42 Known Dead On British Ships

British Ship Attacked On Yangtze

HMS Amethyst, above, a British sloop, was driven aground on the Yangtze River near Nanking, China, by heavy fire from shore batteries of Chinese Communists. The Amethyst suffered heavy casualties, with 17 known dead. Three other British ships which attempted to come to the Amethyst's rescue were driven off by Red gunfire, with at least 25 crewmen killed and 100 wounded.

Loyalists Flee As Reds Push Near Nanking

NANKING—(P)—The Chinese Communists in great force Thursday surged across the Yangtze River to the south bank 80 miles southwest of Nanking and seized north-bank positions directly opposite this quaking capital.

Flight of the government offices remaining in Nanking began late Thursday, with all bound for Canton except the National Defense Ministry and the president's office, which were going to Shanghai.

Former Beer Tavern Operator Here Held On Murder Charge

Mrs. Elizabeth Pearl Choate Langston, 41, charged with slaying an Amarillo carpenter, gave Midland County law enforcement officers considerable trouble during her few years' residence here, it was recalled Thursday.

She was operating a tavern near Midland's west outskirts on U. S. Highway 80 when charged with assault and battery in 1941, but there was no conviction.

In 1942 she was fined for driving an automobile while intoxicated. Mrs. Langston was known as Pearl Crowley during her residence here.

Mrs. Langston is in the Amarillo jail charged with the slaying last Saturday of Alfred Monroe (Bud) Allison while he was sitting at the wheel of a pickup truck.

Allison, father of seven children, was struck four times by slugs fired from a .38 caliber automatic pistol.

She went to Amarillo from Odessa, where she is charged in 70th district court with assault with intent to murder, T. H. Bird.

The complaint charges she entered a tourist cabin occupied by Bird on the night of April 23, 1948. He was stabbed while in bed.

Twice convicted on the charge in the Odessa district court she was granted new trials.

She was awaiting a third trial at the time of the Amarillo shooting.

Red Guns Wound At Least 100

SHANGHAI—(P)—The known dead from Chinese Communist attacks on four British warships reached 42 late Thursday.

British Naval authorities said the Cruiser London had 15 dead and 20 wounded and the Sloop Black Swan had five wounded.

These two latest vessels to be hit by Communist artillery on the Yangtze River near Nanking arrived in Shanghai late Thursday.

Behind them they left the crippled Sloop Amethyst, first British ship shelled by the Reds about 30 miles east of Nanking Wednesday morning.

Neither the London nor the Black Swan was able to reach the Amethyst, which was driven aground on an island but later was refloated.

The known dead included 17 of the Amethyst crew, 10 from the Destroyer Consort, which was destroyed when it sought vainly to aid the Amethyst, and 15 aboard the London.

Decker Reaches Amethyst
The exact number of wounded could not be determined, but added up to about 100 in reports from the ships, with possibly some duplication.

The London and Black Swan wounded were placed in the U. S. Naval Hospital in Shanghai.

An official British statement said a Royal Air Force flying boat managed to make contact with the Amethyst during Thursday and put aboard one medical officer with supplies. The plane then returned to Shanghai.

A British spokesman said the Amethyst still was being fired on occasionally.

The London's captain, ordered withdrawal of the cruiser and the Black Swan from the vicinity of the damaged Amethyst. He said "all signs of peaceful intent have been disregarded and heavy fire opened from batteries near Bates Point and on the southern end of Beaver Island (both in the vicinity of the Amethyst). This fire was replied to effectively but under such conditions (it is) clearly impossible to bring the Amethyst down."

More Ships Enroute
Early in the evening, 30 survivors of the Amethyst arrived here by train from the North. Among them were five wounded.

Survivors said 80 officers and crewmen still were aboard the sloop. More British ships, the Belfast and Constance, are enroute to the Yangtze, a London Admiralty statement said.

In London the Admiralty issued a statement saying:

"The HMS Amethyst reports she is anchored in a satisfactory position and believes herself capable of 17 knots. It clearly would be undesirable for her to attempt to run the gauntlet of concentrated fire at the present moment."

Reds Scotch Rumor Of Blockade Lifting

Hudson, Harris Head Hot Filibuster On Science Bill

By MAC ROY RASOR

AUSTIN—(P)—A night-long Senate filibuster was interrupted temporarily at 9 a.m. Thursday while the Senate turned attention to uncontested bills.

The interruption came automatically on a technicality.

A special calendar of non-controversial measures previously set for consideration at that time took precedence over both the filibuster and the battle-worn basic science bill it involved.

The break provided a welcomed breather for a tight block of the basic science bill forces which had held the Senate in continuous tug-of-war since 2:30 p.m. Wednesday.

There were 52 local bills to be considered.

But at the end of the local calendar, the basic science issue would be up again.

Senator Walter Tynan of San Antonio, Senate leader on the question of whether or not the minimum foundation school bill would injure areas where many children attend parochial or other private schools.

This issue struck fire as the second of the bitterly-contested Oil-Edin school bills faced new assaults by amend-and-delay weapons.

Legislators from South Texas attempted to amend Senator Otis Lock's minimum foundation education bill (SB 116) so school districts where there are many children in parochial schools would benefit in state aid for children who not only attend public schools, but private schools.

Parochial Schools Issue
Under the amendment, no state money would go to parochial schools, but average daily attendance of both private and public schools would be counted in allocating funds for the public schools.

Proponents of the bill argued this was not reasonable. They said there was no reason why the state should contribute funds to school districts when children living there attended private schools and did not go to public schools.

The first real House showdown on the controversial series of school bills—planned to give Texas a brand-new system of public education—came Wednesday when a walkout by opponents backfired.

Backers of Senator Jim Taylor's reorganization measure showed it through to final passage by an 85 to 30 vote.

The Taylor bill went back to the Senate for adoption or rejection of House amendments. Then the House got busy on the Lock measure.

City Asks More Assurance Of Improved Phone Service

The rate increase request and improved service proposal of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company were discussed at an informal meeting of City Council members with officials of the telephone company here Wednesday afternoon.

Telephone company representatives attending the session were William Duls, legal department, and Henry Perry, accounting department, both of Dallas, and H. F. Fox, Midland district manager.

All members of the council were present except W. F. Hejl.

Most of the discussion centered around the city's request for definite assurance as to what and when it can expect in the way of improved services, including a dial system, and the company's request for assurance it will get a fair return on its investment.

The Dallas men came to Midland to answer questions asked by the council when the rate increase application was submitted last week.

The Wednesday afternoon meeting adjourned with the telephone men promising to provide additional information of a more detailed nature as to company finances, investments, operating costs, and separation schedules of exchange and toll properties.

A definite schedule of proposed improvements to the telephone system also will be submitted. The city also seeks a modernized telephone franchise.

Duls, in opening the discussion for the telephone company, said 106 cities in Texas have granted rate increases to Southwestern Bell within the last year. He explained how the rate structures are established and described the formula used in separating toll and exchange properties. The revenue—(Continued on page 2)

Fog, Drizzle, Rain Continue In Texas

By The Associated Press
Fog, light rain and drizzle hampered the observance of the 113th anniversary of the Battle of San Jacinto in many parts of Texas Thursday.

It was the fourth consecutive day of widespread rain. Although encouraged by the timely precipitation, state farmers generally were wanting return of sunny skies.

The United States Weather Bureau said their wishes probably would be granted by the weekend. Temperatures also were due to start rising.

At mid-morning, rain was reported at Beaumont, Lufkin, Alice and Abilene. Drizzle was falling at Houston, Galveston, Laredo, San Antonio and Austin.

Skies were cloudy everywhere in the state except from the Guadalupe Mountains westward. A number of points had fog.

Scattered light rain and showers were forecast for Thursday night in East Texas and west of the Pecos River.

A telephone call to President Gabriel Gonzalez Videla's office from the town of Angol said the new quake was one of "great violence."

It hit the town at 10:54 a. m. The governor of the province, of which Angol is the capital, said the president was there.

The official death list of the Tuesday night quake dwindled as panic subsided and communications were restored.

Earlier the Interior Ministry said the quake killed 87 persons and injured 150.

Youth Arrested In Brutal Slaying Of Six-Year-Old

DETROIT—(P)—State police reported Thursday they had arrested 19-year-old Theodore Hill, of Detroit, in the brutal slaying of a six-year-old boy.

Commissioner Donald S. Leonard said patrol car officers radioed that Hill had admitted the crime.

The charred nude body of little George (Peanut) Counter was found early Thursday on an ash heap in a hotel garage.

A statewide search for Hill, with whom George last was seen, began after discovery of the body. Hill, a roomer at the hotel, reportedly left the hotel at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Gregory Staktopoulos

Sentenced In Slaying Of Newsman

SALONIKA, GREECE—(P)—Gregory Staktopoulos, 39, a Greek newspaperman and former Communist, was sentenced to life imprisonment Thursday for complicity in a murder last May of George Polk, Fort Worth, Texas, correspondent for the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Staktopoulos' 68-year-old mother, Anna, was acquitted on the same charge, as requested by the prosecution. The prosecution had asked a sentence of only 15 to 20 years for Staktopoulos, who admitted in court he was with Polk on the night of his death.

He contended he was an innocent dupe of the Communists.

Adam Mousenides, the man the prosecution said fired the gun which killed Polk, got a death sentence, as did his accused helper, Evangelos Vasvanas. Neither Mousenides nor Vasvanas, who are Communists, have been apprehended and both were tried in absentia.

Polk was found shot in Salonika Bay after telling friends he was on his way to interview Markos Vafiades, then the leader of Greece's Communist guerrillas.

The prosecution contended Polk was killed in a boat in the bay, after he conspired to be blindfolded and bound as part of his effort to get through to Vafiades.

Survivors said 80 officers and crewmen still were aboard the sloop. More British ships, the Belfast and Constance, are enroute to the Yangtze, a London Admiralty statement said.

In London the Admiralty issued a statement saying:

Strike Offset Has Oil In Reagan Bend

The second producer from the Bend line of the Pennsylvania in West-Central Reagan County has been indicated at Plymouth Oil Company No. 1-50 Elliott, offset to the same company's recent Bend discovery adjacent to the Bendum area of East-Central Upton County.

The prospector ran a one-hour drillstem test in the Bend at 10,575-685 feet, using a 1,550-foot water blanket. In eight minutes the water blanket flowed at the surface, followed a minute later by distillate.

Upon pulling the drillpipe, recovery was 250 feet of 50.4-gravity oil plus 90 feet of heavily oil and gas cut drilling mud.

Flowing bottom hole pressure was 3,400 pounds. After 15 minutes, shutin pressure was 4,800 pounds.

Operator was preparing to run a liner for production tests. As yet, no Bend top has been picked, but apparently the venture is running around 50 feet low to the discovery well.

This prospect is 680 feet from north and west lines of section 50, block Y, TCR survey.

Extension Completed To Yarbrough-Allen

An extension to the Ellenburger production in the Yarbrough and Allen field of Southwest Ector County has been completed by Magnolia Petroleum Company.

The new well is Magnolia No. 3 C. H. C. Anderson, 660 feet from south and west lines of the lease in section 13, block B-14, pel survey. Elevation is 3,187 feet.

The project flowed 24 hours through a one-quarter choke, making an official Railroad Commission potential of 484.78 barrels of oil, with no water and a gas-oil ratio of 563-1. Gravity of the petroleum was 41.9 degrees.

Production followed a 500-gallon acid treatment in the Ellenburger through perforations at 10,595-635 feet. Top of pay was 10,634 feet. Total depth was 10,655 feet.

Pay Zone Defined In Sharon Ridge-Canyon

The Canyon pay section has been defined at Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1 Riddleton, second producer for the Sharon Ridge-Canyon field of Southwest Scurry County.

After flowing commercial amounts of oil on a drillstem test to 6,715 feet in the Canyon, casing was run and the prospector drilled ahead beneath pipe.

A core was cut from 6,717 feet to 6,743 feet, recovering 18 feet of lime with slight oil stain.

A two-hour and 32-minute drillstem test then was taken at 6,715-6,743 feet and showed gas in 13 minutes and fluid in 65 minutes. The well cleaned to pits for 40 minutes, then was turned to tanks for 45 minutes.

It flowed at the rate of 13 barrels of fluid per hour, which was 55 per cent salt water. Gas-oil ratio was 650-1.

On last report, preparations were being made to attempt squeezing off the water.

The prospect is 660 feet from south and 573 feet from east lines of section 163, block 97, H&TC survey.

No Shows Result On Scurry Wildcat Test

No shows resulted from a drillstem test at Humble No. 1-B Edmondson, wildcat one and one-half miles west of the North Snyder field of North-Central Scurry County and 760 feet from north, 1,980 feet from east lines of section 437, block 97, H&TC survey.

The tool was open one hour at 7,111-35 feet, with a small blow of air for 40 minutes, and recovered 25 feet of drilling mud. There were no signs of oil, gas or water.

The venture was drilling ahead beyond 7,160 feet in lime and shale.

Humble Tests Deep Lime Zone In Scurry

A deep unidentified lime formation in Northwest Scurry County underwent two drillstem tests by Humble No. 1 Edmondson, wildcat eight and one-half miles northwest of Snyder.

The first examination, for 50 minutes at 7,990-8,080 feet, had a slight air blow for four minutes and recovered 20 feet of drilling mud.

A second drillstem test of the horizon was run at 8,079-8,118 feet, with the tool open one hour. A fair blow of air held at the surface for 30 minutes. Recovery was 90 feet of slightly oil and gas cut drilling mud.

This venture, 330 feet from north and east lines of section 327, block 97, H&TC survey, was drilling ahead beneath 8,129 feet in lime.

Cities Service Will Flank North Snyder

An outcrop has been staked to the North Snyder field of North-Central Scurry County by Cities Service Oil Company.

It will be the company's No. 1 Jolly, spotted 1,980 feet from west and 467 feet from north lines of section 383, block 97, H&TC survey, about nine miles north of Snyder. Drillists elevation is 2,450 feet.

It is to be a 6,000-foot rotary exploration to test into the Canyon (Continued on page 11)

Monkeys More Interested In Popcorn Than Cinema Variety

By ESKINE JOHNSON
HOLLYWOOD—Twenty monkeys and Johnson went to a studio preview of "Bomba, the Jungle Boy." The monkeys sat there with their popcorn and crackerjack and said there with my air classifier (the big economy size).

The monkeys were asked to fill out the usual audience reaction cards. Some of the questions were:

"Does the picture qualify to play in an 'A' jungle?"

"Did you see any monkeys you'd like to be stranded in a tree with?"

"A four-banana picture?"

"Plenty of sex appeal?"

"How many coconuts will this film give up at the box office?"

I was asked the usual question, too. Walter Mirisch, the film's producer, stopped me after the preview and nervously inquired:

"Did they show any signs that they liked it?"

I still don't know whether he was kidding.

But I do know that the Allied Artists publicity boys were kidding. They announced the stunt, "solely to study the psychological effect a jungle picture has on monkeys."

Who's Studying Who?

I'm not sure but what it turned out to be a clinical study of the monkeys on the psychological effect a Hollywood publicity stunt has on humans.

Despite the clinical atmosphere, I don't know whether the monkeys liked the picture or not. If they didn't, there wasn't much they could do about it, as they were chained to their chairs.

If Hollywood's movies get any worse, this may give theater managers an idea.

I don't know whether the film is good, either. I was too busy watching the monkeys.

Otherwise, the studio theater resembled a typical movie house any evening of the week.

There was the usual chattering among the customers, the lovers in the back row (two monkeys insisted on occupying the same chair) and there was the lobby buffet of popcorn, crackerjack, bananas, oranges, apples and coconuts.

One little monkey persisted in trying to break its leash. His trainer apologized to press agents Johnny Flynn and Lou Lipton and then with twinkling eyes added:

"Maybe he's bored. He saw 'Joan of Arc' last week."

Simian Star

A monkey named Junior, who plays the role of Otto in the picture (the film co-stars Johnny Sheffield and Peggy Ann Garner) and thus rates a star on his cage, suffered an indignity which may cause him to break all news photographers' cameras in the future.

Junior was sitting there, ready to enjoy himself on the screen, when a photographer asked a trainer:

"Can you get him to hold his nose as if he didn't like the picture?"

The trainer bribed poor Junior with a banana and Junior did it. But I caught him giving the photographer a very nasty look and I didn't blame him.

The photographer insisted on a group shot of the monkeys, who were sitting in the first three rows of the studio theater. They wanted all the monkeys to look up at the screen.

Trainer Melvin Koontz went up on the stage in front of the screen and talked to the monkeys in a gibberish reminiscent of a Tarzan film or an out-of-focus television set.

The monkeys paid no attention. Koontz then stamped his feet and waved his arms. The monkeys paid no attention.

Somebody handed Koontz a big box full of popcorn. He said it did the trick. The monkeys gave the popcorn their undivided attention. After the monkeys had seen the picture, been photographed from every angle and put back in their cages, I overheard somebody say:

"Now I'm convinced publicity men are crazy."

I was convinced a long time ago.

Reports Show Fresh Declines In Non-Farm Employment, Earnings And Business Loans

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Spring season's expected boost for the nation's economy is overdue. That became clear Thursday from a new batch of government reports.

They showed fresh declines in non-farm employment, in factory workers' earnings and working hours, in business loans and in estimated farm receipts.

One government official, Commissioner Ewan Clague of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said ordinarily these figures should have shown an upward trend this time of the year. He said maybe it's just delayed action, due in part to a late Easter.

Another top official, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, sounded an optimistic note to a New York audience Wednesday night. He said latest employment figures actually are higher than a year ago and purchasing power still is high. Snyder said the present economic picture lacks the elements that

Grand Jury Scores Inadequate Staffing Of Wichita Hospital

WICHITA FALLS—(AP)—The Wichita County grand jury reported to District Judge Frank Ikard there is inadequate medical attention at the Wichita Falls State Hospital because of a lack of doctors and a competent nursing staff.

The grand jury report, returned Wednesday, charged abuse and mistreatment of patients at the hospital "either was or should have been known by the hospital authorities." The jurors urged the State Legislature to appropriate funds immediately to correct the conditions.

Two attendants at the hospital, T. C. Saucier and David Beck, are facing indictments in connection with the death of a hospital patient, Thomas Houston Gibbons of Sulphur Springs.

Man Held At Dallas As Forgery Suspect

DALLAS—(AP)—Police Thursday arrested a 27-year-old man in connection with what was described as the "biggest forgery case in Dallas in 15 years."

Detective H. P. Lemonds estimated the mid-mannered, slightly-built suspect had obtained $25,000 during the last three years from scores of Dallas business houses and banks.

Malmedy Massacre Survivor To Appear Before Senate Panel

WASHINGTON—(AP)—One of the few GI's who lived through the Malmedy massacre will tell his story to the mass murder to a Senate committee Friday.

Sergeant Kenneth F. Ahrens of Erie, Pa., was called to give senators an eye-witness account of how the 105 troops of the 98th Central Postal Directory were taken down their American captives in the Battle of the Bulge.

Ahrens will come before a Senate Armed Services subcommittee which is investigating the Army's prosecution of 77 German convicted of World War II crimes.

He is one of about 43 American soldiers who survived the German slaughter of GI's near the little town of Malmedy, Belgium, in December 1944 in snow.

Near one crossroads, 80 American troops were lined up in the snow and machine gunned to death. Scores of others, the Army says, were killed in the same manner in the Malmedy area. No one knows precisely how many.

The Army questioned hundreds of suspects and Ahrens was one of the Americans used to help identify German SS troops accused of the massacre.

Charges have been made that American prosecutors used brutal and illegal methods to get confessions from the Germans. Out of the 73 confessions, six remain under death sentence.

Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) told reporters Wednesday he was fearful the Senate subcommittee—headed by Senator Baldwin (R-Conn.)—is trying to "whitewash the Army." Baldwin commented: "This is not a whitewash and will not be."

Latin American Found Not Guilty Of Murder Charge

BIG LAKE—A district court jury early Thursday returned a "not guilty" verdict in the murder trial of Juan Rodriguez, charged in the slaying of Jean Robinson, Odessa negro.

The jury deliberated less than an hour, returning its verdict at 1:30 a. m. The trial was moved here from Upton County.

Robinson was killed in a shooting spree near McCamey last August 11. Another negro, Ben Johnson, was killed and Leon Hooper, another Odessa negro, was wounded seriously.

Rodriguez was found guilty of the murder of Johnson early this month in Rankin and given a five-year prison term. He still faces a charge of attempted murder.

Monico Herrado received a life sentence for his part in the slayings.

Rodriguez Wednesday presented practically the same testimony given in his recent trial at Rankin.

expense ratio between exchange and toll properties also was discussed. He said company properties here are valued at book costs in the financial statements submitted to the council.

The firm's system of accounting, as prescribed by law, was explained by Perry, who also discussed the system of depreciation of properties used by Bell companies.

Duls pointed out the company for some time has been operating at a four per cent loss on its Midland investment. The proposed rates, he said, would enable the firm to make a 2.21 per cent profit, which would advance to a little more than six per cent when the dial system is in operation. He said Southwestern Bell would have asked a rate increase regardless of the dial system proposal.

Improved Service

The council members told the Bell representatives they favored rates which would permit a fair profit, but they were emphatic in their demands for improved telephone service here.

Fox explained that a program to improve the service now is underway and that additional switchboards and cables are being installed. He said it perhaps will take 17 or 18 months to manufacture and install the dial system, but that every effort will be made to speed up the program if and when the rate hike request is granted.

Duls stated stockholders of the company must be assured the Midland exchange is a profitable business venture before agreeing to spend an additional $1,500,000 for the installation of a dial system here.

City officials fired pointed questions at the Bell Company representatives and were frank in advising them of their thoughts in the matter.

The telephone men promised to submit the additional information to the council as promptly as possible.

Farm Aid Costs

Truman's new farm program promises to keep farmers' incomes up. It promises to make some food products more abundant and drive down retail prices. It promises a bigger volume of business to a lot of retailers. But, unless we have read the explanatory figures incorrectly, the ultimate cost to the consumer would be about the same.

The present subsidy program assures the farmer a fair return by supporting prices. The new program would support the farmer and let prices find their own level. So perhaps the question comes down to this: would the consumer prefer the impact annually or quarterly on his tax return or would he rather have it in smaller but more noticeable quantities on his grocery bill?

Secretary of Agriculture Brannan says the consumer's grocery bill probably would go down under the new program, but he is not certain that the consumer's tax bill would go up. He thinks the proposed system would be less costly to operate than the present one. Yet it would seem that if the government does not get the money by supporting prices in the market, it will get the same money through taxes to support the farmer's income directly.

Maybe the idea is good. Maybe a bit more government control will be offset by more diversified farming. Maybe wholesalers and retailers will make up in sales what they lose on individual price tags and do as well or better than they are doing now. Maybe the program will even collect some votes in the next national election.

For the producer will do all right. The distributor won't suffer. And the consumer, though he ultimately pays the same amount, may remember his lower food bill rather than his higher tax bill. He may pay less for potatoes and more to the Treasury. But at least he will know that the surplus potatoes aren't being burned or buried. And that will appeal to a lot of frugal souls.

Political Courage

It has been said that the beneficiaries of Marshall Plan funds are parasites living lazily off the hard-earned dollars of American taxpayers. It has been said that those funds are being used to finance state socialism, a system that is repugnant to most American taxpayers. The new British budget should silence those complaints, at least as far as the United Kingdom is concerned.

One may thank his lucky stars he does not live in England. At the same time he may admire the political courage of Sir Stafford Cripps. The chancellor of the exchequer courted and won unpopularity, even in his own party, with his budget. But he stuck to a course which he thought was right, and which undoubtedly is right.

There will be no relief from the punishing taxes that the British pay. There will be more austerity. There will be higher food prices through a reduction in subsidies. And these things will be so because Sir Stafford insists that his country reduce its dollar shortage, and that it pay for the broad social security benefits it voted for out of its own earnings.

Sir Stafford might have asked for more ERP funds than he did. He might have said that the British could no longer endure the heavy burden of the bleak postwar years. Instead he risked losing his party's supremacy by an unpopular program as necessary as it is bitterly unpopular.

It is not often that a political leader goes to such lengths to scorn expediency and popularity for the sake of candor. He deserves some applause from this side of the ocean, too. By imposing a national sacrifice he has shown us that Britain is not asking us to underwrite the Labor Party's social experiment.

Drew Pearson says: State Department tries to stop French Indo-China civil war; General Bradley dodges Pyramid Clubs; Texas congressman battles American Legion lobbyist.

WASHINGTON — It won't be announced officially, but the State Department has taken a secret and highly significant step to try to stop the three-year-old civil war in French Indo-China.

Indo-China is a long way from the U.S.A., but in these days of global cold war, what happens there can influence the spread of communism in the Philippines, the Malays and India.

Therefore, Ambassador Caffery, acting on careful instruction from Secretary of State Acheson, has told the French foreign office the United States considers it absolutely necessary to stop this fighting in order to keep it from playing into the hands of the Communists.

Caffery said he was authorized to pledge the full support of the United States to French plans for creating an anti-Communist government in Indo-China headed by Bao Dai, the former emperor. The United States might even be willing to consider economic help to such a government if it kept out all Communists.

Note—Another reason why we are anxious to end this revolution is because we want the French to bring their army back from Indo-China to France to guard against a surprise attack from Russia. The French have between 100,000 and 200,000 troops in Indo-China and have sometimes been suffering 1,000 casualties a week.

No Pyramids For Bradley
Contrary to press reports, General Omar Bradley, chief of staff, has never been a member of a Pyramid Club. And for a very good reason.

"At West Point," says Bradley, "I taught mathematical probabilities. And even if I'd ever been invited to join a Pyramid Club I wouldn't have done so, because the chances of pay-off are too slim."

Legion's No. 1 Lobbyist
Young Representative Olin Teague of Texas, decorated 11 times for bravery in the last war, took on a fresh battle recently with the No. 1 American Legion lobbyist.

Teague made the Legion's tough and skillful John Thomas Taylor eat his own words during his testimony in favor of the Rankin Pension Bill.

Taylor based his plea largely on "precedents" for pensions voted by earlier Congresses.

"Just a minute," broke in Teague. "While we're on the subject of precedents, let me read from the witness's testimony on this same question when the House Ways and Means Committee was holding hearings in 1930 on amendments to the Veterans' Adjusted Compensation Act of 1924."

Teague proceeded to quote a colloquy between Jack Garner of Texas as later Vice President, and Taylor, then as now the Legion's legislative representative. Taylor admitted at that time that the 1934 bonus bill as amended would be a quickie against future pensions for World War I vets.

Pinned down by Garner as to whether the legislation would make future pensions unnecessary, Taylor replied, "No question about it."

When Teague finished reading from the record, Legion lobbyist Taylor looked like the Washington Monument had fallen on him.

"I just wanted to get that in the record for the benefit of colleagues who have asked me about," commented Texas' Teague. "It doesn't mean I'm against caring for war vets who are in need."

McKenney on Bridge

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY

Written For NEA Service

Albert A. Ostrow, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who is in charge of the classes on contract bridge at Brooklyn College, tells me that he receives mail from all over the country asking for information about the course and his booklet, "Modern Basics of Contract."

The course at Brooklyn College is divided into three semesters, Fall, Winter and Spring, and as a result they have beginners and intermediate classes all the time.

Mr. Ostrow says it is surprising how quickly the students learn to execute difficult plays.

Our lesson hand today comes from one of his classes. East's bid of one no trump supposedly showed that he had the diamonds and spades stopped. South fully expected to defeat the hand in making his business double.

East won the opening lead of the three of diamonds with the king. Having been taught to establish the long suit immediately, he led a small spade and South went in with the ace. This placed the queen in the North hand.

South continued with the deuce of diamonds which was won in dummy with the ten-spot. Declarer then led a low spade toward his jack. When North ducked, the jack held the trick. South discarded the six of diamonds, and East next led a diamond. South won this trick with the ace and East next led a diamond. South went out of the lead by returning his last diamond.

Now declarer took inventory. He had three diamond tricks, and he could have two more tricks when he cashed the king. The ace and king of hearts would give him seven tricks for his contract, so he decided to play now for overtricks. He cashed the king of spades, on which South threw a small heart; whereupon declarer cashed the ace and king of hearts and led a small heart, throwing South in the lead. Thus South was endplayed. All he could do was to cash his ace of clubs.

Had North remembered that his partner had made a business double, he would have jumped in with his queen of spades, led a club, and he and his partner would then have taken at least eight tricks.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Dispute Over Mail Payments To Railroads Nears Climax

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON—A battle royal over the rates the U. S. government pays the American railroad for hauling the mail has been in the making for over two years and is now about to burst wide open.

It has been called a three-billion-dollar battle. Participants include Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson and the U. S. Post Office Department, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the General Accounting Office, the Congress, and the Association of American Railroads and its subsidiary Committee on Railway Mail Transportation.

Through this committee the railroad have petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission for increases in mail pay totaling 80 per cent of present mail revenue of $178,000,000, amounting to $142,000,000 a year.

Postmaster General Donaldson believes, briefly, that any increase the government pays the railroads should be based on a new and comprehensive study of costs. The Post Office Department has offered to pay its full share of making this study. Postal inspectors would be assigned to make it. Congress has appropriated $300,000 to do the job. Forms have been prepared to get the data.

Little Cooperation
But the Association of American Railroads, through its Committee on Railway Mail Transportation, has refused flatly to use the post office accounting forms and has refused to submit the full data requested by the department. Instead, the railroads have submitted to the ICC only their own data, on a take it or leave it basis.

The Post Office Department contends that the railroad's figures are based on assumptions and computations not supported by fact. Post Office Solicitor Frank J. Delany has charged that the failure by the railroads to submit work sheets and underlying evidence indicates a weakness in the railroads' case which they fear will be disclosed. Delany further charges that the railroads want this rate case disposed of without full and fair hearing.

The railroads did not ask for their 80 per cent increase all in one swoop. In February, 1947, the railroads first asked the ICC to approve a 45 per cent increase in mail pay rates. There were brief hearings and much stalling by both sides.

On Dec. 4, 1947, the ICC granted the railroads a 25 per cent interim increase. This would have given the roads about $44,000,000 additional a year. Postmaster General Donaldson at first refused to pay the increase in an effort to force the railroads to agree to a full cost study. Last June the railroads asked for a 65 per cent increase instead of their original request for a 45 per cent increase.

In August the railroads and the post office reached a tentative agreement for a cost study. Postmaster Donaldson then released payment to the roads under the 25 per cent increase order. Even after the railroads got this money, the case dragged. One theory was that they were waiting for the election of Dewey. A Republican postmaster general might give them what they wanted.

Railroads Up Demands
But in October the ICC ordered a 10-day survey of railway mail operations. It was a big undertaking, involving every train. The railroads agreed to cooperate on everything except determination of station labor and terminal costs, which they refused to do. The ICC then ordered the railroads to submit a full cost study. On this item the roads merely submitted claims for increases totaling about $38,000,000.

When post office accountants dug into the railroads' figures, they found full of major errors. There were big unsubstantiated claims for items of lights, lubrication and labor. The post office then requested a spot study of 200 terminals, which handle about three-fourths of all the mail. The Railway Mail Transportation Committee refused to cooperate on this study.

Postmaster General Donaldson then wrote letters to all the railroad presidents, asking their cooperation on this terminal cost survey. A number agreed, but the majority refused to cooperate. Some of the executives, including Pennsylvania's M. W. C. C. didn't even answer. On April 1, 1948, however, the Railway Mail Transportation Committee asked the ICC for a 65 per cent increase in pay—making the total request an 80 per cent raise—with an immediate interim increase of 35 per cent on top of the 25 they have.

That was when the postmaster general decided it was time for a showdown.

Q—Do small pups require a lot of drinking water?
A—No, much of their regular food has liquids in it. Too much water causes digestive troubles. Offer a pup water not more than three or four times a day.

Q—How much blood may a dog lose without fatal result?
A—An adult dog may lose as much as one-third of his blood without fatal result.

Q—Who was the first secretary of State?
A—Thomas Jefferson was the first Secretary of State with a staff of only 22. The State Department now has a staff of about 18,000.

Q—Why are the records of a meeting called the minutes?
A—The official record of the proceedings at the meeting of an organized body was a originally called the minutes because it was first taken down in minute or small writing to be later transcribed in a larger and more careful hand.

Q—Who wrote the song "I'm a Good Old Rebel"?
A—This song was written shortly after the Civil War by Major Innes Randolph, a Virginian who served on J. E. B. Stuart's staff. This song was written while the Prince of Wales and Queen Victoria was said to have been quite fascinated by it.

TRAIN KILLS BRAKEMAN
PORT WORTH —(AP)—James Leonard Smith, 56, a Port Worth and Denver City Railroad brakeman, was killed Wednesday afternoon when a freight train backed over him near Euless.

couldn't know about the Judge Advocate Department.
We sped along the highway, the great snow teeth of snow mountains growing larger by the mile. The needle registered 100. We didn't seem to be going fast—not much faster than in the plane earlier that day. The road was smooth and clear of traffic. In spite of many miles of winding road, we clicked off the 150 miles to the Entrance Hotel in two and a half hours flat. For the first time since I'd lived in Montana I'd done what I had expected we'd do quite often on pleasant Sundays: drive to the Park for dinner. There were hundreds of people in Great Falls who had never been there at all.

THE hotel, as we expected, was closed for the season, but we were able to drive a short distance toward Two Medicine Lake, which took us near the foot of one of the Big Horn. A storm was gathering and great gray heaps of feathers, blown ominously with black, touched resolutely over the summit and sifted down the side.

The long bridge over the ravine of the Two Medicine River was shrouded in white. When we went over it earlier, it had been clear and we hadn't thought of danger. Major jockeyed it toward the middle of the road so a bad skid would have room to wear itself out. Our driving was audible. Major slowed down to 15. The car swung sideward. "Steady boy," he breathed aloud. We were nearing the end of the fill. Major gunned it again. We leaped forward and onto the broad highway.

Half way home, Major pointed to the gas gauge. It registered nearly empty. "Where shall we get some?" he asked, as though getting, appreciating that a civilian gas in Montana sprang out of the ground in convenient artesian wells.

We asked a man walking along the road how far it would be to a gas station. "Ted Davis in Du-puyer might accommodate you." "How far's Du—Du—that town?" "Twenty miles."

We all looked at the gas gauge. There were three sets of crossed fingers.

Several drugs increase "pep" and mental activity temporarily or at least hide the signs of fatigue. Some of them, like cocaine, have long been used by primitive people. Most of the substances act on the brain and nervous system and do not help muscular workers. Some first stimulate the body and then depress.

No drugs of this kind should be taken regularly or without the advice of a doctor, as they may have seriously harmful effects.

The real answer to overcoming fatigue lies only in more rest or stopping the activity which produced it.

THE DOCTOR ANSWERS
By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
QUESTION: Is going about in all kinds of weather likely to aggravate a sinus condition?
ANSWER: Yes indeed. Most of those who suffer with sinus trouble are affected unfavorably by bad weather.

it. All that "pep drugs" do is to conceal the symptoms for a short time.

One of the most popular drugs used to combat fatigue is a substance called amphetamine, or Benzedrine. This can be taken by inhaling, or in the form of pills. It has real medical uses but it is also too often misused.

AMA Warning
An authoritative statement on this pep stimulator was made some time ago by the Council on Pharmacy and Chemistry of the American Medical Association:

"Its use is not recommended in the treatment of fatigue in normal individuals, because of the dangers of eliminating the warning signal of sleepiness in persons who are overworking; because of the possibility of habit formation or addiction; and because cases of collapse have ensued when the drug has been used for this purpose."

"Its use is not recommended for developing a sense of increased energy and capacity for work or a feeling of exhilaration or as a 'pick-me-up' in individuals, other than those under the strict supervision of a physician."

This is a serious warning. People who indulge themselves with this stimulant may injure their health, have trouble in sleeping, or develop a habit of relying on the drug which is difficult to throw off.

ROGER THE LODGER

By Elizabeth R. Roberts
COPYRIGHT BY GREENBERG PUBLISHERS
DISTRIBUTED BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Roger, the peevish lodger of Mrs. Roberts, has been promoted to a position of a party to which his colleagues are invited. He has obtained leave to visit home and Mrs. Roberts has new roomers, and more settled. Major Capner invites Mrs. Roberts to ride in a B-17 while he is the air he invites her to take over the controls.

MY feet were wedged to the pedals, my hands to the wheel, my eyes to the level, and my tongue to the roof of my mouth. I held that frozen position for what seemed an eternity.

Gradually, I realized I was maintaining an even keel.

"Why it is easy," I thought. So easy that I leaned to the port window and looked down. Simultaneously the ship veered to that side. I screamed and pressed hard with the right pedal. We tilted to starboard. Frantic, I screamed again, sure Major had not heard me the first time. I pulled up the wheel to gain altitude, for we were dipping from right to left like a kite gone crazy. I couldn't balance the pedals and the level on the meter. Anyway, my eyes were bulging out so far that I couldn't have read it, had the mark been true. Terrified, I gripped the wheel and screamed again. We did a nose dive. Air rose to meet us, closed my eyes and waited for the end.

Hands lifted the phones from my ears. I heard laughter.

I don't see why it had not occurred to me that the co-pilot was at his controls, but it hadn't. It was certain the fate of the ship and of all of us was in his inexperienced and terror-stricken hands. And I was furious at Major. When I could work paralyzed words, I shouted to ask why on earth he had scared me so. "You looked too complacent," he shouted, "tittering, gazing out of the side window."

As soon as the bones solidified in my legs, I was ready to descend.

couldn't know about the Judge Advocate Department.
We sped along the highway, the great snow teeth of snow mountains growing larger by the mile. The needle registered 100. We didn't seem to be going fast—not much faster than in the plane earlier that day. The road was smooth and clear of traffic. In spite of many miles of winding road, we clicked off the 150 miles to the Entrance Hotel in two and a half hours flat. For the first time since I'd lived in Montana I'd done what I had expected we'd do quite often on pleasant Sundays: drive to the Park for dinner. There were hundreds of people in Great Falls who had never been there at all.

THE hotel, as we expected, was closed for the season, but we were able to drive a short distance toward Two Medicine Lake, which took us near the foot of one of the Big Horn. A storm was gathering and great gray heaps of feathers, blown ominously with black, touched resolutely over the summit and sifted down the side.

The long bridge over the ravine of the Two Medicine River was shrouded in white. When we went over it earlier, it had been clear and we hadn't thought of danger. Major jockeyed it toward the middle of the road so a bad skid would have room to wear itself out. Our driving was audible. Major slowed down to 15. The car swung sideward. "Steady boy," he breathed aloud. We were nearing the end of the fill. Major gunned it again. We leaped forward and onto the broad highway.

Half way home, Major pointed to the gas gauge. It registered nearly empty. "Where shall we get some?" he asked, as though getting, appreciating that a civilian gas in Montana sprang out of the ground in convenient artesian wells.

Why Don't Working Girls Leave Husbands Alone? Blame Him!

By NUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

"Why don't these working girls leave their husbands alone?" wives frequently ask indignantly in their letters to me. Then they go on to complain about how the girls in offices are always after the married men, and how the men come home from office parties with lipstick on their shirt collars. What I've got to say isn't very comforting, ladies. But I'm willing to bet most wives who worked in offices before marriage will agree with me.

Never underestimate the part of the husband in these little office romances.

The husband who minds his own business—who treats the girls in his office with gentlemanly courtesy that hasn't a trace of romantic interest in it—isn't bothered by girls chasing him.

His very aloofness may make them smile their prettiest for him or put themselves out to be helpful. But the girls will keep their distance with such a husband if he continues to keep his.

But the husband who has a little (or a lot) of the wolf in him is a different proposition. Husband May Be To Blame.

He starts the office flirtations. He is the life of the office party. He's after the girls—they aren't after him.

If he's attractive enough and smooth enough, they may play the game of office flirtation. They may even play it in self-defense, if they think he's important enough to their jobs.

But if he's neither, he is nothing more than a pest to the girls who want to keep out of reach of his pats, tolerate his personal comments or find excuses for not having lunch with him.

So it's pretty foolish of a wife who will seethe with indignation, while she imagines her faithful husband is being pursued by girls in his office.

It lets the girls alone, they may play up to him in subtle ways—but they won't chase him. He'll be safe enough—if he wants to be safe. And if he doesn't want to be, there's no point in blaming the girls in his office for his susceptibility.

MAJOR LEAGUES—

Rook Johnny Groth Sets Torrid AL Batting Pace

By The Associated Press

Johnny Groth looks like the hottest rookie to hit the majors since Joe DiMaggio, Ted Williams and Stan Musial. Sure, it's too early to tell. Two days don't make a season or a career. But what a two days this 22-year-old Detroit freshman had.

Three home runs, five hits and seven runs batted in. That's a flashy showing that needs take a back seat to nobody.

Groth exploded a chorus of hurrahs Tuesday with two homers off Chicago's Al Gettel. That overshadowed Hal Newhouse's fine three-hitter.

Wednesday he almost blotted out Virgil Trucks' four-hitter with a grand slam homer that gave Detroit a 5-2 edge over the White Sox. An oldtimer did the honors for the New York Yankees in their 3-0 second straight win over Washington. Tommy Henrich, one of the few genuine Yanks still able to play, snapped a scoreless duel between Vir Raschi and Paul Calvert with a fourth-inning homer.

The Philadelphia Athletics made it two straight over the Boston Red Sox by winning 3-2 in 10 frames. Sam Chapman and Elmer Valo of the winners got four hits each.

Bunching their hits in two fat innings, the Cleveland Indians bested the St. Louis Browns 7-3 behind the seven-hit pitching of Bob Lemon.

"Puddin' Head Jones, the Philadelphia Phillies rookie hot shot, tied a modern major league record with four doubles, but they couldn't keep the Phils from losing to the Boston Braves 6-5.

The speedy Brooklyn Dodgers walked to victory against the New York Giants 6-2.

Top National League pitching effort came from Chicago's Bob Rush, the 23-year-old sophomore, who shut out Pittsburgh 4-0. Murry Dickson, the ex-Cardinal whose sale to the Pirates prompted such an uproar from Manager Eddie Dyer and his players, was nicked for all the runs in his six-inning stay.

St. Louis and Cincinnati were not scheduled.

Houston May Get ABC Tournament

HOUSTON—(AP)—There's a chance the American Bowling Congress will hold its national tournament here next year.

Clarence Leonard, an ABC director, said national officials have contacted him to see if Houston would like the tournament. Indianapolis will be unable to complete an auditorium by next year and must pass its bid.

Purple Hurler Whiffs 14 Batters In Four-Hit Victory

By SHORTY SHELBURNE

Frank Roberson toed the slab for the Midland Bulldogs Wednesday afternoon against the Odessa Broncos and turned in the most outstanding pitching performance of the season. He yielded only four singles to the Red Housers and struck out every man in the Odessa lineup at least one time in recording a total of 14 whiffs in the seven-inning contest. The Bulldogs gave Roberson plenty of working margin all the way, winning by a 6 to 1 score.

Stingy

Bob Porterfield easily could be the Yankees' stopper this season. In successive exhibition games, the right-hander shut out the Reds with one hit in nine innings and the Fort Worth Cats with none in eight. That gave the young Virginian a string of 19 scoreless frames. He did not yield a hit in 15 rounds, and only two in 19.

Texas League—Eagles Blast Cats For Number Seven; Indians Still Lose

By The Associated Press

The old saying that "money talks" is being proved by the Dallas Eagles in the Texas League.

Dick Burnett's high-priced ball club won its seventh straight victory of the young season Wednesday night, blanking the Fort Worth Cats 5-0.

While the Eagles retained a perfect record, San Antonio replaced the Cats in second place, dumping Shreveport 5-3. And Oklahoma City lost its eighth straight game, to Tulsa, 1-3. Houston and Beaumont were idle again, wet grounds the reason.

The power Burnett's oil wealth paid to assemble paid off Wednesday night. Leo Wells' home run sparked a three-run rally in the third and Ralph Rhames hit one over the fence in the sixth inning.

Padres Get 12 Hits
Clarence Iott gave up nine hits to Fort Worth. His mates collected only five off four Cat pitchers.

San Antonio used six doubles and six singles to dump Shreveport. The Sports got back into the ball game with a three-run uprising in the seventh inning, on three hits and a walk.

Big Joe Vosmik, who used to bang fences for Cleveland in the American League, inserted himself in the Oklahoma City lineup and collected his club's only run. He did it with a home run in the fifth inning.

But his Indians couldn't break into the victory column and Dave Jolly chalked up his second pitching victory for Tulsa.

Ray Coss, the hard hitting outfielder who slapped an inside the park homer against the House of David here Monday night, has been placed on the disabled list by Manager Harold Webb. The skipper isn't taking any chances on losing him until his arm trouble has been corrected or declared not correctable. He's in St. Louis for treatment.

Coss definitely is the outstanding outfield prospect we have seen this season. He can hit, run, field and use his head. But he can't throw. It's too bad a young fellow like Ray has to be hit with such a serious injury. We hope he recovers completely in time to help the Indians this season.

Coss was one of the many clean cut fellows Webb has gathered for the Tribe. Bob Rose, Jim Boatman, Clyde May, Forrest Martin, Sam Van Hoozer, Lowell Adams, Emil Ogden, Julian Presley, Ralph Blair, Warren Sliter, Carriel Nipp and crowd-pleasing Kenny Jones are all good boys.

Of all the professional baseball clubs we have seen—and that's more than two—we believe the Indians of this year are the most courteous and agreeable. There's plenty of esprit de corps, as they say in the Marines.

J. D. Bechtol, chief of the Texas Employment Service office here, reports seeing Lefty Miltstead in San Angelo last week. Bechtol played ball with the prominent left-hander back in the 1920's.

He says Lefty apparently was dicker with Manager Sam Harshaney of the San Angelo Colts for a spot on the hurling staff. If he gets it, the Colts won't be doing themselves any harm. Even at his estimated 45 to 50 years of age, Miltstead still can win several ball games.

Now that all the prominent baseball writers have picked the Boston team to win pennants this season, it looks like the picks we had ready to fire may look bad. Anyway, here's how we think they will finish:

In the American League: New York, Cleveland, Boston, Philadelphia, Detroit, Washington, St. Louis and Chicago.

In the National League: Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Boston, Pittsburgh, New York, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Chicago.

The supposedly lively ball in the West Texas-New Mexico, Longhorn and many other leagues, including the majors, has been the point of much discussion by baseball fans during the last few years. Frank Eck, Associated Press sports writer has produced figures to disprove the popular belief that the ball is responsible for home runs.

According to Eck's article, if the lively ball has done anything for baseball, the hitters haven't noticed it. In 1948, 26 players taking part in 100 or more games hit 300 or better. That's exactly the same number that made the select circle in 1947.

Sam Van Hoozer, the work horse pitcher of the Indians' Spring exhibition schedule, gets the nod again Thursday night when the Redskins meet Big Spring. Lefty

Sam has his stuff this year and should stand a good chance of winning 30 games.

Somewhere along the line he has dropped his double-clutch windup.

HALF SLANTS... The only white men on the Big Spring Bronco roster are Manager Pat Stacey and Bob Harvick, a rookie infielder. A wrestling match in which Steve Nenoff, the Bulgarian grappler, appears is worth watching. He puts on a good clean show and doesn't forget to give his handie-bar mustache a few twists at frequent intervals. He'll appear at the VFW Arena Monday night.

The Texas Amateur Athletic Union boxing tournament will be held in Houston May 17 through 19. Charles Pinnell, former Andrews High School star is making quite a record at Texas Tech. He was one of eight men to earn a varsity basketball letter this season. Clyde Perry, former Midland infielder, got his first taste of big league baseball when he played shortstop for the Gladiators Bears against the St. Louis Browns in an exhibition game this month. He's making a good showing in the higher company.

The Hardin-Simmons University Intercollegiate Rodeo is scheduled April 29 and 30 in Abilene. Sul Ross, which won the national scholastic title in 1948, is the defending champion.

H. N. Phillips of Phillips Electric Company is coming out with something that may create a bonanza for long ball hitters. He will mount a five foot replica of a baseball atop his sign on the fence at Indian Park with this inscription: Hit me and win $100. Brother, that ain't hay.

Goff, Whittaker Are Aggie Captains

COLLEGE STATION—(P)—Co-captains of the 1949 Texas A&M football team will be Halfback Bobby Goff and End Wray Whittaker of Houston.

Goff and Whittaker, elected by their teammates Wednesday, will wind up their college grid careers next Fall. Goff was eighth in the Southwest Conference last season in yards gained rushing.

He lasted only two innings in the season opener Tuesday.

Midland Indians Play In Big Spring Thursday

Manager Harold Webb will send his Midland Indians against the Big Spring Broncos in the Tribe's first exhibition tilt with a Longhorn League Club this season, Thursday night at Big Spring. The game is scheduled for 8:15 p.m.

Sam Van Hoozer, lanky right-hander, is due to start on the hill for Midland. He has hurled in two practice tilts this season but has failed to win.

Levi Clay and Rudy Kellee will follow Van Hoozer if he needs help in taming the potent Stacey men.

Webb said the remainder of the lineup will include Warren Sliter at first, Bob Rose at second, Jim Boatman or Ross Alvin at third, Stanley Hughes at short, Kenny Jones catching, Carriel Nipp in leftfield, Lowell Adams in centerfield and Julian Presley in rightfield.

The Indians are scheduled to meet the Odessa Oilers at Indian Park here Friday night. Ralph Blair probably will be the starting pitcher.

Texas, A&M To Try Again After Rainout

By The Associated Press

Texas and Texas A&M try again Thursday to play the Southwest Conference baseball game that could mean a lot to the final standings.

It was postponed Wednesday because of wet grounds at Austin.

Texas A&M has only one defeat. If the Aggies could whip Texas, they'd be right in the thick of the race.

Bob Schiffrer, captain of Syracuse University's football team last year, is leading the baseball nine this spring.

WT-NM League—59 Runs, 74 Hits Mark Loop Openers

By The Associated Press

The West Texas-New Mexico League opened the 1949 baseball season Wednesday with a bang: 59 runs, 74 hits and 19 errors in three games.

Lubbock edged Clovis 10-9; Lammea downed Albuquerque 8-6; Pampa beat Borger 11-10, and Amarillo and Abilene were idle because of wet grounds.

Pampa got 19 hits, including two home runs by Mike Peduniak, and Borger got 11 safeties.

Lammea collected 13 hits while Stan Graywac limited Albuquerque to six.

Lubbock made only a dozen hits to 13 for Clovis, but a high fly by Manager Jackie Sullivan scored what proved to be the winning hubber run in the eighth inning.

Three members of the 1936 New York Yankees—Ben Chapman, Bill Dickey and Red Wolfe—have managed major league teams.

Pennsylvania Solon Dies In Crash Of Jet Fighter Plane

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—(AP)—A crashing jet fighter plane carried Rep. Robert Lewis Coffey, Jr., (D-Pa.) to death here late Wednesday.

The crackup of his F-80 Shooting Star was tentatively to a partial power failure. A thorough investigation was ordered.

Coffey, a 30-year-old wartime hero and first-term Congress, had landed at Kirkland Air Force Base to refuel. His ship rose only 25 feet, wavered and plunged into an arroyo as he took off on the final leg of a flight to March Field, Calif.

The Johnstown, Pa., flyer was on a cross-country training flight, undertaken while the House is in recess. He held the rank of colonel in the Air Force Reserve.

Friend Witnesses Accident
A helpless witness to the crash was Lt. Col. William Ritchie, friend and companion of Coffey in European air combat during World War II.

Ritchie, taking off behind Coffey in another F-80, was compelled to circle overhead for an hour. The plane was up fuel on the wing tanks, necessary before he could land.

"The plane (Coffey's) just settled at the south end of the runway," Ritchie said in describing the crash. "I could see it strike a stream of sparks, like those from a grinding wheel. Then it bounced over into the ravine."

The plane did not explode or burn. A crash crew found the body of the flyer wedged inside. He was killed instantly.

Connally, Kem, Pepper Help Earn Senate's Reputation As 'Greatest Show On Earth'

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON—(AP)—This is the greatest show on earth," the man said. He was sitting in the Senate gallery, watching for the first time the Senate at work.

After looking at it for years, I agree with him. Nothing in Washington compares with those men shaping our age as they talk and act their way through the days, weeks and years.

No matter what they argue about, the stake is always human lives. For whatever they talk about it, it's going to affect people some where in some way, here or abroad, and maybe the future of the world.

It's the way it's done that holds the eye: dramatics, calm reasoning, shouting that blurs the ear, sarcasm, fast-thinking, courtesy, old-fashioned oratory, stuffy oratory.

Senator Kem, for instance, the Missouri Republican, sits up ramrod straight, conspicuous by his snow-white hair, his eyes following everything, his head almost not moving. He talks without flourishes.

It's different with Senator Tom Connally, the Texas Democrat who has an actor's hair curling over his collar. He gets enthusiastic when he talks, parades up and down the aisles, wags his fingers, and prances around in mimicry of what someone has just said on the floor.

He's the Senate's mimic. His oratory: sometimes straightaway, sometimes old-fashioned.

Pepper is Sharpest
One of the best and sharpest talkers of them all is Senator Pepper, Florida Democrat.

Recently an Indiana Republican, Senator Jenner, tried to needle Pepper by pointing out that Pepper has changed some of his thinking in the last decade. "O, consistency, thou art a jewel," Jenner said, reproachfully.

Pepper shot back:
"The 'consistency' thou art a jewel' quotation must be put alongside the question of, I believe, Emerson, who said:
"A foolish consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds, adored by little statesmen and philosophers, and divines."

Jenner retired to the sidelines for a while.

Air Force Experts Prepare Guide For Next War's Bombs

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Air Force intelligence experts are preparing a "bombing encyclopedia" to show what enemy targets should be hit in any future war.

The volume of their work has doubled since last Summer and the Air Force now is asking Congress to provide funds for more intelligence workers.

Information available to the law-makers and others showed this Thursday.

The folders in the top secret files which make up the encyclopedia constitute a list of world targets of strategic importance.

The list is part of the overall national defense program which calls for the preparation and continuing revision of precautionary and alternate sets of plans for fighting an aggressor nation or whether it includes the recently rumored list of 70 targets in Russia is not known.

Honesty—It Lives

PECOS—Honesty lives. At least, Mayor E. G. Stafford, local druggist, would be hard to convince that honesty is dead.

The lad had forgotten to pay for the drink at the time he drank it.

Soviet Scientists Score New First— It's Sound Movies

MOSCOW—(AP)—Russian inventors Thursday claimed credit for another in a long series of scientific "firsts."

The newspaper Evening Moscow said Russian inventors largely are responsible for sound movies.

The paper claimed: Prof. P. Tager set up a sound system in Moscow in 1926 when there were none any place else in the world.

A. Stolotov invented the first photographic element "which is presently the basis of sound movies."

"To Russian scientists," said the paper, "from the very beginning belongs the leading role in the invention of the photographic method of recording and giving off sound."

Women began to wear signet rings early in the Middle Ages.

"I got into the insurance business too late, dear—everybody wants to postpone buying because scientists are finding ways for them to live longer!"

+ Youth Center Chatter +

By June Hault-Joyce Howell
Well, here it is Thursday and time again to see what's been cooking around the Youth Center. So, settle back, get comfortable and start reading.

This last week has been an unusually busy one at the Youth Center. Easter holidays brought home "Exs" by the scores. Joe Birdwell, Dick Morrison, Charles Ruckman, Fred Dunn, Dicky Jackson, Charles Moncreif, Kenneth Goode, Doyle Roberts, Maurice Cox, John Scrogin, Alma Faye Cowden, Patay Patterson, Patay Collins, Puddin Sivalis, Tiny Brown, Joe Anderson, Al German, John Morrow (who lives in Abilene), Berneal Pemberton, Dennis Rhodes, Joan McDonald, Helen Caffey, Billy Velvin, George Mayes, and—But this could go on forever. There were others, too.

We are glad to welcome these new members to the Youth Center "family." "Glad" to have Allen Pine and Jimmy Mashburn. Glad to have you with us, Kids. Medal of Honor:

We have discontinued the "Medal of Honor" lately due to the fact no one has done anything deemed worthy of this high honor. However, this week we want to recognize one Youth Center member who certainly deserves it. Sidney Smith saved Tina Williams from possible serious injuries when he pulled her from the path of a taxi this week. Glenda Hambleton was a witness and told us of this daring feat. So, here is this week's "Medal of Honor." Sidney.

It seems unusual that things than ever happened around the Youth Center this week. We saw Pat Boles driving her tractor and pulling a trailer load of freshmen around Friday afternoon. Peggy Simmons, Sue Ann Francis, Nancy Roberts, Camilla Birkhead and Marion Sevier were a few of the lucky ones who rode and seemed to enjoy it. At different times we saw Doyle Roberts, Don Johnson and Charles Moncreif giving the girls a thrilling ride. There was just one minor casualty, Peggy Simmons tumbled off the wagon and landed on her head. She wasn't hurt.

We had visitors from Abilene, Big Spring, Fort Worth and several other places in the Youth Center recently. We're always glad to have visitors so if you happen to see a visitor to our fair city just send him on over and we'll give him a royal welcome.

And speaking of visitors . . . What were the boys so interested in at the Episcopal Church Monday? Could it have been the delegates from over this area attending the Girl Scout conference? Midland Senior Girl Scout troops were the hosts. McCamey, Monahan, Kermit and Midland Scouts attended.

Doyle Roberts and Pat Pryor were in a dancing mood Friday night, so, dance they did. The juke box furnished the music and there was plenty of room when the chairs were pulled back.

Peggy Charleston and Susie Young were seen with quite a cute little freckle-faced gentleman. He was Dickie Plaster, Peggy's cousin. Youth Center questionnaires were filled out by the high school and junior high students last week. The information obtained will be used to improve our Youth Center.

Jimmy Lock, Betty Wilson, Jean Ferguson, and Charles Trauber had quite a time Saturday night. It seems they were quite hungry so Jimmy volunteered his icebox and the two couples had a late evening meal.

Well, we finally got to see the new Easter outfits the girls had talked about. Several girls were seen wobbling around in high heels. Adele Blackman wore a very sweet dress which she made, and Lois Black wore a lovely white picture hat. Sue Johnson and Peggy Charleston were overheard talking about hats they had "personally" remade.

Wandering Thoughts:
The Asbury Methodist and Presbyterian sunrise breakfasts were big successes. Proof positive: members of the Youth Center members were yawning Sunday afternoon and decided to go to bed early.

Peggy Caffey is sporting a new watch. Peggy's father gave it to her for being nice and making good grades. Maybe we should try this.

Joan Turner was seen hunting Easter eggs Saturday. No, Joan isn't that young, she was just helping her little brother, a Madelon Schabrum, "Christmas" Barber, Ronny Estel and Glenda Shoemaker had an Easter egg dyling party at Glenda's house. Williams like and David Weaver also had "dying good time" at Williams' house.

Peggy Simmons, Earl Chapman, Margaret Finch, Frank Roberson, P. D. Smith and Toya Chapple were seen on a triple date the other night. We would like to know just how they got so many people in one car.

Patsy Bray, Jack Mobley, Janis Slough and John Ed Green were seen at the Manhattan the other night.

We noticed someone from Honolulu signed the register. Could this be "on the level?"

Where in the world did Marion Sevier get the "multi-colored" dress she was sporting Saturday night?

What was that piece of paper Sue Johnson was trying so frantically to burn in front of the Youth Center Monday?

We noticed Hal Finch and Frank Reymann driving around Sunday. Pretty yellow suspenders you have, Hal!

Gloria Anguish did a lot of walking last weekend. It seems Buddy, her older brother, and Robert Roripough had first priority.

Where did everyone rush off to about 10 o'clock Friday night? And where did all of the stags come from Saturday night? Why does Faye Manville write "Odessa" by her name? Who is "Tom, the Atom Bomb?" Do you know?

We saw two carloads of girls and a third car (with George Glass and Frank Ingram in it) roaming aimlessly along the country roads Saturday afternoon. What goes, kids?

New Drillsites In Midland Area Reach Record-Breaking Total

A record-breaking number of drillsites were staked in the oil areas around Midland over the past seven days. Applications were filed with the oil and gas division of the Railroad Commission to drill 37 oil explorations, far exceeding any previous weekly total of the current year.

Included were 21 semi-wildcats, 20 of which were staked in Garza County, and three wildcat locations. Pecos County was the site for the other semi-wildcat and one wildcat. The other wildcats were divided among Borden and Ector Counties.

Of the field explorations, 12 were potted in Pecos County and nine in each of Hockley and Cochran Counties.

Ector and Andrews received five locations apiece. Three new projects each went to Crane, Gaines and Mitchell Counties.

Borden, Howard, Reeves and Winkler Counties gained two drillsites apiece. The remaining locations were distributed one each to Crockett, Garza, Hale, King, Loving and Scurry Counties.

The Railroad Commission files also showed amended applications for the alteration of five previously staked explorations. The forms covered field projects in Cochran, Hale and Reeves County and requested the deepening of wildcats in Pecos and Lamb Counties.

Attractive Salad Mold

Molded salads have a crisp, cool look that makes you eager to taste. And when you make the mold with flavorful cream cheese and salad dressing, fruit nectar, crushed pineapple and celery, you have a salad supreme in flavor, color and good eating.

Serve with dairy bread and butter sandwiches and a beverage.

Apricot Ring Mold

- | | |
|---------------------------|---------------------------------|
| 2 tablespoons gelatin | 2 3-ounce packages cream cheese |
| 1/2 cup cold water | 1 cup chopped celery |
| 2 cups apricot nectar | 1/2 cup chopped pecans |
| Dash of salt | 2 teaspoons gelatin |
| 3 tablespoons lemon juice | 1/4 cup cold water |
| 1 cup crushed pineapple | Apricot halves |
| 1/2 cup salad dressing | Pineapple Slice halves |

Soften the 2 tablespoons of gelatin in the 1/2 cup cold water. Dissolve over hot water, and add to the apricot nectar blended with the salt and lemon juice. Chill. When the aspic begins to thicken add the crushed pineapple. Pour half of this mixture into an 8 1/4-inch ring mold which has been brushed with salad oil. Chill until firm.

Blend the salad dressing into the cream cheese. Add celery and pecans. Soften 2 teaspoons of gelatin in the 1/4 cup water. Dissolve over hot water and add to the cheese mixture. Spread this mixture over the firm apricot aspic. Chill.

Pour the remaining apricot aspic over the cream cheese layer and chill again.

When firm, unmold on crisp lettuce. Fill the center with small lettuce leaves and salad dressing. Surround the mold with the apricot and pineapple halves.

Day Nursery Outgrows Romper Toddlers Only Group

KANSAS CITY, MO.—(NEA)—Boys and girls long out of rompers answer roll call along with toddlers at the Salvation Army's nursery in the west side tenement section on the fringe of Kansas City's downtown shopping district.

Children up to 11 years of age are included in the nursery program "to keep them from running the streets before and after school hours," according to the director, Major Frank Evans.

To protect them from possible taunts of "nursery babies" by schoolmates, the older children technically are in the "Day Care" division, while tots attend the "Day Nursery."

The school age youngsters' schedule includes a hot noon lunch, afternoon lunch, supervised after-school recreation in the gym or play rooms, crafts training and semi-weekly movies. They are accompanied to and from school by nursery teachers.

Of the current enrollment of 122 children, 33 are over six years old.

No longer toddlers, these boys still go to nursery to work in the hobby shop instead of running streets after school.

All are children of widowed or estranged mothers, who must earn their living away from home in the daytime, or of working mothers and fathers taking courses at nearby training schools.

Sparkling the nursery program is amiable, 52-year-old Major Evans. He has done most of the remodeling work on the three-story former church building which houses the nursery. Most of the furnishings, including 70 baby cots, were made by him in his basement workshop.

The nursery is operated by the Salvation Army and supported by fees and, mainly, by the Kansas City Community Chest Fund.

The average weekly fee for each child is $3.20. A large percentage pays less, according to the amount set by a trained social worker. The average weekly cost to the nursery per child is $6.53.

Besides Major Evans, the staff includes seven teachers, a dietitian, two maids and a janitor. Teachers are college graduates trained in child welfare and guidance work.

Rent A House With Option To Buy Later, Sounds Pre-War But Now Is Post-War Fact

By RALPH DIGHTON

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—"Rent a new home with option to buy later," reads an advertisement in a Los Angeles newspaper.

Your first impression is that you've picked up a pre-war newspaper by mistake. But no, the date is 1949.

"You get a brand new home on a five year lease, with option to buy at the end of four years," the ad continues. "You pay $49.50 per month plus a returnable deposit of $500 on the option."

"You get this $500 back with two per cent interest if the option is not exercised. If you do buy, you get an added credit of $10 out of each month's rent to apply along with the $500 deposit on the total purchase price of $6250."

Sounds incredible, but it isn't. It's Victor Girard's plan for beating the high cost of housing. Girard is executive director of Palisades Builders, Inc.

How, in this era of inflation, can a builder make any money at such prices?

"That's easy," says Girard. "With your own financing we can build a home, and make a profit, for $6250."

Girard's financing, incidentally, is done by Thomas E. Bragg, president of Palisades Builders, who guessed right when the market went sour in 1929. He is reported to have made millions while other fortunes were crumbling.

"Mass production methods, assembly line construction, with workmen moving from one house to the next with no loss of time," says Girard, "is the secret of success in building today. Savings in labor are even more important than savings in material."

The homes all have one floor plan: 685 square feet of floor space, with two bedrooms, dining area is in the living room. The houses have cement slab floors, exposed-beam ceilings, flat roofs, and car sheds instead of garages. Girard estimates they saved $600 by eliminating the garage, and $300 by leaving the ceiling beams exposed. A pitched roof might cost another $500 additional. The shell of the house is of standard construction—wood framing and studding, with interior plastered, exterior stuccoed. They are heated by dual wall furnaces.

Climate is mild. "These houses would not be acceptable in colder regions of the country," Girard says. "But we are building in Southern California, where the climate is mild. Why should we make people buy $2,000 worth of material they don't need?"

"The price of $6250, I believe, is $1,000 to $1,500 below comparable houses in this area. The average down payment for non-veterans is $2,000, compared with our $500."

For the prospective home buyer, the best part of the Girard deal is this:

If the house isn't worth $6250 four years from now, you and the builder can re-negotiate the price. If the builder doesn't set a price that suits you at that time, you don't have to buy the house—and you get your $500 back.

Not Interested In Border Change Idea

GENEVA—(AP)—The Swiss are not interested in ironing out any of the wrinkles in their frontier with Germany at the moment.

When a British member of Parliament, John Parker, inquired in the House of Commons recently whether the British planned to support the cession to Switzerland of German enclaves in the Schaffhausen area of Switzerland, the Swiss reaction was as cold as the snow in the Alps.

Government sources let it be known immediately that the question did not interest the Swiss. And the Swiss press unanimously rejected the very idea.

"God protect us from our friends," said the "National Zeitung" of Basel. "The merger of foreign territory to Switzerland on the basis of a peace treaty between foreign powers is out of the question," the paper said.

One of the German enclaves in question is Bussingen, which is completely surrounded by Swiss territory. There are other points where the frontier leaves German enclaves deep in Swiss soil.

"These are all questions which Switzerland will clear up herself with Germany when she is free and has control of her territory," the paper said. Such negotiations were in progress until Hitler came to power. They were then broken off by the Third Reich.

"If we let ourselves be handed German territory in the peace treaties then we would be actually participating in the business of the victors, with which the neutral should have nothing to do," the "National Zeitung" said. "We stay inside our borders, territorially and politically."

Reds Spend As Much On Arms In Year As U.S. And Great Britain Combined

Combat Strength of the four major world powers is overshadowed by these Russian infantrymen parading in Moscow. Figures represent the approximate forces available for combat on short notice in 1948.

CHICAGO—(NEA)—The Soviet Union spent as much money on armaments last year as the United States and Great Britain combined. This revelation is made in an article on "Armies of the World" written by Brig. Gen. Edwin L. Sibert in the forthcoming 1949 Britannica Book of the Year. Sibert was commanding general of the U. S. Army forces in the Antilles, and is a veteran of governmental intelligence work.

The Soviet Union professed to spend only 17 per cent of its budget on its military forces, the article points out. However, an analysis of allocations, "including the expense of assisting the military forces of other eastern European powers," placed the outlay in the neighborhood of 20 billion dollars, at the existing rate of exchange.

Combined Total

Thus, Gen. Sibert's article declares, the Soviet expenditure on military preparations was "approximately the combined total of the U. S. and Britain outlays."

The Soviet Union maintained last year about 4,000,000 men under arms, of whom about 40 per cent were believed to be in Russia, 30 per cent in Germany and eastern Europe, 20 per cent in the Far East, and the remaining forces in the Caucasus, Gen. Sibert reports.

"The Russians maintained 100 divisions mobilized and in close to combat condition. Of these 26 were in Germany. More than half of the divisions in eastern Germany were armored, with a large proportion of the balance mechanized. Another nine Soviet divisions were in Poland.

"In addition to the Soviet divisions, reports continued to flow from the east concerning German units under Soviet command. A large proportion of the 248,000 police in the Soviet Zone of Germany were believed to come from those German units captured at Stalingrad."

"Cold War" Effect

The Red army held large-scale training exercises in Germany almost continually during good campaign weather of last year. "These exercises, conducted on corps and army bases, were undoubtedly directed as much toward the 'cold war' effect as toward actual training," the article comments.

Holders Of Military Decorations Urged To Ask For Certificates

Holders of World War II military decorations have been slow to apply for certificates that attest their awards, according to information reaching Sgt. Shelby Wheelus in charge of the U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station in the court house.

Medal winners are receiving certificates of the diploma type which bear a replica of the particular decoration.

"Nearly 1,000,000 servicemen and women decorated during the war have not yet received the certificates to which they are entitled," Sgt. Wheelus said. "It is estimated 4,300 are authorized to receive certificates for the Distinguished Service Cross, 73,000 for the Silver Star, 19,000 for the Legion of Merit, 12,000 for the Soldier's Medal, 360,000 for the Bronze Star and 568,000 for the Purple Heart."

Winners of decorations should address their requests for certificates to the Adjutant General, Department of the Army, Washington 25, D. C., indicating the number, date and headquarters of the general orders that awarded the decoration originally and inclosing copies of the general orders and of the complete citations, if available. In the case of decorations awarded posthumously, the next of kin may obtain the certificate.

YOUTHS WANT THROTTLE, SO GET NAMES ON LIST

HENGOED, WALES—(AP)—William Johnson, eight, wrote the British Railway administration that ever since his youth he has wanted to be a locomotive engineer. Wants to highball down the line.

He thinks he may still be a little young but asked that his name be put on the list for a job in 1956.

"Then there's my brother, now two, who wants to be fireman on my train," William said in a postscript.

British Railways put their names at the bottom of the list.

Throat Cancer Victims Use Burps To Learn How To Talk

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK—(AP)—In a small hospital lecture room a dozen adults were earnestly trying to burp together.

"Come on, out with it now!" urged their teacher, a big, genial, florid-faced man with a scar on his throat.

"Buh-buh-buh-uhhrrrrp!" said the class.

JAP WEALTH WENT DOWN DRAIN AS WAR LOSSES

TOKYO—(AP)—The government's Economic Stabilization Board estimates Japan's war losses cost her one-fourth of her national wealth, exclusive of the vast overseas holdings that went down the drain.

The board says Japan's national wealth is about that of 1935. Heavy losses in shipping and from air raids and naval bombardment wiped out the wealth gained since that year.

Each of the ten men and two women in the class had a scar on the throat. Each had survived an operation for cancer of the larynx—the late Damon Runyon's ailment. Each had lost his voice box.

One night a week they came to this class and struggled to learn to talk again. And they did it by learning first to burp.

"A burp is different from a belch," explained their teacher, Dan Meenan, a former Wall Street broker who also used to coach basketball at Columbia University.

Burp is Voluntary. It comes from the stomach. The burp is voluntary. It comes from the esophagus. You just have to make your gullet take the place of your voice box.

"Swallow some air. Then force it from your stomach up through your esophagus. Once you learn to make this burp sound, your tongue, teeth and lips can take it over. They can shape this one sound into any word you ever knew."

Most of the class were middle-aged or elderly. Cancer of the larynx rarely strikes young people. In the class were a truck driver, a factory worker, a white-haired Irish factory supervisor, a retired woman schoolteacher, a Tennessee housewife, a 64-year-old textile manufacturer.

Australian Industry Undergoes Expansion

LONDON—(AP)—Australia's industry is undergoing the "most spectacular" expansion in the country's history, J. B. Todd, assistant Trade Commissioner for Australia in London, says.

He says the end of the war was followed by a "flood of overseas" capital into Australia.

The development is particularly evident in the metal, machine, implement and conveyance group of industries where 793 companies have announced their intention of building new plants or expanding existing factories. Thirty-four of these firms are from the United States, Todd says.

Australia's major problem is a labor shortage and the government is sponsoring an immigration policy to ease it.

were led by the textile manufacturer, who only a few weeks before had been so depressed he refused to go to his business.

Afterward Meenan explained how he himself, after surviving a series of five throat operations, had become interested in teaching victims of cancer of the larynx to talk again.

"But there are only four classes of this kind in the country. There should be many more. Cancer of the larynx used to be almost 100 per cent fatal. Now, if they detect it early, they cure 85 per cent of the cases.

"If you have to get cancer, pray you get it in your throat."

Charge D'Affaires Flivvers Own Plane

BANGKOK —(AP)—Louis de San has a vast territory to cover as Belgium's charge d'affaires for Siam, Indochina and Malaya, but he manages easily—he shuttles about by piloting a flivver plane over southeast Asia. Flying is nothing new to the 39-year-old diplomat. He has 1,800 hours to his credit, many as a British Royal Air Force transport pilot during the war. Before the war, Louis de San was a glider pilot. In fact, de San was glider champion of Belgium and later, when a secretary in Chungking, he set an Asian glider record for height.

Now, when he makes his longer hops—he flew to Bangkok in easy stages from his previous post in Teheran, Iran, two months or so ago—de San's attractive blonde wife Kiki, the former Leone Alice de Chaffol de Courcelles, helps him pilot his plane.

Daddy Ringtail

By WESLEY DAVIS

Daddy Ringtail And The Bee Tree

Sammy Ringtail, the monkey boy, sat down on the ground to watch the Bee Tree. It was on the other side of the Elephant Path, not far from the Duck Pond. Some bees lived in the Bee Tree. They would fly out of the tree, from flower to flower, and then back to the tree to make honey. They were coming in and out of the tree all the time, so very busy. They never sat down to rest. They sat down only to sting if anyone bothered them, and the sting would hurt, because a bee sits down hard. Sammy Ringtail had heard about bees. "Don't ever bother them," Daddy Ringtail had said. "Stay out of their way or they will sting you!" And I don't think that Sammy would have gotten into trouble at all, if it hadn't been for the bear.

The bear was a strange bear that Sammy had never seen before. Like all bears, this one was very fond of honey. When he came along through the forest and saw the Bee Tree, he just had to have some honey from the tree, whether the honey was his or not. He walked up to the hole in the tree and stuck his paw inside. He began to pull out the honey and to stuff it into his mouth as he could.

Well, you know what the bees did! They flew out of the tree—buzzing, fussing mad and ready to sting. But there wasn't room on the bear for all of them to sting at once. Some of them had to wait their turn, and while they waited they decided to try their stings on Sammy.

I don't know who ran the fastest—Sammy or the bear. But when the monkey boy got back to the monkey house, he was covered all over with stings.

How they hurt! Daddy Ringtail had to call Dr. Shoobug. But of course it wouldn't have happened in the first place, if Sammy had stayed away from the bees. And when I hear even one bee who is buzzing in the flowers, I never touch the flowers until the bee has flown away. That way I stay out of bee trouble.

Happy day and happy staying out of bee trouble, too. And tomorrow look for the adventure with Daddy Ringtail and the Windbag. It's another story about your old friend, the Huffle Puff, the friendly wolf who lives in the Great Forest.

Economists Find It Hard To Keep Out Of Politics In Capital

WASHINGTON—(P)—The President's Council of Economic Advisers started out with a noble intention—to keep out of politics. But now the advisers know that a top official in Washington is bound to be in politics regardless of whether he wants to be.

Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, the council's chairman, is reported to have sponsored late in 1948, the idea that the council should remain aloof from the machinery of government. The other two members of the council acquiesced for a year and a half. The council had been urged to testify before the Congressional Joint Committee on the Economic Report, to discuss with the members of the council's semi-annual statement to the President. But when Senator Taft, then committee chairman, was told of the council's wish not to be involved in a controversy which was bound to have political implications, he did not insist that they appear.

But last summer two of the councilmen began to talk. Leon H. Keyserling testified before a congressional committee on behalf of the administration's anti-inflation bill. John D. Clark testified before another congressional committee.

When the new chairman of the Joint Committee on the Economic Report, Senator O'Mahoney, renewed the invitation to the council this session, Keyserling and Clark agreed to testify. They ardently supported the administration's anti-inflation program, and the brickbats began to fly. Legislators, ad writers, columnists and speakers took issue with them. They found it necessary to defend their position publicly. Keyserling even wrote a letter to a newspaper about it.

Nourse never testified before Congress. But he began to make speeches. Former Secretary of Defense Forrestal urged him to give talks on economics at two orientation courses in the Pentagon, to be attended by top military and civilian leaders. Nourse was dubious and talked to President Truman about it. The President is reported to have told him to go ahead. The speeches were to have been off-the-record. But when some of his listeners related what they had heard, Nourse gave out copies in order to keep the record straight.

Political Explosions

His second speech, on April 5, touched off a political explosion. He spoke of the North Atlantic pact and of providing arms for the pact nations. He said it wouldn't be economically safe simply to add such an expense to the present government budget. Promptly the foes of the administration turned Nourse's argument to their own uses. Anti-Marshall Plan forces, anti-Atlantic Pact legislators and economy-minded members of Congress all found ammunition in Nourse's suggestions. Some observers thought they detected isolationism in administration circles or antagonism between the economists and military leaders.

The President found it necessary a couple of days later to say flatly at his press conference that he had no intention of deducting the cost of Atlantic Pact arms from the administration's present military budget. One economist, commenting on Nourse's unhappy position, said the development proved "it is impossible to divorce politics from economics—they are parts of the same thing."

Meanwhile a controversy continues within the council itself.

Learning to enjoy food their parents enjoy helps children become more emotionally stable. The psychological importance of this fact is being stressed by outstanding child health authorities, interested in making our 25th annual Child Health Day, May 1, a day of significance to all mothers and fathers.

Whenever possible, they urge, let your children eat the same nutritional foods you eat. The child who does, will integrate more rapidly into the family world and become more emotionally secure.

Milk and other dairy products are important in this respect. Cheese, of course, is outstanding. It can be enjoyed by both children and adults.

Actually, cheese is a useful form of milk which can be included in the diets of even very young children to supplement the liquid milk and increase the calcium intake. One ounce of cheddar cheese, for example, contains the same amount of calcium as 8 ounces (one full glass) of milk.

It is also an excellent source of high-grade protein and contains all the other nutrients of milk. Cheese compares favorably with other foods in the thoroughness of digestion, and is included in the foods recommended for youngsters by leading nutritionists and doctors.

To start very young children eating cheese, first grate it and add to mashed potatoes, white sauce, soups, or use in sandwich fillings. Later, use it in sliced or cube form.

New Methods Of Finding Ailments Of Heart Disclosed

DETROIT—(P)—New ways of seeing inside the heart were announced Wednesday to the American Physiological Society. They tell more accurately which part of the heart may be ailing, where blood clots may have formed, and where heartbeat skips have started.

The seeing is done with electrocardiograms, photographic records of the electrical impulses of the heart during the time of each beat. They long have been used, but it's been hard always to tell exactly what the wavy lines on the pictures meant.

The new findings clear up much of this mystery, and promise to help save lives in heart troubles. They were made by Drs. Louis H. Nahum and Hyman M. Cherrinoff of the Yale School of Medicine.

The physiologists announced three major findings:

One, aided by X-ray mapping of the heart, is what each part of the heart contributes to the electrical impulse picture.

A second, that the lower sixth of the heart recovers faster than the upper part during a heart beat, and is warmer in temperature.

Third, an explanation of what happens to the various segments of the heart when the body doesn't get enough oxygen. The parts recover at different speeds, and this shows in the picture. Knowing this will help in diagnosing heart troubles.

Now Russians Can Get Cars Fixed

MOSCOW—(P)—The Moscow municipal government is taking steps to provide repair and garage facilities for automobiles owned by individuals.

This was recently announced by the newspaper "Moscow Bolshevik." The measures taken locally are designed to fit in with a government decree on the same subject which provides that local governments must take steps to provide adequate repair, servicing and garage facilities for individually owned passenger cars.

"Moscow Bolshevik" announced that a service station had been set aside for current repair work on the new postwar Soviet cars, the Moskvitch and the Pobeda, as well as on the Soviet prewar passenger cars. The paper further stated that during the year a second service station would be provided for this purpose.

The paper simultaneously announced that capital repairs on these same Soviet cars would be undertaken at the request of individual owners at Auto-Repair Factory No. 4 in Moscow (for Moskvitches), and at the VARZ factory for the prewar passenger car M-20.

These recent measures are designed to encourage individual ownership of automobiles which are now on the retail market here in Moscow and elsewhere in increasing quantities.
