Rio Grande Valley To Be Linked With Mississippi

Delegates From Texas And Coastal States Meet In Conference Regarding the Project Start Work Soon Prediction Is Made That Canal Will Be Built In Four Years Time; 400 Present for Meeting

(By Associated Press) BAYON ROUGE, La., Nov. 9.—Confidence that the intra-coastal canal linking the Mississippi river with the Rio Grande Valley, soon will be in progress of construction, and that river transportation in the near future will return to its capacity of former years, was expressed in the addresses delivered by congressmen, waterways experts and association officials during the sessions here today of the intracoastal canal association of Louisiana and Texas.

The prediction of Roy Miller of Corpus Christi, active vice president of the association, that actual work would be under way within the next three months, and that the project would be completed within the next four years, was supplemented by reports that most of the necessary rights of way had been secured and that titles to the land were in the hands of district attorneys.

Review Development After reviewing the development of the section between Corpus Christi and the Rio Grande Valley, Gen. Harry Taylor, former chief engineer, U. S. army, and now consulting engineer for the canal association, declared that he was prepared to recommend to the federal board of engineers for rivers and harbors, that the canal be extended

Hoover Plans To Go On Good Will Trip to Counties

President-elect to Visit In Latin-America Before Inauguration; To Leave Next Week

Away Two Months Republican Victor Will Go On Battleship; Nature Of Visit Is Unknown; Visit Leading Cities

(By Associated Press) STAMFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Nov. 9.—A good will trip to certain Latin-American countries is proposed by Herbert Hoover, before he returns to Washington for his inauguration March 4. Announcement of the intention of the president-elect was made almost simultaneously at the White House in Washington and at the Hoover home here today. Although plans are indefinite, pending diplomatic exchanges between the state department and the countries of South America Hoover proposed to visit, it is understood that departure will be made from San Francisco last week on a battleship, probably the Maryland, flagship of the U. S. battle fleet.

Require Two Months Should Mr. Hoover follow the usual routes for such tours of South America, his trip would require about two months, as it would take him to all of the larger countries of the southern continent, both on the west and the east coasts. The expectation is that from San Francisco the president-elect will go to Colombia, Ecuador, Argentina, Peru, Brazil, Chile and the larger countries on that continent. After completing his tour of the continent, Hoover, it is believed, would board another battleship at eastern South American port and return to the United States.

The direction of his future travels and the manner in which he would spend his time between the date of his departure from South America on the return trip still is a matter of conjecture, however.

Here are the new Emperor and Empress of Japan—Hirohito and Nagako—whose coronation at Kyoto today is one of the greatest events on Japan's calendar for many years. 124th Emperor Of Japan Enthroned In Rituals Today

Twenty-six Nations To Take Part In Japan's Most Colorful Event; States Is Represented

(By Associated Press) KYOTO, Japan, Nov. 9.—Twenty-six foreign nations will be represented at the enthronement of Hirohito, 124th Emperor of Japan, here tomorrow. Of the twenty-six chief envoys, only ten will convey the congratulations of other monarchs, now a dwindling company to the new occupant of the throne of a "lineage unbroken for ages eternal." The other sixteen come from republics. Only eighteen nations sent envoys to Kyoto in 1915, when Hirohito's father, the late emperor Taisho, was enthroned. The eight additions represent the alterations in the political complexion of the world.

Aerocade Gives Emphasis To Importance Of Flying

Referred to as "the youngest member of the Fort Worth Aerocade," which Friday piloted 14 airplanes circling over the city of Lubbock and landing on the temporary airport two miles north of town on the Plainview highway, Howard W. Peak, Sr., of Fort Worth, 72 years of age, in telling of his own experience of travel, climaxed by this air trip over West Texas, expressed with perhaps greater vividness the meaning of present-day commercial aviation than any talk or event of the entire occasion. First While Born In Covertown. Mr. Peak is said to be the first white child born in the city of Fort Worth. He is also said to be the oldest traveling salesman in point of continuous service on the road in the state of Texas, having been on the road for the past 50 years.

Hidalgo Election Storm Subsides; Republicans Win

Texas Rangers Shepherded Town Since Tuesday To Prevent Disorders; All Votes Counted

Contests Hinted Three Men Are Caught Boring Hole In Floor Of the Election Booth; Losers Hold Mass Meeting

(By Associated Press) EDINBURG, Nov. 9.—"Independent" republicans dented in two places the democratic administration of Hidalgo county, storm center of Texas politics for several days it developed tonight when the last and decisive box, that of Edinburg, was counted while a throng milled about, shepherded by Texas rangers. Two "citizens-republicans," or independents, were elevated to office on the strength of returns from the local box. Every other county office was won by administration candidates.

Gordon Griffin, McAllen, independent, defeated his democratic opponent, Judge J. E. Leslie, 3,659 to 2,898 for district judge and Henderson defeated his administration opponent for county commissioner of precinct 2.

The county as a whole went republican by only four votes but Governor Dan Moody beat the republican gubernatorial contender, W. H. Holmes, Amarillo, 6,300 to 3,500.

Although state rangers and county deputy sheriffs have stood guard over the Edinburg polling place since tabulation of votes began, only one instance was reported where the officers found it necessary to curtail activities of the crowd. Ranger Captain Frank Hamer, and three men who had crawled under the voting booth and bored holes in the floor.

Hold Mass Meeting While final results were being announced here, independent candidates held a mass meeting.

Texas Votes Give Bigger Margin To Republican's Win

(By Associated Press) DALLAS, Nov. 9.—Straggling returns from far-flung counties of Texas today continued to increase Herbert Hoover's majority by a few votes as factional political leaders settled back at ease after having uttered their election pronouncements. The latest returns gave Hoover 53,763 to Governor Smith's 334,328, a majority of 19,437, increasing the probability that Texas, for the first time, had gone republican. Reports giving these totals had been received from 252 counties, all but one, with more than two-thirds—178—complete. Despite the apparent lethargy of the Plains supports a fighting football team.

Five Hundred See Game In Plainview

Lubbock Special Carries Host of Fans to Hale County Town; Parade In Streets The city of Plainview was taken by storm Friday afternoon when five-hundred enthusiastic Lubbock High school boosters descended upon the home of the Plainview Bulldogs to witness the annual football contest between the two high schools. Arrived in the Hale county metropolis shortly before 3 o'clock, the Gold and Black hosts, led by M. H. Duncanson, superintendent of Lubbock schools, the high school band and pep squad, formed a parade at the Santa Fe station which was led up the main thoroughfare and around the public square. Large crowds lined the curbs as the Lubbock delegation passed along, five hundred strong, demonstrating amid the blare of trumpets and organized yells how the student body from the Hub of the Plains supports a fighting football team. More Lubbock Fans Present Paid admissions at the gate revealed that there were more Lubbock boosters at the game than there were natives. Following the poor showing of the Bulldogs in their previous season's contest, Plainview fans underwent a decided drop. The enthusiasm brought into the city by the Lubbock delegation aroused the Bulldog supporters to

Chicago Smoke Darkens City

CHICAGO, Nov. 9. (AP)—For more than three hours today Chicago's downtown district was plunged into darkness as black as any night. The weather bureau reported that the phenomenon, the most unique ever witnessed in the loop district, was not the result of storm clouds although the day was cloudy, but was caused by a ceiling of smoke with no wind to carry it away. In Oak Park chickens went to roost and at the municipal airport and in the loop aerial beacons were lighted to guide flyers coming into Chicago.

Three Men Killed In Explosion In Chemical Plant

(By Associated Press) RICHMOND, Calif., Nov. 9.—A terrific explosion at the chemical plant of the Western Industries Corporation here today killed three men, injured two others probably fatally and seriously hurt a dozen more. Four Badly Hurt Others badly hurt are: Manuel Paria, James Simmons, Thomas Mulhall and John Peruca. The dead and injured were workmen. The explosion occurred about 10:15 a. m. One side of the building, 100 by 100 feet, was blown out. Drury's body was blown from the second floor and wedged between two tanks outside the building where rescuers had difficulty in removing it. A spark from an acetylene torch carried by Caldrira is said to have ignited an acid mixture in a 10,000 gallon tank, causing the explosion. The entire interior of the building was wrecked and windows were broken for blocks around.

Robber Discards $50,300 Satchell Beneath Viaduct

East Bound Train Out Of Ft. Worth Is Boarded By Lone Bandit; Take Rerouted Mail Probe Being Made Abilene, Cisco and Seymour Bank Shipments Included In Loot; Robber Gets $2,700 From Pouch

(By Associated Press) FORT WORTH, Nov. 9.—A satchel containing $50,300 in currency was discarded, perhaps inadvertently, by a man who robbed a mail car less than a mile from Fort Worth tonight. The bag containing the money, in bills of $5, $10 and $20 denomination and in packages, was found by an emergency policeman beneath an abutment on the viaduct near which the bandit left the train after he had "stuck up" two postal clerks, E. Pruitt and P. E. Carney, both of Fort Worth, disarmed them and trusted them up in mail bags. Money In Three Shipments The money found was consigned to the Federal Reserve bank in Dallas in three shipments, one of $46,000 from the P. and M. National bank, Abilene; one of $5,000 from the First National bank of Cisco; one of $2,000 from a bank at Seymour. Apparently the thug had stuffed $2,700 in his pockets. One theory that the robber might have hidden the bag under the abutment, officers placed a guard around the spot. The clerk said the hi-jacker entered the train probably at Aledo. Postal inspectors, who counted the money recovered, began an investigation.

Mammy!

THIS HAS HAPPENED JERRY RAY thinks that love is a delusion and makes up her mind to marry for money. She works in a store and desires her...

and... yes, because she had dreamed half the night about a young man she had dined with on a starchy root garden...

On the way back, Alester stops at an inn for dinner and seems annoyed when Jerry refuses a drink. He introduces MYRTLE...

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XII

"Oh, Jerry, I'm sorry," Myrtle burst out in answer to her roommate's question. "I lent George all that money to be a silent partner in a building stand. He and that fellow whose garage he uses are starting a place on the Jericho Turnpike. Gee, I'm sorry if you counted on me to help you out. You know I would if I could."

Myrtle felt grieved at that moment for Jerry because she looked so cross. Then it being Myrtle's way to become cross when her sympathy was deeply touched, she said, "If you can't go to that blousy it's your guardian's responsibility to keep you from the money. Now you know you'll be losing your head over Alester Carstairs."

Jerry smiled unsteadily. She understood Myrtle. Her friend's remark did not upset her but it was a blow not to get the money. Now she hadn't the slightest idea what to do.

"Oh, I couldn't Myrtle! You ought to see the people who go to the Rolling Stone Inn. Alester would be ashamed of me... a lot of his friends will be there..."

"Humph!" Myrtle interjected scornfully. "George told me about the kind of people who go there. I'll bet any of his friends you meet there never set a foot inside his house..."

Her voice held a poignant regret that stopped Myrtle from saying anything further on the subject of Alester Carstairs and the Leandry roadhouse. She saw a tear gleaming in Jerry's eyes as she brushed her hair before the best preserved side of the mirror. The other side had lost its quicksilver in several places.

This surely would be the end with Alester, Jerry was telling herself. A girl couldn't break a promise to him. Maybe a fascinating woman like Leontine Lebaudy could do anything she wanted with him, but an obscure little shopgirl...

She wished she could tell herself that she didn't like him anyway but that wasn't being honest with herself. She just simply couldn't do like him. But why hadn't she fallen head over heels in love with Dan Harvey? That would have settled everything—well, not everything, but at least she couldn't think of marrying one man while she was in love with another.

Jerry went to sleep feeling sorry for herself and began to dream of a young man with dark hair and deep blue-gray eyes.

She woke in the middle of the

A real bandana handkerchief gave Uatasha Rambova, wife of the late Rudolph Valentino, the idea and the pattern of this many costume which she designed for Elba Lehman, singer of songs of the South. The black net kerchief has a bandana design worked out in sequins and paillettes of gold and red. The long full-skirted dress is of American beauty colored taffeta, with black and gold buttons down the front.

Alice who had an operation... Jerry crumpled the letter with a sudden passion of fury. Her father's lumbago. Did her mother still believe in that old broomstick? And Frank taking the broom—had always taken things.

"Oh, Mom," she cried under her breath, "how they do abuse you! And I was going to do so much for you—and all I've done is to add to your worries while I had a swell time playing around with a man who could give me enough to make life easy for me..."

Jerry reached into her bag and got out a handkerchief to dab at her brimming eyes. Myrtle, waiting for her in the coffee house, looked anxiously at the clock on the wall, and finished her second doughnut in haste. She couldn't wait any longer. No sense in both of them being late.

Jerry went to her job without breakfast. She had lost her appetite and her cheerfulness. Her mother's letter had taken her back to Maribou, to the sordid conditions that had driven her away from home. And being away she had nearly forgotten. She had now been on the verge of letting her golden opportunity slip by because...

Rightower's right hand was badly cut, when a hit and run driver ran in front of the car they were in on the Idalou highway, about two miles from Lubbock, turning their car over and throwing it into the ditch.

The wreck occurred early Friday night. Both are reported to be not seriously injured.

Cap Parkinson, the Tech student, whose hand was mashed badly, came to the sanitarium for treatment but left soon after. No bones were broken, the injury being received when the car was in turned over. Details of where this occurred and how were not available.

to the Rio Grande valley. He said that approximately $1,000,000 in transportation costs could have been saved had such a canal been in operation during the past year, basing his statement upon facts which he said he had obtained in a personal study of the situation.

Progress in obtaining rights of way along the Harvey route from New Orleans to Morgan City, was described by Robert E. Butler of Louisiana.

Stresses Standardization. The necessity of a standardized channel which would obviate the transferring of cargoes from large to smaller vessels was stressed by Congressman C. A. Newton of St. Louis, who described the experience of the Mississippi Valley association, of which he is Missouri general counsel.

The delegates, numbering about 400, were taken tonight on a boat trip to the Plaquemine Locks, which are at the head of the proposed canal route from Plaquemine to Morgan city and west.

The government's point of view on the proposed canal will be brought out tomorrow in the addresses of federal engineers. The meeting is to adjourn at noon with the election of officers, and the naming of the next meeting place.

Texas Vote

The political situation, there still remained the possibility that a flare-up could be expected momentarily. Leaders who issued ultimatums to other groups had taken no apparent notice of those hurled at them in return.

However, two outstanding opposing leaders had offered tentative peace proposals, Alvin S. Moody, chairman of the anti-Smith democrats of Texas, said that his organization bore no malice as a result of the campaign just ended, and that it would not favor removal of members of the present state executive committee.

W. A. Thomas, manager of the Texas democratic campaign, agreed that the interests of the party can best be served by forgetting things that are past and working in peace and harmony in the future.

The meeting was called by Ed. C. Couch, of Westaco, defeated independent candidate for county judge, and David Kirgan, Westaco real estate man. Whether the contest would be pushed, since two of the factions' candidates were elected, was not disclosed.

The officials lost a court fight to have their slate printed on the official ballot and Governor Moody yesterday declined to declare martial law at their request.

Guy Talks to Society

Taking the view, that the press stands as guardian of the public for the principal cornerstones of civilization, religion, education, and government, Charles A. Guy, managing editor of the Avalanche-Journal, spoke last night before Phi Gamma Mu, social science fraternity of Tech, on the subject, "The Press and Its Relation to Society."

Admitting that there are errors made by the papers because of the writing, setting up and printing are done by humans, Mr. Guy took the stand that much of the adverse criticism which is made against the presses today comes from the malcontents.

Changes which are taking place in the make up of the tabloids were mentioned, and comparisons between the newspapers of Horace Greeley's day which were optionated and had individualized editorials, and the present day papers which endeavor to give both sides of a question to their readers.

After the speech a round table discussion was held and questions were brought up and discussed pertaining to points brought out in the talk.

The Woman's Day

By Allene Sumner

The only woman who came to America on the Graf Zeppelin teased off a little remark in telling of the five days above the clouds that seems rather significant to me. Asked the usual questions about whether time hung heavily on her hands and whether the monotony didn't get rather unendurable, she answered: "I was busy every moment. You see, we had our own cabins to tend, and then meals took so long and time went that way; sometimes we sat down to the luncheon table at 1 and didn't leave till 4; the steward had his problems and we just had to be patient."

One reflects on the almost unbelievable length of women's heritage, traditions as to her own job which, even when she participates in a history-making experience, will keep her in her cabin a good portion of the time, "tending it," making the bed, dusting, "picking up," going through the eternal motions which custom says are the motions of woman's job.

Lady Drummond-Hay, first woman to cross the Atlantic in a dirigible, is not the only woman who, in the midst of an unprecedented experience, takes it for granted that her routine "woman's work" must and shall go on uninterrupted by such things as cities and islands and rivers passing underneath her strange craft.

A friend tells of a boat trip last summer. Her stateroom companion was a social worker who confided that it was her first vacation in ten years. Every morning she neatly repacked her suitcase. The friend reports that she never entered the stateroom but that the lady was mending stockings runs or shortening or by Olive Roberts Barton Copyright by NEA Service, Inc.

Often there will be one child in the family who will take the lead—usually the oldest—and become intolerably bossy over the rest. This is probably more often the case where families are large and the oldest child has been a sort of mother's assistant.

One mother said to me recently "I don't know what to do with Irene. She's getting absolutely beyond my control. I don't want to break her spirit, but I can't have her going on the way she is. She lords it over the other three children continually, until poor Louise can't call her soul her own."

She Was Right I had an opportunity to observe both children. Irene was 10; Louise was 8. It soon was very evident that what mother said was true. Both were charming children, but two entirely different spirits looked out of Irene's bright blue eyes and Louise's appealing brown ones. I watched them playing. When Irene said something Louise went. If she didn't snap out of it in a hurry, too, Irene called her a name or gave her a push.

Here was tyranny. The worst of it was that when Irene chose to be kind, her sister was pitifully grateful. Just as the mother was afraid of breaking the older child's spirit, that young lady was doing her best and succeeding, in subjugating her sister.

"What would you do?" asked the mother. "Shall I take Irene in hand and punish her?" Separate them. "No, don't do that. It would be a long war and, after all, there is nothing gained by trying to rob a child of a strong will. Divert it, that's all. Keep her busy with other things. Get some outside interests for that will of hers to dig its teeth into."

ANOTHER UNSOLICITED TRIBUTE FOR ALL-BRAN

Good news for sufferers from constipation

Mrs. Kiell sat down and wrote us a letter when she had proved ALL-BRAN a safe "sure-cure" for constipation. Read her voluntary tribute: "I have been using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN for quite some time and I want to tell you how much I appreciate it. I have found it a sure-cure for constipation, and there is a reasonable regularity for the stomach. After using it, my family and I certainly will not be without it. I have even gone so far as to send some of it to my mother in Florida, Europe."

Perhaps you know what a terrible affliction constipation is. Brightening wherever it thrives. Ruining health, marring beauty. Causing headaches, back pains, foul breath, loss of sleep—indeed, leading to more than forty serious diseases.

But did you know it can be easily relieved by a pleasant cereal food? Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to bring relief. Eat two tablespoons daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Serve with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Use in cooking. At grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Texas Wants Dry Enforcement, Says State Treasurer

State Treasurer Declares Smith Would Have Tried Enforcement; State Needs Plan

By Associated Press. AUSTIN, Nov. 9.—The people of Texas are prohibitionists and demand the enforcement of the prohibition laws, both state and federal, is the outstanding question to be made from results of the election, W. Gregory Hatcher, state treasurer, said today.

"They have executed a mandate to every office, from president to constable, to enforce the prohibition laws and every enforcement officer in this state should heed that mandate," he said.

"If I were a member of the legislature, I would vote at least $50,000 to the governor for law enforcement purposes, and if I were the governor of this state as the attorney general and could not enforce the prohibition laws, I would resign."

No Reflection Meant. Hatcher said his statement was not meant as a reflection upon the governor's past record, but "is a guide for the future."

He said he voted for Governor Smith because he "believed he meant what he said" and that he would enforce the Volstead act as long as it was the law.

He said talk of party reorganization at this time is "out of place."

Many Northerners Here. Touching on the breaking away of portions of the "solid south" to Florida, North Carolina and Virginia have received "during the past decade a tremendous influx of population from the northern states and these newcomers are now taking advantage of the first opportunity to follow the traditions of their fathers and vote the republican ticket, and cannot be criticized for doing so."

Nevertheless, the democrats, whenever the show-down comes, as it does come in the democratic primaries, will continue to uphold the traditions of the democratic party, and that party is indestructible," he said.

Is Flying Student Army Flier Studies At University

AUSTIN, Nov. 9. (AP)—The exacting daily program of an army officer and distance aviator, Charles E. Kelly, is being carried out at the University of Texas. He is working for a doctor's degree, having already obtained bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees from the University of Illinois.

His duties as an instructor at Kelly Field keep him busy from 8 a. m. until 1 p. m., but on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays he "saddles up" his plane and hops off for Austin and the University studies at 1:30 p. m. and is usually taking up his class work at 2 p. m. Study period over, he flies back to San Antonio. It requires Lieut. Andrew almost as long to get from San Antonio to Austin as it does for him to negotiate the 80 miles between San Antonio and the capital city.

Three Club Boys Of South Plains Win Chicago Trip

W. C. Wright, Lamesa; Herbert Chesshir, Meadow And Spencer Hall, Post, To Attend Show

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 9. (AP)—Twenty-three Texas 4-H club boys will receive free trips to the International Live Stock Exposition at Chicago early in December as the result of awards in three statewide contests, winners of which have been announced in the extension service of the A. & M. College of Texas.

This group of prize winning Texas boys will assemble in Fort Worth Nov. 30 and leave that night for Chicago. E. R. Eudaly, swine specialist of the extension service, will have charge of the group during the trip.

Winners include: Richard Sela, Marshall; Hollis Dickerson, Broadus; L. T. Pelly, Celeste; Marcellus Miller, Arlington; J. R. Crow, Hillboro; Don Langford, Cainsville; Mack Behannon, Magnolia Springs; Marvin Kelly, Minden; Clyde Walker, Adamsville; Joe Hutton, Fairly; Paul Robinson, Midway; Wyman Smalley, Mahi; and Nathan Bacie, Longview.

The usual Friday clean up with no material price changes registered more liberal receipts are expected next week but the increased supply will be most noticeable in the stocker and feeder classes. Trade interests expect fairly liberal shipments of grass cattle from Colorado.

Top market short feed steers were offered this week, especially kinds scaling 1,150 to 1,300 pounds. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 13,000 against 10,205 a week ago and 17,900 the same day last year.

CHICAGO GRAIN CHICAGO, Nov. 9. (AP)—Anticipating the substance of the government crop report, grain traders today hoisted down and oats both to above topmost prices heretofore reached this season. The report shows 16,000,000 bushels less corn production than the average of last unofficial estimates, with farm reserve stocks of corn about 6,000,000 bushels below trade expectation.

Closing quotations on corn were unsettled, 2-8c to 1-1-8c net higher with wheat 5-8c to 7-8c up, oats at 3-8c to 5-8c to 3-4c advance, and provisions varying from 12c decline to a rise of 10c.

NEW YORK STOCKS NEW YORK, Nov. 9. (AP)—The stock market raced ahead without stopping for block signals today as the "bull" swept railroad shares upward for the first time in months piling up a total of sales the third largest in the history of the exchange.

Total sales were 4,996,100, almost duplicating yesterday's aggregate of 5,002,900.

Disregarding a tightening of the call money and a new high record of brokers' loans, prices generally were whirled upward, radio selling up 37 points at one time and a wide assortment of stocks closing 6 to 10 points higher. More than two dozen record prices for the year or longer were recorded.

The days industrial news was generally favorable. Steel input production broke all records for October, the weekly trade reviews reported continued improvement, and a number of corporations published excellent earnings statements.

A number of brokers have shown a leaning toward the rails for some weeks as a group less exploited than others in the protracted "bull" market, and which has shown considerable improvement in earnings power with the wide gain in revenue freight this fall.

The sharp upswing in radio followed publication of a statement showing earnings more than double those of a year ago.

Story Goes Far Philippines Ask for Magazines

STAMFORD, Nov. 9.—An example of the extent to which "West Texas Today," official publication of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce gives publicity to West Texas was cited in a letter from C. C. Williams, secretary of the Crosbyton Chamber of Commerce, to the headquarters office here. Williams says that a number of the extra copies of the October issue of the magazine which contained a story and pictures of Crosbyton were sent to his friends in the Philippine Islands who had expressed a desire to know more about this section of Texas.

went ahead about 3 points early in the session, then fell back nearly 6 points, but closed only a fraction lower.

General Electric, A. M. Evers, By-Products Gase, Liquid Carbonic, American Express, Archer Daniels Midland, McCrorey Stores B. Jewel Tea, and Gold Dust, climbed about 5 to 8 points to new peak prices, while Montgomery Ward was tossed up more than 20 points to a new record price and retained most of its gain.

Oils again encountered some profit taking, although Barnwell issues slipped up 2 and 3 points to new highs.

In the commodity markets, cotton was again in demand as results of the government crop report, but encountered some realizing late in the session. Wheat eased but rallied somewhat on commission house buying. Corn improved as bad weather continued to hamper hauling. Foreign exchanges were quiet and generally firm.

Fighting Bulldog Eleven Shows A Surprising Attack As Lubbock High Invades Plainview In Annual Clash

Westerners Come Back Strong After Plainview Takes The Lead In First Quarter; Schroeter, Bulldog Speed Merchant, Stars For Green

A fighting, charging horde of Lubbock high school Westerners overpowered and outclassed the Plainview High School Bulldogs 38 to 18 on the Plainview gridiron Friday afternoon in a wide-open exhibition of football strategy. The scrappy canines took the lead early in the first period, scoring two touchdowns before the Lubbock eleven could get its fireworks going.

Taking advantage of the Westerner's let-down following their struggle with the Amarillo Bulldogs, the green-jerseyed Plainview gridsters threw a scare into the Lubbock camp on the outset when Major Schroeter, fleet-footed Bulldog halfback, took the ball on the second play of the game and kicked his own right end for 55 yards and a touchdown, completely out-turning the entire Lubbock secondary defense. He was assisted by well-timed interference.

Southwest Elevens Prepare To Round Turn and Thunder Down Home Stretch In Garrison Finish

Stampeding Mustangs Must Eliminate Aggies, Bears And Horned Frogs Before Title Is Forthcoming

By HAROLD BANKS Associated Press Staff Writer DALLAS, Nov. 9. (AP)—With the Southern Methodist setting the pace by virtue of triumph over Rice and Texas, Southwest conference football squads will round the turn this week-end and prepare to thunder down the stretch in garrison finishes.

Ponies Pin Hopes On Two Gridsters

DALLAS, Nov. 9. (AP)—Their hopes of victory resting on the ability of Sammy Reed to toss passes into the hands of scurrying ends and Ross Love to rip the Aggie line, the S. M. U. football squad finished preparations today for the A. and M. clash tomorrow.

Longhorn-Bear Go Will Be Thriller

AUSTIN, Nov. 9. (AP)—With the University of Texas Longhorns stepping high when they left here this afternoon for the scene of battle, and hundreds of varsity fans and other loyal rooters prepared to go by special train and automobile to Waco tomorrow, the game between the Steers and the Baylor Bears Saturday may be a real worthwhile sports card.

Two Aggies Will Be Out of Lineup

DALLAS, Nov. 9. (AP)—Two Aggie regulars probably will be missing from the starting lineup tomorrow when the Farmers move on to Dallas for the contest that either will bring the Farmers deeper in the Conference standing or send them soaring by an unexpected victory over S. M. U.

Philetus McKinney, 60-year-old pitcher Mission, D. says he won't hang up his glove until he pitches a no hit-no run game. After he has had a little more experience maybe the National league will grab this youngster up—then he'll have his chance against the St. Louis Cardinals.

The scouts, who the last couple of years have been sending up all the pitchers with whiskers, must have overlooked a bet in McKinney.

Nibs Price, California coach, says he prefers brunet halfbacks to blonds. That lets out Minnesota.

Cardon Stanley Cochran, Mack's catcher, who was chosen as the most valuable player this year, used to be a dishwasher in Boston. Maybe that's where he learned about using the bean.

There's a grand chance for the inspired headline writer. Thus the story of Cochran's life might be titled, "From Dishwasher to Field." Or "Dishware to Whistleblow." And that'll be about enough of that.

Be that as it may, there is an end at Lebanon Valley named Heller.

Ernie Corcoran's six-point lead in the closing period. Several times the Tysonmen marched deep into the local's territory, only to be thrown back when near the goal line.

Tech Freshmen Display Powerful Offense To Down Simmons Reserves 25 to 13 In First Matched Contest

CRITES IS OUTSTANDING IN THE FIELD OF STELLAR BACKFIELD PERFORMERS; SMITH HILL AND BUCKLER SRINE

The 1928 football season will find a number of changes in the lineup of the Tech Tech Matador.

Having seen the first freshman team of the Scarlet and Black in action on the Tech field yesterday afternoon as they tore through the air, about the ends completed near aerial gains, blocked punts, three opening backs for great losses and showed a world of determination and fighting spirit to down the Simmons Reserve and Freshman crew, 25 to 13, one can easily make the above prediction.

The second touchdown came as the result of an intercepted Simmons pass by Hill who sidestepped through for 20 yards while his teammates did excellent blocking.

The third marker came as the result of another march down the field by the frosh, a pass Smith to Edmonds for 30 yards climaxing the score.

Coaches Ingston and Higginbotham then sent in a number of substitutes, who displayed as much fight as the first choice men but failed to make additional scoring headway.

In the third quarter, after an exchange of punts, a Simmons punt was blocked on their own 13 yard line. Tech was penalized for making two incomplete passes and then Crites stepped off 18 yards around right end for a touchdown behind a wall of interference.

The Simmons touchdowns came in the final quarter, largely due to a passing attack. Byron to Weatherly. Both passes gained 30 or more yards and the touchdown. It was the punting of Marshall, Florida youth, which staved off further Tech scores. His average was 47 yards.

For the first time, all can be said. From end to end, it stood like a brick wall and only on three occasions did it weaken to let a back through for more than 5 yards.

Spectacular Battle Promised Fans In Annual Tilt Between Tech And Abilene Christian College Eleven

Wildcats Arrive In Lubbock Early Today; Game Starts At 3 o'Clock This Afternoon On Tech Field

As the battle line is drawn between the Tech Matadors and the Abilene Christian Wildcats on the college gridiron this afternoon, two powerful football aggregations will be pitted in what promises to be the most spectacular exhibition seen on the local field this season.

The Matadors wound up training Friday afternoon with a light workout following the Frosh-Simmons game. Coaches Freedland and Payne pronounced the gridsters ready for the contest with the entire squad in splendid playing condition.

Coach Bugs Morris and his den of wildcats are due to arrive in Lubbock early this morning. The visiting gridsters will likely take a short workout on the Tech field some time this morning.

Advance ticket sales indicate that the largest crowd of the season will be on hand to witness the contest this afternoon. A large number of fans from Abilene are expected to arrive by automobile before game time. A special train was denied the A. C. C. students.

The probable starting lineup for Tech follows: Ends, Vincent and Hempel; tackles, Carpenter and Knowler; guards, Smith and Dewitt; center, Corley; quarterback, Laster; halves, H. Walker and Brothers; fullback, Hodges.

Saints Prepared To Drub Jackets

AUSTIN, Nov. 9. (AP)—Smarting under two defeats at the hands of the Howard Payne and the Howard University eleven was primed tonight to take the visitors' measure tomorrow, when they meet here.

The Jackets have won two games and lost none in the present conference race, while the Saints have played in six and won only one. The two games dropped by the Jackets by the Saints were by the slim margin of a single point, 7 to 6.

SCRIPTURE: He that loveth not knoweth not God; for God is love. In this way manifested the love of God towards us, because that God sent His only begotten Son into the world, that we might live through Him.-I John, IV, 8-9.

THE TEXAS POLITICAL SITUATION

Not for a moment does any one believe that Texas has gone permanently into the republican ranks. Fact of the business is did not go that way on November 6, in the state campaign. Governor Moody received a six-to-one majority over the republican candidate for governor, and all other state officers were elected as usual. While many people expected the state to go republican for the presidential campaign, the fact is that the republican party is going to depend altogether on how the democratic leaders are going to act. It has been plainly shown that the democrats cannot nominate just anybody for president, but must make all the democratic swallows fly.

The thing that we started out to say was that the leaders of democracy will need to keep their shirts on, and give this matter of future democracy a lot of good, sound, sane thought, before they say what is going to be in Texas in the future. They will need to be very careful how they "pop off" on what they are saying to the people, and what they are going to do. When they talk of the "bolters," they will have to remember that there were about as many of that kind as there were of the "Old Line Democrats" in the national campaign, and there are plenty of smart men on either side, and some of the very best men on both sides. The bitterness that has marked the past four months will not bring a solution to the question, and there will have to be a considerable toning down of things, and getting on a more sane-thinking level before there will be a reconciliation of the voters of the democratic party of many years standing, and those who have fled the track, as some would say, and who have joined the democratic nominee for president, believe in the principles of the republican party, but they were simply unable to get their consent to vote for a man of the type of the democratic nominee. The attempt of Chairman Wilcox of the democratic party to bait voters in Texas from the primary two years hence will avail nothing for the success of democracy. The threats of the Anti-Smith men to oust the old democratic leaders will avail nothing except to draw the lines tighter. The best plan we are prone to believe will be to be very conservative on both sides. Above treatment by either party will only serve to increase the present feeling and make the breach wider, and more difficult to heal. The split is not of internature as to the state, but on national issues.

The defeat of Governor Smith is history. He is now over, and gone, and the choice of the national convention at Houston, but the rank and file of the party never accepted him, and the big vote that he received throughout the nation will prove to anyone that the democratic party is not dead, but the leaders are going to have to use better judgment as to who they nominate for the presidency in the future. The Texas people, as well as many other states are doing some thinking themselves, and are not going to be governed entirely by party lines any more, but will speak their sentiments at the polls, and if the democrats expect to hold the Southern votes and get Northern democrats to vote with them, the type of man that is selected by the convention is going to have to represent a more favorable condition than was found in Governor Smith if the democrats of Texas or the South accept him. It is very evident that a Tammany man on a wet platform will never be acceptable to the democrats of the South and West. The party cannot afford to make this serious blunder any more. The leaders were either badly fooled in the sentiment of the people on the question of prohibition, or else they were fooled in thinking they could force a candidate of this kind down the throats of the prohibition people, or the friends of prohibition in Texas, and the nation as a whole would indicate. However, we see no necessity for turmoil in the democratic ranks in Texas. The same thing is to recognize the mistakes of the past year, and get down on a sane and sane plan, for operations in the future. As the old party will again stand firm to democratic principles. Fighting in the camps will not accomplish anything except disorder and make the future of the party in Texas uncertain.

Mr. Wilcox was duly elected state chairman in Texas, and should not resign. He should cease his attack on those who differed with him in the election, however, and seek a rehabilitation of the party. Anti-Smith democrats are only adding fuel to the flames by demanding his resignation. Instead of thinking about the future of the party and their state, they are listening to the individual ambitions of O. B. Colquitt, Tom Love and a handful of others who have nothing about the democratic party unless they are in the saddle.

Tolerance, on both sides, is still the big need in Texas and is the only solution of the democratic tunnel now prevailing.

The Remains. A colored man died without medical attendance, and the coroner went to investigate. "Did Samuel Williams live here?" he asked the weeping woman who opened the door.

"Search," she replied between sobs. "I want to see the remains." "It is so remains," she answered proudly.

And Falling Night. Fourth Clubman-And so you've sworn off drinking? Eighth Clubman-Yes, I'm doing it for the wife and children.-Judge.

STEWART SEES MELLON AS CABINET FIXTURE

BY CHARLES P. STUART Washington Correspondent for Central Press And The Avalanche

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.-As long as he lives and his party remains in power in Washington Andrew W. Mellon is practically certain to continue as secretary of the treasury. Andy likes the job. It gives him just the amount of mental exercise he needs to save him from ennui. He retired from everything else to accept it. At 73, next March, there is nothing for him to go back to. Out of office, the only thing left in him would be to die, and Mr. Mellon is far from ready to do that yet.

No other member of the cabinet could be so completely adrift without his portfolio. He is the oldest of the bunch for one thing. To be sure, Secretary of State Kellogg is only a year behind him, but Secretary Kellogg wants to retire and write his memoirs. Postmaster General New, nearing 70, admits that he wants rest. John G. Gargent, next in order in seniority in President Coolidge's official family, never did take charge of the justice department except to oblige his boyhood friend, Calvin, and prefers to spend his declining years fishing.

Secretary Wilbur, Jardine and Dwight F. and John J. Davis are comparatively young men, with many other than their official interests. Secretaries of Commerce and the Interior Whitney and West are only stop gaps.

The treasury post could hardly have been better adapted to Secretary Mellon's tastes and training if it had been made to order for him.

As for himself, he certainly fits into it. He is too conservative for some critics, but he knows the technique of his office as perhaps no secretary of the treasury ever knew it before. Even his worst enemies acknowledge his skill as a financier.

Mr. Mellon's greatest professional strength is his greatest weakness, speaking humanly-or vice versa. He has been one of the world's richest men all his life.

Millions of money are so familiar to him as the alphabet. There is nothing awe-inspiring to him in the discussion of questions of taxation or international indebtedness running into 10 figures. The average judgment totters at the mention of such sums. Secretary Mellon's reasoning powers are not affected by them a bit. He began reckoning in millions when he was so young that a calculation in billions falls to upset him today.

Mr. Mellon, in short, is a good deal of a mystery to the average individual.

On the other hand, the average individual is a mystery to Mr. Mellon.

Never having had the average individual's problems to face, Mr. Mellon not only knows nothing about them; it naturally is impossible for him to realize that they exist for anybody.

This blind spot in him shows in many of his policies.

In fact, Mr. Mellon's mind far more readily grasps the idea of a billion dollars than it grasps the viewpoint of the average individual.

A total inability to feel and see like the overwhelming mass of his fellow citizens obviously is a heavy handicap to any man in high political office.

Mr. Mellon thinks in cash. To be popular a politician must think in terms of human beings, too.

POISON GAS HAZARD OF POOR HEAT APPLIANCE

BY DR. MORRIS FISHER Editor Journal of the American Medical Association And of Hygiene, The Health Magazine

With the coming of cold weather householders use more gas for heating purposes and decrease ventilation by closing doors and windows. As a result there begin to develop increasing numbers of cases of poisoning from carbon monoxide, which is the same dangerous poison that occurs in automobile exhaust gas.

So many cases are reported each year that the Department of Commerce has issued a bulletin warning people against breathing the fumes produced by improperly adjusted or poorly constructed heating appliances.

Symptoms. It is not uncommon for people to blame their symptoms, such as languor, headache and nausea, on automobile gases coming from the street, not realizing that the gas range operating in the kitchen of small apartments, particularly of kitchen apartments, may provide a sufficient amount of carbon monoxide gas to cause dangerous symptoms.

In one case investigated at the Pittsburgh Experiment Station of the Bureau of Mines, it was found that the street air coming into the apartment contained less than five parts carbon monoxide for each million parts of air, an amount insufficient to produce any symptoms.

On the other hand, when the gas range of the four-room apartment was used for cooking, the amount of carbon monoxide in the air 15 inches above the range was over 700 parts for each million parts of air.

That amount of carbon monoxide will cause headache in an hour with more severe symptoms after longer exposure. The opening of a window and proper adjustment of the burners is usually sufficient to prevent danger from this source.

Air Outlets. It must be remembered that in many kitchen apartments, the room is not provided with direct outlets to the open air and that the hazard may be considerable.

On the side of safety it is well before the winter season arrives to see that the burners are properly adjusted, dirt and lint accumulated in the burners during the year is removed, and everything done that can possibly be done to secure complete combustion of the gas.

The Way Of The World

BY GROVE PATTERSON

THE GOOD OLD DAYS You have heard of the man who wants all automobiles demolished. He longs for the horse and buggy days. Poor fellow. He forgets the horse and buggy era was the time of 12 and 13-hour schedules for factory employes, working seven days a week. He forgets that machine production is shortening the working day.

CANT PREDICT. No one knows how short the working day will become. A Chicagoan thinks many of us live to see a three-hour period of daily toil. That seems impossible, but who dare say it is? Yesterday's impossibilities are today's realities.

FREE TIME With more leisure will come greater opportunity for individual improvement. There should be time for those who aspire to write to study and practice. Time for those who admire musical talent to develop themselves. Time for more of us to help our handicapped friends.

AHEAD When ancient Athens was in flower some of the Athenians produced great works of art. But well rounded lives were lacking. The upper classes had no genuine interest in the workingman, save as a slave. Philanthropy was starved.

Greater things are head of the world than any of the seven wonders of the past. And the machine will be the instrument of achievement.

PERSONALITY'S WORTH The man with the strong and attractive personality is the one who gets ahead in the engineering profession. A survey by an engineering society shows that technical knowledge plays a fifteen per cent role in success. The other eighty-five per cent is due to personality.

JOPE FOR SHIPPING BUSINESS SEEN

By LORD KYLSANT Chairman of the Royal Mail and White Star Lines

(Lord Kylesant was born March 25, 1863. He is chairman and director of several steamship companies and is president of the federation of chambers of commerce of the British Empire. In 1904 he was high sheriff of Pembrokeshire and he owns over 4,000 acres in Carmarthenshire and Pembrokeshire. He is married and has three daughters.)

Shipping is not a national thing. It is a world thing, and a paradox about it all is that while a country such as America may be entirely self-sufficient in a number of things, the remainder of the world so no prosperous, yet the shipping returns for America are no better than they are for the remainder of the world, when the whole business is disturbed.

I have always been a traveler in my life; that is why I am not going to even try to guess which is right and which is wrong, possibly both sides are at fault, and possibly both sides are right in some points, but there is friction and rivalry between the two schools that should not be. The record has this to say in regard to the Vernon-Wichita Falls situation:

The protest filed against two members of the Vernon football team by Coach McCullough of Wichita Falls has naturally aroused considerable comment. The record does not pretend to know the merits of the two sides to the protest case aside from the information which has been given out by school authorities. From this it would seem that the Vernon players are eligible.

However, the Record has no desire to enter into a discussion of the conditions in the protest. Questions of this kind can be settled by the proper authorities. It is only fair to say that there has been altogether too much protesting involved in athletic relations between schools of this district. Surely, it is possible to investigate questions of eligibility and have them definitely settled earlier than a day or two before games are played. It was done this year in some cases, including one which involved a Wichita Falls player. It should be done as to all players.

But so far as playing Saturday's game again that should not be seriously considered. It was played to a decision on the field and that decision should be allowed to stand, unless it is found that eligibility rules were violated. If Vernon violated the rules, Vernon should pay the penalty and forfeit the game to Wichita Falls. If both played ineligible men, and this is not unlikely if playing basketball in an unofficial game in a rural community comes a year of high school competition, the decision on the field should still be allowed to stand.

For the past three or four years, if memory is correct, most if not all the games played between Vernon and Wichita Falls have been protested. This ought not to be the case. A way ought to be found to bring the protesting habit to an end. There has been and still is too much tendency to engage in detective work trying to find something wrong with a player on another team. There has been, no doubt, too much of a tendency to "get by" with practices of questionable legality. This time might be more profitably employed in trying to turn out teams that could win on the field.

No game should ever be questioned, except for reasons that are clearly in violation of rules. Vernon protested a year or two ago, after a game was played to a decision, the right of a person not employed by the school board to assist in coaching.

RE-SENSIBLE There is talk among the vicious "Hoover democrats" in Texas of re-organizing the party from top to bottom, kicking out the leaders who conducted the fight in behalf of the national ticket.

One of the biggest blunders the party leaders made in this state in pre-election days was their attempt to lead the so-called bolters out of the party. Threats of expulsion were made with denial of the right to participate in democratic primaries two years hence. That attitude no doubt kept the ticket many votes.

And now the victors are getting ready to adopt the tactics of the vanquished. It does look like the victors would take a lesson from the defeat of the losers, but apparently they are bent on burning their fingers at the same fire.

The best thing the party can do in this state is to forget the animosities of the recent campaign. After all, the national war had little or nothing to do with state politics. The democratic party in Texas is still in fact-unless the vicious element insists on repeating the blunders made by the losers. The party is bigger than any individual or group.

Floydada Faces House Shortage; Building Is Good

Approximately $150,000 Is Spent on New Homes During Year; All Built-in Modern Style

(Special To Avalanche) FLOYDADA, Nov. 9.—Spending $150,000 for new homes since January 1, and several additional thousands for improvements—Floydada today faces a shortage of rent houses. Constructing $145,000 worth of new business establishments has not lessened the demand for well located brick business buildings and at the present time there are buildings under construction that total more than $90,000 in building permits and additional buildings are being planned. Since January 1, 1923 the building permits issued by the City Secretary total $282,112.50, which when added to those issued during the closing months of 1927, when the announcement was made that construction would begin on the Quamah, Acme & Pacific railroad into Floydada, totals more than $600,000.00.

All Are Modern Homes A very noticeable feature about the construction of new homes in Floydada is the fact that practically all of them are of the most modern type and built substantially and are a credit to the growth of the city. The permits for new homes represent approximately seventy-five new residences. Outstanding among these is the beautiful $8,000 colonial type home now nearing completion in the Massee addition, the property of O. P. Rutledge. This addition, located in West Floydada, promises to be exceptionally well filled with beautiful new homes as plans are being made at the present for the erection of several additional residences in this section of the city. A $6,000 home built by B. P. Woody in South Floydada is a well constructed brick veneer and adds much to the appearance of that section of Floydada. Other homes to be built since the first of the year include four on West Kentucky Street by W. P. Dally; one each by C. W. Ghm, Elmer Wood, Mrs. N. A. Armstrong, L. J. Welborn, R. A. Some, Bedford Estate, A. A. Bishp, Mrs. S. A. Greer, Oliver Allen, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. G. V. Slaughter.

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR NOV. 11, 1924.

General Topic: Peace and Good Will Among Men.

Scripture Lesson: Romans 12:1-2-9-12.

1. I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, to present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable to God, which is your spiritual service.

2. And be not fashioned according to this world; but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is the good and acceptable and perfect will of God.

3. Let love be without hypocrisy. Abhor that which is evil; cleave to that which is good.

4. In love of the brethren be tenderly affectioned one to another in honor preferring one another.

5. In diligence not slothful; fervent in spirit; serving the Lord.

6. Rejoicing in hope; patient in tribulation; continuing steadfastly in prayer.

7. Communicating to the necessities of the saints; given to hospitality.

8. Bless them that persecute you; bless, and curse not.

9. Rejoice with them that rejoice; weep with them that weep.

10. Be of the same mind one toward another. Set not your mind on high things, but condescend to things that are lowly. Be not wise in your own conceits.

11. Render to no man evil for evil. Take thought for things honorable in the sight of all men.

12. If it is possible, as much as in you lieth, be at peace with all men.

13. Avenge not yourselves, beloved, but give place unto the wrath of God; for it is written, vengeance belongeth unto me; I will recompense, saith the Lord.

14. But if thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him to drink; for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire upon his head.

15. Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good.

16. Time: The Epistle to the Romans was probably written in A. D. 57.

17. Place: It was written in Corinth.

18. Golden Text: Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good.

Introduction

With this twelfth chapter begins the second or practical part of the Epistle to the Romans, as distinguished from the dogmatic, theological part, chapters 1-11. The matter of "getting along with people" is first taken up in a very general way, in many relations. Verse 18 might be regarded as the chapter's keynote.

"Peaceableness may not be one of the most admired, but it is certainly one of the most Christlike of all the Christlike of all Christian characteristics. For Jesus was such a peaceable man! A song of peace celebrated his nativity and peace was his parting benediction. It is a constant theme and sequence of the love that he teaches and inspires. Hate begets hate; and therefore makes for fighting; love begets love; and therefore makes for peace."

Transformed.—vs. 1-2.

"I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God." Therefore goes back to the whole of the preceding argument: "In view of God's mercy shown to Christ to a sinful world, I beseech you."

"To present your bodies a living sacrifice."

Now that Christ, the perfect sacrifice, has been offered up for sin, we have no more sacrifices of animals on an altar; but there is a sacrifice that is required of us, our bodies, that is, our lives.

"And be not fashioned according to this world." Literally, "this age," the transitory period of our mortal life, subject to sin and death. "This world is but an empty show;" do not let it take possession of you and determine the shape of your life.

"But be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind." Whoever is "in Christ" is "a new creation." "A new man." His mind or soul has become metamorphosed, and that has transformed his entire being.

"In Diligence Not Slothful." vs. 11.

"In diligence not slothful; fervent in spirit; serving the Lord." "In the matter of diligence, not slothful." The true follower of Christ will be industrious, doing more than his full share of the world's work; and he will show the same zeal in "his father's business." "In the matter of the spirit, fervent." Industry is not enough; the spirit in which we work determines the value of our labor. The Christian enjoys his work, is zealous in it, "boiling" in it—which is what "fervent" means in the Greek. "Serving" here implies bond service, the service of a slave. All our industry and fervor are consecrated to our Master, Jesus Christ, because we are his servants, proud to be his slaves, we are diligent and fervent. This twelfth chapter of Romans has been chosen, very appropriately, as "the Christian Endeavor Chapter" of the Bible.

"Rejoicing In Hope." vs. 12.

"Rejoicing in hope; patient in tribulation; continuing steadfastly in prayer." Christians can rejoice always, for a sure hope is set before them. They can endure patiently the trials which are certain to come to them, knowing that their Saviour, who bore so much heavier trials, will furnish all needed strength. They can "pray without ceasing," for prayer is talking with Christ, and Christ is ever by their side; how can they keep from the joy of converse with their friend?

"Weep With Them That Weep." vs. 13.

"Rejoice with them that rejoice; weep with them that weep." Christ at the marriage feast at Cana rejoiced with the rejoicers, and at the grave of Lazarus wept with the mourners, even though he was about to bring back the dead from the grave. Paul's letters are full of joy in the happiness and goodness of his fellow Christians, and we have seen how often he speaks of weeping over their sorrows. Sympathy with others is one of the chief sources of world peace and private serenity, and this sympathy will show itself as freely and beautifully in rejoicing over their good fortune as in grieving over their misfortune.

"Live Peaceably With All Men." vs. 14.

Our apostle, enjoining peace with all men (ver. 12), seems to realize how exceedingly difficult it's going to be, for the most of us, to carry out his command: "If it be possible, as much as in you lieth, be at peace with all men." Paul himself found it no easy matter to be a peaceable man! Read verse 12: "continuing steadfastly in prayer." That will help. I can do the impossible, even, says the apostle in another place, "through the Christ which strengtheneth me." (Phil. 4:13). And his Lord's confirmation is echoed back, yea, my grace suffices! (2 Cor. 12:9). Anyhow, the Christian is not to be "fashioned according to this world," is not to be "overcome of evil."

The Oneness of the Human Family.

"Many Members—One Body." vs. 4.

While Paul's figure of the many-membered body applies directly to the church, we are justified in extending it to the whole human race. Humanity has a oneness in God the Creator comparable to that of the church in Christ. The creation story of Genesis, taken either literally or figuratively, compels us to regard every member of the human species as our brother or sister. Paul stated the truth biologically to the Athenians: "hath made of one blood all nations of men" (Acts 17:26). How true the figure is socially we are coming to recognize more and more clearly every day, as modern discoveries and inventions are bringing the four corners of the earth into one little corner.

The League of Nations

"In four years the League of Nations has snuffed out, or headed off six wars, any one of which might otherwise have developed into another World War. These were: Sweden versus Finland, Jugoslavia versus Albania, Germany versus Poland, Poland versus Lithuania—all over disputed territory.—Bulgaria versus Roumania over a question of refugees, and Italy versus Greece over certain murders and the occupation of Corfu.—The League has resuscitated Austria, and this resuscitation became the economic miracle of Europe. Today it is doing the same thing for Hungary and Albania. . . . The League has many to its credit. It has stopped the spread of disease from one country to another, such as typhus from Poland; it has limited the opium trade and reduced the white

Terry County To Hold Institute

(Special To The Avalanche) BROWNFIELD, Nov. 9.—Dates for holding the Terry County Teachers Institute, have been set for Friday and Saturday November 22-23 and letters are being mailed to teachers, notifying them of it. Organization of the Terry County Institute was effected last year and the success attained was so pronounced that it was decided to continue permanently. For the last several years teachers of this county have been in attendance upon other institutes but the expense became so heavy upon teachers who lived at a distance that trustees arrived at the conclusion that our best interests would be served by holding the affair nearer home. Instructors from the Technological college and Littlefield colleges have been secured and it is the aim of the committee to provide other entertainment for the visitors.

PAVING COMPLETED

(Special To The Avalanche) LITTLEFIELD, Nov. 9.—The paving of the streets of Littlefield is nearing completion. Main street has been thrown open to the use of the public and will be formally presented to the city at fitting ceremonies Saturday of this week. The Littlefield band will furnish music for the occasion.

Horse Remembers His Conquerer

Crack Army Horse, Once An Outlaw, Greets Officer Who Trained Him, With Kiss After Separation

(Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to The Avalanche)

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 9.—A horse never forgets! And Whiskey, once a Montana outlaw, but now a regular army horse stationed at Fort Snelling, near Minneapolis, is no exception. He has demonstrated the high order of intelligence of his kind.

After two years and seven months of separation from the man who trained him, loved him, and then left him, Whiskey has shown that he couldn't forget by singling out his old master from a group and planting a welcoming back kiss squarely upon his lips. It was a real reunion. His master is Lieutenant W. R. Hazelrigg, formerly stationed at the fort.

Whiskey arrived at the fort with a shipment of outlaws, horses that roam the Montana plains untraced. He soon had the reputation of being the meanest of the lot—and any cowboy will tell you that a Montana outlaw can be pretty mean.

Hazelrigg, looking for a horse to break and train, picked him out. Under his care and tutelage Whiskey soon became one of the most famous of the army horses. Then, just as they had become inseparable, the lieutenant was called for service in the Philippines. He had to leave Whiskey behind—because quarantine regulations would prevent his return to the United States.

In the two years and seven months of separation Whiskey was neglected, and cumbered by a great many persons. But he fretted for his master, Hazelrigg, in the Philippines, missed his mount. And so, his foreign service over, he hastened to Minneapolis and Fort Snelling.

The Reunion
The lieutenant waited outside the stable, in a group of officers. A few moments, then the door opened and out came Whiskey. Without hesitation he trotted over to Hazelrigg, and remonstrated both his powers of memory and his affection for his master. Then the lieutenant dropped his cane, Whiskey picked it up and handed it back—one of the tricks the officer had taught him.

Lieutenant Hazelrigg has made application for the purchase of his old friend. But army officials say "No." They regret to refuse the request, but—there's any army regulation that stands in the way.

Under Hazelrigg's tutelage, Whiskey, a 14-year-old gelding, has won cup after cup at horse shows throughout the United States. The lieutenant trained him to jump hurdles—jumps at which other horses would shy. And yet they must part again, this man and the horse that could not forget him—unless some miracle happens.

Weatherly, New Town On South Plains Line, Has Unusual Growth; Business District Grows Rapidly; Future Good

Townsite Is Made From Old "Shoe Bar" Ranch; Town Holds Seven Memberships In W. T. C. of C.

(Special to Avalanche)
WEATHERLY, Nov. 9.—An example of the unusual growth of West Texas towns is cited in Weatherly, Texas, located 18 1/2 miles east of Turkey, and 16 1/2 miles west of Estelline, on the new Fort Worth and Denver branch line from Childress to Pinalview.

The plat of the townsite was made during the summer of 1927 from what was originally the "Shoe-Bar" ranch. Since then a cotton gin has been established, two mercantile stores have found business profitable, a post office has been built, a church building erected, more than a dozen residences built, and seven memberships in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce paid for.

Has Two Schools
Weatherly has two school buildings, and bonds have been voted to build another. The school district contains eighty-sections of land, and there is sufficient population to require five teachers.

Although the gin was not completed till late in October of 1927, over one thousand bales of cotton were ginned from the surrounding territory after that date. Maize, kafir, sorghum, wheat, oats, melons, and anything that can be raised in any section of West Texas will grow there.

Faces Promising Future
The town faces a promising future. Farming land ranges in price from $20.00 to $75.00 per acre, and a farmer that has a good working force and can furnish good references can rent good land on 1-3 of feed and 1-4 of cotton. There are some openings for share renters.

HELENA, Mont., Nov. 9. (P)—A proposal to enact the federal liquor prohibition law as a Montana statute to supplant the state enforcement act, repealed two years ago, was defeated Tuesday by a majority of 8,629 votes, incomplete tabulations today showed, though it carried in 28 counties. Eleven counties were unreported. The vote stood today: for 8,629 against 62,598.
