time, Peewee Reese laid a perfect bunt down the third base line for a single. Mickey Owen sacrificed with an equally-effective bunt down the first base line.

Then Manager Leo Durocher came trotting in from the coach-

Complaints To Lubbock Police Over Week End Of A Minor Nature

Loot Is Small In Burglaries

Burglaries, thefts, purse-snatching, drunkenness, disturbance, operation of a bawdy house and other complaints were docketed over the week end by police.

Officials of Acme Seed company, at 508 Broadway, reported Sunday night that approximately $1 had been taken from two or three vending machines when an intruder entered the place.

Electric Motor Stolen

A half-horsepower electric motor was stolen from an air conditioning unit atop a building at 1501 Avenue H, reported J. R. Dickerson.

Someone broke a window of a parked automobile between Broadway and Main on Texas avenue and stole $16 in clothing, police said.

A residence in 3200-block Monroe avenue was broken and entered by someone during absence of its occupants.

"Burglars went to bed and made themselves at home," police said.

Wrecks Are Reported

Two wrecks were reported Sunday, but no one was injured. A negro was charged with drunkenness as result of one. He drove across another black's lawn, wrecked a swing and was taken to jail. In the other, in 2800-block Avenue H, a dump truck and a gasoline pump were struck, said Sgt. Lewis Kittrell of the traffic department.

An 18-year-old negro girl was charged with operation of a bawdy house after two other persons had been charged with vagrancy by police who had gone to the Flats section in search of gamblers.

No Arrest Made

No arrest had been made after investigation into a case of purse-snatching early Saturday night in 1100-block Avenue O. A large negro ran after tearing the purse from grasp of Mrs. Dewey L. Nicholson of 1615 Ninth street.

Sam Hutson, sheriff of Littlefield, telephoned Lubbock police this morning, asking that they help him locate two missing girls last reported seen in an old car with two CCC boys. One of the girls was described as 15 years old.

There were seven drunk, one disturbance and two fighting complaints that resulted in arrests, police said.

the chamber of commerce.

If suggestions are made, names will be referred to the flying field naming board in Washington, D. C. The actual naming will be by the war department, according to information here.

Search Unsuccessful

Chamber officials explained that they have been seeking names of deceased veterans who meet the listed requirements. Thus far, the search has been unsuccessful. A list of names was obtained from the war department of Texans who died in war action or have been killed in crashes while on duty. But the list is incomplete and detailed information was not available to the chamber of commerce concerning various names on the list.

At the moment, the name most frequently mentioned in connection with the school here is that of Capt. Francis P. Booker, who was born in San Antonio, educated there and in Austin, entered the army within a month after United States entry into the World war, and served with distinction in the air corps from 1920 until Sept. 9, 1936, when he was killed in an airplane crash due to unknown causes at Maxwell field, Ala.

oil company.

"I have not come before you to offer you a price, but to learn your attitude regarding your leasing of the county farm," he said.

Commissioners said without voting they would watch developments a while before deciding whether they would enter into leasing activity.

The city of Lubbock recently leased 886 acres on which its disposal plant is located. In terms of the lease, the city will get the usual one-eighth royalty and, in addition, will get $50 an acre if there is oil production. Lease requires the leaseholder to begin drilling within 45 days of signing.

Commissioners voted to transfer $1,500 from the general to the officers salary fund, and approved the delinquent tax report of H. B. Bryan, county tax assessor-collector, for the 1939-40 period.

Prospective Flying Cadets Are Examined

Four members of an army aviation board to examine candidates for aviation cadets, arrived this morning from Amarillo and began the examination of three prospects in the district recruiting office in the federal building.

Two men out of six examined Friday, passed the tests, said Capt. H. B. Johnson, president of the board. They were Billy Bayless of Lubbock and Sheffy Mahan of Childress.

Other officers comprising the board included Lieuts. Frank E. Bomar, Malvern H. W. Brown and Charles M. Kirkland. Two noncommissioned officers were in the party, which traveled in an army recruiting service station wagon.

In Amarillo, where the board spent Saturday and Sunday, 17 men were examined, seven of them passing, said Capt. Johnson.

Stock Market

FEW GAINS NOTED

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 (AP) — Favored stocks batted out a number of hits in today's market but many leaders failed to reach home.

The day's turnover of about 350,000 shares was aided by one block of 19,700 Commonwealth & Southern at Saturday's final quotation of ⅝ of a point.

Scant stimulation was discerned in the news budget. Wall Street was unable to form definite conclusions anent war shifts involving the Nazi push in Russia and the British-Russian invasion of Iran.

Richfield Oil, a fast mover last week, edged into new high ground for 1941. Ahead at times were Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Texas Corp, International Paper, Pepsi-Cola, U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, United Aircraft, Anaconda and American Telephone.

Among occasional laggards were Consolidated Aircraft, American Smelting, Westinghouse, Eastman Kodak, Sears Roebuck and Allied Chemical.

Bonds were a shade uneven. Commodities dipped when the president vetoed the bill to freeze loan stocks of wheat and cotton but eventually steadied. At Chicago wheat ended unchanged to up ⅝ of a cent a bushel and corn was off ¼ to ⅝. Cotton, in late trades, was unchanged to down 15 cents a bale.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Aug. 25 (AP) — Wheat prices weakened momentarily today after announcement of presidential veto of legislation to freeze government stocks, but, when selling failed to expand, dealers who had sold "short" began covering their positions and the market rallied quickly.

Extreme losses of about a cent were converted into net gains of more than a cent but the market reacted again and closed with little change compared with Saturday. Traders said failure of much liquidation to appear on the veto announcement was attributed largely to the fact that a veto had been expected and to unwillingness of owners to sell while new crop loans rates are above current spot market prices.

Wheat closed unchanged to ⅝ higher compared with Saturday, September $1.12, December $1.15⅞-⅞; corn ¼-⅜ lower, September 76½, December 80⅜-¼; oats ⅛-⅜ down.

FOUR MEN KILLED

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 25, (U.P.)—The eastern air command today announced that four men were killed in an airplane crash near Liverpool, N. S., and five airmen escaped death in another crash in the same area.

Shipyard Will Resume Work

(By The Associated Press)

Three thousand workers, vanguard of 18,000, headed back to work today under navy management at the plant of the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock company in Kearney, N. J.

CIO's Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding workers, who tied up half a billion dollars of ship construction with their strike call August 7, voted yesterday to end their walkout in view of President Roosevelt's order Saturday that the navy take over the yards. It was expected that full operations would be underway Tuesday.

Detroit Strike Ends

The union will negotiate with the navy over its demand for a maintenance-of-union contract clause which would provide for dismissal of workers who failed to pay their dues. This clause was what caused the company to balk at accepting a national mediation board recommendation for settlement of the dispute.

Ended also yesterday was an AFL strike which had tied up Detroit buses and street cars since last Wednesday. The Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach operators agreed to resume work pending an election to determine whether a majority of the transit workers wish to be represented by the union or CIO's state, county and municipal workers of America.

The AFL called the strike to support a demand that it be recognized as sole bargaining agent.

West Dies

had been in ill health for two months, entered the hospital here last Thursday after catching cold while on a business trip.

Was Believed Improved

His condition was believed so far improved yesterday that Wesley West left the hospital to go to luncheon. When he returned his father was dead.

West rose to wealth from a modest beginning. He was born at Waynesboro, Miss., in 1871, on a farm. His parents brought him to Texas in 1880 and he obtained his schooling in that state. His business career began in a drug store at Groveton, Texas.

By 1939 he was able to sell 30,000 acres in southern Harris county to the Humble Oil and Refining company for $8,000,000 cash and royalties estimated by oilmen as worth from $30,000,000 to $40,000,000.

Purchased Two Papers

In December, 1939, he became a publisher, purchasing the Dallas Dispatch-Journal and changing the name to the Journal. He bought the Austin Tribune later.

After leaving the drug store at Groveton, he entered the lumber business at Westville, a town named for his family. Several years afterward he went to Houston and established the West Securities company. In 1910 he and his associates bought the South Texas Lumber company.

He was president of the West-Gage Cattle company and headed the West Production company, an oil firm operating in the gulf coast fields.

Tech Board Chairman

He was a member of the board of directors of Southwestern university, Georgetown; chairman of the board of directors of Texas Tech at Lubbock; member of the board of directors of the Federal Reserve bank, Dallas; member of the board of trustees of the Methodist hospital of Houston and a steward of St. Paul's Methodist church of Houston.

He was married July 3, 1897, to Miss Jessie Dudley, a native of Georgia, who survives.

Other survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Frank Lee Hewitt, Silver Springs, Md.; three sisters, Mrs. J. T. Evans of the Fort Terrett ranch, Texas, and Mrs. E. L. Spencer and Mrs. A. E. Anderson, both of Houston; a brother, W. W. West, Houston; five grandchildren, Margene, Marian, Betty Ann and James Wendell West, all of Houston, and Frank Hewitt, jr., of Silver Springs, Md., in addition to several nieces and nephews.

Tribute Paid West At College Today

Tribute was paid to James M. West, chairman of the Texas Technological college directorate, who died Sunday afternoon, at the college this morning.

The flag on the campus was lowered to half staff and sorrow at Tech's loss through death of the director was expressed by President Clifford B. Jones.

Great Loss To Tech

"Mr. West has been of inestimable value to Texas Technological college," said President Jones. "He had been a member of the board several years and had been chairman for some time. He had a great interest in college work. As an example, he came here last June under care of a nurse to participate in our graduation exercises. Texas and certainly Texas Technological college have sustained a great loss in his demise."

Dr. Jones was notified of the death in a telegram received from Mr. West's secretary Sunday night. He was awaiting information concerning funeral arrangements this morning.

Appointed In 1935

Mr. West first was appointed to the Tech directorate on Feb. 19, 1935. He was named chairman of the board last fall following the death of Joe T. Sneed, jr., of Amarillo, who died Oct. 18. Mr. West's election as chairman became effective Dec. 6.

His first six-year term on the board of directors expired Feb. 18 of this year and he was appointed to another six-year period.

Decisions as to representation of the college at services were pending information on funeral arrangements.

A Severe Blow

Spencer A. Wells, vice chairman of the board of directors, described Mr. West's death as "one of the most severe blows the college has had."

"Tech was one of his real interests," Wells said.

The vice chairman, who assumes duties of chairman following Mr. West's death, planned to leave early this afternoon for San Angelo. He said, "I very definitely wish to attend services, if at all possible after we learn of arrangements."

Texas' New Senator Greatly Relieved--

O'Daniel Convinced That FDR Knows What It's All About

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Aug. 25.—President Roosevelt impressed W. Lee O'Daniel as knowing "more about true world conditions than any other living man," the junior senator from Texas declared in a transcribed radio address broadcast by several Texas radio stations yesterday.

O'Daniel said that upon the occasion of his first meeting with the president at the White House last Tuesday "I could not keep from experiencing a sigh of relief."

"His appearance and actions conveyed the impression to me that he was wholly aware of all details and the gravity of the emergency," O'Daniel added.

Texas' newly elected senator said that the president seated him at the executive desk to discuss the Roosevelt-Churchill highseas conference and other phases of international affairs. He asserted the president evinced interest in the anti-strike violence bill sponsored by O'Daniel in the last Texas legislature.

O'Daniel invited any Texan visiting Washington "to call on me at any time I could be of service to him."

Jap Press Scores Churchill Speech

TOKYO, Aug. 25 (AP) — The Domei news agency, in an apparently inspired story quoting a "well-qualified commentator," declared today that British Prime Minister Churchill's broadcast yesterday was based on a 3-point misinterpretation of the facts.

The article was part of a vigorous attack in the Japanese press against the speech in which Churchill promised aid to the United States if attempts to stop Japan's expansion were not accomplished peacefully.

Claim China's Cooperation

"First, it must be borne in mind that the China incident broke out two years before the European war," the agency said. "Therefore, Churchill's allegation that Japan followed the example of Hitler and Mussolini is preposterous and totally devoid of a sense of time.

"Secondly, Japan is going ahead for reconstruction of the Chinese continent in full cooperation with China. Therefore, Churchill's saying Japan is encroaching upon 500,000,000 Chinese people is totally groundless."

"Thirdly, Japan made a peaceful advance into French Indo-China according to terms freely and peacefully entered into through amicable diplomatic relations by the two parties. Therefore, Japan never has taken French Indo-China by force."

Parity Checks Are Received

Sixty-one cotton parity checks, the first to be received for the current year, have been received by the county Agricultural Adjustment administration office, Walter Y. Wells, administrator, said this morning in announcing checks amounted to $5,45¾.

There were 61 checks in the shipment, covering 45 farms, with both producer and owner receiving a share in the payment.

To Approve Others

Up to this morning 210 applications for payment of cotton parity had been approved by the county AAA committee and forwarded to the state office at College Station. The committee at its meeting Tuesday will probably approve more applications.

Applications are approved only after the land has been measured and the owner or operator of the farm shown to be in compliance with the conservation program.

22 Crews Are Busy

There are 22 crews of two men each engaged in surveying and checking farms. Approximately two-thirds of the acreage have been measured. Delay has been due to the fact that so many farmers have had to plant their crops in small acreages at a time, because of the heavy rains of May and June which washed out crops and necessitated several replantings.

Wells said he had not figured the approximate parity payments for the county but estimated they would approximate between $475,000 and $500,000. Payments will be on approximately 173,000 acres in cotton.

that of the 1909-14 period.)

Mr. Roosevelt termed particularly objectionable a provision directing the Commodity Credit corporation to acquire title to all cotton and wheat of the 1940 and previous crops in which it has an interest and hold them for an indefinite period.

Producers, consumers, and Congress have accepted as far and reasonable, Mr. Roosevelt said, the parity price goal of the administration's farm policy. And he said he did not feel farmers would want this acceptance "destroyed" by action designed to force prices above parity "through the arbitrary withholding of government-owned stocks from the normal channels of trade and commerce."

Former Residents Of Eastland Area Meet

Between 400 and 500 former residents of Eastland county reelected officers who have served the past year, at the fifth annual reunion Sunday in Mackenzie state park, Dr. J. D. Moorehead as president and Walter S. Anglin of Tahoka as secretary-treasurer, Dan W. Powers, master of ceremonies, said this morning.

J. R. Palmer of Stephenville, a former school teacher of the county and W. S. White of Meadow, were the principal speakers. Numerous short talks were given during the program.

Powers presided over the session in place of Dr. Moorehead, who attended. A son of Dr. Moorehead died last week the result of injuries in an accident.

Former residents from as far north as Amarillo, east to Erath county and west to New Mexico were present. It was decided to meet the fourth Sunday in August, in 1942.

Military Engineer.

"Officers' wives," he wrote, "will have no opportunity to comment on the arrangement of kitchens, closets, etc., in officers' quarters.

"Some standardization is essential, time is a factor, and the room arrangements of the architects have been accepted as satisfactory.

"It is recognized that many wives will not agree."

Col. Arthur's statement that wives would have no opportunity to comment was somewhat at variance with opinion in service circles. The resigned belief there was that wives would find every opportunity to comment.

Col. Arthur was technical adviser to the army, navy and marine board which chose sites and started development of the bases last fall in the eight British possessions: Newfoundland, Bermuda, Bahamas, Jamaica, Antigua, St. Lucia, Trinidad and British Guiana.

dozen trout I caught sure will cost me, it turns out," he said.

The loss is well covered by insurance, however, McIlhaney said, and an adjuster said loss might not turn out to be more than $15,000 "unless some of the expensive machinery in the back part of the place was damaged."

McIlhaney, in carbon-stained overalls, this morning directed reconstruction work in the plant. Adjusters and an architect were with him, and electricians were preparing to throw up an emergency highline, carpenters to erect a temporary partition so that "wheels can be started rolling in a few hours."

The alarm was sounded at five minutes before 2 o'clock Sunday morning and six pieces of fire equipment eventually had to be sent to the scene. Ten lines were laid and firemen battled the blaze until 9:30 o'clock before it was completely extinguished. Cause of the fire had not been determined.

Allies Invade Oil Kingdom

combat any invader—British, Russian or German—even at 10-1 odds.

In Berlin today, the limousine of the Iranian minister to Germany was seen in front of the Nazi foreign ministry a few hours after the invasian began.

Race Against Time

London observers said the British were faced with a race against time, declaring German agents in Iran would attempt to destroy the oil pipeline running from Jasmid-I-Sulaiman to the Iran frontier and wreck the great oil fields in the north.

As an advance indication that the Iranians might fight, the kingdom's constitutional monarch, Riza Mhan Pahlevi, last week ordered 1,072 newly-organized officers to active duty with the regular army.

In the 65-day-old Russian-German war, Adolf Hitler's high command again reported tersely that "operations in the east are making progress everywhere."

Leningrad Drive Checked

Soviet military dispatches declared that the Red army defenses had checked the German onslaught toward Leningrad and that heavily reinforced Russian divisions were successfully counter-attacking.

Mammoth Soviet tanks were credited with smashing 135 light German tanks in bloody fighting south and southwest of Leningrad, while on the central front, in the Gomel area between Smolensk and Kiev, the Russians said they left more than 100 Nazi armored vehicles wrecked and aflame.

A Moscow communique, announcing the entry of Red troops into Iran, said the action took place after three warnings to the Iran government over Nazi activity there.

Spreads To New Desert

Thus the war spread to a new desert from where an Iranian army of roughly 150,000 trained troops stood between British Middle East forces and a possible juncture with their Soviet allies.

A British announcement of the move declared Iran's reply to demands from London and Moscow that some 3,000 German tourists and technicians be expelled was unsatisfactory.

Reports from Turkey had indicated earlier that the British might strike east from Iraq, where a pro-Axis government was ousted by the British last spring, or northwest from Baluchistan and British India.

The Russians reported counter-attacking with huge tanks, masses of infantry and swift-striking cavalry on the northern, central and southern battlefields.

They declared one Rumanian and two German divisions had been routed and said three other Rumanian divisions had lost 26,000 men in the bitter fight for the Black sea port of Odessa.

The German high command announced yesterday its bombers and U-boats had delivered one of their heaviest blows to Britain's commerce. It said 21 merchantships totaling 122,000 tons were sunk out of a single convoy headed for Gibraltar, along with three convoying naval craft and three merchantmen in other operations.

Boy Dies When Head Crushed By Elevator

FORT WORTH, Aug. 25: (U.P.)—Billy Hardaway, seven-year-old son of a construction foreman, was killed today when his head was crushed in an elevator door at the Medical Arts building.

Holding the hand of his grandfather, W. E. Burney, the small boy had just stepped on the elevator. At the fourth floor a mother and father alighted with their small daughter. As the elevator started to move again, Billy lost his balance and his head caught in the door. The elevator moved only four feet, witnesses said, but the boy's head and shoulders were crushed.

California Prisoners Now Hear Broadcasts

Seven Killed, Nine Injured In Crash

WALDWICK, N. J., Aug. 25 (U.P.)—Seven persons were killed and nine injured last night when a bus en route from Albany, N. Y. to New York City crashed into a private car.

Both the bus and the car caught fire. Seven of the eight occupants of the automobile were killed. The 33 passengers of the bus were shaken up but escaped the fire through an emergency door. The bus, after striking the private car, swerved and hit two other automobiles and a taxicab causing injuries to the occupants.

NEOSHO, Mo., Aug. 25. (U.P.)—An applicant at the state employment office seeking work at the new army camp today turned down a job as a night watchman because, he said, his mother didn't approve of his staying out all night.

His age, listed on the application, was 68.

Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, R., Mich., proposed consideration of a sales tax but was defeated, 42 to 5. Vandenberg did not propose a specific tax, George said, but advanced the manufacturers' excise levy as a proposal for discussion.

WITHOUT comment, we herewith offer a piece of information gleaned from one day's news report of the versatile Associated Press:

An army, it has been said and said again, travels on its stomach. A glance at dietetic statistics for the Third Army, which is in the throes of maneuvers in Louisiana, gives reason to believe that this particular Army ought to travel far and comfortably.

Rations for the 250,000 officers and men of the Third Army during the six weeks of mock warfare include the following items:

Thirty million eggs, an average of two and one-half eggs per man per day; 7,000,000 pounds of fresh and canned beef, or an average of a pound a day for each man; 1,500,000 pounds of bacon; 11,000,000 pounds of bread; 9,500,000 pounds of potatoes; 2,500,000 pounds of sugar.

Among other eatables which the Third Army is expected to consume in six weeks are 14,278,975 oranges, and salad which will require 187,165 quarts of mayonnaise; 36,714 bunches of green onions, 239,530 bunches of celery, nearly 700,000 pounds of fresh tomatoes, 286,000 heads of lettuce and 34,888 quarts of vinegar.

These statistics were given out by the War department, with the superfluous comment that the American soldier is the best-fed fighting man in the world—a fact which most Americans will agree is as it should be.

THE Plainsman, together with a few other fond papas, was out the other evening watching a Cub scout softball game.

As the base hits punctured the fresh West Texas air and the kids fell all over themselves trying to make an occasional catch, we found ourself thinking what a swell thing it is for boys to have happy, wholesome, outdoor exercise with the proper sort of adult help and supervision.

And then we got to thinking about the men who help and supervise such activities here, and why they are willing to give so generously of their time, effort—and frequently their money—and if anyone ever thinks to thank them for their contribution to good citizenship and happy living here in our home town.

We looked out across the playing field and there were Vaughn Wilson and Paul Laverty working with one team, and Jim Johnson working with another. They've been working with those two teams for months now, taking off their evening hours two or three times every week for practice, or scheduled games; using their cars to haul the youngsters back and forth between their homes and the playing field. And no matter how much they may like boys, and softball, and regardless of the fact that they may have boys of their own they seek to encourage; they're making quite a contribution to a couple of dozen young lives.

WE ARE using Messrs. Laverty, Wilson and Johnson merely as examples of a point we want to make, namely, there are a lot of good men and women in this town who, without thanks, or fanfare, or publicity—but just in the sheer desire to be helpful—are working with boys and girls from six to the early twenties and are making these kids' lives a lot more pleasant than they otherwise would be.

There must be several hundred men and women working with Sunday school classes in Lubbock.

There are others who, without pay, are laboring with Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, the Boys Club and various other agencies—and doing a darn good job helping other people's kids get along, learn the rules of health and fair play, and of otherwise contributing to their welfare.

And as one of those whose kids have been recipients of that sort of kindness in Sunday school, the Kiwanis Knothole Gang, the Cubs and the Scouts, The Plainsman—who never thinks of doing that kind of job himself—is deeply appreciative, as, surely, many thousands of other Lubbock parents must be.

We have often—and frankly—failed to see eye-to-eye with the policies of numerous agencies which deal with kids.

It is The Plainsman's opinion that most of them are too highly organized; that there is too much money spent in operation of offices, on paid personnel, or sent to headquarters in New York, or Kankakee; that many of their frills and furbelows could be eliminated without harming the youngsters who come under the agencies.

But for the rank and the file of unpaid, volunteer workers in these various agencies—the men and the women who do the job of administering to the kids—we have nothing but loud cheers. And if their efforts come as the result of activities of the professional organization employes, then certainly not all the money given over to administrative purposes can't be wasted.

AS WE sat there the other evening with the kids shouting and running and playing as hard as if victory or defeat really meant something, it occurred to us that there are a lot of darn, good people in this town—which, since this town is only one of thousands on the globe, means there are a lot of good people in the whole world, cockeyed though it may seem at times.

It was a comforting thought there as the sun dropped down past the New Mexico border.

The experience made us realize that war, or no war, things can't be bad beyond redemption.

Many people who pass for being goodnatured are simply too lazy to kick.

THE PLAINSMAN is in receipt of a letter from Bill Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Jones, 1814 Avenue J, who is Lubbock's very fine representative at the United States Military Academy, at West Point.

Upon receipt of an appointment to the academy by Congressman George Mahon, young Bill, who for several years was a valued employe of The Avalanche-Journal, passed the stiff entrance examinations with flying colors and is now a full-fledged "plebe," or "freshman," at West Point.

Smart as a whip, handsome and as polite a young man as you'd ever meet, Bill is thrilled over his opportunity and over life at the Point in general — even though the latter is something less than a soft snap.

"If you come to West Point," Bill writes The Plainsman anent our projected visit to the East next month, "please don't bring a camera! I've just finished a 24-hour tour of guard duty; during that period some 200 people crossed my post and about 180 of 'em had cameras. I don't deny that I enjoy having my picture taken now and then — but now I know how the Indians at Taos, N. M., feel when summer tourists treat them like inmates of a zoo!"

Lubbock and the 19th Congressional district couldn't have a better representative at West Point than young Bill Jones, who on Monday left with the balance of the corps for late summer maneuvers.

CHAPTER 12
KITCHEN KNIFE

Carol brushed the brandy glass away. "They thought it was me in that big black wrap. I would have been there, where she was in a minute. It was almost as if I killed her, letting her wear my wrap."

"Don't talk stuff, Carol," I said. "It wasn't your fault that she leaned against that scenery and messed up her own jacket.

Carol said, her lips quivering: "And then when I saw her . . . I laughed! I stood there and laughed!"

Jeff took her roughly by the arm. "Drink this. Or do I have to hit you again?"

Carol tipped back the glass and drained it. Her hand went limply down on the table and the glass rolled across the top, stopping with a clink against the china book end. She watched it for a moment, then turned toward the bedroom. I started to follow her but Jeff caught me by the hand, holding me back. "Let her alone."

I sank down beside him on the studio couch. My eyes were burning with a tired ache, my whole body felt cold, somehow, and detached. Jeff was looking hard at the door through which Carol had gone.

"Jeff who did it?"

Jeff quirked an eyebrow. "Do you think I know?"

"You know something. You listened to them talking. The police, I mean; I didn't. I tried, but I couldn't. They talked in circles."

"They were going in circles."

"But they must know something, they have something to go on. It isn't like the poisoning. They have the knife. . . ."

"The knife came from the kitchen. Tom Neilson recognized it at once; he saw it in the cabinet drawer the first day of rehearsals at the Colony. He hasn't noticed it since, nobody has. Anybody could've sneaked it out of the drawer, any time. No," he went on quickly as I opened my mouth, "no fingerprints. Wiped off clean."

"But they must have some idea . . . about someone . . ."

"The only idea they have is who didn't do it. That's as far as they can get."

"Who do they think didn't do it."

"You. You were on stage. Ben Kerry. He was on stage."

"That couldn't be all!"

"Not quite. Carol's eliminated."

"Of course."

"I mean she has an alibi because Peterson and I were with her from the moment she left the stage until you screamed."

I said in disgust: "Those three eliminations are a lot of help. Nobody else?"

"Listen, Haila. There were twenty-seven people backstage tonight when Eve North was murdered. They say nobody came in and nobody went out. Twelve stage-hands, six people in the cast, Alice McDonald, Tommy Neilson and Phoebe, Clint Bowers, and the doorman, Eve North's maid and Peterson, Sullavan and I. You and Kerry and Carol are out. The detectives and I are out. Nobody else."

"Eve North is out," I reminded him.

"Yeah, and that leaves twenty. Tommy Neilson brought the curtain down the second you screamed. So he was near the rope at the other side of the stage from Eve. But he has no witnesses to his movements between the time of Eve's exit and your scream. Phoebe Thompson was on that side of the stage, but even she can't check on Tommy. She says she was standing in the wings with her eyes glued on you, trying to think of some line to throw you to get you out of the mess. Kerry had stuck you in, and she didn't see Tommy, didn't know he was there until he lowered the curtain. And Tommy can't check on Phoebe, so neither of them has an alibi."

Fifteen Suspects

"What about Sullavan? He was on that side of the stage."

"Sullavan's no help. In the dark he couldn't tell Steve Brown from Phoebe in her slacks. There were twenty-seven people moving about backstage. Nobody can remember when or where they saw anyone else. Peterson nearly went nuts before he realized that this was one murder that wasn't going to be solved by placing people at the time of the crime."

"But, Jeff, there must be some alibis!"

"Not enough of them to help much. Five of the stage-hands were in the basement and they alibi each other."

"And where were the rest?"

"Around someplace. At the light switch, in the prop room, on the stairs into the basement. No alibis. Bowers was sitting on that pile of first act furniture in back of the set, and he saw people moving about. But that's all they were, just people, no specific persons. It was too dark. He thinks he saw Amelia coming out of the kitchen when you screamed, but he isn't even sure of that."

"What about the rest of the cast, Jeff?"

"Well, Philip Ashley was in his room on the third floor making a change. Alice's room is next to his and she was in it, but that doesn't give either of them an alibi unfortunately for she had her door closed and was 'wrapped up' in script. Neither of them saw or heard the other. Steve was in his dressing room too, on the second floor, but Kerry has the room next to his and Kerry was on stage. So that leaves Steve minus an alibi."

"Stop, Jeff, I'm dizzy."

"You and me too. And Peterson. He finally ended up with fifteen suspects. And I'm adding another one for good measure."

"Who?"

"Greeley Morris."

"But he wasn't at the theater, Jeff!"

"Nobody saw him at the theater, you mean."

"But the doors were guarded!"

"Right. But the first chance I get I'm going to find out where and how he spent the evening."

"It was quite an evening!"

I went to the table and poured another drink. The scotch was beginning to tingle through my cold insides, and fuzz over the sharp ache behind my eyes. I shot some soda out of the siphon and stirred it noisily.

"Jeff, her back and arms. Eve's,

THE "LITTLE FELLOWS" ALSO SERVE

It is important to the national safety and business economy that the Office of Production Management should succeed in its effort to give small shops and factories a share of defense contracts.

Individually, such shops and factories may amount to little. Collectively, they represent much in potential production capacity and in the number of people they employ. Likewise, many are in localities which have felt the drain, but few benefits, from defense spending.

Thus, success of the efforts should mark progress toward several important objectives. It should help speed the defense program by utilizing facilities now in very limited use. It should help stabilize economy by a wider distribution of the national defense business, helping the individuals and businesses affected to meet their problems of increased cost of living and increased taxes. It would reduce in some degree the nation's dependence on a few industrial centers, some of which would be most vulnerable in case of attack. It would discourage migrations of workers now tempted to leave small shops and factories for high wages obtainable in industries swamped with defense contracts.

In short, it seems that the nation has a great deal to gain if the "little fellows" can be given a bigger hand in the defense efforts.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: During the next several weeks, Walter Winchell will be on vacation and his column will be conducted by guest writers).

BY BOB CHRISTIANBERRY
Manager, Hotel Astor

SOME months ago I decided Some Day I'm Going to Write a Book! Then the state of emergency swept upon the horizon and I found myself so busy lending whatever aid I could to the various British Relief affairs, the Greek Relief Fund, the USO drive, Mayor LaGuardia's Defense committee, the Broadway Association's "Make New York Your Vacation City" movement and a score of other matters of moment for the good of the community that I found my literary aspirations temporarily stranded on third base.

But I have notes. Sheaths of them. All tucked away in a corner. Notes about the Grand Hotel of America, the Hotel Astor, the part it has played in the life of the city, the prominent personalities it has roofed from the day in 1904 when the Muschenheims first unfurled its doors to the wide-eyed amazement of a populace stunned by the magnificence of this new edifice to twenty-minutes ago when a press agent walked into my office and suggested an idea that would get us thousands of press notices, newsreel coverage and international notoriety. He merely wanted to permit us to have Mayor LaGuardia rip off our aluminum Broadway front and turn it over to the Defense committee!

"Meet Me at the Astor" is more than just a slogan. For in the lobby, too, is the meeting place of memories when you recall, as you step into an elevator that whisks you up to the roof to dance to the hot rhythms of Will Bradley or Tommy Dorsey, that your Grandfather and your Grandmother probably danced the "Maxine," the "Gavotte," and the "Bunny Hug" in one of our ballrooms.

Everett Shinn, who, through the years has frequented the Astor quite a lot for a gentleman who hates celebrities, used to often repeat to me: "I never want to meet the people who amuse me. It's disillusioning to me to see a fine actor give a bad and disgusting performance at a dinner party after just one pint too much and I can't bear to see a dainty dancer who just entranced me with a charming, assumed fragility come up to a group where I am and heartily slap everybody on the back with a resounding belt and a boisterous 'Hello Butch.' And afterwards, while watching their artistry, I can never forget them as people."

I don't quite agree with Mr. Shinn. I find that every person, regardless of fame or fortune is a human being at heart and what makes his eccentricities or deeds news is that self-same fame and fortune.

FOR instance, lovable Jimmy Durante won't sleep in the hotel unless his room is equipped with an old brass bed which we keep in storage when he is out of the city . . . Monte Woolley likes his hot coffee and orange juice at four in the morning . . . If he can't fall asleep after a late show Tommy Dorsey jingles the phone and asks the desk to send up a rummy partner to play until eight or nine the next morning.

When Arturo Toscanini is due to arrive we have instructions to have his evergreens ready, to have the plants in front of his door and the ingredients for Risotto Scalloppini di Vitelle and his special vegetable soups to be cooked according to his own recipes.

Kirsten Flagsted always has dinner in her room but tulips must be on the table and the chef knows her particular fondness for Palmier's— small cakes served with ice cream . . . When Milton Berle's mother had a birthday here he ordered orchids instead of candles stuck into the birthday cake . . . The memorandum left on my desk one day advised that Tommy Manville's mother was checking in. And that she would permit her son's ex-wives to visit with her in her suite. They are all quite fond of each other!!!

One Stirring night in the memory of all Republicans is the night Charles Evans Hughes went to sleep here as President of the United States only to wake up the next morning to find that California had swung the election to Woodrow Wilson. . . . And you'd know it was 6:30 p. m. any day that Will Rogers strolled into the lobby, flipped a half-dollar over to the newsstand clerk and said—"Today's papers please, I want to sutdy my routine for tonight!"

One of the most interesting problems, and this was some years ago and was to untangle a hitch in a luncheon given for Prime Minister Ramsey MacDonald. His favorite dish was peas—but a market strike made them unavailable and we had to get out of the jam by driving a truck-load of peas from Phil-

"If You Can't Lick 'Em, Jine 'Em," Still A Good Slogan!

Alcoa-TVA Agreement Aids National Defense

BY PETER EDSON
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25—Behind the rather surprising action of the Aluminum Company of America and the Tennessee Valley Authority in throwing their arms about each other's necks and making a deal to let TVA control the company's power resources in the upper Tennessee Valley is one of those strange romances of big business and big government that illustrates the old principle, "if you can't lick 'em, jine 'em."

PETER EDSON

In this case, it applies both ways. The corporation and the government here lie down in the same river bed. But it's a legal wedding and the only shotgun aspects of the case are a rearmament program, and in such times you can't question the motives of anyone, tycoon or bureaucrat, for wanting to do everything possible to produce more aluminum.

Aluminum Company of America, hereinafter referred to as Alcoa for short, has been having its troubles with the government and vice versa for several years. Alcoa has been damned as a monopoly, though the company maintains it has never done anything to prevent anyone else from going into the business if it could raise the capital. And if the truth be known, Alcoa heaved a big sigh of relief when Reynolds Metal did enter the field to take the heat off this monopoly charge. In spite of the fact that without a competitor Alcoa has brought the price of aluminum from about $2 a pound in 1900 and 70 cents a pound in 1919, to 17 cents a pound in 1941, its profits have if anything been consistently good, and that has brought upon it the finger of New Deal suspicion.

SWORD STILL HANGS

IN April, 1937, the anti-trust division of the Justice department filed suit against Alcoa, charging the company was a monopoly and a party to agreements with foreign companies, under which the production of aluminum in the United States was restricted. That trial lasted from June, 1938, to August 15, 1940, and it produced so many million words of testimony that Judge Francis C. Caffey of New York hasn't been able to hand down his decision yet.

Whatever difficulties Alcoa may have had with Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold's division, and with Power Czar Harold Ickes, and regardless of the dirty cracks that have been taken at the company by the defense moguls and various congressmen—which is another story altogether, with many misunderstandings and unfair accusations—there has never been a day in recent years that Alcoa has not had occasion to rise up and call the Tennessee Valley Authority blessed. Those two have got along, as business and government should.

The production of aluminum is largely a matter of electric power. One of Alcoa's big and rapidly growing ingot and sheet mills is at Alcoa, Tenn., near Knoxville, at the head of the TVA country.

Long before TVA, even before Muscle Shoals, Alcoa was in the upper Tennessee valley country, building dams of its own to generate power of its own to make aluminum.

In October, 1940, Alcoa filed with the Federal Power commission a notice that it intended to build another dam in this area, a $50 million project it had been planning for years, and on which it had spent $3.6 million acquiring site and making surveys.

A month later, FPC replied that for this project, it would be necessary for Alcoa to take out a license, a federal government procedure not required on other dams. Taking out a license meant that Alcoa would have to agree to turn the project over to the government at the end of 50 years. In other words, it meant that the company would have to write off this investment at the rate of $1 million a year, which would be next to impossible for any one to do.

LIGHT OUT OF STRIFE

ALCOA countered with offers to OPM and TVA that it would take out the license if the government would assist in financing the project, or that it would sell the project to TVA. Or it would co-operate with the government in any other way that it could, just so it could get the benefits of the 200,000 kilowatts of energy necessary to operate its expanded Alcoa plant.

Out of this impasse came the present deal between TVA and Alcoa. It is a 20 year renewable contract, too long and too complicated to go into in detail, but briefly Alcoa gets the power and TVA gets the Fontana damsite and the privilege of building the dam. Alcoa will be paid principally in increased power but it will continue to operate the dams and the hydroelectric plants until 1944 when Fontana is completed and the contract goes into effect. In the meantime, TVA will control stream flow and power generation at all Alcoa dams, though Alcoa retains title to five.

The immediate benefits to the defense efforts are that by pooling the TVA and Alcoa power, energy will be made available to manufacture a maximum additional 22 million pounds of aluminum annually, and bring the total potential capacity at Alcoa to more than 200 million pounds a year.

WASHINGTON DODGERS

THE fine art of dodging questions and doing it with a gag line that leaves everybody satisfied is highly developed in Washington, and cabinet officers in particular use this trick in press conferences. . . . When Secretary of State Hull was asked whether the Roosevelt-Churchill eight-point peace objectives could be attained without U. S. entry into the war, he smiled quietly and came back with, "You know I'd rather not

Made Up To Kill

I mean. What was it?"

"Burns."

"From long ago?"

"From very long ago. More than twenty years. A theater fire in Detroit."

"Are they . . . are they as terrible as they seemed to me?"

"Yes. Pretty awful."

"And yet no one knew?"

"No. Amelia told us. Eve had been such a beautiful woman. She could never reconcile herself to the fact that her neck and arms and back were ruined. Instead of getting over it or used to is she only became more sensitive as the years went on. She was still going to skin specialists, taking treatments all over the country. She was going now to someone in Philadelphia, going twice a week. That's the mysterious errand she was on this morning."

"And that was why she took Carol's wrap?"

Man In The Hall

He nodded. "She must have leaned against that scenery, and then, realizing what she had done, whipped off her jacket to see the damage. There was a lot; the back of her jacket is thick with the stuff. I don't suppose she thought there would be time to get another wrap from her dressing room. Carol's cloak was there on the banister, almost beside her, and she must have thrown it on and stood there waiting for her cue. It was then that she got it. It was a pretty easy mistake. They're about the same height, the same build."

I said, thinking back over all the times I had seen Eve North on the stage and off: "She always wore such high-necked dresses and long flowing sleeves. I thought it was an affectation and really . . ."

"Yes. She lived in dread of being discovered. I think Amelia was probably very right. Eve North would rather have been killed than stared at."

"Poor Eve," I said.

I hadn't heard any sound from the bedroom nor the opening of the door, and I almost leaped when my eyes fell on Carol standing quietly in the doorway bundled up in my terry cloth bathrobe.

"I can't sleep and it's worse in there alone. May I . . . do you think I could have another brandy?"

I was at the liquor cabinet pouring it for her when a soft sly pecking sounded at the door. Jeff turned sharply and we watched him with apprehension as he moved to open it.

He had only pulled it a cautious inch before Jinx pushed his way in, closed and locked the door behind him and faced us, his eyes bulging.

"There's a man out in the hall!" he whispered.

"No!"

"Yes! He's been settin' on the steps for an hour. Should I call the cops?"

"Why?"

"I just read in the papers about the murder. This guy looks suspicious. He might be the one after Miss Blanton."

"Don't be silly, Jinx," I said.

"Awright, what's he settin' there for?"

"Have you spoken to him?"

"Not since I read about the murder. When he first come in I spoke to him. I asked him what he wanted. He said he wanted a little farm on Long Island."

"Is he drunk?" Jeff asked.

"Not's so's I could notice, Mr. Troy."

"Did you ask him who he was?"

"He said he was Admiral Byrd. But he ain't, I seen pictures of Admiral Byrd."

"Jeff," I said, "you go talk to him."

"I don't want to talk to him."

"Please."

Jeff stepped into the hall and shouted, "Hey, you!"

adelphia on two hours notice. And brother, sufficient peas for 5,100 persons isn't spinach!

One memo that remains in my memory was a note from the bedroom of General Chan Wu Fang, who asked that we remove the Japanese picture prints from his room so he could sleep . . . And it took a dozen telephone calls to convince our menu printer that we meant it when we instructed him to print 800 menus in reverse order—starting with dessert and coffee and winding up with crab meat cocktail. This was for the Circus Saints & Sinners luncheon. Which explains everything or anything.

HARRY HERSHFIELD, who estimates he's attended more than 2,500 dinners here at the Astor, always brings a sandwich wrapped up in wax paper along with him. "I either eat or talk," he explains, "and I can't talk on a full stomach" . . . Biggest of the steak eaters since Diamond Jim Brady, is Rudy Vallee . . . Irving Berlin's favorite dish is pot roast—with a side order of gravy—not for himself but for the delection of the president of his firm, Saul Bornstein.

George Skouras, the theater magnate, stopped a waiter in the Hunting Room while we were working on the Greek Relief Benefits just to shake his hand. "He was wearing the number I wore when I was a waiter here in the Hunting Room" the millionaire theater man grinned.

D. W. Griffith, one of the most regular big people who ever stopped at the Astor, would greet the dawn sitting at an Eighth Ave. beanery counter in full dress or dinner clothes minus hat and overcoat, generally surrounded by truck-drivers, milkmen and hackmen, treating them to breakfast. He never knew where he left his hat or coat but everybody knew D. W. and invariably his outer apparel would be returned by Borden's special delivery or courtesy of the Interstate Commerce commission.

IF Eleanor Roosevelt would like to run for president she can be sure of one vote. The First Lady of the Land has attended a number of functions here and hates fuss and formality—always arriving and departing in a taxi. Several years ago, and in her usual rush, she popped out of a cab and couldn't seem to find the proper change in her purse. Being in a hurry the doorman thought he'd save time and obliged with a half-dollar and she thanked him profusely for lending her the silver-piece. More than a year later somebody tapped the doorman on the shoulder and with a smile handed him a shining half-dollar. He looked up to find the smiling face of Eleanor Roosevelt, apologizing for taking so long to return the loan.

go into that now, because I'd rather have something left some day to make a speech about." . . . When he was asked who had been on board the boat with Roosevelt, his dry comment was that he'd have to wait until they got back to Washington to see who had been away. . . . Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard was one of the cabinet officers who attended the opening session of Vice President Wallace's new Economic War board, but when Wickard was asked what its policies would be his reply was, "I was second from the end when they took the newspictures, wasn't I?" . . . The prize in brevity, however, was attributed to Speaker Sam Rayburn when he was asked to comment on the eight points: "I always did believe in Utopia."

Iran Invasion Will Protect Lifeline Of Russia

Little Nation Is Important

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Journal War Analyst

The Anglo-Russian move in sending expeditionary forces into Iran (Persia), in order to prevent that country from becoming a base for Nazi operations, represents a momentous strategic move.

This invasion was hastened by the Nazi advance across the Ukraine toward the Persian frontier along the Caucasus — a drive which appears to contemplate the occupation of Persia. Britain and the Soviet acted, after ample warning, when the Persian government refused to comply with a demand for the expulsion of a large number of German residents, labeled by the Allies as fifth-columnists who were preparing to cooperate with the Nazi army.

Might Attack Turkey

Not only is Hitler headed for Persia by way of the Caucasus, but there have been indications that he might attack Turkey and cross into Persia along that route. Much would depend on the success of his present offensive against the Reds in the Ukraine.

One reason the fuehrer wants Persia is because it is rich in oil, an essential of which he is badly in need. He is equally concerned, however, with its strategic importance in further prosecution of the war.

Persia is Russia's lifeline to the Persian gulf, as has been explained in this column before. With the Baltic and Black seas virtually closed to shipping, and the Far Eastern port of Vladivostok of rather doubtful value because of the Japanese crisis, this Persian route may easily become vital for the movement of American and British war supplies into the Soviet.

From the British standpoint there is a matter of even greater concern than that. Persia would provide the Nazis with a base from which they could strike at India or drive across the Middle east against Egypt and the Suez canal.

Whatever way you look at it, the loss of Persia to the Nazis would represent a real disaster for the Allies.

The Persian government has had the reputation of being pro-British, or at least exceedingly friendly. For this reason there has been speculation as to whether Teheran would carry out its threat of resisting invasion.

It won't be surprising if this sensational Anglo-Russian occupation of Persia has a restraining influence on the Japanese in the Far Eastern crisis. Anything which tends to hurt the German chances of winning the war is bound to make Japan more cautious about challenging the United States and Britain.

In connection with this critical situation I was much struck yesterday by British Premier Churchill's employment of the formal term "negotiations" to describe conversations between Washington and Tokyo. I reported to you Saturday that the position seemed a bit easier, but that wasn't based on knowledge of any "negotiations," although diplomatic exchanges have been going forward. Mr. Churchill may have thrown new light on the subject. What he said was:

"The United States are laboring with infinite patience to arrive at a fair and amicable settlement which will give Japan the utmost reassurance for her legitimate interests. We earnestly hope that these negotiations will succeed."

This is doubly interesting when coupled with a statement Saturday night by the Japanese ambassador to Washington, Admiral Nomura. He declared that the conflict between America and Japan "must be bridged" and that he had "a very strong conviction that it will be," although he didn't know just how.

Houston Clinches Texas Loop Lead

(By The Associated Press)

To the surprise of practically nobody, the Houston Buffs clinched the Texas league's first place honors for the season's play yesterday by defeating Fort Worth, 5 to 4, in the second game of a doubleheader.

The Cats, playing at Houston, managed to win the opener 7-5, depriving Pitcher Ted Wilks of his twentieth win of the season. In the second contest the Buffs put on steam and set at rest any fears the home fans might have had that Houston would be robbed of first place in the league standings.

The second-place Tulsa Oilers, who failed to show everything they had until the season got well under way, drubbed the Exporters 8-6 and 6-1 in both ends of a twin bill at Beaumont.

The Sports, currently occupying third place edged out a 2-1 victory over the Oklahoma City Indians at Shreveport.

At San Antonio, the Missions plastered the Dallas Rebels, 4 to 1, scoring three runs in a big sixth inning.

Gasoline now costs 60 cents a gallon in Australia, 16 cents more than when the war began.

ing box and put his arm around Wyatt. The fans expected a pinch-hitter. Instead Durocher let Wyatt bat for himself. The conference, he said, later, was just to tell Wyatt to wait for a curve ball.

The curve came in the first pitch and Wyatt, who swings the heaviest bat on the Brooklyn club, met it squarely. It was a single that shot straight into center and put the Dodgers back in a commanding position for the rest of this series.

The Cincinnati Reds, coming fast but probably too late, gained a game on both the leaders by trouncing the New York Giants, 13-9, and 6-4. Supposedly a weak-hitting club, they made 33 hits in the two games.

The flying Phillies cut down the Chicago Cubs twice 8-5 and 7-6, while the Pittsburgh Pirates split with the Boston Braves. Boston took the 12-inning opener, 4-3, and Pittsburgh the nightcap 7-3, in six stanzas.

The New York Yankees showed any doubtful American leaguers and 44,296 Chicago fans that they still were boss by swamping the second-place White Sox, 5-1 and 8-5.

The St. Louis Browns put the Washington Senators through a 4-3 10-inning wringer to bounce from the cellar into sixth place.

Al Benton pitched the Detroit Tigers to a 7-4 decision over the Philadelphia Athletics.

The Cleveland Indians downed the Boston Red Sox, 4-3 and 5-2.

earn one of the 64 match play positions.

Charles (Chick) Evans, the 51-year-old Chicagoan who has won more matches in National Amateur competition than any other player, chose Johnny Goodman, the stocky native son who won the tournament in 1937.

Veteran Chick said he liked Omaha Johnny because he knew every inch of the trouble-paced Field club with its yawning traps, trees and out of bounds threats.

Rated along with Goodman and Chapman by most of the sideline selections were Marvin (Bud) Ward of Spokane, Wash., the 1939 title winner; Ray Billows, the New York salesman who won the Great Lakes invitational tournament last week, and Harry Todd, the lanky Texas shooter.

Typical of the varied championship comment was the remark by Billows that he believed at least 10 players had title chances.
