Plaque dedicated to Catholic school

St. Anthony's School graduates Adeline Schumacher Loerwald, left, and her sister, Marie Schumacher Loerwald, stand with Helen Rose after the unveiling of a state historical plaque Saturday at the Deaf Smith County Museum. Adeline Loerwald graduated in 1930 and was named the school's outstanding alumnus on Sunday. Her sister graduated in 1928. The plaque presentation was held in conjunction with the school's 75th anniversary celebration.

St. Anthony's celebration ends with marker ceremony, liturgy

Seventy-fifth anniversary festivities at St. Anthony's Catholic Church wound to a close during the weekend as a plaque was unveiled heralding the school's first permanent building and the outstanding alumnus was chosen.

A large crowd blocked Sampson Street in front of the Deaf Smith County Museum on Saturday, basking in warm temperatures and waiting for the unveiling of the plaque.

County Judge Tom Simons presided over the dedication, speaking from the steps of the museum.

The building, he said, was first used in 1927 as the school, then was converted to the museum 26 years ago.

At Simons' request, former St. Anthony's students who attended school in the building were asked to raise their hands, revealing that most of those present had done so.

Many of them brought children and grandchildren with them, then stayed for a reception inside the museum to look at the old school-house.

On Sunday, the school hosted a special liturgy in St. Anthony's Church.

During the service, 1930 St. Anthony's School graduate Adeline Schumacher Loerwald was selected as the first Distinguished Graduate and honored with an award presented by the National Catholic Education Association.

Mrs. Loerwald was one of six people nominated for the award. She was praised as a mother of seven, all of whom attended St. Anthony's School, and for her work in the parish since then.

She was noted for her work through the Women's Organization, for writing the church bulletin for many years, for teaching Religious Education classes and for her work with the Diocesan Council of Catholic Women.

In addition, information included in the nomination of Mrs. Loerwald cited her work with the Diocesan Pastoral Council, as well as numerous community awards and activities, plus her being awarded the Pro Ecclesia et Pontifical award from Pope John Paul II for active role in church life in 1985.

Other nominees for the distinguished graduate award were: Sr. Helen Ohlig S.A., 1935 graduate; Susie Loerwald Dolle, 1954; Drew Kershner, 1958; Carmen Betzen Flood, 1962; and Janie Reinart Banner, 1966.

Hawkins awaits last appeal on death row

Hereford woman was one victim

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) - A three-time convicted killer today awaits word on last-minute appeals to stop his scheduled execution for killing a Borger woman more than 17 years ago.

Samuel Hawkins, 49, faces lethal injection before dawn Wednesday for fatally stabbing Abbe Rodgers Hamilton, 19.

The trial court in Lubbock rejected Hawkins' appeal Monday, sending the case to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, his attorney, Clifford Harrison of Houston, said.

Hawkins, a butcher by trade, confessed to using a hunting knife to kill Mrs. Hamilton, who was six months pregnant at the time of her slaying.

He told police when he was arrested on July 1, 1977, that he was looking to rape someone and began checking doors of houses in Borger until he found the Hamiltons' open.

Mrs. Hamilton was asleep in bed when Hawkins put a knife to her throat. He said the startled woman jumped, causing the knife to cut her and she became hysterical. Then he stabbed the woman more than 20 times.

In his appeals, Hawkins, who is black, contends his father coached him as he was growing up, saying that the way to get back at white men was to rape and kill white women.

Hawkins also was convicted of the 1976 death of a 12-year-old Potter County girl who was abducted from her home while she was asleep. The victim was raped and her body left in a culvert near Panhandle in Carson County.

He also received a life sentence for the 1976 rape and beating of a 21-year-old Hereford housewife and served prison time in Colorado for rape and Oklahoma for burglary.

GOP seeking compromise on school funding bill

AUSTIN (AP) - A "Robin Hood" school funding proposal would win crucial GOP support in the House if lawmakers agree to place other items on the same statewide ballot, a Republican leader says.

Rep. Tom Craddick of Midland, head of the House GOP caucus, said Monday the group still opposes "Robin Hood" redistribution of local property tax money from property-rich to poor school districts. House Republicans previously have blocked such a measure.

But on the eve of today's expected House vote on school funding, Craddick said Republicans want to compromise.

He said they would support letting Texans decide the local tax redistribution issue if the ballot also included provisions to allow a school voucher program, take away court jurisdiction over school funding, forbid property tax increases without voter approval and do away with unfunded state mandates.

"This lets the people decide what they want to do," Craddick said. But House Public Education

Richards says state to be more flexible

On economic development permitting

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Ann Richards, urging local government officials to be patient during trying economic times, says the state is working to give cities more economic flexibility.

"We're in a frantic balancing act as we try to meet rising expectations in local communities with fewer resources," Richards said Monday in a speech to the Texas Municipal League. "But the state can do its part by giving you as much of the precious commodity of flexibility as we can."

Richards said the Texas Water Commission is loosening state mandates that will spur economic development in cities. For example, the commission is working to reduce the time it takes for a business to obtain an operating permit, she said.

Richards also said she plans to sign legislation this session to increase from $10,000 to $15,000 the value on government contracts that would not require bids.

Richards urged local officials to begin trade relations with neighboring states and countries to increase future business.

She also asked that cities expand job training programs to target specific areas in which jobs are available. She promised that the state, through a proposed Smart Jobs Fund, would provide about $50 million per year for local training. That measure has been adopted by the Senate.

Pledging to end the historical squabbling between the two levels of government, Richards announced that she has granted emergency status to two bills relating to municipal procedures.

One measure, by Sen. Don Henderson, R-Houston, would validate a Houston bond election. The other, by Sen. David Sibley, R-Waco, would allow cities to establish ordinances to provide penalties for persons who fail to perform required duties. Both have passed the Senate.

"Historically the relationship between state and local government has not been the best," Richards said. "I'm pleased that we are finally seeing a new dynamic of intergovernmental relations."

County eyes smoking ban

okays tax abatement plan;

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

A ban on smoking in the Deaf Smith County courthouse ran into a parliamentary roadblock Monday, but the reprieve promises to be temporary.

During their regular meeting, county commissioners put off a decision on a request to prohibit smoking permanently in the courthouse, but agreed to permit the Mid Plains Pioneer Association to post no smoking signs at the Bull Barn during the group's annual meeting in May.

In other business, the commission: -- Awarded the county depository contract to First National Bank for a two-year term.

-- Approved a 10-year tax abatement program for Panhandle Milling.

-- Agreed to sell, as surplus, a snow plow from Precinct 4.

-- Accepted a proposal from Beverly Harder, county extension agent, to provide bond for Corda Glover to handle funds generated by extension activities.

A discussion of about an hour by proponents of the smoking ban and among commissioners ended when Troy Don Moore, Precinct 3 commissioner, offered a motion to ban smoking in all county buildings.

After some discussion on whether the prohibition extended to precinct barns and the Bull Barn, the motion died for lack of a second.

A reason cited for delaying action was that the posted agenda for the meeting listed the courthouse only for the ban.

Then Moore suggested that the proposal related to all county buildings be placed on the agenda for the next commission meeting, but he persevered on the ban in the courthouse, offering a motion to prohibit smoking in the building.

Again, his motion failed to get a second by another commissioner.

"Am I to assume you don't want to ban smoking in the courthouse?" asked County Judge Tom Simons.

Commissioner Johnny Latham of Precinct 4 said he has "no problem" with the ban in the courthouse but questioned the need in precinct facilities.

None of the commissioners or elected officials present at the meeting stated opposition to the ban, although Precinct 2 Commissioner Lupe Chavez suggested that a "designated" smoking area be provided in the courthouse.

A letter from Sue Schroeter, deputy county clerk, was the basis for the commission discussion. She cited the Environmental Protection Agency's report on the dangers of secondhand smoke to humans and suggested that computer floppy discs and hard discs could be damaged by smoke.

She also asked that smoking be prohibited in restrooms.

Mrs. Schroeter's letter called attention to the number of courthouse visitors who smoke while waiting in hallways, adding to the problem in offices, as well.

Judge Simons said he counted seven elected officials and employees

City woman glad to be alive after crash

Mrs. Bill (Norma) Walden, longtime Hereford resident, ran into a "hostile herd" Saturday night, but it wasn't the HHS Whiteface crew she's learned to love over the years.

Mrs. Walden's car struck seven head of cattle just east of Dawn Saturday about 9 p.m. as she was heading home from visiting a daughter in Amarillo. Though sore and nursing a bruised knee Monday, she felt "very fortunate" her injuries were not more severe.

Another motorist stopped and called for an ambulance after the accident, and Norma was taken to the emergency room at Deaf Smith General Hospital. She went home after treatment. Her doctor checked the knee again Monday. "He will be checking it again in a few days to try and determine if there is internal damage," said Norma.

The cows had escaped a field and wandered onto the highway. Five cows were killed from the impact and two others were injured badly and had to be slaughtered. Mrs. Walden was told.

The front end of the Walden Cadillac was totaled by the crash and the windshield was caved in and partly shattered as a result of one of the animals landing on the hood.

"I was driving along and a motorist headed the other way blinked his lights at me," said Mrs. Walden. I blinked my lights and looked to see if the "bright" light indicator was on. Then there was a thud and I saw about three cows flying through the air."

Norma never lost consciousness and she was able to open the door of the car. "I either had my seat belt fastened or the Lord was with me, or both," said Norma. Later, she said she was sure about the seat belt, because she was sure where the strap was across her body.

Mrs. Walden's son, Cory, said a Hereford man told him Sunday that he drove by the accident but didn't know it was the Walden's car. "I told my wife: I hope the driver of that car knew the Lord. I thought someone was probably hurt real bad."

Man charged here for shooting brother

Hereford resident David Tijerina, 30, was listed in satisfactory condition in Amarillo's Northwest Texas Hospital after he was shot in the back during a weekend altercation.

Tijerina's brother, 23-year-old Adan Tijerina, was arrested Monday in connection with the incident and charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon.

According to police Cpl. Brent Harrison, officers were called at about midnight Sunday by David Tijerina's wife, who said her husband had been kidnapped by his brother.

Officers went to Adan Tijerina's home in the 100 block of Kibbe St., where they were told the situation was under control.

At about 1:15 a.m. Sunday, however, police were called to Deaf Smith County Hospital, where David Tijerina was being treated for a gunshot wound to the back.

There, Tijerina told officers that he had ridden with a friend from his brother's home to his parent's house at 512 Knight.

Adan, the victim said, drove up to the house armed with an unknown-caliber rifle and shot David Tijerina once in the back.

A warrant was issued for Adan Tijerina's arrest Monday afternoon and he was taken into custody by police.

David Tijerina was taken to Amarillo for further treatment.

COUNTY-----

in the courthouse who smoke, excluding jail personnel.

The work force in the courthouse numbers approximately 75 persons, including elected officials.

Tax Assessor-Collector Margaret Del Toro suggested that each department head establish a policy for that department.

The district clerk, Lola Fay Veazey said she believes that if the ban is imposed in the courthouse, it should extend to all county facilities.

Assurance that "offices will abide" by the commission's decision was voiced by the county treasurer, Vesta Mae Nunley. Also taking part in the discussion was Sheriff Joe Brown.

First National Bank will continue as the county's bank depository on the same terms as the previous two years. Chavez offered the motion to accept the contract and, after second by Latham, the vote was unanimous.

A statewide extension service rule calls for persons handling money to be bonded for that purpose. Harder told the commission. She said that Glover is responsible for money on an "in and out" basis from the county's extension program council fund and the 4-H shooting sports fund. Commissioners unanimously approved the request.

Tax abatement, beginning with 1994, was voted for Pioneer Milling. The abatement was the subject of a public hearing on Jan. 25.

Expansion of the firm's facilities is expected to add approximately $325,000 in value to the Deaf Smith County tax rolls.

The abatement will relieve the company of 50 percent of the tax bill on the addition -- approximately $7,700 in county taxes -- for each of the next five years. In the second five years of the abatement period, the company will pay 25 percent, or $3,850 per year.

Pioneer Milling will be responsible for taxes in the same amount as the abatement provides during the 10 years. A brief presentation on programs offered by Deaf Smith General Hospital was given to the commission by Mark Collier, management care coordinator for the hospital. Discussion of the proposals will be placed on an agenda at a future commission meeting.

Man charged in shooting spree on trial in Amarillo

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer
FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - There was no hint of trouble that morning.

Outside, the stately old courthouse shimmered under a fiercely hot summertime sun. Inside, the halls hummed with the sounds of pre-holiday activity.

The date was July 1, 1992.

The gunman climbed unnoticed to the fourth story of the pink granite building, strode across the marbled floor, entered the hunter green courtroom and quietly took a seat.

Shortly before 10 a.m., he rose from the wooden spectator bench and without a word or warning opened fire with a semiautomatic pistol.

A prosecutor fell dead. Two judges and a third man were wounded.

The intruder chased down an attorney who fled the courtroom and killed him on a stairwell with a burst of gunfire.

With the Tarrant County Courthouse in pandemonium, the man descended the stairs, made his way down a hallway and melted into the downtown pedestrian traffic.

Six hours later, after eluding a manhunt, Arlington attorney George Lott surfaced at a Dallas television station and claimed credit for the massacre.

"I was shooting at the bench and the judges," he said.

In a rambling, disjointed interview televised by WFAA-TV, Lott said he wanted to draw attention to a flawed, indifferent judicial system rife with corruption.

He was angry over a long, nasty divorce case and child custody battle.

"It is a horrible, horrible thing I have done today," he said. "I may have failed completely. You have to do a very, very horrible thing to catch people's attention."

Shards of glass from shattered windows still litter a dead space behind the bench where three appellate judges sat when the shooting began. Blackened bullet holes decorate the miniblinds.

Downstairs, guards and security devices now greet courthouse visitors.

And beginning Tuesday, an Amarillo jury will determine the fate of George Lott, who, if anything, is more defiant now than at the time of his arrest. Jury selection is expected to end Monday.

Lott insists on defending himself because he wants to make a statement on the system he so profoundly detests.

"He wants his message heard and doesn't want it distorted or filtered

Ruth Kerr honored by Bay View members

Honorary membership was conferred on Ruth Kerr by members of the Bay View Study Club in appreciation for her years as an active club member when the women met recently in the home of Margie Mims.

Also, during the meeting with Vice President Pat Fisher presiding, Kathryn Ruga was welcomed as a new club member.

Following the reading of the club collect, Audine Dettman presented the program entitled "Jews and Palestinians As They Are Now." Beginning her talk with the story of Abraham and the covenant made with God, Mrs. Dettman traced the beginning of both Jews and Arabs.

Mrs. Dettman pointed out that in 63 A.D. Rome extended its dominance all around the Mediterranean Sea. The first early churches were of the Gentile race. The speaker explained that in 570 A.D., Mohammed was born at Mecca and because of the death of both of his parents, he was raised by a wealthy uncle. He was dependable in responsibilities given him by his uncle in that he dealt in trade with the caravans coming through his country. He then met a wealthy widow who hired him. They eventually married.

Mohammed spent time in meditation in a cave trying to discover the meaning of life and it was here that the Angel Gabriel appeared and told him he would establish a new religion and after several meetings with Gabriel Mohammed was led to believe that there is only one God.

Mrs. Dettman continued, "The Meccan leaders were angered by his teaching that there is only one God and by his attacks upon their worship of idols. He fled to the city of Medina. This flight is called Higura and is considered to be of such importance that the Moslem calendar starts with that date.

"Mohammed went to Jerusalem and built a mosque on the site of the Rock of Abraham in Jerusalem which is called the Dome of the Rock."

Those present at the meeting were Margaret Bell, Beth Burran, Lou Davis, Pat Fisher, Mary Fraser, Virginia Garner, Elizabeth Holt, Helen Langley, Margie Mims, Ruth Newsom, Helen Rose, Kathryn Ruga, Lois Scott, Betty Rudder, Edna Gault, Lois Gililand and guest, Audine Dettman.

The other division, the Blue division, also was made up of 5A and 4A teams, but they played different courses so the scores aren't comparable. Midland High edged Andrews in the Blue division.

The Hereford High School tennis team won 16 of 25 matches against Brownfield Saturday in Brownfield.

Ruiz falls in 3rd pro fight

Hereford's Jaime Ruiz lost his first professional fight after two wins, losing by unanimous decision to Chris Hamilton Friday in Dallas.

"He's a left-hander; that's what gave me trouble," Ruiz said. "I got dropped twice in the second round (of the four-round fight)."

Ruiz hopes to fight again in about a month, he said.

Aikman creates stir with vanishing act

DALLAS (AP) - Forget Waldo. Where's Aikman?

One minute Troy's in Honolulu playing in the Pro Bowl, the next minute he's gone.

A week earlier, he stuck around long enough in Pasadena, Calif., to throw four touchdown passes in leading Dallas to a 52-17 Super Bowl rout of Buffalo and earn MVP honors. But Sunday was different. Early in the fourth quarter of the AFC's 23-20 overtime win over the NFC, Aikman mysteriously left Aloha Stadium for Honolulu International Airport. He didn't even tell NFC coach George Seifert.

On Monday, the Cowboys' quarterback, still dazed by all the attention heaped on him, called a Fort Worth, Texas, radio station to talk about his early departure.

"I was on Cloud Nine until I left the game. I didn't realize it was going to cause the fuss that it had," Aikman told radio station KSCS, where he did a weekly call-in show during the season. "The problem was I had an 8 o'clock flight that I had to catch."

"I didn't think I'd have to leave the game early to make it, until I realized at halftime it had taken over two hours to play the first half."

His abrupt departure caused rampant speculation. Where was he? Why did he leave? Was he angry with somebody? What was he thinking?

Everybody wanted to know, including the NFL, which promised to investigate, and radio stations were deluged with callers Monday morning.

Aikman said he told NFC teammate Steve Young and some other players he was leaving, but the coaches never got the message. Neither did the NFL.

"I talked to Steve Young, and said, 'Steve, there's not going to be a problem with me leaving early, is there?' And he said, 'Oh, no, Joe Montana left before the game one year,'" Aikman said. "All the way back I'm hearing about me not being there for the end of the game, and now I'm getting fined or what have you."

NFL spokesman Joe Browne said "we're reviewing Troy's early, unannounced exit from the game, and I'm sure someone from our office will be contacting him for an explanation. But beyond that I would be speculating as to what action might be taken."

"I'm not aware of a precedent of a player leaving early in the fourth quarter of a Pro Bowl game."

Cowboys spokesman Dave Pelletier said Aikman called from Dallas on Monday to tell the team he had to leave on an early flight because he had a Monday morning meeting with his charity organization, the Troy Aikman Charity Foundation.

Aikman played in the second quarter and the first series of the third, completing 10 of 15 passes for 120 yards, including a 9-yard scoring pass to Dallas teammate Michael Irvin. Seifert said he didn't believe Aikman would have played any more if he had remained.

AFC beats NFC in OT

HONOLULU (AP) - The NFC dominated again. Only this time, the AFC won.

Mustering just 114 yards of total offense to the NFC's Pro Bowl-record 472 yards, the AFC made its own breaks Sunday for a 23-20 overtime victory.

The AFC, which has lost nine straight Super Bowls and had won just one of the last four Pro Bowls, blocked two field goal attempts and turned those into 10 points, got another 10 points with the help of interceptions and, finally, at 4:09 of overtime, converted a fumble by San Francisco's Steve Young into Nick Lowery's 33-yard field goal for the game winner.

As a sign of how the game went, Buffalo's special teams star Steve Tasker was voted the MVP of the first Pro Bowl to go overtime.

Tasker blocked a field goal attempt by New Orleans' Morten Andersen in the fourth quarter and bobbled the ball down the field. AFC teammate Terry McDaniel of the Los Angeles Raiders finally scooped the ball up and ran 28 yards for a touchdown that made it 20-13 with eight minutes left in regulation.

Young came up with some late heroics to send the game into overtime, driving the NFC down the field and throwing a 23-yard touchdown pass to Rodney Hampton of the New York Giants on fourth-and-12 with 10 seconds left in regulation.

But Young, who threw three interceptions, then lost his costly fumble in overtime when Derrick Thomas of Kansas City tackled him from behind. Howie Long of the Raiders fell on the ball at the NFC 28, setting up the third field goal of the game by the Chiefs' Lowery.

The AFC's other scores came on a 31-yard interception return by San Diego's Junior Seau, a 42-yard field goal by Lowery after the Chargers' Leslie O'Neal blocked an Andersen field goal try and Miami's Bryan Cox returned the ball to the NFC 35, and Lowery's 29-yard field goal after the Bills' Henry Jones intercepted an Aikman pass.

Andersen field goals of 27 and 37 yards accounted for the NFC's other scores.

Seau led the AFC defensively with five solo tackles, four assists and one pass deflection, in addition to his interception for a touchdown.

Astros sign core trio

NEW YORK (AP) - Drayton McLane, the new owner of the Houston Astros, certainly doesn't mind paying the big bucks.

On Dec. 1, McLane spent $19.5 million on a four-year deal with Doug Drabek. Two days later, he agreed to a $17 million, four-year contract with Greg Swindell. And on Monday, he committed $32.3 million for three players at the nucleus of his team: third baseman Ken Caminiti, second baseman Craig Biggio and center fielder Steve Finley.

Biggio is guaranteed $11 million, while Caminiti is guaranteed $10.9 million and Finley $10.4 million.

Five other players agreed to one-year deals Monday, leaving 41 remaining in arbitration. Outfielder Larry Walker and Montreal settled at $3 million, more than triple his $975,000 salary last season.

Lakers fend off Mavericks 108-100 in overtime

By The Associated Press

Once again, Patrick Ewing came up big and Dallas came up short. Ewing scored a season-high 40 points Monday night, including 10 in overtime, as the New York Knicks made Philadelphia their fifth straight victim, 120-115.

Ewing made 17 of 30 shots from the field and 6 of 7 at the foul line to top his previous high this season, 35 points against Phoenix on Jan. 18. "Our defense was good and that is the reason we prevailed," Knicks coach Pat Riley said. "But the value of Patrick as a major threat is what we are all about. You have to go to your strength and live off that."

Dallas almost won its first road game of the season before falling to the Los Angeles Lakers in overtime, 108-100. The Mavericks, now 0-20 away from Reunion Arena, haven't won outside Dallas since their final road game last season at Denver. "I thought we outplayed them for most of the game," said Derek Harper, who led the Mavs with 23 points. "We played tough and gave ourselves a chance to win it. That's all we can ask for." In other NBA games, Utah beat Orlando 108-96 and Washington downed Houston 106-100. Lakers 108, Mavericks 100, OT At the Forum, Byron Scott scored 26 points and A.C. Green sparked a decisive 12-2 overtime run for the Lakers. Green finished with 16 points after scoring six straight during the key run. James Worthy scored 20 points and Sam Perkins added a career-high 17 rebounds for the Lakers. Knicks 120, 76ers 115, OT At Philadelphia, Greg Anthony had 17 points and 11 assists, and Anthony Mason added 15 points and a career-high 18 rebounds for New York.

"We're finally starting to put it together," said Ewing, who scored 18 of the Knicks' last 24 points. Hersey Hawkins scored 26 points for the Sixers.

Jazz 108, Magic 96 At Salt Lake City, Karl Malone had 23 points and 14 rebounds, and Utah used a 13-1 run early in the fourth quarter to beat Orlando.

Jeff Malone scored 22 points and Tyrone Corbin, who made 10 of 12 shots, added 21 for the Jazz. John Stockton finished with 18 points and 15 assists for Utah.

Bullets 106, Rockets 100 At Houston, reserve forward Larry Stewart scored 21 points in 24 minutes as Washington defeated the Rockets.

Stewart hit seven of eight shots from the field. The Bulls double-teamed Houston center Hakeem Olajuwon, who was held to 17 points.

Murphy joins Dr. J in Hall of Fame

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) - Former Houston Rockets guard Calvin Murphy isn't an almost hall of famer anymore.

After being listed three previous times, Murphy finally was voted into the basketball hall of fame on Monday.

"So often in my career I got to the almost stage," Murphy said. "I was almost a first round draft choice. I almost made the Olympic team in 1968, I almost got a championship ring in 1981, I almost made the Hall three times.

"I've finally achieved something that puts everything in perspective. This is the ultimate. Everything's about timing and this was my time."

Murphy was Rockets' second round pick in 1970 when the team was in San Diego and played his entire career with the Rockets, retiring after the 1983 season.

Murphy will be inducted into the hall on May 10 along with former NBA stars Julius Irving, Walt Bellamy, Dan Issel and Dick McGuire, Soviet Olympic standout Ulyana Semyonova and Olympic star Ann Meyers.

And the acceptance speech is already written, Murphy said.

"I've got mine from four years ago, I just need to change the date," he said. "I really don't know what I'll say. I'm a very emotional person."

Murphy became frustrated when he wasn't enshrined last year and asked that his name be removed from the ballot.

"It was kind of embarrassing to be almost get in," Murphy said. "It's about ego and as you know, I'm a person who believes in himself. Coming into the fourth year, I tried to lay back so I wouldn't be that big disappointment."

"That made it more exciting when they decided I was qualified."

Murphy, 44, ranks third on the NBA's all-time free throw list with an .892 percentage. He holds records for the best free throw percentage (.958 in 1980-81) and most consecutive free throws made (78, Dec. 27, 1980, Feb. 20, 1981).

Murphy averaged 17.9 points for his 13-year career. His best season was 1977-78 when he averaged 25.6 points and scored 1,949 points, one of 11 consecutive 1,000-point seasons.

Murphy was drafted in the second round by the Rockets out of Niagara, where he averaged 33.1 points in 77 games, the fourth best average in NCAA Division I history.

Murphy said his rookie coach, Alex Hannum, gave him his chance to show a small guard could play in the NBA.

"He said 'people are looking to see what you do before they start giving other little guys a chance,'" Murphy said. "I didn't have the luxury of coming in and waiting my turn. I had to make an impact quickly, not just for myself but for the little guy."

Riding Styles

NEW YORK (AP) - Eddie Arcaro and Tod Sloan, two of the greatest jockeys of American racing, also introduced new language to the turf lexicon.

At the turn of the century, Sloan's unique style of riding, different from the other jockeys, was termed "monkey-on-a-stick."

Several decades later Arcaro popularized uneven stirrups, in which his left iron was lower than his right. This became known as "acey-deucey" riding.

Cal shocks hoops by firing Lou Campanelli

By CHRIS SHERIDAN
AP Sports Writer

He recruited freshman sensation Jason Kidd, reached the Top 25, broke a 52-game losing streak to UCLA, won more games in his first five years than any other coach in school history and got California to its first NCAA tournament appearance in 30 years.

All that apparently wasn't enough for the athletic director at Cal, as coach Lou Campanelli was fired Monday night in favor of a "fresh approach."

"We're making the change because I wasn't happy with the direction of the basketball program," director of athletics Bob Bockrath told a news conference at Berkeley, Calif.

"We all want to thank Lou for his many contributions to helping the basketball program here at Cal, but I think our program needs a fresh approach at this time."

Campanelli, 54, who was informed of the decision Monday afternoon, scheduled a news conference for this afternoon.

"I am just appalled. I can't begin to say ... a man of his stature. In our profession, he's considered among the top 15," said UNLV coach Rollie Massimino.

"He does everything by the book and he works at an institution that breeds the stressing of education, and then they give him a letter that says 'You're fired.' That's just appalling. I can't begin to say how appalling and how upset that makes me," Massimino said.

Assistant coach Todd Bozeman, 29, will take over for the rest of the season and the school will undertake a nationwide search for a new head coach, Bockrath said.

The Bears (10-7, 4-5) are tied for sixth place in the Pac-10 and have lost three straight since a 16-point victory over Wake Forest. They were ranked 19th after a 5-0 start and were expected to contend for the conference title.

In the Top 25 Monday night, No. 3 Duke beat Clemson 93-84, No. 10 Florida State beat No. 24 Virginia 99-84, No. 12 UNLV beat Long Beach State 95-83 and Missouri surprised No. 23 Kansas State 67-51.

in the first half put Duke up 33-31, his second tied the game at 57, his third ended a 7-1 spurt to make it 64-58, and his last two opened 6- and 7-point leads, the last with just 2:37 remaining.

Duke (18-3, 6-3 ACC) missed just one of its final 23 free throws and ended 27 of 32 overall. Devin Gray led the Tigers (12-7, 2-7) with 22 points.

No. 10 Florida State 99, No. 24 Virginia 84

At Tallahassee, Fla., Douglas Edwards scored 25 points and Bob Sura added 20.

Florida State (17-6, 7-2) overcame a career-best performance by the Cavaliers' Ted Jeffries, who had 23 points and 19 rebounds. Virginia (13-5, 5-4) pulled within six points on three occasions early in the second half before Florida State used a 13-2 run to open a 63-46 lead with 11:28 left.

No. 12 UNLV 95, Long Beach State 83

At Las Vegas, J.R. Rider scored 31 points, Dexter Boney added 23 and Evric Gray had 20 points and 10 rebounds as the Runnin' Rebels (15-2 overall, 8-2 in the Big West) won their 59th straight at home.

The Rebels held a 56-54 lead before outscoring the 49ers 18-8 over a span of 8:14 to make it 74-62 with 8:38 remaining. Long Beach (14-6, 6-5) didn't get closer than five points after that.

Missouri 67, No. 23 Kansas State 51

At Columbia, Mo., Kansas State lost its focus after hearing it had earned a Top 25 ranking for the first time in five years.

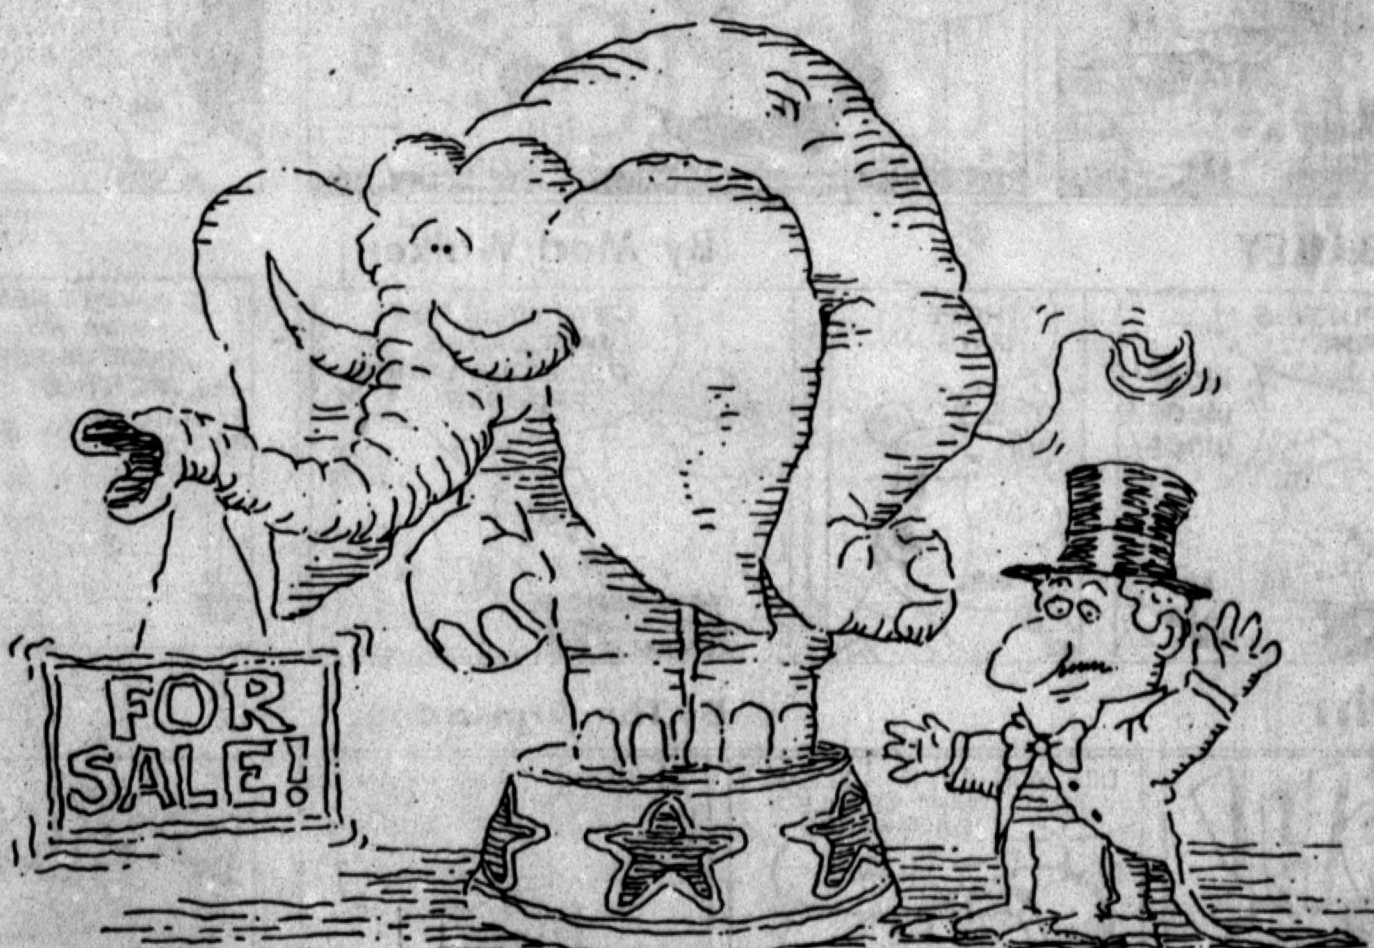

"We saw the ranking on ESPN at the hotel and we didn't come prepared for this game," said Kansas State's Vincent Jackson.

The Wildcats (14-4, 4-2 Big Eight) missed their first nine shots, fell behind by 13 points in the first half and never recovered. Missouri (15-6, 4-2) led by as much as 19 in the second half.

Derek Weber chosen participant

Derek Weber, a third grader at Tierra Blanca School, was selected from among 34 contestants at the school to participate in the Texas Bluebonnet Award Ceremony scheduled March 11 in San Antonio. Tierra Blanca was chosen as one of 10 schools in Texas to have a student involved in the special ceremony.

Weber, the nine-year-old grandson of Clyde and Irene Weber, will be accompanied to the award ceremony by Diana Griffin, classroom teacher, his uncle, Randy Moore, and Beverley Lambert, Tierra Blanca librarian.

The Texas Bluebonnet Award reading program for Texas children was established to encourage the adventure of reading, explore a variety of current books, develop powers of discrimination and identify their favorite titles. Young readers in grades three through six read from a selected master list each year and cast their votes for their favorite book in January. The author of the winning book is honored and presented with an award during the Texas Library Association's spring conference.

Tierra Blanca held a contest among third grade students who qualified as voters in the Texas Bluebonnet program. The three judges, Margaret Bell, Rosemary Shook and Rick Jackson, listened to students introduce themselves, give the name of their town and make a short speech about the book they liked best.

Other third grade students competing in the recent competition were Amanda Alvarado, Peter Barba, Marylisa Cadena, Jose Cadena, Jesus Carrasco, Carlos Geigel-Cruz, Jennifer Herrera, Jameka Smith, Tanya Adams, Amanda Davila, Zac Davis, Ariana Garcia, Brandy Jesko, Javier Martinez, Holly Nanes.

Also, Melissa Vela, Valeria Vitela, Loretta Muniz, Andy Gonzales, Sean Bradley, Veronica DeLa Cruz, Leticia Gutierrez, Jennifer Zetsche, Lily Esparza, Virginia Martinez, Josefine Rodriguez, Jerome Sanders, Ashley Stucki, Alfonso Zambrano, Gregory Zepeda, Jesse Enriquez, Pamela Pacheco and Gilbert Cortez.

Red Cross Update

BY BETTY HENSON

Through the international movement of the Red Cross, the American Red Cross plays a vital role in humanitarian activities.

The Red Cross in Croatia and Slovenia has distributed food to more than 500,000 people and also delivers the mail because the postal system is dysfunctional.

The American Red Cross has donated $657,990 in medicine and relief supplies as well as providing 20,000 tons of food through a government grant in former Yugoslavia.

For ICRC operations in Somalia, which is the largest relief effort since World War II, the American Red Cross has contributed $1.7 million in medical supplies and technical aid. It also supports a hospital for war wounded, sponsors 42 community kitchens and has donated food, relief supplies and medicine.

Congratulations to the employees of Custom Cleaners. The staff has completed a community CPR class. Special thanks to Pat Trotter and Albert Mitchell and the employees of Frito Lay for participating in a safety meeting.

The Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Red Cross is a United Way Agency.

Harder gives program on changes in food packaging

Deaf Smith County Extension Agent Beverly Harder presented the program, "Changes We Are Going To See In Food Products in the Future", when members of the Wyche Extension Homemakers Club met recently at the Hereford Community Center.

Harder explained that there will be different kinds of packaging with the emphasis being on smaller portions of favorite foods. She also said that for controlling stress, people need to watch their diets and eat correctly, especially dark greens. For those wanting to control their cholesterol, they should eat high fiber foods and smaller portions. She mentioned that there will be new techniques for research of foods to make them safer for consumption.

Carol Odom, council delegate, gave the council report reminding members of the Annual Appreciation Luncheon planned at noon Feb. 22 at the Hereford Community Center. The Hereford Brand will recognize the Club Woman of the Year. Each of the clubs' members need to bring two meat dishes and others need to furnish vegetables, salad or dessert.

Members were reminded that the council would cater the annual Camp Fire Banquet.

Louise Axe gave the opening exercise, "A Slice of Life", by Edgar Guest. Vada Batterman led the T.E.H.A. prayer and the pledge to the United States flag. Roll call, "The Newest Food Product I've Tried", was answered by the 12 members present.

Bonnie Duke was recognized as a visitor.

Hostesses, Louise Axe and Clara Trowbridge, served refreshments to Mary Lou Aven, Vada Batterman, Argen Draper, Virgie Duncan, Jo Lee, Camelia Jones, Carol Odom, Coreen Odom, Pet Ott, Barbara Sterne, Bonnie Duke and Beverly Harder.

The next club meeting will be at 2:30 p.m. Feb. 18 at the Hereford Community Center with Virgie Duncan and Carol Odom serving as hostesses.

Snacking healthy with food corn

Snacking on corn chips can cure between-meal hunger pangs. But healing malnutrition with munchies has been a dietary "don't" for decades.

That may change. Two protein-rich food corn hybrids, bred by Texas Agricultural Experiment Station researchers, could re-write nutritional guideline charts.

"Parents won't be able to complain that children are consuming junk food when they eat chips made from this corn," said Dr. Tony Bockholt, an Experiment Station corn breeder at College Station.

Bockholt said one white corn hybrid and one yellow corn hybrid are ready for release to seed companies in 1993. The companies then will commercialize the hybrids for farmers to plant.

Corn is a starchy carbohydrate; a good energy booster but low in lysine and tryptophan, two essential amino acids in protein. Yet corn is a universal grain and often the staple of impoverished nations. Nutritionists believe adding essential protein to corn could reduce malnutrition and related diseases.

Efforts to improve the protein content of corn began more than 30 years ago, Bockholt said, after some protein-rich corns were discovered in Mexico. But those varieties produced low yields of grain that was too soft to withstand processing. Dr. Norman Borlaug, a Nobel laureate who now teaches at Texas A&M University, encouraged Bockholt and other Experiment Station corn breeders to convert the protein trait from the Mexican corn into the hard kernel American grain.

That effort, which produced the two hybrids thus far, continues. Trial corn grown in five Texas regions is evaluated for yield, disease resistance and other production data. Laboratory tissue culture also is used to identify some seedling plants with the desired qualities.

The Experiment Station calls the resulting hybrids Quality Protein Maize, or QPM; high protein food corn that yields well and processes well, Bockholt said.

"It's good for snack foods and Mexican foods such as taco shells, tamales and tortillas," Bockholt said. "It makes no difference how it is eaten or cooked. It's a value added corn that can satisfy the Recommended Dietary Allowances for protein."

Beyond satisfying farmers and nutritionists, corn also must process well to receive a QPM rating. In a corn chip and tortilla "factory" lab at Texas A&M, trial food corn is evaluated to see if it has potential for commercial food use.

"The major difference can be simply that a trial corn was too soft," said Dr. Lloyd Rooney, a cereal chemist who researches grain processing quality and methods. "If the kernels break during handling and can only be cooked with care, the result is a poor quality product."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You missed the mark in your response to "Heavy Duty Problem" whose borderline-diabetic daughter was sneaking sweets. What do you mean by asking, "Where is your family doctor?" Your question SHOULD have been, "Where is the girl getting the sweets she is sneaking?"

Unless the family doctor is grocery shopping and cooking for this family, he should not be held accountable for the problem. The person shopping and preparing meals is largely responsible for the weight gain in the husband and the 16-year-old girl who is 35 pounds too heavy.

To get on the right track, this family needs:

1. Dietary counseling for the entire family

2. Diabetic instruction. This girl is 16 years old. She needs to accept some responsibility for what she puts into her mouth and understand that diabetes isn't a curse, it's a manageable condition.

3. Family counseling. Why Mom worried about a 16-year-old not having a date? She'll have plenty of time to date once she gets her eating disorder under control. Dad also needs to get HIS eating under control. As long as he condones what his daughter does, she will continue to sneak food and get fatter.

Finally, Mom needs to take responsibility for the food brought into the house if she is the cook. Being from the South myself, I understand how easy it is to fry everything instead of trying to cook in a way that is healthy.

Ann, you blew it. Not only did you take the blame off the people who were responsible, you didn't go far enough when you suggested counseling. This family can be healthy if they work at it together. —A Diabetic R.N. Who Knows

DEAR R.N.: Your letter was a lot better than my answer. I appreciate being hauled up short by readers who know more than I do. Thanks. I needed that.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My neighbor's son just got his first adult teeth. His mother was concerned because the teeth are badly discolored. The dentist told her the boy's teeth had been over-fluoridated and she should not be surprised if 90 percent of his permanent teeth grow in looking like that. She had been giving him fluoride tablets and buying toothpaste that contained fluoride in the belief that "more is better."

My dentist says nobody who has fluoridated water should take the tablets. I hope this will save some of your readers in the heartache that my neighbor is now experiencing. —Live and Learn in Northern Calif.

DEAR N. CALIF.: Thanks for the information. Here's more: Dr. Marvin Berman, a pediatric dentist in Chicago, says it is indeed possible for teeth to come in discolored due to over-fluoridation. He also agrees that fluoride tablets should not be used if the child is getting a normal amount of fluoridated water.

Much can be done to help children who have discolored teeth. It is important however, to wait until they are older and the teeth are mature. Bonding, microabrasion and capping are three options. Thanks to modern dental medicine, no one needs to go through life with ugly teeth.

Gem of the Day: (Credit Robert Frost) Half the world is composed of people who have something to say and can't, and the other half consists of people who have nothing to say and keep on saying it.

Lonesome? Take charge of your life and turn it around. Write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "How to Make Friends and Stop Being Lonely." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.15 (this includes postage and handling) to: Friends, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.
