Further Delay In Hauptmann Execution Is Being Hinted

Warden To Await Action Of Jurors In Wendel Probe

Telephone Calls Threatening "An Aftermath" If Hauptmann Dies In Chair Received At Governor's Office; New Date For Prisoner's Death Is Tentatively Set For Friday

BY SAMUEL G. BLACKMAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

TRENTON, N. J., April 1.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, who has lived beyond three of his death dates, faced a new one tonight—Friday night at 8 o'clock—but under conditions which made it extremely doubtful he would die even then for the Lindbergh baby murder.

Col. Mark O. Kimberling, state prison warden, moved the death time back a day later than was asked by the Mercer county (Trenton) grand jury, whose unexpected intervention halted the execution on the hour set for it last night.

Failure of the grand jury to reach a decision by Friday night in the strange case of Paul Wendel, held on a murder charge for the same crime which condemned Hauptmann, would bring a still further delay, Kimberling said.

"I will delay it as long as it is in my power to do so while a legal proceeding of any kind is pending," the warden said.

He was faced on the one hand by a court mandate requiring him to have Hauptmann put to death during the current week, and on the other by the prospect that another man might be indicted for the same crime.

If the dilemma is not solved by Saturday night, Kimberling said he would seek advice from Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, who signed Hauptmann's death warrant, on whether the "week of March 30" for which he fixed the execution, ends Saturday or Sunday midnight.

Will Seek Advice

"I have no intention of electrocuting the man and having the grand jury come out with a decision a few minutes later," he said. "I will seek legal advice on anything that issues in this case."

The warden explained that if Wendel were indicted for the murder, it would require an order from a court or some other "competent authority" to delay the execution beyond the current week.

Whether he would regard a reprieve from Governor Harold G. Hoffman, who has announced there would be none, as coming from a "competent authority" was a subject of speculation.

No Change Indicated

The governor has indicated no change in his position against another reprieve, which he has been informed he has no legal right to grant. But his earlier announcements regarding it mentioned the possibility of "startling new developments" which might justify some form of action to prevent the execution.

In announcing the new tentative date, the warden disclosed he had "checked up with" Governor Hoffman before fixing it. Governor Hoffman led a vigorous fight to prolong the German-born Bronx carpenter's life charging the evidence which convicted him was open to question.

The grand jury was in session again today but it was reported it was considering matters not connected with the Wendel case, which had kept it in session for a record period last night—hours after Hauptmann was saved. It was expected to take up the Wendel case again tomorrow.

Head Is Shaved

Last night Hauptmann's head was shaved and his trouser leg slit, and there seemed that nothing could save him, when the grand jury stepped in with the unprecedented request that he be spared 48 hours.

Although refreshed by a night of sound sleep and the realization that he still lived when he fully had expected to be dead, Hauptmann was said by prison attaches to be "still upset."

"Bruno is red-eyed and has been weeping intermittently during the

Concern Felt As Cold Wave Strikes West

Severe Damage To Fruit Crops Reported While Thousands Of Sheep, Lambs Menaced On Idaho Ranges

(By The Associated Press)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 1. — April's debut brought snow and wintry weather to most of the west tonight.

The snow blanket provided needed moisture in the Kansas wheat belt but cold caused concern to California orchardists and menaced thousands of sheep and lambs on Idaho's ranges.

Fruits Are Damaged

Severe damage to seedless grapes in the Modesto, Calif., area was indicated with some damage to other

WINTER'S WANING FLING

High and low temperatures in Lubbock Wednesday, according to maximum station of West Texas Gas company:

Maximum of 75 degrees at 3 o'clock that afternoon.

Minimum of 28 degrees at midnight. The temperature range was 47 degrees.

Amarillo reported 26 degrees at midnight. Eleven o'clock forecasts read: "Temperature expected to fall to from 32 to 36 degrees in Panhandle; freezing in central and west portions of Panhandle; Thursday partly cloudy and colder in the south portion."

fruits and almonds. Temperatures dropped to 28 degrees in some sections of the state. Northwest Oklahoma reported slight fruit damage.

Secretary M. C. Claar of the Idaho Woolgrowers' association said an estimate of sheepmen's losses due to cold was not possible.

Clovis, center of the eastern New Mexico wheat belt, was the principal "dust spot" on the map, although Amarillo, Tex., had some dust with five-mile visibility. Southern Colorado, Oklahoma and other sections of the dust bowl reported snow had abated the problem.

Coldest On Record

Yellowstone national park reported the coldest April 1 on record, eight below zero. Sub-zero readings were listed by Helena and Livingston, Mont.

Snow was general over northeastern Missouri, western and north central Kansas, Montana, Wyoming, Idaho, Utah and northern Colorado.

Tulsa reported a quarter inch rain while Texas enjoyed crisp, generally clear weather.

Use Of Public Funds For Politics Will Be Probed

WASHINGTON, April 1. (AP)—The senate today authorized an investigation of the use of public funds, including relief money, for political purposes.

It so amended a resolution calling for a five-member committee to investigate the expenditures in the current campaign of candidates for the presidency, vice-presidency and senate.

Former Shackelford Sheriff Is Found Dead In His Home

MORAN, Texas, April 1 (AP)—W. E. Goodman, sheriff of Shackelford county from 1931 to 1935, was found dead of a gunshot wound at his home here this morning. It was thought he was wounded when his shotgun discharged accidentally as he investigated possible theft of gasoline from his car, parked near the house in which he lived alone.

Nation-Wide Search Will Be Launched For Houston Man

HOUSTON, April 1. (AP)—A nation-wide search for J. H. Campbell, 42-year-old Houston oil man, will be started at once, District Attorney General J. Carlton Loser of Nashville, Tenn., said today after Campbell's $5,000 bond was forfeited when he failed to appear in court for a hearing.

Campbell is under 10 indictments in Tennessee on charges of gasoline tax evasion, according to Loser, who obtained extradition papers from Governor James V. Allred of Texas several days ago.

Woman Facing Death Granted New Trial By Appeals Court

AUSTIN, April 1. (AP)—The first woman sentenced to be electrocuted in Texas, a Harris county negress, was granted a new trial today.

The court of criminal appeals ruled that introduction of prejudicial evidence and trial errors entitled the woman, Nell Brooks, to another trial. She was sentenced to death in the slaying of her husband. The state alleged she employed Levi Johnson, now serving a life sentence, to shoot Brooks.

Hope Ran High Four Years Ago

TRENTON, N. J., April 1. (AP)—The $50,000 Lindbergh ransom was handed over the wall of St. Raymond's cemetery, the Bronx, four years ago tomorrow night.

Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon, ransom negotiator, made the payment to the mysterious "John" he later identified as Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

Waiting in a car down the street, hopeful the exchange of money would mean the return of his kidnaped son, was Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. Forty days after the payment of the ransom the baby's body was found.

Plan To Gain Wealth Aired

Early Vision Of Dr. Townsend That "There Might Be Millions In It" Recalled Before House Group

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 1. — An early vision of Dr. F. E. Townsend that with proper organization of his old age pension plan "there might be millions in it" today was recalled before a special house investigating committee.

A statement to this effect, contained in a letter from the Long Beach, Calif., doctor to Robert E. Clements, a co-founder, was read to the committee by James R. Sullivan, special counsel, and recorded along with developments, which included:

Assertion Is Denied

A committee assertion—promptly denied—that the Townsend organization was a lobbying and political machine.

A disclosure that the assets of Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd., the Townsend corporation, belonged to the three incorporators, and that they considered it "a trust."

Testimony that E. J. Margett, San Francisco area manager for the Townsend organization, who had been listed previously as receiving between $1,800 and $2,100 a month, at one time had three indictments returned against him in the state of Washington, two charging grand larceny and the third alleging that he "accepted the earnings of a common prostitute."

Clements On Stand

Clements, recently resigned as Townsend plan secretary, occupied the witness stand throughout a long day of testimony, time after time denying statements, or intimations, that old age pension funds were spent in lobbying activities.

Clements conceded that a "congressional action" fund was maintained, that about 50 dinners had been given attended by congressmen and that various regional area managers paid $75 a week were in Washington at different times to "explain" the Townsend plan to their congressmen.

Gifts To Winning Clubs And Individuals Are Presented Wednesday Shortly Before Farewell Luncheon

CANYON was selected as the convention city for 1937 by the seventh district, Texas Federation of Women's club board, Wednesday afternoon just preceding an au revoir luncheon that ended the program for the three-day conference.

The invitation was extended by Mrs. T. V. Reeves.

Final program was conducted at First Methodist church headquarters for the convention, and the luncheon was served at Hilton hotel.

Gifts Presented

Committee chairmen presented gifts to winning clubs and individual winners during a merit session that followed a memorial service and final club reports.

The guest speaker, Mrs. W. S. Douglas of San Angelo, state chairman of gardens in the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, addressed the assembly on "Our Gardens and The Flowers Therein."

Mrs. Warner Honored

The memorial service honored the lamented Mrs. Phebe K. Warner of Claude, known to club women everywhere as "the Little Brown Wren." Four Lamesa women, Mesdames W. J. Beckam, L. A. Pratt, M. C. Lindsey and Matt McCall, directed the service.

Winners of first places were as follows:

Best senior report, Loremo Women's Study club; best junior report, Littlefield Junior Woman's club; best sub-junior report, Lamesa club; senior choral club, Plain-

Grand Champion Calf Brings 91 Cents Per Pound In Two Sales At Annual Auction

By J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche Staff Writer

EARL VAN METER'S grand champion calf from McAdoo, Dickens county, brought a total of 91 cents a pound in two sales at the annual auction of the Lubbock Quality Meat show at the Panhandle-South Plains Fair grounds yesterday afternoon.

Cheers greeted the announcement of Mark A. Taylor, Amarillo, district manager of Phillips Petroleum Co., that he would pay 66 cents a pound, for the grand champion, and added, "I give the calf back to the Quality Meat show." Then Col. Earl Gartin, auctioneer, quickly sold him to Austin Food Stores and the Hotel Hilton for 25 cents a pound. Proceeds go to the show.

"This is the third largest auction sale of its kind in Texas this year," Col. Gartin announced. "This section of Texas certainly knows how to support its shows."

R. C. (Bob) Harvey, local buyer for Armour and Co., bid in the grand champion hog for his company at 25 cents a pound. It was bred by Leo Wenzel, Lynn county youth of the Wilson community. Lubbock Hog Co., paid 17.5 cents per pound for the reserve champion, bred by William O. Adams, Tulia. The 132 hogs sold averaged 10.46 cents a pound, about 46 cents per hundred over the Fort Worth top of Wednesday.

Alex McDonald, local packer, paid 41 cents a pound for the grand champion lamb, bred by Marcelle Anderson, Tulia. Texas Centennial, through W. L. Stangel, paid 18 cents a pound for the reserve champion lamb to Elois Harris, McAdoo.

21 Cents For Calf

Mr. McDonald paid 21 cents a pound for the reserve champion calf to J. P. Sharp, jr., Tulia.

Last year the champion calf brought 66 cents, with an average of about 11.75 cents for the whole lot. The 1935 champion pig brought 29 cents as did the grand champion lamb.

Before the calf sale started, the grand champion light and heavy hams and bacon were sold. George P. Kuykendall paid $1.40 per pound for R. L. May's 12.5 pound ham; Phillips "66" paid 80 cents for the heavy ham of I. V. Pent, while his bacon sold to Alex McDonald for 70 cents. Last year's prices were $1.10, 85 cents and $1.50 respectively.

A crowd estimated at between 750 and 1,000 witnessed the sale. The livestock barn area roped off for the sale was crowded. Selling was fast.

Quick Sales Made

It was estimated that 112 head of calves sold in 106 minutes. The hogs and sheet went even faster.

O. J. Sexton and J. H. Brock were clerks of the sale. Alex McDonald was ring master. County Agent C. C. Jobson, M. C. Brandon of Wilson and several county agents assisted.

Seats inside the ring were provided for buyers. S. C. Arnett, J.

Decisive Italian Victory Reported; Thousands Killed

ROME, April 1. (AP) — A decisive Italian victory over 20,000 picked Ethiopian warriors led by Emperor Haile Selassie himself was reported today. An official communique said 7,000 of the Ethiopians were killed.

Italian casualties were put at more than 1,000 most of them among Eritreans in the huge battle fought yesterday in northern Ethiopia.

Further Drilling In Yoakum County Well Promised; Oil Flow Increases

(Special To The Avalanche)

SEAGRAVES, April 1. — Bottomed at 5,283 feet, with around 30 barrels of oil swabbed at one time, and a reported increase in flow and also gas, the No. 1 L. P. "There is no doubt that this is a producer," C. J. (Red) Davidson, was quoted as saying. "It is good now for from 350 to 400 barrels, as it stands. We will drill further and we may shoot."

At the same time Mr. Davidson was quoted as saying the "big lime" or the Permian lime was rated as the largest so far in West Texas. "We have never found it any thicker," he added. "We will continue to drill further, to determine the depth of the lime."

The big lime was reported as picked up at 4,656 feet, bottom of the casing. A strain of an-

Long-Awaited Hitler Peace Plan Offered

Peace Pacts Extending Over Period Of 25 Years With France And Belgium Proposed By Germany

Features Revealed

Germany Would Rejoin League And Borders Would Be Controlled By An International Commission Unit.

By WADE WERNER
Associated Press Foreign Staff

BERLIN, April 1. (AP) — Adolf Hitler's long-awaited program to insure peace in western Europe, envisaging 25-year-peace pacts with France and Belgium and Germany's return to the League of Nations, was delivered today to the British government.

The lengthy document, one of the most important pronouncements on foreign policy by Der Fuehrer in his three years of rule, was hailed in official quarters here as a constructive and far-reaching move.

Goes Much Further

The general view was that Hitler's program, outlined in counter-proposals delivered to Great Britain following his rejection of the plan drawn by the four Locarno powers, goes much further than Hitler's original proposals, advanced March 7 when he denounced the Locarno treaty.

Among the chief features of Hitler's program are:

Negotiations for a "new Locarno" would be carried on for a period of four months.

Germany, France, and Belgium would consent to have their frontiers controlled by an international commission composed of a representative of Great Britain, Italy and a neutral power. Each of the three countries would guarantee not to increase its military forces along the border and would refrain from casting aspersions on each other in publications and in teachings.

Peace Pact Proposed

Negotiations for a 25-year non-aggression pact, under Britain's leadership, would begin after the French elections.

Germany and France would agree to do everything possible in the education of youth to avoid anything "that might poison the attitude of the two peoples to one another."

The treaty would be ratified by the French, Belgium and German peoples in plebiscites.

Immediately after the treaty is

Estimated 8,405 Tags Are Issued For Lubbock County

A Lubbock county public that concentrated its attention Wednesday on necessity of purchasing automobile and truck licenses before a midnight deadline, had been issued an estimated 8,405 tags when the office of Hurley Carpenter, assessor-collector, closed.

The figure exceeded a pre-campaign estimate, said officials, who cited last year's total as approximately 7,500.

It was explained that about 7,100 passenger cars, 1,110 commercial vehicles and 195 farm trucks, on which payments are one-half the usual levy, had been licensed.

A last-minute warning was sounded against motorists who attempt to operate machines not equipped with new plates and whose liability would begin immediately after the stroke of midnight.

Two Persons Are Reported Killed In Airplane Crash

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 1. (AP) — At least two persons were reported killed in the crash of an airplane on the farm of Ralph Shepard in Pavilion, 18 miles southeast of Batavia, tonight.

Sweeping New Law Planned In Austria To Boost Forces

VIENNA, April 1. (AP)—The Austrian chancellery announced tonight that "plans are being worked out" to put into effect a sweeping new law to call every able bodied male between the ages of 18 and 42 into federal service.

The language of the statute, passed unanimously by the federal diet, was so general that without exception men between those ages can be called for either military or civil duties.

Convicted Slayer Of Sheriff Is To Learn Fate Today

"I'm Not Guilty Of Murdering Bill Arthur, I'll Say That To The Last," Prisoner Declares; Claims 'Higher Power' Will Even Things Up Someday; Is Not Afraid Of Death

VIRGIL STALCUP, whisked into Lubbock late Wednesday afternoon for formal sentence of death, will hear the date of his execution set in 99th district court some time today.

Stalcup's engagement with death probably will be in early May.

Convicted of murdering Sheriff W. B. Arthur at Dickens, Stalcup has exhausted his last appeal to the court of criminal appeals.

Hoping to avoid a crowd, some of whom might attempt to aid the condemned man, officers had arranged for sentence to be passed quietly and quickly late yesterday.

Defense attorneys, however, asked Judge Clara M. Mullican to grant them a brief time in which to determine whether they had further legal recourse in Stalcup's behalf. The request was granted.

Handcuffed and chained to Sheriff John Koonsman of Dickens county, Stalcup was led into the courthouse shortly after 5 o'clock. The condemned man recognized and spoke to persons he had met during his trial here in February, 1935.

Stalcup has changed since he heard a 99th jury fix his punishment. He has been in the state penitentiary, has seen 19 men walk to their death in the iron chair. He has embraced the Catholic faith, has lost his bravado.

"There's one thing — they don't have jurisdiction on my soul," he told a reporter.

"I'm not guilty of murdering Bill Arthur, and I'll say that to the last," he declared.

He holds no malice, not even for "perjured testimony" in his trial, he said.

"They'll Have To Pay"

"There's a higher power that will even up all these things some time," he said. "They'll have to pay for it some day."

Is he ready to die?

"I'm man enough to take mine," he said.

He explained he knew of no legal recourse, adding he realized his last appeal was to Governor James V. Allred.

"I really don't expect the governor to act," he said.

One of Stalcup's first questions, after being carried to the third floor of the courthouse, was about his mother. He was told by Sheriff Tom Abel that his mother was here, that she had received his telegram.

Like To See Mother

"I'd sure like to see her a little while," he said, adding, "I may not get to see her any more."

The shackles were removed by Deputy Sheriff Bedford F. Carpenter before Stalcup went into the courtroom.

The condemned man showed prison pallor, and his long fingers were nicotine-stained by incessant smoking.

Stalcup wore a frayed black pullover sweater over a light blue shirt. Open at the neck, the shirt disclosed a small chain. It held a scapular, on which was pictured the Virgin Mary. Stalcup wore light-colored trousers and black shoes. He did not wear a belt.

Mother, Son Embrace

A few minutes later, Stalcup's mother entered the courtroom with Deputy Sheriff Parum Posey. Mother and son embraced and kissed. She patted him affectionately. There were no tears, and only once during the time while attorneys asked for the delay in sentencing did Mrs. Stalcup wipe her eyes.

Stalcup's fingers never appeared to be still. They twirled a penny box of matches. Once, Stalcup drew a rosary from his pocket, fingered it, handed it to his mother. She later returned it to him.

About 60 persons had entered the courtroom before Stalcup was removed to the county jail.

Among officers there were Sheriff Koonsman, Sheriff Abel, Assistant Police Chief Don Reeder, Deputy Sheriff Carpenter, Deputy Sheriff Posey, Deputy Sheriff Grady Harriet, Constable J. C. Roberts, Sam W. Fort, police identifications officer. J. C. Keller, state highway patrolman, and Cleve Cobb, railway special officer, were in the lobby outside the courtroom.

Mandate Is Filed

Mandate from the court of criminal appeals, directing Judge Mullican to pass sentence on Stalcup, was filed in the district clerk's office Monday. Judge Mullican that day issued, at the request of District Attorney Daniel A. Blair and Burton S. Burks, assistant district attorney, a bench warrant for Stalcup's return.

Mother Tells Of Son's Love

"I'll Be Waiting Just Inside Those Gates . . . Be Happy For My Sake," Virgil Stalcup Writes His Mother

Apparently condemned by society to die, Virgil Stalcup in 80 letters addressed to his mother since August threads his philosophy with this credo:

"I hate to die just when I have learned to be close to you and to see the purpose in living—but if that be God's will I am pleased."

Not All Bad

"My boy is not all bad; he is thoughtful of me," said Mrs. E. M. Stalcup of Albuquerque, N. M., the mother. In her room at a medium-rates hotel she turned to a sheaf of letters, numbered like the legal documents the state in its name has filed against the son.

"My sweet, (one said) although I know the news you have received (that Stalcup's death penalty had been affirmed Jan. 8) is not the right kind to elevate a mother's spirits; however, . . . it has not dampened mine. . . . I know it much harder for you than it is for me. That is what hurts me . . . just knowing how you are being hurt. . . . 'It is appointed man once to die.' . . . if it is mine I don't want it to bring you sadness. Just think how awful it would have been if I had died in sin. I have received the sacrament of baptism, penance and Holy Eucharist. I am at peace with Him who created us. I have the assurance of Christ's Holy Church. Those golden gates will swing wide for me when I've paid my debts here on earth. I want you to be happy. . . . with the thought that, when your time comes and God calls you home, I'll be waiting just inside those gates to welcome you; and, before your time, I'll be watching you from up there and trying to give you the protection that I failed to give you here. Be happy for my sake. You

WE LEARNED a good definition for a highbrow during the session: "A highbrow is one who is educated beyond his intelligence." There are fifty federations making up the roll of the General Federation of Women's clubs, since the District of Columbia and Alaska have been admitted. People who think that club papers are as dull as dishwater should have sat in on some of the two-minute reports that senior and junior town clubs and county federated clubs presented. By far the majority of women in this district have paid their poll taxes. They have endorsed civic projects such as public rest rooms, parks, establishing parks, fostering character building organizations, studied proposed legislative measures and urged their representatives to vote for them, studied the revised curriculum in public schools and participated in activities pertaining to the Centennial.

THESE projects claimed the attention of the women in addition to their regular course of study based on life, literature, the arts or the like. The time is past, if it was ever with us, when groups try to embrace the whole of the past, present and future in a single year's study.

RESOLUTIONS of sympathy were passed in regard to the illness of MRS. J. T. WHITMORE of Snyder, former district president, who is seriously ill at her home. MRS. ARDELLE S. One of the most striking outfits was worn by MRS. U. L. WYLIE, vivid brunette from Matador, who chose a brown knit suit with shoulder corsage of deep yellow daisies with brown centers and a yellow felt sport hat with brown band.

MRS. W. P. AVRIETT, retiring president, came by the office late Wednesday afternoon to bid us goodbye and express her appreciation. She is a most gracious woman and fitted with dynamic energy, but she appeared tired, as who wouldn't be after four such important days, for the convention began for her with the pre-convention board meeting Sunday night. She plans to rest for a week, she said. It's rumored that she won't have an opponent for the candidacy of first vice-president of the State Federation of Women's clubs.

MRS. REX TYNES, retiring chairman of safety in the home, suggested a roll call answered with how to prevent accidents in the home. We know that many deaths are caused yearly by people slipping in their bathtubs, or investigating a gas leak by the aid of a match or starting their cars in a closed garage. Mrs. Tynes's idea met the instant approval of the delegates and visitors.

MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT answered the Skellytown Eleanor Roosevelt club's letter asking for the use of her name and expressed best wishes for the organization's growth and her appreciation of the compliment. The memorial service for MRS. PHEBE K. WARNER of Claude, lamented club leader, was very touching and most of the women wept openly and unashamed. Lamesa women conducted the ceremony, one of them lighting a candelabrum holding seven candles, the center representing the Little Brown Wren. Another read a poem written by a member of seventh district in memory of Mrs. Warner and another sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." It appeared to us as just right. You probably have sat through memorial services that were too great an emotional strain.

MRS. W. S. DOUGLAS of San Angelo, state chairman of gardens in the federation, made one of the most interesting talks of the program. If we can get a copy of her talk, we plan to run it in a Sunday paper some time. Her remarks deal with the history of flowers and their significance.

Operetta Will Be Given Soon

"Goldilocks' Adventure" Will Be Staged By Children Of Carter School On Friday Night At High School

Two complete stage settings are now being constructed for the presentation of "Goldilocks' Adventure", operetta to be given by K. Carter school children Friday night at 8 o'clock at Senior High school auditorium. The first setting will be that of a garden, where Goldilocks is having a party, and the second will be a scene in the woods, with the home of the three bears in the background.

Funds made from the operetta will go to pay for the mimeograph on which the school paper is printed, and to buy a school typewriter. Tickets are twenty-five cents for adults and fifteen for students.

Mary Nell Earnest, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Earnest, 1707 A Seventeenth street, has the title role of the operetta. Elizabeth Huribut and Carl Taylor play the parts of the parents of Goldilocks.

Miss Dimple Watson is director of music and Miss Stella Thurman and art teachers are directing dramatics.

NEWS BRIEFS

Eagle Scouts will complete organization of a club tonight at a banquet session at Tree Top inn, beginning at 6:30 o'clock, said W. H. Crenshaw, temporary organization chairman. Approximately 35 are expected to attend and vote on a constitution and by-laws and officers.

Complaint alleging swindling by false and fraudulent representations, specifically with taking a note from a woman under pretense of taking it to a bank and renewing, then returning it to her, was filed Wednesday in the court of J. T. Trigg, justice of the peace, by Madison S. Raybun, assistant county attorney. Mrs. Ray Clark was complainant. No arrest had been made. A charge of overloading resulted in payment of fine of $1 and costs in another case.

State authorities L. T. DuBois and H. J. Walker Wednesday afternoon confiscated approximately 4 1-2 cases of liquor branded whisky in King county, a dry area. DuBois said the liquor was stamped, but that stamps had not been cancelled. He said the owner of the liquor had been warned on that provision. The whisky was stored in county jail here. No arrest had been made.

Mrs. J. B. Slaughter, sr., of Post, widow of the former prominent Garza county cattleman and until destruction of the famous headquarters by fire last fall the mistress of the U-Lazy-S ranch, Wednesday was admitted to West Texas hospital for observation and treatment of an ailment of the left eye. Some months ago Mrs. Slaughter submitted to two operations on the eye in a northern hospital.

A handbook which will be issued to Texas Technological college students at opening of next fall semester will be discussed and the contract for advertising probably let at tonight's meeting of the college student council at 7 o'clock in room 210 administration building, said Leon Ince, council president. The council is collecting information about college traditions, rules, grounds and buildings, and other data for the book.

W. L. Stangel, on leave as head of the animal husbandry department, Texas Technological college, and a member of the Lubbock Kiwanis club, is to speak before that club at its luncheon today in the Hotel Lubbock, it was learned yesterday. He has been here several days. Mr Stangel is head of the livestock division of the Texas Central Centennial at Dallas.

County and home demonstration agents are to meet today at the Hilton hotel, it was learned last night. O. G. Tumlinson, district county agent, will meet with the two groups. Most of the agents have been here attending the Quality Meat show.

George Benson, president of the First Federal Savings and Loan association, expressed optimism over a prospective building program at a monthly banquet of the association Tuesday night at Hilton hotel. Benson based his expectation of the number of lots sold in recent months and the number of persons who are considering building homes, he said.

After several weeks at West Texas hospital, J. B. Potts of Canyon community was to return home Wednesday afternoon. He had been gravely ill of a gall bladder ailment.

Condition at midnight in Lubbock sanitarium of Ralph Wadley, 22, who had been injured in a highway mishap near Shallowater early that morning seemed all right, it was reported. He lay partially paralyzed almost three hours before a passing motorist rendered aid after his pickup truck overturned, throwing him from the cab. He suffered a fractured pelvis and minor cuts and bruises. His parents live at Amarillo. He lives at 2403 Seventh street.

Police at midnight were working on clues as to identity of persons responsible for two breaking offenses Tuesday night. About $11 in money was taken from room 216 Conley building in a burglary, Carl Young reported. The door of the office had been pried. Shoes for the left foot were taken from an automobile of A. B. Keedy of Dallas. Glass of the machine was broken.

Chances for recovery of W. H. Atwood of 1914 Avenue O apparently were remote at midnight, said Lubbock sanitarium. He is suffering a stomach ailment.

Class Meets With Mrs. W. B. Yeager

Mrs. W. B. Yeager of 2214 Fourteenth street was hostess to the First Baptist Alathean class Wednesday afternoon at her home. Twenty-three members and guests attended.

Mrs. J. R. Weiss, club president, presided at a business session, which was followed by a social hour.

Colonial Needle Club Has Meeting At Syfrett Home

A birthday shower was presented to Mrs. B. F. Foster at the meeting of Colonial Needle club Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. A. L. Syfrett of Arnett-Benson addition.

The group did embroidery work.

Club members attending were Mesdames Roy Parks, J. B. Giles, Bryan Landers, W. B. Lewis, C. C. Taylor, G. L. Sutton and Miss Billie Taylor.

Guests present were Mesdames O. C. White, I. T. Weed and Arnold Weed and Miss Muriel Lewis.

Baptist Association WMU To Meet In Slaton Today

The Lubbock Baptist association Women's Missionary union will have a quarterly meeting today at the Slaton First Baptist church, beginning at 10:15 a. m. Each society has been asked to bring books for the association library. The program will include pantomiming of mission books.

Four Fire Alarms Answered In City

Four fire alarms were answered by Central station Wednesday but no damage of importance resulted, said Fire Chief W. E. Twitty.

Blazes were: 4:55 a. m., at 2322 Twentieth street, at the home of Dr. Marshall Harvey; 8:05 a. m., at 804-A Main, Ideal Tailor shop, originating from fumes off cleaning fluid; 7 p. m., at Canyon Tourist camp, on North H, where a wall caught from a stove placed too close to it; and at 7:35 p. m., in 2300-block Thirteenth street, where an ironing board caught from an over-heated iron.

Chief Twitty said that it would be necessary for the station to discontinue practice of answering calls from the general public immediately after fire alarms, as a safety precaution.

"We almost are compelled to keep our line ready for incoming calls from the other fire station, the gas company, the electric company, and from at least two firemen who are off duty at such times," the chief said. "When the circuit is tied up and our members are answering questions of the public we are not able to give as instantaneous attention to possible emergencies as we'd like."

School Strike Said Enlarged

South San Antonio Institution Picketed By Students In Effort To Force Reinstatement Of Leader

SAN ANTONIO, April 1. (AP)—Striking students picketed South San Antonio High school today in a resolute effort to force the reinstatement of B. Z. Hughes, superintendent of education.

The force of protesting students was even larger than in yesterday's demonstration and there were reports that some parents, while not allowing their children to parade or picket, were keeping them home in protest against Hughes' dismissal.

Charge Advanced

The charge that politics caused the Hughes ouster was advanced by L. R. Lumpkin, candidate for election in the suburban trustee election Saturday.

L. J. Lassere, incumbent, claimed Hughes had withheld information from board members "in order to put over several school projects."

Student strike leaders, raising money to prolong the picketing indefinitely, declared they were afraid the board might dismiss two other members of the high school faculty.

Petitions Circulated

Demonstrations were organized by students at the homes of board members and petitions were circulated demanding Hughes' reinstatement.

It was reported that about half of the student body of 200 was absent. Jack Morton, Marshall High school principal named by the board to succeed Hughes, was in charge of the school.

The American Legion raised a side issue today when informed that students, in their parades, had dragged the American flag in the dirt. The students were admonished to carry the flag correctly.

ACTRESS IMPROVES

NEW YORK, April 1. (AP)—Marilyn Miller, stage star, ill in Doctors hospital, today was "slightly improved" according to her physician, Dr. W. Laurence Whittemore.

In Colonial days, clam juice was given to fever patients instead of water.

New Date For Execution Of Hauptmann Tentatively Set For Friday Night; Action Of Jury Awaited

day," one of them said, "and he is faltering in his speech."

His wife, casting aside the mourning veil she purchased yesterday afternoon, donned her gay new spring outfit and called at the prison about noon but was unable to see her husband because there was another visitor in the death house. She was weeping slightly as she left, to return later.

Developments Rumored

Announcement of the new execution date came toward the end of a day full of fast-flying rumors that startling new developments in the case impended.

Attention focused sharply on the Wendel investigation while Hauptmann, who broke down and sobbed out his "innocence" yesterday, gathered renewed hope in his cell.

The utter despair that enveloped him when he wrote a farewell letter to Governor Hoffman apparently had gone.

Wendel, a 49-year-old disbarred attorney and former druggist was held without bail at the county jail while investigators sped about the countryside checking up on his past movements.

To Furnish Information

County Prosecutor Erwin E. Marshall, repeated his belief that Wendel had no connection with the Lindbergh crime, promised to furnish the grand jury with complete information concerning the time Wendel spent in Burlington county after he allegedly was abducted and forced to sign three "confessions."

Wendel said that after being kidnaped and tortured in New York he was taken to the Mt. Holly home of Ellis H. Parker, famed chief of Burlington county detectives, and then to the New Lisbon colony for feeble minded males in the same county.

A Wendel defense source said the department of justice had begun an investigation of his story of being kidnaped and tortured but officials here said they had no knowledge of it.

To Waive Immunity

While the grand jury interrupted its study of the Wendel matter to dispose of routine matters, the prisoner's chief defense counsel, John S. Kafes, announced Wendel had offered to waive immunity and go before the grand jury himself.

Wendel said he wanted an opportunity to describe what he called a "conspiracy to obstruct justice."

It also became known today that a number of telephone calls have been received at Governor Hoffman's office threatening "an aftermath" if Hauptmann died in the electric chair. Telegrams have poured in from all parts of the country, the governor's secretary said, urging that Hauptmann be spared.

Top of the pay lime was corrected to 5,094 feet. Below that depth, to the present, it is said there have been several indications of good saturation.

Mrs. Charles Whitacre was local hostess; Mrs. E. L. Robertson gave the invocation and Mrs. J. A. Hill of Canyon gave the invocation.

Warning Is Given Against Traffic Law Convictions

Conviction in three misdemeanor or in one felony cases involving traffic laws would result in loss of operators license, warned Police Chief H. L. Johnston Wednesday, on eve of a new licensing law for motorists going into effect.

Licenses have blanks for recording of three offenses. Record of infractions will go to the director of the department of public safety at Austin.

"We will put out every effort, with what equipment and man-power we have, to enforce traffic laws and every other law," said Chief Johnston.

"I have recommended to the City recorder that he report each conviction possible to the director of the department of public safety."

early Tuesday for Huntsville to return the man here.

Officers had asked newspaper reporters to keep secret the sentencing. Stalcup, however, was permitted by prison officials at Huntsville to send a telegram to his mother, telling her that he would be here.

Sheriff Arthur was shot fatally when Stalcup and Clarence Brown broke jail at Dickens Oct. 27, 1934. Brown is under 99-year sentence for murder as a result of the homicide.

On a change of venue, Stalcup was convicted by a 99th district court jury here Feb. 12. He had been defended by Robert J. Allen, W. D. Benson, jr., and Hugh Anderson, who were appointed by Judge Mullican. Benson and Allen were in the courtroom yesterday afternoon.

Would Lift Weight

"I hope my philosophy has helped to lift the weight off your heart. May God bless you all."

In another:

"Mother, dearest, you have asked me for a little poem and, though I realize my sad inability to do you justice in it, as in any other way, I have written this and I know you will like it. So—

"Here's a little poem from the boy
That you know loves you best
And regrets each pain he's caused
To mar your joy and happiness.

"Years! So bitter and oh, so lonely!
Far away from your knee;
Yet they've served to bring our hearts
Into the closest of harmony.

"Though circumstances, many miles,
Even years may separate us,
In reality, I'm there in your heart—
Kicking up an awful fuss.'

Love Is Expressed

"No one understands me like you, and no one loves you like I do. I am ever so thankful that I have at least begun to realize the significance of that."

In another, Stalcup writes:

"If my case is affirmed . . . It won't be long until . . . hand in hand we'll wander down the Great Whiteway together. I have lived long enough to get acquainted with our Creator."

Mrs. Stalcup, who cooks for a fraternity house at the University of New Mexico, lost her composure only once, breaking down after her son had been taken up the elevator at county jail. But she dried her eyes and told a reporter:

"Virgil asked me not to cry, and I won't. Anyway, he has made me happy recently by his embracing of religion and his thoughtfulness in every way. I am convinced of his innocence, and I have not given up all hope, but I am happy when I know that my boy knows when he goes to the chair, if he must, that he will do it like a man, knowing that when he does his hand will be in mine and the other in the Christ's. And I am happy, too, that he knows I will realize his presence with me continually—even after he has gone."

A Frenchman, M. de Sivrac, is said to have originated the idea for a bicycle. His first machine appeared in Paris during 1690 and consisted of a wooden frame and two wheels. Locomotion was achieved by pushing on the ground with the feet.

Pension Applications Over County Will Be Investigated

Investigation of old age pension applications will be started by five investigators assigned to Lubbock county, E. H. Twaddell, F. H. Simpson and K. Osburn, of the district office at Plainview, said here yesterday.

The men went over the approximately 1,000 applications made by Lubbock county residents. As soon as they completed a list, they turned it over to the investigators.

"We are asking applicants to have ready for these investigators, all papers and records to substantiate their claims," said Mr. Twaddell. "Each applicant must be able to substantiate his age, birthplace and years of residence in Texas.

"Persons to qualify must have resided in Texas at least five out of the past nine years. The investigators will get to each applicant as soon as possible."

Investigators assigned to Lubbock county include: D. N. Dillard and R. S. Williams, Lubbock; W. L. McWilliams, Matador; A. A. Rhea, Levelland and J. C. Collier, Littlefield.

Validity Of Lindbergh Law Challenged By Doomed Man

WASHINGTON, April 1. (AP) — Constitutionality of the Lindbergh kidnaping act was challenged in the Supreme court today by Arthur Gooch, who faces death for kidnaping two Texas police officers.

Lawyers for Gooch appealed from a ruling March 9 by the 10th circuit court of appeals which upheld the law's constitutionality.

Gooch was sentenced to be hanged at Muskogee, Okla. by the eastern Oklahoma federal district court. The officers were taken across the Texas line into Oklahoma.

Enrollment In Junior CCC Ordered For Lubbock County

Enrollments of 28 Lubbock county youths in the junior Civilian Conservation Corps will be accepted, said E. L. Conyers, intake clerk for the Texas Relief commission, after receiving orders from state CCC officials.

Youths of ages 17 to 28 may apply at the relief office at 1312 Avenue G if they are members of families on county relief, of families released from WPA work under the recent reduction order, or of families who already are receiving WPA money but need more because of a large family, sickness or some other acceptable reason.

The January call for additional enrollees was omitted and the office here had been informed no April call would be made.

Youths who have been employed four months in a CCC project and were honorably discharged may apply again, Conyers said. No youth with a court record is eligible.

Each youth accepted will receive $30 monthly, $22 of which he must send to his family.

Enrollees chosen will be placed by the district CCC office here, Conyers said.

BLACK-DRAUGHT

Next Time You Need a Laxative

For constipation, take a dose of Black-Draught as soon as you realize the condition you are in.

"If I am bilious, have headache or a cold, I take a dose of Black-Draught at night," writes Mrs R. D. Thaxton, of Lexington, Ga. "If I have a bad feeling after meals, I take just a pinch of Black-Draught. It relieves me. I recommend it very highly—a good family medicine. I give my children Syrup of Black-Draught. I find both good."

Black-Draught paves the way for the relief of many such symptoms as those mentioned above, when constipation is at the bottom of the trouble.

Just try it! Follow the directions carefully and you'll probably learn why Black-Draught is so popular. Adv.

Gly-Cas Restores Health To Mrs. Emma Jones; Cannot Laud Gly-Cas Half Enough For Remarkable Change Made In Her Condition

"Gly-Cas is the very medicine I had been looking for," said Mrs. Emma Jones, 609 Locust St., Abilene, Tex., "For sometime it seemed I was sure to bloat after each meal

MRS. EMMA JONES

I ate and a heavy rock-like feeling would come in the pit of my stomach. It seemed the slightest thing would throw my stomach off until I was almost afraid to eat anything. Dizzy spells and headaches were entirely too frequent. My kidneys became terribly affected too and then a night's rest was simply out of the question. I was also badly constipated and in spite of all I tried I could not find anything to help me. But once I gave Gly-Cas the opportunity all of this was soon changed."

"It is remarkable how quickly Gly-Cas regulated my entire system," she continued, "I can now eat my meals without any fear of distress afterwards. Foods digest properly and I have a good appetite. Dizzy spells and headaches have been eliminated, kidneys are regulated and I simply eat and sleep good and enjoy the blessing of good health. Suffering people shou'd realize how fortunate they are in being able to get a medicine that will really do as claimed—like this new Gly-Cas—it has REAL MERIT."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Store, 1219 Broadway, and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns.

Gly-Cas $1.00 per box—6 boxes $5.00. Add 2c postage for each box ordered. Send money orders made payable Mark Halsey Drug Store. Don't send cash. Checks not accepted—No C. O. D. Mail Orders.—Adv.

Lawson Little, Amateur Golf King, Turns Professional; To Play At Augusta

Californian Is To Join Bobby Jones Brigade

Sudden Decision Is Announced On Eve Of Little's Start In Augusta National; National Team Seeks New Captain

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 1.—W. Lawson Little, jr., world amateur golf champion for the past two years, tonight announced he has turned professional.

Relinquishing his amateur status in a sudden decision, made on the eve, of his participation here in the third annual Augusta National invitation tournament, the San Francisco "siege gun" joined Robert T. Jones, jr., former world champion, in a golf promotion venture sponsored by a leading national sports goods firm (A. G. Spalding and Brothers).

As outlined by Jones and Little, the proposition involved a country-wide "educational program," including demonstrations, exhibitions and general golf promotion. It is understood Little will sign contracts involving a return of at least $10,000 to him, for the first year, apart from whatever he may make in open competition.

Effective At Once

Little's departure from simon-pure ranks is effective at once. He will play as a professional in the tournament scheduled to start here tomorrow, with Bob Jones a co-favorite with Henry Picard, Hershey (Penn.) professional star, at 8 to 1. Little was quoted at 10 to one. "I have decided upon a step which will make it necessary for me to give up my amateur status, so that I shall not be eligible to defend either the British or American amateur championships, which I have won for the past two years," said Little in a prepared statement.

Little's competitive plans, beyond his intention to seek the United States open championship at Baltusrol, this June, are indefinite. He hopes to go to England, late in June, for the British open. Although he has competed in only a handful of open tournaments in his relatively brief career, the 25 year old San Franciscan has done very well. He won the Northern California open in 1934, with 288. He was low amateur the same year in the American Open at Merion, finishing with 306 after an unlucky start. Last season he was sixth in the Augusta tournament, with 288, and fourth in the British open, with 289.

Jones To Master Mind

Jones although serving as titular head of the new venture, will furnish only his advice and counsel. The Georgian has no intention of extending his competitive activities, confined annually to the tournament here since he retired from championship tournaments in 1930.

Little's departure from amateur ranks, which he has dominated for the past two years with shotmaking performances rivalling the best Jones produced in his prime, is a blow to America's Walker Cup prospects this year. The Californian was slated to captain the team which defends the trophy against the British in September at Pine Valley, N. J.

West Texas Gas And City Bus Teams Of Lubbock Advance In Independent Tournament; Semi-Finals Tonight

Basketball teams from Lubbock and Slaton advanced through first round rigors of a fast invitation independent team tournament last night at Texas Tech gymnasium, eliminating teams from Abernathy, Monroe and Plainview.

Five teams remain in the tournament, which continues tonight at 7 o'clock when teams from Shallowater and Floyd, N. M., meet in a first round battle. After that are two semi-final contests between last night's winners and the winner of the first fray tonight.

The championship game is set for tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the college court.

Two Local Teams Win

A fairly large crowd turned out last night to see the West Texas Gas company representative defeat Abernathy's Independents, 33 to 15; the Lubbock City Bus company team win from Monroe's team, 49 to 24, and the Slaton Oil Mill quintet, pre-tournament favorite, defeat the Plainview Gulf Oilers, 38 to 17.

The Slaton team, which is undefeated this season and which has won tournament titles, won largely as a result of the fine shooting of Alvin Crews, who tossed in six field buckets to lead the scoring. Judge Garrett and Hugh Snodgrass, stars of the 1936 Texas Tech team, played with the Slaton Oilers, as did Wilson Gilmore, captain and star of the 1935 Matador quintet, and a regular member of the team.

Tonight's schedule pits the West Texas Gassers, with whom Curly Wilkinson, Robert Case, Bob Hale, Henderson and Cotton Wiginton of the Tech team play, against the Slaton Oilers, at 8 o'clock, following the Shallowater-Floyd game. At 9 o'clock, third and final game of the evening, City Bus meets the winner of the Shallowater-Floyd game.

Admission is 25 cents per session, or one may see the remaining games for 50 cents.

Denver Outfit Is Ineligible For Cage Play

Safeways, Playing As Y.M.C.A. Team, Declared Ineligible By "Y" Chief; McPherson Is Considered Favorite

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 1.—A bombshell was tossed into the Olympic basketball final tryouts today when the crack Safeways of Denver were declared ineligible and ruled out of the tournament.

The Safeways, winners of the National Y. M. C. A. tournament at Peoria, Ill., last week, were to have carried the Y. M. C. A. banner in the Olympic finals starting here Friday with eight of the country's finest teams in the field.

The announcement of Denver's ineligibility was made by Dr. John Brown, secretary of the National Y. M. C. A. physical education committee and a member of the Olympic basketball committee. He said the Safeways violated the Y. M. C. A. regulations by appearing in two tournaments within 90 days as representatives of two organizations.

A. A. U. Against Them

During the middle of March, the Denver team, playing as the Safeways, participated in the National A. A. U. meet and was eliminated. It went from there to Peoria to play as the Denver "Y" team in the National Y. M. C. A. tournament where it defeated Wilmerding, Pa., in the finals, 47-45.

"The fact they played as the Safeways in the A. A. U. tournament made them ineligible to play our meeting," Dr. Brown said. "Therefore we have awarded the title to Wilmerding which will take Denver's place in the Olympic eliminations."

Dr. Brown said that before he approved Denver's application to enter the Peoria tournament he was informed by W. L. Kankonson, physical director of the Denver "Y" that the Safeways were practicing and playing under Y. M. C. A. sponsorship.

He did not disover until after the Peoria meet that the team represented the Safeways in the A. A. U. tournament, he said.

Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, chairman of the American Olympic basketball committee, said he could not speak for the committee as a whole but felt sure Dr. Brown's action would be upheld since he represents the Y. M. C. A. on the Olympic body.

The decision was a blow to the Denver team which arrived today and began practice.

Other Teams Practice

"We certainly are disappointed," said Coach Jack McCracken. "Of course we represent the Safeways but since we all belong to the Denver "Y" and practice and play there, we thought we would be eligible to represent it at Peoria.

"We wired east and were informed we were eligible and so went on to win the championship. I guess somebody either here or in Denver misinterpreted the eligibility rules.

"There is nothing for us to do now but pack up and go back home."

Five of the eight teams which will start the fireworks popping Friday evening were on the ground today. All took tuneups.

They were the rangy Oilers of McPherson, Kas., winners of the A. A. U. title; the Universals Picture entry from Hollywood, runners-up to the Oilers; the University of Washington Huskies; Utah State's speedy squad and De Paul university of Chicago.

The University of Arkansas Razorbacks, best liked of the five college teams; Temple university and the Wilmerding "Y" team will arrive later in the week. The Oilers have been installed red hot favorites.

EXHIBITION RESULTS

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., April 1. (AP)—A three-run rally in the seventh gave the Phillies a 3 to 1 victory over the champion Chicago Cubs today. Syl Johnson, who replaced Kelleher on the mound, singled with game.

TIGERS 16; BROWNS 11

LAKELAND, Fla., April 1. (AP) — Paced by Hank Greenberg, who got two singles, a double, and his first home run of the season, the Detroit Tigers beat the St. Louis Browns 16 to 11 today.

INDIANS 3; GIANTS 2

PINE BLUFF, Ark., April 1. (AP) Three runs scored in the second inning were enough to give the Cleveland Indians a 3 to 2 decision over the New York Giants today with Lloyd Brown and Thornton Lee holding the National leaguers to nine scattered hits.

RED SOX 5; NEWARK 3

SARASOTA, Fla., April 1. (AP) — Mel Almada's triple with two mates on base gave the Boston Red Sox a 5-3 win over the Newark Bears today in a game featured by midseason pitching.

YANKEES LOSE TO BROWNS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 1. (AP) Johnny Broaca pitched only one inning today but the Birmingham Barons of the Southern Association walloped him for six hits and four runs to defeat the New York Yankees.

PIRATES 9; WHITE SOX 7

LONGVIEW, April 1. (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates scored their fourth victory in five games with the Chicago White Sox today, 9 to 7. The Pirates counted four runs off Vernon Kennedy in the seventh inning for the victory margin.

Bill Swift, Pirate hurler, was credited with victory despite spells of wildness. He allowed eight hits during the six innings he worked, issued only one walk, but hit Piet, Dykes and Sewell with pitched balls.

SENATORS 8; REDS 0

CORDELE, Ga., April 1. (AP) — Twice beaten by the Cincinnati Reds in the grapefruit league, the traveling Washington Senators tasted revenge today by trouncing the Ohioans 8 to 0.

Manager Bucky Harris sent a greatly changed lineup on the rain-drenched field with Red Kress replacing Shortstop Cecil Travis, Bobby Estalella on third and Carl Reynolds in centerfield.

BEES 10; JACKSONVILLE 9

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 1. (AP) Baxter Jordan's triple and Rup Thompson's double provided a four-run rally that enabled the Boston Bees to come from behind today and nose out Jacksonville 10-9 in the ninth inning.

Branch Rickey Is Seriously Injured In Automobile Clash

COLUMBUS, Ga., April 1. (AP) — Branch Rickey, vice-president and general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and one of the highest paid men in baseball, was injured seriously near here today in an automobile accident.

The 55-year-old executive credited with originating the "chain store" idea in baseball, was brought to a Columbus hospital where attendants said his condition was "fairly serious but not critical."

He suffered a severely lacerated head and face, but no fractures. As he was wheeled from an x-ray room Rickey inquired about his eyes and was assured they were not hurt.

Close Matches Feature 2nd Round North-South Amateur

PINEHURST, N. C., April 1. (AP)—Close competition, five of the eight matches going to the home hole or beyond, featured the second round of the North and South amateur golf championship today which saw the elimination of Bobby Dunkelberger, sensational 16-year-old.

Dunkelberger, High Point, N. C., schoolboy who defeated the veteran Francis Ouimet in the first round, bowed to Pat Mucci, of Newark, N. J. one down.

George T. Dunbar, jr., the defending champion, who trounced Tom Pierce, the veteran titleholder, 6 and 5, was the only second round winner to get by with much to spare.

Mat Card Fits Day Of Month; Sharman Wins

Fans Fooled Famously Though Jess Willard Does Appear; Comedy Act Of Jackson The Terror Saves Show, If Any

BY COLLIER PARRIS
Avalanche Sports Editor

Sixteen hundred did not emerge from the Auditorium into wintry blasts last night shouting "frame-up!"

Instead, the majority of them came from Promoter Sled Allen's wrestling hall good naturedly murmuring "April fool!" The fans, as well as some of the grapplers, can "take it."

Apparently lured to the local hall of horror by advertising that Jess Willard was to referee the main bout, the faithful last night saw one of the poorest cards on record here in Lubbock's two and a half years of organized wrestling.

Jackson Saves Show

Had it not been for the clownish antics of Bulldog Jackson, who was pitted against Balk Estes and Referee Big Train Clements in the semi-final, the entire show would have been a roundly hooted flop-perino.

Willard, the original white hope of heavyweight boxing, just recently started out on a summer's refereeing tour with 45 pounds of extra avoirdupois about his waistline, showed a flash of action and intelligence when he slapped Hy Sharman in the first fall of the principal just as well been off digging post-holes in his native Pottawatomie county, Kansas, so far as the rest of the two-fall main event was concerned.

Hy Sharman, the speedster from Salt Lake City, won the fight over the aging but game Ernie Arthur, via the blinding route. He took it in straight falls, after a tiresome 33-minute first fall and a quick but unpopular 90-second follow-up.

Jess Didn't See It

Everyone else in Sled Allen's mill of maul saw what Referee Willard failed to see, namely that Sharman was rubbing a foreign substance into the Arthur orbs during the melees which preceded both falls. The ponderous Willard suspected that something had gone wrong with Arthur's eyes after Sharman took the first fall and the ancient Ernie was groping his way about the ring, blind as the proverbial bat. Like the cowboy who wasn't dragged more than a mile through cactus when his foot became caught in the stirrup, before he knew something was wrong, Willard tumbled. But by the time he made a few futile efforts to search Sharman's trunks, it was all over.

The fact that Arthur was unfairly thrown and got his eyes filled with an irritant doesn't mean much. A grappler who can't take it has no business in there, is the opinion of Lubbock grappling fans. But when a wrestling show is stopped cold in its tracks and the cash customers, no matter if they should have long ago learned the grappling theme song is "Anything Goes," it's time for the management and the Northwest Texas matchmakers to go after something different.

As for statistics, Sharman won the first fall in 33 minutes with a few slams following a series of eye-treatments, followed by a body smother. He won the second fall in a minute and a half with an airplane spin and body smother after another treatment, which sent Arthur groping his way to the dressing room and later to a local hospital for first aid. Fans lingered in the hall after the second fall, expecting Referee Willard to raise Arthur's hand in victory as result of a foul, but Jess was tired and perspiring freely, so that was that.

A Wrestling Match

Back to the show-thief, Bulldog Jackson, the Yukon Terror. Again he appeared in semi-long handled drawers under the customary trunks. Again he attacked his opponent, peace-loving Balk Estes, before the latter could rid himself of his robe. But Clements separated them, the gong sounded and they set to in a 30-minute brawl that saw Estes, clean-cut and handsome ex-collegian, display an occasional burst of temper to keep things on a fairly even keel. They slugged and choked for 30 minutes in a fight that drew considerably more applause than the main event.

Jack Van Bebber and Ray Meyers wrestled for 20 minutes in the curtain raiser. They wrestled clean, which is something of note here, and the fans apparently didn't appreciate it. Not once was a foul blow struck, as they engaged in peaceful but hard and scientific grappling. They were going strong at the finish.

Allison In Trouble With "Giant Killer" In Joust

Other Favorites Go Ahead In Houston Net Tournament

HOUSTON, April 1. (AP)—Arthur Hendrix, 23 year old "giant killer" from Lakeland, Fla., was all square with Wilmer Allison, the nation's top ranking tennis player, when darkness halted their match here today, and still had a fighting chance to repeat his surprise victory over the Davis Cup star at New Orleans three months ago.

Hendrix broke through his opponent's service to capture the first set, 8-6, and carried the Austin veteran to deuce before Allison was able to pull out a 7-5 decision to even the count. The duel will be renewed tomorrow.

Van Ryn Goes Down

Charles Harris of West Palm Beach, Fla., and Hal Surface of Kansas City, staged strong comebacks to eliminate John Van Ryn of Philadelphia, Davis Cup doubles player, and Kalle Schroder, Swedish star, in the other feature third round matches of the River Oaks tournament.

Harris lost only one game in his last two sets against Van Ryn after he had dropped the first set, 3-6. The score was 3-6, 6-0, 6-1. Schroder held up better against the steady Surface but bowed, 7-5, 4-6, 3-6. Both Van Ryn and the 200 pound Schroder appeared to be bothered by the heat.

Bryan "Bitsy" Grant of Atlanta, who won the title last year, was far better than Paschall Walthall of the University of Texas. Grant breezed into the quarterfinals with a 6-1, 6-1 victory.

J. Gilbert Hall of East Orange, N. J., third seeded in the tourney, was given a slight scare by young Billy Westerfield of Tulane university. Hall's conquest was by the score of 5-7, 6-1, 6-1.

Hines, Hess Win

Wilmer Hines of Columbia, S. C., Henry Culley of Santa Barbara, Calif., and Wilbur Hess of Houston won without extending themselves. Hines defeated Max Campbell of Rice institute, 6-2, 6-2, Hess trounced Wesley Barnett of the University of Texas, 6-4, 6-0, and Culley crushed Tom Glenn of the University of Texas, 6-1, 6-1.

The feature match tomorrow, aside from the completion of the Allison-Hendrix encounter, probably will be that between Grant and Harris. The Atlantan downed Harris in straight sets in their last meeting.

Hines will be a slight favorite over Surface and Hall will be favored to defeat Culley. The winner of the Allison-Hendrix match will meet Hess.

In 1929, the total number of deaths from cancer was 111,569.

Allison To Pilot Davis Cup Squad

HOUSTON, April 1. (AP)—Wilmer Allison of Austin, the nation's top ranking tennis player in 1935, today was named captain of the United States Davis Cup team for the United States - Mexico matches here April 10-12.

Allison received his appointment from Walter Pate of New York, who had been chosen non-playing captain. Pate said he would be unable to come to Houston because of illness.

Allison said the team would consist of Donald Budge of Oakland, Calif., Bryan Grant of Atlanta, John Van Ryn of Philadelphia and himself. Allison and Van Ryn form the doubles combination.

Jones Favored In Tournament For "Masters"

Deluge Of Rain On Eve Of Augusta Joust Necessitates Closing Of Course; Revolta And Little Rank High

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 1. (AP)—Despite an all-day deluge of rain which forced officials to close the course, the third annual $5,000 Augusta National invitation golf tournament is slated to start tomorrow with Bob Jones a co-favorite to win for the first time since he returned to competition here two years ago.

Further revision tonight of the betting odds found Jones bracketed with Henry Picard, Hershey, Penn., professional at 8 to 1. Originally quoted at 14 to 1, the former world champion's exceptional shotmaking displays in practice, including four sub-par rounds in a row, strengthened the prospect he will be a real contender, after two previous disappointments. He was "out of the money" in both previous "comebacks."

"I don't think I've got much chance in a field as fast as this," said Jones, "but I feel like I'm playing better and that I'm on the verge of hitting most of my shots right."

Sarasen At 10 To 1

Based on the bookmakers' prices, Johnny Revolta of Chicago, P. G. A., champion, W. Lawson Little, jr., the new "business man" professional, and Gene Sarasen, 1935 winner, were the other favorites. Revolta was 9 to 1, the others 10 to 1.

The entry list comprises the "who's who" in American golf, amateur or professional, as well as a sprinkling of foreign contenders including Joe Kirkwood of Australia, Jules Huot, of Quebec, Canada, and two Japanese stars, Torchy Toda and Chick Chin.

With Little off the amateur list, the simon pure contenders included Johnny Goodman of Omaha, Scotty Campbell of Seattle, Bobby Riegel of Richmond, Fred Haas, jr., of New Orleans, Charley Yates of Atlanta, Jack Munger of Dallas, Jess Sweetster of New York, Robert Sweeny of London and possibly Ouimet.

TOURNEY POSTPONED

AUGUSTA, April 1. (AP) — The opening round of the third annual $5,000 Augusta National invitation golf tournament was ordered postponed tonight from tomorrow until Friday because of the torrential rains which have soaked the course.

Earlier the tournament committee had announced plans to go ahead with the first 18 holes tomorrow as scheduled but continued rainfall led the committee to order the delay.

It was still raining tonight and there appeared little chance for early improvement. Officials closed the course today because of its sodden condition and the committee decided that play could not be started tomorrow without considerable damage.

The action placed the first eighteen holes on schedule for Friday, the second for Saturday and the final 36 possibly Sunday with eighteen holes in the morning and eighteen in the afternoon.

The Senator Is In Error

WHEN Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach, Washington Democrat, took William Randolph Hearst to task in a speech in the senate Tuesday that was his business.

It still was the senator's business when he charged that Hearst is a "fascist and a 'sweat shop' employer," for Congressional immunity protects him from a charge of libel.

But when Senator Schwellenbach went so far as to say that Mr. Hearst "today has reached a position of leadership and is the plumed knight leading the newspaper fraternity," his charge becomes the business of every newspaper editor in the country because the charge is so false as to be ridiculous.

William Randolph Hearst is not "the plumed knight" of the American newspaper fraternity. It is doubtful if a single American newspaperman has as many personal enemies in the trade as has Mr. Hearst and certainly there is none who has as many critics from the professional angle. Senator Schwellenbach merely got "het up" in his speech; he was carried away with his own enthusiasm and either he did not know what he was saying, or he distorted the facts to make his address sound better.

We repeat, Mr. Hearst is not the leader of the American newspaper fraternity. Neither are those other two great publishers whose papers dot the country—Roy Howard and Frank Gannett. Nor are Col. Robert Rutherford McCormick, Harry Chandler, or Captain Joseph Patterson any more "plumed knights" than Mr. Hearst.

The whole truth of the matter is that since the days of Charles A. Dana, Joseph Pulitzer, the elder, and Horace Greeley, the American newspaper fraternity has not had an out-and-out leader or a close set of leaders.

The reason is that the problems of editing and publishing are entirely different in the big city fields, the middle-sized fields and the country fields.

Methods which serve in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and Philadelphia, for instance will not serve in Ft. Worth, Dallas or Miami. Other methods which serve in the latter named cities will not serve in Waco, Lubbock, Wichita Falls and Topeka. Similarly, policies which are sound in Littlefield, Lamesa and Lampasas are not applicable in Lubbock, Wichita Falls and Waco.

The newspaper business, like all businesses and professions, needs leadership, leadership of the general kind and of the right kind. The various blocs of the newspaper business have leadership but it is by no means national in scope. National leadership is missing simply because there has been none offered of the quality desired.

Senator Schwellenbach, without realizing it, has laid at the door of American newspaper business its present greatest need—a leadership which will show the way to better newspapers everywhere, to cleaner newspapers, to better newspaper working conditions and to better, more closely followed newspaper ethics.

That sort of leadership is not today apparent on the American newspaper horizon, Senator Schwellenbach's remarks to the contrary notwithstanding.

WITH OUR CONTEMPORARIES

"Here's Mrs. G. D. Sanders' sandstorm story: 'I believe Tuco folks get twice the amount of sand that most other folks get, with a few exceptions. The reason for our sand deluge is plowed fields; one north and one west of us. Monday morning I opened my north door to see if the school bus was coming and such a drift of sand poured in on me that when I finally dug my way out the 11 a. m. passenger train was passing by Tuco'," writes Buford Frank Davenport in the Abernathy Review.

"The Plains area has suffered very severe sand or dust storms the past week, Saturday and Sunday being about the two worst days experienced by the natives," W. R. Scott says in the Olton Enterprise.

"Looking forward," notes John A. Price in Levelland's County-Wide News: "March, payment to cotton farmers; April, payment to hog and wheat farmers; June, payment to veterans; July, payment to pensioners; November, payment of election bets."

Today's One-Minute Sermon

This I say then, walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfill the lust of the flesh.

For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh: and these are contrary, one to the other: so that ye cannot do the things that ye would.

But if ye be led of the Spirit, ye are not under the law.—Galatians, V: 16 -18.

TOBY RYAN, 19, works behind the jewelry counter of a large Manhattan department store. She poses for a photograph to be used in a store advertisement and MARTY HIATT, the photographer, tells her she has a "camera face."

Discharged from the store due to the scheming of jealous MAURINE BALL, Toby has difficulty finding another job. Then she meets MARTY HIATT and he sends her to BEN BLAKE, manager of a model agency. Toby registers at the agency, secures several modeling jobs.

On a bus one afternoon she meets wealthy TIMOTHY JAMIESON who asks her to have dinner with him. Toby refuses. Instead, she dines with BILL BRANDT, an old friend.

Arriving home, Toby hears a message has come for her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIV

Toby read the penciled message. "Thank you, Mrs. Moeller," she said. "I suppose I'd better call right away—"

She went to the telephone and dialed a number, aware that though the rooming house keeper had stepped out of sight, the door of her room remained open. Mrs. Moeller, ever curious about telephone calls, was showing increasing interest in Toby's. Privately, Mrs. Moeller admitted that a job like Toby's—"posing to have her picture took"—might be all right. Just the same—

It was Harriet Holm's voice that came over the wire. "Hello," she said. "Is that you, Toby?"

"Yes. I just came in and got your message. I hope I'm not bothering you, calling so late—"

"Not at all! Say, Toby, there's going to be a fashion show tomorrow—a benefit of some kind at the Ritzmartz hotel. I'm going to model and I told Sally to put you down for the same assignment."

"But, Harriet, I've never done anything like that. Why, I wouldn't know the first thing about it!"

"I knew you'd say that. That's why I called. But this kind of modeling is lots easier than standing before a camera. There's nothing to it—and if there is anything that bothers you, you can ask me. I thought it would be fun working together."

"It would be! And it's awfully nice of you to offer to help me, Harriet, but still I don't know—"

"Listen, don't you suppose all the other girls were beginners once? I want you to call the office the first thing in the morning and see that Sally's got you on the list. There'll be about eight other models, I suppose. There usually are that many."

"Well, if you're sure I can do it—"

"I wouldn't have said a thing about it if I wasn't sure. Of course you can. Listen, why don't you stop here for me? It won't be out of your way and we can go on together. I'll tell you exactly what you're supposed to do—"

At 1 o'clock the next afternoon the two girls were walking down a corridor of the Ritzmartz hotel. Ahead from an open door came a buzz of feminine voices, high-pitched and all, apparently, talking at the same time.

Harriet nodded. "This's the place, all right. It's usually like a mad house for the first hour or so—until everybody gets the clothes they're to wear and finds out when they're to appear and all that. But don't let it bother you—"

Toby didn't answer. They had reached the open doorway and for an instant she stood there. The room, a large one, seemed to be in complete disorder. Furniture had been pushed out of the way. Racks from which bright-colored costumes hung, obscured one wall. On a large table in the center of the room hats, gloves, furs, shoes and handbags lay in confusion. Tissue paper wrappings and cardboard boxes had fallen to the floor.

Half a dozen girls — all young, slender, attractive — were grouped about the table or before the racks of dresses. In the center, her voice raised in crisp authority, was a small, dark woman in a tailored suit.

"That's Miss Landers," Harriet whispered to Toby. "She's the stylist who's running the show."

Miss Landers turned and took in the two in the doorway. "Are you girls models?" she asked.

"Yes," Harriet said, coming forward. "I'm Harriet Holm and this is Toby Ryan."

The older woman consulted a memorandum and nodded. "Then everyone's here," she said. "I'll show you the things you're to wear in a few minutes. Let's see—" she turned and went on speaking to the girl beside her.

A door into an adjoining room swung open and a girl appeared. She was tall, and height accented her slimness, as did the lines of her black and white dress. She wasn't a pretty girl, exactly, though she certainly was unusual looking. There was a hint of petulance about the crimson lips and an odd upward swing to the dark eyebrows. Her hair, arranged in an elaborate and extreme manner, looked almost black.

Harriet had turned away and was talking to some girls who evidently were old friends. The new comer came into the room, halted a few steps from Toby and eyed her, unsmilingly.

"Who're you?" she asked abruptly.

"I'm Toby Ryan," Toby told her. "I'm going to model in the show this afternoon."

"Oh, are you?" It was a question, yet the tone implied no interest at all in an answer. The dark-haired girl continued to stare at Toby a moment longer. Then she said, in a drawling voice, "Seems to me I've seen you somewhere."

"I—I don't think it's very likely."

"No?" Again the studied scrutiny. Toby felt her cheeks flushing uncomfortably. She would have moved away, but the other girl's voice went on. "Could it have been in Miami? Were you there in February?"

"No," Toby said. "I wasn't in Miami."

"Then, perhaps, it was last fall at Aiken, or on the boat crossing from Cherbourge?"

Toby shook her head. "I haven't been in any of those places."

"Really? How quaint!" Suddenly the girl laughed. "I have it!" she said. "You look exactly like a maid I used to have. She wasn't a very good maid; I had to discharge her. Something about stealing some spoons—"

There was no opportunity for a reply. With a shrug of her shoulders, the dark-haired girl was gone.

Toby stood motionless, held by the stinging words. The girl had been deliberately insulting. It was in her manner and tone as well as in the words themselves. And there wasn't any excuse for it—

Harriet came up beside Toby. She said something, but the other did not seem to hear. Harriet repeated, "Come on Toby, Miss Landers is ready for us."

She put a hand on the other girl's arm. Toby nodded, but instead of answering she asked, "Harriet, who is that girl over by the windows?"

Harriet looked across the room. "You mean the one in the black and white dress?" she asked.

Toby said "Yes." It was the girl she had been talking to.

Harriet lowered her voice. "That," she said, "is about as nice a dish of poison as you'd be able to find in a day's search. Carol Marsh is her name. One of the Park avenue darlings who think it's too, too thrilling to have a careeah, my deah! So they use the family pull and get jobs that other girls really need. And the other girls go hungry. The blond beside her is her pal Betty Turnbull. They're two of a kind—only Carol's worse. If you're lucky, you won't have to work with them very often. If you do—well, stay out of Carol's way."

Toby looked at the girl by the window. "I'll stay out of her way," she said, "if she stays out of mine. If she doesn't, she'd better watch out!"

Toby wouldn't have echoed Harriet's statement that there was "nothing to" modeling in a fashion show. She thought there was a good deal to it. But working in the studios had accustomed her to being stared at, and she had learned to forget herself and think of the costume she was displaying.

She had some lovely things to wear—bright colored sport things, mostly, because she was small, and an evening dress that was a dream—crisp, bouffant net shading from deep rose at the hem to misty pink over the shoulders.

The charity fashion show was being held in the hotel ballroom. Small tables had been set up for tea and the models were to parade slowly among the tables, pausing when anyone showed interest to tell the name of the designer of the costume and the price.

Toby had expected to be frightened when she first entered the room. She found she wasn't. Carefully she watched the girl ahead of her. When the other girl was half way across the room, Toby followed. The orchestra was playing a popular tune and she matched her step to the music.

She was wearing a black taffeta suit with a short jacket, supposed to be the sub-deb's Easter costume. There was a huge black and green checked bow under Toby's chin and she wore a green hat, slanting provocatively over one eye.

"This is an original Claudette model," she said to a woman who looked up inquiringly. "The price is $185. The hat is from Charles-Raymond—$49.50."

She said it over and over until it almost became a chant. "This is an original Claudette model—"

Women glanced up from their tea and eyed the taffeta suit critically. And some asked about sizes and if the suit could be had in different colors. Slowly Toby circled the room. Her own amazement at suits that sold for $185 and the women who bought them had ended long ago.

She reached the final table, paused to repeat the familiar words and turned toward the door. A sound behind halted her. It must have been a sixth sense that warned her, for, even before she turned, Toby was sure whom she was to face. She looked up into Tim Jamieson's eyes.

"Hello," he said, smiling. "Third time's charm, you know."

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

YOU can grasp the key to President Roosevelt's reemployment strategy only when you realize that Donald Richberg is now the administration's industrial prime minister.

The erstwhile Blue Eagle chieftain framed the relief message which warned industry that it must furnish more jobs or face new policies and heavier expenditures. He inspired the belated restudy of the benefits of NRA codes, and he is furnishing ideas for Secretary Roper's unemployment advice to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Richberg's basic theory is that government and industry can solve the unemployment problem if they will tackle it together and forget their private grouches.

President Roosevelt's unadvertised plan contemplates a hands-off policy for one year—until after election. During that period he will quietly spike pending measures for further regulation of industry, including the 30-hour bill and the proposal to apply NRA standards to government contractors. But if industry has not expanded and provided jobs by that time, he will demand a showdown. He will sponsor a program for federal regulation, shorter hours and higher wages.

SCREEN: Industry's immediate reaction to the President's reemployment ultimatum was extremely unsatisfactory to White House aides but it didn't disturb them. They expected it.

President Sibley of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce made the obvious retort. He declared that industry would reemploy almost 4,000,000 more people if it were freed of the fear of further regulation and burdensome taxation. The National Association of Manufacturers sang the same tune. They promised that $20,000,000,000 would be spent if industry could be assured of a non-interference policy by Washington. Both groups cited a dozen pending measures which are supposed to deter private interests from spending money.

Mr. Roosevelt's friends reply that only a few of these bills will become law. They charge that the industrial leaders are hiding behind a political smoke screen. There the problem of reemployment is deadlocked. Mr. Richberg seeks to break it through negotiation and FDR has given him a free hand. But if the one-year truce produces no harvest of jobs—and if Mr. Roosevelt is reelected—Washington will try to do industry's job.

RACING: Washington diplomats regard the new London naval treaty as a waste of white paper. What interests them is the footnote providing that Uncle Sam and John Bull will maintain their fleets at parity.

It means that Britannia and the United States have agreed that they shall rule the waves. They will maintain a joint naval fleet—and this is the all-important factor—greater than the combined navies of Japan, France, Italy and Germany. It means that henceforth there shall be only two world powers. Although our admirals don't like the implied commitments, diplomats feel that the iron-clad agreement furnishes the surest foundation for world peace.

The treaty also marks the end of the era of "peace on earth and good will to men," in Washington's settled viewpoint. It was signed while the U. S. was appropriating $1,000,000,000 for the army and navy, while Great Britain was digging up $1,500,000,000 for naval-military expansion, while Japan was setting aside $1,200,000,000 for the same purpose. The post-war period of peace-by-blueprints has been supplanted by an age of battleship building. The race is on—again!

SUNNY: Government experts' private charts show that industry has maintained a sustained drive for a year—the longest since 1929. The fits and starts which marked other economic advances have been absent. They hope—but don't promise—that it's an exit from the depression theatre.

Despite floods and seasonal declines, industrial production for the first quarter will average 95 on the 1923-25 basis. Automobile output is hitting 93,000 cars a week as against a peak of 110,000 last fall. Construction—the key to recovery—has struck a 40 per cent level, or twice what it was a year ago. Retail sales are booming. Flood destruction will stimulate several heavy industries, including building and machinery. Generally, all averages are 10 per cent higher than they were a year ago.

Prices have remained fairly stable, despite NRA and AAA upsets. The variation has been less than 2 per cent for all commodities, 5 per cent for farm products. This shows no sign of extreme inflation or deflation. Bonus and farm payments within the next few months should boost purchasing power. Altogether, it looks like a "good old summer-time," economically and politically.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

STEWART McDonald—head of the Federal Housing Administration—has an assistant by the name of Barney Flynn. Mr. Flynn is also attached to the Democratic National committee as a collector of campaign funds.

New York insiders learn that Mr. Flynn has made several trips into the Middle West demanding large contributions for the Democratic war chest from manufacturers who benefit from the government housing program. "Demanding" is the right word. He knows just what each firm should give and makes it clear that when he says ten thousand he doesn't mean five. He has been known to use the phrase "after all, one hand washes the other" in soliciting donations and to become quite abusive when the prospect resists.

So far the resistance has been unanimous. Not a company he has approached has come across. But the details of his activities have been filed in the anti-New Deal campaign book. You'll hear plenty about them later.

RELIEVED: Ex-Senator Arthur R. Robinson's infant presidential boom will probably die in the cradle. Former KuKlux organizers have been working hard behind the scenes to drum up support for him in the Middle West. But local G. O. P. leaders in that region who used to snap to attention when the KuKlux called are painfully unresponsive to the advances of their former playmates. They have been quietly tipped off by party higher-ups that they had better lay off connections which might prove embarrassing.

It had been planned to enter Robinson as a dark horse in the Illinois Republican primaries. That idea will probably be cancelled. The odds are too hopeless when so few party sergeants and corporals are willing to play.

Even his home state of Indiana appears to be cold to the Robinson cause. Eastern Republican leaders are privately breathing more easily since this became clear. They had been quite worried about possible identification of the G. O. P. with Kluxism.

COMPROMISE: Senator Borah and Herbert Hoover must cross swords sooner or later—and yet both are trying to head off Governor Landon. If they should strike a compromise somewhere along the line it would be hard for the Kansan to win. There may not be badges on Hoover delegates, but there will be plenty of Hoover men in the convention.

Middle-of-the-roaders are trying to work out a compromise before convention time. They're afraid of a Madison Square Garden blowup. A knock-down fight between the Borah and Hoover factions would help Landon, but Republicans who really yearn for success are afraid a Landon victory in those circumstances would hurt the party's chances in November.

Eastern big-money men realize that if they show their hand too openly in backing Landon they will stiffen Borah-Hoover opposition to him. Some of them favor encouraging a compromise before the fires of internal party dissension get too hot to quench.

Side Glances —By George Clark

"But the sales manager said the people would snatch these right out of our hands."

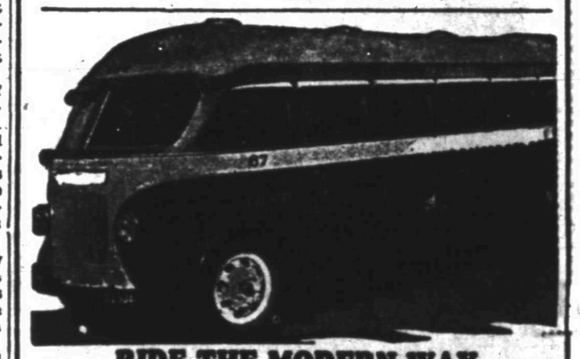

First Of Subsidy Checks To Nation's Farmers Are Ready

WASHINGTON, April 1. (AP)—Cully A. Cobb, southern regional director for the farm administration said today the first of the price adjustment subsidy checks for the 1935 cotton crop were expected to be mailed from regional offices tomorrow.

The AAA announced last year that it would pay to adjustment contract signers a subsidy to equal the difference between the daily average price for cotton and 12 cents a pound. The subsidy was to be paid only on cotton produced under Bankhead allotments and could not exceed two cents a pound.

Payment of the subsidy was delayed by the Supreme court's decision invalidating the Agricultural Adjustment act. It was estimated the total payments would be from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000.

Spirit Of April Fool Reigns At Club's Luncheon

Rotarians caught the spirit of April fool's day Wednesday through a program led by J. A. Raley, jr., at their weekly luncheon in Lubbock hotel. Commemorating a recent egg-throwing event at Abilene which embroiled students of Texas Technological college and Hardin-Simmons university, Raley presented Dr. Bradford Knapp, college president, with a dozen eggs.

A short humorous talk was given by Chas. A. Guy, and novelty musical selections were rendered by George A. Meiser. Miss Willette Waters played two accordion solos. Announcement was made by R. P. Wyliss, club president, that the program next Wednesday will be presented by the Amarillo Rotary club.

PORTRAIT PRESENTED

AUSTIN, April 1. (AP)—A portrait of former Justice T. B. Greenwood of Austin was presented the Supreme court today. Speakers included Judge E. V. Swift of Palestine and Wright Matthews of Houston. Greenwood retired at the end of his term, Jan. 1, 1935, after 16 years on the bench.

AWARDED CONTRACT

FORT WORTH, April 1. (AP)—C. S. Oates and son of Abilene was awarded the general contract for the Monahans school for $78,975, it was announced in state PWA offices today.

THE TARZAN TWINS, No. 4

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Dick was delighted as the train chugged into the mysterious jungle. "Now we'll see some lions and tigers." "Dunce!" Doc chided, "there are no tigers in Africa." "Well, we ought to see something," his cousin insisted. But, the tangled forest wall seemed a dead thing.

The boys did not realize that behind this motionless screen lay the Africa of dark mystery, where the savage of men and beasts moved silently. They were bored, and for amusement Doc resorted to the sleight-of-hand. From his pocket he drew an American quarter.

"Ladies and gentlemen!" he exclaimed. "We have here an ordinary quarter, twenty-five cents, the fourth part of a dollar. Now watch me closely," he places his other palm over the coin, then raised his hands up high. "Abracadabra! Presto! Change cars and be gone!"

He opened his hands. The coin had vanished. "Hurray!" cried Dick, who was always an appreciative audience. But soon Doc's magic palled and the boys reverted to silence. Then, quite suddenly and without warning, the monotony was broken. Something happened!

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, April 1. (AP)—Quiet strength springing from bullish corporate news pushed stocks forward today on a wide front.

Gains of 1 to 4 points were general throughout the list, and several issues bettered that level by a wide margin.

General Motors was a prominent leader advancing ¾ of a point to 68⅝, a new 1936 high and the best since late 1929.

U. S. Steel was up 2⅛ at 67⅝, and Bethlehem rose 1⅝ to 57⅝. Midland Steel products advanced 3⅝ to 45⅝.

In the industrial section the best forward movement was encountered, and in the Associated Press average of 30 such stocks there was a rise of 1.5 points to 84.4, the highest level of the year.

San Benito To Be Host To Relay Carnival Saturday

SAN BENITO, April 1. (AP) — Thomas Jefferson High school of San Antonio, winners the past two years of the lower Rio Grande Valley relays, will defend its title in the fourth annual meet here Saturday.

Other entrants include Donna, runner-up last year; Sinton, Kingsville, Aransas Pass, Rio Hondo, Lyford, Raymondville, La Feria, San Benito and Brownsville.

Preliminaries will be run during the afternoon with all final events to be held under the lights.

Singing Wood In Inaugural Victory At Bowie's Opening

BOWIE, Md., April 1. (AP)—Running true to form, John Hay Whitney's Singing Wood raced to victory today in the Inaugural Handicap, feature of the Bowie opening day ushering in the spring racing season in the East. Stubbs was second, and New Deal, third.

Singing Wood paid at the unexpectedly high rate of $8.20, $6.50 and $6, respectively, on a $2 win, place and show tickets. Stubbs, a field horse, returned $7.20 and $4.60 and New Deal $9.60.

The winning time for the five and a half furlong go for three year olds and up was 1:07.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, April 1. (AP) — Cotton broke out of its narrow trading range on the downside today and after being nearly $1 a bale lower at one time, recovered partially to finish from 3 to 13 points under Tuesday's final levels.

Old crop months showed the widest decline. May was down to 11.06 in the early afternoon, but gained back a few points to finish at 11.11. July closed at 10.76, Oct. at 10.21, Dec. at 10.18 and Jan. at 10.19.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, April 1. (AP)—Cotton was lower today under liquidation and scattered selling following reports from Washington concerning possible plans for marketing government financed cotton.

July sold off to 10.50 or 19 points net lower and closed at 10.51, with the general market 8 to 18 points net lower.

THE OBSERVER SAYS: The most cheerful news the cotton trade has heard in a long time comes from other markets. According to surveys which have included the entire United States the prospects are for the greatest Easter trade ever known, not even excepting that of 1929. Since Easter trade has much to do with textiles, it is important to the cotton market.

The idea is that a big Easter business will give a new stimulus to trade during the period before summer dullness may be expected to set in. On top of this the government is at least making real exertions to get rid of a large part of its holdings of cotton by turning the stuff into consumptive channels. If the machinery at Washington turns the right way in the next few days there will be important announcements concerning distribution of spot cotton during the next few months.

DAILY COTTON SUMMARY: Reports from the interior of the cotton belt indicate only irregular progress with the seeding of the new cotton crop or with preparations for seeding. In some areas there seems to be more willingness to fall in with the government's acreage control proposals and this is leading to somewhat lower estimates of the size of the increase in acreage. It still is admitted in most parts of the belt that the acreage will be greater than it was last season.

Variety Of Offenses Are Docketed In City Yesterday

Police Wednesday docketed a variety of offenses against several persons. Two men, one about 19 and the other about 21, that night were held for investigation into theft and pawning of a traveling bag taken from an automobile. It was expected officers would recover the property this morning. Baxter Honey and Don Reeder, assistant police chief, made the arrests.

Bill Mabray jailed a negro for investigation into theft of a box of women's hose from Montgomery Ward & Co., after a lively chase terminated in 1300-block Fourteenth street.

Two persons, one a negro, were transferred to county authorities and charged with habitual drunkenness. Jim Robinson and Honey made the arrests.

A negro woman was nabbed for disturbance, a Noodle man for theft of five quarts of oil from Scott's Storage station and another from that place for drunkenness. O. E. Rush and Jess Hardy made the last two arrests, and the latter three paid fines.

Levelland Court Adjourned Out Of Respect To Bledsoe

LEVELLAND, April 1. (Special) —Out of respect for the late W. H. Bledsoe, who was buried at Lubbock Wednesday afternoon, District Judge Homer L. Pharr at 10:30 o'clock today adjourned 72nd district court here for the day and caused to be entered on minutes of the court that order.

Two cases were tried this week, both of them civil causes on rental contracts. Verdict for plaintiff, owner, resulted in the case of J. H. Ticer against D. C. Reed, jury finding for him on special issues. A mistrial was declared in the case of George T. Veal and wife against Tom T. Bentley, the jury deadlocking after standing 10 to 2 in favor of plaintiff, owner. Suit involved a tract in the Bob Slaughter block.

A semi-contested divorce action was heard this morning, although defendant did not appear. Decision had not been announced by the court.

The judge, District Attorney Daniel A. Blair, Burton S. Burks, assistant district attorney, and B. E. Alexander, court reporter, left for Lubbock. They will return Monday, when criminal week is begun.

G. W. Boyd, 77, Dies Here Wednesday; Rites Are Today

Boyd was born Sept. 8, 1858, in Missouri.

Funeral rites will be conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Salvation Army hall at 1510 Avenue H, and burial will be made here under direction of Sanders Funeral home.

Survivors are: A son, L. V. Boyd of Lubbock; a daughter, Mrs. J. O. Dickens of Wichita Falls; two brothers, I. W. and E. M. Boyd of Weatherford; two foster sisters, Mrs. D. T. Florence of Northfield, Mrs. M. E. Williams of Fort ..., and seven grandchildren and ... great grandchildren.

Mother Happy At Good News

Frau Hauptmann Is Overjoyed At Brief Respite Given To Her Son; Believes It Will Be Turning Point

BY GUENTHER O. BEUKERT
Associated Press Foreign Staff

KAMENZ, Germany, April 1. — Bruno Richard Hauptmann's aged mother greeted today news of the last-minute postponement of his execution with a happy exclamation, "thank heaven, the miracle has happened, this means new hope."

Friends had taken the 78-year-old Frau Pauline Hauptmann to their home last night to console her during the hours when her son was to die in the electric chair at Trenton, N. J., for the slaying of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby.

References Forgotten

All her previous references to "terror and uncertainty" were forgotten, however, as she learned that the electrocution was postponed for "at least 48 hours."

With a happy smile, she welcomed this new uncertainty, as long as it meant hope for her son.

"It is the first good news I have had for ever so long," she said, her face, tired and lined from a night of exhaustion, freshening with joy and excitement.

Means Turning Point

Frau Hauptmann expressed confidence that the postponement of the execution and consideration of evidence against Paul H. Wendel, former Trenton lawyer who confessed to the Lindbergh kidnap-slaying, though he repudiated the confession later, would mean a turning point in her son's life.

While she was talking with the Associated Press representative, a postman brought a telegram, and with a cry of joy, Frau Hauptmann exclaimed, "oh, this is from Richard to inform me of the good luck."

The telegram said:

"Don't worry. Prayers will be answered fully. Love. Richard, Bubi (Hauptmann's young son), Anna."

Models Selected For Projects In Cities Of State

AUSTIN, April 1. (AP) — Seven authorities on art today acted as "jurors" for the board of control in selecting models for Centennial statues and monuments to cost $134,500.

Sculptors will be commissioned for the work by the board after the art authorities recommend models on the basis of historical accuracy and artistic value. About 60 models were submitted.

John V. Singleton, chief of the board's Centennial division, said recommendations would not be announced for several days.

Jurors Announced

The seven jurors were Miss Evaline Sellors of Fort Worth, school fine arts teacher; J. C. Hall of San Antonio, lawyer; Richard Foster Howard of Dallas, director of the Dallas museum of fine arts; Goldwin Goldsmith, member of the University of Texas architecture department; James Chillman, jr., of Houston, director of the Houston museum of fine arts; Mary Marshall of Denton, director of fine arts at the Texas State College for Women, and Prof. Edmund Kinzinger of Waco, of the Baylor university art department.

Monuments and statues, ranging in cost from $7,500 to $25,000, will be erected at Texarkana, Sabine Pass, Corsicana, Canton, Clarksville, Bonham, Cameron, San Felipe, Galveston, Brazoria, Refugio, Denton and Waxahachie in honor of Texas heroes. The largest will be a monument to pioneer women at Denton.

Funeral Services Held For Lawyer

Former State Senator W. H. Bledsoe was paid final tribute when funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at the residence at 1812 Broadway. Rev. W. P. Jennings, pastor of the Plainview First Christian church, and Rev. Dr. J. M. Lewis, pastor of the Lubbock First Presbyterian church, officiated.

Bledsoe died Monday at 11:03 p. m. of pneumonia which followed ill health of a year and a half.

Dr. A. B. Cunningham, associate professor of English at Texas Technological college, represented the college at services. Bledsoe was author of senate bill 103 which created the college. The flag at Tech was flown at half staff Tuesday and Wednesday. Many college officials and faculty members attended the funeral.

The Lubbock County Bar association met before services and attended in a group. Many other prominent citizens attended the services. Bledsoe founded the firm of Bledsoe, Crenshaw and Dupree.

In 1895 Bledsoe married Mrs. Alice Mathews, who died in 1914. Of that marriage, a son, W. S. Bledsoe of Lubbock, and a daughter, Mrs. Earnest Lee of Sweetwater, were born.

He was married to Miss Emma K. Boone, a licensed attorney, in 1917. A son, Willis H., was born.

Survivors other than the wife are a sister, Mrs. Q. C. Templeton of Cleburne, and six grandchildren.

Burial was in Lubbock cemetery, under direction of Rix Funeral home.

Mother Faces Second Count

Mrs. Velma Patterson Is Informed Of Her Indictment In Death Of Second Daughter By Poisoning

GREENVILLE, April 1. (AP)—Mrs. Velma Patterson, 34, was notified today of her indictment for murder by the Hunt county grand jury in the poison death of Dorothy Leon McCasland, 12, her daughter.

It was the second indictment against the woman, the grand jury previously charged her with murder in the similar death of Billie Fae McCasland, 11.

Mrs. Patterson, whose home is in Commerce, protested innocence.

"Some day they will know," she said.

Grand Jury Recalled

The grand jury was recalled secretly yesterday, District Attorney Henry Pharr said. He said he feared failure to locate important witnesses if the action were made public.

He said the investigating body studied a report by Dr. Landon C. Moore, Dallas, which showed poison had been found in the disinterred body of the girl.

Defense attorneys were understood to have dropped efforts to secure a twice postponed habeas corpus hearing. Witnesses in the trial have been summoned. Mrs. Patterson will face a jury on April 13.

Millions For Running State, Justice, Commerce And The Labor Departments For New Year Recommended

WASHINGTON, April 1. (AP)—Appropriation of $114,667,400 for running the state, justice, commerce and labor departments during the 1936 fiscal year were recommended to the house today by its appropriations committee.

More money for department of justice agents, for additional inspectors to increase safety of ships, for building federal prisons and for extending airways was included.

Larger Than 1935

The measure was $7,900,074 larger than the current year's allowance but $7,984,177 under budget estimates.

The state department was allowed $17,654,400; the justice department $41,261,300; the commerce department $34,054,700; and the labor department $21,697,000.

The committee said new construction and new laws, including the social security and guffey coal control acts, accounted for the increases.

Lavish In Praise

The committee was lavish in its praise of the bureau of investigation under J. Edgar Hoover.

"The activities of the 'man' have caught the public fancy," it reported, ". . . public opinion, which at one time was inclined somewhat to glorify the parasitic racketeer and gangster, has now allied itself on the side of law and order."

The committee recommended a $225,000 increase in the budget estimate to give the bureau $6,025,000. It said that "though the bureau's efforts, fines, recoveries, and savings for the fiscal year 1935 amounted to $38,500,000, an $8 saving for every dollar spent."

Heeding pleas of J. B. Weaver, head of the bureau of navigation, the committee provided funds for 40 or 50 more assistant steamboat inspectors.

"The Morro Castle and Mohawk disasters are too fresh in the minds of the public," the committee said, "to temporize with a manifest need for personnel."

Examining Trial For Man Is Set

ATHENS, April 1. (AP)—The examining trial for George Patton, charged with murder in the alleged slaying of the J. W. McGehee family four years ago, was set today for April 6.

Justice B. C. Hall said Patton would be brought here from the Dallas county jail and the trial would be held in the hospital ward of the jail, where officers will take precautions against any threat of mob violence.

Patton is charged with murder in the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. McGehee and their two children who disappeared mysteriously from Patton's home in 1932.

Sheriff Jess Sweeten unearthed bones on the Patton farm two weeks ago which he said were identified as the skeletons of the missing persons.

PRISONERS ESCAPE

JONESVILLE, Va., April 1. (AP)—Twelve prisoners escaped from the Lee county jail early today by sawing their way through two sets of bars.

Drivers Must Have License

Check-Up On Texas Drivers Will Not Be Made Nuisance By Officers; Leniency Is To Be Shown

AUSTIN, April 1. (AP)—Texas automobile drivers, for the first time in history, today were required to have an operators license.

The department of public safety, through which the licenses were issued, said a check-up on drivers would not be made a "nuisance." Inspector J. D. Moffett, chief of the drivers licensing bureau, said "we will not take a stand on all roads and stop every car."

If highway patrolmen stop a car for other reasons, he added, "the first question will be to see the operator's license." Otherwise, cars would not be stopped "unless we have reason to believe the driver does not have a license."

An estimated 3,000,000 drivers were issued licenses.

Last midnight also was the deadline for Texas motorists to pay their 1936 registration fees.
