This Independence Day finds the country with many problems, possibly as many as it had in 1776. In fact, the problems of today may be more acute because back there in '76 they probably thought they could see a way out of their troubles. Today's problems are of the type that accrue to a nation that experiences prolonged success. The standard of living has reached the point that many factors not even considered just a quarter century ago are now regarded as routine and all of a sudden we have learned that such things as fuel, fiber and food cannot be taken for granted, even in the land of plenty. Years of "bigger and better" have taken their toll, and now it appears that a leveling up time has arrived with its accompanying aches and pains. Still, you don't hear of any better places to live than right here in the U.S.A.

Rules and regulations now do not permit any type of craft on rivers and lakes without life saving devices which are approved by the U.S. Coast Guard, the Parks and Wildlife Dept. has reminded.

If it floats, and you're in it, chances are you had better have a "PFD" (personal flotation device) or you may be in trouble. About the only thing not covered in these regulations is an innertube and that's because it is not normally used for transportation.

Frank Ikard, the former Texas Congressman who now is president of the American Petroleum Institute, says several things have contributed to the energy shortage this country is now experiencing. One, which has been largely overlooked by the general public, is the fact that nuclear power hasn't fulfilled expectations. Remember back there soon after the end of World War II when there were predictions that the time was at hand when nuclear power would solve all of the energy problems and all but do away with the demand for oil, gas and coal? Well, it hasn't worked out that way. So far, nuclear power has not contributed nearly as much to the energy supply as expected, although they still say it will increase its share. But, according to those associated with the new lignite-burning electric power plant at Fairfield, it will be another 10 years before nuclear fusion begins to assume a really big chunk of the power load.—WACIL McNAIR.

Rogers, Winzer Talk Possible Diplomatic Ties

By ANTHONY COLLINGS
Associated Press Writer

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers and East German Foreign Minister Otto Winzer had a brief discussion Tuesday night of the possibility of establishing diplomatic relations between their governments.

Rogers tole a newsman today that the conversation took place only because he and Winzer were seated near each other at a dinner given by President Urho Kekkonen for delegates to the 35-nation European Security Conference. Rogers said the brief talk did not necessarily bring the establishment of relations any nearer.

A spokesman for the U.S. delegation to the security conference said the talk between the two ministers was no major development.

Other sources said Winzer raised the matter and Rogers told him the Nixon administration is considering establishing diplomatic relations with the East German government. But Rogers said he could not predict when this would happen, the sources said.

East Germany has established diplomatic ties with many Western countries in recent months, since it concluded a treaty normalizing relations with West Germany. Both Germanys are expected to join the United Nations this fall, and diplomatic sources say this may provide an opportunity for the start tf talks between the United States and East Germany to establish diplomatic relations.

Complicating factors include U.S. claims for compensation for American property expropriated when the Communist state came into being in 1949.

An East German trade delegation visited the United States earlier this year for the first formal U.S.-East German contact in more than two decades of Cold War hostility.

Winzer made East Germany's debut at the European Security Conference today and rebuffed the drive by the United States and its allies to increase contacts between the people of the Soviet and Western blocs.

Winzer warned that his Communist government would not permit the import of any ideas it deems "antihumanistic."

He also struck the ritual optimistic note being sounded by all speakers at the two-day-old conference, saying it "may usher in a new era of developing relations of peaceful coexistence" in Europe.

West German Foreign Minister Walter Scheel also was to speak today and was expected to tell the delegates that Chancellor Willy Brandt's policies of detente provide a useful tool for ending the Cold War.

Nation Observes 197th

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Americans paused today to observe their nation's 197th birthday with traditional events such as fireworks displays and political speeches.

Thousands were expected to be on hand tonight in Washington for an annual fireworks display at the Washington Monument.

In Decatur, Ala., Gov. George C. Wallace received the third annual Audie Murphy Patriotism Award at the Independence Day "Spirit of America" festival, whose main speaker was Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

The folklore of Kentucky — tobacco, thoroughbreds and bourbon making — was on display today in Washington on lawns near the Lincoln Memorial as part of the annual Festival of American Folklife.

In Boston, a parade through city streets today included ceremonies at the old Granuary Burial Ground, where Revolutionary War heroes are buried.

Across town, a first-day issuance of an eight-cent stamp commemorating the Boston Tea Party, which took place in December 1773, was held at Faneuil Hall, a meeting house of war revolutionaries. The 330-year-old hall is known as the Cradle of Liberty.

And in California, where President Nixon was spending this holiday, state officials announced plans to have their license plates take on a patriotic glow.

Gov. Ronald Reagan said that beginning in 1974 California license plates will have a white background, with the numerals in blue and the state name in red. They will glow in the dark.

Cambodian Insurgents Take Village, Cut Road

By LEE RUDAKEWYCH
Associated Press Writer

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodian insurgents have overrun a village and two other outposts 20 to 25 miles west of Phnom Penh and once more cut the capital's highway to the seaport of Kompong Som, military sources reported.

The sources said about 300 insurgents, firing tear gas grenades, drove a company of government troops from the village of Prey Phdau Tuesday night.

Communist-led insurgents have repeatedly cut Highway 4, the capital's only route to the sea. After being blocked for two weeks, it was reopened on June 19 with the help of massive U.S. air strikes. But some 4,500 rebel troops are believed to have remained in the area.

With Highway 4 cut, Highway 5 to the rice-growing areas of the northwest was the capital's only overland supply route open. However, government troops regained control of it only on Tuesday after it had been blocked for 17 days, and it was generally expected that it also would be cut again soon.

Other military sources said U.S. B52 bombers and fighter-bombers hit suspected insurgent positions during the night around the ferry town of Prek Kdam, 20 miles north of Phnom Penh, and at other points nine to 27 miles west and northwest of the capital.

In South Vietnam, 58 more cease-fire violations were charged to the Viet Cong by the South Vietnamese government, the lowest daily total since the cease-fire on Jan. 28. But heavy fighting continued in the Central Highlands around Kontuh.

A communique said Communist forces attacked government positions six to eight miles west and southwest of Kontum but were driven back. The communique said 46 Communist troops and 10 government soldiers were killed.

In another development, Michel Gauvin, the head of the Canadian delegation to the International Commission of Control and Supervision, delayed his departure for Ottawa today to press the search for two missing Canadian officers.

Gauvin went to both the Viet Cong and the South Vietnamese government delegations to the Joint Military Commission to urge them to get on with a search for the two officers.

American Dollar Plunges Again

By OTTO DOELLING
Associated Press Writer

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — The U. S. dollar dropped to record lows on Europe's money markets today but the July 4th bargain day attracted few buyers.

"It's almost impossible to sell any dollars," said one banker in Frankfurt.

Bankers in Paris said there was practically no trading there.

The dollar dropped sharply on the Frankfurt market, opening at a record low of 2.3580 marks and then falling still farther to 2.3345 marks. It had closed Tuesday at 2.3850.

The American currency lost almost three per cent of its value overnight in Zurich, dropping to 2.79 Swiss francs. The rate dropped six centimes in Paris to 4.0425 commercial French francs, but there was no business.

The British pound rose only fractionally in London, however, to $2.5820; it closed at $2.5797 Tuesday.

The price of gold rose, as it usually does when the dollar is under pressure. The metal opened up $1.38 cents in Zurich at $123 an ounce and up $1.75 in London at $124. The all-time high for the metal is $130.

A Frankfurt banker said he would not be surprised if the dollar sold for as low as 2.25 marks in the next few days.

Dealers in London were unable to say definitely why the dollar was plunging now. The U.S. currency has been weak for months because of the Watergate scandals, adverse U. S. trade and foreign exchange figures and renewed inflation in the United States.

New U. S. restrictions on exports of scrap metal and soybeans also appeared to be having a negative effect.

Market sources also believe the value of the dollar is being depressed by the so-called Eurodollar overhang, now totaling some $80 billion. This is money that companies and individuals have deposited in Europe and switched from currency to currency as the tide of the market has shifted. Dealers see no possibility of this tremendous fund moving back into dollars for deposit in the United States.

Charlie Turns 131 Today

BARTOW, Fla. (AP) — Charlie Smith won't have the lavish party today that he had last July Fourth. Instead, he'll quietly look forward to the usual birthday greetings as he celebrates his 131st year.

"He gets a card from the President every year," says John Kimak, a Social Security Administration official from nearby Lakeland. "He looks forward to that and other birthday greetings. He also likes to mark the occasion by having his photograph taken."

Last year's party was thrown by Kimak and his staff. Smith, the oldest person on the Social Security rolls, is their star.

But because of his age, Smith is slowing down a little and may not be able to take the strain of another party, Kimak said Tuesday.

Smith doesn't know exactly when he was born. But he says he was sold as a slave July 4, 1842, in New Orleans after being kidnapped from his native Liberia. So he uses that date to mark his birthday.

Despite his years, Smith still walks without a cane, sees well enough without glasses and hears all right with an aid.

Texas Weather Firecracker-Hot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Most Texans celebrated July 4 in firecracker-hot weather.

Skies were generally clear except for spotty showers around Brownsville, Alice, Corpus Christi and Victoria in South Texas and near Perryton and Shamrock in the Panhandle.

Temperatures near dawn ranged from 80 degrees at Galveston on the coast down to 70 at Midland in West Texas.

Tuesday afternoon's top marks reached into the upper 90s nearly everywhere, and the maximum was an even 100 at El Paso.

Forecasts promised little change. Occasional showers or thunder storms were expected by evening over the eastern half of the state and a few more were predicted through the coastal plains.

Alice Dumps Rain On Bermuda

By GORDON ROBINSON

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — Alice, the season's first hurricane, brushed past Bermuda early today, did no major damage and dumped at least two inches of rain that ended a three-month drought in the British island colony.

No casualties were reported, but the storm confined 10,000 holidaying Americans to their hotels and cruise ships.

A few trees were blown down, and a few electric lines were downed. These were being cleared quickly today amid rain squalls that continued to pelt the island.

By 7 a.m. EDT the eye of the storm was reported 40 miles to the northwest, heading north to northeast, with no other land near.

The National Hurricane Center in Miami said Alice picked up strength as it approached the British colony, and its maximum sustained winds rose to an estimated 90 miles an hour, with gusts to 115.

Alice's closest approach to Bermuda came at 2:50 a.m., when the eye of the storm was 26 miles to the west of the island about 600 miles off the Carolina coast.

The storm picked up strength as it roared north, and U. S. weather planes estimated the center winds at 90 miles an hour, with gusts up to 115. But the local weathermen recorded 65-mile winds during the height of the storm with gusts in exposed areas up to 86 m.p.h.

The seas were running 16 to 22 feet high, with tides three to five feet above normal. Gales extended about 200 miles to the east and 100 miles to the west of the storm center.

"Alice is expected to continue on a north to north-northeast course today," the hurricane center said in an advisory at 3 a.m. "An additional slight increase in strength may occur."

The storm was advancing at about 10 miles an hour. Weathermen said it posed no danger to any other land areas at present.

Alice was spawned by a low pressure system about 800 miles east of Cape Canaveral, Fla., and reached hurricane strength Tuesday morning, about 12 hours after she surfaced as a tropical storm far north of the usual hurricane breeding grounds in the Atlantic.

IRS Agents Check Marts For Freeze Violations

By ROD DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — A Cost of Living Council official confirmed Tuesday that Internal Revenue Service agents are checking various commodity markets around the country for possible violations of the 60-day price freeze.

An investigation of the nationally-distributed tomato crop in Arkansas, Georgia and Alabama is currently underway, according to Joseph L. Kirk, director of "exceptions" for the freeze.

Kirk told a news conference similar investigations are being carried out for other products, but he would not say where the checks were being made.

Kirk said five IRS agents have been watching three major Arkansas tomato markets to see if buyers and sellers "are complying with the freeze operation."

Kirk also said his office has received about 300 requests for exceptions to the price freeze but has granted only four. Three of them involved the meat price ceiling, he said.

"We are not denying all requests for price increases, but the President has asked everybody to bite the bullet," said Kirk. He added that there was "no prior decision that no exceptions to the freeze will be granted."

Kirk also insisted that any freeze exceptions would be "considered on a case by case basis," apparently precluding any across-the-board thaw on the prices of many agricultural or livestock commodities.

Kirk said the recent voluntary slaughter of thousands of baby chicks by small growers was unnecessary. "It's a dramatic action but I'm not sure what the impact will be...Actions like that don't help the situation any."

The growers should have requested individual exceptions to the freeze before taking drastic steps, Kirk suggested. However, he acknowledged that although some poultrymen did ask for exceptions, none have yet been granted.

Kirk also said he agreed with Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors, that major decisions affecting food supplies had been made long before the freeze was announced June 13.

Kirk was then asked whether the price freeze, having only a 60-day duration, might not be irrelevant to food supply problems.

"I'm not sure it will have a long-range effect," Kirk replied. But he said the freeze should be considered from the overall viewpoint of giving "a breather to the economy."

Allende Forms Cabinet Today

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON
Associated Press Writer

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — President Salvador Allende forms a new civilian cabinet today, rejecting proposals that he include leaders of the armed forces.

"After considering the political climate and the reality in which we are living, I have resolved not to form a new cabinet with participation of representatives of the armed forces," the Marxist president declared in a broadcast statement.

Allende's announcement Tuesday night followed a day of negotiations at the presidential palace, scarred by hundreds of bullet holes from last Friday's abortive army insurrection in which 22 persons were killed and 34 wounded.

Parliamentary sources said the military leaders demanded, as their price for coming into the cabinet, that military men get other key jobs in the government, including undersecretary posts and some provincial governorships. This would mean significant influence by the traditionally nonpolitical armed forces in day-to-day government operations.

Allende's leftist allies were reported opposed to giving the armed forces too much influence although the president's own Socialist party issued a declaration recently saying that the military should participate.

Three high-ranking officers served for several months in the cabinet after the antigovernment strikes last October but leftist civilians kept the jobs just below them.

Allende said the new cabinet would work on an "emergency plan destined to seek a solution to the most pressing problems facing the population."

Despite Allende's decision not to bring the military into his cabinet, the army remains in charge of maintaining public order because of the state of emergency proclaimed last week. A night curfew is still in force in Santiago province.

The world's worst inflation and food shortages which many blame on the government's socialist policies appear to be the root cause of the dissatisfaction among the troops. The cost of living rose more than 235 per cent in the past year.

Early last week military intelligence uncovered plans for a barracks revolt by soldiers of the 2nd Armored Regiment demanding more pay. Then on Friday about 100 men of the regiment attacked the presidential palace with four tanks. Loyal troops crushed the revolt in a few hours.

Nominations To Academies Are Due Soon

WASHINGTON, D.C.— Congressman Omar Burleson reminds young men who are interested in competing for nominations to the service academies, for the class entering July 1974, he uses a competitive method of selection so that all young men who meet the necessary requirements may be considered.

The service academies are the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland; the Military Academy at West Point, New York; the Air Force Academy near Colorado Springs, Colorado; and the Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, New York. These institutions offer a fine education and a great opportunity for service to their country by young men who wish to follow a military career.

In order for Congressman Burleson to consider applicants, a candidate must meet these requirements: (1) He must be a U.S. citizen; (2) He must be over 17 and a legal resident of the 17th Congressional District; (3) He must be under 22 years of age on July 1, 1974; (4) He must never have been married; (5) He must be physically fit, including excellent eyesight; (6) He must have a good high school record.

Burleson stresses that political influence is not a factor in his nominations to the Academies. The important thing is not who you know but what you are.

Interested young men who meet the above requirements should write Congressman Omar Burleson, House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515, no later than July 16. Examinations will then be scheduled as a rating device to set up slates for nomination. The competition is keen but Congressman Burleson wants to assure that all young men who are interested in a military career may have an opportunity to compete for nomination.

Secret GOP Gift Confirmed

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A Peace and Freedom party leader has confirmed reports of secret Republican contributions to left-wing candidates in California.

John Haag, past state chairman of the Peace and Freedom party, told the Sacramento Bee in an interview on Tuesday that Republicans helped his party in order to siphon votes away from Democratic candidates for Congress and the state Assembly.

"I was rather surprised at the time at the degree of interest they were taking," the Bee quoted Haag as saying.

"Of course they were doing it as a tactic. Obviously they were motivated for purposes of their own, but it seemed kind of ironic since most people felt that if anyone would give to our campaign it would be the liberals rather than the moderates or conservatives."

Haag told the Bee that Frank DeLong, an employe of the Assembly Republican caucus, called him in the spring of 1972 with an offer to help finance a Peace and Freedom party voter registration drive and to help the party find candidates in key districts.

Haag told the newspaper those efforts were concentrated in congressional and Assembly districts where a close race was expected between Republican and Democratic candidates.

Haag said he knew of about $1,200 which was received by the Peace and Freedom party from DeLong during the last election, the Bee reported.

DeLong could not be reached for comment.

Assembly GOP floor leader Robert Beverly of Manhattan Beach, Calif., DeLong's boss, said he had heard of the reports of the funds but had never inquired if they were true.

Picasso Art Brings $765,000

LONDON (AP) — A Picasso painting from the artist's Blue period sold for a record $675,000 at Sotheby's auction house Tuesday night. But a Picasso landscape at Christie's failed to bring the $498,750 reserve price set by its American owner.

New York dealer Stephen Hahn paid the record price for "Le Mort," painted in 1901 and showing a group of mourners around a body in a chapel. It was among 26 paintings and sculptures owned by the late Edward G. Robinson, the actor, that sold for a total of $1.76 million.

The previous record for a Picasso sold at auction was $456,000 for "La Mere et l'Enfant," at Sotheby's in 1968.

The painting that didn't reach the reserve price was a 1906 Catalan landscape "Paysage de Gosol," owned by the widow of mining magnate Charles W. Engelhard.

Picasso died April 8, and a week later a set of his etchings failed to command the reserve price of $250,000 at Sotheby's. But some dealers felt the record price for "Le Mort" might bring a flood of Picassos into the market.

Ford To Probe Energy Shortages

DETROIT (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. says it plans to probe potential effects of energy shortages on the company's manufacturing capabilities.

J. Paul Bergmoser, vice president for technical affairs, confirmed several drafts of the proposed program have been written.

Bergmoser said materials in potentially short supply include gasoline, lubricants, solvents, coolants, hydraulic fluids, rust preventatives, mill oils, fuel oil and propane.

The Detroit Free Press reported one draft of the planned study indicates the situation is "sufficiently critical that some plants are facing near-term production curtailments and even the possibility of temporary shutdowns."

Premium Rollback Due For Medicare

The monthly premium for medicare medical insurance, scheduled to be increased this month, has been rolled back in keeping with President Nixon's 60-day price freeze policy, according to Erven Fisher, Social Security District Manager at Big Spring.

"The higher amount will continue to be charged until the premium record for each beneficiary can be corrected," said Fisher. "Refunds in full will be made at a later date. This also applies to railroad retirement beneficiaries and civil service annuitants who pay premiums for medical insurance under medicare."

Texas Files Gas Suits

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The State of Texas has filed suit against 14 companies, claiming each owes "substantially in excess of $100,000" for gas produced from state lands leased by the companies.

The suits seek to recover the full market value of the gas. The first such suit was filed May 10 against Exxon.

Named by Atty. Gen. John Hill in the 14 new suits Tuesday were Mobil, Sun, Shell, Texaco, Superior, Phillips, Amoco, Gulf, Atlantic Richfield, Chevron, Forest, Getty, McMoran and BTA, a Midland partnership.

In the petitions, the state contends the companies are selling gas for approximately 20 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, or less, but the present market value is about 45 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

"All of the gas produced from these leases, including the state's share, is being sold by defendant at a price far below market price for which the state can sell its share of such gas," the petition states, "and far below the price for which defendant can sell the state's share of such gas."

Hill said that the 15 suits, including Exxon, cover approximately 80 per cent of all the lease contracts involving state gas royalties.

The recent legislature directed state agencies to do what they could to collect full market value for gas from state lands.

Shortage Of Potato Chips

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Is a potato chip famine developing in America, a nation of hearty munchers?

That was the question raised after reports from potato chip experts here that there may be a shortage of the snack during the July 4 holiday—one of the munchiest times of the year.

Information obtained from manufacturers, regional and district sales managers and local distributors indicate some potato chip plants have cut production drastically and some grocery shelves are becoming depleted.

The potato chip makers blame the situation on a potato shortage, rising spud prices and the government's price freeze.

Charles Nelson, regional sales manager for Morton Foods in Oklahoma and Arkansas, said distribution in recent weeks had been only half of normal.

He said the company would endeavor to ship "75 to 100 per cent" of normal quotas during the holiday period but warned that "after that I don't know what the situation will be."

AND IMPLICATE HALDEMAN

Porter And Strachan To Cooperate With Cox

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two former White House officials are reported ready to plead guilty in the Watergate cover-up and implicate H. R. Haldeman, the resigned White House chief of staff.

The New York Daily News said today that Gordon Strachan and Herbert L. Porter, both Haldeman proteges, have agreed to cooperate with the special Watergate prosecutor, Archibald Cox.

The news said Porter would plead guilty to obstructing justice in connection with committing perjury before Watergate investigators. Strachan's planned plea was not reported.

The News said Strachan sent word through his lawyers on June 14 that, once he received limited immunity from the Senate Watergate committee, he would be willing to testify that Haldeman knew of the Watergate cover-up "from the beginning."

Strachan, who reported to Haldeman at the White House, has been granted the limited form of immunity that prevents prosecution on grounds of his own testimony.

The News also reported that Common Cause, the citizens' lobby, has learned of another $3.5 million collected by President Nixon's re-election committee before last spring's deadline for contribution disclosures. This is in addition to contributions from other Nixon supporters who donated $19.6 million, the newspaper said.

Meanwhile, White House counsel Leonard Garment has promised the Senate Watergate committee an answer by Thursday to the panel's requests for White House files related to Watergate.

Committee chief counsel Samuel Dash said Tuesday Garment has indicated he will have a "positive" response but had not diminished studying the matter.

Dash filed a written request last week asking for permission to copy all White House files relating to Watergate, including the papers of top presidential aides, daily news "summaries prepared for President Nixon and briefing papers used to prepare Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler for reporters' queries about Watergate.

Dash said he also wants to look at the White House records of Charles W. Colson, a former special counsel who resigned in March and set up private law practice in Washington.

Fired White House counsel John W. Dean III testified that Colson played a significant part in the Watergate cover-up, and some Senate investigators believe he will prove to be a key man in the conspiracy.

Colson has denied any involvement but has not yet testified before the Senate committee.

Vaporizer Recalled

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration is checking out 22 aerosol products designed to be sprayed into the mouth or lungs following its recall of Pertussin Medicated Vaporizer.

The FDA said Monday's recall was prompted by the death April 18 of a 5-year-old Cleveland girl whose room had been sprayed with the product.

The agency urged consumers to destroy or return any cans of the spray, which the manufacturer said has been on the market 14 years.

The agency suspects the ingredient trichloroethane may be a factor in the death. It attributes 17 other deaths to the Pertussin vaporizer but blames those on abuse.

A spokesman said FDA investigators will be checking the other products to see if they contain trichloroethane—a chemical that works as a solvent for the medicines in the vaporizer and also serves to reduce the pressure of the propellant gases.

The other products include breath fresheners, as well as nasal-congestion remedies.

The FDA has formed a special team of scientists and inspectors to investigate the other aerosol products. Since they are nonprescription drugs, their formulas are not registered with the agency.

The company noted the recall "in no way affects the Pertussin line of cough remedies—Pertussin 8-hour Cough Formula, Wild Berry Cough Syrup and Pertussin-plus Nighttime Cold Medicine."

Kennedy Joins In Honoring Wallace

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

DECATUR, Ala. (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy joins in honoring Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace at the Independence Day "Spirit of America" festival here today in a display of Democratic party unity.

Wallace, who will receive the third annual Audie Murphy Patriotism Award, invited the Massachusetts Democrat to make the principal speech at the early evening ceremony.

Although the event is billed as a nonpolitical, patriotic celebration marking the 4th of July, the political significance of the joint Kennedy-Wallace appearance was underscored by the presence of Robert S. Strauss, chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Since taking office last December, Strauss has gone out of his way to woo Wallace and his supporters back into the Democratic Fold. He was stressed the importance of winning back the millions of Democrats who refused to support the party's 1972 ticket and helped President Nixon to a landslide re-election.

Besides thousands of fairgoers, who will spend the day participating and viewing such activities as watermelon-eating and frog-jumping contests, the festival has attracted scores of newsmen to this north-central Alabama industrial city.

The ties between Kennedy and Wallace, both potential 1976 presidential candidates and both listed on the White House "enemies list" introduced in the Senate Watergate hearings, are chiefly nonpolitical, stemming from their common experience with personal tragedy.

Kennedy, the political heir of two assassinated brothers, has praised the personal courage of Wallace in battling back from the paralysis below the waist suffered in an assassination attempt in May 1972.

Kennedy was due to fly here in midafternoon. He was expected to leave shortly after the ceremonies.

There has been no announcement as to whether Kennedy and Wallace will meet privately, though such a session is likely before the ceremony.

For Kennedy, the appearance here is the third in the state in recent years. Both of the others were at university campuses, the University of Alabama and Auburn University.

The invitation from Wallace was extended shortly after the two men had a friendly chat when the Alabama governor came to Washington for a meeting of the nation's governor's last February.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — One of the ceiling tiles in our finished attic is badly damaged. I would like to replace it, but do not know how to remove it so as to keep the tongue-and-groove arrangement intact. Also, how is the new tile put in place?

A. — Forget about installing the new tile the way it was done originally. You simply can't remove the old tile without cutting the tongues from it. To get down the old tile, cut around the edges of it with one of those cutters that has a razor blade or other type of blade in it. When you have cut around all four edges, the tile will drop down. Take out all the staples or nails with which the tile was originally installed.

The new tile must then be cemented in place, but not before you have cut off its tongues. The replacement tile may be noticeable for a while, especially if the ceiling has been up a long time, but it will get less conspicuous as the weeks go by.

Q. — We soon must get the toilet bowl in our downstairs bathroom replaced. At the same time, we would like to have installed one of the flushing setups that do not require a water tank. Can this be done?

A. — Yes, provided the water supply pipe to the house is at least 1¼ inches. Since there are other considerations involved, a plumber must make the final decision for you.

Q. — I once read about how to run your fingers over a piece of wood after sanding to detect whether the finish is smooth. I would like to tell your readers about a little trick of mine that I have used for some time. After I sand wood and want to be certain that it is perfectly smooth, I place my hand in an old nylon stocking and then run my fingers over the wood. If there is any imperfection in the surface of the wood, there is an immediate snag in the nylon. It works every time.

A. — Thanks for everyone.

Q. — I recently ruined a cabinet I had finished with enamel. Well, maybe I didn't ruin it, but I sure had to re-enamel it. I had followed the instructions in a book about getting a smoother finish by sanding the final coat, but when I did this, it scarred the enamel and looked terrible. What did I do wrong?

A. — You probably misread the instructions. Some types of clear finishes, such as varnish and shellac, may be sanded to remove irregularities, but not enamel. However, enamel undercoats sometimes are sanded so that the succeeding coat or coats will grip properly and all surface blemishes will be eliminated.

Q. — Our small cellar, with a dirt floor, has recently developed a musty odor. What causes this and how can it be eliminated?

A. — It sounds like mildew, which occurs in damp areas where there is a lack of circulation and no sunlight. Keep the cellar well heated and dry for a couple of days, then sprinkle some chlorinated lime over the dirt and let it stay there a few days. Sweep up the lime, put down some more of it and take steps to prevent a reappearance of the mildew and odor. Place an exhaust fan in one of the cellar windows. On dry days, open a window as nearly opposite the fan as possible, then turn on the exhaust for a few hours. Do this every time there is a dry day. You will always have to fight this problem so long as you leave the floor in its present state.

Mother Hubbard Mad About Food Cost

COLLEGE STATION—Mod Mother Hubbard's cupboard is un-bare-able today because she buys convenience foods and "impulse" items, dines away from home—and says she's mad about the cost.

"Homemakers may have to do more food preparatoin themselves and spend more time doing it to reduce the cost of food," Judy Grubbs said this week.

The foods and nutrition specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, added, "Sometimes we have to give a little to get a lot."

She cited five ways of "giving a little time and effort" to help cut food costs.

—Eat at home as much as possible.

"Cost of food at home hasn't risen nearly as high as cost of food away from home. When the family cannot eat at home, often they can take a sack lunch, which can mean more nutritious and economical lunches.

"Also, coffee break costs dip with food taken from home. Fruit or fruit juices and some of the breads and cereals offer excellent choices. By saving a few cents for each person on each coffee break, the whole family saves several dollars a week."

—Use less meat.

"Adults need two servings of about three ounces of meat a day. In order that they now feel hungry, they can stretch the meat with pastas, rice and potatoes."

—Use more of the breads and cereals—and less sugar-sweetened foods.

—Eat food necessary for health and to maintain weight. "Eating more food than is necessary for our own energy output—and feeding excess weight—is a waste of money."

—Buy foods in season or the most economical form of the food available if it's out-of-season.

"If homemakers are unable to do more food preparation at home because of limited skill or time, they'll have to pay for this when they go to the market," the specialist concluded.

Difference In Sexes Is Two Darts

NEW YORK (AP) — Turn back the lapel of Aubrey Jay's handsome gray suit and there are dozens of straight pins.

They stem from his profession, which involves making fashions that fit. Jay began his career in custom tailoring on London's Saville Row. Today he is design, pattern and textile process development manager in quality control for the J. C. Penney Co. He finds American women the ultimate fitting challenge.

"There is no such thing as an American body type. There hasn't been time to develop one. Other nations have a body type. In Europe, for example, bras were sold by numerical designation alone for many years, without a cup size. In America, that would never work," Jay said.

"In about 10 generations, an American figure may be developed. The woman's figure, if we evolve at the present level, will be about 5 feet 10 inches tall, angular, with excellent posture and large feet. She will have long arms, and if the present trend to bralessness continues, long, pendulous breasts."

Jay says the difference between men and women is two darts. Women's garments need them for fit, and fit is his primary concern.

He is chairman of the sizing subcommittee of the Mail Order Association of America, coordinating that group's efforts toward development of uniform sizing.

"One day, a size 10 woman will be size 10 everywhere, no matter what she buys," Jay said. "If she gains or loses 10 pounds, she will change her size accordingly. The only problem we face is the possibility that we'll make more progress toward clarifying sizes than we make ethnic progress."

Jay admits he has seen women wearing fashions he'd been involved with that did not fit them properly. He says he felt "destroyed" but never approached the women to suggest alterations.

"Alterations are important to proper fit. Even a minor change can make all the difference in the way a garment looks. It's silly to skimp on a one or two dollar investment that can make a dress fit like a million-dollar custom tailored garment," he said.

Jay says that clothing is really packaging. Human beings are packaging themselves, he said, to sell to family, a peer group or an employer. He approves of the packaging, but says some people do it better than others.

"It's better to be looked over than overlooked," he added. "I look at women's clothes on the street instead of their faces, not because I'm old or not interested, but because I look first at the packaging."

Jay feels that people who work in mass merchandising have a unique responsibility.

"We are physically and morally involved in manufacturing. I don't know another company as involved. But basically, the company is only a convenient method of being paid.

"I work for the consumer. If the consumer doesn't buy, I don't have a job. I look at people on the street to see how I'm doing.

"Fashion without fit is valueless. If a garment doesn't look attractive on the rack, a woman will never even take it into a fitting room. Fashion is the impact, but quality is what keeps it sold," Jay added.

As far as Jay is concerned, the consumer deserves a better deal with sizing and fit than he gets today. He has no idea when the committees he's working with will be able to institute nationwide uniform sizing standards. But he has suggestions that can ease the confusion.

"A woman should always try on a garment before buying it. She should regularly patronize a retailer in whom she has confidence," he said.

Chemical Deaths Are Too Common In Texas

By ROBERT E. Ford
Associated Press Writer

One of the most wrenching stories coming across newspaper desks is that of the youngster, teen-aged or less, who sought that big thrill by use of a chemical stimulant and died.

Think it rare?

Not at all, says Dick Sutherland of the Texas Department of Community Affairs.

By this time this year, such deaths have matched the number from heroin use in Texas.

These chemical fatalities are exceeded in number in the drug abuse field only by the deaths from barbiturate use.

Texas has recorded 14 such chemical deaths in the last 18 months, most of them by use of aerosol spray from cans with the fumes deliberately inhaled.

There is no way to determine how many similar deaths take place each year in the nation since national reporting does not break down the fatalities by such causes.

The youngsters appear to be trying for a "high" or a "low," similar to the effects of the more commonly abused drugs.

What are the results?

They sound like a chamber of horrors the way the department spokesman relates them.

The results vary. There may be a loss of inhibitions, a dizziness as the body tries to reject the poison and brain cells are damaged, exhiliration, distortion of sound, a ringing or buzzing of the ears, echoing of noises, hallucinations, delirium, seizures, and comas.

Permanent damage can be caused even when the sniffing is not fatal.

Some children have been so stupid that they have sprayed directly into their throats a substance used to quick-chill cocktail glasses.

The effect, naturally, is immediate when this substance is used. There is suffocation, freezing of the larynx and a serious interruption of the regular heart beat. The Journal of the American Medical Association indicates that death comes so swiftly that the user is dead before he can stop the spray.

With most of the deliberately inhaled sprays, the chemical first attacks the membranes of the nose, then goes to the brain where it depresses reason. It also is likely to cause a general depression of the central nervous system and to concentrate on the liver.

The chemicals can cause cell destruction in the kidneys and liver and interfere with the blood-building function of bone marrow.

It even is habit-forming to some people, just like barbiturates and other hard drugs. This is because some become mentally addicted, differing from the actual physical addiction of the drugs.

And all this for a kick that lasts five to 10 minutes if the user isn't sent into eternity.

Experts trying to reduce the death toll are baffled when trying to determine why young people use these sprays or sniff glue. But researchers have come up with some answers.

Ages range from 8 to 18 years, although one 20-year-old died. In all instances, the victims were white, and most were students.

The researchers say the young people may try a spray or sniff chemical on a dare or because others talk them into using it.

Or they may want to imitate their parents or older brothers or sisters who get high on alcohol or drugs.

Sutherland notes that even in today's strange society, some young people cannot obtain marijuana, the harder drugs or alcohol, either because they don't know where or because they don't have the money.

But aerosol sprays or the sniffing chemicals are available in every household.

Too, there are no tell-tale needle marks as along the veins of a heroin user. And they can possess the substances without fear of the law or detection by their parents.

Madagascar, 250 miles off the east coast of Africa in the Indian Ocean, is the fourth largest island, in the world, after Greenland, New Guinea and Borneo.

Indian Mounds Revealing

PALESTINE, Tex. (AP) — University of Texas archaeologists have determined that the approximate age of three Indian mounds in Cherokee County are around 1,200 years.

The scientists say the inhabitants were among the first stable residents of Texas although nomadic Indians roamed the state in much earlier times.

Research leader Dr. Dee Ann Story said two specimens were taken by archaeologists from the three Indian mounds near Texas Highway 21 east of the Neches River in Cherokee County.

Carbon 14 dating shows that the mound Indian lived in Cherokee County around the 8th century.

Dr. Story told Palestine Herald Press writer Ernest Jones that evidence uncovered indicates the mound Indians lived in a class society.

At intervals of 60 to 80 years they tore down and leveled structures built on and around the mounds, capped the sites with earth and built entirely new structures on the capped sites.

Indications are that offerings and perhaps human sacrifices were made at the razing of these structures and the beginning of new ones.

Human skeletal remains were found in the mounds. Other items found included beads, pots and some stone celts (axes).

Dr. Story, who lives in Austin, is director of the Texas Archaeological Research Laboratories at the University of Texas.

Explorations at the Indian mounds were financed by the National Science Foundation.

Among vestiges of the ancient inhabitants found in the mounds is corn, which Indians developed in Mexico at least 2,000 years ago.

Six district rebuildings of the Indian settlement were found, Dr. Story said.

The mound explorers found no evidence of warfare—which must be surprising.

The Indians are presumed to have been Caddos with a population of 125 to 250. The site was abandoned for an unknown reason starting in the A.D. 1200s.

"We begin to get idea that they had stratified classes; to define the haves and have-nots of their culture," said Dr. Story.

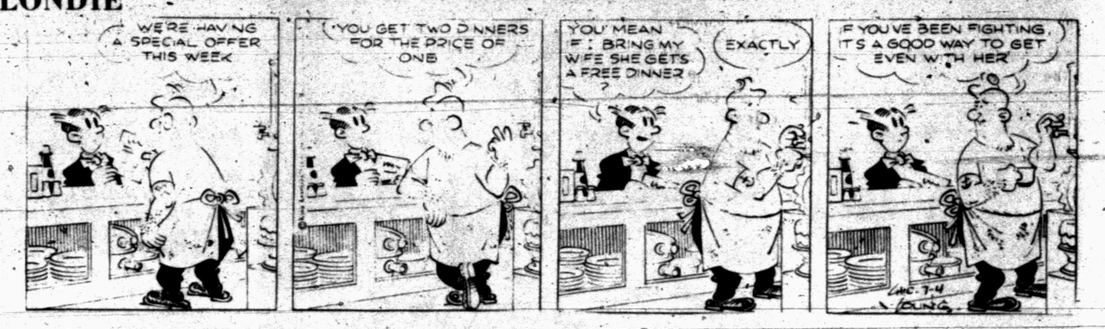

Somewhat like the shape of things in a Mexican community with its central plaza, the mound residents had their civic and religious center surrounded by the homes of the privileged "inner circle" clique or class. Less favored families lived beyond that circle.

Six cemeteries were superimposed one above the other, and six inner precincts or community centers were established by the expedition diggings.

Junior Editors Quiz on FERRET

QUESTION: What is a ferret?

• • •

ANSWER: A ferret is a small variety of the weasel family. It is an African animal, but was brought into Europe where it was bred as an exterminator of rats and mice. It has also been used in the hunting of rabbits. The ferret is closely related to the European polecat, but it cannot endure cold weather. Like other weasels, it is a vicious, bloodthirsty hunter, usually killing more than it can eat. It has a slender body about 14 inches long, has pink eyes and is usually yellowish-white in color.

The black-footed ferret is found in the western United States. It is the largest true weasel — about 18 inches long with a 6 inch tail. It is light brown with black feet, a black-tipped tail and a dark band across its eyes. A native of the plains, it feeds on prairie dogs and ground squirrels. It works its way through the burrows of a prairie dog colony and kills many of them. Farmers discourage ferrets because they also kill chickens.

LAFF—A DAY

"Dear diary, a handsome man in uniform followed me for ten blocks."

Bailey Sparks Expos Victory

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer

"I'll remember this game for the rest of my life," said Expos third baseman Bob Bailey, who put on a show the Montreal fans—and the New York Mets—will not soon forget.

Bailey slammed two home runs—one of them a grand slam—and drove in seven runs, leading the Expos to a record-shattering 19-8 pasting of the Mets Tuesday night.

The 19 runs and 21 hits were the most ever by the Expos.

After his sixth-inning grand slam, the crowd of 12,279 at Jarry Park gave Bailey a standing ovation the next two times he came to bat—and he responded with a solo homer in the seventh and a single in the eighth.

Elsewhere in the National League, the St. Louis Cardinals climbed over the .500 mark for the first time this season by sweeping a twinight doubleheader from the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-0 and 7-6; the Atlanta Braves blanked the Houston Astros 1-0; the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Chicago Cubs 8-2; the San Diego Padres topped the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-1, and the Cincinnati Reds beat the San Francisco Giants 6-3.

Rick Wise pitched a seven-hit shutout for St. Louis the first game, while rookie Ken Reitz hit a bases-loaded triple to cap a five-run fifth-inning that powered the Cards to victory in the nightcap.

Rich Folkers, a relief specialist who was making only the third start of his major league career, was coasting with a 7-1 lead into the ninth, but needed relief help from Diego Segui when the Pirates rallied for five runs, four of them on a pinch-hit grand slam by Willie Stargell, his 24th homer of the year.

Atlanta's Carl Morton gave up 10 hits but managed to shut out the Astros. Mike Lum drove in the game's only run with a second inning grounder.

Greg Luzinski's two-run homer in the first inning got the Phils started on the way to victory. Rick Monday hit a pair of solo homers for Chicago.

Randy Jones pitched a four-hitter for his first major league victory and Nate Colbert slammed a bases-loaded double for the Padres.

No baseball game has ever been rained out at Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium, a record that was kept intact when Tuesday's game with the Giants finally got under way after a rain delay of two hours, 25 minutes.

Bobby Tolan's tie-breaking homer helped the Reds to victory. Pete Rose scored his 1,044th career run, most ever by a Cincinnati player, while San Francisco's Bobby Bonds led off the game with a homer, the ninth time he has done it—a NL record.

In the American League, the New York Yankees beat Boston 3-1, Detroit edged Cleveland 5-4, Kansas City defeated Minnesota 7-6 and Oakland blanked California 3-0. In a twinight doubleheder, the Chicago White Sox beat Texas 15-1 in the opener but lost the nightcap 2-1. in another twinighter, Baltimore beat Milwaukee 9-7 in the opener, the Brewers led 4-1 in the second game which was suspended after seven innings by a local curfew and will be resumed today.

Stars Skip Milwaukee Open

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Most of golf's great names are en route to Britain and one of the year's major events, so the second line players get their chance to shine this week at the $130,000 Greater Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament.

It's at least the fourth year in a row that this tournament has been caught in pro golf's midsummer doldrums and, as a result, has drawn a less than spectacular field.

For one thing, this is the 27th week of the long season.

For another, the British Open is being played next week in Troon, Scotland. Also, the airline schedules are such that players competing here could not get to Scotland until Tuesday, with the world's oldest tournament scheduled to start the following day.

As a result, the many top stars who are competing there—Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Lee Trevino, Tom Weiskopf, Bruce Crampton—are skipping this tourney.

And a number of others—Billy Casper, winner of last week's Western Open, and Hale Irwin among them—decided this was a good time to take off.

The result is that none of the top dozen money winners of the season is on hand for the 72-hole test that begins Thursday on the 7,010-yard, par-72 Tuckaway Country Club course.

In fact, only three of the top 20 money winners—Bob Dickson, Buddy Allin and Homero Blancas—are in the 144-man field that will play for a $26,000 first prize.

There is no clear-cut favorite.

Dodger, Red Girls Win

The Texas Electric Dodgers flailed the Yankees 33-6 and the West Texas State Bank Reds shelled the Kiwanis Greens 15-2 in Miss Softball America action here last night.

Martha Womack twirled a 6-hitter for the Dodgers, giving up a home run and a single to Denise Reese, a double and a single to Martha McAnelly and two singles to Anita Martinez.

The Dodgers collected 31 hits. Martha Womack stroked two home runs and three singles, Terry McClain socked two home runs and two singles, Tammy Bounds hit three doubles and three singles. Billie Owens hit a triple and two singles, Josie Rios hit a double and a single, Lisa Bounds hit three singles, Sandra Welch and Jacqueline Pylant each hit two singles, and Becky Pierce, Becky Welch, Dixie St. Clair and Rhonda Chester each hit one single.

The Reds' Karen Weber fired a 4-hitter, giving up a triple and a double to Esmeraldo Romero, a double to Francis Collins and a single to Teresa Rios.

The Reds collected 25 hits. Karen Weber socked a home run, two triples and a single, Jane Ann Womack stroked a triple, double and two singles, Jo Ann Alarcon hit a double and two singles, Charlotte Pierce doubled, Connie Pollard hit four singles, Shelly Nutt, Debra Newman, Becky Neely and Lujean Eckert each hit two singles, and Sheryl Ruminer hit one single.

Yanks, Tribe Win FL Tilts

The Yankees tripped the Braves 18-12 and the Indians scalped the Athletics 11-4 in Farm League action here last night.

The Yanks' Ralph Hernandez fired a 4-hitter, giving up a double to Hector Barbosa, two singles to Vaughnie Voss and one single to Randy Huddleston.

The Athletics' David Rios and Richard Romo teamed forces for a 4-hitter, giving up singles to Billy Shoemake, Billy Bounds, Richard Ruminer and Joe Garcia. The A's, although they lost, collected eight hits. Richard Romo stroked a double and a single, Perry Echols socked a double, Frizby Bible hit two singles and Malcolm Rainwater, Louis Beurlein and Curtis Stipe each hit singles.

Rebels Beat Buffs, 10-4

The Rebels beat the Buffs 10-4 in Junior Teenage League action here last night.

Each team collected only six hits. Alvin Ollison and Kenny Thompson hit two singles each for the Rebs while Glen Davis and Brian Walton each hit one single. For the Buffs, Clay Peterson stroked two singles while Tim Falls, Tim Flynn, Harvey Waller and Russell Scott each hit one single.

The Rebs got four runs in the 2nd off two walks and singles by Glen Davis and Alvin Ollison. They added six tallies in the 4th off three errors, a walk and singles by Ollison, Brian Walton and Kenny Thompson.

The Buffs got two runs in the 3rd off an error and singles by Clay Peterson and Harvey Waller. They added one run in the 5th off an error and a single by Tim Falls. They added one more tally in the 7th off an error and a single by Tim Flynn.

Big Crowd For Race!

By JOHN R. SKINNER
Associated Press Sports Writer

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A crowd of 70,000, including 60 Congressional Medal of Honor winners, is expected at Daytona International Speedway today to see the slowest Firecracker 400 stock car field since 1966.

But officials of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing think that new carburetion restrictions which dropped the top qualifying speed here by six miles per hour will result in closer competition.

And Cale Yarborough of Timmonsville, S.C., who shares the front row with Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., agrees.

"Stock car racing now is more competitive than it has been in the last five years," said Yarborough, who along with Allison is driving a Chevrolet Malibu which has not been severely affected by the carburetor changes.

Allison won the pole position at the 2.5-mile, high-banked oval track with a speed of 179.618 miles per hour and Yarborough gained the outside position at 178.837 m.p.h. By comparison, Buddy Baker of Charlotte, N.C., won the pole position in February's Daytona 500 race with a speed of 185.6 m.p.h.

Baker, in a Dodge, has seen his speed fall to 172.433 m.p.h. this week under the new rules, but Yarborough thinks half the field, including Baker, has a chance at winning the $114,800 race.

A's, Braves Win LL Tilts

The Athletics whipped the Indians 11-1 and the Braves beat the Yankees 13-2 in Little League action here last night.

The A's Richard Crayton fired a no-hitter. The A's collected seven hits. Billy Hall stroked two doubles, Ronnie Wooldridge clouted a home run, Jerald Snyder hit two singles, and Randy Chambers and Jeff Wesson each hit one single.

The Yanks scored one run in the 1st and one in the 3rd. The Braves tallied four times in the 1st, twice in the 2nd, and seven times in the 4th.

Flames Blank Petros, 12-0

ODESSA—The Snyder Flames blanked the Odessa Petros 12-0 in the first game of a softball tournament here Tuesday night.

Regina Lewis and Mabel Powell got three hits each. Jan Kruse, Martha Braziel, Evelyn Wesley, Sue Jane Sullivan and Janie Roddy each collected two hits. One of Martha's, Evelyn's and Janie's hits were doubles.

Mabel Powell was the winning pitcher. The Flames are now 10-4 for the season. They meet Kermit at 3 p.m. today in the second round. Other first round winners were Kermit, Midland and Monahans.

Texas, Sox Split Two

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Perrys were in Cleveland, making a bit of American League history. Wilbur Wood was in Texas, making a bit of a comeback. And Sparky Lyle was in New York, making another save.

Neither Gaylord Perry of Cleveland nor brother Jim of Detroit were around at the finish. But Wood was, for a change. And Lyle...well, the finish is the only time you'll find him.

Perhaps the fans were expecting a morality play to unfold as Jim, supposedly the "dry" Perry, went head-to-head against Gaylord, who has gained notoriety of late for his alleged "greaseball" pitches.

And perhaps the fans got it, too. Jim didn't figure in Detroit's 5-4 victory—but Gaylord got the loss, his 11th in 19 decisions this season.

In the other American League games, the Chicago White Sox shellacked Texas 15-1 in the first game of a doubleheader before the Rangers took the second game 2-1, the New York Yankees beat Boston 3-1, Kansas City outslugged Minnesota 7-6, Oakland shut out California 3-0 and Baltimore bounced Milwaukee 9-7 in the first game of a scheduled twinight twin-bill. The second game, halted by a midnight curfew with the Brewers leading 4-1 after seven innings, was to be completed today.

About a month ago, Wood had appeared a shoo-in to become a 30-game winner for the White Sox. On May 28, he owned a 13-3 record. But No. 14 didn't come until June 8—and No. 15 seemed to take forever.

He finally got it against the Rangers, limiting them to four hits while his Chicago teammates battered Texas for 15 hits.

The Rangers salvaged a split in the second game when Jim Bibby tossed a three-hitter and Ken Suarez backed him with a two-run single in the seventh inning.

Lyle wasn't the big hero of New York's victory. That role was reserved for Ron Blomberg. He got only one hit in three at-bats as his batting average slipped to .396. But the one hit was a three-run homer off Marty Pattin, a monstrous shot into Yankee Stadium's upper deck in right field.

Tony Oliva kept hitting home runs for the Twins—but his three weren't enough. It was Paul Schaal's second of the night, a leadoff shot in the ninth inning, that carried the Royals past Minnesota.

Ken Holtzman rattled off his 12th victory of the year for the A's with a neat 11-strikeout five-hitter. One hit was all he needed to whip the Angels and he got it from Joe Rudi, a two-run homer in the fifth inning off Nolan Ryan.

Johnny Briggs had a three-run homer and Don Money a two-run double for Milwaukee to counter Bobby Grich's two homers for the Orioles. But all that came before the Birds' six-run eighth inning which obliterated a 7-3 Brewer lead. In the National League, St. Louis swept a pair from Pittsburgh 4-0 and 7-6, Philadelphia dumped the Chicago Cubs 8-2, Atlanta nosed out Houston 1-0, Cincinnati defeated San Francisco 6-3, San Diego beat Los Angeles 4-1 and Montreal swamped the New York Mets 19-8.

Evert, Court To Tangle

By ROBERT JONES
Associated Press Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Chris Evert, the poker-faced 18-year-old from Fort Launderdale, Fla., is the odd girl out here today: she's the only semifinalist in the women's singles at the Wimbledon Tennis Tournament who hasn't yet won the title.

And she's drawn the girl she considers the toughest of the four—Margaret Court of Australia.

Fourth-seeded Chris met the tall Aussie once previously on grass and "she creamed me," she confessed wryly.

But Chris said philosophically: "If I just go out and say, 'I'm seeded fourth and she's seeded first, then I've got nothing to lose in going for everything.'"

This is Chris' second Wimbledon. She also reached the semifinals last year befoe losing to Evonne Goolagong, another Australian.

The other semifinalists are defending champion Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., and Miss Goolagong. Theirs will be a rematch of last year's final in which Billie Jean won 6-3, 6-3. Evonne had won the title in 1971, beating Mrs. Court.

In the men's singles, Alex Mayer, a law student from Wayne, N.J., has emerged as the star of the competition.

Mayer, a bright and breezy 21-year-old, scored a stunning third-round victory over top-seeded Ilie Nastase of Romania, one of the world's best players.

Then in Tuesday's quarter-finals, he rallied from two sets down for a 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4 victory over eighth-seeded Juergen Kassbeoder of West Germany.

Husky Crew Wins Race

By NOEL HUGHES
Associated Press Sports Writer

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England (AP) — The University of Washington's junior varsity eight stormed to a convincing victory and gave the big U.S. challenge a good Independence Day start at Henley Royal Regatta Wednesday.

The Washington eight, stroked by George Naden of Bellevue, Wash., shrugged off a moderate challenge from England's Emmanuel College, Cambridge, to win a first-round race of the Ladies' Challenge Plate by a runaway four lengths over Henley's one-mile course on the River Thames.

Another quick U.S. victory came in the opening encounters of the Ladies', Henley's second graded event for heavyweight crews.

Rollins College of Windsor Park, Fla., went smoothly into an immediate lead over England's Lady Margaret Boat Club, Cambridge, and never had to raise much rest for a four-length triumph in 7:11.

Henley began its traditional four-day run, featuring 250 crews from a dozen countries, in brilliant hot weather.

An eight from Orange Coast College, Calif., was the first U.S. casualty of the day. The Americans went down by two lengths to England's London Rowing Club in the opening round of the Thames Challenge Cup for lightweights.

Henley organizers sustained a double blow with the announced withdrawals of Russian Olympic gold medalist Aleksandr Timoshchinin and Jim Dietz of the New York Athletic Club, regarded as the two prime contenders for the Diamond Challenge Sculls.

Hell's Angels Are Large Time Operators Today

EDITOR'NOTE — Hell's Angels. Feared, intensely loyal motorcycle renegades who, police say, have become a full-scale mob. AP Writer Tim Reiterman has obtained a written interview with a former ranking Angel. Here is his portrait of a motorcycle club police and informants describe as a gang of 20th Century outlaws.

By TIM REITERMAN
Associated Press Writer

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Hell's Angels have kicked into high gear.

Once content to invade small towns and rough up other motorcycle clubs, the Angels now have become what police and informants describe as a full-blown mob.

They are reported to have handled millions of dollars in narcotics, executed snitches and secured police favors by trading guns and explosives. Authorities say the Angels designate "hit men," issue them weapons from club armories and order then to kill informers and others.

"They have no destiny in life except getting loaded on drugs and selling them to keep from going to work," former Angels Vice President George "Baby Huey" Wethern, a police informant, said in an exclusive written interview. "Now it seems they don't draw the line on what they'll do to accomplish this."

On Halloween Day, 1972, a grim picture materialized.

Three Angels were arrested in the slayings of two bikers whose rotting corpses were excavated from Wethern's ranch, a reputed Hell's Angels burying ground near Ukiah, Calif. Authorities say death contracts were put out on the Wethern family after he agreed to testify about the club's criminal activities.

The California attorney general's crime report has described the Angels as "becoming large scale organized crime operators."

It also quoted U.S. Customs estimates that the 300-member California clan shipped more than $31 million in narcotics from the West Coast to the East Coast during one three-year period.

In Oakland, high ranking Angels have faced trial in the murder of a Texas drug dealer found in the bathtub of a burning home.

These events together with the Wethern interview, and interviews with law enforcement officials and current club members — portray a motorcycle gang characterized by comaraderie and a code of ethics bearing the threat of death.

The Angels have been cast as killers and thugs, anti-social folk heroes and matinee idols, patriots and racists. But certain aspects of their image never change — chain whipping toughness, unpredictability and frightening loyalty to their "colors," or winged skull emblems worn on their sleeveless denim jackets.

Through trials and transitions two things have kept the club together: their snarling bikers or "choppers," raked low and mean and tuned for speed; and Ralph "Sonny" Barger, the Hell's Angels' Hells' Angel.

"It was Sonny who got my first motorcycle running for me," says Wethern in his handwritten reply to questions submitted to federal authorities and relayed to him by U.S. marshals.

"In those days it was just a bunch of guys riding m.c.'s motorcycles and having a good time.

"The first time I put on the colors, I felt proud because it brought attention from outsiders and a sense of belonging."

But when Wethern, 33, a bearded 270-pound man, rejoined the club after a few inactive years in the mid-1960s, he found the Hell's Angels had become a fulltime job. "My activities consisted of trying to have a good time, getting loaded on marijuana and drugs, and dealing in drugs."

Barger, 34, a former warehouseman who has played bit parts in movies about the Angels, has been president of the club for years.

He evokes almost rabid loyalty from his brethren and is described as shrewd, intelligent, efficient and a man of his word — by bikers, narcotics agents and attorneys alike.

"Sort of like an old buccaneer" is how Barger's court-appointed attorney James Crew depicts him "He's a physical person in a world that's not physical anymore."

Despite the acquittal of Barger and his co-defendants in the Oakland murder trial, his legal problems continue. He has received a 10-year-to-life sentence for convictions on narcotics, illegal weapons and forced imprisonment charges. And he faces charges of federal income tax evasion.

Only time will show how well the Angels will weather the leadership vacuum created by the separate criminal convictions of Barger and three of his top lieutenants.

While Barger was jailed the past 10½ months, his girl friend, Sharon Grunlke, a 23-year-old former beauty queen, posted signs urging "Free Sonny" on the front gate of their two-bedroom suburban home here.

After police raiders got past his six-foot fence and Doberman Pinscher watch dogs last December, they said they found three pistols in Barger's bedroom, an unidentified human skull on the dresser and five other guns scattered throughout the houses.

Like the leader, many Hell's Angels are gun afficionados.

During Barger's eight-week murder trial, it emerged that the Angels had an arrangement with police.

"If we come into possession of guns and explosives, we don't like to keep them around," Barger testified. "We turn them in hoping they — the police — will do something for us."

Oakland Police Sgt. Ted Hilliard confirmed in court that the Angels had traded hundreds of guns and hundreds of pounds of explosives for bail reductions and other considerations. He also said Barger had offered to deliver the body of one Weatherman radical for each Hell's Angel released from prison, an offer Barger denied making.

The contraband arrangement was needed to help stem a spate of bombings in Oakland and Berkeley in the late 1960s and early 1970s, testified Hilliard, now a district attorney's investigator.

Weapons — stolen from armories and gun shops, or smuggled from abroad — come to the Angels because they have a reputation for silence. "Hell's Angels informants are damn few and far between" said one Oakland investigator, "Let's face it, they kill a guy for snitching."

"They're dealing in guns because they like guns mainly," he added. "They don't deal with subversive groups. Not groups like the Weatherman. Not the Black Panthers either, because the Angels are notorious racists."

Wethern, Oakland vice president for one year in the late 1960s, had some 35 guns in his personal collection, including sophisticated NATO weapons from a Swiss armory.

His attorney, Public Defender Joe Allen of Ukiah, said Wethern was an Angels' dope money courier and ran one their California armories, handling hundreds of guns.

Wethern was a retired Angel attempting a gradual move from Oakland to the Mendocino County coastal region when authorities found three bodies buried on his 53-acre ranch.

Texas Business Is Good

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — There is little evidence from the Texas economy that the business boom is beginning to slacken, says the Texas Bureau of Business Research.

The University of Texas agency said Saturday that business activity in May continued a strong upward movement that was 4 per cent above the April level. The five months of 1973 are 8 per cent above the figures for last year, the report said.

"The most dramatic factor in the Texas business situation is the new price freeze ordered by President Nixon," said Dr. John R. Stockton, professor of business statistics, in the special report. "The effect of this new factor on the economy is not easy to evaluate at this early date, but many economists seriously doubt that it will solve the basic problem.

"It is particularly important to the Texas economy that the prices of processed food products are frozen, but those of raw agricultural products are not," Stockton said. "Texas produces a large amount of agricultural products but it is also an important processor of food. The Texas broiler industry has already made headlines by destroying baby chicks since it would not be profitable to feed them with grain that costs more than the chickens would bring at the ceiling prices.

Hike To Cost Worker

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Workers who earn at least $12,600 will have to pay $35.10 more annually to fund an increase in Social Security benefits next year.

A bill giving 30 million Social Security recipients the 5.6 per cent increase in benefits was signed Sunday by President Nixon. It was passed by Congress Saturday and flown here for Nixon's signature.

The Social Security raises, included in legislation extending the national debt ceiling of $465 billion to Nov. 30, take effect next July 1.

Under the bill, average benefits will increase from $161 to $170 a month for single persons and from $277 to $293 for couples.

Guaranteed federal minimums under special programs for the aged, blind and disabled also will be upped July 1, 1974, from $130 to $140 a month for single persons and from $195 to $210 for couples.

At the present time, the 5.85 per cent Social Security payroll tax is applied to a maximum wage base of $10,800. Under previous legislation, the base was to have increased to $12,000 on Jan. 1, 1974. Under the bill signed by Nixon on Sunday, the maximum wage base will now jump to $12,600 on Jan. 1.

AS THEY DEVELOP PHASE 4

Council Says Profits May Have To Be Trimmed

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Business leaders have been told by the government they may have to trim some of their profits and swallow part of their increased production costs.

But they could still pass some of the costs onto the consumer by raising prices a little now and possibly recover all the costs later, if inflation becomes less of a problem.

The proposal is one of several being considered by the council, as it develops the new Phase 4 anti-inflation program, officials told reporters at a news conference Tuesday. The stated goal was to avoid "unnecessary price increases."

Council Director John T. Dunlop scheduled a Fourth of July meeting at the White House today with Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, who interrupted a vacation for the Phase 4 planning session with other government officials and business leaders.

The council meanwhile has quietly exempted from mandatory pay controls thousands of eating and drinking places—excusing much of the restaurant industry from having to clear any pay increases in advance with the government but keeping them under less-restrictive voluntary controls.

The price freeze, however, remains in effect for the industry.

Dunlop said wage increases in that field do not contribute significantly to inflation.

If the cost-absorbing proposal is finally adopted for Phase 4, it could mean, for example, that if costs of producing clocks increased by $1, a company might be able to recover 80 cents of the increase by raising prices. The remaining 20 cents would have to be absorbed, meaning a reduction in profits.

Larson, coordinator of Phase 4 consultations for the council said business leaders told of the proposal Monday in San Francisco were not happy about it but seemed reconciled to the need for restrictive measures under Phase 4.

Meanwhile, a group of 11 senators urged President Nixon to grant relief to the food industry from the 60-day price freeze he ordered on June 13.

They said the freeze is causing widespread problems for the food industry and cited as examples the destruction of baby chickens because of the high cost of feed. Also cited was the marketing of pregnant sows for the same reason.

Dunlop said Tuesday the government will have some announcement with respect to food prices within the next two to three weeks but declined to say if the freeze on food prices will be lifted before the over-all freeze expires in August.

GM Emphasizing Training Centers

GARLAND—General Motors Training Center here is one of 30 such centers around the country that GM expects to shoulder a major portion of the job of training more auto mechanics to service tomorrow's more sophisticated cars, a GM executive said.

Addressing an audience of Dallas-Fort Worth area civic leaders helping GM celebrate the 20th anniversary of the establishment of its network of Training Centers, Kenneth N. Scott, vice president in charge of GM's body and assembly group, singled out the local Training Center at Garland and Shiloh Roads for special mention.

Since this center was opened on October 12, 1954, Scott said, "It has provided skilled, expert instruction to 63,304 mechanical training enrollees.. It has provided more than 1.14 million hours of schooling for mechanics...In addition, other dealer personnel have received just under one million hours of schooling at this center." He said the Garland center was the ninth established by GM.

Referring to all GM Training Centers, Scott said that since the first center opened 20 years ago, "Mechanics from dealers in GM automotive products have received 41.5 million hours of expert instruction to enable them to deal more effectively with our increasingly complex cars. More than that, the Training Centers also have provided 39.5 million hours of schooling for other dealer specialists, including salesmen, managers and parts people who are equally important to a dealership and the kind of service it provides."

Explaining the need for mechanic training facilities, the General Motors vice president stated: "There's no doubt the whole world is becoming more sophisticated—that the machines we depend on so much are growing more complex. While they are more reliable, do provide more service, and are more convenient because of this, they are more difficult to fix on those occasions when something does go wrong.

"Mechanics of all kinds and auto mechanics particularly have to have more training, experience and know-how to do their jobs—to do them right."

Because of this Scott said, "General Motors also is enthusiastically supporting" a nationwide program for the voluntary certification of a mechanic's skill. "We think this program will improve service performance throughout the industry," he stated.

At GM's own Training Centers, he said, in addition to its regular training programs, the company offers four different job entry level training programs to give persons the basic understanding and skill to become a journeyman mechanic.

Although GM will be able to meet the 1975 interim air pollution standards, Scott reminded his audience that the company hasn't yet found any way to meet the standards still on the books for 1976 cars "that could be justified in terms of cost to our customers compared to the exceedingly small potential improvements in overall air quality."

Bar Opens 91st Meet Today

FORT WORTH (AP) — The State Bar of Texas opened its 91st convention today with a round of reports on the new Texas penal code and the presentation of journalism awards.

Eight members of the committee that rewrote the penal code were to outline different portions of the document, totally rewritten for the first time in 117 years.

The agenda also included an afternoon appearance by House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. before the board of directors.

Other state officials to address the group during its three-day convention are Gov. Dolph Briscoe, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, secretary of State Mark White Jr. and Atty. Gen. John Hill.

Sens. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., and Fritz Hollings, D-S.C., are scheduled luncheon speakers.

Recipients of the $1,000 state bar journalism awards are Jim Davis of the Corpus Christi Caller-Times, Marilyn Gary of the Denton Record-Chronicle, KELP-TV of El Paso and Bob Shrader of KNOW in Austin.

The two newspaper awards involved series on judicial reform. KELP was cited for a special on El Paso jail problems and Shrader's award was for a series of radio mini documentaries on "marijuana and the law."

Scientists estimate that if the present rate of population growth continues for just 100 years, the earth's population will be 50 billion.

Two Agencies Assigned To Probe Sterilization

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has ordered its civil rights division and the FBI into the investigation of a federally funded Alabama clinic, said to have approved improper or illegal sterilizations for young girls.

Atty. Gen. Eliot L. Richardson assigned the two agencies to the investigation Tuesday. At the same time the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) was finishing its own probe, the results of which were to be delivered to Justice Thursday.

Meanwhile, the Senate Health Subcommittee chaired by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., scheduled public hearings on the issue for next Tuesday.

A Kennedy aide said witnesses would include Minnie Lee Relf, 14, and Mary Alice Relf, 12, whose father filed a $1 million lawsuit last week against OEO and the Montgomery, Ala., Community Action Agency. He claimed his two daughters were sterilized without informed parental consent.

The OEO began its investigation after the father, who is black, filed the suit.

The Justice Department entered the case after an OEO official disclosed Monday the possibility that 11 "involuntary sterilizations" may have been performed under the auspices of the Montgomery agency's family planning center. OEO later revised the digure to nine.

Tuesday OEO instructed its 10 regional offices to survey all agency-sponsored family health programs "to determine if there's any similar act and to report back by Thursday," said spokesman Ned Curran. "As far as we know now, there is none."

Curran said agency regulations prohibit the use of federal funds for sterilization operations on any minor, with or without parental consent. The age of a minor is governed by state laws, as young as 14 in Nebraska, 18 or 21 in most states.

Though the sterilization of a minor would violate agency regulations, it would not necessarily be a violation of law Curran said.

OEO Operations Director Randal C. Teague has said the nine minors involved apparently were sterilized without obtaining the required parental consent or obtained a consent based on inadequate information.

In his lawsuit, Lonnie Relf claimed he was never contacted about the operations proposed for his daughters, Minnie, 14, and Mary Alice, 12. He argued that his illiterate wife signed an "X" to papers allowing the operations without understanding the consequences.

Wells Are Logged In Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Seven wildcat oil wells and 13 wildcat gas wells were drilled in Texas in the last half of June, the Texas Railroad Commission reported Tuesday.

The commission's June 16-30 report showed the new wildcat oil wells included two in the San Antonio No. 2 district and one each in the Corpus Christi, Kilgore No. 6, Abilene, Midland and Lubbock districts.

The new wildcat gas wells included five in the San Antonio No. 2 district, three in the Houston district, two in the Corpus Christi district and one each in the San Antonio No. 1, San Angelo and Midland districts.

A total of 104 wildcat oil wells have been drilled this year, the commission said, compared to 114 at this time a year ago. A total of 184 wildcat gas wells have been drilled, compared to 125 a year ago.

The commission said 169 oil wells were completed in the last two weeks of June for a yearly total of 2,153, or 380 fewer than a year ago. Eighty-eight gas wells were completed for a yearly total of 1,178, or 264 more than a year ago.

The commission said 622 wells were plugged in the last half of June, including 159 dry holes.

Texas' average calendar day oil allowable as of June 15, the commission said, was 4,005,644 barrels, an increase of 5,281 from June 1.

Careers For Wildlife Majors

Career Corner
by Joyce Lain Kennedy

Dear Joyce: Would you please discuss jobs available for a wildlife biology major? I have been watching your column and have not seen anything on this topic. Thank you. – M.L.B., Seattle, Wash.

A wildlife biologist is a research scientist and an advanced degree is almost essential. Even then, the current job market is "real tough," in the words of one wildlife administrator, because government agencies are the main employers and funds are down. However, wildlife biologists can move into wildlife management or administration – or, with some forestry background, may be able to land a forestry-related job. You may have to start by performing routine or menial tasks and move up to more challenging work.

The Wildlife Society (3900 Wisconsin Ave. NW, Washington, D.C. 20016) has a free booklet, "A Wildlife Conservation Career For You" which lists options and types of employers. Their newsletter contains specific job openings. Both will be helpful if you are currently seeking employment.

READER SERVICE: A very fine 36-page booklet, "Careers in Wildlife Conservation" can be obtained by sending a postcard to me at this newspaper. It includes chapters on the wildlife biologist, wildlife manager, conservation officer, wildlife information-education careers, conservation aides, jobs in private enterprise, training and advancement. State title when requesting.

Dear Joyce: I've been reading your column and find it very interesting and worthwhile. I am anxious to locate a legitimate correspondence school that teaches creative writing. Can you help? – A.T., Broomall, Pa.

Your best bet is to select a school which is accredited by the National Home Study Council. For a free directory of these schools, send a postcard to me at this newspaper. Ask for "Directory of Accredited Private Home Study Schools 1973."

Dear Joyce: I would appreciate it very much if you could give some information about the occupation of medical transcriber. I'm considering going back to school to take that trade. It would be a 9-month course. Is this a good field to get into and are jobs plentiful after successfully completing the course? – D.L.L., Chicago

Checking your newspaper's want ads, and calling private and public employment agencies is a good way to get an idea of the availability of many jobs in a particular area. In general, there's a shortage of trained medical typists and earnings are generally in the $5-7,000 range for full-time work.

Employers of medical transcriptionists include: doctors in private practice, clinics, medical centers, hospitals, nursing homes, medical research groups, sanitariums, city and state health departments, insurance companies, pharmaceutical companies and health service organizations.

There's also a highly acclaimed home study course available from the American Medical Record Association (a professional organization whose members are specialists in medical records). If you want a free 16-page booklet about medical transcription work issued by the Association, send me a postcard at this newspaper. Ask for "Med. Trans."

Drug Charges Dismissed

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Federal authorities decided Tuesday they do not have enough evidence to prosecute the son of a man they claim holds a contract to import 30,000 pounds of marijuana into the United States.

Charges of conspiracy and possession with intention to import 970 pounds of marijuana against Johnie Mack Hasty, 23, of Luling, Tex., were dismissed by order of U.S. Magistrate John Giles.

Giles acted on a motion by the U.S. attorney here.

Hasty's father, John Westey Hasty, 53, of Saltillo, Mexico, remained in jail under $100,000 bond on the same charges. Charges are still pending against three other men also.

Customs agents say they seized the 970 pounds of marijuana Saturday after a pickup truck was stopped near Hondo, Tex. That same day, the Hastys flew into San Antonio International Airport in one of five planes the elder Hasty has reportedly acquired with cash, agents claim.

Giles and other federal officials said the younger Hasty is a Bible college student in Florida.

Letter To Editor

To The Daily News:

It does not take long for hatred to mature in the human mind, nor does it take hard work or patience. All it takes is the ghost of fear to feed on people's minds, thus making any hope of the future obsolete. We are entering a tragic state of confusion that is becoming the fertile breeding place of hate. Instead of stumbling around like a bunch of chloroformed ants we should accept the situation that exists now as a serious problem that must be solved and solved with reason. The situation is no fault of the Republican Party, which is basically honest and honorable and who would never give sanction or condone what is happening today in Caesar's palace. The brilliant ideas which have been constructed and put into action are the brain child of a handful of men who happen to be very powerful men, some elected by the people who had faith and believed in the honesty and responsibility of the men who were elected. Some of these powerful gentlemen have raised the art of burglary to an instrument of policy and are using the stone-age custom of appointing wealthy men to high positions in government, especially the large contributors. Lincoln, the Republican, would never under any conditions sacrifice his honor or the future to doubt or distrust of the American people for any man, regardless of the man's wealth or high position. Some of the Pharaohs in Washington have cut the funds to the medical schools, with full knowledge of the shortage of doctors and scientists.

The President of the U.S. knows, or should have knowledge, of the doctor shortage that now exists. He should be giving ample funds to these institutions to train doctors and scientists. We have doctors who are very capable of teaching others, such as our own great surgeon, Dr. John O'Banion who is as good as the best of them. The president has full knowledge of the labor shortage, the housing shortage, the energy and grain crises. He also knows that he has the power to put the land into use and take whatever steps that are necessary, including freezing labor, housing, rent and stop exporting grain, lumber and other materials that are vital to the American people. It is his job and his duty to look and see what is necessary for the mutual benefit of the American people and put whatever measures are necessary for the good of the American people into action at once.

We did not elect him to be a god. We elected him with the belief that he was fully qualified to govern the nation. If he is not, then he should be honest enough to tell us so rather than bring distrust and disaster to the American people. If he is capable and has the ability to govern this nation, he should do so, regardless of his powerful friends. After all, he had friends that were poor who had faith and confidence in his ability to perform his duty as President of the U.S. of America. If action is not taken now, some of his friends are going to be ruined.

Hearing On Gas Rates Delayed

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Railroad Commission granted a two-week delay Tuesday in a hearing on an application by Coastal States Gas Co.'s distribution subsidiary for a rate increase.

Burnap Says Gap Widening

HOUSTON (AP) — A Continental Oil Co. executive says those who claim the energy shortage was concocted are delaying the positive steps that will solve the problem.

W.H. Burnap, executive vice president of Conoco's Western Hemisphere Petroleum Division, told delegates to a Civitan International convention that meeting energy demands will require the combined efforts of industry, government and private citizens.

Burnap said America already is "in the uncomfortable and potentially dangerous situation where domestic demand exceeds supply—and the gap is widening every day.

"How serious the problem will be, how long it persists, depends entirely on what we do next," he added.

Burnap said crude oil and refined product imports have been increased but foreign oil no longer is cheap.

"More domestic refining capacity clearly holds the key to clearing the bottleneck in the petroleum flow," he said.

Burnap said 150,000-barrel per day plants are needed each year to keep pace with the expected growth in domestic demands. He blamed low return of refinery investments and opposition by environmentalists for delays in construction of refineries.

He urged the government to relax environmental standards so coal and heavy fuel oil can be used for power generation instead of home heating oils or natural gas.

Burnap also called for a coordinated national energy policy to expedite and direct the development of alternate energy sources—coal, oil shale, tar sands and nuclear power to meet the long range goals.

Connally Denies Split With Nixon

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — John Connally has reiterated there is no split between him and president Richard Nixon and that Americans will blame a few people, not the Republican Party, for Watergate.

"There has not been a bit of friction," insisted Connally Tuesday, "not from a personal standpoint, not from a political standpoint."

"Stories got out that I was mad and upset because I didn't have a staff. I didn't want a staff," he said of his recent assignment as an unpaid consultant to Nixon.

"Frankly I went up there with the idea I would work myself out of a job as quickly as I could. I did," Connally told newsmen.

He admitted he was restless because his job as advisor "didn't have a great deal of responsibility."

But he said he wasn't unhappy. "And it doesn't mean I was mad at anybody."

He said he plans to resume his Houston law practice "the middle of the month."

Connally and his wife, Nellie, had planned a three-month trip overseas which he said it now appears they will not have time to make.

He said he plans one thing, to help dedicate the Dallas-Fort Worth airport in September.

The former secretary of the treasury said an unhealthy cloud hangs over Washington, D.C. these days.

"Washington obviously is not now fun," Connally said in an understatement which brought laughs from newsmen.

"There is an unreal atmosphere there today, a bad, unbridled, almost vengeful atmosphere."

It is much more far-reaching than Watergate, he added.

Connally likened the atmosphere to that in Austin during the recent "Sharpstown scandal," involving several high ranking state officials.

What will it take to clear today's bad atmosphere in Washington? "Time," he said.

But he also predicted that Watergate and "its aftermath will be around for a long time."

"That tragic occurance in the life of this nation should not be attributed to the Republican Party," he said.

"When all the facts are in, I think the American People will blame those who are responsible for it, rather than the Republican party."

He also said at the time he switched parties he realized how "deep" the Watergate water would get.

Connally described phase III of the administration's economic plan as a "failure." Controls, he said, were relaxed "too quickly."

But he said the current Phase 4 with its price freeze, has not backfired.

"I think now we have to develop a follow-on program to the freeze," Connally volunteered.

"Asked about a recent news report placing him as possible third choice of Republicans a presidential candidate, Connally said he wasn't "in the sweepstakes race."

But I think I was No. 8 back in 1962 as a choice for governor," he added.

Liz And Richard Separating

NEW YORK (AP) — "Maybe we have loved each other too much," actress Elizabeth Taylor said in announcing that she and Richard Burton were separating after nine years of marriage.

"I believe with all my heart that this separation will ultimately bring us back to where we should be — and that is together," she said through a spokesman Tuesday.

Miss Taylor, 41, checked into the Regency Hotel here early this week. She said Tuesday she planned to leave for California shortly. Burton was said to be secluded on Long Island.

Burton and Miss Taylor have made eight films together, including "Cleopatra," the acclaimed "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" and the "The Taming of the Shrew."

They starred in "Divorce His — Divorce Hers," a recent two-part television movie portraying the breakup of a marriage through the eyes of both the husband and wife.

During the course of their world travels, Burton, 47, gave his wife such highly publicized gifts as a 10-passenger jet and a 69-carat diamond from Cartier's.

They were married in Montreal on March 15, 1964, after divorcing their previous spouses. She became a British citizen the following year.

In her 150-word statement, Miss Taylor said she and her husband "have been in each other's pockets constantly" and that she was convinced the separation was "a good constructive idea."

Cooperation is a delicate thing — and there aren't that many delicate people, says Dr. Jennie Kitching, specialist in family life education, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Government Eyes Gas Allocation

WASHINGTON (AP) — There won't be World War II type gasoline rationing for motorists, but other types of mandatory fuel allocation controls are being studied by the government.

William E. Simon, deputy secretary of the Treasury and chairman of the President's Oil Policy Committee, said the mandatory program is one of several proposals under consideration.

The others, he said, include continuation of the voluntary allocation guidelines or a combination of voluntary and mandatory controls.

Simon said the proposed mandatory guidelines would "force, under penalty, the allocation of crude oil and petroleum products equitably."

He said the alternatives are being reviewed with John Love, the former Colorado governor who has been named President Nixon's assistant on energy matters.

In any event we are not considering rationing at the present time, and any report that the government has printed rationing stamps or cards is not true," said Simon.

Love issued a statement saying the government would not hesitate to institute whatever controls are needed, but wants to avoid directing the movement and sale of every gallon of gasoline.

250,000 Start Hunger Strike

MEXICO CITY (AP) — About 250,000 persons have started an indefinite hunger strike in six Mexican states to protest government inaction on rural problems, the Mexican Arid Zones Institute reports.

"The strike will go on until the government acts against the immoderate hike in prices, rural unemployment and the lack of an effective minimum salary in agricultural zones," according to institute director Alfredo Jaime de la Cerda.

De la Cerda made the announcement at a news conference Tuesday. It was held during a man and hunger mini-conference held in apparent opposition to the giant "Science and Man in the Americas" congress attended by 6,000 scientists from all over the world.

Institute workers and sympathizing peasants went on the hunger strike in the states of Coahuila, Durango, Zacatecas, Chihuahua, San Luis Potosi and Aguascalientes, de la Cerda said.

"There is no time limit on the strike," He said.

Schlesinger Assumes Command

WASHINGTON (AP)— James R. Schlesinger has taken over as secretary of defense and warned that the department can expect to economize.

In assuming command of the department on Tuesday, Schlesinger picked Martin R. Hoffman, a former general counsel for the Atomic Energy Commission, as his special assistant.

Schlesinger headed the AEC before becoming Central Intelligence Agency director. He moved from the CIA to the Pentagon.

Also named to his staff was Brig. Gen. John A. Wickham Jr., who was deputy chief of the U.S. delegation to a temporary joint military commission in Vietnam.

"There are luxuries that we shall have to do without," Schlesinger said Tuesday.

Mandel To Wed Another

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Gov. Marvin Mandel says he is leaving his wife of 32 years to marry someone else, but his wife says "I intend to remain Mrs. Marvin Mandel."

Mandel said Tuesday night 'I am in love with another woman, Jeanne Dorsey, and I intend to marry her."

Mandel's statement took his wife, Barbara, by surprise.

"I'm just as surprised as you are," she told a reporter. "I'm astonished, amazed and unbelieving."

"I will remain in the governor's mansion...," she said. "We have lived in the same bed for 32 years. As a matter of fact, we got out of the same bed this morning."

Mandel is a Democrat and outgoing chairman of the National Governors Conference.

The Mandels have two grown children. Mrs. Dorsey is the divorced daughter-in-law of former St. Marys County Circuit Judge Philip H. Dorsey.

She wants the family's skeletons left in closet

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 By Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My sister and her husband have never had children of their own, so they have taken a special interest in ours. I think this is very nice, but I resent very much having my sister tell my children EVERYTHING from the year one that has happened in our family.

There are things I have not told my children because I feel that no good purpose would be served in their knowing. Besides, people have a right to turn over a new leaf and live things down in their past, and I've never believed in passing along gossip that has been dead and buried for years.

Now my kids are telling me they didn't know Grandpa served a year and a day in prison. [He did. But so what? He has paid his debt to society.] Also, that Aunt Marge "had to" get married. And a cousin they never knew had to be put away in a mental institution. Things of that nature.

Every family has a few skeletons, and ours is no different, but I resent this sister hauling them out for our children to see, if I prefer to keep them in the closet. If I am wrong, please tell me so. UPSET

DEAR UPSET: I can't muzzle your sister and neither can you. But do tell her exactly what you have told me, and hope if there are any other skeletons she hasn't hauled out, she will leave them be.

DEAR ABBY: Robbie and I are both 26 and have been happily married for over a year. But one problem, which will probably sound ridiculous to you, has me at the end of my rope. Please don't laugh.

Abby, his heels are so rough that sleeping in the same bed with him is actually hazardous! His heels rake and scrape my poor sensitive legs and feet at night and leave my skin sore.

I have tried every way I know to end this nocturnal battle. I've purchased softening lotions and pumice stones and have placed them in or by the shower where he has to see them. The result? Zilch!

Please, Abby, suggest some way I might persuade him to use something on those heels of his to relieve my discomfort. ROBBIE'S MUTILATED SPOUSE

DEAR SPOUSE: Quit playing games. At bedtime, tell Robbie you have a treat for him, then YOU tenderly apply the lotion to his rough heels. Presto! Problem solved.

DEAR ABBY: In my dentist's office there is a sign which reads, "For your health's sake and the comfort of others, please don't smoke."

How do you like it? A FAN IN BOULDER

DEAR FAN: Like it? I love it!

DEAR ABBY: When I read about that attractive, intelligent lady who talked too much, I was reminded of an experience I shall never forget.

Just before answering Uncle Sam's call to help him win World War II, I took a 120-mile bus trip home to say goodby to my mother. The bus was practically filled, and I couldn't believe my good fortune when I spotted an empty seat right beside a beautiful young lady. Naturally I grabbed it. Many envious glances were cast my way, for she was truly a beauty.

About 20 miles out it became apparent why she was traveling alone. That girl talked incessantly, and she had a kind of a whine in her voice. She droned on and on and I couldn't get one word in. By the time we had traveled 50 miles I was ready to get off the bus and hitchhike the rest of the way. That pretty face suddenly lost all its beauty.

Now every time I see a beautiful girl I am reminded how unimportant beauty is if a girl doesn't know how to keep her mouth shut. BADGER STATE

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.
