Volunteered Information Clearing Felonies

CRIME LINE, the city's crime solution program, is averaging at least one felony clearance a week because of information received from persons with knowledge of crimes listed in the Crime Line column.

Persons providing information on the listed crimes will be, and have been, rewarded accordingly. Mayor Dirk West emphasizes that the rewards paid through the program come from tax-free donations made by interested citizens. The highly successful program operates at no cost to the city.

The city has received federal revenue-sharing funds that will go toward the purchase of several special "Crime Eye" cameras, which also are expected to aid in the prevention of crime in Lubbock.

Persons wishing to provide information on the crimes listed in this week's column are urged to call the Crime Line number, 741-1000. Persons wishing to contribute to the reward fund should mail their donations to Box 2000, Lubbock.

This week's "Spotlight Crime of the Week," a murder, carries a $1,000 reward. On March 8, police found the body of Winston Franklin McDonald, 35, lying in Apt. 14 of the Motor Inn Motel at 2910 Ave. H. Police were called to the motel by a tenant who noticed a foul odor emanating from the apartment.

Police said McDonald had been shot to death and had been dead for some time. The door to the apartment was locked and the windows nailed shut. The officers later learned from neighbors that no one had seen McDonald since March 1.

During the investigation, police wanted to talk with an associate of McDonald's who was called "Free." That man, a possible witness, later was identified as Gerald Freeman, 27 or 28.

To be eligible for the reward, persons with information must call the Crime Line number within seven days of today.

A burglary of a residence at 4306 23rd St. on June 24 caused the victim to lose a considerable amount of property, and information pertaining to that burglary is worth $300.

Intruders pried open a door on the east side of the residence, and all items were taken from the living room. Taken were a Hitatchi color TV, serial number Y1C001006; a Quasar VR100 video recorder, serial number 3718858; a Quasar VT100 Video Timer, two J.C. Penney bathroom heaters, a down coat, a sport coat, a brown suit, a blue/black top coat, a ladies ski jacket, a Dillards winter coat, a mink stole, two Sears fans, two blankets, eight brown and pink sheets, and eight bath towels.

Also, a Magnavox color TV, serial number 10224675; a Sony 15-inch color TV; a Zenith 13-inch black and white TV, serial number 1651038; another Zenith 13-inch black and white TV, a Radio

Recession Looms, President Warns

HONOLULU (AP) — President Carter said Sunday a recession is growing increasingly likely because of the 60 percent increase in oil prices decreed so far this year by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting countries.

"I think the OPEC decisions will make a recession much more likely than it was before," Carter said in an airborne talk with four reporters while en route home from a nine-day visit to Japan and South Korea.

Carter said the OPEC price increases will cost Americans 800,000 jobs by the end of next year and trim 2.5 percentage points from the projected growth of the economy.

He said it also will add 2 to 2.5 percentage points to the rate of inflation.

An administration official, who declined to be named, said overall economic growth this year will be around zero, which would be as close to a recession as the economy could come without actually slipping over the edge.

Slipping Over Edge

It might slip over the edge, he added.

"I would say we will have just about a level growth rate this year, plus or minus," he said.

Carter made these other points in a half-hour interview:

•Administration-congresional task forces are being set up to recommend new ways to deal with both the energy crisis and inflation.

•It is time for oil-importing nations to stop being "timid" in criticizing oil price hikes, hinting that some kind of action may be taken against OPEC.

Oil Price Blamed

An administration official traveling with Carter said the looming recession threat, which was widely anticipated by private economists prior to OPEC's latest price increases, is almost entirely the fault of the price boost.

"Without the 60 percent increase from OPEC we would not face this problem," he said.

The administratuon orginally had forecast economic growth during all of 1979 at 2.2 percent, down from 4 percent last year.

Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal lowered the outlook to 1.5 to 1.8 percent, as measured by the gross national product. However, some administration officials were known to have been concerned that the president and his advisers, prior to today, had not acknowledged a recession was imminent.

Carter looked weary from the grueling schedule of meetings and public appearances during his trip to the Far East, the first since he became president.

But having shed his dark pin-striped suit for blue jeans, and lounging in his stocking feet, the president appeared relaxed as he responded to questions. His wife, Rosalynn, sat on the floor nearby.

Satisfaction

Carter again expressed satisfaction at the criticism of OPEC at the seven-nation economic summit in Tokyo last week. Summit participants "deplored" the price increase. The president said this was a step forward in helping to confront the oil crisis.

Some of the summit nations have been reluctant to voice criticism because of their dependence on OPEC oil.

"I don't see how the rest of the world can sit back in a quiescent state and accept unjustified and unwarranted increases in OPEC prices," he said. "We've been timid. I think the statement in Tokyo might have some special significance in the future."

Carter hinted there are steps industrial nations can take to confront OPEC. However, when asked for specifics, he said: "I would rather not go into that...I will let the press speculate on what can be done."

The president confirmed information provided earlier by administration sources that he is working with Congress to "devise an acceptable rationing plan on a standby basis" that will be proposed soon to deal with emergency gasoline shortages.

An earlier plan was rejected by Congress.

Carter said the task force studying inflation will recommend new ways to control the upward price spiral. The inflation rate, on an annual basis, has exceedeed 13 percent so far this year.

The presideent said the task force will include seven or eight House members, and an equal number from both the Senate and the executive branch.

Accident Fatal For City Man

RODOLFO Inguanza, 22, of 2402 E. Eighth St. became the city's 13th traffic fatality this year after he apparently lost control of his vehicle and struck a light pole in the 4500-block of North Quirt Avenue Sunday morning.

Police reports show that Inguanza, who was driving a 1972 Mercury Marquis, was traveling north on Quirt Avenue at an apparently high rate of speed when he lost control of the vehicle and hit a light pole in the center median. Police said the man had been thrown to the passenger's side.

Police said the man suffered neck, head and chest injuries in the accident, which reportedly occurred at 11:27 a.m. Officer Jack Miller, who is with the security office at Lubbock International Airport, reported the accident to city police.

U.S. Launches New Anti-Somoza Action In Latin America

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has launched a diplomatic offensive in Latin America to get the support of Anastasio Somoza's friends and foes for a move to replace him with a new middle-of-the-road government, it was learned Sunday.

But the outlook is still clouded both for the administration's call for Somoza's peaceful removal as well as for the general acceptance — in and out of Nicaragua — of the idea that he should be replaced by a national government of reconciliation.

Meanwhile, Sandinista rebels fighting to overthrow Somoza want the U.S. as an ally, a member of the provisional government said in a weekend interview.

The continuing war raged both around Managua, where Somoza's troops were reported having some success, and in the south where the rebels reportedly were in control.

Somoza Consulted

The U.S. diplomatic actions include personal contacts with Somoza, who has had at least three face-to-face meetings with American diplomat Lawrence Pezzullo, the new but unaccredited ambassador to Nicaragua.

Somoza was told flatly he must go and that his departure is not negotiable. What could be negotiable with the opposition are his reported conditions tht his Liberal Party and the National Guard have a role in the post-Somoza era.

The U.S. actions also include direct meetings in Panama and Costa Rica with members of the provisional government, which includes two representatives of the Sandinista front for National Liberation (FSLN).

American Plan

The American plan, State Department spokesman Tom Reston told reporters last week, "is a process for removing Somoza peacefully and starting a negotiation with all sides that could lead to a ceasefire and the establishment of a new broad-based government."

Much of the work for the U.S. plan is being done by diplomatic trouble shooter William Bowdler, a career diplomat with experience and personal friends in the region.

Bowdler met with the provisional junta in Panama and later with officials in Costa Rica, and their first reactiond to the American plan was a mixture of suspicion and skepticism.

But the administration was understood to be encouraged over even that reaction and officials are said to believe that the provisional junta's public rejection of the U.S. proposals are basically rhetorical.

Consideration is also being given within the administration to send Bowdler on similar diplomatic missions to other Central American nations, specifically Guatemala and El Salvador, whose military governments — though no longer enthusiastic supporters of Somoza — are uneasy about a possible domino ef-

Bolivia Makes Second Effort At Democracy

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — A massive turnout of voters Sunday crowded polling places across this impoverished land in the heart of South America in the second attempt in less than a year to replace a military dictatorship with civilian, democratic government.

Long lines of voters, among them Indian women in derby hats and many-layered dresses, waited patiently for hours under sunny skies to cast their ballots for a president and a national Congress.

The cobblestoned streets of La Paz, at 12,000 feet the world's highest capital, were abandoned because of election rules prohibiting vehicular traffic.

Eight candidates were seeking the presidency. Two former presidents, the centrist Victor Paz Estenssoro, 66, and leftist Hernan Siles Zuazo, 71, were considered the frontrunners.

But no candidate was expected to get the absolute majority required for direct

He was taken to the hospital Tuesday night when he complained of chest pains following an exercise session at Cook County Jail.

Infrared Device Locates New Caves Near Carlsbad

By MARILYN HOLMES
A-J Corespondent

CARLSBAD — An infrared thermal detection device has aided U.S. Forest and Park Service personnel to detect previously unknown caves in the Guadalupe Mountains near Carlsbad.

Working on a principle similar to heat-sensing equipment used on missiles, the system records cool cave air from a helicopter which flys over park and forest-service terrain. The week-long project was conducted this month.

"It's been only in recent years that this system has not been highly classified," said Ken Alderman of the U.S. Forest Service aviation and fire management office in Washington, D.C.

First Such Cave Project

The infrared device was originally developed for military use. Although it has been used for fire fighting by the forest service, this is apparently the first time the equipment has been tried for cave detection.

Preliminary results appear successful. At least 17 new cave locations were recorded during the scouting project, with several of the sites confirmed as caves.

"Very few artifacts are found in these caves," said Lincoln National Forest district ranger Tom Davis of Carlsbad. "Their value is essentially (in) the formations."

He explained that the park and forest services are primarily concerned with protecting new caves.

"Most of the known caves have been extensively explored and vandalized," he

Hiring Slowdown May Herald Recession

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new survey by one of the nation's largest employment agencies forecasts a sharp slowdown in new hiring this summer, another sign that the nation may be heading into a recession.

Manpower, Inc., a Milwaukee-based temporary job placement firm, said its latest quarterly survey of business hiring plans found that hiring expectations for July through September are the lowest for the quarter since the recession year of 1975.

Planned new hiring for the third quarter of the year also trails behind the levels recorded by Manpower's survey of the second quarter.

"We are seeing the first reductions in hiring expectations in several years," said Manpower President Mitchell S. Fromstein. "The summer quarter is usually a strong one, but this year's trend in hiring plans is clearly downward."

Fromstein emphasized that the latest survey does not point to a net drop in total U.S. employment or a sudden rise in unemployment. Rather, he said, the survey shows new jobs will be created at a lower pace than in the past few years.

The Manpower survey results are in line with the latest employment trends reported by the federal government. Those figures showed that the nation's unemployment rate has changed little during the past 10 months — hovering just under 6 percent. But the rate of growth in employment has slowed significantly. Economists have expected a slowdown in new hiring following a very rapid expansion of the job market during the past two years that has resulted in the creation of about six million new jobs.

Most private economists have predicted that the United States is heading for a recession, if it isn't already in one.

The Carter administration has predicted an economic slowdown, but officially has not forecast a recession. However, President Carter said Sunday during his flight back from Japan and Korea that a recession is growing increasingly likely because of the 60 percent increase in oil prices decreed so far this year by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

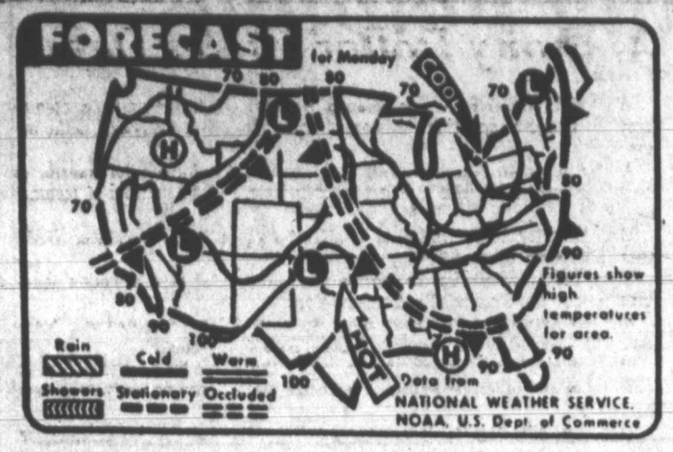

The Manpower survey, based on interviews with 6,000 businesses and public agencies, found that 29 percent of the employers polled expect to increase employment during the third quarter, down from 34 percent with similar plans a year ago. Seven percent plan to cut employment, compared with six percent a year ago, and 61 percent expect no job changes, compared with 57 percent a year ago.

The survey found that the slowdown in new hiring is most evident in the Northeast and Midwest, and by employers in the wholesale-retail and construction industries.

Declines in planned hiring also were found among employers in real estate, finance and insurance, manufacturing, education, transportation, public utilities, and service industries.

However, hiring expectations in mining and the public sector are higher than a year ago, according to the survey.

The survey also found that demand remains high for skilled workers, particularly for office workers, machine operators and medical and technical specialists.

Kuwait Announces Oil Price Hike

KUWAIT (UPI) — Kuwait, the world's seventh largest oil producer, Sunday announced an 18 percent increase in the price of its crude, implementing the price hike approved last week by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

A statement by the oil ministry of the tiny Gulf state, which produces more than two million barrels a day, said the price of one barrel of Kuwaiti crude will cost $19.49 but did not say what, if any, surcharge would be added to the new base price.

At Geneva, OPEC ministers agreed that each country could add a $2 per barrel surcharge on their oil exports.

Visiting Libyan strongman Col. Moammar Khadafy defended his threat to cut off oil exports to the West, saying it was a legitimate weapon against countries "fully aligned with our enemy."

"The utilization of oil by Arab states against those nations who fail to respect the Arab nation, but side completely with its enemy, is a legitimate action," Khadafy told a press conference at the conclusion of his two-day visit to Kuwait.

The Libyan leader, who is currently touring eastern Arab capitals, said in an interview published in Damascus last Friday that his county plans to cut off all its oil exports for up to four years and will ask other producing countries to do the same.

It was the second time Khadaffy had made the threat but industry spokesmen said they had received no indications of a cutoff in Libyan production.

In an interview published Sunday, Iraqi Vice President Saddam Hussein said he saw "no possibilities" of raising oil production to ease the world energy shortage.

The interview with the West German newsmagazine Der Spiegel took place before OPEC's decision to raise oil prices by 24 percent.

"The time is right to justifiably raise oil prices so that both sides — and not at each other's expense — wilt profit," Hussein said.

"When the Western oil companies controlled production, oil prices remained stable, but shoes and shirts became more expensive," he added.

Hussein offered to freeze Iraq's oil prices if the Western industrialized countries freeze the prices of their products. He said Iraq could convince other OPEC members to concsr with this agreement if the Western countries held up their end of of the bargain.

"Print officially in Spiegel that our offer is valid for an unlimited period," said Hussein.

Army Guarding Ballot Boxes As Mexico Allows Red Votes

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Armed troops guarded ballot bins, Sunday, to deter violence in Mexico's first congressional elections in three decades to include candidates of the Communist Party.

Some 60 percent of Mexico's 38 million registered voters were expected to cast ballots for 400 congressmen and seven state governors, including the governor of the powerful northern state of Nuevo Leon.

Polling places opened at 10 a.m. EDT and closed at 8:00 p.m.

Final results were not expected until mid-week, the Federal Electoral Commission said.

Liquor sales were banned throughout the weekend, and thousands of armed troops watched over polling places, where voters filled out their paper ballots.

The Institutional Revolutionary Party (PRI), which has held power for 50 years, was widely expected to garner 60 percent of the vote.

Communist candidates are running for the first time since 1946, along with two new opposition parties.

To gain permanent legal registry and the right to run candidates in the 1982 presidential elections, the Communists and two new opposition parties must win 1.5 percent of the vote.

"The Communists have a chance in one or two districts in Mexico City and could win up to 30 percent of the vote in the capital," one political anaylist said. "They should also do well in Guadalajara and Monterrey but not in rural areas," he said.

The PRI now holds 196 of the lower house of Congress' 237 seats, followed by the rightwing National Action Party with 20 seats.

Under a 1977 political reform, the lower house has been expanded to 400 seats. Of these, 300 will be elected directly by voters and another 100 allocated on a proportional basis.

Managua Stirs, But Prosperity Is Said Shaky

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — On the surface a prosperity of sorts has returned to Managua — impromptu markets are booming, selling looted goods at exorbitant prices. But beneath it lurks the specter of a critical food shortage if the civil war wears on much longer.

"We are feeding about 100,000 people a day now," said Ismael Reyes, the head of Nicaragua's Red Cross. "In about three weeks, when the stocks of looted foods are gone, I estimate we will have a half-million people to feed. There will be that many hungry people. I don't know what is going to happen....

"I think we will see houses being assaulted by hungry people. I am really afraid of what will take place."

He estimated the Red Cross now has enough food supplies for about a week. The problem is that the war has virtually shut down all Nicaraguan production, of food or any other goods.

But for now, said a chicken vendor at a muddy roadside marketplace, "there is plenty because they looted everywhere."

Prices are soaring and Managuans are paying three and four times as much as they did two months ago for meat, rice, gasoline and other neccesities.

The vendor grabbed a piece of her squawking merchandise by the feet and held it up. "Thirteen cordobas," she said. "Ten months ago, six."

"Who knows? There is plenty here now. It changes from day to day. Tomorrow?" She shrugged.

She and her husband, who also had cases of olives, light bulbs and talcum powder for sale, said poverty forced them into the market.

"We have four children and the 5-year-old is very sick," she said quietly. "There is no medicine in Nicaragua."

Rice in the market sold for the equivalent of 35 cents a pound. Three months ago, the price was 15 cents. Soft drinks, when available, sold at triple the original price of 15 cents.

Gasoline, which sold for about $1.30 a gallon two months ago, now costs up to $4, when you can find it.

Germans Innaugurate President In Parliamentary Ceremonies

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — Carl Carstens, a Christian Democrat and a former member of the Nazi Party, was inaugurated as West Germany's fifth president Sunday at a simple ceremony in parliament.

After taking the oath of office for a nine-year term to the largely ceremonial post, the 64-year-old law professor and former parliament speaker said West Germany has not abandoned its goal of German unification.

"We all are agreed this goal is inseparable from a European peace settlement and everyone knows we have a long road to travel for that," he said.

"In the meantime we must live with the division and attempt to alleviate its affects as much as we can."

Carstens made no reference in the speech to his nominal membership in the Nazi Party when he was a 23-year-old law student.

He said only that of the many thousands of letters he received since his May 23 election by the electoral college, "some" were critical and he read them carefully.

Carstens called close cooperation with the United States an essential part of West German policy and thanked the United States for carrying the heaviest part of the West's defense burden.

"Our military scurity now as in the past is based on the Atlantic alliance that allies the European states with the United States and Canada," he said.

Carstens stressed the benefits of West Germany's membership in the European Common Market, saying it has aided the country's economic stability. He singled out "our great western neighbor, France" for special mention.

Discussing relations with the Soviet bloc, he said detente has brought a number of agreements with East European states, increased contacts and trade.

"This does not wipe out our concern over the tensions that have arisen especially from armament developments, a concern that we that we hope has been diminished by the signing of the Salt II agreement in Vienna but which certainly has not been eradicated."

Pravda Warns Senate On SALT

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Communist Party daily Pravda Sunday issued a new warning to U.S. Senate opponents of the SALT II treaty that amendments to the pact would put an end to future arms control negotiatons.

The warning appeared in Pravda's international review section as Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd arrived in Moscow for a five-day visit to discuss the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty.

Byrd has already cautioned the Soviets that their threats will not "guide or influence" individual senators. Other senators believe the Soviet remarks have further damaged SALT's ratification chances.

"I don't think it's helpful for the Soviets to be issuing statements about dire actions that might follow in the wake of Senate decisions," Byrd said.

"I hope I can make this as clear as I can to the Soviets."

Pravda news analyst Arkady Masiennikov wrote that amendments to the pact would "strip the treaty of its present balanced character."

The article referred to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's recent warning that a "difficult situation" would arise that would block further nuclear arms negotiations if the Senate failed to ratify SALT.

"Those who have not yet decided their stand, or decided it but on the wrong side rather than on the proper one, ought to think this over," Maslennikov wrote.

The Soviet press and individual officials have followed Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev's lead in warning against alterations in SALT.

However, observers said the Soviet lobbying effort has backfired by strengthening the opposition of senators already against the pact and pushing some fence-sitters into the opposition camp.

Byrd has described himself as "undecided" on SALT, saying it is a complex document that will require extensive study before he decides how to vote.

He will be in the Soviet Union for five days and is expected to fly to the Crimea to meet the vacationing Brezhnev. Byrd arrived in Leningrad on Sunday.

Byrd is expected to face the same lobbying effort that the Soviets used on two other Senate delegations that have visited Moscow this year.

The Soviets have repeatedly stressed the importance of SALT during the Senate visits, urging senators to vote for the pact. There has been no sign that the visits to Moscow have led to any changes in position.

Bishop College Push $1 Million Short

DALLAS (AP) — A multi-million dollar fund drive initiated by Bishop College has come up more than $1 million short of the amount needed to pay off the school's outstanding debts, officials said.

However, administrators of the predominantly-black college here tried to soften the impact of the deficit, saying the $3.2 million figure was merely a goal they had hoped to reach before the school's fiscal year ended, Saturday.

Alex Bickley, who has been working with the college as executive vice president of the Dallas Citizens Council, described Bishop's financial situation as "tough but better." However, he declined to speculate what the outcome might be.

When the fund drive began in May, statements issued by the school said the funds were necessary "if the college is to survive to begin its 99th year this fall."

Of the amount raised, about $200,000 came from church donations, another $200,000 from sale of land, and about $1 million from the college's endowment fund, public relations director John Dvorak said. He did not know how much the alumni association had raised.

Meanwhile, college officials are in Washington for a meeting with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare on Monday.

105 Degrees On Thermometer Set July 1 Record In Lubbock

Never has July 1 in Lubbock been as hot as it was Sunday, when temperatures around the city rose as high as 105 degrees at Reese Air Force base.

But the official record will go down as 103 degrees as recorded by the National Weather Service at its office near Lubbock International Airport.

Sunday was a sizzler all across the Southwest. Wink and El Paso both recorded 105 degrees to qualify as the nation's hotspots, but several Texas cities also recorded 100-degree-plus temperatures during the day.

There is little relief in sight. Highs today and Tuesday are expected to continue their flirtation with the century-degree mark, with nighttime lows to drop into the 70s.

A solid hot airflow form the southwest, responsible for the recent spell of blistering weather, should keep its grip on the area in the form of southwesterly winds at 15 to 20 mph. No rain is expected at least through midweek.

The heat wave may be grilling the southwestern part of the country, but in the Pacific Northwest, a hot spell would be more than welcome, as the first day of July ushered in a huge blizzard.

Washington state especially was hit hard by the unexpected snow storm, which dumped up to six inches of snow in some areas.

On Mt. Rainier, snow fell almost all night Saturday and into the morning Sunday, dumping from one to six inches of snow on surprised summer campers. Snowplows were called quickly from their summer hibernation to clear the mountain passes and rescue stranded campers and tourists. No injuries or deaths have been reported as a result of the unexpected storm.

The National Weather Service is predicting the snow will spread into the northern Rockies through the first days of the week, while the Pacific Northwest should lose its snow as a result of predicted heavy rains.

UAW Warns Government On Negotiations

DETROIT (UPI) — United Auto Workers President Douglas Fraser has announced that contract talks with the Big Three automakers will open this month and warned the Carter administration to "stay the hell away from the negotiations."

While he failed to proclaim open defiance of the administration's anti-inflation guidelines, Fraser did say that strengthened cost-of-living allowances and pay raises topping the norm for previous UAW contracts would be the order of the day.

He said negotiations would begin with General Motors July 16.

"I've got a little advice (for the federal government)," Fraser says. "Stay the hell away from the negotiations."

Fraser said Carter's wage guidelines have "self-destructed."

The UAW chief and other union leaders, in announcing the negotiations schedule, Saturday, said improved cost-of-living protection would be the top-priority issue in the talks and that pay raises would run second — with the union seeking raises greater than the three percent per year that has been the norm in the industry for the past three decades.

"Money's the second most important issue with our guys (after cost-of-living protection for retirees)," said Russ Arnold, shop committee chairman from Chrysler Local 1268 in Belvidere, Ill.

"Without a substantial increase — and I mean more than three percent — they'll have a hard time with ratification."

Other core issues in the talks will include bigger pensions, more paid holidays and other fringe-benefit improvements.

"Also of major importance will be the demand to reduce work time as a means of creating more job opportunities, and demands relating to union recognition at new GM facilities," a UAW statement said.

One company official said that if the UAW wanted to modernize the cost-of-living formula it was fine. But, he added, "we'll talk about a less than three percent wage increase. They can't have it both ways."

The cost-of-living allowance has given UAW members an extra $1.32 an hour during the past three years. Auto workers are among the best paid industrial employees in the world, presently averaging about $9 an hour in wages and another $5.50 in fringe benefits.

Ford Vice President Sidney McKenna said the hourly wage for an assembler has gone up 94 percent since 1970 while consumer prices have risen by 70 percent.

"That means the present purchasing power of an assembler's hourly rate, when inflation is fully taken into account, is still 24 percentage points higher than it was in 1970," he said.

Bargaining with Ford Motor Co. is expected to open July 17, and talks with Chrysler Corp. are expected to start the following day.

Workers Deny Blame

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — American Airlines maintenance employees paid for a full-page Sunday newspaper advertisement to dispute suggestions that faulty maintenace work may have contributed to the DC-10 crash that killed 273 people in Chicago.

"You know us. We do not perform careless maintenance or inspection on our airplanes, and safety is always our number one priority," reads the ad, which appeared in the Sunday Tulsa World.

The ad was paid for by donations from more than 1,000 of American's 1,700 employees at its maintenance facility in Tulsa.

The DC-10 that crashed at O'Hare International Airport May 25 had been routinely inspected here in March. An engine and its support pylon ripped away from the left wing before the crash, and the investigation has focused on the engine's support structure.

In the form of an open letter, the ad attacks suggestions that flawed maintenance and inspection procedures might have contributed to the crash.

After the crash, a Tulsa television station said two American employees, who were not identified, claimed procedures at the Tulsa facility could have been responsible for an aircraft malfunction.

"We had a terrible tragedy occur in Chicago that we all regret, but we also have a tragedy of a different type occurring daily here and nationwide," said the ad carrying the names of hundreds of workers.

"We are being misrepresented by some of the news media and being maligned by two so-called American Airlines employees who wish to remain anonymous."

The National Transportation Safety Board announced Saturday that it would conduct a public hearing on the crash in Chicago July 30.

Frank Taylor, director of the board's Bureau of Accident Investigation, said the 12 teams of investigators looking into the crash are concentrating on two points: loss of the engine and the plane's subsequent inability to fly, and whether the aircraft was damaged prior to the crash through improper maintenance.

But in Tulsa, L.J. Yadon — a planner employed by American for 32 years — said, "All the facts aren't in yet.

"There's a lot of research to be done, and a whole lot of experiments to be run before they know just why it happened.

"But some of the news media have picked up on something an FAA man said about carelessness and have hinted we might be at fault. In my opinion, it's premature," Yadon said.

"American has as good a system as any other in the industry," he added. "From what I've seen, all American employees are No. 1, at least in my book."

Ed Torres, a 26-year veteran mechanic at American, said he donated for the ad because he "felt like it was a worthwhile thing to do."

"We feel we have the finest mechanics in the industry and I'm proud to work for American," Torres said. "Here in Tulsa, we do some of the best work in the business."

Meanwhile, the Washington Post reported Sunday that there was virtually no way the pilot of Flight 191, Capt. Walter Lux, could have saved the plane with the information he had.

Flight simulator tests designed to duplicate damage to the DC-10 that crashed were conducted Friday and Saturday at McDonnell Douglas laboratories near Los Angeles, the Post said.

Quoting unidentified experts, the Post said that had Lux known of an impending stall, he could have lowered the nose of the DC-10, thus decreasing his angle of climb and increasing the speed of the air flow over the wings. And that might have helped, the Post said.

Korean Contractors Get Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government is supporting South Korea's construction industry to the tune of $65 million, even though the Asian nation is threatening to overtake American contractors in the race for overseas projects.

The Treasury and Commerce departments have challenged the support program, carried out by the Agency for International Development. An AID official said last week the policy is under review.

The support to South Korea is the same offered many developing countries in an effort to improve their construction industries and buoy their economic bases.

U.S. contractors, however, argue that South Korea no longer is a developing nation in the area of construction and should not be awarded AID-funded contracts for projects in other foreign countries.

Currently, South Korea holds AID awards for three Jordanian projects worth $28.5 million; an Indonesian road project worth $33.2 million and a Bangladesh fertilizer plant valued at $4.6 million.

Fred C. Bergsten, assistant secretary of the Treasury for international affairs, wrote to AID last December, saying: "I was suprised to learn...that firms from advanced developing countries such as Korea are still eligible to bid on construction contracts for AID-financed projects.

"This has created the anomalous situation where other U.S. agencies have to consider an extension of their activities to enable U.S. firms to compete on an equal footing with Korean firms for construction awards for AID-funded projects."

Similarly, Assistant Commerce Secretary Frank Weil has asked AID to consider the elimination of countries such as South Korea from the construction contract program.

Its industry captured $3.5 billion in overseas contracts in 1977, according to Engineering News-Record, a trade publication. By mid-1978, it passed the $6 billion mark, and South Korea has set a $10 billion goal for this year.

U.S. contractors last year rang up $18.3 billion in foreign business. This was $3.5 billion below 1975's level.

Moreover, while U.S. companies are losing business in the Middle East, South Korea is gaining momentum there.

About 70 percent of South Korea's construction business is captured abroad, and the Korean government carefully polices and promotes the industry.

Anthony Dollar Makes Debut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Susan B. Anthony dollar, the first U.S. coin to carry the image of an American woman, makes its debut today across the nation.

As the new coin begins showing up in cash registr drawers for transfer to consumers' pockets, it also is to get a public welcome at a number of ceremonies.

Mint Director Stella Hackel is to attend a gathering in Rochester, N.Y., where Miss Anthony lived for 50 years.

U.S. Treasurer Azie Taylor Morton is to be a guest at a reception sponsored by the First Women's Bank of New York.

And Treasury Under Secretary Bette Anderson has been invited to a "coin and coffee" hosted by the Women's National Bank in Washington.

Meanwhile, Federal Reserve banks around the nation have scheduled news conferences and other gatherings to publicize the issuance of $00 million new coins.

The coin, honoring the 19th century suffragette, replaces the Eisenhower dollar, which the government stopped making last year.

Plans initially called for a coin featuring a stylized "Liberty" design — the portrait of a woman, symbolizing the concept of liberty, that has appeared on a number of U.S. coins since 1793.

The Adams, Mass., native led the fight to help women gain the right to vote. She died in 1906, 14 years before the cause triumphed with the ratification of the 19th amendment.

People will find that the new dollar is much different from the old, in good part because government officials want the new coin to circulate instead of becoming a collectors item.

The new silver-colored coin (it's mostly copper) is only slightly larger than a quarter and about one-third the weight of the Eisenhower coin.

It features a profile of Miss Anthony on one side with the symbolic American eagle landing on the moon on the reverse. Although the coin is round, it gives the illusion of being otherwise because of an 11-sided border etched into both sides.

Replacing the Eisenhower dollar, which costs eight cents each to mint, with the Anthony dollar, which costs about three cents, is expected to save the government some $4.5 million each year in minting costs.

If it begins replacing paper notes, it could save millions more because coins circulate 10 times longer in good condition than do notes.

WATER AGREEMENT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Under a new agreement, the Environmental Protection Agency will have complete authority over public drinking water, while the Food and Drug Administration will continue to regulate the purity of bottled water and water used in food and food processing. The chiefs of the two agencies signed a "memorandum of understanding" on sharing responsibility for regulating drinking water in the interest of better coordination and increased efficiency.

U.S. Stake In Nicaragua

NO MATTER what finally happens in the Nicaraguan civil war, the U.S. may wind up with egg on its face.

Although Washington has called for the outright ouster of President Anastasio Somoza, even should this happen, it is unlikely that the U.S. would receive much credit.

On the contrary, the guerrilla Sandinistas, with help from leftists in Panama and Cuba, would be hailed as the heroes. The resulting government would most likely wind up with a pink, if not Red, tinge.

THE CRISIS in the Central American country has posed a dilemma for the U.S. State Department on several counts.

It is no secret that the U.S. not only helped set up the series of events which put the Somoza family in power, but has maintained a more or less benevolent protectorate over a rule which has become increasingly oppressive.

It came as no surprise then, when first Sec. of State Cyrus Vance, then President Carter himself called for Somoza to step down "in the name of humanity."

Somoza, at last reports, was still resisting any move which did not allow for some sort of broad-based government to replace the Somoza family's 43-year rule, and would guarantee him safe passage or haven.

THE U.S. HAS said there would be no "deals" or guarantees.

While the U.S. position can be understood, and while Somoza has brought much of his current problems upon himself, there are two sides to the issue.

First, we, no more than any civilized observer condone the reign of terror which has marked Somoza's regime in recent years. A nation and its resources used solely for the benefit of a few entrenched officials can not long survive in today's climate.

However, neither do we condone replacing one dictatorial regime with another which in the final context may be just as oppressive. We have seen this happen—most recently in Iran—and repeatedly in the so-called liberation nations in Africa.

IN OTHER words, it does not behoove U.S. interests to help set up another government in this hemisphere which may be dominated by Cuban Communists or Panamanian Leftists.

And in calling for Somoza's ouster, we see nothing amiss in reminding the Sandinistas that the U.S. would look with disfavor on any such arrangement.

Admittedly, such a pose will be interpreted as "interference" in another nation's affairs. But, in truth we have already interfered—in calling for Somoza's ouster, in failing to support the Shah in Iran.

The prime policy which should guide U.S. actions anywhere in the world should be "how does it affect the security and humane interests of the United States?" Anything else is shortsighted and a misapplication of priorities.

AN EDITORIAL:

'Ma' Rings Lubbock's Bell!

LUBBOCK TELEPHONE users will subsidize big city users to an even greater extent if Southwestern Bell's statewide rate increase is granted as requested.

Ma Bell is asking for an across-the-board increase of $1.55 per month for one-party residential telephone service.

That translates into a 25.8 percent increase here but to only 19.4 percent in Houston and 20.6 percent in Dallas.

Lubbock has been catching it in the neck ever since the Legislature took telephone rate-setting authority away from the City Council and placed it in the hands of the state Public Utility Commission bureaucracy.

Ironically, the PUC was created ostensibly to "protect" consumers.

UNDER STATEWIDE rate-making, it's impossible to know whether any rate increase at all is justified in Lubbock, let alone one of such magnitude.

What can be said with certainty, however, is that Lubbockites will be paying more than they should in comparison with other cities.

Before the PUC was created, our rates were lower because the company's cost of providing service here is lower than it is elsewhere and because the City Council, under pressure from the local citizenry, did a good job of regulation.

So, first crack out of the box after the three-member PUC took over rate making, Lubbock's rates were raised and those in similar-sized cities were lowered.

Now, under the latest Southwestern Bell request, Lubbock would pay a greater share of the $145.2 million revenue boost than would Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio or Austin.

SINCE THOSE LARGER cities are where the votes are, the politically attuned PUC can be expected to again go along with the idea of letting Lubbock residents subsidize other folks.

It flatly refuses even to consider setting rates on a city-by-city basis that would take into account regional differences in the cost of providing service.

The telephone company says its across-the-board rate hike would provide it with 6.09 percent more revenue in Texas. In this inflationary time, that doesn't sound so unreasonable—but a 25.8 percent boost in Lubbock residential rates does.

M. STANTON EVANS:

American Technology Strengthens Russians

WASHINGTON—Where trade with Moscow is concerned, the motto of the U.S. Department of Commerce ought to be, "We have just begun to cover up."

By law, the Department is obliged to prohibit export of strategic materials and technologies to the Communists if there are adverse implications for American security.

Despite this mandate, there is extensive evidence suggesting items have been exported which help to strengthen Moscow's war machine.

The most obvious recent example is the Kama River truck plant, which U.S. officials have admitted has been put to military uses.

Researchers trying to gather data on this topic, however, have run head-on into a wall of secrecy.

FOR YEARS, the Department has routinely denied requests of those who want to know the nature of the goods exported to the Soviets and the identity of the firms engaged in such transactions.

Thus the Department has been in the convenient position of controlling the information that could tell us whether it is in violation of the law.

After two years of fruitless effort to obtain the relevant data through a freedom of information action, we filed a suit last month, requesting documents from the Department that would reveal the identity of firms engaged in traffic with the Communists, the nature of the goods, technologies, and designs in question, and the dollar value thereof.

On any common sense reading of the law as it stands, our chances of winning this case appear to be quite good.

IMAGINE OUR surprise, therefore, when we learned a move was afoot in Congress to amend the export law in such a fashion as to deny disclosure of the very items we were seeking.

This amendment, promoted by the Department, would specifically mandate non-disclosure of data that "would reveal the parties to an export or re-export transaction, the type of good or technology being exported or re-exported, or the destination, end use, quantity, value or price of such good or technology."

Somehow this language slipped through the Senate Banking Committee and House Committee on International Relations, where some of the lawmakers were apparently asleep at the switch.

Fortunately, the cover-up was spotted by the "Journal of Commerce," a respected private journal that reports such matters in depth, and which alerted this writer and others to what was going on.

ALL OF THIS has occurred while various congressional committees are looking into the subject of strategic trade, and here still other cover-ups have been occurring.

Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., points out, for instance, that Commerce and Defense Department witnesses before his subcommittee on Research and Technology have been muzzled, recanting testimony which pointed to the diversion of U.S. trade to Soviet military uses and stating they had been instructed to say nothing in conflict with the established see-no-evil line.

One example cited by Ichord was the testimony of Defense official Ruth Davis, who was asked if she knew examples of "peaceful" trade with Moscow being diverted to military uses.

She said she did, but three weeks later backed off this testimony. Another example is that of Lawrence Brady, acting director of the Export Administration Office.

HE TESTIFIED that our export policy toward the Soviets is "a total shambles," citing the Kama River project as an example.

Subsequently, Ichord revealed that Brady "stated he had been instructed that his testimony would not conflict with that of his superiors (which it did).

"The witness further stated that he interpreted his instructions as a veiled threat to his job."

'Well--So Much For U.S. Prestige'

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK:

Lie Low 'Til Autumn

NOVAK

LANCASTER, Pa.—The small thundercloud that trails Ronald Reagan on his self-confident ascent to the Republican presidential nomination appeared here in the form of a modest suggestion from an ardent supporter: why not pledge to serve only one term?

That question was put privately to Reagan and his campaign advisers by Rep. Robert Walker, whose congressional fund-raiser Reagan had waived his normal handsome fee to address.

Like other Reagan supporters, Walker has noted with concern the preoccupation among Republicans with the fact that their presidential front-runner will be 69 years old during next year's Detroit convention.

Walker, a highly intelligent young (36) conservative in his second term, is unequivocally committed to Reagan and negative about John B. Connally as a turncoat Democrat.

Thus, he is a friend seeking to bury, not to raise, the age of Reagan. The congressman's theory is that the sooner Reagan pledges a one-term limit, the quicker will he eliminate speculation about a man entering his second presidential term in his mid-70s.

A one-term declaration has been talked about for well over a year but never seriously entertained by the Reagan camp. Reagan himself does not like the idea.

Neither does his master strategist, John Sears, who feels it will only call attention to Reagan's age. Yet, one senior Reagan adviser does not rule out Walker's suggestion. "It is something we might consider at a later date," he told us.

THAT CRYPTIC comment recognizes the one great obstacle between Reagan and the presidential nomination. To many Republicans Reagan is so far in front that nobody can catch him.

But reactions to him during recent speaking engagements in Lancaster, Boston and Washington showed that the age issue is real.

Reagan's political strategists have insisted it is not serious, contending his long-range problem in the general election campaign will be public perception of him not as an old man but as a heartless right-winger.

They argue that only newsmen ask Reagan about his age (his stock reply being that the public is concerned not about "chronology" but "whether a person is physically fit").

In truth, however, the reporters are saying out loud what the Republican faithful politely whisper. At those recent stops in the East, his age was the overriding topic of conversation among listeners who heavily favor him for President. What Reagan said was ignored; how he looked generated endless speculation.

THAT WAS THE case in Lancaster, stolidly Republican and overwhelmingly Reaganite. Republicans who paid $50 to hear Reagan debated among themselves questions of cosmetics: Has he aged? Isn't he a bit pale? Or, a little wrinkled?

"Would you believe that guy is nearly 70 years old?" one businessman asked his wife when Reagan spoke at Randolph, Mass., on Boston's south shore. Most people would not.

Nor has the smooth-as-silk technique of the greatest Republican orator of his day diminished. Reagan is guaranteed to be interrupted frequently by well-satisfied business and Republican audiences.

ATTACKS ON BIG government and adulation of American business closely resemble his standard lecture two decades ago as touring troubador for the General Electric Co.

Some of his 3-by-5 index cards are truly antique—particularly one telling how 131 separate taxes make up more than half the cost of a slice of bread. Using such old material is part of the intentional Reagan campaign tactic of lying low until autumn.

Reagan's staff has been developing new themes to be unveiled in September, when presumably the hoary index cards will be laid aside. So far, Reagan has survived this semi-submerged period with undiminished high poll standings.

But subtle signs of erosion were evident at the recent National Federation of Independent Business convention in Washington. While hounding him for autographs, the businessmen agreed Reagan lacked the punch of two earlier speakers: Rep. Jack Kemp—and, more significantly, Connally.

ONE BUSINESSMAN attending the convention is an active Republican politician and met privately with Reagan. Impressed by Reagan's dignity and good manners, the businessman had one comment afterward totally unrelated to the issues: "He looked awfully pale; maybe he could use some suntan oil."

Rep. Walker's modest suggestion for a one-term declaration is intended to remove Reagan's candidacy from the realm of cosmetology.

Editors' note: Theodore R. Mann, chairman of the Conference of Presidents of Major Jewish Organizations, said after his recent talks in Israel that President Carter would sooner or later change his position that new settlements on the West Bank are "an obstacle to peace" (not that Carter would decide new setttlements are legal).

HENRY J. TAYLOR:

Algeria's In A Fix

BOWING TO Communist leader Leonid I. Brezhnev's bidding, Algeria's National Liberation Front—the only party—elected President and Communist party Sec. Gen. Chadli Benjedid, 49.

He succeeded the late President Houari Boumedienne (real name Mohammed Bou-kharrouba), a blood disease striking him down in Algiers.

The last time I was in Algiers I found Boumedienne living off the fat of the land in a luxurious, opulent villa high above the Bay of Algiers. Now charlatan Benjedid lives there. Algeria's living standard is low. But, overwhelmingly, I found Algiers the most expensive city I ever visited. But not so for free-loading Benjedid.

In 1976 Boumedienne visited the White House to see President Gerald R. Ford. Then he flew off to Cuba and received tyrant Fidel Castro's tumultuous welcome.

UNDER BENJEDID, Algeria is a Soviet satellite. He permits Soviet use of the former French Mers-el-Kerib naval and air base near Algiers. This establishes the USSR within 200 miles of Gibraltar.

It means the Soviet is prepared to block the Gibraltar Strait and confront, or deny, the Western navies' access to the Mediterranean, bottling up in the Mediterranean the U.S. 6th Fleet.

Since Jan. 1 the Soviet has sent Cuba at least 30 MIG-23s, supplying both interceptors and ground-attack planes. The interceptor cannot deliver nuclear bombs, but the ground-attack plane can be instantly converted to nuclear bombing covering the U.S.

Benjedid is now in a knockdown fight with Abdennour Ali-Yahia, Sec. Gen. of the Algerian General Workers Union.

UNTIL 1956, THROUGH an Algerian affiliate, the main source of Communist influence was France's General Confederation of Labor (GCL), a relatively small affiliate representing only about 40,000 of Algeria's 800,000 unionized workers.

But the AGWU pulled away many union members. And, behind the scenes at a Moscow party congress, Brezhnev ordered the AGWU to gobble up all North African trade unions.

Moscow's first step was to scuttle the AGWU's relationship with the Paris-based World Confederation of Trade Unions, affiliated directly with the Red-dominated headquarters in Prague.

In fact, the WCTU's Fourth Congress, meeting in Leipzig, East Germany, planned a "World Labor Committee of Solidarity with Algerian Workers." It established permanent offices in both Prague and East Berlin.

AS A STARTER, the WCTU delivered 5,000 pounds sterling and the East German Labor Organization fed the kitty $50,000.

Very hush-hush the funds grew, mostly camouflaged as "Aid to Algerian Refugees." Red East Germany, following its $50,000, sent $1 million and an additional $125,000 labeled "for the Algerian Red Cross."

Additionally, under Benjedid, Brezhnev ordered set up in Budapest an apparatus called the "Syndicalist African School."

It has direct responsibility to the Soviet labor union. The organization trains union leadership in subversion, sabotage and political action—including assassination.

JAY HARRIS:

The Love Affair...

AMERICA'S LOVE affair with the auto is exceeded only by its affection for Ole No. One.

And even so, the "me generation" moves on wheels. Wheels. It's the name of the game for the young, the middle-aged and elderly.

If proof were needed, the current energy crisis is almost always equated with what the OPEC Sheiks have done to us at the gas pump. Seldom is the cost of home heating, manufacturing, air travel and such given more than passing mention. Yet, all are affected.

Actually, America for all practical purposes does travel by car. Despite emphasis on public transit, 91 percent of all personal travel in the U.S. is by auto. The bus ranks a distant second, with 5 percent of the trips.

THE AUTO, according to the Department of Transportation, uses 35 percent of the nation's petroleum supply. And that is a lot of oil.

It is also the reason that President Carter and Sec. of Transportation Brock Adams have called for an immediate cooperative effort by the government, the auto industry and the nation's engineers and inventors to produce a "car of the future" that will have either dramatically improved fuel economy or a new source of propulsion.

Currently, government planners and others foresee a 10-year program aimed at developing a vehicle which would average about 40 miles per gallon.

Everyone from the American people, federal officials, automakers, universities and others would be involved in redesigning the auto. This involves everything from the engine to finding alternate fuel sources. In other words, "reinvent the car."

A few facts and figures from the DOT tell why.

American auto makers built 9.2 million passenger cars in 1977, almost 30 percent of the world's total.

About 1.5 million foreign cars are sold in the U.S. each year.

The average family now spends more on transportation than food, even with food costs also up. That is just the "nuts and bolts" of the love affair with the machine which not only has changed the face of America, but its living and entertainment habits, job patterns and morals.

U.S. motorists use an estimated 336 million gallons of gasoline each day.

Thus, the impact of an 18 to 20 cents a gallon boost in the price of gasoline—as has been the case since Iran fell—and an impending five cents more from last week's OPEC action, as anyone can see, is enormous.

AS THINGS NOW stand, the government is shooting for an average of 27.5 miles per gallon for a fleet average by 1985, using today's and projected economy goals.

If most cars reach this standard, DOT claims it would save 42 million gallons of gasoline a day and save the average car owner an estimated $900 over the life of his vehicle.

Radical changes in the attitude and living habits of most Americans must take place for it to happen. As things now stand, as President Carter noted, Americans are "sending American dollars and American dollars overseas..."

In the meantime, there are some things the Average Motorist can do and not do to help now, officials say.

Heading the list, of course, is to drive only when and where necessary. Keeping one's car in good shape will help. And on the other side of the coin, those who try to "beat the rap" by hoarding gasoline in their car trunks or homes may be asking for a disaster.

According to the Texas Automobile Insurance Institute, technicians say the destructive force of a two-gallon can of gasoline is equivalent to several sticks of dyanmite. In other words, play it safe. The gamble isn't worth the risks involved.

SO, WHAT one may ask is the answer to the gas crisis?

Well, other than not contributing to the immediate problem by waste, hoarding gas, "topping" off tanks and the like, some obvious things are on the way.

This includes cars which use less fuel, lighter cars and smaller cars, although there always will be those who opt for heavier and what many regard as safer vehicles.

The auto isn't going to disappear in the next decade. But, it's in for some changes, as are the ways people get "from here to there..."

Other modes of transport, mass transit in the cities, car pooling, a revival of passenger rail service, more air travel, all are in the books. The alternative could be something out of a horror movie.

AS THE ENERGY crunch grows, we often think back to a film of a few years ago.

The film opened with hordes of autos hurrying over freeways and through the cities, smoke pouring from factories, planes flying, the wheels of a great nation whirring...

Then suddenly, it all stopped.

And the next scene, as we recall, showed old autos sitting around from New York's Central Park to the now deserted highways. People even lived in the autos, small smokestacks in some instances extending from roofs.

The story was an ecological one, a story of how the environment was choking to death. Food and fuel was in short supply along with hope and humanity. It wasn't a pretty scene.

America has faced other challenges in its 203-year history and came out on top. This one may be a bit tougher than some in the past. But, if we are deserving of those who have gone before, we will find the answer...

L.M. BOYD:

...Pass It On

MEN ARE getting broader across that place where they sit down, the stern. Women aren't. So says a team of scholars who study changes from generation to generation in the human body.

It's not because men are sitting more and working less, they say. Women are sitting more and working less, too. They admit they cannot explain this masculine expansion. Research goes on.

American gangster Jack "Legs" Diamond was gunned down four different times before the fifth finally killed him.

Those TV ads that offer to pay $40 a day hospital insurance, whatever your age, fail to report that the average hospital in the United States now charges $190 a day.

Sunday Drive Leads To Rape Of City Woman

A 23-year-old Lubbock woman told police that a man forced her into his house, began hitting her and then raped her about 1 a.m. Sunday in an East Lubbock residence.

The woman said that she and the suspect had been driving around with several other persons, and that the man invited her over to his house to visit with his girlfriend.

When the couple arrived at the residence, reports show, the suspect forced the woman into a bedroom and began telling her that he liked her and wanted to have relations with her. The woman said the suspect then began hitting her and threatened to kill her if she did not have sex with him. Reports indicate the suspect then raped the woman.

The woman described her attacker as a black male, 26 to 35, and of medium height and muscular build.

A 33-year-old Lubbock man was in serious condition late Sunday in Methodist Hospital with a gunshot wound to the chest that he suffered while he apparently was entering a house in the 2300-block of Eighth Street about 4:36 a.m. Sunday.

Reports show that a woman in the house heard someone breaking into the house, saw the suspect at a bedroom window and pointed a .22-caliber pistol at him. The woman said the suspect told her he was going to rape and hurt her and that when he began walking toward her, she fired the weapon.

Reports indicate the wounded suspect ran out the front door and left in a car. Officers were advised later that the suspect was at Methodist Hospital.

Anna Mae Weatherford, 31, of 1624 Elkhart told police that a man struck her unconscious and then took $210 in cash from her purse during an incident about 10:05 p.m. Saturday.

The woman reported that the suspect had asked to use her phone and that when she opened the door for him, the suspect struck her in the face with his fist. The woman said that when she regained consciousness about 40 minutes later, she discovered that the suspect had taken $210 in cash from her purse, which was on a kitchen table.

She described the suspect as Mexican-American, 26 to 35, and of medium height and build.

A 42-year-old Lubbock woman was booked into county jail Sunday morning on charges of injury to a child after an incident at a flea market in the 2300-block of Avenue K about 11:10 a.m.

Sonia Cardenas, 32, of 1119 32nd St. told police that the suspect was trying to return a CB radio and wanted Mrs. Cardenas to return her money. Reports show that Mrs. Cardenas told the woman that she must have installed it wrong and that she couldn't return the money.

Reports indicate that the suspect then picked up a hair dryer and threw it at the victim and her 2-year-old son, striking the youngster in the face.

U.V. Blake complained that burglars removed $1,500 worth of tools from his van while it was parked at 1906 28th St. or 4100 19th St. sometime between 4:30 p.m. Thursday and 10:30 a.m. Saturday.

Afraid You're Going Deaf?
Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who have trouble hearing has been announced by Beltone. A tiny modern hearing aid often can help. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it
Send for this non-operating model, put it on and wear it in the privacy of your own home. It is not a real hearing aid, but will show you how tiny hearing help can be, and it's yours to keep free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.
These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 9473, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria St., Chicago, Ill. 60646.

What Really Counts
Columnists, comedians, and commentators all seem to have something to say about funeral service.
What's important to us, however, is what's said about us by the families we serve.

Children Fewer; Divorce Hits More

WASHINGTON (AP) — During a period when the number of children in the United States declined, the number of them affected by divorces tripled, the Census Bureau reported, Sunday.

The new study, "Divorce, Child Custody and Child Support," reports that the nation's divorce rate has climbed from two per 1,000 persons in 1940 to 5.1 per 1,000 in 1978.

"If the current level of divorce continues on a lifetime basis, the proportion of marriages ending in divorce may be close to 40 percent," the bureau said.

In 1956 there were 361,000 children involved in divorces, but by 1976 the number had risen to 1,117,000. However, from 1960 to 1978, the report continues, the total number of children living with one or both parents declined from 62 million to 60 million.

The number of children involved in divorce seems to have stabilized, though, and may decline in the years ahead, the bureau speculated.

"For most children in one-parent families, this living arrangement is a temporary one, spanning a period of a few years, usually until their custodial parent remarries, reconciles, or marries for the first time," the report said.

Nevertheless, the bureau added, "to the child living with only one parent for a few years, this period represents a psychologically and socially significant part of his or her life span."

If current trends continue, the bureau said, children being born in the 1970s have about 45 chances in 100 of spending some of their lives in a one-parent family.

The bureau noted that from 1960 to 1978 there has been a rapid increase in the number of one-parent families.

By 1978, the bureau said, 19 percent of families with children were maintained by one parent: 17 percent by the mother and two percent by the father — up from 7.4 percent by mothers and 1.1 percent by fathers in 1960.

The change was particularly significant for black families, the report stated. The proportion of mother-only families among blacks grew from 21 perent to 45 percent between 1960 and 1978, while among whites the increase was from six percent to 13 percent.

Families maintained by the father only in the same period grew from one percent to 1.7 percent among whites and from 2.3 percent to 2.7 percent among blacks.

According to statistics compiled for 1975, the median income of mothers receiving child support payments was $12,210, while those who received no such payments had a median income of $8,440.

In most cases, however, the amount of child support was fairly small, with a mean of $2,430, and three-fifths of women receiving less than $1,500.

Black women constituted 28 percent of the women eligible for, but not necessarily awarded, child support payments. Of women actually receving the payments, only 12 percent were black.

The study also noted that 45 percent of divorced mothers who had completed college received some child support payments, compared to 29 percent of mothers who were only high school graduates and 11 percent of mothers who had not gone to high school.

Ex-Police Official Acquitted

HOUSTON (AP) — Former Jacinto City Police Chief Allan Jamail and two former subordinates have been found innocent of charges they violated the civil rights of two Indiana men by torturing them during questioning.

A jury in U.S. District Court acquitted Jamail, 35, former officer Andrew Torres Jr., 27, and suspended Sgt. Wayne Speaks, 44, on Saturday.

Jacinto City police arrested Wise and Stafford on March 25, 1977, in connection with the rape and murder of Ramona Abner, 10. Both were released without charge the same day.

Jamail, now a Jacinto City councilman, had contended the trial was politically motivated because the main prosecution witness wanted to be police chief.

Frank McAvoy, a reserve police officer who testified he saw Torres repeatedly shock Wise with the baton, told the court he had applied for the job of police chief and supported an opponent of Jamail's in the 1978 city council election.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Tom Beery countered by asking the jury if anyone knew what a shock baton was.

"Who in the world has ever heard about a shock stick or a shock baton, yet Wise and Stafford that same day were at the FBI saying a shock stick was used on them," Beery said.

"It was so bizarre and out of the ordinary that if they invented the story, who told them about it?" he asked.

Jurors indicated after the trial that they felt there was a lack of credibility on both sides.

"We felt some things went on at Jacinto City jail that night that shouldn't have, but we had no proof," said jury foreman Wendel Lasiter. "I'm glad I don't live in Jacinto City."

Chief's Removal Draws Criticism

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Austin's five legislators have demanded the immediate firing of District Highway Engineer Bob Brown because he removed the chief planner for the Austin Transportation Study.

The Travis County legislative delegation complained Brown's action jeopardizes the continued federal funding of highway projects in the county.

The Austin American-Statesman reported Brown told the study's steering committee he was removing study coordinator Max Ulrich because some committee members had criticized Ulrich at a June 15 hearing on the county's transportation plan.

Ulrich is an engineer and was on loan from Brown's office.

Brown also said he was ending the highway department's participation in the transportation study.

Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, said unless the panel approves a transportation plan by Sept. 1, the Federal Highway Administration has warned that the county will not be eligible for any federal funds for highway projects.

"His actions today seem to suggest that's exactly what he would like see happen," Doggett said.

At Wit's End...

My son, the school teacher, has just begun a relationship I have long dreaded.

He has a roommate.

Normally, I would keep silent, but I feel strongly about it and pointed out that this is my house and I have certain rules regarding these things.

He countered with his usual logic, "If it bothers you, just keep the door closed."

I almost wish we were talking about a girl.

Killer is a four-foot king snake that he bought for his class to keep the kids from watching the clock. That's like dating Dracula to get your mind off your low blood pressure problem.

When school ended, he smuggled it into his room thinking it would never be discovered under the clutter. Knowing I was upset about the arrangement (I threatened to jump off the sink into the d'sposer) he made out a list of Killer's redeeming virtues.

Does not use gas.

Does not bark all night.

Does not smell or shed on the sofa.

Discourages door-to-door salesmen.

Does not get sick and need expensive antibiotics.

Does not need a license to leave the yard.

Has no weird sex habits.

No messy bowls or jars or cans at feeding time.

In retaliation, I made a list of Killer's imperfections:

Discourages breathing by your mother.

Grosses everyone out by eating a live mouse, then crawling into a bowl of water for a couple of days.

Generates hysteria whenever he walks into a room.

"Is that all you can think of?" asked my son.

"No, I've got one more. A snake as a roommate is the fastest way I know to make a boy homeless."

A snake doesn't even have the manners to wave goodbye when he leaves a house.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY

DR. PAUL E. RUBLE

Dear Dr. Ruble: My husband is 71, a farmer and an outdoor man. He always enjoyed hot summer months and always sweat profusely. Now his problem is he cannot sweat. His dootor told him to take salt, but this did not help. Taking salt seemed strange. Last summer he got ill from the heat. So now he spends the hot months under the air conditioner. Can you suggest anything? — Mrs. E.S.

The inability to perspire is called "anhidrosis." Recommending salt for this may seem odd at first glance. We usually use salt to replace sodium lost by excessive sweating. Yet, with some types of anhidrosis it does make sense.

The part of the nervous system that controls sweating is called the "autonomic system," the same system that controls all bodily functions we do not control consciously — heart rate, blood vessel action, etc. If this system is disturbed to the point of interfering with perspiration, other symptoms appear — hair loss, mouth and eye dryness, AND low blood pressure.

Normally, low blood pressure is of little concern, but in this instance it can be. It is not uncommon in such cases to prescribe salt to elevate blood pressure.

Your husband's situation is rare. Most of us sweat more than we realize. It's the kind you don't see, but which forms as almost invisible droplets on the skin and evaporates. We lose some through the lungs. Also, we sweat less with age as other bodily functions decrease slightly.

I can't say from your letter if your husband does have the nerve-related anhidrosis. It can be diagnosed by simple skin perspiration tests. If it is confirmed he will have to be careful about any future fever-related illness and take precaution at high temperatures. His air conditioner is vital to him.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have spasm-like movements in my forefinger and thumb of my left hand at night. I am able to stop it by holding my fingers with my right hand. Also, sometimes my writing hand (right) is very shaky. I take aspirin with milk before going to bed. I am 75 years old. Can you comment? — R.M.

Tremor of the forefinger and thumb in one hand CAN mean Parkinsonism, but it is difficult from your brief description to say whether this is what you have. Other nerve diseases can cause muscle twitchings. The fact that the twitching seems to occur only when your hand is at rest is further evidence of Parkinsonism. A dootor can readily determine this.

The shaking of the right hand when you try to write is another matter. That comes under the heading of "action tremor" and is not related to Parkinsonism. Some of this can be expected with age and it can run in families. It rarely requires any treatment, although if it becomes a real nuisance it can be helped with a mild relaxer.

• • •

Dear Dr. Ruble: During my first four months of pregnancy I did some varnishing and painting. It was in a small room not well ventilated. Now, a friend tells me this is the worst thing I could have done. If it is so bad, why didn't my prenatal books warn against it, and what damage could the fumes have done to my baby? I'm scared. — F.A.

If you didn't get sick at the time you did your varnishing it is unlikely any harm was done to you or to the fetus. The signs of overexposure are usually lung and bronchial irritation — coughing and mucus as with an upper respiratory infection. Most up-to-date prenatal books do warn pregnant women against inhalation of pollutants — including oigarette smoke — good advice anytime.

• • •

Dear Dr. Ruble: I wish you could explain fluid buildup in the body and how it is related to circulatory and heart problems. What causes it to begin with? — Mrs. B.L.

You either missed the article a few months back in which I discussed congestive heart failure or you did not connect it with your condition.

Congestive heart failure does not mean that the heart itself is congested. It means that the heart has stopped pumping efficiently enough to maintain proper blood circulation throughout the body. This may be evident chiefly in the lungs, which, if they become congested, can cause breathing difficulties. Other less dramatic effects of the sluggish circulation is accumulation of body fluid elsewhere (edema). The direct cause of the heart problem varies, but results are the same.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

Q.1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AQ93 ♡J84 ◇AK32 ♣53
What is your opening bid?

A.—When you hold two biddable four-card suits, it is usually correct to open the suit below your short suit. Here the short suit is clubs, so the correct opening bid is one spade. That prepares you for any response partner might make. If he bids one no trump, you pass; over two clubs, you can rebid two diamonds; and if partner responds either two hearts or two diamonds, you can raise.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠J63 ♡AK102 ◇632 ♣AJ5
What is your opening bid?

A.—There is no question about opening the bidding, but which suit should you choose? Although hearts is the only "biddable" suit, a one heart opening will leave you ill prepared for a rebid unless partner responds one no trump. Therefore, we would opt for the convenient opening bid of one club.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠J63 ♡AK102 ◇632 ♣AJ5
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
Pass	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—Since partner is a passed hand, you are no longer interested in preparing a rebid—you have no hopes of game. Now you are interested only in arriving at the best part score, and intend to pass any response partner might make, except for a jump shift. Open one heart, your biddable suit.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠742 ♡A63 ◇AK52 ♣A73
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	Pass	1 NT	Pass

What action do you take?

A.—While you have more than your fair share of prime cards, you still have only a minimum opening bid—15 high-card points and no fillers. In addition, your hand is flawed by the 4-3-3-3 pattern. Even if partner has 10 points for his response, it is unlikely that your combined resources will produce nine tricks, so pass.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KJ3 ♡AKJ5 ◇K1065 ♣76
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass	2 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—You have a balanced hand, and if it contained another jack, you would have opened one no trump. Partner has responded in the only suit in which you don't hold two positional stoppers. Since your most likely game is three no trump, you should suggest that contract to partner now by rebidding two no trump rather than introducing your second suit. Partner might interpret a two diamond rebid as showing an unbalanced hand, not suitable for play at no trump.

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A952 ♡83 ◇Q76 ♣K543
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ◇	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—You have an absolute maximum raise to two spades, and your hand has been improved by the fact that you hold the queen in the suit in which partner needs help. To bid less than four spades would be a gross dereliction of duty.

Q.7—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠3 ♡1042 ◇942 ♣K109532
Partner opens the bidding with one spade. What do you respond?

A.—At this vulnerability, we would dearly love to make some noise in an effort to keep the opponents out of the auction, and possibly from reaching a makable game. Unfortunately, if we bid anything, partner is sure to play us for some values, which could cost us dearly. Pass. Your six-card club suit is not sufficient excuse to risk a disaster.

Q.8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A62 ♡QJ ◇KJ10732 ♣K5
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	1 ◇
2 ♠	2 ♡	3 ♠	?

What action do you take?

A.—Without East's competitive bid of three clubs, you would have been content to let partner play two hearts—since he is a passed hand, game depends too much on friendly distribution. However, you shouldn't sell out to three clubs because you have full values for your overcall and the queen-jack of hearts are important fillers for partner's suit. Compete with three hearts.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I've read a great many letters in your column from women who go on and on about "rotten" men who cheat on their wives — or skunks who move in with trusting ladies and deceive them into thinking they will be married — or young, gullible girls who were seduced by smooth-talking operators whose only aim was to score.

You owe it to your readers to present a more balanced picture, Madame Landers. I'd be happy to help. Here are some facts:

I married 23 years ago. Since that time I have been to bed with at least 75 women — most of them married. They ranged from my sister-in-law — a pillar of the church about whom there was never a breath of scandal — to the woman next door, the mother of a large family, completely respectable and very busy. (No one would believe she had the time, much less the energy, for an extramarital affair.)

The point I am trying to make is this: Men who fool around must have willing partners. Why don't you ever say anything about THEM? In all the years I've been chasing skirts I've never once been turned down. In fact, most women I bedded down were so aggressive and eager it was simply a matter of determining an appropriate time and place. So tell it like it is, because — I've Been There And Back

Dear Back: I hold no brief for the playmates of Tom Cats, because I'm well aware that it takes two to tango. The reason I don't print "the other side" is because not many men write to me about it. Very few Don Juans end up ditched, heartbroken or pregnant.

Did you say 75 affairs in 23 years? How in the world did you find time to write to me?

• • •

Dear Ann Landers: Can you use one more letter on the gripe from the directory assistance operator? I hope so because I'd love to see this in the paper.

When I worked for the telephone company seven years ago I learned how the operators look up telephone numbers. They don't use an ordinary directory like the public gets. They have a book called a "frequently reprint." These volumes are updated for the use of the operators every 28 days.

If your telephone is installed in, say, September, your number will not appear in the white page directory until the next issue is printed — the following May. But, it WILL appear in the operator's reprint a lot sooner. So it really burns me up when an operator says in a condescending tone of voice, "The number is listed in the directory as . . ." I feel like saying, "Look, Toots, it might be in YOUR directory, but it's not in mine."

Why should she resent people calling her? If no one needed directory assistance she'd be out of a job.

Doesn't Miss High and Mighty realize the reason she's there is to provide a service? It's not her place to judge people who ask for help — for whatever reason. — Old Pro

Dear Pro: Granted some folks are just plain lazy and would rather call 411 than look up the number in the directory — but as you, and others have pointed out, there is a legitimate need for directory assistance and I thank you for making it clear.

Families 'Eating Out' More Often For Holiday and Weekend Meals

CHICAGO (AP) — There may be no place like home, but fewer people each year are eating their holiday and anniversary meals there.

Recent surveys indicate nearly half of all American family meals are consumed outside the home, according to some restaurant-industry observers.

"Restaurants have taken over an important social role in the United States," says Manfred Steinfeld, chairman of Shelby Williams Industries, which makes chairs for restaurants and other public places.

The major factor in the shift is "the cost-of-living squeeze, which has reduced the size of today's houses and apartments, virtually eliminating space for entertaining and sending almost half the nation's wives and mothers off to work," Steinfeld explained.

In his view, the days when grandma had everyone over for Thanksgiving, Christmas and birthday or anniversary dinners are virtually over.

Steinfeld sees them as part of vanishing America along with the big parlors and dining rooms in which these family affairs were once held.

The U.S. has a new generation which has grown up used to eating in restaurants, Steinfeld said in an interview.

"This is a generation which feels more at home in public dining places than any previous ones ever did," he added.

"Ever since World War II, meals enjoyed by the whole family with no members absent because of other commitments — social, work, school or sports — have become fewer every year."

Popular Off-Campus Luncheonette Closes

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) — The College Drug Luncheonette, a popular off-campus eating place for generations of Vassar students, has closed after 46 years.

The last proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. John Klein, have given the sketches from its walls, depicting college life in the '50s, to the Vassar Library. They are the work of Margaret Rood, a 1948 graduate who is now Mrs. Thomas D. Richardson of South Norwalk, Conn.

More than 1,000 persons died when the Empress of Ireland sank in the St. Lawrence River in 1914. The Canadian Pacific passenger liner collided with a freighter and sank. Lifeboats could not be launched because the ship heeled over at once and sank within 15 minutes.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

After many years of use our bathtub's glaze is gone, and as a result is impossible to clean. I was told the tub needs to be replaced, but after checking the cost, that is out of the question at this time.

Any answers? — Mrs. Bea Grayson

I can tell you what a friend of mind did who had exactly the same problem. I had heard the despair in her voice for a long time when the subject of cleaning the bathtub came up, as she too could never get hers to look really clean.

Like you, she couldn't afford a new one, so had to come up with a less expensive solution.

Anyway, she had the tub refinished professionally. (Look in the yellow pages under Porcelain Repairing and Refinishing.)

It turned out absolutely gorgeous. Shiny and bright as when brand new. She couldn't believe it was her formerly old, dingy, dull monster. And the best part was that the cost was approximately one-fourth of what a new tub (plus installation, etc.) would have been.

She was absolutely delighted! You might want to consider this if you are at your wit's end as far as your bathtub goes.

But, a small word of warning...

Check out the firm you use thoroughly. Ask for references and also to see some of their work. Be sure it's guaranteed as well. Of course, this holds true with any home repair work or remodeling. Don't be taken in by "fly-by-nighters."

And while we're on the subject of bathtubs, let me pass on a few tips on their care and how to keep them new-looking, whether they are made of porcelain or refinished. There is simply no reason to reach the point where you have to replace the tub because all the glaze has been removed.

First, throw away all your abrasive cleaners, powdered or liquid, and never use one of them on your tub again.

All you need to clean a procelain tub is your liquid dishwashing detergent, full strength, or some of the spray cleaners made especially for this purpose.

And clean it regularly — at least two or three times a week whether it looks dirty or not. Train your family to wipe the tub out after each use with an old towel even though it looks as if all the water has drained out. Do this especially if the water in your home is hard.

The reason for this is that as the water on the tub evaporates, mineral deposits are left. Mixed with body oils, this leaves a gray film and if not removed, continues to build up.

After a period of several days the only thing that will remove this easily is an abrasive (or caustic) cleaner. And when you use it, you've started down the road to eventual ruination of the bathtub's glaze. You can't see it at that moment but the damage is there.

Another thing that will damage the surface of the tub over a period of years is the habit of leaving bottles such as shampoo, etc., on the tub.

Here again, you don't see the damage at first but the moisture trapped under them will eat away the finish in time. A real no-no is a bottle containing hair coloring or dye of some sort. This will leave rings you're not ever going to get out.

A drippy faucet is another bug-a-boo. I saw a tub that was about 20 years old that not only had a non-removable black spot where the faucet had dripped on ocacasion over the years, but actually had made a depression in the tub itself. And the tub is made of iron! No wonder the porcelain finish can't stand up to a drip-drip-drip!

So keep those faucets fixed. If you can't afford a plumber, get a friend to show you how to change the washers, and seats, if need be. Most times, that is the only repair needed to stop the drip.

I hope those of you who have a new tub or one that is still in good condition have had it impressed upon your minds that in order to keep the tub this way, you have to take care of it day by day! It will serve you well for years and years if you do.

Come to think of it, "to serve you well" is the same hope I have for myself. Hugs — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I love to keep house, cook, and do the washing. But ironing is something else — I guess because I don't really know too much about it.

Can you please help me? — Martha M.

You're in luck, Martha.

We received this letter yesterday from Liz in New York. I'll let her tell you how she does her ironing.

We quote: "Thought I'd share a hint that makes ironing a bit easier — and safer, especially for young homemakers like me.

"Before I start ironing, I pile up the clothing, putting the permanent press on top and the real cottons and woolens on the bottom.

"Then I set the indicator on the iron on low and start ironing. As I get lower in the stack, I change the heat indicator as needed.

"I know that it seems logical to iron the things that need more heat first, but my way eliminates guessing whether the iron has cooled enough for those silky synthetics — the kind that melt before your very eyes when a too-hot iron touches them.

"Love reading your column — you're doing a terrific job 'carrying on.' Keep it up." — Liz

DEAR HELOISE:

My husband suffered a broken ankle last summer and had to have a cast up to his knee. As the cast got dirtier and dirtier, I came upon the idea of covering it with some leftover patchwork material I had.

I covered the cast with "mod-podge" which was purchased at a craft store, then fit the material to the cast while the mod-podge was still wet. Then I sealed the material with another coat of mod-podge. Result: a colorful looking "knee sock" which coordinated with all his summer shorts. The stares and comments from young and old certainly helped make the confinement a little more bearable! — Mrs. Adam Grundon

DEAR HELOISE:

My height is 5'1" and when I buy a pant suit, the legs are always too long. So from the cut off hems I made a "cowl collar" for the blouse that came with the pants.

I have recieved so many compliments on it. — Karene Herman

DEAR HELOISE:

When trying to apply suntan lotion to the back, a difficult thing to do when alone, try using a small mop (like the one used for putting sauce on meat when you barbecue).

When you have finished your sun bath, just put the little mop in a plastic bag and save until the next time. About once every couple of weeks, wash the mop thoroughly with warm soapy water.

You'll be surprised how nicely this mop works and it is so soft on your skin. — Mrs. R.J.

How ingenious! I would never have thought of that. Necessity is truly the mother of invention, as the old saying goes! — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I had to have our phone number changed and unlisted.

After having the same phone number for over 20 years and having a husband that can never remember numbers, he thought of putting our new phone number, with marking pen, on the inside of many of his belts.

When he had to call home he had the number right there and handy.

Eventually, he may remember it but I doubt it very much. It has helped him out many times already.

Both my husband and I enjoy reading Heloise — S.A.M.

I think you all came up with a very clever idea in order for your hubby to remember the telephone-number. — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I had a real nice plastic bottle that pancake syrup came in.

After rinsing it out, I put my cooking oil into it. The oil is so easy to dispense and the cap is easily wiped off. — Gena Kile

THIS COLUMN is written for you...the homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise, 235 E. 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10017. DEAR HELOISE:

I save ribbons but when I'm ready to use them again they are a mess.

While getting the small ironing board ready to iron them, I moved the hot chrome coffee pot and the idea hit me.

I took a ribbon and held it around the coffee pot, pulling it back and forth as if shining shoes. Worked great, no wrinkles and didn't have to dampen it either.

And if you're like me, your coffee pot is on all day. — D. Wagner

Might caution you who try this hint to watch those plastic ribbons. They could melt and stick to the pot. — Heloise

Clip 'n' Cook

CHINESE-STYLE BEEF

1½ lbs. lean chuck roast or steak
3 tbsp. oil
1 large onion, sliced
1½ cups diagonally thin-sliced carrots
1½ cups water
2 cups fresh bean sprouts or 1 can (16 oz.) bean sprouts, drained
1 envelope (¾ oz.) Au Jus Gravy Mix
1 tbsp. soy sauce
¼ tsp. instant minced garlic
Cooked rice

Cut meat into very thin slices. In skillet or wok, brown meat quickly in 2 tablespoons oil; remove from pan. Add remaining tablespoon oil; stir-fry onion and carrot slices 3 minutes over medium-high heat. Add water and remaining ingredients, except cooked meat and rice. Simmer, covered, 4 minutes or just until carrots and bean sprouts are crisp-tender. Add meat and simmer one more minute to heat through. Serve over rice. 4 to 5 servings.

½ cup thawed frozen peas

Carter, Park Call For Korean Unity

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — President Carter and South Korean President Park Chung-hee called jointly on North Korea Sunday to join in three-way talks aimed at easing tensions and eventually uniting North and South.

The call was contained in a joint communique released as Carter wound up a 43-hour visit to South Korea.

During the visit Carter said Americans will continue to "stand shoulder-to-shoulder" with the South. He announced no decision on whether to resume his promised withdrawal of 31,000 American GIs.

But Carter also pressed the authoritarian Park to ease his repression of political opposition. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance said at a news conference that he personally gave to Foreign Minister Park Tong-jin two lists containing the names of more than 100 dissidents detained by the South Korean government. "We hope serious and positive consideration will be given to releasing the people on the list," he said.

Major Initiative

Vance said the proposal for three-way talks was a major diplomatic initiative.

"It will be a long, hard road," Vance said. He said the first steps would be to negotiate on such things as reuniting families.

He said the North Koreans had been informed of the proposal in advance through an unnamed third country, but that he did not know how they will react. The North has said in recent days that it might be willing to drop its long-standing opposition to direct negotiations with the South.

Vance also said Carter had made no decision on whether to resume his promised withdrawal of U.S. troops from South Korea.

Withdrawal

"He'll make the decision when he's ready to make the decision," he said.

Carter pulled out more than 3,000 GIs before halting the withdrawal after intelligence reports indicated the North Koreans were stronger than previously supposed.

The North has built up its forces to the point where it holds a two-to-one advantage in tanks and artillery, said one senior American official, asking not to be named.

Park asserted Saturday night, in an exchange of dinner toasts with Carter, that the North Koreans are "implacably pursuing their military buildup."

But Park also said the government will "keep our doors open" for ways to resolve differences with the North and to eventually reunite the country.

Saturday Carter reaffirmed the U.S. military commitment to South Korea, and declared that "Americans will continue to stand shoulder-to-shoulder" with Koreans to prevent outside aggression.

Human Rights

But he challenged South Korea to match its human rights record with its dramatic economic achievements.

Sunday morning Carter underscored his concern about human rights by meeting with 12 of the country's religious leaders, including several who have spoken out in opposition to policies of the Park government.

One of those, Kim Kwan-suk, president of the National Council of Christian Churces of Korea, told reporters that Carter "expressed his own concern about human rights" at the meeting that lasted nearly an hour at the residence of U.S. Ambassador William Gleysteen.

Carter did not meet, however, with prominent dissident Kim Dae-jung, a former presidential candidate who was being held under house arrest during Carter's visit.

Interviewed at his home, where about 10 guards were stopping visitors and asking them to identify themselves, Kim said he was glad Carter had reaffirmed military support for the South but disappointed that Carter avoided public mention of the house arrest of scores of dissidents.

"Our military commitment to Korea's security is unshakeable, strong and enduring," the president said in a toast at a state dinner hosted by President Park.

Carter met Sunday with 28 members of the National Assembly, including five from the opposition party, among them its outspoken leader Kim Young-sam, who has been a critic of Park's government.

It was understood here that Carter is considering continuing a freeze on the number of U.S. ground troops in Korea as the best response to communist North Korea's increased military strength.

In effect, he would be halting the withdrawal of U.S. ground forces that started last year, but which has been held in abeyance in recent months while the administration appraised North Korea's apparent buildup.

While Carter's emphatic comment on U.S. military support for South Korea was certain to be welcomed by Park, it was less likely the authoritarian leader would be pleased by Carter's implied criticism of the Korean government's human rights policies.

Carter said in his toast that while South Korea shows evidence of dramatic economic progress, "this achievement can be matched by similar progress through the realization of basic human aspirations in political and human rights."

The United States believes "a free society is the key to realizing the full potential for development and growth," Carter said.

Park appeared in his toast to defend his government's human rights record.

"This sysem upholds freedom based on law and order and assures the full creativity of the individual," he said.

New Rights Emerge At Sino Congress

PEKING (AP) — The National People's Congress wound up a two-week session Sunday that gave China's 900 million people freer elections, greater protection under the law and a new start toward industrial modernization.

The 3,265 deputies to the meeting of the Chinese Parliament were urged to "race against time" and make China into a full-fledged industrial power in the coming decades.

Perhaps just as remarkable as its accomplishments, however, was the way the second session of the Fifth National People's Congress was conducted.

Deputies openly debated such controversial subjects as whether there are political prisoners in China and whether the political use of wall posters should be allowed to continue. The debates were reported by the official Xinhua (Hsinhua) news agency, and in some cases legislation was revised.

For the first time since 1957, the nation was given a full public accounting of the state's finances, economic condition and budget.

Though the sessions were not open to the public, the foreign press corps was given frequent briefings on the proceedings by the Foreign Ministry's Information Department, an unusual move.

Seven Laws

The deputies passed seven important laws which, if carried out, would help restore stability after two decades of iron-handed, autocratic rule and widespread legal abuse.

At the same time, the lawmakers approved legislation to permit free, direct elections to almost 2,000 county-level people's congresses, bodies that represent between 200,000 and 500,000 people each and which elect provincial and national congresses.

Until now, deputies to the county congresses have been chosen by the Communist Party and have run unopposed. Non-Communists now may run and there will be more than one candidate for each seat.

The Congress also passed measures aimed at boosting the stalled campaign to bring China into the forefront of industrial nations by the turn of the century.

It approved the selection by Premier Hua Kuo-feng of three new vice premiers to share the increased economic load imposed by the ambitious industrialization plan. They are Chen Yun, 74, Bo Yibo (Po I-po), 71, and Yao Yilin (Yao I-lin), 62, all well known as financial and economic experts. Chen is a Communist Party vice chairman and member of the Politburo Standing Committee.

The Congress also named four persons, including the once-disgraced former mayor of Peking, Peng Zhen (Peng Chen), as new vice chairmen of the congress standing committee.

One member, Zhu Yunshan (Chu Yun-shan), 92, is a non-communist former associate of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, the late founder of Republican China.

Aged former Marshal Ye Jianying (Yeh Chien-ying), chairman of the Congress Standing Committee, said in a farewell speech the Parliament had "triumphantly accomplished all its tasks" and called on the deputies "to race against time, avoid detours and quicken the tempo of our modernization."

The modernization plan, first broached in 1975 by the late Premier Chou En-lai, got off to a false start earlier this year when China over-committed itself on foreign projects, launched too many capital construction initiatives and failed to strengthen its agricultural base.

A new law opening the way for foreign investment and joint ventures will go into immediate effect. All the others begin Jan. 1, 1980.

U.S. Begins Anti-Somoza Initiative

fect if a leftwing government replaces Somoza.

Meanwhile, The Sandinista rebels fighting to overthrow Somoza want the United States as an ally, a member of the provisional government said in a weekend interview.

Rocking gently on a rocking chair in his new guerrilla command post, Moises Hassan talked about his visions of a new Nicaragua after Somoza's fall.

"We want to have friendly relations with all countries of the world including the United States," Hassan said. "If the United States wants it, they can have it.

"If not, it will be the fault of some of the U.S. politicians who think they can control all the small countries of the world."

He also said government and military leaders found guilty of murder would be executed once the Somoza regime falls.

'A Real Criminal'

"The head of the security office, if the Sandinistas get their hands on him, will be subject to a trial, and in my opinion, he will be executed."

"I believe he is a real criminal. He has tortured and killed hundreds of patriots."

Hassan, 37, is a member of the five-member junta that plans to lead the Central American nation if the Sandinistas win their civil war. He is the only junta member currently in the country.

Hassan, who holds a Ph.D. in physics from the University of North Carolina, said once the guerrillas had achieved their goal of ousting Somoza they would be "ready to accept help from the United States as long as they respect our independence, sovereignty and self determination."

The Sandinista leader estimated it will take from two to four years for the five-member junta to get Nicaragua back on its feet.

Bottled Up

On the fighting fronts, Sandinista guerrillas Sunday bottled up national guardsmen in the key southern town of Rivas in preparation for a new assault on Managua.

And, it is reported that President Anastasio Somoza, desperate for military hardware to stay in power, turned to Israel for arms.

A member of the Sadninista provisional government told UPI the rebels plan to form a giant pincers movement to the north and south of Managua and attack the capital.

Residents of Rivas, 19 miles north of the Costa Rican border on the Pan American highway, were given guns and ammunition by Sandinista infiltrators and used them to push a detachment of 60 national guardsmen into the town garrison.

Military sources reported fighting within 50 yards of the garrison Sunday.

The guardsmen are facing the Sandinista's main force, which invaded from Coste Rica two weeks ago near Sapoa, 4 miles from the border.

A guerrilla column that pulled out of eastern Managua under pressure of guard bombing has regrouped in Sandinista-held Masaya, 16 miles south of Managua.

The Sandinistas hope the southern column can break through and join the Masaya concentration in a final push on Managua to oust Somoza.

Caves Found With Use Of Infrared

said. "When we find new caves, we include them in our management system before the public has a chance to vandalize them. Then, through a permit system, they can enjoy them."

While the park service does not ordinarily open up its caves to public viewing, the forest service has some caves open on the permit system. Approximately 8,000 cave visitors are projected for this year.

"We have a body of about five caves that takes all the traffic," said forest service cave specialist Jerry Trout, who along with his brother Bob is working on the exploration project. Both are from Carlsbad.

"We want to add about 10 more caves so that we can set limits on the number of people going through a given place," he explained.

Trout said many caves are too delicate to withstand heavy traffic, again emphasizing concern for conservation.

"That's probably one of the things that keeps us going," he explained. "We've all witnessed destruction in other caves to a fantastic degree. We estimate 95 percent vandalism in some cases."

Precautions used by cave specialists in some areas include shedding boots and wearing heavy socks to minimize damage, or walking only on previously established footprints.

"The biggest thrill is standing in a place (where) you know no other human being has ever before been," Trout said.

He described one scene with rows of delicate crystals that would wave with any air disturbance. Those types of formations are often destroyed by the public.

Park service cave specialist Ron Kerbo said officials will seek evidence of bats, insects, fossil remains, and unusual formations.

Anti-Nuke Groups To Picket Carter

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Two coalitions of groups opposed to nuclear power say they will picket President Carter's appearance at the National Governors' Association conference next Sunday.

The Louisville chapters of the Mobilization for Survival and the Paddlewheel Alliance hope to "show the president that wherever he goes, there will be people opposing nuclear power," said Harold Schlechtweg, a protest organizer. Local controversy about nuclear power has centered on the Marble Hill power station under construction 30 miles up the Ohio River near Madison, Ind.

College Student Finds Remains Of Lizard

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A College biology student has found the remains of a 25-foot sea lizard that 65 to 80 million years ago slithered along the edges of a huge, warm sea which at that time covered California's interior.

Chad Staebler found two pieces of vertebrae sticking from the sediment in the California Coast Range. The parts were later identified as belonging to the lizard, directly related to those on land today, which had paddle-like limbs that enabled it to move rapidly and dive deeply.

Staebler's father, Arthur, professor of biology at Fresno State University, obtained a permit from the Bureau of Land Manaomenet and began digging in the area where his son made the find — the Panoche Hills, part of the Diablo range above the western San Joaquin Valley.

Father and son moved through 15 feet of shale, gathering the head, shoulders and vertebrae before having to quit due to the hot summer weather.

election. The race would then be thrown into the new Congress, which would choose among the top three finishers.

Siles Zuazo, chief of the Popular Democratic Union, warned before the election that if he won the popular vote but lost in Congress his supporters would take to the streets.

Massive Fraud

Two military coups followed the national election of last summer, which was annulled because of massive fraud.

The general who came out on top after the coups, David Padilla, had set Sunday as the date for new elections and promised that the armed forces would transfer power to the new government Aug. 10.

Bolivians in poorer sections of La Paz were skeptical that Sunday's voting would prove any more successful than last year's.

Gerald Torres, 33, was one of several manual laborers interviewed Sunday morning who said another military coup would lead to a civil war.

"The people won't support another military intervention," he said as he stood in line at the Santa Maria de Los Angeles School high on a hill above downtown La Paz.

Civil War

"A coup would cause a civil war that would make Nicaragua look like a picnic," he said.

The Siles Zuazo platform was based on an "anti-imperialist alliance of workers, campesinos (Indian farmers) and the middle class."

Paz Estenssoro served as president from 1952 to 1956, with Siles Zuazo as his vice president. Then Siles Zuazo was president from 1956 to 1960, when Paz Estenssoro again took office.

Reforms

The two men worked together to bring Bolivia into the 20th Century, carrying out major social and economic reforms, including land redistribution, universal suffrage and nationalization of the tin mines.

The democratic revolution was interrupted in 1964 by a military coup shortly after Paz Estenssoro had been elected as president for a third term.

Bolivia, a landlocked nation about the size of California and Texas combined but with fewer than 5 million inhabitants, has been dominated by military rulers since 1964.

It has had more than 180 changes of government in 154 years of independence. Its predominantly Indian population has a per-capita income of some $650 a year, one of the lowest in Latin America.

Last year's election was called by Gen. Hugo Banzer Suarez, the dictator who was overthrown after the 1978 elections. The 53-year-old Banzer ran as an independent presidential candidate this time with a platform of "order, peace and work."

controls as an option.

"I don't want to presuppose that," he said.

But he said if there were such a recommendation: "I would say no...I'm opposed."

The administration official said existing wage and price guidelines are being revised, which was known previously.

"The guidelines have to be updated; we have a new situation on our hands," he said, apparantly referring to the fact that inflation is likely to worsen as higher oil costs work their way through the economy.

Declaring his trip to Japan and Korea was highly successful, Carter said, "we have accomplished all th goals we set for ourselves."

Prior to leaving Seoul earlier in the day, Carter signed with South Korean President Park Chung Hee a communique which called for a new initiative to encourage three-way talks among North and South Korea and the United States.

The conversations would be aimed at reducing tensions on the Korea peninsula and reuniting the North and the South, divided since World War II.

"If we are successful," Carter said, "it will be of great benefit."

The president tarried here long enough to join political leaders and others at what was billed as a "civic reception" in the military officers club, where he recalled that he and his wife and oldest son had lived in Hawaii when he was a naval officer.

The presient took note of the fact he disappointed some Hawaiians by cancelling plans to spend a three-day holiday here on his way back to the White House. He said:

"I believe, however, that the economic...and the energy problems of our country require me to go back to Washington."

Carter argued that "many of our problems would not exist" had Congress enacted the energy program he proposed his first year in office. He said the House and Senate have yet to enact "a single line of legislation" dealing with oil.

Presumably harking back to his remarks on the airplane about countering OPEC, he said the United States can and must take action to achieve energy independence through the development of old and new energy sources.

In concluding, Carter said "it is not easy to be president." But he said the nation will do well "if we live and work together as we have in the past."

RHODESIANS STRIKE AGAIN

SALISBURY, Zimbabwe Rhodesia (AP) — Airborne Zimbabwe Rhodesian security forces struck into Zambia Sunday in the second raid in less than a week against black nationalist guerrilla bases, the military reported. Target was a base of the military wing of the Zimbabwe African People's Union 20 miles west of the Zambian capital of Lusaka. A spokeman said large quantities of war materials were destroyed in the "highly successful" attack and all troops and planes returned safely.

STAR-SPANGLED ANDREA — Andrea Dedolph was ready for the Independence Day celebration Sunday at Reese Air Force Base. She got a preview paint session with Mrs. David Anderson to get the face-painting art down for the MAST (Married Airmen Sharing Together) booth at the fun, food and games round of events. Proceeds from the MAST booth will help members enjoy some activities not possible on a low-stripe airman's pay. Andrea is the daughter of Airman and Mrs. Michael Dedolph. (Staff Photo)

Ready Or Not, Texas, Here Comes Nuclear Power

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Nuclear power has come to Texas whether Texans want it or not. It's brought prosperity to the towns around the two plants being built, and a quiet fear to some of the residents. The power companies contend the plants will be safe, regardless of Three Mile Island. Vocal opponents aren't so sure.)

By GREG THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer

The list of natural resources in tiny Somervell County is a short one — some stingy farm and pasture land, meager sand and gravel, a few dinosaur tracks and the Brazos River. There's nary a hint of petroleum and the limestone isn't even good enough to quarry.

But the famished county is going to have Texas' first nuclear power plant, ironically propelling it into the energy forefront of the state that has for eight decades been the nation's motherlode of oil and natural gas.

Whether or not Somervell County gets the last laugh on the rest of energy-rich Texas happens to be the subject of an already heated debate over the safety of the commercial nuclear power that won't be here until at least 1981.

Two controversial nuclear plants are under construction in Texas, the Comanche Peak station in Somervell County about 50 miles south of Fort Worth and the South Texas Nuclear Project on the Texas coast 80 miles south of Houston. A smaller third plant is planned near Sealy, west of Houston.

Gulf States Utilities Co. planned, but later scrubbed for financial reasons, another plant in deep East Texas. Gulf States customers in East Texas, however, will be served by a nuclear plant being built north of Baton Rouge, La.

Comanche Peak and the STNP have both been plagued with construction delays and cost escalations that have pushed the price of each plant to more than $1.7 billion.

Both have had highly-publicized repairs on concrete and welding in sensitive safety areas. The governing Nuclear Regulatory Commission stopped some major work at the troubled South Texas plant last week because of voids in the concrete in a radiation containment building.

And both have been the target of demonstrations by increasingly sophisticated and vocal anti-nuclear forces bolstered by the March accident at the Three Mile Island plant in Pennsylvania.

But utility executives and experts claim Texas, with its booming economy a glutton for more energy, cannot do without the 4,800 megawatts the two plants should be producing by 1983 and the 1,200 megawatts that someday might come from the proposed Allens Creek plant near Sealy.

That's enough megawatts, the utilities say, to regularly serve more than 1.5 million residential customers. It would take, they add, more than 840 million gallons of fuel oil per year for an oil-burning plant to match just the 2,300 megawatts produced by less than 100 tons of nuclear fuel at Comanche Peak.

"What alternative does Texas have? If Texas wanted to secede from the United States and then use its own oil and gas for 200 years, we could get by without nuclear power," said Dr. Robert Cochran, head of Texas A&M's nuclear engineering department. "If we stay in the United States and continue to send our gas to Hyannisport, then we'll have to have nuclear."

"In the 1980s, this country is going to be in one helluva fix for electric power. We're going to need all we can get and we can't do it without nuclear," said Bill R. Clements, a former commander of a nuclear submarine and vice president of the Texas Utilities subsidiary that will operate the Comanche Peak plant.

"If there's no nuclear power, it will give us an electric situation critical enough to make the current gasoline shortage seem like nothing," said Jim Parsons, a public affairs director for Houston Lighting & Power Co., the managing partner of the South Texas plant.

Most of Texas' electricity is still generated by increasingly expensive natural gas, which many say is also rapidly diminishing. Some Texas utility companies are converting many of their plants to coal, which is hauled in from out of state. Texas Utilities is using cheaper, readily available lignite coal mined near its generating plants.

The two 1,150 megawatt units at Comanche Peak, the first of which is scheduled to be in operation in early 1981, will be providing more than 15 percent of the electricity for Texas Utilities, which serves a third of the state's population.

The first 1,250-megawatt unit of the South Texas plant, a joint venture of the cities of Austin, San Antonio, HL&P and Central Power & Light of Corpus Christi, is scheduled to begin operating in the spring of 1982. Parsons said the entire plant would be providing about 6 percent of the electricity for HL&P's million customers by 1983.

This idea of nuclear power seems mystical to Texans accustomed to plentiful natural gas and oil, but it's nothing new to the energy-anemic Northeast and Midwest.

The first commercial nuclear power plant, a small 90 megawatt unit, began operating in Shippingport, Pa., in 1957 — at a time when nuclear power was touted as a safe, clean source of electricity too cheap to meter.

Seventy-two reactor units are currently licensed to operate in the United States, but that total includes the one Three Mile Island unit shut down by the accident.

Nuclear plants generated more than 12 percent of the nation's electricity last year, Texas Utilities officials said. Almost half of the electricity in Chicago and 80 percent of that used in Vermont comes from nuclear power.

Another 96 reactor units, including the four in Texas, are under construction and 29 reactor units have been ordered by utility companies.

Dale Bridenbaugh of San Jose, Calif., an engineer for 22 years in General Electric's nuclear power plant program and a member of the opposition Union of Concerned Scientists, said tremendous pressure is being exerted on Americans to accept these plants without knowing for sure if the safety systems work.

"There's economic pressure to put those plants in service. We can't afford to go ahead and build those plants without demonstrating whether their safety systems work," he said. "It would be like building more DC-10s without knowing for sure whether the engines are going to fall off or not."

U.S. Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez of San Antonio, an outspoken foe of nuclear power who has introduced legislation to stop the licensing of future nuclear plants and the gradual decommissioning of those operating, said he's afraid Americans are building up a dependence on what he fears they will discover is a safety hazard.

"Now is the time that we can re-evaluate and withdraw from that swamp if necessary. I think perhaps it's irreversible. You've got a tremendous power struggle here involving millions of dollars," he said in Washington.

As an alternative, Gonzalez proposes the use of coal and an "all-out" effort to develop solar energy. Gonzalez's hometown, however, has been hit with huge increases in the rates charged by railroads carrying Wyoming coal to the city-owned City Public Service.

Utility officials retort, however, that nuclear power has been a safe, clean source of electricity for more than 20 years and point to the expected inspections during construction, improved safeguards and numerous — and expensive — safety systems, backup systems and backup backup systems.

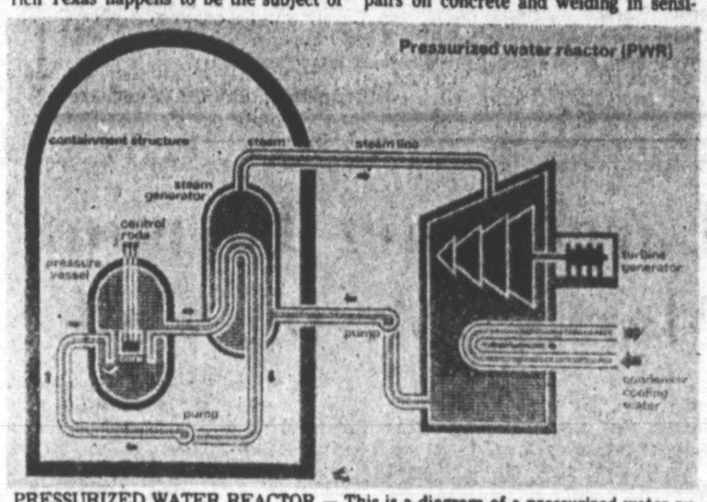

Nobody, they point out with great relish, has ever been killed or seriously injured in an accident involving commercial nuclear power.

Despite the constructon delays — two years at the STNP and a year at Comanche Peak — and the accompanying cost increases, Texas utility officials claim that their plants will still be a good deal for their customers if compared to the cost of electricity generated by coal, oil or natural gas.

But they do admit this new-fangled nuclear power is not going to lower your electric bill one bit, just slow the anticipated price increases. "It's not going to lower anybody's bill," said Parsons, "but it will help stabilize them."

"The days of cheap power are gone," said Clements. "People can just blow that off."

Nuclear Glossary

By The Associated Press

Here's a glossary of terms used in the commercial nuclear power industry:

AUXILIARY BUILDINGS — Concrete and steel structures adjoining the containment towers. The primary auxiliary building contains safety and reactor support systems and tanks for the handling of radioactive water. The control building houses the control room and the fuel building is where spent fuel assemblies and new fuel is stored.

BACKGROUND RADIATION — Naturally occcurring radioactivity caused by radioactive materials in the earth and air and from cosmic rays. It's usually about 100 millirems per year, which utility officials claim is many more times powerful than that emitted from nuclear power plants.

BREEDER REACTOR — A reactor that produces more fissionable fuel, in the form of plutonium, than it consumes. The plutonium is created by the capture in fertile materials of neutrons from the transmutation of uranium 238.

CONTAINMENT BUILDING — A giant, 265-foot domed silo 135 feet in diameter that contains the reactor and the coolant system. The building is lined with steel and has concrete and steel walls four and a half feet thick. The dome is more than two feet thick. It can be sealed off from the rest of the plant to prevent the escape of radiation should there be a leak in the coolant system.

CONTROL RODS — A rod containing a material that readily absorbs neutrons and controls the power of a nuclear reactor. By absorbing neutrons, a control rod prevents them from causing further fission.

COOLANT — The water in the reactor vessel that cools the reactor core and prevents it from melting itself with its own intense heat. It also helps govern the chain reaction by slowing down the neutrons so fission can occurr. The water, kept under pressure to prevent it from boiling, is heated to 600 degrees Fahrenheit and pumped into a steam generator, where the transfer of heat creates the steam that drives the turbines and generates electricity.

DOSIMETER — A device for measuring radiation dose.

ENRICHMENT — The process by which the fissionable 235 isotope is artificially increased in uranium for use in a nuclear reactor.

FISSION — The nuclear process in which a neutron splits the nucleus of uranium 235 into fragments, releasing heat energy and more neutrons that continue the chain reaction.

FUEL ASSEMBLY — A cluster of fuel rods, long tubes of zirconium alloy containing stacks of thimble-sized uranium dioxide fuel pellets.

FUEL REPROCESSING — The reprocessing of spent fuel assemblies to salvage unused uranium and the small amounts of plutonium produced in fission.

FUSION — The formation of a heavier nucleus from two lighter ones, such as hydrogen isotopes, which causes a significant release of energy. The process used in a hydrogen bomb and being investigated as a possible process to generate electricity commercially.

HALF-LIFE — A term used to describe the time rate of radioactive decay. A single half-life is the time required for the intensity of radioactivity, 100 units for instance, to decay to 50 units. Two half-lives will see the initial 100 units decrease to 25 units, and so on.

MELT DOWN — The most serious nuclear accident, in which the core is no longer covered with the coolant water and melts itself with its own intense heat. It would then theoretically burn through the bottom of the reactor and the containment building and into the ground.

PLUTONIUM — A heavy, radioactive, man-made, metallic element produced by fission, especially the neutron irradiation of uranium 238. It is used for reactor fuel and in weapons.

PRESSURIZED WATER REACTOR — The type of nuclear power plant in which heat is transferred from the core to a heat exchanger by water kept under high pressure so it can achieve high temperature without boiling in the primary system. Steam is generated in a secondary circuit.

RADIATION — Energy transmitted in the form of waves, particles and bundles called photons. There is harmless radiation, for example, in light, in the air, in food and in the ground. But ionizing radiation, such as that in X-rays, can damage or kill body cells.

RADIOACTIVE WASTE — The radioactive by-products of the fission process, including small amounts of plutonium. It is either low-level waste, such as contaminated gloves and water, or high-level waste, such as the plutonium in the spent fuel assemblies.

REACTOR VESSEL — The huge carbon steel bottle containing the reactor core and coolant water. At the Comanche Peak plant, the vessels are each 440 tons, 44 feet high, 14.4 feet in diameter and have walls more than eight inches thick.

REM — Roentgen Equivalent Man. A unit of dose of any radiation that produces the same biological effect as a unit of absorbed dose of ordinary X-rays. A millirem is .001 REM.

SCRAM — The sudden shutdown of a nuclear reacor, usually by rapid insertion of all of the cntrol rods. Emergencies or deviations from normal reactor operations cause the reactor operator or automatic control equipment to scram the reactor.

Nuclear Power Plant Uses Plain Old Steam

By the Associated Press

It's immensely more expensive to build and considerably more sophisticated, but a nuclear power plant generates electricity on the same decades-old principle as plants powered by natural gas, oil or coal.

It goes something like this: Heated water produces steam, which drives a turbine, which spins a generator, which produces electricity.

The heat source in the case of Comanche Peak's and South Texas Nuclear Project's pressurized water reactor plants, however, will be energy released by nuclear fission — the splitting of the nuclei of uranium 235.

A self-sustaining chain reaction is set off when a neutron collides with a U-235 nucleus and releases heat and other neutrons, which then bombard other U-235 nuclei. The reaction is controlled by control rods, which contain material that absorbs neutrons.

The heat from the approximately 100 tons of small, enriched uranium dioxide pellets, encased in zirconloy tubes in the core, heats the coolant water surrounding it in the huge reactor vessel. The carbon steel vessel weighs 440 tons, is 44 feet high and 14.4 feet in diameter and has walls more than eight inches thick.

The coolant water, which also cools the reactor core to prevent it from melting itself with its own intense heat and enables fission to occur by moderating the flow of neutrons, is heated by the reaction to 600 degrees Fahrenheit and pumped into a steam generator.

The water is radioactive from flowing around and through the reactor core and also pressurized at 2,250 pounds per square inch to prevent it from turning to steam itself.

Water in the secondary water system is already in the generator and turns to steam from the heat passed on by the hot water in the coolant system. There is no intermingling of the two water systems; the heat is conveyed through the pipes.

That steam turns the turbines and is condensed back into water by cooling lake water in a third system of pipes. It then goes back into the generator.

The reactor and the generator are inside the concrete and steel containment building, a giant 265-foot silo 135 feet in diameter. The containment tower, which is lined with steel on the inside and has side walls more than four feet thick and a domed roof more than two feet thick, is designed to contain any radiation that might escape from the primary coolant system.

Numerous safety and reactor support systems in the concrete and steel auxiliary building are designed to prevent the core from overheating.

The turbine and the lake water pipes are outside the containment area, however. The lake water is returned to the reservoir at a slightly higher temperature, but would not have its level of radioactivity raised above normal background radiation, utility officials say.

Jails Too Crowded; Prisoners Go Free

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Seven years after a state court agreed local jails were so crowded that staying in them constituted "cruel and unusual punishment," a three-judge panel has ordered the city to do something about it.

A total of 105 prisoners will be released from Philadelphia's three prisons on July 11 under a 1972 court order that there may be no more than one prisoner assigned to a cell.

More than 2,100 people now are incarcerated in 1,800 cells at Holmesburg, the House of Correction and the Detention Center.

The order for the releases, which was signed last week by Common Pleas Judges Theodore Smith, Paul Dandridge and Robert Williams, drew criticism from District Attorney Edward Rendell.

He said Saturday he would oppose the "blanket release of these prisoners" in a letter to the judges. He said the 1972 order could be more appropriately met if the judges required "special night court sessions until the cases are disposed of."

All 105 prisoners are being held on bail of $1,500 or less.

"These people haven't been convicted of any crimes and some of them have been in for as much as six months. They are there because they are poor," said attorney Walter Cohen who was appointed by the court to oversee city compliance with the 7-year-old ruling.

"I would say that most of these people have been in jail longer than they would have if tey had been convicted," he said.

Protest Convoy Of 25 Trucks Rolls Through Times Square

Elsewhere, independent truckers across the country held meetings to decide whether to go back to work following announcement of the federal government's six-point plan for the ending the protest.

The 400-member New Jersey Council of Independent Truckers voted unanimously Sunday to recall pickets from oil distribution centers in the state and return to work on Monday.

Independent haulers in New England, western South Dakota, Washington state and northern Arksansas-southern Missouri also voted over the weekend to free their members to resume work.

"I think we've gained more than I ever figured we would," said Dennis Snyder of the western South Dakota chapter of the Independent Truckers Association. "We've got thepromises. All we've got to do is make them (federal officials) fulfill their promises."

But national truckers' spokesmen stood fast in their refusal to endorse an end to the three-week-old protest, and truckers in Pennsylvania, Colorado and Alabama were among those voting to stay idle.

"We have renewed support," Bill White, national representative of the International Truckers Association said Sunday in Los Angeles.

"The calls that I'm getting in here now are calling for more vigorous action. The guys are more determined than ever to stay out," he said.

The ITA, which listed 38,880 duespaying members as of June 1 but claims to represent 90 percent of the nation's 110,000 independent long-haul truckers, sponsored the protest convoy in New York on Sunday. The organization estimated 50,000 truckers were still off the job Saturday, but the estimate could not be confirmed.

Meanwhile, incidents of highway violence continued at the reduced rate of the past several days, although scattered snipings were reported in west Texas and Colorado. Garbage and concrete blocks were dumped Saturday on Interstate 57 in Illinois, in the same area where nearly 70 incidents of vandalism or violence have been reported since June 18.

Truck traffic and shipment of foodstuffs have risen steadily in most parts of the country since the middle of last week.

The New York convoy participants were mainly from New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

In Alabama, a similar convoy of about 30 tractor-trailer rigs drove from a fuel terminal at Powderly and dispersed at Adamsville, north of Birmingham.

The Carter administration announced its program last week for dealing with the truckers' demands. Among other things, the plan calls for the designation of eight interstate highways as "safe corridors" and a pledge to support uniform weight and size regulations and equitable distribution of diesel fuel.

GE Officials, Electrical Union Members Continue Parley

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiators worked Sunday past contract expiration deadlines in an effort to reach agreement on tentative new national contracts for 86,000 General Electric Co. employees.

Meanwhile, plant-level negotiations for local contracts affecting 32,000 workers in 11 unions were being held in more than 100 communities across the nation.

The full bargaining committees of two large unions returned to a Manhattan hotel where a few top negotiators in key "main table" talks had continued working most of the night.

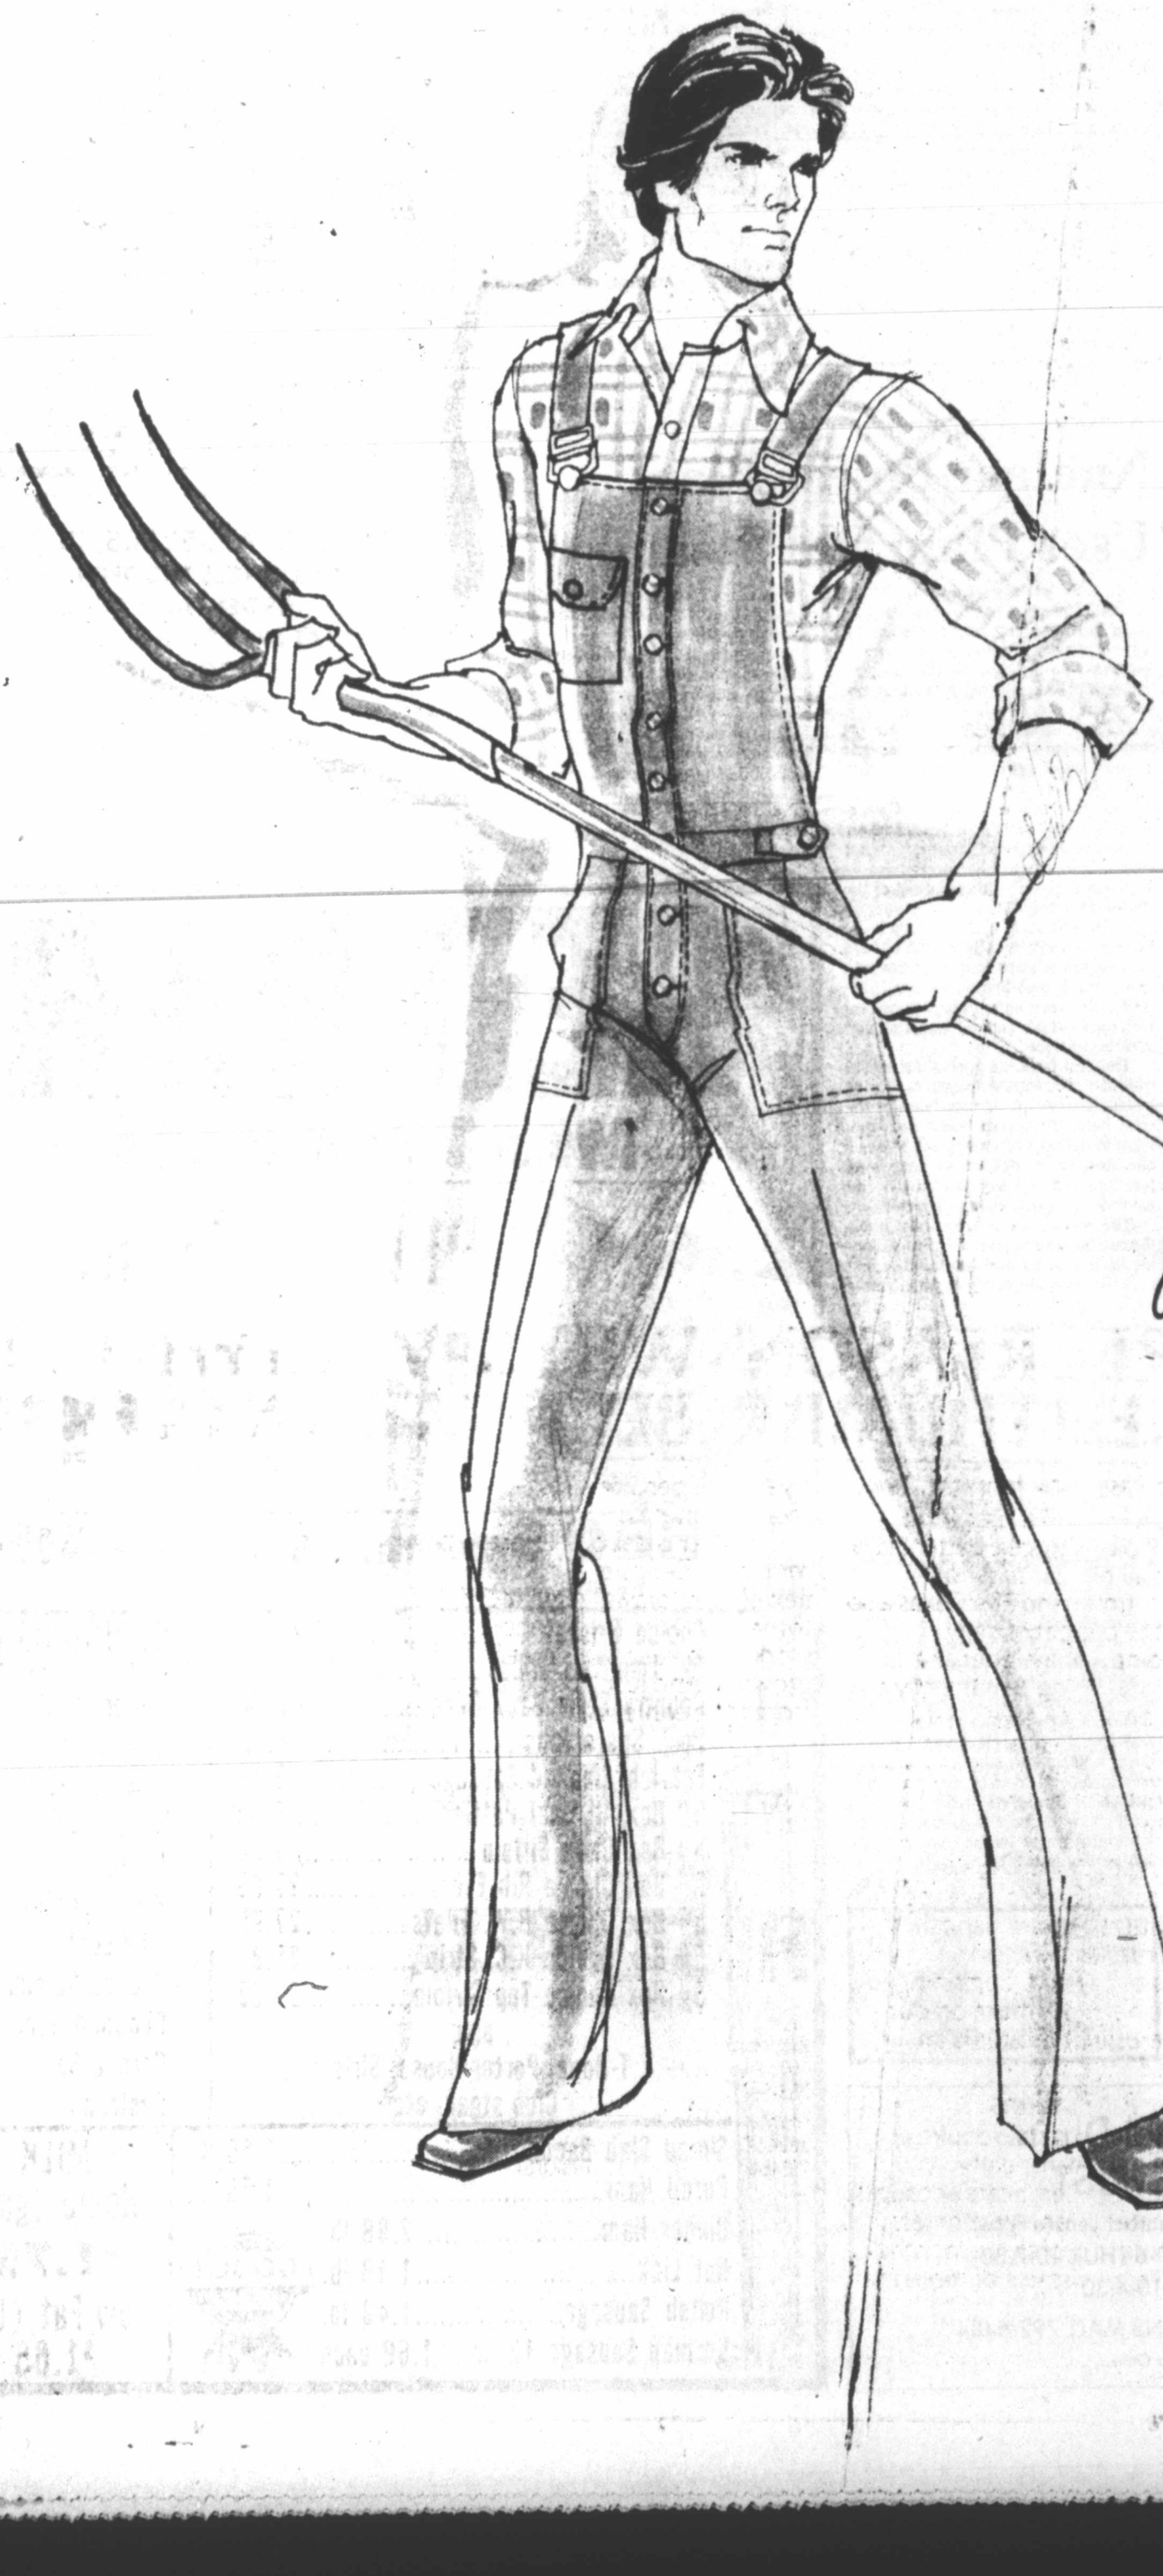

Expiration deadlines for old contracts with the nationally bargaining unions passed at midnight Saturday with the union teams still pressing for a better economic offer to counter inflation.

Insurance Necessary Before Building Overseas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Political risk insurance has grown from novelty to necessity for U.S. contractors competing for construction projects in such jittery regions as the Middle East and Africa.

In the wake of Iran's revolution, many companies won't even bid for overseas contracts without insurance provided by the Export-Import Bank, says George Stockton, an official of the Associated General Contractors of America. It estimates U.S. contractors in Iran suffered about $10 billion in canceled or delayed projects.

The Ex-Im Bank believes its contractors' guarantee program can stimulate U.S. investment abroad by reducing risks. It offers protection against:

•contractors' inability to convert local currency into U.S. dollars;

•confiscation of property and bank accounts;

•damage due to war, revolution or insurrection;

The four types of coverage are available individually or in any combination. Contractors normally are compensated for 90 percent of their losses due to inconvertibility, confiscation and war risks. Under disputes coverage, compensation ranges from 50 to 90 percent.

"U.S. contractors don't need our insurance if they don't get the project awards," says Clark Batchelder, an Ex-Im Bank official. "There's a dogfight out there for lucrative construction projects, particularly in the Middle East, and U.S. companies aren't doing all that well."

Since the Ex-Im Bank began to insure contracts last year (taking over from the Overseas Private Investment Corp.), it has received more than 500 inquiries. But as of June, only one company actually had obtained the insurance and only 28 applications had been submitted.

The Nello Teer Co. of Durham, N.C., is a case in point. It received preliminary approval for Ex-Im Bank insurance, enabling it to bid for a Syrian highway project. The premiums were steep — $1.3 million over three years for $20 million exposure — but the policy was crucial, said Billy Carter, an executive with Nello Teer.

"Since Iran, there's apprehension the furor will spread. We were just not willing to bid a project without the security of political risk insurance," he said. "We may never need it, but it's worth the money to know the U.S. government is behind us. It gives us credibility."

"What it comes down to is, we have a weapon to cope with political unrest, but not the tools to beat foreign competition," says Stockton.

In 1978, the top 400 U.S. contracting firms registered less than $4 billion in contracts for Middle Eastern projects, 61 percent below 1977's $10 billion figure.

Contractors' overall foreign volume did improve slightly last year, but the number of firms reporting new overseas business fell, from 199 to 98, the Associated General Contractors said.

The competition facing U.S. firms is diverse, coming from such traditional rivals as Japan and Europe, and increasingly from new sources such as Middle Eastern nations, Brazil and, especially, Asian countries such as Korea and Taiwan.

"The United States is the only industrialized country in the world taxing the income of its citizens working abroad (under 18 months)," says J. A. Jones, a Charlotte, N.C., contractor and official of the AGCA, which represents more than 8,000 companies.

To induce Americans to go abroad and to compensate for high taxes, U.S. contractors pay far higher salaries than do their foreign competitors. "Three British engineers can be employed for the price of one American," says Jones.

Congress last year passed the Foreign Earned Income Act to relieve Americans who work abroad. Contractors, however, complain it has imposed complex filing procedures on workers and very expensive administrative costs on companies, which must document day-to-day cost-of-living expenses.

Contractors also claim the U.S. government places legal restraints on overseas business based on human rights policies, anti-bribery laws and environmental regulations.

Executive Returns Home To Toledo Following Release By Guerrillas

Niehous, a 48-year-old native of Toledo, Ohio, was freed Friday when two policemen, searching for cattle rustlers, stumbled on the camp where he was being held in a remote jungle area. Two of Niehous' captors were killed in a gunfight with the police.

The American, kidnapped more than three years ago, was flown home and reunited with his family, Sunday, even though the government had wanted him to testify in the military trial of six men charged in the case. President Luis Herrera Campins said Niehous was permitted to leave the country for "humanitarian" reasons and he did not know if he would return.

When Niehous was abducted, Feb. 27, 1976, guerrilla activity in this oil-rich nation aready had waned. During the early 1960s, the fledgling democracy was seriously threatened by insurrection reportedly financed in part by the communist regime of Cuban President Fidel Castro.

Guerrilla raids and abductions dropped sharply after the government of President Rafael Caldera, who served from 1969 to 1974, granted amnesty to rebels who turned in their weapons.

The next president, Carlos Andres Perez, abandoned the amnesty program and his troops captured guerrilla leader Ruben Ricardi, who said there were only about 25 active guerrillas left in the country. Ricardi told reporters many of the remaining guerrillas would like to give themselves up, but their pride was preventing them from doing so.

Niehous was the 15th kidnap victim since democracy was restored to this nation in 1959 and only the third American to be held by leftists guerrillas. In 1963 and 1964 two American colonels attached to the U.S. Embassy were abducted, but both were released unharmed after a few days.

Niehous' kidnappers demanded a $3.5 million ransom and publication of a political manifesto, but the government prohibited negotiations with the kidnappers, arguing that submission would spark a wave of kidnappings similar to those plaguing Italy and neighboring Colombia.

The most spectacular guerrilla attack in recent years came in November 1977 when six soldiers were shot and killed in an ambush on a road in eastern Venezuela.

Herrera Campins, a Social Christian leader, won December's presidential election and re-established the amnesty program after he was installed in office in March.

Three guerrilla leaders have accepted the government's new offer, including Carlos Betancourt. He was mentioned as being involved in the Niehous kidnapping, but denied complicity.

Only one key guerrilla leader remains in hiding, Douglas Bravo. He said in a recent newspaper interview that his group has been inactive for some time and he also is considering accepting amnesty.

Rescue Deals New Blow To Guerrillas

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Saying he never "completely lost hope," a gaunt and disheveled William F. Niehous came home to a tearful reunion with his family Sunday after nearly 3½ years as a captive of leftist guerrillas in Venezuela.

Niehous, more than 40 pounds under his normal weight and bearing a scruffy beard and shoulder-length gray hair, met briefly with reporters at the Toledo airport after being flown from Venezuela on a company plane.

"I'd like to go with my family to my house," he said and then broke down briefly.

Niehous and with his wife, Donna, observe their 25th wedding anniversary this month. They have three children.

The 48-year-old Owens-Illinois executive was rescued Saturday from the Venezuelan jungle after a gun battle between a police patrol and his captors the previous day on a secluded ranch south of the Orinoco River 350 miles southeast of Caracas, said Venezuelan Interior Minister Rafael Montes de Oca.

During a brief but emotional news conference Sunday, Niehous said there were times over the past three years that he thought he would never be released by his captors.

"There were times when I gave up hope, in respect to saying I'm not going to be able to get out of here. But I don't think I ever completely lost hope," he said.

Niehous said he was moved 10 to 12 times during his captivity. He spent much of the time in the Venezuelan jungle, covered only by a plastic sheet strung among the trees. His last home was a 13-foot by 16½-foot shack with walls of mud, a zinc roof and no windows.

"From the first day of the kidnapping until the last, they (the kidnappers) said that I would never be shot, never be killed. They would always release me alive. Why, I don't know except they said they were not assassins," he said.

It was reported that a two-man patrol, looking for rustlers, unwittingly stumbled upon the handcuffed Niehous in a ranch shack Friday, but then he was lost again in the wilderness. Montes de Oca did not say precisely where or how he was found Saturday.

Niehous said he understood that two of his captors had been shot during the battle, but he gave few details. Police had reported that two of the captors were killed.

Niehous, who was manager of the glass manufacturer's Venezuelan operations, was 44 pounds lighter but otherwise in good physical condition following the ordeal.

He was abducted on Feb. 27, 1976, when seven armed men broke into his Caracas home.

A previously unknown group calling itself the Argimiro Gabaldon Revolutionary Command claimed to have kidnapped Niehous. The group had issued ransom demands in a series of communiques.

The demands included payment of a $3.5 million ransom, payment of a $116 bonus to each of Owens-Illinois' 2,000 Venezuelan employees, donations to the poor and publication of a political manifesto.

Jerry Arkebauer, an Owens-Illinois spokesman, said: "We don't really care so much about the details of what happened in the rescue as we do about the fact that he's home and OK.

"If he wants to go back to work tomorrow, we'll take care of it. If he wants to take some time off, we'll understand that. It's just a wait-and-see situation now."

Arkebauer said the company had taken security measures to protect Niehous.

Abortion Limits Law Held Up

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A federal judge has temporarily barred Missouri from enforcing new restrictions on abortions signed into law Friday by Gov. Joseph P. Teasdale.

U.S. District Judge Elmo Hunter issued the restraining order after an hour-long hearing Saturday at which attorney Frank Susman argued that the new law is unconstitutional. Hunter scheduled another hearing on the issue for Aug. 6.

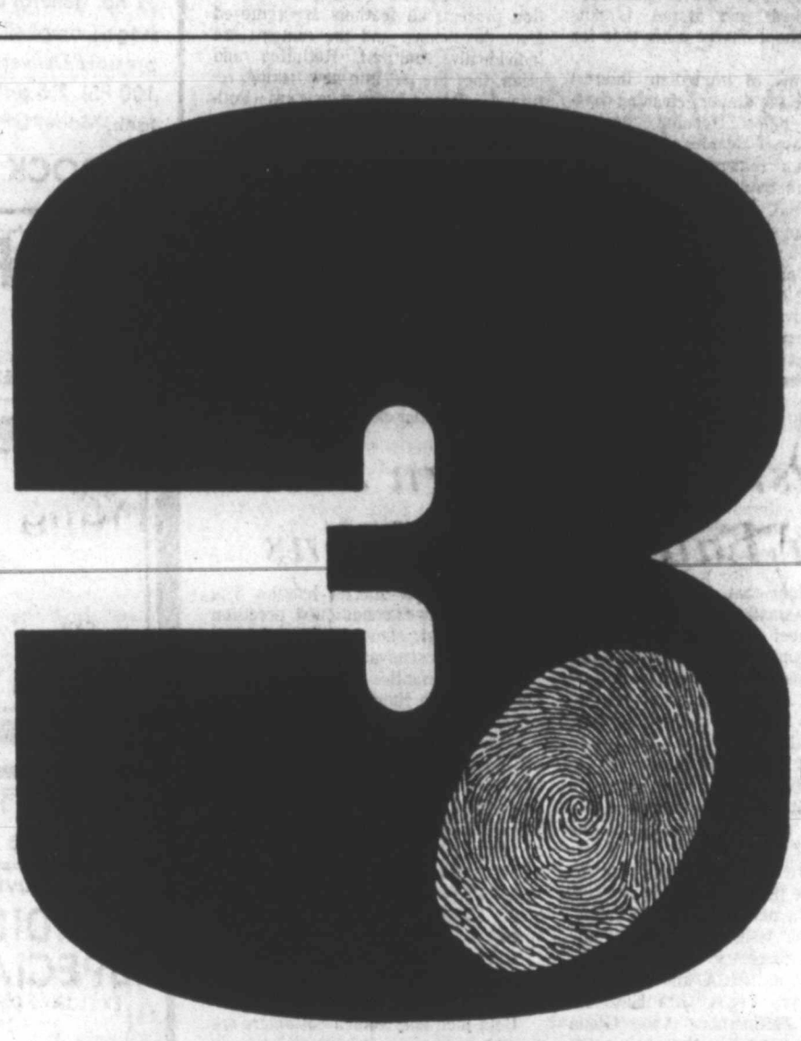

As the latest in a series of attempts by the Legislature to restrict abortions in the state, the law would have required women under 18 to get the consent of at least one parent or a court before an abortion could be performed. It also would have required women to give ther written consent for an abortion, after the physician had given a detailed explanation of alternatives.

BISHOP SLOT FILLED

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pope John Paul II Saturday appointed the Most Rev. Joseph L. Imesch, an auxiliary bishop in the Detroit archdiocese, as bishop of the diocese of Joliet, Ill., it was announced here.

THREE REASONS WHY SAVING WITH OUR GREEN THUMB IS BETTER THAN EVER.

1. Higher Passbook Interest Rate. Beginning July 1, 1979, First Texas Savings will pay a bigger, better 5½% interest on all regular passbook savings accounts. And First Texas also gives you the benefit of daily compounding, for a higher annual yield of 5.65%. If you're currently a First Texas passbook saver, we'll increase your interest automatically. If not, to open a new 5½% passbook account, just stop by any First Texas office.

2. Lower Minimum Deposits. We've made is easier to save too — by reducing the minimum deposit requirements for all regular certificates of deposit. Beginning July 1, 1979, the new minimum on our higher interest certificates is an affordable $100.

3. Simpler Regulations. Federal regulations still require a substantial penalty for early withdrawal from certificate accounts. On certificates of one year or less, the penalty is loss of three months' interest. On certificates of more than a year, the penalty is loss of six months' interest.

Higher passbook interest. Lower minimum deposits. And more flexible withdrawal regulations. Just three ways First Texas people are working to keep your green stuff growing. And just what you'd expect from the people with a green thumb.

WHEN IT COMES TO MAKING MONEY GROW, WE HAVE A GREEN THUMB.

Mahon Martinizing Cleaners Affording Finest Service In 'Locations Near You'

"Have you discovered how there is a Mahon Martinizing Cleaners easily accessible to you, no matter your Lubbock address, and that the same great services are available at each?"

"For the most in dry cleaning," one can depend upon Mahon Martinizing, whether at the 30th & Slide facility, the 3322 83rd St. newest location, and the original 49th & Knoxville plant.

Attention is focused on the Slide road location for LCC-related personnel and far west Lubbock customers.

Noah marks some 40 years in the business, with one of the most enviable records in the profession. Noah knows cleaning and can render an exceptional service.

In fact, the entire staff at this plant, as in the other Mahon Martinizing Cleaners in Lubbock, is qualified and dedicated.

Bates emphasizes that good clothes care calls for the best in drycleaning, to an extent likely never before true.

"Clothes are costing more and one can appreciate the advantages of good, frequent cleaning by a professional drycleaner, for both looks and long-range savings. Silks and linens are more popular than in some times past, and these especially call for finest care."

Box storage for winter garments, even bedspreads and drapes, is now available, without charge other than for the cleaning!

Other items of immediate interest might well be the drapery cleaning capabilities, the pillow cleaning, Steamex rentals for carpet cleaning, and one-day cleaning upon request, without extra charge. (Even Saturday morning cleaning is available.)

Though the services are quite numerous at the Slide location and the other Mahon Martinizing facilities in Lubbock, the following could well be scanned for immediate advantage:

(1) Waterproofing is one of these services, great for raincoats, jeans, etc.

(2) Fast service always is available at each of the three Mahon Martinizing plants owned by longtime Lubbock drycleaner Gordon Mahon.

(3) Complete alterations are available.

(4) Pockets and half pockets are available, too, as are the two-way reversible zippers. Unusual lengths and several colors of zippers are kept in stock.

(5) In the pillow cleaning and renovation process, all feathers are removed from the ticking, and the contents are individually sanitized. Refluffed and clean, they are put into new ticking, returned soft and buoyant as new. (Both feather and rubber pillows are cleaned.) Ozone gas is utilized in deodorizing the feathers. New ticking plus added feathers as desired are part of the finished operation. (You get your own feathers back, with added ones as asked.) A choice of ticking in coloring and patterns is available, with all guaranteed fast color 100 per cent new cotton that is feather-proof and down-proof.

One of the most important services at Mahon Martinizing is the cleanability, gentleness and other advantages of Valclene drycleaning. (If you've a problem garment, ask your cleaner to Valclene!)

Elisabeth's Swedish Hair Design Sure Headquarters For Latest In Fashions

"Don't let the summer sun take its toll — insofar as a beautiful complexion and beautiful, healthy hair is concerned!"

Possibly in no season of the year is the best in beauty care more appreciated and more necessary than now.

And for this excellence in beauty and hair care, Elisabeth's Swedish Hair Design, 4630 50th St., Suite 106, phone 792-4688, is worthy of full consideration and reliance.

The "carefree summer look" is just as near as the hair and complexion care at Elisabeth's.

For extraordinary facials, for nail extensions, manicures, and of course the most elegant and desirable in hair care . . . it is Elisabeth's in Lubbock Square.

Dermodyn Facials

One of the key services at Elisabeth's Swedish Hair Design is exceptional facial care enabled by the new Dermodyn steam machine for scientific treatments. It affords a truly deep-cleaning facial, with penetrating action on the skin, moistening of dead cells and dirt accumulation (all with lukewarm ionized vapor), a machine that does not generate ozone even in small amounts.

Staffmember Angel Smallwood, with European training, is specialist with this equipment, also offering facial waxing.

For true relaxation, for a facial to please, learn first-hand of Dermodyn advantages at Elisabeth's.

Nail Extension Choices

Theresa Cox is on hand as manicure specialist, with three methods of nail extension now available, each long-lasting and beautiful.

The entire staff represents true expertise in the field, and each is especially adept in the new Retro look, the fabulous new hair fashion designed by the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association (NHCA) and introduced recently in Las Vegas, with Elisabeth Pyron and staffmember Anita Glenn among those attending the showing of this glamorous and feminine style. Its soft curls, gentle waves and elegant shapes result in Retro Hair echoing the styles and fashions of Hollywood's golden era.

The new hair fashions can be styled for any length hair but is particularly adaptable to the shorter lengths. The rich luster of well-conditioned, precision cut Retro Hair shows off the shortest styles to the best advantage.

(It is a pretty salon, too!)

Opened over two years ago by Elisabth Pyron, a Jessie Lee graduate who later served as stylist at the Jessie Lee Salon, the shop has enjoyed remarkable acceptance.

Both men and women customers are invited.

"For a really exhilarating experience, for modern hair care by skilled, proven staffmembers, for all the best in beauty services and the enjoyment of a pretty salon, acquaintance with Elisabeth's Swedish Hair Design at earliest convenience is recommended."

River Smith's Affords Eating Treats, Two Lubbock Locations

"Um-m-m, how delicious!"

This is no exaggeration but rather a frequently-heard comment regarding menu items at River Smith's Chicken & Catfish in Lubbock.

Fresh water American catfish fillets probably are the best-known items drawing acclaim at the Lubbock-founded and home-owned business offering the extraordinary in good eating.

Take your pick: River Smith's at 4th & U, convenient to downtown and Texas Tech; or at 50th and Quaker, serving the vast south and southwest region of the city.

(Franchises now are available for River Smith's, and inquiry is invited.)

In "eating out" or for "carry out," consider these among advantages of River Smith's:

Freshwater Catfish

Nothing is pre-battered; no food is pre-prepared.

"And as far as we know," the owners emphasize, "we are the only Lubbock eating establishment serving freshwater catfish fillets."

Carry-out service is available, too, with a convenient carry-out window to better serve. Phone ahead and the carry-out order will be ready, if preferred.

More about the River Smith's story:

The firm and even its name was conceived by two lifelong Lubbock residents, Bob Corcorran and Glenn Forster who founded and developed the firm. It is a Lubbock-owned corporation, with a franchising program now made available.

Corcorran and Forster opened the first River Smith's, the 50th Street at Quaker location, nearly three years ago, after determining as outdoorsmen interested in sports, fishing and hearty eating that West Texas needed good fresh water catfish as a restaurant specialty.

Thoughtfully Planned

Success came just as soon as folks tried the restaurant, it seemed, so the two Lubbockites expanded to open the 4th Street facility in November '78. The original location has now been made a franchise operation, with Jess Dickey owning that establishment. The same policies, food and devotion to excellence is the rule at both locations. (Further franchise information is available, with inquiries invited.)

Each of the Lubbock River Smith's was designed by the Corcorran-Forster team, and result is a functionally-attractive, customer-oriented establishment . . . with food to bring one back time and again!

The 4th Street facility is open 11 a.m. until 10 p.m., Sundays through Thursdays and until a later midnight hour Fridays and Saturdays. The 50th Street restaurant is closed Sundays, but open from 11 a.m. until 10 p.m. weekdays.

"River Smith's deserves your patronage! Don't delay, for dining or carry-out service. Come by or call . . . at 4th & U, phone 765-8164, or 50th & Quaker, phone 792-3911."

GOOD FOOD, SERVICE, DECOR — Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hardin of Anton are being served here by Tancy Russell at River Smith's Chicken and Catfish, 4th Street at Avenue U. A similar facility is at 50th and Quaker.

Hughes, Veteran Janitorial Service Firm, Gives Fullest In Customer Aid

"We like to talk about 'service' and the difference it makes!"

For full janitorial services with "plus-benefits that we like to prove," the name to know in Lubbock, Amarillo and throughout the South Plains and Panhandle is Hughes Services, Inc., 101 Sherman Ave. in Lubbock!

(And for purchase of professional maintenance supplies, at the same Lubbock location, there is HUCO Products Co., taking pride in stocking the very best in equipment and related needs.)

Hughes and HUCO each "go the extra mile" in assisting the customer, helping in maximum benefits from both the services and equipment selection and use.

Customers have long profited from the learning and exerience, plus capacity for service, of the Hughes and HUCO personnel. Offices are maintained in both Lubbock and Amarillo, and counties throughout the area are well served by Hughes (with current accounts noted in Levelland, Slaton, Hereford, Canyon, Plainview and other area points.)

"Are you included?"

Assistance That Counts

Hughes Services has a record of customer assistance . . . such as supervision to assure the right procedures and results for each account.

"If your building has a problem in janitorial servicing, there is no charge from Hughes for an in-depth survey and recommendations."

Demonstrations, films, on-job training — all are part of the Hughes and HUCO concept of fullest service, and in keeping with a record of foresight and achievement that might be dated from establishment of Hughes Service back in 1954 and the addition of HUCO Products in 1970, with numerous additions to products and services marking the intervening and ensuing years.

"We believe a professional wants strictly professional merchandise; hence any product we sell is used in our own professional maintenance business; we have tested it before recommending and selling it, for sure."

All types of hospitalization chemicals are stocked.

Specifics Cited

Briefly, eight prime reasons are itemized here to be considered in knowing the Hughes firm better:

(1) Hughes services banks, school office buildings, manufacturing plants, churches, public utilities and more.

(2) As the oldest janitorial service company in Lubbock Hughes has been in business since 1954 — 25 years in service.

(3) Free estimates at no obligation are gladly given.

(4) A maintenance program "for you" can be professionally and correctly planned by the qualified staff.

(5) References are gladly furnished.

(6) Hughes Services, Inc., is insured and bonded.

(7) Employees are thoroughly trained by demonstration, training films and regular rigid inspection.

(8) And not the least of the considerations is equipment: Hughes has the best equipment and cleaning supplies to be found.

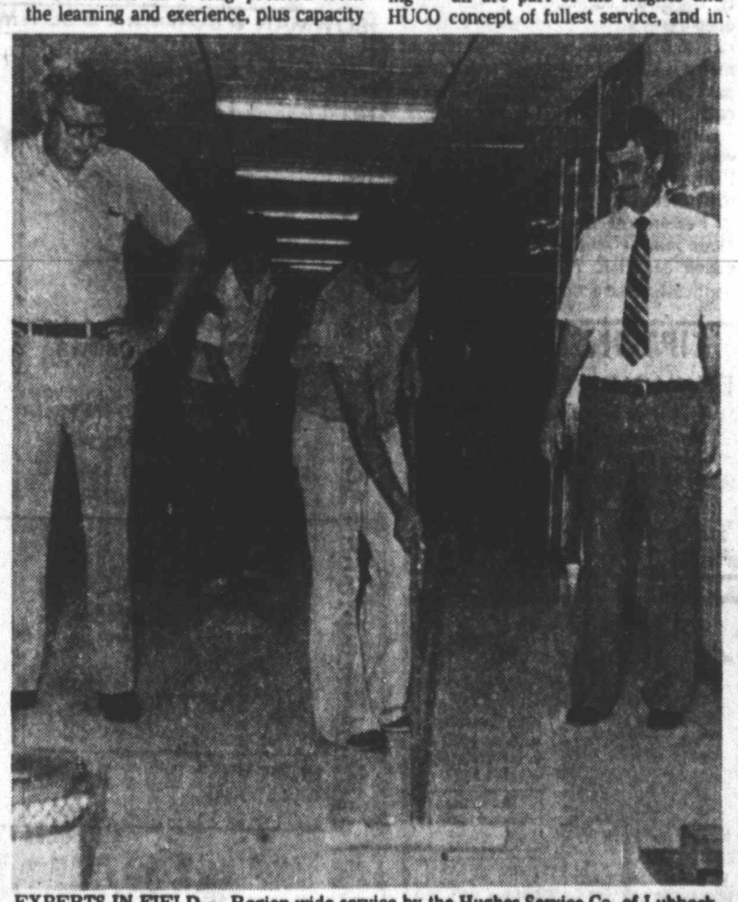

"Get the idea?

"Hughes wants to have a part in your future."

At Hughes, one can be assured of such benefits as all labor, all supervision, all cleaning equipment, all supplies, all machines, all payroll taxes, insurance, etc.

Hughes crew are at work most every day throughout the area, Hughes has the manpower and financial strength to serve well.

Hughes is equipped and manned to take care of any type business cleaning and maintenance need or problem.

Cinderella Beauty School Announces Participation In BEOG Student Help

Mrs. Winnie Vaughn, owner-operator of the Cinderella Beauty School in Lubbock, has just received approval from Washington for her Cosmetology students to apply for the Federal Basic Education Opportunity Grants (BEOG) Program in addition to other Federal and State programs already available to students.

"We are approved by the BEOG, a grant program, and if you qualify, the grant does not have to be paid back," Mrs. Vaughn reports. "To participate, come by Cinderella, at 5401 Aberdeen, and I will be happy to provide additional information and assist you in filling out the forms to determine how much you may qualify for," adds Mrs. Vaughn.

"Other educational assistance is offered by the Texas Education Agency (TEA) approved Cosmetology Course and the Instructor Course for Veterans Administration (VA) benefits, if you are so qualified."

The school also has been approved by the Texas Rehabilitation Commission, and Social Security; and the school ownership is working on still other means of helping students in loans for education in Cosmetology. Vocational high school student benefits are afforded, too.

Winnie Vaughn, owner, is no stranger to the public and to the beauty-conscious of the area. She has owned and operated a salon in Slaton for over 30 years and she has taught a number of years at Lubbock beauty schools. She opened the new and modern Cinderella Beauty School in December, 1976, the franchised Pivot Point approved and a Redken approved school.

Pivot Point

Cinderella Beauty School is exclusively franchised in Lubbock County for the Pivot Point International curriculum, the "Scientific Approach to Hair Design" which is based on proven principles of art design. Mrs. Vaughn proudly states that ". . . the Pivot Point curriculum will not make you an ordinary hairdresser, but a Pivot Point Hair Designer. This means you will learn cutting principles that are directly related to sculpturing as you achieve 14 Classic Hairdesigns: up-elevation cuts, down elevation cuts, plus any new developments in cutting that arise."

MRS. WINNIE VAUGHN

"Also are the Quick Service Techniques of airforming, the use of the hand and comb dryer, and iron-curling techniques exclusive to the Pivot Point Curriculum. Men's cutting is also taught as the M'Lord Principles of Design . . ."

Redken-Approved

"Our patrons benefit from our extensive training programs, and as the only Redken-approved beauty school in Lubbock, we offer Redken training and products which are so beneficial to our patrons," Mrs. Vaughn proudly reports. "Only last Wednesday, our students and staff received a Redken training session on product chemistry and the latest information on reconstructive hair treatments, including proper shampooing, using setting lotions, etc. Make-up was also taught . . ."

The teaching staff at Cinderella Beauty School includes Mrs. Vaughn, Mrs. Joan Lang, and Mrs. Ruby Rowan, for both Cosmetology students and Instructor students.

Perm Specials

"We especially invite you to enjoy a body perm for easy summer care, or have the pleasure of a short curly perm. Specials are now posted on perms, with prices starting at $12.50 and up."

"Senior Citizens are especially welcomed, with every day being a Senior Citizens Day! For this group, a perm is offered for just $15 and includes haircut, shampoo and set! Haircuts are $4. Senior citizens should show their Medicare card for the specials Tuesdays through Saturdays."

". . . We are adept in hair coloring, frosting, bleaching, sun flicking, manicures, pedicures, lash and brow dyes, brow styling, eye tabbing, etc., with the students working under the direction of the professional instructors."

Mrs. Vaughn further states, ". . . It is our policy to stay abreast of the new styles in both hair design and in the clothing trends; so if at all possible, please feel free to come by and see us; we are always glad to visit with you, and we appreciate your enrollment or your patronage in beauty needs."

"We are located in the Plaza Shopping Center, 5401 Aberdeen, telephone 792-4439 or 792-4430. Our classes start any day, Tuesdays through Saturdays, and appointments are preferred for those seeking our beauty services in the school.

"We at Cinderella are proud of our students; we welcome patrons, both men and women; and our services are most reasonable. We teach a profession which offers pride, prestige, and personal fulfillment in knowing that you are making others attractive and happy. A trained and dedicated Cosmetologist often exceeds college graduates in earning power and financial independence. Certainly, age is no barrier and does not present the handicap experienced by many other professionals who must 'retire' in a youth-oriented trade or profession while still physically and mentally capable of performance. The Cosmetologist is only limited by desire and ambition. . ."

W. M. Smith Electric Posts Special Prices On Campbell Hausfeld Units

With an enviable record of service, to the customers' benefit and profit, W.M. Smith Electric Co. continues to make news:

As authorized master distributor for the Campbell Hausfeld line of compressors and accessories, W.M. Smith Electric currently is posting special sale prices including:

5 hp., 80 gal., 3-phase, at $1,095;

10 hp., 80 gal., 3 phase, $1,475; and

These limited-time specials provide a real opportunity and should not be overlooked.

In related aids, the full line of parts is stocked; full service is afforded; and Smith also serves as a Campbell Hausfeld warranty station.

What a benefit to industry . . . of any size!

"You can depend upon W.M. Smith Electric Co., 1911 Clovis Road, in Lubbock, long servicing industry throughout West Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

The Lubbock branch of the Dallas-based company was established way back in 1962, and the growth of the firm here reflects the quality and demand of the service offered.

Other Products, Service

Smith is distributor for the complete overhead traveling bridge cranes manufactured and marketed under the trade name of SECO.

The firm is a major distributor for crane and hoist components and parts bearing the distinguished trademarks of Dresser Industries, Detroit, Wright, Demag and David Round.

With the entire Chicago Pneumatic Equipment Division compressor line available, Smith presently has 50 hp and 75 hp units in stock. The line involves a spread from the 40 hp 230/460 volt, 3 phase, 3550 rmp motor to the big model 1160, a 250 hp 460 volt, 3 phase, 1775 rpm motor.

"Uncommon still in the technology of air compression" is the record of Chicago Pneumatic that has built its Equipment Division on innovation and excellence in industrial air compressors. From its first steam-powered unit, built over 70 years ago, to today's revolutionery Singl/Screw, these have been the Division's primary commitment. Advantages of this new compressor line include simplicity, balanced pressures, low friction, efficient oil flow without a pump, lower operating temperature, no gears to pay for or maintain, new low in quiet operation.

Among the many products and services afforded are air compressors by Campbell Hausfeld and Gardner-Denver. They are available in both tank mounted and stationary type, and new or rebuilt ones are stocked up to 150 hp.

Motors

W.M. Smith Electric is distributor for three major lines of electric motors: General Electric, U.S., and Baldor, in all sizes.

Furthermore, the firm has parts for everything it sells, offering service on everything sold, also.

A staff of qualified mechanics and trouble shooters is maintained at all times.

Wire-in and installation of irrigation motors is another area-appreciated service provided by the company.

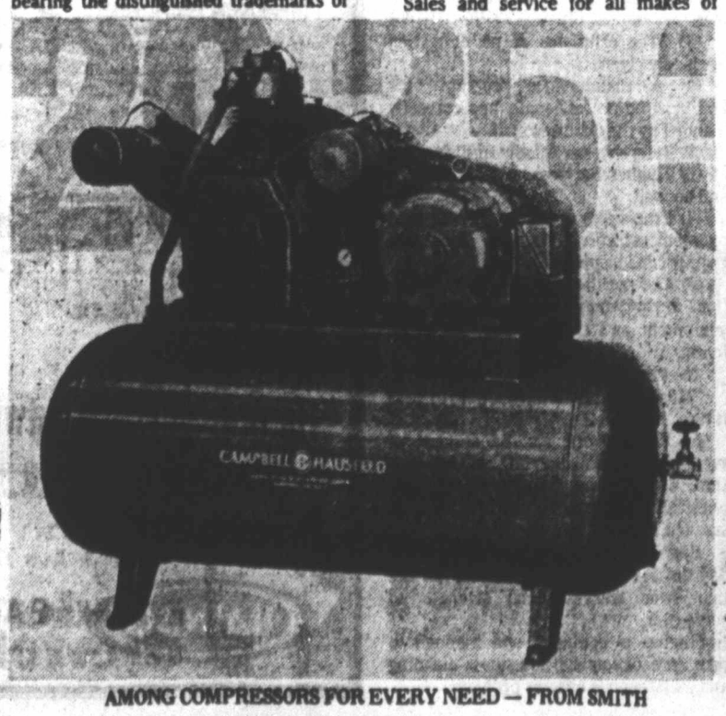

Pick-up and delivery is provided, and service men are on call day or night. Facilities on the shop enable prompt attention and repair in any emergency need.

Vertical hollow shaft motors from LeRoy Somer are now available and stocked.

Not just another "standard" motor, its features include higher thrust capacity, drip-proof enclosure with ventilating openings designed to minimize entry of rain and particles so that this type of motor is suitable for outside applications in relatively dry climates or sheltered locations;

Attention also is directed to the full-voltage combination starters, with sizes 1 through 5 in stock, from General Electric and stocked by Smith.

Features of the panels in brief, include reliable motor protection, modification selection, choice of narrow or wide case construction, and more.

MBFA Foundation, In New Lubbock Quarters, Marks 10th Anniversary

"Are you acquainted with the tremendous, far-reaching services of the MBFA (Ministry, Benevolence and Faith in Action) foundation?"

Two current situations focus attention on MBFA's "Vision with a Task" concept, achievements and future plans, and the public could well utilize these two situations in becoming better acquainted with this organization serving the total individual:

(1) MBFA as of this year has completed 10 years of service to the elderly and disabled. The concept and program that began in April of 1969 in Lubbock has become MBFA Foundation with more than 800 employees serving health and housing needs of the affected groups in 134 counties of Texas!

(2) One Briercroft Office Park in Lubbock is now the new address for MBFA Foundation. The striking and functional Executive Building contains the office of the president, Land D. Wall, as well as offices for Management Services Consultation Associates staff-members and their assistants. (MSC is MBFA's management and consulting entity.

Remaining in the Number Four Briercroft location is the accounting division and various consultant offices. West Texas Home Health Agency will continue to occupy Number Three Briercroft Office Park location.

The MBFA phone number of 806-747-3447 remains the same.

Visits Welcomed

Visitors are invited and welcomed to come to the new headquarters, observing and sharing in the pride of these facilities. It affords a great opportunity to learn further of the MBFA service to the area-in home health services, the Texas Homemaker Service, Associated Memorial Nursing Homes, retirement centers, Freedom Hall and more. An extensive Christian Outreach program is involved, with MBFA supporting radio, television and tape ministries, aiding world ministries and supporting Christian education through the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and other programs.

Progress Recounted

MBFA Foundation was originally chartered as a not-for-profit non-denominational organization to engage in aid and support for the aged, Christian education, colleges, hospitals, families for homeless children and worldwide missionary radio-television programming. Incorporators were C. R. Meadows, Jr.; E. Harold Henderson, president, and Dan Howard, secretary. Meadows is board chairman at this 10th anniversary time.

MBFA's president, Land D. Wall, became concerned with the lack of home health services beyond the city of Lubbock, and began systematically to establish a network of services and personnel in surrounding towns. Now, the Lubbock-based entity has five provider offices in Lubbock, Dumas, Abilene, Seymour and Kerrville, serving an average of 1,525 patients monthly under orders of private physicians in the homes of the elderly and disabled.

Nursing Homes

The rapid expansion of MBFA into nursing home operations occurred after the Foundation was awarded an endowment through a memorial fund made possible by the Charles Gibson family. Through that fund, the Gibson Memorial Home was built in Aspermont.

Multiple nursing homes throughout the area have been added by the Foundation. These include the Memorial Convalescent Center, Skyview Memorial Home and Lakeside Memorial Homes in Lubbock, and others throughout the region.

The Dallas Memorial Care Center became MBFA's first Medicare nursing home as the organization assumed operations of that unit June 1.

The Foundation entered the homemaker service field in July 1977 when Texas Tech awarded them a contract to operate the South Plains Homemaker Service for those 60 years of age and older or the disabled of any age. When the grant expired, these services have continued under MBFA's Texas Homemaker Service.

In June of '78, MBFA established Freedom Hall as a halfway home for the adult borderline and high-level mentally retarded. A maximum of 22 residents is enabled at this hall at 1601 Vanda in Lubbock.

Retirement complexes are soon to be a part of MBFA's operations, it has been announced, with facilities in both Lubbock and Abilene.

These and more achievements and plans correctly hint of the service ministries of MBFA, and the 10th Anniversary of that foundation provides a graphic proof of scores of instances of "vision with a task."

Leaseway-Southwest Services Utilized Throughout Wide Area

Leaseway-Southwest, at 409 E. 50th St., in Lubbock, offers a complete transportation service to busy companies that simply cannot devote the time, space or money required to own and maintain a fleet of vehicles or in some instances, just one or two units. This progressive leasing firm provides transportation vehicles to serve any size or type business.

Full Service

"Corporations as well as small operators find that full-service transportation package is more efficient from every standpoint."

"Full service" as provided by Leaseway-Southwest Transportation Corp., is exactly what the name implies. The firm provides the maintenance and inspection and even supplies the fuel and pays the taxes on the vehicle!

Personnel there are most adept, serving in a professional but considerate and friendly manner to meet the particular transportation needs of every customer.

"We'd like to count you, too, among our customers."

Leaseway-Southwest's understanding of the short-term, peak and long-term needs of area industry and business is well recognized, contributing to its own growth, too.

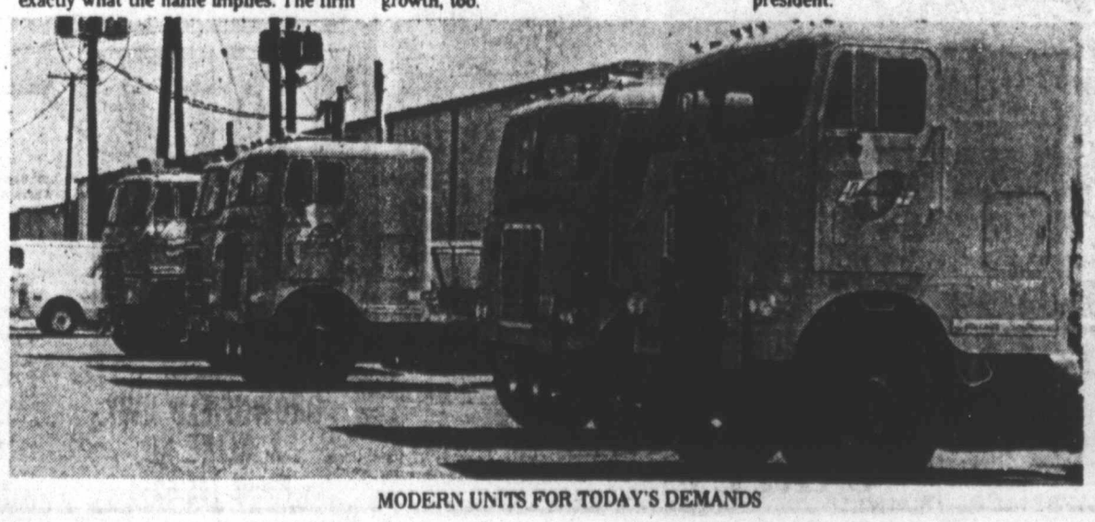

Half-a-hundred Lubbock businesses (and even more) depend on Leaseway-Southwest for transportation vehicle needs.

There must be a very good reason.

In Tune With Times

Keeping abreast with the needs of the area is one of the convincing reasons. Leaseway-Southwest continually adds new equipment for rental and for full-time customers of this service-oriented firm.

"Utilization of leased vehicles is the growing trend in transportation management" it is emphasized by Ken Wright, president.

HUGE STOCK, ALL UNITS AT CLEARANCE PRICES DURING SALE

Clearance Sale Involves Every Southwest TV & Appliance Item

Small wonder folks are excited about the $150,000 Clearance Sale at Southwest TV & Appliance, 3415 82nd St.!

After all, every item is marked at sale price! The stock is large, and when the owners announce price reduction of "every" item, one is bound to sit up and take notice, especially when it is recognized that "name" brands are the rule there, without exception.

So . . . the wise word is to shop now at Southwest TV & Appliance before conclusion of the Clearance Sale July 15.

Specifics Related

Bonus Offer

Litton 'Meal-in-One' microwave ovens start at a modest $368. The big 1.2 cu.ft. oven at this price features temperature probe and pushbutton controls.

There are other super buys, too, that one will simply have to see to believe: so come on out where everything is new, where "name lines" prevail and where there is easy access and lots of off-street parking, at Southwest TV & Appliance, 3415 82nd St., just west of 82nd Street and Indiana Avenue. One cannot miss the attractive building and its outstanding displays.

Opening back in January, the business has been heartily received; with "names to trust" cited as one of the key factors in the firm's popularity. A really huge stock is on the floor, with selection enabled from RCA television and video tape recorders, Litton microwave ovens, Frigidaire kitchen and laundry equipment, Sony stereos, Sanyo stereos, and Hardwick gas ranges.

'Folks You Know'

Lifelong Lubbock resident Dave Abbott is owner and founder of the firm, actively operating it. Assisting is Sam Griffith, store manager, who has been in the appliance field here for many years and is no stranger to the area. Both Abbott and Griffith invite old friends and new ones alike to visit the new 3,100 sq. ft. store and note the effort to afford a really outstanding appliance source for south Lubbock and the entire area.

The complete line of Litton family-size microwave ovens is stocked, with features "just right for your particular lifestyle". Versatility, warranty, ease of operation and built-in quality are unmistakeable in Litton.

"Any microwave oven can cook one food at a time. But it took Litton innovation to develop a microwave oven that can prepare one, two or three foods — even a complete meal — all at once! A unique cooking system allows microwaves to enter the oven cavity from both sides, completely surrounding the foods and providing more even cooking."

See all this for yourself at Southwest TV & Appliance, all new at 3415 82nd St., open from 8:30 a.m. until 6:30 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays. Finance plans are available, Visa and Master Charge are honored, and free delivery in Lubbock and area is featured.

Fashion Eyewear Optical Dispensary Cited For Style, Selection, Service

Don't just take our word for it; come out and discover for yourself how Fashion Eyewear at 3833 50th St. in Lubbock is an exceptional optical dispensary."

And a minimum of 100 pair of sunglasses in stock, priced from $24 to $135! With summertime and outdoor activities, the importance of sunglasses is wisely stressed.)

"Selection" is a key advantage at Fashion Eyewear, together with the service, sensible pricing and latest styles.

Meaningful Pledge

"If you have seen a frame pictured in a magazine, it may well be that we have it in stock; if we don't, we'll special order it for you. What a service!"

Opened less than two years ago, the Lubbock-owned and Lubbock-operated Fashion Eyewear has received recognition in national publications as a unique and successful venture in competitive dispensing in Texas.

Second Facility Looms

So successful has been the firm's record since its establishment that a second unit is scheduled for a Labor Day target date completion in Southwest Plaza (just across from South Plains Mall).

The staff at Fashion Eyewear is trained to coordinate frame styles with face structures, tint to complexion and integration with the wardrobe. Thirty-six tints and combinations of tints are available.

All plastic lenses can be tinted right in the Lubbock office; there is no problem in tinting plastic lenses one already may be wearing.

All personnel at the firm is trained to fit the new invisible bifocal lenses, it is emphasized, "with manufacturers reporting the firm as largest dispenser of these in the city."

And for frames . . . there are children's frames, evening wear frames, the "bread and butter" everyday wear and a complete line of fashion eyewear from such designers as Pierre Cardin, Oscar DeLarenta, Christian Dior and others.

"See why Fashion Eyewear is unique? Discover this truth personally and to your complete satisfaction . . . at 3833 50th St., phone 792-1137, in Lubbock."

WILDERNESS 5TH WHEEL INCLUDED — A special showing, as outlined in the accompanying story, together with drastic price cuts, includes this so-comfortable unit from Wilderness. Note the beautiful, well arranged, spacious interior.

Davis R. V. Service Arranges Markdowns, Special Showing

Three significant announcements from Davis R.V. Service Center could each or all contribute appreciably to one's vacation enjoyment this season and for years to come!

(1) All trailer units in the big stock at the Davis firm, 220 Paris Ave., are presently marked at discounted prices;

(2) All parts and accessories in the store are reduced 10 per cent for today and tomorrow (Monday and Tuesday) as a pre-July 4 gesture.

(3) The fantastic Wilderness 5th Wheel trailer (35 ft.) will be on exhibit today and tomorrow in the big outdoor show at Gibson's, 50th & Slide. This luxurious trailer, also priced at discount, is power plant ready, and it features such benefits as storm windows and a really outstanding floor plan. Spring, summer, fall or winter, chances are you'll see families everywhere on the road in the most likely and unlikely places with a Wilderness 5th Wheel! Now is your chance to join them, with the special low pricing arranged by Davis.

There is much more of special benefit at Davis R.V., such as new and used pick-up shells, cab-over campers, motor homes, a full service crew, Frigiking air conditioners, awnings and a huge accessory stock to make vacationing a greater pleasure and comfort.

Avion And Others

Be sure to see the Avion units.

Outside, the new Avion is bright, anodized aluminum with sleek aerodynamic styling for both beauty and efficiency.

Inside, it offers "more active living space than any trailer its size, including standard features (not options) that set it apart. Examine the real wood throughout, the mortise and tenon construction, the tremendous storage space, the automatic water heater ignition system, copper plumbing and all; you'll thrill at the new Avion with a floor plan seemingly designed just for you!

Enthusiasm for the '79 Wilderness trailers (produced by Fleetwood, world's largest manufacturer of recreational vehicles) is understandable, too. It is a traver trailer for all seasons, with built-in quality and convenience. Produced for families it features plenty of comfort plus cargo and storage for all of one's vacation belongings, and at a modest price.

Golden Falcon trailers have met wide acclaim, and Davis is proud to present models of these, too. Built and backed by Skyline, Golden Falcon models have "what you want and need." See them and compare.

In any event, Davis stocks all these great lines for one's selection and enjoyment for seasons to come.

Aside from the R.V. units, Davis stocks the needed accessories that make for vacation and trip comfort and convenience.

"See us for your needs in camper and trailer jacks (hydraulic, tongue, stabilizer and stack types).

Equalizer hitches are stocked and installed. Installation also is available on air conditioners and awnings.

The Davis firm services any make or brand of recreational vehicle, and it is wisely suggested that the units be kept in top condition for ready use as vacation and trip opportunities avail themselves.

"Come by and learn the absolute truth . . . that Davis R.V. Service Center has everything for the person who appreciates the out-of-doors . . . everything for the recreational vehicle owner.

"Meet the owners-operators, Mr. and Mrs. Boots Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Davis, and profit accordingly. They opened the center back in mid-1973 and have consistently given their personal attention to every sale and service."

Johnston's No-Roach Keeps Promise Of Name

EFFECTIVE FOR MONTHS

"Brown bottle plus brush equals No Roach!"

"You don't have to be good at arithmetic to understand this formula."

The manufacturers of Johnston's No-Roach package their laboratory tested product in a plain amber bottle and attach a free brush for easy application. This combination will positively protect your home from all crawling insects.

No-Roach is an insecticide that is:

1. Easy to use
2. No Insecticide odor
3. Stays effective for months

No-Roach is effective against all crawling insects: cockroaches, ants, spiders and silverfish. One application stays effective for months.

It's clean and easy to use . . .

"Just brush the colorless, odorless coating where you want it. Dries quickly to form an invisible barrier that stays effective for months. Brush Johnston's No-Roach in cabinets, on baseboards, door sills, window frames . . . wherever you see roaches and ants.

Johnston's No-Roach is available at Furr's, Safeway, Piggly Wiggly, United, Bylow, Brook's and all grocery stores, distributed by Affiliated and Winn Dixie, Ft. Worth.

Woolco July 4 Salute Includes Exceptional Storewide Savings

Store Remains Open Wednesday, 10-6

HIGH FASHION AT LOW WOOLCO PRICES — Rhonda Thomas displays a polyester blouse as one of the items from Woolco's Ladies' Wear Department where a large selection of dresses, etc., now at clearance prices, make for summer economy and style. A large sportswear selection is on hand, with shorts, cool blouses or halters and tank tops still available. (Choose another swimsuit to add to your summer fun, also!)

Both girls and boys will be ready for those active sports or play times by choosing shorts, tank tops and cool fun tops, and swimwear, all at exceptionally low prices now at Woolco. Ladies' and Children's sun and fun hats are a "must" at this time of year, and Woolco has 'em. Clearance prices make selection especially rewarding at this time at the Woolco store where salespeople "are anxious to serve you."

MEN, BOYS BENEFITTED — The Woolco Men's and Boys' Department is posting Pre-July 4 Specials on selected groups of summer merchandise, affording a banner saving opportunity. Groups of swim suits are marked down by one-third, as are groups of tank tops, summer jackets, cutoffs and walking shorts, knit shirts and many other items. There is a great deal of hot weather sure to be left, and Woolco is offering these great 1/3 Off prices to aid in a very practical manner the selection of hot-weather merchandise.

CAMERA DEPARTMENT EXCELS — A "must" for the vacationer is a record of that trip with photos to be enjoyed for years to come, and a "must" before the trip is a stop at Woolco's complete Camera Department where cameras, film and accessories are grouped for ease in selection . . . and at low Woolco prices.

Some ideas work and some won't! In 1978 over 2000 growers from California to Delaware and from Canada to Florida agreed that the Spray Sickle is one weed control idea that really works.
The 1979 Spray Sickle is better than ever — (Over 35 New Improvements.) If you have Johnson Grass (or any other problem weed) the Spray Sickle is really the only sure way to eradicate it.

Vacation Oriented Business Damaged By Fuel Problems

By The Associated Press

It's easy to see something is awry along the New Jersey shore. Traffic is light, parking is easy, lines at restaurants are short and the beaches are as uncrowded as in April or October.

But it is July, three days from the nation's biggest summer celebration, and the gasoline shortage is creating a very different kind of holiday weekend for many people.

"Hey, we have a 10-week season down here," said Wildwood, N.J., Mayor Guy Muziani. "Even two weeks of problems are an economic disaster for us."

Traffic is down by one-third in Atlantic City, say police there.

"It's very bad. We usually have a full house, but now we're 70 percent off," moaned Carl Zekaria, owner of the 101-room beachfront Empress Hotel in Asbury Park. "Is that bad enough?"

Farther south, other seaside resorts are also suffering.

"You can look out at Atlantic Avenue (along the ocean) and see the season has never arrived," said Sylvia Greenspoon, owner of Ocean Ranch Motel in Virginia Beach, Va. She said that several guests had flown in and rented cars at the beach.

Friend Evans, who has driven his family to Virginia Beach from Wheeling, W.Va., every summer since 1973, this year packed his brood onto a Greyhound bus for a 13-hour trip to the beach.

"We decided it just wasn't worth taking the chance of not finding enough gas," Evans said Sunday.

It was a wise decision. The majority of gas stations in the East were closed Sunday. The AAA estimated that only 3 percent of the stations in northern Virginia were open.

Tourist attractions ranging from Colonial Williamsburg in Virginia to the Everglades National Park in Florida reported sharp drops in attendance, but a New Hampshire music festival came up with a sure-fire draw.

The White Mountains Center for the Arts opened its seventh season in Jefferson, N.H., this weekend, luring visitors with a guarantee of at least $10 worth of gasoline, the value of their tickets.

Real gasoline limits, however, were in order in most states. North and South Dakota, where between 40 percent and 60 percent of gas stations were open Sunday, reported many stations limiting purchases to $5.

Odd-even sales were in effect in all or parts of 11 states and the District of Columbia Sunday, and Rhode Island prepared to join the list on Thursday.

But in California, where the gasoline crunch first surfaced, no lines were reported Sunday, despite few stations being open. And in San Francisco, a couple of stations posted signs offering a free car wash "with any fill-up."

Robert Anderson, board chairman of Atlantic Richfield, said Sunday that the country should be able to avoid drastic measures if Americans altered their lifestyles.

"Consumption has gone down. It's encouraging," Anderson said on CBS's "Face the Nation."

"If people will stay with some moderate restraint on driving, we'll get through the summer and have adequate heating oil for the fall and winter," he said. "... The real message is that the small four-cylinder car is a reality in this country."

In Boston, the Herald American published a poll that found 38 percent of those polled favored rationing as the best solution to the gasoline shortage. Odd-even sales were favored by 26 percent.

Congressional leaders have said they will begin work on a nationwide rationing plan when they return from the July Fourth recess, and President Carter said Sunday as he returned from the Far East that he would be working with them.

Both Greyhound and Trailways are turning down charter requests in Miami to put as many vehicles as possible into intercity service.

Greyhound district manager Charles Ward said ticket sales in Miami jumped by 65 percent last week over the previous seven-day period. Trailways reported a 78 percent increase.

Amtrak spokesman John McLeod said trains in the Northeast Corridor, between Boston and Washington, had been carrying standees for the past two weeks, with the biggest crowds boarding at New York's Pennsylvania Station.

Majority Leader Byrd Arrives For Salt II Parley In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd arrived in the Soviet Union on Sunday to discuss the looming problems in Senate ratification of the SALT II treaty with Kremlin officials.

Before the West Virginia Democrat landed in Leningrad, the Communist Party newspaper Pravda lashed out at the Senate Republican leader, Sen. Howard H. Baker, accusing him of trying to give the Soviets an "ultimatum" that they must accept amendments to the arms limitation pact.

Byrd, who will spend two days touring Leningrad before coming to Moscow, is expected to tell the Russians they must reconcile themselves to the Senate's putting its stamp on the treaty.

The Senate leader may travel south to the Crimea in the hope of seeing Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev to talk about SALT.

Before leaving the United States, Byrd pleaded with senators not to rush to judgment on the treaty and to avoid taking hardened positions before it has been examined by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

He said he hoped to impress upon Soviet leaders the constitutionsl role of the Senate in consideration of treaties. The Soviets have taken the line that no Senate amendments will be acceptable and that they will not return to the negotiating table.

The Tennessee Republican, a potential 1980 presidential candidate, dealt a blow to the treaty's chances for Senate ratification when he declared he would work to defeat SALT II unless it is amended to remove "a substantial strategic superiority" he said it allows the Russians.

"The senator's choice of tone in talking with his government is an internal American affair. But when the senator, who is a leader of the Republican Party in the higher chamber of the U.S. Congress, brings his claims into the international arena and puts an ultimatum to a sovereign state, is this a serious and responsible approach?"

It also repeated Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko's contention that an attempt to amend the SALT II pact would mean "bridges will be burned" on negotiating a SALT III.

Byrd's Sunday schedule in Leningrad included a reception given by the U.S. consul-general and a visit to the Kirov Opera for a performance of "Prince Igor."

On Monday he plans to lay a wreath at a World War II cemetery, tour Leningrad's palaces and attend an official dinner given by the Leningrad City Council.

Bentsen Submits Energy Law Boost

"It is preposterous, absurd, that with a full-blown energy crisis looming over the country the unknown, unpredictable quantity of government regulation has become a major and frequently insurmountable obstacle to the development of alternative facilities," he said.

Bentsen said under his plan projects that now may take as long as five years to pass through the federal, state and local permit process would proceed in one and a half years or less.

"Americans are fed up with the delays and senseless waste caused by government red tape," he said. "We don't want to sprinkle the landscape with alternative energy plants or pipelines without a thorough understanding of what we're doing to the environment or the economy.

Iranian Government To Expel American Newspaper Reporter

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Los Angeles Times correspondent David Lamb has been ordered to leave Iran because of "baseless reports" in his newspaper about this country, government officials said Sunday.

It was believed to be the first time a foreign correspondent has been expelled from Iran since the February revolution.

Lamb, 39, confirmed he was summoned to the Iranian Ministry of National Guidance — formerly the Information Ministry — Sunday morning and told he must leave the country "within a couple of days."

He said officials indicated they were displeased with a general "anti-revolutionary tone" in Times coverage of Iranian events, and were not reacting specifically to his own stories.

Lamb said the government had told him he could not be replaced by another reporter for the newspaper because authorities were unhappy with the paper's whole approach to Iranian coverage.

"The ministry spokesman took no issue with any of the stories I had written, nor did he find any factual errors in the stories of the Los Angeles Times," Lamb said.

"He did complain, however, that he felt the Times coverage of Iran during the past four months was not in sympathy with the revolution."

Lamb, who has been here for three weeks, said ministry officials showed displeasure with two articles written by a Los Angeles Times journalist previously in Iran, Kenneth J. Freed.

These concerned an open letter by the National Democratic Front, a liberal political group, criticizing revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, and an article on morale and organization in the Iranian army.

Tornado-Shattered Iowa Town To Mark Anniversary Anyway

A friend had just found the timepieces in the ruins of her home, which was demolished by a tornado that swept through Algona Thursday night, killing two people and injuring more than two dozen.

Three other people were killed by a separate twister that struck Manson, a farming community of 1,900 residents 10 miles to the south.

"We'll probably pitch things like this out two weeks from now. But for now it's important for us to keep a shred of what we had," Mrs. Battani said Saturday.

Mrs. Battani, 38, had worked since last August helping organize a 125th anniversary celebration for this town of 6,000 people. It was scheduled to begin Sunday.

But the twister that destroyed more than 100 houses forced the event to be cut from four days to just one — July 4.

Mrs. Battani said she hoped the one-day celebration would be, like the watches, something to cling to in a time of trouble.

"Hopefully, people can take a breath and take the time to put their arms around one another," she said.

Most people were "pretty much in shock" shortly after the tornado struck, but since then have been pitching in with the clean-up effort, said Letha Van Allen, wife of Algona's mayor.

She agreed the town will "need some sort of celebration by Wednesday."

Officials at City Hall who were organizing salvage and clean-up efforts said names of volunteers filled about two dozen sheets of paper. Some volunteers came from Minnesota and South Dakota.

Despite what the tornado had done to the building, the Rev. Walter Morz held a special service, Sunday, to mark the town's anniversary, as had been planned before the storm.

"We were going to turn it into a thanksgiving service, but I decided to keep it (as an anniversary service). The Bible says to praise the Lord in all of his works," he said.

A memorial service also was held Sunday at Manson High School for the three victims there.

Mrs. Batani said she felt that dropping the anniversary celebration altogether would have been a blow for townspeople.

"We felt it was important to help everyone bounce back," she said.

Man Arrested After Hair-Raising Chase

SLATON (Special) — A 24-year-old Idalou man remained in Slaton City Jail Sunday night following his arrest here Saturday for trying to run over a Slaton police officer, police said.

The incident occurred about 3 a.m. Saturday, when Sgt. Mike Savage said he spotted a car that fit the description of a vehicle involved in a theft only minutes before.

The car continued past the intersection after the collision for about a mile and then went out of control, stopping in a ditch, police said.

According to reports, the officers approached the car with their guns drawn and ordered the suspect out of his car. Suddenly, the suspect started his car and tried to run over Savage, police said. The two officers then fired their weapons, hitting the car several times.

The suspect drove into a cotton field, where his car became stuck. The suspect was arrested a few minutes later on foot in the field.

Police said the man was arrested for aggravated assault on a police officer, attempting to evade arrest, driving while intoxicated and also for two speeding violations.

'Frozen Desserts' Must List Contents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ice cream lovers will soon be able to get a better idea of what they're eating.

New Food and Drug Administration rules took effect Sunday requiring that the ingredients of "frozen desserts" be listed in descending order on the label. This covers ice cream, ice milk, frozen custard and water ices, but not frozen yogurt.

In the past, such labeling had not been required because ice cream was considered a standardized food such as mayonnaise and catsup. Standardized foods had been exempted from ingredient labeling years ago because they were considered so common it was assumed that everybody knew what they were made from. FDA officials say that assumption is no longer valid.

CROWING CHAMPION

ROGUE RIVER, Ore. (AP) — A banty rooster named Chunker crowed his way to the championship of the 27th annual Rogue River rooster crow with 98 crows in the 30-minute time limit. But Chunker was far short of the record 188 crows set in the 1978 contest by a rooster named White Lightning. Chunker's owner, Joyce McMillan of Grants Pass, Ore., won a $150 first prize.

Heartline

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio, 45381. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.)

HEARTLINE: My mother has just turned 65 and she has gone on Medicare. She has been wearing dentures for a long time now and she needs a new pair very badly. Since this is a very high expense and my husband and I could not afford this for her, would Medicare cover this? — L.B.

No, Medicare will not cover a new set of dentures. It does not cover any routine dental care such as checkups, cleaning or filling of the teeth. The only type covered is surgery of the jaw or related structures, or the resetting of fractures of the jaw or facial bones.

For people on Medicare, Heartline has written a book in question-and-answer form covering the entire Medicare program. This book explains coverage under the Medicare program and talks about some of the problem areas of Medicare. To order, send $1.75 to Medicare Gudidebook, 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio, 45381.

HEARTLINE: I graduated from high school last week. I have a job now and will continue to work until the end of this year. In January, I plan to go back to school. My father is drawing his Social Security and I want to know if I will be eligible for Social Security benefits when I go back to school. — T.P.

You will be eligible for Social Security benefits as long as you are a full-time student at a school, college or university that is considered an educational institution. You will be eligible for benefits until the age of 22 (or the end of the semester or term in which you turn 22). For a school to be considered an educational institution, it must be operated or directly supported by the U.S., state or local government, be approved by the state or accredited by a state or nationally-recognized accrediting agency.

HEARTLIINE: My father was in the service during World War II. He has an honorable discharge. I have heard that he may be eligible for outpatient medical treatment at a Veteran's Administration facility. Can you tell me if he is eligible for this? — K.W.

Many veterans are eligible for outpatient medical treatment. Outpatient medical treatment includes medical examinations and related medical services including rehabilitation, consultation, professional counseling, training and mental health services as necessary in connection with treatment of physical or mental disabilities.

1. Any veteran, for a service-connected disability.
2. Any veteran discharged or released from active military, naval or air service for a disability incurred in the line of duty, for that disability.
3. Any veteran with a service-connected disability rated at 50 percent or more, for any medical condition.
4. Any veteran receiving aid and attendance or house-bound benefits, for any medical condition.
5. A Spanish-American War veteran, for any disability.
6. A disabled veteran entitled to or receiving vocational rehabilitation training, for any condition requiring medical care to enable the veteran to begin, continue or return to such training.
7. Any veteran eligible for hospitalization, for medical services on an ambulatory-care basis when such services are reasonably necessary in preparation for or, to the extent facilities are available, to postpone or do away with the need for hospital admission.
8. Any veteran who has been granted hospital care for medical services reasonably necessary to complete treatment incident to such hospital care.

Eligible veterans may also be furnished drugs or medicine ordered on prescription.

Jarrett, Jennings Finish Fast To Take Pinehills Victory

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

"If you're going to start slow, you'd better finish fast — especially if you want to win."

Surely somebody has said that in the past. And even if it isn't an old sports cliche — it ought to be.

And Sunday at the Pinehills golf course Mark Jarrett and David Jennings brought the cliche to life, turning in a closing round 63 to capture the Pinehills Summer Partnership for the second consecutive year with a 36-hole total of 128. But the duo did it the hard way.

"Yesterday (Saturday) I was ready to walk off the course on the ninth hole," admitted Jennings. "And Mark was mad too, I was mad at him — we were mad at each other. But we finally got going on the back nine and stayed close to the leaders."

Jarrett and Jennings turned in a 65 Saturday but that was only good enough for third place after the first 18 holes. Mike White and Jim Curtsinger led the field with a 63 but slipped to a 67 on Sunday. Saturday's second place two-some of Kevin Heise and Harry Eastus turned in a 68 to finish third with a 132. White and Curtsinger wound up with a 130.

Still, the race for the championship flight title was a dogfight most of the way on Sunday. But Jarrett and Jennings found the last nine holes much to their liking once again and ran away from White and Curtsinger.

"I got a birdie on 11," said Jennings, "and then Mark sunk a 30 footer on No. 12 for another birdie. After that we knew we were going."

And go they did. The team reeled off four straight birdies, paused for a par, and then Jennings picked up birdies on the last two holes. The way the two explained it, the difference between Saturday and Sunday was simply a matter of a little teamwork.

"We were playing good golf on Saturday," said Jarrett. "But we weren't playing partners golf — there's a big difference."

"Today we played partnership golf the way it should be," added his partner Jennings. "Between the two of us we didn't have a bogey all day.

"I don't know what the matter was during the first nine holes of the tournament," he added. "We were hitting the ball well, keeping it in the fairways, but just weren't making the putts at first. But we seemed to settle down when we got to the back nine."

For the record, Jarrett and Jennings had a two-day total of 67 on the front nine and 61 after they made the turn.

The wind picked up a little bit on Sunday and the tourament winners said that probably caused a lot of the scores to go up. But down in the lower flights, the scores went down, down, down.

The top three scores in flights five through nine all saw substantial drops between Saturday's and Sunday's scores. For instance Robert Connell and Arlin Stricklin fired a fat 85 on Saturday to get placed in the ninth flight and then turned in a 77 on Sunday for a 162 and a first place finish. Manny Williams and Marshall Tatum had a 75 on Saturday, wound up in the third flight and then sizzled to a 68 — and a first place finish — the second day.

But drops like that were the rule rather than the exception at Pinehills over the weekend. Were some of the golfers sandbagging their first day scores? Nobody can say, but the subject certainly came up in the clubhouse.

"I can guarantee you that some of these guys' pockets are lined with sand," said a Pinehills assistant pro. "I'm sure of that."

Morgan Sinks 40-Foot Birdie For Playoff Win At Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Gil Morgan sank a 40-foot putt from the edge of the 16th green to defeat Larry Nelson in the second hole of a sudden-death playoff Sunday and win the $300,000 Danny Thomas Memphis Classic.

On the 16th, Morgan sent his second shot into the gallery behind the green on the par-5 hole, then chipped over a ridge and into the short grass at the fringe.

Nelson drove his second shot into a sand trap at the front of the green, then chipped out to leave himself a 15-footer for the birdie.

Morgan, using a putter, hit the ball crisply and on a perfect line into the cup. Nelson could have tied again, but his ball missed the cup by six inches and Morgan's name went on the $54,000 winner's check.

Tom Kite of Austin, Tex., who had a piece of the lead at 9 under near the end of the final round, bogied on No. 17 and finished third with an 8-under 280 for the 72 holes.

Morgan, who failed to qualify for this tournament when he was a student at Memphis' Southern College of Optometry, began the day at 4 under and birdied the first two holes. He moved into the lead at 9 under with a birdie on the par 3 No. 15.

Nelson, who was in Morgan's threesome along with Larry Ziegler, tied it up on the 18th hole when Morgan missed a 30-footer by inches. The eventual runner-up calmly dropped his five-foot putt for the birdie and the tie.

The victory was Morgan's fourth since he joined the tour in 1973. He earlier collected the 1977 D.C. Open and the 1978 Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open and the World Series of Golf.

Morgan has been in the money in 13 of his 16 tournaments this year. Until Sunday, he best effort was a tie for 12th at the Tournament Players Champsionship in Jacksonville, Fla.

"I've been wanting to win this tournament for quite some time," Morgan said as he sipped a soft drink in the clubhouse. "I felt like I had a good chance to win...the crowd was in my favor."

Morgan said he didn't know the ball would fall on his long victory putt until it went into the cup.

"It was one of those putts you make sometime," he said. At the time he putted, Morgan said, he thought Nelson had a better chance for a birdie.

Nelson collected $32,400 for his efforts.

Third round leader Brad Bryant of Amarillo, Tex., finished with a 3-under 285 after opening at 7-under 209. Australia's Jack Newton, the second round leader at 6 under 138 continued his fade and finished in a tie for 22nd with 286.

Inmate Wants Title Bout

WOODBRIDGE, N.J. (AP) — Rahway State Prison inmate James Scott not only wants to be the light-heavyweight champion of the world but also wants a shot at heavyweight champion Larry Holmes.

"I'm ready for Matthew Franklin and Victor Galindez," Scott said, referring to the two light-heavyweight champions. "And I want the big dummy (Holmes)."

Scott is currently serving a 45-year term stemming from a 1969 robbery onviction and 1975 parle violation. He improved his record to 15-0-1 Sunday in his fifth prison bout when Bunny Johnson failed to answer the bell for the eighth round of their scheduled 10-round nationally televised fight.

'Seeds Graveyard' Keys Net Play

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — In the chill of an English summer evening, Wimbledon hit a peak of high drama Saturday when Tim Gullikson, right-handed half of the twins from Wisconsin, decidedly downed second-seeded John McEnroe, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

The victory took Gullikson, who is seeded 15th here, into the quarterfinals and a third meeting with Roscoe Tanner, whom he has beaten twice. Tanner advanced with a 6-7, 7-6, 6-4, 6-1 victory over Jose Luis Clerc of Argentina.

It was a match fought out on the cauldron of Wimbledon's No.2 court — known this year as the "seeds graveyard" after Arthur Ashe and Guillermo Vilas both were put out there in earlier rounds. And McEnroe, never known for keeping his cool under difficulty, had a chattering gallery to contend with, plus a crowd of excitable Italians shouting and whistling for their favorite, Adriano Panatta, who was victorious on the adjoining court.

McEnroe, after his shock defeat, gave no excuses, except to say he was cold and had a "few physical problems" that he didn't elaborate upon. But he gave full credit to Gullikson, saying, "He played really well."

"Looking at him across the net," said Gullikson, "it seemed to me he was unsettled, with a lot of things on his mind. For one thing, he was second seed; for another, he's been labeled the 'bad boy of tennis.

"And he certainly isn't that."

Meanwhile, Bjorn Borg, the imperturbable Swede who is favored to be the irst man in modern times to take the title four years in a row, stuttered just once but then recovered to reach the last eight with a 6-4, 5-7, 6-4, 7-5 win over unseeded Brian Teacher.

Borg has had an unsettled passage into the quarterfinals this year. He dropped a first round set against Tom Gorman, then was given a real fright in the second round by India's Vijay Amritraj. Borg was on the brink of four-set defeat before winning a tiebreaker in that fourth set. He moved on with a 2-6, 6-4, 4-6, 7-6, 6-2 triumph.

Jimmy Connors, beaten by Borg in the final the last two years, had the easiest victory of the day, 6-2, 6-1, 6-1 over Mark Cox, the British veteran.

In the Gullikson-McEnroe match, Gullikson stamped his mark on the play early in the opening set when McEnroe, unsettled by the crowd, dropped service to trail 2-3.

An inspired Gullikson spell brought him eight games in a row to capture the second set 6-2 and give him a 4-0 third-set lead. McEnroe then accused a line judge of "nitpicking" for foot faulting him, which brought an official warning from the umpire and jeers from the crowd.

The Gullikson victory left the way to the final wide open in the second half of the draw. The second quarterfinal in that section will be Panatta against Pat DuPre. Panatta defeated Sandy Mayer 7-6, 6-3, 7-6 and DuPre beat Bob Lutz, 3-6, 7-5, 4-6, 6-4, 8-6.

Both meet unseeded men in the quarterfinals Tuesday. Borg will play Tom Okker, the Dutch veteran who downed Gene Mayer 7-6, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4 while Connors plays Bill Scanlon, who had never won a single round at Wimbledon before this year. Scanlon beat Brad Drewett of Australia -4, 6-4, 6-7, 7-5.

In the men's bracket, the first week saw 10 of the 16 seeds beaten, beginning with the first-round ousters of former champion Arthur Ashe, Vitas Gerulaitis, Corrado Barazzutti of Italy and Wojtek Fibak of Poland. By the time the last 16 had been reached, Brian Gottfried, John Alexander of Australia, Manuel Orantes of Spain, Victor Pecci of Paraguay, Jose Higueras of Spain and Guillermo Vilas of Argentina had joined them on the sidelines.

In the women's fourth round, Martina Navratilova defeated Greer Stevens of South Africa 7-6, 6-7, 6-3; Dianne Fromholtz of Australia defeated Betty Stove of The Netherlands 7-6, 7-6; Tracy Austin defeated Virginia Ruzici of Romania 6-2, 6-4; Billie Jean King defeated Hana Mandlikova, the young Czech girl, 6-4, 6-3; Virginia Wade defeated fellow Briton Debbie Jevans, 6-1, 6-2; Evonne Goolagong Cawley defeated Kathy Jordan 7-6, 6-7, 6-1; Wendy Turnbull defeated Kerry Reid 6-3, 4-6, 6-4 in an all-Australian match, and Chris Evert Lloyd defeated Laura Dupont 6-2 6-1.

In the quarterfinals Monday the draw will be Navratilova against Fromholtz, Austin vs. King, Wade against Cawley and Turnbull vs Evert Lloyd.

Padres Knuckle Under To Niekro 4-1

By the Associated Press

Houston scored four runs in the ninth inning, paced by Jose Cruz's third single of the game, giving Joe Niekro his major league-leading 12th victory of the year as the Astros defeated the San Diego Padres 4-1.

Niekro, 12-3, held the Padres scoreless for 8 1-3 innings before giving up a run-scoring double to Jerry Turner. Joe Sambito then came on in relief and picked up his eighth save of the year.

Padres' starter Randy Jones, 6-6, held the Astros scoreless for eight innings. But Houston used two walks, a fielder's choice, an error by catcher Fred Kendall and singles by Terry Puhl and Cruz in the ninth to break the scoreless tie.

ANGELS 14, ROYALS 2

Don Baylor and Dan Ford hit two home runs apiece in support of Nolan Ryan's four-hit pitching, leading the California Angels to a 14-2 victory over Kansas City and a sweep of their three-game weekend series against the Royals.

Ryan, 10-5, had a no-hitter through 5 1-3 innings until Fred Patek singled sharply past the outstretched glove of second baseman Bobby Grich. The hard-throwing right-hander, who shares the no-hit record with Sandy Koufax at four, struck out 10 and walked three.

YANKEES 6, RED SOX 5

Rookie Jerry Narron led off the seventh inning with his first major league home run and New York's fifth of the game, giving the Yankees a 6-5 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Willie Randolph, Jim Spencer, Roy White and Reggie Jackson also homered as the Yankees smashed five home runs in a game for the first time since Sept. 25, 1977.

ORIOLES 10, BLUE JAYS 7

Rick Dempsey's three-run homer capped a four-run seventh inning that helped the streaking Baltimore Orioles to a 10-7 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

It was the 22nd triumph in 25 games for the Orioles, who climbed 30 games over the .500 mark at 54-24 and increased their lead to 5½ games over Boston in the American League East. It was Baltimore's 12th consecutive victory over the Blue Jays.

BRAVES 2, DODGERS 1

Jerry Royster's ninth-inning sacrifice fly scored Pepe Frias and gave Atlanta a 2-1 victory over Los Angeles behind the six-hit pitching of Phil Niekro and Joey McLaughlin.

The loss was the sixth straight for the slumping Dodgers, who dropped into a virtual tie for last place with Atlanta in the National League West.

BREWERS 10, MARINERS 3

Home runs by Robin Yount, Gorman Thomas and Paul Molitor powered the Milwaukee Brewers to a 10-3 victory over the Seattle Mariners.

Molitor opened the game with his sixth homer of the season, the second straight game he has started with a homer. The Brewers got another run in the inning on a double by Don Money and a single by Sixto Lezcano.

TIGERS 10, INDIANS 2

Detroit pounded out 15 hits, including a three-run homer by Steve Kemp, to back the five-hit pitching of Jack Morris as the Tigers defeated the Cleveland Indians 10-2.

Kemp had three hits while Ron LeFlore, Lou Whitaker, Phil Mankowski, Jason Thompson and Alan Trammell had two hits apiece for the Tigers.

ORIOLES 10, BLUE JAYS 7

Rick Dempsey's three-run homer capped a four-run seventh inning that helped the streaking Baltimore Orioles to a 10-7 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

It was the 22nd triumph in 25 games for the Orioles, who climbed 30 games over the .500 mark at 54-24 and increased their lead to 5½ games over Boston in the American League East. It was Baltimore's 12th consecutive victory over the Blue Jays.

TWINS 2, WHITE SOX 1

GIANTS 2-7, REDS 1-3

Willie McCovey and Darrell Evans hit consecutive home runs in the second inning to give San Francisco a 2-1 victory over Cincinnati in the first game and Mike Sadek collected three hits as the Giants won the second game 7-3 to sweep a doubleheader from the Reds.

The Giants got sensational relief pitching in both games. Former Cincinnati pitcher Pedro Borbon saved the first-game victory for starter John Curtis by retiring George Foster and Johnny Bench with the bases loaded in the eighth inning.

CARDS 13-2, PHILLIES 7-1

Relief pitcher Tug McGraw walked home two runs in the bottom of the eighth and rookie Terry Kennedy followed with a grand-slam homer, powering the St Louis Cardinals to a 13-7 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies in the first game of their doubleheader.

The cardinals took the nightcap 2-1 to sweep the doubleheader and send the Phillies further into the depths of the National League East.

CUBS 5-8, METS 4-2

Bill Buckner drove in three runs with a homer and a triple and Barry Foote also homered to lead the Chicago Cubs to an 8-2 victory Sunday and a doubleheader sweep over the New York Mets.

Steve Dillard drew a bases-loaded walk to force in the winning run in a 5-4 first-game triumph in which Dave Kingman drove in three runs with a homer and a single.

Fergon Wins First LPGA Tournament

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Twenty-three-year-old Vicki Fergon came from seven shots back in the final round Sunday to win her first Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament.

Miss Fergon battled wind and rain to shoot her second 69 of the tournament to win by one shot over Judy Rankin, who went into the day with a five-shot lead. Rankin soared to a 5-over-par 77 on the waterlogged Daerborn Country Club course.

Miss Fergon finished at 4-under-par 284 for the tournament and took home a $22,500 prize in the $150,000 event. Jane Blalock, Amy Alcott, defending champion Sandra Post and rookie Beth Daniel came in at 2-under 286.

"I had a feeling it might be my day," Miss Fergon said. "I got over the nervousness after the third and fourth holes," where she sank the first two of five birdie putts.

The victory moves Miss Fergon, of El Cajon, Calif., from 28th to 12th on the 1979 LPGA money list with earnings of $42,350.

Mrs Rankin, who shot a course record 65 in the third round, three-putted three times, but said she "played better than I scored."

"My putts weren't there and I did nothing to offset it," Mrs Rankin said.

Winter rules, which allow players to clean their golf balls for fairway shots, were in effect for the final round and Mrs Rankin said that didn't help her cause.

"I wasn't very pleased when they told us we were going to tee the ball up (in the fairways) today," she said. "It was worse out here yesterday when I shot my 65 — the fairways weren't even mowed.

"The rough was wet and crummy and the fairways were worse yesterday."

Mrs Rankin said the turning point might have been her bogey on the par-3 13th hole. She was just inches off the green, 25 feet from the pin, but had to hit a wedge over a "10-foot lake. I didn't have a shot to play." She hit the ball over the hole and missed the putt.

WHAT FORM! — Manny Williams, teeing off on the No. 10 hole during the Pinehills Summer Partnership, shows the proper form on his swing and the correct procedure for placing a chaw in the left cheek — where it least obstructs the golfers vision. El Paso's Saukraut Takes Rio Grande

RUIDOSO, N.M. (Special) — Saukraut, a 9-1 shot, owned by Jess Burner of El Paso, scrambled to an easy win over heavily favored Happy Irishman in Sunday's renewal of the Rio Grande Stakes at Ruidoso Downs.

The 6 1/2 furlong duel for state-bred sophomores put a nine-head field in chase of a $6,750 purse.

Saukraut, ridden by Alex Baldillaz Jr., jumped into an early lead and stayed on top all the way. Draconic's Loom stuck with the early pace until the midway point of the backstretch, then faded.

Happy Irishman galloped along about five lengths off the pace, then got down to serious business at the turn for home when it became apparent Saukraut was in good position to steal the race.

Happy Irishman, urged on by Gary Sumpter under the top load of 122 pounds, began churning up the dust and made up considerable ground. But the horse ran out of gas in the stretch. The outing was his first since mid-December and he obviously needs work.

U.S. Wrestler Dead At 29

STORY CITY, Iowa (AP) — Chris Taylor, 29, a national collegiate heavyweight champion at Iowa State University and 1972 Olympic bronze medalist wrestler, died Saturday night at his home.

Taylor, who wrestled most of his collegiate career at over 400 pounds, died of natural causes, said Dr. Donald W. Powers, Story County medical examiner. A rescue unit was sent to the home, but efforts to revive him were unsuccessful.

The wrestler had suffered from hepatitis and phlebitis, illnesses which forced him to retire from professional wrestling in 1977 after four years of competition.

Taylor had been undergoing tests at University Hospitals in Iowa City recently. Hospital officials said it was believed that he had been making a recovery from his health problems in the last year.

Fuel Policies Called Sound Despite Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Walter F. Mondale asserted Sunday that despite fuel shortages and rising prices, the Carter administration's basic policies are sound and will remain intact.

Mondale refused to concede that long lines at service stations and continuing inflation signal a failure of President Carter's policies. The vice president said he feels anyone occupying the White House would suffer politically under present circumstances.

But in an interview on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press," Mondale acknowledged the substantial hike in crude oil prices approved by the oil-producing nations poses new problems for Carter and the troubled economy.

Without specifically foreeasting a recession, Mondale said the action by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries "will both increase inflation, slow economic growth and produce higher unemployment." OPEC last week approved an increase in crude oil prices ranging from $18 to $23.50 for a 42-gallon barrel.

Mondale said the action "is a severe shock not only to our economy but to all economies around the world and just downright cruel to the poor nations of the world."

But he also said fuel shortages in the United States contributed to the problem.

"The recent OPEC price announcement, the shock that it is, was made possible by that shortage, and all Americans, even as we try to in a civilized way manage these shortages, must deal with that problem in their own private lives; we must deal with it in government, in all aspects of American life," Mondale said.

He defended the administration's handling of the economy and energy problems and said no substantial policy changes would be forthcoming.

"We have in place, I think, policies that make sense," Mondale said when asked if he could account for Carter's declining position in the polls.

"I think it is the times. I think these are very difficult periods for Americans. I think the energy crisis is a jarring problem for all of us," the vice president said.

"I think it temporarily does hurt the president, but I think the president is in solid condition and that will develop in the future," Mondale said.

"We are doing everything we can, but there is no disregarding the fact that the OPEC decision ... is fueling inflation around the world, and we have got to deal with it. It's going to be very difficult," he said. "There are some good signs, but we are in for a tough, long period and any president would be in that same difficulty."

Mondale said Carter has offered a host of programs designed to decrease U.S. reliance on imported fuel. And he discounted what he characterized as two unacceptable options to existing economic policy: resorting to mandatory wage and price controls and deliberately planning a recession.

On another matter, the vice president predicted the administration will win its battle for Senate ratification of the strategic arms limitation treaty with the Soviet Union. And Mondale refusd to speculate whether he would seek the Democratic presidential nomination if Carter decided against running for re-election.

Toledo Workers Strike

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — About 3,400 city employees, including police officers, firefighters and sanitation workers, went on strike Sunday in a contract dispute, leaving supervisors to perform nearly all muncipal functions.

Four unions called for the strike at 6 a.m. after rejecting the city's latest contract proposal. Federally mediated negotiations broke down after the unions' contract expired at midnight Saturday.

"We've had no unusual incidents of any kind," said Toledo public information director Ted Reams. "The police department is being staffed by command personnel, and we're maintaining essential city services."

A firefighters' spokesman said a volunteer "flying squad" was monitoring all fire calls and would help people from burning buildings if necessary. But he said the squad would not fight fires.

Reams said the city was prepared for a lengthy strike. "We're planning to go on 12-hour shifts (using supervisory personnel) for as long as is necessary," he said.

The four striking unions — Local 7 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees; the Toledo Police Patrolmen's Association; Fire Fighters Local 92; and Teamsters Local 20 — represent about 750 police, 600 firefighters and more than 2,000 non-uniformed employees.

Another AFSCME branch, representing 350 workers at the assistant managerial level, was to vote on the city contract proposal later Sunday. Union leaders were recommending rejection.

Pickets were set up at 80 sites around the city Sunday and were expected at 120 city facilities Monday, AFSCME regional director Chuck Hendrix said.

Talks were scheduled Monday with the police Command Officers' Association, which was not on strike but whose members were largely honoring picket lines. No talks were planned with the striking unions.

The unions objected both to the city's wage offer and several non-economic proposals, Hendrix said.

The city proposed a 2 percent wage increase in January 1980, another 1.5 percent raise the followingJanuary and a 1 percent increase the third year, Reams said. He noted, however, that coupled with cost-of-living increases in the contract, the wage increases would have amounted to more than 24 percent over the three years of the contract.

Toledo police officers and firefighters are paid an average salary of $18,000 year. Annual pay for non-uniformed workers ranges from $12,000 to about $25,000.

Reams said the city believes it has offered "an equitable wage package" in light of the fact that Toledo city workers are "the highest paid in Ohio."

He also said an increase in the economic proposal would necessitate a cutback in the city work force.

Hendrix said non-economic issues include a city proposal to reduce manpower on certain firefighting pumpers, a requirement that police take a polygraph test when involved in disciplinary actions and a proposed reduction in the number of garbage collection crews.

District Vote Amendment Slow Mover

By the Associated Press

A proposed amendment to grant residents of the District of Columbia the same voting representation in Congress as other Americans still is far from becoming part of the U.S. Constitution, nearly a year after it was sent to the 50 states.

But with seven years to seek ratification, supporters say they are not disappointed with the amendment's progress toward approval.

The measure would permit the district to elect two senators and at least one representative to Congress, with the number of representatives depending on the 1980 census.

Since the measure was first sent to the legislatures in August 1978, it has been ratified by six states: Connecticut, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, New Jersey and Ohio.

"We figure that if six ratify each year until the seven-year deadline, we'll have 42 ratifying states — which is four more than we need," says Paula Miller, an aide to Rep. Walter Fauntroy.

Fauntroy is Washington's non-voting delegate to the House and chairman of the group plotting a ratification campaign, the D.C. Voting Rights Service Corp.

"Our problem," says Fauntroy aide Eldridge Spearman, "is that this particular amendment doesn't stir up strong emotions of support. It doesn't do anything for anyone but us. It just stirs up a lot of emotions of opposition.

"We're trying to generate emotional support by appealing to the nation's conscience. They need to realize the real issue is simply this: Each U.S. citizen ought to have a vote and we don't."

Since last August, at least eight state legislatures have rejected ratification. Delaware's House has turned it down twice; Maryland's House rejected it three times.

The measure is still pending before lawmakers in some states: Wisconsin's Senate has approved ratification, but the House has not acted; California's Assembly ratified, but the Senate has not voted.

Other legislatures have ignored the amendment. In Georgia, Nevada and North Carolina, for instance, it has not come up for debate.

As the debate takes shape, it is clear that some opponents are put off by Washington's liberal, Democratic image. Rural lawmakers object to the strengthening the urban vote in Congress, and others do not want a city to have equal legislative footing with the states.

Because 75 percent of Washington's 670,000 residents are black, some supporters believe racism may play a role in ratification.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., warned last year that the ratification debate would pit proponents against those who subscribe to the "four toos" — that Washington is "too black, too liberal, too urban and too Democratic" to be given so much power.

Miss Miller says race is "an undercurrent," but not a real issue, in the debate.

When the Wyoming House rejected ratification in January, debate focused on the fact that the measure would give the city the same representation as Wyoming — two senators and one congressman.

Outlander distaste for the federal government has surfaced in the debate as well. In Tennessee, Republican Sen. Carl Koella Jr. asked why Washington should have two senators:

"Why should we create two paid lobbyists for the bureaucracy to raise their own salaries and hire more of what we have too many of already?"

That comment, says Spearman, "reflects a widely held misconception. Just 25 percent of the federal jobs in Washington are held by district residents, and California, Virginia and Texas have more federal jobs than there are in the district."

Many opponents say the nation's founders never intended the city of Washington to be a state. Ratification would be unconstitutional, they say.

It is true the Founding Fathers did not intend the district to be a state, says Spearman. "After all, D.C. was a wilderness then."

But he cites a series of Supreme Court decisions, beginning in 1820, in which the justices concluded that for the purposes of taxation, then jury trial, then interstate commerce, the district would be treated as a state.

NEA Convention To Eye Issues

DETROIT (AP) — Dissatisfaction with public education and increasing violence in the schools are expected to be among the key issues open for discussion as the National Education Association opens its 117th annual convention Monday.

About 13,000 educators from around the country are expected to attend the meeting of the 1.8 million-member organization, the nation's largest teachers' group.

NEA president John Ryor, who formally opens the conference, said in a recent interview that teachers have become increasingly concerned about what he sees as a growing conservative movement in the country.

He said educators are intimidated and demoralized by book bannings, "back-to-basics" campaigns and calls for teacher and student competency tests, all of which he attributed to the "New Right" movement.

Among the scheduled speakers at the week-long conference are Vice President Walter Mondale, Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee and Jean Childs Young, chairwoman of the National Commission on the International Year of the Child.

Singer Pat Boone Cited For False Advertising Of Acne Product

WASHINGTON (AP) — Singer Pat Boone would have to pay up to $5,000 in restitution to consumers who used an acne preparation he touted, according to agreements announced Sunday.

The false advertising case brought by the Federal Trade Commission may be the first one in which a show business personality has had to make restitution over allegedly false claims he made about a product.

The tentative settlement, including larger restitution amounts for the maker of the acne preparation and the advertising agency, came in a year-old case that questioned the practice of well-known personalities being paid to endorse products they may not have used.

In one advertisement, Boone said, "With four daughters, we've tried the leading acne medications at our house, and nothing ever seemed to work until our girls met a Beverly Hills doctor and got some real help through a product she developed called 'Acne-Statin.'"

That doctor, Atida H. Karr of Beverly Hils, Calif., president of Karr Preventive Medical Products Inc., agreed Sunday to establish a $175,000 restitution fund for customers who paid about $10 per bottle. About 800,000 bottles have been sold.

The advertising agency, National Media Group Inc., agreed to establish a similar fund of $60,000. They become effective after a 60-day public comment period and final acceptance by the four commissioners.

While Boone did not sign either agreement, they would trigger his own financial responsibility. He previously agreed to reimburse consumers if the companies lost the case or a consent order became final.

The FTC said that under a formula established by the previous agreement, Boone would have to pay up to $5,000.

The agreements do not include an acknowledgement by either company or Boone that the advertising was false or that any law was broken.

Nevertheless, the case is likely to discourage other celebrities from making product endorsements, especially where advertisements involve medical or scientific claims on which the endorser has no expertise.

Many show business and sports personalities make endorsements, which often net them high fees, because some advertisers feel a customer will believe a familiar person more readily than a stranger.

Albert H. Kramer, director of the FTC's bureau of consumer protection, said a highly-paid celebrity may profit from a false advertisement just as much as the manufacturer. "An endorser must verify the claims made about the advertised product before the first commercial goes on the air or appears in print, or else risk FTC action," he said when the FTC brought the case.

Neither Boone nor his lawyer, James J. Cook, could be reached for comment. When the FTC began the case, he said Boone was "shocked and dismayed" that claims for the product had not been scientifically verified "since the medical doctor who developed the product had personally told Mr. Boone that it was an unusually effective acne medication."

When the FTC orders become final, they will require newspaper and magazine notices telling about refunds available to all Acne-Statin customers. The orders also will forbid the two companies from touting Acne-Statin as superior to other acne preparations and soap in the anti-bacterial treatment of acne.

Prime Minister Rides Home In Ox Cart

SALISBURY, Zimbabwe Rhodesia (AP) — Zimbabwe Rhodesia's first black prime minister rode to his official residence Saturday in an ox cart once used by whites who colonized this southern African country nearly a century ago.

Bishop Abel Muzorewa, whose inauguration as prime minister on June 1 marked the beginning of black-majority rule here, wore a formal coat of green, black, red and yellow stripes under a leopard skin cloak and hood on the three-mile journey.

Henoted many whites among some 5,000 cheering blacks who lined the route as the procession began, and told the crowd:

"This marks the kind of society we are trying to achieve. May I say this must now be the beginning of seriousness in the building of our non-racial society."

He called on all citizens to pray that oil will be discovered in Zimbabwe Rhodesia, cut off from the world petroleum market by United Nations sanctions imposed when the country's former white rulers broke from Britain in 1965 to head off black rule.

Muzorewa plans to go to Washington next week in an effort to gain U.S. recognition of his government and a lifting of the economic sanctions.

The U.S. Senate has urged President Carter to accept Muzorewa's government and remove the sanctions, but Carter has refused, saying it has not been determined if the April elections won by Muzorewa's United African National Council were fair.

The Patriotic Front, a black guerrilla alliance that has waged a six-year war against the government, did not participate in the election.

Agency Issues Tanning Tips

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Health Deparment has advised sunbathers they should try to get their tans before 10 a.m. or after 3 p.m., when ultraviolet rays are the weakest.

"If you can't avoid these hours, try limiting your exposure to a maximum of 15 minutes during the danger hours," the department said in a release.

The department said almost all of the 300,000 cases of skin cancer developed by Americans each year are considered to be sun-related, and there is proportionately more skin cancer in the southern and southwestern states than elsewhere.

The best chemical "cover-up" that still allows tanning is any one of the popular brand sunscreens that contains PABA, or para-aminobenzoic acid, the department said. The sunscreen should be applied about 45 minutes before exposure and reapplied after swimming or perspiring.

— A wet T-shirt can also deceive you. Water droplets funnel at least half the ultraviolet power to your skin.

— Snow can reflect as much as 85 percent of the sun's rays.

"Neither true sunscreens nor 'suntan lotions' promote tanning," the department said. "Sunscreens protect against sunburn, while mineral oils and baby oils lubricate and even change the optical properities of the skin, but don't protect from sunburn or promote suntan."

Coupon Travelers Take To Air

By The Associated Press

The friendly skies opened, Sunday, to thousands of air travelers who begged, borrowed or paid stiff prices for half-fare coupons given out last month by United and American airlines.

But neither air carrier could comment, Sunday, the first day the coupons became valid, on just how many were being used.

"I'm sure it's going to be very, very busy," said Joe Moran, a spokesman for American. "After all, it is the holiday weekend, and we do have 30 DC-10s out of service. And we did give out more than two million coupons. Its going to be very busy."

United spokesman Marc Michaelson said, "Tickets are sold at the airport, ticket offices all around town and travel bureaus, so there's no way we can tell."

When asked whether United expected overcrowding because of the coupons, he said no.

"They're not going to be used in one whack. People are going to spread it out all the way up to Dec. 15," when the coupons expire, he said.

Retiring Beauty Queen Smashes Royal Tiara

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Miss North Carolina for 1979 was named Saturday night to succeed Debbie Shook, who smashed her rhinestone-studded crown to the floor when told her throne was being taken away from her.

The new Miss North Carolina is Monta Anne Maki, who was entered as Miss Hickory.

The 22-year-old former television intern at WBTV in Charlotte sang "You Light Up My Life" in her talent presentation and said her goal was to become a television hostess.

"I think most people thought it was part of the pageant," said Robert B. Butler, production chairman for the 1979 Miss North Carolina pageant. "Some of them were even clapping."

The crown was ruined by the incident. But pageant officials said new ones are ordered each year, so a supply was on hand Saturday night for the finals.

The incident came moments after North Carolina Jaycee officials told Miss Shook her services as Miss North Carolina 1978 were no longer wanted.

The firing, just before preliminary events were held Friday night, came after Miss Shook told a reporter that she had not received all the prizes promised to her and that her reign had been riddled with financial difficulties.

"I feel we made the right decision," said Dan M. Surles, executive director of the pageant and the man who fired Miss Shook.

Contestants, who were backstage at the time of the incident, say they were told not to comment by Susan Lawrence Googe, contestant coordinator.

"The girls were almost totally unaffected by it," Mrs. Googe said. "We're looking after the girls and telling them to keep your mind on your business."

Workers Offered Bicycle Rebates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fourteen public interest groups have a new fringe benefit for their 185 employees: $20 rebates if they buy bicycles.

American Ag Movement To Speak For Grass Roots Farm Family

SPRINGFIELD, Colo. (AP) — American Agriculture Movement's national headquarters sits on the edge of U.S. 287-385, the north-south highway running from Texas' Big Bend country to Canada.

Some days Leona Hinds has little else to do in the two-room office but watch the huge semi-trucks and trailers that pass within 20 feet as they speed along Main Street, leaving dust on the window sills.

The movement has changed from a loose group of farmers to a formal national organization — against the wishes of some farmers — but all that seems far from the mind of Mrs. Hinds, a farm wife and volunteer who takes a turn one day each week as office manager.

"We don't get too many calls anymore," she said. "We got five calls today, and a couple from people were cussing the power company and misdialed."

She added that it was not slow every day. "Last Friday we got a lot from people asking about the truckers' strike and complaining about Carter's reallocation of diesel fuel from farmers to truckers."

And though the movement sometimes seems to be resting two years after it was begun, one of its organizers, Laurence "Bud" Bitner, says it is by no means dying.

Bitner, 40, operates a supply store at Walsh, 20 miles east of here, when he isn't on his farm or traveling for the movement. The other day he leaned back in his office chair, removed his grease-stained western hat and thought aloud about the movement, its success in bringing its message to the public, its failure to pull off a farm strike, and its future.

The movement was spawned in 1977 when a small group of Baca County farmers met over coffee one morning, ruminated about the sorry state of the family farm and decided to try to do something about it.

The word spread and Bitner helped spread it.

Within days the movement was getting hundreds of calls from across the nation, from angry farmers willing to not plant, not harvest what was already planted, and not buy what was needed to farm.

They confronted Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland with a tractor caravan in Pueblo. Bitner was granted a meeting with President Carter in 1978 during the president's political appearance in Denver.

Last winter, thousands of tractors thundered into Washington in protest of high production costs, inflation, the disappearance of the family farm, and what farmers saw as the administration's inability, or unwillingness, to do anything about it.

Now, the farmers are harvesting the crops they said they wouldn't plant. And they also are formally organizing what they said should stay a movement, even endorsing dues for an office in Washington that may or may not be permanent, depending on how the money holds up.

The decision to formally organize into a national group was made at a meeting in Wichita, Kan., early in June. It was a decision Bitner believes was necessary if AAM is to continue.

"The movement was a spontaneous reaction by farmers to a bad situation. They became directly involved in a protest that took hundreds of hours of their own time. It had to wind down from that, and it did, and rather than see it die they let a new kind of organization grow out of it," Bitner said.

"I know it won't be the same, because it won't have that same kind of personal involvement. But it couldn't have. You cannot continue that intense involvement forever."

Did the strike attempt fail?

"It failed, because farmers failed to do what was needed," Bitner said. "They planted, and as crop prices increased substantially, they sold. But I think the movement was responsible for crop price increases, which are still holding fairly high."

Bitner believes the strike threat did put the farmers' plight in the minds of consumers and "made high food prices more acceptable. I think the movement was responsible for the fact that a proposed boycott of beef fell flat, because the public was made aware of the high cost of production."

The movement is not "just another farm organization," he said, "because no other farm organization has done what we have.

"It is made up of folks who have decided the current agriculture system is not as good as it could be and want changes made. It is more grassroots oriented, and not as bureaucratic as others."If we have a weakness it is that there is no way we can make good farm policy in government. We lack a mechanism to enforce it."

There is some resistance to having a permanent office — eventually, a national headquarters — in Washington, Bitner concedes.

But, he said, "The grassroots farmers have to have a direct line of communication with Congress and the executive branch. I visualize the American Agriculture Movement as that direct line. There's an opportunity to have an awful lot of input on the next farm bill — and I hope we use it to the fullest extent."

Bitner does not know if the movement will endorse candidates in the 1980 presidential campaign, but he thinks Carter is "way in over his head ... I don't think he's got the ability to handle the job."

Bitner says Carter will not change a price support system that doesn't allow farmers to meet production costs, and in fact doesn't appear even to want to. He also complained about alloting more fuel to truckers, though the movement supported the truckers' strike.

"I don't think there's a doubt in the world most farmers will support someone other than Jimmy Carter. That last action — taking the diesel fuel allocation away from farmers and giving it to the truckers — is proof where he places farmers in relation to the rest of the population," Bitner said.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. — We cashed $1,500 of Series E, U.S. Savings Bonds, last year and forgot all about reporting the interest we received when we filed our income tax returns. So, we had to file amended returns. I went directly to the Internal Revenue Service office and they figured out that we owed $300 federal income tax and $29 state income tax. I sent checks for those amounts with amended tax returns to the IRS and the state.

Then, we read in your column that interest from E bonds is subject to federal but not state income tax. How do we go about getting our $29 back?

A. — You'll have to file another amended state income tax return. Because you have already filed amended returns, that shouldn't be too great a chore. But, if you have trouble telephone or visit your state income tax office and have the procedure spelled out.

The shocker in your story is that you clearly got a bum steer from the IRS people who "helped" you fill out that first set of amended returns.

You don't pay state or local income tax on interest from bonds and other debt securities issued by the federal government. And you don't pay federal income tax on the interest from "municipal bonds" — those issued by states and their political subdivisions.

Q. — Our stocks are registered in mine and my wife's names. The dividend checks come made out in both names. Do both of us have to sign the checks, or can the checks be cashed with only one signature? Some banks will take the checks with only one signature; others won't cash the checks without both.

Also, do both of us have to sign the stock certificates in order to sell the stock, or is one signature sufficient?

A. — Let's take the second question first, because there are no ifs, ands or buts involved in the answer.

You both must sign the certificates in order to sell the stock. The certificates must be signed in the place provided on the back exactly as the registered ownership is printed on the front. If this isn't done, you don't make "good delivery" and no broker in his or her right mind will accept the certificates to complete the sale.

If you "cash" any check — for currency and change — it is supposed to be endorsed by the individual or people to who it is made out. Both you and your wife are supposed to endorse those checks you cash for folding money and coins. You may find a bank which will cash a check with only one of the two signatures But that should not be done.

If you deposit those dividend checks in a joint bank account of yours and your wife's, it's a different story. As lon as the check is endorsed "for deposit" in the joint account only one signature is needed. You can even use a rubber stamp or any other method of printing the "for deposit" endorsement.

Q. — Because of the low rate at which Series E, U.S. Savings Bonds build up interest, I feel that I'm losing money against inflation everyday. But, if I cash these bonds, I'll have to pay federal income tax on that interest.

Some friends say they read in your column that no tax will have to be paid if I cash my E bonds and reinvest the money. I would like to do this and put the money in tax-free municipal bonds. Is this possible?

A. — No. Your friends never read it here. If you redeem your E bonds, you have a federal income tax liability on the accrued interest you receive.

Your friends may be talking about the fact that you can postpone the tax liability on that E-bond interest by exchanging your E bonds for Series H, U.S. Savings Bonds. If you do that, you don't pay tax on the E-bond interest until you redeem the H bonds you receive in the exchange.

H bonds pay interest, by check, every six months — but at an average annual rate of only 6 1/2 percent over a 10-year period.

DOYLE welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.
