Allied Landing In Greece Is Reported

Woman, Girl Die In Wreck

Freight Train Rams Into Truck On College Avenue

A woman and a girl were killed about 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon when the truck in which they were riding was hit by a Santa Fe freight train at the crossing on north College Avenue near Second street.

Capt. N. R. Smith of the highway patrol announced the dead as: Mrs. W. W. Campbell, 54, of Merkel, Tex., and Miss Janice McFarland, 13, of Friona.

The victims were driving south. The train was east-bound.

The impact severed the truck at the junction of the cab and bed. The cab and front wheels were virtually "chewed up" and were jammed against the signal tower on the east side of the Avenue. The engine was found about 50 feet down the right-of-way. Parts of the chasis were scattered everywhere in the vicinity.

Loaded With Grain

The rear part of the vehicle was scarcely damaged. The truck carried a load of threshed grain, which was piled up on the north side of the tracks.

On the basis of statements from witnesses, the investigating group of patrolmen and city police theorized that the driver attempted to "beat" the train to the crossing, or did not see nor hear the approaching train, although red blinkers on the signal towers were working. They said there may have been a last-second effort to turn the truck parallel with the track.

Bodies Mangled

The bodies were found about 30 or 40 feet down the track from the point of collision. Officers said they were badly mangled. The elder woman, one officer stated, was "broken into pieces." The left foot of the girl was torn away.

A wooden step on the locomotive's pilot was shattered on the right side, and grain was strewn over the engine.

It was believed that the couple had come from Friona, where lives the girl's father, J. G. McFarland, owner of the truck.

The bodies were at Rix Funeral home last night pending further information from relatives.

Tokyo Radio Fuss Said Only Routine

SAN FRANCISCO, June 6. (AP) — A brief suspension in shortwave broadcasts by the Tokyo radio today caused a flurry of excitement in invasion-conscious America, but government listeners here said the Japanese had merely switched from one broadcast beam to another, a fairly common occurrence.

Radio broadcasts from enemy-controlled Saigon (French Indo-China) were not heard here, however. Listeners at the Foreign Broadcast Intelligence service blamed weather disturbances.

Vast Russian Power To Be Loosed Soon

Eight Big Armies Ready For Signal

By ROBERT S. MUSEL

LONDON, June 6. — Probably within 24 to 48 hours—and almost certainly before the end of the week — Soviet armies will swing their vast power into a synchronized offensive with the Anglo-American western front forces under the master plan of Tehran envisaging the destruction of Germany this year, military observers said tonight.

The daily Soviet operational bulletin broadcast by the Moscow radio reported that the fighting north and northwest of Iasi (Jassy) Romania had entered its second week, with Red Army forces again repulsing all attacks by large forces of enemy tanks and infantry.

49 Tanks Destroyed

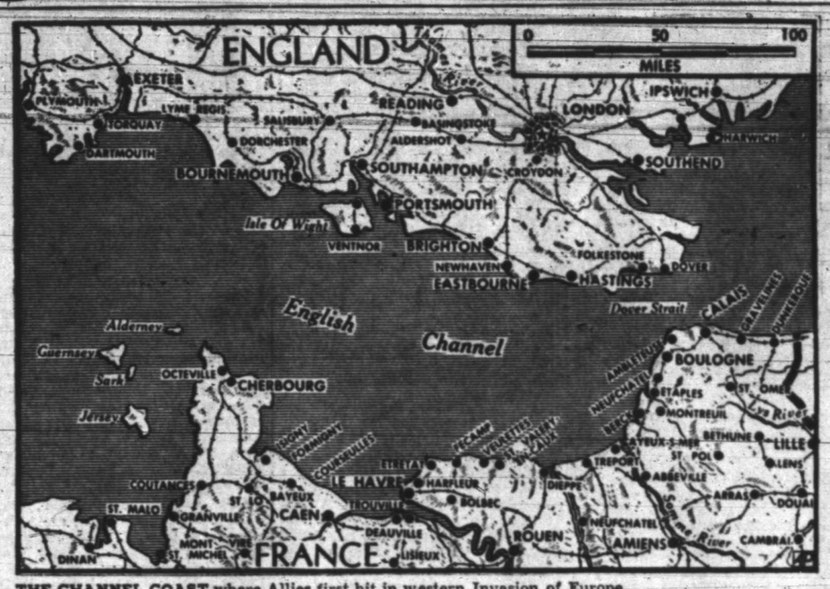

Moscow announced that in Monday's fighting the Russians destroyed or disabled 49 enemy tanks and shot down 42 planes.

There were no changes on other sectors of the front.

On Monday night Soviet long-range planes mass-raided Iasi, setting about 90 fires accompanied by strong explosions, among military trains, buildings and military dumps. All Soviet planes returned.

The German radio and other reports to London indicated that Soviet artillery on the lower Dnestr front gradually was stepping up

Troops Push On In France

Reinforcement Pours Over Channel To Embattled Area

LONDON, Wednesday, June 7 (AP)—The German news agency Transocean said early today that the Allies had made "further landings at the mouth of the Orne under cover of naval artillery." The agency said "heavy fighting" was raging on the coast of northern France.

The German Transocean agency broadcast at 6:55 a. m. (12:55 a. m. ewt) that the Allies since last night were pouring strong reinforcements into the beachheads established on the French channel coast.

ANKARA, June 6—Ankara buzzed tonight with reports of an Allied landing in the Peloponesus and, although there was no official confirmation, responsible quarters said it could be true now or shortly.

(Peloponnesus (island of Pelops) is that part of Greece south of the isthmus of Corinth and is a potential Allied stepping stone to the Balkan mainland.)

A high source said, however, that an Allied landing there definitely would not change Turkey's neutrality at this time. Turkish roads are closed to foreigners. A considerable part of the Turkish Army is on its annual maneuvers.

Opening of the western front in Europe was heard in Ankara with interest, but without manifestations.

Reinforcements Pour Across Channel As Beaches Cleared, Troops Push On

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Wednesday, June 7—Allied troops swiftly cleared Normandy beaches of the dazed Nazi survivors of a punishing sea and air bombardment and armor-backed landing parties ranged inland today in a liberation invasion which the Germans themselves predicted would expand. Reinforcements streamed across the white-capped channel.

Some reports reached here that Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's men had cut at Caen the Paris-Cherbourg railway, a main route supplying Hitler's defense forces in the Cherbourg peninsula. The German high command, however, insisted that no Allied troops had penetrated Caen.

No Major Engagement Reported

Up to early morning, there were no reports from any quarter of a single major engagement.

Prime Minister Churchill first disclosed that Allied troops were fighting in Caen, on the river Orne, nine miles inland, a hub of roads and railways radiating all over northern Normandy. He said the invasion was proceeding "in a thoroughly satisfactory manner" and with unexpectedly light casualties.

Returning RAF pilots said: "We could easily tell the beaches were secure—we could see our soldiers standing up."

Canadians Move In Rapidly

In the first dispatch received from the soil of France, Canadian Press correspondent Ross Munro said the Canadian invasion force won its beachhead and moved inland after just two hours and 45 minutes of fighting.

Caen was the only point specifically named here as a scene of fighting, although penetrations as deep as 13 miles were reported.

Nazi-controlled radios, however, reported Allied landings at a dozen points, with the most important on both sides of the estuary of the river Orne.

Axis Accounts Of Main Blows

From west to east along the 100-mile shoreline, Axis accounts said Allied sea-borne and air-borne forces struck at:

The port of Barfleur, 15 miles east of Cherbourg; the fishing village of St. Vaast La Hougue, five miles south of Barfluer; both sides of the Valognes-Carentan highway, a section of an important supply road to Cherbourg running five miles inland from the peninsula coast; the 27-mile-long area between Carentan and Bayeux; the river Orne estuary; a 15-mile stretch of beaches in the Villers-Trouville region across the Seine estuary from Le Havre; and the town of Honfleur, on the Seine six miles southeast of Le Havre.

Channel weather was adverse, a strong northeaster kicking up the waves. But this was not permitted to halt the system of reinforcements and supplies for the forces hacking out positions along a 100-mile front between Cherbourg and Le Harve.

The German radio expressed fear of further landings. Fresh and strong naval forces were reported sighted this morning off

Air-Borne Force Landed By Largest Armada In History

Heavy Tonnage Of Bombs Is Loosed

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Wednesday, June 7.—Supreme headquarters announced today that more than 1,000 troop-carrying aircraft delivered the largest air-borne force in history into France yesterday as other Allied planes—in the war's greatest air operation—ruled not only the invasion beaches but also far inland.

The aerial phase of the invasion saw 10,000 tons of bombs crash down clearing the way for the ground troops. The attacking planes which swept through French skies found that only 60 German planes had come up to meet them.

Continuous Fighter Cover

"Continuous fighter cover was maintained over the beaches and for some distance inland, and over naval operations in the channel," the supreme headquarter's communique said. Night raiders protected the troop-carrier force, which included gliders, and reconnaissance aircraft maintained a day and night watch over shipping and ground forces.

In all, the Allies made more than 7,500 sorties between midnight and 8 a. m. yesterday. Prime Minister Churchill told Parliament that an armada of 11,000 first-line planes sustained the assault.

Scores of U. S. heavy bombers conducted the first American raid of the war from their new bases in Russia yesterday showering tons of high explosives and incendiary bombs on an airdrome at Galati, a Romanian city on the

Indians In Full War Paint In First Paratroop Wave

By BRUCE W. MUNN
United Press War Writer

NINTH AIR FORCE TROOP CARRIER BASE, England, June 6. — War-painted American Indians wearing scalplocks were among the first wave of paratroops dropped with demolition equipment upon the German defenses in France today.

Stilling their war-whoops to achieve military surprise, they dropped silently from the skies and fanned out over the country-side to raise havoc with stealth like that of their bow-and-arrow-armed ancestors.

Yaquis And Cherokees

The Indians were a group known as the "Filthy Thirteen," which was part of a large unit dubbed "The Braves." It was composed of Yaqui and Cherokee tribesmen.

They were a small part of the greatest airborne operation in history and not the only colorful segment. The paratroops in action last night also included a Hindu high diver and numerous dare devil automobile drivers and former college athletes.

The Indians were trained demolition engineers, packing 160 pounds of equipment on lean, hard bodies. They painted their faces red and black. Their average age is 23 for enlisted men and 25 for officers. Their weight is limited by regulations to 185 pounds.

Activated In 1942

This group was activated at Tocoa, Ga., in July, 1942, and its boast is that it suffered only two fatalities in many thousands of practice jumps.

The troop carriers roared off from bases in Britain in the dead of night and a few hours later they were back with one of the lightest casualty lists ever reported from an operation of such magnitude.

Thousands of paratroopers were dropped "dead on the targets" by some hundreds of gigantic Dakota carrier planes.

The surprise of the German defenders was evidenced by the lack of opposition met by the first plane arriving over the drop zone.

Weather Favors Blow

The weather operated in favor of the invasion.

While American paratroopers were striking blows of demoralization at German communications, air fields, supply dumps and command points, British airborne units struck further along the French coast, completing a second wing of night operation.

Brig. Gen. Paul L. Williams, whose troop carriers led the invasion of Sicily, early this morning congratulated all wings under his command on the successful execution of their missions.

Few crews reported difficulties.

Allies Chasing Nazi Remnants

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, June 6 —(AP)—Remnants of the German Army fled in disorder north and west of Rome today, as Fifth Army troops swarming over the historic Tiber in many places and against weak resistance advanced another five miles beyond the river.

"The battle to destroy the enemy continues without pause," the Allied communique said, and it was made clear that as the United Nations mount the great invasion of the west, there is to be no halt to the slugging Italian campaign.

Drive Gains Power

"With the capture of Rome, the Allied armies in Italy have brought another phase of their campaign to a most successful conclusion," said the bulletin.

To the northeast, 15 miles from Rome, French troops have captured Vitoli on the important Avezzano road (Highway 5), and additional thousands of prisoners marched to the rear. The momentum of the Fifth's attack and the disorganization of the enemy hourly were becoming more apparent.

All the way from Rome to the sea the troops of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark have crossed or reached the Tiber, and in the Eternal City itself they plunged in a constant stream across the 11 spans still remaining intact.

Battered From Air

Whatever hope Nazi Field Marshall Gen. Albert Kesselring might have had of establishing a strong defense line anywhere south of the northern Appenine range guarding the Po valley undoubtedly suffered a sharp blow when the Allied armies struck in northern France.

From the air the retreating enemy was battered mercilessly. Tactical aircraft concentrated attacks yesterday on his communications leading to the battle area; medium bombers hit road bridges in west-central Italy, north of Rome; fighter-bombers lashed at rail bridges, trucks, motor transport and ammunition dumps, and other aircraft concentrated on strategic targets over a wide area. Four enemy aircraft were destroyed out of the mere eight seen by Allied forces over the battle area, and 13 Allied planes were reported missing.

Soviet Follows News Closely

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, June 6.—The three-year-long dream of a western land front came true for the Russian people today when they heard by radio that the Allies had invaded France.

At the same time the Red Army was understood to be massing for its expected blow from the east following up the assault from the west.

News of the invasion was welcomed with a heart-warming reaction—the full import of the action being realized gradually here as successive broadcasts brought the people word of the developments from London.

No Shouting And Cheering

There was no public shouting and cheering, but Russian citizens and officials alike were discussing events with lively enthusiasm. Foreign diplomats expected the reaction to the news to grow as operations developed and the Russians saw concrete results.

A joint announcement of the momentous western invasion was made to the Soviet press by Maj. Gen. John R. Deane, chief of the U. S. Military mission, and Lt. Gen. Broacas Burrows, chief of the British mission.

These men, who four days ago announced the arrival of U. S. bombers at a base in Russia, told the Russian people that the Allies together with the Red Army would go forward to victory. They warned that the task would not be easy but expressed confidence in the outcome of the struggle.

Ward Is Ordered To Extend Union Contract At Chicago

By D. W. DITTMER
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The War Labor board tonight ordered Montgomery Ward and company to extend a union contract for Chicago employes, inviting a repetition of the conflict which led to the recent seizure of the firm's Chicago properties.

The order was issued a few hours after Sewell L. Avery, the company's board chairman, told a special house committee investigating the seizure that the WLB was an illegally appointed "political machine" supporting a CIO drive to "dominate" the company.

Similar To Janury Order

The WLB voted 8 to 1 to order the company to extend an expired contract pending negotiation of a new one. The board issued a similar order last January to preserve the status quo between the company and the United Mail Order, Warehouse and Retail Employes union (CIO) until the National Labor Relations board had ruled whether the union still represented a majority of the employes.

At that time, the company defied the board, contending that the order was illegal. As a result, President Roosevelt ordered the Chicago properties seized until the

Allies Close On Key Burma Base

By RAY CRONIN
Associated Press War Editor

Japanese within besieged Myitkyina felt the Allied stranglehold tightening around their major North Burma base yesterday.

Allied troops captured a position on the northern edge of the stronghold while others destroyed defenses in the southern and southwestern sectors of that bloody battle area.

Japs Gain In Hunan

On the north end of the Asiatic front, the Japanese gained further successes in China's Hunan province where the fighting reached the outer defenses of Changsha, Nippon goal on the strategic Hankow-Canton railway. Fighting raged 22 miles northeast of the rail center.

In Honan province, however, the Chinese reported the enemy launched an offensive along the Lunghai railway but fell back under pressure. The invaders recaptured several other Honan positions.

U. S. Raids Pressed

In the Central Pacific American planes continued their smashing attacks against Japanese island bases. In a half dozen weekend raids they bombed airfield runways and gun positions in the Caroline and eastern Marshall islands and on Nauru.

In the Southwest Pacific the Yank invaders of Biak island in the Schoutens off the Dutch New Guinea north coast gained ground as an inland flanking column neared cliffs dominating Mokmer airdrome, their objective. The Americans were within a mile and a half of Mokmer.

Bus Overturns Near Floydada, Seven Hurt

FLOYDADA, June 6. (Special) —Seven persons were injured about 3 o'clock this afternoon when the Floydada-Childress bus overturned "several times" about 20 miles north of Floydada.

The injured were in the Floydada hospital tonight but all but two were to be released, according to Dr. A. E. Guthrie. He said these two were the most seriously hurt, and named them as Mrs. Emma Lane, of Childress, who received a broken pelvis; and W. G. Reed, of Floydada, who suffered a broken arm.

Dr. Guthrie said the vehicle went out of control when a rear tire blew out. He stated the bus was driven by Mrs. Jack Seay, wife of the owner and regular driver of the line.

Others hurt in the accident, according to Dr. Guthrie, were Mrs. Seay, of Childress; Joe Jett, of Quail; Mrs. N. B. Herrington, Mrs. Otto Cisco and her small daughter, all of Quitaque. They were bruised and cut, he said.

Wolfram Shipments To Germany Halted

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP)—Acting Secretary of State Stettinius announced tonight that Portugal has stopped all export and production of wolfram as a result of negotiations with the United States, Britain and Brazil.

Portugal has been producing 6,000 tons of the strategic ore from which tungsten steel hardening is made, and sending about 2,000 tons to the Germans.

Spain, a less important source of wolfram, has signed a compromise agreement cutting its exports to Germany to about 300 tons for the rest of this year.

The Allied nations did not need their own former share of the Portuguese wolfram, which they had been buying at heavy cost to keep it out of German hands.

Capt. Jos. H. Bennett Said Missing In Action

Capt. Joseph H. Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion A. Bennett of Morton, has been reported by the War department to have been missing in action over Continental Europe on May 25. Capt. Bennett, 25, was pilot of a P-51 Mustang fighter plane. He had been previously reported missing in action on April 8, his plane having fallen into the North Sea after being crippled by a raid across the channel. He was later rescued and was back in combat less than a month later to rack up his sixth and seventh victories, knocking out Nazi planes from the skies in his personal campaign against the enemy. He had completed more than 80 sorties when he was reported missing in action. Capt. Bennett had been overseas since last September.

AMG Takes Over An Elated Rome

By KENNETH DIXON
Associated Press Staff Writer

ROME, June 6. — The Eternal City, still in a state of exaltation and confusion over its liberation, was thrown into even gerater excitement this morning as word of the German announcement of a channel invasion swept like wildfire through the city.

The streets were filled with crowds of persons chattering with each other and asking Fifth Army soldiers for details.

Yesterday's hysterical welcome which faded somewhat last night as the fighting men succumbed to sheer fatigue, still was evident with the latest great news. Thousands of waving, laughing Romans continued to cheer lustily as the Yanks passed by.

Services Being Restored

As swiftly as possible, Rome is being restored to normal by Allied Military government authorities, under Maj. Gen. Harry H. Johnson of Houston, Tex., military governor of Rome. Electric power was restored for most of the city during the night, and although the people were without water in their homes, they carried it in pails from hydrants gushing in the streets. Public transports were expected to be restored partially by tomorrow, when trolleys resume operation. The Germans took all buses.

Two hundred tons of flour and other food for civilian relief moved into the city, whose refugee-swollen population of 2,500,000 was for the most part on a rigid diet. There was, however, little evidence that there had been actual starvation in the city.

Poll In Pennsylvania Shows FDR Barely Leading Dewey

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director,
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., June 6. — Although President Roosevelt carried Pennsylvania in 1940, the Keystone State looms as one of the real battlegrounds in the coming presidential elections, should Roosevelt and Dewey, most popular candidates today, be the nominees.

Pennsylvania has the second largest number of electoral votes, totaling 35. New York State, with 47, has the largest number.

GALLUP

An intensive state-wide survey just completed in Pennsylvania by the Gallup Poll shows the President holding a slight edge in popular strength over Governor Dewey when field reporters asked a cross-section of civilian voters to name which of these two possible candidates they would choose if the election were being held today.

The results in Pennsylvania are as follows:

ROOSEVELT	52%
DEWEY	48

By way of contrast, a similar survey in New York State published two weeks ago showed Dewey in the lead, with 52 per cent of the vote to Roosevelt's 48

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

STAY with the procession or you will never catch up, someone advised a long time ago and those who slept through the excitement and first radio reports of the long awaited D-day invasion had that feeling Tuesday morning. More fortunate ones who were called from their slumber to hear those flashes had the edge on others of us who were not on somebody's list to call.

The Woman's Angle heard of a doctor's wife, a newscaster and a soldier who had made a list of friends who wanted to b telephoned when the great day came. It seems no one thought to wake the writer because we work at a newspaper office and friends thought we'd be in on the break. But evidently the society desk is far removed from the news room. We've been promised calls when peace comes and that is a day all are wanting to learn about.

THERE are many wives and mothers in Lubbock who have been anxious of late because no mail had come through from the British isles. They are the ones who write daily letters, who send parcels weekly, to those men who are probably without medals but nevertheless heroes in the eyes of those who love them. They are the women who wait and pray at home; who will bear with courage the things that will come to pass and keep their sorrows to themselves.

We don't know what your feelings were Tuesday morning when you dropped in a church to pray and continued on to work or went back home to carry on. But after the icy wind blew from the north and the southern sky, tanned with dust particles turned to a murky haze, we felt we might be experiencing a bit of the English climate. We felt so close to those Americans stationed in England as we read the newspaper accounts, it seemed impossible to realize that a continent and an ocean separated us.

THE day was not without its humorous side. One business man who was called out of a deep slumber to be informed of the start of the "crusade," as General Eisenhower termed it, thanked his caller and dropped back on his pillow. Suddenly the import of the call penetrated his sleep-deepened brain and he yelled, leaped from his bed and turned on his radio.

AFFABLE Capt. Wm. A. Murphy, 2nd, ex-mayor of Irvington-the-Hudson, N. Y., called by the editor's office to get war news bulletins to tack on bulletin boards at Lubbock Army Air field where he is special service officer.

Tearing the bulletins from a teletype machine, Chas. A. Guy asked if he would be interested in learning what was set up as the banner head for The Evening Journal.

"Sure," the officer said.

Sitting down to a typewriter, Mr. Guy pounded off these lines:

TEXANS, YANKS AND BRITISH ASSAULT FORTRESS EUROPE

The New Yorker was so startled, Mr. Guy hastily admitted it was all in fun!

EVEN those who have no place for the church in their lives must feel grateful that the men who are leading our Allies to this certain victory have said over and again that they do not put their trust in our armed strength but in the help of Almighty God.

CANNING PINEAPPLE

FRIDAY'S food page will carry a recipe for canning pineapple. Judging from the fruit piled high in grocery stores and fruit stands, and remembering how many ration points the commercial cans call for, we have an idea you'll be interested.

Home economics directors recommend that pint jars be used for canning food whenever possible: First, the processing time is less; second, a pint jar holds just about the right amount to feed a family of four which eliminates much of the leftover problem.

Ship Workers Buy D-Day War Bonds

ORANGE, June 6. (U.P.) — The payroll office at the Consolidated Steel corporation's Orange shipyard was swamped today as many a shipworker dedicated his day's wages to D-day war bonds.

The yard sent a new destroyer escort sliding down the ways. It was the USS Rombach, named for the late Lt. (jg) Louis S. Rombach, of Cleveland, Ohio, a Navy flier shot down in the battle of Midway on June 4, 1942.

R. B. Hills Becomes Dallas Agency Manager For Firm

Rayford B. Hills, representative of the Aetna Life Insurance company here since 1937 and a full general agent since 1941, has been appointed general agent of his company's Dallas office, it was learned here yesterday.

Hills, who will be succeeded here by Walter G. Clyton, will go to his new post next Monday, but probably will not move his home from Lubbock to the East Texas city until later in the summer.

A native West Texan, Hills entered Aetna's service 10 years ago at Stamford, one of the offices under the direction of the then Dallas agent, W. G. Harris. Harris' death three months ago resulted in Hills' appointment as his successor in one of the largest life insurance agencies in the Southwest. Its jurisdiction embraces a large slice of Texas, extending eastward to Marshall, west to Abilene, including Fort Worth; north to Wichita Falls, and the cities and areas adjacent to those centers. The Dallas office occupies an entire floor of a bank building and oversees the work of 50 outside agents as well as 35 office employes.

Clayton From Amarillo

Clayton, born in Mexico and educated in El Paso, has been associated with Hills as assitant general agent in charge of the Amarillo branch. He is in Lubbock now and soon will move here permanently. He formerly was with the company in El Paso. He belongs to the the Masonic order, American Legion and Kiwanis club. He is a past president of underwriters associations in both El Paso and Amarillo.

Hills, a Mason, Shriner, and Lion, has been active in civic circles here, having been co-chairman of the Lubbock County War Finance committee and West Texas area chairman for the USO. He and Mrs. Hills reside at 3118 Twenty-first street. Their daughter, Mrs. Robert L. Snyder, now is with her husband, a Navy officer, in San Francisco, but will join her parents in Dallas after her husband goes to sea.

Spanish-American Vets Cite 'Spirit'

HOUSTON, June 6. (AP) — "It's too bad we're not over there to help the boys whip the Germans," were the words stirring among Texas' Spanish American war veterans at the opening of their 30th annual encampment today.

Dr. Luke B. Stephens of Paris, one of Teddy Roosevelt's Rough Riders, who was commander of the Department of Texas last year, said "This invasion makes me think of our landing in Cuba.

"Only we arrived in little boats and there were no parachutists or airplanes. But the spirit was the same—the spirit of man trying to liberate his fellowman."

Ninety per cent of the telegraph business in the United States is handled via teletypewriters.

PIN-WORMS
Now can be Beaten!
The miseries of Pin-Worms have been known for centuries, and many doctors have sought a way to deal with this dreadful pest that lives and grows inside the human body.
Today, thanks to an important scientific discovery, a new and highly effective treatment is being hailed by medical authorities. It is based on a remarkable drug known as gentian violet. This drug is the vital element in P-W, the new Pin-Worm tablet developed by the laboratories of Dr. D. Jayne & Son, America's leading specialists in worm medicines.
P-W makes it unnecessary for you or your child to suffer in silence with the embarrassing rectal itch caused by Pin-Worms, or to take chances on the real distress they often create. The small, easy-to-take P-W tablets act in a special way to destroy Pin-Worms.
So watch for possible warning signs such as: itching seat and nose, uneasy stomach, bed-wetting, nervous fidgeting. If you suspect Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for a package of P-W and follow the simple directions carefully.
It is easy to remember: P-W for Pin-Worms!

U. S. Air Force, Big Factor In Invasion, Built Speedily

By JAMES J. STEBIG
Associated Press Aviation Editor

America built in about two years the winged fury which has now been flung into support of the Allied invasion.

The speed in assembling such a vast force rivals in awesomeness the aerial might itself, an air force the like of which had not been dreamed before Munich or since, except in the United States.

Hitler smashed into Poland with about 1,500 planes, executed the Norway campaign with fewer than 1,000, and pushed through the lowlands with something over 3,000.

When it came Hitler's turn to defend, those figures were dwarfed by the Allied armada, a flying fighting force which counted planes by the tens of thousands, planes which could fly faster and hit harder than anything the Nazis ever built, planes which came from 40,000 factories and many millions of workers.

Plans But No Planes

The United States entered the war, as Gen. H. H. Arnold, commander of the Army Air forces, said, "with plans but no planes."

Of the 3,000 Army airplanes available on Dec. 6, 1941, only 1,157 were suited to combat service. Actually, none of them could stay in the air against 1944 models.

In a matter of hours on Dec 7, 1941, the Japanese reduced our combat-suited aircraft total to 800, and for some time thereafter whittled it down still further before American production began to swing up.

The Army's only fighter then in mass production was the P-40 Warhawk.

Bombing was done principally by the C and D models of the B-17 Flying Fortress, the B-25 Mitchell an dthe A-20 Havoc. Also in service in small numbers were the B-24 Liberator, and the B-26 Marauder and the B-24 Dauntless.

Other Being Readied

Being readied for action at the time of Pearl Harbor were the P-38 Lightning, an extremely versatile, high performance fighter; the P-39 Airacrobra, which yielded two years later to a much improved version; the P-47 Thunderbolt, high flying slugger which did not get into the air until after the war began, and the P-51 Mustang, rated by many the world's best single-engined fighter.

About 19,000 airplanes were built in 1941. The 1943 total was 85,946, and the weight of each plane was nearly double that of the pre-war model.

The early 1944 rate of production was around 110,000 a year with a still greater average weight.

Crews Also Needed

The Army's plans called for pilots and other crewmen to fly those airplanes. Only 696 pilots were graduated in 1941; the total for 1943 was 65,000. In 1941 the Army turned out 601 navigators and 310 bombardiers, but no aerial gunners or ground technicians. The Air Forces Training command graduated 13,783 navigators, 13,998 bombardiers, 81,398 aerial gunners, 513,333 technicians and 18,850 others in various classifications in 1943.

These figures are a simple story of how America built for war while fighting one.

The first American fielrs in American planes to enter the air war over Europe felw in six A-20 Havocs with a British formation on April 7, 1942. Six weeks later came the first all-American raid—an attack on the Rouen rail yards by a dozen uescorted B-17's. The Fortresses flew nine such missions before losing a plane.

Strength Grows Rapidly

Less than a year later the United States Eighth Air force was able to send over a flight of 100 heavy bombers, and in another nine months the offensives were 10 times that large. A few months more and the bombers and their escorting fighters totaled 2,000.

The pre-invasion air war had, in addition to production and personnel, another major phase—logistics. This was in two parts, the bulk supply problem, on which all hopes for final triumph rested, and the speed problem. Airplanes solved both.

Land and carrier-based air patrols drove the submarine out of sea lanes jammed with cargo vessels. The Army Air Transport command and the Navy Air Transport service covered some 200,000 miles of routes, building airways as they went, flying with regularity of domestic airlines and the daring of pioneers. They delivered millions of pounds of vital materials on schedules figured in hours instead of weeks.

Objective Of AAF

The objective of the American air forces, stated officially after the Casablanca conference, was:

"To accomplish the progressive destruction of the German military, industrial and economic systems to a point where the capacity for armed resistance is fatally weakened."

The American Air force, working in close coordination with the British, met every new German threat, and by the late winter of 1943-44 appeared to have made a great stride in reducing Germany's ability to wage war.

Meanwhile, in what was clearly a step toward invasion, the United States Ninth Air force was moved from the Middle East and Asia to Britain, where it was reorganized and expanded. It was assigned the task of knocking down the German defending air forces in the early stages of invasion.

Reporter Has Aerial Grand-Stand Seat During Invasion

By COLLIE SMALL
United Press Staff Writer

WITH A MARAUDER FORMATION OVER THE INVASION COAST, June 6. (U.P.)—No-Man's land is 5,000 feet below.

It's somewhere between the grey, channel-washed beaches on which Allied troops are swarming from their landing barges and the brown fields beyond the wink of gunflashes in the half-light of dawn where Germans fought the invasion.

My aerial grand-stand seat is in a Marauder piloted by 1st Lt. Carl Oliver of Sacramento, Calif., a part of an unending stream of Allied aircraft, ranging from fighters to heavies, which is streaming across the channel to support the infantry assault.

Chance German Flak

Five thousand feet is one of the lowest altitudes the medium bombers ever have bombed from in this theater but we chance the German flak to pinpoint our targets.

As we wheel off the targets and streak back toward the channel, dawn streaks the eastern sky. Peering down I can see our troops scrambling ashore under a canopy of shells hurled over their heads by warships in a harbor that dents the shoreline.

In the half-light we can see the flashes from German shore batteries all along the coastline and inside the harbor.

We know that it must be a disjointed and disorganized defense, for right in this section, American paratroops floated down, earlier to soften up the Germans for the great armada crossing the channel.

Bridge Of Ships

By now, as we fly across the white-capped channel, we have a bridge of ships from England to France. They range from mighty battle wagons down to tiny, gnat-like PT boats and include all manner of transports and landing craft.

Some of the landing craft plough through the swell leaving a thin, white wake. Others have arrived off the appointed shore and appear to be just waiting.

From the cockpit of this Marauder, No-Man's land is an eerie strip of dimly-lit coastline and fields which show dull green and brown as the first rays of the sun slant upon them. We can see the puffs of bombs and shells falling in it as the German batteries duel with the long rifles of Allied warships off shore.

Thirty-Five File For State Offices

AUSTIN, June 6.—Thirty-five applicants for state offices had filed today for places on the state Democratic primary election ballot.

Last midnight was deadline for filing, but it has been ruled that a registered letter postmarked anywhere in the state before midnight is within the limit.

Two Candidates Added

Two candidates for governor were added under that rule today when letters were received from William F. (Bill) Grimes and Herbert E. Mills, both of Harris county. This brought the total number of candidates for governor to nine.

Applications for places on the ballot as presidential electors were being sent to Democratic State Chairman George A. Butler at Houston. It was reported that 20 of the 23 electors named by the pro-Roosevelt bolting convention had filed with Butler. The other convention contends names of electors should be filed with the secretary of state.

Adverse Decision Expected

Ruling on that is expected when the state Democratic executive committee meets at Dallas next Monday to certify the candidates. An adverse decision by the committee is expected to result in a court appeal from the pro-Roosevelt faction.

For the state offices, Treasurer Jesse James, Railroad Commissioner Beauford Jester and Land Commissioner Bascom Giles were without opponents unless later mail postmarked within the filing time should be received.

There will be four candidates for lieutenant governor, and three each for attorney general, school superintendent, comptroller and commissioner of agriculture.

The two state judgeship races have five candidates for associate justice of the Supreme court and two for judge of the court of criminal appeals.

NO ACTION TAKEN ON BALLOT PETITIONS

HOUSTON, June 6. (U.P.)—With no action yet taken on ballot petitions filed by 23 pro-Roosevelt electors, George A. Butler, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, left today for Washington.

The nature of his trip to Washington was not known.

Butler tacitly acknowledged receipt of the 23 applications from pro-Roosevelt electors yesterday. His action on the applications presumably will not be made known until after the state Democratic committee meets next Monday.

STATE COMMITTEE TO MEET IN DALLAS JUNE 12

AUSTIN, June 6. (U.P.) — The meeting of the state Democratic executive committee to make up the ballot for the July Democratic primary election and to choose the place for the September State Democratic convention will be held in Dallas June 12, Sec. Charles E. Simons of the committee announced today.

The committee will decide if names of presidential electors shall be put on the ballot for the first time.

OPA Rules Modified For Border Points

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP)—The Office of Price administration today modified its rules for rationing U. S. commodities in the border zone of Mexico.

The changes, effective July 1, apply to processed foods, meats, fats, cheese and dairy products, and shoes.

Under the new plan, food ration cards containing 10-point coupons will be issued instead of punch cards now in use. Shoe stamps will be issued on proof of need. They are issued in the border zone now as often as in the United States.

The sale of rationed American commodities in the border zone, which ranges from 10 to 60 miles south of Texas and California, was authorized by OPA, because many Mexican residents depend upon U. S. markets for food and shoes.

There are an estimated 5 billion birds in the United States.

Texas Flier Missing In Action On May 21

A U. S. FIGHTER BASE IN ENGLAND, June 6. (AP)—Maj. Andrew L. Chilton, 25-year-old Texan and operations officer of this P-38 base, failed to return from a mass fighter sweep over Germany May 21 during the war's biggest operation of this type.

Chilton, who had four German planes to his credit, three of which were destroyed on the ground, is one of the 27 Eighth Air Force fighter pilots lost that day from a force of up to 750 Lightnings, Mustangs and Thunderbolts which swept over Germany to shoot up a variety of ground targets, some of them heavily defended.

At the same time more than 500 Ninth Air force fighters and more than 1,000 fighters of the RAF swept France and the Low Countries.

Details of Chilton's disappearance from his group are lacking and records here list him simply as missing in action, although according to word from the United States, his wife, who lives at 1215 Mills Place, Corsicana, Texas, has been advised of his death.

Chilton earned the Air Medal and Oak Leaf Cluster. His parents live at Fort Worth, Texas.

About 76 tons of tin are required in the construction and equipping of a battleship.

Troops Push On In France, Reinforcements Pouring In the Dunkerque-Calais area, opposite Dover and some 200 miles airline northeast of Cherbourg.

The Nazi-controlled Paris radio said "an important American-British naval squadron was cruising off Cherbourg two hours after midnight."

Eisenhower Confident

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme commander, was serene and confident of success in the great land, sea and air blow, launched before dawn Tuesday under a screen of bombs and shells from 4,000 warships and 11,000 warplanes.

AT ADVANCED OUTPOST

LONDON, Wednesday, June 7. (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower is directing the invasion of western Europe from an advanced outpost in England, supreme headquarters of the AEF said early today, denying a report broadcast by the Brazzaville radio that the commander had established headquarters on French soil.

The Allied high command disclosed that more than 7,000 troop-carrying aircraft, including gliders, bore fighting specialists on invasion missions and said this phase was executed with "unexpected success." Allied buldozers slashed out coastal landing strips.

Naval casualties were officially regarded as "very light."

It was disclosed that among the Allied armada was the U. S. S. Nevada, 29,000-ton battleship repaired and restored to duty after she was badly damaged at Pearl Harbor.

Others Also In Armada

(In addition to the Nevada, the U. S. Battleships Texas and Arkansas took part in the bombardment, NBC quoted the BBC as saying, adding that the British battleships Warspite, Nelson and Rodmilles, the British Cruisers Glasgow, Enterprise, and Orion and the Canadian destroyers Sioux and Algonquin also were in the fleet.)

The U. S. S. Augusta, 9,050-ton heavy cruiser on which Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt signed the Atlantic Charter, went into the action as the flagship of Rear Admiral Alan G. Kirk, a veteran of the Sicilian campaign who commands "the western naval task force."

Tuscaloosa In Battle

Another American cruiser involved was the 9,975-ton Tuscaloosa, commanded by Rear Admiral Morton L. Deyo.

Allied air forces maintained their missions despite the wind. The U. S. Ninth Air force alone flew 4,000 sorties yesterday. Clearing the way for ground troops, 10,000 tons of explosives crashed down upon the German positions from the air, among them some described in a field dispatch as "huge bombs of a mysterious type."

Worried About Weather

A British naval officer, who accompanied the task forces, said the supreme command was "still worried about the weather" and that there had been much seasickness among the invasion forces. The wind over the channel grew stronger during the night.

The German high command in a special late communique declared that "fighting in the Cherbourg-Le Harve area is in full swing. South of Le Harve strong air-borne units have been annihilated. New enemy operations must be expected but have not taken shape yet. Fighting is extremely fierce everywhere as the Anglo-Americans are putting up a most tenacious resistance."

"It must be admitted," said the Nazi-controlled Vichy radio, "that the Allied beachhead area has been considerably widened and that Allied reinforcements are touring in."

Nazis Losing Touch

There were indications that the Germans were losing touch with their battle groups and that they were not sure where the main force of the Allied assault was striking.

At a late hour last night hundreds of Allied planes still were in the air, guarding the convoys and the beachheads and striking beyond the zone of operations to paralyze Nazi defense positions and communications.

During the first day of the assault Allied airmen reported that Frenchwomen stepped from their doorways to wave at them as they sped overhead.

The first of the Allie wounded were returned to England. Despite injuries, many were smiling and cheerful.

Headquarters officers, reticent about the progress of sea landings, expressed themselves as more than satisfied with the air-borne attack, contradicting a German high command claim shortly after midnight that the defenders had annihilated strong air-borne units.

Fear Additional Operations

The Germans expressed fear of additional operations and said "fresh and strong naval units approached the Calais-Dunkerque area (northeast of the Normandy bridgehead) this morning."

"Under cover of heavy naval guns, the Allies are bringing up fresh troops," said a DNB dispatch broadcast from Berlin.

The German news agency declared Allied parachute troops landed between Carentan and Bayeux, 27 miles apart in the western zone of operations, "as well as air-borne troops, have been driven back in very heavy fighting."

(CBS quoted a Berlin broadcast as saying that "a strong formation" of Allied parachute troops had gained lodgments on both sides of the road from Carentan to Valognes, a highway junction point 11 miles southeast of Cherbourg.

(A BBC correspondent was quoted by the Blue network as saying Allied forces had pushed 13 miles inland in the Caen area.)

New Landings Expected

Swedish correspondents in Berlin reported that the German high command expected "new and larger landings" overnight and said the invasion front stretched more than 200 miles from Calais to the channel islands. Several divisions were said to be fighting in the big bridgehead, in some cases hand to hand.

A Stockholm dispatch to the Daily Mail said Hitler was expected to speak soon "somewhere in the west," as personal commander of anti-invasion operations.

Tonight the International Information bureau, German propaganda agency, reported the Allies held a bridehead about 15 miles broad and "several kilometers" deep between Villers and Trouville. Trouville is nine miles directly south across the Seine estuary from Le Harve.

Honfleur Said Taken

German reports from the Spanish frontier said Allied troops were in full possession of Honfleur, six miles southeast of Le Harve across the Seine estuary, and were fanning out south and east toward Pont L'Eveque, Beuzeville and Pont Audemer, ranging from 10 to 15 miles inland.)

Prime Minister Churchill announced that Allied air-borne troops had captured several strategic bridges inside France before the enemy could destroy them and that "there is even fighting proceeding in the town of Caen." Caen is nine miles inland near the base of the Cherbourg peninsula, west and slightly south of Le Harve.

"Air-borne troops are well established and the followups are proceeding with very much less loss than we expected," Churchill told a cheering House of Commons in his second report of the day. "Many dangers and difficulties which this time last night appeared extremely formidable are behind us. x x x This operation is proceeding in a thoroughly satisfactory manner."

Vicious Battle Reported

The German-controlled Paris radio broadcast a "last-minute flash from the battlefield early tonight, saying that "a vicious battle is raging north of Rouen between powerful Allied para-troops formations and German anti-invasion forces." Rouen is 41 miles from the coast, east of Le Harve.

Nazi coastal defenses had been silenced until they offered only sporadic fire and Allied air power completely dominated the battle area.

Fixed German guns along the coast were literally blown apart by a 10,000-ton aerial barrage in the eight hours preceding the landings. And then a formidable fleet of American and British warships—including battleships with 16-inch rifles—stood close inshore and destroyed enemy bunkers and gun positions with point-blank fire.

Despite a command by Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering that the "invasion must be beaten off even if the luftwaffe perishes," only 50 German planes appeared in the early hours of the attack. Allied fighters ranged 15 miles inland without meeting opposition.

The German radio reported bitter fighting at a half-dozen points in Normandy and claimed to have identified two U. S. air-borne divisions in the Cherbourg peninsula and two British air-borne divisions in the Seine area near Le Harve.

Board Discusses Tech President

FORT WORTH, June 6. (Special)—At the conclusion of an all-day meeting here today, directors of Texas Technological college announced that "no one has been chosen as successor to President Clifford B. Jones," although a board spokesman did say that a feature of the session was the interviewing of "a number of outstanding men whose names have been discussed as possibilities."

The board announced, however, that another meeting "will be held, probably within the next three weeks, at which time choice of a president for the college will be discussed further, perhaps a decision reached." The meeting, the announcement said, will be in Fort Worth.

Routine Work Done

The board occupied itself largely with routine matters, approving a budget for the 1944-45 term; noting with satisfaction that current summer school enrollment is only 80 under that of last year and, with similar satisfaction, the War department's rating of the college's ROTC unit as "excellent" for the eighth consecutive year. A contract with the U. S. Veterans administration, for rehabilitation of incapacitated ex-service men, was renewed.

Present at the meeting, held in the Fort Worth club, were Board Chairman Chas. C. Thompson, Colorado City; Vice-Chairman Mark McGee, Fort Worth; Treasurer C. E. Weymouth, Amarillo; Directors Kyle Spiller, Jacksboro; John Collier, Fort Worth, and Karl Hoblitzelle, Dallas. Absent were Director A. G. "Pat" Mayse, of Paris, and O. B. Ratliff, Spur. President Jones and Business Manager W. T. Gaston also attended.

Films Show Firm's War Contributions

General Motors corporation's monumental contribution to the war effort was graphically shown in motion pictures Tuesday night when 40 representatives and their guests assembled in dinner program in the East ballroom of Lubbock hotel.

The sprawling concern—which is composed of 11 divisions—is engaged 94 per cent in production of war material, 6 per cent in production of products essential to civilians furthering war work. This production, in 117 plants in 48 United States cities and six in Canada and others in England, Australia and India, includes an almost inconceivable variety — from ball bearings so small that 3,000 would be required to fill a thimble to 30-ton trucks and airplanes, engines, trucks, and an almost infinite number of guns.

Phil Rozelle, regional public relations manager for General Motors, of St. Louis, Mo.; Earl Hayes, zone manager for Chevrolet, J. J. Breen, manage. of General Motors Acceptance corporation, K. P. Kirton, manager of General Exchange Insurance corporation, and Art Dodson, credit manager of GMAC, all of Oklahoma City; and S. C. Hagy and J. T. Blalock, of the Frigidaire division of Fort Worth, and Glen Osborn, GMAC district representative of Amarillo, were officials in charge of the meeting, which was designed to suggest formation of a General Motors club.

Such a club would be composed of Lubbock dealers, key employes and other General Motors representatives who could more easily acquaint themselves with policies and perspective of the corporation and pass them along to the public. Associated with General Motors agencies and services here are Scoggin-Dickey Motor company, Household Supply Co., Western Olds, Kuykendall Chevrolet company, E. K. Hufstedler & Sons, Quicksall Pryor company, L. D. Thomas Cadillac agency and the McWilliams Pontiac agency.

Eisenhower Forecast 1944 Victory When Named Chief

By PAUL KERN LEE
Associated Press Foreign Staff

History's greatest overseas invasion is led by a quiet, methodical American soldier whose professional creed of taking big risks for big stakes is here put to its ultimate test.

As all the world knows, he is Gen. Dwight David Eisenhower, whose phenomenally-rapid rise has been justified by his record in the successful planning and directing of the invasion and conquest of North Africa, of Sicily and the other central Mediterranean islands, and the invasion of Italy.

Aside from purely military activities, possibly his greatest success has been in getting American, British and French forces to work together as an harmonious team.

Known As "Ugly Ike"

Eisenhower will be 54 years old on Oct. 14, (1944). He was born in Denison, Tex., and reared in Kansas, in and around Abilene, and early won the nickname of "Ugly Ike" to distinguish him from brothers "Red Ike" and "Little Ike."

Actually, there is nothing ugly about him. A well-built man of medium height (5 feet, 10 inches) he has pale blue eyes, a few remaining strands of pale hair, and a crinkly grin that combine to give him an air of friendly competence.

A 1915 graduate of West Point, he was a tank instructor in the World war, ending up as a temporary lieutenant colonel at the age of 28.

His Rise Is Rapid

He had worked up only to the permanent rank of lieutenant colonel when he was named an acting colonel in March, 1941. Six months later he was named a brigadier general, six months after that a major general, four months later a lieutenant general, and finally, in February, 1943, a full general.

The North African invasion in November, 1942, has his first operation under fire, but he long had been known inside the Army as one of its brains—a soldier's soldier—a man who was willing to take justifiable risks and to accept responsibilities without passing the buck to subordinates.

The name, Eisenhower, is an appropriate one. A legacy from forebears who fled from Germany to Switzerland to escape persecution in the seventeenth century, and who migrated to America about 1750, it originally was spelled "Eisenhauer"—meaning "iron striker."

Sums Up Philosophy

The iron striker has summed up his philosophy in these words:

"You can't hit a home run by bunting; you have to step up there and take your cut at the ball."

Last December, when he was appointed to the supreme command, he predicted:

"We will win the European war in 1944."

News Briefs

Dr. D. N. Jackson, Laurel, Miss., evangelist, will give his answer to the question, "Can the Allies win the war, according to the Bible?" preceding his sermon at the final service of a nine-day revival in Central Baptist church, 1311 Eighteent street, tonight at 8:30 o'clock. Rev. Jeff D. Welch, pastor, announced 21 additions to the church during the revival, including 17 by baptism. Baptismal services are planned Sunday morning and night, he added.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. West, 2630 Twenty-third street, reecived word Tuesday from their son, Lt. J. G. West, jr., that he had been promoted to first pilot on a B-24. Lt. West and his wife are in Albuquerque where he is stationed.

The increasing menace of Johnson grass on Lubbock county farms and a plan for eradication of the infestation were discussed by W. O. Fortenberry and G. P. Kuykendall at a meeting of the Lubbock Lions club Tuesday noon at the Hilton hotel.

Roosevelt Buttons In War Loan Pins Said "All A Big Mistake"

LOS ANGELES, June 6. (AP) — Several "Roosevelt For Fourth Term" buttons and others endorsing the CIO were found today in a shipment of lapel pins sent here to promote the Fifth War Loan drive, and immediately an "it-is-all-a-mistake" explanation was forthcoming.

Robert H. Moulton, War Loan committee chairman, said "four or five" Roosevelt buttons, bearing the President's picture, and "one or two" CIO pins were found in a 200,000 bond button shipment sent here from a Rochester, N. Y. factory.

Moulton communicated with W. J. Heinrich, local agent for the factory, who telephoned its vice president, Frank Brown, and then issued this statement:

"He (Brown) told me it is all a mistake and was due to some girl packer reaching in the wrong bin for buttons. We have been making buttons for anybody who wants them for the last 50 years. We are not interested in promoting anybody.

No comment was forthcoming from War Loan or Treasury department officials.

BANKERS' CONVENTION

DALLAS, June 6 (AP)—M. C. Ulmer of Midland, president of the Texas Bankers association, said today the organization would hold its 61st annual convention next May 22-24 in Galveston. The dates were set at a meeting of the association's administrative committee here.

Ray Sentenced To Two Years

After more than three hours of testimony and five minute summations by opposing council, George W. Ray, 32, was found guilty of violation of the Mann Act and sentenced to serve two years in federal correctional Institute in Texarkana, or one of that type, Tuesday afternoon by Federal District Judge T. Whitfield Davidson in federal district court here.

Chief witness in the case was the defendant's wife, Rachel Barnett Ray, 19, the victim. She testified she first met the defendant in Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, in 1941 where she was employed as waitress in a cafe. She stated she was born in Wood county and that her parents were both dead, the father having died when she was 2 months old and the mother when she was 2 years of age. Since the death of her mother and until leaving home she made her home with a grandmother.

Married At Plainview

Mrs. Ray further testified she and the defendant had lived together as man and wife prior to being married, the ceremony taking place in Plainview in December, 1943. She said Ray suggested she accompany him to Lubbock in September, 1943, which she did. They stopped at a tourist camp here, she said. She said that Ray arranged for, and assisted her in the practice of prostitution. She returned to Sulphur Spring the following month and in December he wired her to come to Plainview so they could be married, which she did.

She testified further concerning similar instances of immoral practices, at Lubbock, Richmond, Calif., and Los Angeles.

Ray denied on the stand that he transported his wife from state to state for immoral purposes, or that he assisted her in prostitution arrangements.

Jurors Are Excused

Jurors for the term reported Tuesday morning, with 28 of the panel of 33 being sworn in by the clerk of the court, five being excused from jury service. As no jury cases were scheduled to be heard before Thursday Judge Davidson excused the remaining jurors until 10 o'clock that morning.

Three aliens took the oath of allegiance as new citizens of the United States before Judge Davidson Tuesday afternoon. The were Louis Joseph Brosch, 46, and Millie Brosch, 55, both of Route 2, Slaton, and Agnes Hoy McMeekan, 61, of Route 6, Lubbock.

Hearings on several civil cases will constitute the docket for the rest of the term, according to Mrs. Olive Fluke, deputy district clerk for the Lubbock division of the northern district of Texas. All criminal cases have been disposed of.

Other cases heard Tuesday were:

Earl Staller, 28, pleaded guilty to charges of unlawfully possessing "T" gasoline ration coupons and agreeing and attempting to sell the coupons. Judge Davidson withheld imposition of sentence, turning him over to the U. S. deputy marshal for one hour to confer with probation officers regarding transportation to his home in Philadelphia.

A 17-year-old former Lubbock boy, whose home is now in Sioux City, Iowa, pleaded guilty to charges of taking, stealing and carrying away certain property from a truck which was being moved in interstate commerce while en route to consignee. Imposition of sentence was withheld and he was placed on probation for two years.

Loan Companies Facing Charges

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP) — Thirteen chains of small loan companies in the South and West, involving 40 corporations and 75 individuals, and operating more than 400 offices, were charged today with conspiracy to violate the Sherman anti-trust act by agreeing to fix interest rates.

Attorney General Francis Biddle announced that a federal grand jury in San Antonio, Texas, has returned an indictment charging that the defendants conspired to maintain interest rates and charges ranging all the way from 60 per cent to 1,000 per cent a year on loans of $5 to $60.

120 To 240 Per Cent

The indictment charges that in a majority of loans, the interest rates and charges ranged from 120 per cent to 240 per cent a year.

The defendants operate in 23 states from the Carolinas to the Pacific coast.

The two largest "chains" are the United Operating company, Atlanta, and Triangle Securities Trust, Nashville, Tenn. the indictment says both groups are controlled by Rufus Dewit King and John M. Ogden, both of Miami, Fla., and that during the last three years the two chains have operated more than 200 small loan offices in all of the 23 states.

Thanks TO YOU

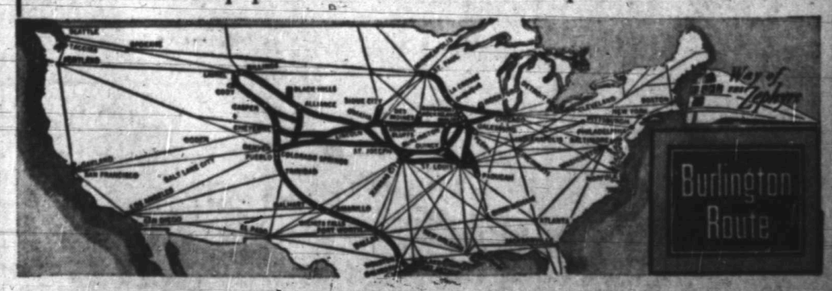

AMERICAN FAMILIES are doing without many accustomed things now-a-days. That's one way in which all of us are able to play a definite part in speeding the day of Victory.

Have you ever stopped to consider just how important this "doing without" program really is? It lacks the drama and the lustre of more direct action, to be sure, but our entire war effort might very well collapse without it.

Take the one item of travel, for example. Thousands, yes tens of thousands of people are foregoing pleasure travel these days. By thus "doing without," they are assisting America's railroads in handling their gigantic war assignments with speed and efficiency. It's a job that simply couldn't be done without the public's willingness to "do without."

For this spirit of cooperation, we of the Burlington Lines extend our sincere thanks. We're looking forward to the day when we can show our appreciation more tangibly—in terms of equipment and service fashioned to peacetime standards.

Montgomery Ward Coasts In Over West Texas Gas

Six runs without a hit in the first inning gave Montgomery Ward enough head start on the West Texas Gas company team Tuesday afternoon at Chapman field to allow Montgomery Ward to coast in with a 7 to 6 victory in the season's opener for the two clubs.

The schedule for Wednesday afternoon in the National League will pair the two losers of the league openers while Thursday will match the two winners in a showdown for the league leadership.

Gassers Play Sears

West Texas Gas will tangle with Sears and Roebuck this afternoon while Montgomery Ward will get a days rest, before they tangle with the Hemphill-Wells nine.

Campbell started on the rubber for the Gassers, but his wildness put him in the hole early and the team was never able to overcome the early handicap.

Campbell walked the first three men, then after an error, walked two more, then hit one with a pitched ball, and another error rounded out the six runs and brought in Skipper Phil Ragland.

Ragland Pitches Well

Ragland pitched great baseball the rest of the way, giving up three hits and a single run in seven innings. Ragland threw the third strike past 15 batters in the seven innings, striking out the first four men to face him before Ted Forsyth, Montgomery Ward skipper, blasted a long double to break the string.

Gerald West went the route for the winners, and hurled good ball all the way, giving up only four hits and whiffed four men. West also made a shaky start on the hill, but settled down to come out of the hole before it proved costly.

Two runs off West in the first inning, also without the aid of a hit, made a total of eight runs without a hit in the first inning of the ball game. A walk, error, hit batsman and another error provided the first two runs off West.

West breezed through the second inning, then another little touch of wildness put him in another hole in the third inning when two more runs were scored without a hit. Two walks, a hit batsman, two passed balls and a wild pitch pushed over the two runs.

West Holds Lead

West pitched four innings of hitless ball, but in the fifth James Cline opened the inning by slicing a triple to right and scored on Ragland's single past third. West then picked Ragland off first and retired the next two men to come out of the hole.

In the sixth, Montgomery Ward scored what proved to be the winning run on Hoskins' walk, stolen base and Skipper Forsyth's second hit of the game, a single to left.

In the last of the sixth, West got himself into trouble when he dropped Petree's easy popup to the box. Petree moved to second on a passed ball and on to third on a wild pitch, then scored on Campbell's single to center.

Ragland got his second hit of the game in the seventh, after one was out, but Hoskins speared Murphy's line drive at third and doubled Ragland off first to end the ball game.

Score:

Ward	600	001	0—7 3 4
Gas Co.	202	011	0—6 4 4

West and Jones; Campbell, Ragland and Murphy.

Rotary Club Pounds Kiwanis Cards, 13-4

The Rotary Club baseball nine opened the American League baseball race with a 13 to 4 win over the Kiwanis Club nine Tuesday afternoon at Texas Tech field.

The victory for the Rotary Club in it's opener added interest to Thursday's battle at Tech field when winners of the first two games clash in the second round and will provide the first real test for the early pace setting American Business Club and Rotary teams.

The Optimist Club Demons and the Lions Club Yankees, the remaining clubs in the league will open the season this afternoon to complete the junior baseball openers in Lubbock's two leagues.

Both clubs used two pitchers Tuesday afternoon with Higginbotham and Alderson teaming together to pitch the Rotary Club to the victory as Alderman finished strong with four scoreless innings after taking over the duties with a slim 5 to 4 lead.

Billy Travis and Billy Tatum divided the pitching for the Kiwanis Cardinals, but ran into trouble in the second and fifth innings as the winners scored four times in each of these innings for the bulk of the runs.

Manor and Sikes set the scoring pace for the winners, Manor scoring four times and Sikes three to account for more than half of the runs.

Score:

Kiwanis	202	000	0— 4
Rotary	140	242	x—13

Travis, Tatum and Louder; Higgenbotham, Alderson and Kealing.

Tucker Opposed To Closed Fish Season

WACO, June 6 (AP)—Will Tucker, secretary of the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, doesn't think there should be a closed season on fishing in Texas.

Tucker, visiting in Waco, said it was decided years ago to have a closed season in March and April because of the erroneous impression that those months were the spawning season.

"When the law was made, the state had only two fish hatcheries, both of which were small and fed by warm water," he explained. "At these hatcheries it was learned that the fish did spawn in March and April, but later, when fish hatcheries were established in various sections of the state, it was learned that the average date of the start of the spawning season was May 15."

He does not think it advisable to have a closed season later than that and since a closed season in March and April does not help, he favors doing away with it all together. Tucker said he would seek removal of the closed season next year.

Walker, Tucker Lead In Majors

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP)—National League fans dragged out the record books today to look up the .400 hitters of the past as Dixie Walker, the Brooklyn Dodger outfielder, continued to ride a .426 average through the seventh week of the campaign.

Walker outdistanced the opposition by 78 points as Stan Musial of St. Louis faded off 20 points to .348.

Not since 1930 when Bill Terry compiled a .401 mark for the Giants has the senior loop had a member of the 400 club.

Behind Musial's .348 came Eric Tipton of Cincinnati whose .339 gave him third spot ahead of Frenchy Bordagaray and Augie Galan of Brooklyn, tied for fourth at .333.

Walker Leads Hits

Walker added 12 hits during the week to hold the lead in that department with 72 and Bordagaray scored nine times to lead in runs at 38. Howie Schultz, a Brooklyn team mate, clung to the RBI lead with 37.

Mel Ott of the New York Giants got hot and hit five more homers to boost his total to 12. Tommy Holmes of Boston held the lead with 16 doubles, Johnny Barrett of Pittsburgh clung to first place in triples with 7 and Max Macon of Boston failed to steal a base but still topped the field with six.

Max Lanier shares the pitching lead with fellow Cardinal George Munger at 6-1 for an .857 percentage.

AMERICAN LEADERS

CHICAGO, June 6. (AP) — Pursued by a Sunday jinx, Thurman Tucker, Chicago White Sox outfielder, fell 12 points off his batting beam during the week but still held the American league hitting lead with .383.

Tucker has batted in 26 games this season and has hit safely in 23 of them.

Tucker, however, still maintained a wide lead over his nearest rival, Cleveland's Oris Hockett, who soared from a fourth place .333 to a second place .354, when Detroit's Chuck Hostettler dropped from .352 to .320 and fifth position.

Other Leaders

Other top ten batters in averages computed through Sunday's game were George Myatt, Washington, with .329; Bob Johnson, Boston, .322; Bobby Doerr, Boston, .315; Bob Swift, Detroit, .314; Irv Hall, Philadelphia, .313; Roy Cullenbine, Cleveland, and Ervin Fox, Boston, each with .307. Leaders were determined on a basis of 100 or more times at bat.

Cullenbine led the league in number of hits with 54, two-base hits with 16 and home runs with seven. Two St. Louis players topped the other brackets: Don Gutteridge by collecting five three-base hits and filching 11 bases, and Vern Stephens by batting in 30 runs.

New York's Hank Borowy still headed the pitching records with seven wins and one loss, while the Browns' Jack Kramer still was tops in strikeouts after fanning 52 batsmen.

RELIEFER SIGNS

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP)—Johnny Allen, relief pitcher who appeared in 32 contests with the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants last year, signed a contract with the Giants today for the remainder of the season. He had rejected previous offers.

Softball School Opens At Chapman Field Wednesday

Everything was in readiness today for the opening of the four day junior softball school opening at Chapman field this afternoon at 4 o'clock under the direction of "Spider" Dillon and Don Grove.

The classes will take up all phases of the game for the kids and show them how to bat and field and also take up a discussion of the rules of the game. Classes will last each of the four remaining days of the week and run until 7 o'clock each evening.

About 200 Expected

Close to 200 boys are expected to turn out for the school. The equipment for both the school and for league play will be furnished by the City Recreation department and will be conducted under paid supervisors.

Teams will be formed at the coaching school for the season's play, and the league operated under the supervision of Dillon and Grove. Games will be started at 6 o'clock each evening in order to give the boys with jobs during the summer a chance to play.

Nine Teams "In"

Nine teams have already been formed, A. C. "Stumpy" Hamilton said Tuesday. They will be from eight local schools and the Benson addition.

Today is the deadline for the adult teams to enter the softball leagues, and must have their rosters in Hamilton's office by 5 o'clock. Hamilton said Tuesday that only two rosters had been turned in to date, these by the Hurlwood All-Stars for the men's league and West Texas hospital for the women's league.

Anyone needing further information on either the school or leagues can contact Hamilton by telephone at the office in the City Hall. The number is 9346.

Most Sports Events On D-Day Called Off

NEW YORK, June 6. (AP) — Sport's tribute to D-day was the solemnity of almost absolute quiet today in its stadiums and fields.

Only Delaware State park and Bay Meadows of the larger racing plants operated while the Pacific Coast league was the only baseball circuit among the majors and top minors to do full scale business.

Fights, including the 10-round affair between Sammy Angott and Ike Williams at Philadelphia, also were set back.

The racing industry, which announced plans to close on D-day two weeks ago when President Roosevelt suggested that citizens go to their homes and churches on invasion day, quickly fell into line.

New York, Chicago, Boston and Detroit turf plants cancelled their programs early followed by Pascoag Park in New England, Charlestown in West Virginia, Ascot Park and River Downs in Ohio, Canada's King's Park and the Old Country Trotting association at Westbury, N. Y.

Delaware Park, where the jockeys delayed the start of the first race for 20 minutes by refusing to accept mounts, increased its war bond distribution to horsemen by 50 per cent. Bay Meadows contributed its day's profits to war charities.

Both scheduled major league contests, night affairs at Pittsburgh and Brooklyn, were switched to other dates. The two games listed in the International league, whose president Frank Shaughnessy said he had "two sons over there and I am not much interested in baseball today," also were postponed. All American association games were postponed.

The smaller minors also were dotted with cancellations.

Promoter Herman Taylor said the Angott-Williams bout would be held tomorrow night, weather permitting, in Shibe Park.

An All-Star soccer game at the Polo Grounds, where the entire gate receipts went to the Red Cross, was played.

Tebbetts Finds His "Farm System" Pays

WACO, June 5 (AP)—Birdie Tebbetts, who knew about baseball farm systems while catching for the Detroit Tigers, has found the Army with one that's both efficient and convenient.

From it he has put together a couple of clubs comparable in ability with the majors. As manager of the nine at Waco Army Air Field, Birdie produced an outfit that won 52 or 62 games and the state semi-pro title last year.

Now he's back with one that looks as good or better; it has taken nine of ten games.

Birdie's "farm system" is the intramural sports program. Tebbetts watches the squadron games and gets plenty of material. His system is more convenient that the kind in the majors because he can just walk across the lot and recruit ball players. No scouting, no waits, no contract troubles.

Al Kasparek tossed an intramural no-hitter. His next appearance was with the WAAF team. Second baseman Pat Padgett, catcher George Delk and several others followed the same course.

On Tebbetts' squad are such fellows as Sid Hudson, former Washington ace who won 18 games last season and has taken three this year without allowing an earned run; Buster Mills, ex-big league outfielder; Hoot Evers, property of the Tigers, and many others of known pro ball ability.

The air field teams have brought Waco its best baseball in history and Waco once was a power of the Texas League.

The U. S. Treasury recently issued a statement to the press praising the work of the banks in the war effort. It was pointed out that 13½ billion dollars—over 80% of all bonds sold in the 4th War Loan—cleared through banks. Banks did this job at their own expense. They received no remuneration. They paid out large sums for salaries, overhead and advertising. We appreciate this recognition, but seek no special praise. We welcome the opportunity to help win the war.

OUR PLEDGE

WE pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands; One Nation, indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.

Let Us Prove Our Worth

AMERICANS on the home front will share today, and perhaps for many days, a feeling of utter futility which may seem maddening at times.

Men are dying. Epochal events are transpiring. History is being made. The future way of life for those living today and for those to come is in the process of determination.

In this solemn setting, we Americans at home become starkly conscious of their helplessness. About all we can do right now is to wait and hope and pray. So far as transpiring events are concerned, the home-fronter's opportunity to help has passed. Americans today must answer to their individual consciences for what they did, or failed to do, to aid in the preparations for yesterday, for today, and for the days to come.

But, sometimes it is true, as the poet said, that they also serve who only stand and wait. Perhaps those of us at home can serve, at lease a little, if the fates have decreed that they must stand and wait.

Possibly it will be helpful to the future, if not the present, if we at home will guard against expecting too much. Perhaps it will be some slight service to the cause in which all Americans are joined if we at home will resognize the full enormity of the undertaking upon which the Allied fighting forces are embarked. Possibly we at home should remember that the enemy has had as long to prepare his defenses as the Allies have had to get ready for the incomparably more difficult attack. We at home may also serve if we steel ourselves for whatever of good or bad the immediate future may hold. We must be on guard against the sort of disappointment which breeds dispair.

True, it may seem at first though that, if events go badly, it won't make much difference how the home front may react. An unshaken home morale can't be put to immediate use by men fighting for their lives. But let's remember that despair on the home front certainly could not be helpful. It might be hurtful, even fatal. A strong, firm home front might not win a war. But a weakened, desparing home front might lose it.

So, let's hope and pray for the best. But let's pray at the same time that we, at home, shall have the courage to face squarely whatever may come. Let's pray that, when immediate events have become history, the home front will have proved itself worthy of those who offered their lives upon the fields of battle.

Fight The Johnson Grass!

IT probably would be extremely difficult to exaggerate the importance to Lubbock county, and to the South Plains, of a meeting called for 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon in 99th District courtroom in the Lubbock courthouse to discuss the eradication of Johnson grass.

This plague of the farmer has made its appearance in some farming areas of the country. So farmers and landowners have been called together to organize a fight to try to stamp out the pest before it gets a good start. The highway department, railroads, civic clubs, the county government and others have enlisted in the fight.

Not many people from any other part of Texas, or possibly from most other parts of the United States, need be told anything about Johnson grass. Most of them have seen a lot, or heard a lot, about this pest. If anyone who knows anything about the grass ever has had a kind word to say about it, we have never heard it. Frequently the language employed anent this subject is not suitable for polite company.

The most thorough precautions frequently have not been sufficient to prevent a Johnson grass invasion. Once started, it spreads with an almost incredible rapidity. It takes complete possession of the land it invades. It chokes out almost all other vegetation: It thrives when most other crops wither. It is extremely difficult to eradicate.

In many Texas counties, the first question asked when a land deal is in prospect is: "Do you have Johnson grass?" If the answer is, "Yes," the deal frequently is off right there. If negotiations continue, the land suffers in value.

Johnson grass is one pest that Lubbock and the South Plains do not want. If it has begun to appear, then no time is too immediate and no effort is too great for the fight to eliminate it.

Whatever became of First Aid classes? And how many who took these courses now know the difference between a traction splint and a torniquet?

The One Minute Sermon

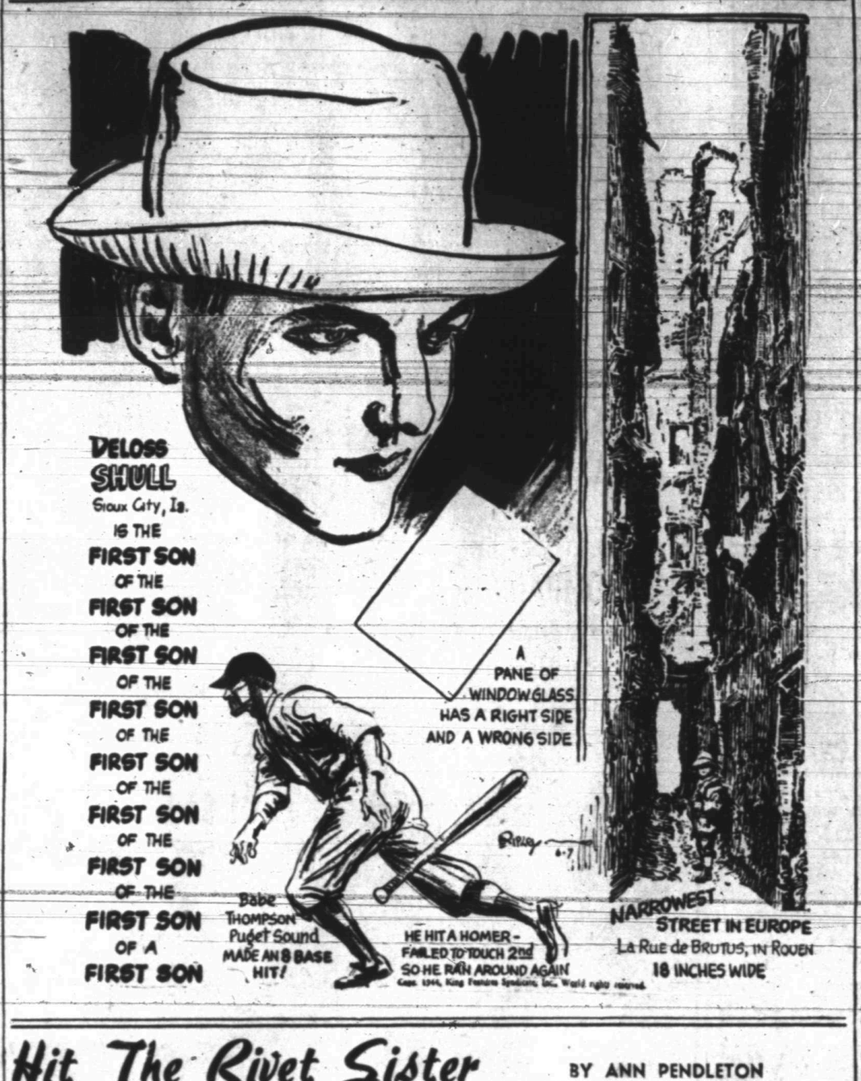

To every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven:

A time to be born, and a time to die, a time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted:

A time to kill, and a time to heal; a time to break down, and a time to build up;

A time to weep, and a time to laugh; a time to mourn, and a time to dance.—Ecclesiastes 3: 1 through 4.

TO LAY MY HEAD

Chapter II

Not the field, the Park, I was told by Mrs. Schwartz of the stationery shop. The Park, and that ramshackle long building which faces the station was the Rug Mill. Surely I had heard of Johnson's? No? What part did I come from, if she might ask? Oh, New York. Well, all sorts and kinds were coming to Moore City now, foreigners from all over.

"This here girl's from New York," Mrs. Schwartz called to her husband in the back room—there was a sort of despairing "see what's happening now" in her voice. There wasn't any reply, but presently Mister, an overwhelmingly stout man with an incongruous fox-face, came to the door and stood looking me over. "I knew a men went to New York," he remarked. "Fellow named Bill Maloney." He stared at me disapprovingly. "Died there," he said, and disappeared.

I had gone into Mrs. Schwartz's paper store to ask my way to the Plant on my arrival and she had outlined a complicated bus itinerary. Finally, after I had noted it all down, she made the revelation that it would be both quicker and easier to walk. It had been easy, but not particularly quick. I had to walk along Main Street, with two movies and six blocks of two-story buildings which were shops; along Maple Street, Oak, Chestnut, all treeless and all identical, with frame houses, squashed close together, children, one-car garages, faded Red Cross stickers in the windows and wooden animals stuck into the grass. There ought to be a drug store or a hot-dog place somewhere, I thought, plodding along toward Kerry Kraft, hot, hungry and apprehensive. There wasn't. Moore City's residents don't go in for casual refreshment.

There was, however, ice cream at Mrs. Schwartz's. Finding, when I emerged from Personnel, the plant bus would take me back to that neighborhood, I decided to start my house hunting from there. They'd given me some addresses and telephone numbers at the Plant. Perhaps Mrs. Schwartz would let me know which, if any, of these might be possible. Maybe there was a Y. W. or a hotel, somewhere to lay my head Sunday night, to start out from Monday morning.

Well, there was the American House, Mrs. Schwartz admitted, but I wouldn't, she was sure, want to go there. "I ain't saying it ain't clean enough," she added hastily. "Clean enough, and I do know they'd use the set a good table back in my father's day." Since her father's time she hadn't heard anyone say whether the dining room was still open or not. She would, however, find out for me if I wanted.

After a while we began talking over present possibilities. Miss Bates's, but she guessed her rooms was took; Miz Horner's, but hers was took too most likely; Miz Purson's, now that would be real nice for me, if she didn't charge too high. Four dollars, most likely. Would I feel, Mrs. Schwartz asked diffidently, like paying four dollars? "They'll hold out your pay on you, you know," she warned me anxiously. "Hold it back two weeks. Like now, if you was to start Monday, Friday you don't get no pay till next Friday, and then all you get will be four days . . . Eighteen dollars," she added. One's financial affairs, it appeared, were no secret in Moore City.

There was a 4 o'clock train. It was already 4:30, and Mrs. Schwartz was off on the high rents people charged now, and the nice rooms I could have had for $2, if I had come to Moore City three years ago.

At something after five I got away, with five addresses to investigate. By six I had finished them all. At the only one which had looked at all possible I had been told that women were always doing laundry and that, therefore, men were best. I would get back to the station and catch the train, I decided; come down Sunday morning and try again with the days before me. Once more I started down the street which lead me past Schwartz's to the railroad.

There was an agitated hallooing and the sound of running steps. From the house I had just left a small boy came in pursuit. "Mom says she knows who'll take you," he shouted after me. "Wait. I gotta take you there. It's Miz Nelson. Mom says she ain't so fussy."

Mom was right. Mrs. Nelson, a twittering little old lady whose unpleasant yellow house had quite a pretty yard, rented me the best room she had for four dollars.

"Starting work up at Kerry Kraft?" she asked me, and, fluttering with pride, I said yes, and —anticipating happily — added, "As a rive "

She took my hand and patted it. "Never mind, girlie," she said. "You'll get better work some day. You'll earn a living, and you've no call to be ashamed."

Ah, strange new world!

ELLINGTON FIELD, June 6. (U.P.)—One Army flyer was known dead and four others were missing today after two navigation training planes collided in flight near Alexandria, La., yesterday afternoon, it was announced today.

The dead: Lt. Chester T. Pickering, 25, student officer, Iowa City, Iowa.

The missing: Lt. Richard I. Harris, 23, Sacramento, Calif.; Lt. Millard F. Rosenberg, 41, Oakland, Calif.; A/C Joseph R. Gassman, 20, Lancaster, Pa. A/C Edmund B. Gadzinski, 26, Middleton, Conn.

Only one of the planes crashed. The second returned safely to Ellington field with no injuries among the personnel.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

OVER a period of years I have developed a habit which comes in pretty handy when you write for a living.

As ideas come to me—on the train, in bed, at the lunch table —I scribble them down on the back of envelopes.

Then, when I get enough of these envelopes into my pocket so that no more fit in, I look over them before I throw them away, and see whether there isn't something to write about.

Here is one I just came across:

"Never trust a man who doesn't trust others."

I wrote that one down after I met a fellow who has to get everything in writing.

Whatever he does, there must always be a signed agreement. If he lends you $10, he wants an IOU; if he pays a bill, no matter how small, he must have a receipt.

"Why do you do that?" I asked him.

"Because you can't trust people," was his reply.

"Why cant' you trust people?" I asked him.

He answered before he had a chance to think about his answer.

"Because most people are cheats if they get a chance," he said.

There you have it. Only a person who is a cheat at heart suspects others of being cheats.

I happen to know that this particular fellow will squeeze the last nickel out of a deal.

I would never trust him, because he doesn't trust his fellow man.

* * *

HERE is another note I scribbled on the envelope:

"To have friends you must be a friend."

I remember why I made that note.

It's about a fellow who makes lots of money, who has a beautiful home and many acquaintances, but not a single real friend.

The acquaintances are either people who want favors from him or who like his liquor and his food.

But if he lost his money, or his job tomorrow, he ould be completely alone.

This fellow has no friends because he can't be a friend.

He entertains only people who are socially worth-while to him or those who can help him to climb.

To him friendship is capital that must bear interest.

What's the moral in these two notes I took?

Oh, nothing much, except that I agree with Emerson that you get what you give, and, come to think of it, there's something similar in the Bible

Isn't there?

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE military and diplomatic status of Rome, now that the city is occupied by Anglo-American forces is one of the Allies' thorniest problems. Confidention dispatches from neutral attaches stationed there have given the shivers to President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

For obvious reasons no nation wants to destroy the Eternal City and bring down condemnation on itself.

As Hitler spared Paris—a consequence of Ambassador Bill Bullitt's intervention—so he has left Mussolini's former capital virtually unharmed. He did it solely for statecraft and political reasons.

The Allies need the Italian citadel because of the military, diplomatic and psychological boost the seizure gives to their cause.

INVENTION: President Roosevelt has an annoying habit of using fictitious stooges to illustrate a political or economic point. Bill Murphy, of the Philadelphia Inquirer has figured out that FDR has resorted to at least 20 imaginary characters in his various attempts to ridicule his enemies.

When he attacked the newspapers, he put into the mouth of an unidentified "publisher" words which had never been said. When he assailed business, bankers and farmers, he relayed intimate, human anecdotes tended to reveal that certain members of those groups sided with him as against their own people. The device of the "unknown spokesman" was invented by Teddy Roosevelt, but his seventh cousin has improved and perfected it.

GUFFAWS: FDR used the scheme once too often, however, at a recent press conference. In discussing newspaper stories of present and prospective inflation, the President told of a "factory foreman" who frequently brings his troubles to the White House. (Imagine a "foreman" breaking into 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue in these days!)

This worker complained to the President about the high price of asparagus. According to the Chief Executive, he brought home five stalks of the vegetable that had cost him $1.25. (Note: The present price of a large bunch is only 59 cents in Washington.) The man's wife complained bitterly because of the excessive cost.

But Mr. Roosevelt resolved their doubts and fears regarding inflation. He asked, "What do you mean, with your pay receipts, by buying fresh asparagus in the dead of winter?"

A conscientious correspondent shot back, "Mister President, is that the same 'foreman' you told us about last January, when he bought excessively priced strawberries?"

There was no reply from the head man—only journalistic guffaws in which he did not join!

* * *

RASCALS: National Chairman Bob Hannegan recently addressed a Democratic workers' and contributors' audience in Louisville.

Bob has paid particular attention to the Blue Grass state because there is every chance that Senate Majority Leader Alben Barkley may be licked next November and this border commonwealth may go Republican in the presidential election.

Mayor Wilson Wyatt introduced FDR's Man Friday in glowing terms. He said that Bob, at the age of 28, had become Democratic chairman in St. Louis in 1932. "And," continued His Honor, "although St. Louis had been Republican for many years, Hannegan turned out the rascals and from then on elected Democratic administrations."

When the President's hand-picked chairman arose, he explained, "I deserve no credit for these mayoralty victories in St. Louis. Here is what we did to win: You have heard about coat-tailing to a popular, national candidate so as to carry the courthouse and City Hall.

"Well, we did more than that. Our local organization took a strangle hold, a scissors, a full Nelson and a toehold on Franklin Roosevelt. We staked everything on him, and that is why we won."

Mr. H.'s remarks explain why he and every other office-seeking Democrat want the President to run for a fourth term. They need him, so they think, to re-elect their boy friends to local posts.

Note: The present mayor of St. Louis happens to be a Republican. It seems that Hannegan's magic, and presumably FDR's, lost its power. That is why Sen. Bennett Clark, a Roosevelt foeman but a Hannegan buddy, thinks he has only a 40 per cent chance for re-election.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

POLITICAL leaders consider that Mr. Roosevelt's stand in sharply differing from Mr. Churchill regarding Spain is an effort of the President to curry favor with liberals in the coming election.

Franco, who has never recanted his statement that he hoped Hitler would win, is held in opprobium not only by labor elements and radicals but also by substantial groups of voters usually independent in politics. In the Republican party the Willkie bloc looks with favor on any statesman who speaks boldly against the Madrid dictator.

The subject of Spanish relations has always plagued FDR. At the time of the civil war a great many of the President's regular supporters opposed aid to the Loyalists.

It can be said here on excellent authority that Mr. Roosevelt never sympathized with Franco. Important members of the League of Nations did not want the United States to interfere and the President bowed to Geneva and those in his own State dpartment whose judgment he felt obliged to accept.

When the North African drive was about to be launched, he went out of his way to appease Franco, because military advisers feared trouble otherwise.

Strange as it may seem to laymen, our generals did not believe Hitler could invade the Iberian Peninsula without the proud Spanish nation's trying to bar the way—even if its ruler had unlocked the gate. But the resulting disorder and uncertainty about Nazi ultimate success would have thrown off General Eisenhower's timetable.

PRYING: Ever since, the slightest nod from Washington to Madrid has brought vigorous protests from an extremely influential segment of the electorate.

Many other Americans who preferred Franco to the Communist republic he overthrew have cooled as the generalissimo has shown continued animosity to the democracies, including our own.

Apologists explain Mr. Churchill's stand on the ground that Britain is a maritime empire whose world trade interests coincide with those of Spain and Portugal, two other colonial powers. Also that to him Gibraltar is worth the price of a verbal bouquet any day.

But certain insiders in diplomatic circles find an unpublished reason for the buttering. It is that if the Allies plan to assault the flat plains of southern France between San Sebastian and Bordeaux—as Boche radios have hinted—it is imperative to have a mollified Franco on our right flank.

And, if additional invasion forces should swing around Spain instead of crossing the Channel, slip through the Strait of Gibraltar and attack the "under belly of Europe" between Marseille and Trieste, we do not want our movements reported to Berlin as a result of observation by prying, hostile Spanish eyes.

New England Publication Offers Salute To Texas

By WILLIAM E. KEYS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, June 6. (AP) — There probably would be few Texas dissenters to Prof. Ralph H. Gabriel, a Yale university professor, who wrote in the New England Quarterly:

"Texas is an empire in its own right. To drive from the dry grasslands of the Panhandle across the lowland cotton country to the Gulf ports and on to the eastern oil fields is to pass through half the material phases of American civilization.

"For all its diversity, Texas has in a spiritual sense a unity born of its history, which includes the war for freedom in 1836 and nine years of independent membership in the society of nations.

"The individualism and the hopefulness of a frontier which has just passed is confirmed and magnified by an industrial revolution that is just beginning. Texas . . . is particularistic yet very American."

Paper Sponsors Contest

To stimulate production of livestock feeds, the Paris News is sponsoring a $150 war bond feed contest among livestock growers in Northeast Texas and Southeast Oklahoma.

Thirteen prizes starting with the first prize of $250 in Series E War bonds and tapering to 10 prizes of $25 each in War bonds will be awarded Dec. 1.

Objective of the contest "is to have farmers consuming their own feeds and stop excessive demands on the markets which creates serious shortages and causes losses to our farmers," explains the News.

The contest steering committee is headed by A. L. Edmiaston, Lamar county agricultural agent.

THE woman who entered the office of the billeting officer of Camp Wolters, near Mineral Wells, had a baby in her arms.

Her husband was a trainee at the camp. She had no place to go. When told that the office had no rooms available, she sat on the floor outside the office, in a near collapse, sobbing.

She had wandered through the streets of Mineral Wells, seeking an apartment, a room, anything.

The situation in Mineral Wells is typical in Texas where war-congested Army or Navy towns strive in vain to accommodate wives and families of men in the armed services.

Lt. William T. Thornton, Camp Wolter's billeting officer, explained the problem.

"At present, no rooms or apartments are available anywhere in Mineral Wells through the housing office," he said. "We never turn a soul away if we can send them somewhere. The community runs a dormitory for wives and children of trainees who must have shelter, but it is open Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights only. It is always crowded and there are no provisions to permit trainees to stay there with their wives. Women are charged $1 per night for the shelter. It is an emergency measure to keep them off the streets.

"Trainees must avail themselves of what quarters are left after permanent personnel are situated. Remembering that fully 25 per cent of available housing is substandard, many a trainee's wife who finally does find a room must be content with inferior living conditions.

"That, or walk from door to door for a place to sleep."

Little Gain In Housing

The lieutenant said Mineral Wells was a city of 6,000 population prior to establishment of the camp and that the population has increased to 13,000 with very little gain in housing. Of the permanent personnel of the camp residing outside, 2,500 live in Mineral Wells and about 500 in Weatherford.

'A few FHA homes were built here," Lieutenant Thornton stated, "but no program was established for housing military personnel except one housing project which was designed for civilian government employes and non-commissioned officers of the first three grades.

"This office makes 2,500 physical inspections annually to set standards for renting to permanent personnel but we cannot inspect or control quarters not available to it.

"From the standpoint of good judgment and common sense, trainees should leave their wives at home."

The officer said soldiers are warned to be sure of their financial status before attempting to have their wives stay at one of the hotels in Mineral Wells, explaining that "Days go by rapidly and the hotel bill mounts."

A Criminal Appeal court decision making sun time, rather than standard time, applicable in enforcing child labor statutes has evoked much talk about time differences.

E. K. Mead, of the Dallas Times Herald, an astronomer by hobby, explains time differentials in lay language:

Every astronomer and navigator knows that clock or standard time varies from sun time according to longitude because the earth devolves on its axis once every 23.57 hours.

For convenience, mechanical clocks revolve every 24 (mechanical) hours and the world by international agreement has been divided into 24 time zones, one hour apart. Here's an example:

When the sun crosses the 90th meridian (Chicago and New Orleans are on this meridian) all clocks in the central time zone register noon but the sun doesn't cross the Dallas noon meridian until the clock shows 12:27 p. m., because it takes Mother Earth 27 minutes to turn that far.

USE SEA POWER TO GET
HOGS IN A HURRY
FEED STANTON'S
20% PIG RATION
Today, more than ever before, it is extremely important to speed up growth and keep mortality down in young pigs. Feed is too precious to waste on the laggards and pork is too valuable to lose before it goes to market. Stanton's 20% pig ration provides extra protection against both. In hundreds of hog lots, it is working consistently to improve pig health, speed up growth and reduce mortality because it gives little pigs the same kind of boost that chick starter gives to baby chicks. It is being fed widely to sows before farrowing and through creep feeding—to pigs from 2-3 weeks of age on up.

MANAMAR
In Stanton's 20% pig ration supplies the hard-to-get feeding essentials—fish proteins, food minerals and vitamins, including the important Vitamin B "complex."

B-G PLUS
Is a patented vacuum concentrated extract from fish. This new and potent product, resulting from ten years of ceaseless research and experiment, supplies extra tract minerals and vitamins in Stanton's 20% pig ration.

City ambulance driver Harry Goldberg, who with Parkland hospital intern W. J. Garrett, made an emergency call at 2:25 a. m., said the baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Lester Renfrow.

"I'll name her Invasia," said the mother.

STOCKS PUSH UPWARD

NEW YORK, June 6. (AP)—The big invasion news today found financial markets well prepared and stocks, particularly motors and other industrials with good peace prospects, pushed upward in the fastest session since last November.

The New York Stock exchange, curb and other markets throughout the nation observed moments of silence in tribute to the fighting forces.

Belief that the all-out thrust at Axis Europe meant victory might come quicker than expected served to revive specialized investment demand.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .3 of a point at 53.1, with the rail composite down .1 of a point. Transfers totalled 1,758,760 shares. Largest since Nov. 8, 1943, and compared with 850,990 Monday.

At highs for 1944 were General Motors, Chrysler, Packard, Studebaker, Nash-Kelvinator, International Telephone and Du Pont. Finishing in front were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Union Pacific, Pepsi-Cola, Radio Corp., Dow Chemical, American Can, American Telephone, Goodyear, Goodrich, International Harvester, Eastern Air Lines, American Airlines and Pan American Airways.

At Chicago wheat was up 1¼ to 2 cents a bushel, oats ⅝ to 1¼ and rye 2 to 2½. Cotton, down $1.15 in the forenoon, emerged with advances of 15 to 25 cents a bale.

Cotton . .

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, June 6. (AP)—After the first D-day uncertainties which sent prices down as much as $1.15 a bale, cotton futures rallied to close from 15 to 25 cents a bale higher.

Failure of the invasion news to bring on large scale liquidation was a stimulating factor in the upswing which was also helped by mill price fixing against contracts and New Orleans and commission house buying.

Russia All Set

the tempo of its barrage and in that sector huge Soviet forces are known to have completed huge regrouping operations.

The Dnestr Army is only one of at least eight large Soviet armies ready for action. Despite the heavy manpower losses suffered during the early days of the German blitz, probably more trained Soviet troops are in the field waiting the signal to attack than ever before—about 300 divisions and 5,000,000 front-line fighters.

Moscow dispatches said that millions of Soviet soldiers, tens of thousands of planes and tanks and legions of cavalrymen were standing alert along the vast front, ready to strike at the zero hour.

Mighty Wallop Expected

Nobody in Moscow knew when that zero hour would come but when it did, observers in the Soviet capital were convinced that the Russians would throw everything they had into one mighty wallop to crush more than 200 enemy divisions pinned down on the eastern front.

Tonight, a German DNB broadcast said: "Taking into account the start of the Anglo-American invasion of Western Europe, it is possible that concentrated Soviet divisions now are deployed for the attack and will begin to seek the final decision."

New Ward Orders

NLRB bargaining election May 9.

Industry member H. B. Horton cast the dissenting vote tonight. Two other industry members, George H. Mead and Clarence O. Skinner, joined public and labor members to form the majority.

Standard Union Clause

The expired contract contains the standard maintenance of union membership clause and arbitration machinery as a final step in settlement of grevances. Those were the principal clauses which the company protested in challenging the validity of the board's earlier orders.

Acting WLB Chairman George W. Taylor said the extension order conformed with the "regular and long established practice of the board" and with the "normal practice of employers and unions to preserve the status quo of union-management relationships pending the settlement of disputes as to what the new contract should be after expiration of the old one."

Company spokesmen have indicated that the firm would persist in refusing to comply with WLB orders which contained the protested provisions.

Power Said Usurped

Avery told the House committee that President Roosevelt, in his seizure order, "usurped a power not granted to him by Congress and denied him by the constitution he was sworn to uphold and defend."

He also charged that Congress had done a poor job in legislating to settle labor disputes. "Congress hasn't done much of that," he said, "but what it has done, it has done hastily and it has done badly."

Asserting that the WLB "must be destroyed if it doesn't act with some integrity," he alleged that it and other agencies "have been kept under political control and their practices have brought contempt from those with whom they deal."

Gallup Poll

per cent.

When Roosevelt's strength in the present poll is compared to the figures in the presidential elections in 1936 and 1940 in Pennsylvania, it becomes obvious that Republicans have ground for optimism at the strength shown by Dewey at this early date.

Percentage of Roosevelt Vote in Pennsylvania

1936	58%
1940	53
TODAY	52

Roosevelt shows relatively substantial support in the two most populous areas in Pennsylvania—Philadelphia and Allegheny County (Pittsburgh area), both industrial strongholds.

Roosevelt's decline in popularity throughout Pennsylvania, as shown in the present survey, has come about mainly through defection of voters in the small cities and small towns of the state, rather than in the two great populous urban centers.

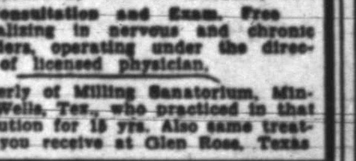

This is shown by comparing his vote in the present survey with the election figures for 1936 and 1940 in these areas and throughout the rest of the state:

Percentage of Roosevelt Vote

	Phila. and Alleg. County	Rest of Pa.
1936	64%	55%

lower Danube river. The Fifteenth Air force sky giants were escorted by both Soviet and American fighters.

Six Interceptors Downed

A communique issued at a Russian air base said that six enemy interceptors were shot down and two American fliers had not yet returned. An Associated Press dispatch from the base also quoted returning American bomber and fighter pilots on the results of the raid, showing that the operation was not of the shuttle type such as was the original landing of the American planes in Russia several days ago after the hammering of Debrecen, Hungary.

(The German radio claimed 11 American planes were lost over Romania yesterday and said the raid produced "fierce air battles.")

The 7,500 sorties between midnight and 8 a. m. made by Allied aircraft in the west yesterday did not take into account the hail of bombs, rockets and bullets that crashed down upon the French coast in the hours following.

Giant Aerial Fleets

During the period covered by the report more than 1,000 British heavy bombers filled the night with thunder. At dawn the American Eighth Air force sent another fleet of more than 1,000 heavies into the air more than 500 medium bombers and hundreds of British and American fighters were out during the same period.

In the light of Reich Marshal Goering's order of the day, in which he instructed the German airforce to repel invasion "even if the luftwaffe perishes," there were only two explanations why the German air force did not put up a fight on D-day.

One was that the enemy was caught flat-footed without enough planes in France to fight effectively in the west to meet the Allied thrust.

Weather Blamed By Nazis

The other, offered by the Berlin radio, was that "the German fighter Army was extraordinarily handicapped by the extremely bad conditions of visibility on the channel." This report heard by CBS said "some short and violent air clashes took places in which a number of Allied planes were shot down."

The Allied airmen, however, braved this weather, described by the supreme headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force as "very bad."

Despite the large scale airborne sorties and their extremely vulnerable operations, Allied losses were reported small.

Germans Claim Life "Normal" In Berlin

LONDON, June 6. (AP)—German propagandists asserted today that despite the invasion of western Europe life continued normal in Berlin with "no excitement, no extra editions, no special radio announcements."

But a part of these assertions obviously were false.

From the time of the first landings a constant stream of broadcasts came from the German transmitters—many of them carrying more than an indication that Hitler's defenses along the western coast had been caught napping.

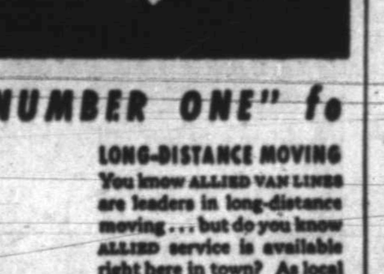

The German press chief was quoted by DNB as saying the Allies opened the invasion "on the order of Moscow."

A DNB correspondent asserted the "German people are longing for revenge" because of the Allied bombing of their cities.

Lubbock And Amarillo Join Efforts On Feeder Airlines

Lubbock and Amarillo interests are to cooperate in a joint effort to provide feeder airlines to serve their respective trade territories.

This agreement was reached, written and signed at a three-hour conference in which representatives of the two cities participated in Hilton hotel here Tuesday afternoon.

Principal points of the agreement were: each city will endeavor to provide feeder airlines to serve its own territory; each city will have the same number of routes; the Lubbock territory will be south and the Amarillo territory north of a line from Clovis, N. M., through Tulia and Paducah, Texas; points on the dividing line may be served out of either or both Lubbock and Amarillo.

Corporation In Process

In a feeder airline corporation now in process of organization under the laws of Deleware, Lubbock and Amarillo investors each will take 37½ per cent of the stock and Braniff Airways, inc., will take 25 per cent.

On the board of directors, Lubbock and Amarillo each will have three members and Braniff one. However, further details of the agreement will be worked out by a group composed of three representatives each from Lubbock and Amarillo, with none from Braniff.

Capitalization of the corporation is $500,000, of which $100,000 is for immediate issuance. Lubbock capital already has underwritten its 37½ per cent of the first $100,000. Subscribers are to pay in 10 per cent of their subscriptions immediately, so as to provide funds with which to seek a certificate from the Civil Aeronautics Board authorizing the operation of the proposed feeder lines. Denial of the certificate, it was explained, probably would necessitate the abandonment of the entire project.

No attempt was made to decide just how many feeder lines would be operated out of each city, if a certificate is obtained. First opinion was, however, that there probably would be three loop lines out of each city to completely cover its territory, with each line being served by two round trips daily.

Representing Amarillo in the conference were Shelby M. Kritser, A. H. Truitt and R. H. Epperson. Lubbock representatives were Jack M. Randal, president, and A. B. Davis, manager of the chamber of commerce, Parker F. Prouty, Robert H. Bean and Bob Walker.

Rix Funeral home said the body will be taken to Robert Lee today. Burial will be in the cemetery there.

Mrs. Roe is survived by three sons: Fred and Dan Roe, both of Robert Lee, and Albert Roe of San Angelo; six daughters: Mrs. S. B. Arnett and Effie Roe, both of Lubbock; Mrs. Aubrey Ashley of Becton; Mrs. J. A. Stroud of Levelland; Mrs. Sam Moreland of Higgins, and Mrs. F. F. Water Fails To Stop Paper From Publishing

LONGVIEW, June 6. (AP)—A downpour of rain left the floor of the Longview News under several inches of water last night but did not prevent the paper going to press with its regular editions.

Employes stopped the water by making a dam out of old newspapers.

There was sufficient paper on the press to run off the regular editions and a new supply was received today from the Southland mills at Lufkin.

Hart said there were no reports of damage in Longview from the rain which measured more than four inches.

"Big Bend" Park Is Nationalized

WASHINGTON, June 6. (U.P.)—President Roosevelt took time out from his preoccupation with the invasion of Europe today to receive a Texas delegation which presented a gift of title to 1,000 square miles of territory in the "Big Bend" of the Rio Grande river for the National Park service.

The delegation included Speaker Sam Rayburn, Sen. Tom Connally, Rep. R. Ewing Thomson, and Amon Carter, president of the Fort Worth Star Telegram and president of the Texas Big Bend National Park association.

Carter gave the President a letter describing the ceremony as a historic occasion because it represented "the unusual spectacle of a state giving something to the federal government." He said the acreage had been acquired through purchase from funds appropriated by the Texas legislature, cash contributions from Texas citizens; conversion from the state's public domain, and through outright gifts of land by private owners.
