Hungarians Still Doggedly Resisting

Bitter New Fighting Breaks Out

VIENNA (AP)—Bitter new street fighting broke out in Budapest today and the Russian-supported Hungarian government ordered new measures to combat the doggedly resisting rebels.

Russia served notice she would brook no interference from the outside world in her fight to crush Hungary's bid for freedom. Premier Bulganin told President Eisenhower in a note that the question of Soviet troop withdrawals from Hungary was "completely and entirely" between the Russian and Hungarian governments.

The Red Hungarian regime's Budapest radio said Soviet troops and police forces were unable to quell shooting in Akacia Street, in Budapest's 7th district.

The broadcast said "armed gangs" were breaking into factories and others were attacking food trains en route to Budapest and carrying off the food in trucks.

Budapest radio sent out urgent appeals for food transport workers to go back on the job as the country verged on starvation.

Reports from refugees crossing the Austrian frontier said a general strike still is in force and the nation's railway system is paralyzed. Lack of coal, shortage of electric power, lack of clothing and a severe food shortage are heading the country toward more chaos.

Neither Soviet troops nor the government they installed seemed able to keep the situation from worsening.

Reports reaching Vienna said freedom fighters appeared to be maintaining a firm position in the ruined old castle at Buda, overlooking the capital, and several other strong points throughout the city.

Two more of the city's best hotels—the Royal and the Continental—went up in flames. Heavy rebel fire prevented fire brigades from getting near the blazing buildings, Budapest radio said.

The pro-Red government broadcast warned that new battle groups—labeled R-groups—are being formed to combat "brigands and plunderers" in the old Danube capital.

The rebels raided a state-owned store and carried off 5,000 radio sets, apparently to supply the capital with means to get news from the outside.

A Hungarian student arriving from Budapest said the people of all villages and towns he passed on his way were with the rebels. He said he saw several truckloads of Hungarian soldiers carrying the red, white and green "free" Hungarian flag and speeding toward Budapest.

Individual Soviet tanks were being attacked by civilians even in small villages, the student said. He added that he saw several abandoned armored cars.

Other reports reaching Vienna from Budapest said that all rebels who surrendered arms were executed instantly by the Russians in the city Rakosi Square.

A decree ordered officers and soldiers of the regular Hungarian army to remain inside their barracks.

Budapest radio denied reports that the former government of Imre Nagy had been arrested. The broadcast said Nagy has left the Parliament building—now in control of Soviet troops—of his own will. It claimed several members of the Nagy government are actively supporting the new regime.

There have been conflicting reports about Nagy. Some said he was in the custody of Soviet

Sudden Death

The body of a Hungarian secret policeman appears to be caught in slow motion as it crumbles face down toward debris in front of his Budapest headquarters. A moment earlier he had marched out to surrender to Hungarian rebels. No quarter was given. His body was filled with lead from rifles of vengeful rebels who stormed the building. The dramatic picture was made by Czech photographer John Sadovy, 31, for Life Magazine. Sadovy has lived all over Europe since he left home at 13 when Hitler moved into Czechoslovakia.

troops. MTI, the official Hungarian news agency, reported Sunday Nagy had fled to a "safe place." MTI at the time was in rebel control.

The Soviet-controlled Budapest radio also denied what it said were foreign reports that Josef Cardinal Mindszenty had been arrested. He was reported in the American Embassy in Budapest.

The official radio admitted insurgents under cover of darkness had plundered Budapest's western railway station and ransacked trains. Earlier the radio had claimed Soviet troops occupied all Budapest's railway depots. Red broadcasts spoke of "armed persons" and "armed gangs."

Russia's warning against intervention from beyond the Iron Curtain came in a reply from Premier Bulganin to President Eisenhower's note asking that Russian soldiers be pulled out of Hungary.

Bulganin, quoted by Moscow radio, said the question of a Soviet withdrawal "comes completely and entirely under the competence of the Hungarian and Soviet governments."

The Soviet Premier recommended that Eisenhower "get acquainted with the program" broadcast by the Soviet-installed Hungarian government of Premier János Kadar.

Bulganin's note seemed to spell continued failure for U.N. efforts to secure the Russian troops withdrawal and the entry into Hungary of a team of U.N. observers, both demanded in a General Assembly resolution last weekend.

The Assembly scheduled another meeting today to take up new resolutions (1) accusing the Soviet Union of genocide and violent repression, (2) calling again for Soviet withdrawal, free elections and U.N. investigation, and (3) asking the Soviet Union to stop interfering with distribution

Ike, Congress Leaders Talk On East Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and congressional leaders discussed the tense world situation for 2½ hours today. The legislators left the White House using such terms as "grave" and "serious" but there were expressions also of optimism.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas told reporters he thought the discussion had been "very fruitful and helpful."

"It's obvious that it is a very serious situation," Johnson said.

House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts said that "of course it is a grave situation but I am still optimistic about a settlement in the Middle East."

Johnson said that as far as the Democrats are concerned "We will give responsible consideration to any administration suggestions and we will not play politics with foreign policy."

Altogether, 23 Democratic and Republican leaders of the Senate and the House met with the President and his advisers to review the situation in Eastern Europe and the Middle East.

Eisenhower was quoted by some of a large group of conferees as saying that no one could foresee what might happen in the troubled Middle East situation but as believing that the peak of the crisis there may have passed.

The President was quoted, too, as saying he was constantly alert to do anything he could to maintain peace.

Several conferees said there was extended discussion of the possibility that Soviet Russia might intervene either directly or indirectly to support Egypt against Britain, France and Israel.

The weight of administration opinion was said to be that Russia probably will not intervene.

On this point Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, was quoted as telling the conference that Russia would have great difficulty in moving any troops into Egypt.

Defense Department officials have received reports that Russian MIG jet fighters and other equipment have been sent to Syria, Arab nation adjoining Israel.

Chairman George (D-Ga) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said after the conference he does not believe there is anything in the situation "to be alarmed about suddenly."

George said there was no suggestion that Eisenhower was thinking of calling a special session of Congress, nor was there any indication, George said, that the President had any plans for another conference with the congressional leaders.

Despite severe criticism during the political campaign by Adlai E. Stevenson of Eisenhower's foreign policy, George said, no Democrat at today's conference voiced any criticism of the course the administration has pursued in the Middle East.

U. N. Police Force In Hungary Hinted

Bombs Hit Workers' Homes

A man inspects the ruins of homes at Helipolis, a suburb of Cairo, which were struck by bombs from Anglo-French planes that missed their objective, the nearby Almaz military airfield, according to the caption supplied by Cairo. The caption said homes are those of workers for the Helipolis Metro Company, several of whose cars also were struck by the bombs.

Lodge Warns Soviets To Leave Nation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. declared today the Soviet Union not only had ignored the U.N. order for noninterference in Hungary but had actually "stepped up its attacks."

The U.S. delegate, addressing an emergency session of the 7-nation General Assembly, called the actions of the Russians "utterly revolting." The attacks, he said showed a "horrible callousness" to human suffering.

Lodge warned that refusal of the Soviet government to end the fighting and withdraw its forces from Hungary would make it necessary for the assembly to consider what further action can be taken.

"If the desired results are not obtained," he said, "we must re-raise the situation."

Lodge hinted at a resolution to form a U.N. police force to oversee a return of Hungarian independence.

Five nations introduced a resolution accusing the Soviet Union of genocide and violent repression. Genocide is the planned destruction of a nation, people or group.

The sponsoring nations were Cuba, Ireland, Italy, Pakistan and Peru. They called for withdrawal of Soviet troops from Hungary and free elections there.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov said he would study Lodge's remarks and reply later if he thought it necessary.

Lodge said he hoped U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld would press forward with his efforts to send observers to Hungary and to investigate the situation there.

"We want to know at the earliest possible moment the replies of the Soviet Union and the Hungarian government," Lodge said.

He told the Assembly that heavy fighting still is going on in Hungary, with the Russians firing on hospitals and Red Cross missions of mercy.

Pending the outcome of the U.N. efforts to get the Russians out of Hungary, Lodge said, the Assembly should act quickly to aid the thousands of refugees who have fled from Hungary.

He pressed for approval of a U.S. resolution calling on the Russians to stop interfering with the distribution of food and medical supplies in Hungary. The U.S. plan also urged all U.N. members to give emergency help to the refugees.

Lodge declared the Russians already had paid a heavy price for their actions in Hungary. He cited the wave of anti-Communist demonstrations and added "in Western Europe people are leaving the Communist party in droves."

"Let us see what world opinion can do," he said.

Kuznetsov replied with a bitter attack on the Western Powers.

"The delegations of the United States, United Kingdom, France and other countries," he said, "are using the United Nations forum to incite reactionary Fascist groups to organize new pogroms and to divert public attention from the armed aggression in Egypt."

Mass Of Cold Air Hits Texas, Drops Mercury

A mass of cold air pushed into the state Friday, sending temperatures below freezing over most of North Texas. Dalhart recorded the low of 25.

Frost was heavy in most of the north and northwest.

The cold snap came from a high pressure area centered over the extreme Northeast Texas. The high pressure area was moving slowly southeasterly and as it moves on, the Weather Bureau said winds will switch to the south and temperatures will rise.

Other freezing temperatures Friday included Abilene and Lubbock 27, Lufkin 28, Junction 28, Texarkana and Amarillo 29, Dallas, Fort Worth and Van Horn 30 and Wichita Falls 31.

Temperatures dropped into the 40s even in the extreme south portion. Other minimums recorded included 34 at Waco and College Station, El Paso 35, Beaumont and Alpine 36, Houston 38, San Antonio 42, Del Rio 45, Laredo 48 and Brownsville 49.

Thursday's high was 75 at Brownsville, Wichita Falls and Amarillo had no higher readings than 50.

The season's coldest weather chilled most of the eastern half of the nation today.

Snow flurries fell on Alabama.

At Mobile, with temperatures around 40, topcoats were in style.

The cold air embraced the Southern Plains and in most areas east of the Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic Seaboard. Florida, however, hadn't felt the sting of the chilly breezes.

Southern California was having an autumn heat wave. Temperatures were in the 90s again yesterday, the third day of above 90 marks. The 95 at Los Angeles was a record for the date.

Snow flurries and rain showers spread from the Ohio Valley and Tennessee eastward to the coast in Virginia and North Carolina during the night. The Weather Bureau reported snow as far south as Birmingham, Ala., but amounts were generally light.

Loses 50 Cents On Sale Of Bull Calf

BURLINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Stanley Clifford, dairy farm operator, thinks it would have been cheaper if he just hadn't sold that Jersey bull calf.

Clifford sent the calf to a nearby sales barn to be auctioned off and the calf was sold.

However, Clifford got a bill for hauling the calf to the barn and for the sales barn's commission. He wound up owing 50 cents.

Midland Crash Probe Urged

DALLAS (AP)—The Aircraft Owners and Pilots Assn. said today it has asked the Air Force to "pursue with vigor" an investigation of a two-plane collision over Midland last month that killed seven persons.

Max Karant, vice president, wrote Air Force Sec. Quarles his group was not prejudging the accident despite what he called a "most disturbing" record of military jet planes being involved in collisions and near-collisions with civilian aircraft.

Five civilians and two Air Force pilots were killed Oct. 24 when a jet trainer and a light plane collided over a Midland residential area.

Karant said he has received letters of protest from several civilian pilots after the crash. He said they asked him to complain to the Air Force about what they called "hot-rod" jet pilots who buzz civilian aircraft.

Convicted Rape Slayer Nabbed

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP)—George Everett, 21, sentenced to death in the rape slaying of an Oklahoma beauty queen was recaptured by police in his own home town last night less than 24 hours after breaking jail with a companion at Panama City, Fla.

Everett's companion, Charles Sullivan of Falls Church, Va., was captured yesterday at Troy, Ala.

The two escaped Wednesday night. Sheriff M. J. Daffin said they were assisted by Dallas Withers, 33, held in the sex slaying of two boys at Panama City. Withers did not leave the jail.

Everett was awaiting disposition of an appeal from his death sentence. He was convicted and sentenced to death in 1955 on charges of raping, stabbing and strangling the pretty 21-year-old wife of an Air Force sergeant in their home Jan. 18 at Panama City.

First Ice Of Season Forms

First severe frost of the 1956 fall season struck the Big Spring area early today and observers said that the more tender growth was probably damaged by the cold.

Temperature dropped to 29 degrees during the early morning hours. It was said that this low reading was scored between 6 and 8 a.m. and the short duration that the sub-freezing weather held probably prevented more extensive damage to plants and shrubs.

Observers also reported a thin skin of ice formed over ponds—first ice of the autumn season.

Temperature had risen to 31 by 8 a.m. bringing an end to the freeze.

Egyptian Gunners Attack U. S. Consul

PORT SAID, Egypt (AP)—Egyptian tommygunners climbed to a second floor balcony and sprayed the living room of U.S. Consul Anthony Cuomo Tuesday night, narrowly missing him and wounding a vice consul, Cuomo revealed yesterday.

The consul, from Detroit, Mich. and Modesto, Calif., said he, Vice Consul Thomas Dickson of Kilgore, Tex., and two others were sitting in the second floor living room in the consulate when it happened.

He said he saw youthful Egyptian tommygunners leave the street and climb to an adjacent balcony. Then, he said they turned and opened up.

"The guns were pointed directly at me," Cuomo said. "I dodged and fell to the floor. I heard them chatter."

Others in the room took cover but Dickson was hit by flying glass and suffered a cut head. The gunmen disappeared after their quick bursts.

"There was no doubt who they were shooting at," Cuomo said.

The consul, who played a key role in bringing about a cease-fire in this shell and bomb battered area, said he has asked the United States to rush food and medical supplies to the area, where 250,000 persons are threatened by famine.

He said he is also in contact with Egyptian and French-British authorities in an attempt to coordinate security and order. He presently is trying to get the Egyptian police force back on the streets. Looting is rampant in the shattered sections of the city.

Tuesday morning, shortly after the British began shelling the Port Said shoreline, the Egyptian military commander for the area telephoned Cuomo and asked him to intercede and to arrange negotiations, the consul said.

Cuomo, after lengthy telephoning, finally got in touch with French officers in Port Said. But by the time they called back, the Egyptian general had been captured by advancing British troops. Later through the intercession of the Italian Consulate here, Cuomo met with French and British leaders in attempt to arrange a cease-fire.

Demos Near Their Present Strength

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats were within one seat today of carrying their present House voting strength into the new Congress, with prospects of adding most of the five races still undecided.

In the Senate, they enter the 85th Congress with the same 49-47 margin over Republicans they held in the present Congress.

Democrats led in four of the five House contests still hanging from Tuesday's election. Their final margin may have to await official canvasses later this month.

But even without these, the Democrats were assured of at least 231 seats—13 more than they need for control. In the expiring Congress they held 232 seats to 203 for the Republicans.

The GOP, with 199 House seats apparently won, awaited a recheck of the vote in New Jersey's 13th Dist., where Republican Norman Roth had an unofficial lead of only two votes over Rep. Alfred D. Sieminski, Democrat. Results may become official Tuesday.

Democratic candidates led,

meantime, in these other contests still in doubt:

Kentucky 7th — Rep. Carl D. Perkins (D); Scott Craft (R).

Missouri 11th — Rep. Morgan Moulder (D); George H. Miller (R).

Nebraska 3rd — Rep. Robert D. Harrison (R); Lawrence Brock (D).

Washington 4th — Rep. Hal Holmes (R); Frank Leroux (D).

The Democrats came out on top in two other close contests decided late yesterday. Rep. W. H. Natcher (D-KY) defeated Republican R. B. Blankenship, and Democrat Charles H. Brown unseated the veteran Rep. Dewey Short (R-Mo), senior GOP member of the House Armed Services Committee.

Meantime, Democrats continued to challenge the apparent close victory of Rep. Hale (R-Maine) in that state's Sept. 10 election.

The Senate margin was determined when a see-saw Kentucky race ended in victory for Thurston D. Morton, former assistant secretary of state, over Sen. Earle C. Clements, assistant Democratic leader in the Senate.

Honor Medal Group Meets

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—The cool-headed corporal pulled safety pins from mortar shells and used them for hand grenades. He also used a lot of other ammo in killing 40 Germans while protecting his comrades.

That chap, who then was 23, was Charles E. (Commando) Kelly. His bravery in covering his unit's withdrawal near Altavilla, Italy, in World War II won him the Medal of Honor. It was the highest award his nation could give him.

Kelly today joins scores of other holders of this coveted award at the first meeting of the Medal of Honor Society. The society meets here for five days.

Arabs Stage New Raids

TEL AVIV (AP)—Arab commando bands from Jordan and Syria staged hit-and-run raids on Israel for the second successive night. Israeli army headquarters said today.

Military headquarters said six Israelis were wounded in as many attacks by commandos last night and early today.

C-C Panel To Urge Highway Projects

A long-range look at developing highways out of Big Spring was taken by the Highway Committee of the Chamber of Commerce Friday morning.

The group voted to send a delegation to Lubbock Nov. 19, when plans will be laid to seek inclusion of U. S. 87 from San Antonio to Raton, N. M., in the interstate system. The Highway Association has called this session, and plans on representation from all affected towns between the terminal points. Other portions of Highway 87 already are in the interstate network.

Local committeemen also voted to invite Marshall Formby of Plainview, West Texas member on the State Highway Commission, to Big Spring within the next few weeks. A luncheon probably will be arranged in Formby's honor, and he will be asked to give consideration to various highway projects affecting this immediate area.

The C-C committee determined to continue efforts for getting surfacing on the loop road which would connect the Big Spring-Snyder Highway with Lake J. B. Thomas; approved participation in any request that will go to the Highway Commission for a direct highway route between Snyder and Knox City; and also approved furthering a program for eventual direct connection between Big Spring and Post via Gail.

Bob Cook is chairman of the local committee.

Sweet Daddy Grace Replaces The Prophet

DETROIT (AP)—Sweet Daddy Grace looked over the former church of Prophet Jones and said that he was well pleased.

Admiring the white enameled organ yesterday, the Negro religious cultist commented: "I'd rattle off a tune for you but I've had to give up such things because of my fingernails."

Sweet Daddy's fingernails are over an inch long. They are painted with red, white and blue nail polish.

Sweet Daddy had just closed a deal with Prophet Jones to buy the church where Jones once officiated in vestments of white mink. The building originally was a movie theater.

Jones' throne, supposed to be a replica of Solomon's, has been taken away by his creditors.

Sweet Daddy said he would replace it with "something nice."

Daddy Grace also has plans for Jones' spacious mansion which he acquired a few months ago. He's having it painted red, white and blue.

Sweet Daddy Grace, who calls himself Bishop Charles Grace, is head of the United House of Prayer. His organization has churches in Washington, D.C., Ohio, California and Florida.

Jones, also a Negro who once claimed to be spiritual leader of six million people, has given up his religious activities in Detroit following his recent trial and acquittal on a morals charge.

He sold his 54-room "French castle" in a once-fashionable Detroit district to Sweet Daddy Grace to satisfy creditors.

Police Check Pickets

New York police push back pickets demonstrating outside the Park Avenue headquarters of Russia's United Nations staff. While a celebration of the 39th anniversary of the Red Revolution continued inside, a surging, shouting crowd of 5,000, many of them Hungarian descent, demonstrated noisily on the street. Later the crowd was dispersed. None was injured.

Hungarian Sympathizers Protest Russ Intervention

NEW YORK (AP)—Chanting "We want action," some 12,000 Hungarian sympathizers gathered in Madison Square Garden last night to protest Soviet military intervention in Hungary. The crowd roared with approval when told of President Eisenhower's decision to admit immediately 5,000 Hungarian refugees to the United States. Speakers at the rally included New York Gov. Averell Harriman, Sen. Clifford Case (R-N.J.), magazine publisher Henry R. Luce and Miss Anna Kethel, minister of state in the Soviet-ousted Hungarian government of Premier Imre Nagy. Harriman, former U.S. ambassador to Russia, attacked the Soviet's armed intervention which exposed, he said, "the criminality that lurks behind the new smile on the face of the Kremlin." Messages were read from President Eisenhower and former President Herbert Hoover. The rally was part of the committee's emergency appeal for one million dollars to aid the Hungarian people.

Wedding To Climax Political Romance

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—A romance that bloomed amid the hectic politics of a presidential election year culminates in January with the wedding of Gov. Robert B. Meyner and Miss Helen Stevenson. Of her romance with the governor she said: "I liked him very much at first. He told me he hoped he would see me in New York some time. He took my telephone number, but took three weeks to call me." She was working in the New York Volunteers for Stevenson campaign. "I think I got quite serious in July," Meyner said. Then came the question during the convention. The tall 26-year-old brunette displayed an engagement ring she said she selected. She said it was an antique ring bearing three diamonds set in gold. She said she did not think the 20-year age disparity between her and Meyner meant anything. "It's a matter of individuals," she said. Asked if they planned to have children, Miss Stevenson said, "I don't know the number, but we expect to have children." She said the honeymoon would probably be near the ocean and out of the country. Asked how long he planned to stay in politics, Meyner said, "Until the electorate says otherwise." Meyner a lawyer and politician was elected governor in 1953. He consistently maintained that while unmarried that he was not a confirmed bachelor.

Dies

Rep. Antonio M. Fernandez, (D-N.M.), above, a veteran of 14 years in Congress, died shortly after his re-election to another term in the U. S. House of Representatives. The created vacancy will be filled in a special election in New Mexico. A Democratic successor is taken for granted.

Shivers Honored By Oil, Gas Group

ABILENE (AP)—Gov. Shivers was honored last night by the West Central Texas Oil and Gas Assn. for his "outstanding service to the citizens of Texas." Shivers spoke briefly before he was awarded a plaque. "Texas is deeply indebted to the oil industry," Shivers said, "not only from an economic standpoint, but for its contributions in the way of civic leadership." Shivers said he is looking forward to Jan. 15, when he leaves office, as the day to start enjoying his family more. "But one of these days I might want to come back," he said.

Congress To Find Lausche Is Solidly Independent, Adroit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Big, 60-year-old Sen. - elect Frank J. Lausche will carry with him to Washington next January a solid reputation for independence. Capitol Hill also will find he is adroit. Lausche, the only five-term governor in Ohio history, a nominal Democrat but a Republican at heart. Lausche says, "I am an American first and a Democrat second."

That statement told the other 48 Democrats in the Senate: You will have 11 days — from the Jan. 3 opening of the Senate session until Lausche steps out of the Ohio governor's office on Jan. 14 — to organize the Senate. Lausche, of course, would be right back on the hook if the Democrats have not succeeded in organizing the Senate before his arrival in Washington. Lausche is the son of Slovenian immigrant parents, had a difficult and impoverished youth after his father's death, played professional baseball but abandoned that career for the study of law and fought his way to the top of the state's political heap at 48. He has stood at the top of the heap — alone — since 1944. Critics within his own party have hit hard at his "lone wolf" tendencies on grounds he has ignored the party organization to the detriment of other candidates. A popular saying in Lausche's own tight little camp: "Everybody is against Lausche except the voters."

He went to the Chicago convention in August as Ohio's Democratic "favorite son." But the convention ignored him. Lausche is an early morning violin player during periods of reflection. To many friends he has something of the mystic about him. His feelings wound easily. He was deeply disturbed when many ardent Democrats turned on him after the disclosure of his departures from party orthodoxy. But none of these things appear likely to cause him to move into the fold of Democratic party regularity. Lausche isn't made that way — and Ohioans apparently like him the way he is.

What will that statement mean in political performance? No prudent person would even hazard a guess. Consider the prime question which plagued Ohio's practical politicians during the campaign which resulted in a Lausche victory over Republican Sen. George H. Bender: "Will Lausche actually vote with the Republicans to organize the Senate?" As early as last June, Lausche let it be known he might consider just such a move (1) if he were elected to the Senate, (2) if President Eisenhower were re-elected, and (3) "on the balance of strength in the Senate." Many Republicans voted for Lausche Tuesday. Eisenhower carried Ohio by a record 827,000, but Lausche came out on top by 250,000. Now he holds the balance-of-power vote in the Senate, made up of 48 Democrats, 47 Republicans — and Lausche. Should the Ohioan with the unruly shock of iron-gray curly hair throw Senate organization into a 48-48 tie, Republican Vice President Nixon would be the tie-breaker. Lausche, however, has been "on the hook" before. Political friends and foes agree he is an expert at getting off. Only 24 hours after his election, he told newsmen: "I will finish my term as governor of Ohio. If the Senate is not organized by the time I am sworn in, I will then cast my vote, taking into consideration the composition of the Senate the fact that Eisenhower is president and such other matters as I believe are pertinent."

Lausche is the son of Slovenian immigrant parents, had a difficult and impoverished youth after his father's death, played professional baseball but abandoned that career for the study of law and fought his way to the top of the state's political heap at 48. He has stood at the top of the heap — alone — since 1944. Critics within his own party have hit hard at his "lone wolf" tendencies on grounds he has ignored the party organization to the detriment of other candidates. A popular saying in Lausche's own tight little camp: "Everybody is against Lausche except the voters."

Thomas Dixon of Kilgore, Tex., vice consul here, gave Lewis shelter in the consulate basement during the fighting. Dixon later advised Lewis to find a new vacation spot.

Lost 18 Pounds With Barcetrane

"I strongly recommend Barcetrane for taking off ugly weight quickly and easily. I lost a total of 18 pounds, reducing from 148 to 130." This is from a letter of Mrs. R. D. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the way to reduce, without starvation or calorie counting, return the empty bottle for your money back.

Boundaries Of Edwards Reservoir To Be Laid Out

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Water Board Chairman R. M. Dixon said today boundaries of the Balcones Fault Edwards Limestone Reservoir will be determined next week. A hearing yesterday determined 7 of 15 counties originally to be included in the reservoir were not part of it. A U.S. Geological Survey expert, Ben Pettit, said two reservoirs are in the 15-county area but they are not connected by underground streams. Making up the northern portion were parts of Real, Edwards, Bander, Kerr, Kendall, Blanco and Gillespie counties. Pettit said they contributed surface water runoff to the other eight counties in the southern, or Balcones Fault section. They are Kinney, Uvalde, Medina, Comal, Bexar, Hays, Guadalupe and Atascosa. The hearing to determine the reservoir's boundaries was a step toward forming an underground water district. The South Texas Chamber of Commerce is a main supporter of the plan, which would have created the largest underground district in Texas. The district, when organized, plans dams to provide recharge water for the Edwards Reservoir, depleted by drought. The seven counties not included in the Balcones Reservoir cannot be included in the district if they desire to stay out. Under law, areas which are not geologically (by underground seepage) connected with others may ask and must be excluded from any such district.

Frank J. Lausche, the five-term Democratic governor of Ohio, who unseated Republican incumbent George H. WASHINGTON — The Pentagon, alert to the recent shifting of Soviet forces behind the Iron Curtain, so far has discovered no sign of any movement of the Reds' long-range air force into position where it could attack North America.

Such an ominous move would foreshadow general nuclear war. And in these trigger-tense days, the United States is being ultra-cautious about making any shifts of its own Strategic Air Command units that might be misunderstood by the Kremlin.

In discussing the Russian long-range force, which now consists of medium and heavy bombers by the hundreds, one informed Pentagon officer said today that "so far as we know they are not poised."

He hastened to add that the United States didn't know a Japanese carrier force was en route in 1941 until bombs hit Pearl Harbor. But he made it plain that the devices of intelligence now are somewhat more reliable.

The Russian leaders, of course, might try to invade Western Europe—if they were so inclined—without using atomic weapons, thus inducing the Western Powers to abstain also from nuclear explosives.

If American strategy makers could learn the real reason for the Russian troop movements, their own planning would be easier. They are giving full attention to the possibility that Russian concern about new uprisings among the satellites, not any thought of war against the west, is back of the shifting of powerful army forces.

One Pentagon officer, talking about the prospect of outbreaks in Communist-controlled East Germany, Poland or Czechoslovakia, commented that the Russians have reason to know better than anyone else the fighting capabilities of those people.

This, then, could be the chief reason for Soviet deployment of up to 10 divisions in the area of the Polish border and a score or more divisions in East Germany, he reasoned.

A Joint Chiefs of Staff spokesman disclosed on Wednesday that because of uncertainty about the basis for Soviet troop movements, the Russian talk about intervention in the Middle East fighting and other manifestations of tension, U.S. commanders have been instructed to take certain precautionary steps.

One of them was to call off a routine training maneuver by naval forces and instead assemble the big carriers, cruisers, destroyers and other warships at sea off the Virginia coast.

Presidential Hopes Of Chandler Upped

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler's aspirations for the presidency apparently have increased with the passing of the onetime Clements-Wetherby political powerhouse into Republican hands.

The combine's collapse was completed late yesterday when the GOP's Thurston B. Morton went ahead to stay in his neck-and-neck Senate race with Sen. Earle C. Clements.

Former Gov. Lawrence Wetherby had been handed a resounding defeat earlier by John Sherman Cooper for the four years remaining in the Senate term of the late Alben W. Barkley.

Commenting on the election results at a press conference, Chandler said he will seek the Democratic presidential nomination in 1960 if he can get party support.

He said he thought he deserved consideration because he assumed the Democrats will be looking for a presidential candidate who "can run and win. I'm a fair runner—maybe as good as some they have supported."

Asked to comment on Adlai Stevenson's decisive defeat and the Republican senatorial victory in Kentucky, Chandler said it was his practice to go by the "scoreboard," indicating the results speak for themselves.

Uncle Ray:

Rooms Are Features Of Great Pyramids

By RAMON COFFMAN

A follower of this column writes: "Tell me, Uncle Ray, does the Great Pyramid really look tremendous to you when you see it out on the desert? Is it true that it creates a sensation of awe?"

"With a height of 451 feet, and with a width at the base of 756 feet, does it look so large that you feel you never have seen anything like it, and never will forget? Please tell what you felt when you saw this sight."

The Great Pyramid looked big to me, but it is far from being a single object "out on the desert." Within easy range is the Great Sphinx. Another huge pyramid (almost as tall as the Great Pyramid) also is nearby.

Many persons feel "awe" when they look at the Great Pyramid for the first time. My own feeling was marked by keen interest. I had read a good deal about the mighty structure during the years before I visited Egypt.

As to never having seen "anything like it," I could hardly say that. I had viewed the huge Pyramid of the Sun in Mexico. The Pyramid of the Sun is a bit less than half as high as the Great Pyramid of Gizeh, but the area covered by the base is almost the same.

The thing which interested me most about the mighty Egyptian pyramid was the inside. After climbing a short distance up one side, I came to the entrance to a tunnel.

After going through tunnels, I reached a room known as the Queen's Chamber. This room was completely empty when first entered in modern times.

Later I climbed to a higher point inside the Great Pyramid and entered the King's Chamber. In this room I saw a big coffin. The coffin is believed to have held the mummy of King Khufu, but the mummy is missing.

First To Get Poppies

Mrs. Foy Dunlap pins a poppy on the lapel of Dr. G. T. Hall in the top photo, while Mrs. R. L. Andrews installs a flower on Col. Charles M. Young in bottom scene. The two men, representing civilian and military elements of Big Spring population, made advance purchases of the poppies which will be sold here Saturday.

AL Auxiliary To Hold Poppy Sale Saturday

The American Legion Auxiliary will hold its annual "poppy day" sale in Big Spring Saturday. The red flowers, made by disabled veterans at Waco, will be on sale throughout the day, on the streets and in booths to be set up in the First and State National banks, Zales', Safeway, Piggly Wiggly and Newsom food stores and at poppy day headquarters in the Howard House lobby. Proceeds from sale of the flowers will finance the auxiliary's aid to disabled veterans and needy children of veterans, said Mrs. Foy Dunlap, the poppy sale chairman. Future Homemakers, Rainbow Girls, Theta Rho members, and Girl Scouts will sell the poppies on the streets. Auxiliary members will operate booths. Disabled veterans at the Waco VA Hospital have made the poppies from crepe paper and wire. The flowers are purchased after the wild poppies which became a symbol of battle fields in France and Belgium during World War I. With the exception of sums paid the veterans for making the flowers, all proceeds from Saturday's sale will be kept here to finance work of the auxiliary in assisting patients at the local VA Hospital and to assist needy children of veterans, Mrs. Dunlap said.

4-H Stock To Show In Odessa

Howard County 4-H club members will show lambs and steers at the Odessa stock show on Jan. 2 to initiate participation by local members in the winter stock exhibitions. Jimmy Taylor, county agent, said that other major shows in which Howard County animals will be shown this winter will be in El Paso, Fort Worth and Houston. At these shows, as well as the one at Odessa, it is planned to have large representation from the county clubs. Other shows at which a few animals may be entered will include those nearer to Big Spring. It has been the custom, Taylor explained for the local 4-H club members to send delegations with prize stock to the big shows named. Members of the clubs are now busy getting animals in shape for the opening show at Odessa.

Mrs. Kilpatrick's Rites Saturday

Israeli-British Agreements Spur Move For Police Unit

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Israeli agreement to pull its troops out of Egypt and Britain's announcement that it is withdrawing some military units from the east Mediterranean spurred efforts today to rush a U.N. police force to the Middle East. Prime Minister Eden told the House of Commons in London that many Royal Air Force squadrons would be pulled out of Cyprus at once. Eden also said British assault troops—paratroop and commando groups—will be moved out of Egypt's Port Said. He said they will be replaced by infantry units until the U.N. police force moves into Egypt. A dispatch from Famagusta, Cyprus, said a contingent of British paratroops already had returned there after spending three days on the Port Said beachhead. Eden said RAF ground units would remain on Cyprus, but it "will now be possible for many squadrons to fly home." "In an emergency," he added, "with the ground organization in existence, they can be redeployed in Cyprus and Malta within a matter of hours." He also said additional infantry reserves would remain on Cyprus. Quiet was reported on the Suez Canal battlefield as U.N. officials worked at top speed to mobilize the international police force. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold hinted that the first force of the U.N. force would reach Egypt "very shortly."

County Is Paying Election Expenses

The general election has now passed into history and all that remains to be done is to pay the bills. Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk, was busy Thursday afternoon signing her name to the 156 checks which are to be issued soon to the precinct workers and judges. The checks, after being signed by the clerk, go to the county treasurer. A study of the reports submitted by the precinct judges for the 17 voting boxes showed that the election called for the employment of 139 workers. In addition, there were 17 judges on duty — one for each box. The law states that the workers can receive $8 for their services and the judges $10. The number of hours worked is not an issue — the pay is for the whole job. Many of the precinct judges, in submitting their reports, listed the hours their staffs put in on the election task. Some precincts reported that workers were on duty for as long as 20 hours on Tuesday and Tuesday night. Total cost for help will run approximately $1,282. In addition, the county has bills for printing ballots and preparing election material and supplies. The supplies for the election cost $97.64. The ballots cost $254.94. Meantime, preparations move ahead for the Tuesday election of next week. Election supplies for the 17 boxes cost $97.19. Seven thousand ballots have been printed. These will cost the county $37.19. In view of the fact that only one matter is to be before the voters, it is anticipated that the vote will be extremely light and that the task of tabulating the returns will be small. As a result, most of the voting boxes will not have as many assistants as were required for the general election. Most guesses are that less than 1,000 votes will be polled. The only question at stake is the approval of a proposed amendment to the constitution dealing with a broader base for the state public welfare department operations. It is probably that the checks for the general election and those for help used on next Tuesday will be released at the same time.

Burglars Make Whisky Haul

Someone in Big Spring must be planning a big celebration, because they got five cases of whisky. The only trouble was they got it without paying for it; the whisky was taken from the Downtown Liquor Store, 206 Gregg, during the night. Police investigators reported the whisky, in half-pints and fifths, was taken from the store room in back of the building. Burglars broke a latch and lock off a back door and entered. Nothing else was bothered, the police said.

Two Accidents Reported Today

Accidents numbered two in Big Spring this morning. Both were classified as minor by policemen investigating. Shortly after midnight, Leonard Turner of Midland, and Emmett Grantham, 1111 Eleventh Place, were in collision at Fourth and Rannels. Turner was in a truck owned by the Western Oil Transport, and Grantham had a 1954 Chrysler. Ralph Grantham, 1906 Scurry, and Lillian Richard, 902 NW 2nd, were drivers of cars colliding at Settles and Tucson about 7 a.m. today.

Someone in Big Spring must be planning a big celebration, because they got five cases of whisky. The only trouble was they got it without paying for it; the whisky was taken from the Downtown Liquor Store, 206 Gregg, during the night. Police investigators reported the whisky, in half-pints and fifths, was taken from the store room in back of the building. Burglars broke a latch and lock off a back door and entered. Nothing else was bothered, the police said.

Two Accidents Reported Today

Accidents numbered two in Big Spring this morning. Both were classified as minor by policemen investigating. Shortly after midnight, Leonard Turner of Midland, and Emmett Grantham, 1111 Eleventh Place, were in collision at Fourth and Rannels. Turner was in a truck owned by the Western Oil Transport, and Grantham had a 1954 Chrysler. Ralph Grantham, 1906 Scurry, and Lillian Richard, 902 NW 2nd, were drivers of cars colliding at Settles and Tucson about 7 a.m. today.

County Is Paying Election Expenses

The general election has now passed into history and all that remains to be done is to pay the bills. Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk, was busy Thursday afternoon signing her name to the 156 checks which are to be issued soon to the precinct workers and judges. The checks, after being signed by the clerk, go to the county treasurer. A study of the reports submitted by the precinct judges for the 17 voting boxes showed that the election called for the employment of 139 workers. In addition, there were 17 judges on duty — one for each box. The law states that the workers can receive $8 for their services and the judges $10. The number of hours worked is not an issue — the pay is for the whole job. Many of the precinct judges, in submitting their reports, listed the hours their staffs put in on the election task. Some precincts reported that workers were on duty for as long as 20 hours on Tuesday and Tuesday night. Total cost for help will run approximately $1,282. In addition, the county has bills for printing ballots and preparing election material and supplies. The supplies for the election cost $97.64. The ballots cost $254.94. Meantime, preparations move ahead for the Tuesday election of next week. Election supplies for the 17 boxes cost $97.19. Seven thousand ballots have been printed. These will cost the county $37.19. In view of the fact that only one matter is to be before the voters, it is anticipated that the vote will be extremely light and that the task of tabulating the returns will be small. As a result, most of the voting boxes will not have as many assistants as were required for the general election. Most guesses are that less than 1,000 votes will be polled. The only question at stake is the approval of a proposed amendment to the constitution dealing with a broader base for the state public welfare department operations. It is probably that the checks for the general election and those for help used on next Tuesday will be released at the same time.

MARKETS

COTTON NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton was unchanged to 35 cents a bale at noon today December 33.85; March 33.97; May 34.11.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK (AP)—After a brief advance the stock market became mixed in early trading today. Stocks fluctuated from 100 to 100 1/2 in quiet trading. Initial gains came after two days of generally declining prices. A market box advanced a point or more, but then backed away but still kept much of their rise. Early rises were a continuation of the former trend late yesterday when there was more reassuring Middle East news. Brokers were encouraged by good corporate news also. Oil's recovery in the Middle East gained at the start, then slipped away. Douglas and United Aircraft kept gains of close to a point. Glenn Martin added a major fraction. Boeing was up slightly. Gulf Oil took a fractional loss. Texas Co. was steady. General Motors and Chrysler rose up slightly. Several Precision gained well over a point. American Telephone was up 1/4 at 17 1/2. United at 7 1/2 and Royal Dutch up 1/4 at 12 1/2. General Electric was off 1/4 at 6 1/2. Radio up 1/4 at 37 1/2. Lockheed up 1/4 at 5 1/2 and Union Pacific lost 1/4 at 20 1/2. Gains were made by Anaconda, Bethlehem Steel, International Nickel, New York Central and International Paper.

Chess Association
Realigns Schedule
With its membership more than doubled in the first week of its organization, the Howard County Chess Association last night made plans to rearrange its tournament into several round robins instead of the two originally planned.
A new affiliate was formed, to be known as the Center Chess Club. Gene Kirkpatrick is president, Jack Horn vice president, and Mrs. D. W. Cain secretary. S-Sgt. and Mrs. Cain and Donald R. Glasson were elected delegates to the HCCA council.
A report was heard that a chess club may also be started at the junior high school. At least six teams are expected to enter a county league. Plans call for teams of three players each.

To Speak Here

Joe F. Ramsey Jr., Texas commander of Disabled American Veterans, will speak at a meeting of the Big Spring DAV chapter at 7:30 p.m. today in the Settles Hotel. Ramsey, of Houston, is stopping here while on a tour of West Texas. All local DAV members and their wives are urged to attend the meeting. Ramsey is a World War II veteran and served two years in the South Pacific.

Veterans Day Observances Set In City Sunday, Monday

Observances will be held both Sunday and Monday in Big Spring to commemorate Veterans Day. Nov. 11 falls on Sunday this year, but many firms are taking Monday as the holiday. As a result, special services will be held on both days.
Veterans Day was formerly known as Armistice Day and was initiated after the Korean conflict. Annually, the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars hold a memorial service at the courthouse on the day, but since it falls on Sunday, they plan a special program in 1956.
However, the groups will sit in a body at the First Baptist Church Sunday morning, and the pastor, Dr. P. D. O'Brien, will center his sermon around the day's remembrances.
Other churches which will base services on the theme are Park Methodist, Wesley Methodist, Hillcrest Baptist, and the Webb AFB Chapel.
Although the schools will not close Monday, special programs will probably be held at each school. Superintendent Floyd Parsons said this week. The programs will be planned and presented by the individual schools however; there will be no central observance. Part of the city will be closed Monday, but most will not.
The banks will be closed and also Webb AFB and the courthouse. The city hall, which follows the lead of the Chamber of Commerce and the business establishments, will be open.
Nothing has been definitely said about the courthouse being closed, but it is usually left to the respective office directors. And in the past, a majority of the offices have closed.
Both civilian and military personnel will be off at the Air Base. No special programs have been planned, however. The same is true at the VA Hospital. Office personnel will not work and other duties will be held to a minimum to permit as many persons to be off as possible.
The post office will also be closed, and there will be no city delivery.
Nov. 11 was the day when the armistice was signed in 1918 to end the First World War. Since that time, it has been observed as Armistice Day to remember the men who fought in the war.
After the end of World War II, the nation had three days to commemorate — Armistice Day, VE Day, and VJ Day. Neither of the two days coming out of World War II had the significance as did Nov. 11, however.
Then when the Korean conflict came, veterans organizations wanted to honor the men who

Vote Surprise To Candidate

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — The first Democrat to be elected governor of Kansas in 20 years says his winning margin of 114,000 votes Tuesday was "a little more than I expected."
George Docking, a banker at Lawrence, Kan., made the comment yesterday when he visited Gov. Fred Hall at the Capital.
Docking upset the strong Republican tradition in Kansas by beating Warren W. Shaw, lawyer and veteran legislator. Observers agreed the Democratic victory represented a voter protest against bitter factional fighting among Kansas Republican leaders. The feud reached its height in the August primary when Hall sought the usually automatic nomination for a second term but lost to Shaw. Tuesday's tide for Docking also carried Democrat Joseph Hankle Sr. into the lieutenant governor's office.
Docking's margin of victory—114,000—is astounding when compared with the 267,361 majority Kansas gave President Eisenhower, who grew up in Abilene, Kan.

Cheats Death
Detective Ray Bryant of the Sydney, Australia, police, delivers a knockout blow to the chin of an unidentified woman to prevent her falling from her precarious perch on a 150-foot high cliff at Sydney. The episode of life and death struggle occurred at Pacific Ocean-side, a suburb of Coogee, near Sydney, and lasted three hours before the woman was safely rescued.

Daughter Born To The Tommy Harts

A nine-pound daughter, Carol Ellen, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Hart, 1750 Purdue, at 5:10 a.m. today at Cowper Hospital. She is the Harts' first child, and with her mother was in good condition at the hospital this afternoon. Hart is sports editor for The Herald.
Grandparents are Mrs. Dollie Mae Hubbard and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hart, all of Big Spring.

Wives Are Guests Of Kiwanians At Thursday Meeting

Wives of Big Spring Kiwanians showed up en masse Thursday at the regular luncheon meeting of the club for a "visit" with their husbands.
Mrs. J. C. Pickle, speaking for the wives, thanked the Kiwanians "for their invitation to attend the luncheon," and assured the club members of their "pleasure at being in attendance."
The wives kept their visit so secret that a majority of the Kiwanians had no advance knowledge of the plans until they found their wives waiting for them in the Settles Hotel lobby at club time.
Program for the day featured an address by Dean Ben Johnson of Howard County Junior College on vocational guidance and the work that the college does in its efforts to help young people make proper selections in careers and professions.
Joyce Howard was presented in two vocal selections.
John Coffey was program chairman for the day.

Postal Delivery Of Nursery Stock Nearing A Peak

Big Spring post office is more than happy to cooperate with the Gardening Council of New York and local garden clubs in a current effort to better handle the heavy mailing of nursery stock soon to reach its peak.
E. C. Boatler, postmaster, pointed out that the Gardening Council has prepared a poster and other material to better inform buyers of how best to make use of parcel post to receive shrubs, flowers and bulbs in good condition.
A copy of the poster will be displayed in the lobby of the post office, Boatler said, and he urged all householders who plan to order shrubs, flowers or other nursery stock by parcel post to read the information printed on it.
One important feature, particularly at the present season, has to do with the rather widespread custom of many persons making holiday trips. If you are to be away from home, he said, for a number of days and expect a shipment of nursery supplies, it would be most advisable for you to make arrangements with a neighbor to receive the parcel and take care of it for you until your return.
Many orders of such merchandise are damaged because postal authorities cannot make delivery to the recipient as quickly as it should be made.

Seventeen members of the Western Sportsmen's Junior Rifle Club received certificates last night showing successful completion of the 24-hour basic rifle course.

'Open House' Is Postponed

Date of the open house for the Northside fire station has been postponed until Nov. 18, city officials said today.
The open house was originally set for Sunday, but the city felt the additional week would give more time to prepare. Inspectors for Puckett and French, architects, found some areas needing correction, and the contractor, G. A. Jones of Lamesa, said it would take more than two days.
Thus, with the corrections and moving in the furniture, the city felt holding the open house Sunday would be too much of a rush. The furniture was purchased earlier and has been stored at the Eleventh and Birdwell station.
The station will not go into operation until after the open house.

Achievement Day Set At Forsan For 4-H Members

Thirty-five or more boys and girls who are affiliated with the Forsan 4-H club will participate in the achievement day program planned in the community on Nov. 17.
All members will bring lambs and other products to the event and the judging will be based on how the animals have been prepared and how they are shown more than on the individual merit of the stock itself.
Truett Vines will be judge. Vines is vocational agriculture teacher in Big Spring high school.
Bill Sims, county agent assistant, said that a barbecue is to be served at noon at Forsan for the club members and their guests. The barbecue is being provided by 4-H club leaders and parents of members.
Full details on the achievement day program will be announced later, Sims reported.

Boy Saves Child, Is Hit By Auto

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Roger Erickson, a Cub Scout den mother, asked cub Bob Jenkins, 9, to help her find her son after a meeting.
Bob spotted Roger Jr., 5, in the middle of the street. He ran out, snatched the boy and pushed him to safety, then was struck by an auto.
Bob, youngest of nine children of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Jenkins, was in good condition with a fractured arm.

Lesson Learned

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Two firemen underlined the moral of their "you can't be too careful with fire" demonstration.
Gasoline used in the demonstration fired off the cue, raising painful flash blisters on Robert Nelms and Bill Lakey. The burns were not serious.
Fire chief Ruff Coleman, after shipping the men to a hospital for first aid, said he was certain the lesson got through to the audience.

TELEPHONE COMPANY LOCAL TAXES IN BIG SPRING ARE ENOUGH TO EDUCATE 137 YOUNGSTERS A YEAR

What the telephone company means to Big Spring
EMPLOYER... provides good jobs for 111 of your neighbors who earn $411,100 a year—and spend most of it here in Big Spring.
TAXPAYER... pays $34,162 a year in local taxes alone—enough to cover the cost of educating 137 Texas grade school children for a year.
BUYER... buys thousands of dollars worth of supplies and services from Big Spring firms.
In just ten years, telephone growth has created 39 good, new jobs for Big Spring people—and greatly increased all our contributions to Big Spring's welfare and prosperity.
C. W. FISHER, Manager

Few people but the tax collector would care that last year the telephone company paid $34,162 in local taxes alone here in Big Spring.
But when you realize that this was enough to pay the cost of educating 137 Texas grade school children for a year, the importance of telephone taxes to everyone in the community becomes clear.
Big Spring benefits from telephone company activity in other ways, too... from the $411,100 payroll which helps keep business rolling in Big Spring... the many thousands of dollars' worth of goods and services the company buys from local people every year... the active interest that our 111 telephone people here take in community, church, and neighborhood affairs.
Most important of all, Big Spring can depend on good telephone service. We've put 6,520 more telephones in Big Spring homes and businesses within reach of your telephone in the last ten years—and added 22,741 miles of wire to tie us all closer together.
These are good examples of the way we can improve the value of your service and contribute more as good citizens when we can have faith that company profits will be fair and reasonable.

BSCT Stages Commendable Performance Of 'Blind Alley'

By SAM BLACKBURN
James Warwick's melodrama of a desperate killer and a psychologist — the latter pitting his wits and knowledge of the human mind against the ready gun of the gangster — offers a challenge to amateur, either professional or amateur.

The Big Spring Civic Theatre, Inc., has demonstrated in its brief history that the acting difficulties of a play do not awe the group in the slightest. As in its two previous productions, the Civic Theatre boldly attempts any script that strikes its fancy.

Across the board, the local actors handled the tough roles of "Blind Alley" adequately last night in the opening performance of a two-night stand planned for the production. There were rough spots in the performance, to be sure. The first act lags rather badly, but the cast gained stature as the play moved along.

Probably Saturday night's final production of the play will move a great deal smoother than did the opening night. The cast will feel more confidence and sureness of foot now that the inevitable opening night jitters have been removed.

Approximately 250 spectators were present for the show. The Howard County Junior College Auditorium was about half-filled at 8:30. Curtain time was set for that hour and it is certainly to the credit of the Big Spring Civic Theatre to report that the time it advertised as curtain time is strictly adhered to by the company.

George Lambert, cast as the psychologist, Dr. Shelby, was faced first of all by a monumental task in the number of lines he had to memorize and deliver. Few plays saddle more speeches on one performer than "Blind Alley." Lambert handled the difficult assignment very well and in certain moments soared to dramatic heights that were highly commendable. Nick Trapatsas, a veteran of Big Spring Civic Theatre productions, was cast in the role of the psychotic gunman. He had a difficult part to play — Hal Wilson of "Blind Alley" is so warped and twisted that his delineation of the role calls for acting almost so broad as to be caricature. There were many scenes when Trapatsas' performance was outstanding. He, like Lambert, was faced with almost continuous appearance before the footlights and with a tremendous number of lines to deliver.

Dixie Johnson was good as Dr. Shelby's wife. The role is not a fat one in the matter of speeches but it was difficult because of that very lack. She had to be on the stage for many minutes when all of the action had shifted to other characters and pretending sustained interest under such conditions is a difficult assignment for any performer.

Patsy Morton was Wilson's girl friend. Her characterization of the gun-packing tough gal was competently offered. Others in the cast were Marge Franz, Dan Feather Jr. (who was excellent in two brief scenes), Mary Archer, Jerry Baker, Dewey Magee and George Jacobus. The latter was really just an "off-stage" voice.

Magee was director and Robert Grew producer of the play. The settings were excellent, lighting good.

"Blind Alley" will be presented for its second and final time on Saturday night at the HCJC auditorium. Tickets are on sale by Big Spring Lions Club members and at the door. The curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

The Big Spring Civic Theatre Inc. is entitled to more generous support than it was accorded Thursday night. What it is attempting to do — bring live drama with local casts to Big Spring — is an effort which should be given every consideration and backing possible.

The group is doing exceptionally good work for so new an organization. You'd do well to make plans now to be on hand for the second showing of "Blind Alley." You'll have a pleasant and exciting evening if you attend.

5 Youngsters Die In Blaze

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Five youngsters died in their blazing home last night after the flames drove their mother screaming into the yard.

The bodies of Timmy, 2, Jack, 4, Laura, 6, Merle, 7, and Steven Lair, 9, were found in the ruins. All the children were asleep, the boys upstairs and Laura downstairs in a back bedroom.

Mrs. Jackie Lair, 26, apparently was dozing on a couch in the front of the house when the fire broke out. She told hysterically of trying to reach the back bedroom and the stairs to the second floor. Flames drove her back. She was not injured but was in shock and could not be questioned.

Police said the father, Ronald Lair, 27, was in Spokane city jail on a nonsupport charge. Firemen were unable to determine the cause of the fire immediately but they said it broke out on the second floor, where a new heating stove had just been installed.

An editorial in Al Ahram said "It affords us particular pleasure to express appreciation for this timely and effective U.S. intervention as a laudable contribution to the cause of world peace."

'ELDER STATESMAN' OF MEDICINE VISITS HERE
 Dr. Arthur Grollman, right, and Dr. Jackson Friedlander.

Artificial Kidney Ends Coma In Operation At VA Hospital

By DON HENRY

A visiting physician mentioned a life-saving operation he supervised here, but tried to make it sound incidental.

Dr. Arthur Grollman, professor of the department of experimental medicine at the Southwestern Medical College at Dallas, supervised a kidney operation on a patient at the VA Hospital Wednesday. VA doctors were following a method formulated by Dr. Grollman.

Before the operation, the man was "as close to the pearly gates as he'll ever be," Dr. Grollman said. Thursday, the man was eating naturally and visiting with relatives — apparently on his way to recovery.

Dr. Grollman spent the past three days at the VA Hospital working with the staff, lecturing, talking to patients, and visiting the wards. His visit is the first of a series of "physicians in residence" programs now under way in VA hospitals across the nation.

The program was established by Dr. William Middleton, chief medical director for the VA. It calls for "elder statesmen" of the profession to visit hospitals for a few days, lecture to doctors, and see their patients.

Dr. Grollman's visit here is the first in this area. The series is primarily an education program for VA staffs.

During his visit here, Dr. Grollman demonstrated use of an artificial kidney in an operation. He formulated the idea of an artificial kidney about six years ago, but he said that the type used Wednesday was only a simplified and modified version of the original.

The patient on whom the apparatus was used was critically ill and in a deep coma; after the operation, which was performed by VA surgeons under the eye of Dr. Grollman, the man roused and was in an improved condition.

The process utilizes the abdominal cavities, Dr. Grollman said. The duration of improvement in this case depends on whether there is sufficient functioning kidney tissue present to work without the use of this procedure.

Dr. Jackson Friedlander, hospital manager, said that the apparatus will be kept here on a standby basis for use in those emergency cases that will respond to this type of treatment.

Until recently, this type of operation was performed only in the big hospitals in the eastern part of the nation, Dr. Grollman indicated. He said that the apparatus used on early operations cost about $2,000. In contrast he said the equipment used in Wednesday's operation cost about $5.

Dr. Grollman said the staff of surgeons at the VA Hospital here would match favorably with any in the nation. He said that the medical services were of the highest quality of any type clinic. (He added that Big Spring was one of his favorite spots to visit.)

During his stay here, he visited the wards twice each day and discussed various aspects of diagnoses and treatment. He also conducted two informal lectures each day. He spoke on heart drugs, the mechanism of their action and methods of administration.

Before joining the staff at South-

A Bible Thought For Today

Hast thou not known? hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the LORD, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary? there is no searching of his understanding. (Isaiah 40:28)

Important Talks To Be Resumed

At the present moment the City of Big Spring and the Air Force are at something of an impasse on water and sewer lines to serve the projected on-base housing project at Webb AFB.

Originally the city and AF representatives agreed on a procedure for surveys of most practical routes for lines to serve the area south of the present Air Base tract.

These surveys were made, and then the city explored the possibility of participating in order that a larger dimension lines could be provided to serve steadily developing areas which in time (with water and sewer service a reality) would doubtless come into the city limits. Here came the first substantial hitch, a ruling that the city's participation would have to be in ratio to the capacity of the lines, not just for the increased cost between one dimension line and a larger one. This, however, was not insurmountable.

Then came the major blockbuster dropped by a civilian representative from some echelon of the AF. He announced that whoever had approved the surveys in the first place was without authority; that the AF would not accept any such proposal; that the city would be obliged to extend lines from its new reservoir to the Webb FB reservoir; that the present sewer outfall line from Webb would suffice for the housing project also.

The city said this was unacceptable. For one thing it is extremely doubtful that the outfall line from Webb would suffice for the housing project also.

The city said this was unacceptable. For one thing it is extremely doubtful that the outfall line would carry the additional load. Some additional sewage line capacity from the area seems like a necessity. If it is, the south loop around town appears the only practical answer. There is much flexibility in the water route proposed in the survey, because it would make the unit independent of the base and yet put the line in proximity to the base for a dual supply in event of emergency or additional need. The AF, however, would have to satisfy itself on this question. Meanwhile, it is a mistake to assume that the city has to take any lines anywhere.

Efforts are being made to resume negotiations. We hope things can be worked out expeditiously. The initial plan still has much to commend it to all concerned in the long run.

The President's Tremendous Triumph

Well, as it turned out the opinion polls in general were a pretty accurate indication of what the American people were thinking and intended to do, so the outcome of the national election was no great surprise to anyone.

Undoubtedly President Eisenhower's campaigning activity had a great deal to do with his overwhelming victory—a personal triumph almost without parallel in American history. It is doubtful if any President has retained such a high degree of popularity as has President Eisenhower. It is possible the suddenly worsening situation in the Middle East and Russia's action in Hungary, plus the threats emanating from the Kremlin in the last few days before the election, contributed to Ike's tremendous sweep. It is an axiom in American politics that in time of trouble horses shouldn't be changed in the middle of the stream. Thus, in addition to his already safe majority, President Eisenhower got all of the "undecided" vote.

There were some surprises. It was not so much surprising that Ike should carry his native state of Texas, but that he should carry it by a margin even wider than before. In 1952 the very ballot was rigged in his favor, thanks to cross-filing, and hardly any state Democratic leaders were active in support of their national ticket.

There was no cross-filing this time, and practically every member of Congress, in addition to many other Democratic office holders and politicians were rallied behind the Stevenson-Kefauver ticket.

In Texas and throughout the country it was a personal Eisenhower triumph, not a Republican victory—as the congressional results seem to indicate.

Our country faces critical times in relation to the world in general, and it may be just as well that the world, friend and foe alike, have this fresh evidence of the inherent strength of this great democracy.

David Lawrence In Defense Of Secretary Dulles

WASHINGTON — Soviet Russia has been plotting in the Middle East for several years—stimulating friction and steadily adding to the military burdens of the nations of the West. It is one of the oldest military maneuvers in history—to embarrass a potential enemy on a weak flank.

The success of Communist influence can be seen in the votes cast in the United Nations this week. India and the Arab states, for example, voted to condemn Britain and France for using force in the Middle East, but abstained from voting at all on a resolution intended to condemn the Soviet Union for using force in Hungary.

An obvious aim of the Communist maneuvers in the Middle East has been to give the Moscow regime a free hand in Eastern Europe, where the Western armies for the present stand helpless at the frontiers of the satellite countries unable to assist the free peoples in their crusade for liberation.

One wonders how much more of a problem would have confronted Britain and France if there had not been a brave army in Israel to ally itself with the West.

The United States government early foresaw the trend in Egypt and tried at first to keep Nasser away from Soviet connections. But the Egyptian dictator, selfish and ambitious to build an Arab empire of his own, started to conspire with the Communists, who supplied him at the opportune moment with arms through Czechoslovakia. Then naturally America withdrew her aid to Nasser, which had taken the form principally of a tentative plan to build the Aswan Dam.

When this proposal to help construct the dam was withdrawn by the United States, many Democrats in Congress criticized Secretary Dulles for doing so. When they were asked if he favored a continuance of aid to Nasser, the answer usually given was that the Dulles objective was right but that the method was "abrupt" or "ill advised."

This, however, has been the type of transparently captious criticism of the American secretary of state which has been current throughout the last three years. Many of the brickbats have come from elements in London and Paris because Mr. Dulles again and again has stood up for American interests and has with prudence tried to avoid an outbreak of hostilities or American involvement in military action.

But it will be noted now that the influence interposed by Secretary Dulles impartially and opportunely before the United Nations in the Middle East situation has proved wise. It has contributed to the pressure on Britain, France and Israel to agree to a cease-fire.

The many cross-currents of politics and business in Western Europe have to be understood to realize that the barbs tossed at Mr. Dulles, blaming him for Communist misbehavior, were backhanded ways of attacking President Eisenhower.

Now, when Mr. Dulles is in the hospital recovering from a serious operation, there are some in this country and abroad who are hopeful that, because of his illness, a change will be made in the Department of State. There are plenty of Trumanites in the department who are eager to see someone who thinks along their lines come in at the top.

But none of these critics really knows John Foster Dulles—his strong character, indefatigable energy and will power. Nor do they know Dwight Eisenhower. Mr. Dulles will continue as secretary of state when he recovers from his present illness—and the man who will insist on keeping him on the job is the President himself. For he knows that there is no better informed or better qualified man for the job in America today.

No two men in public life have worked as closely together as Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Dulles. Not a move of importance has been made by the Secretary without the President's advance approval.

Mr. Dulles is one of the great secretaries of state in American history. When he said America would meet future attack by "massive retaliation," he expressed what the military chiefs here have in mind, and it served as a momentous warning that has never been withdrawn. It was belittled and ridiculed by narrow-minded partisans and by some critics abroad who quibbled about its true meaning. But the American people knew what it meant. They don't have a pacifist or a blind internationalist heading up the Department of State, nor do they want one there. They have a man who is a realist—a champion of international cooperation, yet, above all else, a staunch American ever watchful of the interests of the people of the United States.

Envy

James Marlow Who Won Mid-East War?

WASHINGTON — If there's a winner in the Egyptian conflict he is not yet in sight.

The fighting was done by the British, French, Israelis and Egyptians. The United States and Russia are in it up to their necks, trying to stop it and trying to come out looking good.

The United Nations is mixed up in it too, trying to gain a victory for world opinion and moral force over military force.

The Israelis said they attacked Egypt to put an end to torments by their neighbor, who had been raiding over their border. They also wanted to collect some Egyptian real estate, which they did.

When the shooting stopped they held the Gaza Strip and the Sinai Peninsula and said they wouldn't give up that territory. But under pressure from President Eisenhower, Russia, Britain and the U. N. they said yesterday they'd go back into Israel to let a U. N. police force take over.

The British and French said they went into Egypt to separate the Israelis and Egyptians and to protect the Suez Canal. But the only ones they shot at were Egyptians. And the canal is now so fouled up from sunken ships it may be out of use for months.

The British and French — under pressure from Eisenhower, the Russians and the U. N. — not only agreed to stop shooting before they had taken over all of the canal area but they agreed to leave the canal.

Eisenhower then had the unpleasant job of trying to bail out the British, French and Western influence in the Middle East by putting all the heat he could on the British and French to "acknowledge."

Whether his influence turned the trick is not known. For the

Cats Pushing Out Dogs As Pets

NEW YORK — Is man's best friend, the dog, losing out to the cat in America?

Since this is National Cat Week, it is as good a time as any to explore the question of whether Tabby is taking over from Rover in the American home.

Although a pet census would probably show the United States still has millions more dogs than cats, there are other signs tending to show that the long heyday of the dog is headed for twilight.

He may still have the farm vote, but he is losing out in the cities, where he has become a casualty of a civilization which fits the cat very well but in which he is as out of place as a frog in a boudoir.

Landlords, wives, and television are three factors that combine to throw a deepening shadow over the future of the dog.

Many landlords in Manhattan will allow their tenants to have children, cats, parakeets—or even a boa constrictor if you smuggle it in after dark—but they draw the line at dogs.

This is the rule where I live, a vast apartment project housing more than 2,000 families. When I asked why cats were permitted but dogs were verboten, I was told: "Look, if 1,000 families here had children and 500 had cats, you wouldn't hardly notice the cats, because they stay in the house. But if the other 500 families had dogs, you know what we'd have? Lawsuits!"

"You couldn't mix cats, dogs and kids in a place like this without getting chaos."

The growth of the equal rights movement has been even harder on dogs than it has been on husbands. As wives have assumed a greater authority in the home, they have tended to give Rover the heave-ho and replace him with a kitty.

They argue that Rover is too noisy and boisterous, that he may be a good watchdog but a good electric burglar alarm can be fed more cheaply, and that a cat makes a nicer house pet because she is gentle and soft-footed.

As one lady cat lover explained: "A dog is a born peasant. A cat is a born aristocrat. The peasant has many fine outdoor virtues, but indoors one prefers the company of the aristocrat."

Mr. Breger

PASADENA, Calif., Nov. 9 — Astronomers are intrigued by a strange kind of leopard star—it appears to have chemical spots.

These spots or patches are quite different from the sunspots which appear on our own sun or star.

The leopard star is a naked-eye star in the constellation Virgo. It is about three times the size and double the mass of our sun. It shines with constant brightness, as does our sun, but is 100 times brighter.

But when astronomers analyzed the colors of its light through the spectrograph, a mystery appeared.

The spectrum or color lines of any star show particular vertical lines. Each line represents the presence of some specific chemical element existing in the star.

But with this star, the spectrum lines keep changing, quite unlike the spectrum lines from our sun.

One possibility is that powerful magnetic fields have concentrated chemical elements in certain areas of the stellar atmosphere, and these are seen consecutively as the star turns on its axis.

Another is that the star could be pulsating, contracting and expanding at regular intervals, and thus giving weaker or stronger spectrum lines from chemical components.

Astronomers Intrigued By 'Leopard' Star

GREENVILLE, Miss. — Grace Methodist Church had 833 and its congregation had some muscles, back kinks and sunburned faces and hands to prove the members would work for their church.

The congregation picked 1,700 pounds of cotton on a nearby farm and donated the proceeds to the church building fund.

Church Work

LOVINGTON, N. M., — The Sheriff's office here has marked this case "closed."

It started when a youthful voice called and reported the theft of his bicycle. It ended a few minutes later when the same boy called and reported the bicycle had been found.

"My mother rode it to a neighbor's house," the voice said.

Wheels Of Progress

DETROIT — "Suppose you didn't restyle cars every year—what would happen to sales?"

I popped that question at all Big Three automobile companies. The only positive answer I got was: "It would help Studebaker—Packard and American Motors. They wouldn't have to lay out big chunks of money on tools and dies each year trying to keep up with the style parade."

Otherwise, vagueness: "Maybe it would cost us a million cars; maybe two million; maybe as little as a half million," replied one market analyst. "Who knows and who really cares? Since it won't happen."

The automobile industry has become as style-alert as Paris and Hollywood. Henry Ford the First's dictum, "The customer can have any color car he wants so long as it is black," cost the Ford Motor Co. its leadership of the industry. From 60 per cent of sales in 1921, Ford's proportion skidded to less than 15 per cent.

In the present era, all automobile sales managers are sensitive to color tones, fin lines, and the long, low silhouette as Dior, Balenciaga, and Traina-Norell to waistlines, necklines, backlines, and V-lines. Ford up to 27 per cent of the market.

"Design's important," explained one Detroit, "because women have such a strong influence on car-buying. Women are style-conscious."

Reasonable. Yet, I've noted many men who are critically perfectionist about the line, color, and shape of cars. After all, who buys the rakish, eye-catching, ego-lifting sports cars? Mostly men.

Other influences besides exhibitionism and keeping-up-with-the-Joneses foster sales: Demographic influences. Biological influences. Technological influences.

This is the age of the teen-ager. You can tell that from the number of teenage magazines, comics, and demands for college enrollment. Of course, young people are style-conscious. They want to be swishly up-to-date. And they put the heat on ma and dad to "get rid of the old jewelry."

A University of Michigan survey indicates that a far higher proportion of families with teen-agers buys new or used cars than other families. Specifically, out of every 100 families with children be-

Around The Rim Switches And Double Switches

It is said that politics makes strange bedfellows. If this is true, it is equally true that politicians make strange switches. Take the Republican attitude on foreign policy, for example. Back in 1954, Sen Knowland (R-Calif) said:

"Granting the Communists an armistice in Korea was a mistake. I thought so at the time and I have not changed my views. . . I think the armistice is a farce."

But in 1956, he had this to say:

"The whole nation knows that the Democrats tried vainly for 18 months to end the stalemated war in Korea. The people know that Dwight D. Eisenhower visited Korea and a peace ensued under which the Communists gained not one foot of ground."

The Republicans, in the recent election, advertised themselves as the party of "peace." The GOP assumed it had a mandate from the people for peace at any price in 1952, but it ain't necessarily so. A lot of people voted on a lot of issues, but there were only two parties to vote for. So the voters, in choosing one party, had to take the bad with the good in their choice.

Former President Truman made the first moves toward peace in Korea, at the time the conservatives were urging that we either win or get out completely. The GOP took the credit for the armistice, and still does.

We are reminded of the days before the Communists gained control of the Chinese mainland, when Truman was pouring billions of dollars down the Chinese rat hole. Truman's opponents at the time were crying their hearts out over "Operation Rat Hole" as they called it. Then Truman, because U. S. aid was going to waste, halted all aid to China, and Chiang Kai-shek was chased to Formosa. It wasn't long before the conservative Republicans were blaming Truman with losing China to the Communists.

Those critics didn't say in so many words just what, short of sending in American troops, we should do about China. Which left us with the impression that was what they actually wanted.

Those same critics were the first to label the Korean conflict "Truman's War."

The way their line of propaganda jumped around in direct opposition to Truman makes the Communists look moderate.

The election being over, we look for the Republicans once again to change their party lines. They will realize that our interests lie with Britain, France and Israel, not with an African Hitler named Nasser.

We side with the Allies and Israel in the present crisis. Nasser is a dictator, serving neither God nor country but only his own ambition. He is an international bandit of the same ilk as the Bey of Tunis. Many years ago, we sent the Marines into Tripoli after the African pirates had plundered American ships. Nasser seized the Suez Canal without so much as a by-your-leave.

The British and French, who have backed down so many times of late, at last had the guts to act on their own. Perhaps Western Europe isn't dead yet.

And the reaction of Israel reminds us of David taking on Goliath, and the Macabees breaking the chains of the Hellenic world. The Israelis had no choice in the matter. With Nasser rattling the sabre, getting massive aid from Russia, and organizing the whole Arab world against them, it was a matter of do or die for the Jews. They chose a good time, when Russia was busy with her satellites, and the Allies chose a good time for their attack, after the Egyptians already had been broken by the Israelis.

The Israelis have known all along what they have yet to learn—that sometimes a free nation must move first if it is to survive. We waited until after Pearl Harbor to make war on Japan. We survived that war because of a massive industrial strength the Japs couldn't get to.

We may not be so lucky next time, when the Russians have H-bombs, long-range jet bombers, and are working on long-range guided missiles.

More Dangerous Than The H-Bomb

Well, sir, before the Hungarian and Middle East crises arose, I filed away an item in the folder reserved for "Decline and Fall of Civilization."

Even as a born optimist who operates with the long view (i.e., an optimist who believes mankind could stand a whole of a lot of improvement even in this best-of-all-possible-worlds), I judged the item as inflammatory and calculated to spread undue alarm among the general populace.

Now, however, I feel it my duty to record this alcoholic item. It is one woman's opinion that it is a neurotic negus born of the times. This concoction called a Miltni is, I understand, in wide circulation among such sections of the ha u t monde as have passed beyond the help of psychiatry.

Anyway, this potion — and, believe me, in this case one man's potion is another man's poison — is a six or seven-to-one Martini in which a Miltnin is substituted for lemon peel or olive. (Better we should work for the abolition of this than the hydrogen bomb, but let us not get political after what we have just gone through!)

It is also one woman's opinion that here is the perfect panacea for the megrims and the shakes that afflict homo sapiens. Presumably, he drinks the Martini in the first place to brace himself to face another day, to give him the bounce to carry on until the five o'clock whistle and shadow overtake him.

But to this small, economy-size cure-all, he adds a Miltnin or tranquilizing drug to soothe his jangled nerves and cool his fevered apprehensions.

In a sad, frightening way, the Miltni must stand forth as a perfect work of art. Here is an elixir that at one and the same time peeps a man up so he can lick the world and turns his damper down so he can endure it.

It is doubtful if any other creation of the mid-20th Century so typifies this frantic, uncertain era in which no man can know what the next hour will bring. A hermetically-sealed shaker of Miltnis, or at least the recipe, should be included in every pompous mid-century cornerstone built, filled and laid so that posterity can know what real cool cats we were and how extraordinary the civilization we wrought.

The Miltni is the next logical development flowing out of the rash of books, published since World War II, whose theme is "How to Live and Like It." And it does not put the illiterate at a disadvantage. From now on, peace of mind will not be the exclusive property of the man with a library card.

Furthermore, the Miltni is the final answer to that old-folk lieder, "Who Put the Benzdrine in Mrs. Murphy's Ovaltine?" Mrs. Murphy was just ahead of her time.

Well, friends, down the hatch! Or, maybe, the drain.

Style-And Other Things-In Autos

DETROIT — "Suppose you didn't restyle cars every year—what would happen to sales?"

I popped that question at all Big Three automobile companies. The only positive answer I got was: "It would help Studebaker—Packard and American Motors. They wouldn't have to lay out big chunks of money on tools and dies each year trying to keep up with the style parade."

Otherwise, vagueness: "Maybe it would cost us a million cars; maybe two million; maybe as little as a half million," replied one market analyst. "Who knows and who really cares? Since it won't happen."

The automobile industry has become as style-alert as Paris and Hollywood. Henry Ford the First's dictum, "The customer can have any color car he wants so long as it is black," cost the Ford Motor Co. its leadership of the industry. From 60 per cent of sales in 1921, Ford's proportion skidded to less than 15 per cent.

In the present era, all automobile sales managers are sensitive to color tones, fin lines, and the long, low silhouette as Dior, Balenciaga, and Traina-Norell to waistlines, necklines, backlines, and V-lines. Ford up to 27 per cent of the market.

"Design's important," explained one Detroit, "because women have such a strong influence on car-buying. Women are style-conscious."

Reasonable. Yet, I've noted many men who are critically perfectionist about the line, color, and shape of cars. After all, who buys the rakish, eye-catching, ego-lifting sports cars? Mostly men.

Other influences besides exhibitionism and keeping-up-with-the-Joneses foster sales: Demographic influences. Biological influences. Technological influences.

This is the age of the teen-ager. You can tell that from the number of teenage magazines, comics, and demands for college enrollment. Of course, young people are style-conscious. They want to be swishly up-to-date. And they put the heat on ma and dad to "get rid of the old jewelry."

A University of Michigan survey indicates that a far higher proportion of families with teen-agers buys new or used cars than other families. Specifically, out of every 100 families with children below teen-age, and 10 for families with no children. The teen-ager wants to learn to drive; he or she wants to have the use of the car; and he or she wants what he or she drives to be the very latest.

Technological change also must be reckoned with—as a buying influence. Once you've tried the automatic transmission, you want to get rid of the car with "the stick," the old-style H transmission. The introduction of power steering and power brakes also speeds the obsolescence of old cars, increases the pressure to trade-up.

Over 60 per cent of the low-priced cars today come equipped with automatic transmission. The percentage of cars coming from the factory with power steering and power brakes is rising.

In all makes, there's increasing demand for cars with driving-ease aids. Some day, the man who wants a standard shift will have to pay extra for it!

So, it just could be that the importance of styling, of making a person dissatisfied with last year's model because it's not as finny, or lengthy, or chrome as this year's, is exaggerated.

It could be that the size of the human frame, the greater size of the American family, requires a bigger automobile. It could be that technological and biological mutation sells cars—and not color, shape, or decor per se and solely.

But we'll never know. No company dares these days to fall back in the style parade.

ANTIOCH, Ill. — If Arthur Bushing's cow could talk instead of only "moo" it probably would want to praise the farm tractor.

Bushing's cow got stuck in the mire with only its head and 10 inches of its back were protruding from the surface when Charles Hartnell hooked his tractor to bossy and pulled her out.

Where Plane Hit

This gaping hole in an apartment house roof in North Bergen, N. J., was made after a light plane clipped an 810-foot radio tower and crashed into the multiple dwelling. Four persons died in the fire that followed the crash.

Plane Crash Area Residents Moved

NORTH BERGEN, N.J. — The area around an 810-foot radio tower was cleared of residents today for fear the structure, weakened by a fatal plane crash, might topple to the ground. A twin-engine Beechcraft en route from Indianapolis was flying through rain and fog yesterday when it clipped off one leg of the latticed steel tower, believed to be the tallest structure in New Jersey. The private plane then smashed into the top of a crowded apartment house eight blocks away. One engine was hurled into the courtyard of a parochial school. Flaming gasoline sprayed trees along the street. Police said four persons are known dead — two men who were in the plane and two women from the apartment house. One of the women jumped five stories to the street in panic as the building burst into flames. Fifteen others were injured, one seriously. They included 12 firemen. Mayor Angelo Sarubbi ordered some 3,000 persons in the area to evacuate their homes last night. About 500 volunteer workers helped them move in with relatives or into two schools thrown open as emergency centers. The tower is owned by New York radio station WOR but has not been in use since 1953. Residents have been unsuccessful in court action to get the tower torn down as a hazardous nuisance. WOR officials announced the top of the tower would be dismantled today. Gordon Gray, executive vice president and general manager of the station, said about 75 feet would be removed "as a precautionary measure." Those tentatively identified as dead were: Russel S. Williams, 58, Indianapolis, president of the Bonded Gasoline & Oil Co., a subsidiary of Gaseteria, Inc. He was on his way to LaGuardia Airport, New York, to meet his son and daughter-in-law returning from Europe. William Cromley, Trafalgar, Ind., the pilot. Definitely identified as dead were: Mrs. Harriet Phelps, 58, wife of S. M. Phelps, assistant chief engineer of the New York Times. He said he tried vainly to stop his wife from leaping from their kitchen window in fright at the explosion and flames. Mrs. Florence Pyne, 55, who lived alone on the top floor of the five-story apartment. Flora Stamm, 52, a resident of the apartment house, said she was preparing to go downstairs for her mail when the impact shook the building. "My hand was still on the door-knob when I heard this tremendous crash," she said. "I was so frightened I stepped out and smoke began coming out of all three doors." One engine crashed through the roof of the garage of the Immaculate Heart of Mary Chapel School. The 200 pupils in the school escaped injury, though 25 kindergarten children were lined up outside at the time. Firemen brought the flames under control in two hours. Mayor Sarubbi estimated damage at $100,000.

A Run Of Hard Luck

DE WITT, Ark. — Ira Henderson said he "just sat down and cried" yesterday when the bad news began pouring in all at once. He was leading in the six-way race for Arkansas county treasurer when the last box reported at 11:30 a.m. That box wiped out his slim lead and gave the job to Mrs. Marion Segraves, 1,411 to 1,290. Fifteen minutes later, he received word that a home which he owned—and which had been in his family for 75 years—had burned. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Elder, an elderly couple who occupied the house, were at Henderson's home when they heard news of the fire. Elder suffered a heart attack and was still in serious condition today. A short time later, Henderson received a telephone call from his son, Shelby Henderson of Fayetteville, Ark., telling him that his infant grandson had swallowed some artificial fruit and was in critical condition. Henderson later learned that surgery had kept the baby from strangling and that he would recover.

Balloonists Resting After Record Climb

RAPID CITY, S. D. — With a record ascension of more than 14 miles to their credit, two Navy balloonists rested here today after a descent to earth a lot faster than they had anticipated. Commanders Malcolm D. Ross, 37, and Morton L. Lewis, 43, both of Washington, D. C., riding a gondola attached to a 128-foot helium balloon, reached 76,000 feet yesterday over the broken land of South Dakota and Nebraska. They reached that height 2 hours and 50 minutes after they started upward from a natural bowl in the Black Hills near Rapid City. From that same natural bowl another balloon had soared 72,395 feet in 1935 to set the previous record.

'Land Grant' Suit Filed

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. — A 500 million dollar "old land grant" law suit was filed yesterday in Beaumont against several Texas oil companies. W. A. Weir of Philadelphia said the suit, filed on behalf of about 300 plaintiffs, contends the companies do not legally own a tract of oil land in Jefferson County, Tex. The suit was filed in district court at Beaumont for Mrs. Carol Jones and other heirs of Pelham Humphries, a pioneer Texan. The suit alleges "Pelham Humphries was granted a league of land on Feb. 14, 1835, and that said land lies in what is now Jefferson County, Tex.; that said Mexican land grant is a matter of record. The plaintiffs in this case allege that trespassing and damages was committed on said land and is being committed on said land by the defendants, to-wit: Perry McFadden, Caldwell McFadden, W. P. H. McFadden Jr., J. L. C. McFadden and Mamie McFadden, all residents of Jefferson County, Tex., and Sun Pipe Line Co., Magnolia Petroleum Co., Unity Oil Co., Gulf States Utilities Co., Sun Oil Co., Stanolind Oil Purchasing Co., Gulf Oil Corp. and Gulf Refining Co.

Architect's Error Adds To Cost Of Building In Dallas

DETROIT — An architect's error has added more than six million dollars to the cost of Detroit's new convention hall-exhibits building, Mayor Albert Cobo said. He said an estimate by an architectural firm last April put the cost at $42,548,000. But a recent estimate hiked the figure to $49,441,000. Cobo said a $2,245,000 blunder resulted from underestimating the amount of steel needed by at least 2,000 tons. A re-evaluation of labor costs added another $3,775,000. A rise in steel prices due to the steel strike sent the cost still higher. Construction is already under way on the mammoth building. It is to be part of the ambitious civic center development on the Detroit river front.

Boy Drowns

CARTHAGE, Mo. — Keith Dunn, 12, drowned in the YMCA swimming pool when a foot caught between a filter pipe and a wall of the pool. He was swimming with 17 other members of his Boy Scout troop. Several of the boys tried frantically to free him. They finally managed to get his head above water but too late.

Record Smashers

Commander M. L. Lewis (left) and Lt. Commander M. D. Ross (right) piloted their balloon to a record-breaking altitude of 76,000 feet, shattering a record previously set by two Army pilots in 1935. They terminated their flight near Kennedy, Neb., after taking off from Rapid City, S. D., and spending slightly more than four hours in the air. At extreme left is Lt. B. W. Pinc, research specialist, who assisted the men in a dry run before the flight, when this picture was taken.

Certified Mail Assures Delivery Of Yule Parcels

Have you ever sent a Christmas package and then, spent worried days wondering if it reached its destination safely and on schedule? You can reassure yourself, if you are one to worry about such matters, under a new plan which was first put in service by the U. S. post offices in 1955. E. C. Boatler, postmaster, explained that under the "Certified Mail" project, you can have proof provided you of the safe delivery of Christmas letters, cards and parcels having no intrinsic value. All you need to do is pay a 15-cent fee plus first class postage and you will be advised of the delivery of your package. Boatler said that this service is one of several special features of interest and value to Christmas shippers. Another just being put into use this year for the first time provides that sealed parcels can be mailed at third- and fourth-class postage rates without labels, notations or other markings authorizing them to be opened for postal inspection. Packages, Boatler pointed out, which are sealed with modern sealing materials or even with just plain Christmas seals have a better chance of surviving the ordeal of Christmas mail rush. Strong cord should always be used. Another special service put into use in 1955 is what is called "Combination Mail." This permits the mailer to enclose a letter or a message inside a gift parcel by paying the appropriate postage on it plus, of course, the regular postage for the parcel.

Hun Refugees Get U.S. Bid

WASHINGTON — The United States joined European nations today in offering haven for Hungarians who fled before the return of Russian-dominated rule in their country. President Eisenhower directed yesterday that up to 5,000 of the refugees be admitted under the Refugee Relief Act, which set up special immigration quotas and procedures for victims of Communist aggression. Pierce J. Gerety, deputy administrator of the act, made it clear that red tape will be cut to the minimum, saying, "We are going to get the people in here." Through White House press secretary James C. Hagerity, Eisenhower called for American volunteers to assure employment, housing and financial aid for the refugees. Such assurances are needed under the law, which requires also that refugees be screened for security. Gerety said the law's provisions will be met, but added: "We are going to use extraordinary measures to do two things — make sure we don't get the wrong ones, and make sure we get the processing done." Eisenhower announced his action in a statement saying that "few events of recent times have so stirred the American people as the tragic effort of Hungarian men and women to gain freedom for themselves and for their children."

The Lord's Requirements

NOT BURNT OFFERINGS, BUT JUSTICE, MERCY AND HUMBLENESS

Scripture—Micah 4: 6.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
MICAH from whose book today's lesson is taken, was one of the lesser prophets. He lived at the time of that greatest of all prophets, Isaiah. He was a countryman coming from an obscure village in the lowlands of Judah, and his small book may have been written somewhere between 726 and 701 B.C.

Nevertheless his words are quoted frequently and are familiar to all Bible lovers. The first three chapters of Micah are primarily found to denunciations of the sins of his time. Rich nobles, worldly priests and greedy aristocrats were the objects of his wrath. Judges were not just and accepted bribes; the rich oppressed the poor. It was a commercial and money loving age, and Micah, knowing this, tried to bring his people back to God.

Today are not free from these sins. Too many make a fetish of money and are not al-shares and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

We are still looking and hoping that this prophecy will come true in our own time, although the present world conditions are not hopeful for the near future, at least, when as Micah says: "they shall sit every man under his vine and under his fig tree; and none shall make them afraid, for the mouth of the Lord of Hosts hath spoken it."

Later in this same chapter, Micah sees the disasters that were to befall his country. But even if Judah is conquered and taken prisoner, and its people exiled to Babylon, even so the Lord will bring triumph out of catastrophe.

What are God's requirements of His people? What can we do to please Him?

"Wherewith shall I come before the Lord, and bow myself before the high God? shall I come before Him with burnt offerings, with calves of a year old? "He hath shown thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God."—Micah 6: 8.

In the chapters assigned to our lesson, however, Micah saw hope in the future. "But, in the last days it shall come to pass, that the mountain of the house of the Lord shall be established in the top of the mountains, and it shall be exalted above the hills; and people shall flow unto it.

"And many nations shall come, and say, Come, let us go to the mountain of the Lord, and to the house of the God of Jacob; and He will teach us of His ways, and we will walk in His paths; for the law shall go forth of Zion, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem."

The Lord shall rebuke the strong nations so that they shall beat their swords into ploughshares and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

We are still looking and hoping that this prophecy will come true in our own time, although the present world conditions are not hopeful for the near future, at least, when as Micah says: "they shall sit every man under his vine and under his fig tree; and none shall make them afraid, for the mouth of the Lord of Hosts hath spoken it."

Later in this same chapter, Micah sees the disasters that were to befall his country. But even if Judah is conquered and taken prisoner, and its people exiled to Babylon, even so the Lord will bring triumph out of catastrophe.

What are God's requirements of His people? What can we do to please Him?

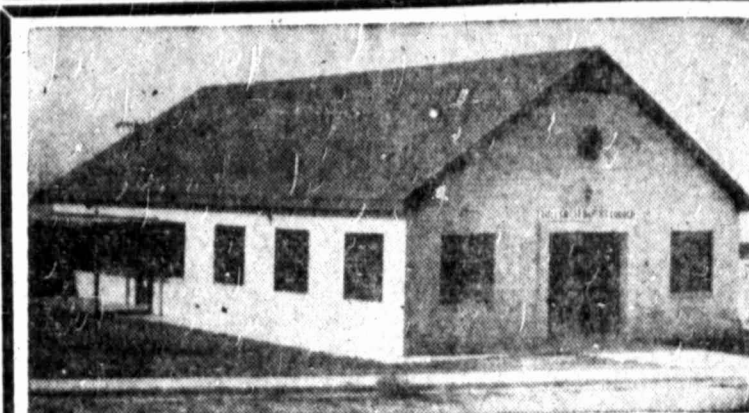

"Wherewith shall I come before the Lord, and bow myself before the high God? shall I come before Him with burnt offerings, with calves of a year old? "He hath shown thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?"

To be just in all our dealings with others, not judge any harshly, but to try to understand them and treat them with loving kindness. Even little children can be cruel, and this is a point to be talked about by the teachers of the younger children. They too can be taught to be just and merciful to their playmates and schoolmates.

To be just, merciful, humble before God our father. It seems simple, doesn't it? However, how difficult it seems to us to follow it! We need a world-wide revival of true religion, the promise of universal peace which the prophet hoped for as we do today, 2,500 years later, and the need for humble and sincere attitudes toward God, not outward shows of religion.

Texas Baptist Convention Criticizes Liquor Industry

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)—Texas Baptists criticized the liquor industry, careless living and the commercialization of Sunday worship today. They commended the American Bible Society and their own Christian Life Commission, the latter for last night's recommendations concerning race relations, crime, separation of church and state and the Southern Baptist crusade for Christian morality.

The Convention approved a 10 million dollar missionary budget and recommendations on race relations, juvenile delinquency and the separation of the church and state.

Projects Discussed By Epsilon Sigma Alphas

A discussion on projects and plans for further club work was the business Thursday evening for the meeting of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority.

Mrs. Tolford Durham and Barbara Ann Eye were hostesses.

It was decided that Epsilon Sigma Alpha would donate funds to the YMCA building project. This was decided after a discussion of the recent federation meeting.

ESA voted to send gifts to the McKnight Sanatorium for their Christmas project. These gifts will be distributed to the Howard County patients.

The group voted to join and donate to the national ESA disaster fund. This will make ESA members eligible for relief from fire, flood or storm disasters.

Money making project reports were discussed by those attending. Mrs. Bill Estes gave a report on the aftergame party given recently in her home.

It was announced that the next rush party would be Nov. 17 at 10 a. m. at the Howard House.

Nov. 30 is the date set for the jewel pin meeting followed by a formal dance. This will be held at the Howard House.

For the benefit of new members, each officer and committee chairman gave a short talk on the duties of her office.

Rushes attending were Jane Hill, Mrs. George Matson and Mrs. Douglas Ward.

Special guests were Mrs. Lynn Thomas, a former member of the local group, and Mrs. Bill Carlisle.

The serving table carried out a Thanksgiving theme. The table was laid with an orange cloth covered with lace and the centerpiece featured a large turkey made of sequins. Surrounding the turkey were fresh fall fruit, pyracantha, and fall leaves.

The arrangement was flanked by orange candles held in crystal holders. Silver appointments were used for serving.

The next regular meeting will be Dec. 6.

Altrusans To Assist Cheerio Club

Members of the Altrusa Club voted Thursday to give $120 to the Cheerio Club to purchase transportation to and from their meetings. The group met at the Settles Hotel for luncheon.

A check for $10 will be sent to McKnight Sanatorium at Carlsbad to help the patients at Christmas.

It was announced that the next meeting will be held Nov. 21. This is a change in the date of meeting because of Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Hart Phillips was introduced as a new member. Mrs. Myrtle Rosch of El Paso was present as a guest.

The program was presented by Mrs. Norman Read, who discussed parliamentary law. She stressed the most common errors made in parliamentary procedure and gave the correct methods of taking part in club proceedings.

Twenty-eight attended the meeting.

Miss Hancock Feted With Bridal Shower

LAMESA — A gift tea held Tuesday afternoon at the Woman's Study Club complimented Geraldine Hancock, bride-elect of Leo Burkett. Hostesses for the tea were the women of the Presbyterian Church.

The bride's chosen colors of blue and white were carried out in the decorations. Laid with a white cut-work cloth over blue, the serving table had an arrangement of white mums with blue streamers coming from it. Mrs. A. H. Smith furnished music during the afternoon. About 60 guests called.

Canasta Party

LAMESA — Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cope entertained with a canasta dinner Thursday evening at their home. Featured on the serving table was an arrangement of purple mums in a white container. The sextet tables held red pyracantha. Twelve attended the dinner.

Watch Child's Weight For Need Of Early Control

A survey on the problem of obesity indicates that weight control cannot begin too early for good health. It is the only safe, sound way to avoid the unwanted pounds that drive 40 million Americans to drastic diets every year.

To avoid the weight problems that our generation is facing by trying to correct bad eating habits after they have done their damage, the survey stresses the necessity for beginning weight-control at an early age.

The study reveals that most modern parents take their infants to a pediatrician, who carefully weighs the baby at regular intervals and alters formula feedings in relation to the infant's weight gains and losses.

In later years, however, it is indicated that mothers are prone to forget this valuable example in child care. They tend to revert to old-fashioned methods of over-feeding or "stuffing" their children on the mistaken premise that chubby children are necessarily healthy children.

Good or bad eating habits are formulated in early childhood and parents are cautioned against encouraging a child to overeat; against bad eating habits or saying that being overweight runs in the family.

Even a five-year-old can feel bad about being overweight and it is a serious responsibility of the parents to help with this problem. In adult years, the child's health may well depend on what the parent does about weight now.

A sound diet, as advised by a physician in relation to a youngster's height, weight and basic bone structure is a must, and you can help the doctor by weighing the child regularly on the same scale and recording gains or losses on a weekly basis. It is important to remember, however, that even a fat child should not lose more than a pound a week, unless under the direct supervision of a physician.

An essential factor is to enlist the cooperation of the smallesters. To develop a pride in their own progress it may be wise to give them a scale that is designed for them alone. A new sturdy Junior Scale made especially for youngsters ages 2 to 10 comes in pink and blue and is an effective aid to weight-watching that can take rough and tumble treatment without varying an ounce.

It comes complete with wall chart to show height as well as weight changes so that children of school age can proudly keep their own record. It is an accurate weight control device until the pre-teen reaches 100 lbs.

A scale for your child not only has value as a basis for diet guidance but also serves as an important health barometer. If there is any drastic change in weight, call a physician. Serious chronic diseases of children are first indicated by sudden weight gains or losses.

HOLLYWOOD — Press agents are paid to publicize their clients but I was not with Lili Gentle long before I realized that her agent was not exaggerating.

"You hear so much about delinquent teen-agers," the publicity man at 20th-Century Fox told me. "That I want you to come meet our new contract player Lili Gentle. I'll show you a teen-ager that hasn't time to be in trouble she is so busy climbing toward stardom."

Lili has so much poise and maturity that when we were introduced I told her she seemed so much older than sixteen.

"I feel older," Lili admitted. "I had polio and was out of school for two years and I had time to think. I'm grateful to my parents for making me go to church and teaching me the importance of education. It gives me confidence when I can carry on my part of a conversation. And also I feel that life is not long enough to do all the things I want to do and to learn all the things I want to know."

"How wonderful that you meet because so long as there is curiosity about life one can never be bored for a moment."

Lili was wearing such an attractive dress I commented about it. "I love clothes," she confessed. "My mother makes all my dresses. She doesn't have to have a pattern so we can design them together. A person has to look well in her clothes to make a good impression. So I am grateful to my mother for helping me do this."

"I went to modeling school and they taught me a lot about grooming and make-up. But a girl doesn't have to go to school to learn these things. You can pick up a lot by reading high fashion magazines."

"I don't like to see too much make-up on anyone especially teen-agers. The most important thing about glamour tricks is to use them so subtly they don't show," Lili continued.

"But to me real beauty comes from an inside radiance, from an educated mind and from considera-

West Europe Prepares Cut In Oil Supply

LONDON (AP)—Western Europe kept a wary watch on its oil stocks today in preparation for possible sharp cuts in Middle East supplies if the Suez Canal stays blocked to world shipping.
Britain, France and Denmark announced measures to curtail private motoring and told industry to reduce consumption of diesel and fuel oil.
But other European nations said they had enough oil in store to get by for the next month or two without economy drives.
Some oil experts predicted Europe will have to start leaving heavily on reserves next week while awaiting the reopening of the canal and the arrival of tankers making the long and more costly voyage round the Cape of Good Hope from the Middle East fields.
In governmental actions, British motorists were urged to cut gasoline consumption by 2 gallons in 10. Prime Minister Eden's government told garages they would get 10 per cent less fuel from today. Industry also was told fuel oil supplies would be reduced by 10 per cent.
In France, motorists were told that beginning Saturday midnight all private cars will be restricted to the counties in which they are registered. Fuel oil will be allocated to major users on the basis of 70 to 80 per cent of last year's consumption.
Denmark took the strongest action. Its government ordered oil companies to reduce deliveries to consumers by 25 per cent. Fuel oil cuts also were ordered.

Witnesses Called In Mail Fraud Case

HOUSTON (AP)—The government called two witnesses yesterday in a Benavides School District tax funds, its attempt to prove that Benavides fraudulently paid out to George Parr and eight of his associates, their friends, relatives and supporters.
Testimony in the trial started yesterday following completion of a jury.
The indictment charges misuse of the tax funds from September, 1949, to February, 1954.
T. J. O'Connor, business manager of the Texas Education Agency in Austin, was the first witness called by U. S. Atty. Malcolm Wilkey.
O'Connor identified annual reports of payments of school funds. The reports were made by the Benavides School District to the TEA.
Defense Atty. Percy Foreman objected on the basis that no official authority requiring the filing of such reports each year had been shown by the government.
O'Connor said that he knew of no specific authority, but said he could obtain the proper evidence.
U. S. Dist. Judge Allen Hannay allowed the reports as evidence.
Ranger Joe Bridge of Fallurrias was the second and final witness of the day.
Bridge said that from Oct. 5 to Oct. 16 this year he searched Duval County for 268 persons named in a list given him by Dist. Atty. Sam Burris of Alice.
The list, which covered 16 pages, was identified as part of one of the annual School District reports of payments of building funds.
Bridge said, "No one on the list did I find living in Duval County."
Parr, Duval County political leader and sheriff-elect, was indicted along with eight others. The 20-count indictment alleges defendants used the mails in conspiracy to divert school funds to their own use.
Defendants include J. G. Garza, D. C. Chapa, O. P. Carrillo, Oscar Carrillo, O. Saenz, Santiago Garcia, Jesus Oliveira, B. F. Donald, the Texas State Bank of Alice and the San Diego State Bank.

New Flood Of Local, State Debt Issues Head For Market

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—A new flood of local and state debt issues will be heading for the tax-exempt bond market as a result of this week's election. They will find investors expecting high yields.
The voters notably reversed their stand of a year ago when they took a firm grip on their pocketbooks and defeated two-thirds of such proposals at the polls. But that didn't keep a near record amount of tax-exempt bonds from hitting the market in recent months.
Along with tight money in all phases of business, the new issues helped push the yields from such bonds to the highest point since 1939.
Increasing debt is but one sign of increasing prosperity and improving living standards. In many cases the new bond issues are the result of the great growth in population in general and of certain areas in particular that has marked the era of good times and industrial expansion.
Local governments are now striving mightily to catch up with the pressing demand in their communities for schools, sewers, water works, hospitals, street improvements or intercity highways.
This time the voter approved all but about $4 out of each $100 asked. They brought the total of issues approved in this election to nearly 2½ billion dollars.
As just one example of the change in mood, voters in New York state in 1955 refused to approve 100 million dollars in state credit for highway building. This week they endorsed a 500-million-dollar bond issue for that purpose. At present the average yield on such municipal and state bond issues has climbed above 3 per cent. Right after World War II the average was less than 1½ per cent.
In part this yield has simply joined in the upward march of all interest rates. But high income tax rates play a part. With yields from blue chip common stocks often considerably lower now than a year or two ago, while tax rates are rising in many localities, taxpayers in the upper brackets find the tax-exempts alluring.
Bond issues were on local ballots all across the country this year. The voters turned some down. But shortages of classrooms prompted voters in many places to approve bond issues for new schools.
Other local or state propositions that found the voters more receptive this year, in one or more communities, include bond issues to provide funds for:
Hospitals, street lighting and other civic improvements, highways, hospitals, water works, sewer facilities, memorial auditoriums and in at least one instance, a new library.
Six states voted aid in one form or another for veterans, including in some cases bonuses for Korean War veterans.

Natalie Wood Ends Elvis Visit

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actress Natalie Wood is back in town after a week's visit with Elvis Presley at the home of the singer's parents in Memphis, Tenn.
"Elvis is a very dear friend," said Miss Wood, who arrived by air. But the romance isn't serious, she added — not yet, anyway.
"I've known him for only a short time," she said, "two months, you know."
