Rumors Claim Resistance Is Being Urged

German Planes Are Also Received To Strengthen Forces

CHARGES ARE AIRED

BUCHAREST, July 2 (AP) — Charges that Hungary was attempting to foment revolution among the Magyar population in Transylvania in order to pave way for eventual entry of her army into the province were made in government quarters tonight.

(By The United Press)

BUCHAREST, July 2.—New supplies of war materials, chiefly anti-aircraft guns, arrived from Germany today, it was reported in foreign military circles.

(It was said, however, that Germany is obligated to furnish Rumania with substantial quantities of war weapons in return for oil.)

The anti-aircraft guns will be used, it was said, to complete Rumanian fortifications on the mountain peaks surrounding the important industrial center of Brashov, just inside Transylvania.

SEVENTY ARE KILLED

BUCHAREST, July 2 (AP) — Authoritative military quarters reported today that 70 Hungarian soldiers were killed early today when they entered Rumanian territory between Satul Mara and Halmeu.

The arrival of the guns followed the receipt of 200 German planes on the eve of the receipt of the Russian ultimatum to Rumania. The shipment of German planes at that time gave rise to reports that Germany was encouraging Rumania to resist Russia.

Rumanian circles emphasized that Germany contracted to provide Rumania with arms from the Skoda works in former Czechoslovakia and that these contracts are being fulfilled.

It was reported today that deaths in rioting between Jews making their way to Soviet-occupied Rumania and refugees fleeing that area have reached 200. There was no official confirmation of the casualties.

British Prepare To Leave

British subjects were making preparations to leave and it was forecast that Rumania's renunciation of a British guarantee of support would accelerate an exodus of Jews, mostly to the Bessarabian and northern Bukovinian territory ceded to Russia.

Diplomatic sources interpreted Rumania's renunciation of the British pledge—which was made by Britain on its own initiative and without negotiations so far as is known—as meaning that Rumania, hemmed in by Russia, Bulgaria and Hungary, had thrown itself into the arms of Germany. In some quarters belief was expressed that Germany had now begun to have misgivings.

German Triumph In France Is Hailed As Greatest Military Triumph; Losses Are Listed

(By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, July 2—The German high command hailed the Nazi triumph in France tonight as the greatest military victory of all times and attributed it not only to superior arms and generalship but also to the unity of the whole German nation under national socialism.

It listed these German losses from May 10, when the western offensive began:

Killed—27,074.
Wounded—11,034.
Missing—18,384.

These make total German casualties of 156,492.

Against this is listed more than 1,900,000 French captives, among them 29,000 officers.

This information was contained in a long, detailed memorandum of the German campaign in France, explaining how various operations were conducted and what generals were in charge.

Characterization of the western campaign as the greatest military victory in history and acclaim for Nazi arms, generalship and cohesion were part of a three-page conclusion.

Excess Profit Tax Facing Opposition

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 2 — Considerable opposition to an excess profits tax on individuals, as recommended by President Roosevelt, was predicted today by Senator George (D-Ga), who said that a similar levy on corporations probably would be enacted.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the House ways and means committee said that such a tax on individuals "didn't work so well" during the World war and was dropped after a year.

Finances For Defense

To help finance the defense program, Mr. Roosevelt asked yesterday to "a steeply-graduated excess profits tax, to be applied to all individuals and all corporate organizations without discrimination."

"It is our duty to see that the burden is equitably distributed according to ability to pay so that a few do not gain from the sacrifices of the many," he added.

Doughton, recalling that his committee and the Senate finance group already had ordered an excess profits tax study, said the president's 89-word message "guarantees teamwork" between the White House and Congress on the proposition.

Mr Roosevelt did not propose a formula, but Rep Rayburn of Texas, House Democratic leader, said

Wheeler Is To Be Candidate

(By The United Press)

ST. LOUIS, July 2—Sen Burton K. Wheeler, D., Mont., said today that his name would be presented to the Democratic national convention at Chicago as a candidate for president whether or not President Roosevelt seeks a third term.

In previous public statements, Wheeler has said he would be a candidate for the presidency if the president did not run.

He came here to speak tonight at a public meeting sponsored by several peace societies.

Has Good Chance

Wheeler said he thought he had a good chance of nomination if the president did not run. He said he did not believe the president had yet made up his mind on the matter of seeking a third term.

Asked if he planned to see John L. Lewis, here to address the national convention of Townsend plan clubs, he said that until he arrived in the city he did not know that Lewis was here. He said he had not been invited to attend the Townsend meeting "but if they want me to make a peace talk to them, I'll do it."

Negro Proves Charge Time Being Wasted

SILER CITY, N. C., July 2 (AP)—Motorists complained that Siler City traffic lights wait too long to change color. Johnny Peoples, local negro, proved it.

Investigating a raffle jam, Patrolman June Moody said Peoples had driven up to a red light—going sound asleep before the light turned green.

Farm Income Goes Higher

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 2. The April cash income of Texas farmers was estimated today by the department of agriculture at $36,152,000.

Cash from crop marketings amounted to $7,981,000, from livestock and livestock products $22,811,000 and from governmental payments $5,360,000.

The four-month January-to-April total from all sources was figured at $135,964,000, well above the $120,343,000 reported for the corresponding period last year.

Figures Are Given

Cash from crop marketings for the four months was estimated at $36,343,000 compared with $33,362,000 last year. From livestock and its products the figure was $58,604,000 compared with $54,302,000, and from governmental payments, $41,017,000 compared with $32,[illegible],000.

The department said Texas' April cash receipts from cotton and truck crops was below April, 1939, but that this was more than offset by increases from wheat, rice and citrus fruits.

Receipts from crops in April, 1939, totaled $7,272,000; from livestock $16,820,000, and from government payments, $12,216,000.

Bloody Fighting Is Related By Il Duce

ROME, July 2 (AP)—Premier Mussolini declared to the world today that "hard bloody fighting" occurred in what he calls the four-day "battle of the western Alpine front" before Italy and France signed their armistice June 24.

This declaration was made in a letter to Crown Prince Umberto, commander of an Italian army.

Italians Il Duce said, fought their way through French defenses from eight to 32 kilometers (roughly five to 20 miles) on a 120-mile front before the fighting ceased.

More Maneuvers For Fleet Are Planned

HONOLULU, July 2 (AP)—The United States fleet will remain at Hawaiian island bases for about two weeks and then engage in more maneuvers, it was learned on good authority today.

The fleet returned Sunday after a week at sea. The ships left mainland bases for annual war games last April 1 and since have engaged in a series of training exercises in these waters.

The aircraft carrier Enterprise was expected today with 162 members of the 1940 naval academy

Abdication Of King Carol Being Hinted

BELGRADE, July 2 (AP)—A movement among extremist members of Rumania's Fascist-inclined iron guard to compell the abdication of King Carol, holding him responsible for the loss of Bessarabia and northern Bucovina to Russia, was reported today in diplomatic dispatches from Bucharest.

These dispatches said iron guard leaders who returned recently to Bucharest from exile in Rome and Berlin held the monarch personally accountable for Rumania's present plight.

Heavy Rainfall Fills Streams During Night

Best Cotton And Corn Crops For Years Menaced

(By The Associated Press)

The three-sided South Texas flood moved toward the thinly-populated coastal plains today and most of its sting seemed spent, but 250 miles northward East-Central Texas streams labored under the burdens of hard rains overnight.

East and south from Fort Worth, downpours during the night ranged up to 2.10 inches and many creeks were expected to overflow. The Trinity river at Dallas, loaded with water from the heavy June rains, was nearing its 28-foot flood stage and weathermen expected it to climb over its banks in low spots.

Ten Lives Are Claimed

The floods on the Colorado, Guadalupe and Lavaca rivers in South Texas, having exacted a toll of 10 lives and about $5,000,000 in crop and property damage, apparently had done their worst. Wharton and Bay City, the last two sizeable towns on the Colorado, awaited the flood crest but were not worried.

The Colorado continued to rise in its lower reaches and Wharton expected the crest due tonight, would remain in banks. Bay City's levees were counted on to halt any flood threats.

At victoria the Guadalupe has ceased rising at 29.2 feet. That was eight feet over flood stage and the waters fanned out over lowlands.

Crops Are Threatened

Principal concern over the advancing floods was the threat to the best cotton and corn crops in the coastal areas in 10 years. There was little farmers could do to protect their crops but they were busy getting their cattle and livestock to higher ground.

Hallettsville meanwhile struggled to succor its stricken population and repair the damage and destruction of the Lavaca river flood which struck Sunday.

Hundreds of residents were homeless and short on food and clothing. Surrounding towns and 200 CCC boys, firemen and Boy Scouts pitched in to clean up the wreck-

Widow Of Hero Gets The Victoria Cross

LONDON, July 2 (AP)—King George VI decorated with the Victoria Cross today the widow of Capt B. A. W. Warburton-Lee, who commanded the British destroyer flotilla in the first battle of Navik last April 10 when Germany invaded Norway.

Warburton-Lee ordered the attack on German-held Narvik when the admiralty put him on his own. A shell hit the bridge of his ship, the destroyer Hardy, and wounded him mortally.

American Flier In Britain Is Missing

LONDON, July 2 (AP)—Acting Flight Lieut. J. W. F. Davis, 27, a native of Bernardsville, N. J., who was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross by King George VI on June 24, was reported missing today.

Davis, who joined the British Royal Air Force in 1936, was cited for "ability as a leader of his squadron on many offensive patrols."

Royal Routine For Princess Elizabeth Is Upset By War

LONDON, July 2.—The war has upset the royal routine for initiating Princess Elizabeth to public life as heiress presumptive to Britain's throne.

Neither 14-year-old Elizabeth nor her eight-year-old sister, Margaret Rose, are seen in public these war-clouded days. Palace sources say that like England's other boys and girls they are "somewhere in the country."

Because of air raid hazards they never stay at Buckingham palace.

In seclusion they are carrying on their usual studies. There are no court functions and fewer "extras," such as dancing.

Elizabeth is said to be studying geography intently and showing keen interest in news of the war. She gave up study of German recently and started Spanish in its place.

Queen Mary, too, is living in the country.

Queen Elizabeth makes almost daily trips to hospitals, benefits and meetings of service auxiliary units.

CLOUDBURST TAKES TEN LIVES—This air view shows cloudburst-swollen territory at Halletsville, Texas, where Mayor J. G. Traxler estimated damage totaled $1,000,000. Ten persons were known dead in the flooded areas of South and Central Texas as rescue workers dug through mud-smeared banks of river homes seeking additional victims.

Uncle Sam Boasts Mightiest Navy; To Be Even Stronger

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, July 2—Official figures indicated today that the United States navy, building at top speed toward "two-ocean" strength, already has become the world's largest both in number of ships and in total tonnage.

Not counting the $500,000,000 of new warships ordered by the navy yesterday and nearly 100 other vessels under construction, Uncle Sam has 395 completed combat ships of 1,327,320 tons.

Larger Than British

Latest available figures on the British navy give its strength on June 20 as 383 ships of 1,277,189 tons.

Whether the United States or the British fleet is actually the strongest is a matter of conjecture. That depends on many factors—the age of ships, their design, and capabilities of the crews, among others.

The $500,000,000 new warship order was the biggest in navy history. It covered 11 cruisers, 20 destroyers, 13 submarines and a large seaplane tender.

The RFC's two special raw material agencies arranged to buy 140,000 tons of rubber and 75,000 tons of tin for strategic purposes. It was disclosed that the government already has acquired about $12,000,000 in vital materials, ranking from optical glass to Manila fiber.

The war department, acting to meet the needs of the expanding army, cut short the leaves of 444 recent West Point graduates. The president signed bills providing $185,500,000 for either construction or land acquisition at 25 military posts.

Hoover Orders Speed In Work Of Training New G-Men For Tough Fight Against Spies

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 2—J. Edgar Hoover—charged with spying out spies and fighting "fifth columnists"—ordered aides today to telescope the finishing process for G-men.

Concentrating the three months training course of the Federal Bureau of Investigation into a tough seven-weeks regimen, he plans to put hundreds of new agents into the field.

School To Be Moved

The new training course scheduled—one aspect of the "defense basis" on which the G-men are working now will be aided by moving the famous G-men's training school to the marine base at Quantico. There the young lawyers and accountants who join the FBI will sleep in barracks and eat in mess halls.

Hours between bed and meals will be filled with training in firearms, fingerprinting, arrest techniques, raiding and raid blocking, jiu jitsu, handling of evidence, law, public speaking and gym.

The telescoped training course for 600 new agents is only one of the steps the FBI chief has taken in re-

Four Italian U-Boats Sunk

By The Associated Press

CAIRO, July 12 — Four Italian submarines and a destroyer were reported today to have been sunk by British air forces ranging over the near east from Sicila to the Ethiopia-Kenya frontier.

The submarines were sunk in the eastern Mediterranean between June 27 and June 29 and the destroyer, the Espero, on June 27, a naval communique said. Italy yesterday acknowledged loss of the Espero, a 1,073-ton warship on the "turbine" class.

Forty-four survivors were picked up from the destroyer, it was announced, adding that "unofficially it is understood there were [illegible] survivors from the submarines who were rescued."

In London the admiralty said these four submarines brought the total of Italian submarine losses in three weeks of war to 13.

Population Of Big Cities Announced

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—New York City gained nearly half a million residents during the past decade although four of the 12 largest cities for which 1940 census preliminary figures are available declined in population and three others remained almost stationary.

The census bureau said today that New York's population appeared to be 7,380,259 compared with 6,930,446 when it was counted in 1930.

Sizable gains were shown by several other of the largest cities, including Baltimore with 854,144 compared with 804,874 ten years ago and New Orleans with 492,282 against 458,762.

These cities showed declines with [illegible] figures [illegible]

Chicago's population increased only 8,148 during the ten years to 3,384,556.

Liner Manhattan Off On Rescue Mission

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP)—The United States liner Manhattan, which has brought thousands of Americans home from Europe's war zones in the last 10 months, sailed again today on her last rescue mission.

Under government orders she headed for Lisbon, Portugal to pick up between 1,000 and 2,000 Americans gathered there from other parts of Europe. Her skipper, Capt. George V. Richardson said he expected to arrive in Lisbon Monday and to sail from there as soon as the passengers embark.

Police Judge James Degan imposed the "sentence" when Barnett, a naturalized Lithuanian, was arraigned yesterday after a tavern argument.

United States Is Warned Of Danger Ahead

Two Nominees For Cabinet Places Offer Testimony

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The Senate military committee approved today President Roosevelt's nomination of Henry L. Stimson to be secretary of war.

The vote of 14 to 3 came after Stimson had testified for two hours regarding his qualifications, and had declared that his nomination "had no relation to politics" and that he had not discussed the question of a third term with President Roosevelt.

Knox Also Testifies

Also today, Col. Frank Knox, the 1936 Republican vice presidential nominee, testified similarly with regard to the third term issue.

Chairman Walsh (D-Mass) of the Senate naval committee, said that his committee would act this afternoon on President Roosevelt's selection of Knox for secretary of the navy.

The two men testified at hearings demanded by Republicans and some Democrats who asked an expression of their views on the question whether the United States should intervene in the European war.

Urged No Military Support

At one point Knox was asked by Chairman Walsh (D-Mass) of the naval committee whether, publicly or privately, he had "urged giving military support to the Allies."

"Never," the Chicago newspaper publisher replied crisply.

"The position had absolutely no relation to politics, the president told me," Stimson said, "and I agreed with him."

"Nothing was said about a third term?" asked Senator Johnson (D-Colo).

"No," Stimson replied, "nothing has ever been said about a third term."

Knox, in answer to questions by Senator Ellender (D-La) said the president first offered him the navy post last November or December but that he declined it then. He testified that he later agreed to take it when the surrender of France increased what he called the "great danger to this nation."

No Commitments Made

Senator Ellender broke in to ask Knox if there had been any discussion of the third term?"

"I know what you're thinking about," Knox replied with a smile. "There were no commitments or provisions made on either side."

Both Ellender and Knox referred to reports that Knox had taken the

German Naval Base Bombed

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, July 2.—Germany's great naval base at Kiel and towns in northwestern Germany were attacked by British bombing planes last night, the air ministry announced today.

The ministry's communique said "many hits were scored at Kiel."

(The German high command said bombs were dropped in British raids on Kiel and northern and western Germany Monday night and five civilians killed, but only slight material damage done with seven British planes shot down and three German craft missing.)

Airdromes at Cologne and Wesel and the seaplane base at Texel in the Frisian islands also were "effectively attacked," the ministry said.

It admitted that four British planes failed to return.

Leidigh, Tech dean of the division of agriculture; Dr. Agnes True, Tech associate professor of education and psychology; Dr. D. V. Harmon of the state department of health; Dr. Walter S. Knox, visiting professor of physical education from the University of Honolulu; Mrs. George Langford of the Tech women's physical education department, and Miss Jonnie McCrery head of foods and nutrition in Tech home economics division.

Jones Will Preside

President Clifford B. Jones will preside at tonight's dinner. Music will be furnished by Dr. and Mrs. Julien Paul Blitz. Dr. D. A. Shirley of West Texas State Teachers college and president of the Association of Texas Colleges, is to discuss "The Work of the Texas Commission on Coordination in Education." President Orton will deliver an address on "Through the Liberal Arts to the Art of Living."

Dr. Popenoe who has devoted much of his time during recent years to the promotion of education for marriage and family life, listed causes of the breakup of so many marriages and cited cures for these difficulties in last night's humorous and forceful lecture. It is up to the educator to help an individual student to determine if his marriage shall be intelligent, scientific and Christian, he said.

People Don't Try

In analyzing conditions that lead to divorce Dr. Popenoe suggested "People don't try to make their marriage a successful one; or if one of them thinks it entails work, he figures it is up to the other fellow.

"Too many women don't really know what they want out of life. After marriage they wonder if they shouldn't have pursued a career or they pursue a career and sacrifice motherhood. Or if they have children, perhaps they wonder if they did right in not following a career in the first place.

People are not prepared for an intelligent marriage," suggested Dr. Popenoe. "Shortly after marriage in many instances a tension arises due to increased intimacy, independent wills clash and there is a tendency for one to assert his individuality. Sometimes one or the other discovers he has a greater number of things to agree on than he dreamed of during the hazy days of the engagement. Often a partner fails to measure up to the predestined role given him by his mate.

Glamor Does It

"The passing of glamour causes many marriages to break up," says Dr. Popenoe. But glamor, as he defined it, is "such superficial love often the contents of the package are overlooked by its outer beauty, whereas the package and contents should harmonize." He defined glamorous love as being contained in a romantic platform of six planks, namely:

"Love is a mysterious visitation, coming out of the nowhere.

"It is so important you are justified in giving up everything in the world for it; a woman her husband, a husband his wife, a king his throne.

"Another love may come along and take its place without warning.

"It may go as suddenly as it came.

"Each love is as wonderful as the one that preceded it."

Most Will Work

And finally, "You were not in love except in a superficial manner, in love with your self and your ego."

Education for marriage will prepare one to meet matrimony with emotional maturity, said the speaker. He will recognize and truthfully consider his mate's mutual dependence. He will know that one may meet problems with frankness that does not border on brutality. He will realize that marriage is not something to be treated lightly not taken as a joke but instead as the most serious thing in life and to know that marriage is what you make it.

The large part of the population of the United States is successful in marriage, Dr. Popenoe pointed out in citing statistics in closing his lecture. Most any combination will work in a marriage, he said. The important thing is to discover the combination and deal with it accordingly.

United States Could Throw Less Than 450 Planes Into Battle Now

Big Job Said Facing Nation

(The special news service of the Associated Press has sent its aviation editor on a tour of the leading plane manufacturing plants. His stories, each self-contained, will analyze the job the nation is facing in building our air defense. The first follows).

BY DEVON FRANCIS
Associated Press Aviation Editor

SEATTLE, Wash., July 2 — If this country were to be drawn into war tomorrow, the army air corps would have fewer than 450 combat planes for the defense of continental United States.

It would have less than 1,300 for the defense of the western hemisphere and the Philippines.

Last year, American aircraft factories turned out less than 2,000 military planes, including such noncombat types as trainers and personnel transports. The world's leading air power, Germany, is reported to have a current productivity of from 36,000 to 48,000 planes a year.

Could Not Answer Plea

The state of America's air defense establishment and its low factory production, at the moment, constitutes one of the reasons why we could not respond to French Premier Reynaud's eleventh-hour plea for "clouds" of planes.

We do have several thousand military airplanes in our armed forces, but 80 per cent of them would be useless in wartime. Many are trainers. Many are obsolete.

During the war games on the Texas-Louisiana border last month a hurry-up call was dispatched from Langley field, Va., from which operators of the general headquarters air force are directed, for a concentration of all its flyable combat planes at Barksdale field, Shreveport, within 24 hours.

Less Than 450

A total of 221 planes showed up, including 26 of our 50-odd 4-motor, long-range heavy bombers. The rest were in the shop for overhaul. In all, the GHQ has less than 450 combat planes.

The navy's air arm must be considered separately because its operations are associated intimately with the movements of the fleet.

The navy's air power, too, has been at a low ebb. Senator Byrd, of Virginia, said on May 24 that on the basis of figures submitted to the Senate naval committee by Rear Admiral John H. Towners, chief of naval aeronautics, only 50 combat aircraft were attached to the fleet.

Whether the state of our air defenses is critical or not depends on (1) the importance the United States attaches to air power in relation to sea power and the strength of its ground army, (2) our proximity to war, (3) the rate at which warplane productivity can be stepped up, (4) the rate at which pilots can be trained, (5) the continued availability of many raw materials, including bauxite for aluminum, and (6) government procurement policies.

Germany's warplane production is estimated by John M. Jouett, president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, trade association, at 3,000 machines a month and by Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, at 4,000 a month, with a prospect of 6,000 a month by mid-September.

To Be Stepped Up

Jouett estimates American production in 1941 at 15,000 to 20,000 planes on an annual basis. Johnson says the aircraft industry is geared now to turn out 15,000 a year, and will be stepped up without emergency means to 25,000 by January.

Meantime the major aircraft engine factories are not expected to reach a production of 25,000 units of 1,000 horsepower each until next March, and the armed services — with an admitted paucity of pilots — are girding themselves to turn out 16,000-odd fliers a year.

Henry Ford has said that, within six months he can produce 1,000 planes a day if the government does not demand design changes after production begins. In the history of government procurement in peacetime, no warplanes ever have been manufactured without changes in design during production.

The United States maintains 250 refugees for all forms of wild life.

GAIL TO GET LIGHTS

LAMESA — Gail, pioneer South Plains town and county seat of Borden county, will have electric lights at last. The town will be served by the Rural Electric administration through the Lyntegar Electric Cooperative, it is announced here. High lines have been completed into the town.

LADY BIRDS FLOCK TOGETHER FOR U. S. DEFENSE—At a recent New York rally, the Women Flyers of America, Inc., announced plans to train women as pilots to replace men who may be called from civilian aviation for national defense. At the meeting, Hilda Burke, Metropolitan opera star, was inducted into the organization. Above, famed aviatrix Ruth Raviland (dark dress) presents a helmet to the singer. Looking on are, left to right: Mary Steele, Dianne Wyman, Jan Novak and Peggy Healey.

BUILDING ABOUT READY

SPUR — Spur's new, $40,000 high school building, in which Work Projects administration is participating, is reported 80 per cent completed. Work will be done by July 20. O. C. Thomas, superintendent, estimates.

New Federal Taxes Being Predicted

DALLAS, July 2 (AP) — Congressman Hatton W. Sumners, chairman of the House judiciary committee, came home to Dallas today for a couple of speeches and a round of visiting with the home folks.

The little congressman predicted a general sales tax and lots of other new and heavier federal taxes are just around the corner.

So far as the international situation is concerned, Sumners declared:

"We ought to prepare for any emergency and work with all diligence to this end and in the meantime do mighty little talking."

Sumners thinks Congress should stay in session.

"This is no time for congress to adjourn," he said. "And I don't think it will."

After Dallas speeches Thursday and Friday, he plans to return to Washington.

Brides-Elect Hold Early July Spotlight; Misses Chappel, Norman Honored

Mrs. Alderson Gives Coffee

Miss Linda Chappell and Miss Virginia Norman, brides-elect, are being honored with a series of parties. Miss Chappell arrived Saturday from Dallas to spend a few days. Her marriage to Eugene Alderson is to take place this month. Miss Norman is to marry David Humphries.

Mrs. W. H. Chappell, 2516 Twenty-first street, was hostess at a bridge party and shower to honor Miss Chappell at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon. A salad course was served.

The courtesy, which was a surprise to the honoree, was carried out in pink and white appointments.

Guests were Mrs. Tom Simmons, jr., Misses Doris Peavy, Sara Davis, Cora Jean Watson, Vivian Wharton, Helen Jarrott, Dorothy Kelly, Billye Levens, Jane Prickett, Marie Barnard, Etoile McLeod, Joyce Jones, Mary Beth Tomlinson, Doris Minor and the honoree, Miss Chappell's two sisters from Dallas, Mrs. Woodrow Toone and Mrs. D. N. Conner, were special guests.

Mrs. W. G. Alderson and Miss Arnette Halsey called during the tea hour.

Coffee Is Given

Mrs. Alderson entertained with a coffee at her residence, 2222 Seventeenth street, this morning from 9 to 11 o'clock as a courtesy to Miss Chappell. Approximately 125 guests called.

Miss Chappell will remain in Lubbock until the last of the week. The wedding is to be July 14 in Dallas.

Misses Mildred Mitchell, Freddie Marie Worley and Dorothy Allen were hostesses at a kitchen shower for Miss Norman, Monday night at 7 o'clock at the Allen residence, 2124 Seventeenth street.

Favors were rolling pins. The blue and white color theme was used in flowers and refreshments. The honoree was presented with gifts.

Guests were Misses Betty Nash, Marguerite Harris, Willouise Humphries, Mary June Walter, Pauline Barrier, Lois Marie Daniel, Reed Humphries, Betty Jo Savage, Ferreline Tucker, Arnette Halsey, Mary Gaither, Mary Louise Tinkler, Mary Louise Walker, Polly Peters of Longview, Mesdames W. E. Humphries, Harold Humphries, H. H. Humphries, Winfred Stout, Reginald Jordan and James Huffman.

Regular studies were conducted at meetings of women's missionary societies Monday afternoon.

Families Hold Reunion At Park Here Sunday

The Kinnison and McNeely families attended a reunion at Mackenzie State park Sunday. A basket lunch was served. The last Sunday in June was decided as an annual reunion time.

Those attending were Messrs. and Mesdames J. S. McNeely, O. B. McNeely and children, Marjorie Ruth and Don Clyde Sessom, R. R. Sessom and Mrs. Vannie Williams of Ralls; Messrs. and Mesdames Hollin Kinnison and children, Sonny and Guy, Reuben Price and children, Buddy and Alva Mac, Ernest Waldrop and children, James and Bobby Dee, J. W. Paulk, Mrs. Delia Kinnison, Miss Nila Pounds and O. A. Kinnison, all of Lamesa; Messrs. and Mesdames J. E. Reid and children Ernest, Lee and Willa Jeane, Claude Williams and children, Evelyn, Earl and Thomas Ray; Misses Corrine Brown, Frances Koonce and Mr. Bob Hamrick, all of Lubbock; Miss Amelia Joyce Freio of Tatum, N. M.; Jimmy Eoff of Roswell, N. M.; Vernon Lincoln of Brownfield.

Coffee Is Courtesy For Mrs. Calvin Hazlewood

Honoring Mrs. Calvin Hazlewood who is moving to Corpus Christi soon, Mesdames Jennings T. Lewis, John C. Gray and J. Doyle Settle entertained with a coffee and shower this morning at the Settle home, 2011 Twenty-ninth street.

Attending were Mesdames Mary Lovell, E. L. Pitts, Lonnie Langston, K. D. Leftwich, George Walton, James G. Allen, A. V. Bullock, Ralph Douglas, E. R. Trego, W. Temple Lewis and Misses Julia Wilbanks and Laura Hard. Those sending gifts were Mrs. I. T. Wilson, Mrs. Frank Haden, Miss Margaret W. Weeks, Miss Mabel D. Erwin, Mrs. Wilmot Eaton and Mrs. M. V. Gray.

Good care of paint brushes after each using will enable one to use the same brush for many paint jobs. Wash the brush in turpentine to remove all paint, then wash it thoroughly in warm water and soap suds. Rinse in warm water, dry and then wrap in paper.

BAROQUE SCROLLS ACCENT—The dark blue suit for the bride's mother is a two-piece with three baroque scrolls on each side of the jacket and a corn with a white pique blouse.

Moore-Willard Wedding Is Read In Lubbock Monday

The marriage of Miss Cleo a Willard and George D. Moore, both of Ralls, took place Monday night at 8:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sherrod, 3009 Nineteenth street. Elder Lill Sanders officiated. The bride and Mrs. Sherrod are sisters.

The bride entered with a Miss Mary Tolbert who was matron of honor. She carried a bouquet which were entwined with fern and stood with Mr. Moore before the mantle which was decorated with peonies and fern and lighted with 14 candles.

The bride wore a street length white chiffon dress and white hat. Her corsage was of gardenias. For something borrow'd she wore a strand of pearls and something old was a ring that was 75 years old.

Mrs. Tolbert wore a blue lace dress and little Elaine Sherrod, daughter of the couple's sister, the bearer, wore a green organdy frock. She carried the ring in a lily.

Link Tidwell served as best man.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Mary A. Ware played piano selections and accompanied Mrs. Carl Scoggin as she sang "I Love You Truly." She played "Because" as the vows were read and offered the traditional wedding marche.

A reception was held after the wedding and wedding cake was cut and served with punch. Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Ralls of Ralls presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Tolbert cut the cake. Ralls people were included in the list of 30 guests.

Heat clothes pin in a moderate oven before hanging clothes on a very cold day. This helps keep the hands warm.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Elliott of 1630 Seventh street have had as their guests Mr. Elliott's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Gaines of Vernon, his sister, Mrs. Helen Gordon, Chicago, and Mr. Bill Calahan and son, Jack, of Lincoln, Neb., a nephew, L. P. Gaines and a niece, Willa Mae Gaines of Ross, Okla.

Mrs. Lewis Crowder and Miss Valla Foster have gone to San Antonio, Del Rio and Eagle Pass to spend the week.

Private Raby Padgett, 16th bombardment squadron of Barksdale Field, near Shreveport, La., has been the guest of his aunts, Mesdames Frank M. Maddox and O. F. Sensabaugh.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Wheelock have as their guests Mrs. Wheelock's mother, Mrs. Mattie Montgomery, their daughter, Mrs. Sterling Jones, and daughter, Linda, of Pasadena, Calif., and Mrs. Wheelock's brother, Robert Montgomery, and Mrs. Montgomery of San Diego. Another brother, W. H. Montgomery, and family left today for their home in Pasadena, accompanied by Miss Joyce Wheelock.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of flushing excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These may cause nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Church Groups Have Studies

The song, "America," opened a meeting of Asbury Methodist W.M.S. at the church. A prayer was led and Miss Floyce Mann sang a solo, "Open My Eyes That I May See."

Mrs. Walter F. Knox of Honolulu talked on the customs of that country.

Preceding the W.M.S. meeting the Suzanna Wesley circle met and presented Mrs. R. E. Ellison with a miscellaneous shower. Punch and cakes were served.

Approximately 30 members attended the general meeting.

Report Is Heard

Fifty members attended the First Methodist Women's Division of Christian Service meeting at 4 o'clock. Mrs. Ewald Lamprecht presided for a business meeting. Mrs. F. M. Maddox, connectional secretary, reported that the society had paid the pledge for the quarter.

Mrs. E. L. Butler sang a solo and Mrs. Fred Adkins directed a Bible lesson on a book, "Jesus And Social Redemption." This was the first lesson in the book. Mrs. L. N. Lipscomb and Mrs. A. G. Odom read scriptures. Mrs. O. B. Trinkle sang a song and the group sang several songs in keeping with the scriptures read.

Two circles of the College Avenue Baptist W.M.S. met as follows: Elkin Lockett was entertained at the home of Mrs. H. E. Goeth, 1920 Sixth street for a program on home missions. Those present were Mesdames J. F. Ricketts, A. V. Womack, J. C. Pharr, Lloyd Ricketts, Goeth and Miss Henrietta Smith.

The Louella Beddoe circle met with Mrs. A. J. Richardson, 2418 Ninth street. Those attending were Mesdames R. C. Middleton, A. S. Jackson, A. F. White, G. E. Lowe and J. H. Milliken.

The Central Baptist W.M.S. met at the church. Mrs. G. F. Holmes sang a song and Mrs. H. A. Harvey led a prayer.

Mrs. Jeff Welch taught a lesson on, "The Believer In Jesus Christ." Mrs. J. C. Sledge presided for a business meeting. Sixteen members and four visitors were present. Mrs. Fred Blake dismissed the meeting.

Arnett-Benson Bible study met at the chapel for a lesson taught by Rev. C. J. McCarty, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church.

Those present were Mesdames H. H. Gore, Oran Mauldin, L. Vannoy, Floyd Tapp, C. B. Pendley, Carol Pendley, I. T. Weed, A. R. Pendley, O. C. Higgins, C. O. White, Bryan Landers, E. M. Lowe of Littlefield and a Mrs. Nobles.

Circle meetings were held by the First Baptist W.M.S. as follows: Lilly Hundley met at the activities center for a mission study lesson taught by Mrs. E. F. Williams. Eight members and one new member were present.

Blanche Rose Walker circle met at the home of Mrs. J. K. Miller with 12 members and one new member, Mrs. S. K. Bynum, present. Mrs. Miller taught the lesson.

House Warming Is Held To Honor L. Fedricks

A house warming was given recently for Mr. and Mrs. Leon Fedrick who have moved to a new residence at 2602 Twenty-sixth street. Mrs. C. C. Campbell and Desele Feorica entertained. Wanda Campbell and Barbara Fedrick served. They wore white evening dresses.

Cake and ice cream were served to approximately 30 guests. The honorees were presented with gifts.

Medical Society To Hold Meet Tonight

The Lubbock-Crosby County Medical society will hold its regular meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at the Hilton hotel instead of 7:30 as previously announced. Announcement that the meeting was to be a dinner also was in error, Dr. Pauline Miller said today.

Principal speaker will be Dr. W. J. Baugh, jr., former employe of the state board of health, who is to talk on the city water supply.

Here is a new tip for beet cooking. Put 1-4 teaspoon each of cinnamon, clove and nutmeg into each quart of cooking water. The flavors mix wonderfully and no one spice flavor stands out.

OPEN SPACES around the house are getting a lot of attention this summer. This trend toward a nook in the sun isn't new. But this season it's so strong that even the contemporary American industrial art show at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, has four outdoor living rooms in the group of 14 display rooms. Here is craft gone modern in Russel Wright's outdoor living room which stresses natural texture and structural form in the chairs of bark-covered hickory saplings designed with interlaced strips of chickory.

American Reporter Tells Story Of Battle For A Fort In Deser

British Attack Is Described

EDITOR'S NOTE: Jan Yindrich, of the United Press war staff, has obtained the first eye-witness story of fighting a'ong the Egyptian-Libyan frontier between British and Italian colonial forces.

BY JAN YINDRICH
United Press Staff Correspondent

FACING FORT CAPUZZO, On The Libyan Frontier, June 29 — Standing high on a rock and slate covered Libyan desert plateau I watched this afternoon the beginning of a battle for Fort Capuzzo, a white battlemented Italian desert stronghold identical with that which millions of people have seen in movies of the French foreign legion like "Beau Geste."

But here tanks, armored cars and airplanes were used for transport instead of horses, camels and burning human feet.

Watched Tanks Close In

At my observation post five miles from the fort, and four miles inside Libya, I watched through my binoculars the British tanks and armored cars close in slowly under a sun which blazed from a cobalt sky, firing furiously with their machine guns and weaving to avoid shells from the Italian batteries.

I had traveled more than 600 miles over the desert by truck, first American reporter to see this theater of the war. I had been promised a visit to the fort itself, for the British had taken it June 14, looted it, blown up its ammunition, and abandoned it for better defense positions nearby. But the Italians had come in force the night before and occupied it.

Headquarters Disappear

This I learned at lunch today — canned sausage and potatoes — at British field headquarters. While we were still at lunch, the entire field headquarters disappeared within 10 minutes, trucks, tanks, radio equipment, everything, leaving no trace on the vast stone-strewn desert plateau. I went on to the new headquarters, a better point for direction of operations, and then came on here.

Punctually at 6 p. m., British field guns started shelling the fort and the Italian batteries around it. I saw clouds of smoke go up as shells crashed into the Italian gun positions. Then two shells struck a corner of the fort. Clouds of smoke and dust rose. When they cleared, I saw a great gap in the fort's outer wall.

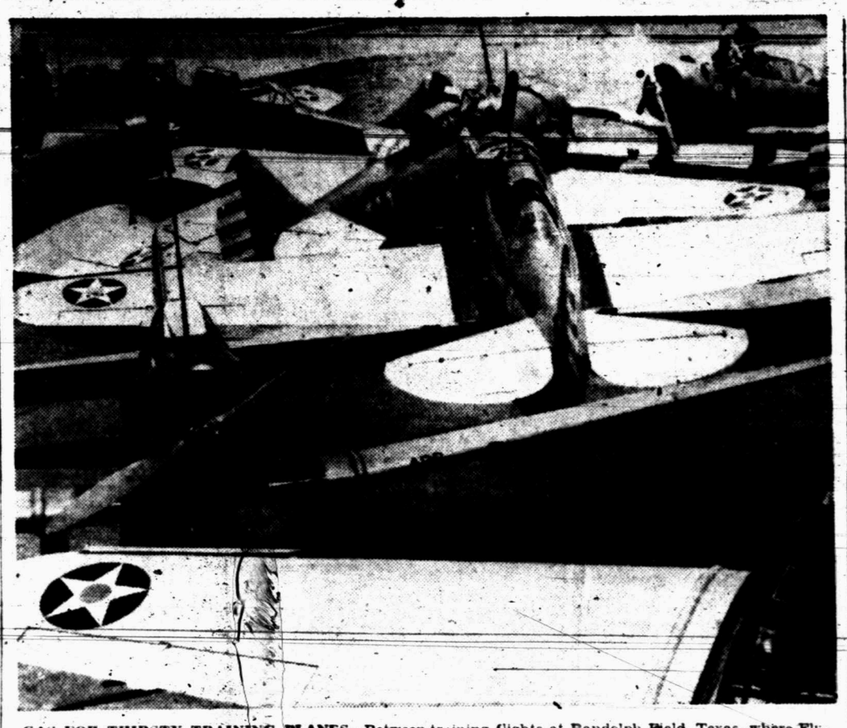

The batteries pounded away without attracting the fire of the Italian guns. The Italian artillerymen busied themselves with the concentric rings of British tanks and armored cars which slowly pushed up to surround the fort, cutting the road of communication to the Italian air field at Sidi Aziz and to the Italian base at Bardia.

Four Italian batteries to the left of the fort fired at the tanks and armored cars for an hour and a half but I saw only one hit.

Fighter Planes Appear

At 6:10 p. m., five British fighter planes appeared and circled overhead, to protect their field guns from bombing by Italian planes. But no Italian planes appeared. I was told later that Royal Air Force fighter planes had shot down two Italian fighters over Sidi Aziz, 10 miles to the northwest. These planes, apparently had been on the way to bomb the British batteries and machine gun the tanks and armored cars.

When I had to leave at 7:30, the sun, now blood red, was disappearing slowly over the horizon and the British tanks were awaiting its setting, and the sudden fall of the desert night, to rush the fort. Later I learned that they had met a stiff resistance and that the battle continued into the night.

GAS FOR THIRSTY TRAINING PLANES—Between training flights at Randolph Field, Texas, where Flying Cadets of the Army Air Corps receive their basic flight training, time is taken to fill up the gas tanks of the thirsty planes. With the end of the fiscal year on June 30, a new record of a fifth of a million flying hours will be set at the West Point of the Air" for the twelve month period.

East Texas State Teachers college was founded at Cooper in 1889, but removed subsequently to its present site, Commerce.

A collection of 14,000 ferns presented to the British Museum is said to be the most important private collection in the world.

Gold Shirt Leader Said Near Death

EL PASO, July 2 (U.P.)—Gen. Nicolas Rodriguez, 45-year-old head of the Mexican Gold Shirts, was reported in a critical condition at the home of a friend here today.

Physicians said that he was suffering from pernicious anemia and they held little hope for his recovery. He has been ill for several weeks, they said.

By mounting the two engines at the rear of the lane and using pusher propellers, additional space for armaments and crew is provided in a new U. S. army plane.

Three Boys And Girl Are Held For The Slaying Of Their Father

SHOSHONE, Idaho, July 2. (AP)—Three boys and a girl who were quoted as saying "we didn't intend to kill him—we just wanted to give him some of the same thing he was giving us" were charged with murder today for the exposure slaying of their father.

Sheriff G. M. Brown signed the murder complaint, naming the four as slayers of Charles Sanders, 48, retired storekeeper at the ghost town of Yale, Idaho.

Tell All About It

Brown said the sons, George, 16, and Joseph, 20, their sister Florence, 18, and her husband, Chester Phillips, 22, were questioned long hours before they finally told the officers all about it."

The sheriff said the four accused Sanders of "mistreating" them.

About June 21 the four children went to their father's house and told him they wanted to take him for a ride, Brown said. They enticed Sanders into the rumble seat of an automobile, then slammed down the top and drove off across the desert.

Body Is Found

They dumped him out and the sheriff quoted Phillips: "We tied him up so he wouldn't come back."

Sanders' body, showing signs of a terrific struggle was found Saturday. Dr F. H. Howard, Lincoln county corner, said the man might have lived "four or five days" after being left on the desert.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, July 2 (AP)—Purchases by houses with northwest connections and relative strength of the Minneapolis market reversed the easy opening trend of the Chicago grain futures market today. While trading was light the closing tone of the market was firm.

The rally appeared to reflect unfavorable crop conditions in the northwest spring wheat territory where moisture is needed.

Wheat closed fairly higher than yesterday's final prices, July 75¼, September 75¾, corn was ¼-1 cent lower, July 60-½, September 57¾, oats up to ¼ cent, rye up ½-¾ and lard 5 to 7½ cents higher.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, July 2 (AP)—Fair demand for grain continued at Fort Worth Tuesday.

Wheat, No 1 soft red winter 82¾-83¼, No 1 hard 80¾-81¼.

Corn, shelled, No 2 white 87-87½, No 2 yellow 86-86½.

Oats, No 2 red 36-37, No 3 red 35-36.

This Is Story Of An American Boy And Rags, A Dog

(By The Associated Press)

QUINCY, Mass., July 2 — This is the story of an American boy and his dog.

The boy is Albert Marks, 13, who loves Rags, a tousled mongrel, very much. The dog catcher almost got Rags last week but Albert pleaded for seven days in which to raise the money for a license. The week was up yesterday but Albert still didn't have the money.

Refused To Give Up

But he refused to give up. He went to Mayor Thomas S. Burgin's office with Rags, sidled past the secretarial staff and put the case directly to the mayor. His honor offered to pay the license himself.

No, said Albert, he wanted to earn the money himself. The mayor grappled with the problem and finally solved it by calling the dog catcher, who summoned Albert to the pound, where he swept up, cleaned out pens. When he got back to city hall, Mayor Burgin assembled the entire city hall staff and presented Albert with a 1940 license for Rags, who is a pretty lucky dog.

HALF-HEARTED GESTURES

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP) — Stocks made half-hearted recovery gestures in today's market but most failed to climb out of an extremely narrow area.

The list lagged at the opening, then revived with a brief show of activity when steels, motors, aircrafts and shipbuilding issues edged forward. Sluggishness soon returned and extreme gains running to a point or so were cut or eliminated. Prices were slightly mixed at the close.

While the ticker tape frequently dozed, transfers managed to top yesterday's second smallest session in 18 years. The turnover was around 325,000 shares.

Traders found scant inspiration in either foreign or domestic developments and most either stood aside or kept commitments light in view of the independence holiday recess Thursday.

Steels still were high for a bulge in industry when big rearmament spending gets under way, but these were offset, brokers said, by the confusion European war scene, threats of a Japanese-British flareup at Hongkong and fears that an enforced peace overseas might go a long way toward hamstringing American economy.

Shipping shares again were aided by the latest naval warship contracts.

Films Of Wildlife In Texas Displayed

Fred D. Thompson of Austin, member of the educational division of the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster commission, exhibited motion pictures of wildlife in Texas at the luncheon program of the Lubbock Optimist club today noon at Lubbock hotel.

The interest being so great in the pictures, the showing was extended nearly an hour past the club's usual adjournment time. Mrs. Thompson operated the machine while Thompson talked at intervals on how the pictures were made. Charles E. Friley, jr., representative of the commission in this area, had charge of the program.

An astounding amount of wild game, birds, etc., was shown in the films.

In an election by the club, Roche Newton was named chief pessimist and B. L. Manire, his assistant.

Conservation Office Opens At Brownfield

BROWNFIELD, July 2 (Special)—Chamber of commerce officials have announced opening of a soil conservation service office here.

May 25, a soil conservation district was voted, consisting of Terry, Yoakum and Cochran counties.

B. W. Carmichael, J. H. Alldredge and E. R. Steen will move here from Lamesa to compose office personnel. Carmichael will be in charge.

Senate Group For Stimson

cabinet appointment with the understanding that President Roosevelt would not seek a third term.

Knox said he told Mr. Roosevelt when the cabinet post was first offered to him that he thought it would be "unwise" to accept then but added, "I told him that I would be willing to do anything in an hour of danger, from carrying a gun on up."

Danger Said Great

With the fall of France, Knox said, he believed the resulting "danger to this country so great that partisanship should be subordinated."

At one point Walsh asked him, "have you discussed your views as to the navy with the president, and are they in accord with those of the president?"

"They are," Knox responded.

Stimson set forth his position on the war in a prepared statement which he read slowly, occasionally nodding his head emphatically to stress a point.

At the committee table as he read were three senators who unsuccessfully sought the Republican presidential nomination at last week's convention—Bridges of New Hampshire, Vandenberg of Michigan and Taft of Ohio. Taft entered late and had difficulty finding a seat.

Spoke Only As Citizen

When he finished reading Stimson told the committee that while he had been called a "war monger" and "interventionist" by some because of statements he had made in private life, he had been speaking as a private citizen only.

"Everything I have said or advocated has been said in the interest of the United States alone," he declared.

Senator Minton (D-Ind) asked, "do you think the defense of this country requires intervention in the war in Europe?"

"I don't think so today," Stimson replied; "I think, however, it all depends on what you mean by intervention."

"Do you think we should send troops to Europe?" Minton then inquired.

"I don't today," Stimson said. "I don't think we could land troops in Europe."

No Troops To Send

"Also," Minton said, "we have no troops to send."

Knox told the naval group that he was one of those who "refused to believe we will actively participate in the European war to the extent of sending an army overseas."

Stimson testified that "no one wishes to send American troops beyond our borders unless the protection of this United States makes such action necessary."

The nation, he said, faces a situation today "much more critical" than at the beginning of the European war last autumn "and the time which can be saved by the existence of British sea power" he described as "much more previous" now.

Both men appeared at open sessions of the committees.

Excerpts Are Read

Knox read to the naval committee excerpts from a speech he made before the Cleveland, Ohio, Chamber of Commerce last October 24.

"I am one of those who refuse to believe we will actively participate in this new war—certainly not to the extent of sending an army overseas," he read. "And if we do not do that, all these trumped up fears of a war-time dictatorship and the destruction of both our democratic institutions and our free, enterprise economy are fantastically unreal."

Knox advocated creation of the strongest navy in the world and stated that the United States "must keep out of war."

"There is no war party in the United States," he declared.

Stimson, who was Secretary of State in the Hoover administration and Secretary of War under President Taft, told the military group that "we are faced with an unprecedented peril."

Training Recommended

He recommended compulsory military training as one means of bolstering the nation's defenses. He continued:

"Today, the time which we will have for our rearmament is very largely dependent upon the continuance of Great Britain's control of the North Atlantic.

"Under these conditions any assistance which we can safely give towards the continuance of that sea power in the North Atlantic is a step most important to our own interest in preparation."

The 72-year-old witness said that "the situation today is much more critical than it was last autumn when Congress repealed the arms embargo and the time which can be saved by the existence of British sea power much more precious."

The United States, Stimson said, has no desire for aggression and "no one wishes to send American troops beyond our borders unless the protection of this United States itself makes such action necessary."

Will Not Be Safe

"On the other hand," he declared, "I do not believe that the United States can be safely protected by a purely passive or defensive defense. I do not believe that we shall be safe from invasion if we sit down and wait for the enemy to attack our shores.

"The increased range of modern weapons, Stimson testified "has made it necessary to continually increase the distance which must intervene between our shores and a possible enemy."

Therefore, he said, the nation's line of defense now embraces Puerto Rico, Bermuda, Newfoundland and northeastern Canada "because it is now recognized that if a powerful enemy secured a base at any one of these places it could launch a devastating air attack upon our eastern seaboard."

"At the present moment," Stimson continued, "this line of our defense is critically affected by the fact that all of these places except Puerto Rico are involved in the present war and may be subjected to the hazard of a victory by the German dictator."

Swashbuckling Hero Of Films Declares Danger From Fifth Columnists Terribly Near

(By The Associated Press)

MEXICO CITY, July 2 — Errol Flynn, swashbuckling hero of many glamorous-adventure films, today asserted at the conclusion of a trip to South and Central America that there are powerful influences working against the interest of the United States and the Americas as a whole."

The movie actor, who planned to be in Mexico a week, told newspapermen upon his arrival by plane from Guatemala yesterday:

Danger Terribly Near

"I made it my business to investigate fifth column activities in all the countries I visited during this tour and am completely aware of the fact that the danger for America is terribly near.

"As I see it, Pan Americanism is the way out and Mexico has taken a strong, firm stand in this matter."

Boosters Pay Visit To City

"Whooping it up" for their fifteenth anniversary celebration and rodeo, July 4, 5 and 6, approximately 200 citizens of Levelland traveling in 50 automobiles made a brief visit in Lubbock this morning shortly before 10 o'clock. They were accompanied by the Pep community band, a string band, square dancers and rodeo clown.

Mayor Ray Ross of Levelland headed the delegation which staged a fifteen-minute program just east of Lubbock hotel. The program was broadcast over KFYO. Bill Sewell, cashier of the First National bank at Levelland, was master of ceremonies. Brief talks were given by J. A. Ellis, Hockley county judge, and A. R. Allison, state representative. E. K. Hufstedler, who is to head the Lubbock delegation to the celebration Thursday, extended a welcome to the group.

Visit Other Towns

Sam Bailey and his singing, go-devil" was a feature of the broadcast and later Bailey played for a street square dance by a group of Levelland residents. Bert Wade called for the dance.

Leaving Lubbock, the boosters went to Brownfield and were scheduled to visit Seagraves, Seminole, Denver City, Hobbs, N. M., Lovington and Tatum before returning to Levelland tonight. The trip is under the sponsorship of the Levelland Lions club which is also sponsoring the celebration and rodeo.

A. F. Holt Represents Lubbock At Meeting

A. F. Holt, chairman of the city aviation committee, plans to represent Lubbock at a meeting of the state aviation advisory committee, of which he is a member, in Waco Monday, according to information given at the chamber of commerce this morning.

Holt will represent both the city and the chamber of commerce aviation committee, of which he also is a member.

Information to officials here said that final action is expected at the Waco meeting on the broad program of airport development in Texas as recommended by Major E. M. Haight, planning engineer of the board. Expectation is, announcements here said, that the approved report will be submitted to the governor for transmission by him to the civil aeronautics authority.

The importance of the meeting to Lubbock, it was explained, is that the final report may include recommendations affecting the local Municipal airport and may prove another important step toward securing federal appropriations for needed improvements.

Three Billion Deficit Shown In Past Year

WASHINGTON, July 2. (AP)—The United States wound up the fiscal year which ended June 30 with a net deficit of exactly $3,612,065,036.71.

The figure, announced today by the treasury, excludes money spent to retire debts.

The government took in a total of $5,924,836,402.76 during the year and spent $9,866,085,539.47.

Crash Victim Sent To Waco

Body of Douglas H. Freeman, 23, fatally injured early Monday afternoon when his airplane fell near Lubbock, was sent overland this morning to Waco for burial.

Fielding Clayton, 21, of Fort Worth, who suffered internal injuries, a broken left foot, a fractured right rib and numerous lacerations, was flown early this afternoon to Fort Worth.

His father, Dr. Charles F. Clayton of Fort Worth, and his mother flew with their son in a Lockheed ambulance plane piloted by Ed Ritchey, widely-known all-weather pilot who has his own flying service in Fort Worth.

Dies Monday Night

Freeman died at 8:45 o'clock Monday night of a basal skull fracture. He had numerous other injuries, said surgeons at West Texas hospital where the two young men were taken.

The crash was four miles east of Municipal airport at a time when there were numerous whirlwinds. The plane fell nose first approximately 200 feet, said witnesses. It was not known who was flying, despite the fact it was believed Freeman was at the controls.

Fort Worth dispatches said Clayton was an "excellent pilot."

Funeral arrangements for Freeman, district representative of a Houston sales company, had not been announced in Lubbock. His mother, Mrs. Jennie Freeman, lives in Waco.

Britain Is Accused

The sensational pro-German and pro-Italian newspaper Curuntul in a leading editorial accused Britain of encouraging a Russian invasion of Rumania as a means of destroying Rumania's oil wells and thereby cutting an important source of supply to Germany.

There was a growing tendency to believe, in diplomatic quarters, that Rumania might agree to discuss with Hungary and Bulgaria the Transylvanian and Dobrudja territorial disputes. King Carol was reported to be studying already, with his ministers, the details of Rumania's "new orientation of foreign policy" announced yesterday along with the renunciation of Britain's pledge of support.

Four Safety Rules For Fourth Offered

CHICAGO, July 2. (UP)—The National Safety Council today offered four rules for remaining alive and healthy on the Fourth of July:

1. Don't use fireworks.
2. Take it easy on the road. Start in time, don't speed, and don't pass on hills and curves.
3. Don't overdo in exercise, eating, or exposure to sun.
4. If you swim, don't go in alone or when overheated, wait an hour after eating, know the depth of water, and don't show off.

Cops Are Ordered To Quit Shooting Paper Wads In Courtroom

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 2 (UP)—Kansas City cops have got to quit acting like adolescents, at least while they are attending sessions of the municipal court.

Chief L. B. Reed today ordered the police to quit shooting paper wads, to cut out the horseplay and stop acting like school boys.

"Court decorum must be maintained," Reed said.

Clerks to Arrive—Two more clerks for the district U. S. army recruiting office here were to arrive from Fort Bliss this afternoon said Lieut. George T. Coleman, officer in charge. They are to bring office equipment with them. In four days last week 85 men were enlisted for a total of 182 for the month.

Barbecue Held—A barbecue and conference for hunters of this section, attended by approximately 65, was held Sunday on the L-7 ranch south of Crosbyton, said J. E. Barker of the U. S. biological survey. It will be an annual affair, he added. J. M. Hill, jr., of San Antonio, with the survey, spoke as did several others.

Club Team Practices—Four 4-H club boys who are on the county dairy judging team, spent Monday at Canyon visiting dairy herds and practiced judging of stock, said Monroe U. May, assistant farm agent and coach. They were, Lewis Countess, James Potts, Eugene Perkins and J. R. Snodgrass. The boys compete Saturday at College Station. They visited Tierra Blanca farms near Tulia and H. B. Hales & Sons farms south of Amarillo.

Man is Sentenced—J. M. Sparkman, who entered a plea of guilty to a charge of liquor law violation filed in county court, was sentenced to five days in jail and costs of the case. Three other cases were filed by officers of the state liquor control board at the same time.

Lions Have Music—Music by a wind-wood quintet from the summer session band school at Texas Technological college featured a noon luncheon of Lions club at Hilton hotel. esse Leach and Leo Bell were co-chairmen.

Governors Meet—Plans for improvement of the club's score board at Texas Technological college stadium and for an attendance contest were discussed by the board of governors of American Business club at a luncheon today in Hilton hotel. Bob Gee, president, was in charge in the absence of Chairman J. E. Maisen.

Pender to Crosbyton—H. C. Pender, of Texas Technological college faculty, is to speak tonight at a barbecue in Crosbyton, sponsored by the American Legion post there. Hugh Nation of Crosbyton, is in charge of arrangements.

Luce to Los Angeles—C. E. Luce, deputy U. S. marshal, left this afternoon with James Alvie Skaggs, arrested at Seagraves June 13 on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for murder in California. Skaggs will be turned over to the U. S. marshal at Los Angeles. His was the first arrest in this section under the federal anti-flight law.

Three Cases Filed—Three compensation cases have been filed in U. S. district court under the workmen's compensation act. J. J. Kennamer seeks compensation from Associated Indemnity Co., for an accident which occurred in Yoakum county April 6, 1940; James K. Beck sued for injuries received June 20, 1939 against the same company and H. H. Dannel sued the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Co., for injuries in an accident Dec. 17, 1939, also in Yoakum county. All three were oil field workers.

Taking a Vacation—Mrs. Olive Fluke, deputy U. S. district court clerk, closed her office this noon for a week's vacation. She will return Thursday of next week. In the event it is necessary to file actions in the federal courts, Mrs. Fluke said, they may be sent to the court clerk's office in Fort Worth.

Man is Fined—Earl Wilson entered a plea in county court this morning to a charge of swindling by worthless check and Judge J. J. Dillard fined him $1 and costs, he said.

Child Born As Flood Rages About Mother

SCHULENBURG, July 2 (AP)—A woman gave birth to a child while stranded on a river bank during the disastrous flood that swirled through Southeast Texas over the weekend.

Charles F. Bosl, Schulenburg newspaperman, said:

"The mother told me how her child was born during the flood while she was stranded on the opposite bank of a river from a doctor or help," Bosl said.

"I also heard how babies in washtubs were launched in the water of one flooded street and beside them swam their parents, seeking escape from rapidly rising water. None was lost."

New Plan For GOP Drafted

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 2.—Wendell L. Willkie, who won the Republican presidential nomination without previous political experience, today contemplates another precedent-breaking move by naming a three-man board to conduct his campaign.

The three-man board has not been finally determined upon but is subject to further discussion with his associates. Willkie believes the most efficient campaign could be conducted with that set-up. It would consist of a campaign manager who would be the executive directing 1940 Republican political activities.

Others Would Aid

Acting with the manager but subject to his direction would be the chairman of the Republican national committee, still to be selected, and some more personal representative of the candidate whose responsibility would lie chiefly in organization of the independent voter groups.

Russell W. Davenport, who resigned from Fortune magazine to aid Willkie's campaign, is under consideration for the job of directing and organizing the independents, it was understood today.

Willkie is conferring on such a campaign organization with party leaders including Samuel Pryor, Connecticut national committeeman, and Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota.

Manager Is Sought

Adoption of the three-man board organization apparently depends, Willkie's associates indicated upon discovery of a suitable campaign manager. The candidate was represented as seeking an outstanding, able and vigorous man in "mid-life" with organizing ability. Willkie has indicated he would like his campaign executive to represent the newer and somewhat non-political element in public affairs.

If the three-man board organization can not be established, Willkie will revert to the traditional system of entrusting his campaign to the Republican national committee chairman. These preliminary problems of campaign organization will be discussed tomorrow by a national committee sub-committee which will meet with the candidate.

No Promises Are Made

At his press conference today, Willkie said he had not made any promises or pledges, indirect or contingent, regarding appointments or other official acts in the event of his election next November. He said he was not prepared at the moment to discuss President Roosevelt's request for an excess profits tax.

Meanwhile, it had become apparent that Willkie and President Roosevelt had begun a contest of wits.

The two men are feeling each other out with tentative thrusts which foretell the sledge-hammer blows to be expected in mid-campaign.

FDR Leads Off

Mr. Roosevelt led off in Washington with a laughing suggestion after Willkie's nomination, that the Republican candidate might have had something to do with the failure of electrical power in the White House. It was a simple enough jest on the surface. But it was aimed at the spot where Democrats hope to find Willkie's armor soft and penetrable — his record as a public utilities executive.

Willkie came back with a tentative answer to the charge that he is a Wall Street lawyer.

"If I am a Wall Street lawyer," he told his press conference questioners here, "so is Franklin D. Roosevelt. His office was right across the street."

The chambers in which both men practiced law are in neighboring buildings separated by Nassau street, one block from its intersection with the famous Wall.

Tax Plan

after a White House conference that the proposed legislation would be along lines of World war levies.

The old excess profits tax, levied only on 1918 earnings, took 8 per cent of an individual's earnings above $6,000 and therefore was paid by many professional men and higher salaried workers. It was in addition to income taxes.

Senator George declared that previous earnings rather than capital investment should be the determining factor and that the bill should be drafted to raise between $500,000,000 and $750,000,000.

Action on the tax proposal is not expected for several months because of the complicated nature of the subject.

Because of this situation and the lack of pressing legislation, administration leaders made tentative plans to recess Congress for the Democratic national convention July 15, return here for a brief period, and then recess again until about October 1.

Boom For Senator Brown As Vice Presidential Candidate Opened

Michigan To Give Support

BY ROGERT KELLEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

LANSING, Mich., July 1 — A move to win the Democratic Vice Presidential nomination for Sen. Prentiss M. Brown of Michigan has been started by Michigan delegates to the national convention at Chicago, July 15.

The Michigan delegation, consisting of 48 persons with 38 votes, will go to Chicago without binding instructions but with a "recommendation" from delegates to the state convention that they work for a third term for President Roosevelt and for the nomination of Brown as his running mate.

Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner, Democratic candidate for the governorship and likely chairman of the Michigan delegation, said he was convinced after talks with party leaders elsewhere that Brown has "as good a chance as anyone else."

Lawyer By Profession

Brown, 51 years old, is a small town lawyer of St. Ignace in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. He is the father of seven children.

He is serving his first term in the senate after two terms in the house. In his seven years in Congress he usually has voted with the administration but on occasion he has sided with the conservative elements. One of his notable dissents was his vote against Mr. Roosevelt's court reorganization bill in its original form.

Michigan delegates believe they can win support for Brown on the theory his nomination would help the party in winning a "doubtful" state which has 38 electoral votes. Most of the recent polls indicate that the vote in Michigan, which Mr. Roosevelt carried by 325,000 votes in 1936, is likely to be close.

CIO Vote Aecognized

Democratic leaders, realizing that to carry Michigan they must win a major portion of the CIO vote, arranged for the election of two prominent officials of the United Automobile Workers as delegates to the national convention. They are R. J. Thomas, international president of the union and Richard T. Frankensteen, director of the Chrysler division of UAW.

The need for making room for them was one of the reasons that party leaders at the state convention at Flint decided to "split" some of the votes. The plan finally worked out resulted in the election of 28 delegates with full votes and 20 delegates with half votes.

It is believed likely that Van Wagoner, who wrested control of the party organization from Frank Murphy, now Supreme Court associate justice, two years ago, will have formidable opposition for the governorship nomination.

But party leaders are looking for a strong senatorial candidate. Brown's term does not expire until 1943. There has been some talk of nominating Thomas, but his election would entail his resignation from the presidency of the UAW-CIO. His candidacy also would encounter opposition from conservative Democrats.

NAMED SUPERVISORS

BROWNFIELD — W. G. McDonald of Terry county and L. A. Woods of Cochran county were named supervisors of the Terry-Cochran-Yoakum soil conservation district, it was announced by Luke Ballard, Temple, field supervisor for the Soil Conservation service. Farmers of the counties are to elect three other supervisors of the district.

Luscious Lana Smiles Upon Artie Shaw For Benefit Of News Photographers But Emphatically Says She Has Left Him

BY FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, July 2 — Artie Shaw, the swing man, and Lana Turner, his erstwhile bride, went their separate ways today, or did they?

Even as Miss Turner had her arm around him and smiled upon him for the benefit of news photographers, she said she had moved out of his house.

"Won't you please kiss him?"

Scene was NBC's largest broadcasting studio, where Shaw and his orchestra had just finished a half hour of tootling, inaugurating a program advertising ham. Time was last night. Hollywood correspondents had been trying daylong to reach the luscious Lana to learn why she had walked out on the man with whom she eloped last St. Valentine's day. They were about to give up when Shaw's press agent announced she loved him still and to prove it would be on hand to wish him well at his first ham broadcast.

Pale Lana Appears

In black dress, black fur jacket and black hat, the pale Lana appeared.

"Do you still love him?"

"No".

"What?", demanded Artie.

"Ye-," said Lana, squeezing his hand for the benefit of a belated photographer, "I have left him for good. Goodbye."

She spun around and clickety-clacked down the hall.

Last night marked Shaw's return to the air waves. His last sponsor thought he had diminished his audience, and consequently his value, when he characterized his admiring audience as "morons" because they liked swing music. It was just barely possible that last night's affair had something to do with the desire of the ham people to rehabilitate him with the swing fans.

get the LEMONADE WITH MEALS habit

Your whole meal will be more enjoyable—and beneficial

There's a new health habit in many American homes that comes as a delicious treat for the whole family. It's lemonade —lunch or dinner.

This grandest of thirst quenchers has just the zip and tang that's needed to make good food taste better. Everyone who tries it votes it the finest, mealtime drink of all!

But lemonade has more than deliciousness in its favor. It adds so much to the healthful balance of the meal.

Aids Health Too

Lemons aid digestion. Lemonade makes it easier to consume the amount of liquid nutrition authorities suggest.

It gives you additional vitamin C—as well as B. These two vitamins are not stored in the body. You need them daily for the best of health.

And lemons are the only known source of citrin (the newly discovered vitamin P). This may explain many of their special health benefits, scientists say.

Get a dozen Sunkist Lemons today. (They are California's juiciest and finest.) Make a big pitcher of tart lemonade for the family's dinner. Drink it instead of plain water. See if you don't discover a capital way to get more pleasure from your meals - with benefit!

Family Feud Is Shaping Up In "Middle Division" Of League; Borger Is Here

Hubbers Again Look Sick As Pampa Wins

Rapidly rolling toward a family feud that should make the Martins and the Coys look like sissies, the West Texas-New Mexico circuit's "middle division" stands a good chance of nearing the "hoss race" stage with tonight's change of scenery.

Here in the Hubber's own back yard, there is to be a lively scrap not only tonight at 8:45 o'clock, but for the next four days—firing centering around the third, fourth and fifth slots in the standing.

Borger's ambitious Gassers, who were nudged out of the first division by Manager Charlie Engle's boys early last week, invade the city for the opening of a two-game series with the Hubs beginning at 8:45 o'clock. Following the carbon black nine's visit, the White Sox farm hands will entertain Lamesa's third place Loboes, also on the skids.

Kramer May Hurl

With his hurling staff practically shot by injuries, Manager Engle this morning was depending on Mel Kramer to be in shape to go tonight.

The lineup over the rest of the league sends the Amarillo Sox to Odessa, Clovis to Midland and the loop leading Oilers to Lamesa.

And with first division clubs continually losing what advantages they might have built up earlier during the season, there is a possibility that the standings will be somewhat shuffled before all the fireworks are through popping this week.

Let Up Again

The Hubs—who seem to just take things more or less easy in expectations of coasting after building themselves up a good string—made things rather tough for themselves and brought the pressure to bear on the next four games by dropping to the Oilers last night, 8 to 4. The defeat brought Borger and Midland within one full game of deadlocking the White Sox farm hands and gave Pampa another notch lead where it hurt most.

However, Midland was clouting Amarillo, 5 to 3, for the third time in a row and Borger was shutting out Lamesa, 7 to 0, to group the middle portion of the league closer together.

Oilers Waste No Time

At no time, with one possible exception in the fourth frame when they counted three times, did the Hubbers show any of the power at the plate or class in the field that carried them into the upper bracket. Roy Pinocchiaro promptly walked into a hornett's nest and watched Manager Seitz and Dutch Prather groove two out of the park in the initial inning. The jittery "Pinnocchio" managed to get through the second stanza, but exploded in the third as did the Oilers.

In quick succession, Malvica, Seitz and Prather hit two-baggers and John Hyma was called in to stem the tide which accounted for five tallies that period, one more in the seventh.

Parks Parks Lamesa

The Waddies' third successive triumph over the Hose was gathered principally through errorless play afield and the timely hitting of the Halemen.

Lamesa's setback was traced directly to the five-hit hurling of "Lefty" Parks, the Loboes threatening only momentarily in the fourth frame.

Over in Clovis, the Odessa nine was forced to run into the tenth for three runs and then beat off a Pioneer counter attack that netted one tally before triumphing, 6 to 4. Shirley struck out 16 men, walked five for the losers, giving up 10 bingles while his mates were jumping Parpmenter and Mohrlock for 13 hits. Three miscues were chalked up to each.

Cry Of Crowd And Clang Of Cash Register Beckons Aged Dempsey To Comeback Trail

(By The Associated Press)

ATLANTA, Ga., July 2 — The cry of the crowd and the clang of the cash register beckoned middle-aged Jack Dempsey down the comeback trail today after his lopsided knockout of a tubby wrestler.

It took the old Manassa Mauler only four minutes and 58 seconds last night to pound out Clarence (Futile) Luttrell.

Dempsey, weighing 205 pounds did carry power in his 45-year-old fists but his blows were landing on a practically defenseless hulk and they finished their bloody work before his equally old legs were called on to prove their staying power.

Fresh from a triumphal struggle through a yelling crowd of punch-hungry-fans — he was hit harder by the back slappers than he was by Luttrell—Dempsey sat puffing slightly on his rubbing table and said "I need more work" when asked if this bizarre return to the ring heralded a serious campaign.

The whole affair carried an atmosphere of unreality from the time it was announced a few weeks ago.

All through the round Dempsey poured o ish-ment; for the m ong haymakers in sha to the lightning fast lops of his championship.

In the second Dempsey was puffing a bit but soon battered the clumsy groaner to the canvas twice for counts of seven and eight before smashing him completely out of the ring with a left that started from his shoetops.

Dempsey said something about training on cigars and opined he would be "better next time after a month or two of real work."

But when challenged on this "next time" he said it didn't necessarily mean he would try a real comeback.

Major League Stars Chosen

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 2—Strangely without some of the currently biggest names in the game rosters of the American and National league teams for the annual all-star game were studied closely by fans today.

The major leagues took the balloting away from the fans and tossed it in the laps of managers, but the squads for the St. Louis game on July 9, have conspicuous absences the fans probably never would have forgotten.

Have Strange Crews

Managers Bill McKechnie and Joe Cronin, the respective pilots, will muster up strong crews for the game with reserves aplenty.

The American league managers, selected seven of the faltering New York Yankees for the squad. They overlooked Rip Radcliff of the St. Louis Browns, who as of Saturday was tied for the league lead in batting, and Barney McCosky of Detroit, who is playing magnificent ball in the Tigers' outfield and third among the league's hitters.

The National league managers passed over the senior circuit's three leading pitchers, rated on won and lost records, outfielders Dixie Walker of Brooklyn, who is second among the hitters, and all of the loop's rookie talent.

The selections:

National league:

Pitchers — Paul Derringer and Bucky Walters, Cincinnati; Hugh Mulcahy and Kirby Higbe, Philadelphia; Larry French, Chicago; Carl Hubbell, New York; and Whitlow Wyatt, Brooklyn.

Catchers — Harry Danning, New York; Ernest Lombardi, Cincinnati and Babe Phelps, Brooklyn.

Infielders — Frank McCormick, Cincinnati; Pete Coscarart, Leo Durocher and Harry Lavagetto, Brooklyn; William Herman, Chicago; William Jurges, New York; Arky Vaughan, Pittsburgh; and Merrill May, Philadelphia.

Outfielders—Joe Medwick, Brooklyn; Joe Moore and Mel Ott, New York; Henry Lieber, Chicago; Max West, Boston; and Terry Moore, St. Louis.

American league:

Pitchers — Bob Feller, Al Milnar, Cleveland; Buck Newsom, Tommy Bridges, Detroit; Emil Leonard, Washington; Charles Ruffing and Monte Pearson, New York.

Catchers—Frank Hayes, Philadelphia; Bill Dickey, New York, and Rollie Hemsley, Cleveland.

Infielders—Jimmy Foxx, Boston; George McQuinn, St. Louis; Joe Gordon and Red Rolfe, New York; Ray Mack, Lou Boudreau and Ken Keltner, Cleveland; Luke Appling, Chicago.

Outfielders—Joe Di Maggio and Charles Keller, New York; Lou Finny, Roger Cramer and Ted Williams, Boston; Bob Johnson, Philadelphia, and Henry Greenberg, Detroit.

Ladies To Be Honor Guests

The ladies are the guests of honor tonight at a triple softball bill to be presented in the Fox Park orchard at College and Fourth.

All three classes in the Lubbock Softball association will be represented with the 8 o'clock Good Eats-Central Labor tussle topping the program. It will mark the Bakers' first dip into the tough Class A division and in meeting Central Labor will be facing one of the tougher machines of the entire 16-member setup.

Home Lumber Wins

Opening the evening's entertainment will be a Class B struggle pitting Corcorran's and Citizens. The finale of the card will find Sear's and Hemphill-Wells dominating the scene in what promises to be a fast engagement. First game gets under way at 7 o'clock—and the entire program is free to the ladies.

Last night, a forfeit and no game left only a single contest to be played—Home Lumber measuring Sash and Door behind the four-hit hurling of Grochowsky. McIlhaney won from Sherrod's on a forfeit, and neither Robinson's nor Hub Laundry could muster the necessary quota of men to play their scheduled tilt.

Smythe furnished the hitting power for the winners last night with a homer and single in three times to the plate.

Line score:

Sash and Door	0	0	0	1	0	0	1	4	2
Home Lumber	0	2	0	0	1	5	x	8	1

Graham and Pharr, Grochowsky and E. Ferrell.

Jersey's Calm And Peace Is Said Shaken

BY HENRY McLEMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent

JERSEY CITY, N. J. July 2—The calm and peace of this lovely old manufacturing city was shattered today by the bustle and clatter of the thousands here to watch Tony Galento and Max Baer come to grips tonight in their celebrated "battle of the bums."

FACTS ON FIGHT

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 2 (U.P.)—Facts on tonight's fight:

Principals—Tony Galento, Orange, N. J., and Max Baer, Sacramento, Calif.
Distance—15 rounds.
Place—Roosevelt stadium.
Expected gate—$160,000.
Expected crowd—30,000.
Promoter—Mike Jacobs' 20th Century Sporting club.
Betting—Galento favored at 8 to 5.
Main bout—8 p. m. (CST).
Broadcast—NBC blue network.
Purse—Each man gets 27½ per cent of net receipts.
Winner meets Joe Louis in September for world heavyweight title.

Those of us who know and love Jersey City for the restful screech of its trolley cars, the haunting rumble of its trucks, the sweet fragrance of the coal smoke that pours from its classic industrial plants, and the leisurely pace of its citizens in leaving the saloons along the fire-plug shaded streets, hardly knew it today.

Galento Is Favorite

None of Jersey City's civic noises, which are so definitely a part of its charm, could be heard above the uproar of the fight fans, no, that's wrong. One standard noise of the city still could be heard—the voice of that gracious, benevolent master of Jersey affairs, Mayor Frank Hague. The fight is being held under his patronage, and the mayor was up early and long to see to it that every single soul who enjoys his patronage bought a ticket.

Galento being a Jersey citizen and a member of an old pioneer Jersey family whose line extends way back to the late 1920's, is the sentimental as well as betting favorite. Moreover Galento is a solid Jersey businessman, being proprietor of two prosperous pubs which give employment to dozens of worthy Jersey taxpayers, principally bouncers.

Crowd's Heart Is Warm

But even if he were none of these things the hometown crowd would be for him tonight, because the crowd's heart is warm and Galento will enter the fray an injured man. Sunday night, shortly after he had completed his training and was getting gay in his lusher pub in way of celebration, he fell into an argument with his brother, Russell Galento. There is a deep bond between the brothers Galento; a relationship that is almost as close as that which bound Cain and Abel. During the argument Russell, overcome by a wave of love for his brother, threw a beer mug at him.

The mug caught Tony on his third chin, bounced to the second, and leaving behind it a graceful wake of suds, ricocheted off to land squarely on his original, or chin No. 1. The mugg shattered and Tony, after collecting the price of the crockery from a grieving Russell, waddled off to a doctor to be patched up.

A Perfect Sportsman

He will have the scar which resembles a Heidelberg slash when he goes into the ring against Baer. The fight probably would have been postponed had not everyone felt that Baer, being a perfect sportsman, would make every effort not to land a blow on the injured chin. So positive is everyone that Baer will not take advantage of Tony's mishap, the betting is even money that the Californian won't hit his foe in the chin until 1 and 3-4th seconds have passed in the first round.

One skeptic, however, has wagered $5 at even money that Baer tries to get at Tony's scar while they stand in the center of the ring for final instructions from the referee.

These final instructions, incidentally, should be worth listening to. No one knows yet who the referee will be, but from a source so reliable that anyone would be crazy to trust it, I have learned six or seven of the rules which will govern the fight between the beer barrel and the butcher boy.

Acid Throwing Barred

The throwing of acid in the clinches will be forbidden. Any man caught doing so will lose the round.

Each fighter will be limited to one bite, three gouges, and four head butts per round.

Blackjacks can only be used when the fighting is in a neutral corner.

Jumping on opponent while he is down will cost the jumper a round and a sharp rebuke from the referee.

A fighter will be allowed to use the rabbit punch only when he is in a position to deliever a really worthwhile one. In other words, no little sissy rabbit punches.

There are other rules, but the ones mentioned will give you an idea.

Oh yes, I pick Baer to win.

Regular Ladies Day Play Is Scheduled

Competition in the current "round-robin" tournament and in regular "ladies day" play will get under way promptly at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, according to Mrs. Charles Akey.

All ladies planning to play golf and who are not entered in the tournament are advised to meet at the club at 9 o'clock for pairings.

Hostess for the day will be Mrs. W. F. Helwig. Luncheon will be served at the club at 12:30 o'clock.

Deadline for reservations is 5 o'clock this afternoon. Same may be made by calling the hostess or the club.

Big Softball Tourney Will Open In City

Indications are that the largest and most successful softball tourney yet attempted here will begin at Fox Park come Saturday night, July 6, entries thus far boosting interest over a widespread area.

In addition to a majority of the 16 Lubbock Softball association members expected to seek some of the prize money, there will be several visiting aggregations, nine already having given assurances of their entry and participation in the week-long event.

To Suspend Play

Competition in the city softball campaign will suspend for all of next week, and each evening and night will be devoted to tournament games.

Sponsors of the event predict conservatively that the possibility of more than a score of teams participating is bright. Championships in both Class A and B competition will be determined, cash prizes going to titlists in each division.

Class A teams, which will submit an entry fee of $10 per team, will play for grand prize of $50, all going to the winning club. Each Class B team will post a $5 entry fee, the winner to receive five times that amount.

Plan Double Elimination

A team must lose two games before it is eliminated.

All out of town teams will play in the Class A division, along with the Class A teams of the city, led by the sparkling Robinson's Grocery club. Home Lumber company was the first to register for the Class B division.

No player restrictions will be placed on out of town teams or the local Class A teams; in other words, all Class A clubs may strengthen their teams by the addition of other players before the tournament starts. There may be no changes in the rosters, however, after the tournament gets under way. Class B teams are required to play with their regular teams, now listed in the City league.

Meadow Defends Title

Among the teams from other towns which have been invited and which have indicated interest are Meadow, the defending champion; Littlefield, Idalou, Ralls, Crosbyton, Slide, Brownfield, Tahoka and Plainview. Any others not listed here are invited to enter.

Play will start Saturday evening at 7 o'clock, the schedule to be announced later this week. Three, possibly four games each night will be played. There will be no games Sunday, the tournament resuming on Monday night, July 8.

Regular prices of admission will prevail throughout the tournament.

Lubbock Wholesalers Seeking Competition

Already boasting two triumphs on their independent sojourn into the South Plains diamond wars, the Lubbock Wholesalers are on the warpath for more competition.

A spokesman for the team, Weymond Newton, said that the Wholesalers were anxious to contact nines which could play on Sunday as the team's competition would be restricted to Sabbath afternoon tilts.

Sunday, the Wholesalers dropped Whiteface, 7 to 2, behind the three-hit hurling of Frank Smith, Newton catching. The team also holds a 11 to 9 decision over Wolfforth, chalked up with L. D. Venable and Jack Garrett hurling and catching, respectively.

Stephen's Red Sox Defeat Plainview

PLAINVIEW, July 2 (Special) — The Stephen's Red Sox women's softball machine of Lubbock, which has captured six consecutive contests by top heavy scores, Monday added Plainview to its list of victims, 31 to 7.

Hurler for the Lubbock ten was Norene May, Odessa Graves catching. Homers for the winners were collected by Tommie Woodson, May and Dorothy Thompson. Friday night, the Sox journey to Olton for a tussle.

Pampans "Out-Tough" 'Em
By Collier Parris

IF ANY OF THE HUBBERS hope to play in that All-Star game up at Amarillo July 20, they'd better start bearing down again.

They've looked not so good in their last two games, and it wasn't all Pampa's fault; they didn't do much hustling Sunday or last night, looked more like the Hubber team of a month ago.

They've got the ability, becuse they've showed it, and they can be colorful and tough when they want to.

Of course Pampa is on tip of the league, and sitting right pretty and there's not a heckuvalot you can do about that power. It's good, well-balanced outfit, sparkling with age and experience. But it's got something more than power at the plate, finesse on the field and experience. It's got the old-time baseball fight and toughness, inspired mostly by Manager Seitz and Catcher Summers, and by gosh it looks like they have two strikes on every batter every time they take the field! They out-fight, out-bully and out-talk the opposition.

We wouldn't make it as an assertion of proven fact, but sometimes it does look as if the Pampa club—and power to 'em if they can get by with it—works its bully business on the umpires, too! Old Hack Miller sure would go well with that bunch of Pampa fire-eaters.

Business Manager Joe L. Brown instituted a stunt last night designed to get a little more hustle out of the Hubbers, individually as well as collectively. He appointed a committee to select the "most valuable" player on the club each week. On the observation and note-taking committee are the three KFYO experts, Judge Landis, R. B. McAllister and Wes Youngblood; Tom Miller, league statistician, and your reporter.

And right off, we of the committee found it a pretty tough job, because there weren't many "most valuable" players on the club last night. Practically unanimous, however, was the vote favoring John Hyma, the pitcher. Hyma came in to relieve Finocchiaro, who had lost the game, and pitched six innings of nice baseball, stopping the Oilers cold after the third inning and whiffing the last three to meet him.

But the big point in Hyma's favor last night was his base hit! Yessir, he got a single—his third of the season, bringing his batting average way up to .075! And the hit drove in a run, too!

Each member of the committee votes once each game for the player he thinks was most valuable in that particular game. At the end of the week, the votes are counted and the player with the most votes, gets the prize. Hyma is off with a four-vote lead.

SO DEMPSEY KAYOED Lutirell. So what? So could have a dozen other has-beens half a century old, and any number of kids and amateurs.

The word is about that Dempsey may be foolish enough to pick up from last night and carry on a serious "comeback" campaign. Please say it ain't so, Jack. You tried a comeback eight years ago, and got knocked on the seat of your pants by chuckle-headed King Levinsky. You're older now, but evidently no wiser.

They do say that Dempsey is down on his luck financially, and needs the dough he can pick up by staging a comeback. If it's true that his bank balance is low, that's a bigger tragedy than seeing him try to come back. He certainly had it at one time.

No doubt, he can pick up quite a few shillings by going around the country knocking over bums, and he cerfainly picked out a dandy to start with. Next thing you know he'll be coming here to fight Sandy MacDonald, or maybe he'll de-

Ninety-One Civilians Killed In Enemy Attacks Staged Over Italy

Air Activity Is Renewed

BY REYNOLDS PACKARD
United Press Staff Correspondent

ROME, July 2.—An official statement today said that 91 civilians had been killed and 392 wounded as a result of enemy attacks on the Italian mainland up to June 30, while a war communique reported renewed aerial activity over North Africa and Sicily.

The statement reported 77 civilians killed by aerial bombardment in three weeks of warfare and eight by enemy naval bombardment, chiefly along the northern coast adjacent to France.

Bombs Are Dropped

Four were killed by fragments of Italian anti-aircraft shells and two by enemy artillery fire, apparently from French batteries along the Alpine frontier.

The communique said that on the Cyrenaica border an Italian plane, "despite adverse weather conditions," dropped bombs on enemy armored cars, setting afire and damaging some of them.

It was admitted that two Italian planes failed to return.

It claimed also that Italian planes "surprised and bombed repeatedly and very effectively big enemy convoys in the southeast Mediterranean."

Planes Shot Down

In East Africa Italian planes bombed supply stores at Berbera, British Somaliland, the communique said. It said British planes attempted to raid Messawa, big Italian base in Eritrea, "but prompt action by Italian fighter planes shot down two enemy raiders and anti-aircraft guns of the Italian navy brought down another enemy plane in flames, obliging the enemy bombers to withdraw."

According to the communique "enemy planes have bombed Augusta, Sicily but the prompt defense of navy anti-aircraft guns thwarted the attack."

The communique said that one British plane was shot down in the Sicily raid and that damage done by the raiders was insignificant. Three civilians were wounded, general headquarters said.

Best Ball Event Is Conducted Monday

Organization of a West Texas pro-amateur golf setup which will tangle in best ball competition over the ... twice monthly was taken at Lubbock Country club Monday when a group of nine visiting pros and as many respective club amateurs participated in the such event.

Plans are under way for the association, more or less informal though it is, to meet at some host club over the area every two weeks for one-day competition. Best ball play will find the pro of each club and an accompanying amateur from that club pairing off with two members of the host layout for a foursome that will compete with the rest of the field.

At Odessa Next

Next event will be conducted at the Odessa Country club July 22.

The foursome of Benny Adams, Odessa pro, Lewis Maher, Odessa amateur, H. H. Holmes and J. B. Chappell of Borger and the quartet of Charles Akey, Lubbock Country club pro, host Monday, Ted Tipps, M. P. Tripp and C. C. Crenshaw tied for the day's top honors with a best ball of 59.

Others participating in Monday's inaugural event included, pros named first, amateurs second and two local host players next with best ball total: Morgan Hampton, Red Bost, Abilene, Hubert Allen and Tony Farris, 65; Gaither Nowell, Dr. V. P. Neissell, Midland, J. R. Farmer and T. E. Patterson, 64;

Gene Root, Carl Horton, Borger, Cliff Widener and J. D. Henson, 63; Jimmie Gameswell, Jake Walker, Hobbs, Sid Brown ad Lofton Burnett; Harold Akey, Tommy Neill, Big Spring; Lawrence Banks and Otis Pelty, 66; Joe Burns, John Powers, Lubbock, M. K. Dean and Lee Hubby, 63; J. T. French assistant at Midland, Bob Scruggs, Midland, W. P. Helwig and A. H. Howard, 62.

Something To Laugh At Just As Long As We Have Films

However loud calamity howlers may howl, movie people keep on giving us pleasant sights and screwy stunts. Pairings In Round Robin Are Given

With Sunday night as the deadline on initial matches in each flight, competition in the Lubbock Country club's "round robin" tournament for its male members is now under way.

Qualifying for a position in one of the seven flights were 55 men. Each competitor is to play one match each week until he has met every one in his particular flight, the respective flight winners to be determined by the number of matches won, in other words, the plus points.

Pairings Announced

Pro Charles Akey released the pairings for the following matches to be played by next Sunday night.

Pairings by the flights for the initial contests include: first—Lofton Burnett and T. E. Patterson; J. W. Heilhecker and Ted Tipps; George Benson and Murell Tripp; Amos Howard and Sid Thrash; second—Paul Newman and Hugh Anderson; Lee Hubby and Ray Dickey; M. A. McLaughlin and Fenner Tubbs; James Samson and Al Finnell; third—J. H. Stiles and Joe Horne; Lawrence Banks and Don Mitchell; Ralph Trolinger and M. K. Dean; Tony Farris and O. J. Felty.

Fourth—S. W. Standifer and H. L. Allen; C. I. Wall and O. A. Terry; C. C. Crenshaw and E. W. Trotter; R. H. Cooper and W. F. Helwig; fifth—C. D. Doggett and Armond Samson; Herbert Stubbs and Homer Hall; H. H. Holmes and Sid Brown; John Powers and Lewis Price; sixth—Jack Ward and Cliff Widener; George W. Brewer and E. H. If Dempsey does go on a comeback you can expect to see Sled Allen rounding up his 1925 Hubbers and demanding a franchise in the league; you can look for Joe Byrne, the Meadowbrook pro, tuning up for the winter tournament circuit in California and Florida; you may be reading where Hans Wagner is back in at shortstop for the Pittsburghs, where Earl Sande is bootin' them bangtails home, where Charlie Paddock is breasting the tape for a new century mark, or don't be surprised if they trot out Man O' War and tune him up for the next season at Hialeah. It's just about as sensible as Dempsey.

Twilight Loop Now Plays Second Half

The Business-Professional twilight softball league, which finished first half competition last week-end, resumed competition in the junior circuit Monday afternoon, two games being played.

The National division is taking the week off to make up for contests postponed from the first half campaign, one of them reeled off yesterday.

In one make-up contest, the Lions clinched at least a tie for the senior division title with a rousing 23 to 3 triumph over A. B. C. Hop Toles pitching a superb game for the winners, Pete Cheaney catching, Dale Vannoy relieved Toles after the A. B. C. cause was hopeless and the damage had been done. Lewis Kerr and Simril were the pitcher and catcher, respectively, for the losers. Alton Taylor paced hitting during the game with homer that accounted for three for the losers; Toles, P. H. Polk, H. Wright, Emmitt Kerr and Vannoy all homered for the winners.

Starting up where they left off in the first half chase, Texas Tech Faculty mowed down the Lawyers 9 to 4. W. Loesel pitching, Emmitt Hazlewood catching; Ralph Brock and Bert Collard being the victims. Another American league game found the Horn ten dropping the

Casa Manana Show To Be Presented

FORT WORTH, July 2 (AP) — A Casa Manana show similar to the one presented last year by the William Morris agency of New York will be staged by the same company in the open air cafe theater with August 2 as opening date, it was decided here today at a meeting of the board of directors and Lou Wolfson, agency representative.

PENNY IN COW'S BRAIN

SEATTLE, Wash. (U.P.) — A Seattle slaughterhouse uncovered a miniature bonanza when butchers came up with a 1928 penny from the brain of a Holstein cow. It was found in the left front section of the brain and was believed to have been "sniffed up" by the cow while the animal was grazing.

A few hours later, the man received a return wire from his wife. Telegraphed she:

"So have I. Weighs eight pounds. Not a beauty—looks like you. Come home!"

DID you ever see a case where a snake bit a child under the age of 2½ years?

Do you actually know of such an an occurrence?

According to Dick Rodenburg, of El Paso, there has never been such an occurrence.

Writing to Editor H. S. Hunter, of the El Paso Times, Rodenburg says he is a snake fancier of many years experience and used to travel with a show which included a large and varied snake exhibition. In addressing crowds at the show, he invariably said that a snake will not bite a child under 2½ years and asked his listeners if they ever knew of that happening.

Many times listeners said they knew of such happenings, but on investigation it was discovered that the child in question was more than 2½ years.

Rodenburg explains the situation by saying:

"A child 2½ or less has not yet been taught fear of snakes. There's the whole explanation. A snake reacts instinctively to the fear which it senses in an older human by an odor which that fear causes to exude through the sweat glands."

The El Paso snake expert very likely may be right.

It is a well known fact that dogs and cats can smell fear in a human being and that horses, by the same method, "act up" with riders who fear them but often are docile with riders who do not.

Perhaps the snake has the same powers.

Incidentally, this man Rodenburg apparently knows a lot of strange things.

He recently told readers of Editor Hunter's "Around Here" column that coffee grounds will get rid of ants and also has advice for those who would ward off assaults of chiggers and red bugs.

"If you want to beat chiggers and red bugs at their own game," he says, "put a teaspoon full of sulphur in each shoe and you won't be bothered by the pests.

"In my own experience," he continued, "I have found sulphur in the shoes helpful in combatting rheumatism. I do not know whether it would benefit others, or not."

MISS B. B., who writes from Amarillo, and says she has read this column for years, including the past six in which she has been living in the North Plains city—wants some information. And since others might be interested, we answer her here.

"After reading your recent advice to a prospective tripper to New York, and remembering your articles from the West Coast two years ago, I am prompted to write you for advice and suggestions as to how to hit the high-lights in San Francisco. I expect to be there in July, but only for two days, and will want to spend an evening at Treasure Island. Would appreciate your advice on the best plan for spending the other one and a half or two days."

Of course, it is impossible to see much of San Francisco in so short a time.

In fact, one can hardly hope to catch the tempo, or the "feel" of that great city, one of the most glorious and "different" of all American metropoli, in so short a time.

But we'll try to oblige as best we can.

FORGETTING the Treasure Island angle—in other words, the World's Fair of San Francisco—if The Plainsman were going there he would include:

A morning for roving the Embarcadero, inspecting the big ships and the people of many lands and top that off with lunch somewhere on Fisherman's Wharf—probably Joe DiMaggio's, not because it's any better than the rest, but because eating at DiMaggio's is a sort of a tourist custom;

A car trip through the Presidio and a visit to Seal Rock, routes to and from which will show the visitor much of "The City of Seven Hills;"

A night stroll through Chinatown, now little more than a tourist trap, but never-the-less another "something you should do;"

A dinner at Bernstein's, finest on the West Coast if you like sea foods; or, if you don't like sea food, dinner in the swelegant Persian Room of the Sir Francis Drake hotel, whose 6 fathom's ransom has been spent in furnishings and decorations;

Fleishhacker zoo is a "must" for those who like zoos and can be considered on the trip to Seal Rock.

One really should make the bridge trip to Oakland, catch the sunset over the Golden Gate, and see where old Barbary Coast used to be but which isn't any more.

These suggestions are, as intended, only "high spots."

Those who plan visits to San Francisco should give themselves no less than four days—a full week, if possible—to see all that's there.

For San Francisco is one of the real, intriguing, romantic cities of the world—and the climate is garand, if you don't mind being cool and if like The Plainsman, you revel in an occasional fog and thrill to the deep-throated sirens of the ships.

THE suspicion that Italy's comic opera troops do better in parading before Balcony Benito than they do on the field of battle apparently is far from groundless, according to reports passed on to The Avalanche-Journal by a correspondent who got the information "straight from the feed box" in Washington.

Says this information:

"A real shock to Berlin, even to those of the general staff most contemptuous of Italy's powers, has been the performance of the Italian army. The worst is not too bad to say about Mussolini's swaggering officers who already have muffed every move in their simple campaign against a broken and dispirited French army. And the Italian navy has done little better in what light brushes it has had with the British and the French.

"German officers are being sent to Rome as fast as they can be spared from the French battlefields and many of them are being shipped out to the Italian armies in Libya and Ethiopia. Nazi Admiral Raeder, in an 'advisory capacity,' is taking control of the Italian fleet, although he is badly needed in Berlin.

"'I would rather have them as enemies,' Hitler is reported to have exclaimed. 'Then we could have beaten them, and that would have been the end of it. But now I fear they are going to cause us much trouble and give us little in return.'"

To hear this simply breaks The Plainsman's heart!

And remembering the Italians' inglorious part in World War I, and their bumbling and fumbling assaults on defenseless Ethiopia, we guess there's something to the idea that you can't change a leopard's spots—or rather a hyena's odor!

YESTERDAY: Jan carries through her plans to go to Los Angeles, in spite of Lance's objections. At Jan's suggestion, Norma throws away her old fogy clothes and dresses up to startle Lance.

CHAPTER 20
The Mexican Quarter

Frank's sister, Ruth, took Jan in charge when she arrived in Los Angeles.

"What can you do?" she asked Jan.

"Well," Jan smiled, albiet forlornly, "I do know how to cook and keep a house."

"You've probably had your fill of that." Ruth pursed her full roughed lips and frowned. "You might go down to Olvera Street in the morning and see if you can line up anything there. I noticed a place or two that employ artists to do portrait sketches for the tourists and sightseers. Would you like that?"

"It sounds fun, if I could do it. I'm not particularly adept at sketching people, though, at least I don't think I am. How about letting me try a sketch of you, Miss Cronin?"

Ruth took off her hat and ran strong, well-kept fingers through her mass of dark hair. "Fine," she said. "What must you have in the way of materials?"

"A sheet of white paper and a soft-leaded pencil will do." She pulled off her beret and hung her short white jacket over a chair while Ruth hunted pencils.

The sketch, finished twenty minutes later surprised both of them with its excellence. "Flattering, too," Ruth laughed, "which should bring you customers, or do you call them 'sittees'? Sign it and take it along as a sample. Ever been to Olvera Street?"

"No. I've heard of it, though. Isn't it called 'a street of old Mexico'?"

"It's authentic Mexican gone tourist," Ruth said. "Still it's very foreign and enchanting, and the ancient adobe buildings are marvels of endurance and solidity. Wish I could go with you, yet you'll probably enjoy discovering it for yourself. Be sure to peek and poke into every shop. See them blow glass miniatures and dip candles and make tortillas and weave sombreros and baskets."

"I think I'd better go to bed before I become too excited to sleep."

"You don't go to bed here." Ruth smiled, pointing to a pair of discreetly draped French doors. "The bed comes to you when you swing it out of the wall—you'll be down in Rock.

after you move forty dozen rugs, vases and end tables!"

At Ruth's urging, Jan stayed on with her a few days. They were interesting, exciting days, filled with exploration of new and strange and exotic places. She found herself intrigued by the short tiled street called El Paseo Olvera, for it was by far the most colorful place she'd ever seen in her life, and she'd loved color, gaudy or subdued, just so it was in its rightful place. Palm and olive trees grew in the street and gay awnings were suspended over varicolored shop doors. The vendors, shopkeepers, musicians, artisans, candlestick makers, were swarthy Mexicans who spoke fair English to patrons and gabbled among themselves in dialect. And sure enough, in a smallish patio, she found rows and rows of tacked up sketches of movie stars and other well-known people with signs advertising portrait sketching for fifty cents in fifteen minutes.

One Old, One Young

On her first two visits Jan just drifted in and out of the shops, browsing, loitering, drinking in the vividness hungrily. She bought two perfumed candles for Ruth; a pair of white "huarachas," hand-woven slippers, for herself; a gay, pointed-crown beach hat for Norma; and a box of sticky, sugary parlines for Lance.

On her third trip to Olvera Street she went into the little art store which, to her surprise, she found wasn't little at all, but extended way back into dark, musty depths where a woodcutter whittled and planed images from precious Lebanon Cedar. The owner of the place was a small dark man with quick eyes and very white teeth, who spoke excellent English. He told her he had two artists now and did not think the trade would support another. She smiled, admired some of the really lovely old print and oil he kept in a special room. They had come, he said, from ancient missions in the heart of Old Mexico.

The interview ended when he agreed, with a shrug, to allow her space on one side of the sun-splashed patio. He was to receive fifteen cents out of every fifty she made.

Her fellow artists, whom she met at once, were two men, strange types to her, one old and one young. Both of them affected paint-splotched smocks, flowing ties and pancake berets—picturesque, if a bit too atmospheric. Carlos Manitz, the older one, also affected a small gray-sprinkled Van Dyke and a smelly briar pipe. He had fallen to this sidewalk vending, he mourned to Jan, gesturing melodramatically because the demon arthritis had so crippled his hands, he could no longer paint his exquisite masterpieces.

"Tripe," said Angus Lorry, the younger one, to Jan out of old Carlos' hearing. "He never painted a work of art in his life. That's just a sob story he hands out to the gullible public. A good one, too," he admitted grudgingly. "He often gets double and triple his fee and his portraits are lousy. Say, why are you trying this racket? For fun or for money?"

"Money," she assured him. "I like to eat as well as anyone else. I won't mind, though, if some fun comes along. Is it likely to?"

"Depends on you," he said, obliquely.

Despite his effectively mussed up he looked not at all like an artist but more like a farmer boy on a holiday. He couldn't have been more than twenty-three or four, Jan decided. He had crispy sandy hair, a snubby, freckle-spattered nose and a square, bony face upon which he strove to wear an expression of worldly cynicism. He was short and thick and he had broad, stubby fingers. But, she decided, after seeing some of his work, he had a very real and genuine talent, especially for caricature.

Although old Carlos seemed to resent her coming, Angus welcomed her. "The sort of people who'd let a girl sketch them, because she's young and pretty, wouldn't come near me and Carlos, anyhow. You won't take any bread out of our mouths, I venture to say," he told her.

Smock And Beret

The first morning of work she turned up in her yellow smock and white beret, her immense blue eyes wide with anticipation, her golden skin flushed rosily. She learned that the proprietor, in return for his commission, furnished pencils and white drawing paper, a chair for the person who posed and a good solid drawing board on a stand.

Jan's first patron was a timid middle-aged man who'd had a secret yearning for years to be sketched, but somehow never found the courage until he wandered by and met Jan's quick, sweet smile.

He gave her a dollar for the sketch, eyed it as if it were an original Rembrandt, and scurried off.

THIS LAND OF THE RODEO

Evidences that the towns of this particular portion of the West are alert to one of the finest assets and opportunities are the numerous rodeos, roundups and similar celebrations which, in the aggregate, provide an amazing program of thrills and entertainment for this section of Texas during the summer.

Several of Lubbock's neighboring towns on the South Plains already have been scenes this season of such celebrations. Others are yet to come. Seemingly, a successful rodeo in one town would be a handicap to a similar celebration soon to follow in a neighboring community. That hasn't proved to be the case. As explained by one rodeo fan, such events are much like baseball games. A thrilling, closely-contested game today adds interest in that of tomorrow.

The fact that most of the rodeo celebrations in this area are sufficiently successful from the financial standpoint to justify their repetition year after year is proof of their quality. The fact that a town dares to sponsor one after numerous other similar celebrations have gone just ahead is proof of the same thing.

They are evidences that the rodeos which are almost an every day affair of the summer in our own area are big league versions of this sport of the Old West.

THE Presidential Campaigns: Tradition favors a married man born east of the Mississippi river for the Number One post. Iowa's H. Hoover is the only man from west of the river to occupy the White House, and Jas. Buchanan the only bachelor. Cleveland got married in office . . . Aspiranta to the Best Job Of All should be careful what songs they pick to help ballyhoo them into the nomination. Wm. Gibbs McAdoo, who had hopes in 1932, used "California, Here I Come," as a rouser. But the following line, "Right back where I started from," turned out to be too, too prophetic . . . The first Presidential inauguration, which of course put Washington in office, took place in Federal Hall, New York, situated at the corner of Nassau and Wall Streets. Every once in a while a statesman yells that the seat of gov't has never left that corner.

Andrew Jackson didn't take office until four years after he was elected. He got more electoral votes than John Quincy Adams in 1824, but the election was thrown into the House of Repr., where Old Hickory was licked, 13 States to 7. Andy got even, however, by beating his opponents in two subsequent campaigns . . . Herbert Hoover didn't have a cent to show for it when he left the White House. Not only did he work for nothing as Pres., but also as Sec. of Commerce and as Director of Belgian Relief. Having made his pile at engineering before trying politics, Hoover gave away his wages to charity and to his staff . . . James K. Polk was a picture book President. He was known as "The Napoleon of the Stump," and he dressed the part of a spellbinder. He wore his hair long and sported the frock coat, a get-up followed for years to come by peanut politicians, small-town shysters and spielers with medicine shows.

FRANKLIN PIERCE, on the other hand, was the glamour boy. He was a handsome dog, graceful as a deer, and had a gift of oratory that charmed birds out of the trees. He was a Brigadier-General in the Mexican War and when he came home in uniform the girls of 1840 swooned with ecstasy at sight of him . . . John Adams was so miffed over his licking from Thos. Jefferson that he literally got on his horse and scrammed. He left town when Jefferon came to Wahington to take the inaugural oath . . . The phrase, "the smoke-filled room," where the nomination is put in the bag, first cropped up in Chicago in 1920. The room belonged to Harry Daugherty, and the President picked there was Warren G. Harding . . . Andrew Johnson, who succeeded Lincoln upon the assasination of the latter, learned to write when he was nineteen. His tutor was Eliza McArdle, who became Mrs. J.

Chester A. Arthur got the job through his efforts to help his good pal, U. S. Grant. He headed a delegation to give Grant a third term, but was hushed up with the nomination for Vice Pres. Garfield's assassination made him Mr. Big . . . Grant was a washed-up ex-officer of the army at the age of fifty. He was clerking in his father's hardware store in Galena, Ill. when the Civil War rescued him from yokeldom . . . The most circusy campaign was put on by William Henry Harrison in 1840. Pres. Van Buren had sneered at Harrison's log cabin origin, so log cabins on wheels became the trade mark of the Harrison-Tyler ticket, and brought one of the first triumphs of the Just Folks set.

PROBABLY the most memorable speech ever made at a nominating convention was William Jennings Bryan's "Cross of Gold" oration at the Democratic huddle in Chicago in 1896. It was a wow at the time, but regarded as pretty schmaltz today. All it got for Bryan was three lickings: by McKinley in 1896 and 1900, and by Taft in 1908 . . . Benjamin Harrison, who had the mandate of the people in 1888, had one of the toughest campaign slogans of all to lick, Grandson of Pres. Wm. H. Harrison, he never faced an audience that the hecklers didn't chant: "Grandpa's pants won't fit Benny." . . . The records state that Al Smith was nominated at the Democratic convention in Houton, Tex., in 1928, but the only one who got anything out of that shennanigan was Carl Hubbell. A bored delegate fled to the ball game and saw Hubbell hurl, which led to his glory with Giants.

Is U. S. Equipped To Do The Job Of Expanding Its Army?

Conservatism Handicaps Our Armed Forces

All branches of the U. S. military machine move toward unprecedented expansion . . . compulsory service is proposed . . . necessitating a tremendous job of training American manpower. Is the United States equipped to do the job? This is the first of four articles giving you the real answers.

BY BRUCE CATTON
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 2 — If the United States should go to war tomorrow, its armed services would be handicapped by conservatism, traditionalism, and a reluctance to face realities of a changing pattern of war — just as they have been so handicapped during the years of preparation.

This appraisal is reached after talking with a great many people in the capital who are in a position to know what conditions in the army and navy high commands really are.

Catlon

In different ways, the two services follow systems which tend to keep down the officer with initiative and imagination. They are organized on patterns likely to nullify efforts of commanders who do possess those qualities. These facts go far to explain why, after years of rearmament, the services are ill-prepared in the air, and why the army is so painfully short of tanks, armored cars, anti-aircraft batteries, and other implements of modern warfare.

Officers Are Aging Men

"The army is the place for young, inventive, active greaseballs, dressed in overalls and not in gaudy uniforms."

So says Congressman Ross Collins of Mississippi, who for some 17 years has been an exceptionally well-informed student of the nation's military machine. A few years ago Collins drew up average-age tables for the army. The figures he got then are roughly accurate for today's army as well. They show:

Average age of major generals, 59 years; brigadier generals, 60; colonels, 58; lieutenant colonels, 51; majors, 44; captains, 42; first lieutenants, 34, and second lieutenants, 26.

These age averages are high, not because the army likes its officers old, but because it is enmeshed in a promotion system which makes high ages in the upper ranks inevitable.

The army promotes by seniority, up to and including the rank of colonel. After three years, a second lieutenant becomes a first lieutenant; seven years later becomes a captain. There he may stagnate for a dozen years; finally he becomes a colonel and only then does his advancement depend on his own qualifications.

It is only fair to add that the army is seeking to shorten the periods each officer must spend in the ranks between captain and colonel. But the seniority system remains untouched.

Set-Up Elaborate

The army boasts an elaborate layout of special schools to fit officers for high command. First there are 22 special service schools; above these is the command and general staff school at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., attended by 225 officers annually; at the top is the Army War College near Washington, which gets 99 officers a year. As a matter of general practice, though not of law, an officer can not expect to rise to high command without training in these schools.

The rub in the selection system for these schools lies in the fact that a candidate must have "excellent" or "superior" on his record or fitness report, and this report is compiled by every officer who has ever been in command over him. The criticism is that the man with initiative and imagination, who speaks up against tradition or custom, is likely to be marked below the man who keeps his mouth shut and does as he is told.

Bars Originality

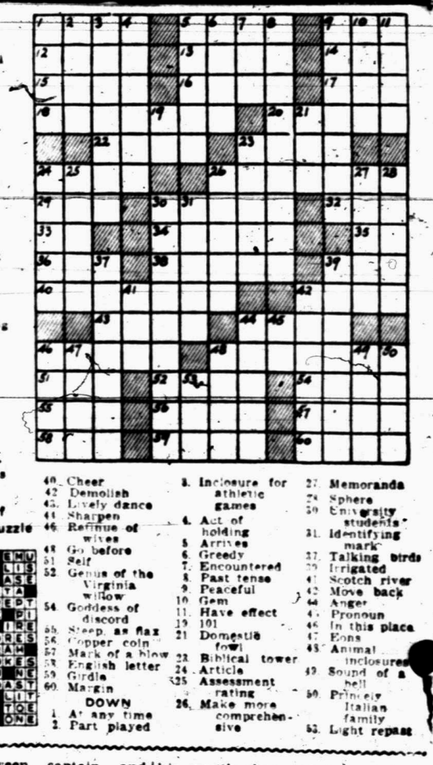

If this army system results in a steady promotion of officers without much regard for their qualifications there are competent critics who say the navy — which has dropped seniority entirely — has obtained equally bad results by going to the other extreme.

Promotion in the navy is by selection boards. After a naval officer has spent a given period in a given rank, his fitness report goes before a selection board to determine his eligibility for promotion. Here the criticism is the same as that leveled against the army's special school system — the officer who tries new ways of doing things and criticizes freely is likely to get himself disliked by his superior — and, being disliked, gets a bum report. In the end, it is argued, the system weeds out brilliance and brings to the upper ranks men who lack imagination and are fitted to the established groove.

The navy's school system is dif-erent. Although more than 95 er cent of all officers take grad- ate courses, the courses are not ecessary in order to rise to an dmiral's rank. The theory is that Annapolis gives a man all the basic training he needs; thereafter his actual service is supposed to provide all the polish necessary.

High Tide

The three artists worked inter- mittently, dropping the coins into smock pockets, resting, not talking much between times. By dinner time that night Jan felt more orient- ed to this new world, so far away from Sea Tide and the red house and all her problems and worries. Even Derek seemed part of a long ago yesterday.

Angus took her into the Cafe la Golondrina for dinner, ordering the cheaper Mexican table d'hote with red wine instead of the more ex- pensive Spanish dinner. The lights were dim and candles sputtered on the narrow table made of narrow, polished planks. Half through the meal an orchestra took its place on a stage in one corner and played Mexican and Spanish folk songs. The place was crowded, colorful and fas- cinating to Jan, who watched ev- erything with avid eyes.

Later, Angus led her up a stair- way to a small dance floor above where another orchestra played rhumbas, tangoes and other dance music. Angus danced well enough and it was stimulating. Leaving, he said, without the least self-con- sciousness, "Your half of the check is sixty cents."

Jan sorted some change out of her pocket and handed it to him. Then they went back to work until mid- night when the crowds thinned and the shops began taking in their wares.

Reckoning profits and commis- sions with Gonzales, the proprietor, she found she had netted over four dollars. Gonzales seemed more sur- prised than she. He nodded wisely. "It's because you're so pretty, mu- chacha, so eager like a—so bright new candle!"

"That," said Jan, "is meant, I judge, to be a grand compliment!"

"Of the finest," Argus assured her, grinning.

He walked to the streetcar with her and asked her why she didn't take a room a few blocks away in the Mexican Quarter, where a num- ber of artists and writers and poets had established a miniature Green- wich Village. "Cheap rent, cheap food and stimulating company," he hinted.

And so, the next day, Ruth drove down early, inspected and ap- proved the little boxlike room with its bare floor and bright drapes and copper pots in an old brick hotel near the Plaza. She divined, al- though Jan had said little, that the girl needed a change badly, a chance to assert herself as an individual.

Grateful For What Gly-Cas Has Done

Mrs. Cole Now Enjoying Best Health In Fifteen Years; Awful Dizzy Spells, Headaches Relieved; Poor Digestion Yields Too

"I found Gly-Cas to be the very medicine I had been wanting for years," said Mrs. Thomas V. Cole, 1611 Monroe St., Brownsville, Texas. "Despite my efforts it seemed I could not get proper elimination of those clogged intestinal impurities which were so upsetting my diges- tion for I could not eat a single meal without terrible distress af- terwards. Attacks of indigestion were almost unbearable, I would have terrible gas pains and such severe bloating I would often have to sit-up in bed in order to get my breath. I had terrible headaches, dizzy spells and was always tired and worn-out. Then I learned of Gly-Cas and through its thorough action I am feeling like my former self.

"I have not enjoyed such good health in the past fifteen years," continued Mrs. Cole. "Gly-Cas eas- ily gave me proper elimination of those accumulated intestinal im- purities so that now I am able to eat heartily of solid, nourishing foods and without suffering any ill effects afterwards. I am not trou- bled with those dizzy spells or dreadful headaches and have no dif- ficulty in getting full nights of strength-giving rest and sleep. My husband also received great benefit from the use of Gly-Cas so we join in lauding the merit of this Gly- Cas remedy."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Store, 1219 Broadway, and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns. Adv.

If's No Longer Believed Necessary To Be Superstitious, Even In Hollywood

BY ALEXANDER KAHN
United Press Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, July 2 — It's no longer considered necessary to be superstitious, even in Hollywood.

The theater, of course, has always been a haven for mystic beliefs about supernatural powers. But Hollywood prides itself upon being modern, enlightened. The past decade has seen an influx of players who walk under ladders, whistle in their dressing rooms and pooh-pooh the bad luck properties of black cats.

Nevertheless, the most sophisticated stars in Hollywood are not truly immune to belief in superstitions, disavow it as they will. A quick survey of the movie industry results in the conclusion that Hollywood has a classic phrase on the subject, "I'm not superstitious, but . . ."

Take young Jackie Cooper, for instance. He is convinced that superstition is a relic of the Dark Ages. And he'll swear he doesn't have any superstitions—unless you count that one about the black cat crossing his path.

Although Dolores Del Rio is of Latin blood, she laughs at superstitions, all except the good ones. She will "wish" on white horses and the first evening star. Also, she always has a bowl of red roses in her dressing room for luck.

Otto Kruger insists he is free from superstition, except that he won't talk about important business prospects until the deal is set—but maybe that's just good, common sense. And Victor McLaglen, who wouldn't bat an eye if a bird flew into his dressing room or a visitor threw his hat upon the bed, is superstitious about animals. His Flintridge estate is a home for stray cats, dogs and other animals. He feels they bring him happiness and luck.

Jeanette MacDonald isn't superstitious either but she never starts a picture without wearing something green. An emerald pin she wore on her evening gown during her recent concert tour wasn't just an ornament; it was a good luck charm.

Gene Raymond still wears the dressing gown he had when he made his first hit on Broadway in "Young Sinners," donning it at the start of a new picture despite its faded color and ragged appearance.

Anita Louise collects rabbits' feet and Patricia Ellis wishes over her left shoulder while the moon is in its crescent stage. And sophisticated Constance Bennett won't change a powder puff during the run of a stage show or the shooting of a picture.

Willkie Is To Talk In Texas

DALLAS, July 2 (AP) — L. A. (Pat) Casey, Fort Worth oil operator and Willkie-for-president booster, said here today a member of the Texas delegation to the Republican national convention and a "close friend" of the nominee had assured him Willkie will speak in Texas during his presidential campaign.

Casey did not reveal the delegate's name.

Two Willkie-for-president clubs blossomed in Dallas today to reinforce a third similar group formed late last week.

Casey opened Texas headquarters for his Willkie club at a Dallas hotel today. At the same time, George S. Atkinson and John J. Kettle, both of Dallas, said their group was swinging into shape.

Services Are Offered

Roland Bond, Dallas oil man, had announced his club earlier.

Casey said both Democrats and Republicans have offered their services to his group and that a prominent member of the Democratic party probably would enlist for active work within the next few days.

Atkinson said his group primarily is a Republican organization made up of party members who believe Willkie's candidacy cannot hope for much help from regular Texas Republican forces.

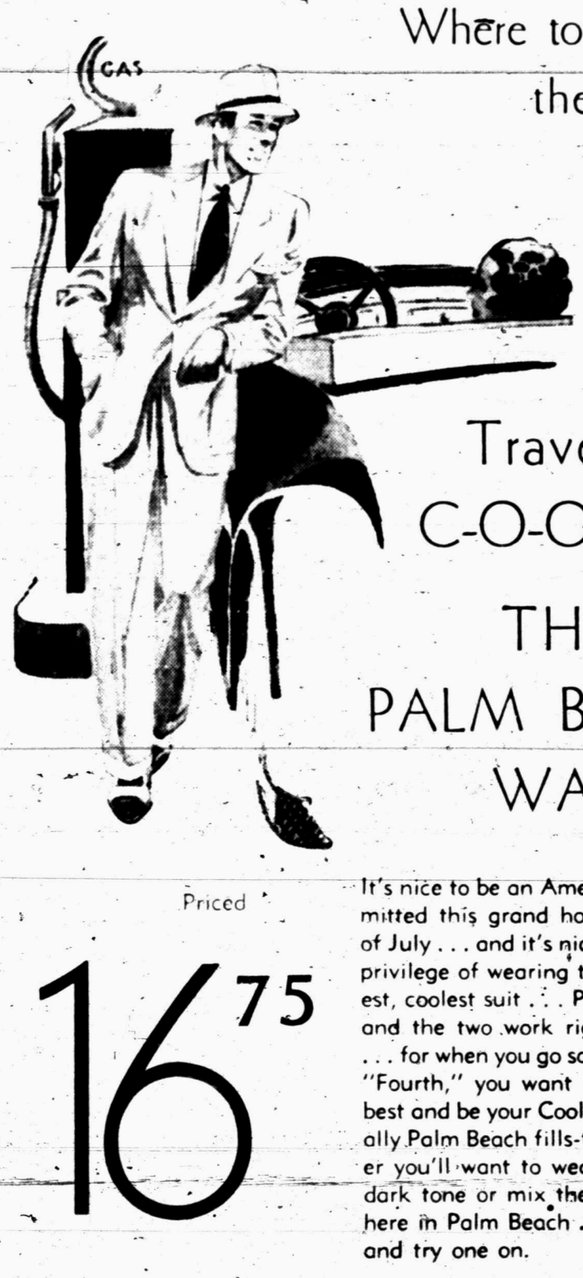

Bond described himself as a Democratic supporter of the Roosevelt administration but said his organization does not believe Roosevelt will be a candidate and wants the Democratic party to join Republicans in nominating and electing Willkie.

TAHOKA BAND LEADER

TAHOKA—John Hamblen who is attending the summer band school at Texas Technological college, will take charge of the band here July 15. He is moving here. Hamblen has visited here looking for a house in which to live.
