President Resigns

Dr. Marmodio Arias Chosen To Establish Government; Rebellion Is Sponsored By Patriotic Organization

By A. V. McGEACHY

PANAMA CITY, Jan. 2. (AP)—A swift, vigorous revolution today brought the government of the Republic of Panama crashing down on the head of President Florencio Harmodio Arosemena. He resigned and appointed Dr. Marmodio Arias, one of the leaders of the revolt, to form a new government.

Ten persons were killed in sharp fighting that started near the presidential palace. Among the injured was Hartwell F. Ayers, American newspaper correspondent. Of the dead, eight were police officers and two civilians. Fifteen were wounded.

City Outwardly Calm

Tonight the city was outwardly calm. Except for hurrying groups or armed civilians and red-shirted firemen directing traffic and a complete halting of business, there was nothing to remind of the crash of firearms that resounded in the streets early in the day.

The rebellion was sponsored by the "Accion Communal," a patriotic organization which has violently criticized what it termed the "corruption" of the government under both President Chiari and President Arosemena.

Suddenly, without warning, a group of about 100 men this morning stormed the headquarters of the national police, who also served as

Weight Of The Earth And Time For Baby To Sleep--Problems Of Science

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

CLEVELAND, Jan. 2.—The fine tungsten filament in your electric lamp is the spring of the scale with which science has weighed the earth's 6,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 tons.

If your baby needs more sleep it is not so good to put him to bed earlier at night. An afternoon nap is better.

Meeting Is Closed

With these extremes illustrating the scope of its researches, the American Association for the Advancement of Science today closed its eighty-seventh annual meeting.

To weigh the earth more accurately than has been done before, science merely had to send to the nearest electrical supply house in Washington to get tungsten filament, and then do six years intensive work at measuring and calculating.

The ordinary commercial filament was the heart of the scales as described by Dr. Paul R. Heyl of the U. S. Bureau of Sandards, Washington, stronger and more flexible than the fine steel wire previously used, the tungsten helped eliminate errors.

A wire one thousandths of an inch thick suspended a tiny bar made to resemble a dumbbell by having a two-ounce glass ball attached to each end. This feathery dumbbell would move slowly when two steel cylinders, each weighing 140 pounds were placed close to the balls.

The rotational movement, Dr. Heyl said, was caused by the gravitational pull of the big weights upon the glass balls, a pull equivalent approximately to the weight of the period at the end of this sentence. To measure this pull accurately was the main job.

The apparatus differed from previous designs in obtaining a very slow swing of the dumbbell, so the scientists could measure the effect of a swing lasting five minutes instead of one taking but about half a minute. This also made for great-

Tar, Feathers Plastered On Woman Miner

Homesteader Attacked By Two Masked Men In Attempt To Drive Her From Valuable California Mining Claims

Search Is Started

Indian Cowboys Of Adjoining Ranch Thought Responsible For Act; Victim Tells Of Other Persecutions

(By Associated Press)

RIVERSIDE, Cal., Jan. 2. — Tar and feathers, applied to a woman homesteader by masked men, was reported today as a New Year's day deed perpetrated by cattlemen to drive Mrs. Ana Wood from her valuable mining claims and grazing land.

Sheriff's deputies began a search for Indian cowboys of an adjoining ranch.

"They told me to move out, or I would wish I had," Mrs. Wood told Deputy Carl Rayburn. Friends, who discovered the woman's plight last night when they went to her isolated ranch in the San Jacinto mountain foothills, treated her for burns and bruises. She was in a semi-conscious and hysterical condition when found.

Rayburn said the lone woman rancher accused the neighboring cattlemen of persecuting her for years, demanding she quit her homestead and valuable grazing lands. He reported the Indian cowpunchers had been known to drive cattle across her ranch, trampling crops, and muddying her water supply by chasing steers up and down a mountain stream.

A commotion caused by goats in her barn, Mrs. Wood said, drew her to the building early New Year's day. A masked man grabbed her, removed her clothing and with the aid of a masked accomplice plastered her with hot tar and rolled her in feathers.

Too Inventive

The inventive genius of Jack Cygon (above) of Lawrence, Kan., was altogether too much for officials of the U. S. Navy—and as a result Cygon is no longer a midshipman at the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. Cygon had connected various fixtures at the academy, including the clock by which classes were regulated, the elevator, various telephone lines and other instruments, to a switchboard in his room, and was having lots of fun when the authorities discovered him at it and requested his resignation.

Bankers Okeh Unemployment Program Here

Chamber Of Commerce Relief Campaign Unanimously Adopted By Representatives Of Three Lubbock Banks

With W. O. Stevens, vice president of the Citizens National bank acting as chairman of the meeting, representatives of three banks here yesterday afternoon approved, in a resolution unanimously adopted, the chamber of commerce unemployment relief program. Eight bankers and three business men attended the meeting.

Mr. Stevens, who is chairman of the bankers section of the employment promotion committee, explained the plans for obtaining cooperation of the public in the drive. He said that home owners were being asked to start their improvement plans as soon as possible.

To Urge Employment

In the discussion it was decided to have bankers ask their customers about their repair programs and to urge them to do it as soon as possible. The motion as adopted recommended bankers make the suggestion to customers.

H. W. Stanton, a committee chairman, also spoke, as did several others.

Those present included: W. O. Stevens and France Baker of the Citizens National bank; O. L. Slaton, W. S. Posey and F. R. Friend of the First National bank and C. E. Maedgen, L. C. Ellis and J. D. Mitchell of the Lubbock National; B. Sherrod, H. W. Stanton and Dr. I. E. Barr.

Letters Mailed

Forty five hundred letters were mailed out this week to home owners asking them to do their repair and remodeling work as soon as possible.

Ladies of Lubbock are to meet Tuesday morning at 8:45 in the Hotel Hilton to outline their program for the house to house visitation to be staged soon.

Another Bread Line To Him

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. (AP)—The public reception at the White House may have been a big social event to those who waited to see President Hoover, but to an unemployed New Englander with a basket on his arm it was just another bread line to be investigated.

The visitor, who by his own statement, had been keenly alert recently for free food, saw the line in front of the White House yesterday and decided it was worth looking into. So he fell in, basket and all.

The basket was taken from him by police and he passed through the big entrance, accepted the extended hands of President and Mrs. Hoover and passed out again.

The look of bewilderment on his face attracted a newspaperman, who asked what he thought of Mr. Hoover.

"Which one was he?" the visitor who is a woodchopper by trade, questioned back.

The stranger scratched his head in amazement when told he had met the president.

Solons Demand Withdrawal Of Marine Forces

Killing Of Eight Americans By Nicaraguan Insurgents Prompts Senators Of Both Parties To Renew Demands

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. — The killing of eight marines Wednesday by Nicaraguan insurgents prompted both republican and democratic senators today to renew demands on the administration for immediate withdrawal of American forces from the Central American republic.

Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee said:

"I am of the opinion, as I always have been, that we ought not to be there."

Held "Bad Thing."

Senator King, democrat, Utah, said it was "a bad thing to send bayonets to support American investments in foreign countries," and demanded immediate return of the marines to the United States.

The Utahan, who, like Borah, has been an opponent of military intervention in the southern republic, said he would introduce a resolution Monday calling for withdrawal of the marines.

King said the ambushing of the marines has aroused "the sympathies if not the anger of the American people."

Efforts to get the marines out of Nicaragua by withholding appropriations for expenses failed twice in the senate in April, 1928.

Resolutions to that end by Senator McKellar, Tennessee, and Heflin, Alabama, both democrats were defeated by big majorities.

Identify Man As Robber Of Station Here

John F. Haley Charged With Robbery With Firearms In Connection With Hijacking Here Last August

Identified by Woodrow Branch of the Branch Brothers filling station at 1402 19th street, as the man who hi-jacked him on Aug. 21, 1930, obtaining $13.50, a man giving name of John F. Haley and his address as Colorado, was bound over to the grand jury at his examining trial before Justice W. S. Clark, it was announced last night by O. B. Conley, chief deputy sheriff.

Haley faces a charge of robbery with fire arms and his bond was set at $5,000. He had not made the bond up to a late hour last night.

Arrested at Colorado.

The man was arrested in Cofo... rado, Texas, and returned to Lub... bock. Branch positively identified... him as the bandit who robbed the... filling station.

A Littlefield tourist camp owner, who lost about $100 in a robbery at about the same time, came to Lubbock yesterday and identified Haley as the man who held him up.

"We believe that we can connect Haley with a robbery at Midland," the chief deputy stated. "He fits the description exactly and we are expecting some one from Midland in the next day or so and look Haley over."

The sheriff's department has been at work on the case for some time, acting on a tip that the man wanted was in the state. Haley was located at Colorado and a warrant obtained for his arrest.

Haley gave his age as 24 years.

The Gauthier family was enroute from Santa Fe, New Mexico, where they had been living, to their former home in Lafayette, La.

Plane To Hop Across Ocean With Freight

Woman And Man Plan To Take Off Early Today On First Trans-Atlantic Freight Hop Of Heavier-Than-Air Craft

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. — The monoplane "Trade Wind" was made ready tonight for an early morning start tomorrow on the first trans-Atlantic freight flight of heavier-than-air craft.

Following trade winds of the South Atlantic from New York to Paris by way of Bermuda and the Azores, the plan will carry a cargo of 200 pounds of food products. It will be guided by Mrs. Beryl Hart and Lieut. William S. MacLaren, who seek to show that flying between America and Europe can be "taken out of the stunt class and put upon a sound commercial basis."

The flight also is expected to demonstrate, they said, that the South Atlantic can be crossed by plane in all seasons.

Mrs. Hart, a New York widow and one of the few women to hold a transport pilot's license, will pilot the Trade Wind. Lieutenant MacLaren, a former navy flier, will be navigator.

The specially built cabin ship, equipped with pontoons, will make refueling stops at Bermude and Horta, the Azores.

Joffre's Life Is Ebbing Slowly Out

PARIS, Jan., 2. (AP) — Marshall Joffre's life ebbed slowly away tonight as he lay in the coma into which he sank yesterday morning, but the sturdy heart beat on and his doctors could only await the inevitable end.

His wound was healing where they amputated his leg, there were no complications, but the old soldier was growing weaker every hour.

The doctors said they had been administering stimulants at intervals for hours but that this could not go on indefinitely. Already it had lasted much longer than they had expected.

Davis Murder Trial Starts

Hundreds Of Spectators Pack Ardmore, Okla., Courtroom As Youth Goes On Trial In Slaying Of Sooner Deputy

(By Associated Press)

ARDMORE, Okla., Jan. 2. (AP) — Hundreds of spectators packed district courtroom today while attorneys vainly attempted to select a jury for the murder trial of Colquitt Davis, accused slayer of Con Keirsey, widely known peace officer.

Veniremen with fixed opinions and others opposed to the extreme penalty the state will demand, delayed the start of the trial. A regular venire of 50 was exhausted in the first few hours and tonight only a handful were left of a special panel of 100.

The 20-year-old youth, alleged to have fatally wounded Deputy Sheriff Keirsey at a Wirt, Okla., rooming house, was captured in the Texas Panhandle recently after his brother, D. I. Davis, had been slain by Wichita, Kan., officers who tried to arrest the pair for the Wirt affray.

He is being defended by S. A. George, mayor of Ardmore, who was appointed by the court.

Despite the large crowd at today's sessions, there was no hint of violence. Davis was heavily guarded as he sat beside his mother, Mrs. Myrtle Martin, Palestine, Texas.

JAILER IS WOUNDED

Trusty Slightly Injured As Prisoner Makes Escape

GALVESTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — Joe Meyer, county jailer was critically wounded tonight when Tommy Reis, recently sentenced to 35 years in the penitentiary for a holdup, broke out of jail.

Claude Pond, trusty, was slightly wounded.

The break occurred when Reis was freed from his cell to meet a visitor who had called for him. When the visitor turned to depart, the jail door was opened. He drew his gun, fired directly at Meyer and felled him with a bullet wound through the stomach. Pond wrestled for the gun and sustained a flesh wound.

Reis and the unknown man ran down the jail steps and jumped into a car and disappeared.

ESCOBAR IS LOCATED

Suit For Marriage Annulment Shows Mexican In Canada

EL PASO, Jan. 2. (AP)—Mystery concerning the residence of General Jose Gonzales Escobar, who led an unsuccessful revolution in Mexico in 1929, was removed today when attorney of Mrs. Escobar, in announcing they had filed suit for annulment of her marriage, said the revolutionist was living in Montreal, Canada.

Escobar's whereabouts had not been generally known since he abandoned his army in Mexico in 1929. Attorneys for Mrs. Escobar, who said the annulment action had been filed in Quebec courts, stated Escobar was known in Montreal as J. Deras and that he was living with Elsia Valles, his first wife. The annulment petition claims Escobar never was divorced from his first wife.

Albert Einstein Discloses Problems That He Hopes To Solve In California

BY WALTER B. CLAUSEN

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 2. (AP) Dr. Albert Einstein disclosed today why he came to California.

He expects to help from the scientists at Mount Wilson observatory and California Institute of Technology to solve the major problem of his mind. This is whether gravitation, light, electricity and electro-magnetism are not different forms of the same thing.

"This question is the main problem of the present relativity theory. Interesting possibilities have been found to solve the question but it is still uncertain if the ways being tried will be successfu"

"New observations by Hubble and Humason (astronomers at Mount Wilson) concerning the red light in distant nebulate make the presumptions near that the general structure of the universe is not static. Theoretical investigations made by Le Maitre and Tolman (mathematicians of California Institute of Technology) show a view that fits well into the general theory of relativity.

The Berlin professor seems very happy to be among so many men working on physical tests of his relativity principle. A number of them have completed tests supporting his principle and further revelations are expected.

Eastern Railway Executives Reach Agreement On Major Details Of Their Plan To Merge Into Four Systems

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. — Eastern rail executives tonight reached agreement on the major details of their plan for consolidating their railroads into four systems and transmitted them to the interstate commerce commission at Washington by telephone.

The allocations agreed on were:

To the New York Central—The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad, and a direct connection with the Virginian railway at Deep Water, including joint rates and routes over the railway.

To the Pennsylvania—The Wabash, the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton, and the Norfold and Western.

To the Baltimore and Ohio—The Ann Arbor railroad, the Reading and Central railroad of New Jersey and Western Maryland, Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh, the Buffalo and Susquehanna, the Lehigh and Hudson River and the Chicago and Alton.

To the Chesapeake and Ohio — Nickle Plate system—and the Hocking Valley will be added the Erie railroad, the Bessemer and Lake Erie, the Pere Marquette, the Wheeling and Lake Erie, the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, and the Lehigh Valley, with certain rights to the Pennsylvania on the Lehigh Valley.

Income Tax Returns Must Be Filed By March 15

DALLAS, Jan. 2. (AP)—Beginning collection of 1930 federal income taxes, which are automatically one per cent higher than those of 1929 incomes was started in the second Texas district today when George C. Hopkins, collector of internal revenue for the district, mailed returns to about 80,000 persons whose names are on file as having paid taxes last year. The district embraces 144 counties in the northern half of the state.

Returns must be filed with the collector not later than March 15. Hopkins warned that no extensions will be granted this year excepting in cases where no question exists as to the plea for extension being lawful.

The Woman's Angle

WELLESLEY graduates, five years out of college, read four times as much fiction as they do serious works as history and essays, according to figures released by the Book Publishers Research Institute, after the first test in a series to determine the reading habits of college graduates. Biography comprises about one-eighth of the reading of these graduates, they read practically no mystery novels and English literature has more influence on their present reading than any other one course taken in college.

* * *

Wellesley was chosen because it is considered a representative woman's college and one upholding definite cultural standards.

* * *

The statistics probably are representative of college women and their reading. While history and essays probably comprise a part of practically every woman's reading, I don't think they have any great part in the total. The women I know confine their reading principally to fiction and biography. Few of those whom I know read the confession magazines and cheap mystery stories, although they do read detective stories. The leading novels of the year were named by the Wellesley graduates and the works of Sigrid Undset led.

This survey served as a sort of balm to me. During the fall my Alma Mater sent out a questionnaire asking questions about everything from complexes to my participation in church work. The statement, "Name three worthwhile books you have read since finishing college," held up my questionnaire for considerable time. I have read a lot of books I like and some which I think are thought-stimulating but I have read few books except fiction and travel, depending upon magazines for whatever other sort of reading I do. I hesitated a long time before I put three pieces of fiction down on that list. I feel better about it now. Probably most of my contemporaries did the same thing.

HIS NAME WAS SEVIER

THE other day I asked for some information. I wanted to know who the third governor of Tennessee was. Before noon, I had that information with the adidtional bit that the first and third governors of the state were the same man, John Sevier. Mrs. I. E. Barr and Mrs. P. T. Wood phoned the information in. Thanks. We wanted to know that in this office.

* * *

Mrs. Barr has contributed something else to this column. It is called a Scripture cake, or a cake with a New England conscience, and you must have a Bible at hand if you want to make it. Mrs. Barr tells me that the ingredients for a cake can be found in this formula:

* * *

Use 4 1-2 cups of I Kings, 4th chapter, 22nd verse; one cup of Judges, fifth chapter, 25th verse; two cups of Jeremiah, 6th chapter, 20th verse; two cups I Samuel, 14th chapter, 25th verse; a pnich of Leviticus, 2nd chapter, 13th verse; six of Jeremiah, 17th chapter, 11th verse; two teaspoons of Amos, 4th chapter, 5th verse. Season to taste with II Chronicles, 9th chapter, 9th verse.

HE THINKS SO, TOO

ARTHUR L. BROWN believes that I am justified in thinking that I can give advice on rearing children because I grew up in a family. He feels the same way about the advice he gives or want to give. Mr. Brown has something in common with every other man I ever talked to.

"When I was young, I didn't get any petting and coaching. I had to get up in the morning and do chores and take responsibilities. That makes a man of one," he told me. The rest will say the same thing.

HOW ABOUT IT?

HAVE YOU been keeping those New Year resolutions you made Thursday? Sunday is a good time to get off that diet and Monday is just about the time to start riding again after having walked to work for three successive mornings.

Mrs. Howard Hostess

Thursday Bridge club members and several other guests were entertained by Mrs. L. A. Howard Thursday afternoon in her home at 2305 20th street.

Club members who attended were Mesdames R. E. Dick, C. A. Clements, L. C. Hewitt, Dewey J. McClellan, W. J. T. Robertson, Ray Hinson and W. H. Wright.

Other guests included Mesdames T. C. Root, C. M. Traylor, A. S. Meinecke, H. B. Hawkins and J. B. Acton. Mrs. Root made high score in bridge games and Mrs. Acton was high in a cut.

The hostess used pink and white in a color scheme and featured the new year motif.

Bickleys Hosts

Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Bickley were hosts Friday at noon to Methodist ministers in this district and their families with a dinner at the First Methodist church here.

Robert H. Bean, the retiring county judge, and Mrs. Bean served a dinner Thursday in their home to county commissioners during Mr. Bean's administration.

Attend Dinner

Several Lubbock people attended a New Year dinner yesterday at the Caldwell school house. People in that community served the dinner in honor of Mrs. Kelly Clifton, principal of the school. Those who attended from here were Mrs. F. A. Kleinschmidt and son, Mrs. J. O. Ford, Mrs. E. Burdett, Mrs. J. W. Smith, Mrs. Earl Lovell and son.

Survey Made Of Interests

Tech Council Of Methodist Church Meets Thursday To Plan For Religious Survey

The Young People's Council of the First Methodist Church completed plans for a survey of Methodist students at a meeting Thursday night, according to Robert Martin, president of the council. This council has charge of the planning and carrying on of the church program of work for the college students and town young people, all of whom are included in the Young People's Division of church work.

Thirty young people met at the church to complete plans for the survey which began today with college registration. Information is being asked in an effort to discover the prospective interests of the students in a program of church activities. Such interests include Sunday school classes and college credit classes for such work, Epworth League or forum groups, teaching, young people's choir, orchestra, Sunday evening open house, religious drama, social service, life service club, country life club.

Those participating in the survey include Robert Martin, Mildred A. Hinds, Solon Clements, Freddie Adkins, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Trostle, Sammie Marie Hitt, Garland Smith, Lola Thompson, Lilah Gay, E. Rogers, Daisy Lockwood, H. Y. Price, Hazel Garver, Orene McClellan, Preston Connor, Carl McAdams, Don Wielenman, Lyra Armeling, Annie Fern Bickley, Lizzie Belle Clements, Ruth Price.

Man Of Mystery And Charity Feeding Unemployed; Refuses To Give Name

NEW YORK, an. 2 (AP)—He is a man of mystery, a man of charity without glory, once a down-and-outer.

Mr. Glad is the name he uses.

He passes out sandwiches and coffee to the unemployed. He passes out nickles that they may have carfare in their unseasing search for work. He advertises for people to send him old gloves at 346 Broadway, that he may pass them on to warm the hands of the unfortunates

Who is he? The Broadway address is just a place where he calls for his mail.

"It really doesn't matter whether my name is Jones, Cohen, Murphy or Smith, or Whether I am in the insurance business, or dry-goods, or banking, or what-not," is his answer, by letter to a request for an interview.

"I am just an ordinary business man, who does not want his identity revealed. If it were people would think, perhaps, that what I am doing was being done with some ulterior purpose, which I assure you is not the case.

"There is a mystery and kick in 'Mr. Glad' that arouses a spirit of charity in the minds of those who have for those who have not. This would not be so if I revealed my identity. Even the sisters of St. Vincent' hospital, to whom I gave 3,000 sandwiches and 3,000 cups of coffee last week to serve to their bread line, do not know who I am. They promised not to tell, but I convinced them, I think, that it is better that they not know."

YOUNG GRIL SUICIDES

CHICAGO, Jan. 2. (AP)—Elsie McElrath, 14, was told by an elder sister that she was too young to go to a New Year's party. She went anyway. After she returned the elder sister attempted to chastise her but she ran into the bathroom of her home, locked the door and drank poison. She died in a hospital.

BIFFLE APPOINTED

The Ailment AND THE PRESCRIPTION

Dear Citizen.

We are today facing one of the most serious situations in the history of Lubbock. There are at least 300 or 400 men in Lubbock out of work—men who cannot clothe or feed their families unless they are given employment, or, charity.

Charity Not Wanted!!

These men do not want charity. They honestly and truly want to earn a living for their families. They are not ordinary charity cases. They are in destitute circumstances because they cannot find any work to do.

What Can We Do?

Here's the Answer!! DO IT!!

The only solution for this situation is for you and me to do our part. We cannot dodge or side-step the issue. What can you do? Here's the answer:

Does your house need painting, papering, repairing or otherwise touching up? Does your plumbing need repairing or more of it installed? Can you have your yard filled in—a vacant lot filled in—your yard terraced—your garden plowed—your fences rebuilt? Do you own any land that you can have grubbed?

Are there any improvements, repairs, alterations, additions, construction work to or about your home or place of business that you contemplate doing this year that can be done immediately instead of waiting until later?

The Issue Is Imperative!

Do Not Side-Step Your Obligation !!

If you can do any of these things you can profit personally by having the work done now while materials are cheap, labor is plentiful and good workers are available. You can also help the local situation by furnishing employment for one or more men for one or more days at this time.

Power Of Britain's Aging Statesmen Is Menaced By Demand For Young Leaders; Old Leaders Criticized

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Writer.

LONDON, Jan. 2. — A growing youth movement in the British political realm threatens to sweep aside old leaders, old platforms and old parties.

The supplanting of the aged statesmen who have guided Britain's affairs since pre-war years with new young leaders has been predicted by many observers.

Revolutionary reforms that have overtaken governments throughout Europe now may find an echo in a Young England party.

It is pointed out that the soldiers and workmen abolished old regimes and old parties in Russia and produced Bolshevism. The soldiers swept away old formulas in Italy and under Mussolini produced Fascism. Under Hitler, young politicians threaten to produce some sort of new alignment in Germany. And those Britons who look for a new deal in Great Britain think the government will be peculiarly British — neither Fascism, Bolshevism nor Hitlerism.

Old Leaders Hold Reins.

Others contend that there will be no change. They point out that the old leaders in all the old parties have firm control of the party machinery and the party press. And they say the after-the-war generation is too frivolous to care much one way or another.

But advocates of a youth movement point now to a Britain with its industries shot to pieces, its taxes mountain-high, it unemployment lists growing into sinister proportions. They say that just as the elder statesmen allowed England to slide down the slippery slope into the ruin of the World war, so now they are allowing England to slip down into the morass of business and financial ruin. And just as stern and almost dictatorial methods had to be employed to win the war, so they say similar methods may have to be employed now to win social harmony.

They point to the recent political manifesto of Sir Oswald Mosley as one of the signs of this. Though he is a convert to Socialism from the Tory party, Sir Oswald virtually asks that parliamentary government be superseded during the present crisis by a dictatorship of five real doers of things.

Discontented In Evidence.

It is pointed out that there are men in all the political parties in Parliament who are impatient with existing affairs. Sir Oswald is always one of the first mentioned. So is Major Oliver Stanley, younger son of the Earl of Derby. Stanley is a Tory, but he is no more satisfied with things than is Mosley.

Many times in recent years the British people have demonstrated they wish parliamentary palaver be cut short and that they are only waiting for real leadership to effect a reform. It has been complained that though the Socialists have said they could cure unemployment, they have failed just as the Tories did when they were in office. Taxes keep going up under Socialists as under Tories. Business keeps getting worse just as it did in Tory times. The only answer is—put more people on the dole.

There is an inchoate, unformed class among the people which desires to see some sort of Young England party.

Thinking capitalists and thinking workmen see that unless there is some immediate remedy, Great Britain will not be one nation, but two, existing alongside each other, hating each other, fighting each other.

The nation of business and the nation of the workers. The nation of business—which understands all its own worries, but knows nothing of the troubles of the men who work with their hands. The nation of workers—which knows all about its own privations, but knows nothing about the worries of the employers.

Hope For United Nation.

Young Englanders feel that the two nations must be welded into one understanding nation. But they see no hope in the present political parties. All three of them are dominated by their old chieftains. All three of them are busily engaged in the game of tactics.

There is the Socialist party with Premier MacDonald, 63; Lord Chancellor Sankey, 63; Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden, 66; Secretary for the Colonies J. H. Thomas, 55; Foreign Secretary Henderson, 66; Home Secretary Clynes, 60.

There is the Tory party with former Premier Baldwin, 62; former Foreign Secretary Sir Austen Chamberlain, 66; former Health Minister Neville Chamberlain, 59; former Chancellor of the Exchequer Churchill, 56.

There is the Liberal party whose leaders in the saddle are Lloyd George, 66; Lord Reading, 69; Sir John Simon, 55; Sir Herbert Samuel, 59.

All of these men were in office before the World war. Members of the generation, which fought the war and saved England are given only minor posts.

Tactical Fight Waged.

It is the same way with tactics:

The Tories are maneuvering to get the Socialists out and wage a campaign in which protection shall be the panacea for all ills, but not enough protection to frighten the industrial north of England with the threat of taxes on the people's food.

The Socialists are maneuvering to stay in power until they can choose their own time for an election and enter upon a raging, tearing anti-Tory campaign, labeling them as food taxers and, at the same time, against the House of Lords as an obstacle in the path of progressive legislation.

The Liberal party is maneuvering between the other two parties. United with the Tories, it can throw the Socialists out of office. United with the Socialists, it can keep them in. So far it has kept them in—at a price. Legislation has been given some Liberal party tinges. The Socialists have also promised the Liberals a measure of election law reform.

Two of the younger leaders of the growing opposition to the present political situation in England are pictured above. They are, left, Major Oliver Stanley, younger son of the Earl of Derby, and Sir Oswald Mosley, millionaire and Socialist.

Detective Is Shot To Death

Tampa, Florida, Man Slain While In Parked Car With Widow On Outskirts Of City; Woman Is Detained

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 2. (AP)—A volley of pistol shots killed John E. Jones, 52-year-old city detective, last night as he sat in a parked motor car in the outskirts of the city with Mrs. Hattie L. Steward widow of the former president of the Steward-Mellon tile company of Tampa.

Mrs. Steward said her companion was slain by a man who talked like a woman. The assailant, she related, approached the car, said, "Now I've got you where I want you," and began firing through the door of the closed automobile next to which Jones was sitting.

She was detained by Sheriff R. T. Joughlin for further questioning.

The sheriff said the door glass broke on the running board of the motor car and expressed the opinion that if the shots had been fired from the outside the glass would have broken inside the automobile. Mrs. Steward said she didn't understand that circumstance.

Jones and Mrs. Steward had been sitting in the car about twenty minutes before the assailant appeared, she said. At least four shots took effect in Jones and Mrs. Steward said "there must have been half a dozen fired."

She said she called for help and fired the officer's gun in the air without success and then walked four miles to a telephone and summoned police.

State Placed On Deficiency

W. Gregory Hatcher Announces General Revenue Warrants Deposited With Him Exceed Amount Of Cash In Fund

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 2—The state was on a deficiency again today, W. Gregory Hatcher, state treasurer, announcing that general revenue warrants deposited with him prior to opening the office this morning exceeded the amount of cash in the general revenue fund. He said the balance at the close of business Wednesday was $23,576.78.

Outstanding and unpaid warrants drawn against the general revenue fund exceed $3,000,000, with more than $1,000,000 of this amount held by banks, representing October and November payrolls.

Hatcher said the state could not go back on a cash basis until the January ad valorem taxes were collected and deposited. Tax collectors have until February 25 to make their deposits. He said warants would be called for and paid as fast as funds were received.

"And you, sir," said the court, "will winter in the workhouse."

Parole Sought For Richards

Dallas Insurance Man In Pen For Forgery As Aftermath Of Fatal Shooting In Wager On Congressional Race

DALLAS, Jan. 2. (AP) — District Attorney William McCraw said today he had been advised by Stanhope Henry, member of the state board of pardons and paroles, that an application had been made for a parole for Ben C. Richards, Dallas insurance man and one-time political leader, serving three years in the penitentiary for forgery.

Richards' conviction was an aftermath of a fatal shooting here over a wager made on outcome of the race between Tom Connally of Marlin and Earle B. Mayfield of Austin for the United States senate in 1928. Orville Matthews, Dallas bank employe, was shot to death by V. Ray Adams, rancher of Belton, in an argument over stakes. It was alleged Richards forged an endorsement on two $1,000 checks posted by the bettors.

McCraw said Henry told him the application for a parole stated Richards' wife and two children were unable to support themselves. The district attorney said he would forward to the board the facts and circumstances connected with Richards' trial, but he would make no recommendation for clemency.

Religion's Need Is Certain

THE American Association for Advancement of Science, meeting in Cleveland day before yesterday, was told that "religious training has no significant relation to delinquency." The Editor of the Morning Avalanche, in no sense a scientist disagrees with the statement for a very significant and non-scientific reason. That reason is: "It's not according to rule."

George R. Mursell, chief psychologist of the Ohio State Department of Public Welfare, an eminent success in his chosen field, is author of the statement. If Mr. Mursell is right we had just as well close our Sunday schools, bar youngsters from our churches and run the home without family prayer or reference to the Bible. And who among us would be willing to so handicap the coming generations?

The Morning Avalanche, mayhap, is a wee bit old-fashioned.

We see in religion—or rather in the teachings of the Lowly Nazarene—a definite institution which makes living worthwhile. We see in the teaching of religion, in the application of the principles of Christianity to the children of our land an opportunity to safeguard the world against the ages to come.

Scientifically, Mr. Mursell may be correct but from a common sense standpoint he undoubtedly errs. When religion is erased from the human picture—if it ever can be erased—that's when trouble will start. We need it too much every day.

What's the use? If you groan when the specialist punches you, he thinks you are pretending, and if you act the he-man, he thinks there's nothing wrong.

Preventing war should be easy after eradicating parrot fever. Just kill off the talkers.

It must please the vanity of a common little bad cold germ to get inside an important citizen and be called grippe.

Mr. Coolidge is entirely too modest for an ex-president. In naming eight important events in history, he ignored the Boston police strike.

Practical Health Problems

IMMUNIZING THE CHILD

Infants Should Be Vaccinated Against Smallpox Before They Are One Year Old, Says Experts

* * *

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

The dissemination of knowledge concerning the spread of infectious diseases creates great interest in the possibilities of freeing the child from the likelihood of having some of the conditions which were formerly considered an inevitable portion of its lot.

In a recent consideration of what may be done for the child in this connection, the United States Public Health Service states that children should be vaccinated against smallpox before they are one year old.

The chief advantages of vaccination at this early age are the fact the child is completely under control so that there is no danger of injury to the vaccination from being struck by hard objects, no danger of getting dirt into it, and little, if any, liklihood of infection.

At the time when the child enters school it should be vaccinated again, first because vaccination does not protect in every case throughout life; second, in order to protect the child against severe exposure, such as may occur when it goes out into the world. If the child is sufficiently immune to smallpox, the second vaccination will probably not take and the result will merely be a little red spot on the arm for a day or two.

The United States Public Health Service also recommends immunization against diptheria by the use of toxid or of toxin-antitoxin. The period for this immunization is preferably the time known as the pre-school age, although it is quite possible to immunize the child at a much earlier age. The injections given between the age of one and two years of age will make it possible for the child to enter kindergarten or even attend nursery school with the knowledge that it has been protected against the possibility of diptheria.

The other conditions with which mothers are especially interested are scarlet fever, measles, and infantile paralysis.

Scarlet fever is not nearly so common a condition as formerly, and its severity is apparently on the decline. Hence, it is advised that children be immunized against this disease only when there is likelihood of an epidemic or when the child has been exposed to the disease by contact with someone who has it.

In the case of measles, a serum taken from those who have recovered from the disease confers immunity. Here again it is not possible to vaccinate the entire community, and it is probably not advisable to attempt to protect the child by this method unless some other child in the vicinity has developed the disease and it is exposed.

Evidence is accumulating to indicate that children may be protected against infantile paralysis by inoculation of serum from someone who has recovered. Here also the protective measure should be available for use in times of epidemic or exposure, but not given as routine.

The vast majority of people are now protected against typhoid fever by the sanitation of water, sewage and food supplies. Vaccination against typhiod fever should be reserved for those who are going to travel in places where sanitation is not well developed.

The evidence that vaccines and vaccination for whooping cough protect against the disease is not such as to warrant the use of this measure as a routine. It should be left to the individual physician to decide whether or not it is to be used in any certain case.

Commission Too Speedy

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Members of the new federal power commission (three out of the five of them) tried to work too fast. Before risking a furor against themselves they should have waited for the cement, attaching them to their jobs, to harden. It may not hold now.

President Hoover having appointed the five commissioners, the next step was for the senate to confirm them. This, with varying numbers of dissentieng senators in three of their cases, the senate did, just before adjourning for the holidays.

Thereupon Chairman George Otis Smith and Associate Commissioners Marcel Garsaud and Claude L. Draper got busy immediately and did the very thing that they might have known was surest to start a violent cry of protest.

It appears altogether to have escaped their notice that the senate can rescind their confirmations if some senator launches the movement to that end as soon as congress reconvenes in January. That the movement will be launched is certain. How it will result is problematical, but Chairman Smith squeaked through by a mere nine-vote mapority in the first place and Commissioner Garsaud's was only 15. Neither can possibly have gained any senatorial friends since then and each may have lost a few.

They sought to undo their fast work later but it is doubtful whether it will avail them.

* * *

TO UNDERSTAND the situation it is necessary to go back to 1920, when the original power commission was created to control power sites on navigable streams and on all waters included in the public domain, whether navigable or otherwise.

For the last decade this commission has consisted, as per the law establishing it, of the secretaries of war, the interior and agriculture.

However, cabinet members are very busy officials and these three never have been able to meet as a power board oftener than twice or thrice a year, and even then only for the briefest sessions.

Therefore the commission's authority has been exercised (subject to the commissioners' final joint o. k. and, to some extent, subject also to the legal rulings of the board's solicitor, Charles A. Russell) mostly by its executive secretary, P. E. Bonner.

* * *

NOW, Bonner and Russell are far from having labored in harmony.

According to Bonner, Russell wanted to dominate the commission and make a great name for himself as a defender of popular rights. It was with his own ambitions constantly in mind, Bonner asserted, that Russell objected to Bonner's every secretarial act, literally blocking many a worthy project for no imaginable legitimate reason.

Russell's version was that Bonner was bent on surrendering the government's power resources to private exploitation, without adequate compensation, or none at all, to the people. He did not deny exerting himself to the utmost to checkmate such a program, as charged by him.

Bonner, by virture of longer service on the commission, perhaps had readier access to the commissioners' attention than Russell, in which respect he was at an advantage.

On the opposite hand, Russell had the support of the commission's chief accountant, William V. King, whose figures proved his contentions for him with unfailing regularity.

* * *

RUSSELL always spoke well of the cabinet members' handling, as commissioners, of power problems that he felt had been fairly explained to them. His complaint of them was that generally they were guided by Bonner—naturally (though unfortunately) enough, he said, considering that they were familiar with few of the matters their secretary presented to them, while they looked on him as an expert.

The solicitor's contention was that a full-time, independent commission was needed.

He urged, too, that it be given more authority.

The power industry, he maintained, is growing rapidly toward vast interstate proportions and promises soon to overshadow the railroads in importance. He ventured the prediction that the body charged with its regulation shortly will be rendering decisions surpassing the interstate commerce commission's in national significance.

Now is the moment, insisted Solicitor Russell, to bridle and bit the immense potentialities which he foresees, for the public benefit.

* * *

FURTHERMORE, Russell emphasized the urgency of an immediate start upon system of evaluating power properties, with a view to their possible ultimate acquisition by the government, or as a basis for future rate-fixing.

Formerly connected with the interstate commerce commission, the solicitor is aware of the practical hopelessness of attempting to agree upon such valuations after a long lapse of time following the original investments in colossal industries; aware of the eleven billion-dollar spread between the value placed by the interstate commission upon the country's railroads and the higher value placed upon them by their present owners.

Power figures should be agreed on at once and kept strictly up to date, declared Russell.

THE UPSHOT was the introduction by Senator James Couzens of a bill, subsequently passed by both houses of congress and signed by the president, providing for an independent commission of five members and for at least a beginning upon the program outlined by Solicitor Russell.

This new commission is the one around which the present commotion is raging.

President Hoover's appointments to were not a pronounced hit, when announced.

Except Chairman Smith (for manyyears director of the U. S. geological survey and a recognized scientist but with no reputation as a power expert) its members were unknown to nearly all the senators, and they had hoped for notabilities for posts many of them regard as weighed with huge responsibilities.

Senator Wheeler referred to the quintet as "five mediocrities." "It is a weak, not a vicious commission," said Senator Nye. These remarks fairly represented the consensus.

Hell won't be without compensations. No matter how rotten the climate, old residents always think their locality the garden spot.

Fancy needlework is coming back, it is reported. Well, with skirts that stay over the knee, the ladies need something to do with their hands.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

JUMBO, THE LITTLE MULE:—During his lifetime Jumbo became a famous "character" in the Northern Arizona country, doing service on the rugged and torturous trails across Grand Canyon and the Painted Desert. Though the animal was comparatively small in stature, he was noted for his ability to carry heavy loads of water and supplies across the long, dry stretches of country. He was also noted for his almost human intelligence, sometimes making these trips alone. On one trip he carried a heavy traveller a distance of 90 miles, across the Painted Desert, in 11 hours.

Murder At Bridge

©1930 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JUANITA SELIM is murdered at bridge. The replaying of the "death hand" shows that the following had opportunity for murder: CLIVE HAMMOND and POLLY BEALE, together in the solarium; FLORA MILES, in Nita's closet, reading a note sent to Nita which she thinks is from her husband; LYDIA, the maid, who says she was asleep and did not hear LOIS DUNLAP, who was in the dining room with TRACEY MILES, ring for her; JUDGE MARSHALL and JOHN DRAKE, who came in separately and were noticed by no one; DEXTER SPRAGUE, who says he came from the bus and went directly into the dining room with JAENT RAYMOND.

Sprague explains the note to Nita, and says he knew Nita in New York, and that she wrote him suggesting he try to get the contract for a Hamilton movie. Dundee tells the group that a gun with a silencer was used. To his surprise, he learns that Marshall had such a gun, that the whole group used it in target practice, and that Nita was the last to use it. The gun is now missing, and, Dundee, learns that everyone of the guests had opportunity to steal it. CAROLYN DRAKE says that Nita must have taken it, and that Sprague stole it from her and killed her. Dundee apparently ignores this theory, and asks Marshall where he knew Nita before she came to Hamilton.

NOW GO O NWITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVIII

"You are damned impertinent, sir!" Judge Marshall shouted, the tufts of his white mustache trembling with anger.

"Then I take it that you do not wish to divluge the circumstances of your friendship with Mrs. Selim?" Dundee asked deferrentially.

"Friendship!" the old man snorted. "Your implications, sir, are dastardly! I met Mrs. Selim, or rather, Nita Leigh, as she was introduced to me, only once, several years ago when I was in New York. Naturally—"

"Just a moment, Judge. You say she was introduced to you as Nita Leigh. Then you knew her as an actress, I presume?"

"I refuse to submit to such a cowardly attack, sir!"

"Attack, Judge?" Dundee repeated with assumed astonishment. "I merely thought you might be able to shed a little light on the past of the woman who has been murdered here today, with a weapon you admit to having owned. . . However—"

The elderly ex-judge stared at his tormentor for a moment as if murder was in his heart. He gasped twice, then suddenly his whole manner changed.

"I apologize, Dundee. You must realise how—But that is beside the point. I met Nita Leigh at —er—at a social gathering, arranged by some New York friends of mine. She was young, attractive, more refined than—er—than the average young woman in musical comedy. Naturally, I told her if she was ever in Hamilton to look me up. And she did."

"And because she was 'more refined than the average young woman in musical comedy'—than the average chorus girl, to put it simply," Dundee took him up, "you co-operated with Mrs. Dunlap to introduce her to your most intimate friends—including your wife?"

"Oh, Hugo! Why didn't you tell me?" Karen Marshall wailed.

"You see, sir, what you are doing!" Judge Marshall stormed.

"I am truly sorry if I have distressed you, Mrs. Marshall," Dundee protested sincerely. "But—" He shrugged and turned again to the husband: "I understand you were Mrs. Selim's landlord. . . May I ask how much rent she paid?"

"The house rents for $100 a month—furnished."

"And did Mrs. Selim pay her rent promptly?" Dundee persisted.

"Since this is the 24th of May, sir, Mrs. Selim's rent for June was not yet due."

Not before poor little Karen could Dundee force himself to ask what, inevitably, would have been his next question—one which could not have been evaded, as the ex-judge had evaded the other two questions: "Is it not true, Judge Marshall, that Nita Leigh Selim paid you no rent at all?" But there were others ways to find out. . .

"Look here, Dundee!" a brusque voice challenged, and the detective whirled to face Polly Beale. It was like her, he thought with a slight grin, to address him as one man to another. . .

"Yes, Miss Beale?"

"I'm no fool, and I don't think any of my firends here are either—though two or three of them have acted like it today," the masculine-looking girl stated flatly. "You've made it very plain that any one of us here, except the Sprague man, could have stolen Hugo's gun and silencer. . . . Has the gun been found?"

"It has not, Miss Beale."

"O. K.!" The queer girl snapped her fingers. "I move that you or Captain Strawn search the men for the weapon, and that I search the women. . . . Wait!" she commanded harshly to a flurry of feminine protests. "I'll ask you, Dundee to search me first yourself. I believe the technical term is "frisking,' isn't it? . . . Then 'frisk' me. . . . Here is my hand bag. I wore no coat, except this—" and she pointed to the jecket of her tweed suit.

As she strode toward the detective Clive Hammond sprang after her with an oath and a sharp command.

"Shut up, Clive! I'm not married to you yet!" she retorted, but her eyes were gentler than her voice.

His face burning with embarrassment, Dundee went through the tra-

Traffic Violations Lead All Others In Lubbock For December, Report

December had more traffic violations than all other violations, the monthly report of John Lemond, chief of police, made public yesterday, showed. There were 244 violations of the traffic ordinances to 114 arrests on other matters.

Of these 114 arrests, 16 were turned over to county authorities for action, while the corporation court handled the rest of the work.

Arrest 41 "Drunks"

Of the arrests in the first division, titled criminal activities, eight were for pro law violations, 34 for investigation, 41 for drunkenness, 10 for vagrancy, six for theft, eight for gambling, one for dope, one for fighting, one for forgery, two for hi-jacking and two for disturbance.

Wagon calls for prisoners during the month totaled 105; meals served, 243; sudden deaths investigated, 1; doors found and reported open, 7; persons reported to police as missing, 15; missing persons found, 15; emergency car calls, 38; fires discovered, 12; burglary reports, 1; vehicular accidents, 3.

Traffic violations included the following: speeders 21; two hour parking, 144; double parking, 6; red light runners, 16; red line, 36; parking in alleys, 3; all night parking, 14; left turn, 2; stop signal, 2.

Headquarters Still Popular Lodging

City police headquarters continues popular as a free hotel for unfortunates who are broke and unable to seek lodging elsewhere, according to the monthly report of the department issued Friday. Total number of persons cared for during December was 184, approximately 100 less than during the month of November.

Seventeen of the 48 states were represented at some time during the month. Totals by states for the period includes:

Kansas 8; Louisiana 7; Texas 117; Oklahoma 8; Washington 4; Ohio 2; Wisconsin 1; New Mexico 8; California 2; Missouri 4; Montana 1; Illinois 3; Indiana 1; Arkansas 3; Michigan 2; West Virginia 1; Colorado 2.

Maedgen, Vaughan To Confer On Federal Building

C. E. Maedgen, new president of the Lubbock Board of City Development, and John L. Vaughan, postmaster, will represent the chamber of commerce at a proposed conference in Washington with government officials to discuss the chances of speeding up announced construction of the new federal building here.

The two men, it was announced yesterday, will go to Washington soon to see what can be done in the matter of obtaining early action on the building. Directors of the chamber of commerce yesterday selected the men and instructed them to make the trip in the event early action is not made by the federal government.

A Debutante's Beauty Hints

THE debutante knows that if she is going to be beautiful in this year of clustered curls and trailing trains she has to mark her calendar with beauty resolves for every single date.

She is transforming her dressing table into a laboratory equipped with working materials. She realizes that it is more important to turn out a lovely, finished product than to have a silver-and-crystal-setting in which to do it.

First of all, she knows that her face must be as clean as it was in the days when it was scrubbed soundly with warm water and soap every morning before she skipped off to school. Her childhood complexion glowed under this treatment and she is using exactly the same method today. Every morning and every night she washes her face with pure Castile soap, using her fingers to apply the soapy suds. She has discarded wash cloths entirely, as they hold too many germs.

Next, she uses a fairly stiff complexion brush on the lather she has worked up with finger tips. The brush removes every particle of dust and grime and revives her drooping tissues. Then she rinses with warm water, letting it get cooler until it is cold. Rinsings are repeated again and again, the cold water serving as a tonic. A piece of ice, folded in a soft cloth, and rubbed briskly across her face, adds bloom.

The wise debutante has noticed that men use soap and water instead of cleansing creams, and as a rule have clear skins.

Many girls are beginning to realize . . . that there are certain advantages in washing their faces just like a man washes his . . . that is, with soap and water.

ONCE in a while, she admits, a certain texture of skin refuses to accept soap without a burning, uncomfortable sensation. If you are subject to this unpleasantness, a good cleansing cream will take the place of soap and help to make you lovely. The cold water rinsing follows the removal of the cream with soft tissues.

The debutante knows that beauty experts are advocating milk baths for the face today, even more than in other years. Milk keeps the skin soft and white, and the new fashions demand the utmost femininity.

When the debutante uses milk she heats it first, then pats it into the skin with absorbent cotton. After an hour she removes it with cold water. If she hasn't 60 minutes to spare before she is due at a tea-dance or formal, she takes the count on as many as she has.

If the debutante is going out, she is ready for her make-up, after this treatment. If she is going to bed she uses skin food next, applying it gently with an upward, outward movement. The cream is left on while she bathes, as the steam will send a larger supply of it into the pores than an all-night mass of plain cream.

THEN she removes every vestige of the cream. She has decided to let her skin breathe this year. Night treatments are banished from her calendar. The debutante knows that faces grow tired, just like bodies, and they shouldn't have to spend the whole night trying to get stimulated through a layer of cream or lotion.

She has another reason, too. If there should be a fire or an exciting burglary she would hate to appear before the public with a radiant, greasy nose.

And the debutante will tell you that she is getting results . . . or masculine homage, which is the same thing. People are asking her why she keeps her skin so young and flawless when she never misses a single ride on the social merry-go-round.

She doesn't tell them that cleanliness is next to comeliness. That would have about as much interest for the stagline as a glass of warm water before breakfast. She just goes home and washes her face the right way.

Spring Hats That Brim With Chic

TRY and keep the spring hats from going to your head!

Palm Beach sponsors such becoming chapeaux that it will take a strong-minded girl to wear her winter headgear when her eyes light on the new confections that are called hats.

Straws predominate, many of those nice open-work weaves. Shiny panamalac is good for suit wear. Natural Panamas and the featherweight peanut Panamas that Paris loves are fine for sports.

The shape's the thing, however, that will intrigue your eye and delight your features. There's width at the sides, and some to spare, on many a model. Upward and outward seems to be the motto of these charming extraverts.

Of course it is the bicorn and tricorn influence. You all know how flattering they are. But new hats can't be just like the old. So these new head pieces have the side width, the upward lift of the winter mode, with added expansion to their brims and feminine curves often, instead of being so pointed about it all.

THE white hats of winter influence the coming spring mode. White and pastel shades will top many a suit this spring instead of having the hat match in color.

The light hat is more perishable than the dark one, but if you do take proper care of light colors, they repay you in their flattery, being much more becoming, as a rule, than dark ones.

You can have as little or as much trim as you want on your new bonnet. You can have ribbons, flowers or leather. You can have felt combined with straw to make a delightfully different chapeau.

Four of the most popular new shades, those that are apt to set the styles for the predominating number of spring hats, are the wide, irregular brimmed hat, sitting up on a bandeau; the larger tricorn or bicorn; always with a feather or ribbon trim to accent the corners; the dressmaker tailored hat, small-brimmed and feminine; and the little poke hat up on a bandeau but down on the sides, called the Watteau model.

ONE of the first type of hats is a dark brown ballibuntl with a lighter tan felt bandeau and trim. The brim over the bandeau on one side and in the back is not very wide. The other side widens and is pleated in three cut pleats to break the monotony of plain surfaces. It has no banding, but out through the crown the felt breaks in two perky bow ends.

The second is the feminized tricorn, in a new green crin straw, with curled ostrich tips at the sides of a slightly lighter green.

It is essentially a suit hat and can be the color of your blouse more correctly than the color of your suit.

Third in line comes the little dress and suit hat that is a new shape indeed, with a straight brim, short in the front. It is made of dull, rough natural yedda straw, with three folds in the front of the crown, and the brim has a flange of the brown belting ribbon, pleated all around. Into this is placed a little feather bow of brown.

Last, but not least, comes the Watteau, which none but the prettiest should attempt to wear, for it is a young hat of charm and naivete.

This one is made of parakeet green visca with a cluster of green satin ribbon and a few little flowers at the back. It is the hat superb to top a dainty little spring frock.

Starting Boys Wrong

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THROWING snowballs at truck drivers was the cause of Jimmy's being kept after school. He wrote "I broke my word" 100 times, then trudged home through the twilight thinking it a heck of a world where a fellow couldn't have a little fun once in a while.

"Why isn't the walk cleaned off?" his father wanted to know when he came in.

"Jimmy was kept in and just came home," said his mother.

"What for?"

"Oh, I guess I did someh'm!"

"Why can't you behave?"

Jimmy didn't know, so he didn't answer, and anyhow if he did answer, he'd learned from experience that it would only be used against him.

He wasn't ashamed of throwing snowballs at truck drivers. No, indeed! They were "soft apples," he would have told you, and wouldn't hurt a flea. Besides there was one of those smarties that had squirted tobacco juice at him while waiting for a light to change, and yesterday a grocery boy had hit him in the eye at the same corner with a banana skin and laughed himself to death when Jimmy almost got run over dodging another car.

But discussion brought out details, he would be grilled about his punishment, and he would have to tell that he had written "I broke my word" 100 times on school paper with his name signed at the end.

SOME way or other he stuck at that. Every time he had written it resentment and shame had seared his soul alternately. Gosh! You'd think he'd murdered somebody, when all he'd done was to stand up with the class when the principal came in and asked how many would promise not to snowball drivers.

And then when he saw that grocery bozo (he was the same kid that sicked the big dog on that little one, one day), why, it wasn't the traffic light that made him see red. And before he remembered about standing up and looking solemnly at the principal, the grocery boy on the truck had had a sudden eclipse of vision and while making a dab to get the snow out of his eyes he nearly ran over the traffic cop.

The boy told the cop, but Jimmy ran. However, the next day the boy stopped in at the office and told again.

He hoped the matter was sealed and forgotten now as he quietly ate his supper, but next day the teacher suddenly froze his blood by telling the class that "James Arbuckle had been—" well, she told every darned bit and "hoped that none of the others would be so unprincipled as to perjure themselves." "Perjure" was the word she used, and as it was used in the papers Jimmy classed it with courts. He was beginning to feel like a felon.

THE school gazed at him solemnly while he squirmed miserably in his seat, turned red and white and hung his head. That he had thrown snowballs at a driver seemed to be forgotten, but everywhere he moved his small person that day there was some reference made about his breaking his word.

His mother heard of it, then of course that same night his father learned the truth. He got down a book and read him a few pages from the "Life of Lincoln." His mother cried as she washed the dishes.

When Jimmy went to bed that second night he had lost his resentment and he hadn't a rag of self-respect left. He was a marked man.

Others would forget, but not Jimmy, for he had really decided by this time that he wasn't morally clean, that one day you were fine and good and honest, and the next, without feeling any different inside or acting any different from what you always did, some crazy thing happened and you found yourself in the thumb-print class. He was confused, hurt, helpless.

EVERYTHING that had happened in school that term, everything that happened at home, was twisted into that stale old chestnut about his not being a man of honor. He started various defenses that took calculation. He no longer thought straight. He had to feel around in circles, hurting under it all, trying to save his pride.

He became quiet, kept his own company, refused games, gave no one the slightest chance to rub salt in that festering wound.

All of such pseudo-moralizing I call rotten. There is so much of it done among children, turning thoughtless impulse into something abnormal and criminal.

Children should be talked to seriously, of course, but without the implication of viciousness where no such motive was meant. And not too seriously too much of the time, either.

Occasionally, a self-righteous person who wields a little power, enjoys spilling out his own innate vindictiveness on the children.

There are no words strong enough to denounce such mistaken powers.

Buying Now For a House

Your Christmas check will bring new comfort to the living room . . . if you invest it in an easy chair, ottoman, end table, or lamp. (Illustration courtesy American Furniture Mart.)

NOW that the Christmas tree has been taken down; the tinsel and ornaments packed away for another year, it is time to survey the home and to see what you are going to do with the Christmas check.

When you were on your holiday shopping tour you saw countless large and small things you yearned to buy for yourself. You wondered how it could be so hard to buy for others when it would be so simple to buy for yourself.

Now you are free to think of yourself and home. Your Christmas check can be turned into an investment by a practical purchase.

If you have been wanting one of those delightful little powder tables, now is the time to get it. If your check does not cover the cost, make it the first payment. The tables are seen in many woods and in many colors, and you can find one to match your bedroom furniture or to contrast pleasingly with it. The glass-lined compartment for powder and cosmetics pleases the fastidious woman.

If you feel somehow that the Christmas check should be shared with other members of the family, some piece of occasional furniture for the living room will bring you joy.

ONE of those new refreshment tables—a coffee table with a drawer—would enhance the living room. A commode which is also a sewing cabinet would serve as a side table beside a chair and would give you a fine place to keep your pick-up sewing. If your living room does not need either of these tables, any of the many tilt-top, console, end or side tables would probably find a place in it. Perhaps you have always wanted a really comfortable chair for your very own. One of the early American or French provincial in vogue just now, would satisfy this desire and would be an excellent addition to the living room furniture.

Sunday Supper Menu

By MISSIS PHYLLIS

SUNDAY is an odd day in every household. Sometimes the family gets up late and has a larger breakfast than usual, which keeps everyone content until dinner at four or five or six. In other homes there is a hurried breakfast followed by a scramble to get the children off to Bible school, in which case there may be a luncheon when they come back and an evening dinner or a dinner at one or two o'clock with an evening supper. Whichever way it is, it is not as ordinary days—the luncheon isn't like a mid-week luncheon, and the supper is more like a tea.

Let's see what to have to eat for such occasions. It must be something not too heavy and still with enough body to fill a fellow up. And it shouldn't be fussy to prepare because the Sunday dinner is usually a bit fussier than mid-week meals and one extraordinary meal in a day is enough.

ONE menu consists of tuna fish salad sandwiches with tomatoes, chocolate cake, coffee and tea or milk.

For tuna fish salad sandwiches you will need 1 can white meat tuna fish, 2 stalks celery, 2 sweet pickles, 6 stuffed olives, and mayonnaise.

Drain the oil from the fish and flake. Put into a chopping bowl with the celery, pickles and olives which have been cut into small pieces. Chop until quite fine and thoroughly mixed. Then add enough mayonnaise to moisten. This much may be done early or the day before you want to use it, if you keep the container tightly covered. Cut day-old bread in slices a fourth inch thick. Spread one slice with softened butter, the other thinly with mayonnaise. Spread the filling on and cover it with a very thin and very cold slice of tomato. Press the pieces of bread together and cut into triangles. Serve with pickles and olives.

If there are children to be served, make them plain tomato sandwiches, omitting the mayonnaise.

A GOOD chocolate cake requires 1-2 cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 3 eggs, 1-3 cup milk, 2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Cream the butter. Add sugar gradually, creaming as you add. Add egg yolk and beat till light and creamy. Sift the flour and baking powder together and add alternately with the milk, beating well between each addition. Beat the egg white till stiff, and fold in. Add vanilla. Bake in two layers in a moderate oven.

The filling is made from 2 ounces bitter chocolate, 3 ounces sweet chocolate, 1-4 pound sweet butter, 3 eggs, 1-4 pound confectioners' sugar, and vanilla.

Warm chocolate until melted. Add sugar, butter and vanilla. While still warm add eggs, one by one, stirring briskly. Spread thickly between layers, on top and sides.

That is a more expensive icing. For a cheaper one, use 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons hot coffee, 2 tablespoons cocoa, and as much confectioners' sugar as is needed to make it spread well.

ANOTHER menu especially good for these cold winter days includes waffles and maple syrup, angel food with glorified rice, and coffee or cocoa.

Glorified rice is easily made and may be glorified more or less according to will. For instance, a simple method is to add to cooled, sweetened rice which has been boiled in milk and flavored slightly with vanilla, a half can of drained crushed pineapple. For a dessert a little more elaborate, add to that a cup of quartered marshmallows. Now for a greater glorification add a half pint of whipped cream. If you like add some rubyettes or candied cherries or maraschino cherries. Garnish with pecan meats or with a toasted marshmallow. This dessert is best if made early and kept in the ice chest to chill thoroughly. It should be stirred occasionally during the day.

Sunday-School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

International Sunday School Lesson for Jan. 4, 1930.

General Topic:

The Birth of John the Baptist.

Scripture Lesson:

Luke 1:8-17, 80.

8. Now it came to pass, while he executed the priest's office before God in the order of his course.

9. According to the custom of the priest's office, his lot was to enter into the temple of the Lord and burn incense.

10. And the whole multitude of the people were praying without at the hour of incense.

11. And there appeared unto him an angel of the Lord standing on the right side of the altar of incense.

12. And Zacharias was troubled when he saw him, and fear fell upon him.

13. But the angel said unto him, Fear not, Zacharias; because thy supplication is heard, and thy wife Elisabeth shall bear thee a son, and thou shalt call his name John.

14. And thou shalt have joy and gladness; and many shall rejoice at his birth.

15. For he shall be great in the sight of the Lord, and he shall drink no wine nor strong drink; and he shall be filled with the Holy Spirit, even from his mother's womb.

16. And many of the children of Israel shall he turn unto the Lord their God.

17. And he shall go before his face in the spirit and power of Elijah, to turn the hearts of the just; to make ready for the Lord a people prepared for him.

80. And the child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, and was in the deserts till the day of his showing unto Israel.

Golden Text: Thou shalt go before the face of the Lord to make ready his ways.—Luke 1:76.

Time: John the Baptist was born probably in June, B. C. 5. Jesus was born six months later, in December, B. C. 8.

Place: John was born in the hill country of Judaea, perhaps in Juttah or the priestly city of Hebron.

Luke, the Author of the third Gospel, was a Greek physician, who attended Paul on important voyages, strengthening the apostle's feeble body, and as a comrade evangelist aiding him in his gospel labors. In Philem. 24 Paul calls him a "fellow worker." In Col. 4:14 the apostle mentions him as "the beloved physician." In Paul's last writing, 2 Tim. 4:10, 11, the apostle who was soon to become a martyr tells of the defection of Demas, and adds that Luke alone was with him to lesson by his active friendship the gloomy horrors of his Roman imprisonment. In Luke's other Book, the Acts of the Apostles, are long and important passages where the pronoun "we" is used, indicating that Luke was with Paul during the events recorded. It is probable that Luke was with Paul during the apostle's imprisonment of two years in Caesarea, and spent his time very largely in gathering the facts about Christ which he incorporated in the third Gospel.

Characteristics Of The Third Gospel

1. It gives, as the other Gospels do not aim to give a connected and orderly account of Christ's life.

2. It shows especial sympathy for the poor, and records especially Christ's most sever denunciations of the ungodly rich.

3. It deals conspicuously, by example and teaching, with the importance of prayer.

4. It gives many domestic scenes, such as the anecdote of Mary and Martha.

5. It is preeminently the Gospel of grace, of salvation through Christ, this central theme furnishing the title of our half-year study.

6. It is the Gospel of worldwide Christianity, of the Saviour's ministry to all peoples, Gentiles as well as Jews.

7. This Gospel alone tells us about six miracles, namely, the miraculous draught of fishes, the raising of the widow's son at Nain, the healing of the woman with the spirit of infirmity, the healing of the man with the dropsy, the two lepers, and Malchus.

8. Luke alone gives us eleven parables,—the two debtors, the importunate, friend, the rich fool, the barren fig-tree, the lost piece of silver, the unjust steward, the unjust judge, the Pharisee and the Publican, and those crowning parables, the good Samaritan, Dives and Lazarus, and the prodical son.

9. It alone records many events and sayings that are priceless, such as Christ's weeping over Jerusalem; the penitent robber on the cross; the prayer, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do"; the walk with the two Emmaus disciples.

10. All these features combine to make this Gospel what Renan called it, "the most beautiful book that has ever been written."—Condensed from Adeney and Farrar.

John The Baptist

John the Baptist was the great forerunner of Christ, whose coming was clearly announced at the very close of the Old Testament (Mal. 4:5, 6), and who served therefore as the connecting link between the old dispensation and the new, between Jews and Christians, between Messianic prophecy and its fulfillment.

The time of John's birth was about half a year before the birth of Christ, probably in June, B. C. 5, our Lord being born in December of the same year. This was in the reign of Herod the Great, almost at its close.

The father of John was a priest named Zacharias (meaning "Remembered by Jehovah"). He belonged to the "course of Abijah," the eighth of the twenty-four divisions of the priests, each division serving for a week in the temple.

The mother of John was Elizabeth (meaning "God is an oath"). She also was of priestly descent. Both father and mother were deeply and practically religious.

What We Owe To Our Parents

"It was of special significance that in this home both parents were godly. The mother had not to weep because the boy's father was thwarting her teachings by his example, nor the father to sigh that the mother's unsanctified nature was hardening his son. Happy is he or she who has such a father and mother, and whose childhood is nurtured in such a home. Out of such homes have come the men who have been the reformative and regenerative forces of the world."—James Stalker.

John's Birth Foretold. vs. 11-23

"There is no biography in the New Testament more romantic and picturesque than that of John the Baptist. There is a glamour or poetic weirdness, mystery, pathos, all in one, upon which the artists of many ages have loved to dwell."—Charles S. Robinson. And this mysterious charm begins even before the birth of Christ's herald.

"And there appeared unto him an angel of the Lord." Some have objected to the number of angels introduced by Luke into his Gospel; but if this Jesus was really the Son of God, come to earth out of a heaven full of angels, what more natural than that some of them should have attended him, and even preceded his advent? "Angel" means "messenger," a supernatural being sent on the Lord's errands.

"But the angel said unto him, Fear not, Zacharias." These are the first spoken words of Luke's Gospel. How often were they on the lips of our Lord! He came to banish fear—fear of penalty, fear of death, fear of God—and to substitute confidence, love, and joy. "Because thy supplication is heard." The whole structure of the passage implies that Zacharias had been specially praying for what he obtained; and it helps us to see what prayer really is, when we observe that in answering the prayer of Zacharias God is fulfilling his purpose of grace to, ward his whole people. Mercies are doubly sweet that are answers to prayer."—Prof. Thomas M. Lindsey. "Thou shalt call his name John." v. 13. The name is especially appropriate, signifying "Jehovah is gracious."

John The Baptist's Mission Foretold. v. 17.

"And he shall go before his face." As a herald precedes a king on his royal progress to make sure that there are no impediments in the road and that all men are ready to welcome him, so John was to prepare the way for Jesus Christ. "In the spirit and power of Elijah." This also was prophesied by Malachi (4:5). John and Elijah were kindred spirits, both dwelling in solitude, both stern, both defiant of royal might, both splendidly insisting an righteousness, both feared by the wicked. "To make ready for the Lord a people prepared for him." "In short, he shall be the herald, running before the royal chariot, proclaiming the coming One, and preparing his way, then leaving his own little footprints to disappear, thrown up in the chariot dust of Him who was greater and mightier than he."—Rev. Henry Burton, D. D.

Zacharias asked for a sign by which he might be assured that the blessed promise was true. The angel granted to Zacharias a sign. This sign was at once a rebuke and a blessing. It rebuked the unbelief of the aged priest, yet it strengthened his faith. He was smitten with dumbness which was to continue until the promise of the angel had been realized.

The Virgin Mary And Elisabeth. vs. 39, 40

"The evangelist now shifts the narrative to a point of time six months later and to the humble and despised village of Nazareth in Galilee, where the same great archangel Gabriel announced to Mary, betrothed to Joseph the village carpenter, that while still a virgin she was to become the mother of Jesus, the world's Redeemer. Amazed and perplexed, it was natural for Mary to seek her kinswoman Elisabeth, who also, as the angel had told her, was to become a mother under strange circumstances. This meeting of the two holy women in the hill country of Judah is beautifully described and Luke here records for us the first of the hymns which grace his Gospel, Mary's song of the Magnificat, the name, "magnifies," being the first word in the Latin translation. "My soul doth magnify the Lord."—Luke 1:46. The second hymn, the Benedictus, similarly named, was the utterance of Zacharias after the birth of John and when on the eighth day after birth the babe was circumcised and received his name, John. Luke 1:68.

John In The Desert. v. 80

"The desert was Israel's near neighbor. Southeast from here it stretched for a thousand miles. Half the Judaean territory is wilderness, and the other half is only kept back from the desert by sheer force of industry."—Rev. John Kelman, D. D. From the "hill country" of Judah, the rocky backbone of the land where John's parents had their home, all the way eastward to the Dead Sea was a tumbled mass of barren rock, steep cliffs, isolated crags, frightful ravines, and thousands of caves. His clothing was of coarse camel's hair and his food was dried locusts and the wild honey stored by the desert bees in cave or hollow tree. Thus his needs being of the fewest and most easily satisfied, he had virtually all his time for thought and for communion with God. "Till the day of his showing unto Israel." The day when his long seclusion came to an end and his public ministry began, the immediate occasion being doubtless the knowledge of acts of injustice at which John felt obliged to protest. The smouldering fire burst into a blaze which drew to it throngs from Jericho and Jerusalem, and all Palestine.

Dry Law Test To Supreme Court

U. S. District Attorney Philip Forman, left, of Trenton, N. J., and Assistant District Attorney John Grunshaw, Jr., government prosecutors in New Jersey's famous case testing the validity of the eighteenth amendment, are to carry their appeal directly to the U. S. supreme court at Washington. Federal Judge William T. Clark, of Newark, ruled the law invalid because it was not ratified by a constitutional convention.

Gives His Views

Irish Painter Says Art Lacking

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP) — John Keating, the Irish painter, who wears a blue flannel shirt and hates "arty" people, diagnosed today, as he prepared to return to Dublin, the troubles of art.

"The trouble with art," he said, "is that it has to carry on its back a load of museum curators, dealers, critics, and cognoscenti. The result is a structure of humbug, cant, and argot that actually has nothing whatsoever to do with art itself."

CONSTRUCTION ANNOUNCED

CORSICANA, Jan. 2. (AP)—Municipal and private construction amounted to $511,409 in Corsicana during 1930, a compilation completed today showed. Building permits aggregated $466,409. The balance being municipal construction.

CELEBRATES 77TH BIRTHDAY

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Jan. 2. (AP)—Miss Alice Robertson, former congresswoman from Oklahoma, celebrated her 77th birthday today with a big turkey dinner attended by friends and relatives. She was in good health and appeared optimistic over prospects of the new year. Not many months ago, Miss Robertson was virtually penniless but discovery of oil and gas on her land near here has relieved her of financial worries.

Nearly 100,000 pilgrims are expected to visit Mecca this year.

No "Don't Touch" Signs in Chicago's $4,000,000 Museum; Visitors May Play With Any of Exhibits

Wheels Go Round If Button Pushed At Museum

By NEA Service

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—An elaborated industrial museum which will contain working models of almost every kind of industrial and mechanical contraption ever devised, and which will permit the visitor to step up and monkey with the exhibits to his heart's content, is being assembled in Chicago now in preparation for the World's Fair of 1933.

It will be known as the Museum of Science and Industry, and is being made possible through a gift of $4,000,000 by Julius Rosenwald. The great Fine Arts Building in Jackson Park, a relic of the great fair of miles of exhibits with upwards of 60,000 specimens.

In as many cases as possible, the exhibits will be life-sized. Where this is impossible, working models will be constructed. The important thing, however, is that none of them will be hidden in a glass case. The spectator will be free to pull all the levers and push all the buttons he sees.

As far as possible, the sponsors of the museum hope to show the development of modern American by means of successive models which will trace the various steps in the emergence of the things illustrated.

For example: One exhibit will show how the modern paved street has developed. The visitor will first walk along an ordinary jungle path, such as the cavemen trod thousands of years ago. Then he will step out on an exact reproduction of one of the famous old Roman roads. After that he will go along one of the muddy, bumpy roads of the middle ages, full of pools of water and broken bits of paving stone. This, in turn, will lead him to one of the earliest paved or graveled roads—and finally he will come out on a bit of modern highway, with manholes, car tracks, street lamps and the like, and with a model cross-section beside him showing how subways, pipe lines and so on are carried beneath the street.

Sleeping Car's Progress

Or suppose the spectator wants to trace the development of the sleeping car. First he will be ushered into a crude box, will feel the car sway beneath him just as the ancient railroad coaches used to sway over their primitive roadbeds and will see just how his grandfather slept when he went traveling.

Next he will go into another car, slightly more modern, but with the chief advantage consisting in rough bunks along the walls. From this he will pass into a model of the first real sleeping car with lights, bedclothing and a semblance of comfort; and after this he will be ushered into a modern Pullman. This exhibit will be highly elaborate; the motion of the cars and the noise of their wheels will be simulated mechanically, and a glance out of the window will show bits of scenery flying past.

If the visitor is curious about ships he can have a lot of fun. He can step up to a big tank, push a button and see a 15-foot model of the Leviathan slide into a great pier, assisted by puffing little tugs. Or he can go to an exact scale reproduction of the Welland Canal and can himself send model ships through the locks by pushing the proper buttons. All in all, there will be 200 ship models for him to play with.

A Real Coal Mine

In the basement, he will be able to go down into a real coal mine. He will actually descend only 17 feet but the shaft will be devised so as to give him the illusion of great depth. At the bottom he will find mining operations in full sway; it is actually planned to keep a staff of miners on duty in these tunnels, togeather with mules to pull the little coal cars. Furthermore, there will be another section of the mine a little further on in which the mules will be replaced by modern electric cars. The floor of this mine, incidentally, will be kept watered so as to give the effects of dampness and coolness. And the visitor will be able to swing a pick or run an electric drill himself, if he wants to know how it feels.

There will be a great exhibit of steam engines, tracing them from their earliest form to their present status, beginning with a model of the steam turbine supported to have been user in ancient Alexandria, 2000 years ago, to open the gates of a temple. Stephenson's first locomotive, now under construction in England from his original drawings, will be there, sandwiched in beside four huge modern locomotives, into all of which the visitor can climb at his pleasure. And all of them will swing into operation if the spectator presses a button.

100 Movie Shows

There will also be more than 100 moving pictures projectors there to give pictures of such appliances as cannot be reproduced in the museum.

Wherever possible, life - sized models will be set up. If this cannot be done, scale models will be installed. All of them will be open for the spectator to tinker with as much as he likes.

One division will be devoted to agriculture and forestry. Plows, from the most primitive to the most modern, will be pulled through real soil; real havester and combines will harvest real wheat.

There will be a forest rangers' station, and the visitor will be able to step in, spot a fire on a "distant" mountainside, turn in the alarm and see it put out.

Comb World for Exhibits

The textile division will have a complete set of looms, gins, spinners and so on, with hundreds of devices showing how men have spun and woven cloth from the earliest days to the present. There will also be a printing section, with linotype machines and presses in daily operation.

Waldemar Kaempffert is the director of the museum, and he has a staff of hundreds of men searching the far corners of the earth for exhibits. Hundreds of industrial firms are constructing exhibits and models.

The bulding will be opened with the 1933 World's Fair. Apparently the only thing that seems to have been forgotten is a way of getting the interested spectators out of the place.

The Fine Arts Building of the Chicago world's fair which is now being remodeled to house the unique and costly Rosenwald museum, is shown here. At left is Julius Rosenwald, whose $4,000,000 gift makes the museum possible

Kiwanis Activity Is Reported Here

Activities of the Lubbock Kiwanis club during the year just closed were cited by the retiring president, Judge Clark M. Mullican, in his annual report made following the inauguration of the new officials. The meeting was held in the ball room of the Hotel Lubbock.

Judge Mullican's report follows: January—organization; February, Kiwanis minstrel and director's meeting; March, O. Sam Cummings, of Dallas, spoke to club; April, new club installed at Muleshoe and inter club meeting held at Amarillo; May, Loving cup started at Childress and entire club visits Muleshoe; June, meeting held at Acuff; July, vacation month with convention work started; August, convention work continues with all clubs of the district being visited; September, convention held, Carlsbad Cavern trip sponsored and yard beautiful contest opened; October, annual livestock exhibitors entertained and fire prevention programs given; November, joint session held with American Business club; December, Judge V. H. Stone, of Landers, Wyoming, brought here to speak to joint gathering of all clubs.

COUNCIL TO MEET

Home Demonstration Group To Meet Here Saturday

Members of the council of the demonstration clubs of Lubbock county will meet Saturday afternoon in the district courtroom for the first meeting of 1931, Miss Ruth Stockton, home demonstration agent, said yesterday.

Principal speaker will be Prof. J. H. Bower, of the faculty of Texas Technological college. Plans for the new year are to be discussed and books for each member's record will be distributed.

Didn't Like It

Fox Returns To His Yard

FREEPORT, Maine, Jan. 2. (AP)—A silver gray fox, valued at $1,000 has had his taste of wild life in the great open spaces and didn't like it.

The animal disappeared from the fox farm of Henry Morehead a week ago. Hounds tracked it three or four miles then lost the scent. Yesterday Reynard was found in the fox yard. He had gained admittance as mysteriously as he had made his exit.

EARTH SHOCK RECORDED

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—A severe earth shock was registered on the seismograph at Fordham university at 4:56:28 a. m. (E. S. T.) today with a second shock at 5:02:12 a. m. Observers estimated it was 2,500 miles from New York and probably off the coast of Central America.

TWO MEN WOUNDED

DALLAS, Jan. 2. (AP) — Tommie Layne, 23, and his uncle, Jack Layne, 26, were wounded in a shooting here early today. Jack Layne was charged with burglary soon after the shooting. V. O. Hendricks, night watchman at the Dallas Wrecking company's yards, told officers he had fired at two men who were loading metal on a truck.

The Dowager Baroness de Tuyll, aged 76, recently flew 750 miles non-stop from Hanworth, England, to Salzburg, Austria.

Modernizing Your Home

READ THESE THREE FACTS:

1. Cost less at this time than any other time.

Right now carpenters are not rushed. They can start your work at once, do a better job, and finish sooner. Building material is cheaper now than it has been since 1916.

2. Increases value of house.

Modernizing ads to the value of any house—makes it more comfortable to live in, easier to sell. Modernizing is one of the safest investments a home owner can make.

3. Help to relieve the unemployment situation.

Both common and skilled labor is plentiful. You can help this situation by building now.

We sell building material on the installment plan.

Collegiate Football Believed To Be Facing Crucial Crisis

Observers See Severest Blow Of Decade Due

Associated Press Examines Big Business Of Football And Finds Complexities In Grid World Acute

(NOTE—This is the first of a series of stories based on an Associated Press survey of current college athletic conditions, trends and problems, dealing particularly with intercollegiate football.)

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. — College athletics in general and football in particular, still suffering somewhat from the growing pains of supersmanship and ballyhoo, have been abruptly brought face to face with somewhat critical conditions for 1931.

This conclusion, drawn from a comprehensive survey of the nation-wide situation by the Associated Press, is emphasized by the crossfire of criticism leveled at intercollegiate football during the final week of the old year by orators from many sections of the country.

Severest Crisis to Come.

What many close observers regard as the severest crisis in the last decade is due, not to any one or of clearly defined causes, however, but to an accumulation of complexities, chief among them are the combined ills of over-emphasis and the effects of considerable depression in the region of the box offices.

So long as college football was on the crest of a popular wave, buoyed by general prosperity, the indoor critics usually were tossed for a loss by the outdoor performers. Reformers were forgotten after the first kickoff. Now, however, voices of the undeniable and potent authority have been raised in the widespread attack upon objectionable features of the gridiron game.

Seek To Lessen Emphasis.

A combination of factors, ripened since the publication of the famous Carnegie Foundation report, has spurred coaches and executives to seek reduction of such over-emphasized features as training camps and spring practice; to wipe out the evils of subsidizing and recruiting; to curb the dangers of too much commercialism in schedule making.

Effective measures, already have been taken to abolish spring practice altogether as a means of deflecting mounting criticism against high-pressure football methods. These measures follow the steps already taken by such conference groups as in the Big Ten and on the Pacific coast, designed to keep football from dominating too much.

Depression Doesn't Hit All.

Depressed business conditions have not hit all of the major colleges by any means, notably in such sections as the Pacific Northwest, Rocky Mountain and Southwest areas where football "booms" were played last fall, but the Associated Press survey reveals that four out of every five institutions have been forced either to economize sharply on athletic expenses or curtail activities.

Horned Frogs To Meet Denton Five

FORT WORTH, Jan. 2. (AP)—Expectant of having his full squad for the first time in several weeks, Coach Francis A. Schmidt will take his Texas Christian university basketball team to Denton tomorrow night for a return game with the North Texas State Teachers college. The two quintets met here recently with the frogs winning by a small margin.

Nothing Is Wrong With Football Today--Rockne

Great Mentor Seems About Cured Of All His Ills

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—The Scandinavian master of the Irish—Knute Kenneth Rockne—planted his ailing dogs on the cushion of a soft chair in his hotel suite and gave up a vain effort to remain hidden in New York.

"Let's talk about anything," he said, "anything but football. I'm an invalid."

Whereupon the coach of the finest football team the country produced this fall launched into a lecture on physicology, all about the ganglion of the sympathetic nerve system, which seems to have something to do with the swelling of his legs and the clotting of blood in his veins. He quoted extensively from books he has been reading on the subject and seemed a trifle embarrassed that with all these things wrong with him, he still looked ruddy and hearty, anything but ill.

Must Rest Regularly

"I'm fine now," he concluded as he wound long rubber bandages about the calves of his legs. "I can do anything I want to, just as I always have, but I must rest two days a week during the next football season to get back the energy I use up."

With that matter all straightened out, the Notre Dame mentor promptly switched the subject to football. He arrived in town today for a week's visit, but his hospital stay at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., forced him to miss the annual coaches meetings here last week.

Football O. K. As Is

"Football is all right just as it is," he insisted. "If I had been at the meetings there was nothing I could have suggested. I'm in favor of letting the game alone for a while. Why even the coaches are beginning to find out what it's all about."

"First, if it interests and entertains people—there must be something wrong with it.

"Second, if its successful—there must be something wrong with it.

Thinks 1930 Team About Best

Rockne doesn't use to rate one of his teams above another, but he thinks his 1930 squad was about the best he ever sent out onto a field.

Rockne was asked if he were going into the sports writing business on the side as a part time member of a Chicago newspaper staff at a reported wage of $25,000 a year.

"How much?" gasped Rockne.

"$25,000," he was told. "The story was printed today."

"Let me read about it, anyway," Knute grinned. "Can you imagine that?"

Pro Golfers Use New Ball In Meet

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2. (AP)—Three professionals seeking Florida's 1931 golden golfing laurels took the new large ball around in its first official tournament journey today for 73s to lead 171 entrants in the 72-hole Miami open golf tournament at Miami Spring course.

First day leaders in the seventh annual renewal of the curtain raising classic were Willie Klein, Wheatley Hills, L. I., with a 36-37—as his preliminary bid for the crown Gene Sarazen relinquished after holding it four successive years; Robert T. Gray, 21-year-old new comer to Florida courses, from Pearl Beach, Mich., and Joe Turnesa, dapper shotster from Elmsford, N. Y. Gray's nine-hole scores were the same as Klein's, while Turnesa had a 39 out-bound and a fast 34 for the return trip.

Likes New Ball

The honor of winning the first tournament in which the new golf ball was accepted as the standard ball of play was bestowed upon Tony Manero, above, Elmsford, N. Y., golf professional who gained the distinction in the recent Pasadena Open event. It was the second straight year that Manero had won the winter season's first big money tournament in Southern California. The triumph paid him $1,000.

Dixie Classic To Be Open For All Teams In America

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, Jan. 2.—Officials of the Dixie Classic football game for charity New Years day, in which the Southwest team defeated the Mid-West team, 18 to 0, indicated today that next year the "gate will be thrown open" and players will be asked to participate from all sections of the country. The United States would be divided into two sections, the North and South, each of which would supply one of the competing squads.

This expansion almost was made necessary by the action of the Southwest Conference faculty athletic committee in barring from further participation in winter and spring sports all athletes who take part in post-season football games, even though they are not paid and do nothing to impair their amateur standing.

Bob Zuppke, University of Illinois mentor who coached the Mid-West team, left today for a vacation trip to Havana, Cuba, and Miami, Fla.

More American soda fountain equipment is being exported this year than last.

Keeling Crew Opens Season In Fast Game

Visitors Lead At Half; Locals Stage Rally In Final Dash For Winning Coup; Bledsoe Leads Westerners

The Lubbock High School Westerners had their hands full last night when they opened the 1931 playing season by taking on the Littlefield Wildcats. Not until the final quarter did the locals show a scoring punch that took them over the top. They trailed at the half behind a one-point lead, 10 to 9, and were tied at the end of the third quarter, 15-all.

Showing the usual awkwardness characteristic of teams beginning the season, the charges of Coach "Jew" Keeling dallied along in the first two periods, executing bad passes, and otherwise being shown up by their visitors. At the half they were beginning to show signs of knowing the game, and the between-halves lecture brought results.

Fifth Game For Cats.

Littlefield showed the same inability to get going, and really had a better team than the score might indicate. This was shown, however, by the score at the half and at the third quarter. The Wildcats had played four games before meeting the Westerners, however, and had some of the corners rubbed off.

Both teams, particularly Littlefield, took great chances with long shots from mid-floor, but set the locals an example by following up their shots. The failure of the Westerners to forge toward the goal after shooting was costly, resulting in their losing the ball on several occasions.

Regulars Fail To Score.

A unique phase of the game was the fact that only two of Littlefield's starting lineup registered points, and these were from free shots. A bunch of good men were held in reserve, going in from time to time to do the scoring. Smith, a substitute guard, hogged Littlefield's scoring honors, and was second high point man of the evening when he tallied eight points from the floor.

Bledsoe, starting guard for Lubbock, got off to a slow start, but proved his mettle by registering three field goals and two free ones in the final half. Eugene Brown was the leading scorer until he left the field, running up six points before four personal fouls were called on him. McCanlis, going in for Captain Knight, shot two from the field. Del Morgan, Tech coach, officiated the game.

Cat's Chances To Repeat For Texas League Title Depend On Showing Of Inexperienced Players, Opines Art

(By Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Jan. 2. — Fort Worth's chances of repeating in the 1931 Texas baseball league race depends on the experienced members of the club coming through, Manager Art Pehlan said today.

"If the class men come through as good as they have been figured, we will have a great ball club," declared Phelan. "Of course, our chances also depend upon the strength of the other clubs," Phelan continued.

"Hopes of Fort Worth winning can be placed directly upon the pitchers and Eddie Brown, Chester Fowler and Larry Cox. Should they come through everything will be all right."

Several seasoned performers of the 1930 championship team probably will not be returned this season, Phelan said. One is Joe Bonowitz, veteran left fielder. There has been no disposition made of Bonowitz. Red Roberts and Hugh Buchanan, right handed pitchers, are in the group with Bonowitz.

Parker (Well Rope) Perry, purchased from Shreveport at the close of the 1930 season, is a contender for Bonowitz's left field position.

Over in center and right fields, respectively, Eddie Moore and Cox are being depended upon to again fill their usual roles.

Present plans of Phelan call for seven pitchers, five class men and two non-class players. At present the roster shows only four classmen who are likely to be retained, Leon Chagnon, bought from Pittsburgh; Dick McCabe, holdover, and Earl (Hap) Collard and Roy F. (Lefty) Hansen, both obtained from the Philadelphia Phillies.

SHOOTS PERFECT SCORE

BROWNSVILLE, Jan. 2. (AP) — Walter Underwood, pupil of Russ Hoocerhyde, national archery champion, shot a perfect archery score of 800 on a regulation 50-foot range here today.

Art Phelan, above, succeeds Frank Snyder as manager of the Fort Worth club of the Texas League, which Snyder led to a Dixie championship in 1930 after winning the league pennant. Phelan resigned as pilot of the Shreveport club to go to Fort Worth.

CAT OUTFIELDER SOLD

FORT WORTH, Jan. 2. (AP) — Dick Sullivan, outfielder, has been sold by Fort Worth to the Wichita, Kan., club of the Western League, Roy Meehan, secretary of the Fort Worth team announced today.

Sullivan came here from Wichita Falls. He failed to land a regular berth last season and was loaned to San Antonio, being returned near the close of the season.

BASKETBALL PLAYS and PLAYERS

(Editor's Note—The following is the first of a series of basketball articles that will appear from time to time in the Morning Avalanche. This department will use photographs and illustrations furnished by Central Press Association in conjunction with the article.)

Basketball fans should have a fair knowledge of the rules in order to enjoy the game fully. In this article important rule changes for 1931 will be discussed and it might be well for those who like their basketball to cut out the rules and study them occasionally during the season.

Rule 7, Section 3.—A new note states that held ball may be called when a player holds the ball for five seconds in the backcourt if an opponent is within one yard of him during this time. In other words under these conditions a closely guarded player is withholding the ball from play. This will encourage aggressive playing and discourage stalling.

Rule 8, Section 6.—On any jump ball, the ball may be tapped twice, but not more than twice, by either one or both of the jumpers, and the second tap may be made either inside or outside the circle. After a player has tapped the ball a second time, he may not touch it again until it has touched one of the other eight players, the floor, the basket or the backboard.

Rule 11, Section 1.—When time is taken out for a personal foul, time is to be resumed when the ball leaves the free thrower's hands—when it leaves his hands for the last free throw if more than one free throw has been awarded. On free throws from technical fouls or double fouls when the ball returns to center whether the free throw is made or missed, time is resumed with the toss at center, as formerly.

Rule 14, Section 8.—The rule against kicking the ball applies only to a positive act. Although it is difficult sometimes to distinguish between intentional acts and those that are accidental, it is better to have the official's guess incorrectly now and then on this play than to have the constant and unnecessary interruptions in the game caused by calling a violation every time the ball and foot come together.

Rule 15, Section 1.—On a jump ball, if a jumper leaves the ball before the ball is tapped, the penalty is a technical foul instead of a violation.

Rule 15, Penalty for Personal Fouls.—If a player who is fouled in the act of shooting gets his field goal, only one free throw is awarded. If he misses his field goal, two free throws are awarded. In either case the ball is in play if the free throw is missed.

Prepare For Polo Tourney In Mexico

REYNOSA, Mexico, Jan. 2. (AP)—Preparations are being made for an international polo tournament here January 11 to 18, between six strong teams from Mexico and Texas.

Teams entered include the Gen. J. Jaime Quinones club of Mexico City, the Monterrey Officers' club, the Reynosa civilians, Fort Brown Officers' club and Civilian Fours from Corpus Christi and Dallas.

The Quinones team recently won an international tournament at Mexico City in which teams from San Angelo and the eighth corps area competed.

Idalou Cagers Win Over Ralls, 23-11

IDALOU, Jan. 3. (Special)—The Idalou cagers defeated the Ralls Jackrabbits, 34 to 20, here tonight, thereby scoring their second victory over the Rabbits for the season. A week ago Idalou won a 23-to-11 victory at Ralls.

The game was featured by the fine defensive work of Killian, Idalou guard. Weaver, Idalou forward, was high point man of the evening, registering 19 points. Clam, Ralls forward, was second with 11, and Gregory of Idalou was third with 7 points.

ditional gestures of police "frisking"—running his hands rapidly down the girl's tall, sturdy body, slapping her pockets. And his fingers fumbled sadly as he opened her tooled leather hand bag.

"Satisfied?" Polly Beale demanded, and at Dundee's miserable nod, the girl faced her friends: "Well, come along, girls!"

"Lord! What a girl!" Dundee muttered to Strawn, as the young Amazon herded Flora Miles, Penny Crain, Carolyn Drake, Lois Dunlap and Janet Raymond into the dining room.

Silently, and almost meekly, as if ashamed into submission by Polly Beale's example, John Drake, Tracy Miles, Clive Hammond, Judge Marshall and Dexter Sprague permitted Captain Strawn and Sergeant Turner to "frisk" them.

"How about the guest closet and the cars?" Dundee asked of Strawn in a low voice when the fruitless, unpleasant task was finished.

"Gone over with a fine tooth comb long ago," Strawn assured him gloomily. "And not a hiding place in or outside the house that the boys haven't poked into—including the meadow as far as anyone could throw from the bedroom windows."

The women were filing back into the room, some pale, some flushed, but all able to look each other in the eye again.

With surprising jauntiness Polly Beale saluted Dundee. "Nothing more deadly on any of us than Flora's triple-deck compact."

"I thank you with all my heart, Miss Beale," Dundee said sincerely. "And now I think you may all go to your homes . . . Of course you understand," he interrupted a chorus of relieved ejaculations, "that all of you will be wanted for the inquest, which will probably be held Monday."

"And what's more," Captain Strawn cut in, to show his authority, "I want all of you to hold yourselves ready for further questioning at any time."

There was a stampede for coats and hats, a rush for cars as if the house were on fire, or—Dundee reflected wryly—as if those he had tortured were afraid he would change his mind. Rushing away with hatred of him in their hearts.

Only Penny Crain held back, maneuvering for a chance to speak with him.

"I don't have to go with the rest, do it?" she begged in a husky whisper.

"And why not?" Dundee grinned at her.

"I'm 'attached' to the district attorney's office, too, aren't I?"

"Right! And you've been a brick this evening. I don't know what I should have done without you—"

"Well, I can't see that you've done much with me," she gibed. "But I'd like to stick around, if you're going to do some real Sherlocking—"

"Can't be done, Penny. I want to stay here alone for awhile and mull thing over. But I'd like to have a long talk with you tomorrow."

"Come to Sunday dinner. Mother loves murder mysteries," she suggested. Then realization swept over her. Her brown eyes widened, filled with terror. "Stop thinking one of us did it! Stop, I tell you!"

"Can you stop, Penny?" he asked gently.

• • •

But she fled from him, sobbing wildly for the first time that long, horrible evening. Dundee, watching from the doorway of the lighted hall, saw the chauffeur open the rear door of the Dunlap limousine, saw Penny catapult herself into Lois Dunlap's outstretched arms . . .

"When did the Dunlap chauffeur call for his mistress?" he asked Strawn, who stood beside him.

"About 10 minutes after you arrived," Strawn answered wearily. "Said he'd dropped Mrs. Dunlap and the Selim woman at about 2:30 and had been ordered to return around 6:30 . . . Knows nothing, of course." The chief of the homicide squad drew a deep breath. "Well, Bonnie, he has nothing on me, in spite of all the palaver I don't know nothing either."

"You need some dinner, chief," Dundee suggested. "And the boys must be getting hungry, too."

"Somebody's got to guard the house, I suppose," Strawn gloomed. "Not that it will do any good . . . And what about that maid—that Carr woman? Shall I lock her up on general principles?"

"No. I want to have another talk with her, and if she bucks at spending the night here, I'll take her to the Rhodes House, and turn her over to my old friend, Mother Rhodes. We haven't anything on her, you know."

"No, nor on anybody else, except that old fool, Marshall, and we can not clap him into jail—yet," Strawn agreed, his gray eyes winking.

"Take your crew on in, chief," Dundee urged. "I'll stick till midnight or longer, if you don't mind. You can arrange to have a couple of the boys relieve me about 12 . . . And by the way, will you telephone me the minute you get hold of Ralph Hammond?"

"Well, maybe not so quick as all that," Strawn drawled. "I'll take the first crack at that baby, my lad! Not so dumb, am I, Bonnie boy? Not so dumb! I can put two and two together as well as the next one—pretty near as well as the district attorney's new 'special investigator'."

LIGHT-HEADED, TIRED FEELING

Bilious Troubles Relieved By the Help of Thedford's Black-Draught.

Gainesville, Ga.—Mrs. F. A. Watson, of 42 West High Street, this city, says that she has used Thedford's Black-Draught for fifteen years, when needed for such troubles as she mentions below:

"I took Black-Draught for indigestion and the tired, worn feeling that comes from biliousness.

"When I get up in the morning and my mouth tastes bad and my eyes burn, and I feel light-headed, I know that I must take something. And after I heard how good it was, I took Black-Draught. A few doses relieve me so much—make me feel well and strong and clear up my head.

"I don't know what I would do without Black-Draught. It seems to regulate the bowels and rid one of impurities."

Thousands of others have written to tell how many disagreeable symptoms, due to constipation, have disappeared after they had taken Thedford's Black-Draught. It is a natural remedy, composed of selected medicinal herbs and roots, and put up by modern scientific, accurate methods. E6-47

Cotton Rally Is Staged In Cotton Mart — Livestock Fairly Active Hog Trade On Friday — Grain Grain Market Is Unsettled Friday

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 3. (AP)— After starting the new year quietly and declining 11 to 13 points during the morning owing mainly to the predictions from Washington that lower prices for cotton would be realized during the present year, the cotton market staged a good rally. This upturn, accompanied by more activity, was attributed to more favorable weekly statistics. The market again bulged in the late trading and made fresh highs 23 to 26 points above the lows. The close was 4 to 5 points under the best. the general market closing steady at net gains for the day of 14 to 18 points.

Liverpool came in 4 to 11 points better than due and private cables said Manchester and the continent sold while Bombay bought. First trades here showed a gain of 4 points on January, 3 points on March and a loss of one point on May. March eventually dropped to 8.48 and May to 10.13 down 11 to 13 points from the previous close.

During the early afternoon prices rallied sharply inactive trading on more favorable weekly statistics and a firmer stock market and March traded up to 10.16 and May to 10.39 up 22 to 27 points from the lows of the morning.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—An early decline in cotton seemed to bring in an increased demand today and trading later was more active with prices decidedly firmer on trade buying and covering. March contracts, after selling off to 8.89 early, advanced to 10.25 or 26 points net higher but lost part of it under realizing, with market closing barely steady at net gains of 13 to 23 points.

The Federal Farm Board statement regarding the cotton outlook appeared to receive a rather bearish interpretation in some quarters during the early trading, but by others was regarded as chiefly emphasizing the importance of acreage and trade development, but except for scattering liquidation there was very little selling in evidence according to local brokers. Later, contracts were comparatively scarce and the market advanced readily.

Local Markets

These prices are furnished by the following Lubbock firms: Poultry—Lubbock Poultry and Egg company; Dairy Products — Bell Ice Cream company and Mistletoe Creameries: Grain—S. E. Cone Grain and Seed company and Cotton — Blocker Cotton company. Prices subject to change during day. Poultry prices quoted are wholesale prices. Retail prices range higher.

Happy New Year Spirit Hangs Over The Leading Marts As Advances Recorded

BY JOHN I. GOOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—That happy new year spirit hung over the leading security and commodity markets today.

Stocks, after some hesitation, expressed their greeting to 1931 in a rally that was considerably larger than Wednesday's. Bonds, stimulated presumably by reinvestment demand, were higher all day, while wheat, corn and cotton made a good start on the clean slate.

Stocks Recuperate.

The share market got up its best head of steam in the afternoon rails, motors, oils, utilities and miscellaneous industrials and specialties, relieved from the bogey of tax selling, displayed the best recuperative powers since December 17, the date of the automatic rally from the 1930 lows. The day's sales totaled 2,031,380 shares.

News of the day was largely constructive. Demands loans renewed at 3 per cent, then dropped to 2 and finally to 1 1-2, the lowest since September 29. This sudden reduction so early in the month was unusual, but it was apparent funds were returning from the interior, that dividend checks and interest coupons were being deposited and that the banks, with their year-end statements ready, were again lenders in the street.

Wheat closed unchanged to 3 1-4 cents higher, with the maximum advance in the new July contract. Increased export sales and a stronger Winnipeg market were factors in the rally. Corn's gains averaged about 3 3-4 cents, while cotton rose 62 cents to $1 a bale.

Sterling cables climbed 3-16 of a cent, reflecting the lower Bank of France rate.

Revolution

Panama's only standing army. There were a few outbursts of firing and the station fell into the hands of the rebels.

Simultaneously other attackers swarmed on the palace, where after a brief resistance, the defenders gave way and the rebels swept in. President Arosemena was confined to his quarters with several other government officials including Archibaldo Boyd, governor of the province of Panama, and Ricardo Arango, head of the police.

Premier Appointed

After a consultation for several hours with the revolutionary leaders, President Arosemana appointed Dr. Harmodio Arias premier of Panama, then resigned as president, leaving Arias at liberty to form a new cabinet.

With the police headquarters and the palace in their hands, civilians associated with the revolutionists patrolled the city under the direction of General Manuel Quintero. Shops remained closed, there was no bus service and automobiles dashed through the city, carrying armed men who were posted as guards on police duty.

Davis Active

While the revolt was in progress the American minister, Roy T. Davis, was one of the busiest men in the city, his coat off and his collar open. He maintained uninterrupted contact with other members of the diplomatic corps and representatives of the revolutionary government.

He declined to talk for publication other than to say he and the other foreign representatives were "observing the situation."

United States troops guarded the American legation.

Senor Arias, head of the revolt, is a native Panamanian, the son of humble parents of a northern province who went abroad in his boyhood. By his own efforts he obtained an education in England. He is a lawyer and a comparatively young man.

Ambassador To U. S. May Become President

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. (AP)—Dr. Ricardo J. Alfaro, ambassador from Panama, said tonight he would not hesitate to accept the call to become acting president of his country.

The request was received by cable at the Panama legation late today. Dr. Alfaro said he had not determined on the course he would follow.

The request followed press reports that the determination of steps to be taken to return Panama to constitutional gomevnment following today's revolt would be left to the supreme court.

At the legation it was said Dr. Alfaro's name headed the list of candidates because he, presumably was the most acceptable public figure under the country's constitution.

It was recalled that he was elected first presidential designate or first vice president in 1928, for a period of two years ending October 1,1930.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Jan. 2. (AP)—Hogs—350, mostly 10 higher; truck top 8.10, few up to 8.25; no good rail hogs offered; bulk better grades 170-250 lb. truck hogs 8.00 @8.10; packing sows 6.50@6.75, or steady.

Cattle—2,000; good fat cows up to 5.35; butcher grades 3.00; slaughter calves strong to higher, good heavies up to 7.40 and some good medium weights 7.25.

Sheep — 900; slaughter grades fully steady; fall shorn lambs 7.00 with yearlings out at 5.50 and wethers 4.50; two-year-old fat wethers 5.00; medium to good heavy wooled fat lambs 6.25.

MIDDLEWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 2. (AP)— Hogs trade around the eleven market circuit was fairly active with prices unevenly steady to 15 higher. Weight averages 200 lbs. down sold to the best advantage. The top of 8.50 was for choice 170 lb. weights. Offerings were around 73,000.

Fat lamb trade was active at most centers with prices 10 to 15 higher. A factor contributing to the advance was the Jewish boycott at Chicago. Shippers in Chicago bought several loads of choice lambs at 8.75, while at Kansas City choice 90 lb. shorn arrivals scored 8.35. The supply numbered around 41,000.

Receipts of cattle were estimated at 10,000. Killing classes found a rather indifferent demand at mostly steady rates. Quality was rather plain. Chicago secured 11.25 for 1567 lb. beeves and at Kansas City good 1155 lb. steers brought 11.00. Bulk desirable stockers and feeder steers are clearing from 6.50@8.75 with occasional loads of yearling stockers and fleshy light weight feeders up to 9.00 and above.

As a result the pull of gravatation was found slightly larger than previously believed. Knowing this pull, called the gravitation constant, the earth's weight was obtained by mathematical computation.

The new gravitation value, said Dr. Heyle, changes no earthly weights, no nautical tables. It might make a slight difference in calculations about comets which have orbits extending farther out from the sun than the new planet Pluto. It might be useful to Einstein in calculatings of the distance across space.

It shows the earth has slightly less density than formerly estimated that is, the earth's solid substance is not quite so hard.

If all humans and their livestock were moved to the moon, Dr. Heyle remarked, the drop in the earth's total weight would be about one millionth of a millionth part of the total tonnage.

The babies who preformed their sleeping tricks for science lived in Chicago—the sons and daughters of college professors. They were studied by Doctor H. M. Johnson, Marion M. Jacobsen and Carlyle F. Jacobsen of the Mellon institute of the University of Pittsburgh.

"It has already been shown," this report stated, "that the afternoon nap does not tend to retard or shorten the sleep of the night, or to render it more restless. These experiments, coupled with those which were made by a different method by Doctors Boynton and Goodenough at the University of Minnesota, show that the child ordinarily rests more quietly during the afternoon nap than any time of corresponding length during the night.

GIRL STUDENT KILLED

ENID, Okla., Jan. p. (AP)—One high school girl was killed and another was hurt in a motor car collision here tonight. Grace Sartin, 16, was killed and Ona Giltner, 18, was injured. The driver of the automobile which collided with the girls' machine, was arrested.

As Hoover Signed Relief Bills

Photographers greeted President Hoover as he signed the unemployment and drought relief bills, providing a total of $161,000,000, which congress passed just before adjourning for the Christmas holidays. The money is to provide work for the jobless and seed fertilizer and food for the farmers in the drought area.

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Jan. 2. (AP)—Unsettled conditions prevailed today on the cash grain market with prices largely a matter of individual opinion and no sales posted after the full advance in contract values on the Big markets. Dealers reported very dull demand for wheat, barley and oats; but corn and sorghums were fairly well taken. No. 1 hard wheat of any protein was probably worth 79@81c delivered Texas common points. Estimated receipts: wheat, 13 cars; corn, 6; oats, 1; barley, 1, and sorghums, 2.

Nominal quotations on coarse grains ranged as follows basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn, No. 2 mixed 76@77c; No. 3 white 79@80c; No. 2 yellow 78@79c.

Oats, No. 2 red 44@45c.

Sorghums, No. 2 milo per 100 lbs. 1.23@1.25; No. 2 kaffir 1.21@1.23.

Dealers also quoted, basis delivered Texas group one points, as follows:

Corn, No. 2 mixed 74 1-2@75 1-2; No. 2 white 77 1-2@78 1-2; No. 2 yellow 76 1-2@77 1-2 to which add 3c for delivery group three. No. 3 white oats 43@44, to which add one cent for delivery group three.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 2. (AP)—Prices of all grains soared late today, with corn showing nearly a 4 cent jump, the leader. The main reason was active purchasing by corn speculators who believed the market had become oversold and switched from the selling side. Renewal of industrial demand for corn to be used at once was a factor giving impetus to buying of future deliveries.

Corn closed buoyant at the day's top figures, 3 1-4 to 3 3-4 cents higher, wheat a shade to 3 1-4 cents up, oats 1 3-8 to 2 cents advanced, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents down.

Activity of grain buyers and boosting of values came chiefly in the final hour. Earlier, corn in particular had run into selling on price bulges, and had averaged lower, even when wheat showed a tendency to advance.

Wheat, rye and oats moved up owing mainly to corn strength, with corn trade volume much exceeding that of wheat. Need of moisture over domestic winter wheat territory was noted, and there were reports that low prices for wheat were not reflected by lower costs of bread.

First National bank and Mr. Maxey a contractor.

W. O. Stevens of the Citizens National bank was named treasurer succeeding Mr. Friend.

Mr. Stevens reported at length on his trip to Spur Tuesday with Mr. Friend and L. C. Ellis, where they attended a drouth relief meeting. A resolution thanking the committee for the work was adopted.

Committee Named

A committee composed of R. J. Murray, Mr. Friend and A. B. Davis, manager, was named to cooperate in the series of membership meetings of the second district of the Texas Cotton Cooperative association. A meeting in Lubbock is scheduled for Monday afternoon at the courthouse.

Directors also voted to use the same plan they used in 1927 to obtain from the citizenship of Lubbock its views on a city wide program. That year 500 representative citizens were asked to give suggestions on what the chamber of commerce can do to build up the city.

Kidnaper

"I want to give you back your boy. You are worried about your son and I am worried about mine."

The Orthwein and Busch families refused to divulge details and stood by their promise to tell nothing if the boy was returned to them unharmed. They did not desire to prosecute the abductor and Troll said if it was found the kidnaper was driven to his crime by extreme want, it was possible the Busch family would find employment for him.

No ransom money was demanded or paid, they said.

Prosecutor Harry Castlen of St. Louis county, where the Orthwein estate is located in an exclusive district, said, however, the negro kidnaper would be vigorously prosecuted by the state, if he is captured and the police succeeded in getting evidence on which to proceed.

Late today, after Sheriff Lill of St. Louis county and Chief of Detectives Robert Kaiser of St. Louis, had questioned Pearl Abernathy, Kaiser said "I think we have the man who is the key to the whole situation."

Sheriff Lill said that after St. Louis police were through questioning, Abernathy, he would take him to jail at Clayton and hold him as an accessory to the kidnaping.

Police said Abernathy told them the first he knew of the kidnaping was when his son's wife came to his home and told him her husband had a white boy there.

Little Rock Club Looks Up Again

LITTLEROCK, Ark., Jan. 2. (AP)— Out of a three-month depression came Little Rock's baseball future today.

While details were veiled in secrecy, an arrangement has been made for financing and constructing a new baseball park for the homeless Travelers according to an announcement by H. Grady Manning, leader of the group seeking to retain the Southern Association franchise here.

In conjunction with this announcement, Manning reported business men were completing plans for formation of a company to take over the club holdings from R. G. Allen, owner.

FIND MISSING PILOT

Air Transport Company Told Flier Is Uninjured

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 2. (AP)— The Boeing Air Transport company tonight received a radiogram saying J. Russell Cunningham, missing B. A. T. pilot, had been found alive.

Company officials said the message, sent from Medford, said Cunningham was found near Oakridge and that he was uninjured.

Further details were unavailable immediately.

Seek Quinn In Second Attack

Hunted Missouri Ex-Convict Believed Assaulter Of A Young Woman Last Thanksgiving Day

PONCA CITY, Okla., Jan. 2. (AP)— Evidence which he said pointed to Earl Quinn, hunted Missouri ex-convict, as the attacker of a young married woman at almost the same spot where officers believed Quinn killed Jessie and Zexia Griffith, Blackwell school teachers, last Sunday was announced today by Sheriff Joe Cooper.

The attack, Cooper said, occurred Thanksgiving day.

Cooper said information concerning the attack was received from a young Muskogee woman in a letter to Charles Wagner, Tonkawa, chief of police.

The Griffith sisters were slain and Jessie Griffith was attacked on U. S. Highway 77 south of Tonkawa. Quinn is sought as their slayer.

The Muskogee woman, whose name was not disclosed, said her motor car was crowded off the road south of Tonkawa by a man who forced her to enter his machine, he drove to a side road where she said she was attacked.

Sheriff Cooper asserted the license number said by the Muskogee woman to have been on her attacker's car tallied with that carried by Quinn's coupe. The description of the attacker fitted Quinn.

SERVICES ARE HELD

J. C. Samuels Of Seagraves Is Buried Here Friday

Funeral services for J. C. Samuels, 52, of Seagraves, who died early yesterday morning in a local hospital, were held at the Bynum-Morgan funeral chapel at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Rev. Jack M. Lewis, pastor of the First Presbyterian church officiated and burial was had in Lubbock cemetery.

Mr. Samuels had been ill for only a few days. He is survived by his sons, C. H. Samuels of Seagraves and Howell R. Samuel of McKinney and a daughter, Mrs. J. R. Hunt of Lake Creek.

For a number of years Mr. Samuels lived at Seagraves and taught in the public schools there.

DOG WARNING ISSUED

Animals Without City Tag To Be Shot By Dog Catcher

The dog catcher will catch your dog if he does not wear a city tag on his collar.

This is the advice of R. A. Holland, city tax collector. "Dog licenses are due and payable now," he explained yesterday.

"Licenses are one dollar a year. The dog must be vaccinated against rabies.

"We are giving a few days grace and then the dog catcher, Mr. Sims, will get busy."

Animals found wandering around in streets and alleys by the catcher are subject to impounding in the city dog pound and if not redeemed, will be shot.

Cupid's Business Takes Drubbing

CHICAGO, Jan. 2. (AP)—Cupid's business took a drubbing in the 1930 depression also.

During the hard times, Cook county records show a decrease of 5,894 in marriage licenses over 1929, while divorces increased 328.

Cook county husbands paid $1,749,406 in alimony during the year, while others settled $1,128,051 on former wives.

There were 10,100 divorces granted in 1930, and only 37,172 marriage licenses

Sureties For Shepard Asked

Attorney For Convicted Army Surgeon In Kansas Seeking New Bondsmen For Client; Another Fee Demanded

KANSAS CITY, an. 2. (AP)—C. L. Kagey was in Kansas City today arranging, he said, for sureties for a new $20,000 bond for his client, Major Charles A. Shapard, recently convicted on government charge of murdering his wife.

"Since the professional bondsmen in Denver are demanding another $1,000 fee from the major," Mr. Kagey said, "we have decided to find sureties in Kansas."

Major Shepard is at liberty on bond pending disposition of two motions, one to suspend judgment and the other for a new trial. His conviction carried an automatic sentence to life imprisonment.

Mr. Kagey said Major Shepard obtained about $1,000 in gifts from several newly found friends in Kansas City who believed unjust the Government's allegation that the army officer poisoned his wife at Fort Riley, Kas., to be free to wed Grace Brandon, young San Antonia, Texas, stenographer.

DYING WISH TO BE FULFILLED

The dying wish of an English ex-soldier that a watch be returned to its owner, a German soldier, will be fulfilled, according to the announcement of German Consul Hunecke, at Hull, England. Hunecke recently received the watch, accompanied by an annoymous letter. The letter requested the consul to forward the watch to its owner or his family, whose name and address were inscribed on the case. "The enclosed watch," stated the letter, "was in the possession of my brother, who recently died as a result of war service. The family, in accordance with his wish, would like the watch to be restored, if possible, to the soldier to whom it belongs, or to his family. We ask as a favor that you will do what you can."

Girl's Murder Still Mystery

Why Pretty Beulah Limerick Was Shot To Death And By Whom Baffles Washington Police; Three Held

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP)—Why Pretty Beulah Limerick was shot to death and by whom still baffled Washington police today, two days after an undertaker accidentally discovered a hidden bullet hole at the back of her head.

Authorities had turned loose a score of persons questioned since the girl was found dead Wednesday, but they held her brother, Vernon Limerick, Richard Reed, who lived at their house, and Edward Paddy, who had been her escort at a dance Tuesday night.

Blame Jealous Suitor

A "jealous suitor" perhaps killed her, police thought, and they scanned the long list of her intimate friends for clues.

The story of the three men, as police told it, was that Paddy brought the girl home from the dance about 1:30 Wednesday morning. Vernon Limerick came down from his third floor room and talked with them awhile. Reed was asleep then but rose about quarter to five, went down as was his custom to light a fire in Beulah's room.

She lay on her side. The covers over her head, he said, and he did not disturb her. Soon he left for his work at a filling station.

Vernon took up the story. His alarm clock went off at 8:30. He called to his sister and receiving no answer went down to her room. She was flat on her back, the covers drawn back to her waist. He could not rouse her, went to his mother's apartment some distance off for aid.

About 10 o'clock he called a hospital. An interne came and noticing blood flecks at the girl's mouth, pronounced her dead from hemorrhage. A routine death certificate was issued. Late that evening the undertaker discovered the bullet hole. Police found four revolvers in the home or premises frequented by the Limericks but none would fit the bullet found in her head.

Military Genius Behind Revolution Of Sandino "Man Without A Country"

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 2. (AP)—Col. Augustin F. Marti, the military genius behind the Sandino rebellion in Nicaragua, found himself today in reality "a man without a country."

Colonel Marti arrived here Wednesday from San Salvador, where he was born, and sought permission to remain in the United States. His request was denied by the immigration authorities, who allowed him to disembark from a steamer to await a southbound vessel.

Denied Entrance.

President Bosque of San Salvador escorted Colonel Marti to La Libertad two weeks ago and sent him away from his native land with only a third class ticket to Mazatlan, Mexico. Upon his arrival at the Mexican port, Colonel Marti said he was refused permission to land. The soldier of fortune, who is a graduate of the University of San Salvador and an authority on international law, also was denied permission to enter Nicaragua.

Unless there is a change in administrations in San Salvador or a change in the present administration's attitude, Colonel Marti said he might be forced to travel about on ships from port to port without citizenship and a universal outcast.

General Augustino Sandino's uprising in Nicaragua, Colonel Marti declared, in reality was directed by him, Francisco Estrada, a Nicaraguan, Manuel Maria Jiron, a Guatemalan and Carlos Aponte Hernandez, a Venezuelan, other soldiers of fortune. He said despite reports that the Nicaraguan rebel had thousands of men under his banner, there were no more than 300 in his following at one time.

From 1921 to 1923 Colonel Marti served as an officer in the Mexican army under the late General Obregon.

Flues And Ventilation For Gas Heaters

In the use of natural gas, as with other fuels, certain well known precautions should be taken concerning the installation and operation of appliances.

At night open gas heaters should never be left burning in a bedroom. The windows should be opened and the heater turned out. Fresh air at night is most important to health, regardless of its relation to gas heaters. Some other part of the house may be kept warm, in order to provide a comfortable place in which to dress.

Living rooms should have some ventilation, and the flame in gas heaters should not be too high. Under any circumstance, don't let the flame roar and blow.

The burners of the ordinary gas stove should have an even, blue flame. Such a flame may be obtained by regulating the mixer. First loosen the set screw on the mixer. Open the shutter on the mixer slightly if the flame is yellow. Close it a little if the flame blows and pops.

If you are unable to regulate your appliances, call our Service Department. It is kept for your convenience, in order that you may obtain the highest efficiency from the gas which you purchase.
