Government Admits Creating Gasoline Problems

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government says it — not the oil companies — was responsible for creating a situation that forced millions of Americans to wait in gasoline lines this spring.

A Department of Energy spokesman said Sunday his department's investigation found the oil companies did not hoard supplies to create the shortage and increase profits, as some critics charged.

"DOE has not found evidence of hoarding of oil by refiners, but some refiners have been conservative in their use of stocks," the report said. "This conservatism appears to be due in large part to their pessimistic views about future availability of oil imports."

The government's desire to keep prices down and the complex system under which gasoline is allocated to service stations helped create the lines, which began in California in May and spread east.

The report, which spokesman Jim Bishop said has been delivered to the White House and will be released this week, said DOE would continue to look into why crude oil stocks were higher in some refineries in May than January.

The Department of Justice, asked to look at possible antitrust violations, has not made a final report, but preliminary indications are no such violations were found.

The energy report said by May the United States was importing 800,000 barrels of oil a day less than it needed. A decrease in inventories available compared to a year before was responsible.

The report said government pressure on refiners not to buy large amounts of oil on the spot market, which helps increase world oil prices, was one reason for the shortage.

The price controls and allocation system were a major reason for the problem, because they were based on the historical use of fuel by specific stations.

"A historical demand base period cannot reflect the most recent changes in demand for gasoline," it said. "Any allocation system is likely to be ineffective in responding quickly to continuing changes in demand."

The allocation system gave some middlemen more gasoline than they needed and it was eventually resold to refiners, who then distributed it. The transfers "may have contributed to delays in moving gasoline from refiners to motorists."

The report also said there were indications farmers and emergency vehicle operators given priority status had abused that privilege. It also said changes to update the allocation formula may have just added to delays in getting gasoline to the pumps.

Scheduled Narcotics Trials Off

By KAY BELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Trials scheduled for this morning for five persons indicted by a federal grand jury in June on cocaine-trafficking charges were removed from U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward's docket after the defendants reached agreements this weekend with the U.S. attorney's office.

Assistant U.S. Attorney David Bass said his office had negotiated with the defendants and their attorneys but that he is "not at liberty to discuss plea bargaining arrangements at this time."

Three defendants — Steven Hoyle Moss of 3102 40th St., Joe Leonard of Austin and former Lubbock waitress Suzanne Smith, who now is living in Austin — were to have gone on trial this morning on charges of transporting cocaine from Austin for sale in Lubbock.

Moss also is charged with possession of cocaine in that indictment handed down by an 18-member federal grand jury June 7.

Following disposition of that case, Stephen Zane Hall of 4602 50th St., No. 134, was to be tried on two counts of possession of cocaine with intent to distribute.

The third trial scheduled for this week was to have involved Moss, Hall and Ted Simmons of McLean, who are accused of conspiring to distribute the narcotics.

Bass said the cases were removed from Woodward's docket because "all defendants in the first three cases decided to plead guilty to felony charges."

However, attorneys for some of the defendants said that Bass' "guilty plea" description was not completely accurate.

The attorneys indicated that some of the defendants have reached plea bargaining arrangements that involve entering pleas in state court in exchange for the dismissal of federal charges. And at least one of the defendants reportedly will enter a nolo contendere plea to the federal accusations.

Bass this morning refused comment on whether any of the arrangements involve the naming of other persons or whether the federal grand jury, which is empaneled through February, will reconvene to consider additional drug-related indictments.

Disposition of the five defendants' cases is expected to be completed by the end of August.

Two more drug trials prompted by the June grand jury's indictments are set on Woodward's Sept. 10 docket.

On June 25, 12 defendants pleaded innocent to conspiracy to distribute cocaine brought to Lubbock from Ruidoso, N.M.

OIL THREATENS BEACHES — Officials say that the oil slick from the runaway Mexican well still is a few miles away from the Texas coast, but try to tell that to Irving schoolteacher Beverly Horton, who found oil smudges on the bottom of her foot after a stroll Sunday on South Padre Island. The worst is yet to come, conservationists fear. (AP Laserphoto)

Big Oil Slick May Defeat Gulf Efforts

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — Scientists trying to track an oil spill stretching from near the Texas coast to a runaway well 500 miles to the south said today they fear some of the oil may be moving below the surface of the water — as deep as 40 feet.

"Unfortunately, we don't have the capability to handle what may be coming below the surface," said Coast Guard Capt. Roger Madson, who commands a U.S. task force of more than 150 scientists and engineers defending the Texas coast against the oncoming oil.

The latest reconnaissance flights showed the leading edge of the Mexican spill had slowed its northward drift on the surface and was still eight miles south of Texas' southernmost point.

Oceanographers stuck to their predictions that the oil would land on Texas beaches Tuesday. No effort was being made to keep the oil off the fine-grain sandy beaches of South Padre Island, where officials said it would be relatively easy to clean.

The Coast Guard launched long rubberized barriers in the water just north of the international border Sunday to protect wildlife in inland coastal waters, but Madson said the floating fences, which extend two feet underwater, would stop only surface oil.

Divers aboard a University of Texas vessel reported tiny globs of thick oil as deep as 40 feet in the gulf. Madson called the reports "distressing to say the least."

The divers continued their study to determine the extent of the sub-surface oil.

"We don't have a good feel as to how much oil is moving in that sub-surface region," Madson said. He said a large quantity of submerged oil might require a system to back up the more than 1,500 feet of barriers now in place at the Brazos-Santiago Pass.

Madson said he is considering quarter-inch mesh net to stretch across inlets below the surface to catch the submerged tar balls. He said studies will have to be made to determine the effect such nets would have on marine life.

Roger Meacham of the Environmental Protection Agency said scientists were sticking to earlier predictions that the goo could wash ashore on Texas beaches by Tuesday.

Sticky globs of the thick crude have been washing up on Mexican beaches for the past week, landing farther north each day. But so far none of the Mexican oil has entered U.S. territory, according to Carl Posey of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

A few tar balls were spotted on South Padre Island Sunday, but officials said it is a common occurrence. Nevertheless, the samples were recovered for scientific analysis to determine if they are part of the Mexican oil.

Coast Guardsmen on Sunday directed the installation of floating barriers aimed at protecting environmentally-sensitive inland waters. Madson said the floating fences were in place in the mouth of the Brazos Santiago Pass, a 1,-200-wide entrance to the Laguna Madre and Brownsville ship channel. The channel, however, remained open to ship traffic.

Another boom was used to seal off South Bay, just south of Laguna Madre. The bay is rich in oysters, according to officials.

Skimming equipment, used to corral oil and pump it onto a barge, was also in the water and ready for use, Madson said.

The captain said officials are still discussing a variety of plans concerning protection of the coast and inland waters.

Swiss Officers Hold Hijackers Of Plane

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Three Spanish Foreign Legion deserters who hijacked a Spanish jetliner in the Canary Islands ordered the plane down at Geneva airport today and peacefully surrendered to Swiss authorities, ending a 24-hour hopscotch journey over Western Europe and Africa.

The armed legionnaires' lone hostages at the end were the three crew members of the Iberia Airlines DC-9. The hijack trio — two Frenchmen and a Chilean — had released their nine other hostages earlier today at Lisbon's Portela Airport, before flying on to Geneva.

The hijackers said they wanted asylum. Several countries had refused to allow them to land in their territory before the Swiss finally agreed.

An aviation official in Bern, the Swiss capital, said the plane would be allowed to land if the pilot requested permission to do so. But he said the hijackers — two Frenchmen and a Chilean — would be "considered air pirates, arrested and tried in Swiss courts."

Before taking off from Lisbon, the legionnaires released nine hostages, including three children and three airplane cleaners caught aboard the jet when it was commandeered Sunday in the Canaries, Spanish islands off the northwest coast of Africa.

The three hijackers, identified as Frenchmen Nol Seijen,29, and Jean Lyschin, 25, and Chilean Sergio Munoz Cadaval, 22, said they wanted to get out of the Foreign Legion and asked France to let them go there. But the French government turned them down.

"We are not terrorists. We are deserters from the Spanish Foreign Legion. We are ready to hand over our weapons, and we want to land in France," one of the trio said.

Japan also had a brief hijack alert today when the pilot of a Pakistani airliner accidentally hit a button that sent out an automatic hijack alarm while flying over southern Japan. The plane was en route to Peking and Karachi, Pakistan, with 131 persons aboard and landed on schedule in the Chinese capital.

Panel Backs Tax Change

The High Plains Underground Water Conservation District will affiliate with the taxing appraisal district in each county of its jurisdiction upon implementation of countywide appraisal districts, the district board of managers decided today.

The board also considered providing water depletion data for landowners to be used in determining the agricultural use value of land as required by House Bill 1060 passed by the state legislature this year.

As a step in preparing to establish a uniform countywide appraisal district in Texas counties, the board was required to decide whether the water district would affiliate with one, all or some counties in its jurisdiction.

Quake Rocks Vast Area Of Northern California

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The strongest earthquake in two decades jolted a large section of northern California today, breaking some windows, knocking out telephone service in places and shaking San Francisco's skyscrapers.

No injuries were immediately reported.

The quake was felt as far away as Sacramento, 90 miles to the east, and San Jose, about 50 miles to the south.

The National Earthquake Information Center in Golden, Colo., estimated the magnitude at 5.7 on the Richter scale — capable of causing serious damage. The University of California Seismographic Station in Berkeley estimated the intensity at 5.5 Richter.

The Berkeley lab put the epicenter of the quake near the town of Gilroy, about 80 miles south of San Francisco along the famed San Andreas Fault.

The tremor shook highrise buildings in two rolling jolts, which were felt as separate rocking motions within a 30-second period.

"It was the strongest one I've felt in 10 years living in San Francisco," said Mike Pechner, a radio reporter who was at the Civic Center when the earthquake struck.

"I could see the lightpost going, oscillating, probably about six to eight inches. ... I don't see any signs of damage looking out at the street."

The city's BART subway system, Bay Area Rapid Transit, was shut down for one minute for a computer check. Trains then resumed routes at 20 mph instead of 80 mph while engineers made visual checks of the tracks.

"It sounded like an explosion — a sharp jolt with a loud explosive type noise," said Susan Ager at the San Jose Mercury-News. "It rolled like a small boat in heavy seas. It was scary. Everyone in the news room just gasped. Things were rattling but nothing broke."

At the Vallejo Times-Herald about 30 miles north of San Francisco, water sloshed out of containers and some items toppled from desk tops.

In the Associated Press bureau on the third floor of a building near City Hall, the floor rocked like the deck of a tossing ship.

Crater Tip Proves False

NEW YORK (AP) — Detective Edward Gannon thought he had a solid tip when a caller said Judge Joseph Force Crater, one of America's most famous missing persons, was having a drink in a Queens bar last week.

CRATER

"We almost passed out when we walked in," Gannon said. "Sitting at the bar was a guy dressed just like Crater in the wanted pictures."

The man turned out to be a retired detective playing a prank, but the strange case of Crater's disappearance continues to intrigue.

Crater, a Manhattan Supreme Court judge, was last seen Aug. 6, 1930, on a midtown street where he said goodnight to a showgirl and stepped into a taxi.

The investigation is continuing, and more than 16,000 telephone tips have been received by New York police on Crater's whereabouts. He was declared legally dead in 1937. Callers have reported seeing Crater as a prospector in California, a steamship passenger in the Adriatic and a bingo operator in Africa.

Crowd Greets Talmadge

ALPHARETTA, Ga. (AP) — "It's nice to be out of Washington. As you know, I've had some troubles up there," Sen. Herman Talmadge told several hundred families gathered here.

TALMADGE

The Georgia Democrat, whose financial affairs have been the subject of a Senate Ethics Committee investigation, Saturday was beginning a month-long campaign swing through Georgia for his 1980 re-election bid.

The committee held 27 days of hearings into charges that Talmadge violated Senate rules by converting campaign contributions to his own use and overstating claims for official Senate expenses. The committee will make a final decision next month.

Talmadge denies any wrongdoing, and said "those high-priced lawyers in Washington" would like to have the inquiry "run on until Gabriel blows his horn."

Pope Talks To Ex-Drug Addicts

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — Pope John Paul II chatted with former drug addicts and consoled the parents of drug victims as he concelebrated Mass with priests working in rehabilitation centers.

Some 150 youths who kicked drug habits also joined the open-air Mass on Sunday in the gardens of the papal summer palace. At one point, the pope wiped tears from the face of an elderly woman whose son died from an overdose of heroin.

Later at the noon blessing, the pope paid tribute to Pope Paul VI, who died here on Aug. 6, 1978.

"You, the people in Castel Gandolfo, who shared the last moments of the great and beloved Pope Paul, surely recall that he had guided us with such great force of faith despite painful physical conditions in his last days," John Paul told nearly 6,000 faithful and tourists.

Police Pet Policy Proposed

BOSTON (AP) — Dog owners who may face $50 fines for failing to clean up their pets' waste say it is only fair that mounted policemen do the same for their horses.

The Lighter Side Of Today's News

"If my two dogs are hurting the environment, OK, I'll clean up after them if I have to. But the damage they do isn't anything compared to what only one horse leaves on the street," said Genevieve Smithling of Boston's Brighton section.

She was one of several people who telephoned the Boston Herald American to complain about equine leftovers after the paper announced the "pooper scooper" proposal.

Americans Clip Coupons To Cut Grocery Costs

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Coupon clipping has become a way of life for millions of Americans trying to cut grocery bills.

They no longer are satisfied with a dime here and a nickel there. They concentrate on trying to turn the small change into big savings.

There are coupon newsletters to help clippers keep up with manufacturers' promotions and coupon clubs whose members swap cents-off offers. Bargain-hunting shoppers watch for double and triple coupon offers when a 20-cent coupon can mean a saving of 40 or even 60 cents.

Almost 80 percent of all families save coupons, according to government reports. The A.C. Nielsen Co. says an estimated 73 billion manufacturers' coupons were distributed in 1978, up 17 percent from 1977. About one coupon in 20 was redeemed, the company says.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture says 55 percent of all manufacturers' coupons appear in newspapers. Magazines account for 15 percent and Sunday supplements for 17 percent, the USDA says. The rest of the coupons are included in direct-mail promotions or are packed with a product.

(Note: The figures on manufacturers' coupons do not include the offers made by local supermarkets and other retailers.)

The double and triple coupon trend started several years ago in the Midwest as retailers sought to lure customers' from competitors. It died out after a brief period but has been revived recently in the New York metropolitan area and in parts of New England.

Some supermarket operators dislike the premium promotions. They say that as soon as one store in a region starts offering double or triple value on coupons, the others follow suit. Whatever competitive edge results from the initial offer disappears quickly.

Store managers also note that the extra savings comes out of the retailer's budget; manufacturers reimburse the supermarkets only for the face value of the coupons, plus handling charges. "In the long term, shoppers may pay for that flurry of couponing in some other area," said a spokesman for a Massachusetts-based chain.

Getting the most out of coupons takes time and energy.

Start by checking newspaper and magazine advertisements and store shelves for coupon and refund offers. Clip and file all coupons, according to category and expiration date. Weed out the files periodically.

Plan your shopping around the coupons. Suppose, for example, you find a newspaper coupon offering 20 cents off on a 79-cent roll of paper towels — this week only. It makes sense to buy the towels now, even if you won't need them for several weeks.

It does not make sense, however, to buy a product you will never use just because you happen to have a coupon for it. Think twice before you take advantage of a coupon to try a new product. Do you really need — or even want — the item?

Try to combine manufacturers' coupons with local specials. Suppose your local store offers a free head of lettuce with every purchase of two bottles of a particular salad dressing. Assuming you like and would ordinarily use the salad dressing being featured, check your coupon files. You may be able to get not only the free lettuce, but also a refund on the salad dressing.

Check for strings attached to coupons. Is there a minimum purchase required? Will you wind up buying things you don't want so you spend enough to reach the minimum?

Keep track of regular prices so you can tell which items are a genuine bargain; a special display does not always mean a special price. If you visit a particular store because of a coupon offer, make sure you don't end up paying more than usual for non-sale items.

And compare house and national brands. Even with a coupon, the national brand may be more expensive. If there is no difference in quality, it pays to ignore the coupon and buy the house brand.

Prices Of Key Items Go Up 18.6 Percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Food and medical costs rose more slowly in this year's second quarter than in 1978. But they were offset by energy prices rising at a 64 percent annual rate, seven times above last year's pace, the National Center for Economic Alternatives reports.

The liberal-leaning think tank also reports that housing prices in the second quarter rose at a 15.9 percent annual rate, 38 percent above last year's pace and 11 percent faster than the first quarter.

The four general items rose at an annual, seasonally adjusted rate of 18.6 percent in the second quarter, while all other consumer items rose 5.3 percent, the group reported.

New Thermostat Rules Could Cause More Deaths

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hot enough for you?

That summertime platitude is taking on added meaning this year with President Carter's new energy-saving temperature rules for commercial buildings. But for many people summer heat is more than uncomfortable, it is deadly.

In a normal year about 175 Americans succumb to the heat, according to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, but in severe years, such as 1936, the toll can top a thousand.

"And these are the direct casualties. No one can know how many deaths are advanced by heat-wave weather — how many diseased or aging hearts surrender that under better conditions would have continued functioning," reflected NOAA's Carl A. Posey.

While statisticians can show that summertime is a period of low death rates compared to winter, an intense heat wave can change this radically.

For example, William Hodge of the National Climatic Center studied the national death rate, day by day, for 1975.

The northeastern states experienced a severe heat wave in the first four days of August that year, and the national death toll climbed too, with 1,500 to 2,000 more people dying in that period than would have been expected.

Strangely, said Hodge, "this catastrophe of some 1,500 deaths has been taken largely as a matter of course."

"One theory of such catastrophes states that, in a population as large as the United States, there is always a group of seriously ill people. Heat waves, it is surmised, hasten terminal cases. Other victims, however, might survive for appreciable periods except for such weather extremes," according to Hodge.

A study of deaths in a New York City heat wave in 1966 by NOAA and the Environmental Protection Agency showed that the death rate more than doubled a day after the maximum temperature of 103 was reached.

There were more deaths from cancer, stroke and heart disease as well as pneumonia; it almost looked like an epidemic.

In one three-day period, for example, the cancer death toll rose from 43 to 96 per day while heart failures jumped from 88 to 230 a day.

Old timers in the Middle West still talk about the summer of 1901, when there were more than 9,500 heat-related deaths. The cruel years of the 1930s that created the Dust Bowl also took a tragic toll.

Dr. Herbert M. Austin of NOAA has reported that heart disease emergencies increase by as much as 20 percent in heat waves.

Austin has written that maximum nighttime temperatures may be even more important that the searing daytime highs. During the night the body recuperates, and high heat then may prevent it from establishing its heat balance.

The human body strives to maintain a steady internal temperature of 98.6 degrees Fahrenheit. When the body's temperature rises above this level, the heart begins pumping more blood, blood vessels dilate to carry the extra load and the blood circulates closer to the skin surface to allow heat to escape into the air.

In addition, the sweat glands are activated, pouring moisture onto the skin to cool by evaporation.

But, particularly east of the Rockies, rising temperatures are usually accompanied by rising humidity. This humidity retards evaporation, interfering with the body's cooling attempts.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Try not to be overly insistent upon having everything done your way tomorrow. Being dictatorial will awaken the ire of persons whose cooperation you may need.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Instead of doing things the easy way tomorrow, you may add unnecessary steps that could cause you problems. Don't make your work tougher than it really is.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You can't be all things to all people, so your best course is to just be yourself. Any pretense will backfire.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Conditions may not be as harmonious at home tomorrow as you'd like them to be. You may see the culprit when you look in the mirror.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec.21) Before you act impulsively on your bright ideas tomorrow, study them a bit further to be sure they are feasible or you could go off on a tangent.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be a bit more protective than usual of your own resources tomorrow, as well as of those which you manage for others. Carelessness could prove costly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) There's a chance you may find yourself in a position tomorrow where you'll be pitted against strong opposition. A compromise could avoid a conflict.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There is only so much that you can do or that others can expect from you. Think carefully before volunteering to take on more than you can handle

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Friends could cause you complications tomorrow if you permit yourself to be drawn into petty situations. Playing politics with pals is a no-no.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It's essential that your goals be very clear-cut tomorrow and that you don't try to do more than you can sensibly accomplish. Too many targets make for a confused marksman.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Should you start challenging others' views tomorrow, be prepared to have your own concepts attacked. Avoid exchanges which could lead to pointless debates.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Take no outlandish risks financially or businesswise tomorrow. If you're dubious about any deals, stall for time to study them further.

Cheap Cooling, Heating System Installed By Minnesota Man

DALTON, Minn. (AP) — Paul Hansel is something of a tinkerer, so when the energy crunch came he used some pipe, aluminum, wood and a fan to fashion a dirt-cheap system to keep him cool in summer and warm in winter.

The principle of his contraption is simple: no matter how hot or cold the wind blows above ground, the temperature remains a steady 55-60 degrees below.

Run the air through the ground and into your house, Hansel reasoned, and you'll be cooler in summer and warmer in winter — and save money.

Even in 90-degree heat, when the air makes its way through 500 feet of pipe Hansel laid 8 feet under the surface, it comes up a cool 62 degrees.

"All I know is it's just super comfortable in here," the 47-year-old farm equipment salesman said Sunday from his home on the flatlands of western Minnesota.

Hansel figures his Earth-Air Re-entry System does the work of a large air conditioner. But he is more interested in cold-weather benefits — a projected 25 percent savings in heating costs.

"My thought is that it's nice to be cool in the summertime, but it really doesn't cost you anything to sweat," Hansel said. "But if I can save some money on my heating bills in the winter, that's what I'd really like."

Hansel, who got the idea for his jerry-built system while working on some kitchen pipes, says his house never gets warmer than 79 degrees.

Temperature control is only one advantage, he added. As the air is cooled underground, the moisture it carries condenses and drips through holes in the drainage pipe into the soil.

Hansel won't give an exact figure on what his system cost to build, but he will say he couldn't have bought an air conditioner for the same price.

If he had opted for the conventional cooling system, he says, "It would have done nothing but cost me money to keep it running."

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

People Not Nukes Unsafe

NUCLEAR ENERGY is safe if the people who produce it know their jobs and do their work with a fair degree of competence.

That's the essence of a staff report by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission investigating the near-accident at Three Mile Island in Pennsylvania.

If workers had allowed the safety equipment to function as it was designed to do, the investigators reported, there would have been no melt-down and no real emergency at the nuclear power plant.

They also found that a redesign of some of the equipment would be helpful in preventing future alarms at nuclear generating plants.

THOSE WHO ALWAYS have contended that nuclear energy is safe are vindicated in a way by the staff findings.

On the other hand, those who worry about the possibility of a nuclear disaster destroying an entire city can point to the "human error" factor as proof that they have been right all along.

On balance, the findings are encouraging; very definitely so.

They show that existing technology is capable of producing nuclear power plentifully and safely.

The Three Mile Island plant's design, equipment, accident analyses and emergency procedures "were adequate to have prevented the serious consequences of the accident if they had been permitted to function or be carried out as planned," the report concluded.

"PERHAPS THE MOST disturbing result of the...investigation is confirmation of earlier conclusions that the accident could have been prevented in spite of" about three dozen possible violations of federal operating rules and radiation protection limits, the chief NRC inspector added.

In other words, despite an incredible series of mistakes, the equipment still was safe enough to prevent any real disaster.

The lesson to be learned from Three Mile Island, then, is that the United States should proceed with the development of all the nuclear energy it can use—but that it should make certain the people who work in the plants are qualified, conscientious and know they aren't fooling around with firecrackers.

You can say that about drivers of cars. Or buggies.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Kenneth May

Mahon: 'Danger'

GEORGE MAHON. Remember him? Used to be in Congress. For 44 years. Represented Lubbock. Chairman of House Committee on Appropriations. Retired in January. Good guy. Very influential lawmaker.

He's worried about the future of America.

"This is a very dangerous and difficult time in our history," he says, ticking off the military threat of the Soviet Union, our dependence on foreign oil and inflation as being extremely hazardous to our well-being.

"We are a spoiled nation," he adds.

I reached Mahon at his suburban Washington home. Mrs. Mahon, who answered the 'phone, said he was sitting in the sun going through some of the papers he's donating to the Southwest Collection here.

"I'm just as busy as I ever was," he boomed. "I'm on the budget committee of the Smithsonian Institution...I get so many calls...a lot of correspondence...played nine holes of golf yesterday...be 79 on Sept. 22..."

BUT HE TALKED about what he's doing personally only with a little prodding at the end of the conversation.

After the opening courtesies, he waded right into his concerns about the nation:

"I just re-read Henry Kissinger's statement about Salt II...I've been to the White House...Repudiating it would be against the best interests of the United States."

But Mahon, one of the most knowledgeable men in the country about the comparative military strengths of the U.S. and the Soviet Union, would link ratification of the arms limitation treaty with increased defense spending.

Unless we do so, he says, "there is a time in the 1980s when they'd have a strategic advantage...If the Senate is to approve the treaty, Congress has to pledge itself to accelerate defense systems, like the MX missile or a substitute, like the Trident submarine or a substitute..."

"IF WE DO HAVE World War III," Mahon adds, "the attack will be not upon our cities but against our missile sites."

In that connection, he doubts that fertile farmland like that on the South Plains would be taken for missile sites.

Then he turned to the energy question. He thinks the oil companies should be given a freer hand, and more encouragement, to find and produce more energy.

"It's a very dangerous situation to be in to have the OPEC countries providing us with 50 percent of our oil," Mahon says. "We are subject to blackmail any day by certain countries."

He thinks a standby gasoline rationing plan is mostly to impress the American people about the hazards we face. He thinks a windfall profits tax on oil companies must be tailored to encourage them to reinvest profits in finding more energy.

"THE MEDIA ARE always saying profits went up 40, 50 or 60 percent but they don't say what the profits were. If you have a 1 percent profit and it goes up 100 percent, you have a 2 percent profit," Mahon points out.

Inflation?

"If you were a dictator, you could just stop some of these expensive programs that are of marginal value, but you've got to keep the people happy...

"But if we could move toward a balanced budget, if the American people could believe we were going to do it, it would give a shot in the arm to business and industry...

"But then people would say you're not doing enough about the environment, health, etc. We need to somehow stiffen our resolve to do something about inflation before we can do anything about it."

PRESIDENT CARTER, Mahon says, "would have done better to fire his staff and gotten some more sophisticated people to deal with Congress rather than fire his Cabinet."

At this point, though, he thinks—without discounting "the Kennedy boom"—that Carter is likely to be renominated. He thinks Ronald Reagan will fade in the stretch and that John Connally may surge to the forefront.

"You can pick flaws with any candidate in comparison with the perfect opponent," he says of Carter, "but there are no ideal opponents on either side of the fence."

Mahon deplores the party's "drift to the left" but will back the Democratic nominee, whoever he is, "as I've always done, with varying degrees of fervor."

AND WHAT DOES Mahon think about Hamilton Jordan, the President's chief of staff?

"Mr. Jordan?," he echoes. "I've never met him. If he had been somebody else other than Mr. Jordan, he would have been in my office many times since I was, after all, chairman of Appropriations.

"He (Jordan) is a kind of peculiar fellow. He helped the President get elected. The President needs another kind to help him be President."

Take it from a man who dealt directly and closely with Presidents and their aides for 44 years.

Holmes Alexander:

War And Peace--By efinition

WASHINGTON—That deep sigh of relief from Heaven Above, where God loves America, was occasioned by certain recent events which deserve to be enumerated.

Not the least of these is the Senate's steadily mounting skepticism against ratifying SALT II, a phrase which has come to mean America II, or the United States in second place.

To hear and study the testimony of the star witnesses to date—the Secretaries of State and Defense, the Joint Chiefs of Staff—is to comprehend the doubts which have accumulated about the once-sacrosanct disarmament pact that was intended to produce "essential equivalence" between the American and Soviet superpowers.

NO LONGER DO the civilian and military spokesmen for the Carter administration so much as hint that SALT is writ in the mother's milk of peace.

Brown, Vance and the Pentagon Brass have all acknowledged the Senate's right to amend or reject the treaty—and that is what the Senate is going to do.

This is a turnabout from the past attitude that to offend President Carter or Soviet Russia would be unseemly and downright dangerous. But the President has lost caste by weakness and Russia has lost authoritativeness by its arrogance in seeming to dictate to the Senate.

If the upper chamber is forcefully led to the fore, a meek vote to ratify would show the white feather.

The U.S. has done a lot of right and wrong. But it was not cowardly when Wilson had the world's opinion behind him for the League of Nations, or when F. D. Roosevelt at the apex of popularity demanded a packing of the Supreme Court.

IF WE HAVE a second SALT agreement, and we may have none, it will be more Senate than White House.

Another reason for joy in Heaven is the unmasking of Jimmy Carter. Halfway through his term, we discover Carter's election was less than a compliment to the American people and its republican form of government.

Why we believed this cornpone when he promised to balance the budget, miniaturize government, reduce our foreign garrisons is painful to explain.

We should have rebounded from the afflictions of bum leadership and elevated a true chieftain.

But the Lord loved us enough to chasten the country with only 30-odd months of Carter, and to buttress him with a wife who seems a better man than Jimmy.

Divine intervention will be incomplete, however, until we are blessed with a leader—and a popular understanding that disarmament treaties are not passports to peace.

In much of the testimony before the Senate we hear it said that SALT II, leading into SALT III after 1985, means a gradual reduction of arms and tensions.

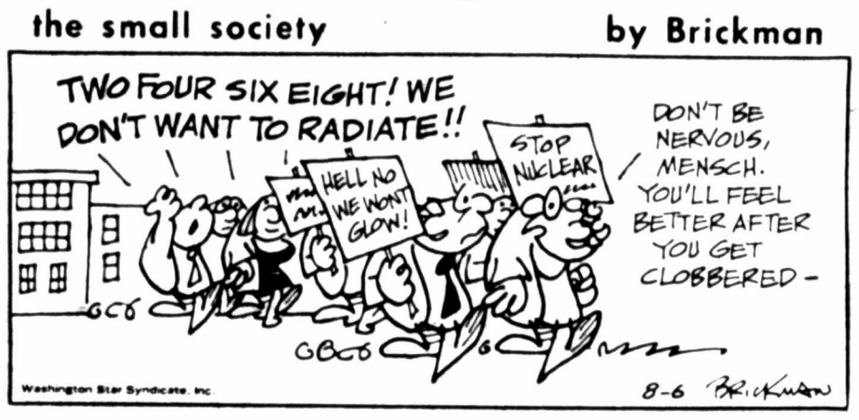

But what could most helpfull grow out of the extended debate is a revised definition of peace.

Though I have little hope that it could happen, I believe that a Senate amendment to, or outright rejection of, SALT II should order a standstill of Communist aggression on all continents.

If there is a strong will in both the U.S. and the USSR to limit nuclear weapons, then there is no better time than now to give a new definition to war.

The definition should aptly fit what is going on wherever communist weapons are in the hands of communist surrogates.

Sylvia Porter:

'Too Good To Be True' Trust May Be Just That

(First of two columns)

WASHINGTON—Wouldn't you listen eagerly if you were told how you could slash or even wipe out your personal income taxes?

Wouldn't you at least be attentive to a salesperson with impressive credentials who promised you that with a little time and effort, you could preserve your hard-earned income from an ever-growing tax bite?

The technique relies on a legal instrument as time-tested as our system of law: the trust.

The world's wealthiest families have long used the trust to conserve and accumulate their assets—and now the promoters say it can work for you and your family, too.

AND THE BEST part of the procedure, they claim, is that despite its best efforts, the Internal Revenue Service has been unable to find any valid arguments against using these trusts to reduce or eliminate your tax bill.

NOT TRUE!

Contrary to the sales pitch, the IRS contends that family estate type trusts clearly violate the law, and the Tax Court has consistently backed the IRS, says Mary A. Mead, a tax partner of Seidman & Seidman, the national accounting firm.

The claims of the marketing organizations promoting the family estate type trust concept are attracting increasing numbers of taxpayers as inflation and prosperity among specific occupations push more and more Americans into higher income tax brackets.

WHILE THE CONCEPT was developed back in the 1930s, there has been a recent resurgence in its popularity.

The trusts are marketed under several names, among them: "Family Estate (A Trust)"; "pure trust"; "pure equity trust"; "educational trust"; "constitutional trust."

Behind them are such high-sounding organizations as Educational Scientific Publishers, the Institute of Individual Religious Studies, the National Pure Trust Service.

While the individual products may vary slightly, the basic idea is for you, the taxpayer, to establish a trust and transfer to the trust all your real and personal property.

YOU, THE INCOME-earner (physician, salesperson, etc.) also (and this is the key to the scheme) give the trust the exclusive right to your services and remuneration. You, the transferor, get back certificates of beneficial interest in the trust.

Once all of your assets and income are shifted to the trust, the trust (rather than the individual) is supposed to be the taxpaying entity.

Since the trust legally owns all the assets transferred to it, it pays all the expenses of managing the assets.

The product sold by the promoters is NOT the trust itself, but an educational course to teach you how to establish the trust—at a cost ranging from $1,750 up, depending on your gross income and net worth.

The sales pitch primarily emphasizes the income tax savings.

OTHER BENEFITS—avoidance of probate, elimination of the need for malpractice insurance, reduction in estate and inheritance taxes, the like—are cited, too, by the promoter.

It is obviously an intriguing sales pitch—but any taxpayer who has naively followed the promoter's claims that by merely creating a separate taxable entity, an individual can avoid personal taxes has learned it isn't that easy—not by a long, long shot.

Tomorrow: IRS Strongly Opposes Family Estate Type Trusts, and How Courts Have Viewed These Arrangements.

Carter Tokenism Gone Bananas

WASHINGTON—Fourteen days have passed since the Great Upheaval of 1979. The dust has settled; the President has reconstituted his Cabinet; it was all good fun while it lasted.

But to look back upon July's headlines is to recall Macbeth's soliloquy. Life, said the doomed laird, is "a tale told by an idiot, full of sound and fury, signifying nothing."

What we have experienced, and about all we have experienced, is a media event. This is a term of journalistic art. A planned demonstration, as distinguished from a spontaneous demonstration, is a media event.

The staged dressing-room fracas of two boxers is a media event. If the media were not around, such events would not occur.

THERE IS A nice irony in all this. Carter has developed a truly Nixonian animosity toward the press in recent months, but from the moment he canceled his scheduled July 5 address, he has manipulated the media, held us hostage and made us work for him.

His unexplained cancellation set off shock waves, precisely as his advisers anticipated. What followed was pure hype, the gaudy stuff of press agentry in the grand school—the helicoptered parade of advisers to Camp David, the sudden visits to Common People in Pittsburgh and Martinsburg, the descent from the mountain.

The Sunday night address attracted double the audience Carter might have drawn otherwise.

Let us give credit where credit is due: This has been image making in the classic pattern. Repeating the Nixonian scenario, a "New Carter" has emerged, clenching his fists, growling and pawing. Was he criticized for being indecisive?

Carter would make his critics grovel. Overnight he became the Man of Action, demanding resignations, firing members of his Cabinet, naming swift replacements, furiously sounding forth on the virtues of his reorganizaion. What, one wonders, does he do for an encore?

IT IS AN overstatement to remark that the Great Upheaval signifies nothing. Political accountants can enter some apparent gains on the President's ledger.

He has elevated a black woman, Patricia Harris; he has appeased fretful Catholics with the nominations of Moon Landrieu to Housing and Urban Development and Benjamin Civiletti to be attorney general.

He has wooed the business community with his nominees to Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board.

He has made other gestures to the West and to the South. Several of his new people are in fact outstanding, but the effect, overall, is that the new faces came from Central Casting.

This is tokenism gone bananas; it is the politics of Look What I've Done for You Lately.

IN POLITICAL life, as in the theater, so much depends upon timing. The President waited either too long, or not long enough.

By timing his Great Upheaval for late July, just as Congress was about to take its longest recess of the session, Carter guaranteed a fizzled reaction. He begged the people to write their congressmen, but the congressmen have scattered to the four winds.

He wanted action on his proposals for windfall profits, standby rationing authority and an Energy Mobilization Board. But even if his specific proposals were the noblest works ever struck off by the hand and mind of man, he could not have rushed them through this wary, belligerent Congress.

From the very beginning of his administration, Carter's most formidable problems have stemmed from his own lack of experience in federal procedures.

HIS THREE MOST intimate advisers—Rosalynn Carter, Hamilton Jordan and Jody Powell—came to town as innocent as he.

The past 30 months have helped, but 30 months are not enough, not when the time is passed in resisting the capital instead of embracing it. Carter and his entourage, now the quintessential insiders, remain outsiders still.

My thought is that Carter has taken his earthquake capacity and blown it. Every President has such a capacity, but it has to be used sparingly.

One cannot erupt in Great Upheavals every day—not if one wants to retain those other elements of presidential image: stability, dignity, steadfastness, unflappability.

Great Upheavals demand greatness; Ham Jordan's puerile evaluation forms were the stuff of which farce is contrived. And once an upheaval has subsided, some change in the landscape must be perceived.

It all looks pretty much the same to me. Life in this sultry city has resumed its petty pace from day to day. For the time being at least, our leading player, strutting and fretting, has had his hour upon the stage.

Auto Dealer To Give Testimony Against Reputed Mafia Leader

LODI, Calif. (UPI) — Auto dealer Lewis E. "Lou" Peters packs a gun and wears a bulletproof vest.

It isn't part of any job.

Peters is under government protection until he can testify about the $40 million of underworld money he says was to be pumped into the Lodi-Stockton area, presumably through the "family", of retired New York Mafia chieftain Joseph "Joe Bananas" Bonnano Sr.

"What a lot of people don't realize is how close I got to the family," says Peters, who is to testify for the government when Bonanno, goes on trial Oct. 1 for conspiracy and perjury in San Jose, Calif.

Peters, 47, said in an interview that as much as $40 million of underworld money was to be funneled into the Lodi-Stockton area of San Joaquin County as "investments," the nature of which will be clear when he testifies.

"They were going to come into Lodi with all these investments," Peters said. "I have children in the community, and when you have that kind of investment coming out of the mob, you are going to have dope more than we have now, prostitution, racketeering and extortion and everything else.

"I think Lodi and Stockton is a fine area, a nice community, and I was damned if I wanted to see those people in Lodi," he said.

Peters, the father of three, says he went undercover for the FBI in 1977 after he was approached by representatives of the Bonanno family who wanted to buy his Pontiac-Cadillac dealership in Lodi.

According to court records filed by a narcotics Strike Force in Pima County, Ariz., Peters was approached by Lodi contractor Elmer Bertsch, with an offer to buy the dealership for an unidentified buyer.

When Peters said he wasn't interested, Bertsch reportedly told him the buyer was Bonnano's son, Salvatore "Bill" Bonnano.

Peters later was told the Bonannos intended to set up car dealerships and leasing agencies throughout Central California and in Vallejo and that they wanted Peters as their general manager.

Both of Bonanno's sons, Salvatore and Joseph Bonanno Jr., are in prison for probation violations.

Atlanta Grapples With Murder Rate

ATLANTA (UPI)— There have been 140 homicides in Atlanta so far this year — only three short of the entire number for 1978 — prompting growing concern among residents of the city which six years ago was the "murder capital" of the United States.

The Chamber of Commerce admits that the city, one of the nation's leading convention centers, is in a "critical" period, but insists the problems are no different than those experienced by any other metropolis.

Despite the soaring murder rate, it is still far below the record-setting pace of 1973 when Atlanta recorded 263 homicides.

But the undermanned police department, where sour race relations have plunged morale to an all-time low, now faces a possible strike if patrolmen do not get a substantial pay raise.

The situation became so bad last aeek that a group of disgruntled policemen almost succeeded in erectng a giant billboard along an apporach to the city warning visitos to enter Atlanta at "their own risk" because the police were "undermanned, underequipped and underpaid."

To aggravate the problem, the depertment has been unable to fill some 100 vacanies because of a pending discrimination suit.

Atlanta's once-booming economy, although still healthier than in most cities, has slowed. This in turn has led to an increase in unemployment, especially among inner-city blacks.

Expert Jeweler Warns Buyers

By MARY TOBIN

NEW YORK (UPI) — There are lots of "bargains" for investors in gems and jewelry, but a jeweler whose family has been in the gem business for 92 years says the buyer should beware.

Frank H. Maier, president of the American Gem Society, and head of a family-owned chain of jewelry stores in the Atlanta area, said many of the people who are advertising investment quality gems at bargain basement prices "probably weren't in business two years ago and won't be in business two years from now."

"It's inconceivable to me that anyone would make an investment of any size with someone they don't know or know nothing about," Maier said. "The adage that there's no such thing as a free lunch certainly holds true in the gem industry."

Maier, shown a recent national advertisement for one carat emeralds and diamonds for $5, said "these people are obviously trying to build a mailing list, and the stones might be worth slightly more than $5. But they certainly aren't investment quality gems."

Maier pointed out, for example, that a "very good" quality one-carat emerald sells for between $4,000 and $10,000 depending on color, flaws and cut, while the finest quality emerald that size would bring over $25,000. The same criteria and price range holds true for dianonds, he said.

There are many reasons that people buy gems, and Maier thinks the most important one should be that one "buys a beautiful item that will last and that stands a good chance of appreciating in price." A car or clothing, or even a house will wear out, but a really fine piece of jewelry will last forever, he said.

Maier said the historical reason, of course, is that gems and jewelry are a "portable store of value for those who must escape political or economic turmoil in their own countries."

A classic example is the Jews who fled Germany and German-occupied Europe during the late 1930s and early '40s, Maier said, but the scenario was the same in Cuba and Vietnam.

"Most who escaped had to leave everything behind, but the refugees who were able to bring out valuable gems or jewelry were better able to start their lives over," Maier said.

An affable Southerner whose jeweler grandfather was born "almost in the middle," of a Civil War battle, Maier is beginning a two-year term as head of the American Gem Society.

National Smile Week Gets Under Way Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — National Smile Week starts today. So turn that Monday frown upside down. Smile faintly, broadly, fleetingly or, if nothing else, enigmatically — as does Mona Lisa in what may be the world's most famous painting.

Now there's a smile. Experts still argue over it. One critic saw in it the mysticism of the Middle Ages. A doctor's diagnosis was bad teeth. Sigmund Freud said the artist had reproduced the smile of his own mother.

Visitors muse daily before Leonardo Da Vinci's masterpiece at the Louvre art gallery in Paris.

Presidents smile a lot, but not like Mona Lisa. That includes such famous smilers as Jimmy Carter, Franklin D. Roosevelt and John F. Kennedy. Among Republicans, Dwight D. Eisenhower's grin won wide renown as did Theodore Roosevelt's toothy trademark.

Earlier chief executives, however, kept their lips unparted before photographers and painters. They figured serious expressions were more fitting, and besides, the profession of dentistry had a long way to go in the 1800s.

New Author Leads Busy Lifestyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Evelyn Konrad could be a character in one of her own novels.

She is the author of the recently published "Indiscretions." She is the wife of a busy New York City businessman and the mother of four children. She has completed all the course work and examinations for a Ph.D. at the New York Graduate School of Business. And, since 1960 she has been the head of her own management consulting firm.

"I think the more different things you do, the better you feel, but if you're constantly doing the same thing, that's hard," Mrs. Konrad said with a smile. "I cannot be without activity. I did a new business presentation the day of the night my older girl was born."

Mrs. Konrad was born in Vienna and lived in 10 European countries before settling in the United States. She speaks German, French and Italian fluently and "can get along in a number of other languages."

She started her own company, Evelyn Konrad Associates, because she wanted to be in corporate public relations. "Nobody would give me a job. Corporate PR, not for a girl, they'd say.

"I talked to one guy and he asked me what accounts I had. I told him that if I had any accounts, I wouldn't need a job, but that if he hired me, I knew I could get the accounts for him.

"Then I thought, gee, why am I going to do this for him? So I had a big announcement in the newspapers about being in business and the day it came out, I got my first account," she explained.

She said her business had gradually shifted from corporate public relations to management consulting. Today, her firm works mainly in the financial and other service fields on strategies to increase profits for corporations. One of her firm's specialties is developing new markets overseas.

Mrs. Konrad had her first short story published in Seventeen magazine when she was 18 years old. She has written hundreds of business articles for magazines such as Fortune and Business Horizons, but hadn't considered writing a novel until an agent promised she'd sell it.

Her first novel, "Indiscretions," is the story of a brilliant and beautiful Wall Street executive named Francesca Currey. Her second novel is to be published in 1980.

Mrs. Konrad says that when she works on a novel, she writes during the early morning hours, then goes to her office. After office hours, she either goes to school or does volunteer work. She says her husband is equally busy, "but we do, generally, at least, three, four, or five times a week, have dinner together at 7:30."

Mrs. Konrad has no recipes for success. "I think we all have dimensions and many abilities and we can develop them," she says.

She avoids the "dress for success" prescriptions but believes in the fine points of diplomacy and self-assertion for women who want to enjoy the success she has.

"What you do," she said, "is to find out what qualifications are needed for a job and you go out and get them. You've go to have skills. You need training and you need to knock on a lot of doors.

"Success comes when you know your material, know your stuff, understand the needs of the people you're dealing with, and present it wisely and well," she said.

OLD TREES

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — One of the oldest trees in Czechoslovakia is an oak in south Moravia which experts say is over 1,000 years old. They say another oak in Oslavicka is over 600 years old and that four men have difficulty clasping hands around its trunk.

Congress Enacts Fewer Measures

WASTINGTON (UPI) — "Congress has been suffering from legislative indigestion," Senate Republican leader Howard Baker says of the decline in congressional activity this year.

From the very beginning, members of the 96th Congress have reflected a perceived trend of conservatism among the voters, and have dubbed this "The Year of Oversight" — meaning Congress would examine current programs, not rush to adopt new ones.

By the time both houses went off on their August vacation last week, members had introduced and passed one-third fewer measures and got half as many enacted into law than at a comparable stage in the last Congress.

By the end of July, members had introduced 36 percent less legislation and met 12 percent fewer hours than their predecessors during the same prod.

The Senate was in session 21 percent fewer hours, but the House, with its more structured procedures and the decision to allow its activities to be televised, spent only 9 percent less time in session.

The comparisons were made using figures compiled by the Congressional Record.

When it came to making laws, the figures were even more disparate. In 1977, the first year of the 95th, there was a Democratic president to go with a Democratic Congress — or vice versa — for the first time in eight years.

This year, the administration has had its political misfortunes, and members of Congress — many of whom ran better in their districts than Carter did in 1976 — were more apt to deny his legislative requests.

In the first seven months of 1977, both houses passed 846 bills and resolutions — not necessarily the same ones. This year, they passed 631 — a 34 percent drop.

Last Cabinet Confirmations May Require More Time

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Confirmation of President Carter's last two Cabinet nominees is expected to take longer than the first five resulting from his recent Cabinet purge, but no opposition has surfaced yet to either nan.

Only three votes were cast in the Senate against the five new Cabinet members and the new chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. All six had solid bipartisan backing and raced through the Senate with unusual speed.

President Carter's last two appointments, Moon Landrieu and Neil Goldschmidt, were put off until September when the Senate comes back from a month-long recess.

Landrieu, former mayor of New Orleans, was chosen to be secretary of Housing and Urban Development; Goldschmidt, mayor of Portland, Ore., was picked as transportation secretary.

Unlike the six others, Landrieu and Goldschmidt never have been investigated by Senate committees and their confirmation process is expected to take longer. However, no opposition has surfaced yet to either man.

Nominees approved by the Senate are:

—Patricia Roberts Harris, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, succeeding Joseph Califano. She was sworn in Friday.

—Charles Duncan, secretary of energy, replacing James Schlesinger.

—William Miller, secretary of the treasury, succeeding Michael Blumenthal.

—Benjamin Civiletti, attorney general replacing Griffin Bell.

—Paul Volcker, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, succeeding Miller.

—Graham Claytor, deputy defense secretary, replacing Duncan.

Harris and Claytor, the first two confirmed, were approved by voice vote without dissent. Normally the Senate acts on Cabinet appointments with a record vote even without opposition.

Volcker, possibly the most popular choice among Carter's appointments, was confirmed 98-0. Miller was approved 97-1, Duncan 95-1, and Civiletti 94-1.

Sen. William Proxmire, DWis., cast the dissenting votes against Duncan and Miller. He said Duncan, former president of the Coca Cola Co., lacked the expertise and experience to take over the Energy Department.

Presidential Hopefuls To Visit Key States

WASHINGTON (UPI) — While other members of Congress are vacationing, junketing or tending to politics at home, five Republican lawmakers from faraway places will spend a good deal of the August recess in New England.

The attraction of New England is obvious: it holds the first presidential primaries next winter.

New Hampshire hosts the first primary in February, and Massachusetts and Connecticut follow in March. Illinois and Florida also have early primaries.

Sens. Howard Baker of Tennessee, Robert Dole of Kansas and Larry Pressler of South Dakota and Reps. Philip Crane and John Anderson of Illinois are either actively running for the GOP presidential nomination or are on the verge.

These five are seeking any early advantage in the presidential process that begins in earnest with a straw poll in Florida next month.

Baker, the Senate Republican leader considered the strongest candidate among those on Capitol Hill, will be home only five days this month.

He will visit Missouri, Illinois, Iowa, Florida, Puerto Rico, Atlanta and New Hampshire for three straight days; then on to New York, Connecticut, North and South Carolina, New Orleans, Boston, Philadelphia, Minneapolis, South Dakota, Chicago, Portland, Ore., Seattle, Los Angeles and Denver.

Crane is combning campaigning with a family vacation. He makes a three-day, 11-city swing through Iowa this week and then travels to Florida. Later in the month he, his wife and eight children will pile into a camper and visit relatives in New Jersey before serious campaigning in Maine, Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire.

Anderson will concentrate on his home state of Illinois and neighboring Wisconsin, plus New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

Dole will visit New Hampshire three times and Iowa once, and make stops in Alabama, California, Colorado, Florida, Illinois, Massachusetts, New York, Oregon and Texas.

Pressler, whose friends are promoting a presidential candidacy against all odds, will be traveling with a possible 1980 campaign in mind.

Although he will spend much of the recess sounding out South Dakotans about whether he should run, Pressler also will visit New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

His first stop, however, would be the envy of any presidential candidate hoping to win votes in heavily Roman Catholic New England. As part of a Senate junket to Europe, Pressler has an audience Wednesday with Pope John Paul II.

Solons Stress Equity Of Gas Allotments

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Many House members who switched and voted in favor of a new gasoline rationing authority, stress President Carter must heed the new bill's emphasis on equity of gasoline allotments.

Last week's vote is much less than a blanket go-ahead to the president to draw up any rationing plan, several members said in interviews.

Rep. Barbara Mikulski, D-Md., changed her vote but not her position, an aide said.

"She is for a standby plan, but the plan the president had was unfair," the aide said. "She got an amendment in the new bill that would have officials consider making allocations on the basis of licensed drivers."

Rep. Richard Shelby, D-Ala., said the bill "is much improved over what came up earlier" in May.

"But remember, we were not voting this time on a rationing plan, but on authority to design one," Shelby said.

The House rejected Carter's coupon-type standby rationing plan May 10. The main objections were to the system of figuring allotments based on the recent consumption of an area, and the fact coupons would go out on the basis of auto registrations rather than drivers' licenses.

The rationing authority approved Wednesday would streamline current law: the president could draw up a plan and Congress could attempt to reject it only when the president actually ordered it into effect.

But the bill was laden with amendments and the White House promptly announced it was unacceptable to the president, terming it "ill-advised, unworkable and unenforceable."

Hiroshima Remembered During Protest, Silence

By The Associated Press

Americans recalled the grim memory of the first nuclear bomb attack with protests and arrests as relatives of victims paused in silence in Hiroshima, Japan, today — the 34th anniversary of the city's destruction during World War II.

Many of the U.S. protests were aimed at ending commercial, peacetime uses of nuclear power, but in Hiroshima delegates from 22 nations marked the anniversary with a call to outlaw all nuclear arms.

More than 30,000 persons attended ceremonies in Hiroshima, where the atomic bomb was first used in wartime on Aug. 6, 1945. In drizzling rain, they observed a minute of silence at 8:15 a.m., the time the bomb was dropped.

Then Mayor Takeshi Araki told the crowd, "We are faced with the urgent need to solve the problems of atomic-bomb victims and those exposed to atomic radiation as an issue of international proportions."

The names of 2,080 more victims of the U.S. bombing, including 24 Koreans, were added to a scroll on the cenotaph in Peace Park, built as a memorial to the disaster. The scroll lists 95,685 known victims.

The western Japanese seaport city was virtually wiped out. Another 6,000 persons were killed in an attack on Nagasaki three days later, and thousands more died in the following months from the effects of radiation.

The 1979 World Conference Against Hydrogen and Atomic Bombs opened Sunday, and the 12,000 delegates called for a total ban on nuclear arms and relief measures for an estimated 400,000 survivors of the 1945 bombings.

A U.S. Navy cook was arrested today in Montville, Conn., during a protest of about 30 persons at United Nuclear Corp. Philip Sipp, assigned to the submarine USS Narwhal, carried a sign saying "Submarines make war, not peace." Sipp said he has been trying to leave the Navy and get conscientious objector status.

Protesters held a prayer vigil and handed out leaflets at the gates of the Savannah River Plant near Aiken, S.C., today. Observers said it was the first time since the plant was constructed 25 years ago that it was the target of an anti-nuclear demonstration. The plant makes nuclear warheads.

Most of the U.S. demonstrations on Sunday were peaceful. But more than 200 persons were arrested at the Indian Point nuclear facility in Buchanan, N.Y., 40 miles north of New York City.

About 100 of the 4,000 demonstrators staged a "die-in," lying down in front of the gate to commemorate the Hiroshima bombing.

In other U.S. demonstrations:

—A candlelight vigil outside an Aerojet Corp. facility at Sacramento, Calif., early today commemorated the Hiroshima anniversary. Aerojet is a rocket-making defense contractor.

—A "Hiroshima Weekend" vigil and rally were held at the Naval Weapons Station near Seal Beach, Calif., to protest storage of weapons in a residential area.

—At Seabrook, N.H., site of anti-nuclear power rallies in the past, a small group of demonstrators staged a mock "meltdown" using a 3-foot-high ice sculpture model of the nearby power plant.

LITTLEST PROTESTOR — Joey Schmidt, 2, of Plainfield, N.J., plays with a sign at an anti-nuclear rally in this Salem County community Sunday afternoon. He is the son of Randi and Peter Schmidt. About 2,500 people attended the rally in a dusty bean field not far from the Salem and Hope Creek nuclear stations. (AP Laserphoto)

Auto Workers Back Chrysler's Plea For Federal Assistance

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The United Auto Workers, assuming an active role in efforts to help the financially troubled Chrysler Corp., is backing the automaker's request for federal aid while indicating the company may get a break in contract negotiations.

"We are afraid for Chrysler; specifically we are afraid for the 135,000 families that depend on a Chrysler paycheck to buy groceries and pay the rent," says a top UAW official. "It is too callous to kiss off one-third of the Big Three."

Thus, union president Douglas Fraser is informally lobbying in support of Chrysler's bid for $1 billion in federal aid. For those to whom such a move might seem a federal "bail-out" and therefore unpalatable, he proposes there be public representation on the Chrysler board of directors in exchange for federal help.

"It is after all the citizens' money, so it seems to me that the citizens ought to have representatives on the Chrysler board of directors," he said. Fraser suggests that the government, the union and public interests ought to be represented on the board.

Former Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, interviewed Sunday on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers," said the government should bail out Chrysler only if sacrifices are made by the corporation, its banks, shareholders, insurance companies and workers to avoid a shutdown.

"The difficulties of the Chrysler Corporation, in part, are due to what the government has done — not just this administration, but many administrations for quite a few years — in imposing rules and regulations on them that are not cost effective," Blumenthal said.

Fraser also suggested that the UAW may not hold Chrysler to the contract pattern that will be set this fall at either Ford Motor Co. or General Motors Corp.

"There's no point in blinding ourselves to the reality that this company (Chrysler) cannot now afford to compete on even terms with GM and Ford. It may mean a temperance in our Chrysler contract," Fraser said Sunday following a speech at the Conference on Alternative State and Local Public Policies. "Chrysler workers understand the situation; we understand that we have responsibilities and obligations."

Many conference members, local activists who generally have an anti-corporate political outlook, are skeptical that Chrysler deserves government help. Fraser met the issue directly, contending that Chrysler "is in difficulty, in some measure, because of government regulations — (emission and gasoline mileage) regulations that our union and I myself support."

He said Chrysler cannot meet upcoming emission and gasoline mileage requirements without shaving hundreds of pounds off its cars. This requires massive redesign and retooling and costs hundreds of millions of dollars.

In Washington today, consumer advocate Ralph Nader, asserting that Chrysler was a badly mismanaged corporation, said federal aid would "launch the taxpayer into an endless series of bailouts for big business."

To avoid setting a precedent that would make the government "the guarantor of last resort" for every big business that encounters difficulties, Nader said, such aid should be given only if Chrysler agrees to have government and consumer representatives on its board of directors and agrees to produce a government-designed, energy-saving car.

He was interviewed on NBC-TV's "Today" show.

GM and Ford already have reduced the size of most of their cars and have captured a significant chunk of Chrysler's market. Because Chrysler isn't selling enough cars, Fraser feels it isn't able to finance, on its own, the changes that will make it a viable company in the 1980s.

Toledo Firefighters To Let Blaze Burn

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Firefighters surrounding a flaming storage tank containing 800,000 gallons of gasoline decided today to let the $1 million fire burn itself out.

The fire, touched off by a bolt of lightning Sunday at a Gulf Oil Corp. fuel depot, was still raging this morning with flames shooting 35 to 40 feet into the air.

But Quentin Wallerstedt, a Gulf spokesman, said, "It's burning with a lot less intensity."

"They're letting it burn in a controlled burn," Wallerstedt said. "Right now, that's the best way to go."

He said the wind had shifted direction overnight, easing worries that the fire might spread to a nearby tank.

Gulf officials estimated the loss at $1 million.

Two firemen and a company employee were treated for heat exhaustion at a Toledo hospital.

Charles West was working at a railroad switch tower when he saw lightning arc into the tank at the refinery and depot on the east side of Toledo.

"There was a flash of light, then a big ball of fire," said West, 41, a Norfolk & Western Railway Co. employee.

West said an explosion that followed the lightning bolt rattled the windows in his two-story tower, located about 200 yards from the burning tank.

Refinery manager James Walizer said the tank was one-fourth full and contained about 800,000 gallons of gasoline.

"That is gasoline that would normally be sent through our distribution system to consumers that's gone up in smoke," Walizer said. But he said the blaze will cause "no significant impact" on gas supplies to consumers.

"It's a significant loss, but no one should be able to see that at the pump level," he said.

Ohio Air National Guard personnel and equipment helped Toledo firefighters contain the blaze to the 40-foot tall, 120-foot wide tank, one of 10 in the storage field.

Gulf spokesman Quinten Wallerstedt said the fire's tremendous heat melted the steel tank's sides until they were less than eight feet high.

"There is no way we can put out a fire in a tank that size," Wallerstedt said. "The only real thing we can do is to keep the next tank cooled down and try to contain the fire."

Walizer said the tank was valued at about $200,000, and that total damages could reach $1 million.

Strike May Force Farmers To Dump Crop

By United Press International

Midwestern farmers, pressed for grain storage spots because of a month-long grain millers strike, face the possibility that part of the grain crop will have to be dumped.

Governors in Minnesota, the Dakotas and Nebraska predict multi-million dollar losses if the strike in the twin ports of Duluth, Minn., and Superior, Wis., is not settled soon.

Some 520 grain handlers are on strike at eight elevators in the two ports. The walkout effecively shut down the third largest agricultural port in the nation. Though some grain ships remain in the harbor, most farmers are not sending grain to port and are being forced to resort to ground storage.

An estimated 75 million bushels of Midwestern spring wheat and 45 million bushels of durum wheat went through the ports last year, including about 40 percent of the wheat exported from the United States.

The millers, members of Local 118 of the American Federation of Grain Millers, rejected company offers along presidential guidelines and asked for a 13 percent cost-of-living raise.

Talks between representatives of the union and two elevators last week achieved little, but federal mediator Edward Larson said arrangements were being made for joint bargaining involving five or more of the companies this week.

Larson said that until now the companies have resisted joint negotiations requested by the union.

Gov. Al Quie of Minnesota suggested last week President Carter seek a Taft-Hartley injunction to force workers back to their jobs for an 80-day cooling-off period. But the U.S. Labor Department said it would recommend the president turn down the request, contending the strike does not constitute a national emergency.

But Midwest governors and others see a threat to the nation's economy if the strike continues.

Charles Rhoades, president of the Minnesota Wheat Council, said last week Minnesota farmers may have to dump half their wheat crop because the millers strike has halved normal storage space. Any part of the crop put on the ground will be ruined by rain, insects and rodents, he said.

South Dakota Gov. Bill Janklow contends the strike is severely damaging efforts to transport grain to market. He said his state is being affected primarily by the lack of boxcars that are not being unloaded in Duluth and sent back.

South Dakota farmers have 255 million bushels of grain in storage now, he said.

"During the past two leeks, grain prices paid to farmers have dropped 40 cents per bushel," he said. "This strike is causing million-dollar losses to our farmers and ranchers." North Dakota Gov. Arthur Link said the strike will cost farmers in his state "millions and millions" of dollars.

Dominick Costello, chief on the marketing division of the Nebraska Agriculture Department, said "the big factor is the drop in grain prices."

Meetings To Be Held On Legal Aid

The legal service needs of low-income Lubbock residents will be the subject of several public meetings held this month by West Texas Legal Services.

Robert Chavez, coordinator of priority-setting for the federal agency in Lubbock, said the meeting times and places will be announced soon.

"West Texas Legal Services is required to conduct a formal study to establish its priorities by its parent organization, the Legal Services Administration," Chavez said.

As a non-profit, federally funded corporation providing free legal aid to low-income persons, he said, WTLS will be seeking "input from the people we will be serving. It's an opportunity to tell us what they need for us to provide for them.

Some topics that might be discussed, he said, are civil rights, county welfare, custody, adoption, jail conditions, food stamps, availability of loans, schools, wills, landlord-tenant relations and problems facing handicapped persons.

"These are all problems that everybody faces, but they are worse for poor people because they don't have the necessary information to know that there are agencies that can help them.

"We want their input on what is wrong with the community."

Chavez said WTLS "obviously can't handle all the problems that people have" and must establish priorities on how to allocate its time.

For example, he said, food stamps might be a bigger concern among the low-income public than housing.

He said the agency cannot handle any criminal or traffic cases or cases in which a private attorney would receive a fee generated from the lawsuit.

In addition to the meetings, he said, a number of community service organizations will be contacted for information on the legal needs of the poor.

Corporate Counselor Advises Women On Career Decisions

By CAROL DEEGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Most women probably spend more time making such a minor decision as where to rent an apartment than they do thinking about their careers, says job-counseling specialist Linda Kline.

"Most of us, as women, sort of fall into our work. We don't really sit down and decide very consciously what it is we would like to do, how we would like to go about getting there, and what the things are that we have to do to get into the various companies or the various kinds of jobs, or even how to prepare ourselves," she said.

Kline, 38, is president of a corporate consulting and executive search company here specializing in the search for, counseling and placement of women and minorities.

One reason for low incomes is that many women work in clerical or factory-type jobs. But, Kline says, there are now opportunities for women who are educated and who are looking for real careers to go into corporations and get positions where they can grow into management-level jobs.

"Let's face it, most men who are working and have worked for years do not become presidents of their corporations or vice presidents. Most of us reach sort of middle management levels. But until a few years ago even the middle levels have been closed to women. So things have changed very much for the positive in that direction," said Kline, who heads Maximus, Consulting Inc. and Maxima Ltd.

Kline says if a woman wants to compete in business, she has to have the right kind of academic background. So, if a women with a liberal arts degree wants to get involved in business, it's a good idea for her to earn a master's degree in business, or at least to take some business courses.

"You have to be, at least to start with, a specialist in something. It isn't really good to be a generalist and to be a jack-of-all trades," she said.

"Also, if you are in a position that you consider dead-end and you don't think you're going to be promoted where you are, get out.

"If you're loyal to the company but you do not feel that your company has a particular loyalty to you, and they view you in one way and you feel it's going to be too hard to change the stereotype image, then get out.

"There are lots of other companies around."

Kline says if you choose to stay in your company and try to get promoted, then always dress one level up.

"Are you dressing like a secretary?" she said. "Nothing wrong with that if you like being a secretary and want to stay one. But if you have an idea that you have management capabilities and supervisory strengths, but everybody views you as a secretary, look at how the other people dress, the men as well as the women, and change the way you look so that people will deal with you more as a peer rather than someone who is subordinate to them."

Kline says it's also a good idea for a woman to pick someone in her company as a role model or a mentor — someone who is interested in helping her advance her career because she makes that person look good.

"You seek out someone in power — who may not be your boss, it may be a totally different department — someone whom you would like to emulate, you would like to learn from, and find out if that person is willing to 'sponsor' you.

"Will they teach you what you need to know to get out of your department into something else? Do they view you as someone who has the potential to go far in the company and also work with them and help them look good?

"This is very important," Kline said. "Women tend to wait to be picked. We sit there and we wait, we wait for someone to say, 'Darling, you have done a great job, here is the gold star on your forehead.' That does not happen."

Kline has a 12-year background in the consulting field. She is a member of the Board of Directors of the New York Association of Women Business Owners.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: The letter from Bleary-Eyed And Envious brought back memories. (Bleary-Eyed couldn't sleep because the newlyweds in the apartment directly above her had a squeaky bed. You advised her to come right out and tell the woman.)

When I was a bachelor, I had the same problem. Only the couple whose bedroom was directly above mine were middle-age people who alternated between keeping me awake with their noisy arguments and their squeaky bed.

I decided to tackle the problems one at a time. After a week of the squeaky-bed disturbance, I saw the man in the elevator, so I whispered discreetly, "I haven't had a good night's sleep in a week, pal. Your squeaky bed has been keeping me awake every night!"

He replied, "Thanks, I'll take care of it...and please don't mention it to my wife when she gets back. She's been out of town."

DEAR ABBY: An elderly man had a heart attack aboard the same plane I was on just as it was taxiing for take-off. An ambulance with paramedics arrived within seconds of our return to the terminal.

I realized then that it had been two years since I had taken the cardiac pulmonary resuscitation course. Frankly, I couldn't remember all the procedures. I had planned to refresh my memory (it's in my manual) but I never got around to it.

Yesterday, a neighbor's father had a heart attack. Another man and I did what we could, but the victim died. Actually, we did little or nothing to increase his chances of survival. In the panic, I couldn't remember what I was supposed to do, and the other man knew even less than I did. In short, neither one of us knew what we were doing!

As a result, I have placed my CPR instructions with our utility bills, and every month when my wife and I pay our bills we review it. If an emergency arises we will not feel so helpless.

CPR is simple. Everyone should be familiar with it, and the procedure should be reviewed periodically. Sometimes just taking the course is not enough.

Lazy And Ashamed In Roanoke

Dear Lazy: Thanks for an important reminder.

Readers, if a relative, friend or stranger needed emergency first aid, would you know what to do? Or to put it another way, if you were suddenly stricken, wouldn't you hope that someone present would know how to administer CPR?

I urge you to call your local Heart Association or the Red Cross and find out when and where classes in these life-saving procedures are available.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend and I decided to get married. Neither of us is very religious, so we started looking for a judge to marry us. I suggested asking a woman judge, but my boyfriend objected. He said he wouldn't feel "married" if a woman performed the ceremony. What is your opinion?

No Sig In Saranac, N.Y.

Dear No: Your boyfriend is afflicted with a bad case of old-fashioned gender bias. I hope for your sake it's not incurable.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

It isn't one of those earthshaking problems. I mean, I don't stay up nights worrying about it, but every once in awhile, I sense that our civilization is near its end.

Its demise is not by fire, flood, or earthquake, but a slow, insidious extinction...death by over-communication.

I think about the billboards dotting the countryside, two papers at your doorstep each day, 13 magazines a month on your coffee table, radios that play as you sleep and travel, television that desensitizes you, piped-in music at work, CBs in your car, transistors in your pocket, letters stacked at your mailbox, telephones that follow you everywhere, Dial-a-Prayer, Dial-a-Joke, Dial-a-Ride, and Dial-a-Plumber. Intercoms throughout your house, singing telegrams, group therapy, talk shows and newsletters.

All we seem to be doing is communicating. No one listens anymore.

Well, I needn't have worried. The problem has solved itself. It is becoming so expensive to communicate it will only be a matter of time before we are back to runners and drums.

I used to call my sister on her birthday to tell her a letter was on the way. The letter revealed there was a box to follow and if the box didn't arrive on Wednesday to be sure and call me back.

That transaction today would cost enough to make us share a birthday. I,m not sorry to see all this communication go by the boards. Death by listening can be exhausting. Some days I get to the point where I know too much about too little.

The other night I dropped into a chair and was struck by something very strange. The silence. No radios, TV, phone conversations, stereos, nothing. I smiled and thought, "So this is the way it's going to be."

My daughter walked in and said, "If you don't want me in the room, just say so, but don't use that tone with me."

"What tone?" I asked. "I didn't say anything."

"You didn't have to," she said. "I read body English."

If I had known my body was going to be the last means of communication on earth, I'd have taken better care of it.

The Slim Gourmet

By Barbara Gibbons

Wouldn't it be nice to reach into your freezer in February and "harvest" some blueberries or cherries? Freezing fruit is so easy ... why not store some summer fruit for the "fruitless" months ahead?

Freezing is the fuss-free way to "put up" fruit ... ideally suited to busy people, singles, couples and small families. Freezing is simpler than canning; it requires no special equipment (except, of course, freezer space) and there's less that can go wrong. Freezing is the preferred method for preserving no-sugar-added fruits. While it's possible to can fruits without added sugar, the results are nowhere near as successful as freezing.

Fruit can be frozen using a variety of methods. Most cookbooks focus on techniques for freezing fruit in sugar or syrup ... neither method appeals to Slim Gourmet cooks. Here are our favorite ways to freeze fresh fruit with no sugar added.

FRUITS THAT "DARKEN" or turn color — Apples, pears, peaches, nectarines, apricots — may be frozen raw with the addition of ascorbic acid ("fruit-fresh" preparations, crushed vitamin C tablets, lemon juice, orange juice or vitamin C-enriched fruit juice). However, these sour ingredients make the fruit less palatable without sugar or sweetener. You can avoid the need for sour preservatives by partially cooking the fruit in a small amount of water or fruit juice, just enough to keep it from scorching, just until the fruit reaches boiling. Then, divide into jars or containers and label and freeze.

FRUITS THAT DON'T DARKEN — Berries, cherries, pineapple, melons — can be frozen raw with nothing added, or covered with a "syrup" of unsweetened fruit juice.

Here are preparation tips for individual fruits:

APPLES — Peel, core and slice or dice. Combine in a heavy pot with 2 tablespoons water or apple (or other fruit) juice. Heat to boiling. Cool, then pack into covered jars. Or, make into applesauce or baked apples; then freeze.

APRICOTS — Wash, halve and remove pits. No need to remove peel. Heat to boiling in a small amount of water, apple or orange juice, or peach or apricot nectar. Cool, pack in jars with juice.

BLUEBERRIES, blackberries, raspberries, elderberries, huckleberries, etc. — Don't wash: Handle as little as possible. Three methods: 1. Simply overwrap the containers as they come from the store with a double layer of plastic wrap and freeze, as-is. Or: 2. spread fruit in a shallow layer on cookie sheets and fast-freeze, uncovered. When frozen-firm, pack fruit in covered jars (will be loose-packed, allowing you to remove a little at a time). Or: 3. Gently transfer fresh raw fruit to small jars or other vapor-proof covered containers. Cover, label and freeze. To serve: Don't defrost. Rinse frozen berries in cold water and serve while still partially frozen to retain firmness. Or, rinse and defrost completely to use in recipes.

CANTALOUPE, watermelon, etc. — Remove seeds, cut in cubes or use a melon baller. Spread in a layer on cookie sheets. Fast-freeze, uncovered. When frozen solid, transfer to plastic bags or covered jars and freeze.

CHERRIES — Wash and dry; remove stems and pits. 1. Transfer to jars and freeze with nothing added, or cover them with red grape juice. 2. Or, heat to boiling in a small amount of water or red grape juice. Transfer to covered jars and freeze.

PEACHES, NECTARINES — Peel peaches (submerge briefly, one at a time, in a pot of boiling water, until skin slips off easily; no need to peel nectarines). Cut in half or in thick slices. Discard pits. Heat to boiling in a small amount of water, fruit juice or peach nectar. Cool, pour into jars and freeze.

PEARS — Peel, halve or quarter and remove cores. Heat to boiling in apple juice or pear nectar. Put in jars and freeze.

PINEAPPLE — Quarter lengthwise. Remove core and peel from each quarter. Slice or dice the fruit. 1. Arrange slices in a single layer on cookie sheets. Fast-freeze, uncovered, until frozen solid. Transfer to plastic bags or jars. 2. Or, heat to boiling in pineapple juice. Cool, then pour into covered jars.

PLUMS — Wash, don't peel. Cut in half or slice thinly; discard pits. Freeze with nothing added, or covered in fruit juice.

STRAWBERRIES — Wash and core; leave whole. 1. Dry berries, then pack whole in plastic bags or covered jars. 2. Or, slice berries, pack into jars, cover with red grape juice. Seal and freeze.

CHUNKY FRUIT SAUCES — Delicious fresh fruit toppings (for ice milk, yogurt, cottage cheese, sponge cake) are easy to freeze. Combine each cupful of sliced or diced fresh fruit with a quarter-cup water or any fruit juice. Cover and heat to boiling. Allow to cool, then pour into small covered jars. Store in freezer. Fruit sauces can be used cold with yogurt, cottage cheese or reheated to boiling and served hot. Hot sauces can be "flamed" by adding a tablespoon or two of brandy, rum or liqueur to the simmering sauce. Ignite the vapors with a long match.

Pat Walker's CAN WORK FOR YOU, TOO!!!

DEB CARTER REDUCED TO SIZE 3

Deb Carter says she never had a weight problem until two years ago, when she gradually started gaining weight. After all the fad diets and exercises she tried ended in failure, she decided to get professional help at Pat Walker's.

The counseling and support Deb received from the Pat Walker staff helped her revise her eating habits. Passive exercise on the Pat Walker unit was simple but effective.

As a result, Deb has lost 32-1/4 inches and 28 pounds—and now wears size 3 clothes! She urges others to join the Pat Walker program and see how easy it is to lose weight.

THIS WAS LOUISE HUDSON'S "LAST CHANCE" AND IT WORKED.

Louise Hudson — Before

"This is my last chance." I said as I began my treatments at Pat Walker's. [I had counted calories and carbohydrates, taken prescription medication and tried every diet I had known.] Pounds and inches began to melt away immediately. You feel better and the food combination is one you can enjoy, live with and know that you will never have to be obese again.

I have lost 34-3/4 pounds and 55-1/4 inches. I know now that you can lose weight—and lose it forever. That way is at Pat Walker's.

I will continue the treatments and follow instructions from the staff and purchase a new wardrobe.

Reduce at Pat Walker's and you can look great in the new fall fashions...

Muzorewa Attacks Afro-British Plan

LUSAKA, Zambia (UPI) — Zimbabwe Rhodesian Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa today denounced a British-backed comprehensive settlement designed to turn more power in his country over to blacks, calling it "totally unfair."

The British Commonwealth summit meeting in Lusaka Sunday unanimously adopted a nine-point peace package intended to stop the guerrilla war and increase the powers of the black majority government.

The surprising breakthrough called for sweeping constitutional reform that would include guarantees for the white minority, lifting the economic sanctions, new elections and an end to the seven years of bloody fighting between guerrillas and government troops.

In Salisbury, Muzorewa said the settlement plan was "totally unfair and in fact an insult to the electorate" that put him in power.

Muzorewa called on Britain to rethink its position, but stopped short of rejecting the package of proposals.

"What has emerged from the Commonwealth conference in Lusaka, so far as Zimbabwe Rhodesia is concerned, are some positive elements and some which still require substantial clarification," Muzorewa said in a statement.

British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher today recognized the difficulties the agreement faced, saying she is not "starry-eyed" about achieving a permanent peace in Zimbabwe Rhodesia despite the accord between Britain and front-line black African nations.

However, Mrs. Thatcher virtually ruled out the use of British troops to police the war-torn nation during fresh elections.

She told a news conference that enormous pressure will be put on the Patriotic Front guerrillas to accept the kind of democratic constitution thatBritain has granted other former African colonies.

Her statement implied that black Africa's frontline states will now force the Front into accepting a reasonable constitution drawn up by London, despite initial statements this week by guerrilla spokesmen that the Lusaka document was "unacceptable."

Speaking of the Commonwealth agreement, Mrs. Thatcher said, "If I may pat myself on the back a bit, it (the agreement) wes not half bad." But she quickly added, "I am not starry-eyed" about followup efforts to try and arrange a permanent peace.

Mrs. Thatcher dramatically shifted her government's position to move closer to the one espoused by black nations bordering Zimbabwe Rhodesia, who rejected the "internal solution" worked out by Rhodesian whites.

Today she called the package "good news for Rhodesia, good news for Bishop Muzorewa and good news for the Commonwealth."

Mrs. Thatcher called a British Cabinet meeting for Friday to begin work on the specific details of the peace plan and said she hoped to begin implementing it "very shortly."

"If we hadn't got an agreement here," she said in a BBC interview, "the chance (for peace) might have gone forever. We've got a chance. We are determined to take it ... to find a solution by the ballot box and not the bullet."

Diplomatic sources said Britain hoped to hold a constitutional conference by September and have a new Rhodesian agreement in effect by November, with the cease-fire coming even before then.

The package was the first time Britain and the black African nations, led by Tanzania, had cooperated fully and agreed on a Rhodesian peace document.

The nine-point plan recognizes the current constitution as "defective in certain important respects" and said it was Britain's "constitutional responsibility" to grant legal independence to Rhodesia on the basis of majority rule and a new "democratic constitution including appropriate safeguards for minorities."

The commonwealth draft said an all-parties conference must be scheduled, followed by "free and fair elections properly supervised under British government authority and with Commonwealth observers."

Other major points in the two-page document called for a cease-fire in the war and an end to sanctions."

Israel Strongly Protests U.S. Contact With PLO

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Israeli government sent the Carter administration a strong protest against its overtures to the Palestine Liberation Organization as the Israeli-Egyptian talks on Palestinian autonomy resumed.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin's Cabinet at its weekly meeting Sunday ordered Ambassador Ephraim Evron to tell the U.S. government of Israel's objections to the subtle U.S. feelers that have gone out to the PLO. President Carter has invited Evron to meet with him soon to discuss the latest Israeli-U.S dispute.

In a bid to keep the tussle private, the Cabinet refused to release the contents of its message to Washington. Briefing reporters, Cabinet Secretary Arieh Noar would say only that Evron's assignment "concerned diplomatic activities between Israel and the United States."

He was less reticent about reviewing Israel's policy toward the PLO.

"This syndicate of murderers was not, is not and never will be a partner for negotiations" with Israel, he said.

A bomb Sunday near the Jerusalem City Hall injured two municipal gardeners, both Arabs. In Beirut, the Marxist Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine said it set off the bomb and claimed it injured "several Israelis."

Apparently trying to attract Palestinian support to the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty, the Carter administration seems to be signaling that it would recognize the PLO if Yasser Arafat's organization abandoned its declared goal of the destruction of the Jewish state and publicly recognized Israel's right to exist. The administration also seems to hope it can soften Israel's opposition to the PLO, which has been designated by the Arabs as the sole representative of the Palestinian people.

Despite Israeli objections, the United States has been trying to amend U.N. Security Council Resolution 242 to include a call for a Palestinian homeland and recognition of the Palestinians' "legitimate rights."

Observers believe PLO recognition of such an amended resolution would be considered by the United States as acceptance of Israel's right to exist since the resolution calls for the peaceful existence of all Mideast states.

Israel opposes any tampering with Resolution 242, which was adopted after the 1967 war and has served as the basis for all Arab-Israeli peace negotiations since then. Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Yadin told the army radio service after the Cabinet meeting that the Israeli protest to Washington was partly a reaction to the attempt to amend the resolution.

The Cabinet apparently rejected the demands of hardliners that Israel suspend the autonomy talks with Egypt until it sorts out its differences with Washington.

The fifth round of those U.S.-mediated talks was opening today in Haifa. At an informal session Sunday between Egyptian Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil and Israeli Interior Minister Yosef Burg, the two chief negotiators agreed to aim for a "common document" on procedures to elect a Palestinian ruling council that would administer home rule on the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and in the Gaza Strip.

The slow-moving negotiations currently are snagged over a definition of the powers of the Palestinian Council. Israel opposes a U.S. proposal that would give the council legislative, executive and judicial powers. Instead, it sees a much more limited form of self-rule.

FOREST FIRE — Smoke rises thousands of feet in the air as a forest fire rages in the primitive area of central Idaho. The flames have swept 20,000 acres along the famous Middle Fork of the Salmon River. (AP Laserphoto)

Hundreds Fight Damaging Fires

By The Associated Press

National Guardsmen, Indian volunteers and fire crews flown in from as far away as Florida today fought major forest fires raging out of control in the Northwest, ravaging 67,000 acres in Idaho alone.

More than 1,200 firefighters were trying to control fires in four Idaho national forests, including one threatening an evacuated resort.

In Montana, 340 firefighters were flown in from seven southern states to assist local crews and National Guardsmen battling a 1,800-acre fire that had swept to within five miles of the industrial city of Anaconda.

Wyoming authorities said there was little hope of immediate control of fires that have engulfed more than 5,000 acres in two forests. About 450 Indian firefighters from Montana, New Mexico, Arizona and Wyoming's Wind River Reservation had joined the fight.

The National Forest Service's fire headquarters in Boise, Idaho, said the Gallagher Peak fire on the Targee National Forest spread from 15,000 acres Saturday to 37,000 acres by early today.

And, pushed by winds of more than 35 mph, the Mortar Creek fire 80 miles northeast of Boise along the Middle Fork of the Salmon River grew to at least 20,000 acres.

"We're sure it's more than that, but by how much we can't tell yet," said Forest Service spokesman Joe Nadolski.

The Mortar Creek fire threatened the southwestern side of the Middle Fork Lodge as wind-borne embers started a 20-acre fire three miles northeast of the resort, which is reachable only by plane or river raft.

"But we have some good news for a change," Nadolski said. "A 20-member hot shot crew from the Mount Baker-Snoqualmie National Forest was ferried into the area by a low-flying helicopter early this morning. That came after smokejumpers were unable to make a drop because the smoke was too thick to even see the resort. Chances are now good that the resort will be saved."

The resort, owned by Harrah's of Reno, Nev., was evacuated, as was everyone in the area, and the Middle Fork was closed to rafters. Nadolski did not know how many people had been evacuated.

Some 8,350 acres were ablaze in three fires in the Idaho's Salmon National Forest and 800 acres were aflame in the Payette National Forest.

"We have no idea and little optimism," National Forest Service spokesman Barry Wirth said Sunday when asked when the fires might be controlled. "The weather forecast is more hot, more dry, more wind and more dry lightning storms. There is no way to fight forest fires when winds are that high. We can't even make aerial drops."

Meanwhile, nearly 900 firefighters battled five Montana forest fires Sunday night, including one that was stopped before it reached the edge of the industrial city of Anaconda.

New fires were reported near the Swan River in the Flathead National Forest and north of Wise River in the Beaverhead National Forest. More than 500 men remained on fire lines in the Libby area, where 2,300-and 25-acre blazes in the Kootenai National Forest were reported controlled.

Meanwhile, firefighters battled to keep a blaze at an abandoned logging town 50 miles northeast of Prineville from spreading into adjacent forest lands in central Oregon.

Jim Fisher of the state Forestry Department said the fire had burned across the 25-acre site of the town's derelict lumber mill. He said residents of the two or three occupied homes in the town had been evacuated without injuries.

Crews also fought a fire Sunday that burned 25 acres of the Umatilla National Forest 30 miles west of La Grande in northeastern Oregon.

Airline, Union Fight Over 'Boat People'

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — World Airways, the largest U.S. charter airline, says it will continue flights of Southeast Asian refugees to the United States, but the union that is striking the airline says its members will not work the "boat people" flights.

About 400 refugees were scheduled to arrive at Travis Air Force Base near San Francisco today — despite the strike by World's 1,300 pilots, flight attendants and mechanics.

Error In Ruling Aids Oil Firms

WASHINGTON (AP) — A miscalculation by the Department of Energy in a gasoline-pricing rule will result in a $9-billion profit bonanza to the oil industry by the end of 1980, The Washington Post repoted today

The newspaper said the extra profits resulted from the so-called "Tilt Rule," which allows oil companies to make an additional profit on gasoline beyond actual crude oil cost increases and operating costs because gasoline costs more to produce than other petroleum products.

When the Energy Department adopted the rule last March 1, the Carter administration predicted that the complex formula would cost motorists an extra 1.6 cents a gallon this year and 1.8 cents in 1980, meaning a maximum of $3.7 billion in extra profits.

Instead, the Post said, a survey of oil companies and interviews with federal officials shows that most oil firms took advantage of the rule to immediately raise their prices by 4 to 6 cents a gallon.

The effect will be to increase profits by up to $12.9 billion through 1980, the newspaper said.

Energy Department spokesmen declined comment immediately.

The American Petroleum Institute, an industry organization, said in a statement that "Tilt was an attempt to do through government regulation what better could have been done by gasoline decontrol, which the industry has been urging for some time."

"The previous government rule denied refiners the opportunity of recovering all of the costs incurred in manufacturing gasoline. The intent of the Tilt regulation was to permit such recovery," the statement added.

The Post quoted Douglas G. Robinson, No. 2 official in the department's Economic Regulatory Administration and author of the Tilt Rule, as acknowledging that the 1.6-cent-a-gallon increase "was clearly not a valid number for this year."

The Post said there were clear indications that the department knew its estimates were faulty, but put the pricing rule into effect anyway without the customary 30-day period allowed for public comment.

"It is fair to say that we had some indication at that time . .. and the decision-makers were aware of that at that time, but that did not dissuade them from going ahead," Robinson was quoted as saying.

The rule also was made retroactive to Jan. 1, meaning additional hundreds of millions of dollars in extra profits. Robinson told the Post there was "absolutely no justification" for doing so.

The idea behind the rule was that the extra profits would act as an incentive to oil companies to build more refineries and thus head off future gasoline shortages.

But the Post quoted industry officials as saying the increased profits may not yield more production capacity.

Shock Therapy Misunderstood

CHICAGO (UPI) — Some movies are projecting a bad image of electroshock therapy, says the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The Journal's Aug. 10 issue says the therapy — the most effective means of dealing with depression — is getting such a bad name that it is threatened with extinction.

Shock treatment, or electroconvulsive therapy, is poorly understood and much maligned, but has a higher cure rate for depression than other medications used in psychiatric care, Dr. John P. Callan writes in an editorial.

Callan says it is paradoxical that no one objects to electroshock to restart or regularize heartbeat, but that electrical stimulation to revitalize an ailing mind is challenged.

He says motion pictures such as "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," have fueled this image, because they portray shock treatment as something horrible.

But in competent hands, he says, it is usually safe and painless, with he anesthesized, relaxed patient feeling no discomfort. The subject not only does not feel the current, Callan contends, but he also has no recollection of treatment after awakening two minutes later.

"If it is abandoned," Callan says, "patients will suffer."

Water Board Favors New Appraisal Plan

Senate Bill 621, is mandated to be fully operable by Jan. 1, 1982. The appraisal district will be governed by a board of directors which will be appointed by voting members.

The water district, which will be a non-voting member of the appraisal district, covers all or some of 15 counties.

Water district manager A. Wayne Wyatt, recommended that the board participate with all counties in its jurisdiction in order to cut down on costs incurred by the district.

Wyattt explained the Lubbock County taxing unit would charge the district for assessing property in other counties.

He said if the water district affiliated with all the counties in its jurisdiction, the cost of assessment would be shared by all the taxing units.

Though the board discussed furnishing landowners with water depletion data for use in paying agricultural use taxes, it postponed action on the issue until the next board meeting.

The district currently provides water depletion data for federal income tax purposes for landowners, but Wyatt said a separate set of information must be used to satisfy the requirements of the Tax Relief Amendment passed by the state legislature.

The amendment allows the deduction of the depletion of underground water used in agricultural operations as a fixed expense.

Wyattt told board members they have several options in providing the needed information to landowners. The water district can provide maps showing the saturated thickness and decline of the water table for 1980 when the new agricultural use valuation will go into effect.

He said the district can also determine the necessary data through computer programming.

Board members asked for a study of alternatives and mandated action for the board before deciding whether to provide the information and the method of providing that information.

Change Of Leadership Possible For AFL-CIO

CHICAGO (AP) — The prospect of a change of leadership in the AFL-CIO is in the spotlight as the labor group's governing body opens its summer meeting today without its ailing president, George Meany.

The policy positions the executive council plans to issue in its three-day meeting will be obscured by mounting speculation that the 84-year-old Meany will retire this fall to end his quarter-century reign at the giant federation.

The AFL-CIO's only president, sidelined for 3½ months with painful leg and hip troubles, is missing the summer meeting of the 35-member policy-making council for the first time.

The prolonged ailments, which have kept Meany from walking, also have increased the likelihood he will retire when his current two-year term expires in November, according to numerous AFL-CIO officials.

Meany, according to federation spokesman Albert Zack, has regained some of his strength recently and is talking about returning to his office this week while the executive council meets here.

Meany's intentions concerning his retirement, however, remain unknown. If he has made up his mind about his future, he hasn't told anyone and probably won't until later this year after reassessing his health, says Zack.

In the meantime, uncertainty about Meany's plans has left the federation in a "holding pattern" until it becomes clear who will lead the AFL-CIO after this year, according to one official.

"No one is doing anything here," complained the official, who asked not to be named. "Everyone is waiting to see what happens."

If Meany retires, his chosen and probable successor would be secretary-treasurer Lane Kirkland, 57, who has been the federation's No. 2 man since 1969 and Meany's stand-in during the president's illness.

Kirkland will be getting plenty of practice for the federation's top spot this week, as he presides over executive council sessions and holds daily news conferences in Meany's place.

By his own account, the soft-spoken Kirkland shares the same views as Meany, and thus would be expected to lead the AFL-CIO in the same direction it has followed the past two decades.

That prospect could produce in-fighting from a number of union leaders on the executive council who have complained that the AFL-CIO has been too conservative under Meany, but have been unwilling to push for change while the durable labor leader is around.

Police Apprehend Lubbock Man Following Girlfriend's Death

A 45-year-old Lubbock man was in the county jail early today on suspicion of murder in connection with the Sunday night shooting death of a 44-year-old woman.

Catherine Elizabeth Mason was pronounced dead at the scene of her 3604 Yucca Ave. residence about 10 p.m. by Justice of the Peace Charles Smith.

Smith ruled the death homicide — the city's 17th of the year — and ordered an autopsy to be performed today. Preliminary reports indicate the woman was shot once near the left shoulder with a small-caliber weapon, and that the bullet pierced the heart.

The suspect, taken into custody at the scene, had not been formally charged this morning and remained in the county jail.

Police said the shooting apparently erupted during a domestic quarrel between the couple. EMS technicians were called to the scene and found the woman dead in her living room.

Investigating officer Porfirio DeLeon said he entered the residence and found the woman sitting on a couch, her head slumped on a table and her face cupped by her hands.

DeLeon said he saw the suspect standing in a hallway and ordered him to halt. The man, unarmed when police arrived, reportedly admitted to shooting the woman.

DeLeon's report states that the suspect said he was tired of "putting up" with the victim, so he shot her.

Police were told the murder weapon had been thrown over a fence in the back yard, but a search of that area did not turn up a gun.

However, a .22-caliber pistol, with two spent rounds in the chamber, was found on top of a drawer in a bedroom and was confiscated.

The body was taken to Sedberry Funeral Home where services were pending this morning.

Defendant Receives Jury Deadlock Offer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — An unidentified man called a defendant in Tennessee's clemency-for-cash trial and offered to have the jury deadlock over the verdict for $25,000, The Tennessean reported today.

The morning newspaper said in a copyright story that the telephone solicitation was made July 20 to T. Edward Sisk, one of five men on trial in U.S. District Court for allegedly conspiring to sell clemencies during former Gov. Ray Blanton's administration.

The newspaper said Sisk and his wife went to Tennessean publisher John Seigenthaler's home that night and told him of the call.

"This man called me by my first name," the newspaper quoted Sisk, Blanton's former legal counsel, as telling his wife.

"He acted like he knew me. I didn't recognize his voice but he sounded as if he had a Northern accent. If this is some jury-tampering scheme, I'm going to play along with it."

Sisk; his extradition officer, Charles Benson; suspended Tennessee Highway patrolman Charles Frederick Taylor; Chattanooga nightclub operator William A. Thompson; and Nashville lawyer Dale Quillen are charged with conspiring to sell pardons and other forms of clemency during Blanton's four-year term.

The trial has been suspended because Judge Charles Neese suffered a heart attack Friday night. He was in serious but stable condition at a Nashville hospital today. Lawyers said if Neese's recovery isn't rapid, another judge may have to be appointed to hear the case or a mistrial may be declared.

The newspaper gave this account:

Sisk was told by the caller that an unidentified juror could deadlock the jury for $25,000 — $12,500 in advance and the rest after the trial ended. He was told to bring the money in a brown paper bag to a pay phone at a shopping center 30 miles southeast of Nashville on the night of July 23.

Knifing Victim Dies Of Wounds

No ruling had been made this morning in the stabbing death of a Morton man, who died early this morning in Lubbock of wounds suffered in a July 28 incident in Morton.

Tommy Lopez, 23, died at 6:45 a.m. in Methodist Hospital, where he had been since the Saturday night stabbing which also injured Angel Mendoza, 16, also of Morton. Mendoza was treated and later released from Methodist.

Reports show the stabbings occurred about 10 p.m. outside Morton's county fair association building. Morton Police Chief Vaughn Killian theorized at the time the incident resulted from a long-standing fued.

He was unavailable for comment this morning.

Morton officials said today the two brothers, one 16 and the other 18, who were arrested in connection with the incident had been released from Cochran County Jail. No one has been charged in the stabbing.

Services for Lopez are pending with Singleton Funeral Home in Morton.

Dismissal Motion Heard In Herrera Murder Case

Judge Robert C. Wright heard testimony this morning on a defense motion in the murder trial of Paul Herrera to dismiss Herrera's case on the basis of an illegal arrest.

Sheriff's deputy Ernest Rector testified for approximately two hours in the pre-trial hearing in 137th District Court requested by Herrera's attorneys, John J.C. O'Shea and Mark Hall.

In addition to Rector, Criminal District Attorney John Montford was expected to call Sheriff's Capt. Alton Hobbs and Department of Public Safety polygraph authorities to testify before Wright rules on the defense motion.

Jury selection was expected to begin this afternoon if Wright rejects the motion.

Herrera, 19, of 2826 E. 7th St., is accused of the Feb. 4 shooting death of a 23-year-old Anton man.

Isreal Duran was found Feb. 5 lying dead on a dirt road just east of Lubbock. An autopsy showed that Duran died of small-caliber bullet wounds in his chest and head.

Deputies arrested Herrera Feb. 6 at the DPS Lubbock headquarters after he took a polygraph test.

The murder apparently resulted from an argument over the ownership of a knife, investigators said.

Duran was reportedly shot at a Lubbock residence and later dumped along the rural road.

Nervous, Laughing Robbers At Large

Police early today were looking for two men, one described as "very nervous" and another who laughed constantly, in connection with the armed robbery of the Sonic Drive-In at 1926 Fourth St., which netted the bandits an undetermined amount of cash.

The restaurant's 18-year-old assistant manager, Chris McDonald, told police he and employe Vickie Alderete, 16, were walking to his pickup truck about 12:30 a.m. today when they were confronted by the suspects.

McDonald said one of the bandits, wielding a small-caliber pistol and appearing "very nervous," told them, "Don't move and you won't get hurt."

Reports state the other man, who laughed throughout the holdup, was armed with either a knife or pistol.

McDonald said the more jittery man, while holding both of them at gunpoint, snatched up the business' money bag and cash box from his pickup, which was parked outside the restaurant.

Both suspects then ran east on foot.

It reportedly had not been determined early today how much money was taken in the robbery.

The pistol-toting suspect was described as a black man in his 20s, about 6 feet tall, thin and having a light mustache. He reportedly was clad in a white shirt, white or beige pants and white shoes.

The chuckling suspect, also believed to be in his 20s, was described as a black man, about 5 feet 5 inches tall, of medium build, with an Afro haircut and full beard. He was last seen wearing an orange and white flowered shirt and dark pants.

Ruling Withheld In Man's Death

Justice of the Peace L.J. Blalack said today he was withholding a ruling in the death of a 79-year-old man found shot in the head at his home about 4:20 p.m. Sunday.

Elias Rodriquez was pronounced dead at the scene of his residence located on FM 2641, about two miles south of Shallowater. An autopsy, ordered by Blalack, revealed the elderly man died of a single .22-caliber gunshot wound to the right temple.

Blalack said it appeared Rodriquez had been dead between 18 and 24 hours before being discovered.

Rodriquez' nephew, Alex Rodriquez, told Lubbock County sheriff's deputies he went to his uncle's house, looked through a latched screen door and saw the man lying in a pool of blood on his bed.

Alex said he found Rodriquez dead after forcing the door open.

Reports indicate a .22-caliber revolver was found on a pillow next to the dead man's head. Also found in the house was Rodriquez' wallet, containing $955 cash and $146 in checks, according to reports.

Rodriquez was taken to Henderson-Singleton Funeral Directors where services were pending this morning.

We've noticed

People who come to our funeral home don't look the way they used to. They dress differently, for one thing.

And they don't always think the way they used to. They've changed with the times.

If the people who come here are changing, shouldn't we be changing too?

We don't intend to be "wild" or "faddish"... but we do intend to keep in step with the thinking, the taste, and the values of the public we serve.

Arizona Museum Director Says Desert Different Place At Night

SONORA DESERT, Ariz. (AP) — The last act of the setting desert sun is to gild the needles of the saguaro cactus, giving it a halo, as of a giant martyr, arms upraised in thanks that day is done.

"If you lived in the desert, you would be grateful for nightfall, too," Martha Ames said.

Martha Ames is head of Special Events at the Arizona-Sonora Desert Museum, near Tucson. One event she put on recently was special indeed: a night walk in the desert.

"It's an experiment," she said. "If it works, we'll make it a regular part of our schedule.

"People are reluctant to go out in the desert at night, afraid of snakes and things. That's a shame. At night, the desert is an entirely different place. It comes alive. If you want to know the desert, you must witness it at night."

Night fell. The dry air turned cool as suddenly as if a switch had been thrown.

The 50 or so who had gathered, some carrying flashlights, split into a half-dozen groups. A museum specialist shepherded each group to tell of the magic that night time works on the desert's creatures, great and small.

When you discover, for instance, that cactus flowers are pollinated not by bees, but by bats, you begin to sense the wonder of the night.

The moon made its appearance, an orange ball rising above the black veil of the Tucson mountains. Flashlights became excess baggage in the moonlight. Now the cactus glowed silver.

"We wanted a full moon for two reasons," Ms. Ames said.

"First of all, the light. We don't want anybody backing into a cactus or tripping over something.

"Besides, in the full of the moon the large animals are more active. That means the small animals, the prey, tend to stay hidden. So snakes becomes less active, too. Since there isn't much to eat, they stay in their lairs." Comforting.

Martha Ames is a native of Virginia, about as far removed from desert dust as you can get. She is a geologist and archeologist and came to Tucson to work in a lab, dating tree rings.

"When I saw the desert," she said, "it captivated me. I wanted to learn everything about it. I began hanging around the museum, first as a visitor then as a volunteer.

"It was 10 years ago, when I was a student, though, that I got the idea for a night walk.

"My ecology class went on a night toad watch. I was utterly fascinated. The activity at the pond was as different as, well, as different as night and day. So is the desert."

Quite. Even if no profound secrets of nature reveal themselves, a walk in the desert by moonlight is its own reward. Only a snake might disagree.

MOSAIC COLLECTION

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A collection of some 85 mosaics from the collection of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gilbert will be on view at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art through June 29, 1980. The collection, assembled over the past 14 years by museum trustee Gilbert and Mrs. Gilbert, is second only to that of the Hermitage Museum in Leningrad.

LOST AND FOUND — When Sue Lee and her husband, Dr. Byung Lee, fled China and Mao Tse-Tung's armies in 1946, they left behind Mrs. Lee's brother and sister. After 20 years, the separated families have begun communication again and they are hoping to arrange a visit. Here, Mr. and Mrs. Lee look over a letter from her brother and sister. (Staff Photo)

Big Spring Woman Succeeds In Search For Chinese Kin

By PHILIP BRASHER
Avalanche-Journal Staff

BIG SPRING — Among the 866 million people in Red China are Quang Qua, 42, and her brother, Quang Wei, 40, who live in Nanking in southern China.

Their sister, a resident of this small city nestled just off the South Plains, never expected to locate her family in the population mass of China.

Somehow, she has.

Sue Lee and her husband, Dr. Byung Lee, last saw Qua and Wei in 1946 as they fled China and Mao Tse Tung's armies. When Mr. and Mrs. Lee waved goodbye to Qua, Wei and their mother, Qua and Wei were only 10-years-old and 8-years-old.

After 20 years, the separated families began communicating again recently when Mrs. Lee received a brief letter, dated June 5, from Qua and Wei.

"It's a miracle. This is really something else," she said. "I dreamed so many times. It has to be a miracle."

Mrs. Lee initiated the search for her brother and sister in 1972 when President Nixon visited China. As she watched a television broadcast of the visit, Mrs. Lee conceived the idea of having Americans search for her family.

"I was so excited. I started writing newsmen and tourists going to China and asked them to advertise for us," she said.

Mrs. Lee's campaign took her to the Big Spring Herald newspaper, where she enlisted the help of the editor in getting the names of journalists visiting Peking.

However, she said, she had no response from any of them. A woman of Polish descent touring China made a futile attempt to contact Qua and Wei.

Mrs. Lee could not offer many clues to her family's whereabouts. She last saw them in Chunking, a northern China city that is a 10-day trip by automobile from Nanking. To make matters more difficult, their family name, Quang, and given names are common, Dr. Lee said.

Nevertheless, when the United States and China normalized relations this year, she renewed her efforts and wrote U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen for help.

He suggested she write the Chinese ambassador in Washington, D.C., and the consulate in Peking.

She wrote, and the waiting began. Month after month passed with no replies.

"Everyday the mailman came I went out to see if there was a letter," she recalled.

She finally received a terse, "cold, very official" reply from the ambassador. Then, one day in the middle of July, the letter from Qua and Wei arrived via the ambassador's office.

"I thought I must be dreaming," Mrs. Lee said. "I had dreamed so many times. I cried a lot," she added.

"She cried for two hours," her husband interjected.

The letters from her family are "very plain," Mrs. Lee said, explaining, "They can't say very much."

From the June letter, Mrs. Lee learned that Qua and Wei both are married and that they have six children between them. Her stepmother also is alive. Mrs. Lee also learned in the letter that her brother and family had moved from Chunking, China's seventh largest city, to Nanking, the ninth largest.

Qua and Wei said little more than that in the brief note, Mrs. Lee said.

The day after receiving her siblings' letter, Mrs. Lee said she mailed a letter back to China. Qua and Wei then sent her their addressses.

She and Dr. Lee said they hope to bring the family to the United States soon or else tour China themselves.

Dr. and Mrs. Lee somberly note that they are only two of thousands of Americans of Oriental descent separated from their families in strife-ridden Asia.

"The Orientals have had too many wars," said Dr. Lee, an internist at the Veterans Administration Medical Center here. He last saw his family 40 years ago in what is now North Korea.

The Lees immigrated to the United States from South Korea 13 years ago. The couple met in China, where Dr. Lee studied medicine, but left with their two young children as the Nationalist regime began to topple following World War II.

Lee pins hopes of seeing his family again on the fact that China was once as tightly closed to the United States as North Korea is.

"We keep very good watch" for normalization of the countries' relations," he said.

"We never thought Red China and the United States would normalize relations. I was really surprised," he added.

Crime Line To Pay For Rape Seminar

The board of directors of Crime Line Inc. has agreed to pick up the tab for a city-wide rape seminar scheduled for Sept. 30 in Memorial Civic Center, Mayor Dirk West has announced.

During a regular meeting, the board fully endorsed the rape prevention seminar proposed by West.

In addition to paying the seminar expenses, the board authorized the payment of $100 to Gary High, former city high school track star who outran, apprehended a thief and helped the suspect until police arrived.

High last week also was cited by the Lubbock Police Department.

West said that the Crime Line project he founded continues to break records. At least 37 felony cases have been cleared from police files and detectives are working on several tips that are expected to lead to further arrests.

Groups desiring to have Crime Line presentation at meetings may call Charley Pope, president of the board of directors and executive vice president of First Federal Savings & Loan Association, at 7652-0491.

In the spotlight crime of this week, a reward of $500 is being offered for information in the stabbing death of Jessie B. Ramirez, who was found face down on the south side entrance at 4505 E. 6th St. at 2:51 a.m. on July 15.

Ramirez had been shotgunned in the right shoulder. In searching the area, officers found three spent casings from a .380 caliber weapon. Two windows had been shot, probably with a shotgun. A .12 gauge also was found nearby.

Ramirez had been inside a game room and apparently was gunned down as he left at closing time.

Rewards of $300 each were posted for each of the following cases:

— The theft of several items from Rip Griffin's Truck Stop, a mile east of Lubbock on U.S. 62-82, on July 15. Taken were a horse trailer, a $650 Texton padded seat saddle, a $900 custom-made saddle with a low back (leather on horn was loose and saddle has a 14-inch swell), a reddish Indian double fold blanket and a quilted blanket valued at $36.

— Information leading to the arrest of a forgery fugitive, identified as Barbara Lynn Hunke Van Natter, white female, date of birth, Oct. 29, 1960, who is charged with passing three forged checks totaling $481.24. The checks were in the amounts of $367, $89 and $25.20.

— The burglary of a habitation one-half mile east of U.S. 87 on 114th Street on July 13. Stolen were $600 in cash and two rings (one a white gold ring with a large emerald in the center and two diamonds forming a circle on the outer edge, valued at $800; and a white gold ring with two open flowers with a diamond in each flower, valued at $800). Total loss was $2,200.

Persons having information regarding these cases are urged to telephone the hotline, 741-1000, as soon as possible. Callers are identified only by code number and are guaranteed complete anonymity at all times — even during cash reward "drops" (payoffs).

Persons interested in making tax deductible contributions to the program may send checks to Crime Line Inc., P.O. Box 2000, Lubbock, Texas 79457.

Ex-Policeman To Face Trial

BEAUMONT (AP) — Prosecutors begin their third efforts to try a former Amarillo police officer on capital murder charges when jury selection opens in criminal district court today.

Jimmy Paul Vanderbilt, charged with killing 16-year-old Katina Moyer, was sentenced to death in 1976 in the slaying. That conviction was overturned, and a second attempt at a trial failed earlier this year.

In that trial, moved to Fort Worth on a change of venue, District Judge Howard Fender ruled oral and written convictions could not be admitted as evidence. He then granted Potter County District Attorney Tom Curtis' motion to dismiss the charges.

A grand jury reindicted Vanderbilt in March.

Miss Moyer, the daughter of former state Rep. Hudson Moyer, was found shot to death on a road north of Amarillo in April 1975. Vanderbilt was a police officer when the girl was kidnapped and slain.

8,000 Seek Aid For Flooding

HOUSTON (AP) — Almost 8,000 persons have requested disaster assistance for losses inflicted along the Texas coast last month by Tropical Storm Claudette.

Two disaster assistance centers — at Baytown and Port Arthur — were closed Saturday, but federal officials said offices will remain open from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily at Pasadena, League City, Alvin and Freeport.

Federal flood insurance officials say the claims resulting from the rains of Tropical Storm Claudette probably will amount to more than half the $146.9 million paid out in 1978 in 21 disasters involving flooding.

"Obviously, when you compare these dollar figures, it is clear that Claudette did a lot of damage to a lot of people," said Dale Milford, regional director of the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

Milford said large numbers of residents along the coast had maximum flood coverage, perhaps because of the area's history of flooding.

Del Greer, director of the agency's flood insurance division, said the area has more than 116,000 policies worth about $5 billion. About 9,000 claims are expected to be filed, he said.

Business & Industrial Review

OUTSTANDING LEARNING ENVIRONMENT — The Winfrey Private School is dedicated to an environment of learning through both structured and unstructured activities in a broad comprehensive curriculum of academic skills. And youngsters of the affected ages seem to enjoy it thoroughly. The youths at right are being aided in hors d'oeuvres preparation under direction of Ms. Hedden, while those at left are in a play/study area of the ultra-modern school where open house is being held all this week. (Note the attractive storage bins in the strip picture.)

Winfrey Private School Holds Open House Throughout Week

Open House activities throughout this week (Aug. 6-11) at the Winfrey Private School, 83rd Street at Salem Avenue in Lubbock, should be a revelation and opportunity not to be missed!

With the fantastic physical facilities provided on the big 3.2-acre campus, with 40,000 square feet under roof, and with the fall semester starting Sept. 5, a visit to the school any day this week certainly is in order . . . welcomed and invited.

Planned and staged by the Parents Association of Winfrey Private School, activities throughout the week focus attention on concepts and opportunities at the school serving children from age 18 months through the 7th grade.

Special Immediate Events

Throughout the week there will be a garage sale, bake sale and ice cream!

Wednesday, Aug. 8, has been designated Kids Day, from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m., appealing especially to ages three through 12. Sunshine Sally will be on hand from 10 until 11 a.m. There will be a magic show, puppets, games, cartoons and more!

Tours of the sprawling but modern school will be conducted all week, 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. through Friday, and from 8 a.m. until 8 p.m. Saturday.

Saturday has been designated as a special Open House day for convenience of working parents and others.

Door prizes will be a feature of the week, with these including jewelry and toys. Tickets are available for purchase, also, with a $500 scholarship to be given as a grand prize.

"Full information is available by calling 793-0845. Be sure and come; we want to meet you; we believe you will find our school and its curriculum an eye-opener; and we hope you'll find how its program can be of service within your own family or scope of acquaintances."

Dedicated Leadership

Dorothy Winfrey is founder and director of the school entering its second school year. She had conducted a school on Broadway for three years before personally designing and establishing the present facility involving 18 self-contained classrooms, all adjacent to a huge 60 ft. by 235 ft. gymnasium accommodating over a dozen sports!

All classrooms are air conditioned, independently heated and opening to they gym.

Construction is functionally attractive, of concrete and steel, and the building is reported completely fire safe. A heat detecting system is installed.

Winfrey Private School is designed to accommodate over 500 students.

Dorothy Winfrey holds Bachelors and Masters degrees from Texas Tech in the field of Elementary Education; she is certified in three special education areas, certified in learning disabilities and physically handicapped, and has completed 40 hours study on the Doctorate level.

The invitation is extended to come out this week, inspect the facilities, and personally meet Dorothy Winfrey and the most capable faculty.

Directions Given

Just turn off 82nd Street on Toledo; the school is two blocks west and one block south of the Quaker Avenue-82nd Street intersection. You can't miss it!

'Plus Factors'

Discover at Winfrey Private School how "the best in education" is afforded.

Student-teacher ratio in the grade school age is one instructor for 20 students or less; for ages 3 and 4 it is one instructor for 15 students, and in the nursery, 18 months to 35 months, the ratio is 1-10.

Modest Charge

Rates are said most reasonable, with youngest children "generally accommodated at less than baby sitting charges".

Many parents are surprised to find that their children can get the best in care and in educational opportunities at such modest fees — at Winfrey Private School.

Aside from the comprehensive curriculum, after-school private instruction (for ages 3 and up) is available in baton, gymnastics, tap, ballet and piano.

Every teacher in the school is "degreed" and certified (even those associated with the nursery).

To give a hint of the school's concept and opportunities . . . and quality, a special sheet applicable to age 3 and 4, a suggested curriculum content for early education, points out the school's assistance and leadership in social development for the child, art and music opportunities, nature study units, writing readiness, number concepts and math readiness, and language arts and reading readiness helps.

"You must see the Winfrey Private School to understand its quality — in planning, concept, physical facilities, and operation. We hope you'll come out this week (enrollment is enabled now for the fall semester); we think you'll like and appreciate what you find."

Sign-Up Conclusion Date Nearing For B & I Pages

Today commences final week in which to arrange for participation in the Business and Industrial (B & I) pages of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal during the fall and winter months ahead.

See an Avalanche-Journal retail advertising salesman, or call 762-8844, Extension 306 or 334, and a representative of the advertising department will then explain the program in full, helping plan a comprehensive schedule of presentations in stories and pictures, together with ads that week after week carry their impact.

These pages have a record of proven benefit to advertiser and customer alike.

The B & I program can be especially beneficial in the key merchandising months ahead, months that involve back-to-school, ballgames, Thanksgiving, Christmas, fall and winter activities, winter vacation time, and new year events.

Many businesses and services actually consider the B & I presentations as best opportunity for "getting the message across," testimonials indicate, month after month.

"We feel the article was excellent and we truly appreciate the time you devoted on emphasizing the points we felt needed extra attention."

Another said:

"The ad alone resulted in a $40,000 sale that minimized the cost involved. Keep the ad on the B & I pages!"

Another took time to write:

"Thank you for capturing the spirit and the accurate portrayal of our programs and staff . . . in such a positive, complete and accurate manner."

'For You, Too'

"So . . . let's get down to business; haven't you said, in your own situation, time and again, that next time I'm going to be on the B & I pages. My business associates have reported the effectiveness, and readers have expressed their enthusiasm for the informative stories and ads."

Now that time is here, together with its opportunities.

"Your business or service can be featured in picture and stories in the unique B & I section, but only if action is taken at soonest possible time.

"Your own story can be told effectively, prominently, professionally and correctly on these pages in the activity packed season head."

"These messages can be featured, however, only if arrangements are made now; so don't find your firm or service omitted from the B & I pages during these key months."

"Those interested in being represented through these factual stories and pictures for the first time, or as a continuation of former rewarding schedules, should call 762-8844, Extension 306 or 334, and a representative of the advertising department will assist to the fullest.

Baby World, Lue Ree's Staging Aug. 12 'Circus Style Show'

"What a way to stage a fall and winter preview of delightful wearables for the young set!"

It is the just-announced First Annual Style Show, with circus motif, set for Sunday, Aug. 12, as a joint venture of Baby World and Lue Ree's Children's Shop!

The location: Evans Junior High School auditorium.

The time: At 4 p.m., this next Sunday, Aug. 12.

What is featured: Apparel for every age group served by the two big and popular Lubbock stores, Baby World, 4918 50th St., and Lue Ree's, under same ownership, in Briercroft Shopping Center. Modeled will be sizes infants through 14.

Door Prizes

Special attractions include gift certificate door prizes and the presence of Sunshine Sally.

There is no admission charge; everyone is invited.

What a way to preview all the new and provocative styles for fall and winter, for school and related events, all close at hand.

Yes, the season change is very much in the air, with the anticipation of fall and winter needs fully understood by Baby World (sizes infants through 6x for girls, and through boys 7) and Lue Ree's, (infants through 14), and with each store stocked accordingly. There are lots of coats, those delightful ski overalls, and more.

For Nursery, Too

(And one should not forget that furniture for the children's rooms is stocked in a most complete and delightful selection at Baby World.)

At the Style Show and at each store, it is a fun time ahead!

From day to day, even with the very large traditional stock, new arrivals are in evidence at each store.

Accessories are stocked at both stores, too. Vickey and Jonathan Hoffman are owners, and they are most appreciative of the trade that has made possible the continuous growth and service of their stores.

"Everything for the nursery" is assurance at Baby World . . . "after all, your baby deserves the best . . . and from a wide selection."

Everything at Baby World and Lue Ree's . . . the merchandise, decor and friendly service, conveys that exciting offerings are the rule, with the customers given every consideration.

One may select with confidence, from top lines, from today's fashions, at prices to please.

The ownership loves children, and stocks accordingly!

"May we have the pleasure of your attendance Sunday, at 4 p.m., at the style show we have arranged for you? Remember the date, Aug. 12, and the location, Evans Junior High auditorium."

FOR NEW-SEASON READINESS — Correctly hinting of delightful fall and winter apparel stocked by Baby World and Lue Ree's, 15-month-old Jennifer Monroe is shown with ski overalls by Weather Tamer. Jennifer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Monroe, 8007 Durham. Check the accompanying story for details of style show fun that has been arranged by the stores owned and operated by Vickey and Jonathan Hoffman.

Tuftwick's End-of-Summer Clearance Focuses Attention On Pricing Policy

"Have you fully recognized the disclosure within the Tuftwick Carpet, Inc., ads in the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal? We are speaking of the emphasis placed on the fact that Tuftwick sells at $3 to $5 per yard under suggested retail, no matter the selection, at the big Lubbock store."

"How better could it substantuate its claim of 'the carpet store where your dollar buys more'?"

Now comes another situation . . . in which Tuftwick is conducting its End-of-Summer Clearance to further reduce prices and make available quality carpet at tremendous "buys."

Inflation-fighting prices are emphasized, throughout the stock, with every effort made to clear the floor, at this time for new arrivals.

With the quality of workmanship, with fine materials and beautiful new patterns, more for the money in carpet is provided than ever before, the folks at Tuftwick welcome opportunity to explain and prove.

Also, of prime interest at this time, is recognition that carpet is a great energy saver, a definite instrument in insulation. (And energy savings mean dollar savings.)

Furthermore, at Tuftwick, expert installation is assured.

All labor is guaranteed.

No 'Unknowns'

Names to recognize and trust are the rule at Tuftwick, and when one can select at a savings from such lines as Philadelphia, Mulliken, Lee, Brinkcrest and Horizon, then it is time to take notice!

These are just some of the reasons that Tuftwick stands tall in its field. A visit to the big Tuftwick store in southwest Lubbock will reveal even more reasons for selecting and purchasing all one's carpet needs there.

"Longtime recognition of Tuftwick Carpet, Inc. as a headquarters for attractive pricing, utmost in value, and always a wide selection is a matter of general knowledge.

"But in appreciating Tuftwick for its inflation-fighting prices, have you realized that this big firm at Slide Road and Brownfield Highway in Lubbock includes the most elegant wool carpets, even custom made for your own situation, along with its wide choices in other materials and grades?"

Finest 100 per cent wool carpet from Philadelphia Carpets, even in custom colors, is available at Tuftwick . . . so "let us custom make your carpet" is no idle claim there.

"Seriously, if you can't find the color you need, as example, consider custom carpet manufactured especially for you.

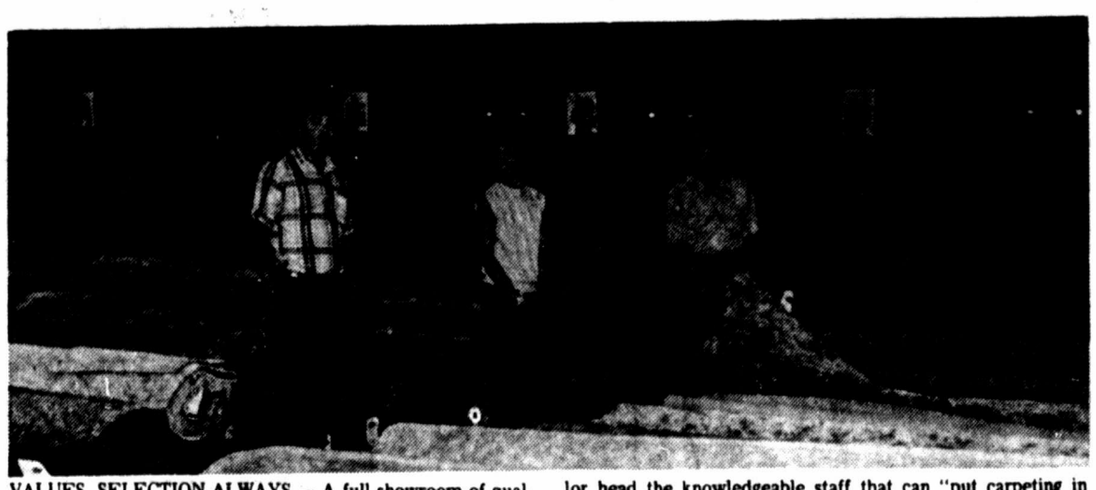

"Imagine . . . the exact color or any imaginable color, from the softest, most delicate color of your favorite rose to the deep rich auburn shade of your Irish setter! The exact style, weight and texture . . . even the exact shape, seamless and to 25 ft. width and 60 ft. length, can be yours!

"And you can purchase only what you need. Philadelphia Carpets make your carpet to fit each particular room, seamlessly when the room is within the above size specifications.

Carpets of imported wools assure elegant beauty and natural soil resistance. Consider Flambeau, Presentation or Supremacy from Philadelphia and Tuftwick, now; you can thus have as good a carpet as is available on the market."

Tuftwick prides in the wide selection of quality carpet kept in stock at its southwest Lubbock store.

Easy terms are available, with no money down, and with up to 36 months to pay!

VALUES, SELECTION ALWAYS — A full showroom of quality carpet, with prices kept as low as possible, is emphasized at Tuftwick where Arvel English, Nancy English and Hal Taylor head the knowledgeable staff that can "put carpeting in your home at less cost than you would think . . . from the carpet store where your dollar buys more."

Griffith Realtors Utilizing ERA Benefits To Aid Customer

In the age of consumerism, ERA-Griffith, Realtors, a member of Electronic Realty Association, Inc., is volunteering help to intercity and interstate home buyers and sellers.

"We offer three exclusive, invaluable consumer aids: photo-by-wire listings, the Home Buyers Protection Plan (BPP) and Home Sellers Protection (HSP)," reports ERA member broker Dennis Griffith, Broker, 3409 82nd St. in Lubbock.

"ERA is worthwhile because it helps the buyer find a home faster while at the same time saving money, protecting both the home buyer and seller against major financial loss from unexpected home repair bills," says Griffith.

Before ERA, nationwide referrals were unorganized and loosely controlled , Griffith explains, ERA's "Moving Machine" which transmits at one time six photos of home and descriptive data to prospective home buyers practically anywhere in the country, has changed all that, he points out.

"The sytsem frees the home buyers from making unnecessary and costly trips to his new hometown where he normally would have to call unfamiliar brokers, read over long lists of newspaper classified ads and generally live out of a suitcase for weeks on end," said "Griffith.

Protection Outlines

Under ERA's Buyers Protection Plan, the buyer is protected for one year against the operational failure of the home's central heating, electric air conditioning, plumbing and electrical systems, the wall, floor and heating units, built-in appliances, water heaters and softeners and accessible sheet metal ducts which were in good operating condition at the time of sale. Claims paid by ERA to homeowners covered by BPP have exceeded $2 million. The homeowner never pays more than a pre-selected deductible charge per service call.

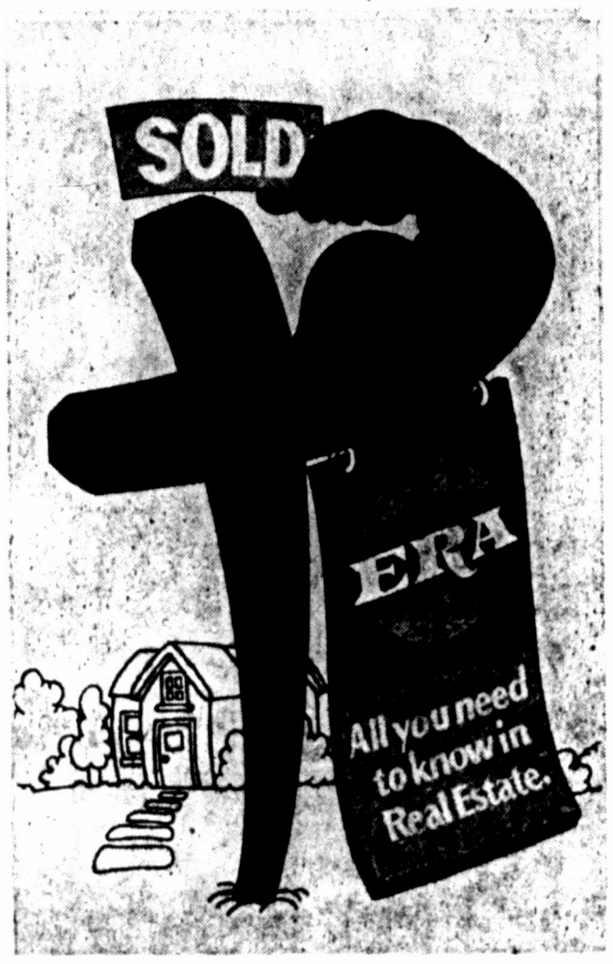

Eliminates Headaches

The new Home Sellers protection provide the same coverage as BPP. The home seller's coverage begins 15 days after the home is listed for sale through an ERA member broker and is good for up to six months or until the home is sold. ERA pays for the repairs after a deductible charge is paid by the seller per service call. Other than the deductible, there is no cost to the seller while the home is on the market. At closing, the seller purchases the BPP warranty for the buyer. The warranty transfers to the buyer at time of legal sale and remains in effect for one year.

"Both plans take a lot of headaches out of buying and selling a home," said Griffith. "When a buyer or seller calls and complains that his heating system failed, we can alleviate his worries by telling him the system is covered. The two warranty plans are basically peace of mind. It is beautiful!"

Perhaps the single key to ERA's continuing success is its extensive training program in which member broker and sales associates are instructed how to utilize ERA's complete range of marketing tools.

The local firm has 12 qualified professionals to serve the city of Lubbock's housing needs. According to Griffith, "our earnest desire is to provide the best of services for our fellow Lubbockites. The time to purchase a home is now, and we offer to anyone in the city a free market analysis on their current home, advise and help in purchasing that first home, or if moving out of town, our 'Moving Machine' for pictures or homes in other cities is at your service."

A-1 Nursery's Price-Breakers Include 'Shade Trees Discounted 50 Per Cent'

The Price Breaker values continue at A-1 Nursery, 7500 W. 82nd St.!

This means that all shade trees are marked at 50 per cent price slash! (A large number of fruitless mulberries are included in this opportunity).

And all packaged bulbs are a fantastic 4 for $1!

All one-gallon and five-gallon shrubs are at 35 per cent off of list price.

Just arrived are 5,000 geraniums in bloom, in 3-in. pots, priced at 20 cents!

Or the extra nice 4 1/2-in. pot geraniums, regular $2.50, at 89 cents each.

Peppers and tomatoes are a fantastically low 5 cents each!

Large tropicals are half price.

All roses, while they last, are 30 per cent off.

All 10-in. planted hanging baskets (new shipment) are $6.99 (compare at $12.50).

Japanese boxwood, 1 gal., is $1.59, two for $3.

A super value: 3-in. caladiums, regular 79 cents but now 20 cents each!

Shady lawn mix is $3.49 lb., and Kentucky Fescue 31 is just 88 cents per pound.

Where is all this:

At A-1 Nursery, 7500 82nd St., phone 792-6070, open from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. daily on weekdays, and 1:30 p.m. until 5 p.m. Sundays.

Prices are cash and carry, pickup at the nursery just southwest of the city.

A-1 has a tremendous selection in every department, well worth the drive to view and select . . . and save.

Area residents have long benefitted from the landscape design, installation and maintenance services of A-1, plus such benefits as the new shipments and low early-season prices.

For more than two decades, area residents have been assisted by Winfred Self, owner and operator of A-1 Nursery, since 1973 at its present expanded quarters.

Everything in the modern nursery is coordinated for the best in products and services. A complete line is stocked including trees, shrubs, vines, fertilizers, insecticides and numerous other nursery supplies.

The knowledge of Self and his experienced crew possibly is the biggest asset of A-1, however, as hundreds of customers can attest to the superior help there through the years.

STAFFED TO SERVE — Frances Bilbrey, owner of the Alamo Beauty Salon, is shown at lower right in this picture, with the elite and experienced staff of the salon at 5023 Ave. H. The entire group welcomes the 'back-to-school' trek with specials as outlined in the story below. Staffmember names are listed in the same report.

Alamo Beauty Salon's Specials Aid Back-to-School Preparation

Back-to-School Specials have been posted by the popular Alamo Beauty Salon, 5023 Ave. H (across east from Gibson's).

"We welcome all of you back to school, and we will have a cup of coffee for you . . . plus numerous specials on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays!"

On these days, regular $22.50 Uniperms are special at $20;

Frostings, regular $25, are $22.50;

Virgin bleach, regular $35, is $30;

Cuts and blow dry for children under age 12, regular $12, are priced until school starts at $10 (as with the other specials, effective on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays).

Regular everyday prices also appeal, and include shampoo and set for $6, and haircuts at $6.

We also have the all-new Foam Perm by Zotos, really fabulous, and it is regularly priced at $35, but for back-to-school it is just $30 (Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays) and it includes haircut, shampoo and set. Try it!

Manicures with Norma Lloyd are just $4 on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

Jimmy and Frances Bilbrey, owners, are joined by the entire staff in welcoming all old and new friends and customers, thanking you for a successful year. Come in: "the coffee is always on," is the invitation.

Twelve operators are on the job at Alamo Beauty Salon, and these include Frances Bilbrey, Kay Tilley, Linda Steinbaugh, Nancy Wright, Thelma Stewart, Norene Behlen, Dolly Rates, Laquita Stewart, Johnny Lavender, Treva Harville, Ida Compton, Kathy Taylor; Norma Lloyd, manicurist; Henrietta Burleson, shampoo; Elaine Murdock, shampoo assistant; and Jean Webb, assistant.

Call Wanda Pinkert, receptionist, for an appointment.

Redken, MQ and KMS products are sold at the Alamo Beauty Salon, too.

For the best in service and for extraordinary savings as a Back-to-School gesture, call now at 744-2588 or 744-7295; you'll be glad you did. The Alamo Beauty Salon, 5023 Ave. H., welcomes you.

JEAN BLEDSOE

Jean Bledsoe Insurance Agency Offers Significant Services, Helpful Hints

"Did you know that in Turkey drunk drivers are taken 20 miles from town by police and forced to walk back . . . under escort!

"And that in Malaya the driver is jailed; if he's married, his wife goes to jail, too!"

These are just two of the disclosures, in a lighter vein, that are made in the quarterly newsletters sent by Jean Bledsoe of Bledsoe Insurance Agency as a continuing service to customers of that agency.

Actually, the statements regarding the intoxicated drivers lend emphasis to the warning:

"Get high; so will your premiums!

Jean notes that if one is convicted of driving while drunk or impaired by drugs, that auto insurance premiums may be increased by as much as 150 per cent. (In Australia, the names of drivers are sent to the local newspapers and are printed under the heading "He's Drunk and In Jail"!

Other points of current significance, outlined in the most recent Jean Bledsoe Personal Protection Newsletter, include disclosure that one-half of all homes are under-insured. A work sheet is published in the letter so that one can compute replacement costs and percentage increase from year of construction.

Flood Insurance

And attention is focused, and aptly so, on fact that the time to buy flood insurance is before the flood. A question-answer sheet gives a lot of hard facts about flood protection, facts that should prompt one to secure coverage before too late.

For RV Units

And there are hints regarding proper types of recreational vehicle coverage, too, with RV units carrying their own insurance problems.

An insert in the same newsletter defines how replacement cost coverage on unscheduled personal property is now available in Texas.

It all points to this:

For "personal and professional insurance service," it is the Jean Bledsoe Insurance Agency, 3305 81st St. in Lubbock, phone 792-6293.

The multi-line agency serves fully in commercial, life, business, home, auto and all other insurance needs.

Attention to detail and customers' interest is the rule.

Jean Bledsoe heads the qualified staff that includes Gene Knight, underwriter, and other staffmembers Kathy Voss, Sharon Hemphill and Betty Pena.

"Surely, the capabilities and the appreciation of you as a customer and friend place the Jean Bledsoe Agency as the type of firm to which you wish to entrust your insurance program.

"We at the Jean Bledsoe Agency will do our best to merit your consideration and continuous patronage."

Expansion, Specials, New Instruction Aids Mark Rhea's Crafts Anniversary

August is anniversary month at the popular Rhea's Crafts, 2831 34th Street in Lubbock.

C.L. and Ruby Clingman one year ago purchased Rhea'sCrafts, and this anniversary date affords opportunity of reminiscing, pointing out additions to service, facilities and stock, and to announce special forthcoming events of note.

Frames 'n' Things'

The year has been marked by activity in every phase of business. More floor space has been provided within the showrooms (460 more feet), and a new and distinct area, the 'Frames 'n' Things" has been provided for greatly added display and for work tables.

Better departmentalized than ever, the big store has been rearranged throughout. And customers like it! Actually, for the second time within the year, the sales floor has been expanded.

So much is going on at Rhea's, that enumeration in detail would be near impossible. Attention is invited and urged, however, to the following specific items:

Special Prices

Periodic sales will be held throughout the August anniversary month.

Huge Plaster Selection

Rhea's Crafts prides in the largest plaster selection in the Southwest, and the recent additions to this big department, together with more arriving, support this claim most convincingly.

Plaster whiteware is more popular than ever, with five reasons cited: (1) it enables "do it yourself and save;" (2) requires no firing, ever; (3) easy to paint or stain; (4) low cost decorating is enabled; and (5) it is perfect for gifts.

One-of-a-kind collectibles of Hydrocal (harder than regular plaster) are stocked.

The capable staff at Rhea's Crafts always is available to aid in plaster craft finishing.

A large paint selection is stocked for plaster ware.

Rhea's is "big animal headquarters," with gorgeous plaster giraffes, dogs, lions and more in stock.

A large selection of plaster in the Western theme is stocked.

Instruction Opportunities

Plaster painting classes are conducted every Thursday morning and night, at no charge except for materials; come by for details.

Tole painting instruction begins Sept. 4. Pre-registration and deposit is required for this schedule.

A silk flower workshop is conducted every Saturday, at no charge other than materials.

It is time to think of creative craft pursuits for Christmas gifts, and Rhea's is ready with the materials, "how to" books and personal assistance. Both sets and individual pieces for plaster nativity scenes are stocked, as example.

One of the larger stocks of macrame supplies in the area is provided.

Wood in numerous shapes is stocked, great for tole work. In fact, special cuts of wood are enabled upon order.

Grumbacher artist brushes, canvas, etc., is stocked, together with Duncan Arts & Crafts acrylics and stains.

There are beads, minis, trim, eyes, and other accessories.

Mirro Magic

Ask for details regarding the fantastic Mirro Magic classes.

Lots of books are stocked to aid the craft pursuits.

Layaway, Visa, Master Charge and cash purchases are welcomed!

Get the picture: C.L. and Ruby Clingman have made sure that there are products and learning opportunities galore at Rhea's Crafts.

"Come in, let's renew or make new acquaintance; we think you'll appreciate and enjoy the greatly expanded Rhea's Crafts, 2831 34th St., phone 795-2655.

ENLARGED RHEA'S HAS NEW LOOK — Owner C.L. Clingman calls attention to the 'big animals' stocked in the huge plaster display at Rhea's Crafts, the added 'Frames 'n' Things' area, forthcoming classes, and the specials arranged for August, first anniversary of the store under operation of Mr. and Mrs. Clingman.

EARL RAY music company
SOUTH PLAINS' LEADING BAND HOUSE
SERVING FOR OVER A QUARTER CENTURY
5302 AVENUE Q Briercroft Shopping Center

Earl Ray Music Enables Easy Solution In Instrument Needs

Attention, band students!

"Whether renting, purchasing, or 'trading up', why settle for less than Earl Ray Music Co., 'Mr. Music' on the South Plains for over 30 years."

"Or if you are the parent or other near relative of a band student, likely you know first hand of the valued services and products of the Earl Ray Music Co., phone 762-0468, located in Briercroft Center, Lubbock.

For decades, Earl Ray has served as a firm sincerely interested in your welfare, in seeing that the student or other musically-inclined person is set with the best in instruments . . . whether purchase, rentals or repairs are involved.

"Trading up" is a very popular program presented by Earl Ray, making for ease in securing a quality instrument to best serve in the progress one has made in any musical pursuit.

Service does not end with the rental or sale at this leading band house. Earl Ray maintains the largest band instrument repair department on the South Plains, with fulltime specialists on the job.

Reliance upon the Earl Ray Music Co. can solve (and easily so) the many situations and every problem for the music minded.

Long a standby as "the South Plains leading Band House," the Earl Ray Music Co., at 5302 Ave. Q in the Briercroft Shopping Center, pledges the finest service in its every department.

For more than a quarter century of being known and trusted by band directors, parents and bandsmen throughout the area, Earl Ray Music Co. early in 1974 moved to the large modern home it now enjoys — a facility that has met with exceptional response from customers who appreciate the added conveniences and still-fine service at Earl Ray's, at an easy-in, easy-out location, convenient to Loop 289, Avenue Q, and other key traffic arteries.

Selling, servicing and trade-rent-lease of fine insturment lines still is the whole business of Earl Ray. Whether selection of Conn, Vito, Selmer, Bundy, LeBlanc, Ludwig, Bach, Olds, Artley, Premier, Gemeinhardt, etc., quality is assured.

More and more students throughout Lubbock and the entire area are learning the advantages of "trading up" to a better instrument at Earl Ray Music Co. As the students progress in their musical careers, the "trading up" is especially advantageous.

"Whether or not you purchased your present band instrument from Earl Ray, they will be glad to give you a price you are sure to appreciate with trade on a better one.

Remember, Earl Ray Music Co. represents the leading band instrument manufacturers. At Earl Ray's, one always has a great choice in quality brand names.

The Little Shoppe, In Cactus Alley, Tells Stock Additions

"Have you visited in The Little Shoppe lately?"

Whether as a regular customer with an eye to "what's new in miniatures," or if desiring to bring guests to a truly unique shop, or if just interested in browsing or even developing a new hobby, reliance on The Little Shoppe in Cactus Alley is heartily recommended.

Though already stocking miniatures by the literal thousands, The Little Shoppe has added more, with current presentations including some never before seen or offered in this area.

Whether the interest is miniatures, decor pieces, "how to" books, or more, see the intriguing stock now at this easy-to-find shop at 2610 Salem Avenue.

Be sure to see the Schumacher wallpaper, reduced to scale, that shop owner-operator Norma Bartley has secured.

"May we have the pleasure of your visit and have the opportunity to assist in your special-occasion selections? The Little Shoppe, in Cactus Alley just south off the Brownfield Highway in Lubbock, is more than miniatures, and we want you to see it all!"

Still Growing

And new furniture items such as the beautiful canopy beds.

For the hobbyist, for the amateur and avid miniature collector, for folks who simply appreciate the unusual, the pretty and the intriguing, The Little Shoppe comes through!

Catering Capabilities Among Vital Services At Mrs. Camp's

For pastries, cookies, cakes and all why consider other than Mrs. Camp's, 4005 34th St., phone 792-3243.

At Mrs. Camp's the delicious answer to every pastry need is present . . . for goodness any day and for the most elaborate of special occasions.

So, treat the children, family and friends to summer delights from Mrs. Camp's where every operation is for finest preparation, display and service related to superior bakery products.

"Did you realize that Mrs. Camp's Pastry Long the solution to every pastrty need) offers a really outstanding catering service?"

Catering for all occasions including weddings, anniversaries, birthdays, graduations and other group events is readily available from Mrs. Camp's where the Catering Department gets full attention of a dedicated staff and ownership.

Imagine . . . everything for a complete wedding reception, including the most beautiful cakes ever, punch, nuts, finger sandwiches, mints, coffee, silver service, the complete bride's table, groom's table and guest book tables. Yes, complete to the glassware and silver, catering from Mrs. Camp's assures rightness in every detail.

David Yocum is the very capable manager of the department.

Charles and Frances Scarborough, owners of Mrs. Camps, take special pride in the catering service they initiated some three years ago and which has been received in a gratifying manner.

Yocum and the long-known Mrs. Camp's ownership and staff invite inquiries for every reception need.

"We think you'll appreciate this service; call 792-2343 for details, or come by the attractive, spotless facility at 4005 34th St. where a large display hints of the completeness of the catering department.

Specializing in custom orders, Mrs. Camp's does "one job better," concentrating all efforts at this one location and this one field.

The custom party cakes, wedding cakes, anniversary cakes and many other products are not only the most delicious to be found, but they are veritable works of art. The skilled decorators create designs or use the customers' design in cakes for special occasions, baking and preparing on as little as one-day notice.

Mrs. Camp's uses only pure ingredients in its many products.

Select from doughnuts, Danish rolls, French pastries, several varieties of Danish coffee cakes; and peanut brittle and divinity candy. Twenty-five varieties of cookies are prepared, with only pecans as nut ingredients.

All Mrs. Camp's products are baked and prepared right in the spotless kitchens of the facility.

Cakes and other bakery goodies are stocked in the cases at all times, and many decorative creations are in stock, sometimes eliminating need of special orders for a particular occasion.

Pies, cakes, tarts, etc., are the ultimate in goodness at Mrs. Camp's, open from 7:30 a.m. until 6:30 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays.

"Spider-man is coming to Woolco, and he would like to meet you!"

Yes, Spider-man will be at Woolco in Lubbock this Friday and Saturday, Aug. 10, 11.

He will be in the big store from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m., these two days, wandering throughout the store and available for pictures.

"Yes, you can have your photo taken with Spider-man, with the picture ready in just two minutes! The photo comes in a super hero frame and with Spider-man's autograph. For the picture, a charge of $3.50 will be made. But there is no charge to see Spider-man in his Woolco appearance, and the invitation is extended for all to come and see this popular character.

Pre-Owned Specials...
The response to our "Whale of a Hail Sale" was so outstanding that we now find ourselves OVERSTOCKED on excellent pre-owned AIRSTREAMS and ARGOSY TRAVEL TRAILERS. We must reduce this stock to make room for the '80 models.
We now have in stock pre-owned Airstreams and Argosys in 18', 20', 22', 25', 27' & 29' & 31', lengths with prices starting as low as .... $2995!
EXAMPLE No. 1 27' AIRSTREAM SPO Double Air, Zip-Dee awning, AM/FM/8-track, TV antenna, power jack, BAL stabilizer Jacks — very sharp!
WAS $9670 — NOW $8282 .... SAVE $1388!
EXAMPLE No. 2: 31' AIRSTREAM, twin beds, AM/FM stereo, TV antenna, 7 1/2', refrigerater & Separate freezer, 'L' front lounge.
Was $10,575 — NOW $9494 .... SAVE $1081!
REMEMBER! A 31' AIRSTREAM TOWS WITH LESS EFFORT THAN AN AVERAGE 20' TRAVEL TRAILER!
We still have a very few Airstream Road Rangers and Menacos with slight hail damage and tremendous discounts! 8-1

BENEFICIAL INSECTS
BOWL WORM Activity is increasing right along & we can help you with Trichogramma Wasps. No more green lacewings this year, but have some Ladybugs. Know who you are dealing with in purchasing insects & if you are really getting what you are paying for. We are not part time bug peddlers working new areas, new towns each year. Bio insect control has offered 21 years service & experience. BUDDY ROSS. 806-797-0998, 762-0471 unit 3121.

JUST STARTING? Look no further. 2 BR, 2 bath doll house just listed. Beautiful master BR with ceiling fan, recessed lights in bath and den. 2 full baths, huge walk-in closet in MBR, storm cellar & storage bldg. FHA or VA financing. Just $34,950.

NEED 3 BR's AT AFFORDABLE PRICE? Very nice brick home in S. Lubbock with 2 car carport, lovely yard, clean — well-kept home for only $30,500. Call for appointment today.

NEED MORE SPACE? — This home in S.W. Lubbock has over 2600 Sq. Ft. spread over 3 BR's, 2 baths, formal living, den w/fireplace, and very large gameroom. Take advantage of FHA or VA financing before interest rates go up. Zero down to vet, low down payment for FHA. Only $60,300. Oakwood Addition.

NEW IN MEADOWGREEN — Several new starts, plus finished homes are now available in Lubbock's rapidly growing addition off W. 19th St. just beyond the Loop. All are 3 BR, 2 bath, energy efficient, ref. air, gas heat, built with Home Owners Warranty, FHA-VA financing available. From $40,150.

2 STORY CONTEMPORARY — recently listed in Quaker Heights. Simply delightful and full of pleasant surprises. For instance: Loft MBR looks over den with vaulted ceiling, beams, fireplace & recessed lights. Formal dining, parquet entry, and basement that could be office or 4th BR. Owner 3,000 Sq. Ft. Practice your putting on the lush green grass. Call for appointment.

HAVING TROUBLE? Finding a home you can afford? Well, we've got it in this 3 BR, 2 bath home with curbed flower beds, 2 car garage, over 1700 Sq. Ft. Only $39,950.

WHY WAIT? When you can probably afford to make mortgage payments rather than rent FHA appraised at $23,500, this 3 BR home with space for office may be ideal starter home for you. Immediate occupancy upon closing.

BEAUTIFUL 4 BR — in Broadmoor Addition. Quality throughout. New carpet, fireplace, AM/FM intercom, large utility, curbed flower beds, lovely landscaping on corner lot, side entry garage. Just $63,950.

SMALL ACREAGE 2 locations — N.E. & North of City. Ideal for truck farming or mobil home. Approx. 5 acres each.

NOT QUITE FINISHED but will be soon. Located in Pine Hills Addition, just outside City off W. 34th. Jot down these extras: 1.2 acre lot (approx.) fireplace in MBR, double sink in utility, 900 Sq. Ft. 2 car garage & office. Over 2400 sq. ft. of 3 BR, 2 bath home included also. Call one of our Pro's for showing. Just $69,500.

THERE ARE WORSE THINGS TO RUN OUT OF THAN GAS.

Cars can run out of brakes. Or control. And if that happens, a terrific mpg rating isn't much help.

What you need is a car designed to help you stay out of that kind of trouble. Volvo. A Volvo's dual circuit braking system retains about 80% effectiveness if one circuit should fail. The car's weight is distributed almost evenly. So neither the head nor the tail wag the rest of the car. Steering is responsive and fast. And the suspension, like the rest of the car, is finely engineered. So that handling is predictable. Which means you don't have to be a race car driver to know what your Volvo is going to do at all times.

Oh, yes. The Volvo also gets good gas mileage. But for Volvo owners, that isn't the first thing they think of. volvo

19 EPA est. mpg 29 EPA est. hwy

Volvo 244 sedans with 4-speed stick plus overdrive. Use these numbers for comparison. Actual mpg may differ depending on speed, trip length and weather. Actual highway mpg will probably be lower than EPA highway estimate.

VOLVO. AT TODAY'S PRICES, IT'S WORTH A LONG HARD LOOK.

Wife Assaulted After Argument

A Lubbock woman's common-law husband allegedly attacked her early this morning with a claw hammer in one of numerous assaults reported recently.

Police said they entered a residence in the 7400-block of Ivory Avenue about 3:30 a.m. today and found the 23-year-old victim lying on the floor and the man leaning over her with the hammer.

Reports indicate the couple began arguing after the 25-year-old man refused to go to work Sunday. Both suffered gashes on the head, but the man reportedly refused medical treatment.

The woman was treated and released at Methodist Hospital.

The claw hammer was confiscated, but reports do not indicate that anyone was arrested.

A 19-year-old Lubbock man was treated and released at Methodist Hospital about 11 p.m. Sunday after a beer-drinking companion allegedly assaulted him at a location in the 3100-block of Bates Street.

Luis Rios of 1118 Erskine St. told police the male suspect struck his wife and then turned on him with a beer bottle.

Reports state that three other persons joined in the attack, resulting in Rios suffering multiple lacerations.

Police say they know who shot a 27-year-old man about 3:20 p.m. Sunday in the 2900-block of East Main Street, but the victim did not wish to file charges because the gunman was his father.

The injured man, who was treated and released at Health Sciences Center Hospital, was found by police after he had rammed his car into a tree at East Broadway and Idalou Road.

The man reportedly was not hurt in the accident, but was suffering from two small-caliber bullet wounds in the back of each leg.

Police confronted the man's father in the 1100-block of David Avenue and he reportedly admitted shooting his son. However, the suspect was released after the victim told officers he would not file charges.

Gregory Wayne Howitt, 16, of 6413 Joliet Ave. said he was assaulted by two men whom he had refused to compete with in a car race shortly after 11 p.m. Sunday.

Howitt said he and Jeffery Keith Covert, 16, of 3432 56th St. were in his car at 34th Street and Quaker Avenue when the suspects, two white men traveling in a small red car, pulled up beside him and challenged him to a race. He said that when he refused, the men began throwing ice and a bottle at his car.

Reports indicate the men followed Howitt and Covert to 34th Street and Flint Avenue, where they allegedly jerked Howitt out of his vehicle, struck him in the jaw and knocked his glasses off.

Covert said one of the suspects choked him and pulled his hair. Police said, however, that neither youth appeared seriously injured.

Guadalupe Garcia Tanguma, 16, of 2107 Duke St. was treated and released at Health Sciences Center Hospital about 4:25 p.m. Sunday after he reportedly was struck on the head with a club near North Boston Avenue and Auburn Street.

Tanguma said he and a companion were stopped by a car containing five Mexican-American boys or young men, and that two of the passengers got out and assaulted him. He said that after he was struck with the club, the suspects got back in their car and drove off.

In other activity, police were successful in rounding up car burglary suspects in two separate incidents Sunday night and early this morning.

A 28-year-old Dallas man was arrested about 12:30 a.m. in the 3500-block of 41st Street after several persons said they saw the man acting suspiciously and watched as he broke into a vehicle in the area.

Police stopped the suspect and asked what he was doing. The man reportedly answered, "Oh, just jogging ... is there anything wrong with that?"

Officers apparently thought there was, and booked him into the county jail on suspicion of car burglary, public intoxication and acting suspicious in a suspicious place.

A Lubbock policeman said three men were arrested about 9:45 p.m. Sunday after he watched them burglarize a car in front of a club in the 700-block of 13th Street.

Taken into custody at 15th Street and Avenue K minutes after the alleged break-in were a 23-year-old Dallas man, and two 24-year-old men, one from Fort Hancock and the other whose address was unknown.

In a recent house break-in, Claud Walters of 1723-B 21st St. said he lost $400 cash to burglars who entered his residence between Friday and 6:15 p.m. Sunday.

Paul Saiz, 19, of 4714 Auburn St. told police that someone knocked him unconscious and took $17 from him during an incident about 1:30 a.m. Sunday.

Saiz said that he was walking out the back door of a downtown club when someone approached him from behind and hit him. The victim said he regained consciousness in a storage room in the back of a gas station at Fourth Street and Avenue Q.

Reports indicate that Saiz began walking home and that a Texas Tech police officer gave him a ride to Health Sciences Center Hospital, where the victim called police.

Roosevelt Denson, 43, of 2222 10th St. reported that he was sitting in a club when a black male walked up to him, struck him on the head with a sharp object and then left. The incident allegedly occurred about 1:15 a.m. Sunday in a club in the 800-block of Avenue C.

Denson was treated at HSCH and released. He described his attacker as 36 to 45 years old, tall and of medium build.

A 50-year-old Lubbock man told officers that he had just won $100 in a poker game when two of his fellow poker players became angry, began kicking him and took his winnings during a Saturday night incident.

Petronilo Garibaldo of 2717 Cornell St. was treated at Methodist Hospital. He refused to tell police the names of the suspects.

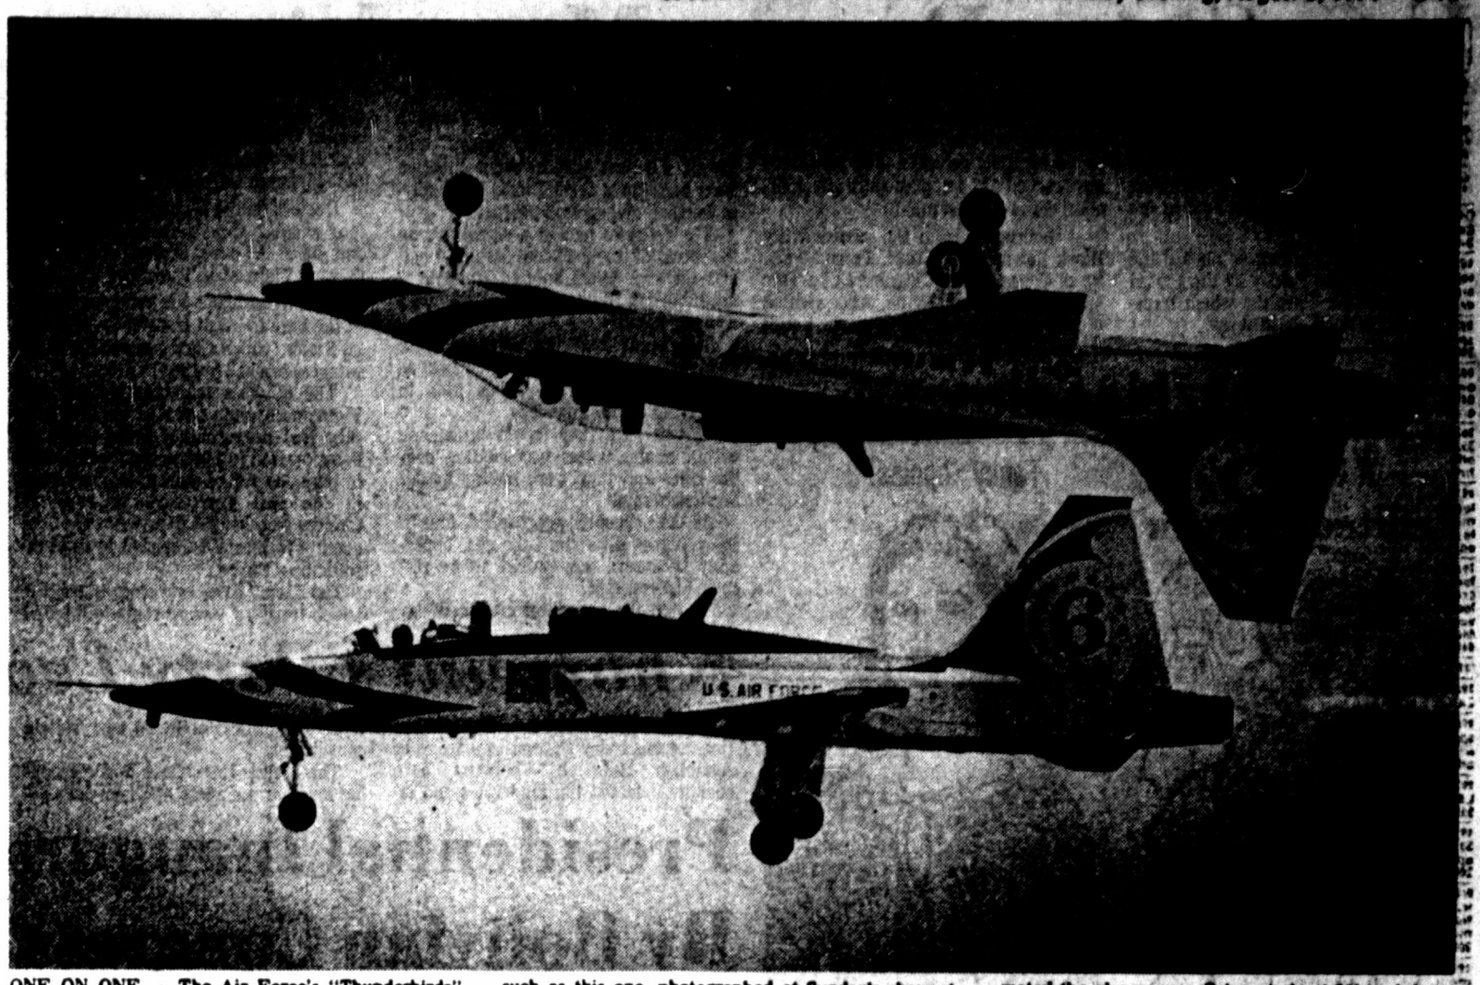

Richard Jay Moeck, 19, of 2105 Eighth St. said that a man entered his home late Saturday, began cursing and hitting him and then threatened him and his brother with a knife.

The victim said the suspect was Mexican-American, 26 to 35 years old, of medium height and muscular.

Reports indicate the suspect held a knife to the victim's throat and told him, "I can cut you here or in El Paso; it doesn't make any difference to me." Moeck said that when he tried to leave, the suspect grabbed him and put the knife to his throat.

A 38-year-old Lubbock woman was treated at West Texas Hospital and released after a man cut her on the arm Saturday night.

The woman reported that she was sitting on her porch when the suspect came up and began arguing with her. The victim said that as she began walking into her home, the man pulled a knife and cut her on the arm.

Colombian Connection Witness Promised Reduced Prison Term

AUSTIN (AP) — A key government witness in the Colombian Connection dope smuggling trial of Las Vegas gambler Jimmy Chagra testified today that federal prosecutors had promised to help him get a reduced sentence if he cooperated fully in prosecuting Chagra.

Dudley Connell, an El Paso travel agent now serving a five-year federal prison sentence for marijuana possession, was cross-examined by Chagra attorney Oscar Goodman of Las Vegas about his deal with the government.

Connell, 31, said Friday he was arrested last year for attempting to sell cocaine to two undercover agents, but was allowed to plead guilty to the lesser offense of marijuana possession in trade for his cooperation.

Connell said today that his attorney had filed late last year for a reduced sentence and planned to file a new motion after Connell completed his testimony in the Chagra trial.

"The government has said they would make my cooperation known to the court," Connell said.

Under questioning, he said the government also had promised to tell the court whether Connell deserved a reduced sentence.

"The U.S. attorney's office said it would make known the extent of my cooperation in this and other cases, and the conditions of my confinement," Connell said.

Asked by Goodman what conditions those might be, Connell said, "I have been in solitary confinment the past five months in protective custody."

Connell said Friday he is a prisoner in the Fort Worth Federal Correctional Institution.

Asked who the U.S. attorney's representative was in making plea bargaining agreements with him, Connell it was Assistant U.S. Attorney James Kerr of San Antonio.

Kerr was a frequent courtroom opponent of Chagra's lawyer brother, Lee, who was murdered in his El Paso office last December during an apparent armed robbery.

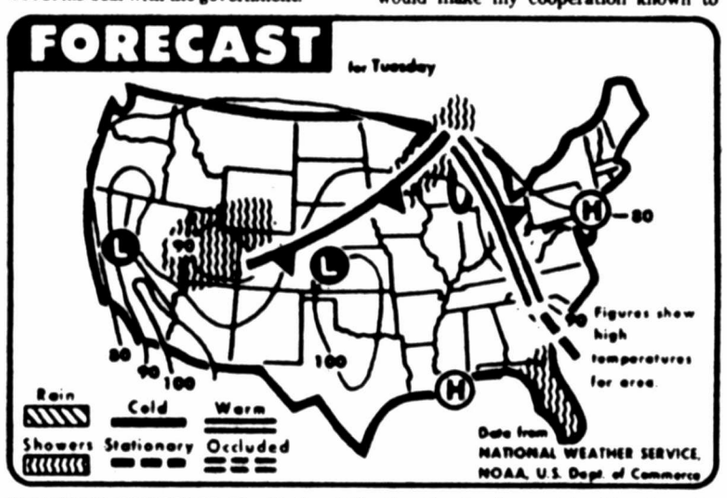

Goodman had said in an opening statement to the jury last week that the federal authorities had been attempting to make a case against Lee Chagra, but turned their attention to Jimmy Chagra after Lee's murder.

He also has contended the government's case rests on "purchased testimony," which he says cannot be believed because witnesses such as Connell have too much to lose if they don't give the government what it wants.

Connell testified Friday that he and a Denver friend, Paul Taylor, were approached by alleged Chagra associate Henry Wallace in 1977 for help in bankrolling a plan to fly 13.2 pounds of cocaine from Colombia.

Area's Weather Outlook Warm, Dry

A-J News Services

No break in the area's warm, dry weather is expected at least for the next five days.

Today's forecast calls for highs in the low 90s, warming to the mid-90s on Tuesday. Lows should be near 70.

The extended forecast predicts sunny days and fair nights through Friday, with continued warm afternoons.

However, the long range forecast for Sunday through Aug. 15 indicates below normal temperatures and above normal precipitation.

Lubbock's precipitation total for the year now stands at 15.41 inches, almost double the 7.84 recorded up to this date last year.

Elsewhere in the state today, skies were clear except for some patches of cloudiness in Central Texas.

Pre-dawn temperatures ranged from the 60s in the northern Panhandle to the 70s and 80s over the rest of the state.

Lubbock's low this morning was 70 degrees after a high of 91 Sunday afternoon.

Thunderstorm activity that spawned tornadoes in the Midwest tapered off today, and doctors watched the progress of a 15-year-old Florida boy who was in a coma since being struck by lightning while fishing.

Thunderstorms rolled in a band stretching from southern Ohio across central Indiana to eastern Illinois. The band was responsible for most of the severe weather reported across the country Sunday, when 12 tornadoes were reported.

Five tornadoes each spun through northen Illinois and east-central Iowa. No injuries were reported, but several buildings were either damaged or destroyed and a large number of trees and power lines were downed, the National Weather Service reported.

Storms and heavy clouds prevented takeoffs and landings for about an hour Sunday evening at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, the world's busiest.

Two tornadoes were sighted in Florida, one near Ocala in northern Florida and the other near Opalonka in the southern portion of the state.

A 15-year-old boy was in a coma today after a lightning bolt struck him in the chest as he stood fishing with two friends on a bridge over the Arlington River in Jacksonville, Fla.

Official said the lightning bolt burned Mark Deley Shelton from his chest to his navel and then exited through his left foot, blowing off his shoe.

"It was like dynamite exploding in our faces," said Joe Ravencamp, 14, who was standing beside Shelton and was knocked over by the force. Neither he nor Stev DeWitt was injured.

"Mark stood straight up and fell backward," Ravencamp said. "There was a flash of light and a loud bang. My ears are still ringing from it."

Memorial Hospital officials said Shelton was in serious but stable condition. Despite the coma, Shelton had to be tied to his bed Sunday night because his body shook with convulsions.

Other thundershowers were scattered today along the Gulf and South Atlantic coasts, in western New York state, southeastern Maine, eastern Montana and the Southwestern United States.

Tallahassee and Cross City, Fla., received more than an inch of rain each during a six-hour period ending this morning, the weather service reported.

U.S. Ships Rescue More Vietnamese Boat People

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The 7th Fleet tanker Wabash brought 49 Vietnamese refugees to the Subic Naval Base in the Philippines today, including 28 pulled from a foundering boat in the South China Sea.

The other 21 Vietnamese aboard the oiler were rescued Friday by the guided missile destroyer Parsons, which transfered them to the Wabash at sea.

Both vessels are with the five-ship task force ordered by President Carter to aid escaping refugees. The task force has rescued 143 refugees since the operation began late last month.

A helicopter from the carrier Kitty Hawk flown by Lt. Cmdr. Terry Myers, 30, of Cocoa Beach, Fla., and Lt.j.g. Dan McDonald, 26, of Mobile, Ala., spotted the 28 refugees during a dawn patrol Sunday about 240 miles east of Vietnam.

"They were incredibly lucky," said Myers. "It was just a whim that we went back for a second look at a badly-lit freighter and spotted the fire."

The refugees had lit a signal fire on the deck of their 25-foot fishing boat, and the two pilots spotted it about a mile beyond the freighter they were trying to identify.

The pilots said the refugees were trying frantically to bail out their boat as 25-knot winds pushed waves four to eight feet over the gunwales.

"I was sure they would have sunk within hours. Water was coming over the sides and they were bailing hard," McDonald said.

As the helicopter approached, four of the refugees dived into the sea, apparently to ensure they would all be rescued, Streeter said.

He said the helicopter crewmen signaled that help was on the way and coaxed the four refugees back into the boat. The chopper hovered overhead until the Wabash arrived.

Doctors on the Wabash said the 28 — four women, three infants and 21 men and boys — were healthy. They said they left Vietnam on Thursday.

The Wabash put the refugees ashore at the base to await transfer to the United States, which Carter promised to all refugees rescued by the 7th Fleet.

The refugees said they were ethnic Vietnamese, and several of the men said they fled because they were afraid of being drafted to fight in Cambodia. Most of the hundreds of thousands of refugees in the past year have been ethnic Chinese who bought their way out of the country to escape being sent to rural resettlement camps.

The Hong Kong government said a British freighter was en route to the British colony with 122 refugees it rescued at sea. However, Hong Kong authorities said the ship would not be allowed into port unless Britain agreed to take in the refugees.

Crowded Hong Kong, already a mecca for hundreds of thousands of Chinese escaping from China, has flooded with 67,000 Vietnamese awaiting resettlement in other countries. A spokesman said many of those rescued by the freighter were reported sick and two children had died.

A nine-member U.S. congressional delegation arrived today in Jakarta, Indonesia, from Thailand on a tour of refugee camps in Southeast Asia. The leader of the delegation, Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., said last month's international conference on Indochinese refugees ignored Thailand's enormous problem of land refugees from Laos and Cambodia.

Speaking at a news conference in Bangkok, he promised "positive action" by the United States to helping these refugees.

Rosenthal's panel split into three groups Sunday to visit refugee camps in various parts of Thailand. Rosenthal came away from the northern Nong Khai camp, which shelters about 36,000 Laotian refugees, saying conditions there were "very difficult."

There are about 200,000 Indochinese refugees in Thailand. About 9,000 are from Vietnam and the rest from Laos and Cambodia. Thailand has sent thousands of Cambodians back into their war-torn homeland. Prime Minister Kriangsak Chomanan told reporters he assured the congressmen his government will stop sending refugees back "for the time being" and wait for other countries to do something about taking them in.

Khomeini's Party Leads Iranian Elections

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Partial election returns today showed supporters of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini have soundly defeated the moderates and intellectuals critical of Iran's new Islamic constitution.

The Islamic Republican Party, grouping together members of Khomeini's secret Revolutionary Council and other powerful clergymen, won the majority of 39 seats in results reported by the state radio.

Voters went to the polls Friday to choose a total of 73 members of the assembly of experts that will have the power only to "examine" the new constitution.

Among the winners were eight ayatollahs and another 14 hojjatoleslams, a religious title meaning "argument for Islam."

Kurdish Democratic Party leader Abdor Rahman Qassemlou, a secular and dissident politician, was a major exception. He was elected from West Azerbaijan province, along with two religious leaders.

Presidential Inaugural Delayed By Bolivian Congress Stalemate

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — The Bolivian Congress recessed before dawn after an all night session failed to elect a president in five ballots and forced a delay in today's scheduled inauguration of the first civilian president after a decade of military rule.

"We have informed the legislators that they can continue their deliberations. We will transfer power when they have elected a president," the interior minister, Lt. Gen. Raul Lopez, told reporters.

Lopez had just left a meeting with Gen. David Padilla, the chief of the military junta, his cabinet, military commander and congressional leaders.

Former President Hernan Siles Zuazo, a diehard presidential contender, torpedoed a compromise intended to break the deadlock, and Congress adjourned until 10 a.m. EDT, half an hour before the inauguration was to have started.

Rosalynn Carter had been scheduled to attend the inauguration but cancelled her visit Saturday night when it became clear Congress was deadlocked.

The compromise to resolve the deadlock between presidential candidates Siles and Victor Paz Estenssoro called for the election of Senate President Walter Guevara as president of the country to head a government made up of the two most powerful political parties.

China Accuses Vietnam Of Border Raids

PEKING (UPI) — China has accused Vietnam of making daily military attacks along the two countries' common border, killing many civilians and causing much property damage.

The charges came in a note of protest from the Chinese foreign ministry to the Vietnamese government, parts of which were broadcast Sunday by the official New China News Agency.

The note said that during the last 15 days of July, Vietnamese forces in Vietnam's Ha Tuyen Province fired repeatedly across the border and carried out raids in China's Yunnan Province "causing heavy losses to the local people in life and property."

At the same time, the Chinese rejected a Vietnamese protest note of July 31 that charged Chinese troops with similar prvocations.

The latest exchange of protest notes left little room for hope that talks now in progress in Peking between diplomats of the two countries will make any progress toward improving China-Vintnam relations.

The ninth session of the discussions, which have been in progress since mid-April, ended in deadlock July 31. No date hae been set for a 10th meeting.

China's protest note, which said Vietnamese troops fired across the border and carried out raids on 30 occasions during the 15-day period, did not specify the number of casualties.

DR. LAMB

Spasm Of Esophagus

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I had an X-ray of my stomach about a year ago to determine whether I had a hiatal hernia but they found none. At that time I was having a lot of trouble with gas, burping even after I drank water and a sore feeling in the belt area in the front. At times when I ate or drank something, it would go down a little and then stop. Then I would feel a contraction and it would pass through. But when I had a bad attack, I would be awake the entire night and have pain between my breasts and across my chest. It was not a severe pain but I would feel sore for a day or so afterwards.

My heart has been skipping a beat for about five years now and I first noticed it when I had one of these bad attacks of trapped gas. My gallbladder was removed 15 years ago so that isn't the problem.

I'm 62 years of age and have seen a cardiologist about the skipped beats. After cardiograms and wearing a monitor for 24 hours, he said it comes from anxiety. He also thought I could have a spastic colon because of the pain in my left side. It feels as if something is in there that shouldn't be there and it seems to stick under my left breast.

The thing bothers me mostly is the skipping of the heartbeats. I feel it mostly when I have these attacks but it does subside when I take Librax for a while. I have no trouble with my bowels. I would appreciate your thoughts on this condition.

DEAR READER — Your heart can skip beats from many different causes and it can be caused by nervousness. They are caused in some people by disturbances of the digestive tract, including distension of the colon with gas or other problems.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 6-12, Heart Irregularities, Skipped Beats, Tachycardias, to give you more information about these conditions. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

I can't be certain what is causing your pain but as you describe it, it sounds like even when you drink liquid that it is blocked before it enters the stomach. If that's true, you could be having a spasm of your esophagus. This won't show on an X-ray unless the spasm occurs at the time the X-ray is taken. Think of it as a muscle cramp. It only hurts when the muscle is cramping and in between time the muscle appears normal. Such a contraction can cause chest pain and discomfort.

If you have a lot of gas, it can accumulate in the colon and cause pain underneath the rib cage above your belt line. That's because the colon is located around the outer edge of your abdominal cavity. The upper part of the colon passes directly across underneath your ribs. It bends underneath the diaphragm on the left side. At this point, gas can accumulate and cause pressure directly under the diaphragm which would give you the sensation you're complaining about underneath your left breast. You can have normal bowel movements and still have a spastic colon.

Experts Predict Population Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Although the world's popuation is expected to triple in the next 100 years, experts believe human ingenuity and cooperation can cope with the problem.

A three-year study sponsored by the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development and released Sunday estimates the world population will jump from 4 billion now to 12 billion in 2075.

The study says the total number of world acreage used for food growing could increase dramatically — doubling in the Third World — and that the world could feed itself in 2075, even with a population of 12 billion.

Other raw materials, such as copper, chromium, tin and lead, will be plentiful as sophisticated new systems of mineral prospecting are developed.

The unknowable elements in the crystal ball are political and social upheaval and the familiar ailments that trouble the western economies now: inflation and protectionist boundaries that restrict the free flow of goods and food.

Graham Regains Control

JUBULATION — David Graham throws up his arms in celebration, and caddy Willie Peterson joins in the jubilation on the third green of Sunday's PGA championship playoff. Coming over to offer his congratulations is Ben Crenshaw, who lost out in the playoff. (AP Laserphoto)

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — David Graham, leading by two, was confident going to the 18th tee of the 61st PGA Championship. Ben Crenshaw, on the other hand, was depressed once again, having finished second in three of his last five tournaments and facing yet another runner-up placing.

Graham, who started Sunday's final round four strokes behind third-day leader Rex Caldwell, had fired seven birdies during the first 17 holes to go 10-under par and take a two-stroke lead over Crenshaw, who was waiting by the 18th green.

Graham said afterward that he had never lost a tournament with a two-stroke lead and one hole to play.

"I was really in control of what I was doing," said the 33-year-old Australian, who had never won a major tournament. "I was in control of my game, my emotions. I felt very comfortable out there. I knew the situation I was in. I thought I had control of it."

He quickly lost control, hitting what he called his worst shot of the week from the 18th tee.

"When I started my backswing, I really woke up to what was happening," said Graham. "I hit a dreadful shot. I had no idea where the ball finished up."

Graham's second shot went through the green. He needed two chips to get on the putting surface, then he missed a four-footer for a double bogey that sent the championship into a sudden-death overtime with Crenshaw.

"I was down," said Graham. "I never experienced anything like that before. Every chance I had to win a tournament with one hole to play, I won. I never double-bogeyed a hole to go into a playoff."

Meanwhile, Crenshaw said, "I really didn't think I was going to get into the playoffs. But then I realized I had a chance to win."

On the first two holes of sudden death, Crenshaw applied the pressure. But Graham, despite bad shots with woods and irons, survived by making putts of 25 and 10 feet to stay in the race for the $60,000 first prize.

On the 202-yard, par-3 third hole, Crenshaw hit a 4-iron to a bunker to the right of the green. Graham, also hitting a 4-iron, put his drive about 8 feet from the hole.

After Crenshaw blasted out and past the hole and missed the putt coming back, Graham needed only to get down in two to win. The pressure off just a bit, he made his birdie putt.

"When I made the putt on the first hole of sudden death, I thought that maybe it was meant to be," said Graham.

Crenshaw, who now has lost all three playoffs of his pro career, said, "I just came up short. I realy thought I had him on the first and second holes (of overtime), but he kept making the putts.

"I don't like seconds worth a damn."

The 27-year-old Crenshaw, the second-day leader, earned $40,000 for second, $15,000 more than Caldwell, who ended up in third place with a 6-under-par 274 for the four-day tournament.

"I didn't hit the ball close enough to the hole," said Caldwell, who predicted Saturday he would win. "I was having to putt 20 to 25 feet on every hole, and you have to make at least a couple of them. I didn't make any of them."

In fourth place, with a 4-under-par 276, was Ron Streck, a touring pro who never saw the famed Oakland Hills Country Club course until Wednesday evening, the night before the opening round. He had a hole-in-one on the 201-yard, par-3 No. 17 on Friday.

Jerry Pate and Gibby Gilbert had 278s while Howard Twitty, Jay Hass and Don January also broke par over the 7,014-yard, par 70 course, nicknamed the "the monster" by Ben Hogen.

Par had never been broken in a major tournament held on the famed course which has been host to five U.S. Opens and the 1972 PGA.

A New Landry

DALLAS COWBOY COACH Tom Landry appears as unchanging as the Sphinx. He paces the sidelines just as he did a decade ago, with the same grim expression and obvious concentration. The only thing different is his stylish suits and sports coats, although by game time Landry couldn't tell you if he was wearing the latest threads from New York or patched coveralls.

But those very close to the Cowboys see a new toughness and determination in Landry, if that is possible. The stoic mentor always has been a serious man who runs a taut ship, but no one ever has accused him of being a dictatorial ringmaster in the Vince Lombardi-Paul Brown tradition.

A few Packers, Browns or Bengals may have smarted off at Vince and Paul publicly, but they received swift punishment and a plane ticket elsewhere. The Packers complained, only half in jest, that "Lombardi treats us all like dogs!"

Just a few years ago, Brown shipped All-Pro linebacker Bill Bergey to the Eagles because the player showed — in Brown's opinion — a lack of loyalty to the men who paid his salary.

Landry has been much slower on the trigger, however. Players such as Duane Thomas, Calvin Hill and Bob Hayes have sniped at Landry with relative impunity, until other factors forced their departure. Thomas was traded only after he refused to practice, Hill jumped to the World Football League and Hayes lost his job to Golden Richards.

Landry absorbed insults with a patience that rivaled Job.

SOMETHING HAS CHANGED, though, and there seems to be a new fire burning in the veteran mentor. He hasn't said anything publicly and there have been no ultimatums, but it is clear that Landry ain't foolin' around with that kind of nonsense this year.

Perhaps Landry is rankled by losing two Super Bowls to Pittsburgh in the last four years. That is galling to a man with Landry's pride and competitive spirit. Or perhaps Landry is considering retirement after this season, his 20th as head wrangler of the Cowboys, and is determined to go out a big winner.

Whatever the reason, the players are getting the message.

AN INCIDENT AT training camp last week illustrated this new attitude. Following the squad's return to Thousand Oaks from the Hall of Fame game at Canton, Thomas Henderson broke curfew by an hour and Tony Dorsett barely beat the sunrise to Cal Lutheran College. Landry slapped a $300 fine on Hollywood and a $1,200 penalty on Touchdown Tony.

Both players hollered robber and threatened to take their appeals to the union or Pete Rozelle or the Supreme Court. Both claimed their rights were being violated.

Details of the ensuing events have not yet been revealed, but apparently there was a meeting between the coach and the gridders. Lo and behold, the two young lions emerged as lambs! They had seen the light.

"I apologized to Coach Landry this morning," Henderson told newsmen. "I accept the fine."

Henderson was so stunned by the new Landry that he was virtually speechless for a full day, believe it or not. All he would say was that he was not ever going to insult Landry's integrity or judgment.

"The way I feel now, what's good for the Players Association may not be good for the Cowboys," Hollywood explained.

DORSETT ALSO SAW the handwriting on the wall. He denied being the ringleader in a player revolt, although he still hopes to get the fine reduced.

"It's a team issue, not a couple of individuals against management," Tony explained. "If the fine sticks I'll be unhappy, but I wouldn't take it that far (to a grievance hearing).

"Coach Landry is a man who is fair and will abide by the rules," Dorsett declared.

The feeling around camp, after the smoke had cleared, was that Landry

Sheffield, Jennings Triumph

By TONY BATT
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

The glimmering of a full moon had already appeared when Bucky Sheffield rolled in a birdie putt on the fourth extra hole of a sudden-death playoff, as he and partner Dick Jennings defeated

John Farquhar and Bob Jordan for the 1979 Lubbock Country Club Par-Buster Golf Classic championship.

Sheffield and Jennings assumed the lead in regulation at 17 when Sheffield missed a hole-in-one by 17 inches. The shot also was good for the tournament's closest-to-the-Hole title.

But the duo faltered on 18 with a bogey ("playing it safe," according to Jennings) to set up the playoff.

That bogey was an especially frustrating moment for Jennings, a 61-year-old tax attorney, and Sheffield, a 27-year-old commodity broker. Both have played in the tournament for almost a decade and have finished second and third in previous years.

"I was proud of that shot with the three-iron on 17," Sheffield said. "But I used the same club on 18 and knocked the ball into the right sand trap."

This gave new life to Farquhar and Jordan who had entered the final round of the tournament in a tie for the lead with Steve Thompson and Mickey Jones of Odessa.

In the playoff, each team parred the first three holes before Sheffield knocked in the winning putt.

"We figured if we shot 65 today, we would win," Jennings said. He and Sheffield had entered the final round, trailing the leaders by 2 shots. Instead of the 65 they had hoped for, they carded a 67.

Farquhar and Jordan finished with a final round of 69 after previous rounds of 67-67. Thompson and Jones finished with a 70 to tie for third with Ted Watts and Tommy Wilson who scored a 69.

Dixie Opens LL Tourney

WACO (UPI) — Lubbock Dixie all-stars are scheduled to meet Houston Northshore and Wharton to face South Austin Lions in the opening games of the state Little League baseball tournament today.

Other opening-day games have San Angelo South playing Harlingen American and Brenham meeting Borger. The first two games were scheduled for 5:30 p.m. starts, and the other two first-day games for 8 p.m. beginnings.

Another four games were scheduled Tuesday, completing the first round of the week-long tournament. Pitted Tuesday are Beeville against San Antonio Northwest, Evadale-Buna against Weatherford. Poteet against Fort Worth Westside National and Houston Spring Branch National against Waco Eastern.

Pirates 'Slam' Into NL East Lead

By The Associated Press

The Pirates carried John Milner off the field after his pinch-hit, ninth-inning grand slam carried the Pirates into first place in the National League's East Division.

That's no secret.

The questions are: What was Milner, a left-handed batter, doing up at the plate against Philadelphia left-hander Tug McGraw? And why was he pinch-hitting for Steve Nicosia, a right-hander batter who had gone 4-for-4 including a home run?

Now that's a secret.

"If I told you, they (the Phillies) would know, too," said Pirates manager Chuck Tanner after Milner's dramatic blast into the second tier of seats at Three Rivers Stadium carried Pittsburgh to a 12-8 triumph in the opener of a doubleheader.

Whatever the thinking, here is what happened: Lee Lacy, who hit a two-run homer earlier, singled off Philadelphia reliever Rawly Eastwick with two out in the ninth. Lacy stole second before Bill Madlock was walked intentionally and Phil Garner watched Eastwick's 3-2 pitch sail wide to load the bases.

That brought McGraw in from the bullpen and Milner out from the Pirates' dugout.

"Even if he had struck out, I wanted that situation: Milner against McGraw," said Tanner.

"Maybe he feels Tug can't get lefties out," offered Phillies manager Danny Ozark.

"The secret? I don't know," said Milner. "He (Tanner) just told me I'm the hitter."

It didn't take long to find out why. Milner launched McGraw's first pitch high and deep. Philadelphia right fielder Bake McBride didn't even move. There was nothing he could do.

"I didn't want to get behind on him, so I had to give him a fastball," said McGraw. "I just got it up a little too high. If I had gotten it down, he probably would have just hit it over the fence instead of the second deck."

By the time the ball landed — and that took a while — Pittsburgh was in first place and the crowd of 46,006 was in delirium. The rest of the Pirates clustered at home plate, awaiting Milner's arrival so they could carry him on their shoulders to the dugout.

Astros 3, Braves 2

Houston stole a team record seven bases and got eighth-inning runs on RBI singles by Jose Cruz and Jeff Leonard to beat Atlanta and record its sixth consecutive triumph.

Rafael Landestoy and Art Howe stole two bases each as the Astros bettered their previous record of five thefts in a contest.

Mets 4-3, Expos 2-7

Duffy Dyer and Ellis Valentine drove in two runs each and Rusty Staub hit his first home run since returning to the Expos as Montreal salvaged the nightcap and stayed within one-half game and .003 of Pittsburgh.

The Mets won the opener as Jose Cardenal's first homer of the season snapped a 2-2 tie in the seventh and Willie Montanez' RBI double added insurance.

Cubs 3-4, Cardinals 2-5

Tony Scott hit a two-run homer and Jerry Mumphrey had three singles and a sacrifice fly to lead St. Louis past Chicago in the nightcap.

Bill Buckner drove in all three runs with a fourth-inning homer and a two-run double in the eighth as the Cubs won the opener.

Reds 9, Padres 1

Ray Knight, Cincinnati's hottest hitter with 18 RBI in his last seven games, hit a two-run homer to lead a power barrage and carry the Reds past San Diego.

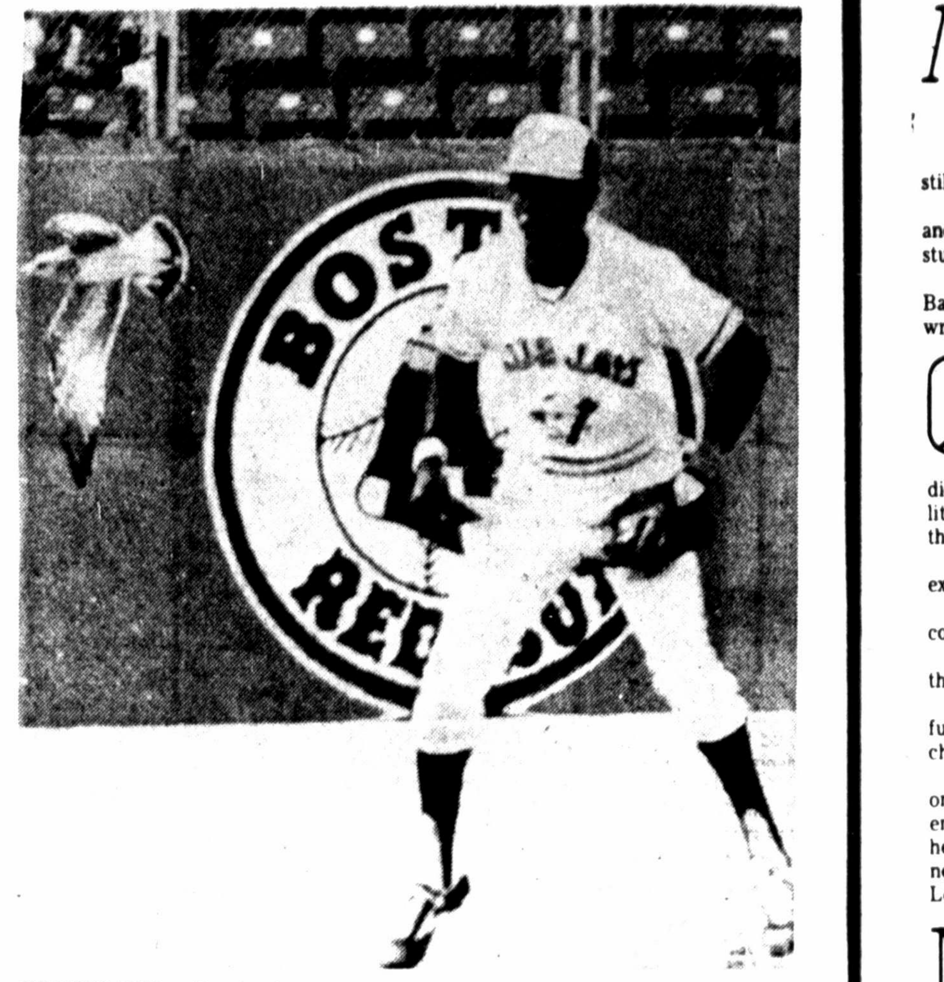

Joe Morgan and Hector Cruz had solo shots and Johnny Bench added a three-run drive as the Reds hit four homers in a game for the first time this season.

Knight's homer, his fourth in seven games since he borrowed a bat from disabled slugger George Foster, helped carry Frank Pastore, 2-5, to his first major league triumph as a starter.

Dodgers 8, Giants 1

Steve Garvey and Dave Lopes drove in three runs each while Don Sutton took over the Dodgers' all-time lead in strikeouts as Los Angeles crushed San Francisco.

Sutton, the Dodgers' winningest pitcher with 214 career triumphs, struck out six Giants to raise his lifetime total to 2,487 and better by one the previous Dodgers record by Don Drysdale.

INFIELD FLY — Keeping his eye on the bird, Toronto Blue Jays shortstop Alfredo Griffin bounces up on his toes as if to catch a seagull which floats over in his direction during the weekend contest against the Chicago White Sox. Toronto won Sunday's game 6-4. (AP Laserphoto)

Bosox Pummel Brewer Pitching

By The Associated Press

The Boston Red Sox took some extra batting practice Sunday. Wasn't it nice of the Milwaukee Brewers to supply the pitchers?

"I haven't had many pitches like that recently," said Fred Lynn, who hit two home runs as the Red Sox recorded 37 hits in a 7-2, 19-5 doubleheader sweep of the Brewers.

Lary Sorenson was one of seven Milwaukee pitchers battered by the Red Sox, who set an American League single-game high of 27 hits for the season in the nightcap.

"That didn't look like Sorensen," noted Lynn, who hit a three-run homer off the Milwaukee starter in the first game, "His pitches weren't sinking at all. They were just straight fast balls."

Lynn also had a two-run blast in the second game, which incidentally featured a record-tying effort by the Red Sox.

Yankees 3, Orioles 2

Graig Nettles' two-run homer in the fourth helped New York beat Baltimore as Tommy John won his 15th game. John, 15-6, surrendered consecutive homers in the third to Ken Singleton and Eddie Murray, but otherwise was tough.

Indians 6-3, Rangers 2-14

Cliff Johnson hit a three-run homer and Len Barker and Sid Monge teamed up to scatter nine hits as Cleveland beat Texas in the first game of their doubleheader.

Danny Darwin fired a four-hitter and Richie Zisk drove in four runs with a homer and a double to lead Texas over Cleveland in the second game.

Royals 3, Tigers 2

Dennis Leonard and two relievers combined on a six-hitter and Darrell Porter hit a bases-empty homer in the sixth as Kansas City beat Detroit. Leonard allowed five of the Tiger hits before needing last-inning relief help from Al Hrabosky and Dan Quisenberry, who gained his second save.

White Sox 5, Blue Jays 4

Jorge Orta and Chet Lemon each hit two-run homers, backing the combined nine-hit pitching of Ken Kravec and three relievers and leading Chicago over Toronto.

Angels 11-1, Twins 7-7

Dan Ford drove in four runs as California rallied from a five-run deficit to defeat Minnesota in the first game of their twinbill. Pete Redfern struck out a career-high 10 batters and Mike Marshall earned his 22nd save in Minnesota's second-game victory.

A's 9, Mariners 8

Dave Revering and Tony Armas each hit two homers and knocked in all the Oakland runs as the A's beat Seattle. Revering hit a solo homer in the second, had an RBI single in a four-run Oakland fourth and hit a three-run shot in the ninth. Revering's second homer of the night provided the A's with a 9-5 lead and helped them withstand a three-run rally by Seattle in the bottom of the inning.

Mays Smiles, Cries At Induction

By MILTON RICHMAN

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (UPI) — Willie Mays broke still another record.

He had made the longest speech of his whole life and what's more, he was doing all right and he wasn't stumbling or getting lost at all.

This was his day, the day he was being enshrined in Baseball's Hall of Fame, and although he had not written out his remarks, he wanted to make sure he didn't forget anyone who had helped him during his literally fantastic 22-year career with the Giants and the Mets.

UPI Sports Analysis

His eyes began misting as he tried to communicate exactly what this day meant to him.

"I gave my life to baseball," he said, the huskiness coming through his voice.

"You were short-changed," someone far back in the crowd hollered out.

Mays picked up the remark immediately. he refused to let it go by just like that. "No, I wasn't short-changed," he came right back, firmly, convincingly.

Two men in Sunday's audience, sitting apart from one another because they happened to arrive at different times, were especially proud of Willie Mays when he replied as he did. One of the men was Horace Stoneham, the Giants' former owner, and the other was Leo Durocher, who used to manage him, and both had come across the country to be with Willie on his day.

Shortly after saying baseball hadn't short-changed him, Mays concluded his remarks, and as he did, he put his thumb to his left eye.

That was a little bit of a cover-up.

A moment or so later, he didn't bother with formalities anymore. He simply pulled a clean white handkerchief out of his pocket and wiped his eyes.

Before he finished speaking, Willie gave vent to one of his impulses as he sometimes does by criticizing the Giants, rather unjustly, for not providing him with a uniform to bring to the Hall of Fame. The Giants claim he never asked them for it. Mays still insists he did and it seems he did ask someone in the equipment department but no one in the front office.

Willie's verbal rip at the Giants actually was 20 years of pent-up rage, and nothing else.

"I hope I didn't step on too many toes," he said later.

Mays still resents somewhat the Giants dealing him to the Mets near the end of his career without telling him beforehand. He still doesn't understand that Horace Stoneham had such deep personal feelings for him, he wanted to send Willie to a club that could afford his salary but didn't have the heart to tell him face to face he was leaving the Giants.

Mae Mays, his delightfully charming, utterly devoted wife, quite possibly knows him better than anyone else in the world. Better than Stoneham, better than Durocher.

After Willie finished speaking, his wife Mae Mays' eyes also were moist and she said, "I thought he was absolutely wonderful."

And he was. He was pure Willie Mays, and that was all that the people who had come from all parts of the country to see him inducted wanted to hear.

Willie talked about how all the Giants stopped to look at him the first time he took batting practice with them and how uneasy that had made him feel.

"My God, what are they stopping for, I thought. I hit everything over the fence and I thought how easy it was. That was in batting practice. But then we played the game with the Phillies and Robin Roberts was pitching for them. Now I found out what kind of a game it was. I went oh-for-five."

Mays talked about how Durocher simply set him in the general direction he was to go when he first came up.

"'Kid,' he said, 'There's the field. Go get it'!"

And he talked about Stoneham, the man who had brought him up to the Giants from the minors originally.

"To me, he was another father," Mays said. "When I had a problem, he'd say 'What do you need, son? You can have it.' He was my backbone."

Mays also said he "didn't play any ball" his last two years with the Mets.

"I was growing old," he said. "I had no more power in my arms."

To many, like all those who cheered him Sunday and kept calling "Say Hey, Willie," Willie Mays will never grow old. To people like Stoneham, who came from Scottsdale, Ariz., to honor him, and Durocher, who flew in from Palm Springs, Calif., Willie always will be the 19-year-old kid who reported to them in 1951.

HONORED — Willie Mays holds his plaque and acknowledges the ovation given him by the crowd at Cooperstown, N.Y., Sunday after he was inducted into the Baseball Hall of Fame. (AP Laserphoto)

Malavasi Achieved Goals In Win

By The Associated Press

By coach Ray Malavasi's way of thinking, the Los Angeles Rams have accomplished a lot early in the National Football League exhibition season.

"We wanted to take a look at a lot of players and still win the ball game," he said Saturday after the Rams rallied to beat the Oakland Raiders 20-14 in overtime. "We accomplished both goals.

"I think we showed that we can do a lot of things right," Malavasi said of the Rams' first preseason contest. "We proved that we have the ability to come back. We got some big plays from Preston Dennard and Wendell Tyler."

Dennard and Tyler, along with quarterback Vince Ferragamo, were the men most responsible for the Rams' comeback.

After Oakland tied the game 14-14 with two fourth-quarter touchdowns on the arm of quarterback Jim Plunkett, Ferragamo guided Los Angeles 65 yards on the first overtime series. Ferragamo threw a 44-yard pass to Dennard that got the ball to the Raiders' 13, and Tyler carried the ball twice, the second time scoring from 5 yards out.

"I saw Dennard getting open and knew I was going to get the ball to him," Ferragamo said. "We all wanted to get home."

Trailing 14-0, the Raiders tied it on a 1-yard scoring plunge by Derrick Jensen and a 5-yard TD pass from Plunkett to Derrick Ramsey with 31 seconds left in regulation.

Ken Stabler played the first quarter and part of the second for Oakland in his first preseason appearance after a contract holdout. He completed two of five passes with one interception.

The Raiders' rookie coach, Tom Flores, said he was displeased with the team's overall performance, although he did find a bright spot.

"I felt the best thing about the game was that Plunkett played very well," Flores said. "It was nice to see him come back."

Pats 37, Falcons 14

New England kept intact its reputation for preseason prowess, winning its eighth consecutive exhibition game. Sam Cunningham scored two touchdowns and Matt Cavanaugh, who sat out all of his rookie NFL season with an injury, threw two touchdown passes for the Patriots.

One of Cunningham's touchdowns was on a 22-yard screen pass play from Cavanaugh.

"Anytime you score 37 points the first time out, you've got to be pleased," first-year Patriots coach Ron Erhardt said.

Redskins 9, Bucs 7

Mark Moseley kicked field goals of 33, 31 and 26 yards — missing two other tries at over 40 yards — to provide Washington with all its scoring. Moseley's final field goal rallied the Redskins from a 7-6 deficit with 12:58 left in the fourth quarter. Moseley also missed tries of 46 and 45 yards.

Bengals 40, Lions 28

Marvin Cobb returned a fumble 87 yards for a touchdown, and Vaughn Lusby scampered 68 yards with a punt return to spark Cincinnati's 21-point fourth quarter.

Detroit's Tony Leonard also scored on a 93-yard kickoff return and set up another Detroit score with a 54-yard punt return in an unusually wide-open exhibition game.

Steelers 15, Bills 7

Matt Bahr kicked three field goals, including a 25-yarder with 1:17 remaining to provide Pittsburgh with its winning points.

After Bahr's third field goal, the Steelers scored their only touchdown of the game when defensive tackle Gary Dunn picked up a fumble by Bills quarterback David Mays and returned it 32 yards.

Bahr's other field goals were of 41 and 39 yards.

Packers 14, Chiefs 10

Rookie running back Eddie Lee Ivery of Georgia Tech took a screen pass from quarterback Dennis Sproul and ran 22 yards for Green Bay's winning touchdown in the third quarter.

Kansas tried to retake the lead later in the quarter, but the Packers stopped that drive when rookie defensive back Carlos Henderson intercepted a pass by Chiefs quarterback Steve Fuller in the end zone.

Giants 27, Browns 7

Starting quarterback Randy Dean and his second-half replacement, Joe Pisarcik, each led New York on a pair of long touchdown drives to pace Giants.

Dean's second TD drive snapped a 7-7 tie in the third quarter when marched the Giants 80 yards in 14 plays, with former Texas Texas running back Billy Taylor scoring from the 1.

Bears 27, Jets 14

Third-string quarterback Vince Evans threw three touchdown passes in the second quarter to lead Chicago. Evans' longest was on a 70-yard scoring play to James Scott. Evans' two other scoring passes gave the Bears a 24-7 halftime lead.

49ers 13, Chargers 10

Ray Wersching's 40-yard field goal with 5:50 left in the game lifted San Francisco over San Diego. The play was set up by a 32-yard pass completion from rookie Joe Montana to tight end Paul Seal.

The 49ers clinched the victory when linebacker Scott Hilton intercepted a pass by San Diego quarterback Cliff Olander at midfield with 2:36 left.

Landry, Miller Expected Errors

IRVING (UPI) — Both head coaches expected a lot of errors in Saturday's 7-6 exhibition win by the Dallas Cowboys over the Denver Broncos. They got what they expected.

The two teams combined for 18 penalties and five fumbles. One of the penalties — pass interference on Denver — gave Dallas the ball on the Broncos' 1 and the game's only touchdown followed on the next play.

The only interception of the game came when a Dallas receiver turned the wrong way and quarterback Danny White threw the ball into the hands of Denver's Bill Thompson.

Dallas' Rafael Septien missed two field goals, at least partly because of poor timing by holder Charlie Waters.

"When you play as many people as we did and Denver did, you see a lot of errors," Dallas coach Tom Landry said.

Denver coach Red Miller agreed. "Like Coach Landry, we wanted to give our young people a chance to play and show us what they could do. . .We played everybody. I was pleased overall with the effort from our young people, expecially considering we had a lot of different guys out there. This was the first game for many of them and they had to get used to the tempo of a pro game."

Both coaches also saw some bright spots.

"I thought Glenn Carano did a good job (substituting at quarterback) after starter Roger Staubach was injured in the first quarter," Landry said. I thought he threw the ball well. He was poised. I thought he showed great improvement (over last season.)."

Landry also mentioned receiver Robert Steele "making a fine catch over the middle in a tough situation." And he said some on the rookie defensive linemen looked to have hustled.

Rookie defensive linemen Curtis Anderson and Ralph DeLoach each contributed a quarterback sack.

"That's what you look for even though you know they are going against the other team's rookies," Landry said. "But maybe that will give them the spark and you will find a player."

Miller thought his offensive line performed well. The starters gave quarterback Norris Weese ample time to pass and managed to punch holes in the Dallas defense for running backs.

Hubbers Split First Games

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — The Lubbock Hubbers scored 7 runs in the fifth inning in overwhelming Quad Cities, Iowa, 17-0 Sunday and remain alive in the national NBC Baseball Tournament. Earlier, the Hubbers fell 10-8 to Beatrice, Neb.

The Hubbers' explosive fifth inning ended the Quad Cities game on the 10-run rule. Lubbock collected 20 hits, including three homers and six doubles. Larry Horn gave up only two singles on the mound for Lubbock, eliminating Quad Cities.

Third-seeded Clarinda, Iowa, got home runs from Paul Homrig and Chris Clark to boost the A's to a 10-5 win over in second-round winner's bracket play.

The Iowans collected 11 hits, going ahead with a four-run blitz in the sixth inning. Stu Hein picked up the win as the Iowans remained unbeaten in the double-elimination tournament.

In other second-round action Hutchinson, Kan., blanked Omaha, Neb., 13-0. Hutchinson pitcher Lee Tunnell, a sophomore at Baylor University, gave up just three-singles in the game, cut short after five innings by the 10-run rule.

Eighth-seeded St. Louis staged a four-run rally in the eighth inning to get past Beatrice 6-4.

In first-round loser's bracket play, former major league player Sonny Siebert tossed a shutout to lead his Edwardsville, Ill., team to a 3-0 win over Pleasant Plains, Ark., and Fort Smith, Ark., took an 8-4 win over Jackson, Miss., propelled by the two home runs of center fielder Tom Hester.

In a Saturday game, Wichita downed Quad Cities 10-4 behind home runs by first baseman Ron Brown and designated hitter Woody Beisel.

Today's schedule had Bryan, Texas, facing Sandusky, Ohio, at 5 p.m.; Dodge City, Kan., against Madison, Wisc., at 7:45; and Kankakee, Ill. against Clarksburg, W.Va. at 10 p.m.

CONSIDER THE OPTION OF LEASING YOUR NEXT CAR

For more and more drivers, leasing is becoming the most practical way to provide themselves with transportation. In this era of rapidly rising transportaion cost, more people are enjoying the financial and service advantages of leasing. There are many reasons:

- Your capital is freed for more productive investment.
- Lower your cost of driving a new car for 12, 24 or 36 months.
- Provide tax benefits not associated with ownership. You have accurate leasing records available for tax purposes.
- Save time-your most valuable asset, by automatic relicensing each year.
- You avoid the hassle and quibbling of new car buying.
- Sometimes leasing is even cheaper than buying. Our leasing customers receive exceptional service from a company specializing in executive leasing.

Mentioned Briefly

BASEBALL

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pete Rose's 96th single of the season off Pittsburgh Pirates starter Bert Blyleven raised his career total to 3,037 and broke Honus Wagner's record for most singles in the history of the National League. That put him fourth on the all-time list behind American Leaguers Ty Cobb, 3,052; Eddie Collins, 3,641, and Willie Keeler, 2,536.

TENNIS

NORTH CONWAY, N.H. (AP) — Harold Solomon overtook Jose Higueras in a dramatic third-set tiebreaker to win the $175,000 clay court tennis championship. Solomon won 5-7, 6-4, 7-6. He won the tiebreaker 7-5.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Second-seeded Tracy Austin upset top-seeded Martina Navratilova 6-4, 6-2 to win a $75,000 women's tennis tournament.

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — John McEnroe rallied to defeat John Lloyd 6-7 (7-1), 6-4, 6-0 and win the $75,000 Grand Prix Open. McEnroe later teamed with Peter Fleming to beat Fritz Buehning and Bruce Nichols 6-1, 6-3 for the doubles title.

AUTO RACING

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — Darrell Waltrip, driving an Oldsmobile, averaged 161.229 mph and held off David Pearson to win the $231,000 Talladega 500 stock car race. Waltrip won first prize of $37,425. Ricky Rudd finished third, followed by Richard Petty.

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) — Bobby Unser captured the first Indianapolis type auto race ever held on the Watkins Glen Course, beating teammate Rick Mears by 19.1 seconds. Unser averaged 120.884 mph in his North Spirit Penske-Cosworth, and earned $24,714 for the win.

SWIMMING

DOVER, England (AP) — Kevin Anderson, a 12-year-old South African, battled rain and tides in the English Channel for 12½ hours to become the youngest swimmer to make the crossing from England to France. The Channel Swimming Association, the official body monitoring all efforts to swim the straits, gave his time unofficially as 12 hours, 25 minutes.

Most Difficult College Coaching Job - Iowa

If first year Iowa coach Haden Fry can convince his troops to get off the bus at Oklahoma, he will have a successful season. Since 1973, Iowa has been unable to score points, but has given up plenty. In 1979, Iowa faces the Sooners, Nebraska, Iowa State, Purdue, Michigan State and Ohio State.

Erxleben Worries About First Kicks

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Russell Erxleben says if he were not the New Orleans Saints' No. 1 draft choice, he'd probably be back home mowing the front lawn or tending bar.

His nightmare debut with the Saints would have been enough to send most rookies packing. He flubbed two easy field goals and shanked a 19-yard punt to set up the winning touchdown in the 14-7 loss against the Miami Dolphins Friday night in the team's first exhibition game. But because the Saints gave Erxleben a $300,000 signing bonus, he won't be going home.

Erxleben knows that, but it doesn't make his trials easier to accept.

"I went out (Sunday) and kicked 10 field goals from the 32 and 10 from the 36 and only missed one," said the University of Texas star, still shaking his head about the Miami game. That was my worst effort by far. When I was a sophomore, in our first game, against Boston College, I missed four field goals and we lost 14-13. This brings back those memories. But you know, that was the best year I ever had in college."

When Erxleben is in the groove, he can boot punts 80 yards and split the uprights on kickoffs. It got to be so easy in college that it wasn't news when he made 50-yard field goals. It was news when he finally missed one.

"There's so much difference in the pros," Erxleben said. "I feel a lot of nervousness and pressure. It was never like this in college. At Texas, if I missed a field goal, the people would say, 'That wasn't Russell's fault at all.' It's easy to kick under those circumstances. Now I've got to prove to those people in New Orleans all over that I can do it. I'm making the hecklers look smart. I don't want to do that."

As a freshman at Texas, Erxleben was so shaky in his first game that he missed three extra points. He missed only one in his entire high school career. He sees e parallel in his most recent misery.

"When I ran on the field (against the Dolphins) I didn't feel nervous," he said. "A 32-yarder, I said to myself, 'This is just like an extra point.' But then (quarterback) Ed Burns looked back at me and asked, 'Are you ready?' Then I remembered I was in the pros. I couldn't believe I was here."

Erxleben said his wife, Ava, knew something was wrong while she watched on television. "I always wear a towel to wipe my hands and she said I was grabbing the thing 20 times before I kicked. I didn't even know I was doing it."

The battle of nerves also has been waged in the trenches, with veteran placekicker Rich Szaro — whom Erxleben playfully calls "Zero" — making the most of amateur psychology.

But Erxleben said Szaro's mental games have not caused his shakiness.

"I'll be honest. Right now I'm punting good," he said. "But I do feel Szaro is kicking better than I am. But we still have three more weeks to go (before the season starts). I see myself improving each week.

"I haven't shown Coach Nolan enough for him to release Szaro. This is the first time in my life I've ever had to compete for a kicking position. Maybe I'm pushing too much. But I feel I can kick and punt this year."

Nolan says he will not make a decision on what to do with Szaro until later.

Erxleben said his true test will come in New Orleans Saturday against the Chicago Bears.

"I don't see how I could do any worse (than against the Dolphins). I don't feel at home yet, but when you get to the pros you have to throw that college stuff behind you."

Lopez Triumphs On Moving Day

SUNNINGDALE, England (AP) — While Nancy Lopez was winning her seventh golf tournament of the year, husband Tim Melton was moving furniture into their new home in Cincinnati.

"A good way for both of us to spend Sunday," said the 22-year-old black-haired superstar from New Mexico as she collected a check for $16,500 dollars for winning the European Open women's championship for the second straight year.

Miss Lopez has won seven of the 15 tournaments she has entered this season and finished second in four others.

"It will all come to an end sooner or later," she said. "I don't want to make golf my job for the whole of my life. When the right time comes I will just stay at home and have a family. But don't ask me when that will be, I have no idea."

had showed the players a lot of steel under that mild exterior. He has given the club ample warning that his level of tolerance is lower this year and that he will permit no distractions on the road to another Super Bowl.

Those who rock the boat may be shuffled off to Buffalo.

SHORT SHOTS — Landry is not happy with any of his young defensive linemen, at this stage. Larry Bethea doesn't look anything like Ed Jones at end and the three rookies are about the same — meaning ordinary.

Rookie linebacker Greg Fitzpatrick, a draft choice from Youngstown State, is a wild man in scrimmages. He may be the most savage headhunter ever in a Cowboy camp, but he must control his emotions to make the team. He has the potential to challenge Bob Breunig at the middle spot.

Coaches are chortling over the fine showing of quarterback Glenn Carano against Denver Saturday night. They have been predicting that Carano would eventually replace Roger Staubach as the Cowboy quarterback, although Danny White has seniority and looks good in flashes. But Carano has more size, a stronger arm and makes the big plays.

Staubach is expected to be back in action within a week or two following his mild concussion against the Broncs.

Tech Ticket Sales Go At Record Pace

Texas Tech football fans had plenty to cheer about in 1978 — especially at home. The Raiders were 7-4 on the year and a sparkling 5-1 at home.

Apparently the Tech fans haven't forgotten, because ticket sales for 1979 are going at a record setting pace, according to Texas Tech ticket manager Carol Baker.

"We're well ahead of any other season's sales," said Mrs Baker. "Three of our homes games are almost sellouts already," she added.

The closest to an actual sellout is the Tech-Texas A&M contest scheduled for Oct. 6. The only seats still available for that game are the grass end zone seats. Those go for $4 for adults and $2.50 for high school students and youngsters.

The other two games nearing sellout status are the season opener against Southern Cal, scheduled for Sept. 8, and the Tech-Arkansas clash slated for Oct. 13.

Only grass and south end zone seats remain for the USC tilt. The South end zone seats cost $8.50 for adults and $4.25 for students. Seats on the goal line and in both end zones are still available for the Arkansas game.

Mrs. Baker also reported that a limited number of season ticket books are still available at the new Tech ticket office on the north end of Jones Stadium. The books cost $51 and include tickets to all six of the Raider home games.

"We usually sell out the (Texas) A&M and Texas games," said Mrs. Baker. "But if we can sell out the USC and Arkansas games we should set all kinds of attendance records."

Festos Claims Jockey Stakes

RUIDOSO DOWNS (AP) — Festos, a colt who's been frustrated in three previous stakes at Ruidoso Downs this season, edged to a front-row position among three-year olds with a plucky nose win in Sunday's Jockey Club Stakes.

It was also Festos' biggest pay day at the races, since he collected $7,995 out of a gross purse of $13,325, and put his 1979 bankroll over the 17-grand level.

Here are the results of Sunday's races:

Gottfried, Gullikson Seek Victories

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — Second-seeded Brian Gottfried and third-seeded Tim Gullikson play first-round matches today, the opening day of a $75,000 Grand Prix tennis event at Muirfield Village.

Gottfried will play unheralded David Carter and Gullikson, a quarterfinalist at Wimbledon this year, will face former Ohio State star Francisco Gonzales.

The tournament's top seed, Eddie Dibbs, is scheduled to play his first match on Tuesday. Ilie Nastase, the fourth seed, also drew a Tuesday match.

The tournament, which has a 32-man field, will conclude Sunday.

Eller To Play Year By Year

CHENEY, Wash. (AP) — Carl Eller, the Seattle Seahawks' newly acquired 37-year-old defensive end, concedes he's not sure how much football he has left in his old bones.

Eller came to the Seahawks last week in a trade with the Minnesota Vikings for 24-year-old Steve Niehaus, a defensive tackle and Seattle's first No. 1 draft choice in 1976.

"I can do it, for one season," said the 16-year NFL veteran. "I'm thinking about this year only. Two seasons at the most."

Seattle head coach Jack Patera has said he hopes to use Eller, a 6-foot-6, 245-pounder, as a starter. He did not play in the Seahawks' exhibition opener Thursday night in Seattle, a 12-9 overtime decision over Minnesota.

He had not reported to the Vikings' training camp because of what he said were personal reasons, but there was a suspicion that he just didn't want to go through an entire camp.

"I'm in fair shape," he said at the Seahawks' training site at Cheney. "But not having been in camp, you can't be in too good shape."

The six-time all-pro said he expected to be ready to play next Sunday in Seattle's second exhibition game at home next Sunday night on national television against Dallas.

TODAY'S STOCK PRICES

Dow Jones Average Down 4.27

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices moved lower today on further inflation news and a report indicating profits of many companies are beginning to suffer as a result of oil price increases.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 4.27 to 841.89 at noon. Losers outnumbered gainers by a 7-5 margin in New York Stock Exchange trading.

The National Association of Purchasing Management said a survey of its members showed 85 percent of its members reported paying higher prices in July, up from 79 percent in June and the highest level in more than five years.

In addition, a published report concluded that many companies will see their profits decline in the current quarter due to the effect of higher oil prices.

Gambling issues were active, with Bally Manufacturing down 1¼ to 39⅝ on the NYSE and Resorts International A stock up ⅜ to 46¼ on the American Stock Exchange. Resorts reported the net win at its Atlantic City casino was up 9.3 percent in July from June.

Itel led the active list and was down ⅝ to 8⅛ after it said it expected to post a loss of $80 million in the second quarter, substantially more than it had previously predicted.

Chrysler, which is seeking government aid to stem massive losses, was active and unchanged at 7⅝.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index declined .20 to 59.13. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .22 to 198.77.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 11.44 million shares at noontime, down from 12.58 million shares at the same time Friday.

Bomb Fallout Cited In Deaths Of Actors

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The cancer deaths of John Wayne, Susan Hayward, Dick Powell and Agnes Moorehead may be linked to radioactive fallout from an atomic bomb that exploded near the location where they filmed a movie together in 1954, according to two London newspapers.

The movie, "The Conqueror," was filmed in St. George, Utah, a year after a problem developed with the atom bomb test explosion in Nevada, the newspapers said.

The explosion went off as planned, but a change in wind direction sent a thick cloud of radioactivity over Utah.

Wayne and the rest of the cast were in Utah for two months. When they left, Powell decided to ship several tons of red soil back to Hollywood to give the filming there a touch of reality, the newspapers said.

"The trucks that hauled sand and rocks could have been carrying a time bomb set to kill 25 years later," the Sun said.

However, a spokesman for the Wayne family said he had heard the theory linking the actor's death to the bomb explosion and it was "absolutely not true."

Pedro Armendariz, a leading character actor in the film, committed suicide in June 1963 when, the Sun said, he had just been told he had lymph gland cancer.

Wayne died at age 72 last June of his second major cancer attack. Powell, a victim of cancer, died at age 53 in October 1963. Miss Hayward died at age 56 of a malignant brain tumor in March 1975. Miss Moorehead died from cancer at age 74 in April 1974.

The paper also noted that three crew members on the movie — the art director, production manager and wardrobe mistress — died of cancer.

The newspaper said 700 residents of St. George, Utah, are now filing lawsuits against the U.S. government over effects of radiation fallout.

Guests Face Chances Of Catching Disease

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Guests who register at Indiana University's Memorial Union are given cards listing the symptoms of Legionnaires' disease — and their odds of getting it.

More than a year after health officials diagnosed an outbreak of the disease at the Union, the source of the ailment that has struck 39 of its guests since 1973 — seven fatally — remains a mystery.

An investigation led health officials to a cooling tower atop the sprawling limestone building at the heart of the campus, and the tower was replaced last spring.

But the most recent death of a guest attributed to Legionnaires' disease was in June, and cases still crop up each month.

Yet occupancy rates and conference bookings are normal at the Union, which serves both as a 200-room hotel and as a recreational center for the university, says director Richard Blackburn.

Participants in a recent National Health Council Management seminar at the Union generally seemed unconcerned.

"I didn't know about it before I came here," said Barbara Jean Reed of New York. "I was very impressed by the piece of literature they gave us. It didn't scare me."

Dave Bell of Cleveland said that when he first received the hotel's notice, "I thought it was sort of like a joke. But I've thought a lot about it."

Guests are given the notice when they register. It provides a summary of the outbreak and notes that "from a statistical viewpoint, the chance that an individual would contract the pneumonia-like illness in any circumstance is minimal."

The cards also list symptoms of the disease — headache, muscle aches, fever, dry cough, abdominal pain.

The university first learned of the outbreak in May 1978, when the national Center for Disease Control confirmed three cases among persons who had stayed at the Union that year.

Subsequent investigation turned up a case from 1973 — an Indiana man who died two weeks after staying at the Union. The disease had not been named until 1976, when it killed 29 people who attended an American Legion convention in Philadelphia.

To date, the CDC has confirmed 42 cases in the Bloomington area. All but three were overnight guests at the Union. Nine cases were reported in May 1978 in the largest outbreak.

University records show that 3 million people visit the Union every year; 60,000 stay overnight in the hotel. Based on those figures, Blackburn said, 39 Legionnaires' cases aren't alarming.

Sleuths from the CDC and the State Board of Health traced Legionnaires' bacteria to the cooling tower on the roof. The old redwood tower was flushed with a disinfectant, then replaced with a $190,000 metal structure.

Canadian Deaths Linked To Legionnaire's Disease

TORONTO (UPI) — Three people have died in the past week from a fast-killing lung infection believed to be Legionnaire's Disease, and eight others are being treated at two Toronto hospitals.

At Toronto's Humber Memorial Hospital, where six people are believed suffering from the disease, three persons were listed in critical condition, needing mechanical respirators to breathe.

Humber's administrative director Robert Ferguson said late Sunday, "One is just hanging in there. The other two are in a little better shape."

A man and a woman are being treated in intensive care at NorthwesternGeneral Hospital for the disease but described as "improving." Officials said Monday tests for the disease so far were negative.

Officials said the latest death occurred Saturday when 27-year-old Oran Kerr from the west Toronto suburb of Etobicoke died about 40 minutes after arriving at Humber complaining of breathing difficulties and chest pains.

The outbreak is believed to have begun July 30 when Stephen Lowe, 68, died of what was believed to be pneumonia at Humber.

When other patients began showing "soaring temperatures, respiratory distress ... and not responding to drugs," Humber officials called in specialists who advised they be isolated and treated with the antibiotic Arythromycin.

Last week, a third man, suffering from severe pneumonia, died at Toronto General Hospital after being moved from another city hospital to use its special respiratory unit.

Ferguson late Sunday said Ministry of Health officials had taken blood samples and checked the hospital's air conditioning but results would not be known for at least a week.

"The MOH still doesn't think it's Legionnaire's but is convinced it should be treated as such," he said.

Ferguson said so far no linkup has been found among the victims.

Doctors Try To Break Cancer's 'Camouflage'

BOSTON (AP) — Cancerous tumors may be using the body's own defense mechanisms in an elaborate camouflage to evade detection by the body's natural guardians, a study shows.

Researchers at Massachusetts General Hospital hope that by learning how to control the camouflage, they may find the key to controlling the growth of malignant tumors in humans.

Their three-year study of tumors in animals shows that gelatinous cocoons produced by the tumors' fluids may protect such growths from the body's defenses against disease.

Medical researchers had theorized that the body's defenses could destroy tumors after identifying them as foreign matter.

"I think most objective observers have to concede that this approach just hasn't worked all that well," said Dr. Harold F. Dvorak, chief of the hospital's immunopathology unit.

Instead, his research team found, tumors turn the body's defense mechanisms to the advantage of the disease.

Normally, the body's immune system finds proteins called antigens on the surface of tumor cells and treats them as foreign invaders. However, inside the cocoons, the tumors are safe from detection.

Dvorak said the tumor secretes an agent that causes blood vessels to leak. The blood contains two proteins: fibrinogen, which helps blood clot, and plasminogen, which dissolves clots.

A substance secreted by the tumor converts the fibrinogen to fibrin gel, forming the cocoon.

"If the tumor only laid down the gel around it, it would trap itself and be unable to grow," Dvorak said. "So the tumor also produces material to convert the plasminogen into a very active enzyme which dissolves fibrin. The result is that as more gel collects on the outer fringe of the cocoon, fibrin closest to the tumor itself is eliminated, thus allowing the tumor to expand."

In this way, the doctor said, the tumor turns the body's own mechanisms to the advantage of the disease.

"I think the latest studies may ultimately open the door to a whole new approach to tumor treatment," Dvorak said. "At present, using surgery, chemotherapy or radiotherapy, you have to kill every last tumor cell. If you miss one, then sooner or later it will grow and spread.

"If we could just control these fibrin gel cocoons, we wouldn't have to kill every last tumor cell. We could arrest the growth of the tumor cells instead and prevent them from causing harm."

50-Year-Old Star Makes Comeback In Movies

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Few dilemmas are as achingly poignant as the one faced by former stars attempting a motion picture comeback.

One such is a beautiful woman who lives alone atop a peak in Bel Air. She's had four unsuccessful marriages. Her three children are grown now and on their own. She is financially independent and need never work again.

Her career began at 14 with an MGM contract. She starred in 20 movies and a dozen television specials. She recorded a best-selling song hit or two.

She has enormous blue eyes and short, chic-frosted blonde hair. Her body is a near perfect 5-foot-2, 90 pounds. She's an intelligent, healthy, vitally energetic singer, dancer, actress.

But Jane Powell is also 50 years old.

In Hollywood it would appear that 50-year-old women, no matter how talented or attractive, are an affront to the sensibilites of producers unless they are playing character roles.

Jane, who dazzled audiences as a teen-ager in "Song of the Open Road" in 1944 and as Fred Astaire's leading lady in "Royal Wedding," hasn't made a movie in 23 years. She's been absent from TV almost as long.

For many years Jane spent six months or more a year on the road, touring with musical comedies — "South Pacific," "Seven Brides For Seven Brothers" — earning a great deal of money.

She appeared on Broadway in "Irene," replacing Debbie Reynolds for seven months in 1974. She recently completed a nightclub stand in San Francisco.

Jane still is in great demand on the hustings and could work 365 days a year on tour. But she is determined to settle down in Hollywood by reestablishing her career on the big screen and the tube.

But the telephone doesn't ring. Her agent encounters indifference at the networks and among producers.

Jan is in an eerie sort of limbo, a major crossroads in her professional and personal lives. She doubts she'll marry again and she isn't sure she can penetrate the invisible barriers that keep her from Hollywood employment.

"It's the first time I've ever been truly alone," she said in the faultlessly appointed den of her home. "I was 21 when I married the first time, going from the protective home of my family to a new married life.

"After that it was my career plus my husbands and children. Now it is sort of a time for taking stock of my life and thinking about the future. I'm not in love and I don't date very much. Without romance dating is a waste of time.

"I don't go to parties because I'm not invited. The desirable men in town are mostly married and the rest are either too young for me or gay. It's a curious position for a woman my age to be in.

"But then so is my profesional positon. Being an 'old face' in town can work for you or against you.

"On the credit side is the fact that I'm familiar to movie and TV audiences and I've made a lot of fans out there in theaters.

"The disadvantages are that I've done so much that people in the business tend to overlook me. Also, many of the people I worked with as a girl are retired or no longer with us.

"The new crop of producers and directors aren't familiar with what I can do unless they're nostalgia buffs. As always, movies and TV are oriented to younger people. No matter how good you look, they want youth.

"Not many musicals are being made for movies or TV. When they do cast a musical, they look for young people who can sell millions of record albums from the movie score, as they did with John Travolta and Olivia Newton-John in 'Grease.'

"Another thing works against me — the stigma that musical stars can't sing or act. Actually, you have to be a very good actress in song and dance shows to bring some believability to weak scripts."

Producer Seeks Angry Viewers On 'Your Turn: Letters To CBS'

By JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Phyllis Bosworth looks for people who know how to nurse a grudge.

Miss Bosworth, producer of "Your Turn: Letters to CBS," finds one of her biggest problems in the very niceness of most Americans.

They write to the CBS version of "Letters to the Editor" in anger over something they have seen on a CBS News broadcast — but by the time the film crew arrives, too often their anger has cooled off to the point where they no longer make forceful spokesmen for their viewpoint.

"Your Turn" was first shown in 1978 on a hit-or-miss basis, and in January, 1979, it went monthly to became the only regularly scheduled show of its kind on network television.

The latest edition will be broadcast Wednesday at 10:30 p.m. CDT, with 10 viewers sounding off on subjects ranging from the airing of the murder of a newsman in Nicaragua to the coverage of a gay rights parade in San Francisco.

"We've become the ombudsmen of CBS television," Miss Bosworth said in an interview. "People write to us about what they see on CBS, but they also write about everything else including what they think of President Carter."

Miss Bosworth and her staff cull the several hundred letters a month addressed to "Your Turn" and, based on the news importance of the subjects, choose viewers to contact for the show.

"We read all the mail," she said. "We cancel out anything that tells us how wonderful CBS News is — we're looking for mail that represents a point of view that's different from ours.

Miss Bosworth then telephones the people whose letters have been selected.

"They all seem to live in small towns — this last show we went to Viola, Wisc., Eureka Springs, Ark., Hamilton, Ohio, Bolivar, Mo., and about five other towns. Somehow when we go through the letters we find the most interesting ones come from people who live in small towns."

Smaller Autos Need Different Highways

WASHINGTON (AP) — The trend toward smaller, lighter cars will eventually require not only better roads but different ones, according to the Road Information Program.

Some transportation experts, such as Dr. William L. Garrison of the University of California, are calling for lanes that would separate auto traffic from heavyweight buses and trucks.

Black 'Alice' Musical Tries Again, Fails

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — The saying, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again," was applied to a musical called "Alice." There was no success at first, so the musical tried again. And failed again.

The third try, now called "But Never Jam Today," bowed Tuesday on Broadway. By gum, it's time to quit.

Based on "Alice in Wonderland" and featuring an all-black cast of 16 performers, it no doubt was produced amid hopes of being a successor of sorts to "The Wiz." No way.

"Never Jam," starring Marilynn Winbush as Alice, is only an energetic bit of wishful thinking, dull staging, forgettable choreography and muddled writing.

Granted, the fantasies of "Alice in Wonderland" were mind-boggling, but delightfully so. Here, the only delights are two songs, "Riding for a Fall" and "I Like to Win", and the work of Lynne Thigpen, a fine singer and strong actress.

She plays a leading character, Persona Non Grata, a hip, wise, slightly sassy new friend of Alice who guides the latter through Wonderland from start to finish.

Persona provides the few sprightly moments in Alices voyage and her encounters with the familiar Wonderland regulars — the Caterpiller, the Cheshire Cat (who has a Jamaican accent), the Mad Hatter (he's whisked on and off faster than a speeding derby), Tweedledum and Tweedledee, the wicked Queen of Hearts, and all the rest.

"Never Jam," whose tunes are a mixed bag of rock, calypso, disco, swing and gospel, occurs on a set which resembles two redwood tool sheds linked by a plank. The set adds naught to the night.

The first act frequently is confusing, with the performers often rattling off their songs and bits of dialogue so quickly it vaguely sounds like a tape being rewound under duress.

At least many of the owrds can be detected in the second act. But by then the show has gone from befuddling to laborious, despite valiant efforts by the cast, all of whom deserve better.

You might expect at least eye-catching costumes in a musical, but the "Jam" threads by William Schrode: — who also designed the set — just offer color, not imagination.

The only truly memorable garb is worn by the Queen of Hearts. She arrives clad in a red football helmet adorned with a heart, ski goggles, a red robe, red shoulder pads and boxing gloves.

For the record, "But Never Jam Today" was "devised" and directed by Vinnette Carroll. She co-wrote the book with Bob Larimer, who in turn wrote the lyrics and co-wrote the music with Bert Keyes. The choreography was by Talley Beatty.

What other critics said:

Mel Gussow, New York Times — The show has some assets — primarily Marilynn Winbush who plays Alice, the strong singing voices of the cast, and the score by Bert Keyes and Mr. Larimer. Unfortunately, the musical is largely a case of missed opportunity.

Knowing Secret Trick To Stunt

By SHARI LEWIS

As you Kids-Only Club column readers know (if you've been paying attention) there are different kinds of "betchas." Some are challenges that are impossible to do — no matter how smart you are or how strong you are, you can't do them. Others only work because you know something no one else knows.

Here's a stunt that works because you, the prankster, do know a secret. You know that if you wet a coin and press it firmly against a friend's forehead, your friend will continue to think the coin is stuck to his or her forehead even after you take it away. Here's how it works:

You press the flat side of a damp coin firmly into your friend's forehead for a few seconds. You say, "I'll" betcha you can't shake off the coin without touching it with your hands." When you take away your thumb, you secretly remove the coin too, but your friend will almost always think that he or she can still feel it sticking to the forehead.

The fun of this is watching your friend shake his or her head and make all those fecial contortions in order to knock off that coin.

Today's Brain Twister: The flag of the United States of America has 50 stars. Are they arranged in 10 rows of five stars each? Five rows of 10 stars each? Or they in alternate rows of 5 and six stars? (Look for the answer in tomorrow's Kids-Only Club column.)

(Mail to Shari should be addressed to Kids-Only Club, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1111, Los Angeles, Calif. 90053.)

The Almanac
TODAY IN HISTORY

By United Press International

Today is Monday, Aug. 6, the 218th day of 1979 with 147 to follow.

The moon is moving toward its full phase.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Mars.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Leo.

Actor Robert Michtum was born on Aug. 6, 1917.

On this day in history:

In 1926, Gertrude Ederle of New York became the first American to swim the English Channel.

In 1940, the Battle of Africa started in World War II as Italy invaded British Somaliland.

In 1945, President Harry Truman startled the world by announcing that an atomic bomb had been dropped on Hiroshima. Japan surrendered eight days later and World War II came to an end.

In 1978, Pope Paul VI died at the age of 80 after a heart attack. He had led the Roman Catholic church for 15 years.

A thought for the day:

Harry Truman said in his first message to Congress, "The responsibility of the great states is to serve and not dominate the world."
