Economy called top issue in race

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Former Gov. Bill Clements, saying he's in a tough ball game, enlisted the help of ex-Dallas Cowboys quarterback Roger Staubach to tell potential voters that Clements' political and business experience could help Texas during its financial crisis.

At rallies in North Texas on Tuesday, Clements urged supporters to get out the vote on Nov. 4 because being overconfident could spell defeat.

"We're into the fourth quarter of a ball game, but not only are we in the fourth quarter, but that two-minute whistle has blown," Clements told a crowd at a Fort Worth restaurant.

Clements and his opponent, Gov. Mark White, were addressing rallies a few blocks from each other Tuesday evening.

"I know his leadership is needed," Staubach said of Clements.

Blasts 'secret plan'...

White urges partywide vote

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — With only a week left until the election, Gov. Mark White is calling on supporters to do everything they can to turn out the Democratic vote.

"I'm going to ask your help to go out from this place and with missionary zeal contact your friends ... Ask them to vote. Ask them to work, to contact their friends in turn," White told more than 1,200 people at a Fort Worth rally Tuesday night.

"We have just one week left. I'm going to ask your help as I did four years ago (when he upset Clements). I'm asking you again to redouble your efforts to ensure success on Nov. 4."

Campaigning with Rep. Jim Wright, D-Texas, likely the next speaker of the U.S. House, White voiced optimism about his chances for defeating Republican former Gov. Bill Clements.

"Continue this campaign until Nov. 4, until every vote is counted. We're going to have the greatest Democratic victory — not just for governor but for all these Democratic nominees," he said.

Speaking to the Texas Association of Broadcasters in San Antonio, White charged that Clements' so-called "secret plan" to balance the state budget would require robbing the public school and state university trust funds.

Although Clements refused to reveal a detailed plan for solving the state's $2.8 billion cash crisis, the former governor repeatedly criticizes White for the temporary sales and gasoline tax hikes passed by the Legislature last month.

New boundary lines...

Precincts add voters

County commissioner candidates seeking to represent Precincts 2 and 4 this year face a slightly different constituency than office seekers did four years ago.

The change came on Feb. 28, 1983, when members of the commissioners court accepted newly drawn boundary lines for the four precincts.

Boundaries were established according to the area's population determined by the 1980 census.

Since the majority of the county's population resides in the Snyder city limits, the boundary line changes primarily involved city voting precincts.

Prior to 1983, the county's two northern precincts — Pcts. 1 and 2 — held only 30 percent of the local eligible voters while Pcts. 3 and 4 — primarily south of 37th Street and including Hermleigh and Ira — carried the remaining 70 percent.

With the new system, the population breakdown by precinct is approximately 25 percent for each.

County officials implemented the new voting district boundary lines after the 1982 election.

Precinct 2 covers the northwest quadrant of the county. Inside the city limits, the affected voting boxes are 17 and 18.

Box 17 (Northwest Snyder) votes at the Scurry County Library; and voting box 18 votes at the National Guard Armory.

Other voting precincts in Pct. 2 are voting box 5 (Fluvanna), which votes at the Fluvanna Community Center; and voting box 6 (Union), which votes at the Union Community Center.

The candidates for commissioner in Pct. 2 are Tommy Pate, Democratic candidate; and W.A. (Bill) Jones, Republican candidate.

Precinct 4 involves the county's southeast quadrant. Inside the City of Snyder are voting boxes 11 and 12.

Voting box 11 votes at the Senior Citizens Center and voting box 12 votes at the southside of the coliseum.

Other voting precincts inside Pct. 4 are voting box 10 (Dunn), voting at the Dunn Community Center; and voting box 13 (Hermleigh), voting at the Hermleigh Community Center.

The candidates for Pct. 4 are incumbent Ted Billingsley, again the Democratic nominee; and

Exhibit package offered

A three-day weekend trip to Dallas to see the "China" exhibit is being planned by the Scurry County Museum Nov. 14-17.

The local tour group will leave Snyder at noon on Nov. 14—a Friday. The cost will be $155 per person. This will include transportation and two nights in the Mandalay Four Seasons Hotel, the ticket to the exhibit and a Sunday brunch.

The exhibit, organized by the Chinese Association of Science and Technology in the People's Republic of China, is considered to be the most important international science museum exhibit in this decade.

Hundreds of artifacts, reportedly 10 times the number in the acclaimed King Tut exhibit, will be displayed, profiling Chinese accomplishments in a variety of scientific disciplines.

Live demonstrations will include the 2,000 year-old method of making paper from bamboo pulp.

Amendment would clear designation for RR stock task

(Editor's Note: This marks the first in a series of four articles outlining constitutional amendment proposals which will be decided by Texas voters during the General Election Tuesday.)

The first amendment proposal on next Tuesday's ballot would remove the requirement that the comptroller of public accounts apportion the taxable value of railroad rolling stock among the counties where it is taxed.

Such "rolling stock" involves such equipment as engines and boxcars. These items are now taxed as property by each county in which the railroad operates.

This is done in proportion to the mileage of railroad line owned by "The feller on Deep Creek says, "Imagination is something that sits up with parents when kids stay out late."

WTC history professor Franklin Pruitt has a new nickname among his colleagues on campus.

When you can get Dr. Pruitt to talk, he sometimes gets so wrapped up in his story that you can't turn him off.

A couple of weeks ago, Pruitt was walking across campus. Not only did he find a young lady who would listen to his story, but she was an extremely attractive coed.

Pruitt was so engrossed in his conversation with the young lady that he ran head-on into a light pole. The incident required a trip to the doctor's office and four stitches.

Fellow faculty members are now calling him "Dr. Lamp Lighter."

Enough is enough!

That's the way we feel about the trend to sue. We read just this week about the Boston girl who is seeking damages from her former high school for failure to detect, treat and cure her dyslexia.

Even though she graduated as a national honor society student and was admitted to college, she is still claiming damages.

The other case made us hot enough to melt ice cream.

Baskins-Robins has agreed to pay nearly $150,000 to settle a complaint by customers that some of its ice cream packages contained less than advertised.

The consumer fraud division in San Diego admited the problem was not any deliberate attempt to deceive customers. The company advertised the sale of hand-packed containers by volume.

The ice cream would be put in a 12-ounce cup and would not have exactly 12 ounces of ice cream because of air space. So somebody sued, and now somebody has to pay, and now liability insurance costs continue to climb.

What ever happened to common sense?

Skipper Joyce says, "In the good old days, bureaus were furniture."

Q. — How many votes will likely be cast here next Tuesday?

A. — Using the last gubernatorial election as a guide--which also featured a race between Mark White and Bill Clements--some 4,092 votes were cast in Scurry County.

Friend Feels Tricked by Man Who Reveals He Has AIDS

DEAR ABBY: I went to visit a good friend who said he had leukemia. After I got there and spent an hour or so talking to him, he broke down and told me that he had AIDS! Do you think that was fair? Don't you think he should have told me he had AIDS before I went to visit him so I could decide whether I wanted to go or not?

Even though we don't know where it comes from or how contagious it is, they say, "Be cautious." There is a lot of confusion about this disease so I hope you answer this in your column. If you do, please don't mention my name.

NO NAME IN NEW YORK

DEAR NO NAME: There is no conclusive evidence that AIDS can be transmitted any way other than through: (1) Sharing a contaminated needle with an infected person. (2) Intimate sexual contact. (3) Being born of a parent with AIDS. (The risk of getting AIDS from a blood transfusion is no longer a threat since all blood is tested for the AIDS virus before it is used in a transfusion.)

People with AIDS should tell prospective visitors the truth about their illness, even though it's not possible for a casual visitor to contract it.

DEAR ABBY: I am enclosing an article from your column that made a big difference in my life. I have carried it in my wallet for years and it helped me so much. I'm sure you can help many more if you run it again.

ST. PETERSBURG FAN

DEAR FAN: You get your wish. Here it is:

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a wealthy widow who picks up the tab for an escort 20 years her junior who couldn't possibly afford to take her to the places she's accustomed to going? In his line of work he could never treat her on his salary.

There can't possibly be any romance in this combination, but he is attractive, flatters her, dances with her, and she seems to enjoy this setup while he is taking her for all she's worth. Meanwhile all her friends are laughing at her behind her back. It's really pitiful.

Why can't some women realize there is more dignity in sitting home than buying an escort?

ON THE SIDELINES

DEAR ON: I take it you are sitting home. Perhaps this woman also sat home long enough to have concluded that she didn't like it.

All that is necessary for a successful relationship is that two people "need" each other. She needs him. And he needs her. And as long as they aren't hurting anybody, who am I to judge them? And who are you?

DEAR ABBY: I've just stepped out of my shower, ready to start my day, and it's car alarm time — just as it was car alarm time yesterday, and the day before. Car alarms seem to go off regularly for no reason whatsoever. It's highly unlikely that the same thief has been ripping off the same stereo in the same car for the past three days running.

Car alarms are not crime stoppers; they are noise polluters. What good are they if no one's around to respond to the "call"? (A friend of mine lost three car stereos, and her car alarm worked every time.) If someone wants to steal the entire car, he can just sit out the 30 minutes of siren with the rest of us — and then heist the wheels.

Please, ask your readers to consider those of us who are not trying to steal their car stereos. If they want to turn on the car alarm in their own driveways with their ears cocked for sounds of crime, fine, but a deserted car with its alarm blasting away should be a towable offense!

DAZED IN STUDIO CITY

DEAR DAZED: I agree. A car alarm is effective only if the owner is around to hear it. Ignored alarms are a headache, an earache and a pain in the posterior to all others within earshot.

Segregation strong in older U.S. cities

DETROIT (AP) — The North has replaced the South as the nation's most segregated region, according to a researcher who says the "chocolate city-vanilla suburb" trends of the 1970s are unlikely to change.

Detroit and Chicago are the nation's most segregated cities in terms of housing for blacks and whites, followed by New York and Los Angeles, University of Michigan sociologist Reynolds Farley said Tuesday.

Washington, D.C., is the most successful in integrating neighborhoods, said Farley, who has spent three years analyzing 1980 U.S. Census Bureau statistics.

In addition, he said in a telephone interview from Ann Arbor, despite gains in education and economic status black-white segregation is typically nearly two times greater than that involving Hispanics or Asians.

Farley said he had little hope that most cities will become more integrated in the near future.

"With regard to residential segregation, the traditional patterns of racial isolation seem unchanged," he said. "A continuation of the trends of the 1970s offers no hope that the chocolate city-vanilla suburb pattern will be changing anytime soon."

Segregated neighborhoods are most common in cities with slow population growth, especially those established before the Fair Housing Act of 1968, which made it illegal for real estate agents to discriminate on the basis of ethnic origin, Farley said.

"In 1940 and 1950, segregation levels were much higher in the South, but that's not the case anymore," he said. "Higher segregation levels are in the northern cities. The differences are not fabulous, but that's the case."

He attributed the shift to growing populations in the Sun Belt, as well as forced integration in schools.

Farley devised an index in which zero represents complete integration and 100 complete segregation.

Water talks failing

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — A judge will hear arguments next month on a request by El Paso, Texas, officials to drill 326 water wells in Dona Ana County.

The hearing was brought about when the parties involved failed to reach a settlement.

Assistant Attorney General Chris Coppin said Monday that a hearing is expected to begin Nov. 18 at New Mexico State University.

El Paso filed applications in September 1980 to drill the wells in Dona Ana County. The wells would provide El Paso with about 96 billion gallons of water a year.

Attorneys for both sides met earlier this year in an attempt to negotiate a settlement.

"We couldn't get any consensus from the parties so it's going to hearings," said Coppin, who is handling the matter for the attorney general's office.

Dona Ana County and the Elephant Butte Irrigation District, two of the 19 major New Mexico parties involved in the dispute, refused to agree to any settlement with El Paso during negotiations.

"People just didn't change their positions," Coppin said. He declined to elaborate.

Two diseases affecting nerves

DEAR DR. GOTT — What is the difference between myasthenia gravis and multiple sclerosis?

DEAR READER — Myasthenia gravis is a chronic condition, characterized by a progressive or cyclic weakness, due to a defect in the flow of electrical signals from nerves to muscles. It can be treated with medicine or, in some cases, surgery.

Multiple sclerosis (M.S.), on the other hand, is a progressive neurological disorder that results from loss of the myelin covering (insulation) of nerves. Its cause is unknown and it is untreatable by present methods.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Does the term "psychosomatic" refer to physical illness induced by severe emotional stress, or to imagined illness without physical cause?

DEAR READER — Psychosomatic illness refers to disease that is produced by emotional factors. This used to be a popular wastebasket diagnosis. Tuberculosis was formerly believed to be physical "consumption" caused by intense emotions. We now know that it is a bacterial infection. Similarly, peptic ulcer and asthma used to be considered psychosomatic. We now recognize the physical bases of these illnesses. Currently, it is popular to think of heart attacks as a form of emotional illness because people who have this disease are often hard-driving, competitive individuals. With time, as we come to understand heart disease more fully, I am certain that our focus on the stress and emotional components will become less important.

"Hypochondriasis" is the term that refers to imagined illness without physical cause.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Three months ago I had cataract surgery and a lens implant. I've told the doctor that I could tell time and see the numbers on the TV better before the operation, and that things now have a distorted look. He flatly said that wasn't true, tested my eyes and prescribed a new lens for the eye that was operated on. I did tell the truth and am depressed by his response. What should I do now?

DEAR READER — Seek another opinion from a second ophthalmologist. If your doctor doesn't believe you, find one who does.

To give you more information, I'm sending you a free copy of my Health Report, CHOOSING A PHYSICIAN. MAKE A DECISION FOR GOOD HEALTH. Others who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Ptomaine and salmonella are both bacteria that cause food poisoning. How are they different?

DEAR READER — Ptomaine poisoning is an archaic term. Ptomaine, a group of compounds found in decaying protein, was formerly believed to cause disease. It does not. In fact, ptomaine is normally produced in the human intestine without ill effects.

Salmonellosis is an acute form of gastroenteritis, caused by bacterial toxins, that produces nausea, vomiting, abdominal pain, fever and copious diarrhea. In its most virulent manifestations, it is seen as typhus and typhoid fever.

Seized drugs worth plenty

WACO, Texas (AP) — Authorities investigating one of the largest cocaine busts in Texas history have increased the estimated worth of the seized drug from $26.5 to $67.7 million.

The Drug Enforcement Administration in Dallas reweighed the cocaine originally estimated at 663 pounds and said it was actually 706 pounds, said Sgt. Gerald Bradford of the Midland Department of Public Safety office.

Oil import fee splits group

DALLAS (AP) — The nation's independent oil producers are split over just how far to go in pushing the Reagan administration for an oil import fee.

In an unusual and emotional debate, members of the Independent Petroleum Association of America voted Tuesday in support of a conditional request for an oil import fee that some members of the group said was too ambivalent.

"This is probably the most important-decision IPAA will make in several decades," said Dalton Woods, a Shreveport, La., member of the emergency task force that conditionally recommended the import fee in a special report.

Houston oilman Arliss Watts argued for amending the report: "We have a lot of people who are week by week going down the tube, even daily. To wait for all the things in this report may take too long for some of us."

Nevertheless, a majority of the members adopted the report, which calls for an import fee — "if the dominant Arab OPEC countries continue to hold oil prices" below a level needed for the United States to maintain adequate reserves.

That vote came after members rejected an amendment from Dallas oilman Frank Pitts that would have removed the "if" from the report's wording and called for an import fee without any loopholes.

In support of the amendment, Ray Plank of Apache Corp. of Minneapolis, said, "If we're going to pass the buck today, I think it's sad. The president will be disappointed if there isn't unity behind the fee."

But Wichita Falls oilman Bob Vinson said the only way to make progress was to get the president and public behind an import fee as a way to uphold national security.

Task force member Woods agreed. "You'll never get off the ground until the American people are convinced there is a national security crisis" caused by the collapse of the American oil industry, he said.

"You can demand something of the president and alienate the only one that can do something about it."

Vinson said the task force worded its report the way it did because "we felt it imperative we not box him (Reagan) in."

Observers at the meeting said the bitter debate was highly unusual for an organization generally accustomed to agreement.

"What you're about to see is unheard of," said Midland oilman P.D. Sims before the meeting began.

He and others predicted membership in the organization would continue to drop because of the dispute over the oil import fee. The 5,000-member group has lost about 1,000 members in the past year.

A tough play to find

By James Jacoby

At times proper defense requires an unusual play in the middle or later stage of a particular deal. When that is the case, you just have to grit your teeth and make the play. Larry Griffey of Jacksonville, Florida, was West and was faced with just such a problem against the mundane two-spade contract.

East made a reasonable decision to pass two spades. Although three diamonds might come home for East-West, there were a lot of holes in their suits, and declarer would have to guess to play South for the diamond king. But now it was time to defend against two spades.

East took the six of diamonds lead with the ace and returned the four-spot. Declarer won and tried the queen of spades. East won the ace and, for better or worse, played back a low diamond. (We can see that it would have been better to first take two club tricks.) Declarer was happy to shed a losing club as West ruffed, and Larry Griffey was now in the hot seat. His natural play would be the ace of clubs and another, but Griffey felt it was unlikely that declarer had started with the club king. So he made the only play at this point that could set the contract. He underled his club ace. East won the king and played back the diamond queen to promote West's spade 10. That was five tricks for the defense, and the heart king was the setting trick.

White House called by Contra safe house

WASHINGTON (AP) — The office of a White House staff member overseeing U.S. support for Nicaraguan Contra rebels received telephone calls last month from a safe house in El Salvador used by Americans handling supply flights for the rebels, Salvadoran phone bills show.

During September, calls were made to two private lines used by Marine Lt. Col. Oliver L. North, a staff officer on President Reagan's National Security Council. Both lines were answered Tuesday by a tape-recorded message saying "you have reached a non-working number for the executive office of the president."

According to rebel and administration sources, North has been the chief White House contact with the Contra aid network over the past two years. From October 1984 until this month, U.S. government military assistance to the Contras would have been illegal, although two weeks ago, Congress approved resumption of direct U.S. military aid to the rebels.

An administration official, authorized to speak on the matter but only on condition of anonymity, said, "To his knowledge, Colonel North has never received any phone calls from the safe houses." But another source close to North said he would not necessarily know where calls were coming from.

Another source close to the Contra aid network said the bills could have been concocted by Nicaraguan intelligence agents. But two Associated Press reporters who have examined the documents said they appeared to be genuine bills from Antel, the Salvadoran government's telephone company.

The bills also showed calls to Stanford Technology Trading Corp. in the Virginia suburbs of Washington. Stanford is a company headed by retired Army Maj. Gen. Richard Secord, a former assistant deputy secretary of defense, who has been named in news accounts as helping arrange aid for the Contras from Saudi Arabia.

Secord has acknowledged giving the Contras advice, but "has steadfastly denied that he is a conduit or a middleman for Saudi Arabian aid," his lawyer, Tom Green, said.

Another number listed on the bills belonged to Southern Air Transport Inc. of Miami, a one-time CIA-owned company which had employed one of two American pilots killed when a C-123 cargo plane was shot down over southern Nicaragua on Oct. 5.

TV spending up in hot races

WASHINGTON (AP) — Final-hour spending on television advertising is heavy in hotly contested Texas congressional races.

U.S. Rep. Joe Barton, R-Ennis, spent more than a fifth of his entire campaign fund on advertising during the first half of October, for commercials to be shown during the final days preceding the election.

Barton is one of a "six-pack" of freshman GOP congressmen who rode the tidal wave of support for President Reagan in the 1984 election. This year, facing a stiff challenge from Democrat Pete Geren, a former state director for Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, Barton spent more than $106,000 for those ads.

"I'll tell you, $100,000 doesn't buy you much television time in the Dallas market," Barton aide Cathy Hay said Tuesday.

Geren spent $72,555 during the same period in his challenge in the 6th District, which includes 14 counties and stretches from Fort Worth to Houston.

Records at the Federal Election Commission for the first two weeks of October — which is the final reporting period before the election — show campaign contributions for Geren equaled $61,241 while Barton took in $60,890. Overall contribution totals were $278,564 for Geren and $498,928 for Barton.

Also hearing the footsteps of a contender is Mac Sweeney, R-Wharton, who received some adverse attention when congressional staffers alleged he insisted they work on his re-election campaign. Sweeney faces Greg Laughlin in the Nov. 4 election.

During the early October reporting period, Sweeney took in $43,530 in campaign contributions to up his overall total to $313,516. Laughlin received $22,570 for a total of $156,859 for the race.

A source of major contributions to Sweeney's campaign fund has been political action committees, known as PACs, each espousing its own views for a particular special interest.

Sweeney took in $13,518 in PAC money during early October for a total of $133,769 compared with Laughlin's $7,500 in October PAC money for a total of $49,800.

Among Democrats facing serious contenders are John Bryant of Dallas, who confronts Mesquite attorney Tom Carter in east Dallas' 5th congressional district.

The two contenders raised about the same amount of money in early October, with Bryant taking in $27,898 to Carter's $27,149. Overall, Bryant has collected nearly twice as much with $562,944 compared with $283,507. Much of Bryant's campaign chest comes from PACs.

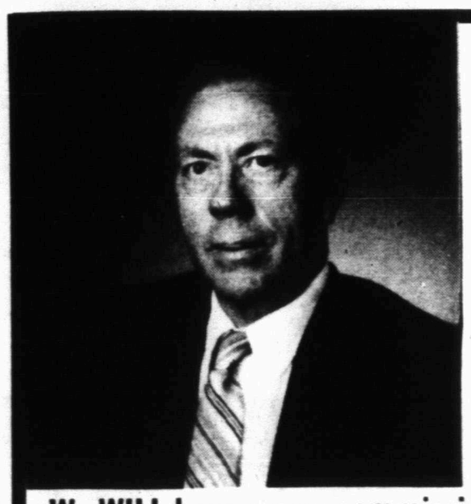

Bryant outspent his opponent in October by an enormous margin, paying out $123,933 to Carter's $18,363.

Rep. Jake Pickle of Austin, first elected in 1963, is being challenged by former three-term Austin mayor Carole Keeton Rylander, who switched to the GOP to run against him.

Four Stenholm bills have now become law

WASHINGTON, D. C.--Four bills introduced by Congressman Charles W. Stenholm during the 99th Congress have become law.

During the two-year session, which ended Oct. 18, Stenholm authored seven bills. The 17th District Representative was successful in incorporating four of his bills into comprehensive pieces of legislation, which were later signed into law by President Ronald Reagan.

Two of Stenholm's bills became part of the 1985 farm bill, which takes affect Dec. 24, 1986. H. R. 1912 was Stenholm's bill to establish a fair farm and crop acreage base and program yields system. The bases and yields bill will provide for efficient, flexible programs for farmers. H. R. 1591, the Clear Title Bill, provides more protection for purchasers of agricultural products.

The Stamford Democrat was responsible for a bill that allows small businesses to participate in superfund clean-up projects. H. R. 3211, added by the full House, will encourage the use of new technologies, many of which are developed and administered by small businesses. The measure was part of the larger Superfund program which was signed into law by the White House on Oct. 16.

A modernized processed meat inspection system is the result of Congressman Stenholm's fourth successful bill, H. R. 4683. This legislation authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture to determine the manner and frequency of inspections of meat products.

Rangers' Valentine third...

Lanier manager of the year

HOUSTON (AP) - Hal Lanier, who led a Houston team picked as a preseason also-ran and turned it into National League Western Division champions, was named today as Manager of the Year by The Associated Press.

Lanier, who was named Astros manager in the off-season after serving as a coach on St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog's staff for five years, received 53 votes in easily outdistancing Boston's John McNamara in the nationwide voting by sportswriters and broadcasters.

McNamara, whose Red Sox lost to the New York Mets in the seventh game of the World Series Monday night, received 14 votes.

Texas Manager Bobby Valentine, a rookie like Lanier, was third with 12 votes followed by Davey Johnson of the Mets with 10 votes.

New York Yankees Manager Lou Piniella, Pat Corrales of the Cleveland Indians and Gene Mauch of the California Angels each received one vote.

Herzog won the award last year and his aggressive style of baseball was reflected in Lanier's 1986 Astros, who lost to the Mets in six games in the NL playoffs.

"Whitey taught me how to run a pitching staff and I think that is a major part of managing," Lanier, who was the Cardinals' third-base coach in 1985, said. "I think I added to that a knowledge of how to recognize the talent we had and what we could do and couldn't do."

Lanier pulled the right strings with a pitching staff composed of Mike Scott, the major-league leader in strikeouts and earned run average, Nolan Ryan, baseball's all-time strikeout king, and left-hander Bob Knepper.

Lanier also transformed the Astros from a one-base-at-a-time attack to an aggressive running team in 1986. The Astros almost doubled their stolen bases from from 1985 stealing 163 compared to 96 the year before.

That was a key to the Astros' charge to their first divisional crown since 1980, when former Astros Manager Bill Virdon was named manager of the year.

Padres boot Boros; give Bowa a chance

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Steve Boros and his gentle approach to managing are out, victims of the San Diego Padres' failed 1986 season and the lure of a winning formula offered by Larry Bowa.

"If the guys think I'm too tough, well, that's just the way it goes," said Bowa, a former All-Star shortstop who was named Tuesday as the 11th Padres manager in the 18-year history of the franchise.

"If I'm going to get canned as the manager, I'm going to do it my way. I'm not going to be somebody I'm not, and I'll let the players know that," Bowa said. "I want us to take the field with a little cockiness, (to) let other ballclubs know, 'hey, we've got a good ballclub.'"

Boros, 50, was reassigned to the position of coordinator of minor league instruction, a job he held before his year-long managerial term. He was informed of the change Friday during a private meeting with club president Ballard Smith and general manager Jack McKeon.

Under Boros, the Padres finished the 1986 season in fourth place in the National League West, 22 games behind division-winning Houston. San Diego's 74-88 record was its worst since the strike-shortened 1981 season.

Robinson strengthens Dusters inside game

Helping Western Texas' inside game this season will be sophomore Gi Gi Robinson, a native of Anson.

Robinson saw a lot of action in 1985-86, but was not high in statistics, mainly because of WTC's three all-conference, all-region players, Brenda Welch, and graduated sophomores Angela Jeans and Pam Cox. As a sophomore in 1986, she now gets a chance to show her prowess.

"Gi Gi could possibly be one of our most improved sophomore players. She is quicker, stronger and in early season practice has shown more stamina than during her freshman year," said Coach Kelly Chadwick of the 6-0 talent.

"She has improved her ball handling skills, as well as her shooting technique during the off-season.

"Her mental quickness and anticipation has improved vastly because of her maturity and confidence. She played the 1985-86 season with considerable pain with her feet. However, that problem seems to have cured itself," noted the coach. "Gi Gi provides tremendous leadership on and off the floor to our Lady Duster team. She started in the post position for us last season and we will look for her to do the same this year.

"Her major weaknesses, rebounding and defense, will improve this season as she is continually working to improve both areas. We are looking for great things from Gi Gi this season," he added.

Robinson was all-district in 1984 for Coach Donna Riener's Anson High School Lady Tigers. She won numerous sports awards in basketball, tennis and track.

She and her husband William have one child.

WTC men play McMurry here on Thursday

Coach Phil Spradling's Western Texas College Westerners will open their 1986-87 junior college basketball season here Thursday night at 7 o'clock in Scurry County Coliseum.

The Westerners are scheduled to take on McMurry College.

Basketball action for Western Texas actually begins this evening when Coach Kelly Chadwick's Lady Dusters play San Jacinto at 6 in the McLennan Community College Highlassie Classic at Waco.

The Dusters also play Temple at 6 p.m. on Thursday and McLennan at 8 p.m. on Friday.

On the Western Texas men's roster this season are returning starters Alvin Lee and John Lewis. Lee led the team in scoring last season and was named all-conference and all-region.

Lewis, 6-2 from Lubbock, will not suit up for Thursday's game with McMurry. The college has placed him on disciplinary probation.

Other sophomores are a pair of 6-4 talents, Amos Jones and Terry Ridgeway, and 6-3 transfer student Kevin Kendrick.

Freshmen are 6-2 redshirt Sedrick Hannah, 5-11 Tagzlman Goff, 6-0 Melvin Thompson, 6-4 Greg Dugeon and Darrell Nelson, 6-7 Igor Gojanovic and Harvey Marshmann, and 6-6 Gerald Wells and Tom Marcussen. Joining the squad is 5-11 freshman Willie Greathouse, who served as a manager last season.

Terp coach steps aside

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) - Lefty Driesell, apparently seething over his forced ouster, stepped aside today after 17 years as basketball coach at the University of Maryland and four months after the cocaine-induced death of All-American Len Bias.

Driesell said he was proud of the program and even prouder of the student athletes.

After making a simple, short statement, Driesell turned and walked away from the podium.

Driesell's action didn't surprise Jim Kehoe, the retired athletic director who hired the coach in 1969.

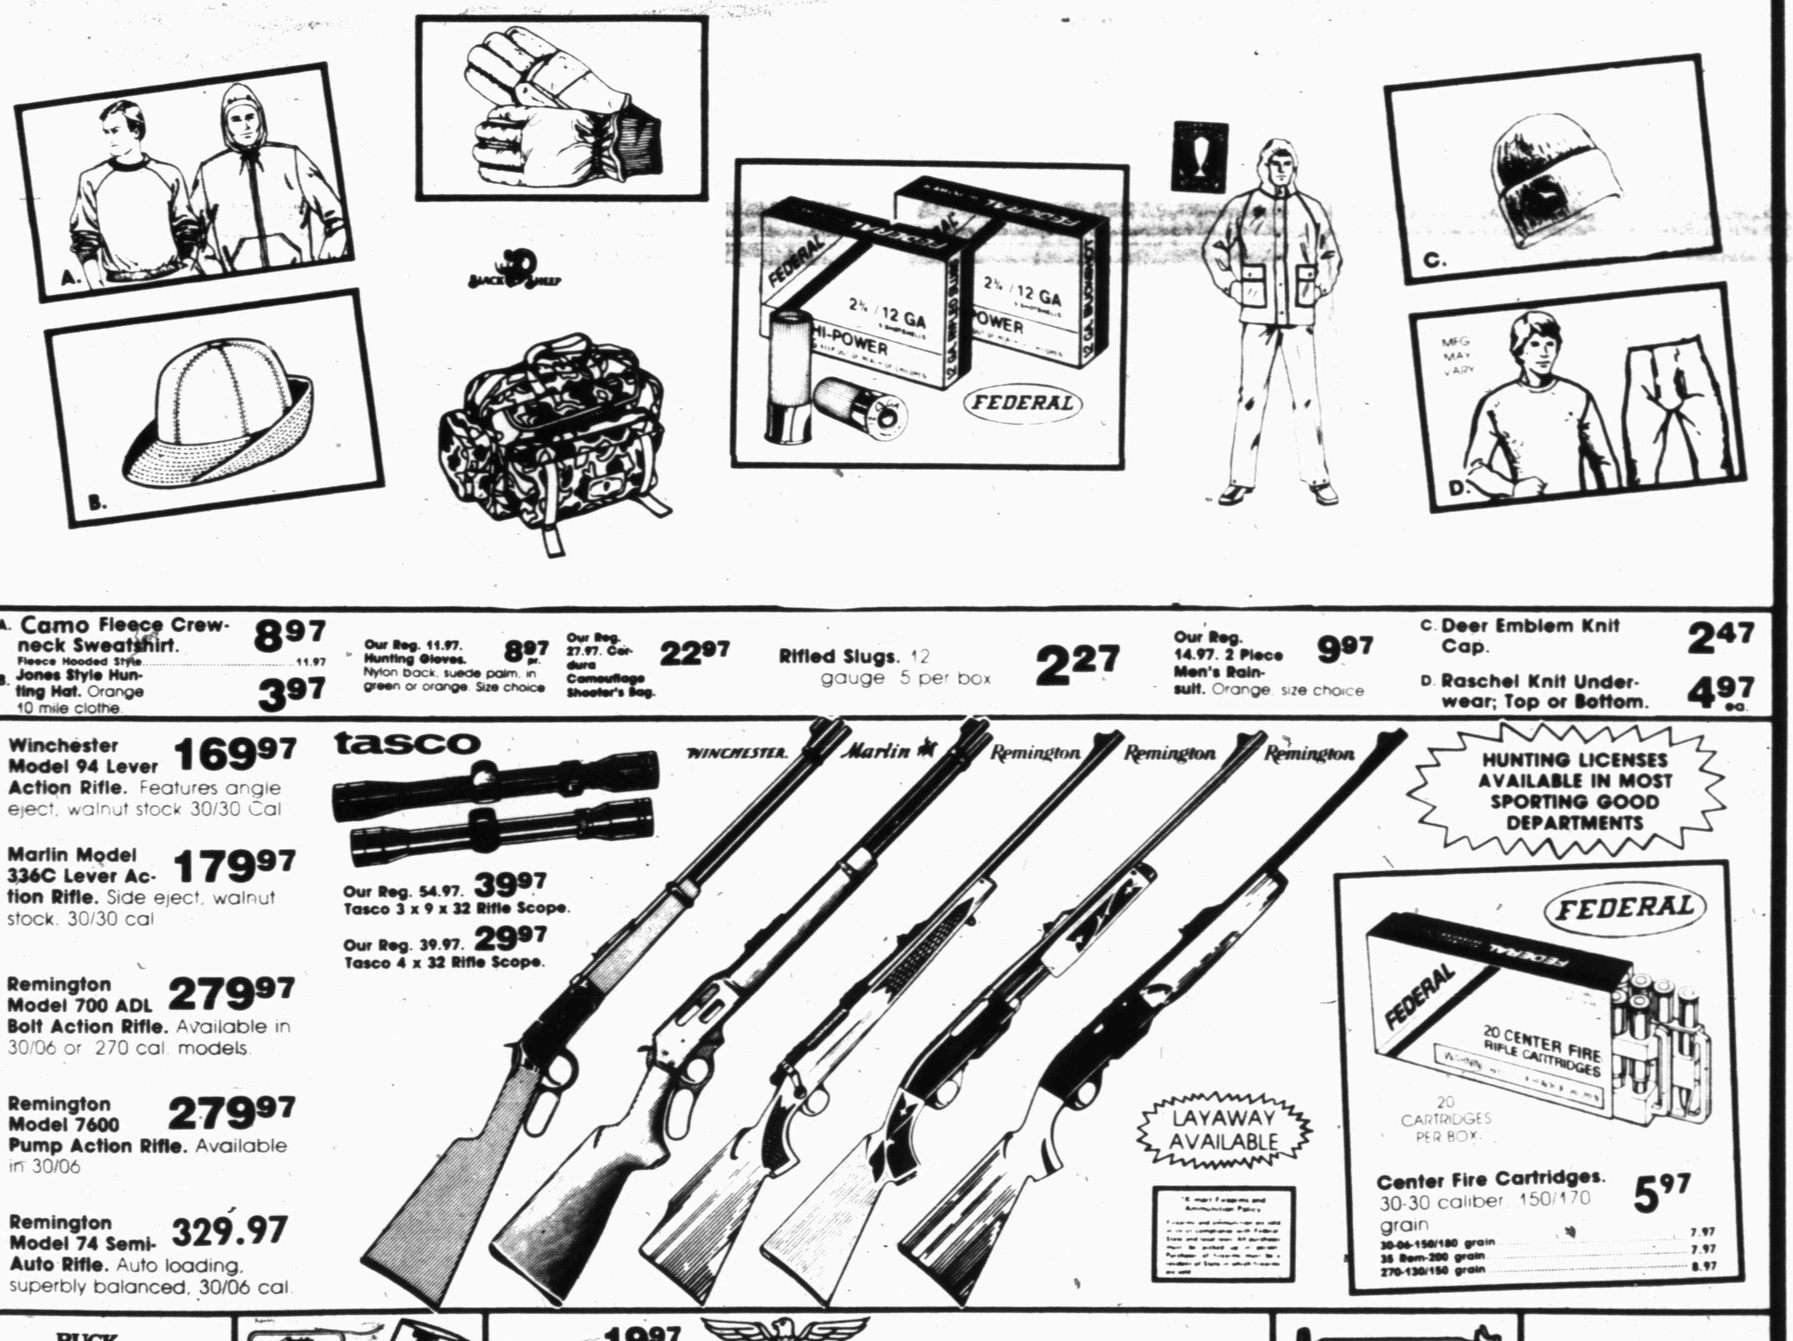

"Why would he want to share the platform with the man who sacked him?" he asked.

University Chancellor John B. Slaughter was scheduled to hold a news conference later in the Eyes are okay; print is smaller

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Tom Landry's eyesight isn't getting worse. He's just trying to cram more plays on his game plan card and the type is getting smaller.

The Dallas Cowboys' coach has resorted to reading glasses on occasion this year, particularly at night and during late evening NFL games.

"I've used reading glasses but now I take them with me to the games," Landry said. "Marge (his secretary) has been trying to cram more plays onto my card."

Landry said the new and expanded Cowboys' offense, which includes Herschel Walker playing at six different positions, is the reason for the smaller type.

"I guess I have 25 percent more plays on my card than I've had before," Landry said.

SPORTS

Sweetwater a strong favorite over Rage, at least on paper

On paper, Friday's game between defending state champion Sweetwater and the Snyder Ragin' Tigers frankly doesn't shape up as much.

The Mustangs are ranked 10th in the state by the Harris Rating System, and are 21-point favorites. Some would say that picking the talented Mustangs to beat Snyder by three touchdowns in the Mustang Bowl is being kind.

Sweetwater is clearly the top defensive team in District 2-4A this season. The Mustangs are giving up a paltry 156.3 yards a game - and only 83 on the ground, which may be Snyder's strongest suit.

The Tigers average 243.7 an outing, with 199 of that coming on the turf.

Offensively, Sweetwater ranks second in the league to Monahans, a team the Mustangs crushed 34-14 a week ago. Sweetwater averages 344.3 yards and almost 23 points.

In contrast, Snyder is - on paper, again - on the bottom of the district in defense, allowing 290.7 yards and 24 points a game.

The Mustangs have a 1-2 running punch of Mark Redden and Rufus Smith, who together have rushed for 1,427 yards. Despite that, two of the Mustangs' top scorers are quarterback Chris Davis and receiver Kenneth Norman, who have accounted for 66 of the team's 160 points.

Davis, a returning all-loop selection, has passed for 603 yards and 11 touchdowns. He also has 325 yards rushing.

Norman, just a sophomore, is the district's second-leading receiver with 361 yards and six touchdowns on 18 receptions.

"We consider it a privilege to play them," said Snyder Coach Dennis Tomlin. "That's the fun of athletics, standing on top of the mountain that you are not supposed to stand on top of. We have a great challenge. They are at the top of the district again. They've got a great program, great coaching and great talent. I feel like our kids will accept the challenge, though."

Snyder has spent most of the early part of the week trying to get healthy. Seven players, including six backs, missed Monday's practice with illness. Five were out Tuesday.

"We have had a lot of sickness but that's just something we'll have to accept and overcome," said Coach Tomlin. "We'll give our best, I feel real strong about that."

Kickoff is slated for 8 p.m.

Eye season finale Saturday...

SHS Lady Tigers defeated

Snyder's Lady Tigers were defeated 15-8, 15-5 in a District 2-4A volleyball match with San Angelo Lake View here Tuesday evening.

The loss left the varsity squad 16-14 on the season and 6-9 in district play heading into the season finale here Saturday, when they host Monahans at 3 p.m.

Snyder JV won its ballgame with the Maidens on Tuesday, 13-15, 15-7, 15-12. The junior varsity will also host Monahans this weekend at 2 p.m.

Scoring on serves for Snyder varsity Tuesday were Tammy Williamson and Allison Adams, 4 each; Shondra Robinson and Monica Hinojos, 2 each; and Donna Clay, 1.

"Lake View played real well and we came out real flat. Maybe it was due to how well they played. They are in third place in the district," said Coach Vicki Nelms. "We were especially disappointed because we wanted to finish 8-8 in district and now we can't."

The team will try to regroup for Saturday's match.

"Monahans beat us there in a three-game match. It was pretty exciting," said the coach. "I feel the kids, especially the seniors, would like to go out on a winning note. We want to play better than we did Tuesday night but that doesn't mean the kids didn't play hard Tuesday. They did. We just couldn't ever get any momentum."

Snyder freshmen, idle on Tuesday, will also round out their season Saturday, hosting Monahans at 12:30 p.m.

morning.

The coach met with his team late Tuesday at his home. According to players who attended the somber, 1 hour and 15 minute session, he bid a teary farewell.

Driesell was expected to be named an assistant athletic director while giving up the old contract which called for him to coach four more seasons and then work five years in another university capacity.

Reagan embarks on political rescue mission

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan embarks today on a week-long rescue mission for Republicans in some of the nation's tightest Senate races and trying to help the GOP win back a House seat it claims the Democrats stole two years ago.

Opening a seven-state drive that will run up to Tuesday's election, Reagan was heading for Evansville in southwest Indiana to help Republican challenger Richard McIntyre in his grudge match against Democratic Rep. Frank McCloskey.

It is the only House contest in which Reagan is making an appearance.

The president also planned to campaign today in South Dakota for Sen. James Abdnor, who is in a dead-heat contest with Democratic Rep. Thomas Daschle.

From there, Reagan goes to Colorado Springs, Colo., for an appearance Thursday for Rep. Ken Kramer, who is battling Democratic Rep. Tim Wirth for the Senate seat being vacated by Democrat Gary Hart.

Other stops are scheduled in Nevada, Washington, Idaho and California before Election Day as Reagan struggles to help Republicans keep control of the Senate for the final two years of his administration.

White House strategists hope the president's popularity can provide the difference in the exceptionally close contests.

In Indiana, McIntyre and McCloskey split the vote in 1982. GOP state officials in Indiana certified McIntyre the winner by a 34-vote margin, but the Democratic-ruled House conducted its own recount and found McCloskey the winner by four votes.

Republicans accused Democrats of stealing the election and walked out of the House in protest.

The biggest issue in this year's rematch, however, is not the 1984 election but charges and countercharges about drugs. McIntyre has accused McCloskey of condoning use of illegal drugs while he was mayor of Bloomington in the 1970s.

McCloskey has denied the charge but acknowledged he tried marijuana twice in 1972 during his first year as mayor. He accused McIntyre of slander.

Mitchell E. Daniels Jr., Reagan's assistant for political affairs, said the congressional race is "razor close," while Democrats claim there has been a surge for McCloskey in recent polls.

The president has made the battle for control of the Senate his top political priority this year, making 30 trips on behalf of Senate candidates since January — 22 of them since Sept. 1. Republicans now have a 53-47 majority in the Senate.

On a campaign swing through Georgia, Alabama and North Carolina on Tuesday, Reagan refused to predict whether the GOP would maintain a majority.

"I'm too superstitious to talk about that," Reagan said.

Portraying Republicans as the architects of economic prosperity, Reagan urged voters to reelect the "cleanup crew" of Republican senators elected in the Reagan landslide in 1980.

He said the alternative was "the Democratic leaders who in 1980 weakened our nation and nearly brought our economy to its knees, who raised your taxes and have announced their plans to do so again, who oppose our efforts to build a defense to protect us from attack by nuclear ballistic missiles."

Staubach campaigns for former governor

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — He repeatedly was introduced as "the man who needs no introduction." Roger Staubach, the former star quarterback for the Dallas Cowboys, flashes that all-American smile, shakes hands and signs autographs.

He is busy with his real estate company and family and enjoys the privacy away from the football field. Staubach has not played since 1979, but on Tuesday, he was besieged by fans while he campaigned for Republican gubernatorial candidate Bill Clements.

Staubach did not get involved in politics during the 1970s when he led the Cowboys to two Super Bowls. In 1980, however, he sparked speculation of a political career when he campaigned for Ronald Reagan.

On Tuesday, during campaign stops through North Texas with Clements, Staubach said he was too busy to think about a political career for himself.

"I am not running for anything. My intentions are not to run for anything," Staubach said.

Staubach, who introduced Clements at most of the rallies, said politics and football are similar in that they're both very competitive.

"You just have to keep battling," Staubach said of both arenas. "It's a very thrilling experience to be in a campaign ... but then you make decisions that a lot of people don't like. You just can't please everybody. I think that's the hardest part about politics."

Staubach, whose hair is beginning to gray, still looks like an athlete. He is trim. He still lifts weights and rides his bike.

He still wears a Super Bowl ring above his wedding band. His crooked left pinkie is still a reminder of the grueling days in the National Football League.

During campaign stops with Clements, fans asked Staubach to sign autographs and posed with him for photographs.

Fort Worth oilman Eddie Chiles introduced Staubach as "the man who needs no introduction" and then told about Staubach's accomplishments on the football field.

Staubach talked about his playing days and joked that he thought he could make a comeback because of the addition of running back Herschel Walker.

The former governor said Staubach would help his campaign.

"I think Roger has a great deal of respect from an awful lot of people from Texas and elsewhere," Clements said. "They respect him as a person and as an athlete and for his traditional values."

Clements even suggested that Staubach would be a good chief executive officer of the state.

"He'd make a great governor of Texas," Clements said.

Staubach said, however, he has too many plans for his business, The Staubach Co., which has grown to about 125 employees in the past eight years.

He said he was surprised, but happy, that he gets requests for autographs.

"The Cowboys have had a real good tradition and I was part of that," Staubach said. "But I've enjoyed my privacy since I retired."

Foreign minister returns from trip

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico will start new negotiations with Brazil and Argentina about trade relations, Foreign Minister Bernardo Sepulveda said Tuesday after a visit to those South American nations.

Sepulveda said commerce with Brazil and Argentina has tripled in the past three years, but he did not provide any statistics.

He spoke at a news conference to report on his trip to Brazil on Oct. 20 and 21 and to Argentina from last Wednesday through Friday.

Sepulveda said the trip's purpose was "to evaluate the current state of Mexico's bilateral relations with the two countries ... We will meet again in November, in the Uruguay meeting of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, to start a process of modernization and broadening of our agreements."

The three nations are the largest debtor nations in the developing world.

Sepulveda said a goal would be to develop a deeper system of preferential, reciprocal tariff agreements by negotiating by trade categories rather than using the traditional product-by-product system for discussions.

Luis Bravo Aguilera, deputy secretary for foreign commerce, said at the news conference that such a system would have "the objective of easing commerce among these Latin American countries, against the difficulties presented by the international market."

Bravo Aguilera said Mexico also gained support in Argentina and Brazil for its protest of the new U.S. tax on imported oil.

Sepulveda also participated Tuesday in the inauguration of a joint commission on Mexico-Costa Rican relations intended to increase cooperation in commerce, technology and education.

"Mexico, reaffirming its sovereignty and identity, to those who have a right to exist without foreign interventions, cooperates in the need of the Central American governments to achieve understandings in favor of peace and cooperation," Sepulveda said.

"Science and technology have to be bases for Mexico and Costa Rica, a guarantee for their productive self-sufficiency," he said.

Costa Rican Foreign Minister Rodrigo Madrigal Nieto said at the inaugural ceremony that, "Peace in Central America only will be achieved if it is based on democracy and development. Central America does not want a bloody peace.

Amendment 1 is explained

the railroad in each county.

Currently under the law, the comptroller's office makes the apportionment among the counties.

However, since the creation of the State Property Tax Board, the comptroller no longer has a significant role in the ad valorem tax process.

Because of this, a new portion of the tax code was passed which requires the State Property Tax Board to perform the apportionment.

This transfer did not entirely remove the comptroller, however, since the Texas Constitution still requires him to make the apportionment.

Under current practice, the State Property Tax Board makes the apportionment in conjunction with the comptroller's office to comply with both statutory and constitutional provisions.

The proposed amendment would have the effect of removing the comptroller from the apportionment altogether.

ARGUMENTS FOR

—The amendemnt would allow the legislature to designate the entity to apportion the value of railraod rolling stock. This flexibility would also allow the legislature to change the designation as needed.

—The comptroller was originally included in the apportionment because those values affected state property tax revenues. Since the abolition of state property taxes, the state treasury is no longer affected by the property taxation of railroads. The comptrollers continued participation–in addition to being an anachronism–is a waste of the resources of the comptroller's office since the State Property Tax Board is capable of making the allocations propertly.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST

—The existing constitutional provision assigns the task to an elected state official with the expertise to perform the job accurately and fairly. The amendment would allow the transfer of this task to another entity which may not be as accountable, as competent or as neutral.

—The practice now in use works well. The State Property Tax Board works well with the comptroller and the process is no real burden to the comptroller since the tax board staff does most of the technical work.

County commissioners serve four-year terms with two seats facing re-election every two years. Commissioners in Pcts. 1 and 3 were elected under the new boundaries in 1984.

3 minor wrecks reported in city

Two minor traffic accidents were reported in Snyder Tuesday.

Involved in the first — at 3:49 p.m. in the 3600 Block of College Ave. — were a 1983 Mercury driven by Jamie Dawn Green of 1411 Ave. T and a 1977 Chevrolet driven by Joann Hood Williams of Hermleigh.

The day's second report was filed by Raford Stanley Hargrove of 5400 College Ave. at 9:35 p.m.

He told police that his 1984 GMC surburban had apparently been struck by a hit-and-run driver sometime earlier Tuesday.

It was not known where the Hargrove vehicle was parked when the mishap occurred.

No injuries were reported from either mishap.

Fight results in 4 arrests

Police logged seven misdemeanor arrests Tuesday including four men jailed for public intoxication following a reported fight in the parking lot at Shakey's on the East Highway.

Three of those arrested at Shakey's shortly before midnight were additionally charged with one count of misdemeanor assault.

Other arrests included a 17-year-old shoplifting suspect taken into custody at Kmart, one man jailed on traffic warrants and one man arrested for public intoxication.

Dade grand jury refuses to indict

MIAMI (AP) — A grand jury's refusal to indict a shopkeeper whose wire-mesh booby trap electrocuted a burglar is a signal to criminals "that people are going to stand up and fight back," the merchant's attorney says.

The Dade County panel said Tuesday that Prentice Rasheed wasn't justified in taking justice into his own hands by electrifying metal grilles above the door of his shop, but that there was no evidence he meant to kill anyone.

To free U.S. hostages...

1,200 journalists sign petition

WASHINGTON (AP) — A "Free Terry Anderson" petition drive has attracted the signatures of more than 1,200 journalists demanding freedom for the U.S. newsman and the other hostages in Lebanon.

The drive was launched three weeks ago by two Associated Press reporters who initially set out just to gather support from the Washington press corps.

But friends and co-workers of Anderson, the AP's chief Middle East correspondent, began circulating copies of the petition in New York, on the West Coast and, more recently, in foreign capitals.

One reporter gathered signatures at the recent superpower summit in Reykjavik, Iceland, and 135 newspaper editors signed it last week at the Associated Press Managing Editors convention in Cincinnati.

Scores of journalists signed the petition in Tokyo, where Anderson was once an officer of the Foreign Correspondents Club of Japan.

The petition asks President Reagan, Secretary of State George Shultz, their counterparts in the Middle East and others with influence in that strife-torn region "to work diligently for the speedy release" of Anderson and the other prisoners.

Among the signers are: John Scali of ABC News, a former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations; Bernard Gwertzman of The New York Times; Bill McLaughlin of CBS News; Susan Stamberg of National Public Radio; John Fogarty of The San Francisco Chronicle; Colman McCarthy and David Ignatius of The Washington Post; and White House correspondents Michael Putzel of the AP, Helen Thomas of United Press International, Gene Gibbons of Reuters, Walter Robinson of The Boston Globe and Owen Ullmann of Knight-Ridder.

It has also been signed by Louis D. Boccardi, president of the AP, and Walter R. Mears, vice president and executive editor of the news service.

Anderson, who turned 39 on Monday, was kidnapped in West Beirut on March 16, 1985. He is one of seven Americans believed held by the Islamic Jihad or other terrorist groups.

He made his first videotaped appeal for help in early October.

Diane Duston, who supervises Metro news coverage in the AP's Washington bureau, said that when she saw the tape, "It struck me that Terry was feeling abandoned. ... I just had to do something."

"It's not political," said Joan Mower, her co-organizer. "It's just a statement of outrage from journalists."

"It's not much, but what else can you do?" added Mower, who has reported on the hostages.

The two plan to keep gathering signatures until Nov. 27 — Thanksgiving Day.
