SISD board reorganizes

Secret ballot vote was error, Moseley confirms

Three school trustees took their oaths of office Thursday night, but board division remained apparent as a new board president was chosen on a 4-3 secret vote.

Following the swearing-in of Place 4 trustee Mark McCormick, Place 5 trustee Janet Stribling and incumbent Place 1 member Glenn Clarady, the board elected its new officers.

Charles Anderson was nominated for president by Geraldine Parker and Clarady nominated Luann Burleson. Mrs. Parker then asked that the board vote using paper ballot.

Mrs. Burleson was elected on a 4-3 vote. Friday morning, Supt. Dalton Moseley said an error was made in permitting the secret ballot. "I can assure you it was done unintentionally, but state law and board policy is clear that all votes by the board must be done publicly. It just slipped by me. We intend to let the decision stand unless someone challenges it."

The board unanimously elected Mrs. Parker as vice president and Anderson as secretary.

Out-going trustees Ann Walton and Billy Bob McMullan were recognized and given a plaque of appreciation for their service.

The board approved the hiring of two teacher-coaches at the high school, and accepted 13 resignations.

On the recommendation of Athletic Director David Baugh, Steve Qualls of Tahoka was named girls varsity basketball coach, physical education and history teacher. Robert Wood, coming from Springtown, will be an assistant varsity football coach and will teach biology.

Five resignations were accepted from retiring teachers. They are Billie Harding, high school librarian; Jeanelle Hammack, fourth grade at East Elementary; Gayle Wittie, first grade at Northeast; Bobbie Taylor, fifth grade at Northeast; and Mary Jimm Floyd, third grade at Central.

Eight other resignations were accepted. They were Gary Patter-

Clinton says...

House endorsement begins new era of deficit reduction

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton today hailed a critical House endorsement of his economic package as the beginning of a new era of deficit reduction as the administration tried to generate momentum for a tougher Senate fight ahead.

"It restores both spending cuts and tax increases to a proper balance," Clinton said of the package endorsed by the House Ways and Means Committee. "It will bring the deficit down by $500 billion over the next five years."

At a morning education ceremony before holding an afternoon news conference, Clinton joked with teachers that the budget policies of the Reagan and Bush administrations — and Congress' support of them — had convinced him "nobody could have passed math in this town in any of your schools in the last 12 years."

The House is expected to pass the package later this month and send it to an uncertain fate in the Senate, where there is more opposition to some of the tax increases and a more fragile Democratic majority.

So Clinton, with the assistance of top administration economic advisers, quickly made the House action part of the White House's new campaign to revive sagging public support for the package. As he did in unveiling the package in February, Clinton said the bulk of the new taxes were on the rich and argued those reaching down into the middle class were fair.

Republicans who oppose the measure criticize it for having one of the biggest tax increases in history. The administration chose to focus on another milestone: saying it was the biggest deficit reduction in history. "A deficit reduction package to change the course of our economy," Treasury Secretary Lloyd Bentsen called it.

Budget Director Leon Panetta hailed the quick House action as "a clear sign that the president's program is on track."

Acknowledging the uncertainty of the Senate debate, Bentsen said, "I expect there will be more changes. But we're not going to lose sight of the fact that our job is to reduce the deficit."

Picking up the fairness argument, Panetta said Clinton had demonstrated a willingness to make politically tough changes to Medicare and Social Security.

Ira trustees select officers for '93-94

Ira school trustees met Thursday to reorganize the board, approve supplies and a calendar for 1993-94, and add a communications course.

The first action for the board was to swear in newly elected members Darryl Calley in Place 1, Kirby Sterling in Place 2 and Lance Autry in Place 3.

The board then reorganized, electing Keith Clements as president, Sid Wall as vice president and Gwen Cumbie as secretary.

Trustees adopted a 1993-94 calendar which indicates teachers will begin the new year on Aug. 9 with two days of in-service. Classes will begin Aug. 11 and the first semester will be completed prior to the Christmas holidays. Graduation is set for May 27, 1994.

Trustees also approved the implementation of a radio-television curriculum, as presented by the budget committee. The district is planning on participating in a microwave subscription television broadcast with a number of other area schools. Under the plan, each school would be alloted a number of hours to air its own programming.

Ira is preparing for that programming by offering the course, and will be taping various programs for future airing. Start-up of the broadcast has not been scheduled.

In other action, trustees awarded fuel bids to Matlock, Inc., of Colorado City; janitorial supplies bids to SJS; milk to Gandy's; and instructional supplies to various firms. Food service, athletic and office supplies were tabled due to a lack of bids.

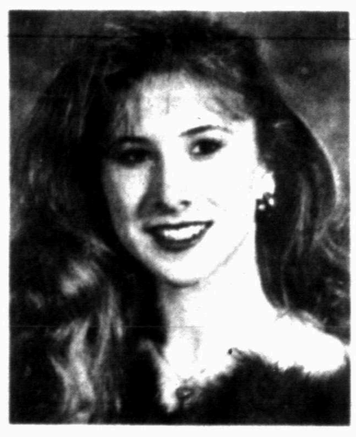

The board also agreed to renew its present contract for delinquent tax collection services and approved teacher-requested supplies for 1993-94.

Prior to wrapping up the meeting, trustees also voted to seek bids for the purchase of a pickup, car and 15-passenger bus to replace outdated equipment, and to pay bills.

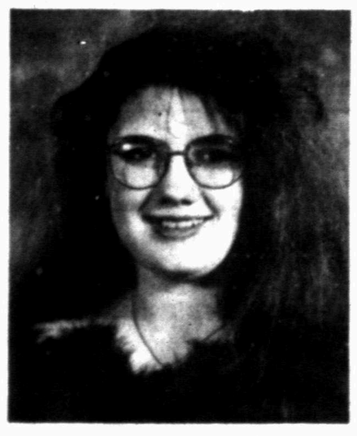

All trustees were present Thursday. The board's next meeting has been set for 7:30 p.m. June 10.

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

Personnel managers are now "human resources." Cutting the work force is "delayering." Another called it "surplusing" and a third company labeled it "creepback." Now more savvy call it "rightsizing, outsourcing or smartsourcing."

If you want to set a goal, you can call it "benchmarking" or the company needing to set new prices may call it "resource-based relative value scale."

--Involuntarily leisured means to get fired.

--Terminally inconvenienced translates to dead.

James Roberts, in the Andrews County News, has spent some time in Austin during the legislative session.

He told about being in a capitol restroom when a man came in and parked himself at an adjoining urinal. The new arrival said: "God, I love to come into this place."

Leery of talking to strangers, Roberts muttered a simple, "Huh?"

"Yes, I just love coming to the restroom."

It seemed appropriate to inqure why.

"It's the only place in this building where everyone here knows exactly why they are here, what they are doing and completes the job on time."

Based on legislative performance, Roberts agreed that the restroom may be the last bastion of [illegible] capitol.

Congresswoman hopes bill on China won't reach vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Nancy Pelosi hopes the bill she has spent years promoting, setting conditions on China's trade status, never reaches a vote in Congress this year.

For three years, following Beijing's crackdown on the Tiananmen Square democracy movement, Pelosi has helped pass legislation linking U.S.-China trade to human rights and weapons proliferation issues. Each time, President Bush vetoed the legislation and renewed unconditional trading status.

Again this year, the San Francisco Democrat has introduced a bill, with wide support in the House, that would renew most-favored-nation status for one year but condition future renewals to Chinese reforms in human rights, arms dealings and unfair trade practices.

But now there's a Democrat in the White House, and an administration that says advancing human rights is a pillar of its foreign policy.

"I'm confident about Bill Clinton," Pelosi said in an interview. She believes Clinton will issue an executive order that incorporates some of her ideas and eliminates the need for another fractious political battle.

"I'm proud of the legislation, but the president, being the president, can improve on it," she said. "I consider legislation a last resort."

Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, agreed. Congress has tried to legislate conditions on China "not only as a means of influencing Chinese behavior, but also because it was the only available tool for influencing Bush administration policy," he said.

That's no longer necessary, Hamilton said because "Congress and the president can now work together in setting U.S. policy."

Clinton has until June 3 to decide whether to renew for another year China's most-favored-nation status, which gives it the low tariffs enjoyed by most U.S. trading partners.

The administration's top official on China, Assistant Secretary of State Winston Lord, visited Beijing last week to warn the Chinese that trade conditions were likely unless dramatic progress was seen on issues such as human rights.

As a candidate, Clinton criticized Bush for ignoring political repression in China, but since taking office he has acknowledged the importance of not isolating the Chinese as they make halting steps toward reform.

The Chinese, in what has become an annual ritual before the trade status comes up for renewal, have sought to spruce up their image by releasing some political prisoners and dispatching trade delegations to show China's commitment to reducing a trade surplus with the United States that topped $18 billion last year.

Pelosi said one possibility is that the administration will link the future trade status to a better human rights record, but will deal separately with the issues of arms dealings and the trade imbalance. China recently was accused of shipping M-11 surface-to-surface missiles to Pakistan in violation of a 2-year-old pledge to stop such sales.

The congresswoman says she might accept that arrangement. But she insisted on the importance of her bill, which also urges the Chinese to cease religious persecution in China and Tibet, end jamming of Voice of America broadcasts and allow human rights monitors access to trials and prisons.

The votes for passage are there, she said, "and it's a good way to get the attention of the Chinese."

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Today, a curious third party might try to make you disclose some confidential information you know about a mutual friend. Don't betray the trust.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Someone who is not one of your favorite people might try to trip you up today if he or she knows in advance about your intended objective. Keep your intentions to yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you ask others to give you their honest opinions regarding something about which you're enthused, you might get irrelevant answers you won't want to hear.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Associates can be led today, but they cannot be pushed in an arrangement where collective effort is required. If you attempt to do so, you could produce an undesirable reaction.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're an effective worker today, provided you aren't doing something where a lot of details are involved. Small complications could sever your patience.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Guard against inclinations today to prejudge events from a negative perspective. A poor attitude could have a debilitating effect upon your performance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you compare what you have with others who have more, you could become discontented with your lot in life today. Be smart and grateful by thinking about people who have less.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Failing to weigh your words carefully could cause you to make some comments today that you'll wish you could retract. Bite your tongue rather than speaking without thinking.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Something that you're involved with could be meaningful to you in material ways, and it can be improved upon to your benefit, but it will take some serious adjustments.

Military moves in Yugoslavia now on hold

By Barry Schweid
AP Diplomatic Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — At the Pentagon, strategists are planning air strikes and other military measures against the Bosnian Serbs. But those options, including suspension of the arms embargo to help the Muslims, are on hold.

The reason: America's closest allies continue to hope that the Serbs somehow will accept an international peace plan and cease their hammering of helpless civilians in Bosnia-Herzegovina.

The record does not support those hopes. But another test is approaching. This weekend Bosnian Serbs are voting in a referendum on the plan drafted by U.N. mediator Cyrus Vance and Lord Owen of the European Community.

AP analysis

"It might produce something," President Clinton said Thursday, though he was mostly skeptical. His chief spokesman, George Stephanopoulos, put it this way: "We don't put much stock in the referendum. The most important thing is what they do on the ground, not what they say."

In fact, Stephanopoulos said, "the approach (Clinton) laid out to the Europeans is the way to go."

That approach calls for allied aerial attack on Serb artillery sites and getting weapons to the outgunned Muslims. The Europeans declined to sign on when Secretary of State Warren Christopher sought their approval in talks with the leaders of 10 NATO countries and Russia last week.

So, the military strategy is on the shelf while the United States pursues a diplomacy-driven strategy that has at its center these facets:

—Pressuring Serbian President Slobodan Milosevic to halt all traffic to his proxies in Bosnia. Trucks are still getting through, and his promised embargo is less than 50 percent effective. Whether weapons are still crossing the border is problematic.

—Working with the United Nations to post monitors at the Bosnian borders, and offering to send American peacekeepers to Macedonia, the newly independent former republic, to help guard against a spillover in the fighting. However, there is no parallel inclination to commit U.S. peacekeepers to Kosovo because the predominantly ethnic Albanian enclave is part of Serbia.

—Appealing to Croats to curb their violence against Muslims. U.S. diplomats have been in touch with Croatian President Franjo Tudjman and Bosnian Croat leader Mate Boban over the last few days, and State Department analysts detect some slackening of the fighting.

All these moves are not considered a substitute for allied military steps. But since Clinton has ruled out unilateral American action, there is no alternative but to wait for the Europeans to come around while pursuing other means.

The Washington Post reported in today's editions that Clinton, despite deep reservations, is now considering sending U.S. troops to join international forces protecting civilian enclaves in Bosnia.

In an interview, the president said European opposition to his proposed military strategy also has forced him to reconsider other options the White House had discarded, including the use of air strikes alone against Bosnian Serb positions.

Variety is the spice of bridge

By Phillip Alder

To what does this refer: "Age cannot wither her, nor custom stale her infinite variety"?

It sounds as if it could be bridge. There is so much variety in the game, and although themes recur, usually there is some small twist that makes every contract different.

Today's deal contains possibilities for both sides.

After North opened with a weak two-bid, South opted to take a shot at three no-trump rather than try for a game in hearts.

West, hoping to find a useful honor in his partner's hand, led the spade five rather than the traditional 10.

After winning the first trick with the spade seven, declarer led the heart 10: queen, king, five. This was a good play by East, who was intent on killing dummy's heart suit even if South had the spade king.

Declarer led dummy's diamond queen, East correctly making a second ducking play. Now South crossed to his hand with a club and ran the heart eight. However, East won with the nine and returned a club. The contract, which had been ailing from the start, was finally pronounced dead.

Suppose that instead of covering the heart queen with the king, declarer plays low from the dummy. At first glance, he will establish the hearts and win nine tricks by way of three spades, four hearts and two clubs. But West has a brilliant riposte. After winning with the heart queen, he leads the spade king. This is a Merrimac Coup, killing dummy's entry before the hearts are established.

The comment at the beginning? It was about Cleopatra, written by you know who.

Coliseum doors are scheduled to open at 7 p.m. and the action tips off at 8 o'clock. Jersies and balls will be auctioned at halftime and fans are invited to an autograph session with the Cowboys following the game.

Wood becomes new grid assistant...

Qualls named new cage coach

"He has a knack for turning programs around," Baugh said of the new coach.

"When we were looking for a new coach, we weren't so interested in a coach's record, as in how he'd done in the past as far as turning programs around.

"We've had some tough years in our girls' program and I feel like Steve is the man to change all that."

The Lady Tigers were 3-24 in 1992-93 under Coach Jerry Tucker, who served for one season before being reassigned to coach JV tennis, and 2-16 under Coach Laurie Welch in '91-92.

The Lady Tigers' last playoff appearance was in 1990 when SHS tied Big Spring for second place in District 4-4A.

Since joining District 2-4A for the 1990-91 campaign, the SHS girls have won only one district game, a 51-39 decision over Lubbock Estacado in last season's finale.

Qualls is a graduate of Saint Jo High School and a 1979 grad of East Texas State University.

His coaching career began in 1980 at Class A Celeste where he coached the boys' cage squad. In 1982 he went to Saint Jo where he coached girls' basketball and was the school principal until moving to Class 2A Community in 1985. Qualls was the Athletic Director and girls' basketball coach at CHS until 1988 when he accepted the position at Tahoka.

His record at Tahoka improved every season for the first four years of his tenure there, starting with a 3-24 slate, then moving to 7-21, 11-19 and 18-11, before finishing last season with an 11-18 mark.

"This is what I like to do," Qualls said of the rebuilding task he faces. "I enjoy showing people that they can get better. I enjoy seeing the kids succeed.

"It's going to take a lot of work," he admitted. "Any time you're building a program from the bottom up, it's going to take a lot of work.

"I realize it's going to involve a lot of hours and a lot of patience and I look forward to that.

"I look forward to bringing integrity to the position and pride to the school," Qualls concluded.

Woods, who coached at Snyder Junior High from 1988-90, will coach the Tigers' defensive backfield, replacing Fred Jackson, who accepted a like position at Midland Lee High School recently.

"Robert is just a perfect fit for us," said Baugh of his new assistant. "He is a biology teacher, which was what we needed, and he knows the staff and we know him.

"The last class he coached in junior high will be coming in as seniors this season, so he knows some of the kids, too.

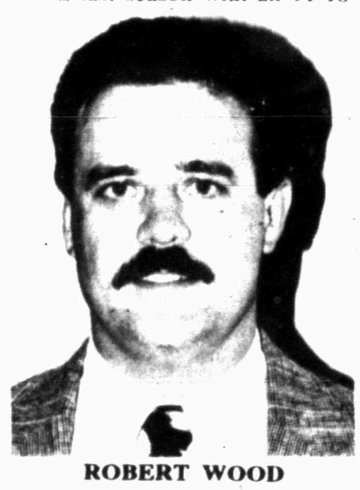

"We hated to lose Fred," Baugh stated, "but we felt fortunate to have him for three years. He's a great coach and he'll be irreplaceable for what he added to our teams."

"I'm glad to be back," said Wood. "I'm glad to be back in Snyder and I'm real glad to be back with coach Baugh."

Wood returns to Snyder from Springtown, where he worked with linebackers and receivers and was an assistant basketball coach. He has also worked in Baird, where he was the head basketball coach and the defensive coordinator.

Snyder public schools board of trustees reorganizes

son, high school principal; Fred Jackson, high school coach and biology; Tom Nickell, high school [illegible] Melissa Minton-Zamzoa, junior high assistant band director; Jan Weaver, elementary counselor; Nancy York, West Elementary early childhood; and Wanda Hudgins Crownover and Linda Gutierrez, both from leave of absence.

At the close of the meeting President Burleson brought up a letter received from the senior class seeking input into which board members would participate in graduation ceremonies. The seniors had requested Mrs. Burleson and Terry Martin.

Supt. Moseley said that changes could be considered next year but, it is too late to change the program for this year.

A bid from Hoover's was accepted for cafeteria furniture. Approximately $56,000 will be spent on furniture, and $70,000 is budgeted.

SISD Business Manager Lee McNair explained that all seven cafeterias will receive updated furniture. He said some cafeterias will get new chairs and others will get both tables and chairs.

"We had a committee that went around to the cafeterias and evaluated them, so we based the needs on the committee's findings," McNair said.

The board also approved the sale of four vehicles. McNair explained that the vehicles are used, old and in need of repair. "It would cost more to fix them than they are worth and this way we can get them off our insurance," he said.

Members of the board appointed McCormick as delegate to the Texas Association of School Boards' assembly and Stribling as alternate. The TASB Delegate Assembly will be Sept. 25 in the Dallas Convention Center.

Moseley told the board he was proud of the Snyder school system and its students for the part they played in UIL this year. "We placed third in district, won reg[illegible] state. I think the students and coaches did a fine job. This speaks very highly of our staff, students and curriculum to have placed so high," Moseley said.

Bob Travis, principal of Stanfield Elementary, gave the monthly campus report. He com[illegible] organization for the work it did this year. "They have been very helpful and supportive of us this year," Travis said.

He told the board about new equipment that was installed, including Apple computers in all the kindergarden and first grade clas[illegible] He also said the enrollment at Stanfield stayed between 410 and 416.

Advertising for an outside auditor was approved. Other routine items approved included payment of bills and minutes.

Pct. 3 voting location moved

Scurry County commissioners held an emergency meeting this morning to change the voting site for Precinct 3 in the June 5 special U.S. Senate runoff election.

According to County Clerk Frances Billingsley, voters who live in Precinct 3 will not be able to vote at Towle Park Barn, as they did in the May 1 election because a reunion has been booked at the facility.

Commissioners decided this morning to move the location to the Snyder public schools adminstration building on 37th Street.

No other precincts will be changed. Those in Precinct 1 will vote at the county health unit; those in Precinct 2 will vote at the county library; and those in Precinct 4 will vote in the Senior Center.

Weighing the risk of aneurysm repair

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband has [illegible] What causes an aneurysm to appear and when is surgery inappropriate?

DEAR READER: Surgery is inappropriate when the risks exceed the benefits. Therefore, I conclude that your husband either has underlying medical conditions, such as heart disease, that preclude surgery, or that the aneurysm is simply too large to be repaired.

An aneurysm is a weakened, protruding portion of an artery. The aorta, the major pathway for distribution of blood to various areas of the body, is often affected by aneurysms, which are common consequences of the aging process. The risks of aneurysms are rupture or leakage.

In either case, life-threatening hemorrhage may ensue. Aneurysms are diagnosed by ultrasound examinations or by special X-ray tests (angiograms) to enable doctors to visualize the artery in question.

If your husband has high blood pressure, an important cause of aneurysms, this condition should be treated with drugs. If he is otherwise healthy, I suggest that you obtain a second opinion from a vascular surgeon. Perhaps the risks of surgery could be minimized if your husband [illegible] in a hospital where this procedure is frequently performed and the staff are adept at preventing or treating complications.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'd like more information on the birth control method of Norplant. A lady I know became an entirely different person following the implant. She cries or screams at the bat of an eye, has violent headaches and gets stomach cramps and pain. Her doctor says there is no connection, yet she wasn't like this before Norplant.

DEAR READER: Norplant is a method of contraception using six thin, flexible, closed capsules, containing a progestin compound, that are inserted under the skin of the arm. The devices prevent pregnancy for up to five years, after which they are removed and other capsules implanted.

Adverse reactions include vaginal bleeding, headache, dizziness, nausea, acne, weight gain, nervousness, abdominal discomfort and sore breasts. The manufacturer does not indicate that personality changes occur with Norplant.

If your acquaintance became ill after insertion of the Norplant capsules, a sensible person would have to [illegible] To confirm this relation, the implants should be removed. If the patient improves, the Norplant is probably to blame.

Although Norplant appears to be a safe and easy method of contraception for most women, other methods are available for those infrequent patients who cannot tolerate Norplant because of side effects. To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Contraception: An Update." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.

Man Without Birth Certificate Can Get One With No Delay

DEAR ABBY: I read your column every weekday in our local paper, and you help a lot of people. I'm sure that my brother isn't the only one with this problem:

So far, he has been unable to get a copy of his birth certificate. The hospital where he was born burned down, and he has written the appropriate places in his state to get a copy of his birth certificate. They wrote back and told him that they didn't have a birth certificate in that name!

Someone told me that there is a place in Houston that has copies of everyone's birth certificate in the United States. Do you have any idea of an address where he could write to get his birth certificate, or an idea about what he should do to get one somehow?

VAL IN FLORIDA

DEAR VAL: According to officials in Florida, your brother can request a form to get a "delayed" birth certificate by contacting the state Office of Vital Statistics in Jacksonville. He will be sent forms and instructions, which include the requirement for two proofs of age (such as school records and/or voter registration or motor vehicle records). When he returns the information, and a fee, he will then be issued a birth certificate.

DEAR ABBY: Last year, my mother gave me a lovely set of china. I thought it was a beautiful set, so my husband and I shopped around and found a very handsome china closet in which to display it.

A few days ago, my mother came to visit us, and while admiring the china closet and its contents, she said, "I expect you to leave the china I gave you to Ramona." (Abby, Ramona is my niece!) I was rather surprised and somewhat disturbed to hear this, because I had planned to leave the china and cabinet to my daughter and son-in-law. I should have said something, but I didn't.

My question: Am I obligated to leave the china to Ramona?

CONFUSED IN GEORGIA

DEAR CONFUSED: No. Though it's somewhat late, I advise you to tell your mother immediately that you had planned to leave the china closet and its contents to your daughter and son-in-law.

To avoid misunderstandings and confusion, state your wishes in your will.

DEAR ABBY: Hooray for Al Seivertson and Janice Wingard — the folks who enjoy smoking, and find it appalling that fellow workers and total strangers feel free to make rude and obnoxious remarks about it.

One man said to me, "My God, Catherine, are you smoking again? Don't you know it's a dirty habit?"

If rudeness is to be condoned in the workplace and elsewhere, let's make it more universal. Such as:

"My God, Janice, are you eating again? You're as big as a house already!"

CATHERINE E. KIBLER, PONTIAC, MICH.

DEAR CATHERINE: The two issues are not comparable. Janice can get as big as a house without endangering the health of those around her. A smoker fouls the atmosphere for all in the proximity of the smoker.

Actor receives NYU degree

NEW YORK (AP) — Being a movie star wasn't enough. Alec Baldwin knew he had to go back to college and get those last four credits for his degree.

"It's going to come in handy down the road," the 35-year-old actor said Thursday as he accepted the bachelor's degree from New York University and talked of going to graduate school.

Baldwin, who was studying political science and was four credits short when he dropped out of NYU in 1980.

Librarian gets lotto million

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A law librarian on Thursday won the latest $1 million Texas Lottery drawing, with six other winners of lesser amounts also announced.

Katherine Foster, 31, of Garland said she will use her grand prize winnings to construct a kennel and shelter for homeless animals.

The seven contestants' names were picked last Tuesday from scratch-off tickets they sent to the lottery in Austin.

The lottery plans six more $1 million drawings through November, with the next scheduled June 10 in San Angelo, said spokesman Steve Levine.

In the latest drawing, 45-year-old homemaker Josefena Trevino of Carlsbad, N.M., won $25,000. Larry Culp, 41, of Thorndale and 37-year-old Linda Revely of Farmersville both won $15,000.

Two $10,000 prizes were claimed by Fredrick Becker, 49, of San Antonio and 64-year-old Ingeborg Clifton of Mesquite, the lottery said.

GOP leader says Bullock is trying to pull a fast one

AUSTIN (AP) — Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock said he wants his proposal to require voter approval on any state personal income tax to remain unchanged.

Under Bullock's proposal in the House, if voters do approve an income tax, the revenue would go toward education and reduction of property taxes.

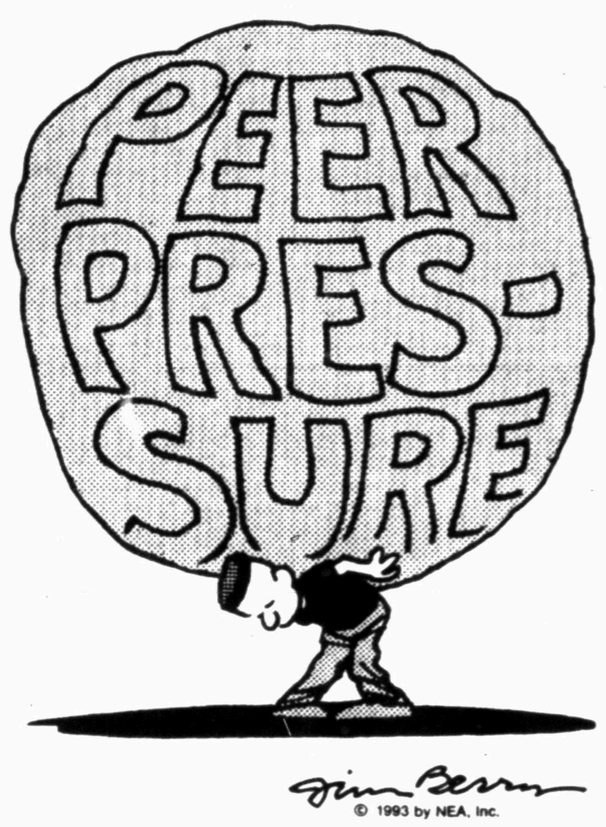

On Thursday, the top Republican in the state House and an anti-income tax advocate said that is a ruse to start an income tax.

"Lt. Gov. Bullock very slyly has set up a system with a carrot and a stick that would encourage the people of Texas to support an income tax," said Richard Ford, chairman of Texans Against State Income Taxes.

In the House, Rep. Tom Craddick of Midland, and chairman of the House GOP Caucus, changed the proposed constitutional amendment, saying the question of whether to ban income tax should stand by itself.

Bullock, who in 1991 proposed creating an income tax, said he was disappointed in Craddick's changes.
