Phenomenon Believed Giant Blazing Meteor Leaves Smoke Trail Across Western Sky

By RANDALL ABERNETHY
Avalanche Staff Writer

A FEARSOME "ball of fire," wearing a long, wispy train of white, plummeted earthward in the western sky about 9:30 o'clock Thursday night, and jerked scores of Lubbockites out of their lawn lolling.

Many called the Avalanche-Journal and the police station and asked what was going on.

Dr. Ralph S. Underwood, professor at Texas Technological college and amateur astronomer, said it was a meteor that was falling probably in 30 to 50 miles of Lubbock.

Judging by the trail of smoke which was visible for minutes after the meteor streaked downward, Dr. Underwood said that the body likely was 20 to 40 miles above the surface of the earth when sighted here. The meteor itself was in view only a few seconds, according to observers.

"The meteor undoubtedly 'burned out' before it hit the ground," Dr. Underwood said. He believed that it was a rock type meteor rather than the ore type. The trail of "smoke" probably was made up of dust, engendered as the flashing ball broke into particles, and by the condensation of air in the wake of the meteor's terrific speed. It was travelling, estimated, at 10 to 50 miles a second. Usually, the trail left by these bodies can be seen for 10 or 15 seconds, he said.

The sight is relatively rare, he said. "We in this section of the country can expect to see one once every 10 years."

Many persons expressed belief that a plane from Lubbock Army Air field had exploded in the air. A check with the field revealed that none was missing from there. Others saw the "smoke" in the air and concluded that there had been an explosion. One man told police that he "heard" an explosion shortly before seeing the meteor's trail.

The control tower at LAAF said that the meteor was first seen there at 9:35 o'clock in a southwesterly direction and heading northwesterly at a 30-degree angle toward the earth.

The falling body was first reported by Sloan Fortenberry, who with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McCauley, jr., of 2620 Twenty-second, were sitting on the Fortenberry lawn at 2020 Broadway. All saw the flash.

"It came straight down and looked like a falling star," Fortenberry said. "But, unlike a star, it left a trail of smoke. The smoke finally spread out."

Fire Chief W. E. Twitty and firemen Mark Long, Roy Sanford, and R. H. Brewer and Policeman L. W. Fristoe also noticed the meteor.

Russia Plans Early Trials For 16 Poles

By JAMES F. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 14—Russia announced tonight that 16 Polish leaders would be tried within the next few days for "terroristic acts of diversion" behind Red Army lines.

The announcement came on the eve of a conference scheduled to open in the Russian capital tomorrow among representatives of the Big Three and various Polish factions for the purpose of organizing a broader-based Polish provisional government.

May Demand Release

At least one of the Poles invited to the meeting, former Premier Stanislaw Mikolajszyk, a leader of the peasant party, had been reported by the British press to be prepared to demand the release of the 16 accused Poles as a condition to participating in the parley.

Russia announced on May 6 that she had arrested the Polish leaders, creating a storm in international relations and leading to a breakdown in Big Three negotiations on broadening the Polish government. Earlier this week the Paris radio reported that Harry Hopkins, President Truman's special emissary to Moscow, had effected the release of the group.

Four Are Identified

Moscow for the first time identified four of the arrested group in tonight's broadcast announcement:

They were Jan Jankowski, vice premier of the London Polish government-in-exile; Gen. Bronislaw Okulicki, former Polish underground army leader; Stanislaw Jasiukowicz, former parliament national party representative, and Adam Bien, peasant party member and former Warsaw judge.

Soon after announcement of the arrests early last month Foreign Secretary Eden of Britain characterized the group as "nearly all the leading figures of the Polish underground movement." Many of the 16 seized, he said, were persons the British thought should be included in a new, democratic Polish government.

Easy Amendment Withdrawal Right Among Objectives

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, June 14. — Little nations at the United Nations conference held out today for easy amendment of a world charter in the future or, failing that, the right to withdraw at any time from a new international league.

They want one or the other as protection, now that the Big Five — the United States, Russia, Britain, China and France — have clinched their control over the prospective world organization and the right to veto peace-enforcement steps.

Delegate Explains It

A delegate from one of the lesser powers epitomized it this way:

"As the charter is now set up, there seems to be no way open to modify the veto in years to come. . . . We feel that if the Big Five plan to keep their veto power indefinitely, we will want to get out of the world organization."

With the exception of Russia, the Big Five now are against putting a specific withdrawal clause in the charter and all are insisting the veto must apply to revision of the charter in later years.

These issues arose in conference committees, but a hunt was on for compromises.

The conference was operating under a new time table calling for committees to finish their chores by tomorrow night, and a rapid round of public commisison sessions over the week-end and early next week, with the signing of the charter set for no later than June 23.

Charter Preamble Set

The preamble of the charter was set in place at a commission meeting today.

It declares that "we the peoples of the United Nations" are "determined to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war, which twice in our lifetime has brought untold sorrow to mankind."

It stresses human rights, the value of the human person, equal rights for men and women and for large and small nations. It calls for conditions under which justice and international obligations can be maintained, for social progress and "better standards of life in larger freedom"; for tolerance and good neighborliness among nations, for united strength to maintain peace.

After approving the preamble, the commission took up the first chapter of the charter, setting forth purposes of the world league. It debated an Egyptian amendment for two and a half hours, rejected it, and accepted a single paragraph stating the league's first purpose was:

"To maintain international peace and security; and to that end to make effective collective measures for the prevention and removal of threats to peace and the suppression of acts of aggression or other breaches of the peace, and

Aussies Take Bomb-Torn Borneo Town

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

MANILA, Friday, June 15. — Brunei, important little river port and capital of the North Borneo sultanate of Brunei, fell by default to Australian Ninth division infantrymen who walked unopposed into the bomb-flattened town Wednesday, it was disclosed today.

The town, 16 miles from the nearest landing points when the invasion of British Borneo began last Sunday, was occupied after a hot march through the lush jungle against scanty Japanese opposition.

Other Aussies Advance

A communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced also that other Australian units on Labuan island, in the mouth of Brunei bay, had moved within a half mile of the Timbalai airstrip along the Hamilton road and found not more than 500 Japanese opposing them.

The defense was stiffening, however, with mortar fire and snipers on the increase both in the Timbalai area and in stubborn pockets north and west of Labuan airstrip, which already is being used to some extent by the Allies.

Timbalai is the last Japanese-held airfield of three in the invasion area.

Thousands Of Japs Yet

A headquarters spokesman here, commenting on the light casualties on both sides, said "many thousands" of Japanese were scattered through west Borneo, although the slight reaction in the Brunei bay area indicated that no sizable forces of the enemy remained there.

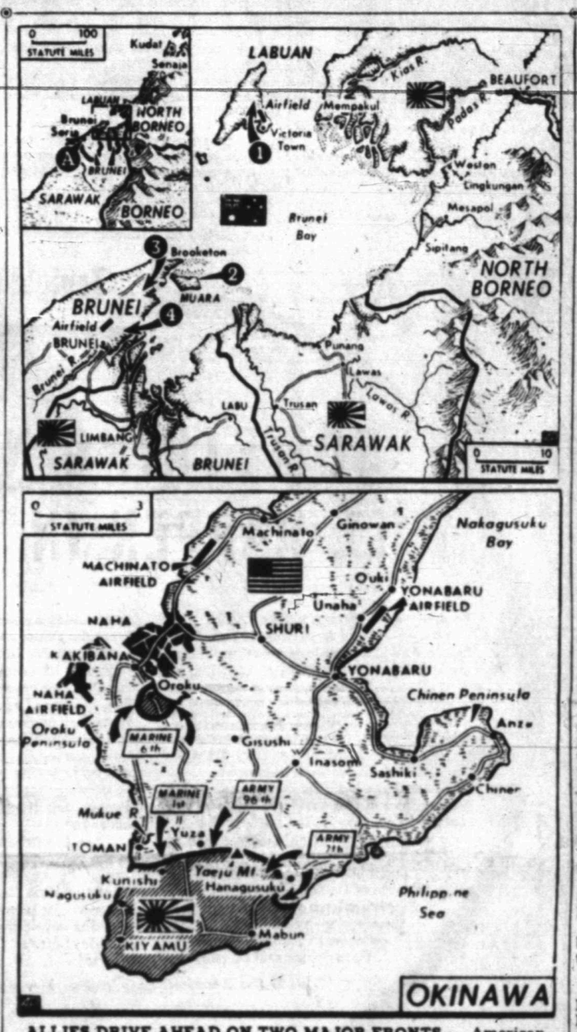

Labuan airstrip, on which engineers were rushing improvements will provide an excellent field for heavy bombers some 800 miles from Singapore, the spokesman said. He cautioned, however, that restoring it would be a big job, because of Allied pre-invasion bombing and Japanese demolitions. Artillery-spotter planes already are using its torn and weed-grown strip.

Bombers Are Active

U. S. 13th Air force Mitchell medium and lightning fighter-bombers and Royal Australian Air force Beaufighters and Kittyhawks continued strong support of the invasion forces, striking heavily at Jesselton, British North Borneo, northwest of the Brunei bay area, setting large fires in buildings and fuel dumps that sent smoke towering 4,000 feet into the air.

Yanks Crack Center Of Okinawa Defense

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Friday, June 15—Maj. Gen. James L. Bradley's 96th Infantry division cracked the center of the previously outflanked Japanese defense line on southern Okinawa Thursday by capturing 500-foot-high Yaeju hill and pushing on south.

The summit of southern Okinawa's highest peak was gained early yesterday after a brisk fight while other divisions cut in behind both ends of the rugged escarpment line where an estimated 10,000 Nipponese are making a last stand in an area of less than 13 square miles.

Yaeju Hill Captured

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced in today's communique the fall of Yaeju hill to the 381st regiment. Other 96th division elements assaulted a second high point to the west.

On either end of the escarpment line, the First Marine and Seventh Infantry divisions pushed inward in a maneuver similar to the pincers envelopment of Shuri fortress.

On southwestern Okinawa's Oroku peninsula, the Sixth Marine division mopped up remnants of a pocketed Japanese naval landing force which had been used as regular troops. The unusually high number of 102 surrendered Wednesday. It was one of the biggest single day's bag of the Pacific war. Others were driven into the mudflats of the Kokuba estuary where they committed hara kiri after dashing about wildly and screaming.

Elements of the Third Marine amphibious corps, meantime, made unopposed landings on Senaga island, off the southwest coast of Oroku peninsula. They captured five Japanese naval guns.

Under heavy mortar, artillery and machinegun fire, Maj. Gen. James L. Bradley's 96th Infantry division, in the center of the Yaeju line captured Yaeju-Dake hill,

Step-Up Set July 1; B-29s Batter Osaka

By RICHARD O'MALLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Friday, June 15 — The American bomb load dumped on Japan will reach the rate of 2,000,000 tons a year by July 1, Gen. H. H. Arnold announced today just as 520 Superfortresses were strewing 3,000 tons of incendiaries on industrial Osaka and Amagasaki in a first-anniversary raid.

Arnold, chief of the U. S. Army Air forces, personally disclosed the

NO PEAK FOR B-29s

GUAM, Friday, June 15 (AP)—"When will the B-29s reach their bombing peak?" an interviewer asked Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of Army Air forces, today.

"There is no peak for the B-29s," he replied.

"The only peak is when Japan is destroyed."

heavy Osaka raid in a dramatic press conference in which he detailed his program for "complete and utter destruction" of the enemy homeland by air.

Gigantic Desolation

The gigantic desolation already wrought in Japan by a series of Superfortress raids, that have totalled about 75,000 tons since November, will be as nothing compared with the devastation the enemy may expect to start within hardly more than two weeks, Arnold made clear.

The scheduled 2,000,000 annual bomb tonnage would average 5,480 tons each day, and the five-star commander of the air forces grimly declared:

"If that is what Japan wants, by God, that is what she is going to get."

Same As For Germany

Here on his first visit to the Marianas area and the 21st Bomber command, Arnold disclosed that the program for Japan was the same as for Germany—aerial destruction of her industries, with the aid of Japanese-acquainted target-evaluators.

Differences, as he pointed out, are that Japanese industry is concentrated in a smaller area, but is better dispersed among homes and small plants.

"We are going to more than double the tonnage we are going to drop on Japan, starting July

Yanks Advance On North Luzon

MANILA, Friday, June 15 (AP)—U. S. troops scored a three-mile advance Wednesday through northern Luzon's mountains, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today, placing them two miles from the entrance to Cagayan valley, where the biggest enemy force still at large in the islands is believed to be deployed.

As the Americans toiled along the mountain trail, medium bombers and fighters in 500 sorties Tuesday blasted and strafed the Japanese supply lines through the valley, further reducing the enemy bottled up there.

Past Bottleneck

They were past the bottleneck of Orioung pass where the terrain begins to flatten out toward the Cagayan plain.

More than 40 miles to the southwest, the 33rd Infantry division was only six miles from the isolated enemy supply base of Bokod after overrunning the towns of Tabio and Ambuklao. Bokod is 18 miles northeast of the summer capital of Baguio.

Supplementing the wide-spread air strikes at enemy supply lines throughout the area, shore raiders landed at night on Sangihe island, south of Mindanao, blew up six large warehouses, destroyed a number of watercraft and withdrew without loss, MacArthur's communique said.

Mopping-up operations proceeded on Mindanao itself. Minor gains were scored northwest of Davao port.

Improved Relations With Russia Lauded

By ALEX SINGLETON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 14. — Prime Minister Churchill, hailing a "marked improvement" in relations with Russia and continued "complete accord" with the United States, took steps today to place Britain's foreign policy on a solid non-partisan basis for the Big Three meeting expected in July.

In perhaps his valedictory address on the eve of dissolution of the longest-lived parliament in 300 years, he informed Commons he had invited Labor party leader Clement R. Attlee to accompany him to the conference, which he said would be held "before the results of the impending election . . . are announced." The date for the announcement has been set for July 26.

Hope In Levant Situation

Churchill also offered hope for a break in the British-French stalemate on the Levant crisis, telling a cheering Commons: "I am glad to hear the former Premier Edouard Herriot is said to be coming over here on behalf of General de Gaulle."

However, in Paris Gen. de Gaulle's headquarters said no emissary would go to London "at this time," and said nothing was known of a mission by Herriot.

In plain words the prime minister explained his reason for the Attlee invitation—"in case anyone says 'are you committing yourself to something for which you have no authority, or in case (that) in the ballot box there lies something which strips you of your authority?' "

Space Of Two Weeks

This would appear to place the date for the Big Three meeting sometime between July 5, when Britain will hold its first general election in 10 years, and the July 26 announcement of the result, when the service ballot will have been counted.

The Prime Minister said, as did President Truman yesterday, that he could not say where or exactly when the conference would occur. The British press thought it likely the locale would be Ger-

Thousands Cheer Gen. Eaker In San Angelo

SAN ANGELO, June 14. (AP)—Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, deputy commander of the Army Air forces, came home today to the plaudits of West Texas friends and neighbors.

Riding in a car with his father, Y. Y. Eaker of nearby Eden, the famous Texan was driven through downtown streets lined with cheering thousands. Mounted cowboys beamed as he passed.

At noon, he was honor guest at a barbecue.

Following Eaker in the parade were hundreds of men who served under him in Europe and a large contingent of Filipino flight students, now training at San Angelo's Goodfellow Field.

Scores of planes circled overhead.

Hong Kong Reported Blasted By Heavies

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP)—The British radio, quoting an Australian reporter, said tonight that Hong Kong had been blasted by Allied heavy bombers in a great fire raid tonight.

The broadcast, monitored by NBC, said 25,000 gallons of jellied gasoline were dropped on port installations and warehouses.

Saigon also was hit by Allied planes during the night, the report said.

TRIALS START SOON

LONDON, June 14. (AP) — Exchange Telegraph agency today said that Britain would start trials of its war criminals within three weeks by military courts "established under a special royal warrant to be issued tomorrow."

Essair Set For Early Service

Essair will not start carrying mail and express on the Amarillo-Houston route through Lubbock Saturday, it was announced Thursday night.

Bill Brown, station manager for Lubbock and Amarillo, said, "I came here under instructions to have the Lubbock station ready for operation by Saturday, but won't be ready by then."

Training runs opened Wednesday night.

A. W. Meadows, operations manager, of Houston, said by telephone that "there is no way of knowing at this time" when regular flights will be started on the route. At least five training runs will be made, after which CAA inspectors will arrive, and then at least five proving runs will be made, he said. It then will be up to the CAA to set date for starting service.

Training Run Purpose

The training runs are for purpose of familiarizing pilot and personnel on the line with the route. Proving runs are to permit Essair to prove to CAA that it is capable of running and handling commercial air carriers.

A plane landed at South Plains Army Air field Wednesday night on the initial run. Another run was made Thursday, but the plane did not land at the South Plains field. A third is to be made this morning, leaving Houston about 10 o'clock.

Passenger service cannot be started until 10 days after opening of proving runs.

Amendments' Order On Ballot Drawn

AUSTIN, June 14. (AP)—Topping the ballot in the special election on constitutional amendments Aug. 25 will be submission of the proposal to allow service men and women to vote without payment of the poll tax in time of war, and for one year thereafter.

The order of printing the four amendments to be submitted to the voters was decided at a public drawing today in the rotunda of the capitol, presided over by Secretary of State Claude Isbell.

Second on the ballot will be the amendment raising the pay of legislators to $10 a day the year around; third will be the one increasing membership of the Supreme court to nine; fourth will be the amendment setting a ceiling of $35,000,000 annually on the amount of state money that may be spent on public welfare.

Matured 'Bonus' Bonds Could Aid Seventh

MANY of the men who fought in the other war awakened Wednesday to realization that some musty old papers that had cluttered their desks the last nine years are worth $63.50 each.

After the "Bonus march" on Washington, the Congress passed regulations, effective June 15, 1936, known as the adjusted compensation payment act. Under it service men were given $50 bonds which bore 3 per cent interest if held until they matured at the end of nine years.

Those nine years are "up" today. That means that they bear no more interest after today.

"It further means," said George E. Benson, Lubbock banker who is co-chairman of the 46-county Amarillo region of the War Finance committee, "that they should be cashed and proceeds put to work in winning the present war."

Here's the way Benson summed it up:

"An investment of $11.50 is all that the veteran of World War I needs, plus signing his name to one of those old adjusted service bonds, to buy a $100 series E war bond of World War II. The $11.50 is his only actual direct investment, since the government gave him the adjusted service bond.

"Our series E bond buying in the Seventh War Loan drive is lagging badly. It is serious."

That such investments might make an appreciable showing could be gathered from the number of the old bonds some World War I veterans cleared Thursday from their desks.

Take the case of William C. Pryor, of Quicksall-Pryor company. He had 31 of the bonds, maturity value $1,968.50. If he elected to invest $356.50 out of his pocket and add to it the check he will receive from the Treasury department for the old bonds he could be issued new series E bonds that in 10 years will be worth $3,100.

Benson cited the suggestions of American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars leaders that "all who can do so invest their matured bonuses in bonds to support the present conflict."

The bonds were issued in numbers based on the veterans' service record. James L. Quicksall, a partner of Pryor, did not serve quite so long in the Army. He was issued 28 of the bonds.

"Almost every person who talked with me Thursday said he planned to reinvest the money in current war bonds," Benson said.

He said procedure in cashing the adjusted service bonds is to go to a bank or a postoffice, where the registered owner signs in the presence of those who can certify to his true identity as owner.

The bonds will be sent away and the treasury will send a check to the certified owner at the address he specifies.

Compulsory Training Favored By Freeman Before House Committee

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—Editor-Historian Douglas Southall Freeman said today "compulsory military service, properly administered, has proved to be the surest, most democratic and most economic system of essential national defense."

In testimony prepared for the House postwar military policy committee, the Editor of the Richmond, Va., News-Leader said:

Old Cycle Costly

"The examination of American military history makes clear . . . (that) the old cycle of disarmament, negligence and frenzied preparation for war has cost our nation unreckonable billions of dollars and hundreds of thousands of lives."

A military historian, he asserted, probably would outline the function of our armed forces this way:

"Our Army and Navy, while available for the maintenance of order at home, should be so constituted that they can develop competent officers of every rank, test new weapons, explore new tactics and maintain an organization capable of vast and rapid expansion and training to the end that decisive victory in war can be assured in minimum time with the lowest practicable loss of human life and the least practicable expenditure of the nation's substance.

"If the statement is approximately correct," Dr. Freeman added, "our military policy prior to the second world war was a negation, in whole or in part, of every principle that should have been applied.

No Large Scale Training

"The United States, prior to the outbreak of hostilities, never maintained an Army of sufficient size to give our officers peacetime field training on a scale that equpped them to handle any large body of men confidently, on the basis of experience."

Freeman said passage of the 1940 selective service act probably "dated a new and more hopeful cycle." Saying the Army of 1941-43 was trained with far greater speed and smoothness than that of 1917-18, he added:

"It already appears plain that if the United States had . . . introduced compulsory service in 1916, the Germans would have been halted in the first stage of the offensive of March 21, 1918."

Committee Approves Wickard Nomination

WASHINGTON, June 14. (U.P.)—The Senate agriculture committee by a 11-to-6 vote today approved the nomination of Claude R. Wickard to be rural electrification administrator.

Voting for Wickard were Sens. Elmer Thomas, D., Okla., chairman; John H. Bankhead, D., Ala.; Theodore G. Bilbo, D., Miss.; Allen J. Ellender, D., La.; Scott W. Lucas, D., Ill.; Tom Connally, D., Tex., Sheridan Downey, D., Calif.; Clyde R. Hoey, D., N. C.; George D. Aiken, R., Vt.; Milton R. Young, R., N. D.; and Raymond E. Willis, R., Ind.

Opposing were Sens. Arthur Capper, Kan.; Henrik Shipstead, Minn.; Harland J. Bushfield, S. D.; George A. Wilson, Ia.; Hugh Butler, Neb.; and Guy Cordon, Ore., all Republicans.

The committee action came after three days of hearings held at the request of rural electrification cooperatives in the middle west and south. Witnesses charged Wickard with "political domination" of REA during his term as secretary of agriculture.

The Senate is expected to act on the nomination tomorrow.

Boy Holds Grenade While Viewing Movie

ATLANTA, June 14. (AP) — A youthful patron of an Atlanta theater was discovered nonchalantly viewing a western thriller—and at the same time toying with a hand grenade in his lap last night.

Theater officials called in the police who in turn summoned the military authorities.

The boy said he had been given the grenade by a paratrooper, who told him it was "dead."

Far from being "dead," military authorities reported the grenade was one of the most deadly now in use—powerful enough to kill 75 or 100 persons.

SOMETHING NEW WILL HAPPEN IN RADIO

Tonight radio history will be made!

You will travel to Europe tonight! To Europe where, for five long years, millions of people lived in constant fear, in stifling silence. You will hear how this silence was shattered by human voices . . . free voices . . . giving precious information to enslaved people—by radio. You will hear these voices tonight, broadcasting just as they did when it meant certain death to be caught!

You will also hear thrilling true stories of how radio met the challenge of total war on the home front . . . and how it brought us within three seconds of our men in the foxholes.

The philosophy that radio is a free Weapon of Decision for the American People has been applied for the past three years—by America's youngest network, the Blue Network. Born during and matured by our country's greatest struggle, the Blue Network developed a whole new concept of radio.

One of the foundations of this new concept was "freedom of the air." We picked newsmen and commentators with experience and a sense of responsibility—and let them have their say on the air. We reviewed their scripts only for good taste and for competent news authority—not for censorship. Why did we take this unprecedented step? Because we believe that if you, the American People, are given all the facts, you will make sound decisions.

Former Bank Teller Facing 14 Charges

SHREVEPORT, June 14. (U.P.)—A former teller at the Continental American bank here, Richard Henry Tennison, 22, stood indicted at Alexandria, La., today on 10 embezzlement and four forgery counts, it was announced by Federal Dist. Atty. Malcolm Lafargue.

Plans were underway to remove Tennison from Beaumont, Tex., where he is presently being held, to Shreveport for trial.

Tennison, a native of Sherman, Tex., is charged with embezzling $20,000 from Shreveport bankers. Lafargue said Tennison also allegedly forged endorsements and cashed four U. S. Treasury checks payable to his wife for a total of $6,363.

Tennison had been employed by the Houston Light and Power Co. for three years before coming to Shreveport.

Few Japs Stand Off Two U. S. Companies

OKINAWA, June 13. (Delayed) (AP)—One Japanese officer and 14 men, surprised in a pre-dawn attack, stood off two companies of U. S. 96th division infantrymen for five hours today. Then they fell before a vicious assault in which Platoon Sgts Stanley Konstanty, Chicago, Gordon M Chogter (cable copy), Goldthwaite, Tex., and Leonard Meadows, St. Louis, led charges.

Police Changes Are In Effect

Going into effect at midnight last night the promised eight-hour shift for the police department, with its connotations of charges here and there in enforcement of traffic ordinances, hits full swing today.

Chief of Police Don Reeder and a detail of painters and traffic sign hangers worked much of Wednesday night marking red and white lines defining street and curb limits for motorists driving and parking, and indicating pedestrian lanes at traffic congested street intersections.

Traffic Turns Reduced

The department's members will erect and hang signs tonight at such intersections where traffic turns are being modified, so that lines of automobiles may move with less interruptions and thereby proceed faster without sacrificing any safety precautions. To that end, there will be less license in right and left turns, so that streams of pedestrians crossing on green light traffic control signals will not be jostled by fenders and bumpers of motorists who, held up waiting to get through pedestrians, sometimes have retarded other motorists for blocks back.

No "Drive" Intended

It was re-emphasized this morning by Reeder and Capt. Lewis Kittrell, head of the police traffic department, that:

"No traffic drive is on. This is a permanent working out of the wishes of the public as expressed through their city commission. We are not expecting to commence handing out traffic violation tickets left and right, just to make the public conscious of the changeover. We had, as often said, rather collect no fines, give no tickets. Naturally, we shall be compelled to give tickets where violations exist, but with no more emphasis than usual."

Safety Is Keynote

However, it was pointed out, the commission has urged that police enforce all ordinances relating to traffic; which means all precautions against damaging of property and injuring of the community's population. Translated into police duties, that means the public will be expected to cross streets that have traffic control corners, at those corners—not strike a "jaywalking" course that would set dangerous example to children and a predicate for injuries and damages.

There are other enforcement ordinances that "the public is aware of, since all incorporated communities have them, and have had for decades."

Police Force Augmented

The police department has been augmented by new patrolmen and approximately 15 remain to be added. It will work in three shifts, under a recognition that there are "peak" periods of traffic when more patrolmen will be required than at other hours. The eight-hour shift will require a patrolman's working "straight through." The patrolman will be expected to sharpen diligence and industry.

Parallel parking on several narrow streets, with generous footage provided for ease in sliding vehicles near the curb, has been initiated, and reaction of the public, especially motorists, has been favorable. There is a noticeable difference under parallel parking.

Cooperation Asked

"Double-parking" especially is being watched by police, since one automobile can undo the entire effects of parallel parking by "hogging" its side of the street.

Cooperation of the public in every detail of the traffic ordinances is asked by the police.

Offenbach Leather Industry Revived Under GI Guidance

By KENNETH L. DIXON
Associated Press Staff Writer

IN OCCUPIED GERMANY — Just southeast of Frankfurt lies the German town of Offenbach where a group of economic-minded doughboys have been experimenting successfully for a month with the old law of supply and demand.

The supply was German skilled labor.

The demand was that of the Allied soldiers for worthwhile souvenirs.

The eventual product was some of the world's finest leather articles.

Town Badly Wrecked

When the U. S. 19th corps doughboys moved into Offenbach they found much of the town destroyed. The local leather industry, which had been converted to full contracts for the German Army, was paralyzed.

Some of the boys remembered that before the war the high quality of Offenbach leather goods had been recognized all over the world. A few of them recalled they had paid fancy prices for such craftsmanship on Fifth Avenue and elsewhere in America.

Many small Offenbach plants still were usable when the military government took over. Craftsmen still were there and needed little equipment other than their sewing machines, since their products were handmade except for stitching.

Industry Was Dead

However, the leather industry was dead in Offenbach for two reasons: no raw materials and no way of distributing the article.

So the military government went into action. Tanneries throughout the area were ransacked for workable leather until a small stockpile was assembled. Then the German craftsmen were called in—after the leading Nazis in their midst had been screened out by the Army G-2 and counter intelligence corps—and told "here's your leather. Get to work."

That took care of the production but it was only the beginning. Distribution and sales remained to be arranged.

The showroom of one of the town's larger plants which had suffered the least war damage was selected as a salesroom. The Offenbach merchants were called together after having been given the same screening to eliminate the Nazis.

Get Salesroom Ready

They were told to get the salesroom cleaned up, equipped and staffed—ready for trade. Within 24 hours they were to open for business. Their customers were soldiers of the United Nations.

There was no time for advertising but the word spread fast and the first day was a sellout.

Business hours are from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m., but the line of customers inevitably starts forming about an hour before opening time. The line consists of British Tommies, American WACs, nurses and even full colonels as well as buck privates, and moves slowly in and out of the building all day long, rain or shine.

Skipper Proud Of Minesweeper

By VERN HAUGLAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

OKINAWA.—Lt. Comdr Eugene N. Foss of Chestnut Hill, Mass., is pretty proud of the crew and fighting ability of his little minesweeper.

He has a right to be. The tiny warship shot down five Japanese planes and absorbed the rammings of three others northwest of Okinawa April 6. When the battle was over she was still afloat, but burning so badly she had to be sunk.

"The first plane scraped our fantail, almost missing us," said Foss.

Blown From Bridge

"The second hit forward gun No. 1, and the third landed right under the bridge, blowing most of the men off the bridge. I had ducked into the pilot house, but jumped overboard later after we were forced to abandon ship. I was picked up within an hour."

About another suicide sinking: "The two bravest men on our ship when the suicide planes came in were the skipper and a 63-year-old engine wiper," said Joel Anderson, crew messmate, of Sacramento, Calif.

"This old engine wiper, the oldest man on the ship, saved my life. He found me unconscious under a life raft and threw me overboard. A Navy man on a raft hauled me out of the water.

Covers Whole Ship

"That old man went all over the ship, looking for the injured and helping them to escape. He stayed until they had to order him to leave. We'd always called him 'Dad' and he sure lived up to his name that day. I've heard some other ship picked him up okay; I certainly hope so.

"Our skipper stood on the bridge, directing the removal of the personnel, and was the last man to leave the burning ship. She was a pretty small craft, among all the big ships in this Navy of ours, but he was very proud of her."

"Not until he had jumped overboard and been picked up did anyone know he'd been hit bad by shrapnel, right in the stomach. He died a few hours later.

Eisenhower Honored At French Ceremony

PARIS, June 14. (AP) — Gen. Eisenhower was made a "Fellow of the Liberation" today by Gen. de Gaulle in an elaborate ceremony before the tomb of France's Unknown Soldier.

Flanked by high American and British officials the supreme Allied commander received the bronze medal with a deep green ribbon from De Gaulle who said:

"We recognize you as our companion in the liberation of France and in its honor and in the victory."

Paris was bedecked with Allied flags as Eisenhower received a hero's reception in the French capital.

As the crowd surrounding the Arc De Triomphe cheered loudly and gaudily dressed republican guards and French soldiers stood stiffly at attention, the group turned and walked to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier where Eisenhower placed a huge circular wreath with a large red "V" in the center below the eternal flame.

SAFEGUARDING THE EYES OF TEXAS

Why glasses alone can't correct faulty vision

Your eyes are marvelously complex organs. That means the causes of faulty vision are complex, too. They can be detected accurately only by one who is professionally trained in the problems of eyesight. ❦ Correcting faulty conditions with the right procedure in each individual case is likewise a delicate task requiring professional services and high technical skill. ❦ That's why glasses alone—glasses without professional services—can't correct faulty vision.

WONDER what is done with keys to cities after they are presented to celebrities? Are they returned or do the honored ones put the keys among their souvenirs?

By the way, the custom of presenting the keys of a city goes back to medieval times, when every fortified town in Europe was surrounded by walls and people could only enter or leave by the gates.

READY FOR SCHOOL

PARENTS of children who will enroll in school in September for the first grade are being told by teachers and supervisors that they may do something this summer toward seeing that the child is ready.

They point out a paragraph from a recent article in "Texas Outlook" written by Miss Norma E. Rollins:

"The theory that a child automatically becomes 'ready for school' upon reaching his sixth birthday is not supported by modern educational thought. 'Readiness for school' is now conceded to be a matter of growth and development of the whole child physically, emotionally, socially and mentally during the first six years of the child's life. This vital preparatory period is the responsibility of his parents who are his first teachers."

• • •

HERE are suggestions listed by teachers of first grade for the parents to carry out before school day rolls around Sept. 3.

Identification: Does your child know his full name?

Does he know his address and telephone number?

Does he know his father's name?

• • •

Health: Have his eyes, nose, ears and throat been checked by a reputable physician and his weaknesses corrected?

Have his small-pox and diptheria immunizations been given?

Are his daily health habits of cleanliness, elimination, eating, resting and sleeping practiced without coercion?

• • •

Emotional attitudes: Is the child being helped to feel secure by: Respecting him as an individual in the family group?

Seeing that he is given a feeling of affection and sympathy?

Giving him small tasks to perform and seeing that he experiences satisfaction in a job well done?

Protecting him from the feeling of fear?

Leading him to look forward to going to school as a pleasant experience?

Is he learning to develop self-control?

Are opportunities provided for him to be away from you entire days?

• • •

Social Relationships: Are frequent opportunities provided for him to be with children of his own age?

Is he being taught to respect the rights of others?

Is he being taught home responsibilities, such as:

To put on his clothes and shoes?

To bathe himself?

To feed himself?

To keep his clothes in the correct place?

To put his playthings in their proper place when he has finished with them?

To help with family projects, such as making a garden, cleaning the yard, etc?

• • •

Mental Preparation: Has he had access to numerous and attractive picture books?

Has he developed a love for having stories read to him or hearing them told?

When trips are taken, has he an opportunity to talk about what he has seen and has he had things of interest pointed out to him?

• • •

ARE THESE NECESSARY?

ON the surface, you may think some of these suggestions are trivial. Why, you might ask, is it so necessary for a child to know how to tie his shoe laces? That need is apparent when you consider that while it isn't a task to tie one child's laces, tying 40 children's laces, which mean 80 bows, can take up your time, especially if you are asked to bend over about eleven times a morning.

Have you ever stopped a weeping child who was lost temporarily from his mother in a dime store or on a crowded street. Well, if you have, you likely have run into the problem of trying to help a child find himself who knows little except he is lost, not his name, his parent's names, his home address.

We heard a teacher say not long ago she appreciates mothers who teach their children that the teacher will be their friend. The meanest thing a mother can do, she said, is to say to a child, "You can do these things now, but when you start to school you just wait. The teacher will put a stop to them."

Gen. Ike To Become Honorary Member Of Correspondent Group

LONDON, June 14. (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower has accepted an invitation to become an honorary member of the association of American correspondents in London.

The Allied supreme commander was expected to be a guest of the association after his return from a trip to the United States.

While supreme headquarters was located here, Eisenhower worked closely with the association to arrange coverage of the Normandy invasion. The association was then headed by Robert Bunnelle, chief of the Associated Press London bureau.

Eisenhower wrote the foreword for a booklet of "regulations for war correspondents accompanying the Allied expeditionary force in the field," in which he said in part:

"With regard to publicity, the first essential in military operations is that no information of value shall be given to the enemy. The first essential in newspaper work and broadcasting is wide-open publicity. It is your job and mine to try to reconcile these sometimes diverse considerations.

"I well appreciate that the man in the street is entitled to be informed about his country's forces and of the progress of the war. He is vitally interested, and the fullest and most accurate information compatible with the maintenance of military security should be made available to him. Only by the willing cooperation of the general public in the war effort can we be victorious."

Judy Garland Ready For Second Marriage

HOLLYWOOD, June 14. (AP)—Judy Garland will be married tomorrow to Vincente Minelli, director of her last three movies.

The ceremony will take place in the Los Angeles home of her mother, Mrs. Ethel Garland. Louis B. Mayer, head of M-G-M studios, will give the 21-year-old singing actress in marriage.

She obtained a final divorce decree last week from musician David Rose. It will be the first marriage for Minelli, 32, Chicago-born former New York theatrical producer and art director of New York City's Radio City Music hall.

The couple plan a wedding trip to New York.

BELTON, June 14. (U.P.) — Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, newly named commanding general of the Eighth Service command in Dallas and former commander of the 20th Army "Ghost" corps of the Third Army, will be feted by his home town next week.

High state and military officials will participate in the ceremony which will make the colorful general's first visit home with his mother, Mrs. S. S. Walker.

In addition, troops from Camp Hood will march in a parade at 6:30 p.m. to be followed by a barbecue in the city park at 8:30 part of which will be broadcast by radio station WFAA in Dallas.

Collector Too Hasty, Loses Full Amount

AUSTIN, June 14. (U.P.)—Travis county's tax collector Steve Heffington has found out you can be too efficient. Because two cents penalty had accrued, Heffington returned a $1.61 check to a taxpayer, using a three-cent stamp for the purpose. He told the taxpayer $1.63 was due. No reply has been received.

An attorney general's ruling held Heffington followed the legal course—that partial payment on taxes, penalty and interest may not be accepted.

Preliminary examination for promotion of highway patrolmen to rank of sergeant will be held at 9 o'clock Monday morning at the highway patrol office, 1314 Ave. Q, according to Capt. C. E. Tabor, chief of the Lubbock patrol district. The examination will be open to patrolmen of the Lubbock district. Men making the highest grades may take a final examination at Austin.

Burl Haney, safety director and juvenile officer for the Lubbock district of the Texas Highway patrol with headquarters at Big Spring, has resigned to become safety director in West Texas for an insurance firm, according to C. E. Tabor, highway patrol captain for the Lubbock district. John Wood, stationed at Brownfield for several years, has been assigned to succeed Haney at Big Spring.

Texas Officials Leave Today To Defend State's Oil, Gas Claims

AUSTIN, June 14. (U.P.)—Four Texas officials were preparing to leave tomorrow for Washington to assert the state's claims to oil and gas interests.

Three hearings are scheduled before two congressional committees and the Federal Power commission next week at which the Texas officials will appear.

Submerged Oil Lands

Before the House Judiciary committee Texas' rights to submerged lands along the Gulf coast and in river beds will be argued. Appearing for the state will be Atty. Gen. Grover Sellers, assistant Attorneys General Fagan Dickson and Elton M. Hyder, jr., and Land Commissioner Bascom Giles. Sellers will represent Gov. Coke R. Stevenson.

Dickson said practically all states will be represented at the Monday hearing. He said Texas claims title to submerged land extending as far as 27 miles into the Gulf of Mexico.

The claims are based on the three-mile title under international law; a 10½ mile title as provided for the state's boundary under the 1846 treaty of annexation between the Republic of Texas and the U. S., and an act of the 1941 Texas Legislature asserting ownership 24 miles beyond the three-mile limit with mineral proceeds to go to the state public school fund.

Wednesday Schedule

Wednesday Sellers and Dickson will appear before the House Public Lands committee. They will ask remedial legislation to require the federal government to release minerals in land they have condemned for various purposes in the state.

Dickson said about 2,500,000 acres of Texas land have been condemned by the U. S. in the last two or three years. The condemnation is not subject to court review, he said, and minerals cannot be developed. Value of the minerals cannot be estimated because of the provisions.

Also Wednesday Dickson will protest before the FPC an application of Panhandle Eastern Pipe line company. It proposes natural gas be taken from the Texas Panhandle and Hughoton, Kans., fields and a field in western Oklahoma to Canada. There the gas would be stored in an exhausted gas reservoir for distribution during times of stress.

Canadian Project

Panhandle Eastern proposes to transport 5,500,000,000 (b) cubic feet of gas a year for 20 years to the unique Canadian project, which is across from Detroit.

Dickson has filed protests on the part of Railroad Commissioners Olin Culberson and Beauford Jester to the application. Dickson said the hearing might require two or three weeks.

Also to attend the submerged land hearing is a Texas senator. The Senate by resolution authorized Lt. Gov. John Lee Smith to name a member if the Governor did not get to attend the hearing.

Murphy Amazed At Hometown Plaudits

FARMERSVILLE, June 14 (AP)—Lt. Audie Murphy came home today.

Murphy, one of the two most decorated foot soldiers in the United States Army, found that his little home town was planning a big time in his honor.

He drove from San Antonio today, stopping briefly in Dallas to shop. He was still awed by the mammoth celebration in San Antonio, in which he shared the spotlight with Lt. Gen. Ira Eaker.

Lt. Murphy was met at McKinney, near Farmersville, by a welcoming committee. Then he was escorted to Farmersville, where his family was waiting for him.

Following a family reunion, he was given a supper at the Milton cafe.

Lt. Murphy has been "scared to death" of the big reception planned for him here, he said yesterday in San Antanio. When told there would be a parade in his honor, he said "I don't see why there should be."

He found the city building a platform on the plaza for the celebration tomorrow. He found Mayor R. B. Beaver and a proud townspeople waiting for him. He learned that the Ashburn hospital band would play, and civic leaders would speak.

He still can't understand why he deserves such plaudits.

Those who know his record understand. The dimunitive Texan, whose small size belies his titanic achievements, is tied with Capt. Maurice Britt of Arkansas as the most decorated man in the U. S. Army.

Argentina Pledges Full Press Freedom

BUENOS AIRES, June 14. (AP)—The Argentine government has advised U. S. Ambassador Spruille Braden that North American press associations will henceforth have complete freedom of transmission and receipt of all news dispatches.

Braden said Oscar Lomuto, under-secretary of press, had told him "in the most categorical tones that the Argentine government is irrevocably dedicated to complete freedom of the press and absolutely opposed to any obstacles being placed in the way thereof."

Lomuto requested, Braden added, that he be advised if North American correspondents encountered the slightest hindrance or delay in the transmission of their dispatches.

No Proof Seen Of Intended Gas Use

WIESBADEN, Germany, June 13 (Delayed) (AP)—Gen. Jacob L. Devers said today that although the Germans had enormous quantities of a new type of poison gas known as "Green Ring III," there was no evidence to show they ever intended to use gas as an offensive weapon.

Devers, who commanded the Sixth Army group on the western front, said that if Hitler ever had seriously contemplated use of gas, he was restrained by the German general staff.

"Even in Africa we carried thousands of tons of anti-gas protective equipment, but I finally stopped the boys from transporting it to Italy and told them to concentrate on H. E. (high explosives) and let the excess baggage go," Devers said. "I told them to get all the H. E. across they could. That's the thing. Poison gas is never decisive, and the German general staff knew it, even if Hitler didn't."

One chemical warfare expert said there were two occasions when the Germans could have used gas with devastating effect. One was on D-day, when masses of men were concentrated on the Normandy beaches; the other at the Remagen bridgehead across the Rhine, when five full American infantry divisions were crammed into a single small area.

"This was the Germans' last juicy target," the expert said. "After we fanned out across the Rhine they never had another chance."

Vets From Okinawa Can't Believe Eyes

KANSAS CITY, June 14. (AP)—The sky was cloudy, but it was wonderful weather to three soldiers right off the front lines at Okinawa who paused here today on an airplane trip to Washington.

"It's out of this world," smiled Capt. John M. Harbison, 28, Crane, Tex. "It's a dream. It couldn't happen but once in a lifetime.

"Somebody taps your shoulder back there on Okinawa. You got your hands full with what's in front of you and all around you. You hear somebody tell you about going home for at least 60 days. Things don't happen this way except in the movies or books."

Two grinning sergeants with the captain agreed.

The Okinawa veterans are to report in Washington for a brief assignment in connection with the Seventh War Loan. Later they will see their friends and relatives.

Patton Going Back To Europe For Occupation Role, Not To Pacific

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—Gen. George S. Patton is going back to Europe and an occupation Army assignment instead of heading forthwith for Tokyo.

Secretary of War Stimson announced the plan for the two-gun-totaing general today in designating his Third Army, along with the Seventh, for the job of occupying Germany.

Patton, tank expert and exponent of daring tactics, has been expressing a hope for a chance at the Japanese ever since he came home. He flew in here yesterday from the Pacific coast.

Tenure Not Set Out

Whether the occupation assignment is a long-time one, Stimson did not say. The secretary said that Gen. Mark Clark, commander of Allied ground forces in the Mediterranean, will return to his post soon.

The War department announcement that the fast -moving Third Army which Patton led across Europe, and the Seventh, also combat veterans, will stay in Germany, was in itself surprising. The Fifteenth Army had been generally considered as the probable occupation outfit.

Stimson said the Third and Seventh armies "rather than the Fifteenth" will be the occupation force, but reports from Europe said the Fifteenth will stay until December. Presumably, if it can be spared then, it will come home Reports here were that it might be disbanded as an organized unit and its forces assigned to other groups.

Presumably the Third and Seventh Army occupation forces will be considerably different in makeup from the combat outfits that slammed the wehrmacht back.

Stimson, saying actual occupation forces at present consist only of headquarters forces of the two armies—about 1,000 men each from the Third and the Seventh—did not list the corps and divisions in the armies.

He said the units are being screened, apparently referring to the plan to reshuffle forces during redeployment and partial demobilization.

It has been announced that General Courtney Hodges will head his First Army to the Pacific.

Dispatches from European headquarters today said Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson's Ninth Army will head home July 1 and the assumption was that it will do to the Japanese war, through perhaps in reorganized form.

Violation Of Nylon Ceiling Is Charged

FORT WORTH, June 14. (U.P.)—A permanent injunction will be sought here against C. & H. Cigar store dealers charged with selling rayon hose marked DuPont nylon at $8 to $8.50 a pair.

Office of Price administration officials said four pairs of hose bought at two different cigar stands were submitted to the bureau of standards at Washington and came back marked "rayon." The OPA ceiling on rayon hose is $1.10 a pair.

The complaint against the C. & H. Cigar stores filed in federal district court named Mrs. Lois Powers and Miss Ada Harris, operators.

Check On Operators Said Not Necessary

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—The House small business committee today informed the OPA that a checkup of accounting methods of independent oil operators is not necessary, for the moment at least, to help solve the crude price problem.

Deputy Price Administrator Orville Judd, appearing yesterday before the congressional group, proposed a survey of 200 representative independent operators to see whether they used a "sustained depletion" accounting method which the OPA uses to determine crude price ceilings.

The sustained depletion method, comparable to figuring depreciation on factory machinery, figures the value of oil withdrawals on a basis of the original drilling cost of the well.

Independent operators, opposing this method, want the OPA to figure the value of the oil on the basis of present replacement costs, because of higher wages and more expensive equipment necessary in drilling. Under the operators' proposal the crude ceilings would be higher than the existing OPA schedules.

The congressional committee said it had decided, after conferring with representatives of the oil industry, that the survey is not necessary. The oil men contend that the OPA already has far more than enough pertinent data without making the new checkup.

TROOP CARRIER FINED

LONDON, June 14. (AP)—Lt. Col. Glen Myer of the American troop carrier forces was fined $1,200 last night by an Army courtmartial on charges of transporting two titled Englishwomen to Brussels last November in an Army plane.

NLRB Broke, With Two Weeks To Go For More Money

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—The NLRB disclosed today that it has gone broke with two weeks more to go before a new appropriation becomes available. It blamed its plight on a rising number of strike votes.

The Smith-Connally war labor disputes act, requiring that a strike vote be taken within 30 days of notice that a dispute exists, has dipped deep into the national labor relation board's treasury.

While it is making an emergency appeal to Congress for permission to transfer about $80,000 from its printing and binding account to general expenses, it has called a halt on all investigations and new hearings in the field for ten days—June 12 to 22.

All regional offices have been instructed to desist from making long distance calls, using the telegraph or travelling from their home offices during that ten day period, in an effort to save money.

The mails will be depended upon entirely for communication with its regional force, the board said.

During March, April and May the total number of workers eligible to ballot in strike votes was 546,000, which the board estimates at six times the total for the first eight months of the current fiscal year.

Patton Doffs Guns For Truman Visit

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—Gen. George S. (Pistol Packin') Patton didn't wear his famous artillery when he visited President Truman yesterday.

Queried about a gun he wore at a Boston reception, General Patton said "Oh, that's just my social gun. I never wear my guns except in battle."

(The Washington Post said that as General Patton's car entered the White House driveway he was wearing his familiar two pistols. A guard told the general:

("Those photographers up there at the door are laying for you, general. They want to get pictures of the secret service men disarming you."

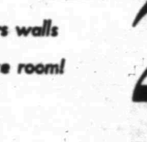

(The Post said Patton's eyes twinkled as he unbuckled both holsters and answered:

("Maybe I'll just leave these pistols on the floor of the car. I've been shot at more times with cameras than with guns. Let's see if we can't fool the boys once.")

British Offer Revamped Executive Council Toward India's Freedom

By W. W. HERGHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 15.—The British government today offered India a revamped executive council with only two posts held by Briton's—a move which a British white paper called a "genuine step forward . . . toward Indian self-government"—and renewed its 1942 proposal for postwar dominion status for the Oriental keystone of the empire.

Management of foreign affairs, now controlled by Viceroy Lord Wavell, would pass into Indian hands as well as the finance and some departments, now held by Britain. Indians already outnumber Britons on the council by 10 to four.

May Overrule Council

The viceroy is bound by the council's advice in most matters, but may overrule its recommendations if they collide with his own views on what is essential for the safety or tranquility of the country.

While L. S. Amery, secretary of state for India, read the white paper to Parliament, Wavell in a New Delhi broadcast told Indians that eight members of the Congress party's working committee had been released from jail and said he intended to invite Indian leaders to confer with him on formation of a new executive council "more representative of organizational political opinion."

The white paper said Britain's main position remained the same—that the "working out of India's constitutional system is a task which can only be carried through by the Indian people themselves," and Amery concluded by saying "we cannot hand India over to anarchy or civil war."

Cripps Welcomes Plan

Sir Stafford Cripps, who carried the British plan for dominion status to India there years ago, said he "wholeheartedly welcomed" the plan, and added that increasing the number of Indians on the council "must bring about complete alteration in the balance of power which has hitherto existed between the British and the Indians."

Clement Attlee, leader of the Laborite opposition in Parliament, greeted the paper "with satisfaction" and said "we are anxious for Indian self-government." Attlee said he thought rejection of Sir Stafford's dominion proposal was a tragedy.

No reaction from India had reached London tonight.

Amery said the plan to reshape the council "owed everything to the initiative of Lord Wavell, to his deep sympathy with Indian aspirations and his firm belief in India's future greatness.

Invited To Discussion

Wavell explained that Mohandas K. Gandhi and Mahomed Ali Jinnah, leaders of the opposing All-India Congress and Moslem league parties, respectively, would be among the leaders invited to discuss formation of a new council.

"I propose to leave the final decision about others still in detention as a result of the 1942 disturbances to the new general government, if it is formed, and to the provinicial governments," Wavell added.

Peacetime Training Urged By C. Of C.

WASHINGTON, June 14. (U.P.) — The U. S. chamber of commerce said today that it would "like to feel" that the San Francisoc conference would pave the way for permanent peace but "all history refutes that happy hope."

Consequently the chamber urged immediate adoption of peace time compulsory military training.

"We dare not say that there will be no more wars," Dunlap C. Clark, Kalamazoo, Mich, head of the chamber's national defense committee, said in a statement before the House postwar military policy committee.

Will Support Agreements

"Of course we should—like to feel that measures adopted at the San Francisco conference will provide a lasting peace, and shall support its agreements fully to that end. But all history refutes that happy hope."

Clark said that the United States, "though a peace-loving nation," has been engaged in a war on the average of every 24 years.

Urging Congress to act "while the country's defense needs are appreciated by all citizens," he said it could not be hoped that the next war—"whoever may be our enemies"—will follow the pattern of world wars I and II where U. S. had Allies to "stem the attacks" while this country trained fighting forces.

Treasury Disallows Hartford Claim On Roosevelt Bad Debt

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—The House was advised today the Treasury had not allowed a $228,500 "bad debt" tax reduction claimed by John Hartford, reported to have lost $196,000 on a $200,000 loan to Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the House Ways and Means committee told the House he has been so informed by the Treasury department.

Doughton's statement was followed immediately by a demand by Rep. Woodruff (R-Mich) on the floor that the ways and means committee make a thorough investigation of the matter.

Would Examine '42 Report

Rep. Knutson (R-Minn) proposed that Congress send Colin F. Stam, head of its staff of tax experts, to examine the 1942 tax return filed by Hartford, president of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company.

It was his 1942 return that Hartford's attorney said the unpaid portion of the Roosevelt loan was written off as a "bad debt."

Doughton said it is not his purpose "to cover up anything."

He said he became concerned at press reports that Hartford had obtained a tax deduction on a loan to the late President's son, and sent a letter by special messenger to Henry Morgenthau, Treasury secretary, to learn the facts in the matter.

As chairman of the congressional committee initiating all tax legislation, Doughton said he felt it his duty to make the inquiry. Joseph J. O'Connell, assistant secretary, replied to his letter.

No Specific Information

Doughton said he had no information that Hartford's tax return specifically named Roosevelt in connection with any part of a "bad debt."

Rep. Mott (R-Oregon) asked why the Treasury was so late in looking into Hartford's return.

Doughton replied that he had asked Stam, the tax expert, if it appeared unusual that the Hartford tax return had not been processed earlier, and that Stam had said the situation of months being required for such work is not out of the ordinary.

Rep. Knutson, ranking member of the ways and means committee, suggested that that body conducted an immediate inquiry.

No Cover Up Disposition

"I am glad that no member has tried to play up this mater for political considerations," Knutson said. "There is nothing to be gained by trying to cover the matter up, and I am glad to say I have found no disposition to cover the matter up.

"I am going to suggest to the chairman of the ways and means committee that the committee be called together at an early date—perhaps tomorrow or the day after—to take this thing up in executive session."

Knutson said "we might find some way to require General Roosevelt to report that $196,000 as income—I don't know, but perhaps it might be done."

Very Short Or Very Long Jap War Seen

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP) — Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) of the House Appropriations committee told the House today:

"It is the opinion of military authorities either that Japan will surrender within the next 90 days or the war will settle down to be of long duration."

In the latter event, he said, the United States is prepared to use air power and pin-point bombing in a war of attrition against the Japanese. He stated in this connection:

"We'd rather fight a little longer that way and starve them out and thus save our men."

Cannon's remarks occurred during a discussion of proposed appropriation cutbacks for various war agencies.

Pirates Vault Into National League Lead, Beat Cubs Twice

PITTSBURGH, June 14 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates smashed into first place in the National League today by taking a double-header from the Chicago Cubs, 5 to 2 and 6 to 5, while the Giants dropped their game to Brooklyn. The wins give the Pirates a half-game margin over the Dodgers, with New York dropping to third place.

The Pirates picked up their 10-game lag of three weeks ago by winning 18 of their last 25 games.

Rip Sewell and Max Butcher were credited with today's wins, although Sewell was relieved in the seventh by Ecks Rescigno after the Cubs scored three runs on two walks and three hits.

The Pirates took the first game on four hits. They scored three runs in the first inning on only one hit. Pete Coscarart's two-run homer in the sixth put the game on ice.

Al Glonfriddo, rookie Pirate outfielder, sparked the opening game with spectacular fielding. A hard-hit ball drove him against a war bond sign, but he scored the putout before collapsing a second later. The injury proved nothing more serious than a bump on the head, as Al proved two innings later with a flashy one-handed catch of a fly off the grass tops.

The Cubs bunched four of their six hits off Butcher in the sixth and seventh innings to score their two runs. Butcher then got back in stride and stopped six Cubs in a row.

In the nightcap Sewell opened the Pirate half of the third inning with a double and Lee Handley clubbed a two-sacker to start the scoring. Hits by John Barrett and Bob Elliott, coupled with an infield out, added two more runs.

The Bucs knocked in three more tallies in the sixth with Babe Dahlgren's triple providing the pivotal punch.

BROOKLYN DOWNS GIANTS

BROOKLYN, June 14. (AP) — Brooklyn knocked the New York Giants out of first place today by rallying to score two runs in the last of the ninth for a 5-4 victory and a clean sweep of their three-game series.

It was the fifth loss in a row for Bill Voiselle, who went the route for the Giants. The Giants outhit the Dodgers, 11 to 10, and all of the New York runs were by the home run route, with Medwick homering in the first inning with Ott on base. Kerr homered in the fourth, and Rucker poled one for the round trip in the fifth to conclude the Giant scoring.

Dickinson Nine Edges Purina Millers 11-10

Dickinson Motor Co.'s National League nine defeated the Purina Mills team 11-10 in a close but loosely played game at Chapman field Thursday night.

The first inning passed in three up and three down fashion. Dickinson came back in the second, however, and chalked up a five run lead with a single by Vaughn with two men on base, a single by Gallegos with the sacks loaded, and an overthrow to first base by Purina short stop James Cline with two on.

The Millers went into their half of the fifth trailing 7-4. Jones, Houk, Henderson, and Jackson started the rally with four well placed singles, scoring two runs. Petree hit a hard line drive through the Dickinson third baseman scoring Henderson. Denny Davidson, hitting for Cornell, belted one through first base, bringing Jackson and Petree in. Five runs put the Millers out in front 9-7.

The Motormen made a quick recovery in the first of the sixth frame, however. After Vaughn had singled, Denny Davidson threw a fat one to Wayne Cobb, Dickinson catcher, who parked it in deep into left center field for a home run. Gallegos doubled on the next pitch, stole third, and scored on an error by Arrington, Miller second baseman. Fullerton followed with another double, likewise stole third, and came home on a wild pitch. Four runs put Dickinson again in the lead 11-9.

Davidson's mates made a serious threat in the last of the seventh when Henderson led off with a triple. Petree singled and Henderson scored. The rally immediately died, however, one run short.

Jack Vaughn pitched the win for the Motormen, Wayne Cobb caught. Cornell and Davidson hurled for the losers, John Jones did the catching.

Tigers To Welcome Greenberg's Return

FORT DIX, N. J., June 14. (AP) Capt. Hank Greenberg, former Detroit Tigers' baseball star, received his honorable discharge from the Army today.

Greenberg who had been in the Army since May, 1941, said his future plans included playing baseball for the Tigers.

There was no definite word tonight on how soon Greenberg would rejoin the Tigers, who open a series tomorrow in Chicago but General Manager Jack Zeller has given assurance there will be no trouble over a contract. The slugger had not contacted the club but is entitled to his old salary, for at least 60 days, under a league ruling.

Despite the Tigers' lofty position in the standings, hitting has been their one weak spot and Greenberg will be welcomed into the Detroit lineup.

The Detroit star, a native New Yorker, was 34 years old last Jan. 1 and played with the Tigers from 1933 until his induction. In 1938 he hit 58 home runs, a department in which he led the league in 1938 and 1940 and was tied in 1935. He was most valuable player in the league in 1935 and 1940, played in three World Series and two All-Star games and had a lifetime major league batting average of .325.

Kiwanis Batters On Spree, Beat Rotary

Batters had a holiday Thursday afternoon at the Lubbock Boys club diamond Thursday afternoon, and the Kiwanis club slugged out a 24 to 15 victory over the Rotary club nine.

The Kiwanis pitchers, Charles Galey and Weber, each contributed a home run with one man on base toward the scoring spree. Buddy Maner and Marlin Smith divided the pitching job for the Rotary.

Hines Sets Pace In Golf Tourney

PHILADELPHIA, June 14. (AP) —A four-under-par 66 by Jimmy Hines, songs by Bing Crosby and picnic lunches by thousands of spectators on the swank lay-out of the Llanerch Country club today marked the first round in the second annual Philadelphia Inquirer $17,500 invitation golf tournament.

Hines, now of Chicago and a three-time metropolitan king in prewar days, finished two strokes ahead of Byron Nelson, of Toledo, Ohio, and Johnny Bulla of Atlanta, Ga., after the first 18 holes of the 72-hole tourney being played for the benefit of the pro golfers rehabilitation fund.

The blond Chicagoan, playing a course whose multi-trapped greens placed a high premium on marksmanship, swung his irons so true he never needed more than two putts on any carpet. He chalked up six birdies and was over par twice, the ninth where his drive landed in a sand trap, and the tenth where his first poke bounded into the rough.

His score actually was six under the club par, the regulation figures having been cut from 72 to 70 for the meet. Winter rules prevailed on the fairways which could not be trimmed yesterday because of heavy rains.

Nelson's putter kept him from a phenomenal score. Eight times his ball hung on the lip and required an additional tap. On the 145-yard 12th he was 12 feet from the cup with his No. 7 iron, then needed three puts to go down.

Sam Snead, playing with his right wrist wrapped because of a sprain suffered in a handball game with a caddy, had a par 70 as did Tony Penna of Dayton; Ky Laffoon of Chicago; Willie Goggin of White Plains, N. Y., Bruce Coltart of Absecon, N. J., and Felix Serafin of Pittston, Pa.

Fressenden coached the Amarillo Sky Giants last season, and before going into the service was coach at Montana, and before that coached at Main Avenue High at San Antonio, Brownsville, and Fenger High in Chicago.

First Lieut. A. M. "Tonto" Coleman, former coach at Abilene Christian college, and last year scout for Randolph Field, will also be on the coaching staff.

Miss Nixon last year won both girls and women's titles in the Texas and Gulf State tournaments. Roy Treband won the Oklahoma singles and doubles championships in 1940 and 1942 and Gene followed suit last year.

Stephens' Pair Of Homers Win

DETROIT, June 14 (AP)—Vern Stephens' ninth and tenth home runs of the season provided the St. Louis Browns with a 3 to 2 victory today over the Detroit Tigers. Paul (Dizzy) Trout gave only five hits while Sid Jakucki scattered the Tigers' eight safeties.

Stephens, who leads the league with 10 circuit blows, pounded one into the upper right field seats in the fourth inning, scoring back of Milt Byrnes, who had walked. The other, into the left field pavilion with nobody on base, broke a 2-all tie in the ninth.

Aside from Stephens' two clouts the Browns had only three hits off Paul (Dizzy) Trout of the Tigers but sent him to his fifth defeat against as many wins.

Sig Jakucki won his fourth victory.

Pete Gray, one-armed Brownie outfielder, retired from the game with a shoulder injury when he fell making a diving catch in the fifth inning.

Sutherland Says Education Can Salvage Some Good From This War

By GEM BOB CALLEY
Avalanche Staff Writer

"Good can be salvaged from this war for education," Dr. Robert L. Sutherland, director of the Hogg foundation at the University of Texas, told a group of educators and laymen assembled last night at Texas Tech to hear his final in a series of lectures delivered this week on the campus and downtown.

Basing his discussion of "Wartime Lessons for Educators" on knowledge gained through conferences with members of the armed forces, personal inspections of Army hospitals, camps and training centers, Dr. Sutherland named 15 points of a civil training program followed by the Army that education would profit by emulating. "Where there is rapid disorganization, there is a chance for invention—and education can experience an innovation," he declared.

Yesterday's Tasks Routine

"Ten years ago persons were interested in 'how to rear Willie,' but now, when individuals are faced with gigantic problems daily, yesterday's momenteous decisions resolve themselves into routine tasks—or simply annoyances," the speaker said. Explaining this transfer of values, Dr. Sutherland said education thus had the opportunity to profit, in the post war era, by the change.

Suggesting that the Army's method of dealing with groups and individuals was superior to programs followed in schools and colleges, Dr. Sutherland outlined an overall plan for improvement.

Public Relations Emphasis

First, he said, civil education needs new emphasis on public relations, that is, teachers should associate prestige with student activities, just as the Army associates prestige with rank and duties. He advocated that one week be set aside yearly, wherein a national campaign for education should be emphasized and all advertising use educational improvement as its theme, similar methods which are employed during war loan drives.

Other possible parallels for future school systems were drawn with the Army's program of daily check-ups, supervision, counseling, cooperation, background instruction—all aimed at the individual to arouse pride in his distinctive work.

Individual Difficulties

"Not to minimize these points, most important of all wartime lessons for educators is that individual emotional difficulties have been made respectable," Dr. Sutherland said. Stressing the fact that each person does have emotional difficulties, Dr. Sutherland recalled that prior to the war, very little counsel and guidance was given these problems.

Because of the war, persons can now admit their emotions and worries, without fear of appearing 'different,' according to Dr. Sutherland. "Education is striving for the control of sensitive persons so we can live in a complex society," he added.

"This is where the educator must not fail—and he won't if he possesses the qualities of humanity, flexibility and sensitivity," Dr. Sutherland concluded.

News Briefs

All officers of the South Plains camp and hospital council were re-elected at the group's last regular monthly meeting for the summer Thursday afternoon in the hospital dayroom at Lubbock Army Air field. The officers are Mrs. W. V. Terry, Sudan; Mrs. Frank Gumm, Lubbock, and W. J. Rother, field director of the American Red Cross at LAAF, secretary. The council decided to help furnish officers' and enlisted men's dayrooms at South Plains Army Air field in response to a request by Lt. S. G. Berlin, special services officer at SPAAF. He asked that the organization furnish books and furniture. Lt. Ben. E. Cowling, recreation and education officer at LAAF hospital, represented that field at the meeting. The council will meet next in September.

Today Lubbock's 36th Battalion of the Texas State Guard will observe "Infantry Day," which was proclaimed by Governor Stevenson, by selling war bonds as a part of the local Seventh War loan drive. In the past few weeks the 39th Battalion has also aided in the presentation of the Army's infantry war bond show, both here and at Plainview, and has conducted several parades and exhibitions.

Capt. E. Hollingsworth of Hobbs, N. M., reported to police Thursday the theft of a gun valued at $75 from the check room of a local hotel. Mrs. E. L. Banks, 2202 Seventeenth, reported that someone stole a purse containing $15 from her home. She said a negro boy returned the purse empty, saying that he had found it. Police were investigating the boy's story.

Firemen answered alarms Thursday to Lubbock Electric, 1944 Texas Ave., and Dickinson Motor company, 1413 Ave. J. Damage was light at both places, according to Fire Chief W. E. Twitty. Varnish caught fire at Lubbock Electric and naptha at the motor company, he said.

600 yards southwest of Tomui town, and moved up to the southeast of Ozato town.

(Yaeju hill presumably was the highest in the escarpment, whose highest plateau is a little more than 500 feet.)

On the southeastern coast, the Seventh Infantry division gained 300 to 700 yards to reach the center of Mazaka town. Resistance there was moderate to heavy.

Southwest Coast

On the southwestern coast, the First Marine division attacked before dawn and gained 600 to 800 yards to widen its front on Kunishi ridge, western anchor of the escarpment fortifications.

Heavy resistance developed around the ridge after daylight.

Ground action throughout the front was supported strongly by aircraft from Marine air groups Nos. 61, 33 and 22.

Maj. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, jr.'s Sixth Marine division continued its mopping up operations on Oroku peninsula, where it had broken up a strong Japanese pocket Wednesday. The Marines still had a number of isolated pillboxes and caves to clean out, however.

The Senaga island landings were made to wipe out a naval battery which had harassed Marine operations on Oroku and along the southwestern coast just below the peninsula. The island is only about 600 yards long and 400 yards at its widest.

Jap Confusion On Oroku

Associated Press correspondent Al Dopking reported from Oroku that the nine-day battle for that peninsula ended in complete Japanese confusion. More than 3,500 Japanese were killed in the nine days.

More than 100 Japanese surrendered there as organized resistance was smashed and an unreported number committed hara kiri, or blew themselves up. Some prisoners were taken.

Marine Sgt. James E. Rigdon, jr., of Fitzgerald, Ga., took 13 captive in one haul.

There was lessening of air activity throughout the Ryukyus. For the second successive day, not a single Japanese plane ventured into the area Wednesday.

Airfields Battered

American aircraft attacked airfields and installations in the Sakishima islands, southernmost of the Ryukus, for the fifth straight day. They probably destroyed one Japanese plane on the ground.

Search Liberators and Privateers of Fleet Airwing 18 sank a small cargo ship and damaged a lugger and several fishing craft off southern Honshu.

A Mitchell bomber of the Fourth Marine aircraft wing damaged an unidentified ship off southern Honshu Wednesday night.

Fighters and bombers of the same wing attacked the Palaus and Yap both Wednesday and yesterday.

Cochabamba, Bolivia's second largest city, is an aviation center.

Area Tuberculosis Conference Opens In Lubbock Today

A two-day conference of representatives of 20 counties in the Lubbock area affiliated with state and national tuberculosis associations will open in Lubbock today at the Hilton hotel.

Mrs. Frances C. Rains, director of the Christmas seal campaign for the Texas Tuberculosis association, will conduct the conference.

Plans for the Christmas seal drive will be outlined, as well as objectives of the general fight against tuberculosis, said Dr. M. M. Ewing, president of Lubbock County Tuberculosis association, and Mrs. Ruby Wilson, field representative.

As evidence of the work done by given county associations from El Paso to Potter county, none of which has any source of income except through sale of the Christmas seals, the Lubbock association may be taken as a yardstick.

97 Patients Examined

Since Jan. 1, there have been 20 clinic sessions; 97 new patients have been examined; 68 former patients have been reexamined; 210 visits have been made to the clinic; 94 tuberculosis tests have been given at the clinic; 24 patients have been diagnosed to have active adult tuberculosis; 18 patients were found to have primary type tubereulosis; 129 home visits were made by the nurse; 16 patients were sent to a state sanatorium; 93 chest x-ray examinations were made by the association, which pays for all such pictures made of indigent patients; 11 sputum tests were made; 2,159 tuberculin tests were made in the city schools, resulting in 108 positive reactors; 650 tests were made in county schools resulting in 21 positive reactors.

Friday Luncheon Set

The figures are cited to show the importance of supporting such county associations by public buying of Christmas seals.

For the Friday-Saturday meeting here, George Young and Curtis Curry, Lubbock insurance men, respectively will be principal speaker and master of ceremonies. There will be a luncheon Friday noon in the Chimayo room of Hilton hotel.

The regional gathering will obviate necessity of visiting individually with county associations, it was explained. Other program features will be arranged this afternoon.

Kiwanians Host At Good Neighbor Meet

Ninety-four members of the Lubbock Kiwanis club and farmers of the Roosevelt community were in attendance as the club sponsored a "good neighbor" meeting in the Roosevelt High school auditorium Thursday night.

It was the first of three meetings to be sponsored by the club in county rural communities this year.

A meal was prepared by members of the Roosevelt home demonstration club and served by members of the school's home economics department.

Charles Reed was master of ceremonies. He, with Bob Pace, arranged the meeting.

Musical numbers, arranged by Harry Delaney, were presented.

Brief talks were made by Claude Hurlwood, Dr. O. W. English, Durwood Bradley and Douglas Pounds, a Roosevelt farmer.

Borneo Advances

started fires at Miri, oil-field district 75 miles southwest of the invasion sector around Brunei bay.

The Australians, who invaded the bay district on Sunday, marched 16 miles through jungle-grown trails in reaching Prunei.

Australian infantry pressed ahead of their tanks, encountering only small-arms and machine-gun fire.

Dyaks Attacks Japs

Natives they met outside of Brunei reported the independent attacks on the Japanese by the Dyaks, who blow poison darts through reed guns.

The Dyaks ambushed and killed 14 Japanese in the last two days, the natives said, using darts, swords, spears and crude bayonets attached to the dart guns.

Australians of the famed Ninth "Rats of Tobruk" division whose capture of Brunei airstrip was announced yesterday, had penetrated inland more than 15 miles since the June 10 landing at Brunei bay.

In Plantation Area

They already were in the heart of the rubber plantation area and were pressing on toward the Tutong gateway to the Seria oilfields, 30 miles ahead. The Japanese have set the oil fields afire.

On Labuan island, at the mouth of Brunei bay, the Japanese still fought desperately to hold Timbalai airfield, the last of three still in their possession in the invasion area. Australians occupied the Labuan field on the island a few hours after going ashore Sunday. This field already is being used by Allied artillery spotter planes.

The overland advance on Brunei town was coordinated with an amphibious push up the Brunei river.

Bride-Towing Pilot Is Not In Doghouse

PARIS, June 14. (AP) — Lt. Jean Goppert of Edna, Tex., Ninth Air force troop carrier command pilot, is not in the Army's doghouse for towing his British bride to France in a glider.

At troop carrier command headquarters it was stated that Goppert has participated in all of his outfit's operations since the incident in mid-May and is soon to return to the United States with enough points for a discharge.

The Army Air forces apparently is assuming the attitude that if anyone is wrong, it is Goppert's wife who already has been punished by a British court.

She was fined $100 last Tuesday for leaving England without permission of the British government. Her flight to France was made hidden in a specially constructed crate

TRUMAN TO SUBMIT FOR APPROVAL AT ONCE

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—Soon after the world organization charter is signed in San Francisco, President Truman will fly it to Washington in the hope the Senate will ratify it before he meets next month with Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill.

The White House made this disclosure today along with plans to expand the President's ambitious flight scheduled to include home-coming celebrations late this month in his home state of Missouri.

The Truman welcoming rallies will be held in his home town of Independence June 27 and in Kansas City the next day. It will be the first visit home of the chief executive since he succeeded to the presidency April 12. Whether this trip will be dovetailed with the San Francisco journey or made separately after his return from California depends on when the world organization conference closes.

May Finish June 23

Latest word here is that the conference expects to wind up by June 23. The President still plans to visit Olympia, Wash., either before or immediately after his San Francisco speech to the final session of the United Nations conference. He also received a second invitation today to visit Oregon while in the Northwest, but made no committment.

Charles G. Ross, White House press secretary, told reporters the President will fly the San Francisco charter to Washington and present it to the Senate without delay. He did not know whether the President would go in person before the Senate and ask approval of the historic agreement.

Schwellenbach Grows Facetious At Banquet

YAKIMA, Wash., June 14. (AP)—Federal Judge Lewis B. Schwellenbach, who will become secretary of labor July 1, was a model of modesty at a banquet in his honor.

"I cannot understand," he said, "why anyone would want to hear a person speak who has no more sense than to go to Washington, D.C., in these times."

"Buy A War Bond TODAY"

Arnold Pledges Jap Destruction

1," Arnold added at a press conference.

"Starting July 1, we are going to drop 1,700,000 tons and forces of Gen. George C. Kenney (commander of the Far Eastern Air forces) 300,000 tons.

You Know The Answer

"You know what will be left of the area from Tokyo to Nagasaka, which is all of Japan that counts industrially."

He disclosed that the May bomb tonnage on Japan was 24,000 and dwelt on the reason for the "complete and utter destruction" program.

"Japan has a thousand small targets in backyard workshops and homes," he explained.

"Suicide planes are cheap and can be made in a back yard. That is why we went into the destruction program to defeat Japan. It is necessary to destroy five key cities (Tokyo, Nagoya, Yokohama, Kobe and Osaka). It is going to be a terrible place to live in."

Two Cities Pounded

Today's incendiary raid, marking the first anniversary of B-29 operations against Japan proper, struck Osaka and the neighboring city of Amagasaki.

Target areas of the big load of fire bombs were in eastern Osaka south of Osaka castle and in the extreme northern sector of the city between the Yodo and Kanzaki rivers.

Many war industries are concentrated in southeastern Osaka, including the Kwoyo Precision Works company.

The area attacked in northern Osaka includes many machine tool and bearing works, chemical plants, and electrical and textile factories. Large plants there are the Amatsuji Steel Ball Manufacturing company, the Osaka Wakayama Iron works and the Strong Engineering works.

Fourth On Osaka

The raid was the fourth incendiary attack on Osaka itself, but was the first on Amagasaki, industrial city northwest of Osaka. Amagasaki has a population of about 200,000.

The previous raids on Osaka burned out 14.93 square miles.

Today's bombings, carried out at medium altitude, were through cloud cover, so that results were not observed.

Already the B-29s, recently augmented in numbers by Superforts from the China-India-Burma theater, have blotted out more than 100 square miles of those five cities, hitting both large industries and "hidden" home factories.

The biggest raid to date was a strike by more than 550 sky dreadnaughts on Tokyo May 24. The raiders spilled 4,500 tons of incendiaries in that foray. Four thousand more tons were dumped on the capital city two days later. There have been several raids recently in strength of between 400 and 500 Superforts with bomb tonnages exceeding 3,000.

Tokyo Destruction

Col. Alfred F. Klaberer, a veteran of 20 missions over Japan, estimated recently that perhaps as many as 1,500,000 persons have been killed in Tokyo alone. He believed 250,000 were killed at Yokohama.

General Kenney, whom General Arnold projected into the future picture, recently said "if Japan persists in fighting this war to a finish she is liable to find the Japanese island reduced to nothing but a menace to navigation."

General Arnold said the bomb total dropped on Japan jumped from 725 tons in November, 1944, to 24,000 last month.

He listed these totals: November, 725; December 1,700; January, this year, 1,600; February, 4,000; March, 14,000; April, 16,000; May, 24,000.

Well Along In June

Bomb tonnages announced this month for three raids exceed 9,000 with the tonnages for two other large attacks not specified. That would make the total tonnage dropped from Marianas-based B-29s easily exceed 70,000 tons.

General Arnold pointed to the successes achieved in bombing Germany's gasoline and oil sources and said "this is why Germany was whipped."

In the end, Germany did not have gasoline to use for training planes and was sending up pilots with 40 to 45 hours training.

Economists with an intimate knowledge of industrial Germany advised as to specific priority targets whose destruction would shorten the war.

Trains From Ruhr

Germany was sending 500 coal trains daily from the Ruhr at the war's outset. Bombings reduced this figure to 40 trains.

"It is by that experience we have set the pattern of the Pacific war," Arnold added.

"We believe it is possible to do to Japan the same thing we did to Germany."

"We have established the same type of target evaluating group in the war against Japan," he continued.

"People who have lived and worked with the Japanese assist us in selecting targets. We use them to tell us what to bomb."

He said he was not at liberty to disclose where the 8th airforce was going to be based, but "you can say General (James H.) Doolittle (commander of the 8th Airforce) is going to bring the Eighth Airforce out here (from England) and we will use it against Japan."

LeMay's Comment

Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, 21st Bomber commander, gave a brief resume of the destruction wrought in the key cities of Japan by incendiary bombing.

As the closing word of the Arnold-LeMay conference, General LeMay said:

"It is just a matter of time until we get everything of value in Japan."

Katy Railroad President Dies

NEW YORK, June 14 (AP)—Matthew S. Sloan, 63, president and chairman of the board of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad, and one of the nation's leading financial figures, died unexpectedly today in a New York hospital.

Death was attributed to a heart attack. He entered the hospital May 31.

A native of Mobile, Ala., Sloan spent the greater part of his career as an executive in the electric light and power industry with which he grew up.

At one time, Sloan headed five companies which together comprised the largest electric light and power system in the world, employing 30,000 workers and serving a population of 6,443,000 in an area of nearly 700 square miles.

These were Brooklyn Edison company, the New York Edison company, the United Electric Light and Power company, the New York and Queens Electric Light and Power company, and the Yonkers Electric Light and Power company.

It was not until the early 30's that Sloan left the light and power field to become head of M-K-T and its affiliated roads.

He also was a director of many business enterprises, including Continental Can Co., Inc.; Overseas Securities Co., Inc.; Globe & Rutgers Fire Insurance Co., Galveston Houston & Henderson railroad; Chrysler Corp., and the American Surety Co. of New York.

Sloan received his early education in the Mobile public schools and was graduated from Alabama Polytechnic institute. His first job was in a public service plant in a small Alabama town. Later he worked for the Memphis Street Railway company and then became associated with the General Electric company at Schenectady, N. Y.

From 1906 to 1914 he held various positions with the Birmingham Railway, Light and Power company. He was assistant to the president when he left the company to become operating manager of the New Orleans Railway and Light company. Two years later he became vice president and general manager and then, in 1917, he joined the New York Edison company. Eleven years later he had risen to the presidency of the five firms in New York area.

Several Feared Dead In Plane Explosion

VICKSBURG, Miss., June 14 (AP) An Army transport plane was reported to have caught fire and exploded at Oak Ridge, 16 miles northeast of here with heavy loss of life.

Owen Shuff, telegraph editor of the Vicksburg Herald said a Mr. Harris of Oak Ridge, told him he had helped to extricate 16 bodies of the wreckage and that the bodies were en route to the Baldwin Funeral home in Jackson.

The Fisher Funeral home of Vicksburg reported that its ambulance had picked up two injured men to be taken to the Mercy hospital here but that one of the men died on the way. Mercy hospital attendants reported that the second man received a blood transfusion but that his condition was critical.

Okulicki, accused in organizing terrorist and diversional activities and of being in possession of illegal radio transmiters in the rear of Soviet troops on Polish territory.

"At present the investigation of this case by the chief of the military prosecuting magistracy has been completed.

"The persons to be tried are Okulicki, Jakowski, Bien, Jasiukowscz and others, in all 16 persons. The case has been directed for examination to the military collegium . . . of the USSR. The trial is expected to take place in a few days."

Peeping Tom Killed, Probably Was Hungry

MCCALL, Idaho, June 14. (AP)—This central Idaho resort town, which annually has reports of a sea serpent in adjacent Fayette lake to spice its summer gossip, now has an outside "Peeping Tom" story.

Mrs. Charles Tinsley was terrified by a face at the window. Staff Sgt. Carl Seiber, home from the war front, ran outside and fired a volley of shots at the intruder.

His aim was good and he now has a 6-foot bear pelt to prove it.

Japs For Furloughs Mean Vacations For Arkansas Hillbilly

SAN FRANCISCO, June 14. (U.P.)—T/Sgt. William Brown, De Witt, Ark., has won four furloughs by capturing five live Japanese in the Philippines and New Guinea, Don Bell, Mutual correspondent, reported from Manila today.

Brown is an infantryman with the 122nd regiment of the 32nd division. He had never captured a live Japanese until he saw a notice on his company's bulletin board, announcing a furlough would be given the first man to bring in an ambulating enemy.

Brown captured one, went to Australia, got married to an Australian girl, honeymooned, then moved on to Luzon with his division.

"Brown spied another bulletin board with a similar offer," Bell said. "The sergeant got busy again, captured a Japanese tank man, and went off to Manila with his reward—a three-day pass and a case of beer."

When he got back, the offer was still good. So Brown went hunting again, and found a Japanese lieutenant.

"The lieutenant proved a tough customer. He wanted to fight. But Brown talked him into laying down his hara kiri grenade and coming along."

Again, Brown headed into Manila with another three-day pass.

On his fourth try, Brown hit the jackpot. He got two live prisoners. The first he captured with a football tackle. The second he got with a cigarette. When he offered the Japanese a smoke with feigned nonchalance, the nip put down his grenade. Brown grabbed him. He won a pass, a case of beer, and was off to Manila again.

Bell said Brown's fifth pass already is made out—awaiting his next "ambulatory" case.

many. The Finnish radio, quoting roundabout reports, said preparations for session already were underway in Copenhagen.

Trieste Scrap Settled

The dispute with Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia over occupation of the Trieste area, he said, had been "settled diplomatically in such a way as has given full satisfaction to the views of the British and American governments and has at the same time left the whole question of the disposition of these territories open to the peace conference, whenever that occurs."

Tomorrow's scheduled meeting in Moscow between representatives of the Big Three and various Polish groups, the Prime Minister said, was arranged "to see if the Warsaw government can be expanded or not. We had rather hoped that it would have been settled three months ago."

His failure to express greater optimism that an agreement would be reached on Poland's future somewhat dimmed the high hopes reflected in the London press the past two days. It reflected, however, the caution of the British foreign office, whose spokesman emphasized that "it's not clear sailing yet."

Prince Umberto Is Advised To Resign

ROME, June 14. (AP)—Italian Socialist Leader Pietro Nenni has advised Crown Prince Umberto to resign as lieutenant-general of the realm and proclaim a republic in order "to avoid civil war by bending to the will of the people."

Nenni, who conferred with Umberto last night, said his suggestion "did not surprise the lieutenant-general and he explicitly answered that he desired to avoid civil war."

GOP Sees Little Tariff Cut Gain

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—Republican opponents of giving the President greater tariff cutting power argued in the Senate today that lowered duties would aid little in increasing trade.

Contending that the bulk of trade now is in duty-free items, Senator Taft (R-Ohio) asserted that the most to be expected from further tariff slashes would be an increase of $1,000,000,000.

"And for that we would throw a lot of people out of work and the government would have to retain them at great expense," he declared.

From Senator Brewster (R-Maine) came the argument that this country's volume of international trade depends primarily on prosperity at home. He said the aggregate of imports and exports in the years under the reciprocal trade agreements program was little more than half what it was in the prosperous 1920's.

Pros Claim Victory

For the most part, administration supporters were content to let opponents have the floor. They claimed they had the votes to win when a showdown is reached, probably tomorrow, on the main point of controversy.

This is whether the President should be given power to cut tariffs 50 per cent under rates prevailing Jan. 1. There is little opposition to extending for three years his authority to make reciprocal trade agreements. Opponents would limit him, however, to the present authority to slash tariffs to half the rates in the 1930 Hawley-Smoot act, last Republican tariff law.

Rites Set At Ralls For P. L. Harlin

RALLS, June 14. (Special). — Funeral services for P. L. Harlin, 41, of Muleshoe and former Crosby county resident, who died Wednesday morning in an Oklahoma City hospital, will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the Ralls First Baptist church.

Rev. Jesse Leverett, pastor of the Baptist church at Clyde, Tex., assisted by Rev. J. H. McClain, local pastor, will officiate. Burial will be in Ralls cemetery.

Harlin, a Bailey county farmer residing 12 miles west of Muleshoe, had been a patient in the hospital two weeks. He was brought overland to Ralls in a Marr Funeral home ambulance.

He is survived by his wife and a son, Glenn, who is at home; five brothers, Mark, Hillsboro, Tex., Dal and Nick, both of Luling, Tex., W. P. Littlefield, George, of California; three sisters, Mrs. Vernon Griffin and Mrs. R. L. McAbee, both of Whitney, Tex., and Mrs. Percy Nance, Luling.

Pallbearers will be Woodrow Couch, Jesse Cummins and Lloyd Stephens, all of Muleshoe, and G. E. Ford, Lige Tarlton and Haskell Stephens, all of Ralls.

CIGARET PROBLEM AIRED

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP) — Partial easing of the cigaret shortage might be short-lived if the Army decided to supply the Pacific theater from current production, rather than by trans-shipping stores built up in Europe, Alfred E. Lyons, president of Phillip Morris & Co., Ltd., said today in releasing the concerns annual report.

Reasons Surmised For Patton Return To European Area

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press News Analyst

General Patton's reaction to the disclosure that he is to return to Europe and not be sent immediately to fulfill his expressed desire "to fight the Japs" can only be conjectured but his disappointment if any must be tempered by two circumstances.

For one thing, Patton is above all the outstanding Allied exponent of tank warfare, blitzkrieg fashion. He out-blitzed the Nazi inventors of that form of battle every time he met them in North Africa, in Sicily, in Normandy, across France and in Germany.

Slapping Incident

It was that already proven quality which made General Eisenhower retain Patton after the soldier-slapping incident that so nearly wrecked his Army career. In the light of later Patton exploits as commander of the famous Third Army the soundness of Eisenhower's judgment cannot be questioned.

The other circumstances has to do with the nature of the war across the Pacific at this stage. At no time since Pearl Harbor has it presented opportunities for the type of tank action in which Patton is a specialist. It has been an island by island advance in the Pacific from the states. Not even on Leyte or Luzon, and certainly on no other island yet taken, have battle conditions, enemy tactics and terrain combined to offer chances for decisive tank warfare of the sort at which Patton and his men excelled.

THANKS FARMERS
IN BEHALF of our boys in the armed forces, we wish to thank you for the way you responded to our plea for large clean grade A eggs. Because of your patriotic cooperation, we have been able to get their eggs to them much faster than could have been possible otherwise. We still have many more war department orders to fill, and the government is looking to you to help us meet our increased quotas.
If you haven't heard of the way that you can make more money, and still be helping our soldier boys, ask your neighbor, or we will give you the information. Your large clean grade A eggs are still desperately needed. Thanks again.

FAVORITES AT NEW PEAKS

NEW YORK, June 14 (AP)—Spurred by further investment demand for rails, utilities and assorted specialties, numerous stock market favorites today hit new peaks for the past eight years in one of the liveliest sessions of the past two months.

The principal flaw in the picture was that pivotal steels, motors and many other industrials were hesitant from the start. Transfers of 1,850,000 shares compared with 1,590,000 Wednesday.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .3 of a point at 66.4 where it was only .2 under its top since 1937.

In front were M-K-T preferred, Santa Fe, North American, United Corp., White Motors, American Woolen, Symington-Gould, Radio Corp., Armour, Lockheed, United Aircraft, Goodrich, Aviation Corp., Standard Oil (NJ) and Johns-Manville.

On the offside were U. S. Steel, Great Northern, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Eastman Kodak, Anaconda and Owens-Illinois. Secondary railway bonds advanced.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, June 14 (AP)—Opposition to the extension of the price control law in its present form, and considerable liquidation of the July position by a leading spot firm had an unsettling affect on the cotton futures market. Closing prices were unchanged to 25 cents a bale lower.

With the largest losses registered in the late months which were under persistent pressure of commission house profit taking. Trade selling in July was attributed to liquidation prior to first notice day, June 26, and accompanied by considerable switching into the deferred deliveries. Mills were principal buyers along with some short covering.

The Bureau of Census reported May cotton consumption at 830,568 bales which was slightly lower than expected.

Victoria Farm Wife Under Murder Charge

VICTORIA, June 14 (AP)—Mrs. Emma Leah Fishbeck, 48, Victoria county farm wife, was under a charge of murder today in the death of her husband, John Jacob Fishbeck, 49, found dead in their home Saturday. Bond was set at $1,000.

She was arrested Tuesday following questioning by District Attorney Frank Martin of Goliad, and Sheriff R. A. Rogan, of Victoria county.

Mrs. Fishbeck told Justice of the Peace J. T. Linebaugh, jr., that her husband came home about 4 a. m. Saturday from a coon hunt. He woke her up and she said she made him a sandwich. Later he went to bed, she said.

She said she was awakened by a gun shot and rushed into his room to find him dead. She said she found a 12-gauge shotgun at his side.

English Prof Praises Boone And Crockett

AUSTIN, June 14. (AP)—Davy Crockett and Daniel Boone are given more credit for developing the United States than the "men who organized monopolies and manipulated stocks," by Dr. Mody C. Boatright, University of Texas English associate professor.

Speaking before a local Texas Folklore Society meeting, Dr. Boatright said the "sentimentality, down-to-earth sense of humor, and love of democracy of the early settlers found expression in songs and anecdotes designed to deflate stuffed shirts."

White House Source Says Big Three Meeting Will Map European Future

By ROBERT J. MANNING
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The impending meeting of the Big Three will map Europe's future for many years to come, authoritative sources indicated today.

A White House source said that for all practical purposes President Truman's imminent conference with British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin will be "the real peace conference of Europe."

To Chart Peace Outlines

"The Big Three," he asserted, "will chart the general outlines of the European peace."

It was evident here that the function of any subsequent full-dress European peace conference would be to ratify, probably with some modifications, the decisions blueprinted at the Truman-Churchill-Stalin parley.

President Truman said yesterday that the Big Three meeting would be an attempt to arrange for a peace conference. This, he added, will be a major objective of the Big Three meeting.

Importantly-placed officials disclosed that the agenda for the Big Three conference would cover at least these points pertinent to the future of the contingent which has proved so fertile a birthplace for war:

1. Decisions on several of the 30 territorial questions which must be solved amicably to prepare Europe for peace. These include Poland's claim to a slice of defeated Germany in return for Polish land going to Russia.

2. Final agreement on the way Germany must pay reparations for her war of agression. The American-Russian-British reparations commission in Berlin probably will have a preliminary report and recommendations prepared for the Big Three conference.

3. Final decisions on the use of German labor for reconstruction work in Russia and other Nazi-victim nations. The United States already has given tentative approval of this project.

4. The future of the Dardanelles, the vital water passage to the Black sea where Turkey wants sufficient guarantees of control and Russia wants assurance of an outlet to the Mediterranean.

5. The problem of opening up the Soviet-occupied Balkan countries to admit Allied officials and journalists and to promote governments of a more democratic nature. This also would involve arrangements for democratic elections in such Russian-controlled countries as Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria.

6. The problem of Poland, depending on the results of this week's meeting of Polish political factions in Moscow.

7. Arrangements with Russia for feeding Europe. Anglo-American officials, convinced that their food supplies will not stretch to all of hungry Europe, hope to distribute the food produced in Russian-occupied areas of Germany to highly urban regions now in the charge of the western Allies.

8. Remaining kinks in the Big Four control machinery for Germany and the still-stalled control plans for Austria where almost no visible progress has been made in beginning joint control.

The break in the Big Three deadlock over Poland provided conservative optimism here that most of these problems could be ironed out amicably when Mr. Truman sits down with Stalin and Churchill.

Funds Set Aside To Repair Flood Damage

AUSTIN, June 14. (AP) — An emergency appropriation of $100,000 to cover flood damage repairs in a number of east and northeast Texas counties was announced today by the state highway commission.

The supplemental appropriation will go to district 19, including Bowie, Titus, Morris, Cass, Upshur, Marion, Harrison and Panola counties.

The commission in a special meeting also directed the state highway engineer to prepare a suggested county road improvement plan for Angelina county. The request for the plan was presented by County Judge W. L. Evans of Lufkin.

Sutherland Speaks For Kiwanis Club

Kiwanis club members heard Dr. Robert L. Sutherland, Hogg foundation director, talk at their Thursday luncheon in the Lubbock hotel on divergent social behaviorism that "can condition us or cause us to be conditioned by overtones of others."

He set up solid contrasts of business, ethical, religious and political practices and showed their formative results on cross-sections of the population, their mounting influences in shaping the social pattern.

The address was learned, and was so recognized by President W. C. Wood.

Richard Rivers of a New York opera association, led the club's song service. Otis Gatewood of Los Angeles, an evangelist, offered an invocation. Dr. Archie J. Bahm, associate professor of philosophy and socialogy at Texas Tech, introduced Dr. Sutherland, as program chairman. The president announced that a large number of Kiwanians would meet at 7 o'clock tonight at Fourteenth and Ave. Q and drive to the Roosevelt Rural High school and be hosts to farmers of that community at a dinner.

Out-city guests were the following men in service: Gilbert Hill, jr., Capt. Harold Fulghum, Maj. C. H. Diamond, Paul Southern of Abilene and A. R. Granberg of Amarillo.

New Steamer Service Planned From Gulf

HOUSTON, June 14. (AP)—Direct steamer service to South American Pacific ports from gulf ports, via the Panama canal, will be opened shortly, J. M. Lykes jr., vice president of Lykes brothers Steamship company, has announced.

His company has been appointed berthing agent for the War Shipping administration, which will assign vessels for the new service probably by July, Lykes said.

Vessels southbound from Houston, Galveston and New Orleans will carry cotton, wheat, flour, iron and steel articles, livestock and other export items to ports of Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and Chile. He said northbound ships would bring coffee, tin ore and other import items from South America.

Now that the War in Europe is over

What about travel?

Now, you may naturally ask, "Won't it be a little easier to get accommodations?" . . . "Won't it be a little more comfortable to travel?"

We of the Santa Fe would like to hold out some hope to our friends who have good reasons for taking a trip, but who find it difficult to do so.

We would like to give those who do travel all the little niceties of service that are part of the Santa Fe tradition.

Bigger Traffic Loads

The stubborn facts are that the traffic to our Pacific ports of war is stepping up instead of letting down!

This means, in the war days to come, there will be more passenger and freight traffic—new loads and greater loads and less space for civilian travelers than ever on Santa Fe rails.

In The Meantime

Santa Fe facilities have been enormously increased—bigger yards; more freight Diesels; centralized traffic control at key points; and improved shop tools and practices which keep our locomotives rolling.

In peacetime these increased facilities will enable us to provide better service than ever. But in the meantime, the stuff needed to lick Japan is top priority.

So—again we ask, "Unless your trip is essential, can't you put it off until we have a little better opportunity to serve you in the traditional Santa Fe manner?"

Plan For Economy In Government Being Completed By Byrd Group

By CHARLES T. LUCEY
Scripps Howard Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The Byrd economy committee, after a two-year study touching every federal agency, is about to come up with a blueprint for brushing away the bureaucratic cobwebs and saving some money.

Rep. Ramspeck (D.-Ga.), House majority whip, recently discussed with President Truman the idea of a "general manager" for the government. The president is supposed to have been receptive. The aim would be to cut through a snarl of red tape and whack down the mountain of paper work that bogs many a bureau.

Offers Manager Pattern

The Byrd committee's blueprint would offer a pattern for a general manager; without it, some committee people say, no manager could get far anyway.

Here are some ideas the Byrd blueprint probably will contain:

Eliminate vast duplication in government legal work by making the justice department in effect the government's "law firm," instead of having large legal staffs in many departments.

At present, when a federal department undertakes prosecution against a citizen violating a law in its field, frequently its attorney investigates extensively and works up the case, then turns it over to the justice department. There other lawyers familiarize themselves with it. Sometimes it may be sent to a federal district attorney for action, and he must learn all about it.

The Byrd committee's research suggests cutting down big departmental staffs, leaving only one or two legal advisers, and centralizing all the detail of litigation in one place.

Another place where overlapping would be stopped is in personnel investigation — and with 2,900,000 on the payroll, there must be a lot of it. Byrd committee has found as many as five different investigation records in a single case. It believes one agency should do the job.

Several Make Investigations

Investigations are being run now by the Civil Service commission, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, treasury agents and various departments on their own.

The Byrd committee probably will urge a centralized administrative service to do purchasing for the whole government on office supplies and equipment, act as the clearing agency for all government transportation problems and otherwise run the Uncle Sam's "office management" job.

Lack of trained transportation men has cost the government money in freight rates, it is charged, and the shortage of buying experts in particular fields likewise has been expensive.

Widespread reorganization and consolidation of government agencies are being studied in connection with the Byrd committee report now "in the works." One phase of the recommendations may raise the question of placing certain independent boards into the regularly established government departments—the tariff commission into the state department, for example, or the Federal Trade commission into the commerce department.

Another proposal being studied relates to placing all agencies engaged in actually selling a service —sale of electric power, for example—under a single roof.

Creation of two new departments of cabinet rank may be recommended.

One would embrace all the phases of social welfare, including social security and unemployment insurance. A second would make administration of the rapidly expanding field of veterans' affairs the assignment of a fully constituted cabinet department.

Frenchmen Evacuated In Various Regions

BEYROUTH, Lebanon, June 14 (AP)—All French troops and civilians, including French-commanded Syrian conscripts, have been evacuated from the regions of Damascus, Homs, Hama and Druz and partially from Dier ez Zor, in Syria, the British announced today.

The evacuations took place by agreement with the French and without incident. The French remain in barracks elsewhere.

The British are taking over the Meharist camel corps command, but the changeover is not yet complete. The French agreed to the change when French officers of the native units were massacred.

Fight Looms On OPA Extension Period

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—A sharp fight shaped up in the House today on a Republican move to hold OPA's new lease on life to six months. The administration is asking for at least a year's extension.

House Republican Leader Martin, of Massachusetts, called in his steering committee, and after the meeting broke up he told newspapermen:

"While we believe OPA must be continued, it should be limited to six months, so at the end of that time we can take another look at it and take advantage of any changes needed for adjustment to war and reconversion developments.

Meanwhile, three national farm organizations — the American Farm bureau federation, the National Grange and the National Farmers union — took a united stand against the Senate-approved cost-plus OPA pricing system for farm products.

Albert S. Goss, Grange master, told the committee today "we do not believe the OPA could administer the provisions of the amendment and still maintain any appreciable control on food prices."

Jellied Soup Starts Meal

Jellied soups rise to the occasion in hot weather and tempt the appetite with coolness and color. In pre-war days, they were made from veal and beef stock, but canned consomme is the point-free base for these six recipes.

Bolster these iced delicacies with toast-brown crackers on the side and the course will be more than a bright spot in the meal. It will revive summer pep.

Jellied soups are full of flavor and they have a cool, smooth texture that tickles the tongue, but they need a side-kick such as crackers to supply the energy needed for warm weather work. These small soda squares pack concentrated food energy behind their light crispness and have especial appeal to languid appetites when the mercury soars.

Jellied Consomme

1 tbsp. gelatine
1¼ cup cold water
1 10½-oz. can of condensed consomme
1 tbsp. sherry
Salt and pepper

Soften gelatine in ¼ cup cold water. Add remaining water to consomme and heat. Add gelatine to hot consomme and stir until dissolved. Add sherry and seasonings. Chill until firm. Beat lightly with a fork and serve in ice-cold cups. Garnish with slim lemon slices and serve with toasted crackers.

Jellied Consomme Jardiniere

When consomme has started to thicken, fold in ¼ cup of finely cubed carrots. Allow to become firm. Serve by spooning into bouillon cups.

Jellied Tomato Consomme

Substitute tomato juice for water. Add ¼ teaspoon onion juice and fold in ½ cup cubed avocado.

Tropical Consomme

Substitute ¾ cup orange juice and ½ cup water for the 1¼ cup water. Garnish with nasturtium leaves.

Consomme Bellevue

Mold a slice of hard-cooked egg in the bottom of each cup.

Summer Consomme

Substitute the liquid from fresh cooked vegetables for water, and make the soup doubly nutritious.

Tutti Fruiti Crisps

1 cup melted shortening
1 cup New Orleans molasses
1 egg, beaten
1 cup raisins
1 cup nutmeats
¼ cup citron, orange and lemon peel
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1½ teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg

Combine shortening and molasses; add egg. Combine raisins, nutmeats, citron, orange and lemon peel and pour through food chopper using fine blade. Add to first mixture. Sift together flour, soda, salt and spices; stir into first mixture. Mix thoroughly. Then drop by heaping tablespoonfuls 2" apart on greased cookie sheet. Bake in 425° F. for 10-15 minutes or until cookies are brown. Makes about 60 cookies.

Save Sugar And Use Honey In Desserts

Desserts made with honey are as satisfying to that sweet tooth as any other. Here are recipes for rice pudding, apple pie and cookies.

Rice Pudding

2 cups cooked rice
3 cups milk
¾ cup honey
3 eggs
1 cup chopped raisins

Mix rice, milk and honey. Add the eggs which have been slightly beaten. Stir in the chopped raisins. Bake at about 350 degrees F. in a well-greased baking dish for about one hour. Serve with cream if desired. Serves 8.

Apple Pie

6 medium-sized apples (or 3 cups sliced apples)
1 tablespoon butter
1 cup honey
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Quarter and pare apples, remove core and slice. Line a 9-inch pie plate with pastry. Place the sliced apples on this. Dot with bits of butter and add a perforated upper crust, pushing it toward the center. Press edges together and trim. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees F) for ten minutes then about 30 minutes at 350 degrees F. or until the crust is slightly browned and the fruit is soft. Remove from oven, add honey which has been mixed with lemon juice, carefully through the perforations in top crust. By the time the pie is ready to serve the honey will have been absorbed by the apples.

Cookies

1 cup honey
1 cup butter
3½ cups flour
4½ teaspoons baking powder
1-5 teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon each, cinnamon, cloves and allspice

Boil honey and butter together about one minute. Cool. Sift flour, baking powder, soda and spices together. Add flour to first mixture to make a soft dough. Roll thin, cut, bake at 350 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes.

Crusty Rolls

½ cup lukewarm water
½ cake yeast
1½ teaspoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon melted shortening
1 egg white
2 cups sifted flour (about)

Soften yeast in part of the water. To remainder add sugar, salt and shortening. Add ½ cup flour, beating well. Add yeast and beaten egg white. Mix thoroughly. Add enough more flour to make a soft dough. Knead until satiny. Grease surface lightly. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Punch down, divide into small portions for rolls. Cover and let rest 10 minutes. Shape into buns. Place two and a ha' inches apart on greased baking sheet which has been sprinkled with farina or white corn meal. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake at 450 degrees 20 minutes. Place a large pan filled with boiling water on floor of oven to give crustiness.

ROSY MACARONI MOLD . . . The children can make it . . .

Let The Youngsters Prepare Meal In Honor Of Father

ON FATHER'S DAY, from my point of view, the best thing the children could do in celebration would be to prepare and serve a meal in Dad's honor. This year, like any hosts and hostesses, they will be up against more of a proposition in trying to plan party food than any Americans, little or big, have ever faced before. With a little help, though, they can give him a fine party.

When children give a party it's always best to let them do most of the planning. However, a tactful hint here and there from mother, the experienced cook, will be a big help to everybody in the end. You won't then, necessarily, get a meal which is all starch—or have everybody end in frustration because one can't produce a meal which is nearly all sweets! Draw their suggestions out first and then insert your own tactful balances.

Children love to turn out food which is beautiful to look at. Even though it's easy to concoct, a jellied salad lends a professional tone to the appearance of any meal. So why not steer them toward a porch supper which has as its piece de resistance a handsome jellied ring mold? Meat being that something you heard about once which it is, just leave it out of the planning before you start and save a lot of headaches. Here's a beginning course which, while good to look at, is also substantial and easy to prepare.

Rosy Macaroni Mold

2¼ cups tomato juice
1 bay leaf
2 cloves
1¼ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ small onion, sliced
1 teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons unflavored gelatin
¾ cup cold water
1 cup cooked macaroni
Real mayonnaise
Deviled eggs
Lettuce
Parsley
Sliced radishes

Simmer tomato juice, bay leaf, cloves, salt, pepper, onion and sugar over low heat for five minutes. Remove bay leaf and cloves. Soak gelatin in cold water for five minutes. Dissolve in hot tomato juice. Cool. When slightly thickened fold in macaroni. Pour into ring mold pan. Chill in refrigerator until firm. Unmold on chop plate. Place small dish of mayonnaise in center of ring, or serve in side dish. Surround ring with lettuce and place deviled eggs on it. Decorate eggs with bits of parsley and thin slices of radish.

Deviled Eggs

4 hard-cooked eggs
2 tablespoons real mayonnaise
Dash of salt and pepper
4 large stuffed olives, chopped
Tiny pinch of mustard
Paprika

Split the eggs in half lengthwise. Take out yolks carefully and mash them fine with a fork. Add mayonnaise, pepper and salt, mustard and chopped olives. Mix well and stuff lightly into whites. Sprinkle tops with paprika.

For the rest of Father's party, we suggest to the young people that they serve thinly sliced sandwiches of dark bread (pumpernimkel goes particularly well), spread with butter, margarine or cream cheese. Or, if they're feeling especially ambitious and mother is in a cooperative mood, let them make hot bread—bran muffins for instance, or popovers—that would please Dad no end.

Accompany the whole meal with hot or cold chocolate milk, or if that doesn't appeal to Father, let him have iced coffee and save the sweeter drink for the children.

Dessert, at this time of year, should surely be fruit in some form—the simpler the better. Remind the children that it should be prepared well ahead and thoroughly chilled in the refrigerator before serving. If cookies are within the realm of possibility for either you or your baker, they make the perfect top-offer from the point of view of both Dad and his kids.

Shrimp Souffle

4 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
Salt and pepper to taste
1 cup canned or boiled shrimp, cut into small pieces
4 eggs, separated
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce

Melt the butter or margarine. Remove from heat and add the flour, mixing to a smooth paste. Return to flame and gradually pour in milk, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Add shrimps to sauce and mix well. Beat egg yolks thoroughly. Pour 1-4 cup of shrimp mixture into egg yolk and mix well. Then pour this mixture into the shrimp sauce and cook over low heat for one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from stove and add Worcestershire sauce. Allow the shrimp mixture to cool. Beat the egg whites until stiff. Fold egg whites into shrimp mixture. Turn into a seven-inch baking dish and bake at 350° 30 to 35 minutes or until souffle is firm and top is browned. Serve with curry or tomato sauce.

MACARONI CASSEROLE

Here is a recipe that two Lubbock families have used throughout the year with great success. It's Macaroni casserole.

4 cups cooked macaroni (9 ounce package)
1 cup cheese—cut in pieces
2 sliced onions
¼ cup green pepper, cut fine
1-3 cup shortening
2½ cups canned tomatoes
1½ t. salt
⅛ t. pepper
½ cup crumbs mixed with 2T melted shortening

Arrange macaroni and cheese in shortening-coated 2 quart casserole. Fry onions and green pepper in hot shortening about 5 minutes. Add tomatoes, salt and pepper. Heat and pour over macaroni. Mix well. Sprinkle crumbs over top. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F) about 30 minutes. Serves 6.

Dry beans are an excellent source of iron and phosphorus.

Keep all firearms unloaded, out of sight and under lock and key.

Surplus Federal Goods Selling Rapidly, Veterans Get Priority

WASHINGTON, June 14 (U.P.)—The Surplus Property board disclosed today that food, consumer goods and small vessels were the fastest moving things it had to sell.

At the same time the Smaller War Plants Corp. announced a plan to grant veterans going into business a top priority to buy up to $2,500 worth of surplus property.

In its second quarterly report to Congress the board said it sold $265,000,000 worth of available surpluses in the 10-month period from June, 1944, to March, 1945. This figure represented about 16 per cent of outstanding surplus, it said.

Non-Government Buyers

Four-fifths of the sales as a general rule were made to non-government buyers, the board revealed, about 12 per cent to federal agencies and only 2 per cent to state and local governments.

Surplus property in the hands of owning and disposal agencies amounts to approximately $1,250,000,000. About $1,000,000,000 is surplus aircraft and related equipment. Total government ownership of plants and facilities comes to $16,000,000,000, or about one-fifth of the nation's industrial plant.

Transfers of surplus within the War and Navy department and between the two departments has amounted to $212,000,000, the board said.

Little Property Sold

It reported that disposal of real estate has not been a major problem because only 189,000 acres out of a total of 9,000,000 acres and 26,000 parcels have been declared surplus.

The SWPC's plan will go into effect July 1. It is intended to speed up the transfer of surpluses from government stock piles to sites where veterans businesses will be located, and keep unscrupulous buyers from getting their hands on material which SWPV is earmarking for veterans.

Under the plan a veteran may apply for $2,500 worth of surplus property for his business and at the same time apply for a loan to buy the surplus.

Free Press Favored By Gen. Eisenhower

NEW YORK, June 13. (AP) — All soldiers have the "right to hope that all peoples may have, at the very least, the advantages of a free press and the free exchange of information throughout the world," says Gen Eisenhower.

His statement was contained in a letter, dated Jan. 26, 1945, and released last night by Wilbur Forrest, chairman of a committee of the American society of newspaper editors which made a world tour in the interests of freedom of the press

Gen. Eisenhower's letter in part:

Nazis Said Example

"The sadistic attitude of Nazi prisoners is clearly traceable to constant exposure to Hitler's propaganda, in the spreading of which he used a controlled press and rigid censorship. This attitude is most pronounced among those that have absorbed Hitler's vicious teachings from early boyhood. It is disturbing and distressing to me to contemplate the possibility that in the future some ruthless individual may be enabled to seize arbitrary power, and through his own manufactured propaganda; nurture and develop the fanatical tendencies which we find today in so many Nazi prisoners of war.

Some Censorship Necessary

"In war, censorship to ensure security of information which might be of value to the enemy is obviously necessary, but following cessation of hostilities censorship most be abandoned, and a free flow of information insisted upon, so that education and public opinion may be based on truth.

"Every soldier in this war has the right to hope that all peoples may have, at the very least, the advantages of a free press and the free exchange of information throughout the world. Intolerance and bigotry flourish under dictated news, but they tend to disappear under the effects of enlightened education and freedom of the press."

Hospital Facilities Are Said Inadequate

AUSTIN, June 14. (U.P.)—State Service Officer A. O. Willman said here today the above-average standard of veteran hospital management in Texas does not alter the fact that hospital facilities in the state are inadequate.

Willman's duties include assisting veterans in getting hospitalization. He said long waiting lists exist for the hospitals at Legion, Waco, Dallas and Amarillo.

From 60 to 90 days usually will elapse between application and admittance, he said, though emergency cases are taken in immediately.

Harris County Leads State In Bond Drive

DALLAS, June 14. (AP)—Harris county, with $10,787,016 subscribed in series E war bonds, leads the state in the seventh war loan drive although Texas has fulfilled only 59.8 per cent of its $168,000,000 quota.

Nathan Adams, chairman of the state war finance committee, said total state subscriptions to date are $100,459,741.

Social Security Would Be Extended Under Wagner-Murray-Dingell Bill

By ALLAN L. SWIM
Scripps Howard Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 14—Some 15 million persons now excluded would be brought under the social security system if Congress passes the Wagner-Murray-Dingell bill.

Farm workers and independent farmers, domestics, seamen, employes of non-profit organizations, professional persons, small businessmen and some employes of state and local governments would be provided the basic benefits of social insurance.

Solution Suggested

These were left out of the original social security program largely because of administrative problems.

Arthur J. Altmeyer, Social Security board chairman, says he believes the job of collecting taxes from persons who change jobs frequently can be solved.

Employes who now have social security payments deducted from their pay would continue to do so. Others would use a stamp system that would work somewhat in this manner:

A worker would be given a stamp book good for a set period, say a year. He would turn it over to his employer when he went to work and take it back into his possession when he left his job.

The employer would buy stamps at a Social Security board office or postoffice. Each payday he would place in the worker's book enough stamps to cover the taxes of both, deducting the worker's portion from his pay.

Periodically the worker would turn in his book to the Social Security board. He would be credited with his payments and be given a new book.

Used In Other Countries

Great Britain, Canada and several South American countries use stamp collection plans.

Self-employed persons probably would use a different system. One suggestion frequently heard is that they make social security payments along with their income tax payments.

Most employers and employes would pay taxes of 4 per cent each on wages up to $3600 a year. The self-employed and state and local government employes would be excluded from unemployment and temporary disability benefits and their rates would be lower.

The self-employed would pay five per cent of the "market value" of their services up to $3600 a year.

Government employes and the agencies which hire them would pay 2½ per cent each each. Their participation in the program, however, would not be compulsory.

The Wagner - Murray - Dingell bill would give the Social Security board the right to enter into voluntary compacts with states and minor political subdivisions for social security coverage. These compacts would operate for at least five years but they could be cancelled thereafter on two-years' notice.

Federal employes (except those of Tennessee valley authority) and railroad employes (under the Railroad Retirement act) are excluded from the social insurance program. This was done on the assumption that they already have adequate protection or will be provided with it.

The measure would increase the maximum family insurance benefit from the present $85 a month to $120. It would increase the minimum benefit from $10 to $20 for a single worker and $30 for a worker with a dependent wife 60 years old or older.

The bill would decrease from 65 to 60 years the age at which women become eligible for retirement and widow's benefits.

It would provide lump-sum death payments for widows and widowers or insured workers.

Under the bill a person could earn up to $25 monthly without being disqualified from drawing insurance benefits.

And a person who became permanently disabled would draw the same amount he would get if he retired.

Billfold Loss Dims Soldier's Homecoming

First Lt. Glenn W. Burleson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vivian N. Burleson of 1115 Thirty-first, had a pale shadow cast across a combat veteran's "wonderful" homecoming when he discovered the loss of his billfold containing $260, all his identification papers and traveling orders.

Lt. Burleson, who completed 24 bombing missions over German occupied territory during his year's service overseas, arrived Thursday morning for a 32-day leave. He lost the billfold when walking from the Union Bus terminal to the Yellow Cab Co.

Hoping that someone will return the billfold, Lt. Burleson said his greatest concern was the loss of the identification papers and traveling orders. They will have to be re-issued from Washington.

De Gaulle Planning Meeting With Truman

PARIS, June 14. (AP)—Gen. de Gaulle is expected to depart for Washington by plane next week to discuss with President Truman the situation in Syria and Lebanon, which French government spokesmen describe as "increasingly unsatisfactory."

The disclosure that de Gaulle is planning to confer with the president was made by official quarters following a report that the United States had declined France's invitation to a five-power conference on middle eastern problems.

Medical Corpsmen Not Necessarily All In "Pillroller" Class

NORMAN, Okla.—All Medical corpsmen are not pill rollers. Just because a sailor wears a red cross on his sleeve, he doesn't necessarily spend all his time in a dispensary.

NICHOLS

Many corpsmen find themselves right up where the snipers try to pick them off. Lots of them have tussled with real live Japs.

B. F. Nichols, pharmacist's mate 1/c, from Roaring Springs, Tex., now attached to the Medical Storeroom at NATTC, Norman, was attached to a Marine Raider regiment in the invasion of New Georgia island.

Nichols was with the first wave ashore in the invasion. There was no enemy opposition and the Marines met a group of scouts from the First Marine Raiders, accompanied by natives who were to lead them to the point of contact with the Japs.

"Our first permanent camp was to be at Titoria Ridge, about 15 miles inland. When we arrived there, Dog company had already arrived and was in a hot engagement with the enemy. We found out that these Nips were big men—all hand-picked troops of the Japanese Imperial Landing force—Jap Marines. Six footers and tough!

"A hut nearby was established as our command post. Meanwhile, snipers were still taking shots at our men as they showed themselves. One of the corpsmen was killed among the 28 casualties suffered in that section.

"Apparently the Japs don't have any corpsmen. They must treat themselves. They carry their own kits of salve, pills and patent medicine.

"It took a little time to effectively clean the vicinity of Japs—but it was done, and soon we moved on to make a strike at Bioka harbor."

Nichols has the Asiatic-Pacific ribbon and one star—for this campaign on New Georgia—and at the termination of the campaign after 56 days of fighting, when the men were given the choice of a promotion or a recommendation for the Navy Cross, Nick took the promotion to Pharmacist's mate 2/c. He joined the Navy in September, 1942.

Needs Great As Harvest Nears

GREAT BEND, Kas., June 13. (AP)—Kansas wheat growers are ready to harvest the second largest crop in history, nearly 215,000,000 bushels.

All they need now is:

Twenty thousand harvest hands.

Two thousand additional combines.

Two thousand additional trucks.

A lot of ration points for feeding thousands of transient workers, good eaters all.

Thousands of cars to get the wheat to market.

And, some place to put it until it can move to market.

Harvest Is Near

The harvest will be underway along the southern border of the state by June 20, delayed fully a week by abnormally wet weather. In five days it should be in full swing.

E. H. Leker, in charge of the state harvest labor office here, estimated 20,000 harvest hands would be needed—half of them in 37 central Kansas counties.

That in turn brings up another problem—how to feed the hard working newcomers, whose appetites have become legend through the years.

Gov. Andrew Schoeppel, receiving reports of farmers' inability to obtain the extra needed rations, has appealed to the OPA for quick help.

At the same time, railroads serving the wheat belt reported an acute labor shortage which may reach a total of 10,000 men when troop movements from the European to the Pacific war fronts get under way.

In addition to the shortage of track and shop labor, switchmen and trainmen, John S. Hughes, district manager of the railroad retirement board, said equipment and roadbeds were beginning to show the effects of the great strain of three years of heavy wartime traffic.

"With the country grain elevators still jammed with last year's bumper crop, and an acute box car shortage, much of the newly harvested wheat will be stored in vacant houses, store buildings, filling stations and a large amount of it just dumped on the ground until storage space or shipping facilities can be provided.

Gallegos Has Plan To Reorganize Party

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 14 (U.P.)—J. O. Gallegos, former New Mexico commissioner of revenue, was back from Washington today with what he called a plan to reorganize the state Democratic party.

Gallegos, ousted from his post of commissioner by Gov. John C. Dempsey, said he had gone to Washington in an attempt to get the Democratic party together in New Mexico.

It was rumored that the move would have as its immediate objective the removal of Governor Dempsey.

Importance Of Light Aircraft Forecast

HOUSTON, June 14. (U.P.)—Lighter-than-air aircraft will occupy an important place in world passenger and freight transportation in the postwar world, Rear Adm. Charles E. Rosendahl, chief of the Naval Airship Training and Experimental command at Lakehurst, N. J., predicted here today.

"There will be three times the transportation in the postwar world than in all previous years, and the United States could well begin now to include airships with planes and steamers for transoceanic travel," Admiral Rosendahl said.

"The airship—many times larger than the blimp used in naval warfare—operates almost as cheaply as a steamer, is many times faster and has much larger capacity than planes," he added.

Pointing to the helium production centers in West Texas, Admiral Rosendahl said the helium supply is "unlimited." Helium, almost exclusively a Texas product, provides for safe airship travel, he said.

Mad Hunter Of Metz Turns Out To Be Young American From Carolina

By ROBERT MUSEL
United Press Staff Writer

BREMEN, June 14.—The Mad Hunter of Metz, according to the legend, was an American officer who strolled between the battle lines shooting hare and birds during the bitter fighting along the Moselle last November.

He walked through minefields and machine-gun fire with a shotgun across one arm and a brace of partridges and hares dangling in the other hand. Now and then he dropped the game to take a potshot at a bird, oblivious of the battle raging around him.

Officer Admits Hunting

It might have remained a legend, except that Capt. E. C. Boykim, jr., Camden, S. C., broke down today and admitted he was the hunter.

"I don't like to tell this story, it makes me seem such a damned fool," Boykim said in a Carolina drawl. "But the boys here somehow got wind of it and I had to admit it."

Boykim, in his late forties, is stocky, greying, pleasant. He describes himself as a "re-cap," because he also was a captain in the First World war. His two sons both wear the Purple Heart.

"Our engineers' outfit was near Thionville after the long push across France," he said, "and I was dead weary. When I am weary I don't like anything better than hunting. So—it appeared a natural thing to me—I took an old shotgun and some shells and sauntered around looking for game.

Battle No Worry

"There was a helluva lot of shooting going on all right, but I figured I wasn't important enough for either side to bother about."

"What about the minefields?" someone asked. "That place was teeming with them."

"Oh, those were really nothing to worry about," he said. "You see, I just followed fresh cattle tracks anyhow, I got a few birds and hares and I came around Hoall hill which brought me near the Orne river.

"I caught sight of a magnificent bird and stalked it—right into the middle of no man's land where an American patrol rushed up and a sergeant gasped, 'Sir, don't you know there's a battle going on?'

"'Sure,' I said, 'but my bird shots are too little to help you.' So I sent them back and got my bird. Then I returned to my quarters and that's all."

"Was that your closest call?" another officer asked.

"Nope," said Boykim. "I was supposed to go boar hunting once with some Frenchmen, who drank champagne out in the field waiting for me. I badly needed a shave and when I separated the shrubbery and poked my unshaven face through, some of those champagne guzzlers thought I was the boar."

Allied Victory Parade Through Berlin Planned

BERLIN, June 14. (U.P.)—The Russians have built a huge grandstand on the Charlotsenburger Chaussen for a Berlin victory parade of Allied armies.

The grandstand is decorated with the flags of all nations and with portraits of President Truman, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill.

In the Projected parade, Allied troops will be reviewed from this stand as they march toward the Brandenburger gate.

(This was the first indication that an Allied victory parade in Berlin is definitely planned. There were reports just after the German surrender that such a parade would be held, or that a token Allied force would enter the city.

Col. Jack S. Jenkins To Arrive On Leave

Col. Jack S. Jenkins, who was liberated from Stalag No. 3 April 29, is to arrive today or Saturday to spend a leave here and in Levelland.

Colonel Jenkins is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jenkins of Levelland. A sister, Mrs. Shelby J. Harris, lives at 1307 Avenue X. Jenkins was employed by Hemphill-Wells company before entering service in 1939. He is a graduate of Texas Technological college.

He has been in Washington to appear before the war criminals board to report on treatment he received in prisoner of war camp. He landed Sunday.

Mrs. Harris received a cablegram from her husband, Capt. Shelby J. Harris, recently from England. He said he expected to be home in June. He was liberated from Stalag Luft 1 May 3. Harris, who is from Haskell, also is a graduate of Texas Tech.

Texas Democrats Set Annual Dinner-Rally

AUSTIN, June 14. (AP) — The Jefferson day Democratic dinner and rally, postponed since early spring, is tentatively set for the first week in July in Austin.

Announcement came from co-chairmen Edward Clark and Mayor Tom Miller after a meeting with national committeeman Myron G. Blalock of Marshall.

Clark said "excellent progress" had been made in raising funds among Texas Democrats for the national party and the $50,000 "represents contributions from all factions which formerly existed within the party."

In the fund raising campaign Clark said he found the "widest possible support of President Truman's policies and appointments."

Jap Story Recalls Nazi Boasts

ALTHOUGH it is believed by many that the Japanese government operated an effective spy system in this country prior to the Pearl Harbor attack, the conduct of the war—in fact, the war itself—does not confirm the theory.

An effective Japanese spy system would have reported information to the Japanese war lords which would have convinced them that they could not possibly win a war against the United States. It would have reported that the spirit of the American people is such that they would fight a war to a victorious conclusion, regardless of time or cost, to regain the prestige which they lost at Pearl Harbor and through loss of the Philippines.

The other possibility is that even with true reports on which to base their thinking, the Japanese war lords desperately took the chance because they had to cash on the war spirit and the "emperor-god" belief that they had drilled into the Japanese people.

This possibility is buttressed by the faith which the Japanese terrorists seem to have in their balloon exploit. During the past few months they have set some balloons adrift in the wind with the apparent intention of frightening the American people. The balloons can be launched with enough range and accuracy to hit a continent, but that is about the limit of their effectiveness.

Now, however, Tokyo says bigger balloons, piloted by one-man suicide crews, will soon descend on the United States in great numbers. It has earmarks of stories Berlin formerly issued in such profusion as to the dire effects of secret weapons which were to be launched momentarily to wipe out the non-Nazi world.

The main impression these Jap balloons have made in this country is to convince the American people that with all the blind fanaticism of the Japanese fighter, he is easily fooled by leaders who are themselves as easily fooled by their own lust for power. Balloons in the wind have only intensified the American people's ambition to whip the Japanese as thoroughly and quickly as possible.

The Navy's Great Record

THE United States Navy performed a marvelous feat in escorting ships across the Atlantic during the European war.

A Washington dispatch, which announced that merchant ships in non-combat areas are sailing fully lighted and without naval escorts, carried the information that during the war in Europe the United States Navy escorted 16,760 ships across the Atlantic in 3,552 escort trips. It reported that in the same period only fifteen ships sailing in convoy were lost to German submarines.

The problem of estimating the percentage of escorted ships lost can be left to any bright school child. Most adults will be satisfied with the figures as they are: Only 15 lost out of 16,760.

The protection which the Navy provided trans-Atlantic vessels was made necessary by a grave submarine menace. The Germans had been experts in submarine warfare in the first World war and had the advantage of considerable improvements in submarine construction in World War II. It is a great tribute to the efficiency of the United States Navy that it kept convoy losses so low despite the U-boat peril.

Some Relief In Housing

EASING of restrictions which have retarded construction of dwellings should serve two purposes. A token distribution of priorities required for home building announced by the National Housing agency is a hopeful sign, as is raising from $200 to $1,000 the amount an individual may spend on repairs or construction without priorities.

When house-building is again permitted on a normal scale, employment will be provided for artisans who otherwise might be idle, and there will be a beginning in meeting the needs of persons seeking homes through purchase or on a rental basis.

Removal of restrictions will revive one of the nation's most important industries. Present conditions under which families that have rented houses are forced to vacate and buy housing accommodations at greatly inflated prices will not be eased immediately, but there is hope that they will not continue to become worse.

Agriculture seems to be coming back into its own as an important pursuit. An excellent place now for a young man to find his place in the sun is between plow handles.

"A crow can count up to seven," says a naturalist. With respect to understanding mathematics, this puts the crow on a par with the average New Dealer.

Fairy tale: "My husband won't even look at another woman."

The One Minute Sermon

This is my commandment, That ye love one another, as I have loved you. Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends.—John 15: 12, 13.

I

MY father was a doctor and proud of his calling, but he liked to fancy himself a businessman as well. The secret of good bargaining, he used to assure us, lay in detecting latent possibilities. So, in making his rounds in our little Maine village, he was forever spotting something—a woodlot, a blueberry pasture, once even a chalk pond—and hurrying off to buy it before anyone could get ahead of him. The rush was quite unnecessary, for he seldom had a competitor and, once the property was his, never an insistent buyer. But this did not deter him.

Late one March afternoon in the year 1909 my mother and I were alone in the sitting room, waiting for him to come home from his office. She was sewing and at the same time helping me with my arithmetic.

"If five times two is ten, then five must go into ten twice. Can't you see that, Lucy?" she said.

"Yes, Mama." But I couldn't, quite.

My mother was a very handsome woman. She had thick, chestnut hair, which she twisted into a Figure Eight, and dark eyes with heavy brows and lashes. Her figure was slight and trim. "Surely these three big girls can't belong to you," strangers often protested when they met her. We girls used to get a little tired of hearing it. But not my father. He beamed as though every time were the first. As though it were a compliment to him, really. My mother herself had no vanity, nor did she allow us girls to develop any. "If you behave as well as you look," she used to say. Though she had a way of not finishing some of her sentences, she always made her meaning clear.

"Then if five times three is fifteen," she went on.

"Here's Papa." I said, grateful for the interruption. "He's coming up the driveway." He wasn't wearing any gloves, I noticed, and his overcoat was unbuttoned.

Ordinarily my father had no patience with people who exposed themselves.

* * *

I FROWNED smugly, catching his eye. But he didn't seem to get my meaning. He came right on through the stormhouse and into the entry. "I heard some news today," he said.

"What was it?" my mother asked looking up. News was rare in our village, especially at this season.

"The American House is for sale," he told her. "The whole place, fully equipped, for $1500." The American House was the village hotel. It had been closed for almost two years.

"Oh," my mother said, looking disappointed. She had obviously hoped for something more. That, a patient had paid a bill in cash, maybe. "I can't imagine who would buy it," she went on. "If ever there was an eyesore."

The American House was a monstrosity. Built of frame and painted a bilious yellow, it rose bluntly above our low, gabled dwellings. The front was bad enough. This had a covered piazza, shading the lower floor like a visor; then three rows of windows, looking bare and shameless without any blinds; then a roof, like a high forehead. But viewed from any other angle the place was a geometric nightmare.

"Eyesore!" my father protested from the doorway. "Why, it's a first class bargain."

My mother gave him a quick glance. "No one in town knows the first thing about running a hotel," she said.

"All it takes is a little efficiency," he assured her, turning to hang up his coat.

A red spot had appeared on each of my mother's cheeks. "You look tired," she said. "Your practice is getting more than you can handle."

He crossed the room, touched me lightly on the head in passing, and sat down in the wicker rocker by the window. It crackled under his weight. "Oh, I'm not so busy," he answered lightly.

* * *

MY mother put down her sewing. "That place needs a lot of repair, inside and out," she said. "Anyone who bought it would have to lay out a good deal of money."

"I've got $2500," he told her.

I looked closely at my mother. Her cheeks were flaming, but she spoke without losing her composure. "It's every cent you have in the world," she reminded him. "As long as it is in the bank . . ." She had begun to sew again, and her needle was flying.

"What's the good of idle money when you can invest it at 10 per cent?" he demanded. Actually money meant nothing to him. He never carried more than a handful of change.

My mother sighed. The chalk pond had been mad enough and the woodlot that had turned out to be 20 miles from a highway. But a hotel. That hotel. . . . "If any place ever had a history," she said.

My father must have been remembering that. "We wouldn't even have to go inside it," he promised. "I know where I can get a manager on a co-operative basis. With him there the place would run itself."

My mother frowned over her stitches. "It isn't just its reputation," she said. "It's the prospects. No one has ever made a go of it since the mines closed."

"Maybe no one has made a go of it," he granted. "But times have changed. Think of the tourist trade. The road from the Junction is going to be graveled, and by summer automobiles will be coming through here every day."

Our nearest city was the Junction, 15 miles to the east. Two trains passed through it every day. Its sidewalks were paved and its streets were lighted with gas. It had a hotel and two drugstores. The Court House was there, and the County Jail. You could often see as many as five automobiles on its streets at the same time, some bearing banners of cities as remote as 40 miles.

"With that new road, we'd have more business than we could possibly handle," he continued. "Why, it's a sure thing."

She sighed again. She was beaten and she knew it. "I suppose you will go ahead," she told him. "But I am not going to have anything to do with any hotel," she added with a vehemence that was not native to her. "That one, of all places."

Insects Damaging Victory Gardens

Jason Gordon, Lubbock county agent, has said that Lubbock county is fast becoming infested with bugs and insects hitting victory gardens.

Gordon has been receiving from four to five phone calls daily during the week complaining particularly of plant aphids, or lice. Tomatoes are suffering most from the small black, or green louse-like, insects.

The county agent recommended spraying with nicotine sulphate or dusting with this combined with hydrated lime. Rotenone mixture is also a means of combatting the bugs. He said plants should be covered thoroughly with spray or dust with special attention going to the lower surface of leaves.

Other bugs to watch for are Squash bug, stink bug, cabbage bug, cabbage worm, cut worm, cucumber beetle, blister beetle, vegetable weevil, potato beetle, flea beetle and tomato fruit worms.

Attempt To Assault 70-Year-Old Alleged

HOUSTON, June 14 (U.P.)—Police held a 31-year-old man here today for an alleged attempt to assault a 70-year-old woman.

The elderly woman told police the man forced his way into her home, tried to make her drink whiskey from a bottle he carried, and attempted to assault her.

She managed to free herself and flee to a neighbor's house, she said.

One hundred and twenty-two million pigs were raised in the United States in 1943, almost double the prewar average.

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

WE ARE keeping our car in the proverbial New England "old red barn," which is very picturesque, of course, but more than a hundred feet away from the house.

So when we come home at night we very often stumble in the dark and often pretty nearly break our necks, with the result that I finally decided to have a floodlight installed with switches both in the garage and in the house.

"If I were you, I'd wait," my wife said when I told her about the contemplated installation, which will be rather expensive. "I just read about a new invention that's coming out right after the war. It's an 'electric eye' — no wires at all, you just drive in and the electric eye automatically turns on the light."

Well, my wife isn't the only one who expects an entirely new world of gadgets and conveniences after the war.

A friend of ours wanted to buy a deep-freezer. His wife said no. Right after the war there would be deep freezers that are just like refrigerators, with compartments and everything.

Another friend needs a vacuum cleaner. She heard that vacuum cleaners would soon be manufactured again. "But that isn't the kind I want," she said. "I'm going to wait until the cordless cleaners and the cordless irons come out."

* * *

And so it goes. Everybody is going to wait for that wonderful new invention. The magazines are full of it, aren't they? And every night on the radio you hear a beer advertiser describe the wonders of the post-war world—"but you can have our beer right now."

Well, I called up the president of our electric light company. I thought he'd surely be acquainted with what is going on in his line.

"Surely there will be many new things," he said. "But it will be years before the great majority of them will be available to the public."

"There still is a war to be won. And then there will be retooling and reemployment and research and experiments—a long, long way from mass production.

"If I were you I'd have my floodlight put in right now—otherwise you'll have many a chance to break your neck before you get light."

* * *

THE electrician is going to work on that floodlight next week.

And as soon as the war is over we'll buy what we need.

Fortunately I'm still strong enough to push a button, and if I had told my grandmother thirty years ago that some day she'd be able to hear a symphony concert right in her living room by just turning a dial, she would have had my mother send me to a psychiatrist.

Oh yes, the light company president also told me that this waiting for all the new things might be very bad for business—the business we all need so badly when business starts up again.

Coal Europe's Worst Shortage

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

SHAEF's economic and military experts have submitted an informal report to Washington on living conditions in Western Europe, especially the area which will be under American control. It does not minimize the difficulties of complete and long-time restoration. The coal shortage is acute but the food problem is not so black as it has been painted.

The people of France are, relatively, in much better state than inhabitants of other liberated countries and Germany, save for the larger cities utterly dependent on rail and water transportation for their everyday supplies. Western and southern sections were freed early enough so that 1945 crops were planted by the old men, women and children.

TUCKER

Their comparatively primitive and communal system of agricultural economy, under which each small town is ringed with farms and gardens, has enabled them to assure a sizable store of vegetables, dairy products and grains for late Summer or early Fall.

American authorities are returning released prisoners of war and slave labor to their homes as rapidly as possible. They are hauled to the borders of their native provinces, and then are told to make the rest of the way afoot. We have impressed sorely needed vehicles in this movement to prevent the refugees from looting land now under cultivation.

The remigration, however, has been slowed by the need for setting up safeguards against catastrophic spread of diseases such as typhus. There has been an epidemic in parts of Germany, and all returning Frenchmen are inspected and deloused before they are permitted to cross the Rhine. It is one of the greatest quarantine undertakings in the history of the human race, and medical facilities and personnel are lacking even for our own men on their way home or to Japan.

* * *

MAGIC: American observers were amazed at the number of cattle and other livestock in France, which was supposed to have been stripped bare by the Nazi invaders. Part of our future domestic meat shortage was predicated on the belief that the U. S. would have to ship vast amounts of meat to this area.

The Gallic explanation is that the peasants drove their animals — cows, pigs, chickens etc.— underground. They also hid many other necessaries for everyday sustenance — bicycles, motorcycles, carts, barrows and small farm implements.

As soon as the Germans were driven out, these things emerged as if by magic from caves, copses, artificial chimney spaces. Fish will be more plentiful as a result of the cessation of bombing, artillery fire and other war disturbances.

Paris and other centers which depend on the canal and rail networks for their edibles are suffering severely. Bombed arteries and bridges have isolated them from the rural districts. Almost the only traffic moving these days are U. S. Army trucks. But our soldiers and the liberated French are repairing the lines and throwing up steel Bailey bridges as fast as they can.

Coal is another vital need. Parisians may shiver again next Winter. The lack of this commodity will also delay operation of numerous small factories that survived Anglo-American strafing. Unlike what was done to Germany, only a few of the great metropolitan areas were totally destroyed.

Incidentally, the story in Belgium and Holland parallels that of France.

* * *

MISERY: The Reich, however, will be a land of hunger, cold and wretchedness for at least another year unless our late enemy gets great help from America. The Germans may have a diet of not even 1,000 calories a day, which is barely sufficient for survival.

As of today, the Nazis in cities and towns appear well-fed and healthy, although broken in spirit. Hitler supplied them generously for military and industrial reasons, and he could afford to. He had his own stock piles and the stolen food of conquered countries as a vast reserve. But these are now exhausted because of our liberation of these lands and the ring of steel forged by the Allied armies around the Reich for more than a year.

Scarcely a large city can be called alive. On the other hand, the villages and farms have been barely touched. It is as if New York and Philadelphia had been leveled while most of the small localities in New Jersey had survived. The last months of the conflict reduced the Reich to the primeval status recommended by Henry Morgenthau, jr.—a country of farms, chicken coops and ruins.

The Teutons are working with characteristic patience and industriousness. Feminine members of families set to replanting even while the shells and bombs were falling in the next field. But our investigators doubt whether they can escape illness, misery and death without vast assistance from their conquerors. And whether England and Russia, which will control the larger area of Germany, can provide sustenance is a grave question.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

WITH Summer arriving next week, it may appear unseasonable to ring the alarm about coal.

Yet we are in the midst of the worst global famine of our generation; it will affect every home and factory bin in America long before cold weather.

"Coal is the most critically short mineral in the world today," General Koenig told a New York businessman after a survey for SHAEF, "and will be for one or two years."

LEMAN

"Coal is the key to economic recovery in Europe," announced Dagget Howard, administrative executive of the U. S. rehabilitation mission just landed in Manhattan. "Its scarcity is a serious threat to the peace of the world."

If you don't order your supply now, when your dealer has a chance to make deliveries, your family may suffer next Fall and Winter because the government will be forced to tap our reserves to keep the Continent from freezing and from economic stagnation. Otherwise revolutions may break out overseas.

* * *

WARNING: Let's first look at our own situation. Latest statistics show that our bituminous stock pile has dropped to the lowest level since July 1, 1941.

Hard coal production, according to Anthracite Industries, Inc., New York, is 6,000,000 tons greater than its annual output prior to the war. But there is an acute shortage because this source was drained to replace coke, oil and woodburning. Distribution was snarled by a Winter five per cent colder than usual. John L. Lewis's miners went on strike.

Solid Fuels Administrator Ickes cautions that declining production of both hard and soft coal makes it imperative for household and commercial buyers to start storing at once. Use of both kinds is limited to 80 per cent of normal; previously the quota was 87½ per cent.

Conservation measures that can be taken now are: Give your heating system a thorough cleaning; as little as one-eighth of an inch deposit of fly ash or soot can add 10 per cent to your coal bill. Weather-strip your doors and windows. Do a thorough job of insulation if possible. File your consumer declaration with your retailer immediately.

* * *

EMBITTERED: Some conception of the world fuel emergency may be obtained from the latest information brought to the Bituminous Coal Institute in New York by experts from Europe:

Almost all the troubles abroad — economic, social and political — can be traced directly to the coal famine. French women are wearing thrice-patched garments; the bins of textile mills are empty. Belgian health declines; there is no coal for pasteurizing milk.

It won't be many years before those who are living from hand to mouth during this wartime prosperity will be asking for handouts.

O'Mahoney Seeks Probe Of Federal Board

Surplus Property Row Brewing

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Rumblings in Congress over the Surplus Property board and its apparent inability to get going on its big job of disposing of billions of dollars worth of war surpluses of all sorts are about to explode.

As a starter, Senator O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) is opening an investigation into the policies and program of the board. He summoned its members, its chief counsel, and its administrative officer for a hearing Thursday before the war surplus subcommittee of the Senate Military Affairs committee.

STOKES

The House Military Affairs committee has been investigating the board's affairs for a month, with hearings planned later.

Simultaneously with ordering the investigation, the Senate Military Affairs committee postponed action on the nomination of the newly appointed member of the three-man board, W. Stuart Symington, of St. Louis, for an inquiry into his business activities in connection with Vehicular Parking, Ltd.

* * *

Federal Suit Recalled

This is a separate, but complicating factor, in the troubled affairs of the board.

Mr. Symington was appointed by President Truman to succeed former Sen. Guy M. Gillette (D., Iowa), who resigned because of his dissatisfaction with the board's policies. His resignation directed attention to the board's difficulties.

Action on the Symington nomination was deferred at the suggestion of Senator O'Mahoney, inveterate foe of monopoly. He pointed out to the committee the anti-trust conviction by a Delaware federal court of Vehicular Parking Ltd., on charges of monopoly and restraint of trade in the manufacture, distribution and sale of parking meters, parts, services and accessories.

* * *

THE suit was brought in 1942. Mr. Symington, who has resigned in September 1938, as president of Vehicular Parking, Ltd. and Kar-Park Corp. was not a party to the suit, but his part in organizing Vehicular and in creating a patent pool to keep out competition was described in detail in the court's order. Letters in which he has very frank about the pool arrangement and its purposes were put in evidence. One carried the injunction "kindly destroy this letter." It spoke about the ignorance of another person involved in the proceeding "of the great importance of masking the Vehicular development."

The court said of Vehicular Parking Ltd., that "though empowered by the State of Delaware," it "has not since its inception manufactured or sold any product faintly resembling parking meters; and as far as the court can see has no facilities for research or development of such devices. Bluntly, it is a patent holding company."

* * *

Monopoly Is Formed

Describing the formation of the company in 1936 the court said that Mr. Symington and Vernon L. Taylor and John Howard Joynt, two defendants in the case, "formulated a plan to secure domination over the parking meter industry, then in its infancy. Defendant Joynt recommended the acquisition of a number of competing patents since patents could be used to advantage in discouraging competition.) They agreed that the acquisition of patents would enable them to present 'an impressive array' and 'bluff' their competitors.

"Symington and Defendants Joynt and Taylor planned to regulate the parking meter industry by inducing only 'reputable' manufacturers of parking meters or manufacturers 'with patent positions' to take licenses under patents which these defendants and Symington planned to acquire. These licenses were to fix uniform prices, terms and conditions of sale. All other manufacturers were to be refused licenses."

Subsequently various other parking meter companies were brought or forced into the monopoly.

* * *

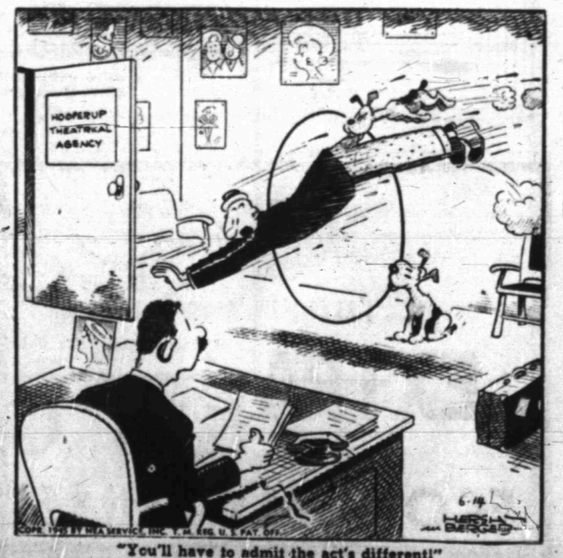

ANOTHER company with which Mr. Symington formerly was connected, Emerson Electric Co., was investigated by the House Military Affairs committee a couple of years ago in connection with war contracts, but no report was ever made. The committee seemed satisfied with Mr. Symington's testimony and dropped the inquiry.

The board originally appointed by the late President Roosevelt was criticized for its political complexion. Two of its members, former Gov. Robert A. Hurley of Connecticut and Col. Edward H. Heller of California, who are still members were questioned about a Connecticut war contract matter by the Senate Military Affairs committee. They were approved by the committee but their confirmation was opposed by some senators.

There were indications that the current investigations into the Surplus Property board and its policies will be extensive and some important changes in policy may result. Substitution of a single administrator for the three-man board was among proposals being discussed.

The American slang word "thug" comes from a confederacy of professionad assassins who in the early 19th century, strangling and robbing wayfarers.

Extension Of Price Control Asked By Spokesmen Of Two Farm Groups

By DOROTHY WILLIAMS
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 14. — Spokesmen for two of the nation's largest farm groups today generally commended the Office of Price Administration and urged extension of the price control act without crippling amendments.

Testifying before the House banking committee, Russell Smith, legislative counsel of the National Farmers union, called for passage "without substantial amendment."

Fear Not Justified

The nation has failed to mobilize its agricultural resources as efficiently as its industrial resources, but the American food supply is not low enough to justify fear, Smith said.

He added that food conditions did not rule out the possibility of meeting "at least a large part of our commitments to our Allies and to liberated areas."

Albert S. Goss, master of the National Grange, asked the group to write in certain policy guides "to aid the return to normal conditions."

Goss urged particularly that maximum prices be adjusted so that any independent enterprise might operate in the black.

His recommendation would, in effect, apply the Senate-approved amendment of Democratic Senate Leader Alben W. Barkley, Ky., to all production.

Barkley's amendment would adjust price ceilings to give the packing industry as a whole profits on beef, hogs and sheep, separately, rather than on overall packing as at present.

To illustrate his argument, Goss said that in the brick and tile industry, the brick manufacturers depend on their tile production profits to offset their losses on brick. Businesses confined to producing bricks were forced into bankruptcy by ceilings below costs, he said.

"I would put in the law the policy to be followed and then I would add that this means what it says," Goss said.

"You can't put them (the OPA) in a legal straitjacket," Chairman Brent Spence, D., Ky., said. "You can't put a definite course of action in the law."

Earlier, Rep. Jesse Wolcott, R., Mich., predicted that the House would cut in half the one-year extension of OPA voted by the senate.

Lower Sugar Limit Suggested By OPA

Lubbock district OPO office has suggested, due to the scarcity of sugar, that all war price and rationing boards in this district only issue five pounds of canning sugar per person.

In a letter to all the boards, W. G. Williams, district rationing executive and Joe H. Brown, food rationing officer, reminded board officials that they must stay within their monthly sugar quotas. A five-pound allotment was suggested as the maximum per person. District officials said they believed all boards would follow that plan.

Sugar certificates for 15 pounds per person which have already been issued have not been declared invalid. Applicants, who received the 15 pound maximum prior to this week, may cash them in when and if they find the sugar, officials said.

In compliance with the district suggestion, the Lubbock County War Price and rationing board is issuing only five pounds per person, George Wilson, chief clerk, said. The board resumed issuance of canning sugar certificates Monday after a one-week moratorium on processing applications.

The canning allotment was suggested by the district OPA in order that all applicants will get a fair share.
