Survey Work Begins on Elm and Buck Creeks Monday

Two representatives of the Bureau of Reclamation arrived Monday, March 5, to begin engineering work for a report on Elm Creek and Buck Creek. They are Fred Windham, engineer, and Sam Jett, geologist. Both are from the Oklahoma City office.

They will be joined here next week by two more engineers.

This work is a direct outgrowth of a meeting February 9 between directors of the Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District and representatives of the Bureau of Reclamation. Furthermore, it is in keeping with the district's policy of developing all water resources of Collingsworth county.

Windham and Jett will study two sites on each of the two streams being surveyed, according to Paul Spillman, legal advisor for the board.

The two sites on Buck Creek will be just above the Rolla highway bridge, 8 miles south west of Wellington, and the other is the Red Bluff site, which is the original one chosen.

Both Elm Creek sites examined will be at a point below where Wolf Creek flows into Elm, Spillman said. The junction of the streams is 9 miles east and three north of Lutie, which is 3 miles north of the end of FM Highway 1439.

Earlier surveys set the water flow at this point at 2,000 gallons per minute, according to Spillman.

MISS WELLINGTON

Jennifer Singley, a senior and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jones Singley, was chosen Miss Wellington in the annual contest Friday evening, March 2. She will represent the city in the Miss Irish Rose Contest in the St. Patrick's Day celebration at Shamrock March 17. The runner up in the Miss Wellington contest was Mary Ann Pierce, a junior. Others in the top 5 were Anna Kay Kelso, a freshman, Janice Wood, a senior and Vicky Allen, a freshman.

Wild Turkeys Loosed in Three Areas

Twenty-four wild turkeys, netted by Game Warden Carl Carter in Wheeler county, were released in three different areas of Collingsworth Tuesday, Feb. 27. Sixteen of the wild turkeys were released on Buck Creek, four on Elm and four on Salt Fork.

The birds were captured by use of a 60 foot square net spread over the birds' regular feeding ground. Corn was placed beneath the net and the birds flocked to it very much like tame chickens.

Judge Raymond Horton and Bob McAlister went to Wheeler county to get the birds. Judge Horton said that only a few appeared when the corn was first placed on the ground. The two Wellington men and the game warden took a stroll away from the net over the grounds where the turkeys were believed to be and by the time they returned there was a whole flock beneath the net.

One gobbler and three hens were released on Elm and also on Salt Fork, and three gobblers and 13 hens were released on Buck Creek. The turkeys were set free about dusk.

Dr. E. W. Jones Dies Sunday at Lubbock

Dr. E. W. Jones, the beloved family doctor to two generations of Collingsworth county people, and a leader who has left his indelible mark on the community, died at his home in Lubbock Sunday, March 4 at 4:40 p.m. He was 69 years of age.

His death came suddenly from a heart attack. He was stricken as he sat on the back porch of his home at 3415 West 20th Street, after walking about the yard, and he and Mrs. Jones had returned earlier in the afternoon from a visit in Lamesa. He had suffered from the heart ailment several years.

After 40 years of medical practice in Collingsworth county, Dr. Jones retired 7 years ago and he and Mrs. Jones moved to Lubbock, where he was the medical member of the medical rating board for the Veterans Administration. He retired from that work more than a year ago.

Born at Gorman April 5, 1892, Dr. Jones attended the Grandview school and Hankins Normal College at Gorman until 1908, when he taught a country school near Desdemona a year. In 1909 he entered Ft. Worth School of Medicine, the medical department of Texas Christian University. He externed at All Saints Hospital, McAlester, Okla., and interned in St. Vincent's Hospital, Sherman.

He began his medical practice at Dodson, often recalling that he arrived in town with $4.10. The first week he did not have a single patient. His office was where the Dodson post office is now located. During his spare time—something he was never to have again—he learned to set type by hand for the Dodson newspaper.

In 1915 he and a medical school roommate, Dr. Garvin Cross, formed a partnership and he and Mrs. Jones moved to Wellington, and they opened a 6-bed hospital over at Joe Hardy Drug Store—the first Wellington ever had.

Two years later, the late L. A. Stall built the 2-story building that is now the convent of St. Joseph's Hospital and the two doctors moved their hospital there. Dr. Jones' career was interrupted by service in the Army Medical Corps during World War I.

After Dr. Cross' death, Dr. Jones acquired full ownership of the hospital.

In 1935, at the depth of the depression, Dr. Jones began building the fine native stone building that houses the older part of St. Joseph's Hospital—giving employment to a number of men and boys.

Three years later, Dr. and Mrs. Jones gave the hospital to the Dominican Order of the Catholic Church.

It was renamed St. Joseph's Hospital, and stands as a lasting memorial to the doctor who planned it and who carried the plans to fruition.

At the start, and for some years afterward, Dr. Jones performed many operations on the kitchen table of the home of his patients. At the close of his career, he worked with drugs that made life and health possible where it would not have been possible to any previous generation. He often recalled the many cases of ty-

Improvement Begins on US 83 and 15th Street in Wellington

Widening of US 83 to a four-lane highway through the City of Wellington, as a joint city-county-highway department project, and the improvement of 15th Street (FM Road 338) by the city, got under way late last week with work beginning at Lucky Corner.

US 83 improvement is a long-time project, to be done as money is available, and there is no finish date on it, according to Highway Department spokesmen. It will likely continue through the spring and summer.

The new width of US 83 will be 64 feet from curb to curb, Mayor Hiram Cudd said. The present width is 20 feet.

Fifteenth Street improvement will move faster. The present work at Lucky Corner is part of this and will include widening the street at that point where it joins US 83, as well as along the 15th Street length. Right now the city is working with Fort Worth and Denver officials, seeking an easement to let run-off water go down the railroad track south off Fifteenth Street. A verbal agreement has been given by the railroad, Cudd said. When this is granted, the ditch along the north side of 15th can be filled in and the street widened over it. This will permit also drainage corrections to be made on Highway 83, Clyde Drake, resident highway engineer, pointed out.

Both the city and county will have a hand in the Highway.

Water Board Warns Texas Rights in Peril

The urgency of concerted action to protect the waters of Salt Fork for Texas use when the Red River Compact Commission meets April 23 and 24 was presented by a group of Wellington citizens before the Greenbelt Water Control and Improvement District in Childress Tuesday night, March 6.

Spokesmen for the Wellington group were Dan Henard, chairman of the Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District, and Paul Spillman, legal adviser for the Board.

The presentation came after Jim Nichols of the engineering firm of Freeze and Nichols had told the group that funds for expenses preliminary to the dam construction could be secured through the Community Facilities Administration, interest free, but to be repaid. These expenses for preliminary planning were estimated at $154,000.

Nichols pointed out that he was not recommending the step, but simply telling the group that such funds were available.

Spillman, during a question and answer period, inquired what condition Greenbelt was in in regard to the April 23-

Dr. C. B. Jones Again Heads County Fair

Dr. Chas. B. Jones was named in a Chamber of Commerce meeting Monday night, March 5, to head the Collingsworth County Free Fair for the fifth consecutive year—the entire period of the fair's existence. His appointment was made by Bobo Castleberry, C-C president, and was approved unanimously by the board.

The fair will be held the first of September.

The remainder of the meeting was given over to a discussion of issues pertinent to the county.

Dan Henard, chairman of the Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement district, reported on the status of the proposed dam the district is seeking on Salt Fork, and on plans for a study of all water resources of the county.

Arrangements were made for a group representing the Fire Destroys Farm House

Fire of an undetermined origin destroyed the tenant house on the Charles Allen farm six and one-half miles north of Wellington about 7:30 p.m. Saturday, March 3.

The house, which had four rooms and a bath and was furnished, had been vacant about a week, Allen said.

Rusty Henard, who lives across Salt Fork north of the Allen farm, first saw the blaze and notified the Wellington Fire Department, but the building was almost destroyed by the time firemen could reach it, according to Fire Chief Richard Bailey.

Allen estimated his loss at about $3,500.

For Wellington

Student Employment Program Launched by Exes Committee

An employment program for Wellington high school graduates and students still in high school was launched this week by the scholarship committee of the Wellington Ex-Students Association.

This is an extension of its original program of providing a loan scholarship for some worthy high school graduate entering college.

In brief, the plan is to secure a listing of students wanting to work, and the co-operation of merchants, other business and professional people, farmers and ranchers, who could use teen-age help, Richard Bailey, chairman of the scholarship committee, explained.

Permanent employment is not necessarily the aim.

"Many people need help for just a few days and they don't know just which students would be interested. A farmer, for example, who needs a boy to drive a tractor for a week," Bailey continued. "Our aim is to bring student and employer together."

"We feel, also, that we may be able to work a few of our own young people into jobs that will keep a few more here at home," explained Bailey, a

Wellington banker who grew up here.

April 1 has been set as the opening date for the employment service. Headquarters will be with him at the Wellington State Bank.

Believing that job opportunities can be created here, Bailey and the committee working with him are prepared to work among business people and farmers to fill these.

Members of the committee are Bailey, chairman, E. W. Clement, Louis Graham, C. A. Crawford, Bessie Rainer, Mrs. Velman Warrick, Mrs. Lola Lee Roark, Donald Curry, and Mrs. Bob McAlister.

Jane Bivins Lipscomb Vocalist

Music of Charlotte Ingham Word Will Be Heard Thursday

Area musicians will hear a program of original compositions for voice and piano by the Panhandle composer, Charlotte Ingham Word of Clarendon of First Methodist Church Thursday, March 8 at 3:30 p.m. She will be assisted by Jane Bivins Lipscomb of Amarillo, vocalist.

This program is open to the public and is sponsored by the Wellington Federated Music Club and 1924 Study Club. Mrs. Hiram Cudd and Mrs. B. M. Sims are co-chairmen.

Mrs. Word, wife of Millard Word, Donley county rancher, is both an organist and a pianist, as well as a composer. Her program here will include only piano numbers, along with Mrs. Lipscomb's vocal selections.

There is a distinct story concerning each of the numbers to be presented Thursday, and Mrs. Word will give this in a brief introduction to the selections.

The mother of three children now married, Mrs. Word is also the grandmother of several youngsters, and her love for children is seen in her juvenile numbers that are included in the program.

She has requested that mothers bring their children to the program.

$120,000 Damage Suit Won by Defendants

A 100th district court jury returned a verdict in favor of the defendants Wednesday, Feb. 28, in a suit in which Donald L. Smith of Panhandle was asking a total of $120,000 from John Robert Henard and Louise W. Henard.

This was the outgrowth of a car accident involving cars driven by Mrs. Henard and Smith.

The jury found that Mrs. Henard was not negligent in the operation of her car and that Smith was negligent, Judge Luther Gribble, the presiding judge, said.

"The jury was told," Judge Gribble continued, "that they could not allow for injuries Smith received in a plane accident in World War II, but only for such injuries as related to this accident, and they found that he received none."

The plaintiff, claimed complete disability from the car accident.

Music of the Times

Sometimes one wonders of our preoccupation with the swift tempo of our times, shadowed as it is by the spectre of nuclear disaster, is not reflected in our popular music. Gone or at least growing scarce — are the gentler melodies of an era when annihilation of the human race was beyond our wildest speculations.

As a matter of fact we were able, in those past days, to dramatize and glamorize the fanciful prospect of only a couple of us being left on the earth after some imaginary cataclysm. One old song which still emerges occasionally even painted an alluring picture of such a situation: "If you were the only girl in the world and I were the only boy."

The author made that sound like a delightful situation! But probably he had not the remotest notion that such a development might come to pass. If he were writing today he would. And he'd have to put the lucky (?) couple in a decidedly unglamorous dug-out sealed against fallout.

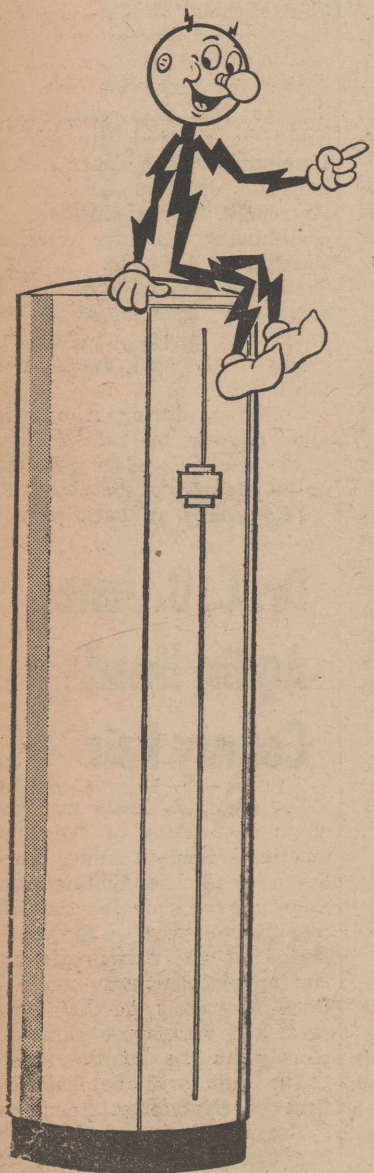

It may be too bad, but it is no longer possible to get gaga about such a happening or to lyricise about it. Yet why should that bar our composers from creating music such as that lovely old song, and many others? Have we lost, along with our confidence in the future, our ear for such haunting restful strains? Are we no longer capable of anything but jungle throb? —Warrensburg (Mo.) Daily Star-Journal

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

President Kennedy says food surpluses will get bigger as his management really starts taking effect and Americans get richer and eat less because they don't have to work so hard.

Which is about the type of reasoning you might expect from somebody who has never had any experience in stalling a grocery bill.

When all of us Americans have plenty of money, there won't be any surplus food, except maybe hamburger, and the demand for bigger pot drapery will soon wipe out the cotton surplus.

A news report says 250,000 people in the U.S. are learning judo and karate, which are forms of negotiation said to be very good especially when negotiating with people who don't know any judo or karate.

My irrelevant neighbor says he has never met up with a practitioner of either judo or karate, but he understands these are just types of wrestling in pajamas.

Says every spring he puts in a few weeks wrestling with a 1040 Tax form and this year he is thinking about trying judo on it.

Some worryful type people are claiming the U.S. is headed toward becoming a Welfare State.

Which might be, seeing how the Federals are rearing and snorting to pay for our schools and our doctor bills, and to rebuild our old relic towns and cities in the image of Washington.

My self-thinker neighbor says it's kindly of the social mechanics to dash about, taking responsibility away from us, but we won't have a fully helpful welfare state until the government also starts paying our taxes for us.

I see where Mr. David Bell, who is our national budget wrangler, says it would be false economy to back off from any federal spending program just because we can't afford it.

Which my happy debtor neighbor says is not by any means a new discovery in economics.

Says he noticed long ago that it enriches a man's personal economy to quit worrying about whether he can afford it, and just go ahead and buy what he wants so soon as he can find somebody fool enough to let him have it on credit.

Out here away from the urban bewilderment, it seems like every day we read about another new electronic or mechanical device that has made some more people unnecessary.

My mortal neighbor says people will never become obsolete, though, as a few of them will always be needed to stand by when the machines go out for an oil break.

But he won't be surprised if he goes to the city one of these days and finds the whole place automated, and with an educated parking meter as mayor.

I see where it has been discovered by some hi-fi brains that disagreement with the Most High Country Runners is not a privilege any more, but a character defect.

My oppositionist neighbor says after years of kindly barking at straying politicians, it's a shock to learn that he is not a public benefactor but a Public Enemy.

Says he is now going in for Constructive Criticism, though, as he understands it is lawful Price, spice and everything nice!

Who ever thought a car that saves like this could have so much sizzle? Chevrolet engineers, that's who! Liveliness and luxury for a low, low price were exactly what they had in mind to begin with. And they began from scratch with a whole carload of ingenious new ideas designed to give you more for your money. That spunky 6 with gas-sipping stinginess is just one example. Another: a new unitized body by Fisher that's fit for a full-size family inside, easy to park outside. Still another: tough but gentle one-piece Mono-Plate rear springs that outdo many a bigger car for quiet comfort. Any wonder Chevy II won Car Life magazine's 1962 Engineering Excellence award hands down? Americanism Theme of B&PW Held Wednesday, February 27

Americanism was the program theme for B&PW members when that group met on Feb. 27. The program was opened by Bobby Sanford leading the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag and Patsy Falk led the group in singing of the National Anthem.

Mrs. John Justice, program chairman, presented Bobby Sanford and Betty Moseley, who told of their trip to Girls State and Boys State last summer.

Bobby told of what they learned of how the state government works and how elections are held from the city level through the state elections. Bobby feels the best way to combat all the talk of communism is Boys State because it teaches Americanism, which is our freedom of speech and expression of views.

Betty defined her trip to Girls State as "Magic," and was glad the American Legion gave her the opportunity to go. She told the club of what she learned about our flag and our government.

Mrs. John Coleman gave the story of the American Legion and the Legion Auxiliary and their work and programs.

Mrs. Justice announced that a house tour will be conducted on April 8. The money will go to the Legion Auxiliary to send two girls to Girls State in June.

Attending were Mrs. Rob Isbell, LaHanda Mayhugh, Mrs. John Justice, Mrs. Ruth Aaron, Mrs. Fred LeDerer, Miss Louise Fulcher, Mrs. Raymond Patton, Mrs. Luther Gribble, Grace Grubbs, Mrs. John Coleman, Miss Betty Moseley, Bob Sanford, Mrs. G. W. Lane, Mrs. Fred Watkins, Miss Patsy Falk, Mrs. Ernest Harwell, Mrs. Jimmie Kelso, Mrs. Louise Kendrick, Mrs. Dudley McMillin, Mrs. Lola Lee Roark, Miss Sara Jones, Mrs. D. C. Lacy, Mrs. Bura Handley, Mrs. Truman Estes, Mrs. Rufus Sweat, Mrs. Lora Lowrie, Mrs. A. V. Lowrie, and Mrs. Claude McKinney.

Visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Richardson and family over the week end were her parents and sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Williams, Sharon and Brenda, of Plainview.

Doolen Starkey of Garland was a guest here over the week end in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oran Starkey.

The Story of Glass Told for Domestic Science Members Thurs.

By Mrs. Clyde Drake

"Everybody collects glass. If you think you don't, just look around your home. Chances are you have a glass or bottle of some shape or color that you were impressed with and you have just never gotten around to discarding it—you just never thought of it as a collection," Mrs. Mildred Jones Stephens told members of the Domestic Science Club Thursday, March 1, as she presented the fascinating, age-old history of glassmaking and exhibited interesting examples of the art from her own collection.

Mrs. Jerry Nix was hostess in the home of her husband's great grandmother, Mrs. Melbie Foster, and Mrs. Foster's own collections added much interest to the program.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Stephens, is district clerk of Hall county and is active in Federated Club work. She is a daughter of Mrs. Alvin B. Jones and the late Mr. Jones of Memphis and Collingsworth county. Several pieces of Mrs. Stephens' collection belonged to members of her family who were among the earliest settlers of Hall county. These pieces of glass help tell the early customs of the area. The charm of Mrs. Stephens' home is enhanced by attractively displayed glass collections which range from a variety of water tumblers kept on a marble topped wash stand, to a beautiful old leaded stained glass light fixture hanging above her dining table.

Mrs. Clyde Drake was program chairman, and in introducing the guest speaker for the program titled "Adventure Miscellany," she pointed out that adventure is a state of mind. Seven-League Boots and pockets filled with gold are not prerequisites to adventure, for adventure can be found in your own back yard and in your family cupboards.

Each club member brought an interesting piece of her own glassware and answered roll call by displaying it and giving a bit of its history. These pieces included lovely examples of contemporary crystal services, as well as several pieces well over a hundred years old.

The stories included were of happy holidays, one trip to Venice, Italy, the Indians' Trail of Tears from Louisiana to Oklahoma. One platter with a liberty bell design was brought from the Centennial festival of the American Declaration of Independence in Philadelphia. Mrs. J. Frank Johnson's great grandmother had cherished it and mended it after it was broken. This mend still holds in spite of its wide crack.

There were stories of old interestingly stained decanters and bottles from pioneer family medicine chests.

"No one knows when or where men first made glass,"

Mrs. Mildred Jones Stephens

Mrs. Stephens said in opening her talk, and followed this with age-old stories of this first discovery.

"Venice provided the link between the ancient and modern glassmaking arts. The Venetians knew glassmaking secrets from Roman times, and in the early Renaissance were producing beautiful mold- and spun glassware. In 1268, the Venetian workers were incorporated; and 23 years later they were segregated on the nearby island of Murano, partly because their furnaces were fire hazards, but mainly to keep the secrets of the trade. The death penalty was decreed for workers who left Murano," Mrs. Stephens said.

Turning to stained glass, Mrs. Stephens said, "The first mention of stained glass windows is in the writings of the fourth and fifth centuries Latin and Greek authors. By the twelfth century, pictorial designs had been introduced. At first the glass was dyed during melting by adding metallic oxides. Later, enamel was applied to the surface and fused on. Etching toned down the enamel to delicate hues.

American Glass "Due to its fragile nature there is a greater demand for glass than there is supply; which is one of the reasons why so many imitations have been made. There is considerable difficulty in determining the authenticity of glass antiques, and it is only with a thorough knowledge of the subject that one is able to detect

"Glassware is easily reproduced, and many copies have been made of nearly all the more popular patterns and shapes, proving very misleading to the novice collector. Modern Mexican-made glass is much like early American and is often mistaken for it.

"To distinguish between truly old glass and newer copies is something difficult to learn. Examine the glass in strong light rather than artificial light before purchase. There are no infallible rules, no sure sign of age as in furniture; it is more a matter of experience and knowledge combined, which you may develop only through time and patience that enables you to identify the originals."

The speaker then told of some of the famous early American glassmakers.

"There has been little change in glassmaking for the last 200 years or so," Mrs. Stephens said. "Blown glass is made with the same tools and in the same way now as then. The several processes are done by different men. Silica has to be heated to a terrifically high degree, perhaps as much as 6 days to get the desired temperature. They start with the gatherer who takes just the right amount of molten glass from the pots for an object; this pipe used for gathering is hollow and he blows just a bit and passes the pontil stick to the blower. The pontil stick is a hollow tube about four feet long and an inch thick. This all has to be done very rapidly. The blower passes the stick to the 'servitor' who does the preliminary shaping and then the 'graffer' does the finishing. Various shaped tongs are used to help form the pliable glass into the desired articles. A pontil rod used for shaping hot glass, was attached to the end opposite the blow pipe during the process in order to finish the open end of the article, upon removal of the pontil stick or rod, making a mark which was usually left, although sometimes ground smooth. This made a mark called the pontil mark."

Mrs. Stephens described the process of annealing in an oven, by which the brittle qualities are removed. "Fine glass is very hard and rings clearly when struck," the speaker said. "This is due to the fact that it is made with sand as the principal ingredient, sand being a form of flint. The distinctive ring is one way it can be told from the less desirable and cheaper lime glass. This is not, however, any criterion of age; for all good flint glass rings, whether made years ago or just last week."

Later, in discussing various items of glass, she added this interesting note:

"Cup plates were used from 1820 to 1850. The purpose of the cup plate was to rest the cup while the coffee was being drunk from the saucer.

"If you have ever watched anyone drinking from a saucer, you will realize why this fashion lasted such a short period."

Attending the club meeting were Mrs. W. R. Orr, Mrs. J. B. Stevenson, Mrs. L. C. Hill, Mrs. John Coleman, Mrs. Woodrow Wood, Mrs. Ted Raines, Mrs. Kenneth Gruncwald, Mrs. J. Frank Johnson, Mrs. Clyde Drake, Mrs. A. B. Jones of Memphis, Mrs. Melbie Foster, and the hostess, Mrs. Nix.

Miss Robertson Excelsior Hostess

Miss Dorothy Robertson was hostess to members of the Excelsior Club on Thursday evening, March 1.

Miss Bonnie Willis was program chairman and presented a 40-minute recording by Dr. John Surbay, who is with the educational department of Trans World Airlines. Dr. Surbay spoke on the "Rapidly Changing World of Humanity" and gave a dramatic description of the people in the emerging nations.

Dr. Surbay is referred to as the jet age circuit rider. He is a two-time Oscar winner and has the Brewer trophy, which is aviation's recognition of outstanding service. He is also a member of the Royal Geographic Society of London.

A dessert plate was served to Miss Willis, Miss Sara Jones, Mrs. Tubal Cain, Mrs. Morris Sullivan, Miss Edyth Jackson, Mrs. J. F. Michael, Miss Marie Shadid, Miss Rose Shadid, Mrs. E. F. Bartlett, and the hostess, Miss Robertson.

Wesleyan Guild Entertains WSCS at Salad Supper Wednesday Night

Wesleyan Service Guild of the First Methodist Church entertained members of WSCS with a salad supper in the fellowship hall of the church on Wednesday evening, Feb. 28.

An Irish theme was carried out in the program and decorations. A gold tree hung with three-leaf clover and Irish hats centered the table, and Irish motifs and clover leaves at other points on the table completed the decorations.

* Guild president, Mrs. Rob Isbell, welcomed the guests and Mrs. Davis Edens gave the invocation.

Mrs. Bob McAllister was program chairman and assisted in presenting the following program:

"My Wild Irish Rose," played by Carol Blain on the trombone, accompanied on the piano by Vicki Glenn.

Three vocal numbers, "Rose of Tralee," "Too-ra Loo-ra Loo-ra" and "I'll Take You Home Again Kathleen," were presented by a chorus of girls made up of Susan Sullivan, Aleta Owens, Karen Richardson, Joyce Holton, Jan Lindsey, Margaret Sisk, Frances Hill, Jennifer Singley, Beverly Singley. They were accompanied by Elaine Crawley.

Attending were Meses Gene Nelson, W. E. Brewster, A. L. Nowlin, Mattie Lindsey, Walter Franks, Mayme Somerville, Winfield Vaughan, L. B. Bratten, Henry Vaughan, A. J. Fires, Paul Spillman, Frank Anderson, Bob Lynch, A. L. Elliott, J. B. King, E. F. Bartlett, Nannie Masten, W. D. Durfee, Hiram Cudd, Wayne Cudd, Bob McAllister.

Texas Music Program Given

Mrs. Billy Mac Sims presented the program, "Texas' Rich Heritage in Music" to members of the 1954 Study Club Thursday, March 1 when they met in the home of Mrs. James Richardson.

Mrs. Jack Aaron, program leader, introduced Mrs. Sims who is president of the 7th District Music Clubs.

Mrs. Sims brought out the origin and growth of music in Texas by playing several Spanish American folk songs, some from Anglo-American contributions, military music, trail songs, French-Negro influence, spiritual and folk music. These were given from the original manuscripts. She played the "Bower" by Oscar Fox which became the San Jacinto quickstep, then finally was proclaimed the national anthem of the Republic of Texas. "The Yellow Rose of Texas," which gained so much prominence came from the working class of people. Mrs. Sims also sang "Corn Silks and Cotton Blossoms" by Oscar Fox, one of the recognized leaders in Texas composing. Symphonies also developed in Houston in the early years. The first being held in the building which was later to be the capitol building.

Mrs. Lynn Wright, president of 1954 Study Club, presided at the business meeting. Roll call was answered with the name of an American music composer.

Refreshments were served to one guest, Mrs. Billy Joe Thogmartin and to members, Mrs. Paul Spillman, Mrs. Bob Lynch, Mrs. Bill Hatch, Mrs. Grant Woodbridge, Mrs. Jack Aaron, Mrs. R. L. Templeton, Mrs. Floyd Keller, Mrs. Leon Hartman, Mrs. Sam Adams, Mrs. Bill Long, Mrs. Ray Peoples, Mrs. C. T. Hubbard, Mrs. A. J. Fires, and Mrs. Richardson.

Know-How Typifies New Generation in South America

Beyond the well-worn tourist paths, travelers in South America today find "a new vitality, a new civic consciousness at work, a new sense of enterprise," writes Bertram B. Johansson, Latin American editor of the Christian Science Monitor, in the Rotarian Magazine. In the vast Patagonian oil country, he reports, young Argentine engineers, just out of college, are training with U.S., Italian and other foreign drilling companies.

Thirty years ago, writes Johansson, young Argentines traditionally returned from universities abroad to family businesses in Buenos Aires. Not so today. In the spirit of Horace Greeley's "Go West, young man, go west!" they are going south to remote oil well locations to open a new part of their country and to help make their nation self-sufficient in petroleum.

"It's a lonely life especially when cold winds blow off the Atlantic or down from the Andes . . . and snow drifts to 25-foot depths, as it often does. But strange and lonely as the life may be for these young men, they are adding important new insights to Argentina's economy." Mr. Johansson adds that many of the new generation South Americans have received technical training in the United States since World War II.

Information Basis of Effective Law Enforcement Work

Hoodlums, gangsters, and racketeers who operate with seeming disdain for constituted authority, all share a common weakness—the morbid fear of detection, apprehension and successful prosecution.

These leaders of the underworld, representing the brains and motivating force of "organized crime," cloak themselves with respectability and circulate in all spheres of our society. However, none is immune to the subconscious dread of one day having to face the bar of justice, according to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Law enforcement is exploiting this weakness. By the exchange of valuable criminal intelligence information, the FBI and other federal, state and local agencies are successfully penetrating the innermost sanctums of the criminal diety. This action, plus the new laws passed by the last session of Congress aimed at big time racketeers and gamblers, is creating an uneasy stir among professional vice lords.

UNARMED DISARMMENT

SFC Lloyd Combs, center, of Richmond, Virginia, formerly of Wellington, disarms Sgt. Luther Johnson, PM activity, Yokohama, as he throws John H. Johnston in an Aiki-

Seaponless Defense

Sgt. Combs Teaches Aiki-do to U. S. Forces Stationed in Japan

ZAMA (HG. U.S. ARMY JAPAN). — "Aiki-do is the world's most successful and practical art of self-defense," says Sergeant First Class Lloyd E. Combs, a 33-year-old military policeman stationed at the U.S. Army Japan Provost Marshal Activity in Kokohama. Combs is an instructor in the art. He is the first American to receive a degree in Aiki-do, weaponless defense techniques developed by Japan's Takeda clan in the 11th century.

Combs makes his home at 705 Rothesay Road, Richmond, Va. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvie E. Combs, live at 700 Avenue A, Redondo, Calif. In 1956-57, Combs operated the American School of Aiki-do in Los Angeles. He is a native of Texas and attended school at Wellington.

In the latter part of 1954, Combs was stationed with a military police outfit in Tokyo and members of the unit were offered courses in Judo. Combs took the courses. However, he felt that Judo left a lot to be desired in police work, which stresses containment and self defense rather than aggressive action.

He'd heard about Aiki-do and found a school in Tokyo teaching the art. Since no Americans had ever taken instruction in Aiki-do, the young MP, with six other soldiers, had to apply for permission from the Japanese government to study the deadly art. After receiving a recommendation from the Tokyo Metropolitan Police Department, the group was granted permission to begin their instruction.

Combs worked hard in his off-duty hours, and finally after eleven months, was awarded Sho-dan (first degree black belt), accomplishing in that short time the equivalent of two and a half years of conventional instruction. Eventually, two of his soldier classmates received the first degree.

Combs left Japan in April, 1956 for an assignment with the U.S. Army Recruiting Service in Los Angeles. In September, 1956, he opened the American School of Aiki-do in partnership with Thomas Corzine, a young man he was instructing. The two put on demonstrations for television audiences around Los Angeles and for the recruiting service. In November 1957 Combs organized the American Aiki-do Association, which is recognized by the Aiki-do Association of Japan.

While living in Los Angeles, Combs had a number of interesting experiences. He tells of the time Gov. Goodwin Knight said that such physical activities as Aiki-do should be initiated in high schools, during a talk the governor was giving about strengthening American youth.

Aiki-do found a popular following in the Los Angeles area and Combs frequently put on exhibitions for the Los Angeles Police Academy. He taught a special class of 32 male and female officers from the Department of Justice, of the Federal Bureau of Prisons. His school had students ranging from 4-year-old youngsters to senior citizens in their seventies. Starting with a student body of seven, Combs' school grew to a point where a few of his classes held 900 Aiki-do aspirants.

By far his most unusual class was for bartenders. As Combs says "Aiki-do is perfect for handling drunks."

In September 1959, Combs returned to Japan and an assignment at Camp Chitose, on Japan's island of Hokkaido. He continued his own training in Aiki-do, being taught by a member of the Japan Air Self Defense Force and was re-assigned to his present location at North Pier, Yokohama Port, in July 1960.

Combs, the president of the American Aiki-do Association, explained the unusual history of this ancient art of self defense. In the eleventh century Aiki-Jitsu was started and the Takeda clan, as ruling power of the period held complete domination of the art, monopolizing instructors to teach their own agents. The Imperial household learned of this art, acquired instructors and held the art closely to their own rules.

Finally, Morihei Ueshiba, considered the organizer of modern Aiki-do was granted permission to teach the general public after the second world war, and he opened a school in Tokyo. Combs has received his Sho-dan (first) degree from Ueshiba's school and one other, Gozo Shioda.

Combs, a young but experienced instructor, says "Aiki-do is referred to as a way of life. It is graceful, smooth and non-violent. Literally translated Aiki-do means to bring together all your physical and mental characteristics to defense. Broken down in the Japanese language, the 'Ai' means to meet or bring together, the 'ki' means spirit, mind and body, and the 'do' means the way, in referring to the defense way."

He says of the three physical arts, Aiki-do, Judo and Karate, "Aiki-do is best for defense, Karate is best for offense, and Judo is the best for sport. Although with three or more years training, a person that learns Aiki-do can offensively use it better than Karate by first defending and countering." Combs has three methods of teaching. He says "I have changed slightly since the American style of fighting is less formal than the Japanese. My techniques are more practical to teach for the American style of fighting."

His three methods of teaching are: The class, which is the basic throws and fundamentals; fights, more detailed and advanced; and demonstrations, which is done by accomplished students of exhibitions, shows and publicity.

"Aiki-do automatically disarms a man of the use of his hands. There are two basic fundamentals; number one be defense, the application of pressure against the joints, and number two being hits and kicks to vital parts of the body," the young sergeant says. He is currently holding classes for U.S. Forces personnel in Japan at the U.S. Army Transportation Agency's

The Wellington Leader Thursday, March 8, 1962

North Pier port in Yokohama, and hopes to open a school on the east coast now that Aiki-do has gained a popular following.

57 on Junior High 6 Weeks Honor Roll

Fifty-seven junior high students were named on the 4th six-weeks honor roll this week by Principal A. A. McQuary. This is for the sixth, seventh and eighth grades, and 15 of the group had grades of all A's for the period.

Sixth grade, A roll: David Groves, George Kopp, John Harris and Alfred Allred; A average: Shirley Poston, Kathy Kiker, Rhonda Kersten, Jacqueline King, Cherry Lewis, Elizabeth Smith, Jan Blain, and Tanya Horton; B honor roll: Andy Henard, Nancy Sikes, Vicki Wade, Roseanne McNeil, Curtis Wauer, Chris Hubbard and Billy Neeley.

Seventh grade, A roll: Ann

Duncan, Michael Smith, Doyle Stewart, Charlotte Allen, Jimmy Campbell, Henry Wells, Barbara Holsomback, Dwayne Ford and Linda Moore; A average: Zeldon Jenkins, Sandra Young, Lewis Watkins and Junior Gonzales; B honor roll: Roy Jackson, Jan Smith, Rebecca Holliman, Larry Pipins, James Parker, and James Fulcher.

Eighth grade, A honor roll: Don Sweat and Carol Hanna; A average: Jackie Barton, Sharon Blackshear, Andy Moreno, Scooter Cason, Dennis Leeper and Bryant Harris; B honor roll: Lynn Wauer, Larry Henard, Kathy Davis, Joyce Curry, Jeannie Antoon, Leslie Covey, Linda Richardson, Nancy Sanford, Donald McKinney, Martha Scoggins and Marsha Elbert.

Barbara Denley of Amarillo was home over the week end visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Denley.

Postal Receipts for Past Year Total $39,464

Postal receipts for 1961 in the Wellington office totaled $39,464.50, an increase of more than $1,000 over the preceding year, L. B. Bratten announced recently.

The 1960 receipts were $38,012.17.

The postal receipt pattern differs during 1961 to the preceding years. There was a decrease of business in the last quarter—the cotton harvesting period—but there was an increase in the second quarter, and the third quarter showed an increase of about $1,500 over the period for 1960. The drop in the last quarter amounted to between $500 and $600.

There were fewer transient workers here to gather the cotton during the last quarter than there were to chop it earlier in the year.

Money orders showed a big decrease, from $51,428.54 in 1960 to $36,972.70 in 1961.

Foreign money orders dropped from $1,153 in 1960 to $348 in 1961. This is contrary to the belief that a considerable amount of money is sent into Mexico during the fall. Bratten pointed out, however, that neither the domestic nor the foreign money order figures took in consideration the money orders sold by banks.

Methodist Men Plan Barbecue

Methodist men will entertain their wives at the traditional venison barbecue Tuesday, March 20, in the dining hall of the church, Orville Vaughan, president, announced this week.

The supper will begin at 7 p.m., with Henry Sullivan and Dan Henard in charge of the barbecuing.

Lynn Carter, program chairman, said that musical numbers will be presented by a group of girls under the direction of Mrs. Orville Vaughan.

All members of Methodist Men and their wives are urged to attend.

Three Men to Ft. Chaffee

Three members of the Wellington unit of the National Guard reported to Ft. Chaffee, Ark., for six months training under the National Guard program.

They were Ronny Keith, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Keith; Ralph D. Owens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Owens; and Elmer Keller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Keller.

Following their six months active duty, the men will spend three and one-half years in the National Guard and fulfill their military obligation in lieu of two years active service.

Tarter Junior College Teacher of the Year

SAN ANGELO.—The "1962 Junior College Male Teacher of the Year" recently selected by Texas Junior College Teachers Association is Delbert G. Tarter, who teaches chemistry at San Angelo College.

As winner in this state contest, in which 37 nominees from 19 junior colleges entered, Mr. Tarter received a plaque at the association's convention banquet on Feb. 23 in San Antonio. He is the nephew of Jake Tarter, Bill Tarter, Mrs. Dora Ryan, and Mrs. John Trew of Wellington, and has often visited here.

Tarter, chairman of the science department at San Angelo College, has been on the faculty since 1949.

In the state contest, he was chosen for successful teaching experience, personality, skill in human relations, cultural interests outside the classroom, community participation, and other qualifications.

He holds a bachelor of science degree from East Texas State College, and a master of arts degree in chemistry from the University of Texas. He is active in American Chemical Society and other organizations. At San Angelo College he directs district XI Texas Science Fair. He is married and has three children.

The "1962 Junior College Woman Teacher of the Year" selected by Texas Junior College Teachers Association was Dr. Ava Josephine McAmis, of San Antonio College.

New Guard Officer Here

Lt. Leonard King Jr. of Childress has been assigned to the Wellington National Guard unit, Lt. Bob Lynch, commanding officer, reported this week.

He is an infantry officer and has been on active duty for two years. During this time he attended the Infantry School at Ft. Benning, Ga., and trained basic soldiers at Ft. Chaffee, Ark. He is an ROTC graduate from Texas Tech.

King, since his return from military service, is farming near Kirkland.

Mrs. S. A. Welch of Lubbock was here several days during the week end visiting with her daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Hatch and family and Mr. and Mrs. Oris West and family.

Dr. Beech Dies in El Paso

Dr. W. W. Beech, 87, of El Paso, and formerly of Shamrock, died in El Paso Sunday, Feb. 25, about three weeks after undergoing surgery.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday.

Dr. Beech was a brother-in-law of Gus Gooch of Dozier and also of Dr. J. W. Gooch of Shamrock, with whom he was associated for a time.

After practicing in Shamrock for a number of years, he moved from there in the mid-1930's.

Survivors are his wife of El Paso, and a daughter, Mrs. Maxine Hille of Las Cruces, N. M. A son, Gaston Beech, preceded him in death.

Mrs. Masten Home Visit with Children

Mrs. Cecil Masten returned home recently after several days visit in the home of her children at Roswell, N.M. and El Paso.

She spent several days in the home of a daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Conway and family at Roswell, and helped care for the new son of the Conways. She also visited in El Paso with a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Virdell Masten.

En route home, she visited in Sudan with relatives and friends, and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Masten flew her back to Wellington in their plane.

Mr. and Mrs. George Duncan had two of their daughters visiting with them over the week end. Mr. and Mrs. Norvel Manuel of Fort Worth and Mrs. Calvin Spear of Borger. Other guests in the Duncan home on Sunday included Mr. and Mrs. Haskell Manuel, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Manuel and family of Fort Worth, and Jerry Manuel. After dinner everyone enjoyed visiting and taking pictures.

Mrs. Jack Boyer, Terry and Kelli of Odessa are visiting here this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Wilson. They met them in Lubbock Sunday and Mr. Boyer will come for them next week end and return them home.

Shirley Peters Named Wesley Official at WTS

Shirley Peters of Wellington has been named Chairman of Deputations of the Methodist Wesley Foundation at West Texas State. The Foundation announced the election of officers for the spring semester of 1962 this week. They include 15 students from that many towns and cities of the Panhandle. Miss Peters is a freshman at WTSC.

One of the many purposes of the Wesley Foundation is to interpret the religious life of the college as an integral part of the program of higher education.

The Rev. Charles Hasting, who is minister to students of the Wesley Foundation, said: We feel religion is an integral part of the educational process as the student strives for excellence in all academic disciplines.

Miss Peters is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Peters of Wellington.

National Guard Holds Alert

Wellington National Guardsmen participated in the nation wide alert, called at 6:15 a.m. Sunday, Feb. 25.

Since this was regular drill day for the men, they just started the day early.

All men reporting from Wellington, Childress and other surrounding towns reached the Armory in 80 minutes; and 90 per cent of the guardsmen had arrived within one hour after the call was received.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown of Lefors were here Saturday, March 3, to visit his sister, Mrs. R. L. Porter in St. Joseph's Hospital. Mrs. Porter received a broken hip in a fall.

Mrs. Porter Breaks Hip

Mrs. R. L. Porter received a broken left hip Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 28, when she fell while working at the grocery store she and Mr. Porter operate on Highway 83.

She was taken to St. Joseph's hospital, where x-rays showed her left hip broken. Her condition early this week was as good as can be expected, her son, J. K. Porter, shop foreman of The Wellington Leader, said.

A son, the Rev. R. L. Porter, Jr., of Lubbock, came Wednesday night to be with his mother.

Donald Adams Seriously Ill

Donald Adams, who is employed by El Paso Natural Gas Company here, has been under medical treatment at the Scott and White Hospital at Temple for more than two weeks.

Mrs. Adams is employed at Wellington State Bank, and one of the bank personnel said she left Friday to be with her husband after his condition became worse last of the week.

Shirley Peters in Delta Zeta

CANYON—Miss Shirley Kay Peters, Wellington freshman at West Texas State College, has pledged Delta Zeta, national women's social sorority recently.

Miss Peters is one of 33 women pledging the four national social sororities on the campus during formal rush week.

Miss Peters is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Kay Peters, Wellington. She is a freshman elementary education major.

January Bond Sales $10,180

January savings bonds sales in Collingsworth county totaled $10,180, according to John Forbis, chairman of the Collingsworth county savings bond committee. This figure represents 7.8% of the 1962 sales goal of $130,000.

Total January sales in Texas were $15,310,631, which is 9.3% of the 1962 state goal of $165,100,000.

"The highlight of our 1962 sales activities will be in the Freedom Bond drive in May and June," Chairman Forbis reported.

J. F. Jackson Rites Held at Clarendon

James F. Jackson, 71, father of Miss Edith Jackson and Mrs. Curtis Bullington of Wellington, died at the home of a daughter in White Deer on March 3.

Funeral services for Mr. Jackson were held at the First Baptist Church in Clarendon at 4 p.m. Monday, March 4. Burial was in Citizens Cemetery.

He was born Feb. 12, 1891 in Oklahoma. He was a retired farmer and a long-time resident of Donley County. He was a member of the First Baptist Church.

He had made his home with his two daughters here for the last 18 months until three weeks ago when he went to White Deer to visit his daughter there.

Survivors include four daughters: Mrs. Nora Milhem of McLean; Mrs. Glen Reid of White Deer; Miss Edith Jackson of Wellington; three sons: William and Frank of Amarillo; Kenneth of Fort Worth. Also two brothers, Lovie and Ed of Memphis; two sisters, Mrs. J. H. Ashcraft of McLean and Mrs. Ella Curtis of Memphis; his mother, Mrs. Josie Jackson of Memphis, and eight grandchildren.

Junior Quails End Season with 15-5 Record

Quail's junior Quails ended the season with 15 games won and only 5 lost, running up 502 points to their opponents' 327. Coach Richard Gilbreth said as he reviewed the team's season performance.

Of the teams that defeated the Quails, three were from considerably larger schools—Wellington, Shamrock and Clarendon, and on the return encounter, Quail defeated each of them. They had only one shot at the other school, Estelline.

Other teams that met defeat at the hands of the Quails were Hedley, Samnorwood, Dodson and Lakeview.

For the past three seasons, the Quail junior boys have run up a total of 42 victories and only 12 losses, Coach Gilbreth said.

High scorer for the team was Paul Golliugh, who had an average of 10 points per game. Don Morris averaged 3.7; Bruce Ward 4; Ronny Baker 3; Reed Souder 1.5; and Coy Stephens 2.

Coach Gilbreth is losing all five starters this year—Golliugh, Morris, Ward, Baker and Souder.

Other boys on the team this year are Earl Lynn Feemster, Robert Blevins, Garland Boyce, Larry Brooks, Gary Brooks, Jarrell Fielding, Tommy Needham and Douglas Cole.

The boys bought their own jackets and the school awarded letters to all youngsters on the team.

Returns from Guard School

Sgt. Donald Settle, Co. E 1st Battle Group of the National Guard, has returned from three weeks at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis, Ind., where he attended a personnel administrative specialists school.

Settle, who is the permanent employee of the Guard unit here, said the office, which was closed during his absence, will again be open from 8 to 5 daily.

Screwworms May Be Frozen Out in Texas

Bob Lynch and John Robert Henard recently attended a meeting in Amarillo with representatives of the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation and brought back the following report on screwworms:

Significant new developments point to an early start in the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation's program to control the screwworm in the Southwest.

A large quantity of special sterile fly production equipment which was used successfully in eliminating the screwworm in the Southeast will be moved to Texas by the United States Department of Agriculture beginning this week, according to Doyle Conner, Florida Commissioner of Agriculture.

Conner's statement was reported in an Associated Press release which also pointed out that equipment is now at the Sebring Screwworm Center in Florida.

"Screwworms are believed to have been frozen out in Texas, and possibly for some distance into Mexico," Conner said. "Early eradication efforts there stand a good chance of paying off in a big way."

The SAHRF is in the midst of a program to raise three million dollars through voluntary contributions. Livestock producers are investing in the program at the rate of 50¢ per animal unit (50¢ for each adult cow and horse, and 10¢ each for sheep, goats and swine.)

The screwworm eradication program is literally one of self extermination. It is based on the fact that the female fly mates only once. The native population is overwhelmed by systematic release of screwworm flies which have been sterilized by irradiation.

The SAHRF is a non-profit organization governed by a board of trustees who serve without pay. It is headed by C. G. Scruggs of Dallas.

The trustees have emphasized that every penny collected would be used solely to bring about a screwworm eradication program in the Southwest.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Day and Karen, of Perryton, were week end guests in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Franks.

Shamrock Plans St. Patrick's Day Celebration

SHAMROCK—Whether you are Irish or not, you'll be a McSomething or other in Shamrock on St. Patrick's Day in the mornin'! And come to think of it, what other suitable place is there to be on St. Patrick's Day?

So when the Irish bands begin to play and the blarney runs thick in the streets on March 17, it's you we'll be expecting to share the beauty, fun and pageantry of Shamrock's 16th annual St. Patrick's Day celebration, begorra!

The activity starts Friday evening, March 16, with the St. Pat's Kick-off Banquet at National Guard Armory with former U.S. Senator Josh Lee of Oklahoma as guest speaker and Governor Price Daniel as honor guest.

From then until late Saturday night, things will be jumping in this Irish city, as the program arranged by General Chairman Carl Williams, Deputy Chairman Jim Moore and their corps of efficient committeemen unfolds step by step.

Pilots will begin flying in soon after dawn to join the dignitaries gathered at the National Guard Armory for the Flight and Dignitary Breakfast. Things will begin happening early at the sound stage, corner Main and Second Streets, too, as the Shamrock Irish Band presents a concert at 8:30 a.m.

The Old Farris Building on North Main street will start buzzing as the Old Settlers begin registering at 9 a.m., followed by awards to the oldest of the old settlers the old settlers living in the area longest.

Other highlights of the colorful St. Patrick's Day Celebration include the mile-long street parade, the crowning of Miss Irish Rose of 1962, Saturday afternoon boxing, a 2-day rodeo sponsored by Shamrock's Sheriff's Posse, and three dances the evening of the 17th.

Prune Freeze Damaged Plants, But Not Now

COLLEGE STATION. — If you're like most other Texans, you have some ornamental plants in your yard that were damaged by the recent hard freezes. The natural inclination is to remove the damaged growth, but Bob Lynch, county agent, advises against being too hasty.

If there is any doubt that twigs and branches have been killed it is best to wait a few weeks until such damage can be easily seen, says Lynch. At that time prune the plant back to live wood by making the pruning cut several inches below the last sign of dead wood.

To find out how much of a shrub has been killed, use a knife or the thumbnail to scratch into the cambium layer, just beneath the bark, says Lynch. Discolorations of this layer is a sign that the plant needs cutting back below such damage. If any bark has been split or cracked, this area should also be cut out. Often the damage is the outside twigs and branches, and the plant will need only a slight clipping back.

Pruning shears should be dipped in disinfectant such as 70% denatured alcohol between cuts.

With trees and large shrubs the cut end should be painted with shellac. After the shellac has dried, a wound dressing or disinfectant tree paint should be applied to the exposed area. You will get best results if you inspect the dressed surfaces periodically and recoat them once or twice a year. Before recoating, clean the wound with a stiff wire brush to remove all blisters and loose flakes. Be careful not to cover the new growth with these additional applications of wound dressing.

Lynch says one way to lessen damage in case of another freeze is to water the plants thoroughly as soon as pipes thaw. This prevents drying, which causes more damage than the cold.

For more information on pruning, Lynch says to ask him for a copy of B-977, on "Modern Pruning Methods."

Fellowship at Trinity Church

There will be a Fellowship Church Supper at the Trinity Methodist Church Wednesday evening, March 14, at 7:30 p. m. Mrs. John Wolf announced this week.

A general conference of the church will be held following the supper and all members are urged to attend.

The Rev. J. W. Read is pastor of the church.

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Thompson Friday and Saturday were their daughter, granddaughter and great grandson, Mrs. F. R. Hitchcock, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Beam and Brent, of Amarillo.

The passing of Dr. E. W. Jones brought forth hundreds of tributes and reminiscences, for nearly everyone who has lived here as long as fifteen years has had some kind of personal relationship with this great country doctor who was also an able surgeon. The conclusion of such a life is no cause for real sadness for his work lives on.

St. Joseph's Hospital stands today as a living monument to this man who toiled in our midst for four decades. It is true that the hospital reached its present eminence only after the Dominican Sisters took charge, but it was Dr. E. W. Jones who had the dream, put his money and labor into it and brought it into being. The work you do for others is the kind that never dies.

The Texas Youth Council has just won a battle for the benefit of orphans in state institutions. Last week Attorney General Will Wilson turned over the deed to a $200,000 Bell county ranch, with a check for $12,446 to Dr. James A. Turman, Youth Council director. It will be used as a summer camp and activity center for orphans' homes. They will raise cattle, swine and sheep there to help feed the thousands of children under Youth Council care.

Lewis Morris is heading a drive to get a sizable delegation from Collingsworth county to attend the rally and barbecue for Marshall Formby, which will be held in Memphis Friday, March 9, beginning at 5 p.m. The proceeds from the barbecue will go to help Formby finance his campaign for Governor. Marshall Formby did mightily well by Collingsworth in helping us secure more

State
Representative
87th
District

INTRODUCTION

I am a Democratic candidate for the State Legislature for the 87th District. In order that I may be able to talk with a much larger number of you I am initiating a weekly newspaper column and a weekly radio broadcast. This newspaper column is being published exactly as it appears here in all papers which are published in Gray, Wheeler and Collingsworth Counties. The same weekly radio speech will be used on all radio stations verbatim.

This first column is in the form of an introduction. I am Lester A. Jones, have been a resident of Gray county twenty-five years. I am 47 years of age, married to the former Clarice Gillis, a native of Pampa, Texas, and we have two sons — Jesse, age 17 and Howard, age 13. We are all members of the First Baptist Church in Pampa, Texas.

I have been engaged as a farm laborer, oil field laborer, Veteran of World War II, Drilling Contractor and am now a small oil and gas producer. The Veterans of Foreign Wars is the only organization of which I am a member.

I believe that our individual liberties are being chipped away bit by bit.

I will make a detailed talk on the above subject on radio, Friday of this week. I hope those of you who are near a radio will tune to one of these stations. I believe it is important that you become fully informed on any candidate seeking public office.

Thursday the Deadline for Trustee Filing

Thursday night, March 8, is the deadline for filing in the school trustee elections, B. W. Beaird, county superintendent, and J. L. Harper, superintendent of the Wellington schools, have announced.

Races are contested in three of the school districts, but at Wellington, only the two incumbents have filed for re-election. They are E. D. Crawley and Jones E. D.

Candidates who have filed through Beaird's office to date were announced Tuesday.

At Quail, where three places are to be filled, Mrs. James R. Ross has filed for the first time. Seeking re-election are Henry Langford, Palo Cummings Jr., and Richard Peters. Sannorwood candidates to Tuesday are Marvin Knoll and Billy Waters, who are asking re-election, and Douglas Coleman and R. A. Taylor.

Seeking re-election at Dodson are Truitt Holland and Howard Hunt, while Bill Owens is the third to file.

Wild Turkeys

In order that they would seek a roost quickly instead of traveling. After one night of roosting in a place, their instinct is to return to that same roost the next night.

Several years ago some wild turkeys were released on the Mill Iron Ranch east of Wellington, and it is believed that some of the descendants of these fowl are still remaining in the county where the habitat and food is favorable.

It is hoped to get enough of the wild turkeys established in Collingsworth to have an open season in future years.

Quail Juniors Present Minstrel March 20

Quail juniors will present a minstrel show Thursday, March 15, made up of a series of short humorous plays, comedy skits, jokes and songs.

There are only 10 members of the class and all will participate.

The time has been set tentatively for 8 p.m.

The school chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Lowell Wells, will sing a group of traditional minstrel numbers.

Dean Johnson will be the interlocutor and all members of the cast, including the chorus, will be in blackface.

There will be a small admission charge.

Juniors putting on the performance will be Johnson, Lyn Baker, Billy Wayne Lindsey, Paul Boyce, James Branch, J. C. Saunders, Richard Keller, Virginia Ann Kennedy, Rita other student, Bill Pippins.

Supt. Herman Moseley and W. C. Howard, sponsors, are in charge of the production.

Moody, Barbara Tyler, and one City Council when the council bought the light plant from individual owners; he was likewise one of those who inspired the community building.

Dr. Jones was chairman of the War Finance Committee in World War II; and a member of the Post War planning committee that gave Wellington its Marian Airpark, the expanded street and water program and other improvements.

Many well deserved honors came to Dr. Jones. His home community named him Most Outstanding Citizen of 1932. He had served as a member of the Board of City Development, a Scoutmaster, a member of the school board of the Wellington schools; he taught a Sunday school class of First Baptist Church; and was Commander of the American Legion.

In his profession, he was president of the Five County Medical Society and of the Panhandle Medical Society; a vice president of the Texas Medical Association, and a member of the Southern Medical Association.

Perhaps the greatest memorial to Dr. Jones life, however, are the number of fine doctors scattered across the country who were inspired by him to enter the profession.

He, himself, never quit studying medicine, and as long as he was practicing, he did post graduate work from time to time in some of the leading hospitals of the nation.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday at 10 a.m. at First Methodist Church in Lubbock, of which he was a member, with the Rev. R. N. Huckabee, pastor, and the Rev. Howard Jones, Amarillo, former pastor of First Baptist Church here, officiating.

Following the service his body was taken to Amarillo, where it lay in state at Boxwell's Ivy Chapel from 2 to 3 p.m. Committal services and burial were at Llano Cemetery at 4 p.m. Kelo Funeral Home was in charge.

Surviving Dr. Jones are his wife, of the home; one son, Dr. E. K. Jones of Amarillo; and two grandchildren, Miss Janet Jones and Danny Jones. He is also survived by one brother, Dr. Calvin Jones, of Pampa.

For the most part they live in urban centers (64%) with their wife and two or more children under 18 (52%).

Formby Men Plan Barbecue at Memphis

Collingsworth county supporters of Marshall Formby for Governor of Texas are invited to a barbecue and rally to be held at the Memphis City Park Friday, March 9, at 5 p.m., according to Lewis Morris, chairman of the local Formby committee.

Tickets are on sale by members of the committee. Formby will be there and has expressed the wish to shake hands with all his friends in the area. He is already known to many here, through previous visits to this county.

Proceeds from the barbecue will go into the Marshall Formby campaign fund, Morris said.

In addition to Morris, chairman of the local organization, H. P. Scott of Dodson is assistant chairman. Committee members are: reception, Judge R. L. Templeton of Wellington and Ed Crowder of Dodson; advertisement, J. I. Morgan and Carl Wischkaemper of Quail; finance, Willie Knoll of Sannorwood and Dee Coleman of Wellington; and membership, Jack Brewer, L. A. Davis and W. C. Harwell of Wellington.

four songs by Mrs. Lipscomb: "I Love the Spring," "My Grandmother's Scarf," "The Love that Is Ours," and "I Love a Wee Lassie."

Mrs. Word's opening piano selections will be a juvenile group: "Toyland Parade," "Happy Am I," "God Speaks to Me," and "Aunt Mary's Music Box."

Mrs. Lipscomb will continue the children's section of the program by singing "The Green Meadow March," "Swing Song," and "The Sandman."

Returning to the adult world of music, Mrs. Word will play "Romance," "Song Without Words," and "Waltz in G."

Numbers that express Mrs. Word's deeply religious nature will conclude the program, in which Mrs. Lipscomb will sing "The Same Jesus," "The Lord Is My Shepherd," and "I Thank Thee, Lord."

Mrs. Word will then play "For Today, a Psalm" and the two closing numbers, "At Eventide," and "Benediction" will be by Jane Lipscomb.

Chamber of Commerce to attend the meeting of the Greenbelt Municipal and Industrial Water Authority on Tuesday night.

Initial plans were made for several C-C members to attend the West Texas Chamber of Commerce industrial conference at San Angelo on March 22.

The Chamber of Commerce joined the combined city-county clean-up campaign the week of March 19-24, to co-ordinate activities, with Mrs. Ernest Harwell, chairman of the beautification committee, in charge.

Directors gave considerable discussion to a report on the migratory labor bill introduced in the Senate as SB 1129, which would set a minimum wage for migratory farm labor.

"It is the thinking of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce that it will gravely affect the farm and ranch labor situation, and we propose to oppose the bill as written," N. M. Higdon, C-C manager, said.

City Teachers to Convention

Wellington schools will be dismissed Friday, March 9, so that teachers may attend the annual Area 11 meeting of the Texas State Teachers Association in Amarillo.

All teachers plan to attend, and Jack Davis, president of the county unit, will be the official delegate, according to E. W. Clement, high school principal.

Keynote speakers in the meeting will be Dr. D. D. Darland, assistant executive secretary for the National Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards of the National Education Association, and Dr. John H. Furbay, director of the culture and educational programs for Trans-World Airlines.

Teutsches to Bankers Meet

Floyd Teutsch, president of the First State Bank, Dodson, and Mrs. Teutsch were in Dallas during the week end to attend the 5th District Convention of the Texas Bankers Association.

The meeting was held in the Statler-Hilton Hotel, with bankers from all parts of the state attending.

up for good observation. Sweat explained the systematic for treating seed is a chemical marketed as dyston. It controls insects for a short period after cotton emerges from the ground, and gives it a chance to grow off. It has been used here only experimentally, but farther down state it has been in use several years with good results.

"I'm sure it will be the coming thing with the whole area here," Sweat said. "It is a dangerous chemical and you will learn Wednesday night how to handle it."

Insecticides and defoliants will be taken up at the meeting. All cotton farmers are invited to attend.

Damage Suit

Judge Gribble said that as far as he could remember this was the largest damage suit ever tried in Collingsworth county.

In other district court action, Judge Gribble reported, the case of Steve Owens vs. the Alex Coleman estate, a suit for debt, was settled after the jury was picked but before any evidence was given. Mac Balentine pled guilty to a charge of forgery and received a two-year sentence in the state penitentiary. He was charged with forging the name "C. H. Lewis by wife" to a 13.96 check.

Bobby Morrison of Twitty, one of four youths charged with burglarizing the Bill Hall home, received a two year probationary sentence.

Evidence was heard in the case of Fay Hobbs, charged with burglary of a motor vehicle, but judgement was deferred for further investigation.

They have at least a high school education (55%).

But roughly twice as many World War II and Korea veterans have gone to college as comparable non-veterans.

He said: "I have entered this race because the District has clearly indicated its willingness to support true conservative candidates and now has the chance to do so for the State Legislature."

"I am dedicated to the principle of conservative constitutional government and the true system of free enterprise. I intend to visit Collingsworth county often from now to the primary and if I am nominated, from now until November. I will appreciate hearing from any of you who are interested in returning our government to constitutional principles both at the state and national level."

Water Board

24 meeting of the Compact Commission. Dr. S. H. Townsend, president of Greenbelt, replied that he did not know the date was that close, but added that he thought they were all right.

Henard then presented information that has come to the Water Control and Improvement District, and asked for Greenbelt cooperation on preliminary steps which would hold the Salt Fork waters for Texas and the southeast Panhandle.

Henard emphasized that when the interstate waters of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana are divided by the Compact Commission the rights of Greenbelt or Collingsworth Water District or any other body to use those waters and to build dams on them will be forever gone.

He again reminded the crowd that groups in Western Oklahoma already have work well under way for use of the waters of Salt Fork.

The Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District will have a representative at the Compact Commission meeting April 23-24 in Shreveport, La.

Attending the Tuesday night meeting were Henard, Spillman, and J. T. Slay, representing the water board; Mayor Hiram Cudd, City Manager Bura Handley, and two council members, Mrs. John Coleman and Henry Sullivan, representing the city of Wellington; C-C Manager N. M. Higdon, and President Bobo Castleberry of the Chamber of Commerce, and Miss Virginia Robey of The Wellington Leader. Raburn Smith accompanied the group to represent Shamrock.

Other towns represented were Crowell, Paducah, Memphis, Clarendon, Quanah, Hedley and Childress.
