HARVEY BACK AT HIS OWN WISH

Ambassador Says He Will Return To England

International News Dispatch

NEW YORK, May 11.—"I am an American—but not a damn fool!"

Ambassador George Harvey, returning to the United States today from the court of St. James for a leave of absence, said the leave "was not permanent" and that he came to the United States "at his o'"n request."

Told that his recall had been demanded in several quarters and that a Massachusetts legislator had introduced a short-lived resolution demanding his forced retirement, Harvey blinked and nodded with the same polite gesture that he might have given any casual bit of news.

"I had not heard them," he replied.

Will Go Back.

Asked directly if he intended to resign, Harvey repeated that he was home on leave of absence.

"Mr. Lasker has invited me to return to England on the Leviathan and I hope to make the trip when the Leviathan sails July 4. That is all I know about it."

Under fire of questions, Harvey maintained a most diplomatic attitude.

To See Harding.

To the report that he had returned to America to take a place in President Harding's cabinet, he replied:

"That's important—if true."

When questioned again concerning his rumored plants to retire, Harvey answered:

"You can say that I am going to resign. All of my predecessors except one resigned. The other one died. I would prefer the first course."

Ambassador Harvey will remain in New York three or four days, he said and then go to Washington for a conference with the president.

Poison Pen Letters Jolt New York's Ultra 400 Resulting In One Suicide And Far-Reaching Probe By Officers

Society Jackals Sought By District Attorney After 120 Missives Are Gathered By His Sleuths

International News Dispatch

NEW YORK May 11.—A gigantic "poison pen" scandal, involving a number of society families was revealed her this afternoon.

The district attorney's office it became known is investigating dozens of complaints from prominent men who said they had received letters with scurrilous and insulting references to members of their families.

It was reported on good authority that one suicide resulted from the letters and that a dozen families were disrupted.

120 Letters Held.

It was reported on good authority that District Attorney Joel Benton has in his possession 120 "poison pen" letters which have been mailed in and around New York in recent months. They are anonymous, but were all sent in envelopes bearing on the upper left hand corner the names of persons as prominent as their recipients. This was to give the receivers of the letters the impression that the persons mentioned had sent them, although they had not.

Seek Society Jackals.

The district attorney's office is investigating the possibility of the existence of an organized band of "society jackals"—hangers-on in the fringe of society—who made it their business to be agreeable to women whom they subsequently made the objects of their "poison pen" attacks.

The information that the district attorney was investigating scores of complaints followed the indictment of George Maxwell, president of the American society of composers, authors and publishers, on a charge of sending a series of anonymous letters to Allan A. Ryan, financier. The letters, it was alleged, contained attacks on Mrs. Ryan.

SALARIES OVER $2,500 WILL BE TAXED BY STATE

Dinkle Bill Passes Senate By Vote Of 18 To 7

2 TO 10 PER CENT LEVY

House Measure Calls For 20 Per Cent Of Federal Tax

Associated Press Dispatch

AUSTIN, Tex., May 11. — The Dinkle income tax bill, as substituted in the senate, and the Pope text book bill were passed finally by the senate today. The first was passed by a vote of 18 to 7, and the latter 21 to 7.

The bill, as passed, places a tax on all incomes above $2,500, ranging from two to ten per cent.

As passed, the Dinkle bill carried several amendments, including: Making banks and other similar corporations subject to the tax; requiring statement as to payment of ad valorem taxes before such will be deducted from amount due. An amendment, by Witt, which would have eliminated deductions of county ad valorem taxes was tabled by a vote of 19 to 7. Deductions of both state and county ad valorem taxes will be made under the bill as passed.

Under the sub-bill, the tax ranges from two to ten per cent, and is estimated to be approximately 50 per cent as large as the federal income tax. As passed by the house, the bill provides for a tax of 20 per cent of the federal tax.

The Pope bill carried two major amendments. One eliminates from the bill the extension of old text book contracts to August 31, 1925. The other leaves to the text book commission the matter of letting new contracts. These provisions, it is said, practically eliminate the purpose of the measure, as the text book commission can at any time after the measure becomes effective, let new contracts.

Tax Opposed.

RAILROADS FIGHT HIGH TAX RATE

Merry Battle On In Oklahoma Over Valuations Of Railroads

FREDERICK, Okla., May 11.—Fighting the devil with fire might aptly express the attitude of the state auditor's department in combatting the methods of the Oklahoma railroads in their protests against assessment of taxes against railroad property in this state, as evidenced by the audit of records of sales of farm and city property and assessments now being made. U. S. Russell of the state auditor's department arrived in Frederick Thursday to make such a check of this county's records.

Lower Valuations

The whole thing comes about through the successful efforts of the railroads last year in having the state board of equalization give them a lower assessed valuation than had been placed on their properties by the various counties of the state. At the time the compromise was effected—the matter having been in the courts for months, tying up school money—it was granted that it was a distinct victory for the railroads.

Russell says the state hopes to make its assessments stick this year, as it will have actual records to prove that farm and city properties are not undervalued, while railroad property is overvalued. The railroads also have auditors in the state at work on this problem, and the same fight again this year is anticipated.

BANDITS—

bandits she thought at first it was an ordinary wreck and then the thought flashed through her mind that the commotion might indicate banditry outside the train.

Her first thought was for the jewels she had with her—family heirlooms—and these she was able to hide before she was seized by the bandits.

Herded Outside Train.

Having done this, she was barely able to put on her slippers and a dressing gown when a brigand entered her compartment. The robber, a dirty ragged, truculent-looking cad, had a rifle and bayonet.

"Then," said Miss Aldrich, "I was marched off the train and herded outside with the other passengers. We were all cold in our night dresses and our night gowns.

"The succeeding hours was a night mare. There were about twenty bandits in our convoy, all carrying bundles of loot.

"I tried to forget my own suffering in the chilly air, and with my feet bruised by the rough trail through my thin slippers, for others were more scantily clad than I, and many of them were barefoot.

"Under the pitiless beating, prodding and sometimes stabbing of the guards to make the Chinese prisoners keep up the fast pace set by the brigands, several of these began to cry piteously.

"Just when I felt I must drop from exhaustion, one of the Chinese prisoners sank to the ground unable to rise again. A bandit poured a torrent of oaths and abuse, dropped his bundles of loot and fired his rifle point blank into the man on the ground.

"This act terrified the remainder of the prisoners and we began to realize our desperate plight.

"We trudged on, no one speaking and finally we reached the wooded foothills. We climbed upward and when we reached the top, I sank down in my tracks.

Runs Clinched In Hand

"Then the bandits began sorting out their plunder. It was a miscellaneous array, jewelry, clothing, bedding, money, doorhandles, brass fixtures taken from the train, one mattress and some pillows.

"It was only then I discovered that throughout the terrible march from the scene of the holdup I had been carrying some of my rings clinched in my hand.

"Some of the articles they had stolen puzzled the brigands. They passed a hot water bag from hand to hand in a vain effort to fix its use. A tube of tooth paste, not only baffled them, but frightened them as well, but when I undertook to demonstrate its use they laughed aloud.

Smile for Bandits

"One of the marauders tried on Miss McFadden's hat, and I was watching him when another walked toward me and poked his carbine into my face. Desperately, I mustered a smile, trying to convince him that I was not afraid to die. It caused him to laugh and even paid me the compliment of patting me shoulder.

"A group of the gang's leaders held a parley, then one of them turned to me, pointed back the way we had come, and marched off leaving me alone.

"I waited for some time fearing that they would return and then set out on the back trail."

NEW GEMS BY O. HENRY

A Treasure Trove of Humor From His Newly Discovered Newspaper Writings

HOW IT STARTED

"You had better move your chair a little further back," said the old resident. "I saw one of the Judkins go up into the newspaper office just now with his gun, and there may be some shooting."

The reporter, who was in the town gathering information for the big edition, got his chair quickly behind a pillar of the hotel piazza, and asked what the trouble was about.

"It's an old feud of several years' standing," said the old resident, "between the editor and the Judkins family. About every two months they get to shooting at one another. Everybody in town knows about it. This is the way it started: The Judkinses live in another town, and one time a good-looking young lady of the family came here on a visit to a Mr. Brown. Mrs. Brown gave her a big party—a regular high-toned affair, to get the young men acquainted with her. One young fellow fell in love with her, and sent a little poem to our paper, the Observer. This is the way it read:

TO MISS JUDKINS
(Visiting Mrs. T. Montcalm Brown.)

We love to see her wear
A gown of simple white,
Nothing but a rose in her hair
At Mrs. Brown's that night.
The fairest of them all
She stood, with blushes red;
While bright the gas light shone
Upon her lovely head.

"That poem, now, was what started the feud."

"I don't see anything wrong with the poem," said the reporter. "It seems a little crude, but contains nothing to give offense."

"Well," said the old resident, "the poem was all right, as it was written. The trouble originated in the newspaper office. The morning after it was sent in, the society editress got hold of its first. She is an old maid and she didn't think the second line quite proper, so she ran her pencil through it. Then the advertising manager prowled around through the editor's mail as usual, and read the poem. Old Brown owed the office $17 back subscription, and the advertising manager struck out the fourth line. He said old Brown shouldn't get any free advertising in that office.

"Then the editor's wife happened to come in to see if there was any square, perfumed envelopes among his mail, and she read it. She was at the Brown's party herself, and when she read the line that proclaimed Miss Judkins 'the fairest of them all,' she turned up her nose and scratched that out.

"Then the editor himself got hold of it. He is heavily interested in our new electric light plant, and his blue pencil jumped the line 'While bright the gaslight shone' in a hurry. Later on one of the printers came in and grabbed a lot of copy, and this poem was among it. You know what printers will do if you give them a chance, so here is the way the poem came out in the paper:

TO MISS JUDKINS
(Visiting Mrs. T. Montcalm Brown.)

We love to see her wear
Nothing but a rose in her hair.
She stood with blushes red
Upon her lovely head.

"And, you see," continued the old resident, "The Judkinses got mad."

QUEENS
At 8 P. M.
My queen came forth,
I squeezed her hand,
I won her on the spot.

At 11:30 P. M.
I squeezed my hand,
My fourth queen came,
I'll wed her on this pot.

Kamelia Opposed

Associated Press Dispatch

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 11.—Organization in Little Rock of Kamelia, a woman's secret society will be opposed by the Ku Klux Klan organization here, it became known today, through the publication of advertisements over the title "Grand Dragon, Realm of Arkansas, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan." in local newspapers.

MORE ABOUT FIRE HERE—

T. R. Gluss also suffered considerably from heat, smoke and water.

Heavy Damage

Total damage at the four places may reach over $12,000.

The Williams' house was a mass of flames when the first alarm was turned in. The McCormick home was also blazing fiercely and the flames were gaining rapid headway at the Everetts' place before water could be obtained.

A high wind whipped the flames half way across Seventh street and carried blazing embers for two blocks to the roofs of adjoining houses. Garden hose and buckets of water were used in quenching the menacing sparks at these places.

So intense was the heat at the height of the blaze that two lends of fire hose stretched down Seventh street and more than 30 feet from the buildings were burned through.

Residents and neighbors were unable to explain the cause of the blaze, stating that when they first noticed the fire it had practically enveloped the Williams and McCormick homes.

Efforts to accurately estimate the damage were unsuccessful last night. Not even a shell of the Williams and McCormick buildings was left standing, while at the Everetts place, the interior of the building was practically burned away. A large part of the furniture was removed from here however, before the fire had gained much headway.

At the Glass home, the chief damage will be that caused by water and damage to furniture as it was hastily removed. The flames were not allowed to cause much loss at this place.

LIBRARY PLAN GIVEN APPROVAL

Minimum Of $20,000 Would Be Paid Each Year By County

Approval of the county library plan as drafted by a special committee of the chamber of commerce was given by the business council Friday noon. The complete contract was read by Judge A. H. Britain, chairman of the committee and was followed by considerable discussion of the various items enumerated.

Should the plan be finally adopted, the county will pay a minimum of $20,000 a year for maintenance of the project, although control of the grounds and Kemp public library building will remain with the city of Wichita Falls. Either the city or the county may, on giving six months advance notice, withdraw from the provisions of the contract. The present draft is to remain in force for 10 years, effective September 1 of this year.

Control of the library system which, when complete, will include the Kemp as a central distribution point with branches at Burkburnett, Electra and Iowa park, will be vested with the local board of eleven members and three other members to be appointed from the other communities to be served. In this connection it was suggested at the meeting that a larger representation be given the outlying districts, but this matter will be left open for settlement at a later date.

GUSHER—

the hand of the oil and gas division of the Texas railroad commission. R. L. Hoover, deputy oil and gas supervisor of this district, with offices at Mexia, and C. O. Bison, petroleum mechanical engineer of the Austin office, arrived here early today and were at the well with J. K. Hughes and B. B. Shumons, president and secretary, respectively, of the J. K. Hughes Development company. An inspection of the well and burned area followed; and later a conference to determine what course to pursue in the event of the steam process failing.

Mr. Bison pointed out a tragic handicap in the work of quenching the fire occasioned by death claiming members of the crew, who alone were familiar with the physical condition of the well.

J. W. Champion, drilling contractor, and oil man, assisted the representatives of the railroad commission and Mr. Hughes in perfecting fire-fighting arrangements. Mr. Champion made a close-up personal inspection and offered the suggestion for using a hood in smothering out the fire. However, inasmuch as the boiler battery was placed, the latter method was accepted for the first effort. Mr. Champion has had experience in putting out oil well fires in Louisiana and Beaumont fields.

Thousands of out-of-town people have flocked to the East Navarro field the past two days. One man said the glare was visible at Athens, forty miles away, last night.

Other work at the field continued today.

Mr. Hughes today declared it would be impossible to make an official check of the lost men until the fire had been extinguished and the bodies located.

The smouldering remains of three bodies could be seen near the flames today. All that remains of them are clumps of ashes.

MILLIONS MAY BE REFUNDED IN CORPORATION TAX

International News Dispatch

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Refund of millions of dollars in taxes wrongfully collected by the government from corporations on their earnings prior to 1913 was considered probable here today, following a decision by the internal bureau that certain distributions of such earnings were not within the meaning of the revenue act and thus exempt from federal taxation.

The ruling in the form of an amendment to an existing regulation governing the taxibility of such funds, said:

"Whenever one corporation has received from another corporation distributions out of earning for profit accumulated by such other corporation prior to March 1, 1913, or out of increase in value of its property accrued prior to March 1, 1913, and the receiving corporation after having first distributed all of its earnings and profits accumulated since February 28, 1913, distributes to its stockholders amounts so received by it from such other corporation, such distributions are not dividends within the meaning of the revenue act and are exempt from tax."

CITY RETIRES $12,000 BONDS

1912 Issue Called In And Interest and Sinking Funds Stopped

Another $12,000 worth of the city's bonded indebtedness has been retired during the past week, it was learned Friday.

The bonds called in were for sewer and street improvement, five per cent 40 year securities, dated September 15, 1912, and carrying a ten year optional retirement clause. The city, exercising its power under this option, and being able financially to take up the bonds, has called in the debt and stopped the interest and sinking fund. The bonds were held by the Woodmen of the World.

$2,700,000 In Bonds

Wichita Falls now has a total of $2,700,00 outstanding bonded indebtedness, according to records on file at the city clerk's office. Of this amount, $1,625,000 was voted in a bond issue in 1920, when it was necessary to have a large fund with which to carry on civic improvements.

Assuming that no more bond issues will be floated and retiring the outstanding bonds at the usual rate, the city will be free of this debt not later than 1943.

Thieves Active; 2 Fords Stolen

Auto thieves got on the job again Friday night after a period of considerable inactivity, made away with two machines and were thwarted in their efforts to steal a third only by a special lock on the car.

V. M. Thomas, an employe of the American Express company, reported that his Ford touring car, license No. 553290 had been taken from in front of the Woolworth store on Indiana as he was attending a picture show. A Ford touring car was also stolen from C. M. Mann, local plumber, from its parking place near the Staley building.

An owner of a Cadillac touring car told police his machine had been tampered with early in the evening and appeared as though someone had attempted to drive it away.

TAX RENDITIONS 25 PCT. HIGHER

More Returns Made To County Assessor This Year

At least 25 percent more county tax renditions have been made this year than in 1922, according to an estimate Friday by County Tax Assessor Deaton who also announced that all rendition sheets had been filed and were ready for the equalization board which convenes next Tuesday.

No actual count has been made by the tax office force, but the increased bulk of the files now used over those utilized last year is readily apparent. A preliminary appraisement by Mr. Deaton has, however, convinced him that the gain will amount to at least 25 percent.

While this feature does not necessarily mean valuations of the county will be higher, the tax assessor believes that the total property values will be greater than in 1922.

Abandon All Hope For Students Lost In Lake

Associated Press Dispatch

AUSTIN, May 11.—Hope that Frank McCurdy, San Antonio student who disappeared Thursday night when the canoe in which he was riding with a young woman, in Bull creek, near Austin, capsized, was virtually abandoned tonight by searchers who have combed the woods near the scene of the accident, and have dredged the creek during today. Search was continued tonight. Miss Mildred Morris swam ashore when the boat was upset. McCurdy was a student in the Presbyterian Theological seminary here.

A Brooklyn woman left $20,000 to her maid as a reward for years of faithful service.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Will the People of Wichita Falls and District No. 1, Vote On the Same Questions As the People of District No. 2?

Judge Starley's explanation of the questions to be voted upon by the people of District No. 2 was published in yesterday morning's Record News. It is an important message and should be read by every one.

The people of District No. 1 and Wichita Falls vote only on the first question as shown in Judge Starley's explanations.

This question is to vote for or against the ratification of the contract between Wichita County Water Improvement District No. 1 and Wichita County Water Improvement District No. 2.

It will be understood that this contract has already been discussed by the Wichita Falls Technical club and adopted by the directors of both districts and is now up to the people of both districts for ratification.

This contract may not be perfect according to everyone's idea, but it is an earnest effort to protect the citizens of both districts.

The people in District No. 2 are certainly getting everything that can be asked for and on most liberal terms, but, on the other hand, District No. 1 can well afford to be liberal for the upbuilding of the surrounding territory means prosperity to this city. It will create the greatest single asset that Wichita Falls has ever had.

The contract has been published in its entirety in The Record News and every effort has been made to give it wide publicity so that each citizen may be fully informed.

That 90,000,000 colds in the United States are contracted by infection is the estimate of a Canadian medical authority.

INSPECTION OF BIG DAMS TODAY

Dallas and San Saba Men Here For Tour Of Irrigation

With eleven city officials and business men of San Saba here Friday evening and 29 or more expected in early Saturday morning from Dallas, everything was reported in readiness yesterady for the all-day inspection of the local irrigation projects. It is expected that nearly 50 men will be included in the crowd that leaves this morning as guests of the Calahan Construction company for a tour of the irrigation workings.

Mayor Coming.

Headed by Mayor Blalock and County Judge Harris, the Dallas delegation was to arrive on the early morning Katy. Following breakfast here they will be taken with the San Saba visitors by automobile to the scene of operations. The party leaves the Kemp hotel at 8:30 o'clock.

The diversion dam will be visited first and from there the party will go to the main storage dam near Maybelle. A barbecue dinner is to be served at 1 o'clock by the construction company and following that a detailed inspection of the huge dam will be made. The return trip to Wichita Falls will start around 3 o'clock, putting the party back here before 6.

Those in the San Saba party which arrived by automobile Friday afternoon, are J. E. Hall, A. W. Woodruff, E. L. Rector, W. F. Barrow, E. B. Fogg, R. W. Burleson, J. W. McConnell, J. J. Armour, H. H. Doran, W. R. Baxter, A. J. Harkey.

Poultry Expert Tells Value Of Caponizing To Fanciers

By AL OLSTON
Record News Poultry Editor
Poultry Extension Department, Marlete Coal and Feed Company.

A person outside the county has written to me asking my honest opinion about capon raising and the capon market in this county. As he is a reader of The Record News, I shall answer him in these columns.

First, I wish to state, you must change from your present breed of fowl as it is of the egg production type and will not make a good capon for the market, but as you are running a hotel in co-operation with your chicken business you can make quite a return from your males by caponizing them and using them for your own table use, thereby saving all your females for egg and breeding production.

Now the question, does it pay to caponize? I am writing from a copy from the Southwest Poultry and Swine Breeder of Plainview, Texas. In their issue of April 15, an article told about raising capons and how big profits were paid to Burlington county, New Jersey, last year. Caponizing is an ancient art and has been in existence several thousand years. We have read of caponizing by the Greek and Latin writers, but believe the style of caponizing we follow today comes from the French.

George Benoy of Cedar Vale, Kan., in his book on capon, says: "Capons are unsexed male birds, the operation is performed in order to increase the quantity and quality of the meat the same as in any other animal. The added size and the extra quality are two of the things that make capons sell for almost doublethe average price paid for any other poultry when put on the market. The tender, delicate, sweet flavored capon meat justifies the extra high price. The important fact that capons reach the market at a time when all other poultry is very scarce and high, insures the demand and high prices. At the same time the simple operation has distributed the supply of really choice market birds over the entire year, instead of forcing the demand of high prices. At the same time the simple operation has distributed the supply of really choice market birds over the entire year, instead of forcing them onto the market in two or three of the hottest months, as has to be done when there are markets for friers and broilers.

Besides all these good reasons you know we should market only infertile eggs. Infertile eggs are better and generally bring a higher price than fertile eggs. The only sensible way to produce them is to caponize your young males and confine the ones used for breeders.

Please don't write me for capon eggs; they don't lay them. But capons will care for and raise a brood of incubator chickens better than mother hens. We have raised thousands this way for years.

In the April issue of the Producers Price Current, printed in New York city, it quoted prices from 52 to 90 cents per pound higher for capons than those for stags, cockerels or cocks.

The quotations are according to size, method, packing, frozen and 12 to a box as follows:

Stags, large, per pound, 20 cents to 24 cents.
Stags, small, per pound, 18 cents to 22 cents.
Capons, 9-pound, 41 to 44 cents.
Capons, 8-pound, 39 to 42 cents.
Capons, 7-pound, 37 to 40 cents.
Capons, 6-pound, 35 to 38 cents.

So considering the feeding and care of capons, which is very simple, I hope I have shown clearly that my honest opinion is that capons pay.

But, you say, I have just given reports on outside markets, and locally we, too, can have a good market, but first we must show the local people that we mean business and start a demand for capons. I was speaking to Star Calahan of the Star Produce company on capons and he said he was sure that if I could educate the people here to raise capons that the produce houses here were our best friends and they would help to educate the buyers. He said "Why, do you know if a fellow goes to a cheap restaurant and calls for a capon he will not get it? In fact they will not know what he is talking about. To get a capon one must go to a high class hotel or restaurant and pay a good price."

The better class hotel, private homes and cafes are willing to pay a good price for capon meat because they know they can rely on it to be the best fowl neat.

Mr. Massey of the Massey Produce company, is also of the same opinion, saying: "You get the capons and we, the produce company, will soon have yours equal to those of anywhere. Surely Wichita Falls wants the best; why not give it to them? Raise capons.

I am trying to have a car load of capons this fall in Wichita county. I am asking if all chicken raisers will have six or more or as many as you like caponised at once and I will at some time before the fall holidays gather them together and help you to dispose of them at a good price, by pooling them all together. To those who are willing to co-operate, I will gladly give my time in teaching how to caponize free of charge. These columns are for the interest of the poultry raisers and do not hesitate to let me know how I can be of help to you. Phone me or write me your troubles. If you write please sign your full name and send a self-addressed envelope.

WALKS FOR CEMETERY.

ELECTRA, May 11.—Walks and curbing are being put in many parts of the local cemetery. This follows the putting up recently of an ornamental iron fence by the local post of the American Legion. Those having the matter in charge hope to be able to place an ornamental gate at the entrance to the cemetery in a short time.

PLACING MARBLE FALLS ON MAP

Builders of communities and empires are men worth while for the workers of the world are the winners of the world. Texas is the largest producer of cotton of any American state. Texas produces a fourth of the crop of the world. Texas is the largest producer of wool and mohair. These facts are known to the people of Texas who read and think.

And yet less than two per cent of the annual cotton crop of Texas is consumed by the textile factories of Texas and there are no woolen mills under the skies of this state.

Those who manufacture the raw materials into the finished products of commerce to meet the needs of mankind are the men who accumulate large wealth and not the men who till the soil and produce the staples that feed and clothe the world.

These are self evident facts. These are facts admitted by all men who read and think. Those who are familiar with the history of American states know that the vast wealth of America is to be found in the milling and manufacturing centers of those states which do not produce the raw materials of the world.

Texas has vast possibilities as a manufacturing state, actual and potential wealth. Texas has rivers which should be harnessed and the power utilized for the needs of mankind, to supply the heat and the light and the power for all domestic and industrial and commercial purposes.

This reminds The Record News that the men and women of Marble Falls are determined that a start shall be made toward the establishment of textile industries at that place. These builders of Burnet county have visioned the future and they realize that the textile industry is bound to come and that those who get into the game first will have a long start on those peoples and communities classified as "slow travelers."

DRAWING THE LINES

New York lawmakers repealed all state enforcement prohibition laws and Governor Smith signed the act. This will place the work as well as the responsibility of enforcement upon the federal officials. New York lawmakers adopted a resolution memorializing congress to make the Volstead act less drastic and to permit the manufacture of beer having a slight kick in it. Andrew W. Mellon is secretary of the treasury. He is drawing up regulations to accord the recent supreme court decision. He will bar liquor on ships beginning June 10. This will apply to vessels of foreign register. They are to be forbidden to bring liquor as sea stores or in bond within American territorial waters. All vessels sailing for American ports, due to arrive after June 10 will be subject to enforcement of the regulations now being prepared. This should make the Canadian ports popular. It should make the Cuban ports popular, but notwithstanding these wet oases, John Barleycorn was given an awful wallop on the high seas when the United States supreme court handed down its dry decision. John is to have no home in America or within the three-mile limit.

A RARE SPORT

England is the home of aristocratic fox hunters. A British writer who is an aristocrat and not a commoner, says the favorite sport of the prince of Wales costs the farmers of England $250,000,000 every year. This is a greater sum than Great Britain pays in interest on her American loan.

"So long as the countryside is allowed to be turned into playgrounds for the rich and the idle, the best results cannot be obtained from the farm," writes this critic of his countrymen and their fox hunting pursuits.

"This brutal pastime has been productive of enormous monetary losses and immense moral harm to the people. It has established a junior class who imagine they have the right to rob and trample those with whom they conflict. Every year sees the fox tax pressing heavier upon the overburdened shoulders of the farmer."

Commissioner of Agriculture George B. Terrell of Texas should be sent over there to put the fox hunters to flight, to save the English farmer 220,000,000 a year, to slay the junkers and the sons of the idle rich and to take from the nobility their vast hunting preserves and all the land held for speculative purposes. The Texan has been working upon the big ranch and land owners of his state for a long time and perhaps he could win better results if he crossed the Atlantic and got down to business.

"CYTHEREA"

By JOSEPH HERGESHEIMER

Meanwhile, the Morrises having apparently made up, avoid Lee. Fanny continues her violent quarreling and finally, in a terrible scene, wounds Lee in the face with a paper knife.

Together.

"Not . . . when you have her . . . to touch." She could scarcely articulate. "You vile, rotten coward!"

Her hand went out to the table and rising, it held the yellow dull paper cutter. Before he could draw back she struck him; the copper point ripped down his jaw and hit his shoulder a drawing blow.

In an instant of passion Lee Randon caught Fanny by the shoulders and shook her until her head rolled as though her neck was broken. Even in his transport of rage, with his fingers dug into her flesh, he stopped to see if this was true.

It wasn't. She swayed uncertainly, dazed and gasping, while her hair, shaken loose from its knot, slowly cascaded over one shoulder. Then stumbling, groping, with a hand on a chair, against the frame of the door, she went out of the room.

Lee's jaw bled thickly and persistently; the blood soaked, filled his handerchief and a napkin. He was nauseated and faint. His rage, killed, as it were, at its height, left him with a sensation of emptiness and degradation.

The silence—after the last audible footfall of Fanny slowly mounting the stairs—was appalling; it was though as all the noise of all the world, concentrated in his head, had been stopped at once and forever.

That blow had killed a great deal: the Lee Randon married to Fanny was already dead.

He was walking when it occured to him he had better keep quiet; if the blood didn't stop stop he should require help; he was noticeably weak.

His feelings with regard to Fanny was confined a curiosity, but mainly his thoughts, his illimitable disgust, were directed at himself, his anger returning like the night wind from a different direction, cut at himself, at the collapse of his integrity.

The blood, he found, had stopped; his hurt was relatively unimportant. He went in search of Fanny.

She had undressed, in a nightgown effectively drawn with blue ribbons, she lay face down across the bottom of her bed. One shoulder, immaculately white except for the leaden bruises of his fingers, was bare. She made no sign of a consciousness of his presence.

"Fanny," he began, speaking with an effort of calmness, "this is all over for me. As I told you so many times, I've had too much of it. It's yours, anyhow, and the children are yours, and you may do what you like with the whole affair. I'm done." Still she didn't move, or reply.

"I am going," he said more impatiently, "tonight. I want you to understand that this is final. You were too good a wife; I couldn't keep even with you; and I can't stay now, that I want to. Everyone will tell you that I am no good—you see, I haven't the shadow of a cause for leaving—and the best thing you can do is believe them. If I had what is recognized a reason for going, I'd stay, if that has any sense; you may put your own interpretation on it."

She turned and half rose, regarding him from the edge of the bed. "I can't talk," she said; "the words are all hard like stones down in my heart. You'll have to go; I can't stop you; I knew you had gone yesterday, or was it last week?"

"It wasn't Savina who did this," he informed her; "I want you to realize that fully. Whatever happens, she is not to blame. All, all the fault is mine; it would take too long to explain, you wouldn't believe me—you couldn't—and so I am deserting you. That is the word for it, the one you will use." Fanny gazed at him in a clouding perplexity.

"I can't think it's true." Her voice was dazed. "A thing like this couldn't be happening to us, to me. It's only for a little, we are both cross—"

He cut her short with the assurance that what he said he meant. Sentimental indulgence, he felt, was dangerously out of place. She slipped back, supine, on the bed; and, with short sobs, she cried, "Go! Go! Go!"

He left the house walking, carrying his bag up the hill into Eastlake; a train left for the city at 11:58 o'clock. Lee turned, beyond his property, and saw the light burning in what had been his and Fanny's room; the rest of the house, except for the glimmer below, was dark.

The winter night was incrusted with stars. A piercing regret seized him—that he was past the middle of 40 and not in the early twenty's.

To be young and to know Savina! To be young and free. To be young . . . .the increasing rapidity with which he went forward had the aspect of an endeavor to waste no more precious time.

The brief level voice of Savina Grove arranging over the telephone an hour, very late in the afternoon, for him to call, gave Lee a comparatively long time in which to examine his feelings, particularly in connection with Savina.

His state of mind, his intentions, he realized, should be clear for the moment when he saw her. In general they were; but the particulars, the details of any probable immediate action, evaded him. He should have to consult her about them.

What he most firmly grasped of all was that they couldn't remain in New York. The comparatively orderly and delayed legal arrangement that had been projected by the Morrises and Mina Raff seemed to have no application to the impetuosity of the situation before him.

However, he was advancing at a speed, to a position, for which there was no warrant. None at all. Perhaps Savina, satisfied by the one occasion which—he had been so careful to insist—must be the last, would regard him as merely importunate.

He asked himself the question squarely—did he love Savina? Damned if he knew! He might reply to that, he thought ruefully, if he grasped what love was, what the blasted phrase meant.

He tried a simpler approach—did he want to be with Savina more than anyone else? That he could answer: he most assuredly preferred being with Savina to anyone else he knew.

Savina had gone up stairs when Lee reached her house but she would be down at once. He was turned away from the door when she entered. With a single glance behind her she went forward into Lee's arms, her mouth held up to his.

Listening closely to all that he had to say, she sat with her hands quietly folded on crossed knees. Perhaps twice she nodded, comprehendingly.

"And so," he ended, that is what has occured. We are not to blame ourselves too much, as I've explained; the thing happened within itself, died of its own accord. But the past doesn't need our attention now. The future is the thing. What is it going to be?" What," he hesitated, "can we make it. Maybe everything, or nothing."

"Are you leaving that for me to decide?" she asked.

"To a great extent I have to; I don't want to appear to take so much for granted. And then, only you can measure what I have to offer. What, in fact, I am asking you to do is to go away with me. If the irregularity upsets you, it need only be temporary. Grove and Fanny, I am sure, wouldn't persist in being disgreable. But, if they did we'd have to face that as well, the consequences of my—my impatience. We should have to go away to some place rather vague—"

"Cuba," she broke in.

Lee had a brother in Cuba; that might turn out excellently: Daniel would be able to help them in the difficult readjustments to follow. He was intelligent, unprejudiced and calm and, Lee added secretly, free from the values, the ponderous authority, of a northern hypocritical society. Then he forgot all that, in the realization that Savina was going away with him, that she was to be his, not for a solitary stolen night, but for years . . . openly, completely. He lost his self control and kissed her, heedless of the open doors. Now she was cooler than Lee, and pushed him away.

"William will be in at any minute" she explained:

"When shall we leave?"

"We might take a train tonight for Washington, since we'll need passports and I have to have an income tax receipt, and we can manage all that best there. Then Key West, Havana, anywhere. We will hope to get off without trouble; but, if Grove interferes, accept the consequences as they come."

"Very well." Savina grew still quieter as the march of events became headlong. "I can live without a maid for a while. To night I won't dress for dinner, this will do for the train."

At a few minutes before 10 he was standing, as he had arranged with Savina with his bag before the hotel; and, just past the hour the cab which held her turned into the sidewalk. She had two bags but one was very small—her toilet things she explained—and she was carrying a jewel case.

There wasn't a tremor in her voice or bearing, the slightest indication that they were going further than a theatre in the vicinity of Forty-fourth street. Internally, Lee was excited, filled with the long strange sense of holiday.

"William went to the club," Savina told him with a smile edged with malice; "every thing was as usual when he left, but when he gets back it will be changed. I'm sorry to miss his expression when he reads the letter I wrote; he won't show it to anyone."

"That sounds as though you disliked him," Lee observed. Then he remembered the hatred he had felt for Fanny. Matrimony had a brutal hand for superficial relationships and conventions.

* * * *

What Lee found he most enjoyed in Cuba was the personal liberty he had first experienced in New York, waiting to see Savina after he had definitely left Eastlake. Of course, without Savina, Cuba would have been an impossibility; she was the center, the motive, of the design of his emotions; but it was surprising how contented he was strolling in the outskirts, in the minor parks and glorietas and paseos, of the world of his passionate adventure.

Carefully avoiding the Americans at the Inglaterra, on the streets, he had no burden of empty mutual assurances, the forced stupidities of conversations, to support. His days all had the look of a period of rest after a strain of long duration.

The train, he realized, unknown to him at the time, had existed negatively through years before he had grown openly rebellious. A quality within him, in spite of him, had risen and swept him, under the eyes of Cytherea, beyond every circumstance of the former life.

The resemblance between her and Savina he caught in fleet glances which defied his efforts to summon them and, where that similitude was concerned, he was aware of a disconcerting, almost humiliating, shifting of balance.

At first, recognizing aspects of Cytherea in Savina, now in Cytherea he merely found certain qualities of the woman. The doll, it seemed, had not been absorbed in Savina; the distant inanimate object was more real than the actual than the straining arms about his neck, the insatiable murmur at his ear.

Yet his happiness with Savina was absolute, secure, and still totally different from her attitude toward him. She often repeated in a voice, no longer varying from her other impassioned speech, that she loved him; and while this was a reassurance, no man in his situation could escape, He returned it in a manner not wholly ringing with conviction.

It was the old difficulty—he wasn't sure, he couldn't satisfy himself, about its meaning. He was not, for example, lost beyond knowledge or perception in his feeling for Savina; carried along in the tempestuous flood of her emotion, he yet had time to linger over and enjoy the occurences by the way. He liked each day for itself, and she regarded it only as an insignificant detail of their unity.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

A VALUABLE FORM OF VANITY

A man of great wealth who died recently announced in his will that he did not approve of bequests of charity because they were merely made to gratify the vanity of the giver.

It is a little difficult to understand how gifts which are not distributed till a man has gone to his reward enable him to glorify himself, at least as far as this world is concerned.

But vanity has in many ways accomplished a great deal of good in the world. In its harmless form it is rather amusing—sometimes even praiseworthy.

And the vanity which prompts a man to give to hospitals or schools, or for parks and public improvements, is more like a virtue than a vice.

There is, it must be remembered, a great difference between vanity and conceit.

Many of the world's greatest men have been in vain, often vain of the least important of their achievements.

But few of them have had the sort of posthumous vanity which, causing them to think happily of the praises that would be showered on them when they were dead, they have left their fortunes to be spent for the betterment of mankind.

Perhaps the form of philantrophy practiced by the Rockefellers is wiser than that of those who use their money on their own interests till they die, and then distribute it where it will do the most good.

Mr. Rockefeller has ably supervised his own benefactions, and no one can dispute the contention that they have been wisely disposed.

If any vanity has been involved in the foundation of the Rockefeller Institute, which has done so much for the combatting of disease, it is a form of vanity that ought to be readily forgiven.

And if any other men of wealth can get a little harmless pleasure out of reflecting that their names will be attached to useful public work long after their graves have been forgotten, that too is a form of vanity that is quite excusable.

Great fortunes such as are accumulated in civilized countries are far better left to the cause of science than to individuals.

Until nations learn to do for their peoples what they ought to do, a vast amount of study and thought must be financed by means of wealth.

If in doing this they satisfy their vanity so much the better.

There ought to be far more such vanity in the world. It would be a happier place very speedily if all men who have more than their heirs can spend would prove equally vain.

OWEN FOR FORD

Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma is a democrat. His name was presented as a candidate for the presidential nomination at the San Francisco convention and Oklahoma democrats voted for him on every ballot. Senator Owen is not a candidate this year. He has a choice. He says Henry Ford will be overwhelmingly elected if nominated. He does not believe that Ford has the least craving to be president, but says that if Ford were nominated, the farmers, the laborers and the ordinary people would support him, believing his genius and experience would make the country more prosperous. Senator Owen declared that politicians will not support Ford until they find a great eddy of public opinion favoring his nomination, but the belief that he can be elected will be a strong factor in any convention. Senator Owen and William Jennings Bryan have been close political friends for many years. Indeed it was the gossip in San Francisco in 1920 that Owen hoped that the deadlock would be broken by the nomination of Bryan. And the late Thomas M. Campbell of Texas was one of his co-workers, insisting all the time that Bryan was the man of the hour. Now Owen is for Ford, Campbell is in his grave, William Jennings Bryan would make his anti-evolution crusade the paramount issue next year, Warren G. Harding is to be re-nominated by the republicans and if a buyers' strike precipitates another business slump, there is going to be trouble on the mind of Uncle Sam.

MR. BULL MAD AGAIN

John Bull is mad again. He has declared that Great Britain cannot recognize the validity of the Chester oil grant in Mesopotamia. Chester is a rear admiral in the American navy. Why should John Bull interfere? Is he the owner of Asia and Africa and the islands of the sea? British nationals and British capitalists are permitted to exploit American oil fields. Now why should Mr. John Bull be permitted to interfere with Admiral Chester or his Turkish concessions?

Germany made an offer of 30,000,000,000 golden marks to wipe out all debts or reparations; 30,000,000,000 paper marks would not be worth the paper on which they are printed. A German mark in point of value is as worthless today as anything on the face of the earth.

Governor Pat Morris Neff of Texas will greet Governor E. Lee Trinkle of Virginia in Houston on San Jacinto day. It will be a long time between drinks.

Burk Society

BURKBURNETT, May 11.—Mrs. W. D. Gant entertained Saturday afternoon complimentary to the ladies of the Wesley Adult Bible class of the Methodist church with a silver tea.

The pretty home on East Fourth street was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and pot plants which formed a brilliant setting for the daintily dressed ladies, especially those who formed the receiving line, namely, Mrs. Dudley Ellis, teacher of the Wesley class; the hostess, Mrs. Gant; Mrs. O. E. Melton, Mrs. J. L. Boase, E. C. Pruitt, J. D. Majors, W. T. Spicer, F. U. McCuthen; also Mrs. G. C. Raley and Mrs. Wyley of Wichita Falls.

Other guests of the hour were Mesdames John E. Haynes, W. L. Hogg, C. D. Montgomery, H. R. Davis, A. R. Thomas, Nate Ensor, J. D. Majors, M. E. Prinzing, C. P. Nichols, W. T. Spicer, H. L. Boase, M. A. Wilkins, Will Dickson, Andrew Willis, M. L. Ward, H. C. Farr, C. A. Vasser, A. L. Paschall, E. W. Windham, O. T. Kimbrough, Verne Wolfe, J. C. Rust H. A. Keys, B. E. Gross, R. C. Elder, E. L. Blum, C. R. Sabatoni Misses Loriane Russell, Dorothy Louise Gant Lucile Raley, Burch Murphy, Jessie Lucile Raley, Vera Rust and Mrs. J. V. Hogg from Norman, Okla., a guest in this city.

The Silver Tea offering was generous and will go to the Wesley class funds in their religious and local church activities.

The amusement of the afternoon was informal and most pleasing. Readings were given by Misses Vera Rust and Jessie Luelle Raley, Miss Burch Murphy, a Wichita Falls visitor, favored the company with a piano selection, while Mesdames Penitt and McCuthen sang with their characteristic charm and sweetness.

Last, but perhaps most appreciated on this occasion, was meeting and knowing Mrs. Gant, who came from Wichita Falls to this city only a short while ago, but who has won the hearts of many new friends. The Silver Tea entertainment was an added proof of her ability as an ideal hostess.

Wichita Business Men Will Go To San Angelo For C. of C. Convention

A delegation of Wichita Falls business men will be appointed to attend the West Texas chamber of commerce convention in San Angelo, it was decided Friday at the business council luncheon.

Several urgent invitations have been received by the local chamber, asking that as many as can possibly arrange to go be at the West Texas festivities. It was the opinion of those present at the council session Friday that this city should be represented and that the appointment of a convention delegation would be the most feasible way to assure a good attendance.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

A LONG FAREWELL

Good-bye, Tut-ankh! For quite a time
You proved uncommon philanthropic,
Inspiring many a mus-ed rhyme
Supplying many a fertile topic.
The pens of poets you released
And set them once again enthusing
When Volstead and his cult had ceased
To be amusing.

The tales about you roused once more
An active interest in the bard-game,
For many singers who before
Supposed a Pharaoh was a card game.
Your fame throughout the world was flung,
The epic of your ageless slumbers
And curious ways of life were sung
In rhythmic numbers.

But one recalls the Belgian hare
Whose rearing was a world-wide passion,
But for which now the public flair
Has gone completely out of fashion.
Pug dogs from favor have been hurled,
The ping-pong craze has wholly perished,
There are few things in this, our world,
That long are cherished.

And so we bid you, sir, farewell,
With reverent hand on heart, and head bare,
The world has struggled from your spell,
You've grown, in truth, extremely threadbare.
Though still illustrious your fame,
And such distinguished mummies few are,
The poems that now contain your name
Are dead, as you are!

Some things you should know about your heart

THE first thing a physician examines, when summoned, is the heart pulse. A normal heart will beat one hundred and three thousand times each day. You depend on it to beat every second of your life. You realize the heart should not have to overwork constantly to throw off blood impurities. It is impurities which increase the heart beat. More red-cells mean cleaner, purer, richer blood. They mean nerve-power, because all your nerves are fed by your blood. This means freedom from pimples, from blackheads, from boils, eczema and skin eruptions; from rheumatic impurities, from that tired, exhausted, run-down feeling. Red-cells are the most important thing in the world to each of us. S. S. S. will build them for you! S. S. S. has been known since 1826 as one of the greatest blood-builders, blood-cleansers and system strengtheners ever produced.

Mr. Arthur A. Smith, 5009 S. Ada Street, Chicago, Ill., writes: "After suffering with bad boils, I commenced using S. S. S. I wish to say that it came up to all expectations, and relieved me of boils. I wish to express my appreciation for what S. S. S. did for me."

St. Mary's Pupils In Pleasing Play

The primary pupils of St. Mary's academy presented to a crowd that overflowed the Wichita theatre last night, "A Rose Dream," fairy opera. Some 25 youngsters between the ages of 7 and 13, in fairy and story book costumes took the parts in the children's operatin a manner that plainly showed their training and stage presence. They were applauded time and again by the pleased audince.

Little Miss Dora May Nix, playing the part of Little Rose, was a favorite, and sang a solo, "I Have a Little Doll at Home," that was well received. Tripping fairies, rose fairies, elves, butterflies, talking flowers and bed flowers, all played by the young vocal and expression students of the academy, appeared in choruses which were winning favor at all times.

The cast of characters follows:

THIS WEAK LITTLE WOMAN IS NOW WELL AND STRONG

Another Dallas Resident Testifies to the Remarkable Efficiency of Stella Vitae in Treating Female Troubles.

"If the weak and ailing women of this city only realized what Stella Vitae will do for them there wouldn't be a bottle of it left in the drug stores by this time tomorrow," recently declared Mrs. D. Bennett, who lives at 208 Melba street, Dallas, Texas.

"The reason I say what I do is because I have tested it and found it to be the best strengthening tonic for weak and run-down women I have ever taken. After my baby was born it looked like I just couldn't get back my strength and could hardly nurse the child.

"I had no appetite and fell off to a shadow. I suffered from dull, lingering headaches and often my back would nearly kill me it hurt so bad. There were awful pains all about my stomach and I would get so dizzy at times as to almost fall. My nerves were in such a wretched state, that it would excite me dreadfully to hear people talking and noises in the street would get me so wrought up that I could hardly contain myself.

"I had tried various other medicines without getting any better, and when Stella Vitae was recommended I just thought it would be a waste of time and money to experiment with it. But I finally gave in to the the advice of my friends and started taking it. It was not long before I began to feel stronger and those aches and pains gradually began to leave me. My appetite picked up and I could relish my food and it seemed to be doing me good, for I felt I was getting stronger every day and soon I was able to look after my baby and attend to my household duties without getting all tired out like I did before."

Note—Stella Vitae may be obtained from any druggist and is sold upon the positive guarantee that the purchase price will be refunded if it fails to bring relief. Miller's Drug Store and Tipton's Drug Store.—Adv.

Spuds Unload On Exporters For 15 to 8 Win

SEESAW SLUGGING BATTLE IS SALTED AWAY IN EIGHTH WITH BARRAGE OF SAFETIES

Flaherty and Hodges Both Rapped Freely But Spudders Are Rough on Jacobus and Wiltsey; Bescher and Bischoff Prove Batting Heroes.

(Special to The Record News.)

BEAUMONT, May 11.—The Spudders broke their losing streak here Friday by winning a hard hitting game from the Exporters, 15 to 8.

The game was a slugging match from start to finish; both hurlers who started being hit freely and retiring before the match was over. Flaherty, who started for Wichita Falls, gave place to a pinch hitter in the fourth and Jacobus, who opened for the locals, was knocked out of the box in the sixth. Hippo Hodges finished for the Spudders and Wilsey for the Exporters.

Beaumont gathered 16 hits while the Spudders were securing 14 but the Spudder infield cut down rallies time and again by fast work. Tanner, Berger, White and Elliott engineered four double plays.

The Spudders took the lead in the first inning by Bescher walking, stealing second, and scoring on an error by Ostergard.

Beaumont took the lead in the second on singles by Edington and Jacobus, Strong's walk, a passed ball, a stolen base and a delayed throw to home. The rally was cut short by Ostergard hitting into a double play, Elliott to Berger to Elliott. This lead was further strengthened in the third when the Exporters scored three more runs. After Turgeon had fanned, Demaggio doubled, Kirkham fouled out to right sending Demaggio to third, and he scored on Edington's double. Strong scored Edington on an infield hit but again the scoring was cut short when Huber lined to Berger and Strong was doubled at first.

Three for Spuds.

Wichita Falls scored three runs in the fourth by Tanner's walk, Elliott's single, Grigsby being hit by a pitched ball, Bescher's single, Bischoff's single and a sacrifice fly by Whiteman who batted for Pat Flaherty. Hodges took the box for Wichita Falls in the fourth.

Wichita Falls knocked Jacobus out of the box in the sixth inning when they scored four runs and went into the lead. Grigsby walked to start the frame with two balls on Cotter. Jacobus was jerked in favor of Wiltsey. Cotter then drew two more balls from Wiltsey and walked. Berger took first on an infield hit. Bischoff singled to left scoring Grigsby and Cotter and Berger took second. Hodges went to first on Wiltsey's error. A balk was then called on Wiltsey with Bescher at bat and Berger scored. Bescher grounded out but White's sacrifice fly scored Bischoff.

Storey Triples

Beaumont secured one run, the first off Hodges, in the seventh by virtue of Kirkham's single and Strong's triple.

Wichita Falls salted things in the eighth by scoring six runs on a walk, a sacrifice, three singles, a double and a home run by Bischoff.

Beaumont also scored in the eighth by Lothes' double and Ostergard's single, but the rally was again cut short when Turgeon hit into a double play, White to Berger to Elliott.

Wichita Falls scored one in the ninth when Bob Bescher hit a home run over the center field fence.

Beaumont tallied her last run in the ninth on two doubles by Edington and Strong, after Kirkham had hit into a double play following Demaggio's single. Huber and Lothes walked, filling the sacks, but Dunn, batting for Wiltsey, ended the game by skieing to Cotter.

George Bischoff was the hitting hero of the day, the smiling catcher getting three singles and a home run.

BLAIR AND MAUPIN WIN FROM KNIGHTS

The Blair and Maupin baseball team played its first game yesterday afternoon against the Knights of Pythias team and defeated that nine by the score of 10 to 7. The game was a heavy hitting contest from start to finish with the outcome not assured until the final man was retired.

The battery for the winners was George Beason and H. Woodcock. For the K. P. Dickey pitched and Beckwith caught.

The game was played on the K. P diamond on Brook street.

THEY'LL EXCHANGE BLOWS THIS AFTERNOON

Age will be pitted against comparative youth in New York this afternoon when the hefty Jess Willard endeavors to fight his way back into ring favor by putting Floyd Johnson out of the running. Reports credit Willard with training as he had never trained before and skeptics who scoffed at his return to the squared circle are now considering his chances with more than a passing fancy.

TWO HURLERS COMING HERE

Stauffer and Meine Signed By Harvey; Records Impressive

The call for pitching aid, broadcast by the management of the Spudders, has at last been answered. One new flinger has already joined the club, according to President Harvey's announcement and another is just about ready to pack his trunk.

Henry Meine, with Beaumont in 1921, and carried on the roster of the St. Louis Browns all last season, is the flipper who has landed with the squad and Charlie Stauffer, now on the payroll of the Chicago Cubs, is the other in question.

Meine's 1921 record with the Exporters, showed eight games won and 16 lost for a mark of .333. He was touted highly when he went up to the Browns but never broke into enough games to give a basis of his real worth.

Stauffer Impressive.

Stauffer was with the Bridgeport club of the Eastern league last year and had a much more impressive record. He won seventeen and lost seven, a fifty-fifty split in a large number of games. His earned run mark of 2.312 runs per game stands out in bold relief and stamps him as a winning performer.

Both players come under optional strings, the Browns having sent Meine to San Antonio, only to have him turned back and the Cubs desiring to keep a string on the services of Stauffer. The latter must be waived out of the National league, but it is believed that there will be no trouble in going through this formality. President Harvey said last night he expected Stauffer to join the club at Houston or Galveston. Both newcomers are righthanders.

Another pitcher may possibly come from the Cubs at a later date and the finger of fate now points to the return of Zip Dumovich to the Cubs.

RECORDS CRASH AS PHILLIES WIN, 20-14

Ten Homers Slammed And Cards Pile Up 22 Hits

Associated Press Dispatch

PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—Several records were broken or equalled at the National league park today when Philadelphia defeated St. Louis 20 to 14 in a hard-hitting contest.

Ten home runs were made by the two teams, which is said to be a National league record for one game. Cy Williams hit three of them, tying the mark of "Butch" Henline, a teammate of the Philadelphia slugger, made last year.

Williams now has 12 circuit clouts for the season and leads both major leagues in this respect. His third home run today was in the left field bleachers, the only time he has ever performed this feat.

St. Louis made 22 hits, which gives the visitors 70 hits for the four-game series, beating the record of 59 hits for four contests, made by Boston here recently. The 14 runs made by the Cardinals gives them 41 for the series, beating Boston's mark by one run. Mokan hit two home runs. Box score:

ALL READY FOR FISTIC SHOW TODAY

100,00 Can Be Taken Care Of At Yankee Stadium

NEW YORK, May 11.—Yankee Stadium, the world's biggest baseball park, was converted today into the world's greatest fistic arena, where tomorrow more than a ton of heavyweights will do battle for the Free Milk fund.

Room was made for 100,000 persons, if that many cared to see Jess Willard, the former champion, try to prove his claim of pugilistic fitness against Floyd Johnson, a Des Moines youth, of 22 years; see Luis Firpo, the powerful Argentinean, against Jack McAuliffee, 2nd, a Detroit youngster, who never has been floored for the full count, and three other contests.

A great block of seats has been purchased by society folk and another set aside for city and state officials. Thousands of general admissions will be sold at the park, starting on sale at 10 o'clock tomorrow. Sales of seats had passed $300,000 at noon today. Promoter Rickard estimated that the receipts would total more than $500,000.

The Willard-Johnson and Firpo-McAuliffee matches are booked for 15 rounds each. Fred Fulton, the Minnesotan, once reckoned a champion in contender, and Jack Renault, Canadian champion, are to go in a 10-round match. Al Reich, one of the men who expected to whip Champions—but didn't— will try his punches on Tiny Herman, a westerner, in six rounds.

Great interest is centered in the Willard-Johnson engagement. Willard, beyond the 40-mark in years, has had but three fights since he won the title from Jack Johnson in 1915, but for all of that, appears to be in fine fettle. He has trained hard for months and believes he can fight his way to Dempsey and past him.

Firpo, the South American, conqueror of Bill Brennan, who stood against Jack Dempsey, the champion, longer than any other man, is a natural fighter of great punching power and some skill.

McAuliffee, 22 years old, has knocked out a majority of his opponents and holds six round decision over Floyd Johnson.

The first bout probably will be started at 3 o'clock, daylight savings time. The Fulton-Renault match will be called at 3:45 o'clock, followed by Firpo-McAuliffee and Willard-Johnson.

Curing Your Golf Troubles

By Jim Barnes

By JIM BARNES

"Dear Mr. Barnes: d playing the explosion shot out of th sandtrap, should the hands be at of the ball in the address, and at should they lead the clubhead as the latter reaches the ball?—What are the essential points to be remembered in playing the stroke?—A. A. B."

Answer: The hands ought to occupy about the same relative position to the ball in the explosion shot as in other shots, and they should not be allowed to lead the clubhead as it reaches the sand. The clubhead must be carried through the sand under the ball and up, and this can't be done if the hands are allowed to lead.

One of the main things to be remembered in playing this stroke is that the weight must be kept well back on the right leg and foot, throughout the stroke. You really have to shovel the club into and up through the sand, and you must keep the weight well behind the club to do this.

If it is necessary to hit through and scoop up a lot of sand as is usually the case, the hands must be practically stopped in the position they occupy as the club takes the sand. You can't send them on through and have them finish out in the line of play.

It may be necessary at times to make almost a lifting motion just after the club takes the sand, in which it is necessary to raise the left arm bent at the elbow, up and out from the side.

In addition to the foregoing, the stroke must, of course, be played with a good firm grip. This is necessary because the shot is heavy work, using a heavy club and needing a heavy grip to carry it through. It should hardly be necessary to add that the head must be kept stationary and that the player must keep his eye on the spot where he expects to make the club take the sand.

(Jim Barnes will suggest a remedy for your golf troubles. Write him, care of the sport editor, enclosing stamped envelope, if you want a personal reply.)

Soviet Does a Little Re.. Profiteering on the Side.

Rent profiteering is charged to the Russian soviet, says The Nation's Business. It has been leasing buildings for business purposes in Moscow, and setting the rentals at heights which would make any other landlords dizzy.

The real estate department of the Russian government seems to be lazy too. It does not bother about fixing the rents with any relation to the values to the separate buildings. On a whole street it makes the rents equal.

Besides, it does not want to be bothered with slow payments. It has accordingly decreed that three per cent is to be added for each day of delinquency—not to be collected through civil procedure in the courts but as a fine. The lessee who does not pay promptly may face a fine of 50 percent of his high rent, almost before he knows it.

Have A Look At This "Gazook"

By NORMAN E. BROWN

June is the month of brides, roses and sweet girl graduates. It also produces a crop of graduate baseball stars from the colleges.

A fair sized crop of budding baseball stars is about ready to rush from the commencement platform to the station platform and board trains for big league cities. Several of these have established such good records at college or made such an impression on big league scouts that they are expected to get a chance to shine before the big league year ends.

According to the dope from Easton, Pa., Lafayette college will send into the great big world one Mike Gazella. Rumor hath it that he will join the New York Yankees for a tryout.

Keeping Pace In The Chess Match

Between Houston And Wichita Falls

Houston- Knight to Queen 5.

We've got to hand it to Houston for one thing—they certainly have a very exalted opinion of the abilities of the Wichita board of strategy for quick action. On several occasions after taking a couple of days to get over the jolt of some profound and unlooked for move from Wichita they have accompanied their belated reply with the request "please rush answer." Wichita in reply always delivers the goods "immediately" as requested.

A few days ago Houston lost a perfectly good bishop that was snooping around in the neighborhood of Wichita's queen and their move just sent in, Knight to Queen 5 indicates that the Hon. Sir Don Quixote is looking for trouble again after losing his happy home when the Houston king moved into the Don's stable while the Don was away from home. The Don got chased out of the southwest field, a short time back and after pouting around in the lower left hand corner of the board for awhile is now headed north and east. His pal the king's knight passed in his checks flirting around in the open and the Don is getting dangerously near Wichita's queen.

Houston doesn't seem to know it but Wichita's queen is some queen with the accent on the some. She is one of the ancient Amazon variety that you read about when a boy and met later in life when you grew up in one of the war drives Wichita is too modest to make any noise about its own move—we will let it go for what it is worth and let Houston figure it out. It is just possible the Wichita queen is side stepping to allow the proud and haughty knight to ride by and watch his strut and get his number and then send one of the minor pieces out to spill the Don and dump him in the junk pile with his old side kick Houston's late lamented king's knight who is no more. Take your time Houston, we know we are giving you some humdingers to puzzle over.

Foreign Origin Working Rule Revised.

Handkerchiefs, according to the Nation's Business, have been a source of grief in official circles, and among importers as well. The trouble arose over the manner in which handkerchiefs should be marked, when imported, with the name of the country of origin.

There was no great alteration in the new tariff law with respect to the marking of imported goods. Treasury officials, nevertheless, decided to make some changes through the regulations. In December they ruled that each individual handkerchief should be labeled with the name of the country where it was made. The marking of a box or other container would not do. In February officials retreated far enough to hold that marking of containers would answer if the handkerchiefs were unfinished. In March they finally capitulated, and said that if each dozen had a band bearing the mark of origin it is sufficient.

Making of imported goods to indicate whence they come is one thing but a requirement that is practical in view of the way in which merchandise has to be handled is quite another matter.

They Make Two Lumps Do the Work of One.

Fuel problems, says The Nation's Business, may at times be bad enough for our railroads, but they do not approach the troubles that confront the folk who try to keep locomotives going in Russia. It has been discovered there that a locomotive apparently consumes twice as much fuel as in 1913.

That was a mystery for a while, but the mystery has been solved. Only half of the fuel obtained by the railroads makes the wheels go around. Half of the balance is stolen, 15 per cent of the whole is wasted by firemen who have revolutionary ideas about the way to make steam, and 10 per cent is pure waste in the low quality of the fuel.

Coast Leaguer Clouts Out Five Homers In Game

SALT LAKE CITY, May 11.—Pete Schneider, right fielder of the Vernon coast league baseball club, today set what is supposed to be a record when he knocked five home runs in today's game with Salt Lake. He drove in 14 of Vernon's runs and in his sixth time at bat the ball missed going over the fence by inches and was good for two bases.

Vernon won 35 to 11.

MAY CONTEST FLAG DECISION.

British admiralty officials are said to hold that a ship flying the British flag is "British territory" and that American dry agents have no right to enforce the prohibition law upon any such vessel even in American waters. Britain may appeal to the international court against the decision of the United States supreme court that no ship may take liquor into an American port. An interesting possibility, that. But the judges of the new court of nations probably will think twice before deciding that inside the three-mile limit is not U. S. territory. Certainly no "Frenchman, Turk or Prooshun, Englishman or Rooshun" would have any right to come ashore in this country, raise his native flag over a building and run a saloon.

METHODISTS WIN FROM UTILITIES

Heavy Hitting Is Feature Of Twilight Contest

The Floral Heights Methodist baseball team defeated the Utilities Friday afternoon in the regular scheduled Twilight league game, by the score of 14 to 9. The game was marked by heavy hitting, the Methodist securing 12, while the Utilities gathered 11, but while the Methodist were playing a stellar game, not making a single error, the Utilities made seven bobbles.

Hefner of the losers was the outstanding player of the contest, scoring three runs and accepting six chances at the keystone sack without an error. Hale of the winners also played a bang up game, gathering three hits for two runs and taking five chances without an error. The Methodist won the game in two frames, scoring seven runs in the third and sixth innings respectively.

Ouimet Beaten By Britishers

DEAL, England, May 11.—British golfers today got rid of the last of the Americans who sought to take their amateur championship trophy across the Atlantic ocean.

Francis Ouimet, of Boston, former American open and amateur champion, was beaten in one of the semi-finals by Roger Wethered, a tall, slim, son of England. Douglas Grant, who is also an American, but who has lived for sometime in England, lost the other semi-final to a short, sturdy Scotchman, Robert Harris, by a score of 5 to 4.

Tomorrow's final of 36 holes will be but another of those frequent golf battles between England and Scotland. Ambitious America will play the less thrilling role of an interested spectator.

HOSPITAL DAY OBSERVED HERE

Visitors Will Be Shown Through Institution Today

The Wichita General hospital will open its doors to the public this afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock and will co-operate with thousands of hospitals throughout the country in observance of National Hospital day. The hospital was constructed in 1914 and since that time it has been enlarged so that its capacity was nearly doubled. It is now one of the best equipped hospitals in the country and serves the needs of thousands of people in the surrounding district.

Nurses will be in charge today and the visitors will be shown the various equipments in the building and the various wards and how they are conducted. There are at present eight graduate nurses, 18 student nurses, and tow superintendent nurses at the hospital, besides a large staff of cooks, maids, servants, and other help.

The nurses live at 906 Brook street and have one of the best homes in the city. This was recently refurnished by the board of directors. Those in charge of the hospital urge that the public attend the open day functions this afternoon.

MID CONTINENT STILL GROWING

Production Totals In Major Fields Increases For Week

TULSA, Okla., May 11.—Efforts of the major operators in the Mid-Continent fields to halt the ascension of this great district up the daily production ladder do not appear to be making much headway. Survey of last week's production by the Oil and Gas Journal of this city indicates that daily output of crude oil from the wells increased 21,265 barrels a day, compared with the week ending May 5.

Production Jumps

The Mid-Continent fields were turning out 950,181 barrels a day, the Journal reports, compared with 928,916 a day for the wek of April 28, and 923,738 barrels a day for the week of April 21.

Tonkawa, of course, is going like a house on fire, and despite the shutdown on top of the sand program in the Burbank, it holds up well near the 100,000-barrel figure.

Ten of the major districts revealed gains, Smackover heavy, Tonkawa, North Central Texas and Burbank being the outstanding pools.

Locate For Two Wells

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company has made location for two new wells on the Cetti lease in Archer county, and will drill at once. Cetti No. 3 is 1,470 feet south and 150 feet east of the northwest corner of the Zane Cetti lease, No. 4 is 300 feet west of No. 2 which is being drilled south of No. 1, the original discovery well. Machinery is being moved and the wells will be spudded in at once.

Inca Increases Flow

No. 2 well of the Inca Oil company, on block 75, Red River Valley lands, after a shot, increased its production to 23 barrels daily, pumping steadily. It had previously made 81.

Knox-Finley Shows 25 bbls.

The Knox-Finley shallow well ten miles northwest of Wichita Falls, in Clay county on the Sauer Brothers and Lomax land, showed yesterday as a 25-barrel producer, and swabbed throughout the day putting nearly 20 barrels of oil into the slushpit. The top of the sand was found early in the week and drilled 18 inches, showing lots of oil. The well stands at 1,116 feet, and casing has been set at 1,100 feet.

The finding of oil in commercial quantities has given added stimulus to leasing in the newly found shallow pool and a number of tests in nearby tracts are expected to start within the next few days. Two tracts have already been leased with the prospects of tests at once, and should they show equally as well as the first in the shallow pool, the field will be proven. At the shalow depth a 25-barrel well is considered a valuable commercial well, and if the new test show up to that amount drilling will undoubtedly be started by several companies at once.

Location On Wilson

Location has been made for No. 1 well on the D lease A. and T. C. railroad survey, section 2, Wilson ranch, in Archer county, by the Oil Investment company, who will move spudding in.

Sibley Plans Test

A. T. Sibley announced that he has made location for No. 1 on William Parker lands, section 41, Ross survey, in Archer county. The well will go down at once as a test.

Existence of petrol in the Lake Albert regions of Africa has been reported.

Texhoma Pumps 65

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company yesterday completed No. 15 on lease A of the Wagoner lands in the South Electra pool, the well pumping at the rate of 65 barrels daily. It is in the 1,500-foot sand and is making oil fast, the pump running steadily. Lease A has been drilled several times successfully, and has made several other producers of size.

Nabor Wins Suit

A verdict favoring the defendant was returned Friday before Judge E. W. Napier of the Seventy-eighth district court in the case of Mrs. Roy Brundage vs. T. W. Nabor.

Suit had been brought by the plaintiff who sought to recover $1,000 given the defendant to invest in oil properties some time ago. It was found that the defendant had not handled the funds in such manner as to warrant his accounting to the plaintiff for the sum.

Bradstreet's Report

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, May 11.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say: "Practically countrywide cold weather, with snows or freezing temperatures in many northern areas, has retarded retail buying. In country districts, the pre-occupation of the farmer in endeavoring to make up for earlier lost time tends to restrict personal buying and also marketing of left over crops, but mail order trade is still active. Wholesale trade shows a further quieting, and collections have also improved slightly. In industry, while the pace is still fast, there are evidences in the reports of postponements of new work announced as well as in the decline of building expenditures in April from the peak totals of March, that costs of labor or material have been pushed too high.

LAKE PLANNING SUNDAY STUNTS

Human Fly Booked To Give Hair Raising Stunts

A series of special stunts will be given at Lake Wichita Sunday for the benefit of the public, it is announced by the management of the amusement park. The entire program has not yet been arranged, but is said to be sufficiently far advanced to assure a well worth while afternoon.

Professor Rex, declared to be one of the best "human flys" in the world, is to be the headliner and will give some of his hair-raising stunts. During the liberty loan drives this man traveled all over the country, climbing the walls of high buildings and doing other similar acts. A special stage is being built at the lake for the professor.

Announcement is made that these entertainment features will, insofar as possible, be made weekly attractions at the lake. Efforts are already being made to line up entertainers for succeeding Sundays and it is expected that the stunts will prove tremendously popular.

SHARP REACTION IN STOCK MART

Professionals Force Down Industrial Prices

NEW YORK, May 11.—Concentrating their efforts on the steels, equipments and a few highly speculative automotive shares, professional interests succeeded in forcing another sharp re-action in the price of industrial stocks in today's market.

Other outstanding weak spots among the active industrials included Mack Truck, Willys Overland preferred, International Harvester, DuPont, Eastman Kodak, American Cotton Oil preferred, American Agricultural Chemical and Cuba Cane Sugar preferred, the losses ranging from 2 to nearly 4 1-2 points. Woolworth added 4 1-2 points to its 16 point gain of yesterday, touching 230 1-2, a new top, and then broke to 225 for a net loss of ten points.

Pere Marquette was one of the leaders of the rail group, touching 43, a new top, an dthen dropping back to 41 5-8, where it was up 1 5-8 on the day.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, May 11.—Demand for steers and yearlings was at a low ebb Friday and as most of the day's receipts consisted of close classes the market was a slow and indifferent affair. Sales were steady to weak. Calves found a steady outlet at rates that were fully steady. The day's estimate called for 1,200 head of cattle and 600 calves.

RAINS LEAD TO GRAIN SELLING

Market Unsettled At Close One To Two Cents Lower

Associated Press Dispatch

CHICAGO, May 11. — Beneficial rains over dry sections of the middle West led to free selling of wheat today, and cut prices on the downward grade. The market closed unsettled, 1¼ to 2¼ cents net lower, with July 1.13⅝ to 1.13½ and September 1.14⅛ to 1.14⅜. Corn finished unchanged to 1¼ cents off, and oats lost ¼@1¼ to ⅝c. In provisions, the outcome was 2 to 7 cents decline.

There was a rush to sell wheat when the market opened, and, although numerous rallies in prices were subsequently witnessed, no strong recovery took place. Buying support failed to develop except at material setbacks and appeared to be due then almost entirely to shorts collecting profits. On the other hand, the selling was vigorously pressed.

The corn market, the fact that premiums are at present the highest yet on the crop gave relative stability to prices. Cash demand was active, and rural offerings scarce, but the weakness of wheat had an evident bearish influence. Oats followed corn.

Scattered selling rome of it by packers, made the provision market tend lower with grains, even though hog values were steady.

NEW YORK, May 11.—There were violent fluctuations in the cotton market today, with a sharp early decline, followed by an equally sharp recovery, after which prices eased off again, July sold up from 23.65 to 24.39 and closed at 23.85, compared with 24.20 at the close yesterday. The general market closed barely steady in tone with prices five points higher on January. Other months were 5 to 17 points lower, however, and the general list soon weakened, owing to heavy liquidation of July contracts and more or less general selling of other months. Stop orders were uncovered on the decline which carried all months into new low ground for the movement, with May selling down to 24.00 and October to 22.26. This made net declines of 35 points on old crop months and of 27 to 40 points on the new, and when offerings tapered off prices rallied during the afternoon. For a while some fresh buying for trade accounts was reported, and prices were about 7 to 20 points net higher, but the market weakened again in the last few minutes. Last prices showed reactions of 38 to 53 points from the best, although there were slight bulges at the close on reports of storm warning along the Texas coast. Port receipts today, 5,574 U. S. port stocks, 408,378. Exports today, 6,122, making 4,325,079 so far this season.

The three tennis courts now being constructed by the city on the new municipal golf course will not be open to the public but will be available for use only by those holding membership cards in the golf association. It was announced Friday that a nominal fee would be charged for using the courts.

When decision was made to construct and maintain the courts it was the consensus of opinion of city officials that public courts would be too difficult to handle satisfactorily and that for this reason their use should be restricted to those holding membership cards.

Negro Fined $25 When Jury Finds Him Guilty Of Using Acid In Fight

A fine of $25 was assessed against Charlie Lewis, a negro, when he was found guilty in the county court at law Friday afternoon on a charge of aggravated assault, growing out of an alleged attack in which his wife was burned about the face by carbolic acid. It was alleged by the state that Lewis had attempted to pour the acid into the woman's mouth as she was asleep.

Lewis testified in his own behalf, pleading self defense. He declared that in an altercation with his wife she had hurled some objects at him and that while he was remonstrating with her the acid was spilled over her face. Self defense was the only affirmative defense allowed in Judge Rogers' charge to the jury.

Consideration of but twenty minutes was taken by the jury before it arrived at its verdict.

Misses Lolla Boone, Elizabeth Brown and Florence Tyson, the first two being instructors in the Junior college and the last being employed as secretary in the school office, were recipients of gifts from the college students Friday morning, that day being the final regular school day of the present session.

F. P. TIMBERLAKE HOME IS ROBBED

Valuable Watch and Shrine Pin Stolen Thursday Night

A specially constructed Patek Phillippe gold watch and a valuable Shrine pin were stolen Thursday night from the home of F. P. Timberlake, 2105 Tenth street, according to reports made Friday by Mr. Timberlake to the sheriff's office. The watch was valued at $500 and the pin at $150.

Special Gift

Mr. Timberlake told officers that the timepiece was a special gift to him and that he valued it highly. It was elaborately engraved and on the inside of the case bore the inscription, "Specially built for F. P. Timberlake by Patek Phillipe company, Switzerland, 1917."

Officers were immediately put to work on the case and it was intimated that a clue to the identity of the robber had been obtained.

Mother's Day Sunday May 13

A man told us the other day that he would give a thousand dollars for a dozen roses if he only had a mother to whom to send them. There's a sermon in that sentiment for those of us who still have mothers.
