

Convention Invitation To Be Extended To Texas Club Women

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHER E. BEAN
Assistant Women's Editor

It is amusing to me to notice the advice that people give on how to keep your husband's love. The first thing I notice is that they haven't been married long and they are just as nervous as a cat on a hot tin roof. And they are just as nervous as a cat on a hot tin roof.

"My experience is," he says, "that a woman who is careful to preserve her physical attractions and will take the proper care of her hair and skin, and who is just as nervous as a cat on a hot tin roof."

Of course, I'm not very experienced in retaining my husband's love. I haven't been married long and I'm just as nervous as a cat on a hot tin roof.

For sponsors, the women's sportsman's club is introducing in Paris the manufacture of all-wool output of rough black tweed, according to a fashion note.

The black sport fabrics have a fine gray or white thread mixed in them. Others are all black. Black crepe jersey is also permissible for the sportswoman by Paris standards.

WATCH THEM DO IT! The program for the thirty-third annual convention of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs in Houston this fall has been sent to me by Miss Ollie Coon, general secretary of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

In the list of all of the wise cracks that people make about women's clubs, the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs is a serious-minded body and when the members have an objective they work toward a definite goal and are likely to accomplish their purpose.

I'm not blindly loyal to my sex. I know that there are clubs in which women do little except gossip and I know that women don't have to go to clubs to gossip or to gossip and I know that women don't have to go to clubs to gossip or to gossip.

THE CACTUS AGAIN The stamp of Paris' approval is on anything, the cactus is a thing that is not to be despised. I noticed a storm of criticism against the cactus in the favorite flower of French modern decorators and that you may buy in the cactus department of stores four pet prickly porcs or a choice spinning top.

THAT GIVES ME A GREAT IDEA. If there is anyone who wants to go into the business with me, I will stand sporting and make a lot of money. All I want my partner to do is to get out and hunt the specimens. Practically any part of the Llanos Estacado will do.

HERE IS SOMETHING THAT I DON'T THINK I shall care much about. A student in the University of the Philippines has invented a device to measure beauty. The machine consists of a circle of angles in which the beauty of the face can be mathematically determined by the purposes of comparison.

Representatives of Clubs Decide to Ask Federation To Meet Here During 1931

Delegates to Meeting This Year in Houston Are to Carry Bid; Convention Was Asked for 1930

A decision to renew Lubbock's invitation to the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs to meet in this city in 1931 was made Monday afternoon at a meeting of 12 representatives of women's clubs at the chamber of commerce offices.

This invitation was first extended to the state society in 1929 at the annual meeting in Mineral Wells. It was extended again at the annual meeting this year in Houston and at the state board meeting in January, when bids will be considered.

Representatives are being selected from the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs to meet in Lubbock in 1931.

Programs for the Houston meeting have been sent out to the press of the state by Miss Ollie Coon, general secretary of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

In addition to the general program, drives, luncheons, dinners, receptions and other entertainments will be offered.

Women Have Objectives. The convention theme for the meeting, this fall, includes the administrative objects of an aggressive public health program, a dearth of women in early high school, legislative action on prison reform and institutional care for drug addicts.

"Indeed," said the statement made by B. A. Cantrell of Amarillo, Texas, while at home talking with the Amarillo representative.

"I had a very severe case of constipation and never found anything that would do me any good and I was forced to take medicine which did not help and would have done me harm at times. It was in a very run-down condition and I was getting something to build me up."

"And, in this condition, I took the 'flu' and everyone was talking about Argotane and I read so much about it, I decided to take a bottle and see who it would work in my case. It certainly did what they said it would. Before taking Argotane I hated to get up in the morning because I was just as stiff and wore out as when I went to bed, but now I wake up feeling refreshed and ready for a good day's work. My constipation is a thing of the past now, and I am gaining and getting stronger every day. It has helped me to get on my feet and to get rid of the flu effects. Argotane has certainly toned my entire system. I think it is a fine medicine and I shall always speak a good word for it."

Genuine Argotane may be purchased in Lubbock at the Bowen's Drug store.

French-fried potatoes

—as quick as broiling a steak

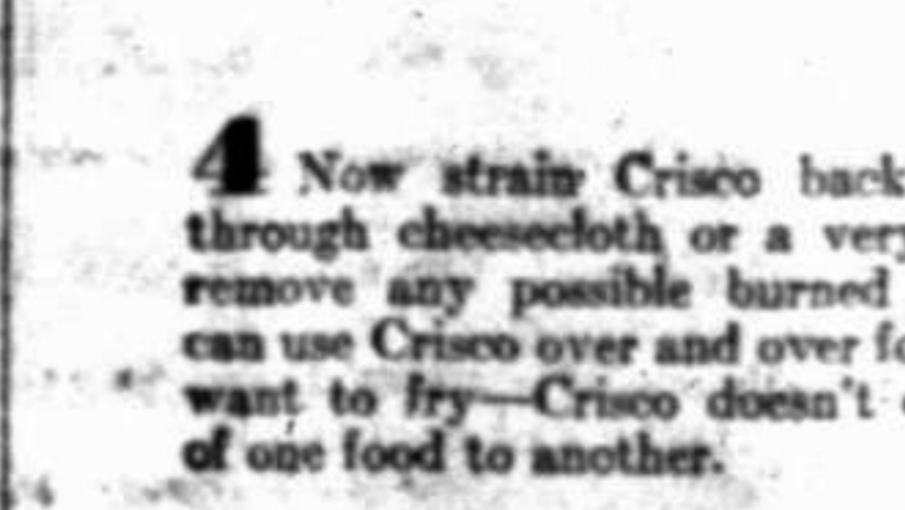

All you need is a large saucepan, a wire deep-frying basket (or strainer) and a 3-lb. can of Crisco.

Heat Crisco to 400° F. (a small cube of bread will brown in it in 30 seconds). Never wait for Crisco to smoke at proper frying temperature.

When the food is cooked, lift it from the fat. Hold the basket over the kettle to drain fat from the food. Finish draining on absorbent paper, paper towel or paper napkin.

Now strain Crisco back into the can through cheesecloth or a very fine sieve, to remove any possible burned particles. You can use Crisco over and over for anything you want to fry—Crisco doesn't carry the taste of one food to another.

STEWART OUTLINES BRIEF ANALYSIS OF SENATORIAL FIGHT IN DOUBTFUL STATES

By Charles F. Stewart, Chief Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Generally speaking the states (approximately one-third of the entire 48) where senators are to be chosen today are the objects of national politicians' keenest attention.

In a few, however, governorship fights overshadow senate contests.

Regarded as a wholesale proposition, nothing overshadows in importance the struggle for control of the next house of representatives, but with nearly 1,000 candidates in the field (counting independents), it is not yet possible even for experts to consider the situation in much detail.

State by State A once-over of debatable states suggests the following conclusions: Alabama—Prospects better than 50-50 for Bankhead (Dem.) for senate, but Heflin (Ind.) still formidable.

Colorado—For senate, race close between Shaw (Rep.) and Costigan (Dem.), with advantages perhaps slightly in former's favor.

Delaware—About 50-50 between Hastings (Rep.) and Bayard (Dem.) for senate.

Idaho—Borah (Rep.) considered as good as re-elected senator.

Democrats Hopeful Illinois—Except for an appalling normal Republican majority to overcome edge apparently with Lewis (Dem.) for senate against Mrs. McCormick (Rep.), with Mrs. O'Neill (Ind.) impossible of election, but promising to draw heavily from McCormick vote.

Iowa—Dickinson (Rep.) generally considered certain to win over Steck (Dem.), a gain of a senate seat for Republicans.

Kansas—Two senate contests: Allen (Rep.) versus McGill (Dem.) and Perkins (Rep.) for short term, and Capper (Rep.) versus Davis (Dem.) for regular six-year term. Victory of Allen and Capper considered foregone conclusion.

Kentucky—Anyone's fight between Robison (Rep.) and Williamson and Logan (both Dem.), respectively for short and long terms, as senate candidates.

Massachusetts' Battle Massachusetts—Senatorial indications seemingly favorable to Goodidge (Dem. w.) over Butler (Rep. D.) because of state's presumed wet preference, labor's open opposition to Butler and unemployment issue.

Michigan—Senatorially Couzens (Rep.) undoubtedly already the equivalent of re-elected.

Minnesota—Senatorial advantage somewhat with Schall (Rep.), but Hoidale (Dem.) fighting admirably. Lundeen (F. L.) unlikely of election.

Montana—Nip-and-tuck fight between Walsh (Dem.), a strong candidate but in danger, many think, by reason of his Republican opponent, Gale's, wetness, in a state wet enough to have repealed its baby vote law.

Nebraska—Norris (very progressive Rep.) generally considered safe against Hitchcock (Dem.), but still bitterly fought by conservative element in both major parties.

New Hampshire—Wide margin in favor of Keyes (Rep.) versus Noone (Dem.) for senate.

New Jersey—Walkaway foreseen by Morrow (Rep.) in senate race against Simpson (Dem.) and Thelma Parkinson (also Dem.) for short term.

New Mexico—Outlook decidedly favorable to Bristol (Dem.) versus Holt (Rep.) for senate.

North Carolina—Senatorially, the outlook strongly favors Bailey (Dem.), but Pritchard (Rep.) is regarded as having a fighting chance, by reason of ill-feeling engendered among Democrats during Bailey's primary fight with Senator Simmons, beaten for re-nomination.

Ohio—Fair senate impartial forecasters generally favor Bulkeley (Dem.) against McCulloch (Rep.), mainly on the strength of Bulkeley's wetness.

Oklahoma—For senate, nip-and-tuck race between Pine (Rep.) and Gore (Dem.), with perhaps a shade in the latter's favor.

Oregon—Senatorial chances strongly favor McKay (Rep.) though recent developments are reported to the advantage of Watkins (Dem.).

Pennsylvania—Davis (Rep.) so far outclasses Kistler (Dem.) that the latter's name is scarcely heard. Chances are for several Democratic congressional gains.

Rhode Island—Anyone's race between Metcalf (Rep.) and Gerry (Dem.) for the senate.

South Dakota—Prospects for senate favorable to McMaster (Rep.), but by a perilously narrow margin, as against Bulow (Dem.).

Tennessee—Brock and Hull (both Dem.) considered safe for short and long senate terms, respectively, against Meacham and Divine (both Rep.).

Texas—For senate, Sheppard (Rep.) as good as re-elected over Harris (Rep.).

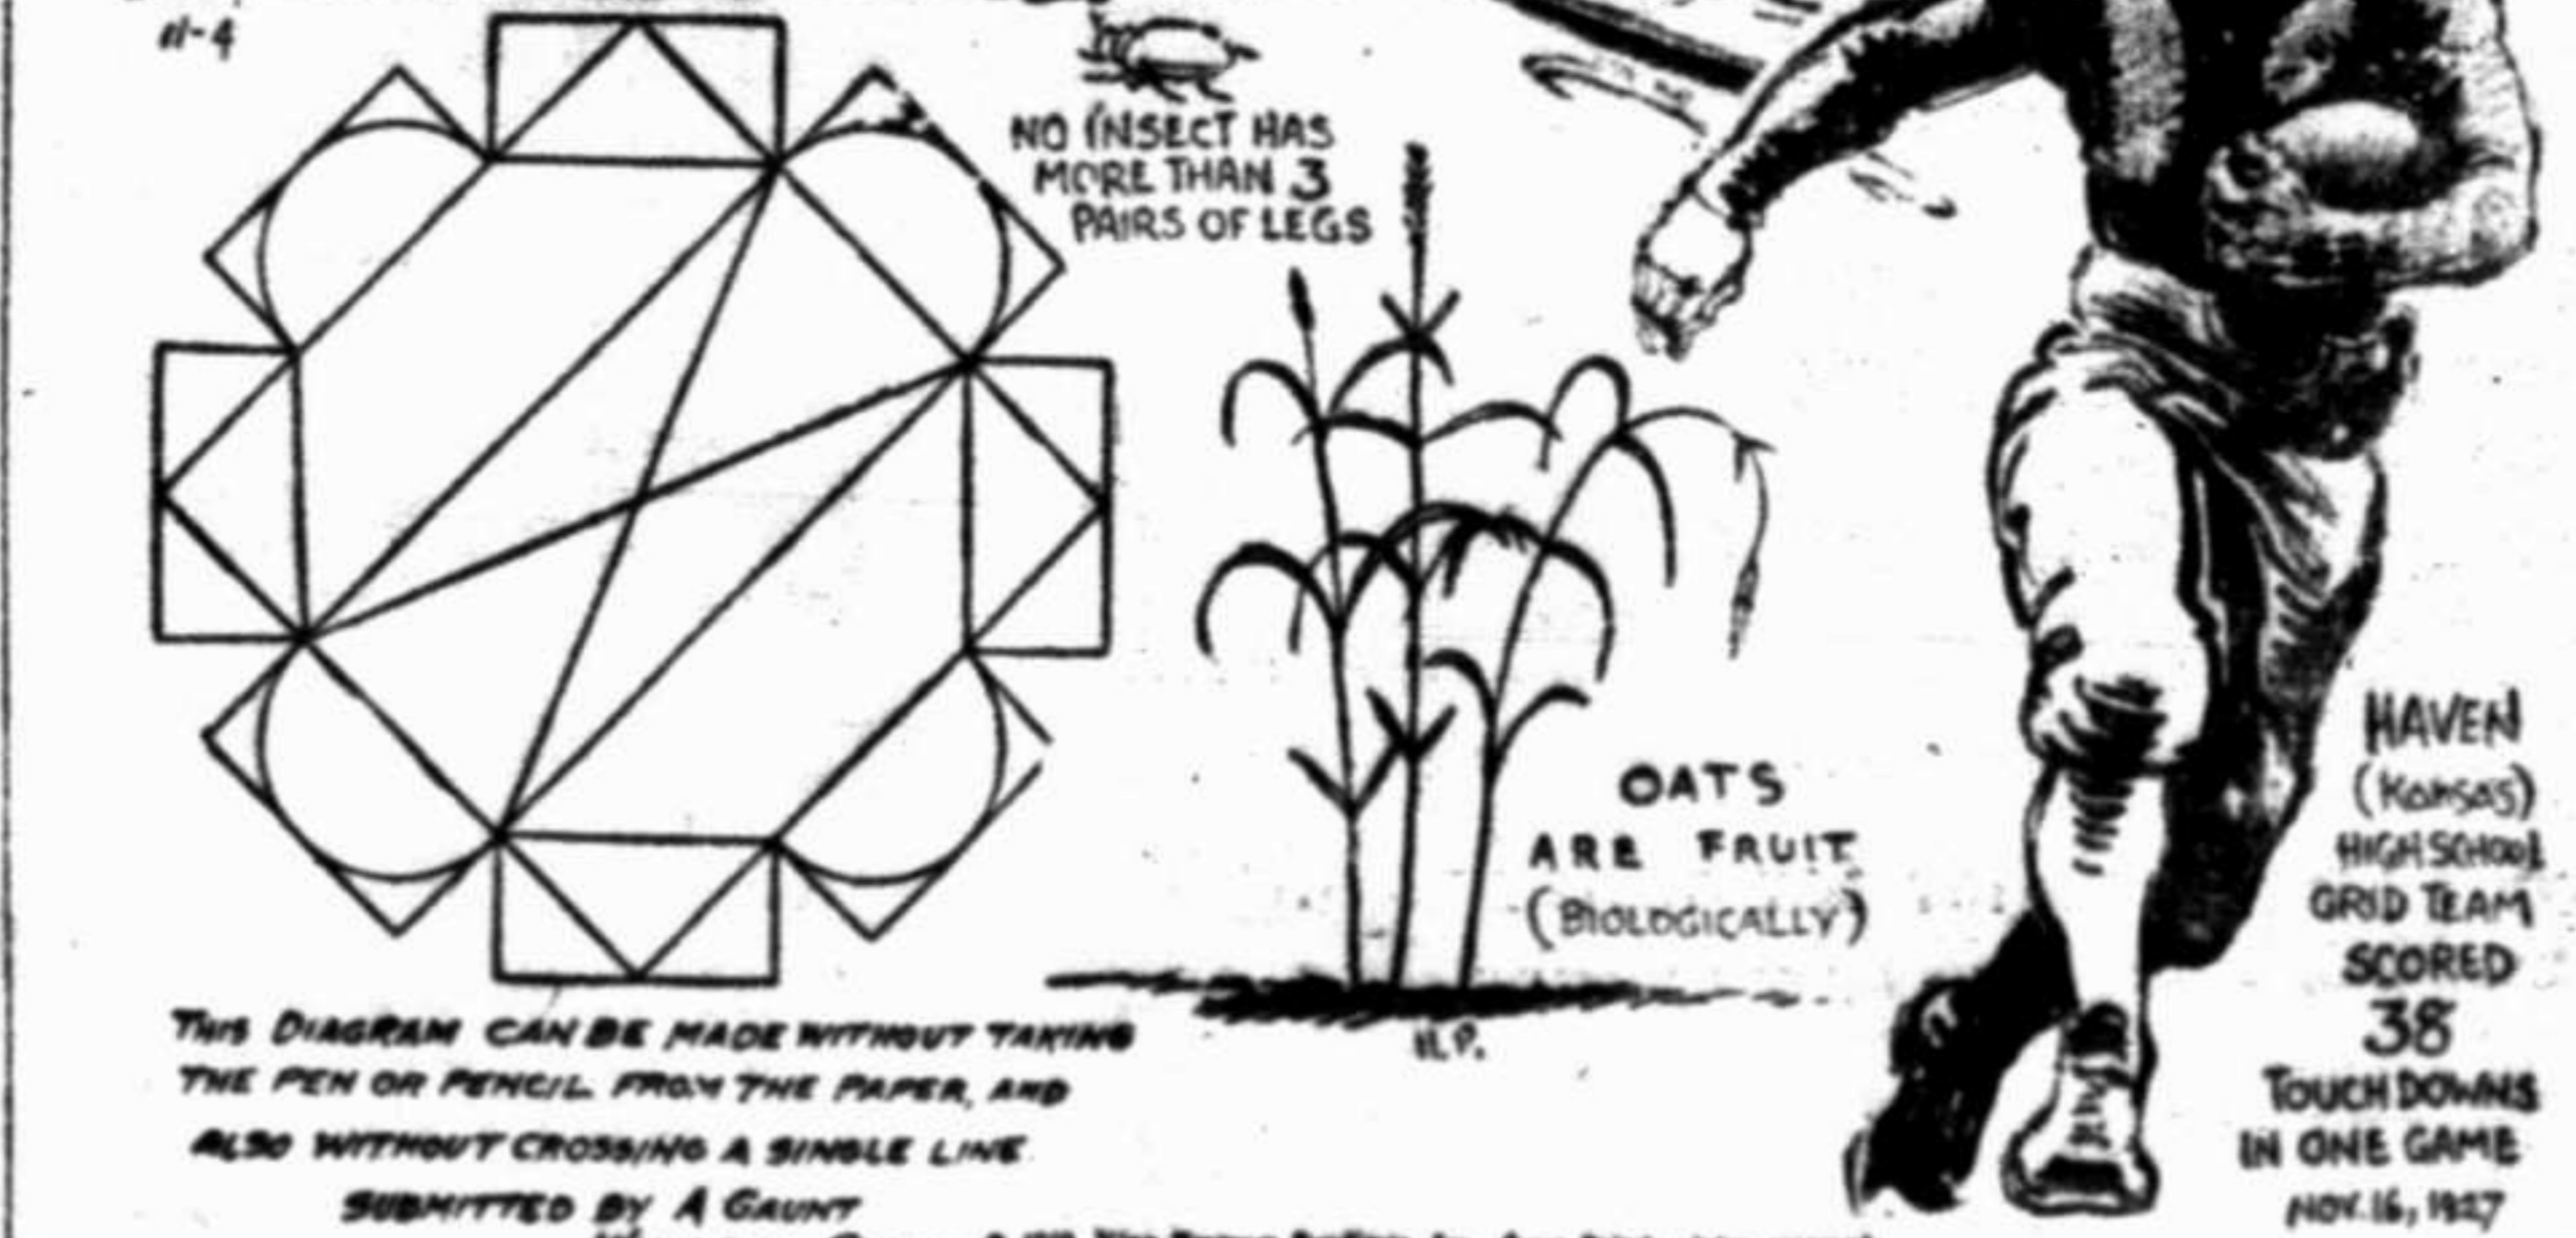

Virginia—Senatorial walkover assured for Glass (Dem.) versus Byrns (Ind.) and Morrow (Sec.).

West Virginia—Though a very persistently Republican state, senatorial chances of Neely (Dem.) considered excellent against Jones (Rep.).

Wyoming—Senatorial advantage seemingly favorable to Cary (Rep.) versus Schwartz (Dem.).

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON THE FITCH LAKE OF TRINIDAD This 'Lake of Asphalt' is located on the highest part of La Brea Point, Brighton, on the Island of Trinidad, off the coast of Venezuela. The lake was first discovered by Sir Walter Raleigh, March 22, 1595, who described its contents as stone pitch far superior to the European pitch. The asphalt is of excellent quality and is used commercially for street paving, and roofing, and from it is extracted many chemical by-products.

Geologists say the lake had its origin in the earth fracture of sufficient depth to reach a large oil and gas reservoir deep in the earth's crust. The escape, and gradual volatilization, of the extruding masses has left the present enormous asphalt deposit.

BEHOLD HERE TODAY! Adventure enters the life of CELIA MITCHELL, 17, when she learns the father she has supposed dead is alive and wealthy. She leaves her unpretentious home in Baltimore for a home in New York with her father, JOHN MITCHELL, and her aristocratic grandfather. MARGARET ROGERS, her mother, divorced MITCHELL and remarried and is now a widow, BARNEY SHIELDS, young newspaper photographer, is in love with the girl and before leaving for a week-end, TODD JORDAN, fascinating but with a dubious reputation is attentive to Celia and Mrs. Parsons encourages the match. When the other guests leave Celia continues her wait. LILL DUNCAN, socially prominent, invites her to a swimming party. Celia, narrowly escapes drowning and is rescued by Jordan. Her father hears of the affair and insists the girl must return home. The same evening Jordan calls and in a romantic scene tells Celia he loves her. She returns to New York and two days later attends a charity fair with her grandmother. A gypsy fortune teller reads Celia's palm and warns her of impending danger. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CELIA, XXVI "Danger!" Celia Mitchell asked. "What do you mean?" The gypsy was bending over the girl's hand again. "Two men," she repeated. "One man is dark, handsome. They make love to you. Both of them—Oh, Miss, she raised her eyes imploring. "I see trouble!" The old woman looked distressed. Celia stirred uncomfortably as the black eyes continued to stare at her. "But what is it?" she insisted. The gypsy put the girl's hand down on the table between them. "I am sorry," she said. "I cannot do it. I cannot read your future!" "Why—what's the matter? I don't understand." The old woman was shaking her head. The heavy gold hoops in her ears bobbed grotesquely. Then the gypsy's expression changed. Her face became completely blank. She took out the dollar bill Celia had given her and handed it to the girl. "I tell no more fortunes. Sorry," she said. Celia was both amused and annoyed. She wondered what trickery of fortune teller was behind this odd occurrence. Of course, the idea that the gypsy really had foreseen disaster in her palm was preposterous. The girl arose and, with a shrug of her shoulders, left the tent. Mrs. Mitchell was waiting. "What did she tell you?" she asked. "Nothing! Grandmother, she's just a fraud. She tried to frighten me by saying she saw danger in my palm and then when I asked what she meant she gave up and said she couldn't tell my fortune. Isn't that letter?"

Heavy Damage In Oil Blaze

Loss of $30,000 Sustained in Kansas Fire and Blast; Worker and Firemen Are Seriously Burned

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 3. (AP)—A spectacular oil fire punctuated by a series of explosions caused damage estimated at $30,000 at the White Eagle Oil corporation tank lot and shattered windows and shook passengers on a passing northbound Missouri-Kansas-Texas train here today.

A 3-inch stream of gasoline flowed about the plant for more than two hours while firemen and plant workers protected several large storage tanks of gasoline, oil, and naphtha from igniting.

The gasoline was loosed when a hose through which a tank truck was being loaded became dislodged, spraying gasoline over the ground.

Joe Myers, a dock man at the plant, cautioned the driver against starting the truck and ran for a steam hose in the boiler room. The fumes forming over the enlarging pool of fluid ignited, presumably from a spark in the boiler room.

Myers was burned dangerously and was in a critical condition at a hospital. Several firemen and Fire Chief Dan Donovan were burned in their successful efforts to check the spread of the flames.

GREAT STRIDES TAKEN IN PREVENTING DIPHTHERIA

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

From 1885 to 1895, the death rate from diphtheria in New York City varied from 125 to 145 for each 100,000 of the population. From 1895 to 1925, the rate varied from 10 to 20 for each 100,000 of the population.

Notwithstanding the fact that the population of the United States increased from 75,000,000 in 1900 to 120,000,000 in 1930, there was a steady decrease in the diphtheria rate, although it is much nearer a permanent level at the present time.

In 1895, a few years before antitoxin became available, there were 34,000 deaths from diphtheria in the United States, with the population about 45,000,000. In 1930 there would have been between 70,000 and 75,000 deaths from this disease if the rate had been maintained.

The actual fact is that the number was near to 10,000, an indication of the way in which scientific medicine is controlling this serious disease.

Eighty-five per cent of deaths from diphtheria usually occur in the first five years of life. Children are much more susceptible to the disease than are adults, and the disease is likely to get a better start in the child before it is properly diagnosed and treated than in the adult.

Among the advances in the control of diphtheria that have taken place since 1890 are, first, the discovery of antitoxin, which was and still is of the greatest importance for the treatment of the disease and for a while had certain usefulness in prevention; then came toxin-antitoxin, by which human beings can be made resistant to the disease for a period of seven to 10 years or longer. From 25 to 30 per cent of children have a natural immunity to the disease through the passing over of resistant substances from the blood of the parent.

It is estimated that approximately 65 per cent of adults living in cities will give a negative reaction to the Schick test, so that it would seem to be desirable that the Schick test be made on grown-ups before giving them toxin-antitoxin in times of exposure to diphtheria.

Common Horse Sense!

You buy a Goodyear Tire at the regular low price and the unquestionable 100 percent quality of Goodyear will not permit us to give you the second Goodyear free as an inducement to purchase the first tire.

Goodyear Tires have challenged the automobile owners the world over with their demands for quality. And as a gladiator of honest quality, fair prices, and greater tire service, Goodyear is found today leading the field two to one above all others. With some makes of tires, Goodyear is preferred thousands to one.

When you see a Tire, all you see is the surface. That is the extent of your inspection. You cannot see the interior construction. You have no common yard-stick with which to measure the extent of its true dollar for dollar value. You are not a chemist. You are not an engineer. You are the consumer who has the purchasing power of a commodity for a purpose.

You must depend on our word, plus the records of the Tire through the years. We don't ask you to take our word or anybody's word, but point to the records of achievement by Goodyear Tires. Here lies the conclusive proof of superiority. It's at the end of the service of the commodity you buy.

If you and I were two people who had never seen an automobile in our lives and did not know what tires were for, and our first car purchase was an automobile without tires, what tire would you and I purchase? Suppose then that all we knew was that there was one tire on which millions more people were riding than on any other, what would we do. We would find it to be Goodyear. We would buy Goodyear for:

Amarillo in Undisputed Lead with Five Straight Wins; Indians Coming Strong to Battle Westerners Here

Relegated to the background in the district I Class A high school championship picture by virtue of their technical loss to Amarillo last Saturday, the Lubbock High school Westerners were back on the Fair Park practice field yesterday afternoon and pointing to the clash with the Quanah High school Indians, who come to Lubbock Friday for the annual clash between the teams.

Dan Stalworth, formerly associated with Paul Tyson at Waco High school, is coach of the Quanah Tribe, and though the team has gone down in two district clashes, the Indians, who had no hope for the championship, will be battling for prestige when they meet the Westerners Friday on the Texas Tech field. A report from C. E. Davis, superintendent of Quanah public schools, said that the Indians were coming strong, backed by a special train load of rooters, and would take the field against the Westerners "with blood in their eyes." It will be a game well worth watching and rooting for.

The Agreement Upheld C. E. Davis, who is also chairman of the executive committee of District I, upheld the ruling of the Texas Interscholastic League and the agreement of coaches Henry Franks and Cherry Foster in regard to the tie game between Lubbock and Amarillo last Saturday, won by Amarillo on a technical count. The league ruling provides that some means be found to decide the tie of victory in case of a tie. There are three ways of doing this. Coaches or school officials may agree that first downs, yardage or scrimmage or 20-yard line penetrations decide to whom the victory should go in case of a deadlock. The score was 0 to 0, but Amarillo pierced Lubbock's 20-yard stripe seven times to none for Lubbock and led in first downs and yards gained from scrimmage.

Twice Champs Jackets Make Third Effort

After Week Behind Trinity and Southwestern, Jackets Lead Big Six by Crushing Waxahachie Gridsters

BROWNWOOD, Nov. 3. (Special)—After one week's absence from the top rung of the games won and lost percentage ladder, the Yellow Jackets of Howard Payne College, two-time champions of the Texas conference, have returned to their customary position out in front of other contenders, either past or present for the 1930 football championship. And as the Jackets climbed back on top Trinity University and Southwestern, co-leaders one week ago, were shunted on down the ladder.

The champion Yellow Jackets resumed the leadership of the Big Six by virtue of a crushing and most decisive win over the Trinity University Tigers, administered in Waxahachie on Friday afternoon before one of the largest crowds that ever witnessed a football game in that city. Howard Payne's veteran machine steam-rolled the Tigers in 45 minutes of the game and, with that done, breezed through to an easy victory. The powerful Yellow Jacket attack was centered around the flying feet of the veteran Nig McCarver, for three years an all-conference halfback and who in 1929 was voted the most valuable player in the Big Six. McCarver personally accounted for the first two touchdowns, the pass that hurled the second counter and others distinguished himself. He gained a total of 150 yards from scrimmage on running plays.

Not only did the decisive victory over the Tigers put the Jackets back in front of the chase for the 1930 title, but it established the Brownwood eleven as a topheavy favorite to breeze through to a third Texas conference football championship in as many years. The champions have only two more games, these being with St. Edwards and Southwestern, and both will be played in Brownwood—a decided advantage in itself.

Southwestern University, though toppled from the lead, lacks much of being out of the 1930 pennant hunt, as the Pirates' 13 to 13 tie game with the powerful Simmons team would indicate. The Pirates took a 13-point lead over the Cowboys in the first half of their arc light exhibition Friday night in Georgetown and had it not been for a determined power attack by the Cowboys in the last half the Georgetown Methodists would now be well out in front. For Simmons the tie game with Southwestern was indeed disastrous, in that it completely removed the Cowboys from further consideration in the 1930 championship race. But, despite the fact that Simmons will not win the title, the Cowboys can boast of one honor, that they played the 1930 champs to a tie, regardless of whether Howard Payne or Southwestern wins the crown.

Another tie game Friday afternoon at Sherman between Austin College and St. Edwards served to definitely eliminate the Kangaroos from the title chase, in that the Sherman Presbyterians' record shows one defeat and one tie in two games. St. Edwards had already been counted out with two defeats and a tie in three conference arguments. Neither Austin College nor Simmons could win the championship unless the champion Jackets drop their two remaining games, something that is most unlikely to happen, yet possible.

Matadors to Meet ACC Next Week No Game Saturday

After a season of six consecutive games, four at home and two abroad, the Texas Tech Matadors will rest in their camp this weekend, but will be working hard all of the time in preparation for the game next Tuesday with the Abilene Christian college eleven. The game will be played here as a special Armistice day celebration.

The Matadors were impressive, though defeated, in a game with the Canyon Buffaloes last Saturday at Canyon. It was homecoming day for West Texas State Teachers' alumni, and before hundreds of student and ex-students, the Buffs, led by Cow Williams, burly halfback, eked out a 6 to 0 victory after being outplayed in every department for three quarters of the game. Statistics show that the Matadors were more than equal to the Buffs in yards gained and first downs.

hands of the T. C. U. Frogs last Friday, and are due to be in fighting spirits when they meet the Matadors. Coaches Cavthon and Morgan are working their charges hard this week against a possible let down and a probable inspiration that may come as results of last week's encounters for both the teams.

ly, thinking how pleasant the afternoon might have been if Lief and her gay crowd had been there. The Duncan family's social standing was satisfactory, Mrs. Parsons had said. It was queer about society.

It was not long before she saw Mrs. Mitchell coming toward her. There was a triumphant business in the elderly woman's manner.

"Why, she's wonderful!" she exclaimed as she reached the girl. "Celia, she told me everything!"

"You mean the fortune teller?" Mrs. Mitchell nodded, then began to detail the remarkable occurrences of the past, present and future which had been revealed to her. She was convinced the gypsy was the seventh daughter of a seventh daughter. She said the "reading" had been amazing.

Celia listened thoughtfully. "It's funny she finished with me so quickly, isn't it?" she asked.

"My dear, that worries me!"

The girl laughed carelessly. "Oh, of course, nothing to be afraid of. I'm not going to become superstitious over a little thing like that."

Mrs. Mitchell answered guardedly. Several times during the drive home she had the girl repeat to her privately on the telephone in the library. The sound of his voice set her pulse beating more rapidly.

"Can't you see for yourself?" she begged. "When am I going to see you?"

At that particular moment Celia would have given almost anything in the world to drive with Jordan, but she knew her grandmother's views. She could not possibly introduce a young man whose engagement with her father's not grandmother knew and say, "We're going off for the evening."

plaining alterations here and there would make the gown perfect.

The purchase was settled upon immediately. Charlotte was to send slippers and underthings as well. She brought out a white velvet wrap that made Celia look like a Parisian fashion plate.

"Humph! That's enough for one day!" Mrs. Mitchell announced and the shopping trip was over.

The next two days were busy. Evelyn Parsons telephoned, came to see Mrs. Mitchell, and gave Celia lists of errands. The birthday celebration was to be a dinner party followed by dancing. It was to take place on a fashionable hotel roof.

The packages arrived from Charlotte. Everything fitted perfectly. Wednesday afternoon Celia took a long nap so that she would be fresh for the evening. Martha was to help her dress. It had been arranged that Mrs. Parsons and Mitchell and Celia should go to the hotel together. Mrs. Mitchell had declined to attend such a youthful affair.

It was nearly seven o'clock when Celia came downstairs wearing the beautiful white gown. Evelyn, standing in turquoise, was in the drawing room with John Mitchell.

"Father," the girl said slowly. "I was asked to give you this."

She handed him an envelope addressed to John Mitchell. It was an enclosure from the long birthday letter Celia had received from her mother.

"I want you to give the enclosed note to your father," Margaret Rogers had written. "Please don't mention it to anyone else."

Mitchell took the missive, glanced at it, then laid it on the table.

"Who's ready," he told the girl.

"Do you have your wrap?"

Celia disappeared. Thus it happened that when a call came for Mitchell a moment afterward Evelyn Parsons was left alone. She looked quickly over her shoulder, then picked up the envelope.

Five minutes later Mitchell was back. He had forgotten the message. All that remained of Margaret Rogers' letter was a tiny pile of fresh ashes on the grate.

Konjola Very Medicine That Fit This Case

Amarillo Lady Rejoices Over Results Obtained From New And Different Compound

MRS. ETTER STANLEY

"For twenty years I tried to free myself of stomach trouble, constipation, kidney and liver trouble," said Mrs. Etter Stanley, 1220 West Fifth street, Amarillo. "Even specially prepared foods did not digest. Gases formed and bloating pains resulted. My kidneys were so weak that night risings were frequent. I had dull pains across my back. Neuritis gripped me and I became almost helpless at times and suffered untold agony from piercing pains."

"Konjola seemed to just fit my case. Soon after starting the treatment I began to feel better. Now, after finishing the treatment, I feel like another person. Food now digests as it should and I feel better than in years. The pains of neuritis are rapidly leaving me. My kidneys have been strengthened and function properly. I am gaining in weight and strength."

It is the same glad story whenever Konjola is given a real test. Try this medicine for ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis, and nervousness.

Konjola is sold in Lubbock, Texas, by Bowen's Drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

IF YOU KNEW

HOW INEXPENSIVE IT IS TO HAVE GAS HEAT

If you are putting up with makeshift, bothersome heating because you think gas heat is too expensive, you don't know Clow Gasteam radiators. Clow Gasteam does a far better heating job at very moderate cost. Along with fuel economy, you get modern, safe, healthful heating—the dirtless workless way. And no central boiler, steam piping, or basement space is needed. Don't think of putting up another winter with faulty, bothersome heaters before you investigate Clow Gasteam. Visit our showrooms, or phone us at once. Early Terms if Desired.
