A. & M. HEAD RAPS TREATMENT OF SCHOOL

COLLEGE CANNOT HOLD UP ITS HEAD WALTON CHARGES

LUBBOCK STATION CITED AS EXAMPLE OF GOOD WORK CARRIED ON

(By The Associated Press)
SONORA RANCH STATION, Texas, Aug. 18.—Charges that the state had been penurious in its treatment of A & M College and that it funds were not made available, it would lose some of its best instructors and so weakened that it could not maintain its standing were made by T. O. Walton, president, to ranchmen attending the second annual round-up at Substation 14 Tuesday afternoon. He said that the main plant at A & M College is valued at $5,000,000 and that with the branches the properties were worth about $5,000,000.

Value of the college and its substations is demonstrated, he said, in the work of the experiment station at Lubbock with grain sorghums. He said the work there had developed a strain of a more profitable yield—about six bushels an acre—more for that part of the country, and that feeding ex- periments had shown grain sorghums to be on a parity of corn. He said grain sorghums were once considered a joke. Similarly he said the ranch station would be of value to the ranch industry. He said he favored a vote of confidence at the station each year in- stead of two days now being given it.

School Appropriation Upheld
AUSTIN, Aug. 18. (P)—The state board of education gave very dollar to the school children that it could give and the amount available was $11,500 for each schoolastic for the coming year. Governor Miriam A. Ferguson declared in a statement Wednesday in which she denied complaints that she "deliberately urged the reduction of the state school appor- tionment to $11.50 per capita."

The governor said complaint is being made by those interested in At- torney General Dan Moody's candidacy for governor that, "if as the head of the state board of education delib- erately urged the reduction" of the ap- portionment. She said that she was urging the creation of the three cent gasoline tax, one third of which is to be given to the common school. The tax would yield the common school fund $4,000,000 and would increase the apportionment to $15, she said, and de- clared that Mr. Moody is opposed to this tax.

Governor Ferguson said charges that she vetoed the appropriations for the common schools amounting to $4,000,000 are made for the purpose of deceiving those who are misinformed as to the laws and the facts govern- ing these matters. She said that she never vetoed any appropriation at any time made for the purpose of supple- menting the school apportionment, and that she approved every bill that was passed by the legislature for aiding the increase of school apportionment.

Removal of Shoes On Trains Is Attacked

AUSTIN, Aug. 18. (P)—So far the Texas railroad commission has not considered seriously the demand of a Texas woman that the commission pass a rule prohibiting removal of shoes in railroad passenger coaches. The demand, received several months ago, was publicly announced here on Tuesday by a Chairman Clarence E. Gilmore, after the individual commis- sioners had decided to postpone final action.

The woman said she had been both- ered by uncovered pedal extremities in her traveling over the state. She demanded that the commission pass the rule prohibiting removal of shoes by men in passenger coaches.

WOLFFARTH CHILD BURIED TODAY

Funeral services were held this afternoon at the Carlsle church for Bevard Newton, two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Newton, of Wolf- arth. The child was drowned last Tuesday afternoon when he fell into the shallow earthen reservoir in the back yard of the Newton farm home.

Mr. Newton, having been called to the telephone, left the little boy alone in the yard for a few minutes, and his plight was not discovered until he was missed by his mother, who was enter- taining callers. When she went into the yard to look for him, the boy was seen floating on top of the water, but it was too late to resuscitate the child.

When found, he had evidently been dead for some ten minutes; and al- though a doctor with a pulmotor was reached almost immediately, the efforts were in vain.

Interment in the Carlsle cemetery this evening followed the services held at the church. Rix was in charge of funeral arrangements.

Emerson Leading In Wyoming Balloting

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Aug. 18. (P)—Frank C. Emerson, state engineer and convention endorsed candidate, was leading Frank E. Lucas, secretary of state, in the race for republican nom- ination for governor on the face of re- turns from 17 of the 831 precincts in yesterday's primary election. These gave Emerson 4,496; Lucas 2,073 and Dr. H. H. Lathrop 179.

The republican gubernatorial con- test held the center of the stage with Governor Nellie Taylor Ross unopposed for the democratic nomination and with very few contests on the entire ticket which involved only one con- gressional seat, that now held by Charles E. Winton, congressman at large, who also was unopposed for the republican nomination.

VETERAN REPRIMANDED

PARIS, Aug. 18. (P)—Donald G. Crocker, who was arrested here after he had drunk a toast to the Unknown Soldier and broke the glass on the tomb, today was set at liberty by the Paris police without a fine. The police were influenced to do this be- cause the man had been an American service man and had lost a leg in the war. The complimentary of police, how- ever, gave Crocker a serious lecture on the evil of drinking too freely.

A Real King of Finance

Albert of Belgium.

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Correspondent.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 18.—The world has a real king of finance at last. He is Albert, ruler of the Belgians.

Other so-called "kings of finance" merely are financiers who huckster money for profit. Albert is the real expert, by action of the people expressed through their parliament.

He was vested with a financial dictatorship in the hope he could give the Belgian franc from a complete stand- still. His far-reaching authority lasts until next October, and may be extended indefinitely.

Albert has not been slow to make use of his authority.

The visitor to Belgium quickly feels the effects.

First of all the king called in the best of Belgium's statesmen, financial experts and economists as advisers, regardless of their political affilia- tions.

Strict limitations were imposed on the importing of cereals for bread- making.

White bread is outlawed. Gray bread takes its place—in the king's palace as well as in hotel.

All-night resorts now close at mid- night. Foreigners pay a tax for stay- ing in the country.

Some of His Powers.
The financial dictatorship edict em- power: King Albert to:
Negotiate any loans he thinks neces- sary.

Modify the rules of operation of the Belgian national bank.
Increase taxes of all kinds.
Repress news which might injure the credit of the nation.
Regulate the use of foodstuffs.
Check the importation of both ne- cessities and luxuries.

The railroads are to be turned over to a private company for operation, as a revenue measure.

It is intended for the country to go on a gold money basis.
Only a handful of deputies and sen- ators opposed giving the king these sweeping powers. Parliament after- ward adjourned until October 13, so there would be no legislation or debate to affect the situation.

FACE CHARGE OF FRAMING PLOT ON FRIENDLY POWER

BONDS ALREADY FIXED FOR RANK AND FILE OF ALLEGED "ARMY"

(By The Associated Press)
SAN DIEGO, CALIF., Aug. 18.—With the rank and file of their "army" al- ready under ban ranging from $1,000 to $5,000, leaders in the recently fru- strated plot to seize the rich northern district of Lower California, face an- other, to present any possible appeal of the plot, the farmers and growers obtain a supply of the poison at once.

Foremost among the revolutionists is General Enrique Estrada, formerly secretary of war of Mexico. Others to be arraigned with him include General Aurelio Sepulveda, Santiago Martinez, Miguel Comaduran, Augustin Camou, and two Americans, Earle C. Parker, San Diego hardware merchant, and J. T. Degman, Culver City, contractor.

All Are Prominent.
The Mexicans were all more or less prominent in the affairs of their coun- try, and one of them, Camou, was identified with a previous uprising. Camou was known as one of the lead- ers when Estaban Cantu, former gov- ernor of the Northern district of Low- er California, revolted a few years ago against the Central Government of Mexico.

The charge against the heads of the ill-fated expedition is that of organ- izing a military move against friendly power. It was indicated by government attorneys that bailis rang- ing from $10,000 to $20,000 would be required from them, and from other sources it also was indicated that in the cases of at least some of the de- fendants bonds would be posted for them.

One hundred and fifteen minor of- ficers and privates of Estrada's force were arraigned yesterday.

None Offer Defense
None of them offered a defense and only one of them attempted to an- swer the accusation. Through an in- terpreter he said, "we did not start a revolution. That will be settled later."

None of them made bail, and all were marched under heavy guard to the military barracks to be held until further disposition of their cases.

While the hearing was being held, Mexican authorities continued to round up suspected revolutionists in Ti Juana, bringing in two truck loads in one haul. For the first time in years Mex- ican border officers searched automob- iles that crossed the international boundary line into Mexico.

Leaf Worm Makes Its Appearance In Lubbock County

Appearing some twenty days ear-lier than last year, infestation of the cotton crop of Lubbock county by the leaf worm is causing some apprehen- sion on the part of farmers near here; but, according to County Agent Eaton, if steps are taken immediately to curb the advances of the worm, no damage need be feared.

The worm is appearing over a com- paratively wide district in the County having been noticed first in the Elida community, in the South part of the county, and yesterday west of Sla- ton.

Mr. Eaton stated, however, that he has on hand 3,000 pounds of calcium arsenate, a poison which the farmers are urged to apply to cotton when first infested; and that if the farmers will cooperate, the worm can be held in check.

Cotton, especially in low places, where the plant is somewhat rank and showing heavy stalk growth is the first place where the ravages of the worm will be noticed, and it is in such places that especial watch should be kept over the condition of the field and in order to prevent any possible spread of the pest, the farmers are urged to obtain a supply of the poison at once.

While paria green and lead arsenate are both good poisons for killing the worm, the calcium arsenate is both cheaper and more convenient, being prepared especially for dusting on the plants.

Mr. Eaton stated that during the next ten days he would be out of the city, and that the supply of the calcium arsenate would be left in the care of R. E. Overstreet, who can be found at telephone 447.

STORM DAMAGE IN TEXAS HEAVY
DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 18. (P)—Drenching rain, accompanied by violent electrical disturbances and high winds, wrought extensive damage to crops and property over North Texas last night and early today.

It was unofficially estimated that more than three inches of rain fell here by noon.

Lightning struck several buildings here and one bolt crashed through the steel frame work of the street car viaduct across Trinity river to Oak Cliff just after a street car had pas- sed. Passengers were frightened.

About 100 automobiles were put out of commission by high water in the streets. Hundreds of children in bath- ing suits played in the streets and gutters.

TWO MEN KILLED IN SQUABBLE ON EAST TEXAS FARM

ALLEGED SLAYER GIVES UP TO OFFICERS EARLY TODAY

(By The Associated Press)
TEXARKANA, Texas, Aug. 18.—Follow- ing surrender of Harvey Logan, alias Texas Slim, to Mrs. Lillie Barber, sheriff of Miller county, at four o'clock this morning Miller county officers were making further investigation of the fatal shooting of Sam and Will Carper and the serious wounding of Bob Carper, on the E. P. Williams farm, 10 miles south of Fouke, at 10 o'clock Tuesday night.

Logan was brought by private citi- zens to the county jail this morning, after he had surrendered to them and asked that they bring him to Texar- kana. After his incarceration he talked freely, declaring that had the light been good he would have killed Bob Carper too.

Logan declared that after he gave his gun to Sam Carper to quell a dis- turbance that threatened, that the Carpers then jumped on him and started to beat him. He said he took the gun away from Carper, and when one of the boys hit him with a single tree, he then started shooting, killing the two men and wounding Bob who was running away.

In jail he is said by officers to have boasted of former troubles and intimated that these are not the first men he had shot it out with.

The Woman's Daily Editorial

A FABLE Once upon a time there was a city family that was like a million other city families. It paid no attention to its neighbors on the north or on the south or on the east or on the west.

Then something happened to this particular family. The people next door to the right moved out and another family moved in. The affair was of little importance, but one day a month later the bell rang and the maid brought something up to the room where Madame was writing letters.

"The new lady next door handed this in and said she hoped you would like it," said the maid. "It's a spice cake."

"For goodness sake!" cried Madame, looking down her nose. "Does she think we are starving? Then she added a bit acidly, 'Marie, I don't know a thing about these people. Are they trying to buy my recognition with a cake?'"

"Oh, no! I'm sure not," said Marie hastily. "They all seem so nice and kind. They're from some smaller place and they are the friendliest, nicest people I ever saw. You see, in smaller places folks have neighbors."

Suddenly Madame smiled. "Of course," she exclaimed. "I'll go right in. I ought to be ashamed of myself. We city people get so frozen we forget to be human. And in she went."

The bricks on the block are no longer cold. The neighbors all know each other now. A spirit of friendliness and hominess has crept in that would never have been thought of had the "new lady" from a "smaller place" not taken the time to do somebody a kindness.

A WOMAN'S DAY ABROAD

BY ALLENE SUMNER ROME, Italy, Aug. 18.—A great cataclysmic tragedy has occurred unto the author, gentle reader, here in the city where slumber the togged gents of old!

All because I am not, mistress of many tongues. The tale runneth thus: Pansy Herring Pretzel and I having gazed upon the colossus, and open doors upon the martyrized Christ-Koats and Shelves, and grown clammy in the gruesome hour-strewn labyrinth of the catacombs, decided that the time had come when the life cultural should be refreshed by that one and only spree known to woman-kind as a shampoo, cut and curl!

Our dark-erbed pension porter got our meaning (or seemed to) and offered to write for us in his native tongue a message to our certain "coiffeur pour dames" which he guaranteed, would result in our coming forth "mitte bello."

He wrote. We went. We gave the note to a beaming, conducting hair-dresser. All unwitting of the fate about to befall me. I was prepared for the shearer, with much tissue paper and scalloped toweling tucked under my chin. The snip-snip of the shears began and continued right merrily whilst I was engrossed in my two weeks old home newspaper.

What beheld my gentle gaze when I suddenly gazed into the mirror? None less than what once was me, but now was but half me. The other half was a bare and naked ostrich egg! In other words, my own scalp as bare as any hirute adoniamite as a toad-skin of lace ruffles.

I howled. I wailed. I moaned and shrieked. It seems that the gracious porter had ordered that I be clipped, and clipped I was. When Caesar gazed upon the Rubicon he could either go on or go back. So now, I could either remain half-shaven or whole shaven. I chose the latter. I had been taught in my childhood, "when a task is once begun, never leave it till it's done." I decided that the spectacle of one neat bald ostrich egg would shock the populace less than a hybrid object half-egg and half nanny goat.

I purchased, to the accompaniment of my sob, two clusters of red-gold curls, having always yearned for red hair, but never hitherto owning a shaven pate on which to hang it. The skillful hair dresser created some effective little hooks of courtplaster which he attached neatly to my ear tops, to which the curls were pinned, whence they swung like incense and out. I explain that I am afraid I will be struck by the sun's hot rays if I take it off.

They say that my freckles will soon grow out. But I have doubts. If the artist will draw a picture of a nice purple egg plant, you will see exactly how I look. The purple represents my hair and the unfringed egg plant is the rest of me.

What culture a girl does get with travel! This is just a shining example of the value of speaking many tongues. Seriously, however, if you know not one word of anything but your native tongue, do not be afraid to stray from the home garden. A trip into many lands emphasizes above all other things the comparative needlessness of language. One talks with hands everywhere.

One enters a shop, points at the object desired, and the clerk writes down the price. Thank goodness for the near-universal use of the Arabic numeral. Some few mishaps will happen. One, for instance, may get arippers when pointing to that on the menu card which looks like chicken. But then a hot dog, by any other name will taste as good!

Do not scorn the little books on sale at home. Any book store which tells you to ask for what you want and how to get it in any language! And don't take the pronunciation marks too seriously! All Europe knows these little books as a mother knows her erring child!

The little Rollo abroad merely points to that line in French or Italian or Esperanto or Yiddish which says "from what end, please, does the train go?"

Back to Black and White, Predicts Bendel Tide of Color in Dress Has Reached Peak

Circle lace and flat silk cut in short, smart silhouette. Dance frock of silver crepe and lame fringes over black net. White chiffon with skirt and bertha of fine Chantilly lace.

BY HENRI BENDEL For NEA Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The rising tide of color has reached its peak and the logical result is that if you want to be distinctive you will forsake the excited reds and emphatic greens and come back to black and white.

For evening, white and black is the correct formula—the body of the frock is white, and the black introduced as an accent. For day, black and white is the correct order, and I prophesy that one of your desires in the way of a fall costume will materialize in a black satin or crepe, with collars and cuffs, or vest of bertha of white.

By this, I do not mean color is passé—certainly not. But an orgy of color, such as we have witnessed for the past year, invariably ushers in a decided feeling for black and white. White evening clothes have always been popular with New York women—more so, I believe, than with European women in the other cities of our country.

At any gathering of social importance in New York, black is usually the choice of the majority of the well dressed women. But there is a sameness about the all-white frock, which makes many women avoid it.

But when you add black, with just the right subtlety, you achieve an individuality as well as an elegance that no other combination can give. Photographed today are three frocks which I consider ideal for late summer evening gowns, all in the white and black combination.

Youthful and picturesque, indeed, is the model of white chiffon with the skirt and bertha of fine Chantilly lace as fine as a cobweb. As a change from the sleeveless frock, an elbow sleeve is achieved by the lace cape—and the effect of sheer lace over a satiny skin is too flattering to be overlooked.

Another very attractive feature is the gliding white in very near to the normal waistline and is loosely tied with a black sash. A heavier circle lace is used on the white flat silk model with sleeveless coat of the lace that falls in a straight line from shoulder to hem. The very short skirt is given even a shorter appearance by the wide lace flounce and the low wide belt which ties snugly enough about the hips to give the smart silhouette.

Here again, the lace forms a sleeve effect, and softens the lines of the bodice in the most delightfully feminine fashion. A pleasing variation of the black and white mode is shown in the fringed model, which is a charming dance frock. The bodice is of silver tulle, with a skirt of silver lame fringed over black net.

Black and white flowers at the shoulder are a very Parisienne touch. Always remember that black and white call for very careful makeup, and perfect grooming. All imperfections are more visible against a white background than a colorful one, and likewise, all points of loveliness are heightened and accentuated.

Menus For Today

BREAKFAST—Orange juice, cereal, thin cream, puffy omelet, graham and raisin muffins, milk, coffee. LUNCHEON—Cream of tomato soup, croquettes, apples with rice, lemonade.

Very often the dessert planned for a luncheon for your children furnishes much nourishment. In this meal in particular the dessert of rice and apples served with sugar and cream makes almost a full meal for a child under 4 years of age. With the cream of tomato soup and crisp croquettes the diet is ideal.

Apples With Rice One-fourth cup rice, 2 cups milk, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 1/2 cups sugar, 1 cup boiling water, 4 apples, currant jelly.

Cook rice in milk and salt in double boiler until tender. Beat eggs well with 1/2 cup sugar and stir into rice mixture. Cook until thick, 10 or 15 minutes. In the meantime, pare and core apples and cut in halves, crosswise. Make a syrup of remaining sugar and water by boiling them together for four minutes. Add apples and simmer until tender. Care must be taken not to let the apples become during the cooking. Put a layer of rice in a serving dish and cover with halves of apples. Cover with another layer of rice and cover with apples. Pour any syrup left from cooking the apples over them and drop a spoonful of jelly in the center of each. Chill thoroughly and serve with cream.

ACCUSED PIRATES RELEASED BUT CLEAR NAMES

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 18. (AP)—The case of Carey, Adams and Bigber against the Pittsburgh Nationals apparently was a closed incident today.

The three Corsairs, veterans—Max Carey, Babe Adams and Carson Bigber—were ousted for insubordination. Stood cleared of any "malicious intent" in their leadership of a movement to have Fred C. Clarke, assistant manager, removed from the bench. Their resignation of everything save "malicious intent" came yesterday from John A. Heidler, president of the National League, to whom Carey had appealed following his suspension by the Pirate management, and the "unconditional" release of Adams and Bigber.

Heydler found, after a series of conferences with the dispirited club, that none of the three players was guilty of "wilful insubordination or malicious intent to disrupt or injure his club" and that each may leave the team "with a good name" and with no "stain or blemish on their long and honorable careers."

Both sides to the dispute indicated satisfaction with the league executive. "All we wanted was to clear our minds' decisions," names and Mr. Heydler's statement has done that," Carey said, for the ousted trio.

"We accept his findings and consider the matter a closed incident," said Sam Dreyfus, secretary-treasurer.

Carey, on whom the Pirates asked waivers will know whether he is to remain in the National League today the fifth day since waivers first were sought. It is known that Brooklyn and New York, at least have refused to waiver him and present indications were that he would go to the Dodgers.

Brunks To Repeat Tuesday Night Play

So great was the popular appeal for "Goldstein and Murphy, Incorporated," a combination Irish and Irish comedy presented here Tuesday night by Brunks Comedians under their tent theater on the north end of Avenue O that the manager of the troupe has decided to repeat the same play tonight.

WELLS IS AT HOME FROM MARKETS

Spencer Wells, manager of the Hemphill-Price company of this city, returned to Lubbock Monday from New York, where he has been attending the markets of women's wear for the store here.

Mr. Wells, in regard to the fashions to be in vogue this fall, stated that dresses and coats would outnumber by far the suits for the season, and that black will be the predominating color. In fact, the large eastern buyers are showing so strongly their belief in this factor that fully ninety per cent of the dresses purchased by them were in black. Coats will still be made from pile fabrics, and there will be a liberal use of fur on fall and winter garments.

The governor's race in Texas is attracting nation-wide attention. Mr. Wells said, and New York City papers carried the developments over several days on front pages of their editions.

SOUTHWORTH IS SWATTING BALL HARD FOR CARDS

PIRATES HOLD ONLY ONE GAME LEAD OVER CREW OF HORNSBY

(By the Associated Press)

Only one game separated Pittsburgh today from the rushing St. Louis Cardinals in the National League. Billy Southworth, discarded by the Giants but made a regular outfielder by Rogers Hornsby, has been sensational with his home runs since joining St. Louis.

He is the second outfielder turned away by McGraw to gain a name in the records for long hitting this season. Hack Wilson of the Chicago Cubs, the National League leader, is the other.

Southworth, 32 years old, is seeing service with his fifth major league team. He played for Cleveland, Pittsburgh and the Braves before going to the Giants.

Yesterday he pounded out two home runs in his club's 8 to 7 victory over Brooklyn. His blow in the seventh with two on base put the Cardinals in the lead.

Cincinnati remains only a half game behind the Hornsby as the result of good pitching by Carl Mays. He allowed ten hits, but had little trouble in turning back Philadelphia, 8 to 2. Bush of Chicago beat the Giants, 7 to 0, only Lindstrom and Ott turning back his pitches for singles.

Waite Hoyt was knocked from the mound and the Chicago White Sox beat the Yankees, 5 to 3, in a tense limited to five innings by rain, but the New York team gained ground in the American League because Cleveland dropped two, 9 to 4 and 6 to 4, to Philadelphia. This uprising placed the Athletics only a half game behind second place.

The Red Sox captured a double bill from the Browns, 5 to 1 and 4 to 0, Weber pitching five hit ball in the second. Bill Jacobson indulged in a field day against his old team mate with three hits in each contest, two of them doubles.

OTIS P. SAPP HAS JUST HAD TONSILS BOBBED

One of strangest divorce cases in history of legal absurdities was recorded in Fallen Arch, Ind., the other day. Sweet young thing refused to accept any money from aged mate was Civil War veteran rolling in Confederate money.

Eagle eye residents of Horse Collar, N. J., reports seeing flock of wild geese headed south. This indicates one of two things, neither of which is important enough to record here.

News from Kansas wheat belt is that native grown breakfast ammunition is bigger, better and more Democratic than ever. In short, it looks like a bumper crop, and Cal wishes they'd quit bumping him in the flank pocket so much.

Rhode Island chicken, four years old, set new egg laying record by producing omelets in raw, unfinished ingredients 71 days hand running. But record was disallowed by A. A. U. on grounds of professionalism.

It's just little things like this, as the Daily Outrage (Dem.), so pointedly points out that causes men like Dempsey to have their noses remounted.

Certain signs of waning summer are observable in eastern resorts where straws hats are being driven into garage for re-painting, oiling and general re-adjusting.

Mr. Otis P. Sapp, well known financier, whose advice on international problems has amused thousands, has nothing at all to say about the slump of the franc. Mr. Sapp has just had his tonsils bobbed and will not be able to say anything about anything for five days.

Great consternation was expressed in official Washington circles when it became known that Mr. Dempsey and his wife were seen eating watermelon at the Ritz hotel recently. It is said no statement will be available for the press until it is learned whether the Dempseys attacked the seeded cabbage with a knife or a fork.

Police authorities at Roundhouse, Tenn., made grave non-judicial error by arresting veiled woman riding in one of those motorcycles with bath tub equipment on word from Earl Carroll that Joyce Hawley was loose again.

Cables from Paris warn skiers next year will be shorter, which is probably a good darn lie because they can't be shorter and still be skiers.

Man in Lima, O., played piano continuously for 52 hours but was allowed to live because his selections did not include either "Valencia" or "The Volga Boat Song."

Man who won oyster shucking championship of Baton Rouge, La., last year, will default title. Those on the inside say he's only a shell of his former self.

Billy Evans Says

WHY YANKEES LEAD

Three sustained winning streaks explain why the Yankees are out in front in the American league.

The first streak consisted of eight straight wins, the second comprised just twice as many, while the third totaled eleven.

Thus in three winning streaks the Yankees have knocked off 35 ball games, about the margin the team now enjoys in the race for the pennant.

Grove and Faber.

In each instance it took mighty good pitching to stop the wrecking crew presided over by Miller Huggins.

It was "Lefty" Grove of the Athletics who turned the trick on the first two occasions, while the veteran Urban Faber of the Chicago White Sox put an end to the third winning streak.

Faber's win was a pitcher's battle in which one veteran splitter triumphed over another. Urban Shocker of the Yankees. Each twirler allowed only three hits but the Sox bunched their three for two runs, just enough to win.

Faber and Shocker are two of the very few spital pitchers still doing business in the big show.

STARS ARE FADING

Inside of three years, five at the very outside, baseball will be losing some of its outstanding stars. It is doubtful if the great Ty Cobb will try to perform as a regular next season. Only the fact that Ty had a few records he wanted to smash, accounts for him playing so much this year.

Eddie Collins has been greatly handicapped all season by a bad leg, the one injured late last fall and which has failed to come back to normal.

The injury to Collins cuts down his ground-covering possibilities and makes the playing of the game real work. I once heard Collins say that when playing the game became an effort rather than a pleasure, he intended to quit. It must be that now.

There is no doubt but that Collins has played many a ball game this year when physically unfit to give his best.

There are many veterans like Speaker, Wheat, Johnson, Alexander and others who are being counted out by Father Time and in each and every instance, leg trouble is the greatest handicap.

When the legs slow up, it spells the finish in baseball.

PENNOCK SMART HURLER

Recently one of the Chicago White Sox pitchers in a game with New York threw a fast one in Babe Ruth's groove. The result was a home run that decided the ball game.

As the Bambino ambled around the paths the "peppery" Ray Schalk, star catcher of the Sox, raved over the happening.

"Don't get the impression that I think it is possible to keep Ruth from hitting. Far from it. My thought is that proper pitching would cut his home run possibilities down to doubles and singles.

"I don't believe Ruth would ever make a home run batting against Herb Pennock," continued Schalk, "but Pennock is with the Yanks."

"Pennock is one of the smartest of pitchers, who constantly works on the batter's weakness. Ruth would never get anything 'at' from him."

Schalk's estimate of Southpaw Herb Pennock explains why he is one of the most effective left-handers that ever tried to outguess a major league batter.

In other words Pennock is a smart pitcher.

The fellow who wants to drive a bargain keeps his car in shape.

THE TRAGEDY OF EUROPE

Georg Brandes knows his Europe. For more than half a century the famous Danish writer and critic has been living in Europe, dreaming dreams of a greater Europe, hinging for an ideal day when the nations of the world should be one great family.

Brandes is an internationalist who has hoped, criticized, begged, pleaded, fought for his ideal. Now he sees the ground dropping away beneath him. He is an old man, and he fears the ideal of love between nations, the ideal of a great world family, has been shattered forever by the war and its consequences.

TRAMP, TRAMP, TRAMP!

During a time when many colleges and universities are trying to cast out military training, it is gratifying to know that there are 48,906 young men who are willing to spend half their summer, without pay, in acquiring the rudiments of soldiering.

Neither is that the only gratifying thing about the Citizens' Military Training camps this summer. Another is the degree of physical fitness which youth seems to be maintaining. A very small per cent of all applicants was turned down by the army doctors. Yet this is an age when everyone is supposed to be getting fat.

IN NEW YORK SEE-SAWING UP and DOWN BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The "gold brick" salesman has never disappeared from the Manhattan scene. He still does a flourishing business, having merely changed his wares.

His latest stock in trade is the "Russian crown jewels." These have been on sale at various times since the overthrow of the Czar and a great revival recently was staged by a young man known to the police as "Sidewalk Sammy."

Another favorite of the modern gold bricker is the peddling of "smuggled articles." It is "furs smuggled in from Russia" and, again, it is European perfume and, again, rare tapestries.

The other night a three-card monte game was found in successful operation not ten jumps from Times Square and police broke up an old-fashioned "shell game" flourishing in a vacant lot on 34th Street.

And the street beggars, in spite of all that the "wise guys" have been told "up" unbelievable harvests. A ragged and apparently crippled mendicant, picked up by the police a few days ago had $12,000 in currency hidden about his person.

But the copper pulled him toward the call box. "Hey, have a heart. Gimme a minute, will you. Come around the corner and I'll drive us to the station."

And, sure enough, just around the corner was parked a coupe in which the beggar went from section to section. In the floor of the car was found a well tailored suit. The beggar also used the car as a wardrobe room.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTER

By CHARLES F. STEWART, NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—To Dr. C. H. Parker, D.D.'s nothing so funny as H. Parker, D.D.'s in the supposedly funny pictures one occasionally sees of a missionary on a castaway sailor about to be eaten up by cannibals.

The doctor is a graduate of the Seventh Day Adventist College of Medical Evangelists, at Loma Linda, (Calif.) The College of Medical Evangelists "gives like this:

Dr. Parker probably knows more about the South Sea Islands than any other white man living. For 31 years he has lived in that part of the world, and now, after a short visit in this country, he said his wife is going back to die there, when their time comes.

The cannibals, presumably, are grateful. At my rate, they have sense enough not to kill and eat their doctor. He's the only one they've got and nobody knows how soon someone else will need to be cured by 'em.

Thus the missionary—the doctor—has got to be a missionary—gains time enough to convert his patients. That's the way Dr. Parker worked.

In his many years in the South Sea Islands he had a great many tight squeaks for his life, but the tightest, he says, was three decades and a twelve month ago, when he landed on his first island.

"They pounced on the doctor as a faintly morsel, produced a big kettle and began to paw their prisoner over to find out how tough he was and decide on the best way to cooking him."

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

THE WOLVERINE NEARS EXTINCTION

Slow and lazy, but he's smarter than a fox.

By ARTHUR N. PACK, President, American Nature Assn. There is a large, muscular furred animal, once abundant in our northern wildernesses, whom, strange to relate, few but naturalists can correctly name on sight. This is the wolverine, which Dr. Hornaday classes high in his "one hundred per cent table" of intelligent animals.

Observation of the wolverine by scientists tends to support the theory that there was a time, ages past, when it could run and leap with the agility of its brothers of the martlet family. But time has evolved in this creature a strong distaste for cunning and brute strength what formerly required skill and speed.

Like the bear, the wolverine's food consists of animals and insects, and so great is his appetite, and so sharp is he in stalking his prey, that he has rightly earned the name of "glutton." The den of the wolverine is usually well hidden in a sheltered hollow in the ground, or under rocks. Nests of leaves are made, and the litters, containing from two to four young are kept until late in the summer, protected by their mother with all the ferocity of a mother bear.

The full grown wolverine is about the size of a fox, but is very thickset and muscular. The coat of both sexes is usually of a deep blackish-brown, with bands of chestnut running from the shoulders to the tail, and the throat and chest are spotted with yellowish white.

The wolverine is so hunted for his rich coat that he is well-nigh being wiped from the continent. The skins find their way into civilized markets, in spite of the fact that the Eskimos alone demand more than can be supplied. They greatly prize it for winter garments because, unlike other furs, breath does not congeal upon it, even in that cold atmosphere.

By DR. M. HETZENBAUM—Every summer season, with its "dog days" and crowded public bathing beaches and pools, brings epidemics of infection the nation over.

Eye, ear, nose and throat troubles and skin eruptions reach a high peak during the hot months, mostly due to the carelessness of a few persons in the crowds of bathers.

It is a serious problem from the standpoint of the health of the community. Often, too, the commissioning of enforcement of restriction, because of the construction of the beaches. Danger lurks in every minor infection. An appalling number of contagious disease cases is directly traceable each year to the swimming places.

Breakwater a Menace. Many bathing beaches, even those at the ocean, are often partially protected by breakwaters or are in shallow bays or inlets. This prevents the beaches from being washed away and renders the bathers rather safe. But Expert Opinion. An American engineer, who was studying the sewage disposal systems in Germany, was asked "How do the cities in America dispose of their sewage?"

He answered: "They empty it into lakes and rivers, then bathe in it and they take some of it back in their drinking water."

Revolting as that may sound, it is scarcely an overstatement. Many American cities, in other ways almost the last word in sanitation, have not yet learned to protect their bathers.

WILL GET A GOOD VOTE, NOW. The state, district, county and precinct candidates who have been working about getting the voters to the polls in the second primary need not worry now. Ferguson and Moody in the run-off will bring out the largest vote in the history of Texas. Two years ago in the second primary there were more votes cast than in the first one, and was only exceeded by the recent primary, in the history of Texas.

It has been feared that the vote in the second primary would not reach fifty per cent of the last primary because there were no hotly contested races. But since Moody and Ferguson will go into a second heat, the voters will vote, and at the last race will be the fastest of the two.

The thing for the candidates who are not running for governor to do is "to push their claims. Plenty of voting will take place, now.—Abilene Times.

THE VANITY CASE

BY CAROLYN WELLS/ COPYRIGHT 1926 N.E.A.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MRS. PRENTISS sees lights mysteriously appear and disappear next door in the HEATH household one night, and the next morning Harbor Gardens, Long Island, is agog with the murder of MYRA HEATH and the disappearance of her husband, PERRY.

House guests of the Heaths are LAWRENCE INMAN and BUNNY MOORE. Inman is heir to Myra's considerable fortune, she having cut Perry off. Suspicion points to goldenhaired, vivacious Bunny, because of her refusal to answer questions at the inquest.

Myra Heath was peculiar. She never used cosmetics, never wore colors. She had a mania for collecting glass, and it was a rare old whiskey bottle from her collection that the murderer used to kill her. Candies were burning her head and feet, and nearby was a card marked, "The Work of Perry Heath." Strangest of all, she was heavily made up and dressed with gay colors.

The peculiar thing about Heath's disappearance is the fact that all windows and doors had been locked on the inside the night before and were found that way by the butler in the morning. Finger prints of Bunny Moore and Inman were found on the bottle and physicians establish that the rouge was applied to Myra Heath after death.

At the Country Club the murder is discussed by SAM ANDERSON, Heath's rival for the club presidency; AL CUNNINGHAM, who is trying to solve the crime, and others. Some believe Heath the murderer. Others, including Anderson, disagree. Cunningham learns from Mrs. Prentiss of the mysterious lights. TODD HUNTER BUCK, her nephew, suggests that Heath also may have been murdered.

EMMA, a waitress in the Heath home, tells of seeing Bunny ascend the stairs about the time of the murder, carrying her vanity case. Later Bunny is amazed to get a phone call from Perry Heath advising her to keep silent. Mrs. Prentiss tells Bunny she believes Bunny knew of the murder before she was told of it.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIV

"Nothing of the sort!" said Bunny, who had suddenly, and it seemed miraculously, recovered not only her sane mind, but her usual attitude of airy impertinence. I was crying because of a bad dream I had. I thought—oh, it was a terrible dream—I don't want to remember it! Now, Mrs. Prentiss and Mr. Buck, you are kind and good-hearted, but I can't—I just simply can't be more frank and confidential with you because—well, because I just can't! But I do feel grateful for your well meant offers of help, and I can see how you think I ought to tell you more—but, I would tell you, would doubtless make you more suspicious of me, and sorer that I am more or less implicated in the death of my friend."

If Bunny had made this speech with an humble or appealing air, it might have had a good effect, but on the contrary, she was smiling of face and gay of demeanor.

Her hearers couldn't know that the poor child was frightened almost to death, that she longed for help and advice, and that she hated to seem heartless and ungrateful, but Bunny had a perverse nature in some ways. Kindness always won her heart; sympathy always impelled her confidence; but these people showed a little too much cold curiosity, a little too much suspicious interest, to please Miss Bunny. And discerning these things, she turned from a sweet confiding child, to a wise, canny and even tricky young woman.

It wasn't quite fair of Bunny, but then, she felt that they hadn't been quite fair to her. Asking questions of the servants behind her back!

In response to the shocked protestation at her last speech, she said, in a conciliatory way:

"Well, never mind, I do want some advice, but I'm not quite ready to tell you all about myself. I think I'll run over to the other house a few moments, and see for myself what Emma had to say, and also have a few words with Carter."

"May I go with you?" asked Toddy, and though about to say no, his smile was so truly friendly and sincere, Bunny changed her mind and said graciously, "I'd be glad to have you, Mr. Buck."

Over to the Heath house they went, and found Larry Inman in the studio, surrounded by a deskful of letters and papers belonging to Perry Heath.

"Have you found anything of importance?" Bunny asked.

"No, not as bearing on the mystery of Myra's death or Perry's absence," Inman replied.

"Do you think Perry will ever come back?" Bunny asked.

"I did think so, at first, he returned, slowly. 'Now—I don't know.'"

"Bunny has heard from him," said Todhunter Buck.

"What!" cried Inman, turning to look at the girl.

"I have not!" she declared, angrily, but the flood of color that broke over her face gave her words the lie.

"You have!" Inman said, "I always can tell when you're lying, Bunny. What did he say? Did he write you?"

"No! I haven't heard from him at all. Mr. Buck is mistaken—or he is joking. A very ill-timed jest!"

"I think he telephoned to her," Toddy spoke to nobody in particular, merely looking into space, as he leaned his chin on the knob of his stick.

"Did he, Bunny?" demanded Inman.

"No," she said.

"Then where does the joke come in?"

"Oh, I had a telephone message from someone else and Mr. Buck thinks it funny to assume it was from Perry I wish I knew where he is!"

"Yes, so do I," Inman agreed. "I say, Bun, here comes that pest, Mott! Do you want to scoot out the back way?"

Bunny looked frightened at first, then seeing in Toddy's eyes that new light of friendly kindness, she concluded to stay with him.

MEXICO STILL ON TRAIL OF BANDIT GANG IN COUNTRY

STILL UNDECIDED ABOUT LEADERS AS RELIGIOUS DEADLOCK HOLDS

(By the Associated Press) MEXICO CITY, Aug. 18.—The Mexican government still is trying to take into custody all persons it believes were connected with the alleged plot for a revolt last Sunday. Also it is keeping a careful eye upon the American border for possible revolutionary incursions into the northern states of the republic. Meantime, the religious controversy continues undisturbed.

There is considerable speculation as to whether Mexico will request the United States to extradite former professional President Adolfo de la Huerta, who is believed to be in California. General Enrique Estrada, who is under arrest at San Diego, Calif., and other revolutionists across the border. Thus far, however, the government has not made known its policy.

De Lara Reported Executed
It is reported that General Lopez de Lara, former governor of Tamaulipas and follower of de la Huerta, and who recently has been living in San Antonio, Texas, crossed the frontier into Tamaulipas and was captured and executed by federal troops. The war department asserts that it has no information to this effect. There have been numerous rumors in the capital that revolutionists have come into Mexico, or intend to do so, from Texas, New Mexico and Arizona. The war department says it has failed to verify these rumors. Nevertheless, Secretary of War Amaro, who was on a military inspection trip to Chihuahua City for the purpose of personal directing troop distributions and military preparations against possible revolutionary attempts.

The foreign office says it has received information that "religious elements" in California contributed toward General Estrada's projected revolution. It asserts that special agents reported to the government some time ago that funds were being collected in California to aid Estrada, who with all of his outfit and his war stores, was captured by Americans near San Diego and landed in jail.

Women Lead Plans
According to assertions made by the secret police, Catholic women, who tightening of their purse strings is thought of as a factor in the economic boycott called by the league for the release of religious liberty in protest against the government's religious regulations, are not only foremost in prayers for peace, but first in plans to fight.

Jose Mascorro, chief of the secret police, asserts that Catholic women were leaders in the alleged plot for a revolution in various parts of the republic last Sunday, which the police neglected to ban. Furthermore, he says the plot was definitely connected with General Estrada's plan, the two together being intended to throw Mexico into revolution.

According to Mascorro, Senora Josefina Novoa, and Senora Luz de Percheta, Catholics of San Angel, a suburb of Mexico City, were the guiding spirits in the plot.

Attended Plotters Meetings
Chief Mascorro said his secret police, noting as Catholics favoring the revolution, for some time had been attending meetings of plotters in their residences. The executive board of the revolutionary movement, he declared consisted of seven men and seven women. Similarly, every district in which a revolt had been planned, had women on the board of directors.

have been released. Numerous persons are reported to have been taken into custody in other parts of the republic, including General Carlos Ariza who is declared to have been appointed by the league for the defense of religious liberty as military commander for an uprising in the state of Morelos.

While the Catholic Episcopate has made no formal statement, it has been ascertained from reliable circles that the church authorities have not authorized armed resistance by Catholics and the Episcopate thinks the government officials are giving undue importance to the alleged plot.

Want Controversy Settled
The foreign office admits that Latin American diplomats have made efforts to mediate in the religious controversy. It was said this was done at the instance of the Episcopate, but that the Mexican government was unable to permit any foreign good offices in a purely domestic affair. It was said also that the foreign offices that had information concerning alleged Catholic propaganda in the United States, Europe and South America against the Mexican government, but that President Calles daily was receiving messages of approval of his stand from all those countries and that these more than offset the propaganda.

The Episcopate has received a letter from a Catholic declaring that he had heard that a Catholic priest in Tepic, Jalisco, state of Guerrero was shot and killed while saying mass in a private residence. A crowd pursued and lynched the assassin. Dispatches from Durango, which have not been confirmed, report that a priest, Father Luis Batia, and three civilians were killed while a group of Catholics were attempting to rescue them from soldiers who had captured the priest for an alleged violation of the law.

Advices are that one policeman was killed and several civilians were wounded in a riot in the village of Ixtlahuacan, state of Colima.

WEALTH WANTED BY OUTLAW BAND OFFICIALS SAY

ESTRADA AND HIS BAND SOUGHT MONEY, LOWER CALIF. MAN SAYS
(By the Associated Press) SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 18.—Desire for wealth and power and not concern for Mexico's religious plight, was the moving force behind the plot of General Enrique Estrada and his associates to overthrow the government of Lower California, officials of that state said today they believed. The plot was aware when agents of the United States department of justice and county and city officials of Southern California took approximately 170 men into custody last Sunday, with a large quantity of arms and ammunition.

"When one realizes the tremendous revenue that will be coming in next month in the Mexical district where more than 150,000 acres of cotton are brought to gins, it is easy to understand the stakes for which Estrada was playing," Alfonso Pellegrin, secretary to Governor Abelardo Rodriguez, said in a message received here from Mexico.

He added that the intervention of American authorities was all that saved the northern district of Lower California, with its rich farm lands and its highly profitable border resort towns, from falling into the hands of the revolutionists.

"Shoot!" Said Will and Dick To Al

of the ring leaders would face a firing squad also loomed as an investigation was started to learn if any of them are subject to deportation. Conviction on any of these charges against them would warrant deportation, and it was pointed out, once in Mexico they would receive little sympathy from the Mexican authorities.

General Estrada, former secretary of war of Mexico, still refuses to discuss the revolutionary attempt. He and a part of his faction are being held in the county jail, while the others are at Fort Rosecrans under heavy guard.

The last outward sign of the proposed march on Lower California vanished yesterday when 200 Mexicans gathered in the Imperial Valley under the guise of laborers, disbanded.

With Governor Abelardo Rodriguez in Mexico City, and the border garrisons reduced to mere hand fulls of soldiers, it was believed that the "army" led by Estrada, well officered and powerfully armed, would have had no difficulty in sweeping over the border and setting control of the state almost without opposition.

RANCH CONVERTED INTO PRESERVE FOR HUNTING

ALPINE, Aug. 18.—The 2,000-acre Fowlkes ranch, located on top of Texas, being in the highest part of the Davis mountains is being converted into a hunting preserve, and Fowlkes' ranch, the organizer of the company establishing this new Davis mountain enterprise are Edwin Fowlkes, owner of the ranch, John W. Gillett of Alpine and Pete Crawford, outfitter and guide. Mr. Gillett of this city will be the business manager of the company.

In addition to the 2,000 acres owned by Mr. Fowlkes, 2,300 acres now under lease will be embraced in the preserve, and it is expected that the acreage will be increased 3,000 acres more in the course of a few years. Ten-year hunting privileges will be sold by the company, limiting the number for the first year to 100 permits. Considerable big game is found on this ranch, which is located in some of the most rugged and picturesque sections of the Davis mountains, frequently referred to as "The Alps of Texas." The Fowlkes ranch has long been the habitat of deer, bear, mountain lions, fox, coyote, bobcat, weasels, panther and other game.

The preserve will be used in the hunting season, fall and winter for sporting purposes. During the other months of the year it is planned to convert the mountainous area into a dude ranch or summer resort, similar to those which have become extremely popular in Arizona, and other parts of the west. The Fowlkes ranch is eighteen miles by auto road northwest of Fort Davis and forty-three miles from Alpine. It is expected that many sportsmen from every section of the United States will visit this section as a result of Mr. Fowlkes converting his famous ranch into a hunting preserve.

New Ideas Welcomed By Students, Claim

AUSTIN, Aug. 18.—Dr. A. E. Wolfe from the University of Ohio, a member of the summer school faculty at the University of Texas, finds that students welcome new ideas more readily now than they did even a few years ago. In former years students of Dr. Wolfe's economics classes often seemed afraid of new ideas, but this attitude has changed, he says. Before going to Ohio Dr. Wolfe was chairman of the department of economics in the University of Texas.

NEW FERTILIZER RATES ORDERED

Railroads Ordered To Put New Rates Into Effect By January, 1927

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18. (AP)—A wide spread downward revision of freight rates on fertilizer and fertilizer materials in the South was decided today by the interstate commerce commission.

Railroads were ordered to put the new scale of rates into effect by January, 1927.

The decision followed a two year investigation begun by the commission on its own motion. It found that in view of the characteristics of the fertilizer traffic, it was "reasonably entitled to a relatively low basis of rates."

Maximum reasonable rates based on a distance scale prescribed for standard lines, but certain smaller lines were allowed to make exceptions.

Conference Called
WASHINGTON, Aug. 17. (AP)—Recommending the need for a comprehensive revision of class rates in Western trunk line territory the interstate commerce commission today called a conference of railroads and shippers, to be held at Chicago, September 10 to determine a course of procedure.

The commission pointed out that committees of the carriers and shippers have been endeavoring to work out a mutually satisfactory adjustment but said there was little prospect to complete agreements on all the rates in dispute.

Agreements that are reached prior to the commission's hearings will be made a part of the record, subject to later consideration by the commission.

Valentino Seriously Ill of Peritonitis

NEW YORK, Aug. 17. (AP)—Rudolph Valentino, shik of the silver screen, was fighting desperately for his million dollar life today in a bower of roses at the Polyclinic hospital. His physicians revealed that local peritonitis had already developed when the film star was operated on Sunday night for appendicitis and gastric ulcer. Peritonitis poisoning, the doctors said, usually becomes general and when it does the patient dies. The strong resistance of the screen actor's splendid physique is regarded as his only hope.

Valentino had the most expensive and one of the largest suites in the hospital, but there was not enough room in it for all the flowers sent him by admirers and many were sent to the rooms of other patients. The hospital telephone switch board was swamped with inquiries about him. A special waiting room was set aside for callers. His suite is the one occupied by Mary Pickford when she had a serious illness in 1912.

PLEA IS MADE FOR PRESERVATION OF RELICS

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 18.—"Since the life of a civilized people changes very rapidly at the present time, it is very important that the evidence of the old life should be preserved," recently declared Dr. Charles Hackett, professor of Latin American history in the University of Texas, in discussing the proposed State museum. According to those in charge of the project, this museum founded by the state would be a distinctly state institution, located on the University of Texas campus where the staff could be made up from members of the University faculty whose lines of work would be represented in the museum.

From the point of view of modern history, such a museum is essential to house the relics of the frontier, Dr. Hackett said, and especially those that take the form of material factors which operate to produce changes.

"The present social and economic worlds change so rapidly that even the more thoughtful among us are hardly conscious of the change," Dr. Hackett continued. "As an example, readily appreciated by Texans, a hundred years ago where Austin now stands the red Indian roamed as he had roamed for thousands of years. The frontier as an environment shaped and moulded early American economic, social, and political life. In Texas the frontier lingered long, but it is gone and many of the present youth of the state have difficulty in imagining what the early life of their parents was like."

"A State museum, provided with copious space, would reconstruct and preserve evidences of that frontier life."
